The bidding:
East South West North
1♠ 2♥ Pass 4♥

Opening lead: Four of ♠
Faulty technique led to declarer's downfall in today's hand. East opened the bidding with one spade and South overcalled with two hearts. North raised his partner directly to game inasmuch as his hand was worth 13 points in support of hearts and South was presumed to have the equivalent of an opening bid himself in order to warrant a vulnerable overcall at the two level.
West opened the four of spades and the ace was played from dummy. The queen of hearts was put thru for the trump finesse. East ducked the first round, but he covered the jack with the king and declarer played the ace as West discarded a diamond. The deuce of clubs was led to North's jack, so that a finesse could be taken against East's nine of hearts. One more round of hearts finally exhausted East's trump holding.

South cashed the ace of clubs, but when East showed out, it was revealed that the suit was hopelessly blocked. Declarer was obliged to overtake the queen of clubs with North's king in order to make a diamond play for his 10th trick. When the king of diamonds lost to West's ace, South conceded a one trick setback.

Declarer committed an error when he led a small club to dummy's jack. Better technique would have been to play the queen of clubs from his hand and overtake with dummy's king. If the suit divides three-two, he can afford to use up two honors on the same trick. The unblocking play gains when West has four clubs to the ten. South subsequently cashes the ace and, when East shows out, declarer leads the deuce that he has retained, finesses North's nine and runs the suit. He takes five clubs, five hearts, and the ace of spades to score an overtrick.

Gasoline Tanker Blast Injured Five Persons

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A gasoline tanker explosion rocked the Mercy Hospital area Thursday night. Five persons were injured, none critically, in the fire which shot flames 20 feet high and engulfed the 80,000-gallon tanker.
The fire took several hours to control.

Guy Moore Jr. of suburban Charlotte was unloading his Harmony Transportation Co. tanker at Larry's Radiator Service and filling station when he noticed gasoline overflowing.

He shut off the valve, shouted for the people in the station to stop smoking, grabbed a hose, and began wetting down the gasoline.
Within seconds there was an explosion in the rear section of the three-section tanker. Just then the persons in the station were walking out the front door within a few feet of the tanker. Policeman D. Dennis said a natural gas flame in the radiator repair shop might have ignited the gasoline.

Larry Helms, the operator of the station, was treated at the Mercy Hospital a block away for a laceration on the forehead.
Driver Moore was treated for superficial burns on the face and hands.
Pat Benfield, who was in the station, was admitted to Presbyterian Hospital, also nearby. He had burns on the neck and face.
Asst. Fire Chief W. Otis Dowdy, who was supervising operations, slipped and fell on the mixture of gasoline, water and foam, and broke his left arm.
Another fireman was taken away on a stretcher after he complained of a wrenched back.

Three Injured In Two Collisions

Three persons were reported injured here yesterday in two traffic collisions that resulted in an estimated $1,250 property damage to the vehicles involved.

Greenville police said heaviest damage resulted in an 8:50 a.m. collision on U.S. 264 bypass 700 feet west of the Greenville Drive intersection and involved cars driven by Dwight Paul Howell, 22, of 201 Greenwood Dr. and Gwendolyn Fitz-Curtis of Kingston.

Officers, who charged Mrs. Curtis with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety, reported she was injured in the mishap.
Damage was set at $500 to the Howell car and $350 to the Curtis vehicle.
Michael Taylor Beacham, 19, of Route 3, Washington was charged with having improper lighting following investigation of a 7:05 p.m. wreck on Fifth Street, 50 feet east of the Washington Street intersection.
Officers said the Beacham car collided with an auto being driven by Robert George Morse, 19, of 951 Shady Lane, causing an estimated $100 damage to the Beacham vehicle and about $300 damage to the Morse car.
Police said two passengers in the Beacham car were injured.

Conducted by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, the seminar was given as a training service for state and local police. Agents also stressed search and seizure during drug-related investigations. Various forms of drugs in use throughout the United States including marijuana were discussed.

Miss Cynthia Baxley Weds Sunday Afternoon

COLUMBUS, Ga.—Miss Cynthia Baxley became the bride of Ronald Hugo Williams on Sunday at 3:00 p. m. in the Main Post Chapel at Fort Benning, Ga.

Chaplain Holland Hope officiated at the ceremony. Wedding music was presented by the chapel organist.

The background of the chapel was decorated with standing baskets of white gladioli and mums flanked by candelabra tied with greenery. Pews were marked with white satin bows. The aisle was covered with a white runner rolled out for the wedding party.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Edna Baxley of Columbus, Ga., and Mr. William Edward Baxley of El Paso, Tex., and Mr. and Mrs. Hugo L. Williams of Greenville, N.C.

The bride, given in marriage by her cousin, William G. Cooke of Columbus, Ga., wore a formal length gown of silk organza. The gown featured an empire waistline, long Bishop sleeves and an A-line skirt. The bodice and sleeves were of chiffon appliqued with small chintilly lace flowers with centers of hand-sewn seed pearls. The full chapel length train was caught at the waistline under a Dior bow of organza.

Her chapel length veil of illusion was attached to a double crown re-embroidered with lace and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and carnations centered with a white yellow-throated orchid.

Mrs. William Allen Arnold of Columbus, Ga., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Sharon Rayley and Miss Barbara Smith, all of Columbus, Ga.

They wore floor length gowns of yellow brocade with matching yellow veils. Their bouquets were of yellow roses and white carnations with yellow satin streamers.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were James Kenneth Williams, Steven C. Williams, brother of the bridegroom, and Cameron Langley Smith of Chapel Hill.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Main Officer's Open Mess.

After a wedding trip to the mountains, the couple will reside in Rocky Mount.

Parents Aren't Responsible For The Dress Of Children

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We have a 19-year-old son who causes us untold embarrassment by insisting, despite our pleas, on wearing loud, hippie-type clothes to dressy occasions such as weddings, parties, and church services.

Is there some way we can explain to our son that certain occasions demand normal attire? Are there other parents among your readers who have the same problem?

EMBARRASSED
DEAR EMBARRASSED: A 19-year-old is too big to be dressed by his mother. Parents could spare themselves much "embarrassment" if they realized that they are not responsible for the dress or conduct of their adult offspring. We waste a lot of energy worrying about "what the neighbors think"—when the neighbors aren't even home!

