

Nixon Spells Out Objections Senate Finally Reaches Tax Reform Vote Stage

By JOE HALL, Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — After nearly two weeks of heated debate, the Senate reached the final voting stage today on a far-reaching tax reform bill laden with new Social Security benefits and income tax slashes unacceptable to President Nixon.

Passage sends the measure to conference with the House almost immediately, where leaders say there is little doubt many of the Senate amendments will be stripped away.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee who will be chairman of the conference committee, predicted a compromise bill will be worked out by the end of next week.

As first approved in the Senate Finance Committee, the measure would have granted $9 billion in tax relief while bringing in $6.7 billion in new revenue.

But floor amendments ballooned the relief figure to more than $11 billion while trimming the new revenue figure to $6 billion.

Nixon said he would veto the measure if it contained the increase in the income tax exemption from $600 to $800 and the 15 per cent across-the-board boost in Social Security benefits.

Democratic leaders privately discounted the veto threat. They said the key Senate amendments will be changed in conference to make them acceptable to the President.

Senators worked more than 13 hours Wednesday to get the bill into position for passage.

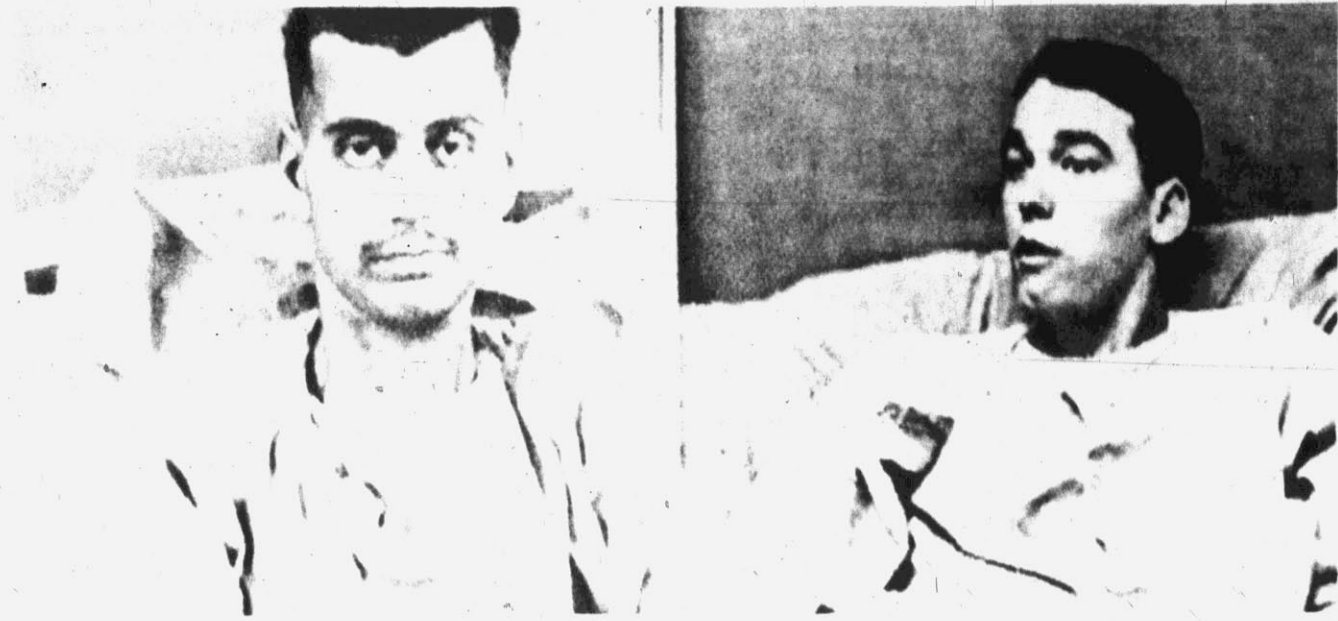

The Senate adopted amendments easing restrictions on real estate businesses, small oil producers and tacked on a trade rider that would authorize the President to impose quotas when an import threatened a domestic product.

The measure contains the biggest social security increase in history and the second largest income tax cut in history.

The Social Security boost would provide a $100 minimum monthly payment for an individual, an 82 per cent increase over the present $55, and a 15 per cent increase for all of the other 25 million beneficiaries.

The House version contains no provision for boosts in Social Security benefits, although it is considering a separate bill on the matter.

More than half of the $11 billion in tax relief provided in the Senate bill would come through an increase in the personal income tax exemption in two steps starting in 1970. This contrasts with the House measure which would grant relief chiefly through a reduction in tax rates in all income brackets effective in 1972 and 1973.

Israeli Jets Casualties Up Raid Syria, On Both Sides Bag MIGs In S. Vietnam

By MARCUS ELIASON, Associated Press Writer TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli planes raided Syria in force today and shot down three Syrian MIGs in a dogfight southeast of Damascus, the Israeli military command announced.

A Syrian communique reported large formations of Israeli Phantoms, Mirages and Skyhawks attacked Syrian airports and military targets. It said the Syrian air force intercepted the raiders, and Syrian anti-aircraft guns went into action, but there was no immediate report of casualties or damage from Damascus.

An Israeli spokesman said all the attacking planes returned safely.

He said one of the Syrian pilots whose plane was hit was seen to bail out, a second plane exploded on the ground, and the third exploded in the air.

Israel now has claimed a total of 14 Syrian planes shot down since the 1967 war.

The raid apparently was in retaliation for a three-hour artillery duel in which Israeli and Syrian forces engaged Wednesday in the occupied Golan Heights. It was the biggest Syrian-Israeli ground clash since the 1967 war, and the Syrians claimed to have killed 26 Israelis. An Israeli spokesman said there were no Israeli casualties.

Two of the planes shot down today with MIG17s and the third was a MIG21, the Israeli spokesman said.

Residents of Damascus crowded rooftops to watch the dogfights shortly before noon.

It was the first time Israel's new American Phantoms were reported over Syria.

On the diplomatic front, the Israeli Cabinet told Secretary of State William P. Rogers to practice what he preaches and quit prescribing peace terms for Israel and her Arab foes.

The cabinet held a two-hour meeting to discuss Rogers' speech before Foreign Minister Abba Eban left Tel Aviv for Washington for talks Friday with Rogers.

'No Third Way', Declares Thieu

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu made one of his strongest attacks against advocates of a neutralist government tonight, declaring: "If we want liberty, democracy and prosperity, then we must stand on the side of the free world."

"If we want slavery and imprisonment then we side with the Communists," T said in a statement issued by his press secretary.

"There is no third way for us to choose," Thieu continued.

By GEORGE ESPER, Associated Press Writer SAIGON (AP) — Battlefield casualties increased considerably on all sides in South Vietnam last week, the allied commands reported today, but the toll of 100 Americans killed in action was well below the weekly average of 187 for the year.

The U.S. Command also announced the release of two U.S. helicopter crewmen after five weeks in enemy captivity. The men, WO Michael T. Peterson of Redmond, Wash., and Sgt. Vernon C. Shepard of Akron, Ohio were reported in generally good condition. Both are 21.

The total of U.S. combat dead last week was 43 per cent above the total for the week before, but the total of 392 Americans wounded was the lowest in that category in seven weeks.

The Saigon government reported 411 of its troops killed last week and 1,005 wounded, compared with 373 killed and 953 wounded the week before. The allied commands claimed a total of 2,469 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese killed, 205 more than a revised toll of 2,264 in the previous week.

South Vietnamese headquarters attributed the rise in casualties to increased enemy activity.

The weekly reports raised to 39,742 the number of U.S. troops officially reported killed in action in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961. Another 260,420 have been reported wounded. The allies claim 590,001 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed in that period. Peterson and Shepard were among six Americans shot down in three helicopters along the Cambodian border Nov. 2.

Two other crewmen are still missing, a fifth was found dead near the wreckage, and the sixth was rescued wounded.

An Army spokesman said Peterson and Shepard both had multiple fragmentation wounds and were suffering from "moderate malnutrition." Peterson lost two left toes, the spokesman added.

'Skyjacked' To N. Korea

SEOUL (AP) — A South Korean airliner with 51 persons aboard was hijacked to North Korea today. The government accused North Korea of "another example of piracy."

A passenger list issued by Korean Air Lines listed an American "Dr. Kims" aboard the plane. The U.S. Embassy said it was informed his name might be "Dickens," but a spokesman said no American of either name was registered as a resident of South Korea.

The other 46 passengers and four crew members were Koreans.

Federal Reserve Board Split Over Banking Inflation Fires

By JOHN M. PEARCE, Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — To the rising clamor over government measures designed to bank the fires of inflation gradually, add a split within the Federal Reserve Board.

Among the White House economic corps, however, the facade is as uniform as ever despite some pungent criticism from outsiders and ex-advisers.

Inside the independent "Fed," which is accustomed to presenting an unanimous face to the public when it talks of keeping or easing its restrictions on money and credit, board members Sherman J. Jaisel and George W. Mitchell have publicly dissented from their colleagues' status-quo position.

Ease up now, they argue, or credit will get so tight and money so short a financial crisis could result—and then, it may be too late to correct the conditions.

One such economist is J. L. Robertson, vice chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, who warned Wednesday "this psychological state must be changed." He dubbed it a psychosis.

"People must be made to realize—if not by reason, then by tighter and more painful controls—that the Federal Reserve will not abandon the purpose for which it was created, that the fires of inflation will be quenched," he said in Culpeper, Va.

There is more than a hint of psychological warfare in the anti-inflation program, despite the Fed's majority view and Nixon administration protests that it has taken serious steps to cut spending and balance the budget.

To Arthur M. Okun, the last chairman of Lyndon B. Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers, the situation is much as the Fed's Maisel and Mitchell see it.

He implied in a speech last week the other Fed governors may secretly feel the same way but, burned by similar experiences a couple of years ago, are afraid to "give any signal of relaxation" for fear it would set off another, worse round of inflation.

"If they could release a few dollars of reserves to banks under the table they'd do it," Okun said. He predicted they might do just that after Christmas, but without telling anyone.

But Maisel and Mitchell, outvoted at the Fed, also face stiff opposition elsewhere in the federal bureaucracy. One opponent of their ideas, Budget Director Robert P. Mayo, outlined his reasoning today in a speech written for delivery at the University of Washington in Seattle.

