Unidentified Group Has Option To Buy Baldhead

RALEIGH (AP) — The owner of controversial Baldhead Island near Southport has confirmed that an unidentified group of North Carolinians and South Carolinians has taken an option to buy the island. The owner, Frank O. Sherrill of Charlotte, confirmed the negotiations in a telephone interview from Charlotte Monday. But he would not disclose the names of the persons or their plans for the 12,000-acre island. "At their request, I really can't say anything," Sherrill said. "So much publicity has been given to the island. They want to play it a little quieter this time." One source reported that the persons involved are members of real estate firms. Baldhead became the center of controversy last year when plans were made public for its development as a resort. Charles E. Fraser of Hilton Head Island, S. C., had an option to purchase the island for $5.5 million, and he planned to develop it as an exclusive resort. But conservation groups throughout the state launched bitter opposition to the plan. They appealed to Gov. Bob Scott to purchase the island for the state and preserve it in its natural state. Scott proposed that the question of state purchase be left to the 1971 General Assembly, although he said he favored preservation of the sea island. Scott's decision left Fraser free to purchase the island, but his development plan called for North Carolina to build an access route to it. The Scott administration let it be known that it would not cooperate in the development. Fraser announced in December that he had abandoned — at least temporarily — his plan to buy the property. Sherrill claims ownership of the 9,000 acres of salt marshes which are part of the island, but the state contends it holds valid title to them. Fraser, during his negotiations with Sherrill, said the marshes are the property of the state.

Scott Predicts Nixon To Carry State In 1972

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott of North Carolina predicted Monday that President Nixon would carry his state in 1972 and George Wallace, if he ran, would run second. Nixon carried the Tar Heel state in 1968, and Scott predicted at a news conference he would win by an even greater margin in the next election. "I don't find a whole lot to criticize in what the President has done," Scott said. He said the President has gained strength in the South with his recent nomination of Southerners for the U. S. Supreme Court. Scott was in San Diego to speak to the American Management Association on the needs of the states in coastal development. Scott told the group that it is likely that a reorganization of North Carolina's government will put most of the 18 state agencies which administer at least 37 coastal programs under a new Department of Natural Resources. He said that the Tar Heel coast contains 10 per cent of the shoreline of the eastern United States and the third largest estuarine area of the 48 contiguous states. "Yet this vast coastal area is largely undeveloped, is sparsely populated, and until recent years, access to the North Carolina coast was limited. Many people looked upon it as a barren wasteland, as more of a barrier than a resource. "Now we know that our tide-washed marshlands, with a production rate 10 times that of dry land, are the most productive environment in nature," Scott added. He said states must give primary attention to planning in developing their coastal zones. "Through wise planning, justifiable uses can be allocated throughout a state's coastal area to ensure that future generations may participate in the diverse coastal activities," he said. "Congressmen and legislators give greater priority to defense, health, education, highways and other areas of spending than to coastal development and oceanic exploration. Somehow, our lawmakers must be persuaded that these latter two areas also deserve top priority."

Cooled In Dec. RALEIGH (AP) — A cooling off period for North Carolina's economy continued in December. The Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. reported that despite increased spending and higher employment, its North Carolina Business Index was down 2.3 points, or 1.2 per cent, from November. Despite the cooling of the state and national economies, Wachovia said consumer prices registered a big gain in December and the consumer price index reached an all-time high of 131.3. "All indicators now point to a further reduction of the economy and increased inflation," the bank said. It reported an 18.5 per cent gain in bank deposits, a measure of spending by business and individuals, from November to December. But it said that after adjustments for price increases, seasonal variation and trading day differences, the bank deposits registered a 2.1 per cent drop. Total nonagricultural employment in the state totaled 1,714,900 in December. This was an increase of 0.3 per cent from November and about 2 per cent above the December 1968 level.

Martin Board Prepares For New Hospital Bids

WILLIAMSTON — Tentative plans to let bids within the next two to three months for construction of a Martin County Hospital was one of several items on the agenda of the Williamston Town Board meeting last night. Town Clerk J. B. Godwin said a letter had been received from Martin General Hospital asking to be assured that the town is ready to extend water and sewage to the site just outside Williamston. The board passed a resolution assuring the town would take necessary action. The board also turned over to J. E. Griffin, Chairman of the Williamston Planning Board a request that the site be zoned residential R15, with the hospital approved as a special usage. Other matters considered by the board were: —Rezoning of Washington Street from Morrison to Perry Street from residential R6 to neighborhood commercial was approved. No objection was offered to rezoning at the public hearing last night. —Approved a resolution based on a letter from the Mid-East Economic Development Commission for the establishment of a Mid-East Regional Airport Authority, with the Greenville-Pitt Airport as the designated airport for the first step of planning. —Endorsed a plan for landscaping and architect students from the University of North Carolina conducting a survey of Williamston to suggest possible beautification measures. —Approved a request by the Bear Grass Fire Department to conduct a one day circus on a school property lot, to be held April 22. —Approved payment of an additional $2,890 as Williamston's part of the cost of the Martin County Airport near Everetts. The town had previously paid $15,000 as their initial contribution.

Commissioners Allot $5,500 OK PTI Library Funds

County Commissioners yesterday afternoon approved spending an estimated $5,500 to convert the third floor of the new Pitt Technical Institute building into a library. The cost of the project includes an estimated $4,300 for carpeting the area, while the remainder of expense would go for constructing partitions. The present Pitt Tech library in the old PTI building is considered inadequate and PTI officials requested that a new library be established on the third floor of the new building. That floor was semi-finished when the building was constructed. That new building was opened only a few months ago. Commissioners also heard a report from R. T. Brinn, consultant with the Regional Development Institute at East Carolina University on progress of the Pitt County Memorial Hospital study. According to Brinn, the study is "continuing at a rapid rate" and he said it is planned to have "all proposals received by February 15." For some time, the commissioners, the hospital's board of trustees and local physicians have been studying various directions to follow in providing additional bed space and other facilities at Pitt Memorial.

Mentioned as possible remedies are plans to construct a new facility, add a new wing to the present building, add beds and room for supporting services by placing re-locatable modules at the present site, or allowing private investors to acquire and manage the hospital.

Russia To Boost Arm Aid

By KENNETH J. FREED Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House confirmed today that President Nixon has received a note from Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, reportedly warning of a Soviet Union intention to boost arms shipments to Egypt. Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler declined, however, to disclose either the length or the content of the note, which he said was received Saturday. The note was understood to say that Russia plans to step up its arms aid to Egypt because of U.S. help to Israel. Any such action could result in still greater pressure from Israel for more military aid to offset added Egyptian strength. While informed diplomats said they could not confirm details of the new Soviet aid, they indicated it would be no surprise if Egypt gets some of Moscow's newest jet fighters, the MIG23.

Offer Preliminary Drawings For Newtown Project Designs

By TOM BAINES Reflector Staff Writer

Architect Cameron Dudley and Shoe, discussed with Housing Authority commissioners last night preliminary drawings showing possible designs for the proposed NC 22-6 section of the Newtown Project. Dudley presented two schemes to Authority members for consideration. One drawing called for 88 units of the Townhouse Apartment design, figured on the construction ratio of nine units per acre of available project land. The other drawing depicted a site plan of 86 total units, also of the Townhouse design, covering 8.8 housing units per project acre. Both plans, Dudley pointed out, meet the eight-units-per-acre criteria required for housing development construction and recreational areas within the project are being considered. The question of parking could be solved, Dudley said, by allowing for parking areas either on the side or rear of the units. The plans last night designated 134 parking spaces for 88 housing units, roughly one and a half parking sites for each

Greene Board Hears Reports

SNOW HILL — The Greene County Board of Commissioners heard routine reports from the various county agencies at their monthly meeting Monday afternoon.

George Mewborn, Greene County auditor and tax supervisor, gave a report on the January property tax listings. The board also heard reports from the county agricultural extension service and the county social service department.

Blast Shatters Court Building

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — An explosion ripped through the colonial-style municipal court building and police station Monday in suburban Shaker Heights, injuring 15 persons.

Police Chief Carl R. Longstreet said the blast, which left the roof lying on a heap of rubble was caused by "either a bomb or gas." An East Ohio Gas Co. official said the gas meter still was intact, indicating the blast was not caused by gas. Martin Kafoglis, a Treasury Department investigator who sent a team to the scene, said it would be assumed "that an explosion of this magnitude would involve a bombing" but that he had no evidence this was the case. The Treasury Department routinely investigates such blasts to determine whether there has been violation of federal firearms laws. The 15 persons hospitalized included a policeman who was injured critically and Municipal Court Judge Manuel M. Rorer. Central Police Station in downtown Cleveland was heavily guarded and other suburban police departments reportedly were taking extra precautions because of the blast.

Rose High Faculty Poses Questions To City School Board

By JERRY RAYNOR Reflector Staff Writer

At the invitation of the Greenville City School Board, members of the Rose High faculty met with them for over three hours at Rose High School last night. The meeting was not designed to formulate concrete recommendations, but was one in which faculty members had an opportunity to present an agenda of questions they had prepared — concerning the school program, teachers' rights, and discipline and regulations. Emphasizing a primary concern for a fuller program for the school, much of the discussion time was given to this area: —"Is there anything to be done for the heavy teaching loads which prohibit the excellent work the teacher would like it to do? We refer specifically to classes such as carpentry, home economics and business. —"Is there any hope that we can offer students immediate placement in classes in keeping with their abilities, in order to alleviate the unrest and frustration which confront many students who are simply misplaced according to ability?"

—"Why can there not be a full-time attendance officer to handle attendance reports, sign-ins and sign-outs, and other routine work regarding attendance. Is it wise to leave pass writing to the discretion of student workers? What is the best way to get the school board and community to listen and respond positively to our requests for additional personnel...? —"Should the general lack of neatness and cleanliness of the school plant continue to be ignored? —"When can Rose High expect some kind of auditorium? Students have often expressed the desire for more true involvement." Other questions were raised on the general school program and situation. Five questions were presented concerning teachers' rights, two of which received considerable attention. —"Why were teachers, who are closer to the situation than anyone else, the last to be heard in this present crisis?" and —"Is grading still left to the discretion of the teacher as his personal obligation and prerogative? How are we to make up work and evaluate the academic performance of students who may continue absent for a long period of time?" In the final category of questions discussed with the board, faculty members submitted the following questions dealing with discipline and regulations: —"Will officials get a consensus from teachers before policemen are removed? —"May a teacher who is threatened bodily injury in the presence of witnesses take legal action with the backing of the board and administration? —"What will be the position of the board and administration toward students who continue to defy teachers and (or) who continue to deliberately provoke trouble? —"In what way are we, as teachers, to regard the absences of students who continue staying out of school?" and —"Is there an awareness that three administrative personnel, one of whom teaches part time, simply can not hear and deal with all the problems which evolve from a 1500 enrollment?"

