

SUNSHINE AND INFORMALITY . . . marked the observing of Earth Day on the mall at East Carolina University yesterday afternoon. Lectures filled the morning hours and a panel discussion was held last night.

Santa Barbara Termed 'Pearl Harbor' Of Ecology

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

The blowing out of the Santa Barbara Oil Well in January, 1969 was the Pearl Harbor of the ecology movement," Dr. Prem Sehgal told the crowd gathered on the East Carolina University mall for the local Earth Day rally yesterday afternoon. "The outcome is yet to be known."

Dr. Sehgal, talked about the environmental crisis and challenged the students to do something about it. Dr. Kuman Kuthiala, predicted that if we increase at the same rate we are now, the world population will be seven billion (double what it is now) by 2000 A.D.

Sterling Bailey of Weyerhaeuser Paper Company and Norman Spell of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company discussed what their companies have done to curtail their own pollution and to promote conservation.

The size of the crowd fluctuated with the changing of classes, but the average number present was probably around 200. Community interest was non-apparent. Practically the only non-students there were some faculty members and their families, representatives of the news media, and a few invited politicians.

Candidates for the State House of Representatives, Dave Reid and Charlie Tyer, spoke. Reid said that much of the pollution cleanup must be begun in the political arena and pledged his support if elected. Tyer talked about chemical agriculture — "the most vicious polluter of them all" and told the group that they must force state and federal agriculture departments to press farmers, including himself, into curtailing the use of high-powered chemicals, the effects of which are not fully known.

Tom Kane of the State Attorney General's office told the group that the law is coming around to the idea that a healthy environment is a common law right of the people and cases are beginning to be tried on this basis. He told them, if they see a situation that needs to be righted, they should either register a complaint with the appropriate state agency or get an interested group to take the case to court.

Music by ECU student Dave Wendelyn and a Canadian group called the Mara Loves was offered intermittently to lighten the pace.

Drop Charges Of Conspiracy

BOSTON (AP) — Charges of conspiracy to counsel draft evasion against the Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr. and author Mitchell Goodman have been dropped at the request of the U.S. government.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity granted a Justice Department motion Wednesday, ending the cases against the so called Boston Five.

Coffin, chaplain of Yale University; Goodman; Dr. Benjamin Spock; Michael Ferber, a Harvard graduate student, and Marcus Raskin, co-director of the Institute of Political Studies at Washington, were indicted Jan. 5, 1968.

Candidates, Office-Holders Attend Pierce Club Meeting

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

GRIFTON — A crowd estimated at several hundred persons attended the 48th annual meeting of the John Pierce Fellowship Club held at Camp Contentment on the banks of Contentment Creek near here yesterday.

Registration for the meeting began at 10:30 a.m. and a barbecue and chicken dinner was served at 1 p.m.

Highlighting the meeting was the introduction of candidates for election to office in the May 2 primary, election of Fellowship Club officers, and introduction of other public officials in attendance.

Clifton Everett of Bethel was elected president, to succeed Robert Rouse of Farmville who presided at yesterday's session, while Billy Phillips of Grifton was elected vice-president, replacing Everett. Alton F. Rowe was re-elected secretary of the John Pierce Fellowship Club.

Candidates (with opposition present and introduced included Charles Whedbee and Rouse (for Superior Court Judge); State Sen. Julian Allsbrook; State Sen. Vernon White and Marvin Blount Jr.; State House member David Reid and Sam Bundy; House member Horton Rountree and Charles Tyer; County Commissioner Vance Perkins and Bob Ramey; Pitt County Coroner E.W. Harvey Jr. and John Gray; and First District Congressman Walter B. Jones.

Rep. Jones, who spoke briefly, told the group that he probably holds the distinction of having "been a candidate more times in the past 20 years than anyone here." Explaining, the congressman said that if he survives the May 2 primary and enters the November 3 general election, he will have conducted (Continued on Page 10)

Nixon Ends Future Draft Deferments

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon ordered today an end to future deferments for occupational or agricultural activities and for fatherhood.

He also asked Congress for authority to end future student deferments.

Today's order and the order he pledged to issue if he is granted authority would not affect the deferments now held by students, fathers, and workers or such deferments granted under applications now pending. Nixon asked Congress to permit the draft to be run on a nationwide basis with a single national call by lottery numbers. This would replace the present system of local calls by individual draft boards which need not call exactly the same numbers at any one time.

At the same time, Nixon endorsed the goal of ending the draft entirely and replacing it with an all-volunteer Army.

To achieve this goal he said he will propose additional pay raises and benefits for members of the armed forces, and will seek to encourage enlistment and re-enlistment. He also is ordering a review of military policies to recognize the personal needs, aspirations and capabilities of military personnel.

Provisions for student deferments at present are written into the draft law. To change them Nixon must obtain action by Congress giving him discretionary authority. He said that if this authority is granted he will immediately issue a second executive order ending student deferments in the future.

The White House explained in a fact sheet accompanying the President's message to Congress that as of today students already attending college, or junior or community college, or an approved technical school, continue to be eligible for student deferment.

Those planning to enroll in the future, however, will not be eligible for student deferment. If called for service after he enters school, a student would be permitted to finish his current semester or term before starting service.

But college men enrolled in ROTC or other military programs could postpone active duty until completion of their study programs.

Trinidad's Gov't Has Upper Hand

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON
Associated Press Writer

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — The government of Trinidad appeared today to have gained the upper hand over a few score army mutineers and Black Power rioters. Three persons have been reported killed in the disorders.

Six U.S. Navy ships sent here to evacuate American tourists and residents if necessary, arrived from Puerto Rico this morning and took up positions off the north coast of Trinidad, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said.

The spokesman said the ships, lying outside the territorial waters of this country, included the helicopter carrier Guadalcanal, four amphibious craft and the guided missile cruiser Biddle.

But for the moment, at least, the Trinidad government seemed to have the situation under control.

A dusk-to-dawn curfew, part of a state of emergency declared Tuesday by Prime Minister Eric Williams, was relaxed in rural areas Wednesday but was continued on a day-to-day basis in Port of Spain. Only persons with police passes were allowed outside Wednesday night.

Most shops were boarded up and closed early. By late afternoon, the downtown section was almost deserted.

There were few guests in the Trinidad Hilton, one of the main tourist hotels. The airport was crowded with foreigners awaiting flights out of the country.

Gastonia Firm's Light Plane Hijacked; Flown To Cuba By Hops, Skips

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A light plane landed in Cuba today after a hop-scotch trip down the east coast under threats from an armed convict and a teen-age girl, the Federal Aviation Administration reported.

The plane was commandeered Wednesday night in Gastonia, N.C., and flew to the Communist island after refueling stops in Rock Hill, S.C., Jacksonville, and Fort Lauderdale.

There was no immediate word as to when the pilot would return.

Authorities identified the hijackers as Ira Davis "Orrie" Meeks, 27, and Diane McKenney, 17, both of Gastonia.

Federal Aviation Administration officials in Atlanta said Meeks told control towers along his route to keep police clear of the refueling stops or he would blow up the plane.

The light plane carried only the two hijackers and the pilot. North Carolina Police Sgt. D. T. King said the plane was piloted by Boyce Stradley, 56, who reported to ground control communications that the couple boarded the plane saying they wanted to "fly around a little."

The pilot was quoted as saying the man pulled a gun and ordered him to fly to Cuba. King said the hijacker took over the communications and told ground forces at Gastonia he had enough explosives to destroy the plane.

A Gastonia Police Department spokesman said Meeks was sentenced to two to four years in 1960 on a manslaughter charge.

An FAA spokesman said the plane was directed at an open area at Jacksonville International Airport where the man also demanded a bottle of Scotch whisky.

At Gastonia police said Meeks and Miss McKenney had hired a taxi to drive them to the airport and then had locked the driver in the trunk of the cab. He was C. E. McMahon, 39, who was freed by the Gastonia Rescue Squad after the Gastonia control tower had learned from radio conversation with Meeks that McMahon was in the trunk.

Police said that Meeks had been living in New York City recently and had been visiting his parents in Gastonia for the last two weeks.

Dick Caldwell, owner of the Caldwell Aviation Corp. at Gastonia, said Stradley works for him and that the aviation corporation owns the blue-and-white Cessna Skyhawk.

At Charlotte an advertising executive, Bert Wade, said he had overheard on short wave radio conversations between the air controller at Gastonia and the pilot of the plane and the other man aboard.

Wade quoted the pilot as saying, "This is Cessna 482. I'm in trouble. I've got a gun in my back and this guy wants to go to Cuba."

Wade said that after the pilot declared he was low on gas and would have to land and refuel at Rock Hill, S.C., about 25 miles south of Gastonia, the other man aboard said over the radio that authorities should not let any "sharpshooters" near the plane.

Wade quoted the man as warning, "I don't want no clothes that conceal guns."

