

Arrest Two, Hunt 3rd, In Tate Slaying Gladson Named Chief

HELD — Charles D. Watson, 24, left, and Patricia Kernwinkel, 21, have been arrested in connection with the Sharon Tate murder case. (AP Wirephoto)

By RICHARD E. MEYER Associated Press Writer LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two members of a wandering band of hippies were under arrest today and a third was being sought in the slaying of actress Sharon Tate and six others here last August.

Police said they would seek murder indictments against "four or five" other persons.

The honey blonde actress and four others were murdered at Miss Tate's Bel Air mansion Aug. 9. The following day, several miles away, a wealthy merchant and his wife were killed in a so-called "copycat" slaying.

Under arrest were Charles D. Watson, 24, of Copeville, Tex., and Patricia Kernwinkel, 21, of Los Angeles. Being sought was Linda Louise Kasabian, 19, also of Los Angeles.

The Los Angeles Times said members of a hate-oriented, cult band of hippies were suspected of the seven slayings, as well as at least four other "grotesque" murders in the Los Angeles area.

The Times said police believe the victims were killed both to "punish" them for their affluent life style and to "liberate" them from it.

The newspaper said the police break in the case came two weeks ago when a young woman member of the hippie band told a police informer of the mass murders, recounting details which police said could be known only by the killers.

The arrests, the search for Miss Kasabian and the indictments to be sought culminate an intensive investigation by 19 detectives, Police Chief Edward M. Davis told a news conference Monday.

Detectives have concluded, Davis said, that the nomadic hippies "who committed the Tate murders" also stabbed the owners of a chain of markets, Leno and Rosemary LaBianca, to death.

The Los Angeles County grand jury is being asked for indictments against "all of the suspects, those we have named in warrants and four or five others, in all seven of the killings."

Patient Found Dead Here Of Exposure

William Gaston, a 60-year-old Negro patient at Cherry Hospital, who was reported missing here last night, was found dead early this morning in Greene Mill Run at the Charles Street bridge.

Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey said death was due to exposure.

Gaston was among two bus loads of Cherry patients brought here last night to watch the East Carolina University-Western Carolina University basketball game at Minges Coliseum. He was not present when the patients boarded the bus for the return trip and was reported missing to the police department at 10:30 p.m., Chief T. E. Gladson said.

Pedestrians walking along Charles street about 7:30 a.m. today saw Gaston's body and pulled it from the creek.

Scotts Hosting Culture Week Participants

Gov. Bob Scott and Mrs. Scott planned a reception this afternoon for participants in the 1969 Culture Week events in North Carolina.

The week of activities began today with a meeting of the Roanoke Island Historical Association which sponsors "The Lost Colony" pageant.

The association was to elect officers and receive a report on the operations of the pageant during the past summer. Also, the third annual Morrison Award will be presented for significant achievement and creative accomplishment in the field of performing arts.

Order Of Draft Calls Is Determined By Lottery

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer T. E. Gladson, a Greenville police officer since December 7, 1942, was named Chief of Police this morning.

The oath of office was administered to Chief Gladson by Chief District Court Judge J. W. H. Roberts at a 10 a.m. ceremony.

Chief Gladson, with almost 27-years service with the department has been acting chief of the department for the past eight months. He was named acting chief April 3, following the resignation of H. F. Lawson who resigned the post the previous day.

Chief Gladson has risen through the ranks with the local department, serving in practically all posts with the department.

He served as assistant chief under Lawson. Prior to that time he was a detective and for a number of years was in charge of the department's traffic division. He also served as acting chief of police following the resignation of former Chief Guy C. Langston several years ago.

A native of Pitt, Chief Gladson attended schools in Greenville and Bell Arthur and was a merchant in a country store in Wilson County prior to joining the police department.

Greenville's new chief was one of the first graduates of the Coastal Plain Law Enforcement Academy, and has attended a number of other law enforcement training programs sponsored by such agencies as the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the State Bureau of Investigation and other agencies. He is also a graduate of the Advance Traffic School at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville.

Chief Gladson is married to the former Mammie Kelly, a Washington County native. They are associated with the Red Oak Christian Church.

City Manager Harry Hagerty said this morning that Gladson was the "obvious choice, I believe," for the chief's post.

Gladson, the city manager said, "is the most experienced and most qualified member of our police department, and has demonstrated through the past six weeks of unresist his ability to lead the police department. . . . exhibited organizational and leadership ability and was my choice for the position. . . ."

Gladson's salary has been set at $10,104 per year ($843 per month). Former Chief Lawson was receiving $750 per month when he resigned.

Both Hagerty and Mayor Frank Wooten said Gladson's appointment was approved unanimously by the Greenville City Council.

"I think it's good," Wooten said. "The entire City Council has approved the appointment in a resolution."

Order Of Draft Calls Is Determined By Lottery

By STAN BANJAMIN Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Men from 19 to 26 years old born on Sept. 14 who have last names starting with the letter J will be the first ones drafted next month under the nation's first Selective Service lottery in a generation.

In less than an hour and a half Monday night, all 365 days of the year plus Leap Year's Feb. 29 were drawn at random from a big glass laboratory jar at Selective Service headquarters here.

The order in which they emerged, rolled up in blue plastic capsules, determines the order in which men with matching birthdays will be called for the draft next year—or, for those now deferred or exempt—in any future year when they become "1-A."

Rep. Alexander Pirnie of New York, ranking Republican on a House subcommittee on the draft, drew the first date from the jar shortly after 8 p.m.

Then a succession of young men and women—representatives of state youth committees created earlier this year as unofficial advisors to the Selective Service System—took turns drawing the rest of the dates.

The second one drawn was April 24; then came Dec. 30; then Feb. 14, Oct. 18, Sept. 6, Oct. 26, Sept. 7, Nov. 22, Dec. 6.

Three youth advisors had refused to help in the drawing and a fourth balked when his turn came; four others helped in the drawing but only after making unscheduled statements—one reading a mild protest signed by 14 participants, and three others more or less supporting the proceedings.

Otherwise the drawing moved smoothly—so smoothly it was finished half an hour sooner than draft officials had anticipated.

Following the drawing of the dates, another drawing was held in which letters of the alphabet were scrambled and pulled out. This will be used by local boards to decide the order in which to draft the eligible men.

First out in the second drawing was the letter J.

The new lottery system was signed into law by the President last week and provides the first major reform in the draft since the Selective Service established a complicated form of induction during World War II.

The previous system, which included a long list of deferments, was criticized because it left young men uncertain about their fate for as long as seven years.

The new lottery system is designed to reduce this period of uncertainty to one year.

The last time the draft was based on a lottery was in 1942. Every man who reaches at least 19 years of age but not 26 by the end of this year now has his place in line for the draft at whatever year he becomes 1-A—"Available for military service"—or 1-A-O—"conscientious objector available for noncombatant military service only." Some 500,000 men will begin 1970 in one of these classifications, fully exposed to the draft that year.

Another 350,000 now deferred or exempt will lose that status—many by graduating from college, for example—and become 1-A or 1-A-O during the year. That makes 1970 their "priority" exposure year too.

Of this 850,000 total, about 290,000 will probably enlist voluntarily in the armed forces, officials anticipate.

But another 260,000 must be drafted.

Tax List Takers Are Approved

Pitt County Commissioners, at their afternoon session yesterday, approved tax list takers and established a schedule of values by which county ad valorem taxes will be figured for the coming year.

In approving list takers, who will list taxes in the various townships during the month of January, the board renamed list takers who served last year with three exceptions.

New list takers were named for Greenville (Paul E. Dupree) and for Carolina (J.D. Glisson) (townships to fill vacancies. A list taker for Gritton township will be named later to fill a vacancy there.

The schedule of values approved by commissioners was the same schedule used to compute taxes listed in January of this year.

Board members also authorized transfer of all uncollected 1966 taxes to the general fund.

In other business commissioners increased mileage allowances to Jury Commission members to nine cents per mile, as compared with the seven cents per mile paid in the past, in order to bring that figure in line with mileage paid to other county employees, while on official business to and from outlying areas.

Aged Trapped As Home Burns

NOTRE-DAME-DU-LAW, (AP) — A home for the aged burned down to the ground in this tiny lakeside community today and police said as many as 55 of its inhabitants were unaccounted for.

Quebec Provincial Police reported that about a score of the 75-80 persons in the building were known to have escaped the blaze that swept through the wooden, three-story building on Lake Temiscouata about 120 miles northeast of Quebec City.

Known to be in the home were 69 elderly patients, 17 of whom were listed as crippled and unable to move about without aid. The home had about 10 staff members.

A male and a female nurse told police they had time only to leap from the windows after seeing flames racing through the building.

The fire started about 6 a.m.

Judge Moore Is Quitting Boards

RALEIGH (AP) — Former Gov. Dan Moore is resigning his directorships in two business firms because of his new position as an associate justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court.

The firms are the Durham Life Insurance Co. and the Wachovia Corp.

"In serving the people of North Carolina as an associate justice of the Supreme Court," Moore said in a statement, "it is my personal belief that it would be advisable for me to resign my position as director of these two companies."

