

Five Vessels In Haifa

'Gestures' In France Over Gunboat Issue

By STEPHENS BROENING Associated Press Writer PARIS (AP) — With the five French-built gunboats berthed safely in the Israeli port of Haifa today, the French government suspended two generals and ordered the Israeli official who arranged the boats' departure expelled.

Some sources said Pompidou, who is scheduled to visit the United States next month, limited French reaction because he wants to make the trip a success and believes the Jewish influence in the United States is considerable.

It appeared to be up to the French armed forces to explain whether they had violated official French policy and cooperated because of old ties built up with Israel. An immediate investigation was ordered.

The two suspended officers passed on the papers that allowed the boats to leave as property of a dummy Norwegian company. Cazelles, highest staff officer in the defense ministry, signed the contracts.

In Haifa, Israelis seemed intent on making it known the boats would not be put to military use. When the unarmed boats arrived the Israeli crewmen were conspicuously wearing civilian clothing, such as bright red sweaters and checked sports jackets. Netivei Neft, an Israeli government-owned oil company, said it leased the boats from Starboat Weill, the dummy company incorporated in Panama with a representative in Oslo. The vessels "will definitely not be used for military purposes, but will service oil ships in a few projects we are planning," said Mordechai Friedman, the firm's manager.

Agnew Goes To Assure The Troops

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF Associated Press Writer SAIGON, Vietnam (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew paid a New Year's Day visit to Vietnam today and told U.S. troops at a model Vietnamization camp that the American people are behind them "one hundred per cent."

Agnew conferred with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu at the presidential palace, then flew by helicopter to a U.S.-Vietnamese base 30 miles northwest of Saigon.

Later, it was announced that Agnew would stay overnight in Saigon at an undisclosed location. President Nixon spent five hours here last July, under a news blackout, but he didn't stay overnight.

Military spokesmen said Agnew would continue his itinerary Friday. His schedule for his Asian trip calls for him to arrive in Taipei, Formosa, Friday afternoon.

The vice president told U.S. troops at Fire Base Kien his first stop: "Don't let anybody tell you that the people back home aren't with you, because they are — one hundred per cent," the vice president told a small group of U.S. Soldiers at a howitzer position.

Then, talking to about 75 American infantrymen, he said "the people back home are pretty darn proud of you and what you're doing over here.

"Don't be misled by what you may see and read in certain publications. It just doesn't reflect the feeling of the American people about the job being done by American fighting men in Vietnam."

After 50 minutes at the base, which correspondents and troops stationed there said was perhaps the most advanced example of U.S.-Vietnamese cooperation, Agnew went by helicopter to Fire Base Patton, where he told troops of the 25th Infantry Division: "I hope this year is the end of this."

He explained that what he meant was that he hopes the 25th Division could leave Vietnam to "go home and take some easy stateside duties somewhere."

Friedman declined to comment on the diplomatic aspects of the incident, saying: "This is a political matter, and we are not a political outfit."

The only official recognition of the gunboats' arrival came from Israeli Premier Golda Meir, who interrupted a minor political gathering to announce they had completed the 3,000-mile voyage.

No government officials were among the sparse crowd that greeted the ships when they arrived Wednesday night. Although many people had been watching from rooftops for their arrival in the port city, there was no outward celebration.

"So the boats are here," nodded a taxi driver. "What's the matter — you didn't expect them?"

The boats were the last of an order of 12 designed to accommodate Israeli-built surface-to-surface missiles. They are 147 feet long, have a displacement of 270 tons, a top speed of 40 knots and have a range of 1,600 miles.

The first seven were delivered before the arms embargo went into effect. Still held up in France by the embargo are 50 Mirage fighter jets, which the Israelis already have paid for.

Starting A New Decade

WHAT WILL THE NEW YEAR BRING?—Melinda Deyton, of 207 Dalebrook Circle, wonders just what the 1970s hold. Today marks the beginning of a new era. Melinda is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert G. Deyton and is a sophomore at J.H. Rose High School. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest.)

Pitt Hospital's First Of 1970

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Daniels are the parents of the first arrival recorded at Pitt Memorial Hospital for the new year of 1970.

Their baby daughter was born this morning at 3:42 and weighs six pounds, 10 1/2 ounces. The Daniels reside at Rt. 5, Box 212, Greenville.

Tax Payers To Begin Listing Here Friday

Pitt County tax payers will begin tomorrow the annual chore of listing their real and personal property for taxing by the county.

Two major changes face property owners this year: listing taxes by mail and having minimum acceptable values set for household and personal property.

Mail listing forms have already been sent to the 3,400 to 3,500 taxpayers who returned postcards to the tax department last year, requesting the mail-listing.

The remainder of the 25,000 listers will be visiting tax listers in the county's 15 townships to give an accounting of the real and personal property they own.

Tax officials said it is the mail listing that has led to the establishment of minimum values for household and personal property.

Taxpayers will be asked if they will accept a pre-established percentage of the value of their house and lot (14 per cent in the Greenville area and varying in percentage in proportion to the area conversion factor used in other areas to equal 14 per cent) as their value of their household personal property practically everything a person owns. If he agrees, no list of the personal property will be required.

For those persons who rent, tax people will accept 60 per cent of their annual rental as a minimum personal property value.

In either case, persons who feel the percentage is unfair, may request an inventory and appraisal. Tax department employees will then inventory an individual's possessions, appraise their value and tax accordingly.

Every person, firm or corporation owning property in Pitt on January 1, is required by state law to list the property for taxes during the month of January.

Santa Barbarans Hope Meet Nixon On New Oil Platform

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Members of a committee called GOO are seeking a meeting with President Nixon to try to persuade him to stop installation of another drilling platform off their beaches which have been twice blackened by oil.

Union Oil Co., which is drilling off the Santa Barbara coast said Wednesday it will install its third platform soon.

"We're trying to get Sen. George Murphy and Rep. Charles M. Teague to arrange a meeting for a few of us with Nixon while he's at the Western White House," said Lois Sidenberg, president of a citizens committee to Get Oil Out (GOO).

There was no immediate comment from the White House. Nixon is spending the New Year's holiday at his Western vacation home in San Clemente, 150 miles south of resort beaches that were gummed with crude oil that spilled from a well blowout under drilling platform off Santa Barbara last January.

Union Oil spent hundreds of man-hours and hundreds of thousands of dollars cleaning up the sand and dispersing an 800-square-mile oil slick in the Santa Barbara channel. Then one of its offshore pipelines sprung a leak two weeks ago.

Production was stopped to the pipe, and flow increased from seepages in the ocean floor left from the January blowout. The oil spotted miles of coastline in Ventura and Santa Barbara counties.

Union Oil began cleaning up again. The U.S. Geological Survey announced Wednesday that the pipeline had been fixed and the oil cleared from the water and the sand.

Within hours Union announced it would erect its third drilling platform on offshore land it leases from the Department of Interior. It would be the 14th platform in the channel.

Union president Fred Hartley said the increase in seepage from the ocean floor while the pipeline was being fixed showed "the only solution is to remove the oil from underground as rapidly as possible."

"In order to deplete more rapidly the large oil and gas reserves, it is necessary to install a total of three platforms as originally approved by federal agencies. We are preparing to do this as soon as possible," Hartley said.

He also opposed that all cities next to offshore oil leases get a quarter of the revenue which the leases bring to state and the federal governments.

Not Cutting Hopes For Compromise To Head Moon Shots Off Rebellion By Nursing Homes

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Moon-landing flights by U.S. astronauts will continue after space station program planned for 1972 is implemented, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Wednesday.

Officially denying published and broadcast reports that some moon flights were being canceled, NASA said in a statement that at least seven more Apollo flights are planned.

"Some of these will be carried out before the planned Apollo Applications flights in 1972 and the remainder after Apollo applications," NASA said.

The Apollo applications program is scheduled to convert the upper stage of a Saturn 5 rocket into a two-story, earth-orbiting laboratory. Three space crews, made up of three-man teams of astronauts, would visit the laboratory for up to two months at a time.

RALEIGH (AP) — The chairman of the North Carolina Board of Social Services says he is bargaining with federal officials for a compromise in hopes of heading off a rebellion by nursing home operators against the Medicaid program.

John R. Jordan of Raleigh said Wednesday he is seeking a compromise which would retain across-the-board "flat rate" payments to nursing home operators.

The operators have been receiving $245 a month per welfare patients. They have been told that effective today, they will be reimbursed according to Medicaid's "allowable cost" formula which is based on individual operating costs plus a small profit.

Jordan said in anticipation of an agreement with the federal government, he has received permission from the state's Advisory Budget Commission to continue "flat rate" payments through January. "We'll try to determine a rate," he said, "that will be applicable for all if we can."

Fifty-one nursing home operators said at a meeting in Greensboro, Tuesday they would not care for welfare patients under Medicaid. They said that under the formula decreed by the federal government they were considered significant because they resulted in casualties. Headquarters said 72 enemy troops and five Americans were killed and 10 Americans wounded. South Vietnamese casualties were 11 soldiers and seven civilians killed and 53 soldiers and four civilians wounded.

The most damaging enemy attack was a 20-round mortar barrage and a 20-minute volley of rifle and machine gun fire that killed five American infantrymen and wounded three.

The infantrymen, from the American Division's 196th Brigade, were in night defensive positions 33 miles southeast of Da Nang when the attack came three hours before dawn. Three enemy soldiers were killed when the U.S. troops returned fire.

Two Americans were wounded in another enemy attack against troops of the U.S. 5th Mechanized Infantry Division in night bivouac five miles south of the demilitarized zone. Headquarters said none of the North Vietnamese soldiers broke through the perimeter. Two enemy were reported killed.

Headquarters said 72 enemy troops and five Americans were killed and 10 Americans wounded. South Vietnamese casualties were 11 soldiers and seven civilians killed and 53 soldiers and four civilians wounded.

The most damaging enemy attack was a 20-round mortar barrage and a 20-minute volley of rifle and machine gun fire that killed five American infantrymen and wounded three.

The allied cease-fire ended at 6 p.m. Saigon time — 5 a.m. EST — but the 72-hour Viet Cong cease fire continued. With reports still incomplete, the U.S. Command said that during the first 18 hours of the allied cease-fire there were 65 enemy initiated incidents, 37 of which would receive less money and would be unable to make a profit. Ten more nursing home operators agreed Wednesday to reject Medicaid. There are 104 nursing homes in the state.

Meanwhile, the state social services commissioner, Clifton Craig, said an estimated 350,000 North Carolinians will receive medical benefits under Medicaid. The program will cover about 180,000 persons now receiving some aid from federal programs, plus another 170,000 who do not qualify for aid under the old assistance programs.

The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare said Wednesday, in approving Medicaid programs in six states, including North Carolina, that 670,000 Tar Heels will receive Medicaid this fiscal year.

It said 180,000 medically indigent persons will also receive aid. The total cost in Tar Heels for 12 months would be $42.6 million, according to HEW, of which the federal share will be $31.4 million.

Three states have not had their programs approved and will lose aid beginning today. Under a new ruling states were required to have their Medicaid plans approved by today and put them into effect or lose federal matching grants for older welfare medical programs which Medicaid is replacing.

