Apollo 12 Crews Still Aiming At Friday Launch

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Apollo 12, man's second excursion to the moon, was back on schedule for Friday's launch today after technicians swapped out a leaking fuel tank and began the laborious process of reloading it.

"We look real good now," said Paul C. Donnelly, launch operations manager.

The launching is set for 11:22 a.m. EST Friday.

Charles Conrad Jr., Richard F. Gordon Jr., and Alan L. Bean —the Navy commanders who are manning the flight—relared this morning by doing acrobatics in T38 jet trainers at nearby Patrick Air Force Base.

Their condition was good and so were forecasts for Friday's launch weather.

President and Mrs. Niron and Vice President and Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew are scheduled to be among the 300,000 visitors erpected for the launch.

The leak in the hydrogen tank was discovered Wednesday when crews had loaded it to 80 per cent of capacity. It was removed late at night and replaced with one taken from tre Apollo 13 ship which was in a hangar being readied for launch next March.

The tank, part of the fuel cell system that produces the ship's electricity, is built like a thermos—with a vacuum acting as insulation between outer and inner walls. The leak was in the outer wall.

The tank itself holds 28 pounds of hydrogen, kept in a liquid state by cooling to 43 degrees below zero. There are two such tanks for hydrogen and two for oxygen in a service compartment behind the main cabin.

"We're comfortable because we know our problem," Donnelly said. "The problem is the tank. We have to get it out of there and get a new tank in." The space center had experts flown in from the manufacturer's plant in Downey, Calif., to help with the transplant.

The second hydrogen fuel tank on board would have been enough for the mission, donnelly said, "but we've always lifted off with two tanks in the event we had this type of problem in flight."

While Gordon and Bean remained in crew quarters Wednesday for more study of their flight plan, Conrad was in a mission directors' meeting.

It was decided at the meeting to forego the only other launch opportunity this month—on Sunday—because the later star would move the moon-landing point 360 miles to the west.

Officials aid tpey didn't feel Conrad and Bean should try to land on the alternate site because photographs from Apollo 11—the moon-landing flight in July—showed landmarks that were unknown before. The detailed training has been for the prime site.

A prime objective of Apollo 12 is to develop pinpoint landing techniques essential for the next moon landing, Apollo 13, in the rocky highlands.

Such accuracy was not necessary on the July flight in the flat Sea of Tranquillity—and Apollo 11 missed its target by four miles. The Apollo 12 target is in the Ocean of Storms, also relatively flat.

Heading for the alternate site also would have wiped out the opportunity for Conrad and Bean to go to surveyor 3, an unmanned craft that soft-landed in a crater on the Ocean of Storms in April 1967. The astronauts hope to photograph the Surveyor and snip off some of its parts to see what has happened to it under lunar conditions.

At 'Peace' Talks In Paris

Hanoi Makes It Plain; Relying On Protestors

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam and the Viet Cong made it plain today they were counting on growing protests in the United States to speed the end of the Vietnam war on their terms.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the North Vietnamese they were harboring "false expectations." He said "The great majority of the American people support President Nixon as he seeks a just peace."

This exchange took place at the 42nd weekly session of the Vietnam peace talks while opponents of the war in the United States marshaled their forces for a massive demonstration this weekend.

Nixon's Nov. 3 broadcast was denounced by North Vietnamese Ambassador Xuan Thuy as "A speech or war."

"It is certain the American people will oppose with increasing vigor the Nixon administration's policy of aggression," he continued.

In the meantime, Hanoi's man warned, North Vietnam will not modify its demand for a unilateral U.S. withdrawal from South Vietnam and the overthrow of the Saigon government. If Nixon refuses to comply he said, "tne people of the world will certainly strengthen their solidarity with the Vietnamese people."

Lodge accused the North Vietnamese and their Viet Cong allies of preferring "propaganda to making practical progress toward peace."

"You continue to rely on false expectations about events in the United States and South Vietnam rather than on joining us in seeking a settlement with justice for all parties," he declared.

Ambassador Pham Dong Lam of South Vietnam delivered a 3,000-word rejection of Hanoi's charge that the "Vietnamization" program is "a scheme to prolong the war."

"The Government of Vietnam is only searching for a just and genuine basis for peacei n the South in order to channel all the abilities of the people and all the resources of the country into building the nation," Lam said.

Lam also announced that his government is releasing 62 North Vietnamese prisoners of war and asked Hanoi for a meeting to arrange the procedure.

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, head of the provisional revolutionary government delegation to the talks, focussed as well on the anti war movement in America.

Mrs. Binh said the only "honorable way" out of the war for America is to accept the 10-point program of the Viet Cong.

'Moratorium' Group Planning Walk To River

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

"We are going to the river," was the word from the Moratorium Committee this morning as students representatives and Southern Christain Leadership Conference members jointly scheduled a 1 p.m. convocation on the Tar River.

Urging "all ECU students and faculty to participate," the committee made public plans to assemble on the east end of the campus mall at 11 a.m. and leave for the Shore Drive Redevelopment project in a "legal" walk through downtown Greenville.

Plans for the "walk" were made in spite of the denial of the committee's request for a temporary restraining order against the city by federal Judge John D. Larkins in Trenton yesterday.

The committee termed the convocation as "Blacks and whites united in solidarity against U.S. oppression and exploitation."

Meanwhile, a "Rally for America," scheduled for students in support of governmental policies on the campus mall, was highlighted by an address by president Dr. Leo W. Jenkins who charged students, as he did "fellow students cast month," with "finding a solution that could be accepted by the President and the American public."

Jenkins suggested to students to "seek a solution that can be accepted by the overwhelming majority of Americans. Last month I spoke to a group of young people who are concerned about our involvement in Vietnam," he said. Although their issues were different, he added, "my words to you do not need to be substantially different."

"On that day I suggested that young people had reason to be concerned with this issue for the simple fact that they are called upon to do the fighting and the dying," Jenkins recalled. "That is still true although some of you may be willing to fight and die when some of them were not. But we must recognize that in a free society each of us may have different opinion on what he will be willing to die for."

Jenkins advised students that the statement by President Nixon regarding intended troop withdrawal from Vietnam did not end the debate nor solve the problem this country faces regarding Vietnam.

As he had called on students last month to use the knowledge that is available at ECU through the library and courses, Jenkins again challenged them "to absorb it and to put fertile thought processes to sorting it and to generating a workable and acceptable plan of action."

"Storming the White House will not be accepted by the American public as a workable solution to Vietnam," he cautioned.

Jenkins address was part of the support rally scheduled for today by three ECU students who strived to show "their spirit of patriotism."

Crowds were sparse this morning at the beginning of the rally and by 11 a.m. only a small group of students had gathered to listen. Also scheduled to address the rally were Mayor Frank Wooten, Senator Julian Allsbrook, Representative Horton Rountree and Dr. John East.

School Suit To Be Heard On Saturday

The suit filed Monday by 21 Negro students from Rose School against the Greenville City Board of Education, Superintendent Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, and principal Edward is scheduled to be heard in the Eastern District of North Carolina U.S. District Court in Trenton Saturday at 10:00 a.m.

In their suit, the students, many of them minors and and represented by their parents, are "seeking to enjoin and to declare the unconsitutionality of the policy, practice, custom and usage of dismissing, expelling and suspending black students from the public schools of the City of Greenville . . . solely because of their race and because of their exercise of their rights of freedom of speech and assembly . . ."

The plaintiffs also seek to declare the unconstitutionality of and enjoin the further use of the vague and overbroad standard of disruptive behavior' in dismissing, expelling and suspending black student . . . without affording them a prior due process hearing."

Attorneys for the 21 students are Jerry Paul of Greenville and the Charlotte law firm of Chambers. Ferguson and Lanning of Charlotte.

Attorneys W. W. Speight and William C. Brewer, Jr. will present the defendents. The hearing will be before federal Judge John D. Larkins.

Four Arrested In N.Y. Bomb Plot

NEW YORK (AP) — FBI agents and New York City police have arrested three men and a woman after two of the men allegedly attempted to place time bombs aboard U.S. Army trucks in a midtown National Guard Armory.

The arrests Wednesday night came hours after a bomb exploded in the Criminal Courts building — the fourth major blast in the city in less than two days. One woman suffered minor injures.

The FBI said the four arrested persons — two of them identified as being associated with radical publications — would be questioned about "additional bombings in the New York City area."

Early today, a telephoned bomb threat to the New York Times led to evacuation of 2,000 persons from tre Times building. Police said the newspaper's telephone operator took the call about 7:30 a.m. from a man who said a bomb would go off in the building at 10 a.m.

Early Tuesday bombs were set off in the RCA Building in Rockefeller Center, the General Motors Building on Fifth Avenue and the Chase Manhattan Bank Building in the downtown financial district.

No one was seriously hurt but those blasts caused heavy property damage. There have been a dozen other unsolved blasts in the city in recent months.

Arresting officers recovered four dynamite bombs allegedly set to go off at 4 a.m. today, the FBI said. Frederick M Lussen, chief of detectives, said the bombs were "professionally made."

The bomb at Criminal Court was set off in a men's washroom on the fifth floor. The blast shattered windows, ruptured plumbing and knocked down two steel doors and terra cotta walls.

A Second One

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Duke Power has announced plans for a second nuclear power station, expected to cost more than $300 million.

The company's president, W. B. McGuire, said Wednesday the site has not been determined. But, he added, Duke Power already had ordered two nuclear reactors from Westinghouse Electric Corp. to power the proposed station. They will produce about 1.1 million kilowatts each, and the plant is expected to be in full operation by early 1977.

Moratorium Is Problem-Poser

WASHINGTON (AP) — Problems of communication and sanitation were confronting the Vietnam Moratorium Committee today.

A committee spokesman said the telephone company gave notice it would cut off service today unless a $20,000 bill was paid.

As for sanitation, there apparently were no arrangements for facilities for the 250,000 marchers the committee expects to participate in Saturday's war protest here.

Some Will Fly Viet Cong Flag

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thousands of black balloons will be loosed in New York City, war toys will be burned in Cedar Falls, Iowa, and protesters at Denver University say they will fly a Viet Cong flag beside Old Glory.

The largest demonstrations of the Vietnam Mobilization weekend will be in Washington, but hundreds of other protests are being organized in cities and on campuses around the nation.

Supporters of U.S. policy in Vietnam also plan demonstrations.

Seven combat infantry veterans in Lake Charles, La., asked all veterans to join them in a 24-hour vigil at the local courthouse to demonstrate support for American fighting men in Vietnam.

Dr. Kenneth Wells, president of the Freedoms Foundation, said in Valley Forge, Pa., that President Nixon should offer a television defense of his policies featuring Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. troops in Vietnam.

Organizers of Vietnam protests in New York have invited demonstrators to Sheep Meadow in Central Park, to lie in the grass and release more than 39,000 black balloons, one for each American killed in Vietnam. Several thousand white balloons will be released, an estimate of those to die in the next year.

The organizers said they had checked with local airports to make sure the balloons would not interfer with air traffic.

At the University of Northern Iowa in Cedar Falls, protesters said they would build a bonfire and toss war toys upon it.

Some Denver University students said they would lower the American flag to half staff at noon Friday and raise a Viet Cong flag beside it.

Protesters at the University of Minnesota scheduled a draft card turn-in ceremony.

There will be 202 empty seats in the audience at a rally in Buffalo, N.Y. Friday night, one for each of the Vietnam war dead from Erie County.

The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam said in Detroit that it hopes "to close down high schools and collegesa crossth e country to show President Nixon and his staff that a majority of young people in the country ares trongly opposed to U.S. policy in Vietnam."

About 200 seminarians from five Roman Catholic seminaries in the New York area called on the Church hierarchy to take "decisive action" in leading the nation's 48 million Catholics to think about the moral issues of the war.

They scheduled an interfaith "liturgy for peace" at St. Patrick's Cathedral on Fifth Avenue, with the permission of the New York Archdiocese.

Heavy Blow Along DMZ By Reds

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese forces mounted their biggest single ground assault along the demilitarized zone in more than a year, losing 105 troops but killing 22 Americans and wounding 53 others, military spokesmen reported today.

Two American helicopters also were shot down. The American casualties included one helicopter crewman killed and four wounded.

Earlier, the U.S. Command had reported 108 North Vietnamese troops killed and put American casualties at 26 dead and 70 wounded. But a spokesman later revised the casualty figures downward, saying there had been a discrepancy in the reporting system.

The 17-hour battle—fought six miles southwest of the allied outpost at Con Thien and 3½ miles below the demilitarized zone—lasted from Wednesday afternoon until dawn today.

One American company—reportedly outnumbered as much as 3 to 1 when an estimated 500 North Vietnamese soldiers attacked their night bivouaci n the predawn hours today—suffered 17 men killed.

Arms Limitation Talk Site Set

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — The Soviet-American strategic arms limitation talks will open Monday in a Finnish government building in downtown Helsinki, it was announced Wednesday. Succeeding meetings will be held alternately in the Soviet and U.S. embassies.

The banquet house chosen for the opening meeting was once the Russian governor's palace, and after the Bolshevik Revolution became headquarters for Soviet troops in Finland. It is named Smolna Palace.

$1.37 Million Stolen By Gunmen In Holdup

NEW YORK (AP) — "It was a most professional job," said the police official heading the investigation of the $1.37 million Wells Fargo armored car holdup by three gunmen—the second largest cash robbery in U.S. history. "They were very cool."

Wednesday's daring daylight theft of Aqueduct Race Track receipts was nearly foiled by an unidentified housewife who became suspicious when she peered out her window and saw three men not in uniform transferring money bags to a car.

Her call to police brought patrol cars to the scene minutes after the bandit trio had roared off witht he stolen money, leaving the three Wells Fargo guards handcuffed inside their truck.

