

Joint Conference Results Awaited Amendments Entangling Education Aid

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a $36 billion education aid bill after defeating Southern efforts to attach a provision to ban the court-ordered busing of students to achieve school integration.

But the Southern Senate defeat Thursday was offset somewhat in the House where Dixie forces won their fight to attach antidesegregation amendments to a new appropriations bill for the departments of Health, Education and Welfare and labor.

The House amendments prohibit use of federal money to force busing of school children by school districts or the federal government. The amendments also legalize freedom of choice desegregation plans and make it harder to cut off federal funds to school districts not complying with integration orders.

The $19.4 billion HEW-Labor spending measure is embroiled in another controversy. President Nixon thinks it—like a $19.7 billion bill he vetoed last month—is still inflationary.

After rejecting Republican moves to trim the new version to make it acceptable to Nixon, the House approved the bill 315 to 81 and sent it to the Senate.

The massive federal aid to education bill—largest ever to pass either branch of Congress—sailed through the Senate 80-0 after the ban-the-bus amendment lost 49 to 36. The legislation, which goes to conference with the House, extends several major education programs for four years, expanding them in a way strongly opposed by President Nixon.

Chances the full $35 billion authorized will be appropriated in the 1971-74 period are slim.

Nixon has been seeking about one-third of money authorized for federal education grants. In the current year, the authorization total for all education programs is $9 billion. Nixon asked $3.1 billion and Congress voted $4.2 billion, but the President vetoed this as too large.

The Southern senators were not shut out completely in action on the education bill. Wednesday the Senate adopted an amendment to require the government to move as hard against segregated schools resulting from neighborhood patterns in the North as it has against officially segregated schools in the South.

The fate of this uniform national desegregation policy amendment of Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., now must be settled in the conference. There is nothing similar in the House version.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., the Republican Leader, and other senators predicted it would be dropped or sharply modified.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., sponsored the losing amendment to knock out the power of the federal courts to order busing to change a school's racial composition.

A second Ervin amendment, to prevent any federal court or agency from denying any child the right to attend the public school nearest his home, also was defeated 58 to 24.

However, Ervin won a minor skirmish in getting language aimed at busing added to a provision already in the bill which forbids a federal agency to order busing to overcome racial imbalance.

Of the total new authoriza-tions in the bill, $26 billion apply to the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, the largest federal school aid program.

The measure seeks to expand Title I of ESEA, used to improve education for children from poor families.

The money now is distributed on the basis of the number of families in a school district with annual incomes of $2,000 or less. The bill would boost this income factor to $4,000 in 1973.

Disorders 'Protest' Convictions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Scattered demonstrations, skirmishes with police and a jail riot have broken out around the country in reaction to the conviction in Chicago of five persons for inciting riots.

In Boston's Hub Thursday, about 5,000 marched up Tremont Street smashing windows after a rally of 20,000 persons that began in the Common. Police clubbed about a dozen demonstrators. At least a dozen persons were arrested and four ambulances hauled away the injured, who included several policemen.

At Michigan State University in East Lansing demonstrators smashed 1,000 windows and fought with police, who arrested several.

Police arrested 123 persons in Washington, D.C. during several hours of skirmishes in the aftermath of a demonstration by about 300 outside the apartment where Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell lives. Police had dispersed the demonstrators but they moved into side streets, disrupted traffic and pelted police with rocks, bottles and chunks of snow. Police said three civilians and one policeman were treated for minor injuries.

In San Jose, Calif., prisoners in the jail rampaged after watching a television program about the Chicago case. Guards used fire hoses to quell the rioters and put out six fires which had been set.

About 50 youths smashed windows in a hotel and adjacent shop in Evanston, Ill.

Police arrested five persons among more than 500 who clashed with them near the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles. Windows were smashed in branches of the First Western Bank and a brokerage.

About 50 persons chanted "power to the people" outside the Baltimore courthouse. There were peaceful marches of 100 at the University of Wisconsin and 150 at Cornell University, and about 300 rallied peacefully at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Dr. Phillips To Address Meet

Dr. A. Craig Phillips, State Superintendent of Public Instruction in Raleigh, will be the guest speaker Sunday night at the wind-up meeting of the Citizens Awareness Committee.

John Taylor, one of the co-chairmen of the committee, stated that "Dr. Phillips had kindly accepted our invitation to appear on the public program Sunday night."

This meeting, to be held at 8:00 p.m. in the gymnasium, is to be presided over by Taylor and Dr. Robert Lee Humber, co-chairmen of the Citizens Awareness Committee.

Invitations have been sent to Dr. E. B. Aycock, Chairman of the Greenville Board of Education; to Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, Superintendent of Greenville City Schools; and to Mayor Frank M. Wooten, Jr., to appear on the program with Dr. Phillips.

Stressing that this is a public meeting, Taylor says "I urge principals, faculty, parents and students of both races to attend this meeting."

Dr. Phillips is scheduled to talk on the topic of "Community Interests."

Tentative plans are now set for the distribution of the completed comprehensive study by the committee. This will be in the form of a brochure encompassing information covering the school situation, reports of the committee and other material relative to Rose High School.

Approve County Designation

First District Congressman Walter B. Jones announced today the final approval of the Economic Development Administration U.S. Department of Commerce on the designation of Pitt County as a Title I area.

This, in effect, makes the county eligible for public works grants as provided for under the EDA program.

Footprints Left By Astronauts

They and fellow crew member Richard F. Gordon Jr., stepped barefooted on a slab of wet cement Thursday as a memento of their stop here on a current intercontinental good-will mission.

Will Fight Cutback

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott announced today he will join Rep. Walter Jones in Washington Wednesday to protest possible drastic cutbacks in the aircraft repair facilities at the Cherry Point Marine Air Station.

Gov. Scott will be in Washington Wednesday and Thursday for the winter meeting of the National Governors Conference.

Jones and other North Carolina congressmen are pressing the Pentagon not to shut down the Naval Air Rework Facility, which pumps an estimated $28 million a year into the laggard Craven County economy.

Some 2,700 civilians are employed in the NARF repair plant attached to the Cherry Point Air Station at the mouth of the Neuse River about 10 miles southeast of New Bern.

The Defense Department is reported to be considering curtailing operations or abolishing the facility altogether.

Jones said Thursday in Washington he was "very concerned over the threat to the continuation of the Cherry Point NARF."

Nixon Invited To See Eclipse

An invitation to view the total solar eclipse March 7 from the vantage point of the East Carolina University campus has been extended to Pres. Richard M. Nixon by ECU president, Dr. Leo Jenkins.

Dr. Jenkins told the President in a letter dated February 13 that he realizes that he (Pres. Nixon) cannot accept every invitation he receives but that "a visit by the President to the only major institution so favorably located for this rare eclipse would afford to the world a view of an American leader who is not only interested in science and education, but who is also interested in people."

He explained that the area of totality is limited to a path some 90 miles wide over North Carolina and that East Carolina University lies directly in the center of that path.

"Because of these fortuitous circumstances," he wrote, "East Carolina University will become the center of scientific and educational activities on the day of the eclipse. A grant from the National Science Foundation has helped finance a two-day conference on the eclipse, and our governor, Robert W. Scott, has agreed to proclaim the day "Solar Eclipse Day" in North Carolina. We also hope to have as our guest one of our astronauts."

No reply has been received from the President yet, Dr. Jenkins said.

N.C. Jobless Payments Soar

RALEIGH (AP) — Payments to the jobless in North Carolina nearly doubled in January from December as unemployment rose to 2.9 per cent, the state Employment Security Commission reported Thursday.

The commission noted that unemployment in January of last year was only 2.1 per cent of those workers covered by unemployment insurance.

The ESC said the number of jobless among insured workers last month rose to about 37,000 persons a week.

Nationwide Rail Shutdown Becomes Real Possibility

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nationwide rail shutdown this weekend became a distinct possibility following a breakdown in negotiations between the nation's railroads and four shop-craft unions.

Both sides in the dispute awaited a decision by federal district Judge Howard Corcoran, who scheduled a hearing today on whether to extend restraining orders that have halted a coast-to-coast shutdown since Jan. 31.

"It was a great disappointment," Assistant Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery, the Nixon administration's chief troubleshooter in the bargaining talks, said after negotiations collapsed in Miami Beach, Fla., Thursday night. "What we have here looks like an impossible impasse."

William Winpisinger, chief negotiator for the four AFL-CIO unions, said while no plans on striking could be made until after a court decision, "the greatest mind changer is the strike."

The unions have pledged not to strike before Saturday.

Previous court orders halted a strike by the four unions against one railroad, the Union Pacific, and a nationwide shutdown of all other railroads that was called in retaliation by the industry.

Usery declined to say whether the White House would seek special legislation to halt a nationwide shutdown.

The unions—representing machinists, electricians, boiler-makers and sheet metal workers—rejected in December a contract that included a two-year, 68-cent wage increase. The current top wage is $3.60 an hour.

Three of the unions voted approval, but sheet metal workers rejected it because of a provision allowing members of all four unions to cross each other's job jurisdiction lines to do a limited amount of work. All four unions had agreed all must accept any settlement or none would.

Winpisinger said the three unions offered Thursday night to accept the agreement. But John P. Hiltz, chief industry negotiator, turned it down on grounds that it would be to no avail unless all four accepted it.

President Nixon has already exhausted all provisions under the Railway Labor Act for postponing a strike or lockout.

Cost Of Living Up In January

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living continued upward in January, the Labor Department reports. But—for what it's worth—the increase wasn't as steep as in November and December.

Consumer prices were up four-tenths of one per cent last month, compared with five-tenths in November and six-tenths in December.

When adjusted for various seasonal trends, however, the rise came to six-tenths of one per cent for all three months, or at a rate of 7.2 per cent a year.

And for the past 12 months the rate was up 6.2 per cent, the largest 12-month increase since November 1951, the approximate peak of Korean War inflation.

The figures reflected a rise in the Consumer Price Index to 131.8 per cent of the 1957-59 base period. This means it took $131.80 in January to purchase the same quantity of goods and services that cost $100 in the base period.

The report was seen as dashed hopes that the new year would bring any marked success in the Nixon administration's anti-inflation efforts.

One of the specific major increases for the month came in transportation costs, including auto repair charges and insurance rates.

Food prices rose six-tenths of one per cent. Beef prices were up for the first time since July and the prices of poultry, eggs and milk reversed the normal January trend and rose substantially.

The inflation news was accompanied by word that the average factory work week was reduced by half an hour as production cutbacks spread into the auto, aerospace and some other industries.

The inflation plus the decline in the work week cut the purchasing power of the typical worker with three dependents by 13 cents a week.

Unions Map Wage Push

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Labor leaders have served notice that unions will be out for big wage increases this year to try to put workers abreast of inflation.

"The average nonsupervisory employee has had no advance in the buying power of his weekly after-tax earnings in four years," the AFL-CIO Executive Council said Thursday.

"It seems there's no catching up," said the 13.6 million member labor federation's president, George Meany, asserting that workers and their unions have no choice but to demand substantial pay hikes.

