Air Fares Are Reduced

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Air travelers between Europe and North America will pay less and can stay longer as the result of an airline rate conference that ended Tuesday night.

Commissioners, in acting on a plan outlined by Director Charles Horne, authorized engineers to proceed with plans for expanding the water treatment plan. The planning will take from three to six months and cost $15,000.

Director Horne reported that a well at N. Greene and Airport Road has been completed and is producing 500 to 600 gallons of water per minute.

Considered 7 Weeks Judge Refuses To Allow Autopsy Of Mary Jo Kopechne

By LEE LINDER Associated Press Writer WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — A Pennsylvania Judge refused today to order the body of Mary Jo Kopechne exhumed for an autopsy.

Common Pleas Judge Bernard C. Brominski, after seven weeks of consideration, denied the petition of a Massachusetts district attorney who plans an inquest.

In his 14-page opinion, the judge said that after two days of testimony it was difficult for him to conclude that Miss Kopechne's grave should be disturbed.

The judge also pointed out that the presence of blood in Miss Kopechne's nose and mouth and on her clothing, as noted by Dinis at the hearing did not provide sufficient doubt to warrant exhumation.

The judge said that in reviewing the testimony of Dr. Donald Mills, the assistant Massachusetts medical examiner who ruled death was due to drowning, and Dr. Werner Spitz, a Baltimore pathologist called by the Kopechnes, it "leads to a conclusion that supports the original finding of the cause of death."

S. Viet Forces Increase

By GEORGE ESPER Associated Press Writer SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government announced today that its armed forces have increased by about 88,000 men during the past six months, a factor presumably figuring in the third withdrawal of American troops President Nixon will announce later this month.

The government said its forces total about 1,090,000 men under arms, compared to about 1,002,000 six months ago.

The figures showed a 6,000-man decrease in South Vietnam's regular army, but a spokesman said this was only a "fluctuation."

The biggest gains, however, were in the militia—the regional, popular and paramilitary forces. The regional forces increased 32,000, the popular forces 8,000 and paramilitary forces 35,000.

The South Vietnamese military command would not disclose how many of the 1,090,000 troops are now carried on the rolls as deserters.

Violence During Nixon's Visit

NEW YORK (AP) — Bands of young antiwar demonstrators marked President Nixon's visit to the city Tuesday night by surging through midtown streets breaking store windows and clashing with police.

Police arrested more than 60 men and women after small bands broke away from a crowd of 5,000 protesters to wreak havoc.

About 50 supporters of Nixon staged a quiet demonstration near the hotel.

Hutzelbrot Is A Bread For The Holiday Season

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
A holiday fruit bread called Hutzelbrot, made with yeast, comes from German cuisine. Of late, it has been awakening interest in this country.

So here's an American version of the bread. In this recipe the yeast is mixed with the flour and other ingredients. Because it's not necessary to dissolve the yeast first, one preparation is saved.

AMERICAN HUTZELBROT
6 to 7 cups unsifted flour
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon anise seeds
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground cardamom
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves

2 packages active dry yeast
1/4 pound (1 stick) butter or margarine, at room temperature
1 1/2 cups very hot tap water
1 cup chopped toasted blanched almonds
1 cup chopped walnuts
2-3rds cup finely diced dried pears
2-3rds cup finely diced dried table-soft figs
2-3rds cup diced prunes
1-3rd cup finely diced candied orange peel
Honey

In a large bowl thoroughly mix together 2 cups flour, the sugar, salt, anise seeds, cinnamon, cardamom, cloves and undissolved yeast. Add butter. Gradually add water and at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally, beat for two minutes. Add 1 cup flour, or enough flour to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed for two minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough.

Turn out onto light floured board; knead until smooth and elastic—about 8 to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl; turn to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm, draft-free place until doubled—about one hour.

Punch down dough; turn out into light floured board. Knead in almonds, walnuts, pears, figs, prunes and candied orange peel. Divide dough in half; form into round balls. place on greased cookie sheets. Cover; let rise as previously until doubled—about one hour.

Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven for 40 minutes. Remove from cookie sheets and place on wire racks to cool. While loaves are still warm, brush with honey. Makes two large loaves.

Shower Given Miss Denton

Miss Donna Denton, December bride-elect of Daniel Wade Harris of Ayden, was honored at a floating miscellaneous shower Thursday night.

The event was held at the home of Mrs. Sam Winchester. Assisting hostess was Mrs. Carl Crawford.

A green and white theme was used throughout the house. The refreshment table was covered with a white linen outwork cloth and centered with an arrangement of white mums and greenery. Cherubs holding white burning tapers were used on each side. Wedding bells entwined with white satin ribbons were placed at intervals around the table.

Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Sr., grandmother of the bride-elect, poured punch.

Miss Denton was remembered with a corsage of white carnations which complimented her red and white knit dress.

Special guests were Mrs. Edgar Denton and Mrs. Dixie Harris, mothers of the bridal couple-elect.

He Opts For Transparent World

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Quasar Khanh's transparent inflatable furniture is a new philosophy, he says.

The Hanoi-born Vietnamese designer, whose see-through furniture is in the Museum of Modern Art in New York, the Louvre and the Musee D'Art Moderne in Paris and the Triennale in Milan, believes transparency is the answer to world problems.

"If we could see inside of each other, we would find that we all want the same thing, but there aren't enough transparent people," he explains.

Different cultures are suspicious of each other and have no yardstick for measuring mutual trust. It is difficult for them to change even in small ways, he points out.

For example, although his Vietnamese grandmother lives in a modern apartment in Paris with him and his family, her room is completely Vietnamese down to the tatami mats.

The 35-year-old furniture designer has lived in Paris since he was 13, but he was a fashion designer before launching the inflatables three years ago.

"I was studying engineering and writing an essay about philosophy when I came to the conclusion that civilization is going toward a criteria of transparency. When you can see through something, you can understand it, and this would solve communication, one of the main problems of our civilization."

The percentage of "transparent people" who can cope with our new technology is small, he says, but they represent the society of the future, where everything will be clearer, and "there will be no misunderstandings between Vietnam and the United States."

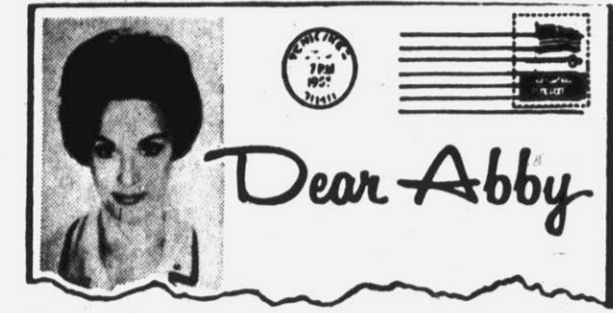

In his opinion our transitional age is responsible for much of our bad furniture. Traditional furnishings aren't all bad, he explains, but if you want to live with a prehistoric mind, it does create a paradox.

Quasar doesn't believe in design "inspiration." He suspects it is dangerous "because it is momentariness," he says. "The problem of creation should reflect society. It needs deeper thinking than pure inspiration."

In addition to the inflatable plastic furniture in five colors, he has designed a new chair with a reading lamp in its hood, and an entire collection of inflatables in a white opaque vinyl that resembles leather. The elegant looking line includes a flocked grandma's chair. Sofa, ottomans, chairs and lamps can be blown up with a vacuum cleaner in a few minutes. The potential for restless decorators is great—you can pick up a sofa with one hand, and move a room's entire furnishings in minutes.

He does the prototypes in the basement of his Paris studio, where he welds the vinyl on an enormous machine. His two active children, Othello, 5, and Atlantique Venus, 2, are the best test of the furniture's durability, says his wife, Emanuelle. Mrs. Khanh, a former Givenchy model, now a well known fashion designer, accompanied her husband on his U.S. trip to exhibit new designs.

Quasar's next venture will be politics—designing political structures through books, theoretical works and engaging in political action to develop more sophisticated thinking. "Then my designs will reflect a way of life." In designing, he is more like a doctor "giving life to a thing which is the child of society, not the mind," he says. A chair is designed for easier welding, and it is good because the design is clever. He doesn't believe in aesthetic qualities.

Go On Diet, Don't Seek Compassion

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am sitting here, drinking my eighth cup of coffee and feeling very depressed. I need someone to talk to so I am writing to you.

Three weeks ago I lost my job, and since then I've been all over Chicago looking for work, but I haven't had any luck.

I see a sign in the window saying HELP WANTED, so I go inside and the receptionist takes one look at me and says, "Sorry, we aren't hiring right now."

I know why I get turned down without even an interview. I AM FAT!

Abby, can't people be a little kinder and just let me fill out the application blank? Then at least I'd feel like I was getting some place.

Just because a woman is fat doesn't mean she can't work. In fact, a fat person would probably work twice as hard just to prove she can produce.

Well, Abby, I'm off again, looking for a job. I honestly feel a little better being able to tell this to somebody. Thanks for listening.

YOUR FAT FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: A "friend" does more than listen. He speaks out when there is something his friend needs to hear.

Feeling sorry for yourself won't land you a job. And don't expect some kind-hearted soul to put you on his payroll out of charity for the obese. Face it, most fat women are not as attractive as their normal sisters. [And they're not as healthy, either.] They may be "jollier," or better sports because they know they are "Number Two" and must try harder.

And since no one WANTS to be fat, those who are lugging a lot of excess weight may as well wear a sign saying, "I HAVE NO SELF-CONTROL."

So, do yourself a favor, and quit asking for compassion on the part of others. See your doctor, and get on a diet. And if you can't do it alone, get in touch with TOPS or WEIGHT WATCHERS.

[P.S.: If your obesity is due to a glandular disorder or a condition which you are helpless to control, forgive me, this letter is not for you.]

DEAR ABBY: Helen [not her real name] and I have been married for 14 years and have five children. We are both 36 years old.

A while ago Helen joined a GROUP THERAPY group. [You know, people just sit around and talk about their problems.] Well, Helen is the only married person in the group.

One evening a fellow from the group picked Helen up and drove her to one of these meetings. He brought her home at 1:30 a. m. Helen said they stopped for a cocktail on the way home. Another time Helen accepted a dinner invitation with another man from the group.

She says she is innocent of any wrong-doing. I believe her, but I feel her conduct is a potential threat to our marriage. Am I wrong to object.

OLD FASHIONED

DEAR OLD FASHIONED: No. Every group therapy group has a "therapist." Talk to Helen's, and ask him how you should handle this problem.

DEAR ABBY: For years I have been driving four neighbor girls and my daughter to school every day. I decided not to join a car pool because I figure as long as I am driving anyway I may as well take a car full. Incidentally, we have a nice new car with six seat belts and I am as dependable as a "clock."

We've lived in this neighborhood for many years and I know all the parents, but I don't see them socially. Of course all the mothers know that I chauffeur their children every morning because I pick them up at their doors.

