APOLLO'S TARGET — Arrow indicates the South Pacific splashdown target for Apollo 12 today. The NASA ATSI satellite made this view of the clouds at 1:10 EST Sunday from 23,000 miles altitude. The United States and Mexico are

Apollo 12 Zooming In For Pacific Splashdown

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 12's moon men neared the end of their voyage of discovery today, guiding their Yankee Clipper toward a blazing dash through the atmosphere and back to their home planet.

Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr., Richard F. Gordon Jr. and Alan L. Bean were on a near perfect course that would slam them into the atmosphere 76 miles above the Pacific Ocean at 24,600 miles an hour. Splashdown was set for 3:58 p.m. EST about 400 miles southwest of American Samoa.

The Apollo 12 crew slept soundly for 9½ hours as their spacecraft sped closer to earth early today with Conrad the first to awaken around 5:30 a.m. EST.

"Good morning. We're just getting ready to eat breakfast," the capsule commander said. "Very good," said Mission Control. "You ready for the big day?"

"I don't know. What's happening?" Conrad said in mock surprise. "Oh, we've got a nice little section of the South Pacific reserved for you and we've got most of the Navy standing by to pick you up." "Good," said Conrad with a chuckle and went on eating his last breakfast in space for this trip.

They planned a short burst of their jet thrusters at 12:44 p.m. to zero in on the area where the aircraft carrier Hornet waited. If they come close, the landing will be televised live.

As the 10-day million-mile journey neared an end, Conrad, Gordon and Bean held the world's first news conference from space during a final telecast Sunday night.

Answering questions prepared by newsmen, they reported it took great skill to land on the moon, rocks are hard to identify because the color changes in different sun angles, sleeping on the moon was difficult and they'd launch again in a thunderstorm—as they did Nov. 14—if necessary.

2 Hours Of Secret Talk

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — U.S. and Soviet negotiators met for two hours today, their longest secret session since starting their strategic arms limitation talks a week ago.

In advance of today's private parley at the U.S. Embassy, U.S. envoys had hoped for clues from the Russians on what nuclear arms the Kremlin might consider negotiable in future, full-scale discussions on curbing the superpower missile race.

As usual, spokesmen for both sides refused after the meeting the third business session since the talks began to disclose anything except the length of the meeting and when the next one will be held: Wednesday, at the Soviet Embassy.

As the delegations were meeting, the Soviet news agency Tass sounded its first criticism of the United States in the arms talks.

Tass said "imperialist states" obviously meaning the United States—were to blame for the arms race. It cited rising U.S. military expenditures and figures on U.S. strategic arms strength.

Tass, in a dispatch from Helsinki, praised the Soviet government for seeking an end to the arms race but gave no credit on this score to the United States.

A U.S. delegation spokesman denied a published report that the Russians last week had been told the details of the United States' nuclear force.

Newsmen previously had been advised by U.S. sources that the delegation here did not intend to reveal secret material in the talks.

The astronauts hoped to match in the Pacific the pinpoint landing Conrad and Bean achieved last Wednesday when the lunar module Intrepid touched down only 600 feet from an unmanned Surveyor spacecraft that landed on the Ocean of Storms 2½ years ago.

The three Navy commanders sent this message to Rear Adm. Donald C. Davis on the Hornet: "Dear Red Dog: Apollo 12 with three tail hookers aboard, expects to make PIM (Point of Intended Movement), as we have energy for only one pass. Signed, Pete, Dick and Al."

Navy pilots on carrier landings are called tail hookers because of the arresting gear on their aircraft.

The landing in warm Polynesian waters climaxes a lunar expedition which should vastly enrich man's knowledge of the moon and perhaps his own earth and universe.

Coming home with Yankee Clipper are 80 to 90 pounds of moon rock gathered by Conrad and Bean, film recording nearly eight hours of moonwalk, and parts of Surveyor 3.

They also demonstrated on man's second visit to the moon that astronauts can land at a precise point on the surface, valuable knowledge for future Apollo crews who will fly into mountains and craters.

Conrad told the televised news conference Sunday night that it was no easy task to land Intrepid on the moon.

"It took every bit of knowledge I had to get that baby down there in the right place thought their lunar surface walks could have been extended from the two periods of four hours each.

"We weren't tired," Conrad said. "We could have kept on going ... The big problem is getting suited up and getting unsuited when you get back in. Doing the work outside is easy."

On the space program's bubbling controversy over whether the moon should be explored by engineers or scientists, Conrad had this to say:

"I think that the idea is to get the transportation system worked out and then take the necessary people to go. There's no doubt that geologists can do a better job than I can. I'm not a geologist."

The astronauts said they would be willing to launch again in the kind of thunderstorm that marred their blastoff Nov. 14, recommended improvements in tools and carrier bags and reported difficulty in sleeping on the moon.

Newsmen asked whether Conrad's exhilaration on the moon might have been caused by an "oxygen high," a state of euphoria that sometimes occurs when an astronaut breathes pure oxygen.

"I was very happy," said Conrad, "but I wasn't on an oxygen high."

Bean described difficulties in identifying rocks and soil this way:

"This second day we went out, the same thing that looked gray to us the first day started looking—at least to me—a sort of brown, dark brown or a tannish brown, and it was really one of the most interesting things of the lunar surface operations ... how much that color can change just with a 7 degree or so sun angle change."

The derelict Surveyor spacecraft they inspected and removed pieces from looked brown, Bean said, but "I wouldn't be a bit surprised that when we get all those parts back to Houston, they don't turn out to be—under the earth light and light of the laboratory—kind of dark gray again."

The astronauts said they thought their lunar surface walks could have been extended from the two periods of four hours each.

"We weren't tired," Conrad said. "We could have kept on going ... The big problem is getting suited up and getting unsuited when you get back in. Doing the work outside is easy."

That was no piece of cake. That's my profession. And it took every thing I had to get that LM down in one piece. I think we got some things to work out on that."

The capsule communicator, astronaut Gerald Carr, relayed reporters' questions in the unprecedented news conference from 112,000 miles in space.

Conrad and Bean said they slept fitfully in the cramped Intrepid cabin on the moon.

Gordon said he was so busy handling Yankee Clipper alone in lunar orbit that he didn't have time to get lonely during the 40 hours he was separated from Conrad and Bean.

"At the end of the day I could hardly get to bed fast enough," he said.

"All three of us were a lot calmer than I thought we'd be," Conrad reported. "I think Al and I were a little bit nervous during that ascent from the moon. After all we had only one engine."

The astronauts face quarantine until Dec. 11 as a precaution against the remote chance they brought alien germs back from the moon. The Apollo 11 pilots contracted no bugs, but Apollo 12 went to a different lunar area and an international contamination committee recommended a full quarantine.

But landing restrictions were relaxed. Instead of donning head-to-toe biological isolation suits, the plan was to wear face masks to trap germs the astronauts might exhale. The Apollo 11 astronauts complained the full suits were hot and the visors fogged, obscuring their vision.

Conrad, Gordon and Bean will be locked in a mobile quarantine van aboard the Hornet for almost five days while the ship cruises toward Hawaii, some 2,600 miles from the intended landing area.

General Will Head Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army assigned a three-star general today to review a low-level decision last year against any disciplinary action in an alleged massacre of South Vietnamese civilians.

Lt. Gen. William R. Peers was instructed "to determine the adequacy of both the investigation and its subsequent review."

The 11th Infantry Brigade, which made the investigation and the decision last year, "developed nothing to indicate any disciplinary action or to warrant further investigation," the Army said.

It said the appointment of Gen. Peers does not mean that the original investigation and review were inadequate.

This will be determined by the special review, which will be separate from a current criminal investigation which so far has resulted in charges against two Army men and the investigation of the role of two dozen other soldiers and former soldiers.

The incident was at the village of My Lai in March 1968.

Both the 11th Infantry Brigade, whose men were involved in the incident, and South Vietnamese authorities originally looked into Viet Cong reports that a small group of American soldiers had shot possibly 100 Vietnamese civilians during the My Lai raid.

Children Playing In Pile Of Leaves Hit By Car; Injured

Two nine-year-old girls were injured one of them seriously when struck by a car while playing in a pile of leaves on Rosewood Drive Saturday afternoon.

An East Carolina University student who called police and told them he may have hit something has been charged with operating on the wrong side of the road in connection with the accident.

