Leaders Of North Vietnam, The Pathet Lao And Viet Cong Join Sihanouk Urging Defeat Of U.S.

By DAVID MASON
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Leaders of North Vietnam, the Pathet Lao and the Viet Cong joined Prince Norodom Sihanouk today in a call for the defeat of the United States and the governments of Cambodia, South Vietnam and Laos.

Western diplomats in Vientiane, the Laotian capital, said the North Vietnamese air force would fly Sihanouk to northeast Cambodia within a week to head a provisional government in Cambodian territory controlled by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

The Viet Cong Radio said the deposed Cambodian chief of state met on the Vietnamese-Lao border with North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong; Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the Communist Pathet Lao movement in Laos, and Nguyen Huu Tho, head of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong.

The broadcast said the meeting "strongly condemned the U.S. imperialists invading Cambodia and the Lon Nol-Sirik Mat clique, which is giving Cambodia to the United States and massacring Khmers, Vietnamese and Chinese."

The four leaders appealed to all Indochinese people "to increase their unity and push ahead with the struggle against the common enemy, which is the U.S. imperialists and their henchmen" in Saigon, Phnom Penh and Vientiane.

In battle action reported today, Cambodian troops exchanged sporadic fire with a Viet Cong unit holed up in a Buddhist pagoda in the crossroads town of Angkassom. But a spokesman in Phnom Penh said the Cambodians would not attack the pagoda because they considered it sacred.

It was the fifth day of fighting in Angkassom, about 36 miles south of Phnom Penh. The fighting has cut the capital off from Takeo, the provincial capital just east of Angkassom. A military communique reported that two bridges about six miles north of Angkassom on the main highway to Phnom Penh had been blown up during the night.

Spokesmen in the capital also said there was heavy fighting between Cambodian forces and hundreds of Vietnamese in the town of Chhlong, on the Mekong River 120 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

The Viet Cong now have cut five of the seven highways leading out of Phnom Penh at varying distances from the capital and are expected to move soon to cut the road that runs southwest to the major port of Kompong Som, formerly Sihanoukville. It is the capital's major road connection with the sea. Only this road and another that runs northwest to Thailand were open along their entire length Sunday.

The Cambodian government claimed in a letter to the South Vietnamese government that Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops have killed or captured more than 3,500 Cambodians and have destroyed more than 700 homes in the past month.

Foreign Minister Yem Sambaur also told South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam: "At no time has it been in the intentions of the present leaders of Cambodia to conduct a policy of persecution of innocent foreigners." But he added that "my government finds itself obliged to take certain necessary measures to assure the security of the country, following the invasion of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in my country and their attacks, launched openly against neutral and independent Cambodia."

U.S. Forces In Europe Trimmed To Low Level

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has trimmed its forces in Europe to about 300,000 men, the lowest level in 20 years, according to new Pentagon figures.

This is 10,000 below the last official figure and the smallest American force in Europe since 1950 when it stood at 145,000 men.

The newest reductions resulted from streamlining of support and administrative personnel, not by trimming combat strength, Pentagon authorities said.

The drop from 310,000 to 300,000 occurred over a span of months and followed similar cutbacks aimed at saving money and reducing the gold flow.

The last U.S. reduction of combat elements in Europe was in 1968 when two Army brigades and some other units were brought back, although these units technically remain earmarked for NATO.

The United States has pledged not to remove any more combat forces from Europe through mid-1971. And there are indications any withdrawals after that time will be held to a relatively small number.

Although the Nixon administration is headed on a new foreign policy course designed to minimize American overseas commitments, there appears to be substantial sentiment among both civilian and military leaders to maintain the American military presence in Europe at as high a level as possible.

Army leaders are known to be in a mood to fight any substantial trimming of combat elements in Europe, believing their forces facing the Iron Curtain are close to the lowest level consistent with an ability to hold back any significant Communist thrust long enough to allow help to reach Europe from the United States and for NATO countries to mobilize.

The generals place small faith in forces based in the United States for immediate use in an emergency situation in Europe.

They claim that forces present on the line are the only ones that count in such a situation.

A partial U.S. pullback from Korea, perhaps next year, is considered more likely than combat force reduction in Europe.

The United States now has about 64,000 troops in Korea, chiefly in two Army divisions. One of these divisions mans part of the demilitarized zone and the other is held in reserve.

U.S. Army leaders reportedly feel they could live with a reduction of perhaps a division in Korea. They regard the South Korean troops as of high fighting quality and competent to hold the line against the North Koreans, with U.S. air support.

Picture-Phones Said On Way

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C. (AP)—An official of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. predicted today that by 1980 300,000 picture-phones will be in use in the United States, there will be 70 million additional telephones and the number of long-distance calls will increase three-fold.

The speaker was William E. Albert of New York, AT&T's administrator of rates and tariffs. He addressed executives attending a data processing seminar sponsored by the American Textile Manufacturers Institute.

Boulevard For Bicyclists Only

SEATTLE (AP) — Six miles of scenic Lake Washington boulevard were closed to automobiles for seven hours Sunday and turned over to the exclusive use of bicyclists.

The boulevard winds through an area of parks and private homes bordering Lake Washington. Similar closings are planned the last Sunday of each month through September.

For several years, the city has cooperated with the League of American Wheelmen in turning a section of the street over to bicyclists on some Sundays.

Jenkins Endorses Plan Of College-Transfer For Pitt Technical Institute

Dr. Leo Jenkins toured Pitt Technical Institute facilities Sunday with P.T.I. President William E. Fulford, Jr., discussing ways that East Carolina University and the proposed Pitt Community College could join forces to make Pitt County the educational hub of eastern North Carolina.

The open house drew a crowd of approximately 3,000 people who viewed exhibits and demonstrations from all the institute's programs, from bricklaying to operating room technology.

Jenkins said, "I am very impressed with the tremendous service Pitt Tech is providing for this county. It has stimulated industrial growth, improved commerce and agriculture, and provided invaluable community services."

"Dr. Fulford and I agreed," he continued, "that the addition of the college - transfer program here would give all our citizens the opportunities they deserve to pursue higher education. We at East Carolina are constantly striving for academic excellence and service to the young people of the region, but we cannot teach them all."

"There are many in the area who cannot or do not wish to attend a university. By having a community college here, we open the academic doors to all our people."

Dr. Fulford expressed his appreciation for Dr. Jenkins' visit to the Pitt Tech campus and added, "We are fortunate to have a fine educator like Dr. Jenkins supporting our expansion to community college status. We all have the same goal — making higher education available to all those who want it."

"President Jenkins is also encouraged about the way in which our proposed expansion will strengthen technical and vocational education in the county. He, like we at Pitt Tech, understands the great importance of all types of education beyond high school."

Louisiana's Capitol Is Blasted By Dynamite; Senate Chamber Target

By VERNON A. GUIDRY JR.
Associated Press Writer

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Police dogs sniffed the corridors of Louisiana's skyscraper Capitol today in search of clues to a bomber who blasted the marble Senate chamber into rubble with dynamite.

No one was injured.

Gov. John McKeithen called the Sunday night blast the work of a madman or a revolution.

Initial police searches of the building, its park-like grounds and interviews in neighboring homes turned up nothing.

Estimates of damage ranged from $50,000 by McKeithen to $500,000 by Senate Secretary William Roberts.

Police agreed that dynamite was the explosive agent. Fire Chief Edgar Lejeune ruled out failure of mechanical or electrical equipment. No fire was associated with the 9:36 p.m. explosion, he said.

Damage to the two-story chamber was general, but the main force was spent in the alcove occupied by the lieutenant governor and the Senate staff when the Senate is in session.

McKeithen said the bombing would not delay the start May 11 of the 60-day legislative session.

If the Senate chamber is not repaired, senators could gather someplace else, he said. The 34-story capitol was built while Huey Long was governor. It is open to tourists during the day and guides reported a heavy flow Sunday.

At 4 p.m., the building is locked and only persons with specific business are admitted after signing a register.

Radio Cuba Says Small Force Was Wiped Out

MIAMI (AP) — Radio Havana said today that Cuba had destroyed a 13-man invasion force with every man killed or captured 10 days after the guerrillas landed.

The broadcast by Fidel Castro's official voice did not say how many of the guerrillas were killed and how many were still alive, but reported: "Not one escaped and all the arms, the bullets and the equipment were seized."

None of the officials of Alpha 66, a militantly anti-Castro exile group in Miami which said last week it had landed a guerrilla force in Cuba, was available for comment.

Castro first announced April 19 that an invasion force had landed on his island. In a communique over his own signature — an unusual move — the bearded prime minister said the landing party was composed of mercenaries who came to Cuba from the United States and were armed with guns of the "Yankee Army."

Alpha 66 countered that the guerrillas were Cuban peasants who had gone home to fight to liberate their homeland from communism.

GRANT APPROVED

RALEIGH (AP) — A $66,976 grant for construction of a neighborhood facilities building in Sylva, in Jackson County, was announced Saturday by the Appalachian Regional Commission.

April 17, Radio Havana said, near Baracoa in Oriente Province on the eastern end of Cuba. Communist radio broadcasts, monitored in Miami, since then reported a series of battles that trimmed the invasion force to only four men.

Two of the remaining men were captured Friday and two more were seized on Sunday. Castro forces suffered no casualties in the final encounters, the broadcast said.

"The whole group of 13 mercenaries has been put out of combat in a few days in spite of the rugged and lonely terrain," the broadcast said today. "Any mercenary that attempts to invade our land will run the same hazard."

Castro's initial statement said four of his men had been killed and two more wounded.

Drug-Use Called Means Of Escapism

"The name of the game is home," Dr. Bill Bethune told an audience composed largely of parents at a meeting on drug use at Aycock Junior High School yesterday afternoon.

"Drug use is just one of many avenues of getting away from unpleasant situations," the director of Cherry Hospital's alcoholic treatment center said. A child who can bring his failures as well as his successes home isn't likely to cop out. If a parent can be counted on when the kid's in trouble, if he can tell and show his child that he believes in God and applies his beliefs to his daily life; if he can tell and show his child that he loves him for himself, not for what he likes for him to be, he isn't likely to run into problems.

"Drug addiction is not based on a liking for a particular drug any more than pulling up a blanket when it's cold is based on love for the blanket. Use of drugs or alcohol or whatever is based on a need to turn off — not on. Teachers sometimes ask me how to recognize a child on drugs. I tell them, but I also tell them it's too late then. They must be able to recognize prospective drug users and offer them emotional help.

"Drug addiction isn't the only symptom of our anxious and materialistic society. Psychosomatic illness, insanity, and suicide all are increasing among our young people, as well as our adults."

In Dr. Bethune's opinion our problems are based on two mistakes — confusing success and greatness and letting communications among people break down. He said that while most in this area say they believe in Jesus Christ, they would only consider him a hippie today since he had no property and no transportation, preached sedition, told his parents where to get off, had long hair and a beard, and was dirty with only one change of clothes.

"Our young people see that we consider success outdoing our neighbors, having beach homes and several automobiles, sending them to the best schools, and the like. They rebel. Some try drugs. Some merely go away in some other fashion."

"I could have entertained you with facts about the effects of certain drugs, about the treatment of addicts, about how addicts act, but that is not what I was brought back from the 'other world' of drug addiction myself for. I want to help you combat the causes. It's practically impossible to convince a person who has already tried drugs that he must come back to the world he found repulsive to begin with. To begin with I say redevelop the traits of young people that make them know you're 'straight but not square.'

