School Re-Opening Rescheduled For Tomorrow

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Based on a recommendation by Mayor Frank M. Wooten, Jr. and Acting Chief of Police Thomas E. Gladson, the city school board voted to delay opening of schools until Thursday morning.

"Because of extensive planning required to make arrangements to carry on our usual city work, in addition to providing police which have been asked for Rose High, I suggest that opening of schools be made no sooner than Thursday morning," Mayor Wooten stated.

"It is my personal opinion that this is advisable," he added.

Board member Louis Gaylord asked: "Do you mean that the city is not ready to take responsibility if schools were to open Wednesday?"

"I'm not saying that, only that we will not be as well prepared. We will be better prepared by Thursday, both in men and equipment," Mayor Wooten replied.

"I thought that Sunday we were told by you and Colonel Hagerly that you would be ready. On the basis of that we issued public statements for the Wednesday date," commented board member Harding Sugg.

Gaylord said "If it is the recommendation of the mayor and the police chief to delay, I am reluctant to rush into it if we can't be fully ready til Thursday morning."

Dr. James Bearden raised the possibility of opening the elementary schools.

"That would be possible, but my real concern now are the 1,500 high school youngsters not in school. Uneasiness could prevail, it could be a tense situation," said Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, Superintendent of city schools.

Gene Causby, Assistant Director of Human Relations Division in Raleigh and a consultant to the school board at this time, observed "I can only give you my personal opinion. I don't think you should open until the law system is completely ready."

Mentioning plans for a meeting with 98 representative students, black and white, on Wednesday morning, Causby said "I think getting kids together is important. I'm meeting with 98 who have been elected by their home rooms. Something needs to be done tomorrow."

Sugg made a motion that "on basis of information furnished by the mayor and chief of police that they will be ready for a Thursday opening, I move that schools not be opened until Thursday morning." This motion was approved by the board.

Sugg also asked Mayor Wooten to comment on rumors now current that everything will be solved by the mayor and the city council.

"The City Council has made no statement of any kind to anyone that we want to run the schools. I deny that rumor now. We appointed you folks to run this, and we are not getting in your job," the mayor commented.

"I do say that when we see a violation of the law, our men must act to protect persons and property, without recourse to a principal, superintendent or anyone else."

Chief Gladson commented "I propose to be prepared. We need to put riot equipment on our men. We do this not in connection with the children as such, but we may have outside interference and need to be prepared for this."

"I doubt if the situation is one in which the administration can dictate terms. This is a police matter," Dr. Cleetwood stated.

A list of demands prepared by Student Grievances Committee was presented to the board. The Student Grievance Committee is a committee of black students under the acting chairmanship of Michael William Garrett, a 1968 graduate of Rose High, and currently a sophomore at North Carolina Central University, Durham.

This was the same set of demands enumerated by the students in the Monday night forum at city hall and discussed later at a meeting with the school board last night.

Dr. Cleetwood disclosed that a staff meeting of all high school teachers had been held earlier Tuesday, and the demand asking for fairness by instructors to all students in class rooms regardless of race had been discussed in detail.

Eric Vernon, president of Rose High Student Government, who had been invited to the board meeting, spoke to the board members.

"You can dismiss the idea that the trouble Friday stems from the homecoming. When violence erupted hometown was not in anybody's mind. This misrepresentation of facts disturbs many students, black and white. I agree with Mr. Gaylord that cooler heads will prevail. I also agree it is important we have men and have preparedness in case of outside influence."

Making reference to the meeting of all black students with Dr. Cleetwood last Friday morning at 10:00 o'clock, Vernon commented: "I feel every student last Friday looked forward to a productive meeting. The black students felt nothing had been achieved. They came out of the meeting with frustration.

The first thing they saw were policemen, which was a point of aggravation to them."

In reference to the disturbance at noon Friday, Vernon remarked: "They are sorry it happened. I feel now you can go back with security. We will have violence again, I am sure. What steps we take now is the real issue."

Dr. Bearden asked Vernon: "What reason do you have for thinking there will be more violence?"

"Because of radicals. It doesn't take many to start a riot. People in a mob are not rational. A mob situation can develop so easily by the incitement of a few. When I say violence, I mean attempted violence . . . to what extent it will go depends on what steps are taken.

Sees Sales Tax Issue In Mid-'70s

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott says North Carolina's General Assembly may be "considering a 1 per cent increase in the state sales tax for its growing needs" by the mid 1970s.

Scott made the comment Tuesday at a news conference following his address to the North Carolina League of Municipalities 60th annual convention in Asheville.

During his speech to league members Scott made no mention of the proposed local option 1 per cent sales tax that will be voted on in all of the state's 100 counties next Tuesday. However, when asked about the levy at the news conference he made several points, including the statement about the legislature possibly considering a state income increase in "four or six years."

Scott was asked if he was implying voters should take this into consideration in Tuesday's referendum. "No," Scott answered. "I think citizens should weigh their votes on the basis of whether their particular county really needs the money."

The governor also said the General Assembly might consider bloc grants to the state's local governments if the local option tax fails to win wide approval. He declined to go into detail after the grants.

Mayor A. Thomas Stewart of Washington, N. C., was reelected president of the league Tuesday during the final business session of the convention.

All other officers of the organization also were reelected. They are Mayor Fred L. Harrison of Scotland Neck, first vice president; Mayor H. J. Elam III of Greensboro, second vice president; and Mayor W. L. Beamon of Burlington, third vice president.

Elected as directors were W. B. Gardner of Edenton, first district; W. B. Teachey Jr. of Jacksonville, second; John C. Symmes of Wilmington, third; S. C. Sitterton Jr. of Kinston, fourth; L. G. Shook of Tarboro, fifth; I. Harding Hughes Jr. of Durham, sixth; Rou Stewart of Sanford, seventh; J. B. Whittington of Charlotte, eighth; Robert D. Davis of Hickory, ninth; Joe T. Steele of Lenoir, 10th; Paul S. Cash of Morganton, 11th, and Phil Horton III of Asheville, 12th.

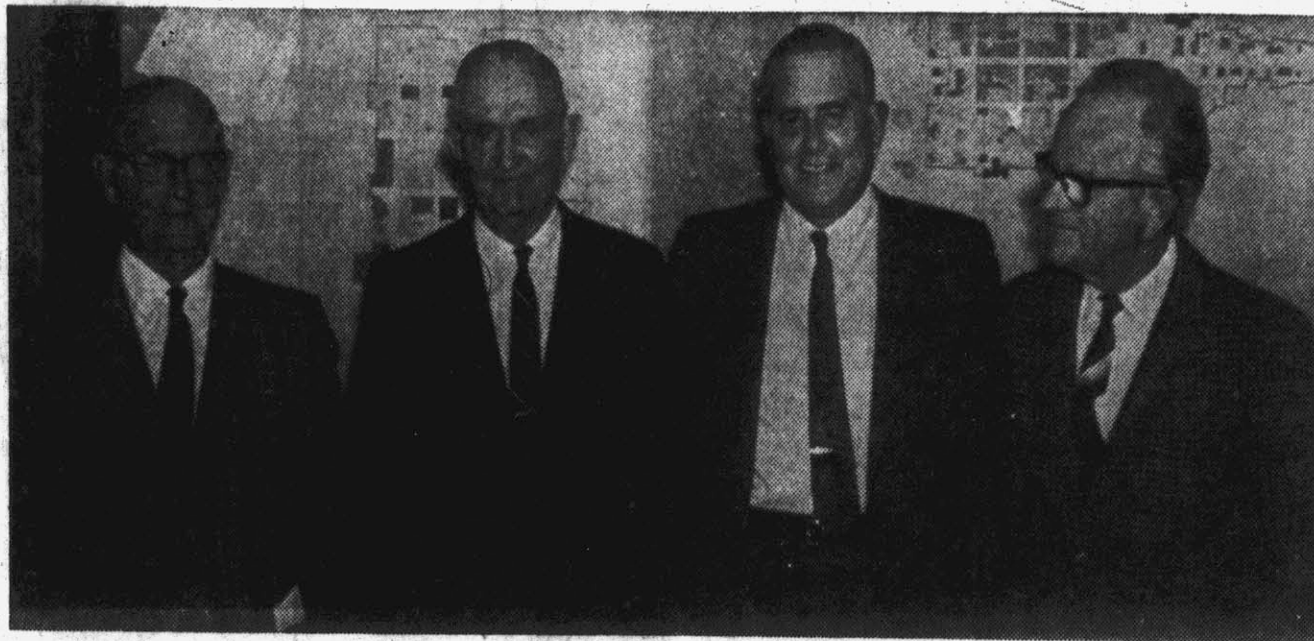

Superagency Will Look For Jobs

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California has created a superagency to find work for hard-core unemployed, train them and see that they keep the jobs.

Gov. Ronald Reagan and top officials in his administration joined in a brief ceremony Tuesday to sign documents creating the Department of Human Resources Development.

It combines four existing agencies in what Reagan described as the answer to a "maze of overlapping, expensive and often competing manpower programs that simply were not doing this job."

The four agencies are the State Employment Department, the Service Center Program, the State Office of Economic Opportunity and the Commission on Aging.

OFFICERS ELECTED . . . to serve on the Project Advisory Committee were (L-R) Tom Webb, secretary; Howard White, vice chairman; Hoover Taft, chairman; and Charles White, assistant secretary.

Taft Remains Chairman Of CBD Project

E. Hoover Taft Jr. was elected chairman of the Central Business District Project Advisory Committee yesterday at the annual meeting held at the CBD office on Evans Street.

Taft was the unanimous choice of committee members to retain the chairmanship and will serve in this capacity for a one year term.

Elected to serve with Taft were Howard Moye, vice-chairman Tom Webb, secretary; and Charles White, assistant secretary. Taft explained that the assistant secretary position was recently created to provide aid to the acting secretary and to insure a replacement in the event of the secretary's absence.

Low Bids On Secondary Roads Given

Barrus Construction Company of Kinston was the apparent low bidder on a project to surface three sections of secondary roads in Pitt County.

The company's low bid amounted to $45,766.40 for 4.8 miles of surfacing, sand asphalt surface on three sections of secondary roads in Pitt.

The three projects include:

—Asphalt surfacing of secondary road 1709 from 1711 northward to 1708. That 2.2 miles of road is southwest of Bells Fork.

—Surfacing road 1130 near Winterville from its intersection with N.C. 11 to rural road 1700 and includes 1.2 miles of paving.

—Surfacing 1.4 miles of road 1143 from U.S. 264 bypass at Farmville to U.S. 264 bypass (a loop road near the Collins and Aikman plant).

The apparent low bid will be reviewed by the North Carolina State Highway Commission when it meets in Nags Head Thursday, Nov. 6.

Green Light

First District Congressman Walter Jones has announced the Department of Housing and Urban Development's approval of Part Two of the Newtown redevelopment project and a federal loan and grant contract of $738,000.

Redevelopment Commission executive director A E Dubber said this morning that the significance of the Part Two approval lies in "the go ahead for acquisition of property and actual execution of the project."

The Federal loan and grant contract, he said, is based on a loan by the Federal Government of the money spent for project executions and a subsequent repayment by the commission of 25 per cent of the net cost back to the government.

Approval of the Part Two of the Newtown Project follows closely the recent HUD approval of Part One of the Central Business District Project. All appropriations for federal loans and grants were pending the submission and approval of the city's workable program. The program has received approval.

Saigon Frees Leading Critic, 88 Viet Cong

SAIGON (AP) — The Saigon government pardoned one of its leading Buddhist critics today and released 88 Viet Cong prisoners of war as part of its observance of South Vietnam's National Day Nov. 1.

President Nguyen Van Thieu pardoned Thien Minh, the dissident monk imprisoned last March on a charge of harboring draft dodgers and deserters. A spokesman said Thien Minh— which is Vietnamese for the Buddhist title venerable—would be set free as soon as formalities were completed.

More than two thirds of the Viet Cong freed were women.

Thien Minh, 48, was sentenced to 10 years at hard labor by a military court March 17. He also was convicted of illegal possession of arms, explosives and Communist documents.

The monk, a leader of a militant Buddhist youth movement, ended the charges.

They reduced the sentence to three years of solitary confinement last May on the anniversary of Buddha's birth. The monk has been confined at a military headquarters in Saigon.

Thien Minh was one of the monks who headed the militant struggle movement which was broken up by the military government in 1966.

His arrest last Feb. 24 brought a strong protest from leaders of the militant An Quang Buddhist faction. They called the action "unjust and inhuman," and accused Thieu, a Roman Catholic, of using the support of "foreigners . . . to destroy Buddhism."

A spokesman at he An Quang pagoda in Saigon said the news of Thien Minh's release "came as no surprise."

"We knew that sooner or later he would be freed," he added.

Thien Minh was returned to house arrest this month after being released from a military hospital where he had undergone 10 days of treatment. He suffers from asthma and the effects of wounds suffered in an assassination attempt in 1966.

Virtually no public fanfare attended the release of the POWs at numerous locations across the country although it was one of the largest groups of prisoners, ever freed.

A government spokesman had announced Tuesday that 24 prisoners would be released for "humanitarian reasons." But there was no explanation why the government did not make the additional releases the occasion for a big propaganda splash.

A spokesman said 63 of the prisoners turned loose were women who had been held at a women's POW camp at Qui Nhon, 275 miles northeast of Saigon. Most of the 25 men came from the big POW camp at Bien Hoa, 15 miles north east of Saigon.

One woman was released in a brief ceremony at Saigon's City Hall and three others at Bien Hoa. The government gave each 400 piasters—$3.40—and packages of clothing, blankets and other items.

Remedial Steps Adopted By School Board Acting On Students' Complaints

At an executive session of the Greenville City School Board, which immediately followed a meeting of the school board in which black students listed a group of demands, the board considered and took the following action:

—1. The board instructed the associate superintendent to work with high school administrators to relieve immediate problems of school buses arriving late for first period. Further, arrangements will be made to relieve overcrowded buses by using activity or borrowed school buses. After a final study, the board will purchase additional buses.

—2. The board will insist upon and insure fair treatment by instructors to all students regardless of race. Specific charges and facts presented in writing to the board will be investigated and acted upon.

—3. Rose High administrators, supervisors and teachers are directed to initiate a survey to result in offering a course in Black History at the beginning of the next semester if there is sufficient enrollment. The board of education, the superintendent in cooperation with principals and staff makes decisions relating to teachers placement and teaching assignment.

—4. Board members agree there must be increased effort to insure that black problems receive equal interest and concern.

—5. All activities, including social, must be clearly planned and carried out to involve all students.

—6. Investigation will be made of all substantiated charges of discriminatory behavior made against any staff member by an aggrieved person. When proven true, corrective action and or dismissal will be taken.

—7. On the majorette issue, a full board meeting will be conducted with the first session scheduled for Tuesday, November 4. On completion of the hearing and review of facts, the board will issue a public statement on the findings.

—8. On the question of amnesty, general statutes of North Carolina provide "the principal of a school shall have authority to suspend or dismiss any pupil who willfully and persistently violates the rules of the school or who may be guilty of immoral or disreputable conduct, or who may be a menace to the school. . . ." Appeal from a principal's decision is then available to the school superintendent and ultimately to the board of education.

—9. Due process for grievances is: Teacher, principal, superintendent, board of education. All allegations presented to the board of education must be in writing, signed and accompanied by facts.

Just In Time: Cookery Book Of Witchcraft

By JEFF RADFORD
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — If witches beset you on Halloween, here's what to do:

Take three nails from a coffin and stick them into a sauce of butter and wintergreen. Say the witch's name when you place the sauce in a hidden spot where neither sunlight nor moonlight will penetrate.

Your witch will be sick for six months.

Handed down for generations at least since the 15th century this superstition has now been made public by a black-guarded professor who teaches the history of witchcraft and satanism at the University of Michigan.

Marcello Truzzi, son of a circus juggler, is a sociologist who hopes to cash in on the current national cookbook buying binge with a few medieval recipes of his own.

Just in time for Halloween, Truzzi has written "Cauldron Cookery," which reveals such tricks as how to become invisible and how to become a werewolf.

The werewolf recipe calls for an iron cooking pot into which must be dumped water, parsley, opium and saffron. You don't have to eat the glob's to attract the devil.

But you do have to rub your body with the fat of a freshly killed cat and put on a wolf's skin. Pretty soon "the great grey shape that makes men shiver" will supplant your own and even your best friends won't know you.

Here are some other formulas:

How to make a woman's hair fall out: Smear a lock of her hair with tar and paste made from water in a new trough that has reflected the moon in a cemetery and bury it in a drain or cesspool.

How to become invisible: Boil a cat ear in cow's milk, then put the ear over your thumb.

How to obtain someone's love: Place an egg in an anthill on March 18 and leave it for three days. Whoever touches it next will love you.

Neither For Nor Opposed To Tax Sentence Second

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Lt. Gov. H. Pat Taylor says he is "not for or against" the additional one-cent sales tax coming up for a statewide vote Nov. 4.

Taylor in Charlotte Tuesday for a civic club speech, said people should make up their own minds, voting for the new tax if they "want another tax base other than the property tax."

The tax would add a fourth cent to the three-cent sales tax in most of the state. But in Mecklenburg County, a yes vote in the referendum would change the rate from four to five cents on the dollar.

Gov. Bob Scott, appearing in Asheville for a convention of the North Carolina League of Municipalities, also refused to take a stand on the referendum. Scott said the added penny tax was a local issue for each county to decide.

Additional $16 Million

'Available'

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott has directed the North Carolina Highway Commission to make another $16 million available for secondary road construction this year, it was learned Wednesday.

This would make a total of $32 million available for secondary road building during the year and would double the amount on hand.

The money would be diverted temporarily from funds budgeted for primary and urban road work.

Scott said he requested the diversion because some funds for primary and urban road work could not be used immediately because of the time required to get such projects underway.

"We need to show some results," Scott said.

The governor said his decision to put more money in secondary road building does not indicate a disagreement with Highway Commission Chairman Lauch Faircloth, who has taken the position that emphasis should be placed on improving the state's primary highways.

