Supporters Of Local Sales Tax Increase Set Sights On Future; 25 Counties 'For' Margin Of 615 Votes
Pitt Rejects Tax Boost

Future; 25 Counties 'For'

RALEIGH (AP) — Backers of a 1 per cent for local purposes sales tax set their sights today on spreading the levy beyond the 25 of North Carolina's 100 counties which approved it in a referendum Tuesday.

How They Voted On Sales Tax

Table with columns: County, PR, TP, YES, NO. Lists 100 counties and their voting results.

Counties which approved the additional tax were scattered from the mountains to the seas. But most were either small and heavily rural, or, if large, tourist or militarily oriented.

The approving counties were Buncombe, Camden, Chowan, Clay, Cumberland, Currituck, Duplin, Durham, Greene, Hertford, Jackson, Jones, noir, Macon, Madison, New Hanover, Onslow, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Richmond, Swain, Tyrrell, Watauga and Wayne.

Only a half dozen rank in the top one-fourth of North Carolina's most populous counties. Buncombe, Cumberland, Durham, New Hanover, Onslow and Wayne.

Under an involved revenue-sharing provision, seven of the counties will wind up with less money than they collect, with some of their revenue going to the 18 others.

The seven which will lose money will be Buncombe, Durham, Lenoir, Macon, New Hanover, Richmond and Watauga.

The distribution procedure provides that each will keep outright only half the revenue it collects. That money will be distributed between the county governments and its municipal governments in proportion to their property tax rates.

The system made it impossible to know beforehand how much money any county would get from the tax, and forced voters to play an odd version of roulette.

The outcome contained some surprises in the distribution. Little Camden county, as expected, stands to gain almost twice the estimated $18,000 it will collect.

But Macon County — also small, standing in the bottom 20 in population, stands to lose about $15,000 of the estimated $204,000 it will collect.

The state's most populous county, Mecklenburg, and its county seat of Charlotte already are levying the extra one per cent for local purposes under special enabling legislation.

Mecklenburg County residents were in effect voting Tuesday on a 5 per cent tax, but rejected the extra one per cent.

"I didn't think more than 10 counties would approve it this time," said Sen. Albert Ellis, D-Onslow, author of legislation which set up the vote in all the state's 100 counties.

to pay for a number of city services that need additional funds. Since the people expressed their wish not to have the additional revenue from this source, we will naturally support our citizens."

Grifton Mayor David Bosley commented, "The people have expressed their opinion through the vote and I just hope they understand what they voted for and against yesterday.

Mayor Frank Wooten expressed disappointment that the tax package did not pass. "The revenue that would have been realized from the tax is definitely needed," he said.

Mayor Ross Persinger of Ayden also expressed disappointment in the tax defeat. "Had it been voted in," he said, "I think that we would have been providing revenue election upon the written request of the board of county commissioners or upon receipt of a petition signed by qualified voters equal in number to at least 15 per cent of voters cast in the last gubernatorial election."

Pitt County commissioners went on record as favoring the passage of the tax package and they have the right, under the bill provision, to call for another vote at the end of a year.

NCTA Will Follow Up Allegations

RALEIGH (AP) — The executive secretary of the North Carolina Teachers Association says his office soon will release a statement on its investigations into alleged discrimination against black school administrators and announce intended court action.

Harvey headed a delegation from the predominantly black NCTA which protested to superintendent Craig Phillips that blacks are being shoved out of top posts as schools desegregate and consolidate.

Phillips was given a statement by the delegation which said more than 150 Negro administrators and supervisors in North Carolina have been eliminated from their positions "arbitrarily, unfairly and unethically when schools were desegregated."

But Harvey said this week that the information and charges were for Phillips' information and not for public release.

Phyllis Diller Claims: Men Really Don't Like Women Who Are Funny

By ARLEEN ABRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

The funniest woman on the block may convulse her friends sitting around the morning coffee klatch, but chances are, her lack of appeal in the romance department is more likely to cause her to break out in tears than laughter.

So says Phyllis Diller, whose exploding hairdo, big mouth, and self-deprecating routines based on the dilemmas of housewives have been amusing audiences for the past 15 years.

"Comedy isn't a quality that attracts men. In fact, by and large they resent a funny woman—one reason why there are so few comedienne," explains the trim, 52-year-old native Ohioan. Phyllis, who claims to be the world's only female stand-up comedian, believes that men prefer "a dewey-eyed, helpless, petal-soft female who sits at their feet and licks their hands. For a permanent partner," she elaborates, "men look for a woman who is gentle, naive. What they don't want as a steady diet is a woman who makes them laugh. That's why a woman is a fool to be clever."

Fortunately for audiences, Phyllis could never help being anything but clever. Her wit, displayed in such books as "Phyllis Diller's Housekeeping Hints," "Phyllis Diller's Marriage Manual," and the latest,

"The Compleat Mother," has played a major role in her life since she was a child. As she points out, "Steve Allen once remarked that 'If you're not a comic by age 10, forget it' and I heartily agree."

Yet it wasn't until she was 37 that Phyllis made her first attempt at becoming a professional on-stage comic. Until then she had busied herself with a career as a newspaper columnist and radio writer and "raising five children and being a housewife—but not a bored housewife."

"My first husband forced me on the stage," she recalled as she fixed her "special" hairdo between shows at New York's Americana Hotel. "He kept insisting that I was funnier than anything he had seen on TV. Finally I auditioned at the Purple Onion (in San Francisco) and wound up filling in for two weeks of someone else's engagement. I guess it was a lucky break."

Lucky break or not, reaching star status required lots of work. Phyllis says that in the beginning she wrote every word of her act "but in the past nine years, I've spent over six figures on jokes." A gag file covers one wall of a huge room in the 25-room Southern California mansion that she and her second husband, actor-singer Warde Donovan, call home. And although Phyllis is known for her quip that "a house should be sold when it gets dirty," she admits that cooking is her hobby.

"At the beginning," she continued, "part of my difficulty lay in getting the men to laugh. Women laugh quicker and easier... it's natural for them to laugh. But because it takes a lot to make a man laugh, I had to woo the men. I did it through their wives. Women control marriages, they control where the couple goes. So I'd get the women to drag their husbands to see me perform," she explained as she lovingly caressed one of her many exotic tropical plants. (The plants, a hobby, have blossomed into a new franchise business for her.)

Although Phyllis claims that her own children "never realized I was funny until they saw me on television," she believes that parents play a large role in teaching their children to appreciate comedy. "You can't teach a child to be funny, but you can teach him to laugh at what is funny."

Reminiscing about her childhood in Lima, Ohio, she recalled that her mother, "who had a tremendous sense of humor, only let me see comedies... no dramas."

She advises mothers to encourage their children to laugh in the home. "For instance, say you walk into a doorknob and catch your sweater on it. Instead of just undoing it, call attention to it. Exaggerate it. That's comedy," guffawed Phyllis.

She's Upset Over Argument Between Husband And Father

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My problem is between my husband (I'll call him Eugene) and my father. Eugene is 25 and my father is 65.

Several months ago they had an argument during which a lot of angry words were spoken. It ended when my father told Eugene never to set foot in his house again! (I'm sure my father didn't really mean it because he keeps asking me how Eugene is.)

I keep telling Eugene that my father didn't mean what he said, and my husband says, "Well if he didn't let him call me and say so."

My father is a very stubborn man, and I can't see him calling my husband and telling him he didn't "mean" it. Eugene is also very stubborn, and he won't make the first move either.

What do you suggest be done? My mother and I are very much upset over this, and we can't seem to get the two of them together.

UPSET IN UTAH

DEAR UPSET: Keep working on Eugene. Tell him that out of respect to your father's age, the younger man should give in.

And ask your mother to keep working on your father, telling him that since HE told his son-in-law never to set foot in his house again, it's up to him to tell him that he IS welcome, if indeed he is. And let the bigger man extend his hand first. (I'm betting on your husband. Youth is usually quicker to forgive.) P.S. My husband is betting on the old man. He says your mother will have more influence on her husband than you have on yours.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I am stupid, but do you know of anyone who can contact the dead?

I recently lost my beloved husband and I sometimes feel his "presence" near me so strongly that I know I could communicate with him if I knew how.

I have heard that there are "mediums" who can put the living in touch with the dead. Do you know any such person? I am willing to pay to have this done. I'm signing my name for you, alone. Please don't publish it. Thank you.

FROM KENTUCKY

DEAR FROM: Many have claimed that they can communicate with the dead, but so far no one has been able to prove it. Me? I'm from Missouri.

DEAR ABBY: In June I met a real cool guy I'll call "Mac" who said he was on leave from the army, then my father pointed out that Mac had an awfully long "leave." Well, it turned out that Mac was AWOL. We were pretty serious about each other by this time so I told him if he didn't go back and turn himself in I wouldn't ever see him again.

Mac turned himself in and took his punishment which wasn't as bad as we thought it'd be as it was his first offense. Two weeks ago Mac came home and confessed that he went AWOL again. We had a

Luncheon Given Thetis Members

The Thetis Book Club met Tuesday at the Greenville Golf and Country Club for a luncheon meeting. Hostesses were Mrs. Don McGlohon and Mrs. Jay Collier.

Guests were Mrs. Jane Owens, speaker for the meeting, and Mrs. Margaret Williams, mother of Mrs. McGlohon, both of Wilson.

Mrs. Owens' topic for the program was "Beauty Is Everywhere." Her commentary consisting of Biblical scriptures, poems and other inspirational thoughts, were pre-taped and illustrated by the use of color slides.

The slides were of various natural scenes taken in the United States including Wilson and other areas in North Carolina.

A short business session was conducted by Mrs. Joan Jordan, president. Books were distributed by Mrs. Carole Bowman and Mrs. McGlohon.

big fight and I made him go back. This time they put him in the stockade for a good long time.

We planned on getting married when he gets out of service, but now I'm not sure! If it weren't for these black marks against him in the service he would be a wonderful guy. What do you think?

THINKING IT OVER
DEAR THINKING: First, you'd better wait until your "real cool guy" gets out of the cooler-out of the service, and into civilian life. Then take a good hard second look at him. And I think you're going to have a plenty of time to think it over.

DEAR ABBY: What is all this nonsense about gentlemen preferring blondes? I consider myself a gentleman, and I have never dated—or had the desire to date—anything but a brunette.

I have spent 58 months out of the last six years in brunetland. That is Viet Nam, Korea, Central and South America, and I can't wait to get back to Korea.

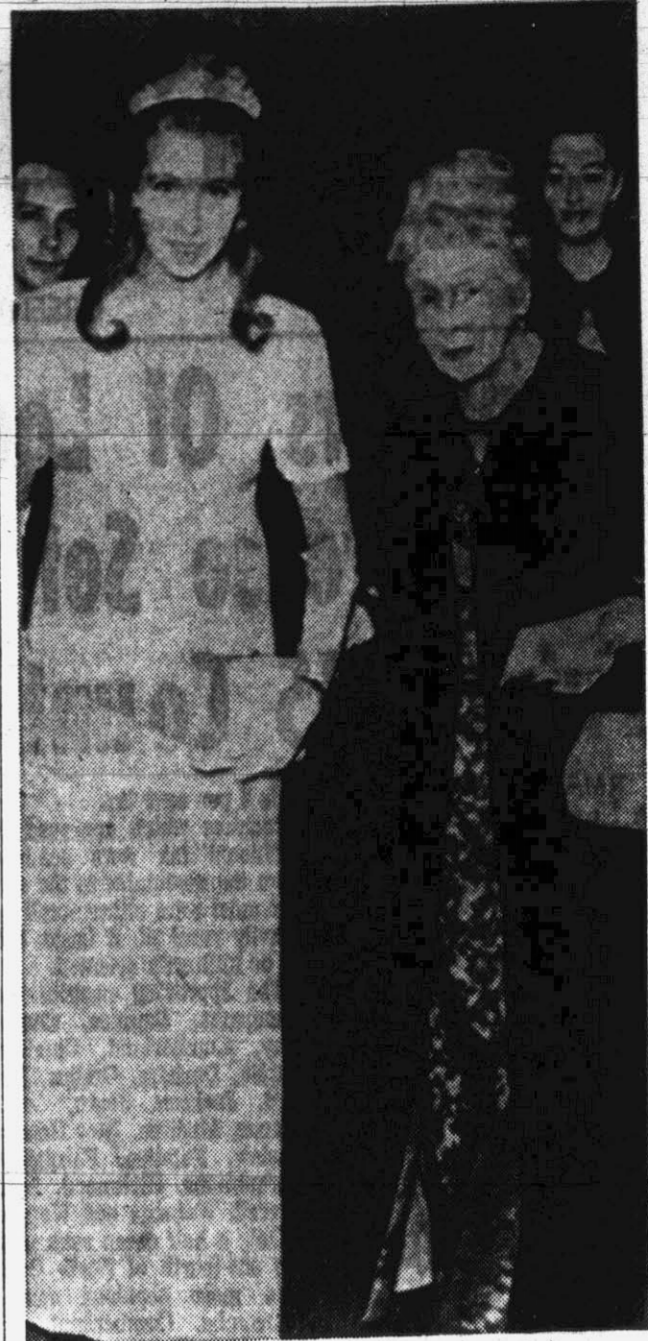

I wouldn't walk across the street to meet the most beautiful blonde or readhead in the world. The only women who are ALL WOMEN are brunettes.

