Teachers Speak Out On High School Problems And Needs

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Teachers of Rose High School spoke out last night on a number of conditions and circumstances which they say are part of the problems now existing at Rose High School and offered several suggestions for the community of Greenville to consider in making Rose a better school.

Assistance — in the form of new programs and facilities, an increase in taxes for these needs, recognition of the need for teachers to have adequate authority to maintain discipline, more efficient organization within the school system, and more concerned participation on the part of parents were some of the matters teachers presented as most urgent.

At the beginning of the four hour meeting with the Citizens Awareness Committee at Rose, some teachers expressed objections to the presence of four committee student members, pointing out that at last night's meeting, the teachers had stayed away to permit the students to speak freely.

Asking permission to speak privately with the students, commission member Benny Roundtree conferred with them briefly and announced the students consented to leave the meeting.

Co-Chairman John Taylor, in reply to a teacher's question about not having teachers represented on the committee said: "Faculty was proposed; however, the question arose if faculty would be compromised as we delve into questions. Our committee does not seek to find fault, but facts. If faculty desires representation, I don't believe the committee will have objections."

The faculty was asked to name representatives to serve on the committee as part of the future representation in the committee meetings.

Claude West, teacher for the Industrial Cooperative Training program at Rose, was the first teacher to speak.

"We as faculty members seem to be on trial," he commented. "There seems to be a lack of discipline because our authority in the classroom is up for grabs. Until the teachers are again put in charge of the classrooms, we will continue to have trouble."

West praised the policemen in their conduct on October 24. "If it had not been for the policemen, I don't know how many students might have been hurt. They deserve commendation."

Mrs. Audrey Whitehurst, told the committee: "Tension was here at the beginning of the year. We needed a chance to build bridges of understanding in an atmosphere of quietness and order. Certain elements in our classrooms did not permit an

City Council Acts On Notes For Utilities

By CARL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

The City Council last night approved two resolutions providing for the issuance of $700,000 worth of bond anticipation notes for sale, last night in a reconvened meeting from January 8.

The funds will be used for improvements in Greenville's utilities.

Utilities Commission Chairman, Ed Waldrop, spoke to the council, explaining the need of at least $400,000 immediately, in order to pay for the already completed extension of water and sewage service to the Burroughs Wellcome Co., and future improvements to be made in utilities.

Waldrop stated that the improvements now needed are ones which were brought before the council two years ago.

"We are talking about a two year program," Waldrop commented. "We are going to have a heavy load this summer. We have already purchased a lot on highway 43 for the purpose of building a new electric substation, in order to provide better service to our customers in this area, because they expect it, and they have the right to."

The two resolutions provide for the issuance of $400,000 worth of electric light and power anticipation Bonds and for $300,000 in natural gas system bond anticipation notes.

A third resolution was passed, fixing the form and manner of execution of the $700,000 in notes to be issued under the date of February 5, 1970, and ratifying the application to the Local Government Commission for the approval, advertisement and sale of said notes.

The bonds would mature by September 4, 1970, and would be sold with an interest rate of not more than eight percent per annum.

Along with Utilities Commission Chairman Waldrop, a number of Utilities Commission members attended the meeting in support of the adoption of the resolutions.

Two other resolutions were approved during the short meeting. The council approved an amendment to the lease agreement for the community facilities building in Moyewood, and they adopted a resolution authorizing the application to the Federal Housing and Urban Development Commission for a grant for the purchase of an open land space providing for a public park.

The land being considered is a 25 acre area, on Hooker Road, owned by Amos Evans.

The council is requesting $64,000 for the purchase of the land, and $36,000 to develop it.

Federal Reserve Board and the heavy demand for credit, Tugwell said, 1969 was characterized by a "shortage of mortgage credit and unusually high interest rates."

Directors who were re-elected to a three-year term were: Roscoe L. King, Dr. M.B. Massey and Judge Dink James.

James was re-elected chairman of the board for his 33rd year at a board of directors meeting following the annual session and Tugwell was re-elected president and managing officer.

S. Reynolds May of Greenville has been named executive director of the East Carolina University Foundation.

The announcement of May's appointment to the foundation post was made today by ECU president Leo W. Jenkins, president of the ECU Foundation.

As executive director of the foundation, May will manage the administrative affairs and direct fund raising programs. The ECU Foundation, controlled by an 11-member Board of Directors, was chartered October 16, 1967, as a charitable educational organization designed to raise funds to enrich various programs at East Carolina University.

Jenkins in announcing May's appointment, said, "We are pleased to have a man of his qualifications as our first foundation director."

"He brings to his new post a wealth of experience in business and finance and becomes

Charts Goals, Few Specifics Pollution And Crime Have Nixon Priority

By WALTER M. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has summoned a Democratic Congress and a watching nation to join in an effort to "make our peace with nature," intensify the struggle against crime and stick with him in dealing with the Vietnam war.

The President presented those priorities Thursday in his first State of the Union message, a 36-minute speech abridged from what was once a two-hour, 10-minute draft.

Charting goals but few specific programs, the Republican President encountered a generally mild, and frequently favorable, Democratic reaction. GOP leaders termed the speech a masterpiece.

Senate Democrats called a caucus today to discuss a response from the congressional majority. It is likely to be a televised outline of the Democratic view, about Feb. 8.

Nixon told the joint session he will send at least a dozen major new proposals to Capitol Hill during the current, election-year session.

He did not list the specifics. But Hugh Scott, the Republican Senate leader, said a Nixon program to combat water pollution will top the list.

That one is likely to reach Congress within two or three weeks, Nixon said it will be a five-year, $10-billion program to build all the municipal waste treatment plants needed in the nation.

The President called it the most comprehensive and costly pollution control program in American history.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine said the commitment was reassuring—but the leading Democratic spokesman on environment estimated it would cost $25 billion in federal funds to deal with municipal wastes over the next five years.

"He's given us another cry of alarm, but he hasn't given us anything to deal with," said the Maine senator, who is rated a likely contender for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

Nixon said the budget he will send to Congress by early February will be in balance, for the sake of combating inflation.

He said spending programs are politically popular, but an inflation-wracked economy cannot afford them.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he was not convinced budget balancing alone would be sufficient.

He said Nixon might have to send Congress specific legislation including wage, price, profit and credit controls to deal with inflation.

In one area, law enforcement, Nixon said he intends to increase rather than cut federal spending. He did not say how much money would be involved, but he said aid to local law enforcement agencies would be doubled in the new budget.

In foreign affairs, Nixon said, the United States seeks better relationships with the Soviet Union and mainland China.

"...We are moving with precision and purpose from an era of confrontation to an era of negotiation," he said. "...I believe our new policies have contributed to the prospect that America may have the best chance since World War II to enjoy a generation of uninterrupted peace."

In Vietnam, Nixon said, the United States is making progress toward a just settlement.

"The prospects for peace are far greater today than they were a year ago," he said.

The President said Congress shares the credit because it has overwhelmingly supported the effort for such a peace.

"By this action," Nixon said, "you have completely demolished the enemy's hopes that they can gain in Washington the victory our fighting men deny it in Vietnam."

Nixon did not list the dozen major messages he said he would be sending Congress. But he mentioned these proposals:

—A new system of financing for the purchase of open space and parklands "now, before they are lost to us."

—Development of a national growth policy to balance the nation's population, and to shape decisions on where to build highways, airports, even cities.

—Reforms "which will expand the range of opportunities for all Americans ... Equal voting rights, equal employment opportunity and new opportunities for expanded ownership."

Nixon did not mention his dispute with Congress over the outlay for health and education during the current year.

Congress has approved $1.26 billion more than Nixon wants spent. The President has threatened to veto a pending appropriations bill because of it.

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said if Nixon really wants the bipartisan-ship he sought in the address, he should prove it by signing the bill.

Boyd Lee Is Presented Jaycee DSA At Annual Banquet Last Evening

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The young director of the Greenville Recreation Commission, Boyd Lee, was named the recipient of this year's Distinguished Service Award last night at the annual Jaycee DSA and Bosses Night Banquet.

The award, presented to the young man who contributes most to the community and who has been judged to have shown the greatest degree of personal and professional progress, was presented to Lee by the guest speaker for the night, V.L. Bounds of Raleigh.

Since assuming the role of director of the commission last summer, Lee has led a staff of 14 full time workers in a program that has brought immediate success and recognition from everyone associated with the youth of the community.

A native of Burlington, Lee is a graduate of North Carolina State University with a BS degree in Recreation and Park Administration.

In addition to his position as director of the commission, Lee currently serves as an usher in the First Presbyterian Church in Greenville and is vice president of the North Carolina State

Alumni Association.

"I guess my wife (former Mary Angela Clemmons) should be receiving this award tonight, Lee said, for she has had to put up with the odd hours that are necessary sometimes."

Lee, generally acknowledged as being the youngest recreation director in the state at 26, asked for continued support from the people of Greenville in the recreation program. "We are extremely fortunate in having a mayor, city manager and city council who are all for recreation," he said.

As chairman of area one of the Municipal Division of the State Recreation Commission, Lee serves a number of surrounding towns, in addition to Greenville, including—Kinston, Rocky Mount, Wilson, Tarboro, Washington, Elizabeth City, Jacksonville, New Bern and Roanoke Rapids.

He is also a member of the North Carolina Recreation Park Society, the National Recreation and Parks Association, and the Pitt County Association for Retarded Children.

Bounds pointed out that Lee was cited by former Vice President Hubert Humphrey during the administration of LYNDON Johnson for his outstanding work in the field of recreation. Lee has also been credited with helping to establish several Day Camps for retarded children in the state.

Lee succeeds W.T. (Ted) Gartman Jr. who was the 1969 winner of the award and who served as DSA chairman for this year's presentation. Gartman pointed out that Lee and 1946 DSA award winner, Larry Averette, have been the only two recipients who are not Jaycees.

Representative David Reid of Greenville introduced Bounds, who is the Commissioner of Correction for the North Carolina State Department of Correction in Raleigh.

"I think it is fitting that as you (Jaycees) are celebrating your 50th anniversary as an organization, I should note that the Jaycees are half as old as the North Carolina prison system which was established 100 years ago," Bounds asserted.

Bounds said that in 1868 the state decided to turn away from the sole realm of corporal punishment and incorporate a goal of correction as an objective of the system.

He pointed out that the "dollar mark that has been put on the

Offers Mutual Program With 2-Year Colleges

Dr. Leo Jenkins, President of East Carolina University, has joined three community college presidents in proposing a unique statewide program of cooperation between the university and North Carolina's two-year institutions.

In a letter sent to presidents of all community colleges, technical institutes and junior colleges in the state, Dr. Jenkins issued an invitation for them to attend a meeting on the ECU campus January 29 to discuss ways and means by which ECU and those various institutions can be of mutual assistance.

Representatives of fifty institutions have indicated that they will attend the meeting.

"This idea grew out of an informal meeting with three community college presidents early this month," Jenkins said. "The idea is to try to open new channels of communication between the community colleges and the university community."

The three community college presidents who are working with Dr. Jenkins are William E. Fulford of Pitt Technical Institute, Ben E. Fountain of Lenoir Community College and Clyde A. Erwin of Wayne Community College.

"It should be made clear that this conference will be concerned solely with means by which East Carolina University can be of service to our community colleges and technical institutes," Jenkins said. "We believe that our two-year institutions are serving a demanding need in education in North Carolina and they need to be able to channel their promising students directly into a university system."

The meeting is scheduled for two p.m. at the Home Economics Building at East Carolina University.

First Federal Stockholders Told Of Growth During 1969

Savings account holders at First Federal Savings and Loan Association received a total of $750,000 in interest payments during the year, Association president Clarence B. Tugwell told members attending their 33rd annual meeting Wednesday night.

The interest premiums represented the largest yearly interest payment to customers in the institution's history, Tugwell said.

Total assets stood at $19,335,489 at the year's end and savings balances held by the institution amounted to $17,084,370, compared to $16,220,000 at the close of the previous year, his annual report revealed.

First Federal made over $2,500,000 in mortgage loans in the community during 1969 bringing total loans to $17,385,000, the president said, with the figures representing a five per cent increase in total mortgage loans outstanding over 1968.

Judge Dink James, who predated as chairman for the meeting, pointed out that in the 33 year history of the association, no losses had been suffered as a result of repossessing mortgages.

As a result of "tight money" policies of the Federal Reserve Board and the heavy demand for credit, Tugwell said, 1969 was characterized by a "shortage of mortgage credit and unusually high interest rates."

Directors who were re-elected to a three-year term were: Roscoe L. King, Dr. M.B. Massey and Judge Dink James.

James was re-elected chairman of the board for his 33rd year at a board of directors meeting following the annual session and Tugwell was re-elected president and managing officer.

Foundation Executive Director Named

S. Reynolds May of Greenville has been named executive director of the East Carolina University Foundation.

The announcement of May's appointment to the foundation post was made today by ECU president Leo W. Jenkins, president of the ECU Foundation.

As executive director of the foundation, May will manage the administrative affairs and direct fund raising programs. The ECU Foundation, controlled by an 11-member Board of Directors, was chartered October 16, 1967, as a charitable educational organization designed to raise funds to enrich various programs at East Carolina University.

Jenkins in announcing May's appointment, said, "We are pleased to have a man of his qualifications as our first foundation director."

"He brings to his new post a wealth of experience in business and finance and becomes another valuable and respected member of a team of experts who are building for the future of the youth of our community."

The Foundation at present has about $117,000 in cash and stock in Greenville Industries and in Progress for Williamston with a par value of $11,825.

Officers of the Foundation have been established at 219 Cotanche Street.

May, a Dothan, Alabama native, is a graduate of Duke University and played semi-pro baseball on the Greenville team which was a member of the old Coastal Plain League during the mid 1930's.

He became affiliated with the Garris-Evans Lumber Co. here in 1937 and became co-partner in the firm in 1947. May remained president of the firm until selling his interest in the company when he assumed his duties with the ECU Foundation.

During World War II, May served with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

He is a member of the Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, a director of the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame, and member of the board of directors for North Carolina National Bank (formerly State Bank), the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association and the Salvation Army.

May is married to the former Doris Garris of Greenville and they have two children.

Nigerian Relief Efforts In Biafra Are Criticized

Claims Of Damage By The Pill Said Theoretical Speculation

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Claims that birth control pills cause liver damage, diseases of the veins and arteries or diabetes are at present only "theoretical speculation," a Senate subcommittee was told today.

Dr. William Spellacy of the University of Miami school of medicine said, however, there appears to be solid evidence the pill can aggravate existing liver and vein disorders.

Spellacy, an associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology, commented in testimony prepared for the fifth and final session of the Senate subcommittee's current hearings into safety of the pill.

The subcommittee, chaired by Democrat Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, plans further hearings in the coming months but none has been scheduled.

Of 17 witnesses heard besides Spellacy in the past two weeks, the majority have reported and emphasized suspected links between the pill and numerous disorders ranging from nausea and headaches to heart trouble, liver damage, strokes, diabetes and cancer of the breast, cervix and uterus.

No witness claimed had proof of such relationships and Spellacy said to "find these answers will require large in-depth prospective studies of each organ system... at many dosages and drug combinations carried out for many years in a variety of different environments on many types of people.

Reviewing studies done on the effect of oral contraceptives on the liver, Spellacy said several of the organ's functions are altered by oral contraceptives.

This was particularly true, he said, in the use of the synthetic female hormone estrogen. The hormone, a component of many oral contraceptives, was singled out by witnesses as a prime suspect in many disorders. Pills containing a high percentage of estrogen have been abandoned in Great Britain.

But, he added, "there is no answer to the query of will permanent liver damage result from the use of the oral contraceptives."

Furthermore, he said, "it should be pointed out that no deaths have been reported from liver disease in women using oral contraceptives."

Spellacy said a number of studies have indicated the pill can cause a prediabetic condition, but none has proved diabetes will result.

The important unanswered questions, he said, are whether such changes are reversible and whether they are actually harmful.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent
PORT HARCOURT, Nigeria (AP) — Every hour Radio Nigeria exhorts the war refugees to remain where they are so that they can be helped, but relief workers say there are not nearly enough trucks to take food to them.

Members of the international observer team told newsmen federal units inside fallen Biafra had less than 100 vehicles but the Guard Training Division in Lagos had five times as many.

Doctors and nurses treating hungry children brought from the bush to sick bays in Port Harcourt were almost unanimous in their criticism of federal relief efforts.

"Their army is never short of beer and their whores get transported everywhere," a Scottish doctor said, "but they can't get a truck to take my nurses out to the clinic. Where are all the trucks that kept Biafra going for 2 1/2 years?"

In Lagos, the Nigerian chief of state, Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon, told a news conference relief work is progressing satisfactorily, but he got angry when told the newsmen had seen much army indifference to the refugees.