Litter Pick-Up

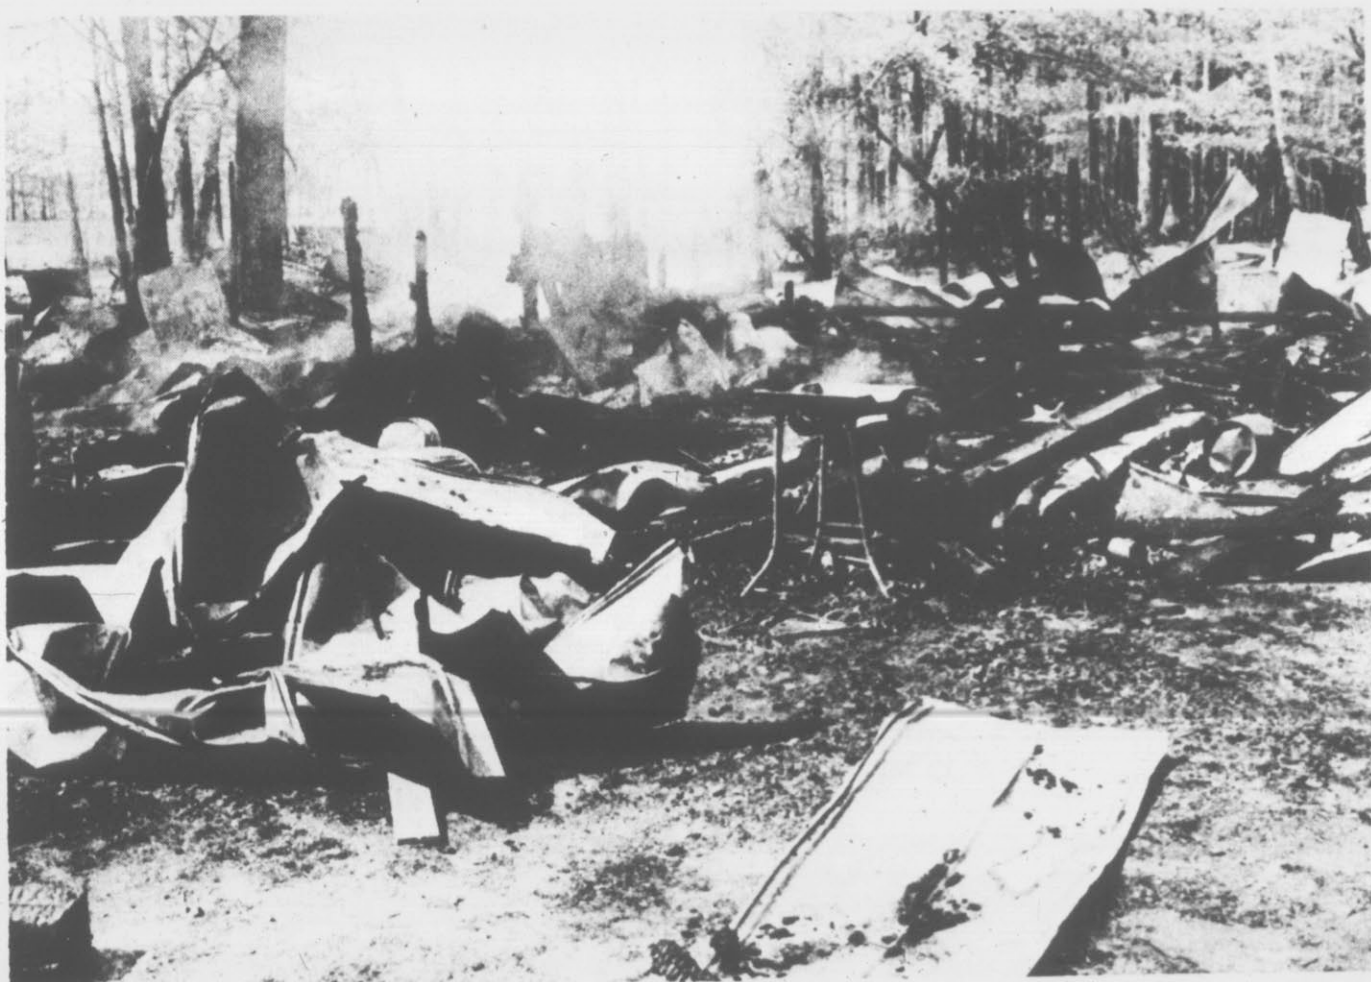

Students from East Carolina University, Atlantic Christian College and several high schools are scheduled to clean up a stretch of U. S. 17 from Chocowinity to Vanceboro, Sunday to show their concern for improved environmental conditions.

The sponsoring organizations include GAP from ECU and ACC's Zero Population Control. In addition to representatives from these two college groups, students from Wilson's Fike High School, Farmville High School and possibly Rose High School in Greenville, will participate.

The litter pick-up operation is set to begin about 2:30 from Vanceboro and Chocowinity. Sponsors say about 40 persons will participate.

The State Highway Commission is cooperating in the venture.

Riding Stables Building Burns

EQUIPMENT HOUSE DESTROYED . . . Fire destroyed the equipment house of the Glenhaven Riding Academy early this morning. The house

A building housing saddles and other equipment for horses at the Glen Haven Riding Stables burned early this morning. The building, belonging to Hugh Allen Stocks, located on the George Clapp farm on N.C. Highway 43 just outside Greenville city limits, was a complete loss, according to Winterville Fire Chief Lloyd Worthington.

The alarm, received at 7:10 a.m., was answered by the Winterville Fire Department, which sent two trucks. "The building was already in full flames," Worthington remarked. Value of the loss is estimated at about $4,000.

Origin of the fire is unknown. None of the animals in other buildings were injured by the fire, which was confined to the one storage building.

Greenville Pilot Club Wins Public Relations Award

At the Pilot Club International District Six Convention held in Charlotte during the weekend, the Greenville Club was presented the district public relations award. The meeting was attended by seven local club members.

Delegates were: Miss Mildred Mallard, president; Mrs. Robert Starling, vice president, and Marvin Buck Sr., chairman of community services.

Mrs. R. L. Smith, district finance chairman, conducted a workshop at the convention. She wore a unique costume decorated with money, a money tree headdress, and carried a basket of gold painted rocks to illustrate her ideas for developing ways and means projects.

An original "Go-Go Miami" skit, designed to encourage attendance of the Pilot Club International Convention to be held in Miami Beach in June, was presented by Mrs. J.N. LeConte. Local members taking

Sorority State Day Is Held Saturday

The Alumnae Club of Alpha Xi Delta sorority hosted State Day here on Saturday. State day is held each year to honor the founders of the national Alpha Xi Delta sorority.

Mrs. Ed Daughtry, chairman of the State Day activities, welcomed guests to the event, which was held at Brook Valley Country Club.

The luncheon invocation was given by Mrs. Dana Franks. After luncheon, Mrs. Gary Blanton, president of the Alumnae Club, introduced the guests.

Among the guests present was

Mrs. Helen Abernathy of Davidson, a candidate for the Order of the Rose, recognition for 50 years membership in the sorority.

Miss Eunice McGee, a local Alpha Xi Delta instrumental in founding the Gama Phi chapter at East Carolina University, was also recognized for her devotion and service.

The festivities were concluded with a fashion show narrated by Mrs. Mary Windle. Models for the show were members of the college chapter here.

Disengagement Will Be Tricky

The figure of 150,000 men to be withdrawn in a year from Vietnam is substantial. However, it is well to note that President Nixon left himself considerably more time leeway on the withdrawal rate than he has in the past.

U.S. forces reached a peak ceiling in 1969 when there were 594,500 in Vietnam. If the 150,000 men are withdrawn during the next year there will be 284,000 Americans in Vietnam in May, 1971.

However, the president did not say that the Market Made A 'Production'

(Today's column was written by Holt McPherson, Editor, The High Point Enterprise).

By HOLT MCPHERSON

No Broadway production gets more careful attention given stage setting than does the Southern Furniture Market, which was held last week.

For months in advance of the scheduled openings interior designers are at work creating proper backgrounds and settings and mood for the various new styles to be introduced. This ranges from backgrounds of the vignette type to complete installations of rooms such as a mountain retreat, a formal drawing room, or a gazebo created in one space to establish a decor appropriate to the furniture.

These stage settings have become increasingly important as an adjunct market inspiration to retailers who take back home with them ideas picked up here. In the Southern Furniture Exposition Building, where more than 250 exhibitors display in spaces from 20 x 60 feet up to a couple of acres, a regular army of contractors, painters, paper hangers has worked for months to bring about settings for a jewel-like presentation.

On the bridges which connect the North and South wings with the Wrenn and Green Drive wings of the Exposition complex there is a different type of casual furniture on each level for buyers who need to rest their feet from time to time when they are in process of traversing the 32 acres of exhibits concentrated there. On the fourth floor bridge an experiment is going on that will be studied as a prototype for the other levels. Colorful awnings and a flower vending car together with casual furniture create the atmosphere of an outdoor sidewalk cafe.

On the third floor bridge there is an exhibit of the home furnishings in "Governors' Mansions" throughout this country. An effort was made to get photographs of interiors of all 50 governors—but not all responded. The homes of governors should be symbolic of the good life in America, the excellence of home furnishings surroundings generally available to every American homemaker and the charm and graciousness and utility of modern day furnishings. The North Carolina Governor's Mansion, furnished mainly by Tar Heel manufacturers, affords an excellent example of tasteful furnishing plus utility and lasting charm.

Those governors who did respond were most gracious in their cooperation. The homes reflect a wide variety of decor, taste and varying degrees of affluence. Here is a project that needs to be undertaken by some group in the home furnishings industry—telling the story and style and fashion of furniture.

There's an exciting newness about the market, something like a wind sweeping change into furniture gearing for changing patterns fitted to types of living people want—the new homes, apartments, condominiums, mobile homes and the life—without sacrificing time-tested basic styles and patterns for comfortable living. The biggest news is modern, of course, with new and different materials joining plastics, metal, glass, leather and fabrics into eye-catching combinations that are beautiful and serviceful at the same time.

The sweep of the exposition is tremendous, from the old-time country store that serves as the coffee house for the Gilliam exhibit to the Uniformed security guard who stands outside Stanley's space in a protective vigil over moon rock. Opposite the guard and under dramatic spot lighting is a black carboniferous appearing substance—for which neither the armed guard nor we will vouch as to its source. Stanley said it. Whether they are constructive furniture for moon habitats they have not divulged, but certainly they are pulling all the stops to publicize their offerings.

The Exposition Building is the nerve center of the market for the communications media which turn a vast national spotlight in direction of the market. Every shelter group magazine, a large number of metropolitan dailies, magazines and news media of general circulation, TV, and radio check. The press room facilities on the main floor, complete with phones, desks, typewriters, a coffee bar with sweet rolls in mornings and sandwiches at lunch, operates objectively with a staff of five people to assist in supplying information, pictures and even lining up interviews with newsmakers, of whom there are ample at each market.

And the Press Party, a traditional event that has almost outgrown the Top of the Market where up to a thousand guests can be crowded into that spacious facility, exemplifies the swinging nature of press members who never cease to be amazed by the variety of decor, food and VIPs drawn to those occasions. This market's center of interest was Liz Carpenter, whose book "Ruffles and Flourishes" about the Johnson administration, is high on the best seller list, and her tall, columnist husband, Leslie.

The Top of the Market, coming into its own as a 150,000 men would be withdrawn at a steady rate. Thus with the problems that are developing in Cambodia it could be that the bulk of the men in this new withdrawal would be in the latter part of the 12 month period.

The president spoke optimistically about the progress of turning the war over to South Vietnam. "We can now say with confidence that pacification is succeeding. We can say with confidence that South Vietnamese can develop the capability for their out defense. We can say with confidence that all American combat forces can and will be withdrawn," the president said.

