

Rademacher Hopes Bargaining Can Begin Today

Some Key City Mail Workers Still Out

By JAMES PHILLIPS
Associated Press Writer
Postal workers in some key cities remained on strike today, ignoring court orders and pleas of their union leaders, but in other areas they stayed on the job or returned to handle an increasing pile-up of mail.

Plans were being prepared for using National Guard and regular Army units to supplement postal forces, but there was no indication on how soon a decision might be made on whether to use them.

In New York, where the strike started last week, a regional post office spokesman said "the work stoppage is still on." Only 14 of 208 clerks and one of 182 carriers showed up for the 6 a.m. shift at the main post office.

Chicago carriers also remained out, but Postmaster Henry W. McGee said first-class mail, at least, would go through with or without them. He said supervisory personnel would sort and handle the first class mail, if necessary.

At Philadelphia, nearly half of the 450 postal clerks normally at work on the early shift went to work at the main post office and some carriers also reported. One official said "There are a lot of clerks and mail handlers back on the job."

Boston reported 98 per cent of its clerks on duty, but many of the larger post offices in Connecticut were idle. Detroit also was hard-hit, with a mail embargo in eight southeaster Michigan counties.

Picket lines cut the work forces at the main distributing point for Los Angeles and at the World Way postal station at Los Angeles International Airport.

James H. Rademacher, president of the AFL-CIO National Association of Letter Carriers, estimated that 70 per cent of the nation's mailmen were back at work in 6,400 of the 6,500 cities. But many key cities across the nation still would be without mail service, he said.

Appearing on the NBC-TV Today show, Rademacher said he hoped bargaining could begin today. Both government officials and key Congress members have said they would not act under pressure of a strike.

Rademacher renewed his demand for agreement within five days of the start of bargaining, however, and said: "If I have to call a national strike, 'I'm going to ask (AFL-CIO President) George Meany and all the unions in this country to pull out their men in support."

A Post Office Department spokesman said no employees were on strike in seven postal regions. He listed them as Atlanta, Ga.; Dallas, Tex.; Memphis, Tenn.; St. Louis, Mo.; Seattle, Wash.; Washington, D.C.; and Wichita, Kan.

Order Issued Due Potential Crisis
School Bus Deliveries Delayed

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Board of Education has ordered that 650 new buses, originally designated as replacements at schools throughout the state, be held in Raleigh because of the potential school bus crises in Winston-Salem and Charlotte.

The state ordered the buses last August and December after annual inspections showed that about 650 buses in the state needed to be replaced. The state has now received 550 of the 650 buses ordered, but has not delivered any to various school systems.

"The state controller ordered that delivery of the buses be held up," said D. J. Dark, director of the Division of Transportation of the Board of Education.

Dark said delivery of the buses was being delayed because of the possibility that many of the new buses may be needed in Charlotte or Winston-Salem, or both.

The Mecklenburg-Charlotte school system is under a federal court order to bus thousands of students to achieve school desegregation. The school board says it will need 422 more buses to do the job. Federal Judge James McMillan, who approved the desegregation plan, has said it will take only 138 buses.

The constitutionality of a state law that prohibits busing to achieve racial balance in schools will be argued Tuesday before a three-judge federal panel in U.S. District Court at Charlotte.

In Forsyth County, that school system is faced with the possibility that it may have to give the same busing privilege to all pupils that it now gives to some.

A suit filed last year said pupils in newly annexed areas were entitled to continued busing under state law, and that other pupils in the system should have the same busing opportunity.

A hearing on that suit will be heard April 13 in U.S. District Court in Winston-Salem.

Dark was asked if the buses requiring replacement would last for another year if Charlotte or Winston-Salem took most of the 650 new buses.

"That's difficult to say," Dark said. "We inspected the buses last spring and found that, 650 needed replacing because they were 12, 13 or 14 years old."

The state also has 375 buses that were exchanged for new buses last year, Dark said, but he doesn't know how many of those would be serviceable. He says he has received no order to determine how many of the 375 used buses could be used in an emergency. Used buses usually are sold to private schools and other purchasers, but they also are being held until the potential busing crises are over.

Laotian Premier Avers
More North Vietnamese
Troops Invade His Land

By GEORGE ESPER

Associated Press Writer
VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Premier Souvanna Phouma accused North Vietnam today of sending 13,000 more troops into Laos recently, supported by tanks, rockets and long-range guns, to further Hanoi's "expansionist and ideological" aims.

Speaking on the 20th anniversary of the Royal Laotian army, Prince Souvanna said North Vietnamese forces had "captured" the Pathet Lao area which unequivocally belongs to the neutralist forces."

He presumably was referring to the Plain of Jars, which the neutralist faction he heads controlled in the early 1960s with Pathet Lao consent. After Souvanna became head of the government and the United States became his chief backer, the North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao took over the strategic plain in northeast Laos. They lost it last September to a guerrilla army trained and supported by the United States, then recaptured it in the offensive they began last month.

Souvanna said his government had called on the governments which signed the 1962 Geneva agreement guaranteeing Laotian neutrality to confer among themselves to find "a common and just solution to the Lao problem."

The Premier said his government had received the five-point Pathet Lao peace proposal "with the most attentive welcome, faithful as we are to the principles of a political settlement in justice and honor to our national dilemma."

No further North Vietnamese advance was reported in the area of Long Cheng, the headquarters 80 miles north of Vientiane of Gen. Vang Pao's guerrilla army. The North Vietnamese hit the base with about a dozen rockets Sunday, the third day they made such an attack, but no casualties or damage were reported.

The U.S. Command in Saigon said a U.S. Air Force OV10 Bronco was shot down over the Plain of Jars Saturday, but the pilot was rescued unhurt. The command announced the loss of two more planes over the upper panhandle of Laos, but they apparently were operating against North Vietnamese forces on the Ho Chi Minh trail and not in support of Laotian government forces.

Informed sources in Vientiane said as many as 100 U.S. Central Intelligence agents are training Meo tribesmen in Laos and Thailand for Vang Pao's Army. The sources said the CIA agents are working under the cover of the U.S. Embassy and the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID).

Thailand's Premier Thanom Kittikachorn has denied reports that two Thai army battalions were sent to reinforce Long Cheng but admitted that "some volunteers" may have gone there. Estimates in Bangkok of the number of volunteers, reportedly being trained by U.S. Special Forces teams, range from 300 to 12,000, with 5,000 being the most frequently mentioned figure.

Americans officially described as Army attaches constantly fly to Long Cheng as observers, sources said, but they never remain at the base 20 miles southwest of the Plain of Jars overnight.

"We wouldn't want the Communists to capture any Americans or find any American dead on the battlefield," one source explained.

Israeli Hit
Radar Base

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli warplanes flew deep into Egypt today and pounded a radar base in the Nile Delta about 100 miles north of Cairo, the military command announced.

No details were disclosed about the strength or extent of the strike at the radar station near the town of Baltim.

A military spokesman in Tel Aviv said only that all Israeli planes returned safely from the raid.

Baltim is on the Mediterranean Sea. It was last raided by Israeli jets Feb. 2 soon after Defense Minister Moseh Dayan defined the policy of air strikes into the Egyptian heartland as a way of weakening Egyptian morale and demonstrating Israel's supremacy over the skies of the Middle East.

The raid on the Baltim radar station today was the 16th Israeli air strike deep into Egypt since the beginning of the year.

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — George Best, English soccer idol, has received a new accolade of sorts—artist's model Lynne Dennis has his picture painted on her back.

Miss Dennis exhibited the portrait-on-flesh at a fashion designer's show Sunday.

"I think Georgie is fabulous," she said. "Just hate the idea of having to wash him off."

State GOP Leadership Fight Didn't Develop
In Weekend Convention

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — A threatened fight for the top post in the North Carolina Republican party failed to materialize Saturday during the final session of the state GOP convention in Winston-Salem.

James Holshouser of Boone was again elected to the chairman's post and planned opposition from supporters of Jim Gardner, the hamburger king who sought the Tar Heel governorship in 1968, lessened to a lower position.

The grumbling ranks of the state GOP managed to mount enough opposition to unseat Mrs. Helen Verbella of Lenoir, who had been state vice chairman for eight years. Elected to the No. 2 post in a surprise move in the final session was Mrs. Grace Rohrer.

Other than the election of Mrs. Rohrer, the convention went much as expected.

The convention passed most of its proposed platforms with only minor changes. The party added platform planks opposing the retirement system for legislators passed by the 1969 General Assembly and asked that an amendment to the state constitution allowing 18-year-olds be put on the ballot.

Convention delegates adopted a resolution opposing busing of school pupils to achieve racial balance, but beat back efforts to put the party on record in favor of diplomatic recognition of Rhodesia, a cutoff of trade with all nations that trade with North Vietnam and a trial of post office union leaders on charges of sedition.

Other resolutions passed included: Support of President Nixon's efforts to end the war in Vietnam; support of full anti-disruption policy on the consolidated University of North Carolina; proposed efforts to fight poverty and improve race relations, and efforts to raise the state's per capita income.

The convention also added to the platform a proposal for a 10-12 week summer kindergarten rather than the full-year program that is now in an experimental stage.

Asks Queen To Find Her Son

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II of Great Britain received a plea from a Lithuanian-born mother to help find her lost son when the royal family stepped ashore from their yacht Britannica at Tauranga today.

The woman, who broke away from a welcoming crowd and knelt before the queen in stocking feet, said she had not seen her son since she was sent to a German concentration camp 27 years ago. The boy was then 4 years old.

The bereaved mother said afterward the queen promised to help her.

Robert Ramey
Seeks District 1
Seat On Board

Robert Ramey of Greenville is a candidate for the District 1 seat on the Pitt County Board of Commissioners in the May 2 primary.