Rising living costs last year wiped out 6.1 per cent of the value of the dollar.

Police Crack Down On Required Tags

Greenville police have made 40 arrests of persons who either failed to purchase or display 1970 city license plates.

Greenville police will be keeping a sharp eye out for drivers who are not in compliance with the ordinance requiring display of tags.

They as well as other law enforcement agencies across the state, will also be on the lookout for cars failing to display 1970 state registration plates.

So far, Greenville officers have cited 16 drivers to court for failing to have the required State tags.

Both State law and city ordinances require that local and state tags be displayed on vehicles operating on the streets and highways no later than midnight February 15.

Drivers across the state, and in the City of Greenville, were given a 24-hour extension of this deadline — until Midnight February 16 — this year to comply because February 15 fell on Sunday.

City registration plates may be obtained at City Hall from the City Tax Collector's office. The plates cost $1 and persons purchasing them are required to present their 1970 state registration card.

Governor Scott Appears Hopeful HEW Will Soften Directive

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott apparently is hopeful that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will soften a stern letter directing North Carolina to come up with a plan that would drastically boost integration in state-supported colleges and universities.

The HEW letter, made public Thursday, gave North Carolina 120 days to come up with such a plan. It threatened a cutoff in federal aid funds which now amount to more than $46 million a year if the state fails to act.

Scott gave no indication he was ready to direct state officials to start working on such a plan.

"I do not intend to embark lightly on a course which appears to me to lead to the destruction of North Carolina's public higher education facilities," the governor said in a statement.

Scott noted that the author of the letter, Leon Panetta, has resigned as head of HEW's Office of Civil Rights, and said, "I feel sure that his successor will recognize that North Carolina is in compliance."

Panetta said North Carolina is still operating universities which are predominantly white or predominantly black and said they "must discharge their affirmative duty by adopting measures that will result in desegregation as soon as administratively possible."

The HEW official called on the state to formulate a "systemwide plan of cooperation between institutions involving consolidation of degree offerings, faculty exchange, student exchange and general institutional sharing of resources."

Scott pointed out that "it has been the policy of this state for many years to accept applicants at all public colleges and universities without regard to race."

The HEW letter, he said, "does not deny this fact, but states that 'The state of North Carolina is operating a system of higher education in which certain institutions are clearly identifiable as serving students on the basis of race.'"

"In my opinion, what HEW officials in Washington propose is nothing more than integration for integration's sake. I cannot seek the benefit."

"If there is any, it certainly can only be negligible and the harm to our stable and efficient system of higher education will be disastrous."

Panetta noted that the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is 96 per cent white while North Carolina Central University at nearby Durham is nearly all black; that UNC at Greensboro is 98 per cent white while A&T State University, also in Greensboro, is almost totally black, and the Elizabeth City State University is nearly all black while the College of the Albemarle in the same town is predominantly white.

He said these schools "offer a duplication of programs to students residing in the same service area of the state."

The HEW official wrote that in institutions which formerly were legally segregated "it is not sufficient that an institution maintain a nondiscriminatory admissions policy if the student population continues to reflect formerly de jure racial identification of that institution."

Panetta said he realized that officials and boards of the individual institutions do not have the authority to make the changes he called for, but "this legal disability does not relieve responsible state officials of the duty to make whatever cooperative arrangements are needed to continue the eligibility of the institutions for federal financial assistance.

"Accordingly, I am directing to you the request that a desegregation plan for the public institutions of higher education in North Carolina which are under state control be submitted for comment to this office in outline form 120 days from receipt of this letter, and that a final desegregation plan be submitted for our approval no later than 90 days after you have received comments on the outline of the plan."

Joint Conference Results Awaited

Amendments Entangling Education Aid

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a $36 billion education aid bill after defeating Southern efforts to attach a provision to ban the court-ordered busing of students to achieve school integration.

But the Southern Senate defeat Thursday was offset somewhat in the House where Dixie forces won their fight to attach antidesegregation amendments to a new appropriations bill for the departments of Health, Education and Welfare and labor.

The House amendments prohibit use of federal money to force busing of school children by school districts or the federal government. The amendments also legalize freedom of choice desegregation plans and make it harder to cut off federal funds to school districts not complying with integration orders.

The $19.4 billion HEW-Labor spending measure is embroiled in another controversy. President Nixon thinks it—like a $19.7 billion bill he vetoed last month—is still inflationary.

After rejecting Republican moves to trim the new version to make it acceptable to Nixon, the House approved the bill 315 to 81 and sent it to the Senate. The massive federal aid to education bill—largest ever to pass either branch of Congress—sailed through the Senate 80-0 after the ban-the-bus amendment lost 49 to 36. The legislation, which goes to conference with the House, extends several major education programs for four years, expanding them in a way strongly opposed by President Nixon.

Chances the full $35 billion authorized will be appropriated in the 1971-74 period are slim. Nixon has been seeking about one-third of money authorized for federal education grants. In the current year, the authorization total for all education programs is $9 billion. Nixon asked $3.1 billion and Congress voted $4.2 billion, but the President vetoed this as too large.

The Southern senators were not shut out completely in action on the education bill. Wednesday the Senate adopted an amendment to require the government to move as hard against segregated schools resulting from neighborhood patterns in the North as it has against officially segregated schools in the South.

They as well as other law enforcement agencies across the state, will also be on the lookout for cars failing to display 1970 state registration plates.

So far, Greenville officers have cited 16 drivers to court for failing to have the required State tags.

Both State law and city ordinances require that local and state tags be displayed on vehicles operating on the streets and highways no later than midnight February 15.

Drivers across the state, and in the City of Greenville, were given a 24-hour extension of this deadline — until Midnight February 16 — this year to comply because February 15 fell on Sunday.

City registration plates may be obtained at City Hall from the City Tax Collector's office. The plates cost $1 and persons purchasing them are required to present their 1970 state registration card.

"Accordingly, I am directing to you the request that a desegregation plan for the public institutions of higher education in North Carolina which are under state control be submitted for comment to this office in outline form 120 days from receipt of this letter, and that a final desegregation plan be submitted for our approval no later than 90 days after you have received comments on the outline of the plan."

When adjusted for various seasonal trends, however, the rise came to six-tenths of one per cent for all three months, or at a rate of 7.2 per cent a year.

Cost Of Living Up In January

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living continued upward in January, the Labor Department reports. But—for what it's worth—the increase wasn't as steep as in November and December.

Consumer prices were up four-tenths of one per cent last month, compared with five-tenths in November and six-tenths in December.

Nationwide Rail Shutdown Becomes Real Possibility

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nationwide rail shutdown this weekend became a distinct possibility following a breakdown in negotiations between the nation's railroads and four shop-craft unions.

Police Crack Down On Required Tags

GREENVILLE (AP) — Greenville police will be keeping a sharp eye out for drivers who are not in compliance with the ordinance requiring display of tags.

When adjusted for various seasonal trends, however, the rise came to six-tenths of one per cent for all three months, or at a rate of 7.2 per cent a year.

And for the past 12 months the rate was up 6.2 per cent, the largest 12-month increase since November 1951, the approximate peak of Korean War inflation.

The figures released Thursday reflected a rise in the Consumer Price Index to 131.8 per cent of the 1957-59 base period. This means it took $131.80 in January to purchase the same quantity of goods and services that cost $100 in the base period.

The report was seen as dashing hopes that the new year would bring any marked success in the Nixon administration's anti-inflation efforts.

One of the specific major increases for the month came in transportation costs, including auto repair charges and insurance rates.

Food prices rose six-tenths of one per cent. Beef prices were up for the first time since July and the prices of poultry, eggs and milk reversed the normal January trend and rose substantially.

Husband Can Stimulate Mind

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I would like to answer that man who said, "I would rather stare at the TV than talk to the idiot I married." A mature and intelligent man who sees that his wife is not growing intellectually can help her if he really wants to. He can present current events to her in an interesting manner and subtly arouse her interest in world affairs and politics. He can encourage her to improve her mind by seeing to it that she has the time to do "mind-improving" things, either by sitting with the children himself, or providing her with a sitter. Most women have a greater desire to improve their minds than men. The man who says that his wife is an "idiot," likes her that way. She is no challenge to him, and the contrast only makes HIM look better. This kind of man is afraid that his wife will develop into an intelligent, mind-improved, informed woman, and show him up. He'd rather go around calling her an idiot to her face, and to his friends. Then HE feels smarter.

Statistics show that when a woman gets a higher paying job than her husband, his ego can't take it, and the marriage falls apart.

Okay, "Mr. Married-An-Idiot," put up or shut up!
"STILL GROWING" IN K. S.

DEAR "STILL": What you say is true in some cases—but not in all. When a man achieves success and prominence and leaves "the little woman" in the dust intellectually, you wonder what he saw in her before they were married. It's the same old story. A man may fall in love with a dimple, but he has to marry the whole girl.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and I have a very bad case of acne and blackheads. My mother took me to a skin doctor, and he said a lot of adolescents are troubled with this, and there's nothing you can do about it, except watch your diet, keep your face clean and not to squeeze the blackheads.

Well, every time I turn around my mother says, "Come here," and then she squeezes a couple of my blackheads.

When I remind her of what the doctor said, she says, "O, be quiet. I have to look at you all day." What should I do?
SQUEEZED

DEAR SQUEEZED: Tell your mother that YOU will have to look at YOURSELF for the rest of your life, and therefore you intend to obey your doctor's orders. [P. S. And I have yet to see a teen-ager who can't run faster than his mother.]

DEAR ABBY: I have seen several letters in your column lately from mothers whose daughters have become pregnant tho unmarried. They say, "Hold up your heads, keep your daughter home, help her raise her baby, and help her to make something of herself."

That may be the best solution for some girls, but not for others. In my case, I went to a home for unwed mothers. In fact, I am here now, and I want to thank you for your assistance in securing my admission here. I realize now that this was the best of all possible alternatives for my family, my baby, and myself. I can more calmly face my responsibilities to my baby and myself in making decisions which will affect both of us.

The staff here is wonderful. They found a job for me outside the home which gives me a chance to get out during the daytime as well as to earn some money. I have written to several colleges for catalogs and applications for admission next fall.

Here at the home, I was elected to the council. The council girls "represent" the girls in meetings with the staff which sets up house rules. We also show the new girls around and make them feel at home. There are classrooms here, and high school education is continued. Some of the college educated girls help tutor. They even have art classes, and girls are taught to sew, knit, and crochet.

I have met girls from various backgrounds, and I know I will benefit from this experience and become a better, stronger person.

If you want to print this letter, you have my permission, but please omit my name. It may help some girls who are confused and afraid to seek help. It is not a question of hiding only the physical change in myself. It is also a matter of not hiding the emotional and mental effects of pregnancy within me.

Trouser Suits Are Favorites Of England's Princess Anne

By MARGARET SAVILLE LONDON (UPI)—According to the queen, Princess Anne has "gone crazy about trouser suits."

The slender, 19-year-old princess has recently bought a glamorous new wardrobe for the royal family's spring tour of Australia and New Zealand—mainly pantsuits, culottes and safari outfits.