He concluded that Hanoi had failed to break America's will. "American has never been defeated in the proud 190-year history of this country and we shall not be defeated in Vietnam."

It seems certain that the bulk of the United States' troops are going to be withdrawn from Vietnam. However, it would be a mistake to conclude that our troubles are nearing an end in Southeast Asia. We have a stake in the problems of Cambodia and Laos if, for no other reason, because our forces are in the area. Thus disengagement is going to be tricky if we are to avoid a disaster. That may be the reason the president allowed himself a full year's leeway to withdraw the next 150,000 troops.

Kremlin's Pollution Problem Less Acute

In typical Soviet fashion Premier Alexei N. Kosygin has assured Henry Ford II that Russia has no air pollution problem.

The Ford Motor Company chairman reported that the subject came up during business talks with Kosygin.

It is true that the Soviet Union has far less automobiles than the United States and thus less pollution from this source. However, Russia is industrialized and it is doubtful that all the fumes and water wastes that have plagued other industrial nations have been eliminated in the Soviet Union.

Certainly the problem is less acute there than in some areas of the world, but water and air pollution are a world wide problem.

Since Kremlin leaders are not prodded through free speech and a free press, it is to be hoped that the Soviet premier is more aware of the pollution threat than he indicated in his talks with Ford. Often we find that government is one of the worst offenders in water and air pollution. We doubt if it is any different in Russia.

Unforgettable In A Lifetime

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Unforgettable moments of a lifetime:

Paying a dollar for a kiss at a church social and realizing later that you could have got a greater value for your money by buying four good cigars.

Climbing the Great Pyramid near Cairo and feeling, as the dawn illuminated the desert, as if you were astride the rooftop of the world—and could, by stretching out your hand, touch the cheek of Deity.

Opening one of those windowpaned envelopes from the Internal Revenue Service and finding an unexpected check from a favorite uncle.

The disappointing first taste of two things you'd always thought would be more wonderful—caviar and pomegranates.

Watching a topless maiden in Bali climb a hill with a jar of water on her head, sinuous as a panther.

Listening to Gen. Omar Nelson Bradley, patient as a friendly schoolteacher, brief a group of war correspondents in Normandy.

Getting a "Dear John" letter from a college sweetheart who had promised to wait forever but soon decided forever lasted too long.

Being impressed by the Schizophrenic face of Field Marshal Herman Goering at the nuremberg trials—benevolent looking as a Dutch uncle in full view but satanic in profile.

The paralyzing sight of a schoolmate in a coffin, first of his class to be confined in moveless silence.

Hearing the sound of opportunity knocking on your door but feeling just too darned humanly lazy to get up and open it.

Taking an egg, warm to the hand, from the nest of a squawking hen.

Falling off a horse you were trying to ride bareback.

Being kicked by a cow, indignant because you tried to milk her from the wrong side.

Hurting your funny bone and wondering why they call it that—since you didn't exactly feel like laughing.

Trying to creep soundlessly up the stairs to bed the first time in your life you stayed out after midnight.

Landing a job on your own and bragging to your father, "Oh Dad, I'll never need help from you again"—and then hitting him up for two bucks the very next week.

Lying in a ditch in Tunisia under bombardment and trying to claw your way through the earth to China—or anywhere but there.

The vast victory of pinning your first diaper on your daughter without benefit of wifely help.

Strength For Today

Resurrection Of The Body Bible readers often are mystified by the term "resurrection of the body." Does this mean that the particles of our body which lie in the ground and disintegrate will some day come together again and give us a new body? Not at all. Our present bodies adapt us to the physical world in which we live. The resurrected body will be a spiritual body and will adapt us to conditions in the spiritual world. The New Testament teaches that at the resurrection on the last day we shall have a body, given us by God, and this body will adapt and adjust our souls to heavenly and eternal conditions.

The future is radiant with light and joy for the sincere Christian believer. We shall eventually be required of course to give an account of the life we have lived in the flesh, but we should remember that God is love (1 John 4:8), and we should remember that the final judgment will be presided over by a Being intent on saving our souls. God's continual interest in us indicates his desire not to condemn us either in this world or the next but to save us. "God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved" (John 3:16-17).

God wants us to be happy, not morbid and brooding. "Be of good cheer," said Jesus. "I have overcome the world" (John 16:33).

A PRECARIOUS POSITION!

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

In Spiro Agnew's Corner

In his recent speech on higher education, Vice President Agnew spiked the guns of his critics so effectively that his critics responded with the most unkindest cut of all: They gave him the "oh, him again" treatment and left the speech alone.

This was a pity, for the Householder Word said some things about higher education, and especially about the folly of "black quotas," that needed badly to be said. His protest, at bottom, was a protest against the obsessive egalitarianism that threatens to reduce so many of our institutions to creamed spinach. He was giving fresh point to the old Aristotelian doctrine that some men are better than others, and you just don't hardly hear that kind of talk anymore.

The Vice President buttressed his argument with supportive testimony from a dozen accredited intellectuals who share his concern. The quotations made for a better speech, but they served also to discomfit his critics. It is one thing, after all, to call Mr. Agnew a boob, but it is something else entirely to impute boobiness to Daniel Boorstin, Clark Kerr, John Roche, Gardner Ackley and Irving Kristol. And Agnew had them all in his corner.

Thus he quoted Boorstin: "In the university all men are not equal. Those better endowed or better equipped intellectually must be preferred in admission, and preferred in recognition.... If we give in to the armed demands of militants to admit persons to the university because of their race, their poverty, their illiteracy, or any other non-intellectual distinctions, our universities can no longer serve all of us—or any of us."

He quoted Roche, a professor at Brandeis, on the violence emanating from black students: "We created our own difficulties the day we (and I mean the liberal academicians) decided that a college or university should double as a settlement house. Once the decision was made that Negro or 'culturally underprivileged' youngsters should be admitted to first class colleges, without the usual prerequisites, the escalation began."

In the Agnew view—and it is the view of other men who combine compassion with common sense—the "quota system" and the "open admissions policy" are two times wrong. They wrong the misguided university, unqualified black students, whose frustration and bitterness lead only to a greater alienation.

The folly in all this (and I am paraphrasing Agnew, not quoting him) is that such policies are founded on discrimination, and the blacks know it. Who could know it better? If a freshman class must be limited to 500 students, and 50 blacks are recruited, regardless of their qualifications, to fill a ten per cent quota, qualified white applicants beyond No. 450 must be turned down. They are turned down, if you please, because of their race.

Very well, it is said; qualified blacks have been turned down for generations, in jobs, colleges, housing, and you-name-it; and it is time the whites got some of their own medicine back. But such Speech Deep Words?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Although the winter months were rather poor ones for profits, a good many business executives in recent days seem to be concerned with topics that, superficially, appear to have little to do with balance sheets.

War, environment, revolution, rebellious youth, changing values, the relevancy of institutions and even of their own roles in a changing society. These and other subjects occupy the minds of aware executives.

It was well within the past decade that the business executive at annual meeting time, which is now at its height, felt that all he need do was defend his financial management and announce a new and potentially profitable product.

That other concerns should now occupy his time—they have dominated some annual meetings—testifies to the tremendous pressures for changes in the goals and values of business.

For deep and complex reasons, businessmen today are being asked to defend their decisions on a broad range of affairs. The demands go beyond this, too. They are being asked to help resolve issues that don't immediately concern their companies.

Appearing as a private citizen before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Louis B. Lumborg, who happens also to be chairman of the Bank of America testified:

"In my judgment, the war in Vietnam is a tragic national mistake," he said. "It is time the shareholders of America begin to call for an end to the squandering of American blood, morale and resources..."

A day later, J. Paul Austin, president of the Coca-Cola Company, told the annual meeting he feared the earth could become a barren planet with undrinkable water and unbreathable air.

Several days earlier, the president of Formica Corp., Wallace G. Taylor, told a Honolulu audience that the nation's businessmen are "deaf, dumb and blind to a hydra-headed new American revolution that is tearing this country asunder, value by value."

How, he asked, "can a country whose business is business continue to be deaf to its own youth and blind to a war that is rapidly turning this country into one of the poor nations...?"

This is only a sampling, but such topics are now the chief contents of executive speeches that five years ago might have dealt with subjects such as business-government relations and the regulatory climate in Washington.

The question arises naturally as to how deep is the conviction. Could it be only speech deep, designed merely to steal the issue from the critics, to convince youth and conservationists and others that the company is "with it?"

And are some of those Earth Day advertisements produced by companies accused of polluting the environment, meant essentially to counteract criticism and give a positive image that really isn't supported by acts?

Reform, Where It Is Needed

By ELMER ROESSNER

Government, politicians, do-gooders and consumers are all steamed up about consumerism truth in lending has been made the law of the land; they are trying to make truth in packaging work with very little success; the government is trying to keep customers alive and buying by prohibiting inflammable fabrics; dangerous drugs and food additives are being banned; efforts are being made to halt the pollution of air and water, and some day we may be able to get hot dogs made of prime beef.

But nobody is doing anything about the things that really bug consumers, the things that do not endanger your health or life but annoy and bedevil you and drive you almost mad.

The Real Problems

Consider these everyday annoyances:
• Inferior thread on good dresses that starts breaking on the second wearing, unseaming seams and devastating stitches. My wife says she must spend hours replacing the threads in seams of expensive dresses.

• Zippers that get off the track. A repair shop wanted $7 to fit a detracked zipper on my $5 briefcase.

• Pants pockets that quickly wear through. English tailors will always make your change pocket of extra heavy material.

• Cheap clips instead of buttons at tops of men's pants. These come back flattened beyond use the first time the pants are cleaned.

• Raincoats that go down only to men's knees, letting their pants legs soak.

More Grief

• Coupons good for 7 cents off on the NEXT package, buried in packages of breakfast food. It seems that I have to eat Goody Chaff for the rest of my life because my wife always has a 7-cent equity in the next package.

• "Easy open" packages that aren't easy to open.

• Gum machines that don't give gum.

• Soft drink machines that take your coins and laugh at you.

• Eyeglass hinges that constantly break. "Why doesn't somebody invent a hinge that won't break?" I asked my optometrist. "What, and make us lose all that repair revenue?" he asked.

If they ban DDT, cyclamates, rotten meat, 2, 4, 7, T, leaky color TV sets, dangerous infra-red ovens, inflammable pajamas and mattresses, cigarettes and whiskey, we may all live to be 100. But what fun will that be if our zippers don't work?

