Three Accidents Reported Thursday

Damage estimated at more than $2,000 resulted from three traffic mishaps investigated here yesterday.

Heaviest damage resulted when a car driven by a Newport News, Va. man went out of control, struck the northern end of the Tar River Bridge on N. C. 11 and sailed 70 feet down an embankment before coming to rest in the lowlands, about 7:42 a.m.

Police identified the driver of the vehicle as Billy Evans. He was charged with operating left of center.

Both Evans and a passenger in his car were reported injured in the crash and taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Damage to the car was placed at $1,500, while damage to a sign was set at $10.

Jimmy Ross Jr., 17, of Route 7, was charged with operating left of center following investigation of a 6:11 p.m. collision on Hooker Road, 500 feet North of the Greenbrier Drive intersection.

Police said the Ross vehicle collided with a car driven by Nancy Lequear Laughinghouse, 22 of Glendale Cir.

Damage was set at $300 to the Laughinghouse vehicle and $100 to the Ross car.

Alvin Hanson Gurkin, 23 of 2107 Montclair Cir. was charged with operating under the influence following investigation of a 3:15 a.m. wreck on Myrtle Avenue, 50 feet west of the Line Avenue intersection.

Officers said the Gurkin vehicle left the roadway causing an estimated $100 damage to his car. No other damage was reported.

Suffocated During Fire

A 30-year-old local man apparently suffocated when a fire erupted in his trailer home here early Christmas morning.

Joe M. Nugent was found dead in the bedroom of his trailer home about 3:30 a.m. yesterday.

Pitt County coroner E. W. Harvey said Nugent's body was not burned. The fire, according to the coroner, was confined to the kitchen and living area of the trailer.

Nugent lived in the trailer, parked at the Azalea Mobile Home Court, alone.

He was last seen alive, Coroner Harvey said, about 2 a.m. The fire was discovered about 3:20 a.m. and Eastern Pines firemen found the body about 10 minutes later when they entered the home to combat the fire.

Fire officials said the blaze apparently started in a chair in the living room of the trailer, possibly from a cigarette.

Fire Damages Apartment

Greenville firemen reported extensive damage resulted to one of three apartments in a wood-frame home at 500 East Eighth St. last night.

Officers said Box 61 at the intersection of Eighth and Cotanche Streets was sounded for the fire at 8:50 p.m.

The blaze apparently began under the house, causing extensive fire damage to apartment "C" and heavy smoke damage to the other two apartments.

No one was at home at the time of the fire, officers reported.

No 'Christmas Gift' For Adults Ice And Snow Storms Hit N.C.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Many youngsters got their wish for a white Christmas when the season's first ice and snow storm hit the western half of North Carolina and northwestern South Carolina Thursday.

But for most adults the storm was more of a headache than a wished-for Christmas gift, as it caused widespread damage to electrical and telephone lines and hazardous driving conditions.

A spokesman for Duke Power Co. said electrical lines were down in a wide area from Spartanburg, S.C., north to Salisbury, N.C.

Electrical power was knocked out in several areas in Charlotte and a Duke spokesman said every available man was called in to repair lines around the city.

The company spokesman said about 150 men were working late Thursday night in Charlotte.

The Duke spokesman said most of the electrical failures were caused by trees and tree limbs that ice and snow caused to fall against power lines. In some cases, the weight of freezing rain collecting on wires, caused them to snap.

The freezing rain and sleet fell mainly in the central and southern Piedmont while the mountains and northwest Piedmont of North Carolina were covered with snow.

The State Highway Patrol said at 3 a.m. today Asheville had about 12 inches of snow and that as much as 22 inches of snow had been reported north of the mountain city. The patrol said few traffic accidents had been reported in that area because of the depth of the snow, but that a rash of weather-connected accidents had been reported in most sections of the mountains.

Icy roads contributed to at least one traffic fatality in the state Thursday, the patrol said.

Late Thursday night, West Jefferson had about 18 inches of snow and it was still falling.

The State Highway Patrol day ordered all roads in the West Jefferson area and surrounding Ashe County closed. Drifts up to five feet had sealed off most of the highways there, the patrol said.

The snow and freezing rain began in most spots Thursday afternoon. The rain did not stick to the highways in most places, but quickly froze when it hit trees, utility lines and vehicles, coating them with a sheet of ice.

Precipitation continued throughout the night and the Weather Bureau said snow flurries were expected to continue this morning in the mountains, north and central sections of the Piedmont and the northern coastal plain. Travelers warnings were continued today for all areas where snow flurries were expected today.

Light freezing rain over northwestern South Carolina caused hazardous driving conditions Thursday night, officials said. Travelers warnings were in effect Thursday night for the Palmetto state area affected by the ice and snow, but they were discontinued today.

When the Weather Bureau issued a heavy snow warning for the mountains and northern Piedmont areas of the Tar Heel state Thursday, it said accumulations of four or more inches of snow were expected.

A weather piners brought the mixture of snow, sleet and freezing rain to the Carolinas. The bureau said a low pressure area over the Gulf Coast moved northeastward and spread snow into the mountain areas and Piedmont. Meanwhile, another low formed off the South Carolina coast Christmas afternoon and spread rain and sleet over the coastal plain and Piedmont areas.

One of the victims of the storm - caused power failures was the Weather Bureau at the Raleigh-Durham Airport. It lost power for a time late Thursday night but resumed operations after a brief period by using an emergency generating system.

Doubted His Own Abilities Johnson Never Wanted To Be President, Interview Reveals

NEW YORK (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson says he had no doubt that he could have been re-elected if he ran for president in 1968 but that he felt his inability to unite the country would ultimately prevent him from administering the office to his satisfaction.

In a CBS-TV interview with Walter Cronkite taped last September, Johnson discusses his decision not to run again in 1968 and calls his wife, Lady Bird, "one of the wisest and certainly the most trusted counselors I've had." She did not want him to be a candidate last year, he said.

He also relates that after he announced his decision not to run again Sen. Robert F. Kennedy visited him for a "very friendly conversation" and told him, "You're a very courageous and very dedicated man."

Johnson said he never wanted to be president of the United States and would have left the 1964 Democratic nomination open for the best man—"I assumed it would be Bobby Kennedy or Hubert Humphrey"—except that Lady Bird persuaded him to run.

In 1968 he stepped out of the office because Mrs. Johnson urged him to, he said, and because "I was convinced that there were forces in my own party, that there were forces in the molders of public opinion in this country that would continue to oppose a tax bill, to arouse questions that would make peace (in Vietnam) impossible, that would continue to agitate in the cities for the effect it would have on the president who would be the Democratic nominee."

He said Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's strong showing in the New Hampshire primary and Robert Kennedy's entrance into the battle for the nomination did not affect his decision. Nor, he said, was he worried about the eventual outcome.

"If you're asking me in an indirect way whether I had any doubt about my election as president, the answer is an absolute, positive 'no,'" he said.

"I don't think you really seriously thought that McCarthy would sweep the country or the nomination or that Kennedy would, or that whoever else—McGovern—would. Nixon's a very formidable candidate, but I had more doubts about what had happened in the '64 campaign than I had about what had happened in the '68 campaign," he said.

Sen. George S. McGovern unsuccessfully sought the Democratic presidential nomination. Johnson also said that despite the belief of the American people that he was "an extremely ambitious man who sought power, who enjoyed using it and whose greatest desire was to occupy the top job in American political life" that he never wanted the presidency.

He said he had "certain serious disadvantages which would ultimately preclude my becoming the—completing my term as president as I would like to complete it."

He said these disadvantages were "a general inability to stimulate, inspire and unite all the people of the country, which I think is an essential function of the presidency."

"Now I have never really believed that I was the man to do that particular job," Johnson said. "I always felt that every job that I had was really too big for me."

The former president said he had no regrets and no second thoughts about not running but "there's some disappointment that the results that I hoped would flow from it—namely peace in the world—have not as yet come; but I'm still hopeful."

Johnson said the timetable of his announcement not to seek re-election was contained in one of Mrs. Johnson's memos dated May 1964.

In it, she told him: "Yes, you've got to run again. But if you do, you've got to do it with the understanding and with the knowledge that three months—three years and three months from the time you take the oath—and that would make it March 1968—you can say to the people that...you're not going to succeed to another term."

March 31, 1968, the day he announced his decision not to seek a second term, Johnson noted, "was the final day...the end of the three years, three months."

The interview, which took place at the Johnson ranch in Texas, was the first of a series of television interviews, on his political career. The former president was paid but CBS declined to say how much.

Willie Sutton 'Best Example'

NEW YORK (AP) "I am probably the best living example of the fact that crime doesn't pay. The money I stole never did me any good. It was small payment for so many years of imprisonment," says Willie "The Actor" Sutton, the bank robber and escape artist.

Sutton spoke Christmas Day in a copyright New York Daily News article, a day after he was released from prison.

The convicted bank robber, 68, was released from Attica State Prison Wednesday by the Department of Corrections, following a preholiday review of his case.

Katherine Bites, Sutton's lawyer, told newsmen he spent Christmas in seclusion here, adding, "I think he deserves a day of grace."

Recently, Sutton had 1952 sentences of 20 years and 30 years set aside. He has spent the last 17 years and more than half his life in prison.

The former bank robber and escape artist said he wants to help "straighten out" young people who are thinking about a life of crime.

"I would go anywhere and speak to any group where I might be of help," he wrote.

Sutton said he has a check for $169.37 which he was given on his release as payment for 17 years of prison work, minus commissary charges.

Israeli Planes Raid In Jordan And Along Suez

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli warplanes attacked Arab guerrillas in Jordan today after they fired at an Israeli army patrol and placed two mines near a settlement, persons in the area southeast of the Sea of Galilee reported.

The sources said they saw two Jordanian army vehicles burning after the hour-long raid. They reported that the planes encountered light anti-aircraft fire but returned unharmed.

The patrol, which was fired on in the Beisan valley, suffered no casualties, the sources said, and the mines were dismantled.

Israeli spokesmen said there were shelling duels during the night at other points along the Jordanian cease-fire line and also across the Lebanese border.