The consensus of the board was that some of the questions and problems posed might fall into the realm of things that concern the board, but it was pointed out many of these problems are internal ones in which the faculty, the administration and the school superintendent must work out based on their authority and ability. "Anyway, we can all work together to make the community see that a healthy situation is one where the right education can make everybody truly productive. We all know this cannot be done overnight, but even if it takes 15 years, we must start on it," remarked Mrs. Audrey Whitehurst, one of the faculty members. At the conclusion of the meeting she added: "From what we have said here tonight, you can see that we faculty members do bicker among ourselves, but we are not a house divided. We disagree, and we come to a consensus and go on from there. That has been our strength." Board member Harding Sugg told the teachers: "I want to express my personal appreciation to you. You people have caught it this year, even more than the school board. I don't see how you held on as long as you have, my hat is off to you."

What Does Guaranty Guarantee Or Seal Of Approval Approve?

By JUDY JACOB
Women's News Service

The new percolator you bought, your carpeting, your air conditioner—all gummed and sticky from seal, guaranties, promissory tags. Most so familiar you pass over them with a glance, detach and forget them—until you run into a problem.

Then you want to know what those seals and tags and stickers really mean—what they can do for you.

What does a Good Housekeeping sticker mean on your pots and pans? Is an item labeled "Listed Underwriters' Laboratories" tested and guaranteed to be safe? Is an "acceptable" rating by Consumer Reports their endorsement of the product?

Here's a rundown of some of the more familiar signs and seals and what they mean to you, the consumer.

First, those sponsored by private nonindustry sources: CONSUMER REPORTS: Published by a nonprofit organization, Consumers Union, this monthly magazine reports descriptions, test results and ratings of everything from automobiles to toothbrushes. It has no connection with commercial interests, accepts no advertising, gifts, donations or free samples. It doesn't endorse products. Findings are based on a combination of laboratory tests, controlled use tests and expert opinion or experience.

Significance to the consumer? A nonbiased source for accurate evaluation of a product with listing by brand names. No guaranties or endorsements attached.

JACOB-GUARANTY (WNS)

awarded only to those products which advertise in Good Housekeeping magazine. These have been evaluated by Good Housekeeping Institute as "good" products, whose advertising claims in the magazine are truthful.

To use the seal, products must perform the function for which they are designed reasonably well, safely and for a reasonable time. There is no evaluation against competing products. More than 1,300 products, from soup to furniture, bear the Good Housekeeping consumers' guaranty.

Significance? Good Housekeeping is not a guaranty of the product itself.

Rather, it guarantees replacement or refund if the product you buy is defective. PARENTS' MAGAZINE: Some 400 products bearing the Parents' Magazine Guaranteed Seal also must advertise in the magazine to use the seal.

Testing and evaluation are similar to those conducted by Good Housekeeping, but Parents' doesn't even represent that its own management is satisfied the products bearing its seal are "good," or that advertising claims are true. It states only that the seal is granted to products "which are suitable for families with children" and which have passed consideration by their consumer service bureau.

Significance to buyer: The guaranty seal is no guaranty of the product or its safety, only that your money will be refunded if the item will be replaced if defective and returned within 30 days of purchase.

Some of the private testing laboratories which have familiar seals of approval are:

UNDERWRITERS' LABORATORY: A nonprofit organization which tests products for more than 12,000 manufacturers all over the world.

Through testing is conducted on items which are hazardous to life or property. If only a portion of the produce is tested, this is stated on the "Listed Underwriters' Laboratory" tag.

Significance: The UL marker is not a guaranty. Rather, it signifies that an item has been tested for fire, casualty and electrical safety and can be expected to be reasonable safe for normal use.

NATIONWIDE CONSUMER TESTING INSTITUTE, INC.: This is the consumer testing branch of the U. S. Testing Co., largest diversified testing company in the United States. The name was changed to Nationwide six years ago to avoid consumer confusion and association with the United States government. There is no relationship.

The Nationwide seal is used, only on the 25 specific items certified by the lab to have passed tests for flammability, safety and performance.

Significance: Indicates product you buy has been tested and found safe for normal use.

The following organizations represent industry's attempt to set up and maintain standards for itself:

AMERICAN GAS ASSOCIATION: The blue star seal is attached to gas-operated home appliances and equipment which meet the safety standards prescribed by the American National Standards Institute (ANSI), a federation of technical, professional and trade organizations for self-regulation in industry) and adopted by the American Gas Association. This is a voluntary program for self-regulation through testing and plant inspection.

Significance: Another safety test on your home appliance.

OUTDOOR POWER EQUIPMENT INSTITUTE: Voluntary safety-testing and inspection program accepted by 92 per cent of this country's power lawnmower manufacturers.

It signifies the manufacturer certifies the mower meets ANSI standards.

POWER TOOL INSTITUTE: Seal attached to instruction sheets and literature enclosed with power tools which concur with the 18 safety rules of the organization.

This seal informs the consumer that each tool has been inspected under power, that it contains a built-in grounding system or double insulation, and that instructions are enclosed to operate the tool safely.

These are but some of the familiar seals you will find on products when you buy them. Note that none are a guarantee of the product itself, rather of its safety or performance. Note also the safety standards to which these organizations adhere are many and varied.

The inadequacies of these guaranty seals were pointed out recently by Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, New York Democrat, when testifying before the National Commission on Product Safety.

"This points up the fact that a healthy skepticism should prevail on seals that are not directly related to known tests. In short, to make intelligent use of seals, consumers must know:

- who approves the product,
- what tests were made,
- what the test results were,
- what the certification includes, and
- what the specific terms of the guarantee are and how long they are effective.

Chews On Rubber? Don't You Believe It!

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: You are my last hope. I can't consult anyone else about my problem because it is so embarrassing. I have been married for three years to a wonderful woman, but she is now threatening to divorce me for what I am about to relate to you. I swear that this will be the worst letter you have ever received.

Ever since I was a baby, I liked to chew on rubber things. Toy boats, rubber ducks, etc. It seemed to calm my nerves. All through school I chewed on pencil erasers to relieve tension, and it always worked.

I am now 35 years old, and I always carry an art gum eraser with me in case things get tense. After chewing on it for five minutes, I am relaxed and calm again.

Well, the other night my wife and I were at my boss' home for a dinner party. I felt myself getting a little tense so I reached for my rubber eraser and discovered that for the first time in my life I had forgotten it! I became panicky, so I went into the bathroom in search of a rubber object to chew on. Fortunately, I found a rubber duck belonging to their baby. Not wanting to remain in the bathroom, I took it to the hall closet and started chewing on it frantically.

Suddenly the door opened and I saw my boss standing there! He demanded that I return the rubber duck. I refused. Harsh words followed. Naturally, I lost my job, and now my wife wants to divorce me.

Don't tell me to see a psychiatrist. I can't afford it. I am depending on you, Abby. If you don't help me I will commit suicide. Help!

RUBBER CHEWER

DEAR CHEWER: Yours may not be the "weirdest" letter I've ever received, but it could be one of the phoniest. Realizing how costly psychiatric treatment is, I am sending you a check for $10,000. It's rubber! Chew on THAT for a while.

DEAR ABBY: Before I met my husband I had an affair with a married man. I foolishly "confessed" this to my husband before I married him and was told "it didn't matter now." I believed him.

I have been married to this "elephant" for four years, and now every time we have an argument he brings up "the other man."

Lately, it has become unbearable because he now tells me that I have been talking in my sleep about this man. I have no way of knowing if I really do, or if he is trying to torture me.

Now I try to keep from falling asleep before my husband, but in the morning he tells me I have talked about "him" again.

I have led a good life since my marriage, Abby. I haven't looked at another man—or cared to. But I cannot undo what has been done. So why should I be tortured for something over which I have no control? Can you help me?

MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: You could rent a tape recorder and find out whether you really do talk in your sleep. I'll bet you don't. Or you could put a piece of adhesive tape over your mouth before retiring. But your problem is NOT what comes out of YOUR mouth, it's what comes out of your husband's. If he's determined to "torture" you, he'll find other ways.

DEAR ABBY: I don't expect this to get there in time for this Christmas, but I hope you print it anyway for folks to remember for the next holiday season.

There is one present every mother would like from her children for Christmas. If one of her children would just come to her door and say, "Ma, I have come to help you for eight hours," that would be the best present in the world. And it wouldn't cost one penny!

Every Christmas since I gave birth to my first child, Christmas has been a burden. I have broken my back cleaning, scrubbing and polishing, and I have stood on my feet in the kitchen until three in the morning, cooking and baking. And when it's all over, it takes me a week to clean up the mess and put everything away.

Sure, we mothers want everything to be nice for the holidays, but if a son would ever offer to wash windows, wax the floors or polish the woodwork, we would faint.

Just once I would like to go to church on Christmas day and not be so dead tired I would sleep thru the whole sermon.

Or just once I'd like to go to somebody else's house for Christmas and not have to take the whole dinner with me.

Abby, please print this. If it hurts somebody, they NEED IT.

She Won Trip Back To Home Country

MUNICH, West Germany (WNS)—Rosario Gomez, 23, managed to leave her native Spain one month ago for a much more lucrative job in Bavaria. She attended her first Fasching costume ball in a Spanish dress that she had made herself and was overjoyed to win first prize—until she learned that first prize was a free winter trip to Spain. "I don't want to go home so soon," she cried to the judges, who quickly changed the prize to a ski vacation in the Alps.

Beauty Hints For You

From Clara Garris

We are once again this week discussing the subject of beautiful healthy hair. Truly this is a woman's crowning glory. Whether you favor long flowing locks or a comfortably clipped pretty style, along with frequent shampooing a good natural bristle brush is a necessity. Brushing night and morning stimulates the scalp and draws the oil down the hair shaft. Even for girls with oily hair, brushing is a must, as this loosens the accumulation of dirt and dust picked up during the day, and helps to clean between shampoos.

Senator Objects To Cautious Vietnam Withdrawal

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles E. Goodell said today he had learned the administration's withdrawal timetable envisions an American force of about 300,000 in Vietnam at the beginning of 1971, with "a very small troop reduction" under consideration for the following year.

The New York Republican, who did not disclose his source, said "The human and material costs of continuing so large a presence for so long are totally unacceptable."

Goodell's testimony, supporting his bill to force complete U.S. withdrawal over a one-year period, was prepared for the opening of Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings on an assortment of 10 Vietnam policy resolutions.

The administration has kept secret its timetable for U.S. troop withdrawals as South Vietnamese forces are trained to take over combat duties. President Nixon has cut authorized troop strength by 115,500 since he took office, and is planning another manpower announcement in April. The currently authorized manpower level is about 434,000.

Because of the secrecy shielding future withdrawal plans, the budget Nixon sent Congress Monday did not disclose estimates of war spending for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said "it is safe to assume" that most or all of the $5.8 billion reduction in defense spending requested in this budget as against the last could be traced to cuts in the expected cost of the war.

Nixon's budget did note "We expect that further reductions can be made in the future in U. S. troop levels."

Goodell, whose withdrawal bill already has been denounced as a "bug-out" at the White House, said administrator strategy seeks to reduce U.S. casualties to a level "acceptable to American public opinion."

"The price of present policies will be anywhere from 5,000 to 20,000 Americans dead in the next three years," the senator said. "The price will be anywhere from $40 billion to $60 billion in that period."

The Goodell proposal is a bill to impose a deadline by cutting off funds for the maintenance of U.S. forces in Vietnam after one year.

