Growing Confidence Seen

Crippled Spacecraft Rushing Homeward

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 13's astronauts nursed their disabled spaceship back toward earth today rationing vital water, oxygen and power to keep the craft alive for a Friday splashdown in the Pacific Ocean.

The three spacemen and Mission Control Center appeared more confident with every passing hour that Apollo 13 would make it safely home.

But with two days to go it's still a potentially perilous journey, with the astronauts reduced to dependence on the power and other resources of the attached lunar landing craft.

And ahead lies the critical re-entry when the crippled command ship must carry James A. Lovell Jr., Fred W. Haise Jr. and John L. Swigert Jr. on a blistering dive through the earth's atmosphere.

Splashdown is set for 12:18 p.m. EST Friday. However the recovery area southeast of Samoa was threatened by Tropical Storm Helen and the astronauts might have to shift their landing site.

After hours of calm but tense composure following Monday night's oxygen tank rupture that wiped out their moon landing attempt, the astronauts today were in better spirits. For the first time since the chilling accident that drained oxygen and electrical power from the command ship they joked with Mission Control.

They were buoyed Tuesday night when astronaut boss Sonald K. Slayton radioed: "We think you guys are in good shape all the way around. Why don't you quit worrying and go to sleep?"

"We think that is a pretty good idea" Lovell said. "And at least part of us will."

The astronauts have been sleeping in shifts so that at least one is up at all times to monitor the lunar module systems.

But in the hectic hours after the accident there was little time for rest and Lovell complained Monday night: "We've gone a hell of a long time without sleep."

The lunar craft Aquarius is hooked nose-to-nose with the command ship and the tiny ship's oxygen is being used to supply both craft. The astronauts transfer back and forth through a connecting tunnel.

Early today Haise, standing watch while his companions slept, reported a slight venting of gas from the area of the command ship's service compartment, where the oxygen tank ruptured Monday. He also said he saw a four-inch piece of silver-colored metal float away from the area.

Mission Control said it didn't know whether this was connected with the original rupture or whether it was something new. There was no concern because the service compartment no longer was needed. It will be jettisoned before re-entry and the command ship will fly through the earth's atmosphere on a separate battery and control system designed for re-entry and landing.

With 60 hours to go, this was the situation in the lunar module Aquarius:

—Electrical power usage had been reduced from 17 to 14 amperes per hour, which would leave a reserve of 500 amp hours at the end of the mission. (Continued on page 12)

S. Viet Troops Smash Red Base Inside Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese troops, operating with a token force of Cambodians, smashed a North Vietnamese base camp inside Cambodia Tuesday in the first major combined operation reported in the war, informed sources said today.

South Vietnamese headquarters claimed 179 North Vietnamese were killed, 30 persons detained, and 550 straw huts and bunkers destroyed. It said the assault was made half a mile on the South Vietnamese side of the border 42 miles northwest of Saigon.

Will Open Bids April 28 On Ayden Bonds

AYDEN — Bids will be opened in Raleigh April 28 for the $350,000 bonds for the town of Ayden, it was announced at the Ayden Board of Commissioners Monday night.

Sealed bids will be accepted in Raleigh until 11 a. m., April 28. The board reappointed Steve Nobles and Gratz Norcott to three-year terms on the Ayden Zoning Board of Adjustments. Glenn Gaylor was named to fill the unexpired term of Warren Bishop on the Library Commission. That term expires October, 1973.

Board members passed an ordinance designating the speed limits on the state streets within the town of Ayden.

also denied that South Vietnamese troops had crossed the border. But eyewitnesses said the joint task force of more than 2,000 South Vietnamese and 100 Cambodians pushed at least a mile inside Cambodia south of Highway One.

The witnesses said the Cambodian troops, clearly distinguishable by their uniforms, were under command of the South Vietnamese. Some were riding tanks and armored personnel carriers. Most carried Soviet AK47 assault rifles, but some carried American carbines and drew their ammunition, mortar shells, food and water, from the South Vietnamese.

The witnesses said they saw no U.S. advisers cross the border with the South Vietnamese units. Instead the Americans observed the operations from the South Vietnamese border post on the main Saigon-Phnom Penh highway which North Vietnamese rockets and assault troops wrecked in an attack Monday night.

The action Tuesday raged over a five-mile area in the Cambodian region known to the U.S. military as the Parrot's Beak. The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have major base camps in the sector and from there have pushed west along Highway One to the Cambodian provincial capital of Svay Rieng.

The South Vietnamese military command announced the operation in a communique which located the action in Tay Ninh Province bordering Cambodia.

Nixon Asks Great Lakes Safeguards

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to outlaw dumping of polluted dredgings into the Great Lakes, starting with the 35 most polluted harbors.

In a special message, Nixon also ordered a special study, to be completed by Sept. 1, on dumping of dredgings, sludge and other materials into the oceans.

"In the New York area alone," he said, "these amount of annual dumping would cover all of Manhattan Island to a depth of one foot in two years."

Initial emphasis, however, is on the Great Lakes, with Nixon saying his program would mark a major step toward abating pollution there by "by-products of modern technology and large population increases."

Principal legislative requests submitted by the President were:

—A halt to disposal of polluted dredge materials into the lakes by private interests and the Army Corps of Engineers "as soon as land disposal sites are available."

—Establishment by the corps of containment areas to hold the materials that otherwise might go into the lakes.

—A requirement that the states and other non-federal interests pay half the cost of building the containment areas and also provide needed lands and other rights.

—Suspending dredging after one year if the secretary of the Army found that local interests "were not making reasonable progress in attaining disposal sites."

The White House said construction of facilities in the 35 most polluted harbors would cost $70 million, of which the federal government would pay half. The cost of operating and maintaining the facilities would be increased $5 million a year "due to the added handling cost of the dredged spoil."

Storm Edges Near Apollo Landing Site

By VERN HAUGLAND
ABOARD USS IWO JIMA (AP) — A tropical storm that could give birth to a hurricane lumbered toward the Apollo 13 splashdown site today but recovery ship officials said they expected no weather they could not cope with.

Observers aboard the Iwo Jima kept a close watch on Tropical Storm Helen as it moved across the Pacific at less than six miles per hour.

If it keeps up its present course and speed forecasters said the storm's fringe could be as near as 230 miles to the target point when Apollo 13 returns to earth Friday.

Embassy Is Attacked

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Arab demonstrators stormed the U.S. Embassy in the capital of Jordan today, then bombed and set fire to the American cultural center there.

The mob protesting the impending visit of a U.S. envoy to Amman, the capital, smashed windows in the embassy and ransacked its offices. Three embassy vehicles were wrecked. The demonstrators hauled down the U.S. flag on the embassy roof and replaced it with the Palestinian colors.

At the cultural center, a bomb was thrown first and then some in the crowd set the building on fire.

Three Jordanians, one of them an official of the Al Fatah Arab guerrilla organization, were injured by splinters from the bombing and by random shooting.

The Al Fatah man was wounded while attempting to calm the crowd. The cultural center was badly damaged by the fire.

storm were clocked at nearly 50 miles per hour and gusts up to about 35 m.p.h. licked out from the center for 150 miles.

The ship's meteorologist, Lt. R. B. Otis, said the storm probably will intensify. "It could very well become a hurricane" he said. He added that Helen, traveling southeastward, could take a more southerly course and speed up.

Officials noted that if the weather creates critical problems the astronauts could maneuver their craft to land 200 miles beyond or short of the splashdown target, about 600 miles south of Samoa.

Capt. Leland F. Kirkemo, commander of the recovery ship, said he anticipated no problems even if the splashdown occurred in winds of around 45 m.p.h. He said several practice exercises already had been conducted in winds of that velocity off Hawaii.

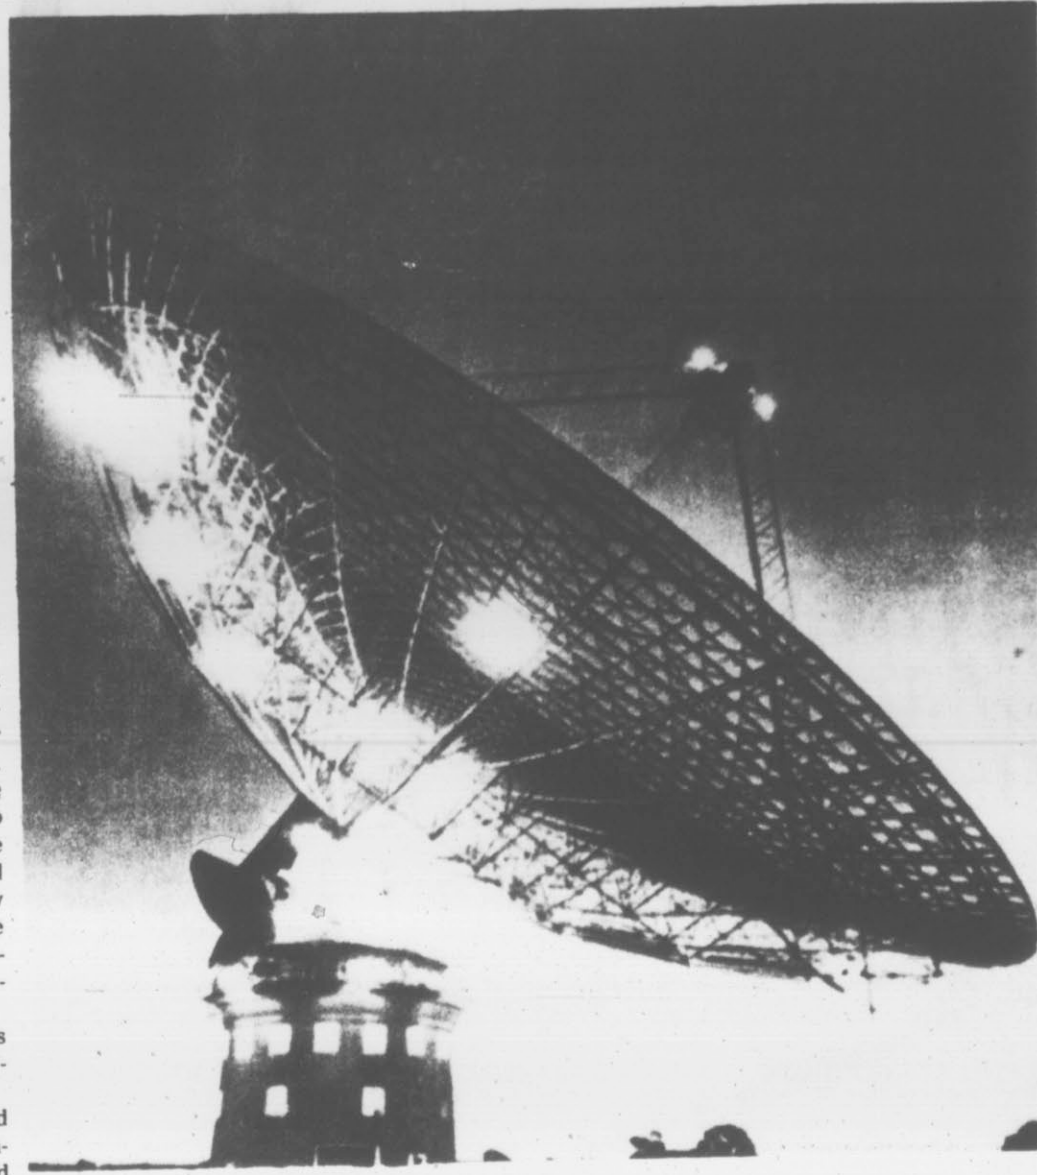

Space agency officials on board expressed confidence that if the astronauts enter the earth's atmosphere, the landing will go normally.

Ask Governor Name Study Commission

RALEIGH (AP) — The Local Government Study Commission today asked Gov. Bob Scott to appoint a study commission on public employer - employee relations in North Carolina.

The group would be asked to study public employer-employee problems and the laws governing their relationship and to submit recommendations to Scott and to the 1971 General Assembly.

"The law is not adequate to deal with the situation, since municipal employees may lawfully join a union, but ... a municipality cannot recognize a union," the study commission said in a letter to Scott.

Help From Australia

TO HELP GUIDE APOLLO 13 — In response to an urgent request from NASA, Australia's Parkes radio telescope will play a part in guiding the troubled Apollo 13 Spacecraft back to earth.

The use of the 210-foot diameter antenna, which is especially suitable for receiving low-powered radio transmissions, will enable the astronauts to conserve electrical power. (AP Wirephoto)

Varied Demonstrations Today By Protestors Over Continuing War

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Demonstrations ranging from Boston-type tea parties to fasts and marches were planned to mark today's income tax deadline as groups supporting the Vietnam Moratorium movement protest the continuation of the war.

Sam Brown, national coordinator of the Vietnam Moratorium Committee, said Tuesday, "We are renewing our protest against the war after a long winter of deliberation."

The protest was timed to coincide with today's tax deadline to emphasize what the demonstrators see as the relationship between continuing war expenditures and continuing high taxes.

Counterdemonstrations also were planned. The Catholic War Veterans and the Silent Majority Mobilization Committee were sponsoring the opposition in New York. Leaders said they would not interfere with the antiwar groups.

Major protests were scheduled in Chicago, New York and Des Moines, Iowa, on the tea party theme. Other large demonstrations were planned in Boston and San Francisco where there was to be street dancing to rock music.

Speakers at the various antiwar rallies included defense attorney William Kunstler and other principals in the recent Chicago 7 trial, French writer Jean Genet, U.S. Sen. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., actress Jane Fonda and state Rep. Julian Bond of Georgia.

Activities in New York include the dumping of tea and income tax 1040 forms into New York harbor in emulation of the Boston tea party of 1773 when Colonials irate over British taxes dumped tea into Boston harbor.

Chicago area Women for Peace planned to dump tea at the federal building office of Sen. Ralph Smith, R-Ill. Another re-enactment of the Boston Colonials' protest was slated in Des Moines at a noon taxpayer's rally.

From the harbor, New York groups parade to Internal Revenue Service headquarters near City Hall for a rally and then to Bryant Park at 42nd Street and Sixth Avenue for a citywide rally.

Antiwar demonstrators in Cleveland said they would seek to nominate Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, and Dr. Sidney M. Peck, co-chairmen of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, to the board of directors of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. at its annual meeting.

About 30 protesters, objecting to what they described as AT&T's work in furtherance of the war, planned to invade the meeting bearing proxies.

Fasts in support of the Moratorium were under way on a number of college campuses and at the Ethical Culture Society in New York and in Baltimore's Cathedral of Mary Our Queens.

Russia Offering Help In Rescue

LONDON (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin told President Nixon today that his government stands ready to help rescue astronauts of Apollo 13 and dispatched two ships to the Pacific area where the splashdown is expected, Tass said.

Even Stronger Postal Corporation Bill Seen

By JIM ADAMS

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is reported about to get an even stronger postal corporation proposal than it had before the mail strike—and already is mapping strategy to kill it.

Administration and postal union negotiators have reached basic agreement on a postal reform plan a knowledgeable source says "will be a little harder for the unions to swallow" than the corporation plan approved by a House committee last month.

The agreement, tying an 8 percent pay boost for postal employees to the reform, is to be submitted to President Nixon for transmittal to Congress as soon as union and administration lawyers are convinced the technical language says exactly what they want.

The 8 percent boost for postal employees effective next July would come on top of the 6 percent across-the-board pay increase passed by Congress Tuesday.

Corporation has become a bad word to influential congressmen and the proposed agency would not be given that name. Nor would it be called a U.S. Postal Authority as proposed before the mail strike.

It may even keep the present name: Post Office Department. The agency will reportedly take the nation's mails from the control of Congress and put them under the direction of an independent management board that would appoint its own postmaster general.

The independent agency would set its own postal rates to put the mails on a self-paying basis, sell bonds to finance modernization and negotiate wages and benefits with its workers subject to binding arbitration if necessary.

One important change is that no congressmen would be on the management board as the unions wanted.

Prospects for congressional approval of the new proposal are poor.

The Senate Post Office Committee is working on an alternative plan that would give the Post Office Department more management control over its operations but still keep them under the reins of Congress.

House leaders who favor the Senate noncorporation approach reportedly plan to let the Senate approve its version before amending the House bill calling for establishment of a corporation.

Amending the bill to conform with the Senate version, they feel, would effectively block efforts to pass the committee-approved corporation plan.

Hundreds Of Bodies Float Down Mekong River

NEAK LEUNG, Cambodia (AP) — The bodies of hundreds of Vietnamese floated down the Mekong River in southeast Cambodia today, many with their hands tied behind them. It appeared to be the biggest mass killing yet revealed in Cambodia.

A police official at the Neak Leung ferry crossing 36 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, said he had counted 400 bodies this morning. But still they came, and more could be seen for a mile up the river, until it disappeared around a bend.

The stench was overpowering, and passengers on the ferry gagged as the boat moved through the bodies. Some women were among the slain but very few. Most were men clad only in black shorts. One group of eight bodies, including one woman, floated by tied together.

Cambodians along the bank including the police said they had no idea where the bodies came from.

The government leaders who deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk have been whipping up an anti-Vietnamese campaign directed not only at the thousands of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops who operate back and forth across the border with South Vietnam but at the 600,000 Vietnamese who live in Cambodia.

The Khmer people of Cambodia and the Annamites of Vietnam have been traditional enemies for centuries, and government planes dropped leaflets in Phnom Penh Saturday reminding the people of a historic massacre when "the Khmers once rose up and killed all Annamites on Cambodian territory in one night."

At least 73 Vietnamese who had been rounded up in the town of Prasaut for security checks were killed there last Friday, and according to available evidence Cambodian troops were the killers.

On Saturday at least seven more Vietnamese were shot by Cambodian troops just south of Kamoibg Trabek, near the border west of Prasaut.

The Saigon government said today it was asking Cambodia to let a "people's delegation" from several charitable agencies, enter the country and investigate accounts of killing and other mistreatment of Vietnamese nationals.

There was some belief the bodies at Neak Leung floated down from the area south of Kompong Cham where large French rubber plantations have labor forces of Vietnamese.

It's Tight Squeeze With The New Styles

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I think the world has gone mad with fashions for men. It's bad enough that men are now sporting velvet and ruffles and crazy color combinations in shirts and ties. But how about those skin-tight pants, Abby? The pants are so tight that they're made without pockets. Where is a man supposed to carry his wallet, keys, handkerchief and pocket comb? WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: In his purse, silly!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are in our early 60's and have had a very happy marriage, but now my doctor tells me that I have an incurable disease and will soon be a helpless invalid, and I'll probably linger on for years as a "vegetable," no good to my husband, or anyone else.

My husband is healthy, handsome, and virile, and I haven't had the heart to tell him the awful news that he is tied to a doomed wife who will bring him nothing but misery and anguish for the next few years.

I love my husband too much to ruin his life this way, and am seriously considering getting a divorce and setting him free to seek new happiness with someone who can be a real wife to him.

What should I do, Abby? I would also welcome suggestions from your readers—especially the men. Thank you, all.

DEAR I. M.: Ask your doctor to tell your husband, in your presence, what he has told you about your condition. Then don't try to second guess your husband's reactions, or blueprint his future, however well-intentioned. You won't "ruin" your husband's life—you may enrich it. Because, after a long and happy marriage, he may want to put more into that marriage now than he ever has before.

Now, ask yourself this: "If your husband were dying, would you permit him to divorce you in order that you could seek happiness with another man?" I doubt it.

DEAR ABBY: Ten years ago, when we were married, we decided to have four children. Thru the years we were blessed with three healthy sons, and on sharing in the happiness of dear friends who had adopted an infant, an idea grew in our minds.

Since it is true that so many babies are born out of wedlock, and the world population is increasing so rapidly, why should we bring still another child into the world when there are so many children who desperately need the love and care of a family—truly the right of ALL children?

We made an appointment with a licensed adoption agency in our state. All we needed was a medical checkup, showing us to be physically fit, three character references and a letter stating our religion. [In this state, the adoptive parents must be the same religion as the baby's natural mother.]

We were interviewed both at home and at the agency and within two months we had a beautiful, healthy, alert 6 months old daughter!

Please pass this on to others, Abby. I think "natural motherhood" is vastly overrated. HAPPY MOTHER

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FRANKLY FRANK": Keep your lip zipped. No one wants an honest opinion of a horse after he's already bought it.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Need More Black Businesses

The Department of Conservation and Development's plan for developing a program of "black entrepreneurship" could have interesting results in North Carolina.

Director Roy G. Sowers, Jr. announced the program in a talk before the Rotary Club here Monday night.

He said the C&D's five regional offices had been instructed to begin searching and identifying successful black businessmen in the state. "We will attempt to ascertain their unique problems, how they view their business problems, and record their perceptions of what it takes to become a successful black businessman."

"We also hope that out of this effort we will attract more young Negro people to become interested in the business world — to take business courses in high schools, to enter business schools in our colleges and universities, and to enter private business colleges."

Comparatively speaking he said, "we do not have many black businesses in North Carolina."

"Further, a higher percentage of black businesses, it appears to us, lack 'staying power' once begun. The failure rate is greater when compared to new enterprises initiated by white businessmen."

With its new program the C&D proposes to find out the problems which face the Negro who opens a business. Perhaps answers will be found which will help the black businessman make it through the rough years of operating a business so that the firm can grow and prosper.

Almost every North Carolina town has a few Negroes who have established businesses and made successes of them. There should be more; many more. We hope that this new C&D program will come up with the answers.

A Boy And Dog 'Stole' Show

(Today's column was written for the North Carolina Association of Afternoon Dailies by Loyal Phillips, general manager of the Daily Advance Elizabeth City.)

By LOYAL PHILLIPS

This is the story of how a little boy and his dog stole the spotlight from the "year's biggest news story" in our nation's capital.

Early one September morning back in the thirties, the editor of the Washington, D. C. News stormed into the news room and loudly complained that the year's biggest story had broken and the paper's managing editor had failed to show up for work. The editor was fit to be tied when further learned that the newspaper's cartoonist was not on the premises.

Around 10:30 the managing editor, a man by the name of Ernie Pyle, and the nationally known cartoonist, Harold Talbott moseyed leisurely into the office.

After the tumult and shouting were over, we learned that Pyle, while riding a bus to work, had observed a broken hearted little fellow sitting on the sidewalk with the broken body of his dog lying in the gutter.

The sad spectacle on the sidewalk hypnotized Ernie, making him forget about deadlines, news scoops, and staff discipline. He left the bus to console the boy and soon found a telephone to ask Talbott, the syndicated cartoonist, to rush out to the scene of the accident.

Collaborating, the two great journalists put together a humaninterest feature about a little boy whose world had come to an end when his mongrel dog, following him to school, had been hit by a car.

For several years at the opening of school the News and other papers repeated the feature as a warning to motorists to drive carefully during school hours.

It is doubtful whether a hundred people six months later could remember anything about the "year's biggest story" which so exoritized the paper's editor.

Ernie Pyle, a great humanitarian, was perhaps the most unorthodox news man to succeed in the profession. In person, he was soft spoken, frail, modest and saintly type fellow. At a typewriter he was clever, expressive and even deliquent.

His lack of respect for method and order finally drove the editor to distraction and he called Ernie into the office to discharge him.

"I deserve to be fired," Ernie told the boss, "because I'm a sorry managing editor. Cut me back to reporter's salary and let me roam the county and write for the Scripps-Howard chain."

A deal was made whereby Pyle would have six months to prove he was good enough as a writer to be syndicated. When he was killed by a sniper's bullet in the Okinawa area at the end of World War II, he was perhaps America's best known columnist. His outstanding success made no change whatsoever in his manner or personality.

While serving in the Navy I saw him at a time when he was a top favorite of GI's and civilians young and old and he was still the same pleasant and homely little guy.

Although the Washington News was a new and unprofitable tabloid paper in the thirties, it spawned several other alumni who became famous.

Robert Ruark a brash young pecks - bad - boy was a cubreporter whom we suspected would wind up in the pokey. Instead, he expended his tremendous energy through a syndicated column and ran his annual income from $250.00 up to $250,000.

I saw Ruark once in New Orleans after he had reached the top, but we parted company when he moved to Rome to avoid paying U.S. income tax.

Bill Mauldin was our trainee artist until he enlisted in the Army where he became famous for his clever GI cartoons. Now he is a rich and famous newspaper magazine cartoonist.

Shirley Povich switched from the News to the Washington Post where he is still sports editor.

Matt Meyer, a fellow Alabama moved up the ladder to be president of the N. Y. World - Telegram & Sun. Mark Ferree ad manager of the Scripps Howard chain of newspapers.

Dick McCann, Damon Runyan's son - in - law, left us to serve as publicity manager of the Washington Redskins.

Jeanne Torbin, a Russian - born self - educated genius now lives well in N. Y. from a high income earned as a sales instructor and as a ghost writer for highly successful Manhattan business tycoons.

Lowell Mellett, the editor who demoted Ernie Pyle, served as director of the Office of War Information during World War II and then was moved into the White House as assistant to President Franklin Roosevelt.

Making Progress On City Park Planning

The Recreation Commission seems to be making some progress in park planning.

A five acre tract on Cedar Lane was approved for federal assistance, although funds are not available in this fiscal year.

Commissioners are also studying plans for development of the Shore Drive park and have presented a list of guidelines for the park's development.

Greenville has a great need for more park and playground areas and it is good to see that the Recreation Commission and other city commission are tackling this matter.

Parks can't be developed overnight, but with long range planning adequate parks and playgrounds can be developed.

Great Schism In GOP Ranks

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

CLEVELAND — Rancid bitterness is running deep in the usually well - ordered ranks of the Republican party here, threatening disaster in the November election with ramifications reaching into the 1972 Presidential year.

When Rep. Robert A. Taft, Jr., wants to communicate with his hometown Hamilton County (Cincinnati) Republican committee, for example, he actually sends registered letters. That is just one small mark of the suspicions and rivalry between Taft and his Senatorial primary opponent, Gov. James A. Rhodes.

With two terms as one of Ohio's most popular governors now ending, Rhodes and the state party organization, a creature of his own brand of free - swinging, old - fashioned politics, were incensed when the 53 - year - old Taft decided to run for the Senate. Rhodes, 60, had that job lined up for himself.

But Taft, wearing the most famous name in Ohio political history, surveyed the state last fall and decided he could take Rhodes in the primary, setting the stage for a titanic struggle.

Secret polls by the Rhodes organization now show the two men a scant percentage point apart — Rhodes 44 percent to 43 for Taft — with 13 percent in the "don't know" category. But Rhodes, one of Ohio's most phenomenal vote - getters, is running scared, far more scared than that poll would indicate.

Signs of Rhodes's scaredness are everywhere. For months he ducked Taft's long campaign to inveigle him into televised debates, then two weeks ago suddenly agreed to debate on Taft's terms. He "studied" for almost a year whether to sue Life magazine for its May 1969 attack on him for a variety of alleged sins, then suddenly announced he would sue for libel — but his announcement was timed so that he need not make possibly damaging depositions until after the May 5 primary.

Finally, he named his long - time enemy, Supreme Court Justice William O'Neill as chief justice — a move calculated to bring the O'Neill forces into his camp. Rhodes has naturally applied maximum heat to Ohio's 85 Republican county chairmen to mobilize against Taft, but the county chairmen are leery, despite their large political debts to Rhodes. The chairman of Montgomery County (Dayton) quit because of the unbearable political tension.

Last Thursday here in Cleveland, the state's most powerful Republican leader, Robert Hughes, rammed an overwhelming endorsement of Rhodes, 245 to 29, through the county executive committee. But it is highly questionable whether Cuyahoga County chairman Hughes can translate that into primary election votes.

With passion seething, the actual campaigns of Rhodes and Taft exactly fit their contradictory personalities. Lacking the serious differences on the issues, Taft campaigns as the patrician whose right to the Senate is almost hereditary. Touring the Owens - Corning

THE ONE DAY WHEN WE ALL THINK ALIKE

By ART BUCHWALD

We're Gaining On 'Em

WASHINGTON — Despite President Nixon's bitter remarks concerning the Senate vote on Judge Carswell, there was a certain amount of optimism at the White House the following day.

Atty. Gen. John Mitchell told the President, "They beat Haynsworth 55 to 45, while Carswell was only defeated 51-45. That means we picked up four votes in less than a year. At this rate we should have a man on the Supreme Court by 1972."

"You're a good man, John," the President said. "How many more nominees do you think it will take?"

"Well, given the makeup of the Senate at the present time, I doubt if you'll have to put up more than six men before we can get someone confirmed."

"That's good, John. I'd love to fill that ninth vacancy while I am still in office."

"You have nothing to worry about, Mr. President. My wife, Martha, has been working on some senators right now. She should be able to get them in line before long."

"Good for Martha," the President said, "Where is she now?"

"When I left her at two this morning, she was still talking to the Arkansas Gazette."

"What for?"

"She was trying to get them to crucify Sen. Fulbright."

"Oh?"

"Martha feels that if she can crucify six senators, she can swing the Senate around to our side."

"Why didn't we think of that?" the President said.

"I have always said, give Martha two sticks, a hammer, a mouthful of nails and a recalcitrant senator, and she'll turn him around every time."

"Do we have any other candidates lined up to nominate?"

"I've been getting a lot of suggestions. Vice President Agnew thinks that since we're looking for a strict constructionist, we ought to appoint someone from the building industry."

"That makes sense."

"Strom Thurmond just called in and said he thought Gov. Claude Kirk of Florida might make a good choice. Kirk's been wanting to get to the Supreme Court for over a week."

"But Kirk's a Southerner, and everyone knows a Southern constructionist can't win."

"Judge Julius Hoffman of Chicago is available, if you want to forget about the South."

"Let's put his name down," the President said.

"Sen. Hruska gave me a new list of mediocre judges he has complete faith in," the attorney general said.

"I believe we better stop playing up the mediocrity of our candidates this time. It doesn't seem to have the appeal we thought it would."

"Exactly my thoughts, Mr. President. If we couldn't win on mediocrity with Judge Carswell, then we can't win with anybody."

"There must be someone," the President said.

"Mr. President, I know it's not my place to advise you, but have you ever thought of appointing a woman to the court?"

"That's not a bad idea,"

Guides For The 'Normal'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you normal, too normal, or too abnormal?

These are important questions in a world in which many people are living at a pace that is out of this world. Others, trying to survive, have withdrawn so deeply within a shell that the question arises as to whether they are dwelling in a nutshell.

No one would want to submit the degree of his sanity to the judgment of a computer. Anyone who would trust a machine that far would already have to be far gone.

It is possible, however, for a person to find out for himself just how normal he is. All he has to do is answer a series of simple questions, such as:

If you found a good parking place, would you try to keep it for yourself?

Can you lose your head when all around you are losing theirs, and still manage to blame it on them?

If you are a member of the middle class, do you believe the government's present tax program is designed to squeeze that class to death?

Is it impossible for you to whistle on the way to work any tune written the last 10 years? Do you find it impossible to whistle on the way to work anyway?

Suppose you had a chance to be reincarnated in an after life as mouse, a college president, a barnacle, a lion or a lucky slob. Wouldn't you prefer to be a lucky slob?

If you knew of a surefire way you could steal a million dollars today and escape all prosecution except by the pangs of your own conscience, wouldn't you be a millionaire before sunset?

Doesn't it make you uncomfortable to walk behind a woman whose ankles wobble because she has runover heels?

Don't you feel cheated when you try to smell a beautiful flower and find that it has no aroma?

Have you ever cheated on your golf score, fudged on a diet, pretended to an illness you didn't have in order to escape a social obligation, and told at least one little white lie a month to your wife during the period of your marriage?

If you had it all to do over again, wouldn't you rather inherit money than have to pull yourself up by your own bootstraps?

Actually, you had more help along the way from others than you care to admit, didn't you? And you left behind you a few unpaid bills—right?

While the best friends you have live in the same block with you, the first thing you'd do if you won a $100,000 lottery prize is move to a better neighborhood—isn't that true?

Okay, now to your box score.

If you answered no to more than half the questions, you are a normal liar and should get along in the world all right. If you answered yes to all of them you are an abnormal fool, too truthful to be trusted, too honest for your own good.

Strength For Today

Revolution And Progress

The term "heart - warming" is suggestive and beautiful. There are heart - warming situations that make one glow with pleasure when he finds himself in the midst of them. There are heart - warming books, poems, motion pictures, TV programs.

One of the attractive aspects of the Christian gospel is that it is genuinely heart - warming. There was nothing external about the ministry of Jesus. He touched human beings at the very center of their lives. He sent wonder and gladness through the hearts of those with whom he came in contact. The rulers of the day hated him because he was definitely bad for business. Many of these opponents had made religion their business. They established booths around the temple and gradually increased the scope of their business until the secular was mixed up with the sacred, and what should have been the quietness of worship was turned into the shouts of trade.

Jesus took matters in hand and forbade anyone to make the sacred areas of the temple common. He overturned the tables of the money - changers. This man simply could not be allowed to go on with his revolutionary activities. He was finally brought to trial and execution not because of what he believed and taught but because of what he did. He was a revolutionary in the most expansive sense of the term.

Yet all the time he was touching mankind at the very center of its being. He was warming human hearts. He was preaching the value of human life.

A heart - warming message. A vital ministry.

Japan Wins Siberia Air Route

By ELMER ROESSNER

Japan Air Lines has gained a tempo over world competitors in inaugurating service from Paris to Tokyo via Moscow. JAL has gained the shortest round - the - world route and has become the first democratic nation to fly across Siberia. In return it gave Russia the right to fly to Tokyo, which would give Russia an outlet to Southeast Asia.

I was a guest on the inaugural flight from Paris - Moscow to Tokyo, along with 2 Belgians, 25 French, one Greek, 8 Italians, 5 Dutchmen, 2 South Africans (whom the Japanese in one embarrassing moment listed as from "South Africa, U.

K."), 2 Spaniards, 5 Swiss, 10 Brits, 9 other Americans and 10 Russians who joined us at Moscow. Most were newspapermen and travel industry leaders.

Our stop at Moscow was for refueling and adding the 10 Russians. We were taken by bus to an international building containing a souvenir shop. Soldiers were everywhere, some with rifles. Some of the Americans muttered that this was totalitarianism I quipped, "Yes, but the Russians have never had a plane hijacked." The next day, underscoring my point, a group of young leftists hijacked a Japan Air Lines liner.

Cumbersome Selling
In the Russian shop, customers have to wait in line to make a purchase. After they make a selection, they are given a bill and have to wait in line to pay it; then they have to wait in line to exchange their receipt for their article.

I was attracted by some Russian scarves at about 70 cents, but when my turn came there was only one left, which I bought. When I examined it later, I discovered that it memorialized the birth of Lenin 100 years ago this month.

Later in Tokyo I spent 15 minutes explaining to a Russian member of our party how ironic it was that I, a Nixon Republican, should draw a Lenin scarf. I don't think he got the point.

We had entered Russia in darkness and when dawn came we were over the snowy wilderness of Siberia, which lasted almost to the Sea of Japan. However, westbound flights are in daylight.

Land Of Honesty And Presents

Traveling in Japan is an experience. In planes, in hotels and in shops visitors are constantly being handed gifts. In the air, fans, slippers, cocktails, miniature bottles of cordials, guide books and other items were thrust upon us. In the hotels we received samples of perfume, electric razors, telescoping ball-point pens. I told a JAL employee I was getting more than I could carry and he promptly gave me another air flight bag.

In the better stores, shoppers are often given trinkets after making a purchase. Sometimes they are quietly wrapped with the purchase.

To Americans, Japanese are amazingly honest. Bags can be left unchecked in hotel lobbies with safety. Nothing is ever missing from hotel rooms.

One Japanese bemoaned their crimes rate. It has risen so that now there are as many robberies and murders in a year in Tokyo as there are a week in New York City.

And despite the efforts of thousands of Americans to corrupt the Japanese, they still refuse tips.

Rep. Ford Sets Stage For Impeachment Of Justice

iberglass plant in Newport last week, Taft shyly forgot to shake hands with the workers until a plant foreman gently suggested it.

Rhodes, the son of a coal miner, is working the crossroads, slapping backs and reminding voters how much he has done for them. Both are financed to the hilt.

But for the Republican party, the rub comes if Taft wins. It is unthinkable that Rhodes would lift a serious finger for Taft in the general election. His political career repudiated at its height, Rhodes and key parts of his organization would lose their incentive for victory in November. ("They'll cut Taft's throat," one party operative told us.)

Therein lies the danger for President Nixon in 1972. A poor Republican showing this fall could give the Democrats control of the legislature for the first time since 1958 (when the "right to work" issue wrecked the Republican party and elected the now-retiring Sen. Stephen Young). At stake is reapportionment and redistricting after the 1970 census and broad political patronage.

At stake, in short, is bedrock political power in this Midwest state which is crucial to Mr. Nixon's second term.

against Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, charging that Douglas may have had long-time ties with gambling and underworld figures.

Ford's attack on Douglas, drafted for presentation to the House today, covers a wide range of the 71-year-old Justice's activities, including his voting record on the court, his off-the-bench writings and his relationships with Las Vegas figure Albert Parvin and possibly with Parvin's associates.

Douglas' dealings with Parvin began in 1960 when he aided in bers of this talented group assembled once a week for a friendly little poker game in a downtown hotel room. However, these so-called games stopped being little or friendly and came to an end by employee's losses mounted to $600.00 during one beery evening.

Arthur Godfrey was at the time Washington's top disc jockey, working for station WJSV, which he frequently identified as W-JOO-SV00. Drew Pearson had just been divorced by Cissy Patterson's daughter. Mason Peters and Igor Cassini came on the scene at the Times-Herald, three blocks away from our plant. Also at the Times-Herald with Mason were Bob Considine and Vince Flaherty.

Most of the bright stars of the thirties and forties are fading from memory, but the quiet and unassuming Ernie Pyle is still remembered as one of America's outstanding columnists.

setting up the Albert Parvin Foundation and became a director and later its president at $12,000 a year. Douglas resigned from the post last May.

Ford charges that Parvin has long been connected with underworld figures, the associations dating back as far as 1946 when he was hired by Bugsy Siegel to decorate the Flamingo Hotel, a Las Vegas gambling palace.

Parvin later purchased a large share of El Rancho, another Las Vegas gambling enterprise and, according to Ford, eventually teamed up with William Israel "Ice Pick Willie" Alderman to run the Flamingo.

In 1960, the Parvin group decided to sell the Flamingo and began casting about for buyers. The Associated Press disclosed last year that Miami-based gangster Meyer Lansky introduced the Parvin group to a trio of Miami hotelmen who bought the Las Vegas enterprise.

With his share of the proceeds of the sale, Parvin funded his foundation, set up with Douglas' aid. Lansky was paid $200,000 as a finder's fee. Douglas has denied any knowledge of Lansky's involvement.

Ford questions the propriety of Douglas' aid to Parvin on the grounds that it constituted giving legal advice while he was on the Supreme Court.

In addition, Ford says that in October 1962, one-time Senate aide Bobby Baker—later convicted of tax evasion, theft and fraud—stayed at a Las Vegas hotel and had his bill paid by Edward Levinson, a Parvin associate and sometime lawyer.

On Baker's registration card, according to Ford, was a notation that he was with Douglas.

Ford also says Douglas was in the Dominican Republic in 1963—at the time of the presidential inauguration of his long-time friend Juan Bosch—and that Baker, Levinson and Parvin also were there.

Among the stated reasons for

Douglas' presence, Ford says, were that he was there to help Bosch write a constitution and aid Parvin in setting up an educational television program for the country.

At about the same time, according to Ford, a number of alleged underworld figures also showed up in the Caribbean nation.

Ford suggests that what brought the mob elements was the desire to get a piece of the country's legal gambling empire and that this also was behind Parvin's presence.

Ford cites reports that Douglas met with Bosch and other officials of the new Dominican government and also met with Baker and Parvin.

In August of 1963, according to Ford, Bosch awarded the sought-after gambling franchise to former Nevada Lt. Gov. Clifford Jones and at that point Parvin departed the country for good, abandoning uncrated equipment for the proposed educational television program.

Thereafter, Ford contends, the relationship between Douglas and Parvin continued through the foundation as Parvin returned to Las Vegas and continued to acquire gambling enterprises there, including the

ECU To Welcome Fraternity Friday

Phi Kappa Phi, the nation's oldest honor society which recognizes outstanding scholarship in all fields of higher education, will be installed at East Carolina University on Friday. Initiation of the first ECU members will take place at the 7:30 p.m. ceremony.

The signing of the charter and installation of the chapter will be conducted by Phi Kappa Phi national vice president, Dr.

James T. Barrs of Northeastern University, Boston, Mass.

Although modeled along the lines of Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi is wider in scope, recognizing and encouraging superior scholarship in all fields of study. Phi Beta Kappa recognizes outstanding scholarship only in the liberal arts.

"East Carolina University welcomes Phi Kappa Phi," says

Dr. Leo Jenkins, president of ECU and candidate for initiation in the April 17 ceremony in the School of Nursing Auditorium.

"We are extremely pleased to have this most prestigious and highly regarded society on our campus."

Phi Kappa Phi brings to 35 the number of honorary and professional societies at ECU. Requirements for membership on the undergraduate level are 3.5 grade point average for seniors and 3.8 grade point average for juniors. Good character is an essential supporting attitude for membership.

Thirty-seven undergraduates and four members of the ECU administration will be initiated. Administration members are Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president; Dr. Robert W. Williams, provost; Dr. Richard L. Cap-well, dean of Arts and Sciences; and Dr. John M. Howell, dean of Graduate Studies.

The new chapter is the results of the efforts of the local alumni chapter, composed of 26 ECU faculty members from N.C. State, Univ. of Md., Univ. of Ga., Univ. of Fla., Univ. of Wis., Univ. of Mich., Cornell, Auburn Univ., V.P.I., L.S.U., Penn State Univ., and others.

Dr. Herbert P. Rothfeder of the history department is president of the alumni chapter. Dr. Douglas J. McMillan of English is vice-president; Dr.

Mary J. Bratton of history is secretary and treasurer is Dr. Kenneth J. Davis, math.

The alumni chapter extends an invitation to Phi Kappa Phi alumni in the Greenville area to attend the ceremony. Names of ECU undergraduates to be initiated and their hometown addresses include:

GREENE COUNTY, Hookerton — Jessie Carolyn Rouse, Rt. 1

PITT COUNTY, Fountain — Mrs. Jennie Murphy Parker, Rt. 1;

Greenville — Kenneth Henry LeCour, 2701 Edwards St.; Grafton — Edward Loring Fox, 311 St. David Street.

Suggests Bonus If No Children

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Dr. Lamont Cole, professor of ecology at Cornell University, suggested Tuesday night that all women in the United States between the ages of 15 and 44 receive a $100 bonus from the federal government for every year they don't have a baby.

This incentive to population control would cost $3.8 billion annually, Cole said at Clemson University during a teach-in on environmental problems.

"We can't solve our other problems if the population is going to continue growing," he said.

The Polynesian stonefish, whose sting can kill a person in two hours, is the most poisonous fish in existence.

Referendum On Future Of Pitt Tech Slated May 2

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of four articles, prepared by Pitt Tech, devoted to an explanation of the May 2 vote to convert Pitt Technical Institute to a community college.)

The people of Pitt County will vote Saturday, May 2 on a resolution to give community college status to Pitt Technical Institute. Some questions have arisen concerning this referendum and these will be clarified in this article and those which shall follow.

In all, there are eight major questions that shall be discussed. These are: (1) Why is it necessary to have a vote for Pitt Tech to become a community college? (2) What is a technical institute and community college? (3) Will a "yes" vote increase my taxes? (4) Will a "no" vote increase my taxes? (5) How will community college status affect the existing technical and vocational programs? (6) Will the community college be in competition with East Carolina University? (7) What are the advantages of adding a college - transfer program to the existing technical and vocational programs? and (8) If the vote is "no" — then what?

Question: Why is it necessary to have a vote of the people? Answer: Because this is a procedure required by law. A vote was necessary in 1961 to create and support the existing institution and now a vote is required to guarantee support for the addition of the college - transfer curriculums.

Pitt Tech has been designated as a community college by the North Carolina General Assembly and the State Board of Education. Funds for implementation of the college - transfer curriculum have already been allocated for the coming year by the Advisory Budget Commission. The question of the necessity of having a vote was submitted to the Attorney General, and his ruling requires the vote.

Secondly, some people do not fully understand what is meant by the title "Technical Institute and Community College." This is an institution that offers technical and vocational education, occupational extension training, and general adult and community service programs.

Pitt Technical Institute is currently engaged in all of these. In addition, however, a community college offers the first two years of college study.

These first two years of college can be transferred as full credit to any college or university within the state. Also, technical students attending a community college may transfer many of the technical courses to a senior college or university with credit.

A community college has an "open" admissions policy, which means that any high school graduate may apply for the college - transfer or any other program. He is not required to have taken certain high school subjects, nor is the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) required.

By voting "yes" on May 2, the people of Pitt County will allow Pitt Technical Institute to add the college - transfer program to its existing curriculum. This would also mean that Pitt Tech could and would expand and enrich its technical and vocational programs.

More specific advantages of making Pitt Technical Institute a community college will be discussed in the articles to follow this one.

Two Greenville Men Elected To Wachovia Bank Offices

W. ROSS KNOWLES

JESSE F. TART

Two Greenville men have been elected officers of Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, N.A. here and two Greenville officers have been promoted by Wachovia directors to new positions, it was announced today by R.W. Howard, senior vice president and office executive of Wachovia's Northeast Division.

Owen L. Cox was elected as assistant trust officer and L.F. Robbins Jr. was elected as assistant cashier. Promoted to vice president was Jesse F. Tart. W. Ross Knowles was promoted to trust officer of Wachovia.

Cox joined Wachovia in 1967 in Greenville. He is a native of Aurora and a 1962 graduate of Atlantic Christian College in Wilson. He is an Air Force Veteran.

Robbins joined Wachovia in 1966 at Salisbury. He moved to Greenville last year as assistant operations manager. A native of Temple, Texas, Robbins is a 1966 accounting graduate from Texas A & M University. He is active in the Jaycees, Merchants Association and the Salvation Army.

Tart, a native of Greenville, joined Wachovia in 1957 in Goldsboro. He came to Greenville in 1961 and is assistant manager in the time payment department. He is a 1957 graduate of East Carolina University and is a member of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce.

Knowles, a Jamesville native, joined Wachovia in 1962 in Greenville and was made assistant trust officer in trust and estate administration in 1965. He is a graduate of N.C. State University at Raleigh.

Much Responsibility In Parents' Hands: Scott

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott said today much of the responsibility of coping with the drug abuse problem in North Carolina rests with parents.

Parents must spend more time with their children, and they must provide them with a variety of recreational opportunities, Scott said in a prepared speech at the governor's conference on drug abuse.

"Parents must, in effect, prove that they really care," the governor stated. "No longer can they just hand a child the car keys and some money and tell him to go out to the movies and have a good time and be home by 11 o'clock."

Scott urged that parents, teachers and others concerned about the drug abuse problem observe the following six ground rules:

- "1. Keep your cool.
- "2. Listen to what children and young people are really saying.
- "3. Get the facts about drugs and share them with young people.
- "4. Be firm, yet fair, in disciplining young people.
- "5. Set good examples for young people.
- "6. Get outside help if it appears that a young person is actually becoming dependent or hooked on drugs."

Scott said he is concerned "that many people, especially young people, apparently look upon former drug users as heroes of a sort. We must, somehow, erase this dangerous and mistaken impression."

The governor said that in the past month two physicians in North Carolina died as a result of drug abuse. He noted that at least 15 deaths in the past six months in North Carolina have been due to overdoses of heroin and other hard drugs.

"To me, the worst aspect of the drug problem," Scott said, "is that there are pushers who are in the business of making money harming young people. Pushers should be arrested, and, if they are found guilty, they should be punished severely."

"In addition to enforcement," he added, "we need to step up our efforts in preventive education, treatment and rehabilitation."

Two Traffic Accidents

Two collisions here yesterday morning resulted in an estimated $440 damage to the vehicles involved, Greenville police investigators reported.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from an 11:45 a. m. mishap at the intersection of 10th and Clark Streets and involved a car driven by Sam Reese, 40, of Simpson and a truck driven by Barbara Ann Stocks, 918 East 14th St.

Officers, who charged Mrs. Stocks with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety set damage at $160 to the Reese vehicle and $100 to the Stocks vehicle.

Victor Anthony Parker, 19, of Route 1, Aulander, was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign following investigation of an 11:55 a. m. mishap at the intersection of Second and Cotanche Streets.

Investigators reported the Parker car collided with an auto driven by Fay Williams of Rocky Mount.

Damage was estimated at $100 to the Williams auto and $80 to the Parker car.

No injuries were reported.

Math Dept. Is Awarded Grant

The Mathematics Department of East Carolina University has received an $11,236 award from the National Science Foundation (NSF) to help finance a program to advance math teaching.

The award will be used for an In-Service Institute in Mathematics for Secondary School teachers, a spokesman said.

Ralph Edwards To Revive Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Producer-master of ceremonies Ralph Edwards says he will revive the "This Is Your Life" show next January. The show left the air in 1961 after nine years on television, which followed two years on radio.

An Edwards spokesman said the show chronicling the lives of unsuspecting guests and bringing together friends and acquaintances they have not seen for years, would be taped on outdoor locations instead of in a studio as before.

High Court Nominee Blackmun Disavows Labels

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The judicial record of Supreme Court nominee Harry A. Blackmun, a federal appeals judge considered a strict constructionist by President Nixon, does not appear that easy to pin down.

The judge himself brushed aside labels shortly after he learned Tuesday in St. Louis, where he sits on the U.S. 8th Court of Appeals, that Nixon had named him to fill the vacancy created almost a year ago with the resignation of Justice Abe Fortas.

"I've been called liberal and conservative," Blackmun said. "Labels are deceiving. I call them as I see them."

Blackmun, 61, who lives in Rochester, Minn., has been compared judicially with his old friend and fellow Minnesotan, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger of the Supreme Court, as being fairly liberal on civil rights issues and strict on the rights of criminal defendants.

Nixon, who has frequently criticized court decisions expanding the rights of defendants in criminal cases, was reported by White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler to have been highly impressed when he studied Blackmun's judicial record.

Twice Blackmun wrote decisions turning back challenges to the constitutionality of the death penalty. One of them is before the Supreme Court now in a major test case, apparently deadlocked awaiting a ninth justice. But Blackmun would not be able to help out in this case since he wrote the decision being challenged.

Last week the Supreme Court overturned a Blackmun decision rejecting the contention that a man was placed in double jeopardy when he was tried twice in connection with the robbery of a poker game.

Burger, in his first major lone dissent as a member of the high court, called the decision of his colleagues "a case of expanding a sound basic principle beyond the bounds, or needs, of its rational and legitimate, objectives to preclude harassment of an accused."

But Blackmun's reasoning in the case is not entirely clear. He had predicted the opinion might be reversed, and implied the ultimate decision, in any case, should be made by the Supreme Court.

In a 1968 civil rights case, Blackmun ruled against a Negro who charged a housing developer refused to sell him a home in a new subdivision in St. Louis County, but he indicated a sympathy for the plaintiff's contention.

"It is not for our court, as an inferior one, to give full expression to any personal inclinations any of us might have and to take the lead in expanding constitutional precepts when we are faced with a limiting Supreme Court decision," Blackmun wrote.

"It would not be too surprising if the Supreme Court one day were to hold that a court errs when it dismisses a complaint of this kind," he added.

Blackmun has written opinions directing the West Memphis, Ark., school district to desegregate its faculty and seek racial balance in the student body, and ordering another Arkansas school system to make every effort to rehire Negro teachers dismissed when their schools were closed.

In a case last month, Blackmun wrote an opinion directing the El Dorado, Ark., school district to achieve further integration. But he said:

"We do not rule that busing is a constitutional imperative. Busing is only one possible tool in the implementation of unitary schools. Busing may or may not be a useful factor in the required and forthcoming solution of the elementary school problem which the district faces."

Although he has upheld the death sentence in celebrated cases, Blackmun wrote a 1965 decision ordering a new hearing for an Arkansas Negro sentenced to death for raping a white woman. He held that a confession introduced as evidence was involuntary, the type of ruling that appears to conflict with Nixon's views.

Political observers began predicting immediately that Blackmun would not meet the opposition which defeated Nixon's last two nominees—Clement F. Haynsworth and G. Harrold Carswell—although senators were generally cautious in their initial reactions.

Haynsworth and Carswell, both judges on U.S. appeals courts in the South, were rejected by the Senate after bitter controversy centering about labor and civil rights issues and Haynsworth's outside business interests.

Nixon said after the Carswell defeat last week he thought the Senate would not confirm a Southern judge who shared his views on the Constitution.

The Senate Judiciary Committee plans to start public hearings on the nomination next week, and early committee and floor votes are expected.

Blackmun is a native of Nashville, Ill., but began his education in the same kindergarten class in St. Paul attended by Burger. He was best man at Burger's wedding.

The nominee graduated with highest honors from Harvard with a degree in mathematics and from Harvard Law School.

He practiced law in Minneapolis for 17 years before moving to Rochester as counsel for the Mayo Clinic in 1950. He was named to the federal appeals court by President Eisenhower in 1959. He is married and has three daughters.

'Chafing' Under The Suspensions

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A lawyer representing Capt. Jeffrey R. MacDonald says the Green Beret doctor is chafing under Army suspicions that he may have had a hand in the slaying of his wife and two daughters at Ft. Bragg, N. C.

The 27-year-old officer is a "man of extremely strong character," said Bernard L. Segal, one of two Philadelphia lawyers retained by MacDonald's mother.

"He's not chafing at being restricted, but more at the fact he's now a suspect," Segal said.

MacDonald was informed by the Army last week at Ft. Bragg, base that he would be questioned as a suspect in the bizarre killing on the night of Feb. 16.

The physician told the Army that his pregnant wife, Collette, 26, and two daughters, 6-year-old Kimberly and 2-year-old Kristen, were killed by three men and a woman.

He said the intruders into the family's Ft. Bragg home chant-

Drug Problem In Raleigh Growing

RALEIGH (AP) — A police official estimates that about 50 per cent of Raleigh's high school students are experimenting or have experimented with drugs.

Det. Maj. R. E. Goodwin said Tuesday the use of heroin and other narcotics has increased to the extent that organized racketeers are reported moving into the city to supply the demand.

"There is not direct evidence that drugs are being sold on school campuses," Goodwin said. "But our problem is accelerating at a very rapid pace."

Home-Owning Outlook Better

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — A federal official says families of low and moderate income will have a broader opportunity to own homes under the Nixon administration's proposed 1970 housing legislation.

Samuel C. Jackson, assistant secretary for metropolitan planning and development in the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said Tuesday the legislation should help relieve the nation's critical housing shortage.

Jackson made his remarks in a talk to the Student Bar Association and student planners of the department of city and regional planning at the University of North Carolina.

He said 20 per cent of Americans are ill-housed, and 60 per cent of the substandard housing is in rural areas.

AGAINST POLLUTION
PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — The Navy has joined the battle against air pollution. "We're not burning secret documents anymore," a spokesman said. "We're treating them with chemicals and shredding them."

Pathet Lao Reject Bid

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The Laotian Communists have rejected Premier Souvanna Phouma's latest proposals to negotiate an end to the Laotian conflict, sources here said today.

They said the Pathet Lao radio, in a broadcast Tuesday, denounced the proposals as "an act of propaganda" designed "to dupe the people" and prepare for escalation in the fighting.

Souvanna made his offer April 9 in a letter to Prince Souphanouvong, his half-brother and the leader of the Pathet Lao, in response to peace proposals Souphanouvong had offered a month earlier.

Souphanouvong had demanded a halt in all U.S. bombing in Laos as a precondition to negotiations for a cease-fire, a conference of all political factions and formation of a provisional coalition government.

Souvanna's counteroffer made no mention of a U.S. bombing halt. It called for unconditional talks between the government and the Pathet Lao and for a cease-fire under international supervision.

One well placed diplomatic source said that Souvanna "regards the bombing as his best piece of bargaining leverage and he has no intention of giving it up without reciprocity."

The lawyer said an officer has been assigned to escort MacDonald wherever he goes. Two military policemen trail behind in a jeep when he moves about, he said.

MacDonald has been staying in the Bachelor Officers' Quarters on the 200,000-acre base since he was released from the hospital where his stab wounds were treated.

His mother, Mrs. Dorothy MacDonald of Long Island, N. Y., retained Segal and another Philadelphia lawyer, Dennis Eisman, to represent her son along with the Army-assigned attorney, Capt. James B. Deuthot of Roanoke, Va.

Segal depicted MacDonald as a "very dynamic, busy young man" who worked hard to get through medical school and married while at Princeton University.

Showdown For Unionizing Bid

PEMBROKE, N. C. (AP) — Employees at the B. F. Goodrich Footwear Co. plant near Pembroke voted today to decide a hard-fought battle over unionizing attempts by the United Rubber Workers, AFL-CIO.

The organizing drive has encountered stiff resistance among the community and some of the plant's 1,700 employees.

Ray Smithart, a union organizer, said he holds cards from more than half the employees authorizing the company to withhold union dues from their checks.

But Hughie Davis, one of the antiunion employees, said the National Labor Relations Board election will result in defeat for the union.

Wants Flexible Coastline Plans

WILMINGTON (AP) — Roy Sowers Jr., director of the Department of Conservation and Development, says the program to preserve and protect the North Carolina coastline needs to be reevaluated.

Sowers told the Wilmington Rotary Club Tuesday that more flexibility is needed. He called for more adequate funding and long range planning.

SOME PEOPLE THINK ELECTRIC HEAT IS ONLY FOR THE RICH.

Except people like these who have it. People who enjoy electric heat are as careful about the way they spend their money as you are. So when they make an important purchase like a home, they look for value throughout.

Here's what they've discovered. Electric heat is cleaner, safer, quieter, and more flexible than any other system. It's the only system that will be as modern years from now as it is today.

When you consider the cost of a heating system, consider the value. Ask yourself whether any other heating system offers more for the money than flameless electric heat. Ask your builder, architect, or heating contractor about today's best heating value. Electric. And if people think you're rich, enjoy it.

'Earth Day' Proclaimed April 22 In Greenville

LITTER IS LAND POLLUTION

Mayor Frank M. Wooten has proclaimed April 22 "Earth Day" in Greenville.

His proclamation said next Wednesday has been set aside and organized to involve local people in examining the facts about the environmental crisis and deciding for themselves the issues up on which to focus.

He said, "Before environmental problems can be solved, the public must be educated and informed about the scope of the problems and the facts concerning their possible solutions."

He commented on the urgency of the problems, saying, "To preserve the quality of life — if not life itself — we must find and implement solutions to these problems in this decade."

Some of the problems specifically referred in the proclamation included air pollution, pollutions of rivers and even oceans, and "our mushrooming population's misuse of natural resources."

Wrong Picture Of Wanted Man

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — The announcer on Rhodesia's only television channel began a news item about an African wanted for housebreaking. As he said police were appealing for information about the man, on the screen flashed a picture of Chief Leabua Jonathan, prime minister of the tiny African kingdom of Lesotho. "It was just one of those things," mumbled an embarrassed station spokesman.

Plebiscite Will Determine Name

DUBLIN Ireland (AP) — The only claim to fame enjoyed by the sleepy little Irish town of Navan was that it was spelled the same way backwards.

Then local authorities changed it to the old Irish name of An Uaimh.

However, businessmen complained that nobody can pronounce the new name. Consequently a plebiscite will be held to see whether people want it changed back to Navan.

"problem" perspiration solved even for thousands who perspire heavily

Lock Tonnage Compares Well

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — McAlpine Locks and Lock 52, near Paducah, Ky., both on the Ohio River, handle a combined tonnage annually almost equal to that of the Panama Canal.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers says 32,165,573 tons passed through McAlpine and 43,805,588 tons through Lock 52 in 1969, compared with about 90 million tons through the Panama Canal.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Carolina egg markets steady Tuesday, supplies adequate, demand fair. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites 44-44½; medium whites 39½-40½; small whites 33½-35.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hog markets today are steady to 25 cents lower. Tops of 23.75 to 24.25 at Rocky Mount; 23.50 to 23.75 at Wilson; 22.75 to 23.75 at Bethel, Tarboro; 22.75 to 23.25 at Siler City, Denton; 24.25 at Mount Olive; 23.75 at Salisbury; 23.50 at Greensboro; 22.25 to 23.25 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Newton Grove, Albemarle and Lumberton.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina live poultry market firm today, supplies barely adequate to short, demand good. Live at farms 12 cents per pound. Hens, heavies irregular, barely adequate on lighter weights. Demand fair. Heavies at farm 14 cents, f.o.b. plants 15 to 15½. Light type, too few to report.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market advanced moderately in slow trading early today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11 a.m. was up 2.97 at 783.53.

The market had been forging cautiously ahead since the start of trading.

Brokers view the gain as an extension of the firming pattern which the market showed late Tuesday. They added that the upturn appeared to be temporary. They say investors are demonstrating their uncertainty by waiting on the sidelines.

Advancing issues on the New York Stock Exchange led losers by a relatively narrow margin.

Investigate Fire At Local Garage

A fire at a garage housing cars owned by Greenville funeral home director W. E. Flanagan is being investigated today by Greenville police as a possible fire bombing attempt.

The fire at Flanagan's 114 South Memorial Dr. home was reported at 12:10 a. m. Firemen, who reported "very minor damage" resulted to the masonry building and cars, said it appeared that someone had thrown a bottle filled with gasoline or kerosene against a garage wall to start the blaze.

Flanagan told police an "explosion" woke him up. He looked out a window, saw the fire and called firemen.

Boat Inspection

A courtesy boat inspection lane will be operated by Wildlife Protectors from the Pitt County area between 5 p. m. and 7 p. m. Thursday at the Pitt County Wildlife Club near Falkland.

According to protector Sam Wright, the inspection program is being held to give boat owners an opportunity to have boats inspected for all required equipment and to have any questions concerning boating laws answered.

Claim On Inquest Papers Rejected

BOSTON (AP)—Federal Judge Andrew J. Caffrey today turned down a motion by a professional stenographer to bar release of the Mary Jo Kopechne inquest transcript. But he gave stenographer Sidney R. Lipman until 3 p. m. today to appeal.

The action in U.S. District Court stayed the effect of the order until 3 p. m. to give Lipman an opportunity to appeal.

REWARD

The undersigned will pay to any person or persons the sum of $150.00 for the apprehension and conviction of the person or persons guilty of poisoning several dogs during the past few days on East Eighth Street in the City of Greenville.

UNC Reply Sent HEW

CHAPEL HILL (AP)—The president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina said today he had sent a detailed reply to a federal demand for more integration on UNC campuses.

The official, Dr. William Friday, said the text of the 21-page reply would be made public later today after copies were received by members of the university's Board of Trustees.

The reply was sent Tuesday night to the Charlottesville, Va., office of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Dr. Eloise Severnson, regional HEW director, had ordered increased efforts to promote integration after studies on five of the university's six campuses.

The HEW demand covered campuses at Chapel Hill, Raleigh, Greensboro, Charlotte and Wilmington.

The university also operates a campus at Asheville but no study was made there.

Friday said HEW had not informed him why no study was made at the Asheville campus.

Today was the deadline for the reply to HEW.

Similar HEW demands have been made to other state-supported universities in North Carolina, but none of them has made public any reply.

The state government also has been ordered by HEW to take steps to promote racial integration at all institutions of higher learning in the state.

Environmental Concern To Stay Penny A Ride On Earth Day

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—City bus passengers will pay only a penny a ride on Earth Day, April 22.

The City Commission approved the reduced fare at the request of the Environmental Teach-In Committee at the University of New Mexico which said residents should be encouraged to ride buses and thus reduce air pollution from auto exhausts.

Traffic Toll

RALEIGH (AP)—Here is the North Carolina Motor Vehicle Department's report of highway deaths and injuries for the 24 hours ending at midnight Tuesday:

Killed—1
Injured (rural)—23
Killed this year—397
Killed to date last year—414
Injured to March 1, 1970—8,156
Injured to March 1, 1969—7,952

Few Omens On Soviet-U.S. Arms Talks

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Soviet-American arms talks, whose success or lack of it will be of enormous importance to mankind, reopen Thursday in Vienna. There are few good omens, but one may be Moscow's complaints about drunkenness and irresponsibility among Soviet workers.

This may sound far-fetched, but Soviet economic problems are directly connected with whatever Kremlin interest there is in scaling down the hugely expensive arms race. SALT, the strategic arms limitation talks, offers probably the only way out.

Never have the Soviet Union and the United States possessed such military might as they have today. Never have the superpowers had such complex foreign policy problems. Never have the two had more compelling reasons for seeking an arms agreement.

The arguments on the American side in favor of a halt to the race have been widely publicized. What about the Soviet side?

When Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Communist party chief, publicly bawls out Soviet workers for drunkenness and irresponsibility and calls for "harsh administrative measures," he exposes one of the big reasons why the Kremlin might want an arms race cutback.

Labor productivity in the Soviet Union is too low. Income, however small by Western standards, outruns production, and there are not enough consumer goods to go around. The demands for improving the Soviet domestic economy never have been more insistent than now. The Soviet consumer lobby never has been stronger or more demanding. The leaders never had had more incentive for cutting down huge investment in an open-ended arms race.

Brezhnev's speech and other recent official Moscow statements reflect an urgent need to invest in the consumer economy a much bigger share of the wealth that is being gobbled up by the arms contest. The need must be pressing indeed to move Brezhnev to a shower of heresies: his calls for more autonomy in business enterprises, more economic incentives, more initiative from below, all smacking of lessened centralized bureaucratic control.

The Kremlin apparently also would like to arrange more beneficial contact with the United States to help the Soviet Union out of her economic problems. Discussing SALT recently, a Soviet publication said: "Considerable possibilities are being revealed in the field of mutually advantageous trade, economic ties and scientific and technical cooperation between the United States and the U.S.S.R."

All this can reflect itself in the Vienna talks. If logic were in command, the negotiations would have a good chance. There is little record thus far, however, of logic being the rule in Soviet-American negotiations.

The superpowers solemnly agree on the dangers of the race and the wisdom of a halt. But the talks are reopening in an atmosphere of mutual suspicion.

In a second speech this week, Brezhnev said that "if American opinion succeeds in overcoming resistance by the arms manufacturers and the military," prospects for the talks would be favorable. Obviously, Moscow wants to place all responsibility for the race on the Americans and by this reasoning demand concessions.

To add to the suspicion, Soviet leaders and Moscow's press complain that prospects for the talks are damaged by "imperialist" plots against Communist rule in the East bloc. Brezhnev repeated the complaint this week. For the Americans are equally suspicious of Soviet week. For their part, the Americans are equally suspicious of Soviet intentions.

The Soviet alternatives and those of the Americans are similar in a number of respects. Failure to reach agreement means more arms competition and ever-growing outlays of resources at the expense of internal problems and the always-present risk of catastrophe, perhaps even through accident.

The need would seem to be as great on one side as the other for some sort of agreement, however limited.

Obituary

Briley

Miss Mittie Briley, 85, died in the Greenville Nursing Home Wednesday morning at 3:35 after a long illness. Funeral services will be conducted at two o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. L. B. Manning, Free Will Baptist Minister of Fountain, and the Rev. Willis Wilson, pastor of the Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park.

Miss Briley was a native of Pitt County and spent most of her life near Bethel. She was a member of Hickory Grove Free Will Baptist Church.

Surviving are a brother, Johnny Briley of Bethel; a sister, Miss Ackie Briley of Bethel.

short circuit in either a fan or a heater associated with the oxygen tank allowed pressure to build to 1,500 pounds per square inch and causing the tank to burst.

The third stage of the Saturn 5 rocket that boosted the astronauts into space last Saturday crashed on the moon as scheduled with a force equal to 11 tons of TNT, exciting a seismometer left by the Apollo 12 astronauts. The impact vibrated the instrument for four hours, and was expected to help scientists probing the moon's internal structure.

President Nixon kept close touch with Apollo 13 developments, and at a state dinner at the White House Tuesday night called on his guests to observe a minute of prayer for the astronauts' safe return. Special prayers were said in many churches.

The wives of Lovell and Haise kept their children home from school and followed the progress of the flight. Swigert is a bachelor.

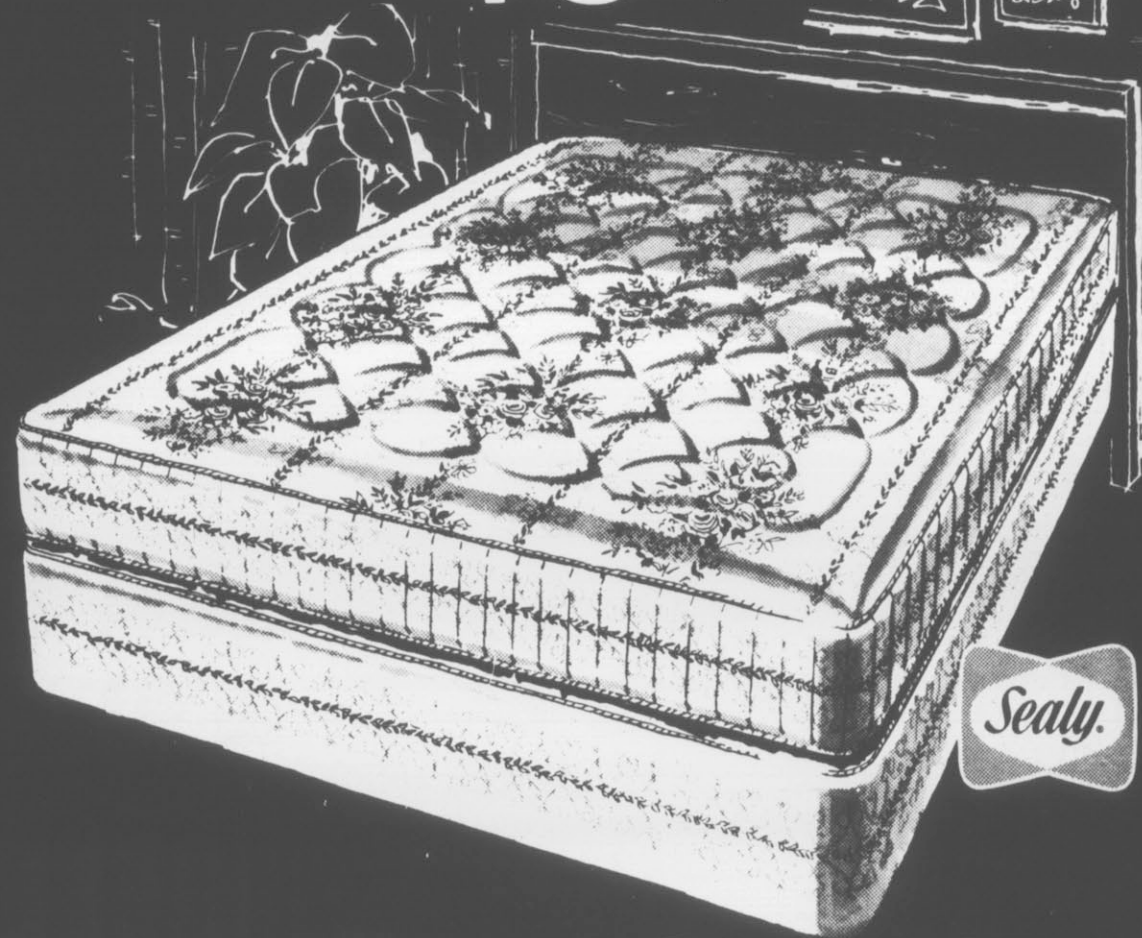

NASA Administrator Dr. Thomas O. Paine said, "There is no stone being left unturned to bring the crew of Apollo 13 safely back to earth."

Paine established a high-level committee to meet every eight hours to review progress and make recommendations.

He said it was too early to tell what effect the Apollo 13 problem would have on future Apollo missions.

Pirates Split Pair With The Citadel

White Sox Hand First Loss To California

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Home is still the best place to be for Detroit's Al Kaline and Boston's Reggie Smith, but the other man's grass has been greener this spring for the California Angels.

Kaline marked his 18th home opener in Detroit Monday with a two-run double that helped the Tigers maul Cleveland 12-4 and Smith crashed a homer, triple and double as the Red Sox whipped the New York Yankees 8-3 in their first start at Boston.

But the Angels, who had reeled off five consecutive road victories to set the early pace in the American League, bowed to the Chicago White Sox 3-1 in their initial home game as Joe Horlen tossed his 100th career victory.

In the only other AL game, Oakland bombed Milwaukee 9-1 behind left-handers Al Downing and Paul Lindblad. Kansas City and Minnesota were snowed out at Minneapolis-St. Paul and Washington's game at Baltimore also was postponed because of wet grounds.

San Francisco outslugged Atlanta 15-11, Cincinnati trimmed San Diego 6-1. Pittsburgh topped the New York Mets 6-4 in 10 innings. St. Louis shaded Montreal 6-5 in 10, the Chicago Cubs nipped Philadelphia 5-4 and Los Angeles edged Houston 3-2 in National League play.

"You always enjoy playing in front of a home crowd on Opening Day," said Kaline, whose double keyed a four-run third inning salvo at Detroit, where the Tigers pounded out 15 hits before an appreciative throng of 46,891. "I think there's a little extra incentive when you know everyone is behind you."

Norm Cash and Jim Northrup had three hits apiece for the Tigers, including a two-run homer by Cash, and left-hander Mickey Lolich weathered 12 Cleveland hits on the way to his second victory in three decisions.

At Boston, 34,010 jammed Fenway Park to see the Red Sox wreck the Yankees with a 12-hit barrage. Smith, George Scott and Tony Conigliaro pounded bases-empty homers over the short left field wall. Smith doubled home two more runs and tripled and scored another while boosting his early batting average to .345.

Horlen, a nine-year AL veteran, reached the century mark in victories with late inning relief help from Wilbur Wood before 18,229 at Anaheim.

The White Sox, who had won just one of six games at home, turned an error by second baseman Sandy Alomar into three first inning runs and made them stand up.

Milwaukee miscues handed the A's four unearned runs and Rick Monday wrapped up Downing's first Oakland victory with a three-run homer in the eighth.

Downing, acquired from the Yankees during the winter, limited the Brewers to a tainted run and eight scattered hits in the 61-3 innings he worked. Lindblad allowed one more hit in his mop-up job.

East Carolina University's Pirates struggled to a 1-0 victory against The Citadel in the first game of a Southern Conference doubleheader yesterday.

But the Bucs handed the second game to the Bulldogs in the second contest, 3-2, allowing all three Citadel runs to score on errors.

The split left the Bucs in a slender lead over Furman in the conference's Southern Division. East Carolina is now 4-2 in loop play. The Citadel currently holds a 3-4 record. Davidson and Furman also played in a doubleheader yesterday.

The Pirates, who pounded out 21 hits against The Citadel in Charleston, S.C., a week ago, got only six off the same two Bulldog hurlers this time. In the second game, Doug Pounder had a no-hitter going until the final inning, when he was finally touched for two.

And the Bucs had just as much trouble getting on base in the opener. Lee Roy Allen limited them to four hits, and the lone run of the game, off him, came in the final inning.

East Carolina got out of potential jams in the first two innings on double plays. The Citadel got a man into scoring position in the third, however, on a single and a sacrifice.

S. Wayne Tops Dogs

DUDLEY — Southern Wayne High School rolled to a 91-36 victory over Grifton High School in track on Monday.

Grifton managed to take first place in only three events, the 880, the pole vault and the discus.

Mike Tyndall set a new school record in the low hurdles, however, finishing second in :22.7.

Summary:
120 high hurdles: Wilson (SW), Martin (SW), Bryant (G), :17.0.
100: Brody (SW), Jackson (SW), Bizzle (SW), :10.3.

Crowell's Clothing Comments

(Earliest American Clothes)

As far as we know, the original Americans were Eskimos and Indians. The term "Eskimo" means "those who eat raw fish". They settled in the Arctic region.

The dress for both men and women was fashioned from the skins of seal, reindeer, bears and fox. Because of the intense cold, their outfits were expertly tailored. These outfits were sewn with sinew thread and bone needle and consisted of fur breeches tucked into fur boots, and a hooded tunic.

The North Pacific Coast Indians' clothing was quite superficial. They went barefoot all year round. During the wet season, they wore a poncho type raincoat made out of cedar bark.

The most important part of their dress was a woven blanket of cedar bark, mountain goat wool and dog's hair.

The only other Bulldog threat came in the sixth. Allen led off the inning with a single, and moved up on a sacrifice. With two outs, Joe Davis hit the ball for what appeared to be a sure hit between first and second, and Allen would have scored easily on it. But Dennis Vick made a fine play on the ball, taking it deep in the hole just in time to get Davis at first, ending the inning.

For winning pitcher Hal Baird, the victory was a fine one. He allowed a total of five hits, while striking out seven and walking none. But his teammates did little to help him along with their bats. The Bucs went down in order until the fourth inning, when Dick Corrada got the first hit off Allen. He moved up on a wild pitch and Stan Sneed walked with one out. But both died on base, as the Bucs were unable to get anything further going.

In the sixth, Stu Garrett opened the inning with a single and moved to second on a sacrifice. He moved on to third on an out, but again, the Bucs couldn't bring in across. Finally, in the seventh, the Bucs got what they needed. Skip Taylor led off with a single by the shortstop. Baird did his share by sacrificing him down to second.

Matt Walker then slammed the ball into center field, and Taylor raced home just before the throw, sliding safely to end the game in a 1-0 ECU victory.

In the second game, however, it was the Bucs own mistakes that was their undoing. The Citadel got off its first threat in the second on the first of four East Carolina errors. Steve Arrington struck out, but the ball got away from Sneed, and Arrington reached first on the play. He was sacrificed to second and gained third on an out, only to die there.

Two singles off Pirate hurler Sonny Robinson put the Bucs in trouble again, but two fly outs and a strikeout got them by the danger.

The sixth inning brought the disaster, however. John Bledsoe led off with a single to right. With one out, Arrington hit a chopper in front of the plate. Sneed picked it up, but overthrew first on the attempt to get Arrington, and Bledsoe raced on to third.

Bryan Burns hit a slow runner to third that was also errored, and Bledsoe came across to score. Paul Plunkett followed that up with a single, scoring Arrington for a 2-0 lead.

In the seventh, The Citadel got what proved to be the winning run, also with the help of an error. With one down, Billy Watson doubled by hitting a looper into left center that no one could get to in time. Bledsoe grounded out to second, and Watson, apparently unsure of where the ball was, overran N. C. State, then returns home Saturday to host Richmond in a Southern Conference game. VMI visits the Pirate field on Sunday. Both home games will be at 2 p.m.

Meanwhile, East Carolina hadn't gotten a hit off Pounder during the first six innings. He had walked two in the first inning, but no one else had been safely to first since them.

With one out in the seventh, however, Taylor drew a walk, and Dave Shields came on as a pinchrunner. Walker again came through with a clutch hit, a double to deep center, moving Shields to third.

Shields came over on a wild pitch, and Walker moved into third. Then, with two outs, Larry Walters lined the ball off the Bulldog first baseman's leg, scoring Walker, and putting the tying run on second.

But the next batter grounded out, and the Bucs had to settle for a split in the series.

Robinson was tagged with the loss, his second in two games. He allowed six hits and struck out eight while walking none over five and two-thirds innings. Both runs charged to him were unearned, however. The other run came off Baird, who hurled in relief, after original reliever Don Oxidine was lifted for a pinchhitter. Baird's run was also unearned. East Carolina travels to Raleigh on Thursday to meet N. C. State, then returns home Saturday to host Richmond in a Southern Conference game. VMI visits the Pirate field on Sunday. Both home games will be at 2 p.m.

Ayden Slips Past Grifton

AYDEN — The Ayden Torndoes moved another step along the way toward another Pitt County Conference baseball title with a 3-1 victory over Grifton yesterday.

Ayden got a no-hitter from hurler Bennett Tyson. He struck out 10, but walked five in the game.

Ayden's first run came in the opening inning. Alan Wilson led off with a single and stole second. Tyson then helped his own cause with a run-scoring single.

In the third, Ayden scored again. Dail Manning walked and Tyson also drew a walk. Debro Blount then knocked in what proved to be the winning run with a single, scoring Manning.

In the fourth, Ayden added an insurance run. Ken Cleaton reached on an error. He stole second and moved on to third on another error. Wilson then singled him across, for a 3-0 lead.

Grifton picked up its only run in the fifth. Neil Vanneman led off with a walk, and then stole second. Adonis Grant reached on an error, and Vanneman moved to score, and another error at home allowed him to reach safely.

Wilson led Ayden at the plate with two hits.

Chicod In 12-6 Win

BELVOIR — Chicod High School rolled to a 12-6 victory over Belvoir-Falkland High School yesterday.

Chicod took the lead with a pair of runs in the first. Mills reached on an error and Evans walked. Paige drove both in with a double.

Belvoir picked up a run in the bottom of the inning. Edward Coburn walked and stole second. Ray Harrell score him with a single.

In the third, Chicod came up with four runs for a 6-1 edge. Forrest walked and both Mills and Edwards reached on fielder's choices. Evans walked, forcing in Forrest and B. Edwards was hit by a pitch, scoring Mills. Paige got a single to score Edwards and Evans.

In the fifth, Chicod pushed over two more for a 8-1 lead, one which Belvoir could not overcome. Paige singled and Brown reached on a fielder's choice. Warren then singled over both runners.

Chicod added two more in the sixth, and then got two more in the seventh. Belvoir picked up two in the fifth, one in the sixth and two in the seventh.

Paige led Chicod with three hits, while B. Edwards had two. Ray Sutton and Clint Lewis had two each for Belvoir.

Aycock Takes First Defeat

Rocky Mount's Wilson Junior High School defeated E. B. Aycock Junior High School here yesterday, 3-0. It was the first loss for the Phantoms in four games this year.

Wilson got a one-hit pitching performance from Randy Warrick, who struck out 10 and walked just two. The lone hit off him came in the first inning, when Howard Adams got a single.

All of the Rocky Mount runs were unearned. Two were pushed over in the third inning. With two outs, Warrick reached on an error. He stole second and scored when Sandy Wooten doubled. Wooten came across for a 2-0 lead when Tim Landen singled.

In the fifth, Wilson picked up its other run. Warrick reached on a fielder's choice, and stole second. He moved into third on a wild pitch. Then, with two outs, Wooten reached on another error, and Warrick scored.

Pirate Netters Defeat Roanoke

ROANOKE — East Carolina University finished off a four-day road trip with a 9-0 victory over Roanoke College here yesterday.

It was the first Buc win on the trip and raised their record to 3-7 for the season.

East Carolina didn't allow Roanoke to win a single set as they took the match overwhelmingly.

Graham Felton (EC) defeated Ben Griffin, 6-3, 6-3.
Bill Ransone (EC) defeated Ron Miller, 6-0, 6-1.

Bill Van Middlesworth (EC) defeated Richard Hathaway, 6-2, 6-1.

Rose High School picked up a victory in its first Eastern 4-A Division Two contest yesterday, downing Rocky Mount 5-0.

Russ Smith hurled the five-hit shutout for the Rampants, who are now 7-1 overall, and 1-0 in the conference.

The Rampants got all their runs in one inning, the fifth, as they got the win. But it was not without a few threats by the Gryphons.

Rocky Mount got off its first threat in the first inning. With one out, Pete Thompson grounded sharply off Smith's glove and reached with a single. Ricky Leonard singled into left, moving Thompson into scoring position, but Rocky Mount was unable to capitalize on it.

The second inning produced another threat. Carson Robinson led off, and reached on an error, which allowed him to go to second before he was cut down moving to third.

Leonard was the threat in the fourth. He singled to open the inning, and moved to second on a fielder's choice. But there he was picked off by Smith, as he and Ronnie Leggett caught Leonard off base.

Earl Warren reached in the fifth on a walk and was sacrificed to second, but remained there the rest of the inning, closing out the final Gryphon threat.

Rose, meanwhile, was trying to push over a run of its own. In the second, they missed on their first opportunity. Jimmy Paige reached on a fielder's choice, erasing Tommy Durham, who had opened with a single, Paige stole second, and Kim Harbin sacrificed him to third, but he was unable to score.

The only other Rose opportunity came in the fifth, and the Rampants made good use of it, pushing over five runs.

Byron Dickens led off with a grounder to second, but the first baseman dropped the ball. John Conway singled into short left and Jimmy Sugg drew a walk. Larry Hatton singled into right center, and Dickens and Conway both came across to score, and Rose had enough to win it.

But the Rampants weren't through. Hatton appeared to be caught in a rundown between first and second but slid under throw to first safely. As Sugg broke for home, the fielder threw the ball away there, with Sugg scoring, and Hatton then moving into second.

Leggett continued things by beating out an infield hit while Hatton moved to third. Leggett stole second uncontested, and Durham finished off the scoring with a single scoring both runners for the 5-0 margin.

Durham led the Rose hitting with two, while he and Hatton shared the RBI lead with two each.

Smith, in tossing the win, struck out eight and walked two. Rose travels to Wilson on Friday, seeking to pick up its second loop win, and hold onto at least a share of the lead in the division.

Cougars Win See-Saw Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carolina Cougars wrap up their regular American Basketball Association season tonight against the Pipers of Pittsburgh.

The Cougars came out on top of a see-saw battle Tuesday night against the Washington Caps. Carolina had a 104-98 advantage when the final buzzer sounded.

The Caps, who ended their regular season with the loss to Carolina, were down by as much as 27 points before they pulled to within two points in the final 19 seconds.

But Bob Verga followed two charity shots by Hank Whitney with a driving layup to seal the victory. Verga had 38 for the evening.

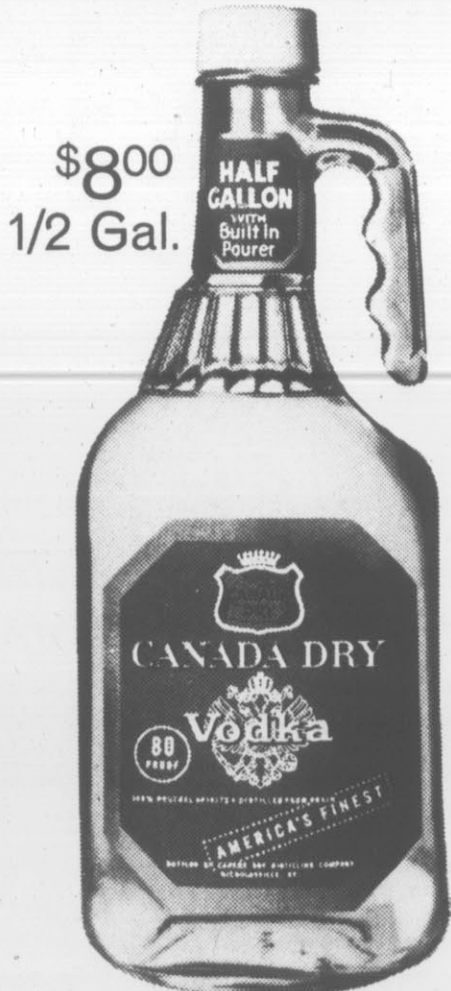

Ahead of the third-place Cougars after Pittsburgh is a best-of-seven playoff series with the Indiana Pacers — first-place finishers in the ABA Eastern Division.

The series starts in Indianapolis with afternoon games Saturday and Sunday. The third game will be played in Charlotte at 8:10 p.m. next Wednesday, and the fourth will be played in Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh at 8:10 p.m. Friday, April 24.

If necessary, the fifth game will be in Anderson, Ind., Sunday afternoon, April 26; the sixth in Charlotte April 28, and the seventh in Indianapolis April 29.

Oak City Gets Win

OAK CITY — Oak City High School picked up its seventh victory against a single loss yesterday, downing the Williamston High School "B" team, 5-3.

Oak City pushed over a run in the first to take the lead: Cliff Mobley singled and stole second. Jess Crisp then singled to score Mobley.

In the third, Oak City added two more for a 3-0 lead. Rudy Edmundson singled and stole second. Donnie Moore got a hit, driving in Edmundson. Moore moved around to third on an out, and scored on Crisp's sacrifice fly.

The winning run came over in the fifth. Edmundson got his second hit of the day, and again stole second. Mobley then added his second hit, another single, scoring Edmundson for a 4-0 lead.

Oak City added an insurance run in the sixth.

Williamston scored twice in the sixth and once in the seventh, but couldn't catch up.

Last Warden Of Alcatraz Agrees Changes Needed

By GUY A. GOODINE
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI)—With the nation as crime conscious as it is these days, Fred T. Wilkinson wishes people who take public stands on its causes and cures would be more careful to get their facts straight.

Wilkinson, last warden of Alcatraz, a former U.S. deputy director of prisons and now director of the Missouri Department of Corrections, makes no effort to hide his irritation with what he regards as loose, uninformed criticism of American prisons, especially in the area of rehabilitation.

Not long ago, Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., a leading spokesman in Congress for prison reform, expressed sharp criticism of prison administrators and policies on a nationwide television program. Wilkinson took angry exception in a letter to the senator, writing him:

"I was shocked at the statements you made on corrections and prison management. You seemed to be carried away by compulsive criticism of corrections.

"Prisons For Failures"
"For example, you stated that 90 per cent of corrections budgets were for custodial purposes such as 'whips, clubs, etc.' I suggest you give some thought to how so-called criminals are developed. Your general statements that they are developed in prison confinement leads one to wonder how much thought you have really given to this whole matter of the offender...

"We know that every resource in society has failed, when the individual as a last resort is confined. The prison population is made up for an absolute 100 per cent of failures—failure on the part of the school, church, parents, the courts, the community and society in general."

Wilkinson has spent most of his adult years working with prisons and prisoners. A native of North Carolina, he entered prison service as a federal correctional officer at Atlanta. He later spent five years on the Bureau of Prisons staff in Washington, D.C., then served as warden of federal prisons at Mill Point, W.Va., Petersburg, Va., McNeil Island, Wash., Lewisburg, Pa., and Atlanta, Ga.

He planned and directed the closing of Alcatraz Prison on March 21, 1963, and became head of Missouri's prison system April 1, 1965.

Improvements Necessary
Wilkinson is annoyed by what he calls "the tendency of probation and parole advocates to build at the expense of so-called failures of correctional institutions," but he agrees improvements in penal systems must be made.

"Programs must be developed for people inside the institutions to assist them to learn initiative to buttress their decision-making faculties, and to make them self-reliant and to a degree aggressive in the stressful situations of today's employment fields."

Closer ties with families and peer groups must be maintained, he said, "to allow especially the younger prisoner to maintain his position in the social scale of things. He must somehow keep contact with people of his age and not be cut off from normal developments." Otherwise, "when he is released several years later, he has no group to which he can turn."

Among other changes, Wilkinson wants to allow periodic, private contacts with wife or husband and employ more women in men's institutions.

Wilkinson's goal in prison reform is to provide an education or a vocation to allow any inmate to earn an adequate wage and achieve a high standard of living equal to those in the community who do not have the handicap of a prison record.

Tanzania Fights Poaching On Unbelievable Scale

By DAVID CREFFIELD
DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (UPI)—Poaching on a scale never before seen in Tanzania is threatening one of this East African nation's biggest industries —tourism.

Twofold Success In Carbide Gun

PORT-ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — Church Warden J. Hoole decided to use a carbide gun, sounding like a small cannon, to frighten away the tick birds which have been fouling the Anglican Church of St. Peters at Kimkelbos, near here. It is set to go off every 10 minutes, even when church services are in progress. It has had the twofold success of scaring off the birds and keeping the congregation awake.

New methods of mass extermination of animals—including the poisoning of water holes—have had President Julius Nyerere to order creation of a top secret undercover squad to smash the crimenetwork behind poaching gangs.

A "school for spies" is to be established at Arusha, the center of Tanzania's game-rich plains, where under the instruction of Eric Balson, British former senior game warden in Tanzania and one of Africa's foremost animal experts, undercover agents will be taught to infiltrate the gangs and get to the faceless men behind them.

Balson, recalled from retirement in neighboring Kenya, already has started to recruit men for his squad.

His orders are to penetrate every aspect of the illegal industry from the poaching gangs through to the illegal trophy dealers.

After completion of their training the undercover men will join the poaching gangs

Cowboys Voted 'No' On Union

KAMUELA, Hawaii (AP) — Cowboys on the world's second largest ranch have voted not to ride with the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

Only 18 of the 94 paniolas—Hawaiian for cowboys—voted in favor of the ILWU in a state-supervised election at the vast Parker ranch.

The 185,610-acre ranch, on the island of Hawaii, is second in size only to the King Ranch in Texas.

and infiltrate the organizations from top to bottom.

They will be ordered not to reveal themselves until they have discovered the identity of "businessmen" who make a fortune from the illegal slaughter, the secret warehouses where the trophies are stored and prepared and the methods by which they are shipped out of the country.

Gone are the days of the lone poacher who took his life in his hands with a home-made muzzle loader or a bow and arrow to gain a trophy for illegal sale.

Gangs organized on military lines now make raids into the parks with Land Rovers and trucks in which to take their spoils away.

The object is to kill as many animals as possible and get out in the shortest possible time.

Many poachers are armed with modern rifles and shotguns although traditional methods still play an important part.

Water Hole Victims

The latest methods is the poisoning of water holes.

In a recent instance at the Mto wa Mbu area about 100 miles from Arusha, game rangers came across a water hole which had been poisoned. They found the carcasses of 255 zebra.

The skins and hooves—they are used to make lamp stands—had been taken. Left intact to rot in the sun were the untouched remains of countless storks, ostriches, vultures, gazelles and hyenas as well as numerous varieties of tiny nocturnal animals.

P.A.G. Field, chief game warden of the Serengeti, the home of the world's biggest concentration of wildlife, recently described the poaching as "appalling butchery and carnage."

He mentioned one instance where a game patrol came across a large gang of men, women and children armed with bows and arrows and helped by dogs driving a herd of terrified wild beast into a narrow gully to be slain.

Still used are wire snares that lacerate the animal's limbs. Pit traps are dug and animals shot with poisoned arrows are left to die in agony.

As poaching becomes more organized, the dangers to the game rangers and wardens increase. Rangers have been killed in the past and are frequently shot at with guns and arrows.

Another obstacle is the refusal of local magistrates to regard poaching as a serious crime. Often poachers are fined about $3 to $5 and then given back their equipment.

The director of the National Parks, John Owen, addressed a recent conference of magistrates and urged them to take a tougher line.

The magistrates, like everyone else in Tanzania, are slowly being made to realize the tourists who flock to the vast Serengeti, the famous Ngorongoro Crater and Lake Manyara will go elsewhere because of the decline in wildlife.

Hurricane damage in the United States was $1,421,000,000 (b) in 1969.

Moon Shudders 4 Hours After Booster Crash

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The rest of the Apollo 13 mission may be a washout but scientists are elated with the moonquake created by crashing the Saturn 5 booster rocket into the lunar surface.

The impact at 8:09 p.m. EST Tuesday sent a four-hour shudder through the moon that was recorded by a seismometer erected in the lunar Ocean of Storms last November by the Apollo 13 Crew.

Describing the seismic signals radioed to earth as exciting data scientists said the moonquake proves that crashing manmade objects into the lunar sphere can be a powerful tool for ultimately unraveling the mystery of the moon's origin.

"We now have a powerful and effective method for investigating the lunar interior even if we never get a big meteor impact and even if we never get a moonquake," said Dr. Maurice Ewing of Columbia University.

Ewing, Dr. Gary Latham of Columbia's Lamont Geophysical Observatory and Dr. Frank Press of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology spoke at a news conference Tuesday, several hours after the booster rocket impact.

The three seismologists were baffled by the seismic signal received last November when the Apollo 12 lunar lander was purposely crashed in a similar experiment. Such an impact on earth would have produced a brief signal, but on the moon the seismic waves lasted an hour.

When the seismic signal received Tuesday was almost identical with the one last November, the scientists knew the Apollo 12 moonquake was not a unique event. It proved that man-made impacts can produce significant seismic data and that seismic investigations aren't dependent on meteor hits or natural moonquakes.

"Now we can think in terms of a series of studies, maybe four or five moon missions or so, where you have impacts of succeeding distances so that seismic waves penetrate deeper and deeper into the moon," said Press.

The seismologists have not agreed yet on what causes the strange reverberating seismic signals from the spacecraft crashes.

Latham prefers the idea that the moon's outer shell is extremely broken up—a layer of jumbled blocks that bounces seismic waves like sound in an echo chamber.

Press thinks perhaps the impact of a spacecraft in the vacuum of the lunar atmosphere creates a "wave of debris" that fans out for miles under the surface.

"As this debris moves horizontally along the surface it continues to pump energy into the ground. It continues to excite seismic waves," he explains.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The trial of antiwar pamphleteer Roger Lee Priest has been recessed to give the Navy time to name additional officers to a court-martial panel.

Three Navy-appointed members were disqualified from the panel Tuesday after the trial judge, Navy Capt. B. Raymond Perkins, agreed that two of the officers might be biased or prejudiced. The third was excluded on a peremptory challenge by the defendant's attorney.

Priest is accused of urging servicemen to desert and commit sedition.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to force the federal government to pay the town of Frederick, Md., $200,000 plus interest for a "Civil War debt" has been introduced in the Senate by Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md.

Mathias said Confederate Lt. Gen. Jubal Early stayed in the town in 1864 and demanded $200,000 ransom in return for not destroying the community.

Many historians say the 24-hour delay enabled Gen. Ulysses S. Grant time to mass his forces and halt a later Confederate drive on Washington.

Mathias, saying it took the town 87 years to repay the banks that loaned the money to the town, said "the federal government should repay the western Maryland community its $200,000 plus interest."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee has temporarily scuttled the administration's request for a third nuclear aircraft carrier.

The committee removed authority for construction of the craft from the $20.3 billion military procurement request, a move that could delay initial construction of the carrier by at least a year.

The action would free $135 million for diversion to Navy ship modernization which has been assigned top priority by Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has given final approval for adding a trace element called titanium dioxide to soybean protein used in poultry meat products.

Officials said the material will enable inspectors to keep track of how much soy protein is added to poultry products.

The department said "routine chemical analysis cannot separate isolated soy protein from poultry or animal protein" without the addition of titanium dioxide.

Federal regulations have allowed titanium dioxide in red meat products since 1964 at the rate of one-tenth of one per cent as specified under Food and Drug Administration rules.

Addition of soy protein is permitted under federal regulations depending on the type of products involved, usually around two or three per cent, a spokesman said.

Govm't Office Among World's Big Publishers

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the world's largest publishers never sells its books to Hollywood, never advertises, and never holds a sale.

Yet, 15 of its publications have each topped the one-million mark in sales, and it does a $200-million annual business.

The quietly successful publisher is the Government Printing Office—the country's busiest printer, says the National Geographic Society.

Rows of massive machinery—146 presses, 375 typesetting and casting machines, 41 stitching machines, 37 cutting machines, and 39 folding machines—share a crowded 33 acres of floor space in four buildings near the United States Capitol.

The operation uses the latest equipment. An electronic system composes an entire page of type—1,000 characters—per second. A computer inventories 60,000,000 pounds of paper, handles all accounting, and turns out magnetic tape for high-speed photo composition.

With 20 railroad carloads of paper arriving daily, GPO never sleeps. Some 7,800 employees, including 538 in five field offices, work around the clock to fill 365,000 government job orders annually.

"At any time, we have $17 million worth of printing going on in the plant," says Robert E. Kling Jr., special assistant to the public printer, James L.

Harrison.

The output from the plant and from private printers under GPO contract ranges from post cards to passports, lithographs to language guides. The top seller, "Infant Care" (20 cents), has sold 14 million copies—twice as many as a commercial best seller such as "Gone With the Wind."

Among other GPO favorites: "Your Federal Income Tax" (50 cents), 9,150,000 copies sold; "Prenatal Care" (20 cents), 7,900,000; "Your Child From One to Six" (20 cents), 6,100,000.

Of 27,000 current titles, the most expensive at $76 is the 26-volume Warren Commission Report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. More than 2,300 sets have been sold. The public also has bought 120,300 copies of the clothbound single-volume report ($3.25) and 27,700 copies of the paperback report ($2.50).

Most publications are sold by mail and through government bookstores in Washington, Chicago, San Francisco, and Kansas City, Missouri. Mail requests average a staggering 40,099 daily.

But the GPO has another job, bigger than filling public requests. Each evening, 49,000 copies of the weighty Congressional Record, the chronicle of Congress, must be printed for delivery to legislators by breakfast time and to the Post Office for mailing to other readers.

Movie Is Filmed Inside St. Peter's

By PETER J. SHAW

LONDON (UPI)—The Bible says ask and ye shall receive. Stanley Abrams asked for and got the keys to St. Peter's.

The Vatican had never allowed a commercial movie maker inside St. Peter's Basilica to film its history, based solely on fact.

Before Stanley Abrams came along, nobody had asked.

Abrams is the producer of "Upon This Rock", a 90-minute feature length color movie filmed almost entirely inside Roman Catholicism's most famous church.

With Pope Paul VI's direct permission, actors were allowed to use St. Peter's in a professional capacity for the first time. Never before had a feature length film been made inside the Basilica.

"The Vatican asked only that the script stick to the truth—to historical fact," Abrams said in London, during a private screening of the film. "The whole thing, from beginning to end, is fact."

It took 40 days and 40 nights of filming to recount the construction and the glory of St. Peter's through the words of history and the eyes of men and women who shared its fame.

Orson Welles plays Michelangelo.

Dame Edith Evans is Queen Christina of Sweden, Dirk Bogarde is Bonnie Prince Charlie and Sir Ralph Richardson stars as narrator and King James III.

"Strangely enough, the Vatican told me it was the first time anybody had asked to do a feature film with actors on the true history of St. Peter's," Abrams said.

The New York-born producer said Pope Paul's only request was that the film show the Basilica "as a living church, not just a tourist attraction. The film includes five minutes of the pontiff's 1969 Christmas Mass.

Shooting outdoor scenes during the day and working inside the Basilica from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. so as not to disturb daytime routine, the "Upon This Rock" crew took 75,000 feet of color film—enough for 12 hours of viewing.

Abrams submitted the script, authored by Emmy-winning writer Harry Rasky, and the names of the cast to the Pontifical Commission for Social Communications last August. Approval was given two months later with two conditions.

The film will be translated into all the world's significant languages.

South failed to capitalize on a helpful rookback provided by "Mother Nature," and the result was the loss of a vulnerable game contract in clubs.

West opened the five of spades, the deuce was played from dummy and East put up the jack which won the trick. East continued with the queen which was taken by dummy's ace. South drew trump and led a diamond, West played the ace and cashed the king of spades to defeat the contract.

South criticized his partner for not bidding three no trump and yet with only eight top tricks—North is confronted with the very same problem at that contract with the spade opening. With the opponents attacking his weak spot and the ace of diamonds not yet dislodged, declarer must make an attempt to disrupt their lines of communications.

South's strategy of ducking the first round of spades might have worked out, if there was a chance that East had the ace of diamonds and a doubleton spade, for when East is in with the top diamond—if he is unable to lead a spade, South can eventually discard dummy's remaining spade on the jack of diamonds.

In light of West's activities during the auction, however, he was clearly marked with the ace of diamonds, and declarer's only chance to avert defeat was to win the first lead in the hope that East had the queen-jack alone in spades. Observe that by playing the ace of spades at trick one, declarer can block the suit. When West is in with the ace of diamonds the defense can take only one spade trick whether West cashes the king of spades or underleads it. South regains the lead in time to obtain the necessary discard.

Many Gadgets To Lose Pounds

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS
NEW YORK (UPI)—You've jogged, weight watched and pushed up—and lost nothing but your will power. That's when you begin to wonder: Isn't there some easier way to shed those extra pounds?

In today's America, there's a whole wide wonderful world of gadgetry eager to help you find that "easy" way.

Whether any of the gadgets will do it for you is something you'll have to judge for yourself (or better yet, ask your doctor to judge). But as long as you're thinking about it here's a quick rundown on some of what gives in the enticing world of how-to lose weight—without really trying.

Remember, you're on your own now—and bring along your pocketbook!

Several electrical devices have come on the market, claiming to give you the body you've always dreamed of from top to toe while you simply relax in the comfort of your home or office.

One such is a transistorized Dynatone Facial Exerciser. This machine, "no bigger than a cigarette pack," is designed to tighten and tone sagging face, chin and neck muscles by sending electrical impulses through the skin tissues. It retails for $69.95.

Designed to take inches off the waistline "effortlessly" is the Dynabell Electronic Exerciser with a transistorized power source that works on the midriff muscles. "Wear it and no one knows you're exercising," the manufacturer advertises. It costs $69.95.

The Dyna Thigh has "soft furry pads" that are wrapped around the upper part of the leg. It sets out to tighten and firm muscles to the thigh will look slimmer. Battery powered, it, too, sells for $69.95. (All prices are based on New York City retail outlets.)

For all-over spot reducing, there's the Dynatone Body Exerciser which aims to reduce inches by sending thousands of electrical impulses to unused and sagging muscles, "giving concentrated exercise to neglected areas." Another spot reducing gadget is the Relaxa-cizer which is designed to exercise muscles by administering slight electrical shocks. It is equipped with pads and belts that are strapped over the hip, waist, back or abdominal areas while the user lies on it.

There are many exercisers that use only body power. The Jogger Exerciser, for example, is described as a "portable runway with an endless conveyor belt." The machine, 18-and-a-half inches wide, 45 inches long, with a 41-inch-high grab bar, has a three-position incline which regulates a level or uphill course and a re-settable pedometer to measure the distance you jog. It retails for $99.95.

Another device, called the Executive Jogger, is simply a pad with springs inside, slightly slanted to give the effect of uphill running. The jogger is washable and sells for $9.95.

About 97 per cent of Nebraska's land area, or 48 million acres, is devoted to farming or ranching.

Agendas Solve Many Problems

"Amen" is the usual response of most mothers to Anita's complaint. But cheer up! If you have kiddies, a messy home is more likely to be a happy home. But to prevent frustration, follow the rules below. Paste this Case Record on your kitchen wall and put all your family on the "Agenda" plan!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

CASE L-509: Anita J., aged 34, was an efficient secretary before marriage.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I now grow so discouraged at my lack of accomplishment.

"We have 3 children in school and about all I ever seem to do is get them off in time for their school bus; then have the evening meal ready for their return!

"Day follows day in this same unproductive fashion so I get frustrated by not seeing any major accomplishment.

"How can I solve this problem?"

Wives, paste this Case Record on your kitchen wall, for it contains the following advice to prevent feelings of frustration: (1) Make yourself an "Agenda" for the week, listing the various tasks you wish accomplished on each day.

Then cross them off with a red pencil as you complete them to bolster your ego.

But remember, you will generally find that you bit off far more than you could chew, so many items will probably be left unfinished.

(2) If you have children in your home, that is your primary career, so try to keep a smile and merely do the best you can!

Remember, a happy home is usually a messy home if there are youngsters involved!

A neat-as-a-pin type of household is not a good environment for kiddies!

For it shows that you are stressing externals and missing the jolly camaraderie that children crave.

Jesus thus reproved Martha for being too preoccupied with her household chores. He then praised Mary for joining in the discussion in the living room!

(3) Make an agenda for each of your children.

Then let them rotate the job of being "Captain" for a day.

The Captain is to police the behavior of himself and his brothers or sisters, to make sure they have performed their chores.

It is much simpler for each of the members of your household to make his own bed in the morning and hang up his clothes, towels and wash cloths, than for Mamma to do so.

Besides, it starts your kiddies on the road to being more self-reliant adults.

Remind your protesting kiddies that in the Army, every man makes his own bed pronto and neatly!

(4) Send for the tests below and let your youngsters rate themselves thereon.

For those "Behavior Tests" indicate what is expected nowadays of the average boy or girl in American homes.

And if they grumble, you will be shielded, for when they rate far below their age, they can't blame you mothers but must gripe at the "tests," so you thus escape some of their ire.

(5) Don't encourage your children to be hippies by giving them an allowance but let them work for their money!

Set aside certain standard items that merit pay. Then there will be "ceiling unlimited" regarding their income, for they can earn more if they wish to work more.

Send for my "Behavior Tests for Teen-Agers," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c. They also apply to all children who can read! (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Vulnerable If Forms Unsigned

CHICAGO, Ill. (AP) — Taxpayers forgetting to sign their federal income tax returns are vulnerable to extra penalties.

Commerce Clearing House says that is emphasized in a recent Tax Court decision which holds that a taxpayer in failing to sign his return is liable for additional charges to his tax bill.

Filing an unsigned return form does not meet the legal requirements and inadvertent failure to sign is not "reasonable cause."

Until 1942, taxpayers were required to make their returns under oath in order to qualify them as valid returns.

Although Congress did away with the oath requirement, it did nothing, the court determined, to alter the requirement that a return be signed.

NAME MISPELLED

HONOLULU (AP) — Buck Buchwach, managing editor of the Honolulu Advertiser, was among news executives testifying against a bill in the Hawaii Legislature requiring retractions of published errors.

The Advertiser story reporting the testimony misspelled his name.

Traffic accidents killed 319 persons in Hong Kong in 1969.

TOURIST INCOME

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India earned $44 million from foreign tourists in 1968, according to official government estimates. S.K. Roy, director general of tourism, said the average tourist spent $173.

Andrew Johnson's Old Home Would Have Tales

By H. G. JONES—
Dept. of Archives and History
Written for the AP

RALEIGH (AP)—On this date in 1865, a native son of North Carolina became the 17th President of the United States. He was Andrew Johnson, born in Raleigh Dec. 29, 1808, in a house that once stood near Capital Square but which now is located near N. C. State University.

Johnson came to the presidency in a dramatic manner. He had been elected vice president in 1864, and in a series of events familiar to most Americans, President Lincoln had been hit by an assassin's bullet on the evening of April 14, 1865, while attending a performance at the Ford Theatre in Washington.

He lived through the night and, reportedly, dawn came to the nation's capital with a dismal rain falling. According to one writer, "In the streets men stood in groups discussing the tragic drama on which the curtain had not yet fallen. The city was in a blaze of excitement and rage. Then at seven-thirty the tolling of all the church bells in the town and a hush in the streets. Lincoln was dead." Within an hour and a half Vice President Johnson stood before Chief Justice Chase and was sworn into office as President of the United States.

Andrew Johnson's journey from childhood in Raleigh to the presidency in many ways epitomized the "American dream." His father died when Johnson was only 4 years old and, as was the custom of the day, Mary McDonough Johnson apprenticed both Andrew and his older brother William to a Raleigh tailor.

On June 25, 1824, the North Carolina Star carried the following advertisement: "RAN AWAY from the Subscriber, on the night of the 15th instant, two apprentice boys, legally bound, named WILLIAM and ANDREW JOHNSON. . . . They are much of a height, about 5 feet 4 or 5 inches. The latter is very fleshy, freckled face, light hair, and fair complexion." The advertisement, signed by James J. Selby, tailor, described their dress ("blue cloth coats, light colored homespun coats, and new hats") and offered a reward of $10 "to any person who will deliver said apprentices to me in Raleigh, or I will give the above Reward for Andrew Johnson alone."

In 1826, at the age of 18, Johnson took his tailor's skill to Greenville, Tenn. He became active in local politics and was elected alderman in 1829, thus launching a political career as "spokesman of the people." He went on to serve as mayor, state representative and senator, United States congressman, governor, and United States senator. During the secession crisis he made ringing speeches in behalf of the Union, "the last hope of human freedom," that astounded his Southern compatriots with whom, up to that time, he had stood consistently on sectional issues, even to the point of supporting Breckinridge for the presidency in 1860.

Johnson was the only Southern senator to remain in his seat through the crisis, and with much of Tennessee under federal control, Lincoln asked him to serve as the state's military governor.

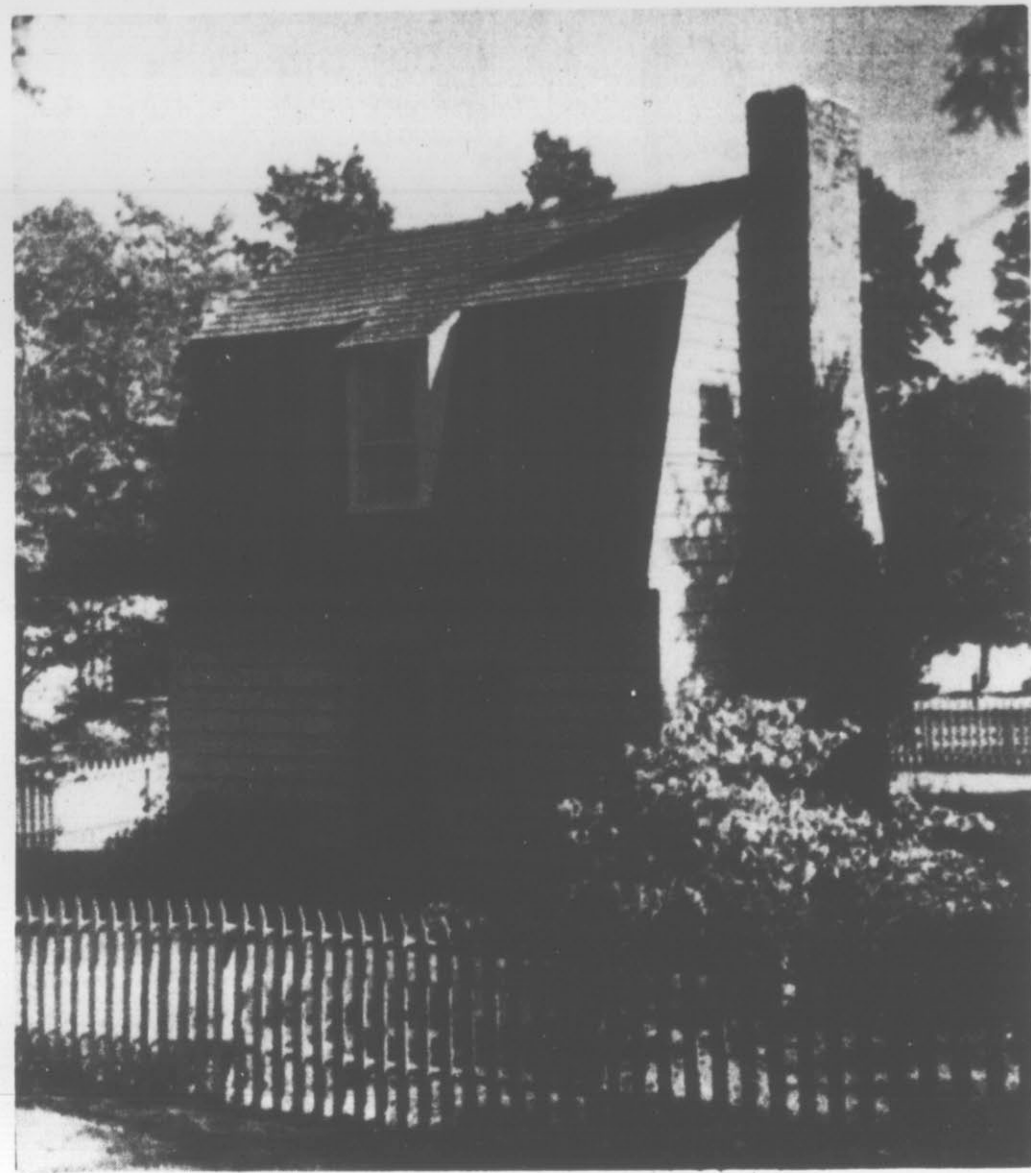

Johnson was thrust into the presidency to face almost insurmountable handicaps. He was "a Democrat among Republicans, a Southerner among Northerners a provincial among sophisticates, and a spokesman for the common man at a time when business interests were in the ascendancy."

All these elements of incompatibility surfaced in a fundamental disagreement between Johnson and the Congress on the question of how reconstruction should be carried out. He favored a speedy return to home rule for the South, while Congress was inclined toward punitive and prolonged federal control.

Ultimately, through the First Reconstruction Act, Congress removed control of the matter from the President's hands and, as discordant relations continued, threats of impeachment were heard as early as 1866 and became a reality in 1868. Though sustained in office by a single vote, Johnson remained a president without power and a politician without a party. He departed Washington March 4, 1869, to spend the next six years in search of political vindication. His final encounter with public office came with election to the United States Senate in January of 1875. However, he had only six months to live at this point and died on July 31, 1875 and is buried in Greenville.

Sen. Muskie's Son Is Engaged

BIDDEFORD, Maine (AP)—
Sen. and Mrs. Edmund S. Muskie's son Stephen plans to marry Alexis Droggitis, a fellow student at the University of Maine's Orono campus, on June 21.

The engagement was announced Tuesday by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Droggitis. Miss Droggitis, whose father owns a Biddeford restaurant, is 21 and a senior. Her fiancé, 21, is a junior.

Stephen is the older of the Democratic senator's two sons. Muskie also has two daughters.

Prince Charles Returns Home

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Prince Charles arrived home today from his 40,000-mile trip to New Zealand, Australia and Japan.

The heir to the throne, who left London at the beginning of March to join Queen Elizabeth II, Prince Philip and Princess Anne in New Zealand, left the royal party in Australia to spend the last five days in Japan where he visited Expo 70.

Prince Charles begins his final term at Cambridge University next week.

Hoots Voted Pres.-Elect

Dr. William R. Hoots Jr., Associate professor in the Department of Industrial and Technical Education at East Carolina University, has been elected Vice President and President-Elect of the American Council for Elementary School Industrial Arts.

In this office Dr. Hoots will serve as Vice President for two years and President for two years.

The American Council for Elementary School Industrial Arts is an affiliate organization of the American Industrial Arts Association and the National Educational Association. As Vice President Dr. Hoots will be Primary purpose of the Council is to define, stimulate and coordinate development of industrial arts education in elementary grades.

delays which might affect your plans if you wait too long.

There are some countries and islands in the Western Hemisphere which will admit American tourists without passports as long as they have other proof of U.S. citizenship. But veteran travelers rarely leave the country without a valid passport.

The official document is still the best proof of identification and nationality wherever you go. Each passport carries an individual number perforated through the front cover; the signature, vital statistics and photograph of the bearer.

The passport also can help provide peace of mind for Americans traveling in foreign lands should emergencies arise. Inscribed on Page 1 is the following: "I, the undersigned, Secretary of State of the United States of America hereby request all whom it may concern to permit the citizen(s) of the United States named herein to pass without delay or hindrance and in case of need to give said citizen(s) all lawful aid and protection."

Obtaining the bluebound 3 1/2 by 6 1/4 inch booklet is no problem.

Usually all that is required are the completed application form, two duplicate recent black-and-white or color front-view photographs, a birth certificate or other documentary proof of place and date of birth, or of citizenship if naturalized.

Applicants also must establish proof of identity with a driver's license or similar official document, provided it includes signature and either a photograph or personal description. Identification also may be made by a U.S. citizen who has known the applicant for more than two years.

Passports are issued to individuals or to families with small children traveling together. When dependents are included, group photographs are preferred although separate pictures are acceptable. Incidentally, the Passport Office suggests a "pleasant natural pose." Photographs must be no smaller than 2 1/2 inches square or bigger than 3 square inches.

Where to Apply

Applications for passports may be obtained in person or by mail from U.S. Passport agencies in Buffalo, Chicago, Honolulu, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Miami, New Orleans, New York and Philadelphia or the Passport Office in Washington, D.C.

They must be executed, however, in person before a passport agent or an authorized clerk of a federal or state court.

The fee for a passport, valid for five years, is $10, plus $2 execution charge.

Passports are no longer renewable. If your old passport has expired, you must make an application for a new one. The fee is $10 and application may be made by mail if you send the completed special form, the old passport and two photographs taken within the past six months.

Generally, passports are mailed directly to applicants within one week after the application is filed. But it could take longer during the busy vacation months when time may be important. In case of emergency—and proof is required—the processing may be speeded up on payment of an extra fee.

You should allow yourself time, too, to check on visas, tourist or travel cards, and medical requirements needed during the trip. Some inoculations are given in series over a period of weeks and must be recorded by your physician, and validated by a local public health officer, in the International Certificates of Vaccination. The booklet can be obtained free at passport offices, travel agencies and from airlines and steamship companies.

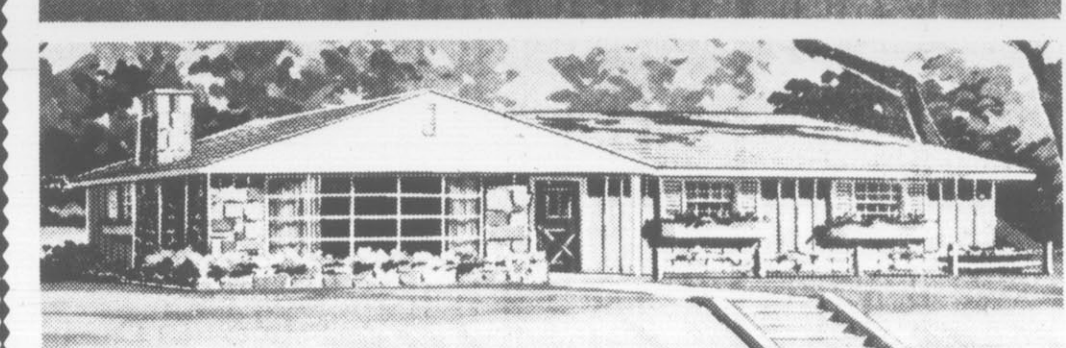

Obtaining visas also can be a lengthy process particularly if your plans include several countries. In some cases, it will mean mailing your passport to the embassies or consulates of each country. Tourist or travel cards also may be required in advance.

The most popular tourist destinations in Western Europe, such as Britain, France, West Germany and Italy, require only a valid passport. Japan, site of EXPO 70, requires both a passport and a visa which is issued free.

IN AHOSKIE

AHOSKIE — Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of East Carolina University, addressed the Kiwanis Club of Ahoskie at a dinner meeting at the Kiwanis Youth Center here Monday night. His address was on Responsibilities of Americans in an Emerging World. The talk was non-political.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

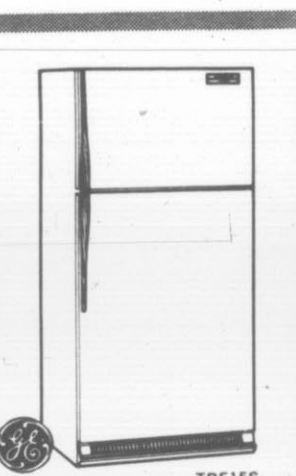

A ONE STORY TRANSITIONAL, this house has a graceful front gable, bow window and planter. There's a 7 by 6 foot front, weather-protected porch, a 6 by 9 foot foyer with slate floor leading to the living room, service area and bedrooms; sliding glass doors in the dining room for view and access to rear terrace; a curved breakfast seat in the kitchen, and lots of closet space throughout the house. Plan HA625 M with 1,300 square feet of living space was designed by Rudolph A. Matern, 89 East Jericho Tpke., Mineola, N.Y., 11501.

Sun Shines Into Sunless Rooms

TOKYO (UPI)—The Goto Optical Research Institute of Tokyo has developed an instrument which it claims will collect sunshine on a building roof and deliver it into sunless rooms.

The device consists of a series of concave and convex mirrors which transmit sunlight by reflection. In additional tests are unsuccessful, the sunshine machine will be placed on the market in 1971, the institute said.

Jogger Joined By His Wife

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Charles E. Barnhart, chairman of Albuquerque's city commission and ex-officio mayor, jogs at least a mile five days a week.

He is joined by his wife, Kathleen, in the physical fitness program. "There's nothing like it to keep you feeling well and priming you for the decision-making chores," says the Albuquerque attorney. Barnhart is 48.

Marriage Sees Business Boom

LOVINGTON, N. M. (AP)—The Lea County clerk's office says the marriage license business is booming. It all started Jan. 1 when a new Texas law went into effect requiring a six-months waiting period before divorced persons can remarry.

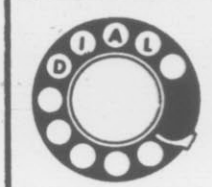

"They are flocking over here to get married," a spokesman noted. Lovington is off the New Mexico-Texas border in southeastern New Mexico.

A PUZZLE

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—State Rep. Ed Holloway still is puzzling over an unsigned letter from a constituent at Louisville which says in entirety: "I have not made up my mind on this issue as yet."
