

For 'Racially-Impacted' Schools

New School Aid Plan Unveiled By Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon unveiled today a plan for federal aid to "racially-impacted" schools—North and South—and proposed two-year spending of $1.5 billion to help them with their problems.

Nixon said his aim is to make school desegregation easier and more effective, to raise the standard of predominantly black schools and to promote interracial contact for pupils in predominantly white schools.

The President's 10,000-word statement was the most extensive ever made by a chief executive on the subject of school desegregation.

In it, Nixon restated his opposition to compulsory student busing to achieve racial balance and urged that school boards facing desegregation decisions be given wide latitude provided they act in good faith to carry out the law.

The President said some persons have interpreted administration actions as signaling an effort to turn back the clock on desegregation.

"We are not backing away," he declared. "The constitutional mandate will be enforced."

Nixon laid claim to dramatic desegregation progress during his first year in office, saying:

"In the past year alone, the number of black children attending Southern schools held to be in compliance has doubled, from less than 600,000 to nearly 1,200,000—representing 40 per cent of the Negro student population."

A year earlier the proportion was 23 per cent.

However, Nixon for the most part advocated a cautious, deliberate approach to desegregation problems.

"If we are to be realists, we must recognize that in a free society there are limits to the amount of government coercion that can reasonably be used; that in achieving desegregation we must proceed with the least possible disruption of the education of the nation's children..." Nixon said.

In broaching his $1.5 billion spending plan, the President said that "While raising the quality of education in all schools, we shall concentrate especially on racially-impacted schools, and particularly on equalizing those schools that are furthest behind."

He said he will ask Congress to divert $500 million, previously earmarked for other domestic programs, for his racially-impacted school project in the 1971 fiscal year that begins July 1.

"For fiscal 1972," he said, "I have ordered that $1 billion be budgeted for the same purposes."

Nixon said the money would be distributed on the basis of four priority undertakings:

—Meeting "special needs of desegregating (or recently desegregated) districts for additional facilities, personnel and training required to get the new, unitary system successfully started."

—Assisting racially-impacted schools where de facto segregation persists because of neighborhood housing patterns. There, he said, "immediate infusions of money can make a real difference in terms of educational effectiveness."

—Helping fill "the special needs of those districts that have the furthest to go to catch up educationally with the rest of the nation."

—Financing of innovative techniques for providing educationally sound interracial experiences for children in racially isolated schools."

Nixon spoke of the latter concept as a potential alternative to busing.

The President said that some see massive busing—"taking children out of the schools they would normally attend, and forcing them instead to attend others more distant, often in strange or even hostile neighborhoods"—as the only alternative to "massive racial isolation." He offered the following possible option:

"For example, rather than attempting dislocation of whole schools, a portion of a child's educational activities may be shared with children from other schools. Some of his education is in a single 'home-base' school, but some outside it."

If children could be brought together on "neutral" ground, he suggested, friction might be dispelled and pupils would have "an additional educational experience within an integrated setting."

Setting forth administration policies on the desegregation front, the President said, "In devising local compliance plans, primary weight should be given to the considered judgment of local school boards—provided they act in good faith, and within constitutional limits." He said that while federal advice and aid will be available on request, "Federal officials should not go beyond the requirements of law in attempting to impose their own judgment on the local school district."

At Chicago, Detroit Post Offices

Back-To-Work Trend Boosted

By BOB MONROE

Associated Press Writer

Striking postal workers returned to their jobs in Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia and much of Connecticut and New Jersey today.

There were hints of a break in New York, where federal troops sorted mail on President Nixon's orders.

The Pentagon denied reports that troops who worked in New York post offices until 1 a.m. had been ordered to delay their return this morning. However, National Guardsmen who also were called up on the President's orders, were held in armories and were to be sent to the post offices after lunch.

Normal mail deliveries resumed in Philadelphia as 3,000 letter carriers returned to work in that city, last holdout in Pennsylvania.

All of Connecticut's major postal centers were back at full operation except Hartford, where clerks were picketing and scheduled to vote. Carriers had voted not to cross clerks' picket lines.

Workers returned in Jersey City, Asbury Park, Morristown, Red Bank, Lakewood and New Brunswick, N.J., while in Newark a vote was scheduled later in the day.

While operations were returning to normal in Detroit, postal workers at Lansing, Mich., made good their threat to strike if the President called in troops in New York. Several Detroit suburbs also continued to strike.

Officials of the Chicago branch of the National Association of Letter Carriers led the return in that city. A post office spokesman indicated that the men had returned at 32 of 52 neighborhood branches.

In Detroit, Robert Purdie, director of postal operations, said the workers appeared to be returning in full force at the 6 a.m. shift change. Picket lines went down in front of the main city post office.

Pickets were still up at the Military Ocean Terminal in Brooklyn and most were bitter over the President's decision to deploy the troops. But there appeared to be some sentiment for a return. The majority of the pickets said they would not go back until they got word from the local president.

National Guard troops began to assemble at armories in the New York metropolitan area at 6 a.m. in accordance with Pentagon directives.

Maj. Gen. Martin H. Foery, their commanding officer, said he thought the earliest his men would move into the post offices would be in the afternoon "if the strikers don't come back."

In Washington, Monday, congressional leaders told the House and Senate they may have to skip their Easter recess to stand by for possible emergency action.

Reaction among union leaders to the President's action ranged from doubt that the untrained servicemen could handle the job to expressions of fear of possible violence.

There were no confrontations, however, as the first units of unarmed soldiers and sailors moved into the General Post Office and two substations in New York and began sorting the mountains of mail.

The President announced his plan to deploy the troops during a nationwide radio-television address Monday afternoon.

"What is at issue then is the survival of a government based on law. Essential services must be maintained, and, as President, I shall meet my constitutional responsibility to see that those services are maintained," Nixon declared.

He singled out New York City for the first use of troops because that is "where the illegal stoppages began" but added that he would use military personnel elsewhere if necessary.

Altogether, some 30,000 troops were involved. The Pentagon ordered 2,500 men on active duty to the city, called up 12,000 members of the New York Army and Air National Guard and 15,500 Army, Navy and Marine Corps reservists from the New York City area.

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount set up an emergency mail handling program in New York's metropolitan area, and the troops were at work by late evening after being given instructional briefings.

Board Postpones Choice For Rose High Principal

By JERRY RAYNOR

Reflector Staff Reporter

The selection of a principal for Rose High School has been postponed until the special meeting to be held March 31. Board members at their meeting last night interviewed leading candidates, and made the decision to delay making a choice until next week.

At last night's meeting, one devoted entirely to personnel matters, the acceptance of the resignation of 23 teachers to be effective at the end of this school year was approved.

Eight of the resignation are due to retirement—Annette H. Carter, Ella O. Reynolds, Ruth E. Johnson, Council K. Marshmond, Edna B. Graves, Robert B. Starling, Olga B. Myers, and Frances R. Smith. Pregnancy accounted for five retirements—Gloria W. Adams, Rebecca L. Miller, Judith T. Bell, Carolyn F. Isabelle, and Sandra F. Pearson.

The other ten are resigning because of planned moves away from the community, for accepting special study grants, and for home responsibilities. These are Susan R. Lanier, Romana R. Tucker, Ceresey J. Jenkins, Patricia K. Galloway, Fay B. Howell, Lane C. Hartley, Joan C. McGinnis, Betty J. Foster, Richard L. O'Pharrow, and Jane L. Johnson.

"This is the smallest group we've had in years offering their resignation," Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood Superintendent, remarked. "It's especially notable when you consider that eight of the 23 are for retirement purposes."

Dr. Cleetwood also stated that "this course means we are looking for qualified applicants to fill these upcoming vacancies for the coming school year and will be happy to consider and interview interested persons."

The vacancies cover positions in all grade and subject levels.

The board members approved re-election of principals and teachers now in the city school system who have expressed their intent to remain with the city schools in the coming 1970-71 school year.

The board members were presented with a personnel survey of the total school personnel broken down into the categories of those funded by the state, by local funds, and by federal funds.

Of professional people in the school system, totaling 283, the study shows: Funded by state funds: one superintendent; one associate superintendent; one director of elementary education; and one director of secondary education. These four are all part of the central office staff.

In the school staff, state funds pay for 10 principals; 205 teachers (base allocation or regular teachers); 10 teachers for educable mentally retarded children; three for trainable mentally retarded; four teachers for exceptionally talented children; and one driver education teacher.

In the professional group, local funds provide for 19 1/2 regular teachers; and pays one third of the salary of nine other teachers.

Federal funds for the professional group pays for the director of ESEA, the director of audiovisual facilities; the coordinator of elementary physical education; and 12 1/2 teachers from ESEA, Title I funds.

East Carolina University provides funds for two teachers in the Laboratory School (Wahl-Coates).

Personnel provided in the non-professional group (other than food services), shows the following support by state, local and federal funding.

State funds pay for one secretary; five teacher aides. (Continued On Page 6)

Reports Heard By PTI Board

The Board of Trustees of Pitt Technical Institute in quarterly session Monday night received a preliminary draft of PTI's 1970-71 county budget, heard approval of the state auditor's report and reviewed plans for the May 2 vote on Pitt Tech becoming a Community College.

PTI trustees were told that the State Auditor's Office found everything in order in the audit for the ending June 30, 1969. Trustees were given a brief outline of the ways and means which will be used to inform the citizens of Pitt County as to the importance of the May 2 vote to make PTI a community College.

The rough draft of the PTI operating budget and capital outlay which had not been adopted and will likely be revised calls for the smallest outlay of county funds in the past three years. The two past budgets have included funds needed to complete the expansion program which had been underway on the campus.

It also included funds for sewer and water lines which were much needed. Chairman Dr. Robert Lee Humber presided.

Presentation of reports to the board came from Dr. William Fulford and his staff.

New Intensive Care Unit At Hospital Opens

A new intensive care unit, with special coronary care monitoring equipment opened yesterday at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

The special care unit includes 13 beds, a nursing station, and specialized equipment to continuously monitor the condition of coronary patients housed there.

Cost of the project, which included renovation of a portion of the hospital's newest first floor wing, totaled about $40,000, according to administrator C.D. Ward. Donations from a number of local businesses and organizations toward the project totaled more than $12,000.

In addition to renovations of the wing, which included special wiring and other changes, special monitoring equipment was installed to permit nurses at the nursing station to continuously monitor the condition of all patients connected to the system.

At present, eight beds in the unit are equipped with bedside monitor scopes and to the central monitor panel.

The units are capable of monitoring heart rate, pulse, blood pressure and provide electrocardiograms of each patient at the same time. And an alarm can be set to notify nursing personnel if an emergency condition should occur in a patient's vital signs.

A mobile cart containing a defibrillator and electrocardiograph unit is also available at the nursing station for use in the intensive care unit.

Ward said the seven rooms in the intensive care unit are so designed that they can be used by others when not occupied by patients who need intensive care. However, he noted, the 13 beds in the unit are equipped to handle coronary and other patients who need intensive care.

