LIVING COSTS—Chart shows rise in the cost of living to 131.3 for 1969, a 6.1 per cent increase in prices for the year, the government reported Monday. It was the most inflationary year since 1951, the government said. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans in 1969 paid more for everything from houses to hamburger in the worst inflation in 20 years, the government said in reporting a 6.1 per cent rise in living costs for last year.

And some 45 million rank-and-file workers were caught in the squeeze of rising prices and a slowing economy under President Nixon's efforts to combat inflation, losing more purchasing power than they gained in pay, Monday's report said.

"For 1969 as a whole, increases in consumer prices eroded all of the gain in earnings," the Labor Department said in reporting that average pay of $117.25 a week last month was up $6.87 over the year but worth $7.15 less in the market place.

A big December grocery price rise of 1.6 per cent, accounting for half the month's rise in living costs, wound up 1969 food price hikes at a total of 7.2 per cent.

Hamburger at 64.2 cents a pound was up 12.3 cents or 24 per cent over the year, eggs at 77.9 cents a dozen were up 11.5 cents or 17 per cent, lettuce was 9.8 cents or 31 per cent a head higher at 40.8 cents and milk was 2 cents or 3.6 per cent higher per half-gallon over the year, said the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Meat and bread also were higher, said the bureau. "The costs of services associated with home ownership continued their upward trend," rising five-tenths of one per cent in December for a 6.7 per cent hike in housing costs for the year, it said.

Clothing and transportation were up 5.2 per cent each in 1969, medical care rose 6 per cent and recreation 3.8 per cent.

The December hike in overall living costs pushed the Consumer Price Index up six-tenths of one per cent to 131.3 per cent of its 1957-59 base.

The index figure means every $10 worth of typical family living costs 10 years ago cost $13.13 last month, 76 cents more than in 1968.

The 6.1 per cent rise in living costs for the year, highest for any 12-month period since November 1950, to November 1951 when Korean War wage-price controls were imposed, clipped more than 1 cent off the value of the 1968 dollar, and reduced the value of the 1957-59 dollar to 76.2 cents.

"The weekly take-home pay for workers with three dependents averaged $99.99 in 1969, 4.9 per cent higher than in 1968. After adjustment for price increases, however, real net spendable earnings—purchasing power in 1957-59 terms—averaged $78.30, four-tenths of one per cent lower than 1968's record and also below the 1965 and 1966 levels," the bureau said.

Construction workers gained $6.16 a week in purchasing power in 1969 and miners $3.14 because of higher wage increases in those industries, but workers in manufacturing averaged 34 cents less a week in purchasing power and workers in retail and wholesale trade lost 18 cents a week.

Pageant Is Set Tonight

Wright Auditorium on the campus of East Carolina University will be the scene tonight of the Jaycee sponsored "Miss Greenville Pageant 1970," with Maria Beale Fletcher, former Miss American of 1962, serving as mistress of ceremonies.

Tickets are available at the university student union and at various Greenville businesses or from any member of the Greenville Jaycees. Tickets are also available at the door.

Activities are scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Also expected tonight are Patricia Elaine Johnson, Miss North Carolina 1970 and Patty Stimmell, Miss Greenville of 1969.

Many Killed In Furious Pounding North Viet Battalions 'Caught'

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. forces caught a large number of North Vietnamese in a clearing about three miles from the Cambodian border today and killed 234 of them, military spokesman said.

They reported that the size of the enemy force was estimated at two battalions. The actual number was not given. A North Vietnamese battalion generally numbers around 500 men, but at times varies between 300 and 600 men.

It was the biggest strike of its kind against the enemy since June, according to U.S. headquarters.

The battle occurred near the Bu Dop Special Forces camp, 88 miles north of Saigon, scene of heavy fighting early last month.

Most of the enemy were killed under a furious pounding by U.S. artillery and aircraft, field reports said.

American casualties were described as negligible.

Field reports said the engagement was triggered when some enemy soldiers fired at a low-flying American reconnaissance helicopter.

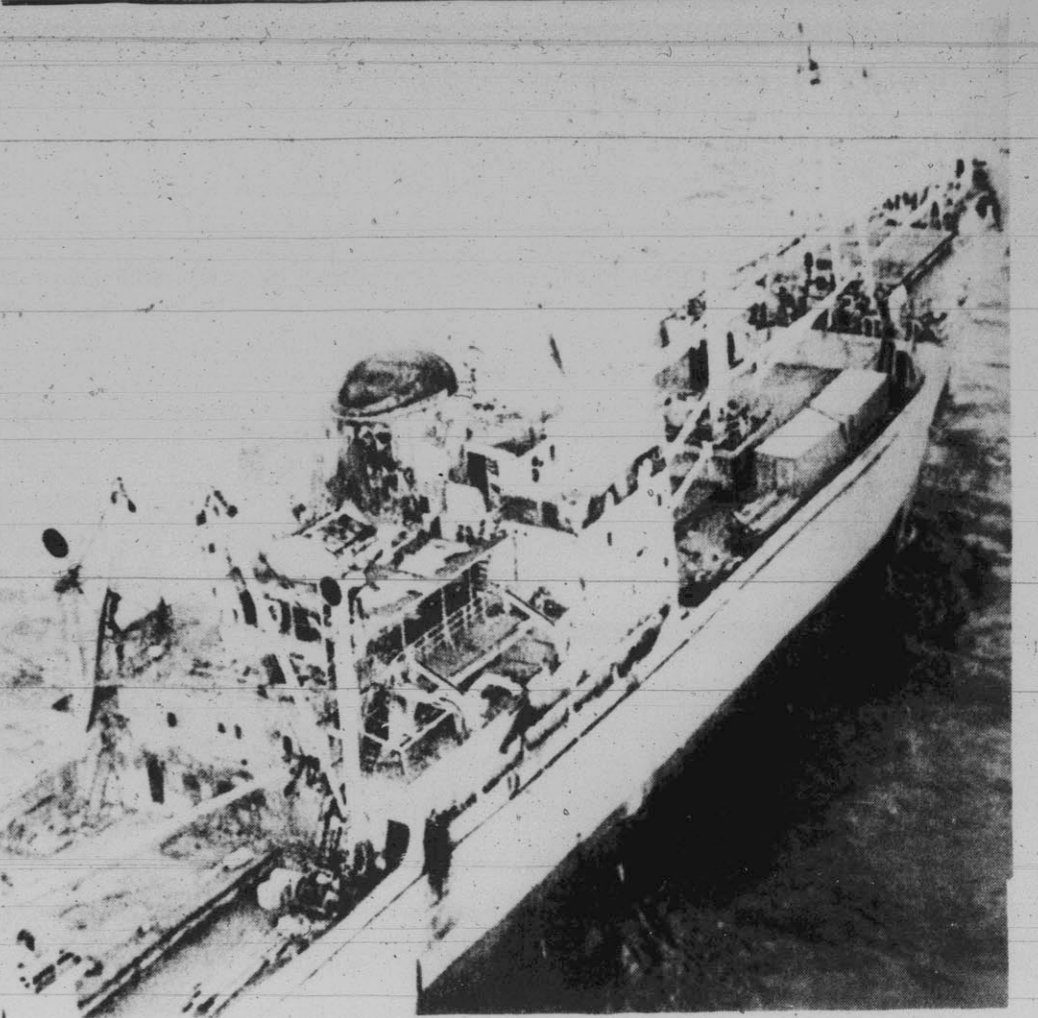

U.S. forces struck back with a heavy barrage of artillery and air strikes followed by a counterthrust with troops of the 11th U.S. Armored Cavalry Regiment.

U.S. officers said 207 of the reported enemy kills were attributed to the air and artillery barrage. Troops of the 11th Armored Cavalry were credited with killing 27 enemy.

During the attack, they said, 455 rounds of 155mm shells were lobbed into the enemy positions. More than a score of helicopter gunships and fighter planes raked the enemy.

Some of the enemy force were believed to have scattered in scrub jungle near the border.

On Monday night American B52 bombers kept up raids in the Mekong Delta area in efforts to keep North Vietnamese troops from massing for a Tet offensive next month.

Co-Chairmen Of Awareness Group Elected

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Dr. Robert Lee Humber and Rev. John Taylor were elected co-chairman of Greenville's citizens awareness committee at a meeting following their brief one with the assembled student and faculty body at Rose High yesterday morning.

Their appointment was in the form of temporary co-chairmen to become permanent upon the approval of the committee members who were not present.

Mrs. Erma Daniels and Mrs. Liz Wilkerson were elected as permanent secretaries. Election of two permanent secretaries was to assure that coverage would be possible at all times at all the meetings.

Dr. Humber, presiding over a meeting last night, enumerated, and the members accepted, the basic findings and recommendations resulting from the four hour meeting.

Citing four main points established — two in the form of findings and two in the form of recommendations, Dr. Humber said: "There was an evident lack of preparation on the part of the administration and parents in general in preparing students for integration at Rose High School this year."

"There seems also an evident lack by the administration in giving serious consideration to a number of student requests."

The two recommendations to be offered to the administration for their consideration, as outlined by Dr. Humber are: "The impartial enforcement of rules and regulations to improve discipline," and "the Student Government Association be reinforced and given additional authority in certain school matters."

Dr. Humber and other members of the committee stressed several times the fact that the purpose of the committee is one of a public forum to consider all the facts from all sides, to make efforts to pinpoint

Angrily Leaves Farewell Dinner

JERUSALEM (AP) — George Brown, deputy leader of Britain's Labor party, angrily left a farewell dinner in his honor after an argument with Gen. Haim Herzog, Israel's top military commander.

Herzog said later Brown became annoyed Sunday night during a discussion of the prospect of Israeli negotiations with the Arabs to end fighting in the Mideast.

Brown, who flew back to London Monday, was completing a four-day visit to Israel.

sources of friction, and to make recommendations to help solve problems arising from frictions.

Three white students and four Negro students were present at last night's meeting. Each was given an opportunity to speak informally about his feelings in all matters connected with the school.

One general consensus developed from the expressions of both Negro and white students — that discipline has not been consistent at the school, resulting in a sense of frustration on the part of students.

Committee member D.D. Garrett, referring to talks he had with a number of Negro girls stated: "These children had been told while they were at Eppes to expect firm discipline. When they didn't find this discipline, they changed. Several have told me they have done things they were ashamed of."

Tim Leith, the white student injured in a scuffle Monday, stated: "Discipline at Rose High was much stricter last year and the years before. Many of the students believe teachers became lax because they were afraid of being accused of discrimination, so they let things go."

Herbert Gardner, a Negro student, following Leith's comment declared: "If black students had been disciplined when they first came here they would not have had the feeling they were being discriminated against."

Another black student, Melvin Smith, said: "When you were at

Snow, Sleet And Rainfall

A mixture of snow, sleet and rain fell over the Greenville and Pitt County area last night but by morning the streets and roads were clear.

A total of .03 of an inch of precipitation fell over the area, according to the Greenville Utilities Commission weather station.

The high temperature for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today was reported at 40 degrees while the low for that period was set at 26 degrees. The temperature at 8 a.m. today was 28 degrees.

The high temperature for the 24 hour period ending Monday at 8 a.m. was 52 degrees and the low was set at 34.

The Tar River level was reported at 3.2 feet and steady.

Point To 'Special' Situation

In anticipation of the upcoming ruling of Federal Judge John Larkins on the total desegregation of the Pitt County Schools the Pitt County Good Neighbor Council and the Pitt County Interracial Society last night decided to check with Judge Larkins on the situation in Pitt County.

In a joint meeting with members of the Pitt County Board of Education as guests the two groups voted to see if Judge Larkins would consider a special situation in Pitt.

Pitt County Superintendent of Schools Arthur Alford told the two groups that only one of the four consolidated high schools now under construction will be completed by September. The other three are scheduled to be completed by January 1971.

"A total desegregation order for September would impose two automatic periods of adjustment for the students involved with the three new schools," Alford explained. "They would be desegregated in September and then reassigned on completion of the new schools in January."