The spokesmen also reported that Arab saboteurs blew up a section of railway in the occupied Gaza Strip. Troops began a search for the saboteurs and work crews began repairing track.

On the Suez Canal front, Israel and Egypt traded artillery fire and the Israeli command said one Israeli was killed. The firing took place shortly after Israeli jet fighters made one of their longest raids on Egyptian targets since the 1967 Middle East war.

The Israelis said the 8½-hour attack was made to destroy surface-to-air missile sites that the Egyptians were trying to rebuild.

"The SAM sites were hit in previous Israeli raids but the Egyptians were trying to rebuild them and our planes went in again to clean them out," a spokesman said. "The missile batteries were destroyed."

The Israeli spokesman said all the planes returned safely, but an Egyptian spokesman said four of the raiders were shot down.

North Viets Bar Gifts To Captives Storm Flails East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy snow, sleet and rain, whipped by gale force winds, lashed the East in a major storm today, with snow accumulation in New England building toward an expected two feet.

Traffic in most metropolitan areas affected was moving at a crawl and in some cases, was completely paralyzed.

New Yorkers, warned of a limited snow emergency, recalled that on this day 25 years ago, 25.5 inches of snow piled up on the city's streets in a 24-hour period.

Snow piled up at the rate of two inches an hour in New England, where the Weather Bureau said sleet or freezing rain would follow, cutting down accumulations but increasing the danger of driving.

North Adams, Mass., had 14 inches of snow in midmorning.

Boston's Logan Airport and New York's Kennedy and LaGuardia shut down, but Kennedy reopened some service after a brief time; Newark Airport operated on a limited basis. About 1,000 persons were stranded when Bradley International at Windsor Locks, Conn., shut down at 8 a.m.

Delays of up to half an hour were reported on the Penn Central and Long Island Rail Roads into New York City and a 35-mile-per-hour speed limit was posted on the slick New Jersey Turnpike.

In Washington, Dulles and Washington National Airports suspended operations in the wake of 2-inch snow accumulations.

On Christmas Day a tornado smashed through an industrial-residential area in the north Florida community of Quincy, ripping roofs from at least three buildings.

Gadsden County Sheriff Roy Martin estimated damage at $100,000 in Quincy.

SNOW IN VIRGINIA—Roanokers awoke from Christmas dreams today to find they were under a 15-inch blanket of snow. The heavy covering paralyzed the area, forcing all banks and most downtown businesses to close, leaving nearly empty streets for snowplows to begin clearing operations. (AP Wirephoto)

Details Omitted In Air Force Rescue Report

By RICHARD PYLE, Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force told today of a successful, 51-hour effort to "rescue a downed fighter-bomber crewman from enemy-held country but raised more questions than it answered concerning the incident.

In a six-page news release, the Air Force omitted such details as what country the rescue occurred in, what caused the plane to crash, what happened to the pilot of the plane, where the rescue helicopters came from and who their heroic pilots were.

An Air Force spokesman said he could not say why this information was omitted. The only additional information he could furnish was that the rescue happened "earlier this month."

By not saying that the rescue took place in South Vietnam, the Air Force left the impression that it was in Laos. U.S. planes regularly bomb enemy infiltration routes there.

The crewman, identified by the Air Force as 1st Lt. Woodrow Bergeron Jr., of New Orleans La., spent part of three days after he was downed dodging enemy bullets and searches while using the small radio that all U.S. pilots carry to lead rescuers to them.

Sixteen times, rescue helicopters flew in under fighter-bomber support in attempts to pull Bergeron out of the jungle, but each time enemy fire drove them off.

Once Bergeron, scaled a steep embankment and the big "Jolly Green giant" chopper came to within six feet of him. But it had to pull away because of heavy fire.

Bergeron went without sleep for 51 hours after parachuting from his disabled F4 Phantom fighter-bomber. He lost his pistol while trying to dig into a hiding place.

Once he abandoned a hiding place in a clump of bamboo for a safer spot. A few minutes later, three enemy soldiers came, to the bamboo clump and fired into it.

On the third day, with propeller-driven A1 Skyraiders bombing and strafing the enemy positions—sometimes so close that the bombs' impact lifted him slightly off the ground—Bergeron got into the middle of a river.

On the second try, a helicopter was able to lower a cable hoist to pull him to safety.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew set out today on a 37,000-mile, 10-nation Asian tour that he hopes will include a visit to Vietnam.

Agnew and his wife left Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland aboard a presidential jet officially designated as Air Force 2.

Coffee Cake From A Mix Has Cranberry Filling

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Hot-roll mix is one of the best of today's convenient mixes. Knowing cooks welcome a new and delicious way to use it.

And that's just what we have for you today. A new recipe, using hot-roll mix, that produces two coffee cakes with a fine-flavor cranberry filling. One coffee cake to serve to your family, one to pack into a pretty tin box for a good neighbor or friend. These coffee cakes are just as good to look at as they are to eat.

CRANBERRY COFFEE CAKE
1 package (13 3/4 ounces) hot roll mix
1/2 cup warm water
2 large eggs
1/4 cup butter or margarine
Cranberry Filling, see below
Confectioners' Sugar Icing, see recipe below

Soften yeast from roll mix in warm water according to package directions, using only 1/2 cup water.

Beat eggs until thickened and lemon color. Add softened yeast, butter and roll mix. With wooden spoon, beat and blend well. Cover; let rise in warm, draft-free place until doubled—50 to 60 minutes.

Punch down dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board or pastry cloth; knead until dough is soft and pliable. Divide in half.

Roll out each portion to a 14-by-8-inch rectangle about 1/8 inch thick. Spread each rectangle with half the Cranberry Filling. Starting with 14-inch side, roll up; seal edges.

Place, seam side down, on greased baking sheet; curving each roll into a horseshoe; seal ends. With kitchen scissors, at two-inch intervals, make cuts along outside edge of each horseshoe, halfway toward center. Cover; let rise in warm, draft-free place until almost doubled—about 30 minutes.

Bake in preheated 350-degree oven until golden brown—20 to 25 minutes. Immediately remove from baking sheet.

While coffee cakes are still warm, drizzle Confectioners' Sugar Icing over tops.

Cut Down On The Housework During Holiday Season

A study by the Home Care Institute in Chicago has revealed that the average homemaker completes up to 360 different housekeeping chores within a week. With the advent of the holiday season, additional cleaning, baking, cooking and decorating chores are added to this immense total of weekly activities.

To tackle this increased work load and still have time to enjoy the holidays, today's homemaker needs to employ good organization and creative use of the modern appliances at her disposal.

Yet the Home Care Institute study conducted for Eureka Williams shows nearly half—45 percent—homemakers surveyed have no organized plans for the care of their homes. Based on its studies, the Home Care Institute offers these suggestions for an efficient approach to holiday housekeeping:

Organize, in much the same way as a successful business or volunteer project is organized, a daily or weekly home care schedule. Make certain the schedule will carry you through the entire holiday period.

It is easy to catch up with work when you have a master plan, so allow some flexibility in your schedule. If you decide on the spur of the moment to bake Christmas cookies or do kitchen curtains... do it! You'll do a better job when you tackle a project at that moment when you really have the desire to complete it.

Select a closet or storage cabinet on your main floor and set up a central home cleaning center.

Cranberry Filling: In a small saucepan mix together 1 can (8 ounces) whole cranberry sauce, 1 tablespoon cornstarch and 1 teaspoon grated orange rind. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil and boils 1 minute.

ter where you can store all cleaning appliances, soaps, detergents, polishes, rags and pails. If your home is multi-level, develop mini-centers on each floor that contain materials for the chores done in that area. Cleaning centers save steps and time.

Read the instruction booklets for all your appliances.

Appliances can take over a major portion of a homemaker's work load, but more than 50 percent of the women studied had no knowledge of what chores their appliances were designed to perform.

A case in point is the vacuum cleaner. This versatile appliance can perform 52 cleaning chores. Most women used it only for floor and carpet care.

The Home Care Institute suggests that women save time this holiday season by using the vacuum to do the following:

Before the Christmas tree comes into the house, give it a gentle going-over with the dusting brush attachment. This will prevent the trail of needles and dust that usually accompanies a live tree inside.

Add to the glow of an artificial tree by vacuuming it before you set it up.

As you unpack ornaments and tree lights, give them a gentle once-over with the dusting brush. Loose needles, artificial snow and tinsel that was packed away with them will disappear.

The fireplace is the traditional Christmas gathering spot for family and friends. Use the vacuum to prevent escaping soot from spilling carpets and bare floors. (Don't throw away an old vacuum. It does a better, faster job in removing ashes than a broom and dust pan.)

Peek-A-Boo Vest Is Newest Look

The crocheted put-on is the newest look for young with-its. Simply by picking up a crochet book and several skeins of yarn, handy lasses can crochet a bevy of vests, ponchos, and other little accessories—all designed to be done in a minimum of time.

The National Hand Knitting Yarn Association suggests that a beginner start by crocheting a vest. These enchanting accessories, in a wide variety of lengths from mini to maxi, sport the see-through peek-a-boo look that spells fashion this winter.

Short and sweet, the sleeveless crochet-it-yourself vest is the perfect addition to a shirt and full skirt of mini or maxi dimensions. The open lacy waist-length vest, worn over a brief skim of a dress, gives the outfit a completely new look. And the full-length or tunic length vest, looks great with pants and skirt.

Ponchos, like vests, are enjoying a fashion revival this year. Crochet-it-yourself buffs are making their own, working in whatever colors blend best with the rest of their wardrobe. Generally combining at least three and sometimes more hues, and edged with long, long fringe in the same yarn, the poncho is a new way to keep warm while participating in many casual outdoor activities.

Worked in a yarn of knitting worsted weight, the vests and ponchos can be crocheted in any one of the wide variety of colors, both fashion and basic, in which this yarn comes. Instructions are available only for garments pictured by sending self-addressed, stamped envelope to the National Hand Knitting Yarn Association, 15 East 26th Street, New York, N.Y., 10010, Room 1806AP.

In 1860, New York boasted the largest garment factory in the world — Wests, Bradley and Carey's Hoop Skirt Works on West 20th Street. Steel rods, imported from Germany's Krupp Ironworks, were turned into finished skirts.