The cash haul surpassed the $1,219,218 taken in the 1950 Brinks robbery in Boston and in U.S. history is exceeded only by the theft of $1,551,277 from a U.S. mail truck in Plymouth, Mass., on Aug. 12, 1962.

Robbers got $7 million in cash in a train robbery in Britain in August 1963.

Frank Basil, president of the New York Racing Association, said the loss was insured by Aqueduct and Wells Fargo.

The day for the armored truck crew began routinely when they left the track in Queens at 11:33 a.m. and began the drive to the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. at 23 Wall St. in Lower Manhattan.

They were carrying approximately $1.4 million representing receipts from Monday and Tuesday. The Monday receipts had not been deposited because banks were closed Tuesday for Veterans Day.

He'd Die First

DETROIT (AP) — Black militant Robert Williams, after declaring he will not be taken to North Carolina alive, says, "There may be some North Carolina authorities to whom I would surrender myself, but I am not going to surrender to the Ku Klux Klan."

Williams, head of the Republic of New Africa movement, is wanted in North Carolina on kidnap charges.

When told that Michigan Gov William Milliken had honored an extradition request Wednesday, the 44-year-old Williams' initial reaction was:

"They can send my body to North Carolina, but they can"t send me."

But later in his meeting with newsmen Wednesday evening, he made the point that there may be some North Carolina authorities to whom he would surrender himself.

Williams faces a charge of kidnapping a white couple during racial disorders in his hometown of Monroe, N. C., in 1961.

He spent more than eight years of exile in Cuba, China and Tanzania to avoid prosecution.

Farmville Board Votes Retain Chief 'Til Replacement Found

FARMVILLE—Town Commissioners meeting here last night voted to retain Graham Creel as police chief until "a suitable replacement can be hired."

The first motion put on the floor was made by Commissioner Hap Nichola for the acceptance of Creel's resignation. Commissioner Lum Wooten seconded it, but it was voted down 3-2, with Bill Garner, Dr. S. H. Aycock, and Robert Lee Smith against.

Then Garner moved that the board acknowledged Creel's resignation letter rescinding the termination of employment as chief until a suitable replacement can be found and hired. Seconded by Dr. Aycock, the motion carried 3-2 when Smith voted in favor of it.

Dr. Aycock then moved that the present police committee be replaced by the entire board. Seconded by Smith, the motion was concurred on by the board. When the board elected Garner chairman of the police committee, Mayor Will Joyner said he thought it was his prerogative to appoint the chairman. The town attorney, John Lewis, was instructed to call State Attorney General Robert Morgan's office today for a ruling. It was decided that if Morgan's office says the board should pick the chairman, Garner will head the committee, and if it is learned that the mayor should appoint someone to the position, Mayor Pro Tempore Lum Wooten will be chairman.

Held in the municipal courtroom, the meeting was attended by about 40 townspeople.

Literacy Movement In Pitt Offering Tutors

The Literacy Council of Pitt County, conceived to actively help people learn to read or to read better through the Laubach Method, where "one teaches one" has been launched.

Any person interested in learning to read better is asked to call 756-1076 to get instructions for enrollment in the movement.

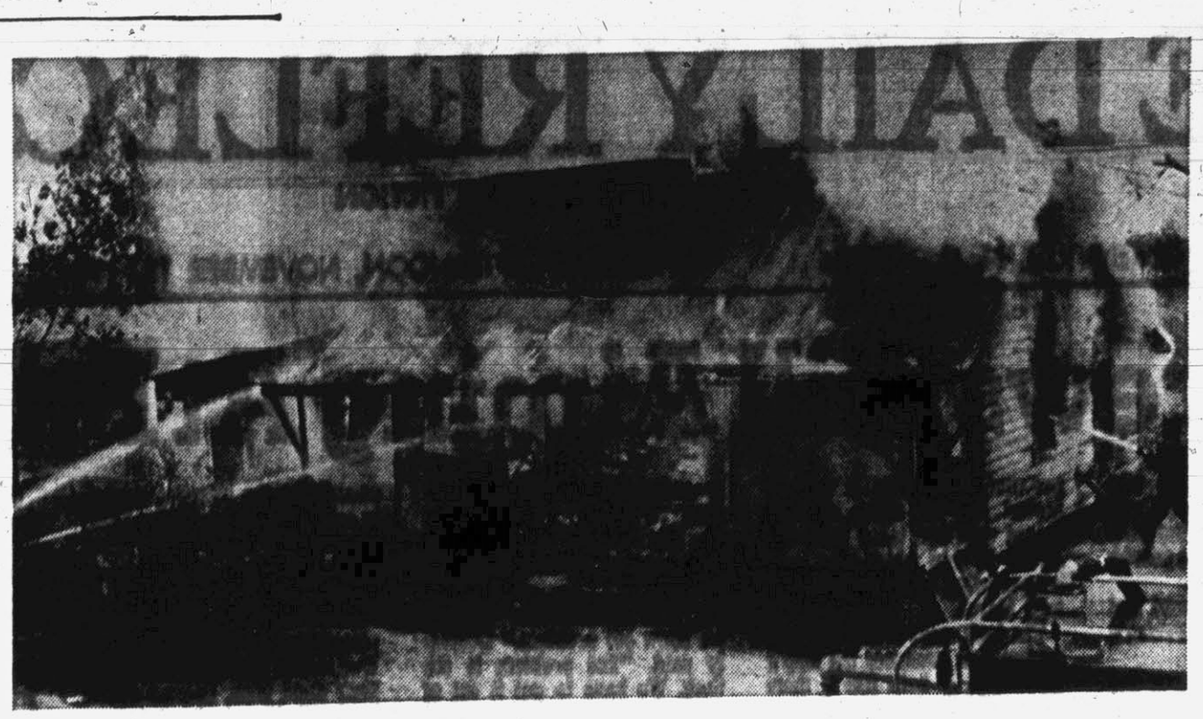
Formed on November 0 in a meeting at First Presbyterian Church, the Council will provide tutors to persons who have need of assistance.

Mrs. Tom Davis was selected as chairman of the council. Other officers are Mrs. John Grier, first vice-chairman in charge of tutor-pupil coordination; Mrs. Carl Moore, second vice-chairman in charge of tutor-training; Mrs. John Hassell, secretary; and Rev. Tom Loftis, treasurer.

The literacy movement is based on the Christian principle of love for one's fellow man. The group is composed of representatives of several major religious denominations and reaches out to all community groups.

Mrs. Eileen K. Terrill of Cary conducted the workshop which certified tutors in the Laubach method. This workshop was held on October 28, 29 and 30 at the First Christian Church.

The Laubach Method was developed by Dr. Frank C. Laubach, a missionary who conceived this plan of "one teaching one" as a method of reaching the Moro headhunters of the Philippines. The method has been expanded to include a large number of languages.



MID-MORNING FIRE — This house at 903 North Railroad St. was severely damaged by a fire this moring, reported to the Greenville Fire Department at 10:03. The destructive blaze was outside the city limits and Staton-House firemen were called to extinguish the fire. Cause of the fire was not immediately known.

Set 'Minimum' $2,400 Income

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential panel has recommended setting the minimum income for poor Americans at $2,400 a year for a family of four—$800 a year more than President Nixon has proposed.

The group, named by former President Lyndon B. Johnson, wound up a 22-month study by sending its report to the White House Wednesday.

The sweeping report, entitled "Poverty Amid Plenty" and prepared by the President's Commission on Income Maintenace Programs, recommends abolition of all other federally financed cash payment programs and gradually increasing the minimum income level to $3,500 a year, a total federal cost of $27 billion.

The initial income program would cost $7 billion a year and provide payments to about 36 million persons, commission Chairman Ben. W. Heineman said. Heineman is president of Northwest Industries.

"The relatively low dollar cost of the program recommended should underscore the fact that these proposals are not designed to solve all the nation's social problems," the report said.

Another Record Soybean Crop Highlights Outlook

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another record soybean crop and the second largest harvest of corn highlight prospects for the nation's farm economy this year.

Based on Nov. 1 conditions, the Agriculture Department expects corn-for-grain production of more than 4.4 billion bushels. This would be 2 per cent greater than last year's crop and 7 per cent below the 1967 harvest.

The higher than previously forecast corn production is based upon expectatians that the yield per acre of 81.2 bushels, will be a record high.

The predicted soybean harvest of just under 1.1 billion bushels would be 1 per cent above last year's and 12 per cent more than the 1967 crop.

The expected high mark for soybeans might be reached despite lower acreage yields on a little more acreage than was harvested last year.

Anticipated increases in the grain harvests contrast with now expected drop in the near final report on the cotton harvest. Current expectations are that the cotton harvest will be down to barely over 10 million bales, which would be smallest in three years.

The production of the four major feedgrains is now expected to total 171 million tons. This is 1 per cent more than was forecast last month and 2 per cent more than the 1968 output.

The prospective harvest of sorghum grain dropped slightly from the months earlier predictions because of reduced yields in the Southwest areas. Barley and oat harvests are seen to be near the 1968 levels.

Oilseed prospects improved 1 per cent during October to a record 39.4 million tons. A 2 per cent increase in soybean output more than offset expected declines in cottonseed and peanuts.

Rice production is now expected to be slightly above prior months forecasts, but 14 per cent below the 1968 record harvest.

Winter wheat prospects are off to a good start, the Agriculture Department reports, because of above normal rainfall from Texas to the Northern Plains and from the Rocky Mountains to the Eastern Corn Belt.

State Board To Have Meet Here

Richard Glisson, president of the Pitt County Chapter of Independent Garage Owners, announced at the group's meeting Tuesday night that the state board meeting of IGO will be held Friday and Saturday at the Holiday Inn here.

East Carolina University President Dr. Leo W. Jenkins will be the keynote speaker for the Saturday night banquet.

The Pitt County Chapter will serve as host for the meeting.

The Port of Rotterdam is a busy one; a ship arrives there every 18 minutes.

Earn Achievement Awards At Meeting

Members of Phi Mu Alpha, national professional music fraternity for men, and the Percussion Ensemble of the East Carolina University School of Music recently attended the regional fraternity convention and received awards for outstanding achievement.

Thirteen brothers of Zeta Psi chapter at ECU and nine Ensemble members, accompanied by three School of Music faculty meembers, Paul Aliapoulios, Harold Jones and Herbert L. Carter, attended the convention at Columbia, S.C.

The fraternity received two awards: the Merit Award for outstanding service programs by a chapter; and a $600 scholarship award. The scholarship provides for $200 per year to be awarded for the next three years to an outstanding music education major. Selection of the scholarship recipient will be made each year by a faculty committee from the School of Music.

Refuse To Admit Their 'Refusal'

CHICAGO (AP) — A psychiatrist on the staff of the Menninger clinic says hippies refuse to face such adult responsibilities as marriage and earning a living, and refuse to admit that refusal, too.

Dr. William S. Simpson observed in a speech in Chicago: "The hippies will say, 'I'm fine —I'm out doing my thing.' But they're getting a couple of hundred bucks a month from their parents."

Confronted with that fact, they reply, 'Oh, that's different," Dr. Simpson said.

The population of Oregon is about two million.

Small Bank Controlled By Curvaceous Figures

By RICHARD W.O'DONNELL

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — So whatever became of equal rights?

Mrs. Patricia J. Ferguson was recently named president of Portsmouth Co-operative In addition, the treasurer, assistant treasurer, teller, loan clerk and bank secretary of the small bank are also female.

That leaves only the bank custodian. He's a male.

"We seldom see him," said Mrs. Ferguson. "He comes in at night after all the others have gone home. When I was named president, he left me a note telling me how happy he was that I got the job."

"My husband, Charles, had been president of the bank," explained Mrs. Ferguson. "It's a small bank, and I helped him run it. Still, I was quite sudprised when the board of directors offered me the job when my husband retired."

Mrs. Ferguson said that, to the best of her knowledge, she is the only female bank president in New England, and possible in the United States.

"Some bank officials down in Boston are checking that out," she elaborated. "As yet, they haven't come across another woman bank president. They're still checking though."

Mds. Ferguson said her husband, a bank official in Malden for 30 years, came to Portsmouth in 1956 to liquidate the cooperative bank. But after checking the books he decided the bank should be kept going and not liquidated.

Sid Mrs. Ferguson: "Charles became the bank's president. At the time, the bank had only about $150,000 in assets. We now have $5 million in assets, and we're still growing."

The new president said that when her husband started out, the bank was "just a desk in an insurance office.

"There wasn't even a phone. The bank's money wasn't insured. Charles changed all of that. One of his first moves was to establish the bank in its own quarters."

Mrs. Ferguson pointed out that it is not unusual to find women in the banking world.

"Check your own bank," she said. "I'll bet you'll find that quite a few tellers are females. Women have been in the banking business for quite a while. It was only a matter of time before a bank completely staffed by females arrived on the scene."

The woman banker said that males are not reluctant to do business with an all-female bank.

"I can only recall one time that we had a complaint," she revealed. "That was years ago. A man came in looking for mortgage money. He flatly refused to be interviewed by a woman. He said he'd only talk to a man. So he didn't get his money."

Mrs. Ferguson said that older males, though friendly, seem surprised when they enter a bank entirely populated by female bankers.

She added: "But the younger men seem to like the idea."

Husband Should Dance With His Wife Regardless

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Rudy works for a large company, and as you know there is a pecking order in all companies. The chairman of the board is apple-polished by the vice presidents, the vice presidents are apple-polished by the department heads, the department heads are apple-polished by the buyers, and so on down the line.

Well, whenever Rudy's company has a party, they have an orchestra and dancing. Rudy is a very good dancer, but I never get to dance with him. He spends the entire evening dancing with his bosses' wives, so the bosses will be free to dance with all the cute young things. Rudy says I am not to complain because this is "legitimate apple - polishing," which is a part of his job.

