

Brock Says On Basis Of Logic Appointees Are Rejected

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
Democratic Party chairman Simmons said this morning that he will ask Alex Brock, executive secretary of the State Board of Elections, to call a board meeting to discuss with him recent actions taken by the board appointments to several county elections boards, including Pitt County.

The State Board of Elections decision to retain the incumbent

Democrats on Pitt County's elections board rather than approve a proposed new slate of officers was based on "logic and not personal discretion," Brock said today.
Brock said that the board made the judgement relative to Pitt County "principally and solely on the basis that Pitt was in the midst of making administrative and procedural changes in the election process.

In taking the action last week,

the state board approved proposed slates submitted by executive committees in all counties except Pitt and Pasquotank.

Brock said that the board's decision to retain the incumbents was supplemented by the fact that in November the state elections board had "vigorously urged" some 18 counties involved in such procedural changes to submit recommendations to retain current county board officers.

"The board felt that in view of the situation in these counties, (Pitt and Pasquotank) experience held by the current board members was necessary to make the transition," he pointed out.

The other 16 counties followed the recommendation of the state board to retain their officers, he said.

Pitt County Democratic chairman Hugh Winslow, reached at his home this morning, said, "I will not have any comment to make until I find out all of the facts of the situation."

The slate that was turned down in favor of the incumbents included Democratic Party nominees J.B. Spillman of Greenville, Sam Nelson of Grifton and Bernie Baker of Greenville.

Current board chairman E.
Bruce Koonce and board member T. Eli Joyner of Farmville will be retained along with incumbent Republican member, Henry T. Smith of Fountain.

Republican Party chairman
Frank Steinbeck Sr. said that
"Smith has done a very good job and was our choice to retain his seat on the board."

By law, the majority party in the state is entitled to two representatives on local elections boards and the minority party gets the other seat.

Brock pointed out that normally, the local boards are urged to submit three nominations for majority party consideration and two for minority party seats. From these, two Democrats are chosen and one Republican to man the local board seats.

Koonce commented this morning, "I am gratified by the confidence placed in our board by the State Board of Elections.
We have tried to do a good job and we will continue to try to do so in the next two years of our term."

Pitt County instituted a new system of voter registration in January, Koonce said, and the local board was currently in a period of transition from the old type of registration to a new loose leaf system.

Brock said emphatically that the decision made last week in regard to Pitt and Pasquotank Counties was in "no way a reflection on the individual nominees."

In considering the 430 names, he said, it would not be possible to be familiar with individuals or personal situations. Normally, the recommendations submitted by the county executive committees are approved, he said, but in these two instances, it was felt that bringing new men, without experience or familiarity with the transition underway, would not benefit the local or state election process.

Any contesting of the recent action taken by the board will be up to the State Democratic Executive Committee.

District Census Office Holds Formal Opening In Greenville

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
April 1 is the date Americans will stand up (or sit, as the case may be) to be counted. This is the date the official Census 1970 will be launched, with field workers reaching into the homes of all Americans in the remote countryside, in villages and towns, and into congested cities to see where — and how — Americans live.

In a ceremony at 11:00 a.m.
Wednesday, Mayor Frank M.
Wooten, assisted by City
Councilman Jerry Sutherland, Postmaster Joseph Dudley and Pitt County Republican Chairman Frank Steinbeck, Jr., among others, cut a symbolic ribbon officially opening the old post office as the headquarters for the Northeastern District composed of 17 counties.

Jerry Scott, district manager of the 1970 U. S. Census of Population and Housing in this area, was on hand to participate in the ceremony and to explain the function of his office to the visiting dignitaries.

Scott, whose appointment was announced by Director Joseph R. Norwood of the Census Bureau's Regional Office in Charlotte, is a native of Fayetteville.

Before accepting the position of District Manager, he was a teacher in the public schools of Columbus County. He has also worked in a supervisory capacity for an agriculture marketing company, and with the U. S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Scott received a BS degree from Campbell College.

From his office in the old Post Office, at the corner of Third and Evans Streets in Greenville, Scott will supervise all phases of the census in the 17 counties.
Besides Pitt, these are:
Beaufort, Bertie, Camden,
Chowan, Currituck, Dare,
Gates, Hertford, Hyde, Martin,
Northampton, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Perquimmons, Tyrrell, and Washington.

His office force of six assistants will be augmented by a force of about 317 field workers throughout the area. Nationally, the census will require the services of 172,000 field workers, 393 District Managers, and 13,000 office personnel.

Nine other district headquarters in North Carolina are located in Goldsboro, nine counties; Fayetteville, seven counties; Sanford, 12 counties; Raleigh, four counties, Henderson, 11 counties; Winston-Salem, six counties; Charlotte, six counties; Hickory, 12 counties; and Asheville, 16 counties.

Scott explained that detailed arrangements are being made to enumerate people in institutions, jails, hospitals, colleges, and places other than in homes, with the actual enumeration to begin April 1.

Beginning four days before April 1, mail carriers will leave census questionnaires at each residential mailbox. Each family will be asked to fill out the questionnaire and hold it for the census taker or, in some cases, asked to return the material by the mails. Additional information on this phase of the census will be furnished at a later date.

Following the ribbon cutting ceremony, officials moved inside to have a look at the facilities being set up for district office operations.

"We are certainly pleased to have you located here," Mayor Wooten told Scott and his staff.
"The city will be pleased to help you in any way we can."

Tobacco Stabilization Cooperative Has District Meet; Re-Elect Director

AT TO. J MEETING . . . Fred Bond, W.A. Allen and J.B. Sineath look at a bundle of redried tobacco during the annual meeting of the Flue-Cured

Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation yesterday. (Reflector Staff Photo)

W.A. Allen of Farmville was re-elected director of District
Six of the Flue-Cured Tobacco
Cooperative Stabilization Corporation at the group's 12th annual meeting held yesterday at the Greenville Moose Lodge.
Allen, district director since 1958, was named to a new three-year term to begin in June.

District Six includes the following counties in the Eastern Tobacco Belt: Bertie, Martin,
Washington, Tyrrell, Dare, Beaufort, Pitt, Lenoir, Jones,
Craven, Carteret and Pamlico.
Participating in yesterday's program, in addition to Allen, were: Fred G. Bond, general manager of the cooperative;
J.B. Sineath, the cooperative's assistant general manager;
James Hill, of the tobacco grading service; Lacy Weeks, Tobacco Associates, Inc.,
Raleigh; and Bill Anderson,
Tobacco Growers Information Committee.

Bond gave a report on the cooperative's activities during 1969 as well as a report on the receipts and sales.

According to Bond, a total of $71 million was paid to growers in the Flue-Cured Tobacco
Cooperative Stabilization Corporation for the 1969 tobacco crop. The five states forming the corporation include Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

The cooperative's average price per hundred pounds of tobacco sold in 1969 was $73.19 compared to 1968's average price of $58.63 per hundred pounds.

Bond explained how loose leaf tobacco is processed. He also discussed process procedures for strips (tobacco with stems removed).

Sineath reported on the current status of the Tobacco Growers Services, Inc.

TGS, a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Flue-Cured
Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation, is a processing and storage operation located in Fuquay-Varina.

The original facility, purchased in 1967, contains 63,600 square feet of floor space and cost about $365,000, Sineath said.

The main plant was enlarged in 1968 by 24,000 square feet.

"The cost of renovation and all equipment amounted to $500,000.
A total of 14 million pounds of tobacco was processed during the 1968 season," Sineath said.

TGS's processing capacity amounts to one million pounds of tobacco per week. The storage capacity owned by TGS totals 65,000 hogsheads. These facilities represent a total investment of $1.9 million, Sineath noted.

Hill explained the grading service.

"A tobacco grader must have four years qualified experience or four years education above high school dealing with tobacco, in order to become a grader," Hill said.

Graders receive training courses and are required to pass a tobacco perfection test. It takes four or five years to develop a good grader, Hill emphasized.

"The average age for graders

Recommendations Made At Joint Zoning Meet

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Two parcels of land totaling 27.6 acres near Pitt Technical Institute belonging to Simon Moye were recommended for rezoning from RA-20 (farm and open area) to Highway Commercial by action of members of the joint City-County Planning and Zoning Commission meeting last night.

In a meeting called to consider the request, unanimous action was taken on the two tracts, one of 3.8 acres and another of 23.8 acres. The smaller tract is adjacent to the Tice Drive-In Theater. The larger tract is a wooded one directly across the road.

The recommendation by the joint commission will now go to the City Council for their consideration.

Another joint rezoning action was a request by D.G. Nichols to rezone his property south of U.S.
264 By-Pass, west of Tar Road and east of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad from the present RA 20 to highway commercial.

Nichols made the request to meet requirements for a planned wholesale-retail lumber yard to be established on this site.
Tentative plans also call for the inclusion of a facility to assemble pre-fabricated metal building — a process which would not include manufacturing services, but would involve only assemblage.

Pointing out that an area 200 feet in depth of this property adjoining By-Pass 264 was already zoned Highway Commercial, City Manager Harry Hagerty suggested that "rezoning of the entire tract would be feasible, as this would permit the footage facing Tar Road to conform to prescribed usage for such an area."

Members of the joint committee unanimously recommended approval to rezone the entire property to Highway Commercial, with a suggestion that assembly processes be placed next to the railroad side of the property.

Hagerty noted that the front of such a business would be devoted to selling, with the back area used for storage and selling of metal buildings.

Prior to adjournment of the joint meeting, Clarence Tugwell asked members to consider the idea of hiring a full time planner to assist the city engineer and the city manager in matters of planning.

Following a lengthy discussion by members of the city and county commissions in an effort to decide what scope and role such a planner would have, the consensus was reached that a full time planner was needed for Greenville and the one-mile area immediately outside the city limits.

Tugwell made a motion
"recommending to the City Council that we employ a planner to be an assistant to the city manager whose primary responsibility would be in the field of planning and zoning for Greenville and a one mile area outside the city limits."

This motion, seconded by F.D.
Duncan, was unanimously approved by the two groups of commission members.

In matters pertaining to the city only, the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission recommended disapproval of a request by Charles H. McGowan for rezoning his property at 403 East Eighth Street from its current office and Institutional Zoning to Commercial and Business Zoning.

In a series of letter, McGowan explained that he and his son had for years operated drink, candy, gum, other vending devices and had sold "other items".

Chairman Frank Little appointed a special committee of three members — Clarence Tugwell, Louis Clark and Jerry Sutherland — to meet with members of the Housing Authority to coordinate thinking and planning on consideration of suitable sites for housing units.

This action came after discussions on the best approach to consider for securing sites to build an additional 100 public housing units.

Hagerty read a letter dated February 4 from James E.
Sutton which requested "the Planning and Zoning Commission to study where 100 other units can be located, so that sites can be designated and we can get on with construction." Sutton further wrote that "I believe scattered sites are more conducive for construction . . . that new areas should not be added to the city . . . as there are plenty of

Mrs. Walter Jones Heads Historical Ass'n Undertaking

MANTEO — Mrs. Walter B.
Jones, wife of the First District Congressional representative, has been appointed general chairman of the 1970 membership drive for the Roanoke Island Historical Association.
Mrs. Fred W. Morrison,
chairman of the Association,
made the announcement.

An Edenton native, Mrs. Jones makes two homes for her husband, one in Farmville, the other on Maryland Avenue in Washington, D. C. They have two grown children and three grandchildren. She attended the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

The Roanoke Island Historical Association is dedicated to a continuing program of education, preservation, and entertainment in commemoration of the first English settlements in America. It has been instrumental in developing Fort Raleigh on Roanoke Island as a National Historical Site in cooperation with the National Park Service.

The most important undertaking of the Association is the presentation of The Lost Colony each summer in the 2,000 seat Waterside Theatre at Fort Raleigh near Manteo. This year will mark the 30th season of the symphonic drama by Paul Green. Originally presented in 1937 as part of the 350th anniversary celebration, this was the first outdoor historical drama.

Mrs. Jones' membership campaign begins immediately and county chairmen will be announced soon. Membership contributions are deductible for income tax purposes and the income provided by the Association is necessary to its continuation.

The 1970 season will open Friday, June 19, and performances will be given nightly, except Sundays, through August 30. The season's finale will be the only Sunday performance.

Memberships may be obtained through the county chairmen or by writing directly to The Lost Colony, P. O. Box 68, Manteo, N.
C., 27954.

Group Returns Home From Hawaiian Tour

Five members of the Greenville Woman's Club returned home Sunday after touring the four major islands of Hawaii.

Attending were Mrs. George Clapp, Mrs. J. Con Lanier, Mrs. Argent Smith, Mrs. W. E. Roseveare and her husband, and Mrs. W. A. Pollard.

The 16-day tour of the islands was sponsored by the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs.

The group met in New York on Feb. 6 and flew to the islands on Feb. 7. There were 92 club members and friends and eight husbands.

The islands visited were Oahu, Kauai, Maui and Hawaii. While touring the islands, the group was introduced to the costumes, food and activities of six different races of islanders.

"The islanders received the group with much entertainment, food and friendship. Mrs. Pollard was given a handmade hat on Kauai, as a gift of friendship and welcome. It proved to be a most informative and enjoyable tour," said Mrs. Clapp.