Thirty years later, factory conditions had gone from bad to worse. Nine dollars a week was an average wage for a fifteen-hour day, with no lunch. Workers were fired if they stopped work to visit the washroom. They were fined a quarter for laughing or 50c for looking out the window.

They either owned their machines or rented them from the employer. Each time they broke a needle, it cost a quarter, as it did to rent a chair. Empty spoils had to be turned in before new thread was issued. If the spool had been lost, another 50c was forfeited.

Is Husband's Heart Trouble A Hoax?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: After being married to Lester for eight years, he developed a heart condition. He was able to work at his job, but he did less and less around the house, until now he just won't do a thing. I do all the yard work, painting, and everything there is to do when you own a home.

A friend came by the other day and saw me shoveling snow. He asked me why I was breaking my back that way and I said, "Well you know Lester can't do this on account of he has a heart condition." All he said was, "Why don't you wise up?" Then he drove off.

Now this has started me to thinking. Lester can go fishing and hunting and do all the things he likes to do. He even drives 500 miles to visit his folks. He says it "relaxes" him to drive. I would ask his doctor, but he and Lester are friends. So could you please find out if driving 500 miles is "relaxing?" It tires me out. Thank you.

ANXIOUS TO HEAR

DEAR ANXIOUS: It tires most people out. But I think what you really want to know is whether your husband has been putting one over on you. His doctor is the one who can tell you what a man in Lester's condition can and cannot safely do. I suggest you ask him. And don't assume that because he and Lester are "friends," they are in cahoots. Most doctors are on the up and up.

DEAR ABBY: Linguistics is a science—not a guessing game. If you want the etymology of the word "COP," here it is:

Without going back beyond Latin, the modern word is derived from "CAPARE," meaning "to seize or take captive."

There was an Old English word COPSE meaning "fetters" and this word also became "COPS." [CUFF and possibly HANDCUFF are derived from this root.]

The "constable on patrol" type of explanation is what is called "folk etymology," which means that it is often clever, sometimes convincing, but utterly without factual foundation. "COP" is a legitimate word for policeman, and not an acronym. Very truly yours,

FREDERICK MONTESE, Ph.D.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's parents have recently retired and moved to our town in order to be near their only child—my husband. They are fairly well off now, and have helped us out financially in the past.

The problem is that we have a new baby, just 3 months old, and every night the grandparents come over here and pass the baby around between each other until he is so fretful that he cries for hours after they leave.

I have asked my husband to drop a hint in their direction to leave the little guy alone, but my husband says, "They aren't hurting the baby. I think you're just looking for some reason to hurt my parents' feelings." Then he accuses me of being ungrateful for all his folks have done for us. That's not true. I AM grateful, but not enough to jeopardize my baby's health.

I am desperate enough to pack up my baby, and leave my husband to his parents. I have wonderful parents of my own living in another state who would be glad to have me. Please help me.

NEW MOMMY

DEAR NEW: Be fair. Do you really fear that the health of your baby will be jeopardized because your in-laws "handle" him so much? I suspect that other things are bugging you. Don't pack up and go anywhere. Try to understand the real reasons for your irritation. I think you probably need someone to talk to. How about your clergyman?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "JUST CURIOUS" IN KILGORE, TEX.: I never "doctor" up the letters to make them more "interesting." But I sometimes must edit them up a bit to make them printable.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

1 package (18½-ounces) white cake mix
1 package (3 ounces) lemon flavored gelatin

½ cup corn oil
½ cup water
¼ cup fresh lemon juice

Pour into ungreased 9 by 3½-inch tube pan. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven until cake springs back when touched lightly with finger—50 to 55 minutes. Cool in pan on wire rack 15 minutes. With a small spatula, loosen edges around outside and tube; turn out on wire rack. Cool completely. If desired, sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.

Inflationary Effect Ignored?

While the compromise tax bill worked out between House and Senate conferees is far more responsible than that originally approved by the Senate, it is still doubtful that the congressmen have sufficiently taken into account its inflationary effects.

The final compromise bill delayed the increasing of exemptions from the present $600 to $750 by making the increase gradual between now and 1973. It extends the five percent surtax for another six months and repeals the seven percent investment credit for business. The bill increases the standard deduction from 10 percent or $1,000 to 14 percent or $2,000 in 1972.

While most of the changes in taxes, which will place more money in the hands of the consumer and less with the federal government, were delayed for six months we doubt that Congress has planned well for halting inflation in this country. It is clear that consumer prices are still on the rise at an alarming rate and, despite some signs that we are turning the corner in the fight against inflation, Congress has no assurance that the ball will have been won when the tax measures begin taking effect in six months. And while there is little doubt that some of the provisions of the bill are needed, Congress has already committed the major weapons it would have if a recession were to develop in the years ahead.

The most regrettable part of all about the bill, however, is that Congress set out to carry out major tax reforms. So far as we can tell Congress has not done nearly enough to correct some of the inequities in the tax laws. Instead it has wound up granting general across the board tax relief, leaving many of our tax problems still unsolved. A glaring example of this is the fact that a wealthy individual can still plan all of his funds in state and municipal bonds and not pay a cent of federal tax on the income.

On the favorable side the bill lowers the oil depletion allowance sets a minimum tax on preference income of high-bracket taxpayers and cuts back some other advantages. It provides relief for low income families and provides some help to single taxpayers who have been paying punitive rates.

While there is something to be desired in the new tax law, we feel that President Nixon should go on and sign it into law. Every effort should be made to bring inflation under control prior to the time that the inflationary effects of the law begin to be felt. If it is later seen that Congress has erred in creating an inflationary situation then the lawmakers will just have to find the leadership among themselves to take the necessary steps at the time to correct what they have done.

Sugar Crop Is A Sore Subject For Castro

Cubans are free to say anything they want under the Castro regime—except joke about the sugar crop, among other things.

This is a sore subject for Fidel, who hasn't seen a record crop since he seized power. Castro called off Christmas to keep everyone working in the fields. Recently he walked into a sugar cane field, accompanied by some North Vietnamese and Viet Cong and warned that no one would get a chance to joke twice about the harvest.

Castro has brought real freedom to the Cubans—freedom to stay alive as long as they submit to slave labor.

It's All Vince's Fault

By KEN HARNETT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The salesman with the gimpy eyes poked with a pink finger at the olive at the bottom of his glass. Now the pain that was gnawing at his heart came pouring out.

"Vince Lombardi," he said, "is ruining my life."

The salesman hunched his frame forward in his bar stool and ordered his third martini—a double.

"Do you know there's a recession in this country? Well, I do. You should go around with me and see for yourself. Nobody's buying, I'm telling you. Nobody."

"You know I've been in this business for 15 years and this is the worst year since I started. The worst."

"Well, what does that have to do with Vince Lombardi?"

"Nothing—nothing at all, except he may cost me my job."

Tears were beginning to form in the salesman's eyes. "If only he'd have a losing season everything would be all right. I tell you I pray he has a losing season. I get down on my knees and pray."

"And I'm not even a football fan. I don't know a Washington Redskins from a bluebird. But my boss, he's a football nut. To him, Lombardi is the most important man in America, bigger than even Agnew."

"So for the last three months, my sales have been going down. Some days I can't give the stuff away. So what happens. My boss calls a meeting and he says starting next month, we're going to raise our prices 25 percent."

"I told him he couldn't be serious. But he couldn't be more serious, if he were Lombardi himself. He says everybody has to come in 45 minutes early the next day to see the movie about how Coach Lombardi shows this losing salesman how he can be a winner with second effort."

"Well, I wouldn't mind except I've already sat through that movie 12 times—once a month for the last year and I know it by heart. And sure, it's inspirational but I tell you I sure would like to see Lombardi try to sell my customers. I'll give him 15 efforts."

"You don't think I know the stuff he's talking about. How the heck do you think I bought a $35,000 house. I got two cars. My wife wears a mink all winter except when she's in Nassau. You think I don't know how to motivate myself?"

He took one last swig from his glass, then turned toward the door. He lurched round before disappearing into the night and said:

"One losing season—just one. And maybe there won't be any more Lombardi movies."

Africa Taking Strides In UN

By HILMI TOROS
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant has called the 24th session of the General Assembly "an assembly of the poor against the rich, the weak against the strong, the young against the old."

It was chiefly the Africans who made it so.

Much to big power discomfort, they blocked anything that didn't please them and had all their points gain U.N. acceptance.

An experienced U.N.-watcher remarked: "Once Africans had a lot of bark, but no bite. They are getting it now."

The 126-nation world forum, approaching its quarter-century mark, seems at times to be slipping into the grip of black diplomats from the emerging continent.

Their influence ranges from Swaziland's barefooted lobbying diplomats, in their red togas with bone necklaces, to Liberia's Miss Angie Brooks, president of the General Assembly who wears a turban and a flowing African robe.

Only about 20 years ago, African states at the United Nations numbered three—Ethiopia, Liberia and Egypt. They were invited to the meetings of the Asian group mainly out of courtesy.

Now 40 countries represent the continent. They outnumber the Asians and on vital issues often split with them.

When united on an issue they can stifle any important item by any power in the General Assembly. When they unite with the 30-member Asian group of the 23-nation Latin bloc, no combination of alliances can block the Africans from ramming a resolution through the assembly.

At the session that closed last week, over a quarter of the items under debate concerned Africa.

Even the U.N. Secretariat is feeling the winds of change from Africa. Africans in senior staff posts now number 15. Even the U.N. Secretariat is feeling the winds of change from Africa. Africans in senior staff posts now number 19, almost 100 per cent from four years ago and enough to overtake those from Latin America in that level.

The African ambassadors are mostly in their late 30s or early 40s. They seem bent on a calculated and cautious course to make the United Nations stronger.

Then, they feel they can use their numerical superiority to have the United Nations serve their economic and political aims. When economic aid or political agreements carry U.N. approval, major powers may be hesitant in raising objections—although their money chiefly supports U.N. operations.

Defense Plans Involve Fewer

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)— Pentagon officials predict about 1 million fewer Americans will be involved in the nation's defenses as a result of budget cutbacks over the first 30 months of the Nixon administration.

