War-Fueling Charges Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has written Soviet Premier Alexsei Kosygin rejecting Russian charges that the United States has fueled the increased Middle East fighting.

anew for discussion with the Soviet Union on a Middle East arms limitation, and asked for what U.S. officials described as a constructive response from Russia to American proposals made last October and December for an Israeli-Arab settlement.

States and Israel entirely for the present mounting violence in the years-long Middle East conflict.

Administration sources described the Nixon reply as restrained, nonpolemical, firm and positive.

The U.S. government is presently considering a reported request from Israel for about 100 fighter planes on favorable credit terms.

Officials said the U.S. efforts to bring about restoration of a United Nations cease-fire began in recent weeks and are continuing. So far, these efforts have had no known effect on the pattern of conflict developing for many months.

UNC Told Boost Negro Enrollment

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The federal government has told the University of North Carolina it must make "considerable more progress" within a year in attracting more Negroes to its campuses.

Severinson said. Among her recommendations were: — More-recruiting efforts aimed at Negroes, including appointment of Negro athletic coaches who would seek Negro athletes.

Reid Files For Second Term

Pitt County Representative David E. Reid Jr. announced Wednesday that he has filed as a candidate for a second term in the North Carolina General Assembly.

in deciding to seek re-election. "I am proud of my record of service to the people during the 1969 session. . . and I hope my friends in Pitt County will give me the opportunity to continue to serve them during the next session," Reid concluded. Married to the former Beverley Rippard and the father of twin daughters, Reid graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1956 and the UNC Law School in 1959. He served one year as law clerk to Chief Justice J. Wallace Winborne of the North Carolina Supreme Court and has been engaged in the practice of law in Greenville since July of 1960.

On Wednesday North Vietnam charged that waves of U.S. jet planes repeatedly attacked a number of populated areas on Monday in Quang Binh Province, the same province where the U.S. Command reported the attack on the anti-aircraft sites.

Since the bombing halt over North Vietnam, there have been more than 50 American retaliatory air attacks in North Vietnam, but less than a fourth of these have been made public by the U.S. Command.

The Russia-manned TU16 Badger bombers are reported based in Egypt where other aircraft of the same type have been sent by the Soviet Union to the Cairo government.

Under Russian tutelage, the Egyptians have built a number of new airstrips with blast-resistant shelters and camouflaged anti-aircraft batteries and anti-aircraft missiles.

and Henry Earl Tripp, 24 of Route 5, Greenville.

One person was injured and two vehicles destroyed in a 4:45 p.m. collision at Frog Level, four miles west of Greenville on U. S. 264 yesterday.

Tripp, Ennis said, was injured and admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Damage was set at $700 to the Rogers vehicle and $500 to the truck.

Nursing Homes Ask $900,000

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Association of Nursing Homes has requested the state to advance $900,000 to reimburse them for caring for welfare patients under the Medicaid program this month.

Not Enough

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm production in less-developed countries showed an over-all gain in 1969 but for the sixth straight year failed to exceed population growth, the Agriculture Department said today.

wait several months for their payments.

An area around Berns' home was sealed off and police removed a large box of explosives, a carbine and several boxes of ammunition and samples of hair taken from a brush.

Ralph Eaton, state school foods service director, reported Wednesday he has asked the federal government for $900,000 to feed the 42,000 for the rest

School officials said many of the 42,000 are just a little better off than the hard-core poor now receiving free lunches.

In December, about half the 104 nursing homes in the state threatened to stop caring for Medicaid patients. They said the payments were not enough to give them a reasonable profit and they could not afford to

The assistant state budget officer, Frank R. Justice, said Wednesday the request is not on the agenda of the Advisory Budget Commission, which meets Friday, but that the subject could come up.

Too Much DDT Residue On Tobacco May Lose Discount

RALEIGH (AP) — A federal tobacco official says he thinks there won't be a program this year to apply a 50 per cent discount to government price supports on flue-cured tobacco having too large a residue of DDT and related pesticides.

ACCEPT CONTRACT

WASHINGTON (AP) Some 100,000 General Electric Co. workers have voted nearly 3-1 to accept a new contract and end a 101-day-old strike.

Justice said a $770,000 advance the state made to the nursing homes in January will be deducted from payments to them homes during the next several months. The full amount of the advance will be repaid by the end of this fiscal year, June 30, he said.

HONORARY PRESIDENT NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Richard M. Nixon was installed as honorary president of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. after a delay of nearly two hours caused by a traffic jam on the way from the airport Wednesday.

The society said more than 36,000 pupils were screened. The results were announced Tuesday by Dr. George Barrett, chairman of the society's drug abuse committee.

Eaton undertook the survey in anticipation of additional federal aid.

The department said in a summary of the world agricultural situation that the 1969 per capita index of production, including industrial nations, was 107 per cent of the 1957-59 average, a two-point drop from 1968.

Carter's proposal would require a grower to certify whether he had used DDT or a related pesticide on his tobacco. Those who failed to certify they had not used such materials, or whose tobacco had too high a level of such materials, would be given a tobacco marketing card of a distinctive color. Their leaf would be supported at one-half the regular support price.

Ennis identified the drivers involved in the mishap as William Junior Rogers, 50-year-old Negro of Route 2, Greenville, and according to the officer the Rogers car was traveling northward on a rural paved road and collided with the Tripp vehicle,

Rogers was charged with operating under the influence and placed in Pitt County Jail under a $200 bond.

Mid-East Regional Airport authority plan reportedly had the endorse ment of officials of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture and North Carolina State University.

Carter said "saving our export markets" was one of the major reasons for proposing the discount program. Nearly half of the flue-cured crop is exported.

West Germany, one of the better export customers, has announced plans to lower its tolerance level for DDT and other persistent pesticides to an extremely low level — one-tenth part per million or less. Other export customers may take similar action.

Lehman-Ronan Vows Said In Saturday Ceremony

GRIFTON — Miss Mary Catherine Ronan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold James Ronan of Troy, Mich., and William Glenn Lehman, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Glenn Lehman of Grifton, were united in marriage at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon in the United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Walter M. Ellis officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Large floor baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums were placed on either side of the altar flanked by seven branched candelabra with palms and bridal greenery. The couple knelt for the benediction on a satin covered prie-dieu.

Mrs. Michael Erwin of Greenville, organist, and Mrs. Douglass Groseclose of Mount Olive, soloist, presented a program of nuptial music. Vocal selections were "Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a formal ivory peau de soie formal gown made with A-shaped skirt which was appliqued in Venice lace. The empire bodice, bell shaped sleeves and full length chapel train were of lace.

Her veil of imported illusion fell from a satin rose. She carried a bouquet of roses and pom poms showered with satin ribbons.

Menswear Shape Up Comfortably In The '70s

By AP NEWSFEATURES
Tomorrow today could be the theme of menswear in the '70s. And the look of tomorrow and today is highlighted by comfort and individuality.

Don't confuse comfort and casualness with sloppiness. There's nothing sloppy about an Edwardian fitted jacket with a collar that takes on a variety of looks depending upon how far one zips. Comfort does—mean knitted fabrics and the swinging casual suit.

The Western look is very casual but even here it doesn't mean throwing an old striped shirt over a faded pair of jeans. Western wear features a great deal of detail, including pointed and angled pockets with hip yoke.

Attention to detail such as hefty lapels and crisply set closures, creative patterns and shape, are the major components of the '70s over-all male fashion look as highlighted in the February issue of Gentlemen's Quarterly. The combination of these components results in a free-living style characterized by boldness—not a shocking boldness but one that is satisfyingly different with designs stressing wearability.

Men in the Aquarian Age will have the opportunity of creating a personal, identifiable look—whether it be dashiki, tuxedo, leather or knit. Now, more than ever, a man can feel free to be himself and to be in fashion.

Home Economics Division Holds Meeting On Friday

WILLIAMSTON — The Home Economics Division of the Coastal Plain Development Association met on Friday at the Town and Country Restaurant here. Mrs. R. W. Davenport of Greenville, president of this division, presided over the meeting.

She told the group that the purpose of the meeting was to formulate plans for the year, which would help develop the area through regional cooperation.

After a workshop type meeting, reports were given by Mrs. Clara Ellis, chairman of the Clothing Committee, reported that plans were made to prepare charts to enable the consumer to know what threads and notions should be used with the various fabrics on the market. Each county will make at least two dresses for the mental hospital.

Mrs. Karl Edwards of Castalia, chairman of the Foods Committee, reported plans to form a Nutrition Council for the area, have a cooking school, get out a monthly foods letter and place posters in laundrettes to help people become aware of wise shopping.

Meat Loaf Dinner Can Be Spectacular

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
If you're interested in a main course featuring ground beef that's elegant enough to serve to company, Meat Loaf Wellington is your dish. It's inspired by Beef Wellington, a dish in which rich pastry encloses fillet of beef.

The pastry for Meat Loaf Wellington is a delight. Made with sour cream and corn-oil margarine, it's just as flaky as you want pastry to be. And the meat filling has some savory additions so it complements the pastry beautifully.

MEAT LOAF WELLINGTON
6 slices lean bacon
1 1/2 pounds ground chuck beef
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons minced parsley
2 eggs
1/4 cup chili sauce
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/4 pound sharp cheddar cheese, grated medium fine
Sour Cream Pastry, see recipe below
1 tablespoon milk

In a 10-inch skillet fry bacon until crisp. Drain on paper toweling; crumble; set aside.

Pour off bacon fat from skillet. In same skillet put beef, onion and parsley. Cook over moderate heat, crumbling meat with a fork until meat has lost its red color and onion is transparent. With a slotted spoon, draining off as much liquid as possible, transfer meat mixture to a medium mixing bowl. Cool 10 minutes, tossing occasionally.

In a small mixing bowl beat together one whole egg and one egg white until yolk and whites are combined. Add bacon, chili sauce, salt, pepper and cheese.

Stir thoroughly into cooled meat mixture.

Divide chilled Sour Cream Pastry dough in half; refrigerate one half. On a floured pastry cloth, with a floured stockinet-covered rolling pin, gently roll half of dough to a 13 by 7 inch rectangle; trim to make a 13 by 6-inch rectangle; reserve trimmings.

Fold rectangle in half. Unfold onto center of foil-lined 15 by 10 by 1 inch jellyroll pan. Pile meat mixture on rectangle to within one inch of each edge; pack slightly.

Roll remaining chilled dough to a 14 by 7-inch rectangle. Fold rectangle in half; gently lift and place over meat mixture.

With water, moisten edges of bottom rectangle; pinch edges together to seal; fold under. Roll out pastry trimmings and cut into any shapes you like; arrange on top of pastry as a decoration.

With a fork beat together remaining egg yolk and milk; brush over pastry; prick top of loaf in several places to allow steam to escape.

Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until a deep golden brown—40 minutes. With a spatula loosen bottom of loaf from foil; use foil or two wide spatulas to help you transfer loaf to serving platter or board. Cut into squares, rather than thin slices, because meat filling is crumbly.

Makes six generous servings.

No Obligation On Condolences

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: As I sit here writing "thank you" notes to acknowledge a stack of printed cards advising me that a donation to the "Rink-a-dink Charitable Organization" has been made in memory of a loved one, I feel like a hypocrite.

It is so easy to discharge an obligation to one bereaved by making a contribution to a charity you would have contributed to anyway. You don't even have to write a card. The charity will send a printed one. And there's another plus. It's tax deductible!

The use of money to discharge all obligations is certainly a sign of an affluent society.

How infinitely more thoughtful is the hand written letter, telephone call, or personal visit. This would express true friendship during a very sad and lonely period.

LONELY

DEAR LONELY: Sending a condolence message, or making a donation in the name of a loved one is NOT an "obligation." Many simply ignore the death of a friend or acquaintance.

I am not familiar with any "rink-a-dink charitable organizations." If a friend of mine dies of cancer, I feel that an appropriate expression of my sympathy would be a contribution to the Cancer society. And the same goes for the Heart association. And if I knew that the deceased had a special interest in Catholic Charities, or the N. A. A. C. P., or the Mormon Missionary society, I would make a contribution in the name of the deceased.

It is not always possible to make a personal condolence call on the family. I speak from both sides of the fence, and I hope that you will reconsider your attitude concerning donations to charities in memory of loved ones. I repeat, the donor could have ignored the death.

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I would be writing to you, but this problem is getting me down so bad I don't know where to turn. I turn to God on Sundays, but there are six other days when I need help.

My husband was born tired, but he always has the strength to be a 24-hour-a-day lover man.

Abby, I've always been a virtuous woman, and I've never shirked my duties as a wife, but I worked so hard at picking cotton some days that when nighttime came, I would like to have dropped in my tracks, but there was no rest for me with a man who has just set and rested up all day.

Now the kids are gone and I am all wore out. But my man is still going strong. Worse yet, he will not take a bath but once a month. His teeth are rotten, and his breath could kill you dead, but he presents himself for romance like he was a teen-ager.

Don't tell me to take him to a doctor. You don't take bulls any place. In closing, I remain, Very truly yours,

TIRED

DEAR TIRED: Next Sunday, when you turn to God, pray for strength to see you thru the rest of the week.

DEAR ABBY: I think the other peoples of the world can take a lesson from the Chinese. It is their custom to settle up all their debts before New Year's Day. What do you say?

ALL AMERICAN

DEAR ALL: It's easy for the Chinese. They don't have Christmas the week before.

DEAR ABBY: This advice is to mothers who never know what to say to a friend whose daughter is, or was away as an unwed mother.

I never knew the best approach until I had to experience the heartache of taking my daughter away and bringing her home to dead-silent friends.

If you really are a friend who cares, write a note, telephone or visit, and simply say, "I know your heartache, and I am sorry. If ever you need me, call and unload. I'll be there, and I will listen with love."

A MOTHER

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

ETV To Be Welcome In Area

This week a television transmitter tower and buildings were donated to the University of North Carolina television network. The tower and transmitter were given by Atlantic Telecasting Co. of Wilmington. They are located at Delco. At the ceremonies Dr. George Blair, directors of UNC educational television, reported that the Federal Communications Commission has granted a construction permit for the erection of a transmitter at Farmville.

It will be fall before service can be provided over WUNJ-TV, Channel 39 at Delco and WUNK-TV, Channel 25 at Farmville. However, service from the two facilities is now in the near future and the Farmville transmitter is especially welcome in our area. It will serve, Rocky Mount, Wilson, Goldsboro, Kinston, New Bern, Greenville and other communities of this area. When these facilities are completed there will be seven transmitters in the educational television network. They beam programs produced in the studios on the UNC campuses at Chapel Hill, Raleigh and Greensboro, along with others made available through national ETV program resources.

UNC Playing Greater Role

Today's guest column for the N.C. Association of Afternoon Dailies was written by Jay Jenkins, Assistant to the President at the University of North Carolina.

The new UNC campus at Wilmington had been conducting a unique program. It provides extension courses at the University freshmen level for students recruited by technical institutes in Bladen, Sampson, Onslow and Duplin counties. The idea: to spur interest in higher education.

The University of North Carolina presently has about 41,000 students enrolled on its six campuses, a number that is greater than the entire population of Duplin County.

On the campus in Charlotte, there is tremendous pressure for business-oriented continuing education. Though the campus now lacks the faculty to meet the demands, it hopes to tool up to do so. N.C. State is cooperating with UNC-Greensboro to provide a masters Degree in Industrial Engineering on the Greensboro campus.

During the current year, more than 41,000 people will visit the campuses for varying lengths of time to participate in what is called "continuing education." Thousands of other Tar Heels will have continuing education carried to them by University specialists.

The School of Business Administration in Chapel Hill for 17 years has operated its Executive Program to which companies send their most promising executives. Some 600 businessmen, many of whom are now in the top echelon of management, have been graduated to date.

Perhaps the best way to illustrate the scope, value and variety of this public service is to say that it is improbable that anyone can walk a city block or drive a country mile in the state without seeing an animate or inanimate beneficiary of it... an improved plant variety, a health worker, a businessman, a better harvest, an industrial worker.

Also in Chapel Hill, the School of Education is an old hand at continuing education. It was the first institution in the U.S. to offer formal summer school training for public school teachers.

The sprightly granddaddy of continuing education is the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service with headquarters on the Raleigh campus of N.C. State University. It has more than 900 skilled workers, including agents in all 100 counties, a book of door-stop proportions could be written on its achievements alone.

The School of Engineering at N.C. conducted 41 training conferences last year. It has three fulltime employees who are going into industrial plants in the state, offering to establish in-plant courses to teach and improve skills.

One little known fact, however, is that the Extension Service has 175 paraprofessionals who are conducting nutrition and youth development programs for the disadvantaged. There are 15,000 volunteer leaders with special training in adult education who donate their talents and time to different programs.

N.C. State's School of Textiles, with an international reputation, conducted 33 short courses last year for 1,500 persons. The school cannot meet the demand for textile graduates. It has a total enrollment of 700; school officials say they could place 600 graduates in job each year.

The professionals who operate the Extension Service are continually upgrading their skills because, as Dean Brooks James of the School of Agriculture says, "Before you can extend knowledge, you have to have knowledge to extend."

The list stretches to and beyond the School of Law, School of Journalism, School of Library Science, Department of Radio, Television and Motion Picture, School of Dentistry, Education Division, School of Pharmacy, School of Social Work.

There is infinite variety in the University's continuing education programs. In the health sciences, UNC-Chapel Hill offers aid to some 22,000 health professionals. There are short courses for nurses.

There is the renowned Institute of Government in Chapel Hill, the trainer of governmental officials at all levels in the state, and one of the main reasons there is validity to the boast that, "Good government is a habit in North Carolina."

Between 700 and 800 practicing physicians and dentists take part in continuing education courses, with on the Chapel Hill campus or in regional sessions near their homes. Last year, the Medical School produces 24 one-hour televised programs for doctors, which they could tune in at their offices or at their home.

The Institute teaches officials in courthouses form the clerks in the basement to the judges on the bench upstairs. Often is the research arm of the General Assembly. Last year, the Institute conducted 120 different programs involving more than 6,000 people.

The ETV network carries many worthwhile programs which are not available on commercial television. There are periodic panel interviews with North Carolina public figures, for instance. Just last week the Jenkins Appreciation Dinner was taped for showing on the network the next day. Some of the national ETV programs are extremely well done.

The availability of Channel 25 at Farmville should give a good television signal for people of the Pitt and Greene County areas. It will provide a television service which is not now available. We are pleased that construction of the Farmville transmitter will soon get underway.

N.C. Will Benefit In The War On Inflation

North Carolina's economy seems to be reflecting what is happening on the national level. The Wachovia Business Index was down 2.3 points, or 1.2 percent, in December compared to the previous month. This was true despite increased spending and higher employment.

The slowing down of the economy, as measured by the index, is a part of the government's efforts to halt inflation. Despite the fact that inflation continued during December, it can be expected that a slowing of price rises will follow the slowing of the economy.

North Carolina's economy will be affected, but the state and its citizens should benefit from the efforts to control inflation as soaring prices are eventually brought under control.

Russia Shows A Deep Worry

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The tone of the Kremlin's diplomacy suggests that it is frightened by the prospect of a gathering storm over the Middle East. It may mean that Moscow is unwilling at this time to face a new major crisis and is seeking some way to head it off.

While its bargaining may be tough, Moscow appears concerned that is whole foreign policy drive may be thrown into a tailspin by the intensifying Arab-Israeli hostilities.

In its latest note to Washington, Moscow has threatened to escalate the arms race in the Middle East by sending more arms to Egypt. Yet the thrust of its diplomatic activity suggests deep worry. The Kremlin has been sending out warnings to the Americans, British and French of rising peril in the Middle East as if the Russians were digging in for a round of horse-trading.

The Middle East is a tangle for both superpowers. For each, more is at stake than just its explicit interests in the area.

For the Russians, a red hot new crisis could upset plans to take some of the heat from East-West relations in Europe. For both it can jolt whatever hopes have been invested in SALT, the strategic arms limitation talks due to reopen in Vienna in April. Washington and Moscow have parallel interests in limiting super-weapons. For each, the race has been a heavy drain. This has been especially true of the Soviet Union, which has been wrestling with problems of a consumer economy suffering from neglect because of the arms race.

In a major policy address last July, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said the Middle East "exerts great influence on the situation of the world as a whole" and is a "dangerous hotbed which can have serious consequences."

Gromyko risked offending the Arabs by asserting Soviet willingness for a settlement involving "simultaneous recognition of all states of the Middle East, including Israel, to an independent national existence." Most Arab leaders deny that Israel has the right to independent existence in their midst.

If Moscow concedes Israel's right to live, it might also, in tense circumstances, concede a little more. Soviet and American positions are not far apart, and each power is in a position to bring pressure for de-escalation of the conflict.

Much more than Vietnam, the Middle East threatens to interfere with progress on other issues. The Russians probably are less agitated about Vietnam than they let on; but the Middle East is another case. Moscow has extended and committed itself and now has a considerable investment to protect.

The issue is the more difficult because it often has been a source of division in the Kremlin. This was so at the time of the 1956 crisis and again during the 1967 war. Soviet hawks see the Middle East as of extreme strategic importance, and with each recurring crisis it has been

Strength For Today

Thousands And Tens Of Thousands

"Keep back thy servant also from presumptuous sins"—sins of pride, self-confidence, encroachment.

What is the popular idea of sin? Sin is profane swearing, sin is adultery, sin is lying and stealing, sin is malicious gossip. And no one can deny that these things are sins. What we need to remember is that they do not exhaust the catalogue of sin. There are other sins, and singularly enough Jesus made more of these sins than he did of the gross variety.

