Viet Cong Attacks Said To Begin On Cambodian Troops

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer
PHNOM PENH, Cambodia, (AP) — Viet Cong forces have launched attacks against Cambodian troops, the nation's provisional head of state declared today.

In a nationwide broadcast, Cheng Heng said that since Thursday "the Viet Cong have begun actions against the Cambodian people and our soldiers in provinces near the border."

Tension was evident in this somnolent capital, where tanks raced through downtown streets in the early morning and took up positions on all major roads leading in and out of the city.

More troops in camouflage uniforms and carrying Communist-made AK47 rifles were evident.

Bridges across the Mekong River leading toward the provinces bordering Vietnam were heavily guarded.

Cheng Heng charged that the Viet Cong was forcing border villagers to listen to a tape recording of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, ousted chief of state now in Peking, calling for guerrilla warfare.

Demonstrations in favor of Sihanouk were reported in some provinces.

Viet Cong forces in civilian clothing were reported to have attacked a town less than 12 miles from Phnom Penh.

Cambodian tanks moved from Phnom Penh to the town of Koh Ky, southwest of the capital on an island formed by the Mekong River. Cambodian soldiers stopped all traffic in that direction.

French sources said by telephone from Koh Ky that 10 persons were reported killed before the Viet Cong left.

Cheng Heng also said the Viet Cong are forcing villagers to sell rice to Communist troops in Cambodia.

The government radio reported a group of youths egged on by the Viet Cong attacked government offices on Thursday in the provincial capital of Kampong Cham, 35 miles northeast of the capital, burned documents and commandeered a convoy of trucks to Phnom Penh.

The broadcast said Cambodian troops, aided by the people arrested the youths as they arrived at the outskirts of Phnom Penh.

The broadcast said the demonstrators "sacked the offices of the Government of Salvation, burned documents, ransacked government headquarters and then forcibly took trucks to go to Phnom Penh."

"The demonstration was intended to show that the Cambodian people are against the Government of Salvation... but the maneuver of the Viet Cong failed."

The Government of Salvation is the name the new regime has given itself.

Clerk Wounded In Holdup Here

A grocery store clerk was shot two times last night in a robbery at the Kwik-Pik Market at 2530 East 14th St., but police had suspects in the case in custody in a matter of hours.

The robbery and shooting occurred about 8:40 p.m. Police said James H. Godfrey, 23, was shot in the left arm and right side with a small caliber pistol.

Chief T.E. Gladson said two Goldsboro Negroes, Collis Eugene Edwards, 22, and Chester Lee Peacock, 18, have been charged with armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon in connection with the incident.

According to Chief Gladson, Goldsboro police took one of the suspects into custody about 11 p.m., acting on information supplied to local officers by a motorist who saw a car parked on the Kwik-Pik lot, earlier in the evening.

The robbers took the firm's cash register which authorities said contained about $100 in cash. Chief Gladson said the firm's cash register and money have been recovered.

Cooperating in the investigation of the robbery were the Pitt and Wayne County Sheriff's departments, Goldsboro police, the Highway Patrol and agents of the State Bureau of Investigation.

Edwards and Peacock were returned to Greenville this morning and placed in Pitt County jail.

Counteroffensive Is Opened In Laos

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) —

Royal Laotian forces, backed by U.S. bombers, launched a counteroffensive north of the American-supported base at Long Cheng and gained several key positions, informed sources said today.

The sources reported government forces captured Phou Pa Sai, a mountain top 10 miles northeast of Long Cheng. The government troops reportedly cleared Skyline Ridge, from which North Vietnamese had been launching ground probes against Long Cheng, five miles to the south. Then they pushed to a second ridgeline farther north.

In their drive for the second ridge, Meo tribal troops of Gen. Vang Pao were held up by two North Vietnamese companies which put up a fight.

No other details were immediately available, and casualties on both sides were unknown. Sources said government forces also took hilltop positions south of Sam Thong, 10 miles northwest of Long Cheng. Sam Thong was captured last week by North Vietnamese troops.

Sam Thong is 90 miles north of Vientiane and 15 miles southwest of the Plain of Jars. The base was evacuated last week, but Lao sources hinted that government forces were driving ahead in an attempt to regain control there.

Sources estimate there are as many as 2,000 North Vietnamese troops in the Long Cheng-Sam Thong area.

Weather in the area was reported extremely clear, and sources described bombing raids by both American jets and Laotian T28s as extremely heavy.

Nationwide Strike By Air Controllers Is Called By Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — A call for a nationwide air controllers walkout threatened today to disrupt airline service during the busy Easter weekend and force a showdown with the Federal Aviation Administration.

The FAA sent out telegrams to absent air controllers warning that "prompt action" would be taken within 24 hours if they failed to obey a court order and return to work.

Attorney F. Lee Bailey, executive director of PATCO, the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, Thursday night called for the walkout, saying "The issue is no longer fatigue by traffic controllers but safety."

At 8:30 a.m., EST, the FAA said preliminary figures from the agency's 11 air traffic control centers in the east and mid-west showed a total of 259 controllers absent.

A spokesman said this was nine more than the total recorded Thursday. The agency has 10 other centers in the west and far west.

An FAA spokesman said absent workers would be considered in contempt of court if they continued the slowdown and sick-call action that began Wednesday.

Bailey accused the FAA of waiving qualifications of controllers in order to replace absent workers during the slowdown. He said he is urging the walkout until that action is rescinded.

Responding to Bailey's statement, a spokesman for the Air Transport Association, representing the airline industry, said the FAA has had in effect since Tuesday special procedures "to ensure the continued safe and orderly flow of air traffic."

The industry's nationwide communications system is used to provide airline operating centers with latest information on routings, delays and air traffic capacity, the spokesman said.

A spokesman for PATCO said the call applied to approximately 8,500 controllers nationwide. The controllers are the men who serve as traffic cops in airline travel.

PATCO claims to represent half the nation's 14,000 controllers.

The FAA declined comment on Bailey's call, issued on the heels of a two-day slowdown and sick-call action by air controllers. Despite the controllers' demonstration, travel Thursday was slow, but possible.

Bailey said the FAA "now proposes to use rusty old men who are completely out of touch with current requirements." In view of the agency's attitude, he said, "I don't want to even talk to them."

He suggested the only way to get dissident controllers and the government together would be through a middle man—and he said the Labor Department would fill the requirement.

The FAA had no immediate comment on Bailey's statement.

Bailey also said the present slowdown is not caused by a rivalry among competing organizations.

Bill Shires Joins ECU News Staff

Bill Shires, long time columnist for the North Carolina Association of Afternoon Dailies (NCAAD), has joined the staff of East Carolina University News Bureau as assistant director.

Announcement of Shires' appointment, which will be effective April 1, came from Joe S. Maynor, director of News and Public Relations at ECU.

"Mr. Shires comes to us with a wealth of journalistic experience, including eight years as writer of the widely distributed column 'Around Capitol Square,'" Mayor said. "His experience and his know-how in the printed media will

Begin Hearing On Injunction Against Pickets

Superior Court Judge William J. Bundy this morning heard testimony from Walter E. Flanagan, owner of Flanagan and Parker Funeral Home, during a hearing on a recent court injunction barring a group of black citizens from picketing the Negro funeral establishment.

Flanagan testified on the stand that George Garrett, Benny Roundtree, Jack Teel, Irma Daniels and Sally Wilkins visited his place of business on March 11.

Garrett, he said, asked him, "I guess you heard about the trial going on where all the students are being tried?" Flanagan said that Roundtree told him, "We want $1000 in 72 hours or else we will picket your place."

The funeral home owner said that he offered those seeking the permit to picket a $50 donation which they rejected. The $50 was sent later but was returned, he added.

Greenville Police Chief T.E. Gladson was ordered by Judge Bundy on March 21 not to allow the group to picket the funeral home, pending the outcome of the hearing today.

The police chief was served with a temporary restraining order, signed by Judge Bundy on the 21st prior to the time the chief could have issued a permit to picket Flanagan and Parker. Flanagan filed a complaint charging that the picketing of his business would be an unlawful act upon his premises and a violation of his constitutional rights.

The group seeking the permit outlined their reasons for their actions as Flanagan's "failure to support the black community."

City attorney, David Reid, representing Chief Gladson and the city, said their position in the matter would simply be compliance with the decision of the court.

Reid said that the city would not take a position in the matter but would abide with the court decision.

Testimony in the hearing was to continue this afternoon.

Diplomats Going Home

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Twenty-eight diplomats from the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong embassies that they closed in Cambodia arrived in Vientiane today on their way back to Hanoi.

Nguyen Van Thanh, first secretary of the North Vietnamese mission in Vientiane, said the embassies were closed because Hanoi and the Viet Cong do not recognize the government that seized power last week from Prince Norodom Sihanouk. They still recognize Sihanouk as chief of state, he added.

Asked if the diplomats' departure meant a break in relations with Cambodia, Thanh replied: "Guess for yourself."

The diplomats arrived in Vientiane aboard a plane which the International Control Commission flies once a week. The plane made a special stop in Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, to pick up the Vietnamese.

Navy Selling Two Carriers

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The Navy is selling two aircraft carriers to the highest bidder.

The USS Princeton and USS Valley Forge, a Navy spokesman at Long Beach Naval Station said Thursday, have been stripped of all salvageable equipment. They were built, at a cost of $190 million each, at the end of World War II and saw service in Korea and Vietnam.

The Navy said it isn't sure just what the bids should be. It has never auctioned off aircraft carriers before.

Enemy Force Trying To Retreat Into Cambodia Battered By Americans

SAIGON (AP) — American troops, tanks, helicopters and fighter planes attacked a North Vietnamese force that may have been trying to slip into Cambodia and killed 88 of them, military sources said today.

The sources said the size of the enemy force was not known but it put up stiff resistance in the battle Thursday, which took place in thick jungle three miles from the Cambodian frontier and about 75 miles northwest of Saigon.

Two Americans were killed and 23 wounded, the U.S. Command said.

American officers said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces have been emerging from their hideouts in increasing numbers during the past few weeks, apparently because of drastic food shortages. Last month, U.S. troops uncovered some of the biggest caches of the war in the same area, including about 30 tons of rice.

"They seem to be pretty desperate," one officer said. "The only logical place for them to go is back across the border, and that's what they may have been trying to do."

Since the overthrow of Cambodia's chief of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk, March 18, American forces have been instructed to take special precautions against venturing too close to the border.

Thursday's fighting erupted when elements of the 1st Air Cavalry Division ran into part of the enemy force during a sweep. As the shooting escalated, the North Vietnamese opened up with rockets and machine-gun fire. The Americans countered with air and more artillery strikes.

Five more North Vietnamese soldiers were killed in the same area today, officers said. No American casualties were reported.

In the air war, the U.S. Command reported today that a number of bombs dropped during a B52 raid near the Cambodian border in the Mekong delta missed their target and 12 South Vietnamese civilians were

Fewer Pilgrims Join Procession

JERUSALEM, (AP) — Christian pilgrims, fewer in numbers than in recent years, walked the traditional Good Friday route of Christ's journey to the cross.

Only a few thousand pilgrims and tourists participated in the annual procession along the winding Via Dolorosa—Street of Sorrow—in the Holy City of Jerusalem.

The procession, began at a school believed by the faithful to be the site of the prison where Christ was sentenced to death, and finished several hundred yards away at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, took about 1½ hours.

This was the third Good Friday pilgrimage since Jerusalem was united under Israeli rule in the wake of the 1967 Middle East war.

In previous years, when this section of Jerusalem was Jordanian territory, the procession included thousands of Arab Christians and the ceremony took several hours. Since the war, however, most Arab Christians have stayed away.

One man who has seen the procession for 25 years said it was the smallest turnout he could remember.

An Israeli official from the Ministry of Tourism said more than 2,000 pilgrims were in Jerusalem to participate in the Easter rituals.

For the first time since the 1967 war there have been no threats of violence issued by Arab guerrillas against those coming to "pray under the Jewish flag."

N.C. Economy Edged Upward During February

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's economy edged up slightly during February after a three-month downward drift. The Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. reported today its North Carolina Business Index rose 2.2 per cent to a preliminary figure of 201.2. This was 4.1 per cent higher than in February of last year.

Economic factors showing increases included bank debits, employment, building permits, new car sales and mortgage loans.

Wachovia economists warned that February's small rise "should not be construed as an indication of a resumption of economic growth in the state." On the contrary, they said, "There are still growing expectations of a moderate business slump."