Ramey's name was omitted from an article appearing in Sunday's Daily Reflector which listed candidates for more than a dozen elective offices to be voted on in the May primary.

Ramey, a buyer with the A.C. Monk Tobacco Co. of Farmville, is seeking election to the commission seat now held by J. Vance Perkins of Greenville.

Perkins, who has served on the board for 20 years, is seeking reelection.

Pope Paul
Urges Work
For Peace

ROME (AP) — Pope Paul VI, in a Palm Sunday speech, appealed to Roman Catholics everywhere to work for peace.

"We must always desire peace and serve it and not lose faith in being able to achieve it," the pontiff declared from his window overlooking St. Peter's square after celebrating Mass before 20,000 persons in St. Peter's Basilica.

"We need to generate it in every hour of life and of history, and we know that we can do it because our peace is Christ."

In his speech, he deplored "growing and frightful armament" and exclaimed: "Poor peace! So abandoned, so necessary, so acclaimed, and still today, so feigned, offended and betrayed."

Protestors
Meet Police

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Policemen arrested 15 persons Sunday when a crowd of about 75 young people marched on the Mecklenburg County Jail to protest the arrest of 21 persons on drug charges.

The demonstrators broke seven windows in the jail with bricks being used for construction of a courtyard at the new jail.

There was some scuffling, but no one was seriously injured.

The rock-throwing protest was the climax to a draft protest earlier at Freedom Park. There were antidraft speakers, and four men burned their draft cards.

The demonstration at the jail was to protest the arrest last week of 21 persons on drug charges. Police ended a three-month investigation Friday with raids on three locations, including Central Piedmont Community College. Several students were arrested on marijuana or LSD charges.

Police had warrants for 26 in the drug raids. They continued to make the arrests over the weekend and so far have arrested 21.

Most of those arrested Sunday at the jail protest were charged with breach of peace and resisting arrest. One was charged with possession of tear gas and another with carrying a concealed weapon.

'Good Leads' In Probe Of Arson

SEATTLE (AP) — Investigators have several "very good leads" in their probe into an arson-caused hotel fire that claimed 20 lives here last Friday. Fire Marshal Stephen MacPherson said Sunday.

He said investigators are searching for persons believed involved in the fire which raced through the five-story Ozark Hotel.

board must select one which will best suit the needs of the children of Greenville for the coming school year.

Parents throughout the city are being asked to indicate the alternative which they prefer and to return the sheet to the schools attended by their children. This survey, with that conducted among teachers, will be compiled and considered by the Board of Education at a special meeting to be held on March 31.

Telegram Urges
Exercise Reason

Greenville letter carriers, who have remained on the job over the past few days, have been requested to "exercise reason" by James H. Rademacher, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers, in regard to the postal strike.

The local carriers received a telegram from Rademacher Sunday morning requesting that every carrier "exercise reason and return promptly to work Monday so that meaningful negotiations can swiftly take place."

The same telegram apparently was sent by Rademacher to other NALC locals.

Members of the Greenville Branch of NALC voted to support Rademacher's recommendations, according to Wayne Strawn, president of the local NALC.

Greenville letter carriers have been delivering the mail promptly and have not participated in the postal strike.

School Survey Forms Are Sent Parents

Survey forms to parents are being sent out today from the Board of Education, through the Greenville City Schools office.

Three basic choices — with five listed alternatives — are listed on the check sheet.

The survey forms, prepared by the Greenville School Administrative office, based on a motion by board member Mrs. Robert Kittrell, asks each parents to indicate their choice of alternatives for consideration of the arrangement to be used for the junior high school operation in the 1970-71 school year. Two Junior High Schools — Aycock and Eppes with attendance zones, or the same arrangement, with freedom of choice. At last Monday night's meeting, it was pointed out that his would entail remodeling and restoring Eppes, at a cost of about $200,000, with the idea that Eppes would then have to serve for probably several years in its remodeled status.

Two Junior High Schools — Aycock and South Greenville, with attendance zones or freedom of choice. In previous discussions, it was noted converting South Greenville would require about $75,000 to $100,000 and would result in a complete rezoning to distribute elementary children from South Greenville to other schools.

—The third choice, Aycock as the single high school, would entail additional facilities, primarily in the form of mobile units, at Aycock.

Any freedom of choice concept would of course be valid only if this resulted in a desegregated school situation.

Commenting on the matter of parents indicating preference, Mrs. Kittrell stated "It's my belief that all parents realize that none of these alternatives are permanent ones, but are temporary ones from which the

Body Of Drowning Victim Is Recovered By Rescue Squad

The body of Paul Oliver Mayo, who drowned in the Tar River near here March 6, was recovered by members of the Greenville Rescue Squad shortly after noon Sunday.

Mayo, 34, of Route 6, Greenville, drowned after entering the river at the Wildlife Fishing Access Area behind the Pitt-Greenville airport about 3:30 p.m. March 6.

Witnesses said they saw Mayo removed his shoes and shirt, then waded in the river briefly before swimming upstream for about 50 yards. They said Mayo then floated downriver and went under.

Members of the Greenville Rescue Squad searched the area with drags Friday afternoon and Saturday morning, then were joined by men and boats from the Ayden, Farmville and Bethel rescue units Saturday afternoon and Sunday, but with no success.

Dynamite was used during the following week in hopes of dislodging Mayo's body if it had become entangled in submerged limbs. Daily patrols of the river by rescue men were halted March 13.

According to Pitt County Coroner E.W. Harvey, who ruled the death accidental drowning, Mayo's body was seen floating in the river near the Greene Street bridge by a passing motorist yesterday.

Awareness Of Art Oppose New In N.C. Discussed Minimum

North Carolina is rapidly becoming one of the most art-conscious states in the Union according to Miss Jane Hall, arts editor of the Raleigh News and Observer.

Speaking to members of the Pitt County Historical Society meeting Thursday night at the Candlewick Inn, Miss Hall, a Greenville native, reviewed some of the art centers of the state beginning at Asheville and coming on East. She noted that even smaller cities, including Fayetteville, Pembroke, Wilson, Rocky Mount were developing their own art centers.

All the arts, she insists, are inter-related and all have a close affinity with history.

Miss Hall paid particular tribute to the heritage of Pitt County and, as she put it, "My own Greenville, where I came from and where, God willing, I shall someday return."

The speaker was introduced by Dr. Ralph H. Rives, program chairman, who also announced that plans for a tour later in the spring to Edenton will soon be made public.

Presiding at the dinner meeting was vice president Jack Lewis, Jr., of Farmville, in the absence of the president, Charles A. White, who was ill.

Mrs. Brantly Speight gave the treasurer's report.

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy gunners shot down two more U.S. Air Force planes over Laos and four Army helicopters over South Vietnam, the U.S. Command announced today. Three men were killed, two are missing and two were wounded.

The two planes, an F4 Phantom jet and an A1 Skyraider, were shot down Thursday and Saturday over the northern part of the Laotian panhandle while operating against North Vietnamese forces along the Ho Chi Minh Trail to South Vietnam.

One of the Phantom's two crewmen was rescued, but the other and the pilot of the Skyraider are missing. A total of 10 American planes have been reported lost over Laos in the two weeks since the U.S. Command began announcing American losses over Laos. Most of them were attacking North Viet-

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Dr. Guion Johnson has urged North Carolina women to act to bring the people of the state together.

Dr. Johnson, retired University of North Carolina faculty member and women's leader, told the North Carolina Council of Women's Organizations Saturday that women comprise "that segment which can create the climate of good will in the matter of divisiveness-unify the community—to do away with the feeling of segregation, and to bring society together."

"We must pull together the positive factors in every community," Dr. Johnson added. "There are a half million women in North Carolina who can be very persuasive to bring peace and harmony to our society."

Mrs. Ruel W. Tyson of Greenville was elected the council's president, Mrs. J. Frank Bryan of Booneville, first vice president; Mrs. Adrian Lineburger of Chapel Hill, third vice president, and Mrs. George P. Massey of Raleigh, treasurer.

Arson Suspected At Yacht Basin

NEW BERN, N. C. (AP) — Fire destroyed a yacht and two sail boats and damaged two other boats at the New Bern Yacht Basin Saturday, causing an estimated $50,000 damage.

Officers said they suspected arson caused the fire. They said electronic gear and radios were taken from the boats before the fire and this led them to believe the fire was set to cover up thefts.

Federal Aid For Legal Services

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mecklenburg County has received a federal grant of $48,836 for a six-month legal services program.

namese forces on the Ho Chi Minh Trail, but some were operating in support of Laotian government forces.

Sunday was the second day this month in which four American helicopters were reported shot down in South Vietnam, the other being March 6. Three crewmen were killed and two wounded in the crashes Sunday.

A total of 3,481 American helicopters have been reported lost in the Vietnam war.

Near Saigon Sunday night a terrorist grenade exploded at a Buddhist pray-for-peace meeting, killing 14 women and children and wounding 20 other people, according to government spokesmen.

The grenade exploded in the midst of a crowd of nearly 400 persons praying in a courtyard at Hoc Mon, a district town seven miles northwest of Saigon.

South Vietnamese military spokesmen said the terrorist who threw the grenade was believed to have been a woman who escaped in the confusion.

The casualties at Hoc Mon were the worst in a recent wave of terrorist bombings, primarily centered in Saigon. There have been half a dozen such incidents in the city in the past eight days.

Hoc Mon officials told Associated Press photographer Dang Van Phuoc the grenade exploded in front of a Buddhist pagoda facing the courtyard where Buddhists had gathered to pray for peace.

The most seriously wounded were evacuated by U.S. Army helicopters to Saigon. The rest of the survivors were treated at the town's medical center.