Chosen To Build Lunar Vehicles

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — The Boeing Co. aerospace group of Huntsville has been selected to build four battery-powered four-wheel vehicles to help astronauts explore the moon.

The $19 million contract calls for design, development, testing and delivery of four lunar rovers to be taken to the moon in 1971 and 1972, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said Tuesday.

Murderer Flees Central Prison

RALEIGH (AP) — A 35-year-old convict who was serving a life term for murder escaped from an honor grade unit outside Central Prison Tuesday night.

He was identified as Thomas Dixon, a textile worker, serving a life term for the pistol slaying of a Greensboro policeman.

INSTANT FASHION

This season, the turn to jackets, boleros, sleeveless cardigans, and vests opens a marvelous opportunity for topping off either a new or a last year's dress with an à la mode frosting.

The bolero is especially effective with a fitted skirt and for this a slim waist is a distinct advantage. Those who have waistline problems are happier with the belted vests or the longer, sleeveless cardigans which are, of course, perfectly suited for pants as well as skirts, sweaters, and dresses.

Bolero Ideas

The practical thing about this fashion of toppers is that they are in any length you prefer, short extending only to the midriff as in the bolero, or reaching below the hips as in the new sleeveless cardigan type. Boleros fit into the current gypsy trend and some are lavishly edged with ball trimming and decorated with sequins, gold braids, etc. Incidentally, if you sew, you can make a beautiful bolero at a fraction of the cost of those displayed in fascinating boutiques.

Topper to Suit YOU

Be Creative

Many of these new sleeveless tops are made of anything from terry cloth to tapestry so, according to the material, you can wear them for almost any occasion. You can extend your wardrobe and change the character of your basic clothes by wearing a solid color dress with one of the tops suggested above, in a harmonizing color, or perhaps in a figured fabric, which, in some way picks up the color of the dress, while adding another color to the costume.

The above sketches are taken from a new, marvelous book, INSTANT FASHION and there are hundreds of pictures to guide you in stretching your clothes dollar to gain a fashion wardrobe. Nurses Will Wear Paper Caps To Save On Laundry

LONDON (WNS)—Nurses in 26 hospital groups are opposing would take away their traditional caps. "The caps are part of the image that we present to the public," insisted Louisa Hearn, matron of the Sutton General Hospital. "They also help patients identify us." The hospital board wants to eliminate caps in order to reduce laundry costs. The nurses are willing to compromise by wearing disposable paper caps, "if they are well designed."

Coffee House Provides A 'Quiet' Place For Talk

By PATRICIA E. DAVIS
 NEW YORK (UPI)—Young people may dig the loud decibels generated at discotheques, but they still need a place to talk—a quiet place. Increasing numbers of young men and women across the country are finding that the best place to get together for conversation is the coffee house.

"It's the answer to our need," said 19-year-old Kathy Kovacs who last year organized a coffee house in Columbus, Ohio. "We needed a place to be comfortable and talk, and the coffee house is a place where kids can go and have intelligent conversations in comfortable surroundings—not like the loud psychedelic discotheque," Kathy said.

Kathy, visiting New York City to accept for her coffee house, "The Wrong Number," the first prize in the National Coffee House Awards program, sponsored by the National Coffee Association, said that there are currently 1,200 non-commercial coffee houses in the United States. They are sponsored, she said, by religious, civic and other community groups, but are run by the young people themselves.

Kathy and five other members of the North Broadway Methodist Church in Columbus started their coffee house in February 1968 after they realized there was "no organized church activity to bring us together regularly after we graduated from high school."

Public Invited
 The group has now swelled to 30 members, between the ages of 17-28 "but the coffee house is open to the public and many, many more come to it on the Wednesday and Friday nights we are open," Kathy said.

The coffee house, located in a church-owned house, was named "The Wrong Number," Kathy explained, because "the telephone theme seemed the essence of person-to-person communication." The young people charge a 25 cent admission which entitles the patrons to all the free coffee they can drink as well as entertainment and discussions.

"On Wednesday nights we have guest speakers," Kathy said, "and they've included ministers, rabbis and a man from the vice squad who talked to us about drugs. Friday nights we have entertainment by maybe a singer, a poet, a guitar player or a small band."

Kathy, who lives with her mother and is a secretary, said that the coffee house's "person-to-person contact must be in our discussions, we can bridge the gap between generations too."

Kathy suggested that young people interested in starting a coffee house in their area write to: Coffee Information Service, 300 East 44th Street, New York, N.Y., 10017, for their free booklet entitled "Do-It-Yourself Coffee House." It gives details on how to start a coffee house.

Watches that look like slices of emeralds; watches that are part of chunky, metal link bracelets; watches set in antique quartz, lapis scarabs or antique coins. Such are watchwords in the winter collection for Sheffield, the firm that originally launched the fashion watch concept. The emerald-looking timepiece is one of the firm's gem watches. The faces seem to be carved from solid slices of emeralds, sapphires or rubies with rims of patching jewels attached to a fine mesh band.

Dad, Forget About Giving Hair Cuts

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: How can my husband tactfully tell his father that he doesn't want anymore homemade haircuts? Due to the rising cost of haircuts, my husband and his father have had a reciprocal hair cutting arrangement.

My husband has been putting up with "bowl jobs" hoping his father would notice and heed his suggestion of going back to a professional barber, but it hasn't worked out that way.

We are now sorry we ever heard of "HOME BARBER KITS" and would be more than willing to pay the going price for a decent haircut. Please help us. My husband doesn't want to hurt his father's feelings, but he just can't take any more home barbering.

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: It's mighty sweet of your husband to be so considerate of his father's feelings, but there is a solution to his problem. He must say, "Look, Pa, you're a wonderful father, but a lousy barber. Let's stay out of each other's hair from now on. The barbers have to live, too."

DEAR ABBY: Our marriage is in serious trouble. Shortly after I married, I found out that my husband lived with a friend with whom he had a homosexual relationship. I didn't forgive OR forget, even tho he assured me that it would never happen again.

I worried myself sick every time he went out or came home late from work. We saw counselors, doctors, and a priest who said little other than it was something that he would have to fight all his life—like alcohol. That didn't comfort me much. Anyway, I don't think he has any more such "affairs," but he doesn't want much to do with me either. Bathing, perfuming, and looking sexy doesn't do a thing. After 11 years of practically no sex life I have been tempted to go out with other men, but that would be a terrible thing to do to my two children. My marriage is messed up enough already. Please give me some advice. Maybe some of your readers know more about this subject than I do. Sign me . . .

"TROUBLED OUT WEST"

DEAR TROUBLED: My authorities on this subject tell me that homosexuality is "learned," and can be "unlearned" IF (and this is a big "IF") the patient is properly motivated, which most of them are not.

Your husband is bi-sexual, which need not preclude him from being a good husband.

Your words, "I didn't give or forget" leads me to suspect that your unforgiving attitude shows, and is driving your husband away.

Your only hope is to insist that he see a psychiatrist; otherwise your marriage doesn't have a very rosy future.

DEAR ABBY: My Alvin and I haven't been married very long and now he has asked me for a once a week night "out" with the "boys." I will let him go if you say it is all right, Abby, but I wonder if maybe it could be dangerous.

ALVIN'S BETTY

DEAR BETTY: There is nothing dangerous about it as long as the "boys" ARE boys.

Every Delay Adds To Difficulties

We doubt that it was wise to delay reopening of the schools for another day. The city school board had decided only Monday that the schools would be reopened on Wednesday.

Granted the board had to listen when Mayor Frank Wooten and Acting Chief of Police T. E. Gladson advised them that the additional time would be needed to provide adequate police protection. Mayor Wooten informed the board of this at a meeting yesterday and the action delaying opening of school was subsequently taken.

We feel the city should have exerted an extra effort to see that adequate police officers were available for the Wednesday opening as it was planned. The schools have been closed since last Friday which should have given some time to prepare for the reopening.

There are hundreds of students who want to get on with their educations, and they transcend racial lines. These students should not be denied their educational rights because of a few trouble-makers of both races.

We fail to see how further delay will be of help in solving the problems which have beset Rose High this year. In fact, the delay might have just have the opposite effect; for every otherwise obscure troublemaker becomes a bigger man in the eyes of his impressionable chums, if he can claim credit for closing the schools. It must be impressed on every Rose High student that everyone will receive fair treatment and all legitimate grievances will be heard. However, it must also be impressed on everyone that discipline will be maintained and that those who cause trouble will no longer be students at Rose High. The city should be ready at all times to provide whatever police protection that is needed whenever it is needed.

Both the city school administration and the city police have an unenviable job ahead. However, it is a job that must be done and further delay will only make it more difficult.

Scant Room For Pride In Our Safety Standing

Greenville can take no pride in being the 20th city in safety for motorists and pedestrians in North Carolina last year.

That, however, is where we stood in the safety derby, if you can call it that.

Greenville had three traffic deaths during the year and, based on its motor vehicle registration of 18,044 it had a death rate of 1.7 percent.

Greenville's neighbor, Kinston had the best record among North Carolina cities of 10,000 or more population. It had no traffic deaths during the year. There were four other cities with no deaths, but Kinston led because of its large motor vehicle registration of 20,526.

The North Carolina State Motor Club will present Kinston officials with a plaque citing the traffic safety achievement.

Hopefully Greenville will be able to improve its traffic safety record. Being 20th is not as bad as being on the bottom, but still it is not good enough.

Auto Wreckers Top Production

By JOHN CUNIFF NEW YTRK (AP) — A remarkable feat was accomplished last year by the nation's auto wreckers. For the first time in memory they disposed of more vehicles than were abandoned, a score of something like 9 million to 7.5 million units.

Dismantling, ripping, grating, hacking, compacting, baling, burning and burying, some 15,600 companies employing 98,500 workers reduced the nation's incredible backlog of automotive junk to less than 30 million units.

If you think this is not a major feat, consider what the odds must be in the junkyard battle:

Adding to the pile each year is the production of the world's largest, most automated and sometimes wealthiest companies. The big car companies have been turning out hundred to thousands of vehicles for decades. In this year alone their production will exceed nine million units.

Trying to keep pace is a disposal industry made up of many small companies without production lines—17 percent are one-man operations—often using primitive methods poorly financed and often poorly managed, scrambling to "outproduce" Detroit.

Gradually, however, three odds might be changing for a preliminary draft of a study just completed by the Commerce Department shows that, surprisingly, the efforts of these small companies add up to a huge industry indeed.

Shipments by auto wreckers in 1967 totaled $5.3 billion, for example, a figure equal to shipments of aircraft engines and parts, and which exceeds by far the dollar value of radio and television receiver shipments.

Technology of the industry is becoming more efficient and productive and some companies, in fact, have installed production lines to dismantle vehicles for their individual parts or for sale as junk.

The study recommends among other things, that:

—The federal government consider a program of loans, technical research and grants to assist industry and local governments to build scrap shredders, balers and incinerators for processing automotive scrap.

—The federal government should study the technical, economic and national defense benefits which might result from stockpiling of motor vehicle scrap.

—States should enact legislation to protect auto wreckers from legal action or harassment resulting from accepting vehicles presumed to be abandoned or disposed of by owners.

A person who has been forced to abandon his vehicle for next to nothing might receive a surprise to learn from the report that the average revenue obtained from a dismantled vehicle is about $587.

It is not unusual, the report states, for dealers to pay $500 to $1,000 for a late model junked vehicle with many salable parts, although the average price of all cars purchased for dismantling appears to be about $334.

Most of the wrecker's income is earned from selling parts rather than from selling the scrap metal, and facilities also are lacking for reducing the scrap to salable bales or shreds.

Lindsay Makes Big Comeback

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

NEW YORK — On the very day that the New York Daily News published its first poll on the mayoralty race here last week, showing Mayor John V. Lindsay surprisingly ahead, Lindsay headquarters received a very private telephone call from an emissary of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

The Governor wanted to know, said his agent, whether Lindsay needed a modest campaign contribution. If he did, the contribution could immediately be made — but, of course, it could not be identified as coming from Rockefeller. The head of this state's Republican party could hardly contribute to the mayor, the loser in the Republican primary last June to State Sen. John Marchi who has Rockefeller's official blessing.

Lindsay is running for reelection as both the nominee of the Liberal party and on a separate independent line.

The offer of Rockefeller campaign funds was politely turned down, but the fact it was made at all is evidence that Rockefeller is also convinced that Lindsay will now win on Nov. 4, and wants an undercover piece of the action as insurance for Lindsay's support in Rockefeller's own race for reelection next year.

Indeed, the recovery of Lindsay since the dark days after his primary defeat by Marchi (when one reputable poll showed City Controller Mario Procaccino, the Democratic nominee, a 14-point favorite to win in November) has been little less than fabulous. With a yarmulka stuck to the top of his head like a permanent fixture, Lindsay's ardent wooing of the all-important Jewish vote has broken through the crust of venomous hostility to make him the favorite as of today.

This shift of the Jewish vote, which Lindsay dangerously alienated in his handling of racial disorders arising out of the teachers' strike and the school - decentralization issue last year, was clearly visible in a poll we conducted late last week in Jewish areas of the upper Bronx. With pollster Oliver Quayle and his national field director, Mrs. Eleanor Seaman, we sampled 63 Jewish voters, 50 percent of whom supported Lindsay in 1965. These middle-income voters now plan to vote 43 percent for Lindsay, 38 percent for Procaccino, and 2 percent for Marchi — with 15 percent undecided.

Allocating the undecided, Lindsay gets 53 percent — a higher ratio than four years ago and enough, barring some last-minute Lindsay collapse, to give him another four years in Gracie Mansion.

The movement toward Lindsay, although reluctant and cautious, seems to be gathering momentum. Several of those we sampled who had not made up their minds told us that Procaccino just wasn't "a big enough man" for the job, indicating that they'd end up voting for Lindsay. As for Marchi, he suffers the fatal handicap, despite his primary victory over Lindsay, of still being relatively unknown.

Moreover, our sample registered a remarkable correlation between racial backlash and the division of the vote between Lindsay and Procaccino. Quayle's "backlash index," worked out from questions we asked each voter, showed either "strong prejudice" or "some prejudice" against Negroes by 25 of the 63 Jewish voters.

Only one voter with "strong prejudice" and five with "some prejudice" favored Lindsay. Procaccino was backed by six voters with "strong prejudice" and nine with "some prejudice." Conversely, 22 voters with "little or no prejudice" will vote for Lindsay, as against 10 for Procaccino.

Strength For Today

The Ecumenical Movement

The word "ecumenical" is much in use today. It means "the inhabited world." The ecumenical movement is an attempt to bring about friendship and cooperation among the churches and in some cases, the union of certain branches of the Church.

Is the ecumenical movement good? In most ways, Yes. The leaders in all the principal branches of the church who are working for a truly ecumenical or united church are honest, committed, well-trained and well - educated men.

That there needs to be more union and cooperation among the churches almost everyone would admit. Just as happy family life consists of overwhelming agreement on certain essentials, with dissent and disagreement on certain church, if it really follows out the meaning of the word, will be a church in which essentials will be agreed upon and non-essentials put aside for further examination. One-hundred-per - cent agreement is certainly never going to come, but would it be desirable if it did?

Most of us would say No. The essentials of religion—the existence of God, his loving nature and purpose, the disclosure of Himself through prophets, nations and personalities, and especially through Christ—these are essential. If we put love, faith and good will first, then humanity will some day have an ecumenical church of which it can be proud. Spiritual union must come first. Unity in other matters will take care of itself.

ART BUCHWALD

Spiro Writes For Agnew

WASHINGTON — A lady has written to the Washington Post accusing me of writing Vice President Spiro Agnew's funny speech in New Orleans, concerning the people who participated in the moratorium.

I am very flattered that this lady would think that I am writing Vice President Agnew's speeches, as they are probably the best humor being produced in this country at the moment. But I must disclaim all credit. Mr. Agnew has never asked me to write humorous speeches for him and I have never volunteered.

The question of who wrote the antimoratorium speech, which the Vice President gave with his typical socko delivery, is being speculated all over Washington.

Mr. Agnew is a very close friend of Bob Hope, and it is believed he might have gotten help from Mr. Hope's writers. But the Vice President also happens to have friends on Laugh-In, and many people swear Mr. Agnew's reference to "impudent snobs and intellectuals" is a typical Laugh-In throwaway line.

Jackie Gleason, who happens to be President Nixon's good friend, may have had a hand in the final draft of the speech, particularly where the Vice President called everyone masochists.

But from all I can discover the Vice President is, for the main, writing his own stuff. While he may consult

Public Forum

To The Editor:

Since my letter appeared in the Daily Reflector on Sunday, October 19, many people have told me that they agree with my comments concerning the property along the Tar River that is being sold by the Redevelopment Commission. These people may be interested in Mr. Laughinghouse's reply. His main points and my own comments follow.

1. "Deeds in North Carolina are commonly drawn 'to the water's edge.'" My question was whether or not what is commonly done should be continued. Redevelopment Commissions are new, and their responsibilities toward those who set them up are new. Increasing population pressures mean that not all those who might wish to enjoy the water's edge can own their own stream banks.

2. "The river bank west of Greene Street is valueless for public use, being practically a cliff." I might point out that the steepness of the Grand Canyon, the Palisades in New Jersey, and the Great Smokies does not detract from their usefulness as public parks.

3. "It is inconceivable that the developer will not take prudent precautions to protect the land." Whether it is inconceivable depends on whether the new developer is more enlightened than the last one was. The bank is now overgrown by a vine that is killing the few trees that are left. The best way to protect river banks is to leave them undeveloped.

4. "The City cannot afford to reserve one or two hundred feet along the river." I would suggest that the City cannot afford not to reserve one or two hundred feet along the river. And certainly it can afford a few hundred feet this year and a few hundred next year.

Mr. Laughinghouse also suggested that those interested in an Open Space Program for Greenville make this fact known to the Chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission and the Recreation Commission.

Sincerely yours,
Patricia Daugherty
Greenville

a comedy writer for an occasional hough or gag, the Vice President prefers to write his own material which he delivers in his now famous deadpan style.

This, according to an intimate friend, is how the Vice President works on his speeches. First he studies the occasion. The Republican fund raising dinner in New Orleans obviously was a lighthearted affair and Mr. Agnew knew he was expected to be humorous and topical.

