More Troop Withdrawals Planned Ho Chi Minh Trail Said Under Attack Daily By Up To 400 U.S. Warplanes

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — As many as 400 American warplanes a day are now attacking the Ho Chi Minh Trail and North Vietnamese troop and supply columns moving down it through Laos to South Vietnam, sources in Saigon indicated today.

The sources said the raids by U.S. fighter-bombers and B52s have been stepped up in recent weeks because the monsoon season has ended and the traffic has increased.

Although newsmen covering the Vietnam war have frequently reported that U.S. Air Force and Navy planes were bombing the enemy supply line through officially neutral Laos, the U.S. government for five years has refused to admit such operations.

Senior American officers in Saigon, under orders not to discuss the air campaign in Laos publicly, were taken by surprise when President Nixon told a questioner at his news conference Monday night: "We are also, as I have publicly indicated and as you know, interdicting the Ho Chi Minh Trail as it runs through Laos." By interdicting, the President meant bombing.

Some officers in Saigon said they hoped Nixon's admission would prompt the Pentagon to issue new guidelines allowing the daily disclosure of the number of missions flown, the targets attacked, results of the raids, the number of planes shot down and other such details missing from the daily communiques since U.S. planes switched from targets in North Vietnam to targets in Laos.

Officially the position of the U.S. Command still was "no comment" despite the President's remarks.

Elsewhere in the war: South Vietnamese headquarters reported 14 Vietnamese killed and 78 wounded in three Viet Cong attacks.

Thirteen national policemen were killed and 25 wounded Sunday before dawn when about 100 Viet Cong troops attacked the police training center in Dalat, 150 miles north of Saigon. Thirteen barracks were reported damaged. The Viet Cong used mortars, rocket grenades, rifles and satchel charges, and none of the raiders were reported killed.

Troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division reported killing 33 more North Vietnamese in War Zone C, near the Cambodian border north of Saigon.

Allied communiques reported nearly 60 enemy soldiers killed in other clashes Monday, including 20 by South Vietnamese troops just south of the Demilitarized Zone.

Cannon Chosen As Assistant Chief Of Police

Greenville police captain E. G. Cannon has been named assistant chief of the department.

The announcement was made today by Chief T. E. Gladson who said Cannon's prime area of responsibility will be to direct the operations of the department's uniformed personnel.

Cannon has been acting in the capacity of assistant chief, according to Gladson, since April. Gladson was named chief of the department last week. He had been acting chief of the department for the past eight months.

The new assistant chief is a native of Pitt County and attended Stokes High School. He joined the police department here in 1956 after serving time in the U. S. Army in the Pacific Theater during World War II, and working for nine years with an auto dealership in Williamston.

Capt. Cannon is a graduate of the Coastal Plain Law Enforcement Academy; has completed the Academy's Advanced Police Science Course and its course for supervisors; and has attended a number of other police schools including courses sponsored by the Federal and State Bureaus of Investigation.

Cannon, who like Chief Gladson, has risen through the ranks of the department, was named captain September, 1968.

He is married to the former Susie Leggett of Martin County and they have two daughters.

Cannon is a member of the local Masonic and Moose Lodges and the First Greenville Free Will Baptist Church.

Gov. Scott Told To Shed Weight

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott's doctor has advised him to shed 40 pounds.

Scott drove to Burlington Monday for his annual checkup. His physician, Dr. Walker Blair, pronounced the governor in solid health, but a tad overweight.

Apparently Scott heeded his doctor's advice, at least for the first day. Dropping a favorite hot dog stand, the governor ate only two hot dogs. Friends say his usual ration is four.

The stand is owned by Zack and John Touloupas, hunting friends of the governor's late father, W. Kerr Scott.

Scott told friends he would spend Christmas in Raleigh rather than at his dairy farm about eight miles from Burlington.

Expect Johnson To Step Down

RALEIGH (AP) — State Democratic Chairman Jimmy V. Johnson of Charlotte is expected to resign or on before the Jan. 13 meeting of the North Carolina Democratic Executive Committee.

It was learned Monday that Johnson has advised Gov. Bob Scott of his intention to step down.

Reports that Johnson would resign soon have been heard since adjournment of the General Assembly when he led opposition to the one-cent soft drink tax.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says he intends to announce new U.S. troop withdrawals about Christmas time as part of a plan he declares will result in the Vietnam war ending regardless of efforts for a negotiated peace.

Nixon told a news conference Monday night North Vietnamese infiltration into South Vietnam has gone up in recent weeks, but not as much as first believed, and "we do not consider the infiltration significant enough to change our withdrawal plan."

He cautioned, however, enemy action still could cause him to alter his view. He said the number of American soldiers to be pulled out in the next round is still undecided. It appeared Nixon wants further reports on infiltration before making a final decision. He promised the announcement in two or three weeks.

In his 30-minute session with reporters, his first formal news conference since late September, Nixon dealt largely with Vietnam, including the alleged My Lai massacre. But he also touched on domestic and foreign policy matters.

There was an undisguised threat to veto the tax reform bill as written by the Senate to include large increases in Social Security benefits and a jump in personal income tax exemptions.

Nixon also warned again he will call Congress back into a rare post-Christmas special session if lawmakers' efforts fail in acting on appropriations.

And he spoke optimistically about the Soviet-U.S. arms control talks.

Says Brooks Was Asked To Resign

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — The chairman of the Legislative Services Commission says the North Carolina General Assembly's first administrative officer, John Brooks, was asked to resign and Brooks' criticism of the legislature stemmed from his disgruntlement over his ousting.

Brooks resigned Friday after releasing to the press statements calling the legislature a "10-ring circus" bogged in politics and unequipped to deal with complex legislative demands. Brooks had been at odds with legislators throughout the 1969 General Assembly.

Sen. Hector McGeachy, D-Cumberland, president pro tem of the Senate, said Monday night on the University of North Carolina television station that he and House Speaker Phil Godwin, D-Gates, had asked Brooks to resign.

"Since Brooks resigned, many people think he quit and that his criticism was correct," McGeachy said. "They think the legislature will be moving backward now. That is not true."

He said Brooks did not really make any "great steps forward" in his post. "The great advance was the computer program which the legislative research commission put in," McGeachy said.

He said the legislature's main problem is "getting objective, impartial information," and the fact that Brooks was forced to leave "does not mean that we don't want this information."

Speculations on another U.S. troop pullback has centered on a figure of 40,000 for the next announcement, which would bring the total withdrawals announced this year to at least 100,000.

"The enemy still has the capability of launching some offensive actions," Nixon said. "... But the present prognosis that I think I can make is this: That we can go forward with our troop withdrawal program and that any action that the enemy takes either against us or the South Vietnamese can be contained within that program."

He said the war is cooling off with casualties and infiltration both down now as compared with a year ago.

"Looking to the future," Nixon said, "if that situation continues I believe that we can see that the Vietnam war will come to a conclusion regardless of what happens at the bargaining table."

At present, he said, the chances for a negotiated settlement—at the Paris peace talks—are "not good," but they might improve as his Vietnamization plan develops because the enemy would find it harder to make a settlement with the Saigon government alone than with Saigon and Washington.

Nixon was asked early in the session about the alleged massacre of Vietnamese civilians by U.S. troops at My Lai in early 1968.

"What appears to have happened was certainly a massacre," Nixon said. "Under no circumstances was it justified."

He said the United States was fighting to prevent the people of South Vietnam from having imposed upon them "a government which has atrocity against civilians as one of its policies."

"We cannot ever condone or use atrocities against civilians in order to accomplish that goal," he declared.

Nixon said the My Lai incident was an isolated one. He also declared American soldiers have a record "of generosity, of decency" toward the South Vietnamese and this record "must not be allowed to be smeared."

"That is why I am going to do everything I possibly can to see that all of the facts in this incident are brought to light," he said, "and that those who are charged, if they are found guilty, are punished."

He ruled out, however, a separate civilian investigation of the incident as urged by some congressmen and leading public figures.

On domestic issues, Nixon said he would not sign a tax reform bill raising personal income tax exemptions from $600 to $800 and providing a 15 per cent increase in Social Security programs.

"If I signed the kind of bill which the Senate is about to pass," he said, "I would be reducing taxes for some of the American people and raising the prices for all the American people. I will not do that."

Questioned about Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's criticism of television and press handling of news events, Nixon said he did not clear the speeches. But, Nixon said, he thought Agnew made some "useful suggestions."

"He did say, and perhaps this point should be well taken," Nixon commented, "that television stations might well follow the practice of newspapers of separating news from opinion. When opinion is expressed label it so, but don't mix the opinion in with reporting of the news."

"Generally," Nixon said, "I think the news media has been

SHE RATTLES PRESIDENTS—Sarah McClendon asks questions that startle and sometimes anger presidents. (AP Wirephoto)

Most Powerful Men Brace For Sarah's Queries

By DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Sir," Sarah McClendon begins. And presidents of the United States—the most powerful individuals in the world—brace themselves for assault by a plump, 5-foot-3 woman.

"Sir," Mrs. McClendon began at President Nixon's news conference Monday night. "There are two flagrant instances of intimidation and harassment and threats against Pentagon personnel who may have divulged information to Congress and to the public about cost overruns and mismanagements and irregular industrial alliances."

President Nixon looked on straight-faced.

"These two instances," Sarah continued, "are related because some of the same people are involved. I refer, one, to the Gestapo-like interrogation of Pentagon personnel to see who leaked information to Sarah McClendon for news stories. This involved Barry Shillito and Edward Sheridan."

"I also refer to the firing of A. Ernest Fitzgerald, whose divulgement of cost overruns saved the American people $2 billion. His greatest critics were Dr. Robert Moot and Barry Shillito."

"Can you do something about this, please, sir?" President Nixon then grinned and the other newsmen laughed. Nixon answered: "Miss McClendon, I better, after the way you put this question."

Her reference to Barry Shillito didn't surprise the President Monday, but it did at his last news conference when Mrs. McClendon said he was unqualified to be assistant secretary of defense.

"I don't know the gentleman," the President said finally. "But after that question I am going to find out who he is."

Sarah McClendon's questions often evoke that kind of response. "I'm often asking the questions others are afraid to ask," she says. "I am timid. I have to make myself ask the questions. But I don't have any fear if I think I'm right."

In asking questions she thinks are right, Mrs. McClendon has visibly angered Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson.

She is Washington correspondent for a string of newspapers, most of them in her native Texas, and she has been doing it since 1944.

"Mr. President, Sir," she asked John F. Kennedy in 1962. "Two well known security risks have recently been put on a task force in the State Department to help reorganize the Office of Security."

Kennedy asked, "Well, now, who?"

Mrs. McClendon told him. The President said he had looked into the cases and that "the duties that they have been assigned to, they can carry out without detriment to the interests of the United States and, I hope, without detriment to their characters by your question."

Doctor Protests Abortion Policy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 67-year-old Roman Catholic doctor has burned his medical diploma in protest of the liberalized abortion policy at Jefferson Medical College's hospital.

Dr. Francis J. McCreary of Jenkintown, Pa., said: "I am doing something I do not like to do. I did this in the hope it will spark the consciences of the alumni so that they will put a stop to this premeditated murder."

Board Officers Are Re-Elected

At a special session last night prior to the regular Redevelopment Commission meeting, commissioners re-elected the current slate of officers for another one year term.

Re-elected to continue serving in their current capacities were Billy Laughinghouse, chairman; Bancroft Mosely, vice chairman, and Col. A. E. Dubber, secretary.

In action following the special meeting, commissioners voted to honor a request by Dunn Associates, Inc. of Greenville for the commission to take back the deed to parcel 15 (located on northeast corner of Second and Evans Streets) and refund the accepted bid.

Commissioners decided to take the property deed back and refund the purchase price, less initial deposit, and again offer the land for sale in the future.

Dunn Associates had bid successfully on the land earlier and at the time, was the only firm to offer a bid on the property.

