Will Protest 4 Murders

SEOUL (AP) — The United States and South Korea requested a meeting of the Korean Armistice Commission Tuesday to protest the "murder" of four U.S. soldiers in an ambush Saturday by North Koreans.

North Korea has not yet responded to the request, a U.S. spokesman said.

The spokesman said the four soldiers were aboard a 1½-ton truck returning from a guard post inside the demilitarized zone.

The North Koreans ambushed the truck with grenades and small arms fire, the spokesman said, and the four Americans were found in the truck shot in the head.

A short time later, American patrols spotted four North Koreans fleeing back across the DMZ but lost contact after an exchange of fire, according to reports.

Hanoi Vows To Fight On

MOSCOW (AP) — North Vietnam vowed again today that the people of North and South Vietnam will fight on until all U.S. troops are removed from Vietnam.

North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong and Premier Alexei Kosygin signed a joint communique after a week of talks. It said:

"Carrying into life the behests of Ho Chi Minh, the people of South Vietnam, together with their compatriots in the North of the country, relying on the support of all progressive forces of the world, are determined to carry forward their armed political and diplomatic struggle until the national aspirations of the Vietnamese people are full satisfied and until Vietnamese soil is cleared of the American aggressors and their henchmen."

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said Moscow "stated its readiness to continue the necessary assistance to the Vietnamese people in their struggle for the liberation of South Vietnam, in defense of North Vietnam and for the peaceful reunification of the homeland."

Dedicating Bridge Today

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — Lauch Faircloth, chairman of the North Carolina Highway Commission, was to speak today at the dedication of the Cape Fear Memorial Bridge spanning the Cape Fear River.

The bridge, erected at a cost of about $15 million, is the costliest ever built by the state highway commission and the only span bridge ever constructed in North Carolina.

The bridge, 3,040 feet long, has four lanes of traffic with two 27-foot roadways separated by a median barrier rail. It will carry traffic on U.S. 17, 74, 76 and 421 and N.C. 133.

The center lift span is 408 feet long and provides 65-foot vertical navigation clearance while carrying traffic. When raised for the passage of large ships, it gives a clearance of 135 feet.

Peace With Bars Closed

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Police and British army officials say they are satisfied with the results of closing the bars in Northern Ireland three hours early on weekends.

It was tried Friday and Saturday nights, and the only incidents reported were two gasoline bombs thrown and a Protestant women's sit-down Saturday night.

"Let's hope we can have a repeat of this quiet weekend," and army spokesman said. "It's difficult to say whether the experiment is directly responsible," a police spokesman said. "After all, we've had some weekends without riots even in the past two months."

Apparently most Roman Catholics and Protestants preferred to watch soccer on television rather than gather on street corners as they have on weekend nights during the past two months.

Crime Syndicates 'Try'

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Law enforcement officials say organized crime has begun moving in on the Alaskan oil boom.

"They have already tried to work into the state, mainly through legitimate business," declared Mel Personett, state commissioner of public safety.

Douglas Bailey, U.S. attorney for Alaska, said he had also seen evidence of big-time criminal activity and commented:

"The economic situation up here now is such as to attract organized crime. And now is the time, to get in on the ground floor."

Alaska's economy long has been dependent on federal spending, mostly by the military. But the state's new-found oil wealth, publicized by the sale last month of more than $900 million in oil and gas leases on the North Slope, is changing the state's economic picture.

Baily says Valdez, Fairbanks, Anchorage and Kenai are among the likely targets for Mafia and other crime syndicate operators.

MAIL PILES UP

ROME (AP) — Millions of letters, packages and postcards piled up in Italian post offices today as mailmen went out on a four-day strike.

Greenville's New Post Office Is Dedicated In Ceremonies Sunday

By BLANCHE HARDEE Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville's new $400,000 Post Office building was dedicated at ceremonies yesterday afternoon.

About 300 people attended the program and heard speeches by First District Congressman Walter Jones and John H. Thompson Jr., Postal Service Officer from Raleigh.

"It is a pleasure to compliment the citizens of Greenville and the Post Office staff on securing this beautiful new facility," the Congressman said. "With some degree of what I hope is pardonable pride, I am delighted to have had a small part in making this occasion possible."

Jones said a new post office is always indicative of progress. Something new has been obtained, and without exception, these new facilities are always larger and more functional, he added.

"They are built, however, only after thorough analysis and consideration of need by post office specialists," Jones emphasized. Jones continued, "I am sure most of you are aware of recent questions raised regarding the effectiveness of the present post office operations. Bills have been introduced in Congress that would turn the department into a private corporation or that would create a quasi-government private operation.

"Each of these plans has some support, but I think it is important that we not consider change for change's sake. It should be thoroughly explored that if radical changes are to be made in the present postal structure, it must be proven without a doubt that service will be improved and economics will be achieved," Jones said. The congressman continued, "It is disturbing to me that certain classes of mail are failing to pay their share of the cost of delivery."

A classic example, Jones said, is that of Reader's Digest, which in the past has been most critical of form subsidies, yet it is subsidized in the amount of $14 million per year.

"Of course, this is an indirect subsidy. However, the cost accounting section of the Post Office Department states that processing their mail costs that much more than the amount they are paying. And either a direct or an indirect subsidy ultimately costs the taxpayer of this nation," Jones noted.

He added, "It might well be the better part of wisdom to attempt to correct existing inequities than to attempt any sort of untried and unproved new plan."

Thompson, speaking on behalf of the Post Office Department, told the audience the kind of problems facing the Post Office Department now are the kind of problems we like to have, because they are problems of growth and prosperity.

"Mail," he said, "is the life blood of our commerce. Without it our lives would become vacuums and our communities ghost towns."

Thompson continued, "If there is one message I would like to leave with you on this occasion, it is to reflect on what the postal service really means to us as individuals and as a nation. "It's performance has never been better described than in the inscription written by Charles William Elliott for the East and West pavilions of the headquarters building of the Post Office Department in our Nation's Capital," Thompson said. They salute the postal service as "Carrier of news and knowledge; instruments of trade and commerce; promoter of mutual acquaintance among men and nations and hence of peace and good will; carrier of love and sympathy; messenger of friendship; consoler of the lonely; servant of the scattered family; enlarger of the public life."

There are no more nobler nor more vital missions to which to dedicate this new building," Thompson emphasized.

Greenville Postmaster Joe Dudley, commenting on the new facility, said local postal workers have looked forward to this new building for many years. The new building makes operations and service provided by the local department easier.

District Judge Charles H. Whedbee acted as master of ceremonies for the program. Music for the event was presented by the J.H. Rose High School band.

Other participants in the program included Horton H. Roundtree, state representative; D. Staton Insoce, postmaster of Raleigh; the Rev. Thomas E. Loftis, associate pastor of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church; the Rev. Irby Jackson, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church; and local Boy Scouts.

Fires At UNC Suspected Due Pyromaniac

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — Police say fires in four classroom buildings at the University of North Carolina Sunday may have been the work of a pyromaniac.

W. D. Blake, Chapel Hill police chief, said, "It's definitely arson since the trash cans were moved from their normal places and put under seats. There's no doubt about it being arson."

The policeman explained trash in the cans apparently had been ignited and the burning material was used to kindle the seats.

Blake said the fires caused an estimated $25,000 damage in Peabody Hall and the Bingham, Murphy and O. Max Gardner buildings. He said the biggest fire was in Peabody Hall, where classes in education are taught.

The first fire was reported about 7 a.m., Blake said, and the others were reported at half hour intervals.

Blake said he believed "it is the work of a pyromaniac rather than a vandal" because of the timing of the fires and the methods.

The chief said he could not determine if gasoline had been used to start the fires or not and that members of the State Bureau of Investigation and insurance investigators would not be able to examine the buildings until today.