In another bombing Sunday night, an American soldier and a Vietnamese civilian were wounded by a terrorist grenade tossed into a beverage shop near a U.S. enlisted men's quarters just outside Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport.

The bombings and grenades, which until Sunday had been largely ineffectual, came about two weeks after official U.S. sources predicted stepped-up terror attacks in the Saigon area.

However, they said the attacks, part of a Viet Cong effort to create "an illusion of strength," would primarily be directed against U.S. and government buildings in the capital city.

On the battlefield, fighting picked up with 89 of the enemy reported killed in battles in the Mekong Delta's U Minh forest, south of Da Nang and north of Saigon along the jungled Cambodian border.

Road-Company Teachers This Wife Speaks Out On Fidelity

By WAMBLY BALD

PHILADELPHIA (WNS) — To help solve the school dropout problem, why not live up classroom instruction?

At least with occasional doses?

It can be done, and it is being done in thousands of schools throughout the United States, says Rick Trow, 30, who sends out road company teachers in fully equipped station wagons to present educational entertainment.

These traveling teachers bring the schools special programs that make the students doers, participants, creators of their own educational "happenings" which combine acquiring knowledge with exciting fun.

The program, he said, are sponsored by PTA groups, school funds, alumni associations, Chambers of Commerce, and also private corporations such as Institute of High Fidelity and Aerospace Industries Association, across the nation.

Trow, who calls his enterprise School Assembly Service, with headquarters in the Philadelphia suburb of Elkins Park, has been at it ten years. And, he says, the results in stimulating student interest have been remarkable. Last year, he pointed out, his traveling educational performers presented his special program to millions of students, teachers and school administrators.

Equipment

"It isn't merely that one of our teams comes to a school with educational slides, movies, lectures, period costumes, and other conventional equipment," he said.

"Our real purpose with these traveling teachers is to start something, create new interests with the students actually participating on practical levels. In some cases, we get students to consider new careers that they never thought of before. It's like raising a curtain to let them see what can lie ahead."

Trow listed some of the student participating programs, which included sessions in psychology, drama, chemistry, current events, pastel art, American adventure, current events, and upheavals in American history.

The students, he said, don't just sit around and listen. They are made actors in these "happenings" even to the extent of modeling the clothes worn in some period of history. In the drama sessions, they act; in the arts sessions they paint or sculpt. And in the current events sessions they get up on the stage and play the roles of leading statesmen.

Music

"We believe education should be dynamic, not dead," Trow said. "Suppose the session concerns music. We don't just explain music theory and play records. We explain sound by showing how a record is made. We set up sound demonstrations and let the students become directly involved with the mechanics of what is going on. It's a kind of partnership between them and the visiting lecturer."

Trow said the lecturers visit a school only a few times in the course of a year. But that was enough, he pointed out, to shift the academic emphasis from stale inertia to new dynamic educational processes.

"Our visiting lecturers encounter a lot of potential dropouts, so bored with the usual school routine they're ready to quit," he said. "Then a spark is struck somewhere in these student participation programs and they suddenly get interested."

Trow said that a lot of the rebelliousness of the younger generation is due simply to the fact that many teenagers have become directionless and bored, without being given a real chance to express themselves constructively.

"That problem must be tackled right in the schools," he said. "And that's what our school programs are all about."

Mrs. Curtis Gives Program

The Seira Book Club met Tuesday at the Greenville Health Studio for a program given by Mrs. Faye Curtis, owner and operator of the studio.

Mrs. Curtis explained and demonstrated the different types of programs offered by the studio.

Members participated in the exercise program and use of the reducing equipment.

Following the program, members met at the home of Mrs. Gail D. Jones for refreshments and a short business meeting. The new president, Mrs. J. Howard Moye, presided.

Luncheon Given Club Members

The Bonae Artes Book Club met at the home of Mrs. J.D. Wilson on Tuesday for a luncheon assisted by Mrs. James Tucker.

A brief business meeting followed the luncheon. This year's nominating committee for the new officers includes Mrs. Earl Aiken, chairman, Mrs. Ralph Brimley and Mrs. Graham Davis.

Mrs. Dana Hunt was a guest for the meeting.

Arrange furniture around a focal point or center of interest, such as a fireplace or window. Try to keep the furniture and the room balanced. The larger furniture should occupy the longer wall spaces. In smaller rooms, a spacious effect can be achieved by leaving most of the floor space open.

DEAR ABBY: The women in our small club were having a frank discussion about husbands stepping out, and I made the statement that I could forgive my husband if I caught him stepping out on me [I mean a one-night stand, not a serious affair of any duration], but I wouldn't put up with his spending money on another woman when there were things his family needed.

They all thought I was some kind of nut. Please don't misunderstand, Abby. I wouldn't encourage my husband to step out on me, but as long as I get my share of affection at home, I don't see why I should throw him out if he has a little extra fun at no expense to his family. But with money, it's a different story. Just let him deprive me or the children of anything money can buy because he spent it on another woman, and I'd lock him out. How do you feel about this, Abby?

MARGE

DEAR MARGE: For the first 50 years I'd demand 100 per cent fidelity. After that, I'd be a little more generous.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have some close friends. We have agreed to be the guardians for their children in case something happens to them, and they shall do the same for ours.

These people are dedicated to a religious movement in which teams of lay people spend the week-end in a church, leading prayer groups and church services.

We have a lot of respect and admiration for their devotion to their religion, but do not wish to participate.

So far, we have always been able to come up with a valid excuse for not accepting their invitations to go to these church meetings, but we fear the day when we've run out of excuses, and there will be a showdown.

How can we get out of going and still maintain our friendship with these people?

KENTUCKIANS

DEAR KENTUCKIANS: Don't wait for a showdown. Tell your friends that you do not care to participate in their religious activities. If you are sufficiently "close" for a reciprocal guardianship agreement, it seems to me you should be able to speak candidly without fear of damaging your friendship.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 13 years old, two other girls and I were caught taking a few cheap items from the cosmetic counter of a department store. They took us to the manager's office and we had to give them our names and addresses. We were told that they were going to call our parents, but fortunately, they never did.

Of course we gave back everything we had taken, and we promised that we would never set foot in that store again, and I know, I never did. We also promised we'd never steal another thing. I kept that promise.

Now I am 22 years old and in filling out a job application, I understand the question "Have you ever been arrested?" is asked. If I come across it, how should I answer?

SANTA ANA

DEAR SANTA ANA: Say NO. You were only caught and warned. That is not the same as being "arrested."

If the Shoe Fits...

BY LARRY AVERETTE

Should a shoefitter point out foot defects? Last week we explained that the shoefitter has a responsibility to show the customer a comfortable shoe in contrast to a stylish shoe the customer may want, but which doesn't fit her foot structure. How far should a shoeman go in alerting a customer to foot defects of which he may be unaware? We believe that a conscientious shoefitter owes it to his customers to point out foot disorders that are developing and to tactfully recommend that the customer get medical attention to correct the disorder before it becomes worse and results in a permanent disability. Some customers have reacted with confused emotions - some were very grateful - none showed resentment.

There is no Hypocritical Oath for shoefitters as there is for doctors, yet the ethical responsibility to suggest medical attention for foot ailments is just as essential.

There Should Be No Conflict

A Washington, N. C. speech by State Highway Commission Chairman Lauch Faircloth concerning development and conservation brought a pointed reply from Gov. Scott.

Faircloth said in his talk that Eastern North Carolina, progress must be our most important consideration," Faircloth was quoted as saying.

The governor said he did not see any basic conflict with overall administrative policy in the talk. "Certainly there will be no conflict in the future by the Highway Commission in the actual implementation of policy. Of that I am sure. I took care of that in the last legislature."

That meant that the legislature granted the governor's request giving him full control over tenure of Highway Commission members.

The governor had only recently given a speech at UNC warning of the dangers of pollution and outlining the steps he would take in fighting pollution.

There should be no conflict over conservation and development in Eastern North Carolina. There is no question that Eastern North Carolina needs industrial development if it is to lift the standard of living for its populace.

However, it should be easier for the state to control pollution in any area that is developing industrially than in one which has existing industries.

The whole nation is conservation conscious now and means are being developed to control water and air pollution which has been caused by industry. Industrial development is a recent thing in Eastern North Carolina and, while the new industry is essential, the state should see to it that proper pollution methods are carried out. We doubt if anything less will be required in any other section of the nation.

No Point In Wasting Money On The Idlers

The presidential plan for helping college students from low income families sounds good and it is good if it is used properly.

Under the plan outlined by Nixon eligible students from families of $4,500 annual income would be guaranteed a total of $1,300 each in grants and subsidized loans.

He said now is the time for the nation to achieve a goal that "no qualified student who wants to go to college should be barred by lack of money."

This is all right except when it is considered in light of some efforts current to eliminate grades, entrance qualifications and to install courses of questionable academic value in college curriculums.

It would be very easy to reduce some colleges to the point where uninterested young students would sit out four years merely to draw their government dole. Educators should guard against this and the government should make certain that the public's money is not spent supporting the indolent in mediocrity. Other than this, we would favor seeing that the intelligent and ambitious among the low income groups go as far in higher education as their talents will allow.

Sizes Seldom Stay The Same

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the ordeals of life is that sizes don't stay the same.

As soon as you get used to a size or an occasion that seems fitting, something happens to it. It changes.

It would seem pretty important that a size remain changeless. For example, how could we estimate the value of property we owned—or even find out just where it began or ended—if an inch yesterday weren't the same inch the day after tomorrow?

Or if a foot refused to stay a foot long—and no more or less?

Who could take pride in running a four-minute mile if someone haphazardly decided to shrink the length of the mile and at the same time extend the length of minutes and seconds? In time a tenderfoot Boy Scout would be able to limp a mile in less than two minutes on a stubbed toe.