Four patients needing intensive care were moved into the unit when it opened yesterday—two of them with pacemakers implanted in their chests to regulate the beating of their hearts.

Construction of the special care facility has been under way for several months.

Democratic Women Of First District Gather For Political Workshop

By CAROL TYER

Reflector Staff Writer

Democratic women representing the 19 counties in the First Congressional District are holding a "Workshop in Politics" at the Holiday Inn here today to study the workings of state and national government and how to "politic" themselves. They were greeted this morning by Congressman

Walter B. Jones and they gave him standing ovations at the beginning and end of his remarks. He told them there is "no more effective campaigner than a dedicated woman." He drew a round of applause when he said that Pres. Nixon should consider "our own Susie Sharpe" if his latest nominee to the Supreme Court is turned down. Miss Sharpe now serves on the North Carolina Supreme Court.

State Rep. David Reid spoke on "The National Democratic Party and Our Relation to It." He covered the subject in the absence of Mrs. John Winfield Pinetown, National Committeewoman, who could not be here because of the birth of a grandchild.

Sihanouk Says He Will Try To Fight His Way Back To Power

By JOHN RODERICK

Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Cambodia's deposed chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, said today he will try to fight his way back to power.

According to reports from Japanese correspondents in Peking, Sihanouk said he would form a government of national unity and "national liberation army" that would have the support of "brotherly nations," presumably meaning North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

Japan's biggest newspaper, Ashai, said that if Sihanouk's comeback attempt is supported by the 40,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops who are operating along Cambodia's border with South Vietnam, the conservatives in Phnom Penh who deposed the prince could not survive for long.

The newspaper added that if these "alien Vietnamese Communist troops" take action, the United States might intervene in support of Cambodian neutrality. But this appeared most unlikely in view of the Nixon administration's efforts to withdraw from Vietnam and the opposition in Congress to expansion of the U.S. involvement in the Indochinese peninsula.

U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers told a news conference in Washington Monday the United States recognizes the sovereignty, neutrality and independence of Cambodia and hopes that recent developments will not widen the Vietnam war. He said Cambodia has not asked for military help and he did not anticipate that it would.

North Vietnam, the Viet Cong, Communist China and North Korea all have indicated they support Sihanouk against the Cambodian government and parliament but have not specified what if anything they would do to return him to power.

The situation in Phnom Penh, where Sihanouk's handpicked parliament voted unanimously Wednesday to depose him while he was in Paris, continued calm.

Airline officials in Bangkok reported that four flights to or through Cambodia operated on schedule Monday, the first commercial flights into the country since the coup.

A correspondent for the Times of London, Fred Emery, reported from Phnom Penh that the United States has asked for the release of the hijacked munitions ship Columbia Eagle, but Premier Lon Nol said he would hold onto it because "there is a risk of misunderstanding."

"We are just going to leave it there," Gen. Nol said. The interview did not elaborate on what Nol meant by "a misunderstanding."

Asked what he intended to do with the captain and 13 crewmen, the general said: "At the moment I think we're rather lost sight of them, but it seems they are somewhere hereabouts. We've been more concerned with other events."

Easter Feast Includes Wide Range Of Foods

NEW YORK (UPI)—The feasting that goes on at Easter in many nations can match an old-fashioned harvest festival in quantity and variety of food.

Depending on the country and a family's income, a spread can include two or three main courses and as many desserts, plus a few appetizers, vegetables and dozens of hard-cooked eggs dyed and/or decorated in brilliant colors.

In Poland, food traditions in some ways resemble the Russian ones, although Russia celebrates the Eastern Orthodox Easter, which comes a week or so after the Christian holiday.

Ham and a sausage called kielbasa are main courses for Polish Easter dinner. Cwikla, a beet and horseradish relish, is served with them. Other holiday specialties include babka, a sweet yeast bread that resembles Russian kulich. Both are tall, cylindrical cakes. The Polish variety contains chopped fruit peel and nuts.

Polish custom also calls for either butter or pastry shaped like a lamb, and royal mazurek, a rich pastry topped with apple slices in thick sugar syrup.

A typical Greek menu is incredibly lavish, and uses every part of the lamb but the bleat. It includes three appetizers made from lamb liver, brains and head; dill-flavored soup made from lamb innards, cold artichokes in lemon and olive oil marinade, grilled lamb innards, spit-roasted lamb and a casserole called pastichio that's one-dish meal by itself. It consists of macaroni baked with generous amounts of meat and cheese.

After this comes relishes, cheeses, a cake decorated with dyed Easter eggs and three of the ultra-sweet, buttery pastries for which Greece is famous.

Cakes, pies and pastries of unusual designs and composition figure in many Easter celebrations.

Some are customary only for Easter Sunday itself. Others are served as early as Maundy Thursday of Easter week. Among the latter are small dove-shaped cakes in Macedonia, a Balkan region now shared by Greece, Yugoslavia and

Grave Visiting Tears Him Apart

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have two sisters and one brother and we have always been a very close family. We're all married and have families of our own. Mother died nine years ago and Dad died one year later. We all contribute equally to the upkeep of their graves, but Abby, I have not been back to visit their graves since Dad died. I have started out many times, but it just tears me apart, and I turn back.

My sisters and brother go often. They say it makes them feel "good." Maybe I'm an odd ball, but I get so depressed when I head out to the cemetery it takes me days to get over it. Is something wrong with me? I was a good son to them, so it's not that I feel guilty. Should I force myself to visit the folks so my sisters and brother won't think I'm disrespectful to their memory?

DEAR ODD: The time to go "visit the folks" is when they're living. If it "tears you apart" to go to the cemetery, stay away, and don't feel guilty.

DEAR ABBY: I can't understand why so many people can be so ignorant about obesity. People get fat from eating out of frustration and boredom. It's a difficult habit to break—like smoking or excessive drinking.

Just as all men are not happy pursuing the same career, all women are not happy being housewives.

I happen to believe that my small children need me at home, so if I get fat from eating, isn't that better than living on tranquilizers, becoming an alcoholic, or screaming at everyone just because I feel bored and frustrated? Sign me "FAT" (But it's nobody's business but my own!)

DEAR FAT: Don't rationalize. Your health is your FAMILY'S business! "Fat" reduces one's energy, vitality, and efficiency. You're right, getting fat is preferable to living on tranquilizers, or becoming an alcoholic. But must you make a choice? You will like yourself more, enjoy better health, and live longer if you deal with your boredom and frustrations in still a more sensible way. See your doctor. He has good news for you. And good luck.

DEAR ABBY: For years I've been reading letters in your column about women who get their hair fixed to look good for other women and who could care less how their husbands see them. Also about women who go around with rollers, and let the grocer and their neighbors see them, and even go to school that way. And they don't care as long as they look pretty when their husbands come home.

Today I had a permanent and I paid a lot of money for it. I asked myself, "Did I do it for my husband?" Not really. He loves me no matter how I look. "Did I do it for other women?" No. I know why I did it. Because I want to look nice at all times, for marketing, errands, and whenever I step outside the house and meet my neighbors.

I figure that my husband gave me his name, and wherever I go, I represent him. I always try to act like a lady. When I'm shopping I am patient and courteous and I am never rude to anyone.

I wish more wives realized that in a way they are a one-woman public relations firm for their husbands.

PALM SPRINGS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: So do I.

DEAR ABBY: Tell "LIKES PETS" to go ahead and get a green carpet if she wants one. Dogs and cats would never mistake a carpet for "grass" regardless of the color because animals go by "smell" and "feel." Besides, animals (with the exception of monkeys, apes, and baboons) are "color-blind!" They see only in shades of gray.

Important Move Up By ECU

Accreditation of the ECU chemistry department by the American Chemical Society is an important part of the university's move toward medical education.

The accreditation was announced by Dr. Leo Jenkins in a talk to the Mecklenburg alumni Friday. Dr. Jenkins said the society had informed him that the Committee on Professional Training was impressed with the development of the chemistry program.

"This is another step toward building a great university in Eastern North Carolina," he stated. "We are moving ahead in all areas in order to serve the community and to offer first class education opportunities to the youth of North Carolina."

How Heisman Took Revenge

(Today's guest column was written for N.C. Association of Afternoon Dailies, by Loyal Phillips, general manager of The Daily Advance, Elizabeth City.)

By LOYAL PHILLIPS
ELIZABETH CITY — This is a story about a man nobody knows and about a football game nobody believes.

Nearly every literate person knows about John W. Heisman's name-sake, the Heisman Trophy. But knows anything about Heisman?

The Heisman trophy which goes to the outstanding college football players each year was originated by the N.Y. Athletic Club in 1935. The winner is designated through a poll of newspaper sports writers.

Our remote introduction to Heisman came about through an article in the alumni publication of Cumberland Law School, now a part of Samford University, Birmingham, Ala. After coaching at Auburn, Heisman became head coach at Georgia Tech in 1904 and stayed there for 15 years.

Georgia Tech was a football power in those days but in the spring of 1917 Tech's baseball team got clobbered by Cumberland Law School, a relatively small insitution in Tenn.

Coach Heisman was upset over the unexpected loss in baseball to Cumberland and sought revenge on the gridiron. After considerable negotiation, Heisman offered Cumberland $500 expense money to play Tech in Atlanta. In 1917 the $500 represented major capital and the law school accepted.

The Cumberland coach had only 16 men in uniform and in desperation he tried to borrow some players from nearby Vanderbilt University but without success.

What took place on Tech's football field on a Saturday afternoon in 1917 could hardly be referred to as a game. It was a cross between a joke and a debacle. The score was 222 to 0.

However, so many precedents were shattered as to deserve comment. New high records were set for yards gained, yards lost, fumbles lost, fumbles recovered, passes completed and passes intercepted.

George Allen, well known as an advisor to presidents Roosevelt and Truman and a clever humorist said an award for the most valuable player on the Cumberland team would have gone to a so-called running back who lost only three yards on Cumberland's best offensive play of the game.

According to Allen's amusing version in a Reader's Digest article, no first downs were made by either team. When the Cumberland team got the ball they always lost yards. Whenever Tech's Yellow Jackets had the offensive, every play resulted in a touchdown.

During the last half, a badly needed Cumberland player disappeared and was finally apprehended hiding in a blanket on Ga. Tech's side of the field — hoping to escape further punishment. Another Cumberland man was said to have snuck behind his own goal post to avoid contact with the hard-charging Jackets.

A Cumberland quarterback fumbled the ball and yelled to a team mate to grab it. "Grab it yourself, you're the one who dropped it," his team mate replied.

At the end of the first half the score was Tech 126 — Cumberland 0. During the last half the Yellow Jackets, tired from running and passing for 18 touchdowns, scored only 96 points.

In defense to Cumberland's underdog rating, Tech agreed to shorten the quarters to 10 minutes which fact undoubtedly kept the score down somewhat.

Even so, the Yellow Jackets moved the football around 2,400 yards or about 1½ miles during 40 minutes of playing time.

Thus Coach Heisman wreaked his vengeance on the Tennessee upstarts who humbled his baseball team. However, he died weakened after the final whistle stopped the gridiron slaughter and decided to offer some hospitality to the vanquished Volunteers.

