News Briefs

School Is Sealed Off

LAMAR, S.C. (AP) — Highway patrolmen in riot gear sealed off a school campus and patrolled the streets of this small farming community today in the aftermath of violence by opponents of racial integration.

Gov. Robert McNair said the high school and elementary schools which share the campus would stay closed "until order and calm is restored to the area."

In Washington, the Justice Department said U.S. marshals had been sent to Lamar, the FBI was investigating the disturbance and a lawyer from its Civil Rights Division was en route.

About 100 white adults, some armed with axe handles, chains and bricks, overturned two school buses Tuesday soon after 32 Negro children left the vehicles. Several of the children were struck and injured by objects thrown by the crowd.

State highway troopers finally dispersed the crowd with tear gas.

Hodges Honeymooning

RALEIGH (AP) — Luther Hodges, former governor of North Carolina and U. S. secretary of commerce, who will be 72 next month, has married his 48-year-old former secretary.

Hodges and the former Mrs. Louise Finlayson of Chapel Hill are honeymooning in Europe following their marriage in New York Saturday in Marble Collegiate Church by Dr. Norman Vincent Peale.

The couple plan to return March 15 to Raleigh, where Hodges recently bought an apartment.

Hodges' former wife died last June following a fire in their Chapel Hill home.

Mrs. Finlayson obtained a divorce Jan. 6 from Oren A. Finlayson of Charlotte. They had been separated since September 1968 following 24 years of marriage.

French Sub Missing

TOULON, France (AP) — A French submarine, the Eurydice, is missing in the Mediterranean today after making a practice dive, the Maritime Prefecture here reported.

The number on board was not immediately known but a normal complement is 45 men.

The prefecture gave the sub's last known location as being off Cape Camarat, which is about 65 miles east of Marseille.

The Mediterranean there is between 1,800 and 2,000 feet deep. The prefecture said the vessel failed to respond to radio messages after making the practice dive this morning about 7:30-1:30 a.m., EST.

The prefecture said it was "very worried" about the submarine.

In January 1968 the Israeli submarine Dakar vanished in the eastern Mediterranean never to be found. She had a crew of 69 men.

Will Support O'Brien

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina democratic party chairman Gene Simmons leaves for Washington today to support Lawrence F. O'Brien for national Democratic chairman.

Although many Southerners are opposed to O'Brien, Simmons, of Tarboro, said, "I'm going along with the selection of the titular head of the Democratic party," former Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

"I feel like if we cooperate with national leaders, maybe they'll be more include to cooperate with us," Simmons said.

Humphrey had picked former Indiana Gov. Matthew Welsh for the chairmanship after O'Brien turned it down. O'Brien changed his mind when the party's executive committee began a move to draft him.

Mrs. John Winfield of Pine-town, North Carolina's national committeewoman, and Chuck Barbour, the state party's executive director, planned to accompany Simmons to Washington.

Warns Laos Can Fall

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Laos would be taken over by North Vietnam if U.S. air strikes were halted, says Prince Souvanna Phouma, the Laotian premier.

"It is the duty of the United States to protect us because, like other nations which signed the Geneva accords, it must assure the independence, territorial integrity and neutrality of Laos," he said.

Souvanna made the comment in an interview with the Columbia Broadcasting System, a transcript of which was released by the Lao government Tuesday.

Souvanna denied any knowledge of U.S. B52 raids in Laos and refused to comment on the activities of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency in Laos.

Asked about the extent of U.S.

military involvement in Laos, Souvanna said: "When the need is felt, we ask for supplies. We also ask for American air intervention to watch the infiltration routes and bomb the invaders."

He said that without U.S. air support "the entire country will become Communist—the entire country will be taken over by the North Vietnamese."

He said he had asked for more American aid, mainly rifles, to replace obsolete ones now used by the Lao army.

Souvanna said he would ask for still more aid "if necessary." "I think the United States should agree to increase the aid we have received and which we need," he asserted.

Mayor Frank M. Wooten, Jr., has submitted to the City Council a six-point statement summarizing his opposition to the agreement with Redevelopment Commission, on the plan for the Central Business Development which furnishes guidelines for rehabilitating downtown Greenville.

Since Mayor Wooten's statement is dated February 27, the day following the public hearing conducted on Thursday night, February 26, it will require consideration by the City Council at the regular meeting Thursday night before it can be approved for inclusion in minutes of the February 26 special meeting on the basis of appended material not a part of the regular meeting. This procedure is in accordance with established parliamentary procedures.

The agreement portion with the Redevelopment Commission of the CBD project was approved unanimously by the four City Councilmen — mayor pro-tempore Percy Cox, Jerry Sutherland, Dr. Frank Fuller and Johnnie Edwards at the special meeting last Thursday night.

Mayor Wooten abstained from voting on the agreement. Since abstaining removed the mayor from the issue, the City Councilmen voted to authorize mayor pro-tempore Cox to sign the article of agreement.

Mayor Wooten's statement, entitled "Statement of Frank M. Wooten, Jr., as to his opinion on the foregoing motion, relating to Redevelopment Commission — Central Business District," enumerates these points:

"1. The proposal violates one of the basic concepts of our form of government, the taking of private property for non-government purpose. The compelled sale of property to another person, for the purchaser to profit, violates this fundamental principle.

"2. The proposal uses money obtained from the entire city, for the exclusive benefit of one small area of the city.

"3. There has been no evidence of the need for additional parking spaces.

"4. There has been no plan submitted to the Council, nor has the Council considered or adopted, a plan for the payment of the $863,916.00 shown in the Redevelopment plan as an obligation of the City for the acquisition of parking facilities.

"5. There has been no evidence submitted to this Council, as to the compliance by the several buildings within the proposed area, with the North Carolina Building Code. Nor, if the buildings do not comply that the owner has been notified of the deficiency and requested to remedy it.

"6. There has been no evidence submitted to this Council to indicate that the expenditures by the Greenville Utilities Commission, as shown in the plan, will improve service or, increase revenue to the Commission."

Expanding on his objection, Mayor Wooten made particular reference to the second point.

"The proposal uses money obtained from the entire city, for the exclusive benefit of one small area of the city."

"This matter pertains to the city as a whole in my opinion," Mayor Wooten commented. "There are other items which have a higher priority than some of the proposals as shown in this plan... specifically, the need for expansion of recreational facilities, including swimming pools.

"Almost all of the streets need resurfacing. This should have a higher priority. I do believe the project has some plans which are worth considering. It's a good idea to improve the streets as set forth, including the proposal to connect Reade and Cotanche."

Speaking of city employees, Mayor Wooten remarked: "I sincerely think the employees should have a higher base pay. I put that consideration above the CBD proposal."

Labeling one item a "luxury," he said "putting electrical wires underground is nice, but it's a luxury. It is my understanding that a large portion of the costs to utilities is to place wires underground."

On the matter of parking facilities, Mayor Wooten said "The Parking Authority on its own without this plan can provide parking as needed. It has the power of condemnation."

The mayor remarked "It was brought out that the city does not own any parking site except the one where the old swimming pool used to be."

WANTS INQUIRY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken, charging that some utilities are on a "nuclear gold rush" to monopolize private production of atomic power, called today for a Senate antitrust investigation of the electric-generating industry.

Hearing Set Friday On Former Principal's Bid To Intervene In Action

By BLANCHE HARDEE

Reflector Staff Writer

A hearing on whether or not to allow a former Pitt County principal to intervene as a plaintiff in a civil action pending in U.S. Eastern District Court against the Pitt County Board of Education will be held Friday, Superintendent of Schools Arthur S. Alford told the board yesterday.

Eddie L. Smith, a former principal of Falkland Elementary School is seeking through the court, to be reinstated as a principal in the county, and further, is asking the court to order the Pitt County board to submit and implement a plan for the complete desegregation of the county schools effective with the beginning of the 1970-71 school year.

Smith contends he was fired because of his race. The answer to Smith's complaint, filed last month, by the Board of Education says his dismissal was actually based on his (Smith's) incompetence and not on the basis of his color or race.

The answer also stated, "It is hoped the court still contemplates that the Desegregation Plan presently approved by the court will not be disturbed."

Ralph Hall, supervisor of construction for the board of education, reported on the progress at the four consolidated school sites. According to Hall, the North Pitt School is 42 percent complete while the D.H. Conley school is 35 percent complete. About 12 percent of the Farmville school has been completed while about 15 percent of the Ayden-Grifton project has been done.

J.L. Keeter, assistant superintendent, reported on the Middle School project which began in two of the county schools Feb. 23.

Pitt County is one of 21 school districts approved by the North Carolina Board of Education for experimental vocational education programs aimed at keeping potential dropouts in school.

According to Keeter, the project is to provide occupational awareness for the students of an entire school system by integrating occupational information and activities into all phases of the curriculum.

The two participating schools are Bethel Union and G.R. Whitfield.

"An occupational guidance counselor, one home economics teacher and one industrial arts teacher have been employed at each school," Keeter said. "They work with the sixth and seventh graders at Bethel Union and the seventh and eighth graders at G.R. Whitfield."

The project is taught by the team approach.

"For example," Keeter said, "an industrial arts teacher may work with the regular classroom teacher in planning some activity that the two teachers work together to reach the objectives of the program."

The program will be a laboratory-type system of teaching, Keeter stated.

"The program will challenge all students to do more thinking as they become involved in the project," Keeter explained.

Louis Clark, representing landowners in a new subdivision located adjacent to Pinewood subdivision, and Johnny Moyer of the Allendale subdivision, appeared before the board yesterday requesting that students living in these two divisions be allowed to attend the Greenville Schools.

The school board said further study would be given to the matter. No action was taken yesterday.

Associate Superintendent Tom Craft told board members that 315 students residing in Greenville are attending the county schools, while only 87 Pitt County students are enrolled in the Greenville school system.

Craft was appointed to check the number of transfers at the January meeting.

Board member Dr. W.A. Moody expressed concern about the fact that so many more students from Greenville were attending county schools while only a few students from the county were enrolled in the Greenville school system. He felt the $60 tuition charge that county students are paying to Greenville should be dropped.

The board voted to ask the Greenville School Board to drop the tuition charge for the next school year.

Pitt County voters will have an opportunity to choose three members of the board in the May election, Alford reported. Seats now held by Mark Owens of Fountain, T.G. Worthington of Ayden and Robert Pierce of Farmville, will be open for selection.

Those terms will expire April, 1971, at which time the candidates named in the coming election will take office for a four year term. None of the incumbents have filed as candidates. The deadline for filing is March 20.

The primary election is a non-partisan one and will be the only election for the board members.

Members of the board, in respect for Mr. John W. Maye Sr., who died Saturday, paused for a few moments of silent prayer. Maye was principal of W.H. Robinson School, Winterville. The board passed a resolution of respect for Maye.

School Board Desegregation Suit Is Filed

A motion for further relief, asking that the Greenville City Board of Education be "required to immediately adopt and implement a plan of desegregation for its schools..." and "...for its faculty..." was filed in U.S. Eastern District Court in New Bern yesterday.

The motion also asks that the "defendant be enjoined from proceeding further with any construction (of new schools) until such time as the defendant adopts a comprehensive plan of desegregation and shows the court that any planned construction will result in the further desegregation of the defendants school system rather than the perpetuation..." of a dual school system."

Charlotte attorney James E.

Ferguson II filed the motion with the Federal Court on behalf of "Douglas Edwards, et al." The motion for further relief asks relief in addition to a civil action filed November 12, 1969 seeking to prevent the city school administration from suspending or expelling Rose High School students because of race.

That November complaint was filed after a number of Rose students were suspended following an outbreak of racial tension at the high school October 25.

The motion filed yesterday alleges that the city school administration "...continues to operate a school system on a racially discriminatory basis, maintaining certain all-black or all-white elementary and junior high schools."

Only a token number of black teachers are teaching in formerly all white schools and only a token number of white teachers are teaching in formerly all black facilities, the motion continues to allege.

The legal paper also contends the school administration now has "under consideration and intends to carry out a program of school construction which will result in full segregation of the defendant's school system by building schools primarily designed to serve members of one race with no plans for integrating said schools once constructed."

City school superintendent Dr. C.C. Cleetwood, in commenting on the motion, said the charges alleged "cannot be substantiated" and noted that the board has nothing definite on the drawing board... as far as new school construction is concerned.

"Wahl-Coates (a project by East Carolina University to replace the present Wahl-Coates elementary school on East Fifth Street) is now a university project," Cleetwood said, explaining that the Board of Education has already "conveyed the land..." to the state for the building.

