Paul Eugene Gilly, in connection with the murders of United Mine Workers official Joseph A. Yablonski, his wife and his daughter. (AP Wirephoto)

FBI Holding 3 In Yablonski Slayings

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The FBI kept secret today details behind the arrests of three men held in connection with the gunshot slayings of Joseph Yablonski, United Mine Workers insurgent, and his wife and daughter.

In Washington, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover would only say that the three, all from the Cleveland area, were charged with violating federal laws in connection with the deaths.

Held in Cuyahoga County Jail were Paul E. Gilly, 37, a house painter from East Cleveland; Aubran W. "Buddy" Martin, 23, a Cleveland laborer, and Claude E. Vealey, 26, who gave no address.

The three were scheduled to appear before a U.S. Commissioner today on charges of interfering with the rights of a union member by force or violence; conspiring to interfere with a union member's rights and obstruction of justice.

Vealey, an Ohio State Reformatory parolee, also was charged with violating the federal firearms act by transporting firearms across state lines.

Family members have asserted that the slayings of Yablonski, 59, his wife Margaret, 57, and daughter Charlotte Joanne, 25, stemmed from Yablonski's unsuccessful bid to become president of the UMW.

Yablonski had made an unsuccessful attempt to unseat UMW President W. A. "Tony" Boyle in a bitter union battle shortly before the slayings.

The FBI did not say whether the three men charged Wednesday were members of the union. But a union spokesman in Washington said in a statement the UMW was "most happy to learn that they apparently have no connection with the UMW."

The bodies of Yablonski, his wife and their daughter were found Jan. 5 in their home at Clarksville, Pa., 35 miles south of Pittsburgh. Hoover said they apparently had been dead since Dec. 31.

Hoover said Yablonski reportedly "had been stalked and his residence cased on several occasions prior to commission of the crime during the early morning hours of New Year's Eve."

The Cleveland Plain Dealer reported that a gun believed linked to the slayings had been found in this area and sent to FBI laboratories in Washington last week for tests. The newspaper also said FBI agents were searching for a second gun.

Martin was in Cleveland's Warrensville Workhouse when the federal warrants were filed. He was sentenced Jan. 9 to 55 days for a traffic violation and for resisting arrest and abusing an officer. He had previous arrest records on charges of burglary, larceny and disorderly conduct.

Vealey's record shows three arrests since 1961 on burglary, larceny and automobile trespass charges. He was sentenced to the reformatory in 1966 for a tavern burglary and was paroled in 1969 after serving three years of a 1-to-7-year term.

Cleveland police said Vealey was picked up last Oct. 6 for investigation in connection with the shooting of his sister, Carol, but no charges were filed. Gilly has no previous record.

$63,000 Grant Approved For Social Service Center

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
Mayor Frank M. Wooten has been notified that an application for a grant of $63,000 to be used toward renovations of a building in Moyewood as a "multi-purpose" Social Service Center has been approved for the city by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Notification of the grant, received under the Federal Neighborhood Facility Program, came by wire from Lawrence M. Cox, an assistant secretary in the HUD office in Washington, D. C.

Confirmation of the grant was received Tuesday from Sen. Sam Ervin's office in Washington and from Congressman Walter Jones.

Plans for the money call for complete renovations of the interior of the old Pitt County Maintenance Garage located, within the limits of the Moyewood Housing Project.

T. I. Wagner, deputy director of the Redevelopment Commission, said the $63,000, along with $20,000 that has been appropriated by the city, will cover the cost of the proposed renovations.

The outside of the building, he said, will also be renovated to complement the surrounding design of the Moyewood subdivision. Money for the outside work, he added, had been granted earlier to the local Housing Authority.

City manager Harry Hagerty said Wednesday, "I'm quite excited about the prospects of the Social Services Center being established here. I think it is fine that the city is taking the lead in an effort to provide meaningful leisure for some of the older citizens of the city as well as the younger ones."

The city council acted favorably toward the matter and agreed to furnish $20,000 for the renovations of the building and provide continued maintenance and up-keep on the facility in the future, Hagerty said.

When completed, the center will serve primarily the people in the housing project and those living in the western neighborhoods of the city, Wagner said. However, the center will be open to all citizens of the city, he added.

The city has a contract with the Division of Continuing Education at East Carolina University to serve as the operating agency of the center. Wagner pointed out that the contract is the first of its kind in the Southeastern United States drawn up between a city and university for operation of a social services center of this type. ## Daily Reflector Recognized For Associated Press Role CHAPEL HILL (AP) — The Greenville Daily Reflector was recognized by the Associated Press today for outstanding cooperation among members with less than 25,000 circulation on a single story.

The citation was for coverage of racial flare-ups at Rose High School. The award was accepted by the newspaper's editor, David J. Whitchard.

The Associated Press cited the Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel for the best overall membership cooperation among North Carolina newspapers.

The news cooperative's Tim Parker Plaque was awarded to J. Patrick Kelly, executive editor of the two newspapers, for outstanding coverage of news and cooperation in pictures and enterprise stories.

The plaque, awarded annually at the AP Club luncheon at Chapel Hill, is named for the late chief of the Associated Press bureau in Charlotte. Parker died in 1963.

Other newspapers receiving awards at the luncheon:

—The Greensboro Record and the Asheville Citizen-Times, tied in voting for the best continued cooperation among newspapers with circulation of 25,000 or more.

—Goldboro News-Argus, best continued cooperation among newspapers with less than 25,000 circulation.

—Durham Herald, outstanding cooperation among members with 25,000 circulation on a single story, the shooting of State Highway Patrolman.

In presenting the Parker plaque to the Winston-Salem members, AP Chief of Bureau Carl Bell, Parker's successor, said the Journal and Sentinel were recognized not only for their coverage of Winston-Salem and Forsyth County, but also for coverage of the surrounding area.

The AP Club luncheon is held yearly in conjunction with the North Carolina Press Institute at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Members of the club are publishers and editors of Associated Press member newspapers in North Carolina. The AP is a cooperative through which members exchange news in addition to receiving that written by AP writers.

Marvin Arrowsmith, chief of the AP Washington bureau, was the guest speaker for the luncheon.

New Medical School Said Needed

Governor Sees Crisis In Medical Care Needs

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott said today North Carolina has a crisis situation in medical care and called for steps to help the situation.

The governor noted: "Children in 42 other states have a longer average life expectancy than children in North Carolina." "Large numbers of our citizens are not receiving even minimally adequate health care," he said in a talk prepared for delivery to the 36th annual convention of the North Carolina Dairy Products Association.

"We must persuade the officials of the three medical schools in our state to increase their enrollments and thereby turn out more doctors," Scott said.

"We need to plan now for another medical training facility in the state," he said. He noted it would be the 1980s before graduates of a new medical school "could possibly be out in the communities hearing our sick."

And by 1980, he said, "we can expect to have almost six million people living within our borders."

He noted that Duke University has begun training physician's assistants and asked, "Why not have more programs to train physician's assistants?"

Scott said the crisis in health care "is here — now — in North Carolina."

Selective service examinations, he said, "have consistently failed a high proportion of the young men in North Carolina."

He said examination of four and five-year-olds in the Operation Head State program "in many areas of our state uncovered serious health problems among children barely out of diapers."

The governor said a recent survey of 11,600 low-income families in North Carolina "showed that 64 per cent of them had never had any contact with county health departments."

Scott said only 10 or 11 states rank below North Carolina in number of doctors. "There are three doctors or less in each of 15 of our eastern and western counties," he said, "while five have only one doctor and one has none."

He pointed to the number of dentists, nurses and physical therapists and asserted, "The situation is also critical in other areas of health manpower."

Scott said the 1969 General Assembly had taken "strong and deliberate action" to "get more doctors." These included payments to Duke and Wake Forest medical schools for each North Carolina youth they train, funds to build new teaching and bed care facilities at the University of North Carolina, and funds allocated for planning a two-year medical school curriculum at East Carolina University.

He suggested that perhaps social workers, volunteer groups, candy strippers and ministers could be trained "to assist our uninformed citizens in obtaining their rightful access to adequate health care."

He said in poor neighborhoods, "An individual from the neighborhood might be employed and trained to assist his neighbors in finding the right health care resources and in getting transportation."

"Regional telephone health information centers could be established, to which everyone in the state could call free of charge. These centers would give information about hours and dates of special clinics and sources of sick room benefit. They could answer questions about Medicare and Medicaid benefits."

"With small additional resources, regional health planning councils could be established to serve all 100 counties of the state ..."

"For less than $500,000 additional each year," he said, "every school-entering child could be given a health appraisal by technical personnel under the general supervision of a physician."

Stress On Nat'l Affairs

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon told Congress and the nation today he will boost spending to fight crime and pollution at home and, in foreign affairs, can foresee "a generation of uninterrupted peace."

In his first state of the Union address, before a joint Senate-House session, Nixon said law enforcement agencies will be the only ones to receive increased funds in his forthcoming federal budget.

And he said he will propose the biggest, costliest antipollution program ever—with $10 billion to be spent on "clean water" projects alone. The outlays would be made over a five-year period.

Touching briefly on foreign affairs, Nixon foresaw progress in achieving peace in Vietnam and looked hopefully toward fruitful negotiations with the Soviet Union and, possibly, Communist China.

"I would be the last to suggest that the road to peace is not difficult and dangerous," he said, "but I believe our new policies have contributed to the prospect that America may have the best chance since World War II to enjoy a generation of uninterrupted peace."

Announcing that he will submit at least a dozen major legislative programs during the 1970 congressional session, Nixon also called for early action on more than 40 bills he submitted last year that await attention.

Nixon, emphasizing domestic concerns in his 4,500-word address, placed particular stress on efforts to curb inflation, crime and pollution.

The chief executive, promising to submit his second straight balanced budget in the next two weeks, pointed to budget restraint as a key toward licking inflation, which he blamed largely on federal spending during the Democratic administrations that preceded him during the 60s.

U.S. Census Bureau Will Use Building

The U. S. Census Bureau will occupy the old Post Office Building on Evans Street for about six months while plans are completed and bids taken for renovating the facility for use as a federal office building.

General Services Administration spokesman Tom Rice said from Atlanta yesterday that the Census Bureau will occupy the facility while plans for the renovation of the building is underway.

He noted that renovation of the building, vacated in August 1969 by the Post Office Department, is scheduled for completion by November 1970.

When renovated, the building will house several governmental agencies, including agriculture, Army Intelligence and Selective Service offices, Rice explained.

Renovations will include, among other things, adding a complete second floor to the building which now has a partial second story.

School Board Decides To Follow Regular Procedure On Readmitting Students

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville Board of Education at their special board meeting yesterday concluded that there was no reason to take action on a recommendation made by the Citizens Awareness Committee that 40 suspended students be readmitted on a probationary basis pending due process of hearings.

Pointing out that in view of the fact all these students will have had a hearing and a determination of their status made before the week is out, the board agreed there was no reason to take action on the recommendation.

In confirmation of their stand on maintaining discipline and urging fair play for all students, the board unanimously approved a motion offered by board member Louis W. Gaylord, Jr. stating "the board goes on record reiterating a continued rigid adherence to the code of conduct and begs and urges all teachers, students and school personnel to treat students, black or white, on a fair and impartial basis."

The board and the superintendent, Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, had met with the Citizens Awareness Committee at Rose High on Tuesday at the request of the committee. Co-chairman Dr. Robert Lee Humber had submitted to them a recommendation that "the committee is asking you to consider readmitting the 40 students who have been suspended ... to permit the students to take exams and to continue with their education."

Since the students, according to Principal Glenn Cox "with the possible exception of four or five who may not be readmitted," will be reinstated prior to Monday as the result of due process, and since mid-term exams are not scheduled until Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week, the board members were assured by school officials that readmitted students would indeed have an opportunity to take exams.

Cox also reported to the board members that as of noon yesterday, nine students had been readmitted and that due process hearings are being conducted on a full continuing schedule. Confusion has existed in the minds of some students and parents. Exams, originally scheduled at the beginning of the school year for this week, had been set back one week as a result of time lost from the October disturbance. Rescheduling was decided on before Christmas. It was evident that all concerned were not aware of this and were still thinking in terms of exams being held this week.

Opinions of the faculty at Rose High School were taken into consideration. Yesterday morning teachers were furnished an opinion paper to indicate their approval or disapproval of the suggestion to readmit the 40 students.

A tally of the papers completed by teachers revealed that 29 disapproved, 20 approved and 8 gave comments, but did not indicate a definite vote of approval or disapproval.

Members of the school board expressed their sincere appreciation for what they jointly state has been "a truly vital concern, interest, and use of time and talents shown by the recently formed Citizens Awareness Committee."

A look at some of the comments made by faculty members at Rose reveals a variety of reasons for teacher's approval and disapproval of the recommendation made by the Citizens Awareness Committee:

"I approve ... until the parties responsible for misconduct can be determined ... with the temporary reinstatement ... some things must be done to reinforce a feeling on the part of students and community, of confidence in the integrity of teachers and administration and the necessity for respecting the authority in disciplining students. How can (Continued On Page 10)

Silver Beaver Award Is Presented Knott Proctor

Knott Proctor Jr. of Greenville was presented the East Carolina Council's highest award in scouting, the Silver Beaver Award, on Tuesday night at the Council's annual meeting.

The award to Proctor, who is currently district scouting chairman for Pitt County, was presented in recognition of outstanding service to boyhood and work with the Boy Scout program.

Special awards were presented to Dr. Harry Billica and Dr. Herbert Hadley for their work and efforts in developing scouting camps for the youth of Pitt County and the East Carolina Scouting Council.

Ed Rawl Jr. received a special trophy on his retirement from the post of Council President. Rawl has served the council in the president's capacity for the past two years.

Other activities Tuesday night included the installation of the members of the council executive board for 1970. Local men who were installed included: Fred Baumann, Dr.

Harry Billica, Rev. Tom House, Dr. Ed Clement, Paul Redgate, J.B. Congleton Jr., Dr. Herbert Hadley and Knott Proctor Jr.

Others installed were E.E. Rawl Jr., Frank Steinbeck Sr., Dr. Allen Taylor, Dr. Earl Trevathan, Dr. Bert Warren, Dr. Andrew Best, Wyatt Brown, Harold Staten and D.M. Nobles.

Opening ceremonies for the annual occasion were handled by Troop 362, sponsored by the Moose Lodge and closing activities were conducted by Troop 452, sponsored by the First Free Will Baptist Church.

Home Savings And Loan Deposits Grow During Year

"Savings accounts increased from $10,929,458 to $11,273,831 ... net additions to savings totaling $344,372 ... during the first half of the year," executive vice president H.W. Lee told stockholders of Home Savings and Loan Association Tuesday night at their 64th annual session.

The figures represented only $40,000 less than additions for the same period in 1968, Lee said, and second half of the year savings accounts increased by approximately the same amount ... $328,724.

Lee pointed out that the savings for the last half of the year showed a sharp drop as compared to $580,000 for the same period of 1968. When viewed on the national scale of withdrawals for that period, Lee added, the $328,000 in new savings were welcome figures.

Increasing rates charged by the Federal Home Bank were cited by Lee as resulting in a decrease in the number of loans made during 1969 as compared to 1968. New loans totaled 117 for the past year; 168 new loans were handled in 1968.

Celebrities Often Skip Out On Bills

By Abigail Van Buren

(c. 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Please do not disclose my name, or where this letter is from, just sign it "DISGUSTED WITH CELEBRITIES," and let me have my say:

I am in a business which caters to people who want the best and expect to pay for it. My problem, Dear Abby, is getting my money from some of these celebrities. If I were to mention the names of some celebrities who have stuck me for thousands of dollars, you'd say I was lying.

Don't say, "Sue them!" It costs money to sue people, and collection agencies take a big percentage of whatever they can get out of some of those deadbeats.

Give me the honest, quiet rich "nobodies" who pay their bills, and you can have the celebrities who think they're doing you a favor by "honoring" you with their accounts.

DISGUSTED WITH CELEBRITIES

DEAR DISGUSTED: Your complaint is not a new one. Most "celebrities" are notoriously inept when it comes to managing money. [The smart ones have business managers who dole out a living allowance.]

Your only protection against celebrities who eat chicken one week and feathers the next, is to check and double check their credit, or deliver C. O. D.

DEAR ABBY: I read your letter from "NO SAINT" and can appreciate his problem. I happen to be a SQUARE JOHN [never been convicted] who is associated with the SEVENTH STEP FOUNDATION, an organization to assist convicts and ex-convicts. We try to find jobs, living quarters and offer friendship, advice and counseling.

"NO SAINT" and any others with this problem can write to THE SEVENTH STEP FOUNDATION, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL. 94106, and we will direct him to the nearest chapter who will take over from there.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN P. FINSLAND, President

DEAR JOHN: I have checked you out with the Shell Oil Company for whom you work, and you are A-OK. A million thanks.