"We don't expect miracles," Gowon declared. "Is anyone willing to say there is not misbehavior in their own armies? Just because a soldier looks away and is not bending down over someone, he is indifferent. "There is no doubt that the next few weeks some will regard it as their main task to belittle our efforts and the efforts of those who are genuinely trying to help in a difficult situation. For our part we have made it our duty to ensure that we do everything possible to bring relief to our people and to ensure an early return to normalcy to all parts of our country."

Gowon announced that the government had set aside another $28 million for relief, bringing the total to $45 million. He also said Roman Catholic missionaries who had been working in the Biafra area would be investigated and that each case would be considered before any are expelled. He said some mercenaries fighting for Biafra had disguised themselves as priests to avoid capture.

About 60 white priests and half a dozen nuns are under house arrest in Port Harcourt. Federal interrogators question them four to six hours at a time.

Another 42 are still inside what was Biafra, their movements restricted mostly to the grounds of their missions. All of those interviewed during a tour of the former rebel area say their automobiles, supply trucks and even their bicycles were confiscated by federal soldiers.

The archbishop of Lagos, John Aggrey, a Togolese, flew to Port Harcourt to intercede on behalf of the clergy.

Balking at barracks life and flushed with victory, the federal troops are going off on their own by the hundreds. Two members of the observer team said officers had not been able to regroup their units since the final victory drive.

Part of the confusion is due to an attempt to break up the front-line brigades into six garrison units for the recaptured lands. And wholesale desertion is not surprising in an army which in 30 months jumped in size from 7,800 men to 130,000. With the end of the war, many of the soldiers see no reason for remaining.

Oil workers trying to get the refineries working again say they have a daily battle keeping looting troops from seizing their vehicles and supplies at gunpoint.

In Washington, a White House spokesman said President Nixon received an urgent plea from Nigeria Thursday for planes, food and medical supplies. Nixon ordered the immediate dispatch of six cargo planes and 50 generators, 10,000 blankets and 10,000 hurricane lamps for hospitals. And 40,000 tons of food is to be sent each month, in addition to the $10 million the White House had previously earmarked for emergency help.

Israeli Jets Again Raid Near Cairo

By MARCUSELIASON
Associated Press Writer
TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli planes bombed Egyptian military camps near Cairo again today while Israeli commandos gathered booty on a small Egyptian island they captured Thursday.

The planes hit camps near the industrial city of Helwan, south of Cairo, and at Huckstep, 12 miles east of the capital. It was the fifth penetration of the Nile Valley in less than three weeks and the second attack on the Helwan and Huckstep areas in six days.

A spokesman said the planes attacked military targets along the northern sector of the Suez Canal on their way home, and all returned safely.

The Israeli commandos on the captive islet of Shadwan, at the mouth of the Gulf of Suez, apparently were dismantling the radar station there to take it back to Israel when they abandoned the island. An Israeli spokesman said "one or two" Egyptian planes dropped a few bombs on the southern end of the island during the night, but there was no damage or casualties.

Two boats also tried to approach the island during the night, but the spokesman said Israeli fire drove them off. Later one Egyptian from one of the boats was captured and four others were found dead.

Mopping up actions by the Israeli troops brought the Egyptian casualty toll on the island to 70 soldiers killed and 62 captured, the Israeli command said. The prisoners were taken to Israeli territory. The command said Israeli casualties were three killed and six wounded Thursday. If there were any more today, they were not reported.

In Cairo, the Egyptian military command said its planes made massive attacks on the island early today and fierce fighting was raging. A spokesman said the Israelis were sending reinforcements by air and sea, and the Egyptian defenders were holding the attackers off "courageously and valiantly."

The spokesman said Egyptian forces on the island reported at least 50 killed or wounded on each side.

The raid was part of a continuing Israeli campaign against radar installations that give warning of Israeli planes approaching the southern Egyptian coast. Repeated Israeli raids there have demonstrated that much of the warning network has been knocked out.

A spokesman said the Israelis would remain "perhaps a few days" on the 12-square-mile coral reef midway between Egypt's African coast and the southern tip of the Israeli-held Sinai Peninsula. The purpose of the raid was to knock out the radar station guarding an approach to two Egyptian naval stations on the coast and to deal the Egyptians another humiliation.

The radar proved to be a British Decca model instead of Soviet equipment like the Israelis lifted from another Egyptian station last month and transported to Israel.

"This is not a particularly impressive radar apparatus," said Lt. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev. Is-

Will Telecast Jenkins Dinner

Officials of the University of North Carolina television station in Chapel Hill have announced that WUNC-TV will broadcast the "Leo Jenkins Appreciation Dinner" proceedings scheduled in Greenville Tuesday night.

Dr. George Bair, director of educational television in Chapel Hill, said the station's mobile unit will video tape the program. It will be shown on the statewide network at 9:00 p.m. the following night, Jan. 28.

"We are pleased to share in the effort to pay tribute to Dr. Jenkins," Bair said. "We feel that it is part of our obligation to provide coverage of the events that are taking place in our state. It gives the educational television network the opportunity to help the entire state share in the events that are taking place in various parts of North Carolina."

Bair said the broadcast will preempt a National Educational Television Network program that is regularly scheduled for the 9:00 P. M. time slot.

The appreciation dinner is being sponsored by the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association to recognize Dr. Jenkins for his leadership in building East Carolina University and helping in community development over the past ten years.

Dunn Firm Is Low Bidders On Project

WINTERVILLE — North State Constructors, Inc., of Dunn, were low bidders in a project to extend water and sewer lines from Winterville to the Pitt Technical Institute site when bids were opened here yesterday.

The North State firm was one of 10 contractors bidding on the project. Contracts will be awarded following a review of all the bids, according to Winterville Mayor Walter A. Dail.

North State's bid totaled $133,859.10, well within the $398,400 set up for the project. The project, in addition to one-and-one-fourth miles of water and sewer lines, will include one pumping station, Dail said.

The project is being funded with $75,000 from HUD, $40,900 from Coastal Plains Regional Development and $82,500 from local sources, Dail explained. Dail said engineers fees were not included in the bids.

Other firms bidding on the project were: S. M. Cozart Construction Co., Wilson, $151,200.40; T. A. Loving Company, Goldsboro, $146,503.10; Connell Construction Co., Warrenton, $142,941.90; Cox-Edwards Co., Goldsboro, $142,214.79; Hilco, Inc., Hookerton, $132,955.40; Norcarva Constructors, Inc., Clarksville, Va., $169,381.80; T. H. Faulkner, Inc., Kinston, $137,533.90; Dickerson Inc., Monroe, $172,807.92; and Central Builders, Inc., Rocky Mount, $146,231.95.

Work is expected to begin on the project during the later part of February, Dail noted.

The continent of Africa contains 20 per cent of the world's total land area, but only about 10 per cent of the world's population.

Round Trip For 'Jumbo'

NEW YORK (AP) — After a delay of nearly seven hours and cancellations by 128 impatient passengers, a Boeing 747 jumbo jetliner has returned from London, completing its maiden transatlantic commercial round trip.

The Pan American World Airways jet arrived Thursday with 150 of the 278 passengers booked for the flight. It had carried 332 on its eastward flight out of a 362-passenger capacity.

The flight originally was due back at Kennedy Airport at 12:25 p.m. Thursday, but after a series of delays, lost an additional hour on the westward Atlantic flight and arrived seven hours late.

There were 128 passenger cancellations on the return trip, perhaps the greatest number ever compiled for a single airliner.

On the first leg of the trip, from New York to London, the flight was delayed more than six hours at Kennedy while passengers changed to a second 747 because an engine on the first overheated. Another hour was lost in London because of unloading problems.

"It wasn't worth the hassle," said computer salesman Jack Zoll, 24, the first passenger off the flight in New York.

52-Year-Old Is Urged Re-Enlist

QUINCY, Calif. (AP) — Railroad engineer Maurice Story has a letter from the Marine Corps urging him to re-enlist before his draft lottery numbers comes up.

Story, the father of 11, will be 52 in April.

A Marine recruiting sergeant from Reno, Nev., called Story Thursday and apologized for the mixup. A new girl in the office was responsible, the sergeant explained.

The letter informed Story he had successfully passed his physical examination and should re-enlist as soon as possible to avoid the draft.

"My gosh," he said, "I was in the Marines briefly during World War II but I got a medical discharge."

Seeks Smog Legislation

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan is seeking new laws to push California toward "final victory" in its battle against smog.

The governor's proposals would, for the first time, cover every corner of California and virtually every type of burning.

The auto industry would face stricter standards, industrial smokestacks would come under stronger regulation, all dump burning would be banned, and even the burning of rice stubble by farmers would be limited to certain atmospheric conditions.

Reagan coupled his written message to the legislature Thursday with a 90-second radio-television report to the people in which he outlined his proposals, saying: "We are committed to an all-out war on smog. This legislative package will give us more of the ammunition we need to gain final victory."

Driver Hurt In Car Collision

One person was injured when two cars collided at the intersection of tenth and Charles Streets at 3:05 p.m. yesterday, Greenville police investigators reported.

Officers said Simon Lloyd Tucker, 70 of 2004 Forrest Hill Dr., the driver of one of the two cars involved, was injured.

Driver of the second car was identified as Wilbur Lee Loftin Jr., 18 of 401 South Venters St., Ayden. He was charged with failing to stop for a red light.

Damage was set at $250 to the Loftin car and $400 to the Tucker vehicle.

Israeli Jets Again Raid Near Cairo

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli planes bombed Egyptian military camps near Cairo again today while Israeli commandos gathered booty on a small Egyptian island they captured Thursday.

The planes hit camps near the industrial city of Helwan, south of Cairo, and at Huckstep, 12 miles east of the capital. It was the fifth penetration of the Nile Valley in less than three weeks and the second attack on the Helwan and Huckstep areas in six days.

A spokesman said the planes attacked military targets along the northern sector of the Suez Canal on their way home, and all returned safely.

The Israeli commandos on the captive islet of Shadwan, at the mouth of the Gulf of Suez, apparently were dismantling the radar station there to take it back to Israel when they abandoned the island. An Israeli spokesman said "one or two" Egyptian planes dropped a few bombs on the southern end of the island during the night, but there was no damage or casualties.

Two boats also tried to approach the island during the night, but the spokesman said Israeli fire drove them off. Later one Egyptian from one of the boats was captured and four others were found dead.

Mopping up actions by the Israeli troops brought the Egyptian casualty toll on the island to 70 soldiers killed and 62 captured, the Israeli command said. The prisoners were taken to Israeli territory. The command said Israeli casualties were three killed and six wounded Thursday. If there were any more today, they were not reported.

In Cairo, the Egyptian military command said its planes made massive attacks on the island early today and fierce fighting was raging. A spokesman said the Israelis were sending reinforcements by air and sea, and the Egyptian defenders were holding the attackers off "courageously and valiantly."

The spokesman said Egyptian forces on the island reported at least 50 killed or wounded on each side.

The raid was part of a continuing Israeli campaign against radar installations that give warning of Israeli planes approaching the southern Egyptian coast. Repeated Israeli raids there have demonstrated that much of the warning network has been knocked out.

A spokesman said the Israelis would remain "perhaps a few days" on the 12-square-mile coral reef midway between Egypt's African coast and the southern tip of the Israeli-held Sinai Peninsula. The purpose of the raid was to knock out the radar station guarding an approach to two Egyptian naval stations on the coast and to deal the Egyptians another humiliation.

The radar proved to be a British Decca model instead of Soviet equipment like the Israelis lifted from another Egyptian station last month and transported to Israel.

"This is not a particularly impressive radar apparatus," said Lt. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev. Is-

Will Telecast Jenkins Dinner

Officials of the University of North Carolina television station in Chapel Hill have announced that WUNC-TV will broadcast the "Leo Jenkins Appreciation Dinner" proceedings scheduled in Greenville Tuesday night.

Dr. George Bair, director of educational television in Chapel Hill, said the station's mobile unit will video tape the program. It will be shown on the statewide network at 9:00 p.m. the following night, Jan. 28.

"We are pleased to share in the effort to pay tribute to Dr. Jenkins," Bair said. "We feel that it is part of our obligation to provide coverage of the events that are taking place in our state. It gives the educational television network the opportunity to help the entire state share in the events that are taking place in various parts of North Carolina."

Bair said the broadcast will preempt a National Educational Television Network program that is regularly scheduled for the 9:00 P. M. time slot.

The appreciation dinner is being sponsored by the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association to recognize Dr. Jenkins for his leadership in building East Carolina University and helping in community development over the past ten years.

52-Year-Old Is Urged Re-Enlist

QUINCY, Calif. (AP) — Railroad engineer Maurice Story has a letter from the Marine Corps urging him to re-enlist before his draft lottery numbers comes up.

Story, the father of 11, will be 52 in April.

A Marine recruiting sergeant from Reno, Nev., called Story Thursday and apologized for the mixup. A new girl in the office was responsible, the sergeant explained.

The letter informed Story he had successfully passed his physical examination and should re-enlist as soon as possible to avoid the draft.

"My gosh," he said, "I was in the Marines briefly during World War II but I got a medical discharge."

Driver Hurt In Car Collision

One person was injured when two cars collided at the intersection of tenth and Charles Streets at 3:05 p.m. yesterday, Greenville police investigators reported.

Officers said Simon Lloyd Tucker, 70 of 2004 Forrest Hill Dr., the driver of one of the two cars involved, was injured.

Driver of the second car was identified as Wilbur Lee Loftin Jr., 18 of 401 South Venters St., Ayden. He was charged with failing to stop for a red light.

Damage was set at $250 to the Loftin car and $400 to the Tucker vehicle.

Sent Home: Skirt Too Long

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Annetta Kopecky, 11, was sent home from school Wednesday because her skirt was too long.

Annetta, a fifth-grade pupil at Gardens Elementary in nearby Pasadena, wore a green-and-black plaid maxi-skirt to school. Her mother, Mrs. Genice Kopecky, said her daughter wore the ankle-length skirt because of the 33-degree temperature.

She said Louis Koenig, principal of Gardens Elementary, told her Annetta's dress was creating a disturbance among other students.

FASHION FORECASTS

by C. Heber Forbes

(Fashion Is Big Business)

American women are the best-dressed and have more dresses than other women in the world. They buy almost 154 million dresses annually. This is hard on individual budgets, but it keeps food on the table for close to 500,000 garment workers, members of the most powerful union in existence.

Fashion has created the eighth largest manufacturing industry in the nation. Its good fortune accounts for the success of several allied industries and numerous fashion magazines.

Fashion photography is a million dollar business, and models earn another half million. Sixteen billion dollars are spent annually on women's and children's clothing and nine billion on men's and boys.

Next time Dad complains about the cost of your new dress, remind him that he is helping to keep 4,300 dress manufacturers (and us) in business.

Lady Podiatrist Says:

Shoes Seldom Cause Foot Ills

By ARLEEN ABRAHAMS
Associated Press Writer

If the shoe fits, wear it, goes the old, often-quoted axiom. But for many women and children the problem is finding a shoe that fits comfortably. Usually this isn't the fault of the shoe or the shoe style, points out Dr. Elizabeth Roberts, a practicing podiatrist for 26 years. "Man was cruel to his feet long before shoe designers came on the scene," says the New York City foot specialist. "Nine times out of 10 when a woman complains she cannot find a shoe that fits, the problem lies with her feet, not her footwear."

In many instances, the problem can be traced to improper walking habits formed in childhood, which remain uncorrected. Dr. Roberts, who obtained her degree in podiatry from the Long Island University College of Podiatry and who now holds a full professorship at that school, says "Forty per cent of children between 8 and 10 years of age have some type of foot problem." Two of the most common childhood foot problems are the malposition of the foot in weight bearing and an unstable gait, the latter being responsible for a large number of falls, sprains and fractures. "Much lower-back pain, fatigue, leg pain and cramping—all everyday adult complaints—are the result of years of walking and standing incorrectly because these two foot problems go undetected," says the brunette podiatrist. Expensive shoes are not a panacea for foot problems. "You can buy an expensive shoe that is ill-fitting," says Dr. Roberts. "A properly-fitting shoe should be longer than the big toe; the widest part of the shoe should fit the widest part of the foot; and the shoe should be made of soft leather, so any pushing is done against the leather, rather than the foot." Style, for the most part, is a personal choice. "I'm wearing open toe, open back shoes because they're the most comfortable. Many people find that the less shoe they wear, the more comfortable they are, but I wouldn't advise going barefoot on city streets," she adds with a smile. The old bugaboo that shoes should be changed regularly is just that—an old wives' tale, she comments. "I personally can't get excited about changing shoes regularly." Although many children don't like to complain about foot pain, Dr. Roberts advises a mother to pay attention to her child's gait, to note whether he "toes-in or out, and to pay particular attention to warts, ingrown nails, calluses, and persistent foot odor are warning signs of incipient foot problems and an indication that professional treatment is necessary. Dr. Roberts recommends that until age 7 or 8 a child should have a foot checkup once every six months; after that, at least once a year. An active member of the Podiatry Society of the State of New York, Dr. Roberts was especially eager to point out that all podiatrists in the United States must have a medical degree. "Our scope of practice includes surgery, orthopedics, foot health and foot care and that necessitates undergraduate school, four years of podiatry college and then usually a year's internship. In other countries, no degree is necessary." She also notes that many other ailments, especially diabetes, may be detected by regular foot checkups. In private life the wife of attorney Nathan Wasserheit and the mother of "a remarkable daughter" Judy, 15, Dr. Roberts volunteered the information that "at least, for me podiatry is one professional career that has combined very well with marriage and motherhood. Yet only about 5 per cent of all podiatrists are women—the same percentage as in general medicine. Actually, she herself originally started out to become an English teacher. A part-time job in a podiatrist's office while she was attending Brooklyn College stimulated her interest in the profession and led to further schooling and her present career. Writing is still her favorite way of relaxing and she also enjoys sculpting and travel.

