President Expected To Announce Viet Cutback

Runaway Balloon Carries 11-Year-Old To Icy Bath

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Rick Snyder, the 11-year-old boy who rode a runaway balloon three miles to an icy bath in the Minnesota River, says "I wasn't scared, I was just thinking real hard about how I was going to get down."

Rick, a sixth grader, was swept aloft Sunday during half-time of a National Football League game between the Minnesota Vikings and the San Francisco 49ers.

Some 43,000 spectators watched as the 25-foot hot-air balloon broke its tether and soared into the snowy sky, barely missing a light tower at Metropolitan stadium.

The ride ended three miles away, in the frigid waters of the Minnesota River.

"I was pretty high," Rick said. "I'd say about 1,000 feet. I was in the clouds part of the time."

Rick said he understood the operation of the balloon well enough to turn off the propane burner which heated the air inside it. But he said he picked the wrong time to do it.

"I saw I was going to come down in the river," he said "but there wasn't anything I could do about it. I turned the burner back on again, but it was too late. The balloon just sort of dragged into the river and I got out. Then the balloon drifted on and took off again."

Rick said he had to swim about 25 feet to shore in water over his head but had no difficulty.

The youth was picked up by a passing motorist and returned to the stadium in time for the end of the game, which Minnesota won 10-7. He had dried his clothes in a Vikings dressing room dryer.

Holidays Will Begin On Friday

The Greenville City Schools and the Pitt County Schools, as well as East Carolina University and Pitt Technical Institute, will close Friday afternoon for the Christmas holidays.

The four schools will resume their normal operations on Monday, Jan. 5.

Students in the Greenville City Schools will take their exams Jan. 28-30.

The decision does not cover private social clubs.

Rather, it covers swimming pools and other facilities shared by families that own homes in a particular suburban area.

The ruling was given in a case from suburban Fairfax County, Va., where a Negro family was denied use of a subdivision's recreation facility, Little Hunt

The balloon was featured in a halftime show to promote the St. Paul Winter Carnival in January.

Rick's mother, Mrs. D. L. Snyder of St. Paul, had been in the balloon's gondola. She stepped out, expecting the balloon to rise to the end of its 200-foot tether. But the line snapped, and the red-and-white-striped balloon rose quickly and was lost to sight.

Rick, whose parents are amateur balloonists, said he has been aloft before — but always at the end of a rope.

He said the experience hasn't dampened his enthusiasm for riding in balloons.

"I'll probably go up again," he said, "but it may not be for awhile now."

50-50 Chance For 5 Survivors

LONDON (AP) — The five surviving babies from the second set of sextuplets recorded in Britain have "a better than 50 per cent chance of survival," one of their doctors said today.

Rosemary Letts, 23-year-old wife of a computer engineer, was delivered by Caesarean section of five girls and a boy early today, but one of the girls was stillborn.

Mrs. Letts had been treated with a fertility drug. "They're lovely, really lovely, every one of them," said Mrs. Letts' husband, John, 25, as he looked at the five babies in their incubators. "I can't believe it's all over."

The couple was married in 1966.

The operators maintained the park and swimming pool were private and Negroes did not have legal right of entry. The Negro family and the white family which leased the home to the Negroes sued for damages but lost in Virginia courts.

Douglas said the court majority could find nothing to support the idea that Little Hunting Park was a private social club. "There was no plan or purpose of exclusiveness," he said. "It is open to every white person within the geographic area, there being no selective element other than race."

He added: "What we have here is a device functionally comparable to a racially restrictive covenant."

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is expected to announce a third round of U.S. troop withdrawals from Vietnam when he speaks to the nation tonight in an updated report on his efforts to end the war.

The White House said the brief speech, to be carried live by network television and radio at 6 p.m. EST, will be an extension of the President's Nov. 3 nationwide address in which he outlined his plans for bringing the fighting to a close.

Nixon had said during his last news conference a week ago today he would announce another American troop pullout from the war zone by Christmas.

Nixon made no estimate then of the number of U.S. troops to come out of Vietnam and the White House in announcing this latest speech did not mention any figures, but widespread speculation has placed the total at 30,000 to 40,000.

So far, the administration has pulled out about 63,000 troops from the war zone, which means some 40,000 more must be withdrawn if Nixon is to meet the 100,000-man reduction goal he has set for this year.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird also declined Sunday to disclose how many troops might come out in the next round of withdrawals, but he said the situation is encouraging regarding South Vietnam's ability to take over more of the fighting.

Laird acknowledged little if any movement at Paris and he said there has been an increase of North Vietnamese infiltration into the South recently.

But, the Pentagon chief said, "we have had great success this year" in the Vietnamization of the war, which he described as the "cornerstone" of administration policy in the war.

The secretary also said as of today the U.S. troop ceiling in the war zone is 484,000 men, a reduction of 63,500 troops since the administration took office nearly a year ago.

Actually, American troop strength in Vietnam as of last Thursday was placed at 472,500, the U.S. Command in Saigon announced. This placed it 11,500 below the ceiling.

Laird spoke on "Issues and Answers," an ABC television-radio interview program.

Nixon's 100,000-man goal was stated during a news conference earlier in the year after former Johnson administration Defense Secretary Clark Clifford had said that that many troops should be withdrawn by the end of 1969.

Nixon told the news conference he hoped to exceed Clifford's goal.

N.C. Gears Up For Furthering Of Integration

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina is gearing for major efforts to step up racial integration in its higher education system as a result of a federal civil rights compliance survey.

Dr. Cameron West, state director of higher education, said today changes probably will be suggested shortly after Christmas.

"Our efforts to achieve a greater racial mix in our institutions of higher education will no doubt have to be stepped up considerably," West said.

Suggestions will come as a result of a study by a team from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The team is currently visiting campuses in the state.

A memorandum prepared by West's staff shows that in other states in which the HEW study has taken place, recommendations were made for changes on several points.

Among changes mentioned in the memorandum are recommendations for consolidation of institutions, elimination of duplications of courses at neighboring institutions, faculty exchanges to get black professors teaching white students and vice versa, and recruitment programs aimed at greater racial mixes.

Statistics in West's office show that despite existing integration efforts, traditionally white schools are still 98 per cent white and traditionally Negro schools are still 99 per cent Negro.

Seven Killed As Bus Wrecked

GAP, Pa. (AP) — A bus carrying 40 Eastern Star lodge members and guests with Christmas gifts for residents of a home for the aged skidded on a snowy highway Sunday, hit a power pole and toppled on its side in a field, killing seven and injuring 34.

The dead, all women, were from the Philadelphia area.

Supertanker Is Sunk By Explosion And Fire; No Deaths, No Coastal Harm

ROTTERDAM (AP) — The 207,000-ton Dutch supertanker Marpessa became the biggest ship ever sunk when she went down early today off the West African coast.

The Marpessa, owned by Royal Dutch Shell, was ripped by an explosion and fire last Friday. The crewmen put out the blaze, but water poured into the engine room and the tanker began to sink stern first. Ocean tugs tried to save her, but the ship sank 50 miles northwest of Dakar.

Two crewmen were injured in the explosion and two were reported missing. The survivors were taken aboard the British tanker Serenia Saturday. It was not known what caused the explosion.

The ship sank while en route to the Persian Gulf after delivering her first cargo of crude oil in Rotterdam. The Marpessa was built in Japan and delivered to Shell on Sept. 30. Because her cargo tanks were empty, the sinking did not raise a pollution problem.

Although the $13 million Marpessa was the biggest ship ever sunk, her sinking was not the most costly in maritime history.

Post Office Vault Looted

SOUTHERN PINES, N.C. (AP) — Unidentified thieves broke into the Southern Pines post office late Sunday or early today and cleaned a walk-in vault of an unknown amount of cash, stamps, money orders and a money order stamping machine.

Postal officials who asked not to be identified said the robbers apparently had entered between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. by breaking the lock of a rear basement door.

They said a hole had been cut—apparently with a welding torch—into the vault door, opening a space big enough for a man to crawl through.

The officials, who said a Post Office Department directive prohibited them from disclosing the value of the haul, said they had called in the FBI to assist Chief Earle Sewell of the Southern Pines Police Department in investigating the robbery.

Fireman Ending 40-Year Career

A. B. Sumrell

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

He finds it hard to believe that time could go by so fast, but on Dec. 31 assistant fire chief A. B. (Berry) Sumrell will retire from active service after 40 years and 4 months on the force.

"Looking back now, Sumrell said, it just doesn't seem that I've been here 40 years. Looking that far into the future sounds like a mighty long time."

The assistant chief recalled his first association with the fire department as a member of the volunteer force. "I was 20 years old when I joined the volunteers in 1927 and at the time the department had only three trucks," he said.

In August, two years later, following urging by Chief George W. Gardner, Sumrell joined the regular staff as a

Neighborhood Facility Rights Are Upheld By Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 5 to 3 today that Negro homeowners may not be barred from recreation facilities open to their white neighbors.

Their right, said Justice William O. Douglas, stems from an 1866 civil rights law and if they are denied access they may sue in state or federal courts.

The decision does not cover private social clubs.

Rather, it covers swimming pools and other facilities shared by families that own homes in a particular suburban area.

The ruling was given in a case from suburban Fairfax County, Va., where a Negro family was denied use of a subdivision's recreation facility, Little Hunt

Park.

The operators maintained the park and swimming pool were private and Negroes did not have legal right of entry. The Negro family and the white family which leased the home to the Negroes sued for damages but lost in Virginia courts.

Douglas said the court majority could find nothing to support the idea that Little Hunting Park was a private social club.

"There was no plan or purpose of exclusiveness," he said. "It is open to every white person within the geographic area, there being no selective element other than race."

He added: "What we have here is a device functionally comparable to a racially restrictive covenant."

The decision was an extension of the court's ruling in June 1968 that the 1866 law forbid racial discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing, private as well as public.

Douglas said transfer of the white family's share in Little Hunting Park went along with lease of the home.

He said the 1866 law forbids operators of Little Hunting Park to interfere with the white family's right to lease this share as well as the home.

With Douglas in the majority were Justices Hugo L. Black, William J. Brennan Jr., Potter Stewart and Thurgood Marshall. Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices John Marshall

Harlan and Byron White dissented. This was the chief justice's first dissent in a civil rights case in the high court.

Harlan, writing for the three dissenters, said the majority's view was not supported by the language of the 1866 law and is "unnecessary and unwise" in light of passage last year of a new federal fair housing law.

The house in today's case was leased in 1965 by Paul E. Sullivan to T. R. Freeman Jr., a Negro. Both families sued when the Freemans were barred from Little Hunting Park. The Nixon administration supported their stand when the case came to the high court.

Douglas' opinion was announced from the bench by Justice Black. No explanation was given for Douglas' absence.

Miss Sandra Lance Is Bride Of David Peele

MONTREAT — Miss Sandra Lee Lance became the bride of David Mendenhall Peele on Sunday at 3:00 p.m. in the Gaither Chapel here.

The Rev. Calvin H. Thielman officiated at the ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Carolyn Herman, organist.

The chapel was decorated with baskets of mixed white flowers and candles.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Lee J. Lance of Greenville and Mrs. Elwood Cox Peel of Raleigh and the late Mr. Peele.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of candlelight bridal satin designed with a high neckline and long fitted sleeves which extended into points over her hands. The front, back and chapel train were appliqued with lace.