What's your pet peeve about merchandise today? Send it in to me in care of this newspaper and I'll try to get Ralph Nader and Warren Magnuson into action.

Australia Experiments With Animal Soft Fats

An Australian organization is experimenting with increasing the amount of polyunsaturated fats in animals. Vegetable oil enclosed in a casein capsule with a formalin-treated skin is given animals. The skin prevents the animal's rumen from changing soft fats into hard fats, and the unsaturated vegetable fat is absorbed into the animal's system.

Cows given the supplement give more milk with higher butterfat content and lactate longer. This might lead to butter as soft as margarine.

Opening lead: King of ♠.
Regarding West's double of South's six heart contract today, we can only fall back on our oft repeated sermon against doubling a contract that has been reached on aggressive bidding, unless the doubler is able to defeat the opponents in his own hand.

Had West gotten off to a trump lead, there would have been no story to tell, for South would have been unable to take more than 11 tricks. West, however, hoped for a big killing and in an effort to force the declarer down below his own size—he opened the king of spades, the suit in which his partner had overcalled. The ace was played from dummy and a small diamond was led at trick two. East put up the ace and returned a spade which South ruffed.

With the ace of diamonds located on his right, it appeared to declarer that West was for a certainty marked with all five outstanding trumps, else where was the semblance of a double? Since he himself was down to only four hearts now, his only chance was to play the hand for a straight cross-ruff.

So reasoning, South proceeded to cash out his side winners first. The king of diamonds was led, followed by the king and ace of clubs in that order. When West followed to everything, declarer was well on his way. North's last spade was trumped with the seven of hearts and a diamond was ruffed with dummy's six of trumps after West discarded the queen of spades. With all the small trumps safely in, South had no trouble crossing the last five tricks with the top five of hearts, as West helplessly undertrumped.

Observe declarer's sound technique in playing off the top two clubs early. If he attempts to ruff a diamond first, West will have the opportunity to discard a club and declarer must fall short of the goal. In playing for a cross-ruff, it is important to cash the side winners first.

PTI Plans Open House

Pitt Technical Institute will conduct open house Sunday, from 2:00 - 5:00 P.M. at its main campus on Highway No. 11, South of Greenville.

The open house will include exhibits from all departments in the vocational educational program, technical program, adult education program, developmental studies, and extension program. All 17 major curriculum areas will be represented with demonstrations.

The latest addition to the campus, a new three-story classroom building will be open for tours. It houses classrooms, fully - equipped laboratories, conference rooms, and the division of Continuing Education.

Exhibits and demonstrations will range from emergency rescue training and fire fighting procedures to operating room technology and computer operations.

Discussions will be held on all offerings at the institute — vocational, technical, adult education, extension, and the proposed two-year college-transfer curriculum.

The public is invited to the institute Sunday for guided tours and refreshments at Pitt Technical Institute.

Your Optician

(Your Deceptive Brain)

Did you know that your eyes are frequently not to blame for distorted vision?

Your eyes are only capable of looking; all recognition of objects is done by the brain. So in many cases where you think your eyes are deceiving you, the culprit is actually your brain.

Let me give you a simple example of an optical illusion, or how signals are misread by your brain.

Try looking intently, without blinking, at some object across the room. Then stretch out your arm with your fingers pointing upward and slightly apart. Raise your hand until it comes level with the object you're looking at. Keep your gaze fixed on the object and count the number of fingers you see.

You should see double! This phenomenon is known as the parallax principal. It is the same principal which explains why an object in the background appears double while focusing upon the object in the foreground.

Try holding a pencil in front of an object in the distance and focus upon the pencil. Your vision allows you to interpret the foreground object (the pencil) properly, but it fools you on the background object. Instead, your brain tells you there are two objects in the background!

Six More U.S. Aircraft Shot Down In War Action

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Six more American planes and helicopters have been shot down on bombing and reconnaissance missions over Laos and along the Laotian and Cambodian borders, increasing the toll for the past two days to 12 U.S. aircraft, the U.S. Command announced today.

Two Americans were killed, one is missing and 10 were wounded in the four planes and two helicopters downed Tuesday and Wednesday the command said.

This raised to 6,689 the number of U.S. aircraft the American command has reported lost since Jan. 1, 1961.

The costliest loss was a twin-engine Air Force EC47, a spy plane equipped with electronic snooping gear that was shot down Wednesday near the A Shau Valley in the northwest corner of South Vietnam. Two of the crew were killed and six were injured.

Two of the planes were hit in Laos. One was an Air Force F4 Phantom on a bombing mission over north central Laos. The two crewmen nursed the crippled craft almost back to their base at Udorn, Thailand, but ejected about 14 miles from the runway. They were picked up unhurt.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands also issued their weekly casualty summaries reporting:

1. A total of 101 Americans killed in action last week, 40 less than the week before and nearly down to the weekly average prevailing before the Communist command's spring offensive began.

2. At least 2,962 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese killed, more than 500 less than the week before.

3. A 35 per cent increase in South Vietnamese battle deaths, to 740, the government's third highest weekly toll of the war.

4. Another 698 Americans and 1,750 government troops wounded.

While the enemy offensive launched April 1 has tapered off, military sources said they anticipate occasional upsurges or "highpoints" of activity.

The summaries issued today raised the total casualties reported in the war to 41,516 Americans, 624,573 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese and 104,543 South Vietnamese troops killed, and 273,436 Americans and 215,175 government troops wounded.

Meanwhile, informed sources reported that two South Vietnamese task forces thrusting into North Vietnamese military camps inside Cambodia have uncovered two of the biggest munitions and medical stockpiles of the war along with tons of enemy documents.

Sweeping in more than a hundred armored personnel carriers 55 to 75 miles west of Saigon, the South Vietnamese on Wednesday seized 20 tons of munitions, five tons of medical supplies, and 150 rifles. They reported killing 16 North Vietnamese.

Reports from the field said four South Vietnamese soldiers were wounded. Some 5,000 South Vietnamese troops are in the two forces which since Monday have pushed as much as 15 miles into Cambodia along a 30-mile stretch of the frontier. Since the operation, the South Vietnamese have claimed 237 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed and 19 captured. Field reports say 26 South Vietnamese have been killed and 105 wounded.

The total booty seized includes more than 1,000 rifles, two tons of mines, mortar tubes, rocket launchers, anti-aircraft machine guns and eight flame-throwers. More than 200 of the rifles were Russian made.

The U.S. Command announced that a twin-engine

American Marine observation man was rescued, and another plane was shot down Tuesday over the southern part of the Laotian panhandle, one crewman was rescued, and another plane was shot down Tuesday over the southern part of the Laotian panhandle, one crew-

DAR Belittles Earth Day Drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — While much of the nation joined in cleanup activities marking Earth Day, the Daughters of the American Revolution branded the environmental movement as "distorted and exaggerated."

"This environment movement is one of the subversive element's last steps," Mrs. Clarence Howard, a delegate from Missouri, said during debate. "They've gone after the military and the police and now they're going after our parks and playgrounds."

The 2,000 delegates to DAR's 79th annual Continental Congress approved a resolution Wednesday singling out "pollution of the mind" as society's real danger and adding:

"The real problem of pollution of our environment is being distorted and exaggerated by emotional declarations and by intensive propaganda."

The resolution called on the federal government to refrain from "unnecessary and harmful control programs which the nation would later regret."

One Michigan delegate wanted to change the word "exaggerated" to "confused."

"There is no confusion," retorted Mrs. Samuel M. Neill, Leland, Miss. "It is planned." "It's unbelievable the far-out people who are involved in the environment movement," said Mrs. Gordon R. Connor, of Wausau, Wis. Both Mrs. Neill and Mrs. Connor are members of DAR's resolutions committee.

"It's replacing the anti-Vietnam war movement as the thing to do," Mrs. Connor said.

Mrs. Henry Norsen of Hastings-on-the-Hudson, N.Y., told delegates it was wrong to call the movement exaggerated and emotional. "My husband is a scientist," she said. "I wish he were here to tell you about the problems of the environment. It is a very serious matter."

$50 Million Crusade Set By Bishops

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Roman Catholic bishops have launched a $50 million crusade to aid blacks and other impoverished minorities.

At the semiannual meeting Wednesday the National Conference of Catholic Bishops' also condemned the recent wave of state-legislation to lift restrictions on abortions, and promised a campaign for social acceptance of pregnancies and births out of wedlock.

In acting to implement a $50 million drive against poverty, economic inequities and racism, the bishops decided to seek funds through special Thanksgiving offerings beginning next November.

They rejected proposals for combining the new fund raising with the annual Lenten appeal to finance Catholic Relief Services, the Church's international charitable arm, which raises about $8 million annually.

Sources inside the closed meeting said considerable fears were expressed that opposition to the domestic anti-poverty crusade might cripple the international relief work if the two were combined and could cause confusion about division of funds.

Bishop Francis J. Mugavero of Brooklyn, committee chairman for the new effort, said the aid would go to projects among the poor not supported by government funds.

He said minority groups who insist on determining themselves how the money is used, such as the Black Economic Development Conference, would be eligible for consideration for aid.

BEDC is the group that has demanded millions in reparations from churches for alleged past injustices to blacks.

Protestant groups including Episcopalians and United Presbyterians have relayed money to it, arousing protests from some white members.

Turning to the problem of abortion, the conference declared:

"We pledge our efforts to do all that is possible to remove the social stigma that is visited on the woman who is pregnant out of wedlock, as well as on her child."

Bishop Raymond J. Gallagher of Lafayette, Ind., said the aim was to dispel the shadow over births to unmarried mothers and to foster "Christian acceptance and understanding" of them rather than "categorizing them as offenders against morality."

Loses Suit Over 'The Love Bug'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Song-writer Pinky Tomlin has lost his $2.25-million suit against Walt Disney Productions.

He contended the Disney film title "The Love Bug" was stolen from the title of his 1937 song "The Love Bug Will Bite You If You Don't Watch Out."

Superior Court Judge Jerry Pacht held Wednesday the Disney organization did not profit, because of the song and granted a summary judgment in Disney's favor.

Alpert And Wife To Be Divorced

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After a one year separation, Tijuana Brass founder Herb Alpert and his wife of 12 years, Sharon, say they have decided to file for divorce because their interests "have taken separate paths."

The trumpeter, 35, who went from movie extra to head of a multimillion-dollar company, and his 31-year-old wife said in a joint statement Wednesday they realized that they "can't be happy together." They have a son, 10, and a daughter, 4.

