

'BULLSEYE' LANDING ON MOON

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Two American astronauts made a bull's-eye landing on the moon today, raising their nation's flag and exploring its black, powdery surface for about four hours.

Before returning safely to their lunar ferry Intrepid, they deployed a set of five scientific instruments powered by the first nuclear generator on the moon. It was man's second quest for knowledge on that alien soil.

The moonwalk was spoiled for earthlings when a camera relaying the first color television pictures from the surface failed after 45 minutes.

Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean, the third and fourth humans to tread the moon, were in good humor and wisecracked often as they conducted a detailed exploration of the moon's surface. Conrad's cackling laugh became a familiar sound.

They steered their lunar ferry Intrepid to a perfect landing just 20 feet from the edge of their target crater at 1:54:29 a.m. Just 600 feet away rests an unmanned Surveyor spacecraft that soft-landed on the slope of the crater 2½ years ago.

They hope to walk to the Surveyor and retrieve parts of it during a second outside excursion scheduled to start at 12:32 a.m. Thursday. They also hope to have the television camera repaired in time for the second walk. Experts on the ground were working on a solution.

The nuclear generator worked perfectly, and the instruments began sending data to earth as soon as the unit was turned on. After collecting a few rock samples, raising the flag and deploying the nuclear-powered instruments, Conrad and Bean climbed back into Intrepid's cabin to rest for the second excursion Thursday.

Before returning to the cabin they brushed off layers of the dark powder that clung to them.

The moonwalkers originally were to have stayed outside about 3½ hours. With their oxygen supply holding well, Mission Control told them to remain out an extra half an hour and instructed them to collect samples from the rim of a nearby crater. Conrad and Bean reported the dust in the Ocean of Storms was thicker and blacker than that in the Sea of Tranquility where the first moon explorers landed in July.

"Your boots dig into the soil quite a bit," Bean said. "If you don't pick up your feet you really kick a load of dirt in front of you."

They roamed several hundred feet from Intrepid to explore and to set up a set of five sophisticated scientific instruments to measure such things as the solar wind, moonquakes and the moon's atmosphere and ionosphere.

To power the instruments they implanted the first nuclear generator on the surface, a unit which required delicate handling because of its hot radioactive element.

The camera did record the first steps of both on the powdery surface. Commander Conrad's first words as he placed his 13-inch boot in the soil were: "That may have been a small one for Neil, but that's a long one for me."

He referred jokingly to Neil Armstrong's first words last July when he became the first man to step on the moon: "That's one small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind."

While ground experts studied the problem, the astronauts abandoned the camera to continue their exploration.

The third member of the expedition, Richard F. Gordon Jr., orbited some 65 miles overhead, awaiting the return of his companions on Thursday after they complete 31½ hours on the surface.

They were overjoyed at the landing spot, as they wondered at a variety of geological formations surrounding them.

"We couldn't have picked a better spot," Conrad reported. "We could play geologists all day and we would get no farther than we are now."

The commander noted a strange-looking mound, and commented excitedly: "I've got to photograph this thing. I can't imagine what it is. There's this

Rose High Principal Warren Submits Resignation

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Rose High School principal Edward Warren has submitted his resignation to be effective December 31. The City School Board, as its monthly meeting last night, accepted the letter of resignation, which Warren wrote on November 15.

"It is with regret that I find it necessary to resign at this particular time. However, due to other opportunities, which I cannot afford to turn down, necessitates my decision at this time."

Dr. Cleetwood, superintendent of the city schools, revealed that after the hearing on the five expelled students which was held Monday, the panel immediately went into executive session. The panel, made up of Dr. Cleetwood, Warren and assistant be concurred in by the superintendent," he commented.

"In practice, all notices of suspension and, of course, those of expulsion are furnished me," Dr. Cleetwood said. "A report of expulsion when first received is not a detailed one. Only when a formal hearing is requested does the report become completely detailed with statements of witnesses and all other facts."

Harding Sugg and "I recommend all infractions in all schools be recorded and a copy kept on file in the principal's office of the school involved."

John Bizzelle introduced a motion making Sugg's suggestion a formal matter. This motion was unanimously approved by the board.

A discussion of the school bus situation resulted in a recommendation by the board to Dr. Cleetwood that "the necessary action be taken to put a school faculty member on special duty to carefully monitor the arrival and departure of busses." It was also recommended that the two activity busses be used if this is required to further eliminate the problem of overcrowding or late busses. "We want to be assured that bus problems do not again become an area of critical concern," commented Dr. James Bearden. One new bus has been purchased recently.

Other items acted on at the monthly meeting were:

—The acceptance "with sincere gratitude" of property adjoining the E.B. Aycock School offered to the city by Reynolds May and David Evans. "This offer is made without any strings attached, and is free of any stipulation," Dr. Cleetwood explained.

—Approved payment to the city police of overtime amounting to $417.00. This is for night watch duty personnel for the city administrative office and for Rose High which was requested by the board and constitutes duty in addition to regular police protection during day hours at Rose High.

—Approved hiring two study hall supervisors to perform duty in Rose High. Dr. Cleetwood made a request for these two additional personnel and also for an additional secretary to assist in the administrative department at Rose. The additional secretary was not approved. The two study hall supervisors will "make it possible to divide the study hall students into three groups of 30 to 40 each, instead of one teacher having to handle more than 100 students at a time," Dr. Cleetwood noted. "This will also eliminate some regular teachers having to give up their one planning period each day," he added.

—Approved a Class "A" choice-type lunch for Aycock Junior High. This results in a lunch costing 35 cents, instead of the 30 cents for a standard, non-varying lunch. The additional nickel cost makes it possible to offer a choice of food to the students.

—Granted an easement to principals David S. Barnhill and T.S. Whitney, upheld the expulsion of the five students.

The students and their counsel were apprised of this decision. Federal Judge John Larkins is expected today or tomorrow to give a ruling on a temporary restraining order, based on the transcripts of the hearing.

Board chairman Dr. E.B. Aycock commented "If the judge rules against the students, they still have an opportunity to appeal to the school board." Dr. Aycock was not a member of the panel—an earlier newspaper report stating he was to be a member was in error.

School administrative procedures for suspending and expelling students were discussed by the board. Dr. Cleetwood explained that "a principal has the legal right to suspend, without further reference to the superintendent, a student up to ten days. A suspension of 10 days or more must be approved by the superintendent."

"An expulsion, which is for the entire school year, must

David Nobles, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. David M. Nobles of Stokes, received the coveted Lifesaving Award last night at the annual Scouting Recognition Banquet at the Moose Lodge.

Nobles was presented the certificate of heroism from East Carolina Council president Ed Rawl in recognition of his "effective and heroic action in saving the life of Dr. J.W. Lynn Jr., at Atlantic Beach last year. The citation credited Nobles, who is a sophomore at North Carolina State University, with swimming out, with the use of a surf board, to Dr. Lynn and bringing him to safety. Lynn had been caught in a strong undertow and, as Rawl commented last night, normally the conditions would be impossible for even the best swimmer to have undertaken.

At the time of the accident, Dr. Lynn, a resident doctor at Wake Memorial Hospital, was unable to identify or find out who had rescued him. Further inquiries and correspondence with residents of Stokes led to the identity of Nobles.

Nobles heroic actions on May 12 of last year led to his nomination and subsequent awarding of the citation. Present at the meeting last night to witness the presentation was Dr. Lynn who took time out from his practice in Raleigh to come to Greenville.

Officers installed last night included J.K. Proctor Jr., as district chairman; Frank Saunders, vice-chairman; Heber Adams, district commissioner; Dr. C.C. Cleetwood, advancement chairman; Dr. Herbert Hadley, health and safety chairman; Jimmy Dunn, leadership training chairman; Dr. H.T. Patterson, roundtable commissioner and Fred Baumann, finance chairman.

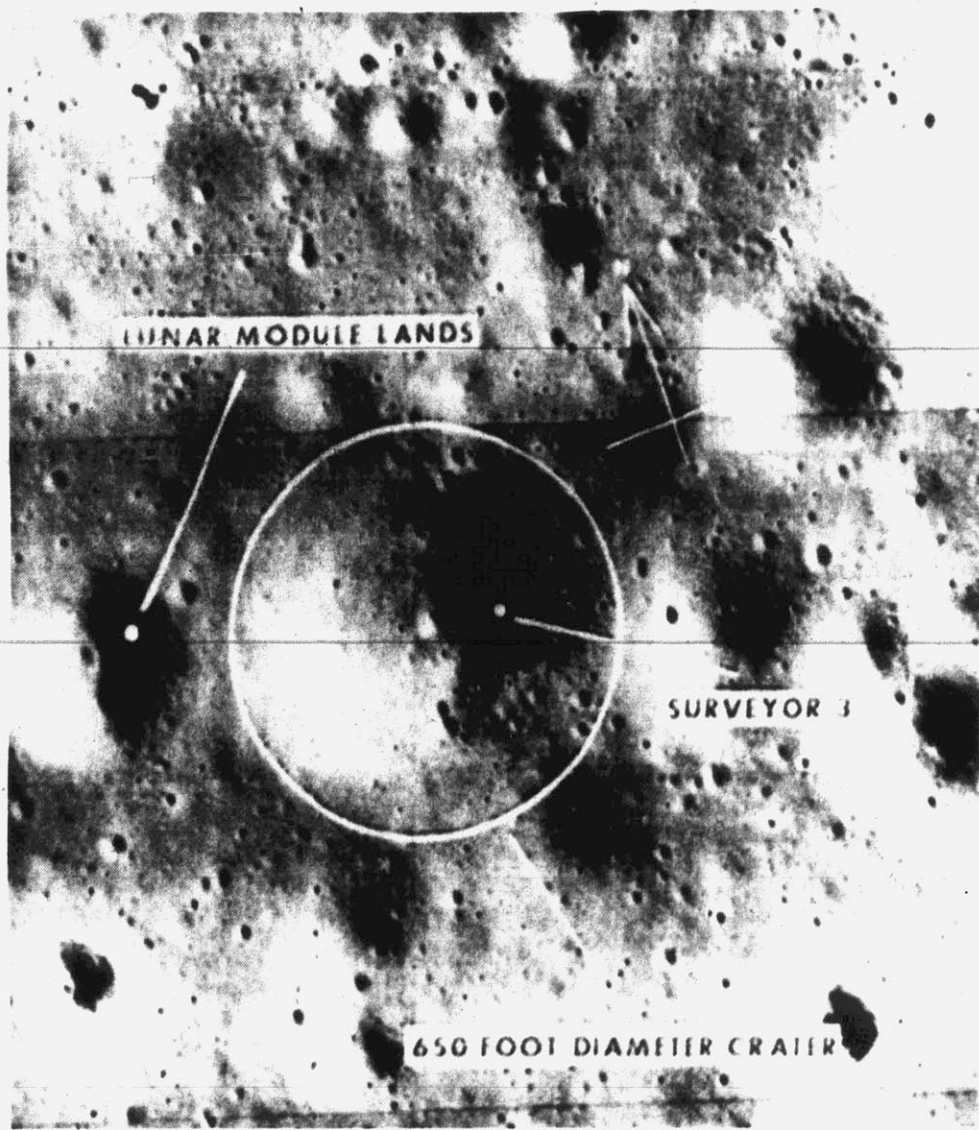

J. K. PROCTOR, JR.

In addition, Capt. Andrew Gibbons was installed as the U.S.A.F. liaison officer; Robert L. Mosley as district scout executive; Mrs. Daisy Basso, 1969 Pot Luck Supper chairlady and Harold Bowers, Order of the Arrow chapter advisor.

Eagle Scoutry who were presented were: Thomas R. Andrews, Hilton L. Tetterton Jr., John Charles Young, J. Dawson Andrews Jr., William R. Burton, David D. Perry, Charles C. French, Christopher P. Indorf, Paul E. Vernon, Thomas M. Vicars, Jeffrey S. Cargile.

Hospital Board OKs Reworking Operating Room Air Conditioning

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
The Pitt Memorial Hospital trustees approved last night the reworking of air conditioning systems for the hospital's operating rooms at an anticipated cost of $24,900.

This action had been recommended by the executive committee, which met Monday night, because of a near-crisis condition which occurred during the past month when the mechanical failures of air conditioning and emergency generators made the operating rooms temporarily unusable.

According to Kenneth Dews, chairman of the executive committee, when heat was turned on the week of October 20, rust particles broke loose in the air filtering equipment which is part of the closed air system servicing the operating rooms. Efforts to clean the system and add additional filter material at the outlets to the operating room were unsuccessful. The operating rooms were closed October 25 as a safety precaution and immediate steps were taken to install two independent air conditioning units into the two operating rooms at the end of the suite.

A Medical Care Commission representative inspected the system and the operating rooms were functional October 30. The two rooms were staffed for two-shift-a-day operation while plans were studied to make the third room functional.

October 31, there was a malfunction in the emergency generator furnishing back-up power to the operating room area when power failed. Engineers from Freeman and White Associates, Inc. made a thorough study of this back-up system and recommended that the emergency power back up be switched to the newer of the two back-up generators. Completed November 8, this change was designed to doubly protect against future power failures.

The engineers also surveyed the air conditioning for the operating room and made extensive recommendations about replacing the old system.

Dews pointed out that hospital maintenance men work day and night throughout the emergency period and suggested that hospital administrator C.D. Ward write a letter on behalf of the trustees thanking each one for his extra effort during a dire emergency.

Stephen L. Joyner, a new physician's assistant to Dr. J. Elliott Dixon, was introduced to the Board and the Board approved the duties he will be authorized to perform at the hospital as part of his job.

The Board's meeting time was changed from 7:30 to 7 p.m. each third Tuesday of the month. This schedule will be used at least until Daylight Savings Time becomes effective next year.

Ward reported that work on improvements to the critical care unit is temporarily halted until some necessary materials that have been ordered arrive.

He said that work on the psychiatric wing, which will be on the east end of the first floor, will begin soon after the critical care improvements are completed.

It was reported that 89.49 percent of all fees incurred by the hospital ambulance patients have been paid for the month of October. Ward explained that drivers have been instructed to ask for payment at the time of the trips, since their services are not of an emergency nature. Of $1,422.50 paid during October, $1,042 was incurred during the same month.

Delton Perry suggested that commendations be sent to each of the rescue squads in the county for the fine service they are rendering during emergency situations. Ayden, Bethel, Farmville, Fountain, Greenville, and Grifton all have rescue units.

There had been considerable speculation around the capital over who would get the high court seat, but Moore was always considered to be the front-runner.

Others mentioned prominently included Judge David Britt of the North Carolina Court of Appeals, Sen. Lindsay Warren Jr., D-Wayne, and former Sen. Thomas White of Kinston.

Sam Levenson Says 'Use Poetry' In Your Answer

By NAOMI ROCK
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — When Sam Levenson was a child and asked the eternal question "Where did I come from?" he got the predictable evasions: "Ask mama, you're from her side of the family ... Is that a nice way to talk to your mother? ... Don't be fresh! ... Children don't have to know such things."