"The country was just as beautiful and clean as ever pictured," added Mrs. Smith. "The friendliness of the people impressed me," she remarked.

Mrs. Lanier commented, "The Hawaiians are proud to be a part of the United States. I was especially impressed with the wit of the natives, they were friendly and the teenagers were beautiful."

Mrs. Pollard enjoyed the music. "We heard Ed Kenney, famous baritone of the Hawaiian Islands. The voices of the men, women and young people were beautiful," she remarked.

"The happiness of the people

Gourmet Corner: Pates Make Tempting Appetizer

By TOMHOGE
PIQUANT PATE

In France, the true côcure judges his host by the quality of pate he serves. A classic like the foie gras of Strasbourg is approached by the gourmet fraternity with something akin to reverence, but an inferior creation is spurned as mere meat loaf.

Actually, pate is the exalted meat—or fish or fowl—loaf of haute cuisine, even if purists shudder at the comparison.

Eaten with crisp French bread, a green salad and a light red or rose wine, a good pate maison can serve as a luncheon in itself. But generally it is looked upon as an appetizer, designed to awaken the taste buds, and whet the appetite.

Every fine meal should lead off with hunger-provoking tidbits known as hors d'oeuvres in France, antipasto in Italy and smorgasbord in Sweden, although none of these nations invented the custom.

It's believed that appetizers originated in China where they were known as di sum and were served with tea. The pleasant habit then spread to Russia where gourmets began serving an elaborate assortment of pates, caviar and fish pastries.

From Russia, the custom worked its way west to Greece and eventually to Scandinavia where smoked fish, pates and aspics became so popular that guests often had little appetite left for the main course.

Aspic, although commonly associated with the pate, is really a separate thing—a shimmering gem of jelly used for encasing or glazing meats, poultry or seafood.

Pate as a rule, consists of game, fowl, or ground lean pork and ground veal with pork fat to which pistachios, truffles and other such delicacies are added, along with a liberal dollop of co-gnac, port or madeira wine.

The average Frenchman feels a meal is incomplete unless it includes a slice of truffled goose pate. Lacking that, he will make do with pate of woodcock, duck, or one of a dozen other varieties.

In rural France, a country-style terrine—term used for the earthen baking dish in which a pate may be cooked—is coarser in texture and less rich than the restaurant versions encased in jelly or crust that are more familiar to the American palate. These pates are usually redolent with herbs gathered from the local countryside and spiked with fortified wine.

So famous has the pate de foie gras of Strasbourg become that many farmers in Alsace Lorraine have made a career of raising the force-fed geese, which oversize livers comprise the prime ingredient of the pate.

Since the forced feeding of geese to obtain the desired fat livers is illegal in America, foie gras must be imported and the price has reached astronomical levels. As a result, gourmet kitchens have been seeking substitutes for the delicacy.

A substitute we put together costs little and combines the attributes of both pate and aspic.

MOCK FOIE GRAS

1/2 pack plain gelatin
2 oz. brandy
1 can consommé
Garnishment of truffles, pimentoes, olives
1 small cake cream cheese
1 clove garlic
Salt & Pepper

Sprinkle gelatin on consommé to dissolve. Add 1/2 oz. brandy. Pour mixture into a bread pan so it reaches 1/4 inch mark and let jell to consistency of raw egg white. Decorate with truffles, pimentoes or olives. Put into refrigerator and jell until firm. Mix softened cream cheese with liver pate. Add remaining brandy. Season with garlic, salt and pepper to taste.

Spread evenly in pan over jelled surface, leaving at least 1/4 inch on sides of pan. Pour remaining consommé over the top of the pate. Leave in icebox until firm.

Dilettante Club Meets Monday

"What's New in Products For The Consumer" was the program topic for Monday night's meeting of the Dilettante Book Club held at the home of Mrs. Barbara Brown.

Mrs. Evelyn Spangler, assistant home economics extension agent for Pitt County, presented the program. She told the members of new products which are available in North Carolina today and of some new products to expect in the next few years.

Mrs. Stella Chambliss was welcomed as a new club member and presented a gold mum corsage, the flower of the club.

Guests present were Mrs. Betty Hooks, Mrs. Jean Stillman and Mrs. Janet Mitchell.

Mrs. Dot Ellen was co-hostess for the meeting. Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Coeds Win Holiday Slim-In Contest

INNSBRUCK, Austria (WNS)

—Six coeds beat six college men in the holiday "slim-in" contest here. The girls managed to take off ten more pounds than the boys during the month-long contest. Their prize: an all-night holiday banquet paid for by the men. Spokesman Otto Adler, 20, complained that the girls did not compete fairly. "While we were dieting, they tempted us with home-made apple strudel and whipped cream," he said.

Mrs. Cannon Is Garden Club Speaker Friday

"Biblical Gardens" was the subject of a talk given by Mrs. Preston Cannon at the meeting of the Greenville Garden Club held Friday afternoon.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. R. R. Forrest. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Uran Cox and Mrs. Marie Clark.

Mrs. Cannon said that the first Biblical garden was the Garden of Eden. In this garden, God planted every tree which is pleasant to the sight and good for food. In the center He planted the tree of knowledge of good and evil. As civilization progressed, gardens of vegetables and herb gardens were planted.

She also told of the Garden of Gethsemane and of the Hanging Gardens of Babylon.

The business session was presided over by Mrs. Paul Davenport Sr. Reports were given and it was announced that work would begin on the "nature trail" in back of the Woman's Club as soon as weather permitted.

Mrs. Dayenport, Mrs. Bruce Tyson and Mrs. J. A. Piver were named delegates to the state convention May 5-7 in Winston-Salem.

Prior to the meeting, refreshments were served from a table centered with an arrangement of red camellias. A George Washington motif was carried out in refreshments.

Can Boys Dye Their Hair?

By Abigail Van Buren

(c. 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I have never seen a problem like mine in your column, but I hope you won't take this as a joke because this is a very serious problem to me.

I am 19, and go steady with a girl who is studying to be a beautician. She told me that I would look a lot better with my hair dyed, and she offered to do it for me, so I said, "O. K. go ahead."

Well, she did, and I must admit that I look much better this way. Naturally, it was quite noticeable, so all my friends kidded me about it. My problem is that I would like to keep my hair this color, but I don't want to be kidded. Do you think it is so bad for a guy to dye his hair if he really thinks it looks better that way?

DYED GUY

DEAR GUY: Fly under any color you wish, Buddy. Just be sure you keep the roots covered because if there's anything that looks worse than a gal who needs a dye job, it's a guy.

DEAR ABBY: My brother brought his family from California to Texas to see his wife's folks and some of his.

I usually make friends with children easily. In fact I have had strange children come right up to me and make friends with me.

Tho I tried my best, I couldn't seem to make friends with my little 6-year-old niece. She wouldn't even let me touch her hand to say good-bye to her. She just frowned when I went near her. I once heard a preacher say that he could tell what a family thought of him by the way the children acted toward him. Would I go wrong to apply the preacher's rule to my brother's case?

HURT

DEAR HURT: Yes. Preachers can be wrong occasionally, too.

DEAR ABBY: What wise advice you gave "Hungry for Love," that stupid 22-year-old whose young husband is withholding his favors until she loses 50 pounds! Her excuses and self-pity left me cold, since in 2 years she could have lost 150 pounds, let alone 50. All she needs is a doctor, a diet—and determination.

Altho her obvious ignorance of proper diet hardly recommends her as a wife and mother, her letter reveals a MUCH more shocking ignorance of the value of physical attractiveness to sex, and of sex to marriage. The mystery to me is why it took her so long to miss his attentions—and why her husband is coming home at all! The fact that he is, only proves that he loves her.

Before marriage, my husband said to me, "Stay in shape for me, Baby." I took the hint, and at 48, with a little effort, I still weigh 112. If HUNGRY FOR LOVE could only see how that small effort pays off in fun, health, and romance.

STILL SLIM IN SUNNYVALE

DEAR SLIM: "A little effort," you so glibly say. Perhaps for you, you lucky lady. But for many of your sisters, the toughest of all battles is the battle of the bulge.

DEAR ABBY: Permit me to say a few words to "HUNGRY FOR LOVE," whose husband is "punishing" her until she loses 50 pounds. She's luckier than she knows.

Carrying our first child eight years ago, my weight started to climb. Stanley said he didn't care—he'd love me if I got up to 300 pounds. Well, he had a chance to prove it because I did!

My doctor said I was headed straight for heart failure, if not "sweetheart failure." So now I am slowly on my way down from 300 pounds. It's sheer torture. I'd have given anything if Stanley had started to "punish" me about 200 pounds ago! Sincerely, FATSO IN S. F.

Coed Pioneers Tell Of Semester

By ARLEEN ABRAHAM

Associated Press Writer

During this past college semester, many all-male colleges dipped their flags in surrender to the growing trend toward coeducation. Hundreds upon hundreds of girls applied for the honor of becoming feminine pioneers in previously all-male worlds; only a small percentage was accepted.

These coeducational pioneers now have had one semester to settle down and settle in. How do they appraise their experiences?

Coeds who integrated the hallowed ivy halls of Princeton say the scene was neither groovy, not gross. In most cases, however, it was not quite what they expected.

"When I came here I thought I would have so many dates I wouldn't have time to study," says a sophomore transfer from Vassar. "Now I'm afraid I'll wind up valedictorian by the time graduation rolls around; I have that much time to study."

Most of her female classmates agree that Princeton men have not exactly been tigers about socializing with the 169 coeds who entered their ivy halls last September. Karen Hodges, an 18-year-old freshman from Glastonbury, Conn., summed up the Princeton situation this way: "I don't think old Nassau was psychologically ready to accept girls."

On the other hand, Susanne Brendel of Convent, N.J., one of 70 girls studying at Dartmouth in an exchange program with Wheaton College in Norton, Mass., "found my new environment far-surpassing any expectations." She explained that she's become so closely associated with the art department at Dartmouth and so accepted, "I don't identify with Wheaton anymore at all."

Keith Spalding, president of the 183-year-old Franklin and Marshall College in Lancaster, Pa., appraised his school's first coeducational semester this way: "Classes seem more lively; the faculty has adjusted well and while we did have some difficulty at first—the girls demanded integrated tennis instruction—I believe this is a step in the right direction."

"Between September, when 124 girls enrolled at F and M and now," said Yvonne Gibbel, the school recorder, "one professor noticed only one real change: a girl student had broken down and cried after an examination paper was returned. This proved quite as traumatic for the professor as it was to the coed," added Miss Gibbel.

A pretty, blonde F and M freshman related the following incident: "One of my professors had a reputation for using salty language. During a few classes he seemed uncomfortable having to talk to the girls. We realized it was his style to teach in an uninhibited manner so we girls went to him and told him to carry on as if we never existed. He did. Wow!"

Not all the adjustments came about so easily. Coeducational pioneers at this campus smack in the heart of the Amish country complained that even those young men who had attended public high schools were surprised to find girls who were not ashamed to exhibit their brainpower.

Sara Bliss, a freshman from the Philadelphia suburb of Wynnewood, recalls, "At first, the F and M men acted like we girls couldn't possibly possess a brain." But she says this feeling slowly has changed, especially now that first semester grades have been posted.

Cleaner, Better City For All

Those few remaining in Greenville who think we are moving too rapidly in improving our city have only to look at the things which are happening around us.

Rocky Mount has received the Look All America award for its civic improvement efforts. Rocky Mount is considering, through urban renewal, moving the Seaboard Coast Line tracks, which split the Rocky Mount business district. In addition the city is considering a general face lifting of its downtown area along with the moving of the tracks.

Over in Washington, N.C. a retaining wall, walkway and riverside drive have been constructed near the business district, through urban renewal. Behind the drive a huge parking area is to be constructed and general improvements are planned in the business section to take advantage of the beautiful river side area which has been created.

Greenville, of course, has not been dragging its heels in community improvements. The Shore Drive project was carried out through urban renewal and now the wide well-lighted streets, new buildings and handsome river side park attest to the wisdom of this.

A strong program to construct low rent housing and upgrade existing housing has made a big dent in Greenville slums. The Newtown clearance project is underway. We are on the brink of carrying out our most ambitious urban renewal project, the Central Business District improvement plan.

Tide Is Seen By Holshouser

The following guest column was written for the N. C. Association of Afternoon Dailies, by Charles B. Program of the Hickory Daily Record.

BY CHARLES B. PROGRAM

LENOIR — North Carolina's Republican party chairman is James E. Holshouser, Jr., of Boone, ebullient, optimistic, challenging, taunting, but withal a realist.

He was the keynote speaker at the recent Republican county convention in Caldwell county, which is not unusual. He has spoken to many such groups, and his theme always is the same: Republicanism in North Carolina is on the march.

He pursues his goals with the perseverance of a modern Porcius Cato the Elder who never made a speech without concluding with the warning, "Carthage must be destroyed." Holshouser believes the Governorship of North Carolina must be won by the Republicans, and he envisions that as a possibility in the not-too-distant future.

Doubtless he looks at current events and sees Florida with a Republican governor, and the staid old Commonwealth of Virginia with a Republican at its helm. Holshouser thinks the tide is still running strong for the Republicans in the South.