Included in this calculation are reductions in uniformed members of the armed services, civilian employees of defense agencies and workers who have been employed in defense industries.

Amid indications of deeper cuts in defense, the administration is putting next year's budget in final shape for submission to Congress in January. Although President Nixon has been in office only a little more than 11 months, the new budget will run from mid-1970 to mid-1971—carrying through the first 30 months of his administration.

With certain issues still unresolved, Pentagon sources are estimating a new budget of $73 billion to $75 billion in the bookkeeping year starting next July.

This would cut $2 billion to $4 billion from this fiscal year's spending level of about $77 billion.

To put it another way, such a cut would carry defense spending about $6 billion to $8 billion below the final Johnson administration proposal for the current year.

The reduction of the Vietnam war has been responsible for a considerable part of a planned savings for this year, but Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird also has ordered economies by closing bases, canceling and stretching out hardware programs, cutting back air defense, and laying up ships and air squadrons.

More is in prospect, including probable major base shutdowns in the coming year.

As the United States has reduced its troop commitment in Vietnam, the Pentagon has arranged for a slimming down of the armed forces. So far, nearly 270,000 men are being cut from the armed services rolls this fiscal year and there are hints the total force reduction could reach about 500,000 before mid-1971.

Civilian employment under the Defense Department is due to drop by about 73,000 this year and could possibly total 150,000 or more by the end of the next fiscal year.

With reductions in military procurement, officials indicate that defense contract employment may drop as much as 300,000 or so.

The Vietnam war is expected to cost the United States $23.2 billion this year, a drop of about $5.6 billion from last year.

According to current projections, the cost of carrying on the Vietnam war at a reduced level in the next fiscal year may slip to around $17 billion to $18 billion.

One factor which could narrow any budget reduction next year could be a decision to try to expand the Safeguard missile defense system. Another $1 billion could be cranked into the new budget if administration leaders should move to begin construction of additional Safeguard sites. This has been a matter of some debate within the administration.

The joint chiefs of staff this year came in with their budget proposals totaling about $80 billion. This was $29 billion less than their proposed initially last year.

The reason: Laird has adopted what he calls a more realistic approach.

Strength For Today

OF MOST VALUE

Someone has said that character represents what a person is whereas reputation represents what a person is supposed to be.

Certainly a good reputation never hurts anyone. As we pass through life we encounter situations where, to say the least, it is helpful to have the confidence of our contemporaries and to have them willing to say a good word in our behalf when it is needed. In the last analysis, however, the thing that really counts is character, and the person who has a life built on the solid foundations of good living, generosity, and a helpful attitude toward the world at large is in a position to endure whatever may come upon him. It is fine to have the reputation of being clever. It is even better to go through life when friends and supporters on the one hand and opponents on the other are willing to admit that we are dependable, honest, straight forward and willing to lend a hand when the helping hand is really needed.

Outstanding moral character is something that does not need the support of wealth, education, or influence to make it valid. Whether one is seeking a job, or running for public office, or trying to get a loan at the bank, character is the thing that in the long run is most to be desired. The person who has the reputation of guarding his honor at all costs is the chap that stands out in the estimation of his fellows.

Moral character, honest and dependable, is the best possession anyone can have. By Earl L. Douglass

Totalitarian 'Liberals'

Let me answer the two complaints most generally voiced in some recent dissenting mail.

I have never denied the right of the governing board of the National Council of Churches to ask that we recognize Red China; nor that of the National Education Assn. to denounce Judge Haynsworth; nor that of the Writers Guild, America West, to assail Spiro Agnew. PROVIDED, however, they do so as individuals and do not, by innuendo, pretend to speak for the general membership.

But, in all three cases, the latter has been the implication. Now certainly 42 million Protestants never ceded their political opinions to NCC; nor a million teachers to NEA; nor 2700 writers who joined—as they must if they would work in TV or the movies—America West. And I resent this brazen attempt to create an illusion of homogenized unanimity as more that of the totalitarian regimes than of a free country. It is irony, indeed, when this ply is used under the guise of defending free speech.

Compare those shabby tactics with a note from a minister in Arkansas, who backs my stand but is careful to add: "What I say here is purely my personal opinion, and does not intend to represent the members of the Church of Christ, though many feel as I do."

As to those critics who poo-poo the existence of an Eastern Establishment as a hallucination of right-wing extremists, do they now include Theodore H. White in that company?

For Mr. White, too, notes that within a comparatively small area of Manhattan are clustered the headquarters of the N.Y. Times, Newsweek, Time-Life and the three major networks—all prestigious and all liberally oriented.

True, a New Yorker who dislikes the Times can still buy the more conservative Daily News and, if he doesn't like the Time-Life stance, can equalize it with U.S. News, and World Report, National Review or Human Events.

But in today's world, for good or ill, TV has the greatest and most immediate impact. It enters homes where never a book or even paper penetrates. And because TV's Big Three offer the most popular shows and can afford big staffs for wide news coverage, it is inevitable that their news

Other Editors Say The Generation Gap

(Detroit, Mich., News)

The generation gap is actually a communication gap. Try as hard as they can, parents cannot seem to understand their children and the children cannot understand the adults. Their language is different and without knowing the terms being used, it is impossible to comprehend one another.

Children are when the Grass needs cutting.

Junkie — The general appearance of your son's bedroom.

Pusher — Your son trying to straighten his room by moving everything under the bed and into the closet.

The New Morality — Anything your children do that you vowed they would never do because you did the same things when you were their age and you don't want to think they are following in your footsteps.

Hang Up — What your children do not do with their clothing when they undress at night.

Flower Power — The ability of fresh-baked pastry goods to draw your daughter's boy friend in to the kitchen the moment he enters your home.

Lose Its Cool — What happens to the refrigerator when your children leave the door open while fixing themselves a midday snack.

Out of Sight — Where your

He'll explain that the bums in the neighborhood spend their money on numbers, or following the ponies, or laying bets on basketball, when they could be buying better food for their wives and children. Other merchants will tell you that if so much gambling money were not going to the mob in some mysterious somewhere, all business in the community would perk up and everyone would be better off.

From an emotional point of view, all that and more are true. But economics is not emotional any more than a silver dollar is. Some craps players, on winning streak, say that "money likes me."

Nuts. Money neither likes nor dislikes an individual.

The corner groceryman, unless he "takes numbers," that is, accepts bets on numbers for a ring will tell you that gambling is bad for business.

It flows back

Most of the money gambled within the nation is not lost. It may be lost to Harlem, to Watts, or to the South Side, but the winnings move to where the operators are.

If $1 is lost in an evening at Las Vegas, it doesn't disappear. The buying power represented by that dollar is merely transferred from the good-timers and the suckers to the croupiers, the doormen, the waiters, the chambermaids, doorman, desk clerks and hat-check girls that keep the joints running.

It also pays off the mortgages held by the big-city bankers on those hotels and helps those banks pay interest to depositors, who may be poorer or richer than the tourists who lost it in the chuck-a-luck games.

Some of it also goes to the executives, the bosses and the backers who put up million so that no run will ever break the bank. Eventually everybody in Vegas, everybody in the state benefits from the money that rolls away on the crap tables or down the slot machines.

The Shouts of "Bingo!"

In much the same way, the money lost at a bingo can't be spent at a local shop or tavern, but it can sweeten a church building fund which eventually makes jobs for many men.

In short: gambling does not waste or burn up money. It simply transfers its purchasing power from one to another.

Whether the unlucky can ill

ELMER ROESSNER

However, while most money lost or won is a simple transfer of buying power from one person to another, or to a group, there are some real economic losses.

When the Mafia or other mobsters skim their winnings, that is, take some off the top secretly, they are cheating the government of its tax money and shifting the tax burden to the people who make honest tax returns.

 programs almost monopolize the field.
 Granted, most big towns boast some local stations, but they get only the crumbs as a rule. Here in Los Angeles, two independent stations have news-casters with a good following whose tilt is more to the right. But a recent study shows that 78 percent of us get our news from the Big Three. And in smaller towns, they obviously get an even higher percentage.
 NBC, CBS and ABC all have local outlets in L.A., with the emphasis on local affairs. But these broad-casters are all, politically, in the Establishment mold. It is obviously planned that way.
 And don't ask me to forgive them on the ground they don't know what they're doing. They all know damned well what they're doing—even though they are sure that it's for our own good.
 What this adds up to, slice it how you will, is that the conservative viewpoint is almost blotted out in a communication medium which uses the public airwaves. If TV now takes care to present members of the ethnic minorities, it is still closed to conservatives. The silent majority isn't allowed to sit even in the back of the bus.
 Mayor Sam Yorty suggests that perhaps news would be fairer if one of the big networks made its headquarters in L.A., far away from the influence of the Eastern Establishment.
 Frankly, I doubt it, Sam. You don't change a leopard's spots by simply changing the spot where he pontificates. N.Y. or L.A., Mike Wallace would still be Mike Wallace.
 My hope is that TV's realization that the public no longer trusts it—which is abundantly clear—will induce it to give us a fairer shake in news presentation. In lieu of Huntley and Brinkley, Cronkite and Seavreid, maybe, as I once suggested, Huntley and Bill Buckley, Cronkite and John Chamberlain.
 Oh, well, I can dream, can't I?

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks continued to edge higher in light trading today, with advances leading declines by more than 300 issues.

The light volume was attributed to the fact that many companies were closed today, as part of the Christmas holiday, and to a snowstorm which has hit the New York area.

Analysts said the market climb appeared to be a continuation of Wednesday's rally. The Dow Jones industrial average at 11 a.m. inched to 796.07, up 1.92.

New York Stock Exchange prices included:

Occidental Petroleum 2 1/2, up 3/4; Upjohn 5 1/4, up 1/2; Leasco Data 29 3/4, up 1 1/2; Teledyne 38, up 1 1/2; and Mobil Oil 45 1/2, up 1 1/2.

Safety Tree Marks Death

The traffic safety tree on the Court House lawn burned one red bulb on Christmas Day.