Become aware; become more spontaneous, become more intimate, as you were when you were young. Don't try to be one of them because they won't accept you, but be a person they can look up to because you do know what's happening, what's important, what they need."

After Dr. Bethune's talk, those present divided themselves into three discussion groups led by Mrs. Maxine Flowers, Philip Clark, both social workers with the Coastal Plains Mental Health Center, and Mrs. Lib LeConte. Dr. Bethune visited each group. He has been invited back to Greenville by the young people present to speak only to them at a later date.

ECU Grads Will Hear South Carolina University Prexy

Dr. Thomas F. Jones, president of the University of South Carolina and one of the nation's most vibrant and imaginative educational administrators, will address East Carolina University graduates at 1970 ECU Commencement exercises on May 31.

Announcement of Jones' acceptance to deliver the Commencement Address was made by Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of East Carolina University.

"We are very pleased and proud to have Dr. Jones as our Commencement speaker," Dr. Jenkins said. "Not only is he a scholar and scientist, he is a proven administrator and a man of imagination and energy. He is a motivator."

Dr. Jones became president of the University of South Carolina in 1962 after having served four years as head of the School of Electrical Engineering at Purdue University.

At Purdue he developed a new curriculum, originated a special undergraduate program for honor students interested in research and greatly expanded graduate studies and research. He holds the B.S. degree from Mississippi State and the Masters and Doctorate degrees from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In 1966 he was awarded the Doctor of Laws degree from The Citadel.

As president of the University of South Carolina his emphasis is on curriculum reform, intellectual environment, special opportunities for honor students, service to the state, and graduate studies. The University has flourished under his leadership.

Actresses Make Merry With Musical Instruments

Ali McGraw and Phyllis Diller have something in common. Both play the harpsichord. And believe it or not, Phyllis plays it better.

"You can't imagine the number of hours I've spent learning to play the harpsichord for my new movie, 'Love Story,'" says Ali, who starred in "Goodbye Columbus." Even though her own playing won't be heard in the movie—the sound of someone more proficient will be dubbed in—Ali believes her efforts will make the scene more realistic.

Phyllis Diller, madcap comedienne who reportedly got her start in a laundromat entertaining other housewives, has a houseful of instruments: a flute and a zither. According to Phyllis, "Everybody plays everything."

An actress with almost as much musical versatility as Phyllis Diller is Vicki Lawrence, who dances and plays Carol Burnett's look-alike sister on Carol's weekly television show. Vicki, who became interested in music while in high school, plays the piano, drums, guitar and trumpet.

The American Music Conference (AMC) reveals that many Hollywood actresses play musical instruments, either for movie roles or for personal enjoyment. Several learned to play in order to accompany themselves at voice lessons.

The guitar is popular among actresses. Among the guitarists are Brigitte Bardot, Betsy Drake and Diane Varsi.

Several actresses, replying to an AMC poll, said they'd like to learn to play the guitar.

Janet Leigh, who studied piano for four years would rather play the guitar "because you can take it with you wherever you go and have music all the time."

Julie Harris, who took piano lessons "on and off as a child," also would like to learn to play the guitar. "I love folk music and the guitar is perfect for this," she said.

Tammy Grimes studied the piano for five years and still plays "a little bit;" she also studied the recorder. But she, too, wants to learn the guitar because of its "universality as far as type of music played, convenience of size, ease of accompaniment."

Piano players are legion in Hollywood. Actresses who relax at the keyboard include Anne Baxter, Ann Southern Janet Blair, Diana Lynn and Kitty Carlisle. Grace Kelly, now the princess of Monaco, also plays the piano.

Other instruments find their way into actresses' hands. Nina Foch and Marlene Dietrich both play the violin; Miss Dietrich also plays the musical saw.

The cello has its supporters: both Mamie Van Doren and Kathryn Hays play it.

Debbie Reynolds relaxes with the French horn and Greer Garson plays the harmonica.

Ambitious Date Hurt Her Standing

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I have been a widower for some time, and for the last year have been taking a divorcee to nice places for dinner, to good shows, and to some nice parties.

Recently, I invited her to a large formal affair. She told me she would go if I would buy her a new formal dress with shoes and purse to match, and agreed to pay to have her hair done.

Is that the way it's being done these days? CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Only by those who are willing to go for it. If the lady didn't have a presentable dress for the occasion, she'd have been ahead to borrow one. Alas, another ambitious chick who may have killed the goose that laid the golden eggs!

DEAR ABBY: The woman whose husband came to the table bare-chested prompted me to write to you.

Bob and I had been married about two years when he developed the habit of coming home from the office, stripping, except for his undershorts, and coming to the dinner table in that state of undress.

I begged him to at least wear a robe, but he refused. Then I decided to cure him once and for all.

I took a large mixing bowl and combined flour, eggs, honey, leftover baked beans, molasses—anything I happened to have around. When my husband sat down for dinner, I told him I had a "surprise" for him. Then I let him have it! I dumped this mixture down on his bare chest.

He didn't talk to me for two days [that's how long it took him to get the honey and molasses out of the hair on his chest].

I know it was a hateful thing to do, but he never came to the table without a shirt and pants on again.

BOB'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: That must have been an enormous sacrifice. No man makes a habit of displaying the body beautiful unless he's convinced that he looks great that way.

DEAR ABBY: I suggest that "BOTHERED," whose husband comes to the dinner table bare-chested, try what I did to mine 19 years ago.

When we were first married, my husband started coming to the table bare from the waist up. I asked him to please put a shirt on for dinner but he said, "I always did this at home and I don't intend to change." So I said, "Well, if you can eat half naked, so can I," and I then proceeded to peel off my blouse, slip, and bra.

He just sat there for a while and finally said, "Okay, if you'll put your clothes back on, so will I." And so we did. And to this day he has never again come to the table without a shirt. We get a good laugh now when we remember how I broke him of a very repulsive habit.

CHRISTINE FROM LOCKPORT, ILL.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, soon after we were married, started to eat his dinner without a shirt on. He didn't wear a "t" shirt or anything underneath, so I was supposed to just look at that bare chest.

I asked him nicely to please put his shirt on, but he refused. Then I told him if I was going to serve a TOPLESS man, he would have to look at a BOTTOMLESS waitress, and I started to undress. Naturally, I didn't get very far. That settled it.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

IRS Makes Marijuana More Expensive

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Using marijuana may cost a person more than he thinks if the U.S. Internal Revenue Service knows it, and if a person is arrested on charges of possessing marijuana, there is a better-than-average chance the IRS is informed.

There is a $100 per ounce (or fraction thereof) tax—termed a transfer tax—levied by the IRS against marijuana handlers. This civil tax is in addition to any penalty in any criminal action which may be taken against drug users.

This fact was pointed out by law enforcement officials and IRS representatives here recently during discussions on the enforcement of drug laws and penalties for law violations.

Classes of abuse drugs include narcotics (heroin, marijuana, demerol), hallucinogenic drugs (such as L.S.D.), sedatives (barbiturates), stimulants (amphetamines), and toxic vapors (such as glue and gasoline), according to local officers.

In an effort to combat the abuse problem at the local level, the Greenville Police Department, Pitt County Sheriff's Department and the State Bureau of Investigation recently joined forces to form a special narcotics squad to devote full-time to drug law violation investigations.

If you are caught and convicted in North Carolina of a narcotics law violation (illegal sale or possession of narcotics such as marijuana, heroin and demerol) you may be fined up to $1,000 and imprisoned for not more than five years for the first violation, while for the second and third infractions, the fine rises to $2,000 and $3,000 and possible imprisonment of from 10 to 15 years.

There are two exceptions to this.

First, when the drug possessed is marijuana in an amount less than one gram, and it is the first offense, the penalty is a lesser one.

Secondly, in cases where an adult makes available any amount of narcotic drug to a minor, the penalty is up to $3,000 fine and not less than 10 years, nor more than life imprisonment.

Penalties for violating laws regulating barbiturate and stimulant drugs include six months to five years imprisonment for the first offense of illegal sale, while for the second offense, the penalty could be one year to not more than 10 years imprisonment

The first offense of illegal possession could carry a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than two years, while conviction for second or subsequent offenses of illegal possession—a felony—could carry a fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

The federal tax on marijuana transfer applies whether a person is convicted in court of criminal charges or not, officials at the local IRS office point out.

"The tax would still apply," according to IRS official H.E. Boyd, and assessments are generally based on laboratory reports following analysis of drugs.

Boyd said the tax is collected as is any delinquent income or excise tax is collected... "as a rule... levy against a person's salary." The marijuana tax, he continued, is similar to the $10.50 per gallon tax levied against persons possessing illegal non-tax-paid whiskey.

The IRS tax, too, affects all persons in a group where marijuana is found. Boyd explained, for example, that if four persons in a car or room were passing around one marijuana cigarette, all four of the individuals would be subject to the tax.

Sen. Ervin Assails Mail Surveillance

WASHINGTON (AP)—North Carolina's Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. says Post Office Department plans to open letters from abroad to search for contraband "smacks too much of a police state."

The Morganton Democrat, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights and an acknowledged expert on constitutional law, said he finds "no justification in a free society for a regulation of this nature."

The object of Ervin's criticism—which came in a speech prepared for delivery today—was a proposal by the department to allow suspect mail to be turned over to the Customs Bureau for inspection.

Ervin said the regulation was not only of questionable necessity, but also posed a danger to constitutional safeguards against invasion of privacy, illegal searches and self-incrimination.

"The very idea of monitoring the overseas mail of over 200 million citizens in order to catch less than one per cent of the letters which might possibly contain a pornographic picture or a lottery ticket or a narcotic is patently self-defeating," he said.

Ervin also made public a letter from the Post Office Department's general counsel, David A. Nelson, in which Nelson said the rule was necessary "to prevent the mails from becoming a safe and convenient means for smuggling contraband into this country."

Nelson guaranteed that correspondence would never be read, even when suspicious letters were opened by customs inspectors.

He said only a small fraction of the millions of letters arriving in the United States from abroad annually would ever arouse enough suspicion to merit inspection.

Formally Open Pharmacy 'Normal' Again In Trinidad's Capital

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad

(AP)—Cricket players in pressed whites were in the city's parks. Sidewalk vendors sold green coconuts filled with sweet milk to strollers made thirsty by the warm sun. Men played darts and hoisted cold pints of beer in pubs during the "five o'clock swill."

Port of Spain was calm Sunday after a week of trouble.

A mutiny in the 720-man Trinidad-Tobago army collapsed Saturday. The rebel soldiers, holed up since Tuesday in the army's main base at Tetrion Bay, handed over their arms.

The mutiny ended after negotiations between the rebels and the government of Prime Minister Eric Williams. Col. Jeffrey Serrette, a former commander of the army, was reappointed, and a special commission was established to investigate the circumstances of the mutiny.

The rebels released about 30 hostages they had held on the base since Tuesday.

The mutineers, who reportedly numbered around 50 officers and men, said they rebelled over leadership at the top. Col. Stanley Johnson, the army commander, resigned Friday while the negotiations were going on. The soldiers attended a Requiem Mass on the base Sunday for the four persons killed since the crisis began last Tuesday with a Black Power riot through Port of Spain.

"We are in the precautionary stages," acting Police Commissioner Tony May said. "When I am satisfied that the country has returned to normality, I will lift the restrictions."

There are about 1,200 lakes and ponds in New Hampshire.