DEAR ABBY: For reasons of health, I must have all my teeth extracted soon, and here is my problem. First I should tell you that I am a 55-year-old grandmother.

Abby, I have always had a very ugly mouth. My teeth stuck out in front, and to make matters worse, they were parted in the middle.

My dentist told me that he could give me a beautiful mouth with nicely spaced teeth and no sticking out in front. I was really looking forward to having my teeth out and getting a prettier mouth until I told my sister-in-law about it, and she said, "Oh, no, don't do it! It won't look like YOU. A really good dentist would try to make your 'new' teeth look as much like your 'old' teeth as possible."

Abby, I don't want my "new" teeth to look like my "old" teeth. I've hated those ugly teeth all my life, and now I want to look as pretty as possible.

Please tell me if you think I'm wrong. Or is my sister-in-law? My dentist says it is up to me. He can do it either way.

DEAR WAITING: I don't blame you for wanting a new, prettier mouth. Stick with your original idea, and more power to you.

DEAR ABBY: Whenever any woman, or groups of women, come to our home, my husband immediately stops everything to join us.

To me, this is wrong. Whenever a man [or men] come to see HIM, I make myself scarce, and I wouldn't think of joining the men unless invited.

It is the same when we are in mixed company. He is always wherever the women are. What is wrong with him? It is very embarrassing.

SOMEBODY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Your husband likes to be in the presence of women. And if he's the only man, he probably enjoys it all the more. It's not a serious offense, but rather a petty fault. Tell him [without ruffling his feathers] to leave the hen parties to the hens.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Girl Scout Leaders Honor Mrs. Brown

The Greenville Girl Scout leaders honored Mrs. Wyatt Brown at a coffee hour Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. J.F. Davenport Jr.

Mrs. Brown has resigned as Neighborhood Chairman of the Greenville Girl Scouts, a position she has held since 1963.

Mrs. Brown was presented an engraved silver tray by Mrs. W.M. Reading on behalf of the Greenville Girl Scouts in appreciation of her seven years as their leader. Mrs. Mary Harvey of Wilson, staff consultant representing Girl Scouts of Coastal Carolina, presented Mrs. Brown a plaque in recognition of her many years of dedicated services to Girl Scouts.

Mrs. Brown has been a Greenville resident since 1936. She has been very active in local church and civic organizations. She has worked with Girl Scouts since 1955, beginning as a Brownie leader and advancing through scouting to senior scouts, before becoming Neighborhood Chairman in 1963.

Mrs. Alston Cheek of Greenville has been named the new Neighborhood Chairman.

Mrs. Cheek was director of Christian education at the First Christian Church here from 1963-66. She then became assistant dean of women at Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, a position she held until 1969.

Mrs. Cheek's duties will include working with the neighborhood service team, and being responsible for the overall scouting program in Greenville.

Mrs. Charles A. White of Greenville was also present for the event. Mrs. White was president of the Pitt County Girl Scouts before they became the Greenville Neighborhood Girl Scouts.

Dr. Early Speaks to Methodist Women Monday

The Methodist Church is "a church of faith and action," the pastor of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church told the ladies of his church Monday morning.

Dr. Joyce V. Early, pastor of Jarvis Methodist Church, said to the general meeting of the women's Society of Christian Service that already established the North Carolina Methodist Conference are day-care centers, halfway alcoholic centers, recus tents and scholarship funds for young men and women social action.

He also said of the Negro population that 27 Negro Methodist Churches are included in the Conference. Dr. Early was introduced by Mrs. William H. Taft Jr., who gave the meditation.

Mrs. William H. Taft Sr., president of the Women's Society, opened the meeting. She announced that new officers, new secretaries, new committee chairmen and committees, and circle chairmen for the year 1970 will be installed on Sunday, Feb. 1, during the 11 a.m. worship service at the church.

She also called on the following ladies, who gave their respective reports: Mrs. Wyatt Brown, Mrs. Henry E. Coleman, Mrs. Harold Forbes, Mrs. Phil Goodson Jr., Mrs. John Hassell, Mrs. J. B. Kittrell Jr., Mrs. W. Phil Moore Jr., Mrs. Paul Murray, Mrs. Joseph Taft Sr., Mrs. Allen Taylor, Mrs. V. W. Thomas, Mrs. Donald Tucker and Mrs. Sam Underwood Jr.

Mrs. Taft stated that cookbooks, zip code books, note paper and napkins are available to the public. Proceeds will benefit the Building Fund of the church, she said.

The meeting was closed with the reading of the society's benediction.

Business Session Held By AAUW

A business session was held by members of the AAUW at a meeting held Monday night in Erwin Hall.

Mrs. Wellington Gray, president, conducted the meeting. The group decided to have a December meeting this year in order to give additional time for study courses.

The Division Workshop to be held in Rocky Mount on April 25 will stress membership gains and will present results of individual branch study groups.

Mrs. Robert W. Fennell and Miss Sudie Cox plan to attend this meeting from the Greenville Branch.

Mrs. Gray will attend the state board meeting in Salisbury next month. It was the consensus of the group that the Greenville Branch will offer to host the state convention in 1973.

Dr. Tora Larsen, Miss Marguerite Wiggins and Mrs. R. W. Fennell were selected to buy a book to be given to Sheppard Memorial Library in memory of Mrs. J. E. Winslow, a chapter member and past president of AAUW.

Contributions to the AAUW Fellowship Fund will be received during the next two months.

Board Can Achieve Same Ends

Like all Greenville citizens, we want to see harmony restored at Rose High and we feel the board of education has acted properly in following its established procedures concerning the 40 suspended students.

A request was made by the Citizens Awareness Committee that the school readmit the suspended students temporarily so that they would be able to take semester finals scheduled at the high school this week.

We can understand the committee's thoughts on this. However, we feel that the school will accomplish the same end by expediting the hearings for these young people. The school administration indicated that this would be done. Yesterday, it was pointed out that all the cases would be heard this week. The semester finals which were scheduled for Thursday and Friday have been postponed until next week. Thus school officials will consider each case and be in a better position to determine the best disposition for each.

At this stage we feel it is important that rules and regulations be applied fairly at Rose High, if all the students there are to regain confidence in the

ABM 'Ace' In Negotiations

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — U. S. development of the anti-ballistic missile (ABM), approved by a one-vote margin in the Senate last year after a convulsive battle, is proving to be the best card in the U. S. hand in Strategic Arms Limitation Talks with the Soviet Union.

"Without the ABM, we would have been dead at Helsinki," one top Presidential arms control adviser said privately in assessing the first stage of the arms talks in Finland.

Although U. S. experts learned long ago to be triply cautious in appraising Soviet negotiating objectives—real objectives, as opposed to propaganda objectives—the Helsinki talks, now in recess, left the following impression on the American negotiating team:

U. S. development of the ABM has become almost an obsession with Moscow. However, U. S. development of MIRVs—multiple, independently-targeted re-entry vehicles—is almost beneath Soviet attention.

If this genuinely reflects Soviet thinking, it means that the ABM, not the MIRV, is the best U. S. bargaining counter in trying to convince Moscow that the time has come to ease off the dangerous nuclear arms race. The Nixon administration definitely thinks so. Thus, Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird, who led the 1969 battle for phase one of President Nixon's "Safeguard" ABM plan, is just as anxious for Congressional approval of phase two (the precise extent of which is still secret).

At Helsinki, Soviet negotiators were not openly confessing any apprehension about the U. S. ABM program but, reading between the lines, diplomatic experts detected a deep and underlying concern over the rapidly growing U. S. ABM technology. That Soviet view of the ABM, moreover, is significantly different from two years ago and reflects a basic change in Soviet thinking on strategic weapons.

When Premier Alexei Kosygin came and met President Johnson at Glassboro, N. J., in 1967, he defended the Soviet beginning of an ABM system as a humanitarian insurance policy—a defense measure for civilians against possible nuclear attack.

This appraisal had undergone conceptual transformation at Helsinki. Instead of being a humanitarian Soviet development, it had become a wicked multiplying factor in U. S. escalation of the arms race. In other words, rapid technological advances by the U. S. in ABM development had obliterated the Soviet rationale about ABMs.

Indeed, the Soviets now seem to be duplicating Mr. Johnson's position at Glassboro when he argued that neither nation should start building the ABM. Mr. Johnson's view was that, once either side began development of the ABM, the other side would have to develop a new offensive capability to offset the added protection of the ABM.

This made little or no impression on the Russians. Now, however, as they face a more advanced ABM technology in the U. S. than they themselves possess, they regard the U. S. system as one that carries the gravest long-range threat to the Soviet Union.

There was no similar Soviet concern at Helsinki over U. S. development of MIRVs. Here, the technological advantage is strongly with the Russians, for one major reason: the thrust or "throw-weight" of the standard Soviet long-range missile, the SS-9, is incomparably greater than the thrust of the Minuteman, the standard U. S. long-range missile.

Boiled down, this means that when the SS-9 is "mirved"—that is, when its up-to-25 megaton warhead is split into three parts and three separate weapons are dropped from a single carrier—each of the three parts could be a death threat to a hardened U. S. Minuteman site not protected by ABM.

But when the Minuteman is "mirved," the result is three weapons of only fractional megatonnage—useful as a counterforce against Soviet industrial targets and population centers in response to a Soviet first strike, but not as destroyers of SS-9 missile sites.

administration. If the board of education were to deviate from its procedure of holding hearings for each suspended student, it is likely that this situation would be come even more confused.

The formation of the Citizens Awareness Committee has had a calming effect at Rose High and the men and women serving on this committee are performing a valuable service to the community.

The board of education has dealt thoughtfully with the committee's principal concern—that the suspended students would miss the semester finals. All of the students who were suspended should have had hearings by then and some disposition made of each case. This is the fairest way and it will be in the best interest of the students involved.

Regional Air Service Idea Keeps Returning

Nothing could be more exciting for our area than the proposal by the Mid-East Economic Development Commission for seeking scheduled airline service at Pitt - Greenville Airport.

The commission, meeting at the Washington Country Club Tuesday night, recommended that a Mid-East Airport Authority be formed to seek airline service.

Action would be subject to approval of county and two governments in Pitt, Martin and Beaufort Counties.

Greenville and Pitt County have long been interested in regional air service to provide the type service which would be to the best advantage of the entire area. The Pitt - Greenville Airport has been steadily improved over the years so that it would be in condition for air service.

Pitt, Beaufort and Martin Counties would make an ideal area to support regional service. Since Pitt - Greenville Airport has been kept in good condition, service could be inaugurated quickly with CBA approval.

Much Like The 'Cuba Crisis'

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The battle against inflation is to Richard M. Nixon what the Cuban missile crisis was to John F. Kennedy. The consequences might be less, but the pressures are as great and the ordeal is longer.

The question that the President, his staff and the Federal Reserve Board are now asking themselves is this:

How do you break an inflationary psychology without breaking the spirit of the ordinary American and the company he works for and without incurring serious damage to the economic system?

This is the situation: Inflation is now consuming the value of the dollar at an annual rate in excess of 7 per cent, a fact so well known by most Americans that they are determined not to get burned in the future.

Whether it is businessmen or consumers, the nature of their plans is the same: Inflation is going to continue, they say, and so we must protect our interests.

When such an attitude takes hold, some people tend to spend with more abandon than is their custom. There is a tendency also to borrow more on the assumption the debt can be paid in cheaper dollars.

How do you battle such a psychology? Standard practice is for the government to smother demand from both business and consumers by limiting the supply of money, by cutting government spending, by maintaining high taxes.

Standard practice,

however, has not proved itself. Mechanically speaking, it should work. But human nature is difficult to fathom. Many Americans refuse to believe inflation will be constrained.

The demands of labor provide a perfect example. On a treadmill for several years, some unions this year are determined to obtain settlements that will protect them against inflation in the future.

Evidence of the psychology is obvious also in the business world. Some professional consultants have stated flatly that inflation will continue, that you must spend to keep pace with it and even borrow to do so.

When such attitudes prevail, there is a natural tendency on the part of government and the Federal Reserve to persist in their efforts also, and so the two sides continue to increase the pressure like combatants in a painful Indian wrestling match.

Increasingly, however, the efforts of government to destroy the inflationary psychology are bringing the economy closer to recession.

In fact, some economists routinely described the present economy as in recession.

If the economy, over-all, is not in recession, certain segments are. The housing industry is being changed radically: Housing starts are less than one-half the number needed; small builders are being driven out of business.

How far must the government and the Federal Reserve go to prove they mean to bring inflation under

Population And The Law

Alan Barth of the Washington Post has been writing editorials in this town since 1921, or for roughly 150 years. He is among the most experienced men in the pundit racket, and you might have supposed he would have learned, by this time, never to write a piece of satire unless the piece is preceded by an editor's note: "The following article is writ sarkastick." Alas for the venerable sage, flinging caution to the winds, he tried his hand the other day at a satire on population control. His modest proposal was for a licensing system, by which prospective parents would have to apply to a state board, like undertakers, doctors or plumbers, for licenses to engage in the parent business. No permit, no progeny.

Well, the roof fell in, and Barth backed up in a thousand words of rue. The race, it seems, is not always to the Swift. Yet even as he was doing penance for wit, another writer was tackling the same theme—Richard D. Lamm of Denver, in the January Journal of the American Bar Association. And, Lamm was not kidding. He is a member of the Colorado legislature and the principal author of Colorado's much publicized abortion law. In an excellent essay, he examines the legal prospects for population control. By control, he means just that: control.

The notion is shocking. It flies in the teeth of ancient commandments: "Be ye fruitful, and multiply; bring forth abundantly in the earth, and multiply therein." The Psalmist painted the accepted picture: "Thy wife shall be as a fruitful vine by the sides of thine house; thy children like olive plants round about the table."

As Lamm remarks, the prospect also flies in the teeth of trends at law. Ironically, the famous Griswold case of 1965, which struck down Connecticut's archaic law against the use of contraceptives, may one day have to be turned on its head. If voluntary measures fail to stem the tides of population, a lawful course may have to be devised to compel contraception.

Barth, Lamm, and countless other thoughtful observers begin with the same premises. At present rates of population growth, our world is headed for disaster. Either the birth rate must go down, or the death rate must go up. Programs of voluntary birth control have not wholly failed, but they have generally failed; meanwhile, prodigious efforts are being exerted to prolong man's life.

Other Editors Say Jean Scores Again

(Wilson Daily Times) When it comes to hitting the bull's-eye Jean Kerr has a high score. She has another article coming out soon in Family Circle, and if it is as clever as the news release it is worth reading.

The title of the article is "Marriage: Unsafe At Any Speed." She makes out a good case for what she says. And if the about to be married couple can pass the road test she outlines they are certain to make a success of their married life.

But why say more, she puts it so cleverly, that all that we are saying is just gilding the lily.

"Pointing out that it is harder to get a driver's license than a marriage license, Jean Kerr suggests that persons about to be married should be required to undergo eye, road and written tests.

"Marriage is an unsafe arrangement that has no guarantee, no warranty and no money back, the author of 'Please Don't Eat the Daisies' says in the current issue of Family Circle. 'Think of the innocents,' she writes in the magazine, 'who make this staggering commitment for reasons no more coherent than that they feel icy fingers up and down their spine and hear music when there's no one there!'"

"It would be helpful, Mrs. Kerr suggests, if an engaged couple was required to undergo an eye test. They should have to prove to some qualified official that they really did see what they saw in each other," she explains.

"Although it would be harder to arrange a road test for marriage that would duplicate the actual traffic conditions, Mrs. Kerr insists it could be done. A couple that wanted to get married could be asked to live for one week in a third-floor walk-up apartment with four children under 10, two of whom have colds. Add a stopped up sink and an unhousebroken puppy, she says, and this would prove an eye-opener to the young couple.

"It isn't so much what people do that causes trouble in marriage, Mrs. Kerr continues, it's what they say. She writes that unfortunately, most people 'rush like lemmings to make the very remark that is bound to lead to dropped forks, slammed doors and a Bad Day at Black Rock.' Concluding that there is a right way to put things and a wrong way, Mrs. Kerr offers a written test in Family Circle to help weed out the unmarriageables who are inclined to always say the wrong thing."

Before they plighted their troth at the altar, he called her by pet names, such as "sweet thing," "Princess," and "my little queen bee." Now, unconsciously imitating the children, he absent-mindedly calls her "Mother."

When they first planned their future, heart to heart, he said it would be wonderful if they had a family of five children. When she reminds him of that now, he rejoins, "Yeah, but I said five kids—not five monsters."

He spent his salary on her like a profligate king in that vanished time when he showered her with roses and candy and wanted to buy her champagne every Saturday night. But what happens now if she asks him for a small check to buy a bargain-basement dress? "Didn't your parents teach you that money doesn't grow on trees?" he moans.

Then he loved to listen to her and said her voice reminded him of soft music. Now if she even opens her mouth, he puts his fingers in his ears and says, "Oh, oh—who turned on Niagara Falls?"