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr., R-Md., asked committee endorsement for his proposal to repeal four foreign policy resolutions produced by past crises and authorizing U.S. military action. The Gulf of Tonkin Resolution, cited as a congressional charter for past U.S. escalation in Vietnam, was among them. Mathias said that resolution has "served its purpose" all too well." Goodell said an overwhelming majority of the South Vietnamese people want peace, but are governed by a military regime which wants war. "The people of Vietnam are truly the silenced majority," he said.

Scout Event On Feb. 14

George W. Evans of Greenville, chairman of this year's Scout-O-Rama event, announced that Memorial Gym on the campus of East Carolina University has been selected as the site for the annual scouting activities.

Scheduled for Feb. 14, over 40 scouting units have signed an application for displays and demonstrations during the event. Evans said the number of applications represent an all-time high.

This year's scout-o-rama will also feature entertainment on a continuous schedule in the swimming pool and stage areas. All aspects of scouting will be demonstrated and participation will involve Cubs, Boy Scouts and Explorers.

Tickets are being sold by all scouting units through personal door-to-door visitation.

Evans has been Cub Pack Master of Pack 200 and was recently elected District Scout Commissioner.

Accepting Applicants

The Interagency Board of the U. S. Civil Service Examiners for North Carolina announces the applications for now being accepted for stenographers and typists.

Both these positions call for grades GS-3 and 4. For the stenographers, starting salary of those who are accepted are $94.00 per week for GS-3, and $106. per week for GS-4.

In the typist category, beginning salaries are $84.00 per week for GS-2 and $94.00 per week for GS-3.

Applications and further information may be secured from the Post Office in Greenville or by writing direct to the Interagency Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, 415 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh, N. C.

In all inquiries, a person should refer to Announcement Number AR-07-08.

Applications for these positions will be accepted until further notice is made.

Need To Keep High Standards

William E. Knight, head of the air pollution division of the State Department of Water and Air Resources, has summed up the air pollution problem in Pitt County.

"The problem is there, just as it is everywhere in North Carolina, but you're in much better shape there than most counties, especially those in the Piedmont area," he said.

"The problem is not extreme nor irreparable there because the area is not densely populated nor highly industrialized. Fewer people mean fewer cars to produce exhaust and since most of your industry is fairly new, most of the plants with boilers started out with gas powered ones. There have been and will be efforts to convert heating and other combustion systems to more efficient and cleaner ways of burning in the near future."

Pitt Countians can consider themselves fortunate that air pollution has not become the problem here that it is in other areas. The important thing now is to keep it that way. Our clean air here is an asset that has not been fully appreciated in the past. However, we are beginning to understand what we have as we see the urgency for cleaning up air pollution in the nation's heavily populated areas.

Here in Pitt County we should immediately begin cleaning up the air pollution we have. If town dumps are still burning, this should be halted. Public buildings or industries which put out dense smoke should be corrected as soon as possible.

As for the future, we believe we will find that most reputable industries which might seek to locate here will be willing to cooperate, in light of the national commitment to alleviate air pollution. However, this is a phase of industrial development that should be watched.

There is little we can do on a local basis about auto air pollution, but we can hope that national standards for exhaust emission will control the situation here. Locally laws involving exhaust control equipment should be enforced.

Pitt County has relatively clean air. While we want our area to develop, we should be certain that high standards are maintained for controlling air pollution.

Setting The Pattern For Medical Complex

Some observers, looking at a rendering of the new Allied Health building which is to be constructed on Charles Street, commented that it had a too-modern appearance.

The planned building does sweep skyward and projects a modern image. However, we think the building will establish the pattern for a number of buildings which will eventually make up a major medical education complex on the Charles Street campus.

The $1,375,000 Allied Health building should be of a design that looks to the future. It will be a symbol of the great future ahead in serving the medical needs of the people of North Carolina.

Nasser Hunts For New Arms

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

CAIRO — Egyptian frustration over the quality of weapons supplied by the Soviet Union is getting deeper, fueled by Israel's military superiority over President Gamal Abdel Nasser's clearly inferior forces.

The Soviets have flatly refused up to now to give Egypt its latest model SAM III anti-aircraft defenses, insisting that SAM II is good enough. At one point, Egypt had 40 of the SAM II sites, with six launchers each, but many of these have been eliminated by Israel, starting with total destruction of forward defense positions near the Suez Canal.

Having destroyed these forward defenses, Israeli aircraft are now moving against SAM II sites deep inside Egypt. With their easy penetration of Egyptian air space, they are pounding military camps and defense installations on the outskirts of Cairo.

Last Wednesday (Jan. 28), the shock of exploding bombs in a mid-morning air attack in the vicinity of suburban Maadi, for example, knocked out windows in the American School. Authorities at the school, which teaches children of the small U. S. diplomatic mission and resident American businessmen, informed Donald Bergas, top U. S. diplomat here, of the obvious fact that the attack was a threat to the school itself.

Moreover, that was the first of five separate attacks on Cairo's suburbs the past three weeks clearly visible from the center of Cairo. From balconies of Shepherd's Hotel in downtown Cairo, black puffs of exploding anti-aircraft shells were only a few miles distant. The thump-thump of exploding bombs, mixed with staccato five of heavy machine guns, sounded just around the far corner.

Although reliable eyewitnesses are scarce, most experts say that the Israelis are using the new F-4 Phantom for their attacks against Cairo. Some 22 of these American-made planes have been delivered to Israel, with 28 more to come. Both Egyptian and Western experts claim that Israel is making conspicuous use of the Phantom to exploit the growing Egyptian hostility against the U. S.

True or not, what is known for sure is that the Soviet MIG 21 and the SAM II ground-to-air missile system, with its electronic complex of radars and fire-control, are no match for these Israeli air attacks.

But the late-model SAM III, which is designed for low-level attacks, is not available from the Russians. Moscow obviously fears that this equipment might be seized by the Israelis, thus handing top secret performance characteristics to the enemy. The Soviets may also fear that their Egyptian clients lack the technological competence to handle the equipment.

In addition, Egypt badly wants a newer model bomber than the TU-16, which is no longer a front-line bomber. The 20 or so TU-16s in the Egyptian arsenal, moreover, are dispersed in hardened sites all over the Middle East, some near Aswan, some in Algeria, some near Cairo. They are virtually out of combat.

What the Egyptians want is a more modern Soviet light bomber as a threat for possible use against Israeli cities to retaliate for the growing attacks on Cairo. The Russians say "nyet." Thus there are signs here that the Egyptians are looking elsewhere for modern military hardware, but the odds against obtaining it are heavy.

Demonstrated They Like Leo

(Today's guest column for the N. C. Association of Afternoon Dailies is written by, Alvin Taylor, managing editor of the Greenville Daily Reflector.)

By ALVIN TAYLOR GREENVILLE — Greenville likes Leo. Of that there can be no doubt after the Dr. Leo Jenkins Appreciation Dinner which was held by citizens of Greenville to commemorate the tenth anniversary of Jenkins' presidency of East Carolina University.

The affair, sponsored by the Greenville Chamber of Commerce - Merchants Association, must be rated a huge success. It was originally planned for the Moose Lodge auditorium in Greenville which seats about 600. When the number of reservations exceeded this, it was moved to Minges Coliseum. Tables were set up in the big arena for serving more than 1,000 people and a caterer was called in to furnish barbecue, fried chicken, slaw, potatoes, and Brunswick stew.

Chamber Manager Harold Creech announced prior to the dinner that approximately 950 reservations had been made. This increased that night and Master of Ceremonies Joe Pugh announced that the attendance was only a little short of 1,000.

No doubt some came because of street talk in Greenville prior to the big affair that Jenkins could shed some light on speculation that he might be a gubernatorial candidate in 1972. The seasoned political observers felt there was no possibility of this, since 1972 is still too far off to begin any political campaigns.

In addition, another man who is often mentioned as a gubernatorial possibility for 1972 was on the program. That would be Robert Morgan, the state's attorney general, who is also chairman of the ECU board of trustees and perhaps East Carolina's most influential alumnus.

At any rate, the affair came off exactly as it had been billed, as an appreciation dinner for Jenkins on completion of ten years as ECU president.

Jenkins, in his talk, never mentioned the gubernatorial speculation. However there were a few comments by other speakers which set some heads nodding in the big audience.

One such comment came from Morgan, himself, as the attorney general paid tribute to Jenkins.

Morgan described Jenkins as a man who is "prominent in North Carolina life." He continued, "In the future we may expect him to become even more prominent, and perhaps in other capacities."

Then the Rev. William K. Quick, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church in Durham, described Jenkins as a "legend in his own time." He continued, "The time has arrived when we not only see Leo Jenkins as a man who heads a great institution, but as a man headed for greater things in his state."

The Leo Jenkins Appreciation Dinner was far from a kick-off for a campaign, however. It could only be described as a gathering of Greenville citizens and other friends of Jenkins to pay tribute to him for what he has done for East Carolina University.

At the conclusion of the meeting it was announced that a $500 small loan fund was being established at ECU in Jenkins' name. The fund will provide loans to students on short notice. It was also announced that a stereo system had been purchased for the Jenkins home and would be installed under the direction of Dr. Robert L. Holt, university dean. Finally Fieldcrest presented a rug to Jenkins. The circular rug had woven in it the seal of East Carolina University.

Jenkins, a New Jersey native, had warm words for his adopted state. "This could have happened only in North Carolina, for it is no secret that North Carolinians are uniquely wonderful," he declared.

If he had any future moves in mind it didn't show in his talk. Instead, he cited plans for establishing doctorate programs at ECU and developing a "first rate medical school."

First Congressional District Congressman Walter B. Jones paid tribute to Jenkins at the dinner. B. B. Sugg, Jr., a past Chamber - Merchants Association president, expressed the feelings of Greenville citizens on the occasion.

"True! But, By the Same Token, It's Difficult For Them to Say Much AGAINST Him"

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Better Life's Price Tag

This pollution thing has gone off like a Texas gusher. The President says it's the great question of the seventies, and proposes $10 billion for sewers as a starter. Senator Muskie sees his ten and raises him five. Moynihan, Hickel and Finch turn up on TV, selling the ecological pitch. Next week, bumper stickers.

At the risk of seeming to cap a public pressure that could be wonderfully good, it's time to cry "whoa." Pause. Consider. Before the country embarks upon a great ecological kick, there ought to be some understanding of the compromises that will have to be made, and of the price that will have to be paid.

Not much has been said on this score. Mostly we have been clobbered with speeches, articles, and documentaries detailing the awful mess that man has made of his planet—the dead lakes, the filthy rivers, the abandoned beaches, the smog, trash, noise, the insidious perils to survival of our species. Some of us have been writing about this pollution for years. It's gratifying to see so much apparent evidence that the public, at long last, has awakened to the situation and is prepared to take action.

Other Editors Say Progress Delayed

(Rocky Mount Telegram) Glowing prophecies have been made of the changes that will take place during the next decade.

Technology will advance so rapidly, it is said, that "experience will be obsolescent." From campus riots to a rising tide of new ideas in business management, the tempo of the times is changed, it is claimed.

History, and whatever lessons it may hold, is considered irrelevant. Nearly everyone feels constrained even in manner of dress and speech to be part of the "thing" that is sweeping the country.

Yet, in spite of all of this "progressiveness," the same old instinctive mistrust in anything new that has always been characteristic of human nature is still very much alive. Unfortunately, it involves a technological development fundamental to the future of civilization. That development is nuclear-generated electric power.