She wore a mantilla fingertip veil and carried a nose-gay of white roses.

Miss Ann Way Gilbreath of Greensboro was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Thomas Breese of Johnson City, N. Y., sister of the bridegroom, Miss Sheila Edney of Hendersonville, Miss Dorothy Cynthia Cooper of Charleston, S. C., Mrs. Ronald R. Young of Raleigh and Mrs. David L. Shelnett of Statesboro, Ga.

The attendants were attired in formal gowns of moss green, jumper style with off white crepe blouses with round collars and long full sleeves. They wore flat bows of moss green as headpieces and carried nosegays of green tinted carnations tied with off white ribbon.

Donald R. Young of Raleigh served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Woody Peele of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom, Charles Lance of Greenville, brother of the bride, Elwood Ray of Burlington, uncle of the bridegroom, Thomas Breese of Johnson City, N. Y., brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Woody West of Raleigh.

The bride's mother selected a light blue wool knit dress with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a green coat-dress ensemble with matching accessories.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a pink wool crepe dress with matching accessories.

The couple will reside in Springfield, Mass.

The bride attended Page High School, Greensboro, Montreat-Anderson Junior College and graduated from East Carolina University.

The bridegroom attended Montreat-Anderson Junior College and Atlantic Christian College. He is serving in the U. S. Army and has just returned from Vietnam.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Monte Vista Hotel, Black Mountain.

How Can Reader Get Her Husband Back?

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Please rush me 10 "DO'S AND DON'TS" on how to get my husband back. He hasn't actually left me, he's just not here. I am 26 and Harold is 28 and he hasn't even held my hand since last June.

We have two adorable children. We had planned to have four, but if I'm going to have any more, I will have to look into artificial insemination. I've been complaining about this for a long time, but it hasn't done me much good. Harold says he's "tired." [But he's not too tired to play 36 holes of golf every Sunday!]

Then it suddenly hit me. I guess I just don't appeal to him anymore. I don't know why. I'm the same girl he chased all over the campus at Nebraska U. back in 1963. I haven't let myself go to seed and I know there's nobody else. I just hate to be the aggressor, but if I wait for Harold to make the first move nothing will ever happen. Besides, I have my pride. So please be a pal, Abby, and send me those 10 "DO'S AND DON'TS" on how to get my husband back. Thank you.

LOST HAROLD

DEAR LOST: I wish there were 10 "Do's and Don'ts" on how to revive a marriage, but there aren't. Every marriage is different. [And so is every "Harold."] Face your problem squarely, and tell it to Harold! Don't play a waiting game, and forget your pride. Harold obviously has a problem. It could be physical. Or emotional. In any case he has cooled off far too much for a young man who is still on the sunny side of 30.

DEAR ABBY: I am a freshman in college. My boyfriend of three weeks invited me to spend a four-day ski-holiday with him during the Christmas break. He is a senior and a very nice guy.

My parents will be on a trip during that time, and I will be caring for my 8-year-old brother. Do you think it would be all right if I were to ask my boyfriend if I might take my little brother along? My boyfriend has already rented a chalet in the mountains, and I'm afraid if I don't go with him he might ask somebody else. I like this boy a lot and don't want to lose him.

SOUTHERN CAL

DEAR SOUTHERN: Why not? Maybe your boyfriend has a little sister he'd like to bring along.

DEAR ABBY: Your column in which you sounded a note of warning to those who could be having a "treat" instead of a treatment interested me.

Unfortunately, some properly licensed and presumably "ethical" therapists, both medical and otherwise, are now engaging in a wide range of body contact intimacies in the name of "sensitivity training" and other euphemisms.

I am aware that you must remain neutral with respect to your comments on techniques in the professions, but when you advised parents and responsible family members to use a little common sense and investigate any suspicious "treatment," I couldn't agree with you more.

If more people insisted on more information from doctors, psychiatrists, psychologists and others in the allied professions, "treatment" would cease to be a mysterious ritual, and could be much better understood by everyone.

VIRGINIA JOHNSON, CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGIST

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to SPOOK, who hated his October 31st birthday, and whose Patron Saint was "WOLFGANG." He ought to feel lucky. I have two children [13 years and 8 years old] and they were both born on Halloween. And as if that wasn't bad enough, our name is FRANKENSTEIN.

Very Truly Yours,
MRS. P. FRANKENSTEIN, SEATTLE, WASH.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Don't Let Accidents Mar This Christmas Season

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP)—The holiday season is also the hazardous season but advance planning and strict adherence to safety rules can do much to prevent accidents, says Mrs. Harriet Bishop Howe, home and industrial safety expert.

Only a fifth of the nation's accidents occur in industry, while nearly half take place in the home, she points out. At this time of year Christmas trees and decorations, the flood of toys and gifts and the many visitors and parties present especially dangerous situations.

Mrs. Howe, who regularly preaches safety for the home and family through talks before women's clubs, civic groups and school audiences and is treasurer of Howe Services here, a firm that specializes in industrial safety programs, has been active for 20 years in the field of accident prevention.

"We're trying to teach your husband safety in his plant," she tells women. "We want him to come home and spread the word there."

She advises women to make sure the Christmas tree has been well soaked in water and that the stand in which it is placed also is filled with water. "Make sure that cords, plugs and lights are in good working order," she adds. "Remember, the cord that was good last year has spent 12 months in the closet. It could be dried out and dangerous. Don't overload outlets, and always turn out the tree lights when you leave."

COOKING IS FUN!

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
GUESTS FOR DINNER

The food editor of "House Beautiful" has kindly contributed her fine recipe for prunes to serve with pork.

- Pork Roast
- Oven Potatoes
- Helen McCully's Baked Prunes
- Salad Bowl
- Bread Tray
- Coffee Jelly with Custard Sauce

HELEN MCCULLY'S BAKED PRUNES

- 1 package (1 pound) extra large prunes
- 1 small bottle (4-5 pint) chablis or other dry white wine (about 1 2-3rd cups)

Into a one-quart casserole turn the prunes; add the wine. Cover and let stand at room temperature for 48 hours; stir several times. Bake, covered, in a preheated 225-degree oven for two hours, stirring several times. Serve warm or hot. Makes eight servings.

Grifton Garden Club Plans Party

GRIFTON—Plans for a Christmas party were discussed at Monday's meeting of the Grifton Garden Club held at the home of Mrs. H.C. Oglesby.

The party will be held on Dec. 19 at the home of Mrs. J.A. Rogers. Husbands of club members will be special guests. Mrs. John Glenn will be in charge of entertainment, Mrs. G.L. Tucker, Mrs. Richard Nelson and Mrs. J.E. Smith will head the refreshment committee.

Mrs. A.D. Wall presided at the business session and heard reports from committees. It was announced that pansies scheduled for sale this month will not be available until January.

Mrs. Glenn and Mrs. Ed Comer were appointed to assemble the club Christmas tree which is placed each year, by the club, in the lobby of the Post Office. The tree is decorated with ornaments made by members.

The Senate Bobbled Tax Ball

It appears that the U.S. Senate has passed a hedge podge tax "reform" bill which the senators are fully aware will have to be drastically changed in a House-Senate conference committee.

The bill is a Santa Claus measure and it is likely that many senators voted for it merely so they would be on record as favoring its various goodies when they are confronted by pressure groups back home.

Almost everyone agrees that the Senate's tax bill will have to be changed to a great extent in order to reach a compromise with the bill passed by the House. There is also the likelihood that if the final compromise bill were to come out with most of the Senate provisions it would face a veto when it reaches the White House.

There is much that needs to be changed in the federal government's tax structure. Some taxpayers are paying too much and others not enough. However, what started out as an effort to change these inequities would up in the Senate becoming a great give-away program.

The United States is engaged in a struggle with inflation today that is as dangerous as any war we have fought. If the Senate bill were enacted the war against inflation would be lost.

Good Reasons Why We Should Buy Baldhead

Whether North Carolina is going to purchase Baldhead Island and preserve it in its natural state is a question that now has been plopped squarely into the lap of the 1971 General Assembly.

Gov. Bob Scott has indicated the matter in the final analysis will be left to the legislature for action, although it is reasonable to assume the administration will have a recommendation on the question at least by the time a proposed budget goes to the legislature. No one can argue with the governor's statement, "We just don't have $5.5 million lying around that we can go out and plunk down on the table."

In spite of the cost involved, there are good reasons for North Carolina to purchase the island and preserve it. In spite of the hesitancy of the governor to commit the state to the purchase at this time, we trust that both the administration and the legislature will give favorable consideration to the acquisition of the island.

Likely Choice For Demo Post

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES RALEIGH—James B. (Jim) Hunt Jr. is considered in top party circles not only to be a leading but probably the most logical choice for election to the Senate Democratic party chairmanship next month.

national committee. The Hunt was appointed to the State Democratic chairman. The latter is an unofficial position but one which was created to find ways of bringing more young voters into the party.

WILLIAM SHIRES

YOUTHFUL—If recommended and elected, Hunt would become the youngest state party chairman in history. His is only 32 years old.

BACKGROUND — Jim Hunt not only holds a law degree from the University of North Carolina but also a Masters degree in economics from N.C. State University. He has written numerous articles on agricultural economics and his Masters thesis was chosen one of the three best in the nation by the American Farm Economics Association. He served as an economic advisor to the kingdom of Nepal from 1964 to 1966.

Pres. Nixon's Tax Dilemma

By ROLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK Washington — Congressional tax-writers are set to defy President Nixon's veto threat against a tax bill with tax and Social Security Christmas presents to the taxpayer, thereby confronting the President with a dilemma of grave dimensions—partly political, partly economic.

sibility. Treasury officials wanted Mr. Nixon to publicly urge restraint on the tax bill. A similar request was made by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, foremost Congressional tax-writer and chairman of the Senate-House conference.

The immediate source of Mr. Nixon's problem is his unusually explicit press conference statement last Monday night, an unpleasant surprise to Capitol Hill, that he would veto a tax reform bill containing two costly Senate amendments: a 15 percent hike in Social Security payments and an increase in the present $600 personal income tax exemption to $800.

The President's new hard line only became visible, even in private, at his weekly meeting with Republican Congressional leaders on Dec. 3 when he promised to veto any bill if necessary. But nobody in Congress—certainly not Mills—was prepared for Mr. Nixon's uncharacteristically blunt press conference pledge to veto a bill constructed to the Senate's specifications.

What made this disconcerting to Congressional tax-writers were the hard facts of life on Capitol Hill. No matter how much Mills cleans up the sordid report which the Senate-House conference now writing the final version of the bill is determined to approve something close to the blacklisted provisions.

Indeed, Congressional leaders of both parties warned Mr. Nixon weeks ago that the 15 percent Social Security boost would be in the final tax bill despite its inflationary impact. Acknowledging this, the President conceded privately that his proposed 10 percent increase in a separate bill was not sweet enough for Congressional taste.

Troubles Of Hollywood

It is no secret that the major film companies are in a great deal of difficulty. The big, colorful films that cost $20 million are grossing $600,000, and the small films which cost $600,000 are grossing $20 million. One of the problems is that many of the motion picture companies are now owned by conglomerates who haven't had too much experience in the business.

Typical of the companies under fire is Blockbuster Films, which for years produced one-third of all the movies made in Hollywood.