The states which have not had their plans approved are Arizona, Alaska and New Jersey.

Leo W. Jenkins Appreciation Dinner Planned For Jan. 27

Officials of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association announced today that they are sponsoring a "Leo W. Jenkins Appreciation Dinner" for the East Carolina University president on the tenth anniversary of his presidency January 27.

The entire region have experienced tremendous growth and progress under the leadership of Dr. Jenkins," Pou said. "We have planned this dinner for him to try to express our gratitude for his many contributions to the North Carolina community in general."

Jenkins is now planning for a medical school to be located at ECU. The appreciation dinner will be held at the Moose Lodge in Greenville on Tuesday, January 27, beginning at 6:30 p.m. The dinner is "dutch" at $5.00 per person to cover the cost of the meals.

The announcement was made in a letter being sent out this week by John W. Pou, president of the organization, to friends and associates throughout the state. "During the past ten years East Carolina University and being sent to as many friends and associates as possible, but if anyone wants to attend and does not receive a letter, they should contact the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association and arrangements will be made for them to attend.

Dr. Jenkins came to East Carolina University in 1947 as Dean of the College. He became president of ECU in January, 1960. Since that time the University has grown to nearly 10,000 students, achieved university status and Dr.

Tell Hubby To Stop His Progress Reports

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband has a problem that is positively driving me up a wall! Jim and I have been happily married for 22 years and have 3 children.

Recently, a good-looking 21-year-old girl came to work as a secretary in the same firm where my husband works. Jim said that this brazen girl let him know very soon that she was "fond of him"—and asked if he could get her transferred to his department. He told her no, he couldn't.

Now Jim tells me that every day she finds excuses to run into his office, and she leaves him little "love notes." Jim said that he explained to her that he was a happily married man, and she should quit bothering him.

Well, she hasn't quit, and now I am angry with Jim for not taking more drastic measures to get her out of his hair. Should I butt in? And if so, how? JIM'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: You ARE "in." Your husband has seen to that. You are being "driven up the wall" by Jim's daily reports—not his "problem." It seems to me that a grown man could find some way of discouraging a brazen girl from pursuing him so hotly. [Could it be that Jim is enjoying it?] Tell your aging Lochinvar to tell the little office flirt to get lost. And tell him, too, to please discontinue the "progress reports."

DEAR ABBY: I was particularly amused at your answer to the newlywed who said that her husband wanted a night out with the boys, and wondered if that could be dangerous. Your reply, "It's not dangerous, as long as the boys are boys."

When I was a bride, I, too, faced that problem, and I said, "Fine, you have your night out with the boys. Enjoy yourself, but be fair, and give me equal time for a night out with the girls, and no questions asked on either side. All right?"

I guess this idea didn't appeal to him because I never heard another word about it.

That was a long time ago. My carrot colored curls have turned to gray, and next year we will celebrate our golden wedding anniversary. We are happily married, and he still calls me "Darling." EVE IN CLIFTON, N. J.

DEAR EVE: Congratulations. I think it's going to last.

DEAR ABBY: A mother wrote to say that when somebody asked her where her son was, she wished to God that she could say, he's living in a hippie colony in San Francisco, because then at least there would be some hope that he might straighten himself out and come home, but, instead he lies dead—killed in Viet Nam.

Please tell her for me that she is better off than I am. I would be proud to say that my son gave his life fighting for his country in Viet Nam. Instead he threw it away.

He was expelled from high school two weeks before graduation. He came home a few months ago looking so sick and dirty. He's only 19 and living hand to mouth. He said he's tried all the drugs but he didn't think he was "hooked" yet. Then he disappeared again not even knowing where he was going. And he tells us not to worry.

We don't sleep nights, expecting to hear any minute that he's in jail, has gone mad, has been murdered, or committed suicide. We hold little hope that he will come home safe and sane. In the meantime, when someone asks us where our son is, what do we say? A MOTHER, TOO [L.]

DEAR ABBY: Apropos your recent letter from "FOOLISH IN COLUMBUS," the widow who "loaned" her money to her children and never saw a dime of it again. I am reminded of a widow I knew years ago. After her husband's death the widow was left with $4,000 and four grown children. The children got together and decided to make mama an offer. If she would give them each $1,000, she could come to live with each one for three months every year. She said, "No, I ain't a'gon to do it. Why—Because a widow woman with $4,000 is always more welcome anywhere than a widow woman who ain't got nuthin'." R. K., SAN DIEGO

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

N.C. Has A Long Way To Go

There was much that was impressive in Gov. Scott's year end report to the state.

There was also much that indicates North Carolina has considerable ways to go before it reaches the levels of more prosperous states.

The governor cited an average weekly wage of between $105 and $106 per week, which was an increase over last year's weekly wage of $100.09. He pointed to $600 million in new and expanded industries, creating 30,000 new jobs.

However, Gov. Scott had, to point out that despite these gains the state's per capita income was $2,664 or $757 below the national average. North Carolina ranked 41st among the states in per capita income.

This deficiency is due to some low paying industry in the state and it shows that North Carolina has a long way to go in bringing in more sophisticated industry that pays a higher wage.

However, the governor had many accomplishments to boast about. Raising taxes was a painful process for him earlier this year. However, now the governor can point to beginnings of "the most ambitious and sustained highway building program in our state's history."

Soon this planning will be translated into actual projects as long needed road building gets underway.

The governor cited increasing the Highway Patrol by 50 men and opening of SBI district offices, including one in Greenville, in his year end report. Also mentioned were the Department of Local Affairs and the consumer protection division.

The governor discussed accomplishments in the health field and it may be here that the state took its most far reaching step during the year. For this was the year that planning for a two-year medical curriculum at East Carolina University was authorized. There is little reason to doubt that this will eventually lead to a full four-year medical school at ECU, which should go a long way toward solving Eastern North Carolina's health care problems. Expansion of the UNC medical school and assistance to Duke and Bowman Gray were cited.

North Carolina took strides forward in 1969 and in some fields new courses were charted. All of the state's problems were not solved during the year, but steps were taken in the right direction.

Israel Apparently Had Very Desperate Need

The spiriting away of five gunboats from a French port on Christmas Day may be good indication of the desperate circumstances in which Israel finds itself.

The maneuver has resulted in a grave crisis in relations between Israel and France, with even the potential of a break in relations.

Israel is surrounded by hostile Arab nations who are receiving strong backing from the Soviet Union. Since Israel's sources of military supplies are dwindling there is no doubt that the gunboats were badly needed.

It appears likely that Israel was willing to risk a break with France to obtain the gunboats because of this desperate need.

Survival for this brave little nation is going to be difficult in its hostile part of the world.

Strategy For Desegregation

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The Justice Department is on the brink of taking steps that, much to the fear and consternation of civil rights advocates and even some Federal officials here, would effectively get the Nixon administration out of the school desegregation business in the Deep South.

The triggering device is the Dec. 17 decision of a three-judge U. S. District Court panel in Atlanta, a landmark ruling whose political implications have not yet been sufficiently appreciated. That ruling, ordering the state of Georgia to insure desegregation of its public schools by next fall, will likely lead the Justice Department to seek similar decisions in other Deep South states.

This could wholly change the political picture of school desegregation. By next fall, Deep South enforcement may well be entirely a matter between state school superintendents and the Federal courts with the Federal government — including the aggressive civil rights office at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) — merely a bystander.

The impact of this change on the actual pace of desegregation is currently a matter of hot debate. But politically, it is a responsible answer to President Nixon's overriding political goal of trying to please the Wallaceite South without offending the rest of the country.

The keystone of the Justice Department's new strategy is a suit it brought earlier this year asking for statewide desegregation of Georgia public schools. The court decision of Dec. 17 not only granted that request and affirmed the right of the U. S. Attorney General to bring such suits but added something not requested. It directed the state school superintendent of Georgia to stop all state funds to districts that do not actively seek desegregation by May 1 at the latest.

Armed with this decision, Justice Department lawyers are poised for action. Although no definite decision has been taken, it is entirely possible that within the next two weeks statewide suits may be filed in Arkansas, Mississippi, and South Carolina. These would ask that state funds be cut off for the remaining hard-core segregated school districts, about 40 in Mississippi, 40 in South Carolina, and 50 to 60 in Arkansas. Another statewide suit is a possibility, in order to pick off hard-core districts in northern Florida.

Since a school district that has managed to keep going even with Federal aid suspended cannot possibly keep its doors open without state aid, the self-enforcement of the Georgia-type order becomes obvious. By this route, the Justice Department could clean up the school desegregation agenda by September.

But as news of the new strategy filters through Washington, the reaction of civil rights partisans has been anything but favorable.

On the contrary, private civil rights lawyers are deeply concerned that the new strategy may become a subterfuge to thwart school desegregation (even though most concede the sincerity of Jerris Leonard, the highly competent Assistant Attorney General for Civil Rights). They fear that state school superintendents, highly political animals, would look the other way when school districts fail to comply. With Uncle Sam out of the picture, no private group could monitor the situation.

Moreover, civil rights lawyers are not at all happy that districts affected by a

Figures That Can 'Stagger'

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
RALEIGH — Statistics of state government often are almost staggering, even to careful students of North Carolina's public affairs.

The facts and figures are never more striking than when presented on masse as during the current series of year-end reports by department and agency chiefs.

WILLIAM SHIRES

An example is the statistic which indicates that the state is spending about $1.1 billion per biennium for education. The figure was $543.2 million during the past year. This represents and reflects both an increase in General Fund appropriations and an increase in state revenue available for the purpose.

It means, according to the statistics, that 70 cents of each General Fund dollar goes to support education.

EDUCATION — The charts put it this way: Fifty cents of the total amount goes into the public school system in which more than one million children are enrolled.

Twenty cents goes for higher education for 16 senior institutions, 16 community colleges and 38 technical institutes.

The higher education institutions number 70 with an overall enrollment of more than 132,000.

Also included in the statistics is the fact that the state for the first time is providing financial assistance to private schools of medicine, Duke and Bowman Gray, in the amount of $2,500 for each student enrolled from North Carolina. And it is providing assistance in the amount of $200 per student to a accredited nursing schools.

HEALTH — Ten cents of each General Fund dollar goes for health programs ranging from a new mental health hospital at Central Prison in Raleigh to the state's share of funds to implement Medicaid, a program which begins on Jan. 1.

Medicare will provide approximately $70 million worth of health services a year to 350,000 persons.

TAXES — No one particularly likes taxes, says State Revenue Commissioner I. L. Clayton. But, he adds, they are necessary to provide services.

And Clayton feels that North Carolina's tax structure is "basically sound and fair."

Approximately 75 per cent of the total General Fund collections for 1969 — $776 million — was derived from income and sales taxes and Clayton says these levies are related directly to population growth and the actual taxpaying ability of citizens.

POINTED — There was a pointed emphasis on the state's tax structure during the year-end reports principally by the governor and Clayton.

Clayton reported that General Fund revenue collections for 1969 exceeded expectations and that "because of our stable tax structure and economic growth, North Carolina is in good financial condition."

