Kirk Leaves Apollo 13 Astronauts Racing School Feud On Target; Will Orbit Tuesday Up To Courts

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Claude Kirk, after defying a federal judge for a week, has ended his personal rule of the Manatee County schools. He says the solution to his integration battle lies with the courts.

Kirk's move Sunday cleared the way for court-ordered racial balancing of 17,000 pupils in the county's schools. It also apparently purged him of contempt of a federal court and the threat of a $10,000 fine a day until he stopped blocking desegregation by busing.

The governor said he was ending his control of schools in Manatee, a Gulf Coast county just south of Tampa, because the U.S. Justice Department had agreed to help him seek modification of the plan that requires busing of an additional 2,600 pupils.

In Washington a Justice Department spokesman said the department had agreed only to seek more study of the desegregation plan ordered by U.S. Dist. Judge Ben Krentzman in Tampa.

"On tomorrow, Monday, we will and the department of Justice will, intervene in this cause, now on appeal, and they will assist our efforts to obtain a modification of the District Court's order," Kirk told a statewide television audience.

Kirk said the U.S. 5th Circuit

Court of appeals "has agreed to expedite the disposition of this cause."

He added: "Basically, Florida and the Department of Justice are in agreement. We believe we must obey and carry out our constitutional mandates—we agree the solutions to our problems must lie in the duly constituted courts."

Kirk said he would reinstate Manatee School Supt. Jack Davidson and members of the county school board so they could prepare for implementation of Krentzman's order Tuesday.

In Bradenton, Davidson said he would attempt again to move the pupils and 107 teachers ordered transferred. But he remarked, "I'm still a bit confused."

Judge Krentzman, who found Kirk in contempt of his court last Saturday and imposed the $10,000-a-day fine, said the governor's withdrawal apparently clears him of the penalty.

Despite Kirk's claim that the Justice Department had promised to help him, a department spokesman in Washington said it "will not ask for any modification of the initial plan" ordered by Krentzman.

Instead, the Justice spokesman said, the department will ask the appeals court to refer the plan to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for study.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—Apollo 13's astronauts today sped quietly and flawlessly toward a Tuesday rendezvous with the moon while ground controllers tracked a rocket stage headed for an explosive impact on the lunar surface.

James A. Lovell Jr., Fred W. Haise Jr. and John L. Swigert Jr. retired early today for 10 hours rest. Mission Control planned to let them sleep past noon.

Medics reported that Lovell, the only one of the three wired for medical monitoring, slept soundly.

Mission Control also reported Apollo 13 was on such an accurate path a course correction planned tonight had been canceled.

Trailing about 900 miles behind Apollo 13 was the third stage of the Saturn 5 rocket that hoisted the astronauts away from planet earth Saturday.

Signals from the ground shifted the 61-foot stage to a collision course with the moon. Mission Control said tracking data today shows it will strike the surface about 8:10 p.m. (EST) Tuesday about 105 miles west of a seismometer left on the moon by the Apollo 12 astronauts in November.

That is about half an hour after Apollo 13 is to fire into moon orbit. The astronauts won't see the impact because they will be on the far side of the moon.

Seismic experts estimate the 15-ton stage will smash with a force equal to 11 tons of TNT, and that it will gouge a crater 100-120 feet deep. The resulting tremors, recorded by the seismometer, should tell scientists much about the internal structure of the moon.

The Apollo 12 spacemen deliberately crashed their lunar lander after the left the moon and the impact vibrated the seismometer a surprising 55 minutes, indicating the subsurface material is broken up. A similar explosion on earth would reverberate only a few minutes.

The Apollo 13 astronauts were relaxing on the three-day outward journey in preparation for four gruelling days in the vicinity of the moon.

Preparation for Wednesday's lunar landing begins tonight when Lovell and Haise crawl through a connecting tunnel to inspect the lunar craft they call Aquarius.

They'll check communications, propulsion and other systems to make sure the spindly legged lander is ready for the difficult and dangerous descent to the moon's ancient Fra Mauro highlands Wednesday night.

In this rugged area on the eastern shore of the Ocean of Storms, Lovell and Haise plan to deploy a nuclear-powered science station, drill 10 feet beneath the lunar crust and trek nearly two miles on a geology field trip. They hope to gather rocks dating back some five billion years to the creation of the moon.

The astronauts zipped past the halfway mark—128,000 miles from both earth and moon—Sunday and fired a brief burst of their spaceship engine to shift course slightly and zero in on a spot 70 miles above the lunar surface. They hope to hit that bull's-eye and fire into lunar orbit at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The otherwise uneventful day Sunday was enlivened when Swigert suddenly realized to the amusement of his fellow crewmen that—in the last-minute rush to climb aboard Apollo 13 in place of measles-menaced Thomas K. Mattingly—he had forgotten to file his 1969 income tax return and had left part of his flight plans behind.

The flight information was later radioed to him from Mission Control.

The two-second engine ignition occurred during a 50-minute telecast beamed to Mission Control in Houston. The camera focused on an instrument panel and viewers on earth saw the sudden jolt on monitoring screens.

Lovell, Haise and Swigert started the telecast with an out-the-window view of the moon—nearly three-quarters in shadow.

Their target appeared to be enveloped in a snow storm when the astronauts dumped waste water from the spacecraft fuel cells overboard. The water turned quickly to ice crystals which blew like a blizzard outside the window, with the moon in the background.

The camera panned around the cabin as the astronauts showed some aspects of life in their faraway, weightless world. Swigert demonstrated the operation of optical equipment used in steering by the stars.

Haise zipped himself into a sleeping bag-like hammock slung beneath the couches to show how they can sleep without floating away.

Lovell demonstrated the futility of combing his hair in weightlessness.

North Viets Continue Offensive; Attempt To Disrupt Pacification

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese attacks in the Central Highlands and the northern quarter of South Vietnam killed two more Americans and 25 South Vietnamese as the enemy offensive moved into its 13th day, military spokesmen announced today.

Another 15 Americans and 170 South Vietnamese were wounded.

Enemy gunners also shot down four U.S. helicopters in widely separated parts of the country, killing two more Americans and wounding seven others.

According to captured documents, the Communist high command is referring to the offensive as the X Campaign, and plans to continue it in various phases until June. Informants said they didn't know why the Communists chose that name.

Other captured documents disclosed that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces had been ordered to make an all-out effort to disrupt the South Vietnamese government's pacification program, one source reported.

The worst North Vietnamese assault reported today, apparently a revenge attack, hit a camp housing the families of South Vietnamese Rangers who had been sent to the defense of the Dak Seang Special Forces camp 60 miles to the north.

The transfer of the Rangers left the camp five miles north of Pleiku lightly defended. North Vietnamese sappers broke in during the night, firing rocket grenades and rifles and hurling dynamite bombs. They killed 13 men, women and children, wounded 70 and burned down about 25 houses.

Only two sappers were reported killed.

Earlier Sunday, North Vietnamese troops for the first time fought their way into the Special Forces camp at Dak Pek, a forward base for operations into Laos.

Field reports said 11 Montagnard tribesmen were killed and 88 wounded, including families of the mountain tribesmen as well as those hired as guerrillas. A number of Montagnards also were reported missing.

South Vietnamese headquarters claimed 61 North Vietnamese killed in the attack.

At Dak Seang, under siege since April 1, one civilian irregular was killed and three wounded in a small clash 300 yards from the camp. Enemy casualties were not known. In a second clash six miles south Dak Seang, seven North Vietnamese were killed while there were no government casualties.

In the northern quarter of the country, North Vietnamese sappers blasted their way into an artillery base nine miles southeast of Quang Tri City, killing two Americans. But 36 of the attackers were killed, headquarters said.

The U.S. Command announced that American troop strength has dropped below the 434,000-man ceiling set for April 15, virtually completing President Nixon's third-phase withdrawal and setting the stage for new cutbacks Nixon is expected to announce in a television speech Thursday night.

The command's weekly summary said American troops strength dropped 10,200 last week to 429,200, the lowest in more than three years. Spokesmen said U.S. strength is always one to three per cent below the authorized ceiling.

A spokesman for the U.S. Command said a few small units are still to be inactivated in the third withdrawal round and this will be completed by Wednesday.

Nixon announced the third-round cutback of 50,000 troops last Dec. 16. On Thursday he is expected to announce a new withdrawal of about 50,000 more, although the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff reportedly urged a two-month delay because of the current enemy offensive.

Drug Problem And Vietnam Atrocities Do Exist: Rheault

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Former Green Beret Col. Robert Rheault says American troops in Vietnam are using marijuana and "any commander who says he doesn't have a drug problem has his head in the sand."

Rheault, the former commander of the U.S. Special Forces in Vietnam, and seven other Green Berets were charged last July with the murder of a suspected Vietnamese double agent. The Army later dropped the charges. Rheault retired from the Army in October.

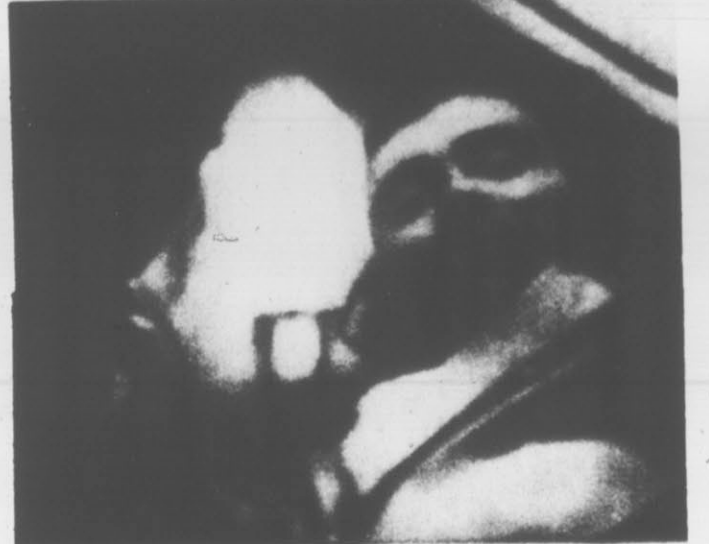

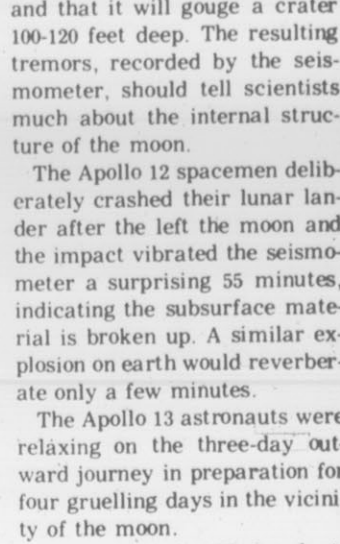

Breaking a five-month silence Sunday in an address at a Knights of Columbus meeting, Rheault said that "American atrocities do happen."

"Some people think the Japanese committed atrocities, that the Germans committed atrocities, that the Russians committed atrocities, but that Americans don't commit atrocities" he said. "Well, this just isn't so."

"Some of these troops are young, scared and inexperienced," he said. "Sometimes they get out of hand. They dehumanize the enemy. They forget the enemy is a human being."

Of his own case, Rheault said there is "nothing I would rather tell you than the true story of Nha Trang. But I can't do that. If I did, I would, as they say, 'blow the cover' of many clandestine operations in that area."

He said, however, that he did "nothing that I am ashamed of as a commander, as a soldier, or as a man."

Fire Rouses Coed Dorm

About 362 co-eds were roused from their beds and ushered out into the cool morning air early today when a fire erupted in New Dorm "C" on the East Carolina University campus.

Fire officials said the fire in the 10-story dorm just off Cotanche Street started in what they termed the "garbage room" where trash is stored, possibly from a cigarette.

Reported at 4:19 a.m., the fire had been extinguished by the building's sprinkler system by the time fire units arrived and no damage resulted.

Firemen reported, however, that smoke from the fire did spread through the building to the top floor.

No injuries resulted and the girls were allowed to re-enter the building in a short time.

N.C. Chaplain Among Dead

ATSUGI, Japan (AP) — A 49-year-old Navy chaplain from Burlington, N. C., was one of 11 persons believed to have died in a plane crash in Okinawa last week, a Navy spokesman said Sunday.

He was identified as Chaplain Lester I. Sommers.

Sommers was aboard an Air Force C130 transport that crashed into the Pacific shortly after take-off on a routine training flight Friday.

Sommers, the Atsugi Naval Air Station's senior chaplain, is survived by his wife, the former Miss Doris Steele of Booneville, Ark.; and three children, David, 19, Karen, 15, and Cheryle, 13.

Veteran Newsman Chosen To Write For Afternoon Dailies

Appointment of Z. Bryan Haislip of Raleigh as manager and correspondent for the 34-member Association of Afternoon Dailies was announced Thursday by M. Paul Dickerman of Wilson, president of the 38-year-old news organization.

A veteran journalist, Haislip, 45, succeeds William A. Shires who recently accepted a position as assistant director of the news bureau at East Carolina University.

In his new position, Haislip will provide member newspapers with features, interpretive and investigative articles about state government, and stories about politics and other topics of statewide interest.

He also will serve as coordinator of a new program to promote exchange of news material among member newspapers, according to Dickerman, associate publisher of the Wilson Daily Times.

He will assume his new duties on May 1.

Founded in 1932, the Association of Afternoon Dailies has the largest circulation of any Tar Heel news-gathering organization with the exception of the Associated Press wire service. Combined circulation of the 34 member papers exceeds 530,000, according to Audit Bureau of Circulation figures for 1968.

Haislip is a graduate of Oak City High School, attended Atlantic Christian College in Wilson, and received the B. A. degree in journalism from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He also studied at the National University of Mexico and Mexico City College.

He served in the Army Air Corps for two years, attaining the rank of sergeant.

After varied service with the Raleigh News and Observer from 1948 to 1951, he joined the Associated Press where he remained for 12 years.