Officers said Patricia Ann Paschal of 1709 Rosewood Dr. and Victoria Clement of 102 Martinsboro Rd. were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital about 5:55 p.m. for treatment of injured when struck by a car while playing in a pile of leaves at the side of the road in front of the Paschal residence.

The young Paschal girl was admitted to the hospital's special surgical unit for treatment, while the Clement child was treated and released.

Further investigation of the incident led to the arrest of John Older, Brother, 19, of Rockingham.

Brother, at 4:30, called the police headquarters and told officers that if a hit-and-run incident was reported on blamed for keeping the state's milk prices at one of the highest levels in the nation, will be discussed at a public hearing Tuesday.

Several industry leaders and commission members already have urged repeal of the regulations, known as Fair Trade Order No. 10. But there is no general agreement on what form of control, if any, should replace the order.

The commission called the hearing last week after members pointed out increasing dairy industry opposition to the order.

The order is intended to stabilize the milk market and cut down on competition by setting up rules of fair play among Tar Heel dairy distributors and retailers.

It requires distributors to file their wholesale prices with the commission, sets up a uniform scale for discounts which distributors may offer to large volume customers and prohibits distributors from making gifts of equipment to retailers who buy their products.

The commission regulation also prohibits merchants from selling milk below "cost"—that is, below a 7 per cent markup over the wholesale price.

The markup requirement, which is included in the 1953 state law that created the commission, was modified by a 1967 state Supreme Court decision which held that selling milk below "cost" for the purpose of attracting customers to a store is not illegal.

Commission members noted last week that supermarkets in Asheville had recently ignored the regulations and begun using milk as a "loss leader"—selling it at a loss to draw customers.

The decision to try 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr. was made by Maj. Gen. Orwin C. Talbot, commanding general at Ft. Benning, the announcement said.

The case will be tried as a capital offense. No date has been set for the trial.

Nonfarm employment as a whole was 27,000 higher than a year ago, Crane said.

Hourly earnings of factory workers increased one cent last month, rising to an average of $2.33. The work week averaged 40.7 hours, a fractional gain over September. Weekly earnings were up 88 cents to an average of $96.37.

Need 'Billions' To Cut Violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation must spend billions of dollars to alleviate ghetto conditions if it is to reduce the fear of violence that "is gnawing at the vitals of urban America," says the commission on violence.

In a report on urban crime released Sunday, the commission warned the nation's cities are fast becoming divided into armed camps of haves and have-nots. It also said the United States is the most violent developed country in the world.

Dr. Milton Eisenhower, chairman of the commission, said reversing the spiraling growth of violent crime would cost "billions ... massive sums of money" over several years.

Recommendations included overhaul of the criminal justice system, increased foot patrols by interracial police teams, improved police-community relations and free drugs for addicts to make stealing to support a habit unnecessary.

But most important, the commission said, "only progress toward urban reconstruction can reduce the strength of crime-causing forces in the inner city."

The program was announced jointly Sunday by Gov. Bob Scott, state Commissioner of Correction Lee Bounds and William Friday, president of the University of North Carolina. The program is titled, "The Youthful Offender Tells It Like It Is."

Professors and students in the UNC speech department are training the young prisoners from the Polk Youth Center.

Bounds said in pilot appearances at two schools, the young speakers were impressive. Seven youths are ready to give speeches, and 15 more are being trained, he said.

Harry Lally, director of the Polk Youth Center, is accepting invitations for appearances which also feature a singing quartet of inmates who call themselves, "The Voices of Time."

Harris said other funds on hand included about $400 from a pre-Halloween candy sale, $1,200 from the raffle of a color television set and $875 in general donations from local residents and people elsewhere who read about the program.

"We feel confident we will be able to continue the full scope of the program through June," said Harris. As for next year, he said he had been assured the program would be included in the budget.

Tell Stories To Students

RALEIGH (AP) — A group of youthful offenders in North Carolina's prison system plan to give first-hand evidence to persons in high schools and universities showing that crime does not pay.

Popularity At Record High

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — A Gallup poll indicates President Nixon's popularity was at a record high after his Nov. 3 Vietnam war speech and the Nov. 13-15 antiwar demonstrations.

The poll, released Sunday, was conducted Nov. 14-17.

Of the 1,465 adults interviewed in 200 locations throughout the nation, 68 per cent expressed approval of the way Nixon was handling his over-all job. Nineteen per cent disapproved and 13 per cent did not express an opinion.

Elders Given A Helping Hand

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — The senior citizens of this Long Island community have something extra to give thanks for this Thursday: the efforts of hundreds of teen-agers who have worked to save a recreational and educational program for the elderly.

Thomas A. Harris, an insurance man who is helping in the drive to save the Westbury Senior Citizens' program, said Sunday almost 80 per cent of the money needed to keep the project going had been raised.

Harris' estimate followed one of the drive's major fund-raising events, a concert at the high school that drew about 1,000 persons.

The 13-year-old program provides education, artistic and social programs for about 170 persons who participate regularly.

It faced extinction because its funds were cut from the city budget in an economy move.

Learning of the problem, the Westbury High School class of 1970 started a drive to make up the deficit. The student council and junior high school pupils joined in the effort. Newspaper reports of the project drew a letter of encouragement from Mrs. Richard M. Nixon.

Harris said he did not know exactly how much money had been raised by the concerts because tickets—$2 for adults, $1 for students—had been sold through school music teachers and the funds would not be counted until Tuesday.

Harris said other funds on hand included about $400 from a pre-Halloween candy sale, $1,200 from the raffle of a color television set and $875 in general donations from local residents and people elsewhere who read about the program.

Couple Weds Sunday Afternoon

WINTERVILLE — Miss Peggy Anne Forrest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Forrest, and Clifton Wesley Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Thomas were married on Sunday at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the Missionary Baptist Church here.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Horace Thompson of Winterville amid a setting centered with a brass arch and sunburst arrangement of white gladioli, mums, snapdragons and pom poms. Spiral candelabras holding cathedral candles and mixed bridal flowers were on either side flanked by emerald green palms and greenery. A profuse prie-dieu was at the altar where the couple knelt for the wedding prayer.

Family pews were marked with ribbons and greenery and an arrangement of mixed flowers were used in the vestibule of the church.

Music was provided by Mrs. Roy T. Cox of Winterville, organist, and Mrs. Kenneth Dews, soloist. Mrs. Dews sang "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee" and "The Wedding Benediction."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of silk tulle styled with an empire bodice edged with lace and a lace jabot front with a tulle bow and steamer. The long, full Bishop sleeves were fashioned with a wide six-button cuff and lace ruffle extending over the hand. The skirt was A-line styled with back pleat.

Her bridal veil was a flowing cathedral length madonna mantilla of pea d'ange lace with scalloped edges which framed the face and extended into a full train. She carried a cascade bouquet of white miniature carnations centered with a white orchid and accented with loops of ribbon.

Miss Debra Hines attended the bride as maid of honor. Her formal length gown was empire styled with a honeygold Max Mandel lace bodice and a matching A-line velvet skirt. The bodice was styled with a stand-up collar and jabot front with peau de soie buttons accenting the floral design. Both collar and jabot were edged with lace ruffles. The Bishop sleeves were set into wide three-button cuffs which were also edged with lace ruffles. The empire line was accented by a peau de soie belt fashioned with a large bow. The headpiece was a large fitted bow fashioned of velvet.

Miss Hines carried a fall basket of gold snapdragons and bronze pom poms with accents of colored wheat tied with gold velvet ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Danny Bowen of Ormandville, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Michael Mills and Mrs. Johnny Thomas of Greenville and Mrs. Donald Thompson of Salem. The attendants dresses and baskets were identical to the honor attendants.

Mrs. Pittman Hines of Winterville created and fashioned the attendants' dresses; Mrs.

Dr. Batten Is Club Speaker

Dr. James Batten, of East Carolina University, was guest speaker at the meeting of the Chatham Book Club held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C.C. Studdert.

He gave a description on writing a book, saying a person must have a purpose for writing a book and a story to tell. In 1962, his first book on space and flight, the moon was published.

His second book "Going to the Moon" will be out this month. He has also written a full length book on soil which will be published soon.

Mrs. R.L. Powell, president, welcomed guests for the meeting. Dr. Batten and Mrs. Edward Johnson, sister of the speaker.

Gifts were brought for Operation Santa Claus by club members. After a short business session, books were exchanged.

Vernon Cox directed the wedding.