One of the princess's favorite purchases is a bright pink tunic dress with a mini-skirt and matching wide ankle-length pants. She chose two safari suits with pants—one in brown linen for camping and another fancier suit of emerald wool.

Since her debut early last year, Princess Anne has kept in step with London's young set, frolicking at the most fashionable discotheques and sporting a wardrobe of mini-skirts and pantsuits.

"She's gone crazy about trousers," Queen Elizabeth recently told a friend.

The dark-haired princess's spring wardrobe is Mod but not expensive. Some of the formal dress and coat outfits cost about 50 pounds ($120) the tunic tops with pants about 30 pounds ($72) each, and the cotton dresses well under 10 pounds ($24) apiece.

They are all the 1970 European summer season designs. Anne is getting her choice from the collections first but by May they will all be on sale in British shops and many overseas as well.

Among the selections are a few straight, slim-fitting cotton dresses in bright colors, sleeveless ones for hot days. For more formal occasions, Princess Anne chose a long white coat with matching dress, a primrose-yellow dress in fine wool and a blue tailored coat with a blue and white checked tunic dress.

Blue was the color of the uniform Anne wore at Benenden

School in Kent for five years and, when she left, she refused to put it on again for many months. Lately she has relented, discovering how well it suits her light blue eyes, pale blonde hair, and creamy complexion. She has a turquoise silk suit and several others in bright blue shades ready for the garden-reception and other outdoor parties she will attend during the March and April royal tour to Australia, New Zealand, Fiji, and Tonga.

Princess Anne is a trim size 12—a perfect model figure with 35-24-35 statistics. She is tall and slender with a narrow waist but likes her clothes to be rather on the loose side.

The princess will also be packing her famous blue velvet ankle-length evening cloak for the Australian tour. The cloak is a faithful copy of Queen Elizabeth's navy wool boat cloak—the monarch's official uniform as master of the Merchant Navy and Fishing Fleets.

Homemakers Hear Guest Speaker

Mrs. Eula Peele, of Piedmont Fabrics Shop, spoke at the Tuesday afternoon meeting of the Grimesland Extension Homemakers.

She showed slides and told of the "Formula For Fashion 1970." Speaking on the texture, design and color of this year's fabrics, she also stressed the importance of trims.

Mrs. Vivian Elks and Mrs. Jane Heath were guests for the meeting.

Refreshments were served by Ruby Hodges and Anna Holloman. President Ruby Hodges presided over the meeting.

A Series Of Contradictions

No one ever suggested there were not to be contradictions in politics, government or statements by public officials. Yet in recent days there has come to the fore another in the long series of contradictions.

Hornet's Nest In West N.C.

(Today's column for the N.C. Association of Afternoon Dailies was written by Clifton B. Metcald, Managing Editor, of The Mountaineer, Waynesville, North Carolina.)

By CLIFTON B. METCALF

WAYNESVILLE — Plans for aligning North Carolina's 100 counties into permanent multicounty regions to facilitate cooperative planning efforts have touched off a hornet's nest in the state's westernmost counties.

Haywood with 40,000-plus residents and one of the state's most versatile, and hence stable, economies is the battleground. She's a relatively small, and rural, county as counties go, but she is a choice morsel in the regional lineup.

In a tentative alignment drawn by State Planning Officer Ronald Scott Region 2 includes Haywood and the four counties which headwater the French Broad River. The Upper French Broad Economic Development Commission—in operation four years as the clearing house in the five counties for cooperative projects requiring state and financial monetary help and whose chairman resides in Haywood—doesn't want to let Haywood go.

Despite the county's membership in the UFB commission, many cooperative ventures in which Haywood has engaged in recent years has been with her neighbors in the opposite direction, the state's six westernmost counties that compose Region 1. Organizations which have sprung up to support those ventures are reacting like a man being stung by every hornet in the nest. They need Haywood to meet federal population requirements for most of their programs; without them, they fear they'll go out of business. They want Haywood to withdraw its membership from UFB—which they saw as a strict formality, anyway—and join the Southwestern Economic Development Commission, UFB's sister organization for Region 1.

Haywood is caught in a web of her own weaving. She has been working with counties all around her, getting in on any project anybody started if she figured it would do her people any good. Consequently, she has become so important to her neighbors by virtue of her involvement that, like the prettiest gal on the block, she's now courted by everybody.

Region 2 doesn't want to lose her, because it will mean a corresponding loss in population, and because Haywood's UFB commissioners want to see completed projects they've started. But Region 1 needs her population and economic stability even worse. With Haywood in, Region 1 has just over 100,000 residents, the smallest number of people to whom Uncle Sam lend assistance in many regional programs.

Haywood has more people than several of her western neighbors put together, as well as a great deal more stability and financial resource.

Because she was the big kid on the block, there was a time a few years back when her western neighbors didn't invite her to their parties. They didn't want the big kid bullying everybody into playing the games she liked best. Not until they found out they needed her if they were to play in Uncle Sam's league at all.

Suddenly, Haywood had a lot of friends. But by then UFB had coaxed Haywood into its orbit. So Haywood started playing with everybody who had anything to offer; the last few years have been rosy.

Working through UFB she came up with a tidy sum of federal dollars—a third of a million to help build two new high schools, $84,000 for a municipal waste treatment plant—and several plans for more, including a few TVA control dams an airport, and a road to ski resort.

Working with counties to her west she's done even better; the most notable accomplishments have been in health care and anti-poverty efforts. The State of Franklin Regional Council—the six counties of Region 1 plus Haywood—is considered something of a model nationally. Through its help Haywood has equiped four new coronary care units in the county hospital and obtained special heart care equipment for a pair of mobile Rescue Squad vehicles, a pioneer effort nationally. The council has also been instrumental in new cooperative efforts among doctors, hospitals, dentists, nurses and other medical personnel in its seven county area.

A coalition of law enforcement agencies in the same even counties has just obtained $85,000 from the federal government to improve handling of wayward juveniles and has been told it'll get $120,000 more later this year to help provide a communications links. Some law enforcement agencies across the region can't talk to each other without resorting to public utility lines.

A two-county anti-poverty agency, split across Region 1 and 2 lines, is pumping about $800,000 annually into the economy. It is planning manpower development projects for the entire seven-county area.

To further aggravate matters, Haywood's split to the four winds in state governmental subdivisions. For example; She's a part of the 32nd state Senatorial District (with Henderson and Polk), the 42nd House District (with Madison and Yancey), a State Highway Commission Division with Madison, Yancey, and Mitchell, and the 30th Judicial District (which includes the six counties west of her but none of those to the east).

Gov. Scott and others, among them President Nixon, in recent weeks have had new statements concerning the advisability of lowering the voting age. Gov. Scott indicated North Carolina should give consideration to the suggestion in the light of the fact that today's youngsters mature earlier than did their elders. Others have asserted they are more keenly aware of the world around them, what goes on in government and the meaning of responsible citizenship.

We argue that all these things are true.

But on the other hand in recent days another North Carolina official has come forward with the suggestion that North Carolina should change its laws so young people, so far as the courts are concerned, would be treated as juveniles until they reach the age of 18, rather than the present age of 16.

No one argues with assertions that first-offender 16-year-olds should not be imprisoned alongside hardened criminals. Certainly there is merit in proposals for young offender institutions where teenagers convicted of crimes are not exposed to those who have lived lives of crime or long years in prison.

But how do the politicians justify their seemingly conflicting proposals that youngsters be treated as juveniles longer, and yet have thrust upon them the rights and responsibility of adult citizenship earlier?

Bill Does Not Mean End Of Desegregation

The Senate-passed amendment to extend desegregation efforts to all areas on an equal basis, while a southern victory, should not be looked on as a means of halting integration.

If the amendment is passed by the House and HEW enforces the law in non-southern areas, it should mean the nation will be more aware of the problems caused by arbitrary integration orders which have disrupted, and in some cases virtually wrecked, southern school systems this year.

The amendment is a good one because it means that all school districts throughout the nation will equally be required to desegregate their schools. If the nation is truly committed to solving its racial problems—and it should be—then nothing could be more fair than this.

White House Line Hardens

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The fact that President Nixon issued his Lincoln's Birthday pronouncements on school integration without even consulting his policymakers at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) is a portent of a hardening Administration line.

The overwhelming sentiment inside the White House is for benevolent neutrality toward any faintly reasonable anti-integration proposal in Congress. Indeed, some Presidential advisors want the President to flatly prohibit Secretary Robert Finch and his lieutenants at HEW from continuing their opposition to such amendments.

The reason for the hardened line at the White House is political rather than ideological. Whatever Mr. Nixon does or does not say, Congress seems sure this year to finally pass an anti-integration amendment similar in intent to the kind Rep. Jamie Whitten of Mississippi has been pushing for five years. In a potential Constitutional crisis of Congress (heavily backed by popular opinion) vs. the courts, White House aides want Mr. Nixon where the votes are.

Thus, the long-time prophecy of Southern politicians is coming to pass. They have long predicted that, once true racial integration came home to the North, its people and its politicians would lose their fervor for civil rights.

While school integration pressure remained concentrated in the South through 1969, Mr. Nixon was content to let his liberal HEW department and his conservative Justice Department collide on the school-race question—particularly on the Whitten amendment to the HEW appropriations bill.

Atty. Gen. John Mitchell last August blocked Finch from putting the Administration on record against the Whitten amendment and privately advised House Republican leaders not to oppose its adoption. But when the Whitten amendment reached the Senate in December, Finch had White House authorization to publicly oppose it. Through it all, there was no official word from the President himself.

However, there have been recent clues of a change by the Administration. Just before the House voted on Jan. 28 to uphold Mr. Nixon's veto of the HEW appropriations bill, a rumor drifted through the cloakrooms that the White House would not fight a Whitten-type amendment the next time around—contributing to surprisingly heavy Southern Democratic support for the veto. When asked by Congressmen, Presidential aides would not flatly repudiate the rumor.

This tendency at the White House was sharply accelerated by two, wholly unexpected events last week: first, support by liberal Democratic Sen. Abraham

CHARACTER EDUCATION

Associate Justice Robert Jackson of the United States Supreme Court has written the following:

"It is one of the paradoxes of our time that modern society needs to fear... only the educated man. The primitive peoples of earth constitute no menace. The most serious crime against civilization can be committed only by educated and technically competent peoples."

What a comment this is on formal education! We remember how a few years ago the degenerate murder of a child was perpetrated by two young men outstanding for real achievement in the field of research. The criminal class is usually of inferior mentality. But once in a while, in fact with a frequency that alarms us, we find that behind the gross criminal stands a man of very high-grade intelligence.

James J. Hill, the railroad magnate, used to speak of educating the conscience. Theodore Roosevelt declared that to train a man's mind without training his character is to lend one's aid to the cultivation of a criminal.

The American educational system had better awake to the fact that character development comes first—or else. We do not educate a person simply by filling his head with facts. The most important part of a man is his moral character.

Football Coach's Story

WASHINGTON — Every once in a while, I hear a story that is so heart warming and beautiful that it makes me forget about all the terrible things I read and see on television.

