Fire In Room Of Jarvis Hall

A number of East Carolina University co-eds were ushered from their rooms in Jarvis Hall late yesterday afternoon when a fire erupted in a third-floor room.

Firemen, who quickly extinguished the blaze, reported heavy damage resulted to the dormitory room and its contents.

Co-eds Lynn Williams and Genny Reeve, firemen said, had left their room about 5 p.m. The fire was discovered about 5:45 p.m., and Box 53 at the intersection of Fifth and Student Streets was sounded for the fire.

Marijuana In Mail Results In Arrest

Edward Barnes Ellis Jr., 19 of Havelock was arrested here yesterday afternoon on charges of possession of marijuana, after he picked up a package containing 1½ pounds of marijuana at the U.S. Post Office.

The arrest was made about 2:20 p.m. by State Bureau of Investigation agents, customs agents and postal inspectors.

Spokesman for the SBI said Ellis was taken into custody and his 1963 model car confiscated after he claimed the package, addressed to him, at the Post Office.

The marijuana, sent to Ellis from Korea, was contained in a plastic bag concealed in a pillow which was wrapped with wrapping paper.

Customs agents had followed the package on its journey from the West Coast where it entered the United States.

Ellis, and East Carolina University sophomore student, lived at the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity house at 807 East Third St.

He was placed in Pitt County jail under a $5,000 bond for his appearance at a preliminary hearing in District Court here March 3.

The boy's father is a civil service employee.

SBI agents said the wholesale value of the marijuana confiscated is about $500.

Hundreds Quizzed In Ft. Bragg Slayings

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — Army investigators said today they have questioned hundreds of persons about the fatal slayings of an Army doctor's pregnant wife and his two daughters Tuesday, but they had no "prime suspects."

None of those questioned has been detained. Col. Robert Kriwanek, post provost marshal, said at a news conference.

The doctor, Capt. Jeffrey MacDonald, 26, of Patchogue, N.Y., who also was stabbed in his apartment on the post, said the family was attacked by a hippie-type band of three men and a girl.

Kriwanek said more than 50 of those questioned will be subject to further interrogation.

Among those being questioned are persons MacDonald had treated for drug use, Kriwanek said, but he emphasized the doctor was not a specialist in drugs and had treated no more

Nixon Points To Missile Buildup

Russians' Intent Questioned

Clamoring For Clarification Of Nixon View

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts were under way today to induce a new statement from President Nixon clarifying his position on a national school desegregation policy before the Senate's showdown vote on the controversial issue.

The clamor for a policy statement emerged Tuesday when Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania offered an amendment to a massive education bill requiring uniform national application of school desegregation policies.

Scott's rider was a substitute for a more far-reaching amendment by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., and the GOP leader said

Frank Bryant Re-Elected

RALEIGH (AP) — For the third successive year, Frank Bryant of Booneville, a tobacco grower and former legislator, has been elected chairman of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Committee.

As the committee held its first meeting of the year in Raleigh Tuesday, Howard B. Cone, vice president of Universal Leaf Tobacco Co., of Richmond, Va., and Thomas DeJarnette of South Boston, Va., a warehouseman, were named vice chairmen. Graham Knott of Kinston, a warehouseman was elected secretary.

The committee is a voluntary group without statutory authority which sets tobacco market opening dates and auction schedules for flue-cured tobacco.

It voted to set up a subcommittee to study ways of improving the marketing system and to make recommendations to the full committee.

David H. Sloan, president of the South Carolina Farm Bureau, was appointed chairman of the subcommittee. He said his group would meet in Raleigh March 18.

A grower and Farm Bureau representative on the committee, W. A. Allen of Farmville, called on the committee to fulfill an earlier pledge to work toward earlier market openings, even if on a limited basis, so that growers will be able to sell tobacco in their home areas when it is ready for market.

Peruvians Hail 3 Astronauts message, Nixon presented his proposed expansion of the Safeguard ballistic missile defense program as the best immediate response to the Soviet build-up.

He expressed hope that eventually he could negotiate a limitation or reduction of nuclear missiles with Russia.

By the end of this year, Nixon reported, Russia will have an estimated 1,590 missiles capable flatly the Nixon administration was behind it. Specifically, he said, Secretary Robert H. Finch of Health, Education and Welfare had endorsed it.

The key difference in the proposals was that Scott's substitute applies specifically to unconstitutional conditions of racial segregation while Stennis' rider was aimed at both residential segregation in the North as well as legal segregation in the South.

Challenging Scott, Stennis said Nixon had twice declared he favored the concept of his amendment and that the substitute appeared at variance with this. He demanded to know if Scott could produce anything in writing from the President.

Then came an even stronger counter claim. Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said he had called Bryce N. Harlow, counselor to the President, and had been told "this substitute does not have the imprimatur of the White House."

Scott answered curtly, "I stand on my original statement."

School Money Problems Aired

The problem of money was one of the principal points discussed at an informal joint meeting of the Citizens Awareness Committee and the Greenville Board of Education last night at Elmhurst School.

"We realize, as pointed out in your recommendations," commented board member Harding Sugg, "the real necessity of employing more guidance counselors and principals at Rose High School. "But we are running ten schools in Greenville. At the beginning of the school year we were operating $40,000 in the red, and that's based on purely what the board thought was the most vital operations. We find we will be running even deeper into the red.

"The point I'm making is, this board has to operate on a limited budget, giving priority where priority is most needed," Sugg stated.

Responding to Sugg, committee co-chairman Dr. Robert Lee Humber said: "We realize the school board, in order to implement any matters, must have funds. Will we as citizens be willing to tax ourselves?"

"If the citizens realize the problems facing our school system and are not prepared to meet our problems, we should reevaluate our thinking and not expect the board to perform miracles without the means of implementing policies and programs conducive to good education."

At the invitation of the Citizens of reaching the American mainland against an estimated 1,710 for the United States. Five years ago, in mid-1965, he said, Russia had only 331 such missiles to 1,398 for the United States. Under the Johnson administration, Nixon said, the United States leveled off missile deployment but the Russians continued building up.