Whatever may be the effect of the five percent cut, much will depend upon weather conditions, as always, as to what actual production will be. An exceptionally favorable growing season could lift the harvest to a level above the effective quotas.

Credit For Welfare Clients?

By ELMER ROESSNER All the other retail chains will watch Montgomery Ward's deal with the National Welfare Rights Organization whereby up to 3,000 persons on welfare will get up to $100 credit.

There are two things wrong with the plan. First, if it succeeds, millions more on welfare may get similar credit thus swelling the $100 billion outstanding in consumer credit, which is inflationary.

The industry as makers have cut production to demand. These layoffs and loss of dealers' and salesmen's incomes will have chain reaction effects on businesses who sell these people.

Linked By Same Search

By D. M. KREISHER Associated Press Writer NEW YORK (AP) — People in big cities are reputed to be cold and unfriendly to strangers, but newcomers to New York gain instant membership in a club that entitles them to endless sympathy and advice.

The group is the "Hunting for a Home Club," a fellowship of blood, sweat and tears shared by nearly everyone of moderate or lower income who has tried to find a place to live in this city where living space is one of the rarest commodities.

The newcomer is welcomed into the club by his new fellow workers, by deskmen and bell-boys at the hotel he uses as a base while hunting and by others who learn of his status.

The depth of emotion expressed by the wellwisher is a good indication of the time lapse since he went through the same trauma.

Such expressions of concern can go a long way toward subduing the waves of frustration and hopelessness that engulf the home hunter after a few days of futile search.

Of more questionable value is the abundance of advice veterans of the home-hunting campaign give to the greenhorn. The ideas are valid in most cases, but, unfortunately, also are known by most of the other contestants in the frantic game.

The most common technique is to search the real estate section of the newspapers, particularly the massive section in the Sunday New York Times. Old pros will tell you the section can be obtained in certain locations as early as Thursday and is readily available on Saturday.

The sight of this seemingly endless selection is at first reassuring. But, after combing the columns for ads that match his aims in size, costs and locations, the seeker takes the greatly reduced list and a handful of dimes to the nearest telephone. There he probably will find most of the openings were taken days ago.

Those romantic or artistic souls who seek a place in Greenwich Village are directed to the ads in the weekly Village Voice. The eager apartment hunter then joins the early Thursday morning queue at the stand where the Voice first is distributed.

Unless he came with the street sweepers he'll find himself well back in a line of hunters who pay their money and wait to grab the copies as they come off the truck and race to the nearest phone booth. Chances are, when the seeker finally gets through to the apartment manager, after numerous busy signals, the apartment he wanted already is taken.

After days or weeks, depending on his patience, the home seeker either revises his rent limit upward, his desires in a home "downward, or settles for an area of the city a little less desirable.

Or he could give in and resort to a broker—easier on the nerves and more reliable probably but it means a loss of face among those who "did it on my

State Sen. Albert J. Ellis Succumbs

JACKSONVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Jacksonville civic leader and state Sen. Albert J. Ellis died Sunday afternoon in Onslow Memorial Hospital at the age of 56 after several weeks of declining health.

A wake will be held at 8 p.m. tonight at the Infant of Prague Catholic Church in Jacksonville. The funeral mass will be at 11 a.m. Tuesday at the church, with burial in Onslow Memorial Park.

Ellis was born in New Bern on June 6, 1913.

He moved to Jacksonville in 1939 after he received his law degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He had received a bachelor's degree in commerce from UNC in 1935.

Onslow County sent him as its representative to the state Senate during the 1967 legislative session and again during 1969 session, which ended last July. During the last General Assembly, Ellis was chairman of the Judiciary 1-Committee. He served last year on the state Constitution Study Commission and was a member of the Legislative Research Commission, which conducts studies for the General Assembly between sessions.

Ellis was active in court reform legislation and served on the original committee for improvement of courts appointed by former Gov. Luther Hodges.

He had been chairman of the Onslow Democratic executive committee from 1958 to 1962, and he was a delegate to the 1956 and 1964 Democratic national conventions.

He was a senior partner in the Jacksonville law firm of Ellis, Hooper, Warlick and Waters.

The World War II Army veteran had served as president of the Jacksonville USO.

once was, and he planned on producing 350 films the first year—"Significant films that would appeal to the young people of the country, adult films which would tear the sham and hypocrisy away from the sex lives of people who lived in the suburbs and socially conscious films about homosexuality, drugs and animal fetishes."

His remarks were reported on the business pages of newspapers, and the stock of Riptide Fire Hydrant Conglomerate rose from $6 to $750 a share.

The first film Meacham started was based on a book his wife had read, which she thought would make a wonderful movie. It was such a hot property that Meacham ordered it to be made in secrecy and banned all press from the set. The picture, when finished, cost $20 million, but Meacham was certain it would gross $100 million.

There was great excitement at the first sneak preview in Pasadena. Riptide executives from all over the world flew in to see Meacham's first effort. They took over the Rose Bowl for an after-theater party.

The preview cards the audience filled out were ecstatic. Some patrons wrote it was the best picture they had ever seen. It was a great evening.

Unfortunately a lawyer from MGM happened to be in the audience that night, and the next morning he called Blockbuster Films and told them that their picture had already been filmed and MGM had all the rights to it.

contact with Mr. Nixon disagree. The President, they insist, meant exactly what he said Monday night. For the President to concur in an out-of-balance tax bill, they said, would convince corporate business that his anti-inflation stance is frivolous.

But a veto of much-desired tax relief would carry its economic liabilities. The bill contains extension of the surtax at a 5 percent rate for six months and repeal of the investment credit. Accordingly, the veto would remove more than $10 billion from the plus side of the budget and free more dollars for both consumer and industrialist.

Furthermore, if the tax bill is vetoed, it is unlikely that Congress would extend the surtax or repeal the investment credit in separate measures next year.

That is the essence of Mr. Nixon's dilemma.

Belfast Waits For New Clash

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer
BELFAST, Northern Ireland, (AP) — Christmas for the Nellins family, who are Roman Catholics, will be spent in a two-room wooden hut amid a sea of mud.

Christmas for three generations of the Graham family, on the Protestant side of Belfast's barbed wire "peace line," will be much more in the family tradition.

For both the Nellins and the Grahams, however, as for most of Northern Ireland's 1 1/2 million people, the festival will be clouded by fear that more communal violence may not be far away. In the past year more than 20 were killed and hundreds wounded, and each side blames the other.

Trouble started last summer for George Nellins and his young wife and five children. They lived then in a three-bedroom house on Lisburn Road, a mainly Protestant area in Belfast's southern suburbs. Belfast had long been boiling up toward one of the clashes which have erupted here every generation or so for two centuries. In August it came to a head.

Nellins, a merchant seaman, was home on leave when the threatening letters started arriving—"Get out or be burned out," or "Get back to your own," meaning get back to a Catholic district.

"Until then we'd always got on fine with the neighbors," he says. "It wasn't them that did the threatening, it was people from outside.

He decided to move his wife and the children, 1 to 7 years old, to his mother-in-law's house in a mixed area dividing the Protestant stronghold of Sandy Row from the Catholic Falls Road area. Again threatening letters started.

Again they decided to quit. Now, with more than 100 families with similar histories, they live at Beechmount, a mud-stream building site dotted with huts and trailer homes. The Nellins home is a hut of the kind normally used on building sites for temporary offices.

Hilda Nellins fetches water from a faucet 50 yards away. Mobile latrines and washrooms stand across the road. She cooks on a bottled gas stove.

Their old house of Lisburn Road still is standing, unlike hundreds which were burned out by gasoline bombs as soon as the occupants fled. But the Nellins won't go back.

"As soon as we left they looted everything worth taking and smashed the rest," George Nellins says.

"They took all my clothes, all my seaman's gear. We were left with nothing."

Nellins' main worry is that he can't get back to work. While at sea he sent his wife $36 a week and she drew $9.36 in government children's allowances.

Every six months or so Nellins would arrive on leave with the traditional seaman's bankroll in his pocket and presents for the kids.

Now the family draws $36.60 in unemployment pay and children's allowances together, and the father is at home to be fed.

"It's just not possible to leave the wife and kids in these circumstances," Nellins says, "and everybody says the real trouble is still to come. Nobody wants it but everybody expects it."

Letitia Graham, a lively grandmother living in Warkworth Street right by the barbed wire and steel shuttering of the army's peace line, says much the same thing: "The trouble hasn't started yet."

Mrs. Graham, wife of a retired locomotive fitter, has lived 40 years in the redbrick streets on the Protestant side of West Belfast.

With a married daughter and five grandchildren round the corner, and a married grandchild two minutes' walk away, Mrs. Graham wouldn't like to move.

She looks back to the August fighting with some disbelief.

"In 40 years I'd seen nothing like it," she says.

"They (the Catholics) came up from the Falls shouting and yelling and throwing bricks. And we'd had Catholic families living in the street for years without a word being said."

Now life for the Grahams goes on much as before, except that Catholic neighbors have retreated beyond the wire and soldiers with guns keep watch.

At Christmas the Grahams and the children and grandchildren will gather much as before, except that they can see that some burned houses in the street have no windows left to put a Christmas tree in, or people left to put one there.

All-Out Support Sought For '69 Seal Campaign

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, 1919 Christmas Seal chairman for the Eastern Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, has asked for all-out support of this year's truck engineer.

"When I took the job as a regular in 1929, there were only two others on the paid staff: Chief Gardner and Jasper L. Jones." At the time, the volunteer staff had 24 men, he said.

The fourth truck was added to the department in 1942 and Sumrell was made captain in charge of that truck. "I was captain but actually I was still driving the truck," he recalled. The new addition was a ladder truck, Sumrell added.

Following the building of the fire department sub-station on Chestnut Street in 1952, Sumrell was made assistant chief along with Jones. At his retirement, he will have served over 17 years as assistant chief.

Sumrell said that at the time he first went to work with the department, they worked on a six-day on, one-day off schedule. Following that, the policy was changed to a two-day on and one day off schedule.

"It took a long time to get our present working schedule of 24 hours on and 24 off but it makes it a lot better," he pointed out.

Sumrell currently has the longest term of service of any active city employee. "If I had it to do over again, I would certainly do it. The department and the city have been very good to me and I've honestly enjoyed my job here."

Looking back, Sumrell recalled that he first witnessed the old two-horse drawn water wagon heading for a fire when he was seven years old. "That truck and those horses was one of the most beautiful sights I had ever seen, and I broke away from my grandfather to follow the truck and see where it was going."

New on the job in 1929, Sumrell was called to his first fire two days after joining the staff.

"I went to work on Friday and the next Sunday I was by myself at the department when the fire call came. I knew it had to come sooner or later but that first call really had me shaking," he remembered.

But, with the help on one of the volunteers who arrived, we were able to get to the fire and somehow put it out with very little damage resulting," he

Urge Aussies To 'Mutiny'

MELBOURNE (AP) — Representatives of 32 Australian trade unions today urged the 3,300 Australian conscripts in Vietnam to lay down their arms.

At a special meeting, the unions called on the soldiers to "mutiny against the heinous barbarism perpetrated in our name upon innocent men, women and children in Vietnam."

They also appealed to young workers to refuse to register for the draft and urged all workers to participate in a nationwide strike next April 17 to protest Australia's part in the Vietnam War.

campaign in the 22 county area in an effort to "make this a record-breaking year."