The writer of the 19th Psalm calls these presumptuous sins. They are inner sins, not obvious, and for that very reason extremely dangerous and quite devastating to character. Our Lord condemned pride as earnestly as he condemned adultery. He was particularly hard in the judgment he passed on the uncharitable. At the head of the list of sins he puts a loveless heart, an unforgiving spirit, a love of money.

These are the presumptuous sins. Watch out for them. They are often mistaken for virtues, yet all the while, thus pretending, they are eating eternity out of men's hearts. The gross sins slay their thousands, the presumptuous sins their tens of thousands.

NERVE WRACKING!

Reflections On Carswell

The abiding significance of Harold Carswell's nomination, sad to say, lies in the essential falsity of a statement fresh from the pen of Mr. Justice Black.

Dissenting the other day in Turner v. United States, Black reiterated a conviction he has expounded a hundred times before. "Our Constitution," said the venerable Alabamian, "was not written in the sands to be washed away by each wave of new judges blown in by each successive political wind which brings new political administrations into temporary power."

Alas for Hugo Black, and alas for the Constitution! Thirty years of observation and reflection lead me inexorably to the conclusion that Black is wrong. Not wrong in theory; wrong in fact. The melancholy truth lies in precisely the opposite direction. In its most important provisions, relating to grants of legislative power and to the protection of human liberties, our "written Constitution" is written on the wind.

Black knows this. Indeed, it is this very truth of jurisprudence that he protests so incessantly. It ought not to be this way, but it is. When a majority of the Court is determined to reverse a conviction, or to invalidate a statute, five judges will find a plausible basis in the Constitution for doing so. And when five other judges come along, possessed of different views, they will act as plausibly to affirm or to uphold.

This is not to impute hypocrisy, or mere opportunism, to members of the Court. It is only to say that they are mortal men, and behave as men do. In recent years, Black has been far better and more consistent than most of his brethren. His dissent five years ago in Griswold v. Connecticut, the birth control case, offered a magnificent restatement of the meaning of judicial restraint. Yet fifteen years ago, in Brown v. Board of Education, Black was entirely agreeable to overthrowing 85 years construction in order to achieve an end that seemed sociologically desirable to the Court.

Macaulay was right. Our Constitution, as he said, is all sail and no anchor. The power to interpret, which is necessary power of judges, is in effect a power to amend. Members of the Court, as Black said in the Griswold dissent, never were meant to sit as "a day-to-day constitutional convention." But they do. What were the "intentions of the Framers"? What was the "purpose of the Founders"? Black was paying homage to these mystic spirits ten days ago. What is a "reasonable" search and seizure? The answer is that the words are

Other Editors Say To Farm The Sea

(Christian Science Monitor)

Public officials and nutrition experts are continually declaring that mankind must begin—very soon—to farm the sea. They make imaginative predictions of what can be done to boost the ocean's food crop as world population increases.

But one can also discover just lately, warnings by ecologists and conservationists that, unless mankind stops polluting the oceans, rivers and estuaries, and unless salt marshes and swamps and native shorelines are preserved, there will be little if any effective farming of the sea possible. The plankton and sea plants and all the minute organisms on which the fish and oysters and all the sea denizens depend for food, will have been poisoned or destroyed. A solemn warning indeed!

There are tremendous possibilities in "farming the sea." Modern man has made little progress over his remote ancestors in this particular pursuit. Like the primeval hunter, he is seldom cultivating his game—just taking it where he finds it. But shellfish "farmers" in Asia and Europe show the possibilities with their enormous yields. (Encouraging if you like clams and oysters). And it is envisaged that whole estuaries and inlets could be enclosed, where fish and mollusks and crustacea could be "planted" and grown. Someone even suggests that porpoises might be trained as "sheepdogs" to herd the fish as desired. And some fish might be "domesticated"—as cattle have been—that is, grown to better size and succulence.

Research is under way in Britain, the United States and elsewhere on farming the seas. Some countries have concentrated on fishing for what is available—almost to extinction—whales for instance. International cooperation will be urgently required if a true husbanding and expanding of ocean foodstuffs is to begin.

Encouragingly, the Soviets are becoming aware of the problem. In the magazine "Soviet Life" (published for American readers) the Russians say: "While catches may still be increased a bit with better technique, there are already signs that whale, herring, and cod are being fished out. The only answer is artificial breeding, the cultivation of new species, and the creation of artificial maritime fishing grounds. This applies equally to sea mammals, fish, mollusks, crustaceans and algae. The entire shelf, the whole sea-bottom area from zero to 600 feet deep, must be "gardened."

Inflation May Be The Choice

By ELMER ROESSNER

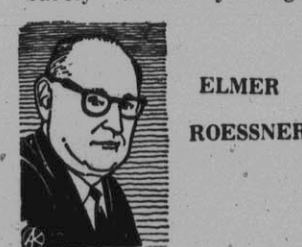

It might just happen that the anti-inflation drive becomes so unpopular that public pressure forces the government to choose inflation instead.

Employment is a sensitive sector. There have already been layoffs—thousands in the auto industry and there are more to come. There are already many people saying that rising prices and jobs are better than no wages with which to buy necessities of life at any price, and they may be right. That's a theme that demagogues can exploit, and politicians can use to embarrass the Nixon administration, glossing over the fact that it was President Johnson—remember the start of the surtax?—who really got the anti-inflation drive started.

Housing is another sensitive area. High interest rates have priced homes out of the market for many families. Home construction is down and likely to sink further. There is already a builder's clamor for government action to get more housing started. And conditions in home building are adding to unemployment.

Other Sales Affected
The anti-inflation drive is cutting into retail sales. Weekly Commerce Department reports show them barely above year-ago figures and, since almost all sales are being made at inflated prices, people are getting less goods for their spending. And any week now even the dollar volume may dip below corresponding 1969 figures.

A rise in strikes may cut workers' income and the incomes of owners of businesses that depend on them for sales. As the sales figures show, people are getting less and less for their money and that will surely spark demands for higher wages, higher wages at a time when business is making less.

In addition, there are wage increases built into many existing labor settlements. Thus, in the great American cat-and-rat farm, labor costs will keep on going up, forcing higher prices for products, thereby giving the average consumer less for his money. And the administration doesn't dare to freeze wages, prices or credit.

The Gimme Groups
At the same time, demands for more government spending are becoming more vociferous. The campaign last week to pass the $19 billion-dollar educational bill over Mr. Nixon's veto shows how loud the clamor can be. And there will be more

Future Defense Policy

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defensive missiles will not be positioned close to major American cities under President Nixon's plans for expanding the Safeguard ABM system, Pentagon officials report.

The only exception to this, eventually, will be Washington, D.C., because strategists want to defend the seat of the command control over U.S. forces.

Defense officials made the point over missile deployment to counter growing congressional criticism that Nixon has gone back to the rationale used by the former Johnson administration to justify a defensive missile program.

Nixon disclosed a week ago the second phase of Safeguard plans would proceed this year to provide the United States with area defense against any potential Red Chinese threat over the next 10 years.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield Wednesday accused Nixon of shifting arguments on Safeguard and opening a credibility gap.

Under the Johnson administration, the antiballistic missile system, then called Sentinel, would have been deployed around big population centers to protect them from a possible Red Chinese attack later in this decade.

The new Safeguard program, begun by Nixon centered around U.S. offensive missile sites to protect them from a growing force of Soviet SS9 rockets.

Pentagon officials say the Soviet Union's missile menace toward U.S. retaliatory forces—Minuteman—remains the primary reason for building Safeguard.

But they contend the President was not inconsistent in his recent public statements reporting a decision to add "area defense" against an emerging Red Chinese threat.

In Pentagon jargon, "area defense" refers to the general protection which would be provided by long-range missile interceptors capable of stopping ICBM's hundreds of miles in space.

At this stage, the Pentagon has chosen not, to challenge openly the renewed ABM opposition, mainly because officials say precise details on the expanded deployment have not been approved within the administration.

They're getting themselves trapped before they know what the specifics are, one official said of the Senate critics.

He said incorporation of area defense as accorded by Safeguard's far-reaching Spartan interceptor has always been considered a necessary step in the system's development.

Spartan contrasts with the shorter-range Sprint missile which was approved last year for deployment around two U.S. Air Force Minuteman sites in Montana and North Dakota.

Farmville Sees Break-In Skein

FARMVILLE—Merchants in the downtown section here have experienced a rash of breakings and enterings during the past month, according to Police Chief Graham Creel.

Prescott's Hardware, S & H Cleaners, Pope's Laundromat, Eason's Service Station, and the Western Auto Associate Store all have been broken into and robbed of small items and petty cash. Signs of attempted break-ins have been found at Bill Dudley's Auto Parts and Belk Tyler's Department Store. All of these incidents have occurred on weekends and appear to be the work of juveniles, Creel said.

He said three local juveniles are now being questioned about taking keys to the machines at Pope's Laundromat in an earlier attempt to rob the laundromat. He also reported the theft of a canvas tarpaulin from a local

But there is, I think, more to it than this; there are realities more directly related to Black's crack at "new political administrations in temporary power." Perhaps it was part of the genius of the Founding Fathers that they intended just the prospect that is implicit in Carswell's nomination: Perhaps they wanted to assure the confirmation of judges who would reflect waves of the popular will.

A certain body of political opinion—call it liberal opinion, if you will—was reflected in the nomination of Hubert Humphrey. If Humphrey had won, the name of Judge Carswell would not have been sent to the Senate. But Humphrey lost; he lost decisively. A completely different body of conservative opinion, represented by Nixon and Wallace, claimed 60 per cent of the vote. To the victor belong the spoils; and the spoils include the naming of new judges to write on fresh sand.

This is the key consideration—the only consideration—as to Carswell. He is 50; he should write a long time. By every indication, so far, as judicial restraint is concerned, he shares Black's vision of the judge's role. And if Carswell has been blown in by political winds, so was Black, and so is every judge.

Soviet policy makers are now trying to encourage an all-European conference on security, even with the Americans taking part. The civilian leaders also show interest in exploring possibilities for easing the arms race.

Should the Arab-Israeli conflict develop into a fourth full-blown war, it surely would erode whatever enthusiasm there might be in the West for such undertakings for some time to come. Indeed, the crisis probably would be even more dangerous than its predecessors. And even if the danger subsided, the damage done to the world's nerves could set Soviet policy aims back a number of years.

Will Force Delay On Nomination

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph D. Tydings says he will force at least a week's delay in Senate Judiciary Committee voting on the Supreme Court nomination of Judge G. Harrold Carswell.

The Maryland Democrat's announcement Wednesday came as Sen. Charles E. Goodell of New York called a news conference for today amid indications he would be the first Republican senator to announce against Carswell.

Before Goodell only two senators have said publicly they would oppose the southern judge —William Proxmire of Wisconsin and Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, both Democrats.

