FIGHT FIRE . . . Firemen hampered by sub-freezing temperatures, battle fire in house in which a woman died near Belvoir today.

Woman Dies In Flames

BELVOIR — A 75-year-old woman was burned to death here this morning when fire swept her home near here.
Officials said Mrs. Luzetta B. Lewis, died in the blaze, which was discovered about 7:30 a.m. At mid-morning firemen were still battling the fire and investigators had not been able to enter the charred ruins to search for the cause of the fire.

Mrs. Lewis' son, H.L. Lewis Jr., is clerk of Pitt County Superior Court.

County fire marshal Michael Worthington said firefighters were hampered by sub-freezing temperatures which caused water in a number of hoses lines being used by firemen to freeze, thus hampering efforts to extinguish the fire.

Trucks from several departments, including Station House, Falkland, Belvoir, Bethel and one Edgecombe County rural department responded to the call.

Worthington said Belvoir firemen, riding the first unit to arrive at the Lewis home five miles North of Belvoir, reported the rear of the home completely engulfed in flames and the roof

Cigarette Tax Revenues Top Soft Drink Tax

RALEIGH (AP) — Although it was expected to be the other way around, North Carolina's new tax on cigarettes is producing more revenue than the soft drink levy.
State Revenue Commissioner I. L. Clayton reported Thursday the cigarette tax brought in $4.2 million through December and the soft drink levy $3.6 million.
The General Assembly was told when it enacted the taxes that the tax on cigarettes would produce $10 million a year and the soft drink tax $15 million a year.
Clayton said so far cigarette tax revenue has run slightly ahead of estimates and the soft drink revenue has been "a little below estimates."

Second Day Of Fighting For American Unit

SAIGON (AP) — An American task force sweeping down Black Virgin Mountain clashed for the second day today with North Vietnamese troops entrenched in caves.
Reports from the field said 47 enemy soldiers were killed, mostly by American bombers and artillery that blasted the caves and boulders along the slope of the 3,230-foot mountain. The only American casualties reported today were three wounded.

The North Vietnamese toll for the two days of fighting 55 miles northwest of Saigon was put at 110 dead, while U.S. casualties totaled two killed, nine wounded and a helicopter shot down, the U.S. Command said.

The 25th Division's Task Force Jones—more than 1,000 infantrymen backed by tanks and armored personnel carriers—began its sweep down the mountain three days ago but encountered little resistance the first day.

Shortly after dawn Thursday, as reconnaissance elements began inching down the slope, they came under fire from small arms, machine guns and rocket grenades.

Jet bombers and rocket-firing helicopters raked the North Vietnamese positions. Covering their retreat with tear gas, the North Vietnamese troops pulled back into the scores of caves that honeycomb the mountain.

The women said 113 rapes were reported in the campus area during 1969.

'Total Desegregation' Requirements Outlined At Meeting

By CARL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
Another step toward desegregation of the Pitt County school system was taken last night when approximately 225 of the leaders in the county gathered in the county school bus garage to hear eight speakers talk on the subject of total desegregation which Pitt County will face soon. This total desegregation will come with the completion of two new consolidated high schools by September of 1970, and two others by January of 1971, according to Pitt County School Superintendent, Arthur S. Alford.

2 Moon Flights Delayed

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Postponement of America's next two moon flights is both a victory for scientists and a budgetary move by the space agency, officials said Thursday.
Apollo 13, the third moon landing, was rescheduled Thursday from March 12 to April 11. Apollo 14, previously set for July 11, was scheduled for some time in the fall, probably in September or October.

A space agency spokesman said the move was made partly because of heated complaints from lunar scientists and partly to save fiscal-year funds.
He said the factors "bore equal weight in the decision."

The rescheduling was viewed as a first move in a stretch-out of the seven-planned moon landings.
A space agency official said earlier in the week that a plan under consideration called for two moon landings this year—two in 1971, none in 1972, two in 1973, and a final one in 1974.

The spokesman said the launchings would be about six months apart under the new schedule. Apollo flights had been planned for four-month intervals.

In the last few months, scientists had complained publicly that moon landings at four-month intervals made it impossible to study properly rocks brought from the moon.

Several space agency scientists have resigned in recent months after citing the flight schedule as one reason for unhappiness.

A space agency official said no money would be saved in the life of the Apollo program by the stretch-out. But he said the schedule would save money during each of the budget years, and thus free funds in other areas. These areas could include advance studies on interplanetary flight.

In Washington, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration named Dale D. Myers of Downey, Calif., Thursday to head its Apollo and other man-in-space programs.

relations, and Dr. Best, who added, "all that the Negro community wants and needs is simple justice."
Best also called on industry and other community groups to aid in the understanding that is needed in a time of tension.

He challenged the Board of Education by saying it headed, a Black Assistant Superintendent, if a well rounded desegregation policy was to be established.

North Carolina Remains In Grip Of Record Cold

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Record breaking cold weather continues to hold North Carolina in its frigid grip.
A large dome of arctic air which covers most of the country east of the Rocky Mountains sent temperatures plunging to record lows Thursday night.

A low of 1 degree at the Raleigh-Durham Airport this morning is the coldest temperature recorded at the airport since the weather station was established there in 1944.

The Weather Bureau in Charlotte said the low of 4 recorded in the city is the coldest temperature ever recorded in the city on a Jan. 9th, breaking the old record of 8.9 established back in 1886. Other overnight lows that are records for the date include 2 at Greensboro, 11 at Wilmington and 16 at Cape Hatteras.

Overnight lows in other spots included 4 below zero at Asheville, 4 at Hickory and 3 at Winston-Salem.

Gusty northwesterly winds circulating around the eastern edge of the arctic air mass and flowing over North Carolina have added to the bitter cold.

Frigid temperatures are expected to continue through tonight, but the Weather Bureau says some moderation in the temperatures is expected Saturday. Generally fair skies are expected for most of the weekend, however, a storm system that was over the West Coast today and a weather disturbance expected to develop over the Gulf coast may result in some precipitation in the mountains by Sunday evening.

High temperatures Thursday afternoon were mostly in the teens over the western sections and in the 20s in the eastern portions.

Missing Youth's Body Is Found

ROANOKE RAPIDS, N. C. (AP) — The body of a 16-year-old who had been missing since Sunday was found Thursday at woods near his home.

Halifax County Sheriff Rubin Daniels identified the youth as Richard Long. Daniels said death was self-inflicted.

The sheriff said Long was a pupil at a private school in Spruce Pine. He said the youth had been scheduled to return to his school Monday, the day after his death following the Christmas holidays.

Fire Fighting Equipment Burns

PORT CLEMENTS, B.C. (AP) — When the alarm sounded early Thursday, the 27 members of this island community's volunteer fire department leaped from their beds and raced to the scene.

There they stood by helplessly as the blaze destroyed their fire hall, truck and all their fire fighting equipment. Damage was estimated at more than $40,000.

General Fund collections for the first six months of the fiscal year totaled $381.6 million for a gain of $61.8 million over the same period last fiscal year.

Highway fund collections for the fiscal year amounted to $117.4 million, a gain of $28.9 million. The gasoline levy collected $81.8 million, an increase of $28.2 million.

Winter's coldest blasts struck Pitt County early today with the lowest temperature recorded for this winter season.
The lowest temperature reported for the 24 hour period ending this morning at 8 o'clock was nine degrees while the high for that period was 25 degrees.

According to the Greenville Utilities Commission weather station, the temperature this morning, at 8 o'clock was 10 degrees.

The low temperature for the 24-hour period ending Thursday at 8 a.m. was 15 degrees, and the high for that same period was reported at 37 degrees.

The Tar River level was reported at 3.3 feet.

Low Of 9 Degrees

He brought out five points which the leaders of the county could strive for to help solve the desegregation problem:
Involvement, Changing of attitudes, rearrange priorities, Make some decisions, and finally, make some sacrifices.

Alford concluded the meeting by asking those attending to take back the ideas they had heard to their sections of the county, and to act as leaders to those seeking someone to follow concerning desegregation.

The purpose of the meeting according to Alford, in a letter to the eight speakers was:
—to dramatically point out the need to provide strong, positive leadership.

—To show that problems which come up in the schools may have originated in the home or in the community and that it is therefore necessary to attempt to eliminate as many sources of trouble as possible.

—To point out that an ounce of prevention is worth several tons of cure.

—That problems which arise at school may well be carried back into the community with a destruction of property or loss of life.

—To encourage local initiative in each community in a positive way to help bring about good human relations.

Airlines Competing In Field Of New Food Fare

LIVING HIGH — America's major airlines, believing a happy passenger is a well-fed one, are locked in competition offering unusual dining fare on their flights. (AP Wirephoto)

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — America's major airlines, obviously believing the way to a traveler's billfold is through his stomach, are locked in a struggle to outdo each other in offering new and unusual dining fare on their flights.

There are such things as champagne breakfasts, lobster-steak dinners, regional menus, exotic hors d'oeuvres, and flying chefs.

Champagne breakfasts and new "double entree" flights serving both lobster and steak dinners are part of National Airline's $10.5 million promotion launched last fall. It's the most ambitious advertising campaign in the airline's 35-year history.

American Airlines, one of the first to sound the new note, started its Americana regional food service on transcontinental flights last February. The airline invested $9 million in advanced ovens and galleys. Menus in first class feature five separate courses "including salads tossed by your seat, prime roast beef carved from a cart before your eyes," wines, champagne, and choice of drinks. Coach menus offer three selections of traditional regional American food.

