Findings And Recommendations Of Citizens' Committee Now Compiled Into One Basic Report

By JERRY RAYNOB

Reflector Staff Writer

Suggestions and recommendations of the Greenville Citizens' Committee, an outgrowth of many hours of meeting with students, parents, faculty and administration members of the schools, has been compiled into one basic report.

The committee, an ad hoc, one formed as an emergency measure to deal with the tense situation at Rose High School following the January 12 disturbance, functioned as a listening post to gather facts and to make recommendations to be considered by the public and the school system as possible means of relieving the tension and to build better understanding.

With their work completed after a series of three reports to the public, the committee assembled the completed reports into a spiral booklet form.

This report, which is being given the widest distribution possible, contains a preamble written by one of the Co-Chairmen, Dr. Robert Lee Humber.

"In every generation there are issues which command the highest priorities in the affairs of men. At such moments, every citizen is summoned to participate in the historic decisions tapping at the door or else to run the risk of the historian's verdict that in his day and time he had failed to live. Participation is the imperative responsibility of all citizens, and freedom to think and act in an orderly manner is the guaranteed birthright of every member of a democratic society."

The ultimate goal, expressed by Dr. Humber in the final paragraph of the preamble is "to propose measures that could alleviate the present situation and prevent the recurrence of racial friction."

Throughout its long hours hearing hundreds of citizens of all ages, of both races, the committee members repeatedly emphasized that the committee and its work is only the beginning of continued efforts which must be exerted before fulfillment of what all citizens basically hope for — an atmosphere of peace in which concerned people can work for a better community — can be established.

Dr. Humber stated this need in his final paragraph "Violence in our land has no valid role to play in man's climb upward. Respect for authority is basic to survival and undergirds any organized society. Infraction of school rules or public laws cannot be tolerated or excused. Sources for the correction of grievances are set forth in the report... it is an honest effort to deal with realities."

The first two reports, dated February 1 and 7, respectively, are short ones setting forth reasons for discontent and offering recommendations for immediate action which the committee felt would be effective as a beginning. The final report is broader, delving into community backgrounds which have been a factor contributing to unrest and misunderstandings. The final report, like the first two, suggest certain remedies for public consideration.

In addition to the preamble and the three separate reports, the complete assembled report includes reprints of remarks made by, Dr. Craig Phillips, State Superintendent of the State Department of Public Instruction and Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, Superintendent of Greenville City Schools. A collection of newspaper articles on the Rose High situation, local and state, are the final items in the booklet report.

The committee members have expressed a desire for the widest possible distribution of the definitive report. Since publication of this report has been through private contribution of funds, the number assembled is limited and are being distributed to schools, churches and other public groups where it is hoped interested persons will have an opportunity to read it.

Crop Hail Rates Rising

RALEIGH (AP) — Crop hail insurance rates will go up in 13 North Carolina counties and decline in three others.

The changes, based on loss experience in the state's 100 counties, will mean a net increase of $243,762 a year. They were approved Tuesday by Insurance Commissioner Edwin Lanier.

Lanier also approved some insurance industry proposed amendments to its multiple peril crop insurance program.

The proposed changes in hail insurance rates by counties include (per $100 of coverage):

Increases: $1, Alamance and Orange; 50 cents, Beaufort, Cumberland, Duplin, Edgecombe, Hoke, Lee, Lenoir, Pitt, Sampson, Stokes and Yadkin.

Decreases: 50 cents, Surry; 25 cents, Brunswick and Greene.

Lanier said the rates, proposed in a filing Jan. 20 by the industry, "are fair, reasonable and not unfairly discriminatory."

The revised multiple peril plan is designed to be more competitive with coverage offered by the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. The new program differs from the old in that it includes for the first time a premium discount provision similar to one in the federal plan.

Committee's work was not complete.

He said the commission should continue to install underground electric lines in subdivision within the city limits according to its present policy. Until the committee's work is done, he suggested that developments outside the city be brought before the commission for final decision regarding underground lines.

Army Captain Killed In Firefight Combat Pay For U.S. Men Assisting Laos

By JAMES PHILLIPS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, apparently anxious to head off charges of a credibility gap, has divulged more details about American involvement in war-torn Laos.

The latest announcement came Tuesday when the Pentagon disclosed that American military advisers in Laos draw $65 monthly combat pay.

The stipend goes to U.S. servicemen in Laos even though the neutral nation is not considered a "combat zone," the Pentagon said. A spokesman added the extra pay "reflects the fact that personnel receiving this... are vulnerable to hostile action in hazardous situations."

The announcement about combat pay was "in line with our desire to make increased information available to the American public" about U.S. involvement in Laos, said Defense spokesman Jerry Friedheim.

The move to disclose more information came in the aftermath of a controversy over President Nixon's statement that no American servicemen had died in Laos in ground combat operations.

Soon after Nixon made the remark, it was revealed that an Army Capt. Joseph K. Bush Jr. had been killed in a firefight with the North Vietnamese on the edge of the Plain of Jars on Feb. 10, 1969.

The administration contended the death was due to "hostile fire" as Bush and an unidentified sergeant tried to defend the compound.

Bush, the Pentagon said Tuesday, was awarded the Silver Star for his bravery when he "attempted singlehandedly to attack the enemy raiders, firing as he advanced and killing two of the enemy."

Other Americans in the compound managed to escape.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler repeated Tuesday that he sees no conflict between Nixon's statement that no American had died in ground combat operations and the fact that Bush received combat pay and was awarded the nation's third highest decoration for bravery.

Virtually all servicemen in Vietnam as well as those stationed along the Demilitarized zone in Korea receive combat pay, the Pentagon said.

The Defense Department said that the 228 military personnel among the 1,040 Americans working for the government in Laos do not receive certain income tax benefits related to service in a combat zone.

In another development, Arthur Z. Gardiner, executive director of International Voluntary Services, a private Peace Corps-type organization, said six of its young volunteers have died in Laos during the past four years.

Four of them were shot, Gardiner said.

The IVS sends volunteers into areas where the Peace Corps has been evicted, Gardiner said, adding that none are involved in clandestine operations of the Central Intelligence Agency or other intelligence arms of the government.

Maryland Courthouse Bombed Early Today; Links Suspected

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — A powerful explosion attributed by authorities to a time bomb tore a huge hole in the Dorchester County Courthouse early today.

A state official who declined to be named said he thought the blast was "directly connected" with a car explosion Monday night which killed two Negroes near Bel Air, Md.

The car blew up a few hours after the opening of the trial in Bel Air of black militant H. Rap Brown on charges arising from racial disturbances here in 1967.

The courthouse explosion ripped a hole 30 feet across in the front of the two-story 118-year-old building. There were no injuries.

Sheriff Ira Johnson, who said the device had been placed in a women's rest room on the second floor, asked for an Army demolition team from Ft. Meade, Md., to investigate.

He said the building was locked Tuesday afternoon when county offices closed and that the explosive apparently was planted in the rest room before then.

Johnson added that a policeman had made a routine check of the building's locked doors minutes before the explosive charge went off.

The state official who requested anonymity expressed the view, without elaboration, that the courthouse explosion was "retaliation" for the two deaths in the Bel Air car blast.

One of the dead was Ralph Featherstone, 31, a friend of Brown and his associate in civil rights campaigns. The second man was unidentified.

Col Thomas Smith of the state police said it was believed the explosive which killed them was "being transported in the car" by the victims, but authorities did not rule out the possibility that a bomb had been planted in the automobile.

A source close to the investigation who declined to be identified released a type-written note he said was found on Featherstone's body. The note, containing some misspellings, said: "To America

"I'm playing head-up mudder. And I'm playing for keeps cause when the deal goes down I'm gon be standing in your chest screaming like Tarzan, and the looser pays the cut. Dynamite is my response to your justice. Guns and bullets are my answers to your killers and oppressors and victory is my sermon in your death. For my people I'll chase you into the pit of hell with both barrels smoking and may the best man win and God bless the loser."

"Power than peace."

The author of the note and its origin were not known, the source said.

The whereabouts of the 25-year-old Brown remained a mystery. His presence had not been required at the Monday opening of his trial on charges of arson and inciting to riot.

William M. Kunstler, Brown's attorney, obtained a postponement of further proceedings to next Monday after telling the court Tuesday the car blast "can't help but affect the trial."

The trial was sent to Bel Air, 70 miles from Cambridge, on a change of venue after authorities expressed fear of new disturbances if it took place in Cambridge, where two blocks of buildings were burned in the 1967 disorder.

In Cambridge State's Atty. William B. Yates, the trial prosecutor, said when told of the courthouse explosion it was "odd and peculiar that there's two of them," but that it was "too early to speculate on their connection."

Kunstler declined to say whether he had been in contact with Brown. He said he telephoned his client's wife in New York Tuesday to warn her husband to "keep out of Bel Air."

Witness Won't Talk

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Susan Denise Atkins, whose testimony before a grand jury led to indictment of six in the bizarre Tate-LaBianca slayings will not repeat the account at her trial, her newly chosen lawyer says.

"I will keep her off the stand," attorney Dave Shinn said after a motion was filed Tuesday to allow him to take over from her former attorney, Richard Caballero. "She will deny all her previous statements."

Deputy Dist. Atty. Aaron H. Stovitz, the chief prosecutor in the Tate-LaBianca case, said her change of attorneys would not affect the case against Miss Atkins.

"Her repudiation will not stand up because most of what she has said has been corroborated by other witnesses and other evidence," Stovitz said.

Miss Atkins had described in a copyright interview the slayings of actress Sharon Tate and four house guests last Aug. 8 and of market owner Leno LaBianca and his wife the next night.

Bruce Koonce of Greenville, Henry T. Smith of Fountain, and Eli Joyner of Farmville, the State elections board said they were re-named to their posts because of their familiarity with the present registration system in the county, and the fact that Pitt is in a transition period, moving from an old registration system to a loose leaf, permanent system and full-time registration.

Pitt County Commissioners, in an informal letter to Alex Brock, executive secretary of the State elections board, dated February 12, suggested that the three men be retained on the Board of Elections.

Signed by J. Vance Perkins, chairman of the board, the commissioners' letter said: "Realizing that it will soon be time for the appointment of the Board of Elections of Pitt

Sees Defeat Of Air Pollution

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Louis J. Fuller, retiring this month as head of the Los Angeles Air Pollution Control District, says, "Air pollution is losing the battle and we're winning for a change."

"Certainly by 1974, the man on the street will know the difference," Fuller told the county Board of Supervisors Tuesday.

Fuller usually has given gloomy forecasts since he took over as head of the district in 1965. Asked the reason for his newfound optimism, he said: "Mostly the progress made in developing ways of controlling emissions from cars."

The appointments are for a two-year period.

Sewer Outfall Fatal To Fish

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Hundreds of dead fish were reported by fishermen Tuesday near an industrial and residential sewer outfall in Vancouver Harbor.

One man said herring, flounder, cod and smelt suddenly began jumping and some landed on docks and nearby floats.

Two men aboard a tugboat said they saw a greenish effluent bubble from the outfall just before the fish started jumping.

Young Cambodians Violently Protest

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Young demonstrators protesting the infiltration of Viet Cong troops into Cambodia's border provinces attacked the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese embassies today.

Embassy cars were burned at both establishments, and propaganda documents and other papers were thrown from the office windows. Both buildings seemed to be deserted when the demonstrators appeared.

Cambodia is one of the few countries to have diplomatic relations with both North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government, and Premier Pham Van Dong of North Vietnam has been invited to visit Phnom Penh in May.

Most of the demonstrators were young people protesting the presence in Cambodian border provinces of Viet Cong troops from neighboring South Vietnam.

The demonstrators carried anti-Viet Cong signs. One said "Dirty Viet Cong, give up your stupid idea of Vietnamizing Cambodia."

The official Khmer News Agency reported earlier that demonstrations against Viet Cong infiltration were held Sunday in Svay Rieng Province, on the border with South Vietnam.

During the early years of the Vietnam war, when it appeared to him that the Viet Cong and North Vietnam were going to win, Cambodia's ruler, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, publicly ignored the presence on his territory of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces and repeatedly castigated the United States and the Saigon government for any intrusions by their forces across his border.

With the shift in recent years of the military tide in South Vietnam, Prince Sihanouk has grown increasingly friendly toward the United States and has shown increasing concern about the Communist intruders into his country.

The prince wrote last month in a magazine he publishes that unless the United States maintains a presence in Southeast Asia, all of the Indochinese peninsula will be taken over by Hanoi and Peking. "We will become the Czechoslovakias of Asia," he said.

Sihanouk is visiting Paris and would not comment on the attack on embassies. But a spokesman for him said, "Inhabitants of the capital protested against the Viet Cong as they have protested against American bombing."

"That doesn't mean that we are for one camp or the other," he added. "We are neutral. We intend to remain ourselves: neither for the free world or the Socialist camp."

Utilities Adopt Mailing 2nd Delinquent Notices

By ALVIN TAYLOR

Reflector Managing Editor

Utilities Commissioners last night approved mailing second notices concerning delinquent accounts and to increase the charge for restoring service after cut-off.

The action was taken upon recommendation of Director Charles Horne. He told the commission that if the commission continued to deliver second notices concerning delinquent accounts an extra vehicle and additional personnel would be required.

The charge to restore service was increased from $2.50 to $5. The motion was made by Commissioner E. Hoover Taft, who suggested that whenever possible some attitude be allowed in hardship cases.

During the discussion Taft said that he felt the $5 charge was fair. "The only problem is we are putting it on people who can least afford it," he said. Horne answered that that was not always the case. "Some just don't pay until they receive the second notice," he stated.

Commissioners also decided to mail the second notices in envelopes, rather than the folded post cards which were proposed.

Dr. Howard Gradis, chairman of the committee to consider policies for installation of underground lines in new subdivision, reported that the

Miss Valinda Whichard Is Bride Should Teenager See Older Man?

In a candlelight ceremony Sunday afternoon in the First Free Will Baptist Church of Greenville, Miss Valinda Whichard became the bride of Frank Cox Marston Jr.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William Harvey Whichard of Greenville and Mrs. Frank Cox Marston of Kinston and the late Mr. Marston.

The Rev. Floyd B. Cherry, pastor of the bride, officiated at the ceremony.

A program of music by Mrs. Ruth Taylor, organist, and Mrs. Ruth Cotten West, soloist, was presented prior to the ceremony. Mrs. West sang "O Promise Me," "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee," and "The Lord's Prayer" as benediction.