Blake said he would begin attempting to find a witness as soon as possible and urged anyone who saw anything unusual near the buildings Sunday morning to call his office.

Body Of Missing Woman Found In Tar River

The body of a 76-year-old Negro woman, missing from her home here since October 3, was found floating in the Tar River yesterday morning.

Coroner E.W. Harvey ruled the death of Daisy Jenkins, 1301 Fairfax Ave. accidental drowning.

The coroner said Mrs. Jenkins' body was found floating in the river about 200 yards below the N.C.11-U.S.13 bridge about 11 a.m. by a fisherman.

Harvey said the woman apparently fell down a high embankment near her home into the river.

Mrs. Jenkins was last seen, the coroner said, about 6 p.m. October 3.

Harvey said Mrs. Jenkins' body was found near where two Negro boys drowned several weeks ago.

Driver Killed As Car Fails Curve

PITT FATALITY SCENE . . . The car in which Henry Clayton Haddock died is shown as it landed. According to officers the car skidded 138 feet and rolled into the barnyard fence. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Henry Clayton Haddock, 40, of the county was the 15th per-

Route 2, Vanceboro was killed son to die on Pitt's streets and when his car overturned on a highway this year.

Coroner E.W. Harvey said west of Blackjack yesterday Haddock was apparently thrown from the car and the vehicle rolled over on him as it over-

Chapman's Crossroads section turned.

Haddock was dead on arrival at Pitt Memorial Hospital. The cause of death, according to Harvey, was a crushed chest.

A passenger in the car, Robert Cox of Route 2, Greenville, received minor injuries in the 9:50 a.m. wreck. The coroner said at Pitt Memorial Hospital. The cause of death, according to Harvey, was a crushed chest.

Coroner Harvey ruled the death accidental.

Damage to the car was placed at $2,000.

Cox reported he was asleep in the rear seat of the car at the time it overturned and was not thrown out.

Coroner Harvey ruled the death accidental.

Damage to the car was placed at $2,000.

Kremlin Cooling To Manned Space Flights

By JOHN WEYLAND

MOSCOW (AP) — The failure of Soviet cosmonauts to put together a space station on the three-ship flight last week could result in a shift of emphasis back to unmanned flights.

The lack of any spectacular achievement by the seven spacemen seems to have put the proponents of manned flights on the defensive. They talk as if they are trying to stave off a return to the policy of extreme caution that followed the Soyuz 1 crash in April 1967 in which a cosmonaut was killed.

This tragic setback obviously shook the Kremlin badly and made it extremely leery of manned flights. The Soviet press took to extolling unmanned flights, saying they were just as useful as manned missions in obtaining scientific information and preferable because no risk of human life was involved.

The de-emphasis of the cosmonaut program took some of the sting from comparisons with what the United States was accomplishing with men in space during this period.

A more favorable attitude toward manned flights started to show after the successful flight of Soyuz 3 last October and the linkup of Soyuz 4 and 5 in January.

The Soviet leaders seemed reassured of the safety of manned flights and once again confident that their space program could hold its own in direct competition with the U.S. effort.

If the Soyuz troika had produced a big leap forward, more manned flights could have been expected in the near future, with perhaps launchings to the moon or plants from an orbiting platform.

How serious the trouble was will be kept secret. Possibly it was minor and will not significantly slow down the manned program. But if it was serious and the Kremlin's old worries have revived, the Soviet leaders could well prefer to retreat to the former, safer position. This could mean a long reappraisal before any more manned flights.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

MISS MARY JOHANNA COLLINS . . . is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Collins of Maryville, Tenn., who announce her engagement to Louis A. Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wagner of Center Township, Pa. The wedding will take place Dec. 27.

Bazaar-Luncheon Set For Nov. 4 At Jarvis Church

The fellowship hall of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church will be transformed into a bazaar-luncheon early next month, sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service, to benefit the Educational Building Fund of the church.

The bazaar is scheduled Tuesday, Nov. 4, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. and the buffet luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Joe Goodson and Mrs. Billy Goodson are co-chairmen of the luncheon and the two-course meal will be served in the fellowship hall.

Assisting the Goodson women with the luncheon will be Mrs. Edgar Williford and Mrs. L.L. Rives; Mrs. John Shannonhouse, Mrs. C.B. Hargett, tables set up; Mrs. Curtis Handrix and Mrs. F.L. Blount, dessert committee; and Mrs. R.L. Capwell, waitresses.

Mrs. Jack Moye and Mrs. David Middleton are overall chairmen of the bazaar and Mrs. William H. Taft Sr. heads the church women as president. The entree will be cream turkey in pastry shells, string beans, potato fluff, congealed fruit salad, brown 'n serve rolls, tea and coffee, and assorted homemade cakes, pies and custards.

The meal will call for a lot of preparation, according to Mr. Joe Goodson, who will bake and dice five turkeys. There will be two church circles preparing the potatoes and one circle cleaning the lettuce.

Mrs. W.G. Garner is in charge of the tickets. Other ticket committee members are Mrs. Arden Tucker, Mrs. W.E. Hudson and Mrs. Luther Moore.

Other bazaar committee members are Mrs. Edgar Douglas, Mrs. W.H. Taft Jr., Mrs. Joe Taft Sr., snack bar; Mrs. Robert Thompson, Mrs. Henry Coleman, Mrs. Mitchell White, bake sale; Mrs. J.B. Kittrell Jr., Mrs. M. W. Aldridge, Mrs. E. Hudson, country store; Mrs. E.H. Williford, Mrs. Reynolds May, Mrs. E.F.C. Metz, white elephant sale; Mea. M.P. Hoot, Mrs. M.L.

To Lose 40 Pounds In A Month Is Dangerous

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN DEAR ABBY: That letter from the wife of a prominent newscaster—and your answer—stopped me cold.

She complained because so many lady viewers "fell in love" with her husband, and they wrote him "love letters" and even asked to meet him "anywhere—anytime." She asked you what kind of woman could "fall in love" with a television personality? You replied, "Probably one with a ten-year-old mentality who has nothing better to do all day than to watch television."

I'm not so sure I agree with you. There is a certain news commentator who turns me on. Loving him from a distance has its rewards. Just think of all the trouble we will avert if we never meet? Oh, Eric. . . where are you?

the best you can and if that's not good enough he had better come up with a better excuse to dump you.

DEAR ABBY: I have a boy who is cheeky to me and will not do as he is told. I have tried smacking him and sending him to bed, and even making him do without things, which helps a little sometimes—but not always.

I also have a little girl who is five, and she has started to copy him. If I take them shopping and they misbehave, I simply smack the two of them. Of course they cry good and loudly and attract attention, and then people look at me as though I have done something terribly wrong.

Can you help me with this problem?

CYNTHIA IN BELFAST, IRELAND

DEAR CYNTHIA: To "smack" a child on his bottom is one thing—and sometimes fitting. But to deliver blows to the head and face are often painful, dangerous, humiliating, and quite excessive for the boo-hoo. There must be a better way.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Couple Exchanges Vows In Wilmington Ceremony

WILMINGTON — The marriage of Miss Mary Frere Murchison, to George Deanes Gornton of New York took place Saturday, Oct. 11, in St. James Episcopal Church.

The Rev. Joel Williams Murchison of New York, the bride's godfather and uncle, and the Rev. William Ludwig Dols, officiated. William G. Robertson was the organist.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. David Reid Murchison Jr. and the late Mr. Murchison, was given in marriage by her brother, David Reid Murchison III.

Miss Charlotte Sprunt Murchison attended her sister as maid of honor.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gornton, was attended by his father as best man. Ushers were David Murchison Eggleston of Roanoke, Va., Owen Graham Kenan of Wrightsville Beach and New York, Richard Barbee Gwathmey of Charlottesville, Va., and the bride's brother, Alexander Sprunt Murchison.

Mrs. Chase Is Delta Chapter Speaker Tuesday

Mrs. Nancy Chase, state senator from Wayne County and an honorary member of Iota Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, spoke to the members of Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma at the Woman's Club on Tuesday evening.

Her subject was "The Extremes and Means of Modern Society". Mrs. Chase asked these questions, "Why do our people become involved in extreme situations?" and "What can we do to help?"

She brought out the idea that the teachers and others are part of an unhappy generation of people and that the teaching profession should set the pace for teaching good positive human relations, and in so doing they should take a good look in the mirror at themselves to see if they are cultivating a good positive attitude toward others.

She expressed her confidence in the majority of young people as to their having high goals, and stated that she believed the teachers have the same high goals as the youth themselves and that these goals will be realized.

At the beginning of the meeting, Mrs. Kemp Baldwin, president, presented to Miss Elizabeth Hyman and to Mrs. Elizabeth Mims, Eta State chapter pins from Delta Chapter.

Miss Hyman was being honored as first president of Delta Chapter, and Mrs. Mims for being a past president and state corresponding secretary. Mrs. Baldwin was also presented a chapter pin by Mrs. Betsy West, immediate past president.

Mrs. Baldwin reported on the Southeast Regional Convention at Bal Harbour, Fla., which she attended.

Just before adjournment, the president expressed appreciation to the hostess committee for the decorations and especially to Mrs. Margaret Speight for the roses.

Mrs. George Deanes Gornton, daughter of Charlottesville, Va., and the bride's brother, Alexander Sprunt Murchison.

A reception followed at the Cape Fear Club. A graduate of Sweet Briar College, Virginia, the bride was presented at the L'Arisosa German Club Ball in 1965 and the Terpsichorean Club Ball in Raleigh in 1966. She is a member of the Junior League.

Her husband is a graduate of the University of the South, Seawane, Tenn., and attended the Graduate School of Finance of the University of Tennessee. His fraternity is Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

They will live in New York. The bridegroom's mother is the former Catherine Tyson of Greenville and he is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Clifford Tyson of Greenville.

If the Shoe Fits. BY LARRY AVERETTE. Are some feet impossible to fit? Yes, if fit means perfect adhering to the contour of the foot in all places, there are feet that can't be perfectly fitted with comfort. Some feet differ so radically from normal while carrying the body weight, or because of foot injury, that the shoes will seem to be misfit. Surprisingly there are many people with feet like that. Their shoes are comfortable and performing the job well, yet they still deviate from a perfect fit. For example, the shoes may gap at the heel, lace together, or seem too long. In extreme cases, specially constructed shoes may be necessary to avoid foot injury and to secure comfort. LARRY'S. AT 5 POINTS GREENVILLE, N. C. TELEPHONE 752-5734 OPEN FRI. TIL 9 P.M.

Silent Majority Is Strengthened

Let's say you are an average American who is not at all happy about the nation's predicament in the Vietnam war. Yet you have put your thoughts to it and have concluded that a "bug out" by the United States would be a disaster insofar as our world affairs are concerned.

If this is you, you were probably most disturbed by the Oct. 15 moratorium. While you are as antiwar as any of those participants, you recognize that we are not debating whether to become involved in Vietnam; we are already involved and getting out is going to take some intricate maneuvering if the nation is to preserve any of its honor.

So, while you may not have gotten out and jeered at the protestors, you couldn't join them. As the day progressed you could not help but feel a sense of shame that Americans were groveling at the feet of a sworn enemy.

You were horrified as highly placed public figures uttered treasons as they were swept up in the day's events. You were indignant as little minded senators used the day with hopes of furthering their own grubby careers.

As a fair minded citizen you took note of the fact that there was little violence and you recognized that many of the participants were honestly praying for a peaceful world.

Still you remembered that most of the organizers wanted an instant pullout of our troops, rather than a planned withdrawal that would leave South Vietnam intact. Recognizing this you had to be opposed to the doings of the day.

If you felt all alone in those feelings, you can take hope. For there were tens of millions of Americans who felt the same way. To borrow a phrase there is much to indicate that you were polarized that day and the nation's resolution to obtain a just peace in Vietnam was strengthened, rather than weakened.

Not much attention was paid to you that day, but observers will be paying more attention to your reaction in the weeks ahead.

On Oct. 15 the moratorium had an effect on America that its organizers could not have possibly foreseen. For the reaction of the majority of Americans was a strengthening of determination that an honorable end to the Vietnam war would be found. In a reverse sort of way, the day gave America a new will.

'Blessing' May Also Be Curse

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau
RALEIGH — The problem with the chemical pesticide DDT is that while it has been a blessing to man kind it may also be a persistent curse.

A noted attorney who specializes in environmental problems, conservation and anti-pollution causes says flatly, "DDT has saved many lives but it is clear it is not an unmixed blessing."

The chemical was synthesized more than 25 years ago and was put to use around the world to combat disease and crop-destroying insects and eration is asking that the sale and use of DDT and its related compounds such as endrin, aldrin and dieldrin be banned until effective controls based on more knowledge are imposed.

DDT "is known to be wiping out several species of spectacular bird life" and poses a "severe threat" to inland and coastal fisheries resources, says a resolution by the federation directors.

Other spokesmen and scientists say that such long-lived chemical compounds may be poisoning the environment and habitat of many other creatures and perhaps human life. They question the reliability of data under which such chemicals are registered by the government and sold because these take into account only the immediate effects.

Example — An example cited is the inevitable extinction of the national bird, the bald eagle.

DDT does not kill an eagle. But an eagle ingests fish containing DDT in its tissues. The eagle becomes sterile. Its eggs do not hatch. It cannot reproduce. Thus the eagles will die out and never be seen again.

The federation's resolution points out a "progressive concentration" of such chemicals which break down sex hormones in the body of both mammals and birds.

Problem — Pesticides and agricultural chemicals have become to be very important in North Carolina, still primarily and agricultural state.

The chemical-pesticide industry is concerned. So are those who have used and benefited from the use of these chemicals. A nurseryman, Hugh Smith, asked the board, "What in the world are we going to do?" He said he would accept control of the use of chemicals, but also asked, "How soon?"

Study — The state's Agriculture Commissioner, James A. Graham, made it clear at the outset of the hearings that it would take time to reach a solution. He described the first daylong meeting as "preliminary." Three members of parasites. It proved effective and its use became more and more widespread.

But it was no simple chemical compound and did not break down after use.

Persists — A quarter of a century later, scientists conceded they cannot measure the practical "half life" of such a compound as DDT and its related chlorinated hydrocarbons.

These chemicals — effective pesticides — "can and do travel to the ends of the earth," says the North Carolina Wildlife Federation. DDT which may have been sprayed on a field in North Carolina has been found in the waters of the Antarctic Ocean and along the shores of Africa.

The level of DDT found in mother's milk is higher than the maximum recommended by the World Health Organization, and this is higher than that recommended by many leading scientists.

Asking — The basic problem involved in the present controversy is that of long-range effects, possibly endangering human life itself.

Some effects already are known. Thus the Wildlife Fed-

Not Asking Too Much In Pollution Controls

In this era of increasing concern about pollution of water and air, North Carolina is not asking too much in setting up regulations restricting industrial pollution of the air.

The regulations were approved last week by the board of Water and Air Resources and industries must assure the board by next July that they will comply with the antipollution provisions by July, 1974.

We feel that most industries will willingly comply with the provisions, because it has become obvious that unless we control pollution serious consequences are going to result.

As industrialization progresses in North Carolina, now is the time to institute proper controls over air and water pollution. This will avoid many problems for the state and for industry in the future.

Ready To 'Buy' Peace In City

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
CLEVELAND — If they had gotten their way, the Cleveland establishment of bankers, merchants, and steel executives would have ruled out any Republican at all opposing Democratic Mayor Carl Stokes, the first Negro mayor of a major city, for reelection.

The evidence of this came in a hugely successful fund-raising dinner for Stokes last April, whose sponsors included some of Cleveland's most powerful Republican businessmen. In addition, such prominent community leaders as Kent Smith, who raised $150,000 for Richard M. Nixon in the 1968 Presidential campaign, argued quietly that Stokes should be handed a second term in the interest of racial harmony.

What the establishment wanted was to buy racial peace by giving Stokes a free pass, thus hopefully eliminating a law-and-order backlash campaign against Stokes. Such a campaign would raise the city's racial tensions to explosive levels. With the rate of violent crime still climbing and white police officers in open revolt, those tensions are dangerously high right now.

But Robert Hughes, Republican city chairman, would not buy that mess of political potage. On the same April evening that the establishment honored Stokes at $100 a plate, Hughes put on five 98-cent dinners around town. With 5,000 Republicans attending, Hughes lost money—but made his point that the Republican party wanted a mayoral candidate. As Hughes saw it, one sure way to attract a law-and-order candidate against Stokes was to follow the establishment's advice and leave the Republican line open for anybody to grab. The one sure way to prevent a law-and-order candidate—similar, for example, to Charles Stenvig, the former police detective who was elected mayor of Minneapolis with a huge majority—was to field a serious Republican candidate, eschew appeals to racial emotion, and campaign against Stokes on his record.

The candidate that Hughes produced is Cuyahoga County Auditor Ralph Perk, who in 1966 captured 40 percent of Cleveland's black vote and ran well ahead of Gov. James Rhodes, champion Ohio voter-getter.

An ethnic (Czech) Republican in a city that is 60 percent white and 40 percent black, Perk has the quiet demeanor of a poetry teacher. At a meeting of volunteer workers here, he laid down his line: the issue is Stokes's record — nothing else.

"There will be a public reprimand from me," he said, "if the issue of race is raised in any way." So far, except for a smattering of anti-black hate literature not visibly connected with Perk's headquarters, the "issue of race" has been kept out of the campaign.

Strength For Today

Watch Out For The Barbarian Anthropologists and psychologists are constantly warning us that there is only a thin crust separating civilization from barbarism. In fact, it takes only a race riot or the breaking of a picket line or the opportunity to practice cruelty unrebuked to turn vast hordes of people into barbarians.

Barbarism seemed fifty years ago to have been effectively wiped out of existence the world over. But a terrible thing happened. Defeated at our frontiers, barbarism re-emerged in our midst in the form of Nazism and Fascism. With all their claims of a supporting philosophy, these systems were nothing more than ancient barbarism descending upon the modern world with scientific weapons. And let us never forget that in every country there is plenty of latent barbarism ready to spring up and destroy us. Dean Inge has written: "Ancient civilizations were destroyed by imported barbarians; we breed our own." Much so-called "progress" is a frantic attempt to evade the disciplines involved in true progress and to choose instead the easy-going indulgences of barbarism.

Watch out for the barbarian. He isn't dead yet by a long shot. He lives in American cities as well as in African jungles.

ART BUCHWALD

A Monarchist On Scene

WASHINGTON—When President Nixon told his White House staff to dig into his piles of mail and find a student he could write a letter to concerning the student moratorium, he didn't imagine in his wildest dreams that the staff would come up with a monarchist.

Last Monday Randy Dicks, a Georgetown University sophomore, received a two-page letter from President Nixon explaining the Administration's stand on the Vietnam protests. At the time, it seemed like a good idea for the White House to use a student's letter as a way of explaining the President's policy toward the Vietnam protests. But when it was discovered that Dicks was a monarchist, the White House was thrown into a spin.

An immediate investigation was called for to find out how the President wound up writing a monarchist, First J. Edgar Hoover was contacted and asked what he had on the monarchist movement in the United States.

Hoover was embarrassed to admit he didn't have too much in his files on the Royalists. "They've been rather quiet since 1776," he told the White House aide. "Frankly our department doesn't even have any phone taps on them."

"But don't you realize," the White House aide said, "that we've got to know what the Royalists in the United States have been up to? Just be writing to Randy Dicks, the President of the United States has given the monarchist movement in the United States a job in the arm."

Hoover promised to get back to the White House. He took all his agents off the SDS, the Black Panthers and the FBI television show on ABC and ordered them to find out everything they could about the monarchists in the United States.

Finally, reports started pouring in from field offices all over the country. A lady in Kansas City, it turned out, had written a letter to her cousin in London saying, "Wouldn't it be nice if Prince Charles took over the 50 colonies, when he becomes Prince of Wales?"

And this, it was said, puts Nixon in a leadership situation that has not been experienced by a new President since Zachary Taylor took office 120 years ago, facing an opposition Congress.

"I thought he knew me better than that," Mansfield said of Harlow. "The record speaks for itself. The policy committee wants to cooperate with the President."

The committee has 13 members, chosen by Mansfield as majority leader, and ranging from northern liberals, like Sen. Philip A. Hart of Michigan, to the conservative Richard B. Russell of Georgia.

Its majority stands with the more liberal rank of the Democratic party—but Mansfield said it has done nothing this year on which there was not unanimity.

All the leads were followed up, but it was difficult to find a conspiracy between Dicks, the lady in Kansas City, the man in Dorchester and the Spanish family in Michigan.

Hoover reported his findings back to the White House which was still shaken up by the moratorium-letter incident.

It was decided that the best way to handle the matter was to turn over the problem to the Subversive Activities Control Board, which is supposed to clear all organizations in the United States.

The White House called the board but, unfortunately, it was a weekday and no one was in the office. The voice on the recording machine asked

If cigarette companies stop all advertising on television and radio by September, 1970, as they say they will, won't that be fine? Frankly we don't think so. And we say this without making any entry whatever into the cigarettes-lung cancer controversy. We are entirely willing for that to be settled on its merits.

Bear in mind, please, that the advertising stop-signal is the direct result of pressure from the United States government, and then ponder these questions:

—If the government can blackjack a legitimate industry into one surrender, can it not blackjack it into another?

—And if it can blackjack one industry, can it not blackjack any and all?

—And is there not danger of an endless chain reaction, with the paternalistic hand of government falling even more heavily upon the affairs of men?

We think these questions are of paramount importance. They transcend, by far, the

Demo Black Magic

By WALTER H. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House suspects the Senate Democratic Policy Committee of working legislative-black magic to cast a spell on President Nixon's proposals to Congress.

This hint of witchcraft produced surprise and some amusement among the men who run the panel of Senate Democratic leaders.

One committee Democrat said it was nice to be noticed.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, the chairman, was not about to deny a bit of wizardry, so he supplied this description of a committee meeting:

"We put on our skull caps, our robes, turn the lights out and act like zombies."

The argument over the pace of congressional action on Nixon's proposals vaulted into the occult at a White House briefing Oct. 10.

Under the rules that briefing, on the hurray message President Nixon sent to Capitol Hill, can be attributed only to White House sources, and cannot be quoted directly.

Those rules remained in effect, but Senate Democrats identify the source as Bryce N. Harlow, Nixon's assistant for Congressional affairs.

At that briefing, the Senate Democratic Policy Committee was said to be functioning in a fashion more powerful than the House Rules Committee, which schedules legislation for action on the floor of the House.

According to the White House, when Mansfield calls leaders of the policy committee to his office near the Senate floor, closes and locks the door and goes into black magic, the administration has no chance to influence the decisions.

And this, it was said, puts Nixon in a leadership situation that has not been experienced by a new President since Zachary Taylor took office 120 years ago, facing an opposition Congress.

"I thought he knew me better than that," Mansfield said of Harlow. "The record speaks for itself. The policy committee wants to cooperate with the President."

The committee has 13 members, chosen by Mansfield as majority leader, and ranging from northern liberals, like Sen. Philip A. Hart of Michigan, to the conservative Richard B. Russell of Georgia.

Its majority stands with the more liberal rank of the Democratic party—but Mansfield said it has done nothing this year on which there was not unanimity.

Indicators Point All Directions

By ELMER ROESSNER

Business indicators and predictions continue to revolve like a weathervane in a hurricane.

A survey for the National Industrial Conference Board shows consumer confidence is lagging. Only 30 per cent in the July-August period thought business was good compared with 40 per cent in May-June. Fewer expect business to improve or jobs to become more plentiful in per cent plan to buy major appliances in the next six months, compared with 44 per cent in the previous survey.

Robert W. Sarnoff, RCA president, declared the immediate outlook was for a further slowdown of business, but that he was optimistic for the long term. Malcolm M. Smith, president of General American Investors, said the economic consensus was for a slowdown that will not end until next June. Norma Pace, president of U.S. Economics, said a slowdown in the fourth quarter would last through mid-1970. Mrs. Pace added, "Present economic policies, coupled with current political and social realities, will not permit the kind of action that can stem inflation."

N.Y. Fed Unconvinced However, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, in its monthly review, said that current trends may be nothing more than random movements. It added that business expansion had slowed down, and that capital spending will rise less in the current half-year than in the first half, and that the uptrend will continue into next year. It foresaw sharply higher labor costs but "robust product demand."

Meanwhile, here are more look-aheads in business: A Federal Trade Commission crackdown on some claims for enzymes in laundry use. There's no doubt that enzymes attack many stains, especially if fresh, but complaints have been made that some advertising is exaggerated and misleading.

Costlier booze. Distilled liquor prices are about to take off again. Higher retail labor and overhead costs, plus probable higher state taxes, plus a possible hike in federal taxes, will shove prices higher.

How Sweet It May Be! More domestic sugar. Sorghum, now grown largely as cattle food, may become a source of sugar. U.S. Department of Agriculture has found a way to separate the starch from the sugar in the juice. Sorghum is easy to grow.

Flavored cola. Pepsi is bringing out a citrus-flavored cola drink called Skandi. If it sells, other cola drink companies will follow.

Trucking rate rise. Trucking companies will ask regulatory bodies for higher rates. With higher railroad freight rates coming, truck traffic can bear more. Action will come very soon.

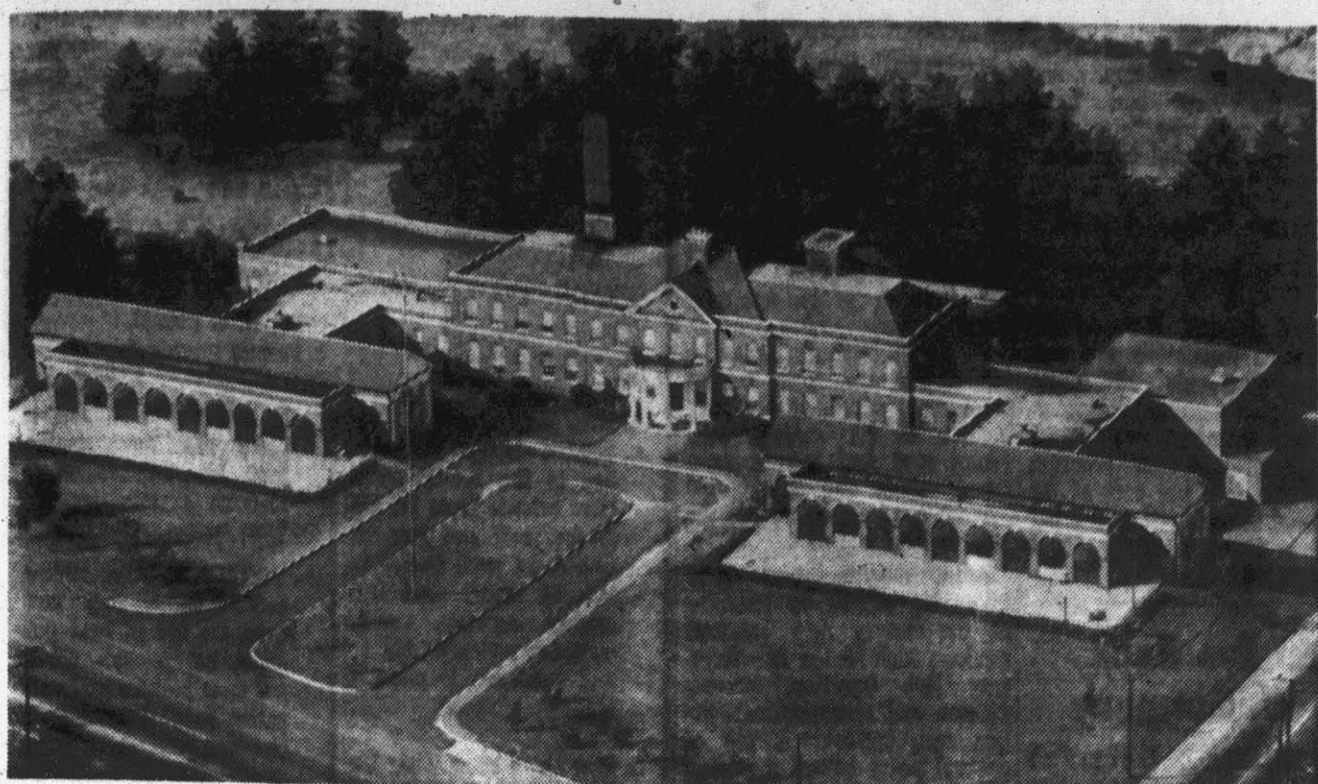

Costlier meat. Despite some recent dips, meat prices will shoot up again, and higher. August beef production was down 4 per cent from a year earlier, veal down 12 per cent, pork down 5 per cent, lamb and mutton down 16 per cent. This in face of the annual winter upturn in demand.

Evans-Novak . . .

Evans-Novak . . . vig or Mayor Sam Yorty in his Los Angeles reelection campaign, Perk has the same motive as did the establishment last spring in backing Stokes: the fear that if a white man should defeat Stokes on an anti-black campaign of law-and-order, the city of Cleveland would become ungovernable.

With its huge Negro population, Cleveland is unlike other Northern cities—Minneapolis, Los Angeles, or even New York City—where the white backlash, centered on blue-collar voters, has been so exploitable. That may be a safe enough formula in Minneapolis, only 4 percent black. Here it could be suicidal.

Having set the prosaic tone of his campaign against the charismatic Stokes, Perk is now attacking the mayor's record. He is aiming at non-backlash middle-class white voters who gave Stokes his 1,600-vote margin over Republican Seth Taft in 1967. It's an uphill fight, but he has assets Taft never had.

For example, Stokes has lost the backing of powerful black moderates, such as Dr. Kenneth Clement. They claim Stokes has yielded too much to black militants like Ahmed Evans, now under sentence of death for murdering a policeman.

More important, the exciting quality of Stokes's 1968 race, when Martin Luther King came here to help, is missing. Some whites who backed Stokes to assuage subconscious guilt feelings may desert him now.

But to win, the Republicans need a huge white vote, no easy matter in this unexciting campaign.

Wider Streets Will Come From Removing Trees

"The trees being cut down on the site of the old Junior High School are being removed for essential street widening," Central Business District project manager John Messick said.

Noting public sentiment concerning the removal of a number of trees as construction began recently on widening projects for Fifth and a block of Reade Streets, Messick said that the trees are being removed only when it is necessary to make way for widening, curbing and sidewalk construction.

"Original projects plans call for the streets to be widened to a width of 40 feet to include back to back curbing," Messick noted. These plans necessitated the removal of trees which came directly in the right of way for the widened street.

Original plans also call for a 10-foot sidewalk on both sides of Fifth Street. Messick noted that a meeting was scheduled for Friday with construction engineers to discuss the project further and hopefully ways in which to avoid further removal of the trees.

Messick said the trees that remain on the site are well back on the lot and street improvements would not affect them. A gradual narrowing of the street at the project boundary located near the Dunn Apartments will be the end result of construction in that area.

All streets in the project are slated for eventual 40-foot widths. In the case of the section of Fourth Street involved in the project, one tree had to be removed for sidewalk preparation. "There is a good chance that the original plans will be altered," Messick added. "Everyone involved is certainly concerned with preserving the trees in the project," he noted.

Messick also said that very little grading will be done on the Junior High site since that would necessitate the removal of more trees. The lot will be lightly broken up and seeded with grass, he said.

Administration officials studied the problem. The best thing, of course, would have been to try Randy Dicks for advocating the return of the royal family. But Dicks had cleverly told reporters that while he considers kingship the superior form of government, he does not favor it for the United States.

So it was decided to ignore Dicks' affiliation with the Monarchist Party, and new safeguards have been established before the President will be allowed to write to another university student.

As a further precaution, a memo has been passed around the White House asking the staff to refrain, even in jest, from referring to the Vice President as "Prince Spiro the First."

Minnie And Imelda Are In Presidential Campaign

By R. M. SORGE
UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—General Thant is among those concerned about student unrest around the world and as one way to deal with it he'd like to see a U.N.-sponsored international university.

The project of a U.N. university, an academic world center of merging cultures, has long been talked about but hasn't progressed much beyond the idea stage. Now it has received considerable impetus at the current General Assembly session from Thant, a former high school teacher in his native Burma.

Sources close to Thant say he is much concerned about student unhappiness with today's world and that he feels the United Nations should take a more active interest in youth movements, mentality and problems. It is this concern, they indicate, that has motivated the secretary general's initiative for an international university.

Thant is known to reflect frequently on the fate of the coming generation and on the question how to instill in it the idea of world community.

"Working and living together in an international atmosphere," he said of the university project in his annual report on U.N. activities "these students from various parts of the world would be better able to understand one another. Even in their formative years, they would be able to break down the barriers between nations and cultures which create only misunderstanding and distrust."

Even UNESCO, the U.N.'s scientific and cultural organization, was opposed at first to the idea of a U.N. university and took the view that funds available would be better used to promote regional educational institutions. But Thant now has asked UNESCO to tackle the project.

The secretary general was outspoken on the subject in the introduction to his annual report.

"In recent months," he said, "I have given much thought to the establishment of an international university. I feel that the time has come when serious thought may be given to the establishment of a United Nations university, truly international in character and devoted to the (U.N.) Charter objectives of peace and progress.

"Such an institution may be staffed with professors coming from many countries and may include in its student body young men and women from many nations and cultures."

What can be done to stop the rise in auto thefts?

Auto manufacturers have taken big strides by installing at the factory new anti-theft devices, such as the new three-way lock (ignition, steering column and transmission). Police feel, however it will be several years before the effect of these new devices is accurately reflected in the auto theft statistics.

Police are unanimous in these recommendations:

—People must lock their cars, take the keys and keep attractive items out of sight. "We, as police officers, aren't going to get anywhere without cooperation from the public. We urge private persons to lock to them, not the courts or the their car doors, take their keys parents, they'll take another with them and not leave any one," observers a Washington, valuable property in sight," D.C., police official.

Says Dennis A. Smith of the San Francisco Police. "We've got to get to the provided for the joyrider and source—get to these kids and to the courts must make the new the people who are making it laws stick. "If kids take a car easy to steal. Until then, this is once and nobody does anything going to continue."

Imelda, 38-year-old beauty queen wife of Marcos, and Minnie, 24-year-old fashion model daughter of Osmena, have organized separate feminine brigades to woo and win votes for their favorite candidate.

Imelda has her "Blue Ladies", and Minnie the "Osmena Pearls." They are campaigning for the Nov. 11 election.

The blue ladies are wives and daughters of cabinet officials, close friends and supporters of Marcos. They are veterans of the 1965 presidential campaign in which they helped Marcos win his first presidential term. They earned their title with their distinctive dark blue shift dresses and red scarves.

The Osmena Pearls were formed by Minnie Osmena early this year when her father launched his candidacy. These young volunteer campaign workers can be spotted by their yellow blouses and blue miniskirts, Miss Osmena said she named her group after pearls to connote "beauty, youth and endurance."

Imelda An Asset

Imelda Marcos, mother of three children and winner of two beauty titles, remains one of her husband's top political assets. Like the president, she keeps a tough schedule in the current campaign, speaking at rallies or singing to crowds.

For the past four years, the Blue Ladies have been Imelda's prime boosters—financial and moral—in her social and civic projects.

"I am very proud and happy for what the Blue Ladies are doing and I hope that more civic minded women will join us in our crusade," Imelda said.

Four years ago the Blue Ladies were a tight-knit group composed of the Marcos' intimate friends. Since then they have become a Philippine-wide organization with 6 million members, including non-voting girl students.

The organization now reaches down to the barrio (village) level with its members speaking or singing before gatherings, distributing pins, combs, t-shirts and political brochures, or simply shaking hands and courting votes for Marcos.

Mrs. Marcos is the group's honorary chairman. Mrs. Pacita Madrigal Gonzalez, administrator of Philippine cottage industries, is the national chairman.

The Blue Ladies, according to Mrs. Gonzalez, "don't belong to anybody but to the people and to the whole country."

HEALTH AND CHIROPRACTIC

By Dr. W. C. Chapel, Former President Lincoln Chiropractic College

Q. What is Sciatica?

A. Sciatica is an inflammation of the sciatic nerve (that extends from the hip to the foot) and may be caused by such things as "slipped disc," short leg, calcium deposits, tumor, displaced vertebrae, hip, or foot problems, to name a few.

Q. How can I know if my leg pain is due to sciatica or some other problem?

A. Your D. C. (Doctor of Chiropractic) is qualified by professional training to make this determination from his findings of a thorough examination.

Q. What treatment is best?

A. Your D.C. may recommend bedrest on a firm mattress, the use of heat (tub soaks, hot packs), advise you as to posture and work habits, suggest mild exercises and prescribe a series of corrective treatments designed to remove the cause of the symptoms. Correction always depends on removal of the cause.

Big Jack Nicklaus Back In Old Winning Stride

By BOB GREEN Associated Press Golf Writer LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — It's bad news for golf's touring pros: Big Jack—the real Jack Nicklaus—is back, once again flashing the awesome form that made him the most feared competitor in the game.

played so well," the Ohio strongman said Sunday after romping in with an easy victory in the $100,000 Sahara Invitational. Nicklaus, who notched his 30th career victory before his 30th birthday, closed with a brilliant 65, six under par on the 6,751 yard Sahara-Nevada Country Club course, for a 272 total, 12 under par.

He had a four-stroke margin over Frank Beard, the third-round leader, who finished with a 70 for 276. Dave Hill, 69, and Dale Douglass, 66, tied for third at 277 with Grier Jones, 68, and British Open champion Tony Jacklin, 69, next at 278.

Ability And Luck Keep Davidson Undeclared

By ED YOUNG Associated Press Writer Unbeaten Davidson is halfway to its first-ever Southern Conference football championship today because, at long last, it has managed to put together an invincible parlay — ability and luck.

Eight times, W&M moved inside the Wildcat 25. Six times they failed to score. With 2:24 left, the Indians recovered a fumble at the Cats' 36. Moments later, in field goal range, they fumbled the ball back at the 14.

William and Mary's homecoming and helped set up the other with his passing, but the decisive points came on Ed Terry's first period 22-yard field goal. W&M coach Lou Holtz, whose Indians are 2-3 over-all 1-1 in the conference, and haven't played anything other than a close game yet, came out of the Saturday defeat nursing a case of nerves.

Richmond had a few anxious moments before turning the game into a runaway in the second half. Quarterback Charlie Richards proved more than the Pirates could handle, running for 74 yards and passing for 218 and two touchdowns.

Untried Field Goal Really Put The Boot To Green Bay Eleven

Bruce Gossett kicked two field goals for the Los Angeles Rams, but it's the one he didn't try that really put the boot to the Green Bay Packers.

Los Angeles had the ball on the Green Bay 11-yard line Sunday with six seconds left in the first half—in position for an almost certain three points for a kicker of Gossett's ability.

Hoping To Save Pilots Franchise

Seattle Mayor Floyd Miller last week asked for a meeting with Cronin "to tell the Seattle story" before American League owners meet Tuesday, presumably to discuss the Pilots' baseball franchise.

So, quarterback Roman Gabriel shipped a field goal try and whipped a touchdown pass to Wendell Tucker, which gave the Rams a 27-14 lead en route to a 34-21 National Football League victory.

The victory gave the Coast Division-leading Rams a 5-0 mark and knocked Green Bay, 3-2, out of a first-place tie with Minnesota in the Central Division.

Peace Corps Protest Upsets White House

By JAMES P. POLK Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is reported to be upset over public protests against the war in Vietnam by Peace Corps volunteers in at least six foreign countries. Peace Corps sources said volunteers gave other petitions to U.S. ambassadors in Bolivia, Colombia and Guyana and made a public statement against the war in Ecuador. In Washington, about 200 members of the Peace Corps staff—a fourth of the total—took the day off Wednesday to stage a walk to the Capitol as part of the Moratorium protests after the antiwar rally at the Peace Corps headquarters. Peace Corps officials said no punitive action would be taken against any of the volunteers who participated in the protests.

Barefoot Boys Help To Man Laotian Outpost

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN
Associated Press Writer
NONG BUA LAO, Laos (AP)
— Deep in the forest country of central Laos, a small group of barefoot boys led by a weathered and war-weary Lao colonel waits each night for the enemy to come. They live, eat, train and wait behind rough barricades of tree trunks hacked from the forests that surrounded the camp. Behind the barricades are flimsy one-man rattan and bamboo huts.

He has been in the army 15 years. The enemy has always been the same, and Boun still refers to the North Vietnamese the Viet Minh, the term the French used when he was in the French army.

Inside the huts the spare possessions indicate the poverty of the owners, who are Laos' first line of defense against an increasing threat from Communist-led forces.

Nong Bua Lao is only one hundred of similar outposts dotted along strategic roads and trails the length of Laos.

In one hut a picture of Laotian King Savang cut from a magazine is tacked to the wall. In another picture of Buddha has been put up.

A line linking the most forward of them would travel roughly down the center of Laos, delineating the area controlled by the government of Prince Souvanna Phouma from that held by the North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao. The posts are a hangover from the French administration, when a chain of forts called pions linked all major centers in Indochina.

There are a few other belongings—pakoma, the long gaily colored sarong favored by Laotian men, a broken mirror and an aluminum cup.

Although patrols are constantly sent out from these outposts they are overrun frequently by better-equipped and trained forces. This week a commando post at Pakse, similar to Nong Bua Lao, was overrun and all 11 defenders killed.

The dusty ground inside the barricades is slit by trenches and in the center is a sand-bagged command post with a rough wooden table and a field telephone which connects with another outpost three miles away.

The enemy managed to elude patrols totaling 90 men, creep up and slit the throats of the sentries and destroy the camp.

The telephone and a heap of mortar rounds outside and four light machine guns are the only indication that Nong Bua Lao is in the center of the Laotian war.

PTA Meet Held At Wahl-Coates

The first meeting of the 1969-70 Wahl-Coates Parent-Teacher Association was held Thursday evening.

The can-like "Hydro-Lab," 16 feet long and 8 feet in diameter, supplied its own electricity as it lay 50 feet below the surface of the Atlantic ocean a mile offshore.

The proposed budget was accepted. The Rev. Tommy Payne, vice-president, spoke, asking those present to make the association a meaningful involvement for all.

Previous undersea habitats have received their electrical power from cables running down from the surface. This one relied on a fuel cell similar to the type used for power in the Apollo space flights.

An open house followed the program and parents were invited to visit classrooms and meet their children's teachers.

Emerging from the 48-hour test Saturday, Dr. Larry Hallanger of Port Huemene, Calif., said:

"The biggest problem was that it was like a sauna bath in there—a steaming jungle. The fuel cell worked fine, but they should have installed a dehumidifier or air conditioner."

The success of the experiment means that the Navy could now conceivably build an undersea station where men could watch for enemy submarine activity without having a surface platform or support ship above to tip off the enemy.

Hydro-Lab Has One Big Fault

RIVIERA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Four men who spent two days in the first self-contained undersea laboratory say it has great possibilities—but something will have to be done about the humidity.

Further details of the program may be obtained from the Pitt county ASCS office. Growers desiring to sell sweet potatoes under this program should submit their offers to the county ASCS office not later than 3:00 p.m., Friday, October 31, 1969.

The telephone and a heap of mortar rounds outside and four light machine guns are the only indication that Nong Bua Lao is in the center of the Laotian war.

It is halfway between the Mekong River and the Ho Chi Minh Trail which is guarded by nearly 30,000 North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao troops.

The garrison at Nong Bua Lao numbers 86 today. Many are young as 13. They have few weapons and almost no uniforms. Their pay is $5 a month.

Two weeks ago the unit, impressively designated Commando Battalion, No. 107. Then a patrol ran into a North Vietnamese unit estimated at 500.

Overwhelming fire-power killed 21 commandos.

Col. Boun Havaeth, 40-year-old commander of the battalion, takes the threat casually.

Tobacco Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

The production of tobacco is becoming more mechanized each year. Modern machinery is rapidly replacing many of the hand labor operations formerly used.

In order to get the highest return from your investment in modern tobacco production and harvesting equipment, it must be given proper care. Adequate and timely adjustments, repair, lubrication and protection against rust and other weather hazards will largely determine the life of farm machinery.

By using the information found in the operators manual, the normal life of a tractor and other farm machinery on the average farm can be doubled.

Dirt and dust are the worst enemies of the internal combustion engine. Use of proper grade of lubricating oil, and changing oil according to the manufacturer's recommendation, is very important. Oil filter cartridges should be replaced frequently to protect the moving parts of the engine and to reduce wear. Also, proper servicing of the air cleaner is very important because the tractor engine uses approximately 9000 gallons of air for each gallon of fuel burned.

When cultivation is complete, soil working tools should be cleaned regularly and protected from the weather. The use of rust preventative material on ground engaging parts will keep them in good shape for the next cultivation season.

Tobacco transplanters can be made to do a better job if they are properly adjusted and operated. After the crop is transplanted, the water tanks should be drained and stored in a dry place. All soil moving parts of the transplanter should be cleaned and protected from rust with a light coating of a rust preventing material.