Those were the good old days, the days of innocence before young imaginations were confused by facts—before the subject of sex had passed from the less said the better to let's tell all even though junior neither understands nor cares.

Sam Levenson is sorry times have changed. So, with the help of cartoonist Whitney Darrow Jr., comedian Levenson has written a wistful, touching child's-eye-view of the mysterious world of sex. From kids learning by what they see: "Let's play pregnant. I'll shave and you throw up."—to what they hear: "So I came from a seed daddy planted. Was my picture on the package?"—to what they believe: "I don't care what the teacher says. I didn't come out of nobody's stomach. I came out of the Brooklyn Jewish Hospital."—"Sex and the Single child" is a collection of charming vignettes of a bygone time.

Levenson, who calls himself an unabashed sentimentalist, says he wanted to write a "loveable" book about children—"the only ones who can speak with absolute authority about innocence."

"In this sophisticated, cock-eyed world," he said, "where nudity has become The Thing, it's marvelous to see life again through the eyes of a kid who has no leer on his face."

"When kids are very young—6, 7, 8—that's no time to make scientists of them. It's a time for innocence, for wondering, for imagining."

"I have no objection to sex education," continued the high school Spanish teacher-turned humorist. "But it depends on how it's taught. All the charts, and the birds and the bees. Forget it! I think sex should be taught with the stress on love, not on biology."

The subject, he says, should be called "love"—because love is what the world is all about ... and because many children don't get enough of it.

"It should be love in geometry, love in chemistry, love in health, love in sex. Just explaining how babies are born is not the answer: Kids want to know how to get love in the world, how to receive love, how to give love."

When the child asks where he came from, Levenson says, he's actually asking "where," not

"how." He's more concerned with "creation than procreation." He's worried about death, about where he came from and about whether, somehow, he might be sent back.

"That's the where," says Levenson. "It's easier to explain the how—that's a matter of male and female plumbing."

Levenson, who says he finished teaching sex when his daughter, now 17, and his son, now 25, grew up, says, nevertheless that he's always ready to give advice to others.

"If I were teaching sex I'd stress the beautiful four letter words, the words that are vital for understanding the three letter word, "sex"—words like care, help, kiss, feel, give and of course love. I would tell children to go write these words on bathroom walls."

Sex, says Levenson, should be taught all the time, as education for living, as human relations.

"All teaching should lead toward life. A kid says his mother's going to have a baby. That's the time, not next Friday morning in sex class."

"The first thing you say is, How wonderful. Isn't it wonderful how life begins? ... That there were people before you and there'll be people after you. That you're just part of this chain of forever."

"It gives a kid a feeling of importance. He belongs to eternity."

Along with this broader teaching, Levenson says, is "Twins Go Far In Togetherness"

LONDON (UPI)—The 3-year-old Holt twins have been inseparable since they were born—playing the same games, eating the same meals, refusing the same foods.

So when doctors admitted Debby to the hospital for an eye operation, Justin took to a bed, too.

"They would be lost without each other," said Mrs. Joan Holt. "Doctors agreed to put Justin in the hospital, too—he will help Debby get better just by being there."

ing, you throw in some facts, he adds, depending on the age of the child.

"Use poetry. When he's 6, tell him that one day he'll fall very much in love, he'll find a girl and get married and they'll have children. Don't confuse him with specifics. He really doesn't want to know."

Top Man In Commercials

NEW YORK (AP) — Allen Swift, the No. 1 behind-the-scenes voice in America today, has just completed his 45,000th commercial since entering the field in 1954 as a "flashlight battery." "The man of a thousand voices," Swift has simulated every voice from president of the United States to a peanut.

Allen is decidedly a wizard in the field of character voices for objects as well as people. His voices are heard on commercials of many similar products, and in the beer field alone he is heard on commercials for about 30 different beers.

According to Swift his supply of voices is endless because each one is a mixture of age, geography, personality, background and texture, to suit every person or object. For instance, a pencil "is culture and it is slim." "So" says Allen, "a pencil has a slim, cultivated voice."

Allen states that he had been practicing and doing things with his voice ever since he was a child. Mimicry was his favorite pastime in school and in the service, and when he started to work he used it to entertain in night clubs. With a background as an actor, comedian, artist and mimic, Allen broke into the field of television and radio commercials when an advertising agency executive heard his voice on the "Howdy Doodie Show" and asked him to audition. Agency executive heard his sponsors have included breakfast cereals, automobiles, toys, cigars, soaps, banks and of course beers.

Consult Plentiful Foods Survey Before Doing Holiday Shopping

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Four traditional Thanksgiving foods—turkey, potatoes, cranberries and apples—have made the plentiful foods list of the U.S. Department of Agriculture often in recent years at holiday time.

This weekly report, carried by hundreds of American newspapers, is a big help to budgets because foods in plentiful supply are priced lower than scarce items.

A 14-year study of the plentiful foods survey showed turkey listed every November during that period, which ended in December, 1968. Potatoes were listed 12 Novembers, cranberries, 10, and apples, nine.

So, before you make your holiday shopping list, consult the current plentiful foods survey for best buys, and make substitutions for traditional items if you can buy them for less.

Some fresh vegetables are likely to cost more per serving this time of year than canned ones. Some frozen foods may represent a saving for your family if otherwise you would have to take a day off from work for advance meal preparations. Counting calories as well as cents? Substitute evaporated skimmed milk in the sauce for creamed onions and in pumpkin pie. It makes an especially smooth sauce and the extra butterfat content of cream will be avoided inconspicuously in this traditionally rich, heavy meal.

Made-from-scratch dressing is cheaper than the packaged kind, particularly if you buy day-old bread. Stale bread also makes better dressing—it's easier to cube and absorbs liquids better.

Only a hostess knows the size of her guests' appetites and can shop accordingly. A teen-ager obviously will eat more servings than a small child or an elderly person. Most people also tend to eat extra servings of favorite foods.

To help second-guess this problem, we've compiled a buying guide, based on servings per pound or other appropriate market unit, for traditional Thanksgiving foods. Unless otherwise indicated, a single serving is the 1/2 cup suggested by the American Home Economics Association in its Handbook of Food Preparation.

To find the amount to buy for a particular food, divide the number of servings per pound, can or package into number of servings you wish to prepare.

Bread for stuffing—12 cups of 1/2-inch cubes from a 1-pound loaf of day-old enriched white bread, or 16 cups from same weight of fresh white bread. One slice of fresh bread yields 1 cup of soft cubes; day-old bread, 1 slice yields 3/4 cup cubes. In buying larger loaves, figure about 19 slices from a 1 1/2-pound loaf, 24 slices from a 2-pound loaf.

Cranberries—1 pound of fresh berries makes 1 quart of sauce, enough for 16 servings of 1/4 each.

Yams—1 medium, about 3 by 5 inches, per person, or 2 to 3 servings per 16-ounce can.

Sweet potatoes—about 3 servings per pound, fresh; 3 to 4 servings per 16 to 17-ounce can or a 12-ounce package of frozen ones; 1 1/4 servings from a 1-pound package of dried flakes, reconstituted.

White potatoes—3 1/2 servings per pound for mashed.

Brussels sprouts—3 servings from a 1-pint box, fresh, or a 10-ounce package of frozen ones. Cabbage for slaw—7 to 9 servings per pound. Onions—4 to 5 servings per pound, fresh, or 4 servings from a 16-to-17-ounce can. Rutabaga and turnips—4 servings per pound, fresh.

Winter squash—2 1/4 servings per pound, fresh. Apples for Waldorf salad—5 2-3 cups, peeled and diced, per pound, or 3 medium apples.

Green beans—5 servings per pound, fresh, 4 servings from a 9-ounce package, frozen, or about 12 servings from a 1 1/4 pound bag, frozen.

Peas—2 servings per pound, fresh; 4 servings from a 10-ounce package, frozen, or a 16 to 17-ounce can; slightly more than 12 servings from a 2-ounce bag, frozen.

Dr. Kuchar Is BPW Speaker Thursday Night

Dr. Marvin C.J. Kuchar, chemist at DuPont Plant, was speaker at Thursday night's meeting of the Greenville BPW Club.

Mrs. Elvira Allred, chairman of Civic Participation Committee, introduced the speaker. He spoke on the evils of pollution in the air, water and food.

He said our air is polluted by burning garbage, trash, manufacturing, automobile exhaust and others. He noted that air pollution adds to respiratory diseases.

Dr. Kuchar said that the U.S. will spend 185 million dollars this year trying to find out if there is a pollution problem.

Congratulations were given to Miss Annie Turner, who recently retired from the U.S. Government Service, after having served 30 years. She has been a member of the local club for 25 years.

Congratulations were extended to Miss Ruth A. White. The second 10-story dormitory for women at ECU was dedicated on Nov. 9 and was named in honor of Miss White. She served as dean of women at ECU for 18 years and has been a member of the club for 20 years.

It was announced that at the next club meeting, members will bring gifts to be sent to Cherry Hospital for Christmas for the forgotten patients. Gifts, in order, are any clothing or usable items for any age, male or female. The gifts are to be brought unwrapped.

Members were asked to submit nominees for state officers by Dec. 15. The next club meeting will be on Thursday, Dec. 11.

Mrs. Polly Dail, president, conducted the dinner meeting. A special guest was Dorothy Knowles, assistant register of deeds for Pitt County.

For lunch-box sandwiches try these: Cream cheese, chopped black olives and chopped walnuts on rye; minced sardine and onion with lemon juice on white bread; pineapple and cottage cheese on date-nut bread; minced ham and peanut butter on raisin bread; sliced chicken and bacon with Russian dressing on a hard roll; chopped egg and shrimp with capers on French bread.

Championship Winners Named

The Faculty Duplicate Club held a club championship event Friday evening at the Planters Bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Humphrey of Kinston placed first overall.

Other winners were: Mrs. S.M. Woolfolk and Mrs. Harold Forbes, second; Mrs. J.S. Willard and Dr. Graham Davis, third; Mrs. William Parvin and L.T. Harris, fourth; Mrs. J.M. Horton and Mrs. W.R. Harris of Fountain, fifth.

Section winners were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mills, C.J. Goodman and Dave Proctor, Mrs. Frank Moseley and James Stewart.

Engagement Announced

MISS BETTY LOU RAYBURN... is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Rayburn of Washington, who announces her engagement to Leland Baker Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Baker Sr. of Rt. 2, Grimesland. The wedding will take place Dec. 12.

Housewife's 'Mouse' Avoids Broom And Trap

By PATRICIA E. DAVIS
NEW YORK (UPI)—The common mouse, despite its size, can accomplish giant deeds.

As a "guinea pig," it can provide the keys to cure mankind's ills, as a research animal, it can explore the mysteries of outer space, as a pet it can bring great joy to children, and as the unwanted tenant of a house, it can drive a housewife up a wall.

Case in point: This reporter, possessor of a fully equipped Manhattan apartment complete with mouse, perhaps the hardiest and the smartest mouse in history.

My mouse has, in six months, outwitted four exterminators, eight different brands of mousetraps and a broom-wielding husband.

Our apartment has become a no-man's land, with mousetraps lurking in every corner and echoing with hubby's yells and the thud of a broom as husband and mouse gallivant around the living room.

Obviously, this nightly romp is great fun for the mouse—he surfaces every evening about eight o'clock for his game of tag. My husband, to his fury, has yet to land a blow, but at least he gets some exercise.

My mouse is equally shrewd when it comes to traps.

Numerous friends have contributed tips on bait for traps—a chunk of charred bread, the usual cheese, and comedienne Phyllis Diller suggested that we try bacon. The mouse loves them all—and unerringly steals the bait from every trap without getting caught.

My city mouse is also very sociable—there's nothing he likes better than a party and he shows up for every one we give. And every party ends in chaos, as women guests scream and hubby charges for his broom.

My husband recently declared all-out war on my mouse and spent six hours one evening sealing every open space in the kitchen that could be used as a mouse escape route. Obviously there was one he missed. When I walked into the kitchen to check on his progress, the mouse was sitting in a corner watching him. He took off when I came into the room and somehow escaped.

Even exterminators can't catch him. We've tried four

Husband Has A Time Schedule

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: If you can't answer this, please don't tell me to talk to my minister or doctor because I couldn't face them with this problem.

Putting it bluntly, ever since we have been married (it's going on 9 years) my husband will have relations with me only on Saturday night. If I am in the mood on Monday, I can just forget it. Also, if I am dead tired or not in the mood on Saturday, that doesn't make any difference to him.

Outside of this one fault, he is a good husband and a better than average father to our four children, so maybe I shouldn't complain. But I want to know if this is normal in a man, or is there something wrong with him?

SATURDAY NIGHT WIFE
DEAR WIFE: One of the things that is "wrong" with your husband is his bull-headedness. Also, if he puts marital relations on a time schedule, he doesn't know the first thing about how to please a woman—or himself for that matter. And if he isn't willing to learn, shame on him. My condolences.

DEAR ABBY: I own and operate a small but up-to-date neighborhood grocery store and here is my problem. We deliver, but there is one customer who comes into the store at least twice a day to buy one or maybe two items. Then she helps herself to the largest shopping bag we have. These bags cost ME 5 cents each.

The delivery boy tells me that this lady has more shopping bags in her house than we have in our store.

This isn't going to make or break me, but it is very irritating. Is there some way I can put a stop to this without appearing petty?

NEW JERSEY GROCER
DEAR GROCER: No. But since it will neither make nor break you, I advise you to charge it off to the cost of doing business and forget it. An ulcer is far more irritating and in-initely more expensive.

DEAR ABBY: I have a husband who saves, collects, and stores all kinds of things—large and small. Where does he store them? Right in the living room, bedroom, and hallways. We literally live in a warehouse.

Everywhere you look, things are packed and piled in boxes. You wonder if you just moved in and haven't unpacked yet, or we are moving out.

If I put up a shelf for my things, right away HE loads it down with his. I once moved some of his boxes down in the basement with the help of a friend and the roof came off. That can't happen again because there's no more room down there.

I think it's like a disease with him. No woman can cure him either. I am his third wife. Now I know why the others left him.

There is no place to sit. He has the couch all covered with stuff, and same for the dining room chairs. He could live his whole life sitting on a kitchen chair.

He has an oil drum in the living room and a drill press in the bedroom. Don't ask me why he's saving them.

As it is, I practically live in the car and try to get my work done in this warehouse.

If there is another wife who has solved this problem outside of divorce, I wish she would write in. Thank you, too, Abby, for listening.

Very truly yours,
GOING CRAZY

DEAR GOING: You don't say how long you have lived with this pack rat, but from your letter I would say your squirrely husband is about to strike out for the third time.

CONFIDENTIAL TO M.P.: It's a great deal easier to forgive an enemy after you get even with him.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to write Letters for All Occasions."