Sometimes when alone she wonders whatever happened to the warm-hearted lover of her youth who always came to her door with flowers in his hand. Now all he has in his hand is a pound of bacon.

But it isn't her fault. A husband, after all, is only a suitor who has gone to seed.

Suitors Just Go To Seed

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP)—As every wife finds out in time, a man is an actor during courtship. It takes marriage to show him in his true colors.

Before the wedding there was nothing he wouldn't do for her. Now if she asks him to go to the store for an item she forgot he delivers an impassioned half-hour monologue on why do I have to do everything around here.

Lightly he picked her up in his arms and carried her across the threshold of their new home the day they returned from their honeymoon. But if she playfully starts to cuddle up in his lap now he complains his knee is sprung.

There was a time when he liked to read her romantic poetry by the hour. Now all he ever reads to her are grim items from the newspaper about the rising cost of living or people who are getting divorces for odd reasons.

A love light used to come into his eyes in the old days when she mischievously ran her fingers through his hair, and he would laugh and clasp her to him tightly. Now, she reflects bitterly, if she ran her fingers through his hair the only result would be to mess up his dandruff.

In the mad glad months when he was courting her, they used to go everywhere together. But now it's a big night out for her if her agrees to escort her to a PTA meeting.

COMMUNICATION

There is an interesting story in the twenty-eighth chapter of Genesis of how the patriarch Jacob dreamed one night of a ladder set up on the earth, "and the top of it reached to heaven; and behold the angels of God were ascending and descending on it."

This picture of a ladder which reached to heaven with angels ascending and descending upon it would seem to mean that there is a constant intercommunication between God and man. The prayers of the individual go up to God. His answer comes down to us. The answer may not be what we expected it would be, but it is God's word from heaven regarding the way we are to live our lives. It is amazing how seldom even the most sincere believing Christian seems to realize that God is near to the human heart and mind, intent on helping and giving, on guiding and protecting. The Bible gives us the assurance that God is not far from every one of us (Acts 17:27). Yet do we actually believe this and believe it to such an extent that we allow this supporting sense of God's presence to come into our lives and make a difference? Always a ladder between ourselves and heaven—the angels of God taking our petitions to the Most High and other angels descending on the same ladder with God's answers.

"Communication" has become a much-used word today. The Bible assures us that we can communicate with God at any time we care to do so. He is not far from any one of us.

Stocks Fool The Morgan Bank

By ELMER ROESSNER

So you took a licking in the stock market last year? J.P. Morgan and Co. Inc., the holding company that owns the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. had investment security losses of $13,358,746 after related income tax deduction.

ELMER ROESSNER

This by the corporate descendants of John Pierpont Morgan, whose wealth and power was so great that he was believed to be able to make or break a market or the United States government!

However, before weeping in memory of the great J.P., note that the holding company, after those security losses, still had a profit of $9,713,255.

Morgan Guaranty had total assets of $11.3 billion at the end of last year, compared with $10.4 billion at the end of 1968.

Change In Accounting

Bank statements for 1969 are not exactly comparable to those for 1968, because government agencies now prescribe the new accounting procedures, one of which requires the inclusion of calculations of investment security losses.

Since not banks suffered little security losses in 1968, but not substantial security losses in the stock market slide in 1969, their year-end figures are less than they would be under 1968, accounting, therefore, their percentage gains are actually greater than they seem.

Nevertheless, 1969 high interest charges, and the much lower interest the Federal Reserve allowed them to pay depositors, provided generous margins for many banks.

This great difference has prevented small savers from enjoying the fat interest rates banks have been getting and which have been available to those wealthy enough to buy Treasury bills, corporate bonds and tax exempt bonds issued in large denominations.

In short the wealthy have had no trouble getting 8 per cent or more on their money, while that salaried man and wage earner has been able to get only 5 per cent or a little more on U.S. Savings bonds or small bank deposits.

Curious, it has not been protests by little people, but complaints by banks that they are losing deposits that the upper class middle class that has caused the Federal Reserve to reconsider its fluctuations on interest rates on savings. Even by the time you read this the Fed may have increased the interest rates bank may pay.

Meanwhile, here are some profit figures of big banks not precisely comparable because of the change in accounting procedures, but surely not seriously distorting happiness.

The BankAmerica Corp. which owns the Bank of America, the nation's largest reported 1969 profits 14.8 per cent higher than in 1968. Total Bank of America resources at the end of 1969 were $25.65 billion, compared with $24.4 billion at the end of 1968; and making the Morgans seem like pikes.

Industrial Bancorp. Providence R.I. reported a 35 per cent increase Seattle First National, 28.7 per cent increase.

National Bank of America an increase of 10.2 per cent

High Court Nominee Repudiates 1948 Statement

By FRANK MURRAY
Associated Press Writer
IRWINTON, Ga. (AP) — Supreme Court nominee G. Harold Carswell, who gave a political speech 22 years ago pledging unyielding devotion to segregation and white supremacy, says he now rejects the words and thoughts as "obnoxious and abhorrent."

"I yield to no man, as a fellow candidate or as a fellow citizen, in the firm, vigorous belief in principles of white supremacy and I shall always be so governed," Carswell said while campaigning unsuccessfully in 1948 for the Georgia legislature. Carswell, 50, repudiated the statement Wednesday night.

"Specifically and categorically I denounce and reject the words themselves and the thoughts they represent," said Carswell, who now is a judge of the U.S. 5th Court of Appeals. "They're obnoxious and abhorrent to my personal philosophy."

He made his remarks in an interview with WJXT in Jacksonville, Fla., and carried over CBS. Carswell lives in Tallahassee, Fla.
"There is nothing in my private life, nor is there anything in my public record of some 17 years, which could possibly indicate that I harbor racist sentiments or the insulting suggestion of racial superiority," he said Wednesday.

President Nixon nominated Carswell Monday to fill the Supreme Court vacancy created when Abe Fortas resigned while under criticism last summer. Nixon had nominated U.S. 4th Court of Appeals Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. for the opening, but the Senate rejected him after debate over his financial dealings.

The White House, which had said in announcing the nomination that Carswell had received a "complete clearance," had no immediate comment Wednesday.
But Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell immediately came to Carswell's defense.
"The remarks attributed to Judge Carswell were made in the heat of a political controversy more than 20 years ago," Mitchell said. "All of the available evidence indicates that Judge Carswell is firmly committed to the constitutional and moral philosophy of racial equality."
"His judicial record on civil rights issues is highly commendable. I think it is unfortunate that a judge of Judge Carswell's high qualifications could be subjected to criticism based on remarks made 22 years ago."

An official of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said Wednesday night his organization's previously announced opposition to Carswell is based on his record as a judge in civil rights cases.
"I have no way of judging whether Judge Carswell's disclaimer of the 1948 statement is true or not," said Dr. John A. Morsell, assistant director of the NAACP, who was contacted in Brooklyn, N.Y.
Carswell was 28 and a recent graduate of Mercer University law school when he gave his speech before an American Legion chapter at Gordon, Ga.
"Segregation of the races is proper and the only practical and correct way of life in our states," Carswell said. "I have always so believed and shall always so act."

Carswell, noting that he had lost the election, said Wednesday night he was defeated "because I was considered too liberal."
The text of his speech was published in Carswell's own weekly newspaper, the Irwinton Bulletin, Aug. 13, 1948.
The 1948 file of the newspaper, the legal record of the county at the time, was taken from court files in Irwinton Wednesday by an attorney shortly after discovery of Carswell's speech.
Wilkinson County Court Clerk Willis I. Allen said the entire 1948 and 1949 volumes were re-

Interest Rate Increase OK'd For Savings And Loan Ass'n's

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, despite misgivings about the timing, has told the nation's 6,000 savings and loan associations they can raise interest rates paid depositors.
For the vast majority of savers—those with the familiar passbook accounts—the maximum rate will rise from 4½ per cent to 5 per cent.
Although each of the nation's S&Ls can make its own decision on raising its interest, board Chairman Preston Martin said he expects most of them will raise it to the limit to meet the competition from banks, which were given new increased ceilings Tuesday.

savings banks, raised the limits on those institutions.
In addition to this increase, the board approved a new "golden passbook" type of account which pays 5½ per cent to savers willing to leave their money at least three months. The same rate will apply to three-month certificates of deposit. Previously the 5½ rate was allowed only on certificates of deposit for one year or more.
Rates on one to two year certificates was raised to 5½ per cent.

Two-year certificates paying 6 per cent to depositors of $10,000 are opened up to new accounts under the new rules. These certificates were first authorized last month, but at that time were restricted only to savers who had $10,000 accounts at that time.

Passbook increases can be made retroactive to Jan. 1, but all others were effective as of the announcement. Passbook accounts make up two-thirds of the $165 billion in the associations.

Martin made it clear at a news conference his three-man board agreed to the increase only because the Federal Reserve Board, which regulates commercial banks, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, which controls mutual sav-

Judge's Advice Negates Penalty

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Supreme Court has overturned 4 to 3 the death penalty for a man because the trial judge told the jury not to be governed by sympathy.
The defendant, William Bandhauer, 32, a Riverside refrigeration worker, was convicted in the shooting death of Walter A. Smith at Riverside Feb. 25, 1966.

In 1967, the state Supreme Court overturned the first death penalty because of prejudicial misconduct by the prosecutor.
The latest decision, announced Wednesday, upheld the conviction but ordered a new penalty trial. It said the trial judge made "a substantial error" when he instructed the jury that "the law forbids you to be governed by mere sentiment, conjecture, sympathy, passion, prejudice, public opinion or public feeling."

Johnsons Taking Mexico Holiday

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — Former President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, here for a vacation, plan to spend the next week in a house at nearby Puerto Marques owned by Former President Miguel Aleman of Mexico.
The Johnsons arrived by private plane Wednesday from Austin, Tex. Their stay in Mexico is expected to last several weeks.

Grounded Trio Flying Again

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Alan Bean, the fourth man to walk on the moon, and two other astronauts have flown planes again after sitting out groundings imposed last month.
Bean was grounded for taking off from Ellington Air Force base without clearance. Walter Cunningham and Joseph Kerwin were cited for failing to file emergency landing plans.
Officials said Wednesday all three groundings ended Monday and the three flew the same day.

'Other Lane' Is Unsafe, Too

LITTLE ROCK Ark. (AP) — Sgt. Jim Wooten of the state police got a call at his office from a woman at Little Rock who inquired about ice and snow on Interstate 40 to Conway.
Wooten said glaze of ice made the divided-highway extremely hazardous, especially in the westbound lane, which runs from Little Rock to Conway.
"In other words, if I went up the other lane, I could make it all right?" Wooten quoted her as relaying.
"Wait a minute, ma'am," Wooten said, and began explaining.

control? How far must they go to convince consumers and businessmen that they mean what they say?

Kilpatrick . . .

to be sure, the outlook is not so grim. Our growth rate has dropped to 1.1 per cent a year. An inventive technology doubtless could find ways of feeding, clothing, housing, and employing our own people for another century or so.
Yet even here, the 1.1 per cent growth rate promises to bring some sobering changes in the lives of our people before this century ends. Our children will live to see overcrowding of our cities to a degree not yet understood. The costs of expanding public services, even in an expanding economy, stun the imagination. As the Conservation Foundation has pointed out, 36.5 million gallons of water must be provided annually for every thousand new Americans — plus sewers, treatment plants, garbage trucks and classrooms.
The United States cannot be viewed in isolation. We are part of mankind, and this is mankind's problem; it will not be possible to separate ourselves economically or ecologically from the rest of the world. What we can do — must do — is to provide leadership and prudent example in the urgent business of slowing population growth. The possibility of killing off our old folk, like aged Eskimos on ice floes, is politically unthinkable; but the possibility of strictly limiting births is thinkable indeed. We must think on it.
Perhaps Barth and Lamm are not so far ahead of the public after all. In 1969, a Gallup Poll found that 44 per cent of those polled thought such limits eventually would be necessary. The time for this idea hasn't come yet; but as Americans fight traffic and much of the world fights famine, the time gets closer year by year.

Burned Out Ayden Voters To Decide Firm Opens On Interest For Bonds At New Site

Heileg-Meyers Furniture Company, whose store was burned last Thursday night, is now open for business at 1604 Dickinson Avenue here.

Store manager, Dee Vinson said that his building which was once the Souther Bakery, is a temporary location until the furniture chain can build a new Greenville store. The company has bought all the stock of Associated Buyers' Club, Ltd., the firm which has been located in the building for several months.

The account cards and other records were in the store's safe and thus were saved from the blaze, Vinson said. He said anyone who wants to pay on his account, return merchandise, or conduct other business with the firm can come to the new location. The temporary telephone number is 752-4882. Vinson said he hopes the store will have Heileg-Meyers' old telephone number within the next few days.

The site of the burned store at the corner of Third and Cotanche Streets is now being cleared "down to the ground," Vinson said. "We will get on with this just as quickly as possible in order to get rid of the ugly sight and remove the odor of smoke from the downtown section. We may rebuild here or we may choose another site, but we definitely will begin building a new store here soon."

AYDEN — Voters here will have an opportunity March 17 to decide whether or not the municipal government may pay more than six per cent per year interest on some $350,000 in bonds scheduled to be sold for construction of a new municipal building.

Ayden citizens approved selling the bonds in an election May 6, 1969. At that time, the Municipal Finance Act of 1921 set a maximum interest rate limitation of six per cent per annum on the bonds.

That Act was changed in June by the General Assembly, according to Town Clerk Don Russell, by deleting the six per cent rate figure and now provides that the rate of interest on bonds be fixed by resolution of the governing body of the issuing municipality.

The March election is being held, Russell said, because the increase in interest rates in the municipal bond market has raised some doubt as to whether or not the bonds can be sold at interest rates within the six per cent per annum limitation.

"The question before voters in March," Russell explained, "will be authorizing the issuance of the bonds approved May 6, at such rates of interest as the board shall determine, whether or not in excess of six per cent per annum."

The Town Board of Commissioners approved the ordinance calling for the special vote at a special meeting Monday night.

The board also approved Mrs. Elva Jefferies as registrar for the special election, to be held in the Ayden Community Building. Registration books for the vote will open Feb. 27 and close on March 6, with March 7 set as Challenge Day.

missioners approved the ordinance calling for the special vote at a special meeting Monday night.

The board also approved Mrs. Elva Jefferies as registrar for the special election, to be held in the Ayden Community Building. Registration books for the vote will open Feb. 27 and close on March 6, with March 7 set as Challenge Day.

New Look, New Sound

look and sound is being provided for the North Carolina Highway Patrol.

To provide greater safety for troopers and motorists, the patrol said Wednesday it is spending $119,000 to install electronic sirens and larger, revolving blue lights on patrol cars.

The electronic siren will emit three noises: siren, wailer and yelper. The new blue light, featuring four sealed beams, is larger than the one now being used.

Maj. J. B. Kuykendall, patrol field operations officer, said the changes will enable motorists to see and hear patrol cars better.

"It's the first change in our lights and sirens since we started putting them on the outside in 1954," Kuykendall said. "These new units increase the sight distance our lights are visible and the yelper will penetrate air conditioned cars."

FTC Uncovers Unrest Over False Food Ads

By JOHN LENGEL Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rich vein of consumer unrest was tapped in two days of Federal Trade Commission hearings on proposed action against false supermarket advertising.

The hearing's purpose was to gather testimony on a proposed rule to require supermarkets to have their advertised bargains in stock at or below the price in the ad. FTC surveys of 10 chains found no bargain on the shelf or a higher price for it as much as a quarter of the time.

But witnesses often went beyond the point.

Father Robert McEwen of the Massachusetts Consumer Association said some terms applied to meat were deceiving and sometimes masked poor grades.

McEwen, several welfare mothers and Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., testified in the hearings that closed Wednesday that a lack of competition makes the food advertising practices possible and that the practices work especially against the poor.

The FTC surveys showed the false advertising practices tended to be more prevalent in the ghetto though also present in the suburbs.

McEwen, Berman and Mrs. Virginia Knauer, the President's expert on consumer affairs, all urged that the FTC rule be applied in other areas—autos, furniture, retail drugs.

Mrs. Knauer said she feels the FTC has the power now to move against the practices.

Grid Ace Defers Political Race

MADISON, Wis. (AP) —

Quarterback Bart Starr says he has decided to play another season for the Green Bay Packers instead of becoming a Republican contender for the seat of Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

In a letter to Wilmer Strubing, chief clerk of the state Assembly, who had been boosting Starr as a candidate, the quarterback said Wednesday:

"We decided to continue our football career for the coming season and would not be able to participate actively in the coming election."

Pitt County Tax Supervisor R. S. Moye urged property owners to list their property—both real and personal—as soon as possible.

According to Moye, "tax listing seems to be lagging throughout the county" with only this week and next week to list.

He cautioned that persons listing after the end of January would be subject to a 10 per cent penalty for listing late.