He took the embryonic barristers on a sightseeing trip around Atlanta. In the Reader's Digest article George Allen, who is a Cumberland Alumnus, praised Heisman's hospitable gesture but complained that the sightseeing trip was wasted because of the fact that the guests' eyes were all swollen shut.

We should add that Coach Heisman did not make it a practice to pick on weaker opponents. His teams conquered some of the nation's best and his record of victories earned for him a choice spot in football's Hall of Fame.

Cumberland Law School hasn't done too badly either. Its alumni rolls include in addition to George Allen such names as Cordell Hull, and former Florida governors LeRoy Collins and Fuller Warren.

Since this columnist is a graduate of Samford University he takes pride in being an Alumnus-in-law of the Cumberland Law School.

East Carolina is one of 350 schools in the nation accredited by the society. In our state only Duke, Wake Forest, Davidson and four units of UNC have been accredited by ACS.

The accreditation here is strong evidence as to how far the ECU science program has come in recent years. A modern physics and life sciences complex has recently been completed on the campus. Following the move of these departments from Flanagan, a million dollar remodeling program has begun there to make the building suitable for the Chemistry Department and for the Department of Industrial Arts.

It is a tribute to the chemistry faculty and students, however, that accreditation came even before the modernization of their building was completed. Dr. R.C. Lamb, chairman of the Chemistry Department, and his staff deserve commendations for their efforts.

It is essential that a strong basic science program be built at East Carolina as the university moves into its Allied Health and medical education programs. The accreditation of the Chemistry Department shows that a quality program is being developed.

Room For Pride Over Manufacturing Plant

More than 2,000 persons visited Empire Brushes plant Saturday as the industry held its first open house on its sixth anniversary here. It was also the 60th anniversary of the founding of the company.

Visitors to the plant saw why Empires Brushes has become the Number One industry in the brush field. The firm manufactures hundreds of brushes of all types. It has shown ingenuity in design, colors and packaging of its products.

Employees of Empire Brushes and local citizens can take pride in the fact that the merchandise made at the local plant is distributed far and wide.

Laird's Tough Fight Is Begun

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A subtle courtship of Republican Senators antagonistic to President Nixon's second-phase anti-ballistic missile (ABM) program has been quietly started by Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird.

Laird's position in the Senate is no stronger and possibly weaker than last year, when Mr. Nixon's Safeguard ABM barely survived in the Senate — once in a tie vote, once on a 49 to 51 vote.

The heart of Phase Two is the addition of a third intercontinental ballistic missile base — Whiteman Air Force Base in Missouri — to the sites in Montana and North Dakota that will be protected by the ABM. With the administration claiming that the ABM is the best bargaining counter the U.S. has against the Soviet Union in strategic arms limitation talks, a defeat of Phase Two would be a body blow to Mr. Nixon's strategy.

That accounts for Laird's extraordinary courtship of Republican moderates and liberals — 14 all told — who voted against the ABM's Phase One last year. Besides having private lunches for a single senator that exceed two hours, Laird has ordered high Pentagon officials to roll out the red carpet.

Thus, when a Pentagon limousine rolled up to the Senate office building last Monday (March 16) to pick up Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, one of the busiest men in the Pentagon — John Foster, Assistant Secretary of Defense for Research and Engineering — was waiting in the car to hold Percy's hand on the drive back across the Potomac.

At lunch that day to discuss overall defense policies were Laird, Deputy Secretary David Packard, and Foster. Using an extremely soft-sell at these intimate get togethers, they produce charts, graphs, and slides projected on a portable screen to prove that Soviet progress on strategic weapons — both the giant SS-9 offensive missile and the Galosh defensive missile system — consistently surpasses U.S. estimates.

Sen. James B. Pearson of Kansas got the treatment ten days ago at breakfast with the Laird high command (but had to drive himself across the river). Kentucky's Sen. Marlow Cook has also walked the same soft red carpet. Sen. Robert Packwood of Oregon, who backed Mr. Nixon on Phase One, is due in Laird's office Wednesday (March 25).

With all this low-pressure wooing, however, Laird's work is cut out in the Senate. He must switch a couple of votes to hold even. Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia, a Democratic leader for the ABM, is seriously ill and in the hospital. So is Republican Sen. Karl Mundt of S.D., another strong backer. Most important, Laird's missionary work among anti-ABM Republicans has changed no minds so far.

The depth of bitterness among rebellious liberal Democrats working to reform the seniority system in the House amazed old-line liberals at the Democratic Study Groups (DSG) secret caucus Tuesday afternoon (March 17).

After two hours of heated debate, there was no agreement between young reformers and older leaders of the liberal DSG, such as Rep. Chet Holifield of California. At that point Rep. John Culver, of Iowa, his voice shaking with anger, raised the threat of withholding his support from the party when it competes with the Republicans next January for control of the House after the 1970 elec-

To the Editor:

I would be happy to express my preference regarding the future Junior High School situation, but I do not feel that I know enough facts to make an intelligent choice. I would like to know

- (1) The cost of each of the three choices
- (2) The preferences of the principals and teachers involved.
- (3) The preferences of the Black Community
- (4) If an addition to Aycock will be necessary, how long will it take and would the same construction firm be hired? Would it take longer to build a new school, or to remodel Eppes

(5) What are the long range plans for new schools in the West Greenville area?

(6) What are the preferences of HEW and the courts. Lengthy legal battles and the withholding of federal funds is depriving Greenville's schools of money which is desperately needed. I would not like to try to live in 1970 on a 1937 salary.

I would appreciate it if the School Board would provide us with these and other pertinent facts so that we may make the best decision not only for next year but for the future.

A Temperate Rejoinder

Some of the attacks that are being made upon Judge G. Harrold Carswell, and some of the impressions being pumped up in the phony ground-swell against him, prompt a few words of rejoinder by one of the judge's unenthusiastic supporters, namely me.

The charges have to do with his record as a U.S. District Judge, and with the testimonials for and against his elevation to the Supreme Court.

Carswell served as a Federal Judge in the Northern District of Florida from 1958 to 1969. The complaint is made that he left an "undistinguished" record behind, that he was frequently reversed by his circuit court, and that his written opinions in this period are the products of a mediocre mind at work.

Such an appraisal, it seems to me, is predicated upon a fundamental misunderstanding of the function of a District Judge. His duty is not to erect great landmarks of the law. He does not sit as a philosopher, innovator, or architect. His principal responsibility is to dispose efficiently of the great mass of routine litigation coming before him.

Viewed in this light, the Carswell record suggests a competent, no-nonsense practitioner on the bench. As a District Judge, he tried

One wonders if the city of Greenville will wait until someone is killed or seriously injured before it will implement a means of safely moving pedestrian traffic across Memorial Drive at the Third Street intersection.

Just the volume of Third Street vehicular traffic entering and crossing Memorial Drive would seem to justify the installation of some traffic control device which would intermittently stop the traffic flow at this intersection. But for the school children and other pedestrians who don't have automobiles with which to defend themselves, getting from one side of the drive to the other is either a track and field exercise or a nightmare, depending on the person and his time in the one hundred yard dash.

Why the planners and builders of the Moyewood project did not anticipate the necessity of occasionally interrupting the Memorial Drive traffic at this intersection eludes rational explanation. A casual observer might suspect that concerns other than public safety and traffic volume and pattern are given primacy in determining the location and extent of expenditures for these installations.

Articles in this week's DAILY REFLECTOR have stirred up a lot of interest in the upcoming referendum concerning the support of Pitt Technical Institute and Community college. I am convinced that every citizen of Pitt County should respond to this issue with an emphatic "Yes" vote.

Pitt Technical Institute is the finest thing ever to happen to Pitt County and it can serve us even better as a Community College. We owe it to ourselves to support this vital institution.

We also owe it to ourselves as taxpayers to vote "Yes". If we do, we limit the tax level for support of Pitt Tech to seven cents (about its present level). If we vote "No" there will be no limit to what can be levied.

I hope the county will show Pitt Community College an overwhelming vote of confidence and appreciation.

Sincerely Yours,

Capital Spending May Be Cut

By ELMER ROESSNER
Government estimates put capital spending for plants and equipment this year at more than 10 per cent above outlays for 1969. The total would be around $83.5 billion.

These estimates aren't pure guesswork. They are derived from companies own plans, as surveyed by the Department of Commerce and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

And if capital spending increases that much, there won't be much of a recession. However, though the estimates aren't guesses, they are quite rubbery.

There are two big reasons why:

1. Boards of directors can, in a matter of minutes, postpone or cut back expenditures.
2. Threatening strikes by teamsters, building trades unions and other big unions may make spending impossible.

Troubles Ahead

There are many things that can change directors' minds: Declines in sales, the high cost of financing, higher labor costs, recession psychology.

The possibilities of strikes are serious. More than five million members of powerful unions are demanding heavy increases in wages and benefits. The Teamsters are seeking a 75 per cent increase over three years and, if they strike, plant and equipment spending will come to a standstill. The building trades, whose contracts expires next month, can have the same effects.

There are dangers of strikes in the auto industry, at some more appliance plants, among construction and farm machinery workers, ordinance and accessories, auto parts and petroleum. These too, could have delaying effects on capital spending.

Meanwhile steel orders are increasing. They may total 7 million tons this month and 7.5 million tons in April. Users are stockpiling against a teamsters' strike.

Red Trade Boom
American trade with the Red bloc may increase sharply when the administration acts on current proposals to relax restrictions on exports.

Court Starts Down New And Long Legal Path

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has started down a new and long legal path in ruling that people on welfare have the right to a hearing before their assistance may be cut off.

If Justice Hugo L. Black turns out to be right, the journey could work against the very people the court is trying to protect—the poor.

But the court has stepped out with confidence and with the benevolent view that public assistance serves the positive goal of bringing the blessings of liberty to more of the American people.

Monday's 5-3 decision will never serve as a classic example of "strict constructionism." Rather, it is more an example of what Chief Justice Warren E. Burger bitterly termed "the now familiar constitutionalizing syndrome."

Impelled undoubtedly by compassion and a sense of fair play, two hallmarks of the court under former Chief Justice Earl Warren, five justices of diverse philosophies united to cushion poor people with the right to "due process of law" as stated in the 14th Amendment, a right originally designed to protect Negroes after the Civil War.

The court took the ball away from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, whose regulations designed to give people on welfare an even more protective hearing would have gone into effect this summer.

Most of the few legal precedents cited in the opinion of Justice William J. Brennan Jr. seemed remote. More to the point appeared to be a sense of social justice, highlighted by rejection of the idea that welfare is "mere charity."

Indeed, Brennan wrote, public assistance is a means to—in the words of the preamble to the Constitution—"promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity."

Therefore, in a display of judicial gymnastics scored by Black in dissent, the majority does a balancing act atop the due process clause.

The cost to the states of continuing aid while hearings are held and the cost of administering the hearings are balanced against the possibility of cutting off people who really are entitled to aid.

The balance was found by Brennan and Justices William O. Douglas, John M. Harlan, Byron R. White and Thurgood Marshall, to tip in favor of the poor.