The new Wahl-Coates school is being constructed by the university with cooperation of the city school administration. Under an agreement, the city's Board of Education would supply the land and $100,000 toward furnishings and equipment for the building.

The school site, on East Fifth Street, cost about $85,000, and was conveyed to the state several months ago. According to ECU vice-president and business manager F.D. Duncan, (Continued On Page 12)

Gal Sleuths' Work Is Routine

By NAOMI ROCK.
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — On television or in the movies they're the glamorous dolls who can flip a guy with the twist of a wrist, outshoot or outfox him in a 007, or seduce him for the good of the cause.

In real life female private eyes are the women next door — and there's little glitter to their lives. In most cases only their family and closest friends know their occupation.

They work for private detective agencies, large and small. They may spend one day or 10 years on the same job.

Both Carol and Vicki have been private investigators for about eight years. They work for the Burns Detective Agency, one of the largest companies of its kind.

Carol and Vicki have never met. First, because they're in different divisions—Carol in the Investigation Department and Vicki in Management Control — and second, because for security reasons, agents never know one another, unless they're working together on a case.

The girls neither carry weapons, nor are they trained in the many arts of self defense—judo and karate. Their tools of the trade are common sense, a keen eye, diplomacy, a disarming smile, and knowing when to keep their mouths shut.

"A lot of my work involves preventing thefts," said Carol, a middle-aged mother of two, and a former member of the New York City Police Department's pickpocket squad.

"You learn to know a thief. You watch the hands and eyes. When I'm working a fancy fashion show or a gala wedding, I keep an eye on furs and jewels."

Carol explained that since women are rarely given dangerous assignments, she's never needed a gun. One day she may attend a large corporation's stockholders' meeting to take care of women who may "act up" for nuisance sake—"we eject them with necessary force," the next day she may be staked out to watch a suspected thief.

Other days she'll do fair trade shopping for a large manufacturer, or investigate the background of a prospective employee or a prospective son or daughter-in-law.

"You'd be surprised how many people want the lowdown on their children's intended," Carol said.

"Most people are more than willing to talk. I'll visit friends and neighbors of the persons under investigation. Usually when I smile and talk nicely, people hardly care who I am or why I'm questioning them. If they're suspicious I say I work for an insurance company or something like that."

Carol says her husband and children love what she does, but that most of her friends and neighbors have no idea.

"You never know where you'll run into someone you know," she explained. "And besides, when people know you're some kind of investigator they come to you with all kinds of problems."

While Carol went from one kind of investigative work to another, Vicki came to Burns with only a clerical background.

I want to an employment agency looking for an interesting job," Vicki, a tall, shapely brunette who doesn't look her age—35.

"I was soon sold on the idea that undercover work is intriguing and challenging."

For the first two years Vicki worked as a salesgirl, on a factory assembly line and in different offices. On each assignment she watched for stealing, drinking on the job, gambling or other infractions of company rules.

Then six years ago she went to work in a large factory that had been losing hundreds of thousands of dollars a year due to employee stealing.

She applied for the job through regular channels. Only the company's top executives knew the truth.

By watching and getting to know many of her fellow workers, Vicki soon discovered the persons responsible for much of the theft. She reported their names to company executives and also suggested additional security measures.

"Even though the losses dropped off the company feels better knowing that there's someone around just to watch," explained Vicki.

"So I've been there for six years. It's interesting, but I think it's time for a change."

Vicki's coworkers think she's just another employee. In six years she's been promoted to assistant supervisor.

"I'm on the job full time. I'm friendly with the other girls. We visit each other, and go away together on weekends. I learn all kinds of things that way."

"They're my friends, but always in back of my mind the job comes first. I know I'm using them, but that's the way it's got to be."

Vicki and Carol are two of the four women investigators for Burns New York City office. The other 40 investigators are men. "We'd like to hire more girls," said Vicki's boss, Kenneth North. "The pay is good, the jobs are interesting and often varied, but most girls don't know about this kind of work. There are some jobs we must have women for, and often when we could use either a man or a woman, a female can get the information more easily."

When 'BrainGames' Aren't Your Thing

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.
DEAR ABBY: We have some friends who are about our age (middle-aged), who are very charming people. They entertain at home a lot, and we have always enjoyed their company.

They have suddenly started something new. They invite people over, and the evening's "entertainment" is to play some sort of game. These games are competitive, of course, and require a knowledge of history, geography, politics, literature, opera, "words"—and so on. It's sort of a "how smart are you?" thing.

I am frank to admit that I don't care for this kind of evening because I am not as well informed as some of the others, and I don't like to be put on the spot that way. I know a few others who don't care for "brain games" either.

If I wanted to show how smart (or dumb) I was, I would go on a quiz show. What is your opinion of such games?

BOOBY PRIZE
DEAR BOOBY: They're wonderful for people who know all the answers and like the mental combat. But I think a host who would force an evening of "skull practice" on guests without being absolutely sure they were all eager to play, is inconsiderate. Next time, you [and the others who don't care for brain games] are asked to play, either speak the truth, or take the consequences.

DEAR ABBY: Some people can't resist the temptation to talk "shop." In this community lives a registered nurse who is such a person.

I recently attended a dinner party where this nurse was also a guest. Regardless of what the conversation started out to be, this woman always managed to turn it to her profession. Then she'd tell some "amusing" little inside stories about patients who were known to everyone in the company. Most of it was far from table talk but she thought she was "entertaining." I thought she was disgusting.

I understand this nurse is very well trained and efficient in her field, but Abby, doesn't every nursing course include a lecture on "good taste" and common sense?

IRKED
DEAR IRKED: Every nursing course includes a lecture on "ETHICS." That should cover it.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me what you think of a 23-year-old married woman getting braces put on her teeth!

My husband says it's up to me, but he doesn't think I need them. My parents think I am crazy. Please don't laugh, but do you think it would interfere with my kissing? If it would, I'd have to forget it, because I don't want anything to harm my happy marriage.

Abby, I have always wanted my teeth straightened, so please give me your best advice.

The dentist says I will have to wear braces for about a year and a half if I decide to have them.

J. J.
DEAR J. J.: IF YOU want your teeth straightened, and it can be done, by all means DO it. I doubt whether it will "interfere" with your kissing sufficiently to "harm" your marriage.

DEAR ABBY: You advised "WITHHOLD MY NAME" who was being married in a beautiful "dream" church ceremony not to use her daughter as flower girl. [The daughter had been born out of wedlock and she said everybody knew it.] Your reason being it would draw attention to that part of the bride's life which would be better off forgotten.

Since everybody knew it, it seems to me that it would only draw attention to the fact that the groom was more of a "man" than the child's natural father, and that the child is loved enough to be included from the beginning.

Where love exists, Abby, there is nothing to hide, past, present, or future.

MRS. M. J. C.
DEAR MRS. M. J. C.: Now that you have pointed it out, I see it clearly. Thank you for writing. [P. S. Many others felt the same as you. People are wonderful.]

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Program Given On League Funds At Monday Meet

A discussion of how league funds are obtained and used was the program of this month's Greenville Service League meeting held on Monday.

The discussion was lead by Mrs. Donald Patrick, Mrs. Bob Van Veld, Mrs. H. H. Bryant, Mrs. John Biggs and Mrs. Ercell Webb. League President, Mrs. W. R. Guice, presided over the meeting.

The following reports were given: Bloodmobile, Mrs. A. W. Mumford, announced that the Bloodmobile will be at the Moose Lodge on March 19 from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Workers volunteered to serve.

Civil Defense, Mrs. Charlie Gilbert, reported that J. H. Rose was in the process of organizing a Radio Logic Monitoring Course to be held at Pitt Technical Institute.

Hospital Activities, Mrs. Cecil Bilbro, announced that 160 Valentine favors and one flower arrangement were made for the hospital.

Mrs. Bob Van Veld answered four layette calls, while Mrs. Doug Wilson reported the loan of one walker and one pair of crutches from the Lending Chest. Mrs. H. H. Bryant answered two emergency Charity calls.

Mrs. Tom Haigwood, Charity Ball Chairman, thanked each member for their part in the affair.

Quick Facial
Don't say you don't have time for a facial. While running your bath water, slip some kind of cream on your face. Then take a hot washcloth (wrung out) and hold it over your face for a few minutes. It's the quickest way to get a good face cleaning and it relaxes you at the same time.

Margaret Truman Daniel: Gourmet Corner: Oyster 'Doesn't Want Sons To Grow Up To Be President'

By DEE WEDEMEYER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—After 17 years away from the White House limelight, Margaret Truman Daniel says she is enjoying her freedom more than ever, doesn't miss anything about the executive mansion except chauffeured-driven limousines and wouldn't want any of her four sons to be president.

"That's a thankless job," she said.

The only child of President Harry S. Truman, she gave up a controversial musical career to marry New York Times editor E. Clifton Daniel in 1956. Today she is enjoying a degree of anonymity she didn't have as the daughter of the 33rd president of the United States and at the same time she's maintaining an active professional life.

She appears in two or three plays a year, often at a "dinner theater" and has been on tour for as long as four weeks at a time and as far away as Arkansas. For three years she has done a daily syndicated five-minute taped interview show, "Author in the News." Her second book, "White House Pets," has just been published.

Nevertheless, traveling by subway and bus she passes unnoticed in New York's busy streets. Only occasionally do taxi drivers recognize her.

At 45 she appears much the same as she did as a coed at George Washington University. Round, slightly modish eyeglasses, seem to be the only addition to a face that is only slightly wrinkled around bright green eyes. Her hair is still blonde and the hemlines on her size 12 dresses fall below her knees.

"My husband doesn't think a woman my age should wear miniskirts," she explained. "Neither do I."

Among her favorite activities are the radio interviews which she tapes once a week in assembly line fashion with guests scheduled at 15 minute intervals.

Frequently taping is interrupted by calls from her housekeeper asking what to serve for dinner. Mrs. Daniel claims she's learned to cook "very well" but admits to not liking it much.

"I don't consider cooking a perfect soufflé an accomplishment," she said. "I like doing so many different things. I think the thing I hate most of all is monotony."

She and her husband live in a 10-room, conservatively furnished East Side Manhattan apartment with their four sons, Clifton Truman, 12; William, 10; Harrison, 6; and Thomas, 3; and a governess.

The boys, she said, want to grow up to be astronauts, not president.

"They are very removed from the political arena," Mrs. Daniel said. "If I hear anybody voice that—an interest in becoming president—I'd get rid of it."

About once a year the boys visit their grandparents in Independence, Mo. Mrs. Daniel said that her father, now 85, has the two older boys play the piano for him. Her mother "lets them get away with murder." The boys have the run of the large yard where Mrs. Daniel once played.

She is a bit disappointed the boys don't spend more time questioning their grandfather about his presidential years.

"They are just boys," she said. "They are so full of themselves. They don't want to listen to anyone else's stories. They read about him but they seldom cross-examine. It's too bad. He made me love history and I'm sure he could do the same for them."

She has been back to Washington only about a half-dozen times since her father left the White House in 1953.

"You know all I missed about the White House years is the chauffeured-driven automobile and I've gotten over that," she said. "I haven't had one in years."

"I try never to look back, only ahead. Life's much nicer now and more fun. I can't say it's more interesting. It's as interesting. There's no real comparison. There's freedom."

Mrs. Dallas Merritt of Huntsville, Ala., is visiting relatives.

From the great Lynnhavens off the coast of Virginia to the tiny Olympics of the Pacific Northwest, America's waters provide a treasure trove for oyster lovers. But few oysters capture that buttery ocean flavor so well as the bivalves from Delaware and are still a favorite with Pennsylvanians.

Two noted oyster fans, Don and Marge Schlerf of New Hope, Pa., have been holding an annual oyster roast for the past 16 years on the lawn of Rolling Green, their historic home. It is said that George Washington's forces encamped on this site before crossing the Delaware.

Indians originated the winter oyster roast. Within a short time the idea was picked up by colonists in Maryland, Delaware and Pennsylvania.

"The theory is the colder the weather, the sweeter the oysters," says Mrs. Schlerf. "In Maryland, summer homes all along the Chesapeake are reopened just for a winter roast, and unbelievable quantities of beer and oysters disappear.

"You wear anything that keeps you warm and comfortable, just as long as you come with a big appetite," she added.

Several weeks ago the Schlerfs held their annual cook-out at Rolling Stone. Guests came from seven Eastern Seaboard states; many of them made a weekend of it by staying overnight at various hostels in the historic area.

But the central attraction was the roast itself. While the guests stood by, quaffing from foaming mugs of beer or steaming mugs of coffee, Don Schlerf and a couple of volunteers poked gently at the oysters lined up on a big steel plate over a log fire.