"It seems to me that the economy is in a state of delicate balance at the moment," he said. "Inappropriate actions at this time could tip the balance against us in our battle to curb inflation and could undo the impetus toward stability that is now beginning to appear."

Although he didn't spell it out, his argument followed the reasoning of a good many other economists in basic agreement that "inflationary psychology" is at the root of the problem.

Opposition To Mobile Plan Heard

TARBORO, N. C. (AP) — Several witnesses testified Wednesday they were opposed to a proposal by Seaboard Coastline Railroad to serve a 21-community area with mobile agency service.

The hearing was held before Marvin Wooten, an examiner for the Utilities Commission. He said attorneys would have 30 days to file briefs after they receive transcripts.

Wooten indicated a recommendation order would be made shortly after he receives the briefs.

The proposed mobile agency would cover a 118-mile route. Under the plan, eight agency depots would be closed.

Oak City Mayor J. C. Johnson and C. R. Neathery, a member of the Halifax Town Board, said their town boards had passed resolutions urging that the present agency service be retained.

Frank P. Shields, a Scotland Neck businessman, said he was "dependent almost entirely on the railroad, and while the new plan might serve my needs, I don't like it."

State Sen. Julian Allsbrook of Roanoke Rapids, presented two petitions opposing the proposal. One was signed by 31 persons from the Scotland Neck area and the other by 27 persons from the Halifax area.

Win Permit To Picket

Greenville police issued a permit to Gap—a local activist group to picket in downtown Greenville between 12 Noon and 1 p.m. today.

As issued, the permit allows pickets to operate in the 100 block of East Fifth Street, the 200 block of West Fifth Street, and the 300 and 400 blocks of Evans Street, according to Police Chief T.E. Gladson.

The application for the picketing permit said the picketing is designed to place pressure on the city council through Greenville merchants to "protest the denial of First Amendment right to minority groups" by the council.

Several Gap members were among 27 persons arrested here last week for parading without a permit.

Other Murders May Be Laid To Hippie Clan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Authorities reportedly are investigating whether 14 persons may have been killed by one or more members of a hippie-style nomadic cult.

Members of the clan already are charged in eight of the murders, including that of actress Sharon Tate.

The grim prospect of additional clan victims came to light just before today's arraignment of the Tate case's central figure, Charles M. Manson, 35, the wild-bearded clan leader whose followers call him "God" and "Satan."

Sheriff's deputies searched a movie ranch Wednesday near suburban Chatsworth, looking for signs of Donald O'Shea, 40, a stunt man and beer hall bouncer missing after a reported quarrel with Manson.

Police have been looking for connecting threads in the Los Angeles deaths of two teenage religious cultists.

The Los Angeles Times today reported police are investigating possible links between the Tate slayings and the deaths of a dope peddler, a motorcyclist in Bishop, Calif., and a member of the Manson clan in suburban Venice. No details were reported.

With a court ban on comment imposed on officials, police kept mum on developments and deputies scouring the movie ranch were tightlipped.

But the ranch's owner, George C. Spahn, 80, said Manson and O'Shea had argued before O'Shea disappeared. The cult had lived on his ranch for a time, Spahn said, against his will.

Prosecutors announced Wednesday they will seek a single trial for Manson and the five members of his desert tribe charged with murder and conspiracy in the deaths of Miss Tate and six others.

The prosecutors say they expect the defendants will seek separate trials and will try to sever the case of the August slayings of the honey-blond actress and four others killed on her estate and from those of wealthy market owner Leno LaBianca and his wife, killed the next day.

New Officers Named By Pitt Livestock Ass'n

Burney W. Baker of Pactolus was named president of the Pitt County Livestock Association at the group's annual banquet and ladies night held last night at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

Other officers elected include: Carl S. Venters, vice president; Milton May, secretary; treasurer; and Jarvis Allen, past president, ex officio.

The board of directors elected last night included: R. H. McLawhorn Jr., B. G. Dickerson, W. C. House, Dr. Joe Bateman, Chester Don Worthington, Paul Bradley, Charles McLawhorn, Jay Boswell, John E. Smith, D. R. House, Ervin Mills and Ed Yancy.

W. C. Hollowell and C. J. Goodman were named honorary members of the board of directors.

Dr. Joe Pugh, vice president of Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, was the speaker.

"Livestock income in Pitt County has increased $2,380,000 from 1960 until 1968," Dr. Pou said. "Gross income from agriculture in Pitt has increased only $1,800,000 over the same period."

Dr. Pou said without the excellent growth in livestock income, mainly hogs and eggs, Pitt would actually have had a decline in agricultural income during this period.

"The outlook for the next 10 years is for an increase in beef consumption from 113 pounds per person to 130 pounds per person," he said.

"We are expected to add 35 million people to the population of the country during the next 10 years and very good markets, particularly for eggs, pork, beef, and poultry, are expected because of the increased population requirements," Pou noted.

Pou added, "I feel sure in Pitt County we will see a continued sound and steady growth with poultry, hogs and beef cattle."

Entertainment was presented by "The Difference," a group composed of Becky Starkey, Ann Wilkerson and Sheila Marlowe.

Food And Drug Administration Overhauled By HEW Chief

By G. C. THELEN Jr., Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary Robert H. Finch of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has prescribed a treatment of ouster, upgrading and overhaul for his ailing Food and Drug Administration.

For openers, the agency beset from all sides from critics will have a new chief: Dr. Charles C. Edwards, a one-time Iowa surgeon turned American Medical Association official and management expert.

Dr. Herbert L. Ley Jr., the present FDA commissioner, and two of his top associates, Winton B. Rankin and J. Kenneth Kirk got the gate Wednesday. Finch also restored the FDA's former autonomy within HEW, freeing it from subordination to the umbrella Consumer Protection and Environmental Health Service.

Furthermore, the 4,200-man Food and Drug Agency will be streamlined along what is described as "product" lines. The present six bureaus will be reduced to three: one for foods, pesticides and product safety; a second for drugs and a third for veterinary medicine.

Structural changes aside, Edwards undoubtedly holds the key to the FDA's future success. While declining to talk specifically about cures for the agency's ills, the 46-year-old, dapper grey-haired Nebraska native ofered this general statement of policy in an interview: "Success of the FDA will mean a hard-nosed manager bringing in other hard-nosed managers as well as the best possible scientific talent."

"The game has to be played rough. I firmly believe in making a decision, sticking with it and not wishy-washing around. "And I don't intend to be a patSY for the pharmaceutical industry. Voluntary compliance is fine up to a point, but I intend to carry the big club at all times," he said.

Edwards took pains to erase the impression left at a news conference that he would be soft on the pharmaceutical industry. He said then: "I feel we have to move more in the direction of working with industry."

His emphasis on "hard-nosed" management fits with a common complaint of HEW top-siders that Ley was indecisive on such sensitive issues as the safety of the artificial sweetener cyclamates.

50 Years Of Growth, Service

The Greenville Rotary Club is celebrating 50 years of service to the community—and that is a long time for a civic club to remain active.

The local Rotary Club was organized on August 18, 1919 and received its charter in December of that year. It was the sixth club to be organized in the state.

Now there are 163 Rotary Clubs in the state with a membership of nearly 9,000. There are 13,989 clubs internationally and a membership of 660,500.

Last Monday night Gov. J. Talbot Capps of Kinston presented a plaque to J.B. Kittrell, Sr. sole surviving charter member of the club. Kittrell has served twice as president of the local club.

Fifty years ago, World War I was a recent memory in Greenville and no doubt some of the charter members of that first Rotary meeting were young veterans of that war. Since then there has been World War II, Korea and now Vietnam. Through it all Greenville has grown to become a city. The East Carolina Teachers College of 1919 has now become East Carolina University with 10,000 students. Industry has come and future industrial development here is bright.

Greenville's Rotary Club had contributed to the city's growth over this period of 50 years, just as Rotary Clubs across the nation have contributed to national growth and maturity.

For Greenville, this has been an exciting 50 years and our Rotary Club has been very much a part of it. We wish for the Rotary Club another 50 years of active community participation, which will be just as successful as the first 50 have been.

Entering Increasingly Important Civic Field

In instituting a program in police administration and corrections, East Carolina University is moving into a field that is certain to become increasingly important during the years ahead.

The program is expected to eventually become a department of police administration and corrections. Qualified students will be able to complete a major or minor in the field.

It is proper that ECU is moving into the field. It is obvious that law enforcement administrators are going to heed more and more training to prepare them for making decisions in carrying out the law.

Administrators now need extensive legal training, including a good knowledge of rights of defendants and individual rights.

Programs such as the one instituted by ECU can provide this necessary training and we feel that colleges and universities will be turning increasingly to this field in the years ahead.

Far-Reaching Valuation Case

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES

RALEIGH — If you own a farm in Nash County your property is assessed for ad valorem taxes at approximately 59.1 per cent of its true valuation.

If you own a home in a residential neighborhood on the west side of Rocky Mount or in Nashville, the county seat, your property is assessed at approximately 88.4 per cent.

If you own commercial property the rate according to a recent analysis of deed transfers, appraisals and assessment schedules in Nash may be as high as 102 per cent.

courts should undertake the job of trying to evaluate property for tax purposes in the event county commissioners cannot do the job fairly. The plaintiffs said not necessarily, at least not in the Nash case.

Attorney Frank Meadows Jr. of Rocky Mount said the plaintiffs felt that if the commissioners "are told what to do, they'll do it right."

Question — Associate Justice Susie Sharp had raised the question.

What, she asked, if the Supreme Court sends the case back with order for re-appraisal and there is only a minor adjustment?

She said the entire process might collapse "and there would be nothing you could do until the next election."

Meadows said he did not think this would happen. "Just tell them what the law is," he pleaded.

Unusual — At the outset of arguments Chief Justice William Bobbitt noted that it was a civil case of some complexity which had come before the Supreme Court by an unusual route.

The plaintiffs appealed directly to the high court, bypassing the State Board of Assessment.

Bobbitt wanted to know whether they had considered other administrative remedies which might be available. Meadows contended it was a "class action" one brought on behalf of a large number of people similarly situated (urban property owners). He said in a class action the plaintiffs had no recourse to the State Board of Assessment. Had the situations been reversed, he said the county commissioners could have used the services of the Assessment board.