"... The Soviets' present build-up of strategic forces," Nixon said, "together with what we know about their development and test programs, raises serious questions about where they are headed and the potential threats we and our allies face."

For Council And School Board

Precinct-Basis City Elections Recommended By Citizens Group

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

A recommendation that "steps be started to make our City Council and School Board elected representatively of each precinct of Greenville" is one of six points contained in the latest report to citizens released by the Citizens Awareness Committee.

The third report, prepared by a sub-committee to eight members, headed by Dr. Andrew Best and Rev. Tommy Payne, was approved by the committee last night, following a meeting with members of the city Board of Education at Elmhurst Elementary School.

Other recommendations set forth in the brief version of the third report are:

- frequent interracial meetings in our churches.
- joint meets of black and white civic and service organizations.
- programs and projects of benefit to our city undertaken by a joint effort of black and white organizations.
- "That fair employment practices be followed at all levels of local government employment."
- "That representative black and white appointments be made to all Boards of Greenville that are appointed by the City Council."
- "That the Mayor, City Council and Chamber of Commerce declare their genuine support of fair and open housing policies in Greenville," and

The 40,000-word message, with a global look at the past year and projections for the future, stressed Nixon's stated intention to go on reducing U.S. involvement in the affairs of other lands, to seek partnership instead of domination in relations with friends and allies, and to try to negotiate peace-preserving agreements with Russia and eventually Red China.

He made these other major points:

- A breakthrough in Vietnam peace negotiations could "come without warning" but there's no sign it will. The United States Remains Ready To Be "flexible and generous" in negotiations if the Communists ever want to negotiate seriously. Nixon hopes the fighting will continue to decline but has no assurance that it will.

—The United States will continue to work for peace in the Middle East but can't do the job alone. The United States has warned the Soviet Union and other nations against being drawn "more deeply" into the Arab-Israeli conflict and would be gravely concerned if Russia sought to dominate the area.

—Nixon intends to enlarge U.S. cooperation with Asian nations "as they cooperate with rehabilitating property that is deteriorating within the project.

Under the program, he said, property owners will be entitled to "lower-than-the-market-interest" loans and government grants. In addition, technical advice and counseling will be available to property owners, Wagner said.

In a few areas, he commented, where houses are in such a condition that rehabilitation would not be feasible, some property may be purchased by the commission and the land cleared to allow for new housing units to be built.

"This, however, is not the primary purpose of the GHRP," Wagner pointed out.

Generally, the project covers the area bordered by Pitt Street, beginning at the Tar River and running south to Dickinson Avenue, along Eighth Street to Washington, along Tenth to Forbes and south to Deck Street.

The President also pledged to work for a freer flow of capital and trade among nations, to promote international cooperation in expanding communications and knowledge, and to support the United Nations. He declared, too, his readiness to negotiate with Eastern European nations on establishing more normal relations at whatever pace they prefer.

That the full use be made of a bi-racial Greenville Good Neighbor Council to assist in problems of communication between the black and white communities."

They again stressed the fact that theirs is a voluntary group of concerned citizens, without any legal status or authority.

Committee members expressed the consensus that these points, although not directly addressed to the recent critical situation at Rose High, were relative to the background of the causes which has led to unrest, pertaining as they do the overall situation existing in Greenville.

"The basic remedy for a divided community is for all of us to make a very real effort to establish adequate dialogue between black and white citizens. Only in this way can Greenville become one community in which our children find the climate of cooperation that is so much needed at Rose High School."

The committee approved plans for the publication of a comprehensive brochure being prepared by the sub-committee. The brochure is to include a preface by Dr. Robert Lee Humber, newspaper clippings from local and state newspapers covering the situations at Rose High School in October 1969 and in January this year, reports issued by the committee, and a section with state policy matters on education.

"The purpose of this brochure," Tommy Payne stated, "will be to furnish officials and interested persons a compact, continuing account of developments, both of the tense situations, and of the efforts of this committee to help resolve some of the problems."

Interior Housing Surveys Renewal Project Areas

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville Redevelopment Commission staff members will begin tomorrow conducting interior housing and family composition surveys in the General Neighborhood Renewal Project area.

According to project manager, T.I. Wagner, the survey will be a 20 per cent sampling of every fifth family living unit within the area.

External surveys have already been completed, he said, and the interior studies will aid in compiling information to be used by the commission and its staff in determining the overall needs of the people and structures in the area.

Close to 1100 homes or family living units are found in the 400 acres covered by the GNRP. Generally, the units are located in the older neighborhoods of the city covered the next eight to ten years, Wagner pointed out. Primary objectives are aimed at rehabilitating property that is deteriorating within the project.

Under the program, he said, property owners will be entitled to "lower-than-the-market-interest" loans and government grants. In addition, technical advice and counseling will be available to property owners, Wagner said.

The project continues west along Deck to the Atlantic Coastline railroad, follows the railroad north to Gooden Place, west to Ames Street, south to Kennedy and west to Perkins Street.

The boundary follows Perkins north to the Norfolk and Southern Railway and east along the tracks to SCL railroad, junction north to Columbia Avenue, along Columbia northwest to Spruce, down Spruce to Boyd, north to Ford Street on up to Fifth Street. The route progresses along Fifth to Elizabeth and follows north by the power plant to the river.

Staff members conducting the survey will carry letters of identification, Wagner said, and will present them to persons who have questions concerning their study.

The data will be used, along with exterior sampling material, to determine which specific area of GNRP will be the first execution project area for rehabilitation.

"When our staff members call at your home," executive director A. E. Dubber commented, "we will appreciate your cooperation and time that you give them in completing the necessary work."

Hearings For 9 Begin Today

DURHAM (AP) — Hearings for nine of 15 youths arrested on narcotics charges this week are scheduled to get underway in District Court today.