Yet, although sizes are supposed to be standardized, something or someone always seems to be changing them.

Take the size of a $5 bill. You can measure it with a ruler and measure the size of a steak it would buy 10 years ago. Something has happened to the size of one or the other.

In some restaurants the size of a steak that a $5 bill will buy can't even be measured accurately with a ruler. You need a micrometer.

How about that girl you married 20 years ago who bragged she wore a size 10 dress?

She still says she feels uncomfortable in anything larger than a size 10 dress.

But if you took one of those dresses she buys and propped it up lengthwise with tent-poles, you could drive a Jeep through it without touching the sides. Does that mean the size of Jeeps is being miniaturized?

The problem is even worse in men's wear. Remember when a fellow felt comfortable in a shirt with a size 15 neck, a pair of size 9-C shoes, a 36-inch belt and a size 40 suit?

Well, today that same fellow—no more than 25 years older—feels pinched by a size 9½ pair of shoes, a size 44 suit, a size 40 belt and a size 16 shirt. He is uncomfortable from toenail to tonsil.

The real truth is that sizes aren't constant in any field anymore. Years feel shorter than they used to be, but many a day lasts interminably longer.

The size of wars appears to be even harder to figure. You get in one that you are assured is small, preventive economy-size war, and the next thing you know it is unmistakably bigger, doesn't appear particularly preventive, and is about as economical as bankruptcy.

Even the size of words has become confused. There was a time when a big deal was a big deal. But now when your wife says to you, "big deal,"—well, you don't feel like a major wheel.

Unless some agency like the U.S. Bureau of Standards can help us standardize our standards, how are we ever going to be able properly to size-up our size-ups?

The Ladies' Revolution

NEW YORK — One of the many revolutions that has to be dealt with this year is the Women's Liberation Movement. Some men are treating it as a joke, but many men are taking it seriously.

My friend Rowland said to me the other evening at a bar in New York City, "I don't know what to do."

"Why?" I asked. "I love my wife, but I believe in the Women's Liberation Movement."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, the women are right. They say that marriage is wrong and that no woman should be tied to any one man."

"Is that what they say?" "Of course, and if you see it from their point of view, why should only one woman have access to me, when there are so many others that are just as deserving?"

"Rowland," I said, "are you sure that the Women's Liberation Movement was formed to share husbands?"

"Certainly. Most of us have been treating other women with 'benign neglect' for years, and now we're paying the penalty. By maintaining the status quo at home, we have encouraged less fortunate women to radicalize and try to win, through revolution, what they couldn't win through elections. You can't blame them for wanting a piece of the action."

"You're a true liberal. Rowly," I said.

"I've become a realist," he said. "For years, like most married men, I was blinded to the oppression of women around me. I knew they were in chains, but I was afraid to speak up and to act on their behalf. I rationalized by saying, 'If I can keep my wife happy, I'm doing enough.' But I was living a lie. The only road to true equality is to make every woman happy, regardless of the sacrifices it entails."

"That's beautiful," I said. "When women ask to be liberated," Rowland said, "they are asking to be treated as human beings, no more, no less. They want dignity, understanding and someone who cares. If that demands a revolution, then I say I will become part of their revolution."

"You're not advocating violence, are you?" "I'm not for violence per se," Rowly said. "But if a woman becomes violent over me, I'm not as young as I used to be." Rowland said, "but I'll liberate as many as the good lord will let me."

"You're a saint, Rowland. A saint."

"I'm only doing what is right," he said modestly. "There comes a time in a man's life when he must stand up and be counted."

"Have you discussed this with your wife?"

"That's what I've been trying to tell you. I'm staying in town by myself tonight."

Sincerely,
Betsy B. Allen

Public Forum

To the Editor:

In this time when the publicity that our young people receive is so often unpleasant, it is most refreshing and encouraging to see examples of young people who are unselfish and eager to help others.

Recently Pitt Memorial Hospital and Greenville were privileged to have Miss Jeannie Buck of Blounts Creek in our midst for three months. Eighteen-year old Jeannie was in an automobile accident in November and rushed to Pitt Memorial Hospital with a broken back.

Adults, particularly Dr. Ira Hardy and all of the employees on the second floor at the hospital, were eager and willing to go beyond the call of duty to do much for her. But the wonderful thing is that local high school and college students were willing to give of their time regularly to visit Jeannie, to shampoo her hair, to help her in her art work, and to encourage her in every way. When the time came for Jeannie to go to Warm Springs, Georgia, for therapy, Cindy Ellington collected some thirty dollars in small change from her friends at Rose High School. Cindy and Jan Ellington and Jean Forrest spent hours with Jeannie and shampooed her hair weekly. Julia and Jeff Wilson and a group of East Carolina students visited her regularly and gave her an exciting going away party just before she left. Mike Gaston, another East Carolina student, voluntarily visited Jeannie weekly to give her art instruction.

There were many more young people who meant much to the life of this lovely girl who is less fortunate than many. We can surely be proud that our youth, through Christian love and concern, recognized a need beyond themselves and took action. This is the type of demonstration we need to see more of.

American Work Goes Overseas

By ELMER ROESSNER

With unemployment rising, the United States is still exporting jobs to cheap-labor countries, judging from a series of advisory opinions by the Federal Trade Commission.

The FTC offers advisory opinions on labeling requirements when part of an item is made abroad. Here are some recent rulings which indicate people in low-income foreign countries are doing work that could be done by jobless Americans: One company said that coil windings for auto ignition coils would be made in Japan for 84 cents each, or 45 per cent of total production costs. The FTC said that although a claim that the coils were made entirely in the U. S. was not permissible, it was not deceptive to fail to state where the component was made.

Split Credit For Split Leather

Another company said it was buying semi-processed split leather in the U. S. and sending it to Taiwan where it was further processed, cut and sewn into work gloves. It wanted to label them, "Made from American split leather." No-no, said the FTC, but it could say, "Made in Taiwan—American split leather exclusively used."

A manufacturer of clock-radios buys radio chassis in Japan for $2, about 29 per cent of total production costs, and finishes the items in the U. S. It wants to label the items, "Made in the U.S.A." No, said the FTC; the origin of the radio chassis must be disclosed.

Another manufacturer will cut and prepare American-made fabrics together with buttons, zippers and thread to send to Tijuana for stitching and assembly. Foreign labor costs will represent from 15 to 20 per cent of total production. The FTC said the Mexican part need not be included in the label.

However, it advised the manufacturer to check the requirements of the Bureau of Customs.

Another manufacturer wants to send cut blouses, buttons and thread to Trinidad for assembly, which would be 26.4 per cent of production costs. The FTC said that while the product could not be labeled "Made in the U. S.," it need not mention Trinidad.

"Sewn Not 'Made'" Still another will send American fabric to Puerto Rico where it will be cut and sorted, then to Haiti where it will be sewn. Hem sewing, ironing, final checking, sorting, packaging and tagging will take place in the U. S. The enterpriser

Costly, Hard & Painful

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Following the 1967 riots that scourged American cities, hundreds of corporations plunged into urban affairs programs, some out of guilt, others because of self-interest, more because they felt able to help.

They donated cash, offered the services of staffs and executives, even set aside parts of their facilities. Many began minority hiring programs, and a relative few became involved in economic development programs.

Now, less than three years later, the evidence seems to suggest that many companies have pulled back, that their confidence has been tempered if not shaken, and that a period of reflection and reduced activity has set in.

These are some of the conclusions reached by Dr. Jules Cohn, a former college professor now on the staff of McKinsey & Co., management consultants. His study is reported in the current Harvard Business Review.

"No one says he wants to give up," Cohn writes, "but a large majority of the top executives interviewed feel it is time to re-examine commitments and, perhaps, recast programs."

In one broad area, that of community relations, Cohn said in an interview that businessmen "don't know what to do." "Business has learned that this is hard, painful, costly stuff," he said. "It's more likely now than ever that businessmen will react only to the extent that there is pressure."

Based on his study of the experiences of 247 major corporations, Cohn believes that business was naive. Businessmen understood why government failed but, he said, they unwisely convinced themselves, "We have the know-how."

They had reason to be optimistic, Cohn stated, because they had great records of achievement. But they learned, he added, that while they were expert in running companies, they had few skills in community politics and black-white relations.

"They were used to being able to command respect," he said, "but they were unable to command it from the blacks. They were boycotted and called names."

In decisive matters "they found that people didn't always agree with them, and they found they had no control over these people. They had the same problems that college presidents have with students today."

He quotes one top executive as saying, "I don't think any of us really knew what we were getting into. We saw action was needed, and we moved fast, maybe too fast. The task turned out to be Herculean."

Whatever the reasons, he states in the article, "only a third of the 247 companies are actively hiring the hard core, and fewer than half of these provide special training and upgrading programs."

If the experience has not been mutually satisfactory, the companies nevertheless have obtained some benefits. "I believe the nature of companies is changing because of their experience," Cohn said.

"Companies thought they knew how to train, for example, but they learned they hadn't adjusted in decades. Personnel

TEACHING

Tuesday of Holy Week was a day of teaching. Jesus confirmed his authority as one who had come from the Lord for a special purpose. Before him lay suffering. Beyond the suffering lay triumph. Jesus undoubtedly looked down the centuries and saw it all.

He warned those who would not accept the visitation of mercy and salvation God had sent to them through Christ himself. "The publicans and the harlots go into the kingdom of God before you," cried Jesus. "For John came unto you in the way of righteousness, and ye believed him not; but the publicans and the harlots believed him; and ye, when ye saw it, did not even repent yourselves afterwards that ye might believe him."