Since the Oct. 15 moratorium had just taken place, the Vice President decided to do his funny monologue around the protest. For every good laugh, the Vice President discarded 10. Finally, he had it shaped up, and he took it to the President who read it and chuckled all the way through. "You're going to knock 'em dead with this one," the President said.

"How do you like that line about impudent snobs?" the Vice President said.

The President could hardly contain himself. "This thing about 'effete corps' is beautiful. I wish I could come down and see you give it."

Boots Also A Symbol

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

The wearing of boots is popular today with both young men and young women, and probably this reflects a feeling of frustration about our present society common to both sexes. They seek peace of mind, but the boots symbolize their unconscious, aggressive desire to stomp on whatever is bothering them and crush it.

Everything costs twice as much or more than it used to, but the inflationary spiral won't really reach its peak until men start tipping hatcheck girls four bits instead of a quarter.

Many people now are turning to painting as a way to express themselves. This is a fine idea, but the trouble with encouraging them by praising one of their paintings is that they are likely to press it on you as a gift. This means that, whenever they visit you, it is necessary for you to run down to the basement or scurry up to the attic to find where you hid it, then dust it off, and hang it on the living room wall until they leave. That is simply too much to ask in the name of art.

Nothing is impossible to a man who has the character to eat eight prunes for breakfast every morning of his life not because he likes them but because someone in his youth once told him they were good for him.

How much more romantic the world might seem if the same fine creative musical talent that is expended on television commercials was spent in composing our love songs!

Two out of five Americans don't know whether rutabaga is a musical instrument, a vegetable, or a kind of knapsack, and if you do tell these two what it is, one of them will think you're a smart aleck for bringing up the subject anyway.

Some fellows now are letting their sideburns grow so long they meet under their chins and form a semicircle. It does give them an interesting look—sort of as if their faces were skipping rope.

An old-timer is a man who can remember when all electric lights were turned on by pulling a beaded brass chain.

Wives complain as they get older that it becomes harder and harder for them to get their husbands' attention. Science finally has come up with the reason: any steady noise of 100 decibels or over can in time cause loss of hearing in a man.

Every generation creates its own slang that flowers and fades. An example is mazuma, an oldtime slang term for money. If you mentioned mazuma to a modern teen-ager, he would probably think you were talking about an obscure Egyptian belly dancer.

Happy is the heart that uses its rainy days to remember forgotten rainbows.

Shock Waves In Cyclamate Ban

By ELMER ROESSNER

The government's ban on cyclamates has not only frightened other nations but is leading to suspicions of many other foods additives and other products in the United States.

The prohibition of the use of the sweetened cyclamate announced by Dr. Herbert L. Ley Jr., Commissioner of Food and Drugs as been widely reported in Europe and in most countries the government has announced that it was restudying their use.

There is considerable concern in the Arab countries, where artificial sweeteners are used freely when sugar is scarce or high in price.

In this country, the FDA has already stated restudying the effects of saccharin, which has been in common use for years without, any in-depth studies of its effects on the human body.

Other Suspicions

The government has also undertaken a restudy of the effects of monosodium glutamate (msg) which is used to enhance the flavor of food. This study has been speeded up by publicity given the experiment of Dr. John W. Olney, at the Washington University School of Medicine, who found substantial doses of msg damaged the brains of baby rats.

However, it has been used for centuries by the Chinese. Even today it is sold in stores in Chinatowns across the country as "taste powder."

Suspicion was first directed against it because it became of the recent definition of the "Chinese restaurant syndrome." Many people, some say as many as one in every four, have headaches of varying degrees of mildness, outbreaks of pre-spiration and upset stomachs after eating Chinese food.

The symptoms are generally mild, usually not enough to stop the victims from eating all Chinese food.

Some tests have indicated that msg is responsible, and some have theorized that if it has those effects, it may have more hidden effects. You can count on a lot of msg being fed to government mice.

Other suspicions
The FDA, which is paying particular attention to the addition of msg to baby food, is also looking into the effects of the addition of salt and modified starch to baby food. Some doctors say that babies' organs are not ready for more than a trace of salt. Modified starch, which is starch treated chemically to give it thickening or jelling qualities is a fairly new development and, while it may be completely safe, the FDA says it intends to find out.

The FDA may also get around to meat tenderizers which some people cannot abide either because they upset their stomachs or because people imagine they are tenderizing the walls of their stomachs. The FDA has already looked into the effects of the entire palette of cleansers. Some people, it is known, are highly allergic to certain detergents, and it may be that some are so often irritating that they at least require warning labels.

Resolution Curbing MIRV May Be Affected

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers was invited before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today in a session likely to influence considerably the congressional drive for a desolution urging U.S. initiatives to halt the testing of multiwarhead missiles.

tests of the Multiple Independently Targeted Re-entry Vehicles—MIRV.
Sources indicated Rogers will be pressed closely on administration objections to further action on the resolution, including a round of public hearings.
“The secretary would have to present a pretty compelling case” to halt the move for hearings, one source said.

Rogers said over the weekend a halt in MIRV production will be one of the subjects to be considered at U.S.-Soviet arms limitation talks scheduled to start with preliminary discussions Nov. 17 in Helsinki.
But the secretary cautioned that “the stadt of the talks themselves does not mean success . . .”

procedures would only result in damage to the United States.” The apparent reference to the Brooke proposal came Tuesday at the weekly White House meeting of Republican congressional leaders.
The United States is considered ahead of the Soviets in MIRV development, with the first converted Poseidon submarines and Minuteman III land-based missiles expected to become operational late next year. The Soviets also are reportedly testing MIRVs.

Reform Jewish Laity Rejects School Plan

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Opposing their own rabbis, the American Reform Jewish laity have voted against creating a fulltime private school system for their children.
Financial troubles in the Roman Catholic parochial schools, an unwillingness to ask for federal funds and loyalty to the nation's public schools were cited before the defeat Tuesday of a Jewish day school proposal at the Union of American Hebrew Congregations (UAHC) convention.
The rejection by standing vote in a 3-2 ratio among the 3,000 delegates put the UAHC in direct conflict with its national rabbinical organization, the Central Conference of American Rabbis (CCAR).
Since neither body had legislative power over the synagogues, temples that have started nursery schools and kindergartens and want to pay for their own higher-level schools may do so.

But the UAHC rejection in general assembly means no nationwide system will be built up to match the Hebrew day schools of Orthodox and Conservative Judaism.
Reform Judaism in the United States has one million members, 700 synagogues and 1,000 rabbis.
The CCAR strongly approved at its convention in Houston four months ago an almost identical resolution to the one the UAHC turned down. The Jewish Education Commission, a joint agency of the UAHC and CCAR, wrote both.

Grading System Termed Vicious

RALEIGH (AP) — Letter grades are “one of the most vicious educational trappings yet invented” says an assistant professor from the University of Illinois.
“The punitive and primitive grading system of A-F has been thought to be a university language understood by everyone who needs to know anything about academic performance,” Dr. Terry O'Banion said Tuesday.
O'Banion spoke to more than 150 educators attending at Wednesday meeting of the Student Services Personnel Association for the community college system.
He said “Junior colleges have claimed to be student-centered institutions dedicated to helping students meet with success.
“But one of the most vicious educational trappings yet invented guarantees failure,” he said.
He said an “A” means something different in each institution.
“Even within the same university, colleges grade differently; within colleges, departments grade differently; within departments, divisions grade differently; within divisions, instructors grade differently,” O'Banion said.

Trucking Company Closes Down In Strike Shooting

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — A trucking company caught up in a union dispute that led to the death of one man during a gunfight is suspending operations.
“As long as anarchy duns the streets, I will not jeopardize the safety of my men,” Jerry L. Stoneburner, general manager of Stony's Trucking Co., said Tuesday night.
Stoneburner's announcement came hours after John J. Gorsline, 25, a Teamsters Union business agent from Cleveland, was fatally shot as a convoy of seven trucks rolled through the gates of the Republic Steel Corp. plant.

Stoneburner said the company would cease operations “until the power struggle” between the Teamsters and the Fraternal Association of Steel Haulers was settled.
About 200 Teamsters and members of the steel haulers union had gathered at Republic's gates. The Teamsters faction launched a wildcat strike against Stony's 11 days ago.
Two of the seven trucks, all driven by Teamsters, made it through the gates. The gunfire erupted and Gorsline was killed. Both sides were armed with clubs, shotguns, rifles, pistols and bricks, witnesses said. The gunfire ended when police fired tear gas into the crowd.
Eight other men were wounded. Police arrested five men and held them without charge.
The strike against Stony's began when 11 drivers demanded that the company rehire a driver who was fired.

Rescue Unit Is Struck By Rocks

A Greenville rescue unit, traveling along West Fifth Street early last night in response to a call was struck by thrown rocks, according to police investigator.
The Police Department over the past several days, has been plagued by reports of rocks and bottles being tossed at passing cars in the West Fifth St. area.

T. E. Gladson, acting chief of police said the incident was reported at 8:26 p. m. It occurred, he noted, at the intersection of Fifth and Ford Streets.
The police official said the rescue unit was en-route to pick up a man complaining of severe stomach pains. Chief Gladson said following the rock throwing incident a police vehicle was used to transport the man to the hospital.
Police estimated damage to the rescue truck at $5.

“I wish you could, too.”
“Spiro, you've said some funny things in your time, but you've outdone yourself on this one. This speech will make you another household word.”
“You don't think anyone will take me seriously, do you?” Mr. Agnew asked.
The President wiped tears of laughter from his eyes. “How could they? This country hasn't lost its sense of humor yet.”
With the President's approval, Mr. Agnew went to New Orleans and, as everyone knows, he vowed not only the audience, but millions who saw him on television. Overnight, the Vice President lifted the country out of its depression and had everyone laughing.
No Vice President in modern times has been able to constantly do this as well as Spiro Agnew. And the thing that has official Washington amazed is that he's doing almost all of it by himself.

Name Refuge For Rachel Carson

WASHINGTON (AP) — The name of Rachel Carson, author of “The Sea Around Us” and “Silent Spring,” will be honored in the renaming of a wildlife refuge in Maine.
Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel said Tuesday the wildlife sanctuary known as the Coastal Maine Refuge will henceforth be called the Rachel Carson National Wildlife Refuge.
In addition to writing books devoted to conservation, the late Miss Carson spent 16 years as a writer and editor for the Interior Department's Fish and Wildlife Service.

A 'Privileged Thief' Said Plundering America

GRAND CANYON, Ariz. (UPI)—A privileged thief with the combination to the vault is stealing and destroying America's greatest national treasures.

"Right now," Prof. S. Ross Tocher warns, "an 'ugly American' is destroying our greatest beauties and right in the places where they're supposed to be protected—in the parks. "He's like the privileged thief who has the combination to the safe," the University of Michigan professor told 42 foreign park administrators.

The administrators ended a month-long tour at the Grand Canyon National Park here after visiting recreational areas throughout Canada and the western United States.

Who is the "ugly American?" He, or she, is the uneducated and undisciplined worst in all Americans who use the national and state park systems.

He is the tourist who leaves heaps of rubbish at his campsite, the camper who insists upon nature-destroying roads or even the businessman who, as Tocher sees it, chooses to ignore his social responsibilities through the promiscuous manufacture, sale and use of pesticides.

Tocher told the conservation leaders, who were critical of the American philosophy of park use, that the American public "must do something about the 'ugly American' now."

Modular Building Is The Talk In Industrialized Housing Prospects

NEW YORK (UPI)—Call it what you will—sectional housing, modular building, prefabricated construction today is "industrialized" housing.

architect." He considers himself fortunate to have worked with Tiffany Armstrong of Richmond, Va., designer of the Amherst and Mt. Snow projects, and with Rudolph, architect of the New Haven development.

each unit its own courtyard and garden. Variety in stacking will create open ground level space below upper units, adaptable for later enclosure as an extra bedroom, bath or playroom.

Colossus of the World Speaking to the touring group, representing 31 countries around the globe, Tocher said the United States appeared to foreigners as "the colossus of the world with the fate of every people in every land linked to our own fate."

That's why they believe American conservation is so vitally important. It may well involve the future of our species."

They were very concerned about the fate of this nation," Tocher's colleague from the University of Michigan, B. L. Driver, said of the visitors. "Of course, they were very concerned about our conservation program, too."

Lundey told the traveling seminar as a for-instance, that blacktop parking directly over New Mexico's Carlsbad Caverns prevented water from percolating down to the caverns, thus ending a process as old as time itself.

It has grown increasingly clear that mass produced housing is the only possible answer to the pressing shelter needs of the country. On-site construction by small builders, traditional in this country, no longer can provide adequate housing in an ever-growing market in the face of soaring costs.

Building Blocks The New Haven project is the latest in a string of successful "building block" ventures for Glen whose accomplishments include Puffton Village, a middle-income rental project in Amherst, Mass., featuring the first peaked roofs in residential modules; and the Mt. Snow Townhouse Condominiums in Vermont, a four-level installation employing stacked modules.

Factory-Made Rudolph says he has been "toying with the notion" of factory-made housing for 15 years or so and has drawn plans for four or five projects which never were built for one reason or another. Now, however, production runs have begun on the "20th century brick" which will be used in the New Haven project.

Stokes-Pactolus Honor Students Five students were named to the Honor Roll while 17 students qualified for the Principal's List at Stokes-Pactolus High School for the first marking period.

Obvious though the need has been, attempts to produce factory-built homes on a mass basis have had little success on any broad scale up to this time. In some cases design has been faulty; more often, building codes, labor union practices, financing restrictions have proved stumbling blocks.

Still, the far-sighted have gone on planning and there are today definite signs of growing support from industry and finance, from federal, state and local government and from labor—all essential if the country's shelter shortage is to be solved.

Increasingly, in all parts of the country, promising examples of "instant housing" are showing up.

Operation Santa Already Begun

RALEIGH — Christmas is still nearly two months away, but "Operation Santa Claus," a project of the North Carolina Mental Health Association, is well under way.

"Operation Santa Claus" is the annual effort to make sure that all of the patients at the eight N.C. State Mental Hospitals and Centers for the Retarded receive Christmas gifts during the Yuletide season.

County Mental Health Associations across the state are now preparing to canvas, civic, service, and fraternal organizations, businesses, industries, churches and individuals for these worthy gifts.

Mrs. Donald Kempton of Horse Shoe is state chairman for the "Operation Santa Claus" project. The four regional chairmen are: Eastern, Mrs. Rena Harris of Tarboro; Western, Mr. Donald Kempton of Horse Shoe; North Central, Mrs. Evelyn Murdoch of Chapel Hill; and South Central, Mrs. Robert Cur-

Nixon Gets Scores Of Suggestions On Address

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has encouraged key administration officials, and experts to send him suggestions about his state of the Vietnam war policy speech.

Sources say the result has been literally dozens of memos outlining recommendations and proposals for the Nov. 3 TV-radio appearance. The memos range from peace-making to war-making to truce-making to the shape of the post-Vietnam world in Southeast Asia.

But officials warn against expectations of any world shaking pronouncements.

While saying it is possible some of the ideas may be included in the address, officials are worried the public may be expecting too much from the well-advertised speech.

Speculation on what the President may or may not do, according to the official sources, has exceeded by far Nixon's latitude for action.

For example, it is highly unlikely Nixon would dump his support for the Saigon government as some antiwar elements have suggested or that he will declare a unilateral cease-fire as others have called for.

Nixon is expected to continue his support of the present Saigon regime and resist efforts for any coalition peace government such as the Viet Cong and North Vietnam have demanded. But the President could suggest a broadened base for the present government.

The idea of a unilateral cease-fire has been frowned upon by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird. And when Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott called for a cease-fire last week, the Pennsylvania senator received a call from the White House suggesting he clarify his stand to specify that the halt in fighting must have mutual agreement.

Scott also was persuaded to re-emphasize that the call for a cease-fire was his own idea and not something he was advancing for the administration.

The area where Nixon has maximum flexibility is in the withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam. It has been widely speculated he will announce his schedule that could result in the withdrawal of up to 300,000 men by the end of 1970.

But this in turn depends upon a continued lull on the battlefield, the speed with which South Vietnam's troops can take over the combat responsibility and progress in the Paris peace talks.

ELIMINATED IN CUTBACK — Lone airman walks beneath the wing of huge Air Force radar picket plane at Otis Air Base (Mass). Two squadrons with nearly twenty six of the big planes are scheduled to be eliminated in the budget cutback announced by the Department of Defense. Out-Of-Court Settlement In Smog Suit Defended By Federal Judge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A federal judge who approved an out-of-court settlement of the government's antismog suit against major automakers says his ruling was in the public interest.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Jesse W. Curtis granted a consent delay development of antipollution equipment for their products. The decree forbids the continuation of practices the government complained about.

Judge Curtis said it would be declined to sign the decree, the case then had gone to trial and the government had lost.

lay Tuesday in response to a proposal by the Justice Department.

The suit, filed during the Johnson administration, accused General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, American Motors and the Automobile Manufacturers Association of conspiracy to delay development of antipollution equipment for their products. The decree forbids the continuation of practices the government complained about.

Judge Curtis said it would be declined to sign the decree, the case then had gone to trial and the government had lost.

Declares Music Good For Kids

CHICAGO (AP) — "Children should live life, not merely watch it," says Constance Wagner, a music education consultant.

"And, just as participating in sports builds young bodies, so can participating in entertainment—learning to play the piano, for instance—help develop youthful minds and personalities," she said.

With their parents' help, preschoolers can soon learn to recognize a waltz, tango, a march and so on.

