

Area Highway Needs Being Studied: Faircloth

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Speaking to Rotary Club members and guests last night, North Carolina Highway Commission chairman Lauch Faircloth indicated four areas of highway improvement under consideration for Greenville and immediate areas.

"In just a few weeks, we hope to start acquiring right-of-way to improve Tenth Street . . . a part of 264 business that is important—not only to general traffic but to your university particularly," Faircloth said.

In announcing plans for this area as being "in the works," Faircloth also said, "We have under consideration a major connector from US 264 on the east side of Greenville north across the Tar River to tie back into US 13-NC 11 in the vicinity of the Burroughs - Wellcome plant."

Faircloth said that "after much study and after talks with other state agencies involved in North Carolina's economy," the decision has been made to place major emphasis on primary road development across the state and particularly in the eastern part of the state. "Further secondary road paving will not help one iota," in developing the state's interest and economic future, the chairman stressed.

Support was noted for the completion of the five-laning of the US 264 bypass from Elm Street west and Faircloth added that commissioner Arthur Tripp's interest in the project would greatly benefit the completion program.

In addition, Faircloth said that the commission is studying to see whether it would be feasible to upgrade 264 or whether to improve NC 30-33 as a means of improving travel between Greenville and Washington.

Faircloth did not make references to any decisions that have been made toward work on these primary roads but said that consideration and "much study" would be involved in the furthering of these projects.

Citing the continuing decrease in the number of farmers, Faircloth concurred that "We must have better primary highways in this section of the state if we are to attract new industry and thereby provide jobs for the people who can no longer make it by farming."

Each year the state is spending more than $40 million for maintaining the 58,000 miles of

1970-71 School Plans Are Deferred Pending Studies

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The City Board of Education last night, deferred making a decision on the exact manner in which the school integration plan for the Greenville junior high school grades will be carried out in the 1970-71 school year until complete studies can be made.

"I think we must explore all avenues," Harding Sugg suggested. "We must look into a thorough study of the present condition of the Eppes Junior High School, whether it would be possible to repair or renovate. We must think about whether we can use one of the grammar schools for a second junior high; if building an addition to the new junior high would be the best solution. Everything must be considered before we can make the best possible decision to implement our commitment to have a totally desegregated junior school."

Other members of the board concurred in the thoughts expressed by Sugg. Mrs. Lucille Gorham made a suggestion that each member of the school board take a good look at the Eppes facility. Later, it was decided to hold the next monthly meeting at Eppes Junior High.

The board asked Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of the City Schools to make arrangements for appraisal of the Eppes land and building as a preliminary step.

Mrs. Robert Kittrell reported to the board on findings of the Facilities Committee on the status of two schools still in final phases of construction.

She noted that Eastern Elementary School is complete except for fine grading and landscape work, and that final inspection has been held up pending delivery of movable kitchen equipment.

"This school should be ready for final inspection by mid-November," she stated.

Mrs. Kittrell reported that it now seems that November 30 is the date that both E.B. Aycock Junior High and the additions at Rose High will be completed. The overall project is about 95 per cent complete, with contractors advising that remaining work will be complete within four weeks.

The two story addition, or Unit "A" at Rose High is now closed in and trim work is progressing. Classrooms on the first floor may be usable by mid-November, and the remaining work ready by the end of November. The cafeteria addition is complete to the extent it is now usable, but requires finish work for the ceiling, tile, lighting fixtures and painting touch up.

"Classes are in progress in the Shop Building, of the project," she commented. "Classes are being held there now, and work should be finished by November 15."

A date of dedication for the two new schools and the addition at Rose High has been tentatively set for Sunday, December 7.

Chairman Sugg of the School Finance Committee, reporting on the financial analysis of the school facilities in the city as of October 13, presented a report of audit

More Curfew Advised In Winston-Salem Unrest

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Chief of Police Justus Tucker recommended today to Winston-Salem Mayor M. C. Benton that a curfew be ordered Monday night be continued. The mayor promised a decision later in the day.

Benton imposed an 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew after several small bands of young Negroes roamed the city's Negro section Monday night setting minor store fires with firebombs and sniping sporadically. No major injuries or damage were reported.

The disturbances, beginning at about 8:30 and lasting until about 2:30 a.m., followed acquittal earlier Monday of a deputy sheriff accused of assaulting two Negro brothers. One of the brothers then was convicted of assaulting the deputy.

Sixteen persons were arrested on curfew violation charges and placed under $50 bond.

In addition, one was placed under $5,000 bond on a charge of major damage to property after allegedly running his car into a police car.

Police, reinforced by the recall of off-duty policemen, were out in riot gear which included helmets and sawed-off shotguns. The usual eight-hour tours of duty were extended to 12 hours. Police reserves were placed on standby.

A spokesman for the city said rock throwing started downtown, and then the disturbances moved to a Negro section.

There was no looting after several stores were firebombed in the black area.

Witnesses testified at the trial of the brothers, Lee O. Kirby, 18, and Vincent Kirby, 16, and the assistant jailer, Clinton G.

Cline, that the three had fought in the prisoner registration office adjacent to the county jail. That was on the night of Sept. 12, shortly after Vincent had been arrested on a charge of illegally shooting firecrackers in a street and Lee had been charged with interfering with the arresting officers.

Judge John C. Clifford of State District Court acquitted Cline of the assault charge brought by the brothers, but convicted Lee Kirby on two counts—interfering with the officers and assaulting Cline. He was sentenced to 30 days in prison for the interference and six months for the assault. But both sentences were suspended and, as a first offender, he was placed on probation for three years.

He also was fined $60 and given a lecture on law and order by the judge.

The trial was at a special session of the court, marked by heavy security enforced by deputies, policemen and state highway patrolmen. Many Negroes were in the overflow crowd.

Kirby's lawyer appealed to Superior Court, and he was released on $200 bond.

Vincent Kirby was not tried on the firecracker - throwing charge because juvenile officers do not swear out warrants for first offenders. Officers said that when he was arrested he had given his age as 17—a year above the legal juvenile age in North Carolina.

Report 2 Sharp Fights Near Cambodia Border

By GEIRGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops killed seven Americans, wounded 18 others and damaged two helicopters in two sharp fights Monday near the Cambodian border north of Saigon. The U.S. Command said 16 of the enemy were killed.

Farther south along the border, other American air cavalrymen exchanged machine-gun and rifle fire for nearly three hours with North Vietnamese troops 58 miles northwest of Saigon. Two helicopters supporting the ground troops were hit by machine-gun fire which wounded three crewmen, but the helicopters made it back to their bases.

U.S. spokesmen said two Americans were killed and two were wounded on the ground, and two enemy bodies were found on the battlefield.

One North Vietnamese force apparently took about 150 troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division by surprise as they waited in a landing zone 85 miles northeast of Saigo for helicopters to pick them up after a reconnaissance patrol.

The North Vietnamese opened up with a 25-round mortar barrage and machine-gun and rifle fire, killing five Americans and wounding 13 before the company could take cover.

American artillery, helicopter gunships and dive-bombers raked the enemy positions, and 14 North Vietnamese soldiers were reported killed in the 30-minute counterattack.

As the lull in the war continued in its seventh week, South Vietnamese headquarters reported a slight increase in enemy terror attacks. It said the Viet Cong attacked three hamlets along the central coast and shelled two district towns in the Mekong Delta, killing three civilians, wounding 18 and kidnapping one.

Military investigators began a search for the cause of a fire that extensively damaged the USO Club in downtown Saigon. The fire broke out about midnight Monday and burned for an hour. U.S. officials said so far there was no indication of sabotage.

No casualties were reported, but scores of Vietnamese living

Airport Body To Survey Traffic

The Pitt-Greenville Airport Authority said last night they will work on a plan in an effort to find out how many local persons travel to the Raleigh-Durham and other airports in the area to obtain air transportation.

The action came after authority chairman R.W. Howard suggested that the authority concentrate on obtaining some regularly scheduled air transportation for the local airport.

Authority members said some way of knowing how many people have to drive from Greenville to other airports for service would be helpful in their efforts.

A report on work on a line hut for the airport was made. Members were told that work on the facility is "moving along toward completion."

The line hut, constructed of brick to match the administration building will cost about $4,000, and serve as a "service station" for aircraft.

Gales Whipping Louisiana Coast

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Gale force winds from 100-mile-an-hour Hurricane Laurie began whipping Louisiana's offshore waters near the mouth of the Mississippi River today.

The powerful storm lost forward speed during the morning as it moved sluggishly through the Gulf of Mexico. The New Orleans Weather Bureau said Laurie would have a slow and erratic movement today but that a drift toward the northeast was indicated.

At 7 a.m. the hurricane center was located about 230 miles south of New Orleans after drifting eastward at 5 m.p.h. for a few hours.

Thousands of residents along Louisiana's vulnerable low coast fled inland for fear of being trapped in a danger zone.

If Laurie, the eighth hurricane of the season, curved more to the northeast, she could move onto Mississippi's coast, devastated by Hurricane Camille two months ago, or even farther east to Alabama or Florida.

Leftists Fight Japan's Police

TOKYO (AP) — An estimated 500,000 Japanese leftists staged rowdy demonstrations against the Vietnam war throughout the country today. The most serious clashes occurred in Tokyo, where 480 persons were arrested and 20 policemen were injured.

Young leftists also made abortive attempts to set off explosions at two American bases near Tokyo. But most of the radical students used Molotov cocktails against the police.

More than 75,000 policemen had been mobilized, 25,000 of them in Tokyo. Shops and offices closed early, shop windows were boarded up or shuttered, and millions hurried to get home before the turnout for the International Antiwar Day a four-year-old observance which has never caught on outside Japan.

The big Shinjuku railway station just outside Tokyo was a main target of students who hurled fire bombs and rocks at the buildings and police. Trains in and out of the station were canceled.

The station was the scene of violent attacks during the demonstration a year ago, and the demonstrators caused an estimated $1 million damage.

Reports from Okinawa said an estimated 50,000 persons took part in rallies on the island and others of the Ryukyu chain. About 15,000 demonstrators gathered in Naha to demand the immediate return of Okinawa and the scrapping of the U.S.-Japan security treaty, newsmen said.