As the oysters popped open, they were quickly removed from the shells and dunked in a skillet of melted butter. Within handy reach were pots of pickled cabbage, baskets of apples and hot roasted chestnuts.

"It's imperative to sign up two or three willing friends who will don aprons and wield knives to open each roast batch," Schlerf commented. "Their reward is the same as for all cooks: lots of tasting."

Eating roast oysters dunked in butter is a sloppy task at best. It is a good idea to come equipped with a large, absorbent glove and a voluminous napkin to wipe off your chin at appropriate intervals. But that's all part of the fun.

For those guests who found the winter roast a bit too rugged, the Schlerfs kept a huge pot of oyster stew simmering in the kitchen. The pot was made of aluminum, Schlerf noted, because this speeded up cooking time and kept the creamy soup from scorching. "It's also lighter and easier to move about," he explained.

Oyster stew has become a Christmas Eve tradition in many American homes. But the dish is a delectable treat any time, especially when the weather takes on a wintry nip. Few dishes are easier to prepare.

OYSTER STEW

1 1/2 pints shelled oysters with liquor
1 1/2 pints light cream
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
1 pinch paprika 1 pinch cayenne

4 tablespoons soft butter
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
Place in a double boiler over boiling water the oysters, their liquor, cream, salt, pepper, paprika and cayenne. Cook until the oysters float and cream has almost reached the boiling point.

While oysters are cooking, warm four deep bowls in a shallow baking pan half filled with boiling water. Add one tablespoon butter to each bowl. When the oyster stew mix is ready, ladle into the bowls and sprinkle the chopped parsley on top.

A loaf of hot french bread makes a swell accompaniment. Serves four.

Wrong Word For Children's Cake

CAMBRIDGE, England (WNS)—Roberta Canon, 40, opened the giant icecream cake that she had bought for a children's party and found the big word "SEX" in colored icing on top of it. Mrs. Canon, who is secretary of the local Consumer Group, complained to the icecream factory, which discovered that a worker had done the foul deed after being fired. "It sounds like a reasonable excuse," agreed the English lady and accepted both the apology and another icecream cake.

Researchers Are Trying To Find Baby Answers

By LAWRENCE C. FALK

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—How long does it take before a baby learns that if he babbles he will be rewarded with a smile?

And, how long will it be until he can learn to blink when a certain bell is rung?

These are some of the questions researchers at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa are trying to answer. They believe that if they can answer them, the answers might prove an index to knowing how rapidly the babies will learn in later life.

It is all part of a project financed by an $11,000 grant from the federal government. Those conducting the project think certain babies are born with certain learning patterns.

With little babies, it is really more conditioning than learning but researchers say learning and conditioning functions are very similar. And, they see a correlation between how swiftly a baby can be conditioned and how intelligent he will be when he grows up.

Conditioning is an old science. A Russian named Pavlov first worked out the basic theories with his famous dog-and-bell experiment and they are being used in the university's project today.

One of the experiments in the university project is to place a sheet of glass above a three-month-old's head and drop a small parachute toward the child's face. When the parachute hits the glass, the baby will blink. As he blinks, a bell is rung.

The purpose of the experiment is to see how long it will take before the child blinks when the bell is rung without first dropping the parachute—or, how long it takes to condition the child to blink.

A total of 30 infants are participating in the program. They will undergo experiments again when they are six, nine and 12 months old.

When the children become three and five years old, they will be given IQ tests and the results of the tests will be matched against their score in the conditioning experiments.

Researchers say these test results should give a good indication of the correlation between conditionability and intelligence.

No Excuse For Bad Manners

It is most regrettable that French President Georges Pompidou could not visit America without facing the bad manners of United States - style demonstrators.

We disagree, too, with France's decision to sell jets to Libya and we have long been a supporter of Israel's right to exist.

On the other hand, there is far more involved in U. S. — French relations than this one incident and for the French president to be subjected to the type insults that American demonstrations have made an art form, is more than we can tolerate.

The jeering demonstrators in Chicago apparently nearly brought an end to Pompidou's visit to the United States. If this had happened no doubt our relations with France would have been severely set back — and this at a time when we are seeking to improve relations between our two nations.

The situation was so critical that President Nixon took the unprecedented step of flying to New York to convey his regrets to President Pompidou over the hostile demonstrations he had encountered.

A White House statement after the New York meeting said Nixon "feels very strongly that a head of state who has been invited to this country and is our official guest should receive courteous treatment."

Fortunately the French president accepted the apology with good grace. He felt that Chicago authorities were lax in failing to keep the crowds from jostling him and his wife.

"I was displeased and I expressed my displeasure with this behavior," he said. "The general public and the government of the United States share my views as the President has demonstrated in a big way by coming to share my dinner."

It is regrettable, too, that New York Mayor John Lindsay chose to snub the visiting head of state when Pompidou came to New York.

Somewhat in our nation too many people have reached the conclusion that bad manners will achieve their aims. This is an immature approach, much like the baby throwing his cereal when he doesn't get what he wants. Fortunately the French president recognized these people as immature types.

Unfair To Those Men Registering For Draft

It may be proper under the law that the statute of limitations runs out at age 23 for young men who fail to register for the draft. However, it is unfair to the men who do register.

In a 5 to 3 ruling Monday the court held that an 18 year old who fails to register on his birthday can no longer be prosecuted after five years, on his 23rd birthday, if charges have not been brought by then.

On the other hand young men who do register at 18 can be drafted until age 26. Thus the man who obeys the law faces the draft for three years longer than the one who disobeys.

What the Supreme Court says is the law, but it sure isn't fair.

O'Brien Shuns The 'Snake Pit'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Contrary to hints from Humphrey lieutenants, the shocking decision by Lawrence F. O'Brien not to become Democratic National Chairman had nothing to do with his own finances and everything to do with disarray inside the party.

At the heart of the O'Brien story is petty animosity from many quarters and the ineptitude of Hubert H. Humphrey as titular Democratic leader. Although the breadth of support for O'Brien to succeed Sen. Fred Harris as National Chairman was remarkable for a party so divided, the rancid sniping finally impelled him to say no. The affair, then, reveals more starkly than before that the new National Chairman, whoever he is, will be taking charge of a Democratic snake pit.

Moreover, the O'Brien fiasco adds a still darker shade to the Democratic outlook. It undercut Humphrey's prestige and opened new wounds. Worse still, the oppressive national party debt looms more massive than ever.

That scarcely seemed the probable outcome on the afternoon of Friday, Feb. 20, when O'Brien met for two hours with Humphrey at Humphrey's downtown Washington office. O'Brien reiterated to Humphrey what he had said before: he intended to maintain his lifelong prohibition against accepting a political salary. Instead, O'Brien planned to put his newly formed public relations firm in the hands of subordinates and live off the company's profits — a practice followed by past Democratic chairmen.

Far from objecting, Humphrey was delighted. All that remained was for O'Brien, on a long - scheduled business trip to California the coming week, to get permission from his two main clients — Hughes Tool Co. and Dukor Industries, Inc. But, contrary to word later leaked from Humphrey sources, O'Brien never flatly said yes.

"We totally understand each other, don't we?" O'Brien asked as their chat ended. Humphrey replied that he understood O'Brien's answer would be forthcoming the next week. Although he had to hurry to a speech at American University, Humphrey invited O'Brien to continue the discussion with Pat O'Connor, outgoing national party treasurer, and National Committeeman Robert Strauss of Texas, designed as O'Connor's successor.

What followed was a fateful dinner conference at Paul Young's restaurant by O'Brien, O'Connor, Strauss, and William Connell, Humphrey's longtime political aide. O'Brien was informed that the widely advertised $8 million deficit was nearer $9.5 million. That blockbuster set O'Brien to pondering about the failure of Democratic fat cats to step forward with offers to surmount the fiscal crisis. He also wondered whether, even with big-money connections, Strauss could raise the money.

But O'Brien might have withstood the shock of that suddenly enlarged deficit had it not been for scattered sniping, generally hidden from public view, he was beginning to feel.

Al Barkan, head of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE), was bad - mouthing O'Brien in private (reflecting views of Barkan's friend, former National Party Treasurer Richard Maguire). Liberal elements — including

TRUE GROWTH

We frequently see a large truck used only for transporting concrete. The drum in which the concrete is placed revolves continuously to keep the concrete from setting, becoming hard, rendered useless for building.

This whole matter can be transferred into the realm of daily living. There are some people whose lives grow hard, who will not change their opinions or their mode of living. With the passing of time they become as useless for construction work as concrete would be if it were not kept revolving about in the mixer.

We meet such people every day. Sometimes they are big talkers. There are others among them that simply dig their heels into earth and refuse to budge. They know everything and the members of their family know nothing.

They despise whatever political party is in power. Their lives settle into a dead, heavy mass. Although most people of this variety do not realize the low esteem in which they are held, everybody else does know how they think, work and administer. The hard, unchangeable personality is first regarded with annoyance, then with some hostility — finally with disgust.

We stop growing physically at the end of the teenage period or early in our twenties. Mentally we continue — or should continue — into several decades of achievement. The final decades of life have their utility because they should be for us a period of genuine achievement. Growth is a continual process.

WORDS THAT MUST LIVE ON!

Problem Of The Year

WASHINGTON — And now, ladies and gentlemen, in a few minutes we shall have the moment you have all been waiting for. While our judges are marking their ballots, we'd like to tell you a little about this wonderful contest.

"Each year the American people, with the help of the news media, decide which Problem they will be the most concerned with for the next 12 months. Last year, if you remember, it was 'Crime in the Streets.' The year before that it was the 'Wars.' Past winners have included 'Hunger,' 'Poverty,' 'Desegregation' and 'Cuba.'

"The Problem selected for 1970 will not only get to travel all over the United States, but she will appear on television, in the newspapers, on radio and wind up her whirlwind tour by meeting with the President of the United States in the White House in Washington, D.C.

"You can feel the electricity and excitement here as the 200,000 people in the audience await the verdict. I don't believe we have ever had a more outstanding group of problems to choose from than the 1970 crop. Let me list the finalists for you

Other Editors Say No Deep Channel

(Washington Daily News)

The Army Corps of Engineers made the recent decision against recommending a deep sea channel up the Pamlico river.

Such a channel has been a hope and dream for this area for several years now. It came into the talking stage because of the phosphate interests. And such a channel would mean a great deal to the area in many ways.

When we talk of such a deep sea channel from the ocean through the Pamlico sound and up the Pamlico river, we realize that such a facility would cost a lot of money. And the cost of such a project must be weighed against the use.

Then federal officials seemed to feel that if such a deep channel facility should be built, it might interfere with Marine life and it might hurt the fish population. However, it was generally felt that this obstacle might be overcome through careful planning.

Quite obviously, the decision is a disappointment to many people of our area and not alone the phosphate interests. A deep sea channel would serve so many people in so many ways in this area.

Along the way between the ocean and the terminal in the Pamlico river, a deep sea channel would mean great things to Hyde county communities, Belhaven, Aurora, and Washington, it was pointed out.

We also must realize that there are people who do not want the great industrial development along the Pamlico river that a deep sea channel would surely bring. And we are of the opinion that within 10 years after such a channel should be put into use, the entire river area from the ocean to Washington would experience an industrial revolution the likes of which have never been seen nor felt in this area.

The hopes and dreams for the time being go up now with this decision by the Army Corps of Engineers. It is a decision that had been expected for some time when word got out more than a year ago as to the inclinations of the engineers. However until the formal decision was made, hopes continued for more favorable action.

If we read correctly what has been said, the recommendation would involve greater improvements at Morehead City harbor and channel.

If we cannot realize our ambitions here in the Pamlico area, then we hope that needed improvements can be made along our coast in North Carolina. None of us is against improvements at Morehead City. It was just a case of putting our own Pamlico area first.

again. 'Miss Inflation,' which has certainly impressed everyone here with her size and scope; 'Miss School Busing,' considered by many a sleeper, but which came on strong, thanks to the speeches against her by Spiro Agnew and Sen. Stennis.

"Then there's 'Miss Stock Market,' 'Miss Unemployment,' 'Miss Drug Scene,' 'Miss Pollution' and 'Miss Generation Gap.'

"All of them have excellent chances of being crowned 'America's Problem of 1970.'

"The judges still can't seem to make up their minds, so let's talk to some of the former winners to see how they fared after reigning as America's Problem of the Year. Here's 'Miss Poverty.' You were Queen in 1964, weren't you?"

"I think so. I know it was an election year. It was really a wonderful experience. No one talked about anything else but poverty. They made documentaries about me, wrote a long series of articles in the newspapers; they even set up a government department just for me. It's something I'll always remember."