DEAR ABBY: Every time a letter appears in your column from someone who HATES cigarettes, and puts down cigarette smokers, my husband accuses me of writing it. You had such a letter in your column recently and since I got the "credit" for writing it, even tho I didn't, I am now putting in my two cents worth.

I'll put it in the form of a letter:
DEAR ABBY: If all your lovely new furniture already has cigarette burns in it, and your husband always smells like he's been fighting a fire in a tobacco warehouse, and the smell of stale tobacco on his breath kills all inspiration for romance, are THOSE sufficient grounds for divorce?

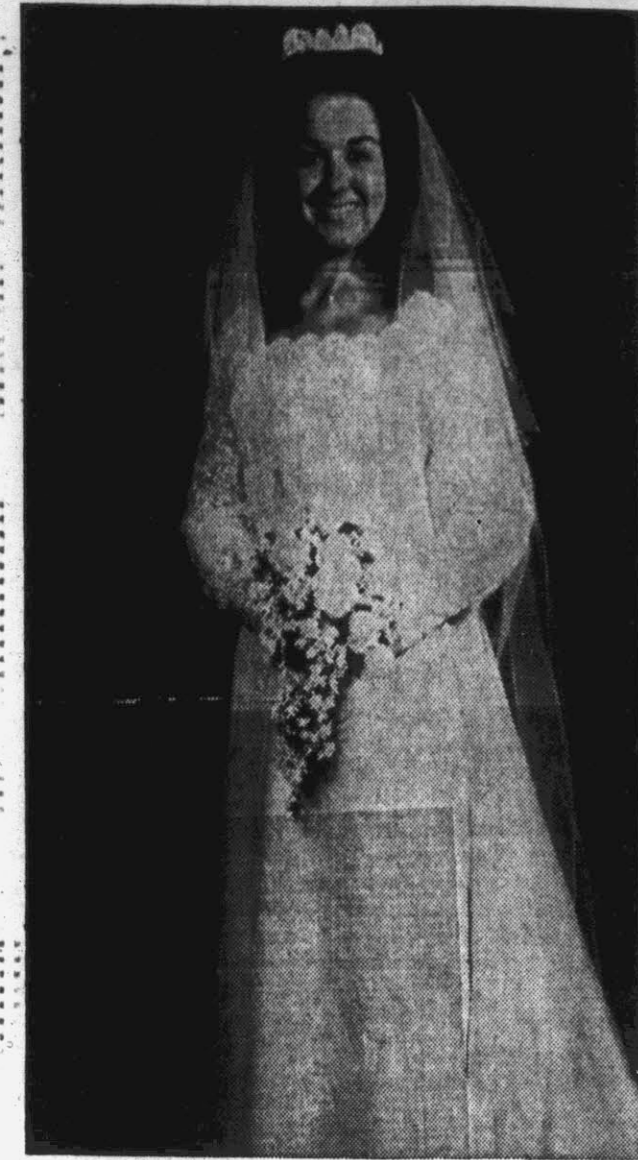

My husband's KISSES taste terrible. He is a very affectionate man, and he KNOWS how I feel about his smoking because I have told him that that is the reason for my holding out in the romance department, so WHY in Heaven's name does he continue to smoke?

HOLDING OUT
DEAR HOLDING OUT: Because your husband, poor slave, is "hooked" and thus far has been unable to kick the habit. But I don't recommend the

Gas Main Inspection Is Important

Despite the expense, it is comforting to know that the Utilities Commission carries on a regular program of checking its gas mains for leaks.

Contracts calling for the work this year were awarded by the commission this week. It will cost $2,050 to check the gas mains by a new and more efficient method. This year, also, a quarter of the system's service lines will be checked. In four years all service lines, leading from the street to the customer's meter, will have been checked for leaks.

The commission has been carrying out an annual program of having its gas mains inspected for leaks for several years. This year new procedures will mean that the checks are more thorough than ever before.

Gas is a safe fuel so long as it is contained in the mains and pipes which transport it and it is used properly in the customer's appliances. However a major leak in a gas main could prove disastrous. So it is important that the mains be checked regularly to see that this does not occur.

Funds spent by the commission for checking the mains is money well spent.

Road Construction Is One Way To Convince

One way the North Carolina government can show the people that the increased gas tax was needed is to get long awaited highway projects underway.

The tax increases have come in for considerable criticism from Republicans and other sources recently, and the party which increases taxes is always vulnerable to such criticism.

None of us enjoy paying the additional two cents per gallon tax which was placed on gasoline by the last Legislature. On the other hand there is hardly a motorist in the state who does not realize that road construction is going to have to be stepped up if we are to solve some of our traffic problems.

There should be no delay in putting to use the additional money brought in by the gas tax increase. If the administration wants to convince the public that the tax was needed, the best way to do it is to get road construction moving.

N.C. Economy Reports Cloudy

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — A number of broad economic indicators and reports both state, regional and national began arriving early this month presenting a hazy picture at best.

One report by consumer finance groups said signs of an economic downturn are beginning to emerge. Nationally, according to this report, the sales outlook has been dropping from a three year pack reached last winter and early Spring.

In North Carolina, however, Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. published its business index showing that attempts to slow the nation's economy appear to be having minimal effect in the state.

food price index reported by BLS was up approximately nine per cent over 1967.

Other indications are reported in a survey of consumer buying expectations. New automobiles remain fairly strong but there was a sharp decline in the index of expected house purchases. And the survey reported implications that consumers expect their total outlays on such items as furniture, television sets and appliances to increase but expect to get fewer items for their money.

News — At Gov. Bob Scott's news conference the other day there were no less than nine television cameras trained on the chief executive.

In addition to the cameramen there were approximately 20 newsmen representing various media and another 10 cameramen shooting stills or movie film. Of course the place was buzzing.

Formal news conferences are held in a spacious auditorium in the Administration building. It is carpeted, hung with drapery for best acoustical effects and is well-lighted.

Planes — There is some guessing about whether state officials will attempt to name the new airplanes being added to and replacing some older aircraft in state service.

Delivery is to be made on two this month. One is a 13 passenger Grumman Gulfstream prop-jet which is to replace the "Carolina Cardinal," a DC-3 once owned by entertainer Arthur Godfrey. The "Carolina Cardinal" was obtained several years ago and replaced a smaller executive type plane which was called "The Kitty Hawk."

In addition, the Department of Conservation is also buying a small twin-engine executive airplane for $226,900 from a Kansas City firm. The plane normally will seat five passengers.

The Highway Commission is buying a new aerial photo plane for $226,900.