Foundations Provide Aid

Financial aid from three foundations is enabling the School of Music at East Carolina University to hold a workshop focusing on new strategies and techniques for the teaching of music, June 22 - July 3.

The Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation of Winston-Salem, the Burlington Industries Foundation of Greensboro and the Presser Foundation of Philadelphia are providing a major portion of the funds for the workshop.

Featured in the session will be composer - pianist Dr. Lionel Nowack of Bennington College, Vermont and Miss Barbara Hurley of New York, MMCP consultant. Both have earned national reputations for their work with the Project.

If the Shoe Fits...

BY
AVERETTE

Do you want a real bargain in a pair of shoes? Have your feet, or your children's feet measured, preferably both feet, by an experienced and concerned shoefitter. He will select a last (shape) that will fit properly and allow for growth with comfort. He will also check for heel fit, arch fit, and gapping. The concerned salesman can tell you which shoes will give better over - all performance - which shoes will give you the longest wear and the best foot health protection for the dollar. He can tell if you are walking properly by examining your old shoes and may recommend a visit to a foot doctor if you need one. A qualified salesman does not just sell you a pair of shoes, he sells you foot comfort and health protection. You pay only a fair price for the quality shoes you buy. But you will find your shoes will cost less over the years, and you may avoid corrective medical treatments as well. No item of clothing needs more careful fitting than a pair of shoes.

A New Meaning To Clean-Up

If the Chamber of Commerce - Merchants Association's Clean Up-Paint Up Week sounds like an old refrain, we should remember that it takes on new meaning this year as mankind is more conscious of what is happening to his environment. It is a time for everyone — individuals, merchants and industry — to look around to see what can be done to make the areas in which we live more

Never So Good In Albemarle

(Today's column was written by Loyal Phillips, Manager, The Daily Advance, Elizabeth City, N.C.)

By LOYAL PHILLIPS
People now living in the Albemarle never had it so good.

As a case in point, let's take the Paleo Man who roamed these parts around 10,000 years ago. It's true he was a romantic nomadic hunter and these woods and streams offered an abundance of wild game and fish. However, our poor Paleo Man had no knives, fish hooks nor bows and arrows — and not even a spear-thrower. Such gadgets had never been heard of in those woe begone days. As a matter of fact Mr. Paleo had no rocks to throw at fat wild turkey, until he learned to import rocks from the tributaries of our local streams. Since rocks are not indigenous to this region, the primitive Albemarle inhabitant probably bartered fish heads and turtle shells for rocks to fashion into weapons. The fact that burned wood was used in fashioning weapons is proof that fire had been discovered.

Our Paleo character did obtain rocks from some place because he left here sharp projectile points similar to arrow heads, and fashioned rock scrapers from hard stone. The scrapers were used for skinning animals, shaping wood spears and for other similar purposes. The era of the Paleo Man started around 10,000 BC and continued for 2,000 to 3,000 years. Presumably, he subsisted on fish, small game, wild berries, nuts and herbs.

There is no evidence to indicate that our Paleo joker looked or acted any more like a monkey than some of us do today.

The source of our information is an impressive exhibit of artifacts at the Albemarle Museum. A close inspection of the exhibits along with interpretations by Clarence T. Sanders disclosed surprising and interesting information to us.

The artifacts exhibit is divided into several displays in a number of eye-level windows. Effective props and background atmosphere have been added for clarity and an atmosphere of reality. In a dramatic manner the silent relics of a long-gone age provide pertinent highlights of ancient Albemarle history.

In chronological order the Paleo window is followed by an exhibit illustrating life in this area during the Archaic period, about 8,000 BC to the time of Christ. There is documented evidence that the living standard here showed tremendous improvement during the Archaic age. People learned to grow beans, corn and squash and they developed more effective hunting tools. One wondrous but effective weapon is known as a "Bolas." It consisted of three rocks tied at the ends of a three-extension string. The bolas was twirled around the hunter's head, like a helicopter blade, and flung at the prey. If one of the three rocks failed to addle the prey, then the strong cords were supposed to hobble and incapacitate it at least momentarily so the hunter could rush in for the kill. Another strange contrivance was a spear-thrower. It consisted of a straight, slender branch with a crotch from which a spear could be hurled swifter and farther. An extra weight was added to the spear throwing stick to increase its effectiveness.

Also developed during Archaic times were the chipped stone ax and the full-grooved ax, sharpened and polished.

Our Archaic Albemarle became more conscious of his appearance and fashioned "Gorgetts" consisting of necklace pendants made of slate, soap stone and occasionally of hard rock. The exhibit includes a soap stone and occasionally of hard rock. The exhibit includes a soap stone pot about 14 inches long and 6 inches wide, carved from a single piece of soap stone. This item was unearthed in Camden County and represents expert workmanship.

According to Sanders, the pottery on display will withstand high temperatures and could be used for multipurposes. Sanders explained that a majority of the items displayed are loaned by James Pritchard formerly from Elizabeth City, now living in Norfolk. Many significant and valuable artifacts have been discovered in Albemarle burial grounds by a group including Sanders, Heywood Houtz, Preston Barber and Douglas Prescott.

The third era reported here featuring the Woodland Man represented the time from the birth of Christ to 1700 AD. The Aborigines of the area made great strides toward a better living standard during a relatively short time. They learned how to use bone for needles, awls, and for self-adornment. Bows and arrows were perfected and clay pottery was formed in varying shapes and sizes. Clay and stone pipes were created for the tobacco users and turtle shells were made into drinking cups and dippers. Delicate shell necklaces and fancy pottery decorated with images of corn cobs and sea life have been discovered.

Small clay paint pots were made for carrying paints for such purposes as ceremonial and warfare.

The tell-it-like-it-was artifacts leave a lasting impression of the evolution from a rugged bare-hand existence to the age of tools, hand weapons and vegetable growing.

habitable.

Cleaning up the yard or painting the house may not be as exciting as railing at industry for polluting the waterways. However, it is just as important in preserving some of the natural beauties which were here before man ever came. Refraining from throwing trash on the streets might be an inconvenience but this, too, will be an important part of the overall efforts to clean up our air, water and landscapes.

Remember, too, that cleaning up yards and vacant lots and planting trees shrubbery and grass does more than just beautify the city. Green plants produce oxygen and we are using up oxygen in this country faster than it is being produced. Thus the more greenery we have the more we will offset this oxygen deficit.

It has become obvious that we must restore our natural resources if mankind is to survive. This means that industries must be required to find ways to control pollution of water and the air. But it also means that individual citizens must do all they can to cease destroying the environment.

Cleaning up and painting up might not seem glamorous when such high sounding words as "ecology" are being banted about. However, what we do as individuals will count in our battle to preserve our environment.

Should Find Way To Clarify Draft Status

Apparently the president's order to end all future draft deferments for occupational and agricultural activities and for fatherhood was designed to broaden the base of draft potentials.

The president has also asked Congress to end future student deferments.

Since not all draft age young men will be needed, the end of deferments will mean that some who had no deferments will not have to go.

Despite the recently inaugurated lottery system there still seems to be some confusion among those of draft age as to when or whether they will be drafted.

The draft system should be designed so that young men will know as soon as possible their position with the Selective Service. In this way they will be able to plan better for their educations, marriage and careers.

U.S. Becomes A 'Bystander'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia — The new isolationism in Washington has frozen the U.S. into a bystander's role in the Cambodian crisis even though its outcome will profoundly affect the Vietnam war.

The U.S. presence in Phnom Penh perfectly fits the "little America" concept in foreign affairs advocated by influential U.S. Senators. The entire embassy staff consisted of two Foreign Service officers sharing the same office and an over-worked air attaché until the recent arrival of a temporary press attaché.

This skeleton crew makes no attempt to exert influence, not even intervening against Cambodian massacres of Vietnamese civilians which have so hurt Cambodia's cause internationally. For the first month of the crisis the U.S. was immobilized even after the new anti-Communist government's desperate appeal for military aid.

This carefully carved low profile becomes a study in absurdity considering how a little effort in Cambodia by the U.S. could improve its vast undertaking in Vietnam. Nor would this constitute a fresh foreign adventure. In truth, concurrent North Vietnamese invasions of South Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia are interlocking parts of a single Indochinese war.

With Communist forces in South Vietnam pushed back toward the uninhabited frontiers, the use of Cambodia's border regions as sanctuary, supply base, and jumping-off spot for attacks has become vital. Thus, when Gen. Lon Nol's government deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk March 18 and ordered Communist troops to leave the country, a golden opportunity beckoned to radically change the Vietnam war.

In fact, since March 18 Cambodia has become considerably less hospitable for the 30,000 to 40,000 Communist troops here. Some are tied down securing their rear against the Cambodians, enabling South Vietnamese troops to make lightning raids against the Communists in and out of Cambodian territory.

Most important is the potential drying-up of Cambodia as a Communist supply base. The Lon Nol government appears to have substantially reduced arms, ammunition, and medical supplies flowing across Cambodia and is trying to deprive Communist troops of their vital rice supply. We observed trucks after trucks filled with rice on their way to Phnom Penh from border provinces where North Vietnamese troops are advancing.

In the opinion of some Cambodian officials and Western diplomats here, this Communist advance is intended not so much to conquer Cambodia as to pin down a rice supply. The rapid Communist push northwest toward Kompongcham is surely aimed at preempting rice.

Strength For Today

Let Us Count The Atheists

People often claim to be atheists, but it is a real question whether one person in a hundred who claims to be an atheist can really substantiate such a claim. Dostoyevsky once said that there are no unbelievers, only idolaters. By this he meant that everybody worships something. Those who claim that they have ceased to worship the Almighty have not ceased to worship but have only transferred their allegiance to another deity. Most of those who scorn the idea of worshipping God really worship themselves.

Young people often go away to college and come home to startle their parents with the information that their studies have led them to renounce religious faith and embrace atheism. These young people, of course, are not atheists; and a few hard knocks will bring them to their knees before the Almighty, precisely the same as the hard experiences of life brought their forebears to a similar posture. Self-made men often boast that God has never done anything for them; they got ahead in life by their cleverness, their energy, their ability. Such, of course, have set up the idol of self and have prostrated themselves before it.

Declarations of unbelief are usually a refuge behind which certain people — generally the maladjusted — try to hide.

The Indo-China Crises

WASHINGTON — There's this fellow at the National Press Club bar and he's always briefing me on what is going on in Southeast Asia. "Did you hear that President Nixon is going to pull 150,000 more Americans out of Vietnam?"

"That's good," I said. "Well it's not exactly good," the fellow replied, "because he didn't indicate when he was going to do it. He did say it would be within the next year."

Other Editors Say Fords In Russia?

(Christian Science Monitor)

It is fascinating to consider the possibility that the Ford Motor Company may help the Soviet Union build a huge truck manufacturing works. It is equally fascinating to contemplate the Kremlin's having asked Ford to do this. Such developments tell more about what is actually happening in international relations than most of the ideological statements which catch the headlines.

In reading of the possible Ford-Soviet deal, one cannot help thinking back to the recent forecast by the prominent French thinker and journalist, Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber. He declared last year that there would eventually be a major contest between the United States and Western Europe to see "which of the two will be able to supply effective industrial aid to Russia when the time comes."

It would seem as if that time had come and as if both would be on hand to lend Moscow a hand.