"Tell me, Miss Poverty, what happened when a new queen was crowned?"

"I retired. That's part of the contract. Once you're no longer the Problem of the Year, you're obligated not to make any more public ap-

Nixon Sought A Thaw

By ENDRE MARTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Just what was it President Nixon was trying to save when he flew to New York to smooth French President Georges Pompidou's ruffled feathers?

Nothing more or less, diplomatic officials aver, than a long-awaited change in the atmosphere between Washington and Paris; a thaw; sure signs of the end of a near-decade of frigid relations between the two capitals.

There is no doubt the French leader had been angry, offended, puzzled: by the girls screaming as he addressed the National Press Club here; by police dogs shepherding his arrival in San Francisco; by demonstrators jostling him in Chicago. He was, in short, angry enough to threaten to cut his visit short.

Nixon's act of contrition on behalf of the American people appeared to gratify the successor to the imperious Charles de Gaulle.

The Pompidou mission was a good will visit, and in the high est councils in which he found himself, there was good will aplenty. The demonstrators could not nullify that, observers feel—especially as he comes from a land where noisy street demonstrations are by no means unknown.

Nixon had no intention of persuading his guest to abandon the Gaullist policy on the Middle East or the Atlantic Alliance or anything else.

The American President's sole aim was to continue the policy of reconciliation that began when he visited de Gaulle a year ago, after nearly 10 years characterized by an icy silence punctuated by occasional harsh words.

Pompidou emphasized the ceremonial nature of the visit in his New York speech. While grateful for his host's presence, Pompidou continued a hard policy line, criticizing "multiform protectionism" in the United States, and reiterating French fears over business takeovers by U.S. firms.

But the differences between the two governments on major issues would have remained even if Pompidou's path through the United States had been strewn with roses instead of thorns. American officials from Nixon on down had no illusions the French leader would change his views on the Middle East just to please the United States.

American officials who advocate an evenhanded Middle East policy, in discussing France's controversial sale of Mirage jet fighters to Libya, privately accept Pompidou's argument that Libya's military coup last fall created a vacuum someone had to fill.

Whatever U.S. differences with France may be, American experts say the French role in North Africa is greatly preferable to Soviet expansion there.

American and French diplomats agree Nixon and Pompidou found much in common and established immediate rapport. Both are fond of a low key approach; each holds a distaste for arm-twisting. Finally and most obviously, the two had never met before; now they have, and each knows something more of how the other feels about international problems.

Administration sources try to draw a sharp line between the

Officers Named By Ministerial Ass'n

Greenville Ministerial Association members approved a full slate of new officers Monday night at their March meeting held at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

The new candidates, presented by the chairman of the nominations committee, Rev. Joyce V. Earley, included: Rev. Tim Henry, president; Rev. H.C. Mulholland, vice president; Rev. B.B. Felder, treasurer; and Rev. Dan Earnhardt, secretary.

The membership expressed their appreciation to the outgoing president of the association, Capt. Wayne McHargue of the Salvation Army, for his work in Greenville.

McHargue has been transferred to Richmond, Va., where he will be in charge of the Salvation Army youth program throughout Virginia and Southern West Virginia.

In other business, Rev. Pat Huston submitted a plan for Union Services during Holy Week. It was agreed that services would be held at Jarvis

Memorial during Holy Week from Monday to Thursday with each service beginning at 12:00 noon and lasting until 12:30.

A three-hour service has been planned for Good Friday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

official aspects of the visit and the venting of anti-Pompidou feelings by a small segment of the population.

It remains to be seen whether the two can really be divorced. Diplomats agree the answer to that depends primarily on the French president. Despite criticism by some French journals, which felt Pompidou lost his cool, there could be a backlash by Frenchmen who feel their head of state had been insulted.

But even in the unexpected event that Pompidou should remain disgruntled, it's not expected his annoyance will affect what was achieved between him and President Nixon.

And that, most observers feel, made the American President's journey to New York time well spent.

National Committee - woman Mildred Jeffrey of Michigan — were complaining that O'Brien was too much old politics. O'Brien was not happy about the aggressive Indiana State Chairman

Gordon St. Angelo, a onetime O'Brien idolator.

Most biting of all to longtime Kennedyian O'Brien, however, were activities against him by friends of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and the failure of Ted Kennedy himself to say a single public word in O'Brien's behalf (although Humphrey did have Kennedy's private support for O'Brien).

Augmenting this problem was Humphrey's inexplicable failure to touch base with national committee members, governors, and members of Congress before asking O'Brien to serve. When Humphrey belatedly got around to this, the weekend of Feb. 21-22, some responses were surprisingly cool — for example, Gov. Robert E. McNair of South Carolina. "I talked to McNair and he was less than enthusiastic, let me tell you," Humphrey informed O'Brien. From Southern governors to Negro Congressmen, the not so surprising complaint was this: why didn't you ask our advice?

pearances. You have to give another Problem a chance. Besides, the American people get sick of you, if you stay around too long."

"Thank you, Miss Poverty.

Over here is 'Miss Vietnamese War.' We haven't heard from you in some time."

"I'm still here, though I'm afraid I'm not the glamour problem I used to be. Occasionally I'm mentioned in the papers or on television, but I must say it isn't the same as it used to be."

"We have time to address ourselves to one more problem, Miss Desegregation. How do you feel when you see all these young eager Problems vying for the crown you once wore?"

"I envy them and their innocence. I guess I'm washed up now, but I'll always remember that brief moment when everyone sang 'Miss Desegregation — have you ever seen a dream walking?' It seems like only yesterday when I could do no wrong."

"Thank you, Miss Desegregation. We're sorry we don't have any more time to discuss your problem, but you know how the American people are. Well, I'm going over now to pick up the white envelope which will tell us what Problem will reign supreme in 1970 . . . I tear off the top and . . . Are you ready? . . . The Problem of the Year is Pollution! Miss Pollution is the new Queen. Let's hear it for Pollution. Now all together, 'Here she comes, Miss Pollution . . .'"

Town Of Bath 265 Years Old This Friday

"The Light of History"
By H. G. JONES
N.C. Dept. of Archives and History
Written for the AP

RALEIGH (AP)—Bath, North Carolina's first incorporated town, will be 265 years old Friday.

While it was once a center of commerce and government, its history is as colorful as it is significant.

The community, on Bath Creek in Beaufort County, was first the site of the Indian town of Cotan. An English settler, David Perkins, arrived in the area in the 1690s. A decade later Perkins sold 60 acres to John Lawson, Joel Martin, and Simon Alderson, who laid out a town which was incorporated by the General Assembly on March 8, 1705. It was named for John Granville, Earl of Bath.

The community was the county seat of Bath County from 1696 to 1705. Then until 1712 it was the seat of Pamptecough Precinct. The name of Pamptecough Precinct was changed to Beaufort, and Bath continued as the court town of Beaufort County until 1785 when Washington was designated the county seat.

Several sessions of the colonial legislature met in Bath, and the town at times was considered unofficially as the capital of the province.

Bath is not only the oldest town in North Carolina; it was also the first port of entry and it constituted the first Anglican parish in the colony.

In 1709 missionary William Gordon wrote, "Here is no church, although they have begun to build a town called Bath. It consists of 12 houses, being the only town in the province."

He added, "... in all probability it (Bath) will be the center of trade, as having the advantage of a better inlet for shipping, and surrounded with pleasant savannas, very useful for stocks of cattle."

The famous evangelist, George Whitefield, three decades later was not so impressed. He wrote, "I am here, hunting in the woods, these un-gospelized wilds for sinners."

Apparently he found more than he could take care of.

On Sept. 22, 1711, Bath became the target of an attack by the Tuscarora Indians, the famous "Tuscarora Massacre."

Bath was the home of several governors and other provincial officials. Perhaps its most famous temporary resident, however, was Edward Teach, better known as Blackbeard. The pirate married a local girl some said it was his 13th wife but she was less of a lure than the sea. When North Carolina's Gov. Charles Eden showed inexplicable favoritism toward the brigand, Gov. Spotswood of Virginia offered a reward for his capture. On Nov. 22, 1718, Blackbeard was overtaken, captured, and beheaded by the Royal Navy. Legend has it that his head was brought into Bath fastened to the bowsprit of Lt. Robert Maynard's ship.

Although Bath declined in importance after its first exciting half-century, it continued as a quiet river town. Early buildings stand as reminders of the town's proud past: St. Thomas Church, the oldest church building in North Carolina, construction of which began in 1734; the Palmer - Marsh House (circa 1744) with its magnificent chimney 17 feet across at the base; the Bonner House (circa 1825) with its sprawling view of the Pamlico River; the Buzzard Hotel (circa 1740), now a private residence; and the Glebe House, thought to have been built prior to the Revolution, which is the rector of St. Thomas Church.

The town of Bath is now a state Historic Site with a portion of its historic area and houses administered by the state Department of Archives and History and open to the public for a small fee daily except Monday.

The General Assembly of 1967 appropriated funds for a visitor-center. Because bids exceeded the funds available, the structure had to be redesigned. Construction began in January, and completion is expected in June. The building will house offices, exhibits, and rest rooms, in addition to an auditorium in which will be shown a motion picture on the history of Bath.

More Americans Find Happiness In Australia

NEW YORK (AP) — Australia might be a nice place to visit, but apparently it is even a better place to live for hordes of discouraged Americans.

As many as 3,000 Americans have been renouncing their U. S. citizenship and settling "Down Under" each year according to an upcoming segment of the "First Tuesday" television program scheduled for March 3. Crews dispatched to film expatriates in both Australia and Europe found virtually all of them without regret, feeling safer and more secure in their new surroundings.

The men seemed happier than the women, reports producer Leigh Wilson, especially the husbands in Australia. This might be due to the basic differences between the expatriates in Europe and Australia. The liberals, artists, writers go to Europe; the rugged individualist, settling down type seems to prefer Australia. Thus the expatriates in Australia appear more stable, those in Europe, more restless and rootless, he explains.

Speaking personally, Wilson says, "I wouldn't hesitate to settle in Australia myself. It's a great place for someone with a little American initiative, know-how, and especially, money."

Embassies Offer Lots Of Reading

NEW DELHI (AP) — Twenty-four of the 76 embassies in this capital city publish a total of 103 periodicals for Indian readers with an estimated circulation of 1.2 million, according to the minister of state for information. He complained to Parliament that the circulation was 20 per cent of the total of the entire Indian press and suggested they were a "serious danger" to India. The U.S. Embassy brings out 44 publications and the Soviet Embassy 46, the largest number of any embassy.

Local Redisco Office To Close

The Greenville office of Redisco Incorporated will terminate its business operations here on April 30, according to branch manager Jim Walters.

Walters said that negotiations are underway at this time to determine what the situation will be after the 30th but that business interests will definitely be terminated on that date.

"Nothing definite has been decided beyond the fact that we will close operations April 30," he commented. No indications were given as to whether the business will be run by other interest.

All commitments and obligations incurred until the 30th will be honored, Walters added, and continuing services that have been contracted for a number of months in the future will be fulfilled. The branch manager said that it has not been decided at this time about the status of current employees. The April closing will affect nine women employees and four men at the local office.

The company, which deals mainly in the appliance and furniture fields, is a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Chrysler Corporation.

The Greenville office is one of two in the state. In addition to another regional office in Charlotte, a sub-office of the facility here is located in Fayetteville.

Direct dealings with various dealers in this part of the state rather than with basically local individual customers makes up the weight of the business, Walters said.

New Date For Hearing

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A hearing on the constitutionality of North Carolina's antibusing law, originally scheduled for next Tuesday, has been postponed until March 24.

The postponement was granted Tuesday by U. S. Dist. Judge James B. McMillan after it was requested by the state attorney general's office and attorneys for the Concerned Parents Association, composed of white parents protesting an order for complete desegregation of Charlotte - Mecklenburg County schools which would require massive busing.

Judges J. Braxton Craven Jr. and John D. Butzner Jr. of the U. S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals and Judge McMillan are scheduled to hear arguments in Charlotte on the validity of the law which prohibits school boards from involuntary busing and racial assignments. An appeal from this three-judge federal panel could go directly to the U. S. Supreme Court.

WIDESPREAD FIGHTING IN LAOS — North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao forces are on the attack at the underlined points extending over much of Laos, informed sources say. Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's eastern and western railroads have asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for an immediate six per cent increase in freight rates.

The railroads proposed Tuesday that the increase go into effect March 11. If approved, it would be the fourth rate hike in three years.

The railroads stressed the urgency of the rate hike because of "an acute financial condition which can be met only by immediate increase in freight rates and charges."