A GENTLEMAN WHO PREFERS BRUNETTES
DEAR GENTLEMAN: You have made the day for many brunettes. (Including this one.)

Tailgate Picnics Prior To Football Games Date Back To '30s

NEW YORK (UPI)—College football celebrates its 100th anniversary November 6. The tailgate picnic, now a frequent prelude to the game, is a much younger tradition.

These informed meals beginning the 1930's, with the introduction of station wagons. Their tailgates, or rear doors, opened to make a suitable serving table for food.

Following are some short, easy recipes for tailgate picnicking. The soup recipes were developed by The Campbell Soup Co. test kitchen. Serve the soups from a vacuum carrier.

The Argentine meat pie recipe comes from author Elizabeth Lambert Ortiz, whose Mexican husband is a press official at United Nations. Eat the pies as you do hot dogs, say, at the game.

The spirits and wine in the soup recipes are optional, but the quantity is so small that the alcohol evaporates by the time the soup reaches serving temperature. Unless otherwise indicated, each recipe makes 2-3 servings.

Sunday punch is made with 1 (10½-ounce) can each of condensed beef broth and water, 2 tablespoons of gin (optional) and a dash each of celery salt and pepper. Combine all ingredients in saucepan. Heat, but do not boil; stir occasionally.

Touchdown provides centre heating without spirits. Combine 1 (10½-ounce) can each of condensed cream of chicken soup and water, 2 tablespoons of orange juice and a dash each of ground allspice, ground cloves and ground nutmeg. Heat, without boiling; stir occasionally.

Sideline reviver is made with 1 (10½-ounce) can of condensed cream of mushroom soup, 1 (10-ounce) can of condensed tomato soup, 2 soup cans of water or milk, and 2 tablespoons of brandy (optional) or brandy flavoring. Blend soups in saucepan. Gradually stir in remaining ingredients. Heat but do not boil; stir occasionally.

The thirties look is in for men's hats, says Gentlemen's Quarterly, the fashion magazine for men. The book's report on the toppings shows the look in a wide brim hat of black felt. Wear it with a maxi coat.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.
Soup bowl soup is spicy. Combine 1 (11½-ounce) can each of condensed green pea soup and water, 2 tablespoons of dry white wine, and ½ teaspoon of ground ginger. Stir soup in saucepan until smooth. Gradually add remaining ingredients. Heat, stirring occasionally but do not boil.

To make short crust pastry for 16 (6-ounce) Argentine empanadas:

Sift together into a large bowl 4 cups of all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon of salt and 2 teaspoons of double-acting baking powder. With fingertips or a pastry cutter, work 1 cup each of lard and butter into dry ingredients until mixture is crumbly. Mix to a stiff paste with a little cold water, added gradually. Gather dough into ball, dust it lightly with flour, wrap it in waxed paper and refrigerate 1 hour, to make dough easy to handle. Roll about ¼-inch thick lightly-floured surface. Cut into 6 inch circles, using small plate as guide. Gather up scraps and reroll to make last one or two.

Put 2 tablespoons of filling mixture (recipes follow) in center of each pastry circle. Moisten edges of pastry lightly with cold water, fold in half and crimp edge by pinching between finger and thumb. Prick tops 2 or 3 times with fork. Brush with beaten egg, using 1 large egg. Bake in center of preheated 400-degree oven 15 to 20 minutes, or until crust is golden. Cool slightly before packing in insulated carrier to take to picnic. If pastries are made a day ahead, refrigerate them uncooked and extend baking time as necessary to compensate for lower temperature when they're placed in oven.

For empanada filling, cook 1 medium onion, finely chopped, 1 pound of lean ground beef and 1 green bell pepper, seeded and chopped, in 2 tablespoons of sweet (unsalted) butter over

Count on using a quart of strawberries for shortcake when you have two rounds of rich biscuit dough baked in 8-inch round layer cake pans. Halve small or medium berries, quarter large berries; mix with sugar to taste and let stand at room temperature for about half an hour. Use the strawberries for filling and topping the shortcake rounds.

medium high heat, until onions are transparent and transparent and meat lightly chopped, and 2 large peaches, and chopped, 1 teaspoon of salt, peeled, pitted and chopped, 1 several grindings of black using fresh fruit, or about 2-3 stuffing raw dough. Makes minutes, if substituting all enough for 16 (6-inch) empanadas. Cook about 5 minutes if canned fruit. Cool before das.

INSTANT FASHION

The city dweller probably has need for more suits than the suburbanite who has a wardrobe of casual clothes. Both should include suits as a "must" in their wardrobes though they will be entirely different types.

Your Clothes Plan The dress with jacket and the skirt, vest and jacket suit are favorites for city streets. Now the way to get real mileage from these two types of suits is to have the jackets coordinated so that they can be switched.

Finishing Touch

A suit or a coat even in summer requires gloves as a finishing touch. If you want them to match your costume, you can either shop for the shade or tint a white pair. But be cautious in tinting and first test the dye on a scrap of similar fabric to make sure it won't be too light or too dark.

The shortie glove is now "in" and if you have a pair of long gloves simply cut them to the length that looks best with your sleeve. Knit does not need to be hemmed. If the glove is cotton then you can make a narrow flat hem where you cut the glove, using matching thread and tiny stitches. Should you want to relate the glove to the color of your suit or coat in some other way you could sew tiny buttons at the side or a neat little gros-grain tailored bow.

The suburbanite finds more occasions for a sports suit and would do well to add a second skirt that coordinates with the jacket or if she prefers — pants instead of the second skirt.

You may have to take some unhurried shopping expeditions to find pants or skirts that are worthy to mix or match with the jacket. If you make your own clothes it will be much simpler for the choice of fabrics is much wider. A suit will look more complete and very much more effective at semi-formal events such as luncheons and club meetings if you complete it with a hat and scarf to match. On the dress and jacket type, you simply remove the jacket and wear the scarf as a sash around your waist.

Most Will Welcome Morgan Role

Attorney General Robert Morgan's intervention in insurance rate cases in behalf of the public, may be criticized by Insurance Commissioner Edwin Lanier, but it is welcomed by most citizens of the state.

The same is true of the decision of the Attorney General for his office to enter a rate case before the Utilities Commission as a representative of the public.

During this year there has been set up within the Attorney General's office a consumer protection division charged with the responsibility of seeing that the public of this state is not taken advantage of by unscrupulous business operators or by any business practices, regardless of their legality. If the consumer division is to properly do its job, it must not be prohibited from representing the public of the state in matters pertaining to insurance rates or the rates charged by the huge utilities companies that serve North Carolina's citizens.

It may have hurt Commissioner Lanier's feelings that the Attorney General decided it proper for his office to enter the insurance rate hearings as a representative of the public. On the other hand, the Insurance Commissioner, while he is charged with protecting the public's interest in setting rates, must also protect the interest of the insurance companies as well. He must wear the hats of judge, prosecutor, defense attorney and jury in the insurance rate matters.

Having a representative of the Attorney General's office challenge in behalf of the public the presentations of the high-powered insurance company lawyers is most reassuring to those who will have to pay the insurance premiums.

Attorney General Morgan is to be commended rather than condemned for the intervention of his office in cases before the Insurance Commission and the Utilities Commission. It is not only in the public interest, but in the interest of these divisions of the state government as well.

Decisions Add Another Appeal

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH—Another example of the possible effects of numerous recent court decisions on law and enforcement and administering of justice has turned in a handwritten petition received by the Superior Court of Cherokee County.

The petition drawn on Department of Correction (Prisons) stationery, is an appeal by Noah Dockery for a new trial.

The petition contains other contentions. He claims that his constitutional rights were violated in several ways.

For one thing, he says he was interrogated by officers without his attorney being present; that officers forced their way into his home without a search warrant and that testimony of prosecuting witnesses was false.

It appears certain that Dockery's petition will come under close scrutiny in successive appeals. If denied by the Superior Court, it may be appealed directly to the State Supreme Court or to the federal appeals courts.

BUSES—The problem of providing free school bus transportation for urban public school pupils remains in the forefront among state and education officials.

The N.C. State School Boards Assn. has adopted a resolution calling on Gov. Bob Scott to seek and implement an "appropriate solution" to the problem. The resolution referred to "the justice of providing transportation of pupils enrolled in public school on an equitable basis."

Scott recommended that the 1969 General Assembly appropriate funds for this purpose but the joint Appropriations committee felt that the necessary funds were not available.

It might be mentioned also that there was some effective lobbying on the part of the urban bus carriers who feel that they would lose substantial revenue.

Many officials, educators and school patrons feel, however, that it is a matter of equal treatment. The state state provides free school bus transportation to rural children. It does not do this for urban pupils except those who live in recently annexed areas.

The courts have ruled that if the annexed area pupils are furnished transportation then the state must provide equal transportation opportunity for all. State officials have persuaded the courts to allow them until next March 1 to find a solution to this.

At the School Board meeting in Aberdeen, the Forsyth County school board offered a motion calling on Scott to convene a special session of the legislature to appropriate money to provide for free city school bus transportation. This motion was defeated.

River Transportation Dream Should Not Die

The resignation of the Tar River Port Commission because it had been lost and forgotten should not mean the end of a long held dream to re-establish water transportation on the river.

The dream goes back to pre-World War II days when a channel was dredged and the port warehouse constructed. A few river boats made their way up the Tar to bring freight in, but as war broke out the runs were discontinued.

Since then there has been little use for the port and recently its warehouse burned to the ground.

However, water transportation is still the cheapest way to remove goods and the Port Terminal is about as far inland as freight carrying boats can come in North Carolina.

The county and city still own the Port Terminal land and the channel is still there. We feel that a commission should be maintained to continue working toward water transportation on the Tar. The chances may be remote, but perhaps it is something that can be approached through the county's Development Commission or ECU's Economic Development Commission. The long defunct Port Terminal might someday be turned into an asset.

Yesterdays In Private Album

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Every human heart is an album filled with pictures of yesterday. Mentally, we turn its pages in the quiet moments of our lives. Our minds break into secret laughter at one memory, and turn blind with instant tears at another.

Time often seems like a never-healing agony, but this album of the last we keep within us does to reconcile us to present pangs.

Your own memory book has some well-thumbed pages if you can look back and remember when—

Dockery, now 62, has served 17 years in prison for the shotgun slaying of sheriff Frank Crawford in 1953. Dockery was 45 years old when he was convicted of killing Crawford when the sheriff went to Dockery's home in the isolated Hanging Dog section of Cherokee to serve a warrant charging arson.

In his first trial, a jury chosen for a Macon County panel found Dockery guilty of first degree murder.

Without a recommendation of mercy, Dockery was sentenced to be executed in the lethal gas chamber.

APPEALS—Appeals in capital cases are automatic. The State Supreme Court granted a new trial on grounds that a special prosecutor made improper remarks to the jury.

At the second trial 17 years ago this month Dockery pleaded guilty to first degree murder and when the plea was accepted by the state he received a sentence of life imprisonment.

Dockery's recent appeal may hinge on this point. The courts have ruled that there is question about the procedure of allowing a defendant to plead guilty to a charge in order to escape the death penalty.

ARGUES — Dockery argues in his petition that he pleaded guilty not because of any crime committed but in fear of risking the death penalty.

Job For The Old Nixon

WASHINGTON — The Old Nixon came out of the closet in the White House on Halloween just as the New Nixon was going to bed.