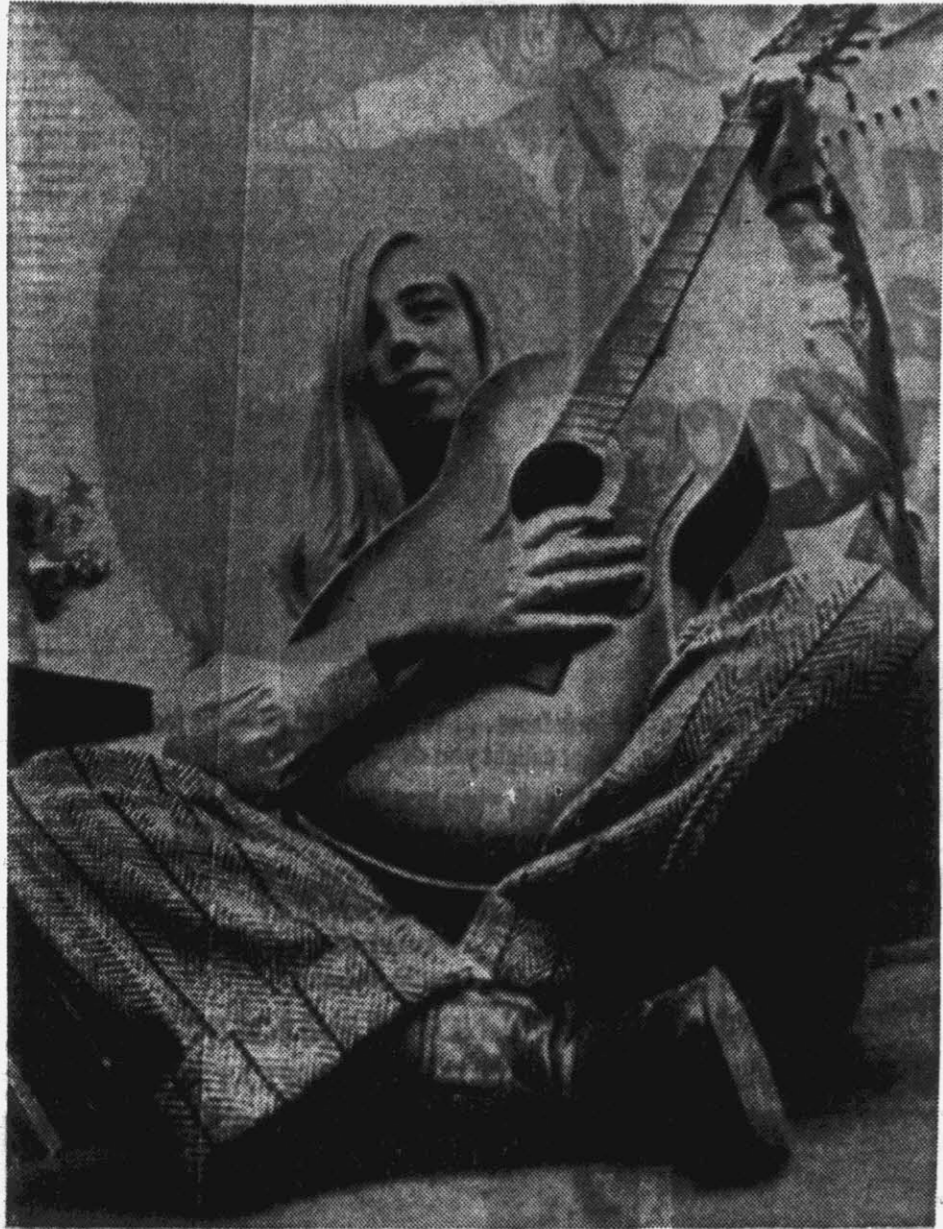

"Such early experiences are invaluable to any child's full development," she added, "and particularly helpful to the boy or girl who takes up a musical instrument later."

Still another prohibits the defendants, as a group, from restraining decisions of an individual company as to the date it will install antismog devices.

The five defendants were indicted by a federal grand jury which completed a nine-month study two years ago.

Opponents of the settlement declared that evidence gathered during the probe should be made public.

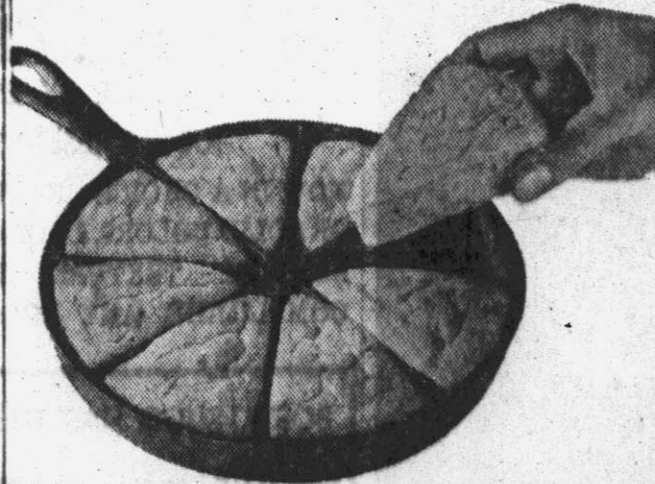

Judge Curtis said he planned to have the jury's transcript impounded, but said it would be available for use by damage claimants and others wishing to bring legal action against the automakers.

One Firefighter Is Overcome By Smoke

DWELLING DAMAGED . . . Heavy damage resulted from an afternoon fire yesterday. The fire was reported to have started in an upstairs bedroom. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

One fireman was overcome by smoke as firefighters battled flames in a two-story frame dwelling at 426 Bonner's Lane here yesterday afternoon.

Fire officers said fireman Al Riggs was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released after suffering from smoke inhalation while combating the blaze.

The fire, investigators reported, apparently started in a second-floor bedroom. Cause of the fire was listed as undetermined.

Heavy fire damage resulted to the second floor of the home. Officers also said heavy water damage resulted.

Box 75 at the intersection of Atlantic Avenue and South Alley was sounded for the fire.

Majorette Mix-Up Explained

Rose High Band Director James E. Rodgers, and Assistant Band Directors Thomas H. Smith Jr. and Johnny Wooten on Tuesday issued a joint statement of facts concerning the selection of a majorette to lead the homecoming parade on October 17.

"During the past summer . . . it was decided that Miss Beatrice Jones would be the assistant head majorette. Rodgers . . . told Miss Jones that he would let her march at the head of the majorettes for one football game and one parade of her choice.

"Early in September it was reported . . . that Miss Jones had selected the homecoming football game and the homecoming parade . . . After much discussion between Rodgers, Smith and Wooten . . . this decision of Miss Jones did not meet the approval of the band staff. It was decided . . . we would select a football game (Raleigh-Enloe) and a parade (ECU Homecoming) and Wooten would notify Miss Jones of this decision . . . This decision was made weeks in advance of the homecoming parade. Wooten did notify Beatrice . . . but in discussing the (Rose) homecoming parade with Miss Jones, Wooten was told by Miss Jones that she and Miss Jan Heidenreich had worked out their own plans for the parade . . . we, the band staff, felt that the homecoming activities were satisfactorily finalized.

"On Tuesday, October 14 . . . Miss Jones informed Rodgers that she expected to lead the homecoming parade. Miss Jones told me that she and Miss Heidenreich had worked out their own plans for the parade . . . in checking with Miss Heidenreich, I found that no plans had been worked out between the two girls. Miss Heidenreich's statement was that . . . she told Miss Jones to check with me. Miss Jones has admitted this is correct. The reason for not checking with me, states Miss Jones, is that she thought Miss Heidenreich was going to schedule a meeting with me and notify her."

Given 20 Years In Killing Singer; Can't Believe It

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — "I'm innocent; I did not do it," Marine Sgt. James W. Killen said today after being sentenced to 20 years in prison for the killing of an Australian singer as she performed in an officers' club.

"I've given the Marine Corps 10 years of my life," Killen told the court. "I just can't believe that this is really happening to me."

Killen, 28, of Winter Haven, Fla., was convicted Tuesday of the unpremeditated murder of Catherine Anne Warnes, 20, during a performance in a Marine club July 20. The prosecution said he was aiming at his commanding officer, Maj. Roger E. Simmons of Dale City, Va., and hit the singer by mistake.

The court of five officers and three senior sergeants also sentenced Killen to reduction in rank to private, a dishonorable discharge and forfeiture of all pay and allowances. The sentence will be reviewed automatically by Maj. Gen. Ormond Simpson, commander of the U.S. 1st Marine Division. He could order the penalty reduced. Killen was returned to the Marine stockade at Da Nang to

Israeli 'Hawks' Show Gains In Election Count

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A swing to the right in Israel's national election Tuesday strengthened the nation's hawks and slightly weakened the position of Prime Minister Golda Meir's Labor coalition. But he vote represented overwhelming ratification of Mrs. Meir's uncompromising defiance of Israel's Arab foes and of the condemnations of the United Nations.

Meir's so-called National Unity government, which contains members of all major factions including Gahal. But Gahal, having gained while Labor lost ground, may demand one or more key Cabinet posts instead of its present two ministers without portfolio.

Suggests Some May Need LSD

COLUMBIA (AP) — A psychiatrist says young people who take LSD may need it.
Dr. George H. Orvin, director of the Division of Adolescent Psychiatry at the Medical University of South Carolina, warns parents:
"If your child cannot communicate with you, then he might need LSD."
Orvin, addressing a South Carolina Mental Health Association banquet Tuesday, said if children are always ordered, never praised, and have no chance to express thoughts and feelings, they end up unable to communicate with their parents.
He called the use of illicit drugs by young people "a maladaptive and neurotic solution to their problems." Orvin said the solution is to remove the need by establishing communication.
"The adolescent who says 'I take drugs because they turn me on' needs to be turned on," the physician said. "Drugs? Who needs drugs? Sick people need drugs."

Arrest 3 Boys With BB Guns

Three Negro juveniles were arrested here early yesterday afternoon after three cars traveling along Memorial Drive near the West Sixth Street intersection were struck by shot from air rifles.
Police said the three arrested included one 13-year-old and two 14-year-old boys. The trio was charged with damage to personal property and discharging firearms within the city limits.
Three BB rifles were confiscated by officers who took the youths into custody in a wooded area along Memorial Drive, acting Police Chief T. E. Gladson said.
The three shooting incidents occurred about 1:30 p. m.
Persons reporting their vehicles had been struck by shot included Bobby Bradley of 1112 Colonial Ave., Edgar Patrick, of 1602 Myrtle Ave. and Vernon S. Clodfelter Jr. of 2615 Memorial Dr.
The three juveniles were released to their parents pending hearing of the case in Juvenile Court.

Penalty Decision If Left To Judge

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury that found Billie Austin Bryant guilty of killing two FBI agents has left to the judge the decision of whether he should get life imprisonment or a death sentence.
The jury of eight men and four women told Judge Gehard A. Gesell on Tuesday it had been unable to reach a decision on Bryant's sentence.
The jury Monday had found Bryant, 30, guilty on two counts of first-degree murder in the shooting deaths of FBI agents Edwin B. Woodruff, 27, and Anthony Palmisano, 26. They were killed when they attempted to question Bryant about a bank robbery.

Orders Warning Of Speed Trap

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Signs warning motorists that they are "Approaching Georgia's renowned speed trap, Ludowici," have been ordered from the state Highway Department by Gov. Lester Maddox.
The governor said Tuesday he would pay for the signs out of his emergency fund. He said they would be implanted in concrete and may be guarded by state troopers.
The signs might not be the only action taken in regard to Ludowici, a Southeast Georgia town reputed for years to be a speed trap, Maddox said.
"There's that bridge just outside of town (on U.S. 301). I'll talk to the Highway Department, but it could be that the bridge needs repairing and will have to be closed for months or so," said the governor.

Nab Juveniles

Seven juveniles were taken into custody yesterday on charges stemming from a theft at Dudley's Launderette on North Greene Street Monday.
Police said the Negro boys, ranging in age from 8 to 12 years old, were charged with receiving stolen money. One of the youths, a 10-year-old boy, was charged with larceny.
The incident was reported at 5:29 p.m. Monday.
Acting Chief of Police T. E. Gladson said the money, $5 or $6, was alleged taken from coin boxes at the launderette.

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser. Egypt had offered to mediate between the Lebanese government and the guerrillas, but Dr. Hassan Sabry el Kholy, a special envoy of Nasser, canceled a mediation trip to Beirut Tuesday night and returned to Cairo from Damascus. Egypt now says it will not continue mediation efforts unless Lebanon first agrees to allow the guerrillas freedom of action. Syria, Iraq, Libya and the Sudan support this stand.

MINDING THE SAC STORE

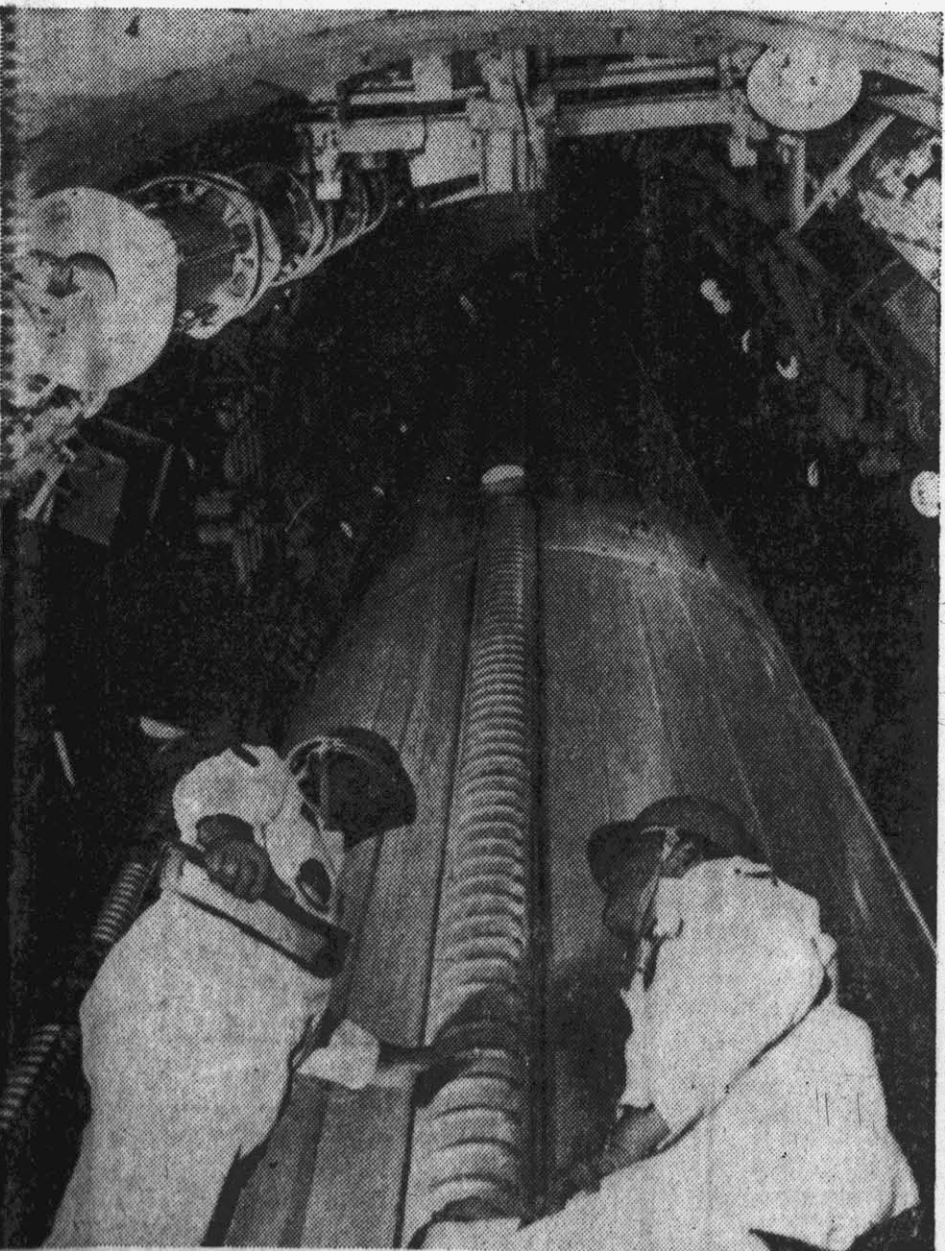

The three-acre SAC command post lies 50 feet under Offutt Air Force Base, Neb.

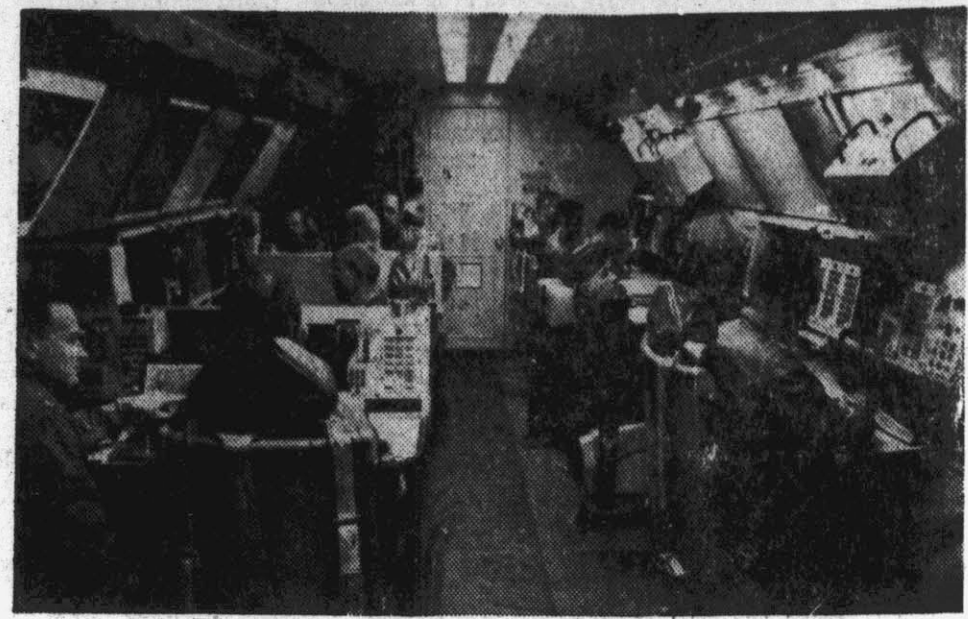

Console in SAC underground headquarters where awesome power is controlled by a precise communications system.