While with the Associated Press, Haislip served as a feature writer and covered state and local government politics, including campaigns and legislative sessions. He also handled special assignments on a statewide basis and wrote sports and general news stories as well as features for national distribution.

Leaving the Associated Press in 1963, Haislip joined the public relations firm of John Harden Associates, Inc. where he is employed as Raleigh office manager responsible for administration, supervision of accounts, and initiation, planning and carrying out of full public relations service for clients. He also is executive secretary of the North Carolina Association of Broadcasters.

Haislip has been active in Raleigh religious, civic and cultural affairs.

He is married to the former Mary Allen Nicholson of Raleigh and they have two children, Zesely B. Haislip, Jr., 15, and Teresa Allen Haislip, 13.

A "Public Forum to Meet Candidates" is being sponsored by the provisional chapter of the Pitt County League of Women Voters (LWV) at the Pitt County Court House at 8:00 p. m. on April 24.

The LWV, a non-partisan organization dedicated to promoting informed citizen participation in government, has interviewed the 27 candidates for various public offices who will be seeking election or reelection in the May 2 primary.

In the public forum, each participating candidate will be allotted five minutes to state his views followed by a three minute period for answering questions from the audience.

Another recent voter service performed by the LWV has been the compilation of an informational booklet, "Know Your Candidates." This booklet is being widely distributed in the county through civic organizations and business firms.

The 27 candidates campaigning for public office this year, and who have been invited to participate in the forum are:

—U. S. House of Representatives — R. Frank Everett

D. Rouse, Jr., and Charles H. Whedbee (both Democrat).

—Third Judicial District Solicitor — Luther Hamilton (Democrat).

—Pitt County Clerk of Superior Court — H. H. Lewis, Jr. (Democrat).

—Pitt County Commission, District No. 4, Winterville, Chiodo, Grimesland — B. Vernon Cox (Democrat).

—Pitt County Commission, District No. 5, Ayden, Swift Creek, Grifton — B. Alton Gardner (Democrat).

—Pitt County Commission, District No. 1, Greenville

(Republican); Walter B. Jones (Democrat); and Gene Leggett (American).

—N. C. State Senate — (Seat 1) — Julian R. Allsbrook and Jerome Paul (both Democrats); (Seat 2) — Marvin Blount, Jr. and Vernon E. White (both Democrat).

—N. C. House of Representatives — (Seat 1) — H. Horton Rountree and Charlie H. Tyler (both Democrat); (Seat 2) — Sam D. Bundy and David E. Reid, Jr. (both Democrat) and Frank Steinbeck (Republican).

—Third Judicial District Superior Court Judge — Robert

Township — J. Vance Perkins and Robert L. Ramey (both Democrat).

—Pitt County Board of Education — William McLawhorn, Mark W. Owens, Jr., (both Democrat) and Thomas H. Patterson, Jr. (party affiliation not given).

—Pitt County Coroner — John M. Gray and E. W. Harvey, Jr., (both Democrat); and —Pitt County Sheriff — Ralph L. Tyson, (Democrat).

Thus, of the total of 27 candidates, the majority, or 23 candidates are campaigning on the Democratic ticket. Two are seeking election on a Republican ticket; one on the American Party; and one candidate failed in the report to indicate party affiliation.

The public is invited to attend the forum to hear the candidates give a brief summation of their views on a number of issues. It is not known at this time how many of the candidates will be able to be present, but a committee woman of the LWV said preliminary indications are that a large percentage of them will be on hand for the occasion.

Man Is Wounded In Resisting Arrest

Ernest Junior Taylor was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for a bullet wound in his right leg, then placed in Pitt County Jail Sunday afternoon on charges which included resisting arrest and assault on an officer.

Taylor, a 37-year-old Negro from Route 3, Greenville, was shot in the left hip by Highway Patrolman Billy E. Day following a scuffle that broke out after Trooper Day attempted to arrest Taylor on a public drunk charge.

According to Sgt. L. G. Pate, Ptl. Day placed Taylor under arrest on the Brick Kiln Road about 4:20 p. m. for allegedly being drunk. When the officer and Taylor got to the patrol car, Taylor "refused to get in and broke away from the officer and ran out into a field," Pate explained.

After "tusseling in the field," according to the Patrol sergeant, Taylor started to advance on Trooper Day and Day "then saw he was not able to handle him (Taylor), pulled his revolver and fired at the subject."

Taylor, who received a flesh wound in the left hip was treated at the hospital, then placed in Pitt County jail under a $500 bond, charged with public drunkenness, resisting arrest and assault on an officer.

Sgt. Pate described Taylor, a logger, "as six-feet four or five inches tall and weighing 245 or 250 pounds. Ptl. Day, the sergeant said, is about five-feet nine-inches tall and weighs 185 to 190 pounds.

Williams-Knight Vows Exchanged In Ceremony

WASHINGTON — Jenifer Mason Knight and Ralph Edwin Williams pledged their double ring marriage vows in the First Baptist Church on Sunday in a three o'clock ceremony. The Rev. Luther J. Matthews, pastor, heard the vows.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. James Mason Knight, of Washington and the late Mr. Knight, and Mr. and Mrs. William Edward Williams of Greenville.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Gladys Allgood, organist, and Mrs. Dave Milligan, soloist. Mrs. Milligan sang "O Promise Me" and "The Wedding Prayer".

A cathedral arch with urns of white gladioli, stock, pom pons, and gypsophelia placed on each side formed the setting for the ceremony. Candlelight was provided by white tapers in a white candelabra tree flanked by small palms. A prayer bench completed the setting.

The bride was escorted by her brother-in-law, Phillip Wayne Martin, of Goldsboro. He along with the bride's mother gave her in marriage.

The bride wore a day length dress of re-embroidered alencon lace over silk faced peau, fashioned with a highrise waist, handclipped lace scalloped neckline, marked by seed pearls and long sleeves with calla points. The slightly flared back was accented by tiny lace-covered buttons.

The bride's shoulder length veil of silk illusion was attached to a crown, embellished with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a colonial nosegay of white bridal roses, stock, and gypsophelia.

Mrs. Phillip Wayne Martin of Goldsboro attended her sister as matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a seafoam crepe day length dress with empire waist. The bodice and sleeves were of matching alencon lace. The detachable back panel was accented with a border of lace and her matching headress was completed with veiling. She carried a ribbon covered basket of tinted majestic daises in hues of yellow, pink, and blue.

The bridegroom was attended by his father as best man. The ushers were Louis Paige Davis cousin of the bride, Washington William Edward Williams Jr. brother of the bridegroom, Sidner Marks Posey II and Joseph Lee Smith, all of Greenville.

Mrs. Thomas M. Singleton Jr was mistress of ceremony. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Knight selected a day length dress and coat ensemble of king's blue with bone accessories and white carnation corsage. Mrs. Williams chose a day length pink dress with matching lace coat, pink accessories, and also wore a white carnation corsage.

The bridegroom's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Joseph Williams of Robersonville was presented a carnation corsage as well as the bride's foster grandmother, Mrs. Ellis Hamric of Greenville.

The bride is a graduate of Washington High School. She also graduated from Pitt Technical Institute, Greenville, where she recieved an associate in applied science degree as a medical secretary. She is presently employed as a medical secretary in the office of Dr. Billy E. Jones, Greenville.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Rose High School, Greenville.

He also graduated from Pitt Technical Institute, receiving an associate in applied science degree in accounting. He is employed as and analyst in the Budget Control Department, Newport New Ship Building and Dry Dock Co., Newport News, Va.

Upon their return from an unannounced wedding trip, the couple will live in Washington.

Reception

Following the Williams - Knight wedding, mother of the bride entertained with a reception in the social area of the church.

Receiving in the entrance hall were Mr. and Mrs. William A. Daniels, William Lawrence Dudley III and Mrs. H. R. Paschall.

Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence B. Carowan and presented to the receiving line which formed in the church parlor, which featured arrangements of white carnations, pom pons, and snapdragons.

Mr. and Mrs. C.S. Graves and Dr. and Mrs. Henry L. Stephenson directed guests to the fellowship hall.

The bride's table was overlaid with white cutwork linen and in the center was a silver candelabra with white tapers and epergne of white bridal roses, snapdragons, and gypsophelia.

The silver punch service at one end was presided over by Miss Clara Mae Ellis of Henderson. A the opposite end of the table was decorated tiered wedding cake.

The bride's register table was covered in white linen. A miniature bride and bridegroom that was used on the bride's parents's wedding cake was displayed under a glass dome, surrounded by lily - of - the - valley. Miss Marietta Moore of Raleigh invited guests to register.

Others assisting in receiving and serving during the reception were Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Davis of Greenville, Mrs. Gilbert Davis, Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Knight of Pinehurst, Mrs. Guy T. Swindell, Mrs. W. I. Leonard, Mrs. Jerry O. Allgood, and Mrs. Barry Barber. Good - byes were said to Dr. and Mrs. William E. Kidd.

After - Rehearsal Party

Mr. and Mrs. William Edward Williams entertained Saturday night at an after - rehearsal party honoring the Williams - Knight wedding party in the Williams home, Greenville.

A bridal motif was carried out in decorating with wedding bells and miniature bride and bridegroom.

Spring flowers composed of daffodils, camellias, azaleas and flowering crab apple with burning tapers were used throughout the house. The bride's table was covered with a white cutwork cloth centered with an epergne of yellow mums, snapdragons and pom pons with yellow tapers.

Cake was served by Mrs. Russell Williams and Mrs. Ronald Wynne. Punch was poured by Mrs. Burroughs Taylor and Mrs. J.L. Williams.

The bride - elect was remembered with a corsage of white carnations which complimented her blue and white ensemble.

Fiance Learns 'By The Book'

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My fiance wants to be fully prepared for marriage so he is trying to get all the information possible beforehand. He has stacks of books on the subject, and he runs to every movie there is to get more information. I try to tell him that Adam and Eve didn't have any lessons and they managed, but he says so many marriages fail because of bungling and wrong techniques that he is fearful.

He says he is curious but not yellow. And I had to teach this man how to kiss! Do you think all this information is necessary?

M. A.

DEAR M. A.: IF HE thinks it is, it is.

DEAR ABBY: Our first baby [I'll call her "Pamela"] was born so hopelessly retarded she had to be placed in an institution. We visited her a few times, but she didn't know us anyway, so we just quit going. After a while we just put Pamela and everything about her out of our minds. At least we tried.

We have three healthy children now and none of them knows about Pamela's existence, and my husband agrees there is no point in telling them.

We live in a different neighborhood now, and no one here knows about Pamela, however, we are still in the same city, and plenty of people knew about her when she was born.

I worry night and day that someone who knows about Pamela will say something in front of our children. We've been able to protect them so far, but how can we be sure they will never find out?

I am a nervous wreck from worrying about this. Can you please say something to reassure me? I can't sign my name, and please don't mention my town. PAMELA'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: From what are you trying to "protect" your normal children? The knowledge that they have a retarded sister? You need to re-examine your thinking. Mother. Retarded children are neither uncommon nor "disgraceful." They appear in the best of families. I suggest that you tell your children about Pamela. And the sooner the better.

DEAR ABBY: There are lots of women like the one "MAD AT ME IN ALBUQUERQUE" resented for pushing ahead of her in the checkout line of a grocery store. But there are many courteous people who don't shove in ahead of others.

In fact, I cannot begin to count the times a woman [I am a man] has asked me to step ahead of her in line when I'm standing there with only one item in my hand. In such cases, I always have the exact change ready, and also help her unload her cart.

Which reminds me! Who was the merchandising genius who dreamed up the idea that the cashier should lean clear across the counter plus the customer's cart to struggle with a 15-pound ham, while a lard-rump dame just stands there looking into space?

JUST WONDERING

DEAR JUST: Good question.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you so much for your few kind words in defense of homosexuals. I am the mother of one, and I live in fear that one day he may take his own life. Most homosexuals feel that they were born that way and are not the product of their environment.

Please ask any one of your medical experts how easy it would be for him to turn himself into a homosexual if society demanded it.

I hope and pray that some day there will be a medical cure for these poor persecuted individuals. SAD MOTHER

If the Shoe Fits.

BY

AVERETTE

Size 7 sox for size 7 shoes?

A youngster asked for size 7 sox "because he wears size 7 shoes." Unfortunately, the size of men's sox do not relate to the shoe size - the young man needed size 10½ sox. Your shoe fitter can tell you the proper size sox to match your shoe size.

Stockings should be long enough to allow all the toes to lie flat in the shoe. If stretch sox do not allow this, they are not proper for your feet. Children's stockings sizes change as rapidly as do their shoe sizes. Stockings that are too small, bind and restrict bones and muscles and retard blood circulation. Good foot health requires the same care in selecting hosiery as in fitting shoes.

A Wider View Of 'Mediocrity'

It is a sad time for America when its president has to stand before the nation and the world to announce that it is impossible to appoint a man to the United States Supreme Court because he comes from a certain section of the nation.

Yet that is just what President Nixon had to do last week after two moderate judges from the South had been turned down by a prejudiced majority of the U. S. Senate.

"I have reluctantly concluded that it is not possible to get confirmation for a judge on the Supreme Court of any man who believes in the strict construction of the Constitution as I do, if he happens to come from the South."

The president went on to announce that he would submit a new nominee from some other part of the country. He said he had asked Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell "to submit names to me from outside the South of judges from state courts, appeals courts as well as the federal courts, who are qualified to be on the Supreme Court and who share

Story Refuted On One Count

(Today's guest column was written for the Association of Afternoon Dailies by Bill Lindau, a reporter for the Asheville Courier - Tribune.)

By BILL LINDAU

There's nothing like a story with pictures in a national circulation magazine to give a boost to the tourist business.

Such a feature with color pictures about the Sandhills horse and golf country of Moore County appeared in the April of Holiday, a national circulation magazine generally devoted to places that appeal to well-heeled travelers.