"Now what?" the New Nixon demanded.

"I thought you promised me that when the mud slinging started, I could do it," the Old Nixon said.

"I know I promised it, but I've got to give Spiro Agnew something to do."

"Promises, promises," the Old Nixon sneered. "I've been hanging around for 10 months waiting to sock it to the snobs and the effete intellectuals and the arrogant, reckless, inexperienced elements within our society, and the first chance I get, you turn the job over to someone whose only claim to fame is that he's a household word."

"Dick," the New Nixon said, "at the time I told you to wait in the closet, I thought I could use you. But it would be wrong for the President of the United States to say the things I really believe. That's why I decided to use Spiro."

"If I had you saying those things, everyone would say 'Aha, the Old Nixon is back.' But if Agnew says them, people will say, 'Isn't it a shame the New Nixon can't control his Vice President?'"

"That's just fine," the Old Nixon said bitterly. "But I have feelings, too. I've been in that closet for 10 months rehearsing what I was going to say. I had some swell speeches about activist elements who disdain mixing with the working classes and liberals who ride around in limousines and how a few rotten apples spoil the barrel and..."

"Dick, I want to make this perfectly clear. No one respects your point of view more than I do," the New Nixon said.

Morton maintained Nixon had received what he sought.

But in New York, Mayor John V. Lindsay won re-election and said it showed the people of that city want the war to end. Denied the Republican nomination, Liberal and challenged the Nixon course.

While Nixon's campaign intervention, and the problem of war in Vietnam, undoubtedly influenced the elections, no one is claiming they were decisive factors.

Republicans are simply following the ruse of politicking, just as the Democrats did in claiming a repudiation of the administration was signaled by their capture of previously GOP House seats in special congressional elections earlier in the year.

Democrats were surprised at the Virginia outcome; they had expected to win with William C. Battle. Certainly the divisive two-round primary in which Battle won his nomination left hangover problems for the Democrat.

He faced defections among labor and Negro leaders who sought to purge with defeat the last vestiges of the once dominant organization founded by the late Sen. Harry F. Byrd.

Indeed, there were rumors that Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr. might drop his Democratic affiliation and switch to the Republican side if Holton won.

Democrats had lingering organization trouble in New Jersey, too, where their nominee, Robert B. Meyner, encountered political foes dating from his two earlier terms as governor.

The major surprise for strategists of both national parties in the New Jersey outcome: the landslide proportions of the Cahill victory.

But one of the few Democrats willing to talk in defeat, and then only anonymously, said Nixon's night of New Jersey campaigning couldn't have fashioned a landslide.

"That's relating him to Superman," the Democrat said. "He wasn't even in New Jersey long enough to change clothes in a telephone booth."

Other Editors Say Fearful Asia Wants Delay

(Jacksonville Daily News) It has not been announced and probably will not be, but the Indonesians have quietly asked the United States to stay three more years in South Vietnam.

They need this temporary shield against infiltration, they say, to give them time to stabilize their government and economy. After 1972, they believe, they will be able to hold their own.

President Suharto's government has made remarkable strides since the abortive Communist try at taking over Indonesia Sept. 30, 1965. But the task has been complicated by ex-President Sukarno's decade and a half of economic and political mismanagement and by the deep penetrations into high officialdom made by the Communists before their attempted coup.

The Cambodians recently have secretly sought help from the South Vietnamese (at whom they had been shouting suspiciously for years) to enable them to stand against growing North Vietnamese-Viet Cong encroachment.

The Cambodians have grown so worried over the steady growth of Hanoi and VC political agents, guerillas and mainline troops on their soil and over persistent Communist subversion in their villages, that they have pushed old fears of Saigon aside.

It is understood that aides of Prince Norodom Sihanouk have also approached the United States for help.

It is no secret that the liberal nationalist Prince Souvanna Phouma, prime minister of Laos, during his recent trip to Washington made it crystal clear he wants the United States to stay in Vietnam until some settlement is reached which guarantees the integrity of both Laos and South Vietnam.

Last year the liberal prime minister of Singapore, Lee Kuan Yew, much to the surprise of his fellow liberals worldwide, said the United States in South Vietnam was also fighting for the freedom of Singapore.

In March this year, in Seoul, liberal and conservative South Korean students, professors and religious leaders reported that the safety of South Korea, threatened by North Korea, depending on our jointly continuing the fight for the independence of South Vietnam. Again, the South Koreans want to buy time. Their economic and military strength is growing steadily.

Per capita consumption rose about 68 per cent, nearly triple the average increase in the other areas, causing the Chi Fed to sagely remark, "Nearly all of the relative increase was caused by increases in consumption per person."

The Higher The Better It also stated, "Numerous studies by the Department of Agriculture and others indicate that families with higher income consume more meat than lower income families."

The bank also reported that farmers got $11 billion for their cattle last year and when it reached consumers it cost $15 billion. About 15 per cent of the average family's fixed expenditures is for beef, it reported.

The Department of Agriculture has estimated demand at 117 pounds per person a year. This would require a greater increase in pasture land, even with a substantial increase in production, there may not be enough grazing land to meet this demand.

Strength For Today

GIFTS AND GROWLS We read in the Bible that God loves a cheerful giver (II Corinthians 9:7).

Some people who may be rather charitable at heart frequently accompany every gift with a growl. "It's the gift with a growl. 'It's the last time I'll do this.'" "All some people think about is getting something from somebody else." "What, again? What about that last gift?" "Oh, forget it, forget it, be a little charitable yourself for a change."

And of course under such circumstances the value of a gift is at least reduced, sometimes completely obliterated. The poet tells us that the gift without the giver is bare. Gifts and growls do not go well together. It can truly be said of some people that every time they make a gift they also make an enemy. Better, is it not, to be regarded as stingy than to be regarded as uncharitable. We recall that Jesus said, "Let not they left hand know what thy right hand doeth" (Matthew 6:3).

We often hear people say that the world is a terrible place and that what goes on every day is horrifying beyond description. There is of course a lot of truth in such a statement, but we can be sure that we will never make a contribution to the betterment of the world so long as we go about snarling and complaining. The story of the widow's mite has become a Biblical classic. The gift of one-tenth of a penny was certainly nothing to exult over, but the spirit of the woman was. The woman cast in all that she had. Cheerful and charitable are two words to remember.

More Babies And Meat-Eaters

By ELMER ROESSNER One of the reasons the price of meat is so high today is that women had babies.

That is, especially back in the postwar years, when I used to write columns about the baby boom. In those years, more than four million babies were born a year, a rate that hasn't been reached again since 1964.

And a study by the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank shows that people between the ages of 20 and 34 eat more than those in any other age bracket, and about twice as much as those in the 10-to-14 and the 65-and-over brackets.

And not only are appetites at a peak but Americans have the wherewithal to satisfy them. Surveys show that a 10 per cent increase in income is associated with an increase in beef consumption of about 3 per cent. And total personal income has increased about 13 times 10 per cent since 1950.

Other Factors There are other causes for the rise in meat prices: production, the price of beef in relation to other products and, as noted, population changes and shifts in the size and age distribution of families.

Curiously, the place of residence has an effect on meat consumption. The North Central region has a little less than 28 per cent of the population, yet eats more than 30 per cent of nation's beef. The West has 17 per cent of the population and eats 19 per cent of the beef.

The South has long consumed less beef than other sections of the country, but now it is the fastest growing market. Be-

Silent Citizen Voted

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Americans President Nixon calls "the great silent majority" have come through for the Republican party in two feature races of the off-year elections, prompting GOP claims of a Vietnam policy endorsement at the polls.

While Republicans can't prove their case from the Virginia and New Jersey governorship races, simply by making it they may influence the course of the war policy debate certain to erupt in the days and weeks ahead.

The message they want read into the outcome: A man running for office, or planning a campaign in next year's battle for Congress, would do well to stand by the President.

Not so, said a Democratic spokesman. "We don't look upon this as a test of Nixon's national strength."

That reaction in defeat was as predictable as the Republican argument in victory.

GOP national chairman Roger C.B. Morton claimed the voting results showed a hearty endorsement of the Vietnam posture Nixon discussed in an election eve report to the nation.

Nixon campaigned personally for Linwood Holton in Virginia and William T. Cahill in New Jersey. "The President's general endorsement by the public had a marked effect on the elections, no question about it," said Morton.

Nixon addressed his nationally televised Vietnam report to "the great silent majority of my fellow Americans."

"I ask for your support," he said.

Morton maintained Nixon had received what he sought.

But in New York, Mayor John V. Lindsay won re-election and said it showed the people of that city want the war to end. Denied the Republican nomination, Liberal and challenged the Nixon course.

Roads Are Main Item On Martin Board's Agenda

WILLIAMSTON—Roads were the primary items on the agenda the Martin County Board of Commissioners at their regular meeting Monday night. Approval was recommended for paving of rural road 1535, a farm road commonly known as the Stanley Hardison road. This road joins U.S. 64 and the Prison Camp Road a mile west of Williamston. Known as Kehukee Park Road, this nine-tenths of a mile road is the one which will serve the planned new Martin Technical Institute. The N.C. Highway Commission is being requested to approve paving of this road.

Two meetings were scheduled—one on November 10 for the closing of a short road near the Robersonville Products Company, and one for November 11 with the members of the ABC Board.

Arrest Man For 'Terrorizing'

A 46-year-old Negro was arrested here this morning on charges of possessing a dangerous weapon and terrorizing citizens.

Police said the arrest of Willie Poole of 1201A Broad St. came after officers were sent to Railroad Street about 3:39 a.m. to investigate a prowler complaint.

According to acting Chief of Police T. E. Gladson, police found Poole with a loaded .12 gauge shot gun.

He was placed in Pitt County Jail and magistrates set bond at $5,000.

Hayden, 21, was tried on charges of failure to report for an armed forces physical examination and failure to report for induction. The jurors brought in guilty verdicts, but a member of the panel protested that the findings did not reflect her vote.

"Get up, Dick. Look, I'll tell you what I'll do. I can't let you make the speeches, but I'll talk to Spiro about putting you on his speech-writing team."

Orientation On Low Rent Houses

BETHEL — An architectural and housing authority from Raleigh met with members of the Bethel Town Board Tuesday night for an orientation on low rental housing.

"We are interested in taking low rental housing under advisement," Mayor Joseph M. Butterworth stated. "We will give this our close attention, and will find a town which has been operating with such housing for a couple of years and make a visit there as a fact-finding body," he added.

Mayor Butterworth said, "After we make the trip, we will further investigate low-rent housing in connection with the information we received at last night's meeting, and consider all facts at next month's meeting."

Virginia, New Jersey Governorships For GOP

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

Republicans have captured showpiece state elections with a Virginia upset and a New Jersey landslide, while New York Mayor John V. Lindsay fashioned a personal triumph and became his party's ranking free-lance politician.

President Nixon, who intervened as a campaigner, shared in the twin GOP victories Tuesday which made a Republican governor of Virginia for the first time in nearly a century, and won the New Jersey state house after 16 years of Democratic rule.

Lindsay, a Republican but not a Republican nominee, won his three-way race with a margin greater than that he built four years ago to win his first term. His credentials as a man with a potential future in national politics.

Cleveland Mayor Carl B. Stokes, a Negro, withstood the tough challenge of a Republican rival who challenged his crime-fighting record.

A black candidate was narrowly defeated in Detroit; black independents ran far behind major party nominees in races for mayor of Buffalo and Hartford.

captured the Virginia statehouse in the major upset of the off-year elections, defeating Democrat William C. Battle—and stopping at 21 a chain of Democratic gubernatorial victories there.

"The first congratulations we got came from our friend in the White House," said the victorious Holton.

Nixon was indeed a friend, flying to Roanoke a week before the election to campaign for Holton, an old political ally; urging Virginia to set an example for the entire South by breaking with Democratic tradition.

The President put in an evening's campaigning, too, for Rep. William T. Cahill, the six-term congressman who swamped former Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner to win election as governor of New Jersey.

In Virginia, returns from 1,863 of 2,032 precincts gave Holton 437,897 votes, Battle, 374,516.

Cahill trounced Meyner. With 4,858 of 5,081 districts counted, the Republican had 1,340,621 votes, the Democrat 877,228.

That victory delivered to the GOP the last of the northern industrial states still governed by a Democrat, Richard J. Hughes, who was ineligible for another term.