CBD project manager John Messick pointed out that the commission could readvertise the land for sale following the action with Dunn and the price for the parcel under the new bids could be set by the current bargaining market.

The same bid minimum could be set, he said, but due to reappraisals of the land, the maximum on bidding offers could go up according to the market.

In other matters last night, Messick discussed with commissioners a new schedule of adopted CBD project activities known as Program Evaluation Review Techniques (PERT).

The schedule, developed by Management Science of America, Inc., of Atlanta, Ga., is designed to show sequence and interdependency among the various project activities. The schedules will also indicate the amount of time required for each activity, Messick said.

He noted the project format will allow for all areas of the CBD project to be diagrammed and will show exactly the steps that will be necessary to implement and execute the project successfully.

In general, he said, it will simplify the steps for execution and indicate exactly what action will be needed in the future by all parties concerned in the project.

Messick reported that work is continuing in the Pilot Project in downtown Greenville. Inspection teams are still working with some of the owners in the project, he said, and although progress has been slow in getting the inspections completed, improvement has been made.

An amendment contract with City Planning and Architectural Associates of Chapel Hill for new budget and financing plans for the Shore Drive project was approved last night.

The new plans will include bringing current maps up to date in regard to improvements and alterations in the project now shown in the present maps of the project.

A number of housing and redevelopment officials visited the city last month, it was reported. Among them were Gerald Hoffman, representative of Management Science of America from Atlanta; Idonna Russell, N.C. State University social services representative; and Bob Anderson from CP and AA of Chapel Hill.

Also urban renewal representative William Joe and land marketing advisor Winn Powers from the HUD office visited the Redevelopment Commission and Housing Authority early this month.

Recreation Commission Accepts Offer Of Rent-Free House

for damages and for upkeep of the buildings and grounds.

Lee outlined initial plans to use the large house as a center for Senior Citizens and as a center for work with retarded children. "This house is ideal as a place for senior citizens to meet each other, to have a reading room, a place to see television, to knit and to take part in similar activities," Lee remarked. He noted that a second building on the property would be ideal for a Teen-Age Club or possibly a coffee house.

Lee and members of the commission expressed their delight in having a centrally located building made available rent-free for their use. "This is the sort of unexpected development which does so much to boost our plans to increase activities for the citizens of Greenville," Lee commented.

Reporting on progress made in purchasing some of the Evans property on Hooker Road for the city's recreation projects, Lee informed the commission members he was checking on available federal land grants. "We may be able to qualify under the Parks In Cities Program of the Housing Urban Development," Lee commented.

The commission voted to ask the City Council to take all necessary steps to follow up on this matter at an early date, and to get everything lined up in event of approval of a federal grant.

Requests for this category of land grant must be submitted prior to February 1970.

November was a busy month for the Recreation Department's maintenance men. Lockers from the old Junior High School, furnished to the Recreation department by the Redevelopment Commission, were repaired and painted, and placed in all bathrooms of the two city gymnasiums. Playground equipment has been installed behind the South Greenville Recreation Center, and a shelter was erected at Greenfield Terrace.

Lee reported that for the first time the Recreation Department worked in conjunction with Pitt Technical Institute and the Pitt County Home Economics Extension Department in sponsoring the Pitt County Needlecraft Festival held from November 10-14. "This is the type of activity we need to be more involved in," Lee remarked. "It proved to be a successful event, and I think it profited from the joint efforts of three agencies."

Recreation Commission Accepts Offer Of Rent-Free House

Members of the Greenville Recreation Commission voted Monday night to accept the use of a large two story house located at 106 Greene Street, offered rent free to the city by Mayor Frank M. Wooten, Jr.

Director Boyd Lee read an agreement he had drawn up after Mayor Wooten had contacted Lee to determine if the Recreation Commission might be able to use the house. The agreement includes a provision to conduct activities there which would be in conformance with the general policy of the Recreation Department; the department will provide suitable personnel to supervise activities; and will assume responsibility for damages and for upkeep of the buildings and grounds.

Lee outlined initial plans to use the large house as a center for Senior Citizens and as a center for work with retarded children. Nader Would Dissolve GMC

NEW YORK (AP)—Kicking off a "nationwide student protest against pollutants," consumer crusader Ralph Nader has called for dissolving the General Motors Corp. through antitrust action.

Nader singled out automakers in a hearing Monday by 21 congressmen into air pollution for their "indifference, venality and conspiracy" against efforts to fight air pollution.

A lawyer working in Washington, Nader wrote "Unsafe at Any Speed," a critique of auto-safety standards.

Nader was the first witness at the hearing at the U.S. Custom House here. He told the congressmen auto manufacturers "have spewed forth tons of carbon monoxide, hydrocarbons, oxides of nitrogen whose silent violence attacks the health of man."

Meanwhile, in Washington, Nader asked the government to ban all smoking on commercial flights as a threat to air safety and a personal discomfort to nonsmokers.

After the pollution hearing, Nader went to General Motors' Fifth Avenue offices, where he led 15 law students in picketing. He called it the opening shot of a nationwide campaign.

GM's vice president for research laboratories, Dr. Paul Chenea, told the hearing GM was "irrevocably committed to finding a solution to automotive emission problems at the earliest possible time."

Musical Program For Pitt Historical Society

A special program of sacred and Christmas music will feature the meeting of the Pitt County Historical Society Thursday at 7 P.M. at the Candlewick Inn, according to Charles A. White, president.

Music will be furnished by the Collegiums, unique musical and instrumental group from East Carolina University. Student director is Miss Kathleen Daugherty, junior, of Portsmouth, Va.

The 30-minute concert will feature Baroque and medieval music and will range from the well-known "Sole Regina" by Orlando di Lasso to the "Quid Petis O Fili," by Richard Pygatt. The latter number will feature both voices and instruments.

Students Named To Dean's List

KINSTON—The following students from Pitt and Greene Counties have been named to Lenoir Community College's fall quarter Dean's List:

SNOW HILL—Kathy I. Beaman, Jeffrey O. Beddard, Ruth H. Edwards, Stephen M. Grant, Robert L. Jones Jr., Joan E. Hardison, Bennie J. Heath, Carolyn J. Howell, Iris Ruth Joyner, James P. Rouse, Jimmie W. Jones, and Bettie S. Lane.

WALSTONBURG—Bobby C. Johnson and Beth Simplins.

HOOKERTON — Diane Creech, Jane E. Garris, and Allan B. Hardy.

GRIFTON—James L. Cunningham, Mammie L. Rice, Raymond E. Smith, Aileen A. Price, Ronald D. Rouse, Betty L. Cashwell, and Bennie M. Harris.

AYDEN—Harry M. Cleaton and Linda Weathersby.

Entertainment Costs Dropping

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—While costs of living continue to spiral, costs of entertainment at home continue to drop.

When the first portable, battery-operated radio was introduced in 1925, it cost more than $200. "Today, battery-operated transistor radios can cost less than $7," says D. L. Mills, RCA executive vice president, who has kept close watch on prices from the time of the first radio's introduction to the public.

"TV too has become less expensive over the years," he continues. "Consider 20 years ago a 9-inch black-and-white table model cost about $500, while today, similar models sell for about one-fourth the price."

'No-Fault' Insurance Cheaper?

WASHINGTON (AP)—A "no-fault" system of paying traffic accident claims would cut automobile insurance costs by 25 per cent while reimbursing more victims, a Senate subcommittee was told today.

Jeffrey O'Connell, law professor at the University of Illinois, told the antitrust and monopoly subcommittee his proposed Basic Protection Plan would make payment of automobile insurance "expeditious, widespread and fair."

Under the plan, a traffic victim would be reimbursed by his own insurance company for his out-of-pocket losses, regardless who was at fault in an accident. It would cover medical expenses and wage loss up to $10,000.

Writer Forecasts Brave New World

PARIS (AP)—Science fiction writer Arthur Clarke predicts worldwide education by television one day, the death of cities and the end of the agricultural age. But he says traffic jams may continue "until the end of our lifetime."

Clarke, who wrote the screenplay for the film "2001," was speaking to government experts from 100 countries Monday at a meeting on communications satellites sponsored by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).

The tall, balding 52-year-old Briton was the first person to predict the use of communications satellites. He said they will make worldwide education by TV possible and will play the same role in world development as the railroad and the telegraph played in the continental development of the United States.

For only one dollar per pupil per year, Clarke said, communications satellites could provide the developing countries with the necessary educational hardware to "drag this whole planet out of ignorance."

With efficient communication, Clarke sees the time when many parents will no longer have to leave home for work. "Don't commute, communicate" will be the slogan. And then will come the death of cities, he said, and after that the end of the agricultural age.

Recital Set Tomorrow

Another in the series of faculty recitals will take place Wednesday, at 8:15 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the School of Music on Tenth Street.

Joe Hambrick, East Carolina University trombonist, will be presented in a program which will include works by J. S. Bach, Jean Clergue, Paul Hindemith, and Francis Poulenc.

Accompanists in the concert will be Karen Hause, piano; James Parnell, horn; and Mike Worthington, trumpet.

Hambrick is presently director of the ECU Jazz Ensemble. He has had considerable professional experience performing with such musicians as Andy Williams and Buddy Morrow. At the present time, he is working towards a Ph. D at Indiana University.

This concert, like most featured by the School of Music, is free and the public is invited to attend. Students and children are always welcome at these concerts.

Even Tiremakers Don't Agree About Snow Tires

By THOMAS G. REES
Associated Press Writer
AKRON, Ohio (AP)—How good are those studded snow tires?

It depends on whom you ask—and even the tiremakers don't agree on all the answers.

"Most tests conclude that more tests are needed," says one spokesman for the tire industry here in the nation's tire capital, where the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. predicts that of about 18 million snow tires sold in 1969, about 6.5 million will have studs.

The tires, a Scandinavian development introduced in the United States in 1964, are essentially heavy-treaded snow tires equipped with tungsten carbide tipped steel studs five-eighths of an inch long, 85 to 100 studs per tire.

Studded tires cost $6 to $10 more than regular snow tires. The snow tires, new, cost about $30 to $35.

None of the four major Akron-based tiremakers, Firestone, Goodyear, Goodrich and General, actually produces studded tires at its plants. They simply put the holes in their snow tires and let dealers install the studs if customers want them. The additional cost depends on the number of studs desired.

Tiremakers and their supporters contend that the studs make up in added traction and safety what they may cost in damage to road surface. Critics disagree and some contend the tires are unsafe.

Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo, N.Y., concluded in a federally sponsored study that studded tires on all four wheels greatly increased braking efficiency on packed snow and ice, both surfaces on which regular snow tires are less effective than on freshly fallen snow.

Even the tiremakers concede that the studs damage road surface, a factor which has brought bans in the nonsnowy states of Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Hawaii. Pavement damage is heaviest where vehicles make repeated fast starts and stops, but a Pittsburgh study reported that stud damage to road surfaces was no greater than salt damage.

Other critics contend the tires present handling problems. "We used them once and found we couldn't stop on wet pavement," says a policeman in the Cleveland suburb of Parma. "It was like driving on ball bearings."

NSF Grant For Three

East Carolina University is one of 30 universities in the nation participating in a National Science Foundation project to investigate the use of the computer in the teaching of statistics. Participation in this project has brought a grant of $7,000 to three ECU faculty members.

The grant was awarded to Mrs. Stella M. Daugherty, Dr. John B. Davis Jr. and Mrs. Tennala A. Gross of the mathematics department.

Mrs. Daugherty is the principal investigator and instructor of the statistics course involved in the project. Dr. Davis is serving as consultant and Mrs. Gross is implementing the computer applications.

The National Science Foundation funds are being used to cover the cost of special equipment and supplies. Matching funds from ECU provide for released time, student help and computer services.

Gift Idea: Redo Teen's Room

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
A great parents-to-teen-ager Christmas gift is a new room. You can't study if you don't have the proper background, says one college freshman. "Parents hound you about school grades and lack of interest in studies," she explains,

"but they give you such a dreary room to live in that you can't bear it."