Mr. Thomas served his son as best man. Ushers were James Forrest of Winterville, brother of the bride, Douglas Davis of Snow Hill, Michael Mills of Greenville and Donald Thompson of Salem.

Mrs. Forrest chose for her daughters' wedding, an aqua silk desire dress and long matching coat. The dress had an insert of lace at the waist. She used matching accessories.

Mrs. Thomas selected a long sleeved, semi-fitted dress of peach peau de soie accented with lace appliques. Both mothers wore white orchid corsages.

The bride is a 1966 graduate of Winterville High School and is now a senior primary education major at East Carolina University. She will graduate in February.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Green Central High School and a 1968 graduate of East Carolina University, where he majored in accounting. He is presently employed in Raleigh.

For traveling, the bride changed to a gray wool dress fashioned with roll collar, fitted waist and flared skirt. The dress was accented by red piping and red buttons. She chose matching red accessories and wore an orchid lifted from her bouquet.

Following a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Raleigh.

Reception
Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Forrest honored the bridal couple, wedding party and guests at a reception in the fellowship hall of the church, where guests were welcomed by Senator and Mrs. Vernon White.

Mr. and Mrs. E.B. Wall presided at the register where a portrait of the bride was displayed.

The refreshment table was covered with a white bridal satin cloth garlanded with ribbons and tube roses. The centerpiece was a five branched silver candelabra holding white and gold snapdragons and miniature carnations with white burning tapers. Mrs. O.J. Stancil, aunt of the bride, poured the punch.

The bride's table was covered with a white bridal satin cloth. Centered on the table was a three-tiered wedding cake, surrounded by Baker fern entwined with gold pom poms. Mrs. Elvy Forrest, aunt of the bride, served the cake after the bride and bridegroom cut the first slice.

Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Mobley presented the guests to the receiving line and good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Evert, aunt and uncle of the bride.

Others assisting in the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Hill, Mr. and Mrs. J.D. McArthur, Mr. and Mrs. McCoy Tripp, all of Winterville. Following the rehearsal on Saturday evening, an after-rehearsal party for members of the wedding party and guests was given by Mr. and Mrs. C.A. Bowling, Senator and Mrs. Vernon White, Mr. and Mrs. Elvy Forrest, and Mr. and Mrs. O.J. Stancil at the home of Senator and Mrs. Vernon White.

The bridal party, family and out-of-town guests were entertained at a wedding breakfast Sunday at the Winterville Community Building. Hostess for the occasion were Mrs. Alton Hill, Mrs. E.B. Wall, Mrs. Woodrow Beppard, Mrs. Ronald Carroll, Mrs. J.H. Mobley, Mrs. J.D. McArthur, Mrs. McCoy Tripp, Haywood McLawhorn and Mrs. Alfred McLawhorn, all of Winterville.

Apollo Families To Be Thankful

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 12 streaked today toward a Pacific splash-down, ending 10 tense days for the wives of the moon adventurers.

"I was thinking how thankful I'll be when Al gets home again," Sue Bean, the pert blonde wife of moonwalker Alan Bean, said after church Sunday.

For Mrs. Bean, Barbara Gordon and Jane Conrad, the flight of Apollo 12 has been a mixture of apprehension, exhilaration and sleepless nights.

The worrying began during the first moments of launch, when commander Charles Conrad Jr. reported the spaceship had suffered an electrical power failure attributed to lightning.

Then came the perilous descent to the moon, the moonwalks, the broken television camera, the drama of liftoff from the lunar surface.

The wives followed the high adventure via television and squawkbox, flanked by children, friends and relatives.

Barbara Gordon attended Mass daily. All three families tried to ease the tension with picnics and other group activities.

Mrs. Conrad and her two youngest boys went flying in a glider Sunday and afterwards she visited Mission Control to view the last telecast from space.

Told by ground controllers his family was there, Conrad exclaimed:

"Hey, great, tell them we'll be home in about a week!"

Actually, the astronauts will be back in Houston Saturday, but it will be Dec. 11 before they leave quarantine to rejoin their kin.

"I can hardly wait," said Sue Bean.

Soldier Slain While AWOL

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A 17-year-old Ramseur, N.C. soldier has died from the gunshot wound he received from a Chattanooga policeman.

Jack D. Richardson was shot while he was absent without leave from the Army. He was wanted for questioning in connection with a missing purse at a time of the shooting.

Chattanooga patrolman Alvin Capley said he fired at Richardson as the youth tried to run his down in a sportscar.

Richardson's companion, Ronald D. Babson, 21, was arrested.

Agnew Says: Had Enough

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says he was critical of antiwar protesters not at the behest of President Nixon but because "I had had enough."

Agnew, in the current issue of Life magazine, wrote a guest editorial called "I did it on my own."

"The reason I spoke out was because, like the great silent majority, I had had enough," Agnew said. "I had endured the didactic inadequacies of the garrulous in silence, hoping for the best but witnessing the worst for many months. And because I am an elected official, I felt I owed it to those I serve to speak the truth."

Agnew used the article to defend his Oct. 19 speech attacking the Vietnam Moratorium protest.

Pitt County Tobacco Agent
On a few farms in Pitt County tobacco was produced in excess of the farm poundage quota. In deciding if it is feasible to store the tobacco for sale next year, there are some factors that should be considered.

The three important things to consider in determining the feasibility of storing surplus tobacco are: (1) what will it cost per pound to store the tobacco, (2) what will be the reduction, if any, in the per pound value of stored tobacco next year?, and (3) what will be the cost of producing the equivalent poundage of tobacco next year?

If, after thoroughly answering these questions, you decided to store your surplus tobacco for sale next year, certain storage requirements for the adequate preservation of the tobacco are necessary. First, a good storage building should be available. Second, the tobacco should be bulked in as dry condition as it can be handled without serious breaking and shattering. The stems and veins should be so dry that they will snap when bent to a sharp angle. The tobacco should not contain more than 12-14 percent moisture. Third, the tobacco should be bulked in such a way that air can circulate underneath the pile. Also, the bulked tobacco should be covered with plastic. Fourth, check the tobacco often for the presence of insects and moisture. Mice and rats will also need to be controlled. The possibility of insect damage can be reduced by thoroughly cleaning the packhouse. Also, do not store feed, seed, organic fertilizers, grain or seed cotton in the packhouse.

For complete information on storing tobacco on your farm, request Extension Folder No. 264, "Storing Flue-Cured Tobacco on Your Farm" from the County Agricultural Extension Office located at 203 W. Third Street in Greenville.

Holdup Man Is Shot, Killed

RALEIGH (AP) — Police said a Sanford man killed in an attempted service station robbery early Sunday had committed a holdup some two hours earlier.

Police Detective A. A. Bum identified the man as Hal Fleming McNeill, 26. He said McNeill walked into the Spur Service Station on Hillsborough Street with a stocking over his head and a pistol in his hand.

The officer said the service station attendant, Mickey Melin, shoved the gunman aside, drew a pistol from his own pocket and shot him in the stomach. McNeill was dead on arrival at Wake Memorial Hospital.

Bum said McNeill was identified later as having robbed the College Inn of $80.

If the Shoe Fits...

BY LARRY AVERETTE

A shoe salesman once told me I should buy two pair of work shoes at a time. Why would he advise me so?

This is very good advice. A shoe worn all day to work absorbs perspiration, oils, and salts from your feet.

Overnight is not long enough for the shoe to dry thoroughly. Having another pair of work shoes, and wearing them on alternate days, allows plenty of time for the first to completely dry out. This lengthens the life of both pairs, and keeps your feet more dry, cool and comfortable.

Not only is it wise to alternate your shoes, day by day, but many people find it most relaxing and refreshing to change shoes at least once during the day. They call it a "shoe break".

Our Do-Gooders Stand Naked

Judge Clement Haynsworth of South Carolina did the nation a great service by not withdrawing as nominee for the Supreme Court in face of Senate opposition based on the flimsiest of reasons. And President Nixon has shown he has the qualities to lead the nation through difficult times by fighting for his nominee.

Even though the nomination was defeated by a 55-45 vote in the Senate Friday, Judge Haynsworth can hold his head high in knowing that the defeat came, not because he was unqualified, but because of personal prejudices of various opponents.