HOW TO SEW WITH FUR LIKE FABRICS

As you know, the fur-like fabrics are big on the fashion scene again this season. At present it is possible to get imitation furs in the following patterns: ponyskin, leopard, tiger, cheetah, kalgan, lamb, chinchilla, persian lamb, opossum, ocelot, rabbit, zebra giraffe, broadtail, polar bear, and fox. By the time you read this and go to your nearest fabric store, there may be others, and with a selection like this, you should be able to find one to win your heart.

Imitation fur has a pile surface, usually synthetic, that looks like fur and a backing that is woven, knitted, or sometimes quilted, in a synthetic or cotton yarn. They can be divided into three categories according to their depth of pile: deep pile, medium pile, or short pile. Although these three fabric types are constructed basically the same way, there are some differences in handling them.

Read the label to see if the fabric is washable or dry cleanable. These fabrics should be bought using the yardage for fabrics with a nap. If not given, add 3/4 to 1 1/4 of a yard.

PATTERN SELECTION: Patterns with few seams work better. Choose designs without buttonholes and use snaps, frogs, or some other decorative closing.

LAYOUT AND CUTTING: Follow the layout for napped fabric. The nap on the fur should always run down.

MARKING: Tracing wheel and carbon paper do very well on most of the short or medium high piles. Mark deep piles with tailor's tacks or tailor's chalk.

STITCHING: Use a medium to large needle (14-16) and heavy duty thread. Lengthen your machine stitch to about 10 per inch. SEAMS: Stitch in the direction of the pile whenever possible. Use a needle to lift pile caught in stitched seam on right side. This will make the seam invisible if carefully done.

DARTS: Split down the center and press open.

These are just a few pointers which might be helpful in sewing on your new fake-fur. Have fun and if you have any further questions, call your Extension Home Economist.

Joseph P. Kennedy's life was one of colossal accomplishment and towering tragedy. The head of what is perhaps America's most glamorous political family died yesterday at Hyannis Port, Mass. His health had been bad since 1961 when he suffered a stroke on a Palm Beach, Fla. golf course.

During his long life Mr. Kennedy had founded one of the great family fortunes of America; he saw his sons rise to positions of highest importance in government and he observed death and misfortune plague the family beyond anything that could have been imagined.

Like so many great fortunes there is no accurate estimate of how much money Joseph Kennedy piled up in his lifetime, but it is estimated now as high as half billion dollars.

However, as Joe Kennedy made a fortune, he did not forget that there was a need for public service and he was active in Democratic party affairs, becoming ambassador to Britain. He raised his large family with an interest in public service and eventually he was to see one son become president of the United States and two other sons serve in the Senate.

With all these glittering accomplishments, though, the tragedy which plagued the family is well known. The oldest son killed in World War II, a daughter killed in a plane crash, another daughter born retarded. In this decade at the height of his accomplishments, John Kennedy was killed by an assassin's bullet. Then Robert Kennedy, perhaps destined to follow his brother as president, was killed.

Even as Joseph Kennedy died, tragedy hung over the family, for his sole surviving son was driver of a car which plunged into a pond at Chappaquiddick Island, killing a young lady companion.

Joseph Kennedy and his family knew success that most of us only dream about; and they have known tragedy which would have broken lesser people.

The success and tragedy are over for Joseph P. Kennedy. However, through his own personal accomplishments and through the family he sired he has left a mark on the nation and world that few men have ever equalled.

Another 'Indicator' Of Effective Curbs

An industrial production decline in October for the third consecutive month gives hope that inflation in this country is at last coming under control and that there can soon be some relaxing of monetary controls.

There are a number of indicators which government economist watch to determine how the fight against inflation is going. Industrial production is one.

So far the slowing of the economy does not seem to be affecting the steadily rising prices which the consumer must pay for goods. But if the early indicators are accurate an easing of the inflationary trend of consumer prices should follow. So it is good news to an economist that industrial production is declining.

Soon this should mean some easing of tight money policies and eventually, America can get on with tackling some of its problems. It is important now, however, that restrictions not be lifted too soon before they have fully done their job of controlling inflation.

Ring Tightens Against Israel

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

BEIRUT, Lebanon—At the height of the crisis here between the government and the fedayeen commandos who wanted access routes from their Mt. Hermon base to the Israeli border, an emissary from the revolutionary government of Libya arrived in Beirut with a distinctly ominous message for Lebanese President Charles Helou. Was it not time, he asked pointedly, that Lebanon began to carry its share of the burden in the Arabs' struggle to recover lands lost to Israel in the six-day war and to tighten the ring around Israel by opening a more active front along Israel's northern border?

When Helou explained that Lebanon was a small country without a large army or sophisticated weaponry, the Libyan emissary replied that whatever Lebanon needed in the way of financial help, Libya was prepared to give. Rich with the untold wealth of its oil resources, Libya is undoubtedly both able and willing to carry out such a pledge to Lebanon.

And Lebanon is hardly in a position to say no. Younger Arab Moslems and some Christians are becoming more radicalized (a process that started last December when Israeli hawks in a closely-split cabinet decision ordered the unfortunate reprisal raid on civilian aircraft parked on the Beirut airport).

Thus, despite the cautious holding operation of the government, dominant political forces now at work both inside and outside Lebanon (Cairo and Tripoli) are tending to suck Lebanon into the vortex of the twilight Arab Israeli war. The Libyan messenger was only a small part of the pressure.

One predictable result of this polarization in Lebanon will be the rapid rise of Soviet influence. The Russians are already talking about new economic and cultural agreements, and Lebanon is interested. Thus, if Lebanon does indeed decide to beef up its army, the new arms and the technicians that accompany them are likely to come not from Lebanon's old friend, the United States, but from the Soviet Union.

The U.S. in contrast, has cut Lebanon off from all economic and military aid. A mere $5 million of American grant aid for riot-control equipment, an absolute essential for the police to control the street riots that are likely to break out with increasing force, would be a godsend today, but the $5 million isn't available.

Moreover, the two major political acts that might reduce the radicalization now taking place here in favor of militant Arab nationalists do not seem to be in the cards. One would be a clear, new statement by President Nixon followed by visible action pledging a "more even-handed" policy toward Israel and the Arabs (the phrase used by Mr. Nixon's envoy, former Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton, on his tour of the area a year ago but never mentioned since).

The other would be a big-power agreement on a basic settlement of the six-day war, which no Arab leader believes is possible. Without that Lebanon will be drawn further and further into the activist Arab camp, accelerating the development of a radical anti-Western and anti-Israeli Arab front which is already moving with alarming speed.

The revolutionary coup in Libya, for example, has made a major change in the power balance in North Africa, ending Western dominance of a strategic Mediterranean area. Beyond that the coup has overnight

Nixon's Job Still Safe

WASHINGTON—Despite rumors that have been rampant in Washington in the past few months, I can now reliably report that Vice President Spiro Agnew has no intention of dumping Richard Nixon in 1972. A spokesman for the Vice President told me that Agnew was very satisfied with the job his President was doing, and that he even intended to give him more responsibilities than any Vice President before.

The spokesman said, "I have been authorized to say that Vice President Agnew is proud of Mr. Nixon and feels the President has been a tremendous help to him in taking some of the Vice President's awesome burdens off his shoulders. Despite criticism of Mr. Nixon's speeches, Mr. Agnew has no intention of asking to see copies of them in advance."

Mr. Nixon's role as that of a missionary to explain the Administration's policies and to seek support for them. The President fills a basic need, touching on subjects that the Vice President of the United States is in no position to discuss. Also, by turning over to President Nixon such day-to-day chores as Vietnam, disarmament, inflation, the urban crisis and the Middle East, the Vice President can devote himself to important issues the country is interested in, such as memoratoriums, students, snobs and intellectuals and the coverage of TV news."

Other Editors Say All Are Brave Men

(Henderson Dispatch) Only the bravest of the brave are bold enough to undertake the mission on which three intrepid astronauts were launched Friday. The journey to the moon is fraught with the utmost danger from and including the blast-off until they splash down in the Pacific ocean a week hence. A thousand and one things, as it were, could happen to threaten and even snuff out their lives. They know that. They knew it when they entered the rocket's cramped quarters and even when they volunteered for space exploration.

miscue, it will be for them to overcome the difficulty. No help could in the least be possible. But brave men have risked their lives through the centuries in efforts to achieve objectives in which they were interested and which were for the benefit of all mankind. That is true not only of those who have challenged the elements and won, but likewise for countless others, even including those who have exposed themselves to disease in order to discover a cure or a preventive.

The men who flew Apollo 11 accepted the risks, and those on the present mission have done so no less. If Apollo 12 experiences the great good fortune of its predecessor, new knowledge of the moon will become available. That will be true likewise of others who are to follow in future ventures. The story is similar in all these undertakings. The prayers of all who believe in prayer will follow these daring spacemen all the way to the lunar sphere and back.

Tangled Web Of Issues

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — The interweaving of economic relationships is such that, curious as it may seem, there is a direct link between the black revolt in the United States and the stability of the international banking system.

The relationship goes something like this: —The United States has a chronic balance of payments deficit, meaning that it spends more abroad than foreigners spend in this country.

—This imbalance is potentially disruptive to world trade. It lowers confidence in the United States' ability to handle its financial affairs and it breeds doubts about the value of the U.S. dollar.

—The most direct way of correcting this imbalance is to really apply the brakes to the American economy, even pushing it into a recession. This would limit the ability of Americans to import; and it would lower the price of American goods abroad.

—The United States also has a problem of unrest among its nonwhite population. Negroes occupy relatively poor jobs. Their unemployment rate is much higher than for whites.

—It is felt by most responsible leaders that not only do Negroes have a right to a better standard of living but that improvement of their condition is a requirement in order to lessen social unrest.

—If the economy is slowed too sharply there will be a big increase in unemployment. And, since nonwhites traditionally occupy the lower rungs on the job ladder, it is they who might be first dismissed.

Presumably it is for this reason that U.S. officials at a meeting of central bankers in Basel, Switzerland, reportedly informed their counterparts that the payments problem is likely to persist for some time.

The Nixon administration seemingly is facing a dilemma, caught between the need to return the economy to stability but fearful that stronger anti-inflation measures might set off more social unrest.

Already the attempt by the administration to slow the rate of inflation has pushed unemployment to 3.9 per cent from a rate of 3.3 per cent at the beginning of the year.

Compared with rates of 5.5 per cent early in 1964, the present rate seems relatively low. But this statistic can be deceptively comforting and hide more unsettling news. For example, the teen-age jobless rate in September was more than three times the average, or 13.2 per cent of all teenagers actively looking for work. And the rate for nonwhites was 6.8 per cent compared with 3.6 per cent for whites.

Not A Whisper On Court Seat

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES RALEIGH—Ears were close to the ground but there was scarcely a murmur, hardly a rumor about Gov. Bob Scott's choice for appointment to the State Supreme Court bench.

The occasion was the ceremonial swearing-in of William H. Bobbitt as chief justice succeeding the late R. Hunt Parker. The question on everyone's mind was who Scott will select to succeed Bobbitt as an associate justice of the seven member high court.

"I've been listening but I haven't heard a thing," said one highly placed source.

Another said, "I wouldn't venture a guess."

If anyone knew—apparently few, very few did—they weren't saying. Governor Scott, who will make the appointment, simply smiled and indicated all would be made known in due time. And, of course, a formal announcement could come at any time. Certainly, sources said, it would be within a few days.

Moore—The most popular choice among the hundreds of persons prominent on the bench, at the bar and in political life of the state attending the ceremonies was former Governor Dan K. Moore.

Certainly on the basis of what little could be learned it appeared that Moore was the leading candidate for the high court vacancy.

Moore, also a former Superior Court judge, attended the swearing-in ceremonies and chatted amiably with everyone at the following reception. Some attempted to offer congratulations which he said might be premature.

One of those Moore chatted with at length was the veteran chief clerk of the Supreme Court, Adrian Newton.

Bobbitt—Chief Justice Bobbitt, a short, white-haired man of 69, with a ready smile, wore his black judicial robes while standing in the receiving line.

The governor's attractive wife, Mrs. Jessie Rae Scott, stood between Bobbitt and the governor. The governor in a gray suit and striped tie smiled and laughed and was his usual affable self.

He gave no indication of his possible choice as a successor to the vacancy.

Meanwhile, the new chief justice, Bobbitt, must run for election to the Supreme Court next year—seeking the unexpired term of Chief Justice Parker. Parker's term extends until Jan. 1, 1975.

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

Otherwise Bobbitt would have had to run for a full eight year term. His term as an associate justice would have expired Jan. 1, 1971, and he would have had to stand for re-election.

Others—Somewhat unusual is the fact that two associate justices also must stand for election next year with the possibility of opposition both in the primaries in May the General elections in November.

One of these will be the man Scott appoints to succeed Bobbitt. The appointment will be for the remainder of Bobbitt's unexpired term, slightly more than one year. But he will be eligible to run then for a full eight year term because the law so provides for this if the unexpired term expires on the first day of January succeeding the next election for members of the General Assembly. Thus the appointee will be able to run for a full term rather than what otherwise would have been only two months. The law, although it sounds complicated, takes care of this contingency.

Lake—The other associate justice who is expected to stand for election next year is Dr. I. Beverly Lake.

Dr. Lake won popular election to the Supreme Court in 1966 to fill the unexpired term of retired associate justice William B. Rodman. That term also expires on Jan. 1, 1971.

Comparative Care Of Executives

By ELMER ROESSNER The American executive is of a different breed of cat than his European counterpart, according to survey by Heidrick and Struggles International Chicago-based management consultants.

The American executive is paid far above the European, as might be expected. He is likely to be middle-aged. French and Belgian executives are likely to be elderly; Britain has many middle-aged, Germany fewer middle-aged and Italian executives average downright young, with one third under 30.

The French executive is likely to be the best educated, the American second best. The British—and this may surprise you—were found to be the least. The other nationals came someplace in between.

Foreign Languages Very The survey also showed that the British executive has the fewest other languages, the Dutch the most. Italian and Belgian executives had above average foreign languages, the German had average facility. The language skills of French executives were not determined, and neither were those of the American; although the study observes, "The language skills of U.S. presidents undoubtedly would be well below in any of the Europeans."

ELMER ROESSNER

The Belgian company heads make the most trips abroad, the British the least, although Americans are next to last. The Dutch, French and Germans make almost twice as many trips as the Americans. Land of Milk and Honey Analysis of top executives' annual cash compensation shows Americans far excel all others. While of all Europeans, only 31.4 per cent are paid $48,000 or more per year, more than 99 per cent of the U.S. presidents get $50,000 or more, and most of them are in the $100,000-$150,000 bracket.

Excitement In Learning

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Can there be excitement in learning?

Franklin Institute here thinks so. Those in charge of the Institute's Science Learning Museum are constantly seeking effective ways to accomplish this objective.