Now I don't want a medal or anything, but when I meet one of the mothers in the market or at PTA, not ONE mother has ever said "thank you" to me.

If parents are so thoughtless about showing their appreciation for a good deed, is it any wonder that these kids think the world owes them a living?

This has been on my mind for a long time, and if you print this, it may wake up a few mothers. But please don't use my name or location.

BUYING YOUR CHRISTMAS TREE

The Christmas tree, large or small, is the center of our holiday decorating, so it should be selected and cared for carefully.

If you buy your tree early you will have a better selection. Moreover, you can take better care of it than the dealer can. Soak the trunk for about 10 days in a solution of 3 gallons of water to one gallon of glycerin. About once a week thereafter, put plain water in a spray bottle and spray the branches. This will not hurt most ornaments. You will not need to keep water in the stand. If you don't have facilities to care for the tree before setting it up, and have to buy late, you will have the advantage of lower prices. But keep in mind that all the trees are cut in late November, and you will not get as good quality when buying late.

To determine the quality of a tree, check its color, shape, springiness, and fragrance. It should have a true green color with no brown dried-out patches. Needles should be pliable and firmly attached. Don't expect a perfectly symmetrical tree. Look for a straight sturdy trunk and evenly spaced boughs that taper from a spike. It is possible to buy extra branches, wire them, and fill in the gaps. (It is important that these extra branches, be pre-treated in glycerin-water, or sprayed frequently with water.) Springiness of the boughs indicates whether the tree has been well-shipped and watered. Limbs should be strong enough to support ornaments. The tree should have the spicy evergreen fragrance which contributes so much to the atmosphere of Christmas.

Check the height of your ceiling and the height of the tree—the tree looks smaller outside. Untie the branches, have someone hold the tree erect, and stand away to check the shape. Shake the branches to see if the needles are falling. Also check the stump to make sure that it is long enough to support the tree.

When you get the tree home, cut about one inch off the butt of the stump at an angle before placing it in a container of water. This will aid in the absorption of water and will help keep the tree fresh and safe through the holiday season. Refill the container with water every day.

The American Red Cross has published a list of safety measures that, when followed, can make our holiday a safer and happier one.

- Do buy a fresh tree.
- Do place in water-filled container and refill often.
- Don't place tree near fireplace, heater, stove, or where it will block a stairway or exit.
- Use fire resistant cotton or "snow"
- Use metal and glass ornaments (not flammable).
- Don't use lighted candles.
- Use electrical equipment with "UL" seal.
- Check for:
 - a. frayed cords
 - b. loose connections
 - c. broken sockets
- Don't overload electrical sockets and circuits
- Turn tree lights out before leaving the house.

On Women's Rights Front: Goldberg Urges Women To Use Political Muscle

By ARLEEN ABRAHAMAS
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Gazing at his beloved glass-walled United Nations building from the vantage point of his 24th floor law office window, Arthur J. Goldberg, former Secretary of Labor, Justice of the Supreme Court, and United States Ambassador to the United Nations, pondered the problem of equal rights for women.

"When I was Secretary of Labor, I was deeply involved in the struggle to get equal pay and opportunities for women (on the labor front). Now the Equal Opportunities Act is law but I feel women still have a long row to hoe in their fight for equal rights. Passing a law doesn't mean the situation is fact; subtler forms of discrimination may rear their ugly head."

Goldberg, whose name now is being bandied about as a possible candidate for New York Senator on the Democratic ticket, believes that the one big factor women have neglected in their struggle for equal rights is political muscle.

"I have always felt that women have failed to use their political muscle in terms of getting adequate representation on party tickets. Women constitute the biggest voting bloc. They should stand for office more, get more involved. When you get involved, you get recognized," commented the distinguished-looking attorney.

Still involved with the U.N. through his position as chairman of the United Nations Association, he urges women "to get out, not to be so retiring, to get involved." But before the average woman gets involved in politics, he cautions, she should be informed. "An excellent way to get started is to join the local chapter of the United Nations Association. Discussion groups and other programs conducted by the grass-roots chapters will help her better understand American foreign policy."

Noting that the current President of the U.N. General Assembly, Miss Angie Brooks (Asst. Secretary of State of Liberia) is a woman, prompted Goldberg to comment, "My great regret is that in our own government we don't have women in such high positions. I firmly believe there should be a woman in the Cabinet and on the Supreme Court, although I don't believe in token appointments."

"Women are such good organizers," he continued. "In general they make better political volunteers than men, if they are involved substantively. And we're all aware of the wonders women have accomplished in community affairs and community betterment." Smiling, he pointed with pride to his own wife's accomplishments. "When we were living in Washington, my wife (Dorothy) singlehandedly promoted almost 20 causes. Now in New York she's busy with other volunteers to improve the ghetto schools.

"Women, often, by enlisting the help of their husbands, can accomplish so much ... for others and to further their own rights."

Of course, Goldberg concedes that the extent of women's accomplishments, both in the movement for world peace and understanding and in the equally important fight for women's rights, depends a great deal upon the attitudes of the men. But he feels "the major portion of the ball-carrying on the equal right for women scene must be done by the women themselves."

He cited the case of his daughter-in-law in Alaska who brings her 17-month-old daughter to school where she works as a guidance counselor. "I admire her tremendously ... I will say that my son (Robert) is cooperative. As a result, all three, perhaps especially my granddaughter, have profited."

One major problem women face is channeling their life so that they may resume their career when the child raising peri-

A Milestone In 3 Projects

Greenville took a major step forward in its educational facilities with the dedication of three new projects Sunday.

Being dedicated with one ceremony were the new Aycock Junior High, Eastern Elementary and a major addition to Rose High School.

All told, the recently completed construction represents an investment of around $3 million. Eastern Elementary provides additional space for the fast growing grammar grade population in the city. The Aycock Junior High, named for Board of Education chairman Dr. E. B. Aycock, replaces the old junior high at Fifth and Reide Streets, which burned last year and has since been demolished.

At Rose High, critically needed classroom space and other facilities have been added to make the building adequate for the increased enrollment brought about by the consolidation of Eppes and Rose High.

Greenville's city schools have faced great changes recently through growth and integration. In the years ahead we can expect major population increases here which will further tax the city's school facilities.

Perhaps a community is doing no more than it should to provide the facilities necessary for the education of its young. Still in so many cases school bonds are being turned down and the children must make do with whatever facilities are available. The citizens of Greenville and Pitt County have recognized their responsibilities in providing the funds for new schools. The completion of these new facilities in Greenville is a testament to that.

Demos Go About Their Preparing For Future

After hearing from many individuals and groups in sessions throughout the state, the Democratic party's 60-member study commission has broken down into committees to consider changes in the party organization.

The commission to study reorganization of the party divided into several committees which will draft changes in the party plan of organization.

Through this study commission the Democratic party is taking a good look at itself as it prepares to streamline in preparation for meeting the challenges of the future. This is something that needs to be done and it is to be hoped that fruitful recommendations will come from the party's study commission.

Tax Mess For GOP Leaders

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — When Republican Congressional leaders gathered at the White House last Thursday for their weekly meeting, a grim, tight-lipped President Nixon posed this question for Charles Walker, Under Secretary of the Treasury, seated down the table from him: What happened yesterday?

Mr. Nixon's concern was justifiable. Less than 24 hours earlier, when the Senate voted to increase the $600 personal income tax exemption to $800, Republicans were in chaotic disarray. An astonishing absence of communication between the White House and Senate Republicans, ineffective party leadership in both Senate and Administration, and deep personal animosities among Republicans were peeled bare.

Although the Republican mess on Wednesday probably won't influence the final tax reform bill, it raises the deeper question of whether Mr. Nixon's soaring popularity, source of boundless White House euphoria, can be maintained while vital fundamentals of government are neglected.

Few Republicans could disagree with the Administration's opposition to a costly hike in the personal exemption with inflation running out of control. But despite this, few could agree with the Administration's conviction—until a few days before the actual vote—that the $800 exemption offered by Democratic Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee might be defeated.

That was the assessment of Under Secretary Walker. Operating in the unique Congressional relations arrangement now in vogue, White House Congressional lobbyists have stayed away from the tax reform bill. Treasury Secretary David Kennedy seldom deals with Congress (and was at the NATO meeting in Europe last week anyway). Thus, the able but overworked Dr. Walker, in addition to many other duties, has been a free agent counting heads and calling shots.

Two days before Wednesday's vote, Walker had finally come to agree with Senate Republican chiefs—leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and assistant leader Robert Griffin of Michigan—that the Gore amendment was sure to pass. The question then became whether to fight it anyway or sponsor an Administration substitute giving Republicans a chance to vote for popular tax relief. That crucial question was not answered clearly—until too late.

The politics of the situation can be argued endlessly, but the real indictment of the Administration is its failure to develop and coordinate strategy with Senate Republican leaders. That failure was compounded at the weekly Tuesday luncheon meeting of Republican Senators when Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois proposed an alternative to the Gore amendment designed to minimize the revenue loss during the present inflationary period and give the Republican an out.

Edwin Coehn, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury for taxation, made technical suggestions at that luncheon. But neither he nor Walker, also present, rebuffed Percy until the luncheon was over. Only after the meeting adjourned did Walker tell a knot of Senators that the Administration could not back the Percy amendment even as a tactical ploy.

Incredibly enough, Walker's verdict was not heard by Percy or Griffin. The fact that Treasury technicians worked into the night Tuesday perfecting his amendment was misinterpreted by Percy as tacit approval. Scott got the same idea after chatting with Kenneth BeLieu, chief White House Senate lobbyist. Amazingly, however, Scott and Walker did not discuss the matter together at anytime Tuesday.

So, early Wednesday morning, Griffin ordered a telephone call to all Republican Senators which described the Senate party leadership as favoring the Percy amendment. Sen. John Williams of Delaware, senior Republican on the Finance Committee and Mr. Fiscal

An Island Of Propriety

PARIS (AP)—With a card sharper's flashing hands, the little man outside Notre Dame flicks open two small packets. The eye caught only a second's glimpse at what looked like intertwined flesh. "Deerty peectures," he says. If a sale goes through, at $2 a packet, he ducks quickly into one of the cafes across the street from the cathedral. He is selling as pornographic photos what are actually just reproductions of nudes from the Louvre Museum. It doesn't make for happy customers.

"You think I'm crazy, selling real porno?" the man who calls himself Theodore said in the cafe while heating up his hands over a hot rum. "First, I wouldn't even know where to get the real stuff. Second, I'd get three months for selling it. The cops don't fool around, kid."

Yes, this is Paris, a dry island of propriety beyond the tide of flesh on the news stands and in the mails that has swept over the United States and Scandinavia.

The nudest skin-trade magazines on sale near Place Pigalle, come from places like Astoria, N.Y., and Burbank, Calif.