Careful — Kinsey contended that the county commissioners investigated conditions very carefully before acting on the controversial tax schedule. He said they conducted three public hearings and hired an appraisal firm at a cost of $100,000 to advise them. He defended the action of the commissioners in reducing crop allotment valuations which are added to the base value of farmland. These allotments for tobacco and peanuts had been too high, he said. His point was that farm prices have declined while production costs have increased.

Argued — The heart of the matter, the weightier matter, in the case maybe whether county commissioners do have wide discretionary power in fixing a schedule of property valuations.

This was the argument of attorney Tim Kinsey of Raleigh representing the commissioners. Officials of the statewide Association of County Commissioners listened intently, well aware that this might be a landmark case.

Another question raised — which the Supreme Court must ponder—is whether the

Going Counter To U.S. Policy

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Although top policymakers in the White House and State Department have ordained a new policy of neutrality toward Nigeria's civil war, a highway of great value to Nigerian federal forces—and potential military use against Biafran secessionists—is being built with U.S. foreign aid.

The decision to build the road with American tax dollars was taken quietly inside the Agency for International Development (AID), with neither specific approval from the White House nor a single word of discussion in Congress.

This project, along with the overall pro-federal tone of foreign aid to Nigeria, reflects the inability of top policymakers to execute their orders inside the bureaucracy. All the more remarkable, the Nigerian highway project directly contradicts overt Congressional reluctance to get entangled in foreign internal disputes following the Vietnam experience.

Actually, the pro-federal bias by AID is a holdover from the official U.S. position of July, 1967, when leaders of the Ibo tribe seceded from the Nigerian Federation to form the Republic of Biafra. Foreign Service officers on the African desk, expecting the Biafran revolt to be quickly subdued, sided with their counterparts in the British Foreign Office against the secession. That became Johnson administration policy.

But with the Nixon administration came faint stirrings of change. The new National Security Council (NSC) staff at the White House under Dr. Henry Kissinger prepared secret memoranda proposing strict neutrality.

Urged by Sen. Charles Goodell of New York and opposed by the AID bureaucracy, President Nixon appointed a special relief administrator to get food to starving Biafrans. Finally, on Nov. 12, the switch to neutrality was made official—against the wishes of the State Department's African desk—when Secretary of State William P. Rogers called for a negotiated settlement without the customary federal declaration.

But while the policymaking machinery of the U.S. government was ponderously changing direction, aid bureaucrats went full speed ahead. Unknown even to the NSC, construction started on a new U.S. foreign aid project: a road from the southern port of Calabar running 127 miles northward. That road constitutes unauthorized intervention into a civil war that could lead to unintended U.S. involvement. About 40 miles of the highway come within six to 15 miles of the Cross River, dividing line between Nigerian and Biafran troops. That raises the danger that Biafran troops could kill or kidnap Americans working on the road in Nigerian-held territory—the fate met by European workmen in Nigeria.

Moreover, the highway could be of direct military aid. When it is only half-completed north from Calabar, it will form a 200-mile link for the federals to their forward bastion of Enugu. That would mean a

DON'T JUST SIT THERE ---

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

P.R. Goes On Forever

Senator J. William Fulbright, the Arkansas Quixote, saddled up his steed last week and charged upon the biggest mill in town. His opening target is the Pentagon's public information program, but once he gets underway he will find it hard to stop there.

The Senator is not the first member of Congress to be troubled about government propaganda, publicity, or public information. He won't be the last. He is likely to discover, as others have discovered before him, that the subject is vast and conclusions elusive.

The problem in government, as Fulbright obliquely noted, closely parallels the problem in TV network news so eloquently described by Vice President Agnew. In theory—and in law as well—government agencies are expected to follow the rule of Sergeant Friday: Nothing but the facts, ma'am. Most of the government agencies, most of the time, stick to the rule.

But it's true here, as it is true in the TV newsrooms, that one man's information is another man's propaganda. As every city editor knows, it's usually easy to distinguish between pure publicity—mere puffery or press agency—and honest-to-goodness news; but now and again the line is blurred. A Cabinet member's speech is news. It may be propaganda also. When an information officer hands out the text, he is informing the public, which is good; he simultaneously is influencing legislation and shaping opinion, which may be bad and perhaps unlawful.

Congressional concern dates back at least to 1913. At that time (I am relying on the researches of the late Harry Byrd), Congress enacted general legislation prohibiting the employment by any Federal agency of public information personnel without specific authorization. Senator Byrd dug into the Congressional Record of September, 1913, and found the same objections to Federal press agency that concern Fulbright today.

In 1947, a House subcommittee headed by Representative Forest Harness of Indiana dug into the situation. The law then forbade any Federal agency to use public funds to promote or to influence legislation, or to mold public opinion. Harness charged that the law was "constantly being violated," in both devious and flagrant fashion.

Byrd tore into the problem in 1951. He was sore about Agriculture's promotion of the old Brannan Plan, just as Fulbright today is sore at the Pentagon's promotion of the ABM. Byrd was himself a newspaperman and publisher, possessed of a keen nose for baloney. His Committee on Reduction of Non-essential Expenditures "positively identified" 4,200 Federal employees engaged in public information, but the Senator suspected that "double or triple" that number in fact were involved.

For several years, the Virginian succeeded in writing tight limitations on public information services into the annual appropriations act. He told the Senate his aim was "more news and less bull." This was the aim of the famed Hoover Task Forces; in 1949 they estimated Federal outlays for publicity and information at upwards of $100 million a year.

More recently, in 1963 and again in 1967, a subcommittee of House Government Operations has had a go at the information mills. Its findings never were published, partly because staff members felt they had barely scratched the surface. The truth is that no one knows—and Fulbright is not likely to find out—how vast the government's information program is. The dimensions are massive.

The problem defies a pat solution. Those of us who try to cover Washington, however feebly, are utterly dependent upon the information officers. Yet we know—or at least we sense—that often we are getting less than what we want; and sometimes, unwittingly, we serve as conduits for government propaganda.

TO THE EDITOR

I am a resident of Greenville and I have lived here for twenty-one years and I would like to make a few comments on the account of not having a Christmas parade this year. First of all, it is a shame and disgrace not only to all the children but also to all of the adults too.

There is no way a person can explain to a child that there will be no Christmas parade.

Second of all, it is a shame to all the Christians who look upon Christmas as spiritual thing. Not having a Christmas parade has much effect on spirituality. Personally if we don't have a Christmas parade, why should the city of Greenville have Christmas decorations? Who wants to see Christmas decorations when no one has seen a Christmas parade? It makes me sick to know that we live in such a sick and weak democracy.

Third, it makes me feel sorry for our city officials who would let a few people tell them not to have a Christmas parade. Why can other cities have Christmas parades and we can't? I'm sure we all pay enough taxes to have a Christmas parade. Just having a Christmas party isn't sufficient for the small children in Greenville. They need a Christmas parade in the city in which they live. I don't like it at all and I'm sure there are thousands of citizens of Greenville who feel the same way I do.

Truth Creates Realist

By LISA CRONIN

Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — You were 6 or 7 years old when word first reached you that there was no Santa Claus.

You were disappointed. But at 7 you were a realist. The presents really were what mattered and all things considered Mom and Dad were just as good as Santa Claus.

Others recall they felt differently when told Santa wasn't real.

"It was a particularly memorable day because it coincided with my 35th birthday," recalls comedienne Phyllis Diller. "I was shook, I was counting on him."

Miss Diller, whose new book "The Complete Mother" gives advice on child rearing from "the glint in the eye to the teenager," advises parents never to tell their children about Santa Claus.

"That way you won't have to send them to a psychiatrist," she explained. "You wind up saving money."

Television comedian Rodney Dangerfield said he learned the truth while growing up in a tough neighborhood.

"I found out one Christmas when the cops picked up Santa Claus," he said. "He was going into an apartment house and his bag was empty. When he came out his bag was full."

"I wasn't distressed because my parents told me by asking me not to tell the truth to my sister who was 4," said John MacDonald, author of more than 60 mystery novels. "The sense of responsibility was far greater than the sense of loss. I never could identify with the old fellow anyway. I liked Peter Rabbit much better."

Paul Krassner, editor of the Realist and a founder of the Yippie movement, said he learned that Santa Claus didn't exist in June when Pope Paul VI took St. Nicholas off the calendar of Saints.

"Eventually, of course, the Santa Claus myth will be co-opted into government and we'll have the guaranteed annual wage," he said.

"I learned of Jesus Christ when I read His Scriptures," said Tiny Tim, pop singer and author. "There's only one reason for Christmas and that's Christ's birthday. Christ is the most beautiful thought."

"It was one of the most terrible things that ever happened to me," said Jacqueline Susann, author of "Valley of the Dolls" and "The Love Machine."

"I got so shook up I didn't believe in God, and my mother had to tell me that God tells parents what to give children for Christmas," recalled the writer who got the word when she was 6.

WEEKEND SENTENCING

Judge Odell Horton of the Criminal Court has undertaken an experiment in sentences to be served during weekends. It can have high value in preserving the penalty of confinement and at the same time allowing continuity of job and family income.

This method is to be used only for minor offenses. It has been tried in other circumstances. Unless it is abused, other divisions of Criminal Court may find it a useful variation in sentencing.—Memphis (Tenn.) Commercial Appeal

Strength For Today

APPRAISAL
One of our great military leaders remarked some years ago that in warfare there is no substitute for victory. We never have the right slant on life until we realize that God intends us to be victors, not victims. It is undoubtedly the divine intention that we live cheerful, energetic, purposeful lives day by day. We may not, under such circumstances, end up millionaires but we will end up satisfied person who look back over the past with gladness and hail the future with anticipation. "There is a victory which overcometh the world, even our faith" (1 John 5:4).

Everyone of us knows someone whose life seems to spell victory in all departments of living. They may not be making the Churchill victory sign day in and day out, but they know they are living progressively, significantly, and that each day is bringing its overwhelming rewards.

The end of living is more and better living. Money sometimes indicates achievement, but not always. There are people in high position in every country who are little in their own sight and who know in the very depth of their consciousness that they are far from successful.

The folly of some types of achievement is hard to understand or believe. Marry a lot of money. Belong to the best club. Live in a better house than "the people you grew up with. Strive to keep ahead of the other fellow. Work as little as you can get away with and still keep your job.