Now I'm all for Rudy making points with his bosses, but do you think it's fair for him to leave me sitting all evening while he dances with the bosses' wives?

RUDY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Rudy doesn't need polished apples for all the applesauce he's giving you. NO man should dance with another woman unless his own wife is occupied. (A little "henpecking" could have a legitimate place in this pecking order.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 65-year-old woman, never married and just retired. I have taken care of an older ailing sister who died eight weeks ago.

I was so lonesome, I went to a store and bought myself a beautiful large doll I set her in the chair and I sometimes talk to her.

I am worried. Is anything wrong with me? Why did I buy a doll at my age? Should I give it away or just let it set there? Thank you.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: You bought a doll at your age because you wanted one. And there is nothing wrong with that. But you really should get out a little more, see people, and perhaps team up with a companion. Too much solitude can be depressing.

DEAR ABBY: In our office there is a girl who has been "single" ever since the death of her husband two years ago. The boss lost his wife about a year ago, and these two have been very chummy ever since. They've even taken out-of-town trips together just like married folks, and have recently announced (to the surprise of no one) that they are "engaged" to be married!

A large wedding is planned and I have heard that all of us in the office will be invited. How can I tactfully turn down this wedding invitation? I don't care to attend the wedding of people who have lived in sin for a whole year.

INDIGNANT

DEAR INDIGNANT: Simply decline. You are not expected to explain why. P.S. You could be wrong about this "sin" charge, you know. Are you "indignant" enough to quit working for this "sinner?" If not, why not?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOST FAITH" IN CHICAGO: Perhaps a lesson in "faith" can be best illustrated in this way:

A mother had just received word that her only son, a bright, handsome man of 22, had been killed in Viet Nam. Her pastor tried vainly to console her in her grief.

"Where was your God when my only son was killed?" she cried. "The same place He was when HIS only son was killed," the pastor quietly replied.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

St. James WSCS To Sponsor A Holiday Bazaar

A holiday bazaar is being planned by the Women's Society of Christian Service of St. James United Methodist Church.

The event will be held on Friday, Nov. 21, from 3-10 p. m. at the church. Dinner will be served from 5-7 p. m. and will be $1.50 per plate.

Mrs. Gayle Sanderson asd Mrs. Betty Gardner are heading the bazaar as overall chairmen. Mrs. Shirley Taylor is chairman of the dinner committee.

Mrs. Freda Steinbeck, president of the WSCS, has been working with the groups.

Featured booths at the event will be a snack shop, Christmas decorations, baked goods corner and white elephant shop.

Proceeds from the bazaar will be earmarked for various projects supported by the WSCS. Operation Sunshine, church building fund, home and foreign missions were supported by the group last year.

A nursery will be available for a small fee.

Rural Responsibility Remembered

As Greenville Utilities strains to provide electrical service to the ever growing municipal area, it is easy to forget that the commission serves a considerable rural area where electrical consumption is also growing.

Thus the Utilities now has consultants at work studying its rural system so that a determination can be made as to where lines need to be strengthened or additional equipment is needed.

Electrical consumption is always a good measure of progress for a city. Likewise it is also a barometer of the economic health of a rural area. So it is good to know that electricity is being consumed on Pitt County farms to the point where Greenville Utilities lines are being outgrown.

The fact that farm families are using electricity on a greater scale for farm operations and in their homes is an indication that a good life can still be had on the farm. And in view of all the problems that face the farming family today this is a good sign, indeed.

Greenville Utilities is proceeding properly in making a study of its rural system. It should take whatever steps are necessary to provide the facilities that are needed to see that adequate electrical service is always available to the farmer. Electricity has become an essential part of life on the farm and, as time goes on, it will perform even more of the work that goes into operating a farm.

Nice To See Someone Support The Govm't

It is refreshing to see that three ECU students have organized a "Rally for America" which was held on the campus mall today.

The students reserved the mall and arranged to have a series of speakers including Dr. Leo Jenkins and Mayor Frank M. Wooten.

As one of the young men said, it is not a protest or demonstration. "We just feel that this is some way that we can show our support for our country."

This was one of many such rallies which were held around the nation on Veterans Day and through the week. We are glad to see some display of patriotism being shown around the country and particularly here in Greenville.

This does not mean that those who participate in such rallies are pro-war, as opposed to the anti-war rallies. It merely means that they believe in their country and want to show their support. Almost everyone is basically opposed to war and virtually the entire country would like to see the Vietnam war ended. The difference of opinion comes as to how to end the war.

Supporting the national policies of strategically withdrawing from Vietnam is the way great numbers of Americans are reacting. We are glad to see some support for our government and our system for a change.

Many Will Miss Justice Parker

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — R. Hunt Parker will be missed. Very much. And by many.

He has gone back to the soil of his beloved Halifax County, to a grave in Entield, the town where he was born. It is unlikely that the Supreme Court of North Carolina will be quite the same again.

In a relatively brief time, only a few years, Hunt Parker became perhaps the best known chief justics in the high court's history. And during this period he helped shape and mold an entirely new system of uniform courts across the state.

He was one of the architects. . .one of the leading movers of the district court system and a strong supporter for establishing the Court of Appeals.

WILLIAM SHIRES

And all this was accomplished while he was chief justice. He was very proud and often remarked that the ends of justice would be better served.

Loved — Hunt Parker was a familiar figure in Raleigh. A tall, handsome and distinguished figure. In court and in his private life he adhered to rigid rules of decorum and discipline.

Some have written that he was eamrod straight. Of course he was.

The story is told — and it is true —t hat one day in Superior Court a defendent brandisheda pistol and fired a shot which hit the wall. Judge Parker was presiding. Everyone else cringed and began scrambling for safety.

Judge Parker stood, clamly and unruffled, and issued an order to the bailiff. "Disarm that man." The man was disarmed and order was restored.

He insisted upon disnity and order. He felt that if the people had entrusted him a position of a judgship he would honor it. But beneath it he had a very human and warm heart. And a billiant mind.

Scholar — Hunt Parker read avidly. Near the end he confided to his nurse, "If I cannot read, I do not want to go on." He was an authority on a great deal of history, especially Napoleon and Bonaparte's wars. He knew Dickens works completely.

His hotel apartment in Raleigh was stacked and piled with books which he treasured and cherished.

A few weeks before his death, when it was apparent that his health was failing, he told friends, "I am reading again. My eyesight is coming back as good as ever."

Perhaps only the most intimate of his friends knew that beneath the exterior, his character included a great deal of warmth and humor. He would tell a story and his eyes would twinkle and he would laugh.

Career — There is an entirely separate story about his election to the State Supreme Court. It was in 1952, and developed into one of the closest elections in the state's history. His opponent was the now senior associate justice and very close friend, William H. Bobbitt, of Charlotte.

For a time that night it appeared that Bobbitt had won. Parker refused to accept those returns nor concede until all votes were counted. The counting went on. Finally, in mid-morning of the next day the tally showed that Parker has pulled in front. After nearly 20 years as a Superior Court Judge he went to the Supreme Court. Gov. Dan Moore appointed him chief justice in 1966. He was elected for an eight year term the same year.

During this time the high court was busy. On pretty days, Judge Parker would walk from his hotel to the chambers in the Justice Building. "We have hte heaviest load of any appelate court in the nation," he would say. "But we also have the hardest working justices. I am very proud of all of them."

Liberals To Be Foot Soldiers

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The tens of thousands of well-meaning war protestors set to converge on Washington Saturday will be joining a demonstration planned since summer by advocates of violent revolution in the U.S. who openly support Communist forces in Vietnam.

Accordingly, whatever happens here Saturday, the Nov. 15 march on Washington will mark a postwar high-water mark for the American far left. Responsible liberals have been enlisted as foot soldiers in an operation mapped out mainly by extremists — testimony to the present ineffectiveness of non-violent, liberal elements iin the peace movement.

Moreover, heavy-handed Nixon administration reaction by Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst assures that any violence on Saturday will be blamed by liberals on the government and the avoidance of violence will be credited by these same liberals to the self-restraint of the far left.

Although liberals belatedly spent this week in frantic eleventh-hour efforts to coopt Saturday's march, they had plenty of advance warning. The New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (New Mobe), sponsors of the march, was formed last July in Cleveland with an executive committee dominated by supporters of the Vietcong.

The executive committee is moderate when compared with the 60-member steering committee, studded with past and present Communist Party members (including veteran party functionary Arnold Jornson). Far more important than representation by the largely moribund American Communist Party, however, is inclusion on the steering committee of leaders in its newly invigorated Trotskyite movement.

The steering committee began eclipsing the executive committee in recent weeks under the leadership of the Trotskyite Socialist Wrokers Party and its fast-growing youth arm, the Young Socialist Alliance. Fred Halstead of the Socialist Workers Party took over planning for a march calculated to end in violent confrontation.

Participating in planning sessions were elements even more violence-prone than the Trotskyites: extreme SDS factions calling themselves the Revolutionary Brigade. Wild scenarios for storming the White House, the Justice Department, and the South Vietnamese Embassy were prepared.

Furthermore, the New Mobe was in closer contact with Communist Vietnamese official circles than is generally realized. Ron Young, a member of the New Mobe steering committee, journeyed to Stockholm Oct. 11-12 for a meeting attended by representatives of the North Vietnam government and the Vietcong. Reporting on plans for Nov. 15, Young urged a worldwide propaganda campaign to boost the demonstration.

The link between Hanoi and elements of the New Mobe was again demonstrated Oct. 14 wren Prime Minster Pham Van Dong of North Vietnam sent greetings to American anti-war demonstrators. Halstead, the Trotskyite leader, drafted a friendly reply to Hanoi approved by a majority of the New Mobe's steering committee. Its transmission was blocked only by the intervention of Stewart Meachem of the American Friends Service Committee, one of the

UN's Double Standard

It was Veterans Day in the United States, but it was also Independence Day in Rhodesia, marking the fourth anniversary of Rhodesia's historic separation from the Crown.

The act of Nov. 11, 1965, was historic for two reasons: It marked the first time a British outpost had declared its unilateral independence since another small country, better known to us all, proclaimed the same intention on July 4, 1776. Second, Rhodesia's action produced within the United Nations the worst blunder in the UN's brief history—a blunder that may yet prove fatal.

The UN was in trouble long before the Rhodesian incident came along. It was not blatant hypocrisy, perhaps, but it surely was transparent deception to seat the exiled delegation from Formosa in the Charter seat assigned to "China." The seat should have been declared vacant, and the representatives of Chiang Kai-shek given chairs in the visitors' lounge.

The "China" seat has been so much make - believe. The punitive sanctions imposed upon Rhodesia have proved a far greater folly. As Dean Acheson has remarked, the sanctions constitute a flagrant violation of the UN's own Charter. More than this, the sanctions stand as a continuing monument to the emptiness, the impotence, and the massive hypocrisy of the United Nations as an instrument of international order.

Manifesty, the sanctions have failed in their purpose, which was to bring Rhodesia to its knees. The sanctions have had precisely the opposite effect: Rhodesia survives; it flourishes; its economy is strong and growing stronger. And instead of whipping Rhodesia back to the arms of Mother England, these toothless mandates have succeeded merely in obliterating any prospect of reunion.

It is the purblind hypocrisy —the imposition on Rhodesia of a naked double standard— that reduces the UN to imbecility and contempt. Why were these drastic sanctions imposed? It was because the established government of Rhodesia, in the view of the General Assembly, had failed to provide for majority rule and for participatory democracy by all the Rhodesian

Stand Up, Be Counted

(Henderson Dispatch)

Veterans sponsored meetings and rallies in many parts of the country Tuesday in support of President Nixon's plans for ending the Vietnam war. Those who are clamoring for immediate total pullout will demonstrate toward the end of the week. In between, but also included in efforts of veterans, is that great silent element of American citizens who are hoping for peace but who are opposed to any outright surrender to the communists.

Precipitate withdrawal and capitulation is what the communists are waiting for. They are counting on the rowdies and dissidents to reach sufficient strength and effectiveness to force the hand of the administration. That explains the adamant attitude at the Paris conference and the hardshell position of the Hanoi government, aided and abetted by Soviet Russia and Red China. Those who favor abject surrender are not loyal Americans and are playing directly into the hands of this country's enemies. Whether that is or is not their objective, the effect on the communists is the same.

As the old typist jargon runs, now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country. It is the time for real Americans to stand up and be counted. Their silence will be interpreted as consent. We need more of the Spirit of '76 in America at this time. The country is in danger; make no mistake about that. And the results of current movements could be tragic and disastrous if carried to their logical conclusion.

It is encouraging that there are those who are spearheading an effort to stiffen the will of citizens generally in resistance to disastrous practices. President Nixon is bullheaded enough not to yield to those he is convinced are in the wrong. The least the rest of us can do is to support his sincere efforts to pull the nation out of its present predicament and to let the dissenters know there is overwhelming sentiment for the safety and security of America in the present crisis. The enemy will definitely not be convinced by the tactics of irresponsible, even if not disloyal, elements if they can be stopped.

Became Breed Apart

By GEORGE W. HACKETT

FT. KNOX, Ky. (AP) — They were there, like millions of other Africans, but they gave a little more to win the nation's highest award for bravery.

Some paid for the Medal of Honor with their lives. The survivors became a breed apart from other men.

"The medal is harder to wear than it is to earn," says Lt. Charles Hagemeister of Ft. Knox. "Any GI exposed to combat is a likely candidate for the citation. If he obtains it, people expect more from him. They unconsciously set up standards which he must meet."

Hagemeister and Capt. James A. Taylor, also stationed at Knox, were honored for heroism in Vietnam.