It was a day of harsh teaching. "The kingdom of God shall be taken away from you, and shall be given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof" (Matthew 21:43).

Through all this day of teaching there was violent controversy between Jesus and his opponents. They tried to ensnare him by asking if it was right to give tribute to Caesar, but his answer was "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's; and to God the things that are God's" (Matthew 22:21; Mark 12:17).

A little compromise would have settled it all for Jesus. But it would have destroyed him and his spiritual ministry.

On this day Jesus foretold the destruction of Jerusalem, and forty years later (A. D. 70) it occurred as he had said. He spoke in praise of the cup of cold water given in his name.

Service Growth

The expanded use of Pitt Memorial Hospital is clearly shown by a comparison of pertinent figures of 1960 and 1969.

Some 7,224 patients were discharged in 1960; 10,342 in 1969. Total days of care given were 41,644 in 1960; 70,491 in 1969. Of these total days, 2,451 were newborn days and 39,193 were adult days in 1960, and in 1969, 4,705 were newborn days and 65,786 were adult days.

The average number of patients per day was 109.3 in 1960. In 1969 patients per day averaged 180. The average stay per patient was 5.6 days in 1960. In 1969, it was 7.2.

Only charity days decreased because of payment of Medicare and Medicaid benefits. The total in 1960 was 9,950; in 1969 it was 5,300.

Some 44,911 laboratory tests were performed in 1960. The lab load in 1969 was 120,029.

The number of x-rays made in 1960 was 5,758. This figure was almost tripled by 1969—it increased to 16,514.

Total operations performed in 1960 was 2,858. In 1969, the total was 5,462.

The total number of live births on the hospital records in 1960 was 879. Some, 1,248 babies were born there in 1969.

A look at this summary of hospital services during the intervening years shows a steady rise from year to year under almost every heading except newborn days and total live births in 1966-1968. These increased considerably between 1968 and 1969.

policies and training procedures are going to be reshaped."

In addition, some corporate progress may have been made in areas where standard accounting methods are inadequate to measure. Corporate officers are left with few general ways to estimate the payoff, Cohn states.

Among the general measurements available:

—Effect on corporate image or reputation. Executive of about 80 per cent of the companies believe the programs strengthen their reputations.

—Effect on operational environment. Executives of about 35 per cent of the companies feel that their programs help discourage violence, boycotts and other threats to operations.

—Promotion of new markets. Executives of about 12 per cent of the companies have opened new markets by attracting minority-group customers and by selling their services as consultants to other companies and to government agencies.

Nevertheless, Cohn said in the interview, business must decide whether it or government is to do the job of improving the urban environment and race relations.

An estimated $775 property damage resulted from two Sunday collisions investigated by Greenville police.

Heaviest damage resulted from a 1:27 a. m. collision on Fifth Street, 50 feet East of the Maple Street intersection.

Investigators reported a car driven by Constance Marie Howard of 2509 East Fifth St. collided with a parked car owned by L. H. Lipscomb of Fayetteville, causing an estimated $300 damage to the Lipscomb auto and about $200 damage to the Howard vehicle.

Officers charged Miss Howard with leaving the scene of an accident and improper equipment.

Henry Esmond Worthington, 50, of Route 1, Winterville, was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign following investigation of a 4:01 p. m. mishap at the intersection of First and Elm Streets.

Investigators reported the Worthington car collided with a vehicle driven by Judith Hutchins Jones, 28, of 2709 East Second St.

Damage was set at $125 to the Jones vehicle and $150 to the Worthington car.

No injuries were reported.

Fifteen Injured By Discotheque Bomb

NEW YORK (AP)—A pipe bomb exploded Sunday night at Manhattan's Electric Circus discotheque, injuring 15 persons including eight students on an Easter holiday recess from their North Carolina college.

All but three of the injured were treated and released, hospital spokesmen said. One youth suffered a fractured left leg and another second degree burns of the thigh.

The blast came 20 hours after a bomb exploded at a Bronx brokerage firm knocking out the door and windows. Another bomb was found on the window ledge of the bank next door and disarmed before it could explode. There were no injuries in the brokerage house blast.

The Electric Circus, located on St. Mark's Place in the heart of the East Village, is known for its rock music and psychedelic lighting.

A sparse, rainy-night crowd of about 150, including the vacationing students from Western Carolina University in Cullowhee, N.C., was on hand at 11:40 p.m. when the bomb went off. "I couldn't believe it," said Rose Pleasant, 18, of Reidsville, N.C. "I thought it was part of the show. Everybody started screaming. Somebody grabbed me and I hobbled to an exit door and down the fire escape."

Police said the pipe was packed with small ammunition that acted like shrapnel. It included a clock timer and one round to set it off.

The discotheque is located in a four-story brownstone. It does not serve liquor and caters primarily to older teen-agers and young adults.

Eight Died On Weekend

Traffic accidents claimed at least eight lives in North Carolina during the weekend, pushing the state's highway death toll for the year to 294.

The State Highway Patrol said that during the corresponding period last year 323 persons were killed in traffic accidents in the state.

Two of the weekend traffic victims were pedestrians. The patrol said they were Neal Archey McMillian, 70, of Rt. 2, Lumberton, he was hit on a rural road three miles south of Fayetteville, and Valadie Bohdanov, 26, of Amhurst, Mass., who was fatally injured when struck by a car on I-95 near Fayetteville.

Other weekend victims included: Charles William Ferguson, 49, of Eden; Hattie Williams, 54, of New Hill in Wake County; Morris Lee Woodell, 17, of Robbins; Dewey McCall Morris, 23, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Randolph Jones, 28, of Rt. 1, Trenton; and Mercy Worley of Rt. 1, Hobgood.

Saturday Mishap Injured Driver

Jane Elizabeth Tuck, 25, of Jacksonville was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of an 8:58 p. m. mishap Saturday on Willow Street, 25 feet West of the Woodlawn Avenue intersection.

Police, who reported Miss Tuck was injured in the mishap, said the Tuck car collided with a parked car owned by Cora Megregor Bell of Rocky Mount, causing an estimated $350 damage to the Tuck vehicle and about $90 damage to the Bell auto.

Make your husband wait in the car, and never shop when you're hungry.

If you shop when your appetite is raging, things that normally wouldn't tempt you suddenly look great. You buy more than you need. If your husband goes with you, you're in double trouble. There are two of you to be tempted...two of you to buy things on impulse. You spend more on snacks and gourmet goodies, and wind up with less of the things that get you through a week's worth of wholesome meals. But worse than shopping hungry, worse even than shopping with a man, is shopping without a plan. So Planters has a plan. A whole book of plans, in fact. It tells you what to buy. Plans your meals. Gives you recipes like the one below. Even tells you what to take out of the freezer for the next day. It's called "How to Feed Four, for $1.00." It usually costs a dollar. But Planters even has a plan to save you money on the book. Just send 60¢ to Planters National Bank, Box 1220, Rocky Mount, North Carolina for your copy. It'll really help you save on food. And Planters is out to help you save this year—every little way we can.

Stuffed Roast of Veal with Potatoes

3 pounds veal roast, bone in
1 medium onion, chopped
2 stalks celery, chopped
6 tablespoons margarine
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
salt and pepper to taste
1 cup water
2 cups dry bread cubes
1 egg, slightly beaten few sprigs of parsley, chopped paprika
4 medium potatoes, peeled and halved cherry tomatoes

Have your butcher cut a pocket in the veal roast and crack the bone for easier carving. Cook onion and celery in 2 tablespoons of the margarine until almost tender. Add poultry seasoning, salt, pepper, and water, and bring to a boil. Add mixture to bread cubes, egg, and part of the parsley. Mix well and then fill veal pocket with stuffing, packing firmly and then sewing or skewering opening securely. Place roast in roasting pan; spread with remaining margarine; sprinkle with salt, pepper, and paprika, and roast, uncovered, in a 325° oven for about 2 1/2 hours, basting frequently with pan juices, and adding water if pan becomes too dry. Meanwhile, cook potatoes until partially done. When meat is tender, put potatoes in pan and sprinkle with salt, pepper, and paprika; continue roasting 45 minutes longer, or until potatoes are done. Garnish with tiny cherry tomatoes and rest of parsley, and you'll need only bread to complete your meal.

Over 2,000 At 'Open House'

Over 2,000 visitors toured the Empire Brushes plant facilities Saturday afternoon during open house activities marking the plant's Fifth Anniversary in Greenville.

Personnel Manager Walter C. Faulkner said Empire officials were "very pleased and gratified" at the number of persons who braved the inclement weather to tour the plant.

Faulkner pointed out that during the first hour of the activities, from 12 to 1 p.m., approximately 225 visitors registered and they were shown the various manufacturing, packing and shipping department at the plant.

The remaining four hours of the open house, accompanied by steady rains, brought an average of 250 persons per hour, he said.

Tours were set up for visitors, Faulkner said, through a series of arrows positioned at various points to guide persons from the beginning to the final rung on the Empire brush manufacturing ladder.

Department supervisors were also on hand to answer questions in their respective areas and others were stationed at display stations to point out different aspects of the plant's operation.

The weather forced many of the visiting officials from the Meridian, Miss. and Port Chester, N.Y. plants to divert their flights from Kinston to Fayetteville, he said, and others landed at the Raleigh-Durham airport.

"We were very happy with the turnout, Faulkner said, "especially in view of the bad weather." The open house also marked the 60th Anniversary of the Empire Brushes overall operation.

Uncover Early Indian Site In New England

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — A sociology professor and 25 students and naturalists have uncovered the site of a nomadic Indian culture near the Connecticut River Valley which may date back to 1300 B.C.

Prof. Robert E. Lowrie, assistant professor of sociology at the American International College who lead the expedition, said: "Vague rumors about the site have been floating around for years." He and his associates turned those rumors into facts when they started to survey and excavate the site.