The "Carolina Cardinal" is being sold to a News Bern air service for $20,001.

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

The Wachovia index registered the ninth consecutive month of increase. The measurement figures for August were up by 7.9 per cent over the same month a year ago.

Rises — The Bureau of Labor Statistics meanwhile calculates an average increase in consumer prices of 10 per cent from 1967 to 1969.

Ranges varied for 25 major metropolitan areas from nine to more than 12 per cent. The

Strength For Today

What is the secret of all intellectual and moral growth? That can be answered in one sentence. The secret of all intellectual and moral growth abides in the capacity for self-criticism. If a person lacks that, he lacks the initial means by which the learning process begins.

Many people believe that the way to gain wisdom is by becoming highly skeptical toward everything universally accepted as true. There is a certain virtue in this, but what we need most to become skeptical about is ourselves, our own wisdom, our valiantly defended conclusions.

In the field of morals, we never get anywhere until we stop criticizing others and begin criticizing ourselves.

Many Decisions At Crossroads

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — Quite obviously, these are times when America and its students and parents and clergy and businessmen and politicians are wrestling with conflict and conscience, with problems, paradoxes, enigmas and anachronisms.

Unable to remain neutral and balanced uncertainly upon a dilemma, groups everywhere are facing the bitter unpleasant facts, choosing a course, and plunging ahead.

The Pope and the bishops, Congress and the judiciary, the Mets and Orioles, the consumer and business, the hawks and the doves, the free-loaders and the workers, the tax dodgers and reformers, the realists and romantics—all in conflict.

In the realm of business and the economy, therefore, there is no monopoly on problems, nor are the decisions any more difficult to make. But this should not obscure the fact that they are there, bigger than ever before.

Some executives are being forced to make the most momentous decisions of their careers, for after nearly a decade when the only course was to move ahead, the economy now is at a crossroads.

Should automakers, for example, place their faith in a continued boom by revving up their production lines? Or should they play it safe, retrench, avoid capital commitments—and possibly risk tremendous losses in sales?

The biggest economic decision today must be made by President Nixon and his advisers. They must decide when the critical time arrives in their slowdown program—the point beyond which recession lies ahead.

This puts the President in a position similar to that of the rear wheelman on the hook-and-ladder. A little pressure on the wheel results in a great big turn; and the turn doesn't come immediately—it's delayed.

But the President's situation is even worse. The wheelman really knows what to expect. But nobody has ever measured exactly what to expect from economic decisions. They can't, for too many human factors are involved.

The American economy simply is not an input-output machine. The ingredients put into the economy at the front do not always produce the same sausage at the other end. Not when human beings influence every step in the process.

The President's problem is compounded by this human dimension. A slowdown means job losses, no matter that the earlier propaganda led people to believe differently. And job losses mean personal misery and social unrest.

The most miserable aspect of any increase in joblessness is that those least able to afford a layoff are the very ones that receive the bad news.

One way to avoid the unpleasantness is to compromise, to lift the slowdown program just a bit—enough to induce sluggishness but not enough to create a sudden rise in unemployment.

Should this be done, however, the original problem of inflation would remain, sapping energy from incomes gradually but just as certainly as a more heavy-handed approach.

This, then, is the difficult decision that the Nixon people are facing:

To continue the slowdown policies at the expense of jobs and houses and in the face of a growing threat of recession. Or to relax the restraints on the economy and face the possibility of an erosive inflation for years to come.

Without a doubt Richard Nixon is conceding nothing to the other individuals and groups who must decide unequivocally in these confused times, for he is in that rear seat on the hook-and-ladder. A big turn is coming up at the crossroads and he isn't sure that the wheel is working well.

Back in 1963, the North Vietnamese were on the ropes. Captured enemy documents showed they were ready to sue for peace, and the United States was discussing methods of making Hanoi pay for its aggression.

But at that moment McIntosh showed up with a picket sign at the White House which said, "Get out of Vietnam." Unfortunately, he was photographed and the picture was transmitted to Hanoi.

Hanoi said, "Why should we make peace on unfavorable terms when McIntosh is urging the Americans to get out?"

In 1964 President Johnson decided to bomb North Vietnam to bring Hanoi to its senses. The bombing, as everyone knows, was extremely successful, and once again North Vietnam was ready to throw in the towel.

Selwyn, Just Shut Up

WASHINGTON — When President Nixon took his oath of office, he asked everybody in the United States to lower their voices. Now he wants everyone to shut up.

Secretary Rogers on Meet the Press said that President Nixon cannot negotiate a peace in Paris because of the critics in the United States.

There is probably a lot to be said for this argument. It is not generally known, but the man most responsible for holding up peace in Vietnam is Selwyn McIntosh. Selwyn McIntosh, a shoe salesman from Brookley, has been a critic of the Vietnam war since 1963. His outspoken statements concerning our involvement in that part of the world have given aid and comfort to Hanoi, and it is now an undisputed fact that if McIntosh had kept his big mouth shut, we would have won the war six years ago.

Back in 1963, the North Vietnamese were on the ropes. Captured enemy documents showed they were ready to sue for peace, and the United States was discussing methods of making Hanoi pay for its aggression.

In 1964 President Johnson decided to bomb North Vietnam to bring Hanoi to its senses. The bombing, as everyone knows, was extremely successful, and once again North Vietnam was ready to throw in the towel.

But McIntosh wrote a letter to his local newspaper urging the United States to stop the bombing. The letter was printed, a neutral diplomat sent it to Ho Chi Minh, and Ho decided that despite the bombing he would stick to his guns, as Mr. Johnson did not have the support he claimed.

President Johnson was angered by McIntosh throwing the wrench into his peace plans, and he told intimates that McIntosh's criticism was treasonable and a disgrace. To show that he wasn't going to be intimidated by McIntosh, the President ordered more troops into Vietnam.

body counts mounted, and military intelligence indicated that the North Vietnamese couldn't hold out for very much longer. The President told Dean Rusk to get ready to accept Hanoi's surrender.

But McIntosh was getting his intelligence from the newspapers, and these accounts differed wildly from those of the military. So at a large cocktail party he announced that the military was lying about their successes.

A Viet Cong agent happened to be working at the party as a waiter, and he reported what McIntosh had said. He immediately canceled any plans he had to meet with Dean Rusk, and another year for peace was lost.