M. Sgt. Ernest Kouma, the post game warden, came out of the Korean War with the same decoration.

These three career soldiers, only Medal of Honor winners stationed at this sprawling Army base, speak matter-of-factly of their deeds.

"When you see your buddies in trouble, you don't pause to weigh the consequences," said Hagemeister. "You just wade right in.

He did just that on March 20, 1967, when his unit came under heavy fire from three sides by a Viet Cong force.

Hagemeister, a medic, saw two of his comrades drop usder the barrage and rushed forward ti provide aid. He then assisted three other men and became a sniper's target.

Seizing a rifle, Hagemeister killed the sniper and silenced a machine-gun emplacement that was harassing the platoon.

Despite the enemy's attempts to stop him, Hagemeister successfully evacuated the wounded.

After completing his tour of duty, he was commissioned a second lieutenant and chose the Armor School at Knox.

He feels it is right for America to be involved in Southeast Asia and that there's nothing wrong with military life. "I wouldn't change places with anyone," says the 23-year-old bachelor from Lincoln, Neb.

Neither would Capt. Taylor.

During a nine-hour skirmish on Nov. 9, 1967, Taylor rescued crew members of four assault vehicles that were hit, was wounded himself, and eliminated an enemy position.

Taylor recalls that 46 of the approximately 100 men in his troop were wounded and one was killed before the North Vietnamese broke off the engagement, leaving behind 400 to 500 dead.

The 31-year-old hero has no qualms about returning to Vietnam. "This is my business and when I'm over there, I'm doing my job."

A native of Arcata, Calif., he expects to become a schoolteacher when he retires from the Army six years from now.

Retirement is approximately one year away for Sgt. Kouma, who keeps poachers from infiltrating the Knox game preserve. He rarely speaks of the nine hours of combat that entitled him to the Medal of Honor.

He was a tank commander near Agok, Korea, when an infantry outfit was mauled by 500 North Koreans.

The Americans were told to withdraw and Kouma was ordered to remain behind to delay the enemy as much as possible.

After his tank was surrounded, he manned the turret gun

TELLING THE TRUTH

Oh, no, you say, but a white lie is just a little twisting of the truth that somehow will make life more convienient for me.

What nonsense. A lie is a lie, and no funny business about it. The contemporaries of Jesus used to punctuate almost every declaration with the vow that what they were saying was true. They swore by their heads, by the temple, by other scared objects Jesus was apparnetly disgusted with this habit. "Do not swear by heaven," he said. "For it is God's throne nor by the earth, for it is his footstool. Nor by Jerusalem, for it is the city of the great king. Swear not by your head, because you cannot make one hair white or black but let your communication be Yea, yea; Nay, nay, for whatsoever is more than these cometh of evil."

"It's true; it's true. I swear it." No wonder people shrug their shoulders and walk away from guys or girls who talk that way. The judicial oath is a serious thing and has its place in court procedure, but the disposition to swear to everyting is both ridiculous and disgusting.

Most so-called "white lies" are told by people who have big mouths and very little conscience-or in fact, very little common sense.

"His word is as good as his bond." How do you like that? Lies of any kind are evil, disgusting and filled with a lot of danger.

Also See Coming Housing Boom

By ELMER ROESSNER

The National Industrial Conference Board joins those who who foresee a coming boom in housing.

"There has been relatively little growth in the demand for homes through most of the sixties, but this situation is likely to change in the decade ahead," writes Fabian Linden head of the department of consumer economics of the nonprofit organization, in the Congerence Board Record.

The nation's households will be increasing at a faster rate, particularly young households, he pointed out. Analyzing Department of Commerce and Conference Board data, he projects the purchases by age groups:

Households heads under 25: This group, because of the postwar baby boom, is expected to grow substantially faster than the average rate. About 8 per cent of this group buy homes in the course of a year, compared with the all-family ratio of 6 per cent. In recent years the under-25 rate has risen to 10 per cent.

The Big Buyers

Household heads 25 to 34: A high proportion of families buy homes at this age and they buy more homes than do younger buyers. About 10 per cent of the 25-34 age group has been buying homes in recent years. Although this group accounts for less than 20 per cent of the population, it has been buying 35 per cent of the homes sold. This population group is increasing in number and by 1980 is expected to buy about 45 per cent of all homes sold.

Household heads 35 to 44: About three out of every five families have bought a home by the time the head of the household is 35, so the group buys fewer homes, less than 6 per cent in recent years. This age group will increase at a slowerate in the next decade.

Household heads 45 to 54: Incidence of home-buying drops sharply in this age group. Many families contract in size as youngsters leave home for college or marriage. Home buying drops to 4 per cent a year, with less interest in new homes.

Further Declines

Household heads 55 to 64: Home buying declines further to about 3 per cent in this group. However, about 8 per cent of the total housing demand in 1980 will come from this age group.

Household heads over 65: The incidence of purchase drops to 2 per cent here, and less than a fourth of the units purchased are new.

In the aggregate, Lindon calculates, the buyers of homes will grow younger in the next 10 years. Because the income of the younger groups will rise proportionately faster, the importance of young families will grow even faster than than the statistics suggest, the economists said. He concluded:

"In recent years slightly over 45 per cent of all homes bought were purchased by households whose heads were under 35. By 1980 that group will account for an estimated 57 per cent of aggregate demand. The importance of the 35-54 age category, meanwhile will decline from 41 per cent to the 33 per cent. Finally those 55 and over, who now purchase about 16 per cent of all homes sold, will account for a projected 14 per cent by the end of the decade."

These figures are significant not only to home builders and real estate men, but to bankers and those selling furniture, appliance and all the other things making for comfortable living.

GOVERNOR ACCEPTS AWARD — Governor Robert W. Scott accepts from Carl V. Venters Jr., WFAG, Farmville (third from right), the Communications Citation of the North Carolina Association of Broadcasters. Poor People's Hearing Slated

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C. (AP) —A public hearing for poor people from 15 eastern North Carolina counties will be held Saturday by federal officials from Washington.

Samuel Jackson, assistant secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, heads the Washington delegation which will obtain first hand information on problems of the poor.

The hearing is scheduled for 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Mount Zion Baptist Church at Rocky Mount.

Participants in panel discussions will include Nathan Garrett of Durham, director of the Foundation for Community Development, and Dr. Reginald Hawkins of Charlotte, a Democratic candidate for the gubernatorial nomination last year.

people. The notion that Rhodesia's independence constituted a threat to the peace was pure fiction. Rhodesia had failed to provide a system based upon one man, one vote; and Rhodesia, therefore, must be ostracized and her economy destroyed.

It is useful to glance at the news from Africa in recent weeks.

President Shermake of Somalia was assassinated on October 15. A military junta seized power the following day. All civil liberties, including a right to vote, have been suspended. What will the UN say of democracy in Somalia? Not a word; not a single word.

On October 19, the government of Burundi uncovered a "plot" and jailed 30 putative leaders of the opposition. Here too, participatory democracy is a fiction. Will the N reproach Burundi? Men will walk on Mars before that day arrives.

On October 26, the government of Tanzania jailed six prominent politicians under the same kind of "preventive detention" that is so denounced in South Africa and Rhodesia. Tanzania has not even a pretense of majority rule. But the UN will remain as silent as the desert sands.

On October 27, Jomo Kenyatta jailed his only major political opponent, along with all opposition members of his parliament, and outlawed the Kenya Peoples Union. Democracy is a dead letter in Kenya. But you will not learn this from the United Nations.

The same picture obtains in Uganda. It obtains in Zambia. It obtains in Ethiopia. One-party rule is the almost universal practice of Africa. Participatory democracy, under the rubric of one man, one vote, is unknown. The only difference, when it comes to imposing sanctions and discovering threats to the peace, is that the ruling minority in Rhodesia is white; and the ruling minorities elsewhere are black. And so long as the United Nations adheres to this indefensible and hypocritical position, the UN is doomed.

New Mobe's moderates.

Thus far-left orientation of the New Mobe for weeks has worried liberal doves including the youthful leaders of tre peaceful Oct. 15 Moratorium. Sen. Charles Goodell of New York, emerging as a leading Congressional foe of the war, attempted — without success — to reduce extremist influence inside the New Mobe and argued against including far leftist on the steering committee.

But the liberals,h aving forgotten the fate of popular front movements a generation ago and unwilling to repudiate any anti-war forces, would not actually break with the New Mobe.

until its ammunition was exhausted then jumped to the ground and continued the attack with his pistol and three grenades.

The citation issued later to the native of Omaha, Neb., credited him with killing 250 members of the attacking force.

Lawyer Walked Out, Is Jailed

CHICAGO (AP) — Jerry Rubin, one of the defendants in the Chicago riot conspiracy trial, has been jailed for walking out of court while the case was in progress.

Judge Julius J. Hoffman revoked the 30-year-old New Yorker's bail when his absence was noted Wednesday. Rubin surrendered to U.S. marshals later and was placed in the Cook County jail pending an appearance before the judge today.

One of Rubin's lawyers, William M. Kunstler, said he had left court early to catch a plane and meet a speaking engagement at Rutgers University in New Brunswick, N.J.

Rubin did not appear at Rutgers and said later he never left town. He added that he had not intended to show disrespect for the court.

Abbie Hoffman, another defendant in the trial, delivered the Rutgers speech. He had remained in court until Wednesday's session ended.

Rubin and six fellow defendants had been free on bail during the trial of charges that they conspired to incite riots during the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

An eighth defendant, Bobby G. Seale, chairman of the Black Panther party, has been ordered to stand trial separately.

Judge hoffman made this decision after sentencing Seale to four years in prison for contempt of court.

GroupWillStage 'Fish-In', Block Oil-Drilling Try

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A citizens group says it will stage a "fish-in" to block erection of the first drilling platform off their shores since an oil well blew out in the Pacific and blackened their beaches last January.

The protest is being organized by a committee of 750 citizens under the banner of Get Oil Out (GOO).

"We'll have at least 30 to 40 boats and maybe a hundred or a couple hundred" said Marvin Stuart, director of the committee. "We'll have everything that can get out there and drop a fish hook."

Stuart said the boats would congregate on the spot where the Sun Oil Co. plans to set up an eight-legged, 200-foot high steel drilling platform called "Hillhouse" in the Santa Barbara Channel, where there already are 12 platforms.

"We'll impede their progress in towing the platform to the utmost," Stuart said. "They're going to have to drive us off the site to get the platform in."

Sun says it plans to tow the platform within the next few days to a spot one-half mile east of a similar platform operated by Union Oil Co., where the blow-out occurred Jan. 28.

Oil from the Union well blackened 800 square miles of ocean, spilled onto 40 miles of beach and killed hundreds of sea birds.

Members of GOO, joined by the city and county, won a court order Monday placing a temporary ban on new exploratory wells and platforms.

But the ban didn't affect "Hillhouse," approved by the Army Corps of Engineers before the court order was issued.

"Hillhouse" was built in Oakland and is on a barge there ready for towing to the channel.

Stuart conceded that the fish-in can cause only a temporary delay.

"I'm sure the Coast Guard can order our boats out," he said. "But the fact that we'll be there and they'll have to order us out one at a time will create enough disturbance at sea to get the message across that we simply don't want that platform out there."

New Chance For Senator's Son

HONOLULU (AP) — Hiram L. Fong Jr., son of Hawaii's senior U.S. senator, will get another chance at a seat in the state House of Representatives in a new election ordered by Hawaii's Supreme Court.

The court Tuesday overturned a Circuit Court decision that gave the disputed 1968 general election to Democrat Clarence Akizaki by throwing out 175 absentee ballots.

POTTERY FOR CHARITY

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Carmelite nuns here have begun work in ceramics. They received training during the summer, acquired an oven and have already sold some of their work to raise money for St. Agatha monastery where they are cloistered.

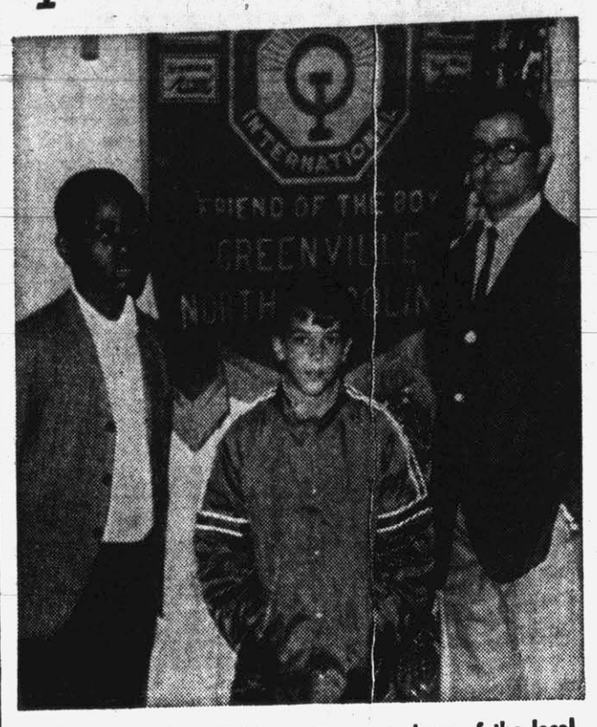
Two Boys Speak At Optimists' Meeting



REPRESENT BOYS CLUB . . . Two members of the local club, Jeffrey Hagan (L) and Mac Stokes were honored recently by Greenville Optimist. Shown with them is Boys Club director, Dick Ullom.

Dick Ullom, executive director of the Boys Club of Greenville, and two members of the club, Mac Stokes and Jeffrey Hagan, were the guest of the Optimist Club on Monday night.

The Boys Club representatives were visiting the Optimists in recognition of Youth Appreciation Week, being observed Nov. 10-16. The annual observance is sponsored by Optimist Clubs throughout North Carolina.