Williams said in spite of overwhelming evidence, government scientists say it is best to continue dumping off the New Jersey coast until further studies are made.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration will attempt next year to orbit two Mariner spacecraft around the planet Mars.

It will mark the first time the agency has attempted to put two spacecraft in orbit around a planet. Plans call for the two satellites to send back data for about three months, NASA said.

This will allow the spacecraft equipped with television cameras to study about 70 per cent of the planet's surface from an altitude of about 1,000 miles.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A report to the Army indicates sewage wastes dumped off New Jersey contain substantial materials known to be highly toxic and cancer producing, Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr. said Tuesday.

The New Jersey Democrat accused the Army Engineers of ignoring the real content of its own studies and those made available to them.

Williams referred to a study by a researcher on sewage sludge samples from 17 treatment plants serving 11.9 million persons in the New York and New Jersey area.

No Charges In Accidents

More than $1,700 property damage resulted from two traffic mishaps investigated here by Greenville police yesterday.

Officers reported Kirby Ray Hudson, 30, of 2123 South Village Dr. was injured when a truck he was driving collided with another truck at the intersection of Myrtle Avenue and Skinner Street about 12:20 p.m.

Officers identified the driver of the second vehicle — a city-owned truck — as Kelly Barnhill, 57, of 1216 Battle St.

No charges were reported by police who set damage at $2,000 to the truck driven by Hudson and $1,500 damage to the city vehicle.

No charges were made in a 6:52 p.m. mishap on Memorial Drive, 300 feet South of the Fairlane Road intersection. Police reported a car driven by Kay Lassiter Carroll, 25, of Route 3, Greenville struck a sign post, causing an estimated $200 damage to her car and about $10 damage to the sign.

How To Scrub A Dirty Bird

ST. PETERSBURGH, Fla. (AP) — The local Audubon Society is putting out a pamphlet on how to scrub a loon—or any other dirty bird.

The book was prompted by the society's experiences in attempting to scrub water fowl trapped in an oil slick.

Craig Cochran, an Audubon Society member, said volunteers helped clean more than 4,000 oil-tarred water birds after a tanker holed her hull in a ship channel and gushed 21,000 gallons of fuel oil into the bay Feb. 13.

"This thing caught us wholly unexpectedly," Cochran said. "We made a lot of mistakes at first and we want other people to benefit from these mistakes if they find themselves in the same situation."

Set Hearing For Five In Alleged Slaughter

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — A preliminary hearing for the five Marines accused of murdering 16 South Vietnamese women and children has been scheduled tentatively for March 12.

The hearing will correspond to a grand jury examination, and on the basis of the testimony the commander of the 1st Marine Division, Maj. Gen. Edwin B. Wheeler, will decide whether the men will be brought to trial.

If Wheeler does decide on court action, the defense attorneys probably will request a separate trial for each man, and these may begin in late May or June, Col. Robert M. Lucy of Parma, Mo., the division's staff judge advocate, told newsmen today.

The five Marines charged with premeditated murder of five women and 11 children in a hamlet of Son Thang Village, 27 miles south of Da Nang, Feb. 19, are Lance Cpl. Randall D. Herrod, 20, Calvin, Okla.; Pfc. Thomas R. Boyd Jr., 19, Evansville, Ind.; Pfc. Michael S. Krichten, 19, Hanover, Pa.; Pfc. Samuel G. Green, 18, Cleveland, and Pvt. Michael A. Schwarz, 21, of Weirton, W. Va. They are in a Marine brig in Da Nang.

Lucy declined to discuss what Marine investigators found at the hamlet in the enemy-infested Que Son Valley. He disclosed, however, that the victims died of gunshot wounds.

TOKYO (AP) — A man wearing dark glasses placed a pistol and a bomb-like object on a cash counter in the Oji branch of the Mitsui Bank today and shouted:

"This is a holdup. Call the police right away."

Minutes later the police arrived and arrested the man without any trouble. His pistol and his "bomb" were toys.

This Time, No Rock-Throwing

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle Liberation Front passed out oranges home-baked bread and coffee Tuesday to welfare recipients waiting in line for the opening of a public assistance office.

Kip Kane, 23, one of the 20 SLF members in the group, said the organization wanted to show violence wasn't their intent.

Southern Swim Title Is Tossup This Year

Never before has an East Carolina team lost in the Southern Conference in swimming. They have dominated the conference meets, and have won every one they have participated in.

But this year, Coach Ray Scharf is not so sure about the outcome. In fact, he's definitely worried. "We've got the best team we've ever had at East Carolina," he said. "But there are some factors that might work against us."

First of all, William & Mary has its best team ever. The Indians are unbeaten in 12 dual meets, and won the Virginia state championships last week. And they have depth, too. More depth than the Pirates. And in a meet where 12 places are given points, that depth could pile up points that could beat out the Bucs.

"For instance," Scharf said. "We could win first and second, and they could take the next three places in an event and outpoint us."

Also, there are only four schools participating in the event this year. The Citadel has dropped out of swimming, and VMI and Davidson are the only other teams left to join the Pirates and Indians. And Scharf doesn't feel that these two have the power or depth to help hold off the Indians.

"I expect this year's meet to be nip and tuck all the way," the coach said. The final score could be as close as 10 points between the champ and the runner-up. "We must swim well to take it this year," he said.

The meet opens in Minges

Natatorium on Thursday and Friday at 1 p.m., and on Saturday at 10:30 a.m. Finals will be held on Thursday and Friday at 8 p.m. Saturday's finals will get underway at 4 p.m.

Four events will be held on Thursday, the 500-yard freestyle, the 200-yard individual medley, the 50-yard free style and the 400-yard medley relay.

East Carolina's Jim Griffin is listed as the favorite in the 500 freestyle, with Joseph Gruver of William & Mary as the likely challenger.

In the 200 individual medley, Wayne Norris, also of East Carolina is the top candidate, but George Collins of William & Mary is expected to offer a tough race.

Paul Trevisan, another Pirate is the lead man in the 50 freestyle, but Charles Alley and John Greene of the Indians will again be in the competition.

Both William & Mary and East Carolina have posted a time of 3:46.0 in the medley relay, and it is expected to be an excellent event.

Friday, six events will be held, the 200 butterfly, the 200 freestyle, the 100 breaststroke, the 100 backstroke, the 400 individual medley, and the 800 freestyle relay.

Norris and Collins are expected to battle it out in the fly. Collins is the defending champion.

In the 200 freestyle, Griffin and Gary Frederick of the Pirates have the best entered times, but Wayne Giberson and Alley of W&M are right behind them.

Steve Weissman of East Carolina is the defending champion in the breaststroke, but teammate Larry Allman is top seeded, with two more Indians right behind them.

In the back stroke, Bill Laferty of the Pirates holds top place, with Jeff Kohlhas of William & Mary close behind. Norris appears all alone at this time in the 400 individual medley.

In the relay, it again appears to be a close match between East Carolina and William & Mary.

Saturday, the event winds up with seven matches, the 1,650 freestyle, the 100 freestyle, the 200 backstroke, the 200 breaststroke, the 100 butterfly, one-meter diving and the 400 freestyle relay.

Frederick is the defending champion in the 1,650, but Gruver of W&M will again challenge.

Griffin, Trevisan and Alley are all bunched together in the 100 freestyle.

Kohlhas is the favorite in the 200 backstroke, but Ken Hungate of ECU and Dave Dutrow of W&M could challenge.

Greene leads in the 200 breaststroke, five-tenths of a second ahead of Allman.

Collins is the top candidate in the 100 fly, with Grey Hanes battling him for the title.

Doug Emerson, the defending champ, and teammate Bob Baird should lead the diving for ECU.

Highwaymen Handed Upset

WNCT stunned regular season champion State Highway, 53-52, last night in the semifinals of the Industrial Basketball League tournament. They will meet Wachovia, which downed Fieldcrest, 64-52, in the other game.

The two teams meet Thursday for the championship of the tournament.

WNCT slipped out into a slim, 25-23 lead in the first period of play, then went right down to the wire in the second half. They held the lead most of the way, but tied it up at 52-52 with 28 seconds left when Clyde Elks hit a free throw.

But with six seconds left, Paul Whiteley was fouled and sank the first of a one-and-one to wrap it up for the Radiomen. Ike Arnold led WNCT with 28 points, while Jim Heatherly had 10. For State Highway, Elks had 20, Smith Worthington had 16 and Wiley Brown had 12.

In the second game, Wachovia pushed away to a 30-20 lead in the first half. The two teams played neck and neck in the second half, with Wachovia increasing its lead by two as it outscored Fieldcrest, 34-32.

(More Hints On Buying)

In the best quality suits you'll find the lining smoothly fitted and beautifully stitched by hand with matching silk thread.

The buttonholes will appear strong and neat, worked with close, even stitches. You will notice a stitched bar opposite the eyelet end to prevent tearing.

In good suits you will be quick to observe that the stripes and plaids are so cut that the patterns match perfectly.

During the fabrication of ready-made suits, every important sewing operation is followed by shaping and shrinking with hand steam irons. Thus the shape is literally sewn in to assure that they hold their shape as they hang so attractively from the rack.

Don't forget to look at suits made of fiber mixtures including rayon and polyester. WATCH NEXT WEEK FOR (The Natural Look)

WILSON — Ball-hawking Goldsboro put up too powerful an offense, and Rose High School proved to be "Offensive" as the Cougars eliminated the Rampants from the Division II tournament last night, 81-73.

Rose had some half-dozen offensive fouls charged to them, and that could have meant the difference in the contest.

Rose was also outmanned on the boards, as Goldsboro constantly got second and, third chances at shots, while on most occasions, Rose got only one opportunity.

Only in the early minutes of the game were the Rampants at their best, when they were able to constantly drive on the Cougars for baskets. But by the end of the first period, Goldsboro had made the defensive adjustments to shut off that channel and Rose was forced to go to the outside for points after that.

At the same time, the Rose defense gave up the baseline to Cougar attacks, which, along with the Goldsboro lead in rebounding pushed the Rampants behind as the second period got underway.

Goldsboro grabbed the opening lead as Don Lane hit a jumper. But a three-point play by Charlie Harris put the Rampants on top, 3-2. Zeke Becton put Goldsboro back up, but Willie Smith dropped in a basket to return Rose to the lead.

Immanuel In Lead

Immanuel Baptist eased out into a half-game lead in the Church Basketball League last night with a 47-39 win over St. James. In the other games, Black Jack downed Oakmont, 47-36, and Piney Grove nipped Mt. Pleasant 49-47.

Immanuel leads now with an 11-4 record, while Presbyterian is 10-4. Piney Grove and Black Jack are tied for third with 9-5 records, followed by St. James, 8-7, Oakmont, 3-11, and Mt. Pleasant, 1-14.

In the opener, Piney Grove pushed out into a 29-23 lead. But they had to hold off a Mt. Pleasant rally in the second half as they were outscored, 24-20, but it wasn't quite enough to overcome the first half lead.

Jimmy Mills let Piney Grove with 13 points, while D. R. Daniels led Mt. Pleasant with 17, Sidney Scott had 13 and Roy Peaden had 12.

Black Jack had little trouble with Oakmont in the first half, building up a 25-14 lead. Then, in the second half, both teams pushed through 22 points to hold the 11-point edge.

Tal Adams led Black Jack with 22, while Bob Benton led Oakmont with 12 and McLawhorn had 10.

Rounding out the evening Immanuel had to battle back from behind to beat St. James. The Methodists took a 20-18 lead at the half, but couldn't hold onto it. Immanuel outscored St. James, 29-19, in the second half for the win.

Clinton Gentry led Immanuel with 20 points, while Dick Evans had 12. For St. James, Van Britt and Guy Howell each had 11.

East Carolina also is the top candidate for the 400 freestyle relay.

Al Reese hit on a pair of free throws to put Goldsboro back up, and Danny Kepley followed that up with a drive to give the Cougars a three-point edge. It held there until Ray Peszko hit from the corner to cut it to one, and Mike Harrington drove in and was fouled as he made the shot. He completed the three-point for a two point Rose lead, 14-12 with 3:23 left in the period, but it was to be the last time the Rampants held the lead.

Lane tied it up with a jumper and Becton tapped in a rebound to put Goldsboro back up, 16-14. Rose tied it on a shot by Harris, but another rebound, this time by Kepley, put Goldsboro on top, 18-16, for good.

A foul shot by Lane raised the lead to three, and it held there at 21-18 at the end of the quarter.

Kepley made two foul shots in the opening seconds of the second period to push out into a five-point lead. Rose cut it back to one on buckets by Harrington and Harris, but they couldn't get the shot to regain the lead.