There are about 25,000 individual listings to be made in the county's 15 townships, Moye said. "Probably not half are listed yet."

Moye said property should be listed in the township in which it is located, and said persons listing are requested to bring their social security number and their motor vehicle registration card with them.

All persons owning real or personal property are required under State Law, to list the property for tax purposes.

Ask Federal Transit Aid

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A group of some 60 business and civic leaders from the Piedmont areas of North Carolina and South Carolina plan to ask the Tar Heel congressional delegation for help in securing money for a regional mass transit system.

The decision came Wednesday at a meeting of the finance committee of the Piedmont Urban Policy Conference.

During the meeting, William McIntyre, chief of the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Planning Commission, said federal agencies do not have enough money to assist in the project.

"They (the Department of Transportation and the Department of Housing and Urban Development) both like the idea and wish us well," he said, "but they don't have monies available for a regional transportation study."

The conference is a private organization interested in improving the quality of life in the Piedmont area.

Indian Tribute To Dr. King

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi dedicated a memorial plaza here Wednesday in memory of Indian independence leader Mohandas K. Gandhi and American civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr.

Mrs. Gandhi said that although the two men never met, their mission was the same: To put an end to inequalities and hatreds.

The plaza has four stone pillars each with quotations from King and Gandhi. Mrs. Gandhi said the plaza symbolized joint efforts by India and the United States to eliminate hatred and violence.

Soldier Of Month: WAC

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP) — Private Winebrenner might not be able to thrust a bayonet through a dummy or lob a grenade with the same force as other soldiers at Ft. Bragg.

However, that didn't stop Winebrenner, Pfc. Lois E., from being named "Soldier of the Month" at the post, the blonde WAC is the first woman to win the honor.

She was selected from more than 1,100 eligible male GIs and a number of other WACs.

She's the daughter of a retired lieutenant colonel from Orlando, Fla., but she doesn't plan on making the Army a career.

The 18-year-old miss hopes to attend the University of Maryland after her tour.

The award is based on personal appearance, knowledge of military affairs and current events and other factors.

Her prize included an engraved cigarette lighter and a three-day pass.

Wood To Show Ceramics Work

Rodger Wood, ceramics instructor at East Carolina University, has a one-man exhibition of his work opening at the Mushroom gallery in Greenville on Sunday, from 3 to 5 p.m.

Wood, who joined the ECU faculty at the beginning of the 1969-70 school year, has already been recognized as an outstanding ceramicist in the state. He received special recognition in the Seventh Annual Piedmont-Craft Exhibition, Mint Museum, Charlotte, which opened Jan. 18.

The Pennsylvania native received the BFA from Carnegie Institute of Technology and the MFA from the Ohio State University.

The public is invited to attend the opening of the show which will continue through Feb. 7.

Congo University Fighting For Its Own Survival

By MORT ROSENBLUM
Associated Press Writer
KISANGANI, The Congo (AP)
The Free University of the Congo (U.L.C.), like a jungle plant, keeps growing back. And while fighting for its own survival, it lends life to the staggering city around it.

After three forced evacuations in its five years, U.L.C.'s student population is 13 times larger than its first class of 37 freshmen.

Students keep coming despite physical and psychological hardships.

Students interrupted final exams in 1967 when machine gun fire came through the windows.
For lack of housing, they slept for 15 and 20 months in semi-open classrooms, unprotected from the rain.

Because of rebellions from 1964 to 1966, the entire school spent two years in borrowed space in another city, at Kinsha-sa's Lovanium University.

This July, U.L.C. will award its first two degrees. Both are in theology. By 1980, plans call for a campus and community of 5,000 students, 10 times the present enrollment.

The school was opened in 1963
as a largely Protestant effort, although 80 per cent of its students are Catholic. An American missionary, Ben C. Hobgood of Lexington, Ky., who remained as crises mounted, is considered one of the school's major reasons for survival.

In 1967, when white mercenaries controlled Kisangani, and then when the Congolese army took over, Hobgood was practically the area's civilian administrator. At one point, local Europeans were telephoning him for permission to paint

"U.L.C." on their cars so they could pass roadblocks.

Hobgood, now on a year's leave in the United States, was acting rector until Louis Molet, a Frenchman, took the job permanently.

The campus is sprawled over Kisangani, with a handful of buildings of its own and leased, borrowed and partly-lent classroom and residential space.

There is a pre-university center at Luluabourg and an extension at Mbandaka, other provincial capitals. Altogether U.L.C.

has 67 professors from 17 countries.

An administration building is to be finished this year, and not long after two dormitories are to be built. All three are financed by the U.S. government.

It's still a makeshift operation, with part of the science laboratories in boxes and high grass on the campus lawns. But the physical plant, run by another missionary, Harry Feckel of Fort Worth, Tex., is catching up with the years of neglect.

Jean-Felix Koli, the dean of student affairs who was educated in Detroit, Mich., has started a social services program to school wives in basic academics and home economics so they won't be left behind their husbands as the men pursue their careers.

"There is a spirit here, a real spirit," says Koli who proudly points out future dimensions of the kingdom from atop the unfinished administration building.

U.L.C. is far smaller than Louvain, which has 2,500 students, and the Official University of the Congo (U.O.C.) at Lub-umbashi, with 2,000 students, the Congo's third university.

Higher education has been a problem for the Congo which,
when it became a sovereign state in June 1960, had about a dozen Congolese holding educational degrees.

Before long, Lovanium will have awarded its 1,000th degree.
The U.O.C. has given far fewer.

Eighty to 90 per cent of Congolese students in universities here are on government scholarships. It costs $1,000 a year to put a student through the U.L.C.
The U.L.C. community is currently the backbone of Kisangani, which has been crippled by the successive rebellions. But nearly everyone concerned feels that the city and the university should lean on each other.

ANCIENT SCOTLAND

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland
(AP) — Archaeologists have uncovered evidence that man lived in Scotland more than 6,000 years ago.

They found on a coastal site six miles north of this university town stone tools and hearths scientifically dated at between 4700 and 4300 B.C.

Birth Control, Abortions Crusader Risks Prison

By NAOMI ROCK
AP Newsfeatures Writer
HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — They sat side by side, the girl, slight, dark, seemingly self-possessed; the woman, gray, frail, trembling; the man, old, quiet, forlorn.

"I can't really take care of myself," said the girl. "How can I take care of a child?"

"If I thought I could be a good parent," her mother cut in, "I'd raise it myself. But I've had two heart attacks ..."

"My daughter's husband is crazy," the man said. "He tried to kill her. She can't have this child."

"Please!" the girl pleaded. "Will you help me?"

Across the desk in this tiny room of a half-remodeled storefront, William Baird raised a hand to his forehead, and shut his eyes momentarily.

"You can't live your daughter's life," he counseled the older woman, now sobbing. "You mustn't feel guilty because you can't raise this child. You must calm down. Your daughter and your husband need you."

Then, turning to the girl, Baird said:

"If abortion is what you really want, I'll help you get one."

Later, after they had gone, Baird leaned back in his chair and sighed.

"I haven't got the heart to say no to anyone," he said. "If it were my wife or my sister, I'd want someone competent. If a woman wants an abortion and I say, 'I agree you should have one, but I won't help you get it,' what good is that?"

"When I see these people cry, I cry with them. When you see how many try suicide, how many use cot hangers, turpentine, lye, bleach or soap suds, how can you be insensitive?"

The door swung inward. William Baird—age 37, father of four, once a medical consultant for a large pharmaceutical firm, now a crusader for women's right to abortion and contraception—was about to listen to another plea.

A tall, blond youth entered, sat down and began to speak.

He had come 75 miles from southern New Jersey on this blustery, freezing night, alone. His girl friend was ill. She was pregnant.

The boy, call him Jim, said he and the girl had been high school sweethearts. They were both college freshmen, he at an Ivy League school. They were both working their way. Marriage now was out, he insisted.

"I can't just give you the name of a doctor," Baird said. "I've got to be sure that abortion is what your girl friend wants. Can you call her?"

Jim dialed a number, spoke briefly, handed over the phone.

"Cathy, do you know who I am and what I do?" Baird asked. "Have you considered all the alternatives? ... Can you talk freely? ... O.K., then just listen and answer yes or no."

"Are you sure you want an abortion? ... Do you understand that when performed by a doctor it's a safe medical procedure?"

"Yes, Cathy, I'll help you."

Baird hung up.

"How will you pay for this?" he asked the youth. "I can't tell you how much. Doctors charge what they think you can afford."

Mid-Term Exams Begin Jan. 28

Mid-term examinations for the high school have been set for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, January 28, 29, and 30, according to word received from School Superintendent Dr. C.C. Cleewood.

On February 2, a unit wide teacher workday has been scheduled. This will be a school holiday for all schools, elementary, junior and high, throughout Greenville.

This is one of the five days scheduled as part of the extended employment workdays for the city school teachers.

Chinese physicians used mold from food to treat boils, carbuncles and infected wounds 3,000 years ago.

"My friend promised to loan me the money," Jim said. "My folks couldn't give it to me even if they knew, and we can't tell her parents. They're uptight moralists. They'd never let us see each other again. I love her, and someday I want to marry her ..."

"I heard about you from kids at school. I'd like to help. Maybe next summer I could work here as a volunteer ..."

"If you really want to help, get me a lecture date at your school," Baird replied. "It's my only source of income ..."

"You should fight for legalization of abortion," he urged. "Write your legislators and congressmen. Join abortion reform groups. Campaign for changes in the laws. Picket! It's not enough that you agree with me. I need you alongside me ..."

When the youth had gone Baird said: "Maybe he'll be different. I've helped more than 3,000 women get abortions in the last five years. All are so thankful. They promise to write, to help, to make donations, to fight for reform. So few keep their promises ..."

He stood up, uncramping his 6-foot frame, glanced at his watch—10:30 p.m.—and peered into the waiting room.

About 30 persons, mostly women, sat squeezed onto wooden benches along three walls, or stood waiting. In the past three hours Baird had conducted eight separate interviews, each longer than the planned 15-minute limit.

He does this three nights a week at his Parents Aid Clinic, going until 2 or 3 a.m.

Depending on what the people can afford, Baird suggests doctors from New York and Pennsylvania to Puerto Rico and England. He prefers England where it's relatively easy to get legal abortions; or Puerto Rico, where authorities, for a price, ignore a flourishing abortion traffic. In Puerto Rico, like in 40 of the 50 states, abortion is legal only to save a woman's life.

Meanwhile, Baird is breaking the law in New York State. He is risking up to six years imprisonment for offering abortion counselling.

Baird has been arrested four times since 1965 for giving advice about, exhibiting or dispensing contraceptive devices. He has not been arrested on abortion charges.

His first two arrests and subsequent court battles helped bring revision of both New York's and New Jersey's 19th century birth control laws. These laws no longer prohibit the dissemination of birth control advice or devices to unmarried women.

And as a result of his fight, Baird was appointed a consultant on birth control problems to the New York State Legislature.

But in Boston, Mass., where he attempted a similar test of the law, Baird was convicted of committing a "crime against chastity, morality, decency and good order." His sentence to three months in prison is being appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

In Wisconsin he is under indictment for holding up a coat hanger and telling a college audience that many women use it to induce abortion. He has been warned that if he returns he will be arrested.

Baird is supported in his work by his wife, Eve, who devotes her spare time to work in the Parents Aid Society's seven-day-a-week birth control clinic. The clinic is run by a doctor, with the help of housewives. All are unpaid volunteers.

The Society also owns a mobile van which, manned by other volunteers, goes into ghetto areas to offer birth control aid. In recent months the mobile clinic has concentrated its work on the Roxbury section of Boston.

One of his chief disappointments, Baird says, is that hospitals, doctors and ministers—even priests—send him women seeking abortion.

"But when I plead for their moral support, or for money for my free birth control clinic they look the other way," he declared.

"I'm afraid to go to prison," he continued. "I'm tired of facing prison terms ... I'm just tired. The five-year fight has drained me mentally and emotionally."

"The only crime I've been guilty of is caring enough ..."

"Right now I'm the lowest I've ever been."

Power, Precision, Luxury In Model 'Dream Car'

By PATRICK O'KEEFE
Associated Press Writer
MODENA, Italy (AP) — Tom Meade's dream car sits glistening in an autumn drizzle, a package of power, precision and luxury.

You bend low and slip behind the wheel, lying back in the cushiony purple velvet seat so that your head isn't much higher than your feet. "People aren't used to lying in a car," says Meade, looking down at you. "But it becomes relaxing, especially on long trips."

But isn't there a danger of getting too relaxed and falling asleep?

"Not with this car," replies Meade, a blond 30-year-old Californian who has built 18 cars over eight years in this Italian auto racing capital.

He is probably right. The car has too much to keep you occupied. The sleek prototype took 7,000 manhours over 11 months to build. Meade originally wanted it for himself, but now has put a price of $25,000 on it. "There are materials from 10 different countries here," he says, "and what we order is the best from each country"—steel from England, bearings from Sweden and Germany, plastics and tires from America.

The power plant is a GTO-type 3,000 cc Ferrari racing engine that will push the 14-foot prototype to 190 m.p.h.

At your fingertips is a gearbox with five forward speeds plus reverse. Above your right shoulder, on the low ceiling, are the controls normally located on a dashboard—levers for lights, windshield wipers, electric window, air conditioning.

The chassis stands just 38 inches high at the cockpit. It is of hand-formed aluminum, and is aerodynamically designed for a minimum of air drag. All the car's parts, says Meade, were honed to "aircraft precision."

Meade has leased a 2,500-square-foot garage and has lined up 15 full-time employees for a small factory. He would like to turn out about one custom-made car a month.

In addition, Meade does a fair-sized business rebuilding used Ferraris, Maseratis and Lamborghinis—all cars made in Modena—and in resurrecting antique Italian models.

"People have always liked automobiles," said Meade, who uses his Innocenti Miniminor for short hops in this north Italian city of 170,000. "But now autos are sweeping the world, especially the custom luxury cars."

Meade said he gets hundreds of inquiries from all over the world about cars people want built for them, but can't fill all the orders. "I turn down the largest percentage, including at least 20 orders a year for $20,000 cars."

Customers he does accept correspond with him for weeks, even months, until their cars take final shape.

"The most important thing," says Meade, "is how much do you have to spend? Next, what do you want to use the car for? For the street? Or is practically second to styling? What extras do you want? Tape deck?

Radio? Electric windows? Air conditioner?

"Then we get down to color, different types of body materials, upholstery. Normally, I suggest the engine."

The tall, ruggedly handsome Meade, who is still single, dresses well, eats at the best restaurants and makes the night-club circuit.

Nine years ago, as a freelance jewelry designer in San Francisco, he enjoyed a similar high life. But he wasn't happy. He wanted to build his dream car, and couldn't afford to do it in America. He worked his way to Europe as a dishwasher on a Norwegian freighter, then, after hitchhiking around a while, landed in Modena.

He rode up to the Maserati factory on a motorcycle, wearing big sunglasses, long hair, a beard, a battered U.S. Army field jacket and boots. Despite his appearance, he recalled with a smile, he was given a tour of the factory.

Under a rotting canvas in the back of the factory he found "the car of my dreams"—just the body of a Maserati 350 SI. He bought it for $400.

"I was so excited. I was ready to pay $2,000." More luck brought Meade a Ferrari engine for $420 from a Corvette smashed up on France's Le Mans racetracks.

Low on money, Meade found a farmer who would let him build the car in a barn stall and sleep in the hayloft—rent free. "So I put my car between two cows and got to work."

It took a year to complete. Meade and his car went to San Francisco, where a friend ran it over a cliff, landed it on a tree and wrecked it. The friend was hospitalized but survived.

"I was heart-broken. It seemed like the end of the earth.

"But it was the best thing that could have happened, because it gave me the incentive to return to Europe and make my life building that kind of car."

"The key to learning thoroughly about building cars was having no money," Meade declared. "I couldn't afford to make a mistake."

Set Course In Heredity

The Biology Department at East Carolina University will offer a special course for science-oriented high school students this summer under a grant of approximately $9,000 from the National Science Foundation.

The five-week course dealing with human heredity will begin June 8.

Associate professor, Dr. Patricia Daugherty, will direct the courses and other biology staff members including Dr. Clifford B. Knight, Dr. Everett S. Simpson, Dr. Wendall E. Allen, and Dr. W. James Smith, will teach particular aspects of the subject.

The course at East Carolina is one of a number sponsored by the National Science Foundation at colleges and universities throughout the country. Application forms and further information about the course will be available late this month and may be obtained by writing Dr. Daugherty at Box 2577, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Let Punishment Fit The Crime

CHEMUNG, N.Y. (AP) — When George Knapp, 33, came before him on a littering charge, Chemung Town Justice John Schamel decided to let the punishment fit the crime.

Knapp was arrested for tearing up an insulated drinking cup and scattering the pieces.