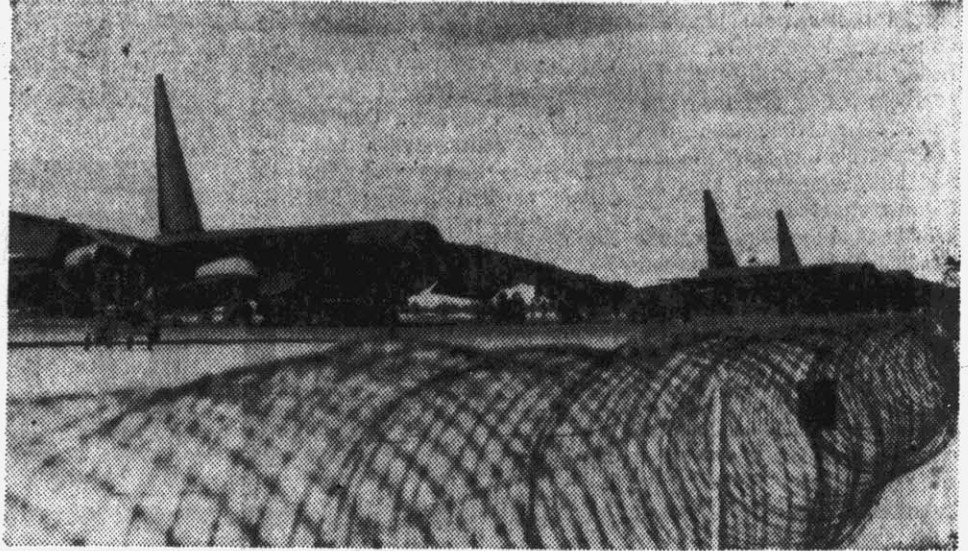

Missile crewman studies data at station in launch silo.

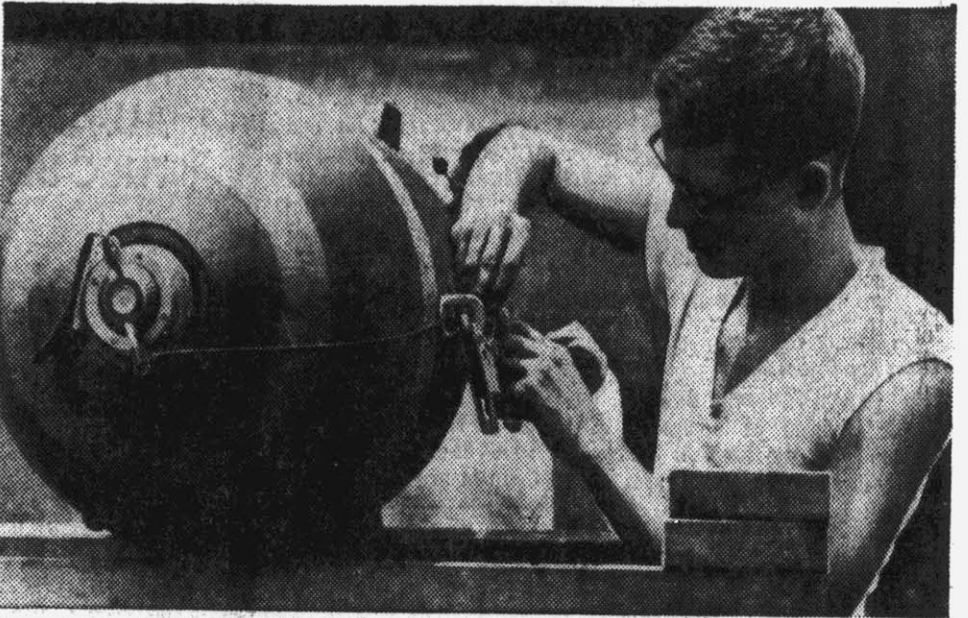

Crewmen working on a Titan missile in underground silo.

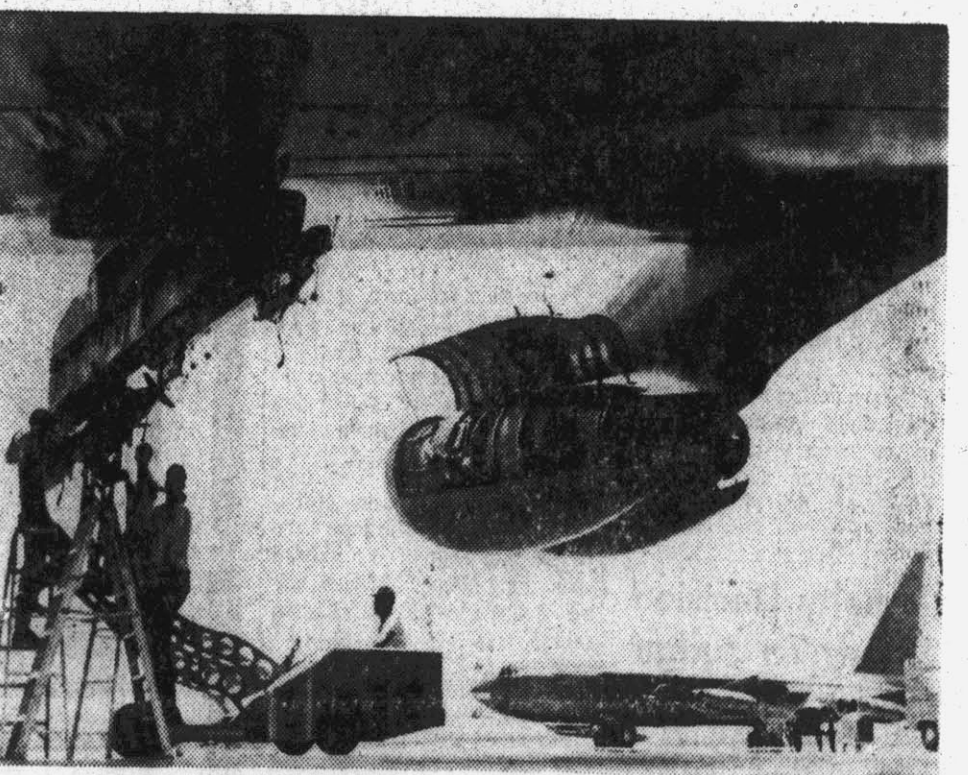

In an EC 135 C jet strato-tanker: part of a complete, airborne command system.

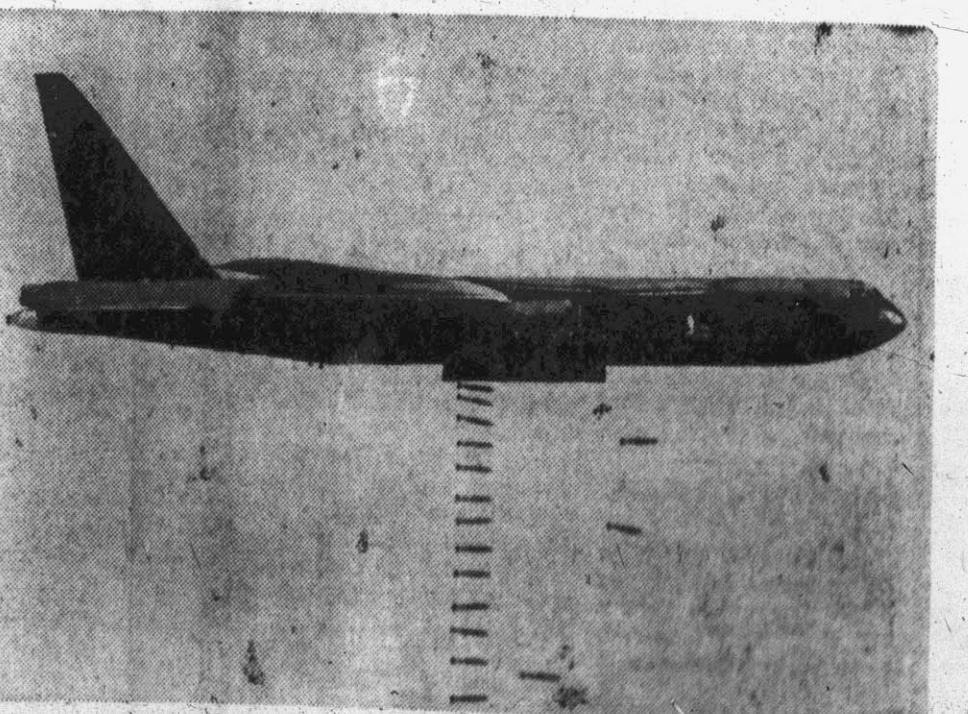

The intricate communications network covers the world, including B52s in Vietnam.

Command system extends to bomb preparation ...

... loading and arming of B52s in Vietnam ...

... and release of a 60,000-pound load on enemy target.

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Fifty feet under ground or 50,000 feet above, somebody is always minding the store at Strategic Air Command Hdqtrs. at Offutt AFB just south of here.

In SAC's famed command post, three floors below ground, a virtual city exists under a concrete roof thick enough to protect it against all but a direct hit by a nuclear bomb. Within this underground city is the nerve center controlling 80 to 90 per cent of the free world's striking power. In time of war it could be sealed off against airborne contamination and occupants could safely live and work for weeks.

In the event this command post with its world renowned red alert telephone should fail or contact with it should be lost, control of the SAC bomber and missile force immediately shifts to "Looking Glass." That is the code name for a fleet of modified KC-135 tankers, at least one of which has been constantly airborne since Feb. 3, 1961.

Each modified tanker carries a general officer and staff ready to assume command of the SAC arsenal if the need arises. Other command posts are located at several SAC bases in the U.S.

All are linked to some 50 bases throughout the world which can respond instantly to presidential order. Instant contact is possible even with individual planes in flight.

Subject to this intricate command system are more than 600 B-52 bombers, some 600 KC-135 tankers and 80 B-58 Hustler supersonic bombers, plus an arsenal of intercontinental and airborne missiles.

By fiscal 1970 SAC will begin receiving new FB-111 bombers designed to replace the aging B-52. The FB-111 can fly twice the speed of sound and carry both nuclear and conventional weapons.

SAC's missile force consists of some 54 Titan II and 1,000 Minuteman missiles, rapid firing silo-launched projectiles of the 6,000-mile range.

Much of SAC's intricate communications system is devoted to making certain this awesome striking power is not turned loose by accident.

"Positive Control," as it is called, begins with the President and is authenticated at several levels of command down to the individual aircraft flying toward a target thousands of miles from any SAC command post. So precise is this system that if a single link in the "go code" fails, the bomber will turn away from its target.

"Peace," says a signboard at SAC base, "is our profession."

Launch Literacy Workshop Here

Anyone who knows of illiterate person who might like to be taught to read and write should contact Mrs. John Grier.

Mrs. Grier, who is chairman of Christian Community Action for the Alcomarle Presbyterian, is working with the literacy workshop which began here last night. She had a training course to become a tutor for illiterate persons in 1955 and has been interested since that time in getting a course for tutors started here. In September, she enlisted Mrs. Thomas M. Davis to attend a Literacy Action Symposium in Atlanta, Ga.

This 'each one teach one' simplified tutoring method and proved it successful even when newly taught readers immediately seek to teach their fellows. The genius of the Laubach approach seems to lie in its empathy for the individual adult illiterate, and in the tutor-student rapport which results from appropriate use of the teaching materials. An interdenominational group here in Greenville is sponsoring the first workshop, with the help of Laubach Literacy, Inc., a non-profit educational organization, which is providing the materials.

A daytime workshop from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. today and Thursday will be offered, as will a separate night workshop from 7 to 10 p.m. tonight, and Thursday night. Interested persons should call Mrs. Carl Moore at 558-1794.

Learn To Read In Only 3 Months

OLDHAM, England (AP) — Five-year-olds in the tiny village of Denshaw, near here, surprise their parents by being able to read after only three months at the local school.

The staff at the 145-year-old village school, headmaster Michael Woods and teacher Mrs. Renee Beswick, who takes the 7-year-olds, say the secret to success is the small number of pupils, 36 for the whole school. "It means I can give each child individual attention," says Mrs. Beswick. "Each child can progress at his own rate."

Being able to read yourself and being willing to give of yourself and your time are the only requirements. Every Christian, man or woman, young or old, black or white, should take this opportunity to practice his faith.

NEW SYSTEM RECOMMENDED

Number Of Pitt Conservation Works Finished

A number of conservation practices have been completed recently in the Pitt County area, according to Elmer Bland of the Pitt Soil Conservation Service.

Dr. H.L. Hadley has constructed a grassed-waterway to control erosion on his farm in the Bell Arthur community.

According to Bland, the area is being seeded with fescue grass. Crop rows will be located on the contour and will empty into the waterway without causing erosion.

Before building the waterway, Bland said, Hadley installed a tile drainage system to drain the waterway and permit crossing with farm equipment during wet weather.

R.G. Lewis of the Farmville Community has constructed a grassed-waterway in a natural depression on one of his tobacco fields.

Lewis used a bulldozer to construct the waterway and then seeded the area with Pensacola Bahia and fescue grass, Bland explained.

Lewis received technical assistance from SCS through the Pitt Soil and Water Conservation District.

Another project was the construction of a surface field ditch across a tobacco field on the Marl Oakley farm near Farmville.

The surface drain saved approximately five acres of tobacco, Bland reported. Oakley recently constructed three grassed-waterways in fields already drained with clay tile. The waterways have been seeded with Pensacola Bahia and fescue grass.

A. L. Speight of Farmville has just completed several conservation practices on his farm.

A grassed-waterway was constructed through the center of the farm. The waterway permits row water to be carried off the fields without causing severe erosion, Bland noted.

Land smoothing was applied to the fields to fill up pot holes and low depressions, Bland said.

Another waterway was constructed on the farm after unsightly scrub trees and piles of junk were removed from a hedge row. The waterway was seeded to Pensacola Bahia and fescue grass.

C. D. Langston of Winterville constructed a grassed-waterway on sloping land to improve erosion and drainage problems. A tile drain was installed along the edge of the waterway to dry the area and permit equipment to cross during wet weather.

To Convention In Miami Beach

Ten East Carolina University students and two faculty members will attend the annual convention of the Associated Collegiate Press and a meeting of the National Council of College Publications Advisers in Miami Beach this week.

The meetings are scheduled Thursday, Oct. 30 through Saturday, Nov. 1 at the Americana Hotel.

Two students will lead discussion groups at the convention. They are Paul F. (Chip) Callaway Jr. of Mount Airy, editor of the campus newspaper, who will discuss in-depth reporting of the college magazine; and Donna Dixon of Greenville, editor of the ECU yearbook. The Buccaneer, who will appear on a student panel to discuss campus publications.

Other students attending include David Dalton, Rod Ketter, John Fulton, Kelly Almond, Sid Morris, Charles Griffin, Faye Shoffner and Judy Morris.

Mrs. Mary Sorenson, Buccaneer advisor and assistant professor of English, will accompany the students.

Ira L. Baker, assistant professor of English and campus newspaper advisor, will appear on the convention awards program.

SHIP FOOD
MASERU, Lesotho (AP) — The United States will ship 17 million pounds of food commodities to this impoverished African kingdom during the second half of 1969 and the first half of 1970, the American Embassy announced. An estimated 76,650 people will benefit from the "Food for Peace" shipment, to be distributed by the Catholic Relief Services agency.

By MARIS ROSS
LONDON (UPI) — Ships wrecked over the centuries around Britain's jagged shores are yielding up a fortune in sunken treasure.

This year has brought the greatest hunt Britain has ever seen for gold and silver coins, jewels and cannon that have lain barnacled and mostly forgotten on the seabed where another generation's storms sent them.

Skin diving's big rise in popularity has sent hordes of amateurs on the under-sea gold rush. But it's only the professionals who can master the treacherous waters where

Almost Half Are Foreign Doctors

LONDON (AP) — Almost half of the doctors training in British hospitals are from overseas, according to a government report.

The Digest of Health Statistics said the proportion has risen from 40 per cent in 1964 to 48 per cent in 1969. The main increase was in the Senior House Officer grade which rose from 55 to 66 per cent.

the best prizes lie and make any profit out of the tangled web of salvage laws which claim most of the booty for the crown.

Vicious reefs around the coast are the graveyard of Spanish armada galleons that carried great chests of pieces of eight. British navy ships bearing bullion and pay, rich merchantmen trading with the east, and modern wrecks worth something for their scrap.

The treasure hunt has produced a new breed of pirates who plunder hulks and sell the pickings on the black market. Authorities admit privately they can do little about this 20th century piracy.

Difficult To Guard

"It would be very difficult to stick an armed guard over a wreck," said one official. "In any case, if people want to dive down to a wreck, you can't stop them. The thing becomes illegal when they get rid of what they have found instead of handing it over to their local Official Receiver of Wrecks."

This gentleman with the unwieldy title, usually a local coastguard or customs man, holds the salvage for a year and a day pending any claim to the ownership. If unclaimed, the find goes up for public auction and the proceeds to go the crowns as owner of the seabed. The finder is rewarded with an amount of the auction money, traditionally one third.

With a pay-out of just one third that takes more than a year in coming, treasure seekers should work out their chances of covering the divers' wages and salvage boat maintenance. Usually the lure proves too strong to stop and count the cost.

A Royal Navy spokesman said, "some year ago, people spent a lot of money searching Tobermory Bay in Scotland for one of the armada galleons, the Duque de Florencia, and got back very little of it. Now they are after the Association at the Scilly Isles."

Millions Found

If the Duque de Florencia's $1.2 million fortune is still at the bottom of the bay after 381 years, H.M.S. Association has yielded up several thousand gold and silver coins from its estimated $6 million cache.

The association was flagship of the British Mediterranean Fleet under Rear Admiral Sir Cloudesley Shovell. The fleet, returning home for a refit in 1707, mistook its position a gale by 100 miles. The Association, with three other frigates at the front of fleet and a fireship, ran on to the Gilstone reef off the Scilly Isles identifying the wreck site as with loss of 2,000 lives in the Association because of the Britain's worst peacetime naval disaster.

Two years ago, navy divers located the fleet's position by finding cannon on the notorious reef where currents from the English Channel and Irish Sea meet the rollers of the Atlantic. Three rival civilian expeditions braved the whirling eddies to seek he navy pay chests, gold plate and merchants' bullion that the fleet carried.