This story, which is true, concerns a university football coach whom I'll call Smathers. His school, for antilibel purposes, shall be identified as the University of Sampson, somewhere in the Northwest.

Coach Smathers heard through the grapevine that there was a fantastic high school runningback in the state, and he was determined at all costs to recruit him. He piled into his car and drove 500 miles to the boy's home town.

Checking around, he discovered that his player was living with his mother, a divorcee. He also discovered that recruiters from all over the nation had been to see the boy.

The athletic scholarship competition was fierce.

Smathers decided the key to getting his back was the mother. He called on the lady in his best suit and tie and brought in his hand a bouquet of beautiful roses.

The mother, an attractive lady, was impressed. But Smathers had no intention of rushing her into a decision. He indicated on his first visit that all he wanted was for her to know how much he admired her son, and he was only concerned with the boy's welfare.

The next evening, Smathers invited the mother to dinner in a cozy candlelit Holiday Inn. As he looked across the table into the mother's eyes, Smathers started to tell her of the glories of the University of Sampson.

It was, he said, the oldest university in the state. The alumni controlled all the professions and businesses. It had a beautiful campus, with skiing in the winter only 15 miles away, hunting and fishing all year around.

There were new dorms and a new student union, as well as an athletic plan second to none in that part of the world.

Scholastically, the school rate in the top 100 in the nation.

Smathers told his lovely guest that if he had a son he would be proud to send him to the University of Sampson.

A gleam came into the mother's eyes as he described the school. But Smathers did not want to push his luck so he dropped the subject.

The next night, Smathers took the mother dancing. As they winged over the floor he told her of the diverse and exciting social life at the University of Sampson. There were theater and rock festivals, dances, snow carnivals, spring proms, hayrides and concerts.

During the football season the team had an opportunity to visit every part of the United States, and if they won a bowl invitation, they could find themselves in Miami, New Orleans or Pasadena.

The mother said it sounded wonderful.

Smathers was getting desperate for a decision, but he knew the time he spent was worthwhile.

Finally, on the third date, Smathers took the mother for a ride up in the hills. As they kissed tenderly he vowed to her that no matter what her son's decision, he would always remember that night.

After Smathers dropped the mother off at her house,

To the Editor:

Today there came to me what I term one of "life's delightful extras" and I should like to share it with your readers.

I was parking my car on Evans Street. As I was getting out I noticed a lady parked behind me - ready to drive off, she stopped, climbed out and called to me - "Honey," she said, "how long do you plan to be here?" I had never seen her before and as I answered "only a few minutes," I silently examined our positions to see if I might be crowding her.

It was then that she said, "I've just put a nickel in the parking meter and I thought you might use it without putting more money in another one."

I was so touched at the unexpected neighborliness and friendliness of her gesture that I took renewed faith and hope in the innate goodness of man.

While the news is filled with unhappy things, please print this bright spot.

Sincerely yours,
Elizabeth H. Copeland

Find Uses For The Pollutants

By ELMER ROESSNER

The approach to the pollution problem may be all wrong.

So far it has been preposed to spend billions to prohibit the dumping of industrial wastes into streams; the snatched this popular issue from the Democrats and the collegiate left has taken it up, partly because some of the boys and girls are tired of the older issues and partly to woo acceptance by the over-29 generation (marked down from 30 because of the recession).

The American Way

Those methods of attacking a problem, appropriating money and passing laws, plus making speeches, shouting, inventing slogans and writing editorials, may indeed be the traditional American way of solving problems.

But there is another American way that may be even more effective. It's to find economic uses for waste and pollutants.

We've done it in the past. The packing houses learned to use every bit of the hog except the squeal; the rocks cut away for the New York subways were made into embankments for a ship channel on Long Island, and around big chemical plants scores of smaller ones have clustered, each using the by-product of another.

By-products has become a byword of industrial engineering.

Find The Profits

Finding by-products of pollutants may be the best way to get rid of them. It also may be the cheapest.

Some action along this line has already begun. There are processes by which sewage can be sterilized, dehydrated and made into fertilizer. Wastes from gasoline refining have been converted into products more valuable than the gasoline itself. University of Wisconsin scientists are working on ways to extract the oil and utilize the remaining proteins in the alewife, a trash fish which along with pollution, is taking over the Great Lakes.

We are making some progress in reclaiming

Future Has A Charm

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Life is a guessing game, and no one can say for sure what will happen next.

This aura of unpredictability gives the future a certain charm which, however, is sometimes accompanied with apprehension or downright fear.

Man, now and then, gets tired of the guessing game. That's one of the reasons he turns to the consolations of his past. He likes his yesterdays because he doesn't have to guess about them. He feels he knows them because he has weathered them—their pleasures and their perils—fairly intact. He feels reasonably sure they won't change very much.

You have been through quite a few yesterdays yourself if you can look back and remember when—

The only way your best girl could hold your hand in public without appearing to be brazen was to pretend to read your fate by the life lines etched in it.

The three most famous mustaches in America were worn by John L. Sullivan, Mark Twain and President Teddy Roosevelt.

Anybody who ate chow mein and pizza pie in the same week was a culinary daredevil.

If you wanted ice in your drink you had to get an icepick and chop it yourself.

If a hobo knocked on your back door and you gave him a meal, he would make a mark on the sidewalk in front of your home to tip off the next hobo that you were an easy mark.

A barber was sure of one thing about anybody who gave him more than a quarter tip—he had to be from out of town.

Most people went through life doing without the things they couldn't afford, instead of going ahead and buying them anyway.

There was a different kind of generation gap. Nobody over 60 thought anybody under 40 could be trusted—at least to the extent of holding public office.

When the U.S. flag went by in a parade, every male bystander not only took off his hat—he also instinctively held it to his heart in a gesture of both love and respect.

—When someone was going away on a trip you shook hands in farewell at the railroad depot instead of an airport. Nowadays most Americans don't even pronounce the word depot aloud twice a year.

If nobody was knitting anything for a man, he knew nobody loved him.

Sex was all right in its place, but its place was in the dictionary.

It was a poor farmer who only owned one mule.

When the long-distance operator rang your phone, you automatically wondered which of your relatives was ill, dead, or desperately in need of money.

The biggest single source of air pollution was the five-cent cigar.

Few people stayed up after midnight without explaining why the next day.

Those were the days. Remember.

Skelton Switched In Number Game

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — CBS dropped Red Skelton from next season's schedule at least partly because its research department statistics indicated that 42 per cent of his 32-million viewers were 50 years old and over; 34 per cent were between 18 and 49 and the rest 17 and under.

NBC immediately hired Skelton because its statistics showed he ranked 29th in its list of "demographic appeal to audiences in the 18 to 49 age group" and was No. 8 in the popularity list.

Ribicoff of Connecticut for the amendment by Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi requiring that de facto segregation in the North be treated as severely as de jure segregation in the South; second, the Los Angeles superior court verdict that there is no difference between de jure and de facto segregation, ordering immediate integration in that city's schools.

The two events climaxed rising Northern public disaffection with school desegregation in the wake of racially-connected school violence and increasing instances of court-ordered busing. Integrations at HEW, hard put in their year-long battle against the Justice Department and White House, have found their liberal allies in Congress deserting them.

Nor have all Capitol Hill liberals appreciated the force of the public resentment. For instance, until Ribicoff's endorsement, they underestimated the dynamite inherent in the Stennis amendment. Sen. Calborne Pell of Rhode Island, a liberal Democrat who is chairman of the Senate Education Subcommittee, rejected pleas by HEW officials to conduct careful hearings on issues raised by Stennis.

Although HEW officials long ago perceived the growth of the school-race issue in the North, they were unprepared for President Nixon's Lincoln Day pronouncements. The President's position, prepared inside the White House, bore no relation to HEW policy. Dr. James Allen, Assistant Secretary of HEW who had just issued a negative appraisal of the Stennis amendment, was completely undercut by Mr. Nixon's kind words for it.

Jailed For Break-In

A Fountain man is being held in Pitt County jail on charges of breaking and entering and larceny following his arrest by deputy sheriffs on Wednesday.

Simon Hemby Willoughby, 32 year old Negro, is charged in connection with a Feb. 11 break-in at the George Parker Store north of Fountain.

According to Pitt sheriff Ralph Tyson, entrance to the store was gained by breaking a glass window on the store front and opening the door from the inside.

The store owner reported that approximately $40 to $50 was taken from a juke box and another $10 worth of candy and cookies were missing.

A cigarette machine was also looted, he said, and the contents of the machine were taken.

Tyson said that trial will be held March 2 in Pitt County District Court. Bond has been set at $300.

Aged Criminal Asks Welfare

NEW YORK (AP) — Bank robber Willie "The Actor" Sutton, who once estimated his criminal take at $2 million, has applied for welfare assistance.

At a Brooklyn welfare center Thursday, Sutton, 68, was promised $78 a month plus half the cost of his rent. Sutton said he was staying with Brooklyn relatives.

Sutton was released from prison last Christmas Eve after a 17-year stretch behind bars.

FASHION FORECASTS

by C. Heber Forbes

(Color Facts)

If your complexion is less than radiant, better forget all hues with yellow casts. This takes in yellow, orange-reds, yellow-browns, gold and tans. But you will do well in light pastel colors, white and even black.

If you have dark hair, olive skin and hazel eyes, you will look well in black, pink, peach, ivory, red, beige and gray.

You should always select colors that will do the most for you — colors that you can wear to the very best advantage.

Wrong selections can change your physical appearance making you look heavier than you really are. They can even make you look older. So beware of this.

By the same token, the right colors can make you look thinner and younger. Keep in mind your natural coloring — hair, eyes and skin.

Find Emotional 'Cop-Out' In My Lai Questioning

WASHINGTON (AP)—Most of the 57 persons questioned in an Oakland, Calif., public opinion survey on the alleged massacre of Vietnamese civilians by U.S. troops at My Lai want to detach themselves from it emotionally by denying the incident happened, placing the blame on others or saying the alleged killings were justified. The preliminary report of the survey by the Wright Institute of Berkeley, Calif., was prepared for the two-day Congressional Conference on War and National Responsibility, opening today. The report said the reactions of Americans were not unlike those of Germans after World War II. Germans interviewed during a denazification campaign stood at a fair distance from Nazi atrocities, feeling uninvolved, or denying the facts or projecting the guilt on others, the study said. "The same impetus to an emotional cop-out that produces complacent members of a Silent Majority is surprisingly strong in almost all of us, young as well as old, liberal as well as conservative, interviewer as well as interviewee," said Edward M. Opton Jr. and Robert Duckles of the institute in a paper prepared for the conference. The institute said the report was prepared on the basis of first-round contacts with 123 persons, 46 of whom were interviewed in depth, while 11 were given shorter questioning. The remaining persons contacted did not participate for various reasons, including a number who "coped with the alleged massacre by hanging up their telephones as soon as the massacre was mentioned," the survey said. Partial or complete denial that the massacre occurred was common among those interviewed, the survey said. It quoted a 66-year-old grandmother in describing the reaction of her foster daughter, "She doesn't want to believe it. She knows in her heart but refuses to face facts."