Justice Schamel sentenced Knapp to policing an area of Rt. 17 near the hamlet, on both sides of the highway. Schamel said he would supply burlap bags in which Knapp could deposit the refuse.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was up 3.10 to 785.37 at the end of the first hour's transactions.

American Telephone was off.

Judge Overloads

Jail Facilities

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — A judge elected after he promised to crack down on law violators is doing just that. The result: an overcrowded jail and high food bills for prisoners.

Kenneth Burkhart, then McCracken County sheriff, said during his campaign against incumbent city Judge Tyler Bourne that Bourne was too lenient with persons convicted in his court. He promised stricter and harsher punishment, and he was elected.

He took office Jan. 5. Tuesday there were 47 persons in the city jail, with mattresses for 35. A drunk tank had been converted to a jail cell to accommodate overflow.

Wide Range Of Opinions And Impressions Told By Students

A wide range of opinions, impressions, suggestions and accusations were voiced at the four hour meeting of the Citizens Awareness Committee with about 50 students representing the Student Government Association, the Student Council Association, and the Student Involvement Committee at Rose High School last night.

Although no formal procedure for representation had been worked out, the session resulted in approximately equal time being devoted to students — girl and boys, black and white.

Co-chairmen John Taylor and Dr. Robert Lee Humber presided over the informal session, at which about 40 of the 52 members of the committee were present.

"I want you to keep in mind everything here is above board," Taylor told the student. "You are to express yourselves freely, and we only ask you in your statements to involve yourselves in fair play."

Dr. Humber made an announcement of the result of the Board of Education's action at their noon meeting. "The board deliberated, considered both sides. Their decision is that since due hearings will be terminated before the week is out, and as exams are being held next week, they have decided reinstating students on a probationary basis is not necessary."

Expressing gratitude for the prompt action the board took on meeting to consider the recommendation, Dr. Humber asked the committee to vote on accepting the report of their action. The committee accepted it unanimously.

Many of the opinions expressed by the students were ones heard before — others were ones publicly expressed for the first time. In many instances, black and white students supported expressions made by students of the opposite race.

Some of the more frequently expressed ideas were:

— Changes are needed to fit a new situation. There is too much reluctance on the part of the administration and on the part of parents to accept the need for changes.

— Some students have not exercised enough caution in trying to avoid situations which in all white or all black school would have been unimportant, but at Rose, resulted in tensions and disturbances.

— Contrary to what seemed to be a widespread belief that all was well at the beginning of the school year, tension was present.

— The handling of selecting Negro cheerleaders left much to be desired. Black students, girls especially, felt the means of making a choice, allegedly based on performing steps and chants used by Rose, were unfamiliar to the Negro girls, resulting in their making a poor showing.

— Some efforts were made by the Administration to prepare for this year's merger. Student Involvement Committees were appointed at both Eppes and Rose last year and met to discuss a variety of matters.

— Black students were disappointed no specific efforts made to make them welcome — at beginning of school no school board members, no group of parents or citizens came to school to express a welcome.

Some black students stated they began years with chip on shoulder.

— Some white students had misgivings about black students coming to Rose. Didn't know what to expect, had fears because they were unsure.

— Too much prejudice on both sides. Important that parents earn and practice rules of fairness before expecting their children to do same.

— Strong factor of feelings among white students that all the important student positions were a pre-determined matter, hat power structure exists based on social standing of parents.

— Many white girls frightened of black girls, feel they don't understand them, distrust them.

— Black and white students agree that black militants and white racists influence a bad one, and must be eliminated.

— Students can solve problems. It will not be easy, but with first opportunity such as afforded by the committee to get it out in open, chances for real understanding much better.

— Parents and administration don't understand young people. Since students couldn't get through to them, they had to get at each other before they could get attention.

— Majority of people did not listen to few who urged a community wide getting together before school started. If they had, there would be a big difference.

— Need something planned at school where both races can work together and feel they have common goal to achieve.

— Black and white students both oversensitive to everything the other does. Need to overcome this.

The faculty will have an opportunity to express their views at a meeting scheduled with the Citizens Awareness meeting tonight at Rose High.

Cash Crisis For Diocese

RALEIGH (AP) — Bishop Thomas A. Fraser of the Episcopal Diocese of North Carolina said today he has notified the national church the diocese is having financial difficulties and that the national group could help by clarifying its procedures for making grants.

Fraser informed Leon E. Modeste, director of special programs for the General Convention of the Episcopal Church, that "at the present time, we are $164,525 short of meeting our diocesan church's program budget. We are faced with drastic cuts in our diocesan program and in our quota to the national church."

But Fraser emphasized today that, in contrast to earlier reports, the diocese "categorically has not withdrawn support from the national church."

He said the financial problems will be considered when the diocese meets for its annual convention in Salisbury Jan. 30-31.

Fraser said he hasn't analyzed all the reasons for the diocese's financial crisis.

"But there's no question that some people are unhappy with the activist programs of the national church and have withheld financial support," he said.

"There's no question this probably started with Malcolm X," he said.

Fraser referred to a grant approved by the national church to black separatist Malcolm X Liberation University in Durham, which aroused controversy in churches throughout the diocese.

hearings, ect. as quickly as possible.

"I do not believe students should be suspended or kept out of school pending legal or court action."

"I feel... the committee is getting a distorted view of the situation. The students giving the views do not seem to be the ones who know what a school is for."

"Helpus, Dr. Cleetwood. We need your support in maintaining good discipline and self-respect... they (citizens) don't know our real problems. We must set an example — establish some precedents."

— "Why was this action taken before any of the teachers were consulted? Why is there no member of the Rose High faculty on the committee, when there are Rose High students. I strongly condemn the "hasty" biased, by one meeting of students, action of this committee."

— "Most, if not all, Rose faculty members regret that Dr. Cleetwood has become the scapegoat. No one person can shoulder the blame. How foolish it is to think that one person or one group... can solve such a momentous social problem in a short span of time."

— Helen Keller was born June 27, 1880 in Tuscumbia, Ala.

— "I feel... students who were involved in both situations (October and last week) should NOT be allowed to return now — but receive no less than the maximum suspension... If we allow these two-time offenders back, we are just asking for a third incident."

— "If the majority of teachers feel that his would help, I will accept whatever decision is made and work with students who have been out so they can take exams."

— "As a teacher, I will encourage other teachers to reject this whole mess... I may even say so publicly... Cleetwood, be a man. Run your schools yourself. You have a highly developed moral conscience, use it. You're good enough and better than most. Don't get backed to the wall."

— "Nothing can be gained by giving in at this point. We were on a good road. Let's stay on it."

— "I disapprove because a blanket, all inclusive directive limits the flexibility and options available to the administration."

— "I believe that the administration must accomplish the administrative action, type. Most centers, he added, are run privately or through church sponsorship.

Approximately one-third of the building, which encompasses roughly 7,500 square feet, will be set up as a Day Care Center with space provided for the caring of some 40-50 children.

The Pitt County Social Service Department has agreed to plan the activities of the day care section and eventually supervise the operation of the Day Care facility.

Pitt Technical Institute will conduct educational programs at the center and ECU will provide counseling services.

Wagner said the center could be used at night as a study facility if needed.

The city will maintain control of the facility by appointing a city-wide advisory committee to work with the University and all personnel employed.

The unique venture is termed a joint effort on the part of the city, the Housing Authority and Redevelopment Commission, ECU, Pitt Tech, county social services department, city recreation department and various other agencies, Wagner said.

The Recreation Department will provide recreational facilities and supervision at the center.

When finished and in operation, hopefully by the first of June, the facility will provide space for many services and programs of education, counseling, health and social service programs.

"This is another example of the city having the foresight to lead this area in providing a service and facility of this nature for its people," Wagner

Pirates Slide Past Belmont Abbey

Louisville Nips Wichita State

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Louisville Cardinals have nothing against man and eggs but they much prefer Bacon and Grosso.

That was the combination—Henry Bacon and Mike Grosso—which gave the Cardinals a 59-58 victory over Wichita State Wednesday night and set up Saturday's showdown between the Missouri Valley Conference leaders—60 Drake and 40 Louisville.

Grosso, a 6-foot-9 center and a notoriously poor, foul shooter, sank two free throws with 32 seconds left for the winning margin and Bacon stole the ball in the closing seconds as Wichita was looking for the last shot.

Grosso was high point man for the winners with 15 and Bacon added 14. The big center clicked on seven of eight free throws in the second half as the teams battled through nine ties and 10 lead changes.

Preston Carrington, who lost the ball to Bacon as the clock ticked away, led the losers with 21 points.

Louisville, tied for 18th with Iowa in The Associated Press poll, was one of three Top Twenty teams to see action. Fourth-ranked St. Bonaventure, one of four unbeaten major teams in the country, ran its record to 11-0 with an 83-59 rout of DePaul and Penn. ranked 14th, turned back Temple 68-59 in a Philadelphia City Series game.

St. Bonaventure switched from a zone to a man-to-man defense after four minutes and held DePaul scoreless from the floor for 14 of the next 16 minutes, piling up a 42-19 halftime bulge.

Penn. 13-1, built a 37-27 halftime lead as Bob Morse scored 16 of his 22 points. Temple closed to within five, but Corky Calhoun made a free throw and a jump shot to protect Penn's second victory in the 1969-70 City Series, the first time the Quakers have won that many in four seasons.

Two other members of the Philadelphia Big Five went in opposite directions. Five Villanovans scored in double figures as the Wildcats trounced Boston College 96-68 and Creighton wore down La Salle 86-77 with 6-10 Cyril Baptiste and 6-9 Joe Bergman dominating the boards and scoring 23 and 22 points, respectively. Bob Fields had 27 for the losers.

The Mid-American Conference took a thorough shaking as the leaders both lost. Terry Martin scored 28 points and Gerald Sears held Ellis Hull, the MAC scoring leader, to five as Miami of Ohio beat Western Michigan 87-56. Elsewhere, Toledo fought off Bowling Green 82-76.

In other major games, Oklahoma City hit a late cold spell but held off Arkansas 73-70. Bill McNeer scored 19 of his 25 points in the second half to pace Virginia Tech over Eastern Kentucky 91-74. Bob Cassou's jumper with 22 seconds left gave Fordham a 62-61 triumph over Massachusetts and Holy Cross turned back Colgate 96-90 as Bob Kissane scored 32 points, 22 in the second half.

Fairley Ties Rebound Record By Grabbing Off 24 In Game

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina University's Pirates gained an 82-68 victory over Belmont Abbey last night... in a game that about put the few assembled fans... to zzzzzzzzz.

Uhh... Oh... Sorry! It was not what you would call an artistic success, and with the meager attendance, certainly not a financial one. Neither team did much in the way of scoring. The Bucs shot a miserable 38.2 per cent, and Belmont Abbey did barely better, 39.3 per cent.

There never was really any doubt about who would win. The Crusaders hold a poor 2-11 record now and were completely outmanned on the boards. It remained only for the Bucs to decide whether they would ever start to play ball. They never really did.

The only excitement in the game was in two personal marks. Senior Jim Modlin started the game within 25 points of becoming the first Pirate to score 1,000 points in a three-year career. He picked up 10 in the first half, but appeared out of any chance midway through the second half. But late in the game, he began to pick up and dumped in his 23rd point with 1:48 to go. But he never got his hands on the ball again, and fouled out with just under a minute left. He is almost certain to move his total from 998 to over 1,000 in Saturday's road game with East Tennessee.

And sophomore forward Jim Fairley, the team's leading rebounder, pulled off 24 in the game, tying the existing record held by Bill Ott. That was set back during the 1963-64 season against Atlantic Christian. He, too, had the opportunity to pick off the 25th, but never found the handle on the ball in the closing minutes.

In both attempts at the marks, the real battle for them came late in the game after it seemed neither could reach their goals. Fairley finished the game with high-scoring honors, pumping in 26, while Modlin had 23. Tom Miller rounded out those in double figures with 16.

Belmont Abbey never led during the game, and after the first half ended, never came closer than six. East Carolina pushed in front by 10 midway through the second half, and it never fell under that again.

Modlin put the Bucs into the initial lead with a rebound after 15 seconds. He came back with the next two points after being fouled 15 seconds later. Belmont Abbey got on the scoreboard with a jumper by Glenn Howell, but after getting one more bucket to cut the lead back to 8-4, the Crusaders watched East Carolina build up a 10-point spread.

Modlin hit on a pair of free throws and Fairley followed up from underneath. Miller drove in for a basket, making it 14-4 with 16:20 to go. Right at this point, it looked like the Bucs were going to blow Belmont Abbey right out of the coliseum, but right there, they quit playing.

For the next four minutes, Belmont Abbey outscored East Carolina, 11-3, cutting the lead down to two, 17-15. Greg Patton hit at the line and Dinker Jones drove in for a basket. Phil Robinson hit on a hook, and then cuffed a jumper. Patton hit two more at the line and Howell got two from there and the Bucs found themselves in trouble.

But Jim Gregory hit a jumper and Modlin scored from underneath to push the Bucs out by six again. A minute later, Modlin and Mike Henrich connected to run the lead back out to 10, 29-19 with 8:45 to go.

But the Abbey rallied again. Robinson cut it to eight, and Patton hit to trim two more off. Robinson scored again to reduce the lead to four, and after a Buc free throw, Jones connected to cut it to 32-29 with 3:59 to go.

The Bucs got two free throws from Fairley and a three-point play by Miller to run the lead back out to eight, and the Bucs carried a 41-34 lead into the dressing room.

In the second half, Fairley open things up with a free throw, but a bucket by Patton cut it back to six. The Bucs then got a basket by Henrich and a pair of free throws by Modlin to move back out to 11, and it stayed right there until midway through the period when two free throws by Fairley and a pair of Miller jumpers pushed it out to 16, 67-51. From there on out, it was just a question of the margin and whether Modlin and Fairley would make their 25th point and rebound.

But, as could be expected from the dull play of the evening, they never did.

Belmont Abbey's scoring was led by Patton and Robinson who got 18 each. Howell had 11 and Jones had 10.

The Bucs take to the road on Saturday, going to Johnson City, Tenn., to meet tough East Tennessee State University.

Bears Trade In Rebuilding

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago Bears, once feared as the Monsters of the Midway, hope to climb out of the pro football shadows with the aid of three members of a more recent dynasty, the Green Bay Packers.

The Bears gave their No. 1 pick in the upcoming Jan. 27 college draft to Green Bay Wednesday for running back Elijah Pitts, outside linebacker Lee Roy Caffey and center Bob Hyland.

There also were two inter-conference trades in the new National Football League.

The major one saw the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Conference send veteran quarterback Charley Johnson and Bob Atkins, a cornerback and wide receiver, to Houston of the American Conference for Pete Beathard, also a veteran quarterback, and star corner back Miller Farr.

Chicago's other trade also was an interconference swap with the Bears dealing offensive tackle Rufus Mayes to the American Cincinnati Bengals for defensive tackle Bill Staley and defensive end Harry Gunner.

In the only other trade, the National Los Angeles Rams sent reserve center Frank Marchlewski to the National New Orleans Saints for an undisclosed draft choice.

"We would have liked to have afforded the luxury of taking our first-round draft, but we had to do something now and not for the future," said Chicago Coach Jim Dooley. "With what we get in the draft and in other trades, we can get the Bears back as winners again."

The Bears won four NFL titles from 1940 through 1946, didn't win another one until 1963 and then sank to a 1-13 record this past season, the worst in their 50-year history.

Pitts and Caffey each played on NFL champions from 1965 through 1967 for the Packers who obviously are thinking of the future. Their acquired draft choice will enable them to pick second in the first round, behind Pittsburgh.

The Johnson-Beathard trade hinged around Miller Farr.

"We had problems last season on pass defense at cornerback," said St. Louis Coach Charley Winner. "We started searching for a solid, experienced man at corner. We knew Farr was a good man. He played in the last AFL All-Star game and we tried to get him. It turned out Houston wanted Johnson so we negotiated a package deal."

Beathard was the regular for Houston the last three seasons but was publicly criticized by owner S.K. "Bud" Adams after the Oilers' 56-7 blasting by Oakland in the recent AFL playoffs.

Rebound Tap

East Carolina's Jim Fairley goes high to tap in a rebound in last night's game against Belmont Abbey. Fairley tied the school's single game rebound record with 24, surpassing his personal high of 23 set last week against VMI. Fairley also led the scoring with 26. At left is ECU's Jim Gregory, while Belmont Abbey's Glenn Howell's is behind Fairley. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Colonials Get Easy Victory

His players might not get much experience, but George Washington basketball coach Wayne Dobbs probably would take a forfeit victory almost any day in the week rather than play a game and lose.

That's what will happen tonight in the only game scheduled for Southern Conference teams. The Colonials will pick up a victory—their fifth in 14 starts—without even putting in an appearance.