He told the assemblage that since he became party chairman in 1966 there are now 225 elected Republican office holders in North Carolina, twice as many as there were prior to that time.

Caldwell County, which produced such Democratic leaders as the late Lt. Gov. William C. Newland and Parks Commissioner Mark Squires and Superior Court Judges A. Reece Crisp, Fate J. Beal, and the late Appeal Judge James C. Farthing, now is almost completely in the hands of Republican elected officials. Only the Clerk of Superior Court remains, among all county offices, Democratic.

Holshouser calls Lenoir "the center of the Republican party in North Carolina." He braces this statement with the fact that J. E. Broyhill, the wealthy furniture manufacturer, is North Carolina Republican National Committeeman. And Broyhill's son, James T., is the Tenth Congressional District's congressman. And Mrs. Helen Verbyla is a vice-chairman of the state Republican Executive committee. Additionally, the General Assembly numbers among its Republican ranks Rep. Donald R. Kincaid and State Senator David Flaherty.

In counties as small as Caldwell — population about 50,000 — elbows are rubbed quite frequently, and personality conflicts result in divided loyalty when primaries are rough and tough as sometimes they have been.

The Democrats are seemingly content to let anyone file for office without having a great personal following, while the Republicans — by and large avoid primary fights with bloodstains which are hard to remove, and sometimes are not obliterated before general election time. The old saw that "when the frost is on the pumpkin" everything will be smoothed over, just doesn't hold as it once did.

Filing time for the May 2 primary is about a month away, and already five Democrats have filed for sheriff, and street reports hint at several more. By contrast, the Republican candidate will be the incumbent Ray Moore.

On the basis of "divide and conquer," the Republicans have made great strides. Wherever he goes, Holshouser plants the seeds that North Carolina needs a change at the top, that education and highways do not compare favorably on the national scale or average, and that Democratic leadership is to blame.

It is comparatively easy for one to stand off and throw rocks. Holshouser does that, knowing that rocks thrown back have no target to hit until if and when the Republicans move someone into the dilapidated mansion in Raleigh.

This is a record we can be proud of, but before we become too self satisfied we should recognize that other cities are making great progress along the same lines.

Greenville took the lead in urban renewal, but now we are only keeping up in the friendly competition to improve our cities that is going on with neighboring communities. The competition is good for all of us, but it should make us in Greenville realize that we cannot falter in carrying out our plans if we are to hold our own among Eastern North Carolina cities.

Of course, we should not do what we are doing for competitive reasons alone. We should do it because it is creating a cleaner and better city for all our citizens. It is creating jobs, as industries place plants here because it is a progressive city.

What we have done in the last decade has been good, but what we can do in the next decade can be even greater.

Someday, Replacement Of Heart 'Practical'

A leading heart transplant surgeon, Dr. Denton Cooley of Houston, Texas, has said that public disappointment has led to a decline in the number of heart transplants.

Dr. Cooley, who has performed more heart transplants than anyone, sought to dispell doubts. "All in all I think the results have been spectacular and very satisfactory," he declared.

The early heart transplants captured the public's attention, but it does seem that interest is not so strong just now.

Nevertheless medical scientists should continue working with heart transplants. Only in this way can the techniques be worked out which will make the procedure practical and of benefit to mankind. We have no doubt that replacement of a damaged heart will soon be entirely practical, either with another human heart or with an artificial one.

No Decision In North Vietnam

By DAVID MASON

SAIGON (AP) — Nearly six months after the death of President Ho Chi minh, North Vietnam's other leaders have apparently still not decided on a clearcut course of action on conduct of the war in the South.

This, in the opinion of persons who deal daily with such assessments, may be the reason why the Vietnam War has settled into a period of indecisiveness, marked by rapidly leveling "highpoints" and offensives which exist only in captured documents.

This in turn has led to privately expressed optimism among some American and South Vietnamese officials, akin to that current prior to the spectacular Tet offensive in February 1968.

Hanoi is believed to be keeping open a long list of options while holding firm to the doctrine of the subjugation of South Vietnam.

When Ho died last Sept. 3, four men took the reins of power: Le Duan, first secretary of the Communist Party Central Committee; Truong Chinh, chairman of the National Assembly Standing Committee; Premier Pham Van Dong and Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the defense minister.

The four continue to run the country as a committee, according to the assessment here, and none has surfaced as strong enough to lay down policy lines alone.

In a series of seven essays which were his most recent major formulation of military doctrine for the war, Giap gave an unusually sobering view of the conflict and told the North Vietnamese the war could be expected to continue indefinitely.

One current theory is that the North Vietnamese are holding back their punch, while busily building up supplies, and will unleash a body blow when President Nixon's withdrawal program has sufficiently thinned U.S. forces to promise Hanoi and the Viet Cong at least a spectacular psychological success. This may come in midsummer.

Another version is that Hanoi is waiting for the American Congressional elections and the South Vietnamese Senate elections in November. This, it is reasoned, would be a prime period for a show of strength, although those who try to keep a finger on Hanoi's pulse find nothing to support this reasoning.

Another prospect may be an effort to capture a provincial capital in the Mekong Delta, such as Rach Gia or Chau Doc, and declare it the capital of the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government.

The PRG was announced last June and since then has been officially located "somewhere in South Vietnam," which many suspect may actually be in a Cambodian frontier area.

Still another theory—one that Henry Cabot Lodge used to favor when he was ambassador — is that the war will fade away that the war will fade away into some murky settlement based on accommodation or compromise between the Saigon government and the Viet Cong.

Strength For Today

A GREAT EVANGELIST

There are some people who admire evangelists and others who abhor them. Billy Graham appears to be about as favorably received as any evangelist of modern times. Fifty years ago people within the Church and without were divided in their opinion as to whether Billy Sunday's evangelistic campaigns were helping the nation or hurting it.

On the whole evangelists have stood the test of time. In the eighteenth century Jonathan Edwards preached an evangelistic message that made some people love him and some people hate him. John Wesley in the eighteenth century was frequently scoffed at but emerged one of the most admired church figures of all time.

The modern world looks with considerable favor on Billy Graham. In fact one scarcely ever hears a bitter charge being made against him. When he was in England the Queen invited him to have lunch with her and the members of her family.

The first thing people demand of an evangelist is sincerity, and practically everyone admits either enthusiastically or grudgingly that Billy Graham is a perfectly sincere person. He is an effective speaker. He is never going to make himself rich as the result of his evangelistic efforts.

There is a place for evangelists in the work of the Church. John the Baptist was an evangelist. Jesus was, of course, the greatest evangelist of all time. Fifty or one hundred years from now there will still be evangelists. Apparently the majority of people feel that if these evangelists are the Billy Graham variety, the Church, the nation and the world will profit by their efforts.

Daffodils Amidst Ruins

BILOXI, Miss. — The hurricane known as Camille, born on August 14 off Grand Cayman Island, hit the Gulf Coast at midnight on the night of the seventeenth. Four days later, after striking southwest Virginia with cruel floods, the storm died in the North Atlantic. Those few days witnessed the greatest natural disaster, in terms of property loss, this country has known. All that was seven months ago. Today the Gulf Coast remains a junkyard from Biloxi to Pass Christian. Yet the picture is beginning to brighten, and some useful lessons can be drawn from the billion-dollar catastrophe of Camille. This sunny coast once was the summer refuge of the best families of New Orleans.

Their great white houses sat like chaperones for miles along the beach, ample-bosomed, as comfortable as so many dowagers at a late Victorian ball. Children played around these skirted verandas, or caught crabs from the long piers that fringed the Gulf. In the course of time, such famed hotels as the Edgewater Beach and the Broadwater came along. There followed, still more recently, a modest procession of shopping centers, new homes, fine motels. The beach was too big to be spoiled by honkytonk. This was a lovely part of God's good world.

Perhaps God blinked that August night, Camille came raging out of the darkness, spilling tornadoes in a viper brood along the beach. It is the unearthly howl of the hurricane wind that is most remembered now—wind like the blow of a fist, water invading old halls, the great trees falling.

The big hotels are back in business. A fantastic cleanup job has been done. Yet mostly the eye sees rubble, still—walks and steps that lead to nowhere, whole houses tossed like balls of crumpled paper, the broken bones of buildings thrusting through their ruptured walls. Two freighters still are beached at Gulfport. Nothing remains of the good brick Church of the Redeemer but its tower. The ruined houses lie obscenely naked, every private part exposed.

Rebuilding proceeds with painful slowness. These communities suffered shock as humans suffered shock. Local responses have been slow and uncertain. Yet Mississippi's stunning experience may provide the nation a new manual in disaster survival—and teach us some new uses of federalism also.

(Washington Daily News) When a defendant goes on trial on a charge of murder for six times, then one is bound to wonder if justice either way will ever be accomplished.

And this is exactly what is happening at this writing in Durham county. A man has gone on trial for the sixth time on a murder charge which is not six years old.

This man's first trial ended in a mis-trial. The second time he was convicted of second degree murder. He appealed and the N.C. Supreme court granted him a new trial.

Then came another trial and again it ended with the jury being deadlocked. A mistrial was declared. Then there was another mistrial. In February, 1969, he again was found guilty of second degree murder and he appealed. Again the N.C. Supreme court upheld his appeal and granted him a new trial.

Now he is on trial for the sixth time. Somewhere along the way and over the last six years, it would appear that the rules of court procedures have been ignored to an extent which forced the supreme court to grant mistrials or new trials. At least we know this much.

The lack of justice to date has cost the taxpayers a lot of money. And there, of course, is no certainty that this sixth trial will result in justice being meted out. Indeed, if a conviction is gained, it will mean another appeal, and an appeal might well mean another trial. A deadlocked jury also probably will mean another trial. Only a verdict of acquittal will erase this case from the court docket. In between trials this fellow has spent considerable time in a mental institution. His mental condition might be a factor in the lengthy criminal procedures which he has faced for the past six years. And whether he be guilty or innocent, the very fact that he has had to face the criminal court six times is enough to make any fellow go out of his mind.

We all understand that judges do make mistakes in court. And the Supreme court determines whether or not mistakes are enough to grant new trials. In this fellow's case, he has been spared from justice for a long time. And as of now the end is not in sight. He could eventually face justice in court for a seventh or eighth time.

The six trials to an ordinary person might offer sufficient punishment for most crimes, murder not included.

Surplus Could Become Deficit

By ELMER ROESSNER
Sorry about that, Chief! You aren't going to have any budget surplus in the coming fiscal year, Mr. Nixon. Unless some miracle happens, the projected $1.3 billion surplus in the administration's budget will vanish.

ELMER ROESSNER

Here are the reasons:

- The campaign against inflation, while slowing down business, is not slowing down the rise in prices or the rise in wages. Most of the wage contracts signed this year and last provide for wage increases this year and next, and some in 1972. So everything the government buys and all the services it hires will cost more.

- If the campaign cuts corporate profits, as it has begun to, it will shrink an important source of federal revenue, corporation taxes.

- A Double Problem • If it increases unemployment, as it has begun to, it will reduce government outlays for unemployment insurance.

- The Democrats still control and, chief, you know they are spenders. While they may not always be able to override vetoes of appropriation bills, they can attach appropriations to other legislation that must be accepted.

- This is an election year, and even Republicans will join Democrats in voting for pork barrel projects, vote-catching benefits and other spending that will make Congressmen look like big shots in the home states and districts.

- Congress may balk at increasing Social Security rates and postal rates in an election year.

- If expenditures threaten to exceed income, as they will, Congress will also be reluctant to extend the surtax or add other taxes this election year.

No Commitment About Cherry Point Facility

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott says Secretary of the Navy John H. Chafee declines to give any firm commitment about keeping open the Naval Air Rework Facility at the Cherry Point Marine Air Station in eastern North Carolina.

Scott and North Carolina congressmen met with Chafee Wednesday in an effort to head off reported plans to close down or drastically cut back operations of the aircraft repair station.

North Carolina officials fear a cutback at the facility would strike a reeling blow against the depressed economy of the coastal region where the station is situated.

"Closing this facility will widen the income gap for the area," Scott said, adding the region's personal income already was $1,000 below the national average.

The facility employs 2,700 civilians and has a payroll of $28 million a year.

Others at the meeting were Reps. Walter B. Jones, and Charles Raper Jonas, and Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr. and B. Everett

Jordan. Jonas is a Republican and the others are Democrats.

Also present was another Democrat, Rep. David H. Henderson, who has employees of the facility among his constituents.

He suggested that the Navy cut back all naval aircraft repair facilities in the country by 10 per cent rather than concentrating economy measures on the Cherry Point installation.

The facility, which repairs Navy jet planes and helicopters, perches on the mouth of the Neuse River in North Carolina's Craven County, about 10 miles southeast of New Bern.

Scott criticized the Navy for what he said was giving plane repair contracts to Japanese firms while simultaneously threatening to cut back on the amount of work done at Cherry Point.

"It doesn't make a lot of sense," he said after the conference with Chafee. "Why let the Japanese have all the gravy?"

In a measure of local concern, Livingston Stallings of the Craven County Board of Commissioners and Tom Bennett of the neighboring Carteret County Board of Commissioners flew to Washington to attend the luncheon conference.