"Hawks, more than others, tended to justify the alleged massacre," the Opton-Duckles paper said. "Both hawks and doves argued in one way or another that no massacre happened. The doves tended to comfort themselves with the thought that My Lai's happen in every war, hence they need not be upset."

levels, the survey said, but it added, "No one extended the scope of responsibility to himself in particular or to the American people in general." This finding, the survey said, paralleled a study made of German attitudes after World War II.

The survey said the reactions were similar to the case of a woman who was murdered while her neighbors "heard her protracted screams and cries for help as she was slowly murdered, but who declined to get involved, and who reported afterwards a similar, seemingly paradoxical, emotional detachment."

One of the principal justifications advanced was that orders must be followed. Even some of the more dovish persons gave statements supporting this view, it said, such as: "They were given an order to do something. They will shoot you if you don't. They had no choice."

The survey said 74 per cent of the women interviewed indicated they would have refused orders to line people up and kill them while only 27 per cent of men said so.

Another popular justification given was that the victims were enemies, not civilians. "Now had these civilians, had these women set booby traps for these people?" one asked.

Charge Driver Left The Scene

Jack Douglas Gordon, 19 of 408 Kirkland Dr. was charged with leaving the scene of an accident following investigation of a 1:35 a.m. collision today. Police reported the Gordon vehicle collided with a sign post on N.C. 11, two-tenths of a mile South of the U.S. 264 Bypass intersection, causing an estimated $300 damage to the car and about $25 damage to the sign.

Finch Setbacks Create Shockwaves Among Liberals

By G.C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — When Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch stubs his toe at the White House, the liberal wing of the Nixon government suffers apoplexy.

A Finch setback—such as the forced resignation this week of Leon E. Panetta, the vigorous civil rights chief in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare—invariably sends shock tremors through the thinning ranks of administration liberals.

However much he spurns the role, the 44-year-old Californian and reputed presidential confidant is the spiritual leader of Republican liberals in Washington—most of them perched in HEW and called, somewhat derisively, "Finch's Crowd." They all feel threatened.

"I wonder who's next," worried one young government policymaker fresh from President Nixon's New York law firm. "First John Sears was eased out. Then Len Garment was consigned to obscurity, and now Leon. None of us is safe."

Sears, a liberal, was replaced this year as chief White House political operative by Harry C. Dent, a conservative Southerner and former aide to Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. Leonard Garment, another liberal and former Nixon law partner, while still at the White House, is little heard from.

One of Finch's most trusted aides nodded knowingly when asked about the morale effect of Panetta's White House-ordered ouster. "People are diving for shelter," he murmured.

In an obvious show of solidarity, HEW topiders offered Panetta, a young, aggressive California liberal, a standing ovation at the conclusion of his emotional news conference on his resignation.

No Cabinet officer is immune from presidential rebuff. But Finch's encounters are read extra carefully for signs of a rightward or leftward lean within the administration.

In fact, with the major exception of civil rights and the minor exception of the aborted appointment of Dr. John Knowles, Finch has had considerable success in gaining White House support for his initiatives.

Finch pleased consumer protection advocates with rapid action—later softened—against suspect cyclamate sweeteners.

He won support from environmentalists by moving against DDT, other pesticides, and exhaust from jet airliners.

He wooed civil libertarians and intellectuals with a restrained administration position on student unrest and a revision of HEW security clearance procedures that had led to informal blacklists of politically suspect scientists.

He prompted the first presidential message in history on population control.

But in all those areas, HEW insiders note, Finch did not have to buck politically powerful, organized opposition elements within the White House, the Congress, the Republican party or the country itself.

With welfare reform, however, Finch not only met but overcame this kind of opposition.

However eager for some action on welfare, it was little expected the middle-class Republican party would buy Finch's family assistance plan calling for giant increases in federal welfare spending, a form of guaranteed annual income and a doubling of eligible recipients.

Now, the plan appears headed for congressional passage, despite a rocky start.

But Finch floundered mightily on the rock of school desegregation.

The administration's weakened school guidelines, bearing the imprint of Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, were put forth in July over Finch's strenuous objections.

It took Finch months to persuade the President to oppose a congressional amendment that would legalize freedom of choice desegregation and outlaw busing—an administration opposition that has since lessened.

It fell to Finch, on White House orders, to request a precedent-shattering delay in Mississippi desegregation.

He failed to convince the President to take a leading role after the Supreme Court's desegregation "at once" order last November.

And he lost his battle with White House political strategists to retain Panetta, who has bruised the sensibilities of conservative Northern Republicans and Southerners alike.

"We've hardly had a chance on civil rights," said a high-ranking HEW official particularly close to Finch, "however correct we were in principle or law.

Another close aide offered a similar appraisal in the wake of Panetta's ouster: "I don't think this means a loss of prestige. It must be seen in terms of the competing strains evident in the country, in the Congress and within the administration. The side we represent simply lost this one."

But hasn't the "other side" been winning more than its share lately? The aide nodded silent assent.

analysis and job description. Perry comes to ECU from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where he served for two years as a classification analyst in the personnel department. His experience also includes four years as a classification analyst with the State Personnel Department in Raleigh.

A 1962 graduate of UNC, Perry holds the AB degree. Following graduation he served for two years in the U.S. Navy.

The new personnel officer is married to the former Mary Lu Nicholson of Hollister. Mrs. Perry is a graduate of ECU.

Mrs. Debnath Speaker For Girl Scouts

Mrs. Sebdana Debnath presented the program at the meeting of Greenville Girl Scout Troop 335 Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Debnath is a native of India. Her husband, Dr. Lokken Debnath, is a member of the East Carolina University Mathematics Department.

Mrs. Debnath discussed her country and showed several articles made in India. She showed how the sari, her native dress, is draped and worn.

Troop 335 will feature India as their display for Girl Scout Thinking Day Saturday.

Mrs. Debnath will join the girls for their open house celebration Saturday morning.

Leaders for Troop 335 are Mrs. Herbert Paschal, Mrs. Robert Forrest and Mrs. David Middleton.

Monday Holiday For Post Office

The Greenville Post Office and ECU Station will be closed Monday, says Postmaster J.C. Dudley.

There will be no window service on that day and no mail deliveries by rural or city carriers.

However, Dudley said, Special Delivery mail will be delivered within the city and mail will be delivered to Post Office boxes.

A city-wide collection will be made from all street letter boxes beginning at 5:00 p.m. and all outgoing mail will be dispatched as usual.

Two Wrecks Yesterday

An estimated $960 property damage was reported by police in two traffic mishaps investigated here yesterday.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 6 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Line Avenue and Farmville Blvd. that involved cars driven by James Howard Harris Jr., 20, of Farmville and Helen P. Harrell, of 1701 Battle St.

Officers, who charged Harris with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety, placed damages at $100 to the Harris car and $400 to the Harrell auto.

Annie Jones Adams, 26 of Route 6, Greenville, was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign following investigation of a 1:10 p.m. collision at the Third and Elizabeth Streets intersection.

Officers said the Adams car collided with a vehicle driven by John Matthew Farrow, 50, of 105 Lone St. causing an estimated $60 damage to the Adams car and $400 damage to the Farrow vehicle.

No injuries were reported.

Local Boys Chosen As Tour Members

Two Greenville youths are among 40 in the state who have been selected to take a weeks' New York City - Washington D. C. study tour on peace and world order.

Douglas Hartsell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Hartsell, and Mike Aldridge, son of Dr. and Mrs. M. W. Aldridge, were notified recently by the North Carolina Conference of The United Methodist Church, the sponsoring agency, of their selection.

Both Hartsell and Aldridge are presidents of their respective United Methodist Youth Fellowships with Hartsell heading the youth program at St. James United Methodist Church and Aldridge in charge of the Jarvis Memorial youth chapter.

The purposes of the tour, scheduled for March 14-20, are to expose the youth to the functions and operations of the United Nations and the U. S. Government and to provide the

Reception To Be Held For Newcomers Sunday

A reception for Burroughs Wellcome supervisory staff will be held at the home of Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of East Carolina University, Sunday, Feb. 22 from 5 to 6:30 p.m.

In announcing the reception, Dr. Jenkins said he wanted to make certain that the University

Reid Speaks To AAUW

David Reid presented the program at the Monday night meeting of the AAUW held in Erwin Hall.

A current candidate for Pitt County House Seat No. 2, Reid discussed "Causes of Political Instability and Conflict." He traced the political turmoil from 1930 to the present time, giving some pertinent problems in each stage of change in government. The importance of the two party system was stressed. The original April 25 district workshop scheduled to be held in Rocky Mount has been changed to April 18.

The program chairman for the meeting was Miss Alice Wooten. Miss Marguerite Wiggins served as chairman of the hostess committee.

Scott Urges Confidence

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott appealed to North Carolinians today not to let "our deep concerns over the issues of busing and protecting our neighborhood schools to undermine our confidence in public education."

"It is essential that you, all citizens, continue to give education in North Carolina the support it needs," Scott said in a talk prepared for delivery to the North Carolina Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Contractors Association.

Scott said despite concern over busing, "Let us not lose sight of the many positive aspects of our comprehensive program in public education. Let us not lose sight of the tremendous amount of good that results from this program."

"Support local school bond programs," Scott said. "Support state appropriations for new programs, such as kindergartens and occupational exploration in the middle grades. Support adequate salaries for teachers."

opportunity to participate in discussion of current world affairs.

The tour will also afford the youth the opportunity to discuss the Christian's responsibility and the role of the Church in the issues raised before the United Nations and the Federal Government.

Finally, one of the more important aspects of the tour involves the chance to discuss with other youth the role of United Methodist young people in determining his Christian responsibility in these issues.

The group will leave for Philadelphia and after a fellowship and supper with a U. M. Y. F. group there, will travel to Washington.

Highlights of the tour, in addition to extensive orientation at the United Nations Building, include visits to the Russian Embassy in Washington and sightseeing tours of New York City and Washington.

joins the many others who will greet the newcomers to the community.

"We are extremely happy that Burroughs Wellcome is coming to Greenville and I want to offer the services of the university to the newcomers in any way we might be needed," he said.

Some 75 Burroughs Wellcome Company supervisory staff have indicated that they will be moving to Greenville from the Tuckahoe, N.Y., area. The reception at Dr. Jenkins' home follows a Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association dinner for the employees, which will be held on Saturday night at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Parents Charge Rights Violated By Assignment

STATESVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Parents of two white children have charged the children's constitutional rights were violated by the Statesville Board of Education because they were assigned to schools outside their neighborhood under a plan designed to achieve desegregation.

The parents have filed suit in federal court seeking an injunction against the board that would prohibit the reassignments.

The pupils, Scott and Becky Sipes, attended an elementary school beside their home before the board put into effect a court-ordered desegregation plan last January.

The parents contend in the suit their children were discriminated against in being re-assigned away from the neighborhood school because of their race.

School Buses Believed Safe

RALEIGH (AP) — A state official says North Carolina's school buses are safe even if it turns out that the state bought some of the 4,000 1968-69 buses that General Motors is recalling for a check of possibly faulty brakes.