Tyding's announcement that he will invoke a rule allowing any committee member to delay a vote by the panel for a week apparently means no action on the confirmation until the Senate is in the midst of a Lincoln Day recess lasting until

Feb. 17. Civil rights leaders have been urging the committee to give them more time to search for ammunition to use in their fight against the 50-year-old Tallahassee, Fla., judge, now on the 5th U.S. Court of Appeals. Carswell, who in repudiating a white supremacy speech he made 22 years ago testified last week that he is no racist, was expected to file a statement during the day in answer to his critics.

The committee closed its public hearings Tuesday but agreed to leave the record open until midnight tonight for Carswell or anyone else who wished to submit a statement.

Meanwhile, there were reports one stumbling block to a committee vote on the nomination had been resolved.

This impasse developed Tuesday when Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., proposed the committee vote Monday on Carswell but at the same time agree to act April 14 on a long-stalled constitutional amendment for the direct popular election of presidents. This ran into a strong objection from Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., a supporter of Carswell but a foe of the direct election amendment. But Bayh informed colleagues Wednesday that Thurmond's protest had been smoothed out, Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-Va., reported.

And Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said Wednesday he thought Bayh was entitled to have a time fixed for voting on the electoral reform amendment. He also said the committee ought to agree to vote on Carswell's nomination.

Nixon And Council On Tour

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Writer
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — President Nixon is taking his Urban Affairs Council into the nation's heartland today in an unprecedented step intended to dramatize administration concern for the cities.

The President and council, including nine Cabinet-level members, scheduled an afternoon meeting here with a White House-selected delegation of nine mayors, seven of them Republicans.

Today's focus was on medium-sized cities rather than giants such as New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

The President and his entourage go from here to Chicago for a Friday meeting with four Midwestern governors to discuss environmental problems.

The meeting here marks one of the few times since taking office that President Nixon has met directly with a delegation of mayors. The President's last such meeting was nine months ago.

It is also the first time a session of the Urban Affairs Council has been held outside Washington.

The meeting comes at a time when criticism of the administration's urban policies, particularly from big-city Democratic mayors, is growing increasingly sharp.

Just last week the executive committee of the U.S. Conference of Mayors accused the administration of departing "from the moral commitments of two decades" in cutting back on urban renewal programs.

Such criticisms were unlikely to be sounded here. Only two of the mayors invited are Democrats and urban renewal was not on the agenda, which was geared to the model cities program and President Nixon's anticrime measures.

The setting for the meeting was not accidental.

Indianapolis, the largest city in America with a Republican mayor, is one of a handful of cities experimenting with metropolitan government.

And its mayor, Richard G. Lugar, 37, is considered one of the rising stars in the Republican party.

Lugar, a former Rhodes scholar and a cello player, championed the legislative move that enabled Indianapolis to burst its traditional boundaries and encompass its suburbs in Marion County.

Indianapolis, until last Dec. 31 the 12th largest city in the nation, became the 12th largest Jan. 1 when its new form of government—nicknamed Uni-Gov—became official.

Overnight the city's population swelled from 525,000 to 800,000 and its land mass from 82 square miles to over 400.

Most importantly, Uni-Gov rescued the Indianapolis tax base, jeopardized as in most cities by the flight of business, industry, and the white middle class to suburbia.

The experiment attracted the attention of the Nixon administration which is seeking to develop an urban policy that won't meet frustration in the welter of suburban jurisdictions ringing the nation's cities.

The mayors invited included Jack Malpeter of San Leandro, Calif., president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, and Frank Curran of San Diego, Calif., National League of Cities president. Also invited were Donald Enoch, Wichita; Lawrence Kramer, Patterson, N.J.; George Seibels, Birmingham, Ala.; Chris Sonnaboldt, Grand Rapids; Miss Antonina Uccello, Hartford; and Walter Washington, Washington, D.C.; as well as Luger.

Peter Domenici of Albuquerque, N.M., also was invited but was ill and not able to attend.

Review Bids On Road Projects

RALEIGH (AP) — The Highway Commission today reviewed bids totaling $14.5 million received last month on 19 road building projects, including one of the interstate highway system.

The projects call for work on 56.73 miles of highway.

The C. W. Matthews Contracting Co. of Marietta, Ga., submitted an apparent low bid of $5,643,558.50 on the interstate job. It calls for grading, surfacing, structures and signs on 6.68 miles of I-95 from the South Carolina line north to Aaron Swamp.

New Garbage Strike Vote

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Another garbage strike is threatened in Charlotte following the firing of 10 sanitation department employees, including the president and other leaders of the union.

City Manager William J. Veeder dismissed them Wednesday, saying they were instrumental in inducing most of the garbage workers not to leave the garage until the temperature reached 20 degrees. The temperature, which got down to 13, didn't reach 20 until 10:20 a.m., about two hours after the men usually go out.

The union took a strike vote today. It had struck for higher wages last year.

The union leaders said the city had agreed to the 20 degrees during negotiations last month which followed the death of two sanitation workers. They were crushed under a garbage truck when the vehicle started moving while they were warming their hands on the muffler.

Veeder denied that the city had agreed to the 20-degree start. He said union president F. N. Crump and the others he dismissed caused a work stoppage which is not permitted by personnel rules of the city.

The union said the deaths would not have occurred if the city had provided proper clothes for the sanitation workers.

Gray Appointed To 'Honorary Faculty'

Dr. Wellington B. Gray, dean of the School of Art at East Carolina University, recently learned of his appointment to the honorary faculty of the Quartermaster School, U. S. Army, Fort Lee, Va.

One Sept. 12, Dr. Gray was retired from the United States Army Reserve with the rank of Lt. Col., after active and reserve service since Oct. 12, 1941.

During his active career in World War II, Dr. Gray was a member of the cavalry in some of the Army's last horse units. He also served as both line and staff officer with infantry units in the Pacific Theater of Operations.

Dr. Gray joined the reserves in 1946 and in 1960 was assigned as chief of the Instructor Training Branch, the Quartermaster School.

Dr. Gray holds numerous decorations, awards and citations. "None, however, mean more to me as a professional teacher than being appointed to the honorary faculty of the Quartermaster School," he said.

Dr. Gray has been director of the art program at ECU since 1956. He has served as dean since 1962 when the School of Art was established.

Dr. Gray's wife, Norma Wallace Gray, is art supervisor for the Greenville City Schools.

Smart People Smarter When Living Together

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Men and women honor students are living in a Pennsylvania State University dorm and learning it's better for their brains.

"It proves that smart people can help other smart people get smarter," says Dr. Robert W. Frank Jr., an English professor who is the project's faculty representative.

Fourteen men and 55 women—volunteers whose grades are all A's and B's—participate in the experiment in intellectual togetherness which began last fall. It's family-style togetherness that includes eating, discussing, studying, socializing and entertaining.

There are frequent guest speakers at the coed dorm, with topics ranging from drugs to civil rights to environment. And there are informal student-faculty mixers which Frank says are "head-filling and mind-stretching."

The dorm residents have organized a new class on the history of Western music, for which they get credit. And they plan two other new courses to be taught by teachers of their choice: one on the Czechoslovak political situation and the other on art.

"It is an example of students running on their own, and in the right direction, for learning," Frank says. "We're enthused that it works, and we're going to continue it."

The men sleep on the top floor of Irvin Hall, a former woman's residence on Penn State's main campus of 25,000 students. The girls live on floors below.

"The coed dorm is an important facet of academic life," says Judi Friedman, 19, a broadcasting junior from Reading, Conn. "Other more formal areas in school activities are sometimes frustrating, and you end up learning less."

Stuart Hammel, 21, a speech senior from Reading, Pa., who brainstormed the project and got the administration to give it a try, says, "The biggest thing is being able to interact with people of varied academic interests in a living, unstructured situation."

"It's the idea of having three girls, and three or four guys, able to sit down in the evening and discussing, for example, premarital sex," Hammel says. "Or to go to a movie Saturday afternoon and come back and discuss it until 4 a.m. because you don't understand it."

"Don't get the notion we're a bunch of eggheads walking around in an academic fog," says Louise Evans, 19, an anthropology sophomore from Portage, Pa.

"I was looking for a higher level of maturity. There are no freshmen and very few sophomores here. This gives us an element of freedom and a chance to interchange ideas with both guys and girls. To me, guys being here helps clear the air. There's no tenseness. We live together in happiness."

State Band Clinic Will Be Held At ECU This Weekend

Some of the best young musicians from high schools of Eastern North Carolina will have the opportunity to meet two guest conductors, work with them in rehearsals, and give a public concert at East Carolina University this weekend.

About 170 band members from junior and senior high schools in eastern North Carolina will attend the Eastern Division of the 1970 North Carolina State Band Clinic and Friday and Saturday.

The highlight of the two day affair is a Saturday evening concert to be conducted by J. Clifton Williams of the University of Miami music faculty and Harold A. Jones of ECU.

The free concert scheduled for Friday night at 8:15 p.m. by the ECU Symphonic Band officially opens the weekend clinic for the high school musicians.

Participants to attend the two day clinic were selected from 274 contestants in auditions held January 17 at ECU. For the clinic, 85 were selected for the symphonic band portion of the clinic and 83 for the concert band.

Local musicians who will be participating in the clinic and concert are from two Greenville Schools: Rose High and Aycock Junior High. Those selected are: —Rose High — flute, Carry Rogers, Anne Petrie, Greta White; oboe, David Howard; bassoon, Kathy Petrie; clarinet, Trenton Teis, Janis Corbett; French horn, Roger Billica, Chip Lambeth; baritone, Howard Lincoln; and snare drum, Macon Dail, James Rodgers, Director.

—E. B. Aycock Junior High — clarinet, Maurice Sheppard; trombone, Bill Colvard; Tom Smith III; and snare drums, Craig Wilson, Thomas Smith, Jr., director.

The two faculty members working full-time with the students are well known in music circles.

Dr. Clifton Williams, the symphonic band director, is composer-in-residence at the University of Miami. Dr. Williams is a graduate of Eastman School of Music, and is noted for his compositions of band music. He will conduct four of his own compositions at the All State Band Clinic.

Harold A. Jones, who will be the concert band director for the clinic, is assistant professor of percussion instruments at East Carolina University, where he has been a staff member for eight years. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan.

Other ECU School of Music faculty members will be assisting Dr. Williams and Jones in the clinic. Among these will be Joe Hambrick, ECU director of the Jazz Ensemble. He will conduct the Stage Band portion of the concert on Saturday night.

The young musicians' concert will be at 7:30 p.m. Saturday night in Wright Auditorium. The public is invited to attend this concert, for which no admission charge will be made.

Dismissed UNC Instructor Sues

GREENSBORO (AP) — An instructor at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte has filed suit for the Consolidated University to show cause why he should not be rehired in the spring.