Ex-Senator Charged By Grand Jury

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. Daniel B. Brewster, a millionaire Maryland Democrat, has been charged by a federal grand jury with accepting $24,500 in bribes in exchange for votes on postal rate legislation.

The indictment, returned here Monday after a long investigation, said Brewster accepted the money in five payments over a three-year period from Spiegel Inc., a huge Chicago mail order house.

Spiegel and its Washington lobbyist, Cyrus T. Anderson, were also indicted, but no corporate officers of Spiegel were named.

Brewster, 46, unseated last year by Republican Charles McC. Mathias, was reported at his wife's estate in Ireland where he has spent much of his time since leaving the Senate in January.

In Chicago, Spiegel issued a statement emphatically denying "any wrongdoing or impropriety." It expressed confidence it will be absolved "after all facts are disclosed in a court of law."

'Massacre' Inquiry Begun By South Vietnam Lawmakers

By JAY SHARBUTT Associated Press Writer

MY LAI, Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnamese legislators investigating an alleged 1968 massacre of civilians by U.S. troops entered this shattered hamlet today after being delayed by a South Vietnamese military operation.

Riding atop two tanks, the legislators brought with them four civilians who said they lived in or were near the hamlet during the alleged massacre of 100 or more villagers.

The legislators said the civilians told them they had not accidentally seen American soldiers shooting unarmed men, women and children in My Lai on March 16, 1968, but heard shooting and civilians crying.

the investigating team who is chairman of the Senate Defense Committee, had been held up in nearby Quang Ngai with his investigating team. South Vietnamese officers told them they could not enter My Lai until militiamen secured the area and made sure it was clear of Viet Cong.

Despite indications armed Viet Cong remained in the area following the South Vietnamese clearing operation, the hamlet was found empty.

Two men among the four civilians accompanying the legislators said they survived the incident by escaping into nearby paddy fields.

They told the legislators they saw the Americans entering the hamlet and "heard firing and people crying," reported Sen.

Don, who acted as interpreter. The two men said the women, children and old men in the hamlet—obituary at the time was under strong Viet Cong control—"gathered together in groups to show they weren't firing weapons."

The men ran out of the hamlet and came back when the Americans left at about 4 p.m., Don said. The two men pointed at a water-filled ditch about 1,000 yards from the hamlet and said they saw 30 bodies lying there after the U.S. troops had gone.

Don's nine-man legislative team—four senators and five House members—arrived Monday in Quang Ngai. He said he wanted "to get at the truth" and learn why the massacre "was kept a secret" if it actually occurred.

DEAR ABBY: I am very much in love with a man who is old enough to be my father. We want very much to get married, but my parents disapprove of him because of the difference in our ages. Abby, we have been in love for over a year now and if this isn't "love" I will be satisfied with whatever it is for the rest of my life.

We enjoy the same things, and have beautiful fun together. He is kind, loving, unselfish, and I KNOW we could be happy. So how important is age? IN LOVE

DEAR IN LOVE: Age IS important, but it's not ALL IMPORTANT. You don't say how "young" you are—or how "old" he is. Neither do you give me a clew concerning how mature, experienced, independent, and self-sufficient you are. Have you dated many men? Have you ever been out in the business world? What's his track record? Past marriages? Children? Grandchildren, maybe? [Could you—and WOULD you be willing to support him if you had to?] These are all very important factors. Clew me in, and I'll be able to give you an answer.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to comment on the woman who wanted to breastfeed her adopted child.

When I was a young girl I had a female Cocker Spaniel who was getting on in years. Then someone gave me a kitten which was two days old. I placed the kitten in the same box with the Cocker Spaniel and I thought it was "cute" the way the kitten kept trying to "nurse" on the Cocker Spaniel.

After three days, the milk came in! I could hardly believe it because that Cocker Spaniel had not had pups for a long time. Besides, I never knew a dog could nurse a cat!

Abby, that kitten was nursed by the dog until he was a full grown cat.

I witnessed this with my own eyes, but when I told my husband [who is a medical doctor of many years practice], he laughed at me.

After he read that item in your column pertaining to humans, he said in a much more humble tone, "If it could happen with humans, I suppose it could happen with animals." Thank you, Abby.

"VINDICATED" IN SANTA ANA

DEAR ABBY: It didn't surprise me to read in your column where a woman who had never borne a child was able to nurse an adopted baby. I once saw an old range mare who had been barren for years adopt an orphan colt and raise it on milk which seemed to have come in through a miracle. DUDLEY, AN OLD COW POKE

DEAR ABBY: I belong to a car pool in which there is one mother who is giving us all fits. She will pick up the children at school and then proceed to do her marketing, pick up her dry cleaning, pay a few bills, and so on. Sometimes she doesn't bring the children back until dark. In the meantime, we mothers are half out of our minds for fear there's been an accident, so we are on the telephone calling each other and waiting.

Is there some nice way we can tell this thoughtless woman to do all her errands BEFORE she picks up the children at school? SPOKESWOMAN

DEAR SPOKESWOMAN: Don't worry about trying to find a "nice" way to tell this woman that she is out of line. Just tell her that if she cannot manage to bring the children directly home from school in the future, she had better find other transportation for her child, because YOUR car pool is OUT.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Miss Gloria Ann Little Weds

Miss Gloria Ann Little became the bride of Raymond Wardell Edwards on Thursday at 4:00 p.m. in a ceremony at the Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church, Winterville.

The Rev. Willis W. Wilson officiated at the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Little and Mrs. Robert Earl Stewart, all of Greenville, at the late Mr. Lennie Wardell Edwards.

A program of wedding music was presented by Tommy Manning, organist, and Terry Tyson, soloist, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The church was decorated with a background of bridal palms and brass candelabra holding lighted cathedral tapers, which stood on each side of the altar. The altar was centered with floor baskets of white mums and gladioli. The couple knelt for their vows on a priedieu of gold and satin.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal A-line gown of peau d'ange lace with an empire waist and full sleeves of organdy. Her chapel length train of silk illusion was attached to a headpiece of lace and seed pearls. She wore pearls belonging to the bridegroom's mother and matching pearl earrings, a gift of the bridegroom.

She carried a cascade bouquet of miniature pixie carnations centered with Georgianna orchids tied with streamers of white velvet ribbon and French ivy.

Mrs. David Novak of New Bern was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Rhonda Clark, Donna Wells and Margaret McGowan, all of Greenville. The attendants wore floor length gowns of yellow gold sation peau with full Bishop sleeves. Their headpieces were matching peau bows with veils. They carried wicker baskets of mixed pom poms and daisies tied with loops of gold velvet and miniature French ivy.

Miss Hilda Little directed the wedding.

Robert L. Edwards of Winston-Salem, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were David Fowler of Greenville, Al Urquhart of Raleigh and Sherrill Bryant of Virginia Beach, Va., brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a celery green brocade dress with a matching coat and accessories with a yellow mum corsage. The bridegroom's mother selected a pink shantung dress with a matching jacket with beaded neckline. She wore matching accessories and a pink mum corsage.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a baby blue coat dress and accessories and wore a corsage of orchids.

The couple will reside in Chapel Hill.

The bride is a graduate of Rose High School and attended King's Business College, Raleigh. The bridegroom is a graduate of Rose High School and is a junior at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

Mrs. Leota Tyson, Mrs. J. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Tyson Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Page entertained at a wedding breakfast.

Honored guests included members of the wedding party and families. The event was held at Woodside.

An after-rehearsal party honoring the Edwards-Little wedding party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Stewart. Assisting were Mr. and Mrs. Sherrill Bryant, and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Edwards.

We Should Reserve Judgment

All of us should be sick at heart that civilians were killed as has been alleged, at My Lai in Vietnam. However, at the same time we should reserve judgment on the American soldiers accused in the case until all the facts can be brought out by boards of inquiry or through court martial proceedings.

War has always been a terrible matter and, with modern weapons, it is even more so today. As armies fight their way through the countryside attempting to weed out the enemy, inevitable innocent civilians—children, women and the old—are injured and killed. The same is true when artillery shells or bombs from aircraft fall in populated areas. The artilleryman or the bomber pilot is blind when he sends forth his missiles, and the deadly devices kill civilians as well as soldiers.

When it comes to the matter of morality there is no defense for war. It is immoral when civilians die in war, but it is equally immoral when young men in uniform have their years cut short by an enemy's bullet. One side is no less immoral than the other when it comes to assessing the blame for the killing that is a part of armed conflict. And, in fact, all mankind must share the blame until enough of us rise up and demand methods of settling disputes which do not cost human lives.

There are those in our nation who decry American involvement in Vietnam; yet glorify wars of "liberation" and even secretly or openly hope for violent overthrow of our own government. Is their brand of killing any more moral than any other? There are others who don't advocate violence; yet embrace the revolutionaries because it broadens their power base. Can they deny their own immorality?

War is one great nightmare for all who are caught up in it. Often soldiers are horrified to find dead and wounded civilians when they move into what they thought was an enemy stronghold.

However aghast we may be at pictures and accounts of the assault on My Lai, thoughtful Americans should not make judgments until all the facts are known. This is basic in our system of justice.