Both Jeffrey and Mac are original members of the Boys Club, started last year in Greenville. Jeffrey was honored this summer when he was voted outstanding boy for the summer at the club.

Mac is a fifth grade student at Agnes Fullilove School and Jeffrey is a seventh grader at Aycock Junior High. Each boy spoke to the club and told what their membership in the Boys Club means to them.

Optimist Club president Max Stephenson said of the occasion, "These boys are just two of the fine examples of the youth in the Boys Club of Greenville. Through the exceptional leadership of men like Dick Ullom and the help of Optimist Clubs all over the nation, boys like these will grow to be the men and leader of tomorrow."

Convicted Of 2 Draft Violations

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Christian Winslow Hayden, 21-year-old son of actor Sterling Hayden, has been convicted by a federal jury on two counts of violating the draft laws.

The guilty verdict came Wednesday at young Hayden's second trial on charges of failing to report for a physical examination March 6 and failing to report for induction May 6. A mistrial was declared Nov. 4 when a juror said she had not agreed to the guilty verdict.

Judge Manuel Real set sentencing for Dec. 15. Each count carries a maximum of five years in prison and a $10,000

Dr. Dowdy New Ass'n Chairman

SUN LAMP FOR HAIR

MONTREAL (CP) — Experts say a daily two-minute session under an ultra-violet lamp will give new life to limp hair which has been abused with constant coloring, setting, teasing and spraying. Five or 10 minutes or direct sunlight on the head and scalp each day is also a good conditioner.

Permit Bottlers Use Saccharine

RALEIGH (AP) — Soft drink bottlers in North Carolina will be allowed to use a mixture of sugar and saccharine in diet drinks.

The Board of Agriculture decided Wednesday to amend a regulation prohibiting such a mixture. The change is effective immediately, subject to establishment of permanent federal regulations.

Bottlers sought permission to use the mixture after the federal government bonned the cyclamates.

The amendment permits the use of sugar and nonnutritive sweetners in diet drinks so long as the calorie count does not exceed six and one-half calories per fluid ounce.

The Board of Agriculture action came after the Board of Health withdrew a recommendation that the calorie count for dietary drinks be no more than five per ounce.

Spokesmen for the bottling industry told the agriculture board they faced an emergency situation because of the federal government's ban on cyclamates as sweetners, effective in January. The government reported that cancer had developed in rats which were fed massive doses of cyclamates.

Stop-Smoking Clinics Planned

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Tony Curtis says the American Cancer Society will set up free stop-smoking clinics throughout the country.

Curtis is president of the society's IQ (I Quit) Club.

The clincs would be manned by volunteers and a physician, concentrating on group therapy sesions, a spokesman for the Los Angeles County ACS chapter said Wednesday.

Curtis' father died of lung cancer.

Campus 'Militants' Stage Repeated Clashes

By JOSH MILLS
Associated Press Writer

Some Fordham University students wielded lead pipes to turn back unarmed campus guards, then ended a sit-in Wednesday night before New York City police arrived. Fourteen guards were injured, police said.

Elsewhere, protesters flew the Viet Cong flag at the Milwaukee campus of the University of Wisconsin and a group of Princeton University students tried unsuccessfully to blockade a building.

At Fordham, about 75 students seized administrative offices in mid afternoon to protest the school's Reserve Officer Training Corps program. About half left, but 36 vowed to stay all night.

Unarmed campus police tried to break through barricades of broken furniture and overturned file cabinets. Some of the students hit them with lead pipes and threw hot water.

After the guards retreated and city police were asked to help, the protesters broke two windows and scattered across the campus. Six were arrested.

The 14 injured guards were taken to several Bronx hospitals. Police said two of the injuries were serious.

A university spokesman estimated the damage at "thousands and thousands of dollars." He said students did not try to break into the files.

Fordham has 12,000 students, 5,000 of them undergraduates.

Last month, a referendum on the ROTC program found 53 per cent of the students participating favored continuation of its current voluntary status.

At the Milwaukee campus of the University of Wisconsin, several dozen persons behind a Viet Cong flag tried to take over the ROTC office. Nine of them — one a professor — got inside before 15 ROTC cadets barricaded the door.

The nine were arrested by Milwaukee police. Seven of them, including an associate history professor, James D. Cockcroft, and three nonstudents, were charged with misconduct in a public place. The other two were charged with hitting and kicking a campus guard.

At Princeton University in New Jersey, about 100 undergraduates, some of them members of Students for a Democratic Society, failed in a blockade of the Institute for Defense Analyses. No violence was reported.

The protesters left the IDA, which does research for the Pentagon, and went to President Robert F. Goheen's office, where they heckled and cursed him when he said, "This university has a contract with IDA and we will honor it."

Princeton has about 5,000 students and there are about 14,000 students at the Milwaukee campus of the University of Wisconsin.

DDT Residue Wtih Us A Decade After Use Banned

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Residue from DDT will still show up in the food Americans eat for at least a decade after the pesticide is banned, the government says.

Even if DDT were outlawed tomorrow, "it would take 10 years or longer" to cleanse the nation of effects already caused by the insect killer, Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch said Wednesday.

Finch made the statement in announcing the banning of DDT within two years for all but essential uses.

The recommendation for phasing-out DDT, one of the most common modern pesticides, was made in a report to HEW by a commission headed by Dr. Emil M. Mrak, former chancellor of the University of California at Davis.

DDT—dichloro-diphenyl-trichloro-ethane—was first put to extensive use 30 years ago by the Swiss to kill insects infecting potatoes. It's use quickly spread and DDT became popular during World War II to protect GI's against insect-borne disease. After the war it became the most popular weapon against insects that infested crops.

While the DDT recommendation was a highlight of the 44-page report, the commission also laid out far-ranging guidelines for improved regulations of other pesticides.

The commission cautioned, however, against going overboard on setting tighter tolerances for pesticide residues now permitted in food, particularly to require them to be completely free of any traces.

The commission cited an amendment to Food and Drug regulations—caled the Delaney Clause—which requires the removal from interstate commerce of any food which contains a food additive capable of causing cancer in laboratory animals.

"If the Delaney amendment, as it is now written, were to be strictly enforced for pesticide residues it would convert us to a nation of vegetarians," Finch said.

"Much of our red meat, many dairy products, some eggs, fowl and fish—all parts of basic food groups deemed necessary to a balanced diet—would be outlawed because of very small pesticide residues from the ecological chain."

WEATHER WHYS

LAINDON, England (CP) — The Goddern family always checks the weather forecast before it goes to bed to see which room it should use. One bedroom in their two-year-old home leaks when it rains and workmen can't find out where the water gets through the flat roof.

Bicyclist Hurt In Mishap Here

One bicycle rider was injured and more than $600 damage was reported in two collisions investigated here yesterday.

Police reported Susan Anne Carter, 21, of Winston-Salem, was injured when the bicycle she was riding collided with a car at the intersection of Fourth and Jarvis Streets about 6:41 p.m.

Driver of the car involved in the mishap was listed as William Morton Johnston, 24, of 200 Arlington Dr. Damage was set at $25 to his car.

No charges were placed.

An estimated $300 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in a 3:15 p.m. mishap on Third Street 100 feet west of Roundtree Drive.

Investigators reported a car driven by David Allen Blake Jr., 17, of 1308 Railroad St. struck a parked car owned by Douglas Bryan McLuve of 1806 West Third St.

Blake was charged with failing to se his intended movement could be made in safety.

Needlework On Display Friday

A wide variety of needlework will be on display at the American Legion Hall Friday from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

The display is the climax of a week long "Needlecraft Festival" which has been sponsord jointly by Pitt Mechnical Institute, Greenville Recreation Department and the Pitt County Home Economics Extension Department.

No charge will be made for participation in the Friday display. Needlework may be entered for display as late as Friday morning.

Pirate Freshmen Play Host To The Citadel

East Carolina University's once-beaten freshmen close out their season Friday afternoon, playing host to The Citadel's Bullpups.

The game will be played in Ficklen Stadium, starting at 2 p.m.

Coach Bill Cain will be looking for a victory in the game for his Baby Bucs, the fourth in five starts. The Citadel will be trying to even up its won-lost records with a win. The Bullpups stand 1-2-1 for the season.

The Citadel lost to Duke and then to South Carolina in a hard fought affair. They beat Gordon Military Academy, and battled to a tie with Furman. They have been off for the past two weeks, preparing for East Carolina.

The Pirates, meanwhile, lost their opener to N.C. State in a close game then beat Stanton Military Academy, Chowan and Richmond.

"They have a larger team than they did last year, physically," Cain said of The Citadel. "They recruited some outstanding backs from South Carolina."

Cain said that the Bullpups had been able to move the ball effectively, using The Citadel's "Veer" offense, patterned on the Houston Option Play. "We have to try and stop their drive and option off this," Cain said, "and force them into a passing situation."

Cain said that the Baby Bucs have some minor injuries and illness which might cause some problems, but he hopes most of the team will be ready to go. "The only one who really appears out of the game is wingback Ronnie Miller. We will miss him, since he is a fine blocker."

One person The Citadel probably wishes were out of action is the fine running tailback of the Baby Bucs, Mark Hamilton. Hamilton rushed for 306 yards against Richmond last week, and passed for an additional 44 for a total of 350 yards. He has a total of 525 yards rushing for the season, and is within easy reach of Neil Hughes' freshman rushing mark of 600 yards.

The Bucs also get fine rushing from Bert Showfety and Leslie Strayhorn, their two fine fullbacks. Showfety scored two touchdowns and rushed for 5[illegible] yards against Richmond, while Strayhorn picked up 73 yards.

The probable starting lineup for the Baby Bucs on offense has Brent Isley and Sam Stevens at ends, Russ Chandler and Chris Nichols at tackles, Chris Gallahan and Bob Johnson at guards, Jim Creech at center, Rick Page at blocking back, either Strayhorn or Showfety at fulback, Hamilton at tailback and Fred Benevento at wingback.

The defensive lineup will have Bebo Batts and Ronnie Douhit at ends, Johnson and Ronnie Reynolds at tackles, Gary Hamilton at middle guard, Bill Croisetiere and Robert Schulze at linebackers, Lue Vaughn at rover, Dick Paddock and Floyd Soeder at halfbacks and Ron Konrady at safety.

Ends Taking Aim At Scoring Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's the backs who usually get the pointmaking headlines, but it's a pair of pass-catching ends who are locked in a battle for 1969 scoring honors in Southern Conference football circles.

Davidson end George Hannen and Richmond's All - Southern end, Walker Gillette, have pulled away in the past couple of weeks from The Citadel quarterback Tony Passander and Davidson kicking specialist Ed Terry.

Honnen has scored four touchdowns in his last two games and now has 6 points on 10 touchdowns and a two-point conversion. Gillette has been on the receiving end of five scoring passes in Richmond's last two encounters and has 54 points—all on nine touchdowns.

Right behind and still in contention are Passander and Terry with 50 points each. Passander has eight touchdowns and a two-point conversion, Terry 38 one-point conversion kicks and four field goals.

Davidson quarterback Gordon Slade and East Carolina tailback Billy Wightman are next in line with seven touchdowns and 42 points each. The No. 7 man is halfback Billy Watson of The Citadel with 38 points.

Furman is at The Citadel in Saturday's only conference game. The nonleague schedule has Davidson entertaining Wofford, East Carolina at Marshall, Richmond at former league member West Virginia, winless VMI at Boston College and William and Mary at Villanova.

Passander was impressive in Wednesday's passing drills at The Citadel with Champ Reiley and Gene Rowland his top receivers. Furman continued its non-contact policy to let injured players heal.

The standout in East Carolina drills was fullback Butch Colson, who was singled out for his running and blocking. The star at VMI was halfback Rick Thomas, just recently switched from the defensive unit. He may start Saturday in place of the injured Tom Sowers.

Rose Cagers Are Not Pleasing Coach Yet

After the first week and a half of basketball practice at Rose High School, Coach O. A. Meteye feels that things are running behind the schedule he'd like the Rampants to be setting.

"The progress so far hasn't been what I'd like it to be," he said. "I am glad that the season is not opening for three more weeks. We are working hard, but there is still a lot to be done."

Meteye currently has 13 candidates out for the varsity team, after having made cuts early this week. He plans to make additional cuts down to a roster of about 13 players.

"Grades could prove a problem for a couple of our boys," he said. "Two currently are question marks, but we won't know for certain until about time to play."

Still, Meteye feels that there is a good nucleus to build a team around. He has three regulars back from last year's Rose High team, and two back from the Eppes team of last year. They include Mike Harrington, Charlie Grimes, Ray Peszko, Willie Smith and Billy Clark.

Most of the time thus far has been spent in conditioning. "We are doing a lot of running," the coach said. "I go for the running time of game. It's go-go-go all the time. We'll set up our shots only about 25 per cent of the time and go with the fast break the rest of the game. We have the speed to do this, and right now it's just a question of running enough to build up the stamina."

Meteye feels that the shooting is coming along for this point in the year. "Willie Smith, Billy Clark and Peszko are all shooting well right now," he said. Last year's leading Rose scorer, Mike Harrington, has only reported, and hasn't really had a chance to show what he can do.

"I'm a little disappointed in the rebounding," Meteye said. "We are just not hitting the boards like we should. With Mike just out, we don't know what he can do. He has the height, and so does Peszko, but it just doesn't look good right now."

Meteye rates the ball handling at this stage as only fair. "We have nothing exceptional, and I'm not happy about it, but it should improve."

The defense is also rated "poor." Meteye pointed out that he had been working strictly with a man-to-man at this stage. "We can slip in a zone later, but I feel we've got to get the man-to-man in first."

But the slowness of progress may be just due to the switchover. "We have boys playing together for the first time, and they are learning a new system for the most part. They have to adjust to the new style. When they do, they should be all right," he said.