Folly—folly—folly—and at the end, disillusionment.

Business Plans More Outlays

By ELMER ROESSNER
Business is whistling in the dark or the corporation executives of America know something I don't know.

Two surveys shows that the executives believe there will be a tomorrow and that it will be a jolly good one, too.

Gains, But Moderate
The Commerce-SEC survey showed that capital spending during the first half of this year was at an annual rate of $77.5 billion and in the third quarter at a rate of $72.5 billion. The projection for the fourth quarter is a rate of $73.7 billion. Since these figures are seasonally adjusted, the advent of winter has nothing to do with the small fourth-quarter rise.

Despite the dip in the second half, the rate is still running $5 billion above the 1968 rate.

The survey found that business plans to spend at a rate of $77.5 billion in the first half of 1970. This would be 11 per cent above the rate for the first half of this year.

The Boston First National survey shows spending plans for 1970 to 9 per cent above those for this year.

Two Conditionals
The predicted expansion in 1970 must be weighed in connection with two important factors:

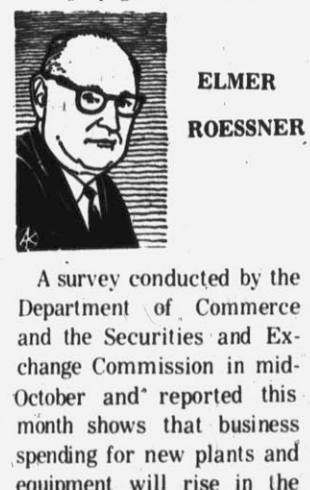

1. Much if not all of the gain will be accounted for by higher prices. Costs of steel, other metals, labor and almost everything else that goes into plants and equipment have gone up in price and are still rising.

2. The survey covers plans, not commitments, and plans can be scaled down if business recedes. Few executives would tell the government, banks and stockholders that they are now planning on a recession.

Boston First National added, "Doubts are growing that these plans will lead as quickly and surely to appropriations, contracts and orders." It suggests that the chain reaction between business investment and economic growth is likely to be broken "under the punishing pressures of the scarcity and the high cost of money, the high prices of construction and equipment" and other adverse factors.

Significantly, it also said: "Such strong investment goals will sustain inflationary pressures."

Vienna Choir Boys Will Give ECU Performance

Direct from the Austrian capital, the world famous Vienna Choir Boys will be heard in concert at East Carolina University on Tuesday, Jan. 13.

(Continued From Page 4) major shortcut for the federales, who now send supply convoys some 500 miles east to Enugu from the western port of Lagos. In fact, some military traffic has already been seen on completed portions of the new road.

When AID officials testified before Congress last summer, nothing was said about the road. Its existence was discovered by a private citizen—Christopher Beal, a student at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy—who passed the information on to amazed officials at the White House and on Capitol Hill.

Official assurances that the Calabar road means little have been less than candid. "The contractor working on the road reports only insignificant military traffic," asserts a State Department letter of Nov. 18 to Sen. Goodell. But a confidential AID memorandum for internal use, dated Oct. 28, is less categorical: "Some military and commercial vehicles have been reported using some of the roughly graded sections of the road." Furthermore, the road reflects overall AID policy. The agency's official justification for aid to Nigeria (which mentions Biafra only between quotes) is geared to rebuilding federal public works while the war continues.

The choir, consisting of 22 boys between the ages of eight and 14, has won fame around the world. Noted impresario S. Hurok has brought them to North America on 23 tours previous to the current one.

One of the outstanding musical attractions of one of the world's most musical cities, the boys of the historic Seminary School of Vienna have been a prominent feature there since 1498, when the Hapsburg Emperor Maximilian established the group for the Austrian court's private religious services.

Each year fewer than 100 boys, hardly 10 per cent of the number of applicants, is admitted to the institution. Each boy is given an academic education in addition to his musical one, and when his voice changes, is aided by the institution in furthering his education for the career of his

Set Chemistry Lecture For ECU Friday

Dr. Lou Levy of the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences, Washington, D.C., will speak at East Carolina University Friday, at 3 p.m., 237 Flanagan building.

Dr. Levy, whose subject will be "The Chemistry of Naturally Occurring Aromatic Ethers", received the Ph.D. in chemistry at the University of Colorado, has worked for International Flavor and Fragrance Inc., and has been commissioned in the Public Health Service.

The lecture is another in a series of chemistry seminars for staff members, students and other interested persons.

BISHOP'S SUCCESSOR
BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Cuthbert Irvine Peacocke of Belfast has been elected to succeed Dr. J. Tyndall as Church of Ireland Episcopal Bishop of Derry and Raphoe. The Dean, who is 66, is a son of the Rt. Rev. Joseph Peacocke, who was Bishop of Derry and Raphoe from 1916 to 1945.

Shoppers Told To Lock Cars

Shoppers in Greenville were urged to use caution and not leave packages and other items in unattended and unlocked cars, today by Police Chief T. E. Gladson who said such practices invite trouble.

"Thieves love to see packages and other valuables in unlocked cars," Chief Gladson said. Each year several thousand dollars worth of merchandise, radios and tape players, and women's pocket books as well as other items, are taken from unattended and unlocked cars in the Greenville area. "This is especially true at Christmas time," Chief Gladson explained, "when shoppers, in a rush to buy presents, place their packages in their unlocked cars while going from one store to another."

The official suggested that cars should be locked at all times when left unattended, even though nothing has been left inside. This he said, aids in the prevention of car thefts, if nothing else.

Ideally, packages should be locked in the trunk of the car, out of sight (sometimes thieves will break car windows to steal items they can see), he said. In any case, if valuables are left in vehicles, they should be covered as much as possible so would-be thieves would not have a clear view of them.

He cautioned shoppers, too, about leaving handbags or other valuables lying on store counters.

while their owner inspects other merchandise. The chief said someone could easily walk by and take the purse or other packages while the shopper is intent on inspecting other merchandise. By being cautious with valuable property, Chief Gladson said, "shoppers will help the Police Department and help themselves have a merry Christmas."

Committee Will Select Young Man Of The Year

Local Jaycee president, Jim Leslie, announced that a committee, headed by Ted Gartman Jr., has been formed to seek nominations for the outstanding young man of the year in Greenville.

Now engaged in canvassing churches, civic clubs, and other organizations, the committee's efforts are aimed at determining which young man, 21 through 35, has contributed the most to the community during the past year.

Nomination blanks may be obtained from any Jaycee,

Gartman said, or at any of the following locations: Planters Bank and Trust Company, State Bank, N.C.N.B. and Wachovia Bank and Trust Company.

Charged with the task of evaluating the nominations and selecting a winner is a panel of five judges made up of Greenville citizens. In order to be considered, all nominations must be received by the Jaycee committee by midnight, Jan. 9.

Presentation of the award will highlight the 24th Annual Jaycee Distinguished Service Award and Bosses Banquet to be held on Thursday night, Jan. 22, at the Moose Lodge.

The Distinguished Service Award winner from Greenville will be entered in the North Carolina Jaycee contest, which selects five outstanding young men in the state. Past state winners include W. M. (Booger) Scales in 1957, Dr. J. Edwin Clement in 1965, and C. Eugene Prescott in 1966.

Further information concerning the nominations may be obtained from Ted Gartman at 2106 Charles Street or by calling his office at 758-6283.

Order New Trial In Murder Case

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Supreme Court ordered Wednesday a new murder trial for Johnny Ruth, 31, of Durham.

He was convicted last year and sentenced to die in the 1967 stabbing of Flossie Evans.

His lawyer had appealed on the ground that persons opposed to the death penalty were improperly excluded from the Superior Court jury.

Family Refuses To Believe Son Dead

By DAVID QUEEN Associated Press Writer RICHWOOD, Ohio (AP) —

The family of Sgt. John A. Warren will celebrate Christmas "just as if he's coming home" in spite of the Army's claim he died two months ago.

"The family and everyone is sure that John is still alive and probably missing in Vietnam," says state Rep. Lloyd G. Kerns, an attorney and spokesman for Warren's family.

"It's a sad, sad situation for the family. They can't send him presents or mail because the Army has officially ruled him dead. So all they do is wait."

The Army maintains Warren, 28, was killed in action in Vietnam on Oct. 30.

A body, which the Army said was Warren's, was sent here last month. Nineteen persons, including the soldier's wife and parents, viewed it and denied it was Warren.

"They'll never accept this body. It isn't him," said Kerns.

The Army said X-rays and fingerprints proved the body was that of Sgt. Warren. The body is being kept at a Dover, Del.

Army installation. The family said the body did not have Sgt. Warren's birthmarks, was almost 50 pounds heavier, two inches taller and "simply didn't look like John," said Kerns.

There are 18 other John Warrens in Vietnam, Kerns said, and the Army is still checking on them.

After a private pathologist reports next week, "we'll know more," he said. "But I can assure you, the family will never accept that body."

BECKET REMEMBERED

CANTERBURY, England (AP) — Next year will be 800th anniversary of the martyrdom of Thomas Becket, who was slain by four armed knights in Canterbury Cathedral in 1170. The occasion will be celebrated from July to October with ecumenical services in the cathedral, where T. S. Eliot's play Murder in the Cathedral will also be revived, and a music, arts and drama festival.

Opening lead: Queen of ♣ Today's four spade contract produced a high level battle of wits between South the declarer and East, his opponent.

West opened the queen of hearts and East overtook with the king in order to shift to his singleton diamond. It was his intention to put up the ace of spades when trumps were played and then lead a low heart to put partner in with the jack and obtain a diamond ruff. West was marked with a sequence in hearts by his lead of the queen.

South was immediately aware of East's intentions and the former mapped out a counterplan to foil his opponent. After winning the diamond shift, declarer cashed the king of clubs, then the ace, followed by the ten which was covered by East's jack. Instead of ruffing, however, South discarded his remaining heart, thereby severing the defense's line of communications.

East saw that he could no longer get his partner in to obtain a diamond ruff, so he too altered his strategy by attempting to promote West's trump holding. East led back a fourth round of clubs. South trumped with the jack of spades and West took a discard.

The king of spades was led and East was in with the ace. A fifth club now provided the lethal thrust for the defense. South ruffed in with the nine of spades, however this left him with only the queen-seven while West retained the eight-four. The latter's eight of spades had become established for the setting trick.

