Two Cosmonauts Safe

Soyuz 6 Returns To Earth; Two Spaceships Continue In Orbit; 'Goals' Attained

MOSCOW (AP)—Soyuz 6 and the two cosmonauts aboard it returned safely to earth today after testing several types of experimental welding techniques in space, Radio Moscow announced.

The Soyuz spaceships would be joined together and left in orbit to become the world's first space platform. But prospects for this declined as the flight progressed, and the return of Soyuz 6 seemed a clear indication that construction of the space platform will wait for another flight.

The welding was done in a depressurized compartment of the ship in conditions of high vacuum, Tass said. It was the first time orbiting spacemen have attempted to weld metals together.

Three Americans Win 1969 Nobel Prize In Medicine, Physics

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—The 1969 Nobel Prize for physiology and medicine was awarded jointly today to German-born Max Delbrueck of the California Institute of Technology, Alfred D. Hershey of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, D.C., and Salvatore E. Luria of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Delbrueck, 63, was born in Berlin, educated at Goettingen and went to the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena on a Rockefeller grant in 1937. He became professor of biology there in 1947.

Salvador Luria was born in Turin, Italy in 1912. He went to the United States as a research assistant at Columbia University in New York in 1940 and has been professor of microbiology at MIT since 1959.

Present Mansion More Of A Museum: Scott

New Executive Mansion Said Needed For N.C. Governors

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Bob Scott says North Carolina needs a new executive mansion. The present home of governors is more of a museum than a home, he added.

Wednesday that before he leaves office he plans to propose creation of a commission to plan construction of a new mansion. The governor said the present antiquated five-story mansion should become a historic attraction. "Perhaps some state art agency could be housed in part of it and supervise its operations." The mansion is considered to be one of the best examples of Victorian architecture in North Carolina.

The upkeep on it is, but it must be tremendous. Hardly a day passes that a workman isn't there fixing something." Scott is the 22nd occupant of the mansion, starting with Gov. Dan Fowle, who served from 1889 to 1891.

The steam, now generated by oil, was once produced by coal. Scott said there is only one thermostat, just inside the front door. Window units are used to air condition the mansion.

Labor Secretary Endorses Work Incentive Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz told Congress today President Nixon's plan to wean people off welfare rolls and onto payrolls will strengthen the economy. "This is not a proposal for a guaranteed minimum income," Shultz told the House Ways and Means Committee.

He said the Labor Department estimates that 1.1 million of the 5 million family heads expected to be covered by the program will be required to register for work or training. Another 1.8 million of the working poor, to be brought under the program, will already have full-time jobs, he said.

Hanoi Told 'Next Move' Is Theirs

By MORRIS ROSENBERG Associated Press Writer PARIS (AP)—Hanoi called on President Nixon today to announce his timetable for the withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge replied it is "up to your side to make the next move."

North Vietnamese Ambassador Xuan Thuy, just back from a lengthy visit to Hanoi, told the 38th plenary session of the Paris peace talks that U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers said last week President Nixon had a timetable for troop withdrawal in mind.

Yes, Tar Heels, There Is A Surplus Of $27 Million

By NOEL YANCEY Associated Press Writer RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Bob Scott was guilty of only a slight exaggeration recently when he said that a $27 million surplus would operate North Carolina's state government only three days.

The state budget officer, Andy Jones, says that actually it takes an average of $4.5 to $5 million a day. On this basis, $27 million would last about 5 1/2 days.

The Republicans based their freeze idea on the fact that normally about 5 per cent of authorized state positions are unfilled all the time. They estimated savings at $50 million a year.

PUBLIC IS INVITED to Greenville Post Office dedication.

Post Office Dedication Here On Sunday

Greenville's new $400,000 Post Office building will be dedicated at ceremonies Sunday afternoon. Highlighting the 2 p.m. program will be a speech by First District Congressman Walter B. Jones, who will also present a flag to be flown at the Post Office.

Sponsored by the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association, the dedication is scheduled to be held outside the postal facility. District Court Judge Charles H. Whedbee will act as master of ceremonies. Music will be presented by the J. H. Rose High School band. Local Boy Scouts will participate in the flag raising ceremony.

The new facility is owned by Fine and Salzberg of Norfolk and is leased to the Post Office Department for an annual rental fee of $35,479.50. The 20-year lease agreement also provides for six five-year option extensions of the lease by the Post Office Department.

The facility includes 26,500 square feet of space and some 1,350 postal boxes. Forty off-street parking spaces are provided for patron parking. Additional space is provided for employee parking, and for parking the department's 13 vehicles.

Man Killed In Hunting Mishap

KINSTON, N.C. (AP)—A 20-year-old man was killed Wednesday in a hunting accident. Authorities said Ivey Leon King was hunting squirrels with a 15-year-old neighbor near their homes 12 miles east of Kinston when the neighbor's gun discharged by accident.

Market Report

Wilson led all other Eastern Belt markets in the sale of tobacco yesterday as sales neared their end for this season by selling more than one million pounds of leaf for a $72.40 per hundred pound average. According to the Federal State Market News Service a total of 1,613,298 pounds of leaf were sold in Wilson yesterday for $1,167,957. This compares with Greenville's sales which totaled 121,832 pounds of tobacco which sold for $90,741 giving a $66.27 hundredweight average.

High School Cover Girl Winner Is Both Beautiful And Brainy

By ARLEEN ABRAHAMS
NEW YORK (AP) — No one who knows Kathy Hogue will ever call her a beautiful, but dumb, blonde.

She's blonde—her honey blonde hair falls past her shoulders—and beautiful all right—attractive enough in fact to recently win the title of High School Cover Girl of 1969. But that isn't the only contest she won that month. Seventeen-year-old Kathy also walked off with first prize in a county essay contest. The subject? The advantages of rural electrification.

The 5 foot 8 blue-eyed beauty, whose vital statistics are 34-23-35, says she was shocked at winning the national Cover Girl title. "So many girls back home in Linton, N.D., look just like me. I'm nothing special. We all have the so-called All American look. I just happened to be lucky," she says.

The other girls might look like Kathy but one thing for sure—they don't throw the spotlight on the girls' track team as she does. Kathy minimizes her spotlight prowess by explaining that "I'm not the best shotputter in the country. It's just that we had a girls' track team for the first time last year and they needed someone to throw the shotput. I'm one of the taller girls so I got the position."

However, she does acknowledge that she is happiest when pursuing athletic out-of-doors activities—swimming, tennis, basketball and cheerleading. "The only activities that keep me indoors are playing the oboe and sewing sports clothes for myself and my sisters."

Starting at the skyscrapers surrounding this city's Rockefeller Plaza, Kathy enthused over how glad she is to get the chance to travel and to see something of the country, aside from North Dakota.

"But if I hadn't been a regional winner in the contest, I'd have gotten the opportunity to come East anyway—for the national convention of state student councils." Secretary of her state's student councils association, Kathy definitely believes that young people should have a say in determining the curricula and regulations of their schools.

"It even may be necessary to protest," says the high school senior, adding that "I'm in favor of protests, as long as they're conducted in a peaceful way and through channels—like the student council."

"We're not as square out in North Dakota as you may think," she comments chuck-ling. "It's just that we're a bit more conservative and not as exposed to everything. In school in Linton (population is 2100) we have strict dress rules—no pants suits, no collotes. And if there's any trouble at all, it's over the length of the boys' hair."

"If I lived in New York, I might dress differently," she says, fiddling with a brass button adorning her short pink shirtwaist dress. "I'd wear pants suits in wild colors and... I see here (in New York) that everything goes. We went to a discotheque the other day and the outfits... And there were pictures of nude men on the walls... Imagine."

Bosses' Night Banquet Planned By Credit Women

Final plans were made for the annual Bosses' Night banquet at last night's meeting of Greenville Credit Women International.

Officers for the coming year will be installed at the banquet which will be held on Oct. 22 at the Moose Lodge.

Mrs. Mary Roberson, program chairman, gave the final examination for the 1968-69 study course, which was entitled "Steps To Progress."

The results of the examination will be mailed to the Executive Office in order to establish club eligibility for the International Education Award.

The 28th annual fall board meeting of the N.C. Credit Women International will be held in Salisbury Nov. 15-16. Several members are making plans to attend.

Special guest for the meeting was Mrs. Eula Parker. Mrs. Gall Crisp, club president, presided at the meeting.

Wife Was Wrong To Cancel Appointment

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: To whom does my blood belong, to my wife or to me?

I signed up to donate a pint of blood to the American Red Cross blood mobile, and my wife found out about it and canceled my appointment. I would appreciate your opinion in this matter.

CANCELED OUT
DEAR ABBY: Your blood belongs to you, not to your wife. And unless it's turned to "chicken soup," tell her so.

DEAR ABBY: Our 15-year-old, Brenda, is our problem. All she thinks about are boys. Brenda is very mature for her age and has been wearing a 38 bra since she was 14.

Last semester she failed two subjects so we sent her to summer school to make them up. Well, she had such a "groovy" summer she failed both subjects again.

This year we have laid down the law to her. Instead of letting her stay out until 11 p.m. on school nights and 1 a.m. on week-ends, we told her she has to be in the house by 10 p.m. on school nights and 12:30 on week-ends. Now she has her dates pick her up at 6:30. Isn't this too early for a girl to be going out? Brenda says since she has to be in by 11 she has to get an early start! What is your opinion?

BRENDA'S PARENTS
DEAR PARENTS: I think Brenda is getting an "early start" for an earlier finish. In my opinion, a 15-year-old should not date at all on school nights (especially if she's failing in school) and midnight is late enough for her to be out on week-ends.

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a hopeless invalid and will be confined to an institution for the rest of her life.

I am in the middle years. My wife's oldest sister (who is still younger than I am) lives about an hour's drive from me in another town. I live alone and have no children. This sister-in-law comes here once a week. She drives to town in the morning, changes the sheets, runs the vacuum and tidies up in general.

She appeals to me, as my wife did. Only she is prettier and resembles my wife in speech, mannerisms, etc. As the teen-agers would say, she "turns me on."

She is married, has children and she is very religious. I don't want to get her in trouble, and I must not get in trouble myself, but frankly, I need some loving, and I would like for this lady to be the one. What is your advice?

HURTING FOR LOVE
DEAR HUNTING: Hire someone to change the sheets, run the vacuum and tidy up in general. Feeling as you do, it's only a matter of time before you get into trouble and make a fool of yourself.

DEAR ABBY: More about the mother who wouldn't leave her teen-age son and his younger sister alone for 15 minutes for fear that the boy would take advantage of his sister. That mother may have been extreme in the 15-minute bit, but her principle is certainly sound. I am an 18-year-old boy with a younger sister, and the I love her very much, sex has never entered my mind. To me, incest is dishonorable, unfair, and disgusting.

But a point was missed. Boys are not always the aggressors as I learned from three separate girl cousins of mine. Each of these girls at different times proposed experiences new to them, to which if I had consented would have made me the guilty offender in the eyes of family and friends, and understandably so. And today I might have been the father of three nameless children. In my family, a cheater is a cheater, be it stealing, lying, or sex. Sign me,

Farsighted In Service Area Plans

The Utilities Commission has taken a far sighted outlook in defining the areas it will serve outside the city limits from the city's water system.

Commissioners Tuesday approved a service area as proposed by Director Charles Horne. The area extends to the Eastern Pines water system on the east, beyond the Burrough Wellcome property on the north; to the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center to the west and about midway to Winterville to the south.

It is true that providing water is not a money maker for the Utilities. However, at the same time double rates are charged to customers who reside outside the city limits, which will offset a portion of the cost.

The obvious advantage of deciding now the areas which Greenville will serve is to avoid the development of independent systems within the area. The problem with independent systems is that they do not match up with the city system when the areas eventually come in the city and the Utilities Commission has to serve them.

In much of the service area outlined by Horne the city water lines have already been extended and presumably they have been planned to provide adequate service for many years.

There is, of course, more involved than just getting a water line to each house. The areas should be served with large enough mains so that adequate water will be available for fire fighting purposes.

It makes sense to us to define the water service areas, just as electrical service areas are defined. The Utilities Commission has done this and we believe the area is practical for a city with Greenville's growth potential.

Special Session Not Ruled Out

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau
RALEIGH—Gov. Bob Scott and his top administration advisors have not ruled out the possibility of a special session of the legislature next Spring. They hope it can be avoided. Ironically, if one has to be called it most likely will be because of problems in a matter in which North Carolina has taken great pride—public school bus transportation.