Black, reading the 14th

Amendment literally, observed with some heat that "all know that the chief purpose behind it was to protect ex-slaves."

The 84-year-old justice, whose own sense of compassion is unquestioned, observed "it is obvious that today's result depends neither on the language of the Constitution itself nor the principles of other decisions, but solely on the collective judgment of the majority as to what would be a fair and humane procedure."

Looking down the road, Black envisioned a case-by-case build-up of poor people's rights—the right to a free lawyer at the hearing; the right to have welfare continued while appeals are taken; assistance until the Supreme Court itself passes review, a process that can take years.

As a result, Black warned, states may keep needy people off the rolls in the first place until they conduct an exhaustive investigation.

Thus, he said, the court may have insured that countless poor people remain destitute.

Chief Justice Burger, the second dissenter, also looked down the road and wondered whether the court will have to approve hearings to cover reductions in assistance, as well as cutoffs. Will a hearing be necessary if a man is denied help in the first place?

There is a real possibility, he wrote, "that new layers of procedural protection may become an intolerable drain on the very funds earmarked for food, clothing and other living essentials."

These problems were not lost on the majority. Brennan noted the states have very burdensome caseloads. Reflecting this concern, the decision does not require the supply of free lawyers to help the poor man present his case.

The decision was more concerned, however, with other factors: That malaise may flow from the frustration and insecurity of unjustified welfare cutoffs; that the destitute cannot help society function; and that "forces not within the control of the poor contribute to their poverty."

How can the poor be denied "rudimentary due process," Brennan asked, when "from its founding the nation's basic commitment has been to foster the dignity and well-being of all persons within its borders?"

Recognition For Blood Bank Role

Recognition by the National Red Cross in the form of Certificates of Merit for outstanding achievement was received by a fraternity and a sorority at East Carolina University last night.

Douglas Morgan, chairman of the Pitt County Bloodmobile, assisted by Dean of Women Carolyn Fulghum and Dean of Men Jim Mallory, presented the certificates to officers of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity and Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority.

Accepting for the fraternity were president Jim Wenderoth, public relations chairman Jerry Helms, and ROTC Captain Ken Kelly, overall chairman of the campus unit of the bloodmobile.

For the sorority, Patti Stimmel, house president, and Deborah Bannister, vice - president, were on hand to accept the certificate.

"These young people have contributed 100 percent in all the blood drives," Dean Mallory stated. "Sometimes they've gone over that. This is the second year they have received this enviable record."

Without their help," Morgan remarked, "the situation in Pitt County would have been much worse than it is now. The students here at ECU are really faithful in doing more than their share in putting the drive over whenever we have a collection on campus. They really go all out to do a first rate job, and everyone in Pitt County should be grateful for their concern in the vital matter of making blood available for our citizens in times of need."

Found Deficiencies In Hearing Tests

Greenville Moose Lodge civic affairs chairman Jack Moyer reported Monday evening that 174 persons were tested during the recent hearing - screening program sponsored by the lodge. Of these, he said, approximately 7 per cent of all persons tested had some hearing deficiency and were given reports to be handed over to their local physician for any required action.

Dr. W. Garrett Hume, director of Speech and Hearing at East Carolina University, was in charge of the program. The hearing tests were administered by students majoring in speech and hearing at the university. They were:

Jane Slaughter, Patsy Steig, Susan Brown, Sharon Goynes, William Horwell, Patsy Jernigan, Ann Micmillian, Marsha Lautares, Susan Lucas, Susan Martin, Emily Pollard, Joan Webb, Mary McDuffie, Michael Temin and Peggy Mason.

Moyer proposed that because of the popularity of the program it should be repeated next year.

He also expressed disappointment in the latest bloodmobile visit to the lodge. Moose blood donors were given steak dinners.

Threaten Again To Tie Up U.S. Air Traffic

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization has threatened to tie-up the nation's skies Wednesday in a dispute over the transfer of three men from Baton Rouge, La.

A spokesman for PATCO said members would "withdraw services" from key terminals and snarl the orderly flow of airplanes across the United States.

Carl Evans of Dallas, southwest regional coordinator for PATCO, predicted the action would force every major airport in New Mexico, Arizona, Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas to shut down.

Paul Jenkel of Salt Lake City, a member of the PATCO board of directors, called the transfer of the three men "a deliberate attempt to break up a PATCO stronghold at Baton Rouge."

Oppose Ruining Seed Potatoes

PARKSLEY, Va. (AP) — Eastern Shore farmers prepared to burn thousands of bushels of seed sweet potatoes here today while the state chairman of a welfare group indicated he would go to the governor to stop it.

Farmers said they would burn the potatoes tonight in protest of a breakdown of price talks with cannery operators.

But Roy Huffman, state chairman of the Welfare Rights Organization, said he planned to try to call Gov. Linwood Holton today and ask him to keep the potatoes from being burned.

Huffman said he felt the potatoes should be given away to the Welfare Rights Organization for distribution to welfare recipients. He said the Eastern Shore farmers "would get more satisfaction out of that than just plain burning them."

Professor James William Moore of the Yale Law School, who got to know Carswell closely in formation of the Tallahassee Law School, describes him as a man of "great sincerity and scholarly attainments, moderate but forward-looking, and one of great potential."

My own enthusiasm for Judge Carswell is diminished by his evasive account of his participation in the golf club incident of 1956. He then took an active role, not a passive role, in transfer of the Tallahassee municipal golf course to a private country club. Forgive my incredulity, but if Carswell didn't understand the racial purpose of this legal legerdemain, he was the only one in north Florida who didn't understand it. But it was "never mentioned to me," and "I didn't have it in my mind, that's for sure."

Culver and Rep. James J. Howard of New Jersey lashed out at old-style DSG leaders for a lot of reform talk but precious little reform. Their special targets were older DSG leaders trying to mediate between the DSG and the party's leadership headed by Speaker Rep. John W. McCormack.

The private Culver threat was later taken up publicly by a dozen or more reform militants. Particularly infuriating to the reformers was the DSG caucus vote delaying possible action on reform of the seniority — the basis of committee chairmanships — until next January, when a fight to topple McCormack could obscure the seniority issue.

New Farmville School Policies Talked

FARMVILLE — Students from Farmville High School and H. B. Sugg High School met jointly Monday morning to hear policies on desegregation in the new Farmville High School next year.

A similar meeting was held for students in the North Pitt area Friday.

Among participants in the program were the following students: James Harper of H. B. Sugg, chairman of the Student Involvement Committee for the new Farmville High School;

Barbara Lang and Keith Letchworth, both of Farmville High; and Douglas Dupree of H. B. Sugg. Faculty members Mrs. Marguerite Hart and Mrs. Barbara Rupert also participated in the program.

Harper, who presided at the meeting, urged the students to "just from day to day to the various situations, see the good in others, and practice kindness and understanding," in an effort to make next year in the new consolidated school a profitable one for all concerned.

Harper suggested several ways in which students can contribute to making a strong school. "Refuse to believe and accept race myths. Dig out the true facts and associate with members of the opposite race and study their culture and try to understand it."

"Be considerate and fair to members of other races," he suggested. "If some members of a minority show undesirable traits, try to understand the cause of their behavior. Appraise people on their merits rather than through stereotypes."

"In this gym right now," Letchworth told the students, "we have abolished the separation of blacks and whites."

He continued, "By consolidating, we make our school firm and strong; we strengthen its power and its purpose."

"Farmville High School and H. B. Sugg must," he noted, "be brought together to make a whole. The students must become a part in completing the whole."

Dupree, in his presentation, told the assembly, "It is no longer a question of whether desegregation will come, but whether or not it will work."

"Looking at you all, I doubt that there is anyone in this gymnasium who wants any less than a good education for himself. A good education will not come if you oppose the inevitable," he emphasized.

"Hang-ups," Dupree said, "are possible during the next year. This is where your help is needed, wanted and welcomed."

He urged students to express their sentiments to school representatives so they, in turn, can convey the feelings to the higher authorities. "Each and every student must get involved in consolidation for it involves us all," Dupree explained.

"Don't be afraid to get involved in new ideas, but dive into this new plan with enthusiasm, and I believe that you will be glad you did," Miss Lang said.

H. B. Sugg teacher Mrs. Rupert, who spoke to the students, said, "I know that we all share similar apprehensions and anticipations, and we aren't quite sure at this point exactly what we must do to erase these anxieties. There is one thing we all know, however, and that is the failure or success of our schools depends on us."

"Each person involved has an individual duty as well as a responsibility as a member of the group to put forth a real effort to make the new school a success," she said.

Mrs. Hart, a teacher at Farmville High School said, "Farmville students rank well in the eyes of teachers across the state. Others before us have created a reputation which calls for respect for our school. Can we do less?"

Managing Your Money

PNB PLANTERS NATIONAL BANK

A Fountainhead Of Financial Advice

It is surprising how few depositors take advantage of the knowledge and experience in financial matters that is available to them for the asking at their local bank.

The officers who operate your bank have had years of experience in managing money—your money incidentally—and this expertise is available to you at any time.

This is a timely observation because your bank is in the process of preparing its annual report. A bank's annual report is really a yardstick of its money management talent and a measure of problem-solving ability of the people who run the bank. All of which are accessible to you when you have financial problems.

Too often, people consider their bank simply as a place to deposit money in their checking and savings accounts or apply for a loan. They show less interest in a bank's annual report. They claim "It's banker talk—It's too hard to understand—Besides—What does it mean to us?"

As a matter of fact, it means a great deal to the people of a community because it is a mirror of their financial resources. In an effort to translate "Banker Talk" into layman language, consider some of the items shown in your bank's annual report as we will do from time to time.

For instance, the largest single figure on the report is the amount of dollars it has on deposit. Notice, too, that the bank shows deposits as a liability meaning the bank doesn't own that money. It owes it to you and thousands of other depositors who have checking and savings accounts there.

A portion of this figure, then, represents your contribution to the financial health of your community because a bank's ability to make loans is related directly to the amount of money its depositors have entrusted to it.

Obviously, you have a stake in keeping the economy of your community on an even keel. Your bank is interested in the same thing—even to a greater degree—because it serves the entire community. Your mutual interest is reflected in the annual report published by your bank.

The next time you stop in at your bank to make a deposit in your checking or savings account (or both, I hope), pick up a copy of the annual report. If it isn't on display, ask for one. Take it home with you. You will find it makes interesting reading.

When you are faced with a knotty financial problem, don't ask your neighbor for advice. Go to the man who knows—your banker. He does an excellent job of managing your money.

Air Attache Is Kidnap Victim

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The air attache of the U.S. Embassy here was kidnapped today—the third American diplomat kidnapped in Latin America since September.

Police and the U.S. Embassy said Lt. Col. Donald J. Crowley was seized on a polo field near the El Embajador Hotel.

An informant at the hotel said he saw the 47-year-old Crowley taken away by four or five gunmen at 7:40 a.m. He said they arrived at the polo field in a white car.

The embassy would not confirm reports that Crowley's kidnapers intended to use him as ransom for a score of political prisoners held here.