"For the most part it is able to operate on a pay-as-you-go basis," he said. Per capita long term debt is below the regional and national average. And, he added, North Carolina ranks "very low" in per capita payment of state and local taxes.

Labor Law Reform Hope

Sam Zagoria's five-year term as a member of the National Labor Relations Board ran out two weeks ago, but at this writing the White House has made no move toward reappointing or replacing him. The President would be well advised to make haste slowly.

Glancing around official Washington, an observer might think of a few agencies more in need of wholesale reform than the NLRB; but his eye would not fall upon many. For the past ten years at least, the NLRB has functioned not as an impartial agency, dedicated to an even-handed administration of our labor law. It has functioned, in effect, as an arm of the AFL-CIO, dedicated instead to advancing the union cause.

This is an old, familiar charge, and it cannot fairly be placed on Zagoria alone. He is an affable Republican, a former assistant to Senator Clifford Case of New Jersey; before his service on the Hill, he was for ten years a reporter for the Washington Post and for a time president of the local American Newspaper Guild. His background and instincts are entirely pro-labor.

And that is the trouble with the five-man board as a whole. Chairman Frank McCulloch, whose term runs out next August, began his working career as a member of the Teachers Union. He was secretary of the far-left Illinois Labor Party and a founder of Americans for Democratic Action. He is a scholarly fellow, and no one doubts his sincerity, but at 64 he has a fixed point of view.

The other three members are Gerald A. Brown, John H. Fanning, and Howard Jenkins, Jr. Brown is a career man with the NLRB, deeply imbued with the pro-labor bias of the old Wagner Act. Fanning started his career with the Department of Labor, and then served many years in labor and contract positions in defense; he is remembered for publicly denouncing General Electric five years ago and then refusing to disqualify himself when GE's method of bargaining came before the board. Jenkins, a Negro and a Republican, served for ten years as a law professor at Howard University; otherwise his entire career has been in government agencies.

In brief, though the board performs quasi-judicial functions, passing upon the actions of both labor and management, not a single member has observed industrial relations from the management side of a table. Unlike the late Boyd Leedom, who served as NLRB chairman until John Kennedy dumped him, none of the present members has a background in jurisprudence. When this board sits, a labor parliament sits, and its record of decisions in such fields as employer free speech, secondary boycotts, authorization cards, and blackmail picketing speaks for itself.

But the trouble transcends personalities. Little of lasting value will be accomplished if the President simply replaces Zagoria now, and McCulloch next summer, with lawyers possessed of a background of labor law on the management side. The board members, in any event, have less power than the NLRB's general counsel, Arnold Ordman, who wields a life-and-death power over the crucial selection of complaints for processing.

Other Editors Say Winning Hijack War?

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

Hijackers of airliners are still, for the most part, eluding the authorities. Even so, FAA officials claim the rate of hijacking has slowed down. Some statistics are even cited: 32 U.S. planes hijacked so far this year, but only two attempts, both unsuccessful, since Oct. 31. November was the first month since May of 1968 when no American plane was hijacked to Cuba—and so far there has been none this month.

Why the improvement? One reason could be the new secret anti-hijacking system developed by the FAA. Maybe the faith in this gimmick is more blind than practical. But then again it may be a powerful psychological deterrent to hijackers.

Eastern Airlines installed the system in the middle of October and has not suffered a hijacking since. Eastern was once a prime target, too. Trans World started using it at the beginning of December.

The system combines use of behavioral characteristics known to be common to potential hijackers with a weapons screening device. It is meant to keep a hijacker off the aircraft to begin with; it can do little afterwards, and doesn't claim to be foolproof. But there has been a hijacking slowdown.

There could be a combination of other factors, coupled with recent events.

For one thing, there have been many stories out of Cuba (prime destination for most hijackers) about harsh treatment of hijackers. And pressure is mounting internationally for nations to eliminate the safe haven aspect for air pirates. That would be the greatest deterrent.

Maybe, eventually, the airlines will win the Cold War against the pirate in the sky.

He also gave credit to speed detection devices and the implied consent law enacted by the 1969 General Assembly.

The new law, which went into effect Sept. 1, requires persons suspected of drunken driving to take a breathalyzer or blood test. Refusal to submit to a test will result in suspension of the driver's license for 60 days.

The law says any person who operates a motor vehicle in North Carolina "shall be deemed to have given consent" to a breathalyzer or blood test if suspected of drunken driving. Guy said when a person applies for a new driver's license in North Carolina or renews his license, the implied consent law is not pointed out to him specifically but it is in the driver's manual.

Meanwhile, Elbert L. Peters Jr., coordinator of the governor's traffic safety program, said: "Tremendous improvements in medical care for the injured and improvements in automobile design" also figured in the traffic safety picture last year.

"The collapsible steering wheel, the padded dash and the double lock on doors are safety features that help," Peters said.

Coming Age Of The Consumer

By ELMER ROESSNER
The age of Aquarius? The Seventies will be the Age of the Consumer!

Tremendous pressures are building up for a new deal for the consumer. It is significant that in the Now Generation, the major target is shifting from politics to environment. Sure, the young people want an honest world, but they want a clean world, or both.

So Far, Splintered
The elements that can form a Consumers party are now sadly splintered. Groups are running off in all directions, trying to halt the oil spills in the Santa Barbara channel, trying to save the redwoods, challenging the safety of birth control pills and wrestling with mounting piles of waste and garbage, auto safety, agricultural poisons, air fouling by jets and throwing beer cans along the highways.

Put them all together they'd spell power. They won't spell Nader, however. Ralph Nader has done more than perhaps any one man, more than some Congressmen, to stir up

Perhaps by 1976, the clean-environment, anti-smog, anti-DDT, antinoise, pro-consumer groups may be so strong in America that they may elect the President of the United States.

Enormous Potentials
Count the groups demanding environmental reform. In addition to those mentioned are these:

- demanding safer auto exhausts and jet plane emissions,
- wanting industrial contamination of air and water stopped,
- insisting on faster-degradable detergents,
- calling for preservation of wildernesses and wetlands,
- demanding packaging that rots and disappears quickly,
- calling for protection of underground workers,
- shouting for less noise,
- protesting real or imagined dangers of nuclear people and legislators. But he stirred them up about so many things that he has, in effect, scattered consumer forces. He has made himself more of a John the Baptist than a Saviour.

calling for legislation to make paints, toys and cosmetics safer,

-trying to prohibit chemical fertilizers, especially poisonous ones,

-calling for railroads to cease dumping toilet wastes on tracks,

-activating anti-litter campaigns, and hundreds of other groups, including those who want curb-your-dog ordinances enforced.

The public demand for reform is nearing the boiling point. All it needs is a Huey Long, a Roosevelt, a Joe McCarthy, a Mussolini or a Kennedy to become a leader on a platform calling for a cleaner, healthier happier and longer-lived America.

Strength For Today

COMPROMISE

Is compromise ever justified? It certainly is, provided that what we compromise is a plan, not a principle. If we try compromising principles, we find ourselves in all sorts of difficulties. A little compromise leads to a greater. The time comes when the compromiser is just a spineless individual respected by no one and especially not having much self-respect.

But life consists in constant compromise in the realm of procedures. Businessmen gather about a table and begin discussing certain projects. If they compromise principles and try to get away with something evil, then they are in for a bad time and should be. But they may spend hours going over this plan and that, arriving finally at a course of action in which all can agree. Some will shake their heads and say it can't be made to work. The only thing to do is to try out the accepted plan. Maybe it will work, but if not, it may point the finger to some better procedure.

Life is a school. Most of us in the teen age wonder how the rest of the world could be so stupid and we could be so bright. Now, having come to years of maturity—and some of us to old age—we often wonder why our contemporaries didn't get us down and pound us some decades back for being so stupid and obstinate.

But we have learned. At least we make this statement hopefully.

Long Boycott Of 'Peoples Park' Annual Awards Accorded Broken; New Parking Lot Is Used To Two N.C. Industries

One-Day Strike By Carpenters

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Members of the carpenter's union working at the site of the Kelly Springfield tire plant near Fayetteville returned to work Wednesday, ending a one-day walkout.

The strike was a disagreement over jurisdiction, according to the assistant business manager of Local 522, C. B. Forbes. He declined to give details.

By JIM CHURCH
Associated Press Writer
BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A boycott of "Peoples Park," a virtual no man's land since bloody rioting last May, was broken Wednesday when 13 drivers used a new parking lot on the site.

The half-block of vacant land, owned by the University of California, was turned into a makeshift parking lot last spring without University permission by students, hippie types and area residents.

Buy More Old Claims

ELY, Nev. (AP) — Howard Hughes has picked up 85 mining claims near here in a buying spree that began 20 months ago. He now has at least 1,740 old claims around the state.

Hughes Tool Co. has declined comment on the elusive billionaire's new interest except to say in September "no decision has been made to commence any sizable mining venture."

The 85 unpatented claims are in the Red Hills Eagle District 30 miles northeast of here in a region once thought to hold gold, silver, lead and tungsten ore, mining experts said Wednesday.

James Mahoney, White Pine County clerk, said since tax stamps no longer are required on mining deeds, there was no way to tell how much Hughes paid for his latest purchases.

Earlier buys, however, mounted into the millions with records filed in August showing $2.9 million paid for 1,378 claims near Austin.

Kilpatrick ...

The need here, or so it seems to me, is for an entirely new approach, possibly through the formation of a separate Labor Court. Such a judicial body, patterned after other specialized Federal courts, has been proposed from time to time in the past. Little has been heard of the idea recently, but it has some merit.

If Congress is not disposed toward such radical reform, a substantial improvement could be achieved through a legislative restatement of the basic Taft-Hartley Act. It is often hard to recognize the act as the NLRB has rewritten it by successive decrees. The law was intended to guarantee certain rights to management, as well as to labor, but little has been seen of the rights of management lately. If a new labor law also curbed the powers of the general counsel, non-union workers might have a fighting chance to be heard.

Rioting erupted when the university fenced the lot. One man was killed and more than 130 injured.

Shortly before noon Wednesday, Joseph Bishop, a laundry operator, drove through a line of about 50 pickets who had kept the 24-hour lot empty since it opened early Tuesday.

Picketing and word-of-mouth support for the boycott had prevented any public use of the property, despite university attempts to use other parts of the land for an athletic field and dormitory parking.

Still Much To Be Done

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Air Force Lt. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., America's highest-ranking Negro military man, says it may be a while before all Negroes in military service can say they have an equal chance with white soldiers.

Davis, retiring Feb. 1 as deputy commander of Strike Command at MacDill Air Force Base, reflected in an interview on his own career and on the future of other Negroes in the military.

"Let's face it," he said. "Military service before 1948 stood for segregation, contrary to anything in the United States Constitution. Much of that has changed, especially in the officer ranks, but I admit there is much to be done."

Davis, a West Point graduate and son of America's first black general, said a prime complaint is on the subject of promotions — especially among enlisted men.