George Washington had been scheduled to meet the Virgin Islands University, but the scheduled visitors informed the Colonials they'd forfeit rather than return to the United States.

The Virgin Islands team had returned home after giving up more than 100 points in defeats last week at Jacksonville and Richmond and said it couldn't arrange transportation to Washington.

League teams broke even in a pair of nonconference tussles Wednesday night with small college opponents. East Carolina's Pirates bombed Belmont Abbey 82-68, but Virginia Military Institute's Keydets took a 90-79 licking from Roanoke's Maroons.

Seattle Sets Legal Appeals

By CHARLIE BAROUH
Associated Press Sports Writer
SEATTLE (AP) — The city of Seattle, certain the game is lost on the financial scoreboard, is ready to try a legal appeals play as "a last resort" to keep its American League baseball franchise.

Mayor Wes Uhlman said at a news conference Wednesday financial efforts to keep the team apparently have broken down. If the Pilots are pulled out of Seattle the American League and Pacific Northwest Sports, Inc., owner of the team, will be defendants in a multimillion dollar lawsuit, he declared.

The league gave Fred Danz, the Seattle businessman heading a local group trying to buy the Pilots, until 2 p.m. today to meet certain conditions, including financing a $3.5 million loan owed the Bank of California.

But Danz said as far as his group was concerned today's deadline had no meaning.

"It's just a number pulled out of thin air," he said. "A more realistic deadline is Jan. 27 when the league owners meet and reach a decision. In fact, financing is not as important a factor as it might appear to be. The important factor is whether the American League wants to keep the team in the Pacific Northwest."

What the league wants to do is anybody's guess. William Daley of Cleveland and Dewes Soriano of Seattle, principal officers of the Pilots, reportedly were in Dallas Tuesday to talk with Texas magnate Tommy Mercer about the franchise. Milwaukee also is hard on the heels of the franchise, if the league gives it a travel permit.

But whatever the factors and deadlines, Uhlman said the city has no intention of losing the franchise without a fight. He said a suit, if necessary, would be filed to protect the taxpayers' interest and investment in the franchise.

That interest includes $3 million spent by the city to refurbish Sicks' Stadium, the Pilots' interim facility, and a voter-approval bond issue to build a multipurpose $40 million domed stadium by 1973.

"What has happened to Seattle in this whole mess should not be perpetrated on any other cities," Uhlman said. "Baseball is too much of a civic activity and a public endeavor to permit a few franchise owners to make a substantial amount of money by transferring these monopolies."

"Seattle has committed too much for the American League and the Pilots' owners simply to walk out on our city," Uhlman added about the expansion club's one-year tenancy.

The legal action could follow any of three courses, Uhlman said: action for breach of lease agreement, action for damages in amount the city expended to improve the stadium, or triple damages under antitrust laws.

Uhlman said he sent a telegram to American League President Joe Cronin asking that the city be allowed to present its case.

"I have been assured business leadership will supply sufficient funds to operate for 1970 and negotiate satisfactory sale of team to new group of substantial citizens," Uhlman said.

In addition to Uhlman, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., Gov. Dan Evans and Atty. Gen. Slade Gorton also wired Cronin.

Uhlman also said he talked to Magnuson and Jackson about the possibility of legislation "specifically making major league baseball subject to antitrust laws."

Magnuson said he would support any such legislation if the franchise were moved.

Two For Modlin

Jim Modlin, East Carolina center, goes up for two points against Belmont Abbey's Dinker Jones in last night's game. Modlin pumped in 23 points to bring his career record at East Carolina to 998, just two away from 1,000. His next two points will make him the first Pirate to accomplish the feat in a three-year career. (Reflector Photo)

Clemson Meets Florida State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Clemson Tigers, who rebounded from a 17-point deficit Monday for a victory over Georgia Tech, go against Florida State tonight in Tallahassee, Fla. in the only basketball game involving an Atlantic Coast Conference team.

The Seminoles beat Clemson on The Tigers' home court last year, 70-67, and this season they are considered a strong club. Florida State was one of several teams which received votes but failed to muster enough for The Associated Press Top 20 poll.

Florida State is a fine club," Clemson coach Bobby Roberts said. "They have great personnel, especially that Dave Cowens boy."

Cowens, a senior from Newport, Ky., is leading his team in scoring with a 16.9 average and has been instrumental in forging a 12-2 record this year for the Seminoles.

Florida State which is averaging 89 points a game, has been beaten by only North Carolina and Southern California.

Clemson is fresh from victories over Furman and Georgia Tech and has a 4-7 record. The Tigers' top gun is Butch Zetsero, who hits an average of 21.3 points a game. Greg Latin follows at 16.5.

The 16th-ranked Duke Blue Devils received bad news Wednesday when it was reported that Don Blackman, who has started several games this season, will probably miss Saturday's game with 10th ranked North Carolina State because of a knee injury.

The Brooklyn, N. Y., guard twisted his knee in practice this week.

"Blackman had been helping us more and more of late," said head coach Bucky Waters, "and he did an excellent job coming off the bench in our last game against North Carolina."

The Blue Devils have had two major casualties this season. Junior guard Dick DeVenzo injured his foot during the Christmas holidays and has missed the last three games.

He is also listed as a doubtful starter for Saturday.

In other games Saturday, Virginia Tech plays at Clemson and Maine is at Maryland. There are no games involving conference members Friday.

East Carolina University President and Mrs. Leo W. Jenkins honored newly appointed football coach Mike McGee and athletic director Clarence Stasavich at receptions Sunday and Monday nights.

Special guests for the occasions were members of the Century Club. The Century Club is composed of men who have made generous financial contributions to the athletic program at ECU.

Receiving guests were Dr. Douglas Jones, dean of the school of education, Coach McGee, Stasavich and Dr. Jenkins.

Wives of faculty members who serve on the Athletic Committee served coffee and party accompaniments to the more than 500 men attending.

Book Exchange Back On Top In City Loop

The Jaycees, handed their first loss of the season Monday night, were shocked last night as ROTC picked up their first win, 66-63. Book Exchange took over first place with a 104-69 win over Watson Electric, while Coca-Cola downed Campus Corner, 90-65.

Book Exchange now holds a 5-1 record, while the Jaycees and Coke are tied for second with 4-2 records. Campus Corner is next with a 3-3 mark, followed by Watson and ROTC, both 1-5.

In the opener, the Book Exchange ripped off 55 points in the first half of play, while Watson could manage only 25. Watson came up with 44 in the second half, but Book Exchange pumped in 49, to win easily.

Johnny Hardison led the Exchange with 19, while Walter Claybrook had 18, Charles Whitehurst and Steve Fuller each had 17, Tommy Jordan had 15 and Ronnie Craft had 14. Watson was paced by Tommy Jamieson with 22, while Gary Bryant had 20 and Danny Hardee had 16.

Coke also shot away to a big lead in the first half. They dumped in 48 points, while the Campus Corner got only 25. In the second half, Campus Corner got warm with 40 points, but Coke had two more, 42, to take its win handily.

John Lynn led Coke with 22, while Wayne Hardee and Mac Roebuck each had 18. Jerry Boyd and Mitchell Jones had 11 each and Hubie Worthington had 10. Ed Carlton led Campus Corner with 22, while Mike Joyner had 17 and Malcolm Beaman had 12.

The Jaycees edged into a slim 29-28 lead in the first half, but ROTC came back to take the win. In the second half, ROTC outscored the Jaycees, 38-34, and it was just enough.

ROTC was led by Gary Schaal with 20, while Ashby Elmore had 15 and Joe Johnson had 12.

Decade Of Presidency Change

LOVE TO G. I. JOE IN VIETNAM — Brownies Lori Sullivan, 8, Denise Middleton, 7 and Laurie Cook, 8, help Karl Busche begin sorting valentines which the Military Order of the Purple Heart Service Foundation is collecting to send to U. S. servicemen in Vietnam. Those in hospitals have priority, but Busche hopes to get enough for every G. I. there. (AP Wirephoto)

By MERRIMAN SMITH
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The American presidency may change more in this new decade than it did in the turbulent 10 years past. At the start of the 1970s, Richard M. Nixon, the first President of the decade, is both the sculptor and the clay.

Events, evolution and incredibly rushing time will shape both the man who is President and the demands of his job. In turn, his response to change will be as important as the new circumstances that required it. As never before, the President of the United States now must be more than politician and statesman. No man can think of trying to lead this nation and a large part of the world without staying abreast of, if not ahead of, change—whether scientific and technological or social and economic.

Old Problems
Nixon, who marks his first anniversary in office on Tuesday holds the presidency for the first three years of the seventies. According to political precedent he also should expect to have it until 1977. But there were no two term Presidents in the 1960s.

Projecting toward 1980, there are some new developments and old problems involving the presidency that may be anticipated.

A woman may be nominated by a major party for vice president. Later in the decade, a black politician may emerge as a serious contender for a spot on a major party ticket. With more certainty, Negroes can be expected to be routinely included in the cabinet.

Uneasy Peace
Armed conflict will continue as a hard fact of international life. A President will find it hard to keep the United States out of some kind of involvement in "brush fire" wars. Uneasy peace will come to Vietnam, but it will require a U.S. military presence in the Far East. Thailand, Laos, Cambodia and Korea will be potential trouble, and the Middle East will continue as an area of great concern to the President.

Nuclear war purposely initiated by one of the major powers does not seem likely, although the possibility of an accident will remain to plague them. Ever-improving communications between Washington and Moscow might help ease the threat of retaliation in the event of a ghastly mishap. There may be a "hot line" to Peking before the end of the decade.

For Nixon, fighting inflation will be time-consuming and worrisome, along with money management and combating under-employment. The cost of government will increase at every level, federal, state and local. Ending the Vietnam War will not produce major relief from expensive government as long as the population continues to grow and the nation's fixed expenses—interest on public debt, social security and veterans' benefits—go up several billion dollars a year. Over the next 10 years, taxes will go up, not down.

Barring a depression of the 1930 magnitude, poverty may ease somewhat in intensity. A decade, however, will not be time enough for a true solution. Racial problems, including violence, may be expected to follow an undulating pattern, but there will be some degree of progress each year as there has been over the past decade.

Reform President
Nixon hopes to be regarded by historians as the "reform president." He will have ample opportunity to earn the label. Presidents, however, are not always able to emblazon their own banners for history. Thus, it could be that Nixon, and even his successor, might fall into a historical grouping of "crisis presidents."

This would not, of necessity, mean a President so labeled had failed. Philosophically and sociologically, a chief executive could be quite successful in the seventies by leading not only his own people, but those of other nations, into an era of learning to live with crisis without over-reacting.

Here again is a matter of delicate balance, walking the shaky fence between doom and boom, life and death, war and peace. Political considerations aside, Nixon may be pointing the way for his successors more than he realizes when he urges lower voices at home, a lower American profile on the world stage.

Complex Society
Striving for less emotionalism while trying to lead an increasingly complex society may pose a problem of serious, inner conflict for presidents in the seventies.

Television, for one thing, will have an increasing impact on the presidency during the new decade. Expanded satellite systems will make world-saturation audiences possible. A chief executive by 1980 conceivably might attempt to circumvent "instant analysis" and editorial comment by going to the people directly over a theoretically factual and protective government network. Such an arrangement would be fought bitterly as oppressively Orwellian, but offered altruistically in the name of national security.

Israeli Raid Egyptian Isle

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli forces landed on an Egyptian-held island in the Red Sea today, sank two Egyptian torpedo boats and killed 15 Egyptian soldiers in a battle raging through the day, the military command announced.

The island was identified in an official announcement as Shadwan, which lies at the southern entrance to the Gulf of Suez, 20 miles east of the African coast.

Three Israeli soldiers were reported killed and six wounded in the operation. The Israelis said their troops overcame the resistance of an Egyptian army garrison in the southern part of the island "and are now engaged in combing it."

The thin, worm-like island was said to have no civilian population but is a base for army installations, including radar stations used to track Israeli planes that have ranged deep into Egypt on bombing missions in recent weeks.

The two torpedo boats sunk by the Israelis were listed as the P183 type.

Eight Egyptian soldiers were captured by the airborne raiding force, a military spokesman said in Tel Aviv.

The attack on the island came in the wake of a daring Israeli raid across the Jordan border to wipe out Arab guerrilla bases in a 20-hour operation that ended late Wednesday afternoon.

Federal Reward For Litterers

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — The federal government will pay for information leading to the conviction of persons who dump refuse in navigable waters.

This information came to light as local, state and federal officials tried to find out who dumped a garbage-truck load of refuse into the Hudson River north of Troy late in August.

The federal law prohibiting such dumping calls for a fine not exceeding $2,500 nor less than $500, or by imprisonment or both, with one-half of the fine to be paid to the "person or persons giving information which shall lead to conviction."

Harrassment Tactic Used

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
BERLIN (AP) — East German harassment of east-west autobahn traffic went into its second day today as West German parliamentary committees began meeting in West Berlin.

West German border officials at Helmstedt, on the Berlin-Hamburg highway, said travelers en route to Berlin were delayed up to 1½ hours at the border crossing, and that vehicles were lined up for more than a mile.

In Bavaria, officials at the Rudolphstein control station said traffic was moving normally but had been slowed considerably during the night.

A total of 10 West German parliamentary committees will convene in West Berlin during the weekend in symbolic assertion of West German's claim on the city.

The East German Foreign Ministry issued a statement protesting the committee meetings and stating that Bonn would be held responsible for any actions resulting from the West German "provocation."

Opening lead: Jack of ♣.
South was so pleased to see the king of clubs appear on the opening lead in today's hand that his sense of relief temporarily disorganized his thinking processes. The result was a setback that could have been avoided had he not given in so completely to his emotions.

The game contract in hearts was reached in easy stages. Altho both of his opponents had bid clubs, West opened the jack of that suit inasmuch as he had a perfect sequence. The deuce of clubs was played from dummy and, when East's king appeared, South impulsively produced the ace—so pleased was he to locate this key honor without having to resort to any guess.

A diamond was led over to the ace and a small heart was returned to declarer's king. West was in with the ace of trumps and he returned the ten of clubs. North's queen was ruffed away by East, and there was no way for declarer to avoid losing two more club tricks. The outcome was a one trick defeat.

When East played the king of clubs at the first trick, South is in position to count 10 tricks, and only an incautious gesture will permit the prize to slip from his grasp. In addition to the five top tricks available in the side suits, declarer can arrange to ruff two diamonds in dummy and take three hearts in his hand. Since he cannot complete the trump drawing process until his side washing is attended to, however, South must take measures to protect his side winners from an adverse ruff.

Since East's king of clubs is an obvious singleton, West will be able to give his partner a ruff in the suit if he has the ace of hearts. Declarer must see to it that East is not offered the opportunity to trump an honor. The way to achieve this objective is to permit East to hold the first trick.

If he returns a spade, South puts up the king, and proceeds to go about his business. When West gets in with the heart ace to play the ten of clubs, declarer can follow from dummy with a small club since he retains the ace in his own hand. If East ruffs, it will be with a trick that South had to lose anyway. The defense will thus be restricted to three tricks—one heart, one club, and one club ruff.

Higher Risks In Smoking, Driving, Than In 'Pill'

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A birth control researcher armed with charts and graphs told Senate investigators today that smoking, driving a car or riding in a motor boat are hundreds of times more dangerous than taking the pill.

Dr. J. W. Goldzieher of the Southwest Foundation for Research and Education said no proof has been found that the pill even causes headaches or nausea.

In fact, he said, it may prevent these side effects as well as more serious ailments such as cancer.

"Still," he added, "when all is said and done a finite risk may well exist."

Goldzieher urged that current research go on while efforts are made to avoid alarmist reports and the ultimate question of who should take the pill is left up to each woman and her doctor—"and no one else."

Goldzieher's comments were contained in a 16-page single-spaced statement, heavily larded with graphs and charts, prepared for the Senate monopoly subcommittee.

The panel, chaired by Democrat Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin is looking into the safety of birth control pills.

Of 14 witnesses heard so far testimony by Goldzieher, suggested as a witness by the G. D. Searle Drug Co., was the most detailed and impassioned defense of the pill.

All but one of the others told the subcommittee of suspected—but not proven—links between the pill and a wide assortment of ailments, including fatal and nonfatal blood clots, diabetes and cancer of the cervix, breast and the uterus.

Three witnesses appearing with Goldzieher followed this pattern today, tentatively linking the pill to various forms of cancer and to metabolic changes.

They included Dr. Louis Hellman, chairman of the Federal Food and Drug Administration's Advisory Committee on Obstetrics and Gynecology, which last fall issued the government's second report on the pill.

It cited a mounting number of studies pointing to potential hazards.

The problem of whether the pill causes cancer of the breast, said Hellman in his prepared statement, is "worrying and unresolved" and studies continue to "enhance" the suspicion of a link with other forms of the disease.

Goldzieher presented his case by asking a series of seven questions, then answering them.

1. "Do we know how often women have adverse effects from the pill?"

Answering in the negative, Goldzieher cited a study in which a group of women took the same type of contraceptive pill for several years which was changed in appearance every six months.

He said that "everytime the appearance of the pill was changed, a certain number of women began to complain of nausea ... since there was no change in the medicine itself this could have only been psychological."

2. "Do we know that there is an increased risk of cancer from taking the pill?"

Goldzieher rejected previous testimony that synthetic female hormone estrogen—used in the pill—is known to cause cancer in five species of animals.

He said not only did it fail to produce cancer in many other animals, but it has been around for 35 years in various other uses without having caused a noticeable increase in cancer.

3. "Do we know for certain that the pill increases the risk of death from thrombosis?"

Citing a British study, Goldzieher said there had been a dramatic increase in death from blood clotting among young adults, both male and female, between 1958 and 1964, long before use of the pill was widespread.

"In the face of this spontaneous rapid rise in the frequency of embolism, it becomes most difficult to find out whether there is any additional increase in embolism as a consequence of using the pill," he said.

Rejecting recent British studies that have caused widespread alarm, Goldzieher said it now turns out smoking may have played a part in an increase of deaths among women on the pill who died from blood clots.

4. "What is an acceptable risk of death from the pill?"

"There is no simple answer to this question," Goldzieher said.

5. "Should women be given information regarding risks of the pill so they can make their own decision?"

"Literally centuries of experience have paraded before this committee—and there is no consensus among the experts," Goldzieher said.

"Is it then reasonable to suppose that a discussion between a physician and his patient no matter how careful and well-intentioned, will in 10 or 20 minutes so well inform the patient that she can now make a truly informed decision for herself?"

6. "Who should give the information to inquiring women?"

"Their physician and no one else," he said.

7. "What is the proper role of public information and communications media in this matter?"

"If the scientists themselves cannot agree on the interpretation of the available information," Goldzieher said, "it must be asked whether public discussion of these issues, scientifically unresolvable as they are at this time, can serve any purpose except to confuse and worry the public."

Former teachers and principals are asked to contact the school or chairman so that plans can be formulated.

Science Shrinks Painful Hemorrhoids Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

Finds Way That Both Relieves Pain and Shrinks Piles in Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a special formula with the ability, in most cases—to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching and relieve pain.

In case after case doctors proved, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. The secret is Preparation H®. There is no other formula for hemorrhoids like it. Preparation H also soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

Inquest Upholds Police Raiders

By DEBORAH RANKIN
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — A coroner's jury says the fatal shootings of two Black Panther party leaders during a police raid Dec. 4 were justifiable homicide.

None of the seven Panther members who survived the raid testified at the inquest which ended Wednesday.

The interracial jury of prominent Chicagoans deliberated more than five hours before returning its verdict in the slayings of Fred Hampton and Mark Clark.

Hampton, 21, Illinois leader of the party, and Clark, 22, a Peoria party organizer, were killed during a raid on Hampton's West Side apartment.

The verdict said the 14 Chicago policemen who took part had reason to believe use of firearms was "necessary to prevent death or bodily injury to themselves."

The raiding officers related they were met by gunfire when they attempted to serve a search warrant for a cache of weapons reportedly hidden at the flat. Police said they found 10 weapons and a large quantity of ammunition.

Black community groups charged police fired without provocation and killed Hampton as he slept.

Nearly two dozen witnesses appeared during the 12-day inquest conducted by Martin S. Gerber, a lawyer serving as deputy coroner. Gerber was selected after demands that the inquest be conducted by someone not connected with the government of Cook County (Chicago). Coroner Andrew J. Toman is an elected official.

Gerber gave attorneys for the Panthers wide latitude. "Sure, sure," he said repeatedly when they asked to introduce evidence or extend a line of questioning.

Witnesses included the five black and nine white policemen detailed to the state's attorney's office who participated in the predawn raid.

They said they were met by shotgun blasts as they entered the apartment. The raiding officers said they returned the shots and later called for cease-fires three times, but that firing continued.

The seven Panthers who survived the raid are awaiting trial on charges of attempted murder and other crimes.

Adjutant General Choice Announced

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott has announced the appointment of Col. Ferd Davis of Zebulon to succeed Maj. Gen. Claude Bowers as adjutant general of the North Carolina National Guard effective Feb. 1.

Scott made the announcement at a special news conference Wednesday. He said it was being made now because of a meeting in Washington Friday of adjutants general of several states and Bowers said his successor should be there.

Scott said Davis, 50, an attorney, will be promoted to major general when he assumes his new duties.

The governor said Bowers offered his resignation when Scott took office last January, but he asked Bowers to stay on.

Davis, who attended the news conference, said he will give up his law practice with his son at Zebulon when he becomes adjutant general.

Davis was asked if he could see any change in emphasis in the guard when he takes over.

"I think not," he answered.

Davis, a native of Kinston and a graduate of Wake Forest University, has lived at Zebulon for 46 years.

He is a former member of the state Board of Conservation and Development and was chairman of the Wake County Board of Education.

He entered military service as a private in 1942, joined the National Guard as a major in 1950, was promoted to lieutenant colonel in 1955 and to colonel in 1968.

Bowers was appointed adjutant general by former Gov. Terry Sanford in 1961.

Begin Surveying Charles Street

RALEIGH — The State Highway Commission has started to survey for the proposed improvement of Charles Street from U.S. 264 Bypass to Twelfth Street, then cutting over to Cotanche Street at Eleventh Street.

The inventory survey, when completed, will furnish sufficient information for any action that is needed to start the project.

Surveying the future location is the first step leading to actual construction of the improvement.

CHILD'S PLAY

Rollerslide — lives up (and down) to its name.

There's a "Revolution in Play" at Miami Beach. It's a children's world, a unique installation of play equipment, set out with landscaping and special effects in Flamingo Park—and at first sight it looks like a colorful fantasy of modern-art. But a lively horde of youngsters romping round, and some very convincing shrieks of joy, prove its practical function.

It's a new form of playground in which children become explorers, creative explorers. The installation itself consists of modular units, made mainly of fiberglass, which can be placed in an endless number of different arrangements.

The child of our urban times will make a beeline for the Cityscape, one of the units, an intriguing construction with secret tunnels, portholes for spying and ladders for climbing. A dive into the phantom-colored Playtank prompts more games—or are they dreams?

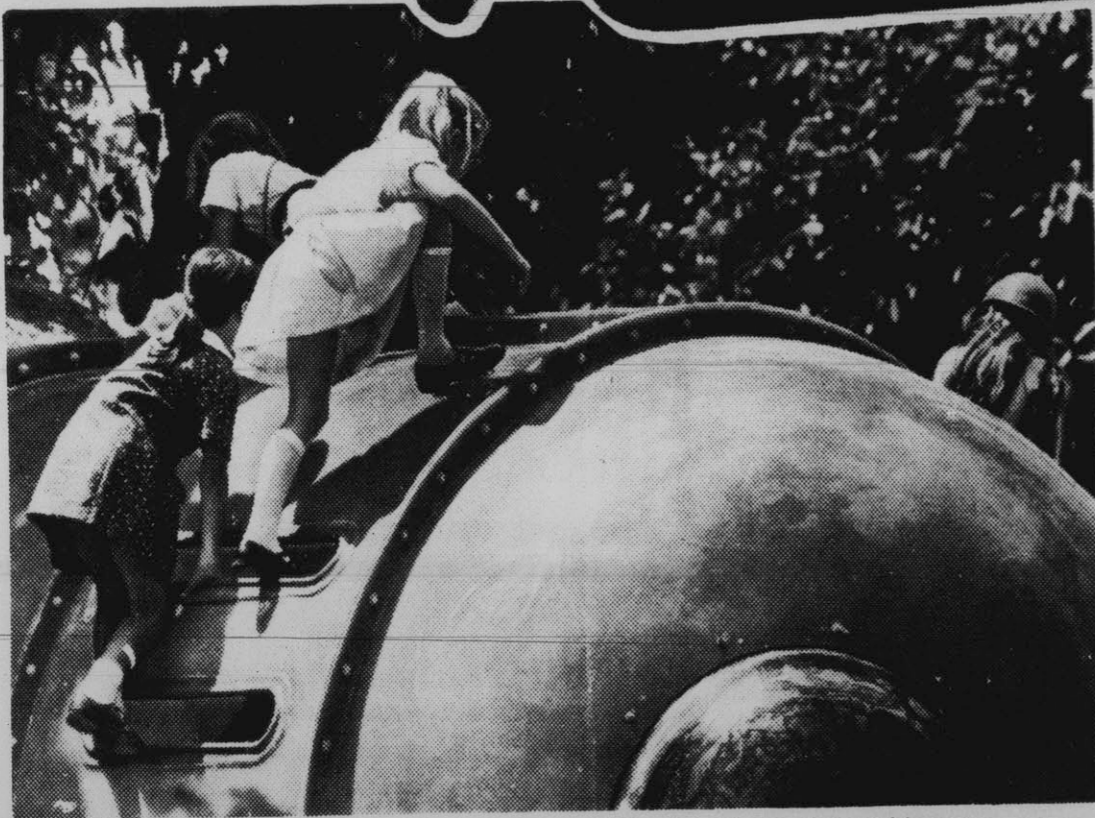

In or out of cities, there's still a yearning for open space, for energy explosions. So, how about some free form movement on the Rocking Rods? Or a wild ride on the Rollerslide?

Space is just one more game to the young, obviously, and here's their own, child-sized Saturn. A sky-slanted, eight-foot-diameter sphere, it tempts a young adventurer into becoming his (or her) own creative play director.

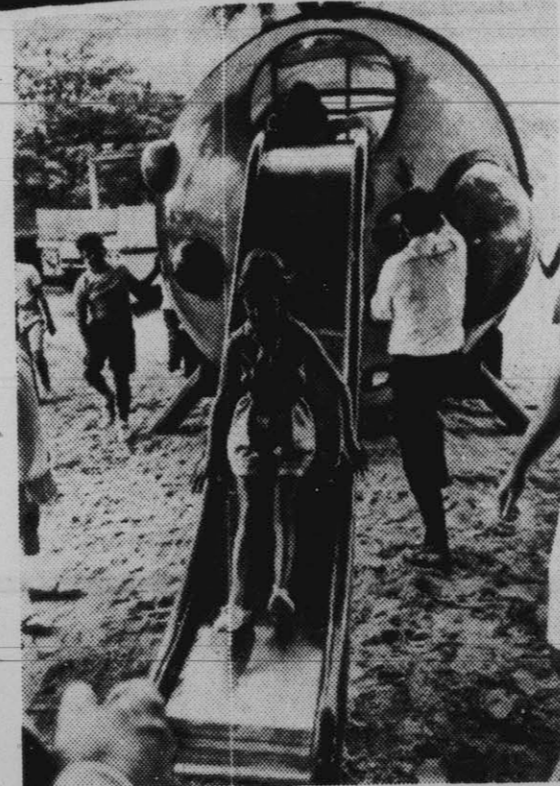

The set-up may have dream-world associations. But it's all really very solid. The Play Systems structures are sturdy, vandal-proofed, made of materials to withstand weather—and children. Essentially, they appeal to children's own instincts and impulses, prompting them to make up their own games. As they play they learn. But the learning is fun.

Yippee! Two ecstatic riders bounce on one of the Rocking Rods.

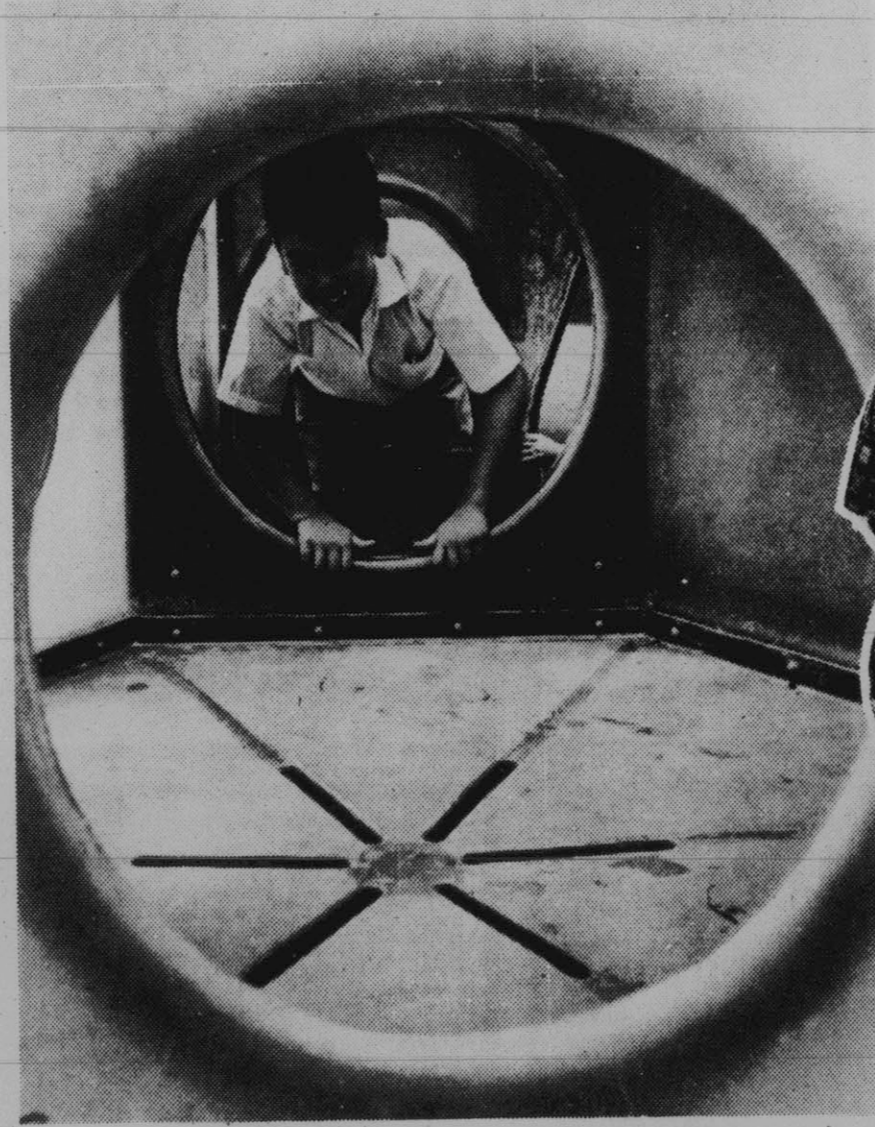

Scrambling over the Playtank is only half the fun. You can go inside, too . . .

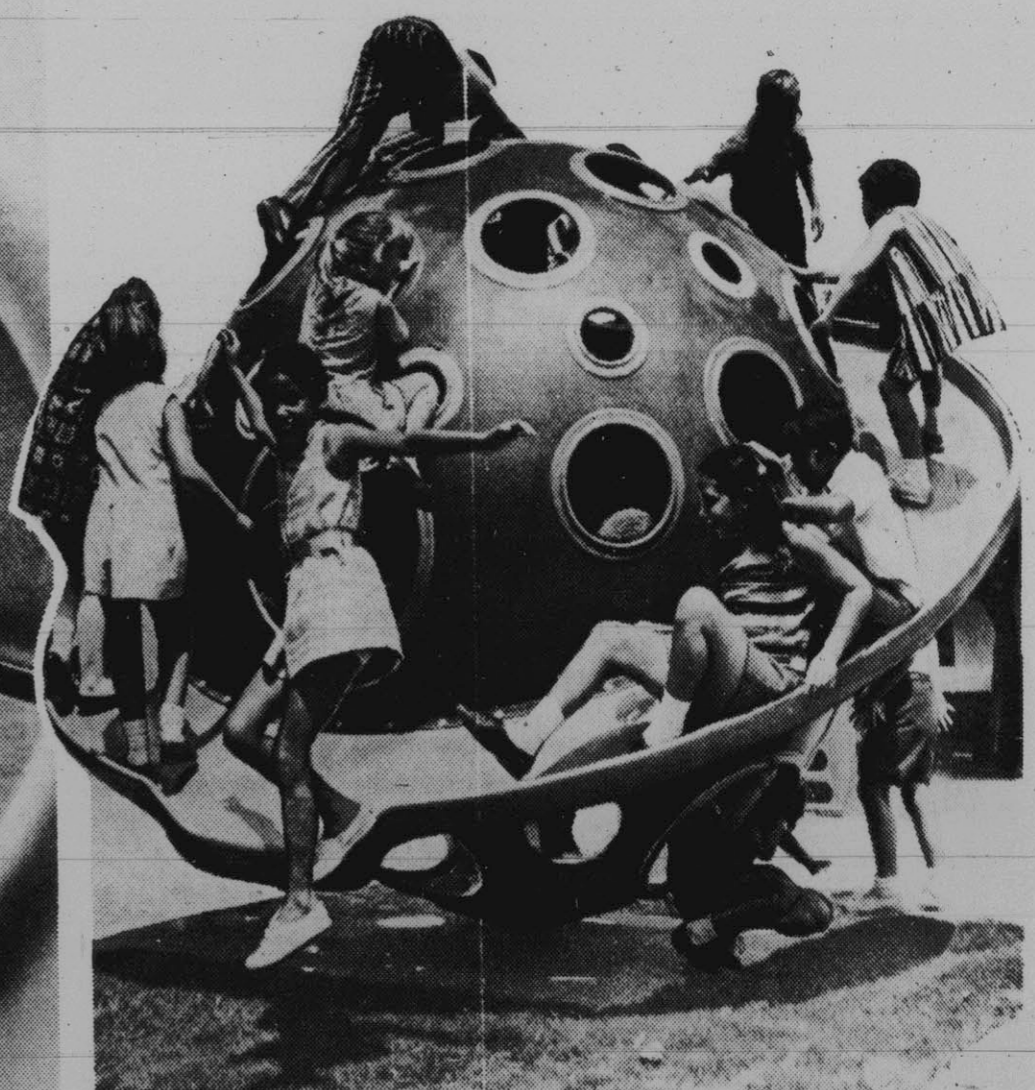

. . . in fact you can go right through and come chuting out of the end.