Among those prisoners mentioned was Maximiliano Gomez, secretary-general of the Dominican Popular Movement, a Communist-oriented group, who has been held on charges of terrorism for two months.

Crowley, born in El Paso, Texas, arrived in the Dominican Republic in May 1968. He has a wife, Nancy, three daughters and a son.

The polo field where he was kidnapped was the site of the initial landings of U.S. troops, who entered the Dominican Republic in 1965 on the orders of President Lyndon B. Johnson in the midst of civil political strife.

The Dominican Republic is presently the scene of campaigning for May's presidential election.

Army Hospital's Policy Unchanged

HONOLULU (AP) — Tripler Army Hospital has no plans to change its abortion policy despite Hawaii's more permissive new abortion law, a spokesman said Monday.

Abortion at the Army hospital will be performed only in cases "in which continuation of the pregnancy significantly threatens the life or health of the mother," he said.

The decision was made after consultation with the Army surgeon general's office, the spokesman said.

The new law permits abortions in most circumstances when approved by the woman and her doctor.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz has warned that further delays in a railroad contract settlement could touch off a wildcat rail shutdown.

"Though wildcat strikes have been contained, thanks to the action of responsible union leaders, I fear another delay might fuel the fires of impatience," Shultz said Monday in testimony before the House Commerce Committee.

Shultz and William W. Winpisinger, chief negotiator for the four shopcraft unions, urged Congress to act immediately to prevent a nationwide rail shutdown.

President Nixon has asked Congress to end the 15-month-old dispute by making the industry's last offer a binding settlement.

The offer was accepted by leaders of the four shopcraft unions, but rejected by the rank and file of the Sheet Metal Workers Union. All four unions must agree to the industry's terms before an agreement can be reached.

J. W. O'Brien, vice president of the Sheet Metal Workers Union, was expected to tell the committee today why the union rejected the proposal accepted by the machinists, boilermakers and electricians.

Winpisinger described the situation among the 45,000 shopcraft workers as like a powder keg ready to explode any minute into a nationwide wildcat walkout.

Shultz said the prospects for a voluntary settlement are no greater today than on March 4 when the President submitted to Congress a proposal for ending the dispute.

Instead, Congress ordered a 37-day strike moratorium that expires April 11.

New Clash In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Heavy shooting broke out between Lebanese army troops and Palestinian guerrillas in Beirut today, witnesses reported.

The shooting was in and around the Sabra Square quarter of the southern edge of the city, the witnesses said.

Sabra is inhabited mainly by Palestinians.

The witnesses said guerrillas were firing from balconies and doorways, at army troops positioned around a teachers college and a sports stadium.

The army returned the fire. Lebanese guerrilla relations have been tense since a guerrilla was killed and several wounded in what Palestinians claim was an army ambush in southern Lebanon last week.

The government said that incident was due to a misunderstanding.

Sabra and the nearby refugee camp of Burz al Barajneh are guerrilla strongholds in Beirut, with Palestinians openly walking around the streets fully armed.

$10,000 Fine For Ex-Mayor

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — Milton Strickland, former mayor of Nashville, N.C., was given a one-year suspended sentence Monday, placed on three-year probation and fined $10,000 for willful failure to file a federal income tax in 1965.

U.S. District Court Judge John Larkins Jr. passed sentence on Strickland, a farmer, who for 22 years was Nashville mayor.

Strickland was charged last year with failure to file for the years 1962-65 inclusive. He entered a plea of guilty for the year 1965 and the other charges were dismissed.

Dolph Predicts Common Draft

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The American Basketball Association kept its money bags ready and waiting today in case Pete Maravich and Bob Lanier want to dip in, but Commissioner Jack Dolph predicted this would be the last bidding war between the ABA and the rival National Basketball Association.

"I predict there will be a common draft next year," Dolph said Monday after his 3-year-old league completed its annual player draft at the same time the NBA was holding its draft a mile downtown.

"We have proven our ability to sign players," Dolph said, "and, if need be, we'll prove it again."

The implication was that the two leagues would merge before too long, just as a sky-high bidding war forced the merger of the National and American Football Leagues.

"We have been negotiating with the NBA in good faith," Dolph said. "We have broad areas of agreement and much fewer areas of disagreement than we did a month or even two weeks ago."

A common draft was impossible this year, he said, because of "the time element—it took so long for the respective merger committees to get where they are. We didn't think we could wait, so the draft was an area in which both leagues agreed to disagree for the time being." Not only didn't the ABA wait, it held the first four rounds of its draft in January and signed eight players last week, as follows:

Indiana Pacers—Rick Mount, Purdue; Kentucky Colonels—Dan Issel and Mike Pratt, Kentucky; and Claude Virden, Murray State; Pittsburgh Pipers—Mike Maloy, Davidson; Washington Caps—Charlie Scott, North Carolina; Dallas Chaparrals—Emanuel Cannon, Grambling; New Orleans Buccaneers—Wendell Ladner, Southern Mississippi.

A ninth player signed Monday, the Miami Floridians, announcing that Fran O'Hanlon, a backcourt man from Villanova, had come to terms.

The ABA's Carolina Cougars still had high hopes of signing Maravich, Louisiana State's all-time college scoring leader, but Lanier, the 6-foot-11 strong man from St. Bonaventure, reportedly was committed to the NBA.

Lanier was picked by New York of the ABA and Detroit of the NBA, while Atlanta of the NBA took Maravich.

Maravich's father, Press, his coach at LSU, said his son would have no announcement for several weeks. Lanier indicated he might reach a decision later this week.

Angels Putting Money On More Speed In 1970

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — "Speed is one of the greatest things in baseball," states Manager Lefty Phillips of the California Angels whose club has more of it this season than before.

"Speed counts both offensively and defensively," Phillips continues. "It makes the other teams make mistakes."

Shortstop Jim Fregosi, starting his tenth season as an Angel, says this is the first time the first five men in the batting order have good speed.

Although Alex Johnson was acquired in trade from Cincinnati primarily for his hitting, he's also acknowledged one of the fastest in the game on the bases.

Speed is just one of the reasons the Angels are improved this season. Another big one is maturity. Pitchers Andy Messersmith, Tom Murphy and Rudy May who became the pitching mainstays for 1969 hadn't played a full major league season before.

Neither had five in the batting order who became regulars after June 1.

With the year's experience and continued emphasis on fundamentals this spring, Phillips declares, "There's no question we'll win more games. Everything depends on how many the others win."

When Lefty, a former aide to Walter Alton of the Dodgers, took over the Angels last May 27, they floundered in last place with an 11-28 record. From then on, they played 60-63, finishing in third place of the American League's Western Division.

Even with that improvement, they finished 26 games behind division winning Minnesota and 17 back of second place Oakland.

Messersmith posted the best pitching record at 16-11 after starting 0-5. May, a southpaw, wound up 10-13 after being only 1-6. Murphy finished 10-16.

Phillips must find a fourth starter and middle inning relief help while hoping Ken Tatum can come somewhere near his rookie season as the short relief hurler. After being called up on May 27, his relief work provided a tremendous boost. He was 7-2 with 22 saves and a 1.36 earned-run-average.

The Angel infield shapes up with Jim Spencer at first, Sandy Alomar at second, Fregosi at short and Aurelio Rodriguez at third.

"I feel that defensively we have as fine an infield as there is in the American League," Phillips observes while worrying about the catching where Joe Aczue holds forth without much to back him up. Aczue slumped to a .218 average last season.

Johnson, who hit .315 with Cincinnati in 1969, holds down left field and there are those who feel he could lead the league in hitting this year. Jay Johnstone opens in center with a fight continuing for the other outfield spot.

Rick Reichardt, Roger Repoz, Jim Hicks and Bill Voss are the candidates.

Addition of utility infielder Chico Ruiz, in the Cincinnati deal, gives Phillips an opportunity to rest either Rodriguez or Alomar periodically, a situation he couldn't afford a year ago.

Summing up, Phillips sees improvement with the hitting of Johnson, more depth in pitching and more speed plus the fact his three starting pitchers have experienced a full campaign.

So also have Spencer, Alomar, Rodriguez, Johnstone and Voss. "They know they belong in the majors and that relaxes them mentally," explains the manager who himself has just completed his rookie year.

Minnesota Snaps Second Losing String Of Spring

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Minnesota Twins, who have been on nothing but a losing streak all spring, snapped another Monday behind the shaky hurling of Ron Perranoski.

The Twins, West Division champions of the American League last year, opened the 1970 spring exhibition campaign with a string of nine straight losses before winning Monday, their five-game losing skid came to a halt in a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

And the staggering Twins, with a 2-14 spring mark, almost blew it in the ninth inning after getting superb one-hit pitching from rookie Bill Zepp over the first five innings.

After going ahead 4-3 on Charlie Manuel's run-scoring hit in the eighth, Perranoski, the star left-handed reliever, who was rocked for five hits and one run in 2 1-3 innings, loaded the bases with only one out.

But the cool Twins' fireman got Chicago's Tom McGraw on a foul pop up and fired a third strike past Bill Melton to end the thriller. Tony Oliva slashed a homer for the Twins earlier.

In other action, the Pittsburgh Pirates slammed five home runs and three-hit pitching from big Bob Veale in a 15-7 rout of Kansas City. Veale, going seven innings, allowed two runs and his first walk of the spring. The Pirate sluggers were Willie Stargell, Gene Alley, Jerry May, John Jeter and Bill Mazeroski.

The New York Mets nipped St. Louis 4-3 on Cleon Jones' three-run inside-the-park homer, keying a four-run fourth inning but the Mets' B squad dropped a 4-3 decision to the Philadelphia Phillies as Chris Short stopped them on three hits in seven innings. Larry Hise's run-scoring double provided the winner for the Phils.

Washington got shutout pitching from Casey Cox, Dick Such and Darold Knowles and Frank Howard drove in a run with a single in the Senators 2-0 triumph over Baltimore.

Rookie John Mayberry's 500-foot homer off Sony Siebert lifted the Houston Astros to a 3-2 victory over Boston. Joe Pepitone had a run-scoring single for the Astros.

Rookie Don Anderson stroked a run-scoring single, triggering a four-run sixth inning as the Cincinnati Reds moved to a 7-3 decision over Los Angeles.

Another rookie, Frank Baker of the New York Yankees, cracked a three-run seventh inning homer as the Yanks swept past Detroit 5-2.

Larry Brown knocked in all three Cleveland runs in the Indians 3-2 triumph over Chicago while Sam McDowell hurled seven strong innings for the winners. Brown slapped a two-run single in the second and a run-scoring double in the seventh.

San Diego jumped out to a 8-0 lead and held off Oakland 8-3 with Danny Coombs tossing four shutout innings for the Padres and Seattle exploded for four eighth inning runs in a 5-3 triumph over California. Jim Hicks clouted a homer for the Angels.

Ayden Rolls By Vanceboro, 9-4

VANCEBORO — Ayden rolled to a 9-4 victory over Vanceboro here yesterday, for its second win of the season.