Unlike the United States and most of Western Europe, the Soviet Union remains an amazingly unbalanced country for a land with its recent history of desperate economic development. Highly sophisticated in certain economic spheres, in others Russia seems hardly to have advanced from the pre-World War I era of the Czars. Road transportation is one such archaic quagmire. The road system is desperately underdeveloped. Road services are, over vast areas, virtually nonexistent. Road haulage is only a fraction of what behooves such a vast and complex land. So long as this shortfall exists, the Soviet Union will be crippled economically.

Obviously, for Russia to turn to a company which, in world Communist propaganda, has long stood as an epitome of American capitalism, is a mark of the Kremlin's recognition of how desperately the Soviet Union needs help. To an almost unprecedented degree, Russia is today talking about its economic problems. Only a very considerable anxiety would have led to such a semipublic discussion. Under such circumstances, Moscow's turning to Ford is less surprising than it would have been a few years ago.

There are reasons to hope that it will be possible for Ford and the Kremlin to work out a mutually satisfactory arrangement. Although at many points, Russia remains an adversary and perhaps even a danger to the United States, nonetheless there is equal evidence that closer economic relations work for greater mutual understanding and a stronger possibility for lasting peace.

"That's not bad." "It could be bad for the Democrats." "How's that?" "He might pull out 50 soldiers now and 149,950 just before the elections in November." "I see," I said. "No you don't. Although the President said he would pull out the 150,000 troops within the next year, he also said he would be influenced by what happened in Cambodia and Laos."

"That's good," I said. "It could be bad. If the war spreads into Cambodia and Laos, we might be obligated to stay out there."

"I should hope so. Hey, why are the Cambodians killing the Vietnamese civilians?" "Because they hate them." "But doesn't that make it very embarrassing for us, since Cambodia is asking for U.S. military aid?" "It doesn't help." "I would think if we gave Cambodia military aid and they used it to kill Vietnamese civilians, the South Vietnamese wouldn't be too happy about it."

"They aren't dancing in the streets of Saigon. But killing civilians is the price you have to pay for freedom in Southeast Asia."

"What can the Americans do to stop the Cambodians from killing the civilians?" "The best thing we can do is bomb the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos."

GOP Is Using Issue

DIXIE REPORT By ED ROGERS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some Republicans believe they can trade off the Senate's refusal of G. Harrold Carswell for winning votes in two key U.S. Senate races in the South.

Those are races in which conservative Republicans are challenging what some call "decadent Democrats," senators who joined northern liberals in helping block a fellow Southerner's Supreme Court nomination.

The "decadent Democrats" are Sen. Albert Gore, Tenn., challenged chiefly by Rep. William E. Brock III, R-Tenn., and Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, Texas, challenged by Rep. George Bush, R-Texas.

A third southern race in which the Republicans expected to pluck off a Senate seat was in Florida, where Sen. Spessard L. Holland's retirement left a Democratic void.

Need Seven Seats
Needing a net gain of seven seats to capture control of the Senate, the GOP began carefully nurturing the three ripening plums in the South.

The first publicized word of the "remember Carswell" battle cry came at a Dixie breakfast held during a recent national meeting of the Republican leadership here.

The idea was to saturate the campaigns of at least the two states, Tennessee and Texas, with the Carswell issue.

The Florida race appeared to be already sewed up by a hard-hitting professional, Rep. William C. Cramer, a former member in the GOP breakthrough into the formerly solidly Democratic South.

With Brock and Bush absent, Cramer got the biggest hand anyone received at the breakfast.

But if you want to saturate a campaign with the Carswell issue, what better way is there than having the judge himself as a candidate?

When Carswell became a Senate candidate, the event took on the proportions of something brilliant in its simplicity.

Political observers not versed in Florida affairs automatically assumed President Nixon had pulled a rabbit out of a hat with a dazzling bit of sleight of hand.

Southern Warter
It was assumed that Carswell, a Southern martyr known by now in every Florida household, was automatically destined to become an equally dazzling winner.

The assumption that the White House had achieved a coup came to be accepted as fact. Denials by spokesmen for Nixon merely shifted attention to his Southern strategist, Harry S. Dent.

It was not until nearly the week's end that the bitter intra-party power struggle underlying Carswell's race surfaced.

The man behind Carswell was flamboyant Gov. Claude Kirk, not necessarily Nixon or Dent. It was Kirk's attempt at a coup (Continued On Page 5)

Stagger The Income Tax Days?

By ELMER ROESSNER

A certified public accountant and head of one of the largest financial personnel agencies in the world has come up with an idea that makes so much sense that the bureaucrats of Washington will probably bury it under tons of memos, analyses and red tape.

Robert Half, president of Robert Half Personnel Agencies, Inc., has proposed to Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy that income tax collections be staggered on a cycle basis.

Half proposed that corporations be permitted to set their own fiscal year and that the 77 million taxpayers be divided into four groups, with each group having a different filing date. His plan could be modified so that there could be six groups or twelve groups, or arranged in many other ways.

Advantages Of Cycle Plan
There would be many advantages.

The annual drain on consumers' funds in April, which now hits retail sales in spring, would be spread over the year.

So would the annual rush to make income tax loans, which puts a drain on bank funds and bank personnel.

It would relieve the intense pressure on the accounting profession. "It would ease the pressure on the Internal Revenue Service, which Half said is now harassed and over-worked."

It would make the flow of money into the Treasury, and the flow out in refunds, more nearly even during the year.

"The cycle basis," Half said, "would enable the IRS to give the taxpayer more help in filing their returns, give the accountants more time to help the public, put banks in a stronger position to meet the demands for tax-paying loans and generally eliminate the crisis that builds up to April 15."

Corporations' Example

"Many years ago," he wrote to the Secretary, "all corporations followed the calendar year-end closing of their books, but the resulting burden on the accounting profession, stimulated the professional people to campaign for the fiscal-year method, which has been widely adopted." Most corporations now arrange to end their fiscal years during annual lulls in their business. Department stores, for example, almost all end their years in January, after the Christmas rush has passed.

"There is even more compelling reason today," Half wrote to Kennedy, "for adopting the cycle method for individual returns, not the least of which is to remove the annual assault on the nation's nervous system."

However, the plan might allow for cuts in IRS employment, which would never, never do.

FTC Wants Warning On Bridal Illusions

The Federal Trade Commission has notified some of the largest department stores in the country that the bridal illusions they sell are dangerously inflammable if dry cleaned or washed.

While manufacturers generally carry a warning on their material, many large stores make their own bridal veils, often selling to smaller stores. The FTC wants warning labels on the veils, and is warning the public of the danger.

Don't smoke at weddings.

Pulled Woman From Her Burning Home

WILSON, N. C. (AP)—A woman who was driving in Wilson Sunday noticed smoke pouring from a house and quickly notified Roy Sherrod that the house next to his was burning.

Sherrod ran next door while the woman, Mrs. C. D. Barrett, tried the fire department.

He tried the front door, but it was locked. He ran to a side door which opens onto a carport and found it unlocked. He opened it, but the smoke inside was so thick he could not see.

So he fell to the floor and crawled in. He shouted and heard a weak response. He crawled through a kitchen, through a hallway and into a den.

There he found Mrs. John Y. Aycock, 46, semiconscious. He dragged her out the way he had come in.

In the carport, Mrs. Barrett and her daughter helped Sherrod put Mrs. Aycock into a car. Then, together, they pushed the car away from the flaming house.

Firemen arrived and extinguished the blaze, but not before it did extensive damage to the house. The cause of the fire was not known.

Mrs. Aycock's husband, a school teacher, was not home. She was admitted to a hospital for treatment of second-degree burns about her face and arms.

Sherrod, asked later if he had any trouble getting Mrs. Aycock out of the house, replied: "I don't even remember it."

Electrical Cutoffs Due Thunderstorms

Thunderstorms in the Greenville area late yesterday and last night caused a number of electrical problems in the city and southern section of the county.

"No major problems resulted from the storm," Charles Horne, director of the Greenville Utilities Commission reported. "but the damages were so widespread it took all night to get the system back in order."

Blown fuses, downed lines, burst insulators and shorted transformers created by the lightning caused trouble in several areas of the county, including the Farmville and Falkland highways, the New Bern highway, Moyewood and S. Village Drive, as well as in other scattered areas.

Horne reported one crew worked all night to correct the damaged electrical system while another crew worked until 2 a.m. repairing lines and transformers.

"No major feeders were out," Horn said.

According to the Greenville Utilities Commission weather station, a total of 1.62 inches of rain fell over the area during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. this morning. The high temperature for that same period was reported at 75 degrees while the low was set at 58 degrees. The temperature this morning at 8 a.m. was 59 degrees.

The high temperature for the 24-hour period ending Sunday at 8 a.m. was 77 degrees, while the low for that same period was set at 58 degrees.

The Tar River level was reported at 3.2 feet and rising.

N.C. Academy Of Science Meets On May 1, 2

The North Carolina Academy of Science will hold its annual meeting at North Carolina State University in Raleigh May 1-2, Academy secretary Joseph G. Boyette announced today.

The Academy is made up of scientists and those persons interested in science promotion of science. It encourages and supports scientific research and carries on activities enriching science education in North Carolina. The annual meeting program includes presentation of student research reports, senior scientist research reports, business meetings, general information sessions and a banquet at which outstanding scientists are presented awards.

Plan Classes In Water Safety

A Re-authorization course for Water Safety Instructors will be taught at East Carolina University by Miss Nell Stallings, faculty member of the Physical Education Department.

The classes, which begin on May 4, will be from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the gymnasium on Tenth Street, ECU campus.

All Water Safety Instructors whose cards need to be re-authorized are invited to attend.

Duvalier Rule Unshaken After Navy's Rebellion

By HAROLD J. LIDIN
Associated Press Writer
PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Haitian President Francois Duvalier today appeared to be firmly in control after a weekend coast guard revolt failed to touch off rebellion ashore. But the rebels were on their way to Puerto Rico with half of the dictator's little navy, seeking political asylum from the United States.

"It appears to me President Duvalier's position is solid," U.S. Ambassador Clinton E. Knox told newsmen.

"Papa Doc" Duvalier, survivor of more than a dozen plots against his 13-year-old dictatorship, proclaimed the situation "completely under control." He said the rebels would be tried "when they are captured."

Knox said there was no popular uprising—and no panic—when the coast guard flagship Jean Dessalines and two of the other seven small ships in Haiti's navy began shelling Port au Prince Friday morning.

The sporadic firing, aimed at the presidential palace, arched over the U.S. Embassy and damaged a bakery near Duvalier's heavily guarded residence. Two slightly injured Haitians were the only reported casualties.

Airline flights and telephone communications were stopped temporarily, but otherwise life continued undisturbed in the impoverished Caribbean nation.

Informants said several Haitian officials had been arrested, among them Justice Minister Rameau Estime. It was uncertain if Estime and others had been rounded up before or after the shelling began Friday.

Armed units loyal to Duvalier were in control of the coast guard's Bizonte base six miles from Port au Prince. U.S. Embassy officials reported no indications of support by land forces for the rebel rebels.

"I never saw anything like it in my experience," said the diplomat, commenting on the calm of the populace. He contrasted its placidity with rebellions he had witnessed in Honduras and Dahomey, in West Africa.

On Friday afternoon the rebels fired on and boarded the Miami tugboat "Denise," which was entering the harbor towing a barge loaded with concrete pilings. The rebels seized some food but injured no one. They also stopped a German freighter and took more food.