Cityscape is fantasy built to a child's scale . . .

. . . which he explores while he discovers—himself.

A whirl into a universe of fun round Saturn—with earth still encouragingly near.

Cast Announced For 'Macbeth'

Shakespearean productions, as well as Broadway, television and motion pictures, will star in the title role.

A Fulbright scholar, he is ECU's Artist-in-Residence in the Department of Drama this quarter.

Amanda Muir, a veteran of the New York theatre and network television, and a favorite with area audiences, will appear as Lady Macbeth.

Other major roles include:

Robert Chase, Guest Professor in Drama, as Duncan, Lewis Weisiger as Banquo, David Weil as Malcolm, and Ben Ramsour as Macduff.

Settings are by John Sneden, who also appears as the Porter, the only comic role in the tragedy.

Tickets become available February 10th at the McGinnis Auditorium box office, by mail at Box 2721, Greenville, or by phone at 758-6390.

Special rates for this production will be made available to high school groups.

The Worry Clinic Extra Nice To Come Home To

Heed Betty Gray, for many wives employ deodorants to banish "B.O." but fail to take the next step for being more seductive. That second step involves use of alluring perfume, plus swishy skirts with lace around the hem of your slip. A little rouge and lipstick also add a gay backdrop to your cheery smile and white teeth! Then you'll be "nice to come home to."

apiece, can make you appear far more seductive than $100 dresses and mink coats. Girls, it isn't the dollar-mark on your costume that excites a man's romantic interest but how seductive you look in it!

Apply a little rouge and lipstick just before your husband reaches the front door.

And wear a slip that has a lace fringe around the bottom, for lace, perfume and a gay smile far exceed any mini-skirted brazen hussy!

Men are also habituated to certain feminine trademarks which then become fetishes around which they romanticize. Swishy, flowing and pleated skirts are part of that stereotype a charming woman.

Many girls stampeed like sheep to follow advertising that actually misses the boat!

For example, I have never heard any man comment pro or con regarding a girl's hands.

Yet the hand lotion ads overly stress the hazard of "dish water" hands!

And men seldom notice specific items, except in the case of gruesome fingernails that look like talons or the bloody red stained nails.

For men react to your total effect, which is why they can't even describe the color of your frock or remember whether you were hatless or wore a chic chapeau.

But perfume, lace, swishy skirts, a cheery smile and white teeth all strike a man's nose, eyes and ears and thus coax him to caress you, thereby bringing the tactile sense into play.

So send for my "Tests for Husbands and Wives," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents and learn how to "be nicer to come home to."

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Life-Prolonging Work Criticized

LONDON (AP) — A distinguished British physicist says "too much has been done to prolong life when it has lost most of its value."

Sir George Thomson, 77-year-old Nobel prize-winner, made what he called "an appeal to doctors" in the medical journal Lancet. Thomson cited pneumonia as the "old man's friend" which has deserted him—driven away by antibiotics, and leaving him to a life he might no longer desire.

Hope Israel To Get Mirage Jets

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer

CHATEAUDUN, France (AP) — Georges Provot, the freight agent, came out of the Cafe le Commerce after breakfast to give his horse Button the piece of croissant he hadn't eaten. Suddenly the sound of jets ripped overhead across the murky sky. The horse shuddered and snorted, his breath unfurling in two smoky ribbons. "There they go—there they go," said Provot with a chuckle. But he was wrong; the planes weren't Mirage fighters on their way to Israel in defiance of the government's ban on arms to the Israelis. Israel paid for 50 Mirages before the 1967 Middle East war, then was denied them by President Charles de Gaulle's ban on arms to "active belligerents" in the Arab-Israeli conflict. The jets used to be kept at Istres, a base northwest of Marseille near the Mediterranean coast. An edgy French government moved them 375 miles inland to Chateaudun, 85 miles southwest of Paris, after the Israelis slipped five embargoed gunboats out of Cherbourg harbor on Christmas Eve. The planes are well guarded in an immense hangar near the southeast corner of the air base just outside town. From a plowed cornfield at Boirville you can make out two jeeps, each mounted with a machine gun, patrolling beside the closed hangar. But you can't see the planes. You have to take the word of the townspeople and Israeli sources in Paris that they're there. The only jets in sight are a couple of trainers practicing landings and takeoffs. Mayor Paul Gauchery looks like one of the taciturn men you see through the steamy cafe windows playing cards with their caps on. Short and thick, he wears a striped wool tie, a dark plaid flannel shirt and jacket and pants that don't match. "The embargo is unpopular here," said Gauchery. "Ninety-five per cent of our people are for Israel. They're a brave people, the Israelis." A man who has spent all of his life farming, Gauchery says the government's policy is bad business ("the Israelis paid for the planes") and bad morals ("you don't drop a friend like that"). Israeli mechanics and technicians used to be trained at the air base. When the townspeople were asked to choose some foreign place to be "twinning" with, as Los Angeles and Paris are "twinning," they chose Upper Galilee. Because of this commitment and their memories of Israelis stationed at the local base earlier, there was special interest in the Cherbourg affair. "If they can do it in Cherbourg, maybe they can do it here," said a merchant. "We know how to keep our mouths closed."

Central Computer In Arizona Is Nerve Center For Lawmen

By RICK COOK
Associated Press Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A computer in a Phoenix cloakroom is helping police all over the country fight crime more efficiently. The computer is the nerve center for the Law Enforcement Teletype System (LETS) and the cloakroom is located in the Arizona Highway Patrol's communication center. LETS is a nationwide teletype system that allows law enforcement officers to send messages to each other. Messages from officers in each state are routed through the state's central LETS office and from there to anywhere in the continental United States. Until 1966, police departments sent such messages in Morse Code. "It was pretty slow," recalled Maj. J. W. Monschein, the Arizona Highway Patrol's communications officer. "We might not get an urgent message off for hours and we might not receive a message for a couple of days. Now you could hop a plane from Phoenix to Los Angeles and my message would be in Los Angeles way ahead of you." Maj. Monschein said the LETS system was dreamed up in 1965 at a national meeting of state police and highway patrol officers. The Arizona Highway Patrol was selected as the national center because it had an excellent communications unit. The original electro-mechanical system filled a good-sized room with teletypes and tape punchers and readers. In November of this year the entire system was computerized. Now the same volume of messages is handled by one teletype and a refrigerator-sized computer console. "Three or four years ago when we were first putting in the old system, we couldn't afford a computer," Monschein said. "But technology has come so far so fast that by installing a computer we actually save the states about $1,500 a month over the old system. In addition, we save the Arizona Highway Patrol about $300 a month in paper and tape." The system is paid for entirely by the member states. The only role of the federal government, is the six thousand miles of circuits leased, at a reduced rate, from the General Services Administration. Messages for the LETS system are punched onto paper tape at the central outlet-entry point in each state. At least once every five minutes the computer automatically "polls" each outlet-entry point to see if it has any traffic. Any messages are automatically read and routed to their destinations. "We use the tape because it's faster," Monschein explained. "No typist can keep up a rate of 100 words per minute for very long." The system handles about 10,000 messages a day of a police nature. Reports of crimes, descriptions of stolen vehicles, reports on weather and road conditions and a host of other information is sent by the computer from the people who have it to the people who need it. "A report of a bank robbery in Missouri can be sent to any state; or any 10 states or to all states," Monschein explained. "It can include a description of the subjects, their mode of travel, their direction of travel—anything that would help law officers to apprehend them."

Annual SDA Banquet To Highlight Jaycee Week

This week, running through Saturday, has been recognized as Jaycee Week in Greenville and North Carolina. Several annual events sponsored by the local Jaycees highlight the observance. Recognition of Jaycee Week began on Monday morning with a prayer breakfast. One of the main activities of the week was held on Tuesday night as the annual Miss Greenville Pageant was conducted. Tonight, the Jaycees honor a young man of Greenville, who has been selected to receive the club's Distinguished Service Award for 1969, and their bosses and business associates. The event has been scheduled for 7:30 at the Greenville Moose Lodge with the Commissioner of Corrections in North Carolina, Vernon L. Bounds serving as the principal speaker. The DSA is presented annually to the young man of Greenville between the ages of 21 and 35 who has demonstrated outstanding community service, evidence of leadership, and business or personal progress. Winner of the local honor will be entered in the state event in Hickory on Feb. 7. Five local winners will be recognized there as the outstanding young men of North Carolina. Representatives from Greenville have won three times in the past beginning with William (Booger) Seales, Jr. in 1957; Dr. J. Edwin Clement in 1965; and C. Eugene Prescott in 1966. Ted Gartman received the DSA in 1968 and is serving as this year's DSA chairman.

VFW Auxiliary Honors Borman

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Col. Frank Borman, the astronaut who read the story of the creation from Genesis while orbiting the moon on Christmas Eve 1968, will receive the first Better World award given by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary. The award will be made in Washington Feb. 7, Miss Erline Mayberry, national auxiliary president, said Wednesday. She called the Bible reading "a gracious human act at a moment of scientific triumph."

Boy Charged With Break-In

A 14-year-old Negro was charged with breaking, entering and larceny yesterday following investigation of a Tuesday break-in at 1507B Fleming St. Officers said Mrs. Ida Bell King reported $125 in cash and change and $89.95 worth of merchandise (including a .22 caliber pistol, tape recorder and two radios) was taken from her home Tuesday. Officers said the juvenile allegedly gained entrance to the home through a window. The pistol was recovered by police yesterday. Investigation of the case is continuing.

Remodeled Church Dedication Sunday

NEWLY REMODELED GOOD HOPE CHURCH... will be dedicated in special services Sunday afternoon.

The newly remodeled Good Hope Church, Winterville, will be dedicated Sunday afternoon. The church was established in 1905 and the present building was constructed in 1950. In addition to the main sanctuary, the church facilities include a dining room, pastor's study and lounge. The recently completed renovations, which were started in November, include brick veneering, new windows, carpets, lights, and extra baths.

Bishop W.H. Mitchell of Cove City is pastor of the church. He conducts services on the second and fourth Sundays at Good Hope. The church has a membership of 300.

HAPPINESS IS A WARM MAXI COAT — Although the temperature was 19 below zero in Madison, Wisconsin, James Klinkner and his 4-year-old twin sister Angela didn't seem to mind a bit. They were warm in their new fake fur maxicoats which their mother made for them. (AP Wirephoto)

Driver Charged In Mishap Here

Linda Sue Sheriff, 21, of Route 10, Fayetteville was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 7:27 p.m. mishap on Maply Street, 50 feet North of the Tenth Street intersection yesterday. Officers said the Sheriff car collided with a parked car owned by Harvey Leith Purvis, 625 Maple St., and caused an estimated $300 damage to the Sheriff car and about $250 damage to the Purvis vehicle.

School Drops Report Cards

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Starting Feb. 2, elementary school pupils in predominantly Mexican-American East Los Angeles, no longer will receive report cards. Instead, says Asst. Supt. of Schools Herbert Cadwell, "Parent-Teacher Conversations" will be tried. Cadwell told a news conference Wednesday: "Report cards will be put aside to make way for conversations—simple, informal talks between parents and the men and women who teach their children." At the end of the school year there will be a general progress report; also given in conversation form. Students who lag in some subjects will be moved along to the next grade and given special help on those areas.

CITY OF GREENVILLE
A public hearing will be conducted by the Greenville Board of Adjustments upon a request for a special use permit by Kappa Phi Fraternity whereby the petitioner desires to obtain a special use permit to convert the Amos Evans residence located on Hooker Road for use as a fraternity house under the provisions of Item 3 of Section 7-4.2 of Zoning Ordinance No. 322. The time, date, and place of the public hearing will be Thursday, January 29, 1970, at 7:30 p.m., in the Mayor's Office, first floor, City Hall, W.N. Moore City Clerk Jan. 15, 22, 1970

NOTICE OF SALE
North Carolina
Pitt County
Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain deed of trust executed by Namond Brewington, Jr. and wife, Carrie L. Brewington, to Frank M. Wooten, Jr., trustee, dated the 10th day of April, 1968 and recorded in Book Q 37, page 476, Pitt County Registry, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness thereby secured and the terms thereof subject to foreclosure and the holder of the indebtedness thereby secured having demanded a foreclosure thereof for the purpose of satisfying said indebtedness, the undersigned trustee will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash at the Courthouse door in Greenville, North Carolina, at 11:00 o'clock on Monday, February 16, 1970, the parcel of land conveyed in said deed of trust and described as follows: Lying and being in the City of Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, at the southwest corner of Contentnea and Ward Streets, more specifically described as follows: BEGINNING at the intersection of the western property line of Contentnea Street and the southern property line of Ward Street, and runs in a westerly direction, with the southern property line of Ward Street, fifty two and five eighths (52 5/8) feet to a stake; thence southward, parallel to the western property line of Contentnea Street, to a corner of L.A. Clayton's lot; thence eastward with the line of L.A. Clayton, fifty two and five eighths (52 5/8) feet to the western property line of Ward Street, the beginning point. It being the identical parcel of land that was conveyed by R.M. Garrett and wife, Frances D. Garrett, to Helen L. Stokes by deed dated April 27, 1945, recorded in Book J-24, at page 59, and also conveyed to Hughes Peede and wife, Alma P. Peede, by Helen L. Stokes and husband, R.C. Stokes, Jr. by deed dated June 27, 1951.

This sale will be made subject to that certain deed of trust executed by L. Hughes Peede and wife, Alma P. Peede to W.W. Speight, Trustee, dated the 7th day of March, 1966, and recorded in Book Z 35, page 84; to all ad valorem taxes—other than the now due or which constitute a lien on the above described lot or parcel of land and all other liens. The highest bidder at said sale will be required to deposit with the undersigned 10 percent of the amount of his bid up to $1,000.00 and 5 percent on all in excess of $1,000.00 to show his good faith. Home Savings

Profit was realized primarily from interest on DR loans, he said, as interest increased during the year by $82,945... an increase of 13.2 per cent over 1968.

Dividends on savings passbooks, and bonus certificates increased during the year, Lee said, with rates on all types of savings accounts being approximately 4.7 per cent.

As of the 20th, Lee informed stockholders that Home Savings had net savings deposits of $125,000 for the month of January.

Directors who were elected to serve for the 1970 year were: Carl L. Bailey (Plymouth), Kenneth K. Dews (Winterville), C.W. Everett Sr. (Bethel), C. Heber Forbes (director emeritus), F.D. Duncan, David A. Evans, James S. Ficklen Jr., Howard L. Hodges, H.W. Lee, James T. Little, W.W. Speight,

FEWER VULTURES
WASHINGTON (AP)—The number of vultures in heavily populated states is declining — and a little human understanding is needed to save them from extinction, the Interior Department said today.

Claim Civilian Viet Slaughter

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong charged today that American, South Vietnamese and South Korean troops killed more than 700 civilians in a group of villages in central Vietnam last November, more than 20 months after the alleged American massacre at My Lai.

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, foreign minister of the Viet Cong's provisional revolutionary government, told the 51st session of the Vietnam peace talks that a massacre in Quang Nam province took place under direct American command as part of the "accelerated pacification" operation named Sea Tiger.

"This is one of the biggest and most barbarous mass slaughters perpetrated by the American, puppet and satellite troops in the first year of the Nixon Administration in the framework of 'Vietnamizing' the war," she said.

She added that it showed the "emptiness" of President Nixon's statement that the killing at My Lai was an "isolated incident."

She said that the killing occurred Nov. 11-12 in the villages of Binh Duong, Binh Giang, Binh Trieu, Binh Hoa and Binh Dao, in Thang Binh district.

The surviving inhabitants were taken to "concentration zones" for detention, she charged.