"We are running well ahead of last year's drive and we want to stay ahead," Jenkins said. "We know that the people in the 22 county area served by the Eastern TB-RD Association are supporting our efforts to set a record for Christmas Seal contributions."

Contributions received so far have put this year's campaign over 40 per cent ahead of last year's drive, he noted. Continued support would help carry out the program activities in the eastern counties by providing patient services, research funds, educational programs and professional workshops, Jenkins added.

"This is the time to make an all-out effort to make the 1969 campaign a record breaking drive, he said. I urge everyone to answer their Christmas Seal letters as soon as possible so the TB-RD Association can get on with the business of helping to protect the health of our community."

Mrs. Ruth Peterson, executive director of the Association, said that more than 80,000 Christmas Seal letters were sent to residents of the 22 counties in October. Response to the drive, she said, has been excellent.

Hanoi Says Unit Surrendered

SAIGON (AP) — A South Vietnamese military spokesman said today he could neither confirm nor deny a report from Hanoi that a South Vietnamese commando group has surrendered in North Vietnam.

The U.S. Command said it had no comment. Hanoi's official news agency said Saturday the group was led by a South Vietnamese captain named Nguyen Thai Kien.

Married to the former Ethel Butler of Atlanta, Ga., the Sumrells are the parents of two: Mickie (Mrs. Stuart Savage) and Wayne, a college student in Nashville, Tenn.

Plans now call for continuing a part time job in charge of the parking meters, Sumrell said. In addition, retirement will allow for hunting and fishing, something "I've had very little time to do through the years," he added.

"I've enjoyed my job here from the day I started to work," Sumrell concluded. "These 40 years have really gone by and there have been a lot of changes."

Sumrell currently has the longest term of service of any active city employee. "If I had it to do over again, I would certainly do it. The department and the city have been very good to me and I've honestly enjoyed my job here."

YDC Elects New Prexy

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — David Sternoff, 29, of Bellevue, Wash., has been elected president of the Young Democrats.

Sternoff won a majority of votes at the four-day biennial convention of Young Democratic Clubs of America on the 10th ballot Sunday, receiving 474 of 926 votes cast.

The Young Democrats also adopted resolutions contrary to direction urged by senior Democrats.

As Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine and former Vice President Hubert Humphrey spoke of withdrawing from Vietnam as soon as feasible, the group's convention called Saturday for "immediate and total withdrawal."

And the delegates criticized national Democratic chairman, Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, accusing him of cutting into the influence of Young Democrats by seeking a new youth arm of the party. Harris had been scheduled to speak but did not come to Las Vegas.

Young Democrats also lowered their maximum age from 40 to 35 effective in 1972. While older members were at a $10 cocktail party, the remaining younger delegates voted to lower it to 30 in 1971, but this measure must be approved by the national committee.

Muskie told newsmen the Young Democrats "should be a clearly identified group, not influenced by the older and established group."

Sternoff made no public comment during the convention on the differences between the young party and the senior party.

Would Find A 'Middle Ground'

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Dr. Mary Calderone, executive director of the U.S. Sex Information and Education Council, says it's time to find the middle ground between the exploitation of sex and the repression of it.

Mrs. Calderone spoke Sunday night during a panel discussion at the Jewish community center in St. Louis County. "We have to meet at the middle ground in order to have a more meaningful relationship," she said. "We have to get away from the stereotypes of masculinity and femininity. Man has always been known as an activator and woman as a receptacle."

Intellectual Togetherness

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Can smart people get smarter by living together?

Pennsylvania State University is testing the idea. It has established an experimental coeducational residence hall for honor students. So far, 12 men and seven women are participating in this intellectual togetherness.

"Purpose of the program is to provide honors students an opportunity to know one another and benefit from each other's presence outside the classroom," explains Dr. Robert W. Frank Jr., professor of English and the project's faculty representative.

Efforts Begin To Find Tax Compromise Before Holidays

By EDMOND LEBRETON Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two major moves to resolve the House-Senate conflicts over massive tax reform legislation confronted Congress today as efforts began to reach a compromise before Christmas.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., said Sunday the Treasury Department had prepared an alternative plan for increasing the personal income tax exemption and would offer it to the conference committee on tax reform.

The House scheduled a vote on a separate bill increasing Social Security benefits by 15 percent. The Senate tacked on these benefits in a rider to its tax reform bill but went further, boosting the minimum monthly payment from $55 to $100.

The center of action this week is the conference committee, where moves are expected to scale down the new Social Security benefits and tax slashes the Senate added during floor debate.

One of the biggest issues of about 100 substantial differences will be whether to grant tax relief to the nation's 70 million taxpayers through a cut in rates, as voted by the House, or by an increase in the exemption from $600 to $800, as voted by the Senate.

Many leaders expect the conference will hammer out a combination of increased personal exemptions and tax rate reductions to begin after 1970.

President Nixon promised to veto the measure if it contains the costly Social Security and tax exemption provisions written in the Senate.

Gore, a conference committee member who led the Senate fight to increase the income tax exemption, said he had learned the Treasury would offer its plan on behalf of the Nixon administration.

Lawmakers were uncertain whether Nixon objected to the increase in the exemption or the fact that Gore's amendment would make it effective next year and in 1971, thus putting an almost immediate strain on the Treasury.

The conferees also had scheduled the issue of taxing private foundations for consideration. The House voted a 7 1/2 percent tax on the income of such foundations but the Senate came up with a lower levy on the assets of the foundations as a fee to pay the cost of administering regulations or foundation activities. Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the conference committee, said it will push hard for final disposition of the bill before the hoped-for pre-Christmas adjournment. Mills added, however, he could not guarantee success.

Retains Post To Assist Blind

RALEIGH (AP) — Grady R. Galloway will continue in his post as executive director of the North Carolina Commission for the Blind.

The commission voted unanimously Saturday to reappoint Galloway, who has been with the state since 1946 and has been commission director since 1965.

Commission chairman Herbert L. Hyde of Asheville announced the action and said it was "consistent with the reorganization of the commission ordered by the General Assembly and reflects the confidence in Galloway shared by all members of the new board named by Gov. Robert W. Scott as part of the reorganizational process."

Dog owners paid $2,333,801 in 1968 to license their pets in New York State.

Houston Gets Strong Effort, Taking Boston

By SHEILA MORAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Coach Clive Rush of the Boston Patriots is one man who has respect for the Houston Oilers, who are supposed to lose to the Oakland Raiders in an American Football League playoff match Saturday.

The Oilers wrapped up the regular season Sunday by scoring 10 points in the last four minutes to beat Boston 27-23 and Rush said afterwards:

"It was a strong effort by Houston which should help them in the playoffs."

Houston will need all the help it can get. Pete Beathard, playing with a foot injury, passed for two Oiler touchdowns, including an eight-yarder to Jim Bieren to tie the score, and helped save his team the embarrassment of going into the playoffs with a losing record. The Oilers wound up 6-6-2 while Oakland, the winningest team in the AFL, defends its Western title with a 12-1-1 record.

The Raiders won their division by beating Kansas City in a 10-6 nail-biter Saturday.

In Sunday games, the New York Jets, 10-4, whipped Miami 27-9 to give the Dolphins the worst record in the AFL, 3-10-1; San Diego, 8-6, pounded Buffalo, 4-10, 45-6 and Denver, 5-8-1, beat Cincinnati, 4-8-1, 27-16.

The Oilers play Oakland under the new playoff system which pits the Western Division champion against runnerup in the East. The Jets, defending world champions and Eastern Division winners, challenge Kansas City, No. 2 in the West, in the other playoff game. The winners meet for the league title on Jan. 4.

Beathard entered the game in the second period with Boston leading 16-0 and was injured again in the final period after passing for the touchdown which tied it 23-23. Roy Gerela kicked the extra point and nine plays later added his second field goal. Beathard indicated he'll be ready for Oakland and said his injury Sunday was "a little sprain" to the ankle.

Kapp Passes Vikings To Win

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
Eleven-year-old Rick Snyder must have been an inspiration to Minnesota quarterback Joe Kapp. Rick took to the air at halftime, then Joe went to the air in the fourth quarter to bring the Vikings their 12th straight National Football League victory.

Rick and his mother were in the gondola of a 25-foot-hot-air balloon participating in the halftime show of the Vikings-San Francisco game played Sunday in a snowstorm in Minnesota. When Mrs. Snyder got out of the gondola, the balloon broke its mooring and carried Rick three miles, landing in the Minnesota river.

A passing motorist got the boy out of the river and returned him to the stadium in time to see Kapp, who threw only 10 passes, put the ball in the air for a 52-yard scoring strike to Gene Washington for the victory.

ny Jurgensen for another and Curt Knight kicked a 19-yard field goal as Washington built a 17-0 halftime lead, then withstood New Orleans. The victory assured the Redskins of their first winning season since 1955.

After a scoreless first half, Green Bay exploded for 21 points in the third quarter. Two of the touchdowns were scored by Travis Williams on a 29-yard run and a 60-yard pass from Don Horn. Chicago's Gale Sayers, the NFL's leading rusher, gained 90 yards in 25 carries and boosted his total to 972 yards.

Bill Nelsen threw touchdown passes of four and 82 yards to Paul Warfield and Leroy Kelly ran five yards for a score for Cleveland, winner of the Century Division.

Bob Berry's three touchdown passes sparked Atlanta past Philadelphia which could get only a 20-yard field goal by Sam Baker.

In other NFL action Sunday, Detroit, 8-4-1, thrashed Los Angeles, 11-2, 28-0; Washington, 7-4-2, held off New Orleans, 4-9-17-14; Green Bay 7-6, topped Chicago, 1-12, 21-3; Cleveland, 10-2-1, took St. Louis, 4-8-1, 27-21; the New York Giants, 5-8, edged Pittsburgh, 1-12, 21-17; and Atlanta, 5-8 trounced Philadelphia, 4-8-1, 27-3. Capitol Division winner Dallas, 10-2-1, beat Baltimore, 7-5-1, 27-10 Saturday.

Minnesota Coach Bud Grant was pleased with his club's 12th triumph after a season-opening loss but admitted the unscheduled balloon trip stole the show. "The game was sort of an anticlimax to that," said Grant.

The game might have been anticlimatic for the hardy Minnesota fans if it had not been for Kapp and Washington. Washington got behind Kermit Alexander, hauled in the ball on the 15 and raced into the end zone.

Coastal Division champion Los Angeles, with quarterback Roman Gabriel sitting out most of the first half, simply couldn't get untracked against Detroit, being held to 96 yards total offense. Ex-Ram Bill Munson passed for two touchdowns. Errol Mann booted four field goals and the Lions also got a safety.

Charley Harraway ran 12 yards for a touchdown and caught a 30-yard pass from Son-

Yard Marker — It's Here — Somewhere!

Yard markers are very important in a football game, and when they become covered up something must be done, if it means holding up the game by sweep them off. Heavy snow in the Minnesota-San Francisco game yesterday caused a slight delay, when the officials had to clean up a little. (AP Wirephoto)

Bruins Continue To Maintain Win Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Wizard of Westwood has rubbed his magic lamp again and out popped ... no, not another Lew Alcindor; just another winning basketball team.

The Wizard of Westwood is what they call John Robert Wooden on UCLA's Westwood Hills campus. Wooden's coaching record was an impressive one with 10 conference titles and two national championships before The Big A came along to lead the Bruins to three consecutive NCAA crowns.