Bank debits, which afford a measure of individual and business spending, showed a substantial gain for February. They reached $5.74 billion, for a 14.3 per cent gain over February of last year.

Although manufacturing employment of 701,400 in February was down slightly, this decline was more than offset by increases in the nonmanufacturing field, mainly government and services. Total nonagricultural employment reached 1,735,400 for a gain of about 0.2 per cent over January.

Substantial unemployment was reported as of March 1 in the Pitt and Greene County area. On a state basis, unemployment was 3.5 per cent in January as compared with 2.8 per cent in December.

Seasonally adjusted man-hours in manufacturing were up slightly in February, but were down 2.3 per cent from the month a year ago.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board of Greensboro reported mortgage loans by North Carolina savings and loan institutions rose to $31.5 million as compared with only $23.4 million in January and with $39.4 million a year ago.

Building permits in 18 North Carolina cities totaled $25.2 million in February. This was a 31.2 per cent gain over January but a drop of 38.4 per cent from February of last year.

The North Carolina Automobile Dealers Association reported new car sales in the state totaled 14,365 in February as compared with 12,236 in January and 15,382 in February of last year. New truck sales reached 3,855 in February as compared with 3,258 in January and 4,074 in February of last year.

Cash receipts from farm marketings totaled $17.4 million in February, down 30.7 per cent from January but 18.1 per cent ahead of the month last year.

Seasonally adjusted cash receipts were 8.6 above January and 12.3 per cent above a year ago.

Israeli Bag Five MIGs

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli pilots reported their second banner day this week today, claiming they shot down five Egyptian MIG21s in dogfights over Port Suez, at the southern end of the Suez Canal.

Egypt admitted the loss of one plane but claimed one Israeli jet exploded in the air and another was hit by Egyptian fighters. Israel denied the claims.

An Egyptian spokesman said an estimated 80 planes—40 from each air force—tangled in the melee, making it the biggest air battle reported since the 1967 war.

An Israeli spokesman said the MIGs were downed by cannon fire and rockets at "medium altitude." He said one plane exploded in flight, another crashed with its pilot, and the other three pilots were seen parachuting.

The Israelis said their planes made another 30-minute raid at noon on the southern sector of the canal.

back and forth in the brisk air under a bright sun, getting their belongings placed under the waiting plane in readiness for take-off.

Rev. Tommy Payne, minister of Oakmont, says "this is one of those wonderful things which is the result of lots of hard work on the part of these young people."

Payne noted that "the boys and girls have worked for a long time, raising money by different projects to pay for this Easter trip."

While in the Bahamas, the young people and their chaperones will be under the guidance of the Central Baptist Church in Gleniston Gardens. Leaving Greenville on a chartered Piedmont flight, the group will be flying on a Martin 404, piloted by Captain Harold Norton, who piloted the same plane last fall when the ECU football team traveled to Illinois and West Virginia.

They are scheduled to arrive in the Bahamas between 3:00 and 3:30 p. m. Friday, with plans to remain until Monday, when they will depart at 10:30 a. m. They are due to arrive back in Greenville about 5:00 Monday afternoon.

Those scheduled to make the trip and their adult leaders are: Sylvia Caraway, Cindy Allen, Cindy Avera, Sharon Hodge, Donnell Wynn, Cathy Downing, Theresa Culbreth, Frances French, Edna Hooks, and Laura Clark, with leaders Mary Jo Saunders and Susie Still.

With John Ayers will be Jett Tripp, Skip Davis, Eddie Dixon, Frankfort Johnson, Tommy Joe Payne, Jimmy Wilson and Ricky Davis.

In addition to the adult group leaders, other adult members making the trip will be Tommy Payne, Milam Johnson, Marcia Grant, Ken Hungate and Jennifer Watson.

"Although this is primarily a religious Easter trip," Rev. Payne commented, "we have planned time for the young folks to do some sightseeing in this well-known vacation island group."

If arrangements can be made, the group will have an opportunity to meet the Primes Minister during their stay at Nassau.

Better Communication And Teamwork Is Asked

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott wants improved communications and teamwork at the top levels of state government.

In a move to accomplish this, Scott said Thursday he will begin alling state department heads to a series of meetings next month.

"I cannot stress too emphatically the importance I attach to teamwork," Scott told members of the Governor's Management Development Review Committee at a meeting at Quail Roost near Rougemont.

About a dozen state department heads are on the committee, which is responsible for overseeing training programs for line supervisors in state agencies.

The first meeting for department heads will be held April 8 in the Administration Building in Raleigh. A Scott aide said elected Council of State officials as well as department heads under the governor's office will be asked to attend the meetings.

Scott reminded the committee members that at its first meeting with him Dec. 2 he cited the need "for us to get together or more often as a means of improving the communications in the higher echelons of state government."

In calling for teamwork, Scott said: "We don't need the 'can't do' kind of thinking which says 'That's not the way we do it' or 'we've never done that before' or 'The manual or the statute or the rule book says we can't do it that way.' We need to turn this thing around and ask ourselves, 'How can we do this or that?'"

"This is the positive approach I am looking for. This I expect of you."

A Scott aide said the governor began to be concerned about a lack of coordination and communications among state agencies shortly after receiving their initial reports upon taking office.

The aide said overlapping programs also began to come to the governor's attention with increasing frequency.

Bullock, 61, has been employed as a mail carrier for the past 26 years.

Says State "Powerless"

RALEIGH (AP) — A state official says the owners of a Holiday Inn under construction near the ocean at Wrightsville Beach are going to be "screaming for help" if a storm lashes the area.

George Pickett, director of the Department of Water and Air Resources, made the statement Thursday as officials expressed concern over the four-story, 147-unit motel.

The Board of Water and Air Resources warned that the sandy beaches beneath the motel could be swept away by a storm and the board would be powerless to aid in restoring the shores.

"I just want the board to be aware of the problem because I don't think we've heard the last of it," said Vernon Stevens of Broadway, board chairman.

The board took no formal action. However, members made it clear they would not contribute any financial assistance to the Holiday Inn if it is damaged by a storm. The motel is scheduled to be completed by June 1.

Pickett said the motel site lies outside the limits of an existing beach erosion and hurricane protection project at Wrightsville Beach.

Cantata To Be Offered

An Easter cantata entitled "The First Easter" will be presented by adult choir of the Black Jack Pentecostal Free Will Baptist Church.

The service will be given at the regular evening worship hour at 7:30 p. m. Sunday. The program will feature soloists, duets, trios, Men's Chorus and full choir under the direction of Mrs. R.M. Stewart.

Following the cantata service, a time of fellowship and refreshment will be served in the fellowship hall.

Revival services will begin at the church on Monday at 7:30 p. m. and will continue through Sunday.

Guest minister for the revival is the Rev. Ned Sauls of Snow Hill. He is pastor of Piney Grove Pentecostal Free Will Baptist Church, Beulaville. He is also an instructor in religion at Carter College, Goldsboro.

Choir and other special singing will be featured each night. R.M. Stewart, pastor, invites the public to attend the various services.

(Return To Femininity)

Have you noticed the quiet, colorful revolution taking place in fashions? There seems to be a definite return to femininity. Even pantsuits, despite their name, can be feminine on the right figure. Exciting prints and dazzling fabrics make them correct for many occasions.

The woman who has learned to tell passing passions from enduring styles is somewhat of a genius. It seems now almost any style flattering to its wearer is not only acceptable, but fashionable.

Fashion is an investment every woman should consider. Being suitably-dressed (not necessarily expensively-dressed) gives her a personal sense of well-being which is reflected in her bearing, her mannerisms—in fact, in the whole person she shows the world. Miss Cora Hart Turnage Weds Dawson F. Smith

AYDEN — Miss Cora Hart Turnage became the bride of Dawson Fenner Smith in a formal candlelight ceremony on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock in the Ayden United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Dr. Thomas Asa Collina, president of North Carolina Wesleyan College, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Turnage of Ayden and Mr. and Mrs. Fenner W. Smith of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

A program of nuptial organ music was presented by the mother of the bride, Rob Roy Turnage, brother of the bride, sang "O Perfect Love," "Bless This Bride and Groom," and "The Wedding Prayer."

Vows were spoken before a chancel background of palmetto palms, centered with a fifteen branched candelabrum with cathedral candles. From each side spiral candelabra were used, each flanked with baskets of white gladioli and palms. The Communion rail, where the couple knelt, was entwined with bridal greenery and small white mums.

To the right of the officiating minister, was a three branched candelabrum which was lighted during the ceremony, symbolic of the couple being united. Hurricane candelabra aisle tapers decorated with jade and white ribbons marked the honor pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk organza over taffeta with an alencon lace overblouse designed with a bateau neckline and long fitted sleeves with calla points over the wrists. The bell shaped controlled skirt was appliqued with the same lace. Her detachable square-cut train was of silk organza bordered with alencon lace.

A satin tiara re-embroidered with seed pearls and iridescent crystals held her veil of bridal illusion. The bride carried a classic hand bouquet of white orchids and caladium leaves.

Miss Marilyn Jeanne Turnage, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Carlton Ray Rouse and Mrs. Frank Scott Wiley Jr., sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Ronald Pete Green of Decatur, Ga., sister of the bridegroom.

The attendants wore floor length gowns of tender green satin organza. The empire bodice and bishop sleeves were of white Venice lace. Their headpieces were green organza roses attached to matching veils. They carried spring bouquets of white daisies and gypsophelia centered with yellow Dutch iris and green and white ribbon streamers.

Local Duke Alumnae To Attend Annual Sessions

Mrs. H. Harrison Mills, Mrs. S. B. Underwood, Mrs. W. S. Corbett and Miss Elizabeth

Members Hear Guest Speaker

Henry L. Groome was speaker at the dinner meeting of the Alpha Iota Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa Tuesday night.

He spoke on the role the drug industry has played in improving the welfare of people today. There are very few TB cases today.

He mentioned the progress made in cases of mental illness since tranquilizers were introduced in 1956, the possible control of measles, and the cancer drug. He explained why drugs are expensive - if they are. The amount of and length of research plays a big part here. The drug industry has grown and the future will see even more growth.

The president, Mrs. Robert Fennell, presided over the business session which followed. Mrs. Groome told of the proposed spring trip to Camp Lejeune. Mrs. J. L. Savage gave the invocation which preceded the dinner.

Walker, all of Greenville, will participate in an annual meeting of the Duke University Alumnae Association.

The meetings have been scheduled for Friday and Saturday, April 3-4. This year, Duke is saluting its Woman's College for 40 years of achievement and for its future goals.

Mrs. Mills is vice president of the Woman's College Alumnae Association and Mrs. Underwood is a member of the Board of Directors.

Mrs. Corbett and Miss Walker are on the Alumnae Council. Mrs. Mills, in addition, is serving as chairman of the Alumnae Weekend Committee for 1970.

The sessions will feature addresses by two nationally prominent Duke alumnae and a Friday night dinner will honor Dean Mary Grace Wilson, retiring member of the original Woman's College staff.

A luncheon meeting of the board of directors of the Woman's College Alumnae Association at 12:30 p.m. on Friday will open the program. During the afternoon there will be a seminar on "The New Curriculum at Duke," led by Dr. Robert Krueger, who headed the curriculum review at the university in 1967-68.

An Alumnae Council meeting will follow at 4 p.m. with Mrs. Sidney J. Stern Jr. as chairman. The dinner at 6:30 p.m. in Gilbert-Addoms Dining Hall will be presided over by Woman's College Dean Juanita Kreps.

Mrs. Stanley Brading of Sumter, S.C., will preside during the annual meeting of the general Woman's College Alumnae Assn. on Saturday morning. Both the featured addresses are planned for Saturday.

At 11:30 a.m., Erma Griffith Greenwood, senior member of a Knoxville, Tenn. law firm and the first woman president of East Tennessee Community Improvement, a rural-urban development program now being widely copied abroad, will speak on "The Woman Lawyer in Today's World."

Mary Elizabeth Hanford, a native of Salisbury and executive director of the President's Committee on Consumer Interests, will speak Saturday at the luncheon in Gilbert-Addoms. Special luncheon guests will be new Duke President and Mrs. Terry Sanford.

Linwood S. Ferguson, 1413 E. Wright Rd., is a patient in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

For Sunday brunch fill toast cups with scrambled eggs. To make the cups, remove the crusts from thin slices of soft bread and then spread the slices with soft butter. Press the bread, buttered side down, into muffin-pancups. Bake in a moderate oven until lightly browned.