Raleigh's Blue Law Is Upheld

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Court of Appeals Wednesday upheld the validity of Raleigh's Sunday blue law.

The court did this as it ruled in the case of Raleigh Mobile Homes vs. former Mayor Travis Tomlinson and the City Council that left office last spring.

The firm contended that the law established an unfair competitive situation when it forced mobile home dealers to close on Sunday but permitted the purchase and sale of conventional homes to continue.

The argument was rejected by Wake Superior Court, and the appeals court agreed.

'Beware' When Change Offered

RALEIGH (AP) — Insurance Commissioner Edwin Lanier says that when insurance companies offer to change contracts "it is clearly in the public interest that the buyer beware and also that the seller beware."

Lanier called a meeting of insurance company representatives Wednesday to get industry opinion on a model regulation dealing with replacement of life policies recommended by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners.

The commissioner said he was concerned that in the absence of a regulation some persons might give up an old policy for a new one not fully realizing the effect of what they were doing.

able to act swiftly, up to the limits of its resources, in the crisis. Governor John Bell Williams created an emergency council, headed by Edmund L. Brunini of Jackson, and gave it absolute powers to coordinate federal aid with local efforts. The state was able quickly to suspend its law on highway load and width limits so that mobile homes could be rushed to the disaster area. Wherever red tape had to be cut, Williams and Brunini simply cut it.

The first lesson of Camille is that federal tape is not so easily severed. No criticism is implied. But time after time, generous directives from up top from the President, or from Housing Secretary Romney, for example—bogged down in rules and regulations down below. Things would not permit it.

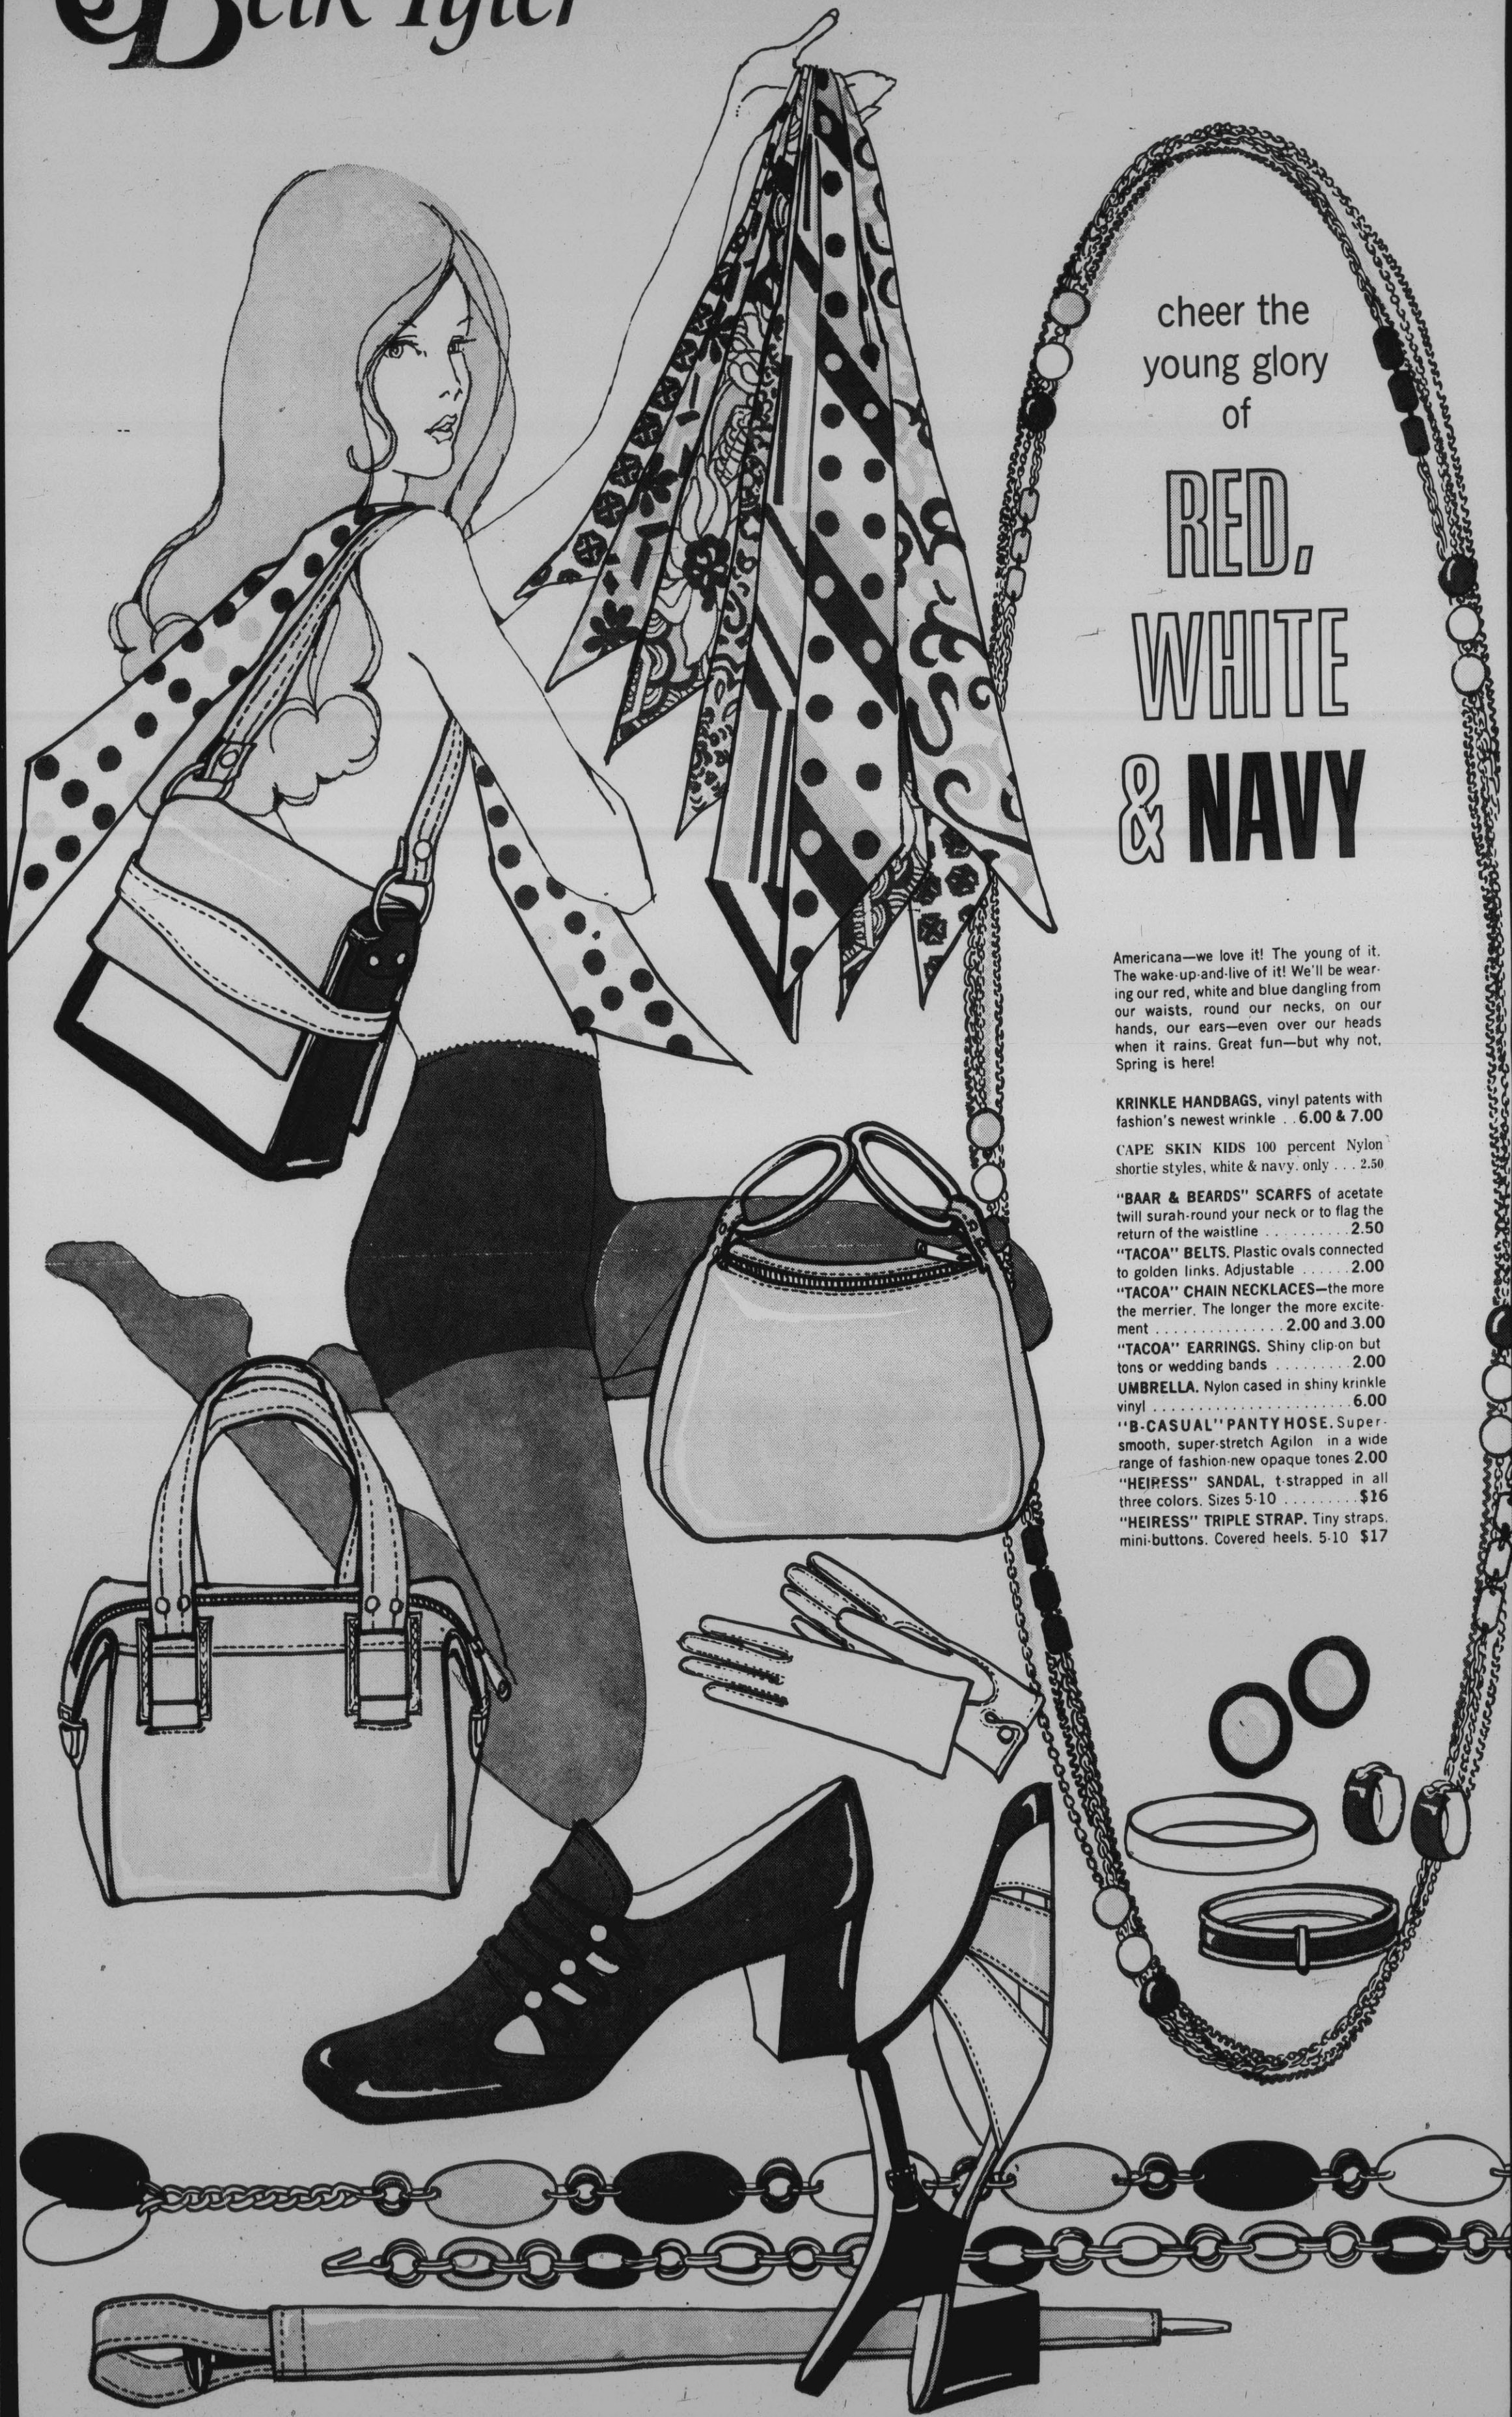

A second lesson has to do with insurance. Much of Camille's damage was water damage, and insurance companies had provided little such coverage in the past. They are willing to write any for the future. Yet without comprehensive insurance, reconstruction cannot move. Some new plan of federal underwriting in this field is imperative.