$3 million. The legislature and its all-powerful Appropriations committee has never been able to find the necessary sum although several governors have requested it.

If a special session is called, the question will be rather simple—appropriations of the necessary funds. First they would have to be found. There would be debate about whether the state can afford it.

Certainly those lawmakers opposed to the recent state tax levies and increases feel that there is a sufficient cushion in the credit balance or "surplus." But other state fiscal officials do not.

They point out that having a "credit balance" is the way the state had maintained its traditions of a balanced budget and high credit rating. They fear possible consequences of chopping into it.

Reluctant—There is no secret about the fact that Scott and his advisors are reluctant to call a special session—for any reason.

The governor had rejected requests by Sen. Julian Allsbrook of Halifax on two occasions for a session for the purpose of repealing the 1969 tax program. On the second occasion, Scott dispatched a four-page letter to Allsbrook reviewing the entire revenue structure and outlining his reasons for asking for additional taxes.

At one point, Scott said that without the new taxes on tobacco and soft drinks the General Fund budgets of nearly two billion dollars would be out of balance by about $42 million.

In any event, Scott said, it "is inaccurate to say" that amounts raised by the new taxes could have been offset by the increase in estimated credit balance. The point Scott was making is that the legislature appropriated all of the existing credit balance and, in fact, raised the estimate of accruing revenues in order to balance a record state budget.

Wrong—Scott added, rather pointedly, that he felt the legislature would not, "in my opinion, welcome the opportunity to declare itself wrong."

A legislature seldom does. Or will.

With All The Tragedy Comes Advancement

With all the tragedy that war brings on, it has long been recognized that many of mankind's greatest scientific advances have come from research directed at winning wars.

Thus much of the construction equipment and methods that are used for civilian enterprises today were developed because of wartime needs. In the medical field antibiotics were developed during World War II and many of the treatments for burns and wounds used now on auto accident victims were developed on the battlefield.

We bring this up because of a recent news story. It said that a silent airplane has been designed to glide noiselessly over enemy lines at night for close observation.

Just suppose we could apply THAT to civilian aviation!

Dixiecrats See Trend To GOP

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOCAK

JACKSON, Miss. — Cautious but unmistakable gestures of friendship by the Mississippi Dixiecrat establishment toward President Nixon are typified by some extraordinary purchases for next Monday night's Republican fund-raising dinner in Jackson to be addressed by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

One high state official close to Dixiecrat Gov. John Bell Williams has secretly pledged to buy an entire table (price tag: $1,000) for the Agnew dinner. The man responsible for planning advertising in Williams's 1967 campaign also has pledged a $1,000 table. Several figures close to the Governor are buying tickets for themselves and their wives at $100 apiece.

This represents a spectacularly quick turnaround by Mississippi's regular Democrats, the state's overwhelmingly dominant power, from George Wallace to Richard M. Nixon. Nor is this necessarily a transitory development. Younger Dixiecrat politicians view a Mississippi polarized between black Democrats and white Republicans with Wallaceism fading away rapidly.

Thus, Atty. Gen. John Mitchell's grand design of a Republican majority combining the Wallace and Nixon voters of 1968 may not be so fanciful as it once seemed. In nine months as President, Mr. Nixon has gone far toward winning over the Deep South without offending the rest of the country.

For the foreseeable future, the Dixiecrats will maintain a public posture aligned nationally with neither Democrats nor ecstatic about Mr. Nixon and disenchanted with Wallace. Plans by Wallace to challenge Gov. Albert Brewer of Alabama, his onetime protege, for Governor in 1970 are not the way the Mississippi regulars play the game.

Because a few fiery speeches by Wallace down in the piney woods could quickly fire up the Mississippi rednecks, Dixiecrat politicians shrink from taking him on. But in Wallace's absence, they believe Mr. Nixon—who got only 13.5 percent of the state vote while running a poor third in 1968—actually could nose out Wallace today.

The President's boom here was climaxed by his visit to Mississippi's hurricane-ravaged Gulf Coast. But the adulation accorded him then was preceded by a solid groundwork of conduct in Washington ingratiating to the Deep South. The Administration's delay in forced integration of school districts particularly convinced Mississippians that, for once, they had a friend in the White House.

Contrary to our column from Washington several weeks ago, Mississippi does not confuse desegregation efforts activities by middle-echelon officials in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) with Mr. Nixon's more friendly politics. Even when inevitable desegregation is forced here, it is probable that nameless HEW bureaucrats—not Mr. Nixon—will be blamed. For implanting that impression, Republican State Chairman Clarke Reed gets much credit.

Indeed, the hard-driving Reed's fingerprints are found all over the Nixon boom here. Commuting to Washington much of this year, Reed nagged the White House into leniency on racial questions. Mr. (Continued On Page 5)

Strength For Today

THE ULTIMATE

The word "gospel" means "good news." For many people the word represents a book—one of the four in which the life and ministry of Jesus are set forth. But the gospel is more than a book. The gospel is good news, and the good news is that God loves the human race, wants to save it and bring it to a glorious achievement. We can easily fall into the habit of thinking of God as a great and terrible Judge. Certainly we must give an account of ourselves in that day when the nations of the earth stand before The Divine Throne. But judgment is not the ultimate of human experience. The ultimate is salvation. As individuals and nations we need to be saved from ourselves and our sins. We need to have the chains taken off our wrists and especially off our minds.

Freedom is a reality. Divine freedom is the greatest of all realities. We can trust it and live at peace with ourselves and the world.

And what, as a matter of fact, is more worth having than this peace and good will supporting our lives and directing our energies? "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid." There is a lot of bad news in the world. If we try to close our eyes and stop our ears and so escape bad news we shall find ourselves in for plenty more. Believe in good news. It is real.

One For The President

It is as if they were 'anging Danny Deever in the morning. You can hear the dead-march play. From one end of the country to the other, drums are rolling for the head of Richard Nixon and for surrender to Hanoi.

This last, of course, will be denied. The students, professors, non-resident intellectuals war moms and full-time politicians who promoted this week's "moratorium day" profess only the purest moti-

They deny even a trace of political purpose in the proposals they advance. "I am sure," said the President at his recent press conference, "they were made with the best of intentions."

Well: I am so sure. In talking with young people at campuses across the nation, I am impressed with the students' sincerity—and with their immaturity as well. The more aggressive professors leave me cold; they are a doctrinaire lot, most of them grandstand matadors, howling in the bleachers for blood on the sand. As for the politicians, I observe the pellowings of Oklahoma's Fred Harris and cannot get it out of my head that the gentleman, among other distinctions, is national Democratic chairman.

There comes a moment—I just passed the moment in that last paragraph—when a man's gorge rises at the vainglorious irresponsibility of those who would lead their country down the bug-out trail. I mean to head the list with New York's Charles Goodell, that Clausewitz of the sponsor the "Disengagement Act of 1969." He would set an absolute deadline of Dec. 1, 1970, to have all U.S. troops both combat and non-combat removed from Vietnam. If he should succeed, the date would live in infamy forever.

Goodell is not alone. He is getting help, in varying degrees, from Church of Idaho, Eagleton of Missouri, McYoung of Ohio, Muskie of Governor of South Dakota, Maine—the whole membership of the Hill's Bear-Baiting, Marching, and Tinhorn Society. And fluttering about the fringes, like a hand-rubbing mortician at a high-class interment, is the old Arkansas undertaker himself. Senator Fulbright is purring for further hearings.

They are insatiable. Nothing that Nixon might do, short of absolute and precipitate withdrawal, would cool their fevers. Since he took office in January, the President has made one constructive overture after another. He has reduced the level of U.S. forces and stepped up the Viet-

Other Editors Say A Different Moratorium

(Goldsboro News-Argus) Seventy-nine college presidents urge a faster withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam.

Professors and chancellors take part in the "moratorium" against the war. Across the nation thousands of students prepare for another massive demonstration that gives moral support and encouragement to the enemies of freedom.

Has a single one of these involved in today's peace at any price movement been involved in one incident of protest against the atrocities committee against the crew of the USS Pueblo? Has one of them been involved in the past against the shelling of South Vietnamese cities following a demonstrated de-escalation of the war by the United States?

Has a one of them been involved in any demonstration against the crushing of the spirit of freedom in Czechoslovakia? Has one of them expressed any public concern over the treatment of U.S. prisoners of war in North Vietnam?

Let's have a nationwide moratorium against the atrocities the communists have committed against mankind—against the mass murders in Russia and China and North Vietnam, against the purges in nations they have absorbed, against deception used on those who live under communism.

Let's have a nationwide moratorium against the subversion exported by the communists to independent nations in Southeast Asia, Africa, Europe, Latin America, South America—and to the United States itself.

Let's have a moratorium of this kind and see how many of these same "peace-loving" campus zealots bestir themselves in behalf of suffering humanity, human dignity and the right of self-determination.

Taxes To Regulate Our Conduct

By ELMER ROESSNER

The Nixon administration's proposal to allow a special tax deductions to banks and savings and loan associations for making "socially desirable" loans is not a particularly new idea. It's just a variation on an old one, that of using taxes to regulate the conduct and morals of taxpayers.

Under the new proposal, which the Treasury suggests as an amendment to the tax reform bill passed by the House, these institutions would be granted a special tax deduction of 5 per cent on gross interest income from specified loans, such as loans for education, home building and small business. It would also soften the impact of tougher tax levies on these institutions as provided in tax reform legislation.

There are dozens of existing taxes, designed to make citizens well-behaved, sinless moral characters. THE LEVY ON SIN The tax on champagne, for example, is $3.40 a wine gallon, while the tax on still wines of under 14 per cent alcohol is 17 cents a wine gallon. Rich, dissolute playboys, you know, drink champagne out of chorus girls' slippers and Congress would penalize them.

The tax on distilled liquors is heavy $10.50 a proof gallon. While this is primarily to raise money, it is also calculated to discourage drinking. As has long been known, people who drink heavily do not give their bosses a good day's work. The tax is vastly higher than that on tea, for instance.

Taxes on cigarettes, at federal state and local levels are high, partly to raise revenue but perhaps even more so to discourage the practice of smoking. There is no similar tax on chewing gum.

For a long time there was a tax on Sen-Sen. Evil men used to chew it so their loved ones wouldn't know they had been drinking whiskey. But an enlightened Congress repealed the tax four years ago.

WICKED GAMBLERS CHASTENED

Congress also imposed a $50 a-year license tax on gamblers and a 10 per cent levy on the amount of each wager. This tax costs more to collect than it brings in, according to most estimates. But it punishes people for committing the WASP sin of gambling. It also lets federal officers arrest gamblers who have fixed things with the local police. The income tax is loaded with measures to compel citizens to conform. The split income tax provision for married couples penalizes the unmarried. It is curious that the govern-

Focus Again On War

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Whatever the merit, or lack of it, of Moratorium Day, with its outpouring of protest against the Vietnam war, it has focused attention on some of the toughest questions facing Americans today.

One of the most important questions seems to be this: Having long since conceded that military victory is not the U.S. goal, must the United States now face the possibility that political victory is equally unlikely?

Why is the United States in Vietnam? The question has been answered by four presidents, but the answers still leave the average American wondering what it all means to him personally. Is his way of life directly threatened? Is the threat of communism, so widely accepted only a relatively short time ago, less credible now? Just what, specifically, are U.S. interests?

If there is now going to be a recapitulation of the reasons for Vietnam, it may be necessary for officials to be much more specific, to spell things out in detail. The "whys" in the past have been presented in broad generalities. They go back to President Dwight D. Eisenhower, directly after the 1954 Geneva accords dividing Vietnam at the 17th parallel, following the defeat of French colonial power. Eisenhower pledged U.S. aid to Saigon in "developing a strong, viable state capable of resisting attempted subversion or aggression through military means."

The United States had just gone through the Korean War, Washington and much of Western Europe seemed convinced that a Communist tide would sweep over Asia unless a dam was built. The Americans decided the dam had to be at the point of imminent danger: in Vietnam, to protect all Southeast Asia.

In 1961, President John F. Kennedy deepened the American commitment. He promised that the United States would "help the Republic of Vietnam to protect its people and to preserve its independence." He ordered increased military aid to Saigon at a time when the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front had just come into being and the Viet Cong were entering a new phase of their guerrilla war.