Arrest Man On Larceny Charge

Walter Harris Jr., 31, of 311 West Fifth St. was arrested on charges of larceny early today after he allegedly took two crates of eggs, valued at $28.20, from Sunnyside Eggs Inc. on Dickinson Ave.

Police reported the eggs were found concealed under a cover in Harris' truck. The warrant charging larceny was signed by Sunnyside officials.

The incident was reported at 11:36 p.m. yesterday.

Russian Missile Subs Said In Striking Range

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Polaris-type missile-firing submarines are patrolling in the Atlantic within striking range of the United States, Pentagon sources say.

At least one such submarine, built to carry 16 nuclear tipped missiles with a range over 1,200 miles, has been detected in the mid-Atlantic.

Previously, Defense officials have said several Yankee-class Soviet nuclear submarines were operational, but indicated they hadn't ventured out for more than shakedown cruises.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird believes the Russians are on a crash program to bring their Polaris-type submarine force abreast or beyond the 41-boat U.S. missile launching fleet within four years.

About 12 Soviet Yankee-class subs, capable of shooting from the ocean depths, are reported operational—about twice as many as last fall. Another 12 or 14 of these vessels are said to be under construction.

It is not known how many Yankee-class subs have begun patrols. If they follow the U.S. method of operation, the Russians would send somewhat more than half of their force to sea at any one time.

There was some indication from Pentagon sources that at least one or more Yankee-class subs might be involved in the current worldwide Soviet naval maneuvers, which U.S. Navy spokesmen call the biggest ever in peace time.

Sources implied that Russian antisubmarine warfare units in the Atlantic may be exercising against missile-firing subs, perhaps in hopes of learning how to deal with the elusive U.S. under-sea fleet.

Nearly 200 Soviet surface warships, submarines and auxiliary vessels are taking part in the maneuvers, centering chiefly in the Norwegian Sea and the North Atlantic.

Other sizable Russian naval squadrons are active in the Philippine Sea, the Mediterranean and the Indian Ocean.

The U.S. Navy over the past week has been calling attention to the Soviet maneuvers, because of a longstanding concern over Russia's widening reach and also, perhaps, because Congress is now considering the military budget.

In fact, the Russians may be doing the U.S. Navy a big favor by carrying on its spectacularly global maneuvers at this time.

Even as Navy spokesmen briefed Pentagon reporters on what they called the Soviet "demonstration of muscle," the House Armed Services Committee was sending to the floor a bill authorizing an extra $435 million for Navy ship construction next year.

Pirates Hold Off 'Cat Rallies For Two

Ry WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

The East Carolina University Pirates had to sweat through two sticky final innings, but managed to sweep two games from the stubborn Davidson Wildcats yesterday. The Bucs took the first 4-2, and won the second, 2-1.

The duet of wins raised their Southern Conference record to 8-2, and gave them a 2½-game lead over second place Furman.

The Bucs have six games remaining to play, including doubleheader at Furman and Davidson, and away games against William — Mary and George Washington.

It took great efforts in the final inning of play to get out of the game with a win for the Bucs. In the first game, Hal Baird, who came on in relief for Ron Hastings, struck out the final batter to leave the tying runs on base.

Then, in the second game, Stu

Garrett made a dramatic one-handed catch going away from home in deep center, robbing Harold Wilkerson of an extra-base hit that would have scored the tying run and possibly put Davidson ahead.

Instead, the Bucs find themselves another step closer to the divisional championship that would send them into the conference finals the second weekend in May against the Northern Divisional winner.

Davidson had its bats ready for Hastings, banging out nine hits off him in four and a third innings. Baird held them to one in two and two-thirds innings. At the same time, the Bucs got only four hits off Marshall Case and Davis Beaton, but it was when they came that counted.

The Wildcats pushed over a run in the top of the first, showing the Pirates that they were not going to be pushovers. Lynn Wagner led off, cracking a double into right center. He moved into third on an out, and scored when Mike Frye singled into left. Gordon Slade followed with another hit, but the next two went down, stopping any further scoring.

Then, the Pirates exploded, with a little help from the 'Cats. Dick Corrada walked, and was promptly wild pitched around to third. Len Dowd also drew a walk as Case had control difficulties. Stan Sneed hit a fly to left, scoring Corrada after the catch to tie it up.

Skip Taylor drew another walk, and Matt Walker slammed a double into right center, bringing Dowd home and moving Taylor into third. That ended Case's time on the mound, and brought on Beaton. He was greeted by a passed ball that brought Taylor home and moved Walker around to third. Larry Walters hit a sacrifice fly to right, scoring Walker for a 4-1 lead.

The Bucs got two more hits off Beaton in the inning before the side was finally retired.

But after that, the Bucs found pickings slim. They got only one other base runner, as Walters singled in the third. Otherwise, the Davidson hurler shut the door on them.

Meanwhile, the 'Cats continued to plague Hastings. After threatened on a walk and a stolen base in the second, they pushed over another run in the third. Bill Barnhill was hit by a pitch to open the inning. Frye singled by third base, putting two on. Slade hit back to short, and the play was made on Frye, but was wide of the bag and the ball went into center. Barnhill came in to score, but Garrett threw out Frye trying to go to third. Davidson got another hit in the inning, but couldn't make it pay off.

They threatened again in the fourth and fifth, but a fine double play killed off their chances in the fifth. Corrada went back with the bases loaded and one out to make a fine catch, then pick Slade off third base for the final out.

Then, in the seventh, Baird got into trouble with a pair of walks and a wild pitch which put the tying run on second with two outs. But he calmly struck out the last batter to end the game.

Then, it started all over again. East Carolina got a finer performance on the mound this time, as Sonny Robinson tossed his best game of the year. He faced only the minimum number of batters in the first four innings, getting those who reached out stealing and in a double play.

In the fifth, Davidson put two on with a single and an error.

But the real trouble came in the seventh. With one out, Slade hit a ground rule double that bounced over the left field wall. Jack Latimer singled to left and Hal Mapes singled to left, scoring Slade and moving Latimer to second with the tying run. Wilkerson then hit his long fly to center that Garrett pulled in. Latimer moved to third on the play, but the next batter grounded back to second for an easy putout, ending the game again with a collective Pirate sigh.

Bucs Down Bulldogs

WILSON — East Carolina University's golf team picked up its 10th victory of the season against two losses yesterday, rolling past Atlantic Christian College, 22-7.

The Bucs took all but one of the individual matches to gain the win. Medalist for the afternoon was ECU's Vernon Tyson, who fired a 67.

The Pirates travel to meet tough Campbell College on Friday.

Summary: Vernon Tyson (ECU) defeated Tom Smith, 4-0.

Joey Gilbert (AC) defeated Rocky Rockett, 4-0.

Joe Tyson (ECU) defeated Walter Kraemer, 3½-1½.

Vance Whicker (ECU) defeated John McDustrell, 3-1.

Ray Sharpe (ECU) defeated David Seel, 4-0.

Ron Pinner (ECU) defeated Steve Jones, 2½-1½.

Phil Wallace (ECU) defeated Mills Dean, 4-0.

Divisional Track Here

The Division II, Eastern 4-A track meet will be held Friday at East Carolina University.

The six members of the division, Rose, Wilson, Rocky Mount, Kinston, Goldsboro and New Bern will be vying for the title.

Time trials for the 120 high hurdles the 180 low hurdles, the 100 and the 220 will get underway at 11 a.m. at the track.

Field events will start at 1 p.m., while finals in the running events will start at 3 p.m.

The Bucs scored their first run in the first. Corrada singled to right and Dowd sacrificed him up. Sneed cracked a single into left, driving Corrada across for a 1-0 lead.

After getting men on base in the second, third and fourth, but offering no real threat, the Bucs scored what proved to be the winning run in the fifth. Robinson led off with a single, and courtsey runner Bryan McNeely stole second. Corrada singled, and Dowd lined through the middle to bring McNeely over for a 2-0 edge.

The Bucs hit the road this weekend, playing William & Mary Saturday in Williamsburg, Va., and then meeting George Washington in the national capital on Sunday. A sweep of the series would almost insure the Bucs of their divisional crown.

End Of A Double Play

East Carolina third baseman Len Dowd puts the tag on Davidson's Gordon Slade as he tries to get back into third base after Dick Corrada caught a popup and caught Slade too far off, ending a Wildcat threat in the first game of a double header yesterday. The Pirates won the game, 4-2, then took the nightcap, 2-1, to increase their Southern Conference league lead. (Reflector Photo by Forrest)

Seaver Shows Why He's Tops In The National

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

They gave Tom Seaver the 1969 Cy Young Award before Wednesday's game and then the wunderkind ace of the New York Mets' pitching staff went out and showed just how much he deserved it.

Seaver pitched his way into baseball's record book, striking out 19 batters including the last 10 in a row and two-hit San Diego 2-1 in an expert display of pitching prowess.

The Young Award, of course, goes to the top pitcher in each league but if you ask the Padres today, they'll tell you that Seaver looked like the best pitcher in all of baseball to them.

Elsewhere in the National League Wednesday, Chicago trimmed St. Louis 7-5, Philadelphia dropped San Francisco 6-1, Pittsburgh took Houston 6-1 and Los Angeles ripped Montreal 9-2. Atlanta and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

In the American League, Minnesota tripped Chicago 3-1, Boston belted Baltimore 5-2, Detroit shut out Cleveland 5-0, Washington outlasted New York 2-1 in 18 innings, Oakland nipped Kansas City 2-1 and California whipped Milwaukee 3-1.

Seaver was simply superb. He used just 136 pitches to dispatch the Padres and matched the record for strikeouts in a single game of 19 set by Steve Carlton against the Mets last September.

He also wiped out the old record for consecutive strikeouts of eight shared by four different pitchers. One of those four was Johnny Podres, who watched Seaver's performance.

"Fantastic, outstanding," marveled Podres, now the Padres' minor league pitching coach. "The amazing thing was that as hard as he was throwing the ball, he was still pitching to spots."

"He was like a machine," said Met first baseman Ed Kranepool, "whump, whump, whump."

"When he did throw a breaking ball," said Al Ferrard, who tagged Seaver for an early homer and then became the 19th and final strikeout victim in the ninth inning, "it was always on the outside corner."