The team mounted by Roland Morris, owner of the Cornish pub "Admiral Benbow," came off best. A diver, exploring a narrow rick tunnel, found it led to a hole strewn with gold coins. In two summers of diving, the team brought up more than 4,500 coins, together with cannon and gold plate identifying the wreck site as with loss of 2,000 lives in the Association because of the Britain's worst peacetime naval disaster.

First Public Auction
The first public auction, held just recently fetched $14,400 for two cannon and $13,380 dollars for 117 coins. So Morris, with the reward money, stands eventually to make a good profit on the $24,000-plus that he invested in the search.

The other expeditions fared less well. Diver Colin Hart, leader of one, said, "We dug about five feet into the silt and found literally thousands and thousands of bones."

Morris, fed up with pirates at the Association site, moved on this summer to another nearby wreck that one of his divers located by chance and turned out to be the Association's sister frigate, the Romney.

Tough Games For Top-Rated Teams Coming Up This Week; Pirates Picked

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer Tennessee, Florida and Louisiana State have their work cut out for them this weekend as they try to maintain their status as the leaders in the Southeastern Conference.

And, above all, so do the unfortunate folks who have to pick these games... and put it in writing, no less.

Here goes nothing: Tennessee at Georgia—Third-ranked Vols are averaging 39.6 points a game, fourth best in the country.

Florida at Auburn—Here's another irresistible force vs. immovable object game. Seventh-ranked Gators, averaging a third-best 39.7 points, are eighth in total offense.

Louisiana State at Mississippi

—LSU's eighth-ranked Tigers are scoring at a 36.3 clip but their forte is defense — seventh over-all, third against rushing and fourth in yielding points.

Kansas State at Missouri — Amazing Wildcats, rated 12th, reached a peak in mauling Oklahoma last Saturday while 14th-ranked Missouri was knocked from the unbeaten ranks by Colorado.

Wyoming at Arizona State—Cowboys are ranked 15th, third in total defense and first in rushing defense. But they're also beset by racial troubles.

Ohio State at Northwestern—Top-ranked Buckeyes want to go to a bowl, but they're ineligible.

Texas at Southern Methodist — SMU's Chuck Hixson could fill the air with footballs... if the second-ranked Longhorns' fine running backs ever give up the football, Texas!

Boston College at Penn State — Coach Joe Yukica of B.C., a former Penn State star, has a problem. "I suppose it'll be a strange feeling to hear my alma mater being played while I'm trying to figure a way to win," he said. That's the least of his problems. Penn State!

Colorado at Nebraska—Winner can tie for the Big Eight lead if Missouri beats Kansas State. The winner... Colorado! Air Force at Army—Off we go into the wild blue yonder. Air Force!

East — Syracuse over Pitt, Princeton over Brown, Buffalo over Temple, Colgate over Lehigh, Cornell over Columbia, Yale over Dartmouth, Harvard over Penn, Rutgers over Delaware.

South — Alabama over Mississippi State, Florida — State over South Carolina, West Virginia over Kentucky, Bowling Green over Marshall, Citadel over Richmond, Clemson over Maryland, Davidson over VMI, Georgia Tech over Duke, East Carolina over Furman, Memphis State over Tulsa, North Carolina over Virginia, Louisiana Tech over Southern Mississippi, Tulane over Vanderbilt, Virginia Tech over William & Mary.

Midwest — Notre Dame over Navy, Purdue over Illinois, Michigan over Wisconsin, Michigan State over Indiana, Oklahoma over Iowa State, Toledo over Miami of Ohio, North Texas State over Cincinnati, Xavier over Dayton, Iowa over Minnesota, Kansas over Oklahoma State, Louisville over Kent State, Ohio U. over Western Michigan.

Southwest — Arkansas over Texas A&M, Houston over Miami of Florida, Texas Christian over Baylor, Texas Tech over Rice, West Texas State over Texas - Arlington.

Far West — Southern California over California, UCLA over Washington, Stanford over Oregon State, Arizona over Brigham Young, Colorado State U. over Texas - El Paso, San Jose State over New Mexico, Oregon over Idaho, Utah over Utah State, Pacific over Washington State, San Diego State over Fresno State.

Benny Friedman of Michigan threw 25 touchdown passes in his three years (1924-26) of college football.

Clemson Isn't Counting On Sure Victory Over Improving Maryland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If Clemson's on-off playing pattern holds true Saturday against Maryland, the Terps don't stand a chance.

The Tigers have been alternating wins with losses since their opening 21-14 win over Virginia, and Saturday's their turn to win. After Virginia, Clemson lost to Georgia, won over Georgia Tech, lost to Auburn, won over Wake Forest, lost to Alabama and...

Clemson isn't counting on it.

Two other people aren't counting on it either, Maryland's halfback Al Thomas and fullback Tom Miller. Both ran strongly against South Carolina last Saturday. And both would like to avenge the Terps' 17-0 loss to the Gamecocks.

Thomas, with 413 yards for the season, ran for what appeared to be a 47-yard touchdown against South Carolina, but saw it called back because of a penalty.

The Gamecocks are crowing over their perfect 5-0 Atlantic Coast Conference record, which puts them out in front of the ACC crowd. They will be traveling out of home territory Saturday to meet Florida State.

Virginia's offense ran a 30-minute scrimmage against freshmen Tuesday to sharpen its attack for North Carolina Saturday.

The Cavaliers were sunk by Navy last week 10-0. But they hold a five-game winning streak in the series with North Carolina, including a 41-6 trouncing last year.

The Tar Heels stepped on

Wake Forest 23-3 last Saturday for their second win of the season. Last week Carolina was led by junior back Don McCauson. Last week Carolina was led by, who scrambled for a UNC record of 312 yards.

One carry was a long-yardage kickoff return that belied the assumption held by many fans that McCauson just didn't have the speed for really great running.

"All the way down the field, I was hoping that no flag had been thrown," he said. "The blocking was great. I cut to the left and had clear sailing."

Duke buckled down to serious practice Tuesday to prepare for its trip Saturday to Georgia Tech. The Blue Devils captured a 46-30 win last year over the Yellow Jackets, but Georgia Tech holds a 19-16-1 advantage in the 36-year-old series.

Duke pined to an exasperating 25-25 tie with North Carolina State last Saturday, coming home with nearly the whole team limping. The Blue Devils at 1-4-1, have been hobbled all season long by player injuries.

Both North Carolina State and Wake Forest are idle this weekend. The Wolfpack will not play again until it meets Houston Nov. 15. But Wake Forest will be back on the field Nov. 1 with a game against Virginia in Charlottesville.

Cougars Win, Back In First

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Ron Perry came off the bench in the second half and made a big difference for the Carolina Cougars.

Perry scored 18 points and helped the Cougars reclaim first place in the tightly bunched Eastern Division of the American Basketball Association by beating Miami 118-103 Tuesday night.

In other games, Pittsburgh nipped Dallas 112-111 and Los Angeles downed Denver 126-118 in overtime.

In the NBA, Baltimore beat Detroit 125-110, Boston whipped Milwaukee 120-107, New York topped Atlanta 128-104 and Chicago shaded Seattle 116-114.

Miami jumped to an early 10-0 lead but Doug Moe, the game's high scorer with 30 points, helped the Cougars come back. Andy Anderson was high for the Floridians with 26.

The Cougars, 4-1, lead Kentucky, Indiana and Pittsburgh by one-half game.

Pittsburgh, 3-1, got into the thick of the race in a come-from-behind victory that wasn't decided until Tom Washington sunk two free throws in the final 14 seconds.

Washington's heroics climaxed a rally in the last two minutes which saw the Pipers overcome a six-point Dallas lead. Charles Williams sparked the surge with five key points and finished as the game's high scorer with 37 points. John Beasley topped Dallas with 24.

Warren Davis and George Lehmann provided most of the scoring impetus in Los Angeles' overtime victory over Denver. The Stars trailed 80-67 when Davis scored 15 of his game-high 31 points to put Los Angeles in front 103-67.

Spencer Haywood of the Rockets collected eight straight points and Byron Beck's hook shot with 40 seconds left enabled Denver to tie the game 112-111 in regulation time.

Lehmann, who finished with 27 points, scored six quick points in the overtime the Stars opened a 112-115 lead.

Beck and Walt Piatkowski collected 24 points apiece for the winless Rockets, who lost their seventh straight game.

Injuries Stall Pirate Drills

East Carolina University's Pirates went through a short, brisk workout as they reached the midway point in preparing for Saturday night's game with Southern Illinois University.

The Bucs heard a scouting report on the Paladins, then spent some time in group work. This was made necessary by a number of personnel reassignments due to the injury situation.

In the offensive drills, Mike Aldridge drew the praises of Coach Clarence Stasavich for his catching ability, while Monty Kiernan, Mike McGuirk and Danny Wilmer stood out on the defense.

"Kiernan, McGuirk and Wilmer continue to improve," Stasavich said. "All three played a fine game against Southern Illinois."

Saturday night's game will mark a return to Ficklen Stadium after a two-game and three-week absence for the Pirates, who will be seeking their second straight victory.

Foreman Taking It Slowly, But Surely

By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The young boxer who walked around the Olympic ring in Mexico City, waving a small American flag after winning a gold medal, is a professional now. An unbeaten professional with seven straight knockouts, he fights a main event in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

The name, in case it has slipped your mind, is George Foreman. It was just a year ago, almost to the day (Oct. 26) that he stopped a Russian heavyweight on a two-round technical knockout and became an overnight sensation.

Dick Sadler, his handler, has guided his course carefully through four months of pro action, avoiding the perils that line the shore.

"We're taking it slow but sure," said Sadler Tuesday. "The main thing is to keep him busy. It is tough to do that. He's not Floyd Patterson or Cassius Clay. He had only 20 amateur fights. We're in no hurry. You never can tell, one punch can change a fighter's life."

Foreman boxes Roberto Davila, a 26-year-old fighter who is billed as heavyweight champion of Peru. Their eight-round match tops an all-heavyweight show Friday at the Garden.

"I just take them one at a time," said Foreman. "Each one is tougher than the last. I don't want to wait too long but I know I have a lot of work to do. It's no overnight thing. I'd like to be a contender in another year."

Foreman, a handsome soft-spoken young man, has definite ideas about his place in the scheme of things.

"I know I wouldn't be controversial like Cassius Clay," he said, "nor as quiet as Floyd Patterson. Inside the ring I want to be George Foreman, the fighter. Outside, I want to be just George Foreman."

His face lit up when somebody asked what he liked to do when he wasn't boxing.

"I'm a dancing man," he said. "I like to go to the movies and dance. The popcorn is my dance. The boogaloo is out of date."

As for fighting goals, Foreman said he was ready to take his time.

"Joe Frazier is a great fighter," he said. "Some day I'm going to fight him but I am going to be in the same class when I do. I've got to work to get there."

Celtics Get First Win Without Bill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — John Havlicek's 25 points, without Bill Russell in the Emmett Bryant's 24, and 21 free-throw shooting percentage were the center of attraction, but Tom Sanders offset Alcindor's performance. The Celtics stole the spotlight in the end. Willis Reed, hitting 18 of his 28 points, led the Knicks to a 62 per cent shooting percentage and a 66-55 halftime spread. It grew from there. Kevin Loughery was the big man for Baltimore with 33 points as the Bullets beat the Pistons for the 10th straight time. Detroit never got closer than 10 points after the first 14 minutes of play. Clem Haskins scored three points in the last six seconds in Chicago's squeaker over Seattle. The Sonics overcame a 113-109 deficit with less than a minute to go and went ahead 114-113 with 13 seconds remaining. Haskins connected on a field goal with six seconds left and was fouled when Seattle put the ball in play. He converted the second of two free throws for the last point. Player-coach Len Wilkens of the Sonics set a Seattle Coliseum record of 17 assists and topped all scorers with 28 points. Chet Walker was high for the Bulls with 25.

Atlanta's Bill Bridges (32) makes his presence felt as he barges in between New York defenders Mike Riordan (6) and Willis Reed (19) to break up the play as teammate Gary Gregor takes control in their National Basketball Association game in New York Tuesday. New York won, 128-104. (AP Wirephoto)

Lucas Already Favorite With Warrior Followers

By JIM CHURCH Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jerry Lucas has been in San Francisco less than a week, but he and the Warriors' fans already have formed a mutual admiration society. "This is San Francisco talking," remarked a ticket buyer after the 6-foot-8 Lucas helped the Warriors stifle Milwaukee and Lew Alcindor Saturday night. "We're frustrated," the fan added, "but we never give up hoping. We want a championship. Getting this kind of player... Well, you can almost smell a title." Lucas, a former Ohio State All-American who didn't fit into Bob Cousy's plans at Cincinnati, received a three-minute ovation when he was introduced to the sellout crowd of 7,000 at the Civic Auditorium. Then he went out and grabbed 22 rebounds, scored 10 points and helped teammate Nate Thurmond hold Alcindor to 16 points. Lucas expects to be more familiar with the Warriors' offense when he plays with them the second time tonight at the Civic Auditorium against the Chicago Bulls.

"I'm really not in shape since I averaged only about nine minutes a game at Cincinnati," remarked Lucas, 29, who has been on the National Basketball Association All-Star team all six years he has been in the league. In a trade Friday, the Warriors gave up 6-foot-2 guard Jim King and 6-7 forward Bill Turner, both starters, for Lucas. Coach George Lee, with good reason, expects to have the strongest front line in the NBA. Lucas ranked third last year behind Bill Russell and Wilt Chamberlain in total NBA rebounds. The Warriors' 6-11 Thurmond and 6-10 Clyde Lee, meanwhile, had more rebounds than any other two teammates in the league. Lucas, who has been house-hunting, was determined to come to San Francisco. The Warriors needed him and he needed them, Lucas says. Two other big forwardst he Warriors had counted on, Rudy LaRusso and Rick Barry, were not available.

LaRusso retired and Barry was forced by a court order to play out his contract with the Washington Caps of the American Basketball Association. Barry, a former Warrior star, jumped to the Oakland Oaks last year but did not want to move with them to Washington. "Cousy told me I was going to be traded," Lucas said. "He wanted quick, shooting forwards... He was kind enough to give me first choice. "I chose San Francisco and I'm tickled to death that the deal went through."

At Cincinnati, Lucas and guard Oscar Robertson carried the offensive load, and opposing big men could gang up on Lucas. "I've never had the chance to play with a good big man like Thurmond," he said. "I've often said about Thurmond that he wasn't better than Russell on defense and he wasn't better than Chamberlain on offense—but all-around he's better than either. It will be a pleasure to play with him."

Rigney Named Twins Manager

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — Bill Rigney says it's much too soon to think about an opening day lineup, but that it will be nice to wear the white uniform at Metropolitan Stadium.

Rigney formally was named Minnesota Twins manager for 1970 Tuesday and heaped praise or the power-laden lineup, which used to cause him to shudder. "When I used to walk out here and change pitchers, I wouldn't let the new pitcher look at the left field seats," said Rigney, a veteran of 14 managing seasons. "I didn't want him to be nervous." The 365-foot fence looked even smaller to Rigney with a Twins lineup last year that included 300 hitters Rod Carew, Rich Reese and Tony Oliva and slugger Harmon Killebrew, whom Rigney feared most.

"It's going to be awfully nice to be wearing the white uniform and watching Killebrew go to home plate," said Rigney. "I've been watching him for nine years and he has scared me to death more times in the eighth and ninth innings. It's a pleasure to be on the same side with him."

Rigney was in the Twin Cities to sign a reported $60,000 one-year contract, highest ever for a Twins manager, and to discuss in detail Minnesota's organization and players. "This is probably the best club that I've ever had as a manager," said Rigney, who managed the California Angels for nine seasons and New York-San Francisco Giants for five. "I haven't given my opening day lineup too much thought. There are so many good players in this lineup. I'm delighted about it."

Dickey Patterns Self After Joe

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer

When Lynn Dickey, Kansas State's junior quarterback, goes to the movies, it's usually a double feature—one good film and one bad one. The good one shows Dickey's hero, Joe Namath of the New York Jets, in action. The bad one is "sort of a horror film" consisting of the 19 interceptions Dickey threw last season.

After his performance in K-State's shocking 59-21 slaughter of Oklahoma last Saturday, Namath should be watching films of Dickey. He might even recognize the white shoes.

All the 6-foot-4, 204-pounder from Osawatimie, Kan., did was set Big Eight records with 28 completions for 380 yards as the Wildcats beat Oklahoma for the first time in 35 years. Included in the barrage were three touchdown passes. For that performance, Dickey was named college football's Back of the Week by The Associated Press.

"There isn't a better quarterback in the country than Lynn Dickey," said Coach Vince Gibson. "Dickey is a super, super, super, super quarterback. He's a great passer, he's got a lot of poise, he doesn't panic and he's great at picking up his second receiver. He's definitely a pro prospect."

"He played the best game at quarterback I've seen since I've been coaching. I recall seeing Dewey Warren, Chuck Hixson, Bobby Douglass, Bob Anderson and Terry Hanratty. "I've never seen a college quarterback do that well. I remember Warren had a great day for Tennessee against UCLA when I was coaching at Tennessee, but it didn't compare with what Dickey did in this game. I've never seen a quarterback do that to a good football team like Oklahoma." Maybe Dickey didn't see Namath do it to the Baltimore Colts last January, but you can bet Dickey did. He not only wears white shoes like Broadway Joe, but Osawatimie Lyon has pictures of Namath all over his room and tries to get films of him whenever he can.

"I watch his every move," Dickey said. "I've followed him since he's been in pro ball. I watch his technique more than anything else, the way he sets up, but I even watch the way he walks. I think he's the greatest quarterback around."

The white shoes started when Dickey and teammate John Stucky made a speaking tour of the state last summer promoting Kansas State football before civic and alumni groups. At one function, Dickey was jokingly asked when he was going to start wearing white shoes. He mentioned it to Gibson, who told him: "If you've got the guts to wear 'em, wear 'em."

Dallas Runners Top Statistics

NEW YORK (AP) — Calvin Hill and Walt Garrison, the Dallas Cowboys' ground punch, are running one-three in the latest individual statistics released by the National Football League. Hill, the Yale boy who has become a sensation in the pros, is almost half way to the 1,000-yard mark after six games. An 84-yard night against New York Monday gave Hill 496 yards in 103 carries, an average of 4.8 yards.