She'd like a bright uncluttered look. A studio-room arrangement boasting a good work desk and an entertainment diversion—television or hi-fi would be ideal, she says. And furthermore she'd be proud to entertain friends in such a room. If her parents would supply paint, fabrics and a few accessories, she claims she'd do the decorating job herself.

Her ideas are seconded by interior designer Erica Lemle, program chairman for the New York chapter of the American Institute of Interior Designers. Miss Lemle decorates many rooms for students. (Always with their cooperation and advice) and she likes to think of the room as a student hideaway.

"First, furnishings should be chosen for functional purposes and then as decoration," is what she advises mothers. "Easy maintenance is important too. Miss Lemle suggests that parents planning to do over a student's room consider the following:

- A sofa that doubles for sleeping.
- A desk-table (placed at the end of the sofa—on the focal wall).
- Carpet that is easy-care low pile, preferably stain-resistant.

Or use smooth flooring or bare wood floors with small rugs in the new mod designs.

Good storage—drawer space for extra clothes, blankets and pillows for overnight guests and odds-and-ends that might clutter the room.

If old furniture is used, give it a lift with a new paint finish.

Interesting fabrics. New geometric prints in bright color combinations are favorites with young people. The sofa should be slipcovered. If possible use the same fabric laminated for the window shades. (Do-it-yourself make this process easier to do.)

Plastic laminated cubes may be grouped together for table use or used separately for study while sitting on the floor.

A framed bulletin board makes a perfect holder for notes and a lamp shade may be matched to color of the walls.

Popular colors in girls rooms are green, white, yellow. Boys like cadet blue, tan, white, but they also go for combinations of red, white and blue, says Miss Lemle.

A parent might make a color sketch of the proposed new room, and put it under the Christmas tree along with some of the room accessories. A promise will go a long way toward keeping a teen-ager happy.

Hubby Embroiders For The Therapy

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.)
DEAR ABBY: My husband quit smoking seven months ago (doctor's orders) and he insisted that what he missed the most was something to do with his hands.

As a gag I bought him a beginner's embroidery set. It was a cheap little tea towel with a blue bird on it—to be done in a simple cross-stitch. Well, he finished it in no time at all and it was beautiful!

Next thing I knew, he went downtown and picked out a bridge cloth with four napkins, and he embroidered that, too. Now wherever he goes, he takes his embroidery work. He calls it his "therapy" and he doesn't care who sees him working on it. I hope you'll print this, Abby. I am so proud of him. (P. S. In case you're wondering, he is ALL MAN. We have had six kids in six years, and this will be the first Christmas I haven't been pregnant.)

PROUD WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Congratulations. Just keep your man embroidering, lady.

DEAR ABBY: I am one of those who never thought that I would write. Mine is a different type problem, but maybe you can help because my daughter is a reader, too. I am the father of a beautiful, well-educated girl in her early twenties. She has had many social advantages and has recently married a fine, young, professional man who is on his way up the ladder.

The problem is her table manners. We are a refined family, and both her mother and I have tried since she was a small child to train her properly in table etiquette, but for some reason we have not succeeded.

She eats as though she were about to take her food away from her, gobbling, slurping, and taking enormous amounts of food into her mouth at one time. It is revolting to see! Even today if I correct her, there is terrible resentment, even a fight.

I don't know whether she eats this way when she is with others, but I can only assume that she does. She and her husband socialize with some of the best young people in town and she could hurt her husband's future if she doesn't shape up. What do you suggest?

DEFEATED DAD

DEAR DAD: I suggest that you never mention her table manners to her again. It's possible that she eats that way only in your presence just to irritate you. In any case, she has a husband now, so let this "fine, professional" man correct her if her table manners embarrass him or present a threat to his "future."

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and my problem is my brother who is 30. He is married and has a wife and child. About a year ago he made some indecent advances to me, but I straightened him out fast and told him if he ever pulled anything like that again, I'd tell our mother and HIS wife.

Well, since we don't live in the same part of the country I didn't have much to worry about.

Recently I heard that my brother and his wife took a 15-year-old foster girl into their home. Shortly after, the girl told my sister-in-law that my brother got fresh with her. My sister-in-law called her a liar, phoned the social worker and told her to come and get the girl and place her in another home.

Abby, I feel terrible because I am sure the girl was telling the truth. If I tell it, it might break up my brother's marriage. If I don't, my brother might hurt some innocent girl and get into trouble. Please tell me what to do.

MIXED UP IN MISSOURI

DEAR MIXED UP: For goodness' sake, TELL what you know! Your brother is sick and needs treatment. It would be a kindness to reveal his tendencies before he "hurts" someone and gets himself into serious trouble. If you remain silent, knowing what you do, you will have to share his guilt should something happen.

Mrs. Snyder Named Outstanding Club Woman Of The Year

Mrs. George Snyder received the Susie Moore Ragsdale Achievement Award at the Christmas dinner meeting of the Greenville Woman's Club on Friday night.

As Outstanding Club Woman of the Year, Mrs. Snyder was presented a Revere bowl by Miss Nettie Brogdon, last year's recipient. Miss Brogdon enumerated the many activities of Mrs. Snyder in various phases of club work.

Mrs. George Clapp, president, presided and gave the vocation. Club members introduced their husbands and guests.

A devotional was given by Miss Eunice McGee using the Christmas story from the Gospel according to Luke. She closed with a poem by the late Elizabeth Utterback.

Carolyn Green, a student at ECU, presented a musical program. She was accompanied by her grandmother, Mrs. Snyder. She sang "Do You Hear What I Hear" and "White Christmas." She led the group in the singing of several Christmas carols.

Mrs. J.L. Savage paid tribute to four deceased club members by lighting a candle in memory of Mrs. J.E. Dees, Mrs. H.L. Rivers, Mrs. Earl Andrews and Mrs. K.E. Winslow.

Highlights of the year's work were presented by the department and committee chairmen: Mrs. W.A. Pollard, Fine Arts; Mrs. W.E. Roseveare, Home Life; Mrs. Ann Phillips, International Affairs; Mrs. J.R. Carrington, Conservation; and Mrs. Nancy Willard, Education. The president announced that due to the resignation of Mrs. Sylvester Green, first vice president, Mrs. Willard had been elected to serve the unexpired term.

A lighted Christmas tree, poinsettias with greenery topiary trees and lighted candles on the tables decorated the club room.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Green, chairman, Mrs. J. Paul Davenport, Mrs. J. Con Lanier, Mrs. Virginia Spencer, Mrs. Savage, Mrs. Wellington Gray, Mrs. C.M. Respass, Mrs. J.B. Spilman and Mrs. Willard.

Program Given By Mrs. Dail

Mrs. Moye Dail presented the program at the meeting of the Entre Nous Book Club held at the home of Mrs. Jonathan Overton with Mrs. Sam Weeks as co-hostess.

Mrs. Dail spoke on Christmas legends.

Club president, Mrs. C. D. Ward, conducted a short business session. She urged members to visit a shop at 308 Evans St. which will be open through Christmas for the sale of products made by blind persons.

Mrs. Carrie Amsden was welcomed as a guest.

Chapters Hold Christmas Meeting Thursday Night

The Beta Alpha Chapter, Alpha Omega Chapter and Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma held the annual tri-chapter Christmas meeting Thursday evening at the Woman's Club. Beta Alpha was the host chapter.

Mrs. Irma S. Worthington, Beta Alpha Chapter president, presided over the meeting and welcomed members and guests. Mrs. Harriet Brown, president of Alpha Omega, gave the invocation.

Mrs. Esther Warren, a member of Delta Chapter, was recognized as Greenville's

Young Educator of the Year. The chapter presidents introduced all new members.

Mrs. Kemp Baldwin, president of Delta Chapter, introduced the speaker, Mrs. Claudine Watson of Raleigh, who is Eta state president.

Mrs. Watson's topic for the night was "Random Thoughts on Values." She said that values differ with people; the teaching of values begins in the home when children are very young. Values are not taught accidentally; they require 24 hours of the day.

"As teachers," Mrs. Watson said, "we should teach values in the classroom every day. Teachers should be aware that differences in values are responsible for many problems in the public schools today."

"Some of the most important values to be gained in life are sincerity, integrity and humor."

The meeting closed with the singing of Christmas carols. The group was led by Mrs. Warren, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Hazel Gibson.

Beauty Hints For You From

One more word this week on the application of cleansing agents, astringents and base make up... Always work upwards and outwards with the tips of the fingers in very light feathery strokes. The light touch cannot be stressed too much as the facial skin is very tender, particularly around the eyes and nose where the blood vessels are very close to the surface and quite easily broken... Remember... the "light touch is the right touch"... Ladies, just a reminder this week about the fast approaching holiday season. We would be pleased to take care of your personal beauty needs... So please call us early for an appointment, then you will be sure to look your very best for all of the seasons activities

War Can Take Brief Holiday

It is ironic that each year communist forces and American and South Vietnamese forces can join in Christmas and New Year's truces; yet no permanent cease fire can be arranged.

This year again the Viet Cong has announced its forces will observe Christmas and New Year's truces of three days each. This is two days longer than those proclaimed by the Saigon government, but now both sides in the war-torn nation have again agreed to holiday cease fires.

The U. S. Command has announced that American forces will join in the truce proclaimed by the South Vietnam government.

In years past there have been hopes that the holiday truces would be extended day-by-day and the war would fade away in this manner. This is realistically too much to hope for this year after so many previous disappointments.

Still if the war can be stopped for 24 hours or up to six days each year, it is also possible to have a permanent truce. After so many disappointments it may be futile to pursue the possibility, but someday both sides will come to learn that there must be a settlement of the war and very likely without either

Seeming Raps In Ranks Of Younger Generation

There are signs that a generation gap may have developed between the present activist generation of college students and the new generation of young still in grade school.

The Christian Science Monitor recently reported that the reaction of the young to America's space achievements ranged from disinterest to some displeasure.

"I don't have any figures—this is only an impression—but the feeling I get is one of apathy and questioning, Gerald VanPool, director of the National Association of Student Councils, said.

Mr. VanPool said, "The youngsters in grade school are probably more excited about it than their elder brothers and sisters."

It seems to us too, that the kids are more caught up in space age accomplishments than the college youths, and sales of space toys bears this out.

No one can predict what goals these youngsters will set for themselves when they grow older, but we can assume they will be different from the present college generation.

Politics Said 'Like A River'

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
RALEIGH — In December the current of political activity slows but it never stops.

Li. Gov. H.P. (Pat) Taylor Jr. put it aptly, "it is like a river. It flows on and on."

"Politics is never over," Taylor said. He was addressing a meeting of Democratic party women at Greenville and the subject, naturally, was politics.

"It is not a lake," he said. "It is a river, because people's lives, individually and collectively, and the forces which influence those lives are in perpetual motion." There is a constant flow.

Who does what, and how and why? Is the Democratic process being applied? Do all of the people have a voice in their government? Taylor's position was that they should have.

Effect — Taylor, in effect, said that the influence of politics is a major factor of life and living and getting along with fellow men. He was saying that only through orderly government, by the people and for the people, can anything constructive be achieved.

Disorder and confusion leads only to anarchy and disaster. Taylor, himself a highly potential candidate for governor, has been speaking out on the subject of political unity and strength and the Democratic party's appeal to young people.

He emphasizes the fact that young people today are better educated, have more awareness of issues and have more time for study and involvement in political movements.

Taylor favors extending voting rights to 18 years olds saying "they are just as well qualified to vote as many of those who vote now and better qualified than some."

"They need a constructive channel for their energy, their concern and their idealism. And our party and our state need that energy and that idealism."

Policy — The set-to between two members of the State Highway Commission the other day was the result of a new "open session" policy insisted upon by Highway Chairman Lauch Faircloth.