Reminder Of Tragedy Around The Next Curve

North Carolina's traffic deaths during the long Thanksgiving holiday week-end stand as a stark reminder of the tragedy that lurks just around the next curve or at the next intersection.

Most Tar Heel motorists enjoyed a safe, happy holiday week-end. For those who found it otherwise on the highways, the sudden reality of an accident came as a shock almost beyond belief. This is always the case. No one expects to be the next driver involved in an accident or the next victim of a sudden collision.

With the shortening days and worse weather that accompany the approach of winter, driving hazards will increase throughout the state. These, coupled with the heavier traffic of the Christmas rush, followed by another holiday season provide motorists with an additional incentive for driving care.

More than a little extra caution should be taken by every motorist in the remaining weeks of this year.

Greece Turning Ever Chillier

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—

Contemptuous remarks about the U.S. by a high Greek official are producing two wholly unexpected side effects: keeping the American Ambassador's chair in Athens vacant a bit longer and worsening relations between the State Department and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Moreover, the indiscretion of Panayiotis Pipinellis, foreign minister of the Greek military dictatorship, might just tip the balance against full resumption of U.S. military aid to Greece.

At issue is a top-secret briefing by Pipinellis for Greek ambassadors in Western Europe delivered at Bad Schinznach, Switzerland, on Aug. 26. Two weeks ago, we reported from a verbatim account of that briefing in which Pipinellis referred to the U.S. as a "so-called democracy" not to be trusted.

At that point, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was ready to recommend confirmation of Foreign Service officer Henry J. Tasca, nominated on Sept. 9 by President Nixon for the long vacant Athens post. But when Sen. J.W. Fulbright of Arkansas heard of the Pipinellis document, he informed the State Department that his Foreign Relations Committee would not act on Tasca until it had a chance to study the document.

The State Department went into a classic diplomatic stall.

In response to three separate telephone calls from Fulbright aides, it curiously pleaded inability to locate a copy of the briefing—curious because a copy was actually in the State Department's hands before we obtained ours.

Vexed with the State Department, Fulbright finally obtained a copy through private channels.

That means Tasca may not get confirmed before the New Year. More important, the effort of Sen. Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island to put a rider on the foreign aid bill barring military assistance to Greece is strengthened.

In addition to Pipinellis's assault on U.S.-style democracy he belittled Mr. Nixon's Vietnam and defense policies.

"We all thought that, after the Republican victory, there would be greater stress on rearmament and on strengthening the world's defenses," said Pipinellis. "But the real situation has proved quite different. Mr. Nixon went to the Far East without, as it seems, having decided on any concrete program other than a declaration to all Asians that America is returning to a policy of falling back to home."

News of U.S. troop pullouts "has been heard with disbelief," said Pipinellis, sarcastically referring to a $5 billion U.S. defense cutback as "good news."

New Campaign Chief

The easy victory of conservative Republican Philip Crane in last Tuesday's special Congressional election from Chicago's north suburbs will give I. Lee Potter a graceful exit as staff director of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee—a move privately insisted upon by the White House.

Potter, Republican National Committeeman from Virginia, has been under criticism ever since the disappointing Republican showing in the 1968 Congressional elections. That criticism swelled this year when the Republicans lost three seats and gained none in special Congressional elections.

Party pros grumbled that Potter spent too much time on business interests in northern Virginia and not enough on candidate selec-

ON TOP OF ALL ELSE --- A FIFTH COLUMN!

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Pondering Delinquents

Abe Fortas turned up at the Mayflower Hotel the other day, ending six months of hibernation since he left the high court in May, and promptly made it clear that he's spent his time thinking. About what? About the juvenile delinquent in our society: What do we do with him?

In a speech to the Juvenile Court Practice Institute, Fortas took a fresh and provocative look at an old problem that recently has taken on staggering dimensions. It is the dilemma that confronts the judicial system in the presence of a boy—or a girl—who plainly is guilty of criminal misconduct.

The problem is nationwide; and the figures numb the mind. Eight years ago, roughly half a million persons under 18 were arrested for serious crimes. By 1968, the number had doubled. Last year saw boys and girls arrested by the thousands for robbery, assault, car theft, and murder. In 1960, some 1,700 young people were arrested on narcotics charges; last year saw 33,000 so arrested—and among those 33,000 were 6,000 girls.

The grim truth is that crime in America increasingly is a problem of crime among young people. One of every ten persons arrested is a child under 15 years of age. On a national basis, one of four criminal defendants is under 18. In suburban areas, half of all crime is charged to persons under 21. And as Fortas brought out, the repeat rate among these defendants is appalling. Two-thirds of the juveniles released from custody promptly turn to crime anew.

This was the problem that Fortas sought to define. He recalled his own role in juvenile law as author of the landmark decision of May, 1967, in re Gault. The case involved a 15-year-old boy in Arizona, who had been committed to the state's custody for six years on a charge of making offensive telephone calls. If Gerald Gault had been tried as an adult, his maximum punishment would have been a $50 fine or two months in jail. But he got, in effect, six years!

In reversing the lower court's judgment, Fortas laid down sweeping new rules for according juveniles the protection of due process of law. "Under our Constitution," he said, "the condition of being a boy does not justify a kangaroo court."

And for the past two years, obedient to the Supreme Court's admonitions, juvenile courts across the land have moved away from old patterns of prolonged protective commitment.

What has happened? Nothing to gladden the heart. Juveniles are popping in and out of reform schools and prisons as rapidly as before.

The national figures on recidivism, Fortas said, "make the juvenile offender process look like the Theater of the Absurd." Due process, he added, "won't cure this situation. Something's distinctly wrong with the whole system."

And Fortas put his finger squarely on it: "In this nation we are institution-happy. If there is a problem, we sweep it behind walls and say 'punish them.' Despite the fancy and fraudulent words of 'treatment' and 'rehabilitation,' that's what it is—punishment. And after

Space Program Not For Dad

By ALLEN NACHEMAN

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—

Are you one of those cynics who sit in front of the television set with a pencil and paper during the moon shots and figure what it's costing you in taxes?

The Apollo program is running around $25 billion and the population is about 200 million so each of us is kicking in an average of $125, right?

And you'd like yours back in cash.

I used to feel that way, but the coming of Christmas has brought me to my senses. It hasn't made me more patriotic, just more mercenary. I see now that it would cost me less in the long run to let the government run the space program than to conduct it in my living room, which is the alternative.

This is the season when strange people come into your home through the television set and explain to your children how they can spend twice your salary. And my 3-year-old is beginning to understand that they're talking about.

He sits in front of the set and watches Major Matt Mason driving his space buggy around Venus and he looks at me wide-eyed and asks, "Hat dat?"

But then the network news cuts in with pictures of the real astronauts walking on the moon and I can say to the kid, "We can't buy Major Matt See? He's working for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration."

This is easier for him to understand than if I tell him, "Listen, kid, Your old man isn't making enough to support four people, a dog and a space program."

Has all this been getting by you? Have you been raiding the refrigerator during every commercial?

Major Matt, a 6-inch plastic doll, sells for $2.99 and his buddy, astronaut Jeff, is $2.44. Their talking space station, which furnishes authentic astronaut jargon at the pull of a string, goes for $7.99.

A powerful lunar tractor and protectively tinted space bubble to carry Matt and Jeff around your living room cost $8.99 and a mobile satellite launcher with its own 40 x 24 inch moonbase is $11.99. Are you taking this down?

Billy Blastoff, American's first boy in space, outfitted with space car, sled, tractor and crawler, is $5.99.

The deluxe Billy Blastoff set, including Robbie the Robot, radar scope, walkie-talkie and "radio active material," $10.99.

A moon copter with whirling blades, and an eight-wheel space mobile are $4.99 apiece.

Callisto, the astronaut from Jupiter, with transparent skull and esoteric extras, goes for $2.44.

Lost in space robot: $6.98. Blast off to the moon kit: $7.99.

Zintar the silver explorer, Zerak the Blue Destroyer and Zabor the Bronze Transporter: $4.99 each.

Mighty Zogg costs $13.99. Batteries are extra.

And do you think it will end there? How long do you think your kids are going to be happy with astronauts who aren't even as well-dressed as the Barbie Doll crowd?

Strength For Today

That Big Indulgence

Righteous indignation. That's the only kind we ever have. Yes? Ask the wife or the husband or the boss who it is that roars like a lion.

We all like to think that our anger is justified. The crazy, unreasonable people there are in the world. The statements some people make. The way some guys throw their weight around. The sneaky way some women can gather a little group about them and spread bad news. Are these people righteously indignant?

Think about it for a while and it becomes apparent that most of us who lose our tempers lose them because we are weak or selfish, or both. We just can't stand to have people oppose us. If promotion has been slow, it's because of that big guy in an overstuffed chair who doesn't know the first thing about justice. That loud-mouthed politician who thinks he ought to go to the State Capitol or the White House. And the guy that wrote a book on the subject which I have been studying for years and he gave me no credit—now what do you think of that?

Think? We don't think anything about it. It's because we don't like to make our brains work that we fly into tantrums or break up friendships or divide the home and head for the divorce court.