South was powerless to cope with East's revised campaign, for if he had ruffed either club with the seven of spades, West would have overruffed with the eight.

Four Counts Of Forgery Charged

A 21 year old resident of Carriage House Apartment, Joseph E. Mills, has been charged on four counts of forgery and 15 counts of worthless checks following his arrest by Pitt County sheriff officials.

A probable cause hearing on the worthless check charges has been set for Dec. 19 in District Court in Greenville. Mills is currently under $2,500 bond on the worthless check charge.

Judge Charles Whedbee held a hearing Wednesday morning on the forgery counts and set trial on those charges for Jan. 26 in Superior Court here. Bond has been set at $500 on the forgery charges.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government scientists say budget cuts have slowed research sponsored by the National Institutes of Health and threaten to usher in "the dark ages of medical science."

Joining non-government scientists in criticizing the cutbacks, officials of the NIH—the world's largest concentration of medical research facilities—said a shortage of funds and personnel are bedeviling attempts to follow up promising research leads.

Looking to the future, Dr. Robert W. Berliner, an associate director of NIH, said "I think we are going to lose a generation of potential investigators unless things begin to pick up pretty soon in medical research and training."

His top assistant, Dr. Carl M. Leventhal, added: "We could have what you might call the dark ages of medical science. We're not there yet—but the potential is there."

Berliner, Leventhal and other government scientists have, until now, been more or less silent about the research budget cuts. They spoke out in response to interview questions.

In September, the Nixon administration announced a 5 to 10 per cent cut in most government-aided health research as part of a government-wide effort to stop inflation by budget trimming. The cuts amounted to about $30 million of $462 million for new and on-going NIH-sponsored research.

In addition, the administration sought a $7 million reduction in the still pending request for NIH funds for 1970. This bill is now before the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Approximately 700 employees, many of them nurses but also some top research scientists, have been lost from the NIH complex since mid-1968.

About 200 of these have been lost from NIH's clinical center, a 516-bed research hospital whose uniqueness stems partly from the fact that it has some 1,100 research laboratories in close proximity to the patients and the doctors caring for them. The laboratories do clinical research on everything from the common cold to cancer and from hepatitis to tooth decay and mental depression.

In the NIH clinical center, a new 20-bed section earmarked for research on mothers who run the risk of producing defective babies lies vacant because of lack of nurses to man it.

Also for lack of funds, plans have had to be pigeonholed for building at least 10 special rooms employing a new principle for the supportive, anti-infection care of leukemia patients. The same is true of plans for building a sophisticated "coronary intensive care" unit for heart-disease sufferers.

Overall, the number of patients admitted to the clinical center has been reduced by 7 per cent in the last two years because of personnel shortages.

"I'm still able to run a damned good hospital," says Dr. Robert M. Farrier, the center's acting director, "but, to maintain a high quality of care has meant cutting down on the quantity of patients that we can accommodate (for research projects.)"

Berliner said a major problem has been one of personnel restrictions. "This has resulted in a general slowdown on research here—including a slowdown on opportunities to start new programs," he said.

Other NIH scientists cited the jettisoning of a proposed major clinical research program on allergies—still one of mankind's most mysterious foes—as another example of curtailments on new programs.

And in discussing cancer research, Dr. Edward S. Henderson, chief of clinical care for NIH's leukemia patients, said: "I think our national priorities need revising. Research against cancer is more important than exploring outer space. Not many of us are going to get to the moon, but a lot of us are going to get cancer."

Minimal Pollution Goal Set By Ford Motor Co.

By CHARLES C. CAIN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Henry Ford II says his company has assigned 11,000 workers and allotted $31 million dollars to the problem of combating air pollution from automobile exhausts in 1970.

"I am publicly committing Ford Motor Co. to an intensified effort to minimize pollution from its products and plants in the shortest time possible," he told his 10th annual year-end news conference Wednesday.

Ford said that in addition to the outlay on car exhaust emissions his company will spend $30 million in 1970 on control of air pollut on from its production plants.

"You must remember, though," he said "that the automobile is only a small contributor to the environmental pollution and the federal government must get fully involved in this fight. It will take not millions of dollars but billions."

Ford said his company had experimented with alternative types of car propulsion such as battery-powered electrical power packs and gas turbine engines but that the conventional piston-powered motor seemed the best bet as of now.

In his news conference, Ford also made these observations: —"I think the economy is going to slow down some...I don't know how much."

—The year 1969 will end with about 9.6 million car sales in the U.S. market — including more than a million imports — and the final figure might top the record of 9,641,000 set last year.

—In 1970, auto sales will fall off to perhaps 9 million to 9.5 million cars.

—Ford will build an integrated urban community in the virtually all-white Ford headquarters city of Dearborn.

The complex, to be built on 2,300 acres of company-owned land near Ford headquarters, will include middle and upper income housing, retail stores, a hotel, apartment buildings and recreation and cultural facilities.

—Ford plans to cut its expenditures on racing by 75 per cent in 1970. "It is not a retrenchment, we are just turning the program back to where it was three years ago."

Count Five Traffic Mishaps Yesterday

More than $2,700 property damage resulted from a series of five collisions investigated here yesterday, according to reports from the Greenville Police Department.

The heaviest damage reported resulted from a 4 p.m. crash on Greene Street 500 feet South of Moore Street and involved cars driven by Carolyn Ann Brooks, 17, of 106 Martin St. and Sidney Raymond Spain, 63, of 205 Kirkland Dr.

Officers set damage to the Brooks car at $700 and damage to the Spain car at $600.

Miss Brooks was charged with exceeding a safe speed.

An estimated $500 damage resulted to a car driven by Thomas Medford Damewood, 20, of Asheville, when it collided with a utility pole at the Fifth and Elizabeth Streets intersection about 12:30 a.m. Damewood was charged with exceeding a safe speed following investigation of the mishap.

Russell Luther McMillon Jr., 27, of Wilson was charged with exceeding a safe speed following investigation of a 2:50 p.m. collision at the intersection of U.S. 264 and Highland Drive.

Officers, who set damage to the McMillon vehicle at $300, identified the driver of the second car as Clarence Jasper Ward, 47, of 902B Imperial St. and placed damage to his car at $125.

Cars driven by Charles Ray Ebron, 43, of 1404 West Sixth St. and Marvin Franklin Aldridge, 30, of 1909 East Eighth St. collided about 5:35 p.m. at the 10th and Ernul Streets intersection.

Damage was set at $150 to the Ebron car and $175 to the Aldridge vehicle.

Aldridge was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

No charges were placed when cars driven by Ellen Breyley Manning of 806 West Fourth St. and Guy Scott Tabar, 22, of 130 North Library St. collided about 9:35 p.m. at the intersection of 10th and Anderson Streets.

Damage was set at $120 to the Manning vehicle and $50 to the Tabar auto.

Special Study For Three

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott appointed three persons Wednesday to a commission which will make a study on emotionally disturbed children in North Carolina.

They were Mrs. Joe Yates of Raleigh, Aaron Fussell of Raleigh, superintendent of the Wake County schools, and Dr. John Fowler, head of the division of child psychiatry at Duke University.

Reps. Nancy Chase of Eureka, Joe Raynor of Fayetteville and Jack Euliss of Burlington will represent the House of Representatives in the study.

Married A Day Before Son Wed

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Mrs. Ada Sisney Batton admits "it probably was a bit unusual. I mean, me getting married one day before my eldest son."

Mrs. Batton is 37. Her son, Delmar Dwayne Sisney is 18. She had been divorced previously.

"We thought about a double wedding," Mrs. Batton said, "but I wanted to attend his wedding."

Mrs. Batton was married Nov. 28, her son, the 29th.

They applied for their marriage licenses together and took their blood tests together.

Early Christmas For Carrier Boy

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Residents on 12-year-old Eddie Green's paper route gave him an early Christmas present Wednesday, a new bicycle to replace one stolen from him.

Mrs. Etta Cobb, a customer who helped in the door-to-door fund raising, said, "Everybody says he's the best carrier boy they ever had ... he never fails to put the paper behind the screen door, out of the rain and bad weather."

Eddie's mother said he got his training from his father, a former carrier.

THE FIRST COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The first junior high school in the nation was established here in 1909. The school, InCianola Junior High School, is still in operation.

Drug Violation Charged Youth

Alan N. Leland, 19 of New Canaan, Conn. was arrested here by agents of the State Bureau of Investigation Tuesday on drug-law violation charges. SBI agents said Leland was charged with possessing marijuana after about a half-ounce of the illegal weed was found on him earlier during a search.

Leland, an East Carolina University freshman was placed under a $1,000 bond pending a hearing on the felony charge December 17 in District Court.

Branch and Carver Branch libraries on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next week.

The programs are designed to give the children of Greenville an opportunity to hear Christmas stories, poems and to participate in songs.

The events scheduled in this program are:

Monday — 3:30 p.m. - East Branch Library. Story time for children of all ages.

Tuesday — 3:30 p.m. — Carver Branch Library. Story time for children of all ages.

Wednesday — 11:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. Picture book program for pre-schoolers (3 to 5 year old group). 4:00 p.m. Story time for school-age children.

Mrs. Margaret Reid, Children's Librarian, states that all children are invited to attend and to take part in these planned activities.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hogs markets were steady to .50 lower today. Tops included Rocky Mount, 25.75 to 26.75; Wilson, 26 to 26.25; Siler City and Denton, 25.50 to 26; Salisbury, 26.25 and Greensboro 26.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina poultry market undertone remained weak to day. Live at farm-based valuation 13 cents per pound. Hens supplies of heavy type adequate, demand fair. Light type short of a good buying interest. Heavies, at farm 19 cents. Lights too few to report.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices rose slightly in moderate trading early today.

Stocks on the upswing continued to outnumber decliners by a substantial margin.

At 11 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.65 to 785.64 in a continuation of the late Wednesday rally in glamor and blue-chip issues. Analysts said, however, the rise might not be an indication of a general market trend but merely a technical upsurge. Brokers note there has been no dramatic good news to encourage investors bothered by continued tight money policies.