The Tornados pushed over four runs in the third inning to take the lead. Alan Wilson, Robert Twilley and Debro Blount all walked, loading the bases. Dail Manning then singled, driving in all three runners. Manning scored when Bennett Tyson singled.

Ayden came right back with four more runs in the fourth inning. Ken Cleton singled and Dail Griffin drove him in with a triple. Wilson walked and stole second. Twilley walked, and Bount was hit by a patch scoring Cleton. Manning then hit a long fly ball, that brought in both Wilson and Twilley after the catch.

Ayden picked up one more run in the top of the fifth.

Vanceboro came on to score one run in the bottom of the fourth and three more in the fifth, but couldn't catch up.

January Tops Jacksonville

By F. T. MACFEELY
Associated Press Sports Writer
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Don January, his 1970 bankroll quadrupled by more than $25,000 won in Monday's playoff for the Greater Jacksonville Open golf title, heads for Miami and the next tournament today in one of his typical streaks.

"I can't play more than four or five weeks in a row," said the 40-year-old veteran who registered his 11th victory of all time and first since 1968. "I'll play straight through the Masters and then go back to Dallas."

He has been doing it this way several years and finishing high up among the year's money winners while playing only half as much as most other tour golfers.

He also is spending more time at home, where he and Billy Martindale, a former regular on the golf tour, are building the Royal Oak Country Club course. They expect to open it in July with more than 500 members.

January beat Dale Douglass in the playoff with three straight birdie putts on the last three holes. January shot three-under-par 69 on the 6,943-yard Hidden Hills course while Douglass matched par 72.

As he stood on the 16th tee, with the match tied on Douglass' 15-foot birdie putt on the previous hole, January had two distinct thoughts.

"First, I thought: 'I've got to get a birdie or two.' January said. "But when he hit his tee shot in trouble, I had to make sure the wind didn't get my ball like it did his."

January played it safe, mad the green of the 202-yard par 3 hole but left himself a long putt.

"I'd say it was 40 feet," January told newsmen afterward.

"I'd say it was 40 feet, too," chimed in Douglass, his sense of humor intact and his pockets lined with $11,400 second prize plus $5,000 television playoff money and a share of the gate receipts.

January birdied the 17th with a six-foot putt and clinched victory with a 15-footer for a birdie on the final hole.

In the stretch drive, Douglass broke one of his favorite clubs, a 4-wood, on his second shot from a clump of trees to the left of the 17th fairway.

"I expected it to happen," he said. "I had them move the gallery back, because I was bound to hit the tree after hitting the ball, and I figured the club would go."

He planned to stop in Orlando to have it fixed as he drove to Miami today.

Young Golf Pros Object To Policy

By F. T. MACFEELY
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Don't get the "rabbits" wrong. They don't object to satellite golf tournaments paired with major events along the tour.

They do object to a limit of 100 contestants in the major event, many of them big name oldtimers, to the exclusion of up-and-coming youngsters.

"It's much better to play for $150,000 than $35,000," said 25-year-old John Baldwin of Port Washington, N.Y.

That sums up their attitude. The issue blew open a couple weeks ago when 100 selected players competed for $150,000 in the Citrus Invitational at Orlando while the younger pros played for $35,000 in the Citrus Open at Lakeland.

Many of the young group at Lakeland signed a protest petition. Paul Warren, tournament director at Orlando as well as the Greater Jacksonville Open and seven other tour tourneys, says the young players are off base if they say all the oldtimers got a free ticket into the big money event.

"Every one of the top 98 on the money list for 1969 who wanted to play was in the invitation," Warren said. "If they aren't good enough to make the top 98, they can't expect an invitation."

"There is more chance to win money in the major event," said Tom Joyce, 29, of North Merrick, N.Y. "I think both the major tournament and the satellite can have 144 players. That's about the right number."

Jim King of Chicago, making his first attempt at the full tour at age 34, says:

"Satellite tournaments are good but they shouldn't cut the field in the major tournament. Some of the invites no longer have the ability, and 15 years after he did something important, people don't care any more."

Warren, who originated the invitational at Orlando, thinks it worked well.

"I don't care whether 144 or 100 play," he said. "But I loved the field of 100. It is the most workable from a sponsor's standpoint."

"Every group can start from the first tee, you don't need two shifts of volunteer workers and it makes a shorter day for spectators," he said.

"Some people thought I was trying to knock players out, but that's not true. We got them more money to play for,

Area Players Picked By Pros

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pistol Pete Maravich of LSU is the No. 1 draft choice of both the Carolinas Cougars of the American Basketball Association and Atlanta of the National Basketball Association.

The Cougars also drafted Vann Williford of North Carolina State, Bob Leinhard of Georgia, Greg McDivitt of Ohio University, Norvis Anderson of Stephen F. Austin, the nation's top-ranked small college team; Paul Adam of Central Washington, Ernie Killum of Stetson, Wayne Sokoloski of Ashland, Carl Johnson of Gustavus Adolphus, Jim Signorile of NYU, and Randy Smith of Buffalo State.

To no one's surprise, Mike Maloy of Davidson was the first draft choice of Pittsburgh, and Charlie Scott of North Carolina was the No. 1 pick of another American Basketball Association team, Washington.

Both had previously signed with the clubs. Scott also was the No. 7 choice of Boston of the NBA Monday, and Maloy was picked No. 10 by that team.

Doug Cook of Davidson was the second-round choice of Cincinnati of the NBA.

Pats Begin To Look For Site

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston City Council has dashed the Boston Patriots' hopes for a $16 million, 55,000-seat stadium in Neponset, near the Quincy line.

"As far as I'm concerned, this eliminates Boston as a home for the Patriots," said President Billy Sullivan of the National Football League team after the council rejected the stadium plan by a 7-2 vote Monday night.

"What gets me is that cities all over America are seeking industries and Boston is kicking one out," he said.

Then noting that the Neponset site is within a few hundred feet of his office, he added, "I'll be able to look out my window and look at that rat-infested dump forever. If the council was interested in preserving that forever, they did a good job."

The Pats' president said Foxboro and Haverhill in Massachusetts and an unspecified site in New Hampshire might be places the team could go.

"We may have to call ourselves the New England Patriots," he said, "but if I were betting I'd bet that in September we'll still be here. Not in Boston, but in New England."

In Honolulu, NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said he would talk today with the city council members. Any announcements or comments will come later from his New York office, Rozelle said.

The commissioner added that he planned to stay in Hawaii for "a few more days" but would have no comment about the Boston situation.

Whether the vote dealt a death blow to the stadium, which seemed likely, or whether some one would attempt to salvage the plan was not immediately clear.

In any case, a spokesman said Mayor Kevin H. White would make no further effort for a stadium where the National Football League Patriots could play.

The mayor was said to consider the Neponset plan the only one he could support, since it was the only stadium proposal that could be carried out at no cost to the city.

Only Councilors John E. Kerrigan and Frederick C. Langone voted for the Neponset plan under which the Boston Redevelopment Authority would have built the stadium with a bond issue, paying off the bonds over a 40-year period with state tax revenue from 12 additional days of horse racing at Suffolk Downs track.

Councilor John Saltonstall Jr., who had been regarded as favoring the Neponset plan, voted against it after his colleagues turned down his amendment proposing a feasibility study of both the Neponset site and another intown near South Station.

Three of the councilors voted in committee for the latter site last week.

The Patriots were under league pressure to find a playing field with at least 50,000 seats, a requirement fixed by the NFL for the 1970 season.

At the urging of Patriots' President Billy Sullivan, the league owners meeting in Honolulu last weekend promised to defer action on the Boston franchise until all possible avenues were explored.

How much longer the owners would wait in the face of the council's vote was uncertain. A clear possibility was a summons to transfer the franchise.

South Africa Seeks Comeback

By GE OFFREY MILLER
LOS ANGELES (AP) — South Africa, banned from the 1970 Davis Cup tennis tournament, started planning today to apply for readmission next year.

"We are making steady progress toward integration of tennis in South Africa and in helping African players," said Alf Chalmers, president of the South African Lawn Tennis Union (SALTU).

"We can only accept yesterday's decision to ban us from the Davis Cup."

"But the ban applies only to 1970. At the annual meeting in the summer we will apply to come in next year, and perhaps we shall have made further progress at home by then and be able to persuade other countries to change their attitude."

A seven-man committee was set up by a special meeting of the Davis Cup nations in London Monday and decided within three hours to exclude South Africa.

South Africa had drawn a bye in the first round of Section B of the European Zone.

Wicks 'Not Up To Potential'

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA's Sidney Wicks, voted the most valuable player in the collegiate basketball championships, says, "To tell the truth, I don't think I've played up to my full potential."

His was a simple statement of his beliefs with no braggadocio as he added, "I'll be working all summer trying to improve."

Wicks was the 6-foot-8 jumper who nullified Jacksonville's 7-2 Artis Gilmore in the NCAA finals as the Bruins won 80-69.

Asked if there was any question of how high he could jump in combatting a man one-half foot taller, Wicks told the Southern California Basketball Writers Monday:

"There was no question how high I could jump. My question was how high he could jump."

Wicks had worked last year in practice against teammate Lew Alcindor, the three-time All American who graduated after leading UCLA to three straight NCAA titles.

"Playing on this team was very rewarding to me," Wicks continued. "You get to meet other guys like Steve and John. Black and white people often don't get to know each other."

Wicks, a black man, referred to Steve Patterson and John the winner of the Finland-Belgium round, which should have met South Africa in the second round, will now get a bye into the semifinals.

Blen Franklin, the other South African delegate, argued that the Davis Cup nations really had no case against the SALTU.

"I wish delegates at yesterday's meeting had recognized that we wanted to have Arthur Ashe playing in our national championships. We are not responsible for our government's policy."

South Africa's refusal to give Ashe a visa led to the United States calling Monday's meeting.

Robert B. Colwell, vice-president of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, said the SALTU had warned the South African government that their team faced expulsion from the Davis Cup if Ashe's visa was refused.

The first round of the Davis Cup will be played by May 11. Last year Poland and Czechoslovakia refused to play South Africa, which advanced on two forfeits to the section final before losing to Britain.

Valley who are white. Teammates Curtis Rowe and Henry Bibby are black. The five are the starting team who played most of the game against Jacksonville.

Patterson, the back-up man for Alcindor last season, declared, "This has been an enjoyable and rewarding year for me. It's been a long time in coming. We've established ourselves as the No. 1 team and deserving of the title even without Lew."

Asked how Coach John Wooden moulded individual stars into a cohesive championship unit, Patterson said, "I don't think he ever stressed teamwork as such. He went the long way around by working on fundamentals and small things."

Of the starting five, only guard Valley has completed the eligibility.

Valley, drafted by Atlanta of the National Basketball Association, was asked his reaction to the choice and replied, "My reaction is that I'm just glad to be drafted."

Valley was named to the All-NCAA Tournament team this season for the second straight time.

NBA Makes Choices, Starts Job Of Signing

By MIKE RECHT
NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association, better late than never, finally has begun its harvest of the college basketball stars with top picks Bob Lanier, Rudy Tomjanovich and Pete Maravich apparently still up for grabs.