Nuclear power is the answer to growing environmental problems. It is the answer to soaring energy demands.

It is the answer to the day when population growth will outrun fossil fuel supplies.

And yet what do we find? The most painstaking efforts of the eminent authorities in the country to explain the safety and utility of the peaceful use of the atom have been frustrated.

Nuclear power plant construction in an allegedly enlightened age has been unconsciously delayed by much the same mental processes that led to the persecution of scientists centuries ago, the ridiculing of the atom when it first appeared, the denial of man's ability to fly.

Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, in speaking of current opposition to nuclear power plants, says: "Today's outcries about the environment will be nothing compared to cries of angry citizens who find power failures due to lack of sufficient generating capacity have plunged them into prolonged blackouts — not mere hours, but perhaps days — when their health and well being and that of their families may be seriously endangered."

There is an old saying that applies to those who wish to sever all ties with the technology of the future: Either put up or shut up.

I say "apparent" evidence, for a small, still voice murmurs that some aspects of the back-to-nature crusade have not been wholly thought out. Consider, if you please, the problems of electric power.

Senator Muskie has sounded the tocsin: "We cannot continue to foul our air and heat our streams in the name of electric power!" He has scheduled hearings February 3 on a bill to impose new environmental standards upon the power industry. Huzzah!

But pause. The Edison Electric Institute estimates that over the next ten years, the demand for electric power will double. Where is the doubled generating capacity to come from? Consolidated Edison, which struggles to serve nine million persons in the New York area, has been frustrated in every attempt it has made to build the facilities its people will have to have. A hydro installation on the Hudson would "destroy the grandeur of the highlands." Additional nuclear units at Indian Point would create unacceptable "thermal pollution."

Other power companies are meeting the same objections, the same delays, the same

Bonfire Of 59 Candles

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Every period of human life is like a Christmas tree—it has its good side and its bad side.

This month, while the rest of America will be celebrating the birthdays of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington, I'll be figuratively lighting a birthday cake of my own, one lit by a bonfire of 59 candles.

"How many did you say, Harold—59? Why, you don't look a year over 58. And if you look off 30 or 35 pounds, you probably wouldn't look over 57."

Well, thanks everybody, thanks. There's nothing like a kind word to lift the human spirit.

Naturally, I suppose you all want to know how I feel about being 59. Well, I feel pretty much like the fellow in a story Abraham Lincoln used to like to tell.

This man had been tarred and feathered and ridden out of town by a group of citizens he had unintentionally offended. As he was plucking the tar and feathers off himself, one lone sympathizer asked him how he felt.

"Well," said the victim ruefully, "if it weren't for the prestige, I'd just as soon have skipped the whole experience."

Becoming 59 isn't so bad in itself. What makes it memorable is that it means you are entering your 60th year of life, and that does kind of pull a fellow up short.

There are certain birthdays that make a person want to lie down and cry. With a maiden lady it is her 30th; with a man it's his 40th. With a married woman it's the year in which her last child leaves home.

The beginning of one's 60th year is also a kind of personal landmark for anybody. To reverse a common figure of speech, it is a time when he can begin to see the darkness at the end of the tunnel.

It is a time when he first really realizes—and it comes with the blow of an inner thunderclap—that he will never do again as many things as he has done before. He doesn't have that many years left.

It is a time for stocktaking and inventory. Does he need an operation or some dental work done? Better do them now, while his company's health program will help pay the medical bills.

It is time for him to read the fine print in his life and accident insurance policies and see if there are any changes to be made.

It is time for him to study his pension program. If it looks inadequate, he'll have to quit napping around pool halls and start saving more money.

It is time for him to consider giving up his worst bad habits; that is, if he can do so without his body dying from the surprise. After all, it is a considerable shock to the system to initiate reforms to it in its sixth decade.

It is time for him to get around to doing all the things he has postponed because he was too busy. For example, if he has always yearned to see Bali, now is the time to go. The girls there look better to a fellow on his feet at 59 than to one in a wheel chair at 70.

It is time, if he feels his Deity is dead or dying, to revive Him with a little heart-to-heart resuscitation.

Would you like to drink a toast with me on my 59th birthday? Thank you. By the way, make mine Geritol.

Strength For Today

THREE WORKMEN
Three workmen were engaged in the same task of trimming stone on a new cathedral.

"What are you doing?" asked a passerby of the first. "I'm trimming this stone," replied the man, without looking up.

To the second man the same question was put, and he answered with a smile of contentment, "I'm earning forty dollars a day."

But the third replied to the same question, "I'm helping to build a cathedral." The third enriched his labor by vision: he saw himself a co-worker with the Christians who dreamed the cathedral, with the architect who designed it, with his multitude of fellow workers, and with God, for whose worship and glory the pile was being reared.

There is such a thing in the world as ideals such as some people may argue to the contrary. The really great things in life are done because someone has an idea and pursues it. George Washington refused to take salary as commander of the American forces. As these words are being written men of wealth are entering great projects—and costly—to see that everything can be done to insure that men held as prisoners or reported missing in the war can be accounted for.

What will they get out of it? Nothing. We beg pardon. They are getting a billion dollars' worth of inner satisfaction.

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

Critical Month For Business

February will be a critical month in business affairs.

The economy faces three important questions:

1. Will the decline in business become so general that the public becomes aware of it and reacts more vigorously than it has?

2. Will the Federal Reserve act to lower interest rates?

3. What will be the policies of the new Federal Reserve chairman, Dr. Arthur Burns?

Most of the answers will be indicated or resolved in the next 28 days.

Possible Answers
It is probable that an awareness of the recession will increase. Layoffs and unemployment may spread as more industries reduce inventories. This will slow consumer spending which, in turn, may add to layoffs. Another spell of bad weather, not unlikely in February, may further slow business.

There have been some hints that interest rates may be lowered slightly. Under secretary of the Treasury Charles E. Walker told New York financial writers interest rates will fall sooner and further than some people think. He said up to one third to one half of the cost of money is due to inflationary expectations, and that once business is convinced that inflation would be checked, interest rates will fall.

He was referring to the fact that people and institutions with money to lend presently want extra interest to compensate for the lower purchasing power of their money when they get it back, as well as payment for the use of their funds. If lenders were sure that a dollar loaned today would still be worth a dollar when it is repaid, they would be content with lower interest.

Spirit Of Caution

However, Alfred Hayes, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, told New York state bankers that it is too early to ease the government's anti-inflation campaign. He is right in that while fiscal measures have so far slowed business, they have not yet slowed the rise in prices or wages. While these keep on rising, inflation will still be with us.

Further, the last time the government adopted a tight-money policy to slow down inflation, it relaxed too quickly and inflation surged ahead.

Dr. Burns is fully aware of this and he will probably proceed cautiously as new Fed head. His natural conservatism will strengthen that stand.

Some clue to future interest rates will come Feb. 15 when the Treasury refinances a large block of maturing 4 per cent bonds. If it has to pay 8 per cent, as some observers expect, it will be an indicator that no immediate interest rate cut is in sight. If it were, the Treasury would probably use short-term bills until rates lowered.

Count Six Traffic Accidents In City

An estimated $3,675 property damage resulted yesterday from a series of six traffic mishaps investigated by Greenville police.

Only one person was reported injured in the series of wrecks. Police identified her as Margaret Pauline Briley of Route 1, Stokes, the driver of one of three cars involved in a 6:15 p.m. accident on U.S. 264 1,000 feet West of the Charles Street intersection.

The other drivers involved were listed as Earl Junior Gay, 37, of 906 Howell St. and Doris Degraff Baker, 23, of 507 West Third St.

Damage was set of $800 to the Gay car, $500 to the Briley vehicle and $200 to a truck driven by Mrs. Baker.

Mrs. Briley was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of the mishap.

An estimated $200 damage resulted to each of two vehicles involved in an 8:10 a.m. mishap at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Memorial Drive which involved cars driven by Martha Hill, 21-year-old Negro of Route 6, Greenville and Ernest Herman Ray, 41-year-old Negro of Route 1, Rich Square.

Mrs. Hill was charged with failing to reduce her speed enough to avoid an accident.

Walter Frederick Schepher Jr., 20, of New Bern was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident following investigation of an 8:56 a.m. collision at the intersection of Fifth Street and Rotary Avenue.

Police said the Schepher vehicle collided with a car driven by Michael Lee Aldridge, 19, of 1704 Knolwood Dr. and caused an estimated $300 damage to the Schepher vehicle and $250 damage to the Aldridge car.

Cars driven by Henry Leon Grimes, 27, of 618 Hudson St. and Lissie Bell Roberts, of 1910A Norcott Circle collided about 10:05 p.m. at the intersection of Fifth and Hudson streets and caused about $200 damage to the Grimes vehicle and about $250 damage to the Roberts car.

Grimes was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

In a 1:15 p.m. mishap at the Tenth and Lawrence Streets intersection, cars driven by Emilie Sue Hagan, 17, of 207 South Library St. and Leonard Lloyd Little, 31, of 2603 East

Sell-Out Crowd For Rubenstein

It was all in a night's work for Artur Rubenstein, but once in a lifetime for many in the Greenville audience last night as a well-out crowd of more than 2000 listened in awe to the white-haired magician of the keyboard.

The venerable grandfather of the grandpiano toyed with two impromptus by Schubert to open the program. He then settled into the Sonata in F Minor, Opus 57, by Beethoven as one settles into a favorite lounging chair and a pair of old shoes. The Third St. collided.

Damage was placed at $200 to the Hagan car and $300 to the Little vehicle.

Hagan was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign.

Jimmy Franklin Gaylor, 20, of Jacksonville was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident following investigation of a 12 noon mishap on Tenth Street 200 feet east of the Anderson Street intersection.

Officers said the Gaylor vehicle collided with a car driven by Paul Raymond Kosoner, 25, of Greenville.

Damage was set at $75 to the Kosoner car and $200 to the Gaylor vehicle.

rendition was brilliantly poetic. Two compositions by Debussy opened the second part of the concert, followed by Chabrier's "Scherzo Valse". The flamboyance of the old maestro began to really show.

Rubenstein was his best with Chopin: The "Nocturne in F sharp Major" held the audience completely spell-bound. Two études by the same composer carried the audience right into the finale, the grand finale — "Polonaise in A flat Major".

Wright auditorium shook with the thunderous applause of the standing ovation and shouts of "Bravo". The performer graciously gave three encores to the appreciative concert-goers.

Rubenstein, who is a veteran of some 60 years of public performance, is a gracious, kind and sensitive man. This was exemplified last night, when, as unfortunately so often happens, the audience applauded very generously and loudly between movements of the Sonata, even though the program told them there would be three movements and the artist tried to go on.

His many years have taught him to put a nervous and overzealous audience at ease, as he so beautifully did.

He is a showman, a poised and polished performer, a master. Greenville has seen a legend in his own time. —JANE KELLER.

Larry White Wins Optimist Club Oratorical Award Here

Larry White, a ninth grade student at E. B. Aycock Junior High School, was the winner of the Greenville Optimist Club oratorical contest held here last night.