Chapel Hill police reported the arrest Tuesday of the 15th youth, Charles F. Echols, 21, of Carrboro, he was accused of sale and transportation of narcotics and released under $10,000 bond.

The Durham magistrate's office reported that one defendant, Curtis Howard Sitterson, University of North Carolina freshman and son of UNC chancellor J. Carlyle Sitterson was released on bond Tuesday afternoon. He was charged on four counts of possession of narcotics for sale.

Vocational Center Site Endorsed By Pitt Hospital Board

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt Memorial Hospital Board last night endorsed the county's attempt to secure a vocational rehabilitation center for this area with Greenville as the site.

Hospital Administrator C.D. Ward told the Board that Greenville, Wilson, and Goldsboro are vying for the installation.

The Board was told that Pitt Technical Institute has filed an application to begin training licensed practical nurses at Pitt Memorial and that the classes should begin in September.

Major privileges were granted to Dr. E.S. Douglas, local gynecologist and obstetrician, to use the hospital facilities. He has had "minor privileges" since he began practicing in Greenville over a year and a half ago. Only an oversight by the credentials committee has kept him from being given major privileges over a year ago, Ward said.

The Board is awaiting word from the state attorney general's office as to whether bids will have to be called for the installation of a new air conditioning system in the operating suite or whether the board can get a "wholesale price on the needed equipment."

Ward explained to the board that work is proceeding on the critical care unit renovation, but that it is slow because "a full house" of patients have to be worked around.

The Great Exercise Binge

The Reason You Hate Exercise May Be Locked In Your Genes

(Editor's Note: Following is the last of four articles on how millions of Americans are trying to shape up through exercise.)

By MARCIA HAYES
Copyright, 1970

Women's News Service
NEW YORK (WNS) — For every dedicated hiker, jogger, or all-around fitness fan, there are dozens of recalcitrant, exercise-hating endomorphs and ectomorphs. These are two of the three body types by which physiologists classify the human race. A true endomorph is someone born to be fat. His genes have programmed more fat cells and less muscle tissue, and he is psychologically attuned to eating and drinking, and also, incidentally, talking.

His opposite number is the ectomorph — tall, skinny, and introverted. In between the two is the mesomorph, the muscular he-man.

Basketball players tend to be ecto-meso combinations — like Lew Alcindor — while endo-mesos like Jack Nicklaus prefer golf. Pure mesomorphs go in for more taxing sports like handball and tennis. And most boxers are mesos, Muhammed Ali for one.

Football teams can have the full range of body types, from skinny ecto-meso ends to endomorphic linemen.

Those who find it easiest to exercise are the people with the highest portion of meso in their makeup. Everyone else has to bring willpower to bear, in a degree proportionate to their endo-ecto-meso-mix.

Why Do It At All?

And non-athletes often have to be logically persuaded that exercise is good for them.

"Why exercise at all?" asks a well-padded New Yorker, who would rather read a book than ride a bike, "It just builds up muscles, and I don't want muscles."

The answer of course, is that exercise will do a lot more. While it is no substitute for a good reducing diet, regular exercise will take off weight — a lot of weight. And it will do it far more effectively than a crash diet.

According to recent studies at Rockefeller University, people who combine a regular program of exercise with a diet lose weight nearly twice as fast as those on a diet alone. And they lose it in the right places — fatty tissue rather than muscle tissue.

Conversely, a starvation diet with no exercise will take off weight in the wrong places. A group of obese men placed on a 10-day starvation diet lost weight dramatically, but only 35 per cent of the loss was fatty tissue. The rest was lean tissue — like muscle.

Calories

The amount of food that the body "burns" is measured in heat units called calories (a calorie is the amount of heat needed to raise the temperature of one gram of water one degree centigrade). And food is assigned calories according to the amount of heat needed to burn it up. Calories that are not burned are stored as fat.

In other words, calories represent potential energy. They are not a measure of food intake but of energy output.

If you spent all day just lying around the house, you would burn about 1.25 calories every minute. At this rate, it would take an hour and 18 minutes to "burn" an apple — or 101 calories. The same thing could be done quicker by 19 minutes of walking or 5 minutes of running.

Thus a 26-minute run can be thought of as worth one malted milk shake. A 15-minute walk will pay for a slice of bread and butter; a 21-minute run earns a piece of strawberry shortcake.

At home, running up the stairs ten times a day will burn about 200 calories (depending along with the vacuuming will use up another 100 calories).

The more active a person is, therefore, the more he can eat without getting fat. And if he exercises without increasing his food intake, he will lose weight.

The average person burns 1,500 to 2,000 calories a day in normal activity. And a pound of weight is roughly equivalent to 3,500 calories. To lose a pound a week, a person would have to cut 500 calories off his diet or burn it up through exercise.

Jogging

Fifteen minutes of jogging every morning will use up 300 calories. At that rate, it would take 1½ weeks to lose one pound. But if a person cuts 500 calories off his diet as well, he will lose almost two pounds each week.

Thus by moderate exercise, a person can trim his or her weight by 34 pounds in a year. A combination of diet and exercise will see the weight loss doubled.

This is true, however, only when the exercise is moderate — i.e. not more than an hour or so a day. Scientists have found that heavier exercise tends to proportionately increase the appetite, cancelling out any benefits it might have in weight reduction.

There is an optimum point, which varies with each individual, to which a person can exercise without getting hungrier. This is usually about 15 to 45 minutes a day.

While exercise is effective in taking off weight, it is equally important as a body conditioner. For years, medical authorities have cited statistics showing a lower incidence of heart attacks among the physically fit. Now they know at least one reason why.

Blood clots or thromboses, one of the most common causes of heart attacks in the middle-aged, are more likely to form spontaneously in persons who are out of condition. And they are particularly apt to form in physically unfit persons who suddenly begin to exercise strenuously.

In recent experiments at the University of Texas, a group of men 18 to 35 years of age had their blood tested periodically during a month of physical conditioning. During that period, each man ran a mile a day.