The defeat of Judge Haynsworth is symptomatic of the hypocrisy which has hung over this nation for a number of years. It is the sort of thing which allows a double standard in the country so far as laws affecting school desegregation are concerned. It is what allows Kennedys to make uncriticized decisions affecting the course of business in the country, even though they may affect the vast fortune which the family holds. It is what allows rich liberals to successfully argue that it is all right only for them to send their children to private, exclusive and of course, virtually segregated schools.

For some years do-righters in other parts of the nation have thundered about legal segregation in the South and used this to ease their consciences about de facto segregation under their own noses. The legal segregation was indeed wrong; but what of the de facto segregation? Legal segregation is gone, but de facto segregation is just as it always was in New York and other states in the North.

So factors were at work in the Haynsworth defeat that had nothing to do with his qualifications to serve on the Supreme Court.

We have no idea what kind of a justice Judge Haynsworth would have made. Neither do the senators who voted against him. But because the senators allowed their judgment to become overriden by their own prejudices, none of us will ever know.

The Haynsworth defeat should long stand as a towering monument to Washington hypocrisy. It should stand in memory of little men with limited vision. Who knows? Maybe it will do some good. Most Southerners will admit today that our section has had its share of prejudicial thinking. But then perhaps some non-Southerners will at last take a look at themselves and finally admit that prejudice was not entirely limited to the Southern white of segregation days.

Okinawa Still Belongs To Japan; It's Fitting

Turning Okinawa back to Japan is a wise move on the part of the United States.

An announcement was made last week that an agreement had been reached to return the island to Japanese rule by 1972. The United States took control of the island following World War II and this recent action has the effect of erasing the last vestige of bad feeling which that war created between the two countries.

Now Japan is one of our closest allies and its bustling economy should convince other Asiatic nations that they, too, can attain prosperity through industriousness.

The Okinawa matter could have clouded U.S. — Japanese relations. It is good that positive action has been taken.

Adlai And Daley & 'Libertyville'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

CHICAGO—The probable endorsement next week by Mayor Richard J. Daley's regular Democratic machine of State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III for the 1970 Senate nomination can be fully savored only in the light of Stevenson's clandestine plots against Daley, barely three months ago.

Just how far the soft-spoken Stevenson was willing to go in leading reformers and other dissident Democrats against Daley's possession of the party was revealed to some of his closest political supporters late in August at a dinner party in Stevenson's Chicago home.

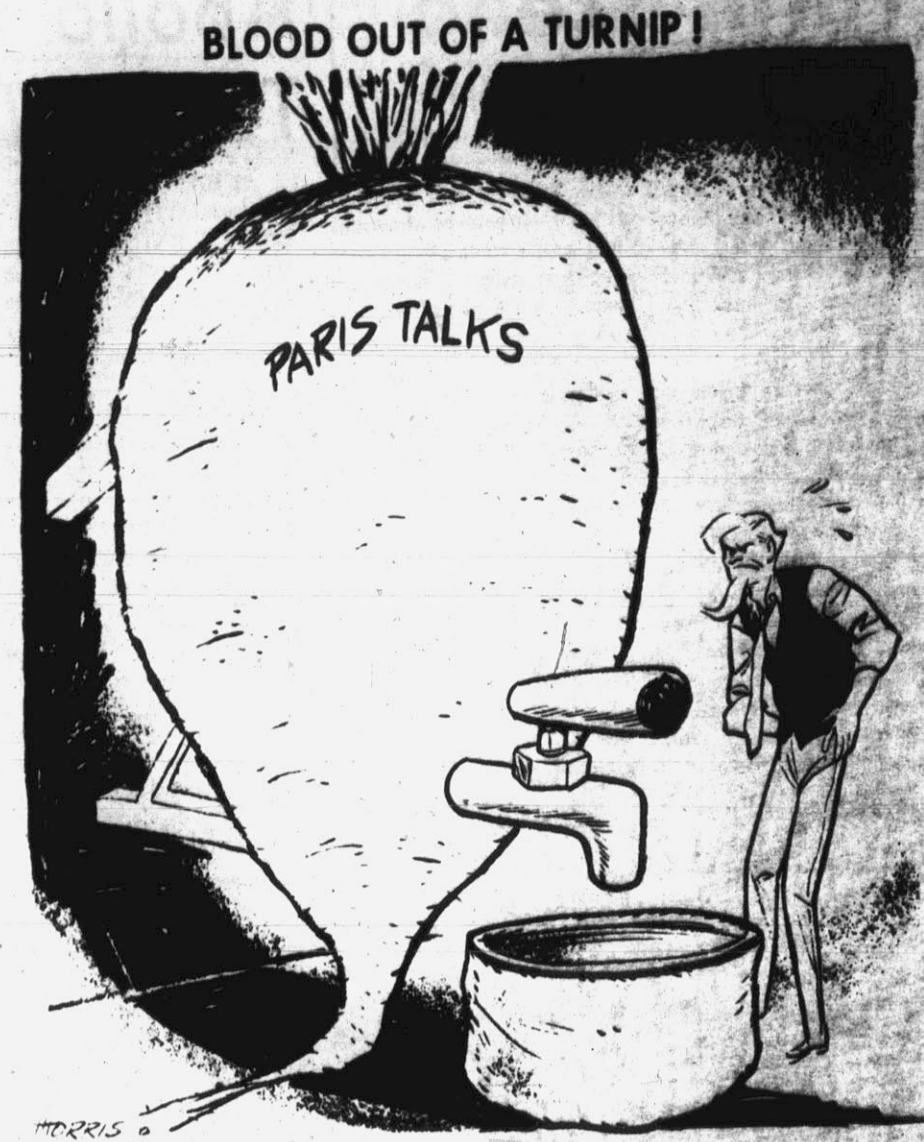

After dinner, he told them confidentially that he wanted to challenge not only party committeemen in the suburban townships of Cook County (Chicago) in the primary next March but wanted to contest Daley's picks for the two county offices at stake in 1970: sheriff and county treasurer.

Indeed, Stevenson revealed he had specific choices for the two spots—a Polish-American banker closely associated with the Stevenson family for treasurer and an anti-organization state legislator for sheriff Amazed, Stevenson's friends advised that a frontal assault on the Daley machine's iron bulwarks would be suicidal. Stevenson, far from being dissuaded, countered that he planned to take some polls to test his plan.

The possibility of those polls ever being taken was wiped out about two weeks later in the momentous events of Sept. 7. On that Sunday, a gathering of anti-Daley reformers on the Stevenson farm in suburban Libertyville was paid a surprise visit by Daley himself. Simultaneously with Daley's visit came the news that Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen had died in Washington. That combination of events effectively choked off a serious reform challenge to Daley's party control.

Whether Daley's visit to Libertyville by itself would have accomplished much is doubtful. But combined with Dirksen's death, it beheaded the reform movement. With a Senate seat now open in 1970 and Daley making peace overtures, Stevenson abruptly dropped his reform activity and, understandably, set his sights on the Senate. With nobody else around to lead, the reform movement is moribund. Daley's regulars (Continued On Page 6)

Our Undercover Agents

WASHINGTON—It is generally known that the FBI had many undercover agents dressed as students and hippies during last week's mobilization march in Washington. What isn't known is the difficulty the FBI had in making their agents look authentic.

On Friday morning 100 FBI undercover men all wearing war-surplus apparel, dungarees and ponchos gathered in the Justice Department courtyard to be inspected by J. Edgar Hoover.

They were all lined up at attention when Hoover arrived.

"Slouch, dammit!" Hoover yelled at them. "You'll never pass as protesters if you keep your shoulders back and your stomachs in."

Hoover stopped in front of one agent. "Fitzpatrick, what are you doing with your shoes shined?"

"I always keep my shoes shined. It's the first thing I learned in FBI school."

"Well, dirty them up."

"How, sir?"

"Go to the Mud Department and have them touch them up. You show up once more with shined shoes and it goes in your record."

The FBI director continued down the line. "McAlister, what are you doing with an American Flag in your buttonhole?"

"I want them to know where I stand, sir."

"They're not supposed to know where you stand. You're an undercover agent. Now give me the flag, and put on this peace button."

"Do I have to, sir?"

"Give it to me and... wait a minute, McAlister. Did you take a bath this morning?"

"I took a shower, sir."

Hoover was enraged. "You had specific orders not to bathe for three days."

"That's all right for you to say, sir, but I was beginning to have body odor."

"That was the idea, McAlister. You were supposed to have body odor so you wouldn't be suspect."

"But, sir, cleanliness is next to godliness."