The titles are all in English, like "Blonde Babes" and "A Different Kind of Love." But sexual acts and complete nudity are not pictured. The prices run to $9 for a magazine, more than double the American price marked on the cover.

"After all," the news dealer explained when there was a complaint about the price, "this is the real thing, and imported from the United States."

Ironically some of the pornographic books are pirated American editions of paperbacks published here during the freer 1940s and 1950s.

There are two explanations for France's distance from pornography.

One is that there is still a residue of official puritanism from the De Gaulle era, which tended to suppress anything that did not reflect the high moral tone the general wanted associated with France.

The people who explain the situation this way believe that France will gradually go back to its habits of centuries. They said this is already happening with a series of sexually oriented advertisements in major magazines.

The other explanation comes from Jean-Louis Gimbire, editor of Lui or Him, the men's magazine that is the country's largest.

Gimbire says there is little pornography in France because basically there is little demand. He considers the French the West's least sexually frustrated people and the least likely to be excited by the prospects of pictures of other people making love.

Desires Never Cease

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — This nation and other growing nations might be able to pay for their social needs if only they could order a moratorium on growing aspirations. But that day, human nature prescribes, will never come.

It appears inevitable instead for new desires to emerge almost simultaneously with the satisfaction of old ones. And in a way this is probably just as well, for it keeps all of us striving to produce.

The immediate result, however, is a tendency to spend beyond income, to avoid reality, to dream, and thus to face crises from time to time in personal, family and governmental budgets.

Relating this view to today's news, it appears safe to assume that in the opinion of the administration, the Senate's eagerness to increase the personal income tax exemption to $800 and Social Security benefits by 15 per cent, fits the description.

The President has, at any rate, indicated he will veto a tax reform bill if it includes these two provisions. They are viewed as inflationary, which is a way of saying they cannot be afforded.

In fact, the prestigious monthly economic letter of the First National City Bank suggests that spending pressures might already be forcing fiscal policy out of control.

"Despite the administration's determination to keep outlays within the self-imposed ceiling," it comments, "this level could be pierced by such uncontrollable outlays as farm subsidies, Social Security benefits and interest on public debt."

Exerting even more pressure on budgets are actions being contemplated by Congress which, in the opinion of Budget Director Robert P. Mayo, could lead to spending increases of $5 billion.

These pressures pose threats not just to the administration's much-advertised budget surplus, but in the opinion of some economists might cause the so-called peace benefit to be all spent up before the Vietnam war ends.

Brooks Was A Marked Man

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES

RALEIGH — John C. Brooks, has parted company with the General Assembly and the only surprise is that the parting did not come sooner.

The fact is that Brooks was a marked man almost from the time he became the Legislature's first fulltime administrative officer at the beginning of the 1969 session and set out to change ways of doing things. Of course that was his job.

He should have known and probably did that some changes would be resisted and others resented.

The idea of hiring administrative officer was to modernize and streamline the legislative machinery in Raleigh.

Opposed - To do so Brooks had to deal not only with 170 elected lawmakers but with dozens of clerks and secretaries and a new and rather complex computer system which at times didn't work.

dedicated job which served a very fine purpose.

Meanwhile members of the Legislative Services Commission said the intention is to continue to try to streamline and improve efficiency.

"There are numerous things which can be done," McGeachy says. "They are being studied carefully."

Justice - The Sir Walter Hotel in downtown Raleigh is more than a hotel, according to one of its permanent guests, State Treasurer Edwin Gill.

"It is," says Gill, "an institution, which touches the life of our state at many important and significant points." Gill spoke at a ceremony honoring the hotel's bell captain, Stewart Justice, who was runner-up in an international hotel "Bellman of the year" competition.

WILLIAM SHIRES

He hired and fired clerks and secretaries and other legislative employes and stepped on some toes.

"It was a difficult period of transition," says Senate president pro tem Hector McGeachy who accepted Brooks' resignation. "Some things got beyond his (Brooks) control."

Brooks himself charged that the General Assembly is inefficient and a majority of members opposed to change. His efforts to effect changes such as requiring personal standards for secretaries collapsed.

Clashed - McGeachy, chairman of the Legislative Services Commission, conceded there were "personality clashes" involving Brooks, legislators and legislative employes.

Even tough McGeachy and House Speaker Phil Godwin finally decided to ask for Brooks' resignation. McGeachy said Brooks had done "an intelligent,

Gill said Justice "has been my good friend for many, many years."

"I have known of his splendid character and of the high quality of service that he has rendered. Stewart Justice is not just a bellman. He too, is an institution that has touched the lives of many thousands of people, both in North Carolina and beyond."

In an age which some believe is hard, brazen, brassy and competitive, it is wonderful to honor Stewart Justice for he has been the exception to many rules—he has majored in politeness, in courtesy, in pure natural kindness, and in consideration for others. Many a traveler coming into Raleigh, weary and lonesome, had had his or her life brightened by the famous personality of Justice.

Strength For Today

Therapeutic Religion The word "therapeutic" means "pertaining to the healing art; concerned with remedies for diseases; curative."

When religion is soundly held and made to operate in every aspect of one's life it can be called "therapeutic religion." It cures moral diseases. It keeps one in a healthy state spiritually. It is true that many of the most saintly people appear to be plagued with annoying and painful physical ailments, especially as they grow older, but taken by and large sound religion would appear to go a long way toward making one physically fit. The expression that the godly die young is not true. Some fine people die in youth, a multitude in middle age when they try to put on pressure and bring themselves to high success—this is a familiar situation. Most genuinely religious people appear to be enjoying satisfactory health. No matter how satisfactory our health may be we cannot keep the pressure on decade after decade without feeling the strain or, in fact, experiencing breakdown. But in daily living, as in all things, we should use our common sense. The body and mind will take just so much pressure and no more. If a person takes no vacation and boasts of the fact that he does not need one, his family should tip off the physician on whom they rely and ask him to sound a few warnings. Therapeutic. Curative. If religion is not therapeutic it is not the kind that will brighten up life and make it significant.

Help Cities With Their Money

By ELMER ROESSNER

Some pretty wild ideas have been advanced to solve the rising costs of government. Many governments have tried to solve their problems by simply printing more money. Germany tried it after World War I, and what a mess that made, especially for the Allies!

ELMER ROESSNER

In California, the Townsend $50-Every-Thursday plan came near to adoption during the depression. The state was to give every elderly citizen a warrant for $50 every week and, by law, every business had to accept it at face value. Each merchant would put a 2-cent stamp, purchased from the state, on the back, and after it had accumulated $50 in stamps, the state was to redeem it for $50. Thus the plan would cost the state nothing because the sale of stamps would provide more than enough money for redemption, the oldsters would have ample spending money for the times, and business would swell because everybody was forced to accept some of this funny money would send it as soon as possible.

Other Ventures The scheme was something like the old cat-and-mouse farm idea: the mice were fed to the cats, the cats were skinned for their fur and their carcasses were fed to the mice. But fortunately, Californians rejected Dr. Townsend's plan and the state is still solvent.

At another time, a cult proposed that all work be prohibited and everybody be issued a weekly book of chits which could be exchanged for food and goods at stores. Stores had plenty of food and goods in their cellars, leaders pointed out.

Now an equally nutty idea is being bandied about the country.

It is that the federal government finance the cities.

Many cities are going broke. Civic wages and salaries are soaring. Buildings are being torn down because taxes and the cost of keeping them up are greater than rentals. Mayor John V. Lindsay estimates New York's deficit in the coming year will be $1 billion.

National Gimmies

At the White House Conference on Hunger, one group demanded a guaranteed annual income of $5,500 for each family of four, which would eliminate state and city welfare and draw the money out of the Treasury. American mayors, meeting in San Diego, demanded the federal government take over welfare, relief, unemployment benefits and assorted deficits. That sound you hear is Doc Townsend's bones applauding.

It sounds like a lovely solution. The federal government is already paying for 90 per cent of major highway construction costs. It is pouring millions into housing for the poor and many other give-aways. Why not do everything?

There is only one little question about the idea: Where will the money come from?

It can't come from rural America because the government is already pouring money there to keep prices up so that farmers can live.

So it can only come from the cities, that is, the people who live and work in the cities. It's as simple as that.

Milk Board Tries Again

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Milk Commission plans to revise its controversial Fair Trade Order No. 10 before it expires Feb. 1.

The commission voted Tuesday to try to salvage the regulation after commission member Jesse Jones of Charlotte said he feels North Carolina "definitely needs the order."

Jones, general manager of Pet, Inc., said, "If we can make order No. 10 legal, let's make it legal. If we can make it work, let's do so."

The order prohibits wholesale or retail sale of milk below the purchase price plus a 7 per cent mark up. It also requires milk distributors to file their prices 10 days in advance with the commission.

State Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan has recommended that the regulation be dropped entirely.

Neil Bolton of Winston-Salem, the commission chairman, said he was willing to defer action "to see if something can be worked out that would be fair to everyone."

Responsibility, was in a state of enraged disbelief. Neither Scott nor Griffin had bothered to consult him.

Both Williams and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona placed hurried calls to the Treasury. The word came back from Walker: We oppose the Percy amendment. Yet, not until Goldwater announced this on the floor was Percy aware of this opposition. Griffin, learning the Treasury's position from Williams, ordered a new telephone announcement. The Percy amendment was doomed, and more important, the stage was set for Scott's bitter denunciation of the Administration strategy on the Senate floor.

Memorizing Bible Verses Is Fostered By Two In Greenville

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The initials BMA are familiar ones to a number of people in Pitt County and an area within 125 miles. BMA is short for Bible Memory Association—which is what the title implies, an organization designed to encourage memorization of Bible verses.

With a program designed for people in ages 3 to 100, the BMA has completed over a quarter century of work, having been initiated in 1944.

The first phase of committing Bible verses to memory was called the Youth Plan, which fostered Scripture study by verse memorization among young people.

Initially based on systematic memorization, the concept has not changed—only the scope has been enlarged. In 1955 the Adult Plan was inaugurated, followed by the Beginner Plan in 1959, and the Collegiate Plan in 1967. One new plan, the ABC Memory Plan is ready to be implemented in 1970.

To date, a total of 307,925 young people and adults have enrolled in BMA. Of this number, 223,493, have completed the prescribed work planned for their phase.

Progressive stages of memorization conform to the average time available to people in various age groups. The Beginner Plan, comprising five series of books of verses to be memorized, start at the five year old level with two verses per week. This increases until those in the Youth Plan—age group 10 to 17—are assigned 12 verses per week. The Collegiate Plan group's quota drops to 8 verses per week—a reflection of this group's involvement in study and research, resulting in less memorization time being available.