Haitian Air Force F51s strafed the rebel ships Friday. The ships slipped out of the harbor Saturday and sailed off toward Cuba, reportedly with some 250 men aboard.

The U.S. State Department announced that the three ships showed up at the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba, about noon Sunday and "requested food, water and medical attention, which were provided."

"We understand the commander of the group, Col. Octave Cayard, plans to seek political asylum for himself and his men," State Department spokesman Warren McGruder said. He did not explain the request for medical attention.

Two U.S. Coast Guard cutters were escorting the three ships to the U.S. Navy's Roosevelt Roads station in Puerto Rico.

"Until the ships have arrived in Puerto Rico and we have had an opportunity to ascertain all the various questions involved, we will not be able to comment on just what the disposition of this matter is," McGruder said of the asylum request.

The convoy was expected to arrive in Puerto Rico Wednesday afternoon. It appeared likely that the United States would grant the rebellious Haitians asylum and return the three ships to Duvalier.

Area Officers Attend Seminar

Several Pitt and Martin County parole, probation, and law enforcement officers attended an all-day narcotics seminar in Williamston last Monday.

Sponsored by Martin Technical Institute, the seminar was conducted by Sgt. C. J. Williams of the vice division of the Raleigh Police Department.

Those attending from Pitt County were Kenneth Bailey, Herman Bailey, Jimmie Cannon, and James Langley. Representing Martin were Jerry Beach, Thomas Edwards, Ray Ferris, Donnie Hardison, Woodrow Keel Jr., Robert Leggett, Melvin Lilley, Jerry Smith, John Swain, and Raymond Rawls.

Bucs Rebound To Defeat George Washington 2-0

Paladins Need A Big Finish To Keep Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Furman's Paladins need a big finish this week if they're to win their second successive Southern Conference baseball championship.

The Paladins carry a 6-4-1 record into today's game at Richmond against the Spiders and need a victory in the worst way to stay in the running in the Southern Division with pace-setting East Carolina, 9-3.

In today's other windup of interdivision play this season, William and Mary's Northern Division front-runners, 7-2, play host to The Citadel's Bulldogs and need a triumph to keep some distance between them and George Washington's second-place Colonials, 6-4.

Furman's big chance comes Wednesday when the Paladins entertain East Carolina in a doubleheader. William and Mary goes to George Washington for a twin bill the same day that should prove enlightening in the Northern Division scramble.

Barring unforeseen developments, the Southern Division will finish Saturday with a pair of doubleheaders — Furman at The Citadel, East Carolina at Davidson — but GW and William and Mary are tentatively scheduled to wait until next Monday to make up an earlier rained-out doubleheader.

A full round of Saturday interdivision action saw Furman beat Virginia Military 4-1 on John Katona's one-hit pitching, William and Mary edge East Carolina 5-4 in a battle of the division leaders, George Washington nip The Citadel 3-2 and Richmond squeeze past Davidson 4-3.

In Sunday's East Carolina-George Washington game, Ron Hastings twirled a nifty five-hitter in leading the Pirates to a 2-0 victory over GW.

Terps Will Try To Relax Rules

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP) — After many years of some in the Atlantic Coast Conference saying that entrance requirements for athletes are too tough, Maryland will try to get those requirements eased a little this week.

The ACC's spring conference begins Tuesday in Pinehurst and will run through Friday. A score of 800 out of a possible 1,600 points on the Scholastic Aptitude Test is now required of athletes applying at ACC schools.

Maryland wants the ACC to adopt the same requirements of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, which demands only that a player have a grade-point average of 1.6 on a 4.0 scale.

If this plan were adopted, an ACC school would predict an applicant's average by looking at different parts of his SAT test. Theoretically at least, an athlete could score less than 800 on the test and still qualify as a 1.6 grade point average student.

Critics of the SAT requirements have contended for years that good athletes who cannot score above 800 on the test have been forced to go to non-ACC schools.

Also at the meetings this week, the University of South Carolina will bring up another sensitive issue — conference representation in the NCAA playoffs each year.

South Carolina will recommend that the regular season champion automatically be declared the ACC's representative in the playoffs.

Now, regardless of a team's regular-season record, it must vie for the conference championship in a post-season tournament. The winner goes to the NCAA playoffs.

South Carolina, with a 23-2 regular season record last season, fell to North Carolina State in the ACC tournament.

Tar Heel Spring Grid Drills End

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — The Blues ran up a 21-3 lead and then managed to withstand a determined White rally Saturday in the University of North Carolina's annual intrasquad game that ends spring football drills. The final score was 21-17.

Mike Mansfield of Norfolk, Va., who completed 27 of 43 passes for 375 yards, was voted the game's top back. Ricky Lanier of Williamston, who caught 16 passes for 186 yards, was voted the outstanding lineman.

Best nine-hole score on the 1969 PGA golf tour was turned in by Charles Sifford in the Los Angeles Open. He shot a 28.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — East Carolina University's baseball team rebounded from Saturday's loss to William & Mary to take a 2-0 victory over George Washington Sunday afternoon.

The win boosted the East Carolina record to 9-3 for the season, with only four games remaining. Those are doubleheaders, one against Furman on Wednesday, and the other against Davidson on Saturday. Both are road trips for the Pirates.

But they now stand on the threshold of gaining the Southern Conference's southern divisional title. Second place Furman, besides having to face the Bucs, must also meet Richmond on the road today, and then take on The Citadel in Charleston, S. C., later this week.

The game turned into a pitching duel between the aces of the East Carolina and George Washington staffs, Ron Hastings and Hank Bunnell.

Hastings, in losing his minuscule earned run average even further, gave up five hits in going the distance. He had some control problems, walking five and striking out only two.

Bunnell allowed seven hits, struck out eight and also walked five. Only one of the two East Carolina runs was earned.

The Colonials threatened three times in the game, getting runners into scoring position. The first time came in the third inning. Bill Collins led off with an infield single. John Comitz lined out to short, and Dick Corrada attempted to pick Collins off first, but his throw was wide, and Collins raced all the way to third on the play. Dave Ritter grounded back to the pitcher, who threw Collins out at the plate, ending the threat.

In the sixth, Ritter led off with a single to center, and advanced to second on a single by Bob Dennis. But Dennis was picked off first by catcher Stan Sneed, and the next two grounded out.

The last threat came in the eighth, and was the most serious. With two outs, Dennis got another single, and Dick Baughman and Sam Perlozzo both drew walks off Hastings, loading the bases. But Eric Spink hit a pop foul to Bryan McNeely and the Bucs came away safely.

East Carolina had its first chance, go by in the first, when Sneed and Skip both walked, only to be left stranded.

In the second, they got a man as far as third. Dennis Vick singled, and moved into second as Stu Garrett reached on a fielder's choice. Hastings also arrived on a fielder's choice which failed to get anyone, loading the bases with only one out. But a fly to short, and a force play ended the inning with no runs.

Garrett reached again in the fourth, after being hit by a pitch. He stole second, but was left there.

Finally, in the fourth, the Bucs pushed over a run. With one out, McNeely walked and stole second. He moved into third on Taylor's single to left. Taylor took off for second on the double steal and was there safely on an error, as McNeely scored with the go-ahead run.

The Bucs came close again in the seventh. Hastings reached on a single and moved up when Corrada was safe on an error.

McNeely sacrificed them up, but Hastings was cut down when he tried to score on Sneed's fly to right.

Another threat went by in the eighth. Matt Walker reached on a fielder's choice and moved up on Vick's single, but died there.

East Carolina picked up its final run in the ninth. Hastings led off with a walk and was wild pitched to second. Sneed singled to drive in Hastings for the final 2-0 margin.

Sneed, Taylor and Vick each picked up two hits for the Pirates in the win. Dennis was the only Colonial with a pair.

Greene Central Edged By Ayden

AYDEN — Ayden High School held off Greene Central and took a 5-4 victory in eight innings Saturday night.

Ayden let Greene Central push over one in the top of the first, then tied it up in the bottom with a home run by Alan Wilson.

Ayden added a run in the third for a 2-1 lead, then came up with two more in the fifth. In that inning, Dail Griffin led off and was hit by a pitch. Wilson singled and Dail Manning got a hit, scoring Griffin. Bennett Tyson doubled, scoring Wilson to make it 4-1.

But Greene Central came up with two in the sixth to cut the margin to 4-3. That came after Scott reached, when Tim Kearney slammed a homer.

In the seventh, the Rams pushed over the tying run. Taylor walked and came around to score on Scott's single.

But Ayden got a run in the eighth to claim the win. Debro Blount was hit by a pitch and Robert Twilley walked. Griffin also drew a walk, loading the bases. Ken Cleaton dropped in a single, scoring Blount with the run.

Set 3 Records At Penn Relays

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Texas El Paso's track team came East to make an impression. It succeeded. The Miners from the Southwest won six titles and set three meet records this past weekend at the 76th annual Penn Relays.

The Texas squad shared honors with Villanova, which won five major relay events for the third straight year. Villanova is the only team ever to accomplish this feat in the history of the Penn track and field carnival.

Wolfpack Leads ACC

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The North Carolina State Wolfpack has climbed to the top of the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball standings with a 8-2 ACC record and a 16-4 overall mark.

There's Nothing Like Winning

HAPPINESS IS WINNING $30,000 — Frank Beard is all smiles as he holds up a copy of the check he will receive for winning first prize of $30,000 in the Tournament of Champions with a four-day score of 173. Camper, Jacklin and Player tied with a 280 total for second honors. (AP Wirephoto)

Frank Beard Talks His Golfing Goal: Security

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — Frank Beard had just picked up a $30,000 check, the second largest of his sparkling career, and was talking about his long-range goals in golf.

"Financial security for my wife and my family — and me," the soft-spoken, thoughtful perfectionist said Sunday. "I don't know how much money that is or when it will come."

Then he smiled.

"Maybe it's a million dollars."

It's not as far-fetched as it sounds. Beard's impressive seven-stroke victory in the prestige laden—but troubled—Tournament of Champions pushed his career earnings to more than $568,000. He now has more than $53,000 for the year and appears to be well on his way to his fourth consecutive $100,000 plus season.

And he's only 30.

Although he ranks seventh on the all-time leading money list, topped the money earnings last year and has won nine tour events, he's a relative unknown to the fans.

He's quiet and relatively colorless — but one of the most feared competitors on the tour.

"That man's unbelievable," said British Open champion

Tony Jacklin, one of three tied for second behind Beard.

Frank bolted out to a six-stroke lead at the turn, changed his strategy and coasted into a seven-stroke victory, the largest margin of the year on the tour. He had a final 71, one-under-par on the La Costa Country Club course, for 273, 15-under-par.

Jacklin, two strokes back going into the final round, failed to set his clock for the change from standard to daylight time, didn't have time to take a single practice swing and struggled through the gusty winds with a 76 for 280.

He was tied at that figure with South African Gary Player, 71, and Masters champion Billy Casper, 72. Arnold Palmer was next with a 70 for 281. Orville Moody had a 70 for 284 and Jack Nicklaus was one of three at 286.

While the players were fighting the winds, tournament officials battled reports that the 1971 edition of this tournament — matching four winners of the previous 12 months — would be cancelled.

"The Tournament of Champions is 18 years old and as far as we are concerned it will go on for at least another 18 years," tournament chairman Allard Roen said.

"We have not been notified of any action to cancel our tournament by the tournament players division or its commissioner, Joe Dey."