Other Editors Say The Rest Of The Story

(Raleigh Times)

It's hard for a headline to tell all the important parts of a news story. Recently, Director Roy Wilkins of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People spoke in Reidsville. The headline over the story noted that Wilkins had advised black militants to stop throwing rocks and to get an education.

He did give them that advice, and undoubtedly the white population was delighted to see those headlines. But, it is vastly more important for the white citizens of North Carolina to hear of other advice that he gave during that same speech:

"We have to thank the militants for some things. They have educated the blacks out of apathy and scared some of the whites out of their complacency."

That black apathy and that white complacency have combined for generations to make the inevitable job of solving human relations problems a much more difficult one. The white majority could be excused in its complacency, because no man wishes to give up voluntarily a very comfortable situation for himself. The apathy of the blacks was understandable, too. Behind them was a timidity, even a terror, brought on by generations of submission to customs which decreed that black people should remain in their place.

Black militancy, at first by so few, has helped bring about changes which should have been made generations ago. These changes have made America a better country for all its citizens. There are still many changes which must be made, and the sooner white complacency is changed enough to help make them, the better it will be for all concerned.

It will be better if those changes in white complacency come from the whites themselves. If they don't come that way, they inevitably will come in other ways.

"Very good, McAlister, but in this case I want you to stink. Now go in the gym and work out for three hours in your clothes and then let me see you."

Hoover said to his assistant, "This is one of the worst inspections I've ever attended."

"The men mean well, Mr. Hoover."

Hoover suddenly stopped in front of an agent.

"Your hair!"

"What's the matter, sir? Isn't it short enough?"

"You have a crew cut. Who told you to have a crew cut?"

"I've always had a crew cut, just as department regulations require."

"Get this man a wig and sideburns."

"Please, sir. Don't make me wear sideburns. My mother would never forgive me."

"Give him 10 demerits," Hoover said as he walked away.

He started up the second rank and stopped in front of a man who was wearing a

Oppose Dixie Branch

By ED ROGERS WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican liberals have opened a campaign to prevent the White House from developing a "southern strategy" catering to Dixie and its conservative voters.

Doing this, they said, would mean writing off the eastern industrial areas, youths everywhere and the entire Negro electorate while embracing "racism and reaction."

Remarks widely publicized last week echoed the criticism that met the administration's attempt last August and September to gain more time for Mississippi to integrate 33 school districts.

When the administration's bid for added time was denied by the Supreme Court, the President and Atty. Gen. John Mitchell were accused of having developed a ploy, with foreknowledge that they could not win in court. This shifted blame for integration from themselves to the court.

The target of new GOP liberals' criticism was a book, "The Emerging Republican Majority" written by Kevin P. Phillips, a key 1968 campaign aide. Phillips is now a special assistant to Mitchell.

Phillips notes that if you add together the southern states that voted for George C. Wallace and the border states that voted Republican you get a winning power base in the new, two-party South.

The only question is, how conservative must a "southern strategy" be to keep out a third-party vote splitter like Wallace and capture the total vote.

Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., denounced such a strategy as one that would "exclude our young, isolate our blacks and ignore the cancerous decay of our urban centers."

Sen. Charles McC. Mathis, R-Md., said he was opposed to any southern strategy aimed at attracting "all the conservatives and Wallace radicals" to the party.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., in comment on the book, pointed to the recent re-election of New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, a liberal Republican, as a "profound lesson" the national party should study closely.

The liberal-oriented Ripon Society, a Republican "research and policy" organization, called Phillips' proposal a "simplistic" "Dixiecrat" strategy that would depend on "a dangerous and precarious conservative coalition."

The Ripon Society and others cited the recent election victories of Lindsay and of Republican Gov.-elect Linwood Holton of Virginia as proof that having a broad-based strategy is the way to win.

The society added in a separate report: "A two-party system will develop in the South if Republicans adopt a moderate approach."

The society said Holton has joined Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas and Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee as southern Republicans whose winning strategy was to seek "explicit support from black voters."

To this list the society added a former border state governor, Spiro T. Agnew, of Maryland.

See No Charge In N.C. Court

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES Reflector Raleigh Bureau RALEIGH—Some may now refer to the State Supreme Court as the "Moore court" because of the unusual influence that former Gov. Dan K. Moore might have. In terms of wielding influence, such description certainly is inaccurate and will be proved incorrect. There should be no doubt about this.

Gov. Bob Scott who appointed Moore to the Supreme Court bench last week had no doubts nor qualms. The highest judicial body in North Carolina will remain fiercely independent and impartial. It has gained and held that reputation over many, many years. No one should think that it would or could change now.

Appointed—It is true that Dan Moore, while governor, appointed three of the present seven members of the Supreme Court and will now serve on that bench himself. But it is doubtful that the thought of trying to influence anyone else's judicial opinion ever crossed Dan Moore's mind. Certainly it did not. This is not his view of judicial office, the duty of the courts nor of the procedure of the Supreme Court in particular.

Of course, the justices and the chief justice are closely associated. They work together. They lunch together. They walked in a group, chatting casually, to the press conference at which Moore's appointment was announced.

The justices have regular conferences to discuss and evaluate cases. They are erudite, knowledgeable in the law and statutes but they also are individuals, and very human. They hold their own opinions and interpretations and this is respected by every other member.

Political—There are political aspects and ramifications to several of the most recent Supreme Court appointments including Moore's. Dr. I. Beverly Lake, formerly law professor at Wake Forest, twice ran for governor. His theme and platform was respect for the law. He would not bend to whims and what he thought was a departure from established principles of the law. He did and does believe in equal rights.

WILLIAM SHIRES

Dr. Lake was assisted in his first gubernatorial campaign by Joseph Branch, a tall, handsome Enfield lawyer who had been his law pupil and who has great affection for Dr. Lake. Joe Branch was known as one of the state's most outstanding lawyers. A thinker, and a humanitarian. He even liked newspapermen and occasionally sought their advice.

There were Gov. Dan Moore's first choices to place on the Supreme Court.

Lake—Dr. Lake was first. Dr. Lake had been the primary adversary of Terry Sanford in two bitterly fought primary campaigns in 1960, and opposed Moore and L. Richardson Preyer in 1964. In a run-off, Lake asked his supporters to vote for Moore, a moderate.

Moore rewarded Dr. Lake with appointment to the first vacancy on the Supreme Court and has never ceased to express his admiration for Dr. Lake.

Others—In addition to Dr. Lake and Branch, Moore appointed J. Frank Huskins of Burnsville, formerly a superior court judge, to the high court. Huskins replaced another westerner, Will Pless of Marion, who was another Moore choice.

Strength For Today Going Up Before The Retreat

DEFINITION
What does it mean to be a Christian?
Some would say that being a Christian means belonging to the Christian Church, but we all know that there is a tremendous amount of Christian activity going on outside the boundaries of any church.

Others would say that being a Christian means living a life of Christian righteousness. There is, of course, a tremendous amount of truth in such an assertion. If we do not practice what we believe or preach or teach, then we are a pretty low variety of Christian believer no matter of what branch of the Christian Church we belong.

What they did for humanity. There have been Christian leaders, such as St. Paul, Thomas Aquinas, John Wesley, Phillips Brooks and the present outstanding evangelist, Billy Graham, who have made a profound impression on the spiritual life of their times.

Yet certainly these great leaders have not been the only Christians in the world. There have been uncounted Christians, and there still are an uncounted multitude. Probably the briefest definition of a Christian one could give is that a Christian is a person who believes in Christ, tries to live up to the teachings he set forth and believes that the destiny of his soul and the future of the world rest on Christ's teaching, the presence of his spirit in the world, the spiritual ends to which he has pointed the human race.

By ELMER ROESSNER
Interest rates will go up before they go down.

The Federal Reserve probably will not raise the discount rate, which would automatically push all interest rates up; neither will it lower it for a while, despite rumors to the contrary. But banks will increase their rates. Some have already started.

The increases will be subtle. Fewer corporate borrowers will be loaned money at the prime rate, 8 1/2 per cent. The prime rate is given only to those companies with impeccable credit ratings, and all other lending is at higher rates. Borrowers seeking additional loans will be told that because money is tight, rates will be slightly higher. Banks will also insist on larger "compensating balances." These are deposits borrowers are required to leave in the bank; 20 per cent of a loan is a common figure. This automatically increases the interest rate 25 per cent.