Goldsboro pulled away again, and Lane hit a jumper to give the Cougars a five point edge. Thurmond McCuller hit on the fast break to raise it to seven, 35-28, but Rose pulled back and trailed, 39-33 at halftime.

Rose cut it back to four in the first 30 seconds of the second half, but again, they couldn't hold off the Cougar offensive. Leading 40-36, Goldsboro ripped off 10 straight points to run out to a 14-point edge. Kepley started it off, and McCuller followed with a bucket. Kepley put in two more, and Reese finished things off for a 50-36 edge with 4:12 to go in the period.

Rose was unable to get its own offense to click the rest of the way until the closing seconds when the Rampants got enough to pull within 11 at the end, 60-49.

Greene Central Gains Victory

AHOSKIE — Greene Central, the Eastern Plains champion, advanced to the semifinals of the District Class 2-A Tournament Ahoskie last night, beating Edenton, 62-43.

Greene Central will now meet the winner of tonight's Charles B. Aycock-Northampton game in the second round on Thursday.

The Rams grabbed the lead at the start and never let Edenton gain command in the game. By the end of the first period, the Rams had worked up an eight point lead, 17-9. In the second period, the Aces were able to shut off some of the Greene Central scoring but still lost ground, 12-10. That made it 29-19 at the half.

Greene Central pushed out into a 19-point edge in the third period of play. They outscored the Aces, 16-7 and built the lead

In the final period, Goldsboro pushed out and built up as much as an 18-point lead midway through the period. Rose had cut the lead back to nine as Harrington hit on a three point play, but a three-point play by Reese started things off again. That raised the lead to 12, and shots by Herman Scott, McCuller and Donald McLaurin ran the lead out to 18, 75-57 with 4:16 to go in the game.

Goldsboro began to substitute after that, and Rose cut the lead down to eight before the final gun.

Goldsboro was paced by Kepley, who poured in 21 points, while Reese and Lane each had 13.

For the Rampants, who now complete their season, Harris was high with 20, while Harrington had 19, Smith had 14 and Billy Clark had 12.

Belvoir Wins, Stokes Loses

By CARL TYER

Reflector Sports Writer

Belvoir eased past Camden in the fourth quarter to take a 53-43 victory, while Aurora came to life in the fourth also to down Stokes 59-55, in the second round of the Division I, Class A Basketball Tournament last night.

These two wins set the stage for the semifinals, to be held tonight with Bethel meeting Columbia at 7:00, and Belvoir taking on Aurora at 8:30.

Camden took a 12-11 lead in the

Yarbrough Sets New Track Mark

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — LeeRoy Yarbrough set an unofficial world's closed course record of 199.916 miles per hour during tire tests at Alabama International Motor Speedway last week, officials report.

The mark, posted in Yarbrough's Ford Torino Talladega, eclipsed Charlie Glotzbach's 199.466 m.p.h. recorded last September. Yarbrough and Glotzbach drove some 700 miles in three days of testing for Goodyear tires. The tests were a prelude to the April 2 Alabama 500 NASCAR Grand National race.

Engineers said both cars ran in excess of 210 m.p.h. down the long backstretch of the 2.66-mile high-banked trioval. Glotzbach drove a winged Dodge Daytona Charger.

The tests were run Feb. 26-28.

first period over Belvoir, but the Eagles came back in the second to take the lead at the half 27-22.

From there, Camden tried to fight back in the third and get in the game, but the foul line hurt them, with Belvoir pumping in 15 foul shots in the game, while Camden only had three.

Camden brought it down to three in the third at 29-26, but Belvoir pushed it out to 11 points at 37-26 at one point.

The Eagles took a 10 point edge into the final period at 42-32, and both teams pumped in 11 apiece in the fourth to make it 53-43 at the horn.

Camden cut it down to six, at one time in the fourth with 4:11 remaining, but Belvoir kept their cool and maintained a substantial margin to take the win.

William Shivar led the Eagles with 23, while Joey Moore had 15.

with 13, while Charlie Nixon had 12, and Selwyn Williams 10.

In the second game, Aurora had to fight back from a scrappy Stokes team in the fourth to take their win.

It was close down the line, with Aurora never holding more than a six point edge throughout the game.

Aurora came back in the first period to tie it up at the end of the period at 19-19, after Stokes had taken a 16-11 lead.

In the second, both teams fell off with Aurora pushing in nine, while Stokes had eight to make it 28-27 at the half, Stokes favor.

It was nip and tuck throughout the third, with Aurora taking a 31-30 lead, but Stokes John James tied it up on a free throw with 6:38 remaining.

From there, Aurora went into the lead, and pushed out into a three point spread going into the final period, but Stokes cut it back down to one at 40-39, on a shot by Lester House.

Aurora finally took a comfortable margin in the fourth, with time closing, as they had Stokes 55-50 with less than 1:30 remaining.

Aurora then went to the foul line and kept their lead as Stokes was forced into fouling in order to get the ball.

Bucs Announce Six Signings

Five of the most sought-after military prep school players in the country and a Pennsylvania high school star have signed football grant-in-aids with East Carolina University within the past 10 days.

The six are: center Ned Cheely and linebacker Robin Hogue, both of Virginia Beach, Va., and Fork Union Military Academy; defensive end Gary Jakab of Bridgeport, Conn., and flanker George DiMitruk of Milford, Conn., both from Milford Academy; center-linebacker David Dadisman of Dunbar, W. Va., and Greenbrier Military School; and tackle Dennis Worek of South Allegheny High School in Glassport, Pa.

"These boys represent a big plan for our program," said ECU Head Coach Mike McGee in announcing the signings Wednesday morning. "All six of these boys are blue-chip prospects and were sought after by at least a dozen schools. And they've got the size and speed we're looking for."

Each of the five military school boys won All-Prep honors last fall. Worek, the captain of his team, was named to the All-Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League Class AA Team, the highest honor for a player from that football-rich area.

The size McGee was referring to is evident when one looks at the charts on these six athletes. Cheely measures 6-3 and weighs 220; Hogue 6-1, 210; Jakab 6-2, 225; DiMitruk 6-1, 190; Dadisman 6-3, 225; and Worek 6-2, 215.

"These are the kind of athletes we think can make the East Carolina football program one of the best in the nation," said McGee, the former All-American guard and Outland Trophy winner at Duke University.

McGee, 31, will be in his first season as head coach at ECU after playing for the St. Louis Cardinals of the NFL and working as an assistant at Duke, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

"When I came to ECU, I said we'd go first class," said McGee. "And we're starting by recruiting some first class young football players like Cheely, Hogue, Jakab, DiMitruk, Dadisman and Worek."

Hawkeyes Seek Perfect Season

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Iowa Hawkeyes aren't thinking about the NCAA Basketball Tournament—yet.

Coach Ralph Miller won't let that happen until after Saturday's regular season windup with Northwestern. Iowa will try to become only the second team to go through a 14-game Big Ten slate unbeaten, duplicating Ohio State in 1961.

The Hawkeyes, ranked eighth in The Associated Press poll, ran their Big Ten record to 13-0 Tuesday night—18-4 over-all—with a 113-92 rout of ... Ohio State.

"I think this team is dedicated to 14-0," Miller said. "These boys are going to be on television for their last game and we want them to have as perfect a game as possible."

The Hawks were near-perfect Tuesday. They ruined Ohio State with a full-court press at the outset and raced to a 52-36 halftime lead. Five players scored in double figures, led by John Johnson with 37, Fred Brown with 24 and Glenn Vidnovic with 22. Dave Sorenson topped the Buckeyes with 34.

Another Iowa team, Drake, won the Missouri Valley Conference title and an NCAA berth without breaking a sweat when Bradley eliminated Cincinnati, the Bulldogs' last challenger, 87-83.

The Bearcats, tied for 19th nationally, fell behind 42-28 at the half and never got closer than four points. Gene Gathers led Bradley with 21 points. Rich Schultz added 18 and little Frank Sylvester 17. Gathers and Schultz each hit six points during a 20-6 burst late in the first half.

Cincy's Jim Ard scored 20 of his 29 in the second half but the Bearcats will have to settle for a likely trip to the National Invitation Tournament.

Besides Iowa, three other NCAA teams were in action. Dayton whipped Chicago Loyola 90-73 and Long Beach State downed Nevada-Las Vegas 94-90.

but Rice's Southwest Conference champs lost to Texas A&M 91-86.

Ninth-ranked Marquette, bound for the NIT, got by Southern Illinois 75-68 and St. John's, another NIT entry, defeated Boston College 71-65.

Led by Ken May with 21 points and 20 rebounds and George Jackson with 19 points and 22 rebounds, Dayton murdered Loyola off the boards 63-39.

Long Beach State overcame an early 13-point deficit against Nevada-Las Vegas to wind up its regular season with a 23-3 record. George Trapp and Sam Robinson led the 49ers with 21 and 20 points respectively.

Texas A&M sewed up second place in the SWC by surviving a late Rice rally. The Horned Frogs led by 20 points with eight minutes left before the Owls whittled the margin to 88-84. A&M's Mike Heitmann and Rice's Gary Reist each scored 24 points.

Southern Illinois gave ninth-ranked Marquette all it could handle for 30 minutes before the Warrior opened a 13-point lead. Dean Meminger hit eight of 10 shots and scored 22 points for the Warriors, but sophomore Greg Starrick had 29 for the losers.

Bill Paultz, a 6-foot-10 center, paced St. John's past Boston College with 22 points but the Eagles' Jim O'Brien took game honors with 26, all but five in the second half.

It was a big night for Purdue's Rick Mount. He scored 37 points in the Boilermakers' 101-88 triumph over Michigan State and then was named to The AP's All-American team.

Scott, Roche Second Team A-A

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Pistol Pete Maravich, Bob Lanier, Dan Issel, Rick Mount and Calvin Murphy were selected today to the 1970 college basketball All-American team by the Associated Press.

They are so well known in the sport it is hardly necessary to add that Pistol Pete is from Louisiana State, Lanier from St. Bonaventure, Issel from Kentucky, Mount from Purdue and Murphy from Niagara. All are seniors.

In making the team for the third straight year the 6-foot-5 Maravich, the major college all-time high scorer with more than 3,500 career points, topped the voting from 384 sports writers and band broadcasters.

The 6-4 Mount and the 5-10 Murphy are repeaters from the 1969 All-American Team. Lanier, 6-11, and Issel, 6-8, moved up from the second team last season.

Charlie Scott of North Carolina, Austin Carr of Notre Dame, Artis Gilmore of Jacksonville, Rudy Tomjanovich of Michigan and John Roche of South Carolina were named as the second team this season.

Mike Maloy of Davidson, John Johnson of Iowa, and Jim McMillian of Columbia were selected for the third team along with two UCLA players, Sidney Wicks and John Vallely.

Curtis Rowe of UCLA, Rich Yunkus of Georgia Tech, Jim McDaniels of Western Kentucky, Mike Pratt of Kentucky, Howard Porter of Villanova, Dave Robisch of Kansas and Sam Lacey of New Mexico State headed the list of honorable mentions.

Maravich, who will play in the National Invitation Tournament in New York with the Bayou Tigers, was named on all but two of the 384 ballots. He got 369 first team votes and 13 seconds.

On the basis of five points for a first and two for a second Pistol Pete thus polled 1,871 points. His fancy shooting, dribbling and passing has drawn capacity crowds wherever he has played.

His game average is 47 points and his achievements this season include a career single game high of 69 points against Alabama, the highest ever for a game between major teams.

Lanier and Issel, who led St. Bonaventure and Kentucky into the NCAA championship post-season tourney, were next in the voting. Lanier polled 1,724 points with 334 firsts. Issel got 1,413, including 235 firsts.

Mount received 199 firsts and a total of 1,267 while Murphy had a total of 1,252 points including 186 firsts. Murphy is an other crowd-pleaser who led Niagara into the NCAA tourney.

Scott topped the second quintet with 987 points including 151 firsts. Carr polled a total of 855 with 119 firsts.

There was a sharp decline after that with the 7-2 Gilmore next at 425 with 73 firsts. Completing the voting for the second team, Tomjanovich had 338 points with 34 firsts while Roche had 330 with 36 firsts. Tomjanovich beat out Roche with 84 seconds to 75 for the South Carolina star.

Each player on the All-American squad, comprising the top 15, will receive a certificate from the Associated Press.

Ships Jamming Haiphong Port

Editor's Note: Daniel DeLuce of The Associated Press is the first American newspaperman in recent years to visit Haiphong, North Vietnam's chief port. DeLuce was a combat correspondent in World War II and won a Pulitzer Prize for his reporting.