James Warren Stokes, 27-year-old Negro of Route 1, Winterville died Christmas eve when struck by a truck in Winterville.

Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey said Stokes apparently walked into the path of the pickup driven by Jackie Ellis Bland, 18 of Route 1, Grifton. The fatality occurred about 10:20 p.m. on N. C. 11, several blocks inside the Northern town limits.

Investigation by the coroner and the North Carolina Highway Patrol is continuing.

Stokes' death was the 18th traffic fatality this year in Pitt County.

The Greenville Pilot Club placed the "Safety Tree" at the court house. Red bulbs will replace a green bulb for each traffic fatality over the Christmas and New Year's holiday period.

Virginian Jailed Here

Pitt County sheriff officials have arrested Eugene Bell of Virginia Beach, Va., on charges of carrying a concealed weapon. Sheriff Ralph Tyson said the arrest of Bell, the brother of Ernest Bell who was apprehended earlier this week on robbery charges, was made in a local motel.

Tyson added that Bell was also AWOL from Cherry Point at the time of the arrest and further developments would come after contact has been made with the Marine base.

Eugene Bell is currently under $1000 bond in Pitt County jail and his brother, Ernest Bell is being held on $22,500 bond on three counts of breaking and entering and larceny, three counts of safe robbery and three counts of possession of burglary tools.

Everybody Had An Invitation

WINFIELD, Kan. (AP) — Twenty-nine persons ate Christmas dinner Thursday with Louis E. Prather, 83. He had invited anyone who wanted to come.

Thirty-six years ago Prather spent Christmas Day alone at a service station he operated three miles west of Belle Plaine, Kan.

"It brought tears to my eyes to spend Christmas alone," Prather said Thursday. "That's why I'm rejoicing tonight."

He gave his first blanket invitation to Christmas dinner last year when 27 persons showed up.

Prather, who still does carpentry on house repair jobs, was assisted by eight neighbors and members of the Seventh Day Adventist Church. They volunteered to fix the food for this year's dinner.

Opening lead: Three of ♠

Altho confronted with an adverse trump break, South was able to take advantage of favorable distribution in the side suits to bring home a four heart contract that was apparently consigned to defeat.

West opened the three of spades, the five was played from dummy and East put up the king to win the trick. A spade was continued and West's queen dislodged the ace.

There appeared to be little involved in playing the hand, for with the expected three-two division in trumps, South can cash the ace and king of hearts and then leave the high trump outstanding while he proceeds to ruff out two diamonds in dummy. The losses on the deal would consist of one trick each in spades, hearts, and clubs.

When declarer proceeded to play the top trumps and East discarded a spade on the second round, it appeared that the contract must go down to defeat, inasmuch as West was now revealed to possess two trump tricks. The only slight chance available was to strip out the hand and hope that when West ultimately obtained the lead, he would be obliged to open up the club suit for South, and perhaps eliminate the loser in that suit.

The ace and king of diamonds were cashed and a third round ruffed in dummy as all hands followed. Next came a spade ruff in the closed hand. When the fourth diamond was led, West trumped in with the jack of hearts and proceeded to draw the remaining trumps with the queen.

Fortunately for South, West had no more spades and was obliged to lead a club. He endeavored to make things as difficult as possible for his opponent by playing the queen of clubs, as if he also had the jack. Declarer had already resolved to play for split honors in the suit, however, and he went up with North's ace and finessed the ten on the way back. When the ten held, South's king of clubs produced the game fulfilling trick.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Bertha Hopkins; one son, Perry Donnell Hopkins of the home; four sisters, Mrs. Jessie Payton and Mrs. Gladys McDowell of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Mrs. Rosa Hinton of Nashville, Tenn.; three brothers, Charles W. and Nelson Hopkins of Washington, D.C., and John Hopkins of Greenville; one aunt.

The family will meet friends at Flanagan and Parker Funeral Home from 7 to 8:00 Saturday night. The family will be at 1615 Roundtree Dr., and 1607 Lincoln Dr.

Bowl Games Continue On

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
College football's post season program continues tonight with the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., matching unbeaten Toledo against Davidson, champions of the Southern Conference.

It's a cinch Al Larson won't break this one up. But only because he's not playing in it.

Larson kept his post season game-breaking record intact Christmas Day taking an interception 88 yards for the touchdown that put the North in charge and set up the 31-10 victory over the South in the 22nd annual Shrine All-Star Game at the Orange Bowl in Miami.

Larson also starred a week ago when his school, Nebraska, trounced Georgia 45-6 in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex.

The North was leading 14-10 in the early stages of the fourth quarter but Florida State's Bill Cappleman had the South moving downfield when Larson picked off his pass at the 12-yard line. The Nebraska star sprinted down the sideline for the TD and then, moments later, the South's eighth fumble of the game set up a one-yard TD plunge by Jim Carter of Minnesota, wrapping it up.

Rutgers' Bruce Van Ness, a running back for the North, and Clovis Swinney of Arkansas State, an offensive guard for the South were cited as the game's outstanding players.

The quarterbacks were expected to be the show in today's Tangerine Bowl game. Toledo's Chuck Ealey and Davidson's Gordon Slade both like to throw the football and their matchup could result in a high-scoring game. Toledo was 10-0 and ranked No. 20 in The Associated Press major college football poll. The Rockets romped to the Mid-American Conference crown.

Ealey was named the conference's back of the year—first time ever that honor has gone to a sophomore. He completed better than 50 per cent of his passes and gained 1,281 through the air and ran for 267 more.

Davidson finished at 7-3, its best football season in history. Slade was the man most responsible, passing for 2,177 yards, 21 touchdowns and completing 61.7 per cent—best average in the country.

The post season action picks up in tempo Saturday with the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., matching Tennessee against Florida, the Blue-Gray Classic at Montgomery, Ala., and the East-West game at Palo Alto, Calif.

Next week, on Tuesday, South Carolina faces West Virginia in the Peach Bowl at Atlanta. The next day, it'll be Houston against Auburn in the Astro-Bluebonnet game at the Houston Astrodome.

Then comes the heavy New Year's Day schedule. Southern California plays Michigan in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena; Missouri and Penn State clash in the Orange Bowl at Miami; Notre Dame faces Texas in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas and New Orleans hosts the Sugar Bowl with Mississippi against Arkansas.

The American Bowl matching North and South seniors at Tampa Fla. on Jan. 3, and the Senior Bowl at Mobile on Jan. 10 complete the schedule.

Tangerine Fans Are Spoiled

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Tangerine Bowl fans — a typical touchdown-loving group — are spoiled.

After last year's Richmond-Ohio University game they'll be hard to please when unbeaten Toledo meets Davidson tonight.

Ohio came in with a 10-0 record in 1968 and scored a whopping 42 points — and lost. Richmond captured one of the widest bowl shootouts ever, 49-42.

Toledo is 10-0 and will attempt to salvage a bit of glory for the Mid American Conference, but Davidson's brilliant passing game could turn it into another high-scoring game.

Gordon Slade has a shotgun arm that seldom tires. The senior quarterback threw 321 times for the Wildcats this season, completed 198 and gained 2,177 yards. His completion percentage was a magnificent .617 and Slade hit for touchdowns 21 times.

Mike Kelly is the most-used receiver with 70 catches, fourth best in the nation. The swift receiver helped Slade become the country's No. 2 passer behind Florida's John Reeves.

Sophomore Chuck Ealey of Toledo is a fellow who really doesn't know hot it is to lose. He has felt the sting of defeat only once since the ninth grade — in a freshman battle against Michigan last year.

Ealey was named the Mid American Conference back of the year as a rookie as he connected on 88 of 162 throws for 1,281 yards.

Ealey is at his best in third-down situations. He hit for first downs 49 times on third and fourth down challenges during the regular season.

Van Ness Got Eyes Of Scouts

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Eighty pro football scouts watched Christmas night's North-South all-star game and probably not one showed up to see Rutgers' Bruce Van Ness.

Van Ness showed 'em. "I came down here hoping I might do well enough to get a shot with the pros," said the 210-pound running back. "But I never thought I would get this lucky. Several scouts have showed an interest in me in the past few minutes."

Van Ness romped for 74 yards in 14 carries as the North workhorse in a 31-10 victory. He was named the Yanks' most valuable player.

"I've been saying all week that Van Ness is a competitor," said North Coach Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue. "Now somebody will pay attention."

On the South side, Arkansas State middle guard Clovis Swinney was the MVP. It made it 2-of-2 for the school. Linebacker Bill Bergery was last year's most valuable player here and the two men are the only ones to represent Arkansas State in the North-South game's 22-year history.

Walter Johnson of the Washington Senators won 36 games in the 1939 season.

Bergery went on to the Cincinnati Bengals and was the American Football League rookie of the year in 1969.

"I'd like to follow Bergery's example," said Swinney. "I'd like to be drafted in an early round and get a good contract. I come from a poor family and I'd like to use the money to help my mother."

Miami Coach Charlie Tate, who shared South duties with Florida State's Bill Peterson, said Swinney "is the best middle guard I've seen play this season."

The South's lead in the series was cut to 11-10-1.

Tourneys Open Across Country

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Southern California and Washington get right into the swim of things and Pistol-packing Louisiana State takes a dip in the Pacific as the holiday season peels open a package of college basketball tournaments tonight.

Winner of the Southern California and Washington match in the opening round is expected to be in the running for the championship of the Far West Tournament at Portland, Ore. And LSU puts national scoring leader Pistol Pete Maravich on display in the Rainbow Classic at Honolulu, Hawaii.

Despite the favorite's role given to 10th-ranked Washington and 12th-ranked Southern Cal, Coach Steve Belko of last year's champion Oregon team says: "We haven't been dethroned yet."

The tourney may produce a likely challenger for the Pacific 8 crown, held by second-ranked UCLA. Illinois and Washington State could give the Far West tourneys two top teams some trouble.

Maravich, who has been scoring more than 46 points a game this year, is third on the NCAA career scoring list and needs 311 points to overtake the No. 1 man, Oscar Robertson.

But Hawaii fans will have to wait until Saturday to see LSU's red-hot gun in action. Louisiana State will meet Submarine Forces Pacific SUBPAC in the second game that night.