"To paraphrase an old show-business axiom," say the Franklin officials, "we want to leave them wanting more."

The latest attempt by the institute to capture young minds and lead them into a course of study designed to prepare them for careers in the science of combustion was the recent hanging of a significant 8-by-6 1/2-foot painting, "Flame of Man."

Everyone at the institute expressed confidence that this unique work of art, which is almost three-dimensional in appearance and captures and projects man's control of heat from the cave men to Apollo 11, will light the spark of science in millions of young minds in the years to come.

Sharing this belief with the institute's educators are the artist, Paul Dyck, a direct descendant of the famous Flemish artist, Sir Anthony Van Dyck, and the donor of the painting, Frederic O. Hess, chairman of the Selas Corporation of America, who commissioned the work of art specifically for telling the untold story of the history of mankind's benefits from controlled combustion.

Male Finally Beat Women

NEW YORK (AP)—After four years of frustration by the opposite sex, a man today holds the individual international jumping title of the National Horse Show.

Since 1965, the Buchanan Black & White trophy, emblematic of top honors in the Grand Prix of New York, has been captured by two women members of the U.S. Equestrian team, each of whom rode away with the prize twice.

Miss Kathy Kusner, first licensed lady jockey in the history of thoroughbred horse racing in the United States, won the foot-high sterling silver cup in 1965 and 1966 while Mrs. Mary Chapot captured the prize in 1967 and 1968.

The winner this year was Dr. Hugo Arrambide, an experienced Olympic rider on the Argentine Equestrian team, who captured the event after a jump-off with Terrance Millar of Canada. Miss Kusner ran out of the money when her horse, Wicked City, had three faults for refusal to make one leap and then was penalized another fault for running the course in overtime. Mrs. Chapot did not enter the competition this year.

The competitors were riders and mounts of equestrian teams from Argentina, Canada, Mexico and the United States.

Named Public Defender

RALEIGH (AP)—Solicitor G. Cherry, Fayetteville attorney, will begin a four-year term Jan. 1, as public defender for the 12th Judicial District, which is Cumberland and Hoke counties.

His appointment was announced Tuesday by Gov. Bob Scott Cherry, 36, a native of Bertie County, is now a Superior Court solicitor.

Priority Is Given To Basic Research

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—While earthlings get a knothole peek through the eye of a color television camera, Apollo 12 explorers Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean plan to be servants of science early Wednesday during all but a few minutes of their first walk on the moon.

Six minutes were set aside for the men to erect an American flag on the moon's Ocean of Storms and another eight of those precious minutes were scheduled for setting up the television camera.

All the remaining time—three hours and 14 minutes for Conrad and two hours and 23 minutes for Bean—is consumed with basic research.

More science is planned during the second stroll, expected to start at 12:32 a.m. EST Thursday, when Conrad and Bean hope to ease down a crater slope to visit an unmanned Surveyor craft that landed on the moon 2 1/2 years ago.

Wednesday's scientific expedition is to begin at 6:02 a.m. with Conrad easing backwards on hands and knees out the 32-inch-wide landing craft hatch.

After reaching the second of nine rungs on a ladder attached to the landing craft's front leg, Conrad pulls a ring that opens a compartment in which the camera is mounted. Then Bean, still inside Intrepid, switches it on to show Conrad descending to the lunar surface.

Conrad first spends several minutes getting used to the one-sixth gravity environment, assessing how difficult it is for men to keep their balance on the moon. Then using a scoop scrapes up a sample of moon rock and soil and puts it in a bag so he and Bean won't return to earth empty-handed if problems cut their moon walk short.

SPARE BATTERIES

The Apollo 12 commander then opens an outside door to a compartment on the landing craft and unstows spare batteries and breathing filters to be used in their life-supporting backpacks during the second moon stroll. Using a clothes-line-like conveyor belt, Conrad sends the soil sample and backpack supplies up to Bean.

As Conrad begins snapping the first of hundreds of pictures, Bean exits the lander at 6:32 a.m.

Conrad then goes to a compartment, unstows and deploys an antenna to be activated on the second moon walk. Looking like an upside-down umbrella, the antenna is to improve communications from the moon to earth.

DISCOVERY DATE

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Smog, a major problem in the nation's third largest city, was noted for the first time in 1943.

Lonely Vigil For Gordon, But Ready To Take Rescue Risks

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—Astronaut Richard Gordon knows it will be lonely on the backside of the moon, but he knows too that his lonesome vigil could make a life-or-death difference to the other Apollo 12 crewmen.

Circling the moon for 38 hours in a spaceship built for three, the command module Yankee Clipper, will be Gordon's task while Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean take the lunar lander Intrepid to the moon's surface. "It will be lonely," Gordon said in a preflight interview.

"There's just no doubt about that."

"But at the same time, I have to be prepared to rescue the LM in the event of any abnormal occurrence. That in itself is a formidable task."

BAD ORBIT

The rescue would come if Intrepid blasted away from the lunar surface but for some reason didn't achieve a full lunar orbit. Gordon would have to descend in Yankee Clipper for a rescue. "I'm willing to go down as low as necessary to rescue the LM," he said.

How low would that be?

"It depends on where they are," he said. "It would be pretty risky to talk about 10,000 feet. Hopefully, they would get into an orbit that is a little higher than that . . . in the neighborhood of nine miles."

"But certainly if they're in a clear orbit around the moon—if they're missing the land or the mountainous terrain—I think we're prepared to go down and get them."

"I sure don't want to come home without them, so I'm going down and get them."

FIRE ENGINE

To reach Intrepid stranded in a low lunar orbit, Gordon would fire Yankee Clipper's engine and place the spacecraft in an elliptic orbit. The low point of the orbit would coincide with Intrepid's orbital path.

Gordon would then rendezvous with Intrepid and link up. Conrad and Bean would transfer to Yankee Clipper through the connecting tunnel or, if the tunnel were damaged, climb out of the lunar module and work along a handrail to the hatch of the command ship.

Yankee Clipper's engine could then send it on a trajectory back to earth.

Gordon expects the 46 minutes of each two-hour lunar orbit when Yankee Clipper is behind the moon to be the loneliest. He will have no radio contact with earth.

'LONELY TIME'

"I think the backside of that moon, when you're completely devoid of contact with any other human being, any animate object other than yourself, is bound to be a lonely time."

"But hopefully there's enough activities going on, enough interest in what's happening that it should not pose a problem. I don't anticipate that it will pose any problem."

If Conrad and Bean discover they can't leave the moon because of damage to Intrepid, Gordon will have no way to rescue them. He would have to return to earth—alone.

Sting Could Be Fatal To Some

NEW YORK (UPI)—Authorities warn that the sting of a bee, wasp or hornet could be fatal.

The Greater New York Safety Council says persons who suffer a severe reaction to such a sting, should seek quick aid. Reactions include continued pain, heat throughout the body, aching joints and the appearance of hives.

The cod regularly lays between four million and six million eggs at a single spawning.

Patrol Camporee Draws Many District Scouts

Nearly 265 Pitt District scouts and their leaders participated in the Tenth Annual Patrol Camporee this weekend, held on the Chicod Creek near Grimesland.

Pitt scouting executive Robert L. Mosley said that scouts participating represented 35 different patrols and 12 troops throughout the county.

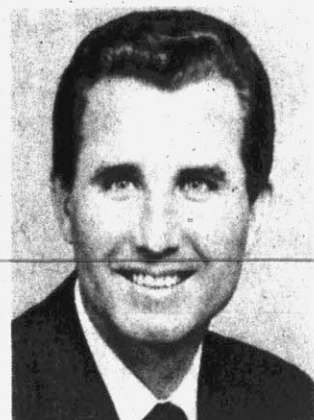

Activities were based on patrol competition, Mosley said, with physical fitness events dominating the 17 different contests.

Two patrols won outstanding honors during the competition, which began Friday afternoon and concluded Sunday morning following worship services on the campsite grounds. Buffalo of Troop 200 of Grimesland and Beaver of Troop 340 of Greenville took top honors.

Mosley said that the scouting staff was aided by APROTC cadets from East Carolina University. "These men did an outstanding job for us over the weekend and certainly helped to make the camporee a success," Mosley said.

The committee chief for the event was Robert L. Wilson of Grimesland. Members of the camporee committee were Tom Butts, Heber Adams and Dr. Herbert Hadley, all of Greenville, and Jack Farrior of Farmville.

Apollo 12 Wives, Families, Celebrate Safe Arrival

Awards Will Mark Event

The Coastal Plain Development Association's Annual Awards Program is scheduled for tomorrow night at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

The program, which will begin at 7 p. m., will feature the Honorable L. H. Fountain, Congressman of the Second District of North Carolina, as guest speaker.

Banquet committee chairman Edwin L. Yancey said that in addition to Fountain's address, the counties participating in the Community Development Awards Program will be recognized during the meeting.

The sponsor of tomorrow night's program, FPDA, Inc., is a non-profit organization devoted to the development of six principal counties of the coastal plain. Those counties are: Beaufort, Edgecombe, Martin, Nash, Pitt and Wilson.

Its six operating divisions are agriculture, home economics, community development, industrial development, travel and recreation, and youth and education.

Jas. Parnell In Recital Tonight

James Parnell is appearing in a horn recital tonight at 8:15 at the Recital Hall in the new Music Building on 10th Street.

Parnell, an East Carolina University faculty member, will present selections from the music of Telemann, Mozart, Neilson and Beethoven. He will be accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Sharon Pope, also an ECU faculty member.

The public is invited to attend this performance, for which no admission is charged.

Bob Hope Plans Trip To Vietnam

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope will make his 19th Christmas trip this year to entertain U.S. servicemen abroad, including his sixth visit to fighting men in Vietnam.

The National Broadcasting Co. said Tuesday that Hope will take a troupe of entertainers on a 15-day tour of bases in Germany, Italy, Turkey, Thailand, South Vietnam, Formosa and Guam.

The tour will start in mid-December. It is sponsored by the U.S. Department of Defense and the United Services Organization.

Beatles' Guru Being Probed

NEW DELHI (AP) — The "guru" of the Beatles and other personalities, Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, is being investigated by the Indian government for allegedly maintaining a bank account abroad.

Finance Minister P. C. Sethi told Parliament Tuesday Maharishi has been given a formal notice asking him to show cause why he should not be prosecuted for having an unauthorized account.

Sethi made the announcement after another member of the Indian Parliament asked if the government knew Maharishi had recently purchased a $33,600 Rolls Royce in London and if the government had given him permission to establish an overseas account.

First Lady Not Talking Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Richard M. Nixon says she won't disclose how much she spends on clothes, but she says she is really conservative about purchases for her wardrobe.

The First Lady brushed aside a survey of designers which indicated she had spent some $19,000 for clothes since her husband became President in January.

"Have you seen it walking around? Have you seen me in 65 new outfits?" Mrs. Nixon said in talking with newsmen Tuesday.

In response to a question, Mrs. Nixon said she does not have an allowance from the President.

"No, he doesn't check on me. He knows how conservative I am," she said.

Haynsworth Backers Cheered As Senate Sets Friday Vote

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration forces, facing a Senate vote Friday on the Supreme Court nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., have been buoyed by what one Republican leader calls "the way things are going."

Announcements Tuesday by two freshmen senators brightened the outlook for the Haynsworth backers.

The Senate's newest member, Republican Ralph T. Smith of Illinois, said he had changed his mind and will support Haynsworth. Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, said he too will vote for confirmation.

This came on the heels of word Monday from Sens. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., and William B. Spong, D-Va., that they would vote for Haynsworth.

Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said "the way things are going" he expects more announcements backing Haynsworth before Friday's 1 p. m. vote.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield obtained agreement on the timing of the vote after Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., a leader of the opposition, withdrew a proposal for a showdown Thursday.

Smith's decision to vote for confirmation tipped the balance in an Associated Press survey to 41 senators supporting the nomination compared to 40 against. The other 19 remain publicly uncommitted.

Smith, who was appointed to the Senate to succeed the late GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen, said last month at a "shadow naa been cast" on Haynsworth's record as chief judge of the 4th U.S. Court of Appeals and he could not vote for confirmation.

But Smith said Tuesday that after careful study he is convinced conflict-of-interest charges against the South Carolina jurist were "based on half-truths and misrepresentations."

In response to a question, Smith said the White House had exerted absolutely no pressure on him.

"No one will believe that," Smith said, "but it happens to be the simple unvarnished truth."

A proposed West German law now under discussion in the parliament would set the tolerance level for DDT residues in foodstuffs at one-tenth part per million. Weekman said tobacco grown in the United States contains as much as 20 parts per million of DDT and related substances.

The West German law, if passed, would become effective Jan. 1, 1973, but growers would have to stop the use of the pesticide next year to sell to West Germany. The 1970 crop will not appear on the world market for three or four years because it first will be aged.

Smith said his support of the nomination also reflects the views of his constituents since his mail has been running heavily in favor of Haynsworth.

"I agree with President Nixon that the voice of conservatism has a right to be heard in our Supreme Court," Smith said.

Sens. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., John Sparkman, D-Ala., and Paul J. Fannin, R-Ariz., were among those urging confirmation in Tuesday's debate.

They said there was no foundation to charges against Haynsworth of antilabor and anticivil rights bias and a lack of sensitivity to ethical standards.

Bayh challenged their conclusions, and Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, said Haynsworth's confirmation would damage the integrity of the Supreme Court.

In Madison, Wis., Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., said he is "80 per cent inclined to vote against" Haynsworth. "I've got misgivings about Judge Haynsworth's civil rights philosophies," Packwood said at a Republican fund raising dinner.

Gov. Bob Scott and Dr. Craig Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction, will speak to the eight counties involved in the special pilot kindergarten program through a telephone hook-up.

The kindergartens will begin at Wake County's Jeffrey's Grove Elementary School; Chowhony School in Beaufort County; Syla Elementary School in Jackson County; East Harper Elementary School in Caldwell; Woodhill Elementary School in Gaston; Saxapahaw Elementary School in Alamance; Southern Pines Elementary School in Moore; and Beaufort Elementary School in Carteret.

Funds were appropriated by the 1969 General Assembly to begin pilot programs in the eight counties. The results will be studied by the 1971 General Assembly to determine if kindergartens should be established in public schools across the state.

The Greenville City School Board Tuesday night issued a joint statement setting forth the official board position concerning the recent band-majorette issue at Rose High School.

This public statement is the result of an investigation by the board of all reported facts. The statement follows:

"1. Despite much planning during the spring and summer months to prepare for the merger of Eppes High School and Rose High School, some of the plans concerning the high school band majorettes were not adequately promulgated, and a thorough understanding was not reached among staff members and between staff and students.

"2. Following the opening of school, staff members failed in some instances to adequately communicate with each other. There was also a lack of coordination between students plans and staff supervision.

"3. Some student attitudes and cooperation have not been, in many instances, as good as had been desired and expected."