By DANIEL DELUCE
Associated Press Writer
HAIPHONG, North Vietnam (AP) — Haiphong has been through hard times, damaged in more than four years of American bombing. Today North Vietnam's No. 1 port is lined with foreign ships almost as far as the eye can see.

The ships bring what North Vietnam needs to keep its industry thriving—new tractors, cranes, bulldozers and steamrollers to repair cratered roads and smashed bridges, trucks of many sizes and shapes to redevelop commercial transportation, and power generators and machine tools for the dispersed factories.

The manufacturer's names stenciled on arriving shipments look like an industrial Who's Who of the Socialist camp—the Soviet Union, Communist China, East Germany, Romania, Czechoslovakia and Poland. Freighters from other countries also call at Haiphong. The French merchant marine is perhaps a leader in this trade. This correspondent saw three freighters with bands of blue, white and red painted at the top of the smokestacks.

For a long time, North Vietnamese authorities had to skimp on essentials. Maintenance of public buildings declined but now the city theater has several coats of new paint.

Haiphong's largest park has banners urging workers to fulfill the 1960 plan and hailing the anniversary of the Vietnamese Workers' Communist party.

This correspondent also was allowed to visit the port of Hon Gai, 30 miles northeast of Haiphong at the site of Vietnam's only coal mines.

Foreign freighters were tied up in this port, too, and tall steel cranes picked up steel bins of coal and deposited them in the holds.

American bombers demolished several three-story buildings along the busiest shopping street. Many wrecked coal cars still are piled beside the railroad track leading to the waterfront. Several large resort hotels are in ruins. Many fishing boats were reported lost in sporadic strafing.

Nguyen Si Binh of the Quang Ninh Province Red Cross Association said the most tragic toll was the death of 30 persons in a Catholic church, hit during a Mass.

"We are rebuilding in Hon

Gai but only what is necessary, now," Binh said. "We must remain vigilant, always ready to fight." We have a long tradition of fighting to defend our fatherland.

Hopeful For Air Facility

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four members of Congress from North Carolina say they have been given informal information causing them to feel more optimistic about the prospects for retaining the Naval Air Rework facility at Cherry Point, N. C.

Sens. B. Everett Jordan and Sam Ervin and Reps. David Henderson and Walter B. Jones expressed their optimism to newsmen Tuesday.

They had learned sometime ago that the facility, which repairs military aircraft, was scheduled for closing under a Defense Department economy order.

Gov. Bob Scott, Rep. Charles Jonas, R-N. C., and several others met with Navy Secretary John H. Chafee recently and presented arguments against the closing. The facility employs 2,700 civilians and has a payroll of $28 million a year.

Battle Already Brewing Over Liquor Issue In '71

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — The 1971 General Assembly is 10 months away, but already a battle is brewing between a Baptist editor and a member of the North Carolina Travel Council over the liquor by the drink issue.

Marse Grant, editor of the Biblical Recorder, issued a statement Tuesday challenging the council to support a bill in the next legislature calling for a statewide election on the sale of liquor by the drink.

Grant denounced the release of a letter he had written to Robert Bingham of Boone, president of the North Carolina Young Democratic Clubs, on the liquor by the drink issue.

Grant campaigned strongly during the 1969 General Assembly against liquor by the drink legislation, and helped bring about its defeat. The travel council backed the bill.

The issue came to a head Tuesday when Hugh Morton of Wilmington, chairman of the travel council's "right to vote" committee, released letters exchanged in February by Grant and Bingham.

In a letter to the news media, Morton accused Grant of attempting "to pull political blackmail" on Bingham.

In his letter to Bingham Feb. 4, Grant was quoted as saying, "If you and the Young Democratic Clubs of North Carolina are intent on making liquor by the drink a political issue, I am sure you will be prepared to take the consequences."

In his reply, Bingham said, "Is it the Christian thing to do to attempt to browbeat party and public officials, and to try to make them believe it is politically expedient not to let the people decide these things for themselves?"

Bingham, an attorney, said he had expressed "My personal opinion that the younger voters for the most part would favor giving the people the right to vote on this and other controversial issues."

Grant included a postscript in his letter to Bingham which stated, "This is a personal letter and not for distribution in the press or elsewhere."

In his reply, Bingham said, "You have threatened to rally one million Baptists and one-half million Methodists against my organization and our party, if we do not adhere to your wishes, and under these circumstances I have an obligation to discuss your letter with my

Octagonal

Bath Uncovered

UPLYME, England (AP) — An octagonal Roman plunge bath and a complex of hot and cold rooms were unearthed on a farm near here on the Forset-Devon border.

The pool, which has a mosaic bottom, was found by members of the Devon Archaeological Society, and is the only one of its kind known in Britain. A coin found in the murals dates the building to between 323-337 A.D.

YDC executive committee and other friends.

Grant said in his statement, "Desperation tactics which failed in the 1969 General Assembly are being used once again by the promoters of liquor by the drink. It is unthinkable, but not surprising to me, that a confidential letter would be reproduced and sent to the news media along with a standard memo. One fact Mr. Morton overlooked in his memo is that Bob Bingham, the YDC president, is an employee of his, and obviously carried out his instructions."

"It is old hat to attack someone personally when you have lost the battle on an old issue," as the liquor by the drink promoters did on four straight roll call votes in the 1969 assembly.

McCarthy Plans

Leave Senate

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) — Sen. J. Edgar McCarthy, D-N.J., said he will not change his decision to retire from the Senate when his current term ends. But he is leaving open the possibility he will seek the position again.

In reply to newsmen's questions Tuesday, McCarthy, an unsuccessful contender for his party's nomination in 1964, said:

"I do not say that I will not contest the presidential election. I want to make any absolute decisions yet."

McCarthy came to Ireland to address the Historical Society of Trinity College tonight.

Appreciation Program Held At Recreation Center

The first Annual Park and Recreation Appreciation Program was held at the Recreation Center on Elm Street Monday night.

The program, planned and conducted by students of two classes, the Recreation Management and Recreation Therapy, was a tribute to the many local organizations which contribute to the betterment of the community.

Guests attending were: Webb, Physical Education, and Scott, Recreation, who presented a slide show of the Recreation Center's activities.

Also present were: Dr. R. H. Alexander, Assistant Dean of Student Affairs at ECU and a member of the Recreation Management Division of the ECU Commission on Continuing Education; Miss Carol Tucker, Secretary of the first appreciation program; and Alpha Phi Omega, Joe Balak, president of Greenville Boys Club; David Wilcox, and Cookie Williams, Assistant presented and the guests from Directors and two young men were: The Caswell Center, members, Mac Stokes, and Kingston, Guy Johnson, Currier Station, Director of Cottage Life and Roland Allsbrook, Supervisor.

Elementary Physical Education and Charles Crumpler, Assistant Supervisor, represented the Greenville City Schools. The Greenville Department of Recreation had Director Boyd Lee, Assistant Director of Recreation Charles Vincent, Mrs. Linda Burrell, program supervisor, and John Taylor, chairman of the Recreation Commission, in attendance.

Mrs. and Mrs. Walter Creekmore of the ECU Developmental Evaluation Clinic, and Jack Whitely, Director of Recreation Therapy and Rev. Herbert Waldrop, Chaplain of the Walter Jones, Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center were scheduled as guests for their respective agencies, but had to cancel due to pressing engagements, some of them out of state ones.

Students of the courses, who have during the past few months been participating in on the job training with a variety of clubs, agencies and institutions throughout eastern North Carolina, presented a series of brief program reports.

Following students presentations, representative guests gave capsule summations of what they feel had been accomplished by the efforts of the students working in their areas under their supervision, and suggested ideas that might be considered for future efforts of this sort. Without exception, the guests expressed the feeling that the young students had contributed something useful to the particular needs of their organization or institution.

Several stressed the importance of the work the students may find themselves in after graduation in one of the areas for which they are now training.

"You may not at first see much progress, but it's there," Caswell Center Cottage Parent James Koonce said. "I've worked 11 years with these retarded kids, and I wouldn't trade it for anything in the world."

Harry Allsbrook, the Director of Rehabilitation at Caledonia Prison Farm, told the students: "You did a good job with us, and without much supervision. We were well pleased with what you did, and know you will do a fine job in whatever phase of work you decide to enter."

Perhaps the most telling word of praise came from Milton Baker, a young inmate from Caledonia. Admitting that he was nervous, but speaking with conviction without notes, Baker said: "It's not often I get to speak before a crowd like this."

I'm really here to say you gave us a real lift. Your being there gave us a chance to mingle with people from outside. A lot of the fellows asked me to tell you they hope somebody will be able to come back, even if you cannot come. We like what you did for us."

Will Boost Student Aid

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Angier B. Duke Memorial, Inc., announced today it is increasing amounts granted in its financial aid program for Duke University students.

The announcement was included in the corporation's report for 1969.

The changes, effective for the current academic year, include removal of all regional restrictions. The amounts available to those chosen as Angier B. Duke Memorial Scholars were increased.

The maximum available on the basis of financial needs was increased to $3,400 a year from $3,100. The honorary stipend for students named as scholars but not requesting financial assistance was set at $500 a year. The amount for grants-in-aid to needy and deserving students was increased from $1,600 to $1,800 a year. In the case of a fellowship awarded each year for graduate study, the amount was changed from $4,000 to $4,300.

The memorial fund was established in 1925 by the late Benjamin N. Duke in memory of his son, Angier B. Duke.

Forty-two scholarships were awarded this year.

'Cash-For-Cans' Plan Is Working

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — The Adolph Coors Co. said it has collected 2½ million aluminum cans during the first six weeks of its cash-for-cans campaign against littering.

The company said it expects to buy more than 50 million cans this year under its offer to buy all aluminum containers—including its own beer cans—for 10 cents a pound.

So far, more than 112,000 pounds of aluminum cans have been turned in, resulting in payments of $11,200, mostly to civic groups.

On a great many deals, situations develop for which the art of man has not been able to devise the perfect bidding method. In those cases one must place his faith in probabilities and, when a slam is likely, he should pull himself up by his bootstraps and utter the mystic words. Others, including today's hand from a recent tournament, are suited for delicate treatment.

The opening bid of one diamond and the response of one heart are normal enough. It will be observed that, while South had no doubt there was game in hand when partner opened and his own hand contained the proper card for a two no trump response, he preferred first to test out the suit possibilities.

North having 19 points in high cards, jumped to two no trump. At this point, South diagnosed the slam. He held 15 points and partner had promised 19 or 20. However, he took the precaution to investigate the best possible final contract by bidding three clubs. North then showed his club support, after which South showed the ace of spades.

North cued the ace of hearts by bidding five hearts. Tho he would like to have bid a grand slam himself, this was as far as he dared go himself since, for all he knew, partner's clubs might have been headed by the king-jack — and he was not inclined to risk all on the chance of picking up the queen of trumps.

South bid seven clubs himself with complete confidence. He marked his partner with eight cards in the minor suits headed by ace-king, ace — and placed him with the ace of hearts and the king of spades. He could therefore visualize 11 top tricks to which he added two ruffs for a total of 13.

I came in for considerable abuse from one South player who jumped to six no trump after his partner's rebid of two no trump and only 11 tricks were scored since no squeeze could be developed. "It's your fault," he said, "you told me if I had a good opening bid and my partner opened the bidding and jumped, there was a slam; and since my hand was suited to no trump, I bid six."

In self-defense I would like to say that my rule contains the proviso that the best final contract is reached. In this case I think it will not be disputed that the club suit offers the superior contract.

The Worry Clinic Stoical Parent Hurts Kiddies

Joel is the unwitting victim of his parents' stoical outlook. For smiles, laughter and a good sense of humor are social habits that must be learned, just like piano playing. Even a telephone and a daily newspaper zoom the I.Q. of your kiddies! Don't focus solely on your child's medical health!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.
CASE M-532: Joel F., aged 5, is in kindergarten.
"Dr. Crane," his devoted teacher began, "Joel seldom laughs or shows any expression of emotion on his face."
"And I don't believe it is due to his lack of pleasure in the games of his group."
"For I think he may have copied his stolid countenance and 'poker face,' from his father and mother."

"They attended our PTA meeting last month but neither of them ever showed any animation nor did they smile or laugh."

"Dr. Crane, isn't it possible for undemonstrative and stoical parents to hamper their kiddies in that fashion?"

TELEPHONE TEST
Yes, Joel's teacher is very discerning.
For kiddies not only imitate their parents' manner of walking but they early adopt the dialect and other speech habits of mamma and papa.

And if parents are quiet, introverted or "poker faced," their kiddies likewise may inhibit facial expressions and appear as stoical as the proverbial "Wooden Indian."