Evans-Novak ...

statewide order such as the Georgia decision will, under long-standing Federal guidelines, immediately resume receiving funds cut off by HEW. Indeed, by automatic restoration of these Federal funds, the new Justice Department strategy would effectively eliminate HEW's energetic desegregators from the Deep South.

For this reason, officials at HEW who have been fighting a guerrilla action all year against Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell's Justice Department are very nearly as alarmed by the prospective new strategy as outside civil rights advocates. The fact that HEW has not received a word of advance information from the Justice Department of the new suits to be filed has only heightened year-end worries there.

The Parking Company of America, with headquarters in Orange County, Calif., had leased the 120-space lot. It was without a customer until Bishop put 50 cents into a meter and said to newsmen: "I needed a place to park. I'm not a crusader. I've put up with a lot of junk over the years."

Three more cars rolled in and Frank Chaves, vice president of the parking company, beamed. "Just wonderful, just wonderful," Chaves said as the jeering crowd grew in size.

A few minutes later an elderly, well-dressed couple drove up and parked. The couple argued briefly with the pickets and the wife stated defiantly: "We're the silent majority."

A few more cars trickled in as the crowd grew to more than 100. Ten policemen stood by.

The pickets carried such signs as "Scab Parking," "Park at Your Own Risk." Later they distributed a flyer containing the names and addresses of four of the drivers who had parked in the lot.

"We don't expect any violence," a policeman said. "This picketing has been going on for weeks. School is out for the holidays, but there might be a bigger crowd Monday."

Chaves said the lot would be open New Year's Day and announced the day's receipts: $6.50.

City's Weapons Hoard Is Stolen

MILLBRAE, Calif. (AP) — Police say thieves have stolen 58 pistols, rifles and shotguns from the city of San Francisco bought in 1942 for protection of its water system from sabotage.

Thirty shotguns and some ammunition were left behind, said Harry Tracy, water department security director.

Tracy said the weapons had been kept in a warehouse here in case of another war.

Two North Carolina industries were among the 24 industries and corporations honored in 1969 with "Business In The Arts" awards presented jointly by the Esquire Magazine and the Business Committee for the Arts.

The annual awards, in its third year, honors firms and organizations for "outstanding support of cultural activities at both the community and national levels."

Burlington Industries, Inc. of Greensboro, was presented an award "for participating in a wide range of cultural and artistic endeavors including, in 1968, expanded active support of both the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra and the Weatherspoon Art Gallery at the University of North Carolina."

The second North Carolina industry so honored, the Hanes Dye and Finishing Company, Winston-Salem, was cited "for a 1968 program that included major projects in the areas of art, music, theater, crafts and the dance. These projects were conducted at the national, state and community levels. In addition to financial support, the company provided outstanding leadership through active participation by its two top officers."

Presidentation of the awards were made to Douglas Orr, Secretary and General Counsel for Burlington Industries, and to Jesse C. Reese, Jr., executive director of The Arts Council of Winston-Salem.

The two North Carolina industries were the only ones in the South chosen as recipients for these awards. Most of the industries cited for outstanding contribution to the arts were located in northern states. New York, with eight awards, led the list. Other states receiving more than one award were: Illinois, three; Missouri, two; and California, two. Industries in Massachusetts, Michigan, Wisconsin, Texas, Washington, Pennsylvania and Vermont each received one award.

Ends Nearly 60 Years Service

A native of the Carolina Township near Stokes and now residing in Norfolk, Va., Henry Lawrence Bullock marked the end of a public service career that covered nearly 60 years with his retirement on Wednesday as judge of the Commonwealth's Corporation Court.

Educated in Pitt County schools, Bullock entered the Army in 1913 and attained the rank of first lieutenant. In 1919, he went to Norfolk and began with the director of public safety as an investigator.

Following a short tenure with the Norfolk Police Department, Bullock became an investigator in the Commonwealth attorney's office, began an intensive study of law and gained admittance to the state bar in 1925.

In 1944, Bullock entered a private law practice and a short time later was named assistant Commonwealth's attorney. In 1949 he was named Commonwealth's attorney, and in 1954 was appointed judge of Corporation Court. Bullock had occupied the post on the Corporation Court bench for 15 years at his retirement.

whom he worked under in the clerk's office, with giving him the incentive to pursue the law profession. "I owe him much in the way of education and information and being able to have his leadership," Bullock said.

The oldest of five children, Bullock married the former Elva Cousins of Norfolk in the fall of 1920. They have two daughters, six grandchildren and currently live on Westmoreland Avenue in Norfolk.

Appointed to succeed Bullock on the Corporation Court is Commonwealth attorney Alfred W. Whitehurst.

Revelers On Rampage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An estimated 5,000 exuberant young New Year's revelers went on a window-smashing and store-looting rampage for two hours early today on a popular boulevard in East Los Angeles.

Fifteen young adults were arrested as about 40 sheriff's deputies and highway patrolmen, aided by a helicopter, halted the spree along 1 1/2 miles of four-lane Whittier Boulevard.

No injuries were reported. The trouble began as the midnight hour approached and several youths began smashing windows to set off burglar alarms to add to the year-end noise-making, said sheriff's Sgt. John McBride.

Only small items, mostly clothing, were grabbed from displays behind shattered windows in the usual grab-and-run style," he said.

Walking Beats Bring Decline In Crime Rate

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Foot patrolmen, walking their beats in a high-crime area of St. Louis, have brought a decrease in law violation and "some sense of peace," a resident reported Wednesday.

Elmer Hammond, chairman of the Pruitt-Igoe housing district, wrote to St. Louis chief of police, Curtis Brostrom: "Crime caused mostly by outside troublemakers has decreased significantly since they started walking their beats."

"The support the officers have achieved with residents, young and old is heartening... the foot patrol officers have become an important part of our community. When the first snow fell, I noticed officers playfully exchanging snowballs with some of the youngsters."

REV. PAUL FERGUSON

The Rev. Ferguson is a former professional boxer. At one time, he was the Southern Welterweight Champion. He lost only 10 out of 230 fights as a professional. At the present time, he is an outstanding handball player and the champion player in his home city of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Hospitalized After Collision

Two persons were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital this morning following a 2 a.m. collision at the intersection of Elm and Fifth Streets.

Police said cars driven by William Watt Brame Jr., 24 of 402 Lewis St., and William Harold Franklin Jr., 24 of Mt. Olive collided, causing an estimated $2,000 damage to the Brame vehicle and about $1,500 damage to the Franklin car.

Franklin was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and failing to stop for a stop signal.

Brame and a passenger in his car were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries.

New Year Is Happily Greeted All Over The World

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A bevy of youngsters, one of them naked, danced in the frigid fountains of London's Trafalgar Square on New Year's Eve, while thousands of miles away, in warm Rio De Janeiro, thousands gathered on Copacabana

Beach and made offerings to Iemanja, the sea goddess. In New York, a huge red and white striped balloon was lofted over Central Park as 3,000 gathered for a city-sponsored New Year's Eve party that featured fireworks, rock music and dancing.

At Times Square, a Crowd estimated at over 100,000 pirouetted over slippery sidewalks in 24-degree cold to watch the famous illuminated ball make its descent from atop the Allied Chemical Tower. And Guy Lombardo, who for 40 years has conducted his Royal Canadians at New Year's Eve fetes in the city, received telephoned good wishes from President Nixon in San Clemente, Calif.

Lombardo, performing at the Waldorf-Astoria, played the traditional "Auld Lang Syne," as well as "Mrs. Robinson" and "Aquarius" to a mainly middle-aged crowd that paid $60.50 a head for the festivities, not including drinks. The celebrations in Rio were led by white-robed voodoo-like priests, many of them smoking cigars. They built hundreds of sand altars and to the beat of drums, chanted, danced and cast offerings of trinkets and flowers into the sea for the goddess, who although divine, is still considered first and foremost a woman. The annual event is celebrated by the Afro-Brazilian Macumba cult and lasts until dawn.

In Tokyo, solemn midnight bells tolled and Japanese the world over ushered in the year of the dog, a period said to produce people honest, loyal, sociable and good-natured. Drawings and pictures of dogs adorned New Year cards in the Japanese capital, giant paper-mache dogs floated over shopping centers and the shelves of department and toy stores were filled with animated recreations of man's best friend. At the Trafalgar Square folic, police arrested 11 persons on charges ranging from drunkenness to carrying offensive weapons. Fifteen others were treated at a nearby hospital, some for exposure after frisking in the fountains, others for injuries

'Toy Gun' Was A Real Killer

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — A young Fayetteville housewife was killed Tuesday night when her husband pointed what he thought was a toy gun at her and fired. Cumberland County Sheriff W. G. Clark said Mrs. Lorraine Fisher died in a Fayetteville hospital.

sustained in scuffles. Elsewhere, Romans "killed" the old year and made way for the new by smashing crockery, exploding fireworks and firing off rounds from pistols and rifles. Several injuries were reported before midnight. As the banging and blazing merrymaking was under way, Pope Paul VI said a prayer of thanks in his private chapel overlooking St. Peter's Square. He is to celebrate Mass in the Jesuit Church of Jesus Thursday evening to mark the Roman Catholic "Day of Peace."

In Bartow, Fla., residents built a huge bonfire with discarded Christmas trees, something they have been doing for the past 35 years. In Pasadena, Calif., people huddled in sleeping bags along Colorado Boulevard to insure themselves a good view of the tournament of Roses Parade New Year's Day. In nearby Glendale, Calif., 80 persons, including eight state governors, planned to read the entire Bible over the radio during the next 85 hours. "In this special way, we are recommending the ageless wisdom of the Bible to men and women everywhere from which they may find answers to their problems in 1970," Harold M. S. Richards, Jr., director of the Voice of Prophecy said.

The station is the broadcast arm of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. In Philadelphia, residents waited breathlessly for the plumed and sequined Mummer's Parade today featuring 15,000 men and boys strutting to banjo and other music.

The 70th annual march is to have 22 string bands, cost an estimated $600,000 and last about nine hours. Across the nation, other Americans celebrated New Year's Eve at private parties, Watch Night church services or Vietnam peace vigils. Some had to work. Others went to bed before midnight.

The New Year also ushered in higher state taxes for some Americans on such items as income, retail sales, gasoline and cigarettes. Increases in some form are coming to residents of Nebraska, Mississippi, Colorado, North Dakota, Massachusetts and Oregon.

And in Britain, the New Year means that if you're at least 18 you can get married, without parental consent, as well as enjoy other adult prerogatives.

Hospital Rush Made By Boat

LOGAN, W. Va. (AP) — For Donna Evans of Logan County, W. Va.—marroned by floodwaters of the swollen Guyandotte River—the proverbial rush to the maternity hospital New Year's Eve was made by boat. Mrs. Evans, 29, gave birth to a six-pound, 10-ounce girl late Wednesday night at Logan General Hospital.

She was brought to the hospital by two young men in a boat Mrs. Evans described as a "canoe type."

Decide To Wait And See Outside Firm's Proposal

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Charlotte-Mecklenburg school board has voted not to appeal the recent decision by U. S. District Judge James McMillan but to wait and see what an outside firm hired to draw up a new set of desegregation plans will do.