Clottability

At the start of the test, when all the subjects were out of condition, the blood showed extreme clottability. This clotting factor increased when they were called on to increase their running speed.

But after two weeks of running, clottability had drastically decreased. And after a month of exercise it was back to normal.

The lesson in this for the average person is that the out-of-condition man who goes out and plays a fast game of tennis or shovels snow runs an extremely high risk of a thromboembolism. A man in good condition does not.

Apart from weight loss and heart conditioning, exercise also increases blood circulation to all parts of the body. This leads to a greater degree of mental alertness and a general feeling of well-being.

"A lot of people who run to the doctor with vague complaints of headaches and fatigue are simply not getting enough exercise," says one physiologist. "There's so much good that exercise can do that I'd think everyone could discipline themselves to working out for 10 minutes a day."

But he and other physicians sound a cautionary note: If you're out of condition, don't overdo it.

A totally new concept in consumer - oriented shows will be held March 7 through 15, 1970 in the new Convention Center at Winston-Salem, N. C. The five day event will be called "Consumerama '70".

The show will be designed to help educate the consumer in the selection of goods and services. It will also acquaint the consumer with new products, new ideas and new methods that contribute to better family living.

Consumerama '70 will coordinate consumer educational programs of business, industry and government with those of Home Economic educators and other consumer - oriented groups.

The following three types of presentation will be used in "Consumerama '70": (1) An Exposition of educational exhibits with emphasis on helping the consumer evaluate goods and services. (2) A Symposium of outstanding speakers and educational programs in keeping with the objectives of "Consumerama '70". (3) A Magazine edited for the consumer featuring articles and advertisements of interest.

Forsyth County Extension Homemakers conceived the ideas as a project for the celebration of the 50th Anniversary of the State Extension Homemakers Association. Many consumer interested groups throughout North Carolina are cooperating including Better Business Bureau, Home Economists in Business and Education, Agricultural Products Associations, North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development and the North Carolina Chamber of Commerce.

There will be something of interest for every member of the family, regardless of age, who spends money in the market place. Subjects to be covered will be in four broad categories: CLOTHING—including fashions for men, women and children.

FOOD—including preparation, selection and value. SHELTER—apartments, homes, mobile homes, furnishings and equipment.

FAMILY MANAGEMENT—including budgeting, borrowing, insurance, recreational expenditures, etc.

If you would like more information call (758-1196) or write Home Economics Extension Office, Box 1427, Greenville, N. C. immediately.

Over-Protective Mom Does More Harm Than Good

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I applaud your comments to the mother who snooped in her daughter's diary to find out if she was a "good" girl.

Two years ago I discovered that my mother had been reading my diary and listening in on my phone calls. I was terribly shocked and hurt. My faith and trust in my mother were shattered, and my respect for her diminished.

I am now 18, and more mature than I was then, but a trace of bitterness still remains.

If that mother is really concerned about her daughter's emotional state, she should realize that a meddling, over-protective parent can cause more harm than good. And if she continues to violate her daughter's privacy, she is running the risk of destroying what otherwise might be a good relationship with her daughter. Privacy is a precious thing to a teen-ager.

YOUNGER BUT WISER

DEAR YOUNGER: Well said, young lady. Well said.

DEAR ABBY: My dog, Lowell, is very sick and the vet says he will die shortly. I would like to have a funeral for him as I have had him for 11 years and he is like a member of the family.

I have asked friends of mine who have known Lowell since he was a pup if they would attend the funeral which would be held at my house. They all laughed at me, and when I finally convinced them that I was serious, they said I was crazy. What do you think?

MISSES HIM ALREADY

DEAR MISSES: I can easily understand your feelings. I do think, however, that your friends are insensitive and unnecessarily unkind. Obviously, they have never truly loved a pet. [Their loss.]

DEAR ABBY: This is regarding "Troubled" and "Sierra Bonita," each of whom expressed concern one way or the other about the height of the men of their dreams, the former being unhappy because he's too short, and the latter considering slight height some sort of virtue.

The height of a man, without a doubt, is one of the most ridiculous criteria for happiness foisted upon women, apparently mesmerized by Madison Avenue and romance clasp which propagandize what the "ideal" couple should look like—men taller, of course.

No less silly is the preference for a man because he is short! I'm happy that "Sierra Bonita" is happy with her little cutie, but contrary to her implication, a man's being short does not automatically result in his having a good sense of humor, empathy, or consideration for others. There are short men who are pushy and boring, as if their super-inflated egos make up for their lack of physical stature.

What in the world do physical features [tall, short, handsome, plain, etc.] have to do with what's inside the guy? It's the inside with which one has to relate in some meaningful way for a lasting relationship. Tall or short, there's gotta be something going for the "odd couple" other than physical attributes [in either partner] or the delirious duo is doomed to fizzle. [After all, one has to quit the mush and get out of bed eventually!]

I happen to be 5 ft. 10 in. tall, and my sweetie pie is a mere 5 ft. 5 in. tall, and the greatest guy in the world. [He makes the Robert Goulet-type look like a midget in my eyes.]

The thing about us is that neither of us gives a fig because we don't fit the "image"—we're too interested in each other, and learning about ourselves and each other, to care what the rest of you out there think of how we look together. Maybe "Troubled" could do the same and be happier.

COOKING IS FUN!

LADIES LUNCH

The good little cookie that stores well and stays crunchy. Scrambled Eggs and Canadian Bacon Rolls Relish Tray Fruit Compote Almond Cookies

ALMOND COOKIES

1/4 pound (1 stick) butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 egg yolks
1 cup unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
1 egg white
1/2 cup finely chopped unblanched almonds

In a medium mixing bowl cream butter, sugar and vanilla. Thoroughly beat in egg yolks. Gradually stir in flour, then 1/4 cup of the almonds. Chill until firm enough to handle.