ELMER ROESSNER

Reasons For The Rise
There are several reasons for the increases. Banks, like other businesses, face rising costs of salaries and training new employees. Many banks have adopted expansionist policies, establishing new branches, launching credit card plans, etc., which are expensive to start. Many banks have been paying higher rates for money, such as borrowing Euro-dollars. And, perhaps the biggest reason of all, banks know they can get higher rates because the demand for money is so strong.

Here are some long-ago reasons in business:
There will be a flood of news about food, nutrition and health out of Washington during the first week in December. At that time, 26 panels of experts will report on studies over the last three months.

A new synthetic fiber may upset carpet marketing. It's called "Fortrel ECF" and is said by Celanese Corp. of American to be superior in strength to other fibers, and to resist crushing and matting. Higher Appliance Prices
Most small appliances will soon cost more. General Electric has notified dealers that prices will go up an average of 3.3 per cent Jan. 2. Some of the increases are as much as 10 per cent. And if GE raises prices, most competitors will follow.

A new cooking oil may appear on the market next year. The Department of Agriculture is testing an oil from a safflower variety called UC-1, which may be superior to many other edible oils.

Steel production may decline next month, partly due to Christmas holidays and partly due to the fact that tight money is causing many building projects to be postponed. Structural steel will be hit hardest. SBA Tells How To Start Small Retail Camera Store

Last Quarantine If Not Infected

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — If the Apollo 12 astronauts are found to be free of alien organisms, future moon explorers may be excused from the three-week quarantine now in force.

No lunar bins dropped up in the lunar of Apollo 11 or the material they brought back from the Sea of Tranquility.

The Apollo 12 moon landers set down 300 miles away, in the Ocean of Storms, and space scientists say there is a far-fetched possibility a weird form of life might exist in the different environment.

They don't expect to find any, but they're taking no chances.

"With identical negative information from two missions, we might propose relieving the crew quarantine after Apollo 12," Dr. A. D. Catterson, a Manned Spaceflight Center surgeon, said in an interview.

This flight's 21-day quarantine began last Thursday when Charles A. Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean blasted away from the moon's Ocean of Storms and joined Richard F. Gordon Jr. in the command ship Yankee Clipper.

Like Apollo 11 astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins, the Apollo 12 crew will go directly from the splashdown to a quarantine trailer on the aircraft carrier USS Hornet.

The trailer will be flown to Houston, where the astronauts will enter the Space Center's Lunar Receiving Laboratory and continue their isolation until Dec. 11.

This time there will be no "isolation garment" — the head-to-toe coveralls Apollo 11 astronauts wore to prevent release of any possible lunar organisms into the air. The men complained that the suits were uncomfortable and the face plates fogged over.

This second moon landing crew will wear only breathing kilts and fresh flight suits, which officials feel will be sufficient.

Said Catterson:

"From a practical standpoint, as soon as we feel that there is scientifically valid evidence that you don't have contamination — something coming back from the moon's surface that could prove any kind of a threat to life here on earth — we want to relieve the crew quarantine requirements as a first order of business."

similar opposition this year. Rep. Daniel V. Rostenkowski, one of Daley's closest lieutenants, has not relented in his personal animus toward Stevenson and was behind a recent abortive effort to sell Ambassador R. Sargent Shriver (who left Chicago nine years ago) for the Senate nomination.

Aside from Rostenkowski and some downstate regulars who feel Dirksen's seat should go to a downstater rather than Chicagoan Stevenson, however, the opposition to Stevenson within the organization has been largely neutralized.

Partly responsible for that is Stevenson, who swallowed his pride this autumn and sought to ingratiate himself with organization stalwarts. Stevenson paid personal visits, for instance, to two Daley allies — long hostile to him — Joe Romano, Chicago boss of the Steel Workers' Union, and Alderman Thomas Keane — and succeeded in softening their views. Keane told Stevenson he certainly wouldn't work against his endorsement and might even work for it.

Furthermore, much to the consternation of his liberal supporters, Stevenson has reverted to the essentially moderate position he was taking prior to the Chicago Convention riots of 1968, which impelled him on a more radical path. While attacking President Nixon's Vietnam policy, Stevenson disassociated himself from the extremist-led demonstration of Nov. 15.

Thus, the regular Democratic party is back at the same old stand doing business as usual without serious insurgency to confront.

the people of Alabama."

Before going to Montgomery, Agnew discussed his peppery, controversial speeches with a team of UPI White House reporters.

The vice president pictured himself as simply speaking his mind rather than carrying out any political role, possibly a personalized "southern strategy" wrapped up in one individual.

But he did say that President Nixon approved of the things he had been saying.

trench coat.

"What are you doing in that trench coat?" Hoover shouted.

"I don't want my dungarees to get dirty, sir."

"Take off that trench coat and start rolling in the yard until your dungarees are filthy," Hoover said.

The next man Hoover stopped in front of was carrying a football banner which read "Love America or Leave It." Hoover grabbed the banner. "No, Holliston. No patriotic banners."

Tears welled in Holliston's eyes. "No one would have seen it."

Hoover stomped out of the courtyard and said to his assistant, "This is too much. You inspect the rest of them. I'm going to the race track."

Because of a potato blight and the famine it produced, about 1,600,000 Irishmen emigrated from Ireland between 1846 and 1851.

will go unopposed in the March primary.

Accordingly, if the regular party slatemakers next Monday (Nov. 24) give Stevenson the Senate endorsement as expected, Daley will have applied to the state level his familiar local practice of co-opting powerful dissidents into the regular organization. Such co-opting of Stevenson was in Daley's mind in 1968 but was prevented both by Stevenson's opposition to the LBJ war policy and deep opposition from organization ward chairmen.

In fact, Daley has faced

This report was issued before Agnew's attacks on peace demonstrators and news dispensers gained wide support, particularly in the South, while liberals denounced them.

Agnew made three of his speeches in the South, at New Orleans, Jackson, Miss., and Montgomery, Ala.

At Montgomery last week Alabama Gov. Albert P. Brewer warmly told the vice president, "You have gained the approval of the overwhelming majority of

Ram Success Story: They Come Up With The Needed Big Plays

By MIKE BRYSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

There's a simple reason why the Los Angeles Rams are enjoying astonishing success this season, according to George Allen, coach of the National Football League's only unbeaten club.

"The story of our football team in 1969 is simply this: We come up with the big plays when we have to," said Allen.

And the Rams were coming up with big plays all over the place Sunday in turning back Dallas 24-23 for their 10th straight victory — the longest winning streak in the NFL since Green Bay did it in 1962.

Quarterback Roman Gabriel accounted for three of the plays — firing two touchdown tosses and running for another — before the Rams crackling defense came up with some more in cutting short a gallant Cowboy comeback in the final quarter.

In other games, Minnesota thumped past Pittsburgh 52-14, Baltimore squeezed past Chicago 24-21 on some late heroics by veteran Johnny Unitas, Cleveland clipped New York 28-17, Washington topped Atlanta 27-20, Detroit beat Green Bay 16-10, Philadelphia whipped St. Louis 34-30 and New Orleans subdued San Francisco 43-38.

In the American Football League, Oakland edged Kansas City 27-24, New York blasted Cincinnati 40-7, Boston topped Buffalo 35-21, San Diego beat Denver 45-24 and Houston coasted past Miami 32-7.

Gabriel's one-yard scoring run gave the Rams a 24-16 lead and an apparent victory with just 10 minutes left. But the injury-riddled Cowboys stormed back with a 99-yard march and cut the gap to one point on Craig Morton's eight-yard TD pass to Lance Rentzel.

Then, with time running out, Dallas launched another drive, but it ended when Eddie Meador intercepted a Morton pass, leaving Dallas with an 8-2 season mark.

Gary Cuozzo came bounding off the bench to fire two touchdown passes and set up two more as Minnesota ran its record to 9-1 and maintained its two-game edge over Detroit in the Central Division. The Vikings and Lions square off Thanksgiving Day.

Cuozzo, who passed for 130 yards, hit John Henders on with a 28-yarder and tossed a six-yarder to Oscar Reed in the match marked by some marathon returns and bizarre plays.

Unitas lounged around the sidelines—marking the first time since 1956 that the veteran quarterback, in healthy condition, didn't start for the Colts—and watched Chicago intercept two Earl Morrall passes and turn them into touchdowns.

Finally, with just 7:40 left and the Colts trailing 21-14, the old maestro got the call and promptly directed a 67-yard TD drive, in which he connected on all three of the passes he threw in the game, to tie it.