Anger is not a vice. Jesus displayed anger on certain occasions; but two thousand years say that he was justified. No anger, no backbone. No anger, no justice. But righteous indignation is rare. Mostly it's a big indulgence.

Other Editors Say No Earthquake?

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

Tar Heels can forget it: there's no need to worry about major earthquakes in North Carolina.

That's the word from geologist Joel Watkins of the University of North Carolina. The chances of destructive, widespread earthquake in the Tar Heel state appear to be very, very remote, according to Watkins. He made the observation following the minor earthquake last week which was centered in the mountains of Southwest Virginia.

Dr. Watkins noted that there are two earthquake zones that can affect North Carolina, one running along the Southern Appalachian Mountains and the other centering around Charleston, S.C.

Damage due to earthquakes in the Appalachians has been slight in historical times. The Charleston quake of 1886 caused major damage in South Carolina and minor, widespread damage in North Carolina.

Despite Dr. Watkins

comforting words regarding the Tar Heel state's earthquake prospects, he does point out that long-term predictions of earthquakes are impossible.

"Predictions of this type are not feasible," he said. "Accurate forecasting of quakes and tremors, even a few days in advance, is not yet possible, and certainly not a year or several months in advance."

An earthquake is generally caused by slippage of rocks along zones of weaknesses. Last week's earthquake was recorded on the UNC seismograph for about five minutes.

Granted that geologists cannot predict earthquakes, is there any guarantee that Watkins' prediction of no earthquake will hold up?

One only has to remember that the experts all said the Titanic was unsinkable. It went down the first time it bumped an iceberg. In a way, we wish Dr. Watkins hadn't said what he said about the chances being remote for a major earthquake in North Carolina.

Shrug Ethics Code

By JOHN CHADWICK

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate seems unlikely to tighten its own code of ethics in the wake of its rejection of the Supreme Court nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr.

Senators show little disposition at this time to go beyond the limited disclosures rules adopted by the Senate last year.

Sen. John J. Williams, the Delaware Republican known as the Senate ethics watchdog, said in an interview that while he thinks the present Senate disclosure rules need tightening, he has heard no discussion by his colleagues of taking action in the wake of the Haynsworth case.

He said most of them seem to prefer to forget about the controversy over Haynsworth "and to talk about other things like taxes."

Williams was among senators who voted against Haynsworth's confirmation, after contending the judge should have disqualified himself because of financial interests in some cases in which he participated.

Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, who voted against Haynsworth's nomination and who is the newest member of the Senate's ethics committee, said he has reservations about requiring public financial reports from members of Congress.

He drew a distinction between judges, who are appointed for life, and members of Congress elected by the people. He said he didn't think a double standard had been applied in the Haynsworth case.

Jordan voted against a public disclosure proposal last year, as did Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., the chairman, and Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, the vice chairman, of the ethics panel. It was rejected 45-40.

The committee apparently wants to give the present limited disclosure system that only went into effect this year a further trial.

Under the present system two types of financial reports must be filed each year by senators, and by Senate officials and employees whose salary is over $15,000 a year.

One is a confidential report, filed with the comptroller general in a sealed envelope. It includes a copy of the previous year's federal income tax return and a listing of assets, liabilities, client fees, business connections, and gifts.

The other report, filed with the secretary of the Senate and available for public inspection, must list contributions received during the preceding year and the use made of them. It also must give the amount and source of each honorarium of $300 or more.

Although the prevailing opinion seems to be against any further ethics legislation, there are some senators with a differing view.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., an advocate of full financial disclosure by members of Congress, says he is optimistic that this "is not far away."

"It would be ironic if the ethical searchlight that has just been trained on the Haynsworth nomination were to be put out now that the case is closed," Percy told the Senate this week.

Another exception was Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, the assistant GOP leader, who told a reporter he thinks "Percy's statement was indicative of the way things are going." He said he believes the Haynsworth case may lead to adoption of a public disclosure bill.

They Could Have Everything

By ELMER ROESSNER

Three New York locals of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters are certainly a bunch of sissies. They have just settled with the Greater New York Milk Dealers for an average increase in cash and fringes of $37 a week over the next two years when, if they had courage, they could have demanded and got 10 times as much.

ELMER ROESSNER

Negotiators for Locals 584, 602 and 607 settled with the 150 dealers in New York City, Westchester, Nassau and Suffolk counties, for a contract that gives plant and other salaried workers, now making $136 a week, a $27-a-week increase retroactive to Oct. 24, and $8-a-week increase starting next Sept. 10. It gives the drivers, who have been getting an average of $180 a week in salary and commissions, a $23 raise retroactive to Oct. 24 and $4 additional next Sept. 10.

In addition, the new contract provides increases in pensions, free prescription drugs for union members and their families, and other fringe benefits, bringing the average gain over the life of the contract to $37 a week, or $40 million over the two years.

Opportunity Knocked
 The increase is estimated to raise the price of milk 2 cents a quart in stores and 4 cents a quart delivered at homes. In addition, there will be comparable increases in the price of cream, butter and other dairy products.

It is easy to see that the milkmen were soft on consumers.

The Teamsters have a virtual monopoly on milk deliveries in the area. Almost all workers in the industry belong to the unions and nonunion workers rarely scab on Teamsters.

Now most people must have milk. A few can get along on martinis, but the younger segments of the population actually require it to keep alive.

And schools, hospitals, restaurants, bakeries, vending machine operators and other large buyers require it to sustain those who depend upon them, or to stay in business.

No Limit To Price
 These customers would have to buy milk even if the price went up to $1 a quart. (The current supermarket price is 28 cents a quart.)

So there is no ceiling on what the dealers can charge if they have to. Of course, at $1 a quart, the industry would lose a lot of marginal customers. Some people would shift to nonfat dry milk, some to tea or coffee, and some to carbonated drinks. But even if the industry lost a third of its sales, a $1 price would produce enough to meet Teamsters' demands of, say, $300 a week and family vacations in Hawaii every year. Or $400 a week, perhaps, with $10,000-a-year pensions after 15 years, a new Caddy every year and a diet farm for overweight wives. The Teamsters just didn't get all they could have, which, in modern life, is a worse sin than mopey.

Of course, all this is written with tongue in cheek. Or is it?

Haynsworth Asked Rule That Time Has Run Out

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A civil rights lawyer has asked the U. S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals to tell three North Carolina school districts that they have no more time to fully desegregate their schools.

The case, with Judge Clement Haynsworth, Jr. sitting for the first time since his rejection for the Supreme Court, will be important in setting the pace for integration in the court's jurisdiction of North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and Maryland. The North Carolina districts are Durham County, Reidsville City and Statesville City. Their attorneys told the court that instant desegregation through transferring pupils would cause a "psychic impact" on young children who would be uprooted in the middle of the school year. The attorney for Negro parents argued that all school segregation in the districts should be terminated by court order within five days after such an order is issued. The districts have been under federal court orders to achieve full desegregation. But earlier this year asked—and received—additional time from a federal district judge in Greensboro, N.C.

It was the Greensboro rulings that are being appealed by Negro parents, through their attorney, Julius L. Chambers of Charlotte, N. C. Chambers Monday that although each district has achieved certain racial balance in the junior and high school levels, through court-imposed zone or pairing attendance plans, the elementary school pupils still remain all-black, all-white schools.

The districts gained additional time for the elementary grades by agreeing to retain freedom of choice in these schools while plans could be prepared for eventual desegregation.

Judge Will Tell Future

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. is expected to disclose this week whether he will step down or remain on the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The Senate last month rejected President Nixon's nomination of Haynsworth to the Supreme Court.

Haynsworth, named to the appeals court 12 years ago and now chief judge, disclosed Monday he will meet with Nixon, perhaps Thursday, to discuss the contents of a letter the judge has written to the White House.

Haynsworth indicated earlier in the day he was awaiting an announcement from the White House about his future judicial plans, but said later—apparently after talking by phone with Nixon—that plan had been changed.

He then disclosed he had written the letter, but said Nixon had asked him not to disclose its contents until after they had a chance to talk.

Asked how he felt about the Senate rejection, the 57-year-old Greenville, S.C., judge said only: "It is in the past now. It has received a decent interment and I am going to leave it in the past."

First Military Draft Ordered By God, Says Selective Service

By DON McLeod Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The Selective Service System likes to say the first military draft was ordered by God.

No sooner had Moses led the Israelites out of bondage in Egypt, the Bible says, that Jehovah ordered him to:

"Take ye the sum of all the congregation of the children of Israel, after their families, by the house of their fathers, with the number of their names, every male by their polls, from 20 years old and upwards, all that are able to go forth to war in Israel, thou and Aaron shall number them by their armies."

By this means, Moses registered, classified and inducted a conscript army of 603,550 citizen soldiers.

Between God's draft and the U.S. induction system, which underwent major reform Monday night with the imposition of a lottery selection method, history is studded with examples of mandatory military service.

The Athenians, Spartans and Romans all required citizens to serve in their armies under rules that would make most Americans cringe.

England maintained the practice from pre-conquest times on and Capt. John Smith brought the draft with him when the first permanent English colony was formed in Virginia in 1607 with each settler a soldier.