At this point, Meteye has no idea who'll be his starting five. "I may not decide until just before the opener," he said.

But he did single out several players who have looked the best so far. "I'd say that Smith, Peszko, Carlton Daniels and Clark are doing well. I was surprised at the condition in which Harrington and Joe West reported after finishing football. I didn't think they'd be in as good a condition."

The Rampants have three more weeks to show what they can do for the coach, then they go on public view. Their first outing will be against former Northeastern Conference foe, East Carteret, on December 2. The game will be in Beaufort. The Rampants will open their home session against Roanoke Rapids on December 5.

West Martin Stops Whitfield String

OAK CITY — West Martin High School downed G. R. Whitfield last night, handing the Hornets their first loss of the season after two opening wins.

Both teams were knotted at 16 each at the end of the first period, but West Martin shot away in the second frame. During the period, West Cartin dumped in 29 points, while the Hornets could only duplicate their first quarter production of 16. That gave West Margin a 45-32 lead at the half, and Whitfield could not overcome it.

West Martin managed to tack on one more point to the lead in the third period, as it outscored Whitfield, 14-13, to hold a 59-45 lead at the buzzer. The final frame saw Whitfield put on a rally, outscoring West Martin, 22-12, but it fell just short of catching up.

Harold Jones led the Whitfield effort with 24 points, while Bobby Jones had 15 and Cleveland Martin had 13.

For West Martin, Bonner had 12, while Duggins, D. Duggins and Ebron each had 10.

In the junior varsity preliminary, West Martin made a sweep of things, taking a 46-33 victory.

JV: Whitfield 33, West Martin 46

Rose Bowl To Push Purdue

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — "This is a brief report on the passing of the Rose Bowl...The Rose Bowl is dead, you know...it is now merely a minor feature for visitors who come to town to see the Rose parade in the morning...It is, believe me, being disregarded throughout the country."

So wrote a Los Angeles sports writer. The date was November 1948.

The premature burial of the nation's oldest postseason football game was not uncommon two decades ago. Such essays were predicated on the 1946 pact limiting contestants to members of the old Pacific Coast and Big Ten conferences. Critics blasted the closed-door contract.

Even a man who has been through it all, Lathrop K. Leishman, a former president of the Tournament of Roses, says the agreement was born in discontent and "over the years has not been constant serenity." He has been a member of the organization's football committee since 1938 and its chairman since 1945.

The current unrest by some authors is not new by any means, either—the gripe that under the Big Ten's no repeat policy, Ohio State, cannot return to Pasadena New Year's Day if the Buckeyes win the conference championship.

"We love Ohio State and Woody Hayes but," commented Leishman, his voice lowered almost to a whisper," Purdue would ease a few such problems if it could win over Ohio State."

Regarding the "illness" of the Rose Bowl, Leishman had another statistic.

"Prior to the Big Ten pact, the Rose Bowl game actually sold out only five times. It has been a sellout each of the Big Ten years. The bowl seats more than 100,000.

"We put up 1,700 pairs of tickets for fans on a first-come write in application this year. We had over 40,000 applications and of course the fans don't know who'll even be in the game," Leishman said.

As far as being "disregarded" by the nation, the game has been given these television ratings by the Neilsen people for the 1969 New Year's Day games:

Rose Bowl 33.5; Orange Bowl (night) 23.6; Sugar Bowl 17.2, Cotton Bowl 17.1.

The heavily populated Midwest as a television market—plus the invariably strong Big Ten teams—were hardly ignored in the agreement between the two conferences.

Leishman noted the predicament which confronts the other bowl people who do not have a going commitment between two conferences.

"Under NCAA rules, no invitation can be extended by these bowls until a set hour on the third week of November. I'd hate to go through all that again," Lay said. He referred to the years that the Rose people themselves selected the eastern team before relegating the matter to the Pacific Coast universities.

Eastern Leader Indiana Hands Cougars Big Loss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maybe the whole town wasn't talking about the Jones boy in Pittsburgh Wednesday night. But anyone who watched the Denver Rockets whip the Pipers 125-114 in an American Basketball Association game was.

Larry Jones fired in 43 points in sparking the Rockets to a come-from-behind victory, only their third triumph against 11 losses. Rookie Spencer Haywood of the Rockets put on a show, too, scoring 35 points and grabbing 26 rebounds.

In other ABA games, the Indiana Pacers downed the Carolina Cougars 130-111 as the Dallas Chaparrals topped the Washington Caps 122-104 and the Los Angeles Stars turned back the New York Nets 133-126.

In the National Basketball Association, Cincinnati tripped Boston 116-107 and San Diego beat Detroit 132-119.

Pittsburgh led Denver 85-81 after three quarters before the Rockets exploded for five points in the opening seconds of the final period and never relinquished the lead. It was the Pipers' first home loss this season.

John Brisker topped the Pipers with 36 points, followed by Charley Williams with 26.

Roger Brown's 30 points—28 in the first half—powered Indiana, the Eastern Division leader, over Carolina. Hot shooting by Bob Netolicky in the second half helped the Pacers open up a 23-point margin. Bob Verga's 25 points led the Cougars.

Dallas' firepower came from Glen Combs, with 30 points, Manny Leaks, with 26, and John Beasley, with 24.

The Chaps, who led 61-58 at halftime, and 88-80 after tree quarters, had to hold off a late Washington rally, which reduced the Dallas lead to 108-104 before Dallas caught fire again.

Henry Logan's 19 points paced the Washington attack.

Larry Miller and Bob Warren provided the scoring impetus with 25 and 24 points, respectively, in Los Angeles' success over New York.

The victory was the Stars' fourth in a row and boosted their first-place margin over idle New Orleans in the Western Division to one full game.

Wayne Hightower's basket with 8:40 left in the third period put Los Angeles in front for good 67-55 after the lead had changed hands 25 times.

Bill Melchionni of the Nets topped all scorers with 28 points.

Celtics Fall To Cincinnati

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It may be just as well that Bob Cousy hasn't been able to get reinstated as a player in the National Basketball Association. His Cincinnati Royals might lose to the Boston Celtics in that case.

Cousy, now coach of Cincinnati, went 0 against his old team when the fired-up Royals whipped the champion Celtics 116-107 Wednesday night.

The Royals were keyed up because Red Auerbach, general manager of the Celtics, has refused to release Cousy from the Celtics' retired player list without a deal with the Royals.

San Diego defeated the Detroit Pistons 132-119 in the other NBA game scheduled.

Indiana crushed Carolina 130-111, Denver beat Pittsburgh 125-114, Dallas downed Washington 122-104 and Los Angeles humbled New York 133-126 in the American Basketball Association.

Oscar Robertson, the Big 9, paced Cincinnati with 25 points as the Royals put on dazzling performance of ball handling and hit on 47 per cent of their shots.

After leading at the half 60-51, the Royals drew out to a 21-point leod at 95-74 before the Celtics rallied in the last quarter on the shooting of John Havlicek and Don Chaney.

Don Nelson led the Celtics wit 23 points followed by Havlicek at 22 and Chaney at 21. Fred Foster was second high for the Royals with 17.

Jim Barnett and Elvin Hayes, the Big E, combined for 29 points in the last quarter to pace San Diego over Detroit.

San Diego led by 89-87 starting the final period before Barnett cut loose with 17 points and Hayes 12.

Hayes was high scorer with 34 points while Barnett finished with 25. Terry Dischinger paced the Pistons with 29, three more than Dave Bing.

Killer Came Back From Bad Injury

By PAT THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The stocky, balding slugger missed half of that season and wound up with only 17 homers and a lowly .210 batting average.

Some persons thought Killebrew woud be forced to retire. Even the Minnesota Twins slugger had his doubts.

But today, Killebrew is the American League's Most Valuable Player for 1969.

"Some people didn't think I was going to play at all," Killebrew said Wednesday from his Ontario, Ore., home after he was informed of the award. "I was quite concerned. At the beginning of the season I wasn't quite sure."

However, the worries were premature.

Killebrew played in all of his team's 162 games in what he called one of his best seasons.

He matched his career high of 49 home runs, drove in a career high of 140 runs, drew a career high of 145 walks, scored a career high 106 runs and batted .276. Killebrew gave the West Division champion Twins the game winning hit 22 times.

"I did a lot of work to get in shape during the off season," Killebrew said. "I exercised the leg, did a lot of hunting, walking over the hills. I really think you have to go through a season without too many injuries to have a god year."

What abut next year?

"I'm just going to hope I can play like last year," the 33-year-old slugger said. "I want to play as many games as I can and stay away from injuries."

Killebrew received 16 of the 24 first place votes from the Baseball Writers Association of America selection committee, which consisted of two writers from each league city.

Baltimore first baseman John "Boog" Powell, who batted .304, hit 37 homers and knocked in 121 runs, finished second in the voting and got six first place votes. Killebrew had a total of 294 points, Powell 227 and Baltimore's Frank Robinson—the 1966 A.L. winner and 1964 National League MVP--was third at 162.

Frank Howard, Washington power hitter with 48 homers, had 115 points, and Reggie Jackson, who hit 47 homers for Oakland, was fifth with 110 points.

Bison Finish Year Atop Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There's room at the top now in the nation's small college football poll for the simple reason North Dakota State is through for the season.

The Bisons finished No. 1 again last week—and now turns its attention to the Camellia Bowl Dec. 13 in Sacramento, Calif.

Sports writers and sportscasters voting in the AP national panel awarded the Bisons 11 first place votes and 300 points Wednesday after the Fargo fantastics beat South Dakota State 20-13 for a 9-0 season record.

The Camellia Bowl will be the Bisons' third straight postseason game. They won twice in three Pecan Bowls and in 1964 won the Mineral Water Bowl game.

Montana, 9-0, again finished second in the poll with one first place vote and 279 points boosting its record to 9-0 by blanking Cal Poly SLO 14-0 and Delaware, 7-1, beat Lehigh 42-17 for 185 points and another third-place finish.

Akron, 8-1, moved from fifth to fourth with one first place vote and 165 points after crushing Youngstown 60-27 and New Mexico Highlands, 7-0-1, jumped from seventh to fifth with 158 points and one first-place vote after burying Southern Utah 59-0.

Alcorn A&M, 6-0-1, remained in sixth place with 151 points after beating Mississippi Valley 41-10. Louisiana Tech, 6-1, advanced from eighth to seventh with 128 points after nipping Southeast Louisiana 25-24.

Arkansas State, 5-1-1, dropped from fourth to eighth after tying Drake 21-21. Northern Arizona, 7-2, was a newcomer to the Top Ten, occupying ninth position after finishing 12th last week. Northern Arizona, which beat Eastern New Mexico 48-20, just edged out Texas A&I, which dropped from a tie for ninth into 10th place. Texas A&I, 7-1, received a first-place vote after blanking Howard Payne 27-0.

In the second 10, Tampa, 5-2-1, joined the rankings in 11th place after beating the Quantico Marines 45-10.

The Top Twenty, with first-place votes in parentheses and total points:

1.	No. Dak. St. (11)	300
2.	Montana (1)	279
3.	Delaware	185
4.	Akron (1)	165
5.	N.Mex. Highland (1)	158
6.	Alcorn A&M	151
7.	Louisiana Tech	128
8.	Arkansas State	114
9.	No. Arizona	81
10.	Texas A&I (1)	80

Pirates Hold Heavy Workout

East Carolina University's Pirates went through a long contact session yesterday in their final heavy workout prior to Saturday's meeting with Marshall University in Huntington, W.Va.

The offensive unit worked on its scoring from inside the 10-yard line. Butch colson, the Pirate fullback, was singled out for his running and blocking during the drills.

The defense concentrated on working against several formations used by the Thundering Herd, and was particularly concerned with stopping the pass receiving of ends Dennis Blevins and Jack Repasy. Marshall has scored 13 touchdowns through passing, over half their total of the year.

On the defense, Mike Guirk looked good at end.

Lineup changes included moving Earl Burton to number one right offensive guard, while John Hollenbach moves into the number two position.

A light workout is planned for today, with the team leaving for Marshall on Friday morning.

Series Payoff Richest Yet For Participants

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The richest payoff in baseball history finds each New York Met collecting $18,338.18 and each Baltimore Oriole pocketing $14,904.21 from the World Series and the pennant playoffs.

The old highs were $12,794.00 for the victorious Los Angeles Dodgersi n the 1963 World Series and $8,189.36 for the losing Dodgers in the 1966 Series with Baltimore.

The Atlanta Braves, winners in the National League's West Division but beaten three straight by the Mets in the playoffs, each get $6,944.10 and the Minnesota Twins, who took the America League's West Division but were eliminated by the Orioles in three straight, each take home $6,460.12.

After those big numbers, released Thursday by Charles Segar, secretary-treasurer of baseball, there is a big drop to $574.94 for each Chicago Cub who led the National East by 9½ games as late as Aug. 13 but finished second. Detroit, the pennant winner in 1968, had to settle for $630.79 after finishing way up the track behind Baltimore in the American East. San Francisco's Giants each get $612.13 as runnerup to the Braves in the National West and Oakland gets $597.58 each for finishing second to Minnesota in the American West.

Third place teams also share in the pot. In all, 12 of the 24 teams in the expanded majors shared in the loot.

The player pool from the Series was a record $1,142,200.93, topping the old high of $1,044,042.65 for the 1966 set between the Orioles and Dodgers. Total attendance of 272,376 and receipts of $2,857,782.78 were short of the records as there were only five games. As the players share only in the first four their shares were records.

With the addition of the new playoff series for league pennants, baseball had instituted guaranteed payoffs for the top four teams. The World Series winner was assured of $15,000, the loser $10,000 and the losers of the two pennant playoffs $5,000 each. If the Mets had not been so generous with over 35 shares, each would have received more than $20,000.