After giving the rival American Basketball Association a three-month head start, the NBA moved up its annual draft one week and went to work Monday with Detroit starting things off with its expected selection of Lanier of St. Bonaventure.

San Diego followed with the surprising choice of Tomjanovich of Michigan, and then came the revelation that Atlanta had acquired San Francisco's pick and used it to take Maravich.

Now, with the ABA already having signed nine players, including highly regarded Dan Issel of Kentucky, Charlie Scott of North Carolina and Rick Mount of Purdue, the NBA can finally begin competing in earnest.

Lanier, a 6-foot-11, 265-pound domineering center with a light shooting touch, and Maravich, Louisiana State's three-time All-American who is possibly basketball's greatest attraction, are the big prizes still on the

New Orleans Stops String

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
New Orleans snapped a four-game losing streak Monday night with a 122-116 victory over Dallas in the only action in the American Basketball Association.

Coach Babe McCarthy, a weary optimist, clapped his sweaty victors on the back and told them they still had a good chance to take it all—even if the Bucs were running last in the ABA's Western Division.

"We played well tonight for being as tired as we are," said McCarthy. "We played eight games in the last nine days—four of them in the last 72 hours—so you can imagine."

Glen Combs of Dallas was high point man of the night with 36.

Without the much-talked about merger between the leagues, which it seems now must wait until at least next year, both Lanier and Maravich appear headed for contracts that will top the reported $1.4 million received by Lew Alcindor last year. This despite the knee injury suffered by Lanier in the NCAA championship tournament that required surgery.

While Lanier had been rumored headed for the NBA and Maravich for the ABA—Lanier was picked by the New York Nets and Maravich by the Carolina Cougars of the ABA—both denied Monday that anything had been settled.

Saying he did not know yet who he'll sign with, Lanier said he would talk to his lawyer Wednesday and "maybe I'll have word for you then." However, he did say "there's more prestige and more competition in the NBA."

The NBA greatly increased its chances of getting Maravich when Atlanta picked him, at least according to his father, Press Oaravich, who also coached him at LSU where Pete set the all-time major college scoring record and became almost a legend in Louisiana.

Steve Jones of the Bucs had 34.

The victory left New Orleans with a 36-37 record, six games behind league-leading Denver, the Bucs' foe in their next game. Dallas, now 38-36, was in third place, 4½ games behind Denver and just half a game in front of third place Los Angeles.

Fortunately for the weary Bucs, their next game doesn't come around until Friday, giving them a welcome break.

The big loser turned out to be San Francisco, which reportedly gave Atlanta the choice in return for the rights to Zelfo Beaty, former Atlanta center who is headed for the ABA. The Warriors apparently, have failed to change Beaty's mind, and now have nothing.

San Diego supposedly passed Maravich because of its need for a big forward—Tomjanovich is 6-7—and the cost of Pistol Pete, if it could land him anyway.

In fact, most of the clubs went for big men on the first round. Boston took 6-9 Dave Cowens of Florida State, Cincinnati picked 6-9 Sam Lacey of New Mexico State, Seattle chose 6-8 Jim Ard of Cincinnati, Cleveland went for 6-6 John Johnson of Iowa.

Baltimore selected 6-11 George Johnson of Stephen F. Austin, Phoenix took 6-8 Greg Howard of New Mexico, Philadelphia picked 6-6 Al Henry of Wisconsin, Buffalo picked 6-9 John Hummer and Milwaukee chose 6-9 Gary Freeman of Oregon State.

The only small men were Jeff Petrie of Princeton, picked by Portland; Jimmy Collins of New Mexico State, picked by Chicago; 6-5 Jim McMillian of Columbia, chosen by Los Angeles; John Valley of UCLA's national champions, picked by Atlanta, and Mike Price of Illinois, selected by the New York Knicks.

All but Henry and Price were selected in early rounds by the ABA, but the NBA is believed to have the inside track with Tomjanovich, Cowens, Petrie and McMillian.

Still, the NBA selected Isel, Mount, Scott and other ABA signees on late rounds on the chance that the ABA might fold. In all, 170 players were chosen in the 10 rounds, and the teams can pick more by telegram, although Atlanta was down to Manuel Raga of the Mexican National team on the 167th pick.

SEATTLE (AP) — Double barreled court action was in store today on the big question of whether a switch of the franchise of the Seattle Pilots to Milwaukee should be allowed.

A hearing on whether to grant a temporary injunction to prevent the sale and transfer of the American League baseball club was to continue before Superior Court Judge James Mifflin at 9:30 a.m.

At 2 p.m., Washington State and Seattle were to present their reasons in U.S. District Court why they should not be prevented from interfering with sale of the club to Milwaukee interests.

Last Thursday, Pacific Northwest Sports, Inc., which owns the Pilots, petitioned the federal court to order the sale under the Bankruptcy Act.

William Walsh, representing Pacific Northwest Sports, said the Pilots owner would be destroyed if the team cannot be sold, and therefore, he said, Seattle still would have no major league baseball. He said the league club owners are trying to recover their original investment by trying to sell the Pilots for $10.8 million.

During Monday's session in Superior Court, testimony showed the current owners of the Pilots would profit by $1 million by sale of the team to Milwaukee, and that a contract for such a sale was signed one day before a league meeting was scheduled in Tampa, Fla., during which the transfer was to have been voted upon.

Mifflin said that as far as he could see Seattle residents don't want the club, and if it remained in the city, ticket sale and attendance wouldn't measure up to the hopes of those interested.

The judge said any decision he might make would be outweighed by the one on the bankruptcy angle.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Queen of ♠

When South opened the bidding with a preemptive call of three clubs, North was tempted momentarily to try for three no trump. He feared, however, that if his partner's suit was not solid, the opponents might score several spade tricks once the ace was disclosed. In the belief that a suit contract was safer, North proceeded directly to five clubs.

West opened the queen of spades and the ace was played from dummy. South ruffed a spade with the nine of clubs and then led a small trump. East was in with the ace and he returned another spade which was trumped by the ten.

A heart was led to the ace and a small heart was ruffed with the jack of clubs. Dummy was entered with the seven of trumps, the king of hearts was cashed on which South discarded a diamond, and the remaining heart was trumped in the closed hand leaving this four card position:

South led a small diamond from his hand — it was his intention if West followed with a spot card to play the nine from dummy. If East won the trick with the queen or king, he would be end-played on the return. The play of a spade would present declarer with a ruff and discard, while a diamond lead would be directly into the dummy's ace-jack.

West was aware of South's intention and he foiled his opponent in a very neat manner. When the four of diamonds was led West put up the king. Declarer could not afford to cover with the ace, inasmuch as he had no convenient reentry to his hand to lead another diamond.

South was obliged to let West hold the trick. The latter exited with the five of diamonds and declarer finessed dummy's jack, in the hope that West had both the king and queen. When East turned up with the queen, the contract was set.

South developed too elaborate a campaign in attempting to bring home his contract and thereby paved the way for his own downfall. If he had started in on the diamonds early, he would have been able to nullify any defensive counter-measure and thereby restrict his loss to one trick in the suit.

Social Security Taxes Remain Same In 1970

Social Security taxes remain the same for 1970. This reminder comes from Mr. Jack Tatem, Social Security District Manager in Greenville.

"The Social Security tax rate will again be 4.8 percent on the first $7800 earnings with each employer during the year," Mr. Tatem said yesterday. "This is the same rate which prevailed in 1969." Unless the law is changed by Congress, the rate will advance in 1971 to 5.2 percent. The employer, of course, matches the employee's contribution, Mr. Tatem pointed out.

Under the current tax structure 4.2 percent of this tax goes into the United States Treasury to be credited to the Social Security Retirement, Survivors, and Disability Trust Fund. Six-tenths of one percent goes into a similar trust fund for the Hospital Benefits under Medicare.

Self-employed persons will continue to pay 6.9 percent on the first $7800 of net earnings in 1970. This is also the same rate as for 1969. Under the present law, the self-employment tax will rise to 7.5 percent on January 1, 1971.

The Worry Clinic Promiscuity Is Life-Destroyer

Rachel's sex tragedy is duplicated thousands of times all over America. Let it be a lesson to you teen-agers who succumb to the Communist doctrine of sexual promiscuity. Rachel can win back her husband's moderate interest but it will never again equal their first rapturous 8 years of marriage.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE M-563: Rachel D., aged 28, is desperate.

"Dr. Crane," she moaned, "I feel crushed and ready to die. 'If it weren't for our three darling children, I believe I would have committed suicide. 'During high school, I ran around with a 'fast' crowd where the girls were rather promiscuous.

"Since it then seemed the fashionable thing to do, I became intimate with several senior classmates.

"But when I was 20, I met my husband and fell madly in love with him.

"We got married and have been ideally happy for the past 8 years.

"But last week my husband, who is a sales manager, hired a new recruit who had come back to our city after an absence of nearly 10 years.

My husband took him and a couple of other salesmen out to lunch.

"After a couple of beers, this newcomer began talking about his high school crowd and the hot times he had enjoyed with various girls.

"And he blurted out my maiden name as one of the best dates he had ever enjoyed.

"Well, my husband said nothing, but confronted me with this man's boasting about my sex orgies in high school.

"I had never told him about my past, for he believed he was the only man in my life.

"Now he ignores me completely and says he'd divorce me at once except for our 3 kiddies. 'Although I have apologized and told him he is the only man I ever cared about, he is icy cold toward my pleas to forgive and forget.

"For each day when he gets to the office, he sees this new salesman who had boasted about his high school sex affairs with me.

"Dr. Crane, I love my husband with all my heart and it is killing me to see the change in him.

"What can I do to make it up to him and try to restore some of the happiness we enjoyed throughout our previous 8 years of marriage?"

You teenage girls might profit from this true case!

Cannon Will Aid In Learning Of Moon Meteors

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A Navy destroyer escort's cannon, enlisted by science, will soon help researchers get an idea how long ago meteors hit the moon.

The weapon, fitted with a special 20-foot-long barrel, a laser beam unit and high-speed camera, was adapted by Dr. Thomas J. Ahrens, associate professor of geophysics at the California Institute of Technology.

Ahrens plans to fire the cannon at a fragment of moon rock brought back by American astronauts. Instead of making an indentation on the moon rock, the "bullets" actually will erase microscopic scratches which have been grooved into the rock by stellar rays over the years.

The atom bomb dropped on Hiroshima killed 66,000 persons and injured 69,000.

Barbed Wire Is Collector Item

GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP) — Most people avoid barbed wire, but not William Crogan. The missile site construction worker collects it as a hobby.

On a weekend, he may drive 200 to 300 miles poking around for strands of it. His best finds include wire dating back to 1900 or earlier.

Some of the wire turns up in dump grounds of old farms, or from along rivers where early settlers fed cattle.

Crogan used to be a rock collector. In 1967 he switched to wire, and he keeps his specimens neatly displayed on canvas.

Genevieve Bujold Delighted Canadian Is Oscar Nominee

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The Canadians used to worship failure. Not any longer. There is a new spirit, a new eagerness to succeed."