But as New World colonization spread, forms of required military service changed and the militia system replaced straight out draft.

State troops were the main units in George Washington's Revolutionary army, a situation that failed to please the future first president.

Shortly after he became chief executive Washington asked Congress for a "uniform and effective system for the militia of the United States."

Congress responded with an act in 1792 requiring service in militias, which remained, however, under state control as to length of service and training.

Other efforts to maintain a large national army under federal control failed in the face of strong objections against any permanent, standing military force and compulsory training.

Most militia units were manned by volunteers and it was such forces that fought the War of 1812, the Mexican War and much of the early Civil War.

Bedeveled by short enlistments and badly trained militiamen, President Lincoln obtained a law in 1862 authorizing him to order states to meet their troop quotas by drafts.

When this didn't work, Lincoln had instituted in 1863 the first national draft act.

The traditional objection to mandatory military service rose anew, fueled by the law's major loop-hole—a provision allowing a draftee to obtain his own substitute or buy his way out with a $300 payment to the government.

Riots followed, the worst taking place in New York City where Irish immigrants and other poor people fought police and Army units for four days. Property damage ran into the millions and deaths have been estimated at 1,000.

Following the Civil War the nation reverted to a tiny army stationed mainly on the frontier to fight Indians. Although a draft was instituted during the Spanish-American War, the fighting ended before the induction system was really put into effect.

The modern draft was born May 18, 1917, as the United States prepared to fight in World War I.

Each registrant was assigned a serial number, and these numbers determined the order of induction. The numbers were drawn in a national lottery with Secretary of War Newton D. Baker drawing the first number from a big fish bowl.

Induction was stopped but the draft mechanism was kept alive after the war by a Joint Army and Navy Selective Service Committee. When the Selective Training and Service Act was passed Sept. 16, 1940 on the brink of U.S. entry into World War II, the draft machinery was ready.

Dec. 13, 1941, six days after Pearl Harbor, Congress amended the act to remove a restriction that inductees could serve only in the Western Hemisphere or U.S. territories, and the period of military service was extended to the duration of the war plus 6 months.

Again a lottery was used, setting the order of induction on serial numbers drawn from a glass bowl. However, unlike the previous lottery when fewer men were needed, the World War II drawing determined only when a man would go, not if he would go.

The World War II draft legislation expired in 1947, but was revived the following year and has remained in effect since.

Dinner Honors Saloonkeeper

NEW YORK (AP) — "Toots" Shor, drinking companion of sports and show business figures, was honored Monday at a dinner marking his 40th year as a saloonkeeper here.

"This has to be the greatest moment in a bum's life," Shor, told 1,400 well-wishers at the New York Hilton. The guests paid $75 each to help the USO and HAVEN, a rehabilitative group for drug addicts. General of the Army Omar Bradley, Jack Dempsey, Mickey Mantle, Bob Hope and Pat O'Brien were among the guests.

Band Completes European Tour

NEW YORK (AP) — Duke Ellington and his 17-man band returned Monday from a good-will tour of 12 European nations, and the bandleader said "I have a lot of wonderful impressions."

Ellington told newsmen that in Prague, Czechoslovakia "after the show, some young kids followed me to my hotel room where they gave me enameled animals and other gifts. It was all done without words, so I asked them for their names and addresses so I could send them Christmas greetings, and it turned out that they were all Russian musicians—it was wonderful.

These complaints, strongly disputed by Rep. Bob Wilson of California, the campaign committee chairman, found fertile soil in the White House (which hasn't forgotten Potter's pre-convention coolness toward candidate Nixon in 1968). Accordingly, White House political aide Harry Dent has relayed the President's desire that a change be made.

The fact that the Republicans finally won the Illinois special election in a district where a Republican could not lose lets Potter quit gracefully. He is expected to resign before Jan. 1.

James Allison, the sharp young Texas political pro now deputy chairman at the Republican National Committee, could have the job but won't take it. In the running are Gus Owens, a field man for the campaign committee; Tom Lias, who left the committee to work under Dent at the White House; and Robert Bradford, executive director of the Illinois Republican party.

All we have done for society is to defer the agony at the cost of increasing it when and as these people are released from the institution.

Portas proposed as alternatives a massive increase, amounting to millions "or billions," to expand court facilities to a point that young offenders get "one to one" counseling. He urged neighborhood custodial arrangements in preference to receiving homes and reform schools. He didn't promise a millennium. He called instead for greater awareness of the ruinous reality: Our present system doesn't work.

Talks Are Kept Secret

HELSINKI (AP) — U.S. and Soviet delegates to the strategic arms limitation talks held another 90-minute secret session today and agreed to meet again Friday.

With snow falling outside, the negotiators convened at the Soviet Embassy for their sixth private business session since they began meeting, Nov. 17 to determine if there is a basis for negotiations to curb their nuclear arms race.

As usual under the secrecy policy agreed to by both sides, nothing was announced on how the talks are going. The current preliminary round is expected to last another week or two.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, charged today that some Western publications are trying to "poison the favorable atmosphere" at the Helsinki talks. It did not name the publications but said some reports on the talks have been "dishonest" and have attempted to "cast suspicion on the real aims of the Soviet Union."

He summarized the changes in the roles of the state institutions that have been brought about by recent legislation. How these new roles will be implemented is a subject for much study and planning by each institution individually as well as on a statewide level, he said. The state's ability to meet the growing needs of higher education will greatly influence this implementation, of course.

He touched on the anticipated order by the Civil Rights division of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare to dismantle the state's dual system of education. Although no separate systems exist for races, it is true that some institutions have student populations that are 98 percent white, while others' enrollments are 99 percent Negro. This is an

'Living Theater' Cast Arrested

ROME (AP) — Ten men and six women of the American Living Theater were charged with public obscenity today for staging their near-nudity show "Paradise Now" Monday night without permission.

The company, headed by Julian Beck and his wife, Judith Malina, performed at the University of Rome before several thousand students who broke into the law school to provide the actors with a large lecture hall for their show.

The troupe had been barred from Rome theaters. The rector of the university called the police after the invasion of the law school.

Night Of Debate On North Ireland Telephone Link To Russia

LONDON (AP) — Bernadette Devlin brandished a two-foot cudgel studded with nails in the House of Commons early today as the weary legislators debated Northern Ireland all night.

The 22-year-old militant Catholic claimed the weapon had been used during the recent religious warfare by a member of the Protestant special police. She spoke for 85 minutes against the bill setting up the new Ulster Defense Regiment, a national guard to replace the special police.

The House approved the bill on third reading without a record vote, completing parliamentary action on the new force. The debate was the longest of the present session of Parliament.

The population of Ireland is nearly three million.

Telephone Link To Russia

NEW YORK (AP) — A three-month experiment in direct cable and overland telephone service between the United States and the Soviet Union began Monday.

Such calls were formerly transmitted via a high-frequency radio circuit and were subject to intermittent fading.

Calls to the Soviet Union now will be routed from New York to London to Oslo via cable and from Oslo to Helsinki, Leningrad and Moscow over land lines.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Co.'s long lines department said the new system was installed in cooperation with the Telecommunications Ministry of the Soviet Union and officials hope to make the arrangement permanent.

Tiny Island Is Flooded

HONOLULU (AP) — A 19-man Coast Guard crew sat out the night on rooftops after huge storm waves destroyed their tiny island lookout 500 miles northwest of Hawaii.

A Navy ship carrying two helicopters from Hickam Air Force Base was expected to reach flooded Tern Island by mid-morning today.

Planes circling the island in French Frigate shoals, made a part of Hawaii in 1895, said the stranded men told them by walkie-talkie radio they were wet and cold, but unharmed.

All other communication with the island station, which had $57,000 in navigational gear, was lost more than 24 hours earlier when monster waves swamped the flat, manmade island.

Tern Island, halfway between Hawaii and Midway Island, houses a vital Coast Guard long range navigational station. The island, originally a sandbar, was built up with coral in 1952.

Thirty-foot waves spawned by a storm 1,500 miles northwest of Hawaii reached the little island at 6:30 a.m. Hawaii time Monday.

Williamston Adopts Plan

WILLIAMSTON—The Williamston Town Board Monday night approved adoption of the Williamston Housing Element plan which has recently been completed by William Dayson of the Community Development and Planning Department. This is one phase of projected plans to prepare groundwork for the town of Williamston as a growth center.

In other discussions, a letter was made public from the Peninsula Broadcasting Company of Portsmouth, Virginia. It was revealed that the company will guarantee the town a payment of at least $2,000 per year, plus a percentage of all profits over that amount once operations are underway. The franchise is for 15 years, and the broadcasting company is hoping to secure FCC permission in the near future.

The Town Board agreed to put sacks over parking meters beginning December 3, the day of the Christmas parade in Williamston. These will remain free parking through Christmas. Merchants and clerks were asked not to use these parking spaces, but to save them for shoppers.

Vote Extending Of Water Line

WILLIAMSTON—The extension of the water line for another one-half mile east of Robersonville was approved at the Monday meeting of the Martin County Commissioners. This action will provide water supply to the site of the Blue Ridge Shoe Company, which is scheduled to be constructed in the future. Previously, the Robersonville water line was extended one mile east to provide services for the Robersonville Products Company.