And, if the past weekend is any criterion, Wooden's coaching record will continue to be an impressive one even though Big Lew is plying his trade in the National Basketball Association.

UCLA ran its record to 4-0 by walloping Miami of Florida Friday night with a school scoring record 127-69 victory and whomping Texas Saturday night 99-54. John Vallely scored 24 points against the Longhorns, with Sidney Wicks adding 20 and sophomore Henry Bibby 18 as Wooden got his 500th coaching triumph.

The Bruins, however, are ranked second in The Associated Press poll behind Kentucky, also 4-0 after whipping Indiana 109-92, led by Dan Issel's 32 points.

Wooden, however, insists that UCLA, as defending national champion, is still No. 1 "at least until we lose."

Third-ranked New Mexico State ran its record to 6-0 with a 94-88 victory over Arizona State. Davidson, ranked fourth, did not play but North Carolina, rated fifth, rebounded from a loss to Kentucky and whacked Florida State 86-75. Seventh-ranked Duquesne, recuperating from two consecutive defeats, and Tennessee, No. 9, also were idle.

Rounding out the Top Ten, eighth-ranked South Carolina trimmed Virginia 62-51 and Notre Dame, No. 10, got by St. Louis 65-53.

Six teams in the Second Ten also saw action Saturday night. Louisville, ranked 11th, crushed Furman 93-69; Marquette, tied for 12th with Villanova, whipped North Texas State 83-60 and 15th-ranked Santa Clara captured the Cable Car Classic with a 58-52 decision over California.

No. 19 Ohio University, which upset 14th-ranked Purdue a week earlier, got 16th-rated Ohio State this time, 82-80. Doug Parker's layup with 51 seconds left snapped a 79-all tie. Towering Jacksonville, with two 7-footers, slaughtered Biscayne 130-65.

Elsewhere, Louisiana State made it four straight with Pete Maravich gunning in 46 points in a 97-91 win over Tulane. Two days earlier he set a Southeastern Conference record with 61 points against Vanderbilt.

Houston won the Bluebonnet Bowl Classic by defeating Kent State 74-66.

Spiders Will Meet Wildcats

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Richmond's apparently rejuvenated Spiders get a chance to make a big mark in the Southern Conference basketball race Tuesday night when they play host to Davidson's fifth-ranked Wildcats.

The Spiders appeared left for dead last week when they dropped an 81-74 decision to William and Mary's Indians and lost veteran guard Picot Frazier through an ineligible ruling the same night.

But conference officials reversed themselves later and declared Frazier eligible—and the Spiders were off and running back into the thick of the race with a 90-72 romp Saturday night past an East Carolina team that was making its league debut after running up a 3-1 nonleague record.

The victory snapped a three-game losing streak for the Spiders and was triggered by the play of 5-foot-11 junior guard Bart Eisner, making only his second appearance of the season.

Eisner broke the last tie with two free throws that made it 31-29 with 3:43 left in the first half and finished with 19 points—second only to Jim Hewitt's 22 for Richmond.

East Carolina got 19 points from Jim Modlin but fell behind 43-32 at halftime as Eisner led the surge. The Pirates were finished when the Spiders scored the first seven points of the second half.

Four other conference teams were beaten by nonleague foes—Furman by Louisville 93-69, George Washington by West Virginia 90-89, William and Mary by Duke 84-77 and The Citadel by Arkansas State 81-72.

Furman trailed Louisville by only 38-36 at intermission but faded badly in the second half. Jerry Martin and Joe Brunson led the Paladins with 17 points each.

Mike Tallent scored 33 points and Len Baltimore added 23 for George Washington, but West Virginia put five players in double figures and beat the Colonials on Wil Robinson's two free throws with 14 seconds left.

The Citadel kept its close against Arkansas State but couldn't rally from a halftime deficit despite 21 points by both Lou Meckstroth and Willie Taylor. Tom Jasper had 23 points and Bob Sherwood 22 for William and Mary, but the Indians shot only 38 per cent against Duke.

Tonight's only game has East Carolina trying its luck at Duke.

Miami Goes By Dallas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Dallas Chaparrals wouldn't let Don Freeman of the Miami Floridians enjoy a well-earned rest, so Freeman made them pay for it.

Freeman had 39 points and the Floridians a 13-point lead midway in the fourth quarter of an American Basketball Association game Sunday night. But Dallas rallied and Freeman had to come back in the final two minutes to score six more points and clinch a 119-115 victory.

Skip Thoren helped the Floridians with 28 rebounds. Cincy Powell scored 30 points and Manny Leaks 27 for Dallas.

In other Sunday games in the ABA, New Orleans downed Washington 104-94 and Denver trounced Los Angeles 122-101.

Philadelphia outlasted Chicago 126-121, Milwaukee topped 118-105, Cincinnati edged Phoenix 137-130 in two overtimes and Los Angeles nipped Seattle 131-127 in the National Basketball Association Sunday.

New Orleans opened up a five-game lead over second-place Washington in the Western Division but lost star guard Jimmy Jones for approximately two weeks with strained ligaments in his left knee in a first-quarter fall. Jones went into the game averaging 26 points.

Steve Jones led New Orleans with 29 points, and Mike Butler added 29. Gary Bradts topped Washington with 21.

Who Is Number 1?

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
The major colleges are still engaged in a verbal scrimmage over who should be No. 1, but the smaller schools have settled that question on the football field.

North Dakota State, top-ranked in The Associated Press poll, staked emphatic claim to the crown Saturday by overwhelming second-ranked Montana 30-3 in the Camellia Bowl at Sacramento, Calif.

Meanwhile, Texas A&I, ranked 11th nationally, captured the championship of the NAIA colleges by whipping Concordia of Minnesota 32-7 at Kingsville.

Tex. The losers were rated 17th.

Bear Bryant also had a magic number... but it was more like black magic. The Bear's Alabama team surrendered 47 points—his 1961, 1962 and 1966 teams didn't give up that many in a full season—and bowed to Colorado 47-33 in the Liberty Bowl at Memphis, Tenn.

Only once in Bryant's 25-year head coaching career at Maryland, Kentucky, Texas A&M and Alabama had his teams yielded more points...and that came just two weeks earlier in a 49-26 loss to Auburn.

The Camellia Bowl was only one of four NCAA College Division bowl games. Elsewhere, East Tennessee State, ranked 20th, drubbed fourth-rated Louisiana Tech 34-14 in the Grantland Rice Bowl at Baton Rouge, La.

Seventh-ranked Arkansas State outlasted Drake 29-21 in the Pecan Bowl at Arlington, Tex., and 10th-ranked Delaware whipped North Carolina Central 31-13 in the Boardwalk Bowl played indoors at Convention Hall in Atlantic City, N.J.

Colorado's victory over Alabama was primarily the work of All-American halfback Bob Anderson, who shredded the once-feared Bryant defense for 254 yards on 35 carries and three touchdowns.

North Dakota State's victory over Montana was directed by quarterback Bruce Grasamke, who completed 16 of 25 passes for 206 yards and a touchdown and ran for one score. His touchdown pass went to Little All-American halfback Paul Hatchett.

East Tennessee dumped Little All-American quarterback Terry Bradshaw 12 times for 140 yards in losses in trouncing Louisiana Tech. Bradshaw, a likely high pro choice in next month's draft, also had three passes intercepted and fumbled the ball away once.

In between those disasters, he also managed to complete 20 of 39 passes for 299 yards and two touchdowns.

Sub quarterback Bubba Crocker took over for injured starter James Hamilton midway through the first period and led Arkansas State over Drake with two scoring passes and a five-yard touchdown run. The winners had a 22-0 halftime lead.

Delaware's Tom DiMuzio, a second-team Little All-American, passed for two touchdowns and scored another as the Blue Hens whipped North Carolina Central.

Verga Gets Hot To Lead Cougar Win

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Bob Verga had a hot shooting streak late in the game and helped lead the Carolina Cougars to a 100-96 victory Saturday night over Miami in an American Basketball Association game at Charlotte.

Verga hit nine straight points in the final quarter to stop a brief surge by the Floridians.

Irv Staggs of Miami hit on three straight field goals to cut Carolina's lead to a slim one-point late in the period.

Verga had 24 total for the night to lead the Cougars. Larry Miller hit 27 points and Gene Littles added 13 in the winning

Pirates Meet Duke Tonight

Coach Tom Quinn is hoping to get his basketball team out of a two game losing streak tonight, as the Pirates of East Carolina are on the road again, meeting Duke.

Saturday night the Bucs dropped their second game in a row to Richmond, for their first Southern Conference loss.

East Carolina was plagued by foul trouble, with Jim Gregory and Jim Kiernan both fouling out early in the second half of Saturday night's ball game. Big Jim Modlin had to tread softly through the second frame with four on him, eventually fouling out late in the frame.

Richmond scored seven straight points in the second half to help put the Pirates out of the picture Saturday night, as the Spiders ended a three game losing streak.

Modlin led East Carolina's scoring with 19 points, while Jim Gregory had 13, and Jim Fairley 16.

Meanwhile in Blue Devil Country, Duke remains unbeaten after downing William and Mary 84-77 Saturday night, pulling down 60 rebounds.

Randy Denton hit for 33 points in Saturday night's game for Duke.

Peanut Research Findings

By HENRY C. RIDDICK, Asst. Agri. Ext. Agent
At the peanut in-service training program at North Carolina State University last week the latest information on peanut research was given to agricultural Extension agents who have county peanut responsibilities.

The program began with Dr. D. A. Emery discussing, along with his associates, the new N. C. 17 variety and its place in North Carolina. This new variety, as it has stood up under test, will do as well as or better than any of the varieties that we now have. But, like the other varieties, the maturity date is still hard to determine.

This coming year we will see another new herbicide labeled for peanuts and that is Lasso. This chemical should do a good job in controlling ragweed, panicum, and yellow nutsedge. Another chemical that we anticipate being cleared is 2, 4-DB which will do a good job on cocklebur.

Landplaster studies by Astor Perry have shown that you no longer receive an economic return from applying land plaster after you reach 925 lbs. per acre.

The pH of the soil is a very important factor in the production of peanuts. J. V. Baird still stands by the recommendation that a pH of 5.8 to 6.2 is the optimum point and that lime should only be applied by use of a soil test. Due to new research findings by W. V. Campbell, a new recommendation for controlling Southern Corn Rootworm will be in practice for the 1970 crop year. In his work he has proved that the highest population of larvae will emerge from the ground during the first week in August. Therefore, we will be able to receive the same or better protection by applying insecticide the first of August in half the amount that we have been recommending.

Studies done by J. W. Dickens who designed the pneumatic sampler for sampling peanut loads for grades, shows that actually the farmer got a more accurate sample with this than with the old tube type sampler. This was due to the fact that in the old tube type the force of the gate closing tended to obstruct the sample.

Work which was done by Ronald Sneed in the irrigation of peanuts showed that if you irrigated the first half of the growing season and irrigated none the second half that no difference in yield could be expected, that water was most important from July to maturity.

During the four day session we had twenty-six different speakers talking on different phases of peanut research. This is a good example of the many hours of research dedicated to peanut production here in North Carolina.