W. F. Tillett, engineer for the Board of Education's division of transportation, said North Carolina's school buses are equipped with a double set of brakes and "it's unlikely that both would fail at the same time."

DE Club Members At District Meet

Members of the Distributive Education (DE) Club of Rose High School attended the 11th Annual District meeting in Farmville Wednesday.

Rose High DE students participating in the various contests held in connection with the meeting were: Job Interview, Ronnie Ellis; Boy Student of the Year, Mike West; Girl Student of the Year, Beverly Farmer; Sales Demonstration, Rachel Ross; D.E. Sweetheart, Naomi Heath; Public Speaking, Van Johnson; and Advertising, Debra Galloway.

Greenville contestants who were winners are: Beverly Farmer, first place, Girl Student of the Year; Van Johnson, second place, public speaking; and Naomi Heath, D.E. Sweetheart, third place.

These three winners, along with five elected delegates, will attend the State DE Clubs of America convention to be held in the new Winston-Salem Convention Center April 2-5.

Other members of the Rose High DE Club attending the Farmville meeting were: Jackie Thomas, Barbara Harrison, Chuck Bunn, Ken Thompson, Cathy Furstenberg, Donald Gray, Al Nichols, Tommy Fleming and Travis Hardee.

A fashion show was staged by the students as one of the

Restraint Order Against Firm

RALEIGH (AP) — A temporary restraining order against the Gibraltar Will Form Co. of Houston, Tex., was issued Thursday by Superior Court Judge James H. Pou Bailey.

The order forbids the company from selling or advertising the sale of will forms and instructions in the state.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Jean Benoy and B. E. James, secretary-treasurer of the North Carolina Bar Association requested the order.

Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan said in a statement several weeks ago that the giving of advice on the drafting of wills by nonlawyers is "an unauthorized practice of law" and therefore illegal.

Prince Charles To Enter Navy

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles, 21-year-old heir to the British throne, has decided to do a hitch in the Royal Navy.

Buckingham Palace announced Thursday he will serve four months with the Royal Air Force after graduating from Cambridge University in June and will enter Dartmouth Naval College in September 1971.

"He will go into the Navy under the graduate entry scheme for a period of three to five years," the announcement said. "Then he will decide whether he wants to serve for a further period."

Charles' father, Prince Philip, grandfather, King George VI, and great grandfather, King George V, were all Royal Navy men.

Tuesday Weld Asks Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Tuesday Weld is seeking to end her four-year marriage to writer Claude Hartz.

Her divorce petition, filed in Superior Court Thursday, cited irreconcilable differences.

Hartz and the 26-year-old actress have one child, Natasha, 3.

Tigers, Cavaliers To Decide ACC's Basement

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Clemson Tigers are wrestling with Virginia to see who can find a way out of the Atlantic Coast Conference cellar first.

After losing 97-71 to Wake Forest Wednesday night, the Tigers are tied with the Cavaliers for the last place. Both teams now have 1-10 records for ACC play. And they meet Saturday at Virginia.

And if the record is not enough to shame the last place teams, the prospect of next month's ACC tournament in Charlotte might be enough to scare them.

The league's last-place team will have to play the No. 1 team in the first round of the March 5-7 tourney in Charlotte, N.C.

South Carolina's Gamecocks have guaranteed themselves at least a tie for the ACC crown. The Gamecocks, still smarting from defeat by Davidson but ranked fourth nationally, downed North Carolina State 71-69 Wednesday. They have three games left on their ACC schedule before the tournament.

South Carolina did a fine job of containing North Carolina State's high-scoring forward Vann Williford.

His 14 points looked meager, beside the 38 racked up by the Gamecocks' John Roche. The scoring spectacular put on by Roche impressed more than the fans.

Said Al Heartley, the North Carolina State man assigned to guard Roche: "Sometimes I think I'm doing a good job, but you can't really ever do a job of stopping guys like Roche. Roche was three inches taller than me and he has those long arms and those good moves."

That from a man who plays on a team ranked 12 in the nation. All ACC teams will be resting tonight, as they did Thursday night.

Clemson will be at Virginia, Maryland at Duke, South Carolina at North Carolina, and Wake Forest at North Carolina State.

Pair Gain On Church Leader

Black Jack and Presbyterian picked up a half-game on idle Immanuel Baptist in the Church Basketball League last night. Presbyterian beat Mt. Pleasant, 46-37, while Black Jack topped St. James 44-40. In the other game, Piney Grove downed Oakmont, 46-30.

Immanuel leads the league with a 9-3 record, while Black Jack and Presbyterian are both 8-4. St. James and Piney Grove are tied for fourth with 7-5 marks, followed by Oakmont, 3-8, and Mt. Pleasant, 0-12.

In the opener, Presbyterian pushed out into a 22-15 lead in the first half. Mt. Pleasant tried to rally in the final period, but couldn't quite match Presbyterian, which outscored them, 24-22.

Brazel Moore led

Presbyterian with 13 points, while Robert Oswald had 11. For Mt. Pleasant, D. R. Daniels had 14.

St. James moved into a 20-12 lead in the first period, but Black Jack rallied in the second half to take the win. Black Jack dumped in 32 points in the second period, while holding St. James to 20, and it was enough.

Tal Adams led Black Jack with 23 points, while Van Britt had 17 and Roy Carawan had 11 for St. James.

Piney Grove slipped out into a 10-8 lead in the first half of its game. Then, in the second half, the pace picked up, and Piney Grove outshot Oakmont, 36-22, to take the win.

Jimmy Mills led Piney Grove with 18, while Don Parrott had 12 for Oakmont.

Funseth Can't Believe Lead

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Golf Writer
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — An unbelieving Rod Funseth, who hadn't planned on being here in the first place, found the answer to the raw cold and blustery winds that turned the Pecan Valley Golf Club course into a monster.

"I guess those long putts made it look easy," Funseth said after firing a three-under-par 67 for the first round lead in the $100,000 San Antonio Open Golf Tournament.

"I just can't believe it," the curly-haired, 36-year-old veteran said Thursday when told he had the lead.

"I didn't know I was even close to the lead until I came in. 'You sure there aren't some better scores out there?'" There weren't.

Funseth was the only man in the field of 144 pros to break par 70 and only two others, Mike Hill and John Schlee, could match par on the 7,138 yard layout.

"It's just too cold," said Lee Trevino, the pre-tournament favorite and winner of last week's Tucson Open. He had a 75.

"In the two years I've been on the tour, I can remember only one day that was colder," said U.S. Open champion Orville Moody. He had a 76.

Defending champion Deane Beman had a 77. Dan Sikes was disqualified after signing for an incorrect card.

Last year's leading money winner, Frank Beard, had a 71 and was tied at that figure with Jack Montgomery, Kermit Zarley, Louis Graham, Jim Jamieson, Willie Scholl, Jack McGowan and Ron Cerrudo.

David Hill, Mike's older brother, had a 72, one of a dozen at that figure.

The temperature was only in the low 40's, but a chilling wind that gusted to 36 miles per hour greatly increased the discomfort factor, particularly for the morning starters.

"We definitely got a break on the guys who had to play in the morning," said Funseth, one of the late starters. "It wasn't so cold and the wind had let up a little."

Funseth, who said he hadn't planned on competing in this tournament because of poor play in recent weeks, said it took a phone call from his wife to convince him.

"I was going to go home after Tucson," he said, "But Sandi called and talked me into it. Right now it looks like a good decision."

East Carolina University winds up the 1969-70 regular season basketball schedule Saturday night when the Bucs travel to Charleston, S. C., to meet The Citadel.

While East Carolina has second place in the Southern Conference all wrapped up, the game means a lot to The Citadel, which is still fighting for position among those near to the end of the line.

"We would like to win it too," Coach Tom Quinn of East Carolina said, "just to keep our winning streak going, and to have no more than two conference losses again this year."

A win for the Bucs would send them into the tournament with a five-game winning streak, longest of any conference team.

The Bulldogs go into the game with a 4-7 conference record, in sixth place. They have a chance, with a win of their own, coupled with a VMI win over Furman to move into fifth, but the chances of both happening are slim. Furman will also be shooting for their fifth straight win, while VMI is struggling to avoid the cellar and a first-round meeting with Davidson.

"I thought The Citadel did a pretty fair job of defending us inside," Quinn said. The Bucs downed the Bulldogs Saturday night, 83-69, in Greenville, but had quite a bit of trouble with the stubborn South Carolina team.

"We didn't play as well as we are capable of doing," the coach said. "Our kids like to play at The Citadel, so maybe we'll really be ready."

Referring to Wednesday night's victory over William & Mary, Quinn said that he thought the Bucs played well enough to beat anybody during the first 10 minutes of play. "We were up for them, and I think we'll be up for The Citadel. We want to keep our record intact in the conference, and have some momentum for the tournament."

The Pirates go into the game with four of their five starters averaging better than 16 points per game. Jim Modlin and Tom Miller both are averaging just over 18 points per game, while Jim Fairley and Jim Gregory are better than 16.

The leading scorer for The Citadel is Jerry Hirsch, who ranks second in the conference with a 20.2 mark. He is the eighth leading field goal shooter and is third in free throw accuracy.

But where The Citadel falls down is in rebounding. The Bulldogs are last in the conference in this department, while the Bucs are second, just percentage points behind Davidson.

Following Saturday's game, the Bucs will begin preparations for Thursday's Southern Conference tournament first round. The Bucs will meet the team that finishes in seventh place in the 9 p.m. game Thursday, winding up the first round play.

The tournament, played in Charlotte's Coliseum, continues through Saturday, with the winner advancing to the Eastern NCAA regionals.

Overtime Games In Industrial

The Industrial Basketball League neared the end of the season as it played the next-to-last games last night. Wachovia downed the Jaycees, 61-48, for an easy win, but that was the only one. The rest were hard fought, as WNCT nipped Union Carbide, 58-57, in an overtime, and State Highway beat Fieldcrest Mills, 58-54, in a double overtime.

State Highway has locked up first place with a 13-1 record. Wachovia is alone in second, 10-4, while Fieldcrest is third, 9-5. They are followed by Union Carbide and WNCT, both 5-9, and the Jaycees, 0-14.

In the opener, both teams dumped in 29 points in the first half, to give an omen of things to come. Neither Fieldcrest nor State Highway could get an advantage in the second half, as each scored 19, tying it at 48-48 at the end of regulation play. In the first overtime, both got six, making it 54-54, and forcing another overtime. But in this one, State Highway outthit Fieldcrest, 4-0, to take the win.

WNCT and Union Carbide kept things going. At the end of the first half, they were tied, 25-25. They both pushed through 27 in the second half, making it 52-52. Then, in the first overtime, WNCT managed six points, as Jim Heatherly hit two free throws with six seconds left to bring the win.

But Wachovia didn't have the same troubles. It shot out to a 28-18 lead in the first half, then outscored the Jaycees, 33-28, in the second half.

Walter Jones led Wachovia with 19, while Bill Baggett had 18 and Andy Warren had 12.