It was the 13th consecutive regular season victory for Seaver over two seasons, 10 of them coming in his 25-7 mark last year which earned him the Young Award, and three this term.

There were other well-pitched games in the NL but nothing like Seaver's gem.

Pittsburgh's Steve Blass limited Houston to three hits and the Pirates rapped the Astros with Roberto Clemente and Manny Sanguillen collecting three safeties apiece. Bill Mazeroski singled across one of the Pirate runs, collecting the 800th RBI of his career.

Don Sutton scattered five Montreal hits and the Dodgers pounded the Expos with a 14-hit attack.

The middle of the Dodger batting order—Andy Kosco, Willie Crawford and Wes Parker—did most of the damage, collecting half of L.A.'s hits between them.

Crawford scored three runs. Johnny Briggs rapped a three-run homer as the Phillies beat San Francisco.

Wrestling Here Tonight

Plenty of ringside seats are still available for the Jaycee sponsored championship professional wrestling match set for tonight at Minges Coliseum.

The match, scheduled to begin at 8:15, will benefit the East Carolina University football team with proceeds going toward the purchase of new uniforms.

The main event will feature a six-man tag team match with Luther Lindsay and brothers George and Sandy Scott teaming up to face J.C. Dykes and the Masked Inferno.

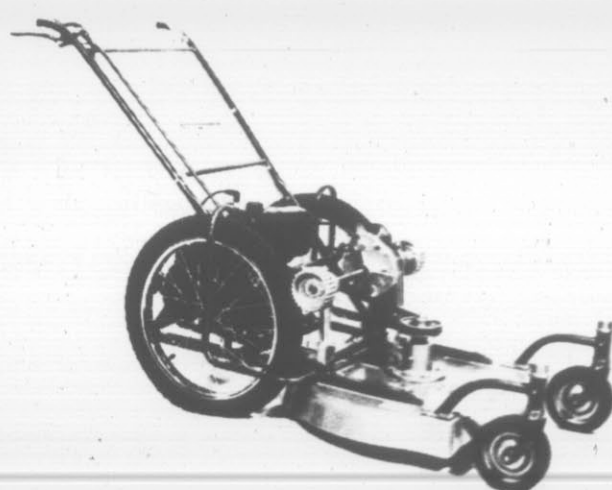

Female wrestlers will highlight the semifinal event with Miss Tammy Jones facing Miss Penny Banner. In other matches, Pedro Godoy will tangle with Pepi Gomez and Jim Brabmire will face Joe Furr.

Tickets for the event will go on sale this afternoon at Minges at 6:30.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter attends a public school and is a fifth grader. She recently took the invitations to her birthday party to school to pass out to those classmates she wanted to attend. There are 33 children in her class, and she wanted only 27 of them at her party.

After she had passed out the invitations, the teacher took her in the hall and told her that as long as she didn't invite all the students, she used very poor taste in passing out her party invitations at school.

Since when does a school teacher have anything to say about where the invitations should be passed out for a party to be held in a child's own home on a Saturday?

ROCHESTER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think the school teacher showed more compassion than you or your daughter. The pain of having been left out will be remembered by those six uninvited children long after the fun of the party has been forgotten by those who attended.

DEAR ABBY: We have been married for 1½ years, and our number one rule has always been "Never go to bed mad."

Well, yesterday I made a mistake and I told my husband about a dream I had. It had to do with an old boyfriend.

Well, he got jealous and was he ever mad at me. Before turning out the light, I said, "Aren't you going to kiss me good night?"

He said, "Oh, go to sleep and dream!" How do you cope with someone like that? Don't tell me I shouldn't have told him about my dream in the first place. I've already figured that out.

NO MORE DREAMS

DEAR NO MORE: It wasn't the dream that got you into trouble. It was talking about it.

DEAR ABBY: My son and daughter-in-law are adopting a baby. They have been married only 3 years. My daughter-in-law claims that she has been unable to become pregnant. I don't think 3 years is long enough to make such a positive statement. She says she's been to a doctor and took tests, but this is hard for me to believe.

I definitely feel that she wants to adopt because she is afraid of childbirth.

I recently was in their home and I found some birth control pills in her drawer. How can I tell my son that his wife is cheating him out of one of the most wonderful experiences a man can have—having his own children? I want to help my son, but I don't want to cause trouble.

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: The birth control pills don't prove anything. And because you feel that your daughter-in-law prefers to adopt because she fears childbirth doesn't mean it's true. Perhaps she HAS had tests. And perhaps your son has also had them, and HE is sterile. Don't meddle, Mamma.

DEAR ABBY: Can a person ever REALLY forgive and forget?

LEE

DEAR LEE: Not as long as that person keeps asking himself that question.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Drug Count Plane Rams House, City School Trial Is Set Killing 8 Persons Accredited

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Gary Thomas Fagg, University of North Carolina student, faced trial in Orange Superior Court on charges of possession and sale of narcotic drugs.

Fagg, 21, a junior from High Point, was given a preliminary hearing Wednesday before District Court Judge Ballard Gay and was bound over to Superior Court. Bond was set at $8,000.

He was one of seven arrested on drug charges March 15. Hearings for the other six were continued until May 6.

James O. Goldman, 20, a police cadet, testified he bought 25 dextroamphetamine capsules and two grams of hashish from Fagg Feb. 6.

Fagg ran fourth in a field of five candidates of president of the student body in an election held two days after his arrest.

Those facing hearings May 6 are Michael Lee Kapsalakis, 19, Thomas Floyd Jackson II, 19, Stephen Ray Cornelison, 21, and Gregory Charles Cooper, 21, all UNC students; and Marcus W. Williams, 17, of Carrboro, and Samuel Ellis McDonald, 18, of Chapel Hill.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A light private plane attempting to land crashed into the corner of a house Wednesday night, killing six persons aboard and two in the building.

Bodies found in the burned out two-engine Beechcraft Bonanza which came to rest between two houses were believed to be those of two Austin doctors, the wife and two teen-age daughters of one of them and a medical student.

Fred A. Bobbitt, 23, died in one of the two houses set ablaze when the plane plummeted into a residential area a quarter mile short of the runway. His 19-year-old wife Peggy died several hours later of burns.

Justice of the Peace Bob Kuhn said checkbooks and other personal effects indicated two of those in the plane were Dr. Robert G. Farris and Dr. B. E. Becker Jr., neurosurgeons returning from a medical conference in Washington, D.C.

Hours after the crash police said the others aboard were believed to be Mrs. Farris and the Farris daughters, Marilyn, 13, and Judy, 17, and James Dickens, a medical student from Galveston.

The Bobbitt's 4-month-old baby was found unharmed in a bedroom.

A passerby, John Griggs, 33, suffered minor burns when he dashed into the house and carried out Mrs. Bobbitt.

Sadie Sauter Elementary School has been accredited by the State Department of School Accreditation in Raleigh.

Principal J.E. Spruill reports that a letter of April 17 informed that Sadie Sauter School had met all requirements for full accreditation. This decision was based on a preliminary report and information forwarded by Spruill on April 6.

Spruill stated this is the first time in the history of the school that it has been accredited, and that the principal basis for this is that the school now had adequate supplies and equipment, as well as a qualified staff and an up to date instructional program.

"We are proud of this," Spruill commented, "and I feel the staff and the community are to be commended for their earnest efforts in making Sadie Sauter another of the schools in the state to make the accredited list."

NEW HYMNS

LEIGH, England (AP) — Cleaned-up versions of bawdy rugby songs will be sung as hymns at a sportsmen's festival being organized in this Lancashire town. "I see no reason why we shouldn't take a dirty song and turn it into a hymn," said the Rev. Richard Plant, the local Methodist minister. "I just hope the players don't lapse into the original words."

Sihanoukville Is Given Old Name

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Sihanoukville, the Cambodian seaport Prince Norodom Sihanouk built and named for himself, has been renamed by the leaders who deposed him as Cambodia's chief of state last month.

Now it's Kompong Som, the name of the village it was before Sihanouk gave it the urban development treatment. That's also the name of the bay on which it is situated.

Would Require Justices Face Test Of Voters

CHICAGO (AP) — U.S. Supreme Court justices should face voters for approval or rejection at periodic intervals, Chief Judge Donald H. Hunter of the Indiana Supreme Court said Wednesday.

Hunter, speaking at the DePaul University Law School, proposed a constitutional amendment which would permit the president to appoint justices from among nominees submitted by "an independent, bipartisan commission."

After appointment, justices would serve for a fixed term before appearing on the ballot in a national election. Voters would mark yes or no to determine whether the justice kept his seat.

Hunter, a Republican, said Senate rejection of two of President Nixon's nominees to the Supreme Court reflects "the frustration of the American people over the nation's highest court."

'Suicide' Warning By Labor Sec.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
While Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz warned that big pay increases in long-term labor contracts could cause national economic suicide, one labor union has settled for pay increases substantially below the national rise in living costs and another sought an agreement way above it.

Shultz told a 3,000 United Auto Workers at a convention in Atlantic City, N.J., Wednesday, "We suggest, in your own interest, that you don't pin yourself to escalated costs projected far into the future."

He cited some three-year construction contracts for wage hikes of 15 per cent a year as "a formula for suicide" when projected across an industry. However, he added, "The President has not pointed at the worker as the scapegoat."

He predicted living costs would rise 6 per cent this year. In Atlanta, city laborers ended a 36-day strike with a contract settlement providing wage increases of 4.3 per cent.

The 2,500 strikers, members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, primarily consisted of black laborers in the city's street, sewer, sanitation and parks departments.

City officials said the pay increase would boost the hourly wage of a garbage worker from $2.23 to $2.34.

On the other hand, many truck drivers have been conducting wildcat strikes in Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis and Los Angeles to demand wage hikes of $1.65 an hour, or 41.25 per cent, over three years.

The national Teamsters Union has tentatively agreed to a contract providing pay increases of $1.10 an hour, or 27.50 per cent, over three years. Some independent Chicago truckers have won settlements for the 41.25 per cent increase over three years.

The Chicago Tribune reported in a copyright story today that a high-ranking Teamster official said union leaders would meet in Washington next week to urge wage negotiations be reopened on the national contract.

The newspaper said two officials from each of 350 locals involved in national Teamsters talks will meet with the Frank E. Fitzsimmons, the union's acting president, to repudiate the tentative contract.

It appeared the rank-and-file unionists will demand whatever Chicago's drivers get, as they did in 1967.