Guide To Winter Foot Care
Dr. Elizabeth Roberts, a practicing podiatrist for 26 years, recommends the following preventive measures to ward off winter foot problems, especially in children:

1. Keep feet warm. Nothing is more detrimental to a child than moist, cold boots or shoes. Wear warm footgear; cotton socks under wool socks is ideal. Teen-age girls might wish to wear fleece-lined boots.
2. Keep feet active.
3. Don't economize on boots for children. Don't let them wear last year's boots this year. Children's feet grow.
4. Vitamins A and D are beneficial for children.
5. Try to avoid dry caking of skin. A lubricating cream on feet will prevent much dryness.
6. If foot problems, such as frostbite or warts develop, avoid home treatment. Seek professional care and advice.

Designer Shows Midi Length

THE MIDI—New York fashion designer Donald Brooks said this week he recommended three definite hemlines—short, midi and long. Shown above are two of the designer's midi creations which were shown as part of his summer couture collection in New York this week. At left is an example of Brooks' "grown up geometry," a brown-toned triangular print on pique in a waterproof coat. At right, a standout in the show, is a mauve organza midi with scalloped hem, see-through arms and back of bodice, but scalloped effect in front prevents it from being see-through. (AP Wirephoto)

Hubby Wants Variety In His Marriage

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My problem is not unique altho I've never seen it in your column. After 10 years of marriage and two children, I still love my husband very much and think we have a good marriage.

He says he loves me, too, and is very happy, but he also says that "variety is the spice of life," and he's pushing to get me to go along with the "husband-wife swapping" idea. Apparently this type of thing has become more widespread.

I suppose I should be grateful that he doesn't just go ahead and find somebody. At least he keeps asking me if I'll go along with it so he won't exactly be cheating on me.

In spite of my repeated negative reactions, he persists on using the old argument that men need variety more than women. What do you think, Abby? I could use some support.

LOVES HIM
DEAR LOVES: When married couples agree that "variety is the spice of life," and then proceed to spice up their lives with that kind of "variety," it is the beginning of the end. Men don't "need" variety any more than women. What all civilized people need is not "variety," its decency and self-control. Tell him that when you promised to forsake all others, you meant it. And nothing has changed.

DEAR ABBY: I started taking flute lessons at school. I was doing just fine until somebody stole my flute.

Then I started taking clarinet lessons, and three weeks later some kid broke into my locker and stole my clarinet. I am so mad I think I will forget about music lessons. Can you help me?

NO INSTRUMENTS
DEAR NO: Don't give up hope. How about piano?

DEAR ABBY: "PROUD WIFE" certainly has reason to be proud of her husband because he quit smoking and took up embroidery in order to "do something" with his hands. However, why did she find it necessary to defend his manliness? And what a poor way to defend it! As if fathering six children in six years is proof that her husband is "all man."

In my opinion, having children in this way shows him to be irresponsible—not manly. No one who is aware and concerned about the grave problem of overpopulation today [regardless of his ability to support a large family] could have such an attitude.

A man who sensibly limits his family to two or three children, and indeed a man who intentionally has no children at all, can be just as "all man" as a father of six or more. The survival of the world, including this country, may depend on changing the attitudes of many proud wives and husbands.
MRS. R. S.: FORT WAYNE, IND.

DEAR MRS. R. S.: Well said, my lady. Well said.

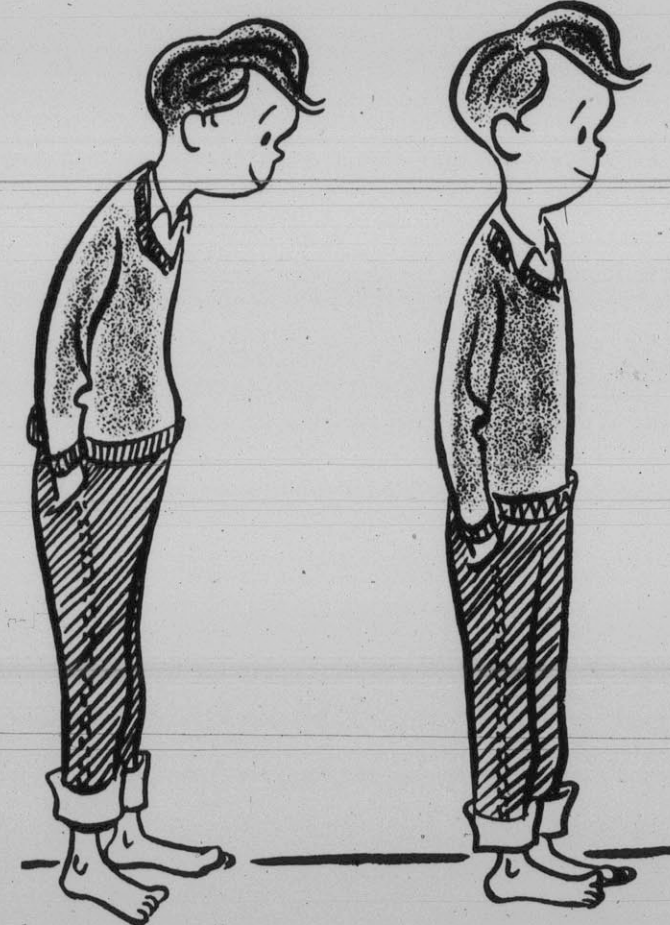

DEAR ABBY: I have no problem at the moment, but I do have a little story which I think will amuse you.

Have you ever heard "DEAR ABBY" used as an expletive? Well, I have. It was like this: In a local laundromat, a very nice appearing little white-haired lady at the washer next to me dropped some clean clothes on the floor. "Oh, brother!" she muttered, under her breath as she retrieved them. But when she dropped them again a few minutes later, she really expressed herself. "DEAR ABBY!" she sighed. NO PROBLEMS IN DE LAND, FLORIDA

DEAR NO: Thanks. I've heard more graphic expletives.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

FAULTY FOOT STANCE... The incorrect foot stance in youngsters (at left) can lead to faulty posture, which in turn can result in social and physical problems. The Podiatry Society of the State of New York advises parents to be on the alert for foot ills in children, so that they will enjoy good posture (at right) and overall good health.

To scour a greasy sink, apply soap or detergent to a dry cloth or sponge, and scrub the sink—also dry. Then turn on the hot water and rinse the grease away.

State Of Family Calendar Forum Is Program Events

State of the Family Forum was presented by the Home Life Department of the Greenville Woman's Club at the meeting Tuesday afternoon at the club building.

Participating in the forum were Miss Alya Ray Taylor, Mrs. Nancy Willard, Mrs. John Carrington, Mrs. W. E. Roseveare and Mrs. J. E. Ricks, moderator.

Discussions of social and economic changes which touch the family and broad changes which affect family life were pointed out to show people must crusade to save the family institution.

Forum members asked, where can the club begin? First, by reaching young couples who are today establishing the homes that must be the bulwark of a stable society if civilization is to survive.

State of the Family Forum outlines broad changes which affect people today and presents the implications in family life and religion, family economics, creative homemaking, health and mental health.

Mrs. Preston Cannon, chairman of the Home Life Department, announced the remainder of the meetings this year are scheduled to meet in homes of the club members.

After sudsing off and rinsing those sturdy, leather-like vinyl plastics used for furniture upholstery and luggage, polish them by buffing them with a dry cloth.

Priority For Internal Needs

As was expected, President Nixon's State of the Union address indicated that the administration would direct its attention toward the nation's internal problems in the years ahead.

The president said he would propose the biggest and costliest antipollution program ever. He said the program would call for spending $10 billion on "clean water projects alone over a five-year period."

To fight inflation, the president promised to submit his second straight balanced budget within the next two weeks. "... unless we stop the rise in prices, the cost of living for millions of American families will become unbearable and government's ability to plan programs for the future will become impossible," he said.

For fighting crime, the president said he had ordered increases in spending for agencies involved in law enforcement. Federal spending to assist local law enforcement will double in the 1971 fiscal year, he stated.

"We must declare and win the war against the criminal elements which increasingly threaten our cities, our homes and our lives," he asserted.

He also called for passage of 13 anticrime bills submitted by the administration last year. "We in the executive have done everything we can under existing law, but new and stronger weapons are needed in this fight."

These are all needed programs which the president outlined. Crime, pollution and inflation are among the greatest dangers the nation faces.

However carrying out the programs which the president proposes will depend to a great degree on his predictions about world peace.

"I would be the last to suggest that the road to peace is not difficult and dangerous," he said. "But I believe our new policies have contributed to the prospect that America may have the best chance since World War II to enjoy a generation of uninterrupted peace."

He said he foresaw progress in achieving peace in Vietnam and looked hopefully toward fruitful negotiations with the Soviet Union and possibly, Communist China.

If the president is correct in his assessment of the world peace situation, then all of the domestic programs he proposes are possible. If he is not, then it is going to be difficult, indeed, to achieve balanced budgets and to carry out crime and pollution control programs.

Moyewood Center May Be Model For Future

The $63,000 grant for a social services center at Moyewood could provide a unique facility here.

The funds will be used along with $20,000 in funds appropriated by the City Council, to renovate the old Pitt maintenance garage for providing a number of services to local citizens.

The program will be operated by the Division of Continuing Education at ECU, in an unusual arrangement between a city and a university.

In addition to health, education, counseling and other programs the center is expected to operate a day care center.

Such a facility as the one being planned at Moyewood could serve as a model for providing public services on a neighborhood basis. Too often such services are inaccessible to the people who need them most. Perhaps Greenville has found the answer to this problem.

Contact Lens Tests Friends

By JOY STILLEY
NEW YORK (AP) — If you want to know who your real friends are, try losing a contact lens.

Then all the people who've been claiming they'd crawl on their knees for you will get a chance to prove it.

I made an inadvertent test case the other day when my plasticized 20-20 vision suddenly became 10-10. As I was walking down the hallway of my office with a friend she playfully tapped me on the side of my head. All at once the vision in one eye blurred and I realized the tiny disc that keeps my left eye in the seeing business wasn't where it should be.

While I dashed back to my desk and grabbed a mirror to try to locate the errant lens, my friend stood guard at the spot where it was likely to be if it wasn't in my eye.

After I and a few others had poked and prodded and peered in every corner of my eye in a futile effort to locate the lens, the consensus was that it must have popped out, and the search began.

One girl got down on her hands and knees in the hall and a fellow worker, seeing her thus and thinking she had fallen, rushed to help her up. When he found out why she was in that awkward position he dropped to the floor and started looking too. As others passed by they joined the search party.

In five minutes the entire length of the corridor was wall to wall with crawling humanity, heads bowed and hands extended as though they were participating in some obscure religious ceremony.

From office boys to executives, the crouched forms were all swaying gently and shuffling slowly down the hall, heads turning rhythmically from side to side.

While they were thus occupied I was also looking, but confining my scrutiny to a smaller territory—my eye. Eventually we all gave up and I went home, took one last look with a magnifying mirror under a bright light and went disconsolately to bed.

The next morning, gazing woefully in a mirror at my bare orb, I spotted the precious disc, tucked far into the corner of my eye where it had been hiding out all night.

It's nice to have perfect vision again, but a bit embarrassing too. I hated to tell all those concerned people who had been cleaning the floor with neatly creased pants or springing a run in a new pair of nylons that what they had been looking for was safe behind my eyelid all that time.

Pollution Enters Politics

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Although President Nixon says the fight against pollution goes beyond politics, a key administration official says the party that writes the best environment record "is going to be the party that wins the most elections."

Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel pointed up the growing political importance of environment Thursday after the President made protection and improvement of the nation's natural resources a major thrust of his State of the Union message.

Nixon, saying that "restoring nature to its natural state is a cause beyond party and beyond factions," asked Congress for a $10 billion, five-year program to fight water pollution, and he called for establishment of a National Growth Policy.

Strength For Today

PERFECTION
What is God like? Because we are made in the image and after the likeness of God some people picture God as a being like ourselves in form, seated upon a throne and managing his creation.

Perhaps they are right. Since man is made in God's image and after his likeness, it may be that the radiant king seated upon a radiant throne is the right idea. Jesus declared that God is a spirit and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth (John 4:24).

Probably the most satisfactory conception we can have of God is to think of Him as Perfection. We stumble along through life making mistakes, some of which can be rectified and others of which cannot. But God is Perfection, Perfect in every aspect of his being. Because Jesus and the Father were one, the miracles Jesus performed appear to have been the result of his bringing God's perfection in contact with human imperfection. God's perfection caused the blind to see, the lame to walk, the dumb to speak. When God's perfection touched any imperfection disappeared.

This is one explanation of miracles — probably not the only explanation, but one that appears likely.

God is the Creator, the perfect Creator. When his perfection touches the imperfect life of man something begins to happen. Imperfection goes down every time before perfection.

When we are unhappy and filled with a feeling of frustration and despair it may be well for us to think of God as perfection and to realize that we are in his hands.

How To Keep The Peace

WASHINGTON — The secret to a strong diplomatic posture these days is to have a healthy arms - export sales policy. No underdeveloped country is interested in having a major power for a friend unless fighter planes go along with it.

One of the most active major powers in arms sales these days is France, which has just announced it sold 50 Mirage fighters to Libya.

Pierre la Guerre, who is director of the French Peace

Other Editors Say Thrift's Comeback

(Christian Science Monitor)

Inflation has sacked the real advancement of young couples as well as older citizens. Money costs have put buying a house out of range. Those with houses find they haven't much left after expenses to leave them for vacations. And so it goes. Couples find they can't advance and save too.

But why do people have to spend much money to have a rich life? For entertainment, for example, there are libraries, and walks. Why can't people resuscitate the lost art of family cooking? We hear so much about the value of convenience foods these days as time savers. But not much about how much they cost. Why not a comeback for the inconvenience foods — the broths and baked things (made of real flour, not mixes that lose their taste as they cool off) that took an afternoon to make and filled the house with delicious odors long into the night? Instead of going to the movies (at $3 a head, plus another couple dollars for the sitter), why not spend Saturday night cooking up a Spanish dish, say, at a fraction of the cost of an outing.

And instead of spending a lot on household gadgets, why not take up gardening? If a young person wants to know what a real tomato tastes like, or real corn, he has to grow them himself. Gardening's economical not just for what it saves on the grocery bill, but it fits in well with what might be called an activist home. It prompts such other oldtime but enjoyable practices as canning and jelly making — again at least as much fun as an expensive outing.

Even if the present inflation-recession period is brief, householders should look at the long-term trend. Modern technology is making life easier, of course. But it's making life tougher, too, with noise, air, and water pollution. In recent days scientists and economists have begun saying that limits may have to be imposed on material wants. Water may have to be rationed. Industries may be required to limit production of items such as cars. So perhaps the present exercise in thrift, forced on people by inflation, may be only practice for the cutback from gadgetry and dollar spending that has supposedly been the main-spring of the modern society's advance.

Through War Equipment Commission, told me:

"France has been unjustly criticized for selling French fighters to Libya, but we feel this gesture will help bring about peace in the Middle East."

"How can you bring about a peaceful settlement if you give Libya airplanes?"

"The key to peace," Mr. La Guerre said, "is trust. We have to get the Arabs to trust us. They will only trust us if we give them fighter planes to use against the Israelis."

"But won't that heat up the war?"

"Au contraire. Once the Arabs have the planes, we can bring our influence on them not to use them."

"You mean, if you didn't give them the planes, then they wouldn't listen to you if you asked them to find a peaceful settlement to the Middle East?"

"Exactly," Monsieur La Guerre said. "We do not (Continued On Page 5)

Nixon's Main Points

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are textual highlights of President Nixon's State-of-the-Union message Thursday:

The '70s will be a time for new beginnings, a time for exploring both on the earth and in the heavens, a time of rediscov-ery. But the time has also come for emphasis on developing bet-ter ways of managing what we have and of completing what man's genius has begun but left unfinished.