The board voted unanimously to endorse this statement as their position on the issue.

W.H. Robinson Alumni To Meet

There will be an alumni meeting at the W.H. Robinson School in Winterville on Sunday at 4:00 p. m.

The alumni of all graduating classes of Robinson Union School from the first graduation class to the present are asked to be on hand.

At this time, plans will be made for the Alumni Affair which is scheduled to be held in December.

First Public Kindergarten

NEW YORK (AP) — Worrywarts who are concerned with reports of today's economic slowdown are advised to face up to—and conquer—the situation by utilizing young men who will become the business leaders of tomorrow.

Robert W. Sarnoff, president of RCA, recently said, "We are observing a return to a competitive environment in which corporate leadership must justify growth and ultimately its right to exist. The non-competitors, who have thrived in a wide-open economy, inevitably will suffer, but there will be no back-up in the mainstream of economic thrust in the United States."

The leader of one of the world's leading corporations emphasizes that continuing programs of management development—acquiring, training and promoting managerial talent from the level of college graduates upward—are at a crisis. Underestimation of management needs is a mistake, "characteristic of much of established industry," he adds.

Sarnoff's business recruiting theory appears to be: "Get 'em young and bright and keep 'em polished." As chairman of the board of trustees at Franklin and Marshall College (in Lancaster, Pa.), he is well aware of the problems and potentials of today's youth. Rather than reflecting dismay with the current insurgence on the nation's campuses, Sarnoff looks to it with confidence and hope.

Separated from his colleagues, Richard F. Gordon Jr., piloted the command ship Yankee Clipper in moon orbit, alone and poised for a rescue attempt should one become necessary.

As the crew prepared for the descent, ground communicator Gerry Carr told the astronauts their wives were resting for the long night ahead.

"I just talked to Barbara and she's been resting up," Carr told Gordon. "They're taking naps and everything, getting all set for spending the night up with you."

"And Barbara said to tell you that she thinks you're just great."

"Well!" Gordon laughingly replied. "Tell her thank you. After 16 years, it's about time."

"Mama's going to let us stay up," exclaimed an excited Larry Gordon, 11, one of the six Gordon children. "And we don't have to go to school Wednesday."

Peter Conrad, 14, and a companion were mapping plans to reenact the flight of Intrepid in a cardboard "lunar lander" this weekend.

Peter and his friend, Michael Howell, will climb into a box between beds in a room of the Howell home Friday night.

The simulated moonship contains sleeping pads, a toy instrument panel, a television set and other equipment designed to aid the junior spacemen on their simulated flight, scheduled to end Sunday.

The two Bean children, Clay, 13, and Amy, 6, were also swept up in the excitement of the moon adventure.

But their reactions differed. Clay complained that his schoolmates brought newspaper pictures of him to school, which "is embarrassing." Amy, on the other hand, took the clippings and raced off to show a girlfriend.

The Bean household was stocked up with food and champagne, and Mrs. Bean emerged on the eve of the landing to tape up a poster showing the moon, the moon lander, the earth and a sign: "Go Navy! Go Apollo 12!"

All three crew members are Navy commanders.

A word to the wives.
 A housewife, planning to remodel her kitchen, calls Vepco for design assistance. A high school home economics class wants an expert to explain the use of laundry equipment. A women's club requests a demonstration of new Christmas recipes and decorations. And Louise Donahe is there; bright, personable, enthusiastic. She's one of Vepco's Home Economists. And though she's an expert on everything from lighting a house to efficient kitchen planning, she's always on the lookout for better ways to use electricity. So she can pass them on to our customers. For Louise Donahe, life is busy but satisfying. She's here to help people. And she does.
Vepco is people... helping people.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA) — Prices are all the same as yesterday's quotes. Following are prices reported at 11 a.m. Greenville: yellow corn, $1.25; wheat, $1.20; oats, $.65; soybeans, $2.35—all steady. Ayden: yellow corn, shell, $1.27; ear corn, $1.17; soybeans, $2.32—all steady. Winterville: yellow corn, shell, $1.27; ear corn, $1.17—steady. Farmville: yellow corn, $1.27; soybeans, $2.32—steady. Bethel: yellow corn, shell, $1.25; ear corn, $1.15; soybeans, $2.35—all steady.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA) — North Carolina poultry prices were steady today. The price of live poultry at the farm was 13 cents per pound. Hens, offerings all weights short. Demand good. Heavy price at farms 19 to 20. No light type.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market slipped to a modest loss on moderate volume early today. The pattern had been mixed in earlier trading. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11 a.m. had dropped 1.91 to 843.26.

Among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange the margin of declines over advances widened. Analysts said the market was quiet because there were no major developments to inspire buying.

A small volume of corn continues to come in on Pitt County grain buying stations along with a fairly heavy volume of soybeans. Most markets report that the majority of their buying is concerned with beans and only spot buying of corn. The threat of rain will probably prompt as much harvesting as possible before participation sets in. A favorable weather picture for the rest of the week will no doubt wind up corn buying and see an increase in soybeans.

Doesn't Know Handicap

ABILIENE, Tex. (UPI) — Handicap is a word with little meaning for Terry Cox, although he should know it better than anyone.

The West Texas youth has overcome infantile paralysis and pneumonia to complete an education which will get him into college without a high school diploma.

Cox, confined to a wheelchair, is a freshman at Abilene Christian College twice a week and commutes from his Anson, Tex., home, where he still has to use an iron lung from time to time.

At the age of eight, the youth had infantile paralysis.

For one year he struggled in the hospital. Frequent trips were made to Warm Springs Foundation at Gonzales, Tex. Bulbar polio had paralyzed him and forced him to live in an iron lung.

Undaunted, Cox wanted to go back to school and with the help of a younger brother and friends he did return in a wheelchair.

But in the eighth grade he was stricken again, this time with pneumonia. Hopes for an elementary and high school diploma faded. But Cox was not defeated.

After years of setback, he resumed his education—skipping some courses but taking enough to find out if he could still study and learn.

Now, with a lot of help, and a lot of self-determination, Terry Cox hopes someday to get a diploma—this one from college.

Raleigh Site Of Next Study

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Democratic Party Study Commission will hold the third in a series of public hearings Saturday in Raleigh.

The 60-member commission is headed by Wilson attorney Jim Hunt. It is studying the need for reform of the party structure.

Previous hearings have been held in Asheville and Charlotte. The fourth and final one is scheduled in Greenville Nov. 29.

Welding Soc. Meet In Wilson

The Northeastern Carolinas Section of the American Welding Society will have a dinner meeting and technical talk tonight at the Holiday Inn in Wilson, beginning at 6:30.

William C. Cowdery, eastern regional manager of Ryan Industries Division of Cosmodyne Corporation, will be the guest speaker. Cowdery has been with Cosmodyne for two years and prior to joining the firm, he was associated with Shell Chemical Company for twelve years.

Cowdery holds a degree from Washington University in Chemical Engineering and is currently living in Morristown, N.J.

District manager for the society is J.A. Turner of Goldsboro.

This will be located adjacent to the fence and will not interfere with any building plans or grounds space. "The additional fire hydrant will improve the situation of our fire insurance," Dr. Cleetwood said.

—Granted the Greenville Recreation Commission permission to use the gym facility at Aycock for an adult Industrial Basketball League. Details of the agreement including sharing of utilities costs are to be worked out.

—Received a preliminary report on the junior high situation for the coming school year. Board members were furnished a copy of the "Eppes Survey Report," and a report on "Aycock Addition Alternative." Each member is to study these reports and to be ready to make concrete suggestions at the December meeting.

—Approved a candy sales money raising project to be conducted by Aycock. This is a one-time project with proceeds to be pro-rated to all eligible activities at Aycock.

—Mrs. Robert Kittrell reported to the board on the status of construction work at Eastern Elementary, Aycock and Rose. "The final inspection at Eastern Elementary was made on November 5," she said. "Aycock will be ready for final inspection November 19, and all units at Rose are now 90 per cent completed and should be ready by November 30."

Mrs. Kittrell informed that December 7 had been selected as the day of dedication for the three schools with the dedication ceremony for all three to be held at one place.

—A single copy of the HEW hearing transcript of September 30 was received this week. The transcript of the proceedings is a 198 page document.

Twice they used a hammer to solve minor problems. When Bean had trouble driving a tube into the ground to collect a soil sample from beneath the surface, he pounded it with a hammer.

"That's skilled craftsmanship," he quipped. Later, he had difficulty removing a canister containing the radioactive element, Plutonium-238, from a protective cask.

"It seems swollen in there and friction is holding it in," Bean reported. "I don't want to pull too hard because it's a very delicate mechanism. Come out of there you rascal."

"I've got a better idea," Conrad said. "I'll get the hammer."

"We got it babe," Conrad told the ground. If the canister had not come free, one of the major goals of the flight would have failed. Without the nuclear generator, the five scientific instruments would not work.

The astronauts reported initial trouble walking on the moon, but they soon became accustomed to their strange environment on which the gravity pull is one-sixth that on earth.

In a world where temperatures vary some 500 degrees, from 243 degrees above zero in sunlight to 279 below in shadow, the spacemen were comfortable in their thick water-cooled suits.

Conrad was first on the surface at 6:44 a.m., nearly five hours after the pinpoint landing, which NASA officials hailed, saying it opened the way for future Apollo crews to attempt risky descents into difficult areas like mountains and the inside of craters.

Obituary Recommend Winterville Seek Public Housing

Palmer
Mr. Joseph Palmer, 83, of 705 E. Fifth Street, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Tuesday night at 6:05 following two months of illness.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday afternoon at two o'clock at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by his pastor, the Rev. Irby B. Jackson. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery. Masonic rites will be accorded at the grave. Members of the Eastern Star will sit in a body.

Mr. Palmer, a native of Halifax, Virginia, had lived in Greenville since 1919. He was a member of the Immanuel Baptist Church, the Greenville Masonic Lodge No. 284, A. F. and A. M., and the Order of Eastern Star.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lila Bourne Palmer; a son, Ronald B. Palmer of Raleigh; a foster daughter, Mrs. Alton Mewborn of Snow Hill; a brother, J. Carroll Palmer of Newport News, Va.; two sisters: Mrs. E.E. Hodges of South Boston, Va., and Mrs. H.P. Anderson of Crystal Hill, Va.; three grandchildren; and one great grandchild.

The Massachusetts Historical Society was founded in 1791 and claims to be the oldest organization of its kind in the United States.

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville Planning Board Monday night passed a resolution recommending the Town Board apply for public housing.

According to Town Clerk Elwood Nobles, the town will apply for 50 units in the beginning. Other units may be applied for later.

Ralph Willoughby, planner for the North Carolina Department of Local Affairs, and George Woodall, representing an architectural firm of Atlanta, Ga., which specializes in public housing projects, were present at the meeting.

"If everything is in order, it is estimated that it will take three years to actually get to the building part of the project," Woodall explained. "Reasons for

Buy Yacht Of Old 'Match King'

STUBBEKOBING, Denmark (UPI)—A luxury yacht that belonged to Ivar Kreuger, Swedish "Match King" who disappeared while on a trans-Atlantic flight aboard a commercial airliner in 1932, has been bought by A. Galsgaard, a local planter. Galsgaard purchased the yacht from a Swedish engineer. He refused to disclose the price.

Extending The Fun Outdoors

NEW YORK (AP) — Gas-fueled infrared heaters will convert patios, swimming pools and tennis courts into comfortable entertainment centers on many days and evenings when those areas would be too cold for comfort if they were unheated, the Gas Appliance Manufacturers' Association points out. In several sections of the country infrared heaters enable outdoor enthusiasts to engage in open-air activity all year long. According to GAMA, permanently installed models fueled by natural gas are available, and portable units are offered that operate on bottled gas.

Promotion For Two Of Faculty

Promotions have been announced for two members of the East Carolina University School of Business faculty.

Dr. Louis H. Zincon Jr. and Gwendolyn Potter have both been elevated to the academic rank of full professor. Dr. Zincon is chairman of the Department of Economics and Miss Potter is chairman of the Department of Accounting.

Both promotions were announced by Dr. James H. Bearden, Dean of the School of Business, and are already effective.

Dr. Bearden said the promotions to the highest rank in the university community "are evidence of their accomplishments in administration, teaching, research and publication. The efforts of Dr. Zincon and Miss Potter in the fields of economics and accounting have been instrumental in our efforts to achieve excellence in higher education in business at East Carolina University."

Dr. Zincon, a native of Richmond, Va., holds the BA degree from the University of Richmond and the PhD from the University of Virginia. He joined the ECU faculty in 1966 and is chairman of a 13-member department.

Miss Potter is from Belhaven and holds the BS degree from East Carolina and the MA from the University of North Carolina. She is also a Certified Public Accountant. She joined the faculty in 1954 and now heads a department of 12 faculty members.

Herbs Help Toothaches

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — The Delaware Indians of northeastern Oklahoma still use some plants and herbs to cure ailments ranging from toothaches to ringworms.

Some of them also have pots of peyote cactus growing in their homes, and use the drug in connection with their religion, says George Hill of Ponca City. Hill, a horticulture student at Oklahoma State University, said the Delaware still brew cough medicine from the bark of the wild cherry tree, and sometimes use smoke from cedar needles as a purifying agent.

Some Delawares, Hill added, still gather wild greens for eating, cook an edible milkweed in stew and eat a sweet water lily root something like a potato.

"We went out in a field and found a compass plant, or Indian gum plant," Hill said recalling the time he spent with the Delawares.

"There are pieces of a sticky substance along the stem which you can gather and chew. It has a different flavor. You'll never forget it once you chew it."

The Delawares, Hill learned, use the plant sumac. When its leaves turn red in the fall, they are mixed half and half with tobacco for ceremonial smoking. The roots are chewed as a toothache remedy.

When the Delawares find the healing plants, they put them into a medicine bag made of skin, always passing by the first plant and harvesting the second.

Some plants are given an offering of tobacco, which is placed in a hole dug in the ground near the plants' roots.

But, the future of these medicines appears dim, Hill said, for the younger Delawares don't seem to be interested in learning about them.

Line Is Drawn By Future King

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Sweden's Crown Prince Carl-Gustaf, 23, who will be eligible to ascend the throne when he becomes 25, is studying hard to learn all facets in the life of his people, but he doesn't think collecting garbage will add much to his education.

The Crown Prince turned down a suggestion by a local branch of the Social-Democratic youth organization that he become a garbage collector for a week for the experience.

"I don't object to the work as such," he said, "but I don't think I would learn very much. After all, I have already emptied garbage cans during my military service."

Bethel Captures First Victory

BETHEL — Bethel's Indians rolled to a 71-58 victory over Jamesville last night for their first victory of the year.

Bethel's Squaws continued to pull away in the second period, outthumping Jamesville, 7-5. That gave them an 18-8 lead at halftime.