Faircloth has eliminated an old practice of pre-session, social get-togethers by highway commissioners the night before such formal meetings. It used to be that everything that was to be on the agenda was agreed upon privately the night before and meetings of the Highway Commission would go like clockwork.

Everything was automatic. It had been agreed upon in advance. Everyone knew who would make a motion and second it. But no more.

Dispute — It had not been discussed previously and the first evidence of open debate in a Highway Commission session came the other day when commissioner Clifton Benson of Raleigh moved to defer bids on a Charlotte freeway project because of excessive costs. It happened that commissioner Charles Maxwell, a former state senator from Mecklenburg County, was not in the meeting room at the time.

WILLIAM SHIRES

The fact is that Maxwell had gone across the street to talk to Gov. Bob Scott about certain other highway matters and some preferred projects.

Benson is a veteran of the highway commission, having served as vice chairman for four years during the Sanford administration. It is unlikely that he knew that Maxwell was out of the board room at the time. However Maxwell took exception about the freeway project, especially in view of the fact that the commission approval a Wake County project which also exceeded bid estimates. The excess amount involved were about the same.

Concentration Camp Switch

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The long overdue decision, announced last Wednesday, to repeal the concentration camp provision in the 1950 Internal Security Act was reached only after quiet pressure from the White House overcame stubborn resistance by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

The question which had been simmering inside the Administration all year came to a boil in an extraordinary secret meeting in Mitchell's office Oct. 23. On that day, while Justice Department attorneys were vainly arguing before the Supreme Court for delay in the Mississippi school desegregation cases, Mitchell spent three hours in a confrontation with Negro leaders.

One of the key issues they raised was Title II of the Internal Security Act, which permits the government to establish detention camps for use in internal security emergencies.

Originally passed at the height of the McCarthy-era Communist scare, this provision has never been used and camps originally established to detain suspected subversives have long since been closed. But rumors started sweeping urban ghettos in early 1966 that the Federal government was planning to use Title II authority to lock up black militants.

One reason the rumors persisted was the refusal by the Justice Department to take a stand on bills introduced in Congress to repeal Title II. Indeed, at one point, the Justice Department—reflecting Mitchell's position—decided tentatively but not publicly to oppose repeal on grounds that Title II might be needed in a national emergency.

Thus, the Negroes in Mitchell's office on Oct. 23 were deeply concerned. Among those present were Coretta King (widow of Martin Luther King), Dr. Ralph David Abernathy (King's successor), Mayor Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind., and Rep. John Conyers of Detroit.

Representing the White House was Leonard Garment, President Nixon's top adviser on minority affairs. Garment had been subtly lobbying for repeal of Title II from his White House office with the help of John E. Ehrlichman, the President's top assistant.

After airing grievances against the Administration's position to extend the Voting Rights Act beyond the South and deteriorating relations between big city police departments and black ghettos, Mitchell's visitors pulled no punches in asking Administration backing for repeal of Title II.

With Congressional liberals pushing hard for the same thing, Mitchell agreed to consider it—but left the final decision up to Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst, who was not present. Kleindienst read the minutes of the Oct. 23 meeting and—six weeks later—rendered his decision. He announced it last Wednesday in a letter to Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee (who favors repeal but in a trade-off to liberals for a new, tough internal security law).

LBJ's Brother Acting through his sister, Lyndon B. Johnson tried—unsuccessfully—to eviscerate the heart of the forthcoming book about him written by brother Sam Houston Johnson.

The former President himself has remained stonily silent about "My Brother, Lyndon," which will be published Jan. 12 following current serialization in Look magazine. In fact, ever since Sam Houston sighed the contract with Cowles Book Co. last spring, his brother

Tides Of Crime Roll On

It was not really to be expected, of course, that on the day after Richard Nixon took office, the tides of crime would begin to recede. The waves would not stand still for King Canute. Nixon's scepter is no stronger. Yet it is disappointing, all the same, to see December here and the tides still rolling in.

Crime grows worse. Here in Washington, the daily chronicle gets longer. The morning Post reports the worst of each day's offenses in the agate type reserved for classified ads—so many raped, so many robbed, three lines for a hold-up. It no longer is news that burglars prowl. Murder is routine. The picture is not materially different in most of our major cities. Everywhere the same causes produce the same effects. The failure of Congress to act effectively at the Federal level is echoed in State legislatures and city councils.

If Nixon knows frustration, so does many a Mayor; John Lindsay, of all people, campaigned on a pledge for more police.

It is the system that is breaking down—the whole system of prevention, detection, and punishment. The undisciplined children of a permissive society turn easily to crime; the sheer number of offenses overwhelms police; clogged courts cannot keep up; our prisons turn out repeaters.

Out in St. Louis, a man named Willie James Smith is waiting trial for murder. The charge is that he broke into a West End apartment on Halloween, raped and stabbed a 23-year-old pregnant woman, slew her husband and killed her mother. The young woman, left for dead, managed to summon police; from her hospital bed, she identified Smith as one of her two assailants. A few days later, she died.

What of Smith? He is now 28. His career in crime began at 16, when he was convicted of robbery of one woman at knife-point and assault on another. Sent to Alcoa Reformatory, he subsequently was transferred to the Missouri State Reformatory as an incorrigible. He came out of prison, having served eight years of a 10-year sentence on Jan. 29, 1964.

Police records show that Smith was arrested just three weeks later on suspicion of assault, attempted robbery, and carrying a knife. The charge never came to trial. On March 19, he was again arrested on suspicion of robbery and strongarming. This charge also was abandoned. In December, 1964, Smith went back to prison, this time on a plea of guilty to first-degree robbery with a deadly weapon.

Once again released, in October of 1968, Smith promptly returned to crime: He was sentenced to 50 days for carrying a concealed weapon. He had been arrested four times in 1969 before the Halloween murder and rape. Smith had denied the latest charge; he

Public Forum

TO THE EDITOR,

Encouraged that your desired policy is indeed "truth in preference to fiction", I write.

I was much disturbed by your front page article entered on Friday, December 5, and entitled "City police arrest 27 for 'parade'". I'm disturbed, because of what appears to be an accepted practice in our community; the enactment of city ordinances that are suppressive in nature and lacking in regard to humanitarian concern. The official publicized attitude of the Greenville City Council seems to be totalitarian in nature; afraid to allow expression of divergent opinion. Is there really a difference between a society that allows arrest of citizens as described in your article and police-state tactics that Americans have traditionally abhorred? What has happened to us? Have we forgotten that Athens was great because there was public discussion, or what about those New England town-meetings? Is not the right to express opinion publicly what "American" is all about? I can't help but write: I am disturbed, because I wonder if the youth arrested on Thursday were not more perceptive of injustice and erosion of basic rights than most of us. I wonder, too, if I would be willing to risk arrest for just such a reason as given. I don't know the answer, and just for this reason, I envy the courage of these young people. How long can concerned individuals remain silent? As a subscriber to your newspaper, I would like so much to see more editorial concern for humanitarian causes. To do this will certainly require objectivity: I know this to be a most difficult task for all of us. Isn't it about time, though, we stop thinking of our "neighbor" as white, Negro, hippie, or other classification? Should we not be more concerned for human beings; for the full realization of their dignity? At that moment, I fear that my letter may be filled with emotion. I hope not. I do not wish to condemn our City Council, the city police, or you, the editor of our local newspaper: I trust that each one is following the dictates of his own conscience. Surely we have a delicate problem in our midst and I'm hoping Greenville will solve it, so that it may develop proudly.

Sincerely yours,
Irvin E. Lawrence, Jr.

Cabbies Have Changed

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — For years, New York City cab drivers have been famous for two things: their knowledge of the city and their ability to start a conversation at the drop of the meter's flag.

Today, a rider who tells the cabbie to take him to the Waldorf-Astoria is likely to be told the driver won't go to Queens and the passenger who wants to chat will probably be told to keep quiet—if his words are acknowledged at all.

Even the cabbies themselves admit the change.

"These young guys today don't know how to drive a hack," complained one older driver. "In the old days, you'd hop in a cab, give an address and sit back. Now the fares tell me you gotta' give directions."

To a regular cab rider, the driver's remark is an understatement. Two days in a row, drivers needed directions to get from Columbus Circle to Rockefeller Plaza, a mere dozen blocks separating two Manhattan landmarks known even to tourists.

"I usually work in the Bronx," was the excuse of one driver. "I'm new," explained the second.

Cab drivers also seem to have lost their facility for finding empty streets in the middle of traffic jams.

They used to be so familiar with the pattern of the city's vehicles they knew, for example, that from 9:15 to 9:30 in the morning Park Avenue was clear southbound from 69th to 54th Streets, while after 9:30 Lexington was a better road. Now they simply sit in traffic and fume.

Missed even more than the accuracy of direction—with New York's traffic you can't get anywhere anyway—is the conversation, the fund of usually useless information that every cabbie had at his fingertips.

In one day a rider could hear a plan for keeping the streets free of snow—an underground heating system—a tirade on passengers who don't tip well enough—all of them—and a 10-minute lecture on what's wrong with the country—too many politicians.

The only subject likely to interest a cabbie these days is the new push button meter, designed to go on automatically when a passenger sits down. It usually doesn't work, and the drivers are willing to give the passenger a list of what's wrong.

If the cab driver does attempt to talk, the passenger usually can't hear him and finds himself nodding and mumbling in an attempt to look like he's listening.

Unaware of what's being said, the rider may find himself agreeing there should be a six-foot snowfall, higher taxes would be good or that New York City cabbies are better than ever.

Strength For Today

TAKE YOURSELF APART

The great offer of the Christian gospel is the offer of divine forgiveness. We are all sinners. Some people are such gross sinners that the law has to take them in hand and give them free room and board in a prison somewhere. This, however, is mercifully a rare situation. Most of us are just petty sinners. We are selfish, prejudiced, unreasonable, indignant without cause. We don't like certain people and that's that. We want to mend the world's wrongs peaceably if we can, but if not then get them mended even if the process involves violence.

We may call these attitudes and policies petty weaknesses, but they are liable to break up the happiness of our homes, put us in a position to do more and more evil with the passing of time. Compromise is a hateful evil. It grows from a small seed into a situation that may ruin our lives and the lives of others. The weakness of today may grow into the wickedness of tomorrow.

Maybe we don't like to hear such things and are a bit irritated when we have to face them. The compromise of what we actually are with what we could be is utterly appalling. We might be ten times worse than we are, but again, we might be ten times better than we are if we spent a little of our time taking ourselves apart and evaluating our findings. Realism is a great virtue, especially when we turn the light on ourselves and do a bit of honest calculating.

Curtail Merchandising Games

By ELMER ROESSNER

The Federal Trade Commission has quietly driven another spike into the games gas companies and other mass merchandisers play. It has tightened its regulations so that nationwide games are impossible, according to the companies that invent the games.

ELMER ROESSNER

Its original "Regulation for Games of Chance in the Food Retailing and Gasoline Industries" requires the games-makers to "mix, distribute and disperse all games pieces totally and solely on a random basis throughout the geographic area covered by the game."

One games company asked a modification of the ruling on the grounds that machinery doesn't exist to mix that many envelopes. It would be possible, of course, to have helicopters drop 50 million winning and losing chances in the Rose Bowl, and then to hire half of the U.S.C. student body to pick them up in random order. But it wouldn't be practical.

Alternate Proposals

The company suggested two alternate plans. One would be to put all winning pieces, from the lowest to the highest, in a mixing machine and then to insert 11 winners in each box of 1,000 non-winners.

The other would be to mix the maximum number of pieces, 250,000 in the largest mixing machines available and then to package the mixture or winning and losing pieces in boxes of about 1,000. Thus some boxes might have no winners; other boxes might have a hundred or so.

Nix said the commission to both proposals. All the winning and losing pieces for the entire game must be mixed together at the same time.