St. John's of New York and Iowa open the classic tonight, with Yale playing the University of Hawaii in the nightcap.

Among the other ranked teams in tournament play tonight will be sixth-ranked Tennessee in the All-College Tournament Oklahoma City; Seventh-ranked New Mexico State in the Roadrunner Invitational at Las Cruces, N. M.; Kansas in the Big Eight Tourney at Kansas City.

Getting into action Saturday night will be UCLA in the Bruin Classic in Los Angeles; 19th-ranked St. Bonaventure in the Holiday Festival in New York, and 20th-ranked Villanova in the Quaker City Classic at Philadelphia.

Kentucky, the nation's top-ranked team, plays No. 11 Notre Dame in a non-tournament contest at Louisville Saturday night.

Tennessee is favored to win the All-College tourney. The Vols' 4-0 mark this season included a 55-54 victory over third-ranked South Carolina.

Niagara, with watch-charm guard Cal Murphy scoring over 30 points a game, has compiled a 7-0 mark this season and could be a dark horse in the tourney.

Dallas Tries Again To Win That Really Big One That Has Escaped

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Why can't Dallas win the big ones?

The same impertinent question still haunts the Cowboys this week as they prepare for Sunday's rematch against the Cleveland Browns, who buried them 42-10 in November.

In the years since the Cowboys entered the National Football League they have had three big chances to win it all. Each time they faltered and fell back.

The memory of the 1966 title game in the Cotton Bowl still haunts Dallas fans, who recall the fatal offside call and the rushed pass that Don Meredith threw into the end zone for an interception by Green Bay's Tom Brown.

And the following year in 13-below-zero weather at Green Bay when Bart Starr sneaked home for the winner in the final seconds for a 21-17 edge.

Then there was last year when the Cowboys went to Cleveland as favorites to take home the Eastern Conference title only to fall before the Browns 31-20.

After the 42-10 beating Nov. 2, Coach Tom Landry of the Cowboys said, "It was just a mess. We'll throw it out. There were so many mistakes you can't even evaluate a game like this."

Now comes the rematch in the more hospitable atmosphere of the Cotton Bowl with so many scores to even.

Although most people think of the Cowboys as a passing team, the truth is they have thrown the ball less than any of the four teams in the NFL playoffs, and have run it more.

The absence of Bob Hayes for four games due to a shoulder separation suffered in preseason and the slight separation in Craig Morton's pitching shoulder have been factors. The most important, however, probably is the arrival of Calvin Hill, the rookie from Yale who has won the Offensive Rookie of the Year honors.

Until Hill damaged the big toe on his right foot, a vital takeoff spot for a running back, he was on the way to the rushing title. Although he had not regained all of his early form he proved last week against Washington he still can step. He wound up with 942 yards.

Landry's multiple offense usually opens with the two running backs lined up behind Morton in the I formation. Walt Garrison first and Hill deep. The backs usually shift before the snap.

It is not unusual to find both wide receivers, Hayes and Lance Rentzel, on the same side with either Garrison or Hill slotted inside tight end Pettis Norman.

Morton has not been throwing the ball as consistently since he was injured in the Atlanta game Oct. 12. He is partial to his wide receivers, especially Rentzel, on scoring plays but also goes to his tight end, Norman or the veteran Mike Ditka, in tough yardage situations. About one of every three passes will go to a running back.

Ralph Neely missed time at tackle due to a knee problem but he is back in all-league form. Tony Liscio is at left tackle with John Niland and John Wilburg at the guards and Malcolm Walker at center. This offensive line has been strong on the run but has let Morton get knocked down 29 times. Incidentally, if anything happens to Morton, the quarterback will be Roger Staubach.

The key to Dallas' chances of getting even with Cleveland probably is the ability of the defensive four of Larry Cole, Jethro Pugh, Bob Lilly and George Andrie to put the beat on Nelsen. Cleveland's offensive line held them out all day in November while Nelsen picked the secondary apart. Cole came on strong after an inconsistent start and Pugh has regained form after nagging ankle and shoulder injuries. Lilly and Andrie hold their own in any company.

Lee Roy Jordan is middle linebacker and Chuck Howley, who always backs up the weak side, have had outstanding years and Dave Edwards has done his job.

The Cowboys have been hurt with touchdown passes, 23 of them to be exact. Landry revamped his defense in the final games, moving Otto Brown, a rookie free agent from Prairie View, into the right corner in place of Phil Clark. Cornell Green remains on the left side with Mike Gaechter at strong safety and Mel Renfro at free safety. Renfro, who also saw some duty on the corner, led the league with 10 interceptions.

Punting has been no problem with Ron Widby averaging more than 43 yards but Mike Clark's place kicking has not been consistent.

After listening to those taunts about "can't win the big one" the Cowboys figure to be in an angry mood at home in the Cotton Bowl. Three strikes are out in most leagues but the Cowboys are getting a fourth chance.

State Tackles Alabama Five

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
After a two-day shutdown in Atlantic Coast Conference basketball, action resumes tonight as North Carolina State meets Alabama in the Lafayette Classic in Fayetteville, N.C.

The Wolfpack and the Tide will play in the second round in the contest. Northwestern and Rutgers meet in the 7 p.m. opener.

The match is only the second of the season between Alabama and an ACC team. The other invasion by Alabama was a 104-95 loss to Clemson.

State remains the only undefeated team in the ACC and sports a 7-0 record.

The Wolfpack will continue to use its grab and run type of play, coach Norman Sloan said. Sloan pointed out that in its first five games, State outrebounced the opposition by an average of 59 to 39 per game.

Sloan said "rebounding is necessary for a fast break" and pointed to the work of Paul Coder as a reason for the success. Coder leads the team with an average of nearly 12 rebounds per game.

"I think we've improved each time we've played," Coder said, "and against Auburn we were able to get the ball inside—where Coder is effective—better than we had before."

Barry Was Nearly Back

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rick Barry returned to inaction Thursday night.

The high-scoring star of the Washington Caps, sidelined for two months with a knee injury, suited up but stayed on the bench as his teammates romped to a 131-112 American Basketball Association victory over Pittsburgh.

In the only other game, Mack Calvin hit four free throws in the final two minutes to give Los Angeles a 105-101 triumph over Kentucky.

Strike May Spoil Opening Of Season At Santa Anita Track

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — A strike hit today's scheduled opening of the horse racing winter season at Santa Anita Park as the unions said about 500 pickets surrounded the track at 12:01 a.m.

Union talks with the Federation of California Racing Associations broke down Wednesday over a wage dispute.

The strike, called Wednesday after union members held meetings, came at the planned opening of Santa Anita's 35th season of thoroughbred racing.

The AFL-CIO Service Employees International Union said after the vote was taken that it "could not accept management's final 'take it or leave it' offer of a $2 increase in wage and fringe benefits." A union spokesman said it had cut its demands to a $4 increase.

"There was no meeting of the minds," Fred H. Ryan, vice president and general manager of Santa Anita, said Thursday.

But the horses were at the track and everything else was in readiness when the opening comes, with its feature of the $25,000-added Palos Verdes Handicap and favored defending champion Rising Market.

Three years ago, the same factions were embroiled in contract negotiations that also broke down just prior to opening day. A strike was planned and it appeared the day before the scheduled opening that the horses would not run on time.

But a last-minute meeting in a hotel lobby plus some quick negotiations changed matters and the track opened on time.

The contract difficulties this year also involve today's scheduled opening of the harness racing meeting at Bay Meadows in Albany, Calif., in the San Francisco Bay area.

Bay Meadows track officials also said they couldn't reach agreement with the union. "I don't know when we will be able to open," said one track spokesman.

Jaikyl, Gleaming Sword and Tropic King II are expected to start in the $25,000 Hessian Handicap at one mile at Liberty Bell Park in Philadelphia. Jaikyl likely will be starting high-weight at 121 pounds if Spring Double, at 122, stays in the barn.

Other features on Saturday's card include the $20,000 Miami Beach Handicap at Tropical Park, the $15,000 Capitol Handicap at Laurel and the $10,000 Sugar Bowl Handicap at the Fair Grounds in New Orleans.

Boston Falls To Phoenix, As Knicks Pull Surprise For Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Bill Russell is gone from the National Basketball Association, but the memories, bitter and sweet, linger on.

The Russell-less Boston Celtics bowed to Phoenix 127-116 Thursday in the season's first nationally televised game and the defending champs remained in the Eastern Division cellar.

Then, the amazing New York Knicks pulled off their so-called Boston play for a last-second 112-111 victory over Detroit ... after the Pistons had gone ahead only one second earlier.

Elsewhere, Baltimore held off Philadelphia 121-113 and San Francisco stopped Cincinnati 124-120 in overtime.

In the American Basketball Association, Washington trounced Pittsburgh 131-112 and Los Angeles beat Kentucky 105-101.

Phoenix' triumph over Boston was the first over the Celtics in the Suns' two-year history. Center Jim Fox, with no Russell to contend with, scored 31 points, followed by Paul Silas with 25 and Gail Goodrich with 24. Don Nelson paced Boston with 21.

Walt Bellamy's driving layup with one second left put the Pistons in front of the Knicks 111-110, but New York immediately called time out, gaining possession at midcourt. Walt Frazier arched a long, high pass toward the basket and, while Dick Barnett picked off Bellamy, Willis leaped and in one motion blanked the ball through the hoop as the buzzer sounded.

"We call that the Boston play because Russell and the Celtics used to work it," explained Frazier. "I try to get the ball as close to the basket as possible without hitting the rim. We practice it all the time, but it never worked before. I usually throw the ball too high, too long, too short or over the backboard."

Reed scored a game-high 33 points, with Dick Barnett adding 23 and Frazier 20. Jimmy Walker had 32 and Bellamy 24 for the Pistons.

Baltimore canned six free throws in the final minute to stave off Philadelphia despite a 41-point performance by the 76ers' Billy Cunningham.

Cunningham, who also grabbed 13 rebounds, scored 26 points in the second half and pulled the 76ers to 115-113 with less than a minute to go. But after missing a shot in an attempt to tie the score, he fouled out with 41 seconds left and two free throws each by Gus Johnson, Jack Marin and Kevin Loughery accounted for the final spread. Marin led the Bullets with 31 points.