The background of the church was complimented with tall standards of emerald greenery centered with a fifteen semi-circle candelabra flanked by pyramidal candelabra overflowing with bouquets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was dressed in a formal gown of white satin peau de soie featuring a sweetheart neckline and full chantilly lace Bishop sleeves. The front panel of the bodice was overlaid with chantilly lace with seed pearls and sequins accenting the bodice and wide lace-covered cuffs. The back of the gown was slightly gathered at the waistline and fell into a chapel train. The center back waistline featured two white satin peau de soie roses made by Mrs. Julius Whichard, aunt of the bride. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Her chapel length veil of silk illusion was attached to a headpiece of silk organza petals accented with teardrop pearls. She carried a full cascade bouquet of phalaenopsis and cattleya orchids, tips of English ivy tied with moss green velvet.

Her gown and veil were designed and made by the mother of the bride.

Mrs. Donna Kernery of Goldsboro was matron of honor and Miss Ann McKnight of Kinston was maid of honor. Twin sisters of the bride, Jane and Elaine Whichard, were bridesmaids.

The attendants wore floor length dresses of primrose pink mossette crepe fashioned after the bride's gown with short capped sleeves. Their veils were of primrose pink silk illusion attached to circular headpieces of crushed petals of mossette crepe.

The honor attendants carried nosegays of spring flowers in shades of yellow, blue, pink and green tied with moss green velvet streamers. The bridesmaids carried bouquets fashioned after the honor attendants'.

Jack Marston of Wrightsville Beach, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were John Corey of Stokes, cousin of the bride, Melvin Oettinger, Dorsey Tyndall and Lynn Williams, all of Kinston, and Mike Boch of Greenville.

John Abbott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Abbott, served as ring bearer. He carried a satin pillow with sprays of spring flowers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Whichard chose a two-piece street length ensemble of mauve pink worsted silk with matching accessories. Mrs. Marston wore a street length dress of aqua silk and lace with matching accessories. Both mothers wore white orchid corsages.

Following the ceremony, guests were received in the vestibule of the church.

For traveling, the bride changed into a yellow crepe dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Following a southern wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Kinston.

Mrs. Marston attended East Carolina University and is employed by S.M.S., Inc., Kinston. Her husband attended East Carolina University. He is presently employed with Export Leaf Tobacco Co.

After-Rehearsal Party

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Corey and Mr. and Mrs. B. Marshall Whitehurst entertained Saturday night at an after-rehearsal party in honor of the Marston-Whichard wedding party at the Whitehurst home.

Pink gladioli and burning candles were used in decorating the house. The bride's table was covered with a linen cloth centered with white snapdragons, pink carnations, baby breaths, pom poms with pink candles. A three-tiered wedding cake was placed on one end of the table.

After the bride couple cut the first slice of cake, it was served by Mrs. William Harvey Whichard. Punch was poured by Mrs. Pauline Marston.

Miss Linda Corey presided at the bride's register.

The bride-elect was presented a corsage of white mums.

Girl Scout Bakes Prize Carrot Cake

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor
In Port Washington, N.Y., Liv Haselbach is well known for her good Carrot Cake.

When Liv was in 6th grade, her cake won a prize in a Girl Scout community bake-off. The recipe for the cake itself came from one of her father's Swiss relatives. The recipe for the marzipan carrots that decorate the cake is one her mother learned to make in an 8th-grade domestic-science course in Norway.

We made the cake and the decoration in our own kitchen and they were both a big success. Stored in the refrigerator, the cake stayed moist for a week or so.

If you bake this cake for company, do make the marzipan carrots to go with it. This marzipan tastes so much better than bought marzipan. And the carrot shapes are so attractive and amusing. One caution: the recipe for the marzipan carrots makes more than is needed for decoration; so pass around the surplus just as you would candy. If there are any leftover, wrap them tightly in transparent plastic wrap, store them in the refrigerator and they'll stay beautifully fresh and soft.

LIV'S CARROT CAKE
2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cinnamon
2 cups sugar
1 cup corn oil
4 large eggs
2 cups grated (medium fine) carrots, lightly packed (about 4 medium carrots)
½ cup chopped (medium fine) pecans
½ cup Chopped (medium fine) walnuts

Glaze, see recipe below
Marzipan Carrots, see recipe below
Grease a 10-inch angel food cake pan.

On wax paper, sift together the flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and cinnamon. In a large mixing bowl, with an electric beater at medium speed, beat together the sugar and oil for two minutes. With beater at low speed, add sifted dry ingredients alternately with eggs, beginning and ending with dry ingredients and beating after each addition. Stir in carrots and nuts. Turn into prepared pan.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until cake tester inserted in center of cake comes out clean—about one hour. (Do not open oven door during baking.)

Place cake in pan on wire rack to cool for five minutes. With a small metal spatula loosen cake from sides and tube; turn out on wire rack. Cool completely. Top of cake sinks slightly toward center tube so you may want to let the cake cool bottom side up and use the bottom side as the top.

Place cake on serving plate. Pour Glaze over cake; with a pastry brush spread Glaze letting it run down sides of cake.

Before serving, arrange 10 Marzipan Carrots over top of cake.

GLAZE
2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
4 to 4½ tablespoons water
¼ teaspoon almond extract
Mix together the sugar, 4 tablespoons water and extract. If necessary, add more water to make a thick pouring consistency. Makes 2-3 cups.

MARZIPAN CARROTS
1½ cups (about) sifted confectioners' sugar
1 cup finely ground blanched almonds
1 egg white
4 teaspoons yellow food coloring
3 drops red food coloring
3 drops water

In a medium mixing bowl stir together 1 cup of the sugar, the almonds and egg white. Knead in as much of the remaining sugar (or more sugar if necessary) to make mixture easy to shape. On wax paper, pat into a

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I became friendly with some new neighbors about our age and we like them a lot. We have children the ages of their children.

The only problem is that they will call us and say, "Why don't you feed your kids early and we'll do the same with ours, and then come on over and have supper with us."

We have four kids and they have three. They always manage to get rid of theirs, but we don't like to get rid of ours. We prefer being invited out as a family. Our children are not monsters, Abby, and we enjoy family type parties—kids and all.

Do you think it is right of this couple to want only US and not our kids? When we invite them, we always include their children, but they say "We've had enough of kids all day. Let's make this an ADULT party." What is your opinion?

DEAR ABBY: I wish I had the courage to send the following letter to my "boss." Perhaps if you print it, she'll see it and recognize herself.

"Dear Mrs. —: While you work outside your home I have been caring for your two small children. They are sweet, but rather trying at times, displaying the same jealousies and hostilities found in most siblings.

I am well paid, but this is just a job with me and I cannot give your children the same affection I gave my own children when they were small. I am hired help—not their mother.

Your children resent the fact that you leave them all day. They seem to sense that you are gone from them because you WANT to be, not because you HAVE to be.

It is obvious that your husband has provided you with all the material things your heart desires, but you prefer to "work" because your "job" offers more excitement than your role as a mother.

One day you may become bored with the "business world," and decide to return home and raise your own children. And if you do, I hope it won't be too late."

"SUBSTITUTE MOTHER"

CONFIDENTIAL TO SOLVENT IN SAVANNAH: Money isn't everything. Sometimes it's not even enough.

NOTE: Use a food grinder, electric blender or a rotary-type hand-operated nut grater for grinding the almonds.

If you want to make just 10 carrots to decorate the Swiss Carrot Cake, mix together 9 drops yellow food coloring, 1 drop red food coloring and 1 drop water for painting them. Use the remainder of the marzipan to shape and color any way you like.

Mix together yellow and red food coloring and water. Using a clean small water-color paint brush or a cotton swab, paint marzipan carrots with the mixture. Use tiny sprigs of parsley for the carrot tops. Makes about 30. Use 10 to decorate cake; pass remaining as candy.

Washing Upholstered Furniture Is Easy

Every once in a while it is necessary to look critically at upholstered furniture to decide whether it needs to be cleaned. If so, this needn't be a "big" job — if you just go about it the right way.

Plastic upholstery is eminently washable, of course. If in doubt the washability of fabric upholstery, it is wise to make a test before you start on an entire piece. Dip a damp cloth into thick suds and rub a small section on the back of a chair or couch, where it won't show if water causes any change in the color or texture.

If the fabric passes its test, begin by putting a handful of soap or detergent into a bowl with just enough warm water to make it wet. Whip this mixture with an egg beater or an electric mixer to make "dry" suds that stand up as stiff as whipped cream — so there will be no excess water to soak into the upholstery.

Put some of the dense suds on a sponge or a soft brush and lightly scrub one small section of the upholstery at a time. Then use a rubber scraper or spatula to lift off the dirty suds, and drop these on a newspaper to be disposed of later. Repeat, scrubbing same section of the upholstery with clean suds. Next, wipe that same section with a clean cloth dipped into warm rinse water and wrung out until it is nearly dry. Remember, you don't want the excess water soaking into the upholstery.

Keep on scrubbing, wiping, and rinsing until the entire piece of furniture is clean — using only clean suds, clean water, and clean cloths. Then wrap a clean cloth around a ruler, dip it into the "dry" suds, and wash down between the seat and the arms or the back of the chair or couch. Use a clean, damp cloth around the ruler to rinse the "cracks" the same way.

For quick drying of your nice, clean upholstered furniture, open the window, set an electric fan nearby, or turn on an air conditioner.

WORLD'S TALLEST MAN TO BE AT COZART'S SUPER MARKET

FRIDAY AFTERNOON, MARCH 13

FROM 4 UNTIL 5 O'CLOCK (1-HR.)

What's it like to be the world's tallest man? Shoppers will have an opportunity to learn straight from the Giant's mouth when Henry Hite, 8' 2" tall, visits these area supermarkets:

Billed as the Wilson Giant, Hite will give away pictures and autographs when he appears on behalf of the Wilson's Certified Meats. His wardrobe includes a size 8-1/4 jeweled gold crown and a 7' long scarlet robe along with more conventional items such as size 22 shoes, 19-1/2 shirts, and trousers twice ordinary size.

Like Gulliver, Hite finds that life in a Lilliputian world must be custom-made. Shoes cost $90.00 a pair and suits are a bargain at just $250.00. Home means 9' doors, 12' ceilings and giant-size furniture. "Handkerchiefs," Hite insists, "are the only things that I can buy ready-made."

Hite confesses that he loves to travel — as long as it's not by overnight train. Special accommodations are required wherever he goes for a simple thing as a good night's sleep. Usually, two beds are pushed together so that Hite can stretch out. "I can sleep longer than most people," he quips.

Woman's Club Program Given By Students

The Woman's Club program was given by four Rose High School students on Friday afternoon. The students were winners in the local Fine Arts Festival.

Giving the program were Johnny Cassick, vocal, Steve Aldridge, vocal, Linda Shearin, piano, and Meg Sencindiver, public speaking.

The club also sponsored Bruce Frazier, undergraduate student at ECU, in piano composition, Ruby Murchinson, sewing, and Carol Hardy, scholarship, from Stokes High School. They represented the club in Washington in competition on the district level.

The business session was presided over by Mrs. George Clapp, president, and reports were given. She announced that $100 had been given to the club by the Junior Woman's Club of Greenville. Miss Eunice McGee gave the meditation.

Mrs. Clapp, Mrs. George Snyder, Mrs. Nancy Willard and Miss Agnes Fullilove were named delegates to the state convention on April 21-24 in Winston-Salem. Mrs. C. M. Respass and Mrs. John Miller were named as alternates.

Prior to the meeting, a social hour was held. Hostesses were Mrs. R. E. Laughter, Mrs. Ethel Williams, Mrs. J. E. Ricks, Mrs. Troy Rouse and Mrs. H. L. Andrews.

Shower Given Bride-Elect

Bride-elect Betty Lou McLawhorn was honored at a miscellaneous shower Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Bill Highsmith.

Hostesses were Mrs. Faye Cannon and Mrs. Highsmith. Upon arrival, the honoree and her mother, Mrs. W.B. Highsmith, received corages of white miniature mums.

An arrangement of white pom poms, snapdragons and Baker's fern centered the dining room table. The table was covered with a lace cloth with single white lighted tapers.

Punch was poured by Mrs. Beulah Allen. Approximately 40 guests registered in the guest book.

More Hope For Future Years

It is highly significant for Pitt County that the United Fund finally topped its goal this year for the first time ever.

J. Brantley Speight, president of the Pitt United Fund reported last week that collections and pledges for 1970 totalled $125,078.94. This was $2,024.64 above the established goal of $123,054.30.

"I really have no words nor the ability to fully express my appreciation for what has been done," Speight said in making the announcement. "I was told when I accepted the presidency that all the people we'd call on would respond, and that's the way it turned out."

For years the United Fund has been coming

Crippled, But Not Not Finished

(This guest column was written for the N.C. Association of Afternoon Dailies by Charles B. Pegram, from the Hickory Daily Record.)

By CHARLES B. PEGRAM

HICKORY — It would have felled a man of lesser stature, this fall from a five-story scaffold that resulted in total paralysis from the waist down. But it did not stop Homer Lee Cole of Pleasant Garden, of near Greensboro.

So extensive has been his service to others that he was chosen one of Five Outstanding Young Men of North Carolina in 1969 by the State Jaycees, and announced at a banquet in Hickory.

He was a steelworker with a heavy construction firm when the injury befell him in May, 1961. For six months he languished in a hospital, and then was given mandatory retirement on full medical disability.

Cole learned to negotiate with a wheel chair and crutches, and returned to his trailer home at Pleasant Garden. One of his first moves was to join the Pleasant Garden Baptist Church.

Now without gainful employment, he was persuaded to move his trailer on-site to the Pleasant Garden Community Center under construction and to become resident caretaker. As construction proceeded, he pounded nails and helped paint while building his own home, and moved there shortly after the community center was completed.

Through his own initiative, Cole organized a man's basketball program in his church, and with his own hands converted an old church building into an acceptable practice area for the team and for youth recreation. He was now well on his way to becoming a full-time community worker.

In 1962 Cole became director of his church's Royal Ambassador program for young boys, organized and coached a church softball team which won its league championship, and organized and directed the softball program for the Piedmont Baptist Athletic Union which consolidated the athletic efforts of some 30 churches. In 1963 he entered and coached two teams in this basketball league, which he also was instrumental in organizing.

In 1964 his activities broadened beyond affiliation with church groups. Armed with ideas, he approached the Pleasant Garden Jaycees for support in organization of a football team for non-school players, but was turned down. Discouraged but not defeated, Cole scraped up some $500 from his own pocket, bought complete football uniforms, organized and coached a team of 17 boys from the community, and entered them in a local Mite League. He coached while positioned on his knees.

In 1965 he organized a Midget team to give recreational opportunity to a different age group, contributed $300 of his own money to suit them up, and coached both the Mites and Midgets. After one season he had to drop the Midget team, because the coaching job was just too big.

In 1966 Cole increased his activities by becoming coach of the Jaycee Little League team, and guided them to a championship in one tournament, runner-up in two others.

He had only one Mite football team, but he organized the parents sufficiently to sponsor, staff, and stage a Benefit Bowl, complete with printed programs, in order to finance the team. The bowl was successful, and Cole organized a banquet to honor the players. He was still coaching one softball team and two basketball teams that were entered in the Piedmont Baptist Athletic Union Leagues.

Also in 1966 he became a Sunday School teacher in the junior boys department, and was pressed into service as a Training Union leader. During the summer of 1966 he served two weeks as chief cook at a state-wide Youth for Christ summer camp.

In 1967 he was involved in Little League action, church softball and basketball team competition, and reorganization of the Midget football team, coaching all of them, with a little help. His Benefit Bowl game was again a success, and he provided a banquet for the two gridiron squads. This program had now grown to such financial end of his own pocket. The Jaycees did not turn him down when they were approached the second time to sponsor the project.

Little League and church basketball action continued in 1968. That summer, Cole's Royal Ambassador boys sold donuts and washed cars to earn a large portion of money necessary to finance a trip for nine of them to the RA national convention in Oklahoma City. Cole took them, of course.

The routine continued through the year: chief cook, Sunday school teacher, Training Union leader, Midget and Mite football teams, Benefit Bowl, awards banquet. Then he called upon the Jaycees — an organization he joined — to help run three basketball leagues with 12 community church teams entered. He close enough to its annual goal to keep things going, but each year the drive fell a little short of the amount that had been set.

This year, finally, the United Fund drive not only met its goal, but exceeded it.

There is hope now that this fine record can be repeated in future years because it has been done once. Too, new industries are coming to Greenville and Pitt County and this seems to spur giving to United Fund.

A number of worthwhile agencies are going to benefit because Pitt County citizens assumed their responsibilities to United Fund. They include: American Red Cross, Association for the Blind, Association for Retarded Children, Boy Scout of America, Carolinas United Community Service, Girl Scouts, Mental Health, Salvation Army and 4-H Clubs.

President Speight, Campaign Chairman J. Curtis Hendrix and all the people who worked so faithfully on this year's United Fund campaign should be commended for their outstanding efforts. We can hope for a repeat performance next year now that these men and women have shown that it can be done.

Two Germanies Need Continuing Dialogue

West Germany and East Germany are at last talking to each other, although the initial talks got off to a rocky start.

Talks on arrangements for the chancellors of the two countries to meet were broken off when West Germany would not agree for Chancellor Willy Brandt to stay out of West Berlin when he came to East Berlin.

Like so many negotiations between communist and western nations, the talks between the two Germanies are delicate at this stage.

Yet dialogue is needed between the two parts of the divided nation and perhaps this has at least started.

Nixon Reform Taking Shape

By ROWLAND EVANS and

ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — When top officials of the Nixon administration gathered in the Green Room of the White House last Wednesday to be briefed on the long-awaited executive reorganization plan, some Cabinet members felt their worst fears had been realized.

Two outspoken former Governors — John Volpe, Secretary of Transportation, and George Romney, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development — openly complained that the plan would reduce their authority to the benefit of the White House staff. Other less vocal Cabinet officers fully shared their apprehension.

That may, in fact, be the final result of the plan devised by the President's Council on Executive Organization headed by Litton Industries' chief, Roy L. Ash. But that is scarcely the intent. What Ash failed to convey clearly in Wednesday's briefing was a desire to transform the Cabinet into a genuine policy-making instrument, reducing the requests for decisions that reach the President's desk.

Implicit in the Ash plan is the transfer of policy-making power from the Bureau of the Budget to the Cabinet. But old Washington hands (including some in the Nixon administration) doubt that the government can be run by Cabinet. Rather, they feel Volpe and Romney are correct in believing that the Ash plan will result, though unintentionally, in an aggrandizement of the White House staff headed by Ehrlichman.

That conclusion to President Nixon's executive reform would be drenched in irony. When they took office, the Nixon men were determined to scrap the centralized policy-making machinery developed under President Johnson. In LBJ days, domestic policy was made by Presidential aide Joseph Califano and Budget Director Charles Schultz with Cabinet members reduced to administering their departments.

Moreover, Mr. Nixon entered the White House with a surprising naivete about government. "I've always thought this country could run itself domestically without a President," candidate Nixon told Theodore White in an interview. "All you need is a competent Cabinet to run the country at home."

Accordingly, the Nixon administration was launched with unprecedented autonomy for Cabinet members, an unstructured White House staff, and decision-making chaos that persists, in part, to this day. To compensate, the Nixon White House took on some detested characteristics of the LBJ White House.

Ehrlichman gradually approached an eminence in decision-making rivaling Califano's. Budget Director Robert Mayo began restricting the autonomy of Cabinet officers, for example, killing Volpe's proposed Federal takeover of short-haul railroad passenger traffic which had been widely leaked to the press.

Even Ash's council speculated whether the LBJ operation was all that bad. One staff paper talked of a reform to "institutionalize" the Califano system. That favorable reference to the Johnson administration was quickly deleted by higher authority.

However, the final Ash plan, on paper at least, differs considerably from the Califano system. The Budget (Continued On Page 5)

Strength For Today

IMAGE AND LIKENESS

We read in the sixth chapter of I Corinthians, "Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Spirit which is in you, which ye have of God? and ye are not your own: for ye are bought with a price: glorify God therefore in your body."

There is also another passage which speaks of the whole of a believer's life being a temple of the Holy Spirit, and another which says that his body is a member, or a part, of Christ. This all indicates the very sacred character of human life. It needs to be considered always when we are thinking of the evil that is within us. We often ponder that twist of soul which all have — that inborn disposition to do evil rather than to do good. This is true, but it is also true that our bodies are the temples of the Holy Spirit, that we are sacred because we are joined intimately with the divine nature. We are made in the image and likeness of God.

Therefore let us not deceive ourselves into believing that we are getting the most out of life when in any way we sin against our bodies by dissipation of any kind, by intemperance, impurity, or any form of bad or irregular living.

When we do such evils, we impiously raise our hands and strike at God Himself. By Earl L. Douglass.

The Tale Of Six Suits

WASHINGTON — I had six suits stolen out of my house a few weeks ago. At least I think they were stolen. The cleaners left them in the kitchen, but no one saw them after that, so I had to assume that they were swiped. It took 10 days before I discovered the theft, because every time

Other Editors Say Owe Something

(Washington Daily News)

We can look at the proposition any way we choose, but all our medical schools in North Carolina owe something to the people of our state.

This is particularly true with the medical school at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. And let us say quite frankly that we believe the UNC Medical school is trying honestly to meet its obligations to this state.

The continuing fact is that we need more doctors in North Carolina. And the best chance to get more doctors, we feel, is to train more N.C. students. And we read that at UNC only 10 percent of the medical school students are out-of-staters. We read that each year UNC accepts about 85 such students for training. That would mean that at least 75 of them are North Carolina men or women.

The fact that we have three outstanding medical schools now in North Carolina speaks well for the state. The Duke University School of Medicine and the Bowman Gray School of Medicine do outstanding jobs. But sadly enough, neither of these two schools is limited in any manner as to where the students live. As a result, Duke and Bowman Gray are accepting an unusually large percentage of out-of-state students.

We realize that it is practical to accept some out-of-state students into every phase of university life, including the medical school. Both Duke and Bowman Gray schools operate within North Carolina, and North Carolina is now considering helping our own medical students financially.

When we furnish medical education to North Carolina natives, we have better hopes that in later years they will be practicing in this state. And by the same token, when we furnish medical education to out-of-state students, we suspect that generally they will go back to their home states to practice.

We realize that the state is helpless to do anything about telling either Duke or Bowman Gray how many out-of-state medical students it ought to accept. But if these two, of their own volition, would agree that it makes good sense to take more North Carolina students, it would be a most wholesome gesture.

And of course, we should not overlook the fact that East Carolina university is now looking to a two-year medical school. And somewhere along the line, we suspect that a four-year medical school must be in the long range planning.

When we read that UNC has 500 applicants for 85 places in medical school, it would definitely appear right now that we have many more young people wanting to be doctors than we have facilities to train them.

It is a continuing challenge, and as we seek more doctors for North Carolina, particularly Eastern North Carolina, we ought to be thinking more and more along the lines of encouraging and accepting more N.C. and Eastern N.C. students.

Major Cities Are Crumbling

By ELMER ROESSNER

All the major cities of America are crumbling. Homes and businesses have been decimated and losses are astronomical. W. L. Kirchner, Jr., vice president for public affairs of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co., told a National Industrial Conference Board seminar at Princeton, N. J.

"Urban centers, which are home to nearly 70 per cent of this country's population, are sinking to their knees in a losing fight against the overwhelming forces of blight, pestilence, age, increasing costs and lack of maintenance," he said.

"It is also a fact that an increasing percentage of those living in our cities are poor, and the skyrocketing costs of local government increasingly fall on those poor and the others who haven't left yet.

"The results of all this are not surprising. Our cities are decaying, their tax bases crumbling, services are deteriorating, housing conditions are deplorable, educational systems are swamped and underfunded, unemployment is rampant, welfare costs are orbiting, and discontent and militancy are everywhere."

His Horrible Example

Kirchner cited Newark, N. J., as an example, saying, "Newark got there first, but this is the way all cities are heading."

"It has the highest crime and disease rates of any large city; the highest population density; the highest proportion — about 12 per cent — living in public housing. It has one of the highest percentages of population on welfare, nearly 1 out of 5.

"It has the highest percentage of commuters: the daytime population is more than twice that of the nighttime. It has one of the highest blue-collar populations in the nation, 60 per cent, and only about 1 out of 4 of these is in a highly skilled job."

Few Bear Tax Burden

He said Newark has a high property tax rate, getting about 70 per cent of its revenues that way. Yet 70 per cent of its land area is exempted on one basis or another.

In 1960, it had 2,031 firms employing 10 people or more; today it has only 1,169. Nearly 80 per cent of the housing is 50 years old and 40 per cent is

Dissent Has Its Dangers

Free speech in the democratic process is separated by an unbridgeable gulf from the totalitarian processes of totalitarian countries. The idea of placing dissent under the shelter of law and beyond the reach of the decrees of a ruling party is something totally beyond the comprehension of heads of state and the controlled press of communist or socialist nations. It is probable that the greatest threat of a catastrophic nuclear war lies in the perpetual danger that a tyrannical ruler of a foreign power may miscalculate the will of a free society.

The Reader's Digest has clearly revealed in an article, "From Hanoi — With Thanks," the deadly price in lives and treasure that can result from a misreading of the democratic temperament as reflected in peace marches, moratorium-day parades, campus demonstrations and statements of so-called "doveish" political spokesmen. It is with good reason that many believe such actions in the name of "peace" have had ghastly consequences.

The Digest piece quotes releases from North Vietnamese publications and radio stretching from 1966 through the latter part of 1969. The following are a few of the typical reactions in North Vietnam to the misnamed peace demonstrations in the United States. On February 27, 1966, the North Vietnamese newspaper Nhan Dan is quoted in the Digest as saying, "In America the debates on the Vietnamese problem will become increasingly fiercer. The U.S. imperialist rear will be the scene of great confusion, which in turn will exert great influence upon the morale of the U.S. servicemen on the front line."

Again on November 8, 1966, Radio Hanoi reported, "The Vietnamese people highly value the protest movement of the American people. We praise the American peace champions who courageously turned the courts which were trying them into forums to condemn the war."

Perhaps the most bluntly worded of the many messages quoted was broadcast by North Vietnamese authorities to communist troops in South Viet Nam on November 11, 1969. It said, "Deeply moved by the American progressives' struggle for the great cause... Let us further stoke the fire of victory on all battlefields. We must be determined to fight the U.S. aggressors until complete victory." No one will ever know what this single statement cost in American lives on the battlefield.

One of the greatest tragedies of the Vietnamese war is that North Viet Nam has assumed that U.S. home-front morale will collapse just as that of France which led to the French defeat in 1954. Mr. Edmund A. Gullion, Dean of the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University, has expressed his view of "Why Hanoi Fights On." Dean Gullion says, "... The Americans fight to preserve the right of the South Vietnamese — the vast FINALIST... Mrs. Esther Warren is congratulated by Charles Ross, principal of Wahl-Coates, after being named one of five finalist in the state competition. Looking on is Shelton Whitehurst (L) and Tom Reese.

Greenville Teacher Is Named Finalist In JC Competition

Mrs. Esther Warren, primary education teacher at Wahl-Coates School, has been named one of the five finalist in the North Carolina Jaycee competition for the Outstanding Young Educator.

According to Tom Reese, vice president of the Greenville Jaycees, Mrs. Warren will be honored at the awards banquet in Charlotte on March 14 and will be among five finalist in the state contest.

Announcement of the state winner will be made during the awards banquet, he said. Winner of the competition will represent North Carolina in the national competition.

Mrs. Warren, who was selected by the local chapter as Greenville's Outstanding Young Educator, will be the guest of the North Carolina Jaycees this weekend in Charlotte.

As a result of her selection as one of the finalists, Mrs. Warren is being recognized as one of the outstanding educators in North Carolina.

Project chairman Shelton Whitehurst commented, "We knew we had good chance for a state winner. She possesses the teaching qualities that I would want my child's teacher to have."

Reese added, "Our entire community should be proud of the outstanding contributions Mrs. Warren has made to education and particularly for being one of the five finalists in the state competition. We want to wish her the very best at the awards banquet."

Prepare To Cap Gushers

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A thin slick of oil was floating in the Gulf of Mexico seven miles from a major wildlife refuge today as firefighters prepared to cap eight gushing wells 30 miles off the southeast Louisiana coast.

About 500 bales of hay were stacked on the beaches of Breton Island to sop up any oil. Chevron Oil Co., owner of the wells, estimated that oil began pouring into the Gulf at the rate of 600 barrels a day after the month-long fire was put out Tuesday by a 400-pound charge of dynamite.

Conservationists have expressed fear that the oil would reach the island and threaten 400,000 acres of oyster beds and one million waterfowl.

Will Billon, safety engineer for the firm, said it appeared one well was giving the most trouble.

"If we can contain this well we will be in good shape," he said. "The rest are spewing salt water and gas."

An armada of skimmer boats and barges swung into action after the fire was put out and was reported to be collecting 80 per cent of the spillage.

FALSE ALARM.
CALCUTTA, India (AP) — Police rushed to a Calcutta bank after receiving reports that a box containing dynamite had been found there. The box was located and carefully placed in a tub of water. An explosives expert opened the box and found it was filled with soap.

Relevant Candidacy Won Votes

By PAT RIORDAN
of the

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Although the student body is predominantly Southern, and more than 90 per cent white, the student government president at the University of Tennessee is an Afro-coiffed, dark glasses-sporting black activist named Jimmy Baxter.

How was he elected?
"I made a simple assumption—that if I was the only one saying relevant things, the students would support me. I assumed students were intelligent and mature people, who were tired of hearing promises they weren't interested in and that couldn't be delivered anyway," Baxter said in an interview, adding:

"I don't think my election shows a decrease in racism, but a higher degree of sophistication on the part of the students. There were people to support me who wouldn't want a black person in their fraternity or their neighborhood."

Baxter, a 26-year-old senior majoring in economics, is now at work on a program to get students a greater role in university decisions. He recently threatened to call a student strike unless student reform demands were met but says now there's no need for a strike because the Tennessee administration "appears to be working in good faith with us" and that reform proposals are being implemented.

"When we say student participation," Baxter says, "some people think we want to get rid of the faculty and the administration and run the university ourselves. This is certainly not the case," he explains.

Faculty evaluation is one area where students should have a voice, he says, and students should be the ones to make decisions which affect only students.

What sort of background does Baxter spring from?

"My father was a laborer with a plumbing outfit. This was when I started realizing the effects of the system, at an early age, not understanding it very much. But like my father was a plumber. He couldn't join the union. He worked for a plumbing company, and like he did exactly the same work that the plumbers did. Most of the time he did most of the work."

Baxter said his father, who died in 1962, had earned about $50 a week, while the white plumbers were earning much more. When he left Austin High, the only job he could get was "washing dishes at 50 cents an hour."

"The choices were very limited for me. I couldn't afford to go to school and I wasn't really sure that I wanted to, and when I tried to get a job, I certainly wasn't going to settle for that." So he joined the Air Force. "I went to computer school. I went up through the ranks (to sergeant in four years). For me, it was an opportunity, compared to trying to make it in Knoxville."

But he said he found himself surrounded by what he considered a great amount of incompetence and inefficiency.

"I think the confrontation between the university and black students is yet to come."

"The type of black students who come to U.T. are generally pretty middleclass oriented. They still have a lot of faith in the system, and they're still attempting to work through the system."

"But they're beginning to stop apologizing for being black. They're realizing that this university is their university."

"The way the administration handles this awakening will determine the action that black students, as a group, will have to take."

Baxter feels there are few black-white conflicts among the students because there is little contact. He describes the relationship as one of "peaceful coexistence," but not really friendship.

What does Baxter see in his own future? Will today's campus activist be tomorrow's community leader?

"I just don't know. I just don't have any idea where I'm going to end up," he says with a smile.

Bureau (renamed the Office of Executive Management) would lose the awesome policy-making authority amassed over 50 years and be restricted to a glorified bookkeeper's role. This void would be filled by a new Domestic Policy Council, consisting of all Cabinet members concerned with domestic policy.

The purpose is twofold: first, to limit matters reaching Mr. Nixon's desk; second, to weld domestic Cabinet members into an effective body for the first time in the history of the Republic.

The plan has dampened spirits of career civil servants at the Budget Bureau, which has prompted fear at the White House that they may mobilize allies in Congress to kill the plan (either house can defeat it by majority vote). Hence, the White House has been briefing key figures on Capitol Hill in advance of the plan's formal submission Friday (March 13).

majority of whom fear and reject Hanoi—to choose and live by their own government. But North Viet Nam, having seen one Western power worn down by sapping tactics on the home front, is sure the same strategy will pay off again. . . . If the enemy believes that public opinion will force an immediate American pullout, he has no reason to negotiate at Paris or anywhere else. So long as he believes the 'peace-marchers' are marching not for peace but for him, he will carry on the fight, and more American and Vietnamese men will lose their lives."

The most encouraging recent sign that provides a genuine hope for peace is embodied in the apparent tendency of the U.S. people to stand strongly behind President Nixon's program of measured withdrawal coupled with a determination to strengthen South Vietnamese military capabilities to the point that the communists must recognize the futility of conquest by force of arms. In the view of many, that recognition has been inculcated by the misjudging of the democratic temperament of the U.S. — (Industrial News And Review)

Mistrial Ruled In Death Case

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP)—The manslaughter case of a Shelby dentist ended in a mistrial after one of the jurors was seen talking during a recess to a person who had testified for the state in the fatal boat accident.

The defendant, Dr. Byard Edwards, had been charged as the alleged driver of a boat which struck another in which Miss Sherry Burch, 23, had been riding on Labor Day weekend last year. She died in a hospital.

The mistrial was declared Tuesday, ending the two-day trial. Dr. Edwards had pleaded not guilty.

coached two of three teams involved in competition.

He wasn't through. In 1969 he formed a Pee Wee football team, and was now directing a program with 82 boys from the community in full football uniforms. The basketball project increased to 20 teams.

In recognition of his abilities, he was appointed to serve out vacated position of the Pleasant Garden Community Center board of directors, and was elected a deacon in the Pleasant Garden Baptist Church. When his church began construction of a sanctuary, Cole built all the blackboards, bulletin boards, cabinets and nursery equipment in his home shop.

Cole, a native of Thomaston, Ga., was born May 11, 1937.

He was learned to walk with crutches, drives a car with no special controls, and is more active than many people with two good legs. He completely overcame the mental anguish associated with total disability, began community volunteer work through his church affiliations, and has now become a self-employed full-time community worker. He and his wife Barara, have two children, Lee Ann and Terry Lee.

Volunteer work is both his vocation and his avocation. Pleasant Garden is more pleasant because of his contributions to it.

Two Placed Under $10,000 Bond Here On Drug Violation Charges

Two young men, both seniors at East Carolina University, were placed under $10,000 bonds each following their arrest here yesterday on drug law violation charges.

Richard Allen Roensch, 22, of Burlington, and James D. Lisenby, 21, of Hamlet, were charged with possessing marijuana and possessing stimulant drugs for the purpose of sale.

The arrests were made following an investigation that involved members of the State Bureau of Investigation, Greenville police, Pitt County Sheriff's officers, Postal Inspectors and U.S. Customs agents.

Officers said the two men were taken into custody Tuesday morning, after a package containing 296 amphetamine capsules were delivered by the Post Office, to the 810 Cotanche St. apartment where the two men lived.

The package originated in the Panama Canal Zone and entered the United States in Texas in late February. U.S. Customs agents and post office authorities had followed the package to Greenville. It was addressed, investigators said, to Allen "Koensch" at the 810 Cotanche St. apartment.

Armed with a search warrant, officers entered the apartment after the package was delivered and in addition to the capsules, found a quantity of marijuana, both in the form of rolled cigarettes and loose manicured leaf.

Spokesmen said the men attempted to flush the capsules down the commode in the bathroom, but were not successful in destroying all of the evidence.

Officers said the stimulant capsules were concealed inside a stuffed toy teddy bear when delivered.

A hearing has been set in the case for March 24 in District Court.

Yesterday's arrests was the

A hearing in that case is also set for March 24.

North Vietnamese Say They Want Hostilities End

EDITOR'S NOTE: Daniel De Luce, who recently returned from an 18-day visit to North Vietnam, examines in this dispatch the attitude in the North toward an end to the war.

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Writer

Have the North Vietnamese made any significant change in their views on ending the war?

The language of diplomacy is slippery at best. Assessments must come from those with day-to-day knowledge of the maneuverings on both sides.

But during my 18-day stay in North Vietnam, my hosts appeared eager to press on me a message they seemed to regard as significant.

They are willing to agree to a cessation of all hostilities in South Vietnam, a Foreign Ministry spokesman told me, if the United States is prepared to make a commitment now to withdraw all American and allied forces from the South in the future.

"All problems about South Vietnam are linked to the United States' withdrawal of all its armed forces," the Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

"If the United States will agree to carry out such a withdrawal, discussions can be held and a date agreed on for completion of the withdrawal. Conditions will be assured that all foreign troops will be able to leave South Vietnam in perfect safety and without harm."

The spokesman offered this version of North Vietnam's position of March 3 in receiving two representatives of The Associated Press at the conclusion of an authorized 18-day visit to his country.

Previously, on Feb. 25, Vice Premier and Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh discussed in an Associated Press interview the terms under which it might be possible to agree to a standstill cease-fire with U.S. forces.

To a written question on cease-fire terms, which had been submitted 10 days earlier, the vice premier replied in writing:

"As has been stated in the 10-point over-all solution of the National Front for Liberation and the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam, on the basis of its principles and content, the parties shall reach understanding to the effect of concluding agreements on the relevant questions with a view to bringing the war in South Vietnam to an end, and contributing to restore peace in Vietnam."

Asked in person to amplify his response about cease-fire terms to clarify the matter for foreign readers, he said:

"The main thing is that such an agreement must provide for the withdrawal of all American troops and for the right of the South Vietnamese to settle their problems among themselves. That means recognition of the independence and sovereignty of South Vietnam."

The Foreign Ministry spokesman discussed cease-fire terms after the interview with the vice premier had been published in the United States. Some headlines in American newspapers described the interview as Communist insistence on an American pull-out before peace is possible in Vietnam. The North Vietnamese seemed to be aware of how the world press had handled the interview.

The spokesman appeared anxious to have it clearly understood that cessation of hostilities could be arranged well in advance of a definitive peace settlement, but if all fighting were to be stopped at this time, an American commitment was required to withdraw all its military forces in future.

At the Paris peace talks, the Communist delegates have demanded that the United States "must withdraw all its troops and the troops of its satellites from South Vietnam without setting any condition."

There was no mention of any time frame in the discussion with me.

Small shifts in language have played a rôle in the diplomatic history of the Vietnam war.

In January, 1967, Nguyen Duy Trinh declared in an interview for The Associated Press that if American bombing stopped, talks "could" start with the United States. By the end of 1967, Hanoi was saying talks "would" start if bombing ceased. Soon after President Lyndon B. Johnson ordered bombing halted north of the 20th parallel March 31, 1968, the United States and North Vietnam agreed to open peace talks and the North Vietnamese began lifting a siege against 5,000 Marines at Khe Sanh. The talks started in Paris May 10. The end of all bombing in November 1968, led to expansion of the peace talks in January 1969, when South Vietnam and the Viet Cong joined the sessions.

The Foreign Ministry spokesman said neither the Saigon government nor the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government should organize elections in South Vietnam.

"This should be done by a provisional coalition of all political forces which stand for peace, independence, and neutrality, regardless of their past," he said.

The spokesman was asked to identify politicians who might be acceptable to his government in the proposed South Vietnam coalition.

"If Buddhist elements stand for peace, independence, and neutrality, it would be natural to accept them in the coalition," he said.

"The coalition should be as broad as possible. South Vietnam has suffered too much for the past of political forces to be questioned. All who stand for peace, independence and neutrality are needed in the coalition. If Mr. Thieu stands for these principles, he, too, will be accepted regardless of his past, but of course there's no chance that he would want it. There are few like him—very few.

"The elections should be held after the withdrawal of all foreign troops. For the self-determination of South Vietnam is not a point for negotiations."

The spokesman was asked about the future of Laos, where

North Vietnamese forces had been involved in recent fighting with the Royal Laotian army supported by U.S. bombers. In the capital, Vientiane, fears were expressed that North Vietnam coveted Laotian territory.

"Laos has a long history," the spokesman said. "It will remain a kingdom with a coalition government."

Local Numismatic Club Is Planning Show On May 2, 3

Plans for the big forthcoming Greenville Numismatic Club Show at the Moose Lodge in early May will be the focus of attention at the club's monthly meeting Friday night.

The Greenville Numismatic Club members and guests will gather in the Board Room of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company at 7:30 p.m. Friday to exchange information and show new acquisitions of coins and paper monies acquired by members since the last meeting.

Mrs. Glen Wicker, spokesman for the club, says that "interest is growing rapidly as more local people become interested in collecting coins and paper money." At our last meeting we had more than a dozen teenagers and their parents in addition to our regular members."

Mrs. Wicker revealed that already plans were shaping up for the annual exhibition to be held on May 2 and 3 at the Moose Lodge. The hours scheduled are from 10:00 a.m. until 11:00 p.m. on Saturday, and from 1:00 to 6:00 p.m. on Sunday.

"So far we have two guests planning to exhibit," Mrs. Wicker commented. "G.G. (Tom) Sawyer of Effingham, S.C. who is well known for his paper money collection, and V.H. Rowe of Columbia, N.C., a specialist in silver dollars, but who will also show gold coins and a log cabin made of Lincoln pennies."

Anyone interested in coins, paper money, tokens, medals or other fields of collecting related to numismatics are invited to attend the Friday night meeting.

Arrest Six For Area Break-Ins

Pitt County deputies made six arrests Monday following recent investigation of a series of break-ins reported in late February at the home of a Rt. 1, Bethel man.

Deputies James Gurganus and Ivan Harris arrested the six men, all Negroes, and charged them in connection with three break-ins at the home of Joe Willie Williams.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said the three separate incidents resulted in the thefts of a television set, 12-gauge shotgun and .22 caliber rifle from Williams' home.

Arrested and charged with on count of breaking, entering and larceny was Douglas Greggs, 19, of Rt. 1, Bethel. Greggs was placed under $300 bond.

Also arrested were William Nathan Cherry, 18, and Bennie M. Cherry, 17 (brothers) of Rt. 2, Robersonville, who were both charged with one count of breaking, entering and larceny. Bond in both cases was set at $300.

Thomas Earl Sneed, 16, of Rt. 1, Bethel was charged with one count of breaking-entering and larceny with bond set at $300. His brother, Cornell George Sneed, 17, also of Rt. 1, Bethel, is being held on three counts of breaking, entering and larceny and bond has been set at $800.

Arrested and charged on one count of receiving stolen property was Clarence Williams, 27, of Rt. 1, Bethel. Bond for Williams has been set at $500.

Tyson said that trial in each case has been set for March 20 in District Court. All of the stolen property, he added, had been recovered.

TWIGGY RETIRING

Golden Knights

Hardly a "down-to-earth" activity—but that's the way it always ends! Parachuting as practiced by the U.S. Army Parachute Team is a refinement of this exciting activity; and the aristocrats of the skill who are the team's members are well worthy of the nickname which is theirs—"The Golden Knights."

An Army Sport Parachute Team was first formed in 1959. In 1961 it became the U.S. Army Parachute Team, and in 1962 it adopted the official nickname, "The Golden Knights."

The Knights are more than just a bunch of stunt men. They must, first of all, be members of the Regular Army, highly qualified parachutists, who volunteer for the Army Team.

And their work is a highly important job of Army public relations. The Team's two demonstration units spend over half the year on tour, giving free fall displays both at home and abroad and taking part in competitions. In addition to collecting considerably over half of the world parachuting accuracy records, they have produced two world and five national parachuting champions. But they also perform useful services to research—in the development of new kinds of parachutes, for example, and of new techniques and ways of using parachute jumping.

What do they actually do? Well, as the photographs on this page show, there's a great deal more to it than just taking a deep breath and tumbling out. Free fall isn't as free-and-easy as all that. In fact, it's a highly skilled and controlled exercise. The Knights free fall for up to 70 seconds, at speeds of 120 to 180 miles an hour—and during that time they may link up with other parachutists in the air, pass batons, glide for miles across the sky and arrange themselves in disciplined formation in a kind of breathtaking sky-gymnastics. Competition jumping is usually from up to 6,600 feet, but demonstrations may be from twice as high.

Once their highly-maneuverable parachutes are opened a phase of expertly-piloted fall begins, ending usually with an extraordinarily precise landing on a target which may be only about four inches in diameter.

Start of a formation: this is what the first man out sees as he looks back.

This is how the four-man diamond formation looks from the aircraft immediately after the last man's exit.

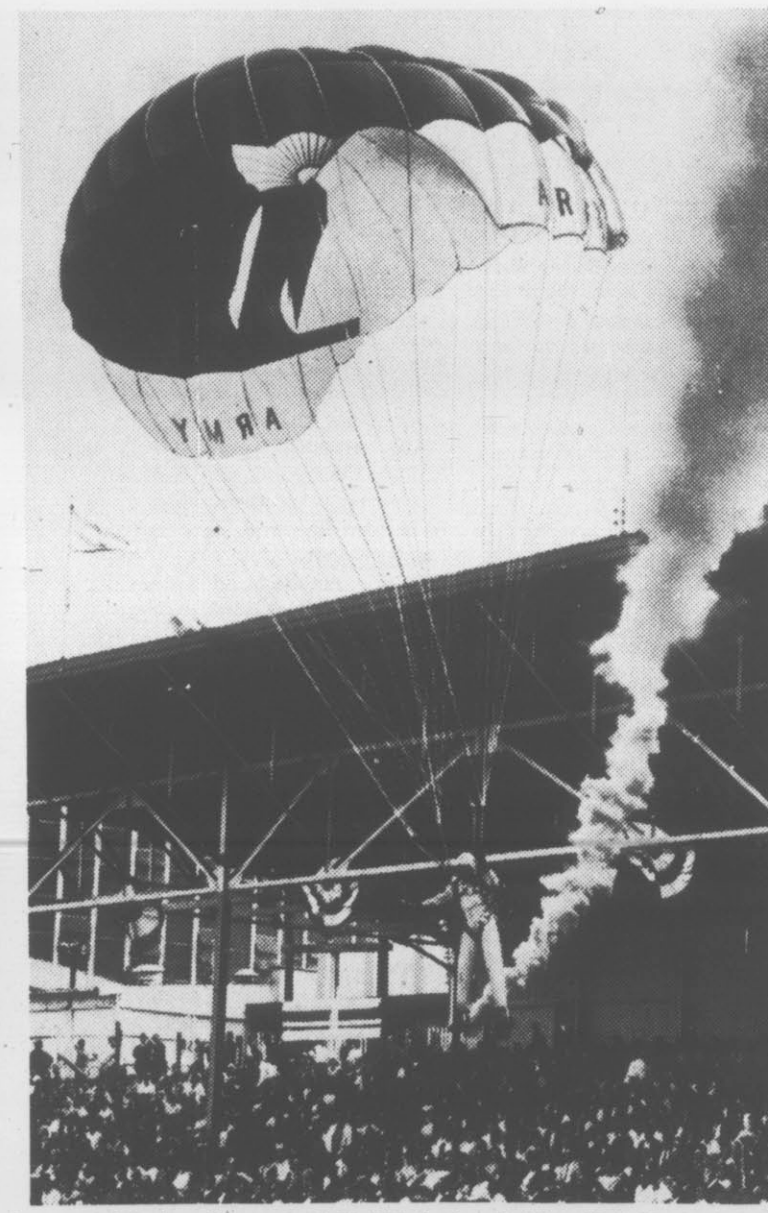

Red smoke billows from grenade on each man's boot in the maneuver at the climax of each free fall demonstration.

Landing on a four-inch target, traveling at some 20 miles per hour is difficult—particularly at night!

Parachutists link arms to form a five-man star while free falling at 120 miles an hour.

After a descent of 13,500 feet a Golden Knight prepares to land in a stadium during a demonstration.

'Little Banks' Now Reap Benefit Of Interest Cut

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Almost every day some "little" bank somewhere in the United States lowers its prime interest rate and thereby draws to itself the attention of thousands or millions of people.

Their reasons are various: concern for the economy of their area, a slowdown of their business, the desire to lead, a need to express their independence of larger banks, and simply—publicity, for what it's worth.

With interest rates sky high, and with almost every rate change on the upside during the past year, millions of brokers, borrowers, economists, bankers, government officials were looking desperately for a reversal.

Whatever its motives, "little" Lincoln National Bank—its deposits total only $42,617,419—has drawn more attention to itself than any other bank of its size by being the first to announce a lower rate.

Some little banks have been the first in their areas to lower this, the basic lending rate for the best customers. Lincoln led the nation, however; nobody can top that, and so the benefits pour in.

What are they? Well, to begin with, new business. "Calls and telegrams came in from all over the country," said Norman Denny, president.

"One company called from Chicago with a $100,000 account because of a gutsy act," he said. The word "gutsy" is one that apparently has appeal to the 5 foot 11 Denny.

He was animated by his brilliant coup and the results. The stock market, for example, rocketed upward on the news, an amazing demonstration of clout for so small a bank. "We call it the Lincoln market," said Denny.

"Here's a telegram from Des Plaines, Ill. I don't even know where it is. They say they're going to keep their reserves with us," Denny continued, and he offered the view that if people wanted to park their money with it was okay.

Local recognition and deposits also came to Lincoln. The night after the bank dropped its rate to 8 per cent from 8.5, said Denny, "I walked into a restaurant and four people came over and told me they were opening accounts."

Denny wanted it understood: "They came from four different tables. Not four people from one table."

Another benefit, he felt, was to all Philadelphia. "It augurs well," he said "that we don't wait to get the word from the big brothers in New York. Philadelphia has a provincial reputation to live down."

But seemingly as meaningful as any result was the thrust into the future that the simple announcement gave Lincoln. "We intend to grow," he said, and you could tell he meant it. The announcement was going to put Lincoln well ahead of schedule.

"We ranked 8,100 in deposits among the nation's banks at one time and now we're about 1,165," he said. Even a bit better. As of Dec. 31, American Banker newspaper ranked Lincoln 1,158 and credited it with a gain of 109 positions in one year.

"We've passed 7,000 banks in size," said Denny, his enthusiasm evident. "We'd like to crack the first 1,000 by the end of this year." Unusual talk for a banker? Perhaps, but Lincoln is an unusual bank.

Although Denny admits to being in his mid-40s, he insists that his staff is the youngest of any bank in Philadelphia. Most of the senior officers are in their late 30s, he said. The bank itself is only five years old.

This is the very type of bank you might expect to move into such a ripe situation. Any bank could have done it, for everyone in the banking business knew that rates would have to fall sometime during the year.

Radical Reorganization Of Foreign Aid Shaping Up

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — After 22 years of operation, punctuated by periodic shakeups, the U.S. foreign aid program is facing the most radical reorganization in its history.

In line with a presidential task force's recommendation for dramatic reforms, President Nixon has promised a "new approach" to foreign assistance.

The White House fight for overseas assistance funds has grown far more difficult in recent years with many congressmen seeking to cut U.S. costs and involvement abroad. Nixon obviously hopes the new approach will make the whole foreign assistance establishment more acceptable on Capitol Hill.

The President won't send his final recommendations to Congress until next January, but officials feel the broad outline of his final proposals was set out in the report issued last week-end by the task force headed by former Bank of America President Rudolph A. Peterson.

The Peterson report, highly praised by Nixon, calls for dismembering the present foreign assistance organization, the Agency for International Development, and scattering its functions among five new or reorganized divisions.

The report also called for greater emphasis on international cooperation, increased use of international agencies and more responsibility by underdeveloped nations for planning and administering aid programs.

At present, aid is the product of a frequently reformed system of foreign assistance administration going back officially to April 1948, but actually with an even longer history.

The first major aid undertaking, Lend-Lease, began in

Three Named To Port Commission

Charlie Hardee, Thomas W. Rivers and John S. Stoughton were confirmed by the City Council as the three new members of the Tar River Port Commission.

The three, appointed earlier by the Pitt County Commission, will head the commission which replaces the old Tar River Port Authority, whose members resigned last November.

At the time of resignation, the funds remaining in the authority were turned over to the county and a certificate of deposit was purchased to be held until the funds are needed for renewed operations of the port.

Another recent appointment was also made by the City Council. Carl Woxman was appointed as Greenville's representative to the Mid-East Airport Authority. The appointment of Woxman followed a recommendation by Frank Kevitt, head of the Mid-East Economic Development Commission, that Greenville appoint a representative for the Airport Authority.

March 1941 as a way of helping the allies in World War II. It was terminated immediately after the war ended.

Loans to Britain and France followed but the real beginning of the present aid system came April 3, 1948, when the United States started its Marshall Plan for European recovery.

The foreign assistance establishment is now in its fifth organization, counting from the original European cooperation administration which ran the Marshall Plan.

Sometimes it's been the State Department, as today, sometimes independent, as in its beginning.

Some of its functions have been separated and assistance to Latin American countries always has had more or less special handling.

The changes proposed by the Peterson report as the experts understand it could be carried out largely within a single organization but the view within

Hope In Rubber Lined Reservoir

NEW YORK (UPI)—Reservoirs lined with rubber instead of concrete.

That's a formula that offers new hope to water-poor countries, according to a report on the world's largest such reservoir.

The reservoir, dedicated recently at Kualapuu on the island of Molokai, Hawaii, will hold nearly 1.5 billion gallons of water for the irrigation of 16,000 acres.

Countless acres of land lying fallow all over the world for lack of water could be reclaimed economically with use of the nylon-reinforced butyl rubber that lines the Kualapuu reservoir, the report said.

Covering 104 acres, the lining, which is only one thirty-second of an inch thick, is secured at the top of the reservoir in an anchor trench three feet deep which is then filled with earth and packed down.

The lining will give without tearing under the tremendous pressure of 50 feet of water.

Because it is light and easily handled, it was installed in less than two months, a fraction of the time required for cement construction, and at less than one-third the cost, according to the report.

Secret of the lining's strength and durability, the report said, is a nylon scrim reinforcement over the rubber, with a unique weave developed by J. P. Stevens & Co., Inc. This prevents it from stretching vertically or horizontally. It can stretch only diagonally.

As a result, when the volcanic soil under the reservoir becomes unstable, the lining gives with it.

The 16,000 acres on Molokai will be reclaimed not only for the cultivation of Hawaii's traditional pineapples but for many fruits and vegetables not grown there now.

The irrigation system also may be expanded in the future to supply an estimated 450,000 persons in a new resort area planned for the west end of Molokai.

the administration is that Congress is in a mood for change and greater efficiency, if possible. Therefore, radical reorganization and probably sharp staff cuts are generally expected.

Today the foreign aid population sprawls over 68 countries and involves 19,660 American and foreign workers with by far the biggest single group of employees, 4,086 Americans and 2,148 natives in South Vietnam.

The AID appropriation for worldwide economic assistance in the current fiscal year is $1.42 billion, down three-quarters of a billion from what President Nixon wanted.

This year it is spending $413.7 million in Vietnam, chiefly to help keep the Vietnamese government going.

But of the 67 other countries, one-third receive only self-help grants ranging between $50,000 and $100,000 each, funds which enable a hard-pressed, backward and small country, for example, to buy the cement it needs to build a schoolhouse.

AID's basic assistance programs, which are the subject of the Peterson dismemberment proposal, breakdown as follows:

—Economic development loans granted on relatively easy terms to needy nations.

—Providing expert help for such programs as farming, public health and construction to achieve a quick improvement in production and living standards.

—Direct financial grants of the kind given South Vietnam for military efforts. This year 93 per cent of such assistance goes to three countries—South Vietnam, Laos and Thailand.

—Contributions to such international organizations as the United Nations Development Program and its children's fund.

—Promotion of private capital investment and administration of insurance and guarantee programs to encourage the flow of American money into high-risk areas.

The Peterson panel, whose recommendations were called "fresh and exciting" by Nixon, has proposed splitting up the functions of the present system among the following agencies:

—A U.S. development bank to handle lending with $2 billion appropriation and $2 billion of public borrowing authority. Experts think the bank also would handle the technical assistance program.

—A U.S. international development institute to do research on the application of modern technology to the development of poor countries. Such work now is scattered through AID operations.

—An overseas private investment corporation, already authorized by Congress and probably to be given increased importance in the President's new plans.

—An international development council, which would be a cabinet level policymaking group to oversee U.S. foreign assistance activities and coordinate their relationships with other policies such as trade.

—Some kind of office in the State Department to handle supporting assistance and probably some other activities such as disaster relief.

One of the principles laid down by the Peterson report was military related activities like financial help for South Vietnam should be separated from long-term development work.

Dream Was Not For Laughing

KLAGENFURT, Austria (AP) — A Klagenfurt businessman was laughed at by his family when he told them he dreamed a burglar ransacked the house. Their laughter died when they discovered a burglar had really entered the house and taken off with $3,000 worth of valuables.

While the man was sleeping upstairs, the rest of the family watched a television program in the living room.

Wants 4th 'R' Be Radiation

CHICAGO, Ill. (AP) — The three "R's" are getting a teammate.

Ralph W. Herold, a science teacher, said radiation has become a fourth "R" in the nation's schools in an effort to stimulate a desire among students to become nuclear scientists.

A wide range of experiments in physics and chemistry now include experiments with radiation and its phenomena.

Students now experiment with irradiating golf balls and learn that they bounce better than unexposed balls. Irradiated foods remain fresh and sproutless after several months, while unirradiated potatoes and onions, for example, sprout and shrivel.

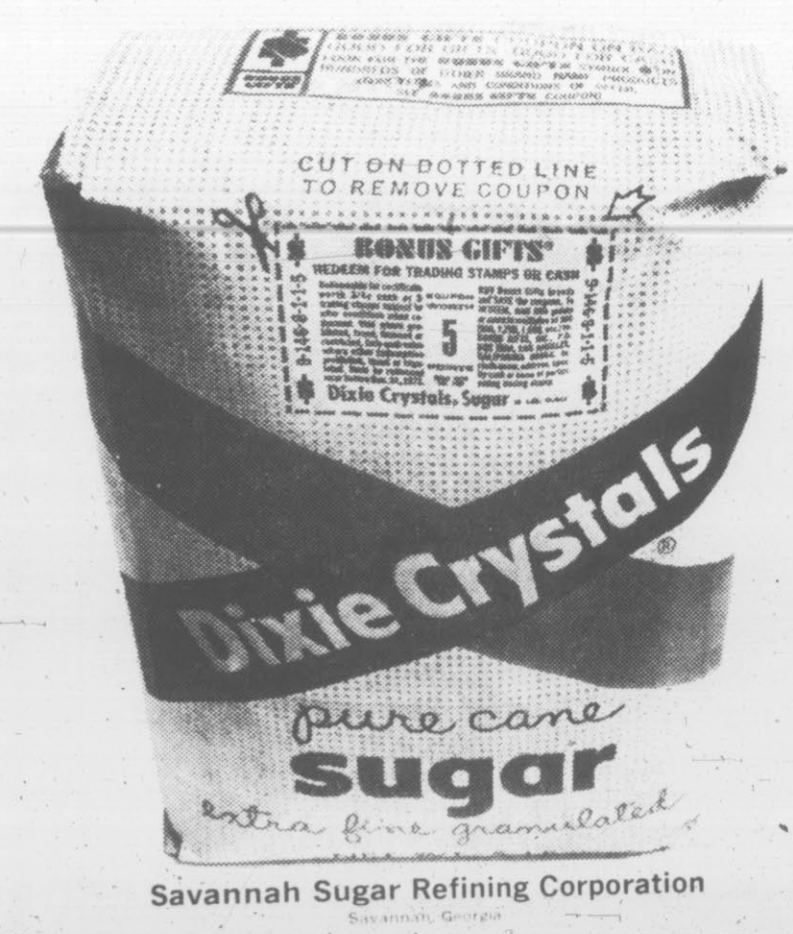

Sunday at 3 p.m. Anyone wishing to participate in the program, may call Mrs. Armissie Greene or Mrs. Della Smith.

Pride of the East, Chapter No. 524, Order of Eastern Star, will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Masonic Building, W. Fifth St.

Oil Import Quota Fixed

WASHINGTON (AP)—An import quota of 395,000 barrels daily has been imposed on oil shipments from Canada in a move the White House says is designed to cut back what it considers an excessive flow into the United States.

President Nixon signed a proclamation Tuesday setting up for the first time a formal limit on the amount of oil that may be imported from Canada. The White House said the restrictions are necessary because voluntary controls "have been unworkable."

The daily limits are retroactive to March 1. They will continue for the remainder of the year.

Sen. William P. Rogers, D-Wis., said Nixon's action means "apparently the consumer is once again being sacrificed to the oil industry."

But Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said the Nixon order meant the President believes in the principle of oil import quotas. He said the cutback from average daily imports of 550,000 barrels will strengthen the domestic oil industry.

10 resounding reasons why you should buy a new Chevrolet instead of a new something else:

1 Higher resale value.

No other car in Chevrolet's field gives you as much back on your initial investment. Year after year. You may never want to sell your Chevrolet, but if you do, it'll be rewarding.

2 Deep down value.

When you buy a Chevrolet you get exclusive things like flush-and-dry rocker panels which help combat rust. And inner fenders that keep your outer fenders looking good longer.

3 Smooth, smooth ride.

Chevrolet springs are computer selected. Linked with Full Coil suspension and advanced body mounting system, it makes our big rider a smooth rider.

4 Impressive styling.

Reason enough alone to go with Chevrolet. The impression is that it's an expensive car, if you want to make an impression.

5 Massive interiors.

Result? Room to stretch out or to sit tall. A lot of room for people and their luggage. Chevrolet actually has more front leg room than any other car in its field.

6 Side-guard beams.

A steel side-guard beam is built into every big Chevrolet's door for added protection and peace of mind.

7 A finish that lasts.

In Chevrolet's field a new "something else" won't have Magic-Mirror acrylic lacquer finish. Which is unfortunate because Chevrolet's 15 colors sure keep their shine.

8 Exceptional engines.

Chevrolet's standard 350-cubic-inch V8 runs on regular fuel. So does an even larger 400-cubic-inch V8 that you can order. There are also four other fine performing engines available.

9 Tremendous selection.

Of colors. Of accessories. Of engines. Of transmissions. Of fabrics. Of custom features you can add. And of models to pick from. There are nine different big Chevrolets alone.

10 America's favorite.

Something else a new "something else" can't claim: America's most popular car. If actions speak louder than words, doesn't this say something to you? See your Chevrolet dealer.

Howard Signs $125,000 Pact; Senators Are Only Unbeatens

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

The surprising Washington Senators, who flopped in the spring last year, continued their winning ways Tuesday and received a bigger lift when super-slugger Frank Howard signed for a reported $125,000.

"Now I know how a manager feels when a player makes twice as much as he does," said Ted Williams after the 6-foot-7, 275-pound Howard, who slugged 48 home runs last year, signed his 1970 contract.

"The contract makes Howard the highest paid player in the American League," said Bob Short, Senators' owner.

After the signing, the Senators, who dropped nine straight spring exhibitions last year under first-year manager Williams, went out and with a two-out ninth inning rally, defeated the New York Yankees 6-4.

The victory was No. 4 for the unbeaten Senators, who finished the regular season in fifth place last year under Williams, named the AL's Manager of the Year for the performance, after finishing last the previous year.

With Washington trailing 4-3 and the bases loaded with two outs, Bernie Allen slapped a two-run single off loser Lindy McDaniel. Mike Epstein later came home on a throwing error as the Senators stand alone as the only undefeated team in the majors.

Three-time batting king and defending champion Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox, fouled a ball off his right foot in batting practice, but was expected to be sidelined only a day or two after X-rays of the injury proved negative.

The Red Sox then went out and lost to Houston 6-3 as rookie first baseman John Mayberry of the Astros socked a fifth-inning grand slam homer. Don Pavletich had a solo shot for the Sox.

California snapped San Francisco's four-game winning string, holding the Giants to five hits in a 10-0 rout. The Angels belted Giants starter Rich Robertson for seven hits and four runs in four innings. Alex Johnson and Tom Egan had doubles for the winners while Willie Mays had one for the Giants.

Detroit's three-game victory skein was broken by the world champion New York Mets, who rallied for two eighth-inning runs in a 5-4 triumph. Duffy Dyer's two-run double did the damage for the Mets.

Carl Taylor, a 615 belter and Lou Brock, chipping away at a .583 clip this spring, each banged two hits and scored two runs apiece in the St. Louis Cardinals 5-1 decision over Los Angeles.

Dave Johnson and Ellie Hendricks slammed homers leading a 13-hit Baltimore attack as the Orioles belted Montreal 9-1. Johnson added a double while Brooks Robinson, Don Buford and Paul Blair each laced two hits apiece for the American League champs.

Rich McKinney slashed a two-run single and Gail Hopkins and Charlie Bradford added run-scoring hits in a six-run sixth inning as the Chicago White Sox tripped Philadelphia 9-3. Larry Hise had a two-run circuit for the Phils while Syd O'Brien rapped a solo shot for Chicago.

Griffin will also be the only ECU swimmer to participate in the Nationals in Salt Lake City, Utah later this month.

Along with Griffin at the Eastern Championships will be Gary Frederick in the distances. Larry Allman in the breaststroke and individual medley. Steve Weissman in the 50-free style and breaststroke. Ken Hungate in the backstroke and individual medley and Greg Hanes in the butterfly.

in both the one- and three-meter events.

THE NATURAL LOOK

What is the natural look in clothing? Very simply, it is the way your clothes fit you! This has nothing to do with the "current look" or changes of fashion.

Here is a basic check list for you to follow:

Bottom of suit jacket: When in "natural" stance, jacket bottom should be parallel to the floor all the way around when jacket is buttoned.

Length of jacket: Jacket should cover your seat when you lean forward as well as when you stand up straight.

Trouser length: Trousers should not bag sloppily over your shoes. They should be long enough to be fashionable—but not so short as to show bare skin when you are sitting. (wear over-the-calf socks to avoid the problem).

Suit Jacket sleeve: When your arms hang loose, about half an inch of your shirt should be exposed.

These are just a few tips. We will be happy to show you the others!

Bethel To Face Tall Ruffin Team In Opening State Round

Bethel High School's Indians run up against a tough pack of Trojans in the first round of the Class A State Tournament Thursday at Raleigh's Broughton High School.

The Indians meet Ruffin High School of 7:15 p.m. in the first game of the evening. The winner goes on to meet the Yorkville-District 7 champ survivor Friday at 8:30, and the loser goes home.

Height could be a big factor in the game, and Ruffin has plenty of it. "We're real fortunate for a Class A School," Ruffin Coach Jerry Saunders said. "Our center, Herbery Denny is 6-6, and our forwards, Hardin Brown and Tommy Strader, are 6-3 and 6-2. So we've got plenty of height."

So much in fact that Bethel will be completely outmanned in that department. But Saunders is not overly optimistic about it. "We've heard their center (6-3 Eddie Stokes) can jump right through the roof of the gym."

Ruffin also has good, balanced scoring from their three big men. Strader is the leader with a 15-6 average, while Denny is posting a 14.2 average. Brown is hitting at a 13.3 average.

Rounding out the starting lineup are Leon Chestnut and Charles Estes.

"We have run, and we have played deliberate this year," Saunders said. "It really depends of the situation. We feel we have a real good team. We do a lot of things well. Basically, I guess you could call us a controlled fast break team: we'll run when we can but not try to overdo it."

Ruffin, winner of the North-Central 1-A Conference, brings a 21-3 record into the tournament. They completed their conference schedule unbeaten, but then lost in the first round of the tournament in an upset. Their other two losses came to Seagrove, an independent from Randolph County.

In the district tournament, Ruffin and Seagrove met in the finals, and it appeared that Seagrove would win it. But Strader made a steal which turned into a three-point play in

Girls Play Is Opening

Five area girls basketball teams will open play tonight and Thursday in the first District tournament in years for girls. Four will be playing in Edenton in the District One Tournament, while the other, Farmville, will play at North Duplin High School.

Tonight, Robersonville and Bethel collide at 8:30 p.m. in a first round game at Edenton Northampton and Cape Hatteras will meet at 7 p.m. in the first game of the evening. The two winners meet Friday at 7 p.m.

Thursday, Pantego and Grifton meet at 7 p.m., while Manteo takes on Williamston at 8:30. The winners of these games meet Friday at 8:30.

Saturday night, the finals of the tournament will be held. The consolation finals will be at 7 p.m., with the championship game at 8:30.

Farmville will open play tonight at 8:30 at North Duplin's gym located near Calypso.

the final eight seconds to win it for the Trojans.

The state tournament marks the last time the Red and White of the Indians will be worn. Next year, Bethel joins others in the new consolidated North Pitt High School.

And, like Ruffin, they had the embarrassment of losing in the first round of the conference tournament, although they had not gone through the regular conference year unbeaten.

Coby Deans, coach of Bethel, said he had no reports on Ruffin. "We'll be going into the game somewhat blind," he said. "We'll play our normal game against them, and I think we'll do all right. I don't think we'll have any trouble in getting up. The spirits of the boys are good, and we're ready."

"We'll do what we have to to win it, and we're going all out to win," Deans added.

The Indians will start Stokes at center, with Ricky Parker and Gary James at the forwards. L. D. Casper and Charles McCray will handle the guard duties.

"If we hustle and play defense like we did against Belvoir last week (in the district finals), we'll be okay," the coach said.

Seattle Gets Extra Days To Prepare For Transfer Battle

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Amid threats of multimillion-dollar law suits, court injunctions and antitrust challenges, the American League abruptly called off its scheduled Tuesday meeting on the Seattle baseball franchise.

AL President Joe Cronin said he'll consult with league lawyers before setting a new date and site for the special meeting, which was cancelled in a cloud of conflicting statements.

William R. Daley of Cleveland, 78-year-old majority stockholder of the Pilots franchise, told The Seattle Times late Tuesday he will insist the postponed league meeting be rescheduled next week.

Daley said he "was pretty well assured there are enough" favorable votes—it takes nine—to move the franchise to Milwaukee, which has been without major league baseball since the Braves were shifted to Atlanta.

Seattle Mayor Wes Uhlman said in Washington he would again go into court for an injunction to keep the financially troubled Pilots in Seattle.

The injunction would be requested, Uhlman said, because of "recent indications, not withstanding the American League's decision to keep the pilots in Seattle, that an attempt will be made to move the franchise prior to the commencement of the forthcoming baseball season."

The league meeting in Tampa was postponed, Cronin said, because of the illness of Cleveland's Daley. A Cronin spokesman said the AL president felt Daley should be present for all sessions concerning the Pilots' future.

In Cleveland, however, Daley said he had only entered a hospital for a checkup. He said he was under the impression the meeting would go on without him.

"I think they kind of used me as an excuse to cancel the meeting," said Daley, who had designated Dewey Soriano, Pilots' president, as his representative.

In Washington, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said he'd seek legislation to end baseball's immunity from antitrust laws if the Seattle franchise is moved elsewhere.

Magnuson said: "If they move this team after just one year, it would be evidence that they are not a sport, but a commercial enterprise."

Washington's state attorney general, Slade Gorton, also threatened court action.

When it appeared that Seattle would lose the franchise early last month, Mayor Uhlman filed suit in King County (Seattle) Supreme Court. He withdrew it when the league decided to leave the franchise in Seattle.

The suit will be put back into effect Wednesday, the city corporation counsel said.

"We will pick up where we left off and move on," A.L. Newbould, the official, said.

The suit asks a court order to prevent shifting the franchise to another city, and Newbould said a motion would be made Wednesday asking for a show cause hearing on why a temporary injunction against a franchise switch should not be issued.

AL owners decided Feb. 11 in Chicago to leave the Pilots in Seattle. They approved a $650,000 loan to shore up the club for spring training.

The Pilots drew only 677,944 fans in an inadequate ball park last season. A bond issue has been approved for a $40 million domed stadium but Uhlman says any shift of the franchise would spell the doom of the facility.

Some $10 million has already been spent in planning for the stadium, and Uhlman said previously that suits would be filed to recover the money if the Pilots were packed off to another city.

Seattle's ticket sales have lagged and this may be one reason why some AL owners have had second thoughts about keeping the Pilots in Seattle, where losses for the entire season could reach $1.7 million.

Even though the Tampa meeting was called off, an unofficial session—hastily summoned in a series of 5 a.m. telephone calls

Tuesday—was held at nearby Sarasota. An AL spokesman said Seattle's problems were discussed but he insisted that no official decisions were made.

Jet Sale Is Close

NEW YORK (AP) — Only formal approval of the National Football League is needed for completion of the sale of the New York Jets, a team official says.

"Details have been worked out and now it's up to the league directors at the meeting in Honolulu next week," Townsend Martin, Jets board chairman, said Tuesday.

The annual meeting of pro football's owners starts Monday in Hawaii.

A syndicate headed by Steven J. Ross, Kinney National Services president, and including Alie Sherman, ex-head coach of the New York Giants, is the reported purchaser of the Jets.

The price tag is about $21 million, said a pro football source, who confirmed that the sale was on the agenda for the Honolulu sessions.

Approval for the sale must come from 20 of the 26 American and National Conference owners. The Jets are in the American Conference.

Niagara Would Like Another Crack At Halting The Bonnies

By DEL BOOTH COLUMBIA (AP) — The long and short of the NCAA Eastern Regional Basketball Tournament may turn out to be just that, literally as well as figuratively.

The four teams include two of this year's All-Americans — 6-11 Bob Lanier of St. Bonaventure, ranked third in the nation, and 5-10 Calvin Murphy of Niagara, whose team is ranked 17th.

Murphy and his team lost twice to St. Bonaventure (23-1) and the 260-pound Lanier, once by only eight points, but a second time by an embarrassing 36.

Whether the two meet again depends on 10th ranked North Carolina State (22-6), the Bonnies' opening round opponent in the first game Thursday night, and Villanova (21-5) meeting Murphy and his 22-5 team in the nightcap.

Lanier is the rebound and scoring leader for his team. He has great jumping ability despite his weight and displays shooting accuracy inside and out.

Murphy has been averaging 29.7 points a game with outside shooting, inside drives, and a lot of trips to the free throw line, where he practically lives. In 240 trips to the line this season he has made 211.

Forward Howard Porter, averaging 22.3 points, leads the Villanova team that holds this year's only victory over St. Bonaventure, a 64-62 squeaker midway through the season. And his team beat Niagara in their only meeting, 102-92.

Vann Williford carried the scoring burden for N. C. State at a 22.8 average.

He was the big gun in last week's upset Atlantic Coast Conference championship tournament victory against favored South Carolina, now host to the regionals it had expected to enter. N. C. State hasn't met any of the other three entrants.

Coach Norman Sloan of the N. C. State Wolfpack told a luncheon news conference in Raleigh, N. C., Tuesday the he doesn't know yet what type of game his team will play against St. Bonaventure.

"We've just got to be alert at the start of the game and see what they do," he said. I think that we are a very flexible team. We can run or control the tempo. We can play a zone or man-to-man.

"They have a very diversified, flexible team."

St. Bonaventure Coach Larry Weise spoke to the conference via telephone hookup. Asked what problem N. C. State poses, Weise replied: "Their balance. Any time a team has balance, they are tough to beat. They have good height, board strength, balance in the backcourt, and they are well coached and well disciplined."

ROTC Hosting Cage Tourney

Air Force ROTCA Detachment 600 of East Carolina University will hold its first annual basketball tournament for ROTC teams on March 13 and 14 in Minges Coliseum. Admission to this event is free for all four games played.

Ten man teams from East Carolina, the University of North Carolina, A and T University, and North Carolina State University will compete for a trophy to be awarded after the final game on March 14. A trophy for the most outstanding player of the tournament will also be awarded at this time. To retain the tournament trophy permanently a team will have to win the tournament three years in a row.

Between the preliminary games and the final contest, a banquet will be held at the Holiday Inn at 8 p.m. to be attended by all the players and their staffs. Among the guests scheduled to speak at this event are Colonel John Duffus, Professor of Aerospace Studies at East Carolina University, and Clarence Stasovich, Director of Athletics at E.C.U.

The preliminary games begin at 3:00 P.M. and 5:00 P.M. on Friday, March 13. A consolation match will be held the following morning at 10:00 A.M. followed by the championship contest for the trophy at noon.

Knicks Ice A Tie; Boston Eliminated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Knicks clinched at least a tie for their first division title in 16 years, and watching sadly in the background for the first time in 20 years were the Boston Celtics.

Twenty years. It has been that long since Boston has missed the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Last season, the Celtics finished fourth, but went on to win their 11th NBA title in 13 seasons. But when Bill Russell retired after the season, the handwriting was on the wall.

The last place Detroit Pistons, moving within only 1½ games of Boston, dropped the final blow on the once-proud Celtics by edging them 115-112 Tuesday night in Detroit. The loss meant Boston can finish no better than fifth in the eastern division with only the first four teams making the playoffs.

At the same time, the Knicks closed in on the Eastern title by walloping the Seattle SuperSonics 117-99 while second place Milwaukee dropped six games behind by losing to the Atlanta Hawks 140-127.

Atlanta remained one game ahead of Los Angeles in the Western Division race as the Lakers kept pace with a 106-104 squeaker over San Francisco.

In the other NBA game, Chicago, battling Phoenix and Seattle for the remaining two playoff spots in the West, downed San Diego 111-106.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky stopped Miami 126-120 and Dallas beat Denver 124-116.

Detroit blew an 82-62 lead as the Celtics rallied to within 100-98, but an 11-2 spurt clinched the victory for the Pistons as Dave Bing finished with 26 points.

The Knicks overcame a 54-53 halftime deficit by outscoring Seattle 35-20 in the third period as Cazzie Russell hit 14 of his 30 points.

Lou Hudson scored 36 points and Joe Caldwell 30, offsetting a 40-point effort by the Bucks' Lew Alcindor. Atlanta broke a 71-all tie and never trailed again.

Jerry West's 25-foot jumper with two seconds to play gave the Lakers their victory over the Warriors and capped a tremendous second half shooting display by the league's leading scorer. West collected 33 of his 42 points after the intermission.

Joe Ellis kept San Francisco in contention with 24 points and Jerry Lucas contributed 28 rebounds.

Chicago's 34th victory, the most since it obtained a franchise in 1966, pulled the Bulls into a virtual third place tie with idle Phoenix. Bob Love's three baskets highlighted a run of eight straight points for a 79-69 lead that put the game away.

Chet Walker finished with 22 points for Chicago while John Block had 33 for San Diego.

Newcomers Seek To Change Past

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Two teams making their first stab in NCAA tournament competition — California Riverside and St. Joseph's of Indiana — clash tonight in the opening round of the NCAA college division basketball showdown.

Following the 1957 tournament inaugural in Roberts Stadium here, no team making its first appearance has gone on to win the championship.

That will be the goal of the winner of the California (17-9)-St. Joseph's (21-5) engagement which is the last game on the opening program of the quarter final round.

All other teams have at least been in NCAA regional play before, if not making the trip to the Evansville Finals.

Only two nationally-ranked teams remain in the field after a series of regional upsets. No. 9 South Dakota State (22-3) meets Tennessee State (19-7) in the first night game at 7 p.m. CST No. 12 Philadelphia Textile (26-2) plays American International (17-7) on the afternoon card which opens at 1 p.m. with Buffalo State (21-3) facing Stetson of Deland Fla. (22-6).

The South Dakota Jackrabbits won the title in 1963 and were third in 1961. They have a 13-game winning streak.

The Textile Rams, like the Jackrabbits, are making their third trip to Evansville but never have gotten past the opening round. Led by Jim McGilvery

Guilford Wins To Move Along

KANSAS CITY (AP)—All but two of the 16 seeded teams reached today's second round of the NAIA basketball tournament and Stephen F. Austin College of Texas is still the favorite.

The Austin Lumberjacks coasted to a 100-86 victory over South Carolina State in their first round test Tuesday night. The tall Texans shared their scoring and rebounding almost equally. They dominated the boards 47-32.

Eight more games today will cut the field to eight teams for Thursday's quarter-finals. The tourney ends Saturday night.

Third-seeded Central Washington State clipped St. Benedict's of Kansas 77-65 by hitting 56 per cent of its field shots, while St. Benedict's failed badly on free throws, potting only 9 of 24.

A capacity crowd of 10,500 Tuesday night also saw Eau Claire State of Wisconsin beat Eastern Montana 88-81, and fourth-seeded Kentucky State defeat Illinois Wesleyan 64-56.

In day games Tuesday, Wartburg of Iowa defeated Northern, S.D., State 91-78; Eastern Michigan beat East Central Oklahoma 108-85; Guilford, N.C., defeated Wayne State of Nebraska 90-73, and Morris Harvey of West Virginia defeated Western New England 99-76.

Today's pairings (Central Standard Time):

9:30 a.m. — Northeastern Louisiana (19-8) vs. Jackson, Miss. (25-4).

11:15 a.m. — Maryland State (26-1) vs. Morris Harvey (25-7).

1 p.m.—Eastern New Mexico (23-5) vs. Arkansas Tech (23-5).

2:45 p.m.—Eastern Michigan (22-6) vs. Guilford, N.C. (30-3).

8:45 p.m. — Central Washington (28-1) vs. Wartburg, Iowa (26-2).

10:30 p.m.—Eau Claire, Wis. 24-1 vs. Kentucky State 25-3.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Bill Goodwin, playing for Wayne State of Nebraska against Guilford, N.C., in the NAIA basketball tournament, lost a contact lens Tuesday night during a flurry under a basket.

Time was called and coaches, players, and officials made an extensive search. Goodwin finally gave up and resumed play without the lens.

Several minutes later there was another burst of action under the same basket and Goodwin caught a glimpse of his lens in the free throw lane. He picked it up and had two good eyes again.

Murmansk Run Still Remains Vivid Memory

By TOM HOGE

Associated Press Writer

On a frigid April day 25 years ago, a grimy line of freighters limped into the Arctic port of Murmansk, ending a nightmare supply shuttle that had lasted nearly four years and had played a vital role in keeping the Soviet Union from collapsing in World War II.

During those years, for nearly 1,500 miles—from Reykjavik, Iceland, over the Arctic Circle, around the North Cape of Norway and down to Murmansk—Allied ships sailed. Their holds were grammed with oil and explosives, their decks creaked under the weight of tanks and locomotives coated with frozen spindrift.

In sub-zero weather, lashed by polar gales and hammered constantly by German planes and U-boats, they delivered 16.5 million tons of war material.

The cost: 98 ships lost and 829 men known dead.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt decided to begin this hazardous supply convoy in July, 1941, after German troops had battled to within 30 miles of Moscow.

On Aug. 6, six British merchant ships, protected by an armed escort, made the first run. When the convoy reached Russia, America and its allies saw vivid proof of the desperate need. The vessels had hardly docked, when Russians clamored aboard, revved up tank motors, and steered the ships straight for the fighting fronts.

By September, the famed PQ convoys, the Royal Navy code name, had begun, and soon American Merchant Marine seamen were making the run to the Russian port.

Although Gulf Stream currents kept the route waters from freezing over in the winter months, some men nearly froze to death. One of these was Robert Carse, who was blown off the deck of a freighter by a German mine and thrashed around in the sea until rescued by a British ship.

Others survived torpedoes, like Raymond P. Holubowicz, an 18-year-old midshipman making his first sea voyage aboard the American freighter Syros.

The Syros, tagging along at the tail end of the convoy, was struck amidships. As its load of TNT and ammunition exploded, the Syros sank in scarcely more than a minute.

"I came to the surface and attached myself to a hatchboard," Holubowicz recalled. Holubowicz now vice president of the shipbuilding division of Litton Industries, said that as he looked about for help, he remembered the strict convoy rule: cargo ships could not pause to rescue anyone. Only escorting warships could do so—if they were not occupied in battle.

"I could see the last of the convoy pulling away," said Holubowicz. "It was quite a desolate feeling."

Holubowicz, dressed in Arctic survival gear, thrashed about for nearly half an hour in 29-degree water, before he was sighted and rescued by an escort lifeboat.

"I still remember it vividly," he said. "It's only recently that I have stopped having nightmares."

Robert Carse of Shelter Island, N.Y., who is now an author, served on merchant ship in every theater during the war. He rates Murmansk the most hazardous run.

"It was the worst experience imaginable," Carse told an interviewer. "We were plodding through sub-infested seas at about eight miles an hour, with nothing aboard for defense except four 30-caliber machine-guns from the first world war."

"My ship, The Steel Worker, was carrying 400 tons of TNT. You can imagine what would have happened if we had been hit. Those German bombers dove so close you could see the faces of the pilots."

The Steel Worker was sunk by a Nazi mine in Kola Inlet, after unloading the TNT. That's when Carse had his close call. Carse has written a book about the Murmansk run, entitled "A Cold Corner of Hell."

The Steel Worker, with Carse aboard, set out in Convoy PQ16 on May 21, 1942. There were 34 merchant ships in a two-mile-long column, flanked by an escort of warships. As they swung north into the Denmark Strait, a white frosty mist rose from the murky waters. Under radio silence, the ships had to sound their horns to give their positions to their groping partners.

When the fog lifted, it became worse, because the convoy now presented a clear target for the Germans.

After four days the enemy attacked, Carse recalled. Twelve junkers and 88 dive bombers swept over the convoy and opened fire. The guns of an escort warship caught the squadron leader's plane and blew it apart. The other attackers fled, only to return with reinforcements.

On May 30, the convoy reached Murmansk. It had lost seven ships and countless men.

Convoy losses became so heavy that in 1942 the British Admiralty advised that the runs be halted. But although both President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill were deeply concerned about the losses, they feared that without huge amounts of material, Stalin might be forced to negotiate a separate peace with the enemy.

Consequently, Churchill wired Stalin: "Fight our way through to you with the maximum amount of war materials."

The Murmansk run remained perilous until the war's end. Losses in February and March of 1945, when the war in the west virtually was over, totaled 12 ships.

Not only were freighters strafed, bombed and torpedoed on their way to Russia, but they were attacked on their return trips. For Adolph Hitler, determined to halt the flow of supplies that fed the Russian war effort, had ordered his pilots and U-boats commanders to sink every allied merchantman sight.

MIRV Deployment Plans Facing Some Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward W. Brooke has urged President Nixon to postpone plans to start deployment in June of multiwarhead MIRVs.

ACS Volunteers Meet Thursday

Put County American Cancer Society volunteers will be meeting Thursday, March 12 for the purpose of laying plans for the April fund raising crusade. Mrs. Van Fleming will hostess an orientation coffee Thursday, 10:30 a.m. at her home, 301 Olive Drive, for women who are heading areas throughout the county.

Men, who are area chairmen will meet at the Greenville Country Club at 12:30 p.m. Thursday.

pending upcoming arms limitation talks with the Soviet Union. The Massachusetts Republican also called for prompt Senate action on his resolution—cosponsored by 43 senators—urging the President to take the lead on a U.S.-Soviet moratorium of MIRV tests.

Brooke's appeal came after Secretary Robert C. Seamans Jr., disclosed Tuesday MIRV deployment will start in June with the Minuteman III land-based missiles.

"The continued momentum toward deployment of this potentially destabilizing technology is highly disturbing," Brooke said in a statement. "It could have the most unfortunate consequences for the impending SALT negotiations."

Earlier, in an interview, he said that the announcement of the MIRV deployment "date means 'the genie may well be out of the bottle.'"

Seamans gave the date to a closed session of the Senate Armed Services Committee. His statement was released to the public.

"After a number of delays and stretchouts we will start fielding the Minuteman III in June," Seamans said, adding that "based on tests to date we have high confidence in this system." Previous statements said deployment would occur in late 1970.

The Minuteman III, a replacement for the single warhead Minuteman II intercontinental ballistic missile, will carry three of the MIRV—Multiple Independently-Targeted Re-entry Vehicle—warheads.

Its sea-based partner, the 10-warhead Poseidon, will begin to take over next January from the single warhead Polaris nuclear submarines.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said deployment

'Blockbusting' Suit In Charlotte

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has charged that a Charlotte real estate firm induced white homeowners to sell out by raising the prospect that Negro buyers were moving into their neighborhood, a practice known as blockbusting. The suit filed Tuesday in federal court in Charlotte named CBS Realty. It charged that CBS violated the open housing provisions of the 1968 Civil Rights Act.

of the MIRVs will complicate the effort to reach an arms limitation agreement when the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks reopen April 6 in Vienna.

But he said he is "keeping his fingers crossed and hoping we can come to some agreement."

Mansfield also said he fears "the time has passed" for Senate action on Brooke's proposal calling for the United States to take the lead in seeking a moratorium on MIRV testing.

Brooke said he has made continued efforts behind the scenes for action on his proposal, opposed by the Nixon administration.

"I hope there is still grounds for negotiation of meaningful arms limitations," he said, adding "In my opinion, it does not enhance our chances for success at Vienna."

The administration takes the position that MIRV deployment is necessary for national security.

Jenkins Named To Commission

East Carolina University President Leo W. Jenkins has been named to the National Commission on Accrediting of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU).

Dr. Jenkins, who was appointed by the AASCU Board of Directors, will serve a three-year term on the commission. His term is effective April 1.

The appointment was the second this year for Dr. Jenkins, who was earlier named to a three-year term on the association's Committee on Allied Health Professions.

ty and that it will spur the arms talks by strengthening the U.S. negotiating position.

Gen. John D. Ryan, the Air Force chief of staff, said in his

Will Speak At Biology Seminar

Dr. Robert S. Tacker will speak on the effects of delayed fertilization on the developmental process in mammals to the Biology Seminar at East Carolina University Friday at 1 p.m. in Room 103 of the Biology Building.

An associate professor of psychology at East Carolina University, Dr. Tacker is a graduate of Memphis State University and the University of Tennessee. The talk is open to all interested persons.

testimony before the Armed Services Committee that while the Soviet Union has "not yet tested a hard target MIRV, they have the technology to develop such a MIRV, and we believe they will do so."

HUNGRY CLEANERS

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — An Anglican church in suburban Dunkeld decided to commemorate Shrove Tuesday with a traditional pancake race. The previous night, women of the parish stayed up late baking dozens of pancakes to be flipped in pans held by competitors. Next morning, the pancakes were gone—church cleaners ate them all.

At the present growth rate the U.S. population will reach 300 million by the year 2000.

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—On a clear day, the sun catches the turquoise glint of the waters that bathe Bermuda's coral beaches, and its rays play over rows of pastel-hued villas and palatial hotels.

To live in this smart little British colony with no income tax, no unemployment and only a nominal property levy, could anyone ask for more?

Yes.
Life is not quite so pleasant for those unable to maintain waterfront homes or sail about in sloops of fiber glass. Stenographers earn about $60 a week. Cleaning women get less than $50. Shop girls hover slightly above $40.

Merrill Cann, an earnest Negro youth of 19, is a trainee reporter on a Bermuda newspaper. He earns $58 a week, and spends close to half of it to feed himself and his mother.

Cann is trying to save to study journalism in England, but it's hard going. He has to dress decently on his job, but a good suit costs about $70 and a pair of shoes around $20.

Amusement is a problem in a colony geared to the tourist trade that keeps it afloat.

"A lot of these night spots charge $1 just for a soft drink," Cann said. "I sometimes go to the movies, but that's about $1.40 a seat."

Cann has not been particularly troubled by the racial situation which has disturbed many of the blacks who make up 60 per cent of Bermuda's 50,000 inhabitants.

"I have not encountered discrimination in hotels or restaurants," he said, "although some Negroes feel that there is definite job preference."

Cann would like to return to Bermuda after completing his education.

"We have our share of problems," he said, "but I feel that we are still better off than people elsewhere."

Life is a little easier for Jeffrey Estis, 22-year-old white who was born in Philadelphia.

He has worked for the Bank of Bermuda four years and is now in the trust department. His Bermuda-born wife Elizabeth, works in the "proof machine" or account balancing branch.

But money isn't exactly flowing in, as indicated by the fact that the teller's job Estis formerly held pays $65 to $85 a week. Still he has a house just outside Hamilton, one of the minicars Bermudans drive, and a reasonably pleasant existence.

"I have been fortunate in some ways," he said, jouncing 3½-year-old Brian on his knee.

"This house belongs to my mother-in-law and I rent it for about $100 a month. It would normally bring about $240 a month."

The family eats well, but food is an item they have to watch, since most food is imported.

"After all, a good beefsteak runs about $2.40 a pound at the butcher's," he said. Eggs go as high as $1.25 a dozen.

Like Merrill Cann, he is turned off by the fact that cafes and roadhouses gear prices to the tourist pocketbook. The couple do a lot of their entertaining at home. Scotch can be purchased for about $3 a fifth.

"I like living here," Estis said. "But it depends upon what happens over the next 10 years. The price of real estate is going out of sight, and labor costs and building prices are keeping pace. I am told that in another decade it will be virtually impossible to buy a house with a middle-income pocketbook. We'll just have to wait and see."

New Haven, Conn., was first settled by a group of Puritans in 1638.

By EDWARD J. SHIELDS
MOSCOW (UPI)—The sturgeon is an ugly fish, but the Russians call it "beautiful."

The sturgeon was out to lunch some million years ago when the rest of the fish were streamlined. It still has a prehistoric shovel nose, ridged back and armor-plate scales.

A female Beluga sturgeon can live to be 100 and tip the scales at one ton. She can also produce 50 to 100 pounds of caviar. And that's why the Russians call the sturgeon "the beautiful fish."

Hike In Price

It's the purity that matters for sturgeon these days. Not personal purity but that relating to pollution. And nothing has given environmental control a bigger boost in the Soviet Union than a 100 per cent hike in the price of sturgeon egg caviar—now about $23.50 a pound.

Sturgeon are finicky. They live and grow only in the Caspian Sea, but they spawn only in the Volga and freshwater rivers which drain into it. Hydropower dams and industrial pollution in the Volga have cut into the population of sturgeon.

The high prices caused by such scarcity have made sturgeon poaching a profitable pastime for any two men with a boat.

No Russian party worth the name is complete without a bowl of caviar, resting on ice blocks, to be folded into paper-thin blinis—a yeast pancake—and topped with sour cream, or to be spread on toast and lightly sprinkled with lemon.

Life-long feuds have been set off between those who favor the toast-and-lemon treatment and those in the brown bread-and-chopped onion school—helped along by large hookers of vodka, since that's the only thing to drink with caviar.

MEET THURSDAY

A group of interested citizens who have participated in the work of the Pitt Greenville Council on Aging will meet 10:30 a.m. Thursday at the home of Mrs. S.M. Crisp on East Fifth Street, Greenville.

The Worry Clinic Good Salesmen Make Business

Sam belongs to that group of vital economic "sparkplugs" who keep our entire business machinery operating. For without a sale, factories and offices stagnate. No pay checks are then possible! Our star salesmen have given America the leadership in world affairs. For a nation becomes "stagnation" without salesmen!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE K-585: Sam R., aged 34, is a star salesman.

"Dr. Crane," he grumbled, "I have worked day and night the past year to make sales.

"So I have set an all-time record with my company. I am now by far the biggest producer among all our 35 salesmen.

"In fact, my commission checks this year are greater than the salary of the sales manager at the home office!

"So now he is trying to reduce my rate of commissions, saying it isn't right for a salesman out on the firing line to make more than the salaried executives at the home office.

"Dr. Crane, is this right?"

No, the sales manager is woefully wrong!

And he is so myopic (short-sighted) that he may cost the entire firm a big drop in gross revenues.

For the salesmen are the sparkplugs of every business. Nobody else in the entire plant, including all factory workers and office clerks, sales managers and even the stockholders, can make a penny or receive any dividends UNLESS.

And that big "UNLESS" means, unless salesmen can bring in cash for the merchandise!

For no business can move ahead till somebody makes a sale!

The salesman thus is much like the human heart, for he starts cash circulating back through the pay checks of factory employees, clerks and executives.

So never penalize your salesmen!

Yet it is a common complaint of such sparkplugs that if they work doubly hard and win bigger commission checks than their salesmanager's salary back at the home office, then that salesmanager often grows envious and wants to reduce the salesman's commission rate or cut his territory.

Without the salesmen's superlative output, the salesmanager would not get any salary at all!

For everybody in every business lives on the backs of salesmen!

Even newspapers depend upon the Circulation and Advertising Salesmen to be able to keep afloat.

Oh, our smart editors try to help the salability of newspapers by shopping around for the most popular type of editorial features, as well as comics, but they do not stand at the actual

"point of sale."

So a star salesman rates the same praise as Paderewski or any other musical artist.

It took Paderewski many years to know which keys to strike to work his musical magic on concert audiences.

Same goes for the star salesman, except he strikes verbal keys instead of the black and white ivories on the piano.

One reason why Socialism and Communism lag far behind our "free enterprise" system, is their hostility to salesmen.

Without the go-getter American type of salesmen, a nation soon slides into stagnation!

So send for my booklet "The New Psychology of Advertising and Selling," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Army Helps To Find Manholes

HARLEM, Ga. (AP) — Members of the Army's 864th Explosive Ordnance Detachment at Ft. Gordon, Ga. were rushed to Harlem recently — to find the town manholes.

A contractor resurfaced the streets five years ago and neglected to mark the 25 manholes and main water valves. And the city water superintendent left and took the only set of plans.

After years of trying to cope with the problem, Mayor Hugh Groves called in the Army. Two bomb disposal experts were trundled up and down the streets locating the manhole covers with a mine detector.

Opening lead: Ten of ♣
West opened the ten of hearts against South's six heart contract, and the it was not a very enterprising lead. It must be conceded that he had a rather unattractive holding with which to launch an attack.

There were finesse galore in this hand. Declarer would be subjected to a guess or two as to which finesses to fall back on, but he selected a line of play which he considered gave him the best chance.

He drew the remaining trumps and, inasmuch as a club trick had to be lost, at all events, it was clear that he had to finesse the jack in dummy. This play depended upon the club honors being split. (If West held them both, so much the better.) However, it was a little more complicated than that for, after losing the first of the club finesses, declarer would surely have to contend with a spade return by East. What then should he do? Take the ace of spades and take the diamond finesse for the purpose of disposing of the queen of spades? Or trust the club suit to break three-three so that declarer's 13th club would provide a parking place for a losing spade out of dummy?

Declarer decided at the outset to make a play which, if it did not succeed, would not surrender the lead and would give him some indication as to which way the wind was blowing. He first played the ace, king, and another diamond which he ruffed. When the queen fortunately dropped, he had no more concern about disposal of the possible spade loser.

South was now ready to attack clubs. He led a small club, the jack went to East's king and, when the spade came back, declarer put up the ace. He entered the dummy with a trump and discarded the queen of spades on the high diamond. Declarer then ruffed himself in with a spade to take the second club finesse. When North's nine held, the day's work was over.

Sororities Pledge 65 Coeds In 'Rush'

The eight Greek-letter social sororities at East Carolina University have completed their formal rush period for winter quarter, 1970, and have pledged 65 coeds.

Formal rush is a deciding period for both the sororities and the rushees. Girls who enter rush are entertained by the sororities in a systematic series of parties conducted under the jurisdiction of the Panhellenic Council.

Each of the eight sororities are chapters of national groups and members of the national Panhellenic Council. They are Alpha Delta Pi (ADPi), Alpha Omicron Pi (AOPI), Alpha Phi, Alpha Xi Delta (AXiD), Chi Omega (Chi O), Delta Zeta (DZ), Kappa Delta (KD) and Sigma Sigma Sigma (Tri Sigma).

The names of the pledges, the sorority to which they are pledged, their parents' names and their hometown addresses include:

PITT COUNTY, Greenville — Sandra Fay Flye, Chi O, daughter of W.P. Flye, 201 Hardee Circle; Sandra Kay Floey, AOPI, daughter of Lloyd Farrell Foley, 213 Nichols Drive; Mary Ann Kirk, AOPI, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.D. ## Woman Seized Opportunity In Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — A man's world? Jacqueline Sher doesn't believe it.

At 25, Miss Sher is the president of a publicly-owned data processing center.

But she is far from the stuffed shirt, cigar-smoking image this title brings to mind.

"I've never smoked a cigar in my life, but I will—and do—compete with any man in the data processing business," says the Madjux Data Co. president.

Actually she doesn't crow about her accomplishments even though she's gone from keypunch operator to company president in six short years.

"I've found the opportunities are there for anyone professionally competent enough to take advantage of them," she comments.

Designs are being drawn for machines that will pick, wash and can tomatoes right in the fields.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., described as a man who "understands national defense and is not afraid to speak out for it," has been presented the 7th Annual Congressional Award of the U.S. Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The award was presented to Jackson by President Nixon during ceremonies Tuesday night. Nixon praised Jackson by saying, "In his public life, he has spoken out not as a partisan but as an American. He is a man who is a great credit to his party and to America."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin Laird reportedly has requested $1 billion for military assistance in Southeast Asia. The sharp increase represents a $650 million hike over the authorized $350 million.

The funds would be used to "prepare the nations of Asia to take over their own responsibility," Laird reportedly told a closed congressional hearing.

"Military assistance must be increased if the Nixon doctrine is going to move forward."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has refused to confirm a published report that it costs $70 million a year to operate the President's office.

Press secretary Ronald L.

Ziegler said Tuesday the budget for staff support and ordinary operations costs $8.5 million. He added the figure does not include various supporting programs financed by other federal agencies.

The Wall Street Journal said in its Tuesday editions that the $70 million is a rough estimate because "of the difficulty in assigning exact costs of services supplied by various departments and agencies outside the executive office itself."

These include expenses for armed services aides paid by the Defense Department, secret service operations financed by the Treasury Department, and White House police expenses absorbed by the Interior Department.