While the militant students were fighting the police, the three opposition parties held orderly rallies attended by many thousands.

At the U.S. Air Force's Tachikawa base 30 miles west of Tokyo, 24-year-old Shinji. Kato drove past the guards in a rented car containing explosives. He was arrested at the west side of the runway, and in the car was a paper on which was written, "Will explode runway at cost of life."

Propose Further Leaf Quota Cut

FONTANA DAM, N. C. (AP) — The Tobacco Committee of the North Carolina State Grange has recommended that flue-cured tobacco allotments and quotas for next year be cut to a level which will further reduce carryover stock around 8 per cent.

A committee member said "There's just too much flue-cured tobacco."

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin must announce the 1970 quota by Dec. 1. If a cut is ordered, it would be the first since acreage-pounding production controls were adopted in the spring of 1965.

All But Biggest Polluters Pledge

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mayor James H. J. Tate signed a tough new air pollution code Monday and the city's biggest industrial polluters pledged full cooperation in cleaning up dirty air. But ironically the biggest noncomplier with the new code will be the city itself.

"Even if City Council gave me $50 million I just couldn't make the six city incinerators comply with the new law," said Streets Commissioner David M. Smallwood.

Eighteen Buried During Cave-In MEXICO CITY (AP) — Eighteen children were killed Sunday night when a sand pit caved in and buried them, according to reports reaching the capital today. Four youngsters escaped.

The children, 8 to 16 years old, reportedly had been recruited to bring sand for work on the church in the village of Tere-mendo, 10 miles north of Morelia. The overhang of the excavation collapsed as they were filling their buckets.

Load Of Books He Didn't Order

MILES CITY, Mont. (AP) — Jack Coffrin returned home from a business trip to find 4,980 pounds of books he didn't order.

The 74 cartons were accompanied by two other items which, Coffrin said, gave him a shock—a freight bill for $376.99 and invoices from the publishers for $9,095.53.

Pitt Board Of Education Supports One Per Cent Sales Tax For County

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Board of Education has endorsed the proposed one per cent sales tax for Pitt County.

"The Board of Education favors the sale tax option," Arthur S. Alford, superintendent of the Pitt County Schools, said yesterday. "Our board has endorsed the tax."

The board recognizes that there are many unmet needs that the board of commissioners will not be in a position to assist us with or provide funds for without another source of income, Alford said.

"We will have a minimum need of $400,000 for completion of the four high schools now under construction," he explained.

The school official pointed to such things as site improvements and athletic fields at the schools, and additional classroom space at the North Pitt, Conley and Farmville schools, as needs which the school board will not be able to provide the first year.

"Not only this, but we will be completely reorganizing many of the school plants as desegregation is finalized and this is going to cost us between $150,000 and $200,000. We can get by, but it will mean, in some cases, our programs will suffer if we cannot make certain basic changes in our plants as we reorganize," Alford stated.

Alford emphasized, "I am speaking here, too, in support of the sales tax, as a taxpayer and as superintendent of the county schools."

"I believe that real and personal property cannot carry the entire burden for the many needs to be met by the county commissioners. We need a broader tax base," Alford pointed out.

Property owners now are having to provide for the entire cost of the $7,965,000 made available to the schools by the 1965 bond issue, Alford said. The sales tax would enable persons who pay no ad valorem tax to help support these operations.

"There are many people living in Greenville and Pitt County who are enjoying the services provided by the county but who are not contributing one cent to the financial costs involved," stated the school superintendent.

Alford added, "I am concerned about the fact that families in the lower economic bracket might find it hard to pay this tax."

"At the same time, most of the services provided by the board of commissioners through ad valorem taxes are directly related to the needs of the poor and in this way (through a sales tax), those who are receiving the services will be paying for a part of the costs of providing them."

County commissioners recently indicated their support of the proposed tax and said they will reduce ad valorem taxes if the sales tax vote is favorable in the county.

Voters across the state will have the opportunity on Nov. 4, to indicate their feelings for or against a one per cent sales tax on a county-by-county basis.

County and municipal governments in counties voting in favor of the tax will reap the benefits from the funds collected.

One-half of the money collected in each taxing county will be returned to the county and municipal governments in relation to the amount of the ad valorem taxes levied by them, while the remaining half of the tax collected will be returned on a per capita basis.

Pitt County, according to estimates, would receive $1.06 million if all of the counties in the state would vote for the tax. Of this amount, $710,000 would go to the county government with the remaining portion distributed among the various municipal governments in the county.

"I would like to point out that the proposed one cent additional levy would be a maximum amount and that in many cases an individual would have to pay less than one-half of one cent," he said.

An individual would have to purchase an item which would cost from 30 to 35 cents in order for there to be an increase since he would still pay one cent tax on the first 29 cents purchased, Alford emphasized.

"And, a purchase would have to cost between 60 and 70 cents in order for there to be a one cent increase as a purchase of 30 to 59 cents would require tax."

Tells Of Role For UNICEF

Mrs. Miriam Carty, wife of Lt. Colonel Douglas F. Carty, spoke last night at the Woman's Club in a United Nations Day dinner sponsored by the Greenville Branch of the American Association of University Women as part of week-long activities honoring United Nations.

In her topic, "Bridge to Survival," Mrs. Carty referred to the United Nations as the world's most important family, one whose members continue to war against each other, but whose 24 year old child, UNICEF—the United Nations Children's Fund, is working in 135 countries around the world to build a bridge to survival.

"The work of UNICEF is costing 46 million dollars this year," she said, "but every dollar contributed must be matched by $3.50 from the country to which the money is sent."

"UNICEF works around the world to fight famine, hunger, leprosy, tuberculosis, yaws, and also fights ignorance and illiteracy wherever they are found."

Mrs. Carty pointed out that

"one-half the children of developing countries have never been to school a day in their lives."

She further noted and answered some of the criticisms often made against UNICEF: "that some Communists are on the payroll—but that some Communist nations are members of U.N.; that there are too many employees—but a worldwide organization cannot function without a large number of employees. Valid criticisms should be investigated, she commented, "but don't discard UNICEF... don't throw out the baby with the bath water."

"Children are the victims of our world," she said in urging "that UNICEF be strengthened and the bridge it forms be extended to go across the chasm of emotional and spiritual needs."

Mrs. Carty, a graduate of the University of Tennessee, is a world traveler, the mother of five sons, and a translator. She is at work on translating a book from Russian, and earlier completed translating a book by 30 Russian geologists into English.

Rose High Senior Semi-Finalist

Writer Jack Kerouac Dies

LOWELL, Mass. (AP)—Jack Kerouac, the beat generation writer whose books ushered in the current generation of hippies, died early today at a St. Petersburg, Fla., hospital.

Relatives in his home town of Lowell said the writer, who was in his late 40s, suffered a hemorrhage Monday night and died about 5:30 a.m. today.

His first book was titled "The Town and the City." It was a frankly autobiographical work detailing his youth in Lowell and later encounters in New York.

Perhaps his most famous book was "On the Road," a freewheeling account of his travels through the country, which popularized the notion of a "Beat Generation."

Kerouac's original intention regarding the term "beat" had to do with the idea of "beatific," a term he used for the concept of people rejecting the materialism of the United States of the 1950s, and turning instead to a frank enjoyment of the pleasures in life.

He had a daughter by his first wife. His second wife is the former Stella Samas of Lowell.

Joseph Hunter, one of Rose High School's outstanding young seniors, has been notified that he has been selected as a semifinalist in two competitive scholarship awards.

Joseph, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hunter of Greenville, is one of 1,500 semi-finalists Negro students selected from 35,000 who took qualifying examinations last spring.

This program, sponsored by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC), is equivalent to the similar program sponsored by NMSC for which a number of Rose High seniors were announced as semifinalists recently.

If Hunter becomes a finalist in this program, he will be a winner of a four year renewable scholarship which ranges from $250 to $1,500 per school year, depending on the individual needs of the student.

The NMSC is the sixth National Achievement Scholarship

Program for outstanding Negro students. The final selection will be announced sometime next spring.

On the second occasion in which he has been cited for outstanding achievement, Hunter has been nominated one of 20 finalists in North Carolina for the William Randolph Hearst-U.S. Senate Youth Program and scholarship.

Before final determination is made of the winner in this scholarship program, he must appear before a board in Raleigh on November 11 who will interview each candidate for the scholarship.

Hunter a tall, muscular student, played football for three years on the Eppes High team, as a defensive end.

A member of the Executive Council at Rose High, Hunter is also active in a number of local church activity groups. He is vice-president of the Young People's Christian League; vice-president of the United Christian Youth Movement; a member of the Episcopal Young Churchmen and a member of Mt. Calvary F.W.B. Choir.

This summer he was a member of the Junior Olympics in Knoxville, Tennessee, and placed third in discus throw. He was there as a member of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States.

He has two brothers and two sisters. One brother, Alfonso, is a ninth grader at the Aycock Junior High School.

"My plans are to attend college somewhere to study architecture," Joseph notes. "I especially want to get into designing houses and small office buildings."

Principal Edward Warren commented, "Joseph is an outstanding young man in high school. He sets a good example for other students, and is a good boy to work with. He has a good character and is an all-around outstanding person."

ACHIEVEMENTS . . . of Rose High student Joseph Hunter is discussed by Joseph and Mrs. Haggard, a student counsellor at Rose High.

Bishops Approve Shift Of Power

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Sweeping changes in the way bishops help the Pope rule the Roman Catholic Church have been approved by majority votes in all nine subcommittees of the world synod of bishops, a synod source said today.

If approved by Pope Paul VI, the changes would mark the end of what some liberals have called an "absolute monarchy" that has ruled the Church for centuries.

The source said the bishops were in "remarkable agreement" on the need for broad expansion of collegiality, the principle of bishops sharing in papal decision-making.

The 146 synod delegates, the source reported, were nearly in unanimous agreement that a synod should be held at least every two years and possibly every year to advise the Pope and that the Pope and the Vatican should keep in constant touch with the bishops on all important doctrinal and disciplinary matters.