Alford commented briefly on his efforts to achieve harmonious desegregation in the Pitt County Schools. He distributed copies of the directives he has been providing the school faculties with.

The superintendent explained how the Pitt County Guidance Counselors and Social and Medical Counselors were helping to deal with specific difficulties as well as contributing to the whole process.

Supreme Court Nominee Queried Beforehand By U.S. Attorney General

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, working hard to smooth the way for Supreme Court nominee George Harrold Carswell, sent Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell to Capitol Hill as an advance man to forestall ethics questions.

Hours before Judge Carswell himself was told by the President he was his choice and hours before Monday's public announcement, Mitchell was closeted with top Republicans, displaying financial statements to show there would be no Haynsworth-like problems.

The information in hand, GOP leaders were able to rally quickly behind the Floridian when White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler made the selection public in mid-afternoon.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska, senior Republican on the Judiciary Committee, which begins hearings on the nomination next Tuesday, was able to tell reporters approvingly that Carswell has had "a minimum of business dealings" since he entered public life as a U.S. attorney in 1953.

And GOP Senate Whip Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, a Republican who fought Nixon's nomination of Judge Clement F.

Haynsworth Jr. to the same seat, said: "The reports thus far have been very favorable and I hope the Senate will be able to confirm the nomination without delay."

The Haynsworth nomination failed partly because of a series of ethics allegations leveled at the South Carolina Judge. Many of the charges appeared to take the administration and GOP Senate leaders by surprise.

Carswell, 50, in a news conference at his home north of Tallahassee, said: "I have my home and a few parcels of real property I inherited from my father and my grandfather."

Hruska said the judge and his wife have a net worth of about $200,000. Hruska said their assets include some Georgia timberland and an interest in the Alberta Box and Crate Co.

The senator said with three children attending college Carswell has a mortgage on his home.

Examination of the judge's judicial record showed he ruled against airport and barbershop segregation in Tallahassee, but also ruled against attempts to force the integration of swimming pools and theaters in the city.

In the 1965 swimming pool ruling, Carswell said closing the facilities following a "wade-in" by blacks "may seem tragically absurd but such decision is clearly under the law a function and responsibility of the elected public officials."

Since neither whites nor blacks could be served by closed pools, he reasoned, there was nothing discriminatory about the city's refusal to provide facilities. Within the U.S. Judicial Conference, Carswell has supported efforts to set new standards of ethical behavior for judges and to have them disclose their finances.

A Georgia-born Democrat who became a Republican in 1952, Carswell was appointed chief judge of the U.S. district court in Tallahassee in 1958 by President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Nixon, who was Eisenhower's vice president and with whom Carswell remembers shaking hands at a reception, elevated the judge last spring to the U.S. Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Said 'No' To Hershey's Job

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — John Pont, head football coach at Indiana University, says he has passed up a presidential invitation to become director of Selective Service.

Pont said Monday night an aide to President Nixon telephoned him about three weeks ago asking him to succeed the retiring director, Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey.

The 42-year-old coach said he took three weeks to consider the offer because "it was too important to say no right off the bat. I finally decided I wanted to coach a little while longer. That is still my first love."

Ponder Converting City Elementary School

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville Board of Education last night agreed to study the possibility of converting one of the current elementary schools into a junior high facility and transferring students at the converted school to other units of the elementary system.

Following discussion of a report submitted by Bigger and Agnew, Inc., Engineers of Raleigh, which concluded that the cost of remodeling the buildings at Eppes High School, now being used as a junior high, would "exceed value received," board members agreed to study other possibilities.

Board member, Dr. James Bearden, pointed out that "we are looking for another building to be used as a public school and I believe that we have enough space at one of the elementary schools to form a new junior high."

One possibility mentioned last night was the conversion of the Third Street Elementary School which currently has 318 students. Also, South Greenville was considered for further study.

Superintendent Dr. C.C. Cleetwood said that logically, South Greenville would probably be a better choice over the Third Street School mainly because of the limited library space at the latter facility.

Cleetwood said that at present, there are a total of 71 classroom units available in the elementary system in the city, including mobile classrooms. Transfer of students at the designated conversion facility to these units throughout the system would be a possibility, he said.

The question of transportation and other matters still require a great deal of consideration before deciding on a conversion, Cleetwood added.

Not completely giving up the idea of possible remodeling at Eppes, Louis Gaylord commented, "Apparently law forbids the freedom of choice regarding to schools and many students now resent the fact that they had to go to another school."

Survey recommendations concluded that only the combination cafeteria and gymnasium building appeared to be in "relatively good condition and could be utilized in present condition or with moderate repairs." Other buildings at the school would not merit the expense of repairs, it said.

In preparation for next month's meeting, board chairman Dr. E.B. Aycock asked Cleetwood to prepare a list of alternatives relative to the school conversion and present them to the board.

In other matters last night, board members decided that further study on the possibility of forming a Citizen's Advisory Council could be discontinued for the time being in view of the weekend formation of a Citizen's (Continued On Page 10)

Man Bites Dog

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — Here it is: a "man bites dog" story.

Harrison E. Saulman of Morganton says he picked up a small dog and bit it in the neck. "Aggravation," he explained.

Saulman said he walked up to the home of a customer on his newspaper route and was bothered by a tiny mutt acting ferocious around his ankles.

"If you pick one of them up and shake him and bite him real good, he won't come back," Saulman said. "So I bit him in the neck."

The dog didn't even try to bite back, Saulman said. "He just lapped out."

Doctors Told Explain Risks Of Taking 'The Pill'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration has told doctors they should explain the risks of high blood pressure, liver damage, diabetes and cancer to women taking oral contraceptive pills even though the agency has no definite proof of any such link. The FDA also announced Monday manufacturers will be required to strengthen the label warnings about a link between the pill and blood clots. Meanwhile, the producers of a low-hormone "minipill" oral contraceptive announced it has halted testing with humans because the drug had produced tumors in dogs. The much-heralded pill has been tested up to two years on some 3,000 U.S. women and has been in use in France, Mexico and Britain. Syntex Laboratories Inc. of Palo Alto, Calif., announced the decision, which comes as a blow to U.S. pill researchers. The firm said some tumors in the dogs were cancerous, some were pre-cancerous and some benign. The firm said no cancer had been found in women taking part in the tests. It said tests will continue with dogs and monkeys.

The FDA, in suggesting fuller discussion with patients of the risks of oral contraceptive pills, sent letters to 381,000 physicians, hospital pharmacists and hospital administrators. The letter pointed to a recent British study that found clotting linked particularly to oral contraceptives with high estrogen content. FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards said women should be made fully aware of the risks "thus permitting the participation of the patient in the assessment of the risk associated with this method" of oral contraception.

In strengthening the labeling regulation, the agency is acting on the findings of an FDA advisory committee which said a link between all oral contraceptives and certain blood clot disorders is now proven. Previously the labels were required only to mention that one study indicated a clot link. National concern—and controversy—over the pill has snowballed since last week when senators began hearing testimony on possible dangers of the oral contraceptives. Sen. Gaylord Nelson, rejecting criticism that his hearings into birth control pills have created an unwarranted scare, said Monday his probe has spotlighted an "honest dispute" among medical men. The hearings produced much testimony that the pill is suspected of causing or contributing to a wide variety of ailments, including cancer of the breast, cervix and uterus. None of the expert medical witnesses reported any hard evidence against the pill, however. The hearings resume for three days Wednesday and are expected to continue off and on for several months. Nelson commented after a weekend survey by the Associated Press indicated two days of testimony on potential hazards of the pill last week before his monopoly subcommittee created a wave of alarmed calls by women to their doctors. In Augusta, Ga., a doctor whose research led to the development of the pill charged the congressional hearings are politically motivated and misleading. Dr. Robert B. Greenblatt, 64, chairman of the endocrinology department of the medical college of Georgia, said six of the eight experts called to testify before Nelson's subcommittee are against the pill. "Why don't they invite some of us who are for the pill? The great silent majority isn't being heard from in this case," he said. Greenblatt didn't elaborate on his political motivation charge. The lineup of witnesses this week includes specialists who will testify on suspected links between the pill and blood clots, high blood pressure, metabolic changes, diabetes and liver damage. The subcommittee also will present expert testimony from at least one researcher flatly denying the pill causes any of these things.

Deputy's Quick Action Results In Two Arrests

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Quick action on the part of Cumberland County deputy Monday resulted in the arrest of two Fayetteville men who are accused of robbing a bank about an hour earlier. Deputy Donald M. Capps spotted a car at a U. S. 401 service station containing Vester Z. Riley, 30, and James Albert Howell, 21.

He radioed for assistance and arrested the pair in connection with the late afternoon robbery of $2,570 from a shopping center branch of Southern National Bank. An FBI spokesman said one of the men entered the bank about 4 p.m. and demanded money. He told the tellers he had a gun but did not display it, the spokesman said. All of the money was recovered, the spokesman said.

Welding Society To Hear Speaker In Rocky Mount

The training director of Miller Electric Manufacturing Company, Ed Pierre, will speak tonight in Rocky Mount at a meeting of the North Eastern Carolina Section of the American Welding Society.

A native of Portland, Oregon, Pierre's experience in welding includes welding operator, foreman, welding engineer, welding instructor and director of welding education.

Pierre has authored several books and papers about welding, including "Welding and the World of Metals" and "Gas Metal Arc Welding." A third book, "Welding Processes and Power Sources," is now used as a standard text and reference book in many vocational school and college welding programs.

In addition to the meeting, scheduled for 7 p.m. at Buck Overtons, there will also be a plant tour at Mitchell Engineering Company in Rocky Mount at 5 p.m.

J.A. Turner, publicity manager of NECS, said all members of the American Welding Society are invited to attend the meeting. Many members of the society are from the Greenville area, he said.

LYNN SIGNS

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Lynn Redgrave signed with Warner Bros. to star with James Coburn in "Blood Kin."

Meanwhile, the FBI has arrested one man and is searching for two others in connection with two bank robberies in Scotland County in November and December.

Chief FBI agent Robert M. Murphy of Charlotte said officers arrested Heul Locklear, 24, of Rt. 1, Rowland, early Monday.

He said warrants have been issued for two other men, whose identity could not be released. Murphy said Locklear was arrested at his home and arranged before U. S. Commissioner Charles B. Deane Jr. at Rockingham on two counts of bank robbery.

He is being held in Scotland County jail in Laurinburg under $50,000 bond and is scheduled for trial in the March term of federal court in Rockingham.

Locklear is charged with participating in the robbery of the Laurinburg Maxton Air Base branch of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. Nov. 14 and the Wagram branch of First Union National Bank Dec. 10.

Robbers netted $26,622 at gunpoint in the first holdup, and $29,314 at gunpoint in the second.

Murphy said another man has been charged with aiding Locklear in both robberies, and a third man is charged with participating in the Wagram robbery only.

FTC Says Food 'Specials' Few

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — When a housewife goes to market she often finds the food specials cost more than advertised or may not be there at all, the Federal Trade Commission says.

The FTC investigation last summer of 137 stores belonging to 10 food chains in San Francisco and Washington showed a "total of 11 per cent of the advertised items in the two cities were found to be unavailable, and only eight of the 137 stores checked had every advertised item available."

The findings were released as the FTC opened hearings today on a proposed commission rule to require food markets to specifically state in their advertising what stores have the bargains, and that specials go at the advertised price or below. Supporters of the rule and consumer groups were scheduled for the early part of the hearings. The chains and their trade associations will appear in a March session.

The FTC report further said the shortage of bargains was more acute in low-income or ghetto areas.

On pricing, the FTC found 8 to 9 per cent of the items mispriced compared to the ads, and:

"In a very substantial majority of the instances of deviations, the prices marked on the items were higher than the advertised prices."

An additional study of 154 Washington and Baltimore markets of nine chains turned up similar findings, the FTC said.

If the rule is adopted violators would be liable for legal action with the court determining the penalty.

Hold Hearing On Environment

A public hearing on environment and natural resources is being held in the Pitt County Courthouse today.