The latest of a series of violent incidents connected with the strike occurred in Akron, Ohio, where police said, a gang of strikers threw rocks at working drivers.

Teacher strikes continued in Los Angeles and Minneapolis, both called to demand increased pay and smaller classes.

In Los Angeles, 5,500 members of the Service Employees Local 99, AFL-CIO, were voting on a resolution to join a walkout by about half the city's 25,000 teachers. Voting trends indicated Local 99 would strike. The union represents truck drivers, cafeteria workers, custodial and grounds personnel, office machine and telephone operators and storekeepers.

In New York, sources close to the labor negotiations involving the city's four major daily newspapers reported a showdown appeared likely in the "near future."

Captured Rifles To Be Given Cambodia

NEW YORK (AP) — The Nixon administration has decided to supply the Cambodian government with several thousand automatic rifles captured from North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in South Vietnam, the New York Times reported today.

The Times, quoting administration officials in a Washington story, said the Cambodian government had been warned against "inflated expectations" of further American military assistance when told of the decision.

White House press officers said they had no comment on the Times report. A State Department spokesman said no decision had been made on Cambodia's request for weapons.

The decision to supply the rifles of Soviet design was transmitted last Friday in a cable from Washington to Lloyd M. Rives, the U.S. charge d'affaires in Phnom Penh, the Times said.

The weapons are of Chinese Communist manufacture, the Times quoted the informants as saying, and presumably could be transferred at some point along the border between Cambodia and South Vietnam.

The message said the United States did not have any ammunition for the arms and suggested that Indonesia be queried as a possible source, the Times said.

Probing Local Robbery Report

Police today are continuing their investigation of reported robbery incident on West Fifth Street last night.

Lester Vermont Chalmers III of 113 C Scott Drive, told police that four men grabbed him as he was walking along West Fifth Street about 9:30 p.m., held him, and took his wallet, watch and a ring, according to Chief T.E. Gladson.

Chalmers, Gladson noted, said he was walking Eastward from Pitt Memorial Hospital when the incident took place near the Davis Street intersection.

No money was contained in his wallet, Chalmers said. He reported the value of the watch as $300 and valued the ring at $2.

Egyptian Bomber Hits Deep In Occupied Sinai

TEL AVIV (AP) — An Egyptian air force bomber attacked an Israeli paramilitary settlement 52 miles east of the Suez Canal at 1:30 this morning, the Israeli military command announced. It was one of Egypt's deepest penetrations into the occupied Sinai Desert since the June 1967 war.

The plane dropped a number of bombs on the Nahal Yam outpost, on Sinai's northern coast, but no casualties were reported.

The Egyptian military command said a number of Egyptian fighter-bombers made the raid and inflicted "heavy damage in men and material." It said all planes returned safely.

It was the third Egyptian air attack on Israeli positions in Sinai in four days. The Israelis claimed two Egyptian planes were shot down in the previous strikes.

Meanwhile, three visiting American women and 12 other persons were recovering from injuries received Wednesday when a grenade exploded in the main square of the occupied town of Nablus.

Tourism Minister Moshe Kol claimed no stop had been scheduled for the tourist bus in Nablus. The bus cooperative said it was investigating.

It was the third attack on a group of tourists since the 1967 war, and tourist officials are worried about the effect on tourism, a major earner of foreign exchange for the Jewish state.

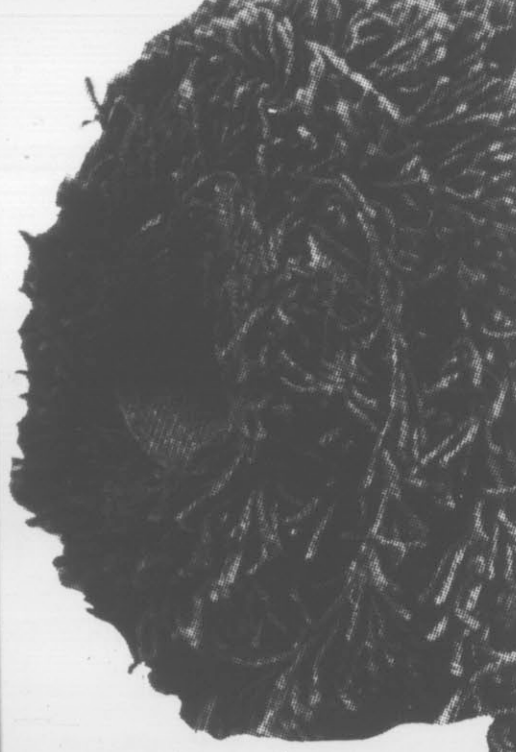

The Israeli command also announced that two Arab guerrillas were killed Wednesday night in a clash with a border patrol near Shetula, on the western Lebanese frontier. A spokesman said guns in Lebanon also fired a number of shells at the settlements of Zarit and Manara, but they did no damage. He said the fire was returned.

Report Killing N.Korean Agent

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean security forces Thursday killed one North Korean agent in the east coastal area of Samchok, about 60 miles south of the demilitarized zone, the counterespionage command announced. The troops, who acted on a tip-off from villagers, seized one Russian-made pistol, three hand grenades and some communications equipment, the command said.

At One Time, Couldn't Give Away Coveted Island

AP News Special
By RICHARD DAW
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — While be-mused North Carolinians watch, the state is fighting an enterprising businessman for the right to pay $5.5 million for a deserted island which once couldn't be given away.

The rallying cry in the see-saw struggle over the 12,000-acre complex of sand dunes and salt marshes known variously as Smith Island and Bald Head Island is one which strikes many a responsive chord: Conservation.

The businessman, William R. Henderson, a High Point advertising executive, wants to create a plush resort on the island, nestled off North Carolina's lower Atlantic coast at the mouth of the Cape Fear River.

Gov. Bob Scott, spurred by conservationists, vows he'll see that the island comes under state control for preservation in its natural state.

Both Henderson—on behalf of his corporation—and the governor—on behalf of the state—are ready to shell out the $5.5 million being asked for the island by its owner, Frank Sherrill, a wealthy Charlotte restaurant owner.

But both seem to face the same problem: How to get the money.

Apparently in a race against time, Henderson's Carolina Cape Fear Corp. is trying to raise $7.5 million through provisional sales contracts which offer tracts on the island at $25,000 each.

Henderson insists the sales of the tracts are "not a factor" in whether his corporation will be able to buy the island. But he is showing no signs of having the purchase money readily available from other sources, or of being willing to use it if he does.

Neither Henderson nor Sherrill will say, but the corporation's option to purchase the island reportedly will expire July 5, although Scott says he understands it is renewable under certain circumstances, the details of which are not known.

Meanwhile, Scott is banking on the state's legal ability to bottle up Henderson's plans in hopes that Sherrill will eventually be free of his agreement with Henderson's corporation.

Standing in the wings is the Nature Conservancy, a Washington-based conservation organization which has agreed to buy the island—if Henderson doesn't—and hold it in trust for the state.

Scott is considering two ways of getting money for the state to acquire the island from the Nature Conservancy—an appropriation of state funds by the General Assembly, and a campaign to raise money through public contributions.

His agreement with the Nature Conservancy would give the state three years to come up with the money.

Scott's determined effort to acquire the island comes at a time when conservation is uppermost in many minds, a trend of the times.

But in years past, the state showed considerably less interest in obtaining title to the windswept dunes and lush marches.

As late as 1933, an owner of the island, Thomas F. Boyd, offered to give it to the state as a state forest if the state would pay back taxes of $8,900 on it.

After several unsuccessful attempts to get the state to take his offer, a frustrated Boyd commented: "It seems it is harder to give away a thing than it is to sell it."

When Boyd failed to pay the taxes, the island fell under ownership of Brunswick County in a tax foreclosure.

Three years later, another member of the Boyd family, R.

C. Boyd, bought the island from the county for $11,000, and shortly afterwards the General Assembly authorized its purchase by the state.

But the authorization didn't provide any money to make the purchase and, once again, Brunswick County took possession in a tax foreclosure.

Sherrill bought most of Bald Head a couple of years later from the county and with additional purchases through the years gradually acquired control of the entire island complex. It was 1963 when he obtained the last portion, a 40-acre tract of Coast Guard property sold as government surplus.

One history of the island traces its title back 250 years to Landgrave Thomas Smith of South Carolina, to whom it was granted in 1713. A descendant, Benjamin Smith—once a governor of North Carolina—sold it in 1833 for $60.

That history of the island was drawn up by Charles Fraser, a South Carolina businessman whose plans to develop Bald Head last year set off the current "Save Bald Head" effort.

Fraser had guided the plush resort development of Hilton Head Island, off the South Carolina coast. But faced with the determined opposition of Scott's administration to similar plans for Bald Head, Fraser let his option to buy the island expire.

(Fraser later lined up on the side of conservationists in South Carolina when the German corporation, BASF, announced plans to build a chemical manufacturing complex near Hilton Head. He was a prime mover of forces which, with the help of Interior Secretary Walter Hickel, persuaded BASF to delay plans for construction.)

North Carolina's strongest card in the Bald Head Island struggle appears to be its ability to control access to the island.

The state apparently could block the building of a bridge to the mainland and could restrict boat traffic.

As it was put by one top Scott aide, Roy Sowers, director of the Department of Conservation and Development: "The only way anybody could get there would be to swim or fly."

Henderson, however, insists he can surmount the obstacles and is touring the state seeking buyers for the island lots.

Furthermore, Henderson contends that as a former official of the Conservation and Development Department, he is acutely conscious of conservationist considerations.

Henderson was in charge of the department's Division of Commerce and Industry in the administration of Gov. Luther Hodges.

When he first announced plans for the development, Henderson said the island's ecology—its natural relationships of life and environment—would be taken into consideration. The island complex is made up of about 3,000 acres of land above the mean high water mark and 9,000 acres of marsh, tidal basin and inland bays.

Scientists say it is one of the few semitropical sea islands left uninhabited and offers them a unique natural laboratory for the study of semitropical plants and fishlife.

The Worry Clinic Tensions Need Simple Outlet

Matthew's question involves a health secret that everybody should understand. For we have two nervous systems. Drain off tension via action of the muscles that fasten to bones! Then you are not as likely to get peptic ulcers, spastic colitis, high blood pressure, indigestion or even stage fright!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE M-582: Matthew, aged 10, is one of my grandchildren. As we watched a TV show the other night, Matthew asked: "Grandpa, why do you always twirl your pencil like that when you look at television?"

found that it was only 64. Yet occasionally something may occur that breaks through to my heart rate and zooms it. For example, I was once watching a prize fight over TV and felt myself quite worked up, maybe because I used to box and have always enjoyed such a contest.