On floured pastry cloth with a floured stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out half the dough at a time to about 1/8-inch thickness. Cut out with a two-inch round cookie butter. Place one inch apart on greased cookie sheet. Beat egg white until foamy; brush over cookies; sprinkle with remaining 1/4 cup almonds. Bake in preheated 375-degree oven until very lightly browned around edges—about six or seven minutes. Makes about four dozen.

Note: Gather up scraps of dough left after first rollings and freezer-chill before re-rolling.

Letter Was Dead Wrong

ST. JUNIEN, France (WNS) — Mayor Joseph Maneix had just gone off to his office at City Hall when the morning mail arrived at home. It included a letter from the Social Security department for Mrs. Maneix, authorizing her to collect larger sums than usual because of the death of her husband. The poor lady burst into tears at the suggestion that her mate had died, then rushed to City Hall to complain to the mayor about such errors.

Welcome Centers Are Useful

North Carolina is planning its third welcome center and it will be a desirable addition to the state's tourist attraction program.

The new center will be constructed near the Tennessee border on Interstate 40 west of Waynesville. It is expected to be completed by August. The center will be constructed of natural stone and wood at a cost of about $120,000.

There is already a center on Interstate 85 in Warren County and one on Interstate 95 in Northampton County. The Legislature has appropriated funds for construction of a center near Gastonia.

Eventually there will be nine such centers on major highways, including the possibility of one on U. S. 17 in Brunswick County.

We believe these welcome centers, operated by the Board of Conservation and Development, can serve a most useful purpose in furnishing information to the travelers who enter the Tar Heel state.

Tourism is more and more becoming an economic boon to North Carolina. With our great seashore at one end of the state and the mountains at the other, North Carolina has much to offer the family which is looking for a vacation spot. Both the beaches and the mountains offer summer pleasure and, now with the growth of mountain ski lodges, that area of the state has much to offer in winter vacations. There is also much to be seen in the vast area between extreme eastern and far western counties.

Crossing the state line is the first contact the traveler has with North Carolina. It is fitting that friendly centers are being established on major thoroughfares to make the tourist welcome.

Public Served By Idle Space

(Today's guest column for the North Carolina Association of Afternoon Dailies was written by Gene Hurdle, city editor of The Wilson Daily Times.)

By GENE HURDLE

WILSON — Facilities to treat today's health-conscious public are steadily overburdened and costs to enlarge existing operations or build new ones are so staggering it creates nightmares for inflation-gauged taxpayers.

Amid such an atmosphere, an idea was born in Wilson County more than two years ago that much space standing idle in Eastern North Carolina Sanatorium could be put to constructive use at a nominal cost while providing a much needed regional medical service.

The possibility of a chronic disease unit, or a comprehensive pulmonary disease center, a rehabilitation center, a chronic kidney disease unit or a rheumatology center were among many ideas ventured.

Such thoughts have been advanced by the state's medical profession for a long time. Proponents of the plan generally agree regional centers are desirable for treating certain patients who — it is envisioned — would recuperate quicker in the company of other so incapacitated, rather than in a general hospital.

Eastern North Carolina Sanatorium at Wilson appears a God-send for such purposes. For many years, the 342-bed facility has operated at a level hardly more than half its potential. A 160-bed wing has been closed off for nearly a decade.

Because of improved efficiency of treatment and reduced periods of time required for control of tuberculosis, utilization naturally decreased. Where the average stay for a tubercular patient at one time was 12 to 15 months, it has been reduced to about four or five months.

C. C. Moss, associate administrator at ENC Sanatorium, said the hospital is handling about three times as many patients as it treated several years ago but the turnover rate is higher. Death-rate from tuberculosis is lower, causing many people to be misled about the rate of infection. However, each of the past two years has seen a slight increase in the number of new cases reported.

Nonetheless, the idle accommodations exist.

Area Fire Deaths Are Reminder Of Caution

Pitt County has recorded its fifth death due to fires since Dec. 16 and this should remind us all that extreme caution should be exercised to avoid house fires.

Care should be taken in lighting fires in heaters; house wiring should be inspected and heating plants should be kept in good working order.

All fire hazards in the home should be eliminated and families should see that the elderly and small children do not handle fire.

A fire in a dwelling during the night can pose great danger for persons sleeping in the house. It is important that all fire hazards be eliminated to minimize the risk.

Moscow's Big Stake In Syria

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

DAMASCUS, Syria — The alarming Soviet interest in Syria springs from strategic concerns which, far beyond Syria itself, go to the heart of the highly successful and dangerous Soviet game — control of the whole Middle East.

With Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser correctly regarded by Moscow as less than a fully reliable ally, Syria offers an essential pressure point to insure against Soviet loss of influence should Nasser go his own way.

For example, if Nasser decided he could lead Egypt into a political settlement of the Israeli question — a big "if" given the emotional cries for a 100 years' war from Nasser's militant left following Israel's bombing of Cairo — Moscow's gambit is obvious: a thrusting of Syria front and center on the political stage to outflank Nasser.

Unlike Egypt, Syria's Baathist regime, a left-wing Socialist government that makes a fetish of ideological purity, has never accepted the Nov. 22, 1967, UN resolution. That resolution called for Israeli withdrawal from the occupied territories and a political settlement of the six-day war. Nor did Syria design to send its President Attassi to the Arab summit conference in Rabat last December, another demonstration of Syrian refusal to follow the Nasser lead.

Syria's ruling Baath party is far more militant than Nasser. Nasser says he is willing to settle the corrosive dispute with Israel by the return of the occupied lands, with Israel then to take its place as a sovereign state with guaranteed access to the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba. To Syria, that is rankest heresy. Syria's Baathist regime will never acknowledge Israel's existence. As a state, Israel must be driven into the sea and Jew and Arab together will make Palestine a bi-religious state.

That is the Syrian formula, even though it is no less remote than returning Manhattan to the Indians.

But it means that, if Nasser strays too far from the Moscow formula for an indefinite period of controlled tension, the Soviets will use Syria to force him back into line.