Then, after Jerry Logan intercepted a Bobby Douglass' pass and returned it to the Bear 40, Unitas drove the Colts on the ground to set up Lou Michael's 17-yard winning field goal with just 12 seconds left.

Leroy Kelly, showing some of his past brilliance, flashed for three touchdowns and picked up 124 yards as Cleveland shackled the Giants and all but sewed up the Century Division championship.

It was the 19th time in his career that Kelly—who staked the Browns to a 21-0 lead before New York scored in the first half—has passed the 100-yard mark, but the first time this year.

Charlie Harroway rambled 68 yards for the only touchdown of the second half to lift Washington from behind and toward victory over Atlanta. The Falcons managed to drive past the Washington 20 twice late in the game, but one threat was halted by a Paul Gipson fumble and the Skins held on down the other time.

Place kicker Erroll Munn, who was dropped by Green Bay, turned on his old mates with three field goals—of 23, 21 and 31 yards—that made the difference in Detroit's victory.

Tom Landry's four-yard run produced Detroit's TD, while the Packers scored all 10 points in the final period on Mike Mercer's 27-yard field goal and on Don Horn's 10-yard pass to Boyd Dowler.

Norm Snead hit Gary Ballman with a 23-yard touchdown pass with just 22 seconds left to give Philadelphia victory over St. Louis in a see-saw battle of a pair of teams striving to reach the 500 mark. The two teams traded the lead four times in the wild final quarter.

Ernie Wheelwright bucked over from the three-yard line with just 26 seconds left to enable New Orleans to pull it out against the 49ers.

San Francisco had taken a 21-0 lead before the Saints caught fire and roared back.

Davidson's Homer Smith faced one of the toughest jobs of his young coaching life today in the aftermath of a football season that brought his Wildcats giddy success — but ended in humiliation.

Smith's task was to persuade the Wildcats to forget the 63-8 embarrassment they suffered Saturday at Vanderbilt, and to get them ready for a Tangerine Bowl date with unbeaten Toledo at Orlando, Fla., Dec. 26.

Despite the loss, it was a season of many achievements for Davidson: A 7-3 record, the best for a Wildcat team since 1926, and the Southern Conference championship, the college's first in history.

Now, in the wake of the shel-lacking at Vanderbilt and the previous week's shocking 28-7 loss to Wofford, Smith must restore his players' confidence—all the while planning for Toledo's Mid-American champions.

Will the Rockets be as tough as Vanderbilt? Smith says he devoutly hopes not, because in Vanderbilt "we just played a better football team."

"They were very much better than we were, and we just couldn't handle them physically," said the Davidson coach. "They weren't this good when we scheduled them, and we didn't know they were going to get this good."

Because of the defeats in its last two games, Davidson no doubt will go into the Tangerine Bowl a pronounced underdog. But, for that matter, so was Richmond when the Spiders represented the SC at Orlando a year ago against unbeaten Ohio U.—and Richmond won, 49-42.

Richmond won't return to the bowl next month because it was whacked 37-7 by Davidson Oct. 11, but the final 1969 conference standings will show the Spiders and the Wildcats in a tie.

The Spiders equaled Davidson's 5-1 SC record, and gained a 6-4 season, Saturday by clipping old rival William and Mary 28-17 in a game that wasn't nearly so close as the score.

Strange Victory For ACC Champ Gamecocks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
South Carolina's 27-13 victory over Clemson this weekend "was a strange one," coach Paul Dietzel confided Sunday.

But Dietzel wasn't really too surprised at his Atlantic Coast Conference champions, as the Gamecocks are strange birds in the football world of physical strength from beginning to end.

The field general of the loop champions, quarterback Tommy Suggs, tossed only one scoring pass in the contest but led the team into scoring position the first three times it had the ball.

Suggs is only 5-foot-9 and is forced to rollout on passes as he isn't able to see over the line after the snap from center.

Suggs' favorite target on the receiving end is his 5-foot-11 end Fred Zeigler. Zeigler stayed a step ahead of the Tiger defense all day. He wears a size 13 shoe.

The toothless Tigers weren't able to get a first down until the second period, but when they did, they threatened to make a game out of it.

Clemson halfback Ray Yauger dashed wide left in the scoring spree and then took a pass from quarterback Tommy Kendrick for a second score.

South Carolina finished the season with a perfect 6-0 league record and 7-3 overall. Clemson had a 3-3 ACC record and a 4-6 overall.

The North Carolina-Duke game provided one of the most unusual events of the final full week of ACC football action.

The Tar Heels watched Duke quarterback Leo Hart bend down to tie his shoe in Saturday's game and were shocked when flanker Merce Courtillet picked up the ball and tossed it wide to end Wes Chesson, who ran 53 yards for a touchdown.

The tuck play provided the victory margin as Duke owned the large end of a 17-13 score at the end of the game as the Tar Heels lost their first game in the last five starts.

North Carolina missed an excellent scoring chance in the third period when they drove to the Duke three-yard line before giving the ball up on downs.

Tar Heel coach Bill Dooley said that "Duke came up real good and deserved to win." Dooley praised the play of Hart. "He's a very explosive football player," Dooley said.

Elsewhere in the ACC, Maryland linebacker Bill Reilly pounced on a Virginia fumble in the final two minutes to give the Terps the field position to get a field goal and win 17-14 over hapless Virginia.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Recently at our son's college homecoming, he and three of his friends invited their parents out to dinner in appreciation of "all we had done for them."

The bill came to well over $60, plus tax and tip. Apparently the boys did not have enough money with them, so in order to minimize the embarrassment, my husband paid the bill with his credit card and left the tip in cash.

Our own son and one of the other boys paid us their share the next day; one other parent mailed his son's share, and the fourth will probably never pay us.

Our questions: When we see these boys again, should we bring up their inexcusable lack of preparation to pay the bill that night in order to help them avoid such situations in the future? Also, do you think my husband did the right thing in rescuing the boys the way he did? Or should he have let them solve their money problems in their own way? A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think your husband did what any other father would have done in the same situation, and I don't fault him for it. [It would have taken a super-disciplinarian to witness one's son and his friends trying to scrape up enough money to pay the tab for a "parents' treat" and let them solve it in their own way.] I do think you should tell your son in no uncertain terms that he is a big boy now, and old enough to come prepared to pay his share of the check when he's a host. And as for the other boys, it's up to their parents to give them the same lecture.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 29 years old, and he decided that WASHING his hair will make his hair fall out, so will you please put something in your column to set him straight?

Melvin is a very good-looking fellow, but he's got this thing about losing his hair. He won't use a hairbrush at all because every time he sees a few hairs in his hairbrush he practically bawls. And he doesn't use a comb any more than he absolutely must.

He's a wonderful guy, but, Abby, you don't know how hard it is to sleep with a man who hasn't washed his hair since last July. Help!

DEAR WIFE: Tell Mel that a CLEAN scalp is essential to the healthy growth of human hair, and he stands to lose more hair [and friends] by allowing rancid oils to collect on his head.

DEAR ABBY: For homework in school we have to find a misspelled word in the newspaper. I would like for you to write a misspelled word in your column so I can bring it in.

I am 11 years old and am in the fifth grade. Thank you.

DEAR BETH: Unaccustomed as I am to misspelling words intentionally I shall be glad to accommodate you. [Now, let's hope the editor doesn't louse up everything.]

DEAR ABBY: I would like to answer "NEEDS TO KNOW," who asked if she should stay with a no-good husband for the sake of the kids.

As a small girl, I frequently saw my father beat up my mother. I tried my best to comfort her, and I begged her often to leave him. When I reached 14, the situation hadn't improved any, so after another one of their terrible battles I told Mamma that I couldn't take it any longer, and if she didn't tell HIM to get out, I was going to run away.

She finally made him get out, and later she divorced him. By that time she was no longer young and pretty. She grew older and more bitter, and she had no use for men. I'm sure she thought that by staying all those years she was doing the right thing. How wrong she was! Poor Mamma. She threw her life away for nothing. LOOKING BACK IN ATLANTA

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠632 ○KJ107542 ♣754

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♠ 2 ♥ ?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. The ace is very thin and you had better not move. It would be very pleasant to bid three diamonds if you were sure your partner would not take any further action, but that would be wishful thinking. He is almost sure to bid again and probably more hearts. It does not pay to rescue a partner who has not been doubled.