Activity remains very light this morning on Pitt County grain buying stations as farmers still are not able to get into the fields to harvest the remaining corn. A few of the markets report continued buying of ear corn that was harvested earlier in the season but other than that, no buying is reported. Prices this morning are the same as yesterday's quotes. Following are per bushel prices reported at 10:30 a.m.

Greenville: yellow corn, $1.25; wheat, $1.20; oats, $.65; soybeans, $2.35—all steady.

Ayden: yellow corn, shell, $1.32; ear corn, $1.20; soybeans, $2.30—all steady.

Winterville: yellow corn, shell, $1.27; ear corn, $1.17—steady.

Farmville: yellow corn, $1.32; soybeans, $2.28—steady.

Bethel: yellow corn, shell, $1.30; ear corn, $1.15; soybeans, $2.32—all steady.

Astronauts Released

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—The Apollo 12 astronauts—out of quarantine and walking free for the first time in almost a month—today select the film they will show at a press conference planned Friday.

Charles Conrad Jr., Richard F. Gordon Jr. and Alan L. Bean left quarantine Wednesday and spent the first night at home since well before their moon mission.

This afternoon the trio planned to pick out the slides and movie film from the hundreds of pictures taken on the moon. The material will be shown at their 10 a.m. EST press conference Friday.

The astronauts and 25 other men were released from the Lunar Receiving Laboratory when tests showed no signs that anyone was infected by moon germs, if any exist.

Conrad, Bean and Gordon had last walked free Nov. 14, the day they were launched toward the moon from Cape Kennedy.

Reports Breakthrough Near In Drug Research

A grant of $44,908 from the National Science Foundation will finance an institute for secondary school physics teachers next summer at East Carolina University.

Notification of the grant, one of only 13 of its kind in the nation, came from NSF executive associate director Louis Leven and was announced today by ECU President Leo W. Jenkins.

Under the direction of Dr. Robert L. Dough of the ECU science education department, the Summer Institute in Harvard Project Physics will be conducted here next July 10 to Aug. 20.

High school physics teachers from throughout the state with emphasis on those from Eastern North Carolina will be invited to participate.

Major objectives of the institute, Dr. Dough says, are to present basic principles of physics, to serve as part of a long range teaching and research effort by the science education and physics departments of ECU and to improve physics instruction and increase the number of students enrolled in high school physics.

Credit hours awarded for participation in the institute can be applied to master's degree work in education. The institute will be conducted entirely on the main campus of ECU in Greenville.

Maddox Keeps Eye On Costs

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Musician Graham Jackson, a favorite accordion player of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, has been sworn in as the first Negro member of the state Board of Corrections.

After the ceremony Wednesday, Jackson, 67, asked Gov. Lester Maddox if he could have the pen used, but the governor refused.

"No, I'll give you one you can have. These cost too much," the governor said.

Maddox had cheaper pens brought in and gave Jackson two.

White House Hosts LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lyndon B. Johnson's visit to the White House today marks his first time in the executive mansion since he gave up possession to Richard M. Nixon nearly a year ago.

President Nixon invited Johnson to breakfast when he learned the former chief executive and his wife Lady Bird would be in Washington for a pre-wedding party for a former LBJ secretary, Marie Febmer.

The meeting is also the first time the two men have seen each other since the Johnsons visited the Nixon's summer White House at San Clemente, Calif., last August.

Johnson's only other trip to Washington since leaving office was for the funeral of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Another purpose for the Johnson's trip east from their Texas ranch was a conference in New York later today with the firm publishing the former president's memoirs.

At the Wednesday night party honoring Miss Fahmer, who will marry Georgetown University Prof. Andrew J. Chiaro Saturday, Johnson posed for pictures but declined to talk about current political matters. Instead, he discussed his book and the Lyndon B. Johnson Library at the University of Texas.

New Mexico has two official state vegetables—the chili and the frijol (bean).

the possibility that in the future we may be made immune just to specific diseases, but also to many different kinds of viruses with but a single treatment". He cited statistics on drug research which costs millions each year and said, "Drug research is still one of the riskiest enterprises known to man. It takes an average of five years and more than five million dollars to develop a drug to the point of marketing it, and even after it gets on the market, it is often quickly made obsolete by a newer drug."

Homer Smith Southern Loop's Coach Of Year

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—When Homer Smith arrived on the Davidson scene in 1965, the Wildcats already had gained nationwide stature in basketball but their football teams hadn't had a winning season since 1958. His first year as Davidson football coach, Smith turned in a 6-4 over-all record, but the three ensuing years saw the Wildcats go 4-5, 4-5 and 3-6. Then came 1969, and Smith had these words at the start of the season:

"We know that we are better. We are better because we are more experienced. We have by far the most returning experience that we have had in my four seasons at Davidson." Smith proceeded to direct that experienced Wildcat squad to the Southern Conference championship, and today he was named conference coach of the year by the Southern Conference Sports Writers Association. The Wildcats finished with a 7-3 over-all record and were 7-1 before dropping their last two starts to Wofford and Vanderbilt. They finished 5-1 in conference competition, losing only to The Citadel, and won the conference championship even though Richmond also had a 5-1 record because Davidson routed the Spiders 37-7 when the two teams met in a game most observers still don't believe. Smith received 33 votes to 13 for Jim Parker of The Citadel.

There was one marked difference between East Carolina University and the University of South Carolina last night when the two met in Minges Coliseum. It is a simple thing called depth. South Carolina, ranked eighth in the nation on the Associated Press poll, and fourth on the United Press International, downed the Pirates, 68-49, but it was closer than that. It took the hot shooting from the outside of Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year John Roche, and the rebounding of 6-10 Tom Owens to do it.

But depth was the real reason that the Gamecocks were able to top the Bucs. Both Jim Fairley, a sophomore who is rapidly becoming a top player, and junior Jim Gregory, who was the team's Most Valuable Player last year, found themselves in foul trouble in the first half, and both eventually fouled out. Fairley left the game with 8:48 to go, and Gregory drew his fifth personal with 2:57 to go.

And with Fairley out, South Carolina ran from a seven point lead to a 21-point bulge just before the end of the game. South Carolina found another of its 6-10 giants, Tom Riker in foul trouble early in the game, and had to bench him. He returned to start the second half, but quickly picked up his fourth and went back to the bench, coming back only late in the game. But his loss was not nearly as crippling as the losses the Pirates suffered.

East Carolina still made a game of it for the first 40 minutes of play.

Jim Kiernan hit from underneath after 30 seconds to give the Pirates the opening lead, and a minute later, Bob Cremins hit on a long jumper to tie it up. John Ribock followed with a go-ahead basket for the Gamecocks on a fast break, and then added a free throw a minute later. Cremins picked up a free throw to make it 6-2, but East Carolina got a free throw by Fairley to cut it to three. After another Gamecock free throw, Jim Modlin hit at the line and Kiernan hit on a fast break to cut the lead to one at 7-6 with 14:55 to go in the half.

Modlin picked up a foul shot to tie it up at 7-7, but Cremins hit on another jumper to return South Carolina to the lead. Fairley hit on a rebound, tying it again, but a free throw by Riker put South Carolina back out again, 10-9. Kiernan was fouled with 13:26 to go, and dropped in both, and the Bucs found themselves on top, 11-10. South Carolina tied it up on a free throw by Ribock, but Modlin hit a hook for a two-point Pirate lead. Riker cut it back to one at the line, but Jim Gregory hit a jumper from the baseline and East Carolina enjoyed a three-point lead, 15-12.

South Carolina then began to get hot. Tom Owens hit on a jumper and Roche made a pair of foul shots with 10:29 showing to put South Carolina back up, 16-15, and they never trailed again. Ribock hit another foul shot, and Rick Aydtlett hit on a rebound to make it 19-15.

The two clubs swapped a couple of baskets, and then, Owens hit from underneath and Roche stole the ball for a field goal and ran the lead out to eight with 5:24 to go, 25-17. But the Pirates refused to loose their poise and battled back. A basket by Fairley and a jumper by Tom Miller cut the lead to four, and Fairley hit at the line to trim it to three. South Carolina got four straight foul shots by Aydtlett, pushing it back to seven, but field goals by Modlin and Joe Harvey cut it back to 29-16 at the buzzer.

Modlin picked up two foul shots in the early minutes of the second half, and cut the lead back to one, but it was the best the Bucs could do about catching up. Bob Carver, Roche and Owens each hit on field goals before the Bucs could score again, and pushed out into a 35-28 lead. Still, the Bucs refused to give up their deliberate style of ball, working for each basket. It paid off again, and the Bucs cut the margin back to three, with Kiernan hitting from underneath with 15:24 left in the game. That made it 37-34.

Ribock hit at the line, and Cremins made a pair there to push back out by seven, and after Gregory got a foul shot, Roche hit on a jumper and Aydtlett got a free throw to push the lead out to eight with 14:04 to go, at 43-35.

The Bucs still hung in there, cutting it back to five with 11:20 to go, but two more Aydtlett free throws with 9:43 to play pushed it back to seven.

And then Fairley drew his fifth foul, and it was all over. The lack of Pirate bench strength, in contrast to South Carolina's personnel, was too much for the Bucs to handle. Roche and Owens then led a pull-away that brought about the final margin. In the remaining eight minutes, Roche hit on 12 points, while Owens collected 10.

Roche finished the game with 24 points, while Owens had 16. Aydtlett added 10.

For the Bucs, Modlin was high with 13, while Fairley had 10.

South Carolina also dominated the board play, getting 40 to East Carolina's 31. Owens led all here with 12. East Carolina was again led by Fairley with seven.

Surprisingly, East Carolina didn't trail the Gamecocks except at the line. South Carolina picked up 40 points from the floor while East Carolina had 38. At the line, however, the Gamecocks dumped in 28 of 38, while the Bucs hit 11 of 18.

The Bucs, now 3-1, turn their attention to the road for the rest of December. They travel to Richmond Saturday night for their first Southern Conference encounter, then go to Duke on Monday, and Wake Forest on Wednesday.

Baby Bucs Take First Victory

East Carolina University's freshmen captured their first win of the season last night, after losing their first three. They downed Chowan, 123-87.

The Baby Buc score set a new freshman record for points scored. The old record was 116, set against Frederick.

East Carolina grabbed the opening lead on a shot by Ernie Pope, but had to battle for the first six minutes before moving ahead for good when Pope stole the ball for a goal to make it 11-9. After that, Phil Shaffer hit from underneath and Dave McNeil drove in for a basket, and then scored on a fast break to push out into an eight-point lead, 17-9 with 13:32 to go.