The source said this would avert the chance of a Pope issuing a ruling, such as Pope Paul's ban on artificial birth control, without full consultation with the world's bishops. On the other hand, national bishops conferences would be obliged to consult the Roman Curia, the Vatican's administrative organ, before taking major decisions for their own countries.

Senior Citizens Club Is Told Bond Program Plans

Charles Horne, director of the Greenville Utilities Commission, was the featured speaker at the meeting of the Greenville Senior Citizens Thursday at the Greenville Recreation Center.

Horne discussed the bond issue which will be voted on Dec. 2.

He said the bond program will not increase or affect taxes and will not require an increase in the utilities rates.

Horne stressed the program will be carried out in the most economical manner possible. The bond program, if passed, will provide the utilities necessary for immediate and long range growth of our community.

Special music was presented by Mrs. Cora Lee. The devotional was given by the Rev. Adrian Brown.

Mrs. Nannie Brown and Mrs. D. W. Moore were welcomed as new members. Club President Mrs. Elizabeth

Savage presided at the meeting.

A covered dish luncheon was enjoyed by the members present. Hostesses for the luncheon were Mrs. Phebe Bland, Mrs. Rosa Whitehurst, Mrs. Mattie Tucker and Mrs. Eloise Smith.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 6.

Five Sworn To Ports Authority

RALEIGH (AP)—Five new members of the North Carolina Ports Authority were sworn in today.

They are Rye B. Page of Wilmington, State Rep. Henry C. Boshamer of Morehead City, Woodrow Price of Raleigh, E. G. Anderson of Robersonville and S. W. Dunn Jr. of Greenville.

Oslo, Norway, was formerly known as Christiansa.

$110,000 Going To 5 Children

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jayne Mansfield's five children will receive $22,000 each in a settlement of a suit filed after the actress died in a car crash. Superior Court Judge Arthur Marshall also approved Monday an agreement that three of the children receive an additional $5,000 each because of their injuries in the accident that killed their mother June 29, 1967.

Miss Mansfield was on her way from Biloxi, Miss., to New Orleans, after a nightclub appearance.

The settlement was reached with Gus Stevens, the nightclub owner in whose car Miss Mansfield was riding.

The children, by three husbands, are: Jayne Marie Mansfield, 19, Miklos Hargitay, 10, Zoltan Hargitay, 9, Mariska Hargitay, 5, and Antonio Cimber, 3.

Weed Control Is Top Goal For Cultivation

By S.J. Weeks

Agricultural Extension Agent
The primary purpose of crop cultivation is weed control. This can be accomplished with such crops as corn by following good land preparation and cultivation practices. When the soil is disturbed by these practices the rate of soil erosion (both water and wind) increases.

No tillage crop production will help eliminate erosion losses, and at the same time produce good yields. In some areas, especially where high rates of wind erosion occur no tillage crop production could be very profitable.

No land preparation is required when no tillage concept is practiced. But, special planting equipment will be required along with a good herbicide program in order to make no tillage crop production successful.

First, the crop needs to be seeded in an existing soil. This could be a permanent pasture, a winter cover crop or an old undisturbed crop residue such as corn stubble. If the crop or corn is to be planted in a field of cover crop or permanent pasture the existing foliage should be killed with a contact herbicide to prevent competition for plant nutrients. Also, a good premerger weed control herbicide should be applied to kill weeds yet to emerge in the field. Both of these chemicals can be applied prior to planting, or at the time of planting. The crop is fertilized and top dressed in the usual manner.

To get the best job of no tillage planting done a good smooth seedbed is required. This means that the field in which the cover crop is seeded should smooth well when seeding in the fall.

There is little difference in out-of-pocket costs, since the reduction in machinery and power cost may be nearly offset by additional herbicide requirements. Yields produced by the two methods have been about the same.

Dr. Wooten Elected To Ass'n Of Family Doctors

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Dr. Harriet H. Wooten of 1807 Circle Dr., Greenville, N.C., has been elected to active membership in the American Academy of General Practice, a national association of more than 31,000 family doctors.

As a member of the AAGP, Dr. Wooten will be required to complete 150 hours of postgraduate medical study every three years. The program, unique among national medical associations, is designed to help member physicians keep abreast of the latest scientific developments in medicine.

Founded in 1947, the AAGP is the country's second largest national medical association. It has been instrumental in the establishment of a new primary specialty in family practice. The Academy's postgraduate program is the foundation of eligibility for family doctors now in practice who apply for certification in the new specialty.

New Brownie Troop Invested Yesterday

SMILING BROWNIES — The investiture ceremony of Brownie Troop 451 was held yesterday afternoon.

The new unit's leaders are Mrs. Mavis Butts and Mrs. Doris Hudson.

Girls of Brownie Troop 451 held their investiture ceremony Monday afternoon, opening with the Pledge of Allegiance, followed by "America" played on the trumpet by Scout Gary Butts.

Two tall candles were lit, representing the two parts of the Brownie Promise, and three smaller candles for the "Brownie Tri." Each girl said the Brownie Girl Scout Promise and received her pin.

The ceremony was closed with the girls singing the "Brownie Smile Song." Refreshments were served by Cincy Buck. Girls invested into the troop were: Virginia Baker, Susan Boudreaux, Debra Boyd, Cindy Buck, Lisa Butts, Kim Daniels, Pam Evans, Susan Hudson, Sandra Padgett and Susan Tucker.

Miss Anne Dail Weds In High Noon Ceremony

AYDEN — Miss Dorothy Anne Dail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jolly Dail, and James Martin Booth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Booth were married on Saturday 12 o'clock noon at Bethany Free Will Baptist Church, Rt. 1, Winterville.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Ralph Messick of Wilson amid a setting of bridal palms and candelabra holding lighted tapers. Floor baskets of white mums and gladioli were placed on each side of the altar where the couple knelt for their vows on a satin-covered prie-dieu.

Music was provided by Mrs. Joe E. Whitaker of Ayden, organist, and Mrs. Ralph Messick, soloist. Mrs. Messick sang "I Love Thee," "Through The Years" and "The Wedding Prayer" as the benediction.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of candlelight Du-lucnet satin styled with an empire bodice fully appliqued with alencon lace. The long, full Bishop sleeves of imported illusion with fitted satin blouson and bow at the wrist, extended to full lace ruffles over the hands. The chapel train was caught with a French bow at the waist back. The gown had an A-line skirt appliqued in alencon lace. The lace on bodice and skirt was embroidered in crystals and seed pearls.

Her bridal veil was a formal length mantilla of imported illusion with alencon lace framing the face and extending around the full veil. Matching appliques were scattered over the veil.

The original bridal gown, headdress and the gowns of all attendants were designed and fashioned by Mrs. Elwood Dav-entport, aunt of the bride.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of Georgianna orchids and pixie carnations accented with white roses and streamers of ivory satin ribbon.

Miss Jackie Dail served her sister as maid of honor. Her formal gown of camellia pink shantung was styled along princess lines with fullness in the back caught at the waist with a French bow. The long Bishop sleeves of silk illusion had fitted waistbands of embroidered lace roses in shades of pink. Her short veil of illusion was attached to a pressed bow of matching fabric. She carried a bouquet of variegated miniature carnations in shades of pink and rose tied with matching satin streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Judy Dail, sister of the bride, Miss Cathy Booth, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Patricia Stroud all of Ayden, and Mrs. Richard R. Cox of Greenville. They wore gowns of Better Times Rose similar to the honor attendant and carried matching bouquets.

Mr. Booth served as best man for his son. Ushers were William F. Booth of Raleigh and George Booth of Ayden, brothers of the bridegroom, John Richard Buch of Ayden and Walter Daniel Cleaton of Wilson.

Junior usher was Jolly Dail, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Dail chose for her daughter's wedding, a dress of Debutante blue textured silk wool with an a-line skirt, fitted bodice featuring rolled collar with jewel trim, and matching accessories.

Mrs. Booth wore a celery green sheath of silk shantung with appliques of lace. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

The bride is a graduate of Ayden High School, Mount Olive College and is now a student at East Carolina University.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Ayden High School and Chohan College. He is now attending East Carolina University.

For traveling, the bride changed to a sleeveless suit of Valeria red with long sleeve blouse of navy and red silk print and navy accessories. She wore an orchid lifted from her bouquet.

Show Respect While The Person Is Living

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our family is divided on something and we'd like your opinion. Our father and mother were married for 32 years. Eight months ago, Mother died after a lingering illness and Dad was so broken up over it we thought we were going to have to bury him, too.

After six months Dad's grief miraculously vanished when on a vacation to recuperate he met a woman slightly younger than Mother. You guessed it. They are planning to be married soon. Some feel that out of respect to Mother, Dad should wait a full year to remarry. Others say it's not necessary. What do YOU say, Abby?

DEAR ABBY: Waiting to show "respect" for the deceased is a pretense. The time to show "respect" is while that person is living.

If your father made your mother happy, and gave her a good life, that is all the "respect" any woman wants. If he wasn't a good husband, waiting a year to remarry (or 20 years!) will not show "respect" to a deceased wife. It's too late. She is gone!

DEAR ABBY: Our teenage daughter's boyfriend recently went into the service. He wrote and asked her to send him a picture of her in a BIKINI, and one in a SHEER SHORTY NIGHTLY. He said he wants to put it on a display board!

Our daughter doesn't have any pictures of herself that fit that description yet, but she wrote and told him she would have some taken right away and send them to him.

We disapprove, for frankly we think Christians should not be seen in lustful attire as he has requested. But it seems that she desires to fulfill his every wish rather than abide by our teaching.

Don't you think if this boy really respected her he would not have asked for such pictures? Also don't you think that if she had proper respect for herself and her parents she would try to forget this boy?

DEAR PARENTS: Since the boy did ask, and your daughter responded in the affirmative, I would say the matter is out of your hands. But you are correct in stating the boy lacks respect for his "girl" and she lacks respect for herself.

DEAR ABBY: I notice that some of your readers object to people referring to "police officers" as "cops."

Why? There is nothing derogatory about it. I am told by a British friend that "COP" is short for "CONSTABLE ON PATROL."

In San Francisco where I grew up we had a beloved Irish cop who settled our baseball disputes and was our friend and Father Confessor. We all called him a "cop" and meant no disrespect. Of course this was a long time ago, as I am a veteran of World War I and II. Best regards.