The story, by Steve Birmingham, author of books about America's upper economic echelons and places where they relax, did, however, upset some of the horse - country people of Southern Pines.

Since I live in Southern Pines and knew about the story in advance, I was looking forward to its publication.

Generally, the story's defects are minor - except for one point.

The writer quotes an anonymous citizen of Southern Pines as saying in effect there's an unwritten agreement that blacks are not to be seen after dark on the streets on Southern Pines.

Speaking from the experience of living there since August, 1966 I can say "hogwash" to this charge.

And the anonymous source's statement can be refuted by facts picked off at random:

—Since 1955, at least one Negro has been a member of the Southern Pines Town Council.

—And probably just as long, the Southern Pines Police Department has had at least one Negro, uniformed, sworn police officer. And the last time I looked there were at least two. (This is for a town of 6,000 population with a ten-man police force.)

Not only has Southern Pines had a Negro councilman after every election for the past 15 years, but one served two-year terms as mayor pro tem of the town - that is, until he resigned last year to accept appointment to the State Board of Conservation and Development.

The man is Felton Capel, a 40-year-old Howard University graduate who worked his way up in his home town in business from door - to - door salesman of my view . . . with regard to strict construction of the Constitution."

"I understand the bitter feeling of millions of Americans who live in the South about the act of regional discrimination that took place in the Senate . . . They have my assurance that the day will come when men like Judges Carswell and Haynsworth can and will sit on the high court."

We cannot disagree with the president's decision to turn to another area of the nation for a Supreme Court nominee. For it is obvious that narrow-mindedness reigns in the United States Senate. Perhaps these prejudiced senators reflect the feelings of their constituents. We hope not. We cannot believe that millions of fair minded Americans feel the way that these so called leaders of the nation do.

There was much said about mediocrity as the Senate debated these two southern nominees. We couldn't honestly say whether either man is mediocre, for the words were never backed up with facts. We think, however, that all of us can look further that these two nominees for mediocrity. We have a feeling that all the mediocrity that the nation can stand will be found in the United States Senate.

Answers May Be Found In Inquest Transcript

All the nation will be awaiting the release of the secret transcript of the Mary Jo Kopechne inquest tomorrow.

The transcript has been kept secret until it was certain that there would be no further legal action in the case. A Massachusetts Grand Jury ended the matter recently and now the transcript has been cleared for release.

There were a great number of unanswered questions after that night when Sen. Kennedy's auto went off a bridge and Mary Jo drowned. The senator's public statement served to answer few of them.

Perhaps the inquest will answer some of the questions and since Sen. Kennedy is a national political figure the public deserves some answers.

Mitchell Sees Gloss Fading

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Considering the extreme embarrassment he has caused President Nixon, Republican Senator, and the South, John Mitchell, the President's political chief, might have more trouble getting confirmed by the Senate for Attorney General today than his two personal choices, Judge Clement Haynsworth and Judge G. Harrold Carswell, had in their losing battles for the Supreme Court.

"The nation may blame President Nixon for this," Sen. Marlow Cook, the Kentucky Republican who voted against Carswell, told us, "but the fault lies not there. It lies in the Department of Justice."

What Cook said publicly was being said privately with hostile embellishments wherever two Republican Senators gathered to discuss the second humiliation to Mr. Nixon in his efforts to fill that empty ninth chair.

Though little hard evidence is available yet to indicate that, in fact, Mitchell's days of glory are really ending, the handwriting is becoming visible on the wall. Its source is the surprising number of blunders and poor staff work that have been coming from the Justice Department, the political storm center of the Nixon administration and chief promoter of Mr. Nixon's Southern strategy.

Two stories illustrate the point. One Republican Senator, who remained uncomfortably on the fence for weeks during the Carswell debate, specifically asked Sen. Roman Hruska of Nebraska and Sen. Edward

By ART BUCHWALD Hints For A Taxpayer

WASHINGTON — One of the paradoxes of the American tax system is that it's easier for a man to deduct a strange lady from a business trip than it is to deduct his own wife. The IRS authorities will believe that a strange lady could easily be of value to a businessman in the capacity of a secretary or what have you, but they're very skeptical that a wife could serve any useful function.

Not long ago, the Research Institute of America put out a helpful guide for husbands wanting to deduct their wives from business trips they took together.

Here are some of the suggestions made. The examples are mine.

1—During a trip, keep a record of all the services your wife performed that could be described as necessary rather than merely helpful. One test: if your wife stayed home, would you have needed to bring someone else along?

Example: Mrs. Plumbell's justification: "My husband, George Plumbell, would never have made it without bringing me along. If I hadn't been in the room to receive the long distance call from California, I wouldn't have been able to get George off the golf course, and he might have lost the Worthington Crushed Papaya account. George's friends and associates told me many times during the convention that if I hadn't come along he would have certainly brought somebody else with him."

2—If possible, show what business resulted from your wife having accompanied you, for "nothing succeeds like success."

Example: "If it hadn't been for my wife, Myra, I would never have been able to unload those faulty mussel valves on the Bureau of Off Limits Drilling. The purchasing agent was so busy pinching my wife under the table that he signed the order without reading the specifications. Myra was black and blue for a week."

3—Keep any letters from customers received before or after a business trip showing that your wife's presence was desired or appreciated.

Example: "Dear Archie: It was great seeing Priscilla at the knife sharpener's convention last week. She was really a sight for sore eyes and when she danced on the table, topless, at 3 o'clock in the morning, she made the convention. All the wives are still talking about it."

"I also want to tell you how much we enjoyed the snake dance she led through the Hilton Hotel in the early hours of the morning."

"Here is your share of the damage. We prorated it between Priscilla, Marge Bernheim and Hilda Marton who seemed to have the best time of all the women. I hope you'll bring Priscilla next year. People are already inquiring if she'll be there."

Learned It All By Mail

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Some 600 million people throughout the world suffer from chronic headaches, often of mysterious origin. A new medical theory holds that a majority of such cases may result from overlooked neck injuries and often can be cured by putting the patient in traction.

Do you bite your fingernails? That may cause them to grow up to 20 per cent faster than normal, thus giving you still more to chew on.

No wonder smart businessmen are courting brides and teen-agers. The average bride spends three times as much for her initial purchases of home furnishings as a typical U.S. family does in a year. As for teen-agers, 17 per cent now own their own television sets, 75 per cent own radios, and 18 per cent own a tape recorder. Teen-agers also account for 25 per cent of the $4 million a year cosmetics industry.

Speaking of brides again, few of them will start married life in a romantic cottage small by a waterfall. Some will move in with Mom and Dad, and 80 per cent will rent a housekeeping apartment.

Quotable notables: "A woman will almost never tell you the truth, while most men defendants will. Women have a future, concealing nature, and to some extent they're pathological liars who can conceive of situations that never existed." — Veteran defense lawyer James D. C. Murray.

The weather affects us all. Here's what happens, for example, as the barometer falls during a period of low air pressure: Most people are more forgetful, worker efficiency drops, lost-and-found departments are busier, banks clerks make more errors, and absenteeism climbs.

Despite the billions America spends on health, it is far from being the healthiest nation on earth. Thirteen countries have a lower infant mortality rate, and in 17 countries men live longer. Fewest newborn babies die in Sweden, and it is there also that life expectancy at birth is highest—71.6 years.

To our shame, however, the United States does lead in a dismal field—environmental destruction. Nearly 50 per cent of the world's industrial pollution is caused by our factories, refineries and motor cars.

Overcoming handicaps: Blind Ray Charles, the popular Negro entertainer, can do more than sing and play the piano. According to a profile in the New Yorker magazine, he can type 70 words a minute, is a good cook, and can play winning chess.

Safety statistic: A recent study revealed that teen-age drivers who had drunk two bottles of beer or less were almost three times as likely to be involved in car accidents as those who stuck to soft drinks.

It was Meister Eckhart who observed: "The very best and utmost of attainment in life is to remain still and let God act and speak in thee."

Other Editors Say Seat Belt Ads

(New Bern Sun-Journal)

According to some critics of the American scene, the people's choices in everything from the deodorants they use to the men they elect to national office are determined by the image makers, the fashion manipulators, the television program packagers, the Madison Avenue hucksters.

While there is no denying the influence of advertising, for both good and ill, like most critiques of American manners and mores the charge is overstated. We are far from being putty in the hands of those who control or have access to the information media.

As evidence of this is what Marketing Communications magazine calls "advertising's biggest flop" — the total failure of a $51-million campaign to convince people to use seat belts when they drive.

Before the campaign began early in 1968, some 63 per cent of car owners had seat belts installed and a study showed that 35 per cent of them claimed to be using them "all or most of the time."

By last July — 18 months and countless television "spots," billboards, bus posters, newspaper ads later — 65 per cent of car owners had seat belts but only 35 per cent were using them all or most of the time.

During this same period, those who used their belts "hardly ever or not at all" increased from 39 per cent to 43 per cent. The percentage is even worse with regard to shoulder belts, which have been required on all cars built since Jan. 1, 1968. Less than 5 per cent of those who have them wear them.

No one is going to tell Americans what to do. As for the 56,000 of us who died on the highways last year they are beyond telling anything.

Information Bonanza In Census

By ELMER ROESSNER

America's first national mail-in census has been taken. The bits and pieces of information are now being fed into the computers. A month from now we should get the first faint image of Portrait America: 1970.

The image will be familiar and hold few surprises. The Census Bureau operates all year and every year, not just once a decade. After each big count the Bureau keeps busy making running estimates of trends and updating figures. The total U. S. population will be about 205 million. Minority groups, especially the Negro, will be somewhat larger than the 1960 census indicated. Last time many non-whites ducked the count. Efforts to "get out the vote" this go-around should result in more accurate, higher figures.

More people will be in the upper and medium income brackets and fewer in the lower brackets. Inflation alone would give this result. But, in addition, the per capita gross national product is up over 1960 and public and private efforts to assist minority groups are having some effect.

On The Move

The census will reveal the nature and extent of some obvious trends. The long-term trek from rural areas to the cities and from urban areas to the suburbs continues. April's samplings will give a clearer picture of who is moving and to what particular neighborhood; whether they are rich, poor or in-between. This will be invaluable information to manufacturers, distributors and retailers.

The questionnaires will also reveal what kind of housing Americans live in and, by implication, what its needs are and will be. Also, how many cars, if any, are parked outside the house, the plumbing facilities and various other equipment. Utilities' use and costs are also covered.

The baby products and services market will be neatly laid out as well as the scope of such social problems as the aged, indigent, widowed and divorced.

Youngest Group

All of the various age groups, except the under 10-years segment, have already been put through the calculating machines. An important phase of this census will be analyzing, categorizing and labeling the post 1959-generation.

It is known broadly how many workers are in the labor force and whether they're working or not. But all kinds — blue collar, white collar, professional, managerial, and the like — will be pin - pointed as to location, availability, salary level and age. The tally can even indicate how many are moonlighting.

Census figures and various analyses of them will be available from the government and various private firms that specialize in handling, organizing and interpreting data. All of this can be obtained by business for a price — and a very reasonable one, at that.

Perhaps one black day someone will figure out how to charge what the traffic will bear for census information. It could eliminate the taxpayers' cost entirely.

CHAMPIONS

He is a Champion. The press photographers are on hand to take his picture. The kids gather about him and give him a great ovation. Ladies smile graciously upon him. Men of standing put their arms about his shoulders and tell him he has a great future ahead of him.

Then all at once he fades out of the picture. When his name is mentioned people look blank and say, "Now just who was that guy? I remember hearing things about him in the past but to save my life I can't recall now what he did."

Champions come and champions go. A little group of world champions in different fields live on and become members of the Hall of Fame, but they are few indeed in number. Try to think of the twelve greatest persons that ever lived and you will be scratching your head and looking off wistfully into the distance shortly after you have named the sixth great person.

Few people ever get to be Champions, and not one person in a million stays a Champion through the ages. We are foolish if we long to be Champions. We destroy our own happiness if we grieve over the fact that we have never been a Champion. Can you remember who was a champion in any field ten years ago? Forget it. Remember the words of Robert Louis Stevenson: "The world is so full of a number of things, I think we should all be as happy as kings."

Senators Up For Re-Election Will Feel The Heat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats Albert Gore of Tennessee and Ralph Yarborough of Texas may get the most heat because of their votes against G. Harold Carswell, but other senators up for re-election this year could feel a warm breeze or two.

This early opinion comes from politicians in several key states and from the senators themselves in the wake of last Wednesday's 51-45 Senate rejection of President Nixon's second try at appointing a Southern judge to the Supreme Court. "Only time can tell," Gore said Sunday when asked what impact his anti-Carswell vote will have on his effort to win another term.

But he said his decisions against Carswell, and against Clement F. Haynsworth last fall, "were very hurtful to me."

Texas politicians believe Yar-borough's vote against Carswell definitely will affect his current primary race with Lloyd Bentsen, who supported the nomination.

"Sen. Yarborough should vote for Texas at least once in a while," Bentsen said after Carswell was rejected. "The defeat was a combination of anti-South, ultra-liberal forces that think the Supreme Court is a place to write laws rather than interpret them."

The Democratic primary winner probably will face another Carswell supporter in the general election, Rep. George Bush, a Houston Republican.

In Tennessee, Gore is expected to win the Aug. 6 Democratic primary and most likely will face Rep. William E. Brock in November.

Brock has criticized Gore's support of native Tennessee Abe Fortas, who was forced to resign from the high court under fire last year.

"Thus the senator," says Brock, "staunchly defended the virtues of liberal Justice Abe Fortas only to in turn condemn the 'indiscretion' of Judge Haynsworth and he now votes against Judge Carswell because his record looks bad."

But one Tennessee politician who backs Gore says the issue will have no effect whatsoever. "By November, nobody will remember who the hell Carswell was," he said, asking he not be quoted by name.