A year later elections were held in South Vietnam. The winners were Thieu and Ky, and the losers were jailed. This put Hanoi into a depression until McIntosh told a friend on the phone that the elections were rigged in favor of the Thieu government. McIntosh's phone happened to be tapped by the FBI, and somehow Hanoi got a transcript of the tape. When they read what McIntosh had said, Hanoi held a meeting and

He calls it sentiment. I call it clutter.

One day, when he was safely at work, I decided to make a dent in the old newspapers nestled on closet shelves along with old scrapbooks and letters he wrote his parents from camp.

I had just gotten down some 50 pounds worth chronicling such events as the start of World War II when he walked, home early for the first time in months. "What," he demanded accusingly, "do you have those out for?"

I thought fast. "I've developed a sudden interest in ancient history," I said. "I was going to look through these and see if they really told it like it was."

He's keeping an even sharper eye on the wastebasket these days. The only way I'll be able to get rid of those papers is to chew them up and swallow them.

President Nixon has said the current war moratorium will not sway his policies in Vietnam, where he feels some progress is being made and in which the Nation needs to stand united to achieve maximum cooperation from Allies in an early end to the conflict.

Meanwhile the so-called moratorium has spread to the Nation's universities and colleges as well as into most of the large cities. It is nationwide in scope and there are many divergent opinions relative to the importance and significance of such a widespread plea for a moratorium on war.

The President has to look at the whole picture. He is well aware that his election and the nation-wide desire to be done with a land war commitment in Vietnam is uppermost in the minds of most Americans today. As he says no new information can come out of the Wednesday moratorium effort. He asks for unity and support in a desire to keep the Reds from misreading the protests and criticisms hurled daily at the Nixon administration.

Most intelligent Americans will agree that protest for the sake of protest is limited in its possible achievements. If the people who want to have their say on war and how to end it would allow a reasonable period for implementation of policies now being pushed by the President, we believe the objective of peace would be advanced faster than by their current activities.

The President does will to stand firm on policy, because he represents all Americans who want an honorable and speedy end to the war—not just those who are most vocal about it in this week's so-called moratorium.

Issue Number Eight

By JOY STILLEY
NEW YORK (AP) — There are seven basic problems that lead to marital conflict, a New Jersey marriage counselor reports: children, sex, alcohol, in-laws, religion, housekeeping and finances.

Although she seems to have covered the subject pretty well, she has failed to touch on the basic problem in our household: who is going to run the wastebasket concession.

It's easier to sneak narcotics through customs than to sneak anything out of our house into the garbage can.

My husband has a distinct reverence for age. I'm not talking merely of his fondness for me but of his refusal to throw out anything that has been in his possession even briefly.

If I discard something when it is fairly new only a small reprimand ensues. But if anything has been around as long as a week it takes on all the value of a rare antique and my misdemeanor becomes a felony.

"You're not throwing out our dear little baby's teething ring," my hoarding husband says in horror. "Why, we've had that for years!"

Indeed we have. Since our dear little baby is now in college and chewing on her fingernails rather than a small plastic circle, I doubt if there's much of a future for that particular item. But it's small, so I retrieve it from the trash with only a minimum of argument.

However the 20-year-old television set is big enough to fight for—or against. It has a seven-inch screen but is bulkier than modern ones with screens more than twice that size. For 15 years it's been stuffed into the garage, along with trunks of books, electric train sets from my husband's boyhood, cans of dried-up paint and rusty nails.

But this was one of the first TVs made, the family collector insists. It's a museum piece.

So is the watch with no hands, no crystal and no stem his parents gave him when he graduated from junior high. So is the red metal dump truck with most of the paint scratched off he had as a child. So is the broad-brimmed hat from his Boy Scout days. But to date the Smithsonian Institution hasn't expressed much interest.

He calls it sentiment. I call it clutter.

One day, when he was safely at work, I decided to make a dent in the old newspapers nestled on closet shelves along with old scrapbooks and letters he wrote his parents from camp.

This discouraged President Johnson so much that he decided not to run again. Walt Rostow bitterly accused McIntosh of being the one person chiefly responsible for our disastrous policy in Vietnam.

Now President Nixon is faced with dealing with McIntosh. He sent Secretary of State Rogers personally to see McIntosh and beg him to hold his tongue until some agreement could be reached in Paris. But McIntosh, true to form, was out Wednesday shouting for us to pull out of Vietnam. The Hanoi negotiators in Paris, who were ready to agree to any terms, were just informed of McIntosh's latest protest and have decided on the basis of it to remain firm.

Love is Best

Sue and Lee were only names to me when I first saw their picture. Incredible — that the children I now mother tenderly, once were strangers!

It seems only yesterday Dan wrote he was bringing them home. How frantic I was with worry and self-doubt. Could I love, as my own, children with slanted eyes and tinted skins? Would I fail them? Could I fulfill Dan's faith in me? We had been longing for children, true — but not foreigners!

In desperation, I called my pastor. Calmly and with understanding, he spoke to me of God's love as the common denominator of all nationalities.

And so from the moment I saw them, Sue and Lee have been our own, bringing laughter and joy without measure.

How grateful I am for God and His Church and the wisdom they teach—in Christ there is no East nor West. Without this truth my arms might still be empty.

Author Is Guest Of Honor Here At Greenville Writers Group Meeting

Miss Jo Sykes, author of "Leashed Lightning" and other juvenile books written for the mid-teen group, was guest of honor at the weekly meeting of the Greenville Writer's Group held Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. John Casey.

Miss Sykes, from Livingston, Montana, states this is her first trip to the East coast. "I brought my mother to visit her alma mater, Randolph Macon College in Virginia. We are also attending a dog-obedience show, and seeing friends along the way."

In Greenville, she is visiting a former Montana resident, Mrs. Helen Parks.

Miss Sykes loves the outdoors in Montana and bases her books on her adventures in hiking, horseback riding and on her past work. "For ten years I was a cowhand on a Montana ranch. I don't use the term cow girl, that's strictly a Hollywood term," she said. "In the ten years I worked on the ranch, I did things any cowhand is expected to do, change cattle from one pasture to another, help in de-horning and branding cows, just about anything which needed doing."

Her current horse is named Justyn. "I named the horse after a friend of mine. When I bought the horse, a wild unbroken one, I noticed on the bill of sale it belonged to the father of a school mate of mine, a girl named Justyn, so I decided on the spur of the moment to name the horse for my former schoolmate."

Last summer Miss Sykes worked as a mail carrier in the Yellowstone National Park. "Livingston is one of the gates to the park," she added.