His subject and that of the other eight contestants was "Youth, Full Partners in a Better Tomorrow." First runner-up was Gerry Sutton of Stokes, second runner-up, first - place winner, Kilpatrick . . .

kind of lawsuits and intervenors' petitions. Very well. The Hudson is among the most beautiful rivers of the world. Trees are prettier than transmission lines. Doubtless the delicate ecological balance of marine life can be disrupted by changes in the temperature, salinity, and oxygen content of water.

But where is the point of compromise between the needs and life style of nine million humans, and the needs and life style of fish? Are we prepared, in computing the price of environmental improvement, to cut back on air conditioning? To give up electric appliances? To pay the higher rates that underground lines and smog-free plants would require?

The same questions have to be asked of the automobile. Yes, the auto industry can design and produce a battery-powered car, or a steam-powered car, or a virtually emission-free internal combustion engine. But the foreseeable electric and steamers would be slow, and the smogless engine promises to be costly. Will we buy?

What of pesticides? Out at the University of Wisconsin, the students are demanding an end to university testing of all pesticides. But do the students really want to go back to a society of houseflies, mosquitoes, cockroaches and bedbugs? Probably not. Then man cannot get out of the God business entirely. Willy-nilly, we must continue to tinker with the ecological balance.

All I am saying is that, peace, the crusade is marvelous. But even the most modest goals will demand heavy sacrifices in money, convenience, and personal freedom: they will demand tough standards and tough enforcement, higher taxes, high prices, different priorities in public spending. If this is understood, let us tighten our buckles and get on with the job.

Stephenson, Optimist president, announced that Larry will next compete in the zone contest, which will be held in Greenville this year on March 9. This zone consists of Optimist Clubs in Wilson, Rocky Mount, Tarboro, and Goldsboro, as well as Greenville.

Other boys who delivered speeches last night were David Moore of Pactolus Elementary School, Tommy Miller of E. B. Aycock Junior High, and Gary Beacham of Stokes-Pactolus High School.

Three boys who were eliminated in a preliminary runoff held Saturday were Danny Gonzalez, Willis Pierce, and Donnie Crisp, all of Pactolus Elementary School.

Boys' work co-chairmen for the event were Dr. Bill Durham and Pete Carraway. Max

The French, Germans, British, and Italians, for example, aren't about to send new electronic equipment to Nasser for inspection by Soviet technicians here.

But on less sophisticated hardware, Masser is getting help from both the British and the Germans. West Germany has agreed to supply 5,000 Mercedes trucks to the Egyptian army to replace Soviet trucks which, because of the extreme difference in climate, constantly overheat and break down in the Egyptian desert. From England, the Egyptians are now obtaining modern survival equipment for downed pilots (further evidence of the critical shortage of trained pilots).