It has even been found that a telephone in the house actually zooms the I.Q. (Intelligence Quotient) of children.

For when mothers talk a great deal over the phone, their children develop larger vocabularies and thus receive more verbal stimulation of their mind.

Remember, it is possible to become feeble-minded by mere deprivation of a cheerful, stimulating home environment.

For example, if a normal child with an I.Q. of 100 were shut inside a dark clothes closet till he was 6 years old, and thus received little or no mental stimulation, he would then react like a dull or feeble-minded youngster when released from his prison.

Many parents don't realize, too, that an "only" child is often deprived of thousands of social situations that arise in the home where several youngsters challenge each other and quarrel, argue, fight or joke and bring home various ideas from school.

Indeed, it has been found that the school marks and even the I.Q. of children are also higher if their parents receive a daily newspaper!

And this isn't due just to the fact such literate parents are necessarily higher in their own I.Q. than the parents in the same area who don't subscribe to a newspaper.

But more ideas, discussion and debates arise when a family read their daily newspaper!

We psychologists do not admit the inheritance of musica proficiency or artistic accomplishment or any other talent that is based on habits.

But unless a child's ears are early trained to music, as by having a piano in the home or a violin or even a harmonica, a child with as good hearing as Chopin, Paderewski or Fritz Kreisler, may then be relatively inert to music.

Mothers, don't stop merely with indoctrinating your kiddies with proper food appetites at the dinner table.

Give them a fondness for books, music, humor and imaginative tales.

And by all means, be sure to offer them daily doses of the most important vitamin of all, namely, Vitamin "R," meaning, "Religion."

Before a child even enters kindergarten, you can pretty well guarantee his desire to go on to college, become an upright moral character, and like cultural things, if you bend the twig properly!

Send for my booklet "How to Raise Your Child's School Marks," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c.

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Admission Policies Given For Kindergarten At ECU

Admission policies and the opening of an application period for the 1970-71 session of the Kindergarten at East Carolina University were announced today by the Dean of the School of Education.

The Kindergarten will be limited to 20 children, 10 boys and 10 girls. Because of the large number of applications each year, parents are urged to apply during the designated application period.

The following policies will be followed in filling the Kindergarten's 1970-71 enrollment:

(1) Age Limits — Children reaching their fifth year and not having passed their sixth year on Oct. 15 of the year in which they plan to enter will be eligible.

(2) Limitation In Number — Though enrollment is limited to 20 boys and girls, the university retains the option to consider individual cases which may be of value in laboratory situations.

(3) Continuous Enrollment —

Children admitted to Kindergarten in September will be expected to continue through the year, unless unusual circumstances arise. Children who reach their sixth birthday during the year will continue until the end of the year.

(4) Tuition — Tuition must be paid on or before the first day of the quarter. The school year is divided into three quarters.

(5) Application Dates And Forms — Applications for admission must be in the office of the School of Education by March 15, 1970. Forms may be obtained by writing, telephoning, or applying in person at the School of Education-Psychology Building. These applications must be returned to the School of Education, Box 2706, East Carolina University, Greenville, N. C. 27834.

JAIPUR, India (AP) — Zoologists at Rajasthan University have successfully sterilized a grasshopper and a cockroach in what they said could be a breakthrough in controlling India's massive insect population which destroys millions of tons of food-grain each year. The experiment, not described in detail, was said to be the first successful one of its kind.

'Scared' Of Laos Assessment

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen.

J. W. Fulbright says an assessment given him by high Nixon administration officials that

Laos is even more important than Vietnam "scared me to death."

The Arkansas Democrat,

chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, declined to identify the officials. It was learned, however, he referred to a high State Department official who twice in recent weeks made the argument in conversation with committee members.

Fulbright made the disclosure

Tuesday shortly after joining

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-

S.D., in a call for a secret Senate session on U.S. involvement in the Southeast Asian country adjoining Vietnam.

The Senate held a secret session last December in considering a proposal—later adopted—to bar American ground combat troops from being used in either

Laos or Thailand.

That was before the new wave of concern over U.S. involvement in Laos—concern triggered by a North Vietnamese offensive, reports of stepped up

U.S. bombing there, and a clash between the administration and Fulbright's committee on release of testimony at hearings on U.S. activities in Laos.

Revealing the claim about the importance of Laos, Fulbright told the Senate that "it suggests an ominous and dangerous future for the United States in that remote country.

"If Vietnam was important enough to justify the commitment of half a million American troops," Fulbright went on,

"then in this view how many more could justifiably be committed to Laos, which is one of the few worse places than Vietnam to fight a war?"

Fulbright's statement came after Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird categorically denied there has been a U.S. build-up in Laos in either civilian or military men.

Laird told newsmen at the same time that U.S. policy toward military support of the Laotian government is under continuing review. "Whether there will be a change of policy,

I would not make any prediction," he said.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, the Senate's senior Republican and high ranking member of Fulbright's committee, said he doesn't share the fear of many senators that Laos could become another Vietnam.

If such a thing happened, he said, "it would create such an upheaval in this country" that any good resulting from a firm

U.S. stand would be quickly undermined.

Aiken said the shift in North

Vietnamese attention to Laos is, in one way, a good sign because it means "North Vietnam is getting a little discouraged in the South and is devoting more attention to Laos for bargaining purposes."

McGovern said, however, that

"in spite of the painful lessons of Vietnam, we are going down the same road in Laos, and we are doing it in secret." He said

U.S. bombing strikes in Laos

"are comparable to or greater than the raids over North Vietnam at their heaviest."

Fulbright and Sen. Stuart

Symington, D-Mo., renewed their appeals for the administration to release the transcript of the hearings held on the extent of U.S. commitments in Laos.

Both said recent published reports on U.S. activities in Laos gave more information than the administration had secretly given

Congress.

Bill Would Bar Cigarette Ads On Radio, TV

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill

banning cigarette commercials

from radio and television after

Jan. 1, 1971, has cleared a major hurdle in Congress, virtually assuring prompt passage and giving antismoking forces a hard-fought victory.

"By next year, cigarette advertising will move into the history books of television," declared Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., after the legislation was approved by a joint congressional conference committee Tuesday.

"It was clear to me, as it became clear to others who worked on the legislation, that the American public will no longer tolerate the promotion of a dangerous product directly into the living rooms and family

rooms of millions of Americans," said Magnuson, chairman of the Senate Commerce

Committee.

The bill as approved by the conferees represents an almost total victory for Senate anti-smoking forces over tobacco interests in the House and broadcast lobbyists who had sought to put off the effective date.

Besides prohibiting broadcast cigarette ads, the bill provides for a new hazardous warning label on all cigarette packages and prevents the states from any further regulation. The health warning will read:

"Warning: The Surgeon General has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health."

In a concession to cigarette makers, however, the bill bars

the Federal Trade Commission

from requiring the warning to be included in all printed advertising until July 1971.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, said the FTC would be free to move after then if it determined the cigarette industry was diverting to the print media much of the $240 million it now spends on broadcast commercials.

In Lexington, Ky., Jack Lew-

yn, a spokesman for the Burley

Tobacco Growers Cooperative

Association, said it is doubtful

the bill "will hurt cigarette sales very much since TV advertising is largely a competition among brands and by its nature not intended to create new smokers."

He noted the industry "offered voluntarily to withdraw its advertising some time ago.

Thus the bill accomplishes what the cigarette industry said it would do voluntarily."

The broadcasting industry reserved immediate comment.

The bill has no effect on anti-smoking commercials: A Commerce Committee aide said the broadcasters have promised to continue these, although on a diminished basis.

Ruling Delayed On Status Of School

An extension for 30 days has been requested by the head examiner for the federal government in the case involving a decision on Greenville's Sadie Sauter School.

The Honorable Louis J. Rubin, head examiner for the government in the case involving the status of Sadie Sauter as an all-Negro school, has contacted attorneys for the plaintiff, HEW, and for the defendant, the Greenville City Schools, asking for the one month extension before he gives his ruling on the matter.

Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, Superintendent of the City Schools, states that Jerry Luck, attorney for HEW in this case, and W.W. Speight and William Brewer, attorneys for Greenville schools, both agreed to the extension of time.

"This means," Dr. Cleetwood stated, "that we will not expect to receive a final ruling on the case until April 1 or shortly thereafter."

The original hearing on this case was conducted in Washington last September 29, when members of the City School Board, the superintendent and representatives from HEW's regional office in Charlottesville, Virginia appeared before Rubin to present their arguments in the case.

KIDS. THE NEW SUPER 55 COULD GET US ALL IN PLENTY OF HOT WATER

It's a parental plot. The people who invented water heaters (you can bet your marbles they're all parents) have come up with a new one. It's better. For parents. Because it makes more hot water than old-type water heaters. And it makes it faster than most of them.

They call it the "Super 55." And they made it electric so the finky thing would be dependable. In fact, if your parents get the proper size "Super 55" for your family, there's hardly any chance you'll ever run out of hot water. Almost never!

Just think about it. With the new "Super 55," there's no more use in hiding until everybody else has taken their baths and the hot water's run out.

If we don't stop this thing now, every parent in the country might get a new "Super 55."

Enough hot water to keep every kid in the country unbearably clean. It's a dirty shame.

Roadside Shrubbery For Bethel

BETHEL — The four approaches to Bethel are to be given a face-lifting by beautification to include planting of shrubbery.

Approval of plans to effect this was made by the members of the town board meeting Tuesday night. Based on ideas presented by the Bethel Garden Club and approved by the State Highway Commission, the board voted to provide shrubbery required for the beautification program.

The board also authorized the purchase of a new fire-water wagon for the town.

A Raleigh concern presented a method whereby Bethel can start work on plans for a low-rental housing program. This matter is being taken under advisement and the board is expected to make a decision at next month's meeting.

Two other matters were also placed under advisement — a petition to pave a dirt street and a request for water and sewage facilities to be provided for a development going on in the south side of Bethel town.

Community Ban Plan Now Law

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A new state law permits communities to ban topless dancers and other types of topless entertainment.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller signed it without comment Tuesday a few hours after the Senate gave it final legislative approval.

It is an addition to the law section that permits a woman to appear without covering on her breasts in a play, exhibition or entertainment.

THE PENNEY STORY

Should you throw away your iron or keep it as a door stop?

By ROBERTA NASH

Perhaps your iron isn't obsolete just yet. But with Penn-Prest, most women never iron at all. They just let their dryer do the ironing.

(Of course, if you haven't a tumble dryer, you may have to touch up in some cases. But just a touch up.)

Please don't confuse Penn-Prest with some other 'permanent press' process that may have disappointed you. This one is different.

The J.-C. Penney Company stands behind it.

Double her carefree life in
PENN-PREST® PANT SHIFTS

2.99

She'll take spring in a hop, skip and jump in pant shifts, sun-splashed with color. They are fashioned of cotton or blends of polyester and cotton but all have the iron-free Penn-Prest® finish. Multi-color plaids, unique checks, conventional prints... some light, some dark. Step-in styling with novel details. Keep her in fashion with pant shifts... keep yourself free from ironing. Sizes 4 to 6X, 7 to 14. Why not buy several?

Girls' skirts tie up with ruffy blouses

3.99 each

Frills and ruffles outline the necks, flutter down the fronts and surround the cuffs of these long-sleeved white blouses. Made of polyester and cotton, they're Penn-Prest® for your comfort (Imagine not having to iron ruffles). Sizes 7 to 14 3.99.

The skirts are made of a blend of rayon and silk in dressy styles to combine with fussy blouses. Side pleats, yoke tops, laced fronts are some of the unusual styles. Blue, maize, pink or green in sizes 7 to 14 3.99.

THE PENNEY STORY

How to shop with your husband

By ROBERTA NASH

Here are some random thoughts from one observer:

(1) Husbands are not known for patience. Tell yours how long you expect your shopping trip to take. Fair is fair. (2) Don't carry "togetherness" too far. If he's after a power drill and you want a bra, split up.

(3) But be punctual. If you say you'll meet in half-an-hour, make it half-an-hour. (4) And be businesslike. Much as you'd love to browse about in our lovely dress department, save it for a husbandless day.

Men's Dress Shirts with long or short sleeves

THE PENNEY STORY

"The most important thing we sell is satisfaction."

By ROBERTA NASH

Year by year, since 1902 when Mr. Penney began the business, our stores have carried more and more different kinds of merchandise.

But one thing we offered in 1902 is still our most important item today: Your satisfaction.

If ever we slip up, as human beings sometimes do, please let us know what we did wrong so we can put things right. Please. It's much more important to us than it is to you.