Although I was half reclining, with my feet on a hassock, my pulse rate at the moment was 92, yet it normally wouldn't be 70. Luckily, on most occasions I show little change in my heart rate while excited by a television performance.

Yet once in a blue moon my nervous tension short circuits across into my autonomic system and zooms my heart rate.

For we have two nervous systems in the human body. The brain and spinal cord comprise the central nervous system.

It involves thinking, speaking and our sensory response to the

Until he asked, I was not even aware that I had taken out my ballpoint pen and was toying it, end over end, and then catching it.

"Matthew," I replied, "I do this to get rid of my pent-up nervous energy."

"Instead of smoking cigarettes, like the usual smoker, to drain off surplus tension, I twirl my pen or pencil."

Once recently, I reached but found I had left my pen in another suit.

So I tried to enjoy the show but after habitually reaching twice more and finding no pen or pencil, I felt so frustrated that I had to arise from my easy chair and walk upstairs to find a pen.

Then I returned and twirled it or the next hour.

"Dr. Crane," you may wonder, "do you have high blood pressure or a fast pulse along with your nervous tension?"

Fortunately, I don't, for my nervous tension seems to be separated from my heart on most occasions.

Recently, for example, I mentioned this fact to my son David, who is also a medic.

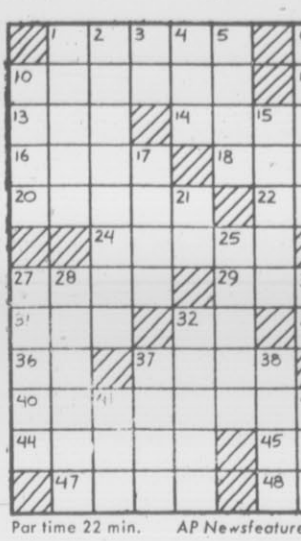

We were watching an exciting sports TV program.

"Check my pulse," I challenged him, "and see for yourself that my heart isn't linked with my pen twirling."

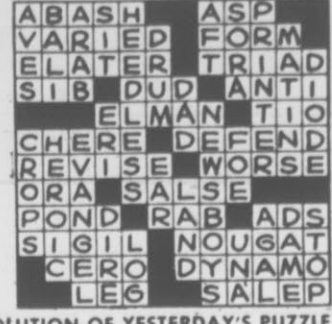

So David took my pulse and

Peace Corps Today Accepts Families

Entire families are now being accepted for service in the Peace Corps. "Men with families can now join," David Poole, Peace Corps representative explained.

A recruiting drive began Monday at East Carolina University campus, seeking candidates—Men, women, or families. This is the second recruitment drive this year, and according to Poole, a number of changes have been made in the application and eligibility rules.

"Those interested in volunteering no longer have to take an examination," Poole said. "All they have to do is fill out the application and talk with our representatives about their interests and skills."

For family groups, Poole noted "pay-is based upon the number of children they have and the area in which they work. Usually, wives can get involved in teaching sewing, cooking or other household skills at the same time their husbands are working at advisory jobs."

The Peace Corps has an arrangement to deposit in an American bank the same amount of pay each month that the volunteer receives in the country in which he works so that when the volunteer returns to the U.S. he has some reserve cash.

Interested persons are asked to come by the Student Union Building on ECU campus for information and application. People with business backgrounds and science teachers are in demand at this time.

Giveaway-Heir Being Detained

BURLINGAME, Calif. (AP) — The sheriff's office says Michael James Brody Jr., oleomargarine heir who once said he would give away his fortune, is being detained at the Belmont Hills Neuropsychiatric Center.

Deputies said Brody, 21, had complained that he had been kidnapped for six or seven days external world.

The second nervous system is called the "autonomic," and it looks after the automatic physiological processes, such as breathing, heart beat, blood pressure, digestion, sweating, etc.

But these two nervous systems are connected at each vertebra with a nerve fiber that can permit the excitement in the central system (brain) to short circuit across into the autonomic.

When you have stage fright, be grateful if your hands shake! For if you block off such outlets of tension via the voluntary muscles, then that nervous energy will short circuit into your heart, lungs, etc., and also upset digestion.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The trouble-plagued TFX warplane has cost more than $9 billion, two Senate investigators have testified.

In an appearance Wednesday before a Senate investigations subcommittee, Thomas E. Nunnally and Romulo Garcia said total costs for the Air Force F111, including $377 million spent on a rejected Navy version, would reach an estimated $9,174,900,000.

This means each of the 554 planes scheduled for delivery will cost $16.6 million each, they said.

Nunnally said the original proposal called for 22 planes at a total cost of about $471 million.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee has approved a $20.24 billion military procurement authorization bill, including $1.45 billion for the controversial Safeguard antimissile system.

The House is expected to act on the measure next week. It will then go to the Senate where expansion of the Safeguard system faces heavy opposition.

The bill also includes $200 million in contingency funds that the Air Force is expected to use as part of the $645 million emergency financial aid requested by the Lockheed Aircraft Corp., builder of the C5 cargo plane.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some federal judges have been told by the Justice Department they are overstepping their bounds in blocking sanctions against air controllers in the recent sickout.

"We feel the matter of sanctions is a matter of executive discretion of the administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration and not the judicial branch," said William D. Ruckelshaus, assistant attorney general in charge of the civil division.

U.S. District Judge Thomas D. Lambros of Cleveland set the pattern when he ordered air traffic controllers to take physical examinations. Those found fit were fined if they refused to return to work.

Lambros then blocked FAA action to punish the controllers before his ruling by refusing to pay them for the days they were absent and giving them days off later without pay.

Ruckelshaus said the department was attempting to persuade judges not to block sanctions in the air traffic dispute because of precedents it might set for other federal workers who might strike the government in violation of law.

Golf Classes To

Begin Monday

The Greenville Recreation Center announces the commencement of golf classes on Monday, from 9:30 to 11:00 a.m. These classes, designed for beginners only, are open for registration on Thursday and Friday by contacting the Elm Street Center, telephone 752-2355.

The first session will be held in the Elm Street Gymnasium, and lessons will run for approximately six consecutive Mondays. Registration is limited and is taken on a first-come, first-served basis. There is no charge for the lessons.

An $11,236 award from the National Science Foundation has been made to the Mathematics Department of East Carolina University toward financing an in-service institute for junior high teachers of mathematics. The math institute has been scheduled from Sept. 9, 1970, through May 26, 1971, and will consist of weekly classes in modern math, devices and new techniques of teaching mathematics to adolescents and modern theories of learning math. Participants will become acquainted with materials available in the new mathematics laboratory at East Carolina.

Targets Of Union Drive

GREENSBORO (AP) — S. Leigh Wilson, executive director of the North Carolina League of Municipalities, says cities are "the present target for labor unions since the federal courts struck down statutes prohibiting unions among government employees." And he added that efforts to unionize city employees can be expected to increase and spread to North Carolina counties and the state.

He spoke Wednesday to members of the league representing North Carolina cities of over 30,000 population.

Ernest Ball, associate general council of the league, discussed legislative needs of the cities. He said the needs include increasing the 6 per cent penalty on delinquent taxes, removing the 6 per cent interest ceiling on urban renewal and housing bonds, and increasing the cities' share in the state gasoline tax.

The league's general counsel, Larry G. Ford, said the larger cities are missing more than $12 million a year by not sharing in the local option sales tax.

Disorders Kept General Silent

WEST LONG BEACH, N.J. (AP) — Gen. Maxwell Taylor, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has been prevented by antiwar militants from discussing Vietnam at Montmouth College.

About 30 students attempted to seize the microphone when the general was about to address an audience of 200 Wednesday night. Scuffling broke out and Taylor was escorted from the room.

He came back later but was interrupted by boos, and he left. Subject of the speech was "Vietnam, a Historical Perspective." Taylor's appearance was sponsored by the Student Union Arts and Letters series.

BICYCLE BUILT FOR CUE

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (UPI) — Boys on bicycles are helping prostitutes keep track of police movements, Councilman George Howles said. He said the prostitutes arrived by the truckload in Wolverhampton streets and urged stiffer law enforcement.

Would Be Happy To Return Lost Swarm Of Bees

HONOLULU (AP) — "If anybody is missing a swarm of bees between 12 and 6 p.m. every day," says Cheryl De Hart, "he should know that we've found them and would be happy to return them."

Mrs. De Hart complained to newsmen Wednesday that she and her two children have been trapped in their home during the six-hour period each day since Friday, when the bees descended on their front lawn to soak up the water sprinkled on newly planted grass.

She has been stung twice and her 18-month-old son has been stung once.

She called the Honolulu Star-Bulletin seeking help in getting rid of the bees.

"I just thought that the guy who owns the bees might read this and learn to water his own lawn," Mrs. De Hart said.

No Taxes, No Bonds Involved In PTI Voting

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of four articles prepared by Pitt Technical Institute concerning the May 2 vote to expand Pitt Tech to a community college.)

Question: How will the vote for Pitt Tech to become a community college affect taxes?

Answer: It should first be clarified that this vote is not a bond issue. Neither is it a vote for a tax increase to support Pitt Technical Institute and Community College.

Pitt Tech receives approximately 92 percent of its funds from State sources for instructional salaries and supplies. It receives approximately 8 percent from County funds. County money is used for maintenance, utilities, janitorial supplies, and physical improvements.

The school must occupy and operate its two buildings whether it is a technical institute or a community college. Therefore, the expense to the County to expand the school's programs would be negligible.

This vote does not ask for a tax increase. It simply asks permission for the county to provide its share of support for the school as a community college; whereas, it now supports it as a technical institute. Appropriations have varied from year to year, according to needs, and the maximum has been 6.4 cents per $100 property valuation. If the people of Pitt County vote "yes" on May 2, they would place a limit of 7 cents per $100 property valuation on the amount of tax revenue that could be appropriated.

More than likely, the amount of tax money to be appropriated will not be near this 7 cents mark. This does, however, place a ceiling that the county cannot exceed. If the vote is "no" there will continue to be no limit on the amount of county tax that can be levied to support the institution.

Answers to other questions concerning the vote to expand Pitt Technical Institute to a community college will appear in articles to follow this one.