United Air Lines introduced a "chef's gourmet" dining service on its transcontinental flights last summer. At least once a week a chef is aboard the gourmet flight to talk with the passengers about his food.

Eastern Air Lines on some flights provides free champagne in coach service as well as first class.

Trans World Airlines plans some surprises for its new Boeing 747 jumbo jet service this spring. Microwave ovens in the huge planes will prepare complete meals in five minutes.

Pan American World Airways boasts that it is offering economy-class passengers a choice of entrees, "the only airline doing so"—and more elaborate service worldwide. Pan Am says its first class service, more luxurious than ever, now includes "a whole new approach to hors d'oeuvres," with caviar by the bucket.

Some passengers, between courses and among drinks, have wondered whether the cost of gourmet service might not more than offset the two fare increases granted the airlines last year.

Asked about this, Civil Aeronautics Board Chairman Secor D. Browne, said: "Part of the appeal of air travel is to have a good time, and this means getting good meals, hot towels and the like. These are a legitimate sales promotional device, a legitimate effort to get people to fly on the airlines."

'What Might Have Been' Was Barred In Testimony

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — Judge James A. Boyle refused to allow testimony that Mary Jo Kopechne might have been saved if Sen. Edward M. Kennedy had summoned help promptly, it has been learned.

Skindiver John Farrar, who had expressed that opinion publicly, was permitted to testify only about his role in recovering Miss Kopechne's body from Kennedy's submerged car on Chappaquiddick Island last July 19. The information came from a courtroom source at the secret Kopechne inquest which ended Thursday after 3½ days of testimony.

"The law," the source said, "is interested only in facts—not conjecture, theory, or casual opinion. That's the way this inquest was conducted, right down the line."

Kennedy and his legal team had considered Farrar's testimony the crucial point of the inquest, which sought to determine whether the 28-year-old Washington secretary's death called for criminal proceedings.

Judge Boyle will give his opinion on that in a report to the Superior Court along with the transcript of the inquest. Only when all chance of criminal prosecution has passed can the report be made public, the Massachusetts Supreme Court has ruled.

The attorneys had carefully prepared rebuttal testimony and a consulting firm's report to the effect Miss Kopechne could have lived less than a minute after the car toppled from unlighted Dike Bridge, no matter how soon help was summoned.

Farrar had said the victim could have survived in an air pocket in the overturned car. At the outset of the inquest Monday, Boyle announced he would permit no extraneous testimony—and with Farrar's theory excluded from the inquest, the rebuttal report presumably will also be kept out of the record.

Child Abuse Is Said Tradition

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — In most cases a parent who abuses a child is just carrying on a family tradition, says a psychiatrist.

"Almost without exception, the abused child is reared as the parent was reared," Dr. Denise Quinn, psychiatry instructor at University of Utah College of Medicine, told a recent seminar. Dr. Quinn, added: "Paradoxically, the parent often loves the child, but the style of child rearing, or the child-parent relationship, is faulty."

She said the abusive parent often makes immature or unrealistic demands on the child. "There is a role reversal," Dr. Quinn said. "The parent often looks to the child for love and the child is incapable of returning such demands adequately."

Voted 5-2 To Kill Blue Law

ASHEVILLE (AP) — The first of three votes to repeal the Asheville's controversial blue laws was taken Thursday, when the City Council voted 5-2 to kill the Sunday sales regulations.

Two other votes must be taken before the law can be repealed and will be taken during the next two weeks at council meetings.

Accused Doctor Came To Rescue

TULSA, Okla. — A Tulsa physician was called on Thursday to revive a woman juror at the outset of his malpractice trial.

The woman, a diabetic, fainted at the completion of opening statements by attorneys, and was having difficulty breathing. A doctor was needed immediately, and the defendant stepped in and revived the woman.

The woman later assured the judge her opinion would not be prejudiced by the incident, but a mistrial was declared and the judge called for another jury to hear the matter.

Hospitalization Policy Adopted

SNOW HILL — The Snow Hill Town Board Tuesday night adopted a new hospitalization policy for town employees.

The new policy will almost double the benefits the employees are now receiving.

The board also approved the refund of a portion of water line installation to some parties residing on the southern boundaries of the town.

The financial statement for the first six months of the fiscal period was also reviewed by board members.

(More About the Best Colors For You)

An important factor in choosing your best colors is to examine your complexion. If you are naturally rosy, forget the hot pinks, reds and oranges. Wear cool colors such as mild grays, beiges, navy or even pastels.

If your skin is pale, turquoise, pink, red or even black will eliminate that problem. Better stay away from white!

If your skin is fair with no blemishes, you should be able to wear any color. Some, however, will be more becoming than others. Blondes with blue eyes and a fair skin look stunning in blues and mild aquas.

If you have red hair and the same fair skin, you can capitalize on greens to marvelous advantage.

Charity Ball To Be Held In February

Preparations are well underway for the seventh annual Charity Ball, which will be held this year on Feb. 6 at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

The ball promises to be a very gala affair for the approximately 300 patrons who are expected to dine and dance to the music of the Bob Cleveland Orchestra.

The ball is a production by the 80 members of the Service League of Greenville. All proceeds are used for the Laughinghouse Hospital Fund.

In 1939, the League undertook to provide bed space for any worthy patients who were so recommended by the doctors of Pitt County.

The League assumes financial responsibility for the individual patient as recommended by the attending doctor and in agreement with the administrator of the hospital.

The League dedicated its bed space to Dr. Charles O'Hagan Laughinghouse in grateful appreciation of his life, ideals, work and also in acknowledgment of the effective leadership of his daughter, Mrs. R. C. Stokes Jr., as first president of the League.

Mrs. Wilson Guice is president of the Service League this year.

Designer Says: Jewelry Should Flatter Proportions Of Wearer

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Marianne Ostier, who has been designing jewelry for 31 years, finds it second nature to look at the jewelry worn by every woman she sees. And often she'd like to—but doesn't—step up and say, "No, no, you ought to be wearing . . ."

A lot of the mistakes she sees have to do with proportion, Mrs. Ostier says. "If someone with a short neck wears long ear clips, the neck looks still shorter. If the woman with a long neck wears small ear clips that go up into the face, her neck appears too long.

"If a woman has short hands and wears a very small round ring, her hands look much shorter. With a high ring, you can elongate the finger. The marquis shape, widest in the center and tapering to a point at each end, is ideal for short fingers.

"And a bracelet that is worn on a heavy wrist should be a big bracelet, to make the wrist look smaller."

Although Mrs. Ostier often uses diamonds in her designs, she feels diamonds don't do that much for a woman. They show a lot of glitter. But colored stones have much more influence on a woman.

"Eighteen-carat gold is a soft color and becoming to wear; sometimes it has one or two diamonds to accentuate it," she says.

Mrs. Ostier advises women to consider their profile when choosing jewelry to wear around the face. It is her opinion that button earrings do nothing for the profile.

A sculptor when she married a jeweler in Austria, Mrs. Os-tier went back to school to learn jewelry design. One of her first ideas—which proved one of her most successful and the most copied—was that the application of sculpting ideas could move jewelry away from flatness. Diamonds used to be set down into the metal, greatly reducing their sparkle because little light could get to them.

She began using metal on more than one plane and she set stones up on stems, so that a flower pin, for example, took the shape of a real flower instead of being as flat as the photograph of a flower.

The Ostiers moved their jewelry business to the United States in 1941, and she has been carrying it on alone since her husband's death two years ago. But business details, which were her husband's province, so frustrated her that she decided to close shop. Some 405 pieces of jewelry still on hand were sold at auction at Parke-Bernet Nov. 19 and 20.

Her jewelry pieces are one-of-a-kind, "because I always had enough ideas to go on to something new." However, in the sale was a diamond starburst brooch similar to one given to Julie Nixon Eisenhower for a wedding present. Mrs. Ostier duplicated that piece "because everybody wanted to see it."

Her favorite color is purple and the jewelry stones she usually wears are amethyst and turquoise, both of which are becoming with soft purple dresses and both of which are flattering to her skin color. The turquoise also brings out the green of her eyes.

Neither amethyst nor turquoise are among the five gem stones Mrs. Ostier listed eight years ago in her book, "Jewels and the Woman." (They are diamond, ruby, emerald, sapphire, pearl.)

She says: "With jewelry one has more possibilities to stress one's own type than with anything else. The aim of jewelry is to make women look more beautiful, to flatter them. I'm so conscious of color and becomingness; if one wears something that is becoming, one is much more comfortable than showing wealth."

Even Late Gifts Deserve Thanks

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband's teen-age sister, of whom I am very fond, took my engagement ring while she was staying at our home for the week-end.

I have been waiting now for quite some time, hoping a guilty conscience would compel her to return it. So far, it hasn't.

Abby, this girl has had a very rough life and has been kicked around a lot and I hate to stir up even more trouble for her by telling her that I know she has my ring. I am certain she has it. I am not just guessing.

My husband says I should forget it—that he will buy me a new one, but I don't want a new one. The old one was not very expensive, but it meant a lot to me.

It hurts me to think that this girl would steal from me. I placed a lot of trust in her. Can you help me?

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS IN CONN.

DEAR SLEEPLESS: You MUST confront her, more for HER sake than for the return of the ring. If you let it go, she is sure to steal other things. Tell her in a friendly, loving way that you know she took your ring, and ask her to return it. The girl obviously needs love and understanding. Not more punishment.

DEAR ABBY: We have five children. The boys I never worried about, but I always watched the girls carefully. When the older one was 15, I looked in her diary once to find out what kind of girl she was turning out to be, and was happy to learn that I had nothing to worry about. Well, it's seven years later and she is happily married now, but her younger sister has me worried.