The commissioner's office released a detailed financial breakdown of the playoffs and Series. Although 12 teams get some of the Series money, only the four teams involved are in the player pool for the playoffs.

The Mets voted 35 full shares and assorted partial shares and cash awards. Donn Clendenon, the Series hero who joined the club from Montreal June 15, got a full share. So did Bobby Pfeil, the extra infielder who was not eligible for the Series. Amos Otis, a part time outfielder who spent most of the year on the farm, got a half share.

Baltimore voted 32 shares and various other partials hares and money. Atlanta voted 30 full shares and others, Minnesota 34 full shares and others, Chicago 34 full shares plus, San Francisco 31 full shares plus, Detroit 32 full shares plus and Oakland 28 full shares plus.

Billy Martin of Minnesota, Hank Bauer of Oakland, Dick Williams of Boston, Larry Shepard of Pittsburgh and Dave Bristol of Cincinnati, all fired after the season or in the closing weeks, each got a full share. Bill Rigney, let out in early season at California, was voted a half share by the Angels or $9.15.

Yugoslavia's Year In Film-Making Seems To Be Around Corner

By NORMAN GOLDSTEIN
AP Newsfeature Writer

Cinematically-speakin;, will 1970 be the Yugoslavians' year in the way that 1967 and 1968 belonged to the Czechs?

In pre-invasion days Czechoslovakian films became highly popular in the United States. These were films that were so much a product of the growing liberalization that angered the Soviet union and other Communist bloc countries.

But after the Soviet invasion of August 1968, much of the Czech talent and innovation was slowly smothered.

Now, it seems, it may be Communist Yugoslavia's turn.

Yugoslavian motion pictures, say American film representatives who recently visited there, are beginning to show an outspokenness similar to that of the Czechs in moral, social and political themes. This new candor, it is thought, along with improved techniques and quality, may bring the Yugoslavian film to the forefront of foreign imports.

Yugoslavia's fledgling film industry—which began after World War II but never got much past the documentary stage—may also be in for a boost from Yugoslavia's President Tito, an acknowledged film buff. Tito is also aware of the economic value of a local film industry.

Few Yugoslavian films have ever been shown in the United States. But Willard Van Dyke, film curator at the New York Museum of Modern Art, plans to change that with a special showing of 12 Yugoslavian features beginning Nov. 12. He brought the films back after a recent trip to Yugoslavia, Poland and Romania. Van Dyke said he found the Yugoslavian films a "delicacy" compared with the others.

"Until about two-and-a-half years ago, they were making mostly documentaries . . . documentaries distinguished by their honesty concerning various social problems; distinguished by their openness, frankness, forthrightness in dealing with problems . . . ," Van dyke said.

Van Dyke chose the 12 yugoslavian films from 31 shown in August at the Yugoslavian Pula Film Festival.

Several involved themes of youthful protest and many treated sex with candor and nudity unusual for Communist nations.

A film by Zelimir Zelnick, "Early Works," dealing with the forgotten nature of the Communist revolution, won a special prize at Pula for its "committed socio-political ideas." The film had been banned by the Yugoslavian government, but Zelnick won an appeal and was allowed to show it at the Berlin Film Festival (Yugoslavia was the only Communist country represented there), where it won the grand prize.

Van Dyke describes the Yugoslavian film setup as "a kind of state capitalism." A producers group gets a sum from the government and backs the creators, who come to them with a script and director. The creators get a minimal salary during production, but are rewarded according to the money coming back. They get part of the return and cash sums if the film wins any prizes.

Alexander Petrovic, for example, won $400 for third prize at Pula for his "It Rains In My Village" (original title: "It Ner Rains In My Village Except Today and When It Rains"), a glimpse at village life and a nymphomaniac Communist schoolteacher, plus the conflicts of socialism.

It is thus possible, says Van Dyke, to earn $20,000 or $25,000 a year as a Yugoslavian filmmaker.

The Yugoslavians also are anxious to attract outside moneys and are encouraging Western filmmakers to produce—or coproduce with its Avala Films—motion pictures in their country. They offer numerous financial advantages, particularly the use of the Yugoslavian army as extras.

A Burt Lancaster film, "Castle Keep," was filmed in Yugoslavia last year and U.S. films now shooting there include "The Warriors," with Clint Eastwood and Don Rickles, and "Twelve Chairs," with Ron Moody and Dom DeLuise.

On-Job Training Plan Instituted

NEPTUNE, N.J. (AP) — A new program that will take high school and vocational school graduates and give them an opportunity to earn an above-average income at an early age through on-the-job training has been annoin by Murry Conners, president of the Atlantic Appliance Co. here.

"This is the space age," says Conners, "and if we're going to keep growing, we have to be creative, original and fast-moving." The on-the-job training concept is a revolutionary step forward in the appliance industry and Conners hopes that the trend will be followed by many companies.

Average pay for a beginning salesman can be as much as $12,000 he points out, although "a typical work week is as long as 52 hours. As the Atlantic salesmen are paid on a commission-only basis, the progress of the company becomes a personal matter to then," concludes Conners.

New Know-It-All Centers Coming

NEW YORK (AP) — The one-stop computer information centers which make available to the consumer immediate and objective information on finding a job, home, used car or college, soon will be franchised. NIKT SARC Computers, Ltd. expects that within the next two years, due to its regional franchising and sub-franchising program, there will be at least 220 such computer information centers in the country.

One Governor Served Six Days

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — West Virginia had a governor who served only six days.

He was Daniel Duane Tompkins Farnsworth, the second governor, who served from Feb. 27 to March 3, 1869.

He succeeded Arthur I. Borman who resigned to become U.S. senator. Farnsworth served until the third governor, William Erskine Stevenson, took office.

Bottle Makers Battling Litter

NEW YORK (AP) — Keep America Beautiful, Inc., the national anti-litter organization, says the people who make bottles and jars are 1969's most litter conscious industry.

GCMI, the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute, which represents more than 90 per cent of its industry, will receive KAB's annual Business Award on Nov. 17 for "outstanding achievement in litter prevention."

The glass container group will be cited at KAB's annual meeting here for its sponsorship of a national Anti-Litter Week observance, as well as for special holiday litter prevention programs on Memorial Day, July 4th, Labor Day and Christmas. It also published a pamphlet, "The Litter Fact Book," and helped circulate movies supporting the national litter prevention movement.

Profit In Japan's Super Express

By HITOSHI SATO

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan's super-express bullet trains are making money in a hurry, but their owners are spending it faster.

In the five years since the 125-mile-per-hour electric trains made their debut in time for the 1964 Tokyo Oompics, the line has grossed nearly $1.39 billion on an initial investment of $1.06 billion.

Net profit for the period was $305.6 million, a remarkable feat considering that the bullet trains operated at a loss of $57 million for the firstt wo years. And that the rest of Japan's nationally-owned railways still are losing money.

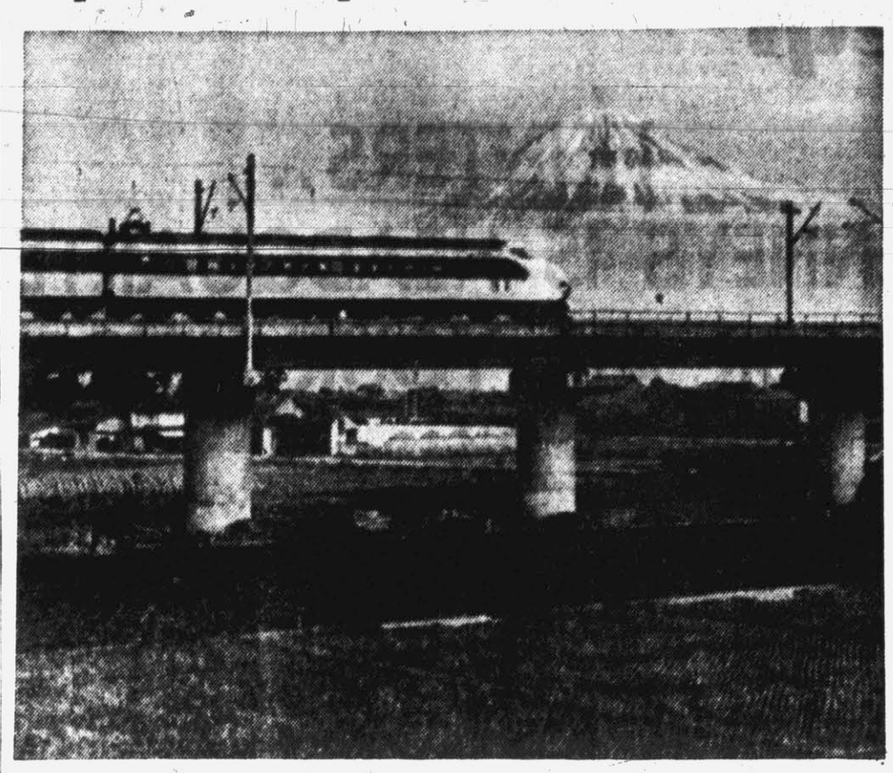
Terminals of the 320-mile bullet line are in Tokyo and Osaka, host city for the 1970 World Exposition.

Since the first trainload of passengers sped from Tokyo to Osaka in three hours and 20 minutes, nearly 250 million persons have taken the ride across a countryside dotted with rice paddies, tea farms and lakes.

During its first year of operation the line carried 60,000 passengers daily. In the first half of 1969, with round-trip runs tripled from the initial 30, the air-conditioned coaches carried 200,000 persons daily.

The line (Japanese call it Shinkansen — litterally "new trunk line") is operated by the Japan National Railways (JNR), a public utility branch of the national government. JNR operates 244 other lines throughout the country, 234 of which are losing money.

Officials said JNR's over-all operation was $372.2 million in the red on March 31, which endedt he 1968 fiscal year, and was incurring a daily deficit of $1.9 million. A government subsidy of $141.1 million in fiscal 1969 is expected to ease the burden.



JAPAN'S SUPER-EXPRESS Bullet train streaks across the landscape with Mount Fujiama looming in the distance. (UPI Telephoto)

The bullets currently carry 12 coaches in one run, but officials are planning a 16-car service in 1970 when the World Exposition (EXPO 70) opens March 15 for six months.

The lead and rear coaches house the engineer's compartment. They are shaped like airplane fuselages to reduce air resistance. Controls at both ends eliminate the necessity of a turn-around at terminal points. After reaching Osaka, the engineer walks to the rear car, the movable seats are switched to face the opposite direction and the train is ready for the return trip.

Frenzied Birds Attacked Man

FRANSCHHOEK, South Africa (AP) — Frenzied birds attacked mountainer Roy Allen as he crouched under a rock overhang high on a mountainside.

Allen said he was about 300 feet from the summit of a mountain above his farm near here when the birds, similar to swallows, sswooped down on him "like dive-bombers" for 15 minutes. "It was a terrifying experience. Fortunately I was sufficiently sheltered for them to veer within a foot of me, but it was rather uncomfortable while it lasted."

FREE MEDICATION COSTS

CANBERRA (AP) — "Free" medicine cost the Australian Government $9.92 Australian ($11.11 U.S.) a head in the year ended june 30, according to a report presented to Parliament.

Many antibiotics and other life-saving drugs are on the "free" list. They are available only on a doctor's prescription and at a nominal charge of 50 cents (55 cents U.S.) for each prescription filled.

UNC Teacher Says No One Gave Orders

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — A bearded part-time sociology instructor at the University of North Carolina in Charlotte says he was never told by anyone he had to hold his class Oct. 15, the date of a Vietnam War Moratorium.

David Blevins, 27, denied charges at a hearing Wednesday that he violated university policy against campus disruptions by not holding his class that day.

"If I had made an incorrect decision," he said, "the university should have consulted with me about that decision."

Blevins teaches an extension course to graduate students at the UNC unit in Charlotte.

As Blevins entered the Morehead Building for the hearing, about 100 UNC students marched around the sidewalk with placards and posters proclaiming, "No Trial for Blevins."

The hearing was held in Chapel Hill because Blevins is employed by the School of Social Work at the Chapel Hill campus of the university.

No decision was made by a disruption hearing committee headed by William B. Aycock, Kenan professor of Law. After the transcript of the hearing is prepared, attorneys will have 10 days in which to file briefs. The committee will then hear oral arguments.

Testimony during the hearing, which lasted more than three and one-half hours, showed a substitute teacher was called in to teach Blevins' class Oct. 15.

Blevins said he became angry when this was done because "the university had taken away the responsibility delegated to me to conduct that class."

Adam Stein, of Charlotte, attorney for Blevins, moved for a nonsuit. He argued Blevins had not violated the trustees' policy because he provided for his clans to cary on in his absence by working in the library or discussing reading material among themselves.

Aycock said the motion would be considered later by the committee.

C. Michael Smith, a professor of English at Elon College, was suspended after he did not conduct a scheduled class on moratorium day. However, Smith was reinstated last Friday prior to a hearing.

J. Earl Danieley, Elon president, said he made the decision after he received a statement by Smith explaining his reason for not holding classes that day.

Students Participate In American Education Week

Students at W. H. Robinson High School have been participating in American Education Week this week.

"Better Education, Your Job" is the theme for the 1969 American Education Week.

Special talks have been presented over the school intercom system each morning. Those participating include: Dorothy Best, student; the Rev. J. N. Gilbert, a parent; and Mrs. Mary Atkeson, a teacher.

Open house was held Wednesday afternoon at which time parents visited their children's classrooms. A filmstrip entitled "Historical Highlights in the Education of Black Americans" was shown Wednesday afternoon.

American Education Week bookmarks have been given to the students by the school's librarians.

Friday will be a salute to teachers day. Teachers will be remembered for their part in making better education their job.