A 'Must' Item Given Congress

Stronger penalties and extension of federal jurisdiction to cover bombings should be a must for Congressional action.

President Nixon has proposed the changes, including even the death penalty to handle a rash of bombings by "potential murderers."

Laws concerning the transportation and use of explosives would be strengthened in the wake of an increase in bombings in recent months.

Nixon said many of the bombings have been the work of political fanatics "many of them young criminals posturing as romantic revolutionaries."

"They must be dealt with as the potential murderers they are," the president said.

These "anarchic and criminal elements who

Put Attention On 'Earth Day'

(Editor's note: Today's guest writer for the N. C. Association of Afternoon Dailies is City Editor Miriam Maynard of the Kinston Daily Free Press.)

By MIRIAM MAYNARD

Kinston, —April 22 has been designated Earth Day. On that day the attention of Americans, including North Carolinians, will be directed to the many forms of environmental pollution which have become an everyday part of their lives and to solutions to them.

Pollution for many years has been one of those things a lot of people talk about but not very many do anything about. Perhaps this is because the correction and prevention of broad-scale pollution as we know it requires a massive effort and seems pretty hopeless from an individual standpoint.

Pesticide Issue

An individual complaint—or a hundred individual complaints—about the indiscriminate use of pesticides, for instance, has barely dented the consciousness of the several agencies responsible for controlling the manufacture and use of these chemicals. They are still available without marked restriction to anyone who wants to buy and use them. Their purchasers include farmers and urban dwellers alike.

Americans in general are all spray and chemical-conscious. Few are frightened by the warning labels on the cans or cartons if, indeed, they take time to read them at all.

Insect Free

They fill the air with DDT and its other equally lethal cousins. They rejoice when their poisoned premises are insect-free, when their vegetables and flowers flourish without the depredations which would otherwise be made on them by annoying creatures or diseases of one sort or another.

Those who consider the damage done by insects and plant diseases far more destructive than the damage done their environment by deadly chemicals are still very solidly in the majority.

Most of them are still convinced the best way to rid their premises of mosquitoes, to mention a specific annoyance, is to fog or spray them with poisons. They spray away zealously, ignoring the water-filled cans and bottles, the standing mud puddles, the masses of dense, if ornamental, foliage, the high grass, the weeds, the poor drainage which plagues the land. All of these things provide an attractive haven and breeding ground for mosquitoes.

Other Repellents

These same folk are apt to chuckle tolerantly at the suggestion they could plant a few herbs which are naturally repellent to mosquitoes, install and anti-insect light or two around the yard or prevent water from standing on their property by one measure or another.

The battle being waged against the use of insecticides and pesticides, chemical fertilizers and the like, is still limited to a person-to-person basis. One person is converted at the time. That person, hopefully, persuades another and so on.

Chain Reaction

It's a chain reaction battle and it's a slow one. And there may not be that much time left.

Ten years, which is the time limit set by many concerned scientists, is not long enough, unless the tremendous regulatory resources of the government can be relied upon.

At this point—the beginning of the 10-year span, which has been termed the Environmental Decade—the government has publicly taken note of the fact an environmental and ecological problem exists. In government-funded studies concern is being evinced over the pollution of streams, rivers and oceans; the industrial wastes that create cesspools of waterways and smoglog the atmosphere; the wanton destruction of the natural resources of the land (one of the most vital of which is its people); the odoriferous chemical and fuel fumes that belch from modern smokestacks in buildings filled with shiny machinery and the coughing operators of them.

One Side Battle

They're still studying and the battle is still pretty one-sided.

Those who run the factories, cut down the trees, manufacture the paper and other products, dump effluents of one kind or another into waterways, fire gigantic boilers with sooty fuels, the chemicals and other poisons still have a distinct edge. They deprecate the "Silent Spring" concept despite reports such Springs, with not birdsong filling the air, have already occurred in some sections of the country. They rail against findings that their sprays cause human disease as well.

North Carolina has its share of these polluters and they wield as much influence here as they do wherever else they may be.

perpetuate such acts deserve no more patience or indulgence," he continued. "It is time to deal with them for what they are."

Penalties of 10 years in jail and $10,000 fine would be provided in cases of explosives in federal buildings, vehicles or in private business building engaged in interstate commerce. If a death resulted from a bombing the death penalty could be invoked.

The penalty for a bomb threat would be set at a maximum of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Americans should not have to live in fear of bombs being planted by warped individuals in public buildings and places. Any one who sets such a bomb in a building already has murder in his heart for he has no guarantee that the explosion will not kill someone. Those who are convicted of such crimes should be dealt with with all the force of the law. Congress should act on these new proposals as rapidly as possible.

A Reminder: April 3 Last Day To Register

Those who are not registered to vote in the May 2 primary should keep in mind that the final registration day is April 3.

Registration can be done at the Board of Elections office in the court house.

In the rural precincts, however, registrars will be stationed at the polling places from 9 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. Saturday to allow citizens to register. Greenville voters will be able to register at the Court House Saturday during the same hours.

The time is growing short for registering to vote in the May 2 primary and every citizen should make certain he is registered, either Saturday or during the regular office hours.

Census Forms To Every Home

By JOHN M. PEARCE

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is holding fast to its plan for the biggest mass mailing of the decade: Saturday's delivery of 63 million census questionnaires to almost every home in the nation.

If a postal strike erupts again and ties up the mail in New York City then, the Census Bureau plans to play a waiting game. But in the event of a prolonged walkout, the bureau will send some of its corps of 160,000 enumerators—most of them women—to every house and apartment in the city.

"A few days difference in delivery won't create a real problem," a spokesman said Wednesday.

The Constitution requires a census every 10 years, mainly for the purpose of deciding how many representatives each state gets in the House. But in 1940 a housing census was added to the head count and questions have been added to help shape the nation's attack on water pollution and decide on the best allocation of natural resources.

The mammoth stacks of questionnaires, each addressed to a household found by such contrasting methods as surveys on foot and aerial photography, have been in the post offices for several weeks.

They are to be delivered by mailmen Saturday and filled out next Wednesday, April 1, designated as Census Day by Congress.

Sixty per cent of the households—those in the larger cities—will return the questionnaires in a postage-paid envelope, while the other 40 per cent will wait for enumerators to pick them up.

The enumerators will collect the forms in rural areas and small towns, the bureau says, because it is more difficult to get accurate mailing lists there. It bought lists from a commercial mailing firm, then asked each mailman to check the list for his route for accuracy.

The bureau's director, Dr. George Hay Brown, is convinced the mail plan will result in a better count than the old methods. "It's just a fact that you get a better count in those areas where you can get an accurate housing count," he said.

Five full-scale tests of the mail-back plan showed the rate of return ranged from 67 per cent in Trenton, N.J., to 91 per cent in Dane County (Madison), Wis.

This experience, Census said, suggests that about 85 per cent of the "short form" questionnaires will be returned, while only 75 per cent of the "long forms" will come back.

The short form is the basic questionnaire, sent to four of five households, and takes an estimated 15 minutes to answer.

The long form, sent in two different forms to the other 20 per cent, takes longer—30 to 35 minutes. It asked for more information about both people and their housing, and is a scientifically designed sample that can be used to project results for the entire nation.

Computers picked the 20 per cent sample to receive the long form in the cities, while enumerators in the rural areas and small towns will carry long forms to every fifth household to get the additional information.

Although answering the questions is required by law—even though no one has been jailed for refusing—the Census Bureau emphasizes that everyone's answers are secret, that any Census employee can go to jail if he reveals anything outside the bureau.

"The President of the United States can't get information for anyone but himself," Brown said.

Strength For Today

GOOD FRIDAY

What could be good about it? The most infamous murder in history was about to be committed, yet the Church through the ages has called the day of crucifixion Good Friday.

It is so called because the best thing that humanity has ever known occurred on that day. There was agony in Gethsemane when Jesus prayed that the Father would remove the cup of suffering from him, "nevertheless not my will but thine be done. And there appeared unto him an angel from heaven, strengthening him. And being in an agony he prayed more earnestly; and his sweat became as it were great drops of blood falling down upon the ground. And when he rose up from his prayer he came unto the disciples and found them sleeping from sorrow."

"Could you not watch with me one hour?" he asked. "Watch and pray that ye enter not into temptation. The spirit indeed is willing but the flesh is weak."

But again the disciples slept while their Master agonized.

How often have the disciples through the ages slept while their Master agonized over the sins of the world. We are still the object of his concern and his love.

We can be glad that we cannot bring any accusation of corruption against the modern Church. The Church is not corrupt, but it is sometimes drowsy.

The Mail Strike Blues

NEW YORK — There have been many repercussions over the mail strike. The most serious is that in a computer age it's hard to explain to a computer what a mail strike is all about.

All large companies bill by computers, and when the bills are paid the computers check them off. For a week now it's been impossible for computers in New York to send out bills or to receive money for outstanding debts. Therefore, the computers not concerned with the postal workers' grievances have become frustrated and have been venting their anger on the list of people stored in their memory banks.

I was in the office of one of the major credit card companies in New York last week, and the manager was in the computer room trying to talk to the computers.

The teletype of one computer kept printing: "WHERE IS THE MONEY? WHERE IS THE MONEY?"

Another computer was printing: "JAMES IS A DEADBEAT, JINCKS IS A DEADBEAT, JOHNSON IS A DEADBEAT, JONES IS A DEADBEAT, JUNIPER IS A DEADBEAT."

A third computer was teletyping: "ATTENTION! ATTENTION! THE CREDIT OF ALL PEOPLE WHOSE

LAST NAMES BEGIN WITH 'A' THROUGH 'L' HAS BEEN CANCELED."

The manager kept running from "computer to computer teletyping "RESCIND THAT ORDER." But the computers were working much faster than the manager.

I watched him feed into one machine "THERE IS A POSTAL STRIKE! DO NOT DO ANYTHING DRASTIC UNTIL IT IS OVER."

The machine immediately responded: "I AM NOT CONCERNED WITH POSTAL STRIKE. IF PEOPLE DON'T PAY THEIR DEBTS, THEY MUST BE PUNISHED."

The manager rushed to the next machine which was printing "KING IS A DEADBEAT, KLOTZ IS A DEADBEAT, KLUTZ IS A DEADBEAT."

The manager typed out "THEY ARE NOT DEADBEATS. THEY'RE VICTIMS OF AN ACT OF GOD."

The machine printed back "I DO NOT BELIEVE IN GOD. LACHMAN IS A DEADBEAT, LENGEL IS A DEADBEAT, LONGWORTH IS A DEADBEAT."

"PLEASE," the manager teletyped, "DON'T COME TO ANY CONCLUSIONS WHILE THE MAILS ARE NOT WORKING."

"YOU'RE GOING SOFT," the machine teletyped back. "IF YOU'RE NOT CAREFUL, YOU'LL BE A DEADBEAT TOO."

The manager was in tears. "I can't stop them," he said. "We've trained them to be so efficient that they won't accept any excuses. At this rate they're going to mark everyone who has a credit card lousy. We'll be out of business."

Safer Driving In U.S.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail.

The United States is one of the safest of civilized countries in which to drive an automobile. It has an annual mortality rate of 54.4 per 100,000 registered motor cars compared with 67.9 for France, 80.3 for Italy, 85.4 for Japan and 126 for West Germany. Norway has the lowest—53.4.

Whenever a new President moves into the White House, a baseball kept in the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., is taken to the nation's capital so his autograph can be added. The baseball is now regarded as priceless.

If you want your horoscope checked, your best bet is France. That country has 30,000 astrologers. If you want your psyche checked, come to New York City. Nearly 40 per cent of U.S. psychiatrists practice here.

Our people, whose unofficial motto once was, "Take a chance," are getting more cautious. Well, anyway, more than 63.4 million Americans are now covered by some form of disability insurance.

All it would take to wipe out the U.S. national debt would be for every man, woman and child to sit down and write a check for $2,000 to Uncle Sam. The only trouble with carrying out this simple solution is—most of the checks would bounce.

Looking ahead: A British medical journal estimates that if promising new drugs can be developed to slow the aging process, within the next decade 10 to 15 more productive years can be added to man's life span. One problem: at present two out of three elderly people suffer from chronic disease.

Lady, do you have bags under your eyes? Here's an old remedy: grate a large raw potato, put the grated material in the folds of a handkerchief. Then lie down for half an hour while holding the potato-and-linen sandwich to your eyes. When you rise they should sparkle like those of Sophia Loren.