Genevieve Bujold was talking about her countrymen. She is the Montreal-born actress who was nominated for an Academy Award because of her performance as Anne Boleyn in "Anne of the Thousand Days." The matter came up when she was telling of the day she learned of her nomination:

"I heard about it at home in Montreal when my agent called with the news at 2:30 in the afternoon. That evening at 6:30 our friends gathered for a celebration, and I left at 8:30 for the Command Performance of "Anne" in London.

Recent Grad At Wake Forest U.

WINSTON - SALEM — Mrs. Sally Ann Whitehurst Atkinson, daughter of Alton J. Whitehurst of Bethel, was graduated recently from Wake Forest University here.

Mrs. Atkinson, majoring in physical education, received the B. S. degree.

Mrs. Atkinson was president of the physical education major's club and the dance club. She was a member of Laurels Society and was a freshman cheerleader.

"What touched me very deeply was the pride and affection that our friends showed over the nomination. They were genuinely pleased for me and delighted that a Canadian had made it. That reflects a change of attitude."

The sense of defeatism is understandable in Canada's earlier years, when the nation saw its young talent develop in television and the theater, only to be lured away to the United States and England. Now there is hope, Miss Bujold observed, in the Canadian Film Development Corporation, which has $10 million for nurturing movie projects.

The first film made under the plan is "The Act of the Heart," starring Miss Bujold and directed by her husband, Paul Almond. It will be released soon by Universal. A releasing deal is one of the requirements of the Development Corporation, which then provides half the financing.

With Genevieve Bujold now an international star, how much longer will she remain a Montreal resident?

"As long as Canada can provide me with work," she says.

Whether Canada can compete remains to be seen. Miss Bujold's performance as the ambitious Anne has established her as one of the most accomplished young actresses of the English-speaking world. She is 27; a French-Canadian with a bit of Irish.

She was schooled in a convent, later attended the Montreal Conservatory of Drama, toured in France and Russia in a Canadian company. One of the results was a small role in Alain Resnais' "La Guerre Est Finie."

The French film was seen by director George Schaefer, who cast her in the title role of a television version of Shaw's "St. Joan." She had also been directed by her husband in a Canadian film, "Isabel."

"That is what got me 'Anne of the Thousand Days,'" says Miss Bujold. "Hal Wallis and his wife, Martha Hyer, almost every night have friends in to watch movies. One night they showed 'Isabel,' and he said, 'That is 'Anne.'"

Next, she needed the approval of her co-star, Richard Burton, whom she visited on the set of "Staircase" in Paris. He approved. The script called for numerous love scenes between Anne and Henry VIII, and one that took place in bed. The reaction of Mrs. Burton?

"She was very discreet," said Miss Bujold. "She came to the set, but only as the wife as an actor might do. She stayed very much in the background."

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — A GI education bill boosting benefits to single veterans from $130 to $175 a month has been sent to President Nixon.

The bill was given final approval Monday by the Senate. It includes special programs for high school dropouts and disadvantaged veterans.

"For the first time this nation will be offering Vietnam war veterans comparable benefits we gave veterans of the Korean conflict," said Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill authorizing the United States to loan submarines to Nationalist China and Greece has been approved by the House.

The measure, passed 281-66, would permit the U.S. Navy to loan three undersea vessels to the Taiwan government and continue an existing loan of one submarine to the military junta ruling Greece.

Rep. Donald L. Sikes, D-Minn., was defeated in his effort to delete the authorization to Nationalist China. He argued that the Chiang Kai-shek government now has "no submarines, no trained personnel and no repair capability."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert H. Finch, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, has urged the nation's petroleum industry to seek ways of producing lead-free gasoline for motor vehicles.

In a letter to oil company executives mailed this week, Finch said that proposals before Congress would authorize the department to regulate the use of additives in motor vehicle fuels to reduce air pollution.

"I am hopeful, however, that progress can be made in addressing these problems."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three more servicemen from North Carolina have been killed in action in Vietnam.

They were Ronald F. Leonard of Lexington, Foster Locklear of Shannon in Robeson County, and Richard H. Wilson of Marble in Cherokee County. All were Army specialists 4th class.

The Defense Department also has announced that Army Spec. 5 Robert A. Brown of Rose Hill in Duplin County has died not as a result of hostile action.

WINSTON - SALEM (AP) — The undergraduate faculty of Wake Forest University has endorsed a Student Government proposal to allow coeds to visit in men's dormitories.

Dr. James Ralph Scales, president of the school, said he would accept the proposal and pass it to the trustees at their next meeting April 17. Scales vetoed a similar request last year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western Electric Corp. will do work on almost $12 million of Defense Department contracts at North Carolina plants.

Sen. B. Everett Jordan said work will be done at Burlington on a contract of $6,774,300 for missile site radar hardware for the Army. The other, for $5,114,422, is for manufacturing ship modification equipment for the Navy, and work will be done at Winston-Salem.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Firemen were called to the campus of Methodist College for the seventh time in 10 days Monday by a telephoned bomb threat.

Students were evacuated from a building but no bomb was found. Several other bomb scares have been telephoned to area high schools in the last two weeks.

Why AMIBEN is today's No.1 soybean herbicide

Because it gives you, in your choice of liquid concentrate or granules, the broadest range weed and grass control on the market.

Other soybean herbicides are essentially grass killers. AMIBEN™ preemergence weedkiller not only controls a full range of grasses but also, as a bonus, controls a full range of broadleaf weeds. In fact, Amiben controls more grassy weeds and more broadleaf weeds than any competitive chemical you can buy.

Amiben gives you these advantages with safety to your crop (even in wet weather), safety to adjacent crops and to crops you may plant on the same ground next year. Other soybean herbicides may perform well within their own limits, but they are no match for Amiben... the nearest thing to a perfect soybean weed and grass killer that science has yet come up with. That's why more farmers use Amiben than any other soybean herbicide.

Pitt-Greenville Airport Has Flight-Plan Service

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

A new flight planning service is now available to pilots using the Pitt - Greenville Airport, according to airport manager Jim Darden.

The service provides flight plans for pilots from Pitt - Greenville, to any airport in a matter of moments by way of teletype circuit from a computer operated by Flight Plan, Inc. in Dallas, Texas, Darden explained.

The service has been in operation here for about one week, Darden said. Application for the special computerized flight information terminal was made last July. Pitt - Greenville is one of the first airports in the state to inaugurate the Flight Plan, Inc. program.

Other airports which have installed the service include

Wilmington, Rocky Mount, Skyland, Burlington, Charlotte, Winston - Salem, Fayetteville, New Bern, Morrisville and Southern Pines.

At present, according to Darden, planning for VFR (visual flight rules) flights is available. IFR (instrument flight rules) planning information will be available in about a month.

Pilots wishing flight information locally simply give the airport operator their destination, cruising airspeed (in knots per hour) and preferred altitude. Within seconds after the local operator gives this information to the Dallas - based computer, by way of teletype, a flight plan is printed out for the pilot.

The plan includes a plotted course listing radio beacons (including call letters and frequencies), heading between fixes enroute, distances (nautical miles) and estimated time enroute between beacons.

the latest weather at each fix enroute, the preferred altitude based on winds aloft, provides total mileage and estimated time enroute to destination and weather forecast information at the destination.

"Doing this the old way," Darden said, "might take as much as 30 minutes or more."

The airport manager said without the computerized planning service, a pilot must go to a chart to figure his flight path; write down each radio beacon and plot a heading to and from these navigational points; then measure the distances and divide his true air speed, plus or minus any winds aloft, into the total distance to be flown to get an estimated time enroute. And, he must then check with the U. S. Weather Bureau for enroute weather information (which many times requires a long - distance call).

Demonstrating the speed with which the computer - and - teletype system works, Darden sat at the teletype keyboard and typed out, "LGA, 150, 85, V3801PGV" which meant he wanted a flight plan for New York's LaGuardia (LGA) airport for a plane traveling at 150 knots per hour at 8,500 feet from Pitt - Greenville Airport (PGV).

In a matter of seconds the teletype was printing out the plan.

The test plan indicated the compass heading to and from five navigational beacons between Pitt - Greenville and LaGuardia, the frequency of each beacon, the distance between each location, the estimated time enroute between each check - point, and the weather at each radio beacon.

The final listing indicated that there was a 3,000 foot ceiling at the New York destination with broken clouds and seven miles visibility. The entire trip, the plan reported, would require two - hours and 29 - minutes and cover 353 miles.

Traffic Accidents See 2 People Hurt

Two persons were reported injured in a series of three traffic mishaps investigated by Greenville police yesterday that resulted in an estimated $1,255 property damage.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from an 8:01 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fourth and Harding Streets involving cars driven by Ronald Eugene Cope, 20, of Winston-Salem, and Mary Savage Crosthwaite of 107 South Harding St.

Police, who set damage at $300 to each of the two cars, reported Mrs. Crosthwaite was injured in the collision. Mrs. Crosthwaite was also charged with failing to stop for a stop sign.

Sandra Southerland Phillips, 23, of Glendale Apartments was injured when the car she was driving collided with a vehicle driven by Glen Walker Whitfield, 23, of 1302A Clark St. about 2 p.m. yesterday.

Officers, who charged Miss Phillips with failing to yield the right of way said the mishap occurred at the intersection of Fifth and Lewis Streets.

Damage was estimated at $75 to the Whitfield auto and $200 to the Phillips auto.

Cars driven by Rebecca Marshall Starkey, 20, of Greenville, and Martin Douglas Cook, 19, of Arlington, Va., collided at the intersection of Fourth and Eastern Streets about 2:03 p.m. and caused an estimated $200 damage to the Starkey vehicle and about $150 damage to the Cook car.

Cook was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety, following investigation of the incident.

Doctor O.K.'s This Hemorrhoid Treatment For N.J. Couple's Son

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases

Wharton, N.J. Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Jeffers report: "Our son suffered from hemorrhoids. I asked the doctor about Preparation H and he gave us the O.K. Our son is now fine, thanks to Preparation H."

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases - Preparation H® actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced. There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

To The Public:

Subject: Secrecy of Joint Meeting and What has happened to our $395,000.00 Bond Issue to create an Industrial Trade & Vocational School?

Dear Pitt County Voters:

Since 1964, I have been a board member of the Pitt Technical Institute.

I did not attend the January or the recent joint meeting of the Pitt Technical Institute Board with the County Commissioners (due to surgery), but from my experience with Dr. R. L. Humber and the very capable William Fulford, President (PTI), the recent joint meeting was not meant to be secretive.

However, it is my opinion that the unannounced meeting was another maneuver to convert Pitt Technical Institute into a Community College.

As I understand the need for academic education, maybe Pitt County does need a community college, but rather than to raise taxes to change Pitt Technical Institute to a community college, why not approve a tax or bond issue to be used to create a community college?

If you think Pitt Technical Institute is teaching the courses I was told it (PTI) would teach, when the bond issue of $395,000.00 was approved, you should read my next article that will follow in this newspaper.