Garrison moved up to third with 102 yards against the Giants and a season total of 378, just three behind Larry Brown, the Washington rookie from Kansas State.

Gale Sayers, way down in 16th place a week ago, cut loose for 109 yards against Los Angeles and moved up to the No. 6 slot in the league rushing standings. Craig Morton of Dallas still tops the passers. Morton had completed 62.9 per cent of his passes for 11 touchdowns and an average gain of 10.27 yards. He has been intercepted only twice, both times in the Giant game.

Roy Jefferson of Pittsburgh still leads the receivers but the pack is closing in. Jefferson has 30 and Harold Jackson of Philadelphia and Dan Abramowicz of

Mistakes Bother Holtz As Indians Prep For VPI

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Coach Lou Holtz has been saying all season that William and Mary could have a good football team if the Indians stopped making mistakes—and he's still saying it even though they're not out of contention for the Southern Conference championship.

"We couldn't live with success," he said after the game. "We pulled that Harry High School stuff—clipping after the play..."

The Indians were penalized 10 times in the game and several came after they had made long gains.

William and Mary steps outside the league Saturday to face Virginia Tech, a team which finally broke into the victory column last Saturday for the first time in six starts.

The Indians carry a 3-3 overall record into the game at Roanoke—but they've been winning on alternate Saturdays, and this is the losing one. Additionally, Tech has won the last six games between the two teams.

Fullback Joe Pilch, who missed the VMI game, was welcomed back Tuesday as the Indians concentrated on their running offense. Tech staged a good workout but learned quarterback Al Kincaid and tackle Kevin Meehan will be out at least another week.

Richmond's hopes of retaining its conference title were dealt a blow when defensive end Mel Medved and cornerback Wins on Whitehead were injured Monday night in a campus auto accident. Coach Frank Jones is looking for replacements for Saturday's game against The Citadel.

Junior Ben Chavis was running at fullback in The Citadel's workout in place of injured Tom Sanchez as the Bulldogs concentrated on defense.

VMI worked overtime, finishing under the lights, for Saturday's encounter at Davidson. Fullback Ted Kirk was held out with a leg injury. Davidson held a light workout and looked at movies of the VMI-W&M game. A look at East Carolina's single wing offense occupied Furman with coach Bob King saying "You have to make a lot of changes in your defense for this game." East Carolina spent most of the day on group work.

Second Kaiser Set To Begin

By BOB GREEN Associated Press Golf Writer

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Pro golf history will be made Thursday when a big, classy field of 156 tees off in "Kaiser Open II," at $140,000 the richest event on the six-stop fall tour.

It's the first time a tournament has been played twice in a single year on the U.S. circuit. The first Kaiser of the year was played on the fancy, new Silverado Country Club course in January. But there was so much rain and the course became so water-logged that only two rounds were completed.

That tourney went into the books as the first 36-hole event in modern history.

Tournament sponsors almost immediately decided not to gamble further with January weather in this beautiful wine country north of San Francisco and put the tourney on the fall schedule.

Miller Barber, the "Mysterious Mr. X" of the tour, won the 36-hole Kaiser in January. Played well until the U.S. Open in June, but has experienced little but frustration since.

The balding, 38-year-old bachelor led the Open until collapsing with a disastrous 78 on the final round at Houston. But signaled he may be on the rebound with a tie for 14th in last week's San Francisco Open. The favorite, however, must be slim Jack Nicklaus. Nicklaus down about 20 pounds from his usual playing weight, scored an impressive four-stroke victory in his last outing, the Sahara Invitational, and ranks as the man to beat. Other top candidates include leading money-winner Frank Beard, dangerous Dave Hill,

In Chicago, Structures Go Upward And Outward

The change is upward and outward for the nation's cities — caught between the needs of a growing populace and the ever-spiraling cost of land. From Boston to Los Angeles, from Dallas to Chicago, cities are rebuilding decaying areas and uplifting worn and weathered faces. Here is the sixth of a series of articles on changing skylines.

There are innumerable other big buildings in Chicago, and paper-stage plans for many more. But these are the most eminent of new or newish landmarks.

Here in the so-called Windy City the movement is outward as well as upward. Skyscrapers are being built in all directions — not only in the heart of the longtime business center, known as the Loop because it is ringed by an elevated railroad trestle.

A 52-story rectangular International Business Machines Corp. building is sprouting on the north side of the Chicago River between Wabash Avenue and State Street. Nearby are the twin, 60-story towers of Marina City.

On the air rights over the Illinois Central Railroad tracks, a 30-story office building is currently rising. It joins the 40-story Outer drive East and 41-story Prudential buildings near the shore of Lake Michigan.

Another cluster of buildings is growing west of the curving Chicago River. The Union Station at Canal and Adams street is being topped by a 35-story building. The Illinois Bell Telephone Co. and at&t are constructing a 27-story long distance center at 10 S. Canal St.

The Bell-AT&T building adds a unique touch to the Chicago skyline. It has a circular cupola that will house microwave antennae.

Other architectural innovations in this city—that saw its first skyscraper, the Home Insurance Building in 1884—are the tapering Hancock Center, which has a steel frame covered with black aluminum; the First National Bank Building, which is shaped like a long, gently curving A and is cloaked with pearl gray granite; the Civic Center, fashioned of glass and weathered steel; the Lake Point Tower; designed so that it resembles a high-crowned tricorne hat of the Revolutionary War period, and the Marina City towers, which are round like silos.

The skyscraper trend has caught on in some outlying areas, too. For example, the Chicago branch of the University of Illinois has built 10 buildings in six years. The tallest of these, 28 stories, is shaped like an inverted pyramid—20 feet wider at the top than at the bottom.

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "This is a great time to be in music: anything goes. Why, you can take a country music outfit, combine them with the funkiest of rock combos, throw in a sitar and add a couple of guys hitting rocks together—and you just might come up with a hit."

The man talking was 34-year-old Herb Alpert, who knows the ways of success in today's music market. Proof: The first 13 of his Tijuana Brass albums have all collected gold records, meaning they have racked up at least a million dollars in sales.

The 14th is a safe bet to do the same. It is called "The Brass Are Coming"—Although a singular attraction, he considers the band to be plural. By no coincidence whatsoever, Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass are starring tonight in an NBC special, "The Brass Are Coming."

How does this special differ from the two that have gone before? "More music," he said. "The reviewers who criticized the other shows commented that there wasn't enough music. This time they won't be able to say that."

Alpert filmed the show all over—at the beach, in the streets, on the sound stage at his own studio, built by Charlie Chaplin in his heyday and now the haven of Alpert's A&M enterprises.

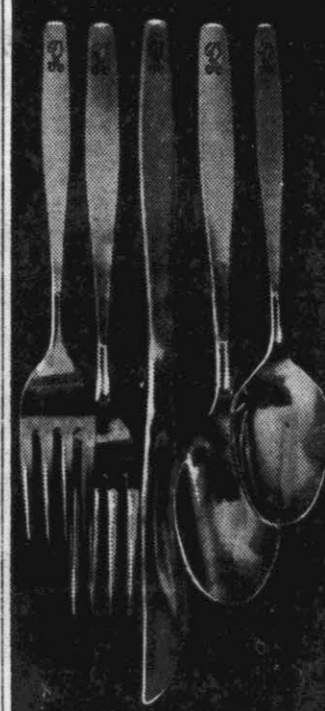

Alpert has compounded his success into immense holdings. How much did he earn last year?

"I don't know," he replied. "Well, I do know, but I don't want to talk about it. Too much has been made of it already. I want my son to be able to bicycle down the street without my having to worry what might happen to him."

Alpert has managed to retain much of his immense income while other big earners have failed. The reason is that he has controlled his enterprise from the beginning, publishing his own music and releasing his own records, along with those of other artists. He attributes this to his beginnings in the music business.

"I started out as a song writer," he recalled. "Had a couple of hits, too. One of my contacts was Gogi Grant, for whom I made a demonstration record of one of my songs. A fellow at RCA liked my version, and I was signed to a singer's contract. I did some singles, but nothing happened. Two years at RCA convinced me that I wasn't cut out to be a small cog in a big organization."

Life Easier Due Automatic Fly Sex Determiner

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A device which automatically determines the sex of flies is making life easier for some persons at Syracuse University.

Normally the sex of a fly is of little interest except to other flies. But pesticide researchers at the university must know whether experimental pesticides have differing effects on males and females.

Before the device dubbed the "fly sexer" was invented by U.S. Dept. of Agriculture workers in Florida, researchers had to sort through thousands of anesthetized flies, identifying females as those with larger, whitish abdomens.

Now a mass of anesthetized flies is placed in the sexer and a jet of air sent through it. Males, relatively light, are blown out through a glass tube while the heavier female drop back down.

Obese male flies are presumably pleased with the new device.

Ask Govn't To Censor Fashions

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa (AP) — Modern styles moved a local church organization to appeal for a government censor board to control women's fashions. The Women's Aid Service of the sternly Calvinist Dutch Reformed Church further resolved to ask local fashion designers to produce creations "suited to South African culture." They also want education authorities to act against "scantily clad" teachers and give "positive" instruction on clothing to pupils.

The flood of China's Hwangho River in 1887 caused the deaths of an estimated 900,000 persons.

Union Council Rallies Support For GE Strike

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The AFL-CIO Executive Council meets in Washington today to rally support for a 13-union strike against General Electric Co., now in its third day.

Meanwhile, the GE management told a stockholders' meeting in Minneapolis, Minn., Tuesday that it would not increase its present offer to meet "super-inflationary" union demands.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, called today's meeting to make good his pledge to back the strike with all of organized labor.

There was picket line violence in five cities Tuesday. But GE, the nation's fourth largest industrial corporation, said all 200 plants in 33 states were open.

Production was halted at an undetermined number of plants, as about 75 per cent of the blue-collar workers stayed out. The unions, which represent 147,000 GE workers, said 132,000 were on strike. The company said 125,000 men were out.

GE has 310,000 employees in the United States and 90,000 overseas.

The picket line disturbances were in Schenectady, N.Y.; Bloomington, Ind.; Lynn and Pittsfield, Mass.; and Collingdale, Pa.

Police beat back nonunion workers attempting to cross the picket line in Schenectady, bloodying three, in what they said was an attempt to avert mass violence.

The strike is led by the International Union of Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO, and the independent United Electrical Workers.

The unions have demanded a 90 cents an hour increase over 30 months: 35 cents the first year, 30 the second and 25 in the last six months, plus up to 50 cents extra for special skills.

GE has offered 20 cents an hour in the first year of a three-year pact, with wage reopeners in subsequent years and premiums of 5 to 25 cents for skills. The average hourly pay is currently $3.5.

"It should be realistically realized that our present offer is

They Awaken To Alpert's Trumpet

HOUSTON (AP) — It's Herb Alpert's trumpet that wakes up the astronauts in space.

Instead of Army "Reveille," the astronauts are given a choice of what they want to hear for wake-up calls, and most of them have chosen songs by Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass. Neil Armstrong asked for "Tijuana Taxi" and "The Lonely Bull."

During the last three space flights the music was played on the ground and relayed to the capsule from the Oklahoma-City tracking center. From now on, the astronauts will take along tape recorders.

Pete Conrad says he'll take Alpert and some "wild hillbilly music."

inflationary — to push it up another notch, as the union officials are demanding, would clearly be superinflationary," the GE chairman and chief executive, Fred J. Borch, told a stockholders' informational meeting in Minneapolis.

Herman Weiss, an aide to Borch, said he had heard indirectly that the unions were prepared to stay out through Christmas.

The present offer will mean an item-by-item price increase in GE products, Borch said.

GE, with $8 billion in annual sales, sells 20 per cent of its output to defense and aerospace programs and about 25 per cent to consumers. The bulk is sold to industry.

Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz has said the government will not intervene, except possibly in scattered plants if war production is held up.

But Shultz said he thought anti-inflationary profit squeezes had led to GE's hard line against union demands.

"If they're going to keep their hands out of it," one labor source said of the government, "they ought to keep their mouth out of these affairs."

Ex-Pitcher Said A Wife-Beater

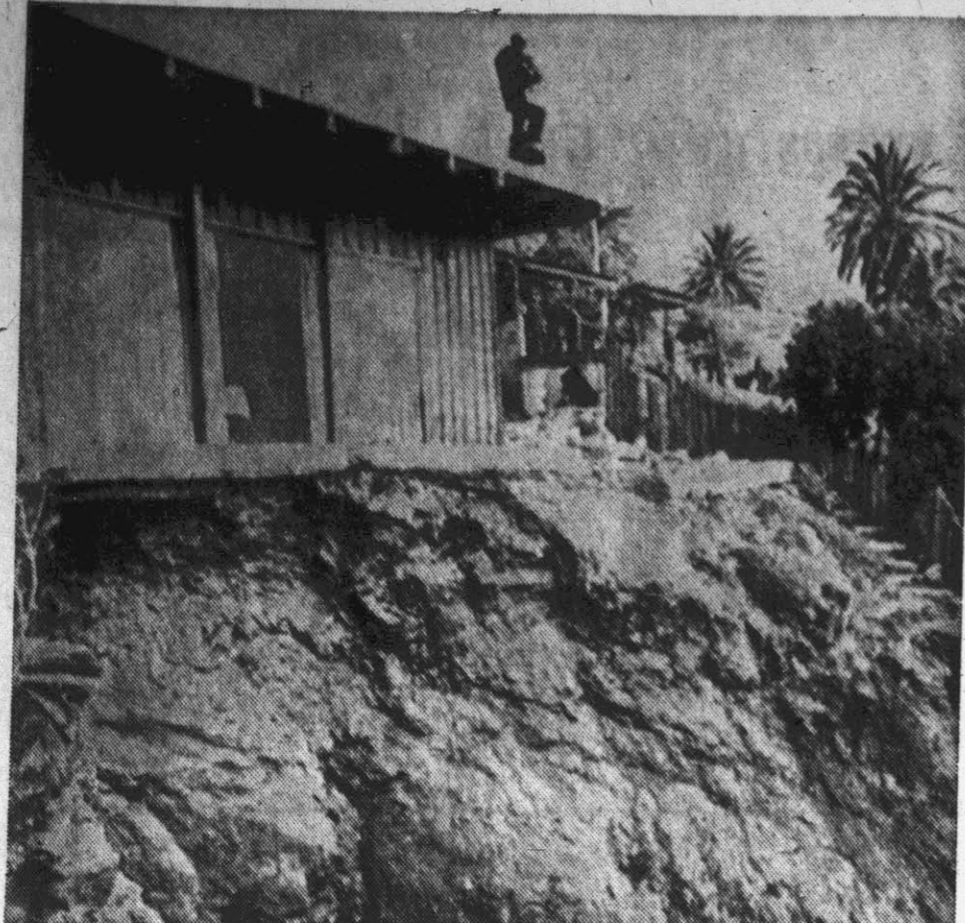

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Don Drysdale, 33-year-old former pitching ace of the Los Angeles Dodgers, has been accused by his wife of beating her more than 30 times.

Ginger Drysdale, also 33, is a onetime model who was a Tournament of Roses princess in 1957.

She also said in a divorce action filed Tuesday that Drysdale subjected her to assault and battery last Wednesday and that they separated on Monday. Married 11 years, they have a 10-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Drysdale's petition said her husband's annual income exceeds $160,000 and that their community property in worth more than $500,000.

Drysdale retired Aug. 11 after aggravating an old shoulder injury.

CLOSE TO THE EDGE — An expensive home in the San Pedro section of Los Angeles sits precariously on the edge of a landslide which has destroyed several homes since Sunday night. The homes are near the edge of a cliff which is slipping down to the beach front about 200 feet below. A Seascope on the roof is warning spectators away from the area. (AP Wirephoto)

Widening Crack In Earth Threatens Costly Houses

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) — A crack in the earth, getting wider by the hour, threatens to send some expensive cliff-top homes tumbling into the Pacific Ocean.

The fissure runs for a block along scenic Paseo del Mar Drive, which skirts the ocean at the top of a 200-foot-high cliff in this Los Angeles suburb.

Just a hairline crack at first, it caused little concern until it opened into a gaping 300-foot-long fissure at dusk Sunday. Since then it has turned inland and lengthened to 500 feet. The crack is two to three feet wide in places.

City authorities estimated that six ocean front lots were slipping toward the sea Tuesday at three-sixteenths of an inch per hour.

Two homes on the seaward side of the opening were considered in precarious positions. Three guest houses belonging to other residences were given up for lost. At least a half dozen houses on the block were threatened.

The area has a history of land slippage. Pacific waves eat at the base of the cliff and heavy winter rains have loosened blocks of earth along the top of the cliff in the past.

George Smith, whose home developed a huge hole in a wall when earth gave way under the foundation, says waves have eroded the cliff in the 16 years he has lived there and "neither the city nor the county could see any reason for building a retaining wall to stop the wearing." The Smith home was valued at $60,000 before the land opened up.

Name Linkletter To Commission

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television personality Art Linkletter has been named a special member of the Los Angeles County Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs Commission.

Supervisor Warren M. Dorn said Tuesday Linkletter had agreed to serve on the commission which works to alert young people and their parents to the dangers of drug abuse.

Linkletter said his daughter Diane, 20, was under the influence of LSD, when she leaped to her death recently from her sixth-story West Hollywood apartment.

Fears Exodus Result Of N.C. Consolidation

RALEIGH (AP) — A group of Negro school administrators says school consolidation for the purpose of integrating black and white pupils in North Carolina may bring with it a "complete exodus of black administrators."

A delegation from the northeastern division of the predominantly black North Carolina Teachers Association met with the state superintendent of public instruction, Craig Phillips, Tuesday to voice their protest. They said Negro educators are being shoved out of jobs when schools integrate.

"In every instance, except one, known to us where the black and white high schools were consolidated, the white principal was named to head up the school irrespective of

Will Ask Court Okay New Rules

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Supreme Court will be asked to approve a new set of rules designed to speed up proceedings in civil courts.