Tobacco TIPS

By S. J. WEEKS,

Pitt County Tobacco Agent

During the past few years, the tobacco farmers have not received as much net profit from their tobacco crops as was received in earlier years, for example 1951-1960. One reason for this is that the production costs have increased more rapidly than the prices received for the cured leaf.

If we were to single out one production cost that is causing the largest reduction in profits, labor cost would be close to the top of the list.

New innovations in tobacco mechanization are being introduced each year. These innovations will help reduce the labor requirements, but not enough to counteract the high labor cost enough to bring the margin of profit back in line.

There are some management alternatives that should be considered on many farms that will help increase the margin of profit. Listed below are some of the practices that can be used:

1. Crop rotation, (2) Variety selection, (3) selection of nutrient source, (4) replanting, (5) number of leaves produced per acre, (6) chemical sucker control, (7) harvesting at proper maturity stage, and (8) application of insecticides on a needed basis. Most of these practices will require little or no additional investment.

There are also some alternatives that require investment that have a high probability of being profitable.

I will be glad to discuss any of these alternatives in more detail with you upon request.

City Counts 3 Wrecks

An estimated $2,650 property damage resulted from three collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville police.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted when a car driven by Watson Spain, 57, of 800 Vanderbilt St. collided with a guard rail on the fill on the northern side of the Greene Street Tar River Bridge about 11 p.m., broke through the rail and ran down the embankment.

Investigators, who charged Spain with operating under the influence, set damage to the car at $1,000 and placed damage to the guard rail at $1,000.

Charlie James Madison, 29, of 906B West Third St. was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign following investigation of a 9:20 p.m. collision at the intersection of 14th and Evans Streets.

The Madison car, police said, collided with a vehicle driven by Elwin Allen Abel, 20, of 110 East 12th St. causing an estimated $250 damage to the Abel auto and about $100 damage to the Madison car.

Cars driven by Julia Britt Oliver, 16, of 2604 South Wright Rd. and Thomas Paul Thapp, 19, of Fayetteville were involved in a 12:21 p.m. wreck at the intersection of 14th and Elm Streets yesterday.

Damage was set at $150 to each of the vehicles and officers charged Miss Oliver with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

The average individual today uses three times as much water daily as one person used in 1900.

BETHEL — Bethel's first community Christmas tree lighting was held Friday night at the Bethel Public Library.

Mayor Joe Butterworth turned on the lights on the 35-foot cedar tree, donated by Sam Keel and decorated by the Bethel Boy Scouts.

The welcome was given by E. E. Dennis, president of the Better Bethel Bureau.

Police are looking for ducks—decoys that is—today.

Tom Hodgkin of 1411 North Overlook Dr. reported to police yesterday that some 40 duck decoys, including Red Heads and Canvas Backs, had been stolen from his home.

The decoys were valued at from $65 to $75.

Conservation Projects Are Recently Completed

Several conservation projects have been completed recently, according to reports from the Pitt Soil Conservation Service office.

Worthington Farms, Inc., of the Ballard's Community recently smoothed 34 acres. The soil has been spread over 1,200 feet of open ditch and an additional 3,500 feet of ditches have been dug.

Laddie Avery, who also lives near Ballard's Crossroads, has dug 1,700 feet of open ditch, and installed a 1,600 foot drain tile system.

Bruce E. Garris of near Greenville has built a four acre waterway.

By farming on the contour and emptying water into this waterway, Garris has greatly reduced erosion on his farm. SCS conservationist Roger Montague explained.

The soil removed from the waterway was used to fill in potholes in the field. This permits better water drainage and prevents ponding.

John King of Seven Pines has also built a grassed waterway. This 25 acre waterway was built by filling in an old ditch and shaping it with a bulldozer.

Tile was installed along the ditch to drain the land.

Row water will be carried away without causing erosion. Elmer Bland of the SCS, said King had also land smoothed a five acre field. Included in this project was the removal of old terraces and construction of a diversion to control surface water.

Montague reported that Bruce Tripp of Pactolus is working on a drainage problem on his farm. According to Montague, Tripp will construct a grassed waterway in 1970 and will install 5,800 feet of tile drain.

Breakfast Will Make Child More Interested

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP)

Does a breakfast-filled stomach make a child more alert in school and more interested in learning?

"Definitely," says Morton Waber, an insurance executive whose "Food for Thought" project has been providing breakfasts for 550 pupils every school morning for the past 20 months.

Waber used $1,000 of his own money to start the plan in the spring of 1968 at Drew Elementary School, attended largely by Negroes, in West Philadelphia. His wife, Miriam, was a kindergarten teacher there.

"She told me half the pupils came to school without breakfast and it shocked me," he recalls.

In the last school year, Waber raised $10,000 from about 200 friends and business acquaintances.

"I feel you can feed every kid in the city that's hungry," he says. "Breakfast costs only 18 cents a day for a child — and they get orange juice, milk, and a couple of slices of bread with peanut butter and jelly, or a bowl of cereal."

The Philadelphia School Board has lunch programs but does not provide breakfasts.

"I think breakfast is more important," Waber says. "The school board doesn't have the cash, and I can do it cheaper anyway because I don't have to pay any labor."

Waber buys all the food—nothing is donated—and goes to the school every morning to help the teachers serve. Some mothers also volunteer.

"No one comes in late any more," Waber says. "Teachers used to talk about the kids being inattentive and restless around mid-morning, but you don't have any discipline problems now. They're brighter, happier and smarter kids."

Waber, 53, has three children of his own, two of them in college.

He is negotiating with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, to bring his project into more neighborhood schools, with the government paying 15 cents for each breakfast.

"If I could collect $5 from 50,000 people, or get $1,000 from 250 firms I could feed every kid in a Philadelphia school who doesn't get breakfast at home," Waber says. "Wouldn't that be great?"

Modern Evangelism Use Television For Message

By BENNET BOLTON
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Modern day evangelism is being brought into more American homes by the same medium used to sell soap and sewing machines—television.

The Billy Graham Evangelistic Association (BGEA) which spends one third of its current annual budget of $15.7 million on television, alone, is getting double mileage out of each major crusade which the famous preacher conducts.

At the moment, video tapes of the Southern California Crusade—which drew tens of thousands to the Los Angeles Dodgers baseball stadium from Sept. 26 to Oct. 5—are being shown during prime-time on television stations in almost all 50 states.

In the Michigan area alone, for example, time has been bought through a Chicago media-buying firm on stations in Cadillac, Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, Lansing, Marquette and Sault Ste. Marie, in addition to south of the border at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Unlike most mainline Christian denominations and inter-church organizations, the BGEA buys its own way. It does not rely on public service time made available free by television outlets, as a rule on Sunday mornings when people most likely to tune in are at church and those at home are little disposed to watching any kind of religious programs.

"This is one of the most extensive television usages we've done," said a BGEA staff worker at Minneapolis headquarters about exposure to the current seven-day series on the Anaheim Crusade.

"Usually the tapes have been shown three evenings instead of seven."

The Graham organization's team office in Atlanta, Ga., said the next major crusade—scheduled for spring 1970 in Dortmund, West Germany—may not lend itself to video taping because of translation complications. But subsequent 1970 crusades planned for Knoxville, Tenn., and Oakland, Calif., will be videotaped and sold to television stations a few months later.

Tapes by Billy Graham, either voiced for radio without image or prepared for television with image and voice, have been aired on 300 TV stations and more than 900 radio stations since 1965 alone.

"Interest has been expressed in the Marquette area of Michigan to the BGEA for an associate crusade," reported Gil A. Stricklin, an associate of Dr. Graham who has a hand in scheduling the appearances of 10 associate evangelists working with Graham.

While no decision has yet been made, Michigan may itself become the target area for a live crusade sometime next year or in 1971, in addition to the major crusades that Dr. Graham has booked for himself at distant points of the globe.

On Wednesday, at 7:00 p.m. members of the Greenville Chapter of the American Legion, Post No. 39, will meet at the Legion Home on St. Andrews Street for their annual Christmas party.

William Moore, Post Commander, states that all members, their wives and Auxiliary members will join in the celebrating their annual Christmas party.

On the informal program scheduled for the occasion, Dr. James W. Batten of East Carolina University will tell the "Christmas Story."

Dinner will be served, and those attending will be invited to join in the singing of Christmas carols.

Lawyers To Get The Doctorate

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — More than 3,000 graduates of the University of North Carolina Law School soon will be able to add the title doctor to their names.

The university announced Saturday that law school graduates who received the bachelor of laws degree (LL.B.) and who also held undergraduate degrees are entitled to receive the doctor of juris (J.D.) degree.

The university said eligible alumni will be notified soon of the procedure to obtain their new degree.

UNC officials said it was joining 95 per cent of the nation's law schools in amending degrees of eligible alumni.

NEW JOB

NEW YORK (UPI)—Television director Richard Dunlap, whose credits include "Voice of Firestone," "Bell Telephone Hour" and Frank Sinatra specials, is now directing a "voice of the people" television production in the form of "The Advocates."

The public television series is presented live each Sunday at 10 p.m. EST. It airs major issues in an hour-long arena-like setting and solicits audience opinions in the studio and at home.

If the Shoe Fits

BY LARRY AVERETTE

Half the children with bunions?

In a shoe clinic in a mid-western city an orthopedic surgeon discovered bunions on half of the children in the fifth grade classes of a particular school.

Imagine 30 to 60 children developing bunions at the tender age of 10. Their shoe sizes were checked and it was found that those developing bunions were wearing shoes 1 size to 3½ sizes too small.

The shoes on many of the children were fairly new but of shoddy construction and poor fitting lasts, which explains why some shoes were up to 3½ sizes too small.

So many parents take shoes and shoe fitting for granted. It could be embarrassing for some parents to find out that their children are silently suffering from foot defects. And yet the matter of good fitting shoes can be easily checked by us. No guesswork on your part. Foot free to come in. If your child's shoes are too small or you have some particular foot problem, we have shoes to fit your feet and your budget.

HONORED FOR SERVICE

Two employees of Wachovia Bank and Trust Company have been honored for long and faithful service with the firm.

Roy C. Payton, mail messenger for the bank, received an award from senior vice president R.W. Howard "in appreciation for 25 years of meritorious and loyal service." He began with Wachovia (then Guaranty Bank) in 1944 as a custodian.

Sarah B. McLawhorn received a similar award "in appreciation for 10 years of meritorious and loyal service." She was first employed as manager of the Bookkeeping Department and is now in charge of bookkeeper training at the Operations and Data Processing Center.

AWARD — Roy C. Payton receives service award from R.W. Howard.

CERTIFICATE PRESENTED

James K. Williams, special representative in Greenville for the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company, has been awarded a certificate of achievement for having completed the company's career school, held in Greensboro early this month.

Williams was among 40 Jefferson Standard representatives from 13 states and the District of Columbia who were invited to attend the school.

FIVE YEAR SERVICE AWARD

Carolina Telephone on October honored Mrs. Agnes S. Bunch of Greenville for having completed five years of service with the company.

Employed by the company in the commercial department here, Mrs. Bunch received a miniature gold emblem award signifying the number of years attained.

Expansion Planned By Ports Authority

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP)—The North Carolina Ports Authority plans to purchase land on Radio Island to expand its docking facilities at Morehead City.

At a meeting Saturday, the group authorized purchase of an initial 32 acres of land at $210,000.