"Actually there are two sites," said Lowrie. "On the first site we found very little and eventually abandoned it. A quarter-mile away from the first one we began intensive work." Most of the artifacts were found at the second site.

Pottery and tool fragments were found along with traces of fire pits and remnants of hut-type dwellings.

The Ayden Fire Department answered the call at 1:04 p.m. "The gas tanks were being filled when a spark from a neon sign near the gas vent pipe evidently fired the fumes," Fire Marshal Mike Worthington stated. Damage was confined to approximately $100 in the vicinity of the vent pipe.

Mario Used Two Of Southern Conf. Teams In Sunny Florida For Victory

By ERIC SHARP

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — He used two Ferraris in doing it and for a while it looked as if he might be beaten by an actor, but Mario Andretti managed to win the wildest 12 hour endurance race ever run at Sebring.

"That looked like the end," Andretti said in Victory Lane when talking about his first car, a five liter Ferrari that went out with gear box troubles Saturday while holding a 70-mile lead with only one hour to go.

Slumpshouldered and near tears, he took over another Ferrari that had been driven by Ignazio Giunti and Nino Vacarella of Italy.

But the bright red car was running third behind a five-liter Porsche driven by Mexico's Pedro Rodriguez and Finland's Leo Kinnunen and a three-liter Porsche driven by actor Steve McQueen and Peter Revson of the U.S.

Then the Rodriguez-Kinnunen Porsche was forced out with a burned wheel bearing only 15 minutes from victory.

Andretti zipped under the checkered flag 22.1 seconds ahead of the McQueen-Revson Porsche.

Third place was taken by a three-liter Alfa Romeo driven by Masten Gregory of France and Tonye Hazemans of Holland.

McQueen's Porsche won the prototype class while the victorious Ferrari took over-all and sports car honors.

Americans Take 3 Gold Medals In Ski Meet

LABRADOR CITY, Nfld. (AP) — U.S. skiers toasted themselves with champagne Saturday after Ken Corrock of Aspen, Colo., flashed to victory in the men's slalom at the Canadian National Alpine Ski Championships.

Victory by the 20-year-old University of Denver student gave the strong American team three gold medals in the windup of the three day championships at nearby Smokey Mountain.

"Just a little revenge," said Scott Pyles, 22, of Vail, Colo., referring to the previous weekend's combined victory by Canada's Bill McKay at the U.S. Nationals.

Pilots' Case Is Back In Courts

SEATTLE (AP) — The perplexing plight of the Pilots goes back to the courts today, with a hearing on a request for a temporary injunction to block a proposed move to Milwaukee.

The plot thickens Tuesday with another hearing on a request by Pacific Northwest Sports Inc., operators of the Seattle team, for an injunction to pave the way for selling it.

Bill Stoneman, who pitched a no-hit game for the Montreal Expos last season, had won only eight games in his three previous seasons in organized baseball before 1969.

Says Bruins Made Their Point Without Alcindor

By TOM SEPPY

Associated Press Sports Writer COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Steve Patterson says UCLA wanted to prove it had a great team this season without Lew Alcindor. And he thinks the Bruins made their point.

"I think we established ourselves as No. 1," he said after UCLA defeated Jacksonville 80-69 Saturday. "We proved we were five guys who could play together."

Patterson, a 6-foot-9 junior from Santa Maria, Calif., said the Bruins have felt the pressure of playing in the shadow of 7-foot-2 Alcindor, who dominated the team last season.

Miller Charges Stalling Over New Contract

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Marvin Miller, the Major League Baseball Players Association's executive director, has charged club owners with stalling in the negotiations of a new contract.

Miller said Sunday, however, that he would not recommend strike action at the present time.

A contract proposal already has been rejected unanimously by the player representatives, Miller said, and players on the 24 clubs will be asked to vote on the same proposal within the next 10 days.

After the vote on acceptance or rejection of the contract proposal, the players will vote whether to play while negotiations continue.

The contract between owners and players expires April 5, the day before the season begins.

ed college basketball from 1966-69 and led UCLA to three consecutive titles.

"It worked on the fellows," said Patterson, who played behind Alcindor, the past two seasons.

"You know, you come into a city to play and the newspaper headlines say: 'Alcindor - less UCLA.' When you see that every place you go, it works on you."

Coach John Wooden told newsmen all week long he did not think he had to prove himself over again without Alcindor, rumors to the contrary.

"If I had not won before having Lewis," he repeated often, to what they are saying. But I didn't think I had to prove anything."

Wooden has had 22 consecutive winning seasons at UCLA and won the national championship in 1964 and 1965, missing out only in 1966, before taking the next four.

The Bruins coach told newsmen he believed he had five teams that should have won the national championship but did not.

Wooden also believes he will have an outstanding team next year since he loses only senior guard John Vallely. It is understood he has two equally talented young guards waiting in the wings to take Vallely's place.

Returning next season will be the tournament's most valuable player-6-8 Sidney Wicks of whom Wooden said: "I don't know of any forward in the country I'd trade for him."

Curtis Rowe, a 6-6 forward who made the all-tournament team along with Wicks and Vallely, Patterson and sophomore Henry Bibby, a 6-1 outside shooting guard, also will be back.

Wooden told newsmen the key to UCLA's latest national title was the change on defense he made in an effort to stop Jacksonville's 7-2 Artis Gilmore after the Dolphins jumped to an early lead.

The Bruins coach said it was his plan to play Wicks in front of Gilmore but have his guards attack the ball handlers and prevent them from getting the ball to the giant center. It didn't work.

Wicks said the Dolphins beat him by lobbing the ball over his head and set Gilmore up for a couple of easy layups.

"I couldn't move him anyway," said Wicks. "But then Coach Wooden moved me behind him and Steve Patterson in front of him and we sort of pinched him."

Gilmore made seven field goals during the first 15 minutes but then went the next 16 minutes without a basket. He ended the game with 19 points.

Wicks said Alcindor had a lot to do with the way he handled Gilmore, outbounding him 18-16 and blocking five of his shots.

"I played Lew a good bit in practice last year and he scored on me anytime he wanted to," he said. "I was a little worried because he (Gilmore) is even taller."

Wicks said he tried to maneuver Gilmore so that the taller Dolphin received the ball 6 to 7 feet from the basket. Then he would back away from him.

"Those tall guys can't dribble that well, so he would have to come to me in an awkward way," he said. "Then when he went up for his shot, I could time it better and try to get a hand on it."

Patterson said he thought Gilmore was tough but is no Alcindor.

"Let me put it this way," he said. "Sidney blocked some of his shots, and I've never seen him block even one of Alcindor's shots in practice."

After their experiences with the weekend weather, six Southern Conference baseball teams may wish their schedules had been drawn up for this week the same as those of Davidson and William and Mary.

While the rest of the league fights the traditional unpredictable weather of March, the Wildcats and the Indians will be off to sunny — they hope — Florida, where the victories usually are few and far between but the conditions are ideal for getting in shape.

Both Davidson and William and Mary are scheduled for six games on their southern road trips. Surprisingly, the Indians already have gotten in six games at home, but they've had their last two scheduled starts rained out. Davidson has played just once and been rained out twice. Furman's defending conference champions already have had their Florida fling, during which they won just once in five starts. The Paladins lost three games in a row by one run at Stetson but then came home and walloped South Carolina of the Atlantic Coast Conference 8-1.

Very few games survived the rainy weather that swept through the entire conference area the end of last week and over the weekend. The Citadel's Bulldogs, looking very much a contender after a runner-up finish in the Southern Division last year to Furman, pounded East Tennessee 8-1 for their fourth consecutive triumph.

But Richmond's Spiders, usually near the top of the league standings, were routed in their season opener 14-3 as Massachusetts pounded out 18 hits, seven of them for extra bases.

William and Mary opens its trip today at Rollins and Davidson is at Florida Southern. Closer to home, Furman is host to touring Mt. Union and George Washington visits Clemson of the ACC.

Kathy Whitworth Wins 3 In Row

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth claimed her third straight victory in the Orange Blossom Classic golf tournament Sunday after taking over the lead in the final round as youngster Sue Roberts skidded to 16th place.

The steady veteran picked up $2,775 for the first place finish in her one-stroke victory over runnerup Carol Mann. Miss Whitworth had a par 71 Sunday as Miss Mann finished with a 72.

Miss Roberts, the 21-year-old tour sophomore who has led through the first two rounds, took double bogeys on three holes and single bogeys on two others as she came home with an 11-overpar 82.

Wilt's Knee Is Healing, And He's Now Pain In The Neck To Opposition

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wilt Chamberlain's knee is healing ... and now he's just a pain in the neck to the opposition.

Los Angeles' super center, recovering from an early season knee operation, played 42 minutes Sunday in his third comeback game and helped the Lakers topple Seattle 121-118 Sunday in the National Basketball Association.

Chamberlain scored 21 points and had 18 rebounds, his best effort in the comeback games.

Boston defeated New York 115-112; Atlanta spilled Detroit 130-126; Chicago walloped Milwaukee 129-115; Philadelphia hammered San Francisco 132-112 and Phoenix got by San Diego 130-129 in Sunday's other NBA action.

NBA in the American Basketball

Association, Los Angeles crushed Carolina 106-92; Indiana bettered New York 114-97; Kentucky stopped New Orleans 130-127 in double overtime and Miami rolled past Dallas 160-155.

The Lakers fought off a fourth-quarter rally by Seattle to finish their season two games behind the Western Division-leading Atlanta Hawks.

Johnny Egan, who scored 19 points, helped Chamberlain choke off Seattle's late comeback with critical scoring plays. Bob Rule of Seattle was the game leader with 33 points.