Board chairman William Poe said Wednesday the board decided to see what the outside consultant would plan for next year. "An appeal at this time would be premature and unwise and would have little chance of success," Poe said in a prepared statement. He noted the decision was based on advice of the board's attorneys and the possibility that the U. S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals would force immediate desegregation.

Supreme Court Urged To Set Uniform Deadline On Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has urged the Supreme Court to set a uniform fall deadline for desegregating the last remaining dual school districts in the Deep South and has promised strong action to enforce such a ruling.

In a memorandum to the court Wednesday, Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold and Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard opposed an appeal by civil rights lawyers and groups of Negro families who are asking the court to set an immediate deadline for desegregation in 14 districts in Louisiana, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Florida.

The appeal concerns a Dec. 1 decision by the U.S. Court of Appeals in New Orleans giving the 14 districts and two others until fall to desegregate their students.

Griswold and Leonard contended the high court not only should uphold the appeals court ruling on the fall deadline, but should apply it to more than 300 districts in the five states and Texas which are not now committed to desegregate before fall. "If the court now endorses the schedule fashioned by the Fifth Circuit (appeals court) as uniformly applicable to all dual school systems, the United States will focus its resources toward making that deadline a reality," the memorandum said.

Pledging the government "will take all necessary steps to ensure compliance with the resulting decrees," Griswold and Leonard suggested they might use as a pattern a Dec. 17 decision by a federal court in Atlanta. The court ordered the state board of education to assume responsibility for local school desegregation and to withhold state funds from districts that do not comply.

The memorandum argued that setting a nationwide deadline for desegregation would be a "surer path to a prompt end of the problem" than "case-by-case litigation."

The administration proposal would have no effect on 33 Mississippi school districts already under Supreme Court orders to desegregate this month.

In arguing for a nationwide deadline for the remaining uncommitted districts to end their dual systems, the administration said this would give them time to take necessary steps. At the same time, the memorandum said, such a deadline "puts all school boards on notice that there will be no justification for further delay." The Supreme Court on Oct. 29 ruled that school districts must end segregation "at once." This decision threw out the previous standard of desegregation with "all deliberate speed."

Judge Steps Aside Pending Hearing

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The judge who presided at the Clay Shaw trial has stepped down pending a court hearing on charges that he solicited for prostitution, showed sexy movies and resisted arrest.

Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr. announced that he was going on indefinite leave, including his annual vacation, immediately after the district attorney officially accepted the charges against him.

Haggerty, 56, a judge of the state criminal district court, was one of 14 persons arrested Dec. 17 in a police vice raid on a motel. He was the first to be formally charged.

The charges specifically accused the judge of soliciting and transporting three women to what the police called a "stag party" with the intention of having them commit prostitution.

Haggerty declined comment on the charges but said in a statement issued by his lawyer that the motel was the scene of a traditional New Orleans "before-the-wedding bachelor par-

Despondent Wife Dies Of Wounds

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — The despondent wife of an Army serviceman killed in Vietnam died at her Fayetteville home Wednesday. There were four gunshot wounds in her body.

Cumberland County Sheriff W.

G. Clark identified her as Mrs. Shirley Hussey, 38, of Fayetteville. Her husband was killed in 1968.

Clark said Sgt. T. C. Leroy Jones, 32, of Ft. Bragg, told him that he witnessed the shooting and that the wounds were self-inflicted. Clark said a ruling would be made today as to the cause of death.

Clark said one of Mrs. Hussey's two daughters, 12-year-old Lynn, who apparently witnessed the shooting, and has been unable to talk. Clark said she is in Womack Army Hospital at Ft. Bragg.

No Re-Election Bid By Mayor

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — The mayor of Winston-Salem said Wednesday he will not seek re-election in 1970.

Democrat M. C. Benton said he wants to devote more time to his family. He has been mayor since 1963.

Suit Challenges Statesville's School-Pairing

STATESVILLE, N. C. (AP) — A federal court suit was filed in Statesville Wednesday challenging the legality of a Statesville school pairing plan aimed at integration of a previously all-Negro school.

Plaintiffs say the plan is based on race and is unconstitutional.

The suit names the Statesville City Board of Education and city schools Supt. A. D. Kornegay. It challenges the legality of recent pupil reassignments directed by federal Judge James B. McMillan of Charlotte.

The order is to take effect Monday.

Wednesday attorneys for two pupils sought an injunction to halt implementation of the order, but Judge Wilson Warlick denied the motion. No date was set for the suit to be heard.

Prospects For City Bus System Apparently Poor

Chances for a public bus system in Greenville the near future appear very slim at this time.

Earlier this year, Laverne Kee and James Boone had applied for and were granted a franchise to operate a city bus system, with operations scheduled to be in effect by December 31.

City Manager Harry Hagerty reported today that "no word has been received from Kee or Boone regarding this matter."

He stated: "If they do not take action right away to get things going, we will take this up at the City Council meeting on January 8."

Hagerty indicated that lack of immediate action would result in a cancellation of the franchise. He further noted "no other acceptable offers are on hand for another city bus franchise at this time."

Fred Mattox, attorney for Kee and Boone, commented "I wrote them the first of the month and reminded them of the terms of the franchise—that it would expire at the end of the month. I've not had a reply from them, so I don't know what their final plans are."

Mayor Frank M. Wooten Jr. says that failure to get a system operating now will not end the matter. "We will be in the market looking for something else. I feel this is a much needed service in Greenville, and I plan to suggest that the council form a committee to make further investigations into other possibilities."

Mayor Wooten added that "this is a matter I plan to pursue in every possibility which might be open to us."

The Worry Clinic Male Egotism Explains Much

Ada wonders why men seem gun-shy about proposing marriage. So read the answers below. And then use that 5-part standard sales formula if you wish to win a wedding band in the highly competitive American marriage market. Also, apply Seneca's sage advice but in reverse! And use the "Rating Scales" below to obtain A-1 matrimonial merchandise at the outset!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

CASE L-595: Ada G., aged 20, is a college coed.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "why do men seem to think that girls are always trying to catch them for marriage?"

"They act so gun-shy, as it were, when the subject of marriage is even mentioned!"

Male egotism is a partial explanation!

For men flatter themselves by thus thinking every woman is madly eager to lasso them with a wedding band.

Another factor to explain their diffidence is the great surplus of women over men, running well over 5,000,000 above the age of 21.

If this ratio were reversed and men far outnumbered women, then you'd see much greater eagerness by males to get a woman to march down the center aisle with them.

It's thus a man's world, with men having far more freedom and privileges than women, so they shy away from limitations which they think marriage will bring.

If you girls really wish to win husbands in our highly competitive American marriage market, then follow this formula:

(1) Adopt ancient Seneca's sage advice which he offered a young fellow who was trying to win a girl's favor, but girls can reserve it.

"Go to the archer," advised Seneca, "and see how he uses his bow."

"With one hand he pulls it back but with the other, he pushes it away."

That means, in essence, tease 'em but leave 'em or keep them guessing, and they will soon be urging you to accept an engagement ring!

(2) Be lavish with compliments for your boy friend, for men's ego demands a heavy input of praise. Your cheery smile is a non-verbal compliment but also ask him for advice and affect helplessness so he will then feel more important.

(3) In 1900, girls won their men by coquetry and "fans" instead of their "fannies."

Too many modern girls rely mainly on mini-skirts and their "measurements."

Those attract attention, but that is only the first step in the matrimonial "sale."

For winning a wedding band is comparable to winning an order for an automobile or life insurance policy.

And the standard sales formula is this: (1) attract attention; (2) Maintain interest; (3) Create desire; (4) Get action; (5) Produce permanent satisfaction.

Your mini-skirts may help attract attention. And your rich use of compliments will maintain interest, as well as create desire for more dates so he can receive additional praise.

Then resort to Seneca's advice to get action. With skittish old bachelors, you may need to import a male cousin and then regretfully tell your reluctant "steady" that you must stop dating him for awhile because a man from your home town is now in the city and you must entertain him till he leaves.

Divorces indicate the failure of women to apply that 5th part of the sales formula!

(4) Take your boy friend to church with you, for men expect girls to be the chief custodians of morality and music, idealism and altruistic concern for handicapped kiddies, the weak and starving.

Remember, too, that 50 percent of the applicants to our Scientific Marriage Foundation forbid our even introducing them to a woman who smokes!

Only one man in 50,000 has ever asked us for a girl who smokes or drinks! Get hep!

So send for my 200-point "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents, and pick quality matrimonial "merchandise" at the outset!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Judge Rules On Leader

BURLINGTON, N. C. (AP)—Walter Green is the head of the American party in North Carolina.

Superior Court Judge Coy E. Brewer of Fayetteville settled the leadership question Wednesday, ruling that Wayne Rayburn of Black Mountain is a registered Democrat and not even a bona fide member of the American party.

Green and Rayburn both claimed to be the leader of the party, which was formed to support the presidential candidacy of George Wallace. Green had brought suit in Alamance Superior Court asking that Rayburn be enjoined from claiming the chairmanship.

Rayburn filed a similar suit against Green in Buncombe Superior Court.

Each claimed the other was not elected by an authentic party executive committee.

Asheville Plans Blue Law Vote

ASHEVILLE (AP)—The Asheville City Council Wednesday voted to have the city attorney draft legislation to repeal the city's blue laws.

The vote on the controversial laws came as a result of a several arrests when some stores opened for business in a challenge to the four-year-old Sunday closing law. The judge handling the case said the laws were too vague and ordered the case dismissed against the businessmen.

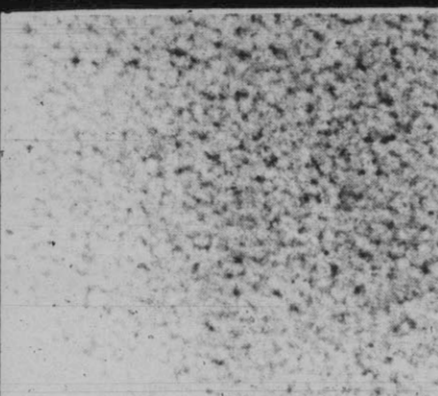

Attorneys for the city said at that time they would appeal.

Sweeps For Four

Kapp Puts Faith In Self, Not The Stars

By PAT THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
MINNEAPOLIS-St. PAUL (AP) — The stars foretell trouble for Joe Kapp and his Minnesota Vikings in Sunday's National Football League championship game against the Cleveland Browns at Metropolitan Stadium.

If you are a believer of astrology, the colorful Minnesota quarterback might just have a bad day.

A monthly astrology publication forecasts this for Kapp, a Pisces born March 19, this Sunday.

"Rejection. It may appear like a good proposition to consider making a certain investment. It more likely may turn out to be a losing one."

But Kapp is a believer of himself and the Vikings, not the stars.

He came to the Vikings three seasons ago from the Canadian Football League and won the starting quarterback job midway through his first season.

The Minnesota crowds booed him freely during bad days in 1967 and 1968. But they fell in love with him in 1969 when he passed for 1,726 yards and 19 touchdowns as the Vikings ran up the best record in the NFL, 12-2. He threw for seven touchdown passes in one game to tie a record.