A university hearing committee voted recently 4 to 3 not to reemploy Dave Blevins because he violated a university order and participated in the Oct. 15 Vietnam Moratorium.

Blevins' suit, filed Wednesday in U. S. Middle District Court, contends that the decision not to reemploy him violates his right to due process.

A hearing has been set for next Thursday.

Suspect Death Due To Exposure

CARTHAGE, N. C. (AP) — Mrs. Mennie Lowe Temples, 71, was found dead Wednesday in a small creek near her home.

Police said the woman apparently became entangled in vines and died of exposure.

Meet Friday On Tax Study

RALEIGH (AP) — The Tax Study Commission will meet Friday and will hear from representatives of North Carolina's cities and counties and an expert on property taxation.

Appearing before the commission will be John Morrissy, executive secretary of the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners; Ernest Ball, general counsel of the North Carolina League of Municipalities; and Henry Lewis, assistant director of the Institute of Government, who specializes in property taxes.

Many Difficulties Beset 'Malcolm X University'

By RICHARD DAW
Associated Press Writer
DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Four months after opening its doors, an experiment in black separatist education called Malcolm X Liberation University is beset by controversy and pressed for funds. But its founder isn't giving up.

"We're planning now for another year of operation or maybe two more years," says Howard Fuller, a 29-year-old former social worker.

"With the kind of institution we're trying to develop and the kind of reaction it causes, one can't get too optimistic and think in terms of 10 years or 15 years," Fuller said in an interview. The school was named after the militant black leader who was slain after he split away from the Black Muslim movement.
Fuller opened his unorthodox—and unaccredited—university last October in a converted warehouse alongside railroad tracks in a run-down Negro section on the edge of Durham's business district.

Its aim, he said, would be "nation-building." He explained that as being preparation of Negroes for a separatist society which would exist somewhere in the vague future in an unspecified place, probably Africa.
About 50 students enrolled for training as food scientists, tailors, architects, engineers, teachers, artists, medics, communications technicians, linguists and other specialists "to fulfill the needs of a nation," Fuller said.

Exactly what the classes at the university are like isn't generally known because Fuller refuses to let outsiders sit in.
The school offers no degrees and members of its faculty are not required to be college graduates. Some are not.

Carrying out his stated belief that "anything which affects the black community affects us," Fuller and his aides have headed delegations of Malcolm X students to racially oriented demonstrations in various North Carolina cities.
From the beginning, controversy swirled around the brightly painted red, green and black building with its pair of huge portraits of Malcolm X on the front.

First, Fuller had to cut his plans for a proposed first-year budget of half a million dollars to $82,000. That was all he could raise through grants.
Then, the possibility of getting any more money from his biggest benefactor—the Episcopal Church—dimmed as the Church's North Carolina diocese was caught up in a major dispute over $45,000 given to Fuller by the national Church.
Angered by the national Church's action, more than one-third of the diocese's 138 parishes failed to meet their financial quotas for the new year and diocesan contributions to the national Church were cut by $70,000.

Now, Fuller no longer talks as he once did, of Malcolm X University as a permanent institution.
"We're being realistic and gearing ourselves to complete a three-year program," he said.

Anti-Hijacking Device Being Used At Airports

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has been given a preview of a new type of police nightstick that can detect a concealed gun, a razor blade or even a narcotics kit.

The device, and still another version of it, a flashlight model, are designed to supplement anti-hijacking weapons-detectors now in operation at a number of airports.

Congressmen got a look at the instruments during a showing at the House Judiciary Committee chamber this week.

"The equipment promises to make the law enforcement officer's job safer and easier, and will cost the taxpayer less," said Malcolm Schwartz, president of Infinitics, Inc., a Wilmington, Del., producer of electronic magnetic devices.

The equipment was developed and tested by the Federal Aviation Administration as part of its program to deter hijackings.

Eastern Air Lines last October became the first airline to put the system in use. Trans World Airlines adopted it last December, and Pan American World Airways joined the parade last month.

The anti-hijacking set consists first of two poles or towers which form a gate or entry way at airport ticket counters or boarding points.

When a person carrying a gun or other fairly large metal object passes between the poles, a light flashes an alarm.

The detectors can be on the hidden side of a wall, or concealed in sign-holders, guide fences or even in coat racks or umbrella stands.

A person who triggers an alarm is asked to step aside for a further check. Here an officer can point the sensor-equipped nightstick, cane or flashlight, at him to find the location of the metal object.

H. R. MacPherson, Infinitics project manager, said police departments of Wilmington, Del., Detroit, New York and other cities are evaluating the new device. The detectors were used at the entrance to the courtroom in the recent New Jersey Mafia hearings, he said.

They caught no one with concealed weapons except detectives or other persons authorized to use them, but turned up two persons who were trying to smuggle tape recorders into the room, he said.

Prepare Report For Next Meet

The Citizens Awareness Committee, last night worked on shaping up a report to be submitted at another meeting scheduled for Friday night.

For this report, which will be the second one the non-official citizens committee will present to the public, attention is being centered on making brief statements covering primary causes of the school unrest at Rose, both those of past months and years, and causes which are immediate in nature.

This second report is also expected to contain a few basic suggestions for possible remedies of a practical nature which can be taken in Greenville in efforts to alleviate present tension and reduce the possibility of future recurrences.

It was again stressed by the committee that the committee has no official connection with any city or education agency, and that its intent has been and will continue to be one of fact finding and offering suggestions or recommendations which might be useful in helping to maintain acceptable conditions of calm at Rose High this school year.

A final report is expected to be issued next week, after which time the committee will probably cease to function.

Rouse Pays Filing Fee

Rober D. Rouse Jr. of Farmville, who last month announced his candidacy to succeed William J. Bundy as Superior Court Judge for the Third Judicial District, paid his filing fee to the State Board of Elections in Raleigh Tuesday.

Rouse, an attorney, served several terms (from 1954 to 1962) as Superior Court Solicitor for the district, which includes Carteret, Craven, Pamlico and Pitt Counties.

In filling, Rouse said, "In these days of turmoil, my previous experience as a solicitor, coupled with my strong conviction that an ordered society offers the best opportunity for each individual to have the ordered society offers the best opportunity for each individual to have the greatest amount of freedom, has caused me to ask the people of this district to nominate me... for the office on May 2."

"This office," the candidate continued, "with its opportunities for fair and yet firm enforcement of the law... is one of great significance in our time."

Judge Bundy has announced he will not seek re-election to the post he has held for many years.

Rouse will face at least one other candidate in his bid for the Democratic nomination.

Jones Plans Offer Bill

Rep. Walter Jones says he and other congressmen will introduce a bill calling for advance payments to farmers of "at least 50 percent of the total payments" due them this year under the feed grain program.

Citing the current shortage of money, plus the fact that many farmers include the payments in their budget, Jones charged that withdrawal of the advance payments would result in under hardship to farmers, particularly in the First District.

In 1969, advance feed grain payments in the district amounted to $3,670,923 involving 148,667 acres.

Jones added that many farmers included the advances, which have been made in previous years, in their budgets.

Reminder On City Tags

Greenville motorists were cautioned today to secure their city registration plates before the February 15 deadline or be subject to court action.

Police Chief T. E. Gladson said persons owning cars garaged within the city limits are required to have a 1970 city license plate in addition to their 1970 North Carolina state registration plate by midnight February 15 or be subject to arrest.

State law makes it illegal for vehicles to be operated after midnight February 15 unless they display new registration tags, and city ordinances set the same deadline for city plates.

In order to secure city plates in Greenville, purchasers are required to present their 1970 state registration certificate.

So far this year, only 5,008 tags have been sold as compared with 5,158 for the same period a year ago. Last year a total of 9,805 Greenville registration plates were issued.

Rouse Pays Filing Fee

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot says he is sure the U.S. government is "doing everything possible to obtain the release of Americans held prisoner in North Vietnam."

Perot, in Atlanta Wednesday for a meeting with about 30 wives of men listed as missing or as prisoners, said at a news conference he is convinced the issue of prisoner release has high priority with President Nixon.

Perot met with Nixon Sunday to discuss the issue.

The only way to obtain the release of the men, Perot said, is through public opinion. He said the North Vietnamese "see American leaders come and go. What they are sensitive to is public opinion."

Perot, who offered in January to pay up to $100 million for the release of U.S. servicemen in North Vietnam, said a massive letter-writing campaign is being organized. "We're going through civic organizations, churches and universities," he said.

Zoo's Baby Ape Is Kidnapped

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A grandmother gibbon ape has kidnaped the newborn offspring of her 8-year-old daughter.

Zookeepers said the 20-year-old grandmother, who gave birth herself 16 months ago and is still able to nurse offspring, took over the role of the mother.

"Grandparents are sometimes like that," observed animal keeper Mark Ward.

The mother sits in a corner, stares into space and wears a sulky expression, reported another animal keeper, Tom Huff.

"I'm sure it was quite a traumatic experience for her—it was her firstborn—and she's just beginning to come out of it now," Huff added.

Suffering no visible ill effects, the one-pound furry grandson clings to his grandmother.

Marketing Ass'n Begun

The State Cucumber Marketing Committee of the North Carolina Farm Bureau has officially launched a Cucumber Grower Marketing-Bargaining Program.

The group will operate as a division of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Marketing Association, according to Hugh Mills, chairman of the Pitt County Farm Bureau Cucumber Marketing Committee and a member of the State Farm Bureau Cucumber Committee.

Mills announced county farm bureaus have appointed cucumber marketing committees and based on their nominations, a state committee has been named.

The state committee decided that the marketing association should seek $8 for No. 1's, $4.50 for No. 2's, and $2.50 for No. 3's, in their contacts with companies who purchase North Carolina cucumbers.

"It is the feeling of the state committee that this price will help growers increase their net income," Mills said. "An increase in prices as recommended by the committee is a must if growers are to meet the ever increasing cost of production and harvesting."

Jones Plans Offer Bill

Rep. Walter Jones says he and other congressmen will introduce a bill calling for advance payments to farmers of "at least 50 percent of the total payments" due them this year under the feed grain program.

Citing the current shortage of money, plus the fact that many farmers include the payments in their budget, Jones charged that withdrawal of the advance payments would result in under hardship to farmers, particularly in the First District.

In 1969, advance feed grain payments in the district amounted to $3,670,923 involving 148,667 acres.

Jones added that many farmers included the advances, which have been made in previous years, in their budgets.

Lovell To Hang Up His Space Helmet

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — James A. Lovell Jr., whose 24 days in space are the world's record, says he'll hang up his space helmet after he commands the Apollo 13 moon-landing mission in April.

"There are a lot of people standing in line for flights," said the 40-year-old Navy captain who will be making his fourth trip into space. "I've had more than my share. So, I'll step aside after this one."

Lovell made the disclosure at an impromptu news conference Wednesday after he and civilian astronaut Fred W. Haise Jr. completed a three-hour session rehearsing their moon-walking chores.