Of the 35 Senate seats at stake in this year's election, 25 are being defended by Democrats, the rest have Republican incumbents seeking a new term. Among these who could be troubled by the Carswell affair is Winston Prouty who voted against the nomination.

Prouty faces what promises to be a fierce re-election struggle even though he's a Republican in a predominantly Republican state facing a liberal Democrat.

The Democrat, however, is former Gov. Philip H. Hoff, a 45-year-old Kennedy follower who in 1968 completed an unprecedented three terms in office as the state's first Democratic governor in more than a century.

Hoff fired off some pro-Carswell statements just before the key voting began last week and Prouty reportedly got a release from the administration to vote against Carswell as long as it didn't affect the outcome.

He voted against the nomination Wednesday but the outcome already was clear when the clerk reached his name.

"I don't think that the average voter judges a man on one vote or one issue," said Republican Gov. Deane C. Davis, a thought echoed by most other observers who indicated Prouty's position will have no bearing on his re-election campaign at all.

Another state where the Cars-well affair could have impact is Pennsylvania, where Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott is up for re-election.

Scott's defection was a key factor in the defeat of Haynsworth. He voted for Carswell but he appeared at times to be reluctant, leaving the GOP leadership chores to others.

Labor and Negro groups carry considerable clout in the swing cities of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. But Scott's soft approach may neutralize the issue despite the fact potential Democratic opponents have been using it and the state's NAACP leader says "we're not going to let Scott forget."

In North Dakota, Republicans, questioned at a state convention at Grand Forks Thursday, said the Carswell affair could become a factor against Democrat Quentin Burdick's re-election campaign, but not a major one.

Burdick's probable opponent, Congressman Thomas Kleppe, said Burdick's vote against Carswell would be a campaign issue "possibly a big one, depending to some degree on who the President nominates next." Burdick, however, said if Kleppe mentions it, "I'll just remind him about the 13 moderate Republicans who opposed Carswell and see if he wants to take them on."

Similar views were expressed by other Democratic contenders.

Tiny Birds Are Italian Delicacy

By CHARLES BELL
ROME (UPI)—Julius Caesar liked figpeckers. He ate them whole, each little bird roasted atop a wild red mushroom and flavored only with a pinch of salt and a dash of olive oil.

Modern day Italians like figpeckers, too. And larks, robins, bullfinches, blackbirds, snipes, plovers, linnets, thrushes and crows as well as quail and pheasant.

They Strive To Get Jobs

CHICAGO (UPI) — Think students spend all their time knocking the Establishment? Not so, says William T. Tucker.

"They knock one another over to get job interviews," says Tucker. "Today's student is an aggressive dollar-chaser."

Tucker heads up Youth Data Corporation, management services firm specializing in 14-24 year-olds.

Nearly 76 per cent of U.S. students — age 16 to 24 — bring home pay checks today, compared to 68 per cent in 1965, Tucker reports. This means 9.7 million students earn their own money sometime during the year.

"Four out of five of job-holding students work less than 35 hours a week," Tucker said. "The average student work week is 20 hours. Older students, 20 to 24, average 27 hours per week."

Students 16 to 24 pull down $600 per year, on the average.

In the 22-24 male group, one-fifth make as much as $3,000 a year.

Auto Is Worst Reindeer Enemy

HELSINKI (UPI)—The worst enemy of Finland's steadily dwindling reindeer herds is neither the hunter nor the wild beast. It is motorized man.

Game wardens in the country's far north, where the reindeer is the Lapps' main source of livelihood, said that out of the 2,200 reindeer known killed in 1969, motorists accounted for 1,000 and trains for 600, while wolves and hunters killed between 500 and 600.

think that this letter, questioning the Senate's right to say no, swung a crucial vote against Carswell — that of Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, a Senator who understands Senatorial prerogatives.

The other was the round-robin letter of endorsement from Carswell's fellow judges. In the words on one Republican Senator, "When they start log-rolling with Federal judges, I won't play."

Much of the political grievance against Mitchell by the Republican left and center stems from his Southern strategy. When Mitchell tried to scuttle the voting rights bill, these Republicans handed him a major defeat and voted to retain the heart of the 1965 law. When Mitchell reversed desegregation policy at the Health, Education and Welfare Department at the last moment and won a lower court delay in the Mississippi school case, the Supreme Court unanimously struck him down.

Moreover, Mitchell is held accountable by Senate Republicans for the embarrassing plight of the President in the matter of Electoral College reform. Mitchell let Mr. Nixon get way out on a limb in favor of direct election of the President, abolishing the Electoral College, before the Justice Department thoroughly understood the ominous potentials of direct Presidential elections.

This appetite for small birds on the dinner table is turning into one of Italy's most heated issues, embittered by the fact millions of migrating birds are on their annual spring flight north.

Many tiny birds will never make it north of Italy.

Thousands of hunters, permitted by a controversial new law to use nets to trap birds, are expected to capture millions. Many birds will wind up, contrary to law, on dinner tables and restaurant menus.

Animal lovers and conservationists ganging from U.S. astronaut William Anders to novelist Vladimir Nabokov joined the fight to overturn the law. School children have marched in protest, waving placards reading: "The country of St. Francis won't have any birds."

The netting law was passed Jan. 25. It slipped through parliament at a time when politicians were preoccupied with a budding crisis that resulted in the fall of the government 13 days later. It forbids killing any birds caught in nets. But few persons believe the law will be obeyed and conservationists believe it cannot be enforced.

The uproar has touched political nerve ends. The ministry of agriculture announced earlier in March that it was banning any kind of bird hunting on 12,047 specified acres of land, an area representing 1-6,000th of the country's territory. It also set aside 74 acres for protection of the near-extinct Italian Eagle.

"We have given ourselves a barbaric license," said Arturo Osio, head of the Italian chapter of the World Wildlife Fund, which fights to protect animal and bird life.

Plastic Glasses One Way Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Vacation homes offer Mom the chance to get away from it all. But how can you get away from it all if you have a sink full of dirty glasses nightly?

According to Sol Tepper, chairman of the board of the Hunter Manufacturing Co., you needn't feel bound by the existing limitations of disposable kitchenware. He points out that a clear, thin-walled container that resembles glass can be wrought in proper shapes for serving anything from champagne to an old-fashioned.

4—Photographs of your wife with customers or other business associates (and of course their wives) may be helpful, as well as shots of her at their factories or other places of business.

Example: "Dear Sir: Enclosed please find a selection of photos taken at our medical convention which I am enclosing with my tax return. The lady dealing the cards at our cabana in Nassau is my wife. The other three gin players are Mrs. Selma Rosenkrantz, wife of the vice president of the Do or Die Surgical Supply Co., Mrs. Frederick Piltown, whose husband is president of the First National Blood Bank of Terre Haute, and Mrs. Jennifer Cook, wife of the executive director of Medicare Transplant Mutual Fund.

"The second photo of my wife visiting the first aid room at the Paradise Island Gambling Casino, and the third photo shows her swimming in the ocean with some of the leading neurosurgeons form all over the country."

These are only a few of the tips that are offered to justify your wife going with you on a business trip. If you find it too much bother, the best thing to do is leave your wife at home and take someone with you whom the internal revenue people trust.

Duke Power Company Plans Seek General Rate Increase

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Duke Power Company's president says the utility will soon seek a general increase in its retail and wholesale electricity rates in an effort to offset what it calls inflationary rises in operating and capital costs.

Duke President W. B. McGuire also said in his announcement Sunday that the rate increase is needed to keep pace with the largest expansion program in Duke Power's 66-year history.

McGuire said the applications for the increase will be filed with the North Carolina Utilities Commission, the Public Service Commission of South Carolina, and the Federal Power Commission "at the earliest practicable date." Duke operates in the Piedmont and mountains of both states.

"The rate increases are absolutely essential if Duke Power is to be able to raise on a reasonable basis the additional capital that will be required to construct the plant facilities needed to meet the great growth under way in our Piedmont service area," McGuire said.

He added the company has had only one general rate increase in its history—in 1962—and since then has had six substantial rate decreases.

The announcement is the second for an electric utility in the Carolinas recently. Carolina Power & Light Co. plans to seek a 10.5 per cent rate increase.

The Duke president also said the firm will ask the North Carolina Utilities Commission to reconsider its March 24 decision to deny the company's application for authority to add a fuel clause to its retail electric rate schedule.

The commission turned down the request to allow an increase or decrease on the basis of the cost of coal it uses for generating about 90 per cent of its power.

NO DICE

LONDON (AP) — British model Lara Koski, 19, came back from the Paris collection with a "no dice" verdict on Frenchmen as would-be lovers.

Said Lara: "We got pestered a bit more than we would in London but Frenchmen are just a laugh. They're so egotistical it's unbelievable Little lumps of garlic, that's all they are."

Cambodian Soldiers Loot And Destroy An Abandoned Village

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer
NO NAME VILLAGE, Cambodia (AP) — "The Viet Cong came and took the Vietnamese villagers away from here, that's why there is no one here," the Cambodian captain said, snapping at the flies with his braided oxwhip.

His two companies of troops moved through the village on the Prek Trabek River where mostly Vietnamese had lived. They searched the small thatched huts, then put matches to the tinder-dry walls.

The captain, flicking his whip, said he didn't know the name of the village. None of his troops did either, and it really didn't matter. In their eyes all the Vietnamese villagers were Viet Cong.

One soldier, carrying a basket full of small items taken from a house, pointed at the river and chattered nervously. A body was drifting slowly downstream on its back. It was a Vietnamese man in civilian dress, and he appeared to be still alive although wounded.

The soldiers began to unlimber their AK47 rifles, but the man twitched convulsively and turned on his face. "Viet Cong, Viet Cong," the troops said, but didn't waste a shot. The man had died.

The captain said there had been a battle in No Name Village earlier in the morning. Two Cambodian villagers who cautiously returned described in sign language how Viet Cong and Cambodian forces had clashed in the village. There were no casualties on the Cambodian side, however, and the Viet Cong withdrew to another village three miles downstream.

While some of the troops set the looted houses ablaze, others cautiously probed the numerous reinforced bunkers that the Vietnamese had built beneath their houses. The captain said the Viet Cong had tried to entrench themselves in the village by fighting from the bunkers.

Down a dusty wagon path which wound under leafy shade trees, the troops formed a skirmish line before a large Catholic church, the pride of the village. They set up a machine gun and fired repeated bursts through the closed wooden doors. Then the troops moved inside, sacked it and set it afire.

The roof collapsed in a roar and the life-size statues of the Virgin Mary and Joseph could be seen through the flames.

The giggling soldiers rounded up chickens and ducks and tied them to their belts for the evening meal. One soldier led a pony, another had a cow in tow. Three pigs were shot, and the troops loaded the carcasses on a truck that also carried bicycles, bedding and goods from the small village store.

By noon, the village was gutted, and at least 70 houses were burned, the homes of Cambodians as well as Vietnamese, along with the mounds of straw that had been piled up to feed the cattle during the current dry season.

The Cambodian government's report of the operation Saturday said its forces at 5 a.m. Saturday launched a mop up operation about a mile south of Kompong Trabek, in Prey Veng Province.

"Helped by the complicity of Vietnamese residents," the communique said, "the Viet Cong—numbering around 50—hidden in the homes of the Vietnamese fired on Cambodian troops. Our troops killed seven Viet Cong, captured four clips of ammunition for Chinese-made assault rifles, and seized 16 bags of rice. The homes of the Vietnamese were set afire."

Opposes Funds For Revolutionary Uses

RALEIGH (AP) — The leader in a fight among Episcopalians against policies of their national church spoke out Sunday night against allocation of funds to "revolutionary political groups."

"It's not hard to bring the cattle into the corral, just cut off the water in the pasture," said Dr. Paul Kratzig of Victorian, Tex., president of the Foundation for Christian Theology. He urged Raleigh Episcopalians to join the movement.

Kratzig said Episcopal allocations to groups such as the Black Economic Development Conference are spent to purchase printing presses to turn out propaganda "advocating the overthrow of the United States."

He also spoke out against a proposal to merge the Episcopal church and eight other Protestant denominations into a new church, saying it would create a "20th Century Tower of Babel."

"This new church would be formed by the hand of man, not by the hand of God," he said.

In calling for decentralization of Episcopal power, Kratzig presented a four-point program: —The abolition of the "special program" of the national church through which funds are allocated to "militant groups." —A new domestic mission program controlled locally by individual dioceses.

—A 25 per cent reduction in the money contributed to the national Episcopal church, with the funds being allocated by a Council of Bishops and Laymen to less-affluent dioceses which would administer the funds locally.

—More emphasis on programs to combat drug addiction.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Ladies Auxiliary honored the Gold Star parents at a dinner Saturday night at the Post Home.

Gold Star chairman Mrs. Woodrow Boyd, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Broughton and Mrs. Kenneth Brown greeted guests upon arrival.

Each mother was presented a corsage and each father, a boutonniere.

Following dinner, the Rev. Chester R. Phillips, Grace Free Will Baptist minister, spoke on "Appreciation of Freedom."

He said that freedom, as anything else, is never appreciated until it is denied a nation.

Mr. and Mrs. David McGowan, Louis Reel and Elton

Reel, known as "The Reel Quartet" sang several selections and led group singing.

On behalf of the guests, Mrs. T. E. Dickerson, thanked the VFW Auxiliary for their hospitality.

The various committees were also thanked. Committee chairmen for the event were: decorations, Mrs. Broughton; food, Mrs. Carrie West; entertainment, Mrs. J. A. Joyner Jr.

Gold Star guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Lester Sutton; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Davenport; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Whelihan; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hodges; Mrs. Margaret Tetterton; Mrs. J. L. Rollins; Mrs. Roy Cox; Mrs. Dickerson; Mrs. Kenzie McGlohon; Mrs. Paul Vincent; Mrs. M. C. Sermons; and Mrs. Norwood Conway.