Q. 2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠K10652 ♥9 ○A3 ♣AKJ42

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

Pass 1 ○ Dble. Pass

2 ♥ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

4 ♣ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Five diamonds or six spades. Despite the fact that partner previously passed, you should be very bullish about this hand because partner jumped twice unnecessarily. If he has the ace-king of hearts and the queen-jack of spades, that's all you need. He should surely have that much for his two jumps. You have a choice of bidding five diamonds or shooting the works yourself.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠9762 ♥KJ74 ○J85 ♣64

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

1 ○ Pass Pass Dble.

Pass 1 ♥ Pass 3 ♥

Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Four hearts. Partner's bid is not forcing and you haven't very much of a hand to be sure. But you should proceed to game inasmuch as partner has contracted for nine tricks, without relying on you for any strength at all. Actually, he has the heart hand and you in reality are the dummy, which is worth six points to partner.

Q. 4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AQJ982 ♥K63 ○AQ2 ♣5

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 2 ○ Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Three spades. After partner has shown a reasonably good hand you should insist upon some and a jump bid even in the same suit is forcing after a response at the two level. If the bidding develops constructively you may show the diamond support later.

Q. 5—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AJ4 ♥94 ○63 ♣AKQ973

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

1 ♠ 2 ♣ Pass 3 ♣

Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Three spades. The temptation, if any, to try three no trump should be resisted. Without protection in either red suit you may meet with a surprise attack. After you show the spade control you may rely on partner to reach for three no trump if his hand is suitable.

Q. 6—Both vulnerable, and as South you hold:

♠K4 ♥AJ82 ○KQ83 ♣AJ5

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 NT Pass 2 NT 3 ♠

What action do you take?

A.—Strike while the iron is hot. Double and this is one that East will long remember. Do not aim for anything so trivial as a game when a possible 1,100-point plum awaits to be picked.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AQ84 ♥AKQ2 ○73 ♣652

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 2 ○ Pass

2 ♥ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

What action do you take?

A.—A further bid by you is clearly indicated. You must not be heard to say: "Since partner has shown me a mere preference, I pass." Remember, partner has shown a fairly good hand by taking out at the level of two and your hand is worth 16 points. Bid three spades.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠2 ○AQJ63 ○K74 ♣K75

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♥ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

What is your bid?

A.—One no trump. This is preferable to a rebid of two hearts in that it gives a more accurate description as to the type of hand [a balanced hand of minimum high card strength].

'Satisfied', Avers Sato

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—

Prime Minister Eisaku Sato says he is "completely satisfied" with the agreement he takes back to Japan Tuesday returning Okinawa to Japanese control.

Behind a tight police guard in the presidential suite at the Mark Hopkins Hotel on Nob Hill, Sato relaxed after three days of talks with President Nixon last week.

In the talks, reversion of the formidable island bastion in the western Pacific was worked out to take place before the end of 1972.

When Sato and his official party arrived from New York Sunday afternoon, a band of 150 demonstrators waited for him at the Japan Air Lines terminal at San Francisco international Airport. However Sato's plane taxied up to the Pan American Terminal a quarter of a mile away and he left the airport by car without seeing the demonstrators.

They followed Sato's motorcade to his hotel, and their shouts were audible as he appeared before a packed news conference in a fourth floor suite.

Some groups oppose the basic security arrangements between Japan, and the United States, he said, "so that it may not be possible to obtain unanimous approval in the nation, but I am confident the overwhelming majority supports it."

The Volkswagen Sedan-and-a-Half.

If you need a sedan and a half to carry all your luggage, you need our Squareback Sedan-and-a-Half. It has 50% more luggage space than any other sedan. Including the biggest Cadillac. That's because where other sedans waste space, ours makes space: In back, instead of a tapered deck, our Squareback has a square back. And in front, instead of an engine, it has an extra trunk. Best of all, while our Sedan-and-a-Half holds 50% more luggage than the biggest sedan, it uses about 50% less gas. So either way, it doesn't leave you holding the bag.

Open House At Church Sunday

An "Open House" was held yesterday afternoon at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church to afford an opportunity for all those who might be interested to see the results of their recent $300,000 renovation program of the educational buildings. It was arranged by the Commission on Education with Lester Zeno Brown, a member of the Commission, serving as Chairman of the "Open House" arrangements, assisted by Miss Sandra Watson, Director of Christian Education who recently joined the church staff.

The renovation brought the useable area for education to 37,042 square feet. There are now 30 rooms available for classes, meetings, receptions, and other activities. In addition there are five church offices, a work room, a church school office, and a library.

Space for each classroom was allocated according to the standards of the General Board of Education recommendations. Each classroom has been provided with new furniture and with equipment and fixtures suited to the age level. On the first and second floors the hallways and rooms have wall to wall carpeting. In the basement terrace flooring has been used. The educational facilities have been provided with air-conditioning throughout and new heating facilities have been installed.

The remodeling process was completed in October, but a day-nursery and a day-kinder arden have been in operation for some time. The rooms used by the small children have one-way glass along the hallways so that those passing may observe without disturbing the little folks.

Church officials serving as hosts in the course of the afternoon were: Dr. J.E. Clement, Chairman of the Administrative Board; Mr. M. Jack Moye, Lay Leader; Mr. J.W. Shannonhouse, Chairman of the Board of Trustees; Dr. Pinkney Young, President of the Methodist Men; Mr. Ralph Tucker, Superintendent of the Study Program; Mrs. W.H. Taft, President of the Women's Society of Christian Service; Dr. Charles Q. Brown, chairman of the Commission on Education. Also serving as hosts were Dr. J.V. Early, pastor of the church, and Rev. Thomas E. Loftis, Associate Pastor.

To guide guests through the educational buildings were members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship: Steve Aldridge, president of the MYF, and Susan Moye, Mary Marcia Winslow, Steve Rodgers, Carolyn Mills, Paul Carr, Laura Ebbs, Ginger Underwood, Julia Oliver, Becky Cullop, Susan Leggett, and Karl Faser. These young people greeted guests at the Washington Street and Green Street entrances and were stationed all about the buildings. Special hosts were the Building Committee who had

Look what's happened since Maverick was introduced in April.

Your Ford Dealer's holding the price line. Maverick. Still $1995*

When it comes to prices, you know what's going on. And what's going up. But there's one thing still going straight. Maverick. It holds the line. And its small price makes it America's biggest car value. Here are the facts about our Simple Machine.

It's simple to drive. You get the passing power of a 105-hp Six. Great gas mileage too.

It's simple to park. Maverick can turn in a tighter circle than the leading import.

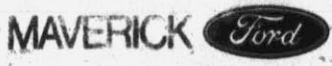

It's simple to service. Maverick is easier and less expensive to maintain than an economy import. It needs fewer oil changes, fewer chassis lubrications.

It's simple to repair. You can do many routine maintenance jobs yourself.

It's simple to own. Maverick saves you money when you buy it. And when you drive it. That's the reason our small car is going over big. Maverick lets you stop worrying about rising costs. Come see the Simple Machine at your Ford Dealer's now.

For more information about Maverick, see your Ford Dealer or write: Maverick Gallery, Dept. H-4, P.O. Box 1503, Dearborn, Michigan 48121.

*Ford's suggested retail price for the car. White sidewall tires are not included; they are $20.00 extra. Since dealer preparation charges (if any), transportation charges and state and local taxes vary, they are not included, nor is extra equipment that is specifically required by state laws.

Agency's Goal: Good Housing For Rural Areas

RALEIGH (AP) — The state director of the Farmers Home Administration says the agency's goal is to "provide adequate housing for every deserving family in rural North Carolina."

James T. Johnson made the statement Saturday when he announced the agency expects "to double our present housing loan program in North Carolina."

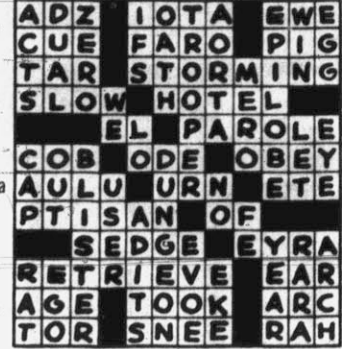

He said the agency's national goal is to create 300,000 housing units a year or three million in the next decade.

The Farmers Home Administration makes loans to applicants unable to get their credit from conventional lenders. Also, the agency takes part in processing interest credit loans in rural areas for the federal housing administration.

It also makes loans for rental housing and domestic farm labor housing.