She is 17, a good student, and very pretty. She has many girl friends, but very few dates. She seems so discouraged. I keep telling her it's only a stage she's going thru and she will soon meet someone, and she should stay "good" for him, but she tells me that she knows she will never meet anyone.

Well, yesterday I looked in her diary and saw that she was a good girl, but she's so unhappy. She writes that life isn't worth living, and she hopes she doesn't wake up tomorrow morning. Every page is the same. She hates to be alive.

I felt so bad, I told my husband, and he was very angry with me and said I was looking for trouble. I really don't think I did anything so terribly wrong. Abby, is there something else I should do?

HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: YES. Stay out of her diary. And don't "believe" everything you saw there. Most girls that age are inclined to dramatize their "feelings" in their diaries. If she functions well at school and has girl friends, don't worry about her. [Lots of girls don't have "dates."] Let her know that her family loves her, and don't ever violate her privacy again. Girls have left home for less.

DEAR ABBY: Please clear something up for me. When a person goes to a bridal shower and wins a prize, is she supposed to give the prize to the bride?

This happened to me the other day, and when I was told by another guest that I should give the prize to the bride, I said I had never heard of such a silly thing and I wasn't going to do it. And I didn't. Have YOU ever heard of it?

PUZZLED IN WEST VIRGINIA

DEAR PUZZLED: Yes, I have heard that this is the "custom" in some communities. But I must agree with you. It seems senseless to "win" a prize and give it to the bride—who has already received a gift from each guest.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TICKED OFF IN TAMPA": It is sometimes better to ignore an enemy. There are other ways [more graphic, but less delicate] of saying it, but I like the way Cyrus Ching put it: "I learned long ago never to wrestle with a pig. You get dirty, and besides the pig likes it."

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Couple Speaks Vows In Double Ring Ceremony

Miss Nell Cade Dickerson became the bride of Eason Gale Clark on Dec. 28, following the morning services at Parkers Chapel Free Will Baptist Church. The Rev. Eddie Dollar officiated the double ring ceremony.

Miss Dickerson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Dickerson of Greenville. Mr. Clark is the son of Mrs. Gail Clark of Greenville and Mr. Eason Clark of Tarboro.

Following the benediction, Miss Rae Harris, soloist, sang

Mrs. Eason Gale Clark

"Whither Thou Goest," accompanied by Mrs. Dot Windom, pianist. Immediately after the solo, the couple entered the church together. They exchanged vows and then knelt as Miss Harris sang "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride wore a gown of white peau de soie with a chapel train attached to the empire waist. Her veil was of silk illusion attached to a crown of pearls. She carried a New Testament covered with white satin and bridal lace centered with a white orchid corsage.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a red velvet dress and matching accessories. She wore the white orchid lifted from her bouquet.

The bride is, at present, a senior at Rose High School and is employed at Jefferson Florist. The bridegroom attended Belvoir Falkland High School and is now employed with Jack's Starter and Generator. Following the wedding trip, the couple will reside at Rt. 4, Greenville.

Knitted ties that the man of the house has discarded make wonderful covers for wooden coat hangers.

Miss Wilkerson Is Entertained

Miss Carole Wilkerson, bride-elect, was honored at a coffee hour Tuesday morning by Mrs. Moye Dail, Mrs. Banks Cozart and Mrs. A. M. Mumford at the home of Mrs. Dail in Brookgreen.

Mrs. Mumford greeted guests upon arrival and introduced them to the receiving line composed of the hostesses, bride-elect and her mother, Mrs. Charles Wilkerson.

The dining table was centered with an arrangement of fruit and boxwood. Arrangements of boxwood and magnolia leaves were used throughout the house.

Mrs. Charles Wilkerson Jr., Mrs. Cozart, Mrs. C. D. Ward and Mrs. O. C. Zechiel of Fredericksburg, Va., served in the dining room.

Receiving throughout the house were Mrs. R. W. Davenport, Mrs. George Wilkerson and Mrs. Norman Wilkerson.

Transition Policies Are Set

The Pitt County Board of Education has approved policies for school integration which should be most helpful in bringing a smooth transition.

The county is now constructing four high schools which, when completed, will replace all of the present high schools. The new schools will be totally integrated. The policies adopted by the board are designed to insure representation of minority groups, across-racial line working, planning, thinking and voting and development of the total child.

The policies assure:

- representation of 40 to 60 percent of any race in school activities.
- selection of school colors, mascots, rings, symbols, songs cheers and other identifying aspects to reflect a new non-racial image.
- non-discriminatory membership of service clubs.
- social functions at the schools which do not exclude any students because of race.
- membership on athletic teams based on acquired skills good attitudes, successful classroom performance and state athletic requirements.
- an elective course in American history which gives equal emphasis to the contribution of both races.
- establishment of a student committee with equal representation during the first year of complete consolidation and desegregation to plan for a future student government.

These and other policies adopted by the board should go a long way toward removing any doubt that the desegregated county schools will be operated on a non-discriminatory basis.

On the other hand the policies adopted by the board put the burden on students and parents to act responsibly while they attend Pitt County schools.

Among the things these policies provide:

- students cannot carry weapons to school.
- parents to be notified when students are suspended or dismissed and a hearing to be provided.
- students who misbehave on school buses will be denied use of the buses.
- trespassing charges will be brought against persons who do not leave school campuses when asked to do so.

We feel the county school board has outlined policies which should insure that every student is treated fairly as integration and consolidation proceed. At the same time policies have been outlined for dealing fairly and firmly with troublemakers. The board of education has done considerable work to bring about the transition. Things could go very smoothly as the changes come about. However, it will mean that every student and every parent must cooperate in order that we may have schools that work to the best advantage of every child.

Death Penalty To Be Avoided

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
RALEIGH — It is quite unlikely that Marie Hill will ever be put to death in the state's lethal gas chamber. In fact it is almost certain that she will not although the law and a jury in a court of law have prescribed that punishment for her crime.

It can be predicted with a fair degree of certainty that Marie Hill's death sentence, even if upheld by the higher courts, will be commuted to life imprisonment and that eventually this young woman will be allowed to return to society.

Such a prediction is heard everywhere in Raleigh officialdom, in legal circles and elsewhere.

It is generally accepted among all who are familiar with the Marie Hill case despite the viciousness of the murder she committed and despite the fact that the courts have ruled she received a fair and just trial.

Cause — Whether fair and just or not, certain groups and individuals have seized upon the Marie Hill cases as a cause, a cause to further their own purposes and interests regardless of the fate of Marie Hill and without regard to the truth.

To these groups who have distributed blatant untruths and lies about the case nationwide, it must have appeared that the conviction and sentencing of Marie Hill provided a perfect vehicle for stirring animosity, racial hatred and prejudice and, incidentally, raising money.

Miss Hill is a Negro. She is underage. She was only 17 years old when she brutally attacked and killed a neighborhood storekeeper in Rocky Mount, N.C., because he resisted her efforts to rob him.

The trial record is both graphic and grim. Murder is ugly and cruel. This was one of the ugliest and most cruel. The jury did not recommend mercy. The trial judge had no choice about pronouncing a death sentence.

Appeal — Appeal of a capital crime verdict and a death sentence is automatic under North Carolina law. Thus the Marie Hill case went directly to the state's highest tribunal for review and the stay of execution was routine.

As Gov. Bob Scott pointed out emphatically, the Legal Defense Fund of the NAACP "had nothing to do with her stay of execution, and was in no way involved." But LDF, in widely distributed leaflets and mailings, claimed it had staved off the girl's execution. The leaflet also said Marie Hill was scheduled to be put to death for "stealing $50."

False — The NAACP's letter, under the letterhead of its Legal Defense Fund in New York, was headed "Christmas on Death Row." It read like this:

"Seventeen year old Marie Hill will spend Christmas this year in a four-foot wide cell on Death Row in the North Carolina State Prison in Raleigh. The black girl was accused of stealing $50, and under North Carolina law, the state sought and received the death penalty.

"Marie was scheduled to be executed on the day after Christmas; however the Legal Defense Fund has obtained a stay of execution. LDF is now appealing her conviction."

Investigation shows that none of these statements are correct. They are falsehoods. Marie Hill is now 18, approaching her 19th birthday. She has never been confined on "death row." She has been held at Woman's Prison and has been given privileges of exercise, recreation and visitation. She was not scheduled to be executed on the day after Christmas. The LDF had nothing to do with a stay of execution. As far as can be determined LDF is not appealing her conviction. At least there is no record of it spending any money in her behalf.

The rest of the leaflet is an appeal for funds—and letters.

Now Some Will Try To Outlive Robert Scott

No doubt a lot of Gov. Scott's associates and acquaintances are going to be trying hard to outlive him, now that it is known the governor has kept a diary of his first year in office.

"If I felt like a man was a son of a gun, I put it down," Scott said in revealing the diary. "I was quite frank."

No doubt there are quite a few people in North Carolina government and involved in politics in general who would like to get a look at that diary.

However, the only way they can do it is to outlive Gov. Scott and his wife.

The governor said the diary had been turned over to the state's Department of Archives and History and will remain sealed until after he and his wife die.

So it is likely to be many years before Gov. Scott's most personal thoughts about his first year in office are known.

Mining A Vast Consumer Lode

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The opening of Senate hearings next week on the safety of birth control pills will mark the start of a broad election-year effort to mine the vote-rich issue of consumer protection.