Places at the tables were set amid centerpieces of yellow mums and lighted candles. Accenting favors were silk gold-fringed American flags in holders, which were placed at honored guests' places.

Earlier, Davis told a news conference that President Nixon is not going to end the Vietnam war, "We are going to end this war."

When asked if demonstrations are effective, Davis said, "there are no channels in the country for legitimate change."

Retired Brig. Gen. Hugh Hester, 75, told the antiwar group that the U.S. is the aggressor in Vietnam.

"I believe in national defense, but I am equally opposed to national aggression," Hester said. "We do not have to go 10,000 miles to defend ourselves against barefooted peasants."

"The Saigon government doesn't represent anybody in Vietnam at all," he declared. "They represent the federal government in Washington."

Mrs. Billie Nelms of Norfolk, Va. will conduct the literacy workshops to be held at St. James Methodist Church here Tuesday through Thursday.

Rockets Hit Mid-Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — The enemy fired three rockets into the center of Saigon tonight and one hit a theater three blocks from President Nguyen Van Thieu's official residence.

One person was killed and 36 were reported wounded.

The rocket that hit the theater south of Thieu's Independence Palace was a 100-pounder that tore through the roof and burst above the stage during a folk drama.

A 122mm rocket crashed through a wall of the three-story main Post Office building, a block and a half from the U.S. Embassy.

A third rocket crashed into the Saigon River, barely missing U.S. dock facilities. The impact smashed windows in a riverfront hotel.

Mark FDR Anniversary

WARM SPRINGS, Ga. (AP) — "Today, it was 25 years ago that I became an unexpected witness to history," said the woman who was painting the President's portrait when he collapsed.

Madame Elizabeth Shoumatoff stood beside the unfinished portrait of Franklin Delano Roosevelt and described it as "a portrait that so suddenly, so dramatically was never finished."

Mme. Shoumatoff and about 700 others gathered at the "Little White House" in Warm Springs Sunday to observe the 25th anniversary of Roosevelt's death.

Roosevelt, who spent most of his adult life crippled by polio, discovered the warm waters of the springs in 1924, and in 1932 had the cottage that is now known as the "Little White House" built on the side of Pine Mountain. It cost $8,200.

On April 12, 1945, he collapsed and died there.

'Committed' Music Faculty Praised Here

"If we could find other groups of committed faculty such as you have, the principles of comprehensive musicianship would have much more impact nationally," Dr. Robert J. Werner, National Director of the Contemporary Music Project, commented to East Carolina University School of Music Dean Thomas W. Miller.

Dr. Werner, director of the project of the Music Educators National Conference under a grant from the Ford Foundation, was a recent guest of the ECU School of Music in conjunction with the annual Music Education Workshop.

At the workshop, 48 public school teachers from North Carolina were in attendance to explore comprehensive musicianship instruction and its application to public school music instruction.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina poultry market steady. Live poultry at farms 12 cents per pound.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices experienced a mild but broadly based slump early this afternoon.

The decline was attributed largely to depressing effects of an $1.57-billion American Telephone & Telegraph Co. debt issue today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was behind 2.25 at 788.21.

Losing issues on the New York Stock Exchange led winners by a margin of almost 2 to 1.

The interest rate for the AT&T offering was set today at 8 1/2 per cent. That rate is considered to be attractive enough to lure large sums of money from the stock market. Consequently, the issue is considered a market depressant.

AT&T, which was up 1 1/4 at 52, led the Big Board's most-active list with a volume of 150,200 shares.

Declines ran through steels, motors, rubber issues, mail order-retail, and utilities.

Glamor issues were generally lower. Prices of glamor stocks included Control Data, off 1 at 48 1/2; IBM, off 1/2 at 331; and Polaroid, off 1/4 at 93 1/2. Xerox was ahead 1/2 at 87.

lessness. After he ran a comb through it, his hair stood straight up.

The ground commented on Lovell's beard and the commander replied: "We thought we'd take care of our beards tomorrow and make that one of our daily routines."

The telecast was not picked up live by the television networks, but was taped and parts were shown on later news programs.

Commander Lovell assured friends of Swigert that all is well when he relayed a picture of the smiling bachelor with the comment: "I thought we'd get a picture of Jack just so all the girls would know he's still up here."

In addition to forgetting his income tax, Swigert reported he had left a card at Cape Kennedy which listed experiment deletions from the flight plan.

The deletions, mainly of scientific photographic assignments, were ordered by space agency officials because Swigert is less familiar with the experiments than Mattingly had been.

At one point, Swigert asked about some symbols related to a photography experiment in the flight plan. Mattingly took over the control center microphone to explain and received a "thank you" from his substitute.

During the quiet hours, Swigert studied his solo lunar orbit duties and Lovell and Haise reviewed maps of the Fra Mauro area.

Daylight Saving Means Confusion

NEW YORK (AP) — "The United States' 'annual bout with confusion' is due at 2 a.m. on April 26, when many Americans will advance clocks, watches and other timepieces by one hour, marking the beginning of daylight saving time.

The confusion stems from the fact that not all Americans will switch to the new time. For example, in 1966, before Congress passed a law standardizing DST more than 600 million citizens living in 20 states made the annual time change, but more than 80 million other Americans either did not go on DST at all, or did so on a later date in the spring.

There were then 18 states that observed DST on a statewide basis, 18 other states where some communities observed it, and isolated communities across the country that observed "wildcat DST," a sort of voluntary compliance without formal legal sanction.

Today 47 states (excluding Michigan, Arizona and Hawaii) officially observe DST, although scattered communities within them do not.

According to researchers, Benjamin Franklin originated the concept of DST in 1784 while he was serving as U.S. Ambassador to France. Supposedly, he awoke early one morning in Paris, and seeing daylight, thought of moving clocks ahead one hour in order to conserve and lengthen the working day.

Franklin's concept first was utilized 200 years later in World War I as a temporary emergency aid to conserve fuel for lighting and heating. The idea stuck, but confusion grew as different areas set up their own timetables.

Complaints about the patchwork observance finally led Congress to pass a law fixing the last Sunday of April and the last Sunday of October as mandatory starting and ending dates for DST in states observing the change. All states were given the option to legislate against the time change.

The bill was signed into law by President Lyndon B. Johnson and became effective in 1967.

The hitch is that the law affects only states. Cities and other communities remain completely free to set their own standard times, and to switch to and from these standard times whenever they choose.

Vain Hope For Town He Set Up

CLARENDON, Tex. (UPI)—The Rev. Lewis Henry Carhart established this town in 1878 on the premise Clarendon would have "no whisky forever."

Carhart hoped to found a community of non-drinking members of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

But nine years later the railroad built south of Carhart's town and a new town of the same name sprang up along the tracks. Carhart's hopes for a "dry paradise" soon disappeared.

TALL TROUBLE

BLACKDOWN, England Army recruit Michael Venables is a chap that girls look up to. At 16, he is 6-feet-10-inches tall and still growing.

The Royal Army Ordnance Corps has had to find him custom-made uniforms, boots and bed. Said Mike: "My one trouble is getting through doors. I keep forgetting to duck and have bruises all over my head."

MOTLEY MATERIALS

ALBANY, Ore. (UPI)—A distributor has sued an aquarium owner for non-payment of materials. The suit seeks money for "200 horn toads, 5,000 mealworms, 1,000 cardinals and 6 iguana."

The Original Microfilmer In Hall Of Fame

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—An original microfilmer—the same model which helped convict mobster Al Capone of income-tax violation—has joined the "Hall of Fame" of Eastman House, museum of historic photographic equipment.

Invented to record bank checks, the unit is one of 229 microfilmers produced by Eastman Kodak Company in 1929, one of which is credited with providing a microfilmed copy of a check supporting federal charges against the gangland czar of the 1930s.

A 1927 reader unit also was presented to the museum.

These early microfilm units represented an historic breakthrough in the technology of record-keeping.

Littler And Billy Casper Facing 18-Hole Playoff

ASPER ON KNEES — Billy Casper goes to his knees as he begs his putt to drop on seventeenth green in fourth round of play in Masters. If it had dropped, it would have given him a birdie and an eventual win; but it stayed out just as his birdie putt did on eighteen, forcing a playoff with Gene Littler. (AP Wirephoto)

When Pitching Is Good, It Is Very Good In Southern Conf.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
When the pitching in Southern conference baseball circles is good, it's very, very good. When it's bad...

There was a little of both in the league doubleheaders Saturday, and it was just about a tie-off between the pitchers and hitters. Three of the eight games were marked by good pitching. Four were decided by one run, of which 10 were hit in eight encounters.

Six of the roundtrippers were in the George Washington-Richmond twin bill, in which the spiders won the opener 5-4 and the Colonials the nightcap 8-7.

The defeat knocked GW out of the Northern Division lead.

William and Mary's Indians, getting pitching and hitting, moved to the top at 4-0 in the Northern Division to 3-1 for the Colonials by winning twice over Virginia Military Institute's Keydets, 2-0 and 7-6.

A pair of splits in the Southern Division left East Carolina on top at 3-1, followed by defending league champion Furman at 3-2. The Citadel at 2-3 and Davidson at 1-3 with all four still very much in the running.

East Carolina won its opener from Furman 4-1, but the Paladins took the nightcap 5-4. Davidson won its second game from

The Citadel, also by 5-4, after the Bulldogs had won the first encounter 3-1.

Ron Hastings' four-hit pitching, plus four runs on four hits and a walk in the sixth inning, gave East Carolina its victory in the opener against Furman. Jerry Martin's three-run homer in the fourth inning was the decisive blow as the Paladins took the second game.

The Citadel won the opener from Davidson on pitching, a three-hitter by Doug Pounder, and a two-run homer by John Bledsoe. Davidson scored twice in the top of the seventh in the nightcap cut short a Bulldog rally that produced two runs in the bottom of the inning when left-fielder Gordon Slade threw out the potential tying run at the plate.

All conference teams are idle today.

By HUBERT MIZELL

Associated Press Sports Writer
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Gene Littler, a quiet man who already drives three Rolls Royces, faced a jittery 18-hole playoff today against crosstown buddy Billy Casper for a mere coat of green.

For that coat of green, South African Gary Player would have swapped the world.

Casper's 10-foot putt to win it all Sunday whipped out of the 18th hole and the muscular Player—trying to make it a party of three today—missed from seven feet and left coastless.

"I'll tee it high and let it fly Monday," promised Casper, who converted quickly from the grim putt-misser of the 18th to a smiling playoff man preparing for another day.

Asked about his tactics for the 2:15 p.m., EST, shootout, Littler mulled so long that Casper answered for him, "He'll tee it low and let it go."

Casper and Littler live 25 miles apart in the San Diego, Calif., area and have played golf together since the last shot of the Korean War. Both are devoted family men who skip many $150,000 tournaments to fish with their kids.

Littler's off-course hobby is antique cars. His garage is cluttered with three sparkling, old Rolls Royces and a model T Ford. "They're all like me," he said in the Herb Shriner-type drawl. "They can't drive too far."

Both Californians have won the U.S. Open in their glittering golf careers, but neither has captured the Masters and its famed green jacket. Littler won the 1961 Open and Casper was best in 1959 and 1966.

There were many heroes on the chilly, bleak Sunday at Augusta's National Club. But when the spotlight settled on the humbling 18th green, there were only three. Two made it and Player missed by two inches on a 10-foot putt.

Casper's rounds of 72-68-68-71 gave him a nine-under-par 279 total for the week. Littler made it with an incredibly consistent 69-70-70-70. Player's closing 70 left him a strike shy at 280 after a weak Thursday opening of 74 on the rolling 6,980-yard course.

"My father always told me to be humble in victory and smile in defeat," said a dejected Player, who who the Masters in 1961.

"Well, fellows, here are my teeth. I'm smiling at you."

Today's winner in the nationally televised playoff will receive $25,000 of the $203,801 payoff. The loser gets $17,500.

Player said he "would have rather lost by five shots than on the last putt" when picking up his $14,000 third-place reward. Bert Yancey, a threat all week who lost out with a bogey at the 18th, wound up with 70-281 and won $10,000.

Yancey and Player hit the same sand trap on the 420-yard finishing hole and failed to make their putts for pars.

Georgian Tommy Aaron, Dave Hill and Dave Stockton picked up $6,667 for 283 aggregates and Jack Nicklaus—who exploded into contention with an eagle 3 on No. 2—failed to generate a threat up the stretch and took a $4,500 check. Nicklaus finished eighth with 69—284.

Arnold Palmer, who never broke par in this 34th Masters, buzzed the course in his private jet after finishing almost three hours head of the frontrunner. He had 75-73-74-73 for 295, tying the four-time Master champion for 36th place in the 48-man windup.

Casper may have won it all

Sunday had it not been for the 530-yard eighth hole, a usually simple stop that caused several heartbreaks during the week.

Nicklaus died as a serious threat there on Saturday when he lost a three-wood second shot and was shocked with a triple-bogey 8.

Casper drove to a bunker and hit his second shot fat. It left him 207 yards to the green.

"I walked to the top of the hill to see how far I was away," said Casper, who has added back about 15 of the pounds he lost on his famous diet.

"Then I walked up a second time to check the pin placement. I was tired and my third shot showed it."

Casper's effort landed near the curbing of an asphalt cart path. He was allowed to drop the ball from the curb, but had to play it from atop the pavement.

"I teed it up on some wood chips after failing in three drop attempts," he said.

"I had a fair lie—as good as you can on asphalt—but hit it in the woods from there. I punched onto the green and two-putted for an easy 7."

There have been five previous Masters playoffs. Gene Sarazen defeated Craig Wood on a 36 hole in 1936.

The rest have been 18-hole extras with Byron Nelson beating Ben Hogan in 1942, Sam Snead whipping Hogan in 1954, Palmer beating Player and Dow Finsterwald in 1962 and Nicklaus beating Tommy Jacobs and Gay Brewer in 1966.