The commissioners tabled the matter of designating the Mid-East Economic Development Agency as the Health Planning Agency for the six county area covered by Mid-East. This matter will receive consideration at a future meeting.

Haywood Harris, director of Martin County Community Action, made a report covering the past three months activity.

Nudity Ban Ends For Art Dept.

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — The University of Delaware's art department has discarded its ban on nudity and says it will allow nude models to pose for its classes.

Charles M. Dorn, executive secretary of the National Art Education Association in Washington, D.C., said Monday that Delaware is the last state university in the country not to disrobe its models. Nudes, he added, are a basic part of the training of the artist.

Raymond J. Chin, a sophomore art major, said, "You can't operate an art school without nude models any more than you can operate an engineering school without slide rules."

Chin used to be a civil engineering major.

Modlin Sparks Bucs To 102-57 Romp

Jim Hits 42; Face Roanoke Next

A Record On The Way

East Carolina University's Jim Modlin goes up for a jump shot in last night's game against Western Carolina, which the Bucs won, 102-57. Modlin set a new ECU scoring record of 42 points in the game, and pulled down 20 rebounds; a new Minges Coliseum mark. Beneath the basket are Mike Stump (20) and Tommy Roach (22) of Western Carolina, and Mike Henrich (24) of East Carolina. The Bucs entertain Roanoke College Wednesday night, seeking their 10th straight home victory. (Reflector Photo by Forrest)

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Senior Co-Captain Jim Modlin played the finest game of his career last night as East Carolina University scorched Western Carolina, 102-57, as the Buccaneers opened their 1969-70 season.

It was quite a night for a 6-8 center, who is listed by many as the key to East Carolina's basketball hopes for this season. By the time the final seconds had ticked off Modlin had canned 42 points, for a new single game scoring record at ECU. He had pulled down 20 rebounds, a Minges Coliseum record, and led the team to a total of 77 rebounds, both a team and coliseum record.

Modlin hit on 15 of 28 field goals, and made good on 12 of 17 shots at the line for his total of 42. That was one better than the 41 points posted last year against Atlantic Christian by Earl Thompson. But it still wasn't a one man job. Junior forward Jim Gregory, who was the team's Most Valuable Player last year netted 24 points, while senior guard Tom Miller dropped in 17. Sophomore forward Jim Fairley added 12 more points.

East Carolina had no trouble in handling the slightly shorter Catamounts on the boards, with a 77-36 margin in loose balls. The Bucs however, played a looser game, giving up the ball 25 times on turnovers, as compared to 20 for Western Carolina.

Defensively, it was also a fine game for the Bucs. Gregory blocked at least five shots, while Fairley also picked up a couple during the evening.

For the first five minutes of play, it was a ball game, but after that, the Bucs pushed out into full control, and led most of the way by margins of better than 20 points.

After the Bucs missed on a couple of attempts in the early seconds, Paul Litz put Western Carolina onto the scoreboard and into the lead on a fast break with 19:23 to go. Modlin hit on a jumper from the circle to tie it up, and then Gregory hit from the corner with 18:59 to play and put the Bucs into a 4-2 lead.

Tommy Roach hit on a jumper to tie it at 17:37, but Fairley hit a free throw to return the Bucs to the lead, 5-4.

Western again took the lead as Litz hit again on a tap, for a 6-5 edge with 17:05 to play in the half.

This was the last time, however. Modlin hit a jumper with 16:55 to go, and the Bucs were back on top, 7-6, and they never trailed after that. Miller hit a jumper from the corner a few seconds later, and Fairley followed up scoring on a fast break to push the margin out to five at 11:46. Western fought back to cut the lead to two on a field goal by Litz and a free throw by Gene McConnell, but the Bucs began to move away after that.

Over the next ten minutes, the Bucs outbit the Catamounts, 29-16, as Gregory, Modlin and Miller each hit from both outside and inside to lead the way. At that point, the two teams appeared to be swapping points, as the margin had hunt at 15 and 16 for several minutes.

But then, the Pirate trio again went on a binge, and in the closing minutes of the half, they outscored Western Carolina, 23-8. That ran the margin out to as much as 33 points, and gave the Bucs a 63-33 lead at halftime.

In the second half, it was much more of the same, and the Bucs continued to completely dominate the game. Western got no closer than 31 points the rest of the way, and by the final five minutes of play, the margin moved past the 40-point mark to the final 45-point spread.

In addition to Modlin's 20-rebound effort, Gregory, who led the team in that phase of the game last year, had 13. Fairley had 11, most coming in the second half.

Only one player for Western Carolina managed to break into double figures, Mike Stump, who had 10.

The Pirates, now riding on a nine-game winning streak at home, plays host to Roanoke College on Wednesday night. The varsity encounter will be preceded by a game between the East Carolina freshmen and Lenoir College, starting at 5:50 p.m. The Varsity game begins at 8 p.m.

Wightman, Wheeler Are Named To All-Southern

By ED YOUNG
Associated Press Writer
RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Davidson's Gordon Slade and Richmond's Charlie Richards, two passing quarterbacks who together accounted for 4,838 yards and 53 touchdowns this season, head the 1969 All-Southern Conference football team announced today.

The leagues top two rushers — The Citadel's Bob Duncan, who ran for 936 yards, and East Carolina's Billy Wightman, who ran for 835 — complete the backfield.

At the ends are Mike Kelly of Davidson and Walker Gillette of Richmond. Kelly caught 70 passes, high for the SC season, and Gillette, making a third straight appearance on the All-Southern, snagged 57 for a conference record 1,090 yards.

For a second year in a row, Richmond dominated the all-star selections. The Spiders landed 10 players on the 24-man squad — seven of them on the defensive platoon. Tangerine Bowl-bound Davidson and The Citadel each won five positions, East Carolina and William and Mary two apiece. Furman and VMI drew blanks after dismal seasons.

Wayne Fowler, a demon blocker, leads the aggressive offensive line, which also includes tackle Marion Glover of The Citadel; guards Terry Esterkamp of Davidson and Creig Tyler of The Citadel; and center Bob Herb of William and Mary.

Citadel's linebacker, John Small, 230, one of the conference's best ever at his position, and Richmond middle guard Dick Irvin are towering figures in the defensive unit, whose line averages 210 pounds.

Besides Irvin, Richmond — the conference's No. 1 defensive club — placed ends Buzz Montsinger and Mel Medved, tackles John Barelli and Bruce Kasarda, linebacker Pat Turchetta and defensive back Winston Whitehead on the unit.

Joining them on defense are East Carolina tackle George Wheeler and backs Whit Morrow of Davidson, Tom Duffey of William and Mary, and Phil Bryan of The Citadel.

Davidson's Ed Terry, who booted 41 extra points and four field goals for 5 points in the Wildcats' 7-5 regular season, was named to the squad as kicking specialist.

Gail Sykes, a primary education major at East Carolina University, has been named to the first Women's Intercollegiate All-America golf team.

Miss Sykes is one of six women golfers named to the first team.

The 21-year-old junior from Schenectady, New York, has set a number of course records, three of which were set on North Carolina golf courses this fall. The course records are a 77 at the Ayden Country Club, 75 at Griffon Country Club and a 77 at Chevy Hills Country Club in Raleigh.

Miss Sykes was selected by college coaches in a balloting of contestants who participated in this year's Women's Intercollegiate championship at Penn State University.

Miss Sykes is the daughter of David F. Sykes, 2864 Holly Hill, Schenectady, N.Y.

New Names In Southern Basketball's Limelight

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Southern Conference basketball teams have responded to the opening gun of a new season by producing four victories in seven games and a batch of new names to remember.

Furman's Liseo Thomas, William and Mary's Tom Jasper, VMI's John Thomas, Jerry Redro and Fred Allison. These were among the newcomers who stood out in the crowd as the 1969-70 campaign began Monday night.

Some relative oldtimers stepped into the limelight, too. As for instance, East Carolina's Jim Modlin, who by now is accustomed to stardom, and Richmond's Stan Ryfinski, who isn't.

The opening-night victors were East Carolina, which routed Western Carolina 102-57; Furman, which clipped Wofford 93-69; Richmond, which topped Chattanooga 85-74; and VMI, which beat Atlantic Christian 82-76.

William and Mary, which lost 20 games last winter, lost to NC State 93-84 but looked vastly improved in doing so. Less impressive were George Washington, which bowed to Baltimore U. 88-85, and The Citadel, trounced at Vanderbilt, 89-58.

Liseo Thomas, a 6-foot-6 junior college transfer, lived up to advance notices by pumping in 35 points for Furman as the Paladins romped past Wofford and hoisted warning signs for Davidson's SC champions, who open at home against the Paladins Wednesday night.

Jasper, another transfer, made a smash debut for William and Mary with 30 points and 15 rebounds, as the Indians bowed to N.C. State in the inaugural games at the brand new Hampton Coliseum.

VMI's John Thomas, a non-lettered junior, scored 23 points, sophomore Renfro hit for 21 and sophomore Allison for 18 in the Keydets' opening victory under new coach Mike Schuler.