In August 1964 the U.S. Congress gave President Lyndon B. Johnson authority to take whatever steps he deemed necessary to hold back what was regarded as an imminent threat in Vietnam to all Southeast Asia. The vote for that Tonkin Gulf resolution was 98-2 in the Senate, 416-0 in the House.

The resolution permitted transformation of American military aid from the status of advisory to combat. Again in 1965, Johnson stated American aid in broad strategic terms and added, "We cannot now dishonor our word or abandon our commitment." Americans were in Vietnam, he said, because their national security was at stake. He referred to the "deepening shadow of Communist China," and held that Americans had the same responsibility in Asia as they had to defense of freedom in Europe.

ment spends millions trying to dampen the population explosion, yet penalized those who do not choose to marry. The government does a ballet split on religion. The Supreme Court says that the Constitution says in the fine print that children can't say prayers in school, yet the government gives tax deductions to parents who contribute for donations to charity, education and other approved causes to encourage people to be upright, unselfish and generous.

Even Social Security has been rigged control conduct. People not retiring before 72 are denied benefits. Social Security was started during the Depression and Congress wanted older people who had more years of voting ahead of them.

It has been said, "The power to tax is the power to destroy." It might be so said, "The power to tax is the power to fight sin, suppress the taxed and make people conform to the ideas of fuddy-establishment-duddies."

Strategic values and outlooks may be changing with regard to Asia's importance in terms of resources, geography, hundreds of millions of people and the advanced world's technological revolution.

But the United States got into Vietnam on the issue of intervention and "people's war." Assuming the arguments for getting in were valid, the problem now is how to get out. It is made more complicated by Hanoi's obvious reading of the U.S. political situation as a watershed of opposition to the war. This can suggest to the North Vietnamese that holding out indefinitely can bring, politically, the victory which can not be won on the battlefield.

SORRY CHARLIE

DENVER (AP) — Mrs. Sherry Combs of Checotah, Okla., is a barrel racer in rodeos and is married to a rodeo steer wrestler and rancher. My granddaddy said asking a man how many acres he has is like asking him how much money he has in the bank."

Evans-Novak . . .

Where Reed has failed is in attempting to engineer a crossover of prominent Dixiecrats into the Republican party comparable to the 1964 South Carolina coup led by Sen. Strom Thurmond. Sporadic negotiations with Gov. Williams have broken down. Republicans have more hope for Lt. Gov. Charles Sullivan, front runner to be the next Governor. But Sullivan has been playing footsie with the Republicans for years without consummation.

That poses a barrier for Dixiecrats such as one rising politician who told us: "I'd like to run as a Republican—if I was sure it wouldn't hurt me." How could he be sure of that? Only if a John Bell Williams or a Charles Sullivan leads the pilgrimage to the GOP.

Yet, time is on the side of the Republicans because politics here is so polarized along racial lines. The Democratic faction allied with the national party is now controlled by Negroes with the handful of liberal whites stripped of authority. Even moderate Democrats may be forced into the Republican party as the only haven for white office-seekers in Mississippi.

(Continued From Page 4) namization of this war. He has applied skillful diplomacy to the Thieu-Ky government. He has taken every step, in my own view, that might possibly be taken, consistent with the safety of our men and the ultimate security of Vietnam. What more do his critics want? They want his head; no more than that.

Increasingly, the target of criticism is the Thieu-Ky regime. The gentlemen are not as universally loved, as popularly elected, as strongly supported as, let us say, the late regime of Johnson and Humphrey. But they constitute the only government that South Vietnam has, and they have provided their bleeding and beleaguered land with the greatest stability since Diem. Their individual survival, in any event, is the smallest stake on the table.

Why are we in Vietnam? To answer in terms of "our national interest" is to risk a false impression, for the national interest may be interpreted solely in terms of strategy and trade. We are there to defend another area of national interest—the American ideal. By this I mean to suggest the obligation that lies upon the strong to protect the weak. I mean a responsibility to defend the great concepts of freedom. The ideal includes a gentleman's—and a country's—code of honor: To keep the faith, to honor agreements, and not to quit when the going is hard. Let the mortarium peace-keepers have their day. For my own part, I propose to fly my country's flag, to say prayers of my own, and to

'Moratorium Day' Success In N.C. Questioned

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Peaceful activities, speeches and mass meetings marked Moratorium Day in North Carolina as thousands joined in college campus observances against the Vietnam war. But there were differing opinions on whether it was a success.

Other persons protested the antiwar theme, or ignored the observances altogether. Charles Jeffress of Raleigh, state coordinator for Moratorium Day, termed the observance "a great success."

for Freedom, a student organization, said reports he received indicated the observance was "not nearly as big a success as they thought it would be." Herring said a lot of students who stayed out of class just took "advantage of an opportunity to cut."

At least 37 of North Carolin's 74 institutions of higher learning were involved in the anti-war activities Wednesday. "It's a lot better than I had expected," he said.

Principal attention was focused on the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Duke University, only 12 miles away. Boycotts reduced class attendance to an estimated 50-60 per cent of normal at 16,400-student UNC and at 8,000-student Duke. Dr. Howard Levy, convicted by an Army court martial of refusing to train soldiers for medical service in Vietnam, and Jack Newfield, a writer, spoke at North Carolina and Duke. There were instances of dissent with the moratorium. At Ft. Bragg, Sgt. Robert M. Patterson, Medal of Honor reipient, said in an interview that the antiwar moratorium "is a waste of time." He said those who participated "should find something more constructive to do with their time."

Mrs. Donna Long, 26, wife of a Marine serving in Vietnam, completed a 117-mile walk from Jacksonville to Raleigh as a protest against the war protesters.

At Chapel Hill, antiwar students lowered an American flag at the center of the campus to half staff several times. Each time, however, other students hoisted it again.

At Pembroke State University, which has a student body of 1,691, only 43 persons turned out for a day-long program of speeches for and against U. S. policy in Vietnam. Some 46 persons, including some faculty members, later marched through downtown Pembroke.

American flags were displayed at some homes in the state. Some motorists drove during the daylight hours with headlights turned on, a sign of dissent with the protest.

At Greensboro college, three former servicemen who are faculty members wore military uniforms to panel discussions on the war.

Students favoring the moratorium held a chapel service at Wake Forest University. Then they handed out Vietnam facts sheets at industrial plant gates and at private homes.

About 3,500 persons marched from the campus of the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill to the downtown area. The silent group then marched back to the campus to attend a convocation. Only 2,000 could get inside Memorial Hall. The 1,500 outside listened to the speeches on loudspeakers.

Approximately 2,500 attended a peace service in the chapel at Duke.

Classes were called off for the day at some schools, including Barber-Scotia College at Concord and Bennett College, a predominantly Negro Methodist girls school at Greensboro.

At Raleigh, some 200 students from Shaw University and St. Augustine's college marched around the capitol.

In Charlotte, approximately 700 persons attended a two-hour rally, listening to speakers and folk singers. The demonstrators later marched peacefully 10 blocks to the Army Induction Center, carrying a flag-draped coffin.

In Winston-Salem, about 40 students say in front of the draft board wearing black arm bands with the figure 40,000 on them. This was a reference to the approximate number of Americans killed in Vietnam.

Opposition Runs High To Eisenhower Dollar

WASHINGTON (AP) — The subject before the House was a new silverless dollar coin honoring the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

But before debate was over Wednesday, there was talk about wampum coming back as currency and the use of coins which could double as lock nuts and fishing lures.

These suggestions came from Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, a conservative who argued the House was completing "the degradation and debasement of the metallic currency of this country."

But the House cast all this aside in voting 257-65 for a new copper and nickel-clad dollar coin with Eisenhower's likeness on one side and a design "emblematic of the symbolic Apollo 11 Eagle landing on the moon" on the other.

Only hours before, the Senate had passed its own version of the bill which specified that the first 300 million of the coins be 40 per cent silver.

The differences are subject to resolution by a House-Senate conference committee and then final approval by both branches.

The House bill also would let the Treasury Department remove silver from the Kennedy half dollars, now 40 per cent silver, by 1971. There is no similar language in the Senate bill, or anything about the Apollo 11 design.

Gross several times during the debate pulled strings of brightly colored beads from his pockets, dangled them before the House and suggested something like that might be on the horizon.

"This would just be funny money," Gross said of the proposed silverless coins. "I don't know how long it will be before the Banking and Currency Committee brings in a bill calling for the use of wampum."

And, if that doesn't do the trick, I expect them to approve a bill for what the Narragansett

Indians called wampumbeag, which is cheap wampum."

Other possibilities, Gross said, would include washers and lock nuts "and at least farmers could use them on tractors" or a stainless steel coin which is bright "and could double as a fishing lure."

But the House paid little attention to the views of Gross or Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, whose amendment to put 40 per cent silver in the new coin was turned down, 73-45.

The Nixon administration has opposed efforts, led by mining states, to put silver in the new coin. The House bill would authorize a new dollar coin made up of 75 per cent copper and 25 per cent nickel.

Park Co. Buys Stations In Va.

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — Roy H. Park Broadcasting Co. completed purchase Wednesday of Roanoke broadcasting stations WLSL-TV-AM-FM for $7.5 million.

The new corporation, purchased from the Shenandoah Life Insurance Co. of Roanoke, is wholly owned by Park, a native of North Carolina who now lives in Ithaca, N.Y.

Elected directors of the corporation were Shenandoah executives Frank Clement, T. T. Moore and Horace S. Fitzpatrick, the former executive vice president of the stations. Fitzpatrick will remain as executive vice president and general manager of the stations and George W. Chernault Jr. will continue as vice president.

WLSL-TV has been in operation since 1952 and is a pioneer television station in the area.

Park also owns WTVR-TV in Richmond, WNCT-TV in Greenville, N.C., WJHL-TV in Johnson City, Tenn., WDEF-TV in Chattanooga, Tenn., and WUTR-TV now under construction in Utica, N.Y.

Plan Homecoming Service Sunday

The congregation of Ballards Presbyterian Church will observe the annual homecoming service Sunday.

All former members and friends of the church are invited to be present.

Sunday School will begin at 10 a.m. followed by morning worship at 11 o'clock. Following the worship service, a picnic lunch will be served.

All Kinds Of Subterfuges Used To Bring Drugs Into N. Carolina

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — The batch of home-made chocolate drop cookies looked tempting and appetizing.

But they contained something not found in ordinary homemade cookies—marijuana.

Nearby were some tiny sugar cubes and pills resembling candy. There also was an extra ingredient in them—LSD.

A postage stamp on a letter looked no different from other stamps. But a laboratory analysis disclosed a drop of LSD had been placed on the mucilage side of the stamp. If chewed up and swallowed, the stamp would provide the user with sufficient "kick" for a trip into the world of hallucination.

These are only a few of many ways in which drugs and narcotics are coming into North Carolina, said Charles Dunn, director of the State Bureau of Investigation.

"Drugs are brought into the state in suitcases, automobiles, mail delivery and any other conceivable way," Dunn said in an interview.

"The drug problem in North Carolina," he added, "has become so large we can't cope with it. We have 10 agents assigned solely to drug cases. We could use 100. About 50 per cent of the cases we're investigating today involve drugs and narcotics. It's frightening."

Dunn cited a case in which a hippie, who was about to be arrested, thrust a hand to his mouth. Officers quickly seized him and extracted a small package of tin foil from his mouth before he had a chance to swallow it. The tin foil contained LSD pills.

"Heavy drug traffic is carried on around some military installations in North Carolina," Dunn said. "The next biggest traffic problem exists at colleges and universities followed by high schools, particularly in urban areas."

Dunn cited figures which showed that in 1966 the SBI laboratory worked on 56 cases involving marijuana. This increased to 106 in 1967 and 334 last year.

In contrast, there were no cases involving heroin, LSD or other hallucinogenic drugs in 1966. The number of heroin cases in 1967 numbered five and it jumped to 26 last year. The hallucinogenic drug cases numbered one in 1967 and 16 last year.

"Our chemical section," Dunn said, "has been flooded in recent months with drug examinations. I have been amazed at the variety of illegal drugs and paraphernalia that come to our lab. We have had pipes and water pipes for marijuana. We have even had some LBJ, which I thought was only political but which I found to be another hallucinogenic drug. In short, the SBI is flooded with drug cases and we are barely beginning to scratch the surface."

What can be done to curb the drug problem?

"Without greater public concern and action," Dunn said, "there is little hope of substantially curbing the illegal drug traffic in the near future. To be really effective, a program against illegal drug use must begin at home. The church and the school must be willing and able to step in where the family unit fails or is nonexistent."

Dunn said every school in North Carolina "should have an adequate educational program on drugs. I do not think enough attention is given to dangerous drugs in most schools. In some cases, inadequate or incorrect information can stimulate a young person's desire to try a drug."

"We've become a pill-addicted society," Dunn said. "Prescriptions are falsified to obtain drugs. Pills are often taken in combination with beer and other alcoholic drinks."

"I have attempted to find out why people, particularly young people, get involved with dangerous drugs. Some get involved because they feel it is the 'in' thing to do. Once started, there is a pretty good possibility that the ride will be downhill. Maybe all will not become addicts, but too many will."

Berlin Festival To Honor 'Duke'

BERLIN (AP) — The big names in jazz are coming to the Berlin Jazz Festival Nov. 6-9 for "Duke Ellington-70," honoring America's Duke.

Thelonious Monk and Lennie Tristano will play the first night, Nov. 6. German composer-performer Joachim Kuehn will give his "Suite for Duke" its first public performance.

Stan Kenton will appear with the Berlin Dream Band Nov. 7 and Miles Davis and his new quintet will play.

band on Nov. 8. The performance included the Newport All Stars, with violinist Joe Venuti. The final night will feature Lionel Hampton and his Inner Circle and Sarah Vaughan and her trio.

Annual Conference Will Begin Monday

The annual Professional Development Conference sponsored by the North Carolina Society of Accountants will be held in Greenville Monday and Tuesday.

Alfred F. Yaude of Charlotte, president of the state society, said the board of directors of the statewide organization will hold its fall meeting Sunday at the Holiday Inn prior to the opening of the Educational Conference.

The Monday and Tuesday meetings will be held on the East Carolina University campus.

Isaac W. Worrell, accountant from Winston-Salem and chairman of the 1969 conference committee, said this is the first time the group has held its annual fall conference in eastern North Carolina. He complimented the staff of the School of Business and the Division of Continuing Education at ECU for their cooperation in planning the program and for assisting with faculty and facilities for holding the meeting in Greenville.

The registration fee of $30 per person includes registration, conference materials, social hour and banquet. Wives tickets are $5 each, which includes special activities during the day plus the Monday night social hour and banquet.

The conference will be held in the School of Nursing Auditorium on campus.

Homecoming To Be On Sunday

STOKES — Homecoming will be observed at the Stokes United Methodist Church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Dinner will be served at the close of the morning service.

Revival services will begin Monday at 7:30 p.m. Dr. Morris Husted, assistant pastor of Duke Memorial Methodist Church, Durham, will be guest speaker. Dr. Husted is also noted as a singer.

The Rev. Daniel C. Boone is pastor of the Stokes Church. The public is invited to attend the services.

On Sunday, from 6 p.m. until 9 p.m., a reception for all conference registrants and their wives will be held at the Holiday Inn.

Participants for Monday's session include: Raymond Jones, Ph.D., William H. Watson, LL.B., Dorothy Brandon, CPA, Waldon Snyder, CPA, J.D., all of East Carolina University.

On Tuesday, featured speakers include Gorman Ledbetter, CPA, of East Carolina University; Ted Lanier, Controller, Planters National Bank, Rocky Mount; Edwin H. Dixon Jr., vice president, Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, Greenville; and William H. Terrill, Ph.D., of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Special activities for the wives include a fashion show and bridge on Monday afternoon prior to the social hour and banquet at the Candlewick Inn.

Dr. Campbell To Address Service

BETHEL — Dr. Joseph E. Campbell will be the speaker for the 11 o'clock hour at the Bethel Pentecostal Holiness Church Sunday.

Dr. Campbell is founder and director of Laymen's Missionary Foundation, Franklin Springs, Ga. He is a graduate of Furman University, Lutheran Seminary, Richmond, Va.

He wrote the history of the Pentecostal Holiness Church from 1898-1948, as a dissertation for his Doctor of Theology degree from Union Theological Seminary. Dr. Campbell has recently returned from a one-year world tour, preaching the gospel.

The pastor, Rev. Hildred C. Potter, extends an invitation to the public to attend.

NEVER ON SUNDAY
CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Funerals can take place here only Mondays through Fridays. "It has been increasingly difficult to get gravediggers and undertakers' staff to work on weekends," said Secretary A. Wasserfall of the Association of Cape Town Funeral Directors.

U.S. Merchant Marine Small, Mostly Obsolete

By ROBERT F. BUCKHORN
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The gracefully curved prow of the 115,000-ton tanker Manhattan sliced through the ice of the Canadian Arctic last month to open the fabled Northwest Passage.

It flew the American flag. The nuclear ship Savannah cruises the world as a showpiece for the future.

It flies the American flag.

The U.S. government is doing research on big air cushion passenger vehicles designed to skim over the surface of the ocean... naval architects talk of giant cargo-carrying submarines, and 300,000 ton tankers, a fifth of a mile long... President Nixon is expected to send Congress shortly a maritime program designed to increase production of American ships.

All this might lead the casual observer to believe the U.S. Merchant Marine is a pace-setter. It isn't. In truth, it is small, mostly obsolete, and bogged down in a paralyzing maze of economic and labor-management problems.

For example:—Once the largest, the U.S. merchant fleet now is sixth in world standing.

—Two-thirds of its ships are over 20 years old.

—Only about 5 per cent of all U.S. foreign commerce is carried in American flagships.

—The United States ranks eleventh in ship construction among the nations of the world.

—Its once famous fleet of luxury passenger liners is down to a handful, and expected to get smaller.

U.S. Role Dwindles
There are many reasons for the decline. But the most important is foreign competition. Big ship-building nations such as Japan build and operate ships more cheaply than the United States because their expenses—particularly wages—are sharply lower.

To offset this competition, the United States has worked out a complicated subsidy program. But it is costly—about $200 million a year—and most observers consider it ineffective.

Marine Administrator A.E. Gibson put it this way: the U.S. merchant fleet has declined

"because of its high cost compared to that of its foreign competition and because there seemed to be no other way to overcome this disadvantage except through government subsidies."

But both Gibson and Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans believe the ills of the U.S. merchant fleet can be eased, if not completely cured, through a program of modernization.

In a program unveiled last month, the two officials backed an industry-government research and development plan designed to bring this about.

It calls for a $32 million, five-year program to double the present 20-knot speed of merchant ships by the 1970s and to increase speeds to 100 knots by the 1980s through the use of exotically-shaped hulls.

The idea is that such speeds, coupled with increased cargo capability, would boost the earning power of ships. This, in turn, would produce an incentive for private industry to build more ships.

The program also calls for a $34 million nuclear ship-building program. The nation's only nuclear-powered merchant ship—the Savannah—is now 10 years old, and Congress never has appropriated funds for the fleet of nuclear-powered merchant ships originally envisioned by sponsors of the Savannah.

Merchant Marine backers now look to President Nixon for help.

During his presidential campaign, Nixon promised to boost the amount of American trade carried in U.S. ships from 5 per cent to "over 30 per cent by the mid 1970s," partly through a stepped-up ship construction program.

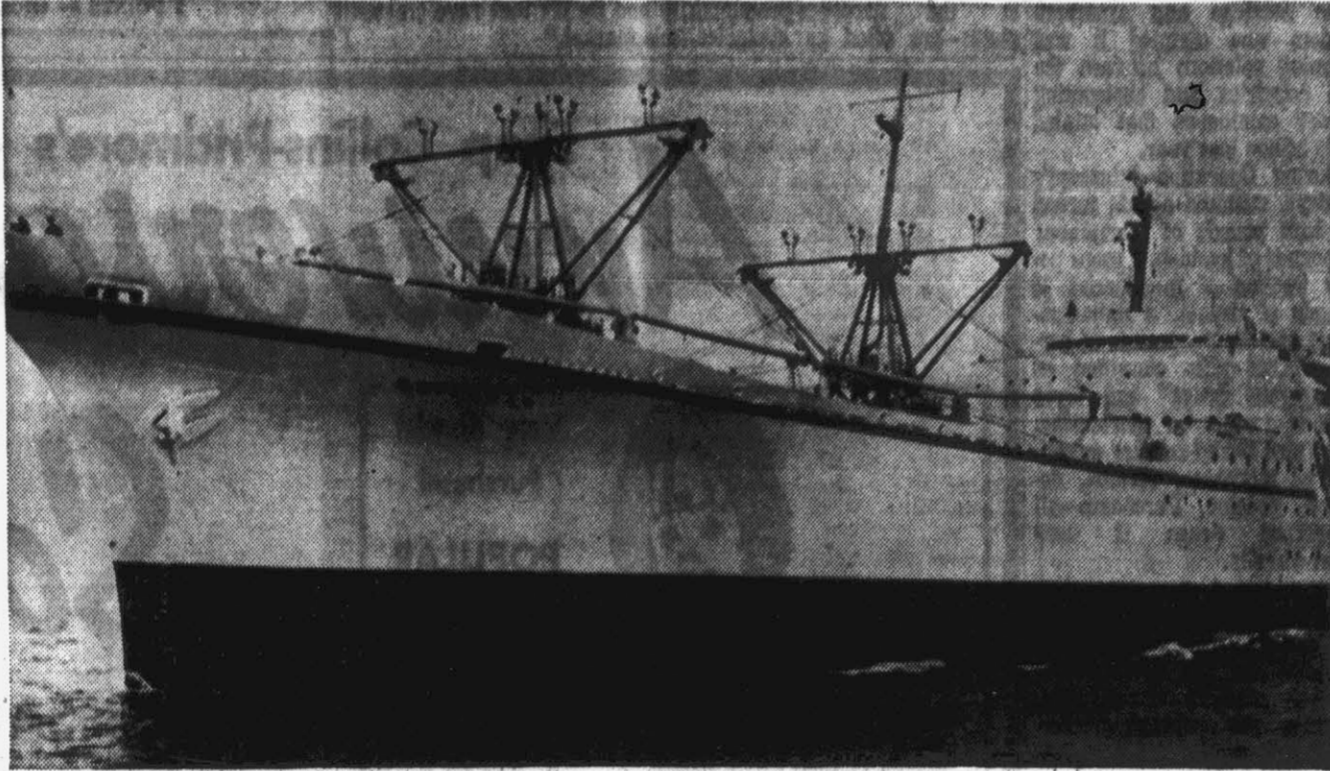

Subsidies Ineffective
As for subsidies, Nixon said they have not created a modern merchant fleet despite the cost and that he would re-evaluate the program.

In contrast, the maritime unions favor a bigger subsidy program to encourage most shipbuilding and thereby create more jobs for their members.

Under the present system, fleet payments are made only to 14 ship operators who control 300 ships, or one-third of the U.S. total.

Behind the maritime controversy looms another growing shadow—the spectacular rise of the Soviet Union's merchant fleet.

According to Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., "Launching and deliveries of new ships to the Soviet Union run more than eight to one ahead of the U.S. For every ship the U.S. has on order, Russia has 12. Since 1950, the Russian fleet grew six-fold."

SHOWPIECE FOR THE FUTURE — The nuclear ship USS Savannah is shown in a 1964 file photo. Looking at this atomic-powered ship the casual observer

Heavy Financing In U.S.-Mexico Drug Traffic

By ROBERT BERLEZ, Associated Press Writer
 NOGALES, Mexico (AP) — The U.S. customs inspector at the border crossing station had trouble unscrambling the mumbled words of a youth who had just walked over from Mexico. "What's in your mouth?" the officer finally asked. There was no immediate reply, but after some prodding, the youth, an Army private in civilian clothes, spat out a small, moist rubber object. It was a contraceptive device holding nine grains of heroin, enough for two fixes, in the jargon of the modern narcotics cultists. A 20-year-old Phoenix, Ariz., girl died in a motel room here; authorities blamed an overdose of morphine. She had driven here for the fix. On a lonely desert road some 70 miles northwest of here, near Ajo, Ariz., a U.S. Border Patrol roadblock snared two cars with marijuana totaling 800 pounds. Customs officers suspected the load had been parachuted to a spot in the desert by airborne smugglers. All this occurred during Operation Intercept, the sharpest narcotics vigil the United States has ever put up along the 2,000-mile Mexican border. For nearly three weeks customs officers carefully combed thousands of vehicles leaving Mexico at 38 border crossing stations. Ground radar and aerial and jeep patrols at unguarded border areas were intensified. Even a marijuana-sniffing dog was pressed into duty at San Ysidro, Calif. "Intercept" has been superseded by Operation Cooperation, a joint effort by the two countries to combat narcotics production and traffic.

The unilateral U.S. effort had come under sharp criticism from Mexican and American leaders who claimed it was harming relations between the two countries and obstructing border commerce that totaled $1.15 billion last year. During Operation Intercept's 21 days, customs agents turned up 3,202 pounds of marijuana; 78 pounds of hashish, a more potent version of marijuana; 16 pounds of peyote, a hallucinogenic cactus; 3½ pounds of heroin; 74,366 pills classified as "dangerous drugs" and three vials of a supposed aphrodisiac. They also seized smaller quantities of morphine, cocaine, demarol, codeine, Percodam—all dangerous drugs if used nonmedically.

Figures for a comparative 1968 two-week period with which to measure Intercept's effectiveness are not available. A veteran customs officer says, however, the operation discouraged drug traffic. There's no known way of determining how much got through undetected. U.S. and Mexican authorities feel that present control systems are capable of halting only a fraction of the U.S.-bound traffic. Intensified narcotics-control activity in Mexico recently has turned up dramatic evidence of the scope of the drug business in the country.

A raid last month by Mexican cavalry in southern Sonora State, 375 miles below the Arizona border, uncovered a 12-acre marijuana farm, complete with irrigation system, a soil analysis laboratory and harvesting machinery. Eight tons of marijuana were destroyed. Another modern farm in the mountains north of Guadalajara, in south central Mexico, had a small landing strip and two-way radio equipment. Such developments responsible Mexicans say, indicate that organized U.S. criminals have moved in to finance growers and buyers in the drug trade. Mexicans don't have that kind of money to put such elaborate operations, they said. U.S. officials and some prominent Mexican leaders are privately skeptical of the Mexican government's capacity to lift its skeletal narcotics-control machine to top-rate efficiency. Of some 260 judicial police agents 43 are assigned to narcotics control.

Lack of funds and corruption in the official bureaucracy—from customs agents to generals commanding military zones in the narcotics-producing states—are cited as obstacles.

Low salaries paid customs and narcotics officers, ranging up from $80 to $100 a month, seem to invite bribes.

Dr. Alfonso Quiroz Cuaron, one of Mexico's foremost criminologists, says the basic causes of the problem reside in U.S. society.

"The question is," he says, "what creates the market for narcotics in the United States? We must find the deepest roots, the basic causes and combat them."

"You're trying to combat narcotics addiction with the same sterile methods of liquor prohibition. The problem must be tackled at its source, your society and its ills that have created this market."

GRIEF AT MASS FUNERAL FOR 'TET' VICTIMS — Women cry over coffins during mass funeral in Hue, South Vietnam, for 400 victims of enemy massacres at Hue last year. The skeletons were found last month along a creek bank at Nam Hoa, just a few miles outside Hue, where the victims were seized when North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops held the city during February 1968. Receiving Corn Growing Award

William C. House of Rt. 1, Bethel, has been named to receive a special award for his excellence in corn growing. Presented by J. R. Bunting, representing the producers of Funk's G-Hybrids, the award is in recognition of House's production of a 125.28 bushel corn yield. This high yield is being officially entered in the nationwide record books of Project 200.

Project 200 is a high-yield corn growing project aimed at increasing corn yields and per-acre profits. Corn growers throughout the United States and Canada are participating. House's high yield was made with Funk's G-5757, a high-capacity hybrid variety specially suited to this area. House planted the Project 200 field on April 21, in 36 inch rows. Population at harvest was 20,000 plants to the acre.

He applied 180 pounds of nitrogen, 96 pounds of phosphate and 96 pounds of potash to the acre, broadcasting at planting. A herbicide was used.

Job Efficiency Improvement For U.S. Employees

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal employees are going before TV cameras as part of a government training program designed to improve their job efficiency.

Officials with major communications responsibilities, instructors' teaching government classes, and government office workers are benefiting from a closed-circuit (CCTV) system which the U.S. Civil Service Commission's Bureau of Training is using to train workers from other government agencies. The cctv system was developed by Diamond Power Specialty Corp.

Video tape playbacks show executives who communicate with top-level government personnel, the press, foreign dignitaries, or even fellow employees how they look to their audience. The tapes reveal vital facts about appearance and manner.

Rampants Host Kinston For Homecoming Game

Rose High School's battered and bruised Rampants try to collect enough players to battle Kinston Friday night in the annual Homecoming game for the school. Injuries have continued to take their toll among the Rampants, nearly wiping out the original backfield of the team.

And the lack of defense continues to take its toll in the loss column as the Rampants are allowing more points to be scored against them than their battered offense can score.

Last week, Wilmington's New Hanover, winner of only two games previously, rallied from 14 points down to take a 29-28 victory over the Rampants, as the defense crumbled after the first quarter.

And after losing fullback Bubba Rawl two games earlier, the Rampants got two more blows in the New Hanover game. On the first play, speedster Johnny Smith ran the kick-off back 41 yards before finally being hauled down by the last Wildcat defenders. But Smith broke his ankle on the play, and is out for the rest of the season.

Then, late in the game, new fullback Gary Singleton suffered a back injury. He will definitely miss the Kinston game, and may be out for the final four games of the year.

That leaves quarterback Joe West, and halfback Greg Williams as the only two starters left in the backfield, and Williams has already been slowed somewhat by an injury two games ago.

A couple of other players, Ronald Cherry and Kim Harbin have missed practice because of injuries, but are expected to be ready to play Friday night. "We're getting pretty thin," Coach Bud Phillips said, making perhaps one of the understatement of the year.

And against Kinston, the Rampants have picked a bad time to suffer injuries. The Red Devils come into the game with a 5-1 record for the season. Their only loss is to unbeaten and defending state champion Wilson. That came only after a third quarter explosion by the Cyclones in the person of star back Carlester Crumpler.

"They run the single wing," Phillips said. It will be the first time this year that the Rampants have faced this formation. Two other teams in the following three games also run it, New Bern and Goldsboro.

The top man in the formation seems to be fullback Reggie Bryant. "He has been doing a lot of their running and their passing," the coach said. His chief target when he turns to passing is wingback Will Brame. At the tailback position, Kinston usually starts Gordon Davis, but Donald Lightfoot has also seen a lot of action there.

Last year's tailback, Lew Paylor, has been switched to end, and is another of the top receivers on the team.

In their offense, the fullback runs the ball a lot on bucks and slants, while the tailback goes off tackle and outside. Brame also will run reverses.

Defensively, Kinston usually lines up in a four-four, and has been very tough on its opposition. They beat Wilmington's New Hanover, 42-6 earlier in the season. Last week, they downed Hoggard, 14-0, and list wins over Goldsboro, Washington and Tarboro on their list.

The Rampants, meanwhile, have been trying to regroup due to the injuries, and to come up with a workable defense. "We have spent some time on getting our halfbacks up and tackling," Phillips said. "This hurt us at Wilmington. I thought we stopped them pretty good in the middle of the line, but their outside game hurt us a lot."

Offensively, the Rampants have been working Greg Williams and Cliff Edwards at the fullback position, with Ronald and Donald Taylor working at the halfback spots. "I still feel we can move the ball. The Taylor twins have the speed to get the job done, but it's just a matter of desire."

If the running game fails, Phillips will probably rely heavily on the arm of quarterback West, who is nearing the 1,000-yard mark. He has connected on 85 of 147 passes so far this year. His chief target has been end Mike Harrington, who has over 300 yards in receptions.

The probable starting offensive lineup has Harrington and Josh Weeks at ends, Jay Hagans and Tim Leith at tackles, Tommy Worsley and Steve Williams at guards, Tommy Bland at center, West at quarterback, Williams at fullback, and Donald Taylor at one halfback slot, with either Russ Smith or Ronald Taylor at the other.

On defense, it will be John Conway and Harold Lloyd at ends, Tom Hodgen and Hagans at tackles, Willie Barnhill and Steve Williams at guards, Lewis Gidley at middle linebacker, Tommy Diggs at rover, Greg Williams and Edwards at halfbacks, and Smith at safety.

Robersonville, Grifton Battle In Feature Game

The Tobacco Bela Conference champion could be decided tomorrow night when Robersonville and Grifton clash on the Rams field in high school football action for this week. Both teams will go into the game with one conference loss apiece on their records. Grifton fell to Bath earlier in the season, and Robersonville was handed their conference setback last week by Belhaven.

In other games, Farmville will travel to North Lenoir, South Lenoir will visit Greene Central, Williamston goes to Gates County, Sugg is at South Ayden, and Ayden goes to Weldon.

Grifton-Robersonville
The Rams had a point after kick blocked last week that led to their conference setback by Belhaven, 7-6. It was the first time this year that a point after has been blocked for the Rams. Grifton rolled by Elm City 27-0 last week to continue their third straight season. The Bulldogs held Elm City to two first downs and 26 yards rushing in their game. Both teams should have their hands full.

Farmville
The Red Devils will visit North Lenoir, a past Eastern Plains Conference power. However, this year North Lenoir has not been doing so well, and Farmville should not have much trouble. The Devils went past Ayden, 28-6, last week for their second win in a row in the annual rivalry. Dickie Newton had a good game for Farmville, rushing for 216 yards, and going over for two long touchdown runs. The Eastern Plains picture has a new look this week, as the two conference leaders, Northern Nash and Southern Wayne battled to a tie last week. That leaves three teams with ties on their records in conference.

Greene Central
The Rams eased by Southern Nash 32-0 last week to hand the Nash team their 15th football loss in a row. Robbie Hill and Robbie Ivey each went over for two Rams TDs last week in the rout. They will be hosting Southern Lenoir this week in a conference game.

Williamston
After three straight losses, the Green Waves got back in the win column last week, going by Perquimans 44-0. Williamston's ground game finally came to life as they picked up 375 yards rushing. They will travel to Gates County, who won over Plymouth 19-6 in their last encounter.
H.B. Sugg-South Ayden

The Lions and the Eagles will meet in a county contest tomorrow night. South Ayden led Carver last week 14-0 only to end the game in a tie as Carver fought back in the second and third quarters to score. Sugg has not been having a very good year so far, as they were 0-5 when last heard from.

Ayden
After falling to Farmville 28-6 last week, things do not look too good for the Tornadoes this week, as they travel to Weldon to meet the already decided Roanoke Conference champions. Weldon downed Gaston 49-0 last week to take the crown. It looks like another tough one for the Tornadoes.

Pirates Work On Pass Defense

East Carolina University's Pirates went through a defensive drill yesterday aimed at stopping the passing attack of the University of Richmond's Spiders, their Saturday night foe.

The Bucs close out their heavy work tonight, working under the lights in Ficklen Stadium. Rusty Scales and Mike Boaz drew praise for their defensive work in the secondary, while Jim Gudger was singled out for his line play in rushing the passer.

Offensively, Butch Colson and Tim Ilderton drew praise for their blocking. Coach Clarence Stasavich said that the line is moving better now, and that he is especially satisfied with the work of the sophomores.

The drills were closed out with a long punt coverage and punt protection workout, with kicker Billy Wightman standing out. The Pirates and Spiders meet Saturday night in City Stadium in Richmond.

Spiders, Bucs Near In Stats

While Richmond's Spiders are the defending champion in the Southern Conference, and are a three-touchdown favorite over East Carolina University Saturday night in the Virginia capital city, there is really not that much difference between the two teams.

According to the latest statistics from the Southern Conference News Bureau, Richmond leads the Bucs in nearly every category, but not by as much as would be expected.

In total offense, the Spiders are third in the conference with a 287.7 yards per game average. East Carolina is fourth with a 287.7 yard per game average.

The Pirates lead the loop in rushing yardage, with an average of 190 yards per contest. Richmond is sixth, next-to-last, with only 108.8 per game.

In passing Richmond returns to the upper position. The Spiders are second, averaging 253.0 yards per game, while East Carolina has a 97.7 average, good enough for fifth. Therein lies the big difference in the two teams.

On the defensive side, Richmond leads the league, allowing only 245.8 yards per game. East Carolina is fourth with a 319.0 average. Richmond is tops in rushing defense, allowing 68.5 yards per contest, while the Pirates are second, with a 118.7 mark.

In pass defense, both have been vulnerable. Richmond is fifth with a 177.3 average, while the Bucs are seventh and last with a 200.3 mark.

Thus, if the Pirates can come up with a passing combination that will work, it could turn out to be a passing contest.

In the individual department, Charlie Richards of Richmond leads the conference in total offense with 1,069 yards. Butch Colson of East Carolina is sixth with 355, while Billy Wightman is seventh with 332. Colson and Wightman have played only three games, while Richards has four.

In passing, Richards ranks second in the loop. He has hit on 76 of 161 for 1,021 yards and four touchdowns. However, nine of his passes have been picked off.

Colson is eighth in the loop in passing, hitting on seven of 11 for 133 yards.

Richard's favorite target is Jim Livesey, who has pulled in 25 for 270 yards and a touchdown. Next comes All-America end candidate Walker Gillette, who has caught 18 for 346 yards and a score. The other end, Herman Perry has caught 15 for 195 yards.

The leading scorer on the team is halfback Jerry Mauro. He has scored four touchdowns, more than the entire East Carolina team.

Davidson, W&M In Key Battle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Southern Conference's offensive and defensive players of last week tangle Saturday at Williamsburg, Va., and the winner of that encounter may play a large part in determining whether Davidson or William and Mary will be leading the league football race at the end of the day.

Davidson quarterback Gordon Slade was the offensive player. He hit on 32 of 43 passes for two touchdowns and scored three times himself in the Wildcats' surprise 37-7 rout of defending champion Richmond.

The defensive player was William and Mary's Jon Bilbo, who threw The Citadel quarterback Tony Passander for losses four times, caused him to hurry several other throws, recovered two fumbles and blocked a punt with 1:29 left that provided the Indians a 21-14 victory.

Looking at the Wildcats, William and Mary coach Lou Holtz says "their win over Richmond was no fluke. They have fine team spirit. They are undefeated and are putting together a great team effort along with some outstanding football players."

Davidson with two victories and William and Mary with one are the only teams still unbeaten inside the conference. The Wildcats have won four in a row over-all, the Indians are 2-2 against all opposition.

Mets Within One Of Grasping Series Laurels

By MIKE RATHET

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets went into today's fifth game of the World Series on the threshold of their first world championship—and nothing about the amazing Mets is more amazing than the way they finally got both feet on the doorstep to the throne room.

For the implausible champions of the National League got there Wednesday on a double lost in the sun, a bunt that didn't roll 10 feet and a wild throw toward first. That combination gave the Mets a 10th inning run and a 2-1 victory over Baltimore's befuddled Orioles.

So the Mets, who turned the baseball world upside down this year by making the final team standings look topsy-turvy, took a 3-1 edge over the heavily favored Orioles and the opportunity to wrap up the Series today in front of Shea Stadium's banner-bearing fans.

Once holders of the world record for ineptness, the Mets have made the amazing transition to the top on a combination of solid pitching, timely hitting—and plays that have provoked the gag-line that "God is a Mets fan."

Look what happened in that almost unbelievable 10th inning when the Orioles handed them the keys to the throne room.

It began when catcher Jerry Grote sent a short fly to left that was ticketed for an out.

"I thought the ball was hit harder than it was," said left fielder Don Buford, "and I broke back to keep from giving up an extra base hit. Then I lost the ball in the glare and didn't pick it up until it got above the sun."

By that time, only shortstop Mark Belanger had a shot at the falling fly as he raced toward the point of impact with his back to the plate. But the ball fell beyond the reach of his outstretched glove as Grote stood on second base. Rod Gaspar went in to run for Grote and Al Weis was given an intentional walk.

At this juncture, it was time for some strategy, and it's possible that the loss of Manager Earl Weaver—in the third inning he became the first manager ejected from a World Series game in 34 years—may have contributed to what followed.

That may never be known. What is known is that coach Billy Hunter, who took over for Weaver, ordered pitcher Dick Hall to issue an intentional walk to Al Weis and then brought in Pete Richert to pitch to pinch hitter J.C. Martin.

er Gil Hodges were simply: Bunt—and keep it down the first base line away from Brooks Robinson, the Orioles' brilliant third baseman. Martin complied on the first pitch, the ball trickling to the lip of the infield grass.

Now Gaspar was running and two Orioles—Richert and catcher Ellie Hendricks—were racing toward the ball, brushing against each other in the indecision of the moment.

"I called for the ball all the way," Hendricks said, "and maybe Pete did too. But will all the crowd noise, I don't know. The play was out in front of me."

crowd of 57,387 too, and they yelled and shouted and cheered as Richert grabbed the ball, hurried his throw and hit Martin in the left wrist. The ball ricocheted into the first base hole while Gaspar raced home with the winning run.

The responses to what had just happened varied: "The ball just happened to hit J.C.," said the cool Hodges. "I'm glad it did."

"I hope," said Richert, "his wrist's broken." "I don't even know who threw the ball," said Martin, "but he made a good play because the ball had back spin. I knew they had no play so my job was to get to first. The ball hit me on the left wrist." "I didn't see the play, said Gaspar. "I got a very bad jump. I thought they held the ball and we had the bases loaded. Then I saw it roll away and knew they had no way of getting me."

"I was running with him down the line," said third base coach Eddie Yost. "I think I could have beat him to the plate, I was so excited. But I stopped three-quarters of the way and watched him go the rest of the way."

Now the Mets have a chance to go the rest of the way today with Jerry Koozman, the second game winner, against Dave McNally. Koozman needed one-out relief help to win that one with a two-hitter after the Orioles won the opener by beating Tom Seaver.

Seaver got his opportunity to get even in the fourth game and did by limiting the Orioles to six hits in a game marked by Weaver's explosion and a brief moment of tension over the flag raising ceremony because of the anti-war Moratorium Day.

Weaver became the only manager in World Series history besides Charley Grimm of the 1935 Chicago Cubs to be given the thumb when he was thrown out by plate umpire Shag Crawford during the third inning. Weaver was ejected after jumping out of the Baltimore Orioles' shortstop Mark Belanger.

"Weaver was just trying to test me," Crawford explained. "He wasn't coming to the plate just to say 'hello.' He knows what the baseball rule is. A manager is not allowed to protest balls and strikes."

"All I said was 'Shag' about three times," said Weaver, "because he was walking away—and he turned and said I was out of the game."

That moment of tension came after the U.S. Marines said they would not participate in the flag-raising ceremony before the start of the game if the flag was flown at half staff or ordered by Mayor Lindsay in observance of the anti-war moratorium.

A quick conference ensued between Lindsay, baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and a Naval officer with the result that the decision was reached to fly the flag at full staff.

The Mets got off quickly in the second inning when Donn Clendenon led with a homer off Mike Cuellar. It stayed that way until the top of the ninth when the Orioles broke through and tied it on singles by Frank Robinson and Boog Powell and a sacrifice fly by Brooks Robinson on which Ron Swoboda made a diving one-handed catch.

Then, in the bottom of the 10th, the little double, the little bunt and the big throw got the job done. "I'm a believer in this club," said Seaver. "Slowly, we're making believers of everybody."

Meet The Rampants

Gary Woods, left, and Mike Harrington are two members of this year's Rose High School football team. Woods, a 5-7, 148-pound junior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Woods. He is a reserve halfback and rover. Harrington, a 6-3, 185-pound senior is the son of Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Harrington. He is the starting offensive end. The Rampants play host to Kinston Friday night in the annual Homecoming game. (Reflector Photos)

Will Koozman Call The Shot

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Koozman's astonishing pre-World Series prediction was a four-game sweep for the New York Mets.

The Mets lost the Series opener at Baltimore last Saturday, but Koozman, their strapping southpaw pitching ace, still had a chance today to make good his boast.

"Yes, I remember distinctly predicting four straight," said Koozman, who went after the Series clincher in a mound matchup against Orioles left-hander Dave McNally. "But I didn't say the first four. I just said four straight."

Koozman beat McNally 2-1 last Sunday at Baltimore, holding the Orioles hitless for six innings as the Mets squared the Series at one game apiece.

They won 5-0 Tuesday at Shea Stadium and then squeezed out a 2-1 10-inning victory Wednesday on Jerry Grote's pop fly double, pinch hitter J.C. Martin's sacrifice bunt and a throwing error by relief pitcher Pete Richert.

"I think we can beat 'em tomorrow," said Koozman, surrounded by newsmen in a corner of the surprisingly serene New York clubhouse after the Mets' third straight Series victory.

"I can't say I'm familiar with the Orioles' hitters because I've only faced them once so far. But they'll be more familiar to me than when I went out Sunday."

Koozman had a six-day layoff before facing the Orioles the first time. He felt more confident about today's start after taking his normal three days off between assignments.

"I should have better control now, and with better control I think I'll have better rhythm and more speed," he said.

The 1970 VW will stay ugly longer.

Just what hath Volkswagen wrought this year?

A longer-lasting engine, that's what.

It's more powerful than the old engine. (Top speed: 81 mph vs. 78 mph.)

It has better acceleration.

But most important, it doesn't have to work as hard to get you where you're going.

Thus, according to every calculation known to man, it will last even longer.

And just to make sure the engine and every other VW part leads a long, happy life, we have another surprise for 1970:

The Volkswagen Diagnostic Checkup.

Now before the name scares you away, listen to what it is:

VW Diagnosis is an exclusive service checkup by specially trained technicians using specially made diagnostic equipment.

The equipment is faster and more thorough than any mechanic alive. It's so advanced, it can actually tell you you have a problem early, before it becomes a real problem.

For instance, let's say the resistance in one of your spark plug wires is too high.

Nothing serious, but it could reduce your gas mileage and eventually foul up your spark plugs.

During a Diagnostic Checkup, our equipment can find and we can fix this problem in a matter of minutes.

When you buy a new VW, you're entitled to four of these advanced checkups free.

What could be a better deal than that?

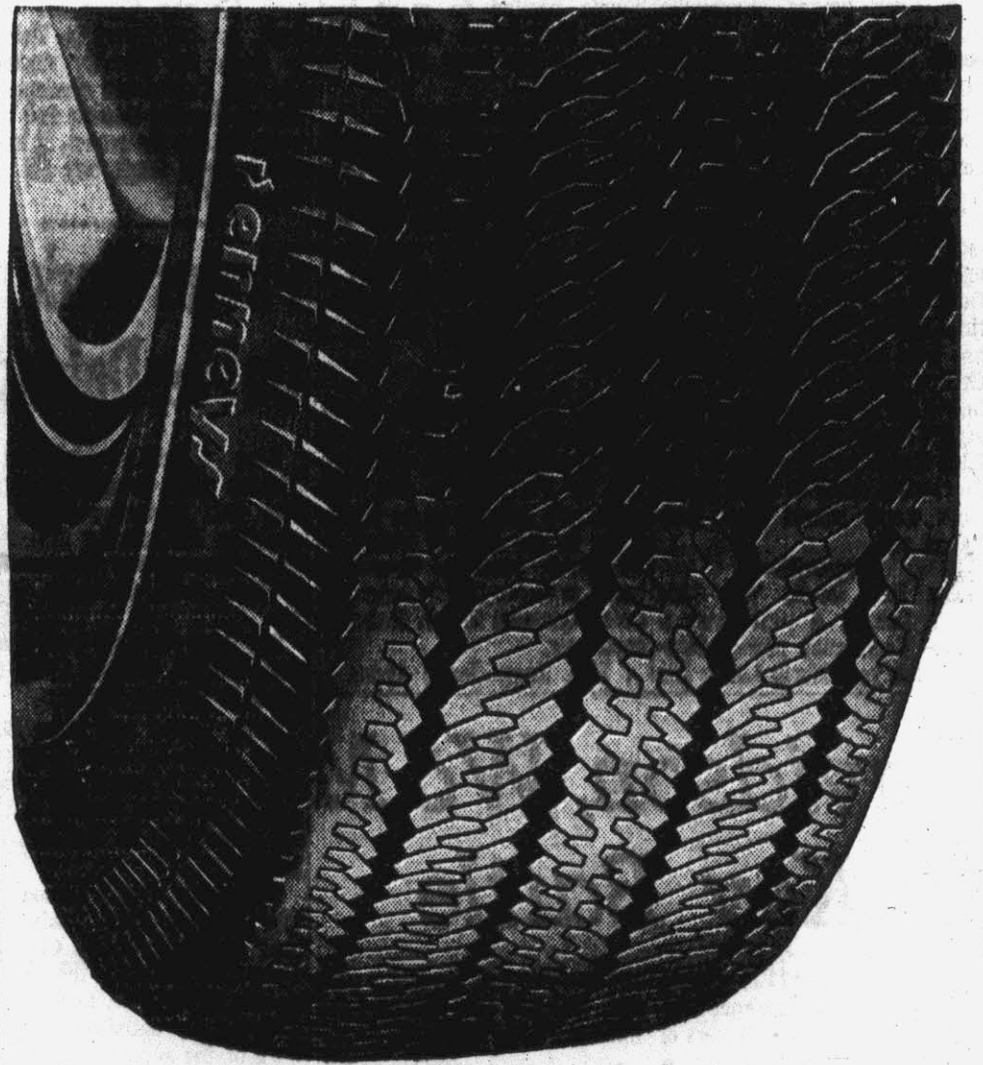

You buy a bug. We take care of the bugs.

District Ass'n Officers Elected

Joyner, Pattie Lewis, Peggy Dailey and Dee Jackson. Not pictured is Randall Worthington.

WINTERVILLE — Dee Jackson of Winterville was named president of the North Carolina High School Library Association's Northeastern District at the district's annual convention here yesterday.

The election of officers highlighted the afternoon session of the day-long meeting of the student organization.

Other officers chosen at the session included: Peggy Dailey of Roanoke Rapids, vice president; Pattie Lewis of Farmville, secretary; Reide Joyner, Farmville, treasurer; Susan Tucker, Winterville, parliamentarian; Barbara Powell of Winterville, reporter; and Randall Worthington, of Ayden, chaplain.

Jo Anne Martin of Winterville, the 1968-69 district president, presided at the meeting.

Judge Charles H. Whedbee of Greenville spoke to the group during the morning session.

He first thanked the students for being the fine Americans that they were. "You are an example that the American youth are not all hippies, pot smokers. . . but industrious citizens," he told the students.

"You will be running the show in a few years," Whedbee said. "You will be the establishment. You should be proud of your heritage as Tar Heels."

Whedbee reminded the students of the glorious historical heritage of Eastern North Carolina.

"Roanoke Island was a lifetime ahead of Plymouth Rock, the Edenton Tea Party was long before the Boston Tea Party, and the Halifax Resolves were set long before the Declaration of Independence was written," Whedbee pointed out.

He added, "Be proud of this heritage."

The NCHSLA is an organization of students who work in school libraries. Statewide, there are over 4,000 members of the group, making it the largest student organization in the state.

Counties included in the Northeastern District are: Pitt, Chowan, Bertie, Martin, Washington, Hertford, Gates, Camden, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Dare, Hyde, Tyrrell, Northampton, Halifax, Nash and Edgecombe.

Will Speak For Homecoming

FOUNTAIN — Dr. Raymond Brown, faculty dean of Southeastern Baptist Seminary at Wake Forest, will preach at Homecoming Day at Fountain Baptist Church Sunday.

The 11 a. m. worship service will be followed with dinner on the grounds unless inclement weather necessitates eating in the church fellowship hall. The church will provide soft drinks and barbecue and the other foods will be brought by church members.

DR. RAYMOND BROWN

Urge Year Of Cigarette Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public health officials from 28 nations have called for a year-long study on the effectiveness of health warnings to cigarette smokers, the Pan American Health Organization said Wednesday.

The organization said a resolution was adopted asserting that cigarette smoking should not be presented as harmless. The study, to be directed by the Pan American Sanitary Bureau, will also focus on what further can be done to warn of health hazards caused by cigarette smoking.

Stressing Games Instead Of Guns

CHICAGO (AP) — If Marvin Glass has his way, the toy market will emphasize fun instead of war come Christmas time.

Glass, one of the nation's leading toy designers does not condone war toys and refused to design any this year. Instead he's concentrating on family games such as "Toss Across" and "Ants in the Family."

Trio On Faculty In Who's Who

Three faculty members of the East Carolina University School of Nursing have been included in the sixth edition (1970-71) of Who's Who of American Women.

They are Dean Evelyn L. Perry, Mrs. Barbara A. Quiggins, associate professor of nursing and Mrs. Joanne L. Suggs, associate professor of nutrition.

These women were selected in accordance with the editorial policy which "seeks to foster — as well as recognize — public respect for the women who have carved unaccustomed niches in the occupational and civic world."

Named To Fill Highway Post

RALEIGH (AP) — George A. Brinkley will succeed Ivan Hardesty as assistant chief engineer for the North Carolina Highway Commission, effective Nov. 1.

The commission announced the appointment Wednesday and said Hardesty is retiring Oct. 31. Brinkley, a native of Wilmington, joined the commission in 1924 and is serving as state maintenance officer.

Hardesty joined the commission in 1928. He was one of four highway commission officials whose ouster was requested by Gov. Bob Scott a few weeks ago.

Coed Took 'Heartbreak Tour' In Brief Visit To War-Torn Biafra

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI)—Marianne Bock, a 22-year-old Reed college senior, has a story that will top any of her classmates' yarns about summer.

Marianne recently returned from a week in war-torn Biafra, where she inspected the relief program and saw the effects of the reduction in relief air-lifts.

Prior to her Biafran tour, Marianne spent a year in Lisbon studying. During her spare time she helped load food and medicine on relief flights that were then operating exclusively from the Portuguese capital.

Visited Biafra

She had a chance to visit the scene of the war with the German pastor under whom she was working in the Lisbon relief effort. She wrote some brief impressions of her experience in and around Owerri, Biafra's make-shift capital. Here are some excerpts:

"The children admitted to sick-bay are too weak to eat or even cry. Their small shriveled-up bodies shake with cold as they huddle together on their bamboo beds without blankets. Each successful (plane) landing means that hundreds of these children can be given three small meals a day for the next few days."

"Everywhere we go in Biafra we encounter gratitude for what is being done, again and again the fathers, doctors, missionaries and other relief workers assure us that they could do nothing without the airlift. But the needs are so great that what is being done seems like nothing in comparison with what must be done to save the children and mothers of Biafra from a slow and painful death by starvation."

"Refugees who carry all their possessions on their heads line the road to Owerri; in the pouring rain whole families are on the move in the hope of finding their former homes, but many houses have been damaged by shelling and most are overcrowded."

Refugee Life

"Other refugees occupy former school buildings. These refugees are not receiving any relief now; their only source of nourishment is the cassava or yam they have planted on the former school grounds."

"At the small maternity hospital at Mbiatoli we find the doctors and nurses working day and night to avert the lives of children, who would die without medical treatment. The doctors are saving a few more children because they are taking the blood from relatively healthy people for transfusions."

"It is hard to imagine the terrible suffering we have witnessed in the sick-bays, hospitals and refugee camps can be obscured by anything, but the most immediate fear of everyone in Biafra is the fear of air-raids and shelling from the front. When the front shifts to the disadvantage of the Biafrans, thousands of refugees who have just built a primitive shelter for themselves or planted a little cassava have to take to the road."

"As we all hope for a cease-fire, which will make massive relief possible, the war drags on. People no longer dare to predict when the war will be over, but if the airlift is not increased and no other means of bringing in relief is found one can begin to predict when there will be no more children in Biafra. As long as politicians continue to fail to find a political solution, we cannot deny these people our assistance."

The bidding:
North East South West
Pass 1 0 4 4 Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♠
When confronted with a choice of finesses and the opportunity to attempt only one of these, declarer may find himself subjected to considerable mental coin tossing. South in today's hand confined his anguish to the bare minimum by selecting a line of play that involved the least amount of guesswork.

East opened the bidding in second position with one diamond and South leaped directly to four spades. He held the values to attempt a game contract and resolved not to dally along the way.

West led the queen of hearts and South found himself in the dummy for the first and last time with finessing positions available in two suits. He could lead a club and play the queen from his hand in the hope that East had the king. Or, he could take a deep finesse of the ten, playing West for the king and East for the jack. Finally, he could lead a spade and finesse against the queen.

On the basis of the bidding it was rather difficult to place the adversely held honors in the black suits. But one thing was clear to South. Even if he was lucky enough to guess the location of the club honors, he would still have to lose two club tricks unless that suit was divided three-three which was somewhat against the odds.

On the other hand, if the spade finesse succeeded, he could afford to give up two club tricks and still make his contract. The four of spades was accordingly led at trick two and South put in the nine from his hand. When this held, he proceeded to draw the remaining trumps with the ace and king. Declarer next turned his attention to the club suit. He led the ace and a small club. When West's king appeared, South's queen became established for his 10th trick.

Observe that, inasmuch as the club honors were split, South could hold his losses in the suit to two tricks even though he was obliged to lead from his hand. Had he tried a club finesse from dummy, he would have lost two clubs even if he puts in the ten from his hand. This along with losers in spades and diamonds would have sent him down to defeat.

Horse Ownership Is Changing Our Living

By JOHN CUNIFF — NEW YORK (AP) — The salesman looked down his nose as the customer departed with a pair of jodhpurs, which the dictionary defines as "riding breeches cut full through the hips and close-fitting from knee to ankle."

"They come in," he said, "grab a pair of pants and don't even want to sit in the saddle to see if the length will be correct on the horse."

His tone was that of an English butler who had just been told that thenceforth his people no longer would dress for dinner. But his words conveyed another observation.

Was he saying that horses these days are for the common people as well as the horsey set? Indeed he was, and despite sharply better sales in recent years he couldn't smother the occasional flows of nostalgia for the old days.

As recently as 1959, when the latest federal horse census was taken, there were only 4.5 million of the species in the United States. Reliable estimates now place the population at 7.25 million, 85 per cent of which are saddle horses of 18 different breeds.

The American Horse Council figures that horses now provide some leisure time pleasure for nearly one-third of the nation's 200 million population, although that includes thoroughbreds and the betting thereon.

The industry seems to involve at least $7 billion a year, but Jay Stream, president of the International Arabian Horse Association, feels this figure is too low.

It is based, he says, on a low average value per horse of $150, plus the investment in horse breeding farms and an average cost per owner of $735 for feed, equipment and medical care.

Stream says that to this total must be added "the unknown millions of dollars spent on special riding clothing, horse trailers and campers, travel to and from horse shows, loading and so on." These expenses, he feels, add another $1 billion to estimates of the industry's size.

Stream's organization surveyed its members—whose horses, incidentally, average $2,500 in value and are increasingly popular—and found occupations that permit flexible hours were heavily represented.

Among the respondents, the most common occupations, naturally enough, were farming and ranching. Teachers, however, were the second most common, followed in orders by doctors and dentists, salesmen and the self-employed.

A surprise that emerged from the survey was the discovery that many owners of Arabian horses earn less than $10,000 a year and that perhaps 50 per cent of the owners have annual incomes of less than $15,000.

The changing patterns of life associated with horse ownership also was revealed by the survey. Nearly one-third of respondents, for example, replied that they must travel more than five miles to reach a riding trail.

In the good old days lamented by the jodhpur salesman, horseback riding was often a sport of the horsey set who live in horse country 20 miles or so from a big city, unusually in an area of rambling fields dotted with estates.

Building Costly Ariz. Highway

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona is building a $1,000-a-foot highway across a section of the state where it doesn't serve a single community or connect with a state road.

The road is the $32 million section of Interstate 15 through the spectacularly scenic Virgin River Gorge, 31 miles across the northwestern corner of the state.

The 3.8-mile gorge section will cost $14 million, believed to be the nation's most expensive interstate construction.

The route links Salt Lake City with Las Vegas, Nev. Utah wanted it so badly that it advanced Arizona $10 million from its federal road funds. However, eventually Arizona will foot the bill. Arizona's portion of the road will cost the state between $1.6 and $1.8 million, with the federal government paying the other 95 per cent.

Arizona would have preferred to locate the road three miles to the north, saving $5 million. But federal authorities picked the site because of its scenic beauty and lower grades for trucks.

A "swamp buggy" is the only vehicle that can travel through the gorge. Engineering was done by using the machine which has tires 5 feet high and 42 inches wide, and can travel over any obstacle.

The pilot and passenger walked away when a contractor's helicopter crashed into a canyon wall, but the helicopter had sunk from sight in quicksand the next day. A thunderstorm buried in sand a "duck" equipped with a drilling rig.

Any Arizonan wanting to ride on the highway when it's completed in 1972 will have to go to Las Vegas or St. George, Utah, to gain access to it.

Seek To Learn If TV Can Teach

NEW ORK (AP) — The Children's Television Workshop is conducting an $8-million experiment to find out whether or not television can teach kids, as well as hypnotize them.

The test is being made via a daily, hour-long educational series for preschool kids called "Sesame Street" which will be broadcast over 170 stations beginning Nov. 10. The Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J. will test the effectiveness of the show with children throughout its 26-week run.

Soviet Matches Are Educational, Inspirational And Unobtainable

By EDWARD J. SHIELDS MOSCOW (UPI)—The Russians are not about to set the world on fire—not with their matches, anyway.

Soviet matches are a socialist happening—inspirational, educational, and unobtainable. They are also the most successful attempt yet at the perfect safety match. They just don't light at all much of the time.

Questioned in a stern Pravda newspaper editorial about the recurrent match shortages and deficiencies, the deputy minister of the forest industry, Fedor Vakhrašin, gave the classic planned-economy replies:

—There will be lots of matches under the next five-year plan.

—The machine tool ministry has failed to supply the necessary machines.

Classic Come-On The classic come-on "anybody got a match?" would probably draw blank stares here. Nobody has.

"One cannot even buy matches in cigarette shops," Pravda complained.

It would take double-shifts in all the USSR's two dozen match factories to produce enough to meet the demand, A. Zolotov, director of giant state match enterprise in Kaluga, explained.

But the little match girls who make up most of the labor force are, as good Soviet citizens, studying in the evenings for better jobs. The employed wives don't want to work when their day-shift husbands are home and hungry.

Besides, Zolotov added, there's another difficulty: The labels.

In line with Soviet belief that everything printed must teach a lesson or instill a desirable emotion, matchbox labels are part of the policy line, like postage stamps.

A current series shows a variety of wooden shacks and drab apartments where Bolshevik founding father V.I. Lenin spent time in exile or refuge.

Summer Brighter The summer was brightened by a full-color label series of fearsome fungi "suitable for eating." These malformed mushrooms were hailed as "nature's gifts."

Smokers lucky enough to find matches also have absorbed the deeds of the "heroic Komsomol"—boys and girls of the Communist youth organization driving artillery wagons in the 1919 civil war, bringing in the harvest, building dams, and fighting with partisans in World War II.

Such labels, Zolotov said, just hold up production. "Our labeling machines fix only 40,000 labels a shift. But better machines exist which can do this in an hour," he said.

No one has explained what happens to the flimsy abrasive strips on the sides of the boxes, for striking the matches. Each box holds 50 matches. The capacity of the strips is about 30 normal scratches before the grit wears through.

Not Enough

The Soviet Union produces about 74 boxes of matches a year for every citizen. Officials admit it's not enough.

The two dozen match enterprises turn out a total of 17 million cases—of 1000 boxes each—in a year. The goal is 24-25 million cases by 1973.

Deputy Minister Vakhrašin said four of the largest match factories will be reorganized in the next year or two, and a new one will be built. But he admitted Pravda was right when it said the situation demanded not only double shifts but 100 new automated match-making machines.

"No more than 26 now are being constructed," Pravda said. "Where are the other 74?"

The deputy minister replied, "It will be possible to organize double shifts in the coming five-year plan. The problem of organizational leadership of staff now is being considered. But the Ministry of the Machine Tool Industry in 1969-1972 must produce more than 1,000 units of technical equipment and create a domestically-designed automatic match machine."

Meanwhile, anybody got a light?

'Better Bethel Bureau' Formed

BETHEL — A Better Bethel Bureau has been organized by a group of Bethel citizens who propose to make Bethel a better place in which to live, work and play.

Officers for the BBB are: E. E. Dennis, president; W. Jasper Smith, executive vice president; C. W. Everett and Mrs. Leighton Blount Jr., vice presidents; Frank Hemingway, secretary; J. M. Butterworth, treasurer; and Alvis Mewborn, special representatives of the merchants.

The Board of Directors includes: T. J. Dupree Jr., Mrs. Connell Garrenton, Walter Gray, Rev. Arthur Herron, Walter Latham, D. E. Perry, D. O. Speir, Hilton Tetterton, W. Cadet Whitehurst and Robert Young.

The Better Bethel Bureau is a combination of a chamber of commerce, booster's club and a merchants association.

First projects proposed by the group include a general face-lifting of the town and renovations on the business and residential buildings. The cleaning up of vacant lots and other areas will also be planned. Streets, sidewalks, utilities, public services and other areas will receive attention.

The group proposes to seek new industry for Bethel in addition to providing more and better homes, playgrounds and other facilities for its citizens.

No Law Aainst Nude Neighbors

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — If nude neighbors annoy you, you should build a higher fence.

That's what sunbather James A. Koch told his neighbor Troy J. Morris recently, and Prosecutor Keith Sorenson of San Mateo County agreed.

Refusing Morris' complaint Tuesday against Koch for outraging public decency, Sorenson noted that the backyard fence between the two homes was difficult to see through or over.

"Nudity of itself is not against the law in your own back yard," Sorenson said.

Just One Shock After Another

ST. CATHERINE'S POINT, Isle of Wight (UPI)—Dr. Charles Vaughan, 53, smashed his 30-foot boat on the rocks.

When he scrambled up the shore to safety, he stumbled into a nudists' colony.

The nudists revived him.

Giving Private Eyes A Bad Name

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Bogus private eyes have given the profession "a most people posing as investigators in South Africa have been a layman's knowledge of the country's laws," said F. Touhkin, president of the Council. The council called for regularization and control of freelance detectives after the conviction of an investigator who broke a window to take photographs of a couple as evidence in a divorce case.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

It's Here!

What's here?
The Beetle!
The What?

Volkswagen's Beetle for 1970—Better-than-ever But still looks the same as all previous bugs Really?

Yes, the Beetle now has a 57 horsepower engine for greater response and more rapid acceleration in the lower ranges of its four-speed synchromesh transmission.

And in an effort to reduce auto thefts, the '70 Beetle is equipped with a buzzer which signals a warning to the motorist if he begins to leave his car without removing the ignition key.

Not to mention the standard equipment such as the electric rear window defoggers and defrosters, a convertible rear seat which quickly turns into a flat platform, front bucket seats with contoured back rests that adjust for individual comfort.

Yea, but it's still ugly.

Come by for a demonstration drive and see for yourself at

Heavy activity is reported on most Pitt County grain buying stations this morning and a general increase in corn prices has resulted. Soybeans are starting to come in with the special Dare variety selling at a five cent premium price above regular varieties. The special variety is marketed for immediate shipment.

The first real fall harvesting weather is bringing more farmers to market with grain and peak marketing and harvesting activity is expected the rest of this week and next. Following are 11 a.m. per bushel price quotes.

Greenville: yellow corn, $1.22 up; wheat, $1.12; oats, $.62; soybeans, $2.30—steady.
Ayden: yellow corn, shell, $1.22—up; ear corn, $1.12; regular soybean, $2.30; Dare variety, $2.35.
Winterville: yellow corn, shell, $1.22—up; ear corn, $1.12.
Farmville: yellow corn, $1.22—up.
Bethel: yellow corn, shell, $1.22—holding; ear corn, $1.05.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market advances of individual issues held a substantial margin over declines, but the averages showed only minor change today.
At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.65 to 831.71.
The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was up .9 to 291.9, with industrials up 1.1, rails up .6, and utilities up .6.
Advances by New York Stock Exchange issues led declines by 688 to 454.
Trading was moderate, but an increasing number of big blocks began crossing the ticker tape. Analysts said the profit taking that developed Wednesday after the big advances Monday and Tuesday was continuing. But they said it was to be expected in the wake of such a strong gain.

Mail order-retails, farm implements, oils and drugs were mostly higher. Steels, motors and aircrafts were generally lower.

Among the most-active issues on the American Stock Exchange, Equity Corp. advanced ¼ to 5½, Inflight Pictures rose 1 to 15½, Poloron gained 1% to 24¼, VTR declined 1 to 18¾.

Reaffirmation

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Supreme Court today reaffirmed previous decisions that a juvenile is not entitled to a jury trial nor to a public trial when tried in juvenile court on the question of delinquency.

The high court also upheld the constitutionality of state laws dealing with juveniles.

The court did this as it modified and affirmed the disposition of the cases of 46 Negro juveniles in Hyde County last January. They were accused of blocking a public highway during civil rights demonstrations.

Judge Hallett Ward ordered the children placed in correctional institutions but suspended this sentence on several conditions, including a requirement that they not violate any state laws for 12 months, that they be home by 11 p.m. every night and that they attend school.

Girl 'Terrified' In Kidnaping

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP)—A pretty 17-year-old blonde nursery school assistant says a kidnaper kept her terrified during a 300-mile ride up the California coast by brandishing two knives.

"I was scared to death," said miniskirted Kristine Anderson, found bound and gagged but unharmed Wednesday night in a Little League ball park on the grounds of a state hospital.

The kidnaper was believed by police to be a man who escaped Saturday while being held in the Santa Maria jail for investigation of two Pasadena holdups and a robbery-kidnap in Albuquerque, N.M.

"He had two kitchen knives, a big one and a small one," Kristine told newsmen.

The girl was discovered by a guard at the state prison-hospital complex. The kidnaper sped off in a car when the guard approached to see why it was parked in an unauthorized area.

The kidnaper was believed to be driving a station wagon belonging to Beth Peters, operator of the Peter Pan Nursery School in Arroyo Grande where Kristine worked part-time.

Mrs. Peters and a cook, Matilda Visser, were left bound in a closet Tuesday morning when the man kidnaped Kristine and took the car.

Robert Allen Harvey, 31, was sought by the FBI on a warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid confinement.

The Star Spangled Banner was designated with National Anthem Act by Congress March 3, 1931.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — September brought the smallest rise in personal income in 17 months, and government economists cautiously hailed the news as a signal inflation is lessening.

Personal income—the collective total of business and individual incomes before taxes—was $759.8 billion in September, the Commerce Department said Wednesday.

That is a gain of $2.3 billion over August, the smallest month-to-month increase since April, 1968, and less than half the average monthly jump in the first eight months of this year.

Government economists said the apparent slackening could be due to unforeseen factors, but seemed to favor the idea that the report, plus others recently, point to a slowing of the nation's inflationary spiral.

Pleads Guilty To Phoned Threats

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A Charlotte man pleaded guilty Wednesday to making a telephone threat to kill President Nixon.

U.S. District Judge Wilson O. Warlick gave Charles Eugene Hearn, 37, a two-year suspended sentence and placed him on three-year probation with several conditions.

Hearn was accused of making the threatening call to FBI headquarters in Charlotte last May 21. U.S. Secret Service Agent John H. Grimes Jr. testified that investigation of the case revealed Hearn had made a similar threat against President Lyndon Johnson in 1966. At that time, the government declined to prosecute him.

After evidence revealed that Hearn had a serious drinking problem, Judge Warlick passed sentence and stipulated that Hearn work regularly, not drink alcoholic beverages, be of good behavior and make no further threats to "whomever might be President of the United States."

Grimes said investigation showed Hearn bore no animosity to Nixon and had no intention of harming him.
"I'm very ashamed of myself," said Hearn, a Charlotte chemical company employee.

Hanoi Sets Out Its Conditions

PARIS (AP) — The North Vietnamese told two American wives they won't release any American prisoners of war until all U.S. troops leave Vietnam, the wives said Wednesday night.

Sue Shuman and Martha Doss of Virginia Beach, Va., said the North Vietnamese advised them they could speed their husbands' release by demonstrating against the war.

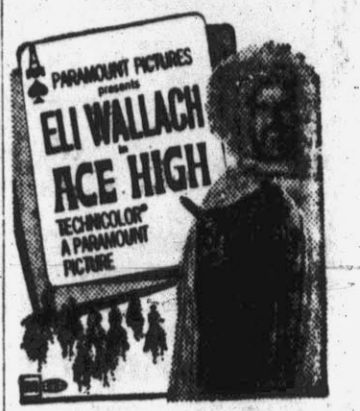

Mrs. Doss and Mrs. Shuman, accompanied by the latter's mother-in-law, Mrs. B.C. Boeckeler, met for an hour and 15 minutes Wednesday with two members of North Vietnam's delegation to the Paris peace talks. They said they came away very disappointed.