The authority took this action after rejecting by a narrow margin a proposal to expand the facilities northward. The executive director of the authority, James W. Davis of Wilmington, told the members that northward expansion would cost some $6 million.

Davis said the proposal would involve alteration of a highway bridge and a railroad bridge in order to allow ships to pass under them.

Member George Purvis of Fayetteville noted that room for northward expansion is almost unlimited and asked, "what is $6 million to North Carolina if we're going to move north and expand our facilities?"

Chairman Woodrow Price of Raleigh said in reply, "There would be a heck of an argument with the state highway commission's $6 million."

Davis pointed out that 500 acres are available at Radio Island, and another 500 acres could be added by "filling in."

In other action, the board accepted "with regret" the resignation of L. C. Bruce of Raleigh, public relations director and administrative assistant to the authority for almost 10 years. His resignation will be effective Feb. 15.

Bucher To Give Second History Of Pitt Being Negotiated

Charles A. Bucher of the North Carolina State Board of Education will give the second of two seminars dealing with the role of community colleges at East Carolina University.

Beginning Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., the seminar will be held in the Seminar Room (C201) of the new Biology Building.

Bucher is with the Department of Community Colleges of the State Board. The first seminar, held December 10, had a discussion of history and organization of the community college system in North Carolina by Bucher.

The seminars are part of a program in the Department of Biology for graduate fellows who are preparing to teach in small colleges.

The program operates under a grant of $75,000 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Dr. Joseph G. Boyette, professor of Biology, is director of the program.

Bucher's talks will be oriented toward prospective teachers in small colleges. However, the seminar is open to anyone interested in the operation and future of community colleges.

OPPOSED CUT

NEW YORK (AP)—Shirley Temple Black says voters should urge their senators to restore cuts in President Nixon's foreign aid appropriations bill, slashed by the House to $1 billion less than the President requested.

By GARVEN HUDGINS
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal government's multibillion-dollar answer to the educational needs of America's disadvantaged children is at a critical crossroads, its future clouded by evidence of blundering management and misuse of funds.

Title I, the heart of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, established a national goal of equalizing educational opportunities for all children by compensating for the disadvantages suffered by those who grow up in impoverished communities.

To this end, more than $4 billion has been appropriated over the past four years, including $1.2 billion in fiscal 1969.

Yet Title I has not worked out, so far, as its sponsors intended.

According to audit reports, money has been spent in the wrong places and in many instances has not reached the impoverished children who need it most.

Commissioner of Education James E. Allen Jr. recently appointed a special task force to take a hard look at the program.

Allen formed the study group after government auditors said they had come across cases like these:

—$16,000 in Title I funds went for a sewage disposal plant in Attala County, Miss.

—In three Georgia school districts—Gwinnett, Bibbs and Muscogee counties—$870,000 was used to set up curriculum centers and a reading clinic to serve all schools, regardless of whether they were Title I targets.

—Detroit overcharged Title I by $1.3 million in one year for overhead costs which would have been incurred even if the district had not been participating in the program.

—In Fresno County, Calif., several school districts used $930,000 in Title I funds to construct, equip and operate a countrywide instructional television station designed for all children, including those not under the Title I program.

—In Milwaukee, Wis., $21,605 went for salaries of non-Title I school personnel. And in New Jersey, $44,000 was used to pay employees who devoted less than full time to Title I activities.

—Title I money paid part of the rent on a building housing administrative offices of a school district in Cairo, Ill.

In a survey based in part on government audits, the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund said last month that millions of Title I dollars had been misspent for general aid to schools rather than as aid to individual disadvantaged children.

Title I funds went for construction of new buildings and equipment—including lawnmowers and janitorial supplies, the fund's study said, and had been used to construct facilities such as swimming pools in deliberate attempts to sustain segregation.

Officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare acknowledge that Title I funds have been mismanaged in many areas, but say they have tightened procedures to improve management and control.

"There have been cases of mismanagement," said HEW auditor Philip Kropatkin. "We can see that a fair amount of improvement is needed in management of these funds and of the Title I program around the country...."

"We haven't had any cases of somebody actually pocketing money under this program," Kropatkin added. "But one of the troubles we have come across involves the question of supplant versus support."

"If a state, for example, builds a new building for a school, we may say that the state spent Title I money in the wrong place, or used federal money to supplant state funds which are supposed to be used for such purposes."

"In cases like this, we'll ask for the money spent on the building back. We may never get it back, but we make the point that the state is using our money rather than its own, which it should have been using."

To foster tighter control, Kropatkin said the federal government now is seeking to implement a program under which states ask for money needed under Title I on a week-to-week basis.

"This is better than issuing a blank letter of credit," he said. "To issue a full letter of credit for a state's needs all at one time under Title I could represent a heavy drain on the U.S. Treasury at one blow."

Despite problems in its implementation, Title I is specific about who should benefit from its provisions—children in low income areas, handicapped, neglected, delinquent and foster children, American-Indian children and those of migratory agricultural workers.

A complex formula is used to compute the amount of money a local district receives. The funds can be spent in any manner approved by the state—so long as it goes to help children in the specified categories.

About 9 million disadvantaged children in 16,000 school districts participated in Title I programs in fiscal 1968. Under present funding, average spending is about $150 per year per disadvantaged child.

Most officials think this is spreading the help too thin to achieve effective results. The federal government is therefore gradually turning to a policy of concentration—or withholding services, to put it another way.

"It means that some kids won't get anything so that we can concentrate on those who, we believe, will benefit most from our efforts," said Dr. Leon Lessinger, associate commissioner of education. "It's a question of trying not to ineffectively diffuse our resources."

Lessinger now has introduced a new element in the Title I picture—the idea of accountability.

"We no longer can rely on finding out statistics about how many teachers have been added in a system under Title I and so on. Now we want to know what the payoff is in student performance as a result of the program. We want to know exactly how much better they're reading, spelling and eating," Lessinger said.

Referring to the present funding level, Lessinger said "schools are having a tough time with this. It adds up to about one-fifth of a teacher. But always remember, the kids reached by Title I are kids no other country educates...."

Lessinger said he has faith in the eventual, complete success of the Title I program.

"This is the first time that anybody has really recognized the existence of many of these children," he said. "What we're really dealing with here is the concrete adoption of the principle that every child should have—and is entitled to—an education."

"This is a truly amazing and overwhelming goal. To say we haven't succeeded in two years is just too much...."

REHEARSAL, AT LAST — The Metropolitan Opera, silent for the past three months in a labor dispute, sings again in New York as the performers rehearse for the delayed opening of the 1969-70 season. The labor dispute cut off the first fifteen weeks of a planned 31-week season. Now "Aida" is scheduled to open the season Dec. 29. (AP Wirephoto)

Railroads Feel They're Swaying Public's Opinion

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Slowly but steadily the railroad industry feels it is winning a difficult battle to convince the American people that its position regarding passengers and profits does have some merit.

The railroad men shouted for years that they were losing money on long-haul and commuter passenger service, and so they fought to discontinue scores of trains. The public didn't believe; it suspected instead that the books were being juggled.

It was easy to compare the incredibly poor and often dangerous train service in the United States with superior and apparently successful passenger trains as close by as Canada.

gone into changing the image and a lot of researchers and publicists and lobbyists have worked like coolies to do so. But events also have begun to break their way.

Such figures permits the railroads to argue that environmental changes developed in this nation that are the nation's, hot the railroad's alone, to solve. Competition in this country has simply become too great.

however, and there probably will always exist some doubt about why people left the rails and some suspicion that the railroads could have kept more passenger traffic than they did.

lyses of rail problems has now advanced to a point where the main question is: How much government should they get?

on soon. One feature calls for creation of a national passenger train network. Lines which are required to continue running unprofitable passenger trains in the national interest would be eligible for reimbursement of up to 80 per cent of operating losses.

Under Aliapoulos' direction, the "Requiem" proved anew that the music of Mozart can be an instrument to convey power, compassion, fear and the triumph of the human soul—and still retain the particular sparkle so characteristic of everything Mozart ever composed.

The short two movement opening number, Gabrieli's "Sacrae Symphoniae" is a graceful, melodic composition pre-dating the "Requiem" by nearly 200 years. Robert Hause conducted the faculty-student brass ensemble from the rear second-story balcony.

Fear Child Was Victim Kidnapping

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Chattanooga police say they fear a 5-year-old girl who disappeared from her mother at a city shopping center Saturday night was the victim of a "kidnaper or child molester."

Chief of Detectives Leroy Kingston said Christy Lynn Slater was believed to have been taken from a store at the Eastgate Shopping Center where she and her mother, Mrs. Randall Slater, had gone on a shopping trip.

Some 900 persons including police, rescue squad members and volunteers searched the residential area around the shopping center and along the I-75 right-of-way for the missing little girl. Kingston said that all leads so far in the disappearance of the brown-eyed tot with hip-length red hair have been fruitless.

Christy Lynn was the third young girl to disappear in Tennessee in recent weeks. The two others, 12-year-old Kathy Jones of Nashville and Glenda Sirmans, 13, of Knox County were both found murdered and possibly raped.

Libya Urges Pullout From Big Air Base

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Libya's military government called for a speedy American withdrawal from Wheelus Air Base as the regime and U.S. officials prepared to open negotiations today on the future of the $100 million base outside Tripoli.

A government statement said a quick pullout is the only thing that "can keep the door open for the development of strong American-Libyan relations."

The Libyan team was headed by Capt. Abdel Salam Jalloud, a member of the ruling Junta who negotiated a withdrawal agreement with the British last week.

The 2,100-acre Wheelus base was used for many years as a training site for U.S. airmen in Europe and also to train the Libyan air force. In recent years the force at the base has been reduced and now numbers less than 2,000 military personnel, with about 2,500 civilians and dependents.

Under the U.S. agreement with the royal government which the junta overthrew, either Libya or the United States can terminate the base agreement by giving notice after Dec. 24, 1970, and the agreement would then expire one year later. But the new Libyan government has made clear that it wants the Americans to get out long before the end of 1971.

Decade Saw Changes In Film Form And Content

By BOB THOMAS
 Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (A)—Historians of the movies will record the 1960s as a period of revolution in film form and content. Never before in the half-century of movies did so many changes take place.

The decade now ending brought new freedoms, both in the use of the camera and narrative technique as well as in the handling of sexual themes. Were those freedoms used wisely? That is a matter future historians will have to wrestle with.

Nudity was completely banned from American films in 1960, as was language stronger than an occasional "hell" or "damn." Even the hint of homosexuality was forbidden.

But the end of the decade nudity was common and so were obscene and profane Anglo-Saxons. The sex act was being depicted on American movie screens and homosexual relationships had been explored in several films. By the end of the decade sex had become an essential element in the film medium.

Most of the changes came in the last half of the 1960s. The ban on sex deviation in films was removed in 1961, along with a general loosening of the Production Code that had long dictated moral restrictions to Hollywood film makers.

"Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolfe?" provided a milestone in film morality in 1966. The explicit dialogue of the Edward Albee play was retained in the film version, leading to a new designation, "Suggested for Mature Audiences." This was supposed to be a warning to parents, and it marked the first time that the film industry acknowledged that certain films might not be suitable for the entire family.

"The Pawnbroker" encountered difficulties in 1965 with a bare-breasted scene. But only a year later "Hawaii" caused less of a stir by depicting native girls as they were dressed when the missionaries arrived.