Following close on the heels of the hearings by a Small Business subcommittee will be inquiries into auto and appliance warranties, package labeling, insurance and auto exhaust control.

Although these hearings are not on current Nixon administration consumer proposals, Democratic strategists deny any intention to bury them under a blizzard of opposition sponsored bills.

On the contrary, these sources say Democratic strategy will be to ultimately give Nixon proposals a full airing and "build them up with amendments and make Democratic bills out of them."

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., the subcommittee chairman, has invited 18 doctors and researchers to testify during five days of hearings on birth control pills starting next Wednesday.

Announcing the hearings several weeks ago, Nelson said oral contraceptives are being used by 8.5 million women in the United States and 10 million elsewhere.

Although the pills sent to druggists cautions of a wide range of possible side effects, he said the warning often is not passed along to doctors.

"It appears evident," Nelson added, "that a substantial number of users are not advised of any of the health hazards or side effects."

Nelson is not among the 25 Democrats up for re-election this year who could add an effort for tougher birth control labeling legislation to their campaign arsenal.

But the party hopes to benefit from his proclaimed efforts to better the lot of consumers.

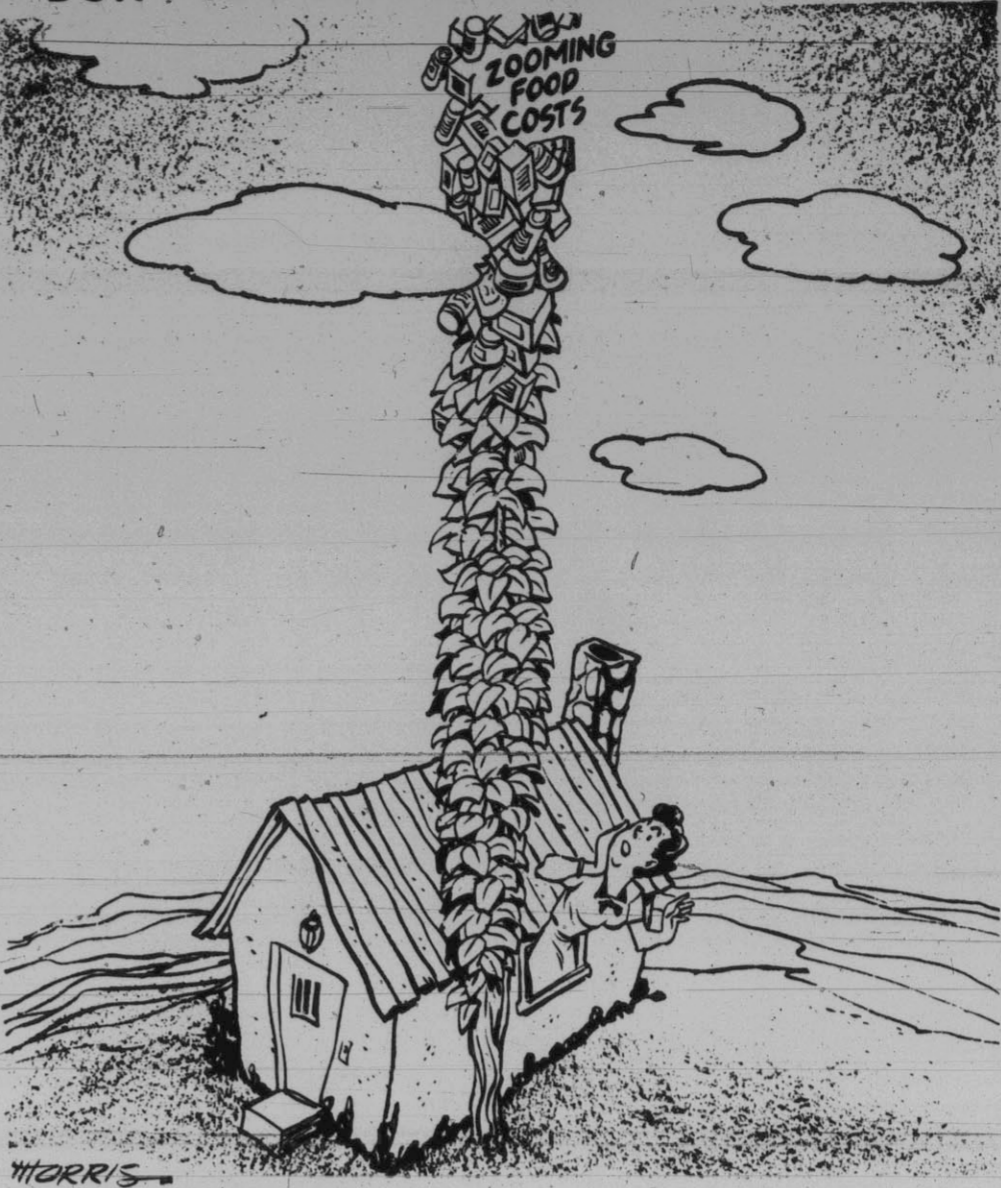

And the chairmen of two other consumer-oriented committees are facing tough re-election battles and both have hot issues of their own.

Frank E. Moss of Utah, chairman of a consumer subcommittee, has a hearing next Friday to evaluate fair packaging laws.

The following week Moss has three days of hearings on a bill to provide minimum standards for guarantees covering consumer products with electrical, mechanical or thermal components.

Moss also is involved in another controversial consumer issue now in joint House-Senate conference—a bill to ban radiotelevision cigarette advertising starting and

The Jumbo Jet Troubles

WASHINGTON — Most airports are getting ready to handle the new Boeing 747 jumbo jet which accommodates 400 people. The only airport that seems to be dragging its heels and has done nothing to improve its facilities to receive this new transportation marvel is Havana.

Worried officials from Boeing, the major airlines and the pilots' associations have been in constant conference trying to figure out ways of getting Castro to get cracking on his airport facilities.

At a meeting the other day, an airline executive said, "I don't see how we can fly the 747 between New York and Miami if the Havana airport is not capable of handling our jets."

"It seems to me that Castro is being very stubborn," another airline executive complained. "He knows our government won't permit the lengthening his runway and improving his baggage handling facilities?"

"Yes, but he said that it would still cost him a lot of money because all the hijacked planes are unscheduled and he never knows when they will land. He feels he can't keep Cuban airline terminal employees hanging around waiting to handle a hijacked plane load of passengers."

"He's being unreasonable," a Boeing man said. "He knows we can't schedule hijacked planes. Did you tell him we'd subsidize him by giving him air mail contracts on the hijacked planes?"

"Yes. He liked that. But he

ART BUCHWALD

Other Editors Say Way To Smog Control

(Milwaukee Journal)

Bully for California. It is keeping things stirred up in the smog control field. Gov. Ronald Reagan says he will divert some highway funds in his 1970-'71 budget to smog control. These funds have been sacredly segregated for highway construction and maintenance, there and in most other states, including Wisconsin.

Reagan told a conference on the changing environment that motor vehicles pump tons of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide into the environment, so why should not part of the motor vehicle taxes be used to conquer smog. Why not, indeed?

The auto industry and its bedfellow, the highway construction industry, won't like such diversion of funds, preferring more freeways for more cars. But the burden would be light compared to one that California almost pointed out that he also has to handle air traffic of hijacked planes from South America, and even if the Americans gave him a subsidy, he will still be going in a hole with planes flying in from Venezuela, Bolivia and Brazil. Castro said he wasn't against civilian aviation, it was just the suspense of not knowing when the planes were coming that was getting his control tower down.

"He's got us by the hair. If we don't persuade him to get ready for the 747, the CAB may not give us permission to fly it."

Carlson told the meeting, "Castro said the only way we could get him to lengthen the runway and enlarge the airline terminal was to recognize his government."

"Impossible. The U. S. government would never allow it."

"That's what I told him. I said even the health of Boeing Aircraft's stock couldn't get the government to budge on recognition."

Benefit In 'Gap' Of Age

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Isn't it about time that somebody came to the defense of the generation gap?

It is widely decried as one of today's greatest evils. Is it really?

The extent of the gap may be deplored, but the fact that a gap between the generations is both normal and needed can hardly be denied. It serves a healthy purpose: it keeps the generations from trying to sit forever in each other's laps.

Where there is no generation gap the young become the prisoner of the old, and the progress of the world is anchored to the fear of change characteristic among the elderly.

The generation gap enables—even forces—the young to grow up, to thumb their noses at the past and put a new imprint of their own upon time. It keeps a civilization from dry rot, common in countries where ancestor worship flourishes.

Of course, in this land the pendulum may have swung too far in the other direction. Ancestor worship may have given way to youth worship, and that has a danger and a penalty also. Neither the young nor the old deserve the status of idols.

While anyone over 40 may be annoyed by the impudence and disrespect of the young, he has reason to be glad there is a generation gap. It has an advantage for the middle-aged: it serves them as a protective moat and shield.

For example, if you're past the two-score mark—

It isn't necessary to wear tight pants and long sweaters that make your cheeks look like a bunny rabbit's behind.

You get to read the sports pages of the newspaper first, because your children are more interested in checking the front page to see if any of their friends have been arrested in the latest sit-in.

You are not made uncomfortable by being put on a pedestal where you know you don't belong.

In the morning you can awake cheered by the knowledge it isn't your duty to start a new crusade by nightfall.

No matter how old and comfortable the clothes you wear, you feel they don't make you look as much like a bum as those worn by the younger set.

You don't have to worry about some wet-behind-the-ears whippersnapper stealing your job from you, for he disdain the idea of living in such a commonplace rut.