Palmer's 68 in '62 was the lowest score ever in a playoff and Brewer's 78 the worst.

Lund Wins Good Showing In Dogwood250 Colonial Relays

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Tiny Lund of Cross, S. C., crossed the finish line four seconds ahead of Sonny Hutchins of Richmond, Va., Sunday to win the second annual Camp Dogwood 250 at Charlotte Motor Speedway.

Lund, who won his fourth consecutive NASCAR Grand American race, pushed his Camaro over the 2½-mile course at an average speed of 130.488 miles per hour, a 250-mile record at the speedway.

Hutchins, rookie Larry Wallace of Pinetree, N. C., defending champion Jim Paschal of High Point, N. C., and Lund switched the lead four times.

The race was quiet with only three caution flags, two from minor accidents and a third when Paschal blew his engine and oil had to be removed from the track.

The race was sponsored by the Lions Club. Proceeds go to the North Carolina Association for the Blind's Camp Dogwood near Charlotte.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — East Carolina University, paced by Ken Voss, turned in its finest showing of the spring in the Colonial Relays Saturday.

Voss won the three-mile run, setting a new East Carolina school record in the event. He finished the course in 14:23.5, breaking his old mark of 14:30.5.

Third place went to Neil Ross, who also surpassed the old record with a time of 14:29.7.

Voss also finished second in the steeplechase with a time of 9:41.2.

East Carolina also picked up seconds in the sprint medley relay and the mile relay. In the sprint medley, William and Mary barely nosed out the Buc for top spot. East Carolina finished in 3:27.1. Barry Johnson led the Buc team with a :50.3 quarter, while Mark Hamilton ran :21.8 220, and Jerry Covington covered the same distance in :21.9. James Kidd ran the half-mile anchor in 1:52.3.

In the two mile, the Buc time was 3:21. Covington had :50.1, while Johnson was :49.7. David Thomas did his quarter in :50.3, and Kidd turned in a :49.9.

The Bucs were fourth in the four-mile relay.

Dennis Smith finished fourth in the freshman mile in 4:23.8. The Pirates were hurt when Lannie Davis pulled a muscle while in contention in the distance medley relay, forcing the Buc team out of that event.

East Carolina University's baseball team begins a busy week here Tuesday afternoon, hosting The Citadel in an important Southern Conference doubleheader at 1:30.

Thursday afternoon the Pirates go to Raleigh for a non-conference game with arch-rival North Carolina State, then return home to University Field for a pair of weekend single games against Southern Conference foes. The Bucs will entertain Richmond at 2 p. m. Saturday and VMI at 2 p. m. Sunday.

Coach Earl Smith's diamond men currently sit atop the conference's Southern Division standings with a 3-1 record. Two weeks ago the Pirates swept a doubleheader from The Citadel at Charleston and nothing would please them more than to repeat that performance here Tuesday.

Righthander Ron Hastings and Sonny Robinson both turned in completed game victories against the Bulldogs in the first meeting, but Smith probably will have to rely on other members of his strong mound staff Tuesday.

Both Hastings and Robinson pitched last Saturday in the Bucs' twinbill split with Furman. Hastings went the distance to win the first game, while Robinson worked five innings in the nightcap and was charged

The California Angels know this can't keep up. The Milwaukee Brewers aren't so sure.

The topic of discussion was hitting, something both teams did a lot of Sunday.

"I thought we'd have more hitting, but you can't honestly expect anything like that," said Lefty Phillips after his unbeaten Angels exploded for five quick runs in the sixth inning and shelled Kansas City 7-5, raising their team batting average to .355.

"I feel great. Now I just have to keep it up," said rookie outfielder Danny Walton, who belted a two-run homer in the opener—his third in two days—and drove in two more runs in the nightcap as the Brewers blasted the Chicago White Sox 5-2, 16-2 and evened their record at 3-3.

It was a stunning display by the two teams that brought up the rear in American League club batting a year ago—the Brewers, then the Seattle Pilots, at .234 and the Angels at .230.

Elsewhere, Detroit ended Baltimore's five-game winning streak 7-2, Washington held off Boston 6-5 and Cleveland edged the New York Yankees 2-1 before losing the nightcap 5-4. Oakland and Minnesota were rained out.

In the National League, Cincinnati swept San Francisco 6-5 and 5-2, Houston shelled Atlanta 8-3, Los Angeles blanked San Diego 6-0, Montreal tripped the Chicago Cubs 2-0, the New York Mets downed St. Louis 6-4 and Pittsburgh took Philadelphia 3-1 in 10 innings.

California's four-game winning skein seemed in jeopardy until Roger Repoz walloped a two-run homer and Jim Fregosi slammed a three-run shot to wipe out a 5-2 deficit. Jim Campanis homered for the Royals.

"You've got to be amazed at that kind of hitting," said Phillips.

"I've never seen any club hit like this. Some of the kids like (Bill) Voss, (Aurelio) Rodriguez and (Jay) Johnstone were on the verge of becoming hitters until this year. (Roger) Repoz has been a pleasant surprise and Rodriguez is hitting like heck. I didn't expect that. I don't know where we'll finish, but I think we'll battle for first place. We won't finish any lower than third."

The Brewers also had an enjoyable weekend after dropping their first three starts in Milwaukee uniforms. But Walton gave them the spark Saturday with a pair of two-run homers that wiped out a 4-0 deficit and the Brewers went on to record their first AL triumph.

"Walton started looking good the last 10 or 12 days of spring training and won himself a job. He had a good series. I just hope he can keep it up," said skipper Dave Bristol.

The hitting bug even got to pitcher George Lauzerique who drove in four runs, three with a homer, and went the route in the nightcap. Outfielder Steve Hovley helped him with a double and two singles for five RBIs. Walton connected in the opener.

Joe Niekro, backed by a 13-hit Detroit attack, hurled the Tigers past Baltimore, although he needed last-out help from Tom Timmerman. The Tigers shelled loser Mike Cuellar in a five-run fourth inning.

Niekro, who drove in two runs with a triple in the big inning, stopped the heavy-hitting Orioles with only a bunt single by Mark Belanger until they broke through with single runs in the eighth and ninth. The right-hander, obtained from San Diego in an off-season trade, pitched a shutout against Washington in his American League debut last week.

Washington made the most of six hits—Boston had 45—mainly because Mike Epstein belted a two-run homer and Frank Howard hit two long doubles and drove in two runs. Gerry Moses had a single, double and homer for the Red Sox.

Sam McDowell struck out 10 Yankees and moved past Carl Hubbell into 34th place on the all-time list as Cleveland won its opener. Russ Nagelson provided the winning run with a homer off loser Mel Stottlemyre.

After the Indians tied the second game with two out in the ninth on Danny Cater's bases-loaded, two-run throwing error, the Yankees came back to win it on John Ellis' single and three walks. Mike Paul walked pinch hitter Ron Hansen to force in the winning run. It marked the third time in the game the Yankees scored on a hit and three walks.

The plan: Medi-car.

Our special equipment can see things no human eyes can. So during each VW-diagnosis, it can actually spot problems before they can become real problems.

Take the unit above.

It's similar to the electrocardiograph which doctors use to test the electrical activity of the human heart.

We use it to do the same with your car's heart: the engine.

In seconds, it can tell us if the dwell angle of your contact points is too large, or if the resistance in your spark plug wiring is too high.

Unchecked, either of these could cut gas mileage and engine life.

But the main point is: While our Medi-car equipment would spot these problems before any damage is done, during a normal check-up no mechanic alive could.

Volkswagen Medi-car: It's a whole new way of life.

Secret Nixon Instructions On Arms Talks

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Bearing secret instructions from President Nixon, U.S. negotiators set out today for a crucial round of talks with the Soviets on curbing the arms race between the two superpowers.

The six-man team led by U.S. disarmament chief Gerard Smith is stopping first at Brussels to brief the NATO allies Tuesday on the forthcoming U.S.-Soviet Strategic Arms Limitation Talks—SALT.

Then Thursday, at Vienna, the U.S. envoys sit down with their Soviet opposites to begin tough bargaining that is expected to go on for months. The two sides held a preliminary discussions session at Helsinki last fall.

Both the United States and the Soviet Union are moving cautiously on SALT, which involves the basic nuclear weapons power of both nations. If an agreement is reached, it will be a landmark of the atomic age.

Nixon met with the U.S. negotiators over the weekend, gave them final instructions and wished them well.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler gave no hint of what the instructions are. Reporting on the 50-minute meeting at the White House, he said only that "the delegation is going to Vienna with a constructive attitude."

Other sources said they expect the United States will offer a specific missile curb proposal at Vienna a few days after the April 16 opening. They doubted the proposal would be for a general missile freeze at the outset, though they left open this possibility later on.

Columbia Eagle Arrives At Subic Bay Base

SUBIC BAY, Philippines (AP)—Columbia Eagle, the U.S. munitions ship held three weeks in Cambodian waters after two crewmen hijacked it, arrived at the U.S. Navy's Subic Bay base today.

The freighter prepared to unload her 1,750-ton cargo of bombs and ammunition, which she was carrying to U.S. forces in Thailand when the hijackers seized the ship March 16.

The hijackers tricked 24 crewmen overboard in a lifeboat and sailed into Sihanoukville, Cambodia, with 15 crewmen and the captain, Donald Swann. The crewmen from the lifeboat were picked up by a sister ship.

The hijackers remained in Cambodia, where they were granted political asylum.

Tipsy Wasps On Stinging Orgy

LONDON (AP)—Tipsy wasps have been on an orgy of child stinging in Britain, a beekeeper revealed.

"Wasps," said beekeeper Nicholas Simmons, "get 'drunk' and drowsy by crawling into fallen fruit to feed on."

"It is when they are tipsy that they are at their most menacing," he said. "They are attracted by flashes of light reflected in the eye and will go for a child's face in a second."

Mrs. Roger Mann, retiring president, was presented a gift of two resource books to be placed in the school library.

Pursued, He Wrecks Car

Alvin Gurkins, 23 of Route 5, Greenville was charged by Highway Patrolmen Saturday night with driving under the influence, speeding 105 miles per hour, reckless driving and driving while his license was revoked.

Gurkins was charged after he wrecked his car during a high speed chase on a rural road near Frog Level, west of Greenville on U.S. 264.

According to Sgt. L.G. Pate, Gurkins was being pursued down a rural road near Piney Grove Church by Patrolmen J.C. Ball, W.L. Thames and Billy E. Day, when he failed to stop for a stop sign at the intersection of U.S. 264. The Gurkins car crossed the busy East-West highway and ran into a wooded area, causing an estimated $250 damage to his car.

"The incident occurred about 10:30 p.m., according to Sgt. Pate.

Editor Was No Neutral

By LOTTE SEIDLER
GOTHENBURG, Sweden (UPI)—The Allies were on their way to victory in Europe 25 years ago this spring and, gravely ill though he was, Torgny Segerstedt rejoiced.

His own Sweden was a neutral throughout World War II, but Segerstedt was not neutral. He fought Adolf Hitler and the Nazis with his pen for 12 long, dangerous years.

Just before VE Day, Segerstedt died. His last words were said to be: "Is Norway free yet?"

At the time of his death, Segerstedt had been the managing editor of the Gothenburg newspaper Handels Och Sjöfartstidning for nearly 30 years. Under his guidance the paper carried the banner of liberalism and became an early and outspoken critic of Nazi Germany.

Both Segerstedt and the paper paid a price for their stand. The paper was outlawed in Germany, there were economic reprisals, and Segerstedt's life was threatened repeatedly.

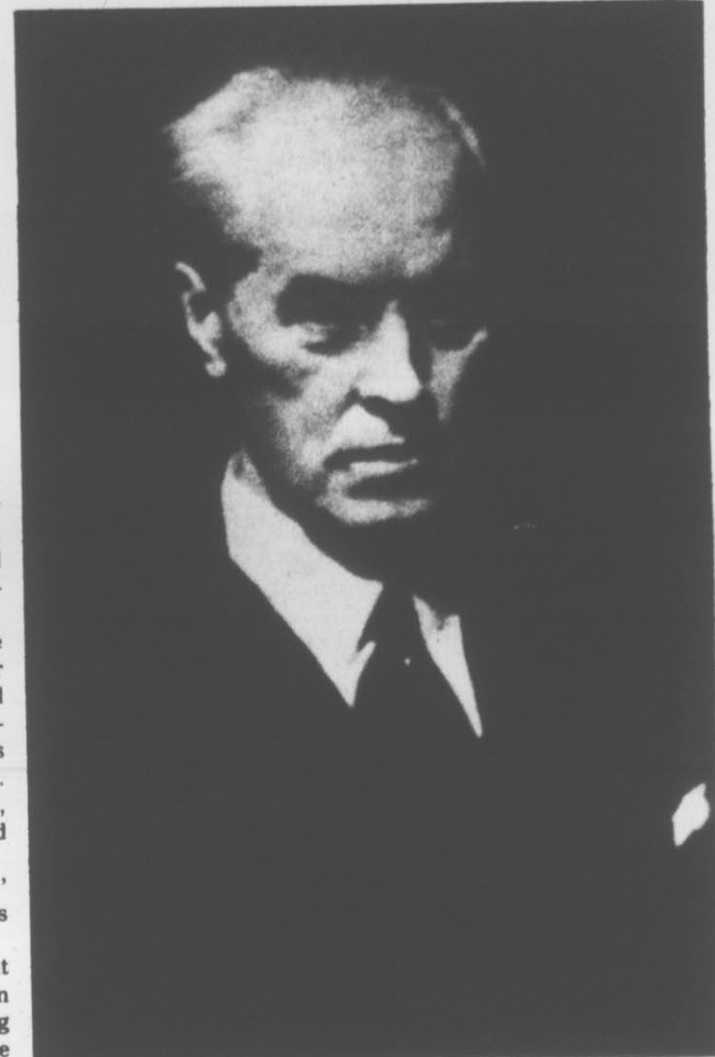

The first blow, came in 1933, shortly after the Nazis had come to power in Germany.

In his daily column, "Today," Segerstedt said, "Mr. Hitler is an insult."

A few days later Segerstedt received a telegram from Hermann Goering, protesting "most vigorously against the statements about the German chancellor" and asking whether the paper would take steps against such remarks in the future.

Segerstedt checked the origin of the telegram, then published it in its entirety.

At the end of 1939, some members of the Swedish business and academic communities started publishing signed protests in other newspapers against Segerstedt's articles. His paper, they claimed, did not help "preserve the peace."

TORGNY SEGERSTEDT was not neutral, though his own Sweden was neutral throughout World War II. As a newspaperman he fought Hitler and the Nazis with his pen for 12 long years. (UPI Telephoto)

An organized economic boycott followed. Those objecting to Segerstedt's stand contended it was not worthwhile advertising in a paper whose circulation was dropping and whose opinions deviated from those commonly held in Sweden.

Actually, the paper's circulation continued to rise throughout the war. At the time, Swedish newspapers depended more on circulation than on advertising for their profits and Segerstedt easily weathered the boycott.

Segerstedt's newspaper was among the first in Sweden—the first anywhere—to print an account of German concentration camps in Norway.

PATHS of the PILGRIMS

Left, the mayor of Boston, England, shows Guildhall cells where Pilgrims were imprisoned. Right: legend says these pillars from a church in Abingdon, Berks., are Mayflower's masts.

Austerfield, Yorkshire: birthplace of William Bradford, Pilgrim who was later governor of the Plymouth colony in Massachusetts.

Three hundred and fifty years ago, the adventure began. And the wonder of it grows more, not less, with the passing of time. The Pilgrim Fathers set sail from Plymouth, England, on September 6, 1620, a handful of people in a tiny, wooden ship.

Each year of crowded history which unfolds adds to the epic significance of that first act of courage and imagination. The growth and development which make our world seem so different from theirs, and which have carried us so far from that uncertain beginning, merely redound to the credit of their small, heroic enterprise.

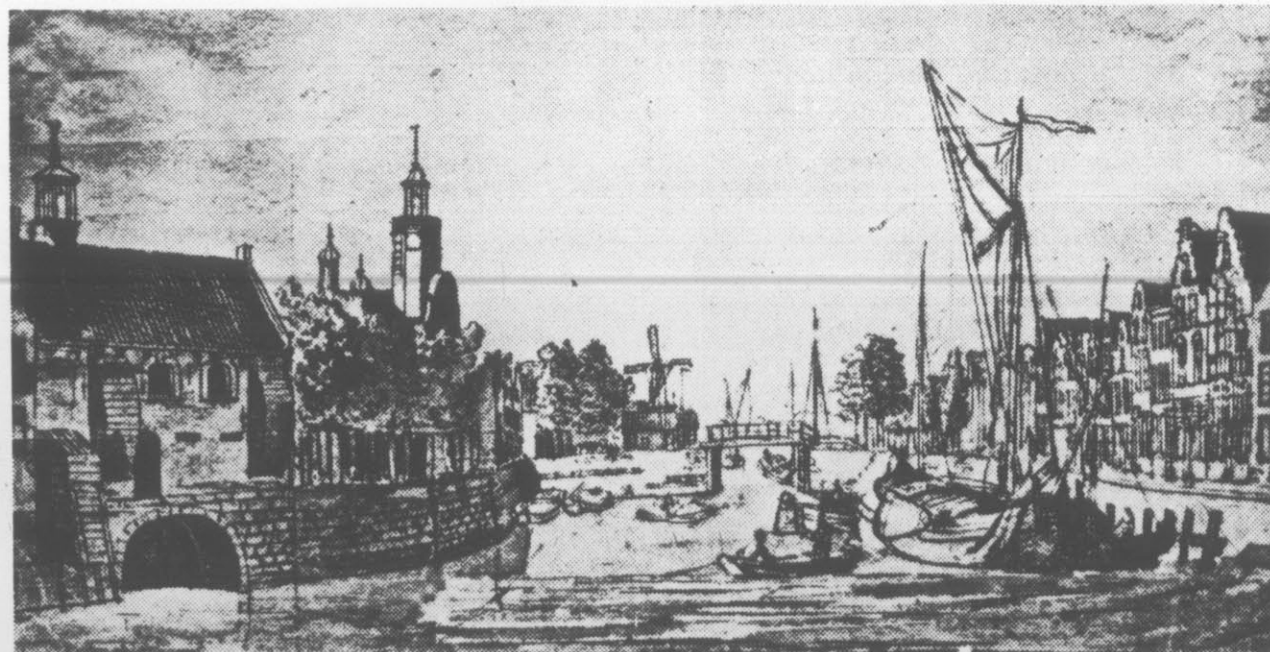

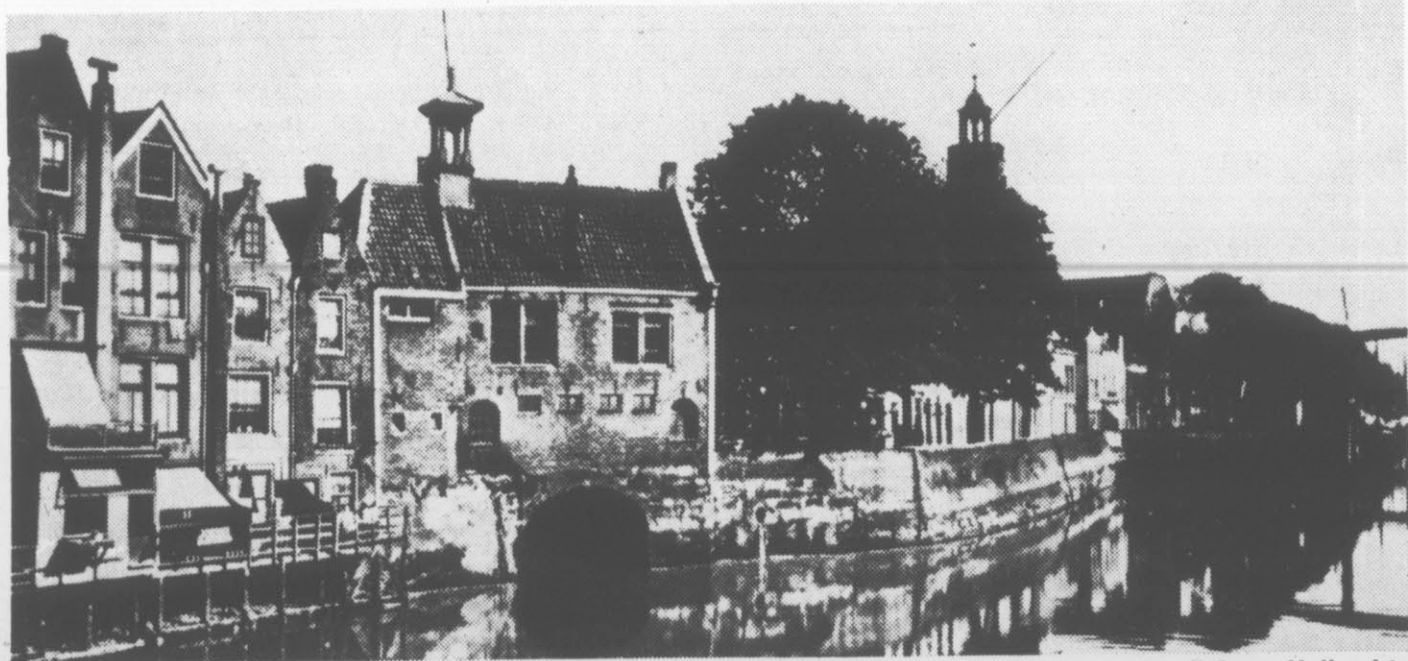

The Pilgrims' first steps outside England were taken in 1607, when some of them fled to Holland to escape religious persecution, before deciding to try to get to America. In July, 1620, 35 of them set sail for England from Delfshaven and joined contingents from London and other parts of England. Some 102 passengers finally sailed from Plymouth, England, in the 90-foot Mayflower, crossed the Atlantic in 66 days and founded the first self-governing colony in America.

The past will be brought to life with particular vividness this year, as anniversary celebrations and commemorative ceremonies are held in many places in England and Holland where there are historical links.

On this page, Picture Show glances back from our New World to that Old World which the Pilgrim Fathers left behind—for it can still be seen. Some of the visible traces of it which have survived are well-known; some are less obvious and come as a special, unexpected reward to the patient seeker.

And for those who cannot be there to see with their eyes, there are the echoes which our hearts and minds can catch in an anniversary year like this when these events are specially in our thoughts.

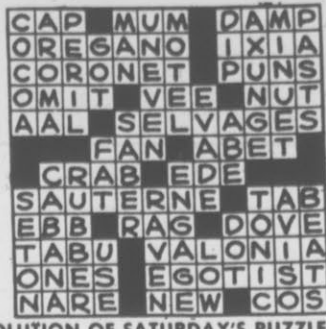

Delfshaven, Rotterdam: Aelbrechtskolk, where the Pilgrims set sail from Holland to England in 1620. Left, as it is today; right, an old drawing made in 1780.

The Worry Clinic Understanding Is The Secret

Cavett Robert is a star salesman of our American "free enterprise" system. And he also illustrates perfectly the versatile talents of a topnotch orator, so you teachers and clergymen should schedule him before your conventions. Heed his advice about "persuasion!"

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. d., M. D.

CASE L-507: Cavett Robert is a Phoenix attorney.

But he has developed a superb address for sales conventions that inspires everybody with renewed fervor for our "free enterprise" system.

He and I were both scheduled to speak at the Western Retail Hardware Convention in Kansas City.

Because of uncertain weather conditions, I had flown down from Chicago the night before, just to be sure I'd fulfill my next day's engagement.

It also gave me a chance to hear Cavett Robert.

He is such a dynamic speaker that all ministerial and teachers' conventions should also schedule him for an address.

Like Tom Anderson, he inserts a hilariously funny story between every couple of minutes of "meaty" information.

He came down off the platform to pace back and forth in front of the first row of seats.

For topnotch speakers are always keyed up, like a boxer in a prize fight.

Only stodgy performers are "cool as a cucumber" and so relaxed they move at a typical slow-motion tempo.

Cavett stressed the fact that customers, clients and parishioners are persuaded ONLY by what they understand; not by what we say!

Yet many professors and clergymen, as well as politicians and sales managers, talk over the heads of their listeners.

To avoid appearing stupid, the members of the audience may then try to smile, as if they fully comprehend, yet that is merely a camouflage to avoid showing that they don't get the point.

In my address that followed Cavett's, I used the famous advertising test mentioned in the booklet below, which contains 15 pairs of book titles that were used in a year's national advertising campaign via newspapers.

Which one of these two titles do you think sold more books:

—The Art of Controversy

—How to Argue Logically

It was the same book! But for a full year it was advertised under one name while the second year, the other title was used.

Suppose your whole economic future depended on how well you could outguess the American public via those two titles!

In one case, for example, you become wealthy while by the other choice you go bankrupt!

That's the crisis facing merchants and also politicians, for many statesmen with far better political platforms are snowed under at the polls by lesser men who simply "relate" or get across better to the average voters.

In that pair of book titles, the "Controversy" heading sold only 100 copies after the whole year's advertising, whereas the "Argue" title zoomed sales to 30,000.

And the answer is based in part on Cavett's that people must understand!

"Controversy" is too long a word for average Americans to comprehend!

So send for my booklet "The New Psychology of Advertising and Selling," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 10c.

If more of you teachers and clergymen used the principles therein, you'd sell your education and ethics much more successfully!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♥ 1 ♠ ?

What do you bid?

A.—Three hearts. An approach bid of two diamonds, although it might work out as well, is not our choice. The three heart bid describes a hand with four trumps and at least 13 supporting points. Having made this call we are relieved of obligation to take any further drastic step.

Q. 2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♥ 1 ♠ ?

What do you bid?

A.—Three hearts. On hands of only moderate strength where a take-out double has been made and you possess a good fit with partner's opening, best results are usually obtained by offering an immediate jump raise. This serves to disrupt enemy communications, but at the same time does not prevent partner from proceeding to game if he has a really good hand.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠K2 ♥A632 ♦86542 ♣K2

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♦ 1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—Two spades. A doubleton honor is deemed to be normal trump support for an overall. Nothing is to be gained by a bid of one no trump, for your hand is not exactly balanced and none of your strength is in the adverse bid suit.

Q. 4—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KQ7 ♥AJ1063 ♦J6 ♣K87

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♠ 2 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—Three no trump. You have 14 high card points facing a partner who was able to make an overall at the two level. This should be enough to produce a game and in light of your spade holding, a nine trick contract should prove the easiest to fulfill.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠K2 ♥A632 ♦J6 ♣K87

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♠ 2 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—Three no trump. You have 14 high card points facing a partner who was able to make an overall at the two level. This should be enough to produce a game and in light of your spade holding, a nine trick contract should prove the easiest to fulfill.

Q. 6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KQ63 ♥865 ♦KJ4 ♣KQ9

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass

1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. What appears to be a very indifferent holding to you should prove very welcome to a partner who could first double and then contract for nine tricks entirely on his own. Your trump holding plus the doubleton diamond should bring that total to 10.

Q. 7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠J93 ♦K1065 ♣KJ10873

Partner opens one no trump. What is your response?

A.—Three clubs. This is perhaps somewhat abnormal, but we can think of no better call. If partner rebids three hearts, a return to three no trump is indicated. If he bids anything other than three no trump, then you should plan to play at a minor suit contract.

Q. 8—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AQ98542 ♥KQ8 ♦KQ2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ 2 ♣ Pass Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three clubs. This hand possesses tremendous offensive possibilities despite a partner's failure to take positive action. A jump rebid in spades is acceptable, but the cue bid is preferred because of your tolerance for a red suit contract. Should partner have great length in either of those suits. A reopening double is not recommended because of your lack of preparation for a "leave in."

1950.

"Think of it—20 years!" he mused, recalling the first show

as if it were last week. He had to go to New York for the telebeen laid yet. His guest stars:

Beatrice Lillie, Douglas Fair-

He remembered the second and commented that the first show

"Who are you?" Hope de-

"I'm de people," the amateur critic replied.

Hope changed the opening of the special to a taxi scene with almost the same dialogue.

Nearly all the comedians on television in 1950 have vanished

from the tube. Hope remains.

And flourishes. This season was his best in audience ratings; his

Christmas in Vietnam special scored the highest Nielsen mark in history: 27,260,000 homes.

The previous high had been the final episode of "The Fugitive" with 25,700,000 homes.

"I think one of the reasons that the show has done well is that I like to make it an event,"

Hope observed. "I like doing the

shows at the NBC studios in Burbank (three miles from his home), and it would be easy

just to remain there.

"But it creates excitement to go where things are happening.

Like the opening of the new

"The workmen finally cleared show. Nobody ever thought we'd get the show on, but we did. And it was great! That proved to me one thing: No matter how tough

a show is, the only thing that matters is what goes through that lens."

Twenty years of Hope has

American troops. They started in Greenland. Since then he has

'Plenty Of Meat' If Prices High

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Cattlemen say they will produce plenty of beef for expanding consumer appetites, but only if prices remain high and the federal government keeps its nose out.

"We think, and we're confident, that the cattle industry is going to continue to produce beef at a rate which would allow a further increase in the per capita level of consumption," says C. W. McMillan, executive vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Association.

"But we need to be sure to have the economic incentive to do it," McMillan said during an interview with ANCA leaders. "Of course, this is reflected in prices."

William D. Farr, ANCA president, whose feedlots near Greeley, Colo., turn out nearly 20,000 tons of quality beef annually, said today's cattle prices—generally the highest in many years—would provide such incentive.

The ANCA remarks followed a congressional committee action last Thursday which turned back a report calling for more federal supervision of the cattle business.

The report, written by a subcommittee headed by Rep. John S. Monagan, D-Conn., urged Congress to set up a special commission to determine "the adequacy of the meat supply" at all marketing levels from ranches to supermarkets.

The report also said present U.S. meat import quota regulations were detrimental to consumers by restricting the amount of foreign beef allowed to come into this country.

Farr and other cattlemen opposed the recommendation and effectively lobbied last week against the report.

The Monagan report charged cattlemen have not kept pace with demand and that unless action is taken soon the nation could have a serious beef shortage by 1975.

Per capita beef consumption rose from about 60 pounds a year after World War II to 110 pounds last year, McMillan said, "and this wasn't done through any public utilities approach" or federal commission riding herd on the cattle business.

Choice steers (those most in consumer demand) last June in Chicago brought about $35 per 100 pounds, the highest in 17 years. Prices recently have been around $31 or $32 per hundredweight.

Farr said that considering present costs—from feed to taxes and interest—current prices would encourage gradual expansion of the nation's beef herd.

The cattle business is expanding gradually and consistently. But if government intervenes or if meat imports are expanded this could upset a delicate balance, Farr said.

If left alone, he added, the cattle industry can do much to solve all farm problems and eventually lift the $4 billion a year in government payments now spent to keep 50 to 60 million crop acres from production.

Community Notes

The Junior Choir and ushers of Selvia Chapel F.W.B. Church will have rehearsal tonight at 7 o'clock at the church.

The Rev. Annie Outlaw is conducting revival services this week at Bell's Chapel Holiness Church.

Services begin each night at 8 o'clock.

Tobacco TIPS

By S.J. Weeks

It is very important that good healthy plants be used when transplanting the tobacco crop. On many beds the quality of plants can be greatly improved by the use of irrigation during dry periods.

During the plant growing period, about one-half inch of water (280 gallons) per 100 square yards, about twice a week will usually keep the plants growing. If toxicity symptoms, caused by fertilizer salts, begin to show on the plants and the stand begins to disappear, the bed may need an inch of water (560 gallons per 100 square yards). This will help leach some of the toxic material from the root zone.

Before pulling the plants from the bed, the grower should be sure the soil is moist so that there will be a minimum of damage to the roots. Also, the beds should be watered after the plants have been pulled so the soil will be settled around the roots of the plants that are left. This will help them to straighten up and continue to grow.

Growers should examine their beds every few days for insect damage. When insects are damaging the plants, insecticides that will control the insects present should be applied. Be sure to apply insecticides as recommended. Make sure dusts or sprays are applying materials evenly. Do not treat plants when they are wet. For recommendation of correct materials to use for insect control, contact the Agricultural Extension Office.

In order to have an abundance of plants free from blue mold at transplanting time, continue to treat beds with a recommended fungicide until transplanting is complete.

Most Icelanders are descended from ancient Norse and Celtic settlers of the island.

Farm Scene

By S.J. Weeks

Since DDT and TDE have been banned for use on flue-cured tobacco for insect control, it will be necessary for other insecticides to be used for the 1970 crop. We are fortunate to have insecticides available that will give satisfactory control for most insects that normally damage the tobacco crop.

Flea beetles can be controlled with Guthion, Parathion, Lannate, and Disyston. Disyston is a systemic insecticide which is disked into the soil prior to transplanting. The other insecticides listed can be applied as a spray on the foliage of the plants.

Budworms can be controlled with Thiodan, Sevinmol, Thuricide, and Lannate. Thuricide is the only insecticide suitable for mixing a cornmeal bait. Hornworms can be controlled with Sevinmol, Guthion, Thuricide and Lannate. The cabbage looper can be controlled with Lannate and Thuricide.

All of the insecticides listed above do not have any harmful residue that will affect the flavor of the smoke and they do not leave residues in the mainstream smoke of the cigarettes. Lannate is a highly toxic insecticide that should be used according to the cautionary statement on the label. Lannate is toxic if taken internally. Users should take particular care not to breathe the powder when mixing or filling the spray tank. It should not be used within seven days of harvest on flue-cured tobacco.

Tree-Planting Has Long-Term Value

Planting trees is a long-term investment in conservation. Trees help reduce flooding and erosion, and they help stabilize and improve water supplies. And, in time they add to the farmer's income.

"Demand for wood and wood products to supply our growing population is mounting," said Stacy J. Evans, Pitt County Executive Director for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"The overall requirement for wood is expected to increase by about 80 percent by the year 2000," he said, "and we also face mounting demands for the other multiple use resources of our woodlands."

Some of these resources include water, special forest products, recreation, forage, wildlife, and natural beauty. More and more, landowners and land managers have adopted the objective of multiple use resource management and continuous production in the management and use of forest lands, Evans said.

Under the Agricultural

Conservation Program, the public shares with farmers the cost of planting trees and other soil, water, woodland, and wildlife conservation measures. "Since ACP began in 1936, farmers in North Carolina have planted more than 266,000 acres of trees under the program," Evans explained.

Throughout the Nation, farmers have planted five million acres of trees with ACP cost-share assistance. By sharing the cost of these practices, both the farmer and other taxpayers contribute to improving and conserving the Nation's vital natural resources.

More information about forestry practices approved for ACP assistance is available at county ASCS offices.

Revival All This Week

Rose High School, a breakfast for the Baptist Men Wednesday morning at 7:00, and a "covered-dish" supper at six o'clock Saturday night for junior high youth of the church. The public is invited to participate in the services each night at Immanuel Baptist Church.

Charge Driver In Sunday Mishap

Dolores Chandler, 27, of 111 North Eastern St. was charged with having no operators license following investigation of a 9:50 a. m. mishap on Jarvis Street, 250 feet North of the First Street intersection, yesterday in which a pedestrian was struck.

Police said the Chandler car struck two-year-old Wanda Lyn Overbee of 111 North Jarvis St. when the child emerged from between two parked cars.

No damage resulted to the Chandler car and the Overbee child's injuries were believed not serious.

Investigating Knife Incident

Police today are continuing their investigation of an incident that occurred yesterday when a woman was allegedly confronted by a man with a knife in a coin-operated laundry on Dickinson Avenue.

According to Chief T. E. Gladson, Mrs. Catherine Jackson of 1507 Board St. was washing clothes at the One Hour Martinizing Cleaners on Dickinson Ave. about 11:35 a. m. at the time of the incident.

Mrs. Jackson was quoted as saying a Negro man walked up behind her and pulled a knife. She said she fled to a nearby house and called police.

Only 25 million persons live in Siberia, a region larger than the United States and Mexico combined.

Three Peace Groups Preparing Protests To Mark Tax Deadline

By MARTHA COLE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — While millions of Americans grumble quietly about paying income taxes, three peace groups are planning protests this week against using the tax money for war.

Starting today with a fast, including a "nondinner" scheduled at Lafayette Park across from the White House, protest leaders say the three days before Wednesday's midnight deadline for filing tax returns will be filled with rallies, demonstrations and student strikes in more than 150 cities and on hundreds of college campuses.

The war protests were called by the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, the Vietnam Moratorium Committee and the Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam.

Protest leaders are planning rallies and demonstrations Wednesday to focus on the past and present use of tax money for war spending. They say they also want to show the relationship of the Vietnam war to inflation and social problems.

The taxpayer rallies in most cities, organizers said, would be held in front of or near Internal Revenue Service centers. They also plan "Boston Tea Party" demonstrations, the passing out of leaflets in shopping areas, and the circulation of petitions and antiwar literature.

Rallies are slated for such cities as Boston, New York, Baltimore, Newark, Knoxville, Chicago, Cleveland, Denver, Houston and Dallas. But national organizers also claimed many smaller cities and towns would be having demonstrations.

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee says eight U.S. senators and 17 representatives have endorsed the taxpayer rallies. It also claimed endorsements from more than 300 student leaders.

The Student Mobilization Committee, which called a student strike for April 15, said it is unable to predict how many campuses it would hit, but one spokesman said "probably a couple of hundred." He said that for example the student governments of three Boston area colleges are supporting the strike.

In Philadelphia, the spokesman said, the public school board of education has agreed to allow programs dealing with war, to be organized by the students, in the junior and senior high schools.

The week's plans also call for attendance at stockholders meetings of three corporations, American Telephone and Telegraph at Cleveland and General Telephone at Tampa Wednesday and United Aircraft at Hartford, Conn. Tuesday.

The attendance is part of New Mobe's plan to attend April stockholders meetings of corporations which it says are connected with war production. New Mobe has said its people will speak against war spending.

Split Traced To John And Yoko

LONDON (AP) — Paul McCartney's split from the Beatles was precipitated by the marriage of John Lennon, his song-writing partner, to Japanese artist Yoko Ono, the group's official biographer says.

Hunter Davies, the biographer, said in the Sunday Times that after Lennon and Yoko got together—they were married in March 1969—"the rest of the Beatles didn't matter any more."

Davies said that under Yoko's influence Lennon began taking charge of Beatles business affairs, also mounting peace campaigns, holding offbeat art exhibitions and issuing records without other members of the group.

Not Much Savings In Keeping An Old Automobile Running

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government economists say most automobile owners are just as well off buying a new car every two years as they are trying to keep the old bus running.

"Assuming a normal amount of driving, keeping a car after it is two years old does save some money, but not very much," said a report by the Federal Highway Administration.

"The decision to trade in a car or keep it a while longer should be based on the owner's tastes and circumstances, rather than on any thought of increasing or decreasing his cents-per-mile owning and operating costs. As far as economy is concerned, he can make the decision with a clear conscience."

The report showed the cost of keeping a car for 10 years has increased from 10.21 cents a mile about a year ago to 11.89 cents a mile this year.

The study found a big increase in insurance costs, which jumped from 1.41 cents a mile to 1.72 cents a mile, despite inclusion of less extensive coverage in this year's computations.

In a year-by-year breakdown of the cost of keeping a car—depreciating its purchase price over 10 years—the study found the first year costs 14.21 cents a mile and the second 11.27 cents.

The cost rises for the next two years to 12.51 cents a mile then gradually tapers off to 10.83 cents a mile in the 10th year.

The study, done on the basis of information gathered from repairmen and car dealers rather than any averaging of statistical studies, involved a theoretical 4-door sedan from one of the "Big Three" and costing $3,374 including tax. The car was equipped with a V-8 engine, automatic transmission, power steering and radio.

The costs, which included gasoline, taxes, parking, tolls, repairs, tires, titling and insurance, were computed on the basis of a Baltimore driver's experience.

The costs would be higher for Washington, Boston, New York and San Francisco and lower for Atlanta, Jacksonville and Fort Worth, the study said.

Prince Learns Geisha Talent

KYOTO, Japan (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles has learned at first hand about one of the functions of geisha girls—they give effective massage for a weary back.

After a visit to a restaurant where he ate native food, Charles was asked by an attendant geisha whether he had found his current Japanese tour tiring. He said his back was tired, and accepted the girl's offer to massage his back and shoulders. "Arigato, arigato," Charles said when she finished. That means thanks in Japanese.

Nelson Riddle Weds Secretary

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Orchestra leader-composer Nelson Riddle has married his secretary of eight years, Naomi Tenenholz.

About 80 friends attended a reception following the marriage Saturday, his second and her first. Riddle, 48, and Miss Tenenholz, 40, planned a honeymoon in San Diego, Vancouver, B.C., and in London where he will be recording.

POEMS PUBLISHED
LONDON (AP) — The collected poems of Mary Wilson, wife of Britain's Labor Prime Minister Harold Wilson, are to be published this autumn by Hutchinson's of London. She has selected 35 of them as her best and the publisher said "they reflect the compassion of a serious, kindly and sensitive woman."