But a petition appeared in the players' locker room and was

Luis Tiant Runs Record To 3-0

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The green, green grass of home did in Dean Chance and the Cleveland Indians Sunday but the Minnesota air seems to be working wonders for Luis Tiant.

Chance and Tiant were the key figures in a six-player swap between the Indians and Twins last winter. Both pitched well Sunday but came out on opposite ends of the won-lost spectrum.

Chance, 1-2, scattered nine hits in eight innings, walking two and striking out seven but the Indians lost to the Chicago White Sox 2-0, with the high grass at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium affecting two key infield hits.

Tiant, meanwhile, ran his record to 3-0—he was a dismal 9-10 a year ago—by shutting out the Detroit Tigers on three singles, 6-0. He also stroked a double and two singles, stole a base—third base, no less—and knocked in a run.

signed by more than two dozen players, including Palmer, Moody, Player and Lee Trevino, which said, in part:

"We, the undersigned, petition the committee to reconsider their decision regarding cancellation of the tournament of champions."

There had been numerous other reports that the tournament would be canceled next year. Its contract expired this season.

Beard, however, was concerned only with Jacklin — and not long with him.

"I birdied eight and nine and Tony bogeyed one of them, which gave me a three-stroke turn around. That put me six strokes ahead and I seriously altered my game on the back nine," Beard said.

"I was shooting for the middle of the green, just trying for pars. That's the way I am. I figured if I par in — and pars aren't too hard to make — he has to shoot 30 to catch me."

"Maybe it sounds silly to change your game at that time, but I think it's the other way around."

He was right. No one got close to him again. He parred eight of the last nine, three putting for a bogey on the 14th. But it wasn't even close.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore made it 14 straight over Kansas City 10-9, California shaded Washington 3-2 and then traded Rick Reichardt and Aurelio Rodriguez to the Senators for Ken McMullen, Milwaukee tripped Boston 5-3 and the New York Yankees drubbed Oakland 8-3 for Mel Stottlemyre's first victory.

In the National League, it was St. Louis 4, Cincinnati 1; the Chicago Cubs 6, Houston 3; the New York Mets 3, Los Angeles 1; Atlanta 2, Pittsburgh 0, and San Francisco 11, Montreal 1 in their double-header opener. The Expos won the nightcap 3-2.

The White Sox nicked Chance for single runs in the second and third innings. The first scored on Joe Horlen's slow bouncer down the third base line which was allowed to roll and stayed fair. In the third, Luis Aparicio bunted safely down the third base line, took third on a double by Carlos May and scored on Buddy Bradford's sacrifice fly.

"There was nothing I could do about either one," said a disgruntled Graig Nettles, the Cleveland third baseman. "I was completely frustrated. I guess all I can do is play closer if they're going to keep the grass here as long as it is."

Head groundskeeper Harold Bossard admitted the grass is too long and the ground too soft, adding: "But what can I do? Our hands were tied. We couldn't do anything to the infield before this because it has been either too wet or we've had to put the tarpaulin down. But now, with the Indians on the road for 10 days, we'll get the grass cut."

Leading 1-0, Tiant triggered Minnesota's four-run sixth inning with an RBI double, then swiped third and scored on Cesar Tovar's infield single. Harmon Killebrew drove in two runs, each with a single.

Don Buford's three-run homer in the eighth inning carried Baltimore to victory and nullified Kansas City's comeback from a five-run first-inning deficit. The Royals haven't beaten the Orioles since taking a 4-2 decision last May 9 in the first meeting of the teams.

Brooks Robinson drove in four runs for the Birds and Dave Johnson hit a two-run homer. Ed Kirkpatrick and Bob Oliver connected for Kansas City, the latter with two on.

Before the California-Washington trade, Rodriguez crossed the plate with an unearned run on Sandy Alomar's eighth-inning double. That gave the Angels a 3-0 lead, enough to withstand Mike Epstein's two-run homer in the last of the eighth.

Gene Brabender's strong hurling and a three-run uprising in the eighth, highlighted by Max Alvis' two-run single, enabled Milwaukee to hold off Boston. Gerry Moses hit a two-run homer for the Red Sox in the ninth.

Jerry Kennedy, who broke a long hitless drought with a fifth-inning homer, looped a two-run single in the sixth as the Yankees rallied for four runs to beat Oakland. Bobby Murcer wrapped it up with a two-run shot in the eighth. Don Mincher homered for the losers.

Gal Runners Stole Show

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
WALNUT, Calif. (AP)—With due respects to Lee Evans and Randy Matson, the year 1970 could be remembered among other things as one when the girls outshone the guys at the Mt. San Antonio Relays.

Doris Brown, the schoolteacher from Seattle, scored a double by setting a meet record in the 880-yard run Saturday in two minutes and eight seconds, then set an American record in the 3,000-meter run Sunday.

Her time for the latter, 9:44.6 shattered the mark of 10:12.6 by Debbie Heald of Phoenix, Ariz., earlier this year.

Even more noteworthy was the double win by Formosa's Chi Cheng, a 26-year-old physical education junior at nearby California State Polytechnic College, Pomona.

Miss Cheng won the 100-meter hurdles at 13.3 seconds and the 220-yard dash in 23.2 Saturday both times better than the American records.

Then on Sunday, she captured the 100-yard dash in 10.6 and the 100-yard hurdles in 13.5.

Evans scored a men's double with victories in the 440-yard intermediate hurdles and 440-yard dash, while world record holder, Matson, won the shotput with a toss of 66 feet, 11½ inches won Matson an Olympic crown.

RECEIVES 30 YEAR PIN . . Mrs. Pattie Mizelle is shown above being presented with a 30 year pin by Larry Windt, Hydrologist, of the Weather Bureau Forecast Office at the Raleigh - Durham Airport, for her 30 years of making observations in Greenville. Mrs. Mizelle's family has taken weather and river gaging for some 50 of the 66 years observations have been made in Greenville. The highest Mrs. Mizell recorded the Tar River during her work was May 14, 1958, which was recorded at 19.7 feet. There are over 100 such reporting points through out North Carolina. Gypsy Rose Lee Dies Of Cancer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Gypsy Rose Lee, famed strip-tease performer and long time "Queen of burlesque" who became an author, stage and screen actress and show-business celebrity, died Sunday of cancer.

Death came at the University of California Medical Center here where she was admitted a few days ago.

She was 56.

Still in her teens, a seasoned vaudeville performer, she made her New York debut as a stripper at Minsky's.

Her first big break was in the Ziegfeld Follies of 1937, where she climaxed her nightly performance by tossing her garter belt into the orchestra pit. At the New York World's Fair of 1939, she earned as much as $4,000 a week.

Miss Lee later became a writer of novels, in the first of which, "The G-String Murder Mystery," a stripper is strangled with her own G-string.

She also turned actress in summer and winter stock and in movies. In her first film, in 1938, she was billed by her real name, Louise Hovick. "The Stigma, I guess," she explained, referring to her strip-tease career. But by 1962, billed as Gypsy Rose Lee for the screen, she laughed, "I guess the stigma has gone."

In 1966 Miss Lee began her own nationally syndicated television talk show, commuting to a San Francisco studio by plane from her home in Beverly Hills.

In her stripping days the shapely Gypsy once said, "Bare flesh bores men. Censors insist on covering up a girl's navel, the least glamorous portion of her anatomy. In Boston they made me put a rhinestone in mine."

She had little censor trouble, for her act was more tease than strip. "I never try to stir up the animal in 'em," she once told writer J.P. McEvoy in Variety and the Reader's Digest. "Did you ever hold a piece of candy or a toy in front of a baby—just out of his reach? Notice how he laughs? That's your strip audience."

ECU Served As Nat'l French Contest Center

Outstanding French students of the J. H. Rose Senior High School, Greenville, and many others across the state are awaiting results of the National French Contest, just completed at test centers throughout the United States under the auspices of the American Association of Teachers of French.

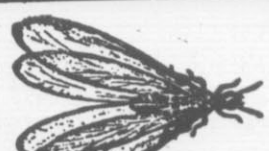

East Carolina University served as a center on Saturday, April 18, when 146 contestants from 14 high schools were scheduled to take the two-part exam including reading and listening comprehension of the foreign language.

Administering the test were faculty members of the University Department of Romance Languages: Rolly Wanderman, Monica Gaughofer, Wolf Gaughofer, Lawrence Gee, David King, Lab Director Gary Ambert, and Marguerite Perry, Chairman of the event. Student Lab Assistant David McGraw assisted.

Greenville had two national Third Place winners in the contest last year: Ann Petrie, student of Mrs. Thomas Hinte; and Katherine Inman, student of Mrs. Salena Davenport. Placing also on the state level in 1969, were Greenville students Jim Birchard, Susan Wilker, Kathy Petrie, and Ernie Avery.

First known climber of New Hampshire's 6,288-foot Mt. Washington was Darby Field, who made the climb in 1642.

Florida's Nature Lovers Fighting For Environment

By BEN FUNK
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — To people in colder, dirtier climes, Florida has always been a sub-tropic dreamland of clear blue skies, sparkling waters leaping with game fish, flamboyant flowers, and wildlife roaming in abundance across forests and swamps.

From everywhere, they came by millions, many as tourists who fell in love with this land of islands and palm trees and returned to settle down. On the southeast Florida Gold Coast, a solid chain of cities rose out of the swamp. Around Tampa Bay on the Gulf of Mexico, they built a teeming megalopolis.

And, as their numbers mushroomed, they unwittingly began to degrade and destroy almost everything that had drawn them here.

Industrial chimneys, jet aircraft and cars clogging streets of cities that host 21 million visitors a year filled once pure air with noxious gases. Human sewage, industrial wastes, and irrigation water thick with fertilizer, pesticides and muck befouled lakes, streams bays and oceans. Famed fishing waters died. Drainage of vital marshlands took a deadly toll of birds and animals.

And as the 1970s arrived, Floridians woke up to the fact that the end of their cherished way of life could be near at hand.

So nature lovers united for the first time, have launched a massive fight to halt pollution and somehow find the road back toward an environment healthy for all creatures.

In just a few months, the battle has brought these results:

—Under intense pressure from conservationists, the U.S. government forced a halt to construction of a Miami super jetport that opponents claim would have posed a serious pollution threat to the wildlife of Everglades National Park.

—The Florida Power and Light Co. was ordered by a federal-state conference to prove that thermal pollution will not lay waste to Biscayne Bay before its nuclear power plant at Turkey Point can go into operation.

—Backers of the $200-million Cross-Florida Barge Canal, on which $53 million has been spent, are fighting for the project's life against a mass assault by scientists. Foes of the ditch say, that unless stopped, it will ruin the valley of the Oklawaha River, one of the nation's most beautiful unspoiled streams.

—In an unprecedented action, the state will drain, clean out and restore 30,000-acre Lake Apopka near Orlando. Once famed for its fighting bass, the lake that nature took thousands of years to create was killed in a generation by municipal and agricultural wastes.

—The people are in a state of revolution," says Lyman E. Rogers, president of Conservation 70s, a new organization which claims 250,000 backers and says its numbers are increasing.

As the 1970 legislature went into session April 7, the dominant theme of conversation around the state was conservation.

No public hearing had been held before Congress approved the canal. Conservationists saw in the Burns session an opportunity to voice outrage over a project they said would rape the Oklawaha Valley for the benefit of a handful of bulk cargo shippers.