Even if you share much of the idealism of youth, you aren't expected to help build barricades or man them. It is charitably realized that you are too old and tired to lift heavy stones or hurl them.

The kids can do without your advice, but they are still dependent upon the power of your pocketbook.

While they are galloping off to tilt at every windmill on life's horizon, you are free to lift your eyes and admire the beauty of arching sky and bending rain-

Strength For Today

What is the spiritual condition and influence of the Church in the world today?

On the whole the Church seems to be having a pretty rough time. There are circumstances under which its influence still appears to be overwhelming. There are other circumstances under which the Church appears to be losing ground. Clergymen of all denominations are a thoroughly committed lot of men, better educated probably than the clergy has been in recent centuries.

Unfortunately, most of the churches today are not full of worshippers at any time other than Christmas and Easter. This may be due to the fact that there is something the matter with the Church or that there is something the matter with church members.

Is the Church full of hypocrites? A hypocrite is a person who pretends one thing and practices another. Anyone who has had experience with the Church and its members would deny that the churches are full of hypocrites. They are full of weak people who fail often to live up to what they believe to be right, who fall, but who pick themselves up and press on to better things. The Church is a reflection of the world in which we live. Some people declare that the Church is a mess, but so are the lives of most of us at some time or other.

We had better hold on to the Church and hold tight. But all of us are contributing to its imperfections. Let's stop clobbering the Church and begin clobbering ourselves.

Beating 2 Worst Competitors

By ELMER ROESSNER
Department stores are doing fairly well despite increasing competition from their two major competitors: discount store and credit-card retailers. This is the conclusion from several reports, the National Retail Merchants Association's Financial and Operating Results of Department and Special Stores in 1968, the NRMA's Departmental Merchandising and Operating Results, and Service Discount Department Stores by Cornell University. The reports are not precisely comparable because the NRMA reports are for the year ended Feb. 28, 1969, and the Cornell study was for the year ended June 30, 1969. Nevertheless, they probably present comparable trends.

The NRMA reports showed that department stores' net profit after taxes was 2.74 per cent of sales and that specialty stores' net profit was 1.18 per cent. Discount stores' net after taxes was 1.66 per cent of sales after taxes.

Both Groups Claim Sales Gains

Both the NRMA stores and the discount houses boasted of gains in total sales. The department-specialty stores claimed a substantial rise in sales in their year; the discount houses reported an 18 per cent increase over the year before.

Discount stores affiliated with very large chains, those with sales of more than $100 million a year, reported an increase of 30 per cent.

The Cornell study, directed by Dr. Earl Brown and financed by the Mass Retailing Institute, an organization of discount stores, found the discount operations largely favorable. Sales-to-assets rose from 3.66 a year earlier to 3.75, reversing a three-year decline. Turnover for the larger chains rose from 2.95 to 3.70, but dropped from 3.79 to 3.64 for the smaller stores.

Discount houses, which started out on a "no advertising" formula, spent $2.30 per $100 in sales for advertising and promotion. For Sports; One Fifth Reflecting the increasing American affluence and leisure time, recreational items and accessories made up 20.41 per cent of all discount sales, the largest category.

Sam Flanel, NRMA vice president, supplemented that organizations tabulations with a report that, despite the growth and proliferation of bank card plans, department stores increased credit sales. However, cash sales increased even more, so that the per cent of total volume sold on credit dipped from 56.88 to 56.80 per cent.

Specialty stores made 63.34 per cent of their sales on credit.

Department stores include bank-card credit sales in their total of credit sales, but few of the medium-size and large department stores go in for bank-card plans.

Hard-Sell Required Put Over Urban Bond Issue

By EDWARD CODY
The experience of North Carolina cities in 1969 shows shrewd planning and hard-sell promotion campaigns are needed to put over bond issues before an increasingly tight-fisted voting public.

The state's urban experts—both in and out of city hall—agree the urban climate is stormy for cities seeking support for new debts and tax increases the debts may necessitate.

Voters feel their budgets have been buffeted by inflationary price rises on one side and recent state tax increases on the other, urban observers say. They say the most effective way to counter the public's penny-pinching mood is a well planned, well financed and well executed promotion campaign—preferably one that can inject a dash of glamor into the proposed issue.

A glowing example of what they mean was offered recently in Charlotte, where voters shunned vociferous opposition to embrace a whopping $36.1 million bond issue. The vote came about five weeks after Mecklenburg County declined to add another penny to its sales tax.

The reason for the positive response? "I think it is pretty obvious," said Leigh Wilson, executive director of the North Carolina League of Municipalities. "Charlotte did an excellent job of planning and programming the whole bond issue. I was impressed by the way in which they planned for it and worked for it to convince the voters it was necessary."

Another factor, explained Harlan Boyles of the Local Government Commission in Raleigh, is that the Charlotte issue is to be paid for by user fees rather than added property taxes.

"We've found that bond issues that require tax levies for repayment find it more difficult than those that are to be paid for by users," he said.

The major component in Charlotte's issue was $10.7 million for a civic center designed to pay its own way.

The pay-as-we-go feature was hailed in an intensive publicity campaign using full page newspaper ads, television spots and shopping center glad-handing by City Council members and Mayor John M. Belk.

Greenville's city manager Harry Hagerty, whose voting public last month approved a $4 million issue, said city officials there also had shown "unusual vigor in pushing for approval."

Hagerty said city councilmen made the rounds to civic clubs, professional groups and book clubs to proselytize the public on the need for the issue, adding a whiff of glamor by connecting the issue with Greenville's heralded industrial expansion.

"We played that pretty heavily," he said.

In Durham, where voters rejected a proposed $9.75 million issue last May, a city hall official said a lack of flavor in the Durham proposal might have been a factor in its defeat.

"This was basic nuts and bolts," he said. "There was no gravy or fluff on this."

Visible enthusiasm from city leaders was one of the missing elements cited in the defeat last November of a $3.3 million issue offered to Raleigh voters.

"I think one of the central factors was that for the first time our total community leadership didn't merge," recalled William H. Carper, the Raleigh city manager. "It just didn't materialize in sufficient force."

In all, according to records at the Commission on Local Government, North Carolina voters approved sizable issues in three major cities in 1969, while rejecting three big ones.

They approved 30 smaller issues and rejected only four of the smaller ones.

The Raleigh vote also suffered from seepage of negative attitudes from other debates, Carper said. "I think part of it had to do with the sales tax," he added.

And the swirl of sentiment surrounding urban renewal entered the bond issue debate in Raleigh because the money was to go for a downtown refurbishing project.

This negative voter climate toward a controversial issue was listed by Wilson as a deadly development for bond proposals, even when the bonds don't refer directly to the disputed issue.

A classic example, he said, is the defeat of school building bond referendums in counties where desegregation has riled parents and left them with a grudge against their schools.

But underlying the peripheral developments that turn a voter's mind, said Fayetteville city manager G. W. Ray, is an "allergy" to new property tax.

Ray said Fayetteville's $3.3 million proposal was defeated last May partly because "we didn't turn on the steam in an all-out manner."

"I think it would have been defeated anyway," he added, however. "You've just got to catch the public at the right psychological moment. We didn't do it."

"If we had it to do over again," he said, "I'm not sure I would know a better approach."

Builders, Financial Agencies Urged Aid Low-Income Groups

Joe E. Eagles, executive director of the newly created North Carolina Housing Corporation, yesterday called on contractors, builders, savings and loan corporations personnel, bank personnel and others connected with the building of homes to give thought to plans to make possible the ownership of homes by more low-income families in the years ahead.

Outlining the purpose behind the creation by the past General Assembly of the N. C. Housing Corporation, Eagles stated: "I represent a somewhat new dimension in the home building industry. It fills a need, a missing link in these days of tight money."

Eagles was principal speaker at a regional meeting held Thursday at the Greenville Moose Lodge. Arrangements for the meeting, at which interested persons from Bertie, Martin and Pitt County attended, were made by Thomas W. Willis, director of the East Carolina University Regional Development Institute.

Emphasizing that positive action must be taken, Eagles commented: "The most expensive thing we can do is to do nothing. There are ways and means to lift ourselves up and to lift those not quite as fortunate as we are."

Initial plans for the North Carolina Housing Corporation, announced by Governor Bob Scott at a special news conference last May, call for the eventual issuance of tax-exempt bonds in an amount of up to $200 million. Proceeds from these bonds would be loaned to builders, developers and to individual families only on FHA insured mortgages on individual properties.

Expanding on ideas formulated since Governor Scott's initial proposals, Eagles said: "It provides for, if needed, all the Federal help that has been provided for low-income families. It provides for long term mortgages with lower monthly payments and offers an opportunity for many families to have a home of their own for the first time."

Assuring his listeners that the proposed program "is no give away program," Eagles said: "Every man who receives a mortgage will be expected to pay off. This mortgage is a moral obligation that must be figured into his budget for as long as 30 years."

"Our program is a local program. The local builders, the real estate salesmen, the local appraisers, the local lending institutions, everything is local except the long term mortgage money."

Eagles revealed means which are expected to furnish the funds for this program. "We hope to secure this money from outside North Carolina for the most part. We will bring in capital through the issuance of tax exempt revenue bonds. We will loan it out at the going Federal Housing Administration rate. The spread will allow us to pay local lending institutions for servicing our accounts, and leave enough to run the small staff we will have in Raleigh."

Another means of providing funds is a provision for "the establishment of a trust fund." Here we hope to have about $5 million with which we can make things happen in housing."

Eagles also told his audience that "it is not our purpose to compete, but to complement what is now being done . . . we are going to take up where the present market leaves off . . . We expect to help private enterprise expand their work and their market . . . to create new jobs and new state and local taxes . . . and we expect to have some economic impact on all areas of the state."

In a booklet prepared by the corporation and given to those attending the meeting, general outlines of the program are detailed. It is noted that two states, New York and New Jersey have sold housing revenue bonds. Other states, including Michigan, Illinois and West Virginia, have adopted legislation authorizing such bonds.

Some of the benefits enumerated are: through financing, making housing available at costs estimated between $800 and $1,200 less than is otherwise available; the possible elimination of the State housing problem in 17 to 20 years (as opposed to an estimated 72 years it will take at the present rate of construction); and for many communities, the availability of better housing will result in industrial and commercial expansion.

The program is aimed at one-family homes in the average price range of about $12,000 to $15,000.

New Cancer Theory Has All People With 'Seeds'

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the world's foremost microbe hunters has disclosed a revolutionary new cancer theory suggesting seeds of the dread disease are present in all humans from the time of conception.

But these seeds are kept from magnantly growing in most people, Dr. Robert J. Huebner said Thursday in explaining the theory he co-developed with Dr. George Todaro. Both scientists are with the National Cancer Institute.

Huebner said the concept might open the way to eventual control of cancer through antiviral drug therapy or a vaccine.

Previous concepts envisioned cancer viruses largely as external attackers. The new one approach points the finger at virus-related materials deemed present from the time of conception.

"We think that, for the first time in the virus field, we have a way to get at the cancer problem," Huebner said in an interview. "The concept is entirely different from what people had anticipated . . . We believe it is going to change the whole field of cancer-virus research."

In effect, the new theory holds that:

—The actual seeds for cancer—in the form of some of the genetic precursor ingredients for a certain type of virus, called "C-type RNA virus"—are present in all of us from the time we're conceived. But, in most people other genetic forces keep them from developing.

—When cancer does occur, it's the result of the previously-suppressed mechanism being switched on by defective genes present in some people; by such environmental factors as radiation or certain chemicals; or, in some people, by the very process of aging.

—The cancer seed mechanism, whether or not it ultimately generates malignancy, may have a beneficial function in the early development of the embryo—it may be essential to life itself.

Huebner said there is "a lot of documentary evidence" to support the concept. He said precursors to C-type RNA viruses have been found in mice, chickens and cats; and full-blown RNA viruses of this type have been demonstrated in hamsters and rats, and have also been seen by electron microscope in tumor cells of humans, cattle, swine, guinea pigs, snakes and monkeys.

He indicated production of complete viruses may not be necessary in order to produce malignancy. Rather, he suggested, cancer may result just from the "switching on" of "viral cancer-genes" that are among the precursors of such viruses.

Weiner says the Pipefitters local union which handled his work had only a handful of Negro apprentices and about 1,600 white journeymen. And, he says, the contract prohibited him to take on workers from outside the local.

In Philadelphia, the plan establishes a range of goals expected to result in an average of 20 per cent minority employment after several years. Local contractors filed their suit challenging its constitutionality in district court last Tuesday.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, whose opinion is part of the Weiner case, takes the position the Philadelphia Plan is entirely legal.

The Ohio Supreme Court ruled 6-2 against Weiner last July. It held Reliance was being asked only to assure minority groups would have an opportunity for equal employment—not to guarantee specific quotas would be met.

However, the two dissenters, including Chief Justice Kingsley Taft, failed to see a distinction between "assuring" minority group representation and guaranteeing it.

And all the judges, meanwhile, agreed that establishment of quotas for Negroes or any minority group would be discriminatory in violation of the 1964 law.

Want Services, Not Tax Slash

DUNKIRK, N.Y. (AP) — Citizens in this city of 18,000 on the shore of Lake Erie are asking that taxes not be cut.

Republican Councilman Leonard Catalano says his constituents want additional services and major improvement programs instead of a proposed tax cut.

The average home owner would save from $20 to $40 a year under a $2.5 million budget before the GOP-controlled City Council. The budget is $300,000 lower than last year's.

Lawyer Seizes Engine, Caboose

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — Attorney Jack Halpin seized a locomotive from Southern Pacific Railroad Co. Thursday.

Accompanied by a constable, Halpin went to the railroad yard and confiscated a switch engine and caboose.

Halpin represents a family with a $48,000 claim against the railroad. He said he was taking the locomotive and caboose because the railroad hadn't paid the judgment.

He later released himself, and within hours, Halpin gave the train back to Southern Pacific when the railroad notified him from San Francisco that the check was on its way.

Halpin, a former Superior Court judge, had a court order authorizing the seizure.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Thomas D. Shepard, a former Los Angeles city councilman, has been sentenced to 1 to 14 years in prison on a bribery charge.

Shepard, 44, a Van Nuys businessman, was convicted in November of accepting an $11,000 bribe from developer Joseph Aronoff in connection with a 1964 Canoga Park zoning case.

Shepard had contended the money was a loan but the prosecution said he made no attempt to repay any of it until an investigation.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A Dallas man was sentenced Thursday to life in prison after a jury found him guilty of stealing 50 cents.

Curtis Columbus Jones, 32, was convicted of breaking and entering a car. Jones reportedly took 51 cents from the car's ash tray, but dropped a penny in the car.

The life sentence came under the Texas habitual criminal law when the jury found that Jones had served a prison sentence for another break-in and a theft.

Penn State Is Still Crying—We're No. 1

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Here in the Nittany Mountains on the sprawling campus of Penn State University the argument will never die. Penn State is the No. 1 college football team of 1969, not Texas.

The final Associated Press top 10 poll made Texas No. 1 and Penn State No. 2. Penn State people can read, but they don't believe the final judgement of the experts.

They can't understand how a team which has won 22 straight games and hasn't been defeated in its last 30 games could rank No. 2 to anyone.

Both of these streaks are the longest current such marks in major college football. The 30 game defeatless record is the longest since Oklahoma's 48 in 1953 through 1957. Only a 17-17 tie against Florida State in the Jan. 1, 1967, Gator Bowl mars Penn State's football record over the last three years.

The last time the Nittany Lions lost was in the third game of the 1967 season, 17-15 to UCLA. Coach Joe Paterno says his team has met every challenge and if it isn't No. 1, he doesn't know who is better.

Paterno says Penn State played a tougher schedule than Texas. The Lions beat Colorado, Kansas State and Missouri, all of the Big Eight, one of the toughest conferences in the nation. They routed West Virginia, the only defeat for the Mountaineers who wound up a winner over South Carolina in the Peach Bowl. Colorado went to the Liberty Bowl and whipped Alabama.

Who did Texas beat? ask Penn State backers. The Longhorns struggled to take Arkansas and Notre Dame, the only two real powers on their schedule. Texas defeated Oklahoma, but the Sooners experienced an off year. Notre Dame lost to Purdue and was tied by Southern California. Arkansas bowed in the Sugar Bowl to Mississippi, a three-game loser.

Texas backers want to know why Penn State didn't vote to come to the Cotton Bowl and have it out with the Longhorns. The answer is simple and logical.

When State voted on a bowl game, Ohio State was No. 1, with only Michigan remaining on its schedule. It appeared that nothing short of the Minnesota Vikings could beat Ohio State, so the Lions decided it wasn't worth going to Dallas to fight for No. 2. They chose the sunny climate of Florida.

State didn't select a patsy, in facing Missouri in the Orange Bowl. The Tigers were 9-1 and co-champions of the Big Eight.

Missouri had one of the best offenses in the nation. It had crushed Michigan, which was in the Rose Bowl by virtue of its stunning win over Ohio State.

Penn State beat Missouri 10-3, with one of the most awesome defensive performances of this, or perhaps any other year. They intercepted seven passes and recovered two fumbles. They smothered Missouri's 36 point a game offense, stopping the nation's third best runner, Joe Moore; sending quarterback Terry McMillan to the sidelines 11 years, and blanking Mel Gray, one of the game's top passers.

Penn State did it all. They won 11 games without a loss.

Leaders Look Back To Arnie

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Lunn, Dave Hill and Ron Cerrudo shared a one-stroke lead going into today's second round in the $100,000 Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament, but all were busily casting anxious glances over their shoulders at the greatest charger of them all.

Lunn, a burly, soft-spoken 220-pounder, the slim, tough Hill and 24-year-old Cerrudo all fashioned 66s, five-under-par on the 6,821-yard Rancho Park Golf Club course. Thursday, but had little reason to rejoice.

Looming just behind them was awesome Arnold Palmer, the rejuvenated millionaire who won the final two tournaments of the 1969 season and is gunning for the third, three-in-a-row string of his incredible career. Palmer coasted in with 67, just one back of the leaders, and was tied at that figure with Fred Marti and Don Massengale.

Scores generally were low in the near-perfect golfing weather, mild temperatures with no wind. In all, 62 of the field of 144 matched or bettered par. Palmer, appearing more relaxed and casual than he has in weeks, refused to get excited about his round.

scored 322 points to 90 for the opposition. It produced All-Americans in tackle Mike Reid and linebacker Dennis Onkotz. Neal Smith, a little safetyman, intercepted 11 passes and made third team All-America. Its offense wasn't sensational, but it got the job done when it had to be done.

The annual professional football draft will be held in a few weeks, and Penn State people suggest the nation, including President Richard Nixon, see how many Penn State players are drafted high by the pros as against Texas.

Poll or no poll, at Penn State, and wherever Nittany Lions' followers gather, Paterno's legion is No. 1.