The hearing is being held in conjunction with action of the 1969 General Assembly which directed the State Board of Education to study the need for and formulate proposals relating to the introduction into public school curriculum of a study of environment and natural resources.

Rep. Norwood E. Bryan, who introduced the legislation and who serves as chairman of the Task Force conducting the study, and Dr. Edwin L. West, science education consultant for the State Department of Public Instruction, were scheduled to attend the hearing.

Bank Visited By Brownie Troop

Brownie Troop 451 visited Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. Monday afternoon, where Mrs. Hilda Buck explained the different denominations of money and showed the girls the vault.

They were shown new money and the mutilated money that was to be destroyed, and were given an explanation of how money was deposited and put into accounts.

Girls making the outing were Virginia Baker, Debra Boyd, Susan Beoudroux, Cindy Buck, Lisa Butts, Kim Daniels, Pam Evans, Susan Hudson and Sondra Padgett, and the leaders, Mrs. Mavis Butts and Mrs. Doris Hudson.

Whitehurst-Lilley Vows Spoken Sunday Afternoon

WASHINGTON — Miss Brenda Faye Lilley became the bride of Jimmy Ray Whitehurst on Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in the First Free Will Baptist Church here.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Roy Tripp Lilly of Washington and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dewey Whitehurst of Stokes.

The Rev. W.H. Willis of Kinston officiated at the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Ronald Crisp, organist, and Mrs. J. Kirk Briley, soloist.

The church was decorated with a background of greenery, baskets of flowers and lighted tapers. Single lighted tapers were used at each window of the sanctuary.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, wore a formal length gown of organza silk over mist taffeta. The bodice was designed with a modified mandarin neckline edged with chantilly lace in floral motifs re-embroidered in iridescents and pearls. The bouffant skirt repeated the lace motifs. Bracllet length sleeves and short mitts were worn.

Her elbow length veil was attached to a cluster of pearls and she carried a nosegay of white pom pom mums centered with a white hybrid orchid and tied with white streamers.

Miss Cathrine Lilley, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a floor length, princess styled gown of green peau de soie trimmed with green velvet ribbon. She carried a nosegay of yellow pom poms.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Betsy Slade and Mrs. Ada Taylor, who wore yellow dresses identical to the maid of honors. They carried two green mums.

Miss Tammy Johnson, niece of the bridegroom, served as flower girl. She wore a floor length white dress with a empire waist trimmed in green velvet ribbon. She carried a basket of rose petals.

The bridegroom's brother, Dewey Whitehurst of Greenville, served as best man. Ushers were Pete Johnson of Greenville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Leon Brown III of Stokes, cousin of the bridegroom. Stevie Smead, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer.

The mother of the bride was attired in a sapphire blue wool dress with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a salmon pink polyester knit dress and coat ensemble with matching accessories. Mrs. L.S. Brown, grandmother of the bridegroom, wore a jewel trimmed ice blue crepe dress with matching accessories. They all wore corsages of white carnations.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will reside in Winston-Salem where the bridegroom is employed at Amp. Inc.

Following the wedding a reception, given by the brides mother, was held in the church fellowship hall.

Greeting the guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Dickerson of Virginia, who directed them to the refreshment table.

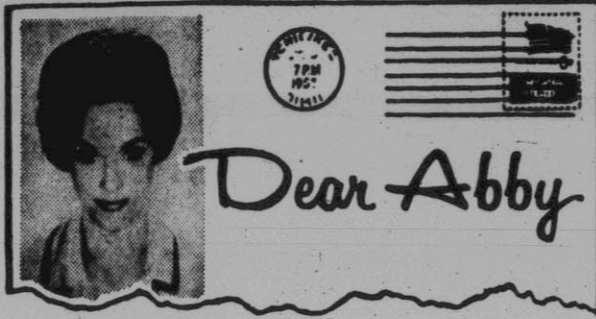

The table was covered with a white lace cloth over white and was centered with a floral arrangement.

Mrs. Pete Johnson poured punch and Mrs. Bonnie Crisp served guests the three tiered bridal cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Brown presided over register. Others assisting were Mrs. William Crandell, Mrs. Jessie Alexander, Mrs. Mary Paul, Mrs. Dewey Whitehurst and Mrs. Harvey Whitehurst.

The bride and bridegroom were honored at a buffet dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Whitehurst at the Holiday Inn in Washington Saturday evening, following the rehearsal. Attending were members of the wedding party, family and out-of-town guests.

Drop Boyfriend And Forget About Loan

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a respectable 29-year-old woman who lives alone and supports myself.

I recently met a very attractive man [31] who showed a very serious interest in me right from the start. He spoke of our future together and I honestly believed that I had finally found my man. He asked me how much I had in the bank, and I told him. Then he asked to borrow $800. He is a salesman and said he was doing "fabulously" well, so this didn't add up. I asked him if he'd sign a note, and he said if he wanted to sign a note, he'd borrow from a bank.

Now I don't know what to think. Half of me tells me not to trust him and half of me tells me I love him. BAFFLED

DEAR BAFFLED: Listen to the half with the brains in it and tell your boyfriend to get lost. Lover boys who mix money with moonlight are poor risks.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently moved into a nice three-story building in an apartment complex. Our problem has to do with the couple living directly beneath us.

Everything they do is on a fortissimo level. We would not complain about ordinary noises, as both my husband and I teach and are gone during the daytime, but the evening noise is of a very intimate nature and it gets to be very annoying.

I imagine they are newlyweds because we have been disturbed by the sounds of their lovemaking at all hours of the night and early morning. Weekends are unpredictable. It is impossible for us to have guests over since these sounds can be easily heard in our living room.

The apartments are well built, believe me. These people are LOUD! We have never heard any other neighbors.

Moving is out of the question since we have signed a lease, and besides, my husband's library of about 4,000 volumes took considerable time and money to set up here.

Is there a tactful way to deal with these people?

"THE PEOPLE UPSTAIRS"

DEAR PEOPLE: The direct approach is the best one. Either ask your husband to have a man-to-man talk with the man downstairs. Or YOU have a woman-to-woman talk with the lady.

DEAR ABBY: A few weeks ago my parents had a big fight with the family across the street. [They were once very good friends.] My father told us kids that we were never to set foot on their property again, and we were forbidden to even speak to any of their children.

My problem is that I care a lot for the daughter of those people. In fact, we dig each other a lot more than our parents know.

Not wanting to lie and sneak, I told my father that I didn't think he had any right to tell me that I couldn't even speak to this girl any more just because he had a fight with her folks. He got real mad and said if I ever spoke to that girl again, he'd make me sorry. Do you think that's fair? Abby, I can't stop seeing her, and I don't intend to. I am 17, and so is she. I would like your opinion. CAN'T SLEEP

DEAR CAN'T: I, too, think your father is being very unfair. But until you are able to leave his bed and board and make your own way, he's the boss. And unless he's a stubborn, bull-headed tyrant, if you behave yourself and don't show your anger, he may reconsider and reverse his decision.

DEAR ABBY: That gal signed "BUNNY" should have signed herself "DUMB BUNNY." She whined to you about all the nice single gals who went on skiing week-ends in search of husbands, and found only married ski bums. Then she asks YOU to appeal to the wives of these ski bums to keep their husbands home.

Tell BUNNY that just because a man says he's "married," doesn't necessarily mean he is. I know lots of skiers who claim to be married just to eliminate Bunny after the week-end. WEEK-END SKIER

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

COOKING IS FUN!

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor
EVENING REFRESHER
Smooth and rich, this filling and frosting is an epicurean delight.
Fresh Fruit
Layer Cake with Chocolate Butter-Cream Frosting
CHOCOLATE BUTTER-CREAM FROSTING
6 squares (6 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate
1 cup water
4 yolks, from large eggs
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1/2 pound (2 sticks) firm-chilled butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

LOW-CALORIE DINNER
Add extra flavor interest to frozen chopped broccoli.
Broiled Hamburgers Carrots
Lettuce, Citrus Fruit and Cottage Cheese Salad
1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped broccoli
1 tablespoon instant onion
1 can (3 ounces) chopped broiled mushrooms
Cook the broccoli according to package directions adding the onion and using the liquid from the mushrooms for part of the water called for. Drain; add mushrooms; reheat. Makes four average servings.

Into a double-boiler top turn chocolate and water; melt over hot water; cool thoroughly. In a small deep mixing bowl beat yolks until thickened and lemon color.

In a heavy one or one and a half quart saucepan boil corn syrup until syrup spins a thread when dropped from spoon—238 degrees on a candy thermometer. Pour syrup very slowly over beaten yolks, beating constantly; beat until very thick and pale-colored. Refrigerate to cool thoroughly—about 30 minutes.

In a small bowl beat butter to soften and have creamy (but not runny); add to cold syrup mixture; beat until blended. Add chocolate and vanilla; beat until slightly blended. If frosting is too soft to spread, chill until just stiff enough to swirl. Spread between layers and on sides and top of three eight-inch or two nine-inch layer cakes. Store cake in refrigerator. After frosting is chilled and firm it may be covered with transparent plastic film.

Garden Club Meets Thursday

The Dig and Delve Garden Club met Thursday morning at the home of Mrs. Allen Taylor with Mrs. Bill Watson as co-hostess.

Mrs. Max Joyner, president, conducted the business session. Boxes of floral notes made for garden clubs were distributed to members.

Following the meeting, a silent auction was held by the members.

Everyone of us spends twenty four hours every day of our lives growing older. Why not spend thirty minutes of each day staying young? A prettier more charming you will not only help you feel more of a woman, but those around you will be more appreciative. Remember... it's so much easier to do just a little each day than to try to do it all when that special occasion springs up.

N.C. Enters Important Field

It is gratifying that a $35,000 grant has been approved for East Carolina University by the Governor's Committee on Law and Order. The grant, from federal funds, will be supplemented by another $31,000 in state funds.

Funds will be used to provide undergraduate training for men and women interested in pursuing careers in law enforcement and correction work.

Thus the state, through this program at East Carolina University, will soon be moving into the important field of providing university level training in law enforcement and correction.

It has long been recognized that programs of this type are going to be needed if law enforcement is to obtain the kind of leadership it needs to carry out the more complicated job of maintaining law and order, while still protecting individual rights. Finally the time has come for higher education to move into this field and we are proud that ECU is at the forefront. These state and federal funds will be used to provide the planning and curriculum necessary to get the program underway. We feel that these funds will be put to the best possible use in improving law enforcement in North Carolina.

Many Willing To Help Share Wealth Burden

Whatever else Michael Brody has accomplished in his campaign to give away his fortune, he has surely attracted a lot of attention.

There have been appearances on the Tonight Show and on Sunday's Ed Sullivan Show. Over the weekend crowds followed him around, many of them apparently turning downright unfriendly when the cash ran out.

Brody, according to news reports, finally had police clear out the house as he ran out of checks.

Young Brody may find the millions he inherited a burden in this world, but he has quickly found out how badly the masses want it. It is going to be interesting to see how the campaign to give away a fortune goes from here.

Multi-Billion Veto Pressure

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK WASHINGTON

President Nixon's grave concern over sustaining his promised veto of the Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) appropriation bill is explained by an incident last week involving a friendly Republican Congressman and the White House.

The Congressman privately informed the White House that he is under extreme political pressure from local politicians—and the superintendent of public schools in his district—to vote to override the Presidential veto. The alternative: risking a political black eye back home.

The school superintendent flatly warned the Congressman that, if the veto sticks, the reduction in Federal aid to the Congressman's own district will force school authorities to seek higher property taxes—principal source of financing for public schools. Most of the $1.2 billion that Congress added to the money bill—and not wanted by Mr. Nixon—is earmarked for education.

The menace of higher property taxes is the major scare tactic now used by the education lobby, joined by the powerful Congressional lobby of the AFL-CIO, to pressure Republicans to override the veto. With Democrats giving the veto issue top party priority, President Nixon has taken personal charge of the Administration's strategy and may go to the country in a short televised political talk before the vote in the next three weeks.

One argument against that is the risk of over-exposure, following his State of the Union message next Thursday. Nevertheless, a special Presidential telecast is possible because Mr. Nixon feels that his whole battle to balance the budget will stand or fall on the vote to override his HEW veto.

"That's the ballgame for this whole session," one Administration aide told us. "Lose that and we lose the game." At stake, in short, is not just one billion dollars but many billions to be voted on this year.

With two-thirds (289 votes) in the House required to override a veto, the White House needs only 145 to sustain it. But economy-minded Nixon allies among the Democrats, like Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, are deserting him.

Mills and many other Southern Democrats represent districts that profit from Federal handouts to impacted areas—the very payments that the Democratic Congress padded in the HEW bill. With Southern Democrats against him, Mr. Nixon now is wholly dependent on Republicans—such as the one who last week was pressured by his school superintendent.

Young VISTA Chief?

In his still-continuing reorganization of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), poverty czar Donald Rumsfeld is seriously considering the appointment of a 23-year-old White House aide to head one of the agency's major divisions—much to the despair of OEO bureaucrats.

Richard Blumenthal, Harvard '67, is one of only three being considered to head VISTA—Volunteers In Service To America (the domestic Peace Corps).

After Harvard, Blumenthal joined the Washington Post and served as assistant to publisher Katherine Graham before being recruited for the White House staff a year ago by Dr. Daniel Patrick Moynihan. On Moynihan's now defunct Urban Affairs Council staff, Blumenthal favorably impressed older and conservative White House aides. Recently, he has worked closely with Rumsfeld on the poverty program.

The only obstacle to Blumenthal's appointment is his age. Hearing the word via the grapevine, VISTA bureaucrats bristled in the mistaken belief that President Nixon is imposing a juvenile on them.

End Run at HEW
The recent order by Robert Finch, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), ending the department's longtime practice of blackballing scientists with suspected left-of-center beliefs from becoming consultants resulted from an end-run around his legal advisor: Robert Mardian, general counsel at HEW.

Tyranny From The Bench

The decision by three Federal judges here in Washington, denying tax exemption to certain private schools in Mississippi, comes as one more intolerable usurpation of judicial power.

The action cannot be condoned, and it must be swiftly undone by the Congress.

The law could not be more clear. Under Section 501 (c) (3) of the Tax Code, a non-profit organization is exempt from Federal taxes if it is organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary "or educational" purposes, provided only that it stays out of lobbying and politics. Roughly 50,000 such institutions have qualified formally for the cumulative list of exempt organizations maintained by the Internal Revenue Service.

These exempt organizations include institutions that are all black, all white, all Christian, and all Jew. Until the moment of this autocratic court decree, the act of Congress prevailed: It was necessary to ask only if the institution in question met the requirements of law. If so, it qualified automatically, and gifts to such institutions became deductible in computing one's income tax.

The effect of last week's injunction is to elevate the whims, caprices, and obsessions of Federal judges to a level never contemplated under our form of government. If a drastic change were to be made in the interpretation of Section 501 (c) (3), such a change might first be the prerogative of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. No commissioner ever has sought such power. More precisely, such a change involves a profound question of legislative policy: It is the business of Congress. And in its recent comprehensive revisions of the Tax Code, Congress made no move whatever to limit tax exemptions to racially integrated institutions only.

Why did the three judges rule as they did? I do not challenge their sincerity. (Continued On Page 5)

Other Editors Say Back To Nature

(Christian Science Monitor)

By their conscious adherence to the Golden Mean, the ancient Greeks created a civilization and a culture which remain among the wonders of the world. Whether artistically, culturally, or politically, the Greeks sought to avoid whatever was lopsided. Although there were men of excess among them, these were not the human heroes whom the Greeks most admired.

According to all indications, the decade of the 1970's will see a further unbalance in one of the most important aspects of American life. It will see a further concentration of the population in the already unhealthy overcrowded urban and metropolitan areas. And while the great core cities may not rise sharply in population, many of their outlying suburbs seemed destined to become crowded areas, unless...

Unless there is a definite, long-range, immense-scope public and private program to offset this ceaseless urbanization. More than once in the recent past these columns have called for such a program and effort. We have advocated deliberate national planning aimed at creating new centers of population and new reasons for such centers.

Now Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin has joined the crusaders, asking for national policies specifically designed to bring about "unprecedented growth" in rural areas. We hope his words will be heeded. They are full of good sense. His report advocates "that we create in and around the smaller cities and town sufficiently good employment opportunities and living environments that larger and larger numbers of families will choose to rear their children there."

As we look back upon the events of recent years, and at the mounting problems ahead, there seems little doubt but that many millions of Americans would prefer to live in the slower-paced, less tense, friendlier open countryside. Not only would such a dispersal of population benefit those who move into rural areas, but it would also help those left behind, if for no other reason than by lessening some of the pressures of population growth.

Issue Is Like Always

By BILL EAST

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — In a world rapidly becoming more and more sophisticated with moon flights, computers and supersonic speeds, Blum's Almanac is a phenomenon.

It is making its 142nd appearance in Winston-Salem and indications are this year's almanac will be just as successful as the first one published in 1828.

When everything else is being modernized and streamlined, the almanac is just about the same as it has always been.

"We're afraid to change it," said J. B. Goslen Jr. of the firm which publishes it.

"If we modernize it, the readers might not buy it. We think we are giving them what they want."

The presses are turning out 250,000 copies of the almanac this year.

"We are adding about 10,000 copies a year," said Goslen.

The high speed presses that turn out the almanac now are in sharp contrast to the hand press that John Christian Blum used to print the first almanac in Old Salem.

But the material inside the book has not changed much.

Originally it was designed to be a helpmate solely to farmers and planters.

Then other people began buying the almanac and the farmer's wife began looking in it. "We had to give them a variety of material," an almanac representative said several years ago.

That "other material" consisted of recipes, helpful hints in the kitchen and just "general, interesting" information they might not get elsewhere.

Goslen said the selection of the information for the almanac is done mostly by his 83-year-old father, J. B. Goslen Sr.

"He does it as a hobby," the younger Goslen said. "He works all year long. When he sees something interesting, he clips it out and pastes it in a black book."

"He puts the items under various headings to try to get a balance of available material."

"When we get time, we get around to setting it into type," he said.

The jokes selected for the almanac often have reflected the times.

Take this joke from the 1844 almanac as the industrial revolution was starting:

"The following incident took place in a public school in Lowell, Mass. A little boy was asked how many mills make a cent."

"Ten, sir!" was the prompt reply.

"Immediately a bright-faced girl held up her hand in a token of dissent. 'Well, miss, what have you to say?'"

"Please, sir, 10 mills don't make a cent. Pa says all the mills in town don't make a cent."

"Employment agency manager: 'There's a job open in Florida, but can you pick lemons?'"

"Applicant: 'Boy can I! I've been married five times?'"

"Or this gem of wisdom: 'Bachelors, like detergents, work fast and leave no rings.'"

But jokes are not the only material in the almanac.

The new issue contains everything from a list of the results of the 1968 presidential election to suggestions on what to do when something goes wrong with your automobile.

Ski Resorts Are Big Draw

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES RALEIGH—From all reports North Carolina's ski resorts are enjoying their biggest and best season—and the word is going all the way to tourist-minded Florida.

The idea propounded by the state's Travel and Promotion division is to entice more and more sun-tanned Florida folk to visit the snowy ski slopes of Western North Carolina before the season ends.

A special exhibit featuring the ski slopes and other North Carolina attractions will be presented at a vacation travel show in St. Petersburg, Fla., next month.

Making the announcement, Travel and Promotion director Bill F. Hensley says, "Florida is a prime area for prospective visitors to North Carolina."

Maps, brochures, travel information and other assistance is furnished. The Two centers are located near the Virginia line on Interstate highways 85 and 95.

Two others are to be opened this year, on Interstate 40 near the Tennessee line and Interstate 85 near the South Carolina line.

The idea, Hensley says, "is that we not only want to get people to come to our state, we want them to enjoy their stay and take advantage of our attractions."

HONOR—Mrs. Pauline DeCosta of Raleigh has been honored as "Employee of the Year" in the State Department of Agriculture for exceptional service and for performing tasks which at times have been "a secretary's nightmare."

The quotes are those of Agriculture Commissioner James A. (Jim) Graham who made the award. Mrs. DeCosta has been director of the department's publications division for the past 10 years.

She also has served as Secretary to the State Board of Agriculture.

She edits the department's twice-monthly publication, Agricultural Review, which has a circulation of 90,000.

MINICONFERENCE—It is difficult to say how new words and phrases are coined. In Raleigh, a new word is "mini-conference."

This comes from the governor's office. It is a news conference held by Gov. Bob Scott. But it is not the full-blown, often awkward and time-consuming sort of press conference held in the past. Scott likes to come in and sit down and chat informally. In a mini-conference, formalities and technicalities are dispensed with. Not only is it informal, usually it is more informative.

Opinions In Brief

"Example is the school of mankind, and they will learn at no other."—Edmund Burke.

"Justice is the insurance we have on our lives, and obedience is the premium we pay for it."—William Penn.

"The Ultra-liberal majority in the Senate today does not reflect the will and thinking of The American people."—Thurman Sensing.

WILLIAM SHIRES

RECIPROCAL—Hensley and his associates will not make it a statement of policy but there is the thought of promoting the idea of reciprocal North Carolina-Florida vacations.

It is well known that many North Carolinians vacation in Florida. Many Floridians have vacation and summer retirement homes in a number of North Carolina communities. The two states are the most popular and fastest growing in the Southeast. The attractions are different and of wide variety. The idea makes sense.

STEP—Hensley believes the St. Petersburg exhibit will be a step in this direction. "I am sure we can convince numerous Floridians that a trip to North Carolina would be most interesting and enjoyable."

The exhibit will be staffed by Mrs. Kitty Falger, ski instructor at Beach Mountain resort; Mrs. Sara Harison, supervisor of the North Carolina highway welcome centers and two welcome center hostesses.

CENTERS—Attendance at the state's two first Welcome Centers on interstate highways near the Virginia line exceeded expectations. Hensley's office reports that 446,664 persons stopped at the two centers during 1969 and said it is "encouraging."

Strength For Today

REAL CURE

"My sin is ever before me." (Ps. 51:3).

This is good—and yet in another way it is bad. It is good to the extent that it registers our awakening to the sense of failure. It is bad if it leaves us moping, wringing our hands, brooding over our evil life, and in general giving up the game and walking off the field. Not only is confession good for the soul, repentance is even better. We like people who look us straight in the eye. Get the habit of looking yourself in the eye. Say of yourself: "I'm a sinner and a weak and mean one at that. God hates what I do. I hate it. The world despises it—and would despise it even more if they knew the full truth."

All right. That's fine so far as it goes. Without looking at your sin, admitting it, and really trying to forsake it and make any amends that can be made, there cannot be even the beginning of moral progress. But after doing all you can, or need to do, with reference to past mistakes and evils, turn and start running the other way as fast as your legs will carry you. Happiness lies over there—not here in the midst of these things or in the midst of our moping.

Jesus Christ came not to help righteous people but sinners. Our hatefulness and weakness are the very things for which He has cure—not just relief, but cure.

By Earl L. Douglass

Banks To Show Profit-Gains

By ELMER ROESSNER Bank reports on their 1969 activities will generally show good gains in profits, despite some lamentations about the high cost of money. Some early reports spotlight the trend. Crocker National Corp., San Francisco, showed a profit increase of 21.7 per cent; American National, Chicago, 36 per cent; General Bankshares, St. Louis, 16 per cent; Franklin, New York Corp., 33.5 per cent and First Chicago Corp., 44.5 per cent. However, not all banks will report fat gains and a few may show losses because declines in value of common stock holdings offset profits in making loans.

Here are other look-aheads:

Bigger planes: While some flights will have difficulty in filling the new Boeing 747s, which carry about 365 passengers, even larger planes are coming. Larger planes can be filled between San Francisco and Los Angeles, Tokyo and Osaka. Boeing is working on a plane 10 per cent bigger and is planning an even larger one after that.

Coke, Coffee Up
Coca-Cola costlier: New York wholesalers have boosted the price of Coke, bringing the price at many fountains to 20 cents a small glass. Meanwhile Coca-Cola Co. is planning to bring out a new drink, Santiba in the spring.

Drink in plastic: A new chocolate beverage in 9-ounce plastic containers is coming to market from Beatrice Foods.

Coffee going up: Storms have cut the coffee crop in Brazil and prices have started up and will go higher. The New York Times cafeteria has boosted the container price from 15 to 20 cents.

Steel rising: Despite a lag in demand, due to slowdowns in auto manufacture, steel prices will continue their upward trend. At the moment, further rises can be expected in reinforcing bars and heavy structural steel. Demand for new buildings and factories is still high.

But expect a cutback: While corporations have scheduled increases in spending for plants and equipment, many construction programs will be slowed. Use of present facilities is far under capacity, and if sales fall off as predicted, there will be long, hard looks at expansion plans. Dips in corporate profits will have the same effect.

Shortage of Parts Felt
GE strike will hurt more: The General Electric strike hasn't hurt retailers much yet, but it has stalled to hurt other manufacturers and, unless present peace moves succeed, will hurt more. Hundreds of smaller manufacturers depend on GE for components and GE isn't delivering.

Better customers: Despite the probability of a decline in business, three groups will be able to buy more: low-income families, families of workers in tough unions, and those on Social Security. Nine million low-income people will benefit from tax cuts. Workers in tightly organized industries will get pay increases already negotiated for this and the next two and three years. And a 15 per cent increase in Social Security benefits is in the works.

End Of An Era: Radium Outlives Its Usefulness

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — In a silent drama played out in the basement of Memorial Hospital, four radiation experts in yellow safety clothes and air masks cut away two glass flasks containing intensely dangerous radium. The delicate procedure marked the end of an era in American medicine, begun in 1917 when Dr. James Douglas, a physician and metallurgist whose daughter died of cancer, donated a fraction of an ounce of radium to the hospital. Radium was the first radioactive weapon against cancer, and with the gift from Dr. Douglas, Memorial Hospital built the first radon plant in this country to produce radioactive material to treat patients. But now radium has largely outlived its usefulness because there are better, safer radioactive materials to attack cancer cells. So Memorial Hospital decided to close down its plant, now the last one remaining in a private institution in the United States.

The plant was dismantled, gingerly and tensely, late last week, at night so there would be fewer people in the hospital corridors. The tiny amount of potentially lethal radium, just 1.7 grams (about one-fifteenth of an ounce), was sealed in lead-shrouded containers, to be buried later in the Tennessee earth.

In the years since 1917, perhaps 10,000 cancer patients were treated with a radium by-product at Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases. The radium, a naturally occurring element, was kept in solution in the flasks, behind lead shielding in a special room. As the radium slowly decays—it would take 1,620 years for half of it to decay—it produces radon gas.

Minute amounts of the gas are trapped in tiny gold capsules called "seeds." The seeds are inserted into a patient's cancer cells for a few days at a time, in hopes that the radiation might halt, reverse or kill the cells. "Cutting the glass was the part I was concerned about," Dr. John Laughlin, chairman of the medical physics department, said after the operation was a success. "It's possible that the glass would be so brittle from the radiation that the whole thing would splinter."

It didn't, although the radiation specialists were slightly contaminated, on their hair and the outside of their protective clothing, by alpha particles. The contamination was minor and washed away, Dr. Laughlin said.

John Tekin, 31, a health physicist for Radiological Services Co. of Westwood, N.J., did the actual cutting of the flasks with an acetylene torch, as the firm's general manager, Keith Foley, 37, of Waldwick, N.J., supervised. Tekin practiced first in a side room.

Thomas Nicholson, 58, the hospital's radon plant operator, and William Grant, 40, of the radiation firm, also were in the room. Grant's job was to monitor instruments inside the chamber while the others worked to place the radium in a series of sealed, insulated containers for eventual burial. But Grant was forced out of the room twice by a malfunctioning air mask.

Inside, a balky acetylene torch slowed the procedure. Outside, Jean St. Germain, hospital radiation safety supervisor, crossed her fingers. George Magyar, also of radiation safety, readied instruments to measure any radiation on the men as they emerged.

Dr. Laughlin said that if a person was exposed to the radium for 10 minutes the exposure would be lethal. In the outside rooms, the amount of background radiation was equal, in one hour, to the amount a person is normally exposed to from cosmic rays over a week.

Dr. Laughlin said there are several isotopes, or forms of chemical elements, that are now available commercially and which are not as powerful—but still as effective—as radium, such as gold 198, iodine 125, iridium 192.

integrity or competence. Doubtless they felt they were following dutifully upon the obsessions of their masters, the Supreme Court of the United States. The high court repeatedly has commanded integration now, integration everywhere, integration without regard to law, common sense, or the Constitution.

Make no mistake: This profoundly complex question of public affairs has come fully under the sway of a judicial oligarchy. It might be possible, through ordinary political processes, to remove or to reverse a Commissioner of Internal Revenue. It still is possible to elect a House and Senate that will insist upon a "Whitten amendment" positively to prohibit the bussing of pupils and the closing of schools under the Civil Rights Act. But the judges are unreachable.

In a free country, it ought to be possible for parents in Mississippi, or anywhere else, to set up any kind of educational institutions they please, and to be entitled to the same privileges, immunities, and benefits of all other parents. If they choose to educate their children in factories, Sunday schools, private homes, or pup tents, subject merely to the general police powers of the state, this is—or was—their right.

No longer. Last week's decree was deliberately punitive, deliberately calculated to achieve a certain sociological end regarded by the judges as desirable. The decree, to repeat, is part of a pattern. In Atlanta, parents by the thousands have petitioned the judges for relief from arbitrary action. In Oklahoma City, a Federal judge has threatened to jail a 14-year-old boy and his parents if the boy refuses to attend a certain integrated junior high.

The high court itself, in royal disdain for practical problems of the real world, last week insisted on a February 1 deadline for the integration of 300,000 children in five Deep South States.

It is just as Plato said: "The people always have some champion whom they set over them and nurse into greatness. . . . This and no other is the root from which a tyrant springs; when he first appears, he is a protector." So with the high court. An acquiescent people, having surrendered their liberties to the judges in what seemed a good cause, have watered the roots. We harvest tyranny now.

Farmers, growers and ranchers continue to use increasing amounts of capital to increase the efficiency and expand the productive capacity of their agricultural operations, according to F.L. Little, Jr., General Manager of the Pitt-Greene Production Credit Association.

Mr. Little has returned from Raleigh, where he and directors of the Pitt-Greene PCA participated in an Advanced Management Institute sponsored by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Columbia for Directors and General Managers of Production Credit Associations throughout North Carolina.

Officers and directors of the Association attending the Institute were Alton Gardner of Rt. 2, Ayden, President; W.F. Subjects presented included Planning Effectively for the Future; Credit Administration in the Future; PCA's Electronic Farm Records (EFR) Program and panel discussions were held on Association and Management Performance and Financial Planning and Staff Performance.

Turned Away By Secret Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michael J. Brody Jr., oleomargarine heir who says he is bent on giving away a fortune, was turned away by Secret Service agents at a White House gate Monday.

Brody, who was accompanied by his wife, said he wanted to tell President Nixon "the war in Vietnam is over."

The 21-year-old Scarsdale, N.Y., resident said he made the trip to Washington by helicopter but lacked the money for a bus fare to return to New York. He and his wife accepted an offer by a passerby to take them there by car.

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP) — The West German Supreme Court has set Feb. 17 for a ruling on an appeal by a 69-year-old woman to be recognized as the Grand Duchess Anastasia, daughter of Czar Nicholas II of Russia.

The former Anna Anderson, now married to John E. Manahan, a former University of Virginia history professor, has been trying for years to establish herself as a member of the slain royal family.

Her appeal from an adverse ruling by a lower court received a seven-hour hearing in the Supreme Court Monday.

GOOD NEWS FOR PNB SAVERS AND DEPOSITORS . . .

As you may have heard, Planters National now is paying a solid 5% interest compounded daily on Golden Passbook savings. Not quarterly or monthly, but daily compounding. . . to yield 5.127% annually. Daily compounding pays you the very highest rate of interest allowed by Federal Reserve Regulations.

Open a PNB Golden Passbook with $500 or more. Withdrawals may be made with 90 days prior written notice, or during the first 10 days of each calendar quarter if your money has been on deposit 90 days. And your remaining funds still earn 5% True Daily Interest, just as long as your balance doesn't fall below $500.

It's great for PNB savers and investors. Most financial institutions do not pay interest compounded daily. Our Golden Passbook savers, however, do enjoy this extra earning power. . . and if you would like more details, talk with your PNB banker soon.

And that's not all! Our Regular Passbook savings now are compounded and paid monthly. Many financial institutions do not yet pay this extra benefit. PNB Regular Passbook savings pay the highest interest allowed by law on regular bank savings. . . 4% guaranteed bank interest, compounded and paid monthly, plus Daily Interest. Earn interest every day from deposit to withdrawal, so long as the balance is at least $10, and not lose one penny of interest.

Or, if you prefer, we have 5% Certificates of Deposit and 5% Guaranteed Investment Certificates tailored to your needs.

One more thing! The basic limit on Federal Deposit Insurance has been increased from $15,000 to $20,000. This new $20,000 coverage is already in effect, automatically, on existing qualified accounts at PNB, and will also apply to new accounts, and to additions to present accounts up to the $20,000 limit. If you have questions, we'll welcome the opportunity to discuss them with you, for there are a number of ways in which coverage may exceed the $20,000.

Thank you again for banking with us. We hope you will take advantage of our great, new benefits for savers and investors.

Miller Honored; Pirates Face Abbey

Buc Guard Is Player Of Week

For two weeks running, East Carolina University basketball players stood waiting in the wings waiting for their magic moment in the spotlight.

Two weeks ago, Tom Miller was runner-up Southern Conference Player of the Week honors. Last week, it was Jim Fairley. But this week, the Buc came through and made it beyond the runner-up stage.

And it was Miller who got the honors.

The 6-0 senior guard from Oxon Hill, Md., was named by the Southern Conference News Bureau as this week's top player. The honor came for Miller's play against North Carolina State and Davidson, two nationally ranked teams.

The Bucs dropped both of those games, by 15 points to Davidson, and 19 to State, both on the road. Both, however, were closer than the score indicated. Davidson and State both made use of quick bursts at the half to shoot away from the Bucs. Fouls prevented them from catching up against Davidson, but they did against State, and it was Miller who led the way.

In the Davidson game, Miller pumped in 12 of 26 shots from the floor and hit on five of six from the line. He grabbed off nine rebounds and has seven assists. He finished the game with 29 points.

Against State, he had more help on the boards, a place he does not usually frequent, but he dumped in more points. This time, he hit on 11 of 28 shots, and 10 of 13 from the line, for a total of 32 points.

Since the early part of the season, he has come on strong. Just prior to the Sunshine Classic in Florida, Miller was the fourth scorer on the Buc team, barely in double figures. Today, he leads the team with a 19.0 average.

"He's definitely having his best year," Coach Tom Quinn said. "He has improved his passing on the move and his driving game. He seems to be a bit more consistent in his total game."

Quinn also noted that Miller was playing about all of every game. "He missed some just before Christmas when he suffered a sprained ankle, but since then, he's gone all the way, and has been scoring more than 20 in nearly every game."

"Last year, Tom had a great Eastern Carolina Classic, but then dropped off. This year, he continues to improve. I've said before that he is the best guard in the conference. Others may do more scoring, but they are not the team leader he is, nor do they do the ball handling he does."

Player Of The Week

Tom Miller, East Carolina University's senior guard, was named Southern Conference Player of the Week today by the Southern News Bureau for his play against Davidson and N.C. State last week. Miller, with 61 points in the two games, pushed his way into the ECU scoring lead. Both he and center Jim Modlin are moving in on the 1,000-point mark for their careers. The Bucs play host to Belmont Abbey Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Bucs Seek To Extend Home Winning Streak

East Carolina University play host to Belmont Abbey Wednesday night, hoping to snap a two-game losing streak. The Bucs will also be out to continue their current three-game home winning streak.

"They have an outstanding player in Greg Patton," Coach Tom Quinn said of the Crusaders. "He is their leading scorer, and a fine guard. We'll have to keep him in tow if we are to be able to do much with Duke. Patton is their leading rebounder, but the Crusaders do not enjoy the height that the Bucs have. Their biggest man is 6-6 and is not a starter. That honor goes to 6-5 Dick Mazurak.

The Bucs will thus enjoy an advantage in that department, and should be able to continue their rebounding advantage they have held against most teams.

"We are going to have to work some more on our inside game," Quinn said of his Bucs, "it has gotten a little rusty."

Quinn said that he has been pleased with the play of guard Jim Kierpan during the last few games. "He has shown a lot of improvement during the last couple of games. (Jim) Modlin and (Jim) Fairley continue to do consistently well, and (Jim) Gregory is going to pick up between now and the tournament. He has been in a slump, but he is beginning to get out of it."

The coach also had praise for guard Tom Miller, who was named Southern Conference Player of the Week for his efforts against Davidson and N.C. State last week. Miller's 61-point output during the two games rused him into the scoring lead for the team.

"Lyn Green's experience early in the season has begun to show. I was impressed by his defense of Vann Williford in the State game, as I was by Kierpan's work on Ed Leftwich."

The game could bring about a first for the Quinn-Coached Bucs. Jim Modlin, with 21 against N.C. State, has brought his career-point total to 975. He therefore needs 25 more points to become the first Buc in several years to pass the 1,000 point mark. The last was Billy Brogden, who finished his career in 1964.

Modlin will also be the first East Carolina player to have accomplished the feat in a three-year career. All of those who have previously done it played when the four-year varsity rules were in effect.

Miller will also probably crack the barrier before the season is over. He has scored 868 points, and needs 132 to crack the mark. An average of just 11 points per game from here on out will accomplish it for him.

Game time in Minges Coliseum is 8 p.m. No freshmen preliminary is scheduled.

Top Six Teams Remain Intact

UCLA's Bruins, accelerating like a shocked gazelle, held onto top billing today as the nation's No. 1 college basketball team.

The unerring Bruins, winners of 42 straight this year, bagged 26 first-place votes and 592 points from the Associated Press' nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Charging Kentucky stayed No. 2 with four first-place ballots and 546 points as the first six teams remained intact—No. 3 South Carolina, No. 4 St. Bonaventure, No. 5 New Mexico State and No. 6 Jacksonville.

Houston bolted two places to seventh, Marquette rocketed a pair of spots to eight, North Carolina plunged two spots to No. 9 and North Carolina State rounded out the Top Ten, climbing a spot from 11th.

Three teams were Top Twenty dropouts after poor showings—Columbia, Niagra and Washington. The three new clubs were Kansas State, tied with Duke for 16th, Iowa, tied with Louisville for No. 18 and No. 20 Notre Dame, a former member of the blue-blooded group.

Flood's Suit Goes To Court

NEW YORK (AP)—Praised by some and scorned by others, Curt Flood's controversial lawsuit against the baseball reserve clause goes to court today.

At stake in the star outfielder's action in Federal Court is part of the game's structure—that which binds a player to a team until he is traded or retires.

Flood is asking the major leagues to show cause why they should not be enjoined from exercising the reserve clause and force Flood's trade from the St. Louis Cardinals to the Philadelphia Phillies.

Flood, a $90,000-a-year player traded during the off-season, has complained the reserve clause puts him in "a state of involuntary servitude."

Flood has retained Arthur J. Goldberg, the former associate justice of the Supreme Court, to represent him. The Flood case, No. 35 on the court's calendar, was expected to be heard today.

Marvin Miller, head of the Major League Baseball Players' Association, has restated its support of Flood. The association, charges that the 24 club owners, named in the suit, had tried to "delude" the players into believing the issue would be settled by a joint study.

However, in a statement Saturday, the two league presidents—Joe Cronin of the American League and Charles "Chub" Feeney of the National—called the reserve clause "absolutely necessary" to baseball. They expressed regret in Flood's suit and accused the players' association of bad faith in supporting him.

Also, Carl Yastrzemski, the Boston Red Sox star outfielder, announced he was "against" what Curt Flood is trying to do because it would ruin the game. He called for a poll of the 600 major-league players to determine their views.

Pro Cagers Watching Suit

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Oscar Robertson, Chet Walker and many other National Basketball Association players are anxiously watching Curt Flood's suit against baseball's reserve clause, hoping the vibrations carry over to pro basketball.

"I'm certainly behind him," said Robertson, one of the NBA's greatest stars and president of the Players' Association. "I think there should be some kind of reserve clause, but that it should be modified."

"It's going to affect all sports," said Walker, the player representative of the Chicago Bulls, agreeing with Robertson that the clause should not be completely abolished, but, on the other hand, should not bind a player to one team for his entire career.

"Sooner or later, we (NBA players) have to make our stand and I think the time is now."

The first step toward that stand might come today when the NBA player representatives, in their annual pre-All-Star game meeting, are expected to make a formal announcement backing Flood.

They also will talk about the rumored merger between the NBA and the American Basketball Association and might come out publicly with what all of them must be thinking privately—that they are against a merger which would greatly decrease their financial bargaining power.

The players also are expected once again to make a plea for a shorter season and playoff schedule, which presently could run up to 101 games for the team that wins the championship.

Robertson, who makes better than $100,000 a year in his 10th season as an All-Pro with the Cincinnati Royals, and Walker shrugged off talk that baseball would cease to exist should Flood win his suit and the reserve clause, which is similar to the NBA's clause, be abolished or changed.

"Football has survived," Robertson said, pointing out pro football's plan that allows a player to play out his option with one team and then negotiate with another club for his services.

President Walker Kennedy of the NBA, when asked if the reserve clause will be discussed at the board of governor's meeting today, said:

"We've got enough problems without discussing the reserve clause. We won't discuss it."

He and the NBA owners presently are trying to straighten out the confused expansion or merger with the ABA possibilities.

Verga Leads

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Verga of the Carolina Coygars has boosted his American Basketball Association scoring lead over runner up Spencer Haywood of Denver.

Verga scored 128 points in four games last week, a 32-point-a-game average, and jumped to 27.3 for the season, ABA statistics revealed today.

A&T Is Powerhouse, Despite Disadvantages

By JIM CLARK

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—The team's dressing room is a converted bathroom. There isn't money for extensive recruiting or scouting.

The gymnasium is too small to accommodate the entire student body. The team only plays schools that can be reached by bus. And it is in the middle of a basketball region dominated by such teams as North Carolina, Duke, South Carolina, N.C. State and Wake Forest.

Despite these disadvantages, predominantly Negro North Carolina A&T University has become one of the small college basketball powerhouses. It has a 9-1 record and is tied for ninth place in the AP small college poll.

For the team and its coach, making the national rankings has not been easy.

The Aggies have a $750-a-year scouting and recruiting budget. Coach Cal Irvin does the scouting. He also has classroom assignments.

"Actually," says Irvin, "everyone pulls double duty. The publicity for the team is done by a man who does publicity for the whole school and teaches English."

Even though his recruiting time is limited, five of his former players are in professional ball.

"We think we can do more to develop the black youth here," Irvin said. "What do Lefty Driesell (Coach at the University of Maryland) and Dean Smith (University of North Carolina coach) know about the black? There is no way in the world they can understand the mood of the black boy—they've never been hungry, they've never lived in a ghetto."

Irvin himself is a product of a slum. He was born in Alabama, but his family moved to East Orange, N. J. He had nine brothers and sisters. "We may not have been poverty stricken, but with my dad making just $29 a week, we sure were dirt poor," he said.

He graduated from Illinois University, and got his master's degree from Columbia University.

When a boy agrees to attend A&T, Irvin said, there are no contracts, no signed agreements. "I look him in the eye and shake his hand. If a boy goes back on this, then he doesn't have enough character to play for me."

Irvin looks at a television set showing two North Carolina teams playing. He points out two players. "I tried to get them both," he said. "One listened politely, but just didn't come." He said another player for a top 10 big college team promised to visit the university several times. "He never showed and we finally had to ask him to return the travel money we sent him."

Irvin is not sure Negro players who decide to attend predominantly white schools are happy with the decision.

"On the courts they are the big heroes," he says, "but I think they are counted out of the schools' real social life."

Irvin said he would like to take on some Atlantic Coast Conference teams. "I wouldn't fear playing North or South Carolina," he says. South Carolina is the third-ranked big college team and North Carolina is seventh.

Irvin took a pay cut to come to A&T from a Virginia high school in 1954 and his teams have compiled a won-loss record of 341-121 since.

But he says his prospects for the future are limited. "Where can I go? Nowhere but a black school," he said.

He says possibly a young Negro coach may have a better chance to coach at a major college. Negroes, he added, can get jobs as assistant coaches because they can recruit black players.

Book Exchange Drops Jaycees

The Book Exchange knocked the Jaycees out of the season possession of first place last night in the City Basketball League. The Book Exchange's 79-69 victory was the first loss for the Jaycees.

In other games, Coca-Cola beat ROTC, 88-54, and the Campus Corner downed Watson Electric, 56-50.

The Jaycees and Book Exchange are now tied for the lead with 4-1 records. Campus Corner and Coke are both 3-2, followed by Watson, 1-4, and ROTC, 0-5.

In the opener, Watson pulled out into a 28-24 lead in the first half and threatened an upset of the Campus Corner. However, in the second half, Campus Corner rallied and outscored Watson, 32-22, and captured the win.

Mike Joyner led Campus Corner with 14, while Mac Porter had 10. Watson was led by Tommy Jamieson with 15, while Gary Bryant had 10.

Coke wasted little time in letting ROTC know who was in charge. By the half, Coke has powered out into a 42-28 lead. In the second half, they continued dominance of the game, outshooting ROTC, 46-26, to roll to an easy win.

John Lynn led the way with 41 points, while Wayne Hardee had 14. For ROTC, Gary Schaal had 18, Ashby Elmore had 13 and Joe Johnson had 10.

In the night's final game, the Book Exchange edged out into a 37-30 lead at the half. In the final period, they held off any hope of a Jaycees rally by outshooting them 42-38, to take the win.

Charles Whitehurst led the Exchange with 20, while Wayne Gibson had 16, Steve Fuller had 12, and Walter Claybrook and Tommy Jordan had 10 each. Larry Graham and Tex Everett had 23, and Lynn Bowen had 20 for the Jaycees.

The Worry Clinic Children Use The Home, Too

Sandra is a college trained young woman but she typifies the usual selfish outlook of parents when they buy a new house. Daddy and Mamma look for all the clever gadgets and conveniences to please themselves, but forget the major wishes of their kiddies! A messy ramshackle old house with a big yard is more intriguing to children than swanky suburban homes!

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M. D.
CASE L-580: Sandra P., aged 28, has 2 sons.
"Dr. Crane," she exulted as she showed me her new house, children could wander around that vast playground without even being seen from the street.

"But Daddy," Judy protested, "they will track in a lot of mud on our rug!"
And this is the attitude of a lot of parents who wish to gloat over luxurious living quarters, geared to adults, but totally unsuited to the wishes of kiddies.
Remember, too, that a messy home is much more likely to be a happy one, if there are children involved!

Yet far too many fastidious mothers and meticulous fathers want their house to be a show-off place, like those depicted in the magazines, or portrayed in the movies.
That's unwise! For a show-off home is a cage for kiddies, where they will constantly be told "No, No" and yelled or screamed at till they wish daddy would stay in his neat office and not come home till bedtime.
As people grow into the Senior Citizen category, they may wish to shun lawns that need to be mowed, leaves to be raked and snow to be shoveled.

Alas, even at the age of 25 to 30, many young married couples also begin to look for houses that are ultra convenient inside, but lacking in recreational facilities for youngsters.
"Oh, but we have a rumpus room," you may protest!
But kiddies require more space than that which permits a ping pong table.

preacher in the Methodist Church at that time.
The son of an oil field worker turned rancher and building contractor, Wyatt drove his father's roofing truck to and from five area towns around his hometown of Stephenville, Tex., during his first days of preaching. He would conduct services at three or four churches each Sunday—usually preaching the same sermon.

About a year ago Wyatt took leave from the church and moved to Tulia with his wife and two children. He still does public speaking as a member of the national Knife and Fork Club. And, sometimes he preaches on Sunday. But he doesn't have a regular circuit to cover.
Much of his time now is being spent behind an easel drawing. Wyatt sold his first art work several years ago for $10. He has trouble now turning out enough paintings to meet the demand.

But his biggest problem is finding enough time to practice his three favorite professions—preaching, speaking and painting.

Minister Is Now Painter

TULIA, Tex. (UPI)—Public speaking and preaching have been Kenneth J. Wyatt's life the past 21 years. But today the 36-year-old Methodist Minister spends most of his time in the small Texas Panhandle community of Tulia painting Old West scenes of the early 1900s.
Wyatt's sermons are what he describes as half-way between the fire-and-brimstone style of the old days and the modern "here come da judge" type. They are sprinkled with humor.
Wyatt began preaching at 14 after graduation from high school. He was licensed as a properly shifted to a heart. South permitted the heart lead to come into his king and he played a small trump to dummy's jack, which East allowed to hold. When the five of spades came up from West's hand, South mentally assigned the ace of that suit to East for, if West held the ace, king of diamonds, he might have been expected to take an active role in the auction. South proceeded cautiously by leading a small spade from dummy next.

East was reluctant to waste his ace on a small spot, so he ducked again, and declarer's king of spades won the trick as West showed out. Now a diamond was ruffed in dummy with the queen of spades. South cashed his ace of clubs and proceeded to run that suit by overtaking the queen with the king. On the third round he pitched a diamond and on the fourth round he threw his last diamond as East ruffed in with a high trump. The defenders were limited to one diamond and two spades.

Declarer had handled matters with considerable agility, but West is fully chargeable for presenting South with the opportunity. If he merely heeds his partner's request and continues with a diamond at trick two, the contract will shortly be placed beyond declarer's reach. The second round of diamonds is ruffed in dummy and now when the first trump is led, East rises with his ace and another diamond lead forces out North's queen of spades and establishes the setting tricks in trumps for East.

McKinney said he also expected warrants to be filed against the pair charging them with the shooting of trooper P. E. Strong.

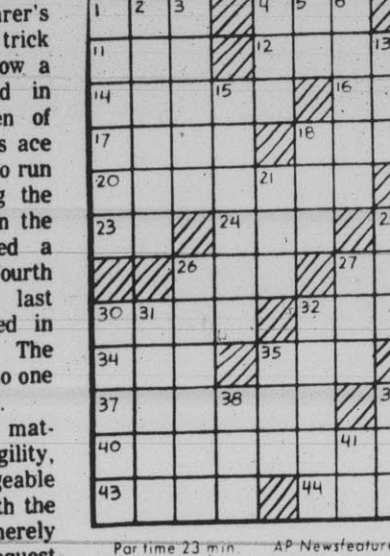

Strong was treated and released after he was wounded in the knee when he attempted to arrest two men for speeding and driving over the center line.

The car the men were in had been reported stolen in the Lynchburg, Va., area, officers said.

HAYWARD, Calif. (UPI)—At an age when most people are content to live quietly in retirement, Anthony Peotich is busy achieving a lifelong ambition—getting a college education.
The 67-year-old Peotich's ambition goes back to a Yugoslavian village on the Adriatic seacoast during World War I. Peotich, who grew up in the town of Smokvica, was in the fifth grade when the war broke out.
The conflict interrupted his education and he was forced to work in the fields to grow food for survival.
Now, after a varied life which included living in Mexico and helping build the Golden Gate Bridge, Peotich is a foreign languages major and will receive his Associate in Arts degree next June from Chabot College, where he is a Dean's List honor student.
After graduation, he plans to study Russian at Hayward State College. "There is an old Yugoslavian saying which means, 'My heart is full of sunshine,'" he says. "That is how I feel because my dream came true."

Quiapo Church, Manila.

The sacred, age-darkened statue of Christ bearing His cross is borne through Manila's streets.

BLACK CHRIST

By JOHN NANCE
Associated Press Writer-Photographer

At the climax of the Black Nazarene Festival in Manila's Quiapo Parish every January, hundreds of thousands of Filipinos jam pavement, windows and rooftops to see and touch a sacred, age-darkened statue of Jesus.

The 350-year-old Black Christ figure is taken from its place high upon the Quiapo Church altar, mounted on a small platform and carried from mid-noon to midnight through miles of people-clogged streets. In the wake of the large, wooden figure is a continually increasing throng of slow-marching devotees who clutch lighted candles, pray and sing.

The mystique and drawing power of the unusual Black Christ are partly explained by popular legends about it. Nobody knows how many attend the procession—to pray, repent, seek forgiveness and good fortune, or just to watch. Newspapers last year estimated a minimum of 500,000; church officials said it was closer to one million.

Church scholars generally agree that the figure was carved in Mexico in the late 1500s by a native artist who painted it the color of his own brown skin. A priest brought it in a galleon to the Philippines in the early 1600s.

Under its official name, the Nuestro Padre Jesus Nazareno, it was blessed by an archbishop in the 18th century and by Pope Pius VII in the 19th century.

Records indicate it has been in the church of Quiapo since the church was a simple palm and bamboo structure, whose cornerstone was laid in 1592.

Earthquakes and typhoons have knocked the church down and fires have razed it. The Black Nazarene has withstood all, its original brown turning a burnished chocolate color with the smoke, centuries of age and the caresses of the millions who have worshipped it.

A struggle to touch the Black Christ—and a youth leaps back into the crowded streets.

One of the thousands of pilgrims.

Penitents' hands clutch the guide-ropes of the Black Christ's platform.

Progress is slow through the crowded streets of Manila.

Measurement Service Is Offered By ASCS

Farmers who need help in determining crop and land use acreages will ahead of the game if they use the measurement service provided by the County ASCS Office, according to Stacy J. Evans, county executive director of the Pitt County ASCS County Committee.

In order to obtain measurement service, the farmer must file a request with the ASCS office and pay the cost of furnishing the service. Early filing of the request will enable ASCS to employ the necessary people to do this work on a timely basis.

An ASCS reporter will visit farms requesting measurement service to measure and stake the acreage covered by the request.

A record of the measured acreage will be furnished to the farmer for use in planting or for certifying compliance.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)— North Carolina egg markets steady Monday. Supplies generally short, demand good. The prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large white: 69 to 70; medium, whites: 65; small, whites: 55.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)— The North Carolina hog market was mostly 50 cents to $1 higher today. Tops of $27.57-28.00 Wilson; 27.00-28.00 Rocky Mount; 27.00-27.50 Siler City, Denton; 26.00-27.00 Bethel; 27.50 Greensboro; 27.00 Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)— North Carolina live broilers and fryers supply fully adequate today for continued good demand. Live at farm 13 1/2.

Hens, market tone weak, supplies fully adequate for limited needs, live at farm 15-16 for heavies; light type too few to report.

GRAIN

Activity is still slow this morning on Pitt County grain buying stations although one market reports a slight increase in prices. All quotes except those on the Winterville market reflect the same situation as last week while the increase in Winterville comes after over a month of steady prices. Ear corn still dominates the corn market and no other grain is reported coming in. Following are per bushel prices quoted at 11 a.m. Greenville: yellow corn, $1.29; soybeans, $2.45; wheat, $1.20; oats, $1.65—all steady.

Ayden: yellow corn, shell, $1.35; ear corn, $1.25—steady.

Winterville: yellow corn, shell, $1.30; ear corn, $1.20—up slightly.

Bethel: yellow corn, shell, $1.30; ear corn, $1.15—steady.

School Bd. . . .

Awareness Committee in the city.

Cleetwood pointed out that the board would always welcome suggestions that would help in alleviating the school tension.

In response to a question from Mrs. Robert Kittrell concerning the functions of the citizen's committee, Cleetwood said that the committee was formed to work towards solving the issue at hand at Rose High School. The Board of Education, he said, was set up to work as a continuing body for consideration of all school issues.

Cleetwood noted that the school situation on Monday was "an ideal day in every respect" with school tension minimal as compared to previous days. Attendance was much better, he said, as absences were only 40 or 50 above the normal rate for this time of the year. He mentioned the 11 a.m. Monday meeting of members of the citizen's committee and principal Glen Cox with students at the school and added, "The efforts of the committee on Monday had a good impact at school."

Cleetwood asked for discussion on the matter of whether suspended students should be allowed to attend school athletic events. "Students under suspension or dismissal are of thinking that they trespass if they return to school property," Cleetwood said.

"I believe that we will find that in these cases, suspension or dismissal from school also means restrictions for these students at athletic events," Gaylord added.

Bearden moved that the board attorney, W.W. Speight, be consulted on a ruling on the trespassing legalities.

The superintendent also asked for board discussion concerning the readmittance of students to school following administrative hearings on their individual cases.

He cited the situation of an administrative hearing being held and the decision to readmit the student being made but a court proceeding may have been scheduled for a later date. Should the student be admitted or should the matter be prolonged until the results of the court proceedings? he asked.

Gaylord proposed that the superintendent act on the results of the administrative hearing and readmit the student if he feels it is justified. The court proceedings should not have anything to do with the situation, both are separate matters, he said.

The question of support by the board of school system personnel who take out warrants

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market held to lower ground in moderate trading early today with some glamor stocks beginning to recover losses of recent sessions.

The Dow Jones industrial average after the first hour's trading was off 0.79 to 775.28 and declining stocks on the New York exchange outnumbered advances by about 5 to 3.

Among the glamors, IBM opened after a delay caused by an influx of orders at 345 1/2, off 4 1/2.

Glamors gaining ground in early transactions included Control Data, up 7 1/2 to 98 1/2 and Tel-ex up 3 to 131.

Polaroid was off 5 3/8 to 106.

Xerox was off 2 1/2 to 104 in an active turnover.

An 86,000-share block of American Telephone was traded at 49, unchanged.

Two Injured In Auto Collision

Two persons were injured when two vehicles collided at the intersection of U.S. 264 and 14th Street about 8:20 p.m. yesterday.

Police, who said the injured were the drivers of the cars, identified them as Otha Dumay Boyd, 41 of 2816 Jefferson Dr. and Thomas Earl Matthews Jr., 18 of Route 1, Havelock.

Damage to the Boyd car was set at $800 while damage to the Matthews vehicle was placed at $1,800.

Matthews was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign.

against students was discussed last night: Bearden said that the cases should be dealt with individually and that no "blanket" policy of support should be adopted.

"I believe we should consult other school systems and find out what they are doing in this situation," Bearden said, before making any judgment.

Board member Harding Sugg suggested that the matter also be referred to the board attorney for a legal ruling.

Sugg asked for a disposition on how funds would be provided for the payment of extra police protection at school athletic functions. Cleetwood noted that normally two policemen are provided by the city and paid by the school system to be in attendance at the ballgames.

Sugg suggested that the board meet with city officials to determine what the city will furnish during current situations at school and who should share the load of paying for the extra protection.

In final matters last night, Cleetwood said he would look into complaints that heating was inadequate in various classrooms at the Elmhurst and Sadie Sautler Schools.

Also board members agreed to hold a abeyance a local suggestion that junior civic clubs be added in the city school system. Members decided that further study needed on the matter before making a decision.

Cleetwood explained last night the National Honor Society had not been discontinued as some citizens had inquired. The merger of the two schools this fall led to the decision to recognize the National Honor Society as the school honor system and all students who were members of the Crown and Scepter at Eppes would automatically be enrolled in the National Honor Society, he said.

Two Directors, 3 Officers Elected By Wachovia Board

Two directors and three officers have been elected by directors of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., it was announced today by R.W. Howard, senior vice president and head of the Northeast Division of Wachovia. The division is headquartered in Greenville.

Elected a member of the Northeast Board of the bank was W. Emmett Ingram, Gulf Oil distributor in Elizabeth City. Named to the Ahsoskie Board of Wachovia was C. Harold Moore. Three persons in the Northeast

Division were elected officers of the bank. They are Bruce A. Biggs of Elizabeth City, Merrill H. Bynum, Jr. of Hamilton and Mrs. Dorothy W. James of Elizabeth City. All were elected assistant cashiers.

Ingram is distributor for Gulf Oil Company in Elizabeth City and is a former mayor. Moore is a native of Pitt County.

Biggs joined Wachovia in 1968 in Greenville and has been a branch manager since August 1, 1969. Prior to joining Wachovia, he served as production control supervisor with Collins and Aikman. He is a native of Washington, N.C. and a graduate of East Carolina University. Biggs has been secretary-treasurer of the Southgate Merchants Association.

Bynum joined Wachovia in 1967 in Hamilton as manager of that office. Prior to joining Wachovia, he served with the North Carolina State Department of Corrections. He is a native of Louisburg, and a graduate of East Carolina University. Bynum is a member of the Hamilton Board of Commissioners, and served as president of the Hamilton Lions Club in 1969. He is a former secretary to the Coastal Plain Development Association. He is active in Hamilton Methodist Church.

Mrs. James joined Wachovia in 1962 in Elizabeth City as a teller and now serves as operations manager.

Broadcast Disappoints

WASHINGTON (AP)—Radio Moscow's global broadcast of messages from American prisoners of war brought disappointment to their families and an official protest from the State Department.

After the 30-minute shortwave broadcast Monday night, relatives of the men said they had heard the recorded messages before.

The State Department protested that the broadcasts amounted to Russian propaganda against the United States.

Russia billed the broadcasts as holiday messages from U.S. prisoners in Vietnam to their relatives. The Soviets said the messages "shed light on certain aspects of the war against Vietnam."

Secretary of State William P. Rogers ordered the U.S. protest, delivered to the Soviet embassy minister, Uri N. Pcherniakly, by Asst. Secretary Martin J. Hillenbrand.

"We're puzzled and disturbed by the manner in which information on American prisoners is being conveyed to the American public and we can only assume that propaganda purposes are involved," Hillenbrand told the Russian diplomat.

County Students 'Off' Friday

Pitt County students, now involved in mid-year exams, will be given a holiday Friday.

Friday will be one of five work days given teachers during the school year. The day will be used to correct examinations, complete reports and work schedules.

The second semester will begin Monday.

Find Death Due To His Own Actions

A Coroner's jury last night ruled that Hubert G. Coltrain, 53, died from injuries in a "fall" which resulted from "deeds and actions of his own."

Coltrain died last Wednesday after climbing out of his third-floor room window at Pitt Memorial Hospital and falling to the ground.

Dr. W.S. Dawson, who had treated Coltrain prior to his death, told the inquest last night that Coltrain was admitted to the hospital about one-month before his fatal fall because "He had been drinking" and had bronchitis.

Dr. Dawson said he had ordered Coltrain restrained because he "considered it dangerous for him to move about." The physician described his former patient as "confused" at intervals and said the restraints ordered by him were for Coltrain's protection.

Coltrain was considered, Dr. Dawson explained, "disoriented" and "not suicidal."

Other witnesses said Coltrain had been restrained to his bed with a special cloth belt and leather cuffs just prior to the fatal plunge, and seemed to be sleeping.

He apparently loosened his arms, slipped out of the belt, then opened a window of his room and climbed out unobserved.

Other witnesses said they saw Coltrain standing on a narrow ledge above the second-floor windows, with one hand holding onto the ledge just seconds before his fall. He had been inching along the ledge, they testified.

In rendering their findings, the jury said in their opinion, "all necessary precautions" had been maintained in keeping with the general conduct of such cases and found no negligence involved in the death.

Co-Chairmen Jose Feliciano At ECU Friday

The 1970 Carousel at East Carolina University, sponsored by the Student Government Association, will feature several events this week.

The schedule of events includes: Thursday, 8:15 p.m., "Your Own Thing"; Friday, 8:15 p.m., Jose Feliciano; Saturday, 1:6 p.m., W.C. Fields Film Festival; Saturday, 8 p.m., Union Dance; Sunday, 3 p.m., The Brooklyn Bridge.

"Your Own Thing" will be presented in Wright Auditorium. It is a joyful, modern musical comedy version of Shakespeare's romantic comedy, "Twelfth Night." The original Shakespearean tale of mixed-up lovers has been given a hilarious contemporary switch in the musical.

Jose Feliciano will perform in Minges Coliseum Friday night at 8:15.

Born totally blind, Feliciano became interested in music at an early age. He filmed the "Jose Feliciano Show" in London in 1967, a show that will be aired later this fall.

He recently completed taping the soundtrack for the production of "MacKenna's Gold."

Feliciano's current hit is "Light My Fire."

A W.C. Fields Film Festival will be held Saturday afternoon from 1 o'clock until 6 o'clock for ECU students and faculty only. The scheduled movies include: 1 p.m., "The Fatal Glass of Beer" (20 min.); 1:20 p.m., "My Little Chickadee" (92 min.); 2:52 p.m.

and understand. This entire problem must take priority over everything else in our lives at this moment. It is now or never."

The committee members agreed unanimously on this point, and requested Dr. Humber to contact Dr. Cleetwood and the board members asking them to meet with the committee today.

"There are many things which can be done," Dr. Humber stated, "but we must hear from every group concerned in order to get all the facts from all the sources available."

Urging that action by the committee be continued without delay, Rev. Tommy Payne recommended the committee ask the members of the School Board, Superintendent Dr. Cleetwood and principal Glenn Cox be asked to meet with the committee today at noon.

"We all know the students are depending on us to really come up with something they can see discipline. I was shocked when I came here. You had to respect the faculty at Eppes. Here, you respect some, some you don't."

Committee member Jerry Paul wanted to know "why is it necessary to have so many rules, "adding that students of high school age should "know the normal rules of human conduct."

Gardner told him: "You miss the point. We saw white students do things we had not done before, and we decided we could do these things too. Then rules started changing. It seemed to use the changes seemed directed to the black student. We may be right or wrong in this feeling, but that's the way it seemed to us."

Touching on the failure to lay the groundwork for facing a new situation with preparedness, committee member Mrs. Liz Wilkerson pointed out, "The Pitt Inter-Racial Council last summer urged action before the merger. We urged the administration to arrange joint meetings. This was not permitted for one nitty-gritty reason or another. We had fears, we urged the administration to make statements, to take preventive steps. We were not successful."

Attorney Kenneth Hite commented that "our problem here is not a basic one of education. I think our purpose here is to look at the human side. People are in conflict, that is our basic problem. But we must remember we are looking for shortcoming in all phases of this problem. It is not so much the administration, but each of us who must share the blame for this situation."

Dr. Malene Irons commented, "We simply must create a situation where things like this boy being hurt Monday cannot happen again. Things like this are unbearable."

A campaign aide said he thought of the idea after reading about a church that featured "pray now-pay later" donations made by charge cards.

Urging that action by the committee be continued without delay, Rev. Tommy Payne recommended the committee ask the members of the School Board, Superintendent Dr. Cleetwood and principal Glenn Cox be asked to meet with the committee today at noon.

"We all know the students are depending on us to really come up with something they can see and understand. This entire problem must take priority over everything else in our lives at this moment. It is now or never."

The committee members agreed unanimously on this point, and requested Dr. Humber to contact Dr. Cleetwood and the board members asking them to meet with the committee today.

"There are many things which can be done," Dr. Humber stated, "but we must hear from every group concerned in order to get all the facts from all the sources available."

"The Barber Shop," (20 min); 3:12 p.m., 10 minute intermission; 3:22 p.m., "Never Give A Sucker An Even Break" (63 min); 4:25 p.m., "The Pharmacist" (20 min.); 4:45 p.m., "Million Dollar Legs" (65 minutes).

A Union Dance featuring the Embers will be held Saturday from 8 p.m. until midnight in Wright Auditorium. The dance, sponsored by the Union Committee, is for the students and their guests.

"The Brooklyn Bridge" will present a concert Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Minges Coliseum.

Organized in 1968, "The Brooklyn Bridge" is composed of 10 males and one female. Their first single "The Worst That Can Happen" was one of the biggest records for 1969.

Firemen Answer 2 False Alarms

Greenville Firemen yesterday received two false alarms, one at 11 a.m. by telephone and the second at 2:57 p.m. from an alarm box.

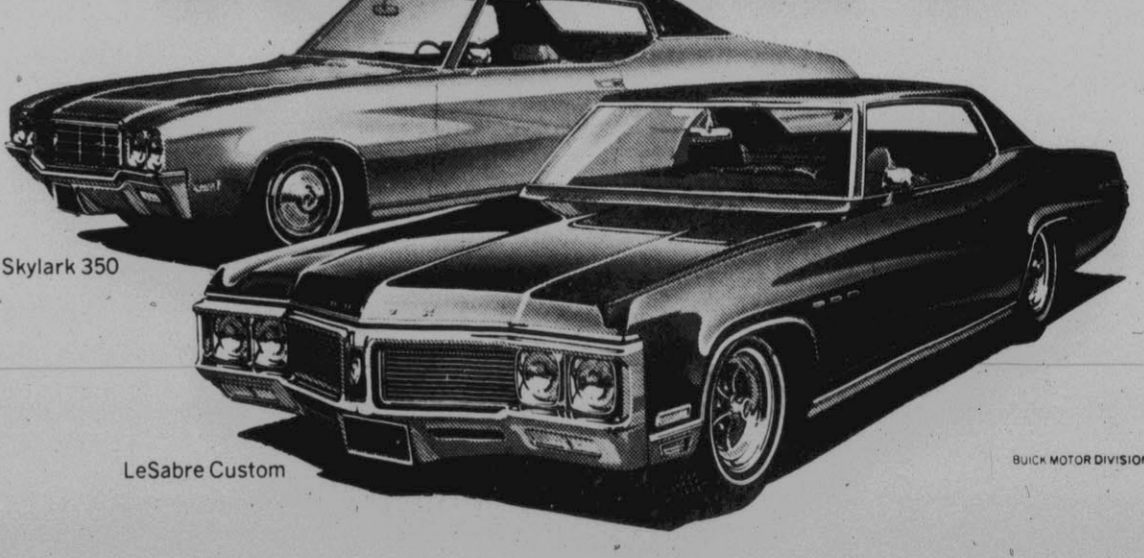

Officers said the first of the calls reported a fire in the Greenville Terrace Area, but responding units were unable to locate any fire.

The second of the calls came from Box 135 at the intersection of Third and White Streets, where several other false calls have originated in the past five days.

The City of Greenville will pay $100 to anyone giving information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons turning in false alarms.

Two years from now a 1970 Buick should be a little newer than most other cars.

Buicks are built that way. Checked and rechecked. Buick drive trains are balanced right on the cars. Buicks have semi-closed cooling systems. They should never overheat. Every Buick has a strong, long-lasting body by Fisher. All Buick V8 engines have carburetor time modulated choke controls for fast, easy starting in any weather. Every time. Every Buick V-8 engine is precision balanced and inspected right on the assembly line by a unique compressed air technique known as air motoring. Buick developed it. It's another Buick exclusive. That, incredibly, is only the beginning.

The final result is lasting value. An integral part of every Buick. Standard equipment on the Buick Value Center. That's waiting for you at the Buick Value Center. The Buick showroom nearest you. Where you can learn all the facts about the new cars that will stay new longer. Where you can begin enjoying Buick value.