For a third lesson, Camille teaches the tremendous value of the armed forces, notably the Seabees, Air Force and Corps of Engineers, in tackling an emergency. Here they did a terrific job.

Finally, the council's bold and imaginative plans for rebuilding suggest what may be done with vision, guts and state-federal power. Out of the chaos of Camille, these beleaguered localities will draw an orderly system of ports, sewers, water systems, building codes and pollution control.

It will be better. Meanwhile, 4,000 families still are huddled in mobile homes, the main coastal highway is clogged, and the insurance problem is not settled. But this week daffodils are flying like flags amid the ruins. Mississippi's broken coast will make it yet.

A Bobcat badge was presented to James Whichard and Webelos badges were earned by Tom Proctor, Taylor Pace, Jeff Aldridge, Joel Hargett, Stuart Goodson, Greg Hargett, Mike Adams, Hal Bullard, Rodney Swain, and Grady Roberson.

Special neckerchief awards for selling 10 tickets for the recent Scout-o-rama were presented to: John Farley, Kelly Jones, Guy Smith, Howard Tucker, Til Jolley, Craig Cherry, Stuart Goodson, Tom Proctor, Stuart Bowman, Jeff Aldridge, Chuck Brown, Mitch Meeks, Lee Moore and Murray Platts.

Den Two won the prize for the best table decoration and the attendance flag was won by Den One.

Table tennis is believed to be the leading sport in Communist China.

Wrong Man, Wrong Car

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — With his Alsatian Samantha left on guard, Aderjan van Breda didn't bother to lock his car when he parked it in a city street. An hour later when he returned both the car and Samantha had disappeared.

In drenching rain he walked around the corner to see if he could see anything suspicious and was approached by a man drenched to the skin. When he found Van Breda was searching for his car, the man apologized profusely and explained he had taken it as a joke on a friend of his. His friend's car was the same make and color, always had in it an Alsatian like Samantha and the keys always were in the glovebox, as Van Breda's were.

He had tried to return the car to its original position, he said, but could not find a parking space. So he spent the next hour looking for the owner.

sites available in the city." Hagerly commented: "You are aware that 665 units of public housing were authorized by the City Council. To date 465 have been constructed. These were constructed in three housing developments, all outstanding public housing. But I think the days of big housing projects are over. We are beginning to look like Durham, where we have cleared out old buildings. Private industry is not building low rentals which is understandable with building costs what they are and rents up so high."

Tugwell and Clark explained the basics of a new FHA program, Program 235, under which an individual can obtain federal assistance in buying a home up to a total cost of $21,000 with a down-payment of only $200.

"This plans permits a prospective buyer of a three bedroom house up to $18,000 in value or a four bedroom house up to $21,000 to secure federal assistance which will pay up to half the monthly payments," Clark stated. "The amount of subsistence the buyer can get depends on the size of his family, his income and other factors. This applies on any house as long as it doesn't go beyond $21,000."

Tugwell noted further "the house becomes the property of the buyer once the contract term is fulfilled."

With these two approaches available — buying land in scattered areas for construction of units in small groups and utilizing the new FHA 235 Program — the committee of three will discuss with Housing Authority members possible future action which would best fill the needs of providing additional public housing units in Greenville.

Belvoir, Chicod, Ayden Advance

By CARL TYER
Reflector Sports Writer

WINTERVILLE — Chicod and Belvoir's boys put together two fine games of basketball last night to take wins in the second round of the Pitt County Tournament. Chicod went by Grifton 62-47 to advance to the semi-finals and meet Belvoir Friday night at 8:30, while Belvoir was running over Winterville 97-64 to advance to meet the Hornets.

Also last night, the Ayden girls went by Chicod 43-37, to make the semi-finals meeting Grifton Friday night at 7:00.

Tonight, the Bethel - Winterville girls will meet at 7:00 in the first round of the semi-finals, while Stokes will meet the Bethel boys at 8:30 in the second game.

Last night, Ayden and Chicod went back and forth in the girls game with Ayden finally taking command in the fourth quarter to take their win.

It was 8-5 at the end of the first period, Ayden's favor, and 16-13 at the half.

Ayden started pulling away in the third with a 30-19 lead going into the fourth. Chicod pushed in 18 in the fourth to try and come back but were just no match for the lady Tornadoes who had better accuracy from the floor.

Kathy Manning had 10 for Ayden, while Judy Dail led with 13. Cathy Haddock led Chicod with 10.

In the Chicod - Grifton boys contest, Chicod came on strong in the second period, after holding a slim 9-8 lead at the end of the first period.

Phil Page spurred the Hornets on in the second with seven points while David Whaley tried to pull Grifton back into the game in the third with eight points.

Grifton is one weak frame did them in however, as Chicod picked up 16 points in the final two frames, while Grifton had 15 in the third and 17 in the fourth.

The Bulldogs trailed by ten at 49-39 with 5:22 remaining, and were able to cut it down to seven at 50-43, but Chicod kept their poise to take the win, and advance to meet tough Belvoir who put a whipping over host team Winterville in the final game of the evening.

Belvoir had a minimum of 29 points in every frame of their game, and had their fans yelling for a 100 game in the closing minutes, when Winterville put on a stall to insure that their opponents did not make their goal, even though the Eagles subs were playing most of the fourth quarter.

Belvoir's William Shivar led the Eagles scoring with 18, while Joey Moore had 16, Donnie Everette 14, and James Mayo 13. Edgar Wall had 11 for Winterville, while Thompson had 12.

Belvoir put up a 26-14 lead at the end of the first period, and sent that to 46-30 at the half.

From there, the Eagles put on an impressive show of ball handling and accuracy on their shots, as they easily went past the Wolves now who have not won but one game this year.

Yale Is Given Probation

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The office of Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., was very interested in hearing Wednesday that the Eastern College Athletic Conference had placed Yale University on probation until June 30, 1971, for knowingly using an ineligible basketball player.

"We've been waiting to hear what they'd do," said Ralph Vinovich, legislative aide to the congressman. Rep. Michel's son, Scott, plays for Yale's basketball team and another son, Bruce, played freshman football last season.

It was the second probationary punishment in six weeks for Yale. Last month, the National Collegiate Athletic Association slapped a two-year probation on the prestigious Ivy League school for continuing to play Jack Langer, who participated in the Maccabiah Games in Israel last August with Yale's permission.

The basketball competition, however, was not sanctioned by the NCAA, which was trying to force the rival Amateur Athletic Union to give up the long-standing battle over control of American teams in international amateur basketball. The NCAA allowed athletes in other sports to compete in the Games.

After the NCAA penalized Yale, Rep. Michel said he would ask for a congressional investigation of the NCAA.

"This looks like another phase of the running battle between the NCAA and the AAU," he said at the time. "There are other sports-minded members of Congress and I believe we should stir up some interest in finding out what makes this organization tick."

Ironically, that feud seems about to be resolved with the establishment of the International Basketball Board, a 21-man NCAA-AAU group which would control the sport in this country.

Rep. Michel was unavailable for comment Wednesday on the ECAC action.

The ECAC penalty was contained in a resolution from the body's executive council and the membership of the nation's largest athletic conference approved it by a secret ballot vote of 104-50.

The punishment means Yale teams cannot participate in any ECAC championships or ECAC-sponsored events. Yale's hockey team, however, will be allowed to compete in next winter's ECAC Holiday Hockey Festival at Madison Square Garden because the invitation was extended before the probation.

DeLaney Kipphut, Yale's athletic director, said Wednesday he was "disappointed" in the punishment. He added that Yale would have no further statement until its governing board meets next Monday.

The ECAC membership was divided into two sides on the Yale issue. One held that Yale broke the law by continuing to play Langer after the ECAC declared him ineligible and should be punished. The other contended, as Yale did, that students should not be used as pawns in the NCAA-AAU hassle.

The ECAC membership voted to throw out a phrase that would have required Yale to stop using Langer as a term of the probation. However, ECAC officials said Langer still is ineligible and only the committee on eligibility, which ruled him ineligible in the first place, could change it.

Austin Still No. 1 Small College

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Lumberjacks of Stephen F. Austin remained unbeaten and No. 1 in The Associated Press weekly small college poll today, but Cheyney State is closing in on the Texans.

While Stephen F. Austin picked up nine first and 236 total points from sports writers and sportscasters from around the nation, Cheyney State College of Pennsylvania did it without any first-place votes, garnering 188 points.

Austin improved its record to 24-0 with two victories last week while the Wolves, No. 3 last week, avenged their only loss of the season, walloping Kutztown 140-83, improving their season record to 22-1 and replacing Ashland in the No. 2 spot.

Oak City In Martin Finals

WILLIAMSTON — Bear Grass was knocked out of the Albermarle basketball tournament, with the Robersonville girls downing them 46-16, and the Oak City boys downing the Bear Grass team 67-56.

Oak City completely dominated the boys game with a 12-8 first period score, and a 30-17 halftime advantage that about sewed the game up.

Bear Grass did outscore their opponents in the third period, but Oak City came on in the fourth to outscore Bear Grass again and pad their lead some more.

Alan Ayers led Bear Grass with 16, followed by Paul Mobley and Billy Mizelle with 13 apiece, and Edward Cratt with 10.

In the girls game, Robersonville had little trouble taking a 11-4 first period lead and pushing in 16 in the second to two for Bear Grass.

Ashland, 21-2, split last week, getting knocked off by West Virginia Tech 42-37 and falling to the sixth spot.

Maryland State, 20-0, Howard Payne, 24-3, and Youngstown, 21-2, each moved up one place apiece to the 3-4-5 spots, respectively.

Central Washington, 23-1, also jumped one place to seventh while Kentucky State, 20-2, made the biggest jump, from 17th to No. 8. St. Mary's of Texas, 17-3, was No. 9 up one, reversing places with South Dakota State, 18-3.

Old Dominion, No. 7 last week, dropped two of three games and fell to 13th place with a 20-4 mark.

One Got Away

Belvoir's J.W. Wooten (33) lets one get away from him in last night's Pitt County Tournament at Winterville, and teammate Mike Burroughs (13) tries to recover it. The Eagles did not let Winterville get away, however, taking a 97-64 victory to make the semi-finals Friday night. Winterville's Mark Webb (42) looks on. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Blue Devils Upset Wolfpack, 71-69

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A pair of last minute free throws gave the Duke Blue Devils an upset 71-69 victory over 14th-ranked North Carolina State Wednesday in the only league game in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Two other ACC basketball teams took on outside opponents as the final week of regular-season play approaches a close. Four league games Saturday wrap up the regular season before next week's conference championship tournament at Charlotte.

Charlie Scott sank 28 points to lead his North Carolina Tar Heels to a devastating 98-70 victory over Virginia Tech. Maryland dropped an 83-79 decision to lead his North Carolina Tar Heels to a devastating 98-70 victory over Virginia Tech. Maryland dropped an 83-79 decision to lead his North Carolina Tar Heels to a devastating 98-70 victory over Virginia Tech.

The night also saw several players honored.

North Carolina State star Vann Williford was named the Wolfpack's outstanding student athlete during halftime ceremony.

Wrestlers Go Past Wolfpack

East Carolina University's wrestling team went by N.C. State 29-8 yesterday in a match, making the Buc wrestlers record for the year 8-1-1.

The Grapplers will go into the Southern Conference tournament hoping to capture the title, but they will have to down tough William and Mary, the host team, to do it, March 6-7.

State took two of the ten matches in the meet yesterday, with Steve Rhodes and Paul Pratt taking wins for the Wolfpack.

ies at the losing game against Duke.

Williford was given the H. C. Kenette Award, North Carolina State's highest athletic recognition. He also received the Jon Speake Memorial Award—this one for the second straight year.

The award goes annually to the North Carolina State athlete judged to best exemplify the qualities of Jon Speake, an athlete killed in a car crash.

And in Chapel Hill, Charlie Scott and two senior teammates, Eddie Fogler and Jim Delany, received a 12-minute standing ovation when they left the Virginia Tech game with three minutes left to play.

So strongly did the fans applaud their favorites that Coach Dean Smith put the three back into the game for the final minute. It was their final home appearance.

ACC teams are idle tonight and Friday. Here's the Saturday program ending the regular season before the tournament which starts Thursday:

North Carolina travels to Duke. Duke holds a 7-6 ACC record and North Carolina a 10-4 mark.

The regular season leader, South Carolina, ranked fourth nationally, is host to North Carolina State.

The Wolfpack's loss to Duke gave it a 9-4 ACC record, while the Gamecocks stand untouched at 13-0.

Miller Selected As Southern Player

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — going into tonight's opening round game against Virginia Military Institute in the championship tournament at Charlotte, N.C., the five seniors on Davidson's basketball squad have lost just one of 35 games against Southern Conference opposition.

And, while all have played a part in the Davidson success story—which now includes 30 consecutive victories over league foes—the standout during that time has been 6-foot-7 Mike Maloy, the talented senior from New York City.