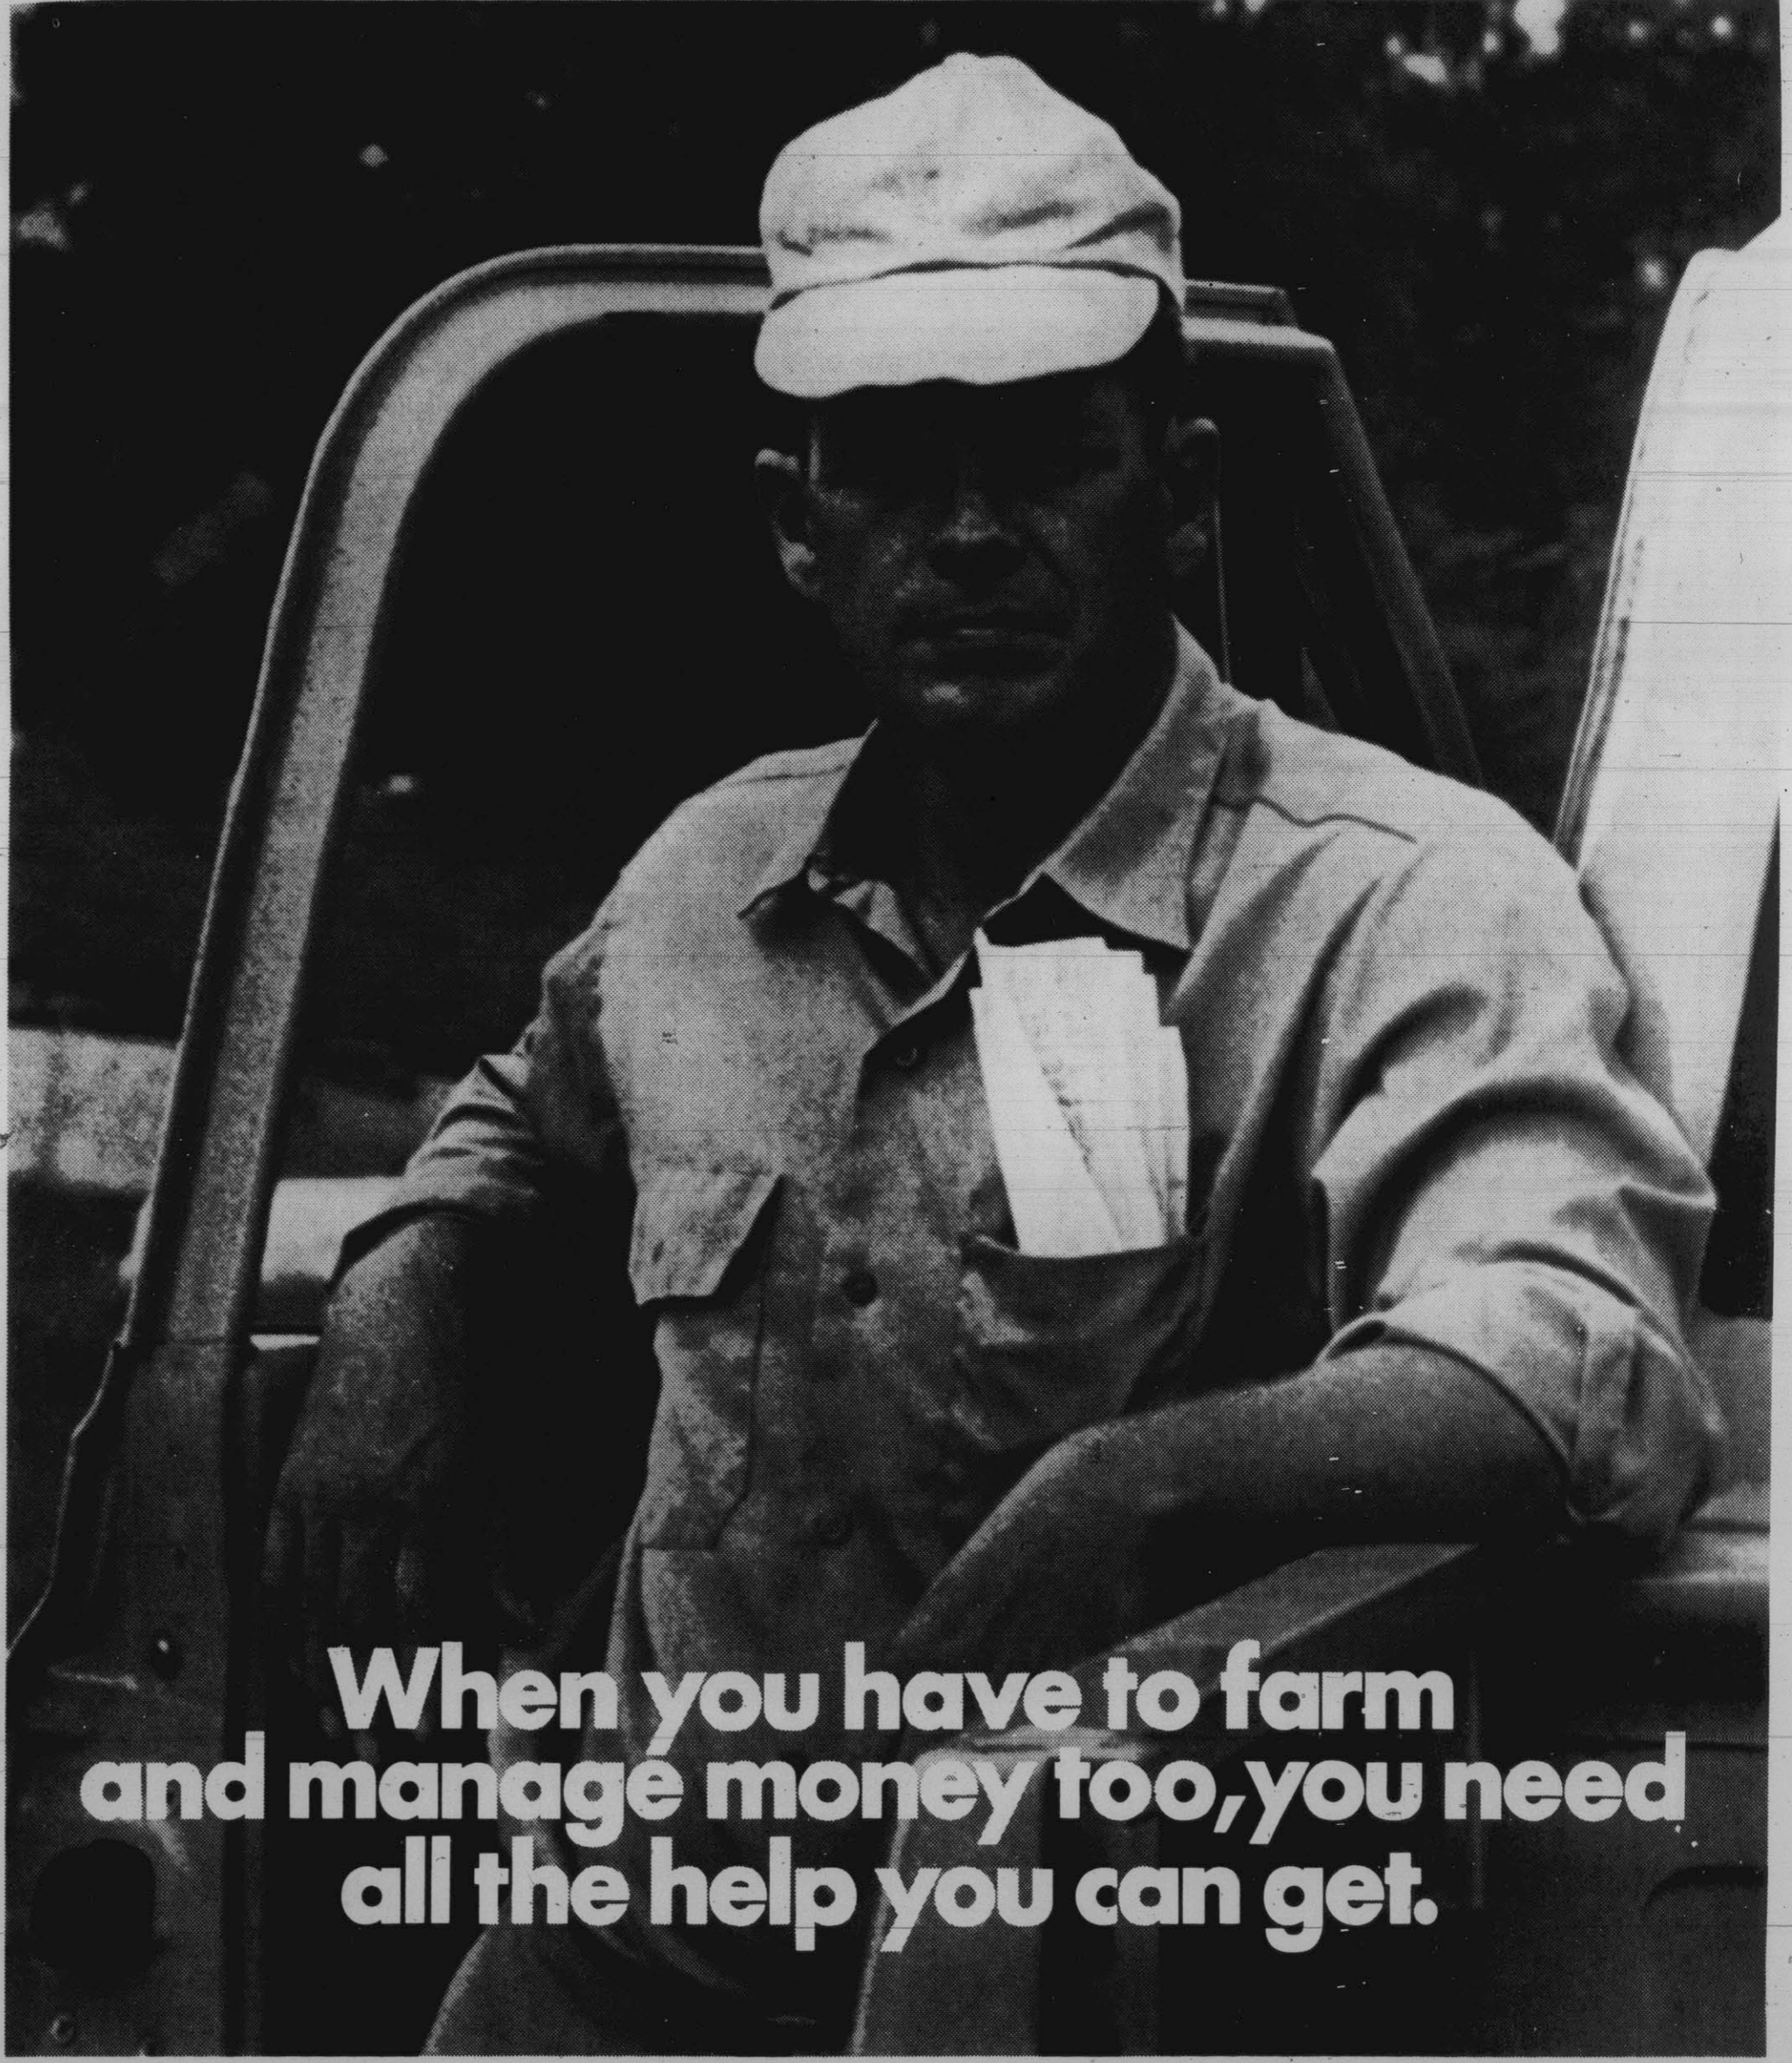

But this is peanuts. As an underdeveloped country in battle against probably the most sophisticated military force in the world today, trucks and survival kits are not even a finger in the dike.

South Carolina 2nd; State Climbs To 5th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Mighty UCLA, which ran its perfect record through 16 games last week while upset tremors rocked half a dozen other top teams, was the unanimous No. 1 choice today in The Associated Press' major college basketball poll.

UCLA, the nation's only unbeaten major power following the initial falls of Kentucky, St. Bonaventure and Jacksonville, received all 31 first place votes in the weekly ballot of sports writers and sportscasters across the country.

The Bruins remained firmly entrenched atop the pack with a total of 620 points after whipping California 87-72 Friday night and trashing Stanford 102-84 Saturday night. Once-beaten South Carolina won three games during the week and climbed from fourth place to the No. 2 spot, replacing Kentucky, with 534 points.

Kentucky, ambushed by Vanderbilt 89-81 Saturday, slipped to third position and St. Bonaventure, upended by Villanova 64-62 earlier in the week, dipped from No. 3 to No. 4. Jacksonville, sixth a week ago, fell to eighth following an 89-83 loss to Florida State.

New Mexico State, Marquette and Illinois also stumbled—and lost ground in the rankings. The Aggies, downed by Creighton 72-68, dropped from fifth to sixth; the Warriors, knocked off by Chicago Loyola 76-72, from seventh to ninth and the Illini, stunned by Notre Dame 86-83, from No. 10 to No. 14.

North Carolina State, which won twice, moved up from eighth to fifth; North Carolina jumped from ninth to seventh after winning its only regular start and Penn., a two-time winner, switched positions with Illinois.

Rose Matmen Nip Goldsboro

GOLDSBORO — Rose High School's Wrestling Rampants wrapped up second place in Division II last night with an exciting 22-20 victory over Goldsboro High School.

The Rampants fought back from behind twice, and took the match when Sidney Hardee got a pin over Larry Wiggs in the final match of the evening.

The win left the Rampants with a 4-1 divisional record, just behind New Bern's unbeaten Bears. Rose stands 8-3 overall.

Saturday, Rose will participate in the divisional tournament, to be held in Goldsboro. Qualifying matches begin at 10 a.m., with the semi-finals at 2:30 p.m. and the finals at 7:30 p.m.

Summary:
101: Glenn Nichols (R)

decisioned Mike Lane, 12-8.

Indians To Try To Stop 'Cats

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

William and Mary's Indians put their heads on the chopping block tonight in a basketball game at Davidson that offers the home-standing Wildcats some extra incentive for victory—as if they needed any.

Unbeaten by Southern Conference foes for longer than anyone else in the league cares to remember, the Cats will be after their 28th consecutive SC victory—and their 53rd straight triumph in Johnston Gym.

But besides all this, there's another reason for Davidson to covet a win over W&M. If they beat the Indians, they'll move within one victory of clinching No. 1 seeding in the SC tournament Feb. 26-28 at Charlotte.

Davidson carries a 7-0 conference log and a 14-3 over-all mark into the game. William and Mary is 3-2 in league play and 7-10 against all comers, but has won two out of three post-examination starts.

The game at Davidson is one of two on tap tonight for SC teams, both of which count in the standings. The other finds Richmond's Spiders, 1-6 in SC play and tied for the basement with VMI, visiting The Citadel, 2-4.

George Washington's Colonials boosted their conference mark to 5-2 and moved into a second-place tie with East Carolina by rubbing helpless VMI 107-79 Monday night at Lexington.

Walt Sczerbiak poured in 32 points and 22 rebounds for GW and was aided and abetted by Mike Tallent, who scored 23 points.

Baby Bucs Roll Past Frederick By 114-85

PORTSMOUTH, Va. — East Carolina University's freshmen rolled to a 114-85 victory over Frederick Military Academy here last night for their second straight victory.

The victory raised the Pirate record to 6-8 for the season, while forward Dave Franklin played his best game. He broke two season highs for the freshmen, and tied a freshman record.

Franklin finished the game with 39 points, 10 better than the season's previous high, also held by Franklin, and also set against Frederick. He pulled down 25 rebounds, four more than he had against Frederick in the first meeting. Those 25 also tied a freshman record, held by Jim Gregory, now a junior.

Franklin's play was the key to the first half's play by the Baby Bucs, which saw them build up a 20 point lead only to lose 11 of it. He poured in 20 points in the first 20 minutes, then came back with 19 more as he paced the rebuilding of the wide spread in the second half.

The Bucs were never in any great trouble in the game. They took the opening lead in the game and led all the way. They built up their 20-point spread with three-minutes left, 50-30, but Frederick outscored them, 16-5, for the rest of the period to make it 55-46 at the end of the half.

In the second half, however, the Bucs quickly built their lead back out to 12, and never fell below that again. They ran the margin out to as much as 31 points near the end, when they led, 108-77 with 2:33 to play. Besides Franklin's production, Al Faber dumped in 19 points and pulled down 14 rebounds. Steve McKenzie added 16 points, while Phil Shaffer had 13 and Roland Leggett had 12. Guard Dave McNeil missed the game due to illness.

East Carolina: Franklin 39, McKenzie 16, Faber 19, Pope 9, Leggett 12, Downing, Shaffer 13, Redmond 6.
Frederick: Seiderman 8, Maneely 29, Stevens 16, Harwood 21, Adams 5, Waters 4, Bailey, Cremins 2, Melvin.
East Carolina 53 59-114
Frederick 46 39-85

Tickets On Sale

Tickets for Thursday night's East Carolina-Jacksonville game are still available, according to East Carolina Athletic Business Manager Bill Cain.

"We still have good seats left," he said.

Cain said Southern Conference Basketball Tournament tickets have also been placed on sale at Minges Coliseum. These will be available through Monday. Cost of the three-day season books is $15.

Cain also reminded that the East Carolina-William and Mary game has been switched to Friday at 8 p.m., rather than the original date of Saturday.

The ticket office in Minges Coliseum is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Unitas Is Decade's Top Pro Footballer

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Unitas, the precision passer who has gained 20 miles in the air since starting his career as a $6-a-game quarterback, was named Pro Football Athlete of the Decade today in a special poll taken by The Associated Press.

The Baltimore Colts' quarterback, the all-time leading passer in pro football history, easily outdistanced three other stars who have played significant roles in the sport's impact on the American scene in the 1960s — Bart Starr, Jimmy Brown and Joe Namath.

Unitas received 223 votes from the sports writers and sportscasters participating in The AP poll. Starr, veteran Green Bay quarterback, was second with 124½. Brown, now retired, received 105 votes and Namath 71.

Unitas, whose career spans 14 years in which pro football has risen to take its place as the country's No. 1 sports spectacle, originally was picked off the sandlots by Baltimore after the club received a fan letter heralding his ability.

"I always accused Johnny of writing it," says Weeb Ewbank, the current coach of the New York Jets who was Unitas' coach at Baltimore. "Unitas was signed after a letter by a fan came to the club telling us there was a player he had seen deserving of a chance."

The Colts took a look—and the rest is history.

Unitas, a classic passer and brilliant field general who is the master of the audible called at the line of scrimmage, has attempted more passes (4,456), completed more passes (2,450), gained more yards (35,502) and thrown more touchdowns (266) than any other player in history.

The man who knows him best, his longtime No. 1 target, Ray Berry, explains Unitas the quarterback this way:

"I can tell you about his uncanny instinct for calling the right play at the right time, his icy composure under fire, his fierce competitiveness and his utter disregard for his own personal safety."

Unitas needed all those attributes in the 1958 championship game against the New York Giants—a game won by Baltimore in sudden death which since has been celebrated as a game that, because of its drama, attracted new fans to the sport.

The Colts trailed 17-14 with time running out in the fourth quarter when Unitas marshalled his troops at their own 14-yard line.

Berry vividly recalls that moment as the Colts went into the huddle and says Unitas just said matter-of-factly:

"We've got some 80 yards to go and two minutes to do it in. Now we find out what stuff we're made of."

Unitas and the Colts both found-out when he moved them into position for a game-tying field goal by Steve Myhra and then took them on a 13-play, 80-yard drive capped by Alan Ameche's one-yard run for the winning touchdown in sudden death.

Starr made his impact felt in Green Bay's glory days under Vince Lombardi while Brown still stands as the model for all heavy-duty running backs. Namath, of course, made his presence felt with his $400,000 contract and by engineering the New York Jets' Super Bowl victory over the Colts.

Rounding out the top 10 vote-getters were Chicago running back Gale Sayers, Green Bay running back Paul Hornung, Chicago linebacker Dick Butkus, Los Angeles quarterback Roman Gabriel, Oakland place-kicker and quarterback George Blanda and Minnesota quarterback Joe Kapp.

Others receiving more than one vote were Ray Nitschke, O.J. Simpson, Y.A. Tittle, Sonny Jurgensen, Jerry Kramer, Sam Huff, Daryle Lamonica, Jim Otto, Lance Alworth and Don Meredith.

Exchange Starts Title Countdown

The Book Exchange began the countdown last night to another City League Championship, as it defeated Campus Corner, 95-75. That win, combined with ROTC's 74-64 victory over Watson, combined to eliminate the Electricians from any shot at the title.

In the other game, Coca-Cola downed the Jaycees, 70-63.

Book Exchange now posts an 8-1 record, while Coke is second with a 6-3 mark. Campus Corner and the Jaycees are tied for third with 5-4 records, while ROTC is 2-7, and Watson is 1-8.

In the opener, the Jaycees pushed out into a 31-25 lead in the first half over Coke, but it didn't last. Coke came back in the second half to outscore the Jaycees, 45-32, and take the win.

John Lynn led Coke with 22 points, while Wayne Hardee had 16 and John Taylor had 10. For the Jaycees, Tex Everett had 31, while Larry Graham had 11.

ROTC pushed out into a 32-25 lead in the first half of its game, and never fell behind after that. In the second half, ROTC outhit Watson, 42-39, to wrap it up.

Asby Elmore led ROTC with 34 points, while Gary Schaal had 18. For Watson, Tommy Jamieson had 18, Randy Briley had 16 and Jim Woods had 15.

Leader Book Exchange had little trouble in its win. It pushed out into a 46-37 lead at halftime, and then outscored Campus Corner, 49-38 in the second half. Johnny Hardison led Book Exchange with 25 points, while Charles Whitehurst and Walt Claybrook each had 24 and Tommy Jordan added 10. For Campus Corner, Mac Porter had 37, while Mike Joyner had 14.

South's attempt to throw dust into his opponent's eyes in today's hand backfired when it served only to call attention to his own weakness.

When South's two heart response received a direct raise from the opening bidder, it stirred his slam blood to the boiling point and with good cause. We would not be adverse to a direct bid of six hearts at this point. The chances are reasonably good that the slam will be a laydown and, in the event it is not, the burden will be placed on the opposition to find the killing lead.

South was determined to bid a slam all right, but he decided to drag a red herring across the trail first in an attempt to bamboozle his opponents. He made a fake cue bid of four clubs. When North returned to four hearts as expected, South now leaped to a small slam.

West toyed with the idea of leading the ten of diamonds from his sequence but there was a nagging thought pervading his mind concerning the bidding. Apparently South had it in his mind to bid a slam all along, since his four club call had failed to uncover any additional information. Furthermore, if he was not fully prepared for a diamond lead, how could he proceed to six hearts so blithely?

The more West thought about South's cue bid, the more it struck him as an out-and-out phony. He finally decided to lead the five of clubs, and against this opening, declarer was helpless. Dummy's ace of clubs was dislodged before South could establish the spades, and the latter was forced to acknowledge defeat as the price of his sin.

The Worry Clinic 'Madness' Is Just Symptom

Lottie's case illustrates several basic laws of psychiatry. All wives need to be alerted to them! And please realize that a formerly good man may become emotionally "sick," so don't divorce him at least till he is again back to normalcy. For this husband's sex madness was merely a symptom!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

CASE M-516: Lottie D., aged 38, faces a sexual crisis. "Dr. Crane," she began, "my problem is my husband! For he is 42 and has recently started chasing around with a secretary only half his age. He affronts me and our teen-age children, for he flaunts his paramour. "Since we live in a small city of 15,000 population, all our friends are aware of his philandering.

Buck Passing
Please notice Lottie's final question. This is typical of women, for they try to save their own conscience by wanting their clergyman or doctor to make this vital decision for them. Then they can feel free of any blame in the future, for they can thus say: "My doctor (or pastor) advised me to get the divorce!"

But all smart Marriage Counselors avoid this trap. We don't make the moral decisions for our patients but merely help them analyze all the pros and cons. Then we leave the actual decision up to the patient. At first glance, many of you readers would regard Lottie's husband as a "heel" and even a social sadist for thus exposing his wife, as well as his children, to such humiliation in their small city.

And I'll freely admit that he has gone emotionally berserk to the point that may merit regard him as losing his mind. But on our psychiatric test, he would still be oriented to time, place and person. And he is still a shrewd business executive, operating his own plant quite efficiently.

Only in this sexual realm has he become emotionally intoxicated. And people can become emotionally intoxicated to the point where they will act as stupidly as when inebriated via whiskey! So I pointed out to Lottie the fact that her mate was simply psychologically "sick."

He was much like a feverish patient who was delirious. To divorce him now, without trying diligently to help him out of his emotional illness, would be comparable to deserting him if he suffered from hallucinations due to typhoid fever.

Besides, I warned Lottie that she'd only receive an alimony check thereafter, which is always less than a good husband's full pay check. She would also advertise her defeat as a wife, for divorce is a public admission of marital bankruptcy.

And she might thus push her "sick" husband into an unwise marriage with this youthful paramour. So I reminded Lottie that though many husbands go berserk after 40, due to their fear of waning erotic vigor, they still don't really love their paramour. No; she is merely a sexual tonic to bolster their humiliated sex ego.

Most of the philandering husbands will freely admit they'd rather have an affair with their wife than with their paramour. "But our wives are stodgy and refuse to pick up their erotic cues," reply these men. So I urged Lottie to fight fire with fire! See tomorrow's follow-up. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Price Raised By Clean Towel

LONDON (UPI)—A spokesman for British Rail said the cost for using restrooms at the Euston and Victoria stations would be increased from sixpence (six cents) to one shilling (12 cents) to include a clean towel in the service. And if you don't want a clean towel? "Too bad," said the spokesman. "It will still cost one shilling."

Special 'Hamlet' Performance For Students Of Area

It was announced today that a special "student" performance has been added to the East Carolina Playhouse production of "Macbeth". Originally set to run February 17-21, "Macbeth" will now open with the student performance Monday, February 16 at 8:15 p.m.

James Slaughter stated, "Due to the tremendous pre-show response to 'Macbeth' on the ECU campus, and due to numerous requests from teachers in our area who wish to bring school groups, we feel it is necessary to add a performance to accommodate them." "Students study Shakespeare in all four years of high school," Slaughter said, "and we feel a live performance of one of his most famous tragedies would be an enlightening and entertaining educational experience."

The Playhouse production of "Macbeth" is directed by Edgar R. Loessin, and features Claude Woolman and Amanda Muir, both veterans of the New York stage, in the roles of Macbeth and his queen. The special Monday performance will be open to high school students only at a reduced admission price. Slaughter urged teachers interested in bringing groups to make reservations early since only 750 seats are available. Reservations and information are available at McGinnis Auditorium, by mail at Box 2712 in Greenville, and by phone at 758-6390.

Says Carbon For Future Spaceships

By PETER M. KELLY
LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (UPI)—A Los Alamos scientist is using cookbook methods and ingredients in his laboratory to turn out a carbon substance that he predicts will be used in spaceships of the future.

The substance is vitreous or glassy carbon and, until his wife kicked him out of their kitchen, Earl Fullman spent his evenings producing the shiny black matter by charring cake mix in the oven. Fullman began cooking for carbon—the same stuff housewives scrape from their ovens after baking—because he found it was an excellent insulator for crystals and other items undergoing high temperature tests at Los Alamos.

Since he began experimenting with the carbon, Fullman has found a number of uses for it. "We can now make a furnace using it," he said. "It makes a remarkable thermal insulator (and) we've made it hard enough to scratch glass and even quartz."

Fullman said that in addition to being a good insulator "we can build resistance into a vitreous resistance heater and use a 110 or 220-volt power source" enabling the carbon to become an electrical conductor. According to the scientist, high temperature reactors and spaceships of the future probably will be insulated with the glassy carbon. "It (the carbon) has little weight, good strength and is one of the best thermal insulators going," he said.

Fullman predicts, however, an end to what he calls the "cake, sugar and egg white" method of producing the carbon. A new mixture of phenol and formaldehyde, according to Fullman, "has better strength and is less dangerous to work with."

He said when the cookbook ingredients are subjected to high temperatures, a deadly gas, hydrocyanic acid, is emitted requiring the process of producing the carbon to be carried out under ventilation hoods.

Oklahoma produced 122,383,000 bushels of winter wheat in 1968.

Navy Missile Feat In Vietnam Comes To Light

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer.
WASHINGTON (AP)—Secrecy surrounds it, but officers are saying privately one of the most successful Navy feats in Vietnam was a 1968 missile launch some admirals feared might undermine the Paris peace talks.

Involved, ironically, was the Navy's Talos Missile, one of a series of ship-to-air weapons highly criticized in Congress in recent years as unreliable. The Navy turns aside all questions about the incident, but sources report Talos missiles destroyed two North Vietnamese MIG jets in May and June of 1968.

No Services, Demands Salary

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Estelle Dillingham Donen, estranged wife of film producer Stanley Donen, admits she performs no service for his company but maintains she is entitled to a weekly salary.

The shots occurred in a combat setting in the Gulf of Tonkin but actually were more of a staged test of Talos' capability than a battle action. The ship that launched them was not under attack nor, officers believe, did the MIG's suspect they were being targeted. Generally credited with having a 65-mile range, the Talos missiles knocked down the two enemy planes as they flew along North Vietnam at distances variously estimated by officers at 78 to as much as 110 miles.

First-Hand Look By First Lady

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Richard M. Nixon plans a tour of the Chicago-Indianapolis areas for a first hand view of conservation, reclamation and pollution control efforts. Announcing this Monday, her press secretary, Constance Stuart, said "she wants to see for herself" what is being done. No details of Mrs. Nixon's itinerary were made public.

distant range at which the missiles scored their kills was one reason the Navy brass did not wish to publicize the operation. Details of weapons' capabilities are routinely kept secret.

But the admirals, according to knowledgeable officers, also were afraid they might be accused of introducing a new weapon in Vietnam at the very time the bombing of the North had been curtailed and the Paris negotiations were getting under way.

They feared Hanoi might use the incident, the first time U.S. surface-to-air-missiles were used in Vietnam as an excuse for not talking.

The first MIG was struck as it flew out of Hanoi May 23, 1968.

Only a few weeks before, President Lyndon B. Johnson had gotten Hanoi to agree to negotiate by limiting the bombing of North Vietnam to that country's Southern Panhandle.

The second missile hit came in June, still in the early stages of the Paris peace talks. The secrecy imposed during that period became set policy which the Navy refused to alter even after the negotiations turned out to be generally fruitless.

Sources say the Pacific Command, which calls the shots for the 7th Fleet off Vietnam, twice has turned down requests by information officers to release information on the operation.