The rules were drawn up by a committee of the North Carolina State Bar headed by Superior Court Judge Maurice Braswell of Fayetteville.

The rules deal with such matters as the conduct of attorneys during trials and are patterned after the rules for federal courts. If approved, they will go into effect Jan. 1.

They provide that cases be placed on the ready calendar of a court within four months from the time the complaint is filed.

The taking of photographs in courtrooms or adjacent corridors during proceedings will be prohibited. Also, transmitting or recording such proceedings for broadcast by radio or television would not be allowed.

Photographing and broadcasting would be allowed at ceremonial occasions such as swearing in ceremonies.

The rules would require lawyers to "conduct and demean themselves with dignity and decorum" at all times and to "yield gracefully" to the judges' rulings.

During a trial, attorneys should not allude to "personal history or personal peculiarities" of opposing attorneys or delay or confuse the proceedings by "personal colloquies between counsel," the rules stat the qualifications or experiences of the two," said R. E. Harvey, a Farmville school principal who led the seven-member group.

The seven gave Phillips specific instances of black supervisors and principals either losing their jobs or being demoted. They asked Phillips to intervene where these cases occur and establish state desegregation guidelines to prevent a further squeezing out of Negroes from top positions.

Phillips said after the meeting, "We indicated to the group that we have the same basic concern they do where there is evidence of discrimination in appointments."

He said that "although employment is a local matter, we do feel the responsibility to work closely with local administrators on such problems and will continue to do just that."

Phillips said the department was "concerned that there is some evidence of this taking place," and he asked the NCTA delegation for names, dates and places in complaints of unfair dismissals or demotions.

Harvey told Phillips during the meeting that the group has documented evidence that more than 150 black administrators and supervisors have been eliminated from their positions "arbitrarily, unfairly and unethically" when schools were desegregated.

Harvey said after the meeting, that black educators regard their situation as "very serious . . . we felt we had to move on this problem now before a complete exodus of black administrators occurs."

Musicians Win Increased Salary

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra will open its 50th season Thursday with management and musicians in tune.

Musicians Local 47, AFL-CIO, announced Tuesday that the players have ratified a three-year contract that raises the $225 weekly minimum salary to $250 for the 1969-70 season and lifts it to $275 for the 1971-72 season.

The new contract also increases the season from 43 weeks to 45 and extends vacations from three weeks a year to five in the 1971-72 season.

Pensions go up from $175 a month to $265 by 1971-1972.

Crittenden Left N.C. A Treasure

By H. G. Jones
N.C. Dept. of Archives and History
Written for The AP

RALEIGH (AP) — When Dr. Christopher Crittenden died Oct. 13, he became, in the words of Gov. Bob Scott, "a part of the history that he loved so much." Eulogies were easy to prepare, for Dr. Crittenden for a third of a century was the state's foremost spokesman for history. The struggling North Carolina Historical Commission, of which he became head in 1935, grew into the distinguished state Department of Archives and History, recognized as one of the three outstanding state historical agencies in the nation. Between 1935 and 1969, as secretary-treasurer of the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association, he handled arrangements for every one of the annual "Culture Week" programs that drew Tar Heels interested in the preservation of their history and heritage. He wrote many books and articles, gave hundreds of talks, and served as a founder and president of two great national organizations — the Society of American Archivists and the American Association for State and Local History. His scholarly and professional achievements would fill many pages. For more than six years he wrote for The Associated Press this weekly column, "The Light of History."

While others will remember Dr. Crittenden's contributions to his state and nation as a historian and administrator, members of his staff will hold on to memories of his humanity. In daily life he was the bald, ever-smiling beanpole of a man with the extended hand and a friendly "I'm Chris Crittenden" greeting. Never a stuffed-shirt scholar, he delighted in acts of kindness as well as in practical jokes. When he visited other departments, he carried along candy bars for the secretaries. He kept his calendar filled with birthdays. He seldom started a conversation without telling a joke—often of his own creation. Staff members soon learned to be suspicious of him on April Fool's Day.

One could usually spot him on the highway by picking out the oldest car in sight. He had great fun with his rattletraps, offering rides to everybody from the governor to the janitor. His spirit of exploration on back roads was legendary—if there was a "back way" to his destination, he would take it. To the truckies of his staff, he sometimes became lost, though he would always insist that he knew exactly where he was because "Mr. So-and-so lives down yonder on the creek."

Dr. Crittenden formed, along with some of his out-of-state friends, the "Old Goats Club" and proudly wore a goat emblem on his lapel.

When the state finally bought a new chair for the governor in 1965, Dr. Crittenden rushed out and salvaged the old one which, after being used by four governors, tilted threateningly to the left. He put it behind the huge Virginia Dare desk that was made for the Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893, and he took delight in telling visitors that he had "assumed the governor's chair."

He retained his wonder full sense of humor to the end. Though he kept it from his staff, he knew that his health was not good. On Aug. 25, 1969, he sat down at his ancient typewriter in the office and typed out a one-page statement titled "Suggestions for My Funeral and Related Matters." After he had finished, he placed the original paper in the desk drawer. Less than three weeks later he entered the hospital, never to return.

Following his death, his staff took out the paper. The first instruction was that his body be given to the Anatomy Department at Duke University. Then, undoubtedly with an audible chuckle—he had written, "Kindly have the doctor double-check to make absolutely certain that I am dead."

Just before his signature he had written, "Good luck to everybody."

For Good Ham He Is Paying Double

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Dr. William Keller stopped at a restaurant and ordered country ham.

It was so delicious the psychiatrist remarked to the waitress: "I ought to pay you double for this."

"Don't worry," she shot back, "you are."

Claim Pentagon Ignored Mafia-Link Reports

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon security officials cleared a Pennsylvania contractor for access to secret information despite reports in police and congressional files linking the company to the Mafia.

Medico Industries Inc. of Pittston, Pa., which has received $12 million in government contracts since 1966, had a security clearance from Jan. 28, 1968, to June 20, 1968. The clearance was terminated at the company's request, a Pentagon source said, after security officials asked for additional information about company officers.

Pentagon records indicate Medico Industries has performed well on all its defense work, involving contracts with the Army, Navy and Air Force. It now is working on a $4 million contract to produce metal parts for 2.75 inch rocket warheads, used by U.S. forces in Vietnam, but this particular job does not require access to classified material.

Defense Department regulations require that the principal officers of a company be checked through FBI name and fingerprint files before the firm can be cleared for access to classified information.

If derogatory information is found, the Defense Industrial Security Command at Columbus, Ohio, determines if it is serious enough to warrant further investigation. Such a determination requires that the case be referred to a higher level for review, but no such action was taken when Medico's application was processed.

What sort of information was available on Medico Industries? —In 1964, a Senate subcommittee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., listed Medico Electric Motor Co., later renamed Medico Industries, as a place "frequented by" Russell A. Bufalino, whom it described as "one of the most ruthless and powerful leaders of the Mafia in the United States."

—William Medico, former president and now general manager of Medico Industries, was listed in the same report as among the "criminal associates" of Bufalino.

—James A. Osticco, the firm's traffic manager, was present in 1967 when New York State Police broke up the Apalachin conference—a meeting of top Mafia figures from throughout the United States. Bufalino was listed by the McClellan committee as an arranger of and participant in the Apalachin meeting.

Bufalino and Osticco were later convicted in federal court of conspiracy to obstruct justice after they refused to tell authorities what went on at the conference.

The convictions were overturned when an appeals court ruled that the government had failed to prove that a crime had been committed.

In 1964, the McClellan committee said the Sicilian-born Bufalino was active in narcotics trafficking, labor racketeering, and dealing in stolen jewels and furs.

Late in 1968, he was charged with conspiracy to transport stolen television sets across state lines.

Asked about his relationship with Bufalino, Medico said in telephone interview that he had known him all his life. As for the allegation that Bufalino frequents the Medico plant, he added: "Sure he comes to see us. We're selling him equipment; he's a customer. I can't tell him to get the hell out."

Medico is active in civic affairs in Pittston, a city of about 13,000 in the coal mining region of Pennsylvania at the foot of the Pocono Mountains.

He has won praise for his work in behalf of local charity drives as well as for contributing men and material during the 1964 presidential campaign to build a platform at the Wilkes-Barre-Scranton Airport for use by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

His record of getting government contracts goes back to the 1950's. Medico Industries has produced such items as maintenance platforms for the Air Force and Navy, rebuilt generators for the Signal Corps, rebuilt machine tools and hydraulic wing jacks for the Army, Navy and Air Force. It also had contracts from the cities of New York and Detroit.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW

The Worry Clinic Thoughts Must Start With Sensory Organs

Marilyn thinks her premonition is sure proof of telepathy. And many people are intrigued by the idea of ESP (extra sensory perception). But read the scientific explanation below. Remember, ideas originate in sense organs, not brain cells! And don't say "mental telepathy" for the "mental is redundant."

By - GEORGE W CRANE PH. D., M. D.

CASE L-532: Marilyn D., aged 20, was one of my college students at Northwestern University.

"Dr. Crane," she asked in class, "don't you think my case is proof of telepathy?"

"For one morning about 3 weeks ago, I told my roommate that I had a premonition my mother was dead."

"I was so depressed that I couldn't eat my breakfast."

"And before I left for my 8 o'clock class I received a telegram saying my mother was dead."

"So isn't this an example of telepathy? For what other reason could explain this exact timing of my premonition and the telegram?"

We psychologists preferably ascribe this coincidence to subconscious thinking.

For when I quizzed Marilyn further, I learned these relevant facts:

(1) A month earlier, while at home on a visit, Marilyn had noted her mother's pallor and lack of appetite.

Thus, the idea was planted in her subconscious mind that her mother was not well and might be hiding the fact she had cancer.

Marilyn's mother always wrote her, twice a week, with the regularity of clockwork.

On the day before Marilyn's premonition her mother's regular letter failed to arrive, thus instilling more subconscious worry about her mother's possible death.

(2) In re-reading one of her mother's earlier letters, Marilyn saw a reference to an antique bedstead which her mother casually mentioned she wanted

Marilyn to have.

Marilyn had re-read this letter just before going to bed the very night before her premonition.

Her subconscious mind put these 3 facts together in a logical arrangement, which led to her sudden and shocking premonition: "Maybe Mother is dead!"

And the Western Union telegram a hour later made this look like telepathy.

Remember, hundreds of premonitions never come true, so they are always conveniently forgotten!

It is only the occasional striking coincidence like this one that is remembered.

But telepathy seems neurologically untrue except in this special type of case:

Suppose you and your companion have both attended a movie in which a man stopped over to pick up an object lying behind a mule, and the mule kicked the man.

If you and your comrade were strolling down the street a few hours later and saw in real life a man stop down behind a mule, you might logically say:

"I bet I can guess what you are thinking about!"

Thus, if two people are facing the same set of facts, each one may deduce the other's thought, but that's not telepathy.

We also have no proof that electrical vibrations from one brain can travel at a distance and penetrate the skull of another living person.

Besides, thoughts must start at sensory organs, like the eye, tastebuds, tactile cells, pain receptors, etc., and not by brain-to-brain waves.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Opening lead: Ten of ♠

An imaginative declarer can sometimes seemingly manufacture tricks from right out of the atmosphere. An apparently open and shut hand can be developed in a highly unexpected manner by an adroit bit of maneuvering. Observe South's technique in bringing home what appeared to be an unmakeable contract in today's hand.

Against the four heart contract, West opened the ten of spades. When the dummy was spread, declarer saw that he would be unable to avoid losing two tricks in clubs as well as one in diamonds. To all appearances then, his contract would hinge on picking up the trump suit without loss. He could try to split the suit two-two, or, if his first heart honor didn't drop the queen, he might have the option of finessing East for the missing queen on the next lead.

Rather than subject himself to an immediate guess, South decided to postpone his trump play for the time being. After winning the first lead with North's jack of spades, he played a small club from the dummy at trick two. This is a bit unorthodox, for the normal procedure is to lead toward honors instead of away from them. Declarer was in an experimental frame of mind, however, and the results of his little maneuver were far reaching to say the least.

East was afraid that South was trying to sneak in a singleton king of clubs, and he went up with the ace. Unfortunately for him, West was obliged to produce the king on the trick and the defense collapsed. East gave his partner a club ruff, but in so doing West gave up his natural trump trick. When South regained the lead he drew trump and conceded one diamond trick, at the same time claiming his contract.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's $2.2 billion recommendation for economic foreign aid has been cut by slightly less than 20 per cent by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The panel is expected to turn next, possibly today, to Nixon's proposal for spending $375 million on military aid in winding up action on the foreign aid bill.

Cut totaling $409 million were tentatively approved by the committee Tuesday in a variety of foreign aid programs, including one for development loans.

African Desert Slowly Spreads

KRUGER NATIONAL PARK, South Africa (AP) — A blight of desert sand is slowly spreading over Africa from southwest to northeast, a leading Swedish conservationist says.

Deserts and semideserts already cover 43 per cent of the continent's surface, mostly in the north. Now, thanks to man, the waste land is moving up from the south.

Many bird species are among wildlife threatened by the change man has wrought in his surroundings, Dr. Kai Curry-Lindahl told the Pan-African Ornithological Congress, meeting in South Africa's largest game reserve.

Man and birds have lived together in Africa for two million years, longer than in any other region of the world, he said, but in the past century whites in Africa have been blind to the "ruthless destruction" of nature by cattle.

"It was not realized that tropical Africa is a climax region where animals and plants live in a balanced inter-relationship after millions of years of uninterrupted evolution," he said.

"If one or several elements of this highly specialized and productive community is disturbed the whole system collapses."

In southern Africa, he said, only a few fragments of the former richness and productivity of the natural countryside remain. "Plows and tractors have transformed the savanna into farm land where few birds and plants can live. More than one-third of southern Africa has already been conquered by deserts and arid shrub steppes."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal agency which handles loans for low-income farmers wants to start a one-year time-keeping program for employees in hopes of convincing Agriculture Department bosses more people should be hired.

The proposal was made by James V. Smith, administrator of the Farmers Home Administration. The plan calls for a "one hundred per cent work measurement system," which means a time-keeping job for country and state FHA offices throughout the country as well as the Washington office.

Sylvester Pranger, assistant administrator for management, said the FHA would like to begin the time-keeping program Jan. 1.

"We are convinced that we are considerably understaffed in the field," Pranger told a newsman. "What we are aiming for is a one-year field system to find out some answers."

The time-keeping program is similar to one used by the Jus-

Fieldcrest Mills Workers Pledge $5,189 To UF

Employees of Fieldcrest Mills Karastan Spinning Division, Greenville, have pledged a total of $5,189.88 in the 1969-70 Pitt County United Fund Campaign, according to an announcement today by Plant Superintendent Luby Skinner, who led the drive.

This reflects a participation of 98.2 per cent of the personnel at Fieldcrest for an average of almost $20 per employee. The management has indicated that the Pitt County United Fund will also receive a corporate contribution from Fieldcrest Mills.

Fieldcrest has supported the United Way of Giving for many years. The local plant is one of 21 Fieldcrest installations, many of which are located in North Carolina communities.

Campaign Chairman J. Curtis Hendrix, in expressing his appreciation, stated, "We are deeply grateful to our friends at Fieldcrest who have again responded generously to the United Fund appeal. Their contributions are evidence of their concern for their fellow citizens of Pitt County and for the community in which they live and work."

Unexpected Guests, The Meeting Was Adjourned

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Rev. Robert G. Hufford, president of Rose High PTA and moderator of a scheduled meeting Tuesday night to which parents from both the black and white community had been invited to meet with the school board, adjourned the meeting a few minutes after it had begun because of the presence of stung-up students invited without his knowledge.

"At this point let me see that you clearly understand. This meeting was scheduled for parents. As far as the PTA is concerned, I'm going to call this meeting adjourned."

Earlier, Hufford said, "Rest assured I was surprised tonight. The purpose of this meeting was to be talks between parents and members of the board of education. I have a list of 38 people asked to come. I feel our meeting here tonight under these circumstances would defeat the purpose for which it was planned. The students had their opportunity. They spelled out their grievances at City Hall last night. If this meeting is going to be a copy of other meetings, I don't think we can accomplish anything."

Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood stated, "At the meeting last night (city hall meeting), the black students wanted to present their demands to the school board. I told them the board meeting at 4 o'clock would be one with a heavy schedule and asked the students to come to this meeting tonight."

Referring to Hufford's not being aware, Dr. Cleetwood stated: "I thought someone had cleared this with you."

Pete Carraway commented: "I came realizing we had challenges, that we are looking for answers. I would like to recommend that we listen to the others (the students) and then go on with our meeting."

Michael Garrett, a sophomore at North Carolina Central University in Durham, and acting chairman of the Student Grievance Committee, commented: "I think it would be a mistake, and then move on to something this, students felt it was time for them to do something. Whether it was the right or necessary way is debatable, but to them it was a last resort. I hope we can hear from the board what steps are being taken."

Garrett, several students and members of the school board exchanged comments on the demands made by the students. Dr. Aycock denied what he termed "an implication that the school board had done nothing."

School board member Dr. James Bearden emphasized that channels for proper procedures in presenting grievances and requests were open and to all students. "This is the first time anyone has really come up with defined grievances," he commented.

William Glidewell, one of the parents present, said: "If Garrett refers to a lack of communications concerning school conduct, I want to state my child at Rose was adequately informed. She brought home a set of printed rules and regulations specifically outlining the conduct expected of her."

Glidewell was referring to a code of conduct issued to all students, black and white, at the beginning of the school year. When the special meeting adjourned, an executive meeting was called by board members.

Dr. Badger Clarke Jr. remarked: "I'm a member of the school board. I was not aware this was going to be a special board meeting. Let's call a special meeting to hear what they are going to say."

Board chairman Dr. E. B. Aycock declared the board in session. Dr. Aycock called on Michael Garrett to speak.

"I want to state a few facts. Since the black students have gone to Rose, they have been made to feel unwelcome. The administration and faculty has shown negligence. The administration approved a business-as-usual attitude."

Garrett listed two points. "First, I say the administration is guilty of neglect. Second, I believe the incident involving the cheerleader was a direct act of aggression."

"When nothing was done about