Gamesters At Fault

However, the companies brought these restrictions on themselves. In Congressional and FTC investigations, it was shown that there was considerable rigging of winning chances, that favored gas stations were given disproportionately large numbers of winners. There was even some evidence that station managers could give winning tickets to local celebrities, who would generate publicity for the games, and withhold winners from autoists just passing through.

The FTC also turned down appeals for two other changes. It stuck to its rule that there must be at least a hiatus of 30 days between games "to avoid confusion," and to its rule that requires the posting of complete lists of winners in each retail outlet using a game.

The protesting company said that this too was impossible and proposed that only the names and addresses of winners of big prizes be posted. The commission turned down this alternative and insisted that even the $1 prizes must be posted. So if you see a gas station completely covered with lists of names of people from Maine to California you'll know why.

Grand Jury Indicts Six In Los Angeles Slayings

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — A grand jury which deliberated only 20 minutes has indicted three young women and two men from a desert commune on murder and conspiracy charges in the bizarre slaying of actress Sharon Tate and four other persons. The Los Angeles County grand jury on Monday also indicted the same five and another young woman member of the band in the murder of a wealthy grocer and his wife the day after the Aug. 9 Tate killings. The jurors took secret testimony from 22 witnesses in two days. Afterwards the jury foreman indicated the key testimony, as expected, came from a defendant who freely admitted her role in the seven slayings—and is herself accused of an eighth. Charged with the murder of the blonde actress, three friends and a youth were the commune leader, Charles M. Manson, 35; the star witness, Susan Denise Atkins, 21; Charles D. Watson, 24; Patricia Krenwinkel, 21; and Linda Kasabian, 20. The same five plus another girl, Leslie Sankston, 19, were indicted in the murders of Leno LaBianca and his wife Rosemary.

The indictment charged that Watson, Miss Atkins, Miss Krenwinkel and Mrs. Kasabian went to the Bel Air estate of Miss Tate and her husband, film director Roman Polanski, who was out of town. Miss Tate, hair stylist Jay Sebring, Polish playboy, Wojciech "Voitck" Frowkowski, (spelled Frykowski in the indictment), coffee heiress Abigail Folger and young Steven Parent were slain.

How and by which of the accused the indictment did not specify, but it said Mrs. Kasabian remained outside the house while the killings went on. The bearded, long-haired Manson was charged with the Tate slayings even though by Miss Atkins' account, accepted in the indictment, he was not present. The district attorney contended the cult leader, said to have hated the wealthy, conspired in the crimes and could be charged with them.

Miss Atkins told her attorneys, and presumably the grand jury, that Manson had hypnotic-like powers over his largely female clan. Superior Court Judge William B. Keene set arraignment for Wednesday morning for the three defendants in custody here, Miss Atkins, Mrs. Kasabian and Miss Sankston. Watson was in McKinney, Tex., and Miss Krenwinkel in Mobile, Ala., where they were arrested on murder warrants issued previously. Manson was being held in Independence, Calif., charged with possessing stolen cars. Manson was one of 23 persons arrested in two raids at a commune near Death Valley last October. Ten were charged with a variety of offenses, including auto theft.

Three of the 10, teen-age girls, were the last witnesses heard by the grand jury Monday. Deputy Dist. Atty. Aaron H. Stovitz said they shed no light on the seven slayings.

Another witness was a former member of Manson's "family," Daniel DeCarlo, who recently testified in a murder trial that Manson once sliced off a man's ear with a sword. The slaying victim, musician Gary Hinman of Malibu, was subsequently slain. Robert A.

Bausoliel, one of Manson's followers, and Miss Atkins were charged with the murder. Bausoliel's trial ended in a deadlocked jury and he is awaiting retrial. Miss Atkins has yet to be tried.

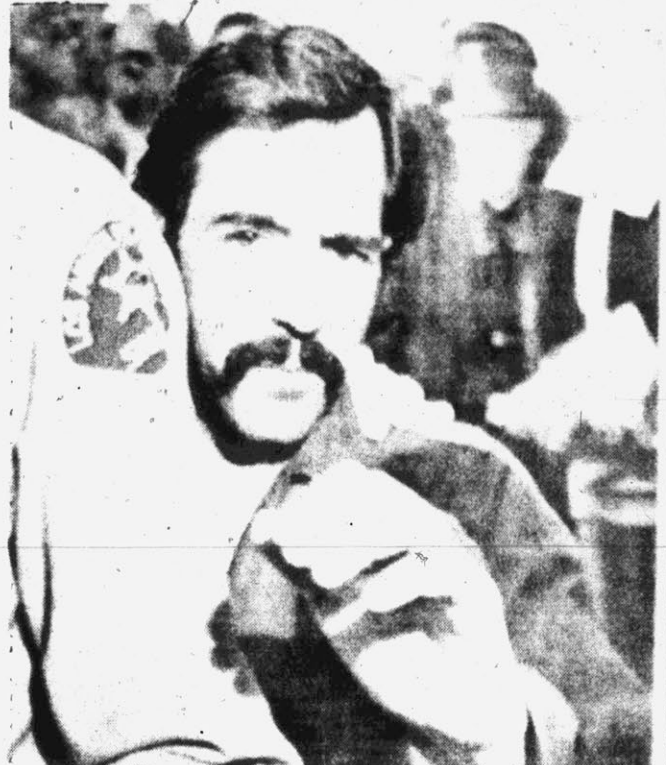

While in jail, authorities say, she prattled about the Tate slayings to her cellmate, who told police. Her attorney, Richard Caballero, said he advised her to cooperate fully with police in the hope authorities would deal leniently with her. He said she did not commit any of the murders.

Caballero has said Miss Atkins told him the four went to the estate dressed in black clothing, shot Parent—who was in his car, preparing to leave after visiting the estate caretaker—and cut power and telephone lines before stealing up to the house. One climbed through a window and opened a door. Soon Miss Tate and the three others were stabbed and shot—Miss Tate after pleading, "Let me have my baby," the attorney said. She was 8½ months pregnant. The next night, to prove they hadn't lost their nerve, clan members fatally stabbed the LaBiancas, then showered and snacked in their home, her attorney quoted Miss Atkins as saying.

After the slayings, the young nomads moved suddenly by bus from a ranch outside Los Angeles to Death Valley, where they lived in abandoned buildings, sunbathed in the nude and reportedly operated a stolen car ring.

Manson, known as "God," "Jesus," and "Satan" to his followers, was said to practice an occult kind of religion and to boast he possessed a gift of prophecy.

Model Security Council Has Fourth Annual Meet At ECU

The North Carolina Model Security Council held its fourth annual meeting on the East Carolina University campus Friday and Saturday. The various schools that participated in the meeting represent the different countries that are on the United Nations Security Council.

According to Danny Bland, a senior at ECU and a member of the security council staff, the problems that arise in the UN Security Council are presented before the model security council.

"The model council tries to solve the problem in the way the real council would," Bland said. "For example, one of the most pressing issues in the real council now is with the South African council. The South African government is controlled by a majority of whites

His name is legion. In a somber report last week, the Federal Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence sketched a picture of what may lie ahead: Our central business districts may be largely deserted by night, the empty sidewalks echoing no more than police patrols. High-rise apartments will become armed compounds. Homeowners everywhere will be fortified with grilled windows and bolted doors. Taxicabs and commercial vehicles will come equipped with bullet-proof glass. Guards will "ride shotgun" on city buses. Slum neighborhoods will be jungles by night.

This is urban American in the next decade? It does not have to be this way. The commission's recommendations start with steps as simple as better street lighting. More police are needed, more judges, better methods of drug and gun control. But in the end, "true security will come only when the vast majority of our citizens voluntarily accept society's rules of conduct as binding on them."

Flying to New York to confer with Cowles executives, Mrs. Bobbitt carried with her a 41-page memorandum that obviously reflected the wishes of LBJ. It demanded the deletion or change of no less than 218 passages in the book—removing almost all personal anecdotes about LBJ and all sharp criticism of the Kennedys. All demands were rejected.

Although the former President was never enthusiastic about his brother's revealing personal secrets, their sister, Rebecca Bobbitt of Austin, at first encouraged Sam on grounds that the book was something he could do on his own. But encouragement changed to dismay when she saw the manuscript in early August. She complained that the book was too personal and too profane.

School Ends Acting Role

FT. SAM HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — School bells were not a happy sound to Donald Huffman this year. They marked the beginning of the sixth grade for him, and the end of his career in show business.

Donald, the 11-year-old son of Chaplain and Mrs. Cloma Huffman here, spent the summer making a television film. His is the title role in "Christopher Discovers America," first of a series of hour-long children's specials. The series, (NBC) "American Rainbow," will start with "Christopher" on Saturday, Dec. 27 at 10:30 a.m. (EST).

Donny was chosen to play the role of a Korean orphan for a good reason. He was, in real life, a Korean orphan. His parents adopted him as an infant from a Seoul orphanage where he had been abandoned.

But the "Christopher" of the story wasn't so fortunate. He had been adopted as a camp mascot by five GIs, then abandoned by the men when they returned to the United States and civilian life. The boy stows away and comes to the United States in search of his five foster fathers.

"We wanted to show America," said producer Lucy Jarvis. "And the best way to see America is by seeing Americans at home and at work." The search leads Christopher to a big city, an orchard, a lobster boat off the coast of Massachusetts, a helicopter and a race track.

Inexpensive, Ideal Lighting

NEW YORK (AP) — A gas flame, projected through a softly glowing mantle or flaring from a festive torch, is the ideal illumination for outdoor areas around the home, according to the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association. Decorative gas lights are easily and economically installed, are inexpensive to operate and require almost no maintenance, the national trade group says.

Woman Injured In Car Collision

Mrs. Evelyn Martin Meeks, 1603 Longwood Dr., was injured yesterday when the car she was driving collided with another car on 14th Street two-tenths of a mile East of the Charles Street intersection about 9:15 a.m.

Investigators identified the driver of the second vehicle as Martha Gray Harrelson, 19, of Kinston. Damage to the Harrelson car was set at $1,000 while damage to the Meeks vehicle was placed at $250.

Mrs. Meeks was charged with failing to reduce her speed enough to avoid an accident.

'Miss Teenager' Bumps Her Head

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Melissa Badish, the 1969 Miss Teenage America, is listed in good condition in a local hospital after suffering a possible head injury in a girl's basketball game.

The 17-year-old senior at suburban south Fayette High School bumped her head on the hardwood court late in the fourth quarter of a game at Trinity High School Monday night.

A spokesman at Mercy Hospital said there was no cause for alarm.

BUSINESS SPENDS WASHINGTON (AP) — Business spending on new plant and equipment in the first six months of 1970 will be 6 per cent higher than the past six months and 11 per cent ahead of the corresponding period government economic experts predict.

Standardized Dialyzer Now Is Developed

LONG ISLAND CITY, N.Y. (AP) — RAI Research Corp. announced the development of the Standardized Dialyzer, a multi-purpose laboratory instrument for dialysis, ultrafiltration, gas liquid transfer studies, electrochemical transport studies and specialized analytical and preparative uses of semipermeable membranes.

"Transport across semipermeable membranes occurs in response to various driving forces: pressure, concentration, electrical potential and temperature. The dialyzer permits testing solute, solvent, and gas transport through membranes in response to all of these driving forces," noted Sal Arditti, company president.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices firmed slightly in moderate trading early today. At 11 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 0.39 at 784.65.

Stocks that dropped in price lost an earlier wide margin over advances and were about even.

Gold-mining stocks showed some firming after recent declines as gold bullion prices dropped. Campbell Redlake was up 1/8 to 17 and American South African up 1/4 to 33.

Among the 20 most-active stocks on the Big Board, 11 advanced, 8 declined, and 1 was unchanged.

Litton Industries, which lost 8 Monday, was up 1/4 at 41 1/2.

Other Big Board actives included Sun Oil, off 1/4 at 44 1/2; American Telephone, up 1/8 at 50 1/2; International Telephone up 1/4 at 55 1/2; and Atlantic Richfield, up 2 at 87.