Good news: An increasing number of business firms have adopted their own programs to fight alcoholism, which afflicts some 6½ million Americans. Some of the firms report a recovery rate of 60 to 70 per cent among alcoholic employees who cooperate with the program.

The good earth: You don't have to live on a farm or in the suburbs to raise a crop. More than four million U.S. city dwellers now have indoor gardens or outdoor gardens on patios and rooftops.

Where the money goes: A decade ago the average white collar worker paid out 27 per cent of his income in direct taxes. Today the figure is 34 per cent.

Worth remembering: "What we have, let us be thankful for; what we haven't got, let us hope would make us miserable if we had it; when you can't have, abuse."

Contrary to popular opinion, the need for reading or distant-vision glasses rarely cause headaches.

If you don't like to invest in stamps as a hedge against inflation

Game Called Due To Elections

By ELMER ROESSNER

It begins to look as if the war on inflation will be postponed until after the November election.

So far, the war, if it is a war, has not resulted in any remission of inflation. Prices and wages have kept rising. Economists have been busy explaining that what we have is a "cost-push" inflation instead of the previous "demand-pull" inflation.

Despite the continuation of inflation by whatever name, there are definite signs of a recession. Several banks have stated that it is not a question now of whether there will be recession, but of how deep and how long it will be. It doesn't take a politician to see that if inflation worsens, especially if prices keep on rising, the Republicans will lose most contested House and Senate seats and that Democrats will tighten their control of Congress. Democrats will also win tightly contested state elections, too.

Change To Come
It would seem certain, then, that the administration will try to ease matters a bit until after the election, to stimulate economic activity, to increase employment and restore the flush of seeming prosperity that inflation causes.

There are already some acts in that direction: President Nixon has called off voluntary restraints by state and local spending for construction, which could increase spending by $1.5 billion, and ended his in-terdiction of postonable government spending, which may affect $1.8 billion more spending.

The President also called upon financial interests to "help the economy get on with the task of achieving lower interest rates."

The White House stance is that the fight against inflation is won, or is nearly so, a position that will surprise many shoppers. House GOP Leader Gerald Ford went even further. He declared that "the problem of inflation has been defeated."

Meanwhile, Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board assured Congress that the board was mapping an easier money policy.

Budget And Election
There is another big factor. There are rising demands in Congress for more spending for social needs, including more aid to the states, the poor, the unemployed.

The Nixon budget appeared to show a slight surplus of revenue over spending, so slight that any increase in spending would change it into a deficit budget. As election day nears, it will be more and more difficult for Mr. Nixon to veto increases in this type of spending. Some Democrats will enjoy putting him on the spot, forcing him to choose between vetoing funds for popular programs or letting the budget run into a deficit.

Deficit spending is purely inflationary. Not only has the President encouraged an increase in federal, state and local spending for construction, but he has ordered an increase in the hiring and training of building trades apprentices. The costs will not be great, but they will be symptomatic of the new position of the administration.

Bank Of America Made Rate Cutback 'Stick'

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It was the Bank of America's strength that made this week's reduction in the prime interest rate stick. Irving Trust Co. made the first announcement at 11:45 Wednesday, catching most other banks by surprise. They showed it, too. Many were visibly irritated and critical. They were suspicious of Irving's motives.

The chief criticism was that any reduction from 8.5 to 8 percent in the basic lending rate was premature. Demand for loans still was high, and some banks were turning away as many customers as they were serving.

Moreover, industry has been making clear its intentions to go on a spending spree if it could get its hands on some money, in order to maintain, modernize and expand plant facilities. Demand for money still is very strong.

Why, then, lower the prime rate, the bankers wondered? Isn't banking an industry of precise, mathematical logic supposedly devoid of emotional, political, and, very often, even patriotic considerations?

Some bankers today feel that such considerations may have colored the thinking involved in the rate reduction. Speculation among them included these

"It's no good. They can work on auxiliary power. There's no way of stopping them."

A computer was teletyping "THE FOLLOWING PEOPLE SHOULD BE IMMEDIATELY ARRESTED AND ALL PROPERTY CONFISCATED — PAIN, PEACE, POTTER, PLUNKETT, PRUNEAU, PUNTER, RASKIN, ROBERTS, ROGERS . . ."

The manager typed back "NO, NO, NO, NO. THEY'RE INNOCENT." The computer typed "GET YOUR FILTHY HANDS OFF THE KEYS OF MY TELEPRINTER."

The manager was white. "I have no choice. To save the company, I'll have to push the self-destruct button."

"You're going to blow up the computers?"

"It's either them or us. He broke the glass on the wall and pushed the red button."

There was a thunderous explosion followed by smoke. When the smoke cleared, I looked around. All the computers seemed to be working. One started teletyping "AS I WAS SAYING BEFORE I WAS INTERRUPTED, MAYFIELD IS A DEAD-BEAT, MINTON IS A DEADBEAT, MORGAN IS A DEADBEAT, MULLINS IS A DEADBEAT . . ."

thoughts:

—George Murphy, chairman of Irving, is a friend of President Nixon who at the moment is openly promoting the notion that the economic tide has turned but who is in need of evidence, such as lower interest, to prove his case.

—The Irving Trust annual meeting was to be held at 2:30 that very day in the company cafeteria, an affair that an Irving executive referred to as an ordinarily drab meeting, one that could use some excitement.

Dismiss such speculation as unprovable and you still are left with the conclusion that the decision, unlike every other large-bank decision involving the prime rate in recent months, was made for very unusual reasons.

Murphy conceded it was premature. It was, in other words, not based on the business experience of his bank. The decision was taken, he said, "to assist the Federal Reserve in cushioning recessionary trends . . ."

Murphy declined to elaborate. He feels that what he did was right, an Irving man said. Murphy was not eager for personal publicity, it was explained.

A good many bankers are concerned these days about a patriotic image, and they accepted Irving's explanation as in order.

But bankers who do business by the books weren't enchanted. They didn't fall in line; in fact, judging from their words, they hoped Irving would fall on its face and be forced to give up its attempt.

That's where the Bank of America, largest commercial bank in the world, stepped into the picture.

"We realized from early reported comments of some banks," said A. W. "Tom" Clausen, president, "that Irving Trust's move was not likely to precipitate an immediate industry wide decline in rates."

Clausen explained that he, too, felt that for strictly banking reasons, a rate reduction might have been a little early. But there were, he said, "overriding considerations of public policy." It was for such reasons, he said, "that we determined to immediately put our weight behind the move toward lower interest rates." At that moment there no longer was any doubt: Bank of America has clout—$25.6 billion in resources.

Clearly, Bank of America itself was considering a reduction in the prime rate. In recent weeks it had lowered rates on some real estate loans. And Clausen openly forecast a lower prime rate, predicting in Houston this week that the basic lending rate would drop within 30 to 60 days.

Unable to be first, Bank of America nevertheless could take credit for making the reduction stick. And it did take credit.

THE NAME IS REAL — Dr. Phon E. Hudkins, a Labor Department lawyer and economist, takes a call in his Washington office after authoring a report which concludes that whatever ails men can be blamed on women. The 200-page report is compiled mainly of writings by well-known lawyers, psychiatrists, anthropologists, sociologists and other experts. Hudkins is quite-serious about his conclusions but one Labor Department official shuddered and said: "He ought to be fired". (AP Wirephoto)

Pitt's G.R. Whitfield School Is Being Phased Out

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County's original Negro high school, founded more than half a century ago in 1916, is phasing out of this period of its history with the closing of the 1969-70 school year.

The G.R. Whitfield School, founded by the man whose name the school bears, was first known as the Pitt County Training School.

Present students of the school, selecting as a theme "Marching To The Beat of Change," as conducting a gala phasing out program on Saturday and Sunday.

The program is designed to commemorate the school, its founder, the principals and teachers who have faithfully served the cause of Negro education in Pitt County, and the students of past years.

Seniors of the 1969-70 graduating class will be special guests at the two day festivities, which is expected to draw former students from Pitt County, from North Carolina and from places as distant as New York, Connecticut and New Jersey.

A picnic on the school grounds at 10:00 a.m. Saturday will mark the beginning of the commemorative phase out program. The picnic will be supplemented by an egg hunt for the youngsters of the school.

future are only as important as is the present which binds these two together."

A review of the history of G.R. Whitfield School reveals that J.B. Ryan Grimes, Secretary of the State of North Carolina in 1916, gave a plot of land upon which the Pitt County Training School was erected.

G.R. Whitfield founder and first principal, served the school from 1916 to 1920. In the following years, other principals have been A.C. Hill, M.J. Faust, J.G.W. Cox, A. Sanford, E.C. Setzer, O.A. Dupree, M.Q. Wyche, and most recently, Raymond Reddrick Jr.

Teachers who spent 20 years or more teaching in the G.R. Whitfield School are: Mrs. Carolina Cherry, Mrs. Christine Mills, Mrs. Eva C. Rountree, Mrs. Villian D. Selby, Mrs. Effie B. Thompson, Miss Hattie Thompson, Mrs. M.D. Wyche, W.A. Cherry, W.A. Crandol, A.T. Mills, W.W. Rountree, and Rev. L.A. Williams.

Changes were many in the half century of the school. At first, donations for buildings came from families in the community sought out by Whitfield and from the Rosenwald Foundation.

Before the first buildings were completed, classes of the Pitt County Training School were conducted in the Odd Fellow Hall, the Masonic Lodge and the old St. Monica Church.

The Agriculture and Home Economics Departments were added in 1920. Two dormitories, one for boys and one for girls, were added in 1923 so that Negro youths from the county could study as boarding students. During the depression years, in 1929, mules and farm equipment were purchased and the land around the school cultivated to raise food for the

Under the principalship of O.A. Dupree, beginning in 1941, the first school bus was added from funds raised in the county. It was also in the 1940's that the High School Department was accredited by the State Department.

In the years of M.Q. Wyche's principalship, which began in 1946, the old wooden buildings were demolished and the present brick buildings constructed. During his administration too, the name of the school was changed from Pitt County Training School to G.R. Whitfield High School.

The name change honored the man who has been credited with having the foresight and vision to see the need of making available formal training for Pitt County's Negro youth.

Whitfield died in 1950. Before his death, the Pitt County native — he was born near Stokes — could see concrete results of the idea he set in motion in 1916, as the school grew and changed to meet new ideas and requirements in the field of education.

New Concept In Farming Shown

A new concept in farming, no-tillage small grain planting, was demonstrated for area growers Wednesday afternoon at the Carl Worthington farm near Winterville.

The no-tillage method, which involves the use of a special planter and various chemicals, is designed to do away with land and seed bed preparation.

Sam Weeks, Agricultural Extension agent, said the demonstration involved planting, using a fluted colter on the planter to cut a narrow trench in the sod about three inches wide and six to seven inches deep, and chemical applications.

practice, he said. The system, however, does require about 10 to 15 per cent more seed. Weeks added.

In order for the method to be successful, he said, the soil nutrients must be in balance.

be tested before deciding to plant corn or soybeans with the no-tillage method.

Weeks said that considerable interest in the new farming practice has been shown in this area. A good crowd was on hand for the demonstration Wednesday, he said.

KinstonMan Set Himself Aflame

KINSTON, N. C. (AP) — A 26-year-old Kinston man is reported in critical condition after pouring gasoline over his body and setting himself afire, police say.

Roy Lee Gooding suffered third-degree burns over 75 per cent of his body Thursday. He was taken to Lenoir Memorial Hospital and transferred to North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill.

Police said a Kinston woman, Mrs. Gertie Jean Jarman, told them she was awakened about 1 a.m. Thursday by a man who stabbed her twice and fled. Police quoted her as saying the man was Gooding. Mrs. Jarman was treated at a hospital and released.

Achieve Basis For Settling Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—Union and government negotiators said today they have reached a basis for settling the pay dispute that led to a widespread postal strike last week.

With President Nixon spending the Easter weekend at Key Biscayne Fla., Congress adjourned until Tuesday and the country's postal clerks and carriers back on the job, negotiators appeared driving toward a settlement after two days of talks. They were to resume discussions this afternoon.

Spokesmen for both sides characterized the talks as "serious" and "business-like" and, following a Thursday night session that broke up after 1 a.m. EST today, issued a statement saying they had "reached a basis for negotiation."

Exactly what that meant, however, was not disclosed by the negotiating teams headed by Postmaster General Winton M. Blount and the AFL-CIO's James Gilda.

On Capitol Hill, meantime, a joint House-Senate Post Office conference committee that met to work out a postal pay bill broke up its session amidst charges by the leader of the House contingent, Rep. Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y., that the senators were simply marking time, waiting for the Blount-Gilda talks to bear fruit.

"Any action we might take could only warp or louse up the bargaining downtown," Chairman Gale W. McGee of the Senate Post Office panel said.

McGee and Dulski agreed to delay further sessions subject to the call of both chairmen.

Any pay hike for the postmen will eventually have to be approved by Congress and signed by the President.

On another front Thursday the Pentagon reported about 10,000 reservists and National Guardsmen remain on active duty in New York although there were no plans to use them unless another strike flares up.

N.C. Picklers Refuse To Meet Price Demands

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina pickle companies have refused to meet the price demands of Tar Heel cucumber growers. Farm Bureau President B.C. Mangum said Thursday that some companies reportedly "have gotten together and agreed not to further increase their prices" to growers.

He made the statement following a meeting of the Farm Bureau's Cucumber Marketing Committee.

The committee is urging growers to insist on contract prices of $8 a hundred pounds for No. 1 cucumbers, $4.50 for No. 2s, and $2.50 for No. 3s.

Prices offered by the buying companies are $7.50, $3.50 and $1.75.

SHE'LL CAMPAIGN

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina live poultry values today were down one-half to one cent. Offerings fully adequate for fair demand, weights mostly desirable. Live, at-farm based valuation for broilers and fryers 12½-13 cents per pound. Hens, supplies fully adequate to ample, demand limited. Heavies at farm 16. Lights too few to report.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets steady Thursday, supplies fully adequate, demand slow to fair. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Teamsters Spurn Offer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Teamsters union has rejected the trucking industry's initial offer of a new three-year contract providing nearly $1-an-hour increases in wages and benefit.

In announcing the turn-down Thursday night, the union said negotiations would resume to day in an effort to come up with an agreement before the current contract expires at midnight Tuesday.

The rejection came as no surprise. Even before the refusal was announced a union source had said "the ultimate settlement will be higher than this" industry offer.

And a Teamsters official said Thursday after releasing news of the rejection, "I'm sure they (union negotiators) are still optimistic of a settlement by next Tuesday."

Earlier in the day Thursday, a Nixon administration source had said chances of a settlement appeared "very good," a sentiment seconded by a Teamsters source, who said "I don't think there's going to be a strike. We haven't taken a strike vote."

Heading off a repeat of the situation three years ago when the Teamsters struck isolated trucking firms and the industry retaliated with a lockout is of major concern to labor-plagued President Nixon.

The administration has just gotten through a major postal strike, is in the center of a slowdown by air traffic controllers and is faced with a possible nationwide rail strike.

An industry source said prior to the Teamsters action that virtually all contract clauses have been wrapped up except the economic package and "money is now taking the center stage" in the trucking talks.

UF Check Presented To School Band Leaders

UNITED FUND... contribution to Greenville's school bands is presented by Marvin Blount, Jr., chairman of Greenville Community Services to band leaders James Rodgers, Johnny Wooten and Thomas Smith.

Three Greenville City School band leaders were presented a check Thursday from the United Fund.

James E. Rodgers, Johnny Wooten and Thomas Smith, band leaders for Rose High, Epes Junior High and Aycock Junior High, respectively, were tendered a check by Marvin Blount, Jr., as the city bands share of the Greenville Community Services portion of the Pitt County United Fund.

Blount, chairman of the Community Services portion of United Fund, remarked: "The most important thing this year is that since the United Fund exceeded its announced goal, this is the first year it will be possible to meet 100 percent the requests of the participating agencies within the Greenville Community Services division of Pitt County United Fund."

In addition to the three bands, other agencies which will receive part of the $6,500 allocated for Greenville Community Services include Kings Daughters; Watson Memorial Fund; Layette Fund-Service League; Flynn Christian Fellowship Home; Emergency Charity Fund; Coastal Boys, Greenville, and Babe Ruth Little Leagues; and the Mentally Retarded Recreation Program. Ken Whichard, publicity director of Pitt County United Fund, expressed appreciation to all in Greenville and Pitt County who gave so generously in the campaign just ended. "Because of this fine response, this year we have the good feeling of being able to meet our requested obligations and we can look forward to being helpful to many in times of need."

He noted that programs similar to the Greenville Community Services program are in effect for the county.

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Shareholders of American Credit Corp. and the Wachovia Corp. have approved merger of the two companies.

The merger, approved in principle by corporate officers of both companies last November, is scheduled to be closed April 27.

It was approved Thursday by stockholders in their regular annual meetings of both companies—Wachovia in Winston-Salem and American Credit in Charlotte.

Sunrise Service Slated In Ayden

AYDEN—An interracial sunrise service will be held Sunday at 5:45 a.m. at the Ayden Little League Ballpark.

The program is sponsored by the Ayden Good Neighbor Council in cooperation with the Ayden Ministerial Alliance and the Ministerial Association.

The public is invited to attend.

Rigney Anticipates No Problems With Twins

By JACK HAND
ORLAND, Fla. (AP) — When the Minnesota Twins fired Billy Martin last fall after he won the divisional title, they said he failed to communicate with the owner, Calvin Griffith. Billy Rigney, the new manager, will have no such problem.

"Mr. Griffith is the president of the club," said Rigney. "He has the right to know what is going on. This club has no general manager so he acts in both capacities. He is going to decide if we trade somebody or what we need. No, I don't expect him to come in the clubhouse. So far, he hasn't said one word."

Rigney signed to manage the Twins Oct. 28 about five months after he was let out as manager of the California Angels who finished third, 26 games behind the Twins in the American League West.

"There were only a couple of places I was interested in going," said Rigney. "Obviously, this was one. It was too good a club not to take. I wanted to go where I had a chance to win if I was going to go back on the field. "I anticipate no problems. This club found the way to win last year. I know I will hear about Billy Martin. I knew it had to come up. The fellow won a pennant. I'm just playing my game. I don't anticipate any trouble."

Rigney believes he has reason to be optimistic about the condition of Jim Kaat who dipped down to 14-13 last season. An operation for removal of calcium deposits in the left-hander's left thigh has helped him recover the zing on his fast ball. Luis Tiant, who came from Cleveland with Stan Williams in a deal for Dean Chance, Ted Uhlaender, Graig Nettles and Bob Miller, has run into some rough weather but is throwing hard, according to Rigney.

Jim Perry and Dave Boswell, the fellow who was flattened by manager Martin in a brawl outside a Detroit gin mill last summer, are the other starters. Boswell's spring progress has been slowed down by swollen ankles. Tom Hall or Dick Woodson will handle the fifth starting job and do some long relief. Ron Perranoski and ex-Indian Williams will be the bullpen men.

The lineup is set, expect for left field where Jim Holt, who hit .336 with power at Denver, appears to be the leading candidate, backed by the veteran Bob Allison and Charlie Manual.

Cesar Tovar, a handyman for years, has settled down to a regular job in center field although he still does an occasional turn in the infield. Tony Oliva, the two-time batting champ, will be in right field.

Harmon Killebrew's chronic knee problems have kept him out of several spring games. The Killer, who was the most valuable player in the league in 1969 when he led the league with 49 homers and 140 runs batted in, will play third base. Killebrew has been used at first in some games to lighten the load on his knees.

Rich Reese is the regular first baseman. Rod Carew, 1969 batting champ, is at second, and Leo Cardenas, the ex-Cincinnati Red who brought the Twins' infield together last summer, will be the shortstop. Rick Renick will be one of the utility men.

The No. 1 catcher is George Mitterwald who hit .257 as a rookie. Paul Rattliff, who is a left-handed hitter, has the edge on the second job in competition with Tom Tschinski and 20-year-old Rick Dempsey.

Once again the Twins will boom the long ball and probably lead the league in hitting. The defense still is not first class, and the pitching depends on a strong comeback by both Kaat and Tiant, the former 21-game winner who won only nine for the Indians last summer. Next-Chicago Cubs.

Nails Down Pole Position

Cale Yarborough doffs his hat Thursday after setting a qualifying record at Atlanta International Raceway and nailing down the pole position for Sunday's Atlanta 500 stock car race. Yarborough, driving a 1969 Mercury, had a fast lap of 159.929 miles per hour. (AP Wirephoto)

Pilot Pitchers Make Showing

While Seattle's flak-riddled baseball flagship tries to avert a crash landing in Milwaukee, a couple of young Pilots are earning their wings on the ground. The Pilots, apparently headed for a franchise shift to Milwaukee before their April 7 season opener, shaded the Cleveland Indians 2-1 Thursday in exhibition play behind the three-hit pitching of Marty Pattin and John Gelnar.

Pattin worked seven strong innings and Gelnar blanked the Indians the rest of the way at Tempe, Ariz., as the Pilots brought their spring record to 8-10.

At nearby Phoenix, meanwhile, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn conceded that Seattle's chances of keeping the franchise appear dim, despite temporary restraining orders, obtained by the city and state of Washington, against movement of the team.

The American League is expected to approve transfer and sale of the year-old expansion club for $10.8 million within the next week.

Mike Hegan's run-scoring single in the seventh inning broke a 1-1 tie and carried the Pilots past Cleveland in one of only five games played Thursday. The Chicago Cubs blasted Oakland 9-2 at Scottsdale, Ariz.; California downed San Diego 6-3 at Palm Springs, Calif.; San Francisco beat the Nagoya Chunichi Dragons 5-0 in Japan and Baltimore shipped Washington 8-2 at Miami, Fla. Seven other Florida games were washed out because of rain or wet grounds.

Ron Santo drove in three runs with a single and his third spring homer and Johnny Callison drilled a two-run triple, leading the Cubs' assault on Oakland ace John "Blue Moon" Odom.

The Angels ended San Diego's winning streak at five games behind a 10-hit spree. Bill Voss led the way, poking a double and two singles for a .400 exhibition average.

Frank Reberger and Rich Robertson combined for a three-hit shutout in the Giants' victory, which gave them a 3-4 record on their Japanese tour.

The Orioles rocked Dick Bosman for nine hits and all their runs in the second and third innings, then breezed behind the full-route pitching of Mike Cuellar. Cuellar, first Baltimore hurler to go nine innings scattered eight hits and socked a two-run double.

Baker Doesn't Want Records, Just Wins

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP)—Buddy Baker, the fastest man ever in a stock racing car, is ready to forget speed titles and begin winning a few races.

"You can set all the speed records you want, but there's nothing that lifts your spirits—or helps your pocketbook—like rolling into victory circle after a big race," said the 6-foot-3 stock driver Thursday.

Baker and two other drivers, Cale Yarborough and Charlie Glotzbach, had just broken Baker's old Atlanta International Raceway lap record in qualifying for Sunday's weather-delayed 500 mile race. A dozen other drivers also made the 40-car field.

Yarborough's 159.929 miles per hour for the 1½-mile oval was the best. He will start his 1969 Mercury from the pole position.

Glotzbach and Baker, both driving winged Dodge Chargers, posted 159.808 and 159.641 m.p.h. respectively. Baker set the old lap mark of 158.730 last August. Fifteen more cars were to be qualified today to bring the field to 30, leaving the remainder for Saturday's final time trials. Speedway officials said 49 cars had filed entries.

Baker, 29-year-old son of former great and still active driver Buck Baker, makes a good living as a test driver, particularly in tire development work.

But in 11 years he has only two victories in 272 starts. Yet, on most of the major stock car speedways he can be counted on to go as fast or faster than anyone else. Records show he has led in the last 17 big speedway races one or more times.

Just three days ago he took a Dodge racing car around the 2½-mile Alabama International Speedway at 200.447 m.p.h.—a record for a closed course of any length.

"That was the only thing I've done in racing that nobody can take away from me," he said Thursday. "It was a thrill, and we worked extremely hard to be the first over 200 m.p.h."

But it took no more work and preparation than what we're putting in here for Sunday's race. The difference is that there's $22,800 waiting for the winner—plus a bundle of confidence for me if I happen to be the lucky one."

Baker's two victories were in distance races, the World 600 and the National 500, both in his hometown of Charlotte, N.C.

Baker started 18 times last year. He failed to win, but finished in the top five in nine races and cashed $63,510 in checks. His best finish this year was second place in a 125 mile qualifying race at Daytona—where his log shows he has driven a phenomenal 4,741 miles at an average speed of 177.484

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—North Carolina's basketball Tar Heels earned the Atlantic Coast Conference's best mark on offense and South Carolina won the honors on defense, according to season-end statistics released today.

South Carolina, the third team in ACC history to go unbeaten through the regular season, also had the best average scoring margin over its opponents.

North Carolina State—conference champion—took the rebounding crown, while Duke had the best field goal percentage figure.

Wake Forest registered the top free throw percentage mark.

North Carolina won the scoring honors with a 88.9 average, the same as last year. South Carolina's defensive mark was 57.4. It was the third offensive victory in a row for the Tar Heels and the second defensive victory in a row for the Gamecocks.

Duke won its field goal percentage victory with 496—the ACC's third best in history. Wake Forest was three-fourth winner with 768. And North Carolina won its rebounding crown with an average of 47.7 a game.

In the personal scoring contest, senior Charlie Scott of North Carolina carried away the honors with a 27.1 average. Scott scored 731 points in 27 games, the sixth best rate in ACC history.

Junior Charlie Davis of Wake Forest had the second best average, 25.5. Vann Williford, a North Carolina State senior, was third at 23.7.

Oak City Beats Murfreesboro

MURFREESBORO—Oak City blasted Murfreesboro, 8-1, yesterday for their second straight baseball victory of the season. The Wildcats earlier beat Winterville, 4-2.

Oak City brought along its power in the game, stroking out three home runs, and a number of doubles as they put together eight hits in the game.

Jess Crisp and J. C. Whitfield got things started in the first inning as both slammed homers for a 2-0 lead.

Murfreesboro came right back to pick up its only run in the bottom of the first. Henry Vann walked and stole second. He then came home when a grounder hit by John Wise was errored.

Oak City countered that run in the second to go back out 3-1. Marty Smith singled and stole second. He reached third on an error and scored on a passed ball.

In the fifth, the Wildcats pushed over four more runs to take a commanding 7-1 lead. Rudy Edmondson opened the inning with a homer, and Jess Crisp followed up, reaching second on a freak play. Crisp bunted the ball, and the pitcher, in trying to make the play, hit Crisp in the helmet with the ball, which bounced into the dugout, allowing Crisp to end up on second. Cliff Mobley then doubled him across with the second run of the frame. Donny Moore doubled to score Mobley, and then he stole third. Moore finishing things off by stealing home, too, for the 7-1 lead.

Oak City added one more run in the seventh.

Smith, in hurling the win, allowed only three hits, struck out nine and walked two.

Johnson Isn't Mad At Anybody

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
MIAMI (AP) — George Johnson is one black athlete who isn't militant, angry or unhappy.

"I ain't mad at anybody," said the 31-year-old pro golfer. "We had a tournament in Hattiesburg, Miss., last year and even the folks there rolled out the red carpet for me."

Johnson blistered the Country Club of Miami course for a six-under par 66 Thursday and came up second best in the opening round of the $200,000 National Airlines Open.

Unknown Bob Menne smashed the course record by two strokes with an eight-under par 64 early in the rain-smothered day, but Johnson and tour veteran R. H. Sikes pulled close with 66's later.

"I've won about $600 this year," smiled Johnson. "I'm destined for some money."

Johnson was a rookie touring pro last year and bagged a scant $2,500, leaving him about $9,000 in the red.

"My brother, Charlie, is bankrolling me now," said George. "and he told me to just play and not worry about the money. I made just $600, so I gotta worry just a little bit."

Charlie Johnson is a 270-pound pro football tackle who was traded to the Baltimore Colts last season after three years with the San Francisco 49ers.

Oddly, Johnson credits a book loaned to him by— you guessed it, Bob Menne—for helping with his frame of mind on the day he fired his lowest round as a tour player.

"The book is called 'psycho-cybernetics' and it helps you think straight," said Johnson. "Menne loaned it to me two weeks ago at Pensacola and it's helped. I think I'll go back to the motel tonight and read the last chapter. Maybe I can shoot 64 tomorrow."

The CCM layout, regarded tough by most pros, again proved to be a first-round patsy in the event that boasts a $40,000 first prize.

Last year, in the inaugural tournament sponsored by strike-hamstrung National Airlines, 24 pros shot 69 or better the first day, but little-known former Georgia Tech football place-kicker, Bunky Henry, came on to win with a mere 10-under par 278.

Thursday's rundown showed 14 at 69 or lower, 42 under par and 17 more at even-par 72 on the 6,927-yard course.

Masters Champion George Archer was tied for fourth at 68 along with Tommy Aaron, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Bob Stone and Australian Bob Stanton.

In a group at 69 was 1969's top money winner Frank Beard along with Lee Trevino, Rod Funseth, Ted Hayes, Hale Irwin and Dan Sikes.

"The course played tough, so the 64 by Menne is fantastic," said Sikes. "He played in the morning when the rain and wind was just bad. It got terrible later in the day when I played, so my 69 is pretty nice."

Million-Plus Smile

Pete Maravich, three-time All America basketball star at Louisiana State University, and one of his attorneys, Lester Zittrain, right, enjoy a good laugh in Atlanta Thursday night. Maravich had just announced through the attorney that he had signed with the Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association. It was reported that he signed a multi-year contract calling for about $2 million. (AP Wirephoto)

Pistol Pete Guns Down Cougars; To Hawk His Wares For Atlanta

By ED SHEARER

Associated Press Sports Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — Pistol Pete Maravich, the brilliant basketball magician who says he's "always going to be out to entertain," has signed a five-year contract with the Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association calling for a reported $1.9 million.

Maravich, major college basketball's all-time scoring king with 3,667 points in his three-year career at Louisiana State University, quickly came to terms with the Hawks who chose him in the NBA draft Monday.

"I wanted to play somewhere in the South," said Maravich, who turned down a reported $2 million offer from the Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association to play in the older NBA.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed except that it was for five years. Reliable sources placed the amount at $1.9 million, the most ever paid a college athlete turning professional.

"I'm very pleased," said Maravich, a three-time All-American whose trademark became his floppy hair and sagging socks.

LSU Coach Press Maravich, Pete's father, sat beside his son as Lester E. Zittrain, one of two Pennsylvania attorneys who handled all negotiations for the 1970 College Player of the Year, announced that Maravich had signed.

However, no one wanted to discuss the contract terms.

"Let's just say it's a contract that is fair ... one that very handsomely compensates the greatest basketball player in the world," said Zittrain.

"He's going to have to be awfully good not to be the highest paid substitute in the game," said Thomas G. Cousins, the co-owner of the Hawks who personally negotiated the Maravich contract.

"However, I have no concern that he will fit in with the team like a charm," Cousins said. The Hawks are hopeful Maravich will continue to lure sellout crowds. His father said he played before 820,000 persons during his four years at LSU.

Maravich, his saucer-sized brown eyes gleaming, often tells interviewers, "Maybe I'm a little kookie, but I'm always going to be out to entertain. There's nothing that says you can't win and be entertaining."

Maravich thrilled Dixie crowds more with his behind-the-back passes and between-the-leg fancy dribbling than with his prolific scoring. He averaged 44.2 points in 83 games for the LSU varsity and had a single game high of 69 points earlier this year against Alabama.

Maravich became the sixth first-round draft choice signed by the NBA since Monday's draft.

The others are Dave Cowens of Florida State with the Boston Celtics, Al Henry of Wisconsin with the Philadelphia 76ers, Bob Lanier of St. Bonaventure with the Detroit Pistons, Rudy Tomjanovich of Michigan with San Diego and George Johnson

Stadium Okayed, But Needs Team

SEATTLE (AP) — King County was given a go-ahead Thursday to build a domed stadium in downtown Seattle, though that decision faces another court test. The county, meanwhile, is seeking a team to play in the stadium in place of the Seattle Pilots, apparently lost to Milwaukee.

Superior Court Judge William J. Wilkens ruled that selection of the downtown site was made in accordance with state law and couldn't be overturned by a countywide initiative.

The State Supreme Court set Monday as the date for a review of Wilkins' ruling. That same day, Sidney C. Volinn, federal referee in bankruptcy, is to rule on the merits of an offer from a Milwaukee group to buy the American League baseball team for $10.8 million.

Pacific Northwest Sports, Inc. owner of the Pilts has said it can not operate the club in Seattle during the 1970 season, and put itself in Volinn's hands. The club and related matters have bounced around from court to court like a baseball on a rough infield.

County Executive John Spellman, faced with the possibility of a $40 million sports complex with no tenant, said the fate of the stadium depended on obtaining another team, baseball or football, to fill the Pilots' cleats.

Seattle has expressed interest in acquiring the Boston Patriots of the American Football League if the team can't find a New England home. Spellman also said he was to call somebody about a franchise Thursday, but didn't say who or what team was involved.

And in Phoenix, Ariz., near where the Pilots were training, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn reaffirmed the belief that the Pilots will wind up in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee Prepares

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) —

Two box seat tickets to a Milwaukee Brewers baseball game are being given away to anyone who buys a color television set at a local store.

Ground crews, delayed by an early spring snow storm that dumped four inches on the ground here, are expected to be back in action Saturday preparing County Stadium for opening day.

Letters to season ticket holders are reported to be ready for mailing.

Yet, there are no outward signs today that Milwaukee, a city that has been without its own major league baseball team for five years, is in a frantic rush to get things done.

"Everything is all ready to go, just waiting on a team," said a source close to the Brewers who asked to remain unidentified.

The search for a team might be over. The next round in the Brewers' battle to buy and transfer the Seattle Pilots to Milwaukee takes place Monday.

Knicks Edge By Baltimore Five

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knicks and Baltimore Bullets, sky-high for the playoff pressure cooker, prompted a flood of superlatives from Walt Frazier.

"It was one of the guttiest games I've ever been in ... it was ... well, it was a heck of a game," the Knicks' blue chip guard said Thursday night after New York trimmed Baltimore 120-117 in a double overtime National Basketball Association playoff game.

The victory gave the Knicks a 1-0 advantage in the best-of-7 Eastern Division semifinal series which resumes tonight in Baltimore. Milwaukee, which holds a 1-0 edge on Philadelphia, plays the 76ers in Madison, Wis., in another Eastern semifinal contest.

Frazier said he felt sluggish during regulation time, but made two steals from Earl "The Pearl" Monroe in the overtime sessions to key the victory.

Frazier's steals appeared to fit into the scheme of the contest that had more turns than a Hollywood script.

Consider: —Monroe, who had a game-high 39 points, missed a jumper in the final seconds of regulation time.

—Frazier knocked the ball from Monroe's hands to Dick Barnett, who raced the length of the court and missed the winning bucket at the end of the first overtime.

—Willis Reed, who missed two clutch shots and a free throw in the first extra period, turned from goat to hero with the winning basket with 33 seconds left in the second overtime.

Monroe's extraordinary jump shooting and the vibrant play of ice-cool rookie Fred Carter kept the Bullets eye-to-eye with the Knicks throughout. Carter wound up with 21 points and was a defensive marvel.

The contest was faintly reminiscent of past events. Last year, Baltimore won the Eastern Division crown and was knocked off by the third-place Knicks in four straight.

The Bullets almost pulled a turnaround this time.

Unbeaten Takes Sport Seriously

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Associated Press Sports Writer
EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Dan Gable has no time for girls. Wrestling takes it all year around.

And this devotion to the sport is why the 142-pound Iowa State senior with the quiet voice and miniature herculean physique has never been beaten.

His record, stretching through high school and college, is one of the most remarkable in all sports and probably of all time. He pinned all three of his opponents—the ultimate way of victory—in the opening phase of the NCAA Wrestling Championships Thursday and entered today's quarter-finals with the amazing career record of 179 victories, 106 of them by pins.

Two other Iowa State defending champions also came through—Jason Smith at 167 pounds and Chuck Jean at 177, and the Cyclones took the lead for their second straight team crowd with 26 points and seven survivors for the quarter-finals.

Oregon State, third-place finishers last year, was next with 25 points and seven men left. Oklahoma State, winner of 11 of the last 16 titles, was third with 22 and five men remaining.

Also making a hot challenge was Big Ten champion Michigan State with 21 points and eight survivors.

Other defending champs still in the running were Mike Grant of Oklahoma at 150 pounds; John Miller of Oregon, 118, and heavyweight Jess Lewis of Oregon State. Joining them was Dwayne Keller of Oklahoma State at 126. He won in 1968 but did not wrestle last year.

Loss Won't Hurt Says Gardner

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C. (AP)

—Pete Maravich of LSU, who signed with the Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association, also was the No. 1 draft choice of the Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association. Jim Gardner, president of the Cougars, says that while he is disappointed at Thursday's loss, the signing won't hurt the ABA at the box office.

The Rocky Mount businessman who was the Republican candidate for governor of North Carolina in 1968 said:

"Last year they said if we didn't get (Lew) Alcindor it would kill the league. Attendance is up 40 per cent this year," and prospects for next year are good.

Gardner would not discuss either the Atlanta or the Cougar offer, but said that Maravich had always maintained he would take the better one.

Gardner indicated that Carolina now would turn its efforts to sign North Carolina State University star Vann Williford. He added that the Cougars had not pursued their draft choices as much this year because of the feeling, "We can go all the way with what we have." The team is two games behind Kentucky in a battle for second place in the Eastern Division of the ABA.

Gardner said that while he is disappointed that the Cougars didn't get Maravich, "There are too many other good players around" to worry about one player.

Every Year More Crude Oil Polluting The Seas

By PETER J. SHAW
LONDON (UPI) — It was three years ago this month that the American-owned supertanker Torrey Canyon ran aground off the tip of southwest England, broke open and spewed 100,000 gallons of unrefined oil into the coastal waters of England and France.

That disaster cost Britain $8 million and France $7 million before the 120 miles of British coastline and 55 miles of French beaches were cleared of oil. The chocolate brown sludge killed 50,000 sea birds. Toxic agents in detergents Britain used to fight the oil massacred billions of sea creatures vital to healthy tidal zone life.

And the worst of it all is that, after three years, there is no one to say it can't happen again. It has in fact happened again, and still happens.

500,000 Tons A Year

An estimated 500,000 tons of crude oil—leaked or deliberately dumped—still pollute sea around the world each year.

Today's era of supertankers, some of which are four times the size of the 61,263-ton Torrey Canyon, confronts scientists and oil shippers with the danger of more "black tide" disasters.

"There is a very real possibility another Torrey Canyon-type incident involving a supertanker will occur in the next 10 years or so around our coasts," the British government's chief science adviser, Sir Solly Zuckerman, has warned.

The Torrey Canyon disaster on March 18, 1967, amplified by similar accidents more recently off the California and Gulf Coasts, has for three years been spurring scientists, oil shippers and governments to find new ways to halt the growing menace of oil pollution at sea.

Progress In Detergents

But laws forbidding illegal dumping of oil at sea lack teeth and it is more a gentleman's code of conduct than legal threat that keeps the annual pollution tonnage under a million.

"The main fight is to stop the oil being dumped in the sea in the first place," said Ronald Ticehurst, secretary of the British Resorts Association. Most oil is dumped during cleaning operations.

There has been significant progress since December in developing less toxic detergents—still considered the best way to disperse oil slicks before they reach coastlines—that won't kill marine life. Nothing yet found approaches perfection, however.

Laws have been drawn up to enable oil pollution victims to claim unlimited damages from ship owners. But governments have yet to ratify them. The U.S. Congress is preparing to pass a bill that would make the polluters liable for all oil spill damage, whether through accident or negligence.

To discourage such laws, which they claim would price most oil shipping out of existence through massive insurance costs if all nations had them, the world's seven biggest oil companies banded together to promise up to $10 million in compensation to victim countries.

Britain still bears subtle scars of Torrey Canyon damage.

By late summer of 1967, all beaches and rocky coastline were almost entirely cleared of oil by shoveling, use of detergents and natural tide action. Tourism quickly returned to normal.

Commercial fishing was not harmed. By early 1968, sea birds again careened over glistening beaches and surf.

But marine shore life still suffers from the effects of the toxic detergents. The oil itself didn't harm all the creatures—many even ate it.

"It will probably be another two years before everything is the way it once was," said Dr. J.E. Smith, director of the Plymouth Marine Biological Institute.

Marine Creatures Returning

"Recovery of shore life has been quantitative rather than qualitative. We've got back most of the species of shore life but not all. There is still evidence of the growth of rather more seaweed than usual. We're slowly getting the seaweed grazers, like limpets, back—but not in pre-pollution quantities."

France used powered chalk, absorbent sawdust and straw to sink the oil when it reached the Brittany coast April 9, 1967. It used no detergents at sea but poured 500,000 gallons on beaches in cleaning operations. The oil, 18 inches thick in spots when attacking Britain had thinned considerably by the time it reaches France.

Private industry and two government laboratories are presently working in Britain on better ways to disperse, block and burn oil upon water.

"I think Great Britain is today better prepared to cope with the problem of oil pollution than any other country in the world," said J. Wardley Smith, head of engineering research at the Ministry of Technology's Warren Springs Laboratory.

Ready For Next Spill

L.R. Beynon, head of the British Institute of Petroleum's detergents panel, said several new detergents with greatly reduced toxicity have been developed in the past year. The latest one, announced three months ago, marks a major breakthrough by being effective, in tests, on beaches as well as water.

Beynon said the less toxic detergents, also called dispersals, might have reduced effectiveness on thick oil slicks. "But dispersals are still our best bet in dealing with a Torrey Canyon-like situation," he said.

"The dispersals would be used to break up as much oil at sea as possible. Mechanical means like shovels and bulldozers would be used first on any oil reaching shore. What mechanical methods couldn't remove would be deterged if it involved a tourist beach."

The detergents are colorless liquids containing a solvent and an oil separating agent. The Torrey Canyon-era detergents were stronger than are the newer ones but also had highly toxic solvent. Britain used 2.5 million gallons of detergents against Torrey Canyon oil.

Research Seeks Best Tool

Beynon said research into such oil sinking agents as chalk, straw, sawdust and the like is promising but still impractical because scientists have yet to learn how to keep very heavy oil on the sea floor.

Plastic foam barriers—booms—are unfeasible except in sheltered waters with waves less than a foot high, he said.

Britain still lacks a central government control for attacking oil slicks but local authorities in coastal areas have created oil pollution officers as coordinators. They have stocked up on detergents and dispersal equipment.

The Union Oil Co., of California, owners of the Torrey Canyon, settled out of court with Britain and France two months ago. They were paid $3.1 million apiece for damages done. Other lawsuits still pend.

Union oil in its settlement with the two countries also promised to pay up to $60,000 to individual victims of Torrey Canyon pollution who were uninsured. Claims close this May but few are expected since the governments have picked up at least 80 per cent of the bills.

International Law Drafted

A conference attended by 48 maritime nations in Brussels last November drafted a law on civil liability for oil pollution damage. Participating countries must ratify it by 1971.

The law provides a significant legal step by setting up uniform international rules on oil pollution crises and procedures for determining liability and providing adequate compensation.

It requires ship owners to have compulsory insurance on other financial guarantees. It would give countries threatened by oil pollution the right to destroy the vessel if necessary to protect their coastline and population.

It would allow those damaged by oil pollution to claim unlimited compensation from the ship owner—making the shipowner rather than cargo owner primarily responsible. There is a provision for limited liability up to $52 million.

Ship owners would be liable without limit unless they prove damage resulted from an act of God, war, civil disturbance or sabotage or was willfully caused by the victim.

Captain Lost Job

The Torrey Canyon was carrying 119,329 tons of crude oil when it ran aground on Seven Stones Reef at a top speed of 16 knots.

For 10 days the navy tried to confine the oil with detergents and plastic foam barriers. It gave up and on March 27 Navy and Air Force jets began three days of bombing the broken hull to set the remaining oil afire.

Thirty-four jets dropped fifty 1,000-pound bombs and 5,200 gallons of aviation fuel on the flaming oil. Some napalm was used.

The hull, insured for $16.5 million, was then the world's largest marine insurance loss. Broken into three parts, it eventually washed off the reef and sank in deeper water.

The Torrey Canyon's Italian captain, Pastrengo Rugiati, was found guilty by investigators of "a high degree of negligence." He is now living in Genoa, unemployed.

Opening lead: Jack of ♠ South projected a profitable endplay on West to clinch his six no trump contract in today's hand.

North's four no trump bid, holding 16 high card points, is a raise of the opening bid beyond game and requests partner to bid the slam if he has extra values. South had the maximum—18 points—for his bid, so he accepted the invitation with alacrity.

West chose to open the jack of hearts and when the dummy was spread, South observed that he had 11 top tricks — two spades, three hearts, two diamonds, and four clubs—with several prospects for a 12th.

Declarer might find a three-three division in either spades or hearts. He could finesse for the queen of diamonds either way and there was even a potential finessing position available in spades. Before he tested all these possibilities, however, South observed that there was a way to eliminate all guesswork provided that West had no more than three clubs in his hand.

The queen of hearts was played from dummy at trick one, a club was led to the queen and two more rounds of clubs followed. When the suit divided evenly, South had set the stage for a profitable endplay.

The ten of spades was led from dummy and when East followed with the six, South followed with the deuce from his hand. West was in with the jack; however, he must surrender the fulfilling trick on the return. A heart return permits declarer to win a trick with the nine, and either a spade or a diamond is into South's tenace.

Had East been able to cover the ten of spades with the jack or queen, declarer could afford to concede a trick to the other honor, thereby establishing a third trick in the suit for himself.

Ironies And Lessons Of History Await

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

VIENNA (UPI)—The ironies and lessons of history will be lurking in the shadows when Soviet and American negotiators open the strategic arms limitation (SALT) talks here April 16.

For one thing, the talks will open almost 25 years

For one thing, the talks will open almost 25 years to the day since Soviet troops liberated Austria from the Nazis—and began 10 years of occupation still remembered vividly by every Austrian. Moscow has revived those memories by housing its SALT delegation in a hotel in Baden, a resort south of Vienna where its occupation headquarters were located.

The ironies are hardly less poignant for the American team.

The United States has chosen as its headquarters the Strudlhof Palais, a yellow and white stucco palace around the corner from the American embassy. It was in this palace that its then resident, Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister Count Leopold Berchtold, signed the ultimatum to Serbia that started World War I.

Good Omens, Too

That war led both to

America's emergence as a world power and to the Bolshevik revolution in Russia. The end result of those two seminal events of the 20th century will top the agenda when America and Russia sit down April 16 to discuss whether and how to curb weapons of destructive power undreamed of in Count Berchtold's day.

Vienna also can provide good omens for the talks.

The Congress of Vienna, in 1814-15, established a European order after the Napoleonic wars that preserved the continent's peace for a half century. Exactly 140 years later, the United States and Russia signed the Austrian State Treaty of 1955 that ended the four-power occupation here—to the continuing amazement of the Austrians—and established Austrian independence. The 15th anniversary of the document will be celebrated May 15, while the SALT talks are still going on.

Delegations List Prerequisites
Preparations for the talks are going forward. The Soviet and American embassies will be the scene of the talks—as they were for the preliminary SALT negotiations in Helsinki—and security officials from both sides have been here to check arrangements.

Interior ministry sources said both sides presented a "long list of detailed requests" on protection of the two embassies, to preserve secrecy for the talks. In addition, he said, the Americans have laid down strict instructions — including the distance desks must be from walls—to prevent tapping.

Horse Gallops Off With Bed

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Tony Rose thought he was having a nightmare. He woke to find his horse galloping away with his bed—and himself still in it.

On an overnight camping trip with his horse, Roadrunner, professional horse trainer Rose camped alongside the road at nightfall, fastened his steed to his camp bed and went to sleep. Roadrunner was probably frightened by a snake and made off, dragging bed and master behind him. Rose, clad only in shorts, managed to roll off the bed. He stopped a passing car and gave chase, but it took a police patrol car to stop the runaway.

The Strudlhof, which was chosen for its proximity to the embassy, is owned now by Bawag, the Austrian trade union bank, and is used by the intellectual Club of the Austrian Socialist Party.

The major condition set by the Russians was that their hotel should have a Turkish bath and that they have the hotel to themselves. They finally found it in Baden, about 15 miles from Vienna.

The American delegation in Helsinki claimed it was cramped in the small embassy there. The U.S. embassy here is larger—but so is the delegation, which has swollen from 35 to about 70 persons. Hence the decision to expand into the Strudlhof.

Continuing Until July
The talks here are expected to last three months, until about July 10, then take a summer break and resume in the autumn in Helsinki.

Austrian officials, who lobbied long and hard to get the SALT talks here, have reserved hotel rooms and working space for 400 to 600 foreign newsmen expected to flock here for the opening of the talks.

Soviet and American officials already have indicated that the news policy which prevailed in Helsinki—in effect, no news—will be adhered to here. So few of the newsmen are expected to stay in Vienna after the first week.

This is just as well from the Austrian point of view. The SALT talks will conflict with the height of the Vienna tourist season, the annual Vienna festival and the conference of the U.N. International Development Organization, which has been ordered to share its conference headquarters at the Hofburg with newsmen, since the former imperial palace has the most modern press center in town.

Steeplejack Is Young 66

By MIKE WESTER

MUNDAY, Tex. (UPI)—At the age when most men are thinking about retiring, A.W. Williams is out looking for jobs. Williams, 66, is a steeplejack. He cut his teeth on a water tower in Texas 54 years ago and has made his living painting towers and poles most people wouldn't dare touch ever since.

Perched 50 feet in the air he dipped his brush into a bucket of silver paint and smoothed it onto a rusing flag pole. Back down on the ground a little later, the Texan admitted it was a crazy way to make a living.

"You have to be part cowboy and part jackass to climb a flagpole and paint it," he said. "Yet, it comes natural to me. I just wouldn't know what else to do."

Williams said he had from 15 to 25 jobs a month—depending on what kind of jobs they were and where they were located. He said he was younger he worked 26 states but now he limits himself to Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

His highest job was on a radio tower 1,640 feet up. He has fallen just once in 54 years.

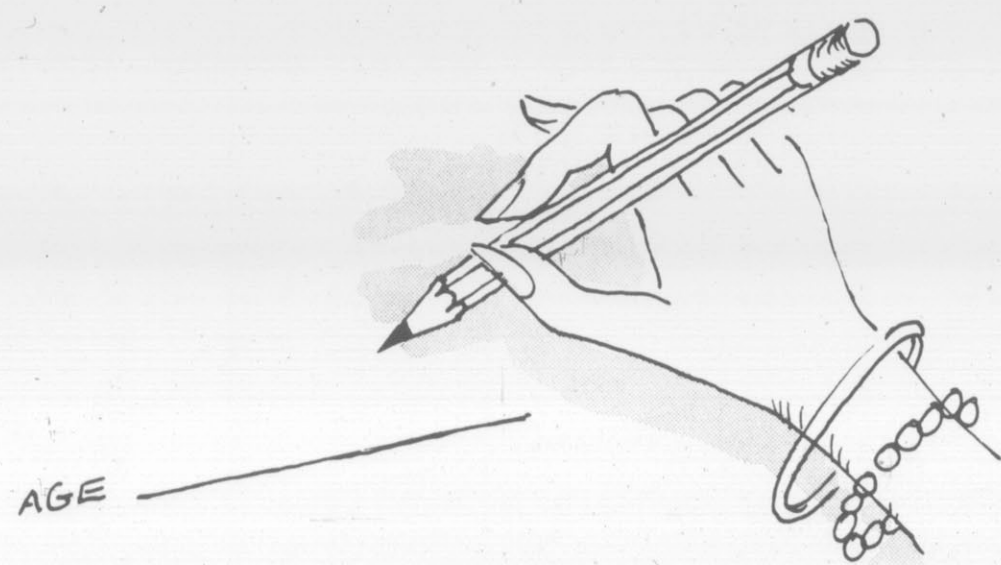

"A pole broke with me in Gunterville, Alabama," Williams said. "I tried to get in a hurry and save 10 minutes. Instead I wound up spending eight weeks in a hospital."

The spry, stocky veteran climber uses a pair of specially-knotted ropes for climbing. He puts his weight on one knot while he slides the other up the pole.

"The Navy calls the knot I use a crow hitch, lumberjacks call it a rolling half hitch, Boy Scouts call it a clove hitch and us steeplejacks just call it a rigger hitch."

Regardless of what it is called, Williams knows how to use it to go up the pole at a good clip, although he explains: "I used to be fast, now I'm old and careful."

Minor Revival Of Witchcraft

By ROBERT STRAND
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Witchery seems to be enjoying a minor revival in the United States and to have found something of a home in California.

Scattered stores in San Francisco and Los Angeles sell such sorcer's staples as the lathane knife for spells, magic oils, black catbone, heart of swallow, black henbane and "all-purpose" petruli root.

A radio program has shifted emphasis in the last four years from astrology to witchcraft as listener interest in sorcery increased, and "spell casts" have been held in the Hollywood Bowl and on college campuses "to increase the love and sexual vitality of the community."

Vassily le Grow, a San Francisco student of the occult who claims to have a witch in his family, points out that millions of Americans still believe in such witchcraft-oriented superstitions as the effectiveness of the four-leave clover, rabbits' feet and the 13th floor taboo.

"When you knock on wood," he said, "you really are signalling the pagan god. You are saying, 'Hear, Oh God, my prayer.'"

Self-proclaimed witches and warlocks (males of the species) are also practicing the eerier sort of witchcraft. An example is the First Satanic Church of Anton Szandor Lavey, an ex-animal trainer who is believed to have about 25 "grotes" with about 500 active members around the country.

Lavey lives in a spooky all-black house in San Francisco and goes about with a pentagram (a five-pointed star used as a magical symbol) dangling beneath his clerical collar.

"Man is an animal that must serve himself," Lavey says. "The so-called seven deadly sins are virtues because they lead to physical or mental gratification."

Lavey founded the Satanic Church in 1965. He has baptized several children before his nude-decorated altar—"nothing is purer than the black of a child's soul"—and has presided at several marriages.

When a sailor belonging to Lavey's church died in a 1967 accident, his soul was consigned to the devil in ceremonies including a U.S. Navy honor guard giving the traditional rifle salute and taps.

One who says evil spells boomerang is Louise Huebner, an attractive Los Angeles mother of three children, who claims to be a witch, has a monthly radio show and casts spells at the Hollywood Bowl and on college campuses in the name of love and sexual vitality.

"Light the flame," hundreds chanted three times as they

AUBURN, Ala. (AP)—Auburn University spokesmen say students will begin lining up next month to defend what they claim is a world's record for blood donations.

The young people are scheduled to take part in a blood

The annual project, which began in 1952, prompted Auburn students to declare themselves world champion blood donors after 4,812 pints of plasma were collected on two days in 1967.

Outfit Decision In Bank Robbery

By Abigail Van Buren

(C) 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My father is very ill and we do not expect him to live more than a couple of months longer.

I have a very pretty navy blue suit. It has a straight skirt, and there are little gold buttons on the jacket. I plan to wear that to the funeral. I do not have anything suitable in black. My friends say that navy blue is not appropriate for a funeral. Do you think I should go out and buy a black outfit just for the funeral?

Also, I plan to wear a string of pearls at the viewing and also at the funeral. The pearls are a gift from my father and I am very proud of them. My friends say that jewelry is not appropriate. I would like your opinion.

ANONYMOUS, PLEASE

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Any dark dress or suit would be appropriate. And if, for sentimental reasons, you want to wear the pearls, wear them. In the meantime, don't spend too much time fretting about the outfit for your father's funeral. He may live.

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 and Ron is 29. He's intelligent, handsome, successful, and could get married tomorrow if he wanted to.

We have practically gone steady for a year now, but get this, he doesn't want to even talk about marriage. He says he loves me, and I know I love him, but he says he doesn't know of one good marriage, and he's not about to spoil our "perfect romance" by marrying me. Have you ever heard of anything so ridiculous?

We have everything in common and get along beautifully. He tells me I'm free to date others, but I don't care to. Far as I know, I'm the only girl he dates. How can I get him to marry me? I'll do anything!

WANTS RON

DEAR WANTS: Ron is trying to tell you that he can't think of one good reason to marry YOU. And unless you can come up with one that makes sense to him, you'd better look elsewhere or content yourself with a "perfect romance," because from the way I read Ron, that's all he's going to offer you.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me if I am wrong for feeling put out when I drop in on some people for a little conversation and company and they turn the television on right in my face?

If I wanted to look at television, I could have stayed home and watched my own. Wouldn't you think people would have better manners? What is the matter with some folks anyhow?

PUT OUT

DEAR "PUT": The "matter with some folks" is that they don't view situations the same as other folks. It is also possible that unexpected "conversation and company" may not be as fascinating to a surprised host as the television program he may have planned to watch.

In other words, a "drop in" type guest would not feel put out if he'd call first.

DEAR ABBY: Is it true that if first cousins marry, their children will be crazy? The reason I want to know is because I am in love with my first cousin, and I have heard that this is true. In fact, I have even heard that it is AGAINST the law for first cousins to marry. Can you help me to get the facts? How about first cousins marrying if they promise not to have any children?

COUSIN LOVER

DEAR LOVER: In SOME states, it is against the law to marry one's first cousin. Ask a clergyman, or lawyer what the laws are in your state. Children of first cousins need not necessarily be "crazy" unless a hereditary-type insanity existed in the family and the children inherited it.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Rule Inspectors Have Right To Enter Plants

RALEIGH (AP)—A ruling by the North Carolina attorney general's office says that inspectors of the Board of Health have the right to enter any industrial plant to conduct studies of occupational disease hazards.

Dr. Martin P. Hines, director of the epidemiology division, said Thursday he was "very pleased to get the clear cut ruling. With this ruling we won't be tied down by restrictions."

The board had assumed it only had the right to enter a plant if AIOSKIE, N. C. (AP)—Five men are being held in Wilson County jail on bank robbery charges after $27,000 was taken from the Roxobel branch of Southern Bank & Trust Co.

The five were apprehended Thursday, four hours after the robbery and almost all the money was recovered.

An estimated 100 law officers swept into Aioskie after a policeman spotted a suspicious car and radioed a bulletin for help. Aioskie is in northeastern North Carolina near the Virginia line.

The five were identified by the Highway Patrol as Robert Rozemore, 18, of Kelford, near Roxobel and of Washington, D. C.; and Bernard Green, 24; Willie James Williams, also 24; Willie McCoy Freeman, 22; and Thomas Wallace, all of Washington.

They were captured after police radioed news of the robbery and a description of the getaway car to nearby police agencies.

When Aioskie policeman Jack Hardison met a suspicious car on the edge of town on U. S. 13 near the intersection with N. C. 350, he began to chase it. But the car stopped and the men fled into woods.

Within an hour, law officers had run down all five men—one in a ditch near the car, three about 1½ miles from the car and the fifth about 2½ miles from the vehicle.

Only one weapon—a sawed off .410 gauge shotgun—was found with the men, police said.

Officers found two caches of money in the woods, with about $15,000 in one and between $8,000 and $9,000 in the other.

Talmadge Barnes, cashier at the bank, said the robbery occurred at 10:05 a.m. when three or four men entered the bank and pointed guns at him, three customers and five women employees.

After ordering everyone in the bank to lie on the floor, he said, the robbers "cleaned out the drawers and then went to the vault."

Barnes said he and the other employees were locked in the vault, but customers called police and the chase began.

See Russian Navy Effort In Algeria

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A visit to Algeria by the Soviet Union's top admiral has raised the possibility the Russians are negotiating for use of a major base in the western Mediterranean.

Admiral S. F. G. Gorskoy's appearance in Algiers follows statements by U.S. admirals in Congress that the Russians appear to be seeking additional Mediterranean ports.

The Soviet navy, which currently has one of its largest forces ever in the Mediterranean, already has access to port facilities in Egypt and Syria. Like these two nations, Algeria considers itself a friend of the Soviet Union.

Use of the Mers-el-Kebir port near Oran would free the Soviet navy from reliance on at sea resupply and give them a refit and maintenance base in the western Mediterranean, similar to facilities available to them in the eastern area of the sea.

The Pentagon reported Thursday the Russian fleet in the Mediterranean increased over the past week by about 30 per cent.

About 60 surface warships, submarines and support vessels are now in the Mediterranean—the largest number in about seven months, officials said.

They read no special meaning into the development, discounting the likelihood it is connected with the current high tensions in the Israeli-Egyptian crisis.

The Soviets, once only a small presence in the vital Mediterranean near, have just about matched the size of the U.S. 6th Fleet there.

About half the Soviet warships mount surface-to-surface or anti-aircraft guided missiles, the Pentagon said.

For the first time, the Soviet has sent both of their helicopter carriers, the Moskva and the Leningrad, into the Mediterranean.

These are regarded basically as antisubmarine vessels.

The Moskva, Russia's first carrier, is cruising in the central Mediterranean and the Leningrad in the area near Greece.

The Pentagon also reported four of the vessels were flying the flags of Soviet admirals, an unusual number of senior Russian officers in that region.

The Pentagon said "We have no explanations to offer for their presence."