Rookie Jo Jo White scored nine of his 22 points in the final period as Boston came from behind for the win over New York, which closed out its season with four straight losses.

Boston, the defending NBA champions, finished sixth in the Eastern Division and were eliminated from the playoffs for the first time in 20 years.

Baskets by Walt Hazzard and Jim Davis in the final 28 seconds enabled Atlanta to shut off Detroit's late rallies.

Sub Fred Hetzel sparked a second-period rally that helped Philadelphia beat San Francisco. Philadelphia led 31-26 after the first period, but Hetzel scored 14 of his game-high 25 points to give the 13-point lead at halftime.

Chicago used a scoring spurt in the last three minutes to take the victory over Milwaukee. The Bucks chopped the Chicago lead to 110-107 with 3:12 remaining—but six straight points for the Bulls put the game out of reach.

Connie Hawkins scored 31 of his game-high 44 points in the second half—including the winning shot with five seconds to play—to pull Phoenix over San Diego.

In Saturday's games, Cincinnati whipped New York 136-120 and Baltimore turned back San Francisco 127-123.

In the beginning, Abner Doubleday or, if you prefer, Alexander Cartwright, decided that in their game of baseball, four balls out of the strike zone would allow the batter to take first base.

It was to be known as a base on balls, a walk, a free ticket and a few other things by managers who've suffered with them through the years.

Bill Rigney, a manager who has done his share of suffering, sat quietly by Sunday watching his Minnesota staff issue 15 ...

that is 15 ... walks against Boston. The Red Sox didn't need much more to beat the Twins 10-7.

Rigney, who developed a king-sized ulcer in earlier managerial stints at San Francisco and California, was simply sputtering after the Twins' 14th exhibition loss as against only one victory.

"I've never been in a training camp where so many have walked," said Rigney. "It's disgraceful, absolutely disgraceful."

Louis Tiant issued seven of the walks and Dick Woodson five. Four of Woodson's came consecutively in the seventh when the Red Sox rallied for four runs to break a 6-6 tie. Gerry Moses had a double and homer and George Scott a double and triple for Boston. Tony Oliva and Leo Cardenas homered for the Twins.

Sluggish Jimmy Yeggs ended his long holdout, agreeing to a $57,000 contract with Houston but the Astros looked pretty good without him Sunday, beating the Montreal Expos 4-3.

Tommy Davis' ninth inning homer won it and Joe Pepitone and pinch hitter Bob Watson also connected for the Astros. Rusty Staub connected for the Expos.

Willie Crawford hammered a homer and a three-run double, leading Los Angeles to an 11-7 victory over Baltimore with Oriole pitchers tagged for 11 hits, seven for extra bases. Steve Garvey homered and Bill Grabarzewicz had a double and triple for the Dodgers while Paul Blair delivered a homer and triple and Bob Grich three singles for the Orioles.

Joe Torre, shackled by a spring slump which had him batting .103, snapped out of it with two singles to help St. Louis past Philadelphia 8-4. His fifth inning single broke a tie and then Vic Davalillo cracked a three-run homer in the eighth.

Fritz Peterson pitched seven innings, allowing only a two-run homer by rookie Elliot Maddox, as the New York Yankees trimmed Detroit 5-3. Peterson singled in a run in the sixth and Jerry Kenney homered for the Yankees.

Dock Ellis worked seven innings and Chuck Hartenstein and Gene Garber completed the shutout as Pittsburgh blanked Cincinnati 4-0 on a five-hitter. Willie Stargell homered for the Pirates.

Bobby Knoop cracked a single, double and homer, driving in four runs and leading the Chicago White Sox to an 8-3 victory over Kansas City. John Matias and Walt Williams also homered for the Sox.

Bob Tillman doubled in the tying runs and then scored Atlanta's go-ahead run in the seventh inning as the Braves rallied to beat Washington 7-3. Orlando Cepeda cracked a three-run homer for Atlanta.

San Francisco touring Japan, dropped its second straight with the Lotte Crions beating the Giants 4-3. Willie McCovey had a two-run homer for the Giants.

In other games, Bert Campaneris socked his second homer in as many days and Oakland Whipped California 7-1. Vada Pinson homered for Cleveland and the Indians trimmed Seattle 4-3, and the San Diego Padres edged the Chicago Cubs 5-4.

NBA Moves On Pistol Pete Today

By BEN THOMAS

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — If Pete Maravich isn't a high draft pick today by the National Basketball Association, it's probably a good indication the NBA thinks the LSU Pistol has reached an accord with the American Basketball Association.

Maravich and his father, LSU Coach Press Maravich, repeatedly denied over the weekend that Pistol Pete has signed—or agreed to terms—with the Carolina Cougars of the ABA.

The ABA's New Orleans Bucs don't think so either. An official of the financially troubled Louisiana franchise says the Bucs are still dicker over Maravich under an ABA agreement that New Orleans can sign him—if he wants to play there. New Orleans would have to compensate Carolina for the loss of Maravich, however.

The ABA conducts the remainder of its draft here today—starting at 10 a.m., EST. The league held the first four rounds earlier behind closed doors but most of the ABA selections have leaked out and the so-called Lively League has already signed four first-round picks—All-Americans Rick Mount of Purdue and Dan Issel of Kentucky, Charlie Scott of North Carolina and Mike Maloy of Davidson.

The NBA, with Detroit picking first, got into action two hours later.

"We feel regrettable that some of these players didn't wait until we had our draft," said Nick Curran, an NBA official. "These players didn't even wait to see what the NBA could offer. In some cases, they might have gotten more."

Detroit was expected to draft Bob Lanier, the St. Bonaventure giant, who was earlier picked by the ABA's New York entry.

Reschedule Dogwood 500

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP)—The Dogwood 500 late model modified auto race at Martinsville Speedway has been rescheduled for April 12 after rain forced postponement of the event Sunday.

Ray Hendrick of Richmond took the inside pole spot for the race in qualifying Saturday with a record track speed of 87.108 miles per hour in a modified Camaro. Max Burrier of Winston-Salem, N.C., took the outside pole spot, also in a Camaro, with a speed of 86.511 miles per hour.

Qualifying in third place was Jerry Frazier Jr. of Austinville, Va., in a Camaro; fourth was Carl Stevens of Rehoboth, Mass., in a Camaro; fifth was Jimmy Hensley of Ridgeway, Va., in a Camaro.

Sixth was Bob Melnick, Newton, Mass.; seventh Leo Cleary, Hanover, Mass.; Corvair; eighth Ed Flemke, Southington, Conn.; Mustang; ninth Jean Paul Cabana, Beldiel, Canada; Chevelle; tenth Dick Fowler, New Hartford, N.Y., Falcon.

Medi-car:
The VW-diagnosis System.
No matter how old your VW, it can help extend your car's life.
The reason: Our special diagnostic equipment can see things no human eyes can. So it can actually spot problems before they can become real problems.
Take the console above.
It's like the electrocardiograph that doctors use to test the electrical activity of the human heart.
We use it to do the same with your car's heart: the engine.

In seconds, it can tell us if the resistance in your spark plug wires is too high, or if the dwell angle of your contact points is too large.
Unchecked, either of these problems could cut gas mileage. And engine life.
Best of all, while a Medi-car check-up can spot problems before they can become costly, it doesn't cost a lot.
An ounce of prevention is still worth a pound of cure.

The Worry Clinic A Phobia That Can Be Cured

Frank is a victim of anthropophobia. It is making his life miserable. In fact, he dropped out of school because he couldn't bear to sit in a room full of people. And he has never had a date! So learn how to re-educate your emotions!

By GEORGE W. CRANE

Ph. D., M.D.

CASE M-561: Frank G., aged 24, is tall and handsome.

"But socially I am a recluse," he confessed.

"Actually, whenever I get with strangers, my hand shake and I am petrified with fear.

"I didn't go on to college for I just couldn't sit in a classroom with other students.

"Maybe it is because of my sheltered childhood where I had a neurotic and semi-invalid mother.

"But that's water over the dam, so how can I acquire enough poise and courage to mingle with people?"

"Why, I don't even date any girls because I am almost a nervous wreck when with anybody but my own family."

Emotional re-education is the answer to millions of people with phobias and obsessions or special "complexes" that prevent their happiness.

It is helpful to go back in memory and locate the exact date, place and episode that started your phobia.

That's what the psychiatrist does by letting his patient lie on a couch and reminisce about his childhood.

Regardless of its onset, however, the solution to all such emotional problems is basically the same, namely, conscious and deliberate emotional re-education.

It helps you to learn that millions of other people are in the same boat, for there is truth in the old adage that "misery loves company."

That's why I offer you true office cases in this "Worry Clinic."

Then follow these steps in freeing yourself from your bugaboo:

(1) Face your fear consciously by naming it! Frank has done that.

(2) Indulge in anthropomorphism!

This means, personalize your fear. Treat it as a human enemy whom you are going to whip.

"You doggone fear," Frank can whisper to himself, "I'm no longer going to be your slave."

This means you will enshrine your brain as Captain and never permit your emotions to mutiny against it.

(3) Carry the attack to the enemy!

This involves going out of your way to encounter situations that produce your terror.

For example, my father was brave to the point of recklessness.

As a teen-ager, one night he was the only volunteer to go into a barn where a fugitive criminal was thought to be hiding.

Even the local sheriff and posse were afraid to do so, but my dad boldly entered the barn.

Yet in his childhood he had been terrified of the dark and of ghosts.

"But I got the best of my fears, he once explained, by deliberately making myself investigate. I'd go up and touch the objects that looked like ghosts on a dark night."

In Frank's case, he should also enroll in the "Compliment Club" and go out of his way to pay 3 comparative strangers a sincere word of praise every day.

Memorizing a canned sales talk and going house-to-house selling, is another quick way to

♠AQ53 ♥AK1072 ♦84 ♣6

The bidding has proceeded:

1 ♦ 2 ♣ 3 ♣ Pass

3 ♥ Pass 4 ♣ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Five spades. You should have enough material to produce 12 tricks, but you are faced with the possible loss of two tricks in diamonds. The five spade bid should convey this information or message. If partner can control the second lead of diamonds, you wish him to bid a slam. A Blackwood call would be ineffective if partner acknowledged only one ace.

What do you bid now?

A.—Three clubs. You should lay some foundation for investigation of slam possibilities. If partner has a good diamond suit and some kind of heart control, there may be an easy slam. Your next move will depend upon partner's reaction to your three club bid.

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. Showing the diamonds at this point would not meet with our approval. Partner's blood pressure has obviously been raised to a high point and a four diamond bid might induce him to take unduly drastic action. A slightly discouraging note should be injected into the proceedings at this time.

ECU Team Plays Deeds In Business Games

Utilizing the computer as a playing field, the East Carolina University business team competed in the Intercollegiate Business Games recently held in Atlanta, Ga., sponsored by Emory University.

The business games were conducted in a three-day conference with attending teams representing 40 universities from the U.S. and Canada, including Florida State University and Notre Dame.

"In the games a student is afforded the opportunity, through group decision making, to apply the functions and concepts learned in his many business courses to computer simulated business situations depicting actual industry conditions," commented Dr. Joseph A. Hill, chairman of the Department of Business Administration at ECU.

"A computer, programmed by Emory professor R.L. Jensen, analyzes the decisions made by each business team and prints out team results including income statement, balance sheet, share of market, etc.," continued Dr. Hill.

"The final presentation is made orally by each student team to a group of business men. In a few short years these same students will probably once again make presentations to groups of business men. However, at that time it will no longer be a computer game. It will be an actual industry situation, and the groups will include employers, customers and suppliers."

"In its own way, this game prepares the student to successfully function in the business community and to make the transition between the academic and business world, or in the words of a faculty advisor, "it is a narrowing of the gap between leaving school and entering business," said Dr. Hill.

Student Tapped Into Honor Soc.

RALEIGH — One Farmville student was among four Peace College freshmen business students and one sophomore who were tapped for membership into Alpha Pi Epsilon national secretarial honor society Thursday.

Janice Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Thompson of Rt. 1, Farmville, was one of the new members tapped during ceremonies Thursday.

She is a 1969 graduate of Farmville High School where she was student government treasurer, secretary of the senior class, head majorette and homecoming queen.

Miss Thompson plans to transfer to East Carolina University where she hopes to major in business administration.

Farm Scene

By LEROY JAMES

Forty years ago soybeans were rate in the United States. Today they rank second among cash crops and are the leading dollar earner in our export markets. In the last two decades the United States has shifted from a net importer of oil-seeds, fats and oils to the number one producer of soybeans and the largest exporter of fats and oils in the world. Besides being important to farmers, soybeans are a major source of income for processors, exporters and other grain handlers.

Since the early 1930's when soybeans were hailed as the "golden crop" production has expanded rapidly through the mid 1960's to meet ever-growing demands for soybeans and soybean products. And unlike other major crops, this rapid growth occurred without a build-up of excessive carryover stocks or the use of acreage control programs.

But beginning with the 1966-67 marketing year, the balance shifted. A combination of events caused the soybean supply to grow more rapidly than demand at prevailing prices. Competition in soybean product markets increased sharply, soybean prices became tied to the price support level and the soybean industry entered a period of steadily rising carryover stocks. The old-crop carryover increased from a minimum pipeline level of 30 million bushels in 1965 to an estimated 322 million bushels in 1969. In short, the golden crop began to tarnish.

Farmers, soybean handlers and government policy makers have all been concerned about this situation. In an effort to slow down the increase in supply and stimulate growth in demand, the 1969 United States average support price for soybeans was lowered to $2.25 per bushel for No. 1 grade. By reducing the price support level, soybeans should be able to compete more effectively with crops which have been expanded as a result of relatively high prices. While this action will show the carryover build-up, it may not solve the longer term problem. Over capacity, both at the farm and processor level, still exists at prevailing prices unless demand for soybeans, oil and meal increases.

If the lower support rate will not solve the soybean problem, what are some possible alternatives? The answer to this question requires a thorough look at the soybean industry, conditions leading up to the present situation, and the nature of the over capacity problem.

Tobacco TIPS

By S.J. Weeks

Nematodes and other tobacco diseases reduce the potential net return from the Pitt County tobacco crop by thousands of dollars each year. Much of this loss can be eliminated by applying certain chemical soil treatments prior to transplanting tobacco in the field.

There are several good fumigant type nematocides available for the 1970 crop. All fumigant type nematocides require a waiting period of at least 14 days after application before transplanting tobacco in the field. Fumigant type nematocides available are: DD, Vidden D, Telone, EDB-85, EDB-40, Dolorne, Fieldfume, Peenphene, and others. All of these are rated as good for the control of root knot nematodes. Most of them rated as good for lesion nematodes.

There are two contact or non-fumigant nematocides available for the 1970 crop. They are Dasanit 15 percent G and Mocap 10 percent G. No waiting period is required for the non-fumigant nematocides. Both are rated as fair for the control of root knot nematodes. These materials will also control wire worms when applied two weeks prior to transplanting. It is suggested that these materials be broadcast and disked in the soil prior to preparation for ridges for transplanting.

Multi-purpose chemical treatments are available that are effective in reducing loss to black shank and Granville wilt in addition to nematode control. Available for multi-purpose treatment are: Telone C, Vorlex, Terro-cide 15, Terro-cide 15D, Terro-cide 30, and a DD-Chloropierin mixture. The waiting period for the multi-purpose treatments is 14 days except for Vorlex which is 21 days.

For more detailed information on the use of these chemical treatments, contact the Agricultural Extension Office.

More Smoking Outside Of U.S.

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite some reduction in cigarette smoking by Americans, the rest of the world seems to be puffing away more than ever, the Agriculture Department said today.

Thus prospects continue bright for U.S. tobacco exports if American growers keep producing high-quality products at competitive prices.

A report by the Foreign Agricultural Service estimates world puffing last year at a record high of around 153 billion packs.

This was a 3 per cent gain from 1968, reported Joseph R. Williams and Charles J. O'Mara, FAS tobacco analysts.

The department earlier had estimated U.S. cigarette consumption down about 2 per cent last year. Per capita American smoking in 1969 was estimated at about 202 packs compared with 209 in 1968.

In all, Americans smoked about 535 billion cigarettes last year, or more than one-sixth of total world consumption of 3.064 trillion.

There was no estimate of world per capita smoking comparable to U.S. figures, Williams told a reporter.

The rise in world cigarette smoking has been steady. In the early 1960s the average annual total was 2.4 trillion cigarettes. This rose to 2.7 trillion in 1965 and by about 100 billion a year since.

Williams and O'Mara said world cigarette output is expected to continue rising although growth may not be as rapid as in recent years. And the U.S. tobacco industry is expected to share in the increase.

"The American blend requiring high-quality tobacco is a symbol of prestige," the report said, "and rapidly increasing in most areas where the standard of living is going up, especially in countries like Italy, France, Spain and Brazil."

Exports of U.S. unmanufactured tobacco products have set records in recent years and are expected to continue high. Last fiscal year foreign sales totaled $507 million and may almost equal the mark in 1969-70, the department says.

The United States also is a big shipper of ready-to-smoke cigarettes, with more than 25 billion exported last year. This was down 5 per cent from the 1968 peak, but still 8 per cent more than average.

British smokers are traditionally the best customers of American tobacco growers, the FAS report said. Last year the United Kingdom bought $147 million worth of U.S. tobacco.

The report said 23 million persons in Great Britain buy 10 billion cigarettes per month.

"Cigarettes, in fact, the only item bought oftener than bread and milk, account for about six per cent of consumer expenditure," the report said.

Mail To GIs Cut In Half By Strike

By CARL D. ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The postal workers' strike in the United States is cutting air mail to American servicemen in Vietnam in half, according to military officials.

And the mail that arrives slows down here. Military postal units have to sort out the bulk loads normally broken down by civilian workers in the United States.

Officials said surface mail has not been affected by the strike yet, but postal authorities expect delays in coming weeks, after ships now en route arrive in Vietnam.

Mail for American forces in South Vietnam averages more than 6,000 tons a month. Between 1,000 and 2,000 tons are sent the other way every month. The officials said outbound mail is piling up at receiving points in the United States.

Air mail sent through the military postal system ordinarily reaches servicemen here within four days after having been sent.

It is handled through San Francisco and Seattle, where it is sorted according to Army post offices (APO), each of which has its own zip code.

Then it is flown to Vietnam aboard contracted commercial airliners.

Higher classes of mail are being given priority for shipment and delivery in Vietnam during the postal crisis, with parcels going into storage in San Francisco and Seattle for handling after the strike ends and the main crush is cleared, the officials said.

Despite the severe curtailment of mail to Vietnam, officials said, the situation is not as bad as that affecting military system mail to Europe.

"That's really fouled up because it goes out through New York," one postal officer said.

"TAKE IT OFF, GREETING DOESN'T OFFEND BEAUTY MANCHESTER, Vt. (AP) — Skiers at Bromley Mountain kept telling one gorgeous girl on the slopes, "take it off," but she wasn't offended. She was Gunilla Knutson, TV's popular "Take It Off" girl.

"I'm flattered that they recognize me," she said.

Lassen Peak in Lassen Volcanic National Park, California, is the only active volcano in continental United States.