Arrangement of books containing verses for memorization is not a random matter. Groups of verses related to a particular topic are used. Under each general topic, sub-topics are used as individual themes in which verses from both the Old and New Testament are listed. The ABC and the Beginner Memory Plan books are designed to be visually attractive to young children, extensively illustrated with colored drawings.

In Greenville, two who are active in encouraging participation and in assisting those enrolled are Mr. and Mrs. Lorán E. Norris. Both are with Pitt Memorial Hospital. Norris is the hospital's purchasing agent. Mrs. Norris is a registered Licensed Practical Nurse (LPN).

"Over the years I've become known locally as 'Miss BMA,'" Mrs. Norris admitted. "My husband and I have been working with this program for more than seven years." She added that "he is president of the South Central Regional Board, which is an area covering 26 counties.

"We work mostly through churches in the area," she explained, "and have enrollments in a number of denominations." Individuals sometimes participate outside church circles. "If a person prefers this, it's no problem. In fact, when we arrange for a person to recite verses they have memorized, it's often in the home."

Noting that the organization is a non-profit one with headquarters in St. Louis, Mo., Mrs. Norris discussed the general system. "After a person enrolls and receives material, we have a qualified listener meet with the individual every two weeks over a period of 12 weeks to hear their recital."

Once a person who is nine or older has completed 12 weeks of memory work in a series, he is eligible to attend one of the Miracle Camps open during the summer. Camps are located in Ringgold, La., Cleveland, Ga., Amsterdam, N.Y., Boulder Creek, Calif., Stanwood, Wash., Prescott, Ariz., and Shelby, Mich.

At these camps memory work in Bible verses forms a vital part of the program. However, recreation is used extensively to give those attending an opportunity to use their bodies as well as their minds. Chess, shuffleboard, and horseback riding are favorite activities at these camps.

At the camp in Ringgold, La., a donkey named Jezebel pulls a cart for children's rides. BMA's work in recent years has taken on an international scope. Chapters are operating in a number of foreign countries, including Guatemala, Brazil, South Africa, Rhodesia, and Mali.

Earlier this year BMA of ficials held a workshop in Guatemala City with Dr. E. Antonio Nunez, professor at the Central American Bible Institute, on providing acceptable Spanish translations in order to facilitate BMA's work in Spanish speaking countries.

As the BMA begins its second quarter of a century's work, they have hopes of making their program a truly international one.

Nixon's Troubles Compounded By GOP Leadership

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's troubles with Congress are being compounded by his failure to win support from key members of the congressional Republican leadership for some of his major proposals.

Influential Republicans, including at times the top leadership, have worked openly against Nixon's recommendations on civil rights, antipoverty legislation, the Supreme Court nomination of Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. and a major provision of the tax reform bill.

As a result, Nixon is winding up his first year in office, when a President's relations with Congress are usually their most cordial, with fewer accomplishments than might have been expected, even with the Democrats controlling both House and Senate.

In part Nixon's difficulties with his own leaders have been caused by policy disagreements born of the liberal-conservative split that has long plagued the Republican party. Capitol Hill Republicans also complain of tangled lines of communication with the White House.

But much of the difficulty stems from what House and Senate Republicans feel is a lack of White House understanding of the political problems certain votes can cause them.

Thus on the Haynsworth nomination, which stands as Nixon's bitterest defeat, the President's appeal for support was ineffective among senators from northern industrial states where the nominee's views on labor and civil rights were not widely shared by the voters.

"It doesn't do me a bit of harm at home to have John Mitchell mad as hell at me," said a Senate Republican after casting his vote in defiance of the attorney general's strenuous efforts on Haynsworth's behalf.

When the roll was called, 17 Republicans voted against Haynsworth as the Senate, for the first time in 39 years, refused to confirm a presidential nominee to the Supreme Court.

But more significant than the number of defectors were the three who led Republican opposition to their own administration: Minority Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, his assistant, Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, and the chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, Margaret Chase Smith of Maine—Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in the Senate's GOP hierarchy.

In the House, Republicans feel their home district political problems have been ignored by the administration in pressing for a two-year extension of the antipoverty program without changes.

An overwhelming majority of them are prepared to vote against the President's position when the bill comes up this week.

House Republicans made attacks on the antipoverty program a keystone of their campaigns during the Johnson administration. Nixon also was sharply critical of it, but after transferring the Office of Economic Opportunity's choicest programs to other government agencies, he surprised Republicans by asking for its continuation with no further changes.

To win over the Republicans Nixon sent his new OEO director, former Congressman, and OEO critic, Donald Rumsfeld, to Capitol Hill. Rumsfeld's message: If the act were continued without change he would use its administrative powers to make many changes Republicans have been clamoring for.

"That's fine for you," Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the House Republican leader, told Rumsfeld, "but it doesn't do my members any good. They need to have a vote on this."

Now Ford, whose job makes him the chief administration spokesman in the House, and all his top aides, are actively promoting a substitute to the administration bill that would shift control over most antipoverty programs to the states. They have found willing allies among Southern Democrats and exhort to triumph. And Rumsfeld has been forced into the uncomfortable position of seeking support from the Democratic leadership and from the same unions and civil rights organizations who led the fight against Haynsworth in the Senate.

These groups also are deeply involved in another fight that is sharply dividing the White House and some of its most important congressional leaders. It is over the new voting rights law Nixon has asked to replace the 1965 act, due to lapse next August.

The 1965 act was drawn specifically to reach Deep South states with a long history of discrimination against Negro voters, and it bans and expanded federal powers apply only in Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia.

In his bid for Southern delegate support at the Republican National Convention, Nixon promised he would never propose legislation aimed solely at one region. His voting rights bill keeps that pledge.

It would extend some provisions of the 1965 act to the entire nation and relieve the seven Southern states of what they feel is their sorest affliction, a requirement that they get approval from the attorney general before putting any new election laws or procedures into effect.

Civil rights groups are bitterly opposed to losing the pinpoint on the Southern states.

The issue was argued at length at the White House and the Justice Department before the bill went to Congress. Sen. Scott, then assistant minority leader, strongly opposed the administration plan.

So did Rep. William M. McCulloch of Ohio, senior Republican on the House Judiciary Committee and his party's acknowledged spokesman in the House on civil rights. Rep. John Anderson of Illinois, No. 3 in the House leadership.

Arguing that Republicans had solidly backed the 1965 act and shouldn't be asked to reverse themselves, McCulloch and Anderson promised to support the administration bill as separate legislation if Nixon would endorse a five-year extension of the present law.

In the end, Atty. Gen. Mitchell, the chief advocate of the new plan, prevailed with Nixon, but the decision led to a humiliating defeat in the House Judiciary Committee. With 12 of the 15 committee Republicans following McCulloch's lead, the committee voted for a straight five-year extension of the 1965 act.

Minority Leader Ford, an early co-sponsor of the five-year extension, now has switched to the administration side, and a close vote is expected when the issue comes to the House floor this week.

McCulloch remains grimly determined to defeat it.

"I don't like fighting the White House," McCulloch, a party loyalist, told a friend, "but maybe after this they'll listen to some of us."

McCulloch and other GOP leaders believe Nixon is listening too much to Mitchell and other political advisers and not enough to the Republicans in Congress.

Ford is counting on the determination of House Republicans to stake out their own position on antipoverty legislation to give him—as their leader—a stronger voice in White House councils.

Sen. Scott hopes a similar result will flow from the administration's defeat last week on an amendment to the tax bill.

The amendment, offered by Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., proposed to increase the $600 personal income tax exemption to $800.

Nixon was against any increase, preferring tax rate cuts voted by the House. Scott, however, felt the Gore amendment would win, so he worked with Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., on an alternative. It would have spread out the increase in the exemption—thus easing the blow to the Treasury—and, if adopted, deprive Gore, who faces a tough re-election fight, of a substantial legislative victory.

But the Treasury Department disowned Percy's amendment and amid much confusion as to where the administration stood, the Senate voted it down and adopted Gore's. Now Nixon is threatening to veto the bill as written.

Zoning Ordinance In Ayden Amended

AYDEN—The Ayden Town Board Monday night amended the zoning ordinance to permit use of residential quarters in B-2 Commercial zones.

According to the amended regulation, the residential quarters may be used when necessitated by business, provided such quarters are occupied by persons owning or affiliated with the business.

Commissioners also set a public hearing for January 12 at 7:30 p.m. to hear views on a proposed town zoning map which includes zoning within a one mile radius of the town.

In other business, the board approved closing the municipal offices December 25 and 26 for Christmas; approved destruction of various town records that have no further use or value (in concurrence with the Department of History and Archives in Raleigh); and agreed to purchase Christmas ads in local newspapers.

Commissioners, too, heard Lewis M. Dibble of Washington, electrical consultant, who presented a proposed rate schedule for commercial and residential all-electrical rates.

No action was taken on the presentation.

Permission Given To Paraders

A parade permit was issued yesterday to the Vietnam Moratorium Committee for a parade Friday between 1 p.m. and 2 p.m.

Police Chief T. E. Gladson said the application for the parade permit indicated between 200 and 500 persons will participate in the line of march.

Route of the parade will be west along Fifth Street from the main gate of East Carolina University to Reide Street, then down Reide to Second and along Second to Greene. The march will continue South along Greene to Dickinson Avenue, then to tenth and eastward along tenth to Charles, then to Ninth Street and return to the campus.

An application for a permit to picket local business firms in order to apply "pressure to the city council" was under consideration this morning by police officials.

The application—made by Gap, a local activist group—requests a permit for Thursday afternoon.

Some Gap members were among 27 persons arrested for parading without a permit here last week.

Unbelievable 'Carcochas' See Crackdown In Lima

THE CARCOCHES — old cars, thrown together way out as Lima police begin a crackdown on unsafe and unseemly vehicles. (UPI Telephoto)

By MAX JENNINGS
LIMA, Peru (UPI)—The law is cracking down on one of the most incredible sights in all of Latin America — the "carcochas" of Lima.

The carcochas are the incredibly old, battered automobiles still at work on the streets of Lima, most of them running as taxis from the slum areas to the heart of the city. Tourists find them unbelievable. Lima residents don't give them a second look.

The police seized 50 of the old jalopies in the first few days of the crackdown, over the howls of the owners, because they did not meet the "strict" new requirements.

The requirements demand cars must have lights in front and back (asking too much of any carcocha), brakes in good condition (everyone knows nobody drives in front of a carcocha) and glass in all the windows (it never rains in Lima, anyway).

Mercifully, the law doesn't mention tires. Most of the 30-or even 40-year-old Lima taxis use tires until they literally wear holes in the rubber.

Model A Fords still are driven daily in Lima, hauling passengers. There are dozens of them, as well as the slightly newer models of the 1930s.

A Strange Breed

It is difficult to tell, though, what breed some of the carcochas are. They have fenders from one model, a hood from another, and the engine and transmission might be put together in any number of original ways.

Of course, this makes some problems unimportant, such as collisions. When one carcocha hits another, which happens frequently, the drivers usually yell at each other for a few minutes, then literally pick up the pieces.

If they happen to pick up pieces of each other's cars, it is not important. The cars will be back together again in a few hours.

In the humid Lima climate, fenders and roofs on the cars often rust through. The drivers tie them on with wire, or find a way to weld them back together. Pieces of rope keep doors from falling off.

If a collision is so violent that both cars are destroyed, the pieces are salvaged to provide the basis for new carcochas.

But even Lima carcocha owners, who at times are absolutely ingenious with their mechanical adaptations, are not able to keep their cars running at all times.

A Latin Jam

When a carcocha breaks down on a busy street, the traffic stacks up for blocks in a matter of minutes. A Latin traffic jam means much horn blowing, arm waving and cursing.

The carcocha owners, of course, are accustomed to this, and calmly take out their tools and open the car hoods, or slide their mechanically-gifted wits. Few of them have the money with which to buy newer cars. "What are we going to do?" one carcocha owner said. "Without our cars, how are we going to live?"

He wiped the windshield of his 40-year-old car lovingly, and started to drive away. Two policemen were talking down the street.

Free Recital Set Friday

As the East Carolina University's winter season of music nears its peak, a second free recital will be held this week.

On Friday, at 8:15 p.m. in the Music Auditorium of the School of Music, faculty member Paul R. Kosower will present a faculty cello recital.

Kosower, who appeared recently at Wright Auditorium and on radio as featured soloist with the ECU Symphony orchestra, will be appearing in his fifth ECU recital Friday.

In this program, the former principal cellist of the University Circle Orchestra at the Cleveland Institute of Music, will play the Brahms Sonata in F major; the Boccherini Sonata in A major, and the Tchaikovsky Rocco Variations. In all these selections, he will be accompanied by pianist Karen Hause.

Kosower holds a bachelor of music in cello, in organ, and a master of music in cello. He has been on the faculty of ECU since September, 1968.

The public is invited to attend this recital, which is being held at the ECU Music Building on Tenth Street.

Some Warned Of Fibrous Foods

NEW HYDE PARK, N.Y. (UPI)—Ulcer patients who have had a portion of their stomachs removed should stay away from fibrous foods, according to Dr. Alan Herschman of Long Island Jewish Hospital.

X-ray examination of a woman who became ill six years after such an operation revealed a bezoar (solid collection of undigested food) blocking her small intestine. She said she ate two oranges and six figs or other dried fruit a day. Her partial stomach, unable to function as a normal one would, simply could not digest foods high in fiber and cellulose content.

New Mexico Towns Freely Use Names Known Elsewhere

By PATRICK LAMB
ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—Hollywood isn't only in California. Des Moines isn't just in Iowa, and you don't have to hijack an airliner to get to Cuba—they're all in New Mexico.

And if you think things aren't too pleasant in Pleasant, just remember, you could be in Hell—but still stay in the Land of Enchantment.

New Mexico, as it wandered through hundreds of years of recorded history, picked up a list of unusual names.

Most of the state's earliest town and place names were Spanish, due to the influence of the conquistadors who came here in the 16th century. But the Anglos, 200 years later, had difficulty with the Spanish language, and made no bones about changing names to suit them.

Anglos who had trouble fumbling around with "Hacienda de San Juan Bautista del Ojito del Rio de Las Gallinas Grant" changed it simply to "Preston Beck Grant."

Albuquerque, originally named after the Duke of Albuquerque of Spain, lost an "R" in its spelling somewhere in its history, and the misspelling stuck. The Anglos were probably to blame.

If Hell Cayon, located in the Manzano Mountains southeast of Albuquerque, is a little too hot for you, you can go to "Heck Canyon."

Des Moines was named after its bigger cousin in Iowa, while Hollywood was named after Hollywood, Fla.

If you're afraid you might meet your Waterloo in Waterloo, you might regroup your forces at Headquarters, or you could turn chicken and high-tail it to High Lonesome.

Whatever the man cooked in "Frying Pan Canyon," in the Kelly Mountains, apparently started bothering him in "Grumble Gulch" and really hit him about the time he reached "Gut Ache Mesa." History says the mesa actually got its name because a cowboy cook warmed over some soured frijoles (beans) and stopped roundup operations for one day while the crew recovered.

Visitors to Crooked Creek might also enjoy Bent, named for a miner in the area.

If the gambler found his luck a little cool at "Poker Lake," he could try for a better deal at

"Chance City."

New Mexico also has a menagerie in its place names, with sprinklings of "Bears," "Beavers," "Cows," "Horses," one "Lizard," a "Rattlesnake" and a "Rat."

For those too formal to live in "Lucy," there's always "Lucille." Or if you prefer the Spanish flair, there's "Lucia."

First Museum Of Playing Cards

TURNHOUT, Belgium (UPI)—The first playing card museum in Europe has been established in this town north of Antwerp by Belgian Minister for Cultural Affairs Frans van Mechelen.

Organizers say there are three other major playing card collections in Europe, but all are part of other museums. Turnhout has been an internationally reputed playing card manufacturing center for two centuries.

There are 225,000 public highway-railroad grade crossings in the United States.

State Capitol Receives Moore Portrait On Friday

By H. G. JONES
N.C. Dept. of Archives and History
Written For The AP
RALEIGH (AP)—The official portrait of former governor—
now associate justice — Dan Moore will be presented to the state at a ceremony in the State Capitol at 3 p.m. Friday. Gov.
Bob Scott will accept the painting for the state.

The embarrassment of having no likeness of some of the state's early governors led the General Assembly in 1955 to instruct the director of the state Department of Archives and History "to select some skilled artist to paint a portrait of the Governor, and have the same suitably framed." Gov. Luther

H. Hodges became the first governor to have his portrait painted under this law while in office, but paintings have been done of several other former governors and for Hodges's successors, Terry Sanford and Dan Moore. These paintings will hang in the main entry hall of the Executive Mansion.

Moore's portrait is the work of Paul Trebilcock of New York.
The former chief executive is shown in a standing position with a familiar North Carolina product — a cigarette — in his hand. Those who have had a peek at it pronounce it a remarkable likeness.

The newly appointed associate justice chose as the main speaker for the ceremony Edward L.

Rankin, Jr., now executive vice president and secretary of the North Carolina Citizens Association, who served Moore as director of administration. Rankin has been the confidant of three governors — Umstead, Hodges, and Moore. Few North Carolinians are as familiar with the workings of state government and with modern administrative history.

Presiding at the ceremony, which is open to the public, will be Associate Justice Joseph Branch. Interestingly enough, he was chosen before Moore was appointed by Scott to take a seat on the court with Branch.

State Treasurer Edwin Gill, who served as chairman of a committee appointed to advise the Department of Archives and History in the selection of an artist, will present the portrait.
It will be unveiled by the Moore

grandchildren, Jeanelle Moore
Hamilton and Edgar Blanton
Hamilton, Jr. Scott will then accept the portrait on behalf of the state.

Moore was born April 2, 1906, in Asheville, the son of Fred and Lela Enloe Moore. He is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of North Carolina where he received degrees in business administration and law. He served various posts in Jackson County, including one session in the State House of Representatives. For ten years he was judge of the 30th Judicial District. He was division counsel and assistant-secretary of the Champion Papers, Inc.,

of Canton, when he announced his candidacy for governor in 1964.

It is interesting to note the temper of the General Assembly when it adopted legislation fourteen years ago to provide for the portrait of all future governors. The law stipulates that "none of said portraits shall be acquired that are done in techniques known as ultra-modern,
non-objective, surrealist, abstract, or impressionistic."

Killer Bees Spreading In S. America

By JOHN VIRTUE
SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI)—The killer offspring of 26 African queen bees which escaped from an apiary 13 years ago have started to spread throughout South America.

The agriculture department in Brasilia said the bees have already crossed south into Argentina and west into Paraguay and Bolivia. It said the bees will probably enter Uruguay next year.

Within Brazil, the bees have travelled as far north as Fortaleza, 1,500 miles distant, where the latest fatality occurred. A six-year-old boy died almost instantly after being attacked by a swarm of the bees.

When the bees were imported from Africa in 1956, Brazil was well on the way to becoming the world's third largest honey producer after Russia and the United States. However, the fierce offspring of the African bees drove so many honey producers out of business that by 1967 Brazil had become an importer of the product.

The man who introduced the African bee, genetics professor Warwick Kerr of the Ribeirao Preto school of medicine in Sao Paulo state, has received threatening letters from victims and producers forced out of business.

Regret
"If I could," he once said, "I'd put all the African bees in a ship and send them back to Africa."

When Kerr imported 170 African queens from Tanganyika in 1956 he knew they were fierce, but he hoped to transmit their high honey yield to tamer Brazilian bees.

His experiment went awry when one of his workmen left open a door to a screened hive, allowing 26 queens to escape.

Five years ago the offspring of these escaped bees started to appear on the scene, attacking in swarms and invading domestic hives. The fatal victims included both man and beast.

The agriculture department, which recently completed a study on the bees, said 20 per cent of the offspring were as fierce as the pure African bees, 70 per cent were moderately fierce while the remaining 10 per cent were tame. It said the ideal solution to the problem would be further cross-breeding with tamer Italian bees.

Will Attend State Meet

Dr. Tom Chambliss of the East Carolina University School of Education will attend a meeting of the State Committee on Student Teaching, of which he is a member, at Lenoir Rhyne College in Hickory Friday.

Dr. Sam Hill, student teaching coordinator for the State Department of Public Instruction, explained that the committee of 25 persons represents colleges, universities, public schools, college students, professional organizations, and the Department. The committee's responsibilities include promoting new and promising practices and ideas on student teaching, evaluating suggestions, advising and assisting in the coordination of student teaching activities in the State, and receiving assignments from the Advisory Council on Teacher Education, Dr. Hill said.

Dr. Chambliss is a director of student teaching at ECU.

Post Office To Be Open Longer On Saturdays

The Greenville Post Office and the ECU substitution will remain open Saturday from 8:30 until 5 p.m.

According to Postmaster Joe Dudley, local residents have been busy mailing Christmas packages.

Christmas cards should be mailed locally by Dec. 15 for guaranteed delivery before Christmas. Mailing early will make the work load lighter on the postal workers, Dudley said.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP)—House-Senate conferees have worked out a compromise that would accept the plans of both chambers for fixing the Capitol's crumbling west front.

The compromise puts off until next year a final selection of separate plans for the front. The House had approved $2 million to begin designing a $45 million extension on the west front. The Senate knocked that out and okayed $250,000 for a study on restoring the front in its present form.

The compromise adopted Tuesday by conferees keeps the money for both plans and allows Congress to decide between them after a special commission completes a feasibility study of restoration.

Winterville's Board Sets Hearing Dates

WINTERVILLE—The Winterville Board of Aldermen set two public hearings for January 5—one to consider amending the town's zoning ordinance and the other to hear views of residents on establishing a housing authority.

The aldermen, at their Monday night meeting, received a petition signed by 27 local residents asking for the creation of a housing authority for the Town of Winterville, according to Town Clerk Elwood Nobles. Nobles said citizens will be given full opportunity to be heard on the question at the January 5 hearing, set for 7:30 p. m. in the town office.

The hearing is designed to determine whether or not there is a need for an authority to function in Winterville.

If such an authority is formed, Nobles said, the town may apply for 50 public housing units.

The zoning hearing was set for January 5 at 7 p. m. The hearing, Nobles said, will be on the question of amending the ordinance to prohibit the construction of multiple family dwellings in residential districts of the town.

At present, he explained, the ordinance now allows any size (number of families) dwellings in any part of town.

Aldermen also granted permission to Robinson Union School to hold their homecoming parade December 16. The parade will travel from the school downtown and then return to the school.

Tree-Lighting On Campus

East Carolina University's first Christmas tree lighting was held just after darkness fell yesterday on Wright Circle and the adjacent mall.

The program was concluded with carol singing by the entire assemblage under Miss Mumford's direction.

A Union decorating party, to which all interested students were invited, immediately followed the ceremony.

Rose Blows 14-Point Lead In Second Half Disaster

By WOODY PEELE Reflector Sports Editor

There is an old saying about not counting your chickens. It might well apply to counting victories.

Last night, the Rose High Rampants counted a victory before it was hatched, and it turned out that someone had slipped a china egg in the basket. East Carteret rallied from as far as 14 points down and took a 56-52 victory over the lack-luster Rampants.

After a fine first half, the Rampants laid down on the job. It looked too easy for them. They had already beaten East Carteret once in the opening game of the season, and Rose was well on its way again. It was only 27-15 at the half, and a quick basket by Ray Peszko made it 29-15, a nice 14-point bulge that appeared ready to be much larger.

But somebody forgot to tell East Carteret that they were going to lose. For the rest of the game, they outran, outthisted, outshot and outbounced the Rampants, who didn't do much more than stand around and spectate. Few times during the remaining 15 and a half minutes did they get a rebound, and most of their shots appeared half-hearted. Many never got above the rim.

East Carteret had pushed out into the opening lead on a basket from underneath by Billy Best. Willie Smith tied it up for Rose, and continued to do so on three straight shots as the Mariners continued to hold off Rose. But finally, with 3:56 left in the period, Billy Clark hit a jumper to put Rose into the lead. Peszko followed with a tap, and Clark hit on two foul shots to run the lead out to 12-6 with 2:54 to play in the quarter.

The Mariners finally got back on the board as Mike Copes connected on a jumper, but a basket by Smith pushed Rose out by six again. With three seconds left, Best connected again, cutting it to four, but Smith was fouled at the horn, and made the shot for a 15-10 lead.

Early in the second period, Charlie Harris was fouled and made both putting Rose into a seven-point lead, 17-10. After the two teams swapped buckets, Mike Harrington hit on three straight, and that rushed Rose away to a 13-point edge, 25-12 with 1:41 to go in the half.

East Carteret got a foul shot by Doug Lewis and a bucket along the baseline by Joel Hancock, cutting the margin back to 10, but Harris hit in the last 30 seconds to make it 27-15 at the half.

Peszko made his tap-shot in the opening 10 seconds of the second half, but after that, East Carteret took complete control of the game. Hancock hit from underneath, and then Alton Best, the leading Mariner scorer, who had been cut off until now, hit, and the lead fell to 10. Lewis followed up with a basket, and Alton Best hit again, and the Rose lead had shrunk to 29-23 with five minutes to go in the frame.

Smith and Harris each picked up a basket to push the Rose lead back to 10, and Joe Hunter dropped in a free throw to make it 34-23. But in the rest of the period, Rose managed only five points, while East Carteret was dumping in 15.

Hancock hit a jumper, then scored on two free throws. Alton Best copied him, and the lead fell to three, 34-31 with 1:58 left. Smith hit, but Best matched him, and after Harrington hit, Billy Best dropped in a hook. Alton Best stole the ball and cut the margin to one, and a foul shot by Billy Best with 11 seconds left tied it at 38-38.

Harris got a foul shot with one second left, and Rose held a 39-38 margin with eight minutes to go.

Peszko hit on a jumper at the start of the period to push Rose back out by three, but a corner shot by Lewis cut the lead to one again. Harris padded it with a foul shot, but Alton Best hit, tying it at 42-42 with 6:27 to go.

Six seconds later, Lewis was fouled, and dropped in both to push East Carteret into the lead at 44-42, and they never lost control after that. Peszko hit at the line to cut the lead to one, but two baskets by Alton Best moved the lead out to five. Rose got a shot by Peszko, but a free throw by Billy Best and a driving shot by Hancock upped the margin to six, 51-45 with 2:05 to play.

Rose battled back and finally cut the lead to two at 54-52 as Harrington hit on two, with 31 seconds left, but Billy Best calmly dropped in two foul shots with 20 seconds to play to seal the win.

Alton Best finished with 19 points, while Billy Best had 14 and Hancock had 12.

For Rose, Smith and Harrington each had 13.

The Rampants, now 2-1 play host to Roanoke Rapids, another team that they have already defeated on Friday.

Rampant Cubs Smash Mariners

Rose High School's junior varsity Rampant Cubs looked more like grizzly Lions Rampant last night as they mauled the East Carteret Baby Mariners, 103-42.

The Cubs could do no wrong in the game, as they ran and shot with great precision. They completely dominated the boards, and had little trouble with their opposition.

By the time the first period was over, Rose had built up a healthy 27-16 lead. Both teams cooled off in the second period, as the Cubs had their worst outpour with 18 points. East Carteret fell off to a 10-point production.

That left the Rampant Cubs in command, 45-26 at halftime. Liberally substituting, the Cubs still moved further and further in front. The third period saw them outscore East Carteret 27-12, and move into a 72-38 lead as the final period began.

The final period turned into a real slaughter. East Carteret found it difficult to move the ball

Bethel Surges Ahead At Half To Defeat Farmville By 82-66

By CARL TYER
Reflector Sports Writer
FARMVILLE — After trailing by six points at the end of the first quarter, Bethel's Indians came charging back in the second frame to pick up 31 points and go ahead of the Farmville Red Devils last night, eventually winning the game 82-66. The game was not all that easy after the second quarter though, as the Devils cut the Bethel lead to four points once late in the third quarter, before two of their starters fouled out.

Earlier in the evening, the Bethel girls had continued their win string by going by the Lady Devils easily, 44-22. The Bethel girls had trouble getting started in the early part of the game, ending the first quarter with seven points while Farmville had four, but the second frame saw Bethel get back into their old form, picking up 17, while the Lady Devils only had five, in their first game of the season.

Farmville continued to have a hard time hitting the basket as they had four in the third frame, while the Bethel squad fell off to seven again. Farmville's biggest quarter also saw Bethel pick up their production again, with the Devils pushing in nine to 13 for Bethel to end the game at 44-22.

Farmville did not have anyone in double figures, while Bethel was led by Susan James with 16, and Carolyn Whichard with 12.
Farmville's boys showed surprising accuracy in the first frame, in their first game of the year, putting the Indians on their heels in a fast moving quarter.
The Red Devils took the early lead, with Bethel tying it up once at four all before Cloyce Wilson put Farmville ahead for the first quarter. The Devils extended their lead to 15-7 before Bethel started finding the range to cut the lead to 19-13 at the buzzer.

The Devils hopes of continuing their first frame pace was soon diminished in the second quarter, as the Indians came on hot and heavy pushing in 31 points to go into the dressing room with a 44-22 lead, ending a surprising come back. Bethel used a fast break, and accurate outside shots to make their come back good, however Farmville was not to be taken lightly as they did some reviving of their own in the second half, cutting

Wolves Fall To Vanceboro

VANCEBORO — Vanceboro pulled away from Winterville in the final period to take a 66-54 victory over the Wolves last night. But the Winterville girls took a 27-24 victory in their game.
Winterville's Wolf Gals inched out into a 43 lead in the first period, but Vanceboro came on strong to outscore them, 9-4 in the second period. Vanceboro led at the half, 12-8.
Winterville came back strong in the third period, dumping in 13 points, while holding Vanceboro to four, and that pushed the Wolf Gals back on top 21-16. In the final period, Vanceboro managed to outwit Winterville, 8-6, but it wasn't enough.
June Hall and Alexne Dewes each picked up 10 points for Winterville, while Dianne Neal had 12 for Vanceboro.
The Vanceboro boys edged out into a 15-11 lead in the first period, and outhit Winterville, 13-10, in the second frame. Vanceboro held a 28-21 lead at halftime.

Winterville rallied in the third period, and outscored Vanceboro, 17-13, cutting the lead to 41-38. Finally, in the final period, Winterville, tied it up at 43-43, but Vanceboro pulled away after that and rolled to the win.

Sugg Defeats Bethel Union

FARMVILLE — H.B. Sugg High School rolled to a 103-81 victory over Bethel Union High School last night.

Bethel Union slipped out into a 22-20 lead in the first period, and the game remained close throughout the second period. Sugg, however, outpointed Bethel, 26-20, and edged out into a 46-42 lead at intermission.

In the third period, Sugg did most of the damage, pushing in 29 points, while Bethel Union fell off to only 15. That left Sugg in full command with a 75-57 lead with eight minutes to go.

Sugg then outlasted Bethel, 28-24, down to the wire, to hold on and win handily.

Brown led Bethel Union with 28, while Moore had 18 and Williams had 13.

For Sugg, Roger Forbes and Ivey Cradle each had 16 points. Donald Gay and Ronald Edmond each had 15, Richard Gay had 12 and Lindsay Eason had 11.

Bear Grass Nips Bath

BEAR GRASS—Bear Grass and Bath fought out two tough basketball games last night, with the home team winning both by one point in each case.
The Bear Grass girls took theirs 22-21 while the boys had a larger 75-74 total.

The Bear Grass girls had a six point lead at the end of the first frame, and had it cut by one at the half by Bath to make it 14-8. In the third quarter, Bath again cut it by one, with six to five points for Bear Grass, then the final frame saw them pick up seven to four for the home team to make it very tight at the buzzer. Neither team had anyone in double figures.

The boys game proved to be just as exciting, except the Bath squad had to make more of a return in the final frame than the girls.

Bear Grass led 40-19 at the half, but Bath come back with 19 in the third to 17 for Bear Grass, then got hot in the final quarter picking up 36 points to 18 for Bear Grass. With four seconds left to play, Bear Grass was leading by three, and just managed to hold onto their 75-74 win.

10 things America's new small cars won't talk about.

Nova talks about things those new little cars prefer not to mention. For instance, (1) a cargo-guard luggage compartment; (2) an extra set of fenders inside the fenders; (3) flush and dry rocker panels that help prevent rust and corrosion; (4) a quality built Body by Fisher; (5) Magic-Mirror acrylic lacquer finish; (6) a firm, steady ride programmed by computer-selected springs; (7) six different engines and five transmissions available; (8) an available lighting group that even includes a monitor for your windshield washer fluid; (9) radios you can order, with antennas built right into the windshield and (10) the availability of a new, more compact radio/stereo tape system. America's little cars don't offer them. Nova does. Nova also has a very appealing price. And a lot of loyal friends. Wonder why.

Black Soldiers Air Grievances At Army 'Seminar'

By RICHARD DAW
Associated Press Writer
FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP) — Glaring across the dimly lit room, the Negro private spat out the words bitterly as the white colonel leaned forward to listen.

"The Army's a lot of hypocrisy, always talking about equality when everybody knows that right outside the base there's a Ku Klux Klan sign." On the other side of the room, another Negro soldier chimed in:

"You whites are just using us blacks to fight your battles." A third Negro added: "Whites don't ever want to see a black man make any rank. The white man has had his foot on the black man's neck for so long he doesn't want to let him get up."

The scene Tuesday was a session of a unique interracial seminar at sprawling Ft. Bragg, home of the Army's crack 82nd Airborne Division, training center for the Green Beret Special Forces, and site of a new organization of Negro soldiers calling themselves the Black Brigade.

Col Charles K. Nulsen had opened the session by telling the participants, all lower grade enlisted men, that the seminar was aimed at "getting to the root causes of racial tension." "You can talk frankly, without danger of recrimination," Nulsen told the nine Negroes and six whites seated in a wide circle in a building which serves as an enlisted men's club at night.

Many of them did talk frankly, sprinkling their conversation with obscenities despite the

Assembly's Baby: Scott

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott reiterated Tuesday it is up to the 1971 General Assembly to decide whether the state should acquire Bald Head Island near Southport.

It was disclosed over the weekend by Charles E. Fraser of Hilton Head Island, S. C., that he would not, at least for the present, purchase the island from Frank Sherrill of Charlotte. He had an option to do so for $5.5 million.

"I think the state ought to make a determination of what it wants to do with it (Bald Head) and what best use could be made of the island and then decide whether or not it's going to acquire it," Scott said.

"But obviously this has got to be an action of the General Assembly," the governor added in his comment to a newsman. "We just don't have $5.5 million lying around that we can go out and plunk down on the table.

presence of a chaplain among the half-dozen members of Nulsen's panel. But few of them cited any specific cases.

"You can call me anything you want to," said one Negro, Vaughn Phipps, 27, of Chattanooga, Tenn. "You can even call me nigger if you want to. But treat me like a man."

James Earl Ray To Get Hearing

NASHVILLE Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray will receive a federal court hearing Dec. 29 on his complaint about the conditions of his confinement at the state penitentiary, where he is serving 99 years for the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Fixing the date Tuesday, U.S. District Judge William E. Miller directed that Ray be delivered in court "under proper security precautions."

Ray seeks the right to mingle with other prisoners, from whom he has so far been separated because penitentiary officials say his life might be in danger.

A few minutes later, Phipps charged that the Army "decided to integrate just because they figured they could save some money by cutting out dual facilities."

The charge brought Col. James R. Francis, a white observer, leaping to his feet to retort: "I commanded the first integrated unit in the Third Army, and I categorically deny that. Money had nothing to do with the decision."

Walt Guntharp, 23, white son of a career Army officer and member of a dissident organization called GIs United, suggested that similar seminars be held in small units throughout the post. Nulsen said they might.

"Do you feel that just being able to talk about racial prejudices and problems helps to ease tension?" Nulsen asked.

"Yes, sir," I do," Guntharp replied. "A few of us get together sometimes and rap things out, and it helps."

In an interview after the session, Nulsen said a report on the six-day Bragg seminar would be sent to the Army chief of staff, Gen. William Westmoreland, to see whether the system could be used elsewhere.

"I know this is going to help ease racial tension at Ft. Bragg," Nulsen said. "But to what extent I don't know."

Asked how serious racial tensions are at Ft. Bragg, Nulsen replied: "I think the situation is serious, but I don't think it's anything near explosive. We aren't on the verge of any riot."

No participant in the session disagreed with Nulsen. But the soldiers found plenty to complain about, much of it far removed from racial problems.

"We just have to realize that America is a racist society and the Army is a reflection of it,"

Propose Boycott Of Cut Trees

SEATTLE (AP) — The committee on Environmental Crisis at the University of Washington has urged the public to boycott the sale of cut Christmas trees.

"The public should demand that Christmas trees be sold live, not cut," said Terry Cornelius, student head of the committee.

said Frederik Penn, 20, of Warrenton, Va., and organizer of the Black Brigade.

"We've been told to be patient for a long time now," Penn said, "and our patience is beginning to wear thin."

Penn said the Black Brigade is attracting between 50 and 100 Negroes to its meetings after having been in operation for about three weeks on the 50,000 man base.

The Brigade's purpose, he said, is to bring to the Army's attention problems of discrimination encountered by Negroes.

"From what we've seen so far, the Brigade has the potential for being a constructive force," Nulsen said.

Sitting at Nulsen's side during the three-hour seminar, Penn told the group: "The system itself must change. The Army can make all kinds of laws and regulations, but you can't change a person's heart and mind overnight."

Several heads around the room nodded in agreement.

Participants were selected from volunteers in various units with separate sessions held for lower grade enlisted men, non-commissioned officers and officers. The last of the seminars, which began last week, was scheduled today.

An Individual Or Group Can Save A Child

Herman, a 14-year-old American Indian boy, has been a friend of Mrs. Albert J. Peralton of 124 N. Eastern St., Greenville, for five years.

Mrs. Peralton has sponsored Herman, a boy of the Navajo tribe, through Save the Children Federation (SCF), an international child welfare organization with headquarters in Norwalk, Conn.

Herman needed a friend in the non-Indian world, because his family is beset by poverty and he himself felt isolated from the other children in school because he could not afford to take part in activities.

Herman's father's income is barely adequate to cover the basic necessities for his five children. Employment opportunities are scarce in the isolated community in Arizona in which the family lives, and the father's education is limited.

The family lives with an elderly grandmother in a dome-shaped, one room hogan made of mud and logs. Water must be hauled in from a distant well, and there are only kerosene lamps for light.

Being able to participate in school activities has increased Herman's self-confidence, his teachers report. His school attendance is regular and his academic ability is average.

Correspondence between the sponsor and child is a vital element of the sponsorship. SCF has for more than 21 years assisted needy American Indian children, their families and their communities.

Founded in 1932, SCF aids children, their families and communities in the Southern Appalachian Mountains, on the American Indian reservations and in many countries abroad, through the self-help child, family, community sponsorship program, assigned on either a loan or grant basis; an international self-help scholarship fund, annual collections of used clothing for the children of Appalachia, and an Emergency Fund for sponsored children and their families.

An individual, school or group interested in sponsoring a child should contact SCF, Post Road, Norwalk, Conn., 06852.

All contributions are tax deductible.

Business School Honor Society Inducts Three

Pi Omega Pi, national honor society for future business teachers at East Carolina University, has announced the initiation of three new members.

Beta Kappa chapter at ECU has initiated Wanda Sue Amos, daughter of Mrs. Evelyn W. LaFore, 510 Alleghany Road, Fayetteville; Kathryn P. Hinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.A. Powell, Warsaw; and H. James Watts, son of Mr. and Mrs. H.J. Watts, Route 3, Whiteville.

Pi Omega Pi requires its members to have a scholastic average which places them within the upper 35 percent of their university class; a B or better average in 22 quarter hours of business education and education courses; and enrollment in a curriculum that will lead to certification as a teacher of business education.

Clearing House For All Arrests

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI)—The Wyoming Bureau of Identification serves the state of Wyoming law enforcement agencies as a central clearing house for arrest records where fingerprints are involved and for stolen property reports.

The WBI procures, classifies and files pictures, fingerprints, measurements and other information on wanted persons and all persons convicted of a crime. A national, intrastate and interstate exchange of identification and information is carried on by the bureau to make all information readily available to all law enforcement agencies.

Beta Kappa Chapter has ranked among the top ten chapters in the nation since 1952, having been selected as the nation's best three times during that period.

Dr. Audrey Dempsey and Frances Daniels, faculty members in the School of Business, are chapter sponsors.

Auto Litter By The Mile

Each month American motorists drop an average of 1,304 pieces of litter for every mile of the nation's vast network of interstate and primary highways—nearly 16,000 pieces per mile per year.

This found the first national survey of roadside litter, sponsored by Keep America Beautiful, Inc. The survey was conducted by the Highway Research Board of the National Academy of Sciences in cooperation with the highway departments of 29 participating states. The study showed an average monthly accumulation of about one cubic yard per mile.

Paper items accounted for 59 percent of total roadside litter. The rest was 16 per cent cans, 6 per cent plastic items, 6 per cent bottles and jars and 13 per cent miscellaneous—tires, lumber and a variety of unclassified items ranging from hair curlers, underwear and false teeth to ice chests and washing machines.

Traffic 'Lights' For The Blind

ALICANTE, Spain (UPI)—Four special traffic lights for blind people have been put in operation and officials claim they are the first in the world.

The lights, which flash the usual red, yellow and green for the sighted, are equipped with a carillon which emits music three seconds after the green light goes on. The first "audiotraffic lights" have been set up in the area of the local headquarters of the National Blind People Association.

Tommy Sands In Dude Ranch Business Again Going Strong

TOMMY SANDS, who slipped from teenage adoration to obscurity, finds it easier going up the second time around. (UPI Telephoto)

By JOHN LEAHIGH
ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—The prohibition era mobster, Al Capone, used to put up his "boys" in New Mexico at a dude ranch in—appropriately enough—a secluded valley.

Capone and his gang are long gone but the guest ranch he once owned—the Lazy Ray—is going strong.

Located in the Jemez Mountains northwest of here, the Lazy Ray is a dude ranch in the traditional sense. It offers trail rides, cookout breakfasts, chuckwagon dinners and pack trips as normal fare, plus the extra bonus of a trout stream flowing through the ranch.

Another New Mexico ranch with a history is the 50-year-old Bishop's Lodge, which takes its name from a chapel that was immortalized in Willa Cather's novel, "Death Comes for the Archbishop."

The chapel, built by Archbishop John B. Lamy in the 1870s, stands today on ranch property just out of Santa Fe, N.M. The Bishop's Lodge and the nearby Rancho Encantado are products of Spanish colonial culture, including the setting, the architecture, the furnishings and the hospitality.

Across New Mexico guest ranches can be found that offer swimming pools, tennis, golf, bird-watching, rockhounding, amateur archaeology and other specialized entertainment. Some even have their own airstrips.

They are found in the Sange de Cristo mountains in north-central New Mexico, in the enchanting and lush Pecos Wilderness in the high country of northeastern New Mexico and diagonally southwest across the state near the Gila Wilderness.

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD
HONOLULU (UPI) — Singer Tommy Sands, who slipped from teenage adoration to obscurity, has found it easier going up the second time.

He left the fast pace of Hollywood to find himself "in the serenity of the islands, and has emerged in the forefront of the competitive Waikiki entertainment scene.

Sands, the second highest paid entertainer here—Don Ho is top—just completed a year with the Outrigger Hotel, earning $600,000, and will have a network television special shown in January, with more to come.

He finds "life is good," living in a 19-room home on Oahu, with a beach house on Kauai Island 102 miles away.

The teen-age idol of a decade ago, when girls screamed at the mere sight of him, came to Hawaii in 1967 because, "I wasn't happy with myself."

Sands' five-year marriage to Nancy Sinatra had ended in divorce. "I was successful, but unhappy," he said.

In 1957, as the 17-year-old star of "The Singing Idol," a television special, Sands burst upon the entertainment scene.

"I've had the million sellers, I've done the movies, the television shows, the whole bit," Sands reminisced.

But looking back on his career, Sands frankly admitted, "I wasn't as good as I wanted to be. I wasn't an artist."

"Even then I was searching, searching for what I've found here.

"I've relaxed, and in this beautiful environment I've matured and so has my singing. "I have no desire to go back to Hollywood."

The boyish smile still remains and so does the jet black hair, now worn mod style. But instead of rock 'n roll, Sands, approaching 30, has turned to folk songs, blues and melodies of the islands to woo his audiences.

"Entertainers can be more honest today," Sands said. "It used to be that you couldn't be photographed with a cigarette or a drink in your hand."

"And the image of entertainers has broadened, too. In my day, stars were unreal, we were fantasyland. Now performers can be complete human beings and still be accepted."

Court OKs A Spanking

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — A 12-year-old boy, who pleaded guilty to stealing, was taken from Children's Court here by his father and spanked in a police cell.

The boy, whose name may not be reported, returned to the court with his father. Tears were streaming down the lad's face, and the father showed a reddened hand to Magistrate L. M. Wright. The charge was then dismissed.

The boy was said to have stolen purses from autos, and taken $7.50 ($8.30 U.S.) from them. The magistrate asked the father what he thought should be done, and the father said, "I'd like to give him a good thrashing." The magistrate then adjourned the case for a few minutes.

Magistrate Wright acted under the Social Welfare Act which permits a near relative to punish a child in a manner approved by the court.

of 130 balloons each year to unlock secrets of the upper atmosphere needed for spaceflights and manned space stations.

The huge, high-altitude balloons the Air Force shifted to in 1965 were considerably cheaper and much easier to launch than satellites used previously for near-space exploration.

The Air Force also has found that much more information could be received from the huge balloons which drift up to altitudes of 160,000 feet.

"Ballooning is much cheaper than sending up rockets with satellites," said Henry Novak, Cambridge Research Laboratories information director. "But our main reason for the use of balloons today is their capability to carry a payload to a precise altitude and keep it there. Satellite's can't do this. If they come too close to the earth, they will burn up. They also can't be maneuvered in the way balloons can."

Novak, noting that a satellite shot could soar into the millions of dollars, said balloon launchings cost in the hundreds of thousands of dollars and less. Another major consideration in switching to balloons was

Norwegians Areas Roadless

OSLO (UPI)—About 30,000 Norwegians live in rural communities with no road connections with the outside world, according to the Ministry of Communications, but the situation is being alleviated, says the Ministry of Communications.

The number of "roadless" Norwegians has been reduced about 20,000 in the last two years and the ministry says it is expected the problem will be eliminated in a comparatively short time.

Proposes New Approach For Language Arts

A different approach to teaching language arts is being recommended by an East Carolina University professor.

Dr. John D. Ebbs, professor of English at ECU, recommends the use of the linguistic approach in teaching language arts, an approach which "will de-emphasize considerably the rigid standards of right and wrong language usage, correct and incorrect."

This recommendation came in his article, "Linguistics and Language Arts," published in the November issue of North Carolina Education. According to Dr. Ebbs, "The article makes clear the meaning of linguistics and shows its rather indispensable place in the language arts program. Indicating that there is at present a lack of materials in the areas of modern linguistics, a primary emphasis of the article is the adoption by language arts teachers of the linguistic approach."

Dr. Ebbs continued by explaining that the linguistic approach "will emphasize the analysis and acceptance of the level of language usage of each child, with the end of always building onto and enriching this level."

HIPPO WAS TOO MUCH
PORTELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — A thick-skinned hippo was too tough for a pride of lions in the Kruger National Park, South Africa's largest game reserve. A national Parks Board newsletter related how the lions pulled down a hippopotamus which had been injured in a fight. The sharp fangs of the big cats couldn't penetrate the hide of the ponderous carcass. After trying for three days to tear some meat from the hippo, they gave up in disgust.

The bidding:
North East South West
1 NT Pass 3 Pass

Opening lead: Three of ♣

An unorthodox but nevertheless well thought out defensive play led to the defeat of South's four spade contract.

West opened the three of clubs, the nine was played from dummy and East won the trick with the king. Before proceeding, he paused to consider the defense's prospects. From the appearance of the dummy it appeared that—aside from East's ace of trumps—there were no more tricks available in spades, diamonds or clubs. West couldn't have too much in clubs, for if he held both the queen and jack, the correct lead would be the top of his sequence. Any diamond honors located in the West hand would be readily finessable.

The only hope for the defense to score two more tricks hinged on East's

You Can Learn Social Charm

Debby's case shows that social poise and charm are learned, just like piano playing. Winning friends is a case of social salesmanship. But star salesmen anticipate the objections from their prospects and memorize in advance the correct replies thereto. So send for the "Rating Scales" below.

BY GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE L-577: Debby, aged 8, is one of our 6 granddaughters. She and her brothers were visiting us over the weekend. "Good morning, Debby," I greeted her at breakfast. "How are you?"

"Fine," she replied with a smile.

"Debby," I replied, "if you wish to win friends and be popular, whenever people ask, 'How are you?' then you should reply with, 'Fine, thank you, how are you.'"

"For that answer contains 3 important parts.

"When you say 'Fine,' you merely respond to their question.

"But if you also add a 'Thank you,' that shows your appreciation of the other person's interest in your health.

"And if you also add that 3rd part as you inquire, 'How are you,' then you are called an extrovert and rate a gold star.

"So I'll start again and ask, 'Good morning, Debby, how are you?' and now let me hear your answer."

She grinned and replied: "Fine, thank you, how are you?"

"Perfect," I replied, as I patted her on the head.

"Grandpa," she added quickly, "let's try it on Matthew and Peter."

So I nodded assent and when Matthew arrived a few moments later, I greeted him with a "Good morning, Matthew, how are you?"

"O.K.," he answered.

Then Debby chimed in and passed along the same tutoring that I had just given her.

After which, I again greeted him and he gave the 3-part correct reply.

Both Debby and Matthew now wanted to have Peter tested, so I soon greeted him and inquired, "How are you?"

Like the others, he gave me the monosyllabic "Fine," so we drilled him on the correct response.

By this time they were all eager to try this simple psychological test on others, so we used it on their mother and she "flunked" it, too.

Even their Grandma, being preoccupied with kitchen chores, likewise flunked it.

But that entire weekend, we tested each other, as well as all our guests.

And soon the children were rating a perfect score whenever anybody greeted them and asked that routine query about their health.

The reason I mention this little experiment in practical psychology is to show that there is usually a correct formula for meeting all the situations in life that may confront us.

And the sooner we can teach children the proper solutions, the faster they will be launched upon the road to social and even financial success.

A star salesman doesn't blunder around with spur-of-the-moment replies to a prospect's queries.

No, indeed, for a super salesman has anticipated all the usual responses and has memorized in advance the successful replies to them.

Same goes for our social contacts in life, such as learning how to carry on gay repartee while on a date and thus putting your escort at ease.

Good parents not only teach moral precepts to their kiddies but also dissect the social situations in advance and train them in the right strategy.

Tutor your children in how to answer the telephone and what to do say when strangers offer them candy or invite them to enter their auto.

So send for my 200-point "Test for Parents," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Air Force Will Pull 30 B52s Out Of Action

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is pulling the equivalent of two squadrons of B52 bombers out of the air war in Southeast Asia.

According to Air Force officers, 30 stratofortresses will be returned to the United States to reinforce the strategic bomber force or to be used in training assignments.

The removal comes at a time when North Vietnam is stepping up infiltration into South Vietnam at a rate tentatively estimated at about 20,000 men a month.

Infiltration routes have been a prime target of the B52s.

The action leaves the United States with three B52 squadrons in Southeast Asia, plus dozens of smaller fighter-bombers that can be used in the air war.

Defense spokesmen say the cutback reflects in part a Pentagon decision earlier this year to scale down the big bomber missions as a means of saving money.

Each B52 flight costs about $50,000.

The pullout also appeared possible in view of the lowered enemy activity just prior to the upsurge in infiltration of the last few weeks.

According to Pentagon officers, Army Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, originally frowned upon giving up some of the B52 missions, which he considered one of the big weapons in the war.

But Abrams went along with the reduction.

The Pentagon originally budgeted for 1,800 B52 sorties per month. Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird decided last spring, however, that figure could be reduced to 1,600.

Actually, the average rate has gone lower than 1,600 sorties in recent weeks, according to Pentagon sources.

Laird briefly mentioned the two squadron reduction Thursday during an appearance before a Senate subcommittee on defense appropriations.

The defense chief said the three remaining full B52 squadrons provides 45 to 60 planes to wield against the North Vietnamese in Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Reports from Saigon on Monday indicated as many as 400 American planes daily were attacking the Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos.

This indicated to Pentagon observers that tactical air power to a large extent was taking up the slack created by the ordered reduction in B52 sorties.

Goldberg Rules Out Candidacy

NEW YORK (AP) — Calling his decision "final and not subject to change," former U.S. Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg says he will not be a candidate for governor or U.S. senator in the 1970 New York elections.

Goldberg, who faced a primary fight if he sought the Democratic party nomination for either post, announced his decision in a brief statement Tuesday evening.

Asks Divorce On 2nd Anniversary

LOS ANGELES (AP) — On their second wedding anniversary, actor Robert Culp has sued actress France Nuyen for divorce.

The petition filed Monday by Culp, formerly featured in the "I Spy" television series, alleged extreme cruelty. He said he and Miss Nuyen separated Nov. 2.

Culp is 39, his wife 30. Their marriage was the third for each.