Kapp's most stirring performance, however, came last Saturday.

With the Los Angeles Rams leading 17-7 at the half, Kapp scrambled and passed to set up one touchdown and ran two yards in the fourth period for the winning touchdown as the Vikings won the Western Conference title 23-20.

The 6-foot-3, 215 pounder from California recklessly racked up 42 yards rushing, all in the second half to lead Minnesota ball-carriers.

But if you believe in astrology, here's the predictions for Cleveland quarterback Bill Nelsen, an Aquarian:

"Agreeableness. The whole day should be fairly hopeful and a pleasant one. Serenity can be disturbed later in the evening by sudden events."

If Minnesota Coach Bud Grant is taking all this to heart, he can start Gary Cuozzo, who was superb in relief of Kapp this season.

But what do the stars foresee for Cuozzo, a Taurus.

"Reaction. Although the things that are going on in the world are enough to upset angels, one must learn to live with them. There's no alternative."

So, it's sudden death this Sunday with no alternative but to win or lose to determine who goes to the Super Bowl.

Arms Problem, Not Moustache

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Jim Tyrer, the veteran Kansas City tackle who will go head-to-head with Oakland's Ben Davidson Sunday, is considerably more concerned about tangling with the actuality of his long arms than the psychology of his long moustache.

"I don't pay any attention to the fact he has a moustache," Tyrer said today while the Chiefs continued their workouts for Sunday's American Football League championship game at Oakland. "I'm only concerned about his long arms and the leverage that gives him."

The struggle between the two undoubtedly will be one of the more physical battles that will be seen Sunday on the floor of the Oakland Coliseum, matching as it does Tyrer's 6-foot-6 height and 275 pounds against the 6-foot-8, 280-pound statistics of the Raider defensive end.

The two have met head-to-head for years but Tyrer never has taken the opportunity to tweek the guy they call "Big Bad Ben" about the handlebar moustache that creates a picture of unusual physical strength.

"I don't have conversations with the guy I play against," Tyrer said. "I try to avoid any talking—our offense is complex enough to think about without that. He (Davidson) does some talking but that's like almost all defensive people—it's mostly smoke."

"The greatest asset Davidson has is his pass rush because of his size," Tyrer explained. "He's taller than most defensive ends and he uses his long arms to keep the offensive man away from his body."

"He also has another advantage that you really can't pinpoint to one man and that's the Oakland defense as a unit complements each other so well like Green Bay used to do. Each has areas they excel in and they work together well—which is true of any great team."

"It's no problem getting up for big games and good ball players," he pointed out.

Duke Upset Over Injury

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
With all Atlantic Coast Conference basketball teams taking a break for the New Year's holiday, coaches around the conference are probably undergoing self-analysis.

For some, such as N.C. State's Norm Sloan, the task shouldn't be too difficult, because his Wolfpack is undefeated in nine games. And for South Carolina's Frank McGuire and North Carolina's Dean Smith, with teams ranked third and fourth in the nation with one loss apiece, a survey of December games should be fairly pleasant.

But Duke's new coach, Bucky Waters, must plan on how to get along without playmaker guard Dick DeVenzio. The 5-foot-10 senior has a cracked foot bone and will be out of action for at least 10 days.

DeVenzio was hurt while practicing with his old high school team in Ambridge, Pa.,

Bucs Play Ga. Southern

East Carolina University plays host to Georgia Southern here tonight at 8 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

The Pirates, 4-5 on the year, hope to get 1970 off to a good start with a victory over the Georgia Southern five.

Georgia Southern, coming into the game after winning the Roanoke Invitational, post a 3-3 mark, and will be seeking its third win of the week against the Bucs.

East Carolina travels to Washington, D.C., on Friday to meet George Washington's Southern Conference leading Colonial.

over the Christmas holidays. During the period he will be out the Blue Devils play Big Four rivals Wake Forest Wednesday and North Carolina Jan. 10.

For the UNC Tar Heels, January action comes hot and heavy. In addition to the Duke game, they take on South Carolina in Columbia Monday night in a game which may indicate the regular-season champ in the conference.

McGuire's Gamecocks have been early favorites for the title but sophomore-studded UNC has started off strong. League play resumes Friday night with a doubleheader at Greensboro, N.C., matching N.C. State and Maryland and Wake Forest and Virginia. Saturday the out-of-state teams switch foes for the second night's games.

Also Saturday, the Tar Heels go against Rice in Charlotte, N.C., and Penn State visits Duke.

Sparkling Defense Leads Houston To 36-7 Upset Victory Over Auburn Team

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's Cougars have concentrated on offensive power for four seasons but it was a sparkling defensive performance that gave them a surprisingly easy victory over Auburn in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl.

Jim Strong, a power speedster from San Antonio, led the way for a quick 16-0 lead as the Cougars defeated the Tigers, 36-7, Wednesday night before a overflow Astrodome crowd of 55,203.

Auburn was a slight favorite because it was No. 3 in the nation on defense. But it was the Cougar defense that smashed an Auburn attack that held a season average of 224 yards per game on the ground. The Tigers moved into the final period with a rushing total of minus three yards and ended the game with only one net yard.

"Everyone talked about two real good offenses but they forgot about the Houston defense," said Ralph (Shug) Jordan, the Auburn coach. "Houston was the best team we faced all year." Bill Yeoman, the Houston coach, seemed a bit dazed when talking about his defensive unit. "Our defense was completely outstanding, just outstanding," Yeoman said.

His surprise was understandable in that his Cougars had ranked No. 2 in total offense this season after having held the No. 1 ranking three straight years while on NCAA probation for recruiting violations.

While Gary (Moon) Mullins, a 5-foot-10 quarterback was coolly executing five consecutive third down and crucial yardage plays, Strong was rolling up 124 yards in 11 carries as Houston jumped to the 16-0 lead Auburn never seriously challenged.

Strong finished with a Bluebonnet record of 184 yards for 32 carries to earn the game's most valuable back award. Jerry Dfones, a Cougar end, won the award on defense.

It was Houston's first venture into a major post-season classic after victories in the Salad and Tangarine Bowls. The defeat dropped Auburn to a 4-4-1 Bowl game record.

Alcindor Tops Hayes—Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Elvin Hayes beat Lew Alcindor in college once... and he's regretted it since.

Hayes, who once led Houston over Alcindor's top-ranked UCLA club when they played in college, hasn't been able to whip an Alcindor-led team in the pros.

And Wednesday night, it happened again as Milwaukee, led by Alcindor's 35 points pounded San Diego 143-126 in the National Basketball Association.

The victory gave the Bucks their 10th victory in their last 11 games and kept them in second place in the NBA's Eastern Division scramble behind New York.

In other NBA games Wednesday night, Boston topped Detroit 124-121; Philadelphia turned back Chicago 129-109 and Atlanta tripped Baltimore 122-111.

In the American Basketball Association, Indiana topped Kentucky 112-100 and Carolina bounced Miami 117-101.

The 143 points was a Milwaukee record, while the 79 points in the first half tied the team's high, set in the second game this season against Seattle.

Hayes led San Diego with 26 points.

Philadelphia outscored Chicago 34-21 in the third period to break open a tight game and cruise to victory over the Bulls. Leading by only 62-60 at the half, Archie Clark and Hal Greer led the 76ers on a scoring tear that helped build a 96-81 edge. Clark finished with 24 points and Greer had 23.

Lou Hudson scored 29 points and four teammates hit in double figures as Atlanta clawed Baltimore. The lead changed hands 21 times before the Hawks took an 82-81 edge and went in front to stay with 1:41 left in the third period.

John Havlicek, Tom Sanders and Don Nelson sparked a fourth period rally as Boston erased an eight-point deficit and stormed to victory over the Pistons.

The Celtics trailed 96-88 entering the final session, but Havlicek hit for 13 of his game-high 30 points while Sanders contributed 12 and Nelson, 7.

Bob Netolicky scored 37 points to lead Indiana's ABA Eastern Division leaders over Kentucky.

Netolicky, who hit 15 of 36 from the field, had 10 points in the third quarter when Indiana broke open a tight game. The Pacers, in front 46-43 at half-time, extended it to 10 points in the third quarter and swept to leads of up to 17 points in the last stanza.

Carolina sprung to an early lead, then fought off a late surge by Miami.

Larry Miller collected 31 points for game scoring honors and Randy Mahaffey had 30 for the Cougars.

Change Hinted In Rose Bowl

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Officials remain publicly non-committed but there is some sentiment in the Big Ten and Pacific-8 Conferences favoring a change in the Rose Bowl visiting format.

The Big Ten has a no-repeat, policy, that is, no team can go the New Year's Day classic two years in a row.

The Pac-8 has an unlimited program—a team can go as often as it can make it there. Thus the University of Southern California moved into the big bowl today for the fourth straight year, something no other team has done.

Off the record, some Pac-8 people think this is too many times. They don't favor a no-repeat procedure but possibly a rule that no team could go to the bowl more than twice in succession.

USC Coach John McKay likes it the way it is. Veterans of his Rose Bowl squads, he maintains, aren't bored or blasé about successive games in Pasadena, and to the sophomores, of which he has a number, this is a brand new, exciting experience.

Years ago, in contrast, Pappy Waldorf, then head coach at California, said after his third straight trip to the Rose Bowl that three was too many.

Can Penn State Defense Stop Tigers?

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Can Penn State's vaunted defense, which allowed only 87 points in 10 games and keyed a second straight unbeaten season, stop Missouri's high scoring Tigers, who averaged 36 points per game against one of the toughest schedules in the nation? The answer should give you the winner of tonight's Orange Bowl meeting between State, the nation's No. 2 ranked college football team, and Missouri, rated No. 6 on its 9-1 record. It's corny, but the 36th

Orange Bowl seeds the irresistible force against the immovable object. Penn State has won 21 straight games and hasn't been defeated in its last 29. The Nittany Lions tied Florida State in the Jan. 1, 1967 Gator Bowl game. Missouri lost only to Colorado and trampled Michigan's Rose Bowl Wolverines, who beat Ohio State in the 1969 season's biggest upset. Coach Joe Paterno of Penn State rates Missouri as the best balanced and most potent offensive team the Lions have faced in his 20 years at State, 16 as an assistant. He says, however, that his Nittany Lions are "as well prepared as we've been for any game this season."

"If we lose we'll have no excuses," says Paterno. "It will be because Missouri has a better football team. We're healthy and we're going to play as well as we can," added the coach about his third straight bowl team. State beat Kansas in the Orange Bowl last Jan. 1, 15-14 with a touchdown and two point conversion in the final seconds. Missouri Coach Dan Devine also says his team is ready, although he's concerned about the big edge in weight his team must concede, and the fact that the Tigers haven't done any scrimmaging since coming to Florida to prepare for the game.