"We snowed them under," said William H. Partington, head of a scientific group called Florida Defenders of the Environment. "Hundreds showed up to fight for a shift of the canal route away from the Oklawaha. Scientists were there from all over the nation."

"But it was soon obvious," Partington related, "that nobody was listening to us. Our objections never were reported to Congress. It was the beginning of a realization that we had to get started in politics if we were going to save Florida."

Two years later, when the Dade County Port Authority announced that it would build a giant jetport for the supersonic age of travel on a 38-square-mile site in the Everglades west of Miami, the reaction was quick and decisive.

Warning that the jetport would block and pollute the "River of Grass," which nourishes a wildlife system that has survived since the age of dinosaurs, 19 national conservation groups rallied for a showdown fight.

Although work on the jetport was in full swing, with $13 million spent, Gov. Claude Kirk lined up with the conservationists. Interior Secretary Walter D. Hickel and Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe worked out an agreement with the Port Authority to move the jetport to another site.

"It was at this point," Partington said, "that conservation became politically rewarding."

Now feeling their muscles, Partington's FDE marshaled 160 scientists for a new, all-out attack on the barge canal. President Nixon has referred the project for restudy to his Environmental Quality Control Council; the legislature is considering whether to cease state support of the project, and the Environmental Defense Fund of New York has sued to stop the canal, charging the Army Corps of Engineers with violating the constitutional rights of the people of the United States by destruction of treasured natural resources.

The successes in Florida, Partington says, "have had a terrific impact on the conservation movement, because everybody has an affinity for Florida. No matter where you go, people talk about it. Even if they don't get to come, they like to know that it's here."

work; typing, filing, collating as a vacation replacement in office work; warehouse helpers and deliverymen helpers. Other possible jobs include clean-up jobs, department store and grocery store helpers, sales clerks, cashiers, hospital helpers, child care, car washes and yard work.

"Young people need to work as a relief from idleness, for money and to express their ambitions," Noe explained. "Helping them find summer work is really an investment in the future of our county and state."

The ESC office has already tested and interviewed some 375 job hunting seniors.

Persons with summer work should contact the ESC office, Noe said.

Sierra Club To Meet Tuesday

The Sierra Club, one dedicated to help people explore, enjoy, and protect parks, wilderness, waters, forests, and wildlife, will meet Tuesday night at 7 p.m.

Dr. Philip T. Adler, of East Carolina University's History Department, said the meeting will be held in the Biology Auditorium at ECU.

All persons interested in conservation, as well as those who like hiking and similar outdoor recreations, are invited to attend this meeting. Films will be shown, and brief talks made by a number of people at the informal meeting.

Farm Scene

By EDWIN L. YANCEY

HOME GARDENS: A home garden can mean lower food bills for your family at the same time they are eating better food. Experience has shown that a family of five can save up to $500 when vegetables are produced at home.

One problem that many gardeners run into is nematodes. This is one of the major causes of a premature decline in the garden. The effects of this pest will be greater during dry periods. Control can be achieved with one of the several chemicals available. DD, Telone, Vidden D, or Vorlex will give effective control when used before the garden is planted. Nemagon or Fumazone may be used preplant or after the plants are growing. As with all chemicals, label instructions should be carefully followed.

Complete garden information is available in Extension's Garden Manual, which is available at the local Agricultural Extension office. CARCASS CONTEST: Tri-County Farms of Bethel took top honors in the Carcass Contest of the recent Pitt County Market Hog Show with their 205 pound Hampshire barrow. The top animal had 30 inches of carcass length, only 1.23 inches of backfat, 4 square inches of loin eye area, and yielded 58.19 percent of the chilled weight in lean cuts.

B. W. Baker, of the Pactolus Community, showed the second place barrow with 56.46 percent lean cuts. Joe Moye, Jr., of Farmville, had third place with his Duroc barrow at 55.35 percent lean cuts.

BETTER PORK: Carcass measurements are one tool that pork producers have used in improving the quality of pork that is offered to consumers. In the past ten years, the percent lean cuts of North Carolina hogs has climbed from 45 percent to the 55 percent level. This means that hogs being grown today are producing much less fat and more lean meat. The loin eye muscle has grown in size also. This gives a bigger pork chop with less fat than you could buy 10 years ago.

Tobacco TIPS

By S.J. Weeks

The stored tobacco moth is a common pest on many farms and often causes serious damage to stored tobacco. Most damage caused by this insect occurs between the time the tobacco is cured and the time it is sold. This insect generally prefers to feed on the lug and cutter grades of the tobacco, those high in sugar content.

The life history of the tobacco moth is similar to most other insects. The moth lays eggs in or near the piles of stored tobacco. The larvae are tiny when first hatched, but grow to about one-half inch in length. They are pinkish-white in color with a reddish head. When the larvae is full grown, it spins a weblike cocoon in which it transforms into a pupa and then emerges as an adult moth. Usually the tobacco moth passes the winter and migrates to cracks and crevices about the building, where they spin loose cocoons of silk in which to hibernate.

If you have not already cleaned the scrap tobacco from your packhouse, it should be removed and burned as soon as possible. Or, if corn or other grain has been stored through the winter in the packhouse, or has been moved from the building this spring, it is time to give the packhouse a thorough cleaning. When cleaning, all slats should be removed from the walls, then the walls brushed down.

Normally it is not practical to fumigate stored tobacco on the farm. If it is absolutely necessary to hold tobacco for several weeks, and it is severely infested, place tobacco under a plastic cover and make the cover as tight as possible. Fumigate for 24 hours with 2 pounds of methyl bromide. Let tobacco air out at least 48 hours before handling.

Inflation Sees Reverse Twist

NEW YORK (UPI)—For every dollar donated by Americans in 1969, Cooperative for American Relief Everywhere (CARE) delivered $8.53 in food, self-half and medical aid to less fortunate peoples.

Public contributions to CARE, New York 10016, are multiplied by U.S. donations of farm abundance and operating support from local governments.

Local Home Is Entered, Robbed

Investigation is continuing into the breaking and entering of a local home here Friday night.

A portable TV set, a portable stereo set, some clothes, and a small quantity of old coins were stolen from the home of the victim Bob Nordbruck, 1006 Cotanche St. between 8:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m., Chief of Police T. E. Gladson reported.

Chief Gladson said entrance to the home was gained by tearing a window screen and raising an unlocked window.

Nordbruck told investigating officers he discovered the theft when he returned home after seeing a movie.

Report Control Of Tooth Decay

NEW YORK (UPI)—In the last 10 years, tooth decay has decreased 60 per cent in children where controlled fluoridation of drinking water is practiced, reports the World Health Organization's Chronicle. The study covers 30 countries and territories in which some 120 million inhabitants are carrying out the fluoridation program.

Sutan + atrazine lets your corn grow free

Your corn grows free from all major grasses and weeds. Free from the growth stress that weeds cause. Free to develop strong, vigorous roots that reach down to make maximum use of soil nutrients and moisture. Free from extra cultivations, possible root damage and free of trashy fields at harvest time.

This season, use dependable, economical Sutan plus atrazine on all your corn acreage. Stop the toughest grasses and weeds—nutgrass, wild cane, foxtails, fall panicum, Johnsongrass seedlings, crabgrass, annual morningglory, lambsquarters, pigweed, ragweed, nightshade and others that lower your profits. Mix Sutan plus atrazine in the soil as you prepare your seedbed. There's no need to depend on unpredictable rainfall to move the herbicide into the weed seed zone. Sutan and atrazine will be waiting to control weeds as they sprout. Used as directed, Sutan controls weeds without leaving harmful residues in the soil. Free yourself from work and worry—see us today for your supply of Sutan.

An Investment In Knowledge

Wilton's aunt deserves a salute for her practical desire to help him do well in college. Benjamin Franklin said "An investment in knowledge always pays the best dividends." So consider the 3 practical aids for culturally minded folks. And notice the many "fringe benefits" your dictionary offers!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.
CASE M-586: Wilton M., aged 18, is finishing high school. "Dr. Crane," his aunt began, "I want to give Wilton a practical gift which can help him when he goes on to college. "I don't have much money, so

I'd like to offer him a present that will be useful and educational."

One of the most practical and inexpensive gifts you can offer a student, whether in high school or college, is a dictionary.

A one-volume encyclopedia is likewise excellent but obviously more costly.

And every student who plans to go to college should have a typewriter, even if it is only a $50 used machine which may be turned in by business executives on a new model.

Back in 1922 and 1923, I travelled for Northwestern University, organizing state and county campaign committees to help raise the money for our new medical - dental campus in downtown Chicago.

But I always carried my Webster's collegiate dictionary in my suitcase.

Many of you readers don't fully realize the varied educational assistance that such a dictionary offers you.

(1) It lets you check on the spelling of words so you do not write letters or school themes with such errors therein.

And don't feel deflated in your ego if you must double check on your spelling, for most of us professional writers still use our dictionaries several times per day, just to make sure.

(2) It also contains a "gazetteer" which is merely a geographical dictionary, listing countries and cities, as well as latest populations thereof.

(3) Thousands of biographical names, with their pronunciations, are likewise included. Thus, you can look up "Confucius" or "Aristotle" and find not only who they were but when they were born and died.

This biographical section actually serves as an efficient encyclopedia of famous people, past and present!

(4) Colleges and universities of the U.S.A. and Canada are also tabulated alphabetically, with the cities where they are located, plus the date when the college was started.

(5) A section is also included containing common English given names, with their root meanings.

For instance, "Andrew" comes from the Greek and means "manly."

"Deborah" comes from the Hebrew and means "a bee."

(6) Poets and verse writers, as well as contest fans, will be

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠A75 ♥1096322 ♦KQJ476

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1♣ Dblc. Pass 1♥

Pass 2♥ Pass 7

What do you bid now?

A—This hand constitutes a good holding opposite a tablemate double inasmuch as you might have been forced to respond with little or nothing. Partner should, therefore, be offered a positive inducement to carry on, and a rebid of three hearts by you at this point will serve to convey the message.

Q. 2—Partner opens with two diamonds and you hold:

♠10752 ♥KJ85 ♦KQJ476

What is your response?

A—Three diamonds. This hand obviously will be played in slam, and, in order to lay the foundation for the bidding campaign, the trump suit should be accepted. On the next round you will show the club ace. A great slam is a strong probability.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KJ7 ♥K1062 ♦KQJ476

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1♥ 1♣ 3♣

What do you bid?

A—Three hearts. It is true that your hand does not measure up to the requirements for a double raise. But this is not a double raise in the true sense of the word. Partner must realize that your action may have been taken under pressure. We would not consider it good practice to be taken out of the picture.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KQ96 ♥KQJ75 ♦KQJ476

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♥ Pass 2♣ Pass

2♥ Pass 2♣ Pass

3♥ Pass 4♣ Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Four hearts. This is preferable to returning to spades. Partner has already ascertained that you have four spades, and you should allow for the possibility that his two spade bid was of an exploratory nature. If partner's spade bid was on the level and he cannot stand hearts, he can return to the higher ranking suit.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠KQJ9765 ♥KQJ476

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♣ Pass 2♣ Pass

2♥ Pass 3♣ Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Five spades. Partner's jump bid has announced that he has at least 15 points in support of spades. You know, therefore, that you have the material for a slam. However, to allow for the highly improbable case in which partner has two losing clubs, you bid five spades and partner, with secure round control of clubs, will proceed to slam.

Q. 6—Partner opens with one spade and you hold:

♠KQJ9765 ♥KQJ476

What is your response?