Since publication of her first juvenile book, "The Stubborn Mare," in 1957, she has had five others published—"Saddle A Thunderbolt," "Chip On His Shoulder," "Trouble Creek," "Wolf-Day At Ambush Canyon," and her latest, "Leashed Lightning."

"Actually, all these are in a sense autobiographical," Miss Sykes remarked. "Although many of the events are fictionalized, there is a personal basis for much of what I've written."

An illustrator and artist, she designed the jacket for

"Saddle A Thunderbolt."

All of her books are action filled ones, with lots of suspense. "Fashions change," she commented, "but children in this age group—and I believe most people, still like like lots of suspense and action when it comes to reading."

As she is active in training dogs for dog-obedience purposes, dogs as well as horsets play an important part in her juvenile novels.

Referring to her impressions of the east coast, Miss Sykes remarked, "You have some very lovely country here, but I feel much safer in the mountains and canyons of sparsely settled Montana. The traffic in Washington, D.C. terrified me."

The Greenville Writer's Group is an informal gathering of persons interested in writing. It was started several weeks ago by Mrs. John (Betty) Casey, a free-lance article writer, now living in Greenville. Meetings have been held at her home each Tuesday night for the past couple of months—it was changed to Wednesday night for this past week only.

Among those who have taken part in these meetings, in which materials written by those attending are read and discussed from a critical standpoint, are Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Hendrix, Sister Julianne, Charles Griffin, Tom Jackson, Meighan Johnson, Mrs. Helen Parks, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Raynor, all of Greenville; and Mrs. C. G. Garrenton, Mrs. David Speir, and Mrs. Walter Latham, all of Bethel.

Persons interested in participating in this writer's group or wanting further information are asked to call Mrs. Casey at 758-2245.

(1) This may come as a shock to you, but we have a ten year contract with State Bank, so Ace Advertising Agency goes with the deal. Right?

(2) I realize you probably have your own agency, although I don't know how long you are tied up with them.

However, I might be able to give you a pretty good deal, if I were able to take over all of your advertising throughout the state, such as T.V., Time Magazine, newspapers, radio, etc.

FROM: THOMAS I. STORRS, PRESIDENT
NORTH CAROLINA NATIONAL BANK

(1) I am enclosing copy of a letter from Ace Advertising Agency.

(2) Honestly, Jack, we have read the file of ads he has put out for you, and some of them are way out.

For example, he is constantly pointing out to the public that yours is a sweet little bank on Five Points, where your customers come and eat hog jowl, hominy grits, black-eyed peas, fat back (whatever that is!) and salt mullet all the live-long day. Do you actually serve meals there?

And then, he had a series of ads about the traffic on Five Points. He went on to say what a feeling of exhilaration it gave your customers to risk their lives dashing across the street between cars just to get to State Bank. Can this be so?

(3) Now, Jack, I realize we told you that you could run things the way you wanted to; and if you insist, I will take it up with our Board, and let this Ace Advertising Agency take over our advertising.

But, please tell me, do you think Time Magazine subscribers will understand Ace's message (if he has one!)?

(1) I appreciate your letter, Tom. This Ace Advertising fellow is quite a card. He thinks his advertising has been responsible for our growth fifteen years ago from about 5 million in resources to about 20 million today. Actually, we have succeeded in spite of Ace, because we deal with customers as people, just as NCNB does.

(2) I have never told our directors about this, but now I see that I must. Ace has living with him his wife, his mother-in-law and eight children. And, I must confess, he is my uncle.

(3) If you can work it out, just let Ace keep on running a few ads from time to time here in Greenville. But he is not up to managing the entire NCNB program.

Bucs Return To Action, Seek To Upset Spiders

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

East Carolina University returns to action this week after a layoff, still looking for its first victory of the season. Rose High School is looking for its second, and has few players left to try and accomplish it.

That sets the stage for this week's predictions. Last week, we turned in a 14-6 week, but we'd like to do a little better this week. Right now, we are considerably behind last year's pace, but it seems there are more upsets this year than ever.

Rose High goes up against the Kinston Red Devils. The Rampants are battered, bruised, and missing most of their backfield. Three running backs have already been knocked out of action, and things look anything but bright for the Rampants. The defense is still letting the opposition score too much, and it doesn't appear that things are going to change.

So it means that Rose must fall again. Kinston will win it.

Farmville travels to North Lenoir for an Eastern Plains game. The Red Devils would like to win this one. The tie to North Lenoir in last year's game was the only black mark on the regular season Devil record. Farmville should win to get its revenge.

South Lenoir visits Greene Central, and the Rams would like to stop them and keep their good record going this year. The Rams still have a shot at the title, and a win could keep them on the track. I'll pick Greene Central to win.

Williamston goes to Gates County for a tough Albermarle Conference game. Gates has been playing good ball, while Williamston cracked a three-game losing streak last week. The Green Wave seems ready to roll, so I'll go along with them.

Grifton travels to Robersonville for a tough Tobacco Belt game. This one is probably the toughest game of the week to call. Both teams will be up for it to keep their title hopes alive. The winner will stand a good chance of taking the crown and advancing into post-season play. It's a tough choice to make, but I'll go with Grifton.

In the other area high school game, Ayden travels to Weldon. The two usually meet, but it's in the post-season playoffs. Weldon is just as strong as usual, but the Tornadoes are having their worst season in years. They've already lost more games than in the past six or seven years. I'll have to pick Weldon to win this one.

East Carolina will be trying to break its losing streak by stopping highly favored Richmond on the Spider's home ground. The Bucs proved somewhat vulnerable to the pass against The Citadel, and passing is Richmond's forte.

It promises to be an exciting game as all Pirate-Spider games are. But I'll have to go along with Richmond to win it.

Elsewhere in the conference, The Citadel will down VMI, Davidson will beat William & Mary in the big one, and Samford will take Furman.

In the Atlantic Coast Conference battles, it'll be Clemson over Wake Forest, Duke over Maryland, Florida over North Carolina, Virginia over N. C. State and South Carolina over Virginia Tech.

Rounding it out, it'll be Harvard over Cornell, Indiana over Illinois, Kansas State over Iowa State, LSU over Kentucky, and Louisville over Marshall.

Season's record: 68 right, 28 wrong, 70.8 per cent.

Aycock Slips By Windsor By 14-12

Aycock Junior High School picked up its fourth straight victory of the season yesterday, squeezing past Windsor, 14-12.