From there on out, it wasn't much of a game, as the Baby Bucs were in complete control. They moved out by 10 on a three point play by Al Faber, at 25-15, and led by as much as 18 in the first half. By intermission, the Bucs had built up a 57-43 lead.

In the second half, it was just more of the same, as East Carolina built its lead past 20 as McNeil hit from the corner at 63-43, and then passed 30 as Faber scored from underneath to make it 96-66 with 7:24 to go. The Bucs passed the century mark with 6:54 to play, and scored 23 more points after that.

McNeil led the Bucs with 26 points, while Faber had 22, Pope and Jack Redmond each had 19, and Ronald Leggett had 10.

For Chowan, winless in five starts, Todd McConnell had 27, and Mike Bennett had 14. The Baby Bucs travel to Richmond Saturday for a preliminary battle to the Richmond-ECU varsity game.

Science Shrinks Painful Hemorrhoids Stops Itch—Relieves Pain Finds Way That Both Relieves Pain and Shrinks Piles In Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a special formula with the ability, in most cases—to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching and relieve pain. In case after case doctors proved, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. The secret is Preparation H. There is no other formula for hemorrhoids like it. Preparation H also soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

Pirates Had Three Goals In 1st Half

by CARL TYER
Reflector Sports Writer

Months ago, when East Carolina University basketball fans began to look over the Pirate 69-70 basketball schedule, the date December 10, stuck in their minds as a home game they did not want to miss, for the Pirates would host the Gamecocks of South Carolina, in what Pirate fans hoped would be the top home game of the year.

Last night the Gamecocks came to town, and the largest crowd ever to attend an East Carolina home game witnessed the number eight team in the nation defeat the Pirates 68-49.

Weeks ago people talked about what it would be like to defeat the Gamecocks, especially when the pre-season poll ranked them number one in the nation, but Tennessee spoiled the Bucs hopes by edging South Carolina 55-54 and knocked them out of the number one spot.

Still, the Gamecocks were nationally ranked and the desire for the win was still there, but it did not come about. Even though they lost, East Carolina Coach Tom Quinn felt his squad gave South Carolina a good game, and the Gamecock coach Frank McGuire agreed.

It was a special game for the Pirates, and it called for a special attack. "We used a special defense designed especially for South Carolina, said Quinn after the game," and a special offense designed especially for South Carolina."

"We wanted to do three things especially in the first half," Quinn continued, "one to get through the first half within five points of them; two, to stay out of foul trouble; and three to stay out of the one and one free throw situation."

The within-five point accomplishment came in the last seconds of the first half, with the Pirates going into the dressing room trailing by three, 29-26 to a standing ovation by the East Carolina fans. The Pirate special offense was one of strict control, and Gamecock Coach McGuire noted that he felt the Bucs were especially poised in the last minutes of the game even when they were trailing.

"It showed that the coach was still the boss," said McGuire. Quinn brought out one fact that was not known before the game, an injury sustained to guard Tom Miller on Monday during a practice session. "Miller turned his ankle Monday and we were not sure that he would even be able to play tonight, Quinn stated, even with that I feel he played an outstanding game."

Miller ended the game with only six points, well below his season average. "I'm also happy with our defensive game. I feel we caused South Carolina some problems," Quinn stated.

Quinn said he felt the turning point of the game was when Jim Fairley fouled out in the second half. "We had to go to other things defensively," Quinn commented.

McGuire felt his team looked more like their old selves in the second half of the game.

"Being ranked nationally does cause problems", the Gamecock coach commented. "We have been tight until the second half of tonight's game, and I feel this game did us a lot of good."

"I was impressed with East Carolina," he continued. "We used a man to man defense because we were playing away from home, and we knew they could shoot well up here from the outside. It was a hotly contested game."

The Pirate defense was a new one to the Gamecocks McGuire added, and he felt East Carolina played smart basketball when they slowed down the tempo of the game and tried to keep the ball in their possession even when they were behind.

With the large pro Pirate crowd at the game, McGuire noted that there was really an enthusiastic crowd here, "I sometimes wonder if they really dislike us as much as they say, he added. "Of course being ranked nationally, everyone is out to get us. We had it all over the boards before we came here, they are waiting for us."

An interesting side light McGuire brought out after the

Frank Howard Quits As Clemson Coach

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP)—Frank Howard — the bald, slow-talking extrovert of the Dixie gridiron — is retiring as head football coach at Clemson University after 30 years at the post.

With typical candor he told a news conference Wednesday that the decision "was not what I wanted personally but what I think is best for Clemson."

The 60-year-old Howard said he will stay on as athletic director and a successor as coach will be named by the first of the year.

In the last three decades Howard has won more games than any current coach at a single major college. His record is 165 victories, 118 losses and 12 ties. His Tigers of the Atlantic Coast Conference had a 4-6 record this season.

He told newsmen that he made the decision last April or May to resign as head coach, and had informed several persons at Clemson.

"I had to do it sooner or later," he declared, "and the reports get out every year and it ruins my recruiting. The only way we're ever going to build up is to get a coach in here who isn't retiring every year."

He stressed that his health "is as good as it ever was" and that it was not a factor in his decision.

Howard acknowledged that Florida State Coach Bill Peterson had been offered the job as his successor, but "that arrangement did not work out."

Retirement rumors reached their zenith after Clemson wound up this season with a 27-13 loss to arch rival South Carolina.

"I'll retire when I get good and ready and not before," Howard said at that time with some gruffness.

"No," he added quickly, "I didn't say I would be coach next year. I just said I'll retire when I get good and ready." The colorful Howard has been known for years as "the Bashful Baron of Barlow Bend," a reference to his place of birth in Alabama. The nickname also believes his penchant for storytelling and off-the-cuff wit, delivered in the rich speech of his native Dixie.

When Howard, then an assistant, was told he had been nominated for head coach, he quipped, "I second the nomination."

In his 30-year stint as coach and athletic director, Howard cemented Clemson's place in big time college football. The Tigers had been to only one post-season bowl before his takeover. They went to six bowls under Howard, winning four.

In addition to his overall record, his teams have the best record in the Atlantic Coast Conference since it was formed in 1953. That record is 62-29-2.

Howard took Clemson to the Gator Bowl in 1949; to the Orange Bowl in 1951; to the 1952 Gator Bowl game; to the 1957 Orange Bowl; to the 1959 Sugar Bowl; and the 1959 Blue Bonnet Bowl.

In 20 of Howard's seasons, the Tigers won more games than they lost.

Clemson won the old Southern Conference championship in 1940 and 1948, and won five ACC titles and tied for another.

Howard was named ACC coach of the year in 1958 and 1966.

He will take part in one more game as head coach, in the Hula Bowl in Hawaii on Jan. 10.

After a successful playing career at Alabama, Howard joined the Clemson coaching staff in 1931. He succeeded Jess Neeley as head coach and athletic director in 1940.

As a player, Howard was a guard on Alabama's 1931 Rose Bowl team.

Rose Wrestlers Down Farmville

Rose High School's wrestling team opened its schedule last night, defeating Farmville High School, 46-8. It was the first match for the fledgling Red Devil team.

The Rampants took pins in six events, won two by forfeit and two by decision. Farmville won two, one by pin and one by decision.

"The Rampants play host to tough Goldsboro tonight at 7 p.m."

Summary:
98—Glenn Nichols (R) pinned Ronnie Moore.

107—Andrew Daniels (R) pinned Chester Mosley.

115—Gary Snyder (R) pinned Jody Joyner.

123—Paul Carr (R) decisioned Charles Sutton, 8-2.

Indians Look To Home Court

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Even though the home court charm deserted them last year to a greater extent than previously, William and Mary's Indians always have been feared by Southern Conference basketball opponents in the cozy confines of Blow Gymnasium at Williamsburg Va.

So coach Warren Mitchell is hoping for a return to normalcy tonight when the Indians, winless in four starts on the road, make their home debut in a conference encounter against arch-rival Richmond.

The Spiders have gone 1-2 in nonconference play so far with two of their three starts at home.

Each time had the misfortune to travel to Morgantown, W. Va., to meet former league member West Virginia — and what happened indicated tonight's game could be a close one as those between the Spiders and Indians usually are. West Virginia beat Richmond 97-72 and William and Mary 106-80.

The game is the only one scheduled tonight for conference teams.

Of three league teams who took on outside opposition Wednesday night, only The Citadel was successful, the Bulldogs turning back the previously unbeaten Merchant Marine Academy 84-74.

East Carolina's Pirates suffered their first defeat, 68-49, at the hands of eighth-ranked South Carolina and Virginia Military Institute's Keydets took a 65-44 licking from Virginia's Cavaliers.

All five starters scored in double figures as The Citadel evened its record at 2-2. Jerry Hirsch led the way with 21 points as the Bulldogs pulled away midway the second half after leading 37-34 at intermission.

South Carolina, running its record to 3-1, moved away from a 29-26 halftime advantage behind the 24-point scoring of John Roche. The Gamecocks limited the Pirates' Jim Modlin, who had been averaging 27 points a game, to 13 points and one rebound.

Eppes Nails Bertie Five

Eppes Junior High School opened its 1969-70 basketball season yesterday with a 48-36 victory over Bertie Junior High School.

The Bulldogs fell behind in the first period, 9-8, but shot back in the second quarter to outscore Bertie, 14-6. That put Eppes into a 22-15 lead at halftime.

In the third period, Bertie rallied again, scoring 11 points, while the Bulldogs managed eight. That cut the lead back to 30-26.

But Eppes controlled the final period to take the win. Eppes dumped in 18 points, while holding Bertie to 10, and that wrapped it up.

Lonnie Payton led the Bulldogs, pouring in 23 points.

Bertie: Harold, W. Harold 4, Eckstell 8, Donaldson 6, Marshall 11, Warner 4, Cooper 3.

Public Officials Implicated In N.J. Mafia Probe

NEWARK N.J. (AP) — With U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell predicting "massive indictments of public officials" in a federal crime probe, Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio was under court pressure today to answer a federal prosecutor's questions before a grand jury.