The major immediate goal of our foreign policy is to bring an end to the war in Vietnam ... We are making progress toward that goal.

The nations of each part of the world should assume the primary responsibility for their own well-being; and they themselves should determine the terms of that well being.

We cannot delay longer in ac-complishing a total reform of our welfare system ...

It is time for a New Federal-ism, in which after 190 years of power flowing from the people and local and state governments to Washington, it will begin to flow from Washington back to the states and to the people.

We must adopt reforms which will expand the range of oppor-tunities for all Americans ... equal voting rights, equal em-ployment opportunity and new opportunities for expanded own-ership ... access to property rights.

When I speak of actions which would be beneficial to the Amer-ican people, I can think of none more important than for the Congress to join this adminis-tration in the battle to stop the rise in the cost of living.

We must balance our federal budget so that American fam-ilies will have a better chance to balance their family budgets ... I shall present a balanced budget for 1971 ...

We must declare and win the war against the criminal ele-ments which increasingly threaten our cities, our homes and our lives ... 1971 federal spending for aiding local law en-forcement will double that bud-getted for 1970 ...

Clean air, clear water, open spaces—those should once again be the birthright of every Amer-ican. If we act now—they can be.

I shall propose to this Con-gress a $10 billion nation-wide clean waters program to put modern municipal waste treat-ment plants in every place in America where they are needed to make our waters clean again, and to do it now.

I shall propose innovative fin-ancing methods for purchasing open space and park lands, now, before they are lost to us.

A Turning Point In Housing

By ELMER ROESSNER

This year may see the turning point in housing: the beginning of the end of traditional homes in styles borrowed from around the world and the start of real growth in factory made house; the beginning of the end of the traditional apart-ment house and the emergence of a new kind. Curiously, this change will be brought about by three great pressures: inflation, the steps taken to curb in-flation, and the population growth.

The first two are in effect. The rise in prices of materials, taxes and labor are putting the costs of new housing beyond the reach of many families. High rates of interest, intended to halt inflation, are making mortgages difficult to find and, when found, almost im-possible to pay for. The going mortgage rate is actually illegal usury in some states.

These pressures may be minor compared to the population growth. Experts estimate the population will increase by 160 million in the next 30 years. Those postwar babies are now grown, married and having families.

Shortage Growing

There is already a need for 2.3 million new homes a year, with the number soon reaching 2.6 million. Yet last year only 1.6 million new housing units were started.

The 1969 Housing Act, signed Dec. 29 by President Nixon, may offer some help. It authorizes lower down payments, 3 per cent of the first $15,000 and 10 per cent of all that above, with the maximum increased from $30,000 to $33,000 for Federal Housing Administration mortgages. It also provides more aid to low-income housing, with the buyer paying only one per cent and the government paying the rest. But FHA money is not unlimited and this won't keep growing America housed.

The world has talked about and experimented with the factory - built house for years. But mass production has been slow, except for mobile homes.

Mobile homes are feeling the first impact of the housing shortage. About 400,000 were produced last year and the industry expects to make and sell 475,000 this year. The average mobile home costs $6,000; the average house about four times as much.

Parking Parks Increase

Woodall's Mobile Home Park Directory reports that last year 157,000 parks were started, rebuilt, or con-structed. That provides an increase of 31,115 spaces over a year ago. While there were 19,771 vacancies, there were shortages in many places. Median rentals were $30 to $35 a month.

However, mobile homes are not the complete solution to the housing problem. They don't meet all needs, especially for people who have to live near jobs, or who have large families.

Factory - built homes may. Many companies are already in this business, and vast expansion appears to be at hand.

Some homes are prepared in the factory and then assembled on lots. Others make modular units, which can be fitted together at sites. For example, Behring Properties of Fort Lau-der-dale, Fla., makes three-part modules. One the "wet" section, contains all the plumbing, the kitchen, bathroom, dining room, utility room and heating and air condition unit. There is a bedroom module and a living room module that includes porch and carport. All are joined together at the site. There are many other varieties of factory-built houses.

But they may not be enough.

 fool ourselves that we will have great influence just because we sell Libya 50 fighter planes. We must also sell Iraq fighter planes and Sudan fighter planes and Saudi Arabia fighter planes.
 "We must win the Arabs' confidence by selling them as many airplanes as they can afford."
 "Why don't you give the Israelis fighter planes, too? I understand you have 50 of them which they already paid for."
 "Nothing would please us more than to give Israel the 50 planes they ordered and paid for. But if we did this, we would lose our influence with the Arab world, and then the Arabs would never agree to a peaceful solution to the crisis."
 "You're not giving the Arabs planes because Israel sailed five embargoed missile boats out of Cherbourg's harbor without the French government's permission are you?"
 "We would never withhold planes because the Israelis pulled a dirty sneaky trick like that. The French government may be opportunistic, but it's not petty. Our main concern is that if we don't sell planes to the Arabs, the Arabs will buy their planes from the Soviets. Does the Free World want the Arabs to have French planes or Soviet planes to keep the peace in the Middle East?"
 "That's a difficult question," I said.
 "Every plane we sell the Arabs is a blow to the Russians. When Libya announced it was buying French fighters, the Soviets realized we had struck a blow for peace."
 "I thought the French had an embargo on arms to the Middle East."
 "We do. The embargo is on countries who are directly involved in the conflict. Libya and Iraq have nothing to do with the fighting."
 "But Libya doesn't have any fighter pilots. What are they going to do with 50 fighter planes?"

Altar Boys Are Held For Theft

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Six altar boys accused of stealing $1,500 from offering baskets at St. Patrick Roman Catholic Church were being held today.
 The boys were charged with juvenile delinquency. Police said they pilfered cash from the baskets from October through December while taking them to the church office.
 Human feet contain more sweat glands than any other parts of the body.
 "They can trade them for French tanks and rocket launchers we just sold to Yemen."

Most GOP Senators Not Committed On Carswell

SIGNS OF TIME — Friends of James L. Ward of Columbia (S.C.) became creative when they recalled that his 40th birthday rolled around Jan. 21. The pranksters constructed a large sign in his yard to wish him greetings. Not content with the conventional billboard they also displayed a series of signs along the road, reminiscent of a certain roadside shaving cream advertisement. (AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most Republican senators who helped defeat President Nixon's first choice of a southern judge for the Supreme Court are not committing themselves on his latest nomination.

With a few exceptions, they said they will await Senate Judiciary Committee hearings before making up their minds on the nomination of Judge G. Harold Carswell of Tallahassee, Fla.

Sinatra Cancels MC Assignment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Actor-singer Frank Sinatra has canceled out as master of ceremonies at a Democratic fundraising party in Miami Beach Feb. 5 and Sammy Davis Jr. will take over.

A Democratic party spokesman said conflicting Sinatra engagements led to the change.

Seventeen of the 43 Republican senators voted in November against confirmation of the Supreme Court nominations of Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., a South Carolinian who is chief judge of the 4th U.S. Court of Appeals.

It was the 17 GOP defections, combined with 38 votes from the Democratic side, that rejected Haynsworth 55-45.

The 17 included Senate GOP members from Pennsylvania, his deputy, Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, and the chairman of the Senate Republican Conference, Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

Carswell, a member of the 5th U.S. Court of Appeals, was nominated by Nixon Monday.

In an effort to clear the way for confirmation, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell briefed key GOP senators on Carswell's background in advance of the nomination announcement.

'Raw Land' Said Hottest Thing For Years To Come

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Raw land, the real estate man said, is going to be the hottest thing for years to come. "Raw land in the path of today's expanding suburbs and cities," he said, "That's where the money is."

The statement might be a surprise to some, since it comes from Robert Neaderland, chairman of Pease & Elliman Inc., which is usually associated with multimillion-dollar skyscraper deals.

Neaderland isn't forsaking the city, but, he says, "Buy big acreage and then sell it by the lot. That way, your money grows like wild wheat."

Little question about it, millions of acres of land on the fringes of metropolitan areas are going for increasingly higher prices each year and thousands of speculators, from small fry to giant corporations are aware of it.

Making the deals especially attractive in the past few years is the realization that while securities aren't necessarily an inflation hedge, land investments often are. As Neaderland says, "Land doesn't fluctuate like stocks."

Many factors support the thinking of the speculators, among them:

—The supply of land is fixed while the demand grows constantly

—Some wealthy corporations are finding the countryside more to their liking and so are moving from the city. Going with them are middle-class families with pocketfuls of investment money.

—There is an increasing interest in the outdoors and in recreation by families whose business keeps them in the city but whose affluence permits them to journey to the countryside on weekends.

—The new interstate highway system permits city dwellers to be in the country within a couple of hours on trips that might have taken half a day just 15 years ago.

—The new town concept. Although not a really big factor as yet, it does result in demand for thousands of acres. At least 30 new towns exist or are being developed.

Bad news for the small investor, however, is the existence in the market of some of America's largest corporations who are stockpiling land.

Last year one developer bought 260,000 acres near Orlando, Fla. Rather than permit the land to remain idle prior to development, the company can help cut expenses by raising cattle and growing citrus fruits.

Also interested in acquiring land are building products manufacturers seeking developments that might provide captive markets for their products, and financial institutions looking for safe investments for their millions.

"It's no place for an amateur," says Neaderland, who says he spends weeks traveling the countryside on what he calls real estate safaris. "We plan it just like a battle," he says, checking with city hall, banks, title companies.

"Because of taxes," he says, "no deal is ever made without an accountant."

Astronaut Is Awarded Degree

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Astronaut Neil A. Armstrong, first man on the moon, has been awarded a master's degree in aerospace engineering by the University of California.

A university spokesman said Thursday that Armstrong, while an Edwards Air Force Base test pilot, had carried on graduate studies from 1955 to 1960.

Transferred from the test piloting assignment when he had almost completed academic work for his master's degree, he won final credit with a lecture Thursday on "Lunar Landing: Techniques and Procedures."

NUMBER PLEASE — Flint customizer Carl Casper calls this creation "The Amazing Phone Booth". He used a 1925 Model T frame, rebuilt the original Model T fenders, body and running boards with original headlights. Casper was more than a year in building the car and values it at $20,000. The auto will be featured in an auto show starting in Detroit today.

Playing Golf By The Rules Is 'Godly': Graham

LONDON (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham moved into the British golf world today with a message saying anybody who plays golf the right way by the rules can't miss being godly.

Dr. Graham's organization distributed a special pamphlet to Golf Weekly, Golf Illustrated, Golf World and Golf Monthly for free inclusion in their January issues.

It was in fact a sermon based on stance, grip, hitting the ball from the inside out, keeping your eye on the ball, and follow through.

He said these five rules, which professionals drone at amateurs on practice tees throughout the world, would turn any dedicated golfer into a dedicated God-fearing and God-loving Christian.

If followed, he added: "You can tune into God and you will come to know the greatest pro of all time, Jesus Christ."

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration subverted a federal regulation limiting the amount of fat in hot dogs by not setting a deadline for compliance, says Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn.

At a Senate hearing Thursday Ribicoff disclosed an Agriculture Department memo which told regional directors to set no deadline for enforcement of the U.S. regulation ordering meat packers to limit the fat content to 30 per cent.

Irwin Fried, the department Processed Food Inspection Division official who signed the memo, denied he intended to subvert the regulation.

"You need time to implement such things" he said, adding that over 99 per cent of the major hot dog manufacturers representing 85 per cent of hot dog production are complying with the order.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department figures it will take another five years before the government settles accounts with Indian tribes for broken treaties and promises and land taken without compensation.

Since 1946, a total of $313 million has been awarded to resolve claims—some as old as the Republic—in all sections of the country, officials reported today, but there are still more than 300 cases outstanding.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Shiro Kashiwa, a former Hawaii attorney general who heads the department's division of lands and natural resources, explained that "it takes a long time to investigate and process claims."

For example, Kashiwa said,

"we have to hire expert witnesses to appraise the value of land, say in 1818, and this takes a lot of tracing through old record books."

The 20 attorneys in Kashiwa's Indian claims section handled 23 cases in 1969, resulting in awards totaling $27 million to various tribes.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The entire cast of the Broadway musical "1776" will honor Tricia Nixon's request and hold a special performance in the White House on Feb. 22—George Washington's birthday anniversary.

According to Connie Stuart of Mrs. Pat Nixon's staff, the Nixons' daughter has seen the show before, liked it, and requested it for the executive mansion's series of entertainment specials which begins next week with a performance by comedian Red Skelton.

Capital Footnote By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS WASHINGTON (AP)—The House of Representatives announced Thursday it will take a six-day recess over the Lincoln Birthday anniversary period. The recess will extend from Feb. 10 until noon Monday Feb. 16.

Capital Quote By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS "They are doing it in the belief it is considered safe by the American Food and Drug Administration and for no other reason," London medical doctor Victor Wynn testifying at a Senate subcommittee hearing Thursday about non-American women who use birth control pills.

scheduled Feb. 4 at East Carolina University.

The one-day conference is designed for the education of personnel working with the mentally-emotionally handicapped in physical education and recreation. Among those attending will be superintendents, supervisors, teachers and remedial specialists representing most of the state's 157 administrative school units.

Co-sponsors are the National Institute of Mental Health, the N.C. Department of Public Instruction, the ECU Departments of Special Education and Health and Physical Education, and the Division of Continuing Education at ECU.

According to Brayom Anderson, assistant dean of continuing education, the aims of the program are to provide participants with a better understanding of the problems and characteristics of the mentally-emotionally handicapped, to provide knowledge of the motor functions and performance of the handicapped and to better organize the motor abilities of the handicapped.

Scheduled in the School of Nursing Auditorium at ECU, the conference will host several guest speakers, including Dr. Harold Jack of Temple University.

Dr. Jack is a special consultant for the National Institute of Mental Health.

D-E Students Will Take Over Supermarket

BELLEVUE, Wash. (AP) — Thirty-six distributive education students here will take over full operation of a supermarket Feb. 23.

"We won't be watching what the regular employees do," says Kathy Kirkham, a senior at Sammamish High School and one of the 36. "We'll be making our own decisions."

They already have spent the Mayfair Supermarket's advertising funds for the two days, scheduling a new-management type of grand opening Feb. 2.

They will do the ordering, buying and pricing—everything the regular staff does, except they won't be paid for the two days' work.

Distributive education is a work training program. Each student in it here must have a paid outside job in retailing.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets steady Thursday. Supplies generally short, demand good. The prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets.

Grade A large whites: 69 to 70; medium, whites: 65 to 66; small, whites: 55 to 56.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — The North Carolina broilers and fryers market was generally one-half cent lower today. Supplies fully adequate with weights generally desirable. Snow hampering operations over most of the state. Live at farm 12 1/2-13, mostly 13 cents per pound. Hens, offerings fully adequate, demand no better than fair. Price at farm for heavies 15-16, light type too few to report.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — The North Carolina hog market was mostly steady to 25 cents lower today. Tops of $27.00-28.00 Rocky Mount, 26.75-27.25 Siler City, Denton, 25.75-27.00 Tarboro, 25.75-26.75 Bethel, 27.50 Salisbury, 27.00 Greensboro.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices were lower in restrained trading early today. Analysts said the market might continue to drift uncertainly on the heels of moderate gains in the three previous sessions.

Investors are likely to wait for President Nixon's budget message late next week before coming into the market from the sidelines, they added.

Firemen Answer 3 False Alarms

Greenville fire units responded to three false alarms early last night, two of them from the same box.

Officers said the first of the false calls came at 6:45 p.m. from Box 135 at the intersection of Third and White Streets. Several other false alarms have been received from the box in the past week.

The next two calls, one at 8:05 p.m. and another at 8:40 p.m., came from Box 31 at the intersection of Third and Summit Streets.

The City of Greenville will pay a $100 reward to anyone giving information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons turning in false fire alarms.

Pollution . . .

Hickel isn't the only politician to see the potential campaign value of advocating environmental clean-up. Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, considered a potential 1972 Democratic presidential aspirant, has spent a year making an issue of his antipollution views.

Last month in Boston, Muskie charged the Nixon administration with displaying "a penchant for more form than substance in this area." And Jan. 16, he accused the administration of being "slogan-rich and action-poor" on environmental quality, a charge repeated by many Democrats after Nixon's State of the Union speech.

They pointed to the $800 million already appropriated by Congress for water pollution control during the current fiscal year—a sum Nixon has refused to spend as part of his fight against inflation.

But now Nixon has asked Congress to provide $10 billion over five years for this purpose, in effect seeking almost 10 times as much yearly as he was willing to request for fiscal 1970.