Slogans Out, Offer Basic Suggestions

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Fourteen Princeton University students, hearing detailed suggestions instead of slogans, are experimenting with opening lines of communication between the campus set and Washington's foreign policymakers.

So far, so good, according to their leader Stephen Fuzesi Jr., who says they got a good hearing Monday from Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Charles

Will Be Wed, If Decisions Made

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Kim Darby and actor James Westmoreland plan to marry Friday, providing they can decide on a church.

A spokesman said Monday the couple's honeymoon plans also were indefinite.

Westmoreland, 34, appeared regularly on "The Monroes" television series and has had other TV roles and movie parts in this country and in Europe.

Miss Darby recently completed her fourth starring film assignment in "The Strawberry Statement." Earlier, the 23-year-old actress played opposite John Wayne in "True Grit."

E. Goodell, R-N.Y. Fuzesi, 21, of Hamden, Conn., says this effort "to re-establish a dialogue between students and our government" is not an attempt to undercut the student protest movement.

The young, he said, are going to have to accept more responsibility during the coming decade and they have a right to a say on developing policy.

In all, 20 Princeton students spent 14 weeks researching and developing policy recommendations which they are reviewing in their sessions with some senators, congressmen and Nixon administration leaders.

The experiment, Fuzesi said, is part of the students' program of school work concentrated toward careers in the public service field.

Fuzesi said the students are not here to disrupt the functions of government or to look around as part of a routine school visit to the city.

The students seek support for such proposals as ending nuclear proliferation immediately, stopping development of an antiballistic missile system, and withdrawing all American combat forces from Vietnam within a year.

Egypt And Israel Exchange Border Aerial Raids

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Egyptian warplanes attacked along the Suez Canal today and hit Israeli troops in what was described here as a "hit-and-run attack."

The military command said two Egyptian jets made the foray, causing no casualties but slight damage to one Israeli emplacement north of Eltara, near the Mediterranean end of the 103-mile-long waterway.

Israel retaliated within an hour, pounding Egyptian military positions at the northern and southern sectors of the canal as well as targets at the top of the Gulf of Suez, the military spokesman said.

He reported all Israeli planes returned safely to base.

The sparrow hawk is the smallest of the North American falcons.

Quinerly and wife, Marjorie P. Quinerly, to William E. Hutch and wife, Ruth S. Hutch, by deed dated February 16, 1959, and recorded in Book C-31 at page 73 of said Registry.

The above described property is conveyed subject to and impressed with the restrictive covenants of record in that certain instrument recorded in Book C-31 at page 73 in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County.

The above described property will be offered for sale at the time and place above indicated subject to all unpaid taxes, encumbrances and restrictive covenants of record. The successful bidder at said sale will be required to deposit with the trustee an amount in cash equal to 10 per cent of his bid to show good faith in the bidding.

This 28th day of January, 1970, R. B. Lee, Trustee
Feb. 3, 10, 17, 24, 1970

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in that certain deed of trust executed by Henry White, Jr. and wife, Janie W. White, dated the 2nd day of February, 1962, and recorded in Book L-38, Page 144, in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County; and under and by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned as substituted trustee by an instrument of writing dated the 7th day of January, 1970, and recorded in Book Y-38, Page 440, in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness thereby secured and the said deed of trust being by the terms thereof subject to foreclosure, and the holder of the indebtedness thereby secured having demanded a foreclosure thereof for the purpose of satisfying said indebtedness, the undersigned substituted trustee will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash:

AT THE COURTHOUSE DOOR IN GREENVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA, AT 12 NOON, on the 24th day of FEBRUARY, 1970, the land conveyed in said deed of trust, the same lying and being in the City of Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, and more particularly described as follows:

Beginning on the western right of way of Elizabeth Street at the dividing corner between R. C. Stokes, Jr. lot and the Pruitt lot, the said beginning point being North 18 East 72 feet from the northwest intersection of Ward Street and Elizabeth Street and running thence North 72 West 115 feet to the back fence; thence with the back fence North 18 East 71.4 feet; running thence South 72 East 115 feet to the western right of way line of Elizabeth Street; running thence with the western right of way line of Elizabeth Street, South 18 West 71.4 feet to the point of Beginning, the same being the Home Residence and Lot of the late W. D. Pruitt, and further being a portion of the property conveyed by W. C. Hines and wife, Vinie D. Hines to W. D. Pruitt and wife, Mittie F. Pruitt by deed dated March 18, 1909, duly registered in Book E-9 at page 380 of the Pitt County Registry.

The above property is to be sold subject to unpaid taxes and assessments, if any. The Substituted Trustee may require a deposit of 10 per cent at the time of the sale.

Find Optimism In 'The Concept'

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Most young people and concerned adults who attended the play, "The Concept," held here last night, came away with an optimistic feeling that the fight against drug addiction is not futile, that it can be prevented and it can be cured.

The eight actors are living proof that addiction, even to hard drugs like heroin, is not incurable—all of them are former addicts who are now functioning as responsible and creative people. Their ages average 21, but together they have experienced 40 years of heroin addiction and have completed 12 drug-free years at Daytop Village, a halfway home in New York for addicts who want to be cured.

The first scene was powerful. One by one they walked onto the improvised stage in the center of their audience made up mostly of high school students and each vented the feelings he had upon entering Daytop: Herb — "I need love." Al — "I don't care." Sandy — "I'm lonely." Paul — "I'm frightened." Jimmy — "I hate you." Barbara — "I'm angry." Joe — "I'm getting mine." and John — "I've got no problems."

After this it took a few minutes for the audience to catch the spark of The Concept that the way to overcome drugs was to face oneself honestly and want to quite the old dependent way of life. Others have to help and that is the job of the older members of the Daytop family — to make the newcomer face himself and his old irresponsible actions.

As the plot unfolds, several important phases of life at Daytop are shown. Three of these are encounters, or group therapy sessions; morning meetings, when each person tells what's on his mind whether he has to cop to (confess) something or air his feelings about an action of another person, and marathons, extended group therapy sessions.

Gradually the new member learns to relate instead of react to others. He learns he has a responsibility, not only to do his share of the work of the home, but to talk about subjects that matter with his peers. He learns he must never hang onto guilt, that by getting it out in the open, he can rid himself of it, and not backslide into his old ways. He learns to be considerate of others—not to drop lugs—sideways or sarcastic comments. He learns there is no free lunch — that you get nothing without making an investment, whether tangible or emotional.

Most important of all he learns he has to love and be loved and express it, and that love requires commitment and trust. The closing two scenes are ones in which Herb cries out for love from Al and Sandy begs Joe for love. With "Will you love me?" ringing through the building, the eight actors walk off the stage into the audience and pick people at random, asking each, "Will you love me?" When the surprised person stammers a yes, the actor hugs him and says, "Thank you."

The question and answer session at the conclusion of the play was helpful. Barbara answered the question, "Is it hard to get off drugs," by saying, "No, once I really wanted to, it wasn't hard. You can do anything you really want to." Al said that just about everyone who entered Daytop started his drug experience with marijuana. Jimmy said the percentage of graduates of Daytop who have been cured is better than 90 percent. Sandy, asked if remaining free from drugs is a day-to-day proposition, said, "No, I don't think I will shoot drugs ten years from now, but I can say definitely that I won't tomorrow." Herb said that the causes of drug-taking among young people is varied but that his began with irresponsible actions like neglecting his school work, not cleaning his room, and not taking time to talk — really talk — to his parents and brothers and sisters.

John said that the Daytop concept can be used here and he invited any interested person to come to a Saturday night open house at Daytop night open house at Daytop and see firsthand what goes on there.

Astronauts 'Infected' Dutch Bishops Are Told To 'Retreat'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Apollo 12 astronauts suffered from skin infections during quarantine, leading doctors to believe that prolonged spaceflight may intensify the action of some bacteria that man normally carries.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, chief physician to America's astronauts, reported the still-mysterious evidence Monday. He said scientists have yet to determine the reason for the apparent intensification of bacteria during space flight.

Astronauts Alan L. Bean and Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr., who both landed on the moon, each sustained temporary post-flight infections from staphylococcus bacteria they carried with them from earth and which apparently increased in intensity during flight, Berry said.

VATICAN CITY AP) — Pope Paul VI ordered the Roman Catholic hierarchy of the Netherlands today to revise its stand against the celibacy rule for priests.

He said it was indispensable for the Dutch bishops, priests and laymen to change "such a grave attitude contrary to the holy laws in effect in our Latin Church."

The Pope reaffirmed "what we have already declared and many times repeated" that priests must not marry.

In an unusual letter to the Vatican secretary of state, Jean Cardinal Villot, Pope Paul said he had tried in every way to stop Dutch bishops from taking their stand for a chance in the celibacy rule.

"You know very well," the Pope wrote Cardinal Villot, "the always respectful and friendly action which we have taken both in personal conversations, in letter exchanges, and with the intervention of the agencies of the Holy See, to prevent these statements (by Dutch bishops)." The Pope's letter was made public as controversy grew over his statement Sunday that celibacy was "a capital law" of the Church and could neither be abandoned nor discussed.

Mintz Rites Wednesday

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Superior Court Judge Rudolph Ivey Mintz, who died Monday at Washington, N.C., will be buried Wednesday afternoon in Wilmington.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. at Trinity Methodist Church, with burial in Oakdale Cemetery.

The 63-year-old judge died of natural causes in a motel room at Washington, where he had gone to preside over a session of court.

A doctor who had been summoned by Mintz Sunday night said the judge was suffering from the flu.

Martin Board Of Education Listens To School Proposals

WILLIAMSTON — Members of Martin County's Board of Education met in a special session at the end of last week to hear several groups of concerned citizens discuss possibilities for regrouping elementary and secondary schools for the next school year.

The first group to be heard was one from Everetts, who asked that the reorganization be made, if possible, so that Everetts School would remain an elementary one.

Another group presenting suggestions was one consisting of representatives of the county's Joint Study Committee representing all high schools in the county.

A third group requested that attention be given to equalization of local supplement school taxes, with a hope expressed that the county would go to a county wide tax.

A spokesman for the superintendents office revealed that no decision has been reached on the manner in which schools would be reorganized for next year, but that pairing of schools and other measures to meet guidelines were all being studied.

The meetings with the various interested groups of citizens was for the purpose of giving citizens an opportunity to express their recommendations prior to making a decision.

After talking to the groups, the board passed a couple of minor budget amendments dealing with increased maintenance for the schools.

It also approved architect's plans for the construction of a cafeteria at West Martin School in Oak City; and adopted a resolution to make all lunch room employees full time employees eligible for retirement benefits.

The board of education is requesting the State Division of School Planning to assist in plans for reorganizing the county schools.

Rose High PTA Meets Thursday

The Rose High School PTA will meet Thursday at the gymnasium beginning at 8:00 p.m. and continuing until 9:15 p.m.

Business matters to be discussed will include affiliation with state and national PTA organizations.

Principal Glenn Cox will present a 15 minute talk on the "prospects for the second semester at Rose High."

Following the business discussion and Cox's talk, parents will go to their grade rooms for a discussion and feedback for 30 minutes.

Cox, and assistant principals David A. Barnhill and Truxton Whitney will moderate the groups.

Rev. Robert Hufford, president of Rose High PTA, urges all parents to be present.