Star backcourtman John Barnhill of Indiana sat out the game against Kentucky, and the Colonels wish substitute Bill Keller would have, too.

Keller shot in 33 points and made a couple of key passes as Indiana whipped Kentucky 118-105 Thursday night to run their record to 30-7 and open up a seven-game lead over Kentucky in the American Basketball Association's Eastern Division. Louie Dampier scored 36 for Kentucky.

Western Division-leading New Orleans topped Miami 97-86 in the only other ABA game.

East Carolina's Pirates chase their third straight Southern Conference victory here Saturday night as they entertain the Keydets of Virginia Military Institute. A victory could give the Bucs an additional grip on second place in the conference, while a loss could muddle things up a bit.

'Cats Stomp VMI

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Late Thursday night in Richmond, the thermometer stood at a crisp 7 degrees. . . and was inching lower. Louie Mills was packing for a trip to sunny Florida. So was he happy? Not so you'd notice it.

"We just got out of the deep freeze, and now we're jumping right into the frying pan," moaned the Richmond basketball coach. "If I had my druthers, I'd like to thaw out a little more slowly."

The "deep freeze" was Tuesday night, when Mills' Spiders—No. 1 fop of the Southern Conference thus far—fell victim to The Citadel's expertly executed stall and were beaten 53-51 in a conference game.

Early today, the Spiders were to board a plane for a game tonight in which they'll feel the heat of the Jacksonville University Dolphins—timber-tall, unbeaten and the nation's seventh-ranked cage power.

Mills wasn't holding out any false hopes for Richmond in its skirmish with a club that has not one, but two, players who tower more than 7 feet. Maybe, he said, "our best hope is for the weather to keep the plane on the ground." But the thoughtless weatherman called for clear skies.

The game at Jacksonville—the only action scheduled tonight for Southern Conference teams—finds Richmond with a dismal 3-8 record and a losing streak that has reached three games.

In the Dolphins, the Spiders will be meeting a club averaging more than 100 points a game, leading major colleges in rebounding and in winning margin—nearly 34 points a game—and possessing the nation's No. 1 rebounder and No. 7 scorer in Artis Gilmore.

Eighth-ranked Davidson is the Southern's answer to the likes of Jacksonville, and even the rampaging Wildcats doubtless would be hard-pressed.

The Wildcats, however, still appear to be in a class by themselves in the Southern. Putting on a torrid shooting exhibition and dominating the backboards, Davidson gave the works to hapless VMI Thursday night 95-52.

The victory, 51st in a row on their home court, boosted the Wildcats' season record to 9-1 and their conference mark to 5-0. Twelve Davidson players scored, Bryan Adrian leading with 18 points although no regulars saw action in the last 11 minutes. Jan Essenburg had 13 points for VMI.

Furman clipped Wofford 109-86 to boost its record to 6-4 but George Washington, now 4-8, bowed at Georgetown 100-81 in a pair of non-conference games.

Lisco Thomas went on a 39-point binge for Furman, and Joe Brunson chipped in 23 points and 20 rebounds as the Paladins rolled up their highest point total of the winter.

George Washington saw its losing streak grow to three games despite 24 points by Walt Szczerbiak and 20 by Mike Talent.

In the second game, Wachovia also pushed out into a lead at the half, 24-21, but fell behind in the second half. This time, Union Carbide came on to score 25 points while holding Wachovia to 17, for the win.

Chuck Grazebielski led Union Carbide with 21 points, while Donald Redmond had 10. For Wachovia, Terry Sparrow was high with nine.

Elsewhere, the Keydets fall down.

Gone is their leading scorer of last year, John Mitchell, and without him, the Keydets do not have the scoring punch they need. They do not list a man among the Southern Conference leaders, nor do they have anyone shooting better than 46 per cent from the floor.

One man, sophomore Fred Allison shows up in the conference statistics. He currently is ranked seventh in the conference in free throw percentage, hitting 81.5 per cent of his shots. He also is listed as being ninth in the conference in rebounding with an 8.9 average.

Rose Matmen Lose To Cards

JACKSONVILLE — Jacksonville High School defeated Rose High School yesterday in a wrestling match between the two schools, 33-11.

The Cardinals spotted the Rampants a 5-0 lead, then came back to move in front after the fifth match. After that, they never trailed, allowing Rose to win only three events during the entire afternoon.

Only Glenn Nichols, who got a forfeit, Angelo Daniels and David Bullock took wins for the Rampants, who are now 3-2 overall.

Duo Share Lead In Church Loop

St. James, Immanuel and Presbyterian picked up victories in last night's Church Basketball League games.

St. James downed Oakmont, 56-40, while Immanuel took Mt. Pleasant 40-18, and Presbyterian sunk Black Jack, 43-38.

Immanuel and St. James lead the standings with 2-0 records, while Presbyterian and Oakmont are 1-1, Piney Grove and Black Jack are 0-1, and Mt. Pleasant is 0-1.

In the opener, Black Jack looked like a winner in its first outing, moving out into a 25-17 lead in the first half. But Presbyterian came roaring back in the second half to outscore Black Jack, 26-13. That was enough to power them into a five-point victory.

Tal Adams led Black Jack with 17 points, while Bill Glidewell and Brazel Moore each had 11 for Presbyterian. Immanuel and Mt. Pleasant had a sticky time of it during the first period, as Immanuel slipped into a 13-12 lead at halftime. But in the second half, Immanuel slipped into a 13-12 lead at halftime. But in the second half, Immanuel turned it into a rout, outshooting Mt. Pleasant, 27-6, to roll to an easy victory.

Clinton Gentry led Immanuel with 11 points, while Mt. Pleasant was paced by Doug Parker with 10.

Closing out the evening, St. James had to struggle through another tough first half with Oakmont. That ended with St. James holding a 20-19 edge. But, as in the other games, the second half told the tale. St. James charged away, outshooting Oakmont, 36-21 to win handily.

Van Britt had 25 and Jim Severs had 18 to pace St. James, while Bob Turstal had 13, Bob Bentar had 12 and Don Parrot had 10 for Oakmont.

Pair In Lead Of Industrial

State Highway, Union Carbide and Fieldcrest Mills picked up wins in the second night of action in the Industrial Basketball League last night.

Fieldcrest downed WNCT, 45-39, while Union Carbide beat Wachovia, 46-41, and State Highway took the Jaycees, 69-40.

State Highway and Union Carbide top the league with 2-0 records, while Fieldcrest and Wachovia are both 1-1. WNCT and the Jaycees bring up the rear, 0-2.

In the opener, WNCT pushed out into the lead in the first half, working up a 24-22 advantage at halftime. But Fieldcrest came back in the second half to outscore WNCT by 10 points, 25-15, to take the victory.

Ikie Arnold had 16 and Joe Jenkins had 11 for WNCT, while Billy Stocks had 14 and Charlie Davis had 12 for Fieldcrest.

In the second game, Wachovia also pushed out into a lead at the half, 24-21, but fell behind in the second half. This time, Union Carbide came on to score 25 points while holding Wachovia to 17, for the win.

Chuck Grazebielski led Union Carbide with 21 points, while Donald Redmond had 10. For Wachovia, Terry Sparrow was high with nine.

Rounding out the evening, State Highway didn't have any trouble with the Jaycees. In the first half, the Highwaymen pushed out into a 40-16 lead, and then coasted to the win. In the second half, they outscored the Jaycees, 29-24, to wrap it up.

Wiley Brown led State Highway with 24 points, while Smith Worthington had 15 and Preston Mills and Ronnie Foster had 12 each. For the Jaycees, Henry Reddick had 13.

East 10th St. Ext. 758-2101

However, Jim Gregory of East Carolina, who had a 9.7 average when the statistics were compiled is not listed, so Allison would be at least 10th.

In the team categories, VMI, stands in team offense, scoring only 65.3 points per game. They are fifth in team field goal percentage, and sixth in free throw percentage. They stand fifth in rebounding.

East Carolina, meanwhile, is well ahead of the Keydets in every department. The Bucs are fifth in offense, second in field goal percentage and second in rebounding. Only in free throw percentage, where they rank seventh, do the Bucs fall down.

The Bucs have been devastating on the board in their last three games, having no mercy when it comes to allowing second shots for their opponents. Jim Fairley leads in the rebounding department with 11.3 per game, while Gergory has upped his mark to 9.9, and Jim Modlin is getting 9.5 per game.

Overall, the team has captured 55.4 per cent of all loose balls.

Modlin continued to lead the team in scoring with an 18.9 average. Tom Miller has pulled into second place with a 16.6 average, followed by Fairley at 15.1 and Gregory at 14.5.

Jim Kiernan, the fifth starter, is hitting at a 3.6 clip, while Julius Prince, the chief reserve, has a 4.5 average.

"We've been spending some time getting ready for them," Coach Tom Quinn said. "They have played some good games, and there were several which could have gone either way there at the end, and they could have won them."

Quinn pointed out that the Keydets seem to be bigger this year. "They have good height and good weight. There are six men who are listed at over 200 pounds."

"We'll go pretty much as we have in the past. I think things are improving for us. We haven't looked very pretty recently, but we have come through when it was necessary," he said of the Bucs' play.

Tip off for the game is at 8 p.m.