San Francisco, trailing by 12 with four minutes left, tied Cincinnati at 110-all on Ron Williams' steal and layup with 25 seconds left in regulation time. Williams and Jeff Mullins then scored 10 of the Warriors' 14 overtime points.

Mullins scored 34 points and Williams 25 but Cincy's Oscar Robertson took game honors with 38.

Santa Wasn't Good To Los Angeles Kings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS It wasn't exactly a ho, ho, ho holiday for the Los Angeles Kings.

Removed 3,000 miles from home by the National Hockey League schedule, the Kings absorbed a 7-1 shellacking from Boston on Christmas night. That, believe it or not, was an improvement over the night before, Christmas Eve, when the Kings were beaten 8-1 at Toronto.

In other NHL games Thursday night, Philadelphia trimmed Oakland 3-1 and Minnesota tied Chicago 4-4.

Phil Esposito led the Boston rout with two goals and two assists while Ken Hodge also scored twice and Bobby Orr, the NHL's leading scorer, picked up a goal and an assist, increasing his point total to 50.

Orr has 40 assists in 33 games and, barring injury, is a cinch to shatter both the assists and scoring records for defenseman. Both records were set last year with Orr accumulating 64 points and Chicago's Pat Stapleton picking up 50 assists.

The Kings and Bruins were scoreless for one period before unassisted goals by Esposito and Derek Sanderson in the first 1½ minutes of the second period triggered a six-goal Boston explosion.

The victory stretched Boston's unbeaten string against the NHL's West Division to 16 games.

Philadelphia scored all of its goals in the first period to knock off Oakland and take over third place in the West.

The Flyers struck quickly, bunching all of their goals in eight minutes, 54 seconds, with Jim Johnson, Dick Cherry and Simon Nolet hitting.

Doug Favell, making only his fifth appearance in goal for Philadelphia, gained his first victory, kicking out 31 shots. Gerry Ehman's second period goal spoiled his shutout.

Minnesota came back from a two-goal deficit to gain the tie with Chicago.

Tommy Williams and Bill Goldworthy scored the third period goals that drew Minnesota even with Chicago, Charley Burns and J. P. Parise had the other North Star goals while Stan Mikita scored two goals and Bobby Hull and Gilles Marotte one apiece for Chicago.

The tie stretched Minnesota's winless streak to seven games but kept the North Stars unbeaten against Chicago. Minnesota won the first two meetings between the two teams.

Legal Betting At New Level

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer Legalized betting on thoroughbred and harness racing zoomed to a record $5,496,999,628 in the United States during 1969 by a record 64,179,406 persons.

Despite this merry clicking of the turnstiles and pari-mutuel machines John Schapiro, president of the Thoroughbred Racing Associations, believes there are some soft spots as far as the runners are concerned.

Any increases in attendance and betting are due almost entirely to a greater number of racing days, he told the TRA at its recent convention in New Orleans.

"Sunday racing may be one of the answers," said Schapiro, who also is president of the Laurel Race Course. "It has been a great help in several areas, such as Colorado and Vermont."

The 1969 record totals, as compiled Thursday in a year-end survey by The Associated Press, compared to the 1968 attendance of 61,523,035 and betting of $4,967,661,116 for the flats and trotters, combined.

Of this year's total, the runners reported attendance of 39,744,406 and betting of $3,687,999,628, topped by the states of New York, California, New Jersey, Illinois, Maryland and Florida. This was up from the 1968 figures of 38,712,373 and $3,365,371,524.

Harness racing continued to boom. The United States Trotting Association reported record attendance of 24,435,000 and record betting of $1,809,000,000, up from 1968's 22,810,662 and $1,602,289,592.

Loneliness.

Travel, in the minds of many, is an exhilarating experience. It creates a surge of excitement as old habits are put aside for new adventures. It's invigorating, stimulating... you name it.

Or is it?

Look around the passenger terminal of any major airport and you may see one of the loneliest places in the world.

There, weary travelers waiting for planes dispiritedly while away the time, oblivious to surroundings or neighbors.

Tedium is their lot, loneliness their legacy.

In the waiting rooms, chairs and benches are lined up abreast, inhibiting conversation even when the occupants know each other or are traveling together.

Unimaginative decor creates an atmosphere of cold impersonality, causing the traveler to yearn for the warmth of home and fireside.

Even when he finds refuge in a newspaper or magazine and transports himself briefly into another world, the traveler is rudely returned to reality by public address system announcements on flight arrivals, departures and delays.

Corridors of interminable length add to the traveler's frustrations. Long waits at baggage counters compound them.

Eventually the journey ends. Sometimes it's even been rewarding.

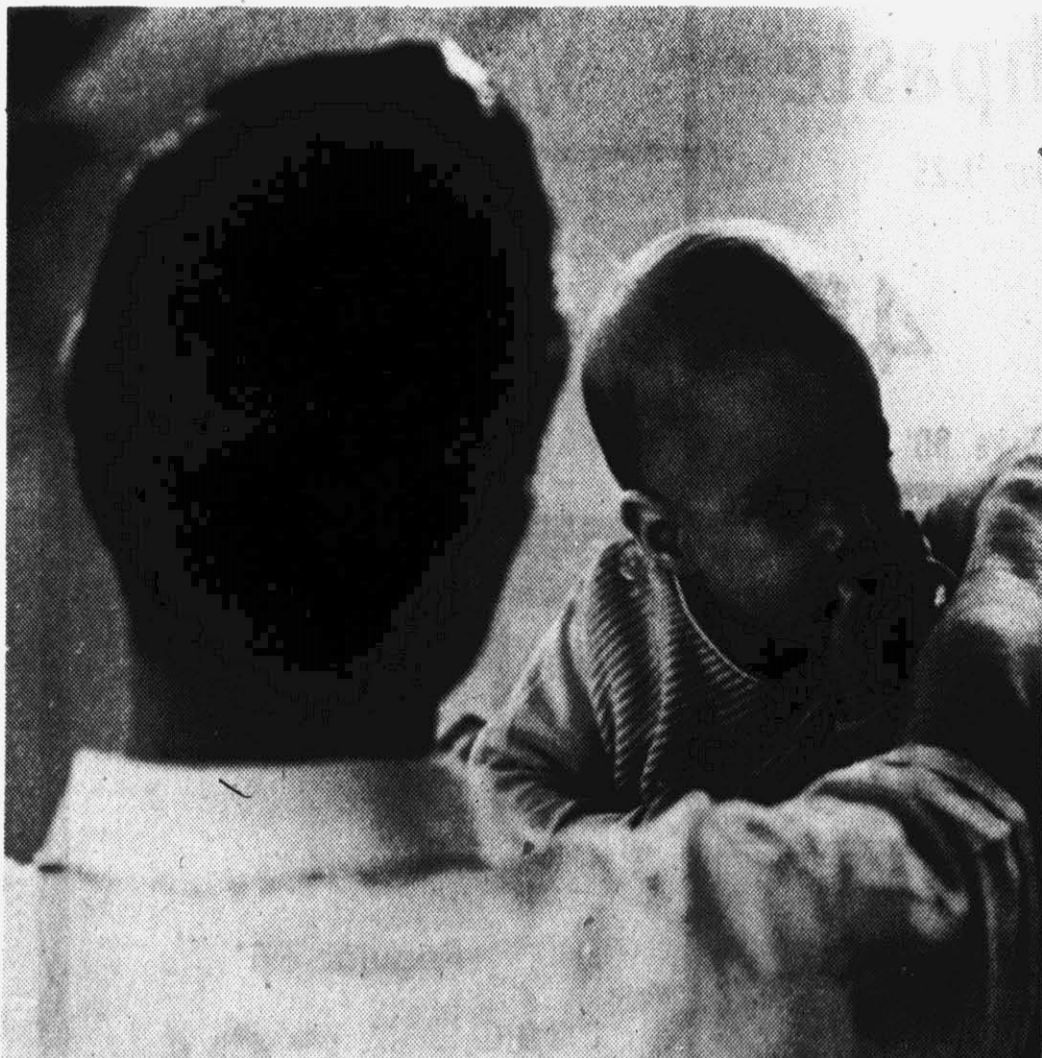

But don't bet on it.

Frustration.

Boredom.

Strange new world.

Endless Corridors.

U.S. Mint Still Making The Silver Half-Dollar

By JOHN M. PEARCE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Mint is forging ahead with its production of scarce silver half-dollars despite a Treasury Department desire to make them of a copper-nickel sandwich in order to preserve the nation's dwindling silver supply.

The Denver Mint—the only one producing half-dollars—stamped $18.65 million of the 50-cent pieces during November, Roy S. Cahoon, the Treasury Department Agency's coin management chief, said in an interview.

This is almost 20 per cent of the $100 million ceiling set by law, and, Cahoon said, isn't nearly enough to go around.

The Treasury said this week that a four-year experiment in making coins by rolling them, rather than striking them, had been suspended because the dies don't last as long when the new method is used.

It was hoped the rolling method would give higher speed and more efficiency. Modern high-speed stamping presses will be ordered instead, Rossides said.

But the half-dollar finds its way into shoppers' pockets only rarely, partially because of the few minted—compared, say, to the 488 million pennies struck during November—and partially because of the hoarding.

If Treasury gets permission from Congress to make non-silver halves—the matter is stuck in the Senate—the shortage may be a thing of the past.

The bidding: East South West North
1♠ 4♥ Pass 6♥
Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Jack of ♠
Today's hand produced a substantial swing when it was dealt in a recent team of four contest. A final contract of six hearts was reached at both tables on an identical sequence of bids.
Also either a diamond or a club opening would have sealed declarer's fate from the outset, neither West was able to uncover the killing attack. At both tables the jack of spades was led against the six-heart contract.
One declarer assessed the situation pessimistically. Altho he had 11 top tricks, there was virtually no hope of developing a 12th in either of the minor suits, because East was clearly marked with the ace-queen of diamonds and the king of clubs as essential high card values for his opening bid.
South observed further that those very same high cards could be turned against his opponent, if he ran down the hand and created a three-card end position. Declarer proceeded to draw two trumps, cash the king of spades and then ruff himself in with a spade.