Penn State practiced a week at Fort Lauderdale, went home for Christmas, then came back for its final five days of workouts. Penn State's defense has been the story of its success. Led by All-Americans Mike Reid at tackle and linebacker Dennis Okotz, it has set up or scored 107 of State's 312 points. Reid's running mate, Steve Smeat, linebackers Jim Kates and Jack Ham and their team All-American Neal Smith, a safety, have keyed a defense that came up with 36 turnovers on 24 pass interceptions, nine fumble recoveries and three blocked kicks. The Lions' defenders ran back three punts and two pass interceptions for touchdowns. The first team defense allowed only 56 of those 87 points, gave up two TDs by passing and five on the ground. Smith intercepted 10 passes. While Paterno is proud of his defense, he feels the offense has been vastly underrated. Halfbacks Charlie Pittman with 706 yards, fullback Franco Harris with 643 and halfback Lydell Mitchell with 616, give the Lions three of the best running backs in the nation. Quarterback Chuck Burkhardt's passing statistics are not impressive, but he has directed the Lions to 21 straight victories, and has the knack of hitting the key pass. Missouri under Devine consistently has been a fine running team, but this year turned to the passing game with quarterback Terry McMillan completing 105 for 1,963 yards and 18 touchdowns. He has fine receivers in Mel Gray, a junior who caught 26 for 705 yards and four TDs, and Jon Staggers who grabbed 14 for 292 yards and three scores. Joe Moore, the nation's No. 3 rusher with 1,312 yards—a five-yard average—keys the Tigers' running game. Missouri's defense allowed 181 points, and was open to a passing game. It fared better against the rush. Both teams have accomplished placekickers should the game hinge on a field goal or conversion. Henry Brown has kicked 12 field goals this season—four against Air Force and a 48 yarder against Nebraska. Penn State's Mike Reitz scored 54 points on 33 of 37 extra points and seven of 14 field goal attempts. Added importance is given the game since the winner could windup the nation's No. 1 team should currently top ranked Texas stumble against Notre Dame in today's Cotton Bowl game. State claims No. 1 now, and Paterno says his team will prove it by beating Missouri, a team he rates better than Texas, based on strength of schedules.

Arkansas Favored, In Spite Of Manning

By HARRY KING
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Arkansas' third-ranked Razorbacks were a three-point favorite to defeat Mississippi today in the Sugar Bowl despite the Rebels' Archie Manning.

Manning, a 204-pound quarterback, has become a legend in Mississippi where he is even revered in song. Some contend Manning, a junior, is the best college quarterback in the game. He engineered the Rebels' upsets of Tennessee and LSU, the only losses suffered by those two teams, and was the Southeastern Conference player of the year.

It was the second consecutive Sugar Bowl appearance for the Razorbacks, but the situation was unlike 1968 when Arkansas upset Georgia 16-2. The Razorbacks completed the 1969 season with a 9-1 record, same as in 1968, but rarely were they extended four quarters this season. "This year our problem is trying to hold what we've got," Coach Frank Broyles said. "Last year we were trying to improve our position. The toughest thing in the world is to hold what you've got."

Broyles is lavish in his praise of the Rebels, who compiled a 7-3 record. "We think their offensive line is equal to Texas' or anybody else," Broyles said. "Overall, they're the most balanced team we've faced—in all phases, offense, defense and kicking. They've got more offense than Georgia had, one heckuva a lot more." Broyles said. "Besides the triple option, there's Manning's ability to throw out of the pocket, Manning's ability to roll out and Manning's ability to scramble. Put all that in one hat and you've got something."

Broyles was asked how the Razorbacks would defend against Manning. "It's a guessing game," he said. "We'll rush some and play pass defense some. You've got to mix it up, just like a pitcher has to throw a fast ball, curve and changeup."

Broyles does have the nation's top defense against scoring to throw at Manning and his cohorts. Led by middle linebacker Cliff Powell, Arkansas gave up less than eight points a game during the regular season. "The Razorbacks are by far the finest team we've faced this year," said coach John Vaught, who is taking his Rebels to their 13th straight bowl. "Arkansas has a fine offense, but I think their biggest asset is their defense, which has been overlooked to a great extent."

Kickoff for the nationally televised contest was 1:45 p.m. EST.

Upshaw has nothing but respect for Buchanan, who at 6-foot-7 and 275 pounds is the top man at his position in the league, Upshaw says.

Upshaw Sees Defensive Game

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP)—The American Football League championship game here Sunday will be a battle between the Oakland Raiders' explosive passing attack and the Kansas City Chiefs' powerful running game, most everyone agrees.

Most everyone, that is, except Gene Upshaw, all-star offensive guard of the Raiders. "It's going to be a defensive game," said Upshaw in anticipation of another round in his continuing battle with Kansas City's mammoth defensive tackle, Buck Buchanan. "I don't think there's going to be a big score."

Elon Takes Tourney Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Carolina's Conference basketball action is at a standstill as teams take at least two days off for the New Year's holiday. Only two teams in the conference played last night, with Elon winning the University of North Carolina at Wilmington Holiday Classic over Pfeiffer.

The other teams begin returning to the scene Friday night as Presbyterian takes on Emory and Henry and Newberry contesting Allen in a doubleheader at Newberry.

High Point, Western Carolina, Belmont Abbey and Illinois State will participate in the High Point Classic also on Friday night.

Elon's Fighting Christians took an early lead and then held on to defeat Pfeiffer for the tournament championship, 67-56. The win gave Elon a 6-2 season record.

The party's over.

Now it's time to get down to business. The business of making 1970 a better year than its predecessor. Better for you. Better for your family.

One way you can make it a better year is by making better use of your money.

And the way to do that is to open a savings account.

Then you can save for things you need rather than charging them.

And earn interest rather than pay interest.

So if you haven't made a new year's resolution to save money, make one now.

It could make your whole year.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, Republican chairman in the House, claims Democratic National Chairman Fred R. Harris "got the right shoe on the wrong foot" in blaming the Nixon administration for crime and inflation.

Anderson responded Wednesday to criticism by Harris, a senator from Oklahoma, of the GOP performance.

The House GOP chief said the economy began overheating in 1966 under a Democratic administration, there was a $25 billion deficit in the final year of President Johnson's term, and Democrats in Congress have contributed to inflationary conditions by adding $3 billion to programs that President Nixon has been trying to hold down for 1970.

Anderson also said the Democratic chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, Rep. Emanuel Celler of New York, has arbitrarily blocked the administration's crime bill.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nicholas Johnson and Kenneth A. Cox of the Federal Communications Commission have tacked a 68-page dissent statement on a two-paragraph routine FCC announcement of some broadcast license renewals.

The statement Wednesday repeated their attempt to provide some minimum basic standards by which the commission could judge licensees in such cases.

The two commissioners said they were seeking "something more than the FCC's current rubber stamp renewal." There were no reply comments by the other five commissioners.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Herbert L. Ley Jr. says the drug industry applied tremendous pressure on him during his three years as commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration.

"Some days I spent as many as six hours fending off representatives of the drug industry," Ley said Wednesday.

He recently resigned rather than accept another government job.

During his term, about 300 drugs were taken off the market on grounds they were ineffective.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department reports, the United States has apologized to Cambodia for what a department spokesman calls a "serious incident" Nov. 16-17.

The incident involved U.S. forces in South Vietnam returning artillery fire from Cambodian territory. A spokesman for the State Department told newsmen Wednesday that Viet Cong and North Vietnamese artillery fired on an American post in Bu Prang in South Vietnam from post positions in Cambodia.

The spokesman added that after the enemy fire was "suppressed," Cambodia claimed 25 of its soldiers killed, eight wounded and two missing as a result of the retaliatory action.

Points Finger At Navy In $$ Losses

By JIM ADAMS Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire says $10.7 billion in Navy cost overruns—not counting a disputed $3.6 billion added to the Poseidon submarine missile program—make up

Ex-Navy Man To Head Police Information Net

RALEIGH (AP) — Howard Livingstone of Lumberton, a former Navy commander, will serve as director of North Carolina's planned Police Information Network.

The appointment was jointly announced Wednesday by State Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan and Director of Administration William Turner.

Livingstone, whose salary will be between $13,844 and $18,876, has already assumed his duties. He has extensive experience in the use of computers in naval shipping and has also attended a computer seminar sponsored by IBM for persons involved in the criminal information field.

PIN will be a computerized hook-up of all state and local law enforcement agencies and Livingstone will oversee its development.

half the overruns in all major U.S. weapons systems. The Wisconsin Democrat said Wednesday the House-Senate subcommittee on economy which he chairs will investigate the Poseidon overrun early next year.

'Balmy' Weather For Anchorage

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Balmy breezes blew as the old year ticked away in Anchorage—well, balmy—for Alaska.

The Weather Bureau said Wednesday that December 1969 set a record for warmth in the Anchorage area. The mean temperature of 28 degrees was nearly 15 degrees higher than normal.

The old record of just under 27 degrees was set in December 1930.

be getting out of hand." The project manager for Navy fleet ballistic missiles, Rear Adm. Levering Smith, said the Poseidon overrun is $1.27 billion, not $3.6 billion, and said he welcomes the investigation.

"It will help clarify the situation," Smith said.

Poseidon is a program for converting 31 of the Navy's 41 Polaris missile-firing submarines to fire multiple-warhead nuclear missiles.

Proxmire said the $3.6 billion is the difference between a $3.3 billion cost estimate former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara gave Congress in 1967 and a $6.99 billion estimate Asst. Secretary of Defense Barry J. Shillito gave the subcommittee this year.

He asked six Navy officials testifying Wednesday whether the $3.3 billion figure in particular "was deliberately withheld to cover up the size of the overrun." The Navy brass said they didn't recognize either figure and were at a loss to explain them.

But Smith said later after reviewing McNamara's and Shillito's figures that they could not be compared and that the Navy's Poseidon overrun estimate of $1.27 billion—$5.65 billion now over $4.38 billion when the program was contracted in 1965—is correct. He said McNamara's $3.3 billion figure did not include the cost of the submarines being converted and Shillito's $6.99 billion includes such operating costs as spare parts and missile testing.

Proxmire said the $10.7 billion in Navy cost overruns are in 26 projects, accounting for just over half the $20 billion overruns for 50 weapons systems for all three services. Asked at the close of three days of hearings who the villain is, Proxmire said there is none. He said both defense contractors and the military are trying to do a good job.

But he said Congress needs more information so it can control costs. And he said if there is any villain, it is the system under which hundreds of military officers take jobs with defense contractors.

Centennial For Santa

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (AP)—The North Pole will get a bright orange paint job and a candy-striped Santa Claus pole during the centennial celebration of the Northwest Territories next year.

The centennial directorate says a veteran bush pilot and a companion will fly to the Pole and redecorate Canada's northernmost square mile of polar ice.

They will paint a section of the ice with "international orange," a paint said to be visible under 24 inches of snow, and will set up a 100-foot aluminum pole painted red and white and flying the official N.W.T. flag.

They will also stake the world's first mineral claim at the North Pole, and pictures of their handiwork will be displayed at Expo 70 in Osaka, Japan.

The redecoration job will be only a small part of the centennial celebration, however. Jim Whelly, general manager of the N.W.T. centennial center, says there will be 200 official projects in communities ranging in size from Fort Resolution, a settlement of 12 persons on the south shore of the Great Slave Lake, to Yellowknife, which has 6,000 residents.