Car Dealership Fire Is Probed

PELL CITY, Ala. (AP) — State officials have entered the investigation of a fire which destroyed the car dealership of white businessman Ray Wyatt, who sold 1,000 acres of St. Clair County land near here to the Black Muslims.

Pell City Fire Chief Cecil Guthrie said a deputy state fire marshal and other state investigators arrived here Monday night shortly after the fire was extinguished.

Firemen said they did not notice any broken windows or doors that might indicate the fire had been intentionally set. They did not rule out the possibility, however.

fair. I have no complaints about, certainly, the extent of coverage I have received."

Although Congress has picked up the pace in handling his legislative proposals, particularly appropriations bills, Nixon said, he was standing by his threat to call a special session right after Christmas if action on the money measures isn't finished soon.

Responding to another question on fiscal matters, Nixon said he would not ask for another extension of the income surtax after it expires June 30. Instead, he said he would avoid a serious budget deficit by vetoing such measures as the tax reform bill and impound funds he feels Congress appropriates unnecessarily.

A recommendation by the just-ended White House hunger conference for a $5,500 guaranteed minimum income was also downgraded by the President because of the cost.

Nixon reported encouraging progress in U.S.-Soviet negotiations in Helsinki on the possibility of halting the nuclear arms race—the strategic arms limitation talks—SALT.

"It is encouraging because both sides are presenting positions in a very serious way and are not trying to make propaganda out of their positions. . . the prospects are better than I anticipated they would be when the talks began."

The talks started last month and are expected to end within two weeks with an agreement on the range of issues to be covered in the next stage of detailed negotiations. U.S. officials expect the site for the second round will be shifted to Vienna or Geneva.

Order Hippy 'Hit The Road'

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — A Mobile city judge has ordered an out-of-state hippie-type man to hit the road.

"You start walking right now," Judge Herndon Wilson admonished in court Monday.

Michael A. Witte, 22, of St. Louis, Mo., had been arrested for disorderly conduct for washing his only set of clothes in a public laundromat. The clothes consisted of a multi-colored robe and matching beads.

Witte said he was en route home from a "pop" festival in Miami, Fla., when he decided to wash his clothes.

The judge fined the youth $25 or 25 days in jail, suspended the fine and ordered him to leave Mobile immediately.

BOTH LIABLE

BOSTON (AP) — Hitchhikers and motorists who pick them up would be liable to $50 fines under an ordinance adopted by the Boston City Council.

The Greenville Rotary Club received a citation from Rotary International on the occasion of its 50th Anniversary Monday night at the weekly meeting of the club.

Governor J. Talbot Capps of Kinston represented R.I. President James F. Conway in making the presentation, aid J.B. Kittrell, Sr., sole surviving charter member of the club, which was chartered December 18, 1919, received the plaque on behalf of the club membership. Edmund H. Harding, North Carolina's Ambassador of Good Will and a Past Governor of District 773 (when it was District 57), of Washington, N.C., made the principal address.

Harding projected the areas of community life in the next 50 years when the purposes for which Rotary was organized for fellowship, service, and international understanding would be the responsibility of younger men.

Both Capps and Harding noted

Tires X-Rayed For Safety Sake

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Tires are being x-rayed for greater highway safety.

An entire passenger car tire can be inspected in a single two-minute operation with a new TV-equipped x-ray inspection system developed by the Picker Corporation here. Under the new process a manipulator rotates the tire 360 degrees while the x-ray source sweeps from bead to bead. The image is picked up, intensified—that is, brightened—and projected onto a 17-inch television screen where an operator can spot any flaws.

Twelve of the new x-ray inspectors have been ordered by a major U.S. tire producer for delivery by the end of the year. At a total cost of $750,000, it is the largest single procurement ever placed for x-ray tire inspection equipment, according to the manufacturer.

HELPED 160,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Office of Education said today about 160,000 handicapped children received special educational services under two federal programs in the 1967-68 school year.

WHAT . . . IN SPELLING ANYHOW?

GABORONE, Botswana (AP) — Note the new spelling: it used to be Gaborones. Botswana's capital is only one of the 70 places in this independent black state whose names have been changed on the recommendation of a government commission. Poxatsi becomes Lobatse, Lake Dow is Lake Xau, Selebi-Phikwe is the new spelling of Selibe-Pikwe and Ootsi is now Otse.

The new spelling of Gaborone harks back to an African chief of the same name who lived there in the 1880s. White settlers named the area Gaborone's, then changed it to Gaborones.

that young men founded Rotary and were chosen for leadership on the local level as new Rotary Clubs came into existence.

Greenville club was the sixth to be organized in North Carolina on August 18, 1919 and received its charter in December 50 years ago. Today there are 163 Rotary clubs in the four North Carolina districts with a membership in this state of near 9,000 Rotarians.

A world-wide organization, Rotary has 13,989 clubs with a membership of 660,500. Rotarians in 148 countries and geographical regions.

Past district governors in attendance to join Greenville Rotarians were Jean P. Booth and Weston C. Reed, Kinston; J. Shep Bryan, Dunn; J. Bruce Eure, Whiteville; Beverly G. Moss and Edmund Harding, Washington, N.C.; Thomas H. Fousue, Maysville; Gorman Webb, Wilson; John B. Lewis, Sr., Farmville; H.D. (Tarvia) Jones, Graham.

President Alec Flowers and Secretary Woody Mann of Wilson represented the Club which sponsored the Greenville Club's organization at Monday's meeting.

President O.R. Pearce, Jr., presided, recognized the Rev. L.P. Houston for the invocation and presented members of the 50th Anniversary Committee: Kenneth M. Watkins and Dr. James W. Butler, co-chairmen, Markin K. Blount, Jr., William L. Hudson, Leonard P. Langley, Lawrence Perkins, and Charles A. White, Jr. Dr. Butler presided as toastmaster and read greetings and congratulations from several past governors and club officers.

Farmville Rotarians were represented by President John B. Lewis, Jr.

Of the 40 presidents who have served the Greenville club, J.B. Kittrell, Sr. has served in the office twice and his son, J.B. Kittrell, Jr. also has served as president.

Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, a member of the Greenville club, served as district governor from Greenville, although Dr. C. Sylvester Green and Dr. James Butler served as governor while members of other clubs in other districts.

The 50th Anniversary Committee has plans for observance of other events during this year.

'Going Well' To French Diplomat

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — The French ambassador to the United States says France's international and internal relationships are "going very, very well."

Ambassador Charles Lucet said the French are currently enjoying political stability.

"We have a small Communist party, but they are in the minority. They cannot produce legislative action in the national assembly... so we are not in danger of drifting to the 'left'" he said.

Mansfield Defends Tax Reform Bill

By JOE HALL, Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, commenting on a veto threat from President Nixon, contended today the Senate has acted responsibly in amending the tax reform bill.

But Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, the Republican leader, said the bill is "a mess" and will have to be changed drastically in a Senate-House conference if it is to be made palatable to the President.

Nixon told a news conference Monday night he would not sign the bill if it reaches him with Senate provisions for an $800 personal income tax exemption and a 15 per cent increase in Social Security benefits. He contends such a bill would cost too much.

The Senate meanwhile moved toward passage of the measure after defeating on Monday two moves to end the tax-exemption privilege of labor unions in political activity.

Mansfield said that in his view the 15 per cent Social Security increase is "clearly fiscally responsible."

He noted that the administration had advised the House Ways and Means Committee there was a surplus in the Social Security trust fund which would pay for a 15 per cent boost without an increase in payroll taxes.

Mansfield said he considered the $800 personal income tax exemption to be fully responsible "in terms of how inadequate this exemption is for people who must try to pay their taxes and support their families."

Scott said he expected many of the amendments to be dropped in conference.

"It is an open secret on the Senate floor that even the authors do not believe these will be kept," he said.

Sen. Albert Gore-D-Tenn., author of the $800 exemption amendment, said he doubted Nixon would veto the bill.

New Year's Eve Parties At Home Tapering Off

NEW YORK (AP) — A survey conducted by an airport restaurant here shows that home New Year's Eve parties are tapering off. More and more people are going out to celebrate in restaurants and night clubs.

Saul Caster, managing director of the LaGuardia Terrace, atop LaGuardia Airport, reports that more than half of all persons surveyed intend to welcome the New Year at local restaurants.

Furthermore, he notes that throughout the year seven out of ten patrons of LaGuardia Terrace aren't there to catch a plane themselves or to greet arriving friends. The excitement of watching planes land and take off and the opportunity to dream of far-off places must draw people to airport restaurants," he said.

Now a Profit-Sharing Retirement Program for all corporations... from 1 employee to 10,000.

A Master Retirement Plan from Wachovia.

The Internal Revenue Service has just approved a Wachovia sponsored Master Retirement Plan. This means any corporation of any size can provide its employees with a flexible profit-sharing retirement program. And there is still time to take advantage of special tax benefits for companies who initiate the Plan this year.

Wachovia's Master Retirement Plan incorporates all of the flexibility and effectiveness that previously were found only in plans which larger corporations could afford.

A profit-sharing retirement plan of your own can help you compete more effectively for capable personnel in today's labor market . . . and retain them.

Using a basic program that already carries preliminary IRS approval, Wachovia works with you, your attorneys and accountants in the determination of specific features to be included in the plan which reflects your individual corporate situation.

Wachovia's experience in the administration of retirement trusts dates back to 1942. We presently administer the largest number of retirement trusts in the Southeast. Many of these involve companies with less than 50 employees.

Wachovia's investment department is one of the largest and most experienced in the Southeast. And, Wachovia is the first bank in North Carolina to offer an IRS approved Master Plan. Available to all corporations, regardless of size.

There is still time to take advantage of important tax savings this year. Return this coupon today or call your nearest Wachovia office. A representative of our Trust Division will contact you.

Bucs Try To Pluck Tough Gamecocks

Sellout Crowd For Bucs' Biggest Foe

Although some of the luster has been knocked off, Wednesday's game between East Carolina University and the Gamecocks of South Carolina, still ranks as the top attraction ever in Minges Coliseum.

South Carolina fell from the top of the Associated Press' Number One ranking following a 55-54 loss to Tennessee Saturday night, and is now ranked eighth. It helped to make up for the loss Monday night by rolling over Erskine 95-44.

And now, the Gamecocks, 2-1, journey to Greenville, to meet the Pirates, 3-0. But despite the records, South Carolina is the favored team.

But you couldn't tell from the way the Pirates act.

"We are going into this game with a relaxed approach," Coach Tom Quinn said. "We don't feel any pressure on us except to do our best."

"South Carolina, with its ranking, will come in needed a win, and the pressure will be on them for an impressive victory," the coach said. "This is really a bonus for us. We have the opportunity to play one of the top teams at home. It's even more special since we're not ranked."

Quinn pointed out that he doesn't think anyone had to go into any great detail about how good South Carolina is. "Our players learned a couple of years ago not to be awed by any individual, team or crowd, and that if we get our game together and get top performances, we can win just as Tennessee did." Quinn added that it was obvious that the first three Pirate opponents don't fall into the same category as South Carolina. "We have had our tough moments with foul troubles and we have had to use various tempos and I think this has developed a tremendous closeness and respect among our players. Four of our five starters played against South Carolina last year, and made an excellent account of themselves until midway through the second half. We became impatient then and took some bad shots and they took advantage of it."

Quinn said that the Bucs are going to have to improve their defensive play if they are to survive the game. "We are giving up too many easy baskets. But we have looked tough and gutted it through

No Tickets

If you haven't gotten a ticket, don't try to get one; they're all gone.

That was the word that went out before noon yesterday at the East Carolina University athletic ticket office, which completely sold out of tickets for Wednesday night's game with South Carolina. Some 1,500 tickets were placed on sale Monday at 8:30 a.m., but didn't last long, as a line waited for the opening of the sale.