Black Sox Scandal Recalled As McLain Draws Suspension

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Denny McLain's once-bright baseball future was shrouded by the ugly spectre of scandal today following his suspension for what Commissioner Bowie Kuhn called "involvement in 1967 bookmaking activities and his associations at that time."

The 25-year-old Detroit pitching ace, who won 31 games in 1968 and 24 last season, was set down indefinitely Thursday, pending further investigation of the alleged indiscretion, after his second meeting with the commissioner in six days.

The suspension of the two-time Cy Young Award winner marked the worst blight suffered by baseball since the infamous 1919 Black Sox scandal, which resulted in lifetime bans for eight Chicago players for conspiring to fix the World Series against Cincinnati that year.

In a prepared statement following his lengthy meeting with McLain and his attorney, William Aiken, Kuhn said:

"I have decided on the basis of facts developed at these conferences that Mr. McLain's involvement in 1967 bookmaking activities and his associations at that time leave me no alternative but to suspend him from all organized baseball activities pending the completion of my review of his situation."

"It should be made clear that the action taken today is based substantially on certain admissions made candidly to me by Mr. McLain and not on allegations contained in a recent magazine article, many of which I believe will prove to be unfounded."

After their first meeting last Friday, the commissioner issued a terse statement that he was reviewing McLain's "off-the-field activities in 1967," adding, however, that "there is no indication that these activities in any way involved the playing or outcome of baseball games."

McLain, who testified Wednesday in Detroit before a federal grand jury probing widespread gambling operations, appeared haggard and grim as he left the commissioner's office minutes before the suspension was announced.

Neither Kuhn nor McLain would elaborate on Kuhn's statement or answer questions.

But late Thursday night, the financially troubled pitcher arrived by plane at Tampa, Fla., en route to his Lakeland winter home, and told the Tampa Tribune: "I think a few people tried and hanged me. It (the suspension) was unfortunate, but it was all Commissioner Kuhn could do under the circumstances. As far as the allegations are concerned, very few are true."

McLain was to have reported today for spring training at Lakeland with the other Detroit pitchers and catchers. But he will not be permitted to participate in any baseball activity, nor will he be paid, while under suspension.

Before leaving the commissioner's office, he promised to hold a press conference in Lakeland today or Saturday. But he told newsmen at Tampa he needed a few days to be left alone to consider his predicament.

Tigers' General Manager Jim Campbell said he agreed "wholeheartedly" with the commissioner's action and promised the club "will continue to cooperate so that this matter can be brought to a final conclusion."

Meanwhile, some of McLain's teammates expressed shock at the announcement of the suspension while others talked of a concerted effort to overcome the possible loss of the strapping fireballer for the 1970 season.

"It caught me unexpected," said veteran first baseman Norm Cash, "because I didn't know a guy could get into that kind of trouble in such a short period of time."

"We can't let it get us down—we're a team," said slugger Willie Horton. "We've got to seal up those little cracks a little tighter now. This shouldn't stop us. We'll just have to work harder. We're professionals."

"We can't just sit back and cry. I know Denny doesn't want us to do that. Maybe this could be a spark for us."

But Manager Mayo Smith best summed up the club's shortcomings should McLain be reinstated. "Where do you pick up 24 games? That's the problem."

Yarborough's Blazing Speed, Fatal Wreck Mark Daytona Day

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A 250-mile race for small sporty sedans was on tap at Daytona Beach today, but the resort area was still agog at the blazing lap speeds being turned and saddened by the fatal wreck that marred one of two 125-mile events Thursday.

Cale Yarborough, making an impressive return to racing after almost losing his life in a wreck last December, won the first of the two sprints at a speed of 183.295 miles an hour in a Mercury. It was the fastest race ever run anywhere.

A three-car wreck at the midway point of the second race cost the life of Talmadge "Tab" Prince, a 32-year-old Dublin, Ga., auto dealer who was making his first start in a race for the 4,000-pound 600-horsepower stock cars.

Prince, who had raced sprints and late model sportsman cars for 10 years, apparently lost control when his engine blew going into the Daytona speedway's high banked west turn. The car went into a wild spin sideways and was struck broadside by Bill Seifert of Skyland, N.C., in a Ford.

Prince was killed instantly, according to track physician Dr. A. A. Monaco. Among his injuries was a broken back and compressed spinal cord.

Seifert was hospitalized with a concussion and bruises. He was reported in good condition.

A third driver involved, Johnny Halford of Spartanburg, S.C., escaped injury.

Charlie Grotzbach of Georgetown, Ind., driving one of the new winged Dodge Daytonas, won the second race. His speed was cut to 147.734 m.p.h. because of a 13-lap slowdown needed to clear the track of debris from the wreck. Buddy Baker, driving another Dodge, came in second.

Yarborough's race was run without incident and he and Dodge's Bobby Isaac battled bumper-to-bumper for the lead much of the way. A quicker pit stop by Yarborough gave him the advantage in the final dash for the checkered flag and he finished five and one-half seconds in front.

Yarborough and Baker had won the two front row positions for Sunday's $205,000 Daytona 500 in time trials Feb. 8 and their starting spots were not affected by the 125-milers. But the other 38 starters earned their assignments in these races. Tiny Lund, 41-year-old veteran from Cross, S.C., who earned an eighth starting position in the 500, had the pole in today's 250-miler for NASCAR's Grand American cars, sedans of the Camaro, Mustang and Javelin class and powered by lighter 302-cubic inch engines. The race uses a track and road course of 3.81 miles.

A 300-mile race for late model sportsman cars is scheduled Saturday, setting the stage for the windup of speed weeks with the Daytona 500 Sunday.

Yarborough, 30-year-old ex-football player who lives in a colonial style mansion at Timmonsville, S.C., won the pole spot for the 500 by lapping the 2.5-mile speedway at 194.015 m.p.h. two weeks ago. Baker posted 192.864 to get the other front row berth.

Neither was required to run in Thursday's qualifying heats, but Yarborough collected $1,300 for his effort and Baker's second place finish was worth $800. Yarborough already has earned $6,000 for his pole-winning ride.

Prince had raced about 10 years in sprint and late model sportsman cars. He bought his grand national car earlier this year from driver James Hylton of Spartanburg, S. C., who switched to a Ford.

A son of W. T. Prince of Dublin, the dead driver was separated from his second wife, Nel. He also is survived by two children from a first marriage.

It was the first fatality in Grand National Racing since Oct. 17, 1965, when Harold Kite of Augusta, Ga., was killed at Charlotte, N.C.

Bill France, founder and president of NASCAR, said competitors had driven 1,040,660 miles on Grand National tracks since Kite's death.

However, Don MacTavish of Needham, Mass., was killed at Daytona last year when his late model sportsman wrecked in the Permatex 300.

Richmond May Escape Cellar

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
From a team which at the start of the week seemed doomed to a first-round Southern Conference championship tournament meeting with Davidson's top-seeded Wildcats, Richmond's Spiders suddenly have the look of a team that's out from under the gun.

The first assist came Tuesday night when The Citadel's Bulldogs beat Virginia Military's Keydets 68-61 and dropped them back to within a game of the last-place Spiders.

Richmond helped its own cause Thursday night with a 78-54 romp over the Keydets that left the two all even in seventh place with 37 records and one game each to go—the Spiders at home against William and Mary and VMI on the road at Furman, both Saturday night.

If the tie remains, Richmond will be seventh and VMI eighth in the tournament lineup because the Spiders' victory margin Thursday night was by far greater than VMI's one-point triumph over Richmond earlier.

Richmond led by just 27-24 at halftime of Thursday night's game, in which there were 45 turnovers, but the Spiders hit 21 of 28 floor shots—a torrid 75 per cent—in the second half while VMI was hitting on just 7 of 35, or 20 per cent.

Phil Bushkar and John Welch each hit 6 of 7 shots. Kenny Foster hit 7 of 11 and Jim Hewitt 8 of 12 as Hewitt finished with 16 points. Foster with 15, Picot Frazier with 14, Welch with 13 and Bushkar with 12. Jim Gillespie led the Keydets with 16.

The game was the only one scheduled Thursday night for conference teams, and all are idle tonight.

Carr Leads In Irish Victory

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
It's a bird, it's a plane, it's ... a Carr. Austin Carr, that is, Notre Dame's Superman in sneakers, despite "pressing and off in my timing," ambushed New York University with 30 points as the 14th-ranked Irish took a 77-65 college basketball game Thursday night.

"I don't go into a game thinking about scoring, I just try to do my best," said Awesome Austin, the second leading scorer in the nation with a 35-point average. "But tonight wasn't my game ... I just didn't play my style."

What is Carr's style? "It's not my game to be flashy ... winning to me is what counts," he said, cracking a handsome smile.

Despite being double-teamed at times, Carr motored through NYU's rib-sticking defense and hit on just about every shot in the basketball book—twisting, turning and shooting the eyes out of the basket with usual aplomb.

The final tally was 9-of-19 from the field, almost 50 per cent. He really killed the sky-high Violets at the foul line, where he hit 12 of 15.

The contest was the second game of a doubleheader at Madison Square Garden in New York. Manhattan took the opener from Iona, 65-57.

None of the Top Ten was in action Thursday night. In the Second Ten, 15th-ranked Houston hammered Loyola of New Orleans 99-80; 17th-rated Drake edged Wichita State 90-83 in overtime and No. 20 Santa Clara stumbled before Nevada Las Vegas 72-70.

"I like to play in the East," said Carr, a Maryland resident who played high school ball in Washington, D.C. "And I like playing especially in New York. You get keyed up here."

Did the crowd of 7,172, less than half the Garden's capacity, disappoint him?

"I don't worry about how many come," I just want to play," he said.

Ollie Taylor scored 25 points and scooped up 19 rebounds for Houston, which won its 19th game in 22.

Kinston Plays City All-Stars

The Greenville City League All-Stars will play Grady's of Kinston tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Elm Street Gymnasium.

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP) —

Frightened residents of a military housing project where a Green Beret doctor's pregnant wife and two small children were slain are keeping outdoor lights on through the night, arming themselves and buying stronger door locks.

Meanwhile, authorities tightened the secrecy around their investigation into the baffling slayings.

Neither military or civilian police would reveal whether progress was being made as the lone survivor of Tuesday's macabre stabbings, Capt. Jeffrey MacDonald, 26, continued to recover at Ft. Bragg's Womack Army Hospital.

Authorities even refused to reveal funeral plans for the slain Mrs. MacDonald, 26, and the MacDonalds' daughters, Kimberly, 6, and Kristen, 2. They were from Patchogue, N.Y.

Mrs. MacDonald and her daughters were found stabbed and bludgeoned and MacDonald wounded in their six-room apartment about 4 a.m. Tuesday by military police who answered MacDonald's telephoned call for help.

MacDonald, who suffered a stab wound which pierced a lung, and other less serious injuries, told police the brutal attack was carried out by a hippie-type band. He said there were three men and a blonde girl who carried a candle and murmured "Acid is groovy; kill the pigs." Acid is a slang term for the hallucinatory drug LSD.

Scrawled in blood on the headboard of the MacDonalds' bed was the word "Pig."