Bridge Solves One Big Bottleneck

Dedication of the $15 million Cape Fear Bridge in Wilmington yesterday is a giant step forward for the North Carolina Highway Commission. The unique bridge is the most expensive ever built in the state. It employs a lift type span to allow passage of ocean vessels underneath. It is 3,040 feet long and has four traffic lanes with two 27-foot roadways separated by a median barrier rail.

The bridge not only will relieve a major traffic bottleneck in Wilmington, but it will also provide the crossing of the Cape Fear for several highways, including U. S. 17. Hopefully the completion of the Cape Fear bridge which will carry the heavy traffic on U. S. 17, a major north south highway, will hasten the day when improvements will be made the entire length of this highway.

Almost everyone agrees that U. S. 17 should be dual laned. Traffic is heavy on this route and there are a number of major cities along its way. So far as Greenville is concerned, if U. S. 17 is four laned an eventual dual lane link from Greenville to Wilmington would give our city adequate access to the north.

Bridging the Cape Fear was one of the major bottlenecks in dual laning N. C. 17 through North Carolina. Now that this has been accomplished we hope that the entire length of U. S. 17 can be improved.

Study Group Is Broadly Based

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
 RALEIGH — The real news about formation of a special study commission to assess and analyze strengths and weaknesses of the Democratic party in North Carolina was its make-up.

Barbour of Durham; former State Sen. Irwin Belk of Charlotte.

Also, Charles Rose of Fayetteville, a law partner of former Governor Sanford and an indicated candidate for Congress; Bob Bingham of Boone, an announced candidate for presidency of the state Young Democrats Clubs; Dr. Reginald Hawkins of Charlotte, unsuccessful candidate for governor last year; Rep. Henry Frye of Greensboro; city councilman John Winters of Raleigh. Hawkins, Frye and Winters are Negroes.

Close — While insisting upon a broad base it appears at the same time that the study commission includes a goodly number of Scott administration stalwarts. A number of these are legislators or have legislative connections. They include Sen. John Burney of Wilmington, Rep. Claude Debruhl of Buncombe County, Sen. Hector McGeachy of Fayetteville, Sen. Gordon Allen of Roxboro, Rep. Clarence Leatherman of Lincoln.

And Rep. W. K. Mauney of Cleveland, Sens. George M. Wood of Camden, W. W. Station of Lee, Lindsay C. Warren of Goldsboro.

Others equally as active in supporting Scott both as a candidate and his programs as the commission are Rep. Kenneth C. Rovall Jr. of Durham, Rep. Jimmy Love of Sanford; Rep. Liston Ramsey of Madison, former House Speaker H. Clifton Blue of Aberdeen; new House clerk Jo Ann Smith of Raleigh and Senate reading clerk Eugene Simmons of Tarboro; former Rep. Herschel Harkins of Asheville.

Hunt — Then, to head the study commission as its general chairman the party leaders chose young, energetic James B. (Jim) Hunt Jr. of Wilson, who has served as president of the state's UYDC and who agreed to accept the challenge of such an assignment.

It will be a difficult one. Scott wished Hunt luck, saying "you'll need it."

And Hunt responded, "Our party is not sick," he said, "it is alive, well and strong. We can be stronger."

He added that he does not expect the study commission "to work miracles." But, he said, "out of it will come, I hope, a revitalized Democratic party in North Carolina"

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

Gov. Bob Scott and other state party leaders had been planning such a study for some time. A week earlier Scott disclosed that the committee was being formed.

There was speculation about whether it would be a small, closely-knit group or a big one. Who would serve on it? Well, it's a big one — 60 members. But even then it may not be big enough.

Scott, announcing appointment of the committee at a news conference, stressed that it was "broad based" and represented "many shades of political philosophy." He said he felt its work would be "doomed from the beginning" without a broad spectrum of political opinion.

Members — Members of the study commission include three former governors—Luther H. Hodges, Terry Sanford and Dan Moore, Moore was the only one attending the initial session.

Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor is on the list of members. So is Rep. Phil Godwin of Gates County, scheduled to be the next Speaker of the House.

Neither of these attended the announcement meeting in Raleigh at which the commission began preparing a paper on issues. It was explained that it would not be possible and would not be expected that all of 60 members attend every meeting.

Other prominent names on the membership list included two former state chairmen, Bert Bennett of Winston-Salem and I. T. Valentine of Nashville.

Others — Others included the state chairman Jimmy Johnson of Charlotte, the vice chairman, Mrs. Margaret Harper of Southport, the party's executive director, Charles

Pitt UF Seeing Good Start, Yet Far To Go

United Fund seems to be off to a good start with collections reported yesterday at over $40,000. Added to that is a check for $19,625 which United Fund officials received yesterday from DuPont employees. This means that the UF has reached nearly half its goal of $123,000 for this year.

It hardly needs to be said again that United Fund supports a number of organizations which touch the lives of almost everyone in Pitt County. The services which these organizations render would be irreplaceable if they should cease to function.

However, we must point out that the county still has a long way to go to meet the goal which has been set for this year's United Fund Drive. Every campaign worker should redouble his efforts and every citizen should give cheerfully when he is approached by a worker. In this way the drive can be completed in the shortest period of time and with the minimum amount of stress for everyone.

All of us recognize the value of the participating United Fund agencies. That should make it easier for each of us to make our contribution to the drive.

Nixon Refused To Duck Impact

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — President Nixon emphatically rejected a series of proposals from Republican Senators aimed at easing the political impact on him of last Wednesday's anti-war Moratorium, some of them given to him at a confidential White House huddle on Oct. 6.

Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, who denounced the whole Moratorium idea as having originated in a Communist conference in East Berlin, advised the President to declare Oct. 15 a "national prayer day" — a device he thought could actually top the anti-war demonstration.

But most of the suggestions that came to Mr. Nixon were designed to put the President on the wide of those wanting the quickest possible exit from Vietnam, without endorsing immediate withdrawal or withdrawal by any specific date.

Thus Sen. Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania strongly urged Mr. Nixon to meet with anti-war student leaders in the White House and declare his own support for a "day of commitment" to peace. That should be followed, said Schweiker, by a Presidential address to the nation the evening of Oct. 15, explaining why a rigid withdrawal timetable would be self-defeating and asking for patience and restraint.

Scheiker also proposed a meeting between Mr. Nixon and wives of U.S. airmen now in North Vietnamese POW camp to dramatize Hanoi's intransigence.

Along those same lines, Sen. Charles E. Percy of Illinois told Mr. Nixon that a bold, clear-cut step halting all military action in South Vietnam was vital to show that, whereas former President Johnson talked about peace, Mr. Nixon had gone beyond talk to action. Percy's point: a slow withdrawal of troops is not enough to dramatize Mr. Nixon's own efforts to end the war.

The President was polite, seemed receptive—but rejected every single suggestion. A footnote: Leaders of the peaceful, non-radical moratorium are fearful that the next national anti-war demonstration in mid-November, under the direction of the radical MOBE (the New Mobilization Committee to End the War), will result in violence, thus contaminating the highly successful Oct. 15 demonstration which included both activist students and non-activist middle-class businessmen and housewives — but very few radicals.

Return of the Dixiecrats? Lily-white "regular" Mississippi Democrats, ousted from seats on the Democratic National Committee by Negro-dominated "loyalist" Democrats, are considering an ingenious recovery plan.

The scheme involves a most democratic device: direct election. Under consideration is a bill for next year's session of the legislature to establish direct election of national con-

AUTHORITY

For a great many centuries both learned and unlearned persons have been arguing about the authority of the Bible. Does it really have any authority? Well, we can be sure that it lacks authority then it lacks the capacity to do anything good in our behalf or in behalf of humanity in general.

The authority of the Bible rests on the fact that it represents a disclosure that God has made of Himself and his purposes. We look at a created universe and feel justified in assuming a Creator. But what is He like? We have to turn to some source of authority before we can answer that question. The Bible teaches us that God is love and that He is maintaining relationships with us every day on the basis of that love. He sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through him might be saved (John 3:17).

Think about authority. It is important. Because authority has often been misused we have come to be suspicious as to its real worth. Tyrants brandish their swords in the name of authority. Spell-binders of all varieties beat their chests and ask all and sundry to look to them for the real redemption of the human race. It is incredible that nations and races should fall, as they often do, under the spell of one man or one group of men. Authority is impressive. We may suspect it all we have a mind to, but whether it is a Book or a form of government, or a suffering minority demanding their rights, authority has its place and must be heeded.

Image-Makers Pondered

The question that is raised implicitly in Joe McGinniss's book never is clearly answered. The question is simply this: In the political arena, can a mastery of the techniques of television, in themselves, create something out of nothing?

McGinniss is a young newspaperman who infiltrated his way into the inner ranks of Nixon's 1968 campaign. By keeping his mouth shut and his affable eyes open, he was able to sit in on the filming of Nixon's TV commercials. He obtained copies of confidential memoranda prepared by Nixon's TV advisors. Last month he tucked all this into a book, "The Selling of the President, 1968."

The book suffers from McGinniss's unconcealed malevolence toward Nixon. He hated the man. It is a reasonable certainty that Hubert Humphrey went through precisely the same takes and retakes, and received the same sort of coaching that Nixon received, but McGinniss barely acknowledges the fact. His target is Nixon, and he sees nothing but hypocrisy there.

The book suffers also for want of a chapter dealing cogently with the something-from-nothing question. In one form or another, the question kept arising. Thus McGinniss quotes Roger Ailes, on the eve of Nixon's carefully planned telethon: "This is the beginning of a whole new concept. This is it. This is the way they'll be elected forevermore. The next guys up will have to be performers."

He quotes William Gavin, a former English teacher who joined the Nixon campaign as an expert in image building: "(Nixon) has to come across as a person larger than life, the stuff of legend. People are stirred by the legend, including the living legend, not by the man himself. It's the aura that surrounds the charismatic figure more than it is the figure itself, that draws the followers. Our task is to build that aura."

The professional aura builders worked diligently on Nixon. Most of the time he accepted their counsel as docilely as a heavyweight perched on a three-legged stool. Now and then he balked, but the memory of the 1960 debates with Kennedy never left him. If the technicians wanted a little more makeup on his brow, or a little less light on the set, Nixon was agreeable. This was showbiz. His directors knew best.

But at the very end, just before election day, producer Harry Treleven was in despair. He feared that Humphrey would win. (Continued On Page 5)

Other Editors Say Crime Repeaters

(Christian Science Monitor)

The American Congress and American law are grappling with the question whether it is advisable to order the pre-trial detention of some criminal defendants on the ground that, if released from custody, they will go out and commit new crimes while awaiting trial.

The fundamental issue involves a difficult decision. Evidence does show that many a defendant, if released pending awaiting court action. But does this condition warrant keeping defendants in custody months and months, awaiting trial? What happens to the prisoner's constitutional right of due process of law, and the presumption that a person is innocent until proven guilty?

The ideal solution would be speedier justice—no delay in bringing a case to trial. This reform requiring updated court procedures and more judges and courts, is slow in coming. Meanwhile does today's crime emergency justify preventive detention? Or will it set in motion a habit of jailing difficult prisoners, not on the basis of proof of guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, but on the basis of a quick pre-trial hearing and prediction of recidivist behavior?

Beyond the current congressional hearings this looks to be a situation requiring early Supreme Court consideration.

Firms Quickly Adjust

By JOHN CUNIFF
 NEW YORK (AP) — The speed with which American business can adjust to changing conditions, the power of its positive thinking, the ingenuity of its marketing men should never again be doubted. Almost anything is possible.

Within hours after the government announced that the artificial sweeteners called cyclamates would be withdrawn from the general market, the multi-million dollar diet drink industry raced to comply.

Amazing when you consider that cyclamates in diet drinks were felt to be what cocoa is in a chocolate bar: an essential ingredient without which there wouldn't be a product.

The availability of cyclamates was perhaps the main reason for the development of this relatively new industry.

In the 1960s the diet drink industry became one of the fastest growing in America. Diabetics and sufferers of high blood pressure felt they could drink them without fear. And calorie-conscious drinkers found the absence of sugar much to their liking.

After the government announced its ban Saturday, because tests showed massive doses had caused cancer in rats, there was immediate speculation that some of the best known brand names in America might disappear.

How wrong! Within hours it was known that the impact would not be a death blow because new formulas already were prepared. And almost as quickly it was realized that to some in the industry here was a golden opportunity.

In marketing soap or cereal or soft drinks it is always useful to have something interesting on the label. "Ten cents off" is a common gimmick, but it's a costly one too. "New" may be more effective and less costly.

The trouble with "new" is that people have become too used to it. "New" can mean very little indeed, perhaps just a new bottle or a label. It's very difficult to come up with something really new.

Now that they have something really new to work with—revolutionarily new, in fact—the advertising and marketing men are almost breathless, although as usual, not wordless.

Almost as fast as advertisements can be prepared, at least one major soft drink manufacturer announced a brand new package with a great big "NEW." And what was new about it? For one thing, it will have none of those suspect chemicals called cyclamates. But there are, apparently more major advances. The new drink will be better tasting, of course. And, remarkably, it will contain an ingredient called "real sugar," the same kind that was removed from conventional soft drinks to create the diet drink industry.

The speed with which all this is taking place is an obvious contrast to the fight between the federal government and the cigarette industry. The evidence against cyclamates quantitatively, is a fraction of that against cigarettes.

The real story is that government is powerful in the area of food additives, the result of an amendment in 1958 to the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, giving it almost dictatorial rights.

This same power does not exist in regard to cigarettes. And, as the cigarette industry continues to claim, the evidence against cigarettes is not as conclusive as critics make it. And so that fight goes on.

'Havenots' Owe It To 'Haves'

By Elmer Roesner

Whenever anyone registers alarm or consternation over the size of consumer indebtedness, the pat rejoinder is, "Well we owe it to ourselves, don't we?"

The answer to that question is: "No!" The havenots owe it to the haves; the poor owe it to the rich. People with limited income owe it to people and institutions with fat incomes or plenty of savings.

A distinguished commercial journal said in its lead story the other day, "Considering the very high interest rates and the fact that a majority of economists are predicting an early slackening in the pace of business activity (or close to) a standstill, consumer use of installment credit has been surprisingly large."

And Why It Is

it is easy to get. Why, banks send credit cards to people who don't ask for them.

Banks can appear to be generous, even bountiful, because of the high rate of interest. Banks get from 8 1/2 to 10 per cent for loans to corporations with prime ratings. Banks and others get 18 per cent on installment credit, and the amount charged on a credit card can easily slide into an installment debt.

And the difference between 8 1/2 per cent and 18 per cent can cover a lot of losses from slow-pays and no-pays.

Handy credit is one of the causes of inflation. Money. Money Everywhere. According to Federal Reserve figures, there is about $45 billion in currency in circulation and another $150 in demand deposits. That includes commercial holdings as well as consumer holdings. In addition, consumers have borrowed or charged $116 billion, of which $95 billion is installment credit.

With all that cash credit available, it is little wonder that demand is high, high enough to bid up the price of goods and services, even if there will be a tomorrow.

A person spending $1,000 for an article pays an average of 5 per cent sales tax and, if he pays off his installments in one year, an average of 9 per cent interest. Thus it costs him $1,140 for $1,000 worth of goods; the tax and interest inflate the price by 14 per cent.

Expect A Tightening The Nixon administration has taken a firm stand against wage and price controls. But it has not been firm about credit controls. In fact, credit controls appear to be under study at the present time.

Last week the Federal Trade Commission told business that the terms "easy credit," "liberal terms" and "easy pay plan" might not violate the Truth in Lending Act but they appear to be a deceptive practice under the Federal Trade Commission Act.

The FTC may have a valid point; 18 per cent of more on unpaid balances is hardly "easy" or "liberal."

But more significant is the fact that it shows Washington's concern over credit as a cause of inflation. It may be a straw in the wind that blows toward credit controls.

Medical Examiner Supports Kopeczne Autopsy

By JAMES V. LAMB
Associated Press Writer
WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — A Philadelphia medical examiner says an autopsy on the body of Mary Jo Kopeczne "would tend to confirm, tend to modify, or could negate" the drowning verdict issued by a medical examiner in Massachusetts.

Dr. Joseph W. Spelman said he had performed several thousand autopsies and that an external examination alone, such as was performed on Miss Kopeczne, "even if carefully and thoroughly done, frequently failed to reveal internal injuries."

Spelman was a key witness Monday in Common Pleas Court during the first day of a hearing on a petition by Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis of New Bedford, Mass., to have the body of the pretty, 28-year-old secretary exhumed.

Dinis said he expected to finish his presentation today and that he would subpoena a videotape of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's nationally televised statement on events before and after the girl's body was found in his car.

Her father, Joseph A. Kopeczne, also said he was prepared to testify.

Dinis maintains he needs an autopsy for an inquest he has scheduled into the death. In his petition to Judge Bernard C. Brominski, Dinis said the condition of the body when recovered "may or may not have been consistent with death by drowning."

Armand Fernandes Jr., a Dinis assistant, was admonished by the court Monday for repeatedly asking Dr. Donald R. Mills, the Massachusetts medical examiner, and Spelman whether the presence of bloody froth about the mouth or nose could be associated with manual strangulation.

Fernandes also raised the possibility of a skull fracture.

Spelman said that although three months have passed since Miss Kopeczne's burial in nearby Larksville it still would be possible to make many observations and draw valid conclusions.

"The fact that her body was found in a car underwater," he added, "raises the possibility in my mind that significant injury might have occurred."

The car driven by Kennedy plunged from a narrow bridge into a pond on Chappaquiddick Island off Massachusetts.

Dr. Mills, associate medical examiner of Dukes County, Mass., who made the original ruling of death by drowning, and two chemists who conducted laboratory tests testified that blood was present in Miss Kopeczne's nose and on the back, both sleeves and collar of her blouse.

Each time Fernandes mentioned manual strangulation Judge Brominski sustained objections by Joseph F. Flanagan, attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Kopeczne of Berkeley Heights, N. J. The Kopecznes oppose an autopsy.

At one point, Brominski told Fernandes:

"I want you to stay away from that line of questioning, please."

Kennedy did not attend the hearing. He was in Brussels, Belgium, attending a meeting of the assembly of the North Atlantic Assembly.

After the accident last July, Kennedy pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident and was given a suspended sentence of two months, with a year's probation.

Mills testified Monday that when he examined the body about a half hour after it was recovered from the submerged vehicle he saw "at least one cobweb of blood which clearly came from the edge of the nostril." However, he said, that was common in drowning victims.

Dr. George Katsas of Boston, a pathologist, supported Spelman's view that an autopsy could be informative.

He said that it was his opinion "that an external examination of the body does not exclude the possibility of internal injuries that may have contributed to, or caused, the death."

Katsas said there were three tests that could be given an exhumed body that would show conclusively whether drowning had occurred.

Dr. John J. McHugh, supervisor of laboratories for the Massachusetts Department of Public Safety, and Melvin Topjian, a chemist for the Massachusetts State Police, testified that tests made by them showed the presence of blood of Miss Kopeczne's clothing.

Mills testified, "It was obviously a clear case of drowning."

He said his examination of the body took 10 minutes.

"She had no evidence of injuries on her body, such as bruises, cuts, broken bones," he said.

Mills said he arrived at the accident scene about 9:30 a.m., July 19, about a half an hour after John N. Farrar, a skindiver from nearby Edgartown, had recovered the body.

Mills said he fixed the time of death at six hours or more before the examination.

Mills said that when he turned the body over to the undertaker, he directed that it not be embalmed until he gave further instructions.

"I wanted to talk to the district attorney to determine whether an autopsy should be done," Mills said.

Flanagan questioned Mills on what inquiries he had made about an autopsy.

"You did that by placing a phone call to whom?" Flanagan asked.

"Through the state police to the district attorney's office," Mills said.

"Did you make any direct contact with Dinis?" Mills said.

"I don't recall, there were so many calls," Mills said.

Flanagan produced what he said was a memorandum Mills had prepared about a week after the accident.

Mills then said he remembered that Dinis had called him on July 22 and asked about the blood sample.

"Did you at that time discuss the question of an autopsy?" Flanagan asked.

"I think the only time that we ever discussed an autopsy was one conversation I had with Mr. Dinis in which he said, 'Mills, you're quite sure of your diagnosis of death by drowning?'"

"My answer was, 'I certainly am.'"

"Then Dinis said, 'I don't think an autopsy is necessary, do you?' and I answered, 'No I don't,'" Mills testified.

DuPont Employees Give $19,625 To Pitt UF

phrey had overtaken the early Nixon lead. Says McGinnis: "He was already looking for reasons why things had gone wrong. There was no question anymore about whether they had or not. The perfect campaign, the computer campaign, the technician's campaign, the television campaign, the one that would make them rewrite the textbooks had collapsed beneath the weight of Nixon's grayness."

In the end, of course, the pessimism proved unwarranted. Nixon won. The large question is whether any such "perfect campaign," in a spurious sense of perfection, can be staged. Nixon was not a dummy. Long before Treleven, Gavin & Co. became his managers, Nixon had highly marketable qualities as a President. Doubtless his victory may be attributed in part to the aura-makers, but only in part. Suppose the manipulators had started with a photogenic cipher?

Would it be possible, in the fashion of Pygmalion, to take some personable actor with a blank mind and a ready smile, and imbue him with the image of a statesman? Marshall McLuhan, the Canadian philosopher, has warned of the usages of TV. The medium itself, he has said, is not only the message but also the message. Suppose a clay candidate were brought to life, capable of pummeling the emotions of sixty million voters at a time: Could TV elect him?

vention delegates and the state's two members of the National Committee. The election would take place in the 1972 Mississippi Democratic primary.

With whites substantially outnumbering Negroes on the voterrolls even after passage of the 1965 Voting Rights Act, this would insure a victory by white "regulars" over black "loyalists" in Mississippi's racially polarized politics. In particular, it would use a seat in Mississippi's present National Committee: Charles Evers, Negro mayor of Fayette, Miss., and a civil rights leader with national credentials.

It would be no easy task for liberals dominating the Democratic National Committee to challenge this scheme. Indeed, direct election of convention delegates will be recommended by the party reform commission headed by Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota.

Although no firm decision has been made, some "regulars" allied with both Sen. James O. Eastland and Gov. John Bell Williams are pushing for introduction of a state direct election bill early next year. Opposing them are other "regulars" who want no resumption of ties with the national party and instead are eyeing new connections with the Republican party.

Fund, $3,073.50 to the Wayne County fund, and the remainder to Pitt County.

The amounts received by each county is based upon individual employee designation, indicating the county in which they are a resident.

In addition to the $19,625.38, the Pitt County United Fund will receive a contribution from E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company.

"All groups of employees exceeded their goals and the total goal was reached only five days after the campaign began. In addition to being 37 per cent higher than the established goal, the collections were 26 per cent higher than last year," Dedrick stated.

"I am proud and appreciative of this fine demonstration of community spirit and good citizenship," stated Plant Manager B. F. Kennedy. "Du Pont employees have again generously and enthusiastically contributed to the United Fund."

Officials of the Pitt County United Fund were pleased over the hefty contribution received from Du Pont.

Campaign chairman Curtis Hendrix noted that "We are all delighted about this contribution, and Du Pont has shown again a fine community spirit in their teamwork and willingness to meet a challenge."

In Greenville, the State Bank and Trust Company has also reached their goal, having just completed a 100 per cent drive for a fairshare participation among their employees.

With an overall goal of $123,000; the approximately $40,000 pledged to date leaves some $83,000 to be pledged by individuals, firms and groups before Pitt County fulfills or exceeds its 1969-70 goal.

A whole new field of one. Monte Carlo by Chevrolet

For people who have come to think of new cars only in terms of stereotypes, two words of fair warning. Monte Carlo. More than a new car. It's a whole new field of one. The first truly luxurious personal car even us guys who work for a living can swing. Keep that in mind as you read. Then, if you must, try bracketing Monte Carlo with anything else.

Anything else on wheels at anywhere near the price. Our apologies to chrome buffs. Cheap costume jewelry. The last thing found on a lady. Or a gentleman. Or a Monte Carlo. The lines are just too nice. The form is just too clean. So excess chrome is out. And so is excess everything else. Like a library after hours. With Monte Carlo, we did more to nullify noise than make solid welds. And position plump rubber biscuits at critical body mount areas. We made silence a science. Every car ever made has its own peculiar acoustics. It has certain "holes" that admit sound. And certain noise paths that transmit and amplify that sound. What we did was track them down. Then dam them up with much more bland rich new fabrics and vinyls. Sidewalls and trim received the same artful attention. But certain good artists know where to stop. And stop we did. You don't feel like a fifth wheel. Monte Carlo's concept as it differs from other luxurious cars is really quite simple.

ket and spray insulation than is customary on a car this size. It all adds up to a Monte Carlo we can only describe as sailplane silent. We knew where to stop. An easy chair doesn't have to be obese to be comfortable. Any more than a room has to be hung with gaudy gewgaws to be luxurious. Sit in Monte Carlo and see. We made the seat cushions using the flat "S" springs found in fine furniture. Then we devised special form-fitting foam cushioning for you to sit on and lean back into. And covered it all with

To involve you as a driver. We figure if you like to drive, the last thing you want is a car that cuts off all sensation of the road. We think you want a comfortable car that hasn't compromised its own maneuverability. So we squeezed Monte Carlo's wheelbase down to a tidy 116 inches. And stretched out the front track to a little over five feet. And held its height down under a yard and a half. You can feel the impressive results by wigwagging Monte Carlo down a busy side street. Or snaky highway.

250 hp. Which is plenty for most anybody. But you may not be most anybody. So go ahead, order one of these: A 300-hp 350. A 265-hp 400. A 330-hp 400. Or the house specialty, the 360-hp 454 in our SS package. Whatever you need. Whatever turns you on.

What's available? What isn't.

Perhaps we should restate the case. There are a few things you'd think would be available, but aren't. Mainly because they're standards. Like power disc brakes and bias belted ply tires. What is available is virtually the full list of Chevrolet options, with the addition of some new ones. Like a clean little stereo tape/radio package that accepts tape cartridges through an ingenious flip-up radio dial. (Saves space and keeps the clutter down.) And lots, lots more.

A whole new field of one. All at a Chevrolet price. What more can we say? Putting you first, keeps us first.

Engines: 350 cubic inches and up. Where a car like Monte Carlo might try to shorthandle you is in the engine compartment. Not Monte Carlo. Inside rests a regular gas V8 to the tune of 350 cubic inches. That translates into a crisp

Psywar Commander Fights An 'Off-Beat' War

ANNIVERSARY ATTACK — Philippine troops dash from landing boats at Red Beach, Leyte, Philippines Monday in a reenactment of allied landing 25 years ago. Gen. MacArthur led the invasion on October 20, 1944, a turning point in World War II in the Pacific. (AP Wirephoto)

By ROBERT D. OHMAN
TAY NINH, Vietnam (AP) — Maj. Clarence de Young, a mustachioed artilleryman, is fighting an off-beat war with the Viet Cong and he's convinced he's winning.
 At one point, he received a carton of cigarettes from his Viet Cong counterpart, a man known as Mr. Nam. De Young responded by asking Nam in for dinner, but the invitation has not been accepted.

 De Young and Nam, which is an alias, are major contenders for "the hearts and minds" of the people of Tay Ninh province bordering Cambodia, northwest of Saigon. Nam is the Viet Cong's psychological warfare (psywar) man for Tay Ninh. De Young, 35, is the G5—civic action and psychological operations (psyops) commander—of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division's 1st Brigade at Tay Ninh city.

His first major encounter occurred last November shortly after De Young arrived in Vietnam to start his year's tour of duty.
 Guerrillas moved into a model farm built by the Philippine civic action group, destroyed the animals and buildings and left behind leaflets warning the Filipino soldiers not to associate with Americans. They said that in several months they had killed 5,000 Americans and destroyed 900 vehicles.

The 25th Division reacted by setting up a patrol base called Mole City between the razed model farm and the Cambodian frontier, to entice the enemy back.
 "We knew Mole City was an insult and they would come back, so we prepared broadcasting tapes," De Young said.
 The Americans zeroed in eight-inch howitzers on attack routes and waited. Dec. 21, Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops made their assault and as they were thrown back with heavy casualties a psyops plane was flying overhead with a loudspeaker and De Young's tape telling the enemy, "Buddy, you goofed, we've been waiting for you."

The major followed up with his own "hard sell" pamphlet campaign.
 A photograph of four small children was found on one enemy body. The picture was printed on thousands of propaganda leaflets along with the message: "Who will tell these children that their father died for a lost cause? Who will tell your children?"
 "I consider that my round," De Young said.
 The psywar feud became much more personal in January. De Young had been taking a medical team to treat villagers in Phuoc Tan every other week, but when his men flew in aboard two helicopters in mid-January an ambush was waiting. Mortar shells bracketed the helicopters and enemy troops opened fire with recoilless rifle, automatic weapons and machine guns.

 De Young was hit in the leg by a fragment as he and the team dashed for a nearby government outpost.
 Several nights later, De Young's nemesis left a Viet Cong flag and carton of Ruby Queen cigarettes beside a note at the gate of the outpost. The note, in English, said, "It's been a pleasure fighting you. We're leaving now, but we'll see you again."
 Then there was the booby-trapped sign planted by Nam's crew. The defused sign, reading "Peace in Vietnam. Bring American troops home," was captured by De Young.
 De Young counterattacked in the banner campaign after a U.S. aerial spotter found an enemy cache of rice, estimated to contain 360 tons, just 100 yards inside South Vietnam. "I think they made a mistake and thought it was in Cambodia," De Young said, "But it wasn't."