Naturally, the Baathist government, which has been in power here for 15 years, would like nothing better than to take the Mideast lead away from Nasser, and a look at the Baath party tells why.

The word "Baath" means "resurrection" — a resurrection of the masses. The party claims 150,000 members, each of whom went through a training ritual to achieve membership as rigorous and disciplinary as an esoteric monastic order might prescribe for its novitiates.

For 18 months, as aspirant is a "friend of the party," assigned to a party cell. If this test is passed, he becomes a "supporter" and gets another 18-month dose of training in party ideology and practice. Then he advances to a "non-active" party member status, followed, another 18 months later, by full membership.

Baathist ideologists claim that, while their party is not Marxist, it is not "hostile" to Marxism, either, whether Peking or Moscow style. The Communist party is illegal here not, say the theoreticians, because of ideological impurities but because it would split the base — the masses — of the Baath party.

Baathist doctrine aims at spreading the party's ideology to the entire Arab Middle East. The party is organized under a tightly centralized directorate for the whole "Arab nation" of

Strength For Today

A NEUROTIC NATION

The country is crying out for more doctors. It is disconcerting to realize that above all else we need more psychiatrists — more people to treat the insane and to try to save the borderline cases from being institutionalized.

What has gone wrong with our nation? Here we are, the richest, the most resourceful group of people in the world, with the highest standards of living humanity has ever known in its history, yet half our hospital beds are occupied by mental cases. At a time when we ought to be training people to get more out of life, how to be more healthy, how to avoid diseases, we send up an SOS for more doctors to keep us from going to the insane asylum or to help treat people who are already there.

We are a neurotic people, and probably for a number of reasons. The tension arising from speed and drive certainly is taking an awful toll. We stay up too late at night. We smoke too much and drink too much. Professional people take their work home with them in their brief cases. The general run of the population goes for long drives weekends which leave them exhausted and irritated.

It is not a good sign when the cry on any day is for bigger and better mental institutions, more psychiatrists, more clinics to treat the maladjusted. A good dose of religion might help.

THE GENERATION'S OWN GAP!

By ART BUCHWALD Educating Commuters

WASHINGTON — Mass transportation is definitely one of the major problems of the next decade. The ideal solution would be faster, cleaner and safer transportation for everyone. But since this is impossible, other solutions must be found to make commuting worthwhile.

Mr. Irwin Feifer, who specializes in manpower problems, has come up with an idea which certainly deserves consideration.

Feifer says that as a commuter on the Long Island Railroad he has been able to give hours of time to studying the transportation nightmare of the 70s.

On the basis of his own experience he has applied a systems-analysis approach to commuting which, when boiled down to layman's language, can be put this way: "How can time now used to look at your watch be otherwise employed constructively and productively to further the welfare of the country?"

The Feifer Plan is to incorporate all railroads as universities and allow commuters to take courses

Other Editors Say Airport Is Example

(The Wilson Times)

There is a growing recognition of the value of the regional concept as developed between communities too small to support individual projects. The best example. And one where only the regional concept is practical — is in airports to serve a given area. For airports must have air service in order to survive.

Wilson Rocky Mount, and Edgecombe, Nash and Wilson counties are excellent examples of the cooperation needed to build a regional airport. And we are glad to say that the airport is just about completed and ready to give service to the public.

Piedmont will fly out of the airport and Piedmont is extending its service daily until you can now go east-west and north-south, making good connections each way.

But back to the regional concept. At present Beaufort, Martin and Pitt counties are thinking in the terms of an airport to serve this section. The county and town governing bodies are in the process of setting up an airport authority.

We can tell them there is much hard work ahead, although we were most fortunate in that there was exceptional cooperation between the governing units involved. Federal funds may be harder to come by now because the federal government is cutting down on such spending projects in order to curb inflation.

So we are most fortunate to have the regional airport to serve this area nearing completion and far toward being paid for.

The regional concept is growing in just about every area. This past week two members of the Chamber of Commerce were appointed to meet with representatives of Wilson city and county governments to discuss a multi-region planning proposal which would have as one objective the elimination of duplication among existing local, state and federal programs.

Wilson County is put in the regional plan with Northampton, Halifax, Edgecombe and Nash counties which does not concur with the counties' agricultural base and the Coastal Plains Regional planning Commission. But this can be worked out. The idea is to show the growing trend toward regional development.

Another example of a local effort is between Pasquotank, Perquimans and Camden counties, now engaged in efforts which could result in building a regional jail to serve the counties.

So the regional concept is growing and Wilson County will do its part in developing the resources on a regional basis. Again we say we are most fortunate to have the regional airport, for this will be a big factor in local and regional development.

We Can Be Strangled By Cars

By ELMER ROESSNER

One of the most frightening predictions has come out of Washington. The Department of Transportation predicts that by 1990 there will be a total of 158.6 million cars, trucks and buses registered in the United States. That's a lot of cars.

But a little thinking makes it scary, one of the most disastrous things that ever happened to America.

The Cost

That many new cars will require many thousands of miles more of highways, more of our precious farm and forest land turned into speedways, more interchanges, wider roads. Federal Highway Administrator F. C. Turner, commenting on the prediction, said it will require the completion of the 42,500-mile Interstate System "and other highway improvements around the country."

Improvements? It will require more thousands of miles of secondary roads, feeder roads and farm roads.

It will complete the congestion of the cities. In Europe, where smaller cars are used, it has become necessary to close off some city areas to auto traffic; even in the United States some malls have been closed to cars. As autos increase like rabbits, it will become necessary to bar them from downtown areas and allow only buses. Trucks may be allowed into cities only at night.

The increase in cars will also require hundreds of thousands of more acres for parking and garaging.

More Serious Demands

The rise in motor vehicles — unless some way to eliminate pollutants from exhausts is found quickly — will spread a blanket of carbon monoxide, sulphur and lead poison over the U. S.

The air everyone breathes will kill off more of the weak. The infirm and others may have to carry oxygen masks with them to survive.