The sellout is the first ever for East Carolina since moving into Minges Coliseum three years ago. Game time is 8 p.m., with a freshman preliminary between the Baby Bucs and Chowan at 5:45.

when we had to." Both teams have impressive statistics coming into the game. John Roche, who was the Atlantic Coast Conference's Player of the Year last season, was averaging 23 points going into the Erskine game. Tom Owens, a 6-10 junior, was hitting on 22.5 points per game, and had a 19.5 rebound average. He hit for 36 points against Erskine and pulled down 15 rebounds in the first half.

Bob Cremins, the only senior on the team, was averaging 7.5 points per game, while sophomore Tom Riker, was picking up 10 per game, and seven rebounds. He also is 6-10. The other member of the front court is 6-8 John Ribock.

East Carolina is led by Jim Modlin, Jim Gregory and Tom Miller, all averaging over 20 points per game, while Jim Fairley is hitting in the mid-twenties. Modlin, Gregory and Fairley are all averaging better than 12 rebounds per game.

"It's not going to be an easy game, but we are looking forward to playing it," Quinn said.

The game really opens up an eight-day swing through some touch basketball country. Following Wednesday's game, the Bucs hit the road for the rest of the month. Saturday, they face their first Southern Conference test at Richmond, then play Duke on Monday and Wake Forest next Wednesday.

How the Bucs fare during this four-game sweep will be a good indicator of how they may finish in the Southern, even though only one of the games is a loop clash.

ACC's Top Player

John Roche, who will lead the South Carolina Gamecocks into Minges Coliseum against the East Carolina Pirates on Wednesday, was the Player of the Year in the Atlantic Coast Conference last season. The Gamecocks are currently ranked eighth in the nation with a 2-1 record.

South Carolina Bops Erskine In 95-44 Win

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
North Carolina entertained Kentucky and turned out to be the perfect host. The Tar Heels bent over backwards to lose a basketball game.

Top-ranked Kentucky upended fifth-ranked North Carolina 94-87 in a meeting of college basketball toughs at Charlotte Monday night. And while Dan Issel pocketed 41 points for the winners, North Carolina helped out matters by losing two starters with plenty of time left in the contest.

North Carolina's hopes were first hurt when 6-foot-10 center Lee Dedmon drew his third personal foul with nearly nine minutes left in the first half. He eventually fouled out with 11:38 left in the game.

The second jolt came with 2:54 remaining in the first half when 6-foot-6 forward Bill Chamberlain sprained his ankle. He saw limited action thereafter, and had to be pulled shortly after Dedmon left.

Issel, meanwhile, was having a ball. Along with his game-leading point total, the 6-8 center yanked 15 rebounds off the boards and turned the tide in the late going with a pair of three-point performances.

In other games involving Top Twenty teams Monday night, eighth-ranked South Carolina bounced Erskine 95-44; Michigan shocked 12th-ranked Marquette 86-78; No. 16 Ohio State got by Northern Illinois 106-99; 20th-ranked St. Bonaventure clubbed Xavier 82-69; and No. 3 New Mexico State beat New Mexico University 90-83.

North Carolina trailed by as much as 17 points before beginning a comeback try with ten minutes left in the contest.

With three minutes left, North Carolina forward Dennis Wuyick drove for an apparent easy basket with the score 82-78 in favor of Kentucky. The ball rolled out of the basket and was thrown to Issel, who was fouled. Issel then made one of two critical three-point plays which broke the back of the Tar Heel rally.

Charlie Scott, North Carolina's blue chip forward, finished with 29 points, many of them in the closing, frantic moments.

South Carolina, which dropped from first to eighth place in the polls, bounced back from a one-point loss to Tennessee by ripping outgunned Erskine behind Tom Owens' 36 points and 28 rebounds.

The 6-10 Owens spearheaded the Gamecocks' first half 43-23 advantage by scoring 22 points and the South Carolina machine continued to roll with ease in the second half.

Rudy Tomjanovich fired in 22 first-half points and 32 overall as Michigan surprised Marquette.

The Wolverines trailed most of the first half until four minutes were left when Rodney Ford sank a jump shot to put Michigan ahead 34-33. Michigan led throughout the second half, but the Warriors did manage to cut the lead to 69-67 with six minutes remaining.

Ohio State used exceptional free throw shooting to beat Northern Illinois. The Buckeyes hit 36 of 40, including 11 in a row by Craig Barclay.

Cleveland Ivey scored 23 of his 27 points in the second half to keep Northern Illinois close to the Buckeyes, who hit a hot 53 per cent of their field goal attempts. Dave Sorenson led Ohio State with 28 points.

Bob Lanier's 34 points led St. Bonaventure's victory over Xavier.

Carolina Falls To Kentucky; State Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The second nationally ranked Atlantic Coast Conference basketball team within three days fell Monday night from the ranks of preseason giants as second ranked Kentucky downed North Carolina 94-87, No. 7, Monday night.

The Tar Heels took the loss after winning two nonconference games.

South Carolina, ranked No. 1, lost to unranked Tennessee Saturday night. However, the Gamecocks routed outmanned Erskine College 95-44 Monday.

Undefeated North Carolina state won its third game, 139-78 over Atlantic Christian, an ACC scoring record.

Duke held the old mark of 136 points in one game, set in 1965 against Virginia.

Kentucky took control early at Charlotte, N. C., and never allowed the Tar Heels to get closer than three points late in the game. At one point in the final half the Tar Heels were down 16 points.

Foul trouble hurt North Carolina when center Lee Dedmon draw his third personal foul early in the first half. He was pulled from the contest and then fouled out in the final minutes.

Dan Issel scored 41 points to pace Kentucky and lead all scorers. Charlie Scott had 29 for North Carolina.

Tom Owens was the big gun for South Carolina with 36 points. He also collected 15 rebounds in the first half of the game in Columbia.

Sophomore Ed Leftwich scored 43 points for N. C. State in the game at Raleigh.

Virginia is at Pennsylvania in tonight's only game for ACC teams. On Wednesday Duke will be at Michigan, Maryland at Princeton, South Carolina at East Carolina, Wake Forest at home to Appalachian, and Virginia home to VMI.

Spiders Fall To E. Tenn

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's still too early in the season to judge which team in the Southern Conference posts the greatest threat to defending basketball champion Davidson, but it seems fairly certain at this point that it won't be either Richmond or Furman.

There was no action on the conference scene Monday night, and Davidson didn't even take the floor. But both the Spiders and the Palladins did—against nonconference foes.

An improving Furman squad scored an impressive 97-70 win over the Chattanooga but an earlier 19-point defeat at the hands of Davidson seemed to eliminate the Palladins as significant contenders for the conference crown. Richmond, with only one win in three outings, also seemed to be pretty well out of the running—and its 63-57 loss Monday night to East Tennessee did little to dispel that notion.

Furman used double-figure scoring by four players and a strong second-half defense to down the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga.

Sharing point honors for the Palladins were Steve McCammon and Lisco Thomas, each with 20. Joe Bronson and Jerry Martin each scored 19.

Richmond's biggest problem of the night was East Tennessee's Mike Kretzer, who broke a 57-57 tie with less than four minutes remaining.

The Worry Clinic Formula Helps In Conversing

Lena is in the same boat with Eleanor Roosevelt, who said she, too, was a shy teenager, lacking conversational skill. Mrs. Roosevelt started with the letters of the alphabet to open fields of conversation, as "Do you like apples?" But the formula below is much more effective, so memorize it and practice in advance of your dates.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.
CASE L-575: Lena S., aged 18, is a college freshman.
"Dr. Crane," she asked, "I am tongue-tied when I meet a new boy so what can I do to keep up my end of the conversation?"
"For when a long pause occurs, I feel so embarrassed that I can't think of a thing to say.

"I've lost a couple of boy friends already because I am too quiet and they also don't know how to carry on conversation, so we are both miserable."

In such cases, the victim feels like crying out, "Help, Help."
So use that very word "Help" and you can thus develop easy conversational skill.

Break it down into its 4 letters and employ each one as the opener for a new field of discussion.

"H" thus stands for "Hobbies," so casually veer the dialogue around to the collecting of stamps, autographs, old coins, etc.

But the best way to enlist your companion to dialogue is to throw him a cue in the form of a question.

"Bob," Lena can begin, "did you ever try to collect the autographs of famous people, such as baseball stars?"

Usually this "H" topic will enlist his eager participation for most young fellows have been collectors of match pads or marbles, bottle caps, trading cards, etc., in their early grammar school years.

Remember, launching a conversation is much like starting an automobile in cold weather.

There is much inertia at the outset, so the auto requires that you get the car into low gear, then shift upward to 2nd and high.

Applied to gay dialogue on a date, the first speaker should start the conversational machinery by a question. Then his companion should pick up her cue and finally turn the discussion back to him with another question.

By the time you figuratively get into high gear and reach a momentum like the 40-mile speed of a car, it will roll along without much effort.

If that letter "H" doesn't prove adequate, then shift over to "E," which stands for "Entertainment," including movies, television shows, the theater, concerts, dancing, etc.

A 3rd opportunity exists in "L," which deals with literature, both high-brow fiction and novels, as well as comic books and paperbacks.

Ask your companion if he ever used the famous "Classics Illustrated" as the basis for book reports in high school English courses.

Our children often used them for such purposes, since they are graphic digests of about 200 of the world's greatest novels, in

Holding Four In Robbery

Four Ayden area residents are being held in Pitt County jail under $1000 bond each following an alleged armed robbery on Nov. 28 in Ayden.

Ayden police chief James Ross said that the four, two of whom are juveniles, were apprehended following the alleged robbery, during which $50 was reported taken from Thurba Little, resident of Ayden.

The incident occurred in the vicinity of South Lee and Pitt Street, Ross said.

Being held are James Jenkins, 18, of Rt. 1, Ayden and Jimmy Lee Barfield, 19, also of Rt. 1, Ayden. Names of the two juveniles were withheld due to their ages.

Two of the men were originally from Mississippi, Ross said, and had come to the Ayden township during the summer months to work in tobacco. Barfield was on probation at the time of his arrest.

Hearing was held last week on the armed robbery charges and the men were bound over to Superior Court for trial. Date of the trial on the charges has not been set.

Pitt County sheriff Ralph Tyson said that investigation of the robbery is continuing.

Opening lead: Nine of ♠
Altho South suffered a devastating setback in today's hand, we cannot find it in ourselves to be severely critical of his three heart overcall. East's preemptive bid of three clubs prevented any low level investigation, and the South's entry into the auction is a calculated risk, very little was required from partner to produce a game. West doubled with the anticipation of scoring a substantial penalty.
West opened the nine of clubs, East covered with the ace. Declarer decided, perhaps unwisely, to try sneaking thru a spade trick by leading his singleton. West promptly put up the ace and led back another club.
East was in and he shifted to the seven of diamonds thru declarer's tenace. West took the next two tricks with the queen and ace of diamonds and then continued with a third round which East trumped with the four of hearts. A third round of clubs was led, ruffed by South with the ten of hearts and over-ruffed by West with the jack. A fourth diamond was returned by West and East was able to top the dummy's six of trumps with the seven. Another club completed the slaughter, for West was assured of winning two more heart tricks. If South ruffed with the eight of hearts, West could overruff with the nine. If declarer trumped with the queen however, West could promote a second trump trick by taking a discard.

The damages totaled 1,400 points inasmuch as the defenders had taken nine tricks. South could have saved two tricks and 600 points either one of two ways.
If he leads the king of hearts at trick two, it will limit East to only one diamond ruff and since the latter gets in only twice instead of three times—West will not obtain the trump promotion that enables him to score the nine of hearts.
An alternative play for declarer is to discard the king of diamonds when East leads the third round of clubs at trick seven. West ruffs in with the nine of hearts but now he is unable to put East in with the fourth diamond, since South is also out of diamonds and can overruff.

Linkletter Reflected Suspicion Of 'Messages' In Pop Recordings

By DAVID SMOTHERS
CHICAGO (UPI)—At least half the records teen-agers like most "are concerned with secret messages to teeners—drop out, turn on and groove with chemicals. The leading advocates of an acid society are the Beatles."

Television personality Art Linkletter made this sweeping statement Oct. 24 before a hearing of the House Select Committee on Crime and Illegal Drugs. That month, his 20-year-old daughter had plunged to her death under what Linkletter believed to be the backlash effects of LSD.

Linkletter's words reflected the suspicions of many mothers and fathers that the records blaring from behind the closed doors of their children's rooms speak a frightening language of their own.

Few, however, went along with Linkletter's assertion that record companies, disc jockeys and rock bands are controlled by "the missionaries of this subculture." And many defended youth's right to listen to records which mirror their world as they think it is.

Borderline Entries
Almost every disc jockey or station manager questioned could cite records which are too rough to be broadcast or are at best borderline entries. Many of these records have sold heavily, however, in album sales which go directly into homes.

The Rolling Stones rated high on the list of pretty hot to handle. Their latest album, "Let it Bleed," has been barred from a number of stations as in part obscene and, some listeners feel, preoccupied with heroin.

Station managers listed the Jefferson Airplane, Steppenwolf, and such icons of the rock age as the Beatles and Bob Dylan as artists whose work needs close listening.

filled with double innuendoes? "The record companies are recording things they would never have dreamed of a couple of years ago," Larry Jones, program manager of WWJ in Detroit, said. "There are a lot of records coming into the library we would never dream of using because they have suggestive or out and out dirty lyrics."

But other broadcasters, many on stations which help shape national musical standards manifest no such outrage. "Why is everybody so uptight about these things when the newspapers are front pageing it?" Dick Biondi, disc jockey for WCFL in Chicago, asked. He spoke of news accounts of drug arrests, rapes and orgies and said "President Nixon's 'operation intercept' probably gave more publicity to drugs and the flow from Mexico than any song."

David Morehead, program director of Los Angeles' KMET-FM, said, "obviously, we don't play anything which is obvi-ly obscene. But mostly obscenity is in the mind of the listener."

Ed Shane, program director of WPLO-FM in Atlanta, felt the use of rough or even obscene language could be "a return to honesty or so-called honesty ... they are talking about what is going on rather than moon, spoon and June. Some of the rock groups are trying to be newspapers to those who don't read newspapers much any more."

George Duncan, vice president and general manager of WNEW-FM, a New York station which aims its recordings at the 18-to-30 age group (as do many of the other stations cited) said: "Drugs are a very real part of their involvement in the world. It's a part of their environment, even if they're not taking them. If you're playing music appealing to the 18-30 group ... some music is going to be about drugs, much as in the '30s it was about booze."

Duncan touched upon a nice point. Certainly, in the '30s and thereafter, most of today's parents heard of the pleasures and consolations of alcohol on their radios and at the Saturday afternoon movies.

There was little consternation then when Fred Astaire instructed a bartender, "Set 'em up, Joe" so he could drink away his romantic problems. Cole Porter went the route when he wrote, "I Get No Kick From Cocaine ..."

As for sex, "Bewitched, Bothered and Bewildered" was once thought too racy for the air waves in its original version. Porter's "Love For Sale" had an explicit title, as did "Honky Tonk Woman." There may even have been some low-minded youths who speculated on what Wee Bonnie Baker was getting at when she lisped, "Oh Johnny, Oh Johnny, How You Can Love" and "You'd Be Surprised."

If remembrance of things past is any comfort, parents also can take heart in the thought that their children and popular music both are passing through a phase which soon may be ended.

Many of the disc jockeys and station executives questioned said the heyday of hard rock may have peaked out. Howard Kester, general manager of KYA in San Francisco, capsulized it:

"Acid rock, flower child music is waning. Psychedelic groups have faded. There is a general movement away from this, toward country music, and blues."

Briefer Commentary By Set Holiday TV Analysts On Nixon Safety Drive

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—CBS and NBC each had a brief news analysis Monday night of President Nixon's first televised news conference since Vice President Spiro T. Agnew criticized network commentary following Nixon's Vietnam speech.

Nixon said in his news conference: "Generally, I think the news media has been fair."
"I also will have no complaints as long as the news media allows, as it does tonight, an opportunity for me to be heard directly by the American people and then the television commentators to follow me. I will take my chances," he said.

many stations carried the summaries and commentaries will not be available for several weeks.
After the last presidential news conference Sept. 26, CBS had about four minutes of analysis which was carried by 200 of its 203 stations. ABC and NBC had brief summaries.
Nineteen stations of the Eastern Educational Network in Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia and Washington, D.C., carried a one-hour panel discussion of the news conference.
Kaplow said the President "struck me as being firmer than ever before on the broad structure of subjects brought up. He showed little equivocation."

On CBS, Roger Mudd said Nixon apparently had come well prepared and noted: "I suppose it's impossible to spring a question on the President."

The President said he thought Agnew had "rendered a public service" by bringing up the issue of network news analysis. The vice president said in a speech that he thought the analyses immediately after Nixon's

Nov. 3 Vietnam speech made difficult an objective evaluation of the President's remarks.
Commenting Monday on NBC, Herbert Kaplow said: "I got the definite opinion that the President had thought this out and decided to give strong support to his vice president. I think it was a rather strong endorsement of the vice president."
CBS followed the half-hour news conference with about five minutes of summary and analysis. NBC said earlier it would not analyze the conference, but it presented about eight minutes of summary and analysis.

Bill Johnson, public information officer for the department, said about $30,000 is being made available by the council to purchase the spots.
"Our campaign is being aimed principally at the 16 to 25-year-old age group," Johnson said. "Many of them will be home for the Christmas and New Year's holidays."
Television and radio stations in the state donate public service announcements on traffic safety. Johnson said, but this is usually done during the daylight hours.
"The prime time periods from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. are customarily sold to regular advertisers," he said. "We are booking our spot announcements during these hours."

In 1968 a similar project was conducted on a pilot basis and contributed to the lowest accident and death rate in North Carolina during the last decade.
The announcements will appear Wednesday on television stations in Raleigh, Winston-Salem and High Point. Later they will appear on all television stations in the state and on many radio stations.

FROGS' LEGS BOOM
NEW DELHI (AP)—Exports of Indian frog legs declined from 594 tons in 1967-68 to 565 tons in 1968-69, according to the Indian Seas Foods magazine. But because of demand for frog legs in the French market, earnings increased by $33,000.

Fair Military Trial For Calley Said 'Impossible'

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — The civilian attorney for Lt. William L. Calley Jr. says he feels it will be impossible for his client to receive a fair military trial because "everybody has gotten into the act on this case. They want to get on television and they want to talk," said George W. Latimer of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Calley's military lawyer, Maj. Kennedy A. Raby, filed a motion here to dismiss all charges against Calley, 26, on grounds that he cannot get a fair trial because of prejudicial news coverage which has created "a vast amount of public passion" against him.

Latimer referred to widespread comments and published accounts on the Army's case against Calley, charged with slaying 109 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai on March 16, 1968.

"I'm only saying that he (Calley) couldn't have a fair trial in military court," Latimer said. "I wouldn't rule out any other possibility because too many other things are still under discussion."

The attorney, who for 10 years was one of three civilians comprising the U.S. Court of Military Appeals, was interviewed by telephone after President Nixon's televised news conference Monday night.

Farm Bureau Asked To Soften Vietnam Stand

By DON KENDALL, AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The politically conservative American Farm Bureau Federation was asked today to soften its Vietnam stand from a call for "total national commitment" to victory to one seeking "an honorable and peaceful settlement" of the war.

anniversary convention Thursday. With 1.8 million members, the American Farm Bureau Federation is the nation's largest farm organization and carries considerable clout in legislatures of many rural states and is a major agricultural lobby in Washington.

"The Vietnam war requires a total national commitment if we are to complete as rapidly as possible the difficult task of stopping the aggression, restoring order, and permitting a properly constituted government established by self-determination to function."

The President said: "What appears was certainly a massacre, under no circumstances was it justified."

The new resolution, which also urges the South Vietnamese "to assume a greater responsibility" in prosecuting the war, comes before the bureau's 50th anniversary convention Thursday.

With 1.8 million members, the American Farm Bureau Federation is the nation's largest farm organization and carries considerable clout in legislatures of many rural states and is a major agricultural lobby in Washington.

Other tentative resolutions prepared by a convention committee ranged from farm policy to pornography.

The President, as commander-in-chief of the armed forces, stands directly in the military court-martial chain, the motion said, and if the death penalty were handed down in Calley's case, "it would require the personal approval of the President before the death sentence could be executed."

Protected By Own Law

GABERONES, Botswana (AP) — Stiff penalties have been provided in this African state for racial discrimination following alleged insults to Botswana nationals on trains in their own country.

anniversary convention Thursday. With 1.8 million members, the American Farm Bureau Federation is the nation's largest farm organization and carries considerable clout in legislatures of many rural states and is a major agricultural lobby in Washington.

The resolutions committee called for a gradual elimination of compensatory payments to farmers and eventual conversion of agriculture to the free market standard.

The President, as commander-in-chief of the armed forces, stands directly in the military court-martial chain, the motion said, and if the death penalty were handed down in Calley's case, "it would require the personal approval of the President before the death sentence could be executed."

The trains, operated by Rhodesia Railways, pass through the country from Rhodesia to Botswana's other white-ruled neighbor, South Africa. A senior government spokesman said train officials are sometimes less helpful to African passengers or speak of them in derogatory terms despite warnings from the railroad management not to practice discrimination. He said train staff warn Botswana nationals to use the international coach on trains if they wish to avoid unpleasantness. Passengers of all races are allowed to stay on this car throughout the journey and do not have to switch to segregated coaches when the train crosses the border into apartheid-ruled South Africa.

The resolution draft, made public today, pledges the bureau's support to "the efforts of the President to bring an honorable and peaceful settlement in Vietnam."

The resolutions committee called for a gradual elimination of compensatory payments to farmers and eventual conversion of agriculture to the free market standard.

The resolutions continued bureau criticism of poverty programs in general as "not contributing effectively" to solution of the problem, but offered conditional approval to federal food stamp programs.

Tax Receipts In N.C. Doing Well

RALEIGH (AP) — Commissioner of Revenue I. L. Clayton says the significant things about North Carolina's revenue reports for November are that "our sales tax is doing wonderfully well and income tax receipts are very good."

The General Fund revenue collections during November showed an increase of $13.5 million over the month in 1968. The collections totaled $80.8 million as compared with $76.3 million.

In a report issued Monday, Clayton said general fund collections for the first five months of this fiscal year totaled $327.5 million, an increase of $52.9 million.

Jones County Is Mapping Reply

TRENTON, N. C. (AP) — Jones County plans to reply within 30 days to a suit by the North Carolina Department of Social Services seeking to compel the county to appropriate funds for welfare programs.

The suit asks that the county be required to provide $12,900 in additional funds for the work incentive program and the medical assistance program (Medicaid).

The complaint contends that the county's refusal could result in the federal government's withholding all such funds for the state.

Offer Reward In Fatal Beating

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina is offering a $1,500 reward for information leading to arrest and conviction in the fatal beating of a Montgomery County man Oct. 9.

The man, Jerry Dean Davis, 29, was killed at his home in the Steeds Community.

Gov. Bob Scott said Monday in announcing the reward that "it is important for the preservation of law and order that the responsible person or persons be brought to justice."

The reward is being offered under antiterrorism laws enacted by the 1967 General Assembly.

Singing Group To Be At Church

The Sammy Hall Singers will be appearing at the Greenville Church of God Wednesday through Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Hall has made several recordings "Girl I've Got New For You" and "Mary, Mary" with a rock group called The Bird Watchers.

The group has appeared on the Dick Clark's "Where The Action Is" national television several times. They also co-starred in a movie with Steve Alamo "Wild, Wild Rebels."
