Practicing Aboard Recovery Ship

GETTING SET FOR RECOVERY — In the pre-dawn darkness of the Pacific, a Navy helicopter prepares to take off from the deck of the USS Iwo Jima in a simulated Apollo 13 recovery mission. Crewmen aboard the recovery carrier are continuing training while their ship is proceeding at 30 knots toward the area where the aborted Apollo 13 mission is expected to splash down. (AP Wirephoto)

Map Re-Entry

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Engineers have developed special re-entry techniques for the troubled Apollo 13. They are being tested in simulators, but officials believe this to be the sequence in the hours before landing on earth:

Six hours before: The astronauts board the command module and begin turning on its power.

Five hours: A course correction is performed if needed.

Three and one-half hours: The service module, which is the disabled part of the spacecraft, is jettisoned.

Three hours: Begin preparation to jettison the lunar module.

Two hours: Seal off the lunar module by closing its hatch and that of the command module.

One hour: Jettison the lunar module.

After the lunar module is discarded, only the cone-shaped command ship is left. This craft carries the crew through the atmosphere to a parachute landing in the Pacific as in a normal re-entry.

The astronauts will be picked up by the aircraft carrier Iwo Jima and later flown to American Samoa by helicopter.

They will be taken by jet to Ellington Air Force Base in Houston Saturday.

Recovery Site's Tropical Storm Has Dissipated

By VERN HAUGLAND

AP Aviation Writer

ABOARD USS IWO JIMA (AP) — A tropical storm in the South Pacific has dissipated and poses no threat to the troubled Apollo 13 astronauts, the space agency said today.

Tropical Storm Helen earlier appeared to be plodding toward the splashdown site southeast of Samoa but space officials in Houston and weather observers elsewhere said it had broken up. At one point earlier in the week this ship's forecasters said the storm could have grown into a hurricane.

Helen or its side effects provided frogmen with rough weather training Wednesday on their final recovery exercise.

Swim teams worked in a driving rainstorm and said they were ready for the astronauts' return.

"We wanted a rough weather simex," said one helicopter pilot. Simex means simulated exercise.

Despite downpours that cut visibility to less than three miles at times, waves were moderate. The exercise took only about 45 minutes.

Scattered clouds at 2,000 feet and easterly winds at 15 miles per hour were predicted for Friday's splashdown. No rain was expected, a space agency spokesman said.

Waiting to give aid if needed were ships from countries around the world, including the Soviet Union.

Avalanche Toll

SALLANCHES, France (AP) — Seventy persons — most of them tubercular boys under the age of 15 — were feared dead today, buried under a massive avalanche that swept down on them as they slept.

The Ministry of Interior reported rescuers had found only nine bodies 11 hours after the wall of rock and snow — 60 feet and high and 600 feet wide — roared down in the darkness on two dormitories and a nurses' residence at a tuberculosis sanatorium.

"There is no hope of anyone surviving under that mass of snow and earth," said one police lieutenant as hundreds of rescue workers dug with picks, shovels, cranes and bulldozers.

The huge slide also smashed into the wing of the sanatorium's main building, but 14 children and three adults in that section were rescued unhurt.

Allege U.S. Involved In Massacre

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong alleged today that American troops have penetrated deep into Cambodian territory from South Vietnam and share responsibility for the massacre of Vietnamese civilians living in Cambodia.

Deputy Viet Cong negotiator Dinh Ba Thi told the 63rd weekly session of the deadlocked Vietnam peace talks that the United States is "running headlong into an extremely dangerous adventure" by expanding the war throughout the Indochinese peninsula.

"The United States must be held responsible for the criminal acts of its henchmen in Cambodia and for their consequences," Thi declared.

Deputy North Vietnamese negotiator Nguyen Minh Vy said the United States is trying to save itself from defeat in South Vietnam by propping up "reactionary administrations" in Laos and Cambodia and expanding the war to those countries.

Two Crashes In Halifax

ROANOKE RAPIDS, N. C. (AP) — Two air Force planes fell in Halifax County today, apparently after colliding in the air near the county airport near Roanoke Rapids. One — or parts of it — fell in Weldon, five miles away, and started a fire.

Authorities said they believed there were deaths on injuries, but the number was not known.

A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Agency at nearby Rocky Mount said one of the planes was a T-39, a twin-jet which carries up to seven persons. High-ranking Air Force officers often use T-39s for trips from base to base.

The FAA spokesman said he believed the T-39 was headed from Shaw Air Force Base, S.C., to Langley Air Force Base, Va.

The type and size of the other plane involved was not disclosed by the Air Force and was not known by the FAA spokesman.

The Air Force has a small radar installation adjacent to the Roanoke Rapids airport.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 13's astronauts recharged a weak battery and prepared other systems in their command ship today for the unique and critical maneuvers needed to bring their crippled craft back to earth Friday.

James A. Lovell Jr., Fred W. Haise Jr. and John L. Swigert Jr. streaked toward a splashdown in the Pacific Ocean after an engine firing Wednesday night shifted them off a course that would have left them stranded in space.

With the veteran Lovell at the controls, they triggered their lunar module engine 15 seconds and successfully changed course. Had that firing and later course corrections failed, Apollo 13 would have missed earth by 104 miles and skipped off into space.

With that hurdle cleared, the spacemen turned all attention to Friday's re-entry and landing, scheduled for 1:07 p.m. EST.

Using flashlights to find their way in the dark and chilly cabin, the astronauts checked the three batteries in the command ship that will provide the power for the blazing dive through the atmosphere. They found two of them at full 40-amp-hour strength, but the third with only about half that power available.

On a normal re-entry, they would require 70 to 80 amp hours. So Mission Control told them to hook up a cable to the power system of the lunar module and recharge the weak battery. This process will take about 15 hours and draw eight amps from the LM.

Although the temperatures in the command ship, which was drawing oxygen from the sturdy LM, were down around 50 degrees, flight director Gerald Griffin said the craft's systems all appeared to be in good shape.

The pressures and temperatures in the plumbing system looked fine," he reported. "Two of the thrusters have temperatures low enough so we'll have to heat them before pressurizing the system. But all these temperatures are going to rise when we apply some power to the command module with the batteries. The whole command module looks good," he said.

The command ship was disabled Monday night by an oxygen tank rupture in the attached service module. The accident knocked out fuel cells which would have provided long-life power. Without the cells, the moon landing had to be canceled and the astronauts turned to the lunar module supplies to keep them alive and bring them home.

Lovell, Haise and Swigert continued to ration vital oxygen, water and power as they raced closer to earth. They had ample margins in all systems to complete the flight. But they knew a sudden loss of any system would imperil them in the final hours of their abortive journey.

At midmorning they were 140,000 miles from home and accelerating as earth's gravity tugged them on an increasing speed.

By the time Apollo 13 hits the atmosphere at 400,000 feet Friday, they'll be traveling 24,623 miles an hour.

The landing site in the Pacific is about 580 miles southeast of Samoa. The carrier Iwo Jima was steaming toward the area and expected to be on station Friday morning.

A tropical storm was about 700 miles from the splashdown point, but was not expected to pose any threat.

"The entry and weather tomorrow is looking better all the time," Mission Control radioed. "Very good," replied commander Lovell.

All the astronauts slept for about six hours today as they rested for the return home.

Before re-entering the atmosphere, the astronauts must discard the powerless service module and the lunar module which has been their lifeboat.

Then they must power up the command ship on its re-entry batteries for the blazing dive back to earth, the last act in the most perilous drama in the history of space flight.

A team of Mission Control specialists has been working around the clock to perfect the highly technical procedures for bringing the spacemen back from the brink of disaster.

Astronauts on the ground were to practice the procedures in simulators here this afternoon before instructions are relayed to Apollo-13.

Apollo 13 Gearing Up For Re-Entry

Rep. Ford Asserts Justice May Be Unfit

Douglas Impeachment Begun

By ROBERT HUNT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — An impeachment resolution and call for a special investigation of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas have reached the House in the wake of charges the 71-year-old jurist may be unfit for his post.

House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford touched off a vitriolic, parliamentary wrangle Wednesday night after asserting Douglas may be unfit to serve as a justice because of questionable outside interests and possible associations with underworld figures.

Ford threw his support to creation of a special House committee to study the Douglas case to see if there is cause for impeachment.

Under terms of a resolution proposed today, the special investigative panel would be required to submit its report in 90 days.

When Ford finished his speech Rep. Andrew Jacobs of Indiana, a liberal Democrat, said the GOP leader had a duty to file an impeachment resolution since he "has stated publicly that he favors impeachment of Justice Douglas."

"Since he (Ford) refuses to do so and since he raises grave questions, the answers to which I do not know, but every American is entitled to know," Jacobs told the House, "I introduce at this time the resolution of impeachment in order that a proper and dignified inquiry into this matter might be held."

Jacobs' resolution was referred to the House Judiciary Committee, headed by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y.

"It is obviously triggered by the defeat of Judges (G. Harold) Carswell and (Clement) Haynsworth," said Celler of Ford's attack.

The Judiciary Committee would be considered friendlier toward Douglas than the House Rules Committee, to which the investigation resolution goes.

Ford said Douglas twice was on the dissenting side when the Supreme Court ruled against magazine publisher Ralph Ginzburg.

He said that while the second case was before a federal court, "clearly on the way to the highest court in the land," one of Ginzburg's magazines, "Avant Garde," paid Douglas $350 for an article on folk singing.

Utilities Okay Underground Lines Policy

The Utilities Commission last night approved a policy for installation of underground power lines in subdivision outside the city.

The policy provides that underground lines will be installed without additional charge for a maximum of 30 lots of 125 foot widths. After two-thirds of these lots have been utilized the commission will install lines for an additional 30 lots.

A $75 per lot charge was established for installing lines underground for more than 30 lots initially. There is also a charge for footage in excess of 125 feet.

The policy provides that subdivision electric line, within the city limits will be installed underground as provided for by city ordinances.

Provision was also made for apartment complexes and mobile home parks.

Commissioners approved contracts for the EPIC program whereby municipalities are considering forming their own corporation to establish power generating facilities.

The commission approved considering a sewer installation project in North Meadowbrook in next year's budget.

W.L. Whedbee, Harry Hagerty, Charles Horne and Larry Brown were appointed to a committee to study personnel policies.

Commissioners reviewed the gas conversion program to be carried out with bond funds. Horne said the installation of lines will eliminate 1100 bottle gas customers now on the city system.

Knows Nothing Of Slaughter

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — A Cambodian Army spokesman said today he knew nothing about the hundreds of Vietnamese bodies seen in the Mekong River southeast of Phnom Penh for the past two days. But he said the killing of Vietnamese civilians in Cambodia "could be considered punitive actions because of Viet Cong attacks in Cambodia."

"If Vietnamese go with the Viet Cong they must take the consequences for this is our country," Lt. Col. Kim Eng Kouroudeth told newsmen at the inauguration of regular military briefings by the leaders who overthrew Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

The colonel said Vietnamese are being rounded up for security checks, and "we will take measures against the other Vietnamese to insure they remain quiet. It is not racial, it is just a precautionary move."

Another 30 Vietnamese bodies floated this morning past the Mekong River ferry point at Neak Leung, 50 miles down the river from Phnom Penh. Like the hundreds that passed there Wednesday, the bodies had bullet wounds in several places and the hands of many were bound.

Nobody would say where the bodies came from. But foreign sources in Phnom Penh said an estimated 600 Vietnamese men had been arrested early Monday in the village of Xon Bien, near the Cambodian capital, loaded on boats and taken away.

Cambodian military sources at Neak Leung said 200 Cambodian troops were trapped on the Mekong banks farther south near the frontier, and South Vietnamese helicopter gunships, ground troops and tanks had pushed across the border in an attempt to help the Cambodian troops.

Chill Of Space Has Reached Inside Apollo 13

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Temperatures were near freezing in the Apollo spacecraft today. It was uncomfortable for the astronauts but the cold was not expected to harm them or cause further damage to their disabled craft.

The command ship Odyssey has been slowly chilling since the astronauts shut off the power to save electricity after Apollo 13's emergency developed Monday night.

Apollo 13 commander James A. Lovell Jr. noticed it first.

He awoke shivering out of a deep sleep in the darkness of the command module Tuesday.

Superb insulation kept the command ship fairly warm for more than a day, but then the supercold of space, where the temperature of objects shaded from the sun may drop to minus 250 degrees Fahrenheit, began creeping into the craft.

"To astronaut John L. Swigert Jr. it was cold indeed.

"I don't know if we'll be able to sleep up there tonight," he said. "It must be 35 or 40 degrees."

"At the time he said that," said an official who was in Mission Control, "temperature in the cabin was actually 52 degrees. But I'm sure it felt like 35 or 40 to him."

The temperature in the lunar module cabin was not much better—it read 60 degrees at the time. It later rose three degrees, but was still far from comfortable.

The crew told the ground they were going to don extra pairs of coveralls and an official said they also had extra "long john" underwear.

Officials said temperatures in the command module—which is now used only as a bedroom by the spacemen—may drop as low as 40 degrees.

If it becomes this severe, the astronauts could put on their insulated pressure suits.

While the cabin grew frosty, equipment and electronics gear between the cabin wall and the outside spacecraft skin was subjected to bitter cold.

"Toward the end of the mission, we'll see a freeze in the lunar module descent stage and in the service module," said flight director Gerald Griffin, but he added that this would present no problems.

"I don't expect any temperatures close to freezing" for the command module equipment, he said.

Flight controllers powered up the command module briefly Wednesday to check the systems and found all of them working.

Critical components of the command ship were punished in temperatures down to minus 20 degrees when it was being built.

The most delicate of the instruments, the guidance system, was put through this test and lost accuracy of only a few tenths of one degree.

To keep equipment from getting colder than the tested minus 20 degrees, the spacecraft are rolled so that all sides are evenly exposed to sunlight, which is very intense in space.

Begin Naval And Air Maneuvers

MOSCOW (AP) — The big Soviet naval and air maneuvers have started in the North Atlantic, the Mediterranean and the Sea of Japan, the Defense Ministry newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda—Red Star—reported today.

The ministry announced two days ago that the maneuvers would be held until the end of May but did not say when they would start. There also has been no announcement of how many ships and planes are taking part, but most of the Soviet navy is believed to be involved.

Anybody can reel off a list of "essentials" for baby's first wardrobe, but the term applies to more than just the number and type of items needed. Actually, baby needs comparatively few garments and accessories — but he does need fabric that is soft, easily laundered, lightweight, and absorbent.

Whether it is something to wear or just wrap up in, baby should be comfortable both asleep and awake. He must also be safe, so review the important features to look for in clothing prior to shopping. Avoid garments with neckline drawstrings which present too much hazard. Be sure that every garment allows ample freedom of movement. Check seams for smooth flatness, and fastenings for easy operation. Skip bulky trimmings that may look pretty, but will hinder baby's movements or make him uncomfortable.

Choose garments that are easy to put on take off. This means plenty of room at neck openings so baby won't be frightened by having a tight garment tugged over his head. Better still, choose designs that open out flat rather than slide over the head. Easy washability is of prime importance — because everything baby owns should be laundered after each use. Absorbent fabrics will keep him more comfortable, and softness is essential for his tender skin.

As soon as he outgrows a garment discard it and buy a larger one because baby's comfort and ease of movement is important. A garment that is too small restricts his movements and makes him uncomfortable.

Luncheon Given Ex Libris Club

Mrs. Lawrence Perkins was hostess for the luncheon meeting of the Ex Libris Book Club on Tuesday.

After luncheon, George Lautares gave the program on his two trips to Africa. He showed color slides as he narrated beginning in the city of Nairobi, Kenya. He told about the ways of life on the natives in the areas as well as the habits of the animals.

Mrs. Donald Patrick presided during the business session. The schedule for book club meetings for next year was distributed to members and discussed. Further plans for the party in May at Broad Creek were made.

Mrs. Walter R. Perkins Jr. was a guest for the meeting.

Program Given By Miss Copeland

Miss Elizabeth Copeland, librarian at Sheppard Memorial Library, gave the program at the meeting of the Fine Arts Department of the Woman's Club on Tuesday.

She gave a resume of recent books on various categories of art including painting, sketching, making jewelry, rug hooking, architecture, collecting antiques, music and the theatre.

Mrs. Vera Dare Avery, vice chairman, presided at the meeting in the absence of the chairman, Mrs. Ivy Snyder.

Mrs. W. A. Pollard gave a report on the winners of the Fine Arts Festival of N. C. Federation of Women's Clubs.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Lindsay Savage, Mrs. Thomas Cole, Mrs. Paul Davenport, Mrs. L. A. Stroud, Mrs. W. E. Avery Jr. and Mrs. Malta Batchelor.

Your eyes are very delicate and must be well taken care of.

When reading, be sure that the room is properly lighted. Adjust a lamp near you so that it casts no shadows on the pages of your book. If you read for a long time, stop periodically and glance around the room at objects of varying distance from you. This is excellent exercise for your eyes.

Television watching is probably one of the major causes of eye trouble today. If you're watching television, be sure you're at least six feet from the set, and don't look at the television for hours at a time. When commercials come on, either close your eyes or glance around in the manner prescribed for reading. This exercises your eyes and helps to maintain your good vision. Lighting in the TV room should be overhead lighting, not lamp light.

Should Mother Be Lenient?

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my mother. She's too lenient! Many times after she has gotten angry and punished me, she will apologize. Why should she apologize when I know I had the punishment coming to me?

Often the punishment will be depriving me of my dessert. Then later she will come to my room bringing the dessert.

I could give hundreds of other examples, Abby, but I think you know what I mean. Please tell me why my mother acts this way? I can't figure her out.

MIXED UP IN CLEVELAND

DEAR MIXED: Your mother [like many others] fears you'll love her less because she's punished you. [She's wrong.] No child ever resented punishment he knew he had coming.

Discipline is PROOF of love. When a parent punishes a child, he is saying, "You are loved, and I am trying to teach you to behave in a socially acceptable manner because I am not going to be around forever to protect and forgive you. If you misbehave, society will not forgive you and let you go unpunished."

Children KNOW this. I wish more parents did.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a 74-year-old grandmother and an 83-year-old grandfather moving into a four room apartment to share expenses? [The apartment has two bedrooms, one bath, a kitchen and living room.] They are not married and both are on social security.

Don't you think the neighbors will talk altho I'm sure they aren't living together as man and wife?

How can you teach children right from wrong when "Grandma" lives in an apartment with an old man who is not "Grandpa"?

OLD FASHIONED

DEAR OLD FASHIONED: I see nothing "wrong" here. There ARE two bedrooms and they are not living as man and wife. If the neighbors "talk," they are more to be criticized than Grandma and Grandpa.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for five months and we are very much in love, and extremely happy.

There is only one thing that we constantly fight and argue about. My sister's husband! Phil can't keep his hands off me.

Our whole family is inclined to be affectionate, but Phil overdoes it. He always greets me with a big hug and kiss, which is all right, but it doesn't stop there. He wants to sit next to me—in preference to sitting next to his wife. He either has to have his arms around my shoulder, or my waist, or he insists on pulling me down to sit on his lap. If I try to avoid him, he comes after me. He's a big man and very forceful.

I have told him to quit, but it does no good. My sister has told him to cut it out. He ignores her. My husband has told him to stop it. He just laughs. My husband is a quiet man and doesn't want any family fights, so he's INFORMED me that we have gone to the last family party where Phil is apt to be.

I am sick over this, as I love being with my family, but I can't blame my husband either. How would YOU handle this, Abby?

LITTLE ME

DEAR LITTLE: I'd certainly not let a fresh brother-in-law keep ME from enjoying the family gatherings. I'd carry an umbrella—rain or shine, and I'd greet Phil with a poke in the ribs and a warning to keep his distance. I'd not let him sit next to me, or put his hands on me. And I would use that umbrella to whack him with if he so much as moved in my direction. After a while he'd get the idea. [P. S. If you think an umbrella would be too conspicuous on a bone-dry, sunny day in August, carry a golf club.]

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Adoption Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Levis Allen Churchill, 2708 Jackson Dr., announce the adoption of a daughter, Rachel Erika, on April 11, 1970.

Is your baby teething? Many new teethers can be stored in a refrigerator or freezer to provide soothing coldness to tingling young gums. It is practical to have two—one in cold storage while the other is in use.

Gadgets, Gismos Ease Cooking Chores

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures Writer
If you must cook, you might as well do it in style. This message from manufacturers of cooking equipment comes at just the right time—fewer people can afford to eat out of the home.

The upsurge of interest in special kitchen equipment—fish steamers, asparagus cookers, chopping blocks, coffee extractors—is a result of the home-makers' current attitude: if you've got to cook, why not make a game of it?

Gourmet shops are packed with shoppers who would have made their great-grandmas proud if they could see the way their modern granddaughters snap up garlic presses, mortars and pestles, parsley snippers, cake molds, bread pans and oyster shuckers.

Aluminum, stainless steel and cast iron cookware has been updated in color, decoration and utility. A recent show of new products featured a six-quart covered aluminum Dutch oven with teflon coat in a handsome burgundy color decorated with white daisies. And there is aluminum that looks like copper for people who can't afford the real thing.

Step-saver cookware is the aim of all manufacturers. Casseroles may be prepared and served in the same golden, greek and pimiento color containers. Blue is an up-color along with paprika, a new color featured by one company that also introduced gourmet-style stainless steel utensils, including French skillets.

Newlyweds might enjoy one item in this line—individual coffee makers. A little strainer of coffee is placed on the top of the cup and you pour hot water over it. It is the solution to the problem of complaining husbands: Now they can make their own coffee.

In addition to the colorful porcelainized cast iron cookware, there is the old-fashioned brown kind, updated to go to the table.

Electric cook and serve pieces are more popular than ever, especially with tired career girls who like to cook at the table. One new electric Dutch skillet with non-stick coating will let you fry bacon and eggs, fish, hot dogs, pancakes and liver. In addition you can bake biscuits and an upside-down-cake in it. Other electric gismos include automatic corn poppers and coffee urns, bright yellow and red, in 3 to 15-cup sizes. You can also find a purple toaster or a green broiler.

Kitchen gadgets are always intriguing. The newest selection includes an egg separator, a jar wrench, a juicer-strainer, a cheese slicer and knife sharpener. These are inexpensive assets in any kitchen. New items from abroad include a cherrystoner, sardine tin opener, combination slicer-grater-strainer, nutmeg grater, lemon grater, mint-parsley cutter, knife sharpener and garnish chopper. New servers include pie and pastry spoon, soup and chowder spoon; bouillon and cup-a-soup spoon.

A new kind of refrigerator container of unbreakable polyethylene is touted as being able to keep cold cuts and cheese moist and palatable. A new cutting board has a built-in bowl so scrapings may be gathered up quickly. Brentwood's kitchen counter lightweight wine racks that resemble wood may be used by non-drinkers to hold oils, vinegars, juices, sodas, etc.

To clean up the mess, there's an over-the-shoulder strap vacuum. The mini-cleaner, which weighs nine pounds and may be carried anywhere in the house, is supposed to have as much

Astronauts' Chances Brighten

At this writing things appear brighter for the three astronauts who suddenly found themselves without power in their main capsule Monday.

James A. Lovell, Jr., Fred W. Haise, Jr. and John L. Swigert have performed with all the discipline that could be expected from men who were carefully chosen for this momentous assignment and who have been meticulously trained for their tasks.

They have been backed up the ground by experts who have considered every emergency which could arise for the astronauts whose trip to the moon they are guiding. Because of all this it seems now that there is a good chance America's space men will make it home, despite the greatest disaster one of our space ships has ever suffered in space.

No one knows yet what happened in the service module of Apollo 13. There was an explosion or rupture which allowed the liquid oxygen to leak out and float off into endless space. Fortunately the LM moon landing craft was still attached awaiting its mission and the astronauts turned to it for the life giving oxygen, water and power that they needed to bring their strange ship back to earth.

As this is written, the danger is far from over.

Things Wrong With Alphabet

(Today's column was written for the North Carolina Association of Afternoon Dailies by Loyal Phillips, general manager of the Daily Advance, Elizabeth City.)

By LOYAL PHILLIPS

The time may have come for us to think about revising and modernizing our alphabet.

Realizing as we do that our ancient alphabet has long been accepted as satisfactory and beyond criticism, there were apparent shortcomings which should be considered.

Our alphabet, the Roman, was derived from the Etruscan and the Greek alphabets which were in turn derived from the Phoenicians and Semitic people of the Near East.

Alphabetic writing started around 1800 B. C. in the Palestine area. The Roman alphabet originally had only 23 characters but three others were added during the Middle Ages. The three additions were made by splitting the letter "i" into "i" and "j"; by splitting "v" into "u" and "v" and doubling "u" into "w" (double "u").

After nearly 3,300 years usage, we are finding many things wrong with our alphabet, including a lack of correspondence between the alphabet and the sounds it is supposed to represent.

The letters themselves — the actual character shapes — introduce serious legibility problems. And, today, man is not the only user of the alphabet. Electronic computers are beginning to "read and write" handwriting as well as type.

As far back as 1768, Benjamin Franklin — scientist, statesman, writer as well as printer — looked at the deficiencies and decided a new, expanded alphabet was the answer. On the other hand, the playwright George Bernard Shaw saw the problem in a different way. Shaw left $23,240.00 in his will for work on simplifying the alphabet.

There are also built-in deficiencies that make the alphabet an eminently unwieldy instrument for many purposes. For example, the letters have to symbolize at least 44 common phonemes. (A phoneme is a basic distinguishable unit of sound that affects meaning.) When one sees the letters "A", for instance, in a totally strange word, how should it be said? Imagine a barbarian trying to pronounce "barbarian." And explain, if you can, why "wh" in "which" has a "hw" sound. Or speaking of "h" and "w", give the correct pronunciation of "You hew the hued yew, Hugh."

It seems the alphabet works better in some of its secondary uses in which it has literal as well as symbolic meaning. For instance, the familiar character forms describe everything from clothing to structures. Consider these: A-frame, C-clamp, I-beam, O-ring, S-curve, T-square, and V-neck. (The Germans go two better with X-beine for "knock-kneed" and O-beine for "bowlegged.")

Incidentally, if anyone is worried about how people would learn to use an expanded alphabet, consider the experience of the Orientals. Japanese children learn to read their 2,000-character ideographic language faster than Americans learn their alphabet. And even the Chinese deal satisfactorily with a 30,000-ideogram language. This is because each ideogram has a separate and distinct meaning.

Opinions In Brief

"Duty is the sublimest word in the language; you can never do more than your duty; you should never wish to do less." — Robert E. Lee.

"The pursuit of truth shall set you free—even if you never catch up with it." — Clarence Darrow.

"Freedom and duty always go hand in hand and if the free do not accept the duty of social responsibility, they will not long remain free." — John Foster Dulles.

"Discretion of speech is more than eloquence; and to speak agreeably to him with whom we deal is more than to speak in good words or in good order." — Francis Bacon.

There is bound to be discomfort for the astronauts as the smaller LM seeks to carry out functions that were not its normal purpose. Since water, oxygen and electric supplies are critical Apollo 13 can afford no more problems in space. Everything must go properly if its crew is to make it back safely.

They have the prayers of all Americans, the back up of concerned ground crews and their own considerable skills going for them. We can't help but believe they will make it.

Nuclear Powers Need Good Communication

One of the great problems in this world of super powers in which great nations are armed with nuclear weapons that could destroy the world is the danger of a mistake setting off a nuclear war.

It was for this reason that that hot line was installed between Washington and Moscow. It is for the same reason that when a Soviet Nuclear attack submarine sank in the Atlantic the United States quickly announced that no American vessels were involved.

It is a fearful thing that there is even the possibility of such an event setting off nuclear war. Yet the possibility is there and it means that world powers will have to work harder than ever to communicate quickly when crises arise.

Disaster From Air Pollution

EDITOR'S NOTE—To a generation involved with "ecology," "pollution," and "quality of life," Donora Pa. is just a small town in Pennsylvania—if it's known at all. Baseball buffs may recall it as the home town of Stan Musial. But historians list it as the site of the first recorded air pollution disaster in the United States. Residents of Donora still recall when "it was pretty lonely to be against air pollution."

By JAMES V. LAMB
Associated Press Writer

DONORA, Pa. (AP) — At first, it was just another autumn fog that rolled in off the Monongahela River. A little colder. A little denser, perhaps. There was no indication of the choking menace that would blot out the sun for five days and bring this western Pennsylvania mill town to its knees.

For most of the 12,000 residents that that Wednesday, Oct. 27, 1948, thoughts were elsewhere.

Elections were a week away. The baseball season had been over for three weeks and the town's native son, Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, had had another fantastic season, leading the league in batting with a .376 average.

The U.S. Weather Bureau reported dispassionately that a high pressure system had created a temperature inversion—cold, dense air was trapped in the valley beneath a layer of warm air.

It also trapped the tons of soot, fumes and smoke that poured out of the stacks of a steelmill and zinc works, from chimneys, auto exhausts, trains and passing boats.

Before winds and rain cleared the air five days later, 20 persons were dead or dying and nearly 6,000 others had been taken ill.

Twenty two years after, some residents still recall the oily taste of the air, the queasy feeling in their stomachs, and the fact they could hardly see the annual Halloween parade as it moved down McKean Avenue, the town's main street.

"You could taste it," recalls Dr. William Rongaus, then president of the Donora Board of Health.

"You were inundated in your own breath," said Albert Delsandro, now mayor. "You couldn't seem to get away from it."

By Thursday, many people had sought out one of the town's eight doctors. By Friday hospitals in nearby communities were beginning to overflow.

"It really started about 10 o'clock Friday night," Rongaus said. "That phone never stopped ringing."

The Friday night Halloween parade went on as scheduled. It formed on Thomas Street outside a funeral home operated by Richard Lawson.

Lawson planned to take his son, but as he stood on the porch, he recalled, "We couldn't even see the band forming. I said 'Oh Dickie, this is a bad night to go out. Let's get something to eat and go to bed.'"

It was the last sleep he was to get for the next two days.

"Besides bringing in the deceased, we were also running an ambulance, Lawson said.

By Saturday, 17 persons had died.

The next day, rain and wind dispersed the fog.

The U.S. Public Health Department said it could not pinpoint any one agent as the killer. It said it was a combination of all the exhausts and smokes trapped in the valley.

The dead ranged in age from 52 to 84. Persons with a history of respiratory illness were affected most, although in four of the deaths "no history of any chronic disease prior to the smog was obtained."

Some of the area's industries later cleaned up, installing air scrubbing devices and electric plates to trap ash and other matter.

Communities in the valley did not adopt air pollution codes in the wake of the disaster, although the state has.

"You have to remember, it was an altogether different

Strength For Today

Message of Hope

One of the greatest Biblical characters was Jeremiah. We usually think of him as a waiting prophet, given to sadness and severity. He did, to be sure, rebuke his generation for its sin, but he also told men that if they would search after God they would find Him. "I will be found of you (the Jews) . . . and I will turn away your captivity, and I will gather you from all the nations, and from all the places whither I have driven you, saith the Lord; and I will bring you again into the place whence I caused you to be carried away captive" (Jeremiah 29:14.)

After God had created the world, He looked upon his creation and was pleased with it. It was very good (Genesis 1:31). But disobedience soon manifested itself. God had set up a perfect order and the assurance had been that if we conform our lives to that order we will live in peace with God, with our neighbors and with ourselves. We are being prepared for eternal fellowship with God, but if we turn away from the will of God we must be disciplined.

The verb "to discipline" means "to teach." Sometimes the discipline is severe, and we regard it for the most part as punishment. But God punishes only to make us see our evil, to turn us about and get us in step again with the divine order of things.

Sin is folly. Sin is rebellion against God. Sin is futility. "Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear him. For he knoweth our frame; he remembereth that we are dust" (Psalm 103:13, 14).

HOME---HOME OUT OF RANGE---

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Debating Mr. Kunstler

NASHVILLE — I am on the road again, and wound up here the other evening for a debate at Vanderbilt with William Kunstler, the leonine lawyer for the Chicago Seven. We were both on our best behavior, so it was more of a tennis match than a wrasse royal, but not a bad evening's work.

Kunstler was tired, and no wonder. Since the trial ended in Chicago, with his sentence to four years in prison for contempt, he has been following a schedule that would exhaust a decathlon champion. On the campus lecture circuit, he is the hottest thing in show biz — eight lectures a week, and briefs to prepare on the plane.

This evening, he was haggard with fatigue, his face rumpled and his voice hoarse, but he found a hero's reception. At 50, he ranks among the half-dozen best known defense lawyers in the nation — in a league with Bailey, Williams, Nizer, Belli and Foreman — and at least in the field of civil rights, the fame is justly earned. His passions have a lean and hungry look.

He was thus impatient with my own conservative view of the necessity for order as a prerequisite for liberty. In a society dying by contradiction, he said, such counsels are empty. I was composing essays while people marched to the barricades.

Kunstler spoke of three means of political action: ordinary means, involving conduct that is lawful if not desirable or popular; extraordinary means, that no longer rely upon a promise of non-violence; and finally, revolution. To the disappointment of the bearded and bell-bottomed boys, he had not come to urge revolution; his purpose was rather to warn of dry kindling awaiting a match.

The day has passed, he said, when ordinary means of political action will serve today's militant minorities. That day ended, he thought, with the death of Martin Luther King and with the Moratorium in November. However significant the social changes of recent years might appear to most Americans, these changes are seen by the militants as "minute and temporary success."

A new decade has been ushered in, he said, that will be marked increasingly by use of extraordinary means — violent means, by means just short of revolution. In the Kunstler view of American history, no major social changes have been won in any other way. Even extraordinary means may not suffice. There comes a time, he said, "when people and hopes and dreams are being destroyed," and literal revolution will be seen as the only remaining avenue.

In my opening remarks, I had spoken of Western civilization as a patrimony held in trust by each generation. Kunstler's response was to suggest, his voice rising, that "the trust may not be worth accepting, and it is time to start all over again."

His student followers had been waiting to be turned on. They leaped to their feet, clenched fists held high. Kunstler acknowledged the gesture. If extraordinary means fail, he said, such fists "will not open in brotherhood again — they will open only to curl around a trigger guard."

The theme of the Vanderbilt symposium was "communication." My own response, in part, was to suggest in rebuttal that communication demands at least a common tongue. If militants choose to abandon lawful and non-violent means, in order to speak instead with torch and gun, they must expect society to respond in the same violent language. And if finally they invoke a right of revolution, the people surely will invoke

Answer Became Routine

By RAY KOHN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Computer speaking."

That became the "programmed" response of my wife and me one day and evening as a stream of calls — never more than minutes apart — inundated our telephone.

Five days previously, our phone had gone on the blink. Numerous calls to the phone company produced a wealth of courtesy but no results.

A New York Telephone Co. spokesman said, "It appears to be a segment of defective cable between the central office and your building." He promised a quick check.

But that isn't the story. As I entered our apartment one day the phone was ringing. I raced for the receiver.

A male voice said, "Chicago calling; who is this?" "Whom did you have in mind?" I asked.

"I'm calling the computer," said the man. "Is this..." and he rattled off some digits. I said, "Wrong number, sorry."

In about 10 seconds the phone rang again and the same voice asked for "El Computer." He was most apologetic.

Another 30 seconds, and "brrring." This time I took my cue: "Computer speaking." Silence.

A few more rings, a few more hangups. More rings — stilled immediately when a human voice answered. Who needs humans when you're calling a computer?

Then a call from a young lady, who identified herself as an employee of a computer service. She apologized and asked me to take down two numbers to which I could refer their customers.

Then my wife arrived and, into the evening, we shared the answering chores.

As it turned out, we could call outside numbers but no one could reach us, except the people trying to reach that computer.

To still the ringing overnight we dialed "one" and took the receiver off the hook. That produced a recording, an infinitum: "You are dialing the wrong number; please hang up and dial again; you are..."

No interruptions came until 5:30 a.m. with the usual ring — of the alarm clock. A bit fuzzy of mind at that hour, I wandered about the apartment, wondering about what sounded like a gurgling noise. Was there a leak somewhere? No leaks.

Then I remembered. "You are dialing the wrong number..." I replaced the receiver and escaped to the office.

Returning in late afternoon, I was not too surprised to hear the phone ringing. Oh well, I thought, and braced myself.

But the voice on the other end asked for me! It was a phone company representative, and he assured me that all was well.

Upon hanging up, I immediately called my wife at her office. And it worked!

Expo 70 Seen Wow Of A Fair

By ELMER ROESSNER
Expo 70 in Osaka, Japan, will undoubtedly break all records for attendance for international expositions. By the closing in September, more than 50 million persons will have seen it, according to estimates of Expo officials.

ELMER ROESSNER

Almost half a million people pour through the gates every day.

I was one of the 82 newspapermen and others who were invited on the inaugural flight by Japan Air Lines from Paris to Moscow to Tokyo, the first regular service by a Western airline over European Russia and Siberia. And, of course, everyone visited Expo 70.

There are two reasons for the high attendance at Expo: 1. It's a good show.

2. Japanese pride is boundless.

Of the 90 foreign pavilions, the United States show is easily the most popular. Lines of people six to eight abreast wait, completely circling the $8 million building with the inflated roof and then stretch, three or four abreast, all the way to the main entrance. It sometimes takes three hours to get in. The major attractions are Apollo VIII, a moon rock and Babe Ruth's locker. The Japanese pay far less attention to the locker than they did on the first few days.

The Russian exhibit is very popular. There's a strong emphasis on Russian foreign relations, the 100th anniversary of Lenin on April 22 this year, Russian art and culture, a space ship and Russian music and dancing. It's 350-foot red tower is the tallest structure at Expo.

The British exhibit, in halls suspended from giant twin masts, is strong on sell, not only of British industry and enterprise, but of items for sale. The French pavilion was disappointing, seeming to be a derivative of the spectacular light displays by the Czechs at Montreal in 1967. There are also exhibits by Cuba, Laos and other impoverished countries with little to show, by many other nations and by states (Washington, Alaska), cities (San Francisco, Munich) and such places as Abu-Dhabi.

Industrial Exhibits
Of the industrial pavilions, outstanding is that of Mitsubishi, where moving platforms take visitors through a visual and auditory trip through a raging storm, a volcano, a flight through space, a trip into the 21st century.

And there are more national and industrial pavilions and shows than a human being can absorbing a month.

In addition to the amazing quality of the show, attendance is increased by the determination of most Japanese to see the first international exposition in the Orient. Many families have been saving for months for a trip to Expo. Most come, with their children, in groups, assembled by Japanese travel agencies.

Members of each group wear something that identifies it, a yellow scarf, a green plastic hat, a red armband, or carry a red and white umbrella, and each is led by a guide carrying a flag or sign on a pole.

Because their schedules are set in advance, weather does not deter these groups. One day I was there, it rained heavily all day. Yet attendance was 350,000 by 2 P.M., with people still sloshing in.

There are only a few battery-powered, taxis on the grounds and none of the electric trains common to most expositions. It's a good thing, too. Too many pedestrians.

A BIG LIFT . . . A Sikorsky S-61 twin-jet helicopter from Carson Helicopters, Perkasie, Pa., helped workers at the Burroughs - Wellcome site here place four large stainless-steel tanks in an opening 82 feet above ground on one of the BW-complex buildings yesterday. The 7,000 to 8,800-pound tanks were lifted to the entrance by the helicopter — the only way the tanks could be raised to the top. Formerly used in passenger service in Los Angeles, the S-61 has been converted for use on construction projects. The ship was to return to Pennsylvania today.

Unable To Study Rates

RALEIGH (AP) — State Sen. Hector McGeachy says the General Statutes Commission will not be able to make a study of the interest rate structure in North Carolina.

their equal and opposite right, which is to put down bloody rebellion.

Has "oppression" reached such a point in America that violence and revolution offer the only effective avenues toward social change? Not in my own view. With all its roughness and imperfection, our society holds out more to its people, in personal freedom and material well being, than any society ever has.

This is my own view. It is not William Kunstler's. And I remark soberly, simply as a reporter, that the crowd stayed sat for me, but half of them were on their feet applauding as Kunstler left the stage.

The Cumberland County Democrat cochairman of the Legislative Research Commission, said Wednesday he had been advised that the commission could not undertake the study.

The Legislative Research Commission said in January its work load was so heavy it would request that the study be conducted by the General Statutes atmosphere then," said Allen Kline, who works in nearby Monesson.

"It was pretty lonely to be against air pollution in those days.

"The philosophy of the mill workers was 'dirty skies mean full lunchbuckets.' They equated it with 'prosperity.'

"At last the country is awakening to the fact that bad air can kill you," says Delsandro. "In 15 or 20 years there won't be enough air to sustain life. We'll be buried in our own garbage. A lot has to be done and done quickly."

Commission. McGeachy said, "It would cost at least $30,000 to provide a staff competent and capable of making a thorough and completely impartial study."

"I have contacted several organizations that do research for state general assemblies, and I have asked them if they have available a study on the interest rate that they have made for any other state or organization."

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

Par time 26 min. AP Newsfeatures

The Worry Clinic Age Factor Is Less Important

Mark's question brings out the fact that superior men can profitably marry women several years older than themselves. But men who are inferior in wage - earning or social experience, or who are addicted to a sexual inferiority complex, may require much younger wives.

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M.D.

CASE L-510: Mark W., aged 22, is worried.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I graduated from Purdue and have a good job at a nice salary. 'And I am engaged to a wonderful girl.

"But I find that she is 26, so I am wondering if that age difference would be a hazard. 'Isn't it customary for husbands to be older than their wives?"

True enough, custom has prescribed that men be older than their wives.

But if you analyze the origin of that custom, you will find that it is no longer vital to happy marriage.

For in ancient days, wives were sold by their fathers to the highest bidder.

And if a girl of 18 were offered in marriage, which man would be more likely to have the cows and sheep necessary to purchase her—the boy of 18 or the man of 38?

Obviously, the older man would probably be wealthier and thus he could outbid the young fellows of the girl's own age bracket.

That's how the custom originated of expecting girls to be yoked in marriage to older bridegrooms.

Besides, in those days, women died much earlier than at present.

In fact, here in America it was not uncommon for a man to have two or three wives, not due to divorce but to the earlier death of the wives, as in childbirth.

But the pendulum has now swung the other way so the American woman now outlives the American male by about 7 years!

So it has actually been urged that women deliberately try to marry younger men.

For then they will not spend as many years of loneliness as widows!

Any superior male who has a good trade or profession, can quite safely marry a girl several years older than himself.

For by his skilled trade and good salary, he can still be dominant.

But men who feel inferior in wage - earning or in masculinity and social experience, may wish younger girls.

"Rake 'em young, treat 'em rough and tell 'em nothing," is the trite adage of such fearful males who are afraid they can't be dominant in competition with women of their own age.

Thus, sexual inferiority often prods older men into hunting mates of a much younger age level.

That is also why old men often molest little girls, for they fear to approach mature women lest they appear inadequate.

Nowadays, women don't lose their physical charm as early as a century ago, for labor saving household gadgets, plus modern diet and cosmetic aids, have reduced woman's apparent age by at least 10 years.

So a wife can profitably be 3 to 5 years older than her husband, especially if he is more mature than other men of his actual chronological age.

Send for my 200-point "Tests for Husbands and Wives," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c.

If your prospective mate rates "Superior" thereon, don't delay! (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Seminars On Marine Life

Two seminars related to marine environment studies are scheduled for tomorrow at East Carolina University.

ECU graduate, Miss Rosalie Vogel, research scientist at the University of Maryland's Natural Resources Institute will speak at 11 a. m. and Dr. Thomas R. Linton, head of the fisheries division of the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development will speak at 3 p. m. Both talks are to be held in Room 103 of the Biology Building and both are open to the public.

Miss Vogel will speak on "Reproductive Behavior and Early Development of the Eolid Nudibranch Cratena pilota. Gould."

Dr. Linton will discuss "Problems of North Carolina Coastal Fisheries." Prior to coming to North Carolina, he was associated with the University of Georgia's marine institute at Sapelo Island.

Few Jews Enter Texas Prisons

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Only two of the 6,356 convicts entering the Texas prison system in 1969 were Jews, a fact that is significant, says Dr. George Beto, director of the Texas Department of Corrections.

"I believe the reason there are so few Jews (in prison) is the high degree of solidarity of their families and their traditional respect for law and order," Beto said.

Pollution Now Dominant Cause

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — For 15 years the nation "has slept on the problem of environmental pollution, and now suddenly it has become the dominant theme of the day," says Chattanooga Gas Co. President Jacob Greenberg.

He also complains that students "now are going to run off half-cocked without careful planning or expert knowledge, and miracles are to be accomplished with political and student oratory, disorder and fun."

STRONG EARTHQUAKE
ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A strong earthquake occurred in the Gulf of Alaska, 135 miles southeast of Cordova at 12:33 a. m. (EST), the Palmer Observatory reported.

READY TO STRIKE
GREENSBORO (AP) — Garbage workers say they will strike Monday if the city administration doesn't agree to a union election that day.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices drifted lower in slow trading late this morning, in the absence of encouraging news for investors.

At 11 a. m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 1.84 at 780.76.

Declining issues on the New York Stock Exchange led winners by a margin of more than 5 to 4.

The combination of low volume and a lack of large block trades means that both the general public and institutions are staying on the sidelines.

Among the current market depressants are: pessimism resulting from lower first quarter earnings; the huge American Telephone & Telegraph debenture and warrants offering this week, which drained funds from the stock market; and the possibility of higher taxes raised by Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy.

Following are selected 11 a. m. stock market quotations as furnished by Interstate Securities Corp.

Could Implant New Material In The Jawbone

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Two professors of materials engineering at Clemson University have announced development of a ceramic material which they say may be implanted surgically in the human jawbone and fitted with a dental crown, like a new tooth.

One of the professors, Dr. Franklin A. Young Jr., says, "The experiments so far have involved dogs. We are pulling dogs' teeth, filling the sockets with exact tooth replicas, suturing around the ceramic material, and then allowing the jawbone tissues to form the loose cushion of tissue fibers that hold the teeth in place."

Young said he believes the ceramic tooth root will be ready for a human transplant within two years.

Wrong Play For TV Commercial

LONDON (UPI) — The play on the commercial television channel was about Sweeney Todd, "The Demon Barber of Fleet Street," who killed and chopped up customers to make pork pies.

Halfway through the show came the commercials, including one for pork pies. A spokesman for the pork pie company said he was "at a loss for words" when heard of the unfortunate coincidence, but accepted the television company's apology.

CASUALTIES UP
SAIGON (AP) — The Communist spring offensive kept American battle losses at a seven-month high for the second successive week with 141 Americans killed in action last week, the U.S. Command reported today.

Three sisters, Mrs. Daisy Melvin of Williamston, Mrs. Bertha Houston of Robersonville and Mrs. Minnie Pierce of Wendell; one brother, Lloyd Matthews of Winton; 28 grandchildren; four great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 3 p. m. at the First Baptist Church in Robersonville with the Rev. James Haigwood and the Rev. Chester Fussell officiating. Burial will follow in the Ayden Cemetery.

The body was taken home this afternoon.

ConsiderChange In Taxi Colors

ROME (UPI) — Rome city officials are considering following the example of Florence and other Italian cities in painting taxicabs yellow. The traditional color of Italian taxis has been green and black, which makes them hard to spot in traffic.

Guerrillas Guarding Embassy In Amman

By DENNIS NEEDLE
AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Arab guerrillas with submachine guns helped guard the U.S. Embassy in Amman today as hundreds marched again through Jordan's capital to protest the Middle East visit of U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Joseph Sisco.

The guerrillas stood alongside Jordanian troops behind coils of barbed wire thrown around the embassy compound following a mob attack on the embassy and the American cultural center Wednesday.

The cultural center was bombed and destroyed by fire. Police stood guard today over the blackened shell.

The unified command of the guerrilla movement has distributed leaflets calling for a general strike Friday to coincide with Sisco's arrival from Israel. Today more than 1,000 banner-waving demonstrators, escorted by armed guerrillas, marched through Amman chanting "Sisco, Sisco, go home, Sisco."

It was the third day of anti-American demonstrations in the city.

The Arab guerrilla movement has denounced Sisco's visit to the Middle East, charging he is trying to impose a political settlement on the Arabs. The guerrillas oppose any peaceful settlement with Israel.

Across the border in Israel, Sisco met with Israeli Deputy Premier Yigal Allon before flying to the Beisan Valley to have a first-hand look at the Jordan River cease-fire line. The American visitor meets tonight with Premier Golda Meir.

Sisco came to Israel Tuesday following three days of talks in Egypt. In Cairo, Vice President Anwar Sadat stated today those discussions "produced nothing."

A request by Jordanian Arabs living under Israeli occupation for a meeting with Sisco was turned down by the American consulate in Jerusalem because of his "crowded schedule." A consulate spokesman said the request was made Tuesday night shortly after Sisco's arrival and his schedule already was full.

On the battle front, Israeli warplanes continued their bombardment of Egyptian positions along the Suez Canal with a night raid on the southern and central sectors.

Revival Series Begin April 20

GRIFTON — Revival services are scheduled for April 20-26 at the First Baptist Church here. Services will begin at 7:30 each evening.

The Rev. Merdith G. Garrett, pastor of the Rocky Hock Baptist Church, Edenton, will be the guest minister.

Music will be under the direction of James Lochridge Jr.

In The Armed Forces

Sgt. John W. Godley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie E. Godley of Greenville, has arrived for duty at Roanoke Rapids Air Force Station. Godley is a radar repairman with the 632nd Radar Squadron, a unit of the Aerospace Defense Command which protects the U.S. against hostile aircraft and missiles. He previously served at Kotzebue Air Force Station, Alaska. A 1965 graduate of Rose High School, Godley is married to the former Dorothy Goeres of Tillamook, Ore.

Airman Willie L. Cofield, (above) nephew of Miss Idell Ore of Rt. 3, Williamston, has completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Miss. for training in the administrative field. Cofield is a 1969 graduate of E.J. Hayes High School.

Willie J. Perkins, son of Mrs. Virginia Perkins of Greenville, was promoted to specialist four recently while serving with the 3rd Infantry Division near Bad Kissingen, Germany. A cook with company B of the division's 10th Engineer Battalion, he entered the Army in November of 1968 and completed basic training at Ft. Gordon, Ga.

Robert L. Powell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Powell of Greenville, has been promoted to first lieutenant while serving with 3rd Infantry Division near Kitzingen, Germany. A heavy equipment platoon leader with the division's 10th Engineer Battalion, he entered the Army in March 1968. Powell is a 1967 graduate of East Carolina University where he received his bachelor of arts degree in business administration. He was commissioned through officer candidates school.

Spec. 4 Judge Brown Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Judge Brown of Rt. 1, Bethel, has received the Bronze Star Medal during recent ceremonies near Phu Loi, Vietnam. Brown earned the award for outstanding service in connection with military operations against hostile forces in Vietnam while assigned as a medical aidman in the group's Headquarters Battery. He entered the Army in February of 1969 and completed basic training at Ft. Bragg. Brown is a graduate of Bethel High School and North Carolina Central University at Durham.

Airman William Whitehurst Jr., son of Mrs. Esther W. Whitehurst of Greenville, has received his first Air Force duty assignment after completing basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex. Whitehurst has been assigned to a unit of the Headquarters Command at Andrews AFB, Md., for duty and training in the transportation field. Whitehurst is a 1969 graduate of Eppes High School.

CWO Arthur D. Brown Jr., (above) son of Arthur D. Brown of Bethel, received his second award of the Bronze Star Medal during recent ceremonies in Vietnam. Brown received the award for outstanding service in connection with military operations against a hostile force in Vietnam. The warrant officer entered the Army in July of 1948. He holds five awards of the Army Commendation Medal. His wife, Maria, lives in Fayetteville.

Lt. Col. George M. Sauls, son of Mrs. Ruth T. Sauls of Grifton, has been decorated with the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service while engaged in military operations against Viet Cong forces in Vietnam. Sauls was presented the medal at Fuchu Air Station, Japan, where he is now serving with the Fifth Air Force, a major component of the Pacific Air Forces, headquarters for air operations in Southeast Asia, the Far East and Pacific area. A 1948 graduate of Contentnea High School in Kinston, Sauls received his B.S. degree in 1953 from East Carolina University. He is married to the former Kathryn McLawhorn of Grifton.

Hoyt Mayhew Haddock, (above) son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Haddock of Rt. 5, Greenville, has completed six months training at the National Guard Military Police School, Ft. Gordon, Ga. While undergoing basic training, Haddock scored the maximum of 500 points on the required PCPT (physical training) test. Haddock, his wife Cherry Ann and daughter now reside on Rt. 5. He is employed at Cozarts Auto Supply.

James D. Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Price of Goldsboro, was promoted to specialist five while serving with the 45th Engineer Group near Phu Bai, Vietnam. Price, a senior design draftsman for the group, entered the Army in August of 1968, completed basic training at Ft. Gordon, Ga., and was stationed at Ft. Hamilton, N.Y. before arriving overseas. His wife, Paula, lives in Greenville.

Pfc. James D. Wiggins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Toler A. Wiggins of Rt. 2, Chocowinity, was assigned recently as a tank crewman with the 1st Brigade, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) in Vietnam. His wife, Vivian, lives in Chocowinity.

Maj. Bobby C. Harrington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harrington of Greenville, is on leave here with his parents following graduation recently from the supply officer management course at Ft. Lee, Va. Harrington served as class president while at Ft. Lee. He has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal and Army Commendation Medal with oak leaf cluster and "V" device for heroism.

Ostomy Club Will Gather

A special meeting of the newly formed Central Carolina Ostomy Club will be held in Raleigh, Friday, April 17, 1970.

Club President R. O. Heater of Cary, said surgeons and other health care representatives are expected to be present to discuss how they might be of assistance to ostomates.

Ostomates are people who have lost their colon, either through a colostomy or ileostomy because of cancer or other reasons.

Heater, who has been an ostomate himself for 25 years, estimates that there are hundreds of such persons in central North Carolina.

"We invite them to our meeting because of the technical assistance and moral support they can receive," Heater said.

The meeting is at 7:00 P. M. in the dining room of the new Medcenter at 616 Wade Avenue, Raleigh, N. C.

Micro Community Classes Teach Kids About Life

By DOUG WILLIS

Associated Press Writer

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — "The classroom with six straight rows and a teacher up front dispensing wisdom is a dying institution," says eighth grade history teacher William Jarvis. "Kids want involvement—you can see them turn on and get revved-up at the slightest chance to get involved. I'm becoming more and more convinced that the more noise there is in my classroom, the more the kids are learning."

Jarvis' "kids" are the 150 students in the "micro-community" classes at Dartmouth Junior High School.

The micro-community, which integrates an entire grade level in year-long role-playing, began on an experimental basis at Dartmouth Junior High two years ago.

Jarvis' five daily history classes interact among themselves with foreign trade and treaties. At the same time, science, English and mathematics classes coordinate subject materials to work on micro-community problems.

"The kids write their treaties in English class, and they work out their tax rates and tariffs in math class," Jarvis said.

"We are introducing pollution as a social and economic problem, and the kids will try to find solutions in their science classes."

"Any solution they find will cost money, and they will go to math class to see what they can afford and how to pay it. It will take on the nature of an individual commitment in English class. Some of the kids have already written letters to legislators," he said.

"The kids learn that the obvious, direct solutions don't always work as easily as they first thought," Jarvis added.

"For example, if they decide to tax polluters or outlaw pollution, prices skyrocket. If the government takes care of it, they pay more taxes."

Jarvis said the micro-community starts in the fall with a simple economy. He gives simulated money for grades and collects rent on desks and supplies.

"I let kids take over different functions, and pretty soon we have a simple economy, but they quickly find out that it won't work without some kind of government."

"That means electing leaders and drawing up regulations. But that takes time, and it takes taxes to compensate the elected officials for the time away from their businesses."

"Soon a kid can't make ends meet just on grades. He's got to get into business. In just a little while there are banks, private loan companies, even credit checks," Jarvis said.

He said the bankers check the grades of students applying for loans. If they have bad grades, they don't have much earning power and are bad credit risks and are forced to high-interest loan companies in the class.

Government deficits cut down on the money supply and create a tight money market.

"When you've got 14-year-olds going around talking about interest rates, inflation and the erosion of the dollar, then you have something," Jarvis said.

Homework brokers are another major part of society. Jarvis said they are franchised to look up accurate answers to quiz questions and to mimeograph and sell the answers.

"If they get the wrong answer, they will be sued. We had a case in one class, and it brought up quite a philosophical discussion about whether or not juries should be paid."

"Because of that case, the homework brokers are a very tightly knit group. They are very careful, and they all have insurance."

He explained that in his simulation two years ago of the period of 1914-1941 he misjudged and paid students too much in stipends from World War I.

"I had to find some way to get them into the Depression, and everybody had too much money in the bank, but no insurance. "Bonnie and Clyde were popular then. The English teacher had an old Model A, and the vice-principal of another school and a blonde clerk in the district office borrowed it and came armed with starting guns from the athletic department."

"They got $100,000 or so, but the bank folded wiping out millions," Jarvis said. "We slipped nicely into the Depression, and we learned a lot about banking."

Jarvis said he participates in the classroom society where needed to balance the economy,

"And I act as a resource person or referee, but rarely as a disciplinary."

Jarvis said he participates in the classroom society where needed to balance the economy, "And I act as a resource person or referee, but rarely as a disciplinary - the worst of the kids are too involved with classroom problems to become discipline problems."

"Simulations scare some teachers, because the teacher has to get involved too. But involvement is what kids want, and they are going to find it ... it's how they learn, too."

Sunday School Begins Contest This Weekend

A Sunday School attendance contest will begin Sunday at the Belvoir Free Will Baptist Church.

Familiar places from the Holy Land will be used as a basis for the advancement. According to the pastor, the Rev. Frank Giunta, for each visitor who attends, the side bringing the visitor advances one step. There are 246 steps for either side from Jericho, the starting point, to the finish line at Jerusalem. The contest will run for seven weeks.

The side that is leading on April 26 will be treated to homemade ice cream by the losing side. The winning group on May 10 will be served a chicken dinner, hosted by the losing side. The third checkpoint will be on May 24 and the winning side will be entertained with a skit and refreshments.

The final checkpoint will be made on May 31. A spaghetti dinner, prepared by the pastor, will be served to the winners. Films of the Holy Land will be shown.

Contest captains are Tommy Bell, Side I, and Roy Stancill, Side II.

Sunday School Superintendent is Bobby Harris. The contest board and picture of the Holy Land was painted by Miss Gloria Peaden.

Costly Step Disappoints

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott says he is disappointed that Federal Highway Administrator Frank Turner turned down his request for a highway cut rather than a tunnel to take a road through Beaucatcher Mountain near Asheville.

"A decision to switch your approval from a cut to a tunnel will delay the project for at least one year and perhaps longer," Scott said Wednesday in a letter to Turner.

The governor said he was surprised to learn that a decision on a tunnel had already been reached before he and state highway officials arrived in Washington Tuesday to plead for a highway cut.

"The construction of a tunnel," Scott wrote, "will cost nearly twice as much as a cut, and a tunnel will be much more expensive to maintain."

Sens. Sam Ervin Jr. and B. Everett Jordan and Rep. Roy Taylor joined the governor and other state officials at the meeting with Turner. They urged that the federal government choose the cut for Highways 70 and 74.

Turner rejected the plea. Scott said in his letter, "the position taken by the Bureau of Public Roads is in direct opposition of elected representatives at the state and local level ... this is another example of the insensitivity of the federal government to local needs."

End Loneliness In Group Nudity

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A psychologist says group nudity, properly and appropriately shared, is one way of escaping that lonely feeling.

But S. F. Kreitzer, interviewed here Wednesday at the 1970 convention of the Western Psychological Association, said it should be supervised by someone properly trained to use it as a psychological device.

Kreitzer, of nearby Encino, said persons often express despair by saying: "Nobody would or could accept me if I let them know what I am really like."

Therapy helps them get rid of this notion, he said, and group nudity is a faster way of accomplishing it.

Laird Pauses, Pockets 8-Ball

FT. RILEY, Kan. (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird picked up a cue and broke a rack of balls Wednesday during his inspection of the game room in a tour of an enlisted men's barracks.

Laird knocked one ball into a corner pocket—the eight ball.

"I guess that wins the game," said Laird.

His guide, Maj. John E. Taylor, executive officer of the 1st Battalion, 5th Artillery, quickly replied:

"By your rules, yes sir."

Would Call Up Assembly

CONCORD, N. C. (AP) — Republican State Rep. Jim Johnson said today Gov. Bob Scott should call a special session of the General Assembly if the state can't delay the start of strip mining in western North Carolina and the development of Bald Head Island in the east.

Johnson issued a statement calling on Scott to let members of the legislature know by May 15 whether the executive branch can delay the mining, and development of the island, until the 1971 session of the General Assembly.

If it can't, he said, a special session should be called.

Johnson said the next legislature should pass laws governing strip mining and should provide money to purchase Bald Head Island.

The Carolina Cape Fear Corp. of High Point has announced plans to develop the island, which is off Southport, but Scott contends the state's access rights will prevent the company from carrying through its plan.

A New York company, Johnson said, plans to begin strip mining this year in western North Carolina. Johnson said the General Assembly should pass laws to regulate such mining.

He said both the development of the island and the strip mining could be detrimental to "the state's second largest industry, tourism."

Postmen Ran Into Each Other

Two postmen, one a rural route carrier and the second a city mailman, ran into each other this morning.

Police charged Norman Francis Little, 48, of 1707 Englewood Dr. with failing to stop for a stop light.

Officers said a car driven by Little collided with a vehicle operated by Stanley Earl Colville, 29, of Route 4, Greenville, at the intersection of First and Greene Streets—at the rear of the Post Office property.

Damage to both cars was placed at $150 each.

Time of the collision was set at 6 a. m.

At 4-Foot-10, A Big Man In Little Persons World

By DAVE WHITNEY
Associated Press Writer
MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa
(AP) — Dale Paullin at 4-foot-5 is a big man in a little person's world. He is dedicated to sharing that world with anyone under 4-foot-10 through Little People of America Inc.

Paullin, a midget, is state coordinator for LPA in Iowa. He is also a charter member of the organization which was founded in 1960 by actor Billy Barter to help little people overcome any feelings of inadequacy.

At 46, Paullin has been married nearly a year and it all happened through LPA.

"My wife (Mercedes, 4-foot-5) lived in Des Moines just 50 miles away all my life, and I didn't meet her until we ran into each other through Little People of America. It was one of the most wonderful things that has happened to me," he said.

A former song and dance man in vaudeville and the night club

Voted Against Union In Test

PEMBROKE, N. C. (AP) — The United Rubber Workers, AFL-CIO, lost its bid to organize workers at the B. F. Goodrich Footwear Co. near Pembroke Wednesday when employees voted against union representation 854 to 642.

Ray Smithhart, a union representative, said the URW will protest the election because of certain things they (Goodrich management) have done" during the organizing campaign.

The company issued after the voting a statement which said, "We appreciate very much the confidence our people have demonstrated in the management of our plant and company."

About 1,700 employees were eligible to vote. The election was conducted by the National Labor Relations Board.

LIVER FAILURE
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Sam Sheppard, who had told friends he was suffering from cancer, died from failure of the liver, the Franklin County coroner reports.

circuits, Paullin now works for an office supply firm in Marshalltown and devotes his spare time to helping other short people.

Paullin drives his own car, with special foot pedals, and he and his wife live in a normal mobile home. For recreation, he bowls with a 10-pound ball and shoots a mean game of Par Three Golf in the low 20s.

But, Paullin's biggest desire in life is to get the message of LPA over to all the little people in the world. The organization is headed by president Charles Bedow of Owatonna, Minn., and currently has about 1,500 members.

If only one person in a family is below the height maximum, the whole family is still eligible to join LPA.

"We are here to help both the family and the little people to adjust, and our biggest effort is made to get them to come to our national conventions where they can meet and discuss common problems with other little people," Paullin said.

At the national conventions—this year's will be held in Portland, Ore., in late July—the LPA leaders have on hand people from the various professions to help little people find the careers they want in life.

"Probably the most important things for little people is to make them feel loved," Paullin said. "They have the same feelings as a normal person and need to be taught they also have the same opportunities in life."

One of the most rewarding aspects of LPA is the organization's adoption committee, Paullin said. He explained that many people will abandon or put up for adoption a child that they find will not grow to be of normal height.

Through the LPA Adoption Committee the number of homeless little people has been reduced from about 400 to 500 each year to about a half a dozen now, Paullin said. He added that most of the abandoned little people are adopted by other little persons.

Also along with doctors across the country the organization has set up several clinics and hospitals where little people can go for free treatment.

"One of the great advantages of this system is that any family that even suspects they have a child who will not grow to normal height can go to one of these clinics through LPA and find out free of charge if their suspicions are correct or not," he said.

Paullin said his family found out he would be a midget when he was 6 years old. "They were wonderful people," he said. Maybe God helped them, but they did everything possible to help me live a normal life.

"Even when I was growing up in Marshalltown, they had a special seat made for me in school and my school chums would carry it from class to class for me," he said.

But, his father died when Paullin was in the tenth grade, and he left school to earn a living as a song and dance man.

He even starred in one movie, "It's a Small World."

"But Marshalltown was my home, and I wanted to come back here and settle. The people here are wonderful and they have treated me so well over the years that I want to help other people enjoy a normal life like I do. I'm no different from you or any other people. I have my financial problems and so forth, but I also have a chance to help other people," he said.

Tripp Talks Road Plans

WINTERVILLE — Area Highway Commissioner Arthur Tripp discussed the secondary road situation in Pitt County at the Winterville Kiwanis Club meeting Tuesday night.

Tripp said there are quite a few unpaved roads in the county which were graded with bond money during a previous administration.

"Most of these roads are scheduled to be paved within the near future with money set aside from the two-cent additional gasoline tax," Tripp explained. "Three of these roads are located in the Winterville area."

Tripp described the condition of the Old Tar Road which leads much traffic into Pitt Plaza and East Carolina University as "bad". He explained there were no funds available for upgrading this road.

Tripp was introduced by Ruritan Ray Oglesby.

South's four heart contract appeared to be such a sound undertaking that he never stopped to consider what pitfalls might lie in store for him, and the final result was an unnecessary setback on the deal.

West opened the queen of clubs, the deuce was played from dummy and East signaled encouragingly with the eight. The suit was continued and South ruffed the third round. He was on the verge of claiming the rest of the tricks at this point and, more or less as an afterthought, he decided to draw trumps first. The ace of hearts was cashed, followed by a small heart to the king.

When West showed out on the second lead declarer thought better of his original impulse.

In point of fact, South's prospects had dimmed. If he drew one more trump and proceeded to run the diamonds, the odds were that East would be able to ruff in before declarer could get rid of his losing spades. A better chance seemed to be to try the spade finesse, so South led the queen of spades from dummy and played the three from his hand when East did not cover. When West turned up with the king of spades, the contract was automatically set.

Instead of being so confident of success, South would have been better advised to ask himself what could go wrong. An obvious answer is that only a bad trump break could threaten his prospects. It is relatively simple to take out insurance against this possibility.

At trick four, declarer should lead a small heart from his hand and, when West follows, the ten is played from dummy. If the ten holds the trick and East follows suit, South is in position to draw the remaining trumps and now make his claim. If the ten of hearts loses to the jack, declarer merely wins East's return, pulls trumps and discards his three losing spades on the dummy's diamonds.

Youths Say Drug-Taking Decision Easy To Make

By YVONNE BASKIN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Half a dozen long-haired boys sat chuckling in the balcony of Memorial Auditorium as Gov. Bob Scott stood on the stage below, calling for more educational and other programs to solve the "growing problems of drug abuse" in North Carolina.

But the chuckles weren't because the boys were unconcerned. The youths knew more — first-hand — about drugs and the problems they can create than most of the speakers Wednesday on the program of the Governor's Conference on Drug Abuse.

Most of the boys work with a project in Chapel Hill called Switchboard, designed to provide help to youngsters on "bad trips" or in serious danger because of drugs.

To them, the words they heard at the conference reflected the attitudes of society as a whole, which they feel helped create the drug problem in the first place.

"Listening to the governor and all, you realize drugs to these people are deep, dark mysteries," said Alex Vare, a North Carolina State University student.

"They don't realize how easy the decision to take drugs is and how easy they are to get," Vare said.

The young people felt that this "aura of mystery and evil" is part of the fascination drugs hold for young people.

"Your parents say don't use drugs, but they don't have any grounds to base it on because they don't know anything about them," said Chris Jones of Chapel Hill.

And so, he added, for advice and information about drugs, the young turn to the source they trust most, their age group.

"That's why it's going down into the younger strata, the junior high school kids — because of the mystery," Jones said.

The news media help to keep the mystery alive by portraying drug users as either heroes or villains, he went on.

"The drug problem will end when drugs are not novel any more," said Ric Carter of the University of North Carolina.

"When kids understand chemical drugs and get all the facts, they'll become bored with them."

Vare said the novelty is already wearing off of marijuana and other nonnarcotic drugs, "which is one reason there's a lot of heroin around now — it's something new to do."

Educational programs in the schools might help to dispel the fascination with drugs, the boys agreed, if they were started in the primary grades.

But for teen-agers and older youths, the educational system has lost its impact as a "socialization process," the boys said.

"You learn the Star-Spangled Banner the third year and the Pledge of Allegiance the fourth," Jones said. "It's just a bigger parent. There's no educational program existing that's aimed at decision-making."

Jones said no educational program will work unless it is dedicated to fact and not preaching, and conducted by someone young people can respect.

"Most kids know more about drugs than their teachers," said Phil Tripp, who plans to start a dope help center similar to Switchboard in Raleigh soon.

The boys felt their own projects offer hope because they have two elements not found in most drug programs. They work on a person to person basis, and they don't try to push their value system on drugs off on those who seek help.

Also, they make what they consider crucial distinctions between drug abusers and kids who occasionally use drugs, and between narcotics such as heroin and the nonaddictive drugs.

"Besides it's something we're interested in and work hard for, so it keeps us off drugs ourselves," Tripp said. "There's not much else you can believe in now. We need this people to people work."

Other young people echoed his sentiment. Vietnam, pollution, hypocrisy in society and lack of communications all send youth looking for something — and finding drugs, they said.

"The two main reasons young people take drugs are boredom and dissatisfaction with themselves and with society," Susie Sinnicks, a former user, told the conference. "We need to offer them an alternative life style."

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation granting a six per cent across-the-board pay increase for all civilian salaried employees of the federal government has been signed into law by President Nixon.

The pay boost for civil service workers and employees of the Post Office Department is retroactive to Dec. 27.

The comparable increase for military personnel is retroactive to Jan. 1 and will apply to the serviceman's total compensation that makes it roughly equivalent to a 8.1 per cent increase in basic pay.

Cost of the pay boost over a full year is expected to total $2.6 billion for 5.3 million employees.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Poets gathered at the White House Wednesday for tea with Mrs. Richard M. Nixon and two of them, asked for their fashion views, wrote this "Ode to the Mini" on the spur of the moment.

The verse contributed by Louis Untermeyer, former consultant in poetry for the Library of Congress, went:

"I think that I shall never see,
A lovelier, livelier show of knee."

And the second verse, promptly ad libbed by William Jay Smith, the present consultant in poetry at the library, went:

Two To Get Scholarship

RALEIGH — Two East Carolina University students are among the eight rising senior education students named to receive Mary Morrow Scholarships for 1970-71. These awards are presented annually by the North Carolina Classroom Teachers Association, a division of the North Carolina Education Association.

The local students are: Deborah Gail Debnam, Zebulon; and Dottiolo Gaskins of Ayden.

Funds for the awards are provided from the earnings of the Mary Morrow Trust Fund. The fund's assets, now more than $50,000, came from contributions of North Carolina teachers and the fund receives additional donations each year.

Each recipient will be a senior next year and plans to teach in North Carolina following graduation. Selection is made on the basis of character, personality, evidence of promise in the teaching field, and scholastic achievement, as well as financial need.

Delays Laid To Federal Rules

DURHAM (AP) — North Carolina Blue Cross - Blue Shield says delays in Medicaid payments to nursing home operators in the state are due to the federal program's claims processing regulations.

The health insurance company assured the operators Wednesday, it will seek to speed payments that have been stalled for up to three months.

Blue Cross - Blue Shield was designated by the federal government to handle the Medicaid payments to nursing homes in the state.

"And if the mini continues to fall, I will not see a knee at all."

The occasion was a tea for eight foreign poets who are attending the International Poetry Festival at the Library of Congress.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, concerned over preserving President Nixon's slim $1.3 billion budget surplus predicted for the coming fiscal year, have proposed tax-collection speedups to bring in $1.6 billion for federal employees' wage increases.

Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy sent letters Wednesday to the House and Senate outlining the plan to accelerate collection of gift and real estate taxes.

Under the proposed plan, gift taxes would be collected every quarter instead of annually as required by law.

And payment of estimate estate taxes would have to be made seven months after a person's death instead of requiring the first payment 15 months after death under present law.

The provision would apply only to those estates valued at more than $150,000.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation set a record at mid-month by going 121 days without a single case of screwworms, the Agriculture Department announced Wednesday.

"Veterinarians with USDA's Agricultural Research Service say this is the longest screwworm-free period on record. The last confirmed case was reported Dec. 15 in Comal County, Texas."

Screwworms are the larvae of a fly which lays eggs in open wounds of livestock. The larvae can maim or kill cattle and other animals.

60000 Troops In War Games

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. (AP) — The Pentagon has announced that 60,000 troops of all the services will participate in Exotic Dancer III war games in the Camp Lejeune area in late May and early June.

The three-week exercise will include an air drop by an Army brigade and amphibious operations.

The Pentagon, in making the announcement Wednesday, said the exercise was designed to provide valuable joint training for the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine participants.

Public school spending has increased more than 152 per cent in the past decade.

Teen Driving Contest Is Scheduled April 26

Greenville and Pitt County teenagers will have an opportunity to demonstrate their driving knowledge and ability on April 26 in the Teen Driving Championships.

The contest, commonly called the Teenage Driving Road-e-o, will be conducted by the Greenville Jaycees and co-sponsored by Smith - Waldrop Motors.

In the driving competition, the highest scoring boy and girl drivers will win the local prizes and the right to compete against other contest winners at the state road-e-o finals in Salisbury on June 6 and 7.

Any boy or girl who has a valid drivers license or learners permit and will not be 19 years old before Aug. 1 is eligible to participate in the event. Contestants must not have committed a traffic violation during the preceding six months nor have an offense pending.

Auto Road-e-o competition was doubled in size this year to include separate contests for boys and girls. All contests consist of written examinations on the rules of the road and a series of behind-the-wheel tests over an obstacle course.

Last year's competition, which determined the 1969 U. S. Championships, attracted more than 300,000 contestants from 2,000 communities.

Entry forms and further information concerning the contest are available from the Jaycees (Rt. 3, Box 459), high school driver education teachers, and Smith - Waldrop.

Shareholders Meeting Is No Longer A Picnic

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Annual meetings used to be pleasant affairs, both corporate officers and shareholders generally will agree, at least when the profits were satisfactory.

Attendance at the annual get-together was one of the rites of spring, like going to the opening baseball game or raking the lawn or cleaning out the cottage. Poor as they were, box lunches were consumed with gusto.

Companies that really wished to impress their shareholders held extravagant all-day affairs under enormous striped canopies that billowed like sails above the manicured lawn of the latest plant addition.

Routine business was rushed through before a bored audience of old timers. Nobody noticed.

About the worst the board of General Electric or General Motors had to face was the badgering of Wilma Soss or the Brothers Gilbert or other professional shareholders who made the circuit of annual meetings.

Annual meetings this year will not be picnics, for shareholders have become activists in behalf of causes that include peace, clean environment, women's rights, minority rights, stockholder rights, even leftist rights.

It may not be wise to turn off the mike.

War protesters have let it be known they intend to disrupt meetings of companies holding military contracts. Groups concerned with the environment plan to put profit-minded corporate officers on the spot, to test their sincerity.

Name any topic and you'll likely find a shareholder group organized to promote it. While the emphasis still may remain on profits and losses, discussion of social problems will rule many meetings this year.

And perhaps next year and for many years after. Corporate officers are aware that pressure groups have discovered that shares of stock are tickets to annual meetings. A trend is developing.

Seven individuals who call themselves The Project On Corporate Responsibility, Inc. purchased at least 12 shares of common stock early this year and managed to put up two proposals for voting by General Motors shareholders.

This and other groups have provoked GM into placing newspaper ads that pose questions such as "Does GM Care About Cleaner Air?" and which answer, "You bet we do!"

The Corporate Responsibility group's proposals, if passed, would create a committee to represent special interest groups and increase the size of the board of directors by three. Purpose of the increased board, in the words of GM, would be to place "three representatives elected not on the basis of their interest in the success of General Motors but rather on the basis of their sympathy with the special interests of the sponsors."

Management opposes both measures, of course. It believes the purpose of the committee "is to harass the corporation and its management to promote the particular economic and social views" of the sponsors.

Times have changed ... very suddenly.

ABC Suspends 3 Permits In Martin

WILLIAMSTON — Permits issued to three Martin County firms have been suspended by the State Board of Alcoholic Control in Raleigh.

The board's action against Earnest Rogers for Rogers Grocery, 702 Main St., Williamston; Johnny Mack Daniels and Julius Daniels for the Tower 66 Station in Williamston and Buck Manning for Manning Easo on U.S. 64 at Robersonville; was taken at a Monday meeting in Raleigh.

The Manning permit was suspended for 30 days, effective April 27, on charges of "... sell and or allow the sale and permit the removal of beer during illegal hours ... on or about Sunday, February 22," and for failing to give the licensed premises proper supervision.

The action against the Daniels' firm included suspension of its license for 30 days, effective April 27 for permitting "beer to be removed from the retail outlet during illegal hours on or about Sunday, February 22," and for failing to give proper supervision to the licensed premises also.

The 30-day suspension handed the Rogers' business permit is to become effective April 27 also.

That suspension was made for allowing "the sale of beer to Roger Gurganus and Steve Taylor, minors (persons under 18 years of age) on his retail licensed premises on or about February 13."

$10,000 Given

'Lost Colony'

RALEIGH (AP) — The Lost Colony outdoor drama at Manteo is getting a $10,000 allotment from the state to help offset a loss in gate receipts last season.

Gov. Bob Scott and the Council of State approved the allocation Wednesday from the state's contingency and emergency fund.

State Auditor Henry Bridges said the production sustained a $16,081 loss in anticipated gate receipts during 1969.

No-Grazing Period Set

Farmers were reminded today that the "no-grazing" period for land diverted from production under the 1970 feed grain and wheat programs will start on May 1. It will continue for the five months until October 1.

Stacy J. Evans, Pitt County executive director for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, explained producers who are diverting land under the program have agreed not to graze the land being diverted during a specific five-month period of the growing season and not to harvest a crop from the land at any time during the year.

Farmers who are taking part in the Cropland Adjustment Program have agreed not to graze or harvest crops from land diverted under this program during the life of the agreement. This provision is important to producers because any violation of it may result in reduction or total loss of payments otherwise earned under the program, Evans said.

Record Net Loss Is Reported By Piedmont Line

WINSTON - SALEM (AP) — President Thomas H. Davis has told stockholders that Piedmont Aviation had a record net loss last year — caused primarily by a strike of its pilots.

The loss totaled $1,856,616. The Air Line Pilots Association struck Piedmont in July and August over whether a certain type of plane should have a crew of two or three.

After discussing the annual report with stockholders during their annual meeting Wednesday, Davis went on to point out that revenues increased during the first quarter of this year. He said the figures were encouraging.

Janeski Tosses Second Sox Win

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Gerald Janeski, a scholarly Chicago White Sox rookie who enjoys flying kites as a hobby, did a job on Oakland in grounding the hard-hitting A's on a masterful pitching performance.

The 23-year-old right-hander, obtained from the Boston Red Sox in spring training as a replacement in the Gary Peters deal, stifled the A's Wednesday night for his second straight major league victory and first complete game.

Janeski, a 6-foot-4, 200-pounder, scattered three hits and only walked one while striking out two in the White Sox' 7-0 blanking of the A's. Janeski, 15-10 with Louisville of the American Association last year, owns two of Chicago's three victories this season.

In the only other scheduled American League games, Minnesota tripped California 8-2 and Boston stopped New York 6-2. The Washington at Baltimore two-night doubleheader was postponed by bad weather.

In the National League, Chicago whipped Philadelphia 5-1, St. Louis bombed Montreal 10-0, Atlanta held off San Diego 7-5, Cincinnati nipped Los Angeles 3-2 and Houston beat San Francisco 7-6 in 10 innings.

Janeski, two days shy of his 24th birthday, beat Milwaukee last Friday in his major league debut.

Wednesday night, the rookie, who says he read about 30 books last year at Louisville and intends to make it 40 this year, got long-ball support from the bats of John Matias, Buddy Bradford and Les Josephson, who each slammed homers, and from a two-run double by Carlos May.

Roberto Pena stroked two of the hits off Janeski—a double in the third inning and a single in the eighth—and Rick Monday had a ninth-inning single.

Janeski, a sinker baller, impressed Manager Don Gutierrez in three spring outings. "I think we've got a pitcher there," Gutierrez said of his kite-flying youngster. "The more I see of him the more I like him."

Janeski figures he got a break when the White Sox obtained him from Boston and the California State College student means to make the most of it. However, he misses former teammate Billy Conigliaro, now with the Red Sox. Conigliaro was his kite flying partner.

"Some people see you flying a kite and they think you're crazy," Janeski says. But who says you can't fly a kite? And anyway, Chicago should be good kite flying territory."

Unbeaten Minnesota, held to one hit through five innings, exploded for eight runs in the sixth off Angels' loser Andy Messersmith. The big inning was keyed by Brant Aleya's grand slam homer, his third blast of the year and 11th run batted in.

The Twins, winning for the fourth time, also got homers from Leo Cardenas and Cesar Tovar. Jay Johnstone connected for the Angels, who lost for the second straight time after five straight triumphs.

Jim Lonborg cracked his second major league home run and checked the Yankees with late relief help from Sparky Lyle in Boston's easy victory.

Lonborg had a three-hit shut-out for seven innings before tiring and giving up both Yanks runs.

The Red Sox took a 2-0 edge in the first inning on Carl Yastrzemski's run-scoring single and a sacrifice fly by George Scott and increased it on Gerry Moses' scoring single and RBIs by Yastrzemski and Rico Petrocelli before Lonborg's sixth inning homer.

San Francisco Giants catcher Dick Dietz is out at the plate in the second inning of last night's game with the Houston Astros. Dietz tried to score from second on teammate Bob Heise single to center field. Houston centerfielder Jim Wynn pegged the ball to catcher John Edwards, who just managed to put the tag on Dietz in time. Houston won in 10 innings. (AP Wirephoto)

Haywood Sets Scoring Record As ABA Winds Up Third Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The American Basketball Association, the so-called Lively League, wound up its third regular season Wednesday night with Indiana and Denver, the East and West Division champs respectively, each posting victories.

In addition, Spencer Haywood of Denver set an ABA single game scoring record of 59 points.

The ABA playoffs, for the first four teams in each division, start Friday night. If each of the playoff series goes the full seven-game route, June will be close to busting out before the champion is crowned.

Indiana downed Miami 118-111, New York trimmed Kentucky 123-112, New Orleans defeated Dallas 154-127, Denver beat Los Angeles 152-116 and Pittsburgh thrashed Carolina 132-110.

Los Angeles' loss dropped the Stars from a third-place tie with Washington but the Stars still made the playoffs, finishing a full game ahead of New Orleans, which had led the Western Division for the first half of the season but now will miss the ABA playoffs for the first time.

Here's now the playoffs shape up:

In the East, Indiana plays Carolina and Kentucky duels New York. The West semifinals send Denver against Washington and Los Angeles against Dallas.

Haywood, Denver's celebrated rookie, got his league record 59 points against Los Angeles on 23 field goals and a perfect 13-of-13 from the foul line. He broke the old ABA single game high of 57 points set by Connie Hawkins of Minnesota against the New York Nets on Nov. 27, 1968.

Altogether, Haywood finished the regular season with 2,519 points. He also snared 25 rebounds to become the league's No. 1 rebounder as well as scorer. His rebounds for the regular season were 1,637.

Mike Lewis scored 26 points to lead Pittsburgh over the Cougars. The Pipers wiped out an eight-point deficit after the first period and went ahead for good on Lewis' jump shot in the second quarter at 48-46.

New York rallied from a seven-point halftime deficit to beat Kentucky, the team the Nets meet in the playoffs. New York had 6-foot-9 center Ed Johnson back in action for the first time in two weeks. Johnson, sidelined with a knee injury, came off the bench in the second half, scoring 13 points and grabbing 10 rebounds.

Levern Tart was high for New York while Gene Moore led Kentucky with 28.

The Nets announced their season attendance at home, for 42 games, was 142,832, compared to 42,811 a year ago when the team played 39 home games.

Indiana's defeat of Miami left the Floridians with the worst record in either the ABA or the rival National Basketball Association—61 defeats and only 23 victories. Bob Netolicky led the Eastern Division champion Pacers with 34 points while Don Sidle was high for Miami with 33.

Indiana's Roger Brown and Miami's Don Freeman each reached the 5,000-point career mark—Brown hitting it on the nose with 20 points and Freeman, scoring 23 points, upping his total to 5,012.

Winterville Downs Stokes

STOKES — Winterville High School rolled to a 9-3 victory over Stokes - Pactolus High School yesterday. The game had been postponed from Tuesday due to wet grounds.

Winterville pushed over a run in the top of the first. Webb led off with a single and stole second. He moved into third on an out, and scored on Glisson's fielder's choice.

The Wolves picked up three in the second to move into a 4-0 lead. Bryan walked, and Eubanks hit back into what appeared to be an easy play at second. But the ball was errored, and both runners were safe.

Hines walked to load the bases, and Webb also drew a walk, forcing in Bryan with the first run of the inning. Worthington then singled, scoring Eubanks and Hines.

In the third, Winterville picked up another, making it 5-0. Glisson walked and moved up on an out. He took third on a wild pitch, and scored when Bryan hit into a fielder's choice.

Winterville later added two in the fifth and two in the sixth. Stokes picked up one in the fourth and two in the sixth.

Donald White led the hitting on both teams, getting two of the five Stokes hits.

Stokes now posts a 1-2 Pitt County Conference record. Winterville is 3-2.

Cougars End Up With Loss

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Carolina Cougars ended their first regular season in American Basketball Association with a .500 record.

Carolina had hoped to close out the season with a winning record, but in its last regular season game Wednesday night was defeated by the Pittsburgh Pipers 132-110.

The Cougars, with a 42-42 record for the season, finished in third place in the ABA's Eastern Division.

Carolina led 32-24 at the end of the first period, but were outscored 40-22 in the second quarter by the Pipers and Carolina was never able to regain the lead.

Bob Verga hit 31 points for Carolina and was the game's top scorer. Doug Moe added 20 for the Cougars. But Pittsburgh's balanced attack, led by Miles Lewis with 26, was too much for Carolina. Eight of the nine Pipers who played hit in double figures.

Carolina begins a best-of-seven playoff series with the Indiana Pacers Saturday at the Indiana State Fairgrounds. Indiana is the top ranked team in the Eastern Division.

Fifty-One Seek Race Positions

NORTH WILKESBORO, N. C. (AP) — Time trials for the Gwyn Staley Memorial NASCAR Grand National race began today, with 51 stock cars trying for the 30 starting positions.

The 250-mile event, which carries prize money of $40,000, will be carried live Saturday by ABC television.

The latest top entry was Lee Roy Yarbrough, who has not raced since the Atlanta 500 on March 20. He will drive a Junior Johnson Ford.

Other top drivers who will be trying for the $10,000 first prize include Richard Petty, Bobby Isaac and Bobby Allison in Plymouths and Donnie Allison in a Ford.

NASCAR's current top money winner on the Grand National circuit, Pete Hamilton, will not compete. Hamilton, who has earned $80,590 by winning at Daytona, Fla., and Talladega, Ala., and finishing high in three other events, is running only in the superspeedway events.

The race will make the second consecutive week that ABC has carried one of the South's big stock car races live. The final 1 1/2 hours of the Alabama 500 at Talladega, was telecast last Sunday.

The first half of Saturday's race, which is slated to begin at 3:30 p.m., will occupy the "Wide World of Sports" time segment on ABC. Area stations are to be blacked out on the telecast, including Charlotte, High Point, Roanoke - Lynchburg, Raleigh, and Bristol-Kingsport.

Clemson Boosts Aaron Doesn't Homer, But His Trevino Wants Record To 24-5 Teammates Do As Atlanta Rolls To Win Them All

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Clemson's powerful baseball team continued rolling over foes Wednesday, defeating visiting Georgia 4-1.

The victory boosted the Atlantic Coast Conference team's record to 24-5 overall. The Tigers lead the ACC with a 7-1 league record.

Wake Forest was the only other ACC team that played Wednesday, splitting a doubleheader with Virginia Tech. The Deacons, who are on the bottom of the conference, now have a 5-11 overall record after beating Virginia Tech 4-3 in the first game and losing the second 4-0.

needed when he blasted a two-run homer in the first inning. Freshman pitcher Lindsay Graham picked up the win for Clemson, his fourth of the season against two defeats. Georgia did not score until the final inning.

Wake Forest was trailing 1-3 in the fifth inning when Bruce Bergman hit a two-run double to tie the score and later stole home to provide the winning margin in the first game at Blacksburg, Va.

In the second game, Virginia Tech freshman Berkley Cundiff hurled a two-hitter.

Today's schedule: Belmont Abbey at Clemson and East Carolina at North Carolina State.

The homer-happy Atlanta Braves have Manager Luman Harris punchy but that's nothing compared to the Kayo Mike Torrez delivered over the Montreal Expos with his arm and bat.

The Braves tagged two more four-baggers Wednesday night, stretching their start of season homer streak to nine games and downing San Diego 7-5. Torrez, meanwhile, limited Montreal to an eighth inning single and stroked three of his own, leading St. Louis to a 10-0 romp over the Expos.

In other National League games Wednesday, Houston edged San Francisco 7-6 in 10 innings, Cincinnati shaded Los Angeles 3-2 and Chicago dropped Philadelphia 5-1. Pittsburgh and the New York Mets had the day off.

In the American League, Boston defeated New York 6-2, Chicago blanked Oakland 7-0 and unbeaten Minnesota whipped California 8-2.

Washington's doubleheader at Baltimore was postponed by bad weather.

Orlando Cepeda tagged three hits including a homer and Cleve Boyer also hit one as the Braves continued their long-ball assault on enemy pitchers. They are four games short of matching the record for homers in consecutive games at the start of a season set by the Chicago Cubs in 1954.

It was an ordinary single by Cepeda that broke the tie against the Padres in the seventh inning. Then Bob Priddy came out of the bullpen in the ninth to nail down the victory for George Stone, who gave up two homers to Nate Colbert and one to Clarence Gaston early in the game.

"We're in a rut on home run balls," said Harris, who has seen his team hit 11 homers and his pitchers surrender 13 in the first nine games. "I've seen them hit everywhere, right, center, left, domed stadium, cowpasture, it doesn't make any difference. We must be playing with those 5-X balls."

The Braves may be using the lively ball but Torrez certainly wasn't throwing one at Montreal. The tall Cardinal right-hander gave the Expos nothing until Adolfo Phillips singled in the eighth for Montreal's only hit.

Meanwhile, Torrez cracked three singles and was involved in all of the Cardinals' scoring innings. His hit touched off a four-run third and he drove in a run in the fifth with another single. Then, he was hit by a pitch leading off the eighth and the Card wrapped up the victory with four more runs, three of them on Richie Allen's homer.

It was the 11th straight victory over two seasons for Torrez, a hard-throwing right-hander.

John Mayberry poled a pair of home runs and Houston pushed across a run in the 10th on Jim Beauchamp's single to beat San Francisco. Joe Pepitone also homered for the Astros while Willie McCovey and Dick Dietz connected for the Giants.

Mayberry's three-run shot in the eighth tied the score and then the rookie was hit by a pitch leading off the 10th and moved around to score on hits by John Edwards and Beauchamp.

Bobby Tolan's two-run single capped a three-run Cincinnati rally in the third inning and the Reds held on to edge the Dodgers. Jim Merritt was working on a shutout until the ninth when Andy Kosco jolted a two-run homer. After Wes Parker doubled, Clay Carroll came out of the bullpen to get the final out.

Billy Williams, shackled by an 0-for-19 slump at the start of the season, snapped out of it in a hurry with four straight hits including his 250th career homer as the Cubs beat the Phillies.

"You never can stop a hitter like Williams for long," said Chicago Manager Leo Durocher. "Billy now is liable to stay hot for another two weeks."

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Lee Trevino says he won't let one of his major ambitions get in the way of his quest for the top spot in the $125,000 New Orleans golf tournament.

"I want to win every time I go out," the swashbuckling Trevino said today before setting out in first round play at the Lakewood County Club course.

"That's what this game is all about, winning. If I didn't want to win, if I didn't think I could, I wouldn't be here."

"But one of my biggest ambitions is to win the Tournament of Champions."

"Oh, sure, I'd like to win another U.S. Open. But the Tournament of Champions is really something. I really want to win that one."

The tournament of Champions is scheduled next week in Rancho La Costa, Calif. Its restricted field of about 30 includes only tournament winners from the last 12 months.

"That's something to get excited about," Trevino said, "beating all the other champions."

Trevino is almost certain to be one of the favorites there, just as he is here.

The fast-talking Mexican-American from El Paso, Tex., is off to what could be his best year on the pro tour.

The 1968 U.S. Open champion already has won over $84,000 this year, took the titles in both the Tucson and National Airlines Opens and tops the list both in money winnings and points. And he's been in contention in every tournament he's played this year.

Billy Casper, who won the 1970 Masters title, is the only other double winner of the year. Casper, also one of the leading contenders for the $25,000 first prize here, also won the Los Angeles Open.

South African Gary Player, winner of $57,000 in only five weeks on the American tour, rounded out the top three picks going into the first round.

Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus are not competing.

Bruins, Blues Try To Get Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Boston and St. Louis, each with 3-2 series leads, try to wrap up their respective Stanley Cup playoff quarter-finals tonight but the home ice advantage has prevailed in both series and the Bruins and the Blues are both on the road.

If the trend continues, however, that means New York and Minnesota will triumph, sending each series into a seventh and deciding game.

Boston and New York have already piled up a Stanley Cup record of 346 minutes in penalties, the bulk in their first four games.

The Bruins won the first two games in Boston Garden with the Rangers bouncing back to even the series with two victories in Madison Square Garden. In the fifth game, Tuesday night at Boston, the Bruins rallied on a pair of third-period goals by Phil Esposito for a 3-2 decision.

Magnificent Bobby Orr and Esposito, the Bruins' 1-2 punch throughout the season, have been Boston's mainstays in the playoffs.

For the Rangers, tonight's three periods will be the most critical ones they've faced all season long—even more so than the final regular season game when they clinched fourth place and a playoff berth in the East Division.

Minnesota will be trying to continue its season of comebacks when it meets St. Louis. The North Stars gained the playoffs with four straight triumphs in the final week of regular season play after a period earlier which saw them win only once in 34 outings.

But the Blues have different ideas. "There's no sense in prolonging it any more," said St. Louis center Phil Goyette.

Pittsburgh and Chicago already have won Stanley Cup quarter-final series, each team wrapping it up in four games. Pittsburgh will meet the St. Louis-Minnesota survivor while the Black Hawks play the winner of the Bruins-Rangers series.

Esposito and Chicago's Bobby Hull are the leading Stanley Cup playoff scorers to date, each with nine points, followed by Orr and New York's Rod Gilbert with eight each.

Nets Sign 6-8 Cincy Player

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Ard, a 6-foot-8 center from Cincinnati, spurned the National Basketball Association team that drafted him in the first round and signed with an American Basketball Association team that picked him third.

"Jim was signed to a four-year, non-cut contract," said Roy Boe, president of the New York team. "The total package is around $400,000."

Hodge Chases Kansas Title

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Russ Hodge, former world record holder, opens his bid for the Kansas Relays decathlon title Friday while Kansas State hopes to continue its victory string in the university sprint medley relay.

The 45th running of the relays opened today, but the program was light with only the finals in the men's open six-mile run, women's half-mile and four junior college events.

Besides the first five events in the decathlon and the sprint medley finals, Friday's program includes finals in the discus, triple jump, mile run and four-mile relay for university division entrants, and the Cliff Cushman open 440-yard intermediate hurdles.

Saturday is the big day, when John Carlos is scheduled to run in the open 100-yard dash, Kansas' Karl Salb challenges world record holder Randy Matson in the shot put and the rest of the big relays will be run.

This year's relays are on the new synthetic track and they are being dedicated to the man who paid for it — Wichita oilman Jim Hersberger.

Hersberger, once a KU trackman, will run in a special "masters mile" scheduled Saturday afternoon.

Hodge, former UCLA star now with the Los Angeles Striders, set the decathlon record in 1966 with 8,230 points but Olympic star Bill Toomey now holds it at 8,417.

Kansas State is going after its eighth straight sprint medley victory on the Texas-Kansas-Drake circuit. Anchored by Ken Swenson, the Wildcats won their third straight Texas Relays sprint medley two weeks ago in 3:17.8. They won here last year in 3:20.8. Oklahoma set the record here in 1958 at 3:19.5.

MacMillen To Wait Awhile

MANSFIELD, Pa. (AP) — High school basketball star Tom MacMillen now is undecided about what college he will attend.

The 6-foot-11 center led Mansfield High to a 92-10 record during his career. He has been one of the most highly sought-after prep players in the nation. He averaged 48 points a game last season.

A University of North Carolina spokesman had said Wednesday night that MacMillen had agreed to sign with the Tar Heels.

UNC coach Dean Smith and Lefty Driesell of the University of Maryland, were reported in Mansfield.

Male pattern baldness is the cause of a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which neither the Ebb method nor any other method is effective, and the Ebb method will not help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss.

If your scalp is still creating hair and you have dandruff, or excessive hair fall, excessive oiliness, dryness, or itchy scalp you should take 20 minutes of your time to see what you can do.

Many have reported satisfaction from the Ebb Scalp Method. Why burden yourself with unhealthy hair and scalp? It costs you nothing to come in and learn how many people have been helped by the years of Ebb experience. Why not take advantage of this wonderful opportunity for help?

Just go to the Quality Motel in Greenville, N.C., on Saturday, April 18, only, between 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. Ask the Motel Desk Clerk for R. W. Yarbrough.