Aycock never trailed in the game. Alphonso Hunter pushed the ball over in the first period from a yard out. Michael Harris then ran the two-point conversion that was to mean the difference in the game.

In the second quarter, Windsor came up with the first of its two touchdowns, but was unable to convert, and Aycock held an 8-6 lead.

Later in the period, Harris did the trick again, scoring his first touchdown of the game, a 76-yard scamper. The extra point attempt failed, and Aycock led, 14-6.

In the final period, Windsor picked up its final touchdown, but again failed to score the extra points, and Aycock held on for the win.

Wildcats Set For Key Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Unbeaten Davidson, bustling along at the rate of almost 40 points a game, may have its patience tested Saturday when the Wildcats invade William and Mary for a pivotal Southern Conference football game.

Shorn, perhaps, of their passing arm by an injury to quarterback Jimmy Aycock, W&M's Indians appear likely to fall back on a running game and give the Wildcats a dose of possession football.

Laycock has an ailing ankle, a memento of a tackle during the Indians' 21-14 upset of The Citadel last weekend—an upset that left W&M with an 1-0 conference record and gave the game with Davidson, 2-0, great importance.

The implications of Davidson's closest call thus far in four games—a 17-16 come-from-behind victory at Trinity, Tex. —

Tar Heels Edge Pirate Runners

CHAPEL HILL—The University of North Carolina edged out East Carolina University, 25-23, yesterday in a cross-country meet.

East Carolina's Neil Ross captured first place in the event, finishing the distance in 26 minutes, 10 seconds.

However, East Carolina had only three other finishers in the top 10, and that told the tale.

Second place went to Carolina's Larry Widgeon, who finished in 26:28. Next was Pat Grady of Carolina in 26:38.

Ken Voss, nursing a leg injury, finished fourth for the Pirates with 26:57, just beating out Mark Gibson of the Tar Heels, who crossed the line in 27:00.

The remaining top 10 finishers were: Dennis Smith (EC), 27:09; Bruce Hafemeister (UNC), 27:13; Dave Collins (UNC), 27:22; Charles Markman (UNC), 27:29; Rick McDonald (EC), 27:33.

haven't been lost on W&M coach Lou Holtz.

"The best thing Trinity did was to hold on to the ball," says Holtz. "And if we can't pass very much, we might just hold on to it, too. One thing I know—Davidson has better be fired up, because we'll be ready."

That will be no special news for Davidson coach Homer Smith, who says he has high respect for W&M fullback Joe Pilch, the No. 2 rusher in the conference. Smith calls Pilch "the best running back we've seen."

Pilch or no Pilch, possession ball or no possession ball, Davidson is favored to win. And if the Wildcats do so, they will have put together the school's first five-game victory streak since 1926.

While the Wildcats and Indians are trying for the midseason SC lead, a couple of other still-hopeful title aspirants also will be playing big ones against conference opponents.

The Citadel, 3-1 over-all and 1-1 in SC play after the jarring upset at the hands of W&M, travels to Lexington, Va., for a scrap with winless but determined VMI, 0-3, 0-1, which also is celebrating homecoming.

The night feature is the collision of Richmond's 1968 SC champions with winless East Carolina in the Richmond field. The Spiders, 2-2 against all comers and 1-1 in league play, are still smoldering from last week's 37-7 setback at Davidson. East Carolina is 0-3 over-all, 0-1 in the SC.

Rampants Host Kinston Tonight

Rose High School's Rampants play host to Kinston's Red Devils tonight at 8 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium.

It will be the annual Homecoming game for Rose High. The Rampants will be seeking their second victory of the year, and their first in Division Two competition.

Pirates Must Stop Richmond's Powerful Passing Attack

Last year, East Carolina University had an open date to recover from three straight defeats before it played the Richmond Spiders.

This year, the Pirates find themselves in a similar situation. They have lost their first three starts, and took last week off. Saturday night, they face Richmond in the Virginia capital's City Stadium.

There are differences, however. Richmond came into the game last year without a Southern Conference loss. This year, they have already been beaten by Davidson's Wildcats in a 37-7 upset last week.

It was a smarting defeat, and Coach Frank Jones is going to be out to make sure that the Spiders don't get a losing streak started.

"I know he'll have his team ready," Coach Clarence Stasavich of East Carolina said. "From past experiences I know they'll be in top shape for this game."

But there are some problems for Richmond in the injury department. All-America candidate at end Walker Gillette has a shoulder injury from the Virginia Tech game. How much it will handicap him against the Pirates remains to be seen. Flanker Jim Livesay, the leading pass receiver on the team, suffered a hip injury against Davidson. A number of others were hurt, including national Lineman of the Week, middle guard Dick Irwin. Whether any will be ready is questioned.

"I think they'll have most of them back," Stasavich said. The Spiders are a passing team this year. Last season, they came into Ficklen Stadium and the Pirates were expecting pass after pass. But there were few thrown, and the Spiders just ran over the still shell-shocked Bucs.

But this season, the Richmond emphasis is definitely on the pass. Quarterback Charlie Richards has thrown 161 times, completed 76 for 1,012 yards.

Taylor, Garrett Lead Baseball

Roy Taylor and Stu Garrett have been selected as co-captains of the East Carolina University baseball team for 1970.

The captains were elected following the completion of the fall practice of the Pirate baseball team.

"Skip" Taylor is a senior from Charlotte. He played his high school ball at East Mecklenburg. At East Carolina, he serves either as a catcher or a first baseman.

Garrett, who played his high school ball at Newport News, is the center fielder for the Pirates. He is playing football during the fall.

"I am quite pleased with the selection of the team," Coach Earl Smith said following the election.

He has had nine intercepted, however. Livesay has caught 25 for 270 yards, while Gillette has 18 for 346 yards. Herman Perry, the other end has 15 receptions for 195 yards.

On the ground, halfback Jerry Mauro is the leading ground-gainer. He has picked up 187 yards in 47 carries. No other Spider has gained 100 yards.

One of the fine points of their game is the punting department. Livesay is averaging 39.2 yards per kick, and boomed them out an average of 48.6 yards per kick against Davidson.

"I look for them to do a great deal more passing this year than they did last year against us," Stasavich said. "Mauro is hurt, and I don't know if he'll be ready to go against us."

In the line, the Spiders rate high. They are smaller on offense than on defense, and their defensive unit is loaded with veterans and All-Conference choices. The leading man, of course, is Irwin, the middle guard.