Haise, a rookie spaceman, said, "I'm looking forward to this mission. I've invested a lot of time and training and I'd like to make more flights."

Riding with Lovell and Haise when they blast off from Cape Kennedy April 11 will be another rookie, Navy Lt. Cmdr.

Thomas K. Mattingly II. Lovell and Haise are to attempt a difficult landing in rugged lunar highlands north of the crater Fra Mauro. Scientists believe there are ancient rocks from deep beneath the surface in this area and that they might reveal much about the early history of the moon.

Lovell previously spent 14 days in space with Frank Borman on Gemini 7, four days with Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. on Gemini 12 and six days with Borman and William A. Anders on the Apollo 8 moon-orbit journey. Apollo 13 is to last 10 days, which would give Lovell a total of more than a month in space.

Belvoir Slips Past Blue Jays

STOKES — Belvoir - Falkland edged past Stokes - Pactolus, 63-62, Tuesday night to hand on to second place in the Pitt County Conference standings. The Belvoir girls also claimed a win, 30-26, in their contest.

The Stokes girls, still looking for their first conference win of the year, pushed out into a 9-3 lead in the first period. But Belvoir rallied in the second frame, outscoring Stokes, 10-4. That tied it at 13-13 at halftime.

In the third period, Belvoir got the points it needed to win, outthumping Stokes, 8-4. That put the Eaglettes ahead, 21-17. In the last frame, both teams hit nine points to maintain the four-point spread.

Theresa Pollard led Belvoir with 12 points, while Joyce Bailey had 14 to pace Stokes.

The boys game saw Belvoir take a 17-13 lead in the first period, as Stokes lost its leading scorer, Donald White, after he was charged with a technical foul and ejected. The loss of White may have proved fatal for the Blue Jays, but it brought about a rally in the second period. They outscored Belvoir, 22-11, in the second frame, and built up a 35-28 lead at the half.

In the third period, however, Belvoir began to rally, outthumping Stokes, 17-13. That cut the lead to 48-45 as the final period began. It stayed close the rest of the way, but Stokes held the lead with a minute to go, 62-61. But Joyce Moore hit two free throws with 36 seconds left to set the final score, 63-62 for the Eagles.

Moore led Belvoir with 20, while William Shivar had 16. Lester House led Stokes with 18, and John James had 16.

In the third period, Adkins kept it up, pouring in 19 to 14 for Sugg. That made the lead 52-34 by the end of the period. Sugg, finally outthumped Adkins, 23-15, in the final period, but the rally fell far short.

Farmville Nips Southern Wayne

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Red Devils edged past Southern Wayne High School last night, 56-55.

Farmville had to struggle back from behind in the final period of play to claim the victory. The Red Devils took a 16-14 lead in the first period, and managed to hold onto that margin at the half. Both teams scored 12 in the second frame to make it 28-26 at intermission.

In the third period, however, Bobby Brimage got hot for Southern Wayne and dumped in 10 points to lead the Vikings to a 19-8 edge in the frame, giving Southern a 45-36 lead as the final period opened. But Fred Sauls then got hot for the Red Devils, hitting on all six shots he took during the period. The last put Farmville into a 54-53 lead with 20 seconds left. Connie Tripp was fouled in the closing seconds and made both shots for a 56-53 lead, which was cut to the final score by Brimage's buzzer shot.

Sauls led the Farmville scoring with 15 points, while Robert Tripp had 13, Connie Tripp had 12 and Charles Purvis had 10. Brimage led Southern Wayne with 18, while Preston Parker had 17.

Farmville also captured the junior varsity game, 62-47.

St. James Is Upset Victim

Immanuel Baptist climbed back into a tie with St. James Methodist after Tuesday night's Church League action. Immanuel downed Mt. Pleasant, 40-30, while St. James was upset by Oakmont, 38-35. Presbyterian beat Black Jack, 42-38, in the other game.

Immanuel and St. James are now 6-2, while Presbyterian is 5-3 and Piney Grove is 4-3. They are followed by Black Jack, 3-4, Oakmont, 3-5, and Mt. Pleasant, 0-8.

In the opener, Mt. Pleasant and Immanuel battled to a 19-19 tie in the first period. But Immanuel pushed in 21 points in the second half, while Mt. Pleasant could get only 11, and that was the game.

Black Jack built up a 19-16 lead in the first half of play, but Presbyterian took command in the second period to win it. They

South Carolina, N. C. State Both Win After Fighting Off Late Rally Efforts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The two top basketball teams in the Atlantic Coast Conference had to fight off furious efforts by upset-minded upstarts Wednesday night before eking out their victories.

League-leading South Carolina trailed Temple at the half before rebounding for a 79-71 victory and second-place North Carolina State nipped Maryland 64-54 after trailing most of the first half.

Duke downed Clemson 92-88 in the other game involving a conference team.

Playing in a steady roar from a hostile Philadelphia crowd, the Gamecocks, with their No. 2 national ranking at stake, recovered from a 3-28 halftime deficit behind the brilliant gunnery of John Roche.

The 6-foot-3 guard sank only four points in the first half, but pumped in 30 after intermission.

Roche collected 25 points in the first ten minutes of the half.

North Carolina State pulled ahead in the closing minutes of the first half and held a 35-30 lead at the break. The Wolfpack pulled away midway of the second half on field goals by Rick Anheuser and Dan Wells.

Maryland's Will Hetzel fired 24 points — 15 in the first half — while North Carolina State's Ed Lettwich and Vann Williford each sank 16.

Randy Denton powered Duke to its victory with a career-high 37 points.

Denton's effort took some of the shine off Clemson's Butch Zatezalo, who fired 33 points and set a school career scoring record of 1,572 points. The Blue Devils led by nine points at the half, and then fought off a Clemson comeback engineered by Zatezalo and Dickie Foster. Their shooting pulled Clemson within three points, until baskets by Dick Venzio and Denton put the game out of reach.

Rick Katherman also proved a deadly scoring performer for the Blue Devils, hitting 10 field goals and missing only once for 25 points. North Carolina, hobbled by injuries, plays Wake Forest in Winston-Salem, N. C., tonight in the only game involving an ACC team. The Deacons scored a 91-90 upset over the Tar Heels earlier this season.

North Carolina has been hampered by the loss of Bill Chamberlain and Lee Dedmond because of injuries. Wake Forest is fresh from a 74-73 upset over 15th-ranked Davidson.

College Players Make Assault On The Basket

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
It was a basket barrage, no less, in college basketball.

Pistol Pete Maravich tossed in 52 points, Austin Carr and Ken Durrett each 44, John Roche 34 and Tom Daley and Andy Owens each 33.

Roche scored 30 points of his overall total in the second half as he rallied South Carolina to a 79-71 victory over Temple Wednesday night, the 15th in a row for the nationally second-ranked Gamecocks.

South Carolina was down 33-28 at halftime before Roche erupted after the intermission to turn the game around.

"Roche went to the basket more," explained Frank McGuire, South Carolina coach, after the contest which featured a doubleheader at the Palestra in Philadelphia. "If he had gone to the basket earlier he would have had 30 in the first half, too."

That would have given Roche a 60-point night compared to the 52 Maravich canned in leading Louisiana State to a 97-75 triumph over Florida at Gainesville.

Pistol Pete threw in 20 field goals and 12-of-16 free throws to up his all-time collegiate career scoring record to 3,088 points.

Carr got his 44 points for Notre Dame as he paced the Irish over St. Peter's 135-88 at South Bend. Durrett tallied his 44 for LaSalle as the Explorers humbled Lafayette 102-73 in the opener of the Philadelphia twin bill.

Daley collected his 33 for Penn State at University Park, Pa. where the Nitanny Lions beat Syracuse 103-95. Owens got his 33 for Florida in the Gators' losing cause against LSU. North Carolina State, No. 5 in The Associated Press poll, downed Maryland 64-54 at Raleigh for the Wolfpack's 16th victory against one defeat.

The Providence Friars upset 19th-ranked Villanova 54-44 on the shooting of Jim Larrange. He tied the score at 41-41 then put the Friars ahead to stay with another field goal. Altogether he tallied 18 points in the Friars' home court triumph.

Duquesne came from behind to beat Holy Cross 82-72 at Worcester paced by Mickey Davis' 25 points.

Virginia Tech shaded West Virginia 76-75, Louisville clicked over Memphis State 77-48, Duke beat Clemson 72-68, Georgia tripped Georgia Tech 74-69 and Ohio U. took Toledo 80-67. St. John's of New York defeated Rhode Island 85-67 in the completion of Tuesday night's suspended game.

All-American Calvin Murphy, usually a high scorer, matched his season low of 22 points, as Niagara trounced Buffalo 98-68. Murphy ran into foul trouble and sat out most of the second half.

Among the small colleges Dave Auten broke loose for 43 points in leading Amherst over Springfield 105-98 in double overtime. Greg Hill and Mike White each got 39 for American International as AIC downed Hartford 118-101.

Concentration Needed When Playing Hope Golf

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The Bob Hope Classic, with its unique, often confusing format calls for a slightly different approach to golf, Arnold Palmer said.

"Well," Palmer said with a broad grin, "it requires a more liberal approach. If you can't concentrate, you sure shouldn't be playing in this tournament."

Palmer had a 68, four under par and one stroke off the lead Wednesday in the opening round of the only 90-hole event on the pro tour.

Veteran Bob Rosburg, Charles Coody, Labron Harris, Bruce Devlin and Larry Ziegler all had 67s to lead the closely bunched field.

Bobby Greenwood and Rod Funseth matched Palmer's 68. U.S. Open champion Orville Moody and Masters title-holder George Archer were among the dozen at 69. Lee Trevino and Pete Brown, the long-shot winner of last week's Andy Williams-San Diego Open, were in the big bunch at 70.

Defending champion Billy Casper had a 71. Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and British Open champ Tony Jacklin are not competing.

The 136 pros play one round on each of four courses—with a different team of three amateurs each day—for the first four days. Playing in foursomes, with three amateurs, it took almost five hours to play a round the first day.

"If you're playing good, it doesn't bother you at all," the free wheeling Ziegler said. "If you're playing bad, well ..."

"It may require more concentration, Coody said.

"A lot depends on the amateurs you have to be with," said Devlin.

Palmer agreed.

"Usually the amateurs are pretty good," he said. "But you can get situations. Say you've got an important putt. The amateur is on in eight and is putting for a nine and wants to practice his putt. Well, it can get pretty distracting."

The 40-year-old master had six birdies, missed five other birdie putts of 10 feet or less and had two bogeys, one on the last hole that would have given him a share of the lead. He missed the green on that one, then missed a five-foot putt. He played at Indian Wells, as did the 43-year-old Rosburg, a former PGA champ who had just returned to the tour on a full-time basis. Rosburg spiced his round with an eagle three, pitching in from 80 feet on the par five eighth.