In the third period, Jamesville came closest to outthumping Bethel, as the Squaws outscored them, 7-6. That left the margin at 25-14 with one period to go.

Bethel then insured the win, outscoring Jamesville, 13-0, in the last frame.

moving Jamesville, 16-13, produced the margin out to 53-40. Both teams scored 18 going down to the wire, to maintain the Bethel win.

Herbert Ange led Jamesville with 26 points, while E.L. Martin had 15 and Phil Bount had 10. For Bethel, Gary James had 19, Eddie Stokes had 17, Rocky Parker had 12 and L.D. Casper had 10.

S. Edgecombe Downs Stokes

PINETOPS — South Edgecombe swept a pair of games from Stokes-Pactolus High School last night. The boys downed the Blue Jays, 54-47, while the Lady Jays absorbed a 62-8 demolition.

South Edgecombe's girls closed out the win in the first period, rushing away to an 18-4 lead. In the second period, South Edgecombe boosted its lead to 37-5.

During the third period, South Edgecombe pumped in 17 points, while Stokes went scoreless, and that made it 54-5. Finally in the last period, the hosts outscored Stokes, 8-3, for the final margin.

Debbie Webb paced the winners with 29 points. In the boys game, it was nip and tuck most of the way, with neither team able to establish much of a lead in the first half.

outsourcing Stokes, 14-11, for a 39-36 lead. In the last period, South Edgecombe outscored Stokes, 15-11, to maintain the lead and take the win.

Ronnie Briley led Stokes with 12 points, while Donald White had 11. For South Edgecombe, Dudley Ethridge had 20 points, and Jack Ellis had 11.

The Stokes girls are now 0-3, while the boys are 1-2.

Bear Grass In 51-35 Victory

BEAR GRASS — Bear Grass captured its first victory last night, downing West Edgecombe, 51-35. The Bear Grass girls, however, fell 28-22.

In the girls game, both teams had trouble finding the basket in the first period, which ended in a 2-2 tie. West Edgecombe pulled away in the second period, scoring 10 points, while Bear Grass could come up with only three. That made it 12-5 at halftime.

In the third period, West Edgecombe outscored Bear Grass, 13-9, building the lead to 25-14. Bear Grass tried to rally in the final period, outscoring their hosts, 8-3, but it was too late.

Gail Rhodes led West Edgecombe with 13 points. Bear Grass slipped into a slip lead at the end of the first period, 12-10, and then pulled away. In the second frame, the Bears outscored West Edgecombe, 11-7, to build up a 23-17 halftime edge.

Bear Grass dumped in 15 points in the third period, while holding Edgecombe to seven, and that made it 38-24 as the final frame got underway. Bear Grass also outscored West Edgecombe in that period, 13-11 to insure the win.

Allen Ayers led Bear Grass with 22, while Paul Moblely had 14.

The win left Bear Grass with a 1-2 record. The girls are also 1-2.

Quartet Picked Backs Of Week

BY GEORGE STRODE Associated Press Sports Writer COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"I like defense better than offense because I don't like to get hit." Jack Tatum, who was named with Ohio State defensive secondary mates Tim Anderson, Mike Sensibaugh and Ted Provost as The Associated Press college back of the week, was explaining the big switch. The four Ohio State defensive stars all had been offensive standouts in high school, Tatum gaining 1,421 yards as a senior All-Navy jersey fullback. Now they form what their Ohio State assistant coach Dick Walker terms "one of the best secondaries in the country."

"They have more than just speed," Walker evaluated. "They have great tackling ability and mental toughness." The foursome proved its toughness to Purdue and Mike Phipps Saturday, helping shackle the Boilermakers with a 42-14 Big Ten loss. Cornerback Tatum is six-foot, 204 pounds, safety Sensibaugh six-foot, 190 pounds and halfbacks Provost and Anderson 6-3, 184 pounds and six-foot, 194 pounds. Sensibaugh was an All-Ohio quarterback and Anderson All-West Virginia as a halfback fullback. Provost played both quarterback and defensive back in high school.

Coach Not Awed, Writer Is; Ohio State Is Simple Choice

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON NEW YORK (AP) — A lot of college football teams are hoping Ohio State finally loses this weekend. Michigan, for instance, last team between the top-ranked Buckeyes and their second consecutive perfect season. A victory would put the Wolverines in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day and even a respectable defeat might do it. Then there's second-ranked Texas and third-ranked Arkansas. Should Ohio State lose, their Dec. 6 battle would be for the national championship.

But Ohio State has some support. Purdue, a 42-14 victim of the Buckeyes last week, still has a shot at the Rose Bowl, but Michigan must lose. Who will it be? Stay tuned. Ohio State at Michigan—"I'm impressed, but not awed by them," said Larry Smith, a Michigan assistant coach who scouted the Buckeyes against Purdue. I'm awed, Ohio State. UCLA at Southern California—This just might be Tommy Prothro's best UCLA team ever. UCLA.

Harvard at Yale—THE Game! Last year it was as Harvard rallied for 16 points in the final 42 seconds and a 29-29 tie. Bulldogs hang on this time. Yale. And do you know which is college football's most played series? Not the oldest, but the most played. It's Lafayette vs. Lehigh for the 105th time, and the 62nd triumph for Lafayette.

North Texas State at San Diego State—Pro scouts will be out in droves to see the passing show put on by Steve Ramsey and Dennis Shaw. San Diego State. Dartmouth at Princeton—Big Green tries for the Ivy League crown, Princeton tries for a tie. Too much time before Christmas for ties. Dartmouth.

Buc Cagers Play Tonight

The East Carolina University basketball team will meet tonight at 8 p.m. in Minges Coliseum in the annual Purple-Gold game. This will be the first display of the teams this year, and Coach Tom Quinn urges anyone interested to attend. No admission charge will be made.

Missouri at Kansas—More salt in Pepper's wounds. Missouri. Air Force at Notre Dame—Irish are heading for the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day, but this time they'll cotton fields are in South Bend, Ind. Notre Dame. Nebraska at Oklahoma—Nebraska has its bowl bid but the Sooners are still trying. Oklahoma. Purdue at Indiana—Boiler-makers bounce back. Purdue. Kansas State at Colorado—

Bethel Union In Fourth Win

PINETOPS—Bethel Union rolled to its fourth straight victory last night, edging Carver High School of Pinetops, 76-71. Carver jumped off to the initial lead and held a 22-16 lead by the time the first period ended. Both teams played neck and neck in the second period, and neither could gain on the other by the half, which ended with Carver in a 37-31 lead. Bethel got stronger in the third period, however, and outscored Carver, 24-17 and slipped out into 3-1.

Carver was led by Curtis Thomas with 19, while Woody Vine had 16 and Alvin Forrester had 13 and Leonard Gray had 11. In the preliminary, the Bethel Union junior varsity edged Carver, 38-36, to run its record to 3-1.

Bryant Hits 40 In Loss

WINTERVILLE—Conetoe High School edged past Robinson Union last night, 82-78, handing Robinson its second straight loss. The loss didn't come, however, without a 40-point effort on the part of Ivory Bryant. Bryant hit 15 field goals and 10 free throws in keeping Robinson in the game down to the wire. Conetoe slipped out into a 21-19 lead in the first period, but Robinson came back to outscore them, 18-15 in the second frame. That made it 37-26 in favor of Robinson at halftime. Robinson continued to pull away in the third period, outscoring Conetoe, 25-22, for a 62-48 lead. But Conetoe turned on a rally in the final period, while Robinson ran out of gas. Conetoe dumped in 24 points, while Robinson got just 16, and that was enough for the visitors to pull it out. Long led the Conetoe offense with 36 points, while Lawrence had 18 and Ehus had 10.

Belvoir Wins Third In Row

Belvoir High School picked up a pair of victories last night, building up a 30-18 lead. Then, in the final period, the Eaglettes outscored Lee Woodard, 14-3, for the win. Maggie Edwards led Belvoir with 21 points, while Teresa Pollard had 15. Kay Barnes led Lee Woodard with 10. Lee Woodard slipped out into an early lead in the boys game and held an 8-6 lead at the end of the first period. Both teams scored 13 points in the second frame, and Lee Woodard held a 21-19 edge at the buzzer.

In the third period, Lee Woodard outscored Belvoir, 16-13, and built the lead to 37-32 as the final period got underway. But Belvoir then put together a rally in the final period, outscoring their hosts, 19-6, and that was enough to power them into the lead for the win. Donnie Everett led Belvoir with 18 points, while Joey Moore had 14 and James Mayo had 10. Ellis led Lee Woodard with 12, while Yelverton had 11.

Jasper Slams Winterville

JASPER—Jasper High School handed Winterville's Wolves their third straight loss last night, 53-31. The Winterville girls got some measure of revenge with a 33-9 win over their hosts. Winterville's Wolf Gals inched out to a 2-1 lead in the first period, then streaked away to build up a 16-2 lead at halftime.

In the third period Winterville outscored Jasper, 12-1, to push the score out to 28-3. Jasper finally found a better range in the final period, outthumping Winterville, 6-5, but it had no effect on the outcome. In the boys game, however, it was a different story. Winterville couldn't find the basket, while Jasper built up a 20-8 halftime lead. Winterville improved its shooting in the second half, but Jasper continued to be too much for the Wolves to handle. Jasper outscored the Wolves, 32-23, in the half, to take the easy win.

Only Fat On Jack Is In His Wallet

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP)—Jack Nicklaus grabbed himself squarely by the seat of his pants. "See, it's all gone," said the golfing great. "No more fat—"

Nicklaus had clutched an excess of cloth once packed with an ample posterior. A 21-day diet did more for Jack's rear view than anything else.

"I never really liked being called Fat Jack," he admitted. "I never got mad or anything, but it's not a nice thing to have written about you all the time."

The Nicklaus waistline went down by only one inch—to a trim 34—as he shed almost 20 pounds recently, but his caboose tailed off from 47 to 42 inches.

Old pals approach Nicklaus and can't believe their eyes. His frame hasn't carried its present 190 pounds for 10 years, since Jack won the '59 U.S. Amateur at the age of 19.

His pretty wife, Barbara, didn't have any poundage to spare, but she made sacrifices and ate the same low-fat meals as Jack during the cutdown period. Entertainer Jackie Gleason, a fellow resident of South Florida, dropped 61 pounds last summer and claimed the only problem was learning a new golf swing. Gleason said not having to swing around his tummy was a new experience that sent scores on the links up for awhile.

"I never had much of a middle," Nicklaus said. "My weight was back in my hips and upper legs."

Despite the weight drop, Nicklaus thinks his powerful drives are as long as ever—maybe longer. "I was beginning to feel tired by midsummer," he said. "My feet hurt more and more. I felt I needed more sleep than I used to. It felt, all of a sudden, like I was getting old."

Jack isn't exactly ancient—he'll turn 30 in January—but his muscular legs have a lot of miles logged and "I needed to make the load a little lighter."

Although he plans only one more tournament for certain, the new $100,000 Heritage Classic at Hilton Head, S.C., Nicklaus will stick to a hot schedule during the next month. "I'm playing the Argentine Masters in Buenos Aires and then an exhibition match in Santiago, Chile," he said.

Like his fellow golf superstar, Arnold Palmer, Nicklaus leases his own Lear jet. His contract calls for 250 flying hours a year, which adds up to about 125,000 miles. That doesn't count time spent aboard commercial airplanes.

"If I didn't have my airplane, I couldn't live in Florida," said Jack, who moved from his native Columbus, Ohio, to Lost Tree Village about a year ago. "I'd need to be more centrally located. I insist on spending a good deal of time with Barbara and the kids."

Nicklaus lives a more normal life than almost any regular on the professional tour. He flies home between events and even slips back into Palm Beach County between rounds when the tournament is within a few hundred miles.

Since shedding his weight, Nicklaus has won two tournaments and finished as a runner-up in the other. If he happens to win the Heritage, Nicklaus will probably play the circuit-ending Danny Thomas Classic at Hollywood, Fla., Dec. 4-7 in an attempt to overhaul Frank Beard for the money lead. Nicklaus currently stands third among tour cashmakers with about $135,000. Beard is on top with over $175,000.

It Would Have Been For The Championship

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
For Clemson, Saturday's football game with South Carolina will be the championship battle that might have been.

Three weeks ago, both teams were unbeaten in Atlantic Coast Conference play and fans were looking forward to a season-ending showdown.

But that was before the Clemson Tigers dropped two in a row, losing Nov. 8 to Duke 34-27, and last weekend to North Carolina, 32-15.

The Gamecocks, meanwhile, lost one out of conference to Tennessee. But they won the game that counted last weekend, downing Wake Forest 24-6 to assure themselves of the league championship. They have won all their five league games.

As a dividend, Coach Paul Dietzel's squad was invited to the Peach Bowl Dec. 30 in Atlanta, where it will play West Virginia.

Neither the league crown nor the bowl date would be scuttled by a loss to the Tigers, but

South Carolina now has a winner's image to protect.

"If we beat Clemson, everything will be perfect," said Gamecock defensive halfback Pat Watson. "We've got to come down to earth, bear down and hustle like the devil to win this last game."

All ACC teams but North Carolina State finish the regular season this week.

North Carolina State travels to Tallahassee to meet Florida State University this weekend, then plays fourth-ranked Penn State the following Saturday. Both games will be televised, this Saturday's as ABC-TV's regional game of the week.

The N. C. State Wolfpack stands 3-4-1 for the season after last weekend's 34-13 loss to Houston 34-13.

Duke and North Carolina renew a longstanding rivalry. The North Carolina Tar Heels have come on strong, upsetting Clemson 32-15 last weekend for their fourth straight victory. They stand 3-2 in the league and have a chance to capture second place with a victory.

Maryland will shoot for a break-even ACC season Saturday against Virginia. Neither team has won a game since the season's midpoint.

Virginia, 1-4 in the league, has dropped five straight, losing last weekend to Tulane 31-0. Maryland's losing streak runs four games after its 48-0 drubbing by bowl-bound Penn State last week. The Terps are 2-3 in ACC play.

Wake Forest meets Miami in the Orange Bowl Friday night. The Deacons went down 24-6 to South Carolina last weekend to finish 3-6 in the ACC.

Wake Forest probably will be playing without veteran right guard Tom Jones, who suffered a leg injury against South Carolina.

Miami is 3-5 for the season, having beaten North Carolina State 23-12. Wake Forest also eked out a win over the Wolfpack, 22-21 in the season-opening game.

Only Right They Did Was To Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The way The Citadel's Red Parker was talking, you'd have thought his football Bulldogs had lost Saturday's Southern Conference game against Furman instead of providing the league its only winner of the day.

"We didn't do anything right except win," said Parker. "We did what we had to do to win, but that was all we did. There wasn't a soul on our club who played worth a hoot."

He felt the Bulldogs "fell flat on their faces" after running up a 23-0 lead. The final score was 37-21, and to Parker it was "the sorriest game we've played in I don't know how long. It's got to be the worst we've ever looked and still won."