It's no surprise, therefore, that Maloy was easily the leading vote-getter and honorary captain of the 1970 All Southern Conference team. In balloting by the news services, the eight league coaches and the Southern Conference Sports Writers Association, Maloy was the only player on every ballot—and all but three were first-team votes.

Maloy is joined on the All-Southern by a pair of Davidson teammates, 6-foot-6 senior Doug Cook and 6-foot-3 sophomore Bryan Adrian, and by 6-foot-senior playmaker Tom Miller of East Carolina and 6-foot-1 junior Mike Tallent of George Washington, the league's leading scorer.

By some standards, this may have been a disappointing year for Maloy, who saw his scoring average drop almost seven points from 24.6 a year ago to 17.8 this season on 410 points in 23 games. He was the No. 2 rebounder in the conference, however, averaging 12.7 per game. Tallent, whose older brother Bob was an All-Southern selection last year, took over for Bob in another way, too—as the top scorer with 489 points in 23 games for a 21.3 average.

Adrian was one reason Maloy didn't have to score as much as he poured in 469 points for a 20.4 average, second behind Tallent. And Cook had a 15.7 scoring average and grabbed 10.3 rebounds per game. Miller led East Carolina to second place in the standings with an 18.2 average.

The second team consists of junior Bob Sherwood of William and Mary and four seniors — Jerry Kroll of Davidson, Joe Brunson of Furman, Jim Modlin of East Carolina and Jerry Hirsch of The Citadel.

Holland Is Ready For 'Competition'

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Davidson's new coach Terry Holland says he's "sure we will be ready" for the competition in the annual Southern Conference Basketball Tournament that opened today in the Charlotte Coliseum.

The Wildcats, who have won the last two conference tournaments, are itching to win their way to New York to represent the league in NCAA eliminations to choose the national major college champion.

"This is what we've been pointing toward," said Holland. "I hope we have reached the peak of preparation. All that we have accomplished can go down the drain."

What have the Wildcats accomplished? Well, for one thing, an unblemished Southern Conference record of 10-0 for the season. For another, a 19-4 overall record, good enough for eleventh-place national ranking.

The last time Davidson dropped a Southern Conference game was in 1967. That was the year West Virginia beat the Wildcats 81-65 to win the final game of the tournament. But since then, not a league loss.

"Our seniors have won the tournament twice, and I'd hate to see us lose their final year," said Holland. "I'm sure we will be ready."

Who's Got The Ball

Confused action took place in the N.C. State-Duke basketball game last night, along with an upset. The Blue Devils downed the Wolfpack 71-69. Here, Duke's Al Heartley (32) and Duke's Rick Katherman, who is searching for the ball between his legs, show some of the confusion.

Maravich Gets Chance

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Maravich, the All-American and all-time college basketball scoring leader, will finally get a chance to show off his droopy socks and acrobatic antics in Madison Square Garden.

The 6-foot-5 guard who has scored over 3,400 points in this three-year career and is currently hitting at a 47 per game clip, will lead his Louisiana State teammates into the 33rd annual National Invitation Tournament.

The NIT selection committee chose the Tigers, Southeastern Conference runnersup, along with Marquette, Georgia Tech and St. John's, N.Y., Wednesday with a dozen spots still to be filled for the post season tourney that opens March 13.

Manhattan, Georgetown, D.C., Army, Duquesne and runnersup from assorted undecided conference races are other teams expected to be named. More selections are expected today.

Maravich, who is famous for his behind-the-back passes and socks which drop around his ankles when he plays, has helped LSU, coached by his father Press, to a 17-8 record with three games remaining. Marquette, ranked eighth by The Associated Press, is led by junior guard Dean Meminger.

ROTC Takes C. Corner

ROTC edged by the Campus Corner 70-60 in the City League Basketball tournament last night. The ROTC win, sets the stage for the semi-finals, with the Book Exchange meeting ROTC March 2 and Coke meeting the Jaycees, in the semi-final games.

In last night's game, ROTC put up a 40-31 half time advantage with Gary Schaal and Ashlay Elmore leading the ROTC's scoring in the first half, with Schaal throwing in 15 points

The 19-3 Warriors spurned an NCAA at-large bid Tuesday because of a playing site dispute, virtually assuring them of the NIT spot. Marquette, participating in its fourth NIT, lost the 1967 final to Southern Illinois.

Georgia Tech, 16-8, will be making only its second tourney appearance ever. The Engineers played in the NCAA tournament in 1960.

Rich Yuncus, 6-9 center, the 10th leading scorer in the nation with a 29.2 average, heads the Georgia Tech cast.

St. John's, 16-7, has gone to the NCAA the last three years but this will be the Redmen's 19th appearance here, having won four championships, the last in 1965.

The Redmen have a balanced scoring attack and tough defense. Joe DePre and 6-11 Bill Paulz are St. John's leading point-masters.

MASCOT TO BE PROUD OF
SALMON, Idaho (AP) — Lots of athletic teams have live cougars, bears, ponies or falcons for mascots—but dig that mascot for the Salmon high school Savages.

She's Roseann George, 15, a full-blooded Shoshoni-Bannock Indian. Miss George is a high school sophomore.

in the first half, and Elmore tossing in 14.

Campus corner kept up with their opponents in the second half, making ROTC work to hold onto their first half lead.

Elmore finished the game with 23 points to lead ROTC, while Schaal and Joe Johnson both had 19.

Ed Carlton led the Campus Corner with 18, followed by Ted Whitley with 16, and Malcolm Beaman and Mike Joyner with 10 apiece.

Farmville Takes Win

Farmville's girls won their opening game in the Eastern Plains tournament last night, going by Southern Wayne 36-21. The Red Devil ladies had little trouble, putting up an 11-7 first period lead and stretching that to 22-10 at the half.

Farmville pushed in 14 more in the second half and while Southern Wayne had 11.

Jennifer Johnson led Farmville with 16, while Southern Wayne did not have anyone in double figures.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Mike Maloy, 6-foot-7 senior from Davidson, was named to the All-Southern Conference basketball team Wednesday for the third straight year.

Also named on the first team were two other Davidson players, Doug Cook and Bryan Adrian. Mike Tallent of George Washington and Tom Miller of East Carolina rounded out the team.

Alcindor Hits Bullets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Lew Alcindor did the Baltimore Bullets in twice.

The big rookie sank a foul shot with 14 seconds left in Milwaukee's 115-113 National Basketball Association victory over Baltimore Wednesday night and also cost the injury-plagued Bullets the services of guard Kevin Loughery.

The victory moved Milwaukee to within six games of idle, first-place New York in the Eastern Division and increased the Bucks' lead to 5½ games over third-place Baltimore.

Loughery was sent to the hospital for X rays after he caught one of Alcindor's knees in the chest. According to a preliminary report, he may have suf-

fred a fractured rib. Because of injuries, the Bullets dressed only eight players for the game.

Boston crushed San Diego 147-124, Philadelphia whipped Detroit 122-105, Chicago topped San Francisco 112-104 and Seattle downed Atlanta 120-112 in other NBA action.

In the American Basketball Association, New York edged Kentucky 117-114, Denver downed Carolina 120-110, Miami took Pittsburgh 124-115, Washington topped New Orleans 113-105 and Dallas outlasted Los Angeles 147-142.

Trailing 91-75 late in the third quarter, Milwaukee fought to bring 111-110 before going ahead on baskets by Flynn Robinson and Greg Smith. Baltimore's Earl Monroe then hit a field goal before Alcindor's free throw. Monroe missed a 15-foot jumper at the buzzer.

Alcindor scored 27 points and Monroe 25.

Boston erupted for 54 points in the fourth quarter in crushing San Diego. With the score tied 108-108, the Celtics went on a 21-4 tear that put the game out of reach. Don Nelson poured in 40 points and John Havlicek 36 for Boston, while San Diego's Elvin Hayes connected for 46.

Philadelphia built a 20-2 lead as Detroit failed to make a basket in the first 70; 29 of the game and coasted from there. It was the 12th straight victory for the 76ers over Detroit in Philadelphia, dating back to Dec. 10, 1965.

Hal Greer paced a balanced Philadelphia attack with 24 points. Dave Bing led Detroit with 32.

Shaler Halimon came off the bench and scored nine points and Walt Wesley contributed six points to trigger a last-period spurt for Chicago against San Francisco. The Warriors suffered their eighth defeat in their last nine outings.

Bob Love's 32 points led the Bulls, who tightened their grip on third place in the Western Division. Jerry Lucas topped San Francisco with 20.

Bob Rule collected 27 points, 11 in the final period, as Seattle won its third straight game. The loss left Atlanta, the Western pace-setter, 2½ games in front of idle Los Angeles.

Lou Hudson led the Hawks with 32 points.

The victory enabled the Sonics to climb within 1½ games of fourth-place Phoenix in the West.

Unknowns Will Try At Doral

MIAMI (AP) — While the mass attention centered on the big names of the game today in the first round of the $150,000 Doral Open golf tournament, a handful of young men set out in dreary isolation attempting to write an end to their obscurity.

If recent history is any standard, the time may be ripe.

Four of the five winners on the Florida tour last year were scoring their first professional victory. And a number of young players are knocking on the door right now, ready to move in at any time.

Among them are Grier Jones, John Miller, Bert Greene and Hale Irwin.

Many of the established players say that quartet could include the next big winner on the tour, with Jones and Miller the top candidates.

All have had their day in the limelight, but none has yet broken through to a victory.

Jones won rookie of the year honors last season with earnings of more than $30,000. Miller owns the low round of the year, 61, and first caught the public fancy as a 17-year-old amateur in the 1966 U.S. Open.

Irwin lost in a playoff to Billy Casper for the title in the Los Angeles Open. Greene finished second by a stroke in the rich Westchester Classic last year and won last week's Los Lagartos Open, an unofficial event.

Jones, a powerful, slope-shouldered 23-year-old from Kansas, generally is regarded as the most promising of the group.

"There's so much to learn out here," he said. "You just keep trying."

Miller, a lanky, blond 22-year-old, said the second season is easier than the first.

"I got out of the players school in the middle of the year last year and felt I had to catch up," he said. "This year, you have the feeling you're starting even with everyone."

Irwin, a onetime All-Big Eight defensive halfback for Colorado, had the Los Angeles Open title in his pocket until he bogeyed the final hole, then lost the playoff to Casper. He's had his troubles since.

"You try not to think about it," he said, "but it's difficult to keep it out of your mind."

All ranked as definite threats for the $30,000 top prize in this first stop on the Florida swing, even though the sparkling field included such standouts as Arnold Palmer, George Archer, Tony Jacklin, Orville Moody, Ray Floyd, Dave Hill, Frank Beard and 1970 tournament winners Bruce Devlin, Bert Yancey, Pete Brown and Dale Douglass.

Blue Devils Could Upset ACC Tourney

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Duke's Blue Devils would love to upset the appcart in next week's Atlantic Coast Conference championship basketball tournament at Charlotte against nationally ranked South Carolina, North Carolina and N.C. State.

The unranked Blue Devils stamped themselves as the tourney dark horse by upsetting the 14th-ranked N.C. State Wolfpack Wednesday night 71-69 on free throws by Don Blackman and Dick Devenzio in the last 30 seconds.

The Blue Devils did it on the road, too. Not only that, but they didn't collapse after blowing an 18-point lead at 35-17 and falling behind by four points midway in the second half.

Third-ranked St. Bonaventure turned back Canisius 91-68 at Olean and 19th-ranked North Carolina routed Virginia Tech 98-70 at Chapel Hill in other games involving teams in The Associated Press Top Twenty.

Bowling Green shaded Western Michigan 75-74 at home to keep alive its hopes of tying Ohio U. for the Mid-American Conference title.

Ohio U. whacked Chicago Loyola 93-70, Rhode Island downed Providence 81-74, Niagara took Syracuse 91-83, North Texas beat St. Louis 86-82, West Virginia got by Maryland 83-78

New Center Named For Case

RALEIGH (AP) — A new athletic center to be built this year at North Carolina state University will be named for Everett N. Case, Wolfpack basketball coach for 18 years who brought big time basketball to the South.

The $600,000 structure will be adjacent to the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum.

Owens is available to any AL team, and the Orioles were quick to accept his services.

Besides Killebrew, the Twins signed outfielder Bob Allison and rookie Herman Hills, leaving three players still unsigned —outfielder Cesar Tovar, first baseman Rich Reese and relief pitcher Ron Perranoski.

Baltimore also still has three unsigned players. They were pitcher Dave McNally, first baseman Boog Powell and second baseman Dave Johnson.

Other signings Wednesday included first baseman Lee May, by Cincinnati and first baseman Don Mincher and pitcher Diego Segui, by Oakland.

Others players who still have not come to terms include pitcher Steve Carlton, first baseman Richie Allen and outfielder Lou Brock of St. Louis, outfielder Reggie Jackson of Oakland, outfielder Ron Swoboda of the New York Mets and outfielder Bobby Murcer and infielders Horace Clarke and Jerry Kenney of the New York Yankees.

Livestock Vietnam Demilitarized Course Set Zone Is Scarred By War

A Livestock Weighmaster Training School will be held at the Greenville Holiday Inn Friday from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Griffin E. Bonham, area supervisor of USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration office for North Carolina, said the schools are a weighing short course.