Among the other influential films: "Blow-up," which featured complete female nudity and a sex romp with a photographer and two teen-agers; "Ulysses," which repeated verbatim the sex passages of the James Joyce novel; "The Fox," lesbianism; "I Am Curious (yellow)," sexual intercourse.

The advent of the rating system in 1968 provided the X category by which films of explicit sex could play normal theaters, rather than be relegated to exploitation houses.

The history of film in the 1960s contained more than the sex revolution.

There was also a revolution in technique, and that may have been even more significant to the medium.

European-made films led the way. In "Tom Jones" (1962), Tony Richardson demonstrated that a prosaic tale could be made highly entertaining by mixing techniques: slow motion, stop action, still photographs, silent-movie effects, etc.

With "A Hard Day's Night" (1964) Richard Lester enlivened the account of the Beatles' lives with all the tricks he had learned in television commercials. Another graduate of television commercials, Claude Lelouch, demonstrated the poetic use of the camera in "A Man and a Woman" (1966).

Other trends in film content during the 1960s:

1. Violence.
2. Musicals.
3. Westerns.
4. Negroes.

The following year brought the biggest moneymaker of all time, "The Sound of Music," also an Oscar winner. But expensive efforts to duplicate its success were generally failures.

Another Hollywood staple which declined in the 1960s. Reasons included the glut of Westerns on television and the lessening activity of great Western directors like John Ford, Howard Hawks, Raoul Walsh, etc.

The matter of race had received only occasional treatment in American films until the 1960s. Producers were slow to realize the film possibilities in the nation's concern over the status of the Negro. "A Raisin in the Sun" (1960) depicted an urban Negro family, and "To Kill a Mockingbird" (1962) dealt with intolerance in the South.

With its Oscar-winning "Lilies of the Field" in 1963, Sidney Poitier showed that a black man could be a box-office star. He was one of the big moneymakers of the 1960s with "In the Heat of the Night," "To Sir with Love" and other films. As a result, more Negro actors were being used in movies than ever before.

The Worry Clinic Mankind Has Old Scapegoat

Arthur offers a very challenging idea, so scrapbook this Case Record! Despite our higher I.Q., mankind often has acted dumber than the 4-legged creatures. Don't you agree with Arthur that it is time to stop making a sexual scapegoat out of the quadruped species? Adam invested such buck-passing and it is now America's Number One sport!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
 Ph.D., M.D.
 CASE L-556: Arthur G., aged 34, is a biology teacher.

"Dr. Crane," he mused, "I think mankind has been unfair to the lower animals in many ways. 'For example, we have often seen human beings wantonly slaughter wild creatures just for sport.

"Trainloads of East Coast hunters thus travelled to the western prairies to shoot down buffalo by the thousands.

"Then they left the carcasses to rot, for the white hunters weren't seeking food, as the Indians did when they killed buffalo.

"And our hunters made the wild carrier pigeon extinct by their wholesale slaughter thereof.

"At present, they are using helicopters to exterminate the polar bears, not because they need food or the fur for clothing but just for excitement.

"Aren't such hunters an example of Nature's vandals, much like the present bands of arsonists and teen-age vandals in our cities?

"Even the carnivorous animals don't kill wantonly! A lion or wolf or tiger or bear will attack because it is hungry but it doesn't slaughter its prey indiscriminately. One victim is all it kills at feeding time.

"Again, we have often made animals the scapegoat for mankind's sexual urges.

"In fact, sexual behavior has often been described as 'beast-like' and writers used to describe eroticism as 'animal desires.'

"Yet that's an insult to the innocent quadrupeds!

"For who ever heard of a 4-legged 'Pooping Tom'?"

"Do any quadruped creatures patronize burlesque shows?"

"And do they indulge in anything remotely similar to human pornography?"

"Or lewd dialogue on the theatrical stage, not to mention recent homosexual behavior right in front of the theater's patrons?"

"And how about topless costumes for waitresses?"

"Or nudity on magazine covers, plus salacious movie films that are now bootlegged around the U.S.A.?"

"Is there anything in the animals world to parallel the 'call' girls and human prostitutes?"

"Do female dogs, cats or other farm creatures sneak off to sell themselves to males at hotels and motels, just for money?"

"Can you imagine animals sitting up half the night reading lewd books or papering their college rooms with pin-up female portraits?"

"Has any naturalist ever described 'wife swapping' among animals as a means of whetting the waning erotic verve of the semi-platonic males?"

"So why should we let this popular calumny of quadrupeds persist?"

"Dr. Crane, why don't you mention this injustice to animals and show your readers that human beings have been passing the buck unfairly to the infra human species?"

Scapegoat Strategy

Arthur has made a cogent argument, don't you agree?

When Adam invented buck-passing in the Garden of Eden as a means of escaping God's wrath (for Adam said his wife gave him the forbidden fruit), then Eve quickly adopted his strategy and blamed the Serpent.

Ever since then we have been passing the buck.

In fact, Abraham used the ram entrapped in the bushes as his "scapegoat" and sacrificed it instead of his son Isaac, as he tried to place all human sins on its head!

Buck-passing is still America's Number One sport!

Blind Student Is Class President

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Luis Sanchez, 15, blind since he was 3, has been elected to the top student office at Roosevelt Junior High. With 1,800 voting, he defeated the next-highest of three rivals by 600 votes.

Luis ended his pre-election campaign speech by asking the other pupils to "Vote for Sanchez—he's out of sight."

"The kids caught the double meaning," he said later. "It got me a lot of laughs."

The U.S. Public Health Service reports 173 million eye examinations or procedures were performed in the United States in 1964.

Girl Says Killings Were Planned To 'Instill Fear'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One of the five persons charged with murdering Sharon Tate and four others says the killings were planned to "instill fear in man" — and that the victims' identity was unknown to the slayers.

Susan Atkins, 21, made the statement in a 6,000-word story under her byline in Sunday's Los Angeles Times.

Lawrence Schiller, a freelance writer whose byline appears on the copyright story with hers, told newsmen he and another journalist whom he didn't identify produced the story by editing tape recordings of jail conversations with Miss Atkins.

The article says the group killed the pregnant, 26-year-old actress and four of her friends at her estate Aug. 9 without knowing who they were.

They learned the victims' names the next day in a newscast. Miss Atkins' account says: "We watched the newscast and it kind of—it really helped me to know that the people were as important as they were. It blew my mind."

"There was a comment made by one of us that what had happened had served its purpose. That was to instill fear in man himself, man, the establishment.

"That's what it was done for ... To also show the black man how to go about taking over the white man."

Miss Atkins says that after the group shot and stabbed the five, she soaked a towel in blood and smeared the word "Pig" on a door as one of the others asked her to. As she approached the actress' body she says, she thought of Miss Tate's baby, who would have been born in a few weeks.

"And I flashed. Wow, there's a living being in there ... I knew it was living ... I knew it wouldn't live ..."

The baby, a boy, might have lived if delivered soon after Miss Tate died, the coroner has said.

During recent grand jury hearings Miss Atkins said through her lawyer that the hypnotic power of Charles M. Manson persuaded her to join his wandering, hippie-style group. Manson, 35, also has been indicted on murder charges.

Miss Atkins' attorney, Richard Caballero could not be reached for comment on her story. However he said earlier she was under Manson's "hypnotic spell" and "had nothing to do with the murders."

In her story Miss Atkins says: "This whole world and everybody and everything in it has been God's game, and that game is about to come to an end."

"Judgment Day for every human being on the earth is coming."

After the killings, the group drove on a mountainous road and heaved their weapons and the black clothes they had worn into a ravine, Miss Atkins says.

On Sunday, police temporarily took Miss Atkins from jail. Later, detectives and 80 Boy Scouts combed rugged hillsides a few miles from the Tate house.

Officers wouldn't say what they were looking for, what they found, or whether Miss Atkins helped in the search. But newsmen at the scene said searchers recovered a pistol, a locked box and a hypodermic syringe.

Greenville Army Recruiters Rank First In N.C. Offices

RECEIVE AWARDS. . . . Maj. Billie H. Toney (L) presents recruiting trophies to (L-R) SFC David Strauss, SFC Jim Moore and SFC Bob Cook. On the right is M.Sgt. William McCranie.

The Greenville Army Recruiting Station has been awarded a trophy for obtaining 156 per cent of 175 assigned recruiting objective for the month of November.

The trophy, accepted Thursday by SFC Jim Moore on the behalf of the local station, recognized the recruiting office as being first out of the 26 stations in North Carolina.

recognizing his efforts in procuring enlistments for the Army. Strauss obtained 200 per cent of his assigned objective for the month of November and was also recognized as being number one out of 13 recruiters assigned in the Goldsboro recruiting zone.

Warrants Are Served By Phone

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Law enforcement officers in Mecklenburg County have again used their unique system of serving warrants on persons charged with liquor violations.

Major Billie H. Toney, commanding officer of the North Carolina Recruiting Main Station, made the presentation. Also in ceremonies on Friday, SFC David Strauss of the local station received two plaques

An award for placing fourth out of 56 recruiters across the state was presented to SFC Bob Cook of the local station on Thursday. Cook obtained 180 per cent of his assigned recruiting objective for the month of November.

Elected Queen For Homecoming

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. (AP)—Celester Carter of Elizabeth City was crowned Saturday night as homecoming queen of the College of the Albemarle.

The students of the integrated community college picked the 19-year-old Negro coed Thursday but she was not crowned until Saturday.

Area supervisor, M. Sgt. William McCranie, was also on hand for the presentations.

Inspired To Show 'Care' Sanford Says Politics Shelved; New Challenge

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—A newspaper story has inspired a high school class in this eastern North Carolina city to gather 30 cases of Christmas gifts for poor children in the state's mountain counties.

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—Former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford said Sunday he doesn't want to "change too drastically" the approach to education at Duke University.

It all started a few days ago when a young teacher at Terry Sanford High School used a feature story in The Charlotte Observer to show some people care about others.

Sanford, who was named president of the school Saturday, made the remark at a news conference in Durham.

The story was about a Hickory, N. C., preacher, the Rev. Charles A. Keyes, who every year collects money and gifts and distributes them to poor children.

The former governor, who gained a national reputation as a promoter of education when he served as the state's chief executive from 1961 to 1965, said he plans no basic changes in either the administration or educational philosophy of the school. Sanford said he feels Duke has a sound approach to education.

Miss Eileen Hansen said she told her pupils, "You might think people are apathetic, but here's one case where someone really cares."

He also said that he did not "want to thwart student initiative. I am not here to stifle," Sanford said. "I don't see any differences that can't be worked

"And the students said 'Oh my goodness, what are those children going to do?' So I said, now here's a good example of someone who doesn't have all the money in the world, but he is going around helping all those people."

The Laurinburg, N. C. native also said he had definitely decided not to run for public office in 1972.

During the next few days, she said, the pupils brought packages of clothing, toys, dolls, shoes and money.

"I have turned in a new direction," Sanford said. "The choice I made was difficult. I thought for several years that I might reenter the political arena. But there is more challenge in this."

"I just had to stand there and cry I was just so astonished," Miss Hansen said. "This is fantastic."

However, Sanford did not rule out running for office at some date after 1972.

The gifts were sent to the Rev. Mr. Keyes for distribution.

The former F.B.I. agent and Fayetteville attorney had been mentioned as a possible opponent for U. S. Sen. Everette