The entire Interior Department budget, by comparison, runs to about $1.5 billion a year. In addition, Nixon said he would propose "innovative financing methods" for purchasing needed park and recreation land. Nixon did not spell it out, but Hickel has been urging a $6.3 billion, five-year land acquisition program to be financed over 30 years.

In political competition for the environment issue, Hickel said last November, "We all stand to win, because in the process of one-upmanship, everybody in the federal government has become environment conscious."

Thursday, after stating the party with the best environment record would win the most elections, Hickel added:

"With the leadership shown by President Nixon's administration during just one year in office, we (the Republicans) are on our way toward being that party."

The Dow Jones industrial average at 11 a.m. was off 0.86 to 785.24. Declining stocks on the New York exchange took the earlier lead held by advances.

Glamor stocks were mixed, as were pollution control issues. Coca-Cola was off-1 to 85, and Aqua-Chem was up 1/4 to 59 1/4. Coca-Cola has agreed to acquire the water-treatment equipment maker.

GRAIN

Cold weather, light activity, and now the threat of snow is the story this morning on Pitt County grain buying stations. With the exception of a one cent increase on shell corn at the Bethel market, everything remains the same as the rest of the week. All other prices show no changes from yesterday's quotes. Following are prices reported at 11 a.m.

Greenville, yellow corn, $1.29; soybeans, $2.45; wheat, $1.20; oats, $0.65—steady. Ayden, yellow corn, shell, $1.35; ear corn, $1.25—steady. Sec. Rogers Unwelcome

LAGOS (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers will not be welcome in Nigeria during his trip to Africa next month, the government-run Morning Post said in an editorial today.

"It is not easy to understand why Mr. Rogers wants to be in the country he saw no good in and spoke so ill of only recently," the newspaper said.

Rogers is planning a 10-nation African tour, including Nigeria. The newspaper said Nigeria could not "forget William Rogers' public statements of antagonism against this country, which gave not only open support to, but suggested the likelihood of whipping up undue world sentiment in favor of secession."

The paper said Rogers told news conference last July 3 that the prospect of mass starvation was abhorrent and incomprehensible and the United States should do all it could to get food to isolated parts of Nigeria.

"No, sir, Rogers is not welcome," the editorial said.

GRAND JURY
CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Federal officials today ordered a grand jury investigation here into the shooting deaths of United Mine Workers insurgent Joseph Yablonski and his wife and daughter.

Miss Anne Nelson covered a number of points. "I've taught at several other bigger systems. I've never seen anything resemble the absenteeism here. I'm not speaking of those who

Motorists Advised Use Care If Snow Arrives

With the threat of snow for the Greenville-Pitt County area forecast today, Greenville police and North Carolina State Highway Patrol officials urged drivers to use extreme caution in driving on snow-covered streets and highways.

Police Chief T.E. Gladson and Capt. R.F. Williamson, commander of the Patrol's Troop A, said poor visibility and slippery pavements combine to make driving in snow and freezing conditions the most hazardous time for motorists.

Extra precautions should be taken by drivers venturing onto the streets and highways.

If snow conditions are bad, the officials suggested, drivers should not venture out onto the streets except in emergency situations.

Otherwise, the officers listed a half-dozen suggestions to make driving on snow or ice safer.

Get the "feel" of the road by accelerating carefully to see if wheels spin, or break gently to see if they skid, the men said, then reduce speed accordingly.

Following distance between cars should be increased. (It takes from three to nine times as far to stop on snow and ice as on dry pavement.)

Breaks should be "pumped" element of order to exist. They were not made to behave, and the situation got progressively worse. Teachers stuck together in efforts to make things work, to build understanding between black and white faculty, between black and white students."

West added, "I'm going to step on some toes. There are some black and white students who do not need to go to school. Most do, and want to learn. It is not a question of black and white specifically, it is a question of getting students out of school who do not want to go."

Later, when D. D. Garrett asked West about what he meant about "some students" do not need to be in school, West remarked, "The ones who have no business in school are the ones out to make trouble."

West also brought up the question of outside interference. "Are there outside agitators? We hear this," he remarked.

Mrs. Whitehurst said she had heard, "They're going to get all the faculty and administration out and get good ones, because of all these warrants. However, we have had peace and calm since then."

Donovan Phillips, a committee member, commenting after Mrs. Whitehurst's statement, said: "I am the so-called leader of the civil rights movement in Greenville. . . we don't believe in violence. We don't have 480 members (a reference to the number of black students at Rose). There are some students we cannot reach. There are no outside agitators so far as I know. Students make their own decisions sometimes. They do things they won't tell me or tell you."

Once again speaking, West observed: "Part of our problem is money. This community has not seen fit for the last 20 or 25 years to raise property taxes for schools."

"This committee could provide a great service by working to get taxes raised so we can have a proper school system. For a long time Greenville had one of the finest schools in the state. That's gone now."

Mrs. Jean Darden touched on the subject of parent intimidation in certain matters: "Many times we are intimidated by parents. Why not come to us, help us. Don't jump to conclusions. If you entrust us with your children, let us do our job. We are trained teachers."

Miss Anne Nelson covered a number of points. "I've taught at several other bigger systems. I've never seen anything resemble the absenteeism here. I'm not speaking of those who stayed out because of riots. I'm talking about people who consistently stay out two and three days every week. . . I don't know how we can deal with this. How can you do with students are not present. In many cases parents uphold students in this situation."

Of the committee, Miss Nelson asked: "Can you do us some good, communicate to the community our willingness to serve, also our disgust."

She also revealed a personal incident which occurred this year. "I am one who was threatened by one you'd say was a black militant — only he didn't look like one. He told me 'if you don't pass a certain student the Black Panther would come get you.'"

Referring to the day of the October disturbance, Miss Nelson related "This same student in the study hall took me to a table of girls who were shouting and told them, 'I was OK, that when things get going, don't bother this lady.'" She indicated she felt this change was possibly due to her calling his bluff on his first out threat.

Miss Nelson added "I have seen students with knives, razor blades and other weapons."

Miss Kathleen Flanigan, a young Physical Education teacher, after reiterating, on the request of Dr. Malene Irons, the series of events about the selection of cheer leaders, also spoke on the subject of absenteeism.

"In my PE class, only 8 out of 36 of my students have been attending. I reported the matter, and a few were looked into. This has been going on since September."

Dr. Humber wanted to know, "Cannot rules be adequately enforced?"

"Nothing is done about students skipping class. There's a boy in my health class I've never seen. There were 25 girls I didn't see until my second period," Miss Flanigan remarked.

Donovan Phillips asked: "Who has authority to enforce attendance?"

Mrs. Whitehurst, answering his question, outlined some of the problems: "Warren, Barnhill and Whitney ran their legs off trying to round up these students. It was impossible to run down all these people. Construction work added to the problem. We had rotating help in the study halls. There was a mix-up of records, and 50 or 60 students didn't even register. We've been overwhelmed by this problem, and asked for help. With such a problem, we did the best we could."

Rev. Robert Hufford, alluding to a suggestion made by West on the possibility of parents being on hand each day at Rose during the lunch period, asked: "Are you recommending for the faculty that a number of parents be present in the hall during lunch period?"

"I speak only for myself," West commented, "This would be an asset, one step this committee could make."

to slow or stop cars. An intermittent pumping action three to five times per second according to the law enforcement heads, keeps the wheels rolling and helps maintain steering control. Above all, the say, don't panic and slam on brakes.

Good tires with good treads are a must. And reinforce tire chains are the best possible aid in snow and ice traffic.

Windshield and windows should be kept clear at all times, and wiper blades should be replaced if streaking due to dead rubber.

Skids are almost always induced by some action on the part of the driver. Capt. Williamson and Chief Gladson warned that steering, braking and accelerating should be done on ice and snow at reduced speeds and with a gentle delicate touch.

"Would this be in addition to or in place of policemen?" Hufford questioned.

"I'd say perhaps" to replace part of the police force, but it may be some time before the police force should be completely done away with," West answered.

Committee member Rev. Tommy Payne, referred to social-economic pressures of the community. "Maybe we are working with unstated pressures. Have we because of concern over SAT scores and college narrowed the structure of our schools? If this is so, this may be where we can come in and say we need money."

(Harking back to earlier suggestions of added courses and facilities for vocational and industrial type training).

Mrs. Doris Haggard, a Guidance Counselor at Rose replied to Payne's question "Several issues are not racial. I often tell students that they can make more money as truck drivers. At times I can convince a youngster that his ability is technical, but ma and pa raise holy hell. Our vocational educational aspects are inadequate. We need rehabilitation, special educational course. These things take money. I've seen some improvements. Distributive Education is a little move in the right direction."

The subject again turned to the problem of registration, records and absenteeism, when Mrs. Wilkerson commented to Mrs. Haggard: "My concern is if you needed help so badly, why didn't we know?"

"It has taken us a long time to realize the magnitude of this situation we have with schedules," Mrs. Haggard said. "Everybody had copies of schedules. Some classes were overcrowded, we had to do some shifting. We made second schedules."

Citing a recent example, Mrs. Haggard remarked: "Yesterday I found a student we thought had enough credits to graduate. Now we find this student is two credits short. It's impossible to see how you could help us."

"There have been a lot of people concerned," Mrs. Haggard continued. "We've had a number of volunteers come to help us tutor students. This is an indication of real concern. But even here we have frustration in getting students and tutors together."

Mrs. Kemp Baldwin spoke on the absenteeism problem. "I had one student absent 49 days in the first marking period. He has been absent 15 days this period. That is more than 60 days in this school year. He had been in the study hall all that time. He was dismissed from school and has been reinstated today. He is still not in class."

"Is there any disposition to back the teacher in enforcing discipline?" Dr. Humber asked.

"The school policy has been read to all students. Some don't care to follow it."

Faculty member James A. Rodgers, at Dr. Irons' request, detailed the circumstances connected with the misunderstandings arising from the selection of majorettes.

When he had completed his statements, another faculty member of the band, Johnny Wooten, commented that "What Rodgers said is true. The breakdown came between us. . . I think one major problem at Rose has been a breakdown in communications. . . there's no substitute for fair play and honesty. . . lets communicate."

Making comments on what he termed "the bright spot" in the school situation, West said: "The merger of the two faculties is the best thing that could have happened. We are not only colleagues, but are friends."

Benny Roundtree said: "I think we must draw the line and let students know they are going to obey the rules. I will say they must do so more than they have ever done before."

"We are all very concerned and are more aware of the explosiveness of this situation," Co-Chairman Taylor told the teachers. "If it had not been for the kind of teachers you are it could have been a tragic situation."

Expressing the appreciation of

Legion Of The Moose Here This Weekend

Greenville will be hosting a gathering of the second degree of the Loyal Order of Moose Saturday and Sunday. Representatives from 31 lodges of the fraternity are expected to attend the quarterly ceremonial of the Legion of the Moose.

ENOCA (Eastern North Carolina) Legion is made up of Moose members from lodges in the state east of Raleigh, from the Virginia border to the South Carolina border.

Registration begins Saturday afternoon with an officers meeting at 4:30 p.m.; a social hour at 5:30 and dinner at 7:00. A dance is scheduled for the evening.

Breakfast, the business meeting and a banquet are on the calendar for Sunday.

The Legion of the Moose is known as the "Service Degree", open to members of the fraternity desirous of contributions above and beyond obligations assumed on admittance to the Moose.

A large enrollment class is anticipated Sunday.

A Luxury Jet For 'Playboy' Heffner

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One thing can lead to another, and because Hugh Heffner sought to change his life-style, he will soon take possession of his latest plaything: a $4.5 million DC9 jet airplane.

Not just any new DC9. This one will be outfitted with all the comforts of a Playboy Club, including a staff of Bunnies who have graduated from the stewardess school of Continental Airlines.

The founder-publisher of Playboy magazine related the sequence of events:

"When I turned 40—he is now, 43—I decided I would start doing the things I really wanted to do. That meant changing my life-style. I found I was spending most of my time inside the mansion—his opulent Chicago pad—and working on the magazine. Sometimes I would work 30 to 36 hours without a break."

He found that I had been caught in the machinery that I had created. That's not hard to do when you started as I did. The original staff of Playboy was myself and a part-time art director. After the first year there were seven employees. Then came hundreds, thousands.

"I had become a prisoner of the house. My perspective was off. Instead of tending to the forest, I spent my time studying not only the trees but individual branches, the leaves."

One of Heffner's methods of escape from captivity was to start a syndicated television show, "Playboy After Dark." He is now in the second season of 26 programs.

"Actually it is an updated, more polished version of a show I did 10 years ago in Chicago," he said. "One of the writers on that show was Bob Newhart, who was working as an accountant and trying to break into comedy."

Because "Playboy After Dark" is taped here and Heffner's headquarters remain in Chicago, he commutes weekly. Hence the idea for the DC9, which will also transport him elsewhere in the world and will be available for hire. "Like a lot of the other crazy ideas I've gotten, I may find a way to make this one pay for itself," he said.

Lay Keel Of New Frigate

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — The Navy today laid the keel of a new guided missile nuclear frigate which Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird called the beginning of a "vitaly needed program."

The defense chief hailed the new USS California as part of a growing band of atomic-driven vessels which will be escorting America's nuclear carriers in the next three decades.

The $180 million California will be equipped with anti-submarine, anti-aircraft, and anti-surface weapons and will be able to operate over greater distances than conventional vessels.

Calling it a historic occasion, Laird said the California is the first of seven such ships which have been authorized by Congress. It will be 10,000 tons and nearly 600 feet long.

the committee, Co-Chairman Dr. Humber told the teachers, "You are to be highly commended for the professional dedication and the devotion you have shown to your work. The community should be deeply indebted to you for all you have done."

Crashlands At The South Pole

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (AP) — Veteran American solo pilot Max Conrad crash-landed his light plane at the South Pole today just after he took off for Chile, a report from the antarctic said.

The headquarters of Operation Deep Freeze here said Conrad, 67, from Winona, Minn., was not injured. But his twin-engine Piper Aztec's propellers, left wingtip and fuselage was reported damaged.

It was not known if repairs could be made to allow Conrad to continue his attempt to fly around the world via both poles. An attempt to make the same trip last year ended in failure.

convict's back" has hindered the progress of the state system. But for the optimistic aspect of the program, Bounds cited President Nixon's decision not to cut any of the funding from the criminal justice budget.

Bounds said that correction and reformation should be the goal of the state, not the massive effort towards custody that is evidenced by the huge walls surrounding State Prison in Raleigh.

The prospects of Greenville and the surrounding community becoming involved directly in the correction system are very good, Bounds said. He revealed aspirations of using the prison farm located northwest of Greenville as a correctional facility, similar to the one in operation at Maury in Greene County.

The professional personnel needed for the work of the facility are available here, he said, and East Carolina University meets the needs of providing the pre-service training that is essential in our program.

Without making a concrete announcement or commitment, Bounds indicated that something would be learned soon about Greenville's prospects in the correctional system.

The Greene County facility is the "only mental retardation program underway in the state. Bounds said, and Greenville would probably come under that same program.

From 13,000 to 18,000 persons enter the state prisons each year, he said, and over 24 per cent of them are retarded, over seven per cent of those severely.

Jaycee president Jim Leslie presided last night and Gartman recognized a number of past presidents and DSA winners who attended the meeting.

Rose Wrestlers Defeat Kinston

KINSTON — Rose High School captured its third straight Division II wrestling match last night as the Rampants romped over Kinston, 41-13.

The Rampants spotted Kinston a 13-3 lead in the match, then came roaring back to shut them out after that. Only three of the 12 matches were determined by decisions, the remaining nine all going to falls.

Rose, which travels to Raleigh Enloe on Monday, is 3-0 in the division, and 6-2 overall.

Summary:

100: Glen Nichols (R) decided Jay Campbell, 4-3.
109: Steve Squires (K) pinned Andrew Daniels, 2:28.

117: Jeff Taylor (K) decided Angelo Daniels, 5-2.

King Optimistic About Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Manager Clyde King is optimistic that slugging Jim Ray Hart will be back batting in crucial runs for the San Francisco Giants next season.

"With a healthy Jim Ray Hart we would have won the pennant last year," King declared Thursday in a news conference at Candlestick Park.

Hart, 28, bothered by a severe shoulder injury, appeared in only 95 games last year and knocked in only 26 runs. He had slammed at least 20 homers and batted in at least 75 runs in five previous seasons.

"The pain is gone from his shoulder now," declared King, who guided his injury-riddled club to second place in the National League's Western Division in his first year as a major league pilot. It was San Francisco's fifth consecutive second-place finish.

King traveled from his Goldsboro, N.C., home to consult with owner Horace Stoneham on organizing for the 1970 season, including a spring training trip to Japan. The Giants will play nine games in five Japanese cities starting March 20.

He said Willie Mays, who will be 39 in May, would play in every game he felt able to and would rest when Willie felt he needed it.