A freshman contest between the Baby Bucs and Frederick Military Academy will be played prior to the varsity game, starting at 5:45 p.m.

dislodge his ace and thereby place the fate of the contract entirely on the favorable location of the king of hearts. A spade was led to the king at trick two and the queen of hearts was put thru. East was in with the king and he shifted to the jack of diamonds. South ducked the first round but played the ace on the continuation as West followed with the queen. With the diamond situation now exposed, declarer decided to forgo the spade finesse altogether. He cashed the ace of trumps and when the queen did not appear, he began running the hearts in order to take some immediate discards. On the third round of hearts, South parted with a diamond and West ruffed in with the queen of spades. Fortunately for the declarer, West was out of diamonds and when he put North back in with the ace of clubs, declarer was able to discard his remaining diamond on a high heart. South's losses on the deal consisted of one trick each in spades, hearts, and diamonds. He would have been defeated had he taken a finesse in spades. Defeat would have resulted also, if he did not duck one round of diamonds after East shifted to that suit.

The Worry Clinic Tragedy Could Teach A Child

Blackie's case shows how tragedy can often be a valuable form of emotional insurance for kiddies. Unless youngsters thus learn to face up to reality early in life, they may become psychiatric patients when they lose a loved one in adulthood. And salute men like Robert Brandkamp, who demonstrate sympathy, even for mongrel dogs!

he'd have appreciated her. So he brought Blackie back to us. Our daughter Judy arrived with her 3 kiddies to visit us over Easter and they reached us the same day that Robert returned Blackie. They cared for her tenderly but she got progressively worse, so Mrs. Crane finally took her over to our own veterinarian. He said infection had set in so he would be forced to amputate one, and probably both, of her hind legs. Thus, he suggested putting Blackie to sleep. Blackie belonged to 9-year-old Peter, but Matthew and Debby also loved her. So Judy took the children upstairs into her bedroom for a family powwow. She explained all the facts, pro and con, and let the children decide what should be done. It was a sad event. But they finally voted to follow the advice of the veterinary doctor. But Peter demanded that the body be given back to him. For he wanted Blackie buried on the hill beside our other dogs and cats that have gone ahead to their "Happy Hunting Grounds." They dug her grave and fixed her a cardboard casket, which they covered with flowers. It was a tearful farewell. But such incidents help children mature and face life more resolutely in adulthood. They also promote the type of sympathy that made Robert to back to try to help the injured Blackie, for he had lost his pet dog in his own childhood.

Alan Chan To Be Guest Speaker

Alan Chan, a native of China and a sophomore at East Carolina University, will be the guest speaker at the 11 a.m. worship service at the First Christian Church on Sunday. Chan's talk will be the highlight of the Woman's Day service which is held each year in Christian churches throughout the world. This is a day set aside to enlighten and promote interest in mission work and offers a challenge to people to become involved in breaking down barriers which have divided the church, divided men and the world.

Colorado was the 38th state to be admitted to the union. It joined the others in 1876.

Big Tanker Sinking In Stormy Sea

By JACK SCHRIEBMAN
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A tanker with 41 men aboard and loaded with 280,000 gallons of jet fuel was slowly sinking in the storm-tossed Pacific 250 miles west of Los Angeles today as rescue boats and helicopters sped to the scene.

A C130 aircraft circling above the stricken S.S. Connecticut reported the 676-foot ship's first deck, the well deck jammed with cargo fuel pipes, was awash.

There was no immediate word on the crewmen, said Coast Guard spokesmen coordinating the rescue operation here.

The refrigerator ship Tsuneshima Maru reached the tanker 4 1/2 hours after the distress call went out and was standing by in case the master decided to abandon ship.

The tanker's master, who was not identified, radioed that the Japan-bound ship, which left Los Angeles Thursday, was taking in water through driveshaft tubes connecting the engine room to the propellers.

Because of a power failure, the ship's pumps ground to a halt.

The Coast Guard C130 dropped emergency pumps to the ship, but it was not known whether the crewmen had retrieved them.

The Connecticut's captain reported his ship was being tossed by winds up to 69 miles an hour and seas 15 to 20 feet high.

Three merchant ships—the Oriental Pearl, the Buckeye Alliance and the Hawaiian Builder—were reported speeding to the scene.

The Coast Guard also dispatched the cutter Rush from San Francisco, the cutter Cape Hedge from Morro Bay, Calif., and two helicopters and another cutter from San Diego, Calif.

Connecticut Transport Co. of New York was listed as the owner of the Yokohama-bound tanker.

Council . . .

the city is prohibited from entering into agreements with unions as a bargaining agent for municipal employees.

Reid pointed out that agreements could be made on a non-contractual basis as a policy matter, but that "it is not in my province as city attorney to suggest action on policy matters."

Mayor Wooten remarked: "This means that a member of the Fire Department with a problem will take it to the Fire Chief, who will take it to the City Manager and then to us, if necessary."

A request for a dine and dance permit for the Elbow Room was deferred until the next regular meeting.

The council, in discussing the creation of a Traffic Safety Commission, recommended that the Citizen's Advisory Committee be asked to form such a commission. The council members stated they recognize the need for a traffic safety commission, and feel that the Citizen's Advisory Committee is the body most suitable to pursue the matter.

Approval was given for the relocation of a Kiwk Pik from its present site to a new site on Hooker Road in the vicinity of Glendale Court Apartments.

A motion was approved to permit the city forces to create additional credits on the Shore Drive Project by having them grade the site of the now demolished Sycamore Hill Church, and to complete street improvements on First Street west of Pitt Street to the project boundary.

A request by Mrs. Herman Nobles to place a mobile home on Myrtle Avenue for compassionate reasons was deferred until the next meeting. The request asks for the mobile home to be installed in June of 1970.

Several matters not included on the agenda were taken up. These include:

A resolution read by councilman Dr. Frank Fuller, on behalf of the Board of Directors of Sheppard Memorial Library, and for the city of Greenville, officially voices appreciation to the staff and librarian, Miss Elizabeth Copeland, for their outstanding services to the community during the difficult period when construction was underway.

Councilman Percy Cox raised the question "is there an ordinance against the use of fireworks in the city." Police Chief Tommy Gladson stated there was. Cox then remarked that cherry bombs are being exploded in the schools. Cox then noted, "There is a movement going on to get police back in the schools due to the cherry bomb incidents."

Councilman Jerry Sutherland stated: "I feel it is up to the School Board to handle this matter. I'm against the City Council sending police into the schools on their own."

City Manager Hagerty noted that "the police are aware of this incident and are investigating."

V.L. Bounds To Address DSA Event

The chairman of this year's Greenville Jaycee Distinguished Service Award and Bosses Night, Ted Gartman, announced that V. L. (Lee) Bounds, commissioner with the N. C. State Department of Correction, will be the featured speaker at the DSA banquet next week.

Bounds, now living in Raleigh, is known nationally for his contributions in the field of correction. Gartman pointed out that there are Jaycee chapters in several prisons in the state that allow young people in town and in prison to work together.

This year's banquet and awards presentation, scheduled for Thursday, Jan. 22, will be the 24th recognition of outstanding young men in the Greenville area by the local chapter.

The DSA recipient is selected each year from a group of nominees by a panel of five judges. The nominee must be at least 21 years old and have not reached his 36th birthday, Gartman said.

Nomination forms have been received by all of the civic clubs, churches, and members of the Chamber of Commerce Merchants Association in addition to being placed in most of the local banks.

Gartman said that all nominations must be turned in by midnight tonight, and should be mailed to W. T. Gartman Jr., 2106 Charles Street.

Houlik Is Elected To World Congress

James Houlik, Assistant Professor of Saxophone at East Carolina University, has been elected to the executive committee of the World Saxophone Congress.

Houlik was elected to the executive committee during the first annual meeting in Chicago in late December. He was among more than 500 saxophonists from the United States and several foreign countries attending the annual meeting.

As a member of the executive committee, Houlik will assist in directing the activities of the World Saxophone Congress during 1970 and help to organize the Second World Congress which will be held in Chicago next December.

Described by the Washington, D. C. star newspaper as "a major saxophonist of his day," Houlik has been actively performing on tours in New York, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and the Carolinas in recent years. His appointment to the executive committee recognizes him as a performer and teacher of prominence.

Executing Marie Hill Genocide

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy and several hundred followers marched through biting cold on North Carolina's Capitol Thursday to ask for mercy for Marie Hill, who faces execution in the gas chamber for murder.

Abernathy, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, conferred briefly at the Capitol with Fred Morrison, Gov. Bob Scott's legal aid, and gubernatorial assistants Ben Roney and David Murray.

Scott was out of the city on personal business.

"We come here because we have no other place to go," Abernathy told Morrison. "We pray that you will transmit (to Scott) not only our words, but also our spirit, our peaceful attitude."

Abernathy said that if the 18-year-old Negro girl is executed, "it will be another act of genocide practiced against the poor people of this country."

The Negro leader earlier told a news conference he felt Scott should act immediately, "and not engage in further delays" which "can only foment discontent and discord."

The North Carolina Supreme Court recently upheld Miss Hill's death sentence and her conviction for the murder of W. E. Strum, a Rocky Mount merchant, during a robbery. Her lawyers are now appealing to the U.S. Supreme Court.

After flying here from Washington, Abernathy addressed about 700 persons at a rally in Memorial Auditorium, five blocks from the capitol, before leading most of the group on a march to the Capitol.

Abernathy wore a quilt given him by a Hyde County Negro cooperative, Poor People, Inc., to ward off the 19-degree temperature.

"North Carolina has always enjoyed the reputation as a leader of the states of the South," Abernathy told Morrison. "We have always looked upon North Carolina as a leader."

Now, he said, Scott has a "marvelous opportunity to prove that justice still prevails."

Morrison reminded Abernathy that Scott had stated earlier this week he would not consider executive clemency in the case until all legal recourse has been exhausted.