Modlin? All the 6-foot-7 East Carolina senior did was set an ECU record with 42 points in the Pirates' merciless zip past Western Carolina. The Pirates shot 51 per cent from the floor and led 63-33 by halftime.

Ryfinski, a tall junior who generally played in reserve for Richmond last season despite his 6-foot-7 stature, led the Spiders past Chattanooga with 25 points. All-Southern Kenny Foster had 21 for the winners.

Junior Mike Tallent had 28 points, but all in vain, for George Washington in its home-court loss to hot-shooting Baltimore U. The Colonials led 47-40 at halftime, then succumbed to the Bees' comeback. Bunny Wilson paced the victors with 34 points.

Vanderbilt sprinted away from The Citadel in the last seven minutes of the first half, moved to a 43-33 advantage at intermission, and coasted in. The Citadel's Jerry Hirsch, however, led all scorers with 22 points.

All the Southern's eight teams take tonight off.

Buc Wrestlers Mow Down 'Dogs

The East Carolina University wrestling team opened its season yesterday with a 30-6 trouncing of the University of Georgia.

The Pirates lost only two of the 10 matches, as they rolled to the win. Three of the Buc victories came by pins, while eight were by decision.

The three pins were made by Steve Morgan in the 134-pound weight class, Robert Corbo in the 142-pound division, and by Bob Jaronecnyk in the heavyweight classification.

The Bucs, now 1-0, next compete in the North Carolina Collegiate Wrestling Tournament, to be held Friday and Saturday at Chapel Hill.

Summary:
118: Tom Ellenberger (ECU) defeated Ron Reeser, 6-0.
126: Tim Ellenberger (ECU)

defeated Mark Stead, 10-3.
134: Steve Morgan (ECU) pinned Reid Goodman, 5:40.
142: Robert Corbo (ECU) pinned Ron Martin, 3:29.
150: Stan Bastion (ECU) defeated Frank Petroski, 10-0.
158: Leon Hall (G) defeated Mike Spahn, 8-3.
160: Mike Martin (G) defeated Sam McDowell, 5-2.

Baby Bucs In Loss To UNC

CHAPEL HILL — The University of North Carolina's freshmen downed the East Carolina University Baby Bucs last night, 85-62, in the debut for both teams.

The Tar Babies, led by George Carl, pushed away in the second half of the game, taking advantage of a number of Pirate turnovers.

East Carolina outbounded the Tar Babies, 34-27, but the turnovers were the key.

Both teams held the lead during the first half, East Carolina by as much as four, and Carolina by as many as eight. The Tar Babies held a 32-28 margin at halftime.

But in the second half, the Pirate mistakes began to make their weight count, as North Carolina made fewer mistakes, and outbit the Bucs, 33-4, in the period.

Carl finished the game for the Tar Babies with 29 points, while John Austin had 16, and Don Johnston had Ronnie Moffitt each had 10.

For the Baby Bucs, Al Faber had 23, Dave Franklin had 11, Steve McKenzie had 10 and Dave McNeil had 11.

The Baby Bucs play their home opener Wednesday at 5:50 against Lenoir College as a preliminary to the East Carolina-Roanoke College basketball game.

East Carolina: F. Faber 23, Franklin 11, McKenzie 10, McNeil 11, Sawyer 2, Pope 3, Leggett, Downing, Redmond.
North Carolina: Cox 15, Austin 16, Johnston 10, Carl 29, Stafford, Moffitt 10, Dempsey 2, Cragler, Branch, Gettainger 2, Dunn 4, Crennins 2.

'Orgy Atmosphere' For New York Men's Store

By WILAYNE EISENMAN
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Carl J. Haas tweaks his black mustache and describes with pleasure how scantily clad harem girls will entice male customers into his new shop.

"We think the more skin that's showing, the more sales we'll get," he says. "We're trying to create an orgy atmosphere."

In fact, he promises an ad for the store, "we may just add topless sales girls to worship at your feet."

The recently opened shop in mid-Manhattan is selling, by the way, men's shoes.

So far, the harem costumes and the topless look are absent, but the girls are there.

Haas, Adler Shoe Shops vice president, says the harem costumes are ordered and the topless look is a very real possibility.

Haas is not alone in his desire to use feminine flesh to sell merchandise.

There is evidence that the nude look may be moving out of the ivory tower of high fashion into the rough and tumble of sales promotion.

"We've had some very high caliber drug firms ask us for topless and nude girls to promote products at medical seminars," said Stuart Golden, president of Trade Show Promotions International.

His firm employs between-job actresses who—a recent advertisement says—"are specially trained to stimulate interest in your product or services."

"Women seem, by far, the most desirable sales promoters," he said. His clients in three countries like the girls to wear miniskirts and bikinis as well as more conservative uniforms.

He refuses the requests for nude and topless girls, he said, and often advises against bikinis if they're not right for the product.

Even so, a large electrical products company recently insisted on a model in a bikini to introduce a new computer to an audience of engineers.

"Girls attract attention," explained a spokesman for BP Oil, which in chill November weather had pretty girls in pretty skimpy costumes giving commuters handbills on something as sexless as home heating oil.

Morgan Favors Controls' End

RALEIGH (AP)—A fixed price for milk at all levels would probably please most persons in the dairy industry, the executive secretary of the North Carolina Milk Commission says. J. V. Whitaker said Monday this is one of the courses the commission is considering as an alternative to the agency's present regulations.

But Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan reiterated Monday his view that consumers would be best served by the abolition of controls and the restoration of a competitive market for milk.

Morgan, speaking on the weekly North Carolina News Conference program on educational television stations, said he believes the commission's controversial Fair Trade Order Nov. 10 has kept milk prices in the state nine to 10 cents higher than in most of the rest of the nation.

Morgan made essentially the same charge during a hearing held by the commission last week. He said the regulations were keeping prices at "an artificially high level."

Whitaker's remarks came during a meeting held by the North Carolina Dairy Products Association to work up suggestions for revising the market regulations. The association had urged at the hearing that the order not be scrapped until some substitute controls could be worked out.

Whitaker and another member of the commission staff, Grady Cooper, attended the meeting at the association's invitation.

"I believe a majority of the industry would favor the commission's setting prices at all levels, including wholesale and retail," Whitaker said.

"I believe they'd be in favor of it even though prices might come down some."

The commission has the power to fix prices if it finds such controls are needed to insure stability in the milk market.

Whitaker said after the meeting that price setting is one of the courses the commission is considering, but he declined to go into detail.

"I can't be put in the position of prejudging," he said.

The commission will meet next Tuesday and may decide then what action to take concerning its controversial controls.

Cooper noted that 11 other states set milk prices at all levels including the neighboring states of Virginia and South Carolina.

The industry representatives decided at the meeting to gather comparative information from other states on various aspects of the industry before making suggestions for changes in North Carolina's controls.

Win Honors For 4-H Projects

RALEIGH (AP)—Four North Carolina youths have won national honors for their projects at the 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

They are Mary Jane Neel of Rt. 2, Mooresville; David Lee of Rt. 4, Kinston; Patsy Kerr of Rt. 2, Salisbury; and Karen Lear of Rt. 7, Salisbury.

A recipient of the Leader in Training Award, Miss Dail has received the highest award given for Animal Care Aide. The daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Walter Dail of Winterville, she is a Trailblazer of the Senior Scouts.

Senator Mundt Stroke Victim

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Karl F. Mundt, 69-year-old Republican from South Dakota, has been partially incapacitated by a stroke, his office says.

But the announcement Monday said Mundt's life is not in danger and he has no plans to step down from the Senate.

Mundt lost partial use of his right arm and has difficulty walking and speaking, an aide said. Doctors said he will be in Bethesda Naval Hospital for six to eight weeks.

Farmville Plans Big Parade For Thursday

FARMVILLE—Farmville's Christmas parade, being held on Thursday, is slated to be a big affair this year, with a total of 30 units making a parade contingent of about one mile in length.

Beginning at the School Athletic Field, the bands, marching groups, old cars, clowns and other participations will march to Main and Horne, down to Cotton Street, from Cotton to George to East Wilson, Contentnea Streets, then to Grimmersburg Street and back to the athletic field.

There will be five bands—those of Bethel Union, Greene Central, Tarboro, Farmville and H. B. Sugg Schools. Fifteen floats have been scheduled to be in this year's parade.

Allotments And Quota Reduced

WASHINGTON (AP)—The flue-cured tobacco marketing quota and acreage allotment for next year has been cut 5 per cent.

Agriculture Department officials announced Monday the marketing quota would be 1,071 million pounds and the allotment 577,470 acres.

Notices of individual allotments and marketing quotas will be mailed to farmers by Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service offices.

 Today's slam was a distinct underdog and North was primarily responsible for the undertaking. South's opening demand bid of two hearts is beyond reproach, however, North's positive response definitely does not fill the bill. The requirements for a direct raise are seven points. Holding just one ace, balanced distribution and only three trumps, he should bid two no trump first. Once his holding has been limited by the initial negative response, North may endeavor to show his features subsequently if the auction develops favorably.

West opened the ten of diamonds and the ace was played from dummy. To say that North's holding was a disappointment to the declarer would be an understatement.

In the dummy, for what appeared to be the only time on the deal, declarer chose to lead a spade. Fortune gave him an initial nod when East turned up with the ace of spades. The latter was in and returned the king of diamonds which South ruffed.

Declarer was unable to enter dummy to attempt a heart finesse, so he cashed the ace and king. He was again rewarded by the fates when the queen dropped on the second lead.

If South had relaxed his guard at this moment and drawn the last trump, relying on a three-two division in clubs, he would have been sorely disappointed despite the early spell of luck. Declarer, however, resolved to allow for a distributional adversity that he could nevertheless overcome — namely that if the clubs were four-one, the hand with the length in clubs would also have the trump.

After the queen of hearts dropped, South temporarily abandoned trumps and proceeded to cash his high clubs. West discarded a spade on the second round, since he was unable to ruff in East followed to the ace, king, queen, and then declarer trumped away his opponent's jack with the six of hearts.

A diamond was ruffed in the closed hand, the jack of hearts drew East's nine and South took the last trick with the nine of clubs.

Larry's Laugh-In

"THE VENUSIAN NEW YEAR SQUELCHART"

By Larry Whitlow
 Of Larry's Carpetland

Each year on or about the 28th of December, a small radioactive tennis racket type scuba diving Venusian creature leaves his natural habitat and transports himself telepathically to earth, from whence he migrated several millenniums ago.

Upon arriving on earth, the Squelchart rapidly makes his way, via air mail, to Larry's Carpetland. There, with his keen sense of direction, he ferrets out 3010 E. 10th St. Once at that location, he gnaws feverishly at the largest selection of carpet in this area. You see, the Squelchart's greatest delicacy is carpet and we all know there is no carpet on Venus. All she wears is a light dressing gown.

As the fervent little Squelchart polishes off his last wall-to-wall carpet and vanishes into the great unknown galaxy, we hear him say in his sly little way, "Gresnab melica ebe dring andbea mary-walstad chemko riggislab," which, as we all know means "Happy New Year."

MORAL: Buy carpeting now, before the Squelchart returns and gets the best selections.

Rock Music Grew Into Big Seller In Industry

By WHAYNE EISENMAN
 AP Business Writer
 NEW YORK (AP)—The kids who grew up on rock music are adults with jobs now, and instead of just listening, they're also buying, probably to the tune of $500 million a year in records alone.

"Rock is rapidly taking over the music picture," says Mary Ostrow, vice president of Cash Box Magazine, one of the music industry's bibles. Few others in the industry quarrel with the statement.

Last year, record sales boomed through the $1 billion mark and reliable estimates give rock music between 40 and 60 per cent of the market, depending on how one defines rock.

Meanwhile, young, long-haired musicians who once caused conservative parents to snicker at names like "Blood Sweat and Tears," "The Rolling Stones," "Steppenwolf," "Led Zeppelin," and "Jefferson Airplane" pull in thousands of fans willing to pay as much as $8 a ticket for live performances.

And taped-music sales, spurred by the advent of the cassette cartridge, are contributing a growing part of the buoyant rock music business.

Music companies don't like to give exact dollar figures for fear of tipping off the competition.

But Clive Davis, president of Columbia Records, long a leader in the industry, said rock now accounts for 60 per cent of his company's sales, compared with 25 per cent about five years ago.

He said he believed rock accounted for about half of the $1.1 billion industry sales total in 1968.

"Contemporary rock music is being treated as serious music now and appeals to the 21-to-35-year age group as well as teenagers," Davis said. "This is due to the mass appeal for the first time of serious popular music."

The words of the songs put the music, in the "serious" category. Many are songs of protest. Most have a definite message, a comment on the problems bothering young people today.

An exact figure for rock sales is complicated by various definitions of the term.

Between the clear-cut categories of "hard" rock and the "popular" music of say, Frank Sinatra, is the gray area of country-rock, rock performers who sometimes sing ballads, balladeers who also sing rock, popular music with a rock beat as well as rock music with a popular appeal beyond the normal rock audience.

Even so, there is general agreement that it is rock in its various forms that turns on the 17-to-24 year olds. And they accounted for 51 per cent of 1968 record sales, according to the Record Industry Fact Sheet, a trade publication.

That's the group that was between 10 and 17 years old when the Beatles swept Europe and the United States in the early 1960s with their unique style of song and dress and revolutionized the contemporary music scene.

Conviction Of Leaflet Team Reversed By Court

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The U. S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals has reversed the conviction of three students who distributed antiwar leaflets at Ft. Bragg, N. C., a year ago.

The court ruled Monday that the military regulation used for the arrest of the three University of North Carolina students did not apply to their activities. The opinion noted the entire activity "was peaceful, and the record affords no intimidation or any disruption as a result of the handling."

The opinion, written by Judge Simon E. Sobeloff, did not rule on the broader question of whether the arrested violated the students' freedom of speech. But it said the constitutional questions raised along that line by the leaflet distributors were

"far from frivolous."

The court ordered the case sent back to the U. S. District Court at Fayetteville, N. C., with directions to enter judgments of acquittal.

The three students were charged with violating a federal statute that "punishes presence on a military post for any purpose prohibited by law or lawful regulation."

The appeals court said one set of leaflets involved in the case "attacked the war in Vietnam and defended those that oppose it as the real supporters of the soldiers." The other leaflet distributed "invoked the right of free speech for soldiers and assailed alleged attempts to suppress it."

The opinion noted that a dozen students were warned in advance by the base provost marshal that their proposed leaflet distribution "would be met with arrest."

Charles Mann and George Rose, two of the students at the university in Chapel Hill involved in the appeal, later returned to the base, the court said, "took up place on the steps and sidewalk of a theater and began handing out their pamphlets."

Military police arrived and arrested Mann, Rose and two other students who had been watching the leaflet distribution. Joining in the appeal was Scott Bradley, described as the driver of one of the cars that carried the students to the base in November 1968.

The court noted that the military regulation used for the arrests forbade such activities as picketing, sit-ins, protest marches or political speeches.

"Everything depends on the demeanor that characterizes the enterprise," the court said. "In the present case, numerous people were not mulling about. Only two of the students passed leaflets, and they did so with decorum. There is no indication that their behavior promoted disruption, confusion or inconvenience."

Scout Wins Eagle Award

Tommy Little, Eagle Scout of Troop 452, received the God and Country Religious Award Wednesday night at Trinity Free Will Baptist Church.

Presiding over the Award ceremony was Rev. Robert B. Crawford, former pastor of Trinity. Assisting him were Scoutmaster Heber Adams and assistant Scoutmaster Garland Buck. Scouts of Troop 452 participated in the ceremony.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Little, Tommy is active in church, school, and Scout activities. He has spent more than a year working on the requirements of his latest award.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene McCarthy may not have won last year's Indiana Democratic presidential primary election, but a poem he finished writing during that campaign has won him a $500 prize.

The Minnesota Democrat, according to the Washington Post, has been given the award by the National Endowment for the Arts. Sixty-three other writers of prose and poetry were similarly honored.

McCarthy's prize-winning poem, 66 lines long, is entitled "Three Bad Signs." Judges spotted it in the New Mexico Quarterly, but it also has been published in Life Magazine and McCarthy's book on the 1968 presidential campaign "The Year of the People."

He begins the 10-nation trip to Dec. 26. His first stop will be Dec. 30 in Manila for the inauguration of Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Families of U.S. servicemen missing or captured in Vietnam would be entitled to a $30 a month family separation allowance under a bill passed Monday by the House.

The payments would start on the first day of the first month after the Senate passed the bill and President Nixon signed it.

The House also passed a bill that would remove the $10,000 limit on the uniformed services savings deposit program in the case of missing or captured servicemen in Vietnam.

Under previous congressional action, such servicemen's pay not going to their families goes into the savings fund to collect 10 per cent interest.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Washington police arrested 19 college-age demonstrators who handcuffed themselves to a fence in front of the Soviet Embassy Monday, protesting treatment of Jews in the Soviet Union. They were peacefully led to paddy wagons after police freed them with bolt cutters. They were charged with interference with diplomatic offices.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Advance men set out today to make arrangements for the three-week Asian tour of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

The vice president's mission, described by President Nixon who asked him to undertake the journey, is "to visit other countries in the area, to talk with their leaders and to observe and learn first hand of their achievements and their problems."

Violence At Strike Scene

CHAPEL HILL (AP)—Several windows in Lenoir dining hall and cars of non-striking workers were damaged Monday night at the scene of a strike by food service workers at the University of North Carolina.

Police Chief W. D. Blake said no arrests were made because the windows in the dining hall and windshields of workers' cars were smashed by rocks which came out of the darkness and police could not see who threw them. Pickets were on the scene at the time—around 6:30 p.m.

Blake said seven or eight window panes were broken in Lenoir Hall and windshields were broken and other damage done to two or three workers' cars.

Meanwhile, Black said things were quiet on picket lines at Lenoir Hall and Chase cafeterias, two large student dining halls which have remained open during the strike.