A mathematics major at the University of North Carolina, King related that he had calculated that Bobby Bonds could hit 45 homers if he could cut his strikeout total in half.

"This guy is going to cut down on his strikeouts this year," declared King, a positive thinker.

In pitching, the manager said the Giants would start with Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry as a "pretty good one-two punch."

Denver Rolls To 14th In A Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mike Lewis was Pittsburgh's Pied Piper, leading the club out of the drab existence of losers and Denver just continued to light up the American Basketball Association with a brilliant record.

Lewis scored 10 points early in the fourth quarter to fire the Pipers to a 113-111 victory over New Orleans and snap an eight-game losing string and Denver reeled off its 14th in a row, downing Washington 130-121 Thursday night.

Rookie Mack Calvin scored 26 points to lead Los Angeles to a 115-100 victory over Miami in the night's only other ABA contest.

In the National Basketball Association, Cincinnati downed Boston 111-104; Baltimore edged Detroit 119-115; Phoenix topped Seattle 129-120 and in a doubleheader at the Astrodome in Houston, Los Angeles whipped San Francisco 122-108 and Milwaukee spilled San Diego 115-106.

Lewis' scoring binge broke open a close game and built a pad that helped Pittsburgh withstand a late New Orleans surge.

John Brisker led all scorers, pouring in 38 for Pittsburgh. Steve Jones was high for New Orleans with 21 points and was mainly responsible for the Bucs' 56-46 halftime lead.

Denver, in last place in the Western Division before starting the winning string, now is 25-21 and have inched to within two games of leading New Orleans.

The Rockets also are closing in on the ABA record for consecutive victories set by the Oakland Oaks, now Washington, at 16 in 1969.

Seven of Calvin's points came in the fourth period as the Stars pulled away by outscoring the Floridians 17-12 in the final six minutes.

Miami's Don Side was the game's high scorer with 34 points.

Maloy Is Glad Stelzer's Back

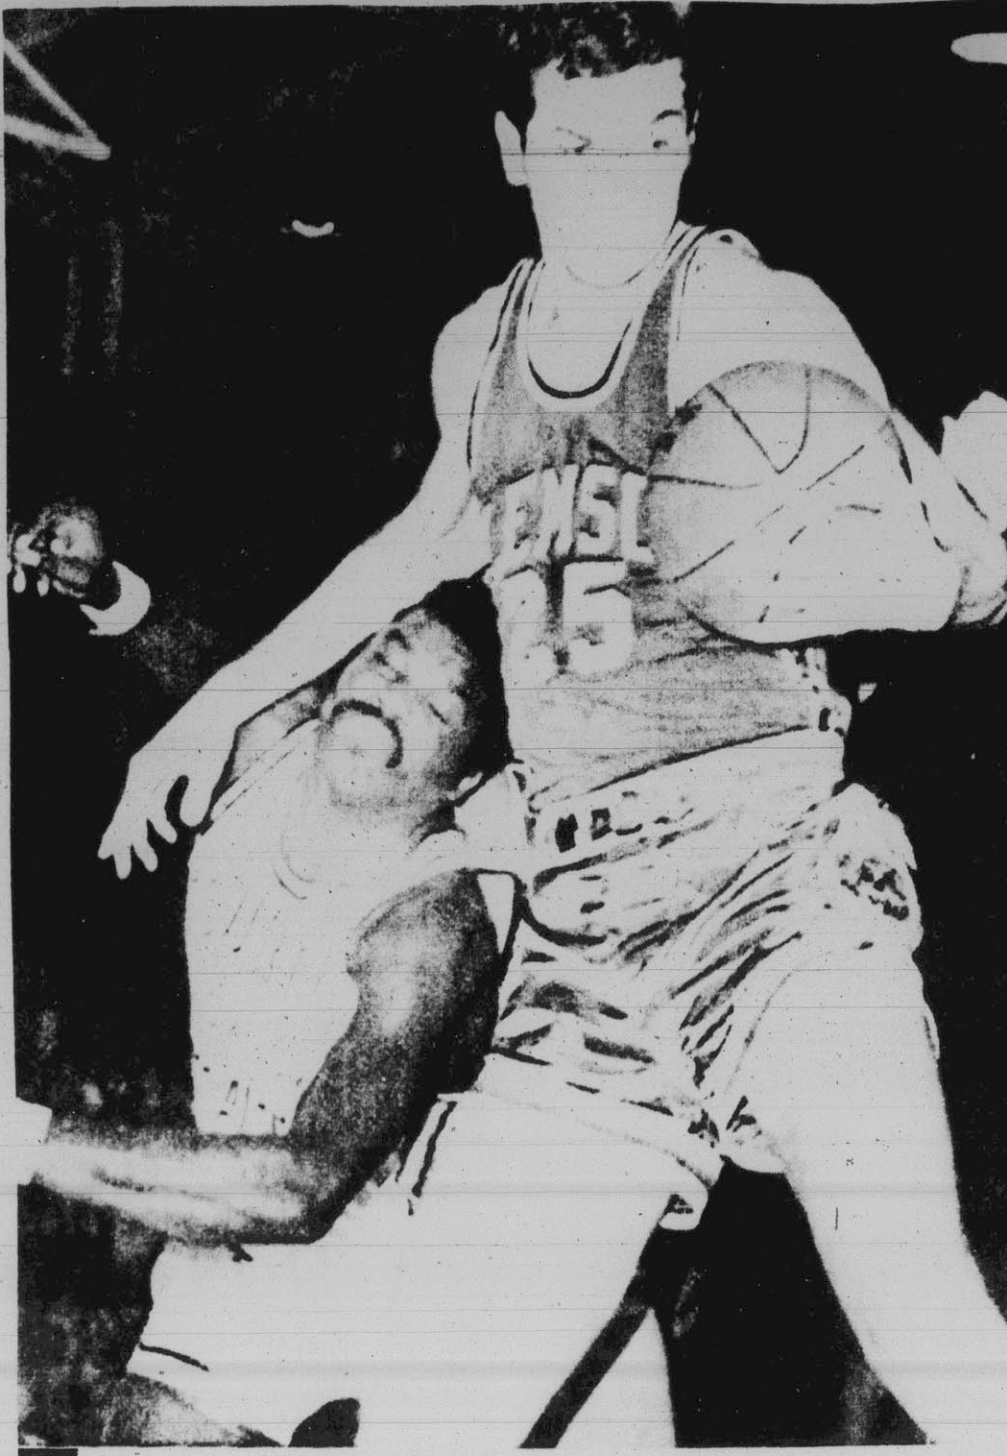

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ron Stelzer's broken foot has healed and that's good news for Davidson's basketball team in general—and for Mike Maloy in particular—as the Wildcats point for Saturday night's game with Princeton.

After sitting out most of the season, Stelzer got back into action last Tuesday night at Furman, and contributed six points to the 11th-ranked Wildcats' hard-won 79-71 victory.

But it wasn't so much the points as Stelzer's floor play that made coach Terry Holland beam. Stelzer had four assists, and Maloy—the Cats' All-American candidate—scored all his 17 points after Stelzer came on the floor with 9:05 left in the first half.

"He really gave us a lift," said Holland. "We didn't know

Murphy Puts On Pair Of Shows In Victory

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pay attention now, class, Calvin Murphy is giving a clinic on basketball.

Watch the ball go to his teammates. Watch it go through the basket. Hear the crowd roar.

Murphy first gave a pre-game passing show that drove the crowd wild, then put on his usual scoring exhibition as Niagara taught St. Francis, N.Y., a lesson, 111-89, in college basketball Thursday night.

The All-American dynamo, who scored 38 points, says he likes to give the passing show before the Purple Eagles' games because "I think the fans like to see it."

Murphy stood in the key and peeled off a bunch of rapid-fire passes to his teammates, who were cutting in toward the basket from either side of him.

The on-target handouts ricocheted off his elbows, arms and feet in an exhibition ala Harlem Globetrotters. His mates then glided in for easy layups.

None of the ranked teams was in action in a Thursday night schedule diminished by the annual mid-term lull.

Elsewhere, Florida State clubbed Clemson 122-80; Tulsa tripped Southern Illinois 66-65; Hardin-Simmons cut down Centenary 86-76; Iowa State stopped Northern Illinois 97-90; Connecticut vanquished Vermont 85-79 and Colorado State bounced Utah State 80-66.

Murphy, the nation's sixth leading scorer with a 31.5 average, was happier about his

Immanuel In Lead

Piney Grove pulled off a 37-33 upset of Presbyterian last night, while Immanuel beat Oakmont, 40-36, to move back into sole possession of first place. In the other game, Black Jack downed Mt. Pleasant, 40-20.

Immanuel now posts a 5-1 record, a half-game ahead of idle St. James, 4-1. Presbyterian and Black Jack are 3-2, while Piney Grove 2-3, Oakmont is 1-4, and Mt. Pleasant is 0-5.

In the opener, Black Jack pushed out into a 22-10 lead by the half. In the second half, Black Jack maintained its lead by outshooting Mt. Pleasant, 18-10, to take the easy win.

Ephraim Smith led Black Jack with 16 points, while Tal Adams had 13. For Mt. Pleasant, Tommy Braxton was high with six.

Presbyterian looked like a winner in the first half, as they pushed out into a 17-14 halftime lead. But Piney Grove came back to outscore Presbyterian, 23-14, in the second half, and it was enough to pull the upset win.

Lewis Hardee led Piney Grove with 13 points, while Brazil Moore had 10 for Presbyterian.

Immanuel didn't have that problem, however, as they shot out to a 17-10 lead at the half. In the second half, they held off an Oakmont rally, 26-23, to win.

Dick Evans led Immanuel with 20, while Don Parrott had 15 and Bob Benton had 14 for Oakmont.

Teams Have History Of Tough Meetings

East Carolina's Pirates take to the road again Saturday night, facing tough Ohio Valley Conference member East Tennessee State University in Johnson City, Tenn.

It will be the Pirates against the Buccaneers in the game that is developing into a great rivalry between the two schools. The series is currently tied at five wins each.

"They have a very talented front line, with good height," Coach Tom Quinn said. "They will be quite equal to us in height, so it should be quite a battle on the boards."

Leading the Buccaneers is Mike Kretzer, who currently posts a 20.7 average. He also is pulling down 9.6 rebounds per game. Next in the statistics comes the back-court duo of Gordon Gifford and Gale Daniels: Gifford is hitting at a 13.7 clip, while Daniels has an 11.7 average.

Center Billy Stringer is averaging 11.4, but is also hitting the boards for 11.7 per game.

Johnson City has always been tough for the Bucs, and this year promises to be no exception. Quinn pointed out. "They are currently 11-4, and are having a real good year. They lost to Jacksonville and to Florida in the first two games of the season, they fell to DePaul and Western Kentucky. The last loss was in overtime." East Tennessee currently has a four-game winning streak going.

East Carolina will put up somewhat similar statistics against the Bucs. Jim Fairley is the leading rebounder with an 11.9 average per game. Jim Gregory and Jim Modlin are both pulling down 9.6 per contest.

In the scoring department, Modlin leads with a 19.0 average, while Tom Miller is a

Buc Swimmers Hosting VMI

East Carolina University's swimmers meet their only Southern Conference rival Saturday at 2 p.m. as they take on Virginia Military Institute at Minges Natatorium.

The Keydets finished third in the conference meet last year, as the Bucs won their fourth straight title, but took several individual championships.

"They have an excellent sprint man in Bob Costigan," ECU Coach Ray Scharf said. "Jim Wilder is a great breaststroker; both are defending conference champions. They also have a couple of other good men, and some fine freshmen."

Scharf added that the Bucs face two tough opponents next week, when they host Florida State Thursday and Maryland on

Felton ECU Net Captain

Graham Felton has been named as the 1970 captain of the East Carolina Tennis team, coach Bill Dickens announced today.

Felton is a 6-4, 175-pound junior from Rocky Mount. During his freshman year, he received honorable mention to the All-Southern Conference team.

The Bucs open the 1970 season on March 12, traveling to Winston-Salem to meet Wake Forest University.

shade back at 18.8. Fairley is hitting at 15.6, while Gregory's mark is 13.6.

In total scoring, East Tennessee is averaging 79.1, while the Pirates are scoring 78.9. Their defense too is quite equal, 74.1 for the Bucs, and 74.4 for East Carolina.

East Carolina has been capturing 54.9 per cent of the loose balls, while East Tennessee has been picking up 54.3 per cent.

The two teams have played only one common opponent, Richmond. East Tennessee thriddled the Spiders, 63-57, and 111-92, in their two meetings, while Richmond pulled off a big upset in beating the Pirates, 90-72 in Richmond. (Richmond is also the next ECU opponent, visiting Greenville next Thursday.)

Modlin, the ECU center, will be out to become the first Pirate to score 1,000 points during a three-year career in the game. His current career mark is 998 points, so his first basket will put him into the 1,000 - category.

Another member of the team, Miller, is also beginning to close in on the 1,000 - point circle. Miller currently stands 116 points away from the figure, with a minimum of 10 games left to play.

Palmer Two Behind Leaders

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Ominous rain clouds and the imposing figure of Arnold Palmer lurked just over the shoulders of the four leaders today going into the second round of the Bing Crosby Pro-Am Golf Tournament.

Reformed Bert Yancey, veteran Bob Goalby, Ron Cerrudo and Bob Murphy shared the lead at 67 after the first round on three soggy courses on the Monterey Peninsula but their lead was far from secure in a closely bunched field.

Palmer, the gallery favorite even in this field that includes dozens of celebrities from the world of show business, had a three-under-par 69, just two shots back.

"Not too bad," said Palmer, the game's all-time leading money winner and its most dynamic personality. "Two shots back? Oh I'm not too dissatisfied. If I can keep it under 70, I'll be happy."

Palmer played on the Pebble Beach layout, one of three being used for the first three rounds by the 168 teams of a professional and an amateur. The others are Cypress Point and Spyglass Hill. All carry par 72.

Scores generally were low in the first round of this prestigious event, with six players tied at 68. They are Tom Shaw, Jim Weichers, defending champion George Archer, Canadian George Knudson, Hugh Royer and Howie Johnson.

Lee Trevino and seven others were tied with Palmer at 69.

Some other scores included Jack Nicklaus and U.S. Open champion Orville Moody, 70; Frank Beard and Dave Hill, 71; Billy Casper 72, and PGA champ Ray Floyd 74.

There was some doubt that the second round could be played on schedule today. Day-long heavy rains were forecast with the courses already drenched. "Almost unplayable," Archer said after his first round. Casual water puddled the courses on almost every fairway. And a heavy fog rolled in at midday. "I couldn't see the greens from the tees on 10, 11 and 12," Cerrudo said.

Yancey and Goalby played Cypress Point, Cerrudo Pebble Beach and Murphy, who has shed 17 pounds from his roly-poly figure in two months, was at Spyglass Hill.

Murphy used a new-style putter for the first time in 7½ years, a heavier model. "I haven't been a good putter in the winter because I didn't get it to the hole," he said. "The putter I had was too light."

Cerrudo, a 24-year-old from Napa, Calif., had six birds and a single bogey and said, "I hit the ball as well as I ever did in my life—it was right at the flag."

"But this is my favorite course. I gain about 10 yards just being here. I'm looking forward to the next three days."