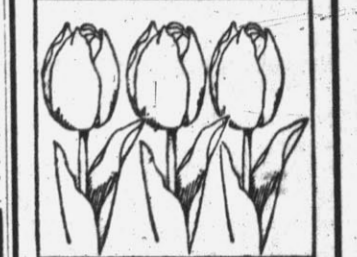

"They have been the best team in the conference in defending the rush," Stasavich said. "They are very tough on defense." However, the Spiders may be vulnerable to the pass. Both of the teams that beat them were able to throw it, while the two losers weren't.

And passing has been the key problem of the Pirates. "I definitely feel we are improved in our passing," the coach said. "We worked a lot on it last week, and it seems to be coming around."

Stasavich also feels that the overall team strength is improved. "Our line blocking is much better. We are still hampered by an injury to John Hollingsworth, but he should be ready. We'll still probably start four sophomore linemen."

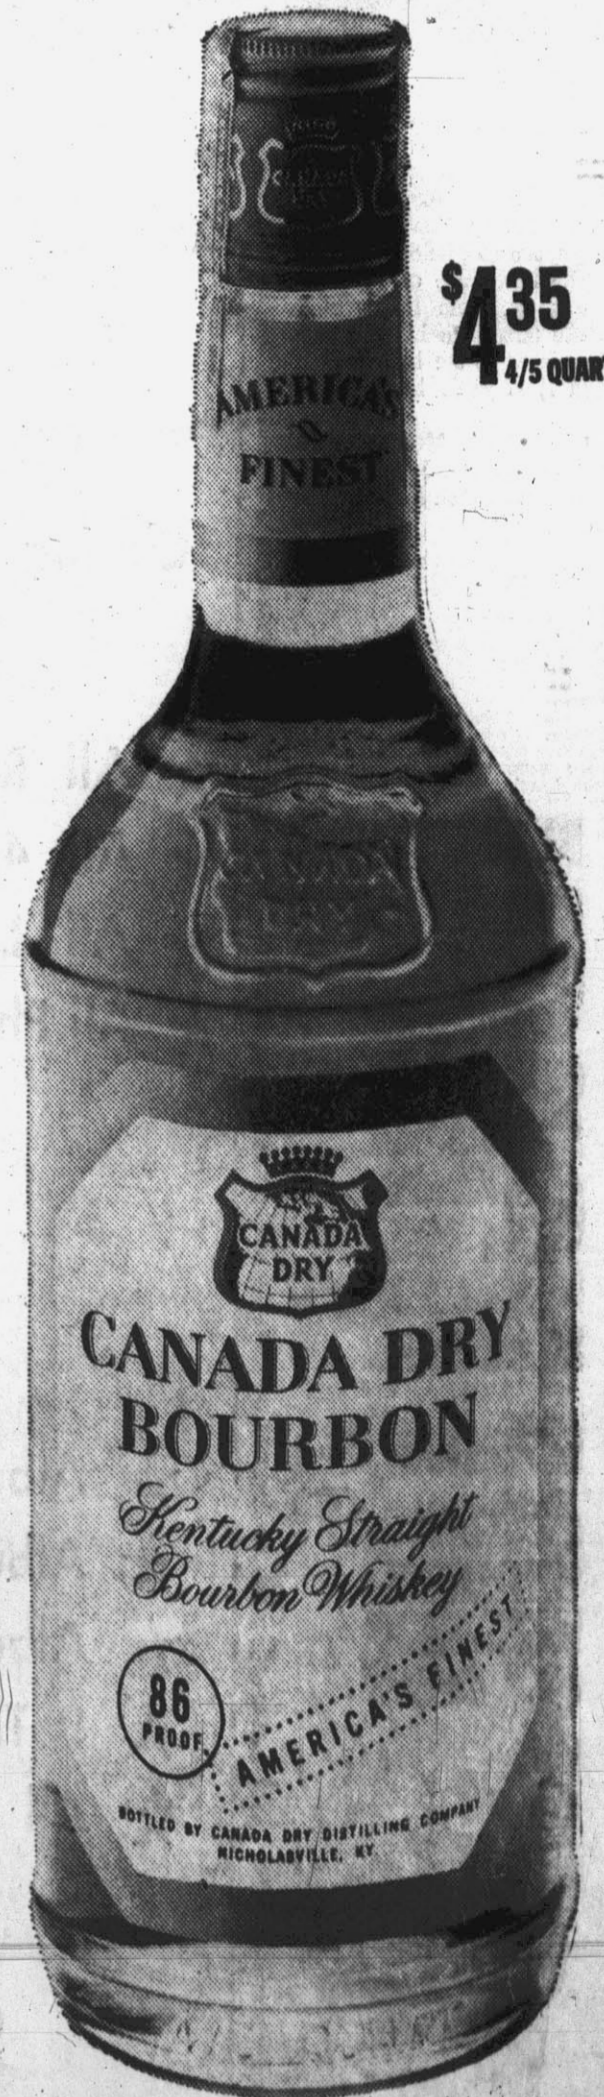

There have been some personnel changes for the Bucs. Stasavich and his staff have moved Wooley and Ilderton into the blocking back position. Worth Springs has moved out to left offensive guard, and Fred Harris will be at right end. On

Hysteria Reigns! The Mets Won It All

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It was exactly 43 minutes after the New York Mets had won their first World Series when Broadway star Pearl Bailey accepted a kiss on the cheek from Manager Gil Hodges in his quarters under Shea Stadium and, waving a hunk of sod uprooted from the field, said with a broad grin:

"This is my powder puff now."

Then she pointed to her cheek and daintily patted it with the green square of sod, exclaiming:

"Look—a miracle. No wrinkles."

The little incident in the crowded manager's room was no more important than the call Mrs. Joan Payson, the Mets' owner, received from President Nixon, nor the congratulations Hodges received from Shea's other tenants, the football Jets, through Coach Weeb Ewbank.

But for symbolism it may have been the most appropriate—miracle.

It began on Aug. 13 when the Mets stood 9½ games back of the Chicago Cubs in the battle for the National League East title and it was completed on Thursday, Oct. 15, at 3:17 p.m., EDT., when the Mets won their first world championship with a 5-3 victory over Baltimore in the fifth game of the World Series.

It ended with Baltimore second baseman Dave Johnson lifting a soft fly to left fielder Cleon Jones while the fans stormed out of the stands onto the field chanting "We're No. 1, We're No. 1" while foraging for souvenirs.