South led out the rest of his trumps and left the dummy with the lone king of diamonds and the ace-queen of clubs. East, in order to protect his king of clubs, came down to the ace of diamonds and the king-three of clubs. It was now routine for South to lead a diamond to put East in, for the latter was obliged to present dummy with the last two tricks in clubs.
At the other table, declarer reached the same conclusions as his counterpart and proceeded to run down the hand in an identical manner. East was doing some thinking of his own and observing when West showed out on the third round of trumps that South held an eight card suit, he could visualize the end play well in advance.
East's only recourse was to mask his distribution and tho this involved blanking his king of clubs, he did not hesitate to discard the three of that suit early in the play—as if he had started with three clubs. His diamond sluffs were the four, ten and finally at trick 10—the queen.
It appeared to declarer that his opponent was left with the lone ace of diamonds and the king-small of clubs. He confidently exited with a diamond to put East in with the ace. Instead of being employed, the latter proceeded to triumphantly cash the nine of diamonds for the setting trick.

Seamen Report China Strife

By PETER T. SUM
Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — Red China's Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung is 76 years old today and believed to be in good health, but there were no indications that official celebrations were planned for the occasion.

In Hong Kong, seamen on the Hong Kong-Shanghai run reported that an underground anti-Maoist radio station in China's Shantung Province has broadcast that Mao's wife, Chiang Ching, was shot and wounded by a sniper in Peking this month.

Diplomats in Peking reported some years ago that Mao had banned official functions honoring his birthdays. There was no mention of the anniversary in broadcasts by Peking's official New China News Agency or Radio Peking.

The official Peking People's Daily mentioned the birthday in banner headlines in connection with a party exhortation for a new upsurge of movements in the Chinese capital to translate Mao's thought into action, the Peking correspondent of Japan's Kyodo news service reported.

The underground radio station heard by the sailors arriving in Hong Kong calls itself The Voice of Saving the Country and Saving the People. It has broadcast intermittent attacks for the past 18 months on Mao, his wife and Defense Minister Lin Biao, whom Mao has named his political heir.

The clandestine radio said Chiang Ching was in a Peking hospital, but gave no details on her injuries or condition, the sailors reported. They said it claimed she had been shot during constant sniper warfare, the result of a bitter power struggle in which some army units in the Peking area were backing Mao's wife, rather than Lin Biao.

After the shooting, the radio said, Mao ordered dusk-to-dawn curfews in Peking areas where the feuding army units were clashing.

Disclaims 'Muzzling'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Communications Commission Chairman Dean Burch, disclaiming any idea of trying to muzzle commentators, says he will continue to seek out transcripts of television news commentaries.

"I have a lot of interest in things that go out on the television without necessarily suggesting that I propose to do anything about it," Burch added in an interview.

Burch, in one of his first acts after taking office on Oct. 31, telephoned TV network heads for transcripts of commentaries on President Nixon's Nov. 3 speech on Vietnam.

Any suggestion that he and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew are trying to destroy the networks is "a bunch of hokey," Burch said. Agnew has attacked what he termed "instant analysis and querulous criticism."

Burch said he has not proposed to do anything about the commentary. His purpose for reading the transcripts is "really a matter of information more than anything else," he added.

Burch also said he may seek voluntary industry cooperation in an effort to curb obscenity problems on television and radio.

Rites On Saturday For J.A. Bridger

BLADENBORO, N.C. (AP) — Civic leader, industrialist and former state legislator James Albert Bridger died of a heart attack Christmas day at the age of 69.

Funeral services will be at 3 p.m. Saturday at the First Baptist Church of Bladenboro.

Bridger long was active in civic and political affairs. He served as mayor of Bladenboro from 1922 to 1945.

He was a member of the state and the Bladen County Democratic executive committees for many years.

Bridger served as a member of the state House in 1927, 1941, 1943 and 1945. He served in the state Senate in 1929 and 1953.

From 1945 to 1949 he was a member of the North Carolina Highway Commission, and he served two terms as a member of the state Wildlife Resources Commission.

For many years Bridger served as a trustee of North Carolina State University and later of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

Bridger graduated from Horner Military School and Wake Forest College, where he received a law degree in 1921. He also studied at Columbia University.

He was chairman of the board of Bladenboro Cotton Mills and also of Crowell Constructors, a paving company headquartered in Fayetteville. Bridger was owner of Bridger Motor Co. and president of the Bridger Corp., a general mercantile firm.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Elise M. Bridger; three sons, James A. Bridger Jr. of Raleigh, Joseph L. Bridger of New York City and John H. Bridger of Bladenboro; one daughter, Mary E. Bridger of New York City; three grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Jetty Bridger of Bladenboro and Mrs. B. M. Edwards of Columbia, S.C.; and one brother, L. A. Bridger of Bladenboro.

Free Visits To Hospital Of Christmas Holidays

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "How do you say thanks?" Otto Wick, 70, of Solingen, West Germany, asked in broken English.

Wick and his wife Ursula were flown free of charge from Germany for a Christmas visit to their wounded son, Army Sgt. Otto Wick Jr., 39, at the Army's Letterman Hospital at the San Francisco Presidio.

Thanks to contributions of $30,000 by Northern Californians to "Operation Sleighbells," 110 relatives of 27 men wounded in Vietnam were on hand for a Christmas Day visit.

Operation Sleighbells was sponsored by District 15 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. More relatives of other wounded men are still arriving for weekend visits under the program, hospital officials said.

Some of the more needy relatives, the hospital said, were given money for hotel rooms, as well as funds for transportation. Some of the Operation Sleighbells visitors paid part of their way here.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Christmas is usually thought of as a time of peace and good will to others, but is also a time of violence.

At least three persons were shot to death in North Carolina on Christmas eve and Christmas day. Police said each of the slayings involved either members of a family or friends.

A 26-year-old Winston-Salem woman was shot to death Christmas morning after a domestic argument, and her husband has been charged with murder.

Winston-Salem police identified the victim as Mrs. Margaret Hart. Her husband, Charles, also 26, was held for a preliminary hearing Dec. 30, of officers said.

Billy Foyle Hunt, 22, of Rt. 3, Lexington, was fatally wounded Christmas day. Police have charged Hunt's 55-year-old uncle, Thomas Hunt of Rt. 2, Lexington, with murder.

Authorities said an argument preceded the shotgun slaying, which occurred near High Rock Lake.

Robbins police said an argument between two friends Christmas eve ended in the shooting death of one of them.

Lacy Baldwin, 46, was killed in the office of his used car dealership at Robbins. Police said David Brown, 23, of Robbins, was charged with murder. He was held for a preliminary hearing Jan. 8.

Harold Elam, assistant police chief at Robbins, quoted Brown as saying he and Baldwin had a few drinks in Baldwin's office before the argument.

Cold No By South Korea

SEOUL (AP) — South Korea rejected North Korean proposal today for a meeting of nonpolitical organizations from the two countries to discuss the return of passengers aboard a hijacked South Korean airliner.

Information Minister Shin Bum-shik said the North Koreans would be making a "great mistake" if they tried to use "the innocent civilians, as hostages."

The North Koreans had suggested a meeting at Panmunjom between representatives of labor, industry and women's groups from the two countries.

The South Korean official said: "In returning the passengers and crewmen, no complicated negotiations are necessary, but the Communist regime may just inform the time and place for their return through the duty officers of the Joint Military Armistice Commission or through some other channel."

The plane, carrying 48 passengers and four crewmen, was hijacked to North Korea Dec. 11. North Korea said the pilots defected but South Korea said two North Korean agents disguised as South Korean military officers took over the plane.

Required Agree Not To Discuss

BERLIN (AP) — Wolf Ruediger Hess says he and his mother were required to sign statements that they would discuss neither their pre-Christmas visit to his father Rudolf Hess nor the state of his father's health.

Hess, 32, and his mother, Ilse Hess, paid a visit Wednesday to Hess, 73, once a deputy of Adolf Hitler, now under treatment at a British military hospital for ulcers. Hess is serving a life sentence in Spandau prison as a war criminal.

Nine Completed Company Course Drove 600 Miles In Second Gear

CHARLOTTE — John Baker, Parrott Heath, William Beaman, Jimmy Hardison, Don Wrought, James Brumbelee, Charles Harris, Danny Carraway and Wallace Parry, all of Collins and Aikman's Farmville plant, have successfully completed a supervisory development course conducted at the company's Science and Service Center in Charlotte.

The workshop, conducted as a cooperative venture between the N.C. Community college system and Collins and Aikman's corporate personnel department, featured courses designed to improve supervisory skills, with emphasis on good employee relations, employee safety, accounting, training and job planning.

Cars Collided At Intersection

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — John S. Norman made it home for Christmas although he had to drive about 600 miles in second gear.

Norman was en route from East Hartford, Conn., where he works as an aircraft mechanic, when his car's transmission stuck in second just south of Washington, D.C.

He stopped in a small Virginia town for mechanical aid but was told parts were unavailable for his 1965 model auto.

Johnnie Junior Teel, 19-year-old Negro of Route 6, was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 5:50 p.m. mishap here Wednesday at the intersection of N.C. 11 and the Belvoir Road.

Police said the Teel vehicle collided with a car driven by Woodard Collier, 46-year-old Negro of Hassell, causing an estimated $500 damage to the Teel vehicle and about $150 damage to the Collier car.

One passenger in the Collier vehicle was reported injured.

THE NEW YEAR

Symbol of the New Year—a bouncing baby boy! Symbol of the Old Year—a gnarled and dejected Father Time! As the New Year begins, we want to wipe the slate clean, we want to erase everything that has happened and start all over again.

But stop and think a moment. Naturally, there were things in the past that we wish had never happened. There were things that we are sorry we had said and done. But what of the wonderful hours, the tender moments—the really good things?

The best way to start a really "new" New Year is by going to church and taking a quiet personal look at yourself. Take advantage of the experiences given us during the past, and then, with a new perspective, plan your New Year with faith and resolution.