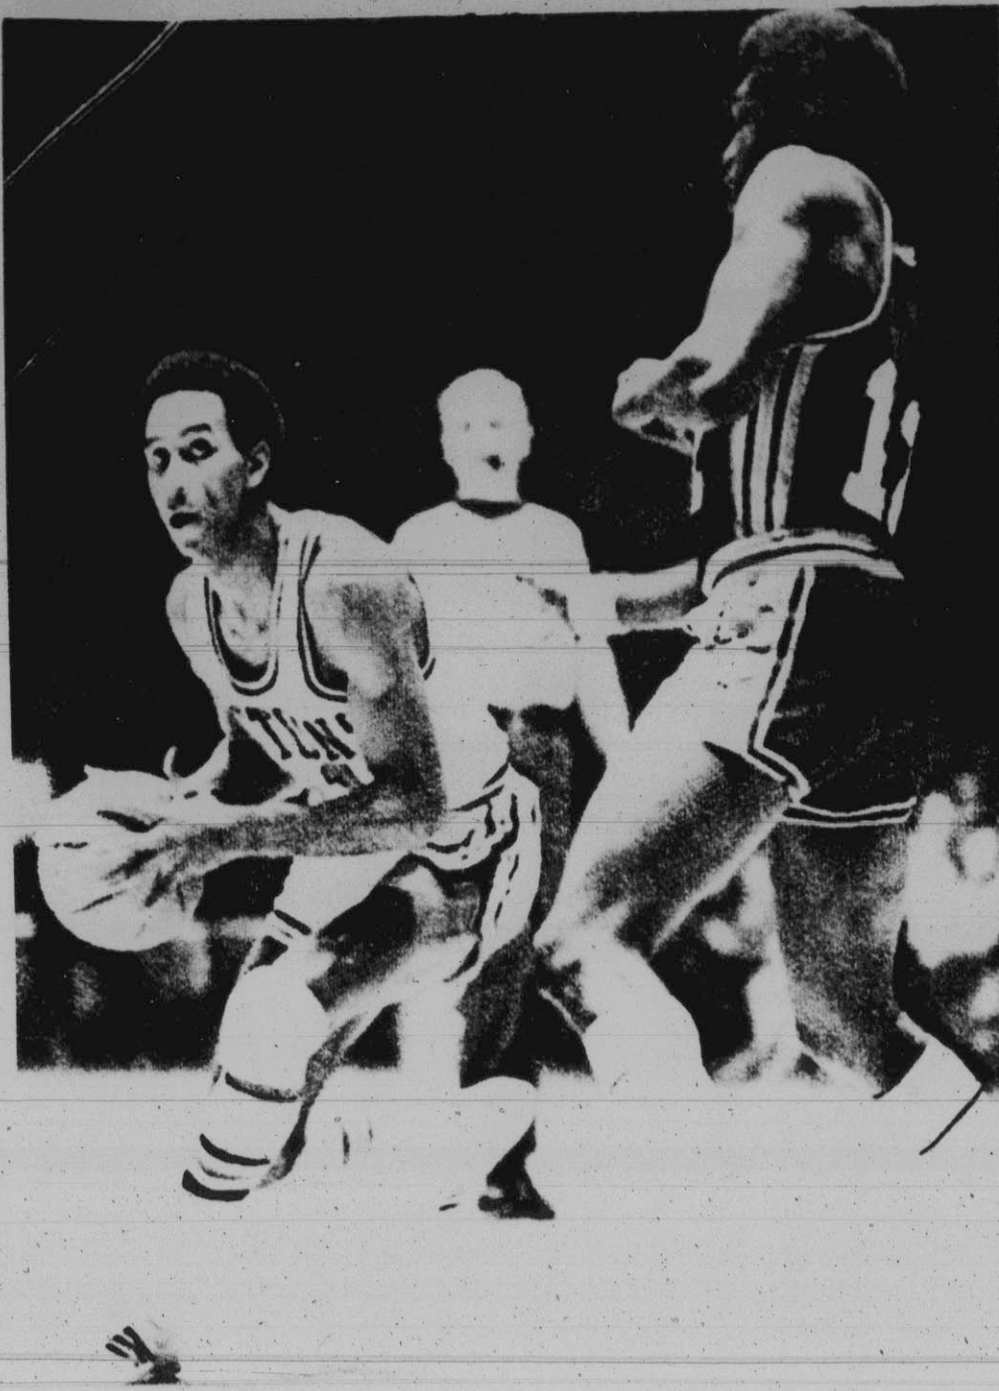

Yancey, a one-time West Point cadet and now starting his seventh year on the tour, had four, whopping putts, ranging from 20 to 40 feet, as he went seven under par going to the 17th.

But he put his second shot in the ocean there and took a double bogey.

"I'm trying to change my personality," he said. "I used to be a sourpuss. But now I try to have some fun out there talk to people. It's lot more fun."

"I'm very pleased," said Goalby, a former Masters champion. "I was driving well and I putted pretty good, which you have to do to break 70."

Bob Stanton, an Australian now playing out of New Orleans, and New Orleans businessman John Gimma led the team standings with a best-ball 59. Stanton has a 74 on his own ball.

Much Depends On TV Broadcast For ABA

By ERIC PREWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—The American Basketball Association's recently signed national television contract, a potentially powerful weapon in the pro basketball war, offers the league's All-Star game Saturday as its first attraction.

If the telecast is a success, as determined by Columbia Broadcasting System executives, it could mean a financial windfall for the three-year-old ABA. It also could make the older National Basketball Association more receptive to the idea of a merger.

Saturday's game, beginning at 2 p.m. EST, matches the top players of the Eastern and Western divisions. A sellout crowd of about 9,500 is expected at the Indiana Fairgrounds Coliseum.

The ABA's best known players nationally, former NBA scoring champion Rick Barry and 1968 Olympic team hero Spencer Haywood, both are on the West team, coached by Babe McCarthy of the New Orleans Buccaneers.

East Coach Bob Leonard of the Indiana Pacers has such performers as Pacer center Mel Daniels, the league's most valuable player last year, and current scoring leader Bob Verga of Carolina. Verga, averaging 27.3 points a game, won't start, however. The sports writers and broadcasters who selected the team placed Don Freeman of Miami and Louie Dampier of Kentucky ahead of Verga in voting for Eastern guards.

Forwards Doug Moe of Carolina and Bob Netolicky of Indiana will join Daniels on the East's starting front line. Haywood, an All-American at the University of Detroit last season, left school after his sophomore year to sign with the Denver Rockets. The 6-foot-9 rookie leads the league in rebounding, with 19 per game, and is second to Verga in scoring, with a 26.7 average.

Hayes Beat Alcindor, Bucks Defeat Rockets

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON (AP) — Elvin Hayes finally outscored Lew Alcindor as a pro.

Hayes tallied 29 points to Alcindor's 27 Thursday night but Alcindor's Milwaukee Bucks defeated Hayes and the San Diego Rockets 115-106 in the second game of an NBA doubleheader spectacular in the Astrodome.

The Los Angeles Lakers, paced by Jerry West's 40 points, defeated the San Francisco Warriors 122-108 in the first game.

It was the fifth time this season for Milwaukee to defeat San Diego in league play. In the four previous games Alcindor, a rookie, outscored Hayes 36-21, 23-14, 32-27 and 35-25.

Hayes, a former University of Houston great, outscored Alcindor, a former UCLA All-American, Thursday night although Hayes fouled out on the final play of the third period. Hayes was leading 29-19 when he fouled out.

Alcindor also sat on the bench about three minutes in the third period after collecting his fourth foul. Alcindor led in rebounds 19-15.

Alcindor and Hayes met for the eighth time in the game and it was only the second time for Hayes to come out on top in their scoring battles. Two years ago Hayes outscored Alcindor 39-15 as an Astrodome crowd of 52,693 saw Houston defeat UCLA 71-69.

A crowd of 21,619 paid a gate of $82,412 to see the doubleheader. It was the largest NBA crowd of the season but far below the 41,163 that watched the NBA's first Astrodome twin bill a year ago.

The game was played amid speculation Houston will be an expansion city in the NBA next year.

Alan I. Rothenberg, vice president of the Lakers, heads a California group that reportedly has been offered an NBA franchise for Houston.

The Astrodome doubleheaders were sponsored by Ben Kerner, former owner of the St. Louis Hawks. Kerner long has expressed interest in obtaining an NBA franchise for Houston but recently indicated he does not believe the city is ready to back such an investment.

Houston was a charter member of the American Basketball Association but its franchise was moved to North Carolina last year because of miserable attendance.

In other NBA action, the Cincinnati Royals outscored Boston 40-17 in the fourth quarter and beat the Celtics 111-104, Baltimore edged Detroit 119-115 and Phoenix humbled Seattle 129-120.

Pittsburgh nipped New Orleans 113-111, Miami topped Los Angeles 115-100 and Denver topped Washington 130-121 in the American Basketball Association.

Oscar Robertson scored 19 of his 40 points in leading Cincinnati's fourth-period surge as the Royals snapped a six-game losing streak. The Big O hit for six straight baskets as Cincinnati outscored Boston 15-2 in the last four minutes. Jo Jo White scored 23 for the Celtics who had a four-game losing string snapped.

Baltimore's defeat of Detroit at Syracuse, N.Y., was the Bullets' 15th straight triumph over the Pistons over three seasons. Wes Unseld and Earl Monroe paced Baltimore with 22 points each, while Dave Bing pumped in 37 for Detroit.

Down by 12 points in the first period, Phoenix came from behind to beat Seattle at Las Cruces, N.M. The Suns went ahead for good on Art Harris' one-hander in the second period.

Harris led Phoenix with 24 points. Bob Rule topped the loser with 31.

No Action By Duke Council

DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — Informed sources said the Duke University Athletic Council made no decisions and took no action Thursday as it met to consider a proposal that Duke withdraw from the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The council "had not planned for anything to happen," said one council member of the meeting, held after newsmen were asked to leave.

"The meeting was just an informal exchange," he said.

"It is safe to assume Duke will be a member of the ACC and athletic grants in aid will continue to be awarded," said another council member.

Another recommendation was that athletic grants in aid be made only on a basis of need.

Dr. Donald Fluke, council chairman, declined to comment on what transpired at the meeting, but members who were present said Duke's athletic director, Eddie Cameron, presented a report on the school's athletic program.

Council members also directed questions to Carl James, associate athletic director, and to H. M. (Red) Lewis, business manager of athletics.

Star Gazing At Pebble Beach

By RONRAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—At 7:15 in the morning Thursday, with a surprising number of middle Americans who had risen before dawn to watch the event looking on, comedian Bob Newhart hit a golf ball toward the Pacific Ocean.

For the next several hours, as the gallery grew larger, the Crosby Golf Tournament's usual group of show business and sports celebrities paraded to the first tee at Cypress Point golf course.

Not all the amateur golfers in the event possess readily familiar names, which accounted for

Fla. State Nails Tigers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Clemson Tigers broke the examination lull that has beset Atlantic Coast Conference basketball and, for their efforts, should have stayed home studying.

Florida State had Clemson in to Tallahassee Thursday night in the only game involving an ACC member, and the Seminoles, led by Dave Cownes, fashioned a 122-80 victory.

Cowens turned in his top performance of the year, scoring 29 points and grabbing 25 rebounds. Seven Seminoles scored in double figures. It was Florida State's 13th win in 15 games. Clemson has a 4-8 record.

All ACC teams are idle tonight but several will play Saturday. North Carolina State will be at Duke Saturday afternoon for a regionally televised game and that night Virginia Tech goes to Clemson while Maryland is at home to Maine.

In overcoming the Tigers, Florida State worked a full court press to good advantage, stealing the ball on the back court time and again for easy buckets.

the fact that the smaller galleries at the Spyglass Hill and Pebble Beach courses were made up of golf fans rather than those out looking for television and movie stars.

There were, in fact, fewer such stars than have appeared in past Crosbys. After Newhart, prepared for cold weather that didn't materialize with a blue skating cap and two thick sweaters, made his way down the first fairway, actor Forrest Tucker appeared with his pro partner, Charlie Sifford.

"You going to talk to me today, Charlie," boomed Tucker to the gallery.

"I don't talk to my wife this early in the morning," Sifford answered and, chewing a cigar at the side of his mouth, he boomed a long tee shot down range.

Things proceeded in this fashion and if the humor that developed was not exactly academy award material, at least it amused the crowd.

Clint Eastwood came and went and then it was singer Glen Campbell's turn and time for an impromptu appearance by the star of the show.

"Watch it, Glen, I'm down here," shouted Dean Martin at the side of the fairway. "You're aiming at me."

Martin, an annual fixture here who draws large crowds, came up toward the tee for his shot. A lady broke out of the gallery and ran downhill waving a program for him to autograph. He ran away as the crowd laughed, then stopped and signed.

Andy Williams, Phil Harris, Ernie Ford and Jack Lemmon teed off in the next minutes. The stars are bunched together like this so they will be playing all the proper holes when the tournament goes on television Saturday.

Several top golfers also were in the group, among them Lee Trevino, Orville Moody, Ray Floyd, Frank Beard and Dave Hill.

Cuts Will Be Restored In Welfare Payments

RALEIGH (AP) — Cuts will be restored next month in welfare payments to 124,000 recipients of aid to families with dependent children.

John R. Jordan Jr., chairman of the North Carolina Social Services Board, announced the restoration Thursday.

The cuts, which averaged 6.5 per cent and ranged from $2 to $25 per family, were announced last month because of a big increase in the number of recipients under the program, popularly known AFDC.

Jordan said all but four of North Carolina's 100 counties had agreed to put up their share of the funds necessary to restore the cuts. The four counties are Duplin, Moore, Warren and Washington.

"We cannot penalize the rest of the state because a very few counties were unable or refused to provide their share," Jordan told a news conference.

"We expect before this fiscal year is ended that these few will find a way to provide the funds to pay for the deficit they anticipate in their public assistance programs."

The counties were asked to put up a total of $440,000 to equal state funds, plus a larger amount of federal money.

Jordan said the state's share will come from other parts of the Social Services Department budget but will not result in cutbacks of other programs.

Jordan said the state's share will come from other parts of the Social Services Department budget but will not result in cutbacks of other programs.

Jordan said he is "not even thinking in terms of litigation" to get the four counties to put up their share. He said he feels "persuasion will do it."

The welfare payments were ordered cut by the board in November because the 1969 General Assembly appropriated funds for 107,000 recipients and the rolls had increased to 124,000.

The cuts brought protest marches by a group of recipients on the offices of Social Services Commissioner Clifton Craig last month.

Jordan noted in a statement that the February checks will give recipients more spending money than the December checks, because of increased food stamp benefits which go into effect Feb. 1 and because of new Medicaid payments.

Seek Funds For Project

BOONE, N. C. (AP) — Businessmen have applied for a $500,000 loan to construct a 120-unit motel as the first project of a local development corporation formed to stimulate small business in Avery County.

Dr. Robert H. West, an economics professor at Appalachian State University who helped found the corporation, said it has incorporated lith authorization to issue $150,000 in capital stocks.

He said the group, the AVCO Development Corp., would borrow money from local agencies and the Small Business Administration to lend to low-budget businesses in the mountain country.

"We also plan to invest in a book binder and woodworking shop," he said.

West helped organize the corporation as director of a federal economic assistance program operated by the university.

Rival Had Inside Role

MT. STERLING, Ill. (AP) — Lozelle Williams stood outside the Brown County, Ill., courthouse all night to be first in line to file for county sheriff and first on the ballot.

But Deputy Sheriff James Busen, whose wife is sheriff now, took an early breakfast to the prisoners in the top-floor county jail, and when the courthouse opened, Busen was already inside.

County Clerk Mrs. Lanie Wagner didn't know which man should be first, so she told them she'd accept them as arriving simultaneously and ask States Attorney Robert Utter what to do. Before she got a ruling, however, Busen said he'd take second place on the ballot. Busen added that two elections back he stood outside the courthouse all night to be first on the ballot, but only because he was sure he didn't have a rival feeding the prisoners inside.

See Increase In Negro Employees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Textile Manufacturers Institute reports the number of Negroes employed in the textile industry rose by 24 per cent last year.

Negroes now make up 12 per cent of the country's textile work force, the institute said Thursday. About 10 per cent of the 470,000 women employed in textiles are black, it said.

Arrest Boys At Scene Of Crime

Two teen-aged boys were arrested early today and charged with attempting to break into a coin operated drink machine at the Kentucky Fried Chicken building on East Fifth Street.

Police said Martin James Setter III, 18 of 2125 Dickinson Ave., and Walter Craig Smith, 17 of Charlotte, were charged with attempted breaking and entering after officers found the two at the fried chicken store about 1:02 a.m.

Officers said the pair allegedly attempted to pry the drink box open with a tire iron.

Both were placed under $200 bond each for appearance in District Court.

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Homeowners who have suffered "trimmer's wrist" take heart. A new grass trimmer is on the market.

A Pittsburgh firm has introduced a lightweight, pushbutton electric grass shear which is powered by cadmium batteries.

Our line is always busy

Marilyn deserves an "A" in Communications. Unfortunately, that is not one of her courses.

Do you suppose when we were young we had less to talk about? Fewer opinions worth stating? Quieter friends? Anyway, home was never like this!

Still, apart from the inconvenience, I have no strong objections to Marilyn's monopoly of the wires. Indeed, it has served to remind me more than once of the tremendous need of this youthful generation for the right kind of friends and the right sense of values.

Fortunately, our church has been an important influence on Marilyn's life in both areas. Religious education has fostered moral and religious convictions which are shaping her character. Whether it's "girl-talk" or "boy-talk" that is keeping our line busy—it's just part of the normal, wholesome growing-up of a teen-ager.

NOTICE TO LIST TAXES

Every person, firm or corporation owning property January 1, 1970, whether real or personal, is required by the laws of North Carolina to list such taxes during the month of January. Property must be listed in the township in which it is located.

All male persons between the ages of 21 and 50 are required to list for Poll Tax during the same period.

Failure to list carries a penalty of 10 per cent of the tax and a possible fine.

North Carolina Law requires owners and operators of parks or storage lots renting space to three or more house trailers or mobile homes, to file with the Tax Supervisor a full and complete list of all owners, together with the total number of house trailers or mobile homes owned by each on January 1. This list must be submitted each year during the month of January.

Owners or operators failing to comply with the law shall be liable to payment of the tax and a penalty of $250.00.