Residents of the 924-family post housing complex where the MacDonalds lived, Corregidor Courts, armed themselves and reinforced their door locks. And Military Police patrols were stepped up sharply.

"People are scared out here, especially the women," said one of the residents, Lt. Walter Johnson, 24, of Scio, Ore. "Everybody is making sure they have weapons at hand."

Johnson said one of his neighbors "even cut off a pool cue to use as a club."

Conference On Drugs In March

Drug use by teenagers is spreading throughout Eastern North Carolina.

Educators, law enforcement authorities and civic-minded citizens are finding themselves faced with an increasingly pressing problem: to understand and combat sale and use of drugs. Solutions are harder to come by than the drugs involved.

Although it is by no means expected to solve drug problems, a conference scheduled at East Carolina University in March should answer a lot of questions and provide some understanding of drugs, their use and availability, for Eastern North Carolina educators.

"Drugs and the Teenager" will be a one-day conference on the ECU campus March 5. Drugs will be defined from a legal and medical point of view; drug use by teenagers will be discussed and the availability of drugs will be examined.

The conference will host Charles Dunn, Director of the State Bureau of Investigation, and several SBI agents, who will discuss various aspects of the drug problem and lead panel discussions.

The conference, according to Brayom Anderson of the ECU Division of Continuing Education, "is designed to provide greater knowledge and understanding of drug use, a problem which has been mostly confined to the cities but which is becoming increasingly troublesome in Eastern North Carolina."

The Division of Continuing Education is offering the conference with the cooperation of the SBI, the ECU School of Education, and the Greenville Jaycees. Anderson said the Jaycees are providing financial support for the conference, which is offered free of charge.

Registration is at 8 a.m. on Thursday, March 5 and the conference will conclude at 4 p.m. after a special display of SBI materials.

Donald Lindsay, operator of the Ace Pawn Shop near the post, said his weapons sales had increased since the slayings, and "four or five people told me they lived at Bragg and needed protection."

Military policemen sternly enforced orders to keep all outsiders — including newsmen — well back from the MacDonald apartment.

Inside the apartment, investigators ripped out blood-spattered portions of a wall to be sent to the Army's Criminal Investigation Division Laboratory at Ft. Gordon near Augusta, Ga.

Sent to Ft. Gordon earlier were two knives, an icepick and a club-like, 18-inch piece of wood, all believed to have been used in the slayings.

Investigators also scooped up and sent to a laboratory small samples of a dark brown substance, possibly blood, from a sidewalk leading from a rear entrance of the MacDonald home. Police believe the intruders might have entered through this door, which they said apparently had been left unlocked.

In downtown Fayetteville, near the post, a hand-written sign referring to the slayings appeared on the door of Spotlite, Inc., a store which sells love beads and other hippie attire.

The sign asked customers to help find the slayers adding: "If we don't, friendly Fayetteville will back us to the wall. We need any help and information we can get to stop four very sick people from repeating what they did to a doctor, his wife and two little girls."

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING PROPOSED AMENDMENT TOWN OF BETHEL ZONING MAP

The public will take notice that a public hearing will be held on the 3rd day of March, 1970, at 8 p.m., in the Town Office, Bethel, N. C., for the purpose of considering a proposed change in the zoning map as follows:

(a) Amendment of the zoning ordinance so as to make the same applicable to the two areas annexed by the Town on the 23rd day of June, 1969.

(b) Amendment of the zoning map so as to place in proper zones the two areas annexed by the Town on the 23rd day of June, 1969.

All interested citizens are invited to attend.

Arrest Man On Break-In Count

Pitt County sheriff officials have arrested Marion Odell Parker of Simpson on charges of breaking and entering and larceny at the home of Dennis B. Hawkins on Rt. 1, Grimesland. Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Parker, 43 year old Negro, was arrested on Monday and charged in connection with the Feb. 13 incident. A small amount of money was reported taken from the home, he said.

Currently under $100 bond in Pitt County jail, Parker will be tried on March 2 in District Court.

Bankers Gathering Saturday

The 54th annual meeting of Group One of the North Carolina Bankers Association will be held Saturday afternoon at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

Curtis Hendrix, current Group One chairman, said that 16 northeastern counties of the state would be represented at the session, scheduled to begin at 3 p.m. with registration.

The executive vice president of the state association, Harry Gattin of Raleigh, will deliver the afternoon presentation, Hendrix said.

Other items on the business agenda include the election of officers to serve Group One for the coming year and the appointment of working committees.

Mayor Frank Wooten is scheduled to welcome the delegation at the afternoon session.

A reception from 5-6:30 p.m. will precede the annual bankers banquet to be held at 7. Hendrix said that normally attendance at the banquet number is close to 400.

Highlight of the banquet will be an address by the Rev. Grady Nutt of Louisville, Ky., who has become a nationally known entertainer averaging over 100 concerts and speaking engagements a year.

Nutt, who formerly held a Baptist pastorate position before becoming a full-time entertainer, has appeared on the nationally televised Mike Douglas Show.

Current officers who will be recognized at the banquet and replaced by the slate elected during the afternoon session include, in addition to Hendrix, William Long, vice chairman from Branch Banking and Trust Company in Williamston, and R. L. Stevenson, secretary - treasurer from People's Bank and Trust Company of Hertford.

Outgoing members of the executive committee are: Roy Clark, East Carolina Bank of Englehard; Ralph Basnight, Industrial Bank of Elizabeth City; Max Jones, Bank of Washington; and C. D. Langston, Bank of Winterville.

The current representative from Group One on the State Executive Committee is David H. Dickie of Farmers Bank in Murfreesboro.

Group One is one of ten chapters making up the structure of the State Bankers Association.

District Leaf Growers To Meet Here Wednesday

The 12th annual district meeting for growers in District Six of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

District Six includes the following counties from the Eastern Belt of North Carolina: Bertie, Martin, Washington, Tyrrell, Dare, Beaufort, Pitt, Lenoir, Jones, Craven, Carteret and Pamlico.

A summary of the cooperative's activities will be given by Fred G. Bond, general manager of the cooperative, and J. B. Sineath, the cooperative's assistant general manager.

W. A. Allen of Farmville, director of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation since 1958, said that practically all North Carolina growers are members of the cooperative and should make every effort to attend the meeting in their district. He reminded growers of the vital importance of maintaining a sound tobacco program and the need of every grower's support.

Allen said the program planned for Wednesday will include the cooperative's receipts and sales, processing and storage operations, along with a summary of operations for Tobacco Growers Services, Inc., the cooperative's subsidiary, which processes tobacco and operates storage facilities for growers.

Growers will also have the opportunity to review samples of redried tobacco both in the tipped and threshed form as well as the loose or untied form.

A discussion period will be followed by a short business session to designate members of the Advisory Committee from all flue-cured counties in the district.

The Worry Clinic Psychology Is For Employers

Luke realizes the need for Applied Psychology in dealing with his employees. For it isn't lack of facts about chemistry or metallurgy, tensile strength of metals or accounting policies that produce discord and strikes.

No; it is failure to use those 10 axioms of Employer-Employee psychology outlined below. Scrapbook this vital case!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M. D.

CASE M-528: Luke G., aged 28, has recently been made an office manager.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I feel somewhat uncertain about how to handle many of the problems I confront.

"For several of my employees are older than I am and thus may have had far more practical experience.

"Yet I must maintain respect for myself since I am now the boss.

"In this dilemma, what would you suggest as an outline of the basic principles of 'human engineering,' for I guess that's what my job involves?"

In my college textbook, "Psychology Applies," I have often stressed various of the following essentials for proper Employer-Employee relations:

(1) Don't reprimand or criticize an employee in public. Instead, call him into your private office.

(2) Don't criticize or reprimand an employee just before meal time. Wait till both of you have had a full meal!

"An empty stomach," stated Einstein, "is not a good political adviser," nor is it helpful to a boss or Personnel Director.

(3) Employ my "sandwich method" for administering reproof, correction or reprimand.

Start with an honest compliment as the bottom layer.

Then smile and casually insert the meaty (critical) layer by saying: "Joe, maybe it would be better if you did that in this manner, etc."

Since all correction or reproof deflates our ego somewhat, be sure to complete the sandwich with another bit of praise.

(4) When you have erred, don't try chronically to pass the buck and blame somebody else (including your wife).

Instead, shake your head dubiously and say, "Boys, I'm afraid I made a mistake this time."

But don't speak in a timid or mousy tone meanwhile, for your positive voice will still retain your official prestige.

(5) Complement your workers for obvious merits as by saying, "Joe, you did a splendid job."

(6) Ask employees (or pupils, too) for their opinion and advice, for this is one of the most deft laws for complimenting individuals.

(7) Remember names and faces. Also, greet employees by name and inquire about their families.

(8) Use "If you please" when you are asked if you'd like something.

(9) Be liberal with a gracious "Thank you" when done a favor.

(10) Include your workers in your team and be gracious about giving credit to them for new ideas or the successful completion of a job.

Star ball players thus ascribe their success to the rest of their team.

A halfback generally says he'd never have made the first down unless his interference had opened a large hole for him to run through.

A no-hit pitcher pays tribute to the splendid defensive work of his fielders.

Remember, certain individuals may actually know more of their tiny technical task than the boss, himself, so don't feel you must lord it over everybody as the Solomon of all wisdom.

But a superb boss (teacher or leader) must know more psychology and thus be more deft at handling people, as per the 10 items above.

Send for my "Tests for Employees and Employers," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c. They have been widely used by many large firms to reduce friction between labor and management.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

More than 13,000 persons in the U.S. Virgin Islands are employed in some aspect of the tourist business.

Says Religion, Ethics Related

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — To try to teach ethics apart from religion produces a "diluted education and a distorted religion," says Dr. John W. Backman, president of Wartburg College in Iowa. He says religion, and moral values, should be taught in public schools, and to prohibit either is to misuse the constitutional ban against establishing religion.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the Winterville Town Board of Aldermen will hold a public hearing on March 2, at 7 p.m., in the municipal building to consider the following changes of the Winterville Zoning Ordinance.

1. Changing the zoning classification of the property of Vernon Cox on East Blount St. from one and two family residential to multi-family residential which would allow the construction of apartments.
2. Changing the zoning classification of property on West Blount Street from residential to industrial; and
3. Extending the zoning jurisdiction of the town of Winterville one mile in all directions from its corporate limits, as provided under G. S. 160-181.2.

The Winterville Planning Board has proposed that this area be zoned as residential which would allow one and two family dwellings.

"priceless"

There are some things in life that have no price.

At Stratford Arms we try to create an atmosphere that makes it a happy place to live.

Even though our apartments are reasonably priced some people think the attitude and atmosphere are priceless.
Come and see and feel it.
Sorry we're all booked on 3-bedrooms but our 1 and 2 bedroom apartments are a delight.

You've got a lot to live
Pepsi's got a lot to give

What we mean is this: living isn't always easy, but it never has to be dull. There's too much to see, to do, to enjoy. Put yourself behind a Pepsi-Cola and get started.
You've got a lot to live.