After some of the rice had been hauled away by allied troops and the rest destroyed, De Young planted six large red and yellow banners facing the frontier. The message, addressed to the porters who had been hauling the 100-pound sacks of rice over narrow trails, said: "Welcome to South Vietnam. The rice you are now carrying soon will feed refugees from Communist aggression."
 Romance also can be a factor in psywar. When an 18-year-old Viet Cong girl, Nguyen Thi Man, rallied to the government, De Young had her record a tape for aerial broadcast. Several youths surrendered, saying they were her boy friends. Six of the eight men in the girl's squad eventually surrendered.
 De Young feels he scored his greatest coup over Mr. Nam in the past six weeks.
 Remnants of the 88th Regiment of the 9th Viet Cong Division fled to towering Nui Ba Den Mountain after being crushed in an attack on the 25th Division's fire base Crrro. They holed up in the caves of the mountain overlooking Tay Ninh city.
 In September, De Young started a nightly offensive to get

Scotland Yard Appeals Public Join Crime Fight

LONDON (AP) — With crime on the increase, Scotland Yard is appealing to Londoners to help out "by not being bloody silly," as one detective puts it.
 Robberies, break-ins, car thefts and pilfering have almost doubled in 10 years in London. Scotland Yard thinks the crime wave could be cut to a ripple if Londoners would take a few simple precautions:
 Housewives should lock their houses, motorists should lock their cars, and businessmen should close their premises with something more substantial than a rusty padlock.
 The Yard has launched a mass advertising campaign proclaiming "lock up London." Posters on walls, buses and in subway stations display the slogan.
 Newspapers and magazines have been invited to write crime stories with locks as the heroes, and detectives have given a spate of radio and television interviews. One Bobby appeared on a midnight disc jockey show, chatting about crime prevention between the pop records.

 "Our campaign is aimed at everyone in London, to make them aware of their role in the fight against crime," said Sir John Waldron, the capital's commissioner of police.
 At 190 police stations the Yard maintains a specially trained force of constables and sergeants to advise on security. If anyone asks them, they will visit factories, shops or offices, showing where and how to install locks, how to transport money and valuables or what sort of burglar alarms to use. They also visit private homes.
 "People don't think about things like housekeeping," said a detective. "They think about dramatic crimes like murder."
 "Well, in 1959 we had 36 murders in London and last year we had 57. That is a big increase, but the increase in housebreaking has been a lot bigger—10,000 in 1959 and 19,796 in the daylight last year, with another 1,317 at night.
 "Every day about 200 homes and 220 cars are broken into or stolen. Most of these are not the work of professional criminals. Seventy per cent of the people we arrested for housebreaking were under 21 years old."

Painting Takes Place Of Marlin
 SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Instead of a marlin trophy on the wall, Lee Floyd caught a painting to fill the space.
 Floyd and his wife were marlin fishing in their boat 45 miles west of Point Loma when he said they found the 2-by-4-foot painting floating in the water.
 "I was sure it would fall apart when I brought it aboard but it was in real good shape, not even water soaked," Floyd said. "It shows boats on canals in Venice and the artist's signature is Bianco."
 "My wife Frances and I are wondering where it could have come from," said Floyd, an electrical engineer who lives in Imperial Beach.

Garbage Boosts Property Value

ROLLING HILLS ESTATES, Calif. (AP) — Garbage is increasing property values in this increasingly less pastoral Los Angeles suburb.
 Alarmed as development used up open space where children had played and ridden their ponies, citizens of this community of 75,000 houses sought ways to make the best use of the remaining land.
 So they recently signed an agreement under which Disposal Gardens Co. will fill a horse-shoe-shaped canyon with 100,000 cubic yards of household rubbish and industrial wastes.
 The company will cover each day's accumulation with dirt and spray it with pesticides.
 When the canyon becomes usable flatland, real estate experts say, nearby lots will rise $10,000 to $15,000 each in value.

Carolina League Sees Changes

WILSON, N. C. (AP) — An eight-team format appears likely for the Carolina League next season as officials of the baseball prepare to meet Sunday in Salem, Va.

Williams attracted 113 votes in the balloting—11 more than another freshman manager, Billy Martin who was dismissed after leading the Minnesota Twins to the Western Division championship.

RALEIGH (AP) — It will be illegal to catch more than 25 catfish a day in North Carolina waters next year.

So far, only five of last season's 10 ball clubs have major league working agreements.

However, late in the season he scoffed at the idea when it was suggested that he might be named the AL's manager of the year.

SEATTLE (AP) — Fraser Scott, Seattle fighter recently disqualified for butting in a title bout in Italy with world middleweight champ Nino Benvenuti, had a couple of pointed comments about the outcome at a sports writers' luncheon Monday.

The five cities ready for a new season and their major league connections are Salem, Pittsburgh, Rocky Mount, Detroit, Winston-Salem, Boston, Burlington, Washington and Kingston-New York Yankees.

The award should go to Weaver, Williams said, because he won the pennant and "that's what you're supposed to do."

SEATTLE (AP) — Frank Beard, who was second in the past weekend's Sahara Invitational tournament at Las Vegas, maintained his position Monday as top money winner on golf's pro circuit this year.

Lynchburg would make six, and Peninsula is looking toward a contract soon, League President J. C. Jessup of Wilson said he had no doubt the eighth team — Raleigh — Durham — would stick with the league.

TORONTO (AP) — The Globe and Mail says in its Tuesday edition that Bobby Hull, high-scoring left winger with the Chicago Black Hawks, has announced his retirement from the National Hockey League.

Football Contest Has 3-Way Tie

A three-way tie developed in this week's Daily Reflector Football Contest. All three winners correctly picked the winners in 27 of the 32 games, and all guessed 75 points as the most scored in any one game.

Beard Remains Pro Golf's Top Money Winner

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Beard, who was second in the past weekend's Sahara Invitational tournament at Las Vegas, maintained his position Monday as top money winner on golf's pro circuit this year.

Decree Limit On Catfish Catches

RALEIGH (AP) — It will be illegal to catch more than 25 catfish a day in North Carolina waters next year.

The Wildlife Resources Commission adopted the regulation Monday to curtail commercial fishing in inland areas. It is the first limit ever placed on catfish in the state.

"Some people take catfish out of our rivers and lakes by the truckload," said Harry Cornell, chief of the commission's fisheries division.

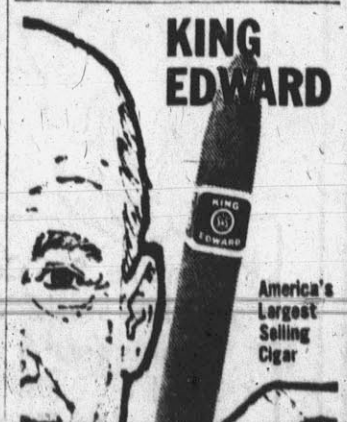

In other action, the commission authorized the purchase of an initial 6,300 acres of a proposed 15,000-acre wildlife management area near the Great Dismal Swamp in the northeastern part of the state.

The Department of Administration will be asked to acquire the property on behalf of the commission. The swampy land in Currituck and Camden counties is owned by the estate of the late H. R. Taylor.

The cost is expected to be about $700,000, of which the commission expects to receive some $500,000 in federal funds.

Something Like Custer Returning

SEATTLE (AP) — Fraser Scott, Seattle fighter recently disqualified for butting in a title bout in Italy with world middleweight champ Nino Benvenuti, had a couple of pointed comments about the outcome at a sports writers' luncheon Monday.

Mann Stretches Lead In Money

CINCINNATI (AP) — Carol Mann managed only a second-place finish in the Quail & Turkey Check'd tournament at Waco, Tex. Sunday but she stretched her lead in money winnings on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour to $1,919.

Miss Mann's performance brought her $1,450 and she now has $46,515 in official and unofficial winnings on the tour, the LPGA headquarters here announced today.

Kathy Whitworth, second in money winnings, finished in a tie for seventy and now has won $44,596.

Mary Mills' victory at Waco, worth $2,250, still wasn't enough to boost her into the top 10 money winners. She is 17th with $13,803.

Sandra Palmer moved into 10th position among money winners with her total of $17,044. That dropped Sharon Miller to 11th.

The gal golfers will stay in Texas this week, playing in the $15,000 Corpus Christi Civitan Open at Corpus Christi.

CONTEST RULES

1. Thirty-two football games are placed in the ads on these pages. Pick the winner of each game (not the score) and write the team name opposite the advertiser's name on the entry blank. The entrant picking the most correct winners each week will be awarded $15.00. Second place $10.00.
2. Pick a number which you think will be the most number of points scored by both teams in any one of the week's games listed and write your answer in the space provided on the entry blank. This will be used to break ties. In the event of a further tie the money will be equally divided between the winning entrants.
3. Only one entry per week per person. The contest is open to all except employees of The Daily Reflector and their immediate families.
4. Entries must be in The Daily Reflector office not later than 5:30 p.m. Friday or post marked not later than Friday p.m. Address entries to: "FOOTBALL CONTEST", P. O. Box 1967, Greenville, N. C. (Reasonable Facsimiles also accepted)

DUNKEL COLLEGE FOOTBALL INDEX

EXPLANATION - The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

Public Notices

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE
Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain deed of trust executed by Oscar L. Norville and wife, Florence L. Norville, dated December 1, 1961, and of record in Book 232, Page 192, in the Office of the Register of Deeds for Pitt County, North Carolina, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness thereby secured and said deed of trust being by its terms subject to foreclosure, the undersigned Trustee will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash at the Court House Door in Greenville, North Carolina, on the 25th day of September, 1969, the property conveyed in said deed of trust, the same being situated in the Town of Falkland, and being more particularly described as follows: Beginning at a point in the center line of N.C. Highway No. 43, which said point is 82 feet North of the G. H. Pittman tract, thence running North 77 deg. 16 min. East 292.2 feet to a corner; thence running South 12 deg. East 72 feet to another corner; thence running South 75 deg. 40 min. West 287 feet to another corner in the center of Highway 43; thence running North 23 deg. 45 min. West 82 feet with the center line of said Highway to the point of beginning; being the identical tract or parcel of land conveyed to Oscar L. Norville and wife, Florence L. Norville, from Mrs. Daisy C. Pittman (widow of G.H. Pittman) said deed being duly recorded in Book R-32, Page 79, of the Pitt County Public Registry.

IRS Mailing List Sale Plan Comes Under Fire

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service is considering selling some data collected from tax returns to private businesses, which could—in the opinion of one congressman—encourage an invasion of privacy.

chancing Corp.; American Mail Associates, Inc.; and R. L. Polk and Co., which furnishes mailing lists to various businesses promoting their products through direct mail advertising.

Now the IRS is thinking of going further by using all five digits. An IRS spokesman said this would break the information down for 34,000 residential areas across the country.

East resorted to sleight-of-hand to pull the rug from under the declarer in today's three no trump contract.

fish tricks was in spades. The routine play at this point would be the three of spades in the hope that partner has a card to top dummy's ten. It appeared to East, however, that a more drastic course of action was indicated, inasmuch as declarer appeared to have an abundance of tricks available to him as soon as he could regain the lead.

The IRS said this would not constitute invasion of privacy because none of the information could be used to identify individuals. Nevertheless, a spokesman said, the proposal is being reviewed by IRS lawyers.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market gained strength in fairly active trading early this afternoon. Advances held a firm lead over declines by a margin of 713 to 475 among individual issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 5.81 at 845.04.

Brokers said the rise in the level of the Dow had brought some investors into the market who previously had been absent. As a backdrop to the market's price rise were Vietnam peace hopes fueled by President Nixon's speech in November, scheduled one day before elections, and some signs of a cooling economy.

Chrysler, which announced an 87 per cent decline in third-quarter earnings was delayed and opened off 2 1/2% at 38 1/2. By early afternoon the stock was off 1 1/2% at 39 1/2.

Among the 20 most actively traded issues on the New York Stock Exchange, 8 advanced, 11 declined, and 1 was unchanged. Mail order-retail, utilities and metals were generally higher. Aircrafts and electronics were lower.

Some of the producers and users of cyclamates whose stocks dipped Monday after a government ban on the artificial sweeteners, effective next year, were higher.

And sugar stocks which had shown sharp price increases were lower.

Analysts attributed the development to emotional buying and selling on Monday and said the stocks are reacting today.

School Plans . . .

Interest in conducting within the city schools. The board tabled any action on such a project for the time being, with a recommendation that it be looked into at a later date, possibly in the early spring.

Dr. Cleetwood revealed a plan to foster a greater degree of involvement - communication between the students and the administrative staff of the city schools. "This will consist of a member from each sixth grade in the city schools and two members from each secondary school, a total of 12 students, meeting with me every month or six weeks simply to discuss any topic they want to discuss. It will be without pre - planning or structure," he commented. "In addition, a parent, usually a mother, will be invited by different schools to meet with me from time to time to discuss, to get onto the table in a frank, informal manner, anything which needs discussing."

At the beginning of the regular school meeting, Mr. and Mrs. Horton Rountree, Mrs. Reginald Gray and Dr. Charles Mitchell appeared before the board to discuss their concern over the uneven progress which they feel is being made in the language - arts phase of the junior high school teaching program.

Their remarks and the explanations by Dr. Cleetwood and John Jones, principal of Aycock Junior High School, centered on determining why certain groups were a considerable distance ahead of others in certain books, why home work assignment was extremely light in some instances, and why other apparent inequities in "team teaching", "advanced groups", and other systems seemed to be evident.

Dr. Cleetwood said the entire program was based on a "scope and sequence" criteria, and that the word "accelerated" must be understood in its proper context. "The correct application is that each group, whether advanced average or slower groups, should cover the same amount of material."

Jones explained that "in its proper context, it is a matter of in - depth learning, with experiments and supplemental work used as an enrichment for the advanced student."

Both Dr. Cleetwood and Jones assured the parents that a concerted attempt would be made to close the gap. "It takes time to close the gap between theory and practice," Dr. Cleetwood remarked.

In the matter of the disturbance which arose at the recent Homecoming Day activities, Dr. Cleetwood informed the board members that the pupils reportedly involved in creating disturbances would be called in to give an explanation of their conduct and that necessary corrective action would be taken where needed.

"There has been good feeling, good cooperation between the majority of the black and white students," he commented. "It seems that the last remaining area of hostilities centers in the band and with the majorettes. Tomorrow or the next day we will see what the rationale for their action is. We will take action which is fair to all concerned."

It was reported that the high school swimming program is underway. James D. Manchester of East Carolina University is the coach for this year's swimming program.

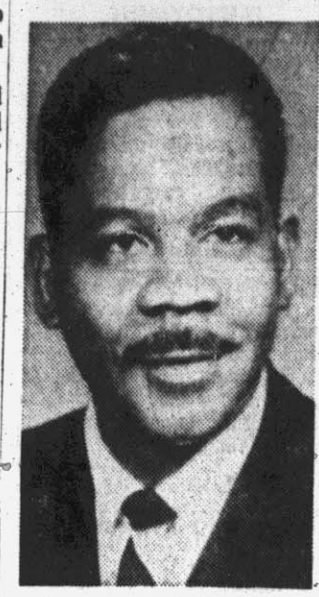

Market Report

The volume of sales in Farmville yesterday was light in comparison with last Monday's sales, according to Louis Williams, the market's sales supervisor. Offerings, Williams said, consisted of mostly lugs, smoking leaf and nondescript grades, with a large percentage consisting of damaged tobacco. Several sheets of leaf grades sold for above 90 cents per pound, Williams reported. A total of 244,286 pounds of leaf were sold on the Farmville market for $171,473, for an average of $70.19 per hundred pounds. (For the season, the Farmville market sold 19,888,313 pounds for $14,348,055 for an average of $72.14.

Educator Will Lecture Twice

Two priority topics in American education today will undergo examination at East Carolina University Wednesday with the appearance of one of Virginia's top public school officials.

DR. JAMES T. GUINES

Dr. James T. Guines, assistant superintendent for instruction of the Richmond public school, will lecture twice at ECU Wednesday, Oct. 22 as a guest of the ECU School of Education and School of Home Economics.

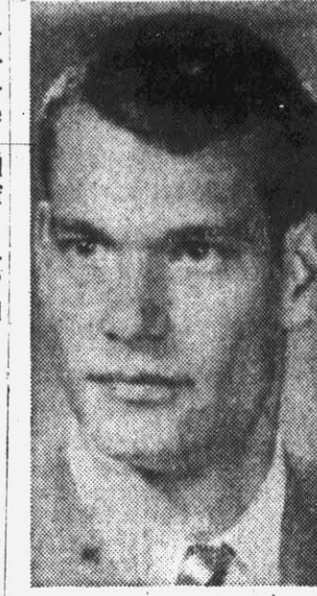

Topics scheduled are "Relevant Education for the Poor" and "The Future Teacher and Integration."

Fulford Critical Of Education Attitudes

GRIFTON—Pitt Technical Institute President W. E. Fulford Jr., speaking to the Grifton Lions Club Monday evening, stated that "Much of the social unrest being experienced in our area has its roots in inadequate education." According to Fulford, most of the graduate of our schools have no salable skill and everyone thinks that vocational and technical education is for someone else's child.

Claud To Head Mortgage Office

John F. Watlington Jr., chairman of the Wachovia Corporation and president of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., announced the formation of Wachovia Mortgage Company, a mortgage banking firm dealing with residential and commercial loan sales and servicing for investors, second mortgages and real estate development operations. Watlington also announced the election of Thomas P. Claud of Greenville as Mortgage Officer and head of the local office of Wachovia Mortgage Company. Following graduation from Virginia Polytechnic Institute,

THOMAS P. CLAUD

"The attitude that the only worthwhile education is a college education is a major educational crisis," stated Fulford. "This attitude infects the Federal Government. It invests $14 in higher education for every dollar it spends for vocational education.

"Out of every dollar spent on education beyond high school, 90 cents is spent in public colleges and ten cents is spent in technical institutes. It infects school districts, which concentrate on college-preparatory programs, and it also affects students who make unrealistic educational choices because they are victims of the national emphasis on education prestige."

Dr. Fulford expressed concern over the increased cost of education occasioned by a use in school population, demands for more teachers and facilities, the general impact of inflation, and the struggle of the State and County to adequately finance education, along with other governmental services. Fulford stated that "many support the concept the State should encourage non-public educational institutions to share more in the education of our youth." He elaborated on State assistance being provided Duke Medical School, Bowman Grey School of Medicine, private nursing programs and private trade schools. Ed Comner, program chairman, introduced Fulford.

es of only two cents." "The commissioners have stated they will reduce the ad valorem tax levy and the only way for them to do this and yet retain present status of programs and services is for them not to commit themselves to anyone but the taxpayers," Alford noted.

"As superintendent, I have not requested that the commissioners agree to turn over to the board of education a certain amount of money and they have not committed themselves in any way to the board should the tax be approved," Alford explained.

The income derived from a tax will grow as the economy grows and this within itself is reason to look at the local sales tax as a good source of additional financial support, he added. "I believe we will find the state will attempt to increase the sales tax to four cents if we don't do it at the local level," the school official stated.

In summary, the board of education has endorsed the one cent additional levy in order concerned. "Certainly if a road has a high traffic count, contains a number of homes and meets all of the standards the commission has for paving, it will get attention." Faircloth said.

Faircloth mentioned that the 264 bypass at Zebulon, ultimately an aid for easier travel between Greenville and Raleigh, was one of the most important areas of consideration by the commission.

Pitt County, being one of the most progressive counties in Eastern North Carolina, Faircloth said, has helped itself economically by its own efforts. He credited the five new industries and seven major plant expansions which occurred during last year with being the type of effort which will be "the salvation of eastern North Carolina . . . and of western North Carolina as well."

To achieve this in the less fortunate counties, "we must have better highways that will lead to the major traffic arteries and put these areas in better touch with the population centers," Faircloth concluded.

"We recognize this, and with the funds that we have been given we intend to do something about it—all that we possibly can," the commission chairman said.

Faircloth was introduced by fellow commissioner Arthur Tripp of Greenville. Presiding over the meeting was Rotary president O. R. Peace Jr.

that the county commissioners might have a broader base to work from as they attempt to represent the people and their concerns relative to increased taxes and yet, at the same time, provide for the needs of the schools, the rural fire departments, hospital, social service (welfare) programs and others, Alford concluded.