Fort Resolution plans to exchange residents with a community in southern Canada and will participate in two canoe races. One of them, the government-organized 1,200-mile race down the Mackenzie River to the Arctic Ocean, is billed as the longest marathon canoe race in the world.

The centennial center is spending about $615,000 on events such as the first Arctic Winter Games, scheduled March 10-14 at Yellowknife.

Yellowknife, which ordinarily doesn't have to worry about a surfeit of tourism, says it expects such an influx of visitors during the centennial that it is playing down its tourist attractions for the time being.

Preparing For Cold

NEW YORK (UPI)—Careful drivers lessen their chances of ending up in an accident or snowdrift by preparing both themselves and cars for cold, slippery weather.

While hubby is getting the snow tires put on and having the car's cooling, electrical, fuel and exhaust systems checked and winterized, prepare a safety kit that will make winter driving easier and less dangerous.

It ought to contain:
—A new spray product which the manufacturer says triples tire traction when applied to a wet or dry tire. (Prestone Spray 'N' Go). Never decrease tire pressures for winter driving. This increases tire wear and also can make handling the car unnecessarily difficult. Check the car's instruction manual.

—An ice and snow scraper and brush to clear the windshield and windows. Some windshield spray de-icers come equipped with scraper top. Remember that all windows on the car ought to be free of ice and snow.

—A solution of windshield washer anti-freeze to add to the washer's reservoir so that the water will not freeze.

—Flashlight. Check to see that the bulb and batteries are fresh. The magnet flash with a red safety reflector is an excellent choice. It makes a useful warning device that will "stick" to any metallic surface on the car when needed for repair purposes.

She Accepted 35 Years Later

EXETER, England (UPI)—Bill Smith asked Margaret Fasham to marry him. But she said she wanted to be a missionary instead.

That was 35 years ago. Last summer, Smith, then a widower, 73, met Margaret again, this time on the Isle of Wight.

He proposed for a second time—and she accepted. They were married a few days ago.

POPULAR DISPLAY

LONDON (UPI)—Visitors poured into the Geological Museum at a rate of 700 to 800 an hour Saturday to see a special display of moon rock brought back by the Apollo 11 space team, a museum spokesman said.

Opening lead: Four of ♠
 South had his eyes on the wrong suit in playing his four spade contract, and the result was a setback that could have been avoided by more careful planning.

West opened the four of hearts, the nine was played from dummy and East put up the jack which dislodged declarer's king. South crossed over to the king of diamonds to put the queen of spades thru for a finesse—losing to West's king. The latter exited with a heart to North's ace.

A spade was led to the jack to draw the outstanding trumps. The jack of diamonds was played, however when West followed with the six, South went up with dummy's ace—declining the finesse. There was a chance to drop a doubleton queen outside and it was his desire to keep East out of the lead so that the king of clubs would be safe from attack. If the queen of diamonds was in the West hand, the latter was welcome to score a trick with that card for he could not lead a club without establishing the king.

It was South's intention, of course, to discard his clubs on North's long diamonds once that suit was established. When the ace of diamonds drew only small cards, a diamond was continued and East was in with the queen. A club shift netted two tricks in that suit to the defenders and they scored a one trick set on the deal.

South was so concerned about protecting his club holding from attack, that he overlooked the fact that a vital trick could be established in that very suit. If he wins the first heart in dummy to take the trump finesse and West comes back with a heart, all South has to do to cinch his contract is to lead the king of clubs, followed by the jack to dislodge the ace and queen. Once this is done, North's ten becomes established for a discard of a diamond and the losses on the deal are two clubs and one spade.

Shacktowns Reflect The Latin Population Gains

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Driving from the airport into most Latin American cities the first-time visitor almost always is startled by the ugly, humanity-packed shanty towns lining the way.

Called "Villas Miserias" in Argentina, "Favelas" in Brazil and "Barriadas" in Peru, the shack towns reflect the unrelenting growth of the Latin American population.

Governments simply have not kept pace during the 1960s—and before—with Latin America's skyrocketing population.

According to the Organization of American States (OAS), the area's population rose from 200 million in 1960 to an estimated 298 million in 1970, an increase of 29 per cent.

The zooming growth rate has created one of the toughest problems in relations between the United States and Latin American nations.

World Bank President Robert S. McNamara, echoing a common U.S. attitude, called in 1968 for controlling "the tidal wave of children" in Latin America. "Nowhere," he said, "is population growing more rapidly than in Latin America."

The population of Latin America has been rising at a rate of about 3 per cent yearly, the highest for any area of the world. Only Uruguay (1.3), Bolivia (1.4), Argentina (1.6) and Chile (2.5) had relatively low growth rates during the decade.

Brazil's population spiraled from nearly 71 million in 1960 to an estimated more than 93 million at decade's end. Authorities estimate the "colossus of the south" will have 230 million people by the year 2,000.

A report from the Washington-based population reference bureau said Brazil will have more people than the United States by the year 2010.

In Mexico, the government has remained officially neutral in the squabble over population control although permitting family planning clinics at a few public hospitals. Mexico's population rose during the 1960s from almost 35 million to just under 50 million.

The Roman Catholic Church, which exerts a powerful influence in Latin America, has been a major stumbling block to birth control programs.

In Colombia, authorities made tentative attempts to encourage family planning but ran into immediate opposition from the church. The hierarchy, through its weekly newspaper El Catolicismo, accused Washington of instigating the government's birth control plans.

Arizona was admitted to the Union on Feb. 14, 1912, becoming the 48th state.

Warden Has Iron Horse

CANON CITY, Colo. (AP) — Warden Wayne K. Patterson of the Colorado Penitentiary owns a horse called Outlaw that costs him nothing in feed bills.

In fact, it's an iron horse—a skeletal structure of a rearing horse five feet high that Patterson fashioned in spare hours from various kinds of junk.

The eyes are black door knobs and the face is an iron wheel hub, with rings from a set of discarded harness as the nostrils. Branding irons were turned into legs, with actual horse shoes welded to the ends.

Other articles of junk used to make Outlaw, include tie plates from the old Colorado Midland Railroad, railroad spikes, a small plow, a miner's gold pan and tin cup, barrel stave rings, washers from an ore tippie and a blacksmith's tongs.

Asked to explain the meaning behind his iron steed, Patterson said, "It is the junk out of the past leaping into the present and he's a little shocked at what he sees and is balking."

One type of octopus, the Pacific devilfish, grows as large as 28 feet across.

Czech Exile Says America Is All That He Expected To Be

SUN VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Jiri Vokrouhlik says America is no different than he expected when he sneaked off a Czechoslovakian freighter one Sunday last October: "Beautiful!" "I have found life here as I imagined," he said today. "It is a beautiful country, mostly because of freedom."

new decade? "I want to get American citizenship and work equal to my qualifications," he said in an interview. He is staying with a Czech family in this San Fernando Valley community, but he hopes to move soon into his own apartment. Using the name George—the English equivalent of Jiri—the former merchant seaman speaks English with much more command than the frightened, intense young man who had sought political asylum Oct. 18 by saying, "I learn how not to be free is." He had joined young colleagues in Prague in August, 1968 to throw stones at Russian tanks. "I come to America so my hands can work with machines and not to fight the tanks," he said. His mechanical training served as his ticket to this country. He earned a job as a motor machinist on the Czech merchant vessel Vitkovice last summer. En route from Japan to Peru, the ship's captain decided to refuel in California.

Beach jail awaiting the results of a board inquiry on his plea. Nationwide publicity over his escape brought Jiri letters from families as far away as New York and Ohio, inviting him to visit. Some sent money. "First I must get a car. This is a big country." He spent his first Christmas in the United States with the family of Carl Kegley of San Clemente, the city attorney. Jiri intently studied with pretty brunette Dawn Kegley, an English dictionary given him as a present from the family.

Five Arrested For Break-Ins

Five area men have been arrested and charged with two counts each of breaking and entering and larceny following investigation of four incidents on Dec. 28 and 29 within the county. Arrested and charged in connection with a break-in and larceny at the B.T. McLawhorn store on Rt. 2, Ayden on the 29th were Bobby Bright, 19, Ayden; A.D. Chapman, 19, Ayden; Everett Earl Brown, 17, Rt. 1, Ayden; William Earl Artis, 17, Ayden; and Edward Earl Forbes, 17, Greenville. All are negroes.

Hugo in Lenoir County early Tuesday. The same five men are also charged with a break-in and larceny at the Floyd D. Smith store on Rt. 1, Winterville on Dec. 29. Merchandise and cash totalling $128 were reported stolen at the time and Tyson said nearly all of the merchandise and approximately $18 in change was recovered. Bright, Chapman and Artis are charged with two other break-ins in addition to the Smith and McLawhorn incidents.

reported stolen. Some of the articles were recovered in the arrests, Tyson said, including a .38 pistol that had not been previously reported missing. Charges have also been preferred on the five in Lenoir County for possession of burglary tools. In addition, a 1957 model automobile is also being held in Lenoir following its confiscation at Hugo.

Does he want to go home to see again his parents and younger brother in Prague? "Maybe in 10 years, when I am already an American citizen, I think there might be a little freedom in Czechoslovakia . . . but I shall be scared."

Recovered at the time of arrests were four pairs of gloves, a radio, part of the $15 in change stolen, eight cartons of mixed cigarettes, and two screw drivers. PTI Non-Curriculum Evening Classes Will Be Proffered

During Our Life-Time Language Is Changing

NEW YORK (AP) — Pick up any new book or go to a movie and you'll know it instantly. We don't speak the same language our parents did.

"Our language is changing fast," says Dr. H. Bosley Woolf, an authority on words. "I won't even predict what's in store for the '70s."

Woolf, managing editor of the Merriam-Webster dictionaries, says words once considered too informal or colloquial for print are commonplace today.

"There was a time when there were really two languages—one for formal writing and another one for speaking," says Woolf. "But this is fast becoming a thing of the past."

In the late 1940s, people thought the word "jaywalk" was too informal. Woolf notes, "Now I can't think of any circumstances in which jaywalk would be inappropriate."

Is "movies" a good word? Twenty years ago an editor might have substituted "motion picture." Dictionaries as late as the 1950s labeled it slang. Even the term "moving picture" was considered colloquial for "motion picture," says Woolf.

And there are many other words that once were thought to be colloquial but which carry no label in today's dictionary because they now are part of the standard English vocabulary.

For example, Woolf notes, the word "goof" has no label. There is no label for "shindig" or for the term "to level" meaning to be frank.

And some new dictionaries contain many new words which clearly smack of today's generation: words such as hippie, acidhead, put-on, nitty-gritty, and trip.

Woolf points out that the context in which a word is used can be the most important factor, so a good rule of thumb might be: If the word communicates without calling attention to itself, if people use the word, then it works. And the fact that it does its job makes it a good word.

"What we're really saying," Woolf explains, "is that informal English is standard English, so why not put it into the dictionary?"

"I think language is a reflection of ideas," says Woolf. "Social mores are easing and informality is increasing all the way down the line. Language is no exception."

What's in store for tomorrow? "It's going to keep changing," Woolf says.