They represent a pilot training program sponsored jointly by State and Federal weighing officials.

The course will cover such projects as proper sale installation and correct weighing practices. Improved weighing facilities, scale testing requirements and maintenance of livestock scales will also be part of the curriculum.

Other sessions are being held this week in Asheville, Fayetteville and Salisbury.

Livestock scales people throughout the state have received invitations to attend the sessions.

STRANGE GIFTS

CHESTER, England (UPI)—Frank Woolham bought his wife a birthday present, and the neighbors immediately quit coming around. The present was a four-foot python and "nobody's been near me since it arrived," said Meg Woolham.

Woolham's previous birthday presents to his wife have included an alligator, a desert rat, and a kangaroo cat.

DAN RAMSAY and his orchestra will play for the Greenville Moose Saturday night from 9:00 to 1:00. Ramsay, a veteran of the "Big Band" era, recently completed bookings for the New Orleans Mardi Gras. His music is said to have been well-received by hotel ballroom patrons in the Chicago and New York City areas.

Editor's Note: The following dispatch was written by Daniel De Luce, an assistant general manager of the Associated Press, who has been admitted to North Vietnam. He and his wife were given a tour of the northern side of the Demilitarized Zone in what is believed the first visit to that area by a Western newsman. Here is a report filed from North Vietnam.

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Writer
ON THE 17TH PARALLEL, North Vietnam (AP) — A huge crimson flag with a single gold star commands the skyline of the 17th Parallel. It is never lowered.

Across the rice fields of this war-scarred valley it can be seen for miles by North Vietnamese cultivating their crops.

Across the Benhai river in South Vietnam no one can be seen, but the explosions of American artillery occur frequently in the hazy distance.

There is the sound, too, of a helicopter aloft. Once in an hour an invisible jet is heard.

North Vietnamese officials say the Vinh Linh area, which includes the northern part of the DMZ, is the most heavily bombed locality in the country.

In Cua Tung, at the mouth of the Benhai river, the people live in caves dug in the damp clay of the embankment. Cua Tung was a favorite summer resort of Vietnam's last emperor, Bao Dai. Now it consists above ground of low mounds of rubble.

Trenches connect the entrances to the caves. Sweet potatoes, manioc and banana plants grow in patches at the edge of deep bomb craters.

In one trench we passed a wooden sign painted with white letters on a black background. In Vietnamese it said, "Long Live Invincible Marxism-Leninism."

President Ho Chi Minh's picture hung on red-draped walls of many caves above candles and bouquets of paper flowers. "President Ho Chi Minh Lives Forever," said a red banner with gold letters.

Ho Ngoc Thien, 32, vice chairman of the Cua Tung administrative committee, said that since the 1968 bombing halt there have been attacks on the village, "with guns of navy ships and artillery on the south bank."

He said the principal income of the village used to come from fishing, but the fishermen "can't go far into the open sea because United States warships are there to try to capture them, destroy their boats, lay mines."

He said the administrative program emphasizes reconstruction. This includes maintaining full cultivation of farms wherever possible and increasing the pace of housing construction.

Blue And Gold Banquet Held For Cub Pack 9

Cub Scout Pack Nine of Emmanuel Baptist Church held its annual Blue and Gold Banquet Tuesday night in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

Guest and cubs attending the event were welcomed by Cubmaster K.R. Bradbury and the invocation was given by the Rev. Irby Jackson.

The guest speaker for the occasion, Dr. M.M. Sheppard, spoke to the scouts on various aspects of the coming total eclipse of the sun on March 7. Dr. Sheppard showed a number of film strips and slides to emphasize his presentation and offered a question and answer period following his address.

Various awards were presented by Bradbury following the main address. Included were Wolf badges to Gavin Ray, Christopher Knight, John Richards and Edward Hardy.

A gold arrow point was earned by David Williams and silver arrow points were presented to David Daniel and Kenneth Mayer. One-year service pins were presented to Curtis Ebbs, Kenneth Mayer, Charles McGlohn, Billy Coltrain, David Daniel and Virgil Clark.

Guy Bradbury was awarded a three-year service pin.

Following the awards ceremonies, an investiture ceremony was held for Bradbury Cubmaster Bradbury presented Webelos scout Guy Bradbury to Dr. Sheppard, Scoutmaster of Troop 340, who formerly accepted the young scout into Troop 340.

Virgil Clark was recognized as the leader of the new Webelos Den and the candidates for that den were presented to him.

Certificates of appreciation were presented to Den Mothers Mrs. Betty Bailey, Mrs. Dot Shoe, Mrs. Hazel Mayer and Mrs. Janet Aliapoulos.

Pack nine is observing its 40th year in active scouting.

Affecting Some School Boards

RALEIGH (AP) — The U. S. Supreme Court decision extending the one-man, one-vote rule will affect some of North Carolina's 152 public school boards. Robert Phay, a staff member of the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill, said a number of school boards in North Carolina are elected by districts.

"I don't know how many, but I do know that some of these districts are not proportionately equal according to population," he said.

Appeals Court Upholds Verdict

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Court of Appeals has upheld the conviction of six Hyde County Negroes who were found guilty last year of impeding traffic on U. S. 264 at Swan Quarter during a school boycott in 1968.

The court rejected the defense contention that the defendants were deprived of their constitutional rights because Negroes were systematically excluded from the jury that convicted them. Appeals Court Judge Walter Campbell pointed out that 20 of the 54-man venire from which the all-white jury was drawn were Negroes.

The decision left standing the convictions of Allen Spence, Alvin Spence, Henry Johnson, Preston Simmons, Benjamin Phelps and Samuel Bryant.

Doctor O.K's This Hemorrhoid Treatment For N.J. Couple's Son

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases

Wharton, N.J. Mr. and Mrs. C.M. Jeffers report: "Our son suffered from hemorrhoids. I asked the doctor about Preparation H and he gave us the O.K. Our son is now fine, thanks to Preparation H."

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases — Preparation H actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced. There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

The Worry Clinic Camouflage Is An Old Tactic

Wives, please analyze Marvin's symptoms. For they are a camouflage to hide his sexual inferiority complex. Yet most women react to them at face value, not realizing their deeper sexual significance. Within one week, Marvin's wife changed him back into a generous husband and father! So scrapbook this case and be forewarned!

By GEORGE W. CRANE

PH. D., M.D.

CASE M-539: Marvin P., aged 43, is a problem to his wife. "Dr. Crane," she tearfully began, "Marvin used to be a wonderful husband and father to our 3 children.

"But for the past year he has become caustic and hypercritical.

"He scolds me unmercifully about very trivial flaws. And he chews out the children on almost no provocation whatsoever.

"Lately, he has also begun to act as miserly as Silas Marner, which is a remarkable change, for he was always generous to a fault during the early years of marriage.

"Dr. Crane, what is wrong with Marvin? Is this the male menopause?"

You movie and TV fans are aware of the western "six-gun" plots where the cowboy who could draw first, usually survived a gun fight.

Well, Marvin, like millions of other husbands after the age of 40, simply has tried to beat his wife to the draw!

For here is the subconscious thinking of these men who are waning in their erotic vigor and becoming platonic:

"My wife will probably wonder why I am not as ardent and affectionate as in former years.

"Thus, she will probably suspect that I am losing my sexual nerve, unless I can divert her attention.

"And unless I can put her on the defensive first, she may begin to nag me and criticize me about being only a half-man.

"So I shall 'beat her to the draw,' as it were, and start scolding her till I get her worrying about herself!

Besides, if she sees I am angry and hypercritical, she will not expect me to show the affection I used to give her.

"So this will serve as a camouflage or red herring to divert attention from my own sexual inadequacy."

Mark you, such men don't consciously verbalize these thoughts as neatly as I have outlined them in the foregoing paragraphs.

But this is the general trend of their worries when they fear their wife will suspect that they are becoming platonic.

"But what about Marvin's miserliness?" his wife added.

Well, men who fear they no longer can hold their wife's allegiance on the basis of love, then may try to keep her in financial submission by tightening the purse strings.

For sexual misers are also very likely to become financial misers, who grasp money as a substitute for their waning sexual power!

If you wives of such men thus realize their basic problem, you can soon change them quickly.

Become seductively aggressive in your boudoir. Adapt a new type of perfume and hairdo. Wear diaphanous nighties instead of your "flannels."

And omit pajamas in favor of frilly nightgowns, lacy and feminine.

For when you restore your husband's erotic ability, which you can easily do if he still occupies the same bedroom, then he will be generous with both his money and his praise.

And he will stop his hyper-criticism of your cooking or housekeeping. Even his "chewing out" of the kiddies will also disappear!

For such "mental cruelty" and "incompatibility," as now cited in divorce cases, goes right back to these maladjustments in the boudoir!

So send off my booklet "How to Prevent Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

Research Work Told

Dr. Roger Davis, a specialist in primate psychology, presented some of the results of his 20 years of research on memory in monkeys to members of the Sigma Xi Club Monday.

He spent several months working in this field at the San Diego Zoo last year and is now doing similar research with apes at the Yerkes Regional Primate Laboratory at Emory University, where his work as a visiting scientist is supported by funds from the National Institute of Health.

New officers of the Sigma Xi Club were elected at the business meeting which preceded the lecture. They are Dr. Donald F. Clemens, president-elect; Dr. Joseph G. Boyette, secretary-treasurer. Dr. Thomas C. Sayetta will become president, succeeding Dr. Irvin E. Lawrence when the officers are installed in the spring.

Members were reminded that March 15 is the deadline for submitting nominations for the annual research awards made by the club.

Charge Driver

In Car Collision

Tyrone Hines, 21-year-old Negro of Route 1, Pinetops was charged with failing to yield the right of way yesterday following investigation of a 4 p.m. traffic collision at the intersection of Fourth and Ford Streets.

Police said the Hines car and a truck driven by Edmond Timothy Love, 73 of 613 Hudson St. collided causing an estimated $150 damage to the Love vehicle and $60 damage to the Hines car. No injuries were reported.

WASHINGTON (AP) — With an angry attack against the American role in Laos, a bipartisan group of senators has demanded the administration disclose how heavily the United States is involved in the war-torn Asian nation.

"The facts of our involvement have been concealed from the American people," Tennessee Democrat Albert Gore declared during floor debate Wednesday, a charge supported by Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill.

Another Republican, Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. of Maryland, said "Laos has become an arena for the repetition of the mistakes of our Vietnamese involvement."

"I believe that the American people—and the Congress—will not ultimately accept a withdrawal policy (from Vietnam) that entails merely a changing of uniforms and titles and re-engagement in Laos."

The Maryland senator pointed to "news reports from usually reliable publications" indicating hundreds of former Green Berets military advisers "swarming over the country in numbers proportionately larger than the Kennedy administration commitment of advisers" in Vietnam.

The debate, conducted before only a handful of senators, came against a backdrop of a strong North Vietnamese force that has moved quickly and with great success against the Royal Laotian army in spite of heavy bombings by U.S. B52s.

So far the North Vietnamese have captured the strategic Plain of Jars and the nearly as important airstrip and town of Muong Soui.

The fear that the American fighting role in Vietnam is fast spreading to neighboring Laos threaded through many of the arguments made on the floor Wednesday.

Color TV OK For Welfare Families

RALEIGH (AP) — The Social Services Board reversed itself Wednesday and said it is okay for welfare recipients to own a color TV set.

The board also struck down regulations which limited the number of cars to one per family unit and required welfare recipients to sell any car worth over $1,000.

Social Services Commissioner Clifton Craig told the board the two regulations did not conform to federal guidelines.

A judge at Winston-Salem recently ruled that welfare recipients should be allowed to own color TV sets.

In other actions, the board was told:

—That the state probably will be able to continue welfare payments at their present level for the remainder of this fiscal year.

—That the Social Services Department will be more than $600,000 in the red by June 1971 if welfare rolls continue to increase at the present rate.

—That almost $82 million additional will be needed to finance welfare programs during the next biennium.

The board adopted regulations to govern infant day care

Both Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Kentucky Republican John Sherman Cooper made this point, with Mansfield stating that if U.S. involvement in Laos grows "all the plans for Vietnamization will go down the drain and we will find ourselves in a most difficult situation."

Pointing to President Nixon's peace efforts in Vietnam, Cooper said "I do not see how we can get out of that situation by becoming involved in another war."

So far, the administration has refused to disclose how many Americans are serving in Laos, the rate of American air missions in that country or the U.S. casualty rate.

President Nixon has denied any U.S. ground combat forces are in Laos, although he has said American planes have raided the Ho Chi Minh Trail where it runs through that country.

Beyond that disclosure, Nixon said in a December news conference, "I do not think the public interest would be served by any further discussions."

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., who declared there is no doubt of American involvement in Laos, said he had written a letter to Secretary of State William P. Rogers requesting U.S. Laotian Ambassador G. McMurtie Godley be called back to this country to testify before Congress.

Symington said such an appearance is needed "in view of recent press reports of serious fighting in Laos and the difficulties which have been reported by press representatives in ascertaining the facts."

Symington was referring to comments said to have been made by Godley after three reporters were ousted Tuesday from Long Cheng air base in Laos for allegedly looking into secret areas.