The rise in accidents will be spectacular. A 50 per cent rise in autos will mean more than a 50 per cent rise in accidents, probably more than 100 per cent. This will require more hospitals, more doctors, more nurses, more blood banks.

It will also require more courts to adjudicate accident cases and to judge faulty drivers.

It will also multiply the car theft rings and swell the need for theft, fire and liability insurance.

It will create the need for several more Ralph Naders. And it will worsen the litter of beer cans along the shoulders of the highways of America.

Learn It From Mail

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Mothers between the ages of 16 and 35 are least likely to give birth to abnormal babies. The average is about one in a hundred. The figures are two in a hundred for mothers under 16 or over 35.

One river that appears to be winning the battle against pollution is London's waterway, the Thames. Half a century ago it had become so foul no fish were left in it. But within the last year, thanks to purification measures, some 42 kinds of fish have been caught in the Thames.

Our own campaign to keep from being choked by our own debris isn't going too well. Americans now toss away 800 million pounds of junk and trash every day, and the annual cost of getting rid of it has now risen to half-billion dollars.

Worst pun of the week: "Doctors say that cheerful people resist disease better than glum people. In other words, it's the surly bird that catches the germ."

Quotable notables: "If a man's curve of efficiency is ascending at 45, and keeps on ascending just after that period, it may well move upward for his whole life; but if there is a turn downward at 45, he will never recover." — Nicholas Murray Butler.

Worth remembering: "When a man gets too old to set a bad example, he starts giving good advice."

Shooting stars that flash across the sky at night may startle you with their brilliance, but most of these flaming visitors from space are small — often no larger than a pebble or a grain of sand.

Folklore: If two friends wash their hands in a basin at the same time and then dry their hands simultaneously on the same towel, their friendship will soon dwindle. Fruit trees will bear better if you drive a peg or nail into them. Bad luck will follow if you count the number of cars in a funeral procession. Long hair on the arms is a sign you'll be rich some day.

It was Thomas A. Kempis who observed, "A humble knowledge of oneself is a surer road to God than a deep searching of the sciences."

who passed with a 65 would not be given a money reduction, but would be assured a seat on the train for the next four weeks.

The Feifer Plan is not necessarily aimed just at people who take railroads (A subway educational plan where people can study while being delayed in tunnels is now being worked out.), but could also be applied to people driving to work in the morning.

Those signing up for credits would listen to lectures on the radio in the morning and evening rush hours and do their book studying at traffic bottlenecks and red lights.

The driver students would hand in their tests at toll booths and the toll collectors would grade them as they made change.

Most people would not mind traffic delays as it would give them more time to get their homework done.

The Feifer Plan would provide for graduation exercises every six months. In the case of the railroads, the ceremonies would be held at the railroad stations with the secretary of transportation handing out the diplomas.

Automobile college graduates would receive their diplomas from the license bureau, and each license plate would indicate how many degrees the driver possessed.

The plan, if put into effect, would make Americans the most educated people in the world. It would also turn train delays and traffic jams into a profit. But more important, with everyone going to school, the generation gap could become a thing of the past.

which the Syrian party is simply a regional arm. Moreover, it founded and finances the Al Saiga commandos, some units of which are actually led by officers of the regular army. It was Al Saiga that almost brought down the moderate Lebanese government with its mini-invasion of Lebanon last fall.

The Soviet Union has been unable to penetrate, much less control, any part of this apparatus, which operates along almost mystical lines. But it would be a simple matter for the Russians to use it against Nasser if the occasion required. The Baath party offers all the political advantages for Soviet exploitation.

Police Probing Theft Of Tires

Greenville police today are pressing their investigation of a break-in discovered at Edwards Auto Supply Co., 215 West Ninth St., at 12:05 a.m. today.

Police on regular patrol, according to Chief T. E. Gladson, found a front window broken from the building.

A quantity of tires was reported missing.

False Calls To Police, Firemen

Both Greenville firemen and police received "false" calls to a North Eastern Street address early today.

According to police records, someone called the department at 1:20 a.m. and requested officers to deliver a death message to 203 North Eastern St.

At 1:33 a.m., a telephone call to the fire department reported a fire in the basement of that Eastern Street dwelling and sent fire units hurrying to the scene.

Investigators said there was no fire, and none of the resident's relatives had died.

Investigation of the case is continuing.

Sugg
SNOW HILL — Mrs. Virginia Taylor Sugg, 78, widow of Retho T. Sugg of Route 2, Snow Hill, died Tuesday night.
Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. at Edwards Funeral Home in Snow Hill, with the Rev. J.L. Hood officiating. Burial will be in the Snow Hill Cemetery.
Mrs. Sugg was a native of Lenoir County. She was a member of Rainbow Christian Church and a charter member of the Woman's Society of Christian Service.
Surviving her are three daughters, Mrs. Jack Long of Mebane, Mrs. Henry Pittman of Black Mountain, and Mrs. Billy Pierce of Kenly; a son, Stewart Sugg of Ayden; a sister, Mrs. Rebecca Wilkins of Kinston; 10 grandchildren; and one great grandchild.

Harris
Mrs. Beazline Harris, 1234 Battle St., died in Brooklyn, N.Y. Friday. Funeral services will be held Thursday 4:00 p.m. at Sycamore Hill Baptist Church. The Rev. B.B. Felder will officiate. Burial will follow in Brown Hill Cemetery.
She was born in Greenville and attended the Greenville City School. She was a member of Sycamore Hill Baptist Church, a member of the Paston's Aid Club, and the Mother League of Sadie Sautler School. She was a member of the Pride of the East Eastern Lodge No. 524 and a member of Household of Ruth No. 310.
Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Gloria Laughinghouse of New York, N.Y., Mrs. Aletha House and Mrs. Christine Tillery, both of Brooklyn, N.Y.; two sons, Monty Frizzell of Greenville, James Harris of New Haven, Conn.; four sisters, Mrs. Lassie Hunt, Mrs. Willie Butts, Mrs. Mary Knox, all of Greenville, Mrs.