And the two victories gave

Republicans 32 governorships, leaving the Democrats with only 18.

Nixon found time during a black tie dinner at the White House to telephone his congratulations to the two Republican winners.

"One thing is evident in the two races," said Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton of Maryland, the Republican national chairman. "In New Jersey the Democrat made an issue out of the President's position in Vietnam and lost, and in Virginia the Republican made it an issue by backing the President and won."

Morton said that signaled a voter endorsement of the policy Nixon described in an election eve report to the nation.

But Lindsay, in victory, sounded again a theme of his comeback campaign, calling his re-election as a Liberal-Independent "a message that the people of New York City want the war to end."

Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, the Democratic national chairman, avoided comment on the election day outcome, preferring overnight silence to work out a response to the Republican showing.

Lindsay defeated Democrat Mario A. Procaccino, the city comptroller and a man with a counter-productive campaign style; and John J. Marchi, the conservative who five months ago defeated him for the Republican nomination for mayor.

Returns from 4,896 of 5,293 election districts gave Lindsay 894,615 votes, Procaccino 739,643 and Marchi 496,754.

Lindsay's initial election was by a margin of 112,405 votes—and that was acclaimed by Republicans in the lean days following the landslide loss of 1964 as evidence the party could make a comeback.

Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, who endorsed Marchi, congratulated Lindsay, said the outcome showed "people wouldn't entrust New York to anyone less than the best man."

In Cleveland, Democrat Stokes squeezed past Ralph J. Perk and said that provided him "continued opportunity to bring progress to this city."

Returns from 964 of 973 polling places gave Stokes 118,487 votes to 116,515 for Perk.

Perk conceded, but said he might ask for a recount after the official tally is tabulated.

Wayne County Sheriff Roman Gribbs, who stressed crime control as a campaign issue, was elected mayor of Detroit in a tight contest with county auditor Richard Austin, a Negro.

The virtually complete count there were Gribbs 257,312 votes,

Austin 250,920.

In Pittsburgh, independent Democrat Peter F. Flaherty, who repudiated the old-fashioned city organization racked up a 2-1 margin to defeat Republican John K. Tabor.

Crime and racial tension were key issues in city contests across the nation, but there was no clear pattern in the outcome.

Among the other contests: —Republican Mayor Ann Ucello of Hartford was re-elected in a city beset by two major racial disturbances since June.

—Democratic Mayor Frank A. Sedita of Buffalo, N.Y., won a second term, defeating Republican conservative Alfreda W. Slominski.

—Bartholomew F. Guida, a Democrat, was elected mayor of New Haven to succeed Richard C. Lee, who did not seek re-election after 16 years in office.

—New Jersey Conservation Commissioner Robert A. Roe, a Democrat, claimed a 759 vote edge—and victory—in a special election to succeed retired Rep. Charles S. Joelson. But Republican Gene Boyle refused to concede and a recount seemed likely.

—Democrat Frank Burke, a former congressman, was elected mayor of Louisville, ending eight years of Republican control there.

Art Theft Story False: Vatican

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican today denied a report that three paintings had been stolen from Pope Paul's apartment.

"We can categorically deny the reports of a theft of paintings supposed to have taken place in the pontiff's apartment," the Vatican communiqué said.

It was read to newsmen by the Vatican spokesman, the Rt. Rev. Fausto Vailainc.

The Italian News Agency had reported that three paintings valued at more than $1.5 million had been stolen from the papal apartment in the Vatican Apostolic Palace.

The news agency said the paintings were cut from their frames and taken away some time between the middle of July and the middle of September, while the Pope was at his summer residence in Castel Gandolfo, 18 miles outside Rome.

The report did not identify the paintings but said they were of

Louise Hicks Is Again A Winner

BOSTON (AP) — Louise Day Hicks, who says she speaks for "the little people," outpolled all her City Council rivals Tuesday.

The widowed 50-year-old grandmother, who often engaged in bitter clashes with Negro civil rights leaders during her six years on the School Committee, ran more than 28,000 votes ahead of her nearest rival, Thomas I. Atkins, who became the first Negro member of the nine-seat council two years ago.

She is still a vigorous opponent of busing pupils from their neighborhood schools to achieve racially balanced classes.

More Untitled Owners Of Great English Mansions Than Titled

By MARIS ROSS LONDON (UPI)—There are more untitled owners of noble mansions in England these days than titled ones.

Trouble is, few titled Englishmen can afford the stately homes and lavish estates that have come down to them from the days when to be titled also meant to be rich. Virtually confiscatory inheritance taxes—"death duties" as they are called—have swept away many a lordly fortune.

Yet some of the most noble of English nobles do manage to hang on to their estates, and thereon hangs this story.

The Earl of Harewood, a cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, is for example spending $60,000 in purchase of two dozen penguins from the Antarctic, flamingos from Chile, hummingbirds and various other exotic bird life from around the world. All this to establish a lakeside bird colony in the grounds of his gracious stately home, Harewood House.

Strictly Business Lord Harewood's project is strictly for business, to attract tourists—British and foreign alike—to come to his estate as paying visitors.

This business of luring tourists to their beautiful and historic houses, so they can afford to live in them and keep them in repair, has become a lively one among English peers. And a competitive business it is, too.

Among long standing competitors are Lord Montague of Beaulieu, whose come-on is an auto museum, the Duke of Bedford who runs a zoo and an antique market at his Woburn Abbey, and the Marquis of Bath who has lions and griffines wandering around his estate at Longleat.

Lord Harewood opens his bird collection next Easter. This year the Duke of Marlborough started a garden center at Blenheim Palace and staged a pageant narrated by Richard Burton.

Several stately home owners have taken American tourists as paying guests. Stanford University has acquired Cliveden, the Astor family's stately home, as an overseas campus. Not all land-poor peers have gone the tourist route, however.

Torn Down
The Duke of Westminster decided the best thing to do with his 100-bedroom victorian gothic mansion, Eaton Hall, was to pull it down.

Sir Westrow Hulse, 9th baronet, whose family had lived for 10 generations in Breamore House, decided a four-bedroomed thatched cottage suited him better because of taxation and the problems of coping with such a big house.

Some owners have simply given their homes lockN stock and barrel to the National Trust, a charity, and in some cases stayed on as tenant.

Patrick Montague-Smith, editor of Debrett's Peerage, the guide to British nobility, said the National Trust and other organizations hold more stately homes than do private owners.

"The idea that the average 'stately home' owned by his ancestors must be abandoned," hereditary peer still lives in the

Montague-Smith said. "Only in Scotland has the number owned by peers or lairds remained fairly constant in the last half century."

Odd Collection Of Corkscrews

MALMOE, Sweden (UPI)—Egineer Jan Ekman in Malmo has a unique hobby—he collects corkscrews.

His collection consists of 600 different types of corkscrews from the 17th century to present days. At a recent visit to Hamburg he discovered a giant corkscrew drilled into a bar. To get the rarity he had to buy the entire bar and fly it in pieces to his home in southern Sweden.

FIRST STUDIO
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — In 1908 the first motion picture studio in Southern California was set up here by William Selig for the production of "The Count of Monte Cristo."

Space Flight Developments In Undersea Rescue

By CLIFFORD P. CHENEY SUNNYVALE, Calif. (UPI)—Using knowledge gained from space flight, the Navy has developed a tiny hybrid submarine that looks like a rocket and operates like a cross between a sub and a space capsule.

The Deep Submergence Rescue Vehicle (DSRV) is designed to rescue crews from disabled submarines at depths of nearly a mile. By a system of land, air and sea transport, a DSRV can come to the aid of a sub anywhere in the world within 24 hours.

It is small compared with conventional submarines — 50 feet long and 8 feet in diameter with a dry weight of 68,500 pounds—and thus transportable by truck and plane.

The first of six DSRV's being constructed for the Navy is now undergoing a series of "dry" tests at the Lockheed Missile & Space Company plant in Sunnyvale, 40 miles south of San Francisco.

"The SRV is more like a space capsule than a submarine," Lockheed program manager Bob Kermeen said. "The difference is that it operates in a medium with more, not less, pressure than the atmosphere."

The vehicle's life-support system, as well as its computer guidance system, are largely the results of research carried on in the U.S. space program, Kermeen said.

On the ground, the rescue vehicle is trucked on a special trailer to the dock. Here it is lowered onto a specially modified nuclear submarine, which carries it piggy-back to the scene of the disabled sub.

At the site, the DSRV uses its own battery power to detach itself from the mother submarine and descend, with its three-man crew, for the rescue.

During the final approach, the vehicle's search lights and television cameras, backed up by a sonar system, enable its pilot to locate one of the two escape hatches of the disabled submarine.

Then, with the aid of its computer guidance system the DSRV maneuvers into position over the hatch. Even if the submarine is resting at a "hard" 45-degree list—both to the side and forward or backward—the rescue vehicle can use a mercury ballast system to allign itself over the escape hatch.

The co-pilot uses a mechanical arm to clear debris from the hatch area and to hook a cable on the submarine escape hatch. A cable winch in the rescue vehicle tightens the DSRV's cylindrical rescue skirt down over the escape hatch, and the two craft are "mated."

The DSRV pumps the escape skirt dry and equalizes pressure between itself and the submarine so that hatches can be opened; then the third crewman supervises the transfer of up to 24 rescues.

After a trip, until all the submariners are rescued, The DSRV shuttles the rescues to the mother subhovering overhead, where they undergo gradual decompression.

If the distressed submarine is short of air when the DSRV arrives, the rescue vehicle can pump extra oxygen into it to last until rescue is completed.

Kermeen said the prototype DSRV, developed and constructed at a cost of $40 million, will undergo wet tank tests in Sunnyvale this month and be launched at Lockheed's ocean laboratory in San Diego in December. The second vehicle, at a cost of $20 million, is scheduled for launching next year.

"The DSRV," Kermeen said, "represents the first practical use of HY-140 steel," an alloy developed by U.S. Steel to withstand pressures at depths as great as 5,000 feet where the pressure is 2,225 pounds per square inch.

Can Gleaners Picking Up Litter And Profit

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) — There are strange sights in the streets, parks and camping grounds of the municipal area these days. People are picking up cans instead of throwing them away.

In the past few months, 7,000 can gleaners have rid the landscape of 6 million metal containers.

Cans are pouring into a reception depot in suburban Commerce at the rate of 36,000 a day.

The gimmick: The cans are the aluminum variety, popular for packaging such things as beer, and the Reynolds Metals Co. is paying half a cent-a-piece for them.

A club of altruists culls cans from apartment building trash and uses the proceeds for holiday dinners for the poor.

Youngsters comb parks, highways and streets to earn spending money.

There are even a few people picking up cans because they think an uncanny scene is prettier.

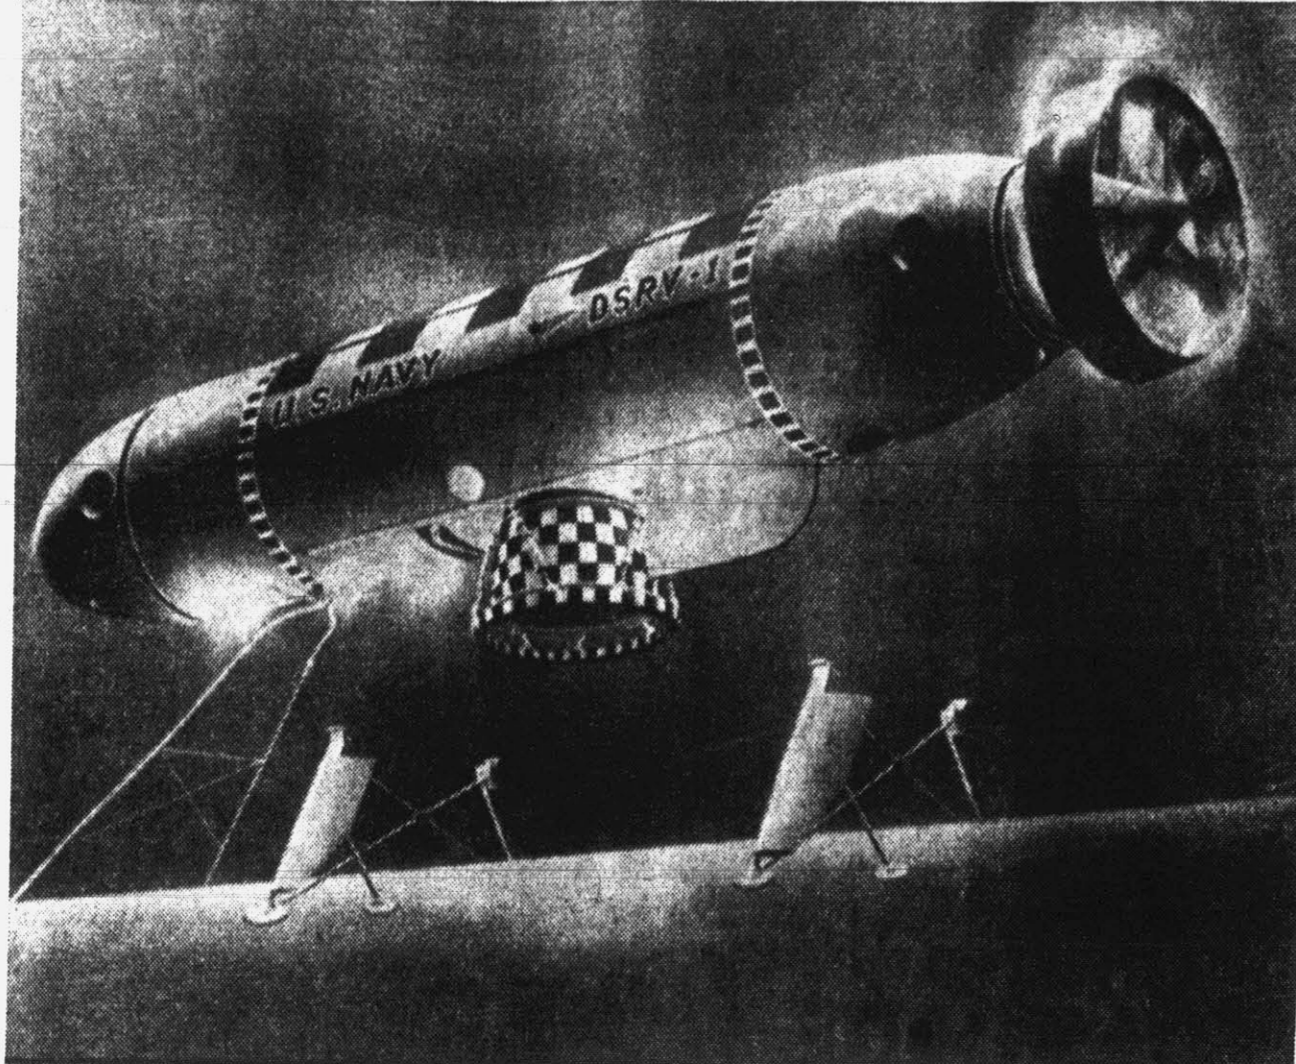

"A company such as ours has a desire to try to prevent litter and aid beautification, because we do manufacture aluminum cans and a great many of our cans are in use in the Los Angeles area," said William Yates, Pacific Coast regional manager for Reynolds.

"We also want the metal back. We don't believe aluminum is in inexhaustible supply."

The cans are melted down and the metal reused, Yates said the company is breaking even.

Started in Los Angeles as an experiment, the great can hunt may extend to other cities, he added.

VINEYARD CAPITAL ST. HELENA, Calif. (UPI)—The community is considered the vineyard capital of California with 14 wineries within the city limits and 26 more within a radius of six miles.

Approve Extension Of Water, Sewer Lines

WILLIAMSTON—Members of the Williamston Town Board Monday approved a resolution to extend water and sewer services beyond its present limits on the west side of town.

Acting in conjunction with the County Commissioners, the town board resolved to take action to secure state and federal funds to assist in a project to extend water and sewer lines from the present city limits at McGaskey Road to the planned site of the Martin Technical Institute—a distance of nearly two miles.

Town Clerk J. B. Godwin said, "the extension will also give residents of West End extended an opportunity to tie in to the lines." At present, this thickly settled area has a three inch water line serving it, but has no sewer connections.

The board also approved a resolution adopting the concept of Williamston as a center of growth. This action was taken at the request of the Mid-East Economic Development Commission. In passing this resolution, the town board agrees to take all possible action to assist in creating a stable employment situation and to create an atmosphere conducive to developing diversified industry in the area.

At the request of the N. C. Department of Local Affairs, the board approved changing one phase of current projects from a neighborhood analysis survey to a neighborhood educational, coordination and advisory service project.

A public hearing was held on rezoning a portion of the south side of West Main Street from residential to neighborhood commercial. In absence of any opposition to the rezoning, it was passed by the board.

A new ordinance was passed which prohibits "drag-off" and "spinning of wheels from a standing position. This had been requested by a number of local residents.

Republican Lost By 33 Votes

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — By a 33-vote margin, the Republican party has lost control of the mayor's office in the Pennsylvania capital for the first time in more than half a century.

Democrat Harold Swenson defeated incumbent Albert H. Straub, 8,801 to 8,768 in Tuesday's election.

Three Collisions In Greenville Tuesday

Three persons were reported injured in one of three collisions investigated yesterday by Greenville police that resulted in an estimated $1,840 property damage.

Police said heaviest damage resulted from an 8:25 a.m. wreck on Fairlane Road 150 feet east of the Club Street intersection and involved cars driven by Edward Marzette Gibbs, 55, of 115 Fairlane Rd. and Alton Bryant Prince, 65, of Route 2, Ayden.

Damage to the Gibbs car was set at $500 while damage to the Prince vehicle was set at $700. Both drivers as well as a passenger in the Prince vehicle were reported injured.

Gibbs was charged with failing to yield the right of way. No charges were reported in a 5:30 p.m. collision on Greene Street, 175 feet north of the Dickinson Avenue intersection which involved vehicles operated by Walter Cleveland Faulkner, 34, of 1128 Evans St. and James Henry Foreman, 26, of Route 3, Greenville.

Damage to the Faulkner car was set at $75 while damage to the Foreman vehicle was estimated to be $250.

Henry M. Hardee, 57, of Route 2, Ayden, was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 4:55 p.m. collision on Memorial Drive, 500 feet north of the U.S. 264 intersection.

Officers said the Hardee vehicle collided with a car operated by Lizzie Artis Newborn, Negro, of Winterville.

Damage to the Newborn car was placed at $190 while damage to the Hardee vehicle was placed at $125.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS WASHINGTON (AP) While it isn't foolproof, the Federal Aviation Administration thinks its new system to catch potential airplane hijackers before they get off the ground is going to work.

The system combines an electronic metal-detection device with a screening of passengers for personality and physical characteristics common to past hijackers, Reighard told a House commerce subcommittee Tuesday.

He said it has been in operation in a number of airports used by hijacked-plagued Eastern Air Lines, but so far hasn't turned up any individuals "who we might think is a potential hijacker."

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to allow two "failing" newspapers in the same city to pool profits, fix advertising rates and operate joint marketing and production departments outside antitrust laws has been approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., announced Tuesday the vote was 8 to 4, with five committee members absent. Most of the absentees favor the measure and will be permitted to vote later, he said.

The bill would sanction such joint operations by newspapers threatened with financial decline as was ruled in violation of antitrust laws by the Supreme Court in Tucson, Ariz. The law would affect similar joint arrangements in 22 other cities.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles H. Percy introduced today a bill he said would encourage welfare mothers to "become self-respecting job-holders" by bolstering day-care services for their children.

"There is an increasing need in today's job market for women who need and want employment," the Illinois Republican said. "Many mothers of small children, now staying home on welfare and unable to contribute to their family's support, could become self-respecting job-holders if the facilities to care for their children properly were widely available."

The proposed four-year expansion services would cost $209 million, Percy said, and would give priority to building and renovating day-care centers for children of low-income families and welfare recipients.

Capital Quote By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS "He now has fully and truthfully taken on himself the Johnson war, and I think it is a fundamental error"—Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, commenting on President Nixon's Vietnam speech.

The normal annual precipitation for Massachusetts is 42.77 inches.

Meet The Pirates

Fayetteville, is the starting center for the Bucs. East Carolina will play host to Davidson College Saturday in the annual Homecoming game. Starting time in Ficklen Stadium is 2 p.m.

West Virginia Worried Over Game With William & Mary's Indians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This will come as a big piece of news to Lou Holtz and his William and Mary football team but West Virginia coach Jim Carlen says he's worried about Saturday's game with the Indians at Williamsburg.

Well, maybe not a whole lot worried. Just a little bit, though. W&M, says Carlen, "is a whole lot more consistent than last year" and the Indians' Wes Meeteer "is the best running quarterback I ever saw."

Also, Carlen says he's concerned "because it's homecoming at William and Mary, and they'll be all fired up." Holtz probably would like it to be a secret, but the fact is, it is homecoming at W&M. It's Dad's Day.

cerned "because it's homecoming at William and Mary, and they'll be all fired up." Holtz probably would like it to be a secret, but the fact is, it is homecoming at W&M. It's Dad's Day.

The cruel fact is that William and Mary never has beaten West Virginia in 12 tries since 1954. The Tribe came closest in 1967 at Williamsburg when it gained a 16-16 tie. This was when WVU was a member of the Southern Conference, and the deadlock was the only blotch on a 4-0 conference record that won the SC title for the Mountaineers that year.

When not "worrying," Carlen admits he's excited about this year's West Virginia team, which has won six of seven games and, in W & M, will be meeting a club that has a 3-4 record and is fresh from a 48-7 lacing at the hands of Virginia Tech.

"Six-and-one ain't bad," says Carlen. "We're leading the nation in rushing, and that ain't bad either. Last year we averaged only 99 yards rushing. This year we're averaging 309. That is unbelievable."

As if all this power aground weren't enough, Holtz and his Indians must be prepared to combat a proven top-drawer passer—Mike Sherwood—should they manage to contain the WVU rushers. A year ago it was Sherwood who led WVU to a 20-0 win over the Indians.

W&M also will have worries on offense. Jimmie Laycock's passing is a key factor in making the Indians go—and guess what? WVU has a crackerjack pass defense. The Mountaineers stole six passes in a 7-6 win over Kentucky last week. Four of the thefts were by defensive back Mike Slater, who now has intercepted seven passes this season.

Duncan Falls Just Short Of New Southern Conference Rush Record

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — The Citadel's tremendous sophomore tailback, Bob Duncan, turned in one of the most remarkable performances of the Southern Conference football season last Saturday, but in the totality of his team's 45-18 defeat at Richmond, his feat went virtually unnoticed.

With the Spider defense bottling up most other facets of the Bulldogs' "Veer" offense, Duncan was called upon to run with the ball 25 times—usually on a counter play—and wound up rushing for 205 yards.

This fabulous amount of yardage fell only 34 yards short of the conference record of 239 piled up, ironically, on the same Richmond City Stadium turf in 1966 by Richmond's Larry Munch. And though his rushing feats failed to bring victory to his team, they did send Duncan past his talented backfield mate, Tommy Sanchez, into first place in the SC ground-gaining race.

The brilliant soph now has 6 yards rushing to 333 for Sanchez, who gained just 33 yards Saturday.

The change in rushing leaders was the only one recorded from last week in the new tabulation of individual conference statistics released today by the Southern Conference News Bureau.

Richmond's Charlie Richards and Davidson's Gordon Slade still are the big noises in total offense and in passing. With three weeks of the season ahead, both are closing in on a multitude of records.

Richards tops the Southern in total offense, with 1,889 yards. Slade is No. 2 with 1,646 yards and The Citadel's Tony Passander third with 1,282.

Slade is the passing leader with 147 completions for 1,635 yards. Richards trails with 126 completions—for more yards, 1,756. Again, Passander is third on 82 completions for 1,110 yards.

Each player and coach on the winning team will draw a $15,000 share of the net receipts, Kensil said, with each player and coach on the loser to get $7,500.

and just in front of far busier Jim Livesay of Richmond, who has kicked 43 times for a 37.3 average.

The conference leads in each statistical category: Total Offense—Richardson, Richmond, 1,889; Slade, Davidson, 1,646; Passander, Citadel, 1,282; Colson, East Carolina, 693; Duncan, Citadel, 642.

Rushing—Duncan, Citadel, 642; Sanchez, Citadel, 533; Wightman, East Carolina, 520; Colson, East Carolina, 471; Meeteer, William & Mary, 395.

Passing—Slade, Davidson, 223-147-1,635; Richards, Richmond, 257-126-1,756; Passander, Citadel, 146-82-1,110; Sprinkel, VMI, 196-57-638; Laycock, W&M, 99-46-653.

Pass Receiving—Kelly, Davidson, 52; Hanne, Davidson, 42; Mikolayunas, Davidson, 41; Gillette, Richmond, 40; Livesay, Richmond, 36.

Punting—Wilkerson, Davidson, 7-37.7; Livesay, Richmond, 43-37.3; Heffron, Furman, 7-37.0; Herbert, W&M, 41-36.6; Immel, Furman, 5-36.4.

Davidson's Mike Kelly leads in pass receptions, with 52, and the league-leading Wildcats also have the conference's top punter in Harold Wilkerson, averaging 37.7 yards on seven kicks

Richards tops the Southern in total offense, with 1,889 yards. Slade is No. 2 with 1,646 yards and The Citadel's Tony Passander third with 1,282.

Slade is the passing leader with 147 completions for 1,635 yards. Richards trails with 126 completions—for more yards, 1,756. Again, Passander is third on 82 completions for 1,110 yards.

Super Bowl Has Upped Prices

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The 1970 Super Bowl football game will be quite democratic in that it will cost you $15 no matter where you sit—end zone or 50 yard line.

The price per ticket to the Jan. 11 game in Tulane's 80,000-seat stadium was announced Tuesday by Jim Kensil, executive director of commissioner Pete Rozelle's office.

The game matches the champions of the American and National football leagues. Tickets to the last game, which saw the

New York Jets upset Baltimore in Miami, were scaled at $12, $8 and $6.

Kensil said the game is expected to gross about $3.7 million, including a $2.5 million fee for broadcasting rights. CBS will televise the game nationally—with the New Orleans-Baton Rouge area blacked out.

Each player and coach on the winning team will draw a $15,000 share of the net receipts, Kensil said, with each player and coach on the loser to get $7,500.

Pirates Tie William & Mary

A late fourth period goal allowed East Carolina University to pull out a 1-1 tie against William & Mary yesterday in a Southern Conference soccer match.

The Bucs got their score on a kick by Steve Luquire to tie it up. William & Mary, dominating the first half of the match, got its only goal in the closing minutes of the second quarter when Terry Vaught scored.

The game, one of the roughest of the season, saw several players from both teams injured.

Following the end of the regulation match, the two teams played a pair of five-minute overtimes before giving up on trying to determine a winner.

The match completed the season for the Pirates, who won three of their last four matches. They posted a 3-4-1 mark for the year.

Clemson Shooting For ACC Lead Tie

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clemson puts its bid for the Atlantic Coast Conference football crown to the test Saturday when the Tigers meet Duke in Durham.

Only half a game away from league-leading South Carolina, Clemson needs a victory to move into a tie. The Gamecocks are at undefeated Tennessee of the Southeastern Conference.

The Tigers, who pounded Maryland 40-0 last Saturday for their third straight conference win, stand 3-0 in the league, but 4-3 overall.

Duke contained Georgia Tech for three quarters, but sagged in the fourth last Saturday to lose 20-7. The Blue Devils are 1-3-1 in the league and 1-5-1 overall.

Of South Carolina's 34-9 loss to Florida State last week, Coach Paul Dietzel said:

"There may have been too much looking ahead to the Wake Forest and Clemson games that could determine the ACC championship.

"It's a problem of impatience."

The Gamecocks have dropped only two games — but both badly and both out of conference.

They lost to Georgia 41-16 before Saturday's Florida State loss.

After the Tennessee game, South Carolina will finish its regular season by playing at Wake Forest Nov. 15 and at home to Clemson Nov. 22.

Wake Forest is at Charlottesville Saturday for a conference game with Virginia. The Demon Deacons have lost four and won one in league play. Host Virginia has lost three and won one. Wake Forest is coming back after a layoff last weekend.

North Carolina State rests for a second straight week before a home game with Houston Nov. 15.

Maryland, 2-5 in all games, is home Saturday to Miami of Ohio, a Mid-American Conference Club which is 5-2.

North Carolina is home to VMI, a Southern Conference team which has lost all seven games this season and lost a conference game by 59-6 to Davidson last week.

Notre Dame To Change Policy?

By JOE MOOSHL

CHICAGO (AP) — Notre Dame's "No Bowl" policy has been in effect for more than four decades but somehow the Irish never have been able to completely shut the door on another possible bowl appearance.

Notre Dame's only post season football game was the 1925 Rose Bowl game in which Knute Rockne's Irish whipped Stanford and Ernie Nevers 27-10.

Rumors and speculation have it that the Irish are in a financial bind because of their new multi-million dollar sports and convocation center and that they also would like to cover their football fields with synthetic turf.

To do so, money is needed and a bowl appearance is about the easiest way to pick up a fast $300,000. Add to this the fact that Coach Ara Parseghian is all for Notre Dame appearing at that Notre Dame might change its policy continues.

"In all previous five seasons

I've coached at Notre Dame, we've received a bowl invitation every year," Parseghian told the Chicago football writers Tuesday.

"And every year our board meets to review and consider these invitations and every year the board turns them down," he said. "I'm sure if we can win the rest of our games this year, we'll probably get another invitation but I have no reason to believe the policy will change. Maybe somebody knows something that I don't know."

Meanwhile, the Big Ten reaffirmed its bowl policies of the "no repeat" rule governing the Rose Bowl and the rule which prohibits conference members from appearing in any other bowls.

Commissioner Bill Reed issued a statement that he has canvassed the Faculty Representatives who govern the conference and finds no possibility that the conference will modify the rules this year.

Cougars Fall To Caps; Knicks Continue String

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There seems to be no stopping the New York Knicks in the National Basketball Association.

They won their seventh straight game by whipping the Phoenix Suns 116-99 Tuesday night. It was the 12th victory in their first 13 games for the Knicks, off to their fastest start ever in the NBA.

In other NBA games, Philadelphia edged Chicago 113-109 and Baltimore rolled past San Francisco 124-105 in a double-header at Baltimore, and Seattle dumped Detroit 116-102.

Washington turned back the Carolina Cougars 117-107 in the night's only American Basketball Association activity.

With Willis Reed reeling off seven straight baskets on his first seven shots, the Knick got off to an early 14-point lead.

Reed finished with 34 points, tops for the Knicks. Connie Hawkins of the Suns was high for the game with 39.

Hal Greer had an off night for the 76ers, but he made up for it with some last-second tactics that gave his team victory over Chicago.

With just a few seconds remaining, Greer knocked the ball out of Chet Walker's hands, then raced down court for a basket off an assist from Archie Clark to ice it.

Greer missed a shot with 13 seconds left before his theft pulled it out. He scored 18 while hitting only five of 15 field goal attempts. Clark finished with 22 points and Washington and Bill Cunningham had 21 each.

Walker had 28 for the Bulls and Bob Love contributed 27.

In the nightcap, Baltimore's Wes Unseld, the league's most valuable player last year, sat out much of the game because of foul trouble, but the Bullets rallied behind substitute center Leroy Ellis and Gus Johnson.

Ellis, who had 22 points and 11 rebounds, and Johnson, who had 24 points, each scored four points when the Bullets rang up a 15-3 streak in taking a 51-35 lead in the second quarter. Baltimore then went on another 15-3 bing in the third period—when Johnson scored seven and Ellis four—in boosting the margin to 87-65.

Jack Marin led Baltimore with 26 points. Jeff Mullins had 28 for the Warriors.

Bob Boozer scored 28 points, including six straight baskets in the second quarter that helped open a big lead as Seattle scored its first victory ever at Detroit.

Seattle built a 95-66 lead late in the third period before the Pistons rallied to chop it to nine. However, a pair of Boozer baskets thwarted that threat.

Dave Bing led Detroit with 28 points.

Warren Armstrong scored 23 points and hauled in 19 rebounds and Roland Taylor and Henry Logan scored 19 points each in guiding Washington past Carolina in the ABA.

Bob Varga scored 32 and Randy Mahaffey 20 for the Cougars.

Nicklaus Choice In Hawaiian Golf

HONOLULU (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, grimly determined to move up on the money list, holds the favorite role in his first appearance in the $125,000 Hawaiian Open Golf Tournament.

Trevino, the defending champion, and his stablemate, U.S. Open champion Orville Moody, arrived Monday after a lengthy tour of the far east.

Nicklaus, however, had to be counted the man most likely to succeed in the field of 144 that will tour the flat, ocean-side layout that is swept by the trade winds.

Big Jack has won his last two starts, picked up $28,000 and vaulted to fourth on the money list. He has never finished lower than third and has made no bones about his intention of moving up still more.

Usually an infrequent competitor on the fall tour, he will play at least two more events, possibly three.

He has been in a slump most of the summer, but snapped out of it at Las Vegas and has dominated play since then.

An extremely strong field is challenging him. Among the top contenders are Frank Beard, the leading money-winner, PGA champ Ray Floyd, Australian Bruce Crampton and Billy Casper, one of three who lost in a playoff to Nicklaus for the Kaiser title. George Archer, another playoff participant, is doubtful.

Don January, the last man in that playoff, is not competing. Also among the missing are Dave Hill, No. 2 on the money list, and a couple of late withdrawals, Deane Bemen and Larry Hinson.

The 72-hole test, second from the last major event on the pro tour this year, begins on Thursday on the 7,020-yard, par-72 Wialae Country Club course, with a $25,000 purse to the winner.

While the lighter Nicklaus — He's lost 20 pounds in a month — is a heavy favorite for the top spot, he'll have to share the galleries with dynamic Arnold Palmer, still the people's choice, and happy-go-lucky Lee Trevino.

Palmer made the best showing of his current comeback attempt last week in the Kaiser International at Napa, Calif., finishing just four strokes off the pace. He hit 33 of 36 greens on the last two rounds but just couldn't make a putt.

In 20 years at Ayden, Tripp has averaged four wins for every five starts. He captured 11 conference titles, five district championships, and two State Class A crowns. His teams went 55 games without a defeat through 1964-1967. In one four year stretch, his teams won 100 and lost six.

Davidson Gets Nod In Visit To East Carolina

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer

What better way to cap off Election Week than by casting a vote or two for the projected winners of Saturday's college football games. And we didn't even use a computer.

The weekend's big games are in the Big Eight, with the Southeastern, Big Ten and Western Athletic Conferences not far behind.

Oklahoma at Missouri—"The favorite doesn't mean anything in this game," says Missouri's Dan Devine, which may explain why the oddsmakers made it a pick 'em affair early in the week. "The Oklahoma-Missouri game has always been a good one and this one should be no different."

"Steve Owens (Oklahoma's tailback) is the best I've seen and their quarterback (Jack Mildren) is probably the best sophomore ever to come into our league."

Owens is fourth nationally in rushing with 881 yards on 209 carries in six games, while Missouri's Joe Moore ranks third with 184 rushes for 904 yards in seven games. Missouri also has a fine quarterback in Terry McMillan.

But McMillan has had a sore foot most of the season and may be operating at only half-speed. Besides, Missouri's defense has been suspect lately while Oklahoma revamped its defense last Saturday.

It's usually suicide to pick against a Big Eight team at home, but living dangerously, one hesitant vote for ... Oklahoma!

Kansas State at Oklahoma State—K-State will have to guard against letdown after getting sky-high for Oklahoma and Missouri and with Nebraska and Colorado coming up. O-State is tough anyway, but cast one vote for ... Kansas State!

Iowa State at Nebraska—This corner picked against Nebraska at home last Saturday and promises never to do it again. Nebraska!

John David Crow, Heisman Trophy winner under Bear Bryant at Texas A & M, is the only new assistant on Bryant's Alabama coaching staff this season.

Colorado at Kansas—Is this the week Kansas breaks its losing streak? No. Colorado!

Alabama at Louisiana State—The last time an Alabama team lost as many as three regular season games was 1953, Bear Bryant's first year as coach at Tuscaloosa. Welcome back, Bear. LSU.

Georgia at Florida—Gators were knocked from the unbeaten ranks last weekend but should have no trouble getting up for Georgia after last year's 51-0 debacle. Florida!

Michigan State at Purdue—Boilermakers could be ripe for an upset as they look ahead a week to Ohio State. But the Spartans are having problems on offense. Purdue!

Iowa at Indiana—Hoosiers smell the roses ... and they don't play Ohio State. Indiana!

Wyoming at Utah—Surprising Utes have won six straight. Wyoming looked like a shoo-in until (1) racial problems and (2) a loss to Arizona State. Utes are eighth in rushing offense, Cowboys first in rushing defense. Utah!

Princeton at Harvard—First of the Big Three series and Harvard would like nothing better than to knock Princeton out of a tie for the Ivy League. Guess here is they'll do it. Harvard!

Pacific at San Diego State—Both schools joined the NCAA's University Division this year and have no reason to regret it. Pacific is 6-1, San Diego 6-0 ... with 7-0 coming up. San Diego State!

Other games:

East — Notre Dame over Pitt, Syracuse over Arizona, Boston College over Buffalo, Cornell over Brown, Colgate over Bucknell, Dartmouth over Columbia, Villanova over Dayton, Yale over Penn, Rutgers over Connecticut.

South — Tennessee over South Carolina, Auburn over Mississippi State, Mississippi over Chattanooga, Louisville over Cincinnati, The Citadel over Maine, Duke over Clemson, Davidson over East Carolina, Florida State over Virginia Tech, Georgia Tech over Tulane, Kentucky over Vanderbilt, Maryland over Miami, Ohio, Memphis over Mississippi, Miami Fla. over Navy, North Carolina over VMI, Richmond over Furman, Virginia over Wake Forest, West Virginia over William & Mary.

Midwest — Ohio State over Wisconsin, Michigan over Illinois, Ohio U. over Bowling Green, Kent State over Marshall, Minnesota over Northwestern, Toledo over Northern Illinois, West Texas State over Western Michigan.

Southwest — Texas over Baylor, Arkansas over Rice, Houston over Tulsa, Texas - El Paso over New Mexico State, North Texas State over Wichita State, Southern Methodist over Texas A&M, Texas Tech over Texas Christian.

Far West — Southern California over Washington State, Stanford over Washington, Air Force over Utah State, Arizona State over New Mexico, Oregon over San Jose State, California over Oregon State, Weber State over Army, Brigham Young over Idaho.

Cougars Hold Final Opener

The Carolina Cougars come off a nightmare road trip to hold their third and final "home" opener tonight at 8 p.m. in Dorton Arena in Raleigh.

The Cougars, now 4-5, will play host to the Kentucky Colonels, currently 6-2 and second in the American Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

The game will feature the ABA's top three scorers, two of whom are on the Cougar team. Dou Moe of the Cougars is currently leading the league with a 30.4 average. Teammate Bob Varga occupies third place with a 27.1 mark.

In second place is Darrell Carrier of the Colonels with a 27.9 average.

Moe also leads the league in assists with an 8.1 average per game.

"We are expecting the largest of our three opening night crowds in Raleigh," Publicity Director Mel Derrick said. "We had 4,600 in Greensboro and 5,400 in Charlotte, and the way things are going here it will be even larger."

Forgotten War To Resume At Rainy Season's End

By PIERRE CHERAMY
FORT LAMY, Chad (UPI)—

The rainy season is nearing its end in Chad, and in their camps and forlorn outposts French and Chadian troops are getting ready for the next round of fighting in Africa's "forgotten war."

Heavy rains for the past three months have turned into impassable marshland vast stretches of landlocked Chad's half-million square miles of territory.

The rainy season slowed down—but did not entirely halt—the little publicized civil war between French-backed President Francois Tombalbaye and armed units of his opponents grouped in the Chad National Liberation Front (Frolina).

Soon, Africa's sun will beat down through thinning clouds again. Soon, the ill-marked interior roads will be rockbed hard again and French and Chadian troops will be free to resume their hit and run war with Frolina bands.

Seven years ago the last round of gunfire died down in Algeria and Frenchmen believed their military ventures overseas were over for good.

Foreign Legion Again
Now Foreign Legionnaires in white kepis or slouch hats are writing a new page of their Beau Geste epic along with marine commandoes and Chad's fledgling 4,000-man army.

An estimated 1,500 of the elite French shocktroops have been flown here unobtrusively since April to join the Forces Francaises de l'Escale Aerienne du Tchad (FFEAT), the 900-man garrison stationed in this central African country under mutual assistance accords concluded when French African colonies gained independence in 1960.

The French troops, most of them hardened veterans of France's colonial wars, have been loaned for one year to Tombalbaye, the 51-year-old president who is one of France's staunchest friends in Africa.

First reinforcements were dispatched to Chad in April by Gen. Charles de Gaulle before he resigned as president April 28. Now it is expected additional forces will fly in soon to help in what French and Chadian authorities say will be a decisive attempt to crush Frolina bands in the nearing dry season.

France responded readily to Tombalbaye's appeal for help because Paris considers the poverty stricken, underpopulated (3.5 million inhabitants) Chad south of the Sahara, as a key strategic territory between the Moslem south and Arab north and between Christian and Animist Negro Africa.

In addition, Chad holds a special sentimental position in French hearts since it was the first colony to join De Gaulle's wartime Free French movement. Its tough warrior tribes provided the bulk of the famed Chad Battalion, the nucleus of De Gaulle's wartime forces.

Criticism Sparked
Though Tombalbaye was free to call in French troops under the mutual assistance accords, his move has sparked criticism in Africa that he is being kept in office by a former colonial power.

The Ghanaian Times in Accra recently remarked that African leaders who apparently had lost

Dr. D. D. Gross, director of religious activities at East Carolina University, will speak on this year's theme "Christians in International Development." A native of Buchanan, Va., Dr. Gross has been pastor of Baptist churches in the western North Carolina towns of Clyde and Marshall.

He graduated from Campbell College, earned his AB degree at Wake Forest College, his MA from Duke University and a PhD from New York University. In addition to his post as religious activities, Dr. Gross is a member of the ECU philosophy faculty.

Also participating in the service with Dr. Gross will be Mrs. C. L. Lupton, Mrs. Charles Stevens, Mrs. James H. Ward, Mrs. Norman Wilkerson and Mrs. Ralph Verrastro.

Chairman of World Community Day, Mrs. Leon Moore invites interested people to attend the service.

contact with their population should "retire honorably instead of using troops to support their wavering regimes."

Even in Paris newspapers have criticized the involvement of French troops, warning that it may build up into a miniature Vietnam for France.

Tombalbaye's difficulties arise from the herculean problem of welding into one nation a multitude of 150 tribes speaking 150 different languages and having widely different religious, ethnic and cultural backgrounds.

An economically retarded country isolated from the seas by hundreds of miles of neighboring territory, Chad produces only meager cotton crops which it finds difficult to export.

Traditional hostility between northern nomadic Moslem populations and sedentary southern Negro tribes has been fanned by the Arab-Israeli conflict and the Arab-Negro civil strife in neighboring Sudan.

The recent leftist coup in Tripoli which was backing Frolina before the overthrow of King Idriss, is expected to lead to a further expansion of Libyan aid to predominantly Moslem fighters of the Frolina movement.

More Middle East Tension
But the unrest gripping many of Chad's outlying provinces from Tibesti-Ennedi-Borkou in the north to Guera in the southeast, and Ouaddai and the Salamat on the Sudan frontier in the east, also has specific political causes.

Since independence nine years ago the populations in the provinces have been complaining that many Chadian administrators, who replaced French colonial officers, have been guilty of widespread graft and nepotism.

Even some of Tombalbaye's closest friends who help found the Chadian Progressist Party (PPT), the country's only legal faction, gradually broke with him over his alleged failure to curb the power of Chadian tax collectors and provincial prefects.

Frolina leader Dr. Abba Siddick, 44, a surgeon now in exile in Libya, was Tombalbaye's close friend and minister until he broke with him. Siddick favors the establishment of a leftist-socialist but non-Marxist regime in Chad.

The French agreed to prop up Tombalbaye's regime with troops on condition that he agree to a complete overhaul of his administrative system. A mission of French civil service experts now is helping the president to reorganize the local administrative network.

Of short build but wiry, the president, who wore a steel blue sports shirt and a panther cap given him by Congo President Joseph Mobutu, said, "These outlaws are thinking of only one thing—looting. But mind you, things are getting better now thanks to our French comrades-in-arms."

Planning World Community Day Observance

World Community Day will be observed here Friday with an 11 a.m. service at Our Redeemer Lutheran Church.

This day, one of three annual observances sponsored by Church Women United, was created in 1942 to encourage men and women to study and take action together on issues related to international justice and peace.

Dr. D. D. Gross, director of religious activities at East Carolina University, will speak on this year's theme "Christians in International Development."

A native of Buchanan, Va., Dr. Gross has been pastor of Baptist churches in the western North Carolina towns of Clyde and Marshall.

Chairman of World Community Day, Mrs. Leon Moore invites interested people to attend the service.

Scholarship For Ayden Native

RALEIGH — Samuel Reynolds of Ayden, a fourth year student in landscape architecture at the North Carolina State University School of Design, was among 14 students awarded scholarships for their design abilities.

Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Reynolds of 401 New Circle Dr., Ayden, was awarded the scholarship by the Garden Club of North Carolina.

The legend of Lady Godiva didn't appear in early writings until after her death. She endowed several monasteries, including the one at Coventry.

The Worry Clinic

Good Lipreader Must Learn To Take Chance

Miriam's problem confronts all lipreaders, whether they are stone deaf or the usual older folks who often grow hard of hearing. And its solution involves use of the star salesman's strategy for dominating the interview. Expert lipreaders ignore that "slow but sure" maxim!

By - GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE L-550: Miriam D., aged 15, is a pretty girl who is deaf. "Dr. Crane," her worried mother began, "Miriam is quite intelligent but she doesn't read lips very well."

"Some of the other students in her class, who haven't as high an I.Q. as Miriam, far surpass her in keeping up with conversation."

"So how can we help Miriam become faster at reading lips?" When I was stationed at Gallaudet College for the Deaf in Washington, D.C., the vice-president thereof gave me the answer to Miriam's difficulty.

"Dr. Crane," he said, "I find that a good lipreader must be willing to take a chance. He must ignore the 'slow but sure' maxim."

"Alas, some of our brightest students are poor lipreaders because they have such a mathematical or scientific attitude that they will never jump to conclusions."

"But many words look alike on the lips of the speaker so the expert lipreader must be willing to skip over these hiatuses and try to follow the general context."

"Then he can probably flip back in his mind and fill in the words that he missed."

"A brilliant student who refuses to gamble, as it were, and who methodically stops at every word till he comprehends it fully, thus loses out. For he lags far behind the speaker."

After my 5 years' experience as Research Psychologist with the deaf, I can give a hearty "Amen" to this shrewd diagnosis by Gallaudet's vice-president.

But there is another superb strategy that can zoom a deaf person's lipreading skill.

It consists of steering the conversation by deftly asking questions.

"Have you attended any college football games this year?" the deaf person may thus inquire.

Obviously, this will narrow the range of conversation to football topics and thus make it much easier for the deaf person to read the speaker's lips.

Then follow that first query with another suitable question, as:

"Do you think professional football will beat baseball in popular appeal?"

The skillful lipreader must thus learn how to direct the flow of casual conversation by constantly suggesting topics of conversation via a steady barrage of apt questions.

By the way, this is also the technique for dominating the news interview, so all stars learned this superb strategy.

Unfortunately for the deaf, many speakers do not use their lips enough in clipping off their vowels.

The vowels are uttered in the throat and thus are guttural sounds which don't show up very well, visually.

Consonants are formed more with the tongue and lips, so they add the visual aspects of spoken language.

Good public speakers thus lift their voice out of their throat and push it forward into the front of their mouth, much as a child projects the bubble of his bubble gum!

So send for my "Formula for Easy Conversation," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents, for it is also a great aid to lipreaders!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Fur Seals Back On West Coast

SANTA BARBARA (UPI)—The Alaska fur seal has reappeared on the California coast to breed again for the first time in more than 130 years.

Two scientists from UC Santa Cruz discovered a tiny colony on San Miguel Island near Santa Barbara, about 3,000 miles from the animal's present homeland in the Bering Sea.

The Alaska fur seal is a hardy sea-going mammal once in danger of becoming extinct by over hunting.

N.C. Has Rare Exhibit At Raleigh

"In the Light of History" By DR. H. G. JONES
N.C. Dept. Archives & History
Written for the AP
RALEIGH (AP) — An exhibit depicting the history of communications from man's first attempt at conversation to his first trip to the moon has been opened for public viewing in the North Carolina Museum of History in the Archives and History-State Library Building in Raleigh. Its donors say it is the only one of its type in the nation.

Designed and constructed at a cost of more than $70,000 and given to the state Department of Archives and History by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., the audiovisual exhibit recently was accepted by Gov. Bob Scott from A. L. Groce, assistant vice president of Southern Bell in North Carolina. The exhibit consists of five panels of cartoons, sketches, and photographs with a lively narration of the history of communications in North Carolina. In addition, communication devices from the 19th Century to the present are on display, including push-button special features explaining such things as laser beams and computers.

A telegraph law was passed by the General Assembly of North Carolina in 1846. Shortly thereafter the first telegraph line was run from Virginia through Raleigh to Fayetteville, and the leading newspapers of the state began to carry telegraphic news. For the first time news was almost instantaneously available to the papers.

North Carolina's first telephone exchange was connected in 1879 at Raleigh. Soon it was possible for citizens to communicate within minutes with the major sections of the state. The telegraph and the telephone had a tremendous impact upon business, government, and everyday life. Telephone operators served as clearinghouses of information and occasionally gossip, roles that diminished as the number of phones and calls increased.

A major step in the history of communications occurred on Roanoke Island in 1902 when Reginald A. Fessenden, then with the U.S. Weather Bureau, built an experimental wireless station and established communication with a ship. Fessenden's papers, including those relating to his many inventions and patents, are preserved in the North Carolina State Archives.

Radio was first licensed in North Carolina in 1921 when station 4XD (later WBT) in Charlotte went on the air. Television via the same company arrived in 1949. Today one of the most powerful radio transmission stations in the world, owned by the Voice of America, is located near Greenville.

The Jutaculla Rock near Cullowhee, with its mysterious sketches, and the nimbus weather satellite receiving station near Rosman, the exhibit notes, are only a few miles apart in land mileage. In years, however, the distance is great. Even greater is the vast progress that has been made in man's evolution of an instantaneous communication system that permits a North Carolinian to sit in his living room and watch two Americans land on the moon and to hear the conversation between the first moon-walkers and the earth. This progress is vividly portrayed in the North Carolina Communications Exhibit, which is open free to the public all day Monday through Saturday, and on Sunday afternoon.

Some Disabled May Be Losing

"Some young disabled workers may be losing social security payments because they have not applied for them," according to Jack Tatem, manager of the local Social Security office.

Tatem said recent changes in the social security law permits payments to young disabled workers as well as older workers who became disabled before they are 65.

"In some cases," he explained, "the young disabled workers will need as little as one-and-a-half years of social security coverage to become eligible for benefits."

Tatem suggested that disabled persons should contact the social security office to check their status.

Learn Today Color TV Show Of Moon Walk

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 12 astronauts hope to find out today whether they will be able to treat the earthlings to live color television of their moon walk.

A television camera which has been giving trouble is to be plugged into their lunar lander atop a Saturn 5 rocket for a final test.

If the results are good, astronauts Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean will count on transmitting live color pictures of the moon's bleak, cratered surface as they work on the Ocean of Storms.

If the camera fails, Conrad and Bean will carry a black and white camera like the one used by the Apollo 11 moonwalkers in July.

During an earlier test, black lines cut through the color picture. The camera since has been modified in the hope of eliminating this interference.

Meanwhile, preparations for the Nov. 14 launch progressed smoothly, with astronauts Conrad, Bean and Richard F. Gordon Jr., planning to spend much of the time in space simulators. Gordon is to orbit the moon in the Yankee Clipper command ship while his companions fly the lunar lander called Intrepid to the surface Nov. 19.

Conrad and Bean are to spend 3 1/2 hours on the moon, with each man set to log about seven hours exploring outside, deploying scientific instruments and collecting rocks.

Launch Director Walter Karpman of the Kennedy Space Center reported, "We are in better shape with respect to Apollo 12 than we have been for any launch."

Lennon Sisters Talk Of Seven Scary Years

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Two of the singing Lennon Sisters told today of seven years of scary letters and mysterious visits from a tall man with strange eyes who finas s their father dead and killed himself.

They talked of terror after their father's slaying, when 22 family members lived in one house under guard while police hunted the killer, and of pity for the gunman when he was found dead by suicide.

The father, William Lennon, was shot and killed by a rifleman Aug. 12 at a golf course. Witness identified him as Marvin Major, who called himself Chet Young. Last Oct. 10 Major's body was found near Sonora, Calif. Police said he had killed himself after writing a note admitting the Lennon slaying.

In their apartment, at ABC studios, where they tape a weekly variety show with Jimmy Durante, Janet and Diane Lennon recounted in an interview the long, tragic history that led up to their father's death. The oldest and youngest of the four singing sisters, they generally speak for the family.

Here, in part, is what they said:

Janet: "He (Major) started writing to Peggy back in 1962, when he was in an institution in Colorado. Right from the start he seemed to believe that he was Peggy's husband, and he would ask questions like, 'How's on hamburger, world authority on embryology.'

Diane: "Then, in 1964 or 1965, he started appearing here at ABC when we were doing the Welk show. He never bothered us; he just stayed in the background. But you couldn't miss him—he was a very tall man, with strange eyes. We'd see him at the back of the stage or hanging around the parking lot."

Janet: "We still didn't connect him with the letters. That didn't happen until the FBI came to our house about that time. It seems he had been writing some threatening letters to the President—it was President Johnson at that time. He somehow blamed the President for standing in the way of him and Peggy. The FBI told Mom to

Dr. Oppenheim To Lecture At Sigma Xi Club

Dr. Ronald W. Oppenheim of the Division of Research of the North Carolina Department of Mental Health, will give the second lecture of the 1969-70 series sponsored by the East Carolina University Sigma Xi Club, on Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Flanagan Building, Room 209.

Dr. Oppenheim, whose research deals with the embryology of behavior in the chick, will speak on the topic "Plasticity in the Developing Nervous System."

Dr. Oppenheim did postdoctoral research at Washington University, St. Louis, with Dr. Viktor Hamburger, world authority on embryology.

The visit here is being arranged by Dr. Irvin E. Lawrence Jr., professor in the Department of Biology.

look at pictures of Chet Young and watch out for him because he might be dangerous."

Diane: "We didn't have to look at the pictures. We knew he had to be the man who had been hanging around the studio."

Janet: "He was picked up once more, but we weren't given any details. We still didn't consider him harmful. As far as we could tell, he wasn't violent. Just sick."

Diane: "About a year ago, we started getting copies of fan magazine stories. These were stories they do about us, saying that Daddy was forcing us to work and that made us unhappy, all that sort of thing. Apparently his car was stacked high with those magazines."

Janet: "The letters started coming every two weeks. After a while we didn't open them. They just contained movie magazine stuff, and it depressed us. Diane: "When it (the murder) happened, we knew immediately who had done it. The mere fact that he had argued with Dad was enough. Dad would never have argued that way with anyone he knew. He was the sweetest, gentlest, most understanding man. He never had an enemy in the world."

Finns Stuck By Expensive Canal

HELSINKI, Finland (UPI)—The Saimaa Canal, built by special agreement between the governments of Finland and the Soviet Union, will cost Finland next year 20 times more than it is expected to earn.

The state budget for 1970 estimates the total canal cost at about $3 billion, while the revenue is expected to be about $160 million.

scoring for the slam hinged on spades all eight hearts separately, i. e., via a complete cross-ruff.

South cashed the dummy's top diamond honors and discarded his remaining spade. Observing the fall of West's jack of diamonds, declarer decided to ruff himself in with a small spade. The ace of clubs was taken and a club trumped with the seven of hearts. Now if just one more spade could be singled in with his five of hearts, South could complete his cross-ruff with absolute assurance, for he would be down to the top five trumps.

East had other thoughts, however, and when the third round of spades was led from dummy, he carefully trumped in with the eight of hearts in order to prevent declarer from making good another small trump. South was obliged to overruff with the queen of hearts. A club was ruffed with the ten of hearts and on the next spade play, East ruffed with the nine of hearts to force out the ace. Dummy was re-entered by trumping another club, but when South tried to score with his last trump, the five, by ruffing a diamond—West overruffed with the six of hearts and declarer fell short of the goal.

Farmville Board Votes To Support EPIC Program

By CAROL TYER
 Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE — The Board of Commissioners voted last night to give financial support to feasibility and other studies being made by Electric Power in Carolina not to exceed $1400 between January 1, 1970 and December 31, 1970.

They also agreed that the town, as an EPIC member, would provide not more than $500 toward the cost of a court fight against a Carolina Power and Light plan to build an atomic electrical energy plant in Brunswick County.

A decision was made to tile a ditch which drains a large part of Langdale subdivision here. Town engineer, Jack McDavid estimated the cost of tiling the ditch which runs along the line between the properties of James Lancaster and Jimmy Joyner at between $800 and $1,000. Mayor Joyner asked that the feasibility of tiling similar ditches carrying "town water" through Lincoln Park be investigated immediately, since this project has been mentioned and tabled off and on for two years.

Street Department Superintendent E.P. Freuler said two grills which prevent trash from entering storm sewers in the Hines Street area will be replaced immediately. James Taylor, a citizen of the area, said Saturday night's rains flooded and completely blocked Hines and Perry Streets as a result of the sewer entrances being clogged by debris.

Bill Allen, a Dale Drive homeowner asked the commissioners to provide a way for him to get into his driveway. He contended the recent grading the street made his lot "18 inches" higher than the street level and tore up his driveway. The Commissioners refused to say whether the town would take the responsibility, but referred the matter to the Street Committee for investigation. H.P. Norman, a local volunteer fireman, reported the department answered three calls in town and three rural calls last month and were on hand for the Farmville High School Homecoming bonfire. He asked the Commissioners if the town would pay for installing gongs in firemen's homes, and was told "yes."

The Board decided to buy hospitalization insurance for the town's volunteer firemen from the Pierce Insurance Agency in Farmville, which represents State Life and Health Insurance at a premium cost per month per man of $6.27. Committee investigation showed this policy to be "the best coverage for the money out of four."

Water and Light Superintendent J.A. "Bud" Wooten told the Board of a mutual benefit plan for Greenville, Ayden and Farmville of buying one spare transformer for schools at a total cost of $8,641. The equipment would be stored in Greenville, but could be carried wherever needed on short notice. Wooten said having a spare is necessary, since delivery time varied from ten weeks to a year. Wooten also reported that the Lincoln Park well is back in operation after repairs and lowering of the pump and that the fence around the Fields Street well has been completed.

The Board voted to up the cost of plumbing inspection fees to 75 cents per fixture, to charge a dollar for a plumbing permit, and to keep the present $3 plumbing inspection service fee. The wiring inspection fee was set at ten cents per outlet of a two dollar minimum and the cost of a permit was made $1. A representative of the Department of Local Affairs who is assisting the town with studies concerning redevelopment appeared before the board but was referred to Lloyd Englehardt, local redevelopment director.

A policy was set that persons approached by water and light men instructed to turn off their utilities will have to go into the city clerk's office and pay their bills. In the past many persons have paid the workmen the bill and the $3 service fee. Farmville turn off electricity and water after the payment is 20 days overdue.

Martin's School Board Tours All County Schools

WILLIAMSTON — The five board members of the Martin County Board of Education will today complete their tour of all schools in Williamston and other parts of the county.

According to superintendent Eugene Rogers, the board members and personnel of the school administration have been making tours of all schools for the past several days to study a number of miscellaneous details.

These details will be considered on the agenda of the board of education meeting which is being held today at 11:00 a.m. Normally, the board meets Monday night, but the meeting was rescheduled for today to permit time to complete the school by school tour.

School Board . . .

Alford called on each teacher to deal "friendly, fairly and firmly" with each student.

"I don't believe the students will abuse those charged with the discipline of the schools if the above approach is taken in word and action," the superintendent noted.

Alford said the board is now considering plans of prevention and plans for handling disruptions should this be the case.

"We will more than likely still have some problems," he said, "but, hopefully, they will be minimized to the point that the instructional program and the welfare of the students, school personnel and others do not suffer."

In other business, the board of education voted to allow basketball season to begin on Nov. 7, rather than on Nov. 14, the date set by the board in years past.