Devlin, a one-time master plumber from Australia, Ziegler and Harris, a former amateur champ, all played La Quinta, generally considered the toughest of the four courses, and all had strings of three consecutive birdies.

Williamston Beats Plymouth

PLYMOUTH — Williamston High School took a pair of wins over Plymouth Tuesday night. The boys won their game, 56-48, while the girls came away with a 35-34 victory.

In the girls game, Williamston pushed out into an 11-3 lead in the first period, but Plymouth came roaring back after that. Plymouth dumped in 12, while Williamston got seven. That cut the lead back to 18-15 by the half.

Williamston added one point to their lead in the third period, getting nine points, while Plymouth got eight. That gave the Green Wave a 27-23 lead with a frame to go. Plymouth fought back, scoring 11 to Williamston's eight, but it fell one short of tying the score.

Joey Johns led Williamston with 11, while Ann Everett had 20 to pace Plymouth.

In the boys game, Williamston rolled along to a 19-11 lead in the first period, then saw the lead evaporate in the second quarter. Plymouth tossed in 13 points, while the Wave managed only five. That tied the score at 24-24 at the half.

Williamston came back, however, and scored 16 points to 10 for Plymouth in the third, and that put the Wave back ahead, 40-34. The Wave kept it up in the final period with a 16-14 advantage to keep the lead.

Raymond Andrews led Williamston with 20, while Henry Jenkins had 12. Iris James paced Plymouth with 12.

VMI-Furman In Southern Battle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The battle to avoid the Southern Conference basketball basement and a spot in the league's championship tournament against front-running Davidson resumes tonight at Lexington, Va.

Virginia Military Institute, who now holds down the cellar with a 1-6 league record, plays host to Furman's Paladins, 2-4 and one of three other teams trying to keep the Keydets down.

A victory for VMI would move the Keydets up to a tie with Richmond, which got out of last place Tuesday night with an 82-81 triple overtime victory over The Citadel. The triumph raised the Spiders' record to 2-6 and dropped the Bulldogs to 2-5 in the four-way scrap.

The Furman-VMI clash is one of two tonight for conference teams. The other finds East Carolina at home against Jacksonville, the nation's eighth-ranked team beginning a two-day swing through the conference. Jacksonville will be in Richmond Friday night.

George Washington's Colonials pulled their over-all record up to 8-11 with a 63-60 squeeze past Navy in Wednesday's only action involving conference teams.

The Colonials capitalized on five straight free throws in the last 1:40 to break a 58-58 tie. Walt Szczerbiak hitting four of them. Szczerbiak and Mike Talant had 13 points each for the Colonials.

Duke Will Meet Florida In 11th

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — One of Ray Graves' darkest hours as Florida Gator football coach came in 1962 when his Gators blew a 21-0 halftime lead against Duke.

The underdog Blue Devils rallied and stormed past Florida 28-21 on a cool night in Jacksonville's Gator Bowl.

It was the only time the two southern teams have met in football, but it was a game that haunted Graves throughout his 10-year career.

Graves is no longer coach. He stepped up to fulltime athletic director last month, handing the reins to onetime Gator quarterback Doug Dickey.

Graves scheduled Florida's newly-legal 11th regular season game Wednesday for 1970-71. The opponent will be Duke as the Gators twice return to the scene of the collapse, the 70,000-seat Gator Bowl.

The Gators will play the Atlantic Coast Conference team Sept. 12, 1970, in a Saturday night game and play the Blue Devils 12 months later, again in the Gator Bowl.

Jacksonville officials agreed to add $185,000 worth of boosting to the stadium's lighting system, making the candlepower high enough to offer the match for possible national color television coverage.

Duke and Florida also agreed to play in 1973, Graves said, but the site was not announced. It is expected to also be played in the Sunshine State. A previously-signed contract will pit the Blue Devils and Gators in Gainesville's Florida Field in 1974 and again in '75 at Duke's campus in Durham, N.C.

Yarborough Gets Driving Okay

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Wood brothers, Glen and Leonard, are quiet Virginians who smile a lot, say very little that is unimportant, and build among the best stock racing cars in the world.

They were leaping for joy Wednesday. Their driver was back in the cockpit and showing his old form.

The Wood brothers and stocky, ex-football player Cale Yarborough have been among the most successful racing combinations around. They have won almost a quarter of a million dollars in two years.

But last December, in the final big race of the NASCAR Grand National season, Yarborough's car smacked the wall of the new Texas International Speedway at College Station and its driver was hospitalized, severely hurt.

Doctors in Texas and in Florence, S.C., near where Yarborough makes his home, despaired of his ever driving again.

Two weeks ago, however, Yarborough walked out of a clinic in Florence and announced he was ready to go racing. Even the Woods couldn't believe it.

Cale arrived in Daytona Beach shortly after noon Wednesday, bringing with him a medical release from his South Carolina doctor. He checked in at the track hospital, cleared inspection there and was sent to Halifax General Hospital in town for an orthopedic examination that included X-rays.

Oil Spill Disaster Ignited A Spirit Of Reaction

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — There were bigger oil spills, but it was the Santa Barbara disaster just one year ago that finally lubricated the creaky wheels of government.

Today, while dribbles of oil still streak the sea off the California coast, the federal government at last has begun to build the bulwarks needed for years against the growing threat of spilled oil.

That danger already had been emphasized almost two years before Santa Barbara when, in March 1967, the giant oil tanker Torrey Canyon rammed into another ship and spilled 119,000 tons of crude oil across the water, to blacken the coasts of Southern England and France.

For the maritime nations of the world it was an eye-opener. "Before the sinking of the Torrey Canyon," says Kenneth Biglane, the Interior Department's top oil pollution expert, "the world had not realized so many square miles of water or land could be insulted by just one accident."

President Lyndon B. Johnson ordered the secretaries of interior and transportation to assess the pollution-defenses of the United States' own 88,633 miles of shoreline.

In February 1968, they reported: "This country is not fully prepared to deal effectively with spills of oil or other hazardous materials—large or small—and much less with a Torrey Canyon type disaster."

The report recommended tougher antipollution regulations, stronger legislation and more funding, expanded research, strengthening of international agreements and development of a domestic contingency plan.

But there was little motion on regulations, research or legislation.

To cope with spills from ships, the nation's best weapon was a 1924 law, applicable—because of a 1966 amendment—only against "grossly negligent or willful" violations. The word "grossly," lawyers said, made it virtually unenforceable.

It did not cover spills from land-based facilities—a "critically significant" omission, according to the secretaries' report. Interior department regulations were equally weak.

Legislation to bar pollution by land and sea facilities under threat of fines and imprisonment, and to put the clean-up costs on the polluter, was introduced in 1968 but failed to pass.

On Jan. 15, 1969, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, introduced similar legislation which is still alive in congress. At the time, then Alaska Gov. Walter J. Hickel was getting a hard time from the Senate Interior Committee as President Nixon's nominee to be secretary of the interior. Critics suspected him of being sympathetic to the oil industry and unsympathetic to the environment. Hickel was confirmed, however, and was sworn in Jan. 24.

Four days later an almost completed oil well being drilled from a platform miles off Santa Barbara went out of control.

For 11 days the oil coated some 800 square miles of water and lapped onto the white sand of a 25-mile beachfront until, on Feb. 7, the well was sealed with concrete, shutting off the leak. Oil has continued to seep slowly ever since, from the already-saturated ocean bottom.

Spills large or small had been occurring without much public attention at the rate of about 2,000 a year. But Santa Barbara was too much.

Thousands of letters from outraged citizens throughout the nation poured into Washington. Hickel surprised his critics by moving fast and hard to tighten up offshore oil regulations. He placed unlimited liability on an offshore operator to clean up any oil spill and bear the full cost, whether it was the operator's fault or not.

And he authorized department officials to shut down immediately any operation polluting or threatening to pollute the ocean from a federal lease—with a verbal order, if necessary.

Union Oil Co., driller of Santa Barbara's embarrassing well, already had volunteered to pay its clean-up costs; but oil companies in general objected loudly to Hickel's moves.

Hickel also started a review of the spill-contingency plan. The legislation, too, has advanced to the verge of adoption with bills similar in principle passed by both the House and Senate and now in a conference committee for resolution of differences.

The bills would remove the requirement of proving "gross" negligence; provide fines and imprisonment for violations; allow the government to clean up and charge the cost against the polluter.

The biggest unmet need, Big-lane said, is for technological breakthroughs on better ways to destroy, disperse or recapture oil once it has gotten loose.

At Santa Barbara, the best science could do was mop up the oil with straw after it hit the beach.

"The technology to mitigate oil spills just doesn't exist," said Biglane. "Some people say straw is pretty primitive. But at this point, I say thank God for straw."

Meanwhile, an international oil pollution convention was amended last October to ban excessive dumping of oil anywhere on international waters.

The amendments now await ratification by the 40 member nations, including the United States.

Biglane said all these moves—the tough new regulations, the contingency plan revisions, the expected legislation and the international agreement—"give a pretty good push in the right direction."

And Santa Barbara can claim the unwanted distinction of being a major cause of it all.

"I think Santa Barbara gave an impetus to the legislation and the departmental actions," Biglane commented, "in the same way that Torrey Canyon gave a push to the attack on oil pollution worldwide." "Santa Barbara," added his assistant, Richard Hess, "was just the straw that broke the camel's back."

Highway Patrol Promotes Boyd

John B. Boyd, a veteran of more than 38 years with the North Carolina Highway Patrol was promoted from technical sergeant to second lieutenant effective February 1.

Boyd's promotion was announced by Capt. R. F. Williamson, commander of Highway Patrol Troop A.

Lt. Boyd received his gold bars in ceremonies conducted in Raleigh Monday.

The Gastonia native, who took the oath as a patrolman in 1931, was stationed in Monroe until 1950 when promoted to sergeant and transferred to Rocky Mount. Boyd was promoted to technical sergeant and transferred to Troop A headquarters here in July 1952.

The 62-year-old officer is married to the former Helen Helms of Monroe and they have two sons, one a Navy pilot and the other an Army helicopter pilot now serving his second tour of duty in Vietnam.

Lt. Boyd is a member of Crown Point Masonic Lodge, Sudan Temple Shrine and the Moose Lodge.

He was one of six technical sergeants promoted to the rank of second lieutenant at the Monday ceremony.

Included in that group was William Walton Storie, a Nash County resident stationed at Troop D headquarters in Greensboro—the only member of the original State Highway Patrol serving on active duty; and McAuley C. Byrum, a Williamston native who joined the patrol in 1942 and has been assigned to stations in Henderson, Clinton, Williamston, Wilkesboro and Elkin in addition to his present station at Troop E headquarters, Salisbury.

Completed WTI Course

Several local officers have completed an eight day Breathalyzer Training Course for new operators sponsored by Wilson County Technical Institute in cooperation with the Coastal Plain Law Enforcement Association.