Leggett
WASHINGTON, N.C. — Mrs. Ellen Smith Leggett, 79, died early this morning in Beaufort County Hospital following a lengthy illness. Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. at the First Christian Church by Dr. Raymond L. Alexander. Burial will follow in Hollywood Cemetery, Farmville. The body will be taken from the Paul Funeral Home to the church one hour prior to the service.
The family will be at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Clark Rodman, Riverside, Rt. 2, Washington. Surviving are a son, J.S. Leggett of Greenville; two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Murphrey and Mrs. Clark Rodman, both of Washington; six stepchildren; four grandchildren; two great grandchildren; four brothers, Mack G. Smith of Greenville, Jack M. Smith and Ned C. Smith, both of Farmville, and Guy A. Smith of Macesfield; three sisters, Mrs. R.L. Corbett of Farmville, Mrs. Bert Dixon of Wilson and Mrs. Mercer Tatem of Norfolk, Va.

Mrs. Leggett was born in Pitt County and was the daughter of the late Francis Marion Smith and Emily Nichols Smith. She spent most of her lifetime in Pitt County and moved to Washington in 1941.
She was married to Ulysses Biggs McLawhorn of Ayden who died in 1913 and was later married to John H. Leggett of Pitt County, who died in 1924.

Florence Oats of Newark, N.J., two brothers, John Eddie Moore of Greenville and William Edward Moore of Newark, N.J., nine grandchildren.
The body will be at Flanagan and Parker Funeral Home. The family will be at the funeral home from 7:00 til 9:00 p.m. tonight.
The Pride of the East Eastern Star Lodge No. 524 will have their rites at 8 p.m. tonight.

Hospitalized
In Tuesday Fire
A combination of what firemen and police listed as alcohol and smoke, sent a 51-year-old Greenville man to Pitt Memorial Hospital yesterday following an 11:52 a.m. fire at 1121 Evans St.
Firemen reported that trucks were sent to the Evans Street address when Box 27 at the intersection of Evans and 12th Streets was sounded.
Firemen reported that trucks were found burning in a second floor room of the dwelling, and Grey Hardee had been removed from the room by onlookers shortly before they arrived.
Cause of the fire was listed as "smoking".

Ladies' Meeting
Is Postponed
The annual meeting of the ladies of the Greenville Golf and Country Club, set for Friday, has been postponed.
The meeting has been rescheduled for 10 a.m. of Friday, Feb. 27, at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.
The population of the U.S. Virgin Islands is in excess of 60,000.

Bored with the same old hamburger? Treat your family to Oceanburgers—Gorton's Fish Sticks topped with a sassy sauce and served on buns. Sensational—and so simple to make:

OCEANBURGER
1 can Cheddar cheese soup (10 3/4 oz.)
1/2 tsp. dried onion flakes
1/4 tsp. Tabasco pepper sauce
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 tsp. crushed oregano
2 tps. lemon juice
1 lb. Gorton's Fish Sticks
4-6 slightly toasted sandwich buns
Dill pickle slices

In saucepan, simmer first six ingredients for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Spoon over Gorton's Fish Sticks. Garnish with pickle slices. Happy eating!

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets weaker Tuesday, supplies fully adequate, demand fair. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 58½ to 59; medium whites 54 to 55; small whites 48 to 49.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina hog markets steady today. Tops 27.00-18.00 Rocky Mount; 26.75-27.25 Siler City, Denton, 26.00-27.25 Tarboro; 27.50 Salisbury, Greensboro; 27.25 Mount Olive.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina broiler market steady today. Live, at-farm based valuation 13½ cents per pound. Hens — heavy type at farm 15½ to 16 cents per pound, mostly 16 f.o.b. plants 17 to 18 cents, mostly 17½. Light type—too few.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market bounded ahead in a sharp turnaround early today.

At 11 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials had gained 5.21 to 752.64.

Trading was fairly active. For a short period the New York Stock Exchange ticker tape

On the recommendation that a student-faculty senate be formed, Sugg said: "It's a good thing if it's clearly defined. State laws give certain responsibilities and authority to teachers, principals and administrations. An effective student-faculty senate can be created based on the acknowledgement of these responsibilities.

"I know in what light you mean the statement 'that since 1954 our main efforts have been toward resisting desegregation.'" Sugg stated. "But this board went on to provide an integrated senior high school without coercion."

Making reference to the work of the committee in the past few weeks, Sugg remarked: "You people have had lots of meetings, just as we have. In my four years on this board, your group is the first to do anything constructive. I know of no other group of citizens who has volunteered to come up with positive statements in an effort to help the schools, the children, the administration and the board. We are sincerely grateful to you for this."

Masonic Award To Edw. Austin

Edward D. Austin, past master and secretary of Greenville Lodge No. 284, was presented the first Masonic Visitation Award of the Fifth Masonic District Monday at the Greenville Masonic Temple.

The award was initiated as a program to improve visitation among the nine district lodges. Austin visited more lodges than any other Mason the greatest number of times. He will keep the award until his successor is named.

Wiley P. O'Brien of Farmville Lodge No. 517 was runner-up for the award having visited as many lodges as Austin fewer times.

Bennie D. Brown, Fifth District Deputy Grand Master, presented the award.

HAVE YOU WRITTEN A BOOK?

The executive director of a well-known New York publishing firm will be in Greenville in March. He will be interviewing local authors in a quest for finished manuscripts suitable for book publication. All subjects will be considered, including fiction and non-fiction, poetry, juveniles, religious books, etc.

If you have completed a book-length manuscript (or nearly so) on any subject, and would like a professional appraisal (without cost or obligation), please write immediately describing your work and stating which part of the day (a.m. or p.m.) you would prefer for an appointment. You will promptly receive a confirmation for a definite time and place.

Authors with completed manuscripts unable to appear may send them directly to us for a free reading and evaluation. We will also be glad to hear from those whose literary works are still in progress. Please address:
