One Of Many Quake Victims

EARTHQUAKE VICTIM — Body of man lies under rubble at Gediz, Turkey, after earthquake struck the town in western part of the country. The quake hit just before midnight Saturday.

Fires Continue To Burn Rubbled Town; Quake May Claim 1,000 Lives

By NICHOLAS S. LUDINGTON
Associated Press Writer

GEDIZ, Turkey (AP) — Fires continued to burn in shattered Gediz today despite rains that pelted the agricultural area devastated by an earthquake that claimed possibly 1,000 lives over the weekend.

Archeologists, troops and highway workers combed through the rubble for victims. New tremors shook the area, spreading panic among survivors.

The quake rumbled along the dangerous Anatolian Fault in western Turkey Saturday night. It flattened half of this town of 8,000 persons 150 miles south of Istanbul and devastated other towns and villages for miles around.

Survivors wandered in a daze through the smoldering rain-soaked ruins. Some wept for their lost families. Others were still numbed, their faces pale and blank.

Housing Minister Hayrettin Nakipoglu surveyed the area and estimated that 1,000 persons had died in Gediz and surrounding villages.

By Sunday night, 586 bodies had been found, and there were 460 injured counted.

Despite a steady rain, a whole district of Gediz was burning. An entire village nearby was also in flames, and the fires burned many bodies that had been placed next to the ruined houses where the deaths occurred.

The rain left a thick, greasy mud, hampering relief workers struggling to find the dead, treat the injured and free anyone still alive and buried under debris.

The ground shook periodically, reminding survivors that they lived in a zone traditionally beset by earth tremblings and quakes.

Tents sprang up in Gediz and environs to house the homeless.

In Eskisehir and Kutahya, two large cities near the disaster area, all the output of bakeries, including loaves still warm from the oven, was trucked to the quake survivors.

The road from Eskisehir and Kutahya was jammed with fire engines, trucks carrying relief supplies and trailers hauling bulldozers.

Passing them going the other way were dozens of ambulances and pickup trucks taking the injured to Kutahya.

The district administrator of Gediz telephoned the governor of neighboring Afyon province asking for help.

"The administrator was crying," the governor said. "He told me please to send equipment to move the rubble. I have sent all the heavy equipment in my district to Gediz."

Gov. Thsan Aras of Kutahya Province said he needed at least 7,000 tents to shelter the homeless. The Red Crescent relief organization sent in 2,300 tents, along with blankets, a 50-bed mobile hospital and other supplies.

In five previous quakes along the Anatolian Fault in the last five years, a total of 2,679 Turks have been killed. The worst tremor along the fault occurred in 1939, in the eastern province of Erzurum, when 30,000 were killed.

Cambodia Moving Toward Civil War As People Choosing Sides Over Leadership Of Sihanouk

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodia appears to be moving toward civil war as the nation chooses sides over the leadership of deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

Sihanouk was toppled as head of state on March 18 in a lightning constitutional coup and his stunned people have begun to react. Violent demonstrations have erupted in dozens of towns and villages.

In an attempt to check this movement, the army is trying to make a barrier of the Mekong River, which bisects the kingdom. No cars are allowed to cross on the river ferries, and only a few villagers now make the trip. Army troops guard all crossings, and gunboats dot the length of the river. Roads throughout the country are closed from dusk to dawn.

Troops are being moved into major trouble spots to quell demonstrations against the new government. Local police cannot be relied on, said one military captain in the provincial capital of Kompong Cham.

This has brought the army into confrontation with the people in several instances, and many Cambodians have been killed. In Kompong Cham, on the Mekong, troops opened fire last week after demonstrators killed two anti-Sihanouk national assemblymen. The troops killed 29 and wounded another 68. More dangerous for the new government's fragile hold on power, are reports from informed French sources that some army units are defecting to Sihanouk's side. These could not be confirmed.

Pro-Sihanouk elements in some cases apparently organized by the more disciplined Viet Cong, are striking back violently. The government pictures much of this as Viet Cong activity. Typical was the report by the government that three columns of Viet Cong troops were marching on Phnom Penh.

Instead, first-hand evidence gathered in the provinces shows that organized Sihanouk supporters are ready to march on the capital, not Viet Cong troops.

In the city of Kompong Cham, some 20,000 demonstrators supporting Sihanouk launched violent attacks on government offices last Thursday, gutting the governor's mansion and the courthouse. Two national assemblymen who backed the new regime were hacked to death. Army gunfire restored order, but troops patrol the streets now and machine-gun nests guard empty intersections. But pictures of Sihanouk still hang in front of virtually every shop and house.

The uprising at Kompong Cham, while the most violent reported so far, is not an isolated example.

Meanwhile, Cambodia's new leaders, facing mounting challenges from the Viet Cong and supporters of Sihanouk, asked other countries to use their influence to get North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops out of the country.

Radio Phnom Penh said the Foreign Ministry had called the attention of some of the diplomatic missions in the Cambodian capital "to the fact that the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese are violating the Geneva Agreements and their solemn engagements to respect the territorial integrity of Cambodia."

Bad Weather Adds To Problems

Air Controller Sick-Out Hurts

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The air controller sick-out, now in its sixth day, has cut further into air travel with the dispute deepening into legal moves, accusation, and apprehension over flight safety.

Easter weekend departures were delayed up to five-and-a-half-hours in the Northeast and Midwest, the areas hardest hit by the members of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers organization—PATCO—calling in sick. Bad weather added to the trouble on the northeastern runways and slowed buses, a popular alternative for the embattled air traveler.

New York's Kennedy International and surrounding metropolitan airport traffic was off 60 per cent. All major airlines, represented by the Air Transport Association of America, said the number of flight cancellations in general was rising with some 300 to 500 of 7,000 departures already scrubbed.

The Federal Aviation Administration had sent telegrams to controllers saying they would be suspended in 30 days if they did not return to work. Edward Williams, president of New York PATCO said his controllers "are ignoring to a man any telegrams sent to them."

In Philadelphia, chief controller Leo Marshall sketched further punitive action saying "actions to remove from service"—he did not elaborate further—were being taken against ten controllers involved in the slowdown.

Pilots employed by Trans World Airlines sent a telegram to President Nixon Sunday asking for immediate mediation of the dispute. They said, "pilot reports now indicate air traffic control problems have reached a critical level... our lives and the lives entrusted to us are being jeopardized."

But there still were no signs PATCO was ready to call off the slowdown that began last Wednesday. PATCO is protesting FAA positions on training rules, equipment and workloads.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe Sunday accused leaders of the PATCO sick-out of spreading false and misleading reports about air travel hazards.

President Nixon expressed appreciation to those controllers staying on the job at 350 airport control towers and 27 FAA flight radar operation centers.

John Shaffer, FAA administrator, said Sunday night the slowdown was a power struggle fought by PATCO to gain control of all six labor groups representing controllers.

The airlines, through their association, claimed the controllers' actions were causing the loss of millions of dollars and that they intended to file suit against the union in federal court.

PATCO's executive director, F. Lee Bailey called the suit "the most foolish thing I've ever heard."

Bailey said that of 8,400 controllers all told, 3,800 were off the job Saturday night. "There has been a decided expansion of the trend in the last 24 hours and I predict it will skyrocket," he said.

Money Remains Key Roadblock

WASHINGTON (AP) — Money was said to be the sole issue Monday for bargaining teams of the government and 650,000 postal workers.

Postmaster General Winton Blount has agreed with the seven postal unions that such issues as postal reorganization can wait for the moment.

Both sides have declined to reveal their opening wage positions.

Individual unions have talked of a 20 per cent wage boost. Estimates of what the administration might accept range from six per cent to 11.1 per cent.

Months ago the Letter Carriers Union asked a retroactive boost of 12 per cent, another boost in July, and regional living cost adjustments.

Bargainers talk of an early settlement. One union leader said there would be a repeat of the wildcat walkouts if a settlement has not been reached by Thursday. Other union leaders have not supported his statement.

The negotiators met three times last week. By government request a Saturday session was called off.

The administration is sensitive to the effect a postal wage hike will have on pay demands of other government workers.

Members of Congress have said that all civil service employees and the military should get the same wage boost finally accepted by the postal workers.

Wreck Injured Maria von Trapp

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — The mother of the famed singing von Trapp family, hospitalized after a recent automobile accident, had a happy holiday Sunday.

Maria von Trapp, 65, is at Mary Fletcher Hospital recovering from a fractured arm and ribs.

Students Begin A Mass Exodus

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Students poured out the thousands from Daytona and Fort Lauderdale beaches Sunday night at the start of a mass exodus that ended a week-long Easter vacation.

More than 100,000 youths flocked to Daytona Beach Easter Sunday before hitting the road northward to return to campus.

Police said the annual student influx also reached a peak at Fort Lauderdale Beach over the weekend. An estimated 25,000 sampled the mixture of water and sunshine.

Murder Conviction 'Thrown Out' For Shorter Sentence

LONG BINH, Vietnam (AP) — A U.S. military court today threw out its murder conviction of 1st Lt. James B. Duffy because it didn't realize the conviction carried a mandatory life sentence, and found him guilty on two counts of manslaughter.

The court said it would sentence the 23-year-old officer from Claremont, Calif., Tuesday. The maximum prison sentence he could get is six years.

The court found Duffy guilty of involuntary manslaughter and conspiracy to commit involuntary manslaughter in the killing of a Vietnamese prisoner of war last Sept. 5.

Duffy's civilian attorney, Henry Rothblatt of New York, said earlier that the court's shift was a "nice chance to take the Army off the hook" and that he would view a manslaughter conviction as an acquittal.

The court on Sunday found Duffy guilty of conspiring with Sgt. John R. Lanasa, 23, of Baton Rouge, La., to kill a Vietnamese prisoner of war last Sept. 5. Lanasa, who is charged with firing the fatal shots, will go on trial soon.

After the murder verdict was returned, the president of the court, Col. Robert W. Selton, said no member of the court was aware that the life sentence was mandatory. Military law allowed the court to reconsider the verdict, and it decided to do so.

"How do we overlook these things?" the court's military judge, or legal adviser, Col. Peter S. Wondolowski, asked Rothblatt.

"Your Honor, anything can happen in Vietnam," replied the noted criminal lawyer, who was introduced to the local legal situation as the attorney for several of the defendants in the Green Beret murder case.

"Well, I'm a free man—until tomorrow, anyway," said Duffy, who had admitted approving the killing and then telling his superior officer that the prisoner was shot trying to escape.

Majority Hopeful

NEW YORK (AP) — A Louis Harris poll conducted for Time magazine indicates that the "vast majority" of Negroes in the nation "want to work through the existing system" to improve their lot.

The poll, released Sunday by Time, shows, however, that 9 per cent of the nation's black population—roughly two million persons—consider themselves "revolutionaries" and believe that a "readiness to use violence" will further their position.

Over the last four years, the poll showed that those who believe blacks "will probably have to resort to violence to win rights" had risen from 21 per cent to 31 per cent of the Negro population. Among Negro teenagers, the figure was 40 per cent.

The poll of 1,255 blacks across the nation showed that 64 per cent of those queried believe "things are getting better than they were four or five years ago."

At Least 15 Died In N.C. Accidents

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 15 persons died in North Carolina traffic accidents over the Easter weekend.

The toll for the year rose to 334, or 14 fewer than in the corresponding period last year.

Three persons died in one accident and two in another. Six were fatally injured when their cars slammed into trees.

The collision of two cars on N. C. 58 near Walstonburg 12 miles southeast of Wilson killed two Camp Lejeune Marines and a civilian, Robert Lee Ingram, 42, of Washington, D. C.

The marines were Daniel Scarfo, 20, of Somerville, Mass., and Lawrence John Schubitzki, 21, of Esko, Minn.

An accident 10 miles north of North Wilkesboro, near his home at McGrady, killed Robert Shepherd Jr., 32, and Nancy Carol Johnson, 18, of North Wilkesboro. Their car hit a tree and both were thrown from the vehicle.

Four other persons were killed when their cars ran off rural roads and hit trees.

They were Paul Steven Smith, 18, of Rt. 1, Clemmons, in a crash near Winston - Salem; James Harold Hilburn, 30, of Raleigh, in a wreck 6 miles east of Raleigh; Tommy Ray Lowery Jr., 17, of St. Pauls, in an accident near that Robeson County town; and Douglas O. Carroll, 19, in a wreck near his home south of Burnsville.

Hilda Faye Newsome, 43, of King near Winston - Salem was killed when the car in which she was riding collided with another on a rural road in Stokes County.

William Wayne Isaacs, 15, of Hampton, Va., was struck and killed by a car while he was walking on N. C. 731 near Candor in Montgomery County.

Lonnie Ray Shuffler, 21, of Rt. 7, Morganton, was fatally injured in the collision of two cars four miles north of Morganton.

Linda S. Smith, 14, was killed when a car overturned near her hometown of Waynesville.

George Damon Wyatt, 42, of Gastonia, lost his life when his car hit a bridge abutment on U. S. 29 in Charlotte.

Pete Sauls of Rt. 3, Elm City, died when the farm tractor he was driving overturned on him on a rural road 13 miles east of Wilson.

Court Rejects Appeal Of Nat'l Guard Dropout

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court rejected today the appeal of a Minnesota man who dropped out of the National Guard claiming he is a conscientious objector to the Vietnam war and now faces trial as a deserter.

The court turned down the petition of Darwin Earl Schultz, 28, of New Brighton, without commenting on his legal claims.

After more than three years service in the guard, Schultz stopped attending drills in 1967 and in 1968 was ordered to report to active Army duty for a period of more than a year and a half.

When Schultz did not report to Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., he was arrested as a deserter.

Kidnapping Of Russians Is Foiled

BUENOS AIRES (AP) —

Four young men failed in an attempt to kidnap two Russian diplomats Sunday night, apparently to retaliate for the kidnapping last week of a non-Communist diplomat by a left-wing Argentine organization.

A patrolman opened fire as the kidnapers tried to drive off with their captives in a Soviet Embassy limousine. The shots smashed the rear window of the limousine and apparently wounded both diplomats and kidnapers.

Unconfirmed reports said the Soviet commercial attaché, Ivan N. Diakov, was one of the diplomats.

Beyond confirming that a kidnap had been attempted and had failed, the police and an embassy spokesman declined to give any information.

But a little-known right-wing organization called "Mano" hand-issued a communique describing the four kidnapers as "heroes."

Police said the Foreign Ministry would have to study the case before they could make any statement. But Alberto Gonzalez Magno, chief of a local police office, denied a report that one of the injured kidnapers had been identified by a hospital nurse as a federal policeman.

Witnesses said the four young men, brandishing weapons, stopped the diplomats as they were garaging the embassy limousine after an outing with their wives and children.

The women and children were forced out of the car, and the terrorists started to drive off with the diplomats.

Will Return Hijacked Ship

PHNOM PENH (AP) — The Cambodian government has decided to return the hijacked ammunition ship Columbia Eagle to the United States.

Gen. Lon Nol, the premier, told newsmen at his home Sunday that the ship could leave "at anytime."

He then qualified it to say Cambodia was asking a neutral country to assist. He said the government is considering asking India's help in turning back the ship loaded with bombs bound for Thailand.

Thirteen crewmen plus Capt. Donald O. Swann have been held incommunicado since the ship was hijacked two weeks ago and brought into Cambodian waters by two young seamen.

CHICAGO (AP) — It wasn't what he took but what he left that was the downfall Sunday of an alleged burglar.

Nathaniel Williams Jr. of Chicago was charged with attempted burglary after a wallet, allegedly belonging to Williams, was found in the office of a Loop attorney.

Compete To Make Music

UNION GROVE, N. C. (AP) — The generations melded in common enjoyment of open air country music this weekend as music makers twanged, sawed and huffed their way through the annual Old Time Fiddlers Convention.

Raw and ruddy country virtuosos made music with bearded college students.

The competition at Union Grove 20 miles north of Statesville was started in 1924 by H. P. Van Hoy, now 83 years old.

It has for years drawn crowds of music loving spectators and contestants who spend their Easter weekend dipping into Southern culture in a town that Van Hoy describes as "as far from anywhere that you can be."

Two contests ran simultaneously this year, J. Pierce Van Hoy and his brother Harper, sons of H. P., had a difference of policy so each held his own convention. Harper ran his at Fiddlers Grove, a year-round musical compound he operates on his farm, and Pierce held his on his 77-acre farm.

Is Divorce Paper Valid If Unsigned?

By Abigail Van Buren

(c. 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Most people believe their problems are unique, and I am no exception. A little over a year ago, my wife of 20 years sued me for divorce. For some time prior to that, I had been suspicious of her extra-curricular activities and hired private detectives to report on her behavior outside the home. A clean slate was the result. I failed to realize that the search for the "other man" could have begun and ended in my own living room!

Before the divorce was final, she left this state. I didn't sign any final divorce papers and neither did she. Three months later she married her STEPBROTHER! [That is where my living room enters the picture.]

The question is, am I still married to this weirdo? And if so, is she a bigamist? The financial beating I took as a result of the divorce action makes it impossible for me to secure legal advice. In short, where do I stand in the event I decide to remarry in the future?

Signed: "IN LIMBO"

DEAR IN: Your local Legal Aid society provides legal advice for those who need it and can't afford to pay. If you are still married to the "weirdo" who married her stepbrother, she is indeed a bigamist which is HER problem, not yours. But don't YOU marry again until you are certain your present marriage is dissolved, or you will be a bigamist, too.

DEAR ABBY: What would you do if you saw a neighbor who lives in the same apartment building and uses the same laundry room wearing one of your new blouses? I must admit it looks much better on her than it looked on me, but I did like it a lot. If I see her wearing it again, would it be rude of me to say, "My, that looks just like a blouse I used to have about two weeks ago—until I hung it in the laundry room?"

J. W. IN PORTLAND

DEAR J. W.: You may not have to say anything after this hits print, but you are certainly within your rights to ask your neighbor to either produce proof that she purchased that blouse or to give it back—if you are absolutely sure it's yours, that is.

DEAR ABBY: The following letter appeared in your column recently:

"Dear Abby, Is it possible for a man to be in love with two women at the same time? [signed] JAKE"

You replied: "Dear Jake, Yes, and it's also hazardous."

Well, tell Jake that it's possible for one of the women to love him enough to remove the hazard by walking out of his life. I did.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Lou D. Umphlett of Bell Arthur and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton H. Sutton of Farmville.

Marion D. Lark officiated at the double ring ceremony. A program of nuptial music was presented by Hazel Gray, organist, and Dana Paul Oakley, soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by Jesse V. Umphlett. She wore a formal gown of scalloped acetate nylon chantilly lace. The gown was designed with cascading ruffles which sweep into a cathedral train. The sabrina neckline featured pearled chantilly lace scallops.

Her elbow length veil of illusion was attached to a matching lace headpiece. She carried a bridal bouquet of white flowers.

Miss Lola Umphlett of Bell Arthur was maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of chiffon over satin of lavender designed with long full sleeves. She carried a bouquet of orchid chrysanthemums.

Bridesmaids were Amanda James, Connie Baker, Jackie Tyndall and Jo Ann Little, all of Farmville. They wore street length dresses of pink chiffon over satin with long full sleeves. They carried bouquets of orchid chrysanthemums.

Miss Cora Beth Jenkins of Benson was flower girl. She was dressed in a white street length dress with fitted bodice and A-line skirt. She carried a basket filled with flower petals.

Lester Wells of Farmville was best man. Ushers were Danny Griffis and Louis Willoughby, both of Farmville. Bobby R. Flake Jr. of Farmville was ring bearer.

Following a wedding trip to the coast, the couple will reside in Chestertown, Md., where the bridegroom is stationed with the U.S. Army.

An after-rehearsal party was held Friday night following the rehearsal in the church fellowship hall. Hostesses were Mrs. Lou D. Umphlett and Mrs. Clifford L. Sullivan.

For an unusual arrangement for the centerpiece of a holiday table, use dried milkweed pods sprayed with gold or copper paint. Arrange them with small tree branches (sprayed white or silver), pine cones and evergreen boughs.

If the Shoe Fits...

BY
AVERETTE

Pronation, what is it?

One of the most common foot disorders among children, and adults as well, is pronation — the inward or outward tilting of the foot. The early symptoms are that the shoes quickly lose their shape and are usually run over at the sides. The shoes wear out rapidly because of the pressure on the sides of the shoes which breaks them down. The ankle bone usually tilts inward causing gapping shoes.

Children's feet usually will not hurt in the early stages of pronation but they may complain that their feet are tired. If pronation is not corrected over several years, not only tiredness, but pain will develop. A young lady will have difficulty wearing flat type dress shoes and also high heels. Her ankles usually will be swollen so that her feet cease to look pretty.

If pronation continues beyond a few months, a foot checkup by a qualified doctor is definitely recommended. If left untended, serious disorders may result and continue throughout life.

Robberies Tied To Narcotics

Charles Dunn, director of the State Bureau of Investigation, has pointed out a fact that may not be surprising concerning armed robberies.

He said the sharp rise in armed robberies in the state during January and February was due to an increase in drug use.

Dunn estimated that there were 200 armed robberies in North Carolina during the two month period. There were less than 200 in the corresponding period last year.

Several of the armed robberies this year were committed by persons on drugs, Dunn noted.

He cautioned store clerks and attendants against trying to halt robberies. "If a man's mean enough to rob you, he's mean enough to kill you," Dunn said. "You're dealing with people who are extremely nervous or perhaps high on drugs."

The SBI director urged those held up to be observant so they can supply a description of the robbers and their car.

It seems that wherever the traffic in illegal drugs increases, so too, does the number of armed robberies. Obviously a man who is addicted to a drug will do anything to get the funds to pay the pushers. For many so crazed, robbery at the point of the gun is the easiest way.

Evidence is mounting that drug trafficking is on the increase in North Carolina. As the drugs increase the armed robberies, break-ins and petty thefts will increase, as addicts seek the funds needed to support their addiction. This in itself is reason enough for strong campaigns by law enforcement agencies to wipe out illegal drug traffic.

Old Scene Of Joys, Sorrows

Today's guest column was written for N.C. Association of Afternoon Dailies by Holt McPherson, Editor of the High Point Enterprise.

POINT CLEAR, ALA.

Here for the midwinter meeting of the SNPA directorate, we find this "queen of Southern resorts" reeking with history.

Point Clear has been the scene of such romances, tragedies, joys and sorrows that it has a history so varied and so teeming with interesting events that only a brief outline is possible here.

The first Grand Hotel was built in 1847 by a Mr. Chamberlain, who owned extensive lands from which he had lumber cut for the construction. It was moved by sailboats across Mobile Bay. Parts of the original building were used as a hospital during the Civil War.

The Ginnison House, two doors from the present hotel, is almost as old as the hotel itself. It bears the mark of a shell fired from Admiral Farragut's ship on August 5, 1865.

During the Civil War, the 21st Alabama Regiment encamped on grounds just east of the hotel. Some 150 soldiers who died there are buried in the Point Clear cemetery, located just off the 9th tee of the beautiful Lakewood Golf Club.

Fire destroyed the hotel and left only the Texas building standing, around 1870. The hotel was not rebuilt until some five or so years later by Captain Baldwin, whose son-in-law, George Johnson, was treasurer of the state of Louisiana. He took an active part in the reconstruction and a assumed charge of the hotel after Baldwin's death. The material came from Pearl River, Louisiana, the furnishings from New Orleans.

During the 1890s, Point Clear became again the center of the most brilliant social life to be found in the Deep South. During the "season", the Grand Hotel II was the scene of great festivity. Boats filled with pleasure seekers from Mobile and New Orleans docked at the hotel pier amid the flying pennants and white sails of the regattas; carriages and tandem bicycles dashed in and out the drives; blaring bands and picnickers milled about the great lawns.

The present Grand Hotel was rebuilt in 1939, opening in 1941. Several cottages on the grounds were since provided. During World War II the hotel was closed, while the property was turned over to the Mobile Air Service command for use as a Marine Training School. The rental was $1 for the period of use during which no shoes were worn in the building, thus preserving the pine floors from damage.

Tragedy struck when Hurricane Camille piled in and destroyed so much in the bayou county, but Point Clear has lost none of its charm and graciousness of its predecessor Grands Hotels.

Point Clear is approached from the east via Pensacola over modern highways through moss-draped live oaks, across rivers and streams in that wonderland which is called Stephen Foster country. In truth, that composer never even saw it, but the Suwannee is the prototype of picturesque streams, a gentle river rising in the Okefenokee Swamp to sweep through north and central Florida into the Gulf of Mexico. A trip through North Florida tells one that it is a four-season state, embellished with historical events that make it a different world from that of the glittering resorts to the South.

Spring was breaking out beautifully around Gainesville and up through historic Tallahassee (some 700 miles removed from the Florida peninsula's southernmost tip) and into Pensacola en route to Point Clear ablaze with flowers — even bright yellow daffodils were raising their heads, while the Judas tree brightened the scene as fruit trees flowered with promise of apples, peaches and pears to come. Weather was so beautiful that the topcoat and raincoat carried as precaution never had to be removed from the car.

Returning via Montgomery and Atlanta, we couldn't help being impressed with the way highways and thoroughways have been built through — and around — cities not as large as High Point. We bypassed Atlanta on a marvelous expressway that linked together and served four separate Interstate highways leading into that city already claiming to be the hub of the South. They still have a lot of rural road building to do in Georgia, for Atlanta, with forethought and vigorous planning, has claimed so much of the road money that it has geared itself for business and industry that created 160,000 new jobs during a past decade that saw its population exceed the million mark.

At Eau Gallie, Florida, we encountered an interesting story of how school children of Rutland, Vermont, got rid of some of their excess snow earlier this year by shipping 200 snowballs, wrapped in styrofoam and packed in dry ice, to Eau Gallie, where most of the children had never seen a flake of snow. The Eau Gallies, bless 'em, responded by sending 200 Florida oranges to the children of Rutland. Now isn't that a bargain showing Yankee ingenuity?

Inequities Should Get Immediate Attention

Most of the nation's postal workers are back to work and they are properly moving the mails. This was the first postal strike since the service was founded and it should be the last.

The postal workers should never be allowed to walk off their jobs and bring to a halt something so vital as movement of the nation's mail.

On the other hand Congress and postal authorities and the president should be looking carefully to determine the reasons why postal workers were willing to walk off in the face of court actions.

Steps should be taken immediately to correct the inequities which must be there. This will cost money to be sure, but at the same time we must begin now to modernize the post office department to make it more efficient.

The department is years behind the times and the cost can be measured in cash and efficiency.

Mobile's Mess Over Schools

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
MOBILE, Ala.

Wholesale reshuffling of Mobile's county wide school system under Supreme Court edict a mere 40 school days before summer vacation has only added to the deepening pessimism over the future of public schools here.

To Mobile's white community and, privately, to some Negro leaders as well, it makes no sense to transfer students and actually close two schools so late in the school year in the interests of racial balance. Yet, that is precisely what happened last week when the school board exhausted legal remedies to escape the Supreme Court's mandate.

That's not all. More litigation lies ahead with the NAACP Legal Defense Fund pushing for better racial balance through busing and other devices. Only faintly reassured by President Nixon's anti-busing strictures (which the courts do not have to heed), white school officials fear the worst in the next round of legal wrangling.

"I don't see any end to it," school board member Charles McNeil told us, adding he felt the federal government eventually would have to take over the shattered remnants of Mobile's school system. Dr. Cranford Burns, Mobile school superintendent for 18 years, predicted the devolution of public schools here into "pauper schools" for poor whites and poor blacks with more affluent children attending private schools.

applications for Mobile's private schools are swelling, and resegregation of recently integrated schools is well underway. Partly because of the school furor, what was once Alabama's most racially progressive city is racially polarized.

Visitors to this city from elsewhere, in Alabama are appalled by intensified anti-Negro feeling. The most forceful leadership in the black community here has passed from NAACP to a leftist-oriented group called NOW (for Neighborhood Organization of Workers). Opposition from the Wallaceite right and a boycott by NOW contributed to last year's defeat for reelection of Mayor Joseph Langan, a leading Deep South progressive.

Thus, Mobile is a laboratory case of the horrors of school desegregation in a Southern metropolitan area. The approaching conflict here suggests that a basic change by the courts, perhaps along Mr. Nixon's new anti-busing guidelines, may be the only remedy.

This does not alter the undeniable reality that Mobile school authorities have dragged their feet on desegregation. Whether this was necessary to avoid bloodshed in the street (as school officials privately claim) or only added to the climate of uncertainty (as one school-board member privately admits) is debatable.

In any event, after three years of legal skirmishing which has preoccupied school administrators here, the Mobile school system is now

Strength For Today

TOGETHER

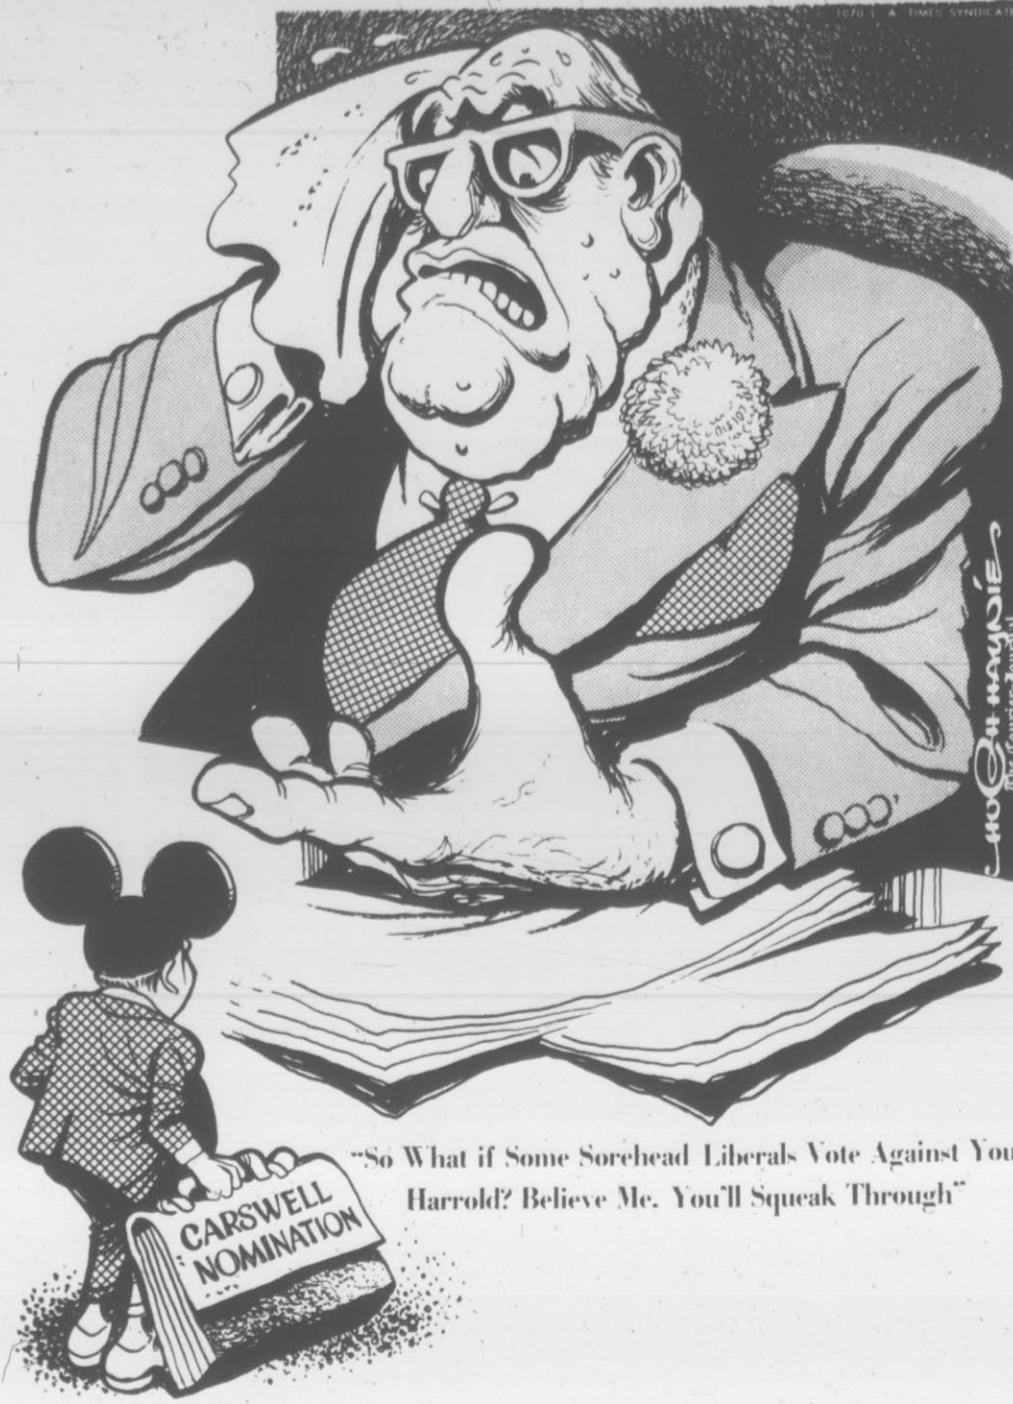

We have all heard the story of the burdenbearers in a caravan in Africa who refused one day to go any farther, saying: "We have been traveling entirely too fast until our bodies have got ahead of our souls and we are going to wait here for a day or two until our souls catch up with us."

Some time ago a man rushed down the steps of a New York subway, stumbling the last four or five and only by a miracle landing on his feet at the bottom. Then rushing to the fast-closing door of the subway, he pried it open and tucked himself into an already overcrowded car. What was all the rush about? Well, of course, nobody who was watching him knew. But we all suspected that he didn't know either. It had become a habit for him to keep going at that pace. It appeared that nothing made him more frantic than to see a subway door closing if he was within a hundred feet of it, or a bus starting off if he was less than a half block away.

Composure is rare, and when we see it in face and demeanor we behold it with awe. Some people actually have it, even in these frantic days in which we live. And they have it because their bodies and souls have decided to live together till death do them part.

The Mediocre Society

WASHINGTON — There seems to be no end to the Judge Carswell debate. The main charge against the jurist is that he wasn't a very outstanding judge on the federal bench. To support this charge, Carswell opponents maintain that he was reversed 59 percent on all his decisions, a record that few federal judges can equal. The sad part of it all is that the men defending Judge Carswell are not saying that Judge Carswell is a superior person, but are supporting him on the grounds that it is about time we had a mediocre judge on the Supreme Court. Sen. Hruska said at a news conference, "There are lots of mediocre judges and people and lawyers. They are entitled to a little representation, aren't they?" And Sen. Russell Long, another Carswell defender, has said the United States needs a "B" student or a "C" student instead of an "A" student on the Supreme Court.

It came as no surprise to me when I was invited to attend the opening of the national headquarters of the Society for a Mediocre America.

It was located in a very second-rate neighborhood, and after walking two flights up, I found myself in a dull room where volunteers were at work sending out folders in support of Judge Carswell. On the walls were large posters of the judge, which read, "Ask the impossible and he'll do the ordinary."

Simon Listless, the executive director of the Society for a Mediocre America, said, "I'm so glad you got your invitation. Our volunteers are a very unexceptional group, and I believe they got the dates all loused up. Everyone who was sent an invitation received it for a different date."

"How are things going?" I asked. "All right, I guess. Of course, we can't expect much with the inadequate people we have working here."

"What are you trying to do with your society?" "We're trying to organize the mediocre people in America to support Judge Carswell. We feel that they should be represented on the Supreme Court. Sen. Hruska gave us the idea, and we're running with it. There are a lot more mediocre people in America."

Dispute At 'Shouting Stage'

By ELMER ROESSNER

The dispute between the United States textile industry and the democratic nations of Asia has reached a shouting stage.

Japan, the major exporter of finished garments to the United States, has balked at a negotiated treaty to set limits on exports to us. In consequence, American textile manufacturers and garment-takes up trade legislation.

Hackles Rise The American Textile Manufacturers, meeting in San Francisco, called for immediate end to negotiations with Japan and immediate action in Congress to limit textile imports. Speakers denounced "the uncompromising attitude of Japan."

In New York's garment center, thousands of workers have demonstrated, crying for action by the government.

In Washington, 500 delegates representing 45 unions, called upon the government to stop the loss of jobs by limiting imports not only of textiles but of steel and other products that are causing layoffs of American workers.

Also in Washington, both Senators and Representatives sounded off in demands for action to protect workers in their states who were being laid off because of imports.

In Wilmington, Du Pont joined the chorus. Charles B. McCoy, president, said he had been "disappointed and disillusioned" by lack of progress in the textile talks with Japan. Du Pont has a big stake in synthetic fibers. By 1980, McCoy predicted, American consumers would buy at least 50 per cent more textile products and two-thirds of the estimated 16 billion pounds would be synthetics.

War of Nerves? Some observers see the turmoil as a war of nerves. Japan, they say, will eventually agree to quotas but is displaying recalcitrance in an effort to get the best deal possible. The American textile industry would also prefer quotas to tariffs, but also wants the best deal.

Japan has one sound argument: she is one of America's best customers for cotton and restrictions on cotton garments in America will mean a cut in cotton

Cancer Hits One In Four

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

"Cancer will strike one in four Americans now living, according to present rates; and will strike over the years approximately two out of three American families."

These chilling words are quoted in the first paragraph of a proclamation signed Friday by Mayor Frank M. Wooten Jr. declaring "the month of April as Cancer Control Month in the City of Greenville."

The mayor signed the proclamation in the presence of three of the chairwomen who will be active in fund-raising activities planned locally for the month of April.

Miss Adie Gore, chairwoman of the County Schools Division, and co-chairwomen of the Residential Committee, Mrs. W. I. Wooten, Jr. and Mrs. Gene T. Skinner discussed their plans with Mayor Wooten. Mrs. Natalie Clark, publicity chairman, was also present for the proclamation signing.

The proclamation acknowledges that "local volunteers will conduct an educational and fund-raising campaign during April to help the Society's education and service programs to save lives and relieve the suffering of cancer patients."

Mayor Wooten added "It cannot be overemphasized that such a program is very important, as it affects all of us in Greenville in a very real and urgent manner."

Mrs. Clark noted that "large part of funds collected come back to the county for local use. Extensive cancer research is carried on in North Carolina, at Duke University, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and at Wake Forest."

Mrs. Clark mentioned that "because of cut-backs in federal funds, it is more urgent than ever that widespread community support throughout the nation be given the drive. This is essential," she continued, "to even maintain the level of research now being conducted."

Miss Gore pointed out that anyone desiring brochures and information on cancer should contact Mrs. Robert Messner, executive secretary of the local chapter of the American Cancer Society. The society is located at Five Points in the State Bank Building at Five Points.

She also noted that in the county schools educational material in the form of films, charts, posters and other material were being incorporated into the schools' health program.

Beginning in early April, volunteer fund collectors will be appearing in communities throughout Greenville and Pitt County in an effort to raise funds for this cause.

Royal Family Finishes Visit

SYDNEY (AP) — An Easter Sunday service at Waitangi Treaty House completed a three-week visit to New Zealand by Queen Elizabeth II, her husband Prince Philip and their two oldest children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

The royal family arrived by air in a rainstorm today to spend five weeks in Australia. They were greeted by heavy rain and high winds.

desegregated by Northern big city standards—more so, for example, than Chicago. Forty schools are "desegregated" (that is, each is at least 10 per cent minority) and 48 are "segregated" (less than 10 per cent). Moreover, several schools are close to half - and - half in racial balance.

Thanks to segregated housing patterns (aggravated by Federal housing projects), the present de facto segregation in the center city can be broken only by long - distance busing of students, the highly controversial step now requested of the Federal courts. Even without this, however, resegregation of presently integrated schools is underway as higher income whites change neighborhoods or send their children to private schools.

Given this festering situation, it is no surprise that black separatist leader Roy Innis of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) picked Mobile as a pilot project for his scheme of separate and autonomous white and black school districts to substitute for integration. The Innis formula is sweet music both for the NOW black militants and rank - and - file white segregationists (who express their approval in radio phone in programs here).

But the white leadership here is deeply skeptical whether the plan could ever work and apprehensive about black militants controlling academic policies and curricula for Mobile's Negro children. Aside from a 15-minute chat with CORE officials, Superintendent Burns has not studied the Innis plan and board members have shown no interest in it. "To me, it's straight communist doctrine," McNeil told us.

Thus Innis black separatism is scarcely seen here as the salvation of the public school system. Rather, school authorities want relief from incessant legal attempts at complete desegregation regardless of housing patterns — a respite they say is necessary to improve the quality of education. The improbability of any such pause accounts for their pervading pessimism.

the United States than anyone wants to admit."

"But why Judge Carswell?"

"Well, for one thing, he's known nationally as an unexceptional judge, and he's continually done nothing to make himself noteworthy in the legal profession. Carswell has a countless list of unremarkable qualities, and he represents everything that we stand for: sincerity, honesty and mediocrity."

"Why are they fighting his appointment if he's all you say he is?"

"There's a certain segment of America that is opposed to mediocrity in the courts. They want their Supreme Court justices to be 'A' students, instead of 'B' and 'C' students."

"They can't stand to see a fair - to - middling person appointed by the President of the United States. They can't tolerate people who are no great shakes at their jobs."

"Have you been getting a good response to your Judge Carswell campaign?"

"And what is your

"Carswell should be confirmed for the Supreme Court if for no other reason than he's the second - best man for the job."

Winn-Dixie Store's Grand Opening Slated Tuesday

J.A. MOORE

SONNY BOLICK

W.A. CASE

KEN WIGGINS

Grand opening of the new Winn-Dixie Store on Greenville Boulevard has been set for Tuesday and personnel at the new facility are busy adding finishing touches to the numerous interior features. Store manager J. A. Moore, who has been with the Winn-Dixie firm for 12 years, said that most of the store's stock has been put in and everything was pointing toward a successful opening. The new facility, termed comparable in size to other stores of the Winn-Dixie chain, is the second to be located in Greenville. Another store is located on Tenth Street. Moore, a statesville native, began his affiliation with the firm in his home town and was associated with the Clarksville, Va., store before coming to Greenville. The Moore family moved here in December.

Serving with Moore as assistant manager will be Sonny Bolick, a Danville, Va. native and four-year veteran with Winn-Dixie. Bolick, who also began working with the chain while living in his home town, said his main job would involve all areas of merchandise stock.

Bolick said that the store has a total of 14 aisles in addition to the meat department and various other food sections.

A Greenville native, W. A. Case, will serve as market manager for the store's meat department. Case began with Winn-Dixie at the Tenth Street market and has been with the firm for five years.

Ken Wiggins, originally from Goldsboro, will handle the produce line at the new center. Wiggins comes to Greenville after working with Winn-Dixie stores in New Bern and more recently, Washington.

While in Washington, Wiggins served as assistant manager. He has been with the chain for five years.

W. J. Bell is supervisor of the new store and C. T. Golden is the area supervisor.

Winn-Dixie, with close to 600 stores in its southern - state operation alone, had its beginning in the mid 1920's in Miami, Fla.

William "Papa" Davis and his four sons opened a single store on borrowed capital, survived the latter part of the Florida land boom, and by 1939 had opened some 40 stores.

In December of 1939, the stock of W. R. Lovett of Winn; Lovett Grocery Company was purchased followed by the purchase of 31 Steiden stores in 1945. In 1949, 49 Margaret Ann Stores were bought.

A merger with the Dixie Home

Stores of Greenville, S. C. was finalized in 1955, incorporating an additional 150 stores located mainly in the Carolinas.

In 1956, some 42 of the Hill Stores in New Orleans were purchased and today over 780 Winn-Dixie and Quik Chek retail stores are operated in all of the Southeastern states except Tennessee.

The facility will handle more than 20,000 items. A new idea in refrigerated display will be incorporated in the store involving "stand-up" cases for quick access to food products.

The new store has over 17,500 square feet of floor space.

Health Industry Taking 7 Per Cent Of Our GNP

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Health is now nearly a $61 billion industry, a giant that accounts for nearly 7 per cent of our gross national product and seems headed toward 10 per cent. But the giant is not healthy.

That enormous size—five times the size of 1950 and 15 times that of 1930—does not indicate strength; much of it is fat and waste and inefficiency. Shrink it and it would be stronger.

That, however, is not easy. Cut costs and you stand accused of cutting lives short. A manufacturer might reach a compromise between quality and price; a hospital never can.

But, says Walter McNeerney, president of the Blue Cross Association, a reduction in costs could be accomplished without any reduction in quality. "We are not living at the qualitative edge," he said in an interview.

"I don't worry about a deterioration of quality," he continued. "There is fat in the system and it's everybody's fault. We

Sunday Saw 2 Accidents

More than $900 property damage was reported by Greenville police in two traffic accidents here yesterday.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 6:20 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Chestnut Street and Columbia Avenue which involved vehicles driven by Rebecca Monley Sanders, of 807 Fleming St. and Kibby Ray Hudson, 30, of 2123 Village Dr.

Officers, who charged Mrs. Sanders with failing to stop for a stop sign set damage at $200 to the Sanders car and $300 to the Hudson vehicle.

Alice Chaffin Williams of 1612 Sulgrave Rd. was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of an 11 a.m. mishap on Elm Street 400 feet South of the Brookgreen Avenue intersection.

Police reported the Williams vehicle and a car driven by Anna Bonner Harrington of 909 Greenville Blvd. collided and caused an estimated $400 damage to the Harrington car and about $40 damage to the Williams auto.

must figure a way of intervening with some discipline."

McNeerney's contention—that the high cost of hospital care is not so much an effect of need and demand as it is of inefficiency and mismanagement—is supported by considerable evidence.

A study several years ago by New York Blue Cross revealed that among 22 nonprofit hospitals in the city, basic costs for "hotel services," primarily room and board, ranged from $17.38 to $32.01.

Hospitals also appear to be utilized wastefully. People often are admitted for diagnosis or treatment that could be performed in a doctor's office. Aged, chronically ill patients occupy expensive rooms in hospitals instead of nursing homes.

"If a bed is added to a hospital it will be filled," McNeerney said, explaining that the addition of hospital wings with more beds really doesn't solve a problem as much as it might contribute to it.

Occupancy, he said, is not a good measure. "It doesn't indicate an attempt to save a life so much as convenience."

A recent report from the Health, Education and Welfare Department stated:

"... beds are filled with these patients who don't need to be there, and hospitals build more beds to accommodate more of them, and costs keep on going up, in a senseless spiral that has been repeating itself for years."

If the continuing increases reached 10 per cent of the gross national product, McNeerney said, "it will be a disaster." Costs, he said, must be "boxed in." How? McNeerney suggested these possibilities:

—Franchising of hospitals by the state. This would help control the chaos that results when facilities are built without any analyses of the needs of residents. Some examples from the HEW report:

—Two new hospitals, both half empty, within a few blocks of each other in one city neighborhood; half a dozen hospitals in another city equipped and staffed for open heart surgery, where the number of cases would barely keep one of the centers busy."

—Development of data on unit costs. This, McNeerney believes, is an immediately promising area. Computer breakdowns of costs would give a guide to the comparative efficiency of institutions and the doctors who work in them.

—Changes in the method of payment. "Put the hospitals on their mettle. Make them predict what they will be able to live within." In the absence of a competitive market, McNeerney said, a simulated one must be created.

Developing this point, McNeerney said he believes there could be a resurgence in group medicine, a practice that frowned upon by some doctors and the associations that represent them.

Group medicine, as McNeerney pictures it, involves associations of doctors possessing complementary skills to which patients would pay a fixed annual fee and receive in return whatever medical care they need.

Since the patient's payment would automatically be limited, it is assumed that the doctors will have an incentive not only to keep the patient well, but to utilize the most efficient treatments when he is ill.

"We're going to begin embracing this concept," McNeerney said.

Ailing Brewster Enters Hospital

BALTIMORE (AP)—Ailing Daniel B. Brewster, 46, former U.S. senator from Maryland who is under federal indictment on bribery charges, has returned from Ireland and entered Johns Hopkins Hospital.

He went to Ireland last summer and in January was examined at a Dublin hospital by a neurologist who said excessive drinking had caused "confusion, disorientation and loss of memory."

Brewster is charged with accepting $24,500 from a mail order house to influence his vote on a postal rate bill. A Democrat, he lost his Senate seat to Republican Charles McC. Mathias in 1968.

Because of his condition, no date has been set for his trial.

John And Yoko Hope For Baby

LONDON (AP)—Beatle John Lennon and his Japanese wife, Yoko Ono, hope to become parents about seven months from now.

Lennon told an Easter Sunday peace rally, "If we are going to have a baby we must have peace for it to survive."

He said later his wife was eight weeks pregnant. Miss Ono, who married Lennon in March 1969, had a miscarriage last October.

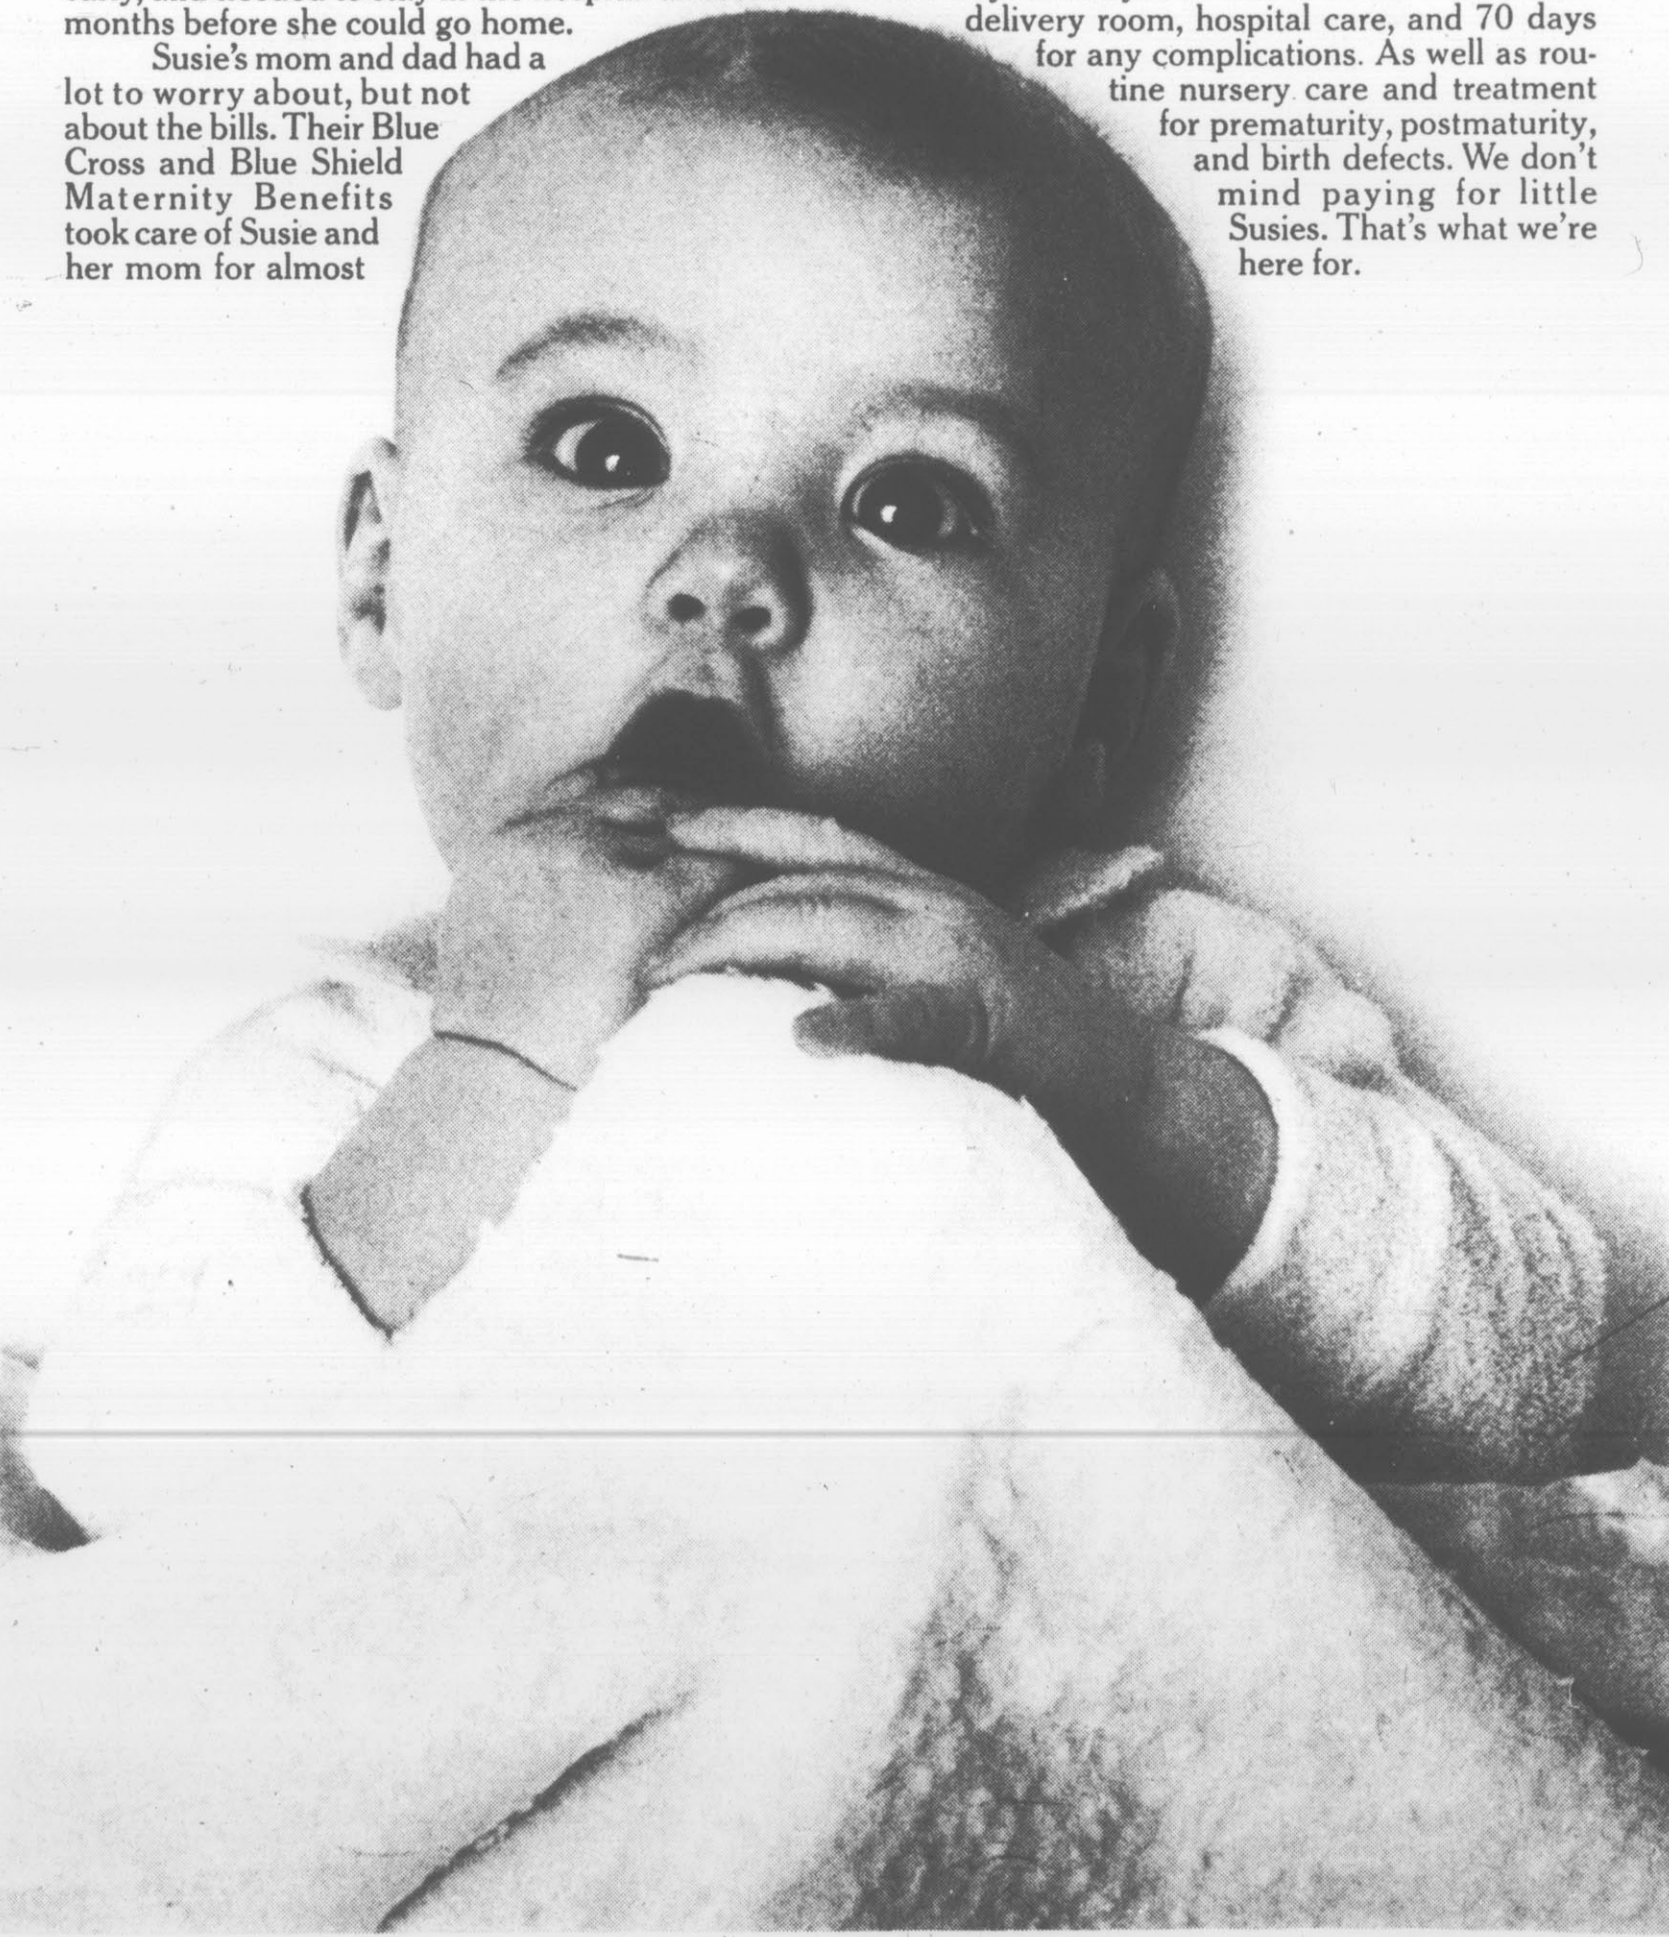

GRAND OPENING . . . of the new Winn-Dixie Store on Greenville Boulevard will be observed Tuesday. The facility will be the second of the Winn-Dixie chain in the city.

"Little Susie cost us $25.00. She cost Blue Cross and Blue Shield $1,247.85. That-a-girl."

Susie really was little. She came 7 weeks early, and needed to stay in the hospital almost 2 months before she could go home.

Susie's mom and dad had a lot to worry about, but not about the bills. Their Blue Cross and Blue Shield Maternity Benefits took care of Susie and her mom for almost nothing—and they're both doing fine. We'll take care of your baby too. With benefits that include delivery room, hospital care, and 70 days for any complications. As well as routine nursery care and treatment for prematurity, postmaturity, and birth defects. We don't mind paying for little Susies. That's what we're here for.

You don't know what you've got until you use it.

Rescue workers said about 20 persons were killed and about 100 injured but railway officials said five persons were killed and 58 injured.

Two passenger cars were jackknifed into the drybed gully on the main line to Karachi. Four other cars and the engine were derailed on the Karachi side of the small trestle. Three of the cars were overturned.

New TV Tube Can Defy Sun

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — Westinghouse Electric Corp. said today it has developed a television camera tube that can withstand being pointed at the sun, solving a problem which spoiled man's first color telecast from the moon.

The new tube largely eliminates the damage that concentrated sunlight can cause to the sensitive target within the device, Westinghouse said.

Westinghouse said it expects the new tube will be used on future space flights, as well as for other industrial and military applications.

The first submarine actually used in combat was the American Turtle, built by David Bushnell of Saybrook, Conn., in 1776.

Every Drink Is Law Violation

CHICAGO (AP) — Everytime a drink is poured at the governor's mansion in Springfield, a law is broken, a state legislator contends.

Rep. Paul Elward, a Chicago Democrat, says the liquor violates a provision of the State Parks Act which bars the serving of liquor on state lands—including that on which the state's old mansion stands.

Elward said Sunday he will introduce a bill at this session of the General Assembly to exempt the governor's mansion from the liquor ban.

Southern Baseball Teams Begin Fight Among Selves This Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After anywhere from one to four weeks of battling outside opposition, Southern Conference baseball teams finally start fighting among themselves this week for the league championship.

Five doubleheaders — two Tuesday and three Saturday — will get conference play under way in both the Northern and Southern Divisions. Virginia Military Institute's Keydets and Richmond's Spiders play four league games each and may have an idea how they'll fare the rest of the way.

This year's league format calls for the four teams in each division to play home-and-home doubleheaders with one another. In addition, there will be one interdivision game between each of the eight for a total of 16 conference encounters.

Richmond goes to George Washington and VMI to William and Mary for a pair of Northern Division twin bills Tuesday that get family warfare under way. Richmond goes to VMI Saturday in the Northern Division. The Southern Division schedule begins Saturday with Davidson at defending champion Furman and East Carolina at The Citadel for doubleheaders.

Only the two military schools, The Citadel and Virginia Military Institute, are still unbeaten and VMI has played just one game — a 4-3 decision in the Keydets' opener Friday against Bucknell. The Citadel has won four in a row but was rained out of Saturday. The Bulldogs have a night game at home tonight against Maryland of the Atlantic Coast Conference, and VMI is at Old Dominion this afternoon.

Today's only other action has Furman at Western Carolina. Rain also washed out Saturday's scheduled home game day's William and Mary at Jacksonville and Davidson at Armstrong State encounters.

Furman drubbed Milligan 8-0 to remain unbeaten since returning home from a Florida trip and East Carolina ran its winning streak to four by beating Dartmouth 8-1, but George Washington was handed a double defeat at N.C. State, 9-0 and 6-2.

Archibald Builds Up Price Tag

By ERIC PREWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Nate Archibald, a post-season sensation from Texas—El Paso, was busy last week building up bargaining power against the professional basketball teams that drafted him.

"I haven't talked to them much," he said Saturday, after scoring 35 points in his West team's 116-102 defeat in the annual East-West college basketball all-star game here.

"But I think I can play pro ball—in either league," he said. Although just 6-foot-1, Archibald was the second-round pick of the Cincinnati Royals in the National Basketball Association draft and the fourth-round choice of Dallas of the American Basketball Association.

Charlie Scott of North Carolina, with 18 points, 11 rebounds and several assists for the East, was named the game's most valuable player.

Purdue All-American Rick Mount, with 25 points, and Jim McMillian of Columbia, with 23, were the top scorers for the East. The winners hit on 50 of 97 field goal attempts, led by Mount's 10 for 15 shooting.

Archibald got his 35 points by hitting on 15 of 28 shots from the floor and five of eight free throws. Earlier last week, he had another all-star game at Memphis, Tenn.

The little Miner star averaged only 19 point a game during the regular season, but his 63 points in the two all-star outings looked real. Like most of Texas—El Paso's stars in recent years, he's a product of New York City's playground courts.

ment panel: "The name of the game is to win."

The 34-year-old Hueytown, Ala., veteran, had put the sign there beneath a picture of his boss, an hour before going out to do battle with NASCAR's best. His boss, Bob McCrary, general manager of the Dodge division of the Chrysler Corp., was in Detroit.

Driving a winged Dodge, Allison beat Mercury's Cale Yarborough to the wire by five seconds after a three-hour, 34 minute chase that saw the lead change hands 20 times among eight drivers.

Allison, who averaged a record 139.544 miles per hour for the distance, by all odds shouldn't have been the winner.

Trailing Yarborough by slightly more than a lap with 15 miles to go, the slender, dark-haired father of four took advantage of a caution flag that slowed the field 10 laps from the finish to get back into the same lap with the stocky Yarborough.

Then, when the green flag fell six circuits from the finish, Allison roared by the three-time Atlanta 500 winner to grab the lead which he held doggedly for his second career victory on a major speedway.

The difference was that Allison took on new tires during his final pit stop. Yarborough took on only fuel.

"His (Allison's) tires gave him more bite on the slick track," said Yarborough who celebrated his 31st birthday in the garage area Friday. "We decided to go with the tires we had on, figuring they would last the distance. They did not, and that's the breaks of the game."

Yarborough led the most laps, 129. Other leaders included Buddy Baker in a Dodge, 89 laps, and Donnie Allison, brother of the winner, 84 laps. Baker had to quit after 263 circuits because of ignition failure, and the engine failed in Donnie Allison's Ford 30 laps later. He was credited with eighth place in the final order.

Allison picked up $22,875—his biggest single paycheck ever—and said it was the "most satisfying performance I've ever had in 15 years in this business."

Yarborough's share of the purse was $11,875. Pete Hamilton of Dedham, Mass., winner of the recent Daytona 500, was third in a Plymouth and was paid $6,800.

Fourth place went to LeeRoy Yarborough, who managed to hang on after his Ford dropped most of its oil on the track. It was this incident that brought out the caution flag that allowed Allison to move into a challenging position. Richard Petty's Plymouth was fifth.

A crowd estimated by track officials at 56,000 watched the race that was originally scheduled for last Sunday but postponed for a week because of bad weather.

Giants Finish Disastrous Baseball Tour In Japan

Didn't Play To Win In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Usually the whole point of the game is to win. But Frank Quilici echoed the sentiments of 43 other players as he said "the only point was to be here and help a good cause."

Quilici, a Minnesota Twins infielder, was the only player who didn't play in Saturday's East-West Baseball Classic at Dodger Stadium.

The game, which attracted 31,094 fans, was a benefit to honor the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Proceeds went to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, founded by King, and toward a proposed memorial center in Atlanta.

The composition of the teams was a novelty—stars representing six National League and six American League teams on each squad.

The East, led by home runs off the bat of Ron Fairly of Montreal and Ron Santo of the Chicago Cubs, won 5-1. Fairly, named the game's most valuable player.

Pitcher Jim "Mudcat" Grant of Oakland—who was to become the victim of a three-run eighth inning uprising—put out into the singing of the National Anthem. And Coretta King, widow of the slain civil rights leader, put the game in motion by throwing out the first ball.

Stars were all over the place. Today's were at bat and in the field. Yesterday's—Joe Black, Larry Doby, Don Newcombe and others—were in the coaching boxes and dugouts. And managing the teams were former Brooklyn Dodger great Roy Campanella for the East and "Yankee Clipper" Joe DiMaggio for the West.

New York Mets ace Tom Seaver and St. Louis fireballer Bob Gibson held the West to four harmless hits through six innings while Seattle's Lew Krausse was giving up second and third-inning homers that decided the game. The West finally scored in the eighth off Philadelphia southpaw Grant Jackson.

'Unbeatable' Mistakes By

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—"I made too many mistakes ... I can't remember anything that happened in the last 40 seconds ... I couldn't believe it."

Those were some of the remarks of Dan Gable after his stunning loss to sophomore Larry Owings of Washington in the finals of the NCAA wrestling championships Saturday night.

Gable, 142-pound senior from Iowa State, was one bout away from one of the great feats in the sports history. He hadn't lost a single previous bout in high school or college, piling up a string of 181 victories, 108 of them by falls.

Despite Gable's defeat, Iowa State had little trouble in nailing its second straight NCAA championship by piling up 99 points to 84 for runnerup Michigan State.

San Francisco's jet-set Giants hobbled home after bombing in the Pacific ... and the Seattle Pilots got set for a possible take-off today from their storm-lashed runway on the West Coast.

The Giants concluded a disastrous tour of the Far East Sunday, dropping a 10-6 baseball exhibition game to the Lotte Orions for their sixth loss in nine games with Japanese teams.

The Pilots, meanwhile, hoped to land their financially-riddled franchise in Milwaukee while arguing their case today before a Seattle bankruptcy court.

Federal Bankruptcy Referee Sidney C. Volinn was to rule on a petition by Pacific Northwest Sports Inc. that the court approve sale of the Pilots to Milwaukee interests. The petition says the Pilots owe more than $8 million and are losing $12,500 each day.

Owners of the team claim a projected loss of $1.5 million if it stayed in Seattle another year. Sale of the club would clear all debts, they said.

Two possibilities could keep the Pilots grounded in Seattle—a bid for the team by a Seattle group headed by Fred Ruge, or an order to the American League requiring owners to keep the franchise out of the red in 1970.

The Giants gifted the Orions with four unearned runs in the third inning as the Japanese team forged a 7-0 lead. Steve Whitaker later put some life into the listless Giant offense with a solo homer and run-scoring sacrifice fly.

Verbal and physical outbursts pumped spice into other baseball fronts Sunday as Chicago Cubs' third baseman Ron Santo tried to chase a heckler into the stands and Detroit Manager Mayo Smith lashed his players for "lack of pride."

Santo's critic reportedly threw 16 cents in coins and showered the Cub infielder with profanity during a game between Chicago and San Diego at Scottsdale, Ariz.

When the Cubs came to bat in the bottom of the sixth, Santo made several attempts to leap over the box seat railing to reach his heckler, but was restrained by teammates. The critic was quickly escorted from Scottsdale Stadium.

PS: The Cubs won 10-4.

At Lakeland, Fla., Smith bitterly criticized his players after their 1-4 loss to St. Louis.

"I never saw in all department worse execution than today," said a disgruntled Smith. "These guys are getting paid good money. They might get arrested for fraud. They are taking money under false pretenses."

Detroit has won only seven times in 22 spring exhibitions. "I can't psychoanalyze them," Smith added, "but I know this. I know that if you can't have any pride, I'd want to go home and hide ... but I'd want to come to the ballpark and do something about it the next day."

What can be done to instill pride?

"I'm not going to stick something there that isn't there," he said. "No one else can, either. If you haven't got it ... you haven't got it."

Bob Veal ran his spring training record to 4-0 and became the first Pittsburgh pitcher to go nine innings as the Pirates whipped Kansas City 3-1; long ball hitting by John Ellis and Thurman Munson powered the New York Yankees over Washington 5-1; Danny Walton's bases full single in the ninth scored the winning run in Seattle's 7-6 triumph over Oakland and LeMaye's two-run homer in the sixth carried Cincinnati over the New York Mets 4-3.

Rookie Luis Alvarado's third hit a blooper single to right, broke a 5-5 tie and launched Boston to an 8-5 win over Minnesota. Bob Christian's 10th-inning single scored Carlos May with the winning run as the Chicago White Sox nipped Philadelphia 2-1. Atlanta scored both its runs in the ninth inning in a 2-1 victory over Baltimore. California spilled Cleveland 5-4 and Los Angeles turned back Houston 6-4.

Exuberant Mike Burton Takes 3rd Gold Medal

By LEE BYRD

Associated Press Writer

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Applause still ringing through Utah's ritz natatorium, an exuberant but quietly exuberant Mike Burton pulled out of the water for the last time in his brilliant college career.

It had been a fitting final to the competitive swimming legacy of the UCLA senior: victory in the grueling 1,650-yard freestyle for a third gold medal in the NCAA championships.

He had claimed the 500-yard freestyle and 200-yard butterfly titles on previous nights.

Indiana won its third straight team title in the three-day meet, and Stanford's Brian Job broke another of his own records on the final night Saturday. But the hero's crown belonged to Burton.

After a few moments of breath-gathering pensiveness, the former Olympian smiled and looked for both his mother and his bride of nine months in the packed crowd.

And upon spotting the joyous pair, a laugh. "They must have beaten one another half to death."

Indeed, it had seemed for a while that swimming's toughest race would doom his dream of a triple championship.

Hampered by a torn knee, the courageous Burton churned the first 1,000 yards at a minute per hundred. That would not be good enough to beat Colorado State's Ralph Hutton, who earlier had clocked a 16:23.94. And everybody knew it.

Hence the yelling began: "Go Mike, let's go Mike," and Burton picked up the pace to about 38 seconds per hundred, still not safe. But the frenzy mushroomed into an ovation and Burton went faster yet.

Richest Step In Pro Tourneys Begins Tuesday

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The richest stop on the Professional Bowlers Association tour begins Tuesday with $25,000 going to the winner of the sixth annual Firestone Tournament of Champions.

The top 48 pros clash during the five days of play. The final match of the $100,000 tournament will be televised over ABC Sat. April 4, at 3:30 p.m. EST.

Jim Godman of Elkhart, Ind., last year's champion, returns but will face stiff challenges from newcomers, including the tour's leading money winner this year, George Pappas.

Pappas, a 22-year-old from Charlotte, N.C., has earned $22,500, including victories in the Miller Open and the Greater Buffalo Classic.

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—The Chicago White Sox reduced their roster to 27 players Sunday when they returned pitchers Bart Johnson and Rich Maloney and catcher Art Kufner to their minor league complex for reassignment.

When he touched home, the electronic scoreboard glistened with a 16:10.49.

The time was especially tremendous in the 4,300-foot altitude of the Utah campus, a factor which likely precluded any wholesale assault upon the record book.

But Stanford's Job, a mere freshman, produced a 2:05.99 showing in the 200 breaststroke, good enough to crack his own NCAA and American marks. And he'd done the same thing Friday night in the 100 breaststroke.

Another NCAA mark fell when Long Beach State's Mitch Ivey upset Indiana's Gary Hall in the 200 backstroke with a 1:52.77 clocking. Hall owns the American record of 1:52.0.

Other multiple winners included Tennessee's Dave Edgar in the 100 and 50 freestyles and Indiana's Jim Henry in both low and high diving. Henry also was a double champion last year.

Powerful Indiana piled up 332 team points, compared to 235 for Southern California and 206 for Stanford. UCLA was fourth at 185, followed by Long Beach State at 126, Michigan 118 and Southern Methodist 96.

Pakistan Politics Uses U.S. For Whipping Boy

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
Associated Press Writer
RAWALPINDI, Pakistan, (AP) — Right wing, left wing, all around Pakistan politics, they are rapping the United States.

The vigor of the attacks has worried the American embassy.

Officials there said they had discussed the attacks, especially those on Ambassador Joseph S. Farland, of Morgantown, W. Va., with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

"No protests," said an officer. "Just keeping the matter under discussion."

One target has been President Nixon's Feb. 18 foreign policy speech to Congress. The President expressed hope for Indian-Pakistan cooperation "if there nation-building surmounts the centrifugal forces that have historically divided the subcontinent."

The critics said Nixon was attacking the reason for Pakistan's existence — as a home for Moslems wishing to avoid Hindu domination — and wanted India and Pakistan to confederate.

The United States isn't the lone target in the campaigning for a promised general election Oct. 5. According to Pakistan press reports, the Russian and the Communist Chinese Embassies have complained about attacks that politicians have made on their countries.

But the United States is taking it from all sides.

Nural Amin, a veteran East Pakistan Politician leader of the conservative People's Democratic party, alleged American imperialism and called it "the worst in the world." He said it should not be permitted to turn the eastern province into "a second Vietnam."

A leader of the right-wing religious party, Jamaat-I-Islam, accused the Americans of sending aid missions into East Pakistan villages campaigning for Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, considered the East's most popular politician. The attack was a switch; leftist critics have claimed the Jamaat, a word meaning community, was backed by the Central Intelligence Agency.

An American Embassy

spokesman said the accusation was "without foundation." When an English-language Rawalpindi daily, the new times, attacked the Nixon speech public affairs officer Gilbert Austin told the newspaper it had misinterpreted facts and that over the years the United States has provided more than $4 billion in aid for Pakistan.

The letter was followed by a press release omitting the reference to American aid but stating U.S. support of Pakistan independence.

Leftists regularly have made the United States a target. A Lahore-base weekly, the Punjab Times, made a feature of attacks on Farland. It sought to popularize the idea that Farland, a lawyer, coal mine operator and one-time consultant to the Reader's Digest, is a CIA agent.

Shortly after the embassy said it was considering a protest to the Pakistan government, the Punjab Times suspended publication.

The Americans occasionally see a brightening of their prospects to the left. Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, the former foreign minister who advocates greater friendship with China, recently spoke for three hours at a rally at Lahore, mentioning the United States harshly, but once.

He said that when he was foreign minister the American secretary of state, Dean Rusk, said in his presence that Pakistan and India "have been biting our legs like dogs."

According to Bhutto, he responded, "Mr. Secretary, this time we won't confine ourselves to the legs but go up higher."

An American officer, considering that speech, said optimistically, "Bhutto seems to be laying off us."

Nutritional Ills Afflict The Affluent

CHARLESTON (AP) — Malnutrition, a South Carolina physician says, is not a problem of the poor alone. It also affects the middle class and the affluent.

Dr. J. I. Waring of the Medical University of South Carolina and editor of the South Carolina Medical Association Journal, is convinced that many individuals who enjoy reasonable prosperity are suffering from malnutrition.

It is not because of a lack of money needed to buy food of proper quantity or quality, the physician reported, but rather because "these people have developed habits of eating which can be as harmful as the actual lack of a proper food supply."

Dr. Waring, in an editorial prepared for the state Medical Journal and later in an interview, said the current concern "with the plight of the poor has overshadowed the fact that malnutrition exists among the affluent."

The affluent person who is malnourished, Dr. Waring said, "lays himself open to obesity, heart disease, anemia, to name only a few of the ills attendant upon diet deficiencies."

These individuals, he continued, "are the ones who constantly stuff themselves with snacks and never bother to indulge in a full balanced meal. They select food for any reason except its true nutritional value."

Nutritional foods, Dr. Waring said, "are well known to all. They know what they should eat—green vegetables, eggs and meat."

But many of the affluent, he continued, "still will soft drinks at all times and places but never bother with milk. They love sweets and starches, to the neglect of more substantial foods. They also dote on food attractively packaged," Dr. Waring said, "but food that is not necessarily adequate."

The physician said these individuals certainly have the intelligence and education to know what they should eat. "At least," he added, "they have had the advice dinned into their ears often and long enough."

"But," he said, "they just don't believe they have much to be concerned about."

Dr. Waring said he is puzzled as to methods "of pushing these people into better ways, which might lead to a longer and more

Tobacco TIPS

By S.J. Weeks

Pitt County Tobacco Agent

Fertilizer injury to tobacco plant roots affects yield, value, stand, uniformity, earliness of growth, and cost of replanting. It is one of the most troublesome problems encountered in obtaining a stand of uniform plants in the field.

Nitrogen, potash and chlorine salts frequently "burn" the roots of the young tobacco plants when they are set too near the fertilizer. As a result of this, irregular growth and maturity results, causing cultivating, harvesting, and curing to be more difficult.

To avoid fertilizer injury at transplanting time, be sure the roots of the tobacco plants are placed three to five inches from the fertilizer in the prepared bed.

Experiments and on-farm tests have shown that best stands of tobacco can be obtained by using hand placement in two bands seven to eight inches apart about two inches below the roots of the plants, or by applying the fertilizer in one band deep. When the deep application is used, the fertilizer should be applied three to five inches below the plant roots.

If you desire to use a split application of mixed fertilizer, be sure to apply the second application as soon as possible after transplanting. At the latest, the second application should be applied within two weeks after transplanting.

SHOWER SHAMPOO

NEW YORK (UPI)—Beauty experts suggest shampooing the hair at least once a week. The under-the-shower technique is a favorite way, since it's easy, quick, and provides an ideal means of rinsing. Work up two rich lathers, rinsing between, and massage the scalp vigorously with fingertips or knuckles.

Cucumbers: Broadcast fertilizer for cucumbers preplant, recommends George Hughes Extension Horticultural Specialist. According to Hughes, the cucumber plant has a relatively high fertility requirement but when the fertilizer is concentrated in the root zone roots will be burned and the plant will be stunted or killed. If any fertilizer is to be applied in the row, it should be handed well out of the root zone. Of course, a soil test should be made to determine the exact nutrient requirements for your crop.

Bees are also important to successful cucumber production. In fact, you won't get cucumbers without bees to pollinate the flowers. Hughes recommends one hive per acre near the field. He further states that bees should be placed on the south side of the field to avoid insecticide drifts. After blooming starts, insecticides should be applied in late afternoon to avoid killing bees.

For more information on picking cucumber production, contact the Agricultural Extension Office and ask for

Bankruptcy Can Cost One's Vote

ROME (AP)—Italy's Constitutional Court has ruled that an Italian can be deprived of his vote if he is bankrupt.

The court said bankruptcy could be evidence of "moral unworthiness," for which Article 48 of the Civil Code says the right to vote can be withheld.

"It is not unreasonable," the court held, "that for the reason of unworthiness, the bankrupt be deprived also of the electoral right because the electorate presumes in the citizen suitable qualities of the highest civic level."

The Worry Clinic An Only Child Is Handicapped

Dolly's case should challenge every parent and school teacher. For her mother and father, though college graduates, have failed to prepare their daughter for success in school. Indeed, they have hampered her chances of success in marriage, too. Discuss this case at PTA meetings!

By GEORGE W. CRANE,
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE M-568: Dolly G., aged 7, is a problem.

"Dr. Crane," her mother asked, "What should we do in Dolly's case?"

"She is our only child and very quiet, seldom speaking unless spoken to."

"Maybe that has hampered her in school, for the teacher now says she should repeat the first grade, for she is a 'late bloomer.'"

"Dr. Crane, if she were your daughter, what would you do?"

First of all, I would not have let her remain an "only" child. Either she'd have received natural siblings or else have been given a little brother or sister via adoption.

For children educate children by stimulating far more conversation, even in quarrels and group play.

Furthermore, Dolly's parent should have taken her to Sunday School early where she would have learned the give-and-take of other toddlers so she wouldn't be the shy, untalkative little girl she now is.

As an "only" child too, she should have been sent to a Nursery School from Monday through Friday to teach her how to mingle socially and feel a ease, even though Mamma was not present.

Besides, she'd have learned to use crayons and blunt scissors in schoolroom tasks, thus being prepared for public school later on.

Tragically, many of you supposedly smart parents act stupid when you coddle and shield and tie your child to you apron strings, emotionally.

Your child is not like a puppy or kitten, to be pampered and petted as an animated toy!

Instead, your child needs to be taught to be self-reliant and able to fend for itself, at least at the level of its own age group.

Many good mothers read appropriate stories to their youngsters and help stimulate their imagination in the manner, which is good. But such mental calisthenics is not the entire goal when you are rearing kiddies. Emotional development likewise is vitally important.

And this involves pushing them tactfully into play groups with others of their own age.

Unless a youngster learns to mingle gracefully and happily with toddlers of his own age bracket, he will be a hazard when he enters kindergarten or first grade.

In fact, even the toddler's I.Q. will be lower if he has been deprived of arguments, quarrels, stories and the casual conversation of both youngsters and adults.

Remember, families with a telephone actually increase the I.Q. of their children for the latter hear Mamma talk more.

And people who converse a great deal, stimulate the vocabulary, as well as the I.Q., of their youngsters!

Remember, language is the major medium for exchanging ideas. A child thus whets its wits on spoken words!

And to prevent holding a youngster back for a repetition of a school grade, it is better to do some deft sugar-coated home tutoring via the "flash card" method.

This can bring a normal child up to the average of his classmates within 6 weeks!

So send for my booklet "How to Raise Your Child's School Marks," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c. That also lifts his morale! "Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets."

Revival Series Begins Tonight

Rev. Kenneth Dixon will be the revival evangelist, according to Rev. Fred Jones, pastor of the church, which is located eight miles south of Greenville on the Black Jack highway. The public is invited.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

AKQJ 10 9 6 3 ♠ 7 ♠ 8 6 2 ♠ 5 4

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—Four spades. First of all because there is a good chance you will make it and second because the enemy may have available a game contract in hearts which your action will serve to forestall.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, you have 60 part score, and as South you hold:

AKQ 9 ♠ AQ 9 ♠ AQ 6 4 ♠ J 9 3

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

1 ♠ Dble. 1 NT Pass

Pass Dble. Pass 2 ♠

Pass Pass 2 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—You hold, to be sure, a hand of considerable merit. Do not on that account, however, subject yourself to a deliberate loss. Pause for a moment to ask what are the chances of your making nine tricks with your poverty-stricken partner and you will see that discretion calls for a pass. You have given your all.

Q. 3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

AKJ 7 6 2 ♠ 4 ♠ 8 4 3 2 ♠ A 3

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Your holding falls slightly short of the requirements for a jump rebid to three spades, and you must content yourself with a simple rebid of two spades. This hand had an original valuation of only 15 points. You should, therefore, await partner's further action before making any highly aggressive move.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

AK 6 4 ♠ 10 8 4 2 ♠ 9 1 3 ♠ 8 6 2

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♠ Dble. Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—Follow the example of the chap who said, "I see my duty and I do it." Obediently bid two hearts, the best suit you have. Some players engage in the unsound practice of responding with two clubs on worthless hands of this type. Such practice would be acceptable if you had no four-card suit of your own, but the natural four-card suit should always be shown in preference to responding with a three-card suit.

Q. 5—Your partner has opened with one spade and you hold:

8 2 ♠ 9 3 ♠ KJ 9 7 4 2 ♠ KJ 5

What is your response?

A.—One no trump. This hand is not quite strong enough to justify a response at the level of two in a new suit. It contains only eight points in high cards. It is true that valued at diamonds the hand is worth 10 points, but it is better policy not to make a forcing bid at the level of two with less than nine or 10 points in high cards.

Q. 6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

A 8 5 ♠ AK 7 4 ♠ AQ 8 3 ♠ 8 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. Your hand is worth 18 points valued at hearts and 17 at no trump. Therefore, one further try should be made. If partner merely returns to the hearts, you may pass but, if partner bids three no trump or four hearts, you should accept his choice of game.

Q. 7—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

A 9 6 2 ♠ J 10 9 4 3 ♠ 10 5 4 ♠ J

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

Pass Pass Pass 1 ♠

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ 3 ♠

Dble. Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Your hand has very little in the way of defensive values. As a matter of fact, it is totally in partner's bid suit, which defects from its value. It is therefore improbable that the three club contract can be defeated. In self-defense you should return to three spades.

Q. 8—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

6 ♠ A 8 ♠ KQ 9 8 5 ♠ AK 9 6 3

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ 1 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass

3 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. Since partner has made a free bid at a high level, he undoubtedly has a good heart suit. From the fact that you failed to raise his major suit at once, he will realize that you probably have no more than the ace and another trump, and you will be in a better position to judge the possibility of the hand after his next bid.

Sheriff's Story True-To-Life

MOUNT VERNON, Wash.

(AP) — Sheriff John Boynton told parents at a drug abuse seminar about an 18-year-old boy who planned to go to college.

The youth had a "bad trip" on some amphetamine. He took his father's gun, threatened his mother, father and younger brother, then left the house carrying the gun. The parents called for help. Sheriff's deputies and police soon caught up with the youth's car.

"He stopped once, his hands gripping the wheel as if in a trance," Boynton said. "Then he zoomed ahead for a few hundred yards, stopped, laid down in the front seat and shot and killed himself."

"It was the other fellow's child to everyone but me," he said.

"He was my son."

Declares Program Benefits Everyone

Feed grain and wheat producers who sign up and divert to a conserving use acreage which normally would be planted to wheat, corn, grain sorghum or barley will benefit the general public, the farm economy and themselves, according to Stacy J. Evans, county executive director for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"Excess production is a threat not only to farmers for whom it means lower prices, but to the public. Consumers and taxpayers benefit when crop production and farm prices are stable and when excess grain is not allowed to pile up in costly storage year after year," Evans said.

Aims of these farm programs, he said, are to insure an ample supply of grain for domestic and export markets, strengthen and stabilize farm prices and deter excess production.

To help prevent excess grain production the 1970 feed grain and wheat programs require a minimum acreage diversion on each participating farm, and also provide that producers can earn payments by additional diversion.

Sign up period for the voluntary farm programs continues through March 20 at the County SCS office.

Easter 'Spoiled' By Winter's Return

By BOB MONROE
Associated Press Writer
Winter staged a surprise return over much of the nation Sunday, snarling holiday transportation and spoiling many traditional Easter celebrations. Easter finery was left in the closet or covered by gear for foul weather as a storm dumped

6 to 12 inches of snow from northern West Virginia to central Pennsylvania, southeastern New York and into southern New England.

The storm coupled with a continued nationwide air traffic controllers work slowdown to strand many would-be air travelers from coast to coast. Jets waited up to five hours to take off from Kennedy Airport in New York at one time.

Travelers warnings were in effect for much of the East. Police reported abandoned cars dotted highways in scattered areas.

It was 87 degrees and sunny in Key Biscayne, Fla., where President and Mrs. Nixon attended Presbyterian church services, but sleet rattled on the stained glass windows of St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York.

Addressing the noon Mass, Msgr. Thomas McGovern seemed to sum it all up when he told the St. Patrick's congregation he wanted to greet them "on this Christmas—I mean Easter—day."

New York's traditional Fifth Avenue Easter Parade was cancelled by snow for the first time since 1885. The Weather Bureau said the four inches that fell in 12 hours broke the city's 85-year-old snowfall record for the date.

Atlantic City, N.J., moved its 95th annual Easter Parade from the blustery boardwalk to hotel lobbies where judges selected best dressed winners as usual.

The storm brought nine inches of snow to Beacon, N.Y. Boston and Harrisburg, Pa., each were socked with six inches of snow in six hours. Wilkes Barre, Pa., reported 11 inches on the ground for an increase of seven inches in a six-hour span.

Forecasters admitted the sudden storm took them by surprise. The storm was moving farther out to sea today. Gale warnings were displayed on the Massachusetts and Rhode Island coasts; wind gusts of up to 58 miles an hour were recorded at Nantucket, Mass.

Cold air funneled down behind the storm and the temperature dropped to 18 at Youngstown, Ohio, Sunday night, equaling the low record there for the date.

Elsewhere, cold weather with occasional snow or flurries occurred from Idaho and northeast Nevada to upper Michigan and northwest Texas.

Travelers warnings remained in effect in northern Minnesota and New Mexico.

Portions of southern Alabama, southwestern Georgia and northwestern Florida were threatened with hail and damaging winds this morning.

Easter was sunny in Los Angeles where temperatures were in the 60s as 20,000 persons filled the Hollywood Bowl for the traditional sunrise service.

A sunrise service being broadcast nationally from Paradise Valley golf club near Albuquerque, N.M., was cut short when anti-Vietnam war demonstrators tried to take over the microphone.

There were disruptions by Vietnam protesters at two church services in San Francisco. Six Negroes who interrupted services at the First United Methodist Church in Wichita, Kan., were given 10 minutes to appeal for $2 million for the Black United Fund.

retaining the character of real property in which respondent owns a partial remainder interest seeks to reinvest said proceeds in a similar house and lot.

You are required to make defense to such pleading not later than May 9th, 1970, and upon your failure to do so the party seeking service against you will apply to the court for the relief sought.

Dr. Wm. Hoots Directs Conf.

Dr. William R. Hoots Jr., associate professor in the Department of Industrial and Technical Education at East Carolina University, will direct the National Conference on Elementary School Industrial Arts in Louisville, Ky., April 3-5.

The conference, funded by a grant from the U. S. Office of Education, is composed of 20 of the most outstanding elementary industrial arts educators from throughout the U. S. The Louisville meeting is the third and final meeting of the conference.

According to Dr. Hoots, industrial arts as a part of the elementary school curriculum helps the child to understand his role and relationship to our highly technical society and to develop keener concepts of the world of work.

The primary purpose of the National Conference on Elementary School Industrial Arts is to give national direction to this vital phase of elementary school education.

"This conference provides us with an excellent opportunity to provide leadership in a phase of education that will help make learning relevant to the real needs of children. They must know and understand their environment before they can relate to it," says Dr. Hoots.

Dr. Hoots and other participants of the conference will remain in Louisville through April 10 to attend the American Industrial Arts Convention at which a report concerning the philosophical basis of elementary industrial arts, methods and facilities necessary for implementation, and methods and techniques appropriate for preparing staff for programs of elementary school industrial arts will be given.

Apollo 13 Mission Said To Entail Greater Risks

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — When the Apollo 13 astronauts descend to the moon's Ocean of Storms next month, they will attempt a pinpoint landing in a narrow valley among hills, craters and rocks as big as automobiles.

The risks, greater than those of man's first two moon landings, will be taken by James A. Lovell Jr. and Fred W. Haise Jr. in the interests of science. For these ancient, craggy highlands called Fra Mauro, on the eastern shore of the Ocean of Storms, may harbor the secret of the origin of the moon.

Here lies material from three moon ages: Imbrium, Copernican and Eratosthenian.

"It's a riskier landing than Apollo 11 or 12. We don't have much flat area to play with," Lovell said in an interview. He will command America's third landing and expedition.

"Our guidance has got to be very good. The actual landing site in Fra Mauro is flat. But we cannot be off too much. The terrain to the south is very hilly with many craters. If we go short, to the east, there is Cone Crater and just to the north of that is a peak which is even higher.

"Our computer actually is targeting for a landing area about one kilometer (3/4 of a mile) down range from where we want to land," the commander said. "That's to make certain we don't hit the crater, which is carved out of the top of a 400-foot-high cone-shaped mound. Once past the crater, I'll manually redesignate and try to land at a spot about 4,000 feet from Cone, within walking distance," Lovell said.

He and Haise and the third crewman, Thomas K. Mattingly II, have chosen the Latin phrase "ex luna, scientia"—"from the moon, knowledge"—as their motto.

Lovell and Haise will spend 34 hours on the lunar surface. They plan two four to five-hour excursions outside their craft, during which they are to set up a nuclear-powered science station, drill nearly 10 feet into the soil and walk two miles on a geology field trip. They will work their way some 400 feet up a boulder—the strewn slope to the rim of Cone Crater, where they hope to plant the American flag and collect some of the moon's oldest rocks.

The astronauts will begin their 10-day journey at 2:13 p.m. EST Saturday, April 11, on the giant Saturn 5 rocket.

Two of them, Haise and Mattingly, will be making their first space trips. They'll be led by the world's most experienced spaceman.

Lovell, a 42-year-old Navy captain who has spent more than 572 hours in space, will be making his fourth space flight and his second trip to the moon. When he returns this time he will have logged a total of more than a month in space.

He has said this will be his last flight.

After a three-day outward voyage, Apollo 13 fires into lunar orbit ranging from 60 to 170 miles above the surface at 7:38 p.m. Tuesday April 14. On Apollo 11 and 12, the lunar lander separated from the command ship at an altitude of 60 miles to start the descent to the surface.

"On our flight," Mattingly said, "we plan to change the orbit of the still-combined vehicles to one of 8 miles by 60 miles above the surface and release the LM (lunar module) at the low point."

Mattingly said they'll make one pass over the landing area at the eight-mile altitude before separating on the second orbit.

"By using the command module engine to drop to the eight-mile altitude, we save valuable fuel in the LM. That will give them about 14 seconds extra hover time to look for a smooth landing spot," he said.

Lovell will then redirect the lunar craft—to be called Aquarius—and if all goes according to schedule, the two men will land on the moon at 9:55 p.m., Wednesday, April 15.

Lovell said he and his crew-men gave a lot of thought to the names of the two ships. The command vessel will be called Odyssey.

"We wanted something that would be of an international nature and which also would emphasize science. Mythology seemed to fit the requirement ... Odyssey means a long wandering and was the title of an ancient Greek Epic poem about the wanderings of Ulysses. Aquarius was the Egyptian water carrier who brought knowledge and fertility to the Nile Valley.

"The name also has sort of a modern meaning. A lot of young people have utilized the name as a result of the change, of the advancement, which they're progressing toward. And we would like very much to relate the name Aquarius and what we're trying to advance as a symbol of what they look forward to."

The first moon walk is to begin at 2:13 a.m., Thursday.

A color television camera will record the astronauts, footfalls in the dusty landscape. They will be careful not to point the camera at the sun, to avoid the burnout problem that ruined

Easter Message Stresses Peace

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI devoted his Easter message to peace, urging an end to conflict "in those places where local wars still rage"—an apparent reference to Vietnam and the Middle East.

The pontiff said that modern man is "shipwrecked ... on the sea of his own humanism" and the victim of "reeling doubt," but that religion offers a "secure foundation" for alleviating mankind's condition.

"If you, men of our time, do not wish to be deceived by your very wisdom," he said, "nor wish to turn your very progress into a weapon of destruction, remember the prior claim of that kingdom of God which Christ proclaimed as the supreme justice of the world."

Apollo 12's color TV. In case there is trouble again with this camera, Lovell and Haise will have a spare black and white unit, the same one taken to the moon by Apollo 11 astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr.

"Our first EVA (extra-vehicular activity) will be concerned mainly with setting up the scientific experiments," Haise said.

One is a seismometer similar to that left behind by Apollo 12 and which still is transmitting data on shock waves created by meteors striking the surface and possible moonquakes. From the characteristics of these waves, geophysicists can learn much about the internal structure of the moon.

Later, after Lovell and Haise leave the moon and rejoin Mattingly in the command ship, they will aim the empty Aquarius at the moon to hit a spot between their seismometer and the one left by Apollo 12. This will provide a pair of readings and perhaps shed additional light on the mystery.

Other Apollo 13 instruments will record the energy and distribution of charged particles in the solar wind, the density of the lunar atmosphere and the accumulation and effect of lunar dust. All will receive power from a nuclear generator intended to keep the experiments alive at least a year.

During this excursion Haise will become the first moon driller, digging three holes with a battery-powered, rotary-percussion drill which he said "acts like a jackhammer and makes a lot of clatter." Each hole will be nearly 10-foot-deep and about one inch in diameter.

In the first two holes, which will be lined with the long, hollow fiberglass shafts which make up the drill heads, he will place heat sensors to record temperatures at different depths, how deep the sun's heat penetrates, whether the moon is heating up or cooling off, the radioactive content of the lunar interior and if the moon has a molten core like earth.

From the third hole, the astronauts plan to extract soil from the 10-foot depth so geologists can compare it with surface material.

Haise said, "It will give us a look-see through the surface structure which in terms of time could represent several billion years of the moon's history."

The last part of the first excursion will be devoted to collecting rock samples near the LM.

Then the moonmen will re-enter the LM, to eat, sleep and recharge the oxygen in their back packs.

The second walk is to start at 9:58 p.m. Thursday April 16.

"This EVA will be a geology traverse," Haise explained.

"We'll walk to a series of craters and different terrain to obtain a large variety of samples."

"Fra Mauro," Lovell said, "has unique features from three basic age groups from which geologists date the moon. There is the early Imbrium, the Copernican and the Eratosthenian."

He explained that Mare Imbrium, the Sea of Rains 500 miles to the north, was created when the moon was struck eons ago by a huge comet or meteor.

It is the largest of the moon's waterless seas, and the debris tossed out by the impact formed the Fra Mauro highlands.

From Cone Crater, Lovell and Haise will trek to Outpost Crater, where they'll dig a two-foot-deep trench and make gas and magnetic tests of the soil. Then on to Triple Crater for more rock samplings and back to the LM after four or five hours outside.

Lift-off is slated for 7:22 a.m. Friday April 17, linkup with the command ship about four hours later.

Then down to earth, and a scheduled splash down Tuesday at 3:16 p.m. in the Pacific Ocean.

U.S. Funds For Police Officers Assigned Planes

NEW DELHI (AP) — The United States has signed an agreement with the Indian government to provide $86.6 million in rupees this year to help finance major development projects.

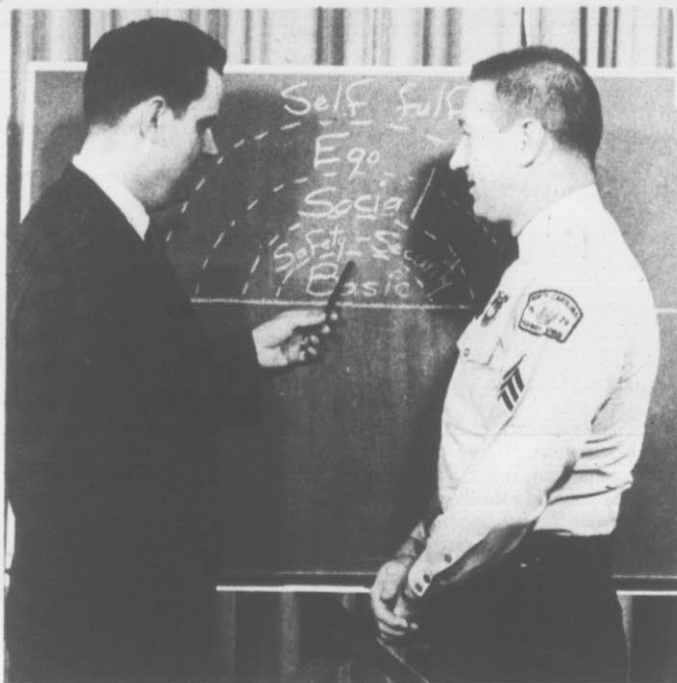

Funds for the loan, which is to be repaid over a 40-year period at interest rates ranging from 2 to 3 per cent per year are derived from rupees previously paid by India for agricultural commodities supplied by the United States through the Food for Peace program.

The loan is to be used for financing agricultural development, power generation, development of ports, expansion of highways and improvement of rural health centers.

SEOUL (AP) — The Korean Air Lines (KAL) has begun posting a police lieutenant aboard all its international flights as precaution against hijackers.

A spokesman said 11 police lieutenants, all of them English-speaking and specially trained in self-defense, are posted on the airlines' flights to Tokyo, Osaka, Fukuoka, Taipei, Hong Kong, Saigon and Bangkok.