BRING YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER AND YOUR MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRATION CARD WITH YOU WHEN YOU COME TO LIST.

Belgian Prelate Urges Debate On Celibacy Issue

BRUSSELS (AP) — Belgium's Roman Catholic primate, Leo Joseph Cardinal Suenens, joined Holland's bishops Wednesday in calling for a churchwide debate on the issue of priestly celibacy.

"The problem is not solved because a local church decided on it, since it is a problem that concerns the Church as a whole," he said. "It is up to the Pope to make the dialogue possible."

Earlier this week, Holland's eight Roman Catholic bishops called for churchwide discussion of celibacy, saying the Dutch

A sound analysis of his side's prospects enabled East to map out a successful campaign in defending against South's four-spade contract.

When North rebid one no trump, South jumped to three spades. This call designates a good six-card suit and furthermore insists on an ultimate game contract. Remember, in our methods all jumps by responder are forcing to game. North's doubleton now became adequate trump support, and he carried on to four spades.

West led the deuce of hearts and East's ten won the first trick. This was the moment of decision for East and he paused to survey the situation. His early conclusion was that there was little point in continuing hearts. West's lead of the deuce must be either a singleton or part of a three-card holding, since it is the lowest outstanding card in the suit. On the basis of the bidding, East was convinced that South had the singleton, since he had shied away from no trump.

There was a brief temptation to shift to a club which would establish some tricks for the defense if West held strength in that suit. The only objection to the play was that East had no card of reentry once the ace of clubs was dislodged. In fact, the only means of entry available to the defense would have to be in trumps. So considered, the proper play becomes clear-cut.

At trick two, East shifted to his singleton four of diamonds, right into the dummy's strength. Declarer immediately led the ten of spades and, in an effort to foil his opponents, he refused the finesse — going right up with the ace and returning the queen. His play was no avail, for West was in with the king, and a diamond return enabled East to score his remaining trump with a ruff.

East returned the king of hearts which was trumped by South, but subsequently declarer chose to take the club finesse — losing to East for the setting trick.

kitchen, parlor and nursery. Yet it is in the bedroom where most divorces start. And they are at least 50 percent the fault of the wife, for she has not been taught the essential sex differences, so she tries to impose her own code of marital conduct in the boudoir.

But men were created by the Almighty to have a much greater erotic appetite than women.

So when a wife limits her husband to her own desire for erotic calories, it is like restricting him to her own craving for gastric calories at the dinner table.

In both the gastric as well as the erotic realm, men were endowed by the Creator to have a much greater desire than women do.

Wives also have failed to realize many other sex differences, so they have unwittingly driven good husbands into clandestine affairs with paramours, due to the wife's sins of omission.

In the early days of this column, some old publishers thought I was too frank, but nowhere else were the majority of readers gaining adequate scientific help to safeguard their homes.

And my supposed frankness was mild, compared to the salacious stories often headlined on Page One.

Besides, I am a physician and moral educator who presented marital data in a dignified way to help reduce our alarming divorce rate.

Nowadays, the pendulum has swung to the idiotic extreme.

Wives, send for my medical booklet "Sex Differences Between Men and Women," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents, and avoid Laverne's tragedy!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Drinking On Pacific Time

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (AP) — Residents of this northern British Columbia town work on Mountain Standard Time but do their drinking on Pacific Time.

It is perfectly legal, District Judge K. F. Arkell ruled in Provincial Court Wednesday when he dismissed charges of selling beer after hours brought against the Columbia Hotel.

A police officer testified he bought beer at the hotel after 12:30 A.M. MST.

Judge Arkell explained that a statute governing interpretation of legal acts in British Columbia states that when times are referred to, they shall be Pacific Standard Time.

'CONVINCED'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland industrialist Cyrus S. Eaton says he is convinced North Vietnam's Prime Minister Pham Van Dong would discuss a war settlement with President Nixon at some neutral site.

Wives Should Know Pitfalls

Laverne has learned, belatedly, how she could easily have avoided the divorce that now is causing unhappiness for herself, her two kiddies and their daddy. Be glad that your newspaper has pioneered scientific marriage counselling, even though colleges have feared to do so. Wives, safeguard your happy homes by the advice in the sex booklet below.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.
CASE L-527: Laverne T., aged 28, is unhappy.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I was married for 5 years to a wonderful man.

"But we lived in a city where your newspaper column wasn't appearing, so I lost my husband by my own sex ignorance.

"For I found out that he was running around with a young divorcee at the plant. "He said he loved me but I was too frigid, so he was merely seeking supplementary erotic calories elsewhere.

"But I was stupid and got a divorce, so now this other woman has married him.

"He is unhappy and so am I. Besides, our two kiddies are hungry to have their daddy with them each night.

"So why don't the schools use your sexual advice to PREVENT such tragedies as mine?"

For over 30 years this column has appeared in hundreds of daily newspapers, thereby helping prevent divorce and delinquency.

"But the colleges have hesitated to indulge in similar prophylactic sex education, fearing stodgy old members on their Board of Trustees would take offense.

For prudery has ruled our society for generations.

You can be grateful that the daily newspapers thus pioneered scientific marriage counseling via this "Worry Clinic" column.

For even the occasional college that offered a course on "Marriage Problems," generally skimmed over the boudoir and focussed on the

Yugoslavia Said Ideal For Film War Location

By NORMAN GOLDSTEIN
Associated Press Writer

UMAG, Yugoslavia (AP) — Picture, if you will, a black "Ponderosa" cowboy hat perched on a head of long hair reaching over the back collar of a black T-shirt. Picture, too, black slacks.

This is the "uniform" of Brian G. Hutton, New York-born, stage actor-trained, suddenly successful movie director.

Here he sat by a sturdy old farmhouse near Umag, on the Adriatic coast, his cameras under a tree on a hillside, facing a movie-doctored haystack. Hutton was directing Clint Eastwood, Don Rickles, Telly Savalas, Donald Sutherland and assorted Bill Mauldin cartoon-like characters in a setting reminiscent of wartime eastern France.

"This is the only place in the world it would work," he said, explaining why MGM decided to film here for "The Warriors," a war comedy.

"Oh, sure, it's not easy to live or work here. But if the picture is about snow, you go somewhere near the Poles; if the picture is about wartime Europe, you come here.

"Nothing has changed here. Nothing has been built," he said, his hand sweeping across an area of hillside vineyards and small farms devoid of post-war progress. "The Italians abandoned the area after the war and it's just been left this way."

There are other advantages to the remote filming site, Hutton continued.

Equipment was a major one. Who else still has World War II vintage tanks, halftracks and armored cars? And where else could one "rent" national soldiers as extras?

Politically, Hutton noted, despite the Communist regime, the Yugoslavian government did not interfere. On the contrary, they were most cooperative, he said. (One big reason: MGM will leave between $1.5 million and $2 million in the country during 18 weeks of shooting in various parts of Yugoslavia.)

So, despite the language barrier and the social barriers and Hutton's personal desire to film it in northern California—Rickles said if it were up to him, they would have done it in his backyard—Yugoslavia turned Hollywood capitalist for a time.

Hutton, originally an actor, had to his directing credit "The Pad (and How to Use It)" and "Sol Madrid" before his "big one"—"Where Eagles Dare," a war adventure with co-stars Eastwood and Richard Burton. But now Hutton said "The Warriors" would be his last "big" film.

"Now it's back to the roots; something easier, smaller; closer to home (the stage). I've enjoyed this, but I think it's my last."

He returned to the farm set and his "troops" in time to get in on another session of jibing jokes among Rickles, the popular "insult" comedian, Savalas and Eastwood—with Eastwood usually the butt.

"I'll never work with these three together again," he swore, not meaning one word of it.

He obviously was having a good time, as were they all, listening to Rickles' good-natured taunts.

Rickles, primarily a night club comic, had small parts in movies before, mostly things he'd prefer to forget.

He considered this one, in which he plays a wheeling, dealing, but lovable con artist soldier—"me in real life"—his biggest, most important role. Besides, living in Yugoslavia has given him a wealth of material for his night club routines.

He'll return to night clubs in New York and Las Vegas and do a television special with Danny Thomas. But Rickles, after the Yugoslavian experience, described his future plans this way:

"I'm gonna lock myself in a room and make sure no one brings me back here."

Other Ricklesisms, loosely translated from the Serbo-Croatian:

"What do I do here? I sit around my hotel room and watch the moths die."

"Language barrier? I get malnutrition at the dining table."

"Savalas? He sits around watching old movies, hoping he's in one of them."

"Eastwood? He sits around all day and plays with his ducks. I'm the star here."

Guest Minister At Series Of Services

The Rev. Dr. Harold J. Dudley, noted Presbyterian minister and General Secretary of the Synod of North Carolina since April 1951, will be the guest minister at a special three night series of services being conducted at the Boyd Memorial Presbyterian Church on the Falkland Highway, according to the pastor, Rev. Russell Davis.

Dr. Dudley will speak at services at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, and at the Sunday morning worship at 10:00 a.m. In addition to these

News and Observer as "Tar Heel of the Week." He was president of the North Carolina Council of Churches for 1961-1962.

He has served pastorates in Kinston and Wilson and at Luncburg, Virginia, and Brimingham, Alabama. Over the years, Dr. Dudley has pioneered in the Presbyterian church in the field of church recreation, in camps and conferences, and as a Scoutmaster.

He is married to the former Miss Avis Fountain of Tarboro. They have one daughter, Mrs. Harry B. Dew of Wilson, and four grandchildren.

Blaze Destroys Tons Of Peanuts

WELDON, N. C. (AP) — An estimated 10 tons of peanuts burned in a multi-alarm fire Thursday at the Carolina Co-op building in Weldon.

United from four fire departments fought the blaze before it was controlled. A crane at the warehouse collapsed in the heat, breaking power lines serving 1,000 families in the area.

Thrown Out Of Car And Killed

CONCORD, N. C. (AP) — Ted May, an off-duty Cabarrus County deputy, was killed Thursday night when his private automobile veered off a rural road and threw him out.

May was 44 and a 17-year veteran of the sheriff's staff. He was the car's only occupant.

PLANT EXPANSION

RALEIGH (AP) — A $1 million expansion of its Raleigh plant was announced Thursday by Mallinckrodt chemical works.

3,000 Operations; Has No Self-Pity

CENTER, N.D. (AP) — Fifteen years ago, Johnny Ennis tossed kerosene into his mother's wood-fed stove.

Three thousand operations ago, Johnny Ennis ran down a rural Center road as fire ripped through his clothes and burned off his skin.

Today, the 28-year-old Ennis speaks in a gentle voice devoid of self pity. His pleasant face, which bears no trace of the scars that cover most of his body, rarely takes on a frown—even when he tells of undergoing 3,000 operations, most of them skin grafts, but about 27 involving bone surgery and more recently tissue implants in his legs.

"I can't lift my feet," he says as he negotiates a long, steep flight of stairs on crutches, or walks around unaided. "My body swings back and forth like this because my hip joints are fused."

Fifteen years ago, the survival chances for someone as badly burned as Ennis were about zero.

For months after the accident, he remained in critical condition. In the first 60 days, skin grafts from post mortem donors were applied in 13 operations, and he received 26 pints of blood in transfusions.

A fund drive to help pay his expenses raised $12,000.

In the first year, Ennis had 92 blood transfusions, and averaged a skin graft once a week. His chest was so badly burned it was necessary to implant a chest plate to keep his rib cage open so that his lungs would not collapse.

Gradually, doctors straightened his tortured, twisted legs.

Ennis, who occasionally visits relatives at Center, shares an apartment with a sister in Fargo. He says he is "chief cook and bottle washer," and also does babysitting for another sister and dabbles in radio and television repair work.

Because his hips and legs were so badly burned, they could not support his weight. In 1958, doctors replaced his destroyed kneecaps with plastic ones. His hips were fused in 1964, allowing him to stand. Slowly he learned to walk unaided.

Today, if Ennis were to have a bad fall, his plastic chest could puncture a lung.

The slightest bump can cause infection.

"I only have one layer of skin on most of my body," he explained. "If it became infected, it means another skin graft."

Ennis says the only thing that bothers him about frequent hospitalization is the isolation, done to guard against infection. "A guy can get pretty lonely."

About one-half of the time the skin grafts have been successful—his body has not rejected them. When the implants fail, the doctors try again.

"You can't look back on failure," Ennis says. "If you do, you'd give it up."

NAVY PROGRAM

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Navy John Chafee has started a new $10 million program to help our Navy families faced with expensive temporary housing when they reach a new duty station.

Assigned To Census Role

Appointment of Jerry C. Scott, as District Manager of the 1970 U.S. Census of Population and Housing in this area was announced today by Director Joseph R. Norwood of the Census Bureau's Regional Office in Charlotte.

A native of Fayetteville, Scott is a graduate of Whiteville High School and received his B.S. degree from Campbell College. He has worked in a supervisory capacity for an agriculture marketing company, and with the U.S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Most recently Scott has been a teacher in the public schools of Columbus County.

From the District Office located at the Old U.S. Post Office, corner of Third and Evans Streets in Greenville, Scott will supervise all phases of the census in the following counties: Beaufort, Bertie, Camden, Chowan, Currituck, Dare, Gates, Hertford, Hyde, Martin, Northampton, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pitt, Tyrell, and Washington.

On January 26, following several days of intensive training in the Regional Office, Scott will come on duty and begin setting up the District Office. He will direct a force of about 317 field workers throughout the area.

Taking the Census nationally will require the services of 172,000 field workers, 393 District Managers, and 13,000 office personnel.

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — It's just as easy for Allen A. Iseley to work his 250-acre farm near here at midnight as it is at noon. In fact, Iseley prefers nighttime farming because "there's so much less noise distraction."

"Sound and my fingertips are my eyes," says the 50-year-old farmer, who began losing his eyesight in high school due to retina deterioration.

Today Iseley, who barely perceives the change from day to night, remains master of a large herd of cattle and nine acres of tobacco. And he does it

Gave Away

Recording Fee

NEW YORK (AP) — Oleomargarine heir Michael J. Brody says he has received $10,600 for a recording he made. He says he gave the money away, but he isn't saying to whom.

Brody, who drew public attention with his promises to give his fortune away to the needy, played a 12-string guitar and sang a song he wrote during the recording Wednesday at RCA Record's Manhattan studio. "War is Over," is the record title.

RESEARCH TEAM

WASHINGTON (AP) — A panel of scientists has recommended that a research team be established to make quick explorations into potential environmental crises such as suspicious rises in pollution.

without having had any special training.

"I adapted on my own by improvising," says the man who, carrying a staff, can drive 45 cattle from one pasture to another, can feed and inject them with hypodermics and can even castrate the bulls.

"I can do everything in tending cattle except mow the pasture," says Iseley, who has hung different size bells on several cows so he can identify their location. "My only problem is that people who help me sometimes try to take over, when I know I can do it better. I can load the cattle more quickly and easily because they know me."

With tobacco, his money crop, Iseley again describes himself as a "full hand." "I can do anything in farming tobacco that I can touch with my hands, except plowing, hoeing and chopping."

"Sometimes my help can't see to thread the tying machine so they call me," he said of the two hired hands who help with the farm. "I've made a device which makes it easy, and to keep from walking into the tobacco and bruising it I always place a two-by-four in front of me in the barn."

At corn planting time, Iseley carries the fertilizer and distributes it to the person doing the planting.

"I stick a transistor radio on the wagon where the fertilizer is, and by hearing can walk from anywhere in the field back to the wagon to get the fertilizer," he explains.

"Any time I'm near buildings and roads I have no trouble in knowing where I am, but out in the middle of a field I get turned around."

Iseley, who began farm chores as a child, says he's seldom lost, and when he is, "it's not for long." He listens for a highway noise or the train three miles away, the wind blowing through trees or birds singing.

"Sometimes I go in a circle but being lost has never been a real problem. One time when there was snow on the ground I'd been a mile across a field to the neighbor's. I decided to come home through the woods, but got lost. I knew there were two streams in there but a good ways apart, so when I came to the first one I got down in the water to see which way the stream was flowing. I knew by the way the water was running which way was home."

Sound is one of Iseley's key direction aids. "By distinguishing what I hear I can tell whether I'm walking on sand or gravel, and all that points me in the right direction."

He also can determine when he's near an object like a tree or tractor. "The sounds are different and I realize something is there," he says.

Iseley's ability doesn't stop with his farm work. He wired his home, with the only help coming from his wife who told him the different color of the wires. He also cleans gutters, cuts firewood with a chain saw, builds and repairs fences, tends several beehives and does maintenance jobs around his home.

In his spare time Iseley "reads" everything he can get his hands on. He has found it difficult to master Braille because of the lack of time and his work-roughened fingertips. Most of his "reading" is done by listening to recordings.