The officers include: David L. Garrison, Ruel H. Atkinson, Greenville Police Department; Claudie B. Owen Jr., James W. Pridgen, Ayden Police Department; and Spencer F. Padgett of the North Carolina State Highway Patrol.

The officers received instruction in the theory and actual operation of the Breathalyzer equipment. In addition, they became familiar with laws affecting use of the equipment, chemical effects of alcohol on the human body and associated subjects.

A total of 26 law enforcement officers from the state attended the program.

Agency To Give Small Towns Aid

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH N.C. (AP)—The director of the new North Carolina Department of Local Affairs says his agency will concentrate on helping small towns.

"The large cities don't need our planning services," said G. Irvin Aldridge in a talk to a Manpower Conference in Wrightsville Beach.

Large cities, he said, have their own planning staffs. "But where, for example, does Greene County go for help? Its largest town is Snow Hill with a population just over 1,000. It certainly cannot afford a staff of community planners."

Aldridge said his planning division has a staff of 22 persons and "is specifically designed to promote orderly growth in population areas below 50,000 people."

Concern Over Status Of West German Soldiers

By WELLINGTON LONG BONN (UPI)—Since West Germany's enforced disarmament ended with the mustering of 6,000 volunteers 13 years ago this month, the armed forces have had difficulty finding their proper place in society.

Lt. Gen. Albert Schnez, commanding the 328,000-man army, says the situation is so bad that soldiers generally are ashamed to appear in public after duty hours in their uniforms.

In a study completed last June and summing up the views of scores of dissatisfied and worried officers, Schnez likened the situation to that of the French army on the eve of its collapse in 1940.

"Only a reform of root and branch, of the armed forces and of society, with the aim of attacking the evil at its source, can decisively increase the fighting power of the army," Schnez declared.

Study Leaked To Press
When sections of the then-secret study leaked to the press at the end of last year, Schnez head was demanded by commentators who claimed he was trying to overturn the democratization introduced into the army when it was recreated in 1956.

Schnez blamed "the catastrophe of 1945, the atomic trauma and re-education for negatively affecting the willingness of the German people to defend itself."

When the armed forces were re-established, politicians who recalled the high-handed way the army conducted itself toward governments from 1919 until the Nazis came to power in 1933, were determined to anchor the primacy of parliament over the generals in law.

While Schnez did not challenge this principle, he declared that the top soldiers are under-ranked compared to civilians and to generals in other democracies. This devalues the whole command system, he complained.

Problem Is Complicated
The problem is complicated by the restrictions placed on low-ranking non-commissioned officers, who no longer are able to discipline their soldiers.

"The unrealistic demand that authority must grow only out of the superiors personality must inevitably place many officers and non-coms in a difficult position," schnez declared. He described the result as "a crisis of authority."

To keep out of trouble that might be caused by soldiers who objected, Schnez said, many officers have their units spend most of their time cleaning equipment. Too little time is spent in field training, and most officers are afraid to demand hard physical training.

A development that keeps units unsettled, he said, is the habit of many soldiers of claiming conscientious objection to bearing arms only after their basic training. Schnez proposed that once basic training was complete, a soldier no longer be allowed to claim conscientious objections. Other trouble-makers ought to be assigned to special units to make it impossible for them to disrupt discipline in other companies, he said.

Auto Dealer Is Adding The MG

Deward Smith, owner and operator of Smith Motor Company in Washington, has announced the addition of the English-made Austin-MG line of sports cars to his dealership of General Motors automobiles.

Currently considered the best selling imported sports cars in the U. S., the 1970 MGB sports roadster and MGB-GT fastback features marked front and rear design changes and many interior improvements. The MG is manufactured by England's largest supplier of sports cars for the U. S. market.

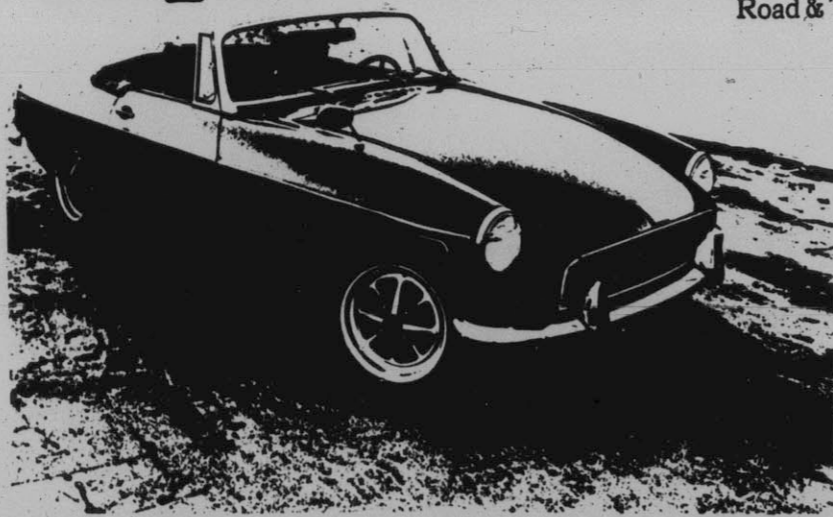

The race-proven 1-798 four-cylinder, 92 horsepower MG engine, with 0-60 acceleration capability of 11.8 seconds, continues in the new models.

The first MG's made their appearance in the U. S. in the late 1940's. The success of the early TC and TD models quickly led to the importation of numerous makes of sports cars.

Smith said that the firm, located on Carolina Avenue in Washington, has factory-trained technicians and a completely stocked parts department to handle all service for the Austin-MG cars.

"The biggest bargain in today's imported car market!"

DRUMS along the POTOMAC

Drum major in fur and leather helmet commands musicians with his 'espointon.

Uniform in style of Washington's Continental Army.

George Washington had a tin ear. He himself admitted, "I can neither sing one of the songs nor raise a single note on any instrument to convince the unbelieving."

Despite his lack of musical ability he would have had little trouble recognizing the music played each year on his birthday at Mount Vernon by the Fife and Drum Corps of the Honor Guard Company, 3rd Infantry (The Old Guard), U.S. Army, Fort Myer, Virginia.

The Corps dresses in exact copies of fife and drum corps uniforms of the Revolutionary era—including wigs. The drum major wears a large fur and leather helmet, the Light Infantry Cap, as his badge of distinction, and brandishes an espointon, an infantry weapon once carrier by commissioned officers, to convey commands to the musicians.

The Corps uses six-hole wooden fifes, hand-made, rope-tensioned drums and bugles, replicas of those used in Revolutionary times. The music includes such tunes as "The World Turned Upside Down," which the British played as they surrendered to Washington at Yorktown, "Yankee Doodle" and other Revolutionary airs—all thoroughly researched before they were added to the repertoire.

In addition to the special birthday music, the band plays at many events in Washington, throughout the nation, and in foreign countries.

Hand-made, rope-tensioned drums are replicas of those used in Revolutionary times.

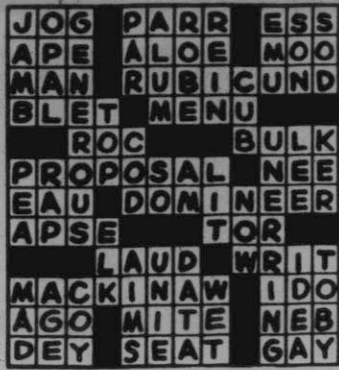

Fife and Drum Corps plays at Mount Vernon on Washington's birthday.

Jerry's case should wake up a million dads, for in their preoccupation with winning a pile of dough before they are 50, they unintentionally "stunt" their child's social growth. CASE M-518: Jerry D., aged 12, is a shy boy.

His Sunday School Class was having a ball game with another group from a neighboring church.

But Jerry stood on the sidelines, eagerly watching and fondly hoping against hope that he might be asked to participate.

"Jerry," I inquired, "why aren't you on your class team?" For I saw some younger boys thereon whom Jerry outpointed in seniority.

The bidding: West Pass North Pass East Pass South Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♠

When East observed that declarer was pursuing a course which could not help but succeed in today's hand, it was merely sound strategy on his part to steer his opponent in another direction. Whether or not South should have been influenced by East's action we will leave to the reader's judgment.

West opened the five of spades against South's three no trump contract, the seven was played from dummy and East's eight dislodged declarer's queen. Declarer could count six top tricks in spades, hearts, and clubs. Three more might be obtained in diamonds, if declarer were lucky enough to find East with the ace and one. He could, under the circumstances, lead a diamond from dummy thru East and win the first trick with his king. A diamond return is then ducked in both hands felling the ace and establishing the rest of the suit.

Declarer led a small club to dummy's ten and returned the three of diamonds. East was obliged to play low and South's king won the trick. Declarer was about to play a second diamond when he perceived an alternative prospect. With the diamond in, he now had seven tricks and needed only two more. If East had either a singleton heart honor or the doubleton king-queen, then two additional tricks could be established in that suit.

At no additional risk, South decided to cash the heart ace just to see what happened. East was fully aware of the consequences for his side if South played another diamond and, in an effort to convince his opponent that richer rewards lay elsewhere, he casually dropped the king of hearts under South's ace. The results of this play were far reaching: declarer confidently continued with the eight of hearts permitting it to ride.

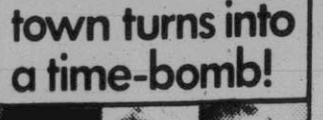

East took the trick with the ten of hearts and the king of spades smothered dummy's jack and cleared South's last stopper. There was no way for declarer to establish his ninth trick in time anymore, and he went down instead to a two trick defeat.

Judge Jails Defendant

By F. RICHARD CICCONE

Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — David T. Dellinger, one of seven men charged with conspiracy to incite rioting during the 1968 Democratic National Convention, has been jailed by Judge Julius J. Hoffman for repeated courtroom outbursts and calling a witness a liar.

The judge revoked Dellinger's $10,000 bail for the remainder of the trial at the close of Wednesday's session.

There were scuffles, screams and epithets directed at the diminutive, 74-year-old jurist.

Abbott "Abbie" Hoffman, a defendant who often handsprings his way into the courtroom and gobbles candy and cough syrup, was tossed onto a bench by marshals when he tried to embrace Dellinger.

Hoffman yelled at the judge: "You're a disgrace to the Jews, you runt! You'd have served Hitler better."

Federal marshals scurried from one side of the long defense table to the other, ordering the defendants to be quiet.

Many women, including Hoffman's wife, were dragged from the courtroom screaming.

Judge Hoffman said Dellinger, 54, had caused repeated interruptions of the trial and that revocation of bail was the only way to put a halt to the vile and obscene language.

The outburst which prompted the judge's action came during testimony by police Capt. James T. Riordan, who was called by the prosecution as the rebuttal witness.

Riordan testified that on the night of Aug. 28, 1968, he saw Dellinger march out of Grant Park with a band of protesters carrying Viet Cong flags.

At that point in the testimony, Dellinger rose, shouted an oath and declared: "That's an absolute lie!"