As for Friday night's season finale against Chattanooga, a victory in which would give the Bulldogs an 8-2 over-all record, Parker says that "we have the greatest respect for Chattanooga."

"While their record (3-6) is not overly impressive, they have played an extremely impressive schedule and they will be every bit as tough as last year," Parker says. Chattanooga won by 31-9 in 1968.

The Bulldogs worked Tuesday at developing a defense for Chattanooga's varied offense and also worked on their own passing and kicking games.

Saturday's only conference scrap sends Richmond to William and Mary with second place in the league standings at stake.

William and Mary worked on its passing offense Tuesday and took a look at Richmond's potent aerial attack. Junior defensive tackle John Barelli was listed as doubtful for Richmond because of a shoulder separation, and sophomore Russ Croom is expected to start in his place.

"They did not hit well," was the comment of East Carolina coach Clarence Stasavich after the Pirates held a long contact workout preparing for Saturday's game against Southern Mississippi.

Cleve Hightower, who has alternated between quarterback and flanker at Furman, was tapped Tuesday to start as a signal-caller when the Paladins take on Mississippi College Saturday night.

Davidson worked for its Saturday scrap at Vanderbilt.

Rookie Sparks Lakers To Win Over Detroit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Low Alcindor is in Milwaukee and Will Chamberlain is in a cast, but for Tuesday night, at least, Rick Roberson was the only center Los Angeles needed.

The 6-foot-9 rookie from the University of Cincinnati scored nine of his 19 points in overtime to spark the Los Angeles Lakers to a 125-114 overtime victory over Detroit.

Other National Basketball Association teams also worked overtime, Boston shading Phoenix 120-119 and Baltimore edging San Diego 142-138. Elsewhere, New York trounced Cincinnati 112-94, San Francisco whipped Milwaukee 127-110 and Chicago walloped Philadelphia 127-111.

In the American Basketball Association, Pittsburgh downed Miami 113-107 and Indiana nipped Denver 108-105.

Veteran Elgin Baylor chipped in with seven overtime points to help Roberson as the Lakers, who blew an 18-point lead in the final 10 minutes, outscored the Pistons 18-7 in the extra period.

Roberson threw in seven quick points to start the overtime and, after Detroit pulled to within two, Baylor netted six in a row. Baylor had 32 points and Jerry West 27 for the Lakers while Walt Bellamy dropped in 32 and Howard Komives 23 for Detroit.

The amazing Knicks pulled away from a 35-all tie in the second quarter and breezed past Cincinnati for their 13th straight win and an 18-1 record. Even the foul trouble of Willie Reed and Dave DeBusschere failed to stop the Knicks, who got 22 points from Dick Barnett, 19 from Walt Frazier and 15 from Cazzie Russell.

Second-place Baltimore's defending division champs remained six games behind the Knicks as rookie Mike Davis fired 40 points. Davis connected on 17 of 30 shots after taking over for Kevin Loughery, who suffered torn tendons in his left ankle and will be out for four weeks.

Earl Monroe and Gus Johnson chipped in with 30 points apiece while Don Kojis, Elvin Hayes and Jim Barnett all had 26 for San Diego.

The Boston Celtics overcame a five-point deficit in the final two minutes of overtime to nip Phoenix and snap a seven-game losing streak.

A three-point play by John Havlicek, who scored 41, put the Celtics ahead 118-117 with 10 seconds left and Don Nelson's two free throws wrapped it up after the Suns lost the ball.

San Francisco's Nate Thurmond gave Milwaukee's Alcindor a basketball lesson, outscoring him 28-21 and outrebounding the towering rookie from UCLA 19-15. Alcindor made only one of 10 shots in the first half and scored most of his points after the outcome was settled.

Bob Love scored 11 of his 28 points in the fourth quarter as the Bulls, who trailed by 18 in the first period, swept past the 76ers. Chet Walker, an ex-76ers, paced the Bulls with 32.

more, but Brister alternated with Manning again Saturday—in destroying Tennessee's hopes for a perfect season.

With Brister leading the defensive charge that shut out the then third-ranked Volunteers and Manning putting points on the scoreboard, Ole Miss crushed Tennessee 38-0 and promptly earned an invitation to the Sugar Bowl.

Brister, a 6-foot-2, 208-pound junior linebacker from McComb, Miss., made nine tackles—six unassisted—recovered a fumble to start a touchdown march and made a key tackle on Tennessee's Bobby Scott when the Vols had a first down on the Rebel eight.

For that performance, he was named Lineman of the Week by The Associated Press.

During the spring following his freshman season, Brister was moved to linebacker. He got a starting shot in last year's Louisiana State game when Joe Blount, the regular, came down with the flu. Blount never did get his job back.

But misfortune struck Brister in the Liberty Bowl when he injured a knee and had to undergo an operation that caused him to miss last spring's drills.

Brister played the first three games of this season with his knee heavily taped and perhaps it's more than a coincidence that the Rebels lost two of them.

Then things started to pick up, reaching a climax Nov. 1 when Brister decided to play against LSU without the bandages. The difference in mobility was something to see as Ole Miss knocked LSU from the unbeaten ranks. After last weekend, Tennessee needed the bandages.

Brown's Shot Leads Pacers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The clock showed two seconds left. The score was tied 105-105 and the Indiana Pacers were flirting with a loss to the Denver Rockets, one of the losingest teams in the American Basketball Association. Enter Roger Brown.

Brown hit a field goal from the corner to make it 107-105. Then the Pacers, the defending ABA champions, scored the insurance points after the Rockets were tagged for a technical foul for taking a time out when they had none left, and won it 108-105 Tuesday night.

In the only other ABA game, Pittsburgh snapped a five-game losing streak with a 113-107 victory over Miami.

In the NBA, Boston nipped Phoenix 120-119 in overtime; Baltimore edged San Diego 142-138, also in overtime, the New York Knicks crushed Cincinnati 112-94, Chicago buried Philadelphia 127-111; Los Angeles overpowered Detroit 125-114, and San Francisco beat Milwaukee 127-110.

Brown had a productive final period. He scored five field goals and seven free throws to tie rookie Spencer Haywood of Denver for scoring honors with 32 points.

The victory pushed Indiana, now 14-2, 2½ games in front of Kentucky in the Eastern Division and dropped Denver, 5-13, deeper into the cellar in the West.

Pittsburgh took a 72-70 lead over Miami late in the third period after trailing most of the game. Miami was led by Willie Murrell, who topped all scorers with 26 points. Charlie Williams pumped in 25 for Pittsburgh.

Try From Afar To Free Father

By NAOMI ROCK
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Thousands of miles from their embattled land a brother and sister are waging a quiet struggle to free their imprisoned father and to bring peace to Vietnam.
David Truong and Monique Truong Miller are the children of Truong Dinh Dzu, the runner-up in South Vietnam's 1967 presidential election.
David is a gentle, soft-mannered, intelligent young man of 24. A political science-economics graduate of Stanford University, he lives in self-imposed exile in Manhattan's Greenwich village, believing he faces imprisonment in Vietnam as long as the current regime remains in power.
At 25, Monique, the petite and pretty wife of a Beverly Hills, Calif. attorney, is a doctoral student in comparative literature. David and Monique came to study in the United States in 1965, leaving behind their parents and younger four brothers and sisters.

Two years later their father polled 800,000 votes but lost the South Vietnamese presidency to Nguyen Van Thieu. Then, in July 1968, Truong Dinh Dzu, 51, was sentenced by the Thieu regime to five years at hard labor for advocating an end to the bombing of North Vietnam and peace talks with the Viet Cong.
Ever since, David and Monique have been working for the release of both their father and of many of South Vietnam's other political prisoners.
David, who describes himself as a political lobbyist, devotes all of his time to the task. About three days a week he's in Washington talking to senators and others who he hopes can both influence American policy changes in Vietnam, and can pressure Saigon to free Dzu and other political prisoners. The rest of the time, he criticizes the Saigon regime before various groups around the county.

Liquor Tax Hike Hasn't Hurt Thirst

By YVONNE BASKIN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Despite a hike in liquor taxes, North Carolinians are drinking more than ever and fattening the government's coffers accordingly.
Figures compiled by the North Carolina Alcoholic Beverage Control Board show Tar Heels consumed 5 per cent more liquor during the first three months after the new taxes went into effect July 1 than in the same period last year.
Carl Wester, ABC administrator said state and local revenues from the sales of liquor in July, August and September were up 12 per cent over the first quarter of 1968.
"It would have been a reasonable guess that consumption would go down," Wester said, "but it didn't, for reasons I can't explain."
The 1969 General Assembly hiked the levy on liquor by approximately 7 per cent—or about 30 cents a bottle. On beer, the increase amounted to about 40 per cent—from 3 1/2 to five cents on a 12-ounce bottle. The ABC Board does not keep a monthly record of beer tax payments.
During the first three months of the new tax, the state sold $40.5 million worth of liquor. Of that $2.8 million represents the new levy.
For the same period in 1968, sales revenues were $36 million. Liquor consumption jumped from 1,800,912 gallons in the first quarter last year to 1,874,986 this year.
Consumption was up about 10 per cent between 1968 and 1969, Wester said, and he expects sales to be up "at least 10 per cent" by the end of this fiscal year.
The state and local governments collected a total profit of $46,657,817 from liquor, beer and wine sales in fiscal 1968, and $57,359,801 in 1969.
Revenues from the taxes on liquor in effect before July 1 are split about half and half between the state and local governments. The new levy is actually a surcharge and all revenue from it will go to the state.
All beer taxes, including the new levy, go to the state, but about a third of the profits are prorated back to each county and municipality where beer is sold.

Monique travels too, mainly on the West coast, to speak before antiwar groups and others interested in her view of Vietnam.
Last June David made news when, he charged that his father was being starved to death and was not being treated for a newly-developed heart ailment. Two days later the Saigon government denied the charges, saying that Dzu was well cared for and was being treated for the heart condition.
Truong Dinh Dzu is the best known of what are believed to be thousands of political prisoners in South Vietnam. Dzu's children believe that the fate of their country hinges on the fate of their father and of the other prisoners.
"There can never be peace in Vietnam," says David, "until the Saigon government is willing to tolerate opposing points of view."
"Nixon talks about free elections in Vietnam, but you can't expect the Viet Cong to participate in any election while men like my father were in jail for advocating negotiation. The other side hasn't fought for ten years for nothing."
Because President Nixon has failed to pressure Thieu into releasing political prisoners, David says, the Saigon regime does not represent the diverse views of the South vietnamese people.
"If Thieu had broad-based support," monique adds, "his government would be in a better position to negotiate an end to the war. But he's afraid of the opposition and of free elections—he's afraid he'll be ousted once the war is over and the Americans leave."
Both Monique and David believe that the only solution for peace in Vietnam is a ceasefire followed by an interim coalition government and free elections. They believe the Viet Cong would only poll about 20 per cent of the vote.

Some day, when the war is over, David hopes to return to his own country to live.

"I can do more good for my people there than here," he says.

Monique, however, says that because she is married to an American she will remain in the United States.

"But I will always keep trying to do what I can for my country," she says, "even if it is only to help Americans understand the Vietnamese."

Weaknesses In Movie Ratings

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Is the movie rating system working? The question was raised last week when a leading film industry figure attacked the rating system as a failure. Walter Reade Jr., film distributor and theater chain owner, told the National Association of Theater Owners Convention in Washington that the ratings should be repealed.

Long a critic of the rating structure, Reade declared theater owners "have renounced their personal responsibility" and compared the system to Prohibition of liquor in the 1920s.

Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association, defended the rating code, which he introduced a year ago. He told the theater owners:

"Remember we censor no films for adults. We ban nothing. What we do is classify films for guidance of parents. It is a rational system, and it is working."

The classification system went into effect Nov. 1, 1968. It was the result of long debate in the motion picture industry, which had traditionally adhered to a system of presenting film entertainment suitable for all members of the family. With increased sophistication of the American public and a change in public morality, the need was felt for more outspoken material.

Valenti first instituted the designation "Suggested for Mature Audiences," which was a kind of flag indicating a film wasn't meant for the kiddies. That system didn't work, so the Producers Association inaugurated the classification system, patterned after those in other countries—England has classified films for 40 years.

Now the Code and Rating Administration of the Producers Association reviews scripts and finished films and hands down its decision in four categories:

G—Suggested for general audiences.

M—Suggested for mature audiences—parental discretion advised.

R—Restricted—persons under 16—18 in some cities—not admitted unless accompanied by parent or adult guardian.

X—Persons under 16 or 18 not admitted.

Understandably, it is the X rating that has caused the biggest fuss. Valenti admits that he originally intended the X to be a "leper colony" for films of no artistic quality whatsoever. But it hasn't worked out that way.

Two of the most successful and critically acclaimed films of 1969—"Midnight Cowboy" and "Medium Cool"—ended up in the X class.

Another well-received film, "Last Summer," escaped the X only after its director, Frank Perry, agreed to cut an obscene word and part of a rape scene.

Said Perry: "There should be a difference between a 'schlock X' handed out to films for the porno-house trade and an 'artistic X' for films that are trying to say something."

At least 36 U.S. newspapers now are banning ads and reviews of X-rated films, porno or artistic.

There can be no doubt that industry leaders are concerned about the growing newspaper ban. They may well redouble their efforts to avoid the X rating. This will mean cuts, but in most cases the removal of salacious material from serious-minded films detracts little from their effectiveness.

PTI Course In Patterns

Pitt Technical Institute is receiving applications for a 30-hour course in Flat Pattern Design and Making. The course will involve principles of pattern making which would aid the home sewer in making alterations in fit and design on ready-made patterns or in making her own patterns. A sloper, which is made from a basic dress design, will be fitted for each individual. The sloper can then be used as a personal pattern making guide. In order to benefit from the course, one should have had a course in clothing construction or have had some practice in sewing.

The course will meet on campus either one or two evenings weekly whichever the adults prefer. Class sessions will be 2 1/2 or 3 hours. Tuition will be $3.00.

Class will begin when a sufficient number of applications are received.

Interested persons are urged to submit applications immediately.

The Worry Clinic

Change Self In Just 30 Days

Lois offers vivid proof that you can change your personality within 30 days! Meanwhile, you can also raise the level of happiness of your neighbors. And if you married folks will follow the plan that Lois demonstrates, you need never fear divorce! For love can wither away and die without the key work below!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.
CASE L-520: Lois J., aged 33, is a doctor's wife.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I wish somebody could have launched me upon your 'Compliment Club' project when I was a child.

"For I have always been shy and tense when at social gatherings.

"I never know what to talk about, so I am a poor conversationalist.

"And I don't make friends with my neighbors, yet a doctor's wife can be a great asset to her husband if she is gracious and popular.

"But there is an elderly woman in our block who is even worse than I am, for she never speaks when I see her unless I greet her first.