Sprayers and dusters not properly cleaned when not in use do not usually work at the beginning of use in the next season. A machine that does not work properly will cause insecticide damage to leaves because of heavy and uneven applications.

One of the most important pieces of equipment on a tobacco farm is the curing system. Many barn fires and much poor grade tobacco can be traced to improperly operated curing systems. Curing systems should be completely checked before the first tobacco is barned. Information concerning specific units can be obtained from the manufacturer. The grower who takes proper care of his equipment will be repaid by its greater efficiency and longer life.

Train accidents have increased from 4,149 in 1961 to 7,294 in 1967, up 75.8 per cent. Train accidents exceeded 8,000 in 1968.

Washington (AP) — Spurred by the "new and catastrophic potential for death and destruction" in train wrecks, the Nixon administration has proposed the first comprehensive federal railroad safety legislation.

Sending the recommendations to Congress, Transportation Secretary John Volpe last week cited "a steadily rising trend" in rail accidents, many involving shipments of hazardous poisons and explosives.

"Existing rail safety statutes are inadequate to enable the government to respond to the problem," Volpe said, noting that—in an abrupt about-face since last spring—the railroads themselves now seem to agree.

Unlike airlines and trucks, railroads thus far have escaped any sort of comprehensive minimum safety standards set by the government, despite attempts in the past to pass such legislation.

The proposal itself does not outline specific safety measures, rather it would permit the secretary of transportation to draw up regulations setting minimum standards for, among other items, tracks, rolling stock and loading procedures.

The administration bill, written from the report of a task force composed of railroad management, labor and government representatives, is the third such safety measures to be introduced this year.

Sens. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., and Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., have introduced their own bills—both of which remain in committee.

Since 1964, derailments of trains carrying hazardous materials have forced the warlike evacuation of more than 40 American communities.

ON ITS WAY — Photographers take pictures through airport windows at West Berlin's Tegel Airfield Sunday of a Polish turboprop as it prepared to take off for East Berlin, its original destination. The plane was forced to land in the western sector of the city on a flight from Warsaw by two East German defectors. The two were granted permission to remain and the plane continued its flight. ### The Pause

As another frantic growing season is slowly but deliberately brought to a close by the master of the thermometer we need to stop and look back. Nostalgia may prevail when certain events or conditions come to mind. But whimsical dallying with the past comes to an unceremonious halt when 1200 pound tobacco, 50 bushel corn and 1500 pounds of peanuts come to mind. We can market only what we produce and no more.

If we expect to do better next year, now is the time to act because this is the first day of next year. The past is useful only as a compass to guide us into the future and farm records serve this purpose. If you don't have a good system to keep records, now is the time to develop one. If you do have a good record system, now is the time to use it.

Did the clover die out of the beef cattle pastures because of a potash deficiency? Was the pH too low in the tobacco field? We should be able to answer questions such as these. If not, then any past successes have come "by guess and by gosh" and not by reason or design.

The soil is the foundation of every farm business and as such should be of vital concern. The state of the present fertility and the future needs can be gotten through a systematic schedule of chemical soil test. These tests are available without charge from the Soil Testing Division of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture.

The Soil Testing Division uses a standardized method of reporting that provided an index value between zero and one hundred for all the mineral elements. This system allows comparison of tests from year to year. Therefore, progress in building and maintaining soil fertility can be measured by using meaningful records. Now is the time to begin work on next year. Make the best of a poor memory and record what is fresh in the mind now. Above all, take time to find out why everything didn't turn out the way you planned.

The Soil Testing Division distributes the necessary supplies for using their services through the County Extension Office, other farm agencies and from the laboratory office in Raleigh.

Former Tar Heel Found In Wreck

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A former North Carolinian was one of three persons found Sunday in the wreckage of small twin-engine airplane in a dense swamp.

The Civil Air Patrol identified the victims as Dr. F. Stanley Hardee and his 13-year-old son, Robbie, and Dr. Arthur Fisher of Deland.

Hardee is formerly of Thomasville, N. C.

CAP officials said they had been looking for the plane for over two weeks. The plane disappeared on a flight from St. Petersburg to Deland.

JENKINS SALUTED

Dr. Leo Jenkins, president of East Carolina University, was saluted on WNCT-TV, Channel Nine, as "Today's Outstanding North Carolina Citizen" on Saturday.

Dr. Jenkins was recently elected chairman of the 1969 Eastern Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

The ABC countries is the term applied to Argentina, Brazil and Chile.

Trophy Goes To Stanford U. Testing Chapter Prexy Coeducational Living

Mrs. Harold McGrath, former president of the Coastal Plains Chapter of the Data Processing Management Association has been presented an award for advancement in membership by the Coastal Plains group.

MRS. HAROLD McGRATH

Mrs. McGrath is an instructor at Pitt Technical Institute in the two-year technical program in Electronic Data Processing that started this September. The trophy, given to the Eastern Carolina Chapter, was for having the fifth greatest percentage increase in membership for the 220 chapters in the world.

Mrs. Grath served as president during the time that the award was judged. She is married to Dr. Harold McGrath, a professor in the School of Business at East Carolina University.

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Young men and women at a Stanford University dormitory are living in adjacent single rooms in what officials call an experiment in advanced coeducational living.

"It's going quite well," says William Leland, associate dean of students.

Many of the students' parents approve. No parent has complained.

Joseph Katz, executive director of the school's Institute for the Study of Human Problems, said the 40 students' coeducational living may have led to a "partial moratorium on sex."

Students initiated the change last spring by drafting a floor plan assigning names of men and women in next-door rooms at Roble Hall, previously an all-women's dorm and one of the oldest structures on campus.

Peter Bulkeley, a new dean visiting Roble, saw the suggested plan on a wall and thought the assignments already had been approved.

"Sounds like a great idea," he said. Asst. Prof. John Palmer and his wife, directors of the dormitory, understood Bulkeley's remark to mean official approval and men were moved into rooms assigned by the plan.

The bath-and-toilet problem was resolved by assigning one to men and one to women. "I approve 100 per cent," said

Currently she is instructing 43 full time students and 21 night time students in the Data Processing course at Pitt Technical Institute.

What do you bid now? A.—Two no trump. Taking into consideration the promoted value of your holding in partner's suits, this hand is the equivalent of a sound opening bid and should produce a good play for game.

Mrs. Anne Huston Gilliland of Corvallis, Ore., whose daughter Sue lives in the dorm. "When I went to Stanford 25 years ago, the boys were at one end of the campus and the girls at the other. Dates became too important. They created tension between boys and girls."

Coed Monica Ploeser of Santa Clara, Calif., said she senses a more relaxed attitude toward women among men students.

Robert Bleser of Los Angeles, a Dartmouth graduate whose son is in the group, said, "It's a fine idea. I'm not shocked at all."

Katz said the coeducational units avoid "over idealization" of the opposite sex and a good deal of the mutual teasing and destructive behavior characteristic of campus dating.

On a longer-range basis, Katz said, participants may develop attitudes that will lead them to stronger marriages.

Post Office . . .

The Angel Flight of East Carolina University.

The new Post Office was opened in August and includes 26,500 square feet of space.

It replaced a building at the intersection of Third and Evans Streets which opened in 1915.

The new facility provides 40 off-street parking spaces for patrons as well as ample off-street parking for employees and mail vehicles.

It also contains 1,350 mail boxes. The old building had only 684 boxes.

The new equipment for the building includes a self-service postal unit, bill changer, and a scale for weighing packages.

Postmaster since Nov. 2, 1965, Dudley began working with the Greenville Post Office in 1934. He was named superintendent of mails in 1943 and assistant postmaster in 1960.

He is married to the former Elizabeth Madrin and they have one daughter, Mrs. Cecil Turner of Greenville.