Godley was quoted as saying

South's hand did not appear to be suited for no trump play and after his partner rebid one no trump, he jumped to three clubs which is unconditionally forcing to game. When North gave a delayed spade preference, South carried on to game in that suit.
West opened the five of hearts which was covered by dummy's queen and East won the trick with the ace. A brief examination of the dummy by East made it clear that the defense could not expect to take more than two tricks in the side suits, even assuming that West had the ace of diamonds. South was marked on his bidding with at least nine cards in the black suits, and if West, by some chance, held the king of clubs—that card was readily finessable.

East concluded that the only hope for establishing additional tricks must, of necessity, lie in the trump suit. If West had a high honor, then East might be able to promote his partner's trump holding in the suit by putting his own spades to use. With this thought in mind, he returned the four of hearts at trick two into the dummy's king-ten.

Declarer began to work on the trumps immediately by leading the three of spades and putting up the queen from his hand when East played the four. West was in with the ace of spades, and he cooperated with his partner's efforts by leading back a third round of hearts. The king of hearts was played from dummy, and East applied his knockout punch—"the uppercut"—by trumping with the ten of spades. South overruffed with the king, but West's jack-eight of spades was thereby established as a tenace over declarer's remaining trump holding headed by the nine-seven. In all, the defense took three trump tricks plus the ace of hearts.

"the American mission has lost any interest in helping out the press whatsoever because of what has happened this afternoon."

The State Department said later Godley denied making such a statement.

New Hearing For Atkinson

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Court of Appeals granted a new probation revocation hearing Wednesday to Dewey Atkinson of Greenville, who was convicted last year on two charges of possession of narcotics.

The court ruled Atkinson's rights were violated when he was not given sufficient time to obtain a lawyer to defend him at the first probation revocation hearing.

Richmond Upsets Pirates

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

Charlotte — East Carolina's Tom Quinn was disgusted with his Pirates' play in the first round of the tournament, as they became upset victims of the Richmond Spiders, 75-73.

Richmond was loose - goosey. They had nothing to lose. And the only thing I was hearing from our players was what we were going to do in the Davidson game on Saturday," Quinn said. "We were just looking too far ahead, and it cost us."

The Pirate mentor could find solace only in every statistical column but one, the foul situation. East Carolina out-fouled the Spiders, 23-18, and because of this Richmond made good on 29 of 35 at the line.

"We shot well on the line tonight," Quinn said. "We just didn't shoot very much. We outscored them by four field goals, but what can you say."

"I'd like to think that we are a better team than we showed tonight. I know we are, but we just didn't show it."

"It was really a lousy game, a very small and quiet crowd, and just plain poor basketball."

Quinn said that he hated to see Jim Modlin and Tom Miller, his two seniors end the year the way they did. "They have played better, and maybe I shouldn't have put Jim Gregory back in after he got hurt in the first half."

All I can say is when you lose, you go home early."

Quinn's opponent, Lou Mills, was bubbling over with happiness. "I'm very pleased, the boys are pleased; it was a satisfying win."

I thought we played well offensively and defensively in the first half," he said. "Jim Hewitt and (Tom) Owen did a fine job for us, both on the boards and offensively. It was a hard fought game."

"It's been a tough year for us, we're not the most talented team around, but we gave a good effort. Everything just fell into place for us."

Warren Mitchell of William & Mary sported a big smile as he walked into the press conference after his Indians had downed Furman, 82-67, in what could be called only a mild upset, since they had won their only meeting of the year during regular season.

"This is the first time in three years that we've gotten past the first round," Mitchell said. "It feels good. But like the good news - bad news Jones, we've got to play Davidson next."

Mitchell thought the first half play of the Indians, when they moved out into an 18-point lead with one of their better efforts of the year. "We wanted to present some pressure defense to them for the whole game and we made them make mistakes in the first half. (Furman had 12 turnovers in the half) "We made some mistakes on (Joe) Brunson in the first half, but we played a good second half against him."

Brunson with 20 in the first half, got only nine more after that.

Lose Frank Selvy was not happy. "It's hard for one man (Brunson) to beat five," he said. "Brunson played a fine game, but the rest of our boys just showed up to watch. William & Mary played a fine game. We tried to go inside against them and failed."

Selvy said he feels that East Carolina, George Washington, and even William & Mary "If they can keep their big men out of trouble," could beat Davidson in the tournament.

"We're not going to give it back to them," said George Washington's Wayne Dobbs after his team had taken a slim 66-64 win over the Citadel in the tournament's first round. "But I really don't think they have it to us. We were lulled into complacency by them, and stood around. I'm just happy to win."

"We had one spurt there when we played good," Dobbs said, referring to the Colonials surge to a 12-point lead early in the game. "But we lost our momentum when I rested Bill Knorr and Mike Tallent, and we never picked it up again."

The Citadel's Dick Campell said he was proud of his team's effort. "We played as well as we can," he said. "Turnovers (15) hurt us, but it could have gone either way. We just fouled the wrong man." Mike Tallent was fouled as he shot with five seconds left, and his two shots clinched the GW win.

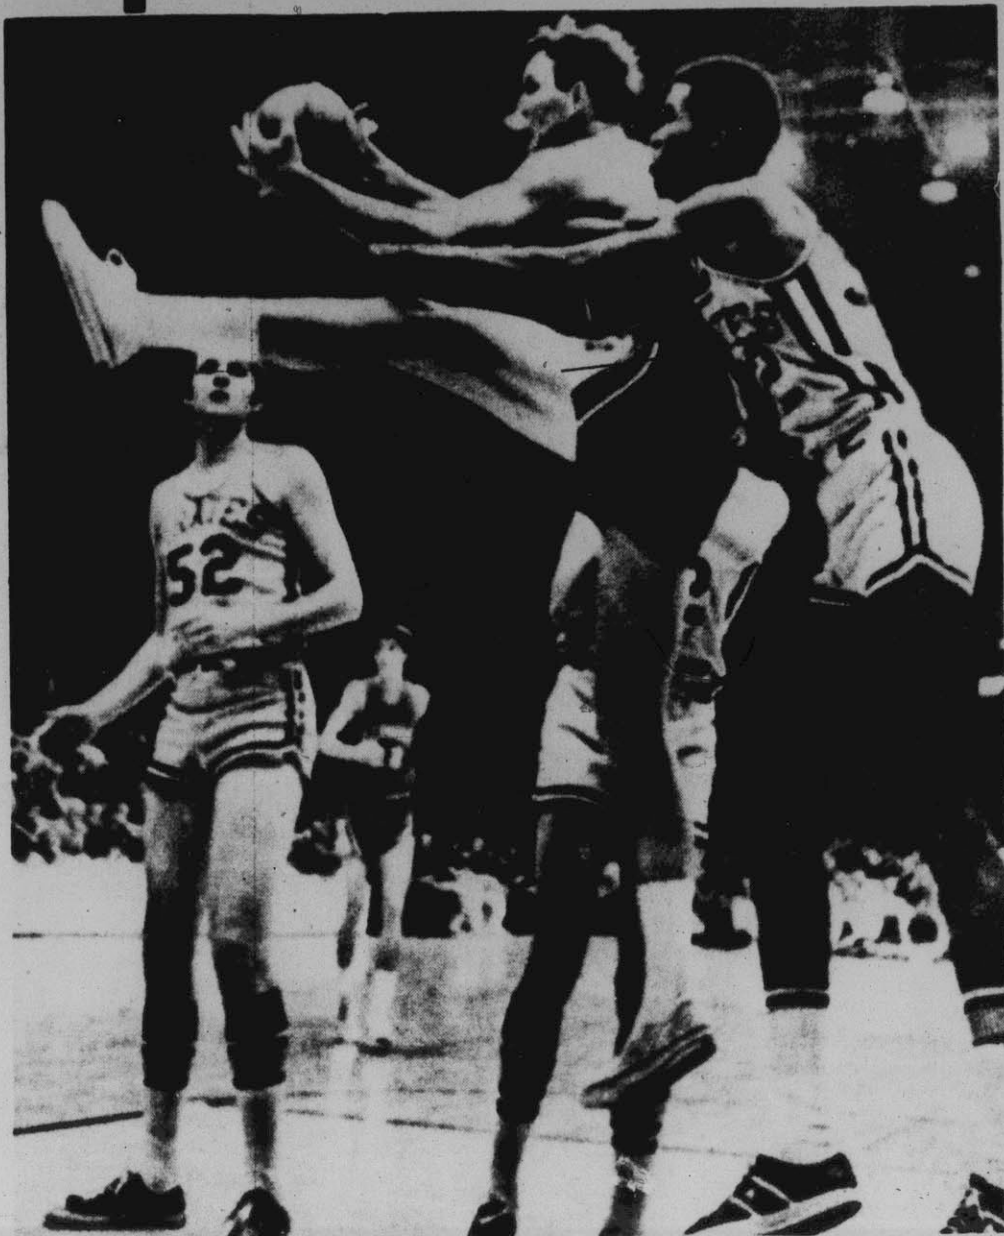

Although GW was still not in bonus, Campell elected not to try to foul earlier and hope for a final Citadel basket. "We felt anyone we fouled would make it, and we would be down one, with the pressure on us. We just gambled that they would miss and we could get an overtime."

Unfortunately we fouled Tallent when he shot."

"Obviously, I am very pleased with the way we played," Davidson Coach Terry Holland said after his team had rolled by VMI in the first round. "We didn't play great on offense, but I felt that our defense did a fine job."

Holland said that his fine sophomore, Bryan Adrian, would probably be ready to play by Friday night. "He had a foot injury but the doctor said he could have played, if necessary."

Holland said he felt that a game much as Davidson played could only hurt them. "William and Mary is a very good team, and they could give us a tough time in the game Friday. Playing a tough team helps to get ready for a tough game, and we just didn't do that tonight."

Fighting For Rebound

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
CHARLOTTE — Lew Mills, coach of the Richmond Spikers, said earlier this week that his team was ready for the Southern Conference Tournament.

Last night, they proved that they were very, very ready, as they upset second-seeded East Carolina University, 75-73.

The Bucs had battled back from as much as 14 points behind in the first half, and held their own three-point lead in the game.

But Richmond simply would not give up, and rode at the foul line to victory.

The winning points, as with most of the key ones, came at the line. Picot Frazier hit two free throws with 23 seconds left to put Richmond out by the winning margin. East Carolina took three shots at the mark before the horn, but the ball would not drop for them.

Richmond connected on 29 of 35 shots, from the line, as East Carolina was charged with 23 personals. Richmond, however, was charged with just 18 fouls and the Bucs got 12 less shots at the line 23. They made 19, but it wasn't enough.

They outthit Richmond from the floor. The Pirates hit on 27 of 58 for 46.2 percent, while Richmond shot only a poor 23 of 62 for 37.1 percent. East Carolina also outrebounded Richmond 41-25, but to no avail.

Richmond got the opening lead, and after Jim Gregory had changed it to 2-1 for the Pirates, a pair of free throws by Frazier put the spiders back out, 3-2. John Welch hit a jumper and Richmond slowly began to move away from the Bucs.

Two three-point plays helped them along the way, as they moved out into a 14-6 lead with 16-32 to go. Jim Hewitt made one of them, while Kenny Foster got the other.

From there, Richmond moved further out, and a jumper by Phil Buschker and a free throw by Frazier, followed by a rebounding shot by Hewitt pushed Richmond to a 14-point edge, 20-12 with 13:02 to go.

But the Bucs then seemed to realize that Richmond was going to be no pushover. They began to fight back and slowly cut the lead down, as Modlin and Gregory did most of the scoring.

Finally, a jumper by Modlin with five seconds left made it 42-36 at the half.

In the early minutes of the second half, the Spiders moved away again. They built their lead out to 12, at 51-39 with 15:30 left, and it looked like the Bucs were out of it again. But East Carolina came to life and outthit Richmond, 15-4 and took the lead for the first time since early in the game.

Lyn Green hit a foul shot to start the Bucs on their way.

Ron Le Pors connected and Tom Miller got a jumper. Richmond got a foul shot from Frank Owen, but the Bucs followed with baskets by Jim Fairley and Miller. Miller then hit two at the line to cut the lead to two, and Fairley's turnaround shot put the Bucs into the lead, 54-52.

But the Bucs couldn't keep it up. Richmond got the lead back on a drive by Frazier, and Owen hit two at the line to run the lead back to three. East Carolina took the lead away again, as Julius Prince hit a shot, and after Richmond got it back on two foul shots, Fairley hit, and was intentionally fouled, and made both to give East Carolina a three-point lead, 62-59 with 8:10 left.

Richmond just would not wilt. Fighting back, they took the lead on a basket by Buschker, and added a point when Owen was fouled.

The lead then changed hands several times more before Prince hit on a three-point play to put East Carolina ahead, 69-68 with 3:36 left.

Richmond got it back, however, on a three-point by Foster, but the Bucs got two straight from Fairley for a 73-71 lead with 1:49 to go.

Frazier sank a pair of free throws with 1:42 left to tie it up, and then got his fatal two others with 23 to go.

The Bucs tried for the three pointer, as Prince drove the land but his shot missed, and no one fouled him. Fairley and Miller both took shots at the bucket before the horn, but to no avail. Owen led Richmond with 14