Mrs. Margaret James has served as overall chairman for AEW this year.

Brownie Troop Has Investiture

Brownie Troop 96 of Greenville held an outdoor investure service at Wahl Coates School on Tuesday.

The girls formed a chain circle to say the Brownie "B's" and to make the Brownie Promise.

The following girls came into the circle to be awarded their pins: Debbi Craddock, Sheri Howell, Angela Griffin, Susan Peele, Elain Long, Jeri Mosley, Lorri Richards, and Melissa Suggs.

The following newer members of the troop will be invested next Tuesday: Vicky Jones, Beth Powers, Lorri Waw[illegible], Jerri Bullock, Kimberly Moye, Patricia Bynum, Pamela Cottingham and Sandra Powell.

Leaders of the troop are Mrs. Lawrence Behr and Mrs. Roy Griffin.

Baptist Convention Names Wake Student To Board Of Trustees

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) —James E. Cross Jr., 22, of Burlington, president of the Wake Forest University student body, will become a full voting member of the university's board of trustees.

The North Carolina Baptist state convention Wednesday named Cross to a three-year term. He will be the first student to hold such a position in North Carolina.

He succeeds the Rev. Gilmer E. Cross of Goldsboro, who died last June. They are not related.

Before winding up its three-day session, the convention approved a $7 million convention budget for the coming year and decided to hold its 1970 convention in Greensboro.

Charlotte will be host to the convention in 1971, Winston-Salem in 1972 and Asheville in 1973.

The convention approved one resolution asking for more humane treatment of prisoners of war in Vietnam by all involved, and another supporting Sunday blue laws.

Also approved was a resolution lauding those who opposed liquor by the drink legislation in the 1969 General Assembly. The Biblical Recorder newspaper and the Christian Action League were singled out for praise in the resolution.

Several controversial resolutions were turned over to the Council on Christian Life and Public Affairs. One called for amnesty for conscientious objectors now in prison or who fled the country to escape the draft.

Another resolution attacked the Supreme Court for its decision on prayer in the public schools.

The council is scheduled to make its report next November.

The convention authorized Wake Forest University to borrow $2.4 million for construction of a women's dormitory.

Permission was given to Chowan and Gardner-Webb colleges to borrow $400,000 each. Chowan plans to use the money for a science-engineering building and Gardner - Webb for a dormitory.

The convention voted to drop "junior college" from Gardner-Webb's name and make it Gardner-Webb College.

The convention changed the retirement age of its general secretary-treasurer from 65 to 68 to enable Dr. W. Perry Crouch to hold the position for six more years. Dr. Crouch, now 62, has been in the post for six years.

Dr. Douglas Aldrich, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Gastonia, was designated to preach the convention sermon in 1970. The alternate will be Dr. Henry Turlington, pastor of the University Baptist Church in Chapel Hill.

Holding Course In Upholstery

Pitt Technical Institute began a course in Furniture Refinishing and Upholstery Tuesday night in the Belvoir High School Agriculture Building.

The course meets from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m. each Tuesday and Thursday for a total of 50 to 60 hours. Tuition is 10 cents per hour.

Interested persons should enter the class as soon as possible.

Local Scholar Among Honored

GREENSBORO — Miss Betty Taylor of Greenville was among the 170 sophomore scholars honored at a special reception at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro this week.

The purpose of the reception was to acknowledge outstanding scholarship by the students and to give then an opportunity to talk informally with various faculty members about areas of study in which they have an interest.

The scholars were selected on the basis of scholarship achievement from a sophomore class at UNC-G totaling 1,333 students.

Mrs. Tommie Lou Smith, associate dean, was coordinator for the reception. UNC-G Chancellor James S. Ferguson and Miss Mereb Mossman, vice chancellor for academic affairs, extended greetings to the group.

Miss Taylor is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy S. Taylor of 2005 S. Fifth St., and is a graduate of Rose High School.

Hopeful Stamp Sale Pays Debts

BRISTOL, England)ap) — Somerset County Cricket Club, more than 16,000 pounds ($38,400 U.S.) in the red, hopes to clear off most of its debts by a sale of stamps.

A life-long Somerset fan died recently and left his stamp collection to the club. "They have been auctioned, and we hope to receive more than 10,000 pounds ($24,000), said club secretary Richard Robinson. "We never thought that stamps might help cricket."

SAW NO PROMOTION

NEW YORK (AP)—Col. Robert B. Rheault, former commander of the Green Berets in Vietnam, says he resigned from the Army because his chances for promotion "were almost nonexistent."

There are about 300,000 motorbikes and about 24,000 cars on the island of Taiwan.

Hodges Newest Athlete Member Of Medic Alert

TURLOCK, Calif. (AP) — Gil Hodges, manager of the fabled New York Mets, is one of a number of prominent athletes who are members of Medic Alert, international non-profit foundation headquartered here for persons with hidden medical problems.

Hodges has a heart condition, as do fellow members Jackie Jensen, once the American League's most valuable player, and Lloyd Mangrum, former U.S. Open golf champion. Golf star Billy Casper, the San Francisco Giants' Ron Hunt and one-time National League batting king Frank "Lefty" O'Doul wear the Medic Alert emblem because they have allergies. Other members are former tennis great Billy Talbert, a diabetic, and the Oakland Seals' Bill Hicke, an asthmatic.

3 ♣	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
5 ◇	Pass	6 ◇	Pass
Pass	Pass

Where choices of bids are presented, the success of the hand frequently will depend upon the exact sequence in which the player elects to make his several calls.

In today's hand, North opened with one heart and East made a vulnerable overcall of one spade. After South's free bid of two diamonds, North had several calls available to him. He could bid three or four diamonds, three clubs or make a cue bid of two spades. North chose to bid three clubs.

While it is true that technically this bid is not forcing and South might legally pass, as a practical matter, it is inconceivable that he would care to do so. After all, he did fancy his hand sufficiently to make a free bid. Why, therefore, would he suddenly decide to throw in the sponge in the face of North's display of great strength? The risk was infinitesimal and was worth taking for the sake of describing the texture of North's hand.

If the clubs were not shown at this point, it would be almost impossible to show the suit later, because at such time partner would gain the impression that you were merely showing the ace. South took the preference by returning to three hearts and North was encouraged to show the spade void. South now bid four clubs with the intention of describing a value in that suit. North's invitation bid of five diamonds was then accepted by South.

To the casual observer it might appear that South was unduly aggressive with a hand that on the surface did not appear to hold much power but, as the bidding developed, it gained new luster. He held precisely the right kings, each of which must be considered as having been promoted to the rank of an ace. There could be no question but that they would completely solidify North's hand. His only weak spot, spades, had been taken care of by North's cue bid. He had no wasted values.

North's sequence of bids had simplified South's task. The knowledge that North had a club suit, rendered the king-ten of clubs much more impressive than they might otherwise have appeared.

It is generally good tactics to postpone cue bids until late in the auction after descriptive bidding has been completed.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets stronger Wednesday. Supplies barely adequate, demand good. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 64½ to 65; medium whites: 61 to 62; small whites: 54 to 55.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA) — North Carolina hog markets today were mostly steady. Tops of 25.50-26.00 at Siler City, Denton; 25.50-25.75 at Wilson; 25.25-25.75 at Rocky Mount; 24.50-25.50 at Bethel and Tarboro; 24.25-25.25 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Newton Grove, Albertson and Lumberton; 26.00 at Salisbury; and 25.50 at Greensboro.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—The North Carolina poultry market today was weak. Live at farm base valuation 13 cents per pound. Hen trading light, supply short of good demand. Heavy type at farm 18-19 cents. Light type at farm 9.

Declines led advances by better than 200 issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average at 11:30 a.m. dropped 3.76 to 852.23.

Monte Gordon, research director for Bache & Co., saw the market performance as a reflection of a "drought in news developments" and representing a consolidation.

Wet conditions throughout the country has virtually stopped activity on grain buying stations this morning. Agents report only slight buying of soybeans and little or no corn. The rain yesterday has prolonged the corn season and although very little remains to be harvested and marketed, farmers will no doubt be delayed in getting back into the fields until the first of the week. Prices reported this morning were the same as yesterday's quotes with the exception of soybeans on the Greenville market. Following are 11:15 quotes.

Greenville: yellow corn, $1.25; wheat, $1.20; oats, $.65—steady; soybeans, $2.35—up slightly.

Ayden: yellow corn, shell, $1.27; ear corn, $1.17; soybeans, $2.32—all steady.

Winterville: yellow corn, shell, $1.27; ear corn, $1.17—steady.

Farmville: yellow corn, $1.27; soybeans, $2.28—steady.

Bethel: yellow corn, shell, $1.25; ear corn, $1.15; soybeans, $2.34—all steady.

University Gets Third Threat In As Many Days

The third bomb threat in as many days was reported this morning at East Carolina University.

A secretary in Flanagan building received a call from an unidentified Negro about 8:50 a.m. saying a bomb would go off in the building at 9:15.

The call came as classes were changing and students were held outside the building until a search was made.

Last night a caller reported a bomb in Wright Building. That call came about 8 o'clock. The building was cleared, searched, then students were allowed to reenter.

The first of the three calls came Tuesday morning when a caller reported a bomb in Rawl Building.

Fire Damages Hotel On Sound

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C. (AP) — Fire of undetermined cause badly damaged the four-story Morehead Biltmore Hotel on Bogue Sound early Wednesday.

The 106-room hotel, built in 1928, was unoccupied and undergoing renovation.

Obituaries

Sherman

Mr. Horace Sherman Jr., 37, died Tuesday morning in Baltimore, Md. Funeral services will be conducted Sunday at 2 p.m. at Whichard's Chapel with Elder Flood officiating. Burial will be in the Bethel Cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Evelyn Fleming Sherman of Baltimore, Md.; four daughters, Patricia, Trenia, Uanassa, and Wilenette Sherman, all of Baltimore, Md.; three sons, Horace, Spencer Warren and Darren, all of Baltimore, Md.; three sisters, Mrs. Mattie Mae Clemons of Greenville, Mrs. Ruby Jones of Boston, Mass.; and Mrs. Ruby Wilson of Stokes; two brothers, Claude Sherman of Robersonville, and Gus Sherman of Newport News, Va.

The body will be at Flanagan & Parker Funeral Home until one hour prior to the services.

Boyette

BETHEL—Funeral services for Mrs. Maggie Evans Boyette, 76, who died Wednesday night, will be held Friday at 2 p. m., from the Hassell Pentecostal Holiness Church with the Rev. William Butler officiating. Burial will follow in the Boyette Family Cemetery near Robersonville.

Surviving are four step daughters, Mrs. Mary Keel of Robersonville, Mrs. Albert Stancill of Newport News, Va., Mrs. Gladys Ashley of Suffolk, Va., and Mrs. Lillian King of Sea Pleasant, Md.; three step sons, Joseph Boyette of Williamston, Arthur Boyette of Bethel and Fred Boyette of Hobgood.

Provides List Of 97 Prisoners

FT. SHERIDAN, Ill. (AP) — the chairman of the Remember the Pueblo Committee has given the Army a list of 97 names he believes to be those of American servicemen held captive in North Vietnam and North Korea.

The Rev. Paul D. Lindstrom turned the list over on Wednesday at 5th Army headquarters to Maj. Lawrence Markham who said it would not be made public and would be passed on the Defense Department officials.

Lindstrom, who said he obtained the list over the weekend in Montreal, said he would keep a copy but would not release it to the public

He said the list was the result of three months of work with contacts in both Commhnist nations and had cost aboht $50,000 to obtain.

Policeman Will Be Tried Today

AYDEN — Ayden policeman Henry G. Norris was scheduled to be tried this afternoon here on a charge of assaulting Arthur Earl Sutton.

Sutton, who signed the warrant under which Norris was charged, alleges Norris struck him while he was under arrest last month

According to Ayden Police Chief James Ross, who said, "I'd rather not make any statement . . . ," Sutton was in jail on a charge of operating under the influence at the time the incident allegedly occurred.

Debate Opens On Haynsworth

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ranking Republican on the Senate Judiciary Committee said today that "philosophy, not ethics" underlies the controversy over the Supreme Court nomination of Clement F. Haynsworth Jr.

"The real issue is President Nixon's attempt to restore some balance to the Supreme Court of the United States," said Sen. Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska in urging confirmation of the South Carolina jurist, now chief judge of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

"Freewheeling charges have been directed at Judge Haynsworth's ethics, charges that will be hard to live down if sustained by this Senate," Hruska said. "Yet, it is a battle not really being fought over ethics but over the philosophy of the man."

Hruska's speech was prepared to lead off the Senate debate on Haynsworth's nomination, submitted by Nixon last August. The outcome is in doubt.

The office of Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., reported that he will make a speech later in the day opposing confirmation. He has been among senators listed as uncommitted.

Hruska, who Wednesday filed the Judiciary Committee's majority report supporting the nomination, asked "what precedent will be set if a man of Judge Haynsworth's reputation and ability can be brought down by often-repeated charges."

Pumpkin-Takers Left Two Bikes

The joke seems to be on two would-be thieves as police continue their investigation of an incident here Tuesday night.

Detectives said Karl E. Turner of 1201 Crestwood Dr. called police yesterday morning and reported that two boys had taken a pumpkin from his porch Tuesday night.

The investigators explained that Turner gave chase to the boys who in turn ran, leaving behind their bicycles.

Turner, who locked the bicycles up, still has possession of the vehicles.

His pumpkin was smashed.

College Assured By Grade Of 80

NEW YORK (AP) — The Board of Higher Education has approved a compromise plan assuring all high school graduates who have 80 averages or are ranked in the top half of their class with admission to a four-year college in the City University.

All other high school graduates would be assured at least two years of college.