In a speech in Boca Raton, Fla., Wednesday, Mitchell declared that the Cosa Nostra had gained control of a "large group" of internal revenue agents in a state later identified by an aide as New Jersey.

Mitchell said that indictments would crush "the largest gambling syndicate ever broken up in this country." He did not say where or by what investigative body the indictments would be issued.

The Newark grand jury investigation, which began as an Essex County operation, was taken over by federal authorities Wednesday a few hours before Mitchell addressed the Investment Bankers Association of America in the Florida resort city.

On Tuesday, Addonizio had pleaded the protection of the Fifth Amendment, a guarantee against self-incrimination, in refusing to answer 24 questions.

Appearing Wednesday before Judge Robert Shaw of U.S. District Court for a ruling on whether he had a constitutional right to refuse answers, Addonizio said he knew Anthony "Tony Boy" Boiardo, a reputed Cosa Nostra figure.

A question about his acquaintanceship with Boiardo was one of those the mayor had declined to answer previously.

Judge Shaw reserved decision on whether the mayor could still refuse to answer the other questions, but said: "I'm inclined, particularly where a major public official is involved, to order disclosure of affairs involving public office." The mayor's lawyer said Addonizio would answer if necessary to avoid contempt of court proceedings.

The Essex County grand jury had questioned 288 witnesses over a period of 19 months. Its investigation began after a commission which looked into causes of racial rioting in 1967 reported "a pervasive feeling of corruption" in Newark.

The county panel's only indictment was against Police Director Dominick Spina, on a charge of failure to enforce gambling laws. He was acquitted in a subsequent trial.

Federal indictments were returned recently against two New Jersey Internal Revenue agents on bribery charges.

The Evening News of Newark reported that "an informer with vast inside information about Newark government" provided the material which led to the federal takeover of the investigation.

In Trenton, the state capital, New Jersey Atty. Gen. Arthur J. Sills said he was exploring the possibility of invoking a state law which provides for removal from office of public officials who balk at testifying on matters related to their office.

But Sills said no action could be taken against Addonizio until Judge Shaw made his ruling.

Two other witnesses invoked the Fifth Amendment during appearances before the grand jury Wednesday. They were James Del Mauro, chief magistrate of Newark Municipal Court, and Joseph Bianco, head of electrical contracting concern which has done business with the city.

The court reserved decision on whether the two would have to answer.

Del Mauro invoked the Fifth right after he was informed that the panel was investigating his income tax returns from 1966 through 1968. He has resigned from his $20,000 a year judge-

An Easy-Reading Bible Prepared

NEW YORK (AP) — Many people are put off from reaching through the Bible by all the lengthy chronologies, repetitions and historical detail.

To overcome that Olive Pell has spent 12 years combing through the Scriptures, eliminating secondary material, and retaining the vitally relevant portions. The result is the "Olive Pell Bible," issued by Crown Publishers, a King James version reduced to about one-fifth its original length.

grand jury on counts of attempting to bribe a county prosecutor and obstructing justice.

Spokesmen for the jury, which has been investigating organized crime in New Jersey, said DeVita allegedly had offered Somerset County Prosecutor Michael R. Imbriani a sum of money described as "10 big ones"—$10,000—on behalf of two men charged with larceny, bribery and bookmaking.

New Jersey's Republican Gov.-elect William T. Cahill said in a speech Wednesday: "This state is truly infiltrated by organized crime."

Closing Plants For Two Weeks

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — The knitwear division of the Hanes Corp. has announced a two-week shutdown without pay to help clear high inventories.

However, the 2,800 employees will be paid for the traditional one-week Christmas vacation and for New Year's Day.

Plants of the division will close Friday and resume operations on Jan. 5.

The vice president in charge of public relations, Wayne Pennington, said a shutdown is not a layoff, and there is a legal difference between the two.

The Ringling Bros. Circus, now joined with Barnum & Bailey, originated in Baraboo, Wis., in 1869.

Law And Order Team Expects To 'Dent' Syndicate

By WILLIAM BARTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Nixon administration's "law and order" team says it is near a breakthrough in its campaign against organized racketeers.

Its first major dent into the syndicates is expected next week in a round of indictments by federal grand juries in four Northeastern cities.

Justice Department officials describe the effort against organized crime as the most successful of several of its anti-crime programs.

And Asst. Atty. Gen. Will R. Wilson, chief of the department's criminal division, said, in an interview, the most "definite results in the form of indictments" are still to come—probably next spring.

"There's been a determined effort," Wilson said, "to come to grips with the heart of the racketeering problem in our big cities."

The progress of this year's anti-racketeering campaign cannot be measured in terms of arrest and indictment statistics, he insisted, since many of those result from investigations begun under former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark.

President Nixon's other crime-fighting plans aren't showing the same promise. His proposal to deal with crime in Washington, D.C., is bogged down in Congress, and supporters say there's no chance of passage until the new session next year.

No appropriations for anti-crime programs have obtained final congressional action, leaving the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the agency established to administer the 1968 Safe Streets Act, uncertain about how much money it will be able to channel to the states next year.

Taking note of the pending organized crime cases, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said Wednesday indictments expected in one city within 10 days will "break up the largest gambling syndicate in history."

He did not specify the place, but he said federal investigators have found "a large group" of Internal Revenue Service employees in one state "to be controlled by the Mafia." Other officials said he referred to New Jersey.

The organized crime program and more vigorous antinarcotics drive are the main reasons cited by government prosecutors for budding optimism about law enforcement prospects in the 1970s.

Even FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, normally a prophet of rising crime rates, is now saying the problem may be contained within the next few years.

Mitchell said "the cutoff of the narcotics supply into the United States" is one of the major steps needed to restore safety to streets of the nation's large cities.

Among his programs to combat illegal drug trafficking have been much publicized moves to intercept marijuana and narcotics at the Mexican border. He also launched new cooperative programs with France and Turkey to halt international heroin smuggling.

Most narcotics enforcement is under the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, but Wilson's criminal division investigators have cracked some major narcotics rings this year as part of the move against racketeers.

Wilson noted some estimates show crime syndicates obtain much of their income from narcotics trafficking. Overall, he said, organized crime siphons an estimated $60 million annually from the nation's wealth.

He also blames entrenched racketeers and their allies in government for arousing public distrust of officials and ghetto unrest in the cities.

From January 20 through Oct. 31, 306 organized crime indictments involving 695 persons were obtained as a result of department investigations. Those statistics compare roughly with the 1968 record under former Atty. Gen. Clark—396 organized crime indictments against 800 persons.

Wilson noted, however, most of the 1969 indictments were based on investigations that began as much as eight months to a year earlier.

No accurate yardstick of the 1969 record will be available, he said, until about March when, he predicts, grand juries will start charging leading racketeers, including a number of Mafia figures.

The program is based on the strike force technique introduced by Clark two years ago when he marshalled a team of attorneys and investigators from key federal agencies for a comprehensive attack against organized crime in Buffalo, N.Y.

By the time Clark left office, seven strike forces were at work in Buffalo, Brooklyn, N.Y., Detroit, Miami, Philadelphia, Chicago and Newark.

Wilson expanded the effort by establishing new teams in New York City, Boston and Cleveland, and upping the number of attorneys in the organized crime and racketeering section from 74 to 95. The division has 177 men and is in the process of hiring another 26.

Next year, he said, plans call for 20 strike forces to be in operation, double the present number. He also said some teams will be sent for the first time west of the Mississippi.

In addition and with authorization from Atty. Gen. Mitchell, Wilson instructed FBI agents to use wiretapping against organized crime a tool spurned by Clark last year even though Congress empowered him to use it.

He did not disclose the number of wiretaps now in operation, but Mitchell has said it is substantial.

Besides strengthening the organized crime program, Wilson lists a crackdown on illegal election campaign contributions among other efforts initiated by the new administration.

"That's all our idea," he said. "The Democrats never moved against them."

Perhaps coincidentally, most of the contributions—11 corporations have been indicted so far—have been to Democratic candidates.

While Wilson directs his division's work toward ferreting out racketeers and illegal political contributors, the only department agency that deals with street crime—the kind reflected in FBI statistics—is trying to get moving.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration created seven regional field offices this fall to assist state and local governments in planning anticrime programs. But until Congress frees more money its role is uncertain.

But even with more money, the LEAA, officials admit, and the department can do little to combat the rising crime rate.

FBI Director Hoover, noting last week the volume of crime has risen 122 per cent since 1960 while population has climbed 11 per cent, suggested it may be "the nation's most serious internal problem."

But, in an unusual optimistic vein, Hoover said there are signs "the soaring crime rate in the 1970s can be contained."

He pointed to "giant strides... in the professionalization of police," new facilities and modern communications systems and cooperation among the various law enforcement agencies.

Find No Error In Conviction

RALEIGH (AP)—The state Supreme Court upheld Wednesday the conviction of 18-year-old Marie Hill, the youngest female ever sentenced to die in North Carolina.

After her conviction of the robbery-slaying of a white storekeeper near her home in Rocky Mount, the Negro girl became the center of civil rights demonstrations. Several were held in front of the State House in Raleigh while the 1969 legislature was in session.

Her attorney, Julius Chambers of Charlotte, said he would appeal to federal court.

The 4-2 Supreme Court decision finding no error in her conviction in Edgecombe County Superior Court last December automatically set her execution date for Dec. 26. However, it would be delayed by an appeal.

Miss Hill, who was charged in the robbery-slaying of W. E. Strum, who was found dead of two bullet wounds and a beating on Oct. 7, 1968.

Miss Hill denied the slaying, saying she was elsewhere at the time.

Chief justice William H. Bobbitt and Associate Justice Susie Sharp, the dissenters, expressed doubt that North Carolina's death penalty was valid at the time of her conviction.

"In our opinion the verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree should be upheld and the cause remanded for pronouncement of a judgment imposing a sentence of life imprisonment," they said.

The majority opinion, written by Associate Justice Carlisle Higgins, said "the evidence of guilt is overwhelming."

The court said Miss Hill was fully advised of her rights and that she voluntarily admitted the slaying to officers on two different occasions.

At the time of her trial, the U. S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals had ruled North Carolina's death penalty unconstitutional because of a provision in the law which allowed a person to avoid the possibility of a death penalty by pleading guilty and receiving automatic life imprisonment.

The 1969 General Assembly changed the law by abolishing that possibility.