"She is regarded as an eccentric and some of the children in the block call her an old witch, for her house is a spooky old mansion with an iron fence all around it.

"But she likes to work in her flower garden and really has a 'green thumb' since her roses are unusually beautiful.

"One day I decided to try your 30-day Compliment Club project.

"I had paid 2 compliments by middle of the afternoon but lacked Number 3.

"As I passed this neighbor's lawn, I saw her working with her flowers so I greeted her and said I had always admired her unusually beautiful roses.

"She uttered a haughty 'Thank you' but that was all she said.

"Yet the very next day she sent me a bouquet of those roses.

"So when I saw her in her flower garden next time, I expressed my appreciation.

"She warmed up a little and we actually conversed for a few minutes.

"Dr. Crane, I soon became ashamed of myself for ever having thought she was haughty and snobbish.

"For after we grew more friendly, I finally learned that she had lost her husband and her only son in an auto wreck many years ago.

"Like me, she had been rather shy, so her grief just made her more aloof.

"Her flowers were her main hobby. And each day during the summer she would send a large bouquet of them to the hospital for crippled children.

"So this eccentric woman, whom we regarded as austere and disdainful of her neighbors, actually was a warmhearted but very shy person who was doing more good for those crippled children than all the rest of us put together.

"Before the summer was over, she had not only invited me to tea and I had coaxed her to visit at our home, but my husband and I even got her active in our local church.

"And in my preoccupation with her, as I tried to get her back into some social life, I lost my own timidity.

"So your Compliment Club has benefited two of us.

"Now I have lost my own shyness and am no longer a 'dud' at conversation, for I find that I can always find something nice about my companions to use as a 'conversation starter'."

Compliment Club
The word "Compliment" is the most important verb in our entire English vocabulary.

For it is ever superior to "Love," since love develops from original sincere compliments but soon dies without them!

One compliment per day between married couples will banish divorce!

Send for the "Compliment Club" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Unique Telescope For Sun Studies

By BILL STOCKTON
Associated Press Writer
SUNSPOT, N.M. (AP) — Christmas came early this year — on Oct. 15 — for Dr. Richard Dunn, an astronomer at the Air Force's solar observatory here.

Like a kid showing off a new toy, the 41-year-old expert on the sun helped dedicate a $3 million solar vacuum telescope he has dreamed of for 11 years.

CAN'T BELIEVE IT
"I just can't believe the thing is here now," the tall, youthful-looking astronomer said. He has nursed his idea of a unique solar instrument since 1958.

Several times the telescope project was almost canceled because of funds and other problems.

The telescope sits atop a 9,200-foot ridge in the Sacramento Mountains of southern New Mexico.

STRIKING BEAUTY
The visible portion of the telescope is a structure of striking beauty. A white concrete needle jutting 138 feet into the air, its bulk is underground. Near the bottom of a 227-foot hole carved from the mountain rests a 64-inch focusing mirror—the telescope's heart.

The sun's rays enter the telescope at the tip of the needle, travel 321 feet to the mirror and are reflected another 180 feet to an array of sophisticated instruments.

STUDY PLANNED
In coming months, the scientists plan to begin an intense study of what Dunn calls solar active regions.

The eventual outcomes of this research, the scientist hope, will be learning how to predict solar flares. The flares are sudden streams of radiation bursting through space, endangering space travelers and disrupting radio communications on earth.

UNIQUE FEATURE
One of the unique features of the telescope is the airless optical system. Air is pumped out of the inside of the telescope, eliminating interference with the sun's image.

Dunn says the telescope's unique characteristics, coupled with its high mountain location should make its image extremely stable and may give sun gazers some of their most detailed looks at the sun.

All He Wanted Was The Loan Of One Film

WORTHINGTON, Minn. (AP) — All Dwayne Honerman wanted was the loan of one Air Force film.

Honerman, librarian at Worthington High School, made his request in a letter to Norton Air Force Base, Calif.

In quick order, he received more than 200 letters from the Air Force, confirming his order. Then parcels of various sizes started arriving. They contained orders from libraries, schools and military training bases all over the country.

He contacted Norton AFB officials, who found that a computer had goofed, sending Honerman all orders for films, film strips and other visual equipment processed on Oct. 28.

Honerman said he would return all the packages.

In the Chesapeake Bay area, about five million bushels of oysters are caught and sold each season.

Appendicitis Is Ignored By Fighting Men

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some combat soldiers would rather fight than admit to appendicitis, two Army radiologists in Vietnam discovered when they found themselves making more x-ray diagnoses for ruptured appendixes than in normal practice.

The higher incidence of ruptured appendix among GIs is due to their intense loyalties to their buddies and because local food and drink, along with stomach-upsetting anti-malarial pills, lead a victim to disregard abdominal pains, report Major Preston B. Mayson, Jr., and Captain Sheldon J. Rosenthal.

If these pains represent common appendicitis, effectively dealt with in civilian life, they can end up as a life-endangering ruptured appendix on the battlefield.

A club was returned and declarer finessed North's queen. East was in with the king and led a diamond which his partner ruffed. West returned the jack of clubs and East trumped away dummy's ace. West was out of hearts and therefore could not ruff the next diamond; however, South still had to lose two spades and he ended up with a 200 point deficit on the deal.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	3♣	Pass	Pass
Pass	4♥	Pass	Pass

Declarer's timing was faulty. Once the heart finesse succeeded, his contract was virtually assured, provided that he concentrated his full attention on drawing trump. It is suggested that when the club is led, South should refuse the finesse, and instead, go up with North's ace in order to lead another heart to his queen.

When both opponents follow to the second round of hearts, South cashes the ace to draw the last trump. The fall of the king of clubs under the ace serves to provide declarer with his 10th trick without any further effort on South's part; however, it is not actually essential to his success.

Observe that declarer can always establish a second trick in clubs by leading toward North's queen after the ace has been cashed, inasmuch as West must play before the dummy. In other words, if West has the king of clubs, the defense can take at most one club and two spades, since South has a discard established for his fourth diamond on dummy's queen of clubs.

Permissive, 'Progressive' School Continues Thrive

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
Associated Press Writer
LEISTON, England (AP) — The whack of a cricket ball on a manicured field, the smack of a cane on a bare backside, small boys in starched collars and tailcoats, fledgling scholars poring over Latin and Greek present a traditional picture of a British education.

But at what has been called "one of England's greatest schools," the pictures are different: cricket is ignored, punishment is unheard of, boys and girls swim together nude, the teachers wear jeans and the kids go to classes only if they feel like it.

"A school that makes active children sit at desks studying mostly useless subjects is a bad school... most of the schoolwork that adolescents do is simply a waste of time," says Alexander Sutherland Neill, founder and headmaster of Summerhill, where the stress is on freedom, not formal learning.

"Books are of least importance to education," says the 85-year-old revolutionary whose ideas and private school have influenced progressive schooling throughout the world.

Summerhill's pupils—62 boys and girls aged 5 to 16, about 40 of them from the United States—have the kind of freedom that older students stage riots to get. A Summerhill child may be 14 or 15 before learning to read. But Neill claims the school turns out happy adults, prepared to face life on any terms. "whether they become professors or plumbers is all the same to me," says Neill. "I would rather see a school produce a happy street cleaner than a neurotic scholar."

Since its start in 1921, Summerhill has produced university professors, doctors, lawyers, a bricklayer and a barber, engineers, musicians and artists—but few businessmen. Neill claims his graduates are too honest to seek a profit.

Parents around the world—who have read Neill's books on education or have otherwise heard of his school—pay 350 to 600 pounds ($840 to $1,440) a year to send their children to Summerhill, located in a country setting about 100 miles from London.

How does the school work? Breakfast is at 8:15 a.m. for those who want it. Lessons begin at 9:30 and continue until lunchtime for those who choose to attend. Neill says he neither knows nor cares how the children spend their afternoons. He says he ignores them as much as possible while they play, paint, tinker with machines or just loaf. Work begins again at 5 p.m., after tea, with stories for the juniors, handicrafts and many other activities for the others. Evenings are spent at the movies, at dancing, dramatics, lectures or school meetings.

There's no homework because Neill doesn't believe in forcing children to do anything.

Life at Summerhill revolves around the meetings, where most rules are made up by the pupils themselves and every child has a vote, equal to that of any teacher, or of Neill himself.

Everyone has equal rights, Neill says, as long as they don't interfere with someone else's rights.

"No one is allowed to walk on my grand piano, and I'm not allowed to borrow a boy's bicycle without his permission," the headmaster explains.

Neill insists that the system—total democracy—works, but only because there are enough older pupils to suppress the "gangster" tendencies of the younger ones.

Many of the student-made rules are rigid: no swimming without a lifeguard, no misbehaving in the nearby town, no bicycling alone for under 11-year-olds.

Only a few hinges are not put to a vote: selecting teachers and textbooks, managing food and health matters.

When rules are broken the children punish each other by imposing fines.

Children starting at the school usually stay away from classrooms for about three months.

One girl avoided lessons for three years. Neill maintains that sooner or later children get interested in learning and then they become avid students. He says that by the time they leave Summerhill, most children are at the level they would have been in another school.

Summerhill is, in every sense, co-educational. Boys and girls live in separate rooms but often see each other—or their teachers—without clothes on.

Although Neill favors full sexual freedom, he won't allow the children to sleep together because the Ministry of Education would close down his life's work. He keeps his older pupils in line by warning them of this.

In 1949 the Ministry of Education inspected Summerhill and reported: "It would be difficult to find a more natural, open-faced, unself-conscious collection of boys and girls," he reported expressed some misgivings about teaching standards and sex, but noted that there had never been any trouble at the school. "The children work with a will and an interest that is most refreshing," the report said.

Over the years Summerhill has been both denounced and applauded. The Ministry of Education concedes that most teachers and parents regard Neill's principles with "suspicion and abhorrence."

Detractors claim Neill's system of freedom means wild children, delinquency and chaos. Neill retorts that delinquency would vanish if children were brought up with properly-administered freedom, that children are naturally well-behaved if handled correctly, and "there is never a problem child; there are only problem parents." Many of Neill's supporters fear Summerhill will crumble when he dies. Neill himself denies the school depends entirely on his presence, but in musing whether his work will live on he wrote: "I do not think the world will use the summerhill method of education for a very long time—if it ever uses it... The world must find a better way," he said.

Joseph Kennedy's Funeral Will See Theme Of 'Spiritual Joy'

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — A funeral Mass with a theme of spiritual joy will be offered Thursday for Joseph P. Kennedy in the small clapboard church where the Kennedys have worshiped for years.

The 81-year-old former ambassador, father of President John F. Kennedy and patriarch of one of the nation's most famous political families, died Tuesday at his Cape Cod home.

He had been in poor health since suffering a stroke eight years ago. Last Saturday he had another stroke. He grew progressively weaker, slipping into a coma Monday.

Withdrawal Course Said 'Too Slow'

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Several war critics on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee say the Nixon administration is on a withdrawal course from Vietnam, but the rate is too slow.

The senators, who gave their views after a closed meeting Tuesday with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, had a similar session scheduled today with Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird.

Sens. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark.; Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Albert Gore, D-Tenn., agreed after talking with Rogers that the withdrawal course is irreversible. They complained, however, the policy may involve leaving up to 250,000 U.S. troops in Vietnam for an indefinite period.

Committee Chairman Fulbright said Rogers rejected repeated demands by members for further details on President Nixon's withdrawal plans and the secret timetable for turning the war over to the South Vietnamese.

Fulbright said the committee would decide after today's meeting with Laird whether to push ahead with public hearings on Vietnam.

Rogers told the committee the United States has had "numerous diplomatic contacts" with North Vietnam, some since the September death of Ho Chi Minh, but that "it would be wrong to suggest that they have indicated any progress."

While he hopes for a positive response to Nixon's speech, the secretary added, "we see no immediate prospect for success in the negotiations."

Gore, expressing encouragement about the secret contacts, said the division between the committee and the administration is "on how to end the war. We have at least come that far."

Church said he sees "some encouragement from the fact that the general direction of our policy is now out of Vietnam," but added he fears the administration plans to keep up to 250,000 men in Vietnam "for an indefinite number of years."

Members of the family attended a special Mass offered Tuesday night by the Rev. John J. Cavanaugh at St. Francis Xavier church in Hyannis. Father Cavanaugh is a long-time friend of the Kennedys. A former president of Notre Dame University, he is now chaplain at St. Mary's College in Indiana.

Thursday's 9 a.m. funeral Mass will be offered in the same church. Kennedy's close friend, Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, will be the celebrant. He will be assisted by the Rev. Joseph Maguire, a member of the cardinal's staff, and the Rev. Joseph Fitzgerald, a nephew of Mrs. Kennedy.

Only the family and close friends will attend. There will be no wake. The white funeral Mass will be a departure from Roman Catholic tradition. The Mass is called white because the clergy will wear white vestments instead of purple or black. In accordance with precepts that have been emphasized since the Second Vatican Council, the accent will be on the message of resurrection and joy after death rather than mourning.

Following the Mass, a hearse will carry the body to the family plot at Holyhood Cemetery in Brookline, a town bordering Boston where the Kennedys lived for years.

Kennedy's six oldest grandchildren will be honorary pallbearers.

At Kennedy's bedside when he died at 11:05 a.m. EST Tuesday were Rose, his wife of 55 years, and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the last of his four sons.

With them were other members of the family including the widows of his two assassinated sons—Ethel Kennedy, widow of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, and Jacqueline Onassis, who was President Kennedy's wife.

President Nixon expressed sympathy and praised the elder Kennedy for his "strong sense of dedication to the nation."

In a Washington statement, the President said, "He enjoyed with grace the triumphs of his life and he endured its tragedies with great dignity; and surely he also felt great satisfaction in his own and his family's service and accomplishment."

Kennedy was born in East Boston Sept. 6, 1888. He was graduated from Harvard College in 1912 and was president of a bank, the Columbia Trust Co. at age 25.

He served on the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Maritime Commission during the early years of the Roosevelt administration and was U.S. ambassador to Britain from 1938 to 1940.

He resigned as World War II approached to return to private life as a financier.

At the time of his death, estimates of his wealth ranged from $200 million to $400 million.

Turns To Verse Leaf-Collection In Dismay Over

KIRKWOOD, Mo. (AP) — Problems with leaf collections caused by a new ban on leaf-burning moved City Councilman Robert L. Murphy the city's public works commissioner, to turn to verse at a council meeting.

"I think that I shall never see, A thing as ugly as a tree. With all its branches, twigs and leaves,

Over which the street department grieves.

From dawn to dusk and dusk to dawn, The vacuum unit rolls on and on.

'Round the city streets it's sweeping, Waking all the folks who're sleeping.

Soon autumn will end—all will be bleak, And our men needn't work a seven-day week.

I think that I shall never see, A thing as lovely as a tree— But no damn leaves at all."