They tore home plate from its moorings, scooped up the other bases, took sections of the outfield fences, ripped up hunks of sod, set off orange-colored fire bombs and hoisted an improvised plastic banner on the center field flag pole that said:

"We went all the way, baby!"

That the Mets did. But was it a miracle?

Those who watched the Mets through the inept years when they were the unchallenged laughing stock of baseball and have witnessed the events of the 1969 season are almost unanimously agreed that they were guided by a hand of destiny.

Those who know hands of destiny don't exist in a world of bats, balls and gloves cannot accept that method of explaining what seemed so implausible at the start of the season.

"I don't think we're a cinderella team," said Hodges. "We're professionals. We do things right."

"It's wrong to say they're lucky and have gremlins going for them," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver. "They're a good ball club."

That doesn't sound like a miracle.

"They got all the breaks and we got none," said Baltimore owner Jerry Hoffberger. "My guys gave 120 per cent. I still think we have the better team."

"The Mets," said Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, "beat the best damn ball club in sight."

That sounds like a miracle.

Whether it was or nor will be debated through the years as the 1969 World Series, which took place during baseball's 100th anniversary season, is embellished by time and the storytellers.

But the facts are relatively simple. The Mets—25 players, four coaches and Hodges—got the job done in their own fashion.

They didn't accomplish things the way the Orioles did with super stars such as Frank Robinson, Boog Powell, by coming up with a homer was needed. And that's the way it was in the World Series, so much so that instead of the sports award that usually is given to the outstanding player it was tested that the award this time be 25 motorcycles.

It began with an opening game loss to the Orioles last Saturday in Baltimore. But that was all. The time had come for the heroes to surface.

In the second game, it was Jerry Koosman firing a two-hit shutout. In the fourth game, it was Tom Seaver pitching all the way, Ron Swoboda making a great catch and J.C. Martin getting hit on the wrist by a thrown ball at the right time.

And, in the fifth game Thursday, it was Koosman again, Swoboda and Hodges—and a baseball with shoe polish on it.

The Orioles had built a 3-0 lead on a two-run homer by pitcher Dave McNally and a solo homer by Frank Robinson in the third inning before the shoe polish intervened in the sixth inning.

Cleon Jones was the hitter when McNally threw a pitch down at his feet, the ball kicking away into the Mets' dugout. Plate Umpire Lou DiMuro at first thought the ball had not hit Jones and did not allow him to take first.

"Jerry Grote was sitting on the bench and he caught the ball," said Hodges. "I was and Grote tossed the ball to me and Grote ossed the ball to me and said to show him the shoe polish on it. I did, and after DiMuro thought about it he realized there was shoe polish on the ball."

And so Jones was awarded first base for being hit by a pitch.

"There's your turning point," said Hodges. "If the ball goes into their dugout instead of ours, we never see it again."

It was the turning point because Donn Clendenon, the next batter, slammed a home run and the Mets were back in the ball game. Weis tied it an inning later with another homer, and then the Mets put it away in the eighth.

Jones opened with a double, and one out later, rode home as Swoboda doubled. Swoboda eventually scored when first baseman Boog Powell and pitcher Ed Watt both made errors on Jerry Grote.

President Nixon saw all that and he saw the top half of the ninth when the Orioles went down 1-2-3 after Frank Robinson opened with a walk.

Then he placed his call to Mrs. Payson.

"I watched the last two innings," the President told Mrs. Payson.

Rampant Cubs Smash Kinston

KINSTON — Rose High School's junior varsity captured its first victory of the season yesterday with 32-0 rout of Kinston.

The Rampant Cubs scored in each quarter of the game to take the easy victory.

Gary Mills started things off in the first quarter with a 95-yard gallop for the first score, making it 6-0.

In the second period, Jeff Skinner cracked over from the 10, and the Cubs held a 12-0 edge at halftime.

Later, in the third period, Wilbur Wilkes scored from the three, and then Skinner scored again, this time on a 68-yard run. Wilkes ran the extra point over after the second touchdown, and Rose held a 26-0 edge.

The final score came late in the game, when Randy Batts broke through to block a punt. He picked up the ball and carried it 15 yards back for the score.

Coach O. A. Meteye singled out Tim Bryant, Mitchell Cobb and Carlos Ebron for their play in the game.

Graham Pollack To Appear In 'Finian'

Graham Pollack, a favorite performer among area theatre-goers, will be in Greenville this week and next to take part in the East Carolina Playhouse production of "Finian's Rainbow."

GRAHAM POLLACK

The hit Broadway musical comedy plays nightly, Oct. 22-25 in McGinnis Auditorium on the E.C.U. campus.

Pollack will play the role of Senator Billboard Rawkins, the pot-bellied Southern legislator with a gift for oratory and a bent for comic ruthlessness. No stranger to this part, Pollack fashioned a crowd-pleasing version of it when "Finian's Rainbow" was produced by the East Carolina Summer Theatre a couple of years ago.

A graduate of the University of North Carolina and the Yale School of Drama, he is widely sought after as a comedic character actor. Local audiences will remember his performances as Pickering in "My Fair Lady," Ali Hakim in "Oklahoma!," Senator Fogbound in "L'il Abner," and as the fussy apartment-mate in "The Odd Couple."

In welcoming Pollack back to Greenville, Edgar Loessin, who is directing the production of "Finian's Rainbow," noted, "Mr. Pollack is the most popular performer ever to appear with the Summer Theatre, and we are happy to have him with us for "Finian's Rainbow."

Tickets are now available at the box office in McGinnis Auditorium, by mail at Box 2712 in Greenville, and by phone at 758-6390.

HEALTH AND CHIROPRACTIC

By Dr. W. C. Chapel, Former President Lincoln Chiropractic College

- Q. My back hurts most of the time but my kidneys have been examined and are alright. What else causes backache?
- A. Back problems are among the most common ailments man is afflicted with and may be due to many causes. For example, arthritis, myositis, lumbago, disc degeneration, malpositioned vertebrae, and poor posture are among the more common causes of backache.
- Q. How can I find out the cause of my backache?
- A. See your D.C. (Doctor of Chiropractic) for examination and professional advice. During the past seventy-three years, millions of Americans have found relief from backache and many other problems from chiropractic.
- Q. How do I find a chiropractor in my city?
- A. Look in the yellow pages of your phone book. They are listed under Chiropractor, D.C. If you prefer a personal reference, just ask your neighbor for the name of his or her Doctor of Chiropractic. Chances are they have one.