A—A slam bid. Partner's raise to two spades is clearly indicated. The possession of a fifth spade should not induce you to take any drastic action, like a jump to four spades, for which there is no real occasion. This is a mediocre hand and nature should be permitted to take its course.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠KQJ9765 ♥KQJ476

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♣ Pass 1♥ Pass

2♣ Pass 1♦ Pass

What do you bid now?

A—With the splendid fit already established, slight must not be the last of slam possibilities, despite the fact that you have only two high cards. The proper call is four diamonds, denoting possession of the ace. If partner merely returns to four spades, you may decide to quit but, if he makes an effort to show the ace of clubs, failure on your part to bid a slam would betray a timid streak of huge proportions.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KQJ9765 ♥KQJ476

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1♥ 1♣ 1♦

What do you bid?

A—You should double for penalties. If partner's hand is unsatisfactory, he need not see the deal. Even if he has a mediocre hand counting only 12 points, your nine trumps the total to at least 22, which is more points than the opponents can muster.

Agrees Job Is State's

GOLDSBORO, N. C. (AP)—The chairman of the North Carolina Ports Authority, which is paying $15,000 in legal fees to former state Sen. Tom White, says he agrees the state attorney general's office should do the state's legal business.

Chairman Woodrow Price said Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan had increased the number of attorneys available. "Robert Morgan intends to do all the legal work," he said Saturday. "I am in complete agreement with him."

The authority voted Saturday to pay White for services the former legislator performed in 1967 during a dispute with a Morehead City roofing company on the waterfront.

The company, owned by Lloyd Fry, had claimed damages because a dock extension blocked his access to the sea. White was retained in 1964 and handled the court action for the ports authority.

Price said the attorney general's office was understaffed at the time.

Long Look At Welfare Plans

By JOE HALL

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon's welfare reform program is under fire from liberals and conservatives on the Senate Finance Committee as the panel prepares to open public hearings this week on the legislation.

Some members say the President and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert H. Finch appear to be presenting the House-approved plan on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

But these senators, including Democrats and Republicans, say the bill will get a long and hard look at the hearings starting Wednesday, and undoubtedly many changes will be made.

Finch has said he will recommend a veto if the Senate liberalizes welfare reform beyond the Nixon recommendations.

The measure as now written would convert the much-criticized aid to dependent children program into a family assistance plan and guarantee a yearly cash income of at least $1,600 to a family of four. The working poor would be included for the first time.

Finance Committee conservatives say the administration estimate of $4.4 billion additional annual cost is too low, and the provisions designed to channel the welfare recipients into jobs are of dubious worth.

On the other hand, liberals insist the new benefits are far too low. They say the plan will leave millions of Americans still in poverty and not give real help to states hard pressed to meet the costs of welfare, education and many other programs.

However, some of the Finance members concede privately the net effect of the criticism from the right and left may be a canceling-out process so the bill will clear the Senate about in the form Nixon submitted it.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the committee chairman, says his group will take its time with the legislation but he is confident a bill will be approved by Finance and pass the Senate.

So look with far more admiration on your collegiate dictionary!

Tony Curtis Fined In Marijuana Case

UXBRIDGE, England (AP)—American movie star Tony Curtis, who quit smoking tobacco several years ago, was fined $120 today for bringing marijuana into England.

The 44-year-old actor arrived at the Uxbridge Magistrate's Court in a maroon Bentley limousine, but his lawyer asked for time to raise the fine.

"You must not think that because Mr. Curtis is a leading international film star that he has plenty of money available," the lawyer told the court. "He like any other member of his profession has enormous taxes to pay which can create financial problems for him."

The three magistrates gave Curtis a week to raise the money.

The fine was half the one levied by a British court in February against another movie headliner, Italian director Michelangelo Antonioni, on the same charge. The maximum penalty is 10 years in jail or a $2,400 fine, but British judges are usually lenient in marijuana cases.

Dressed in a neat gray business suit and yellow shirt, Curtis looked subdued as he pleaded guilty to the charge. His lawyer asked the magistrates to take into consideration "the tremendous strains and pressures" to which a star of Curtis' caliber was subjected. He also told the court the actor was a man of previous unimpeachable character.

After the brief formal hearing, Curtis left the Red brick courthouse by a side entrance and drove off in another car. Newsmen waited in vain alongside the Bentley parked in front.

Princess' Son Is Under Guard

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret's 8-year-old son Lord Linley was under Scotland Yard guard today after an informer's warning that there was a plot to kidnap him.

The tip was telephoned to newspapers by an anonymous caller who said the plan was to trade the young nobleman for the liberty of two gangsters who are in prison.

Between Europe, Hyannis Port

BOSTON (AP)—Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis say her children will divide the summer between Europe and the Kennedy compound at Hyannis Port on Cape Cod.

Mrs. Onassis arrived at Logan International Airport Sunday night to attend a meeting today of the John F. Kennedy Library Foundation.

She said she planned to fly to New York to meet her children after the library meeting and remain there with them until the school term ends in June.

Then they will go to Europe. Mrs. Onassis' children are Caroline, 13, and John Jr., 10.

The John F. Kennedy Library Foundation was founded after the assassination of the president in 1963. It plans to build a library to house the private papers and other memorabilia of Kennedy.

Lingberghs On Visit To Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh and his son Jon flew in Sunday night for a visit to Expo '70, which has on exhibition the single-engine seaplane "Sirius" which the elder Lindbergh and his wife flew to Japan in 1931.

Lindbergh, 67, and Jon, 37, were met at Haneda International Airport by Mrs. Lindbergh, who had arrived by air from Honolulu several hours earlier.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien says Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts must be considered a top presidential contender in 1972.

Despite Kennedy's statements disavowing any presidential ambitions, O'Brien said, "He has proven himself outstanding in his role in the Senate and I can't believe that he will not continue to be looked to for leadership by many Democrats across the country."

O'Brien refused to discuss the political impact of the automobile accident in July 1969 that took the life of Mary Jo Kopechne, a passenger in Kennedy's auto.

O'Brien made the statement Sunday on the Metromedia Radio New program "Profile."

Cavern Requires Some Up-Dating

STANTON, Mo. (UPI)—A tourist asked Lester B. Dill, operator of Meramec Caverns on U.S. 66 what's the biggest problem in running a 100 million-year-old cave.

"Keeping it up-to-date," Dill replied.

a House subcommittee.

"U.S. science is faltering at a time when the problems of the environment, national security, population control, urban unrest and worldwide education and development demand new ideas," said Chairman Emilio Q. Daddario, D-Conn., in announcing the proposal.

Daddario said existing policy resulted in a proliferation of single purpose agencies pursuing their research goals without regard to similar efforts elsewhere or over-all national needs.

The name suggested for the new agency was National Institutes of Research and Advanced Studies. An administrator would be named by the President, subject to Senate confirmation.

The subcommittee said the existing National Science Foundation could be reconstituted as NIRAS, consolidating those scientific activities carried out in universities.

Specifically included would be graduate education programs of the Health, Education and Welfare and other departments, the National Foundations for the Arts and Humanities and new units called the National Institute of Ecology and the National Institute of Social Sciences.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Postmaster General Winton M. Blount has reaffirmed the Post Office's decision to discipline striking postmen. But he said postmen who stayed off the job last month but did not picket could receive lighter penalties.

"Now of those 160,000 to 200,000 who did walk out, some percentage of them—some large percentage of them in my opinion—were not really involved in the matter," he said.

"They didn't want to get involved in whatever might happen by crossing the picket line—but they weren't on the picket line, they weren't leading the strike. And I think you look at different circumstances differently."

He made the statement in a copyrighted interview in "U.S. News & World Report."

"My wife got well faster because I have Blue Cross and Blue Shield."

My wife had to have some medical tests to find out if she needed an operation. She had them done in the doctor's office and Blue Cross and Blue Shield paid 80% of what they cost.

So she didn't have to go into the hospital until she was ready for treatment. She spent 6 days there. And, as soon as she was feeling better, she was back home again. A nurse from the Visiting Nurse Service came to the house and gave her special therapy while she was recovering. Blue Cross and Blue Shield paid for 80% of that, too.

When you have Blue Cross and Blue Shield with Extended Benefits, you've got the health care plan that helps you pay for services outside the hospital. So you don't have to spend much time there. I guess they know people get well faster at home.

MAY WE PRESENT . . .

Crisis In St. Louis' Big Public Housing Project

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — That high-rise hell Pruitt-Igoue, a shattered and torn symbol of all that's wrong and ruinous in the nation's public housing program, is about to undergo another emergency operation.

This time, there is a glimmer of hope that the 15-year-old housing project, built at a cost of $36 million, will be, at the least, made livable.

But no one is guaranteeing anything.

Hopes of the 10,000 residents who survive in the tombstone-like 11-story buildings have been raised before only to be dashed in continuing waves of murder, rape, robbery and unremitting vandalism.

Now, a new coalition of labor, business and civic leaders has taken charge of St. Louis public housing after a rent strike drove the housing authority to the brink of bankruptcy.

The coalition, working in tandem with the tenants themselves, hopes to turn Pruitt-Igoue around, perhaps by thinning out its high density, modifying its design or even demolishing some of its 33 buildings.

The key element in whatever plan evolves will be the tenants themselves.

"The biggest problem in public housing is maintenance, vandalism and security," said the Rev. Kirk Walsh, a Jesuit serving as a special consultant in the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). "And the only ones who can control vandalism are the people who live there. But they must have a say so they can determine what happens there."

"Unless the people band together, they're not going to get security. Right now it's costing them $1,700 a day in vandalism in St. Louis."

Last year, Pruitt-Igoue endured 10 murders, 14 reported rapes, 129 reported assaults. Gunfire sounded regularly from the half-abandoned project's upper reaches.

The marks of violence are everywhere in Pruitt-Igoue. Far more windows are smashed than remain intact. Heavy steel doors lie crumpled and unhinged. Thick concrete walls are battered through with sledge-hammers. Even the copper flashing protecting the roofs is stripped away.

The vandalism brought disaster last winter—one of the coldest in city history.

Pipes, exposed to the frigid temperatures because of the thousands of broken windows, froze. When they thawed, they cracked and the project was flooded. Heat and power failed.

Scores of families lost their meager possessions as water poured into living rooms, bedrooms and closets.

It was an unusually severe and dramatic emergency, but for residents of Pruitt-Igoue, all of them black and 70 per cent of them on welfare, life is a continuing emergency, dull, depressing and dangerous.

"Pruitt-Igoue is the end of the road," said Miss Elizabeth Wood, a HUD public housing specialist.

But Pruitt-Igoue is unique, not in kind, but in degree.

The seeds that produced Pruitt-Igoue have been sown in virtually every major city in America as the poorest of the poor—with no place else to go—are shunted into public housing projects.

Built beginning in 1952 at a barebones cost of $2,089 per room, Pruitt-Igoue was planned as two projects—one, Pruitt, for Negroes; the other, Igoue, for whites.

A law suit torpedoed the intended black-white separation, but the result was never integration. Instead, Pruitt-Igoue became overwhelmingly black.

Charles Farris, who became executive director of the St. Louis Land Clearance and Housing Authority shortly after the project was fully open in 1956, said Pruitt-Igoue was troubled from the start.

The stairways, virtually soundproof, soon became havens for muggers and rapists. They also became public toilets for the thousands of Pruitt-Igoue children unable to get to their apartments in time.

Children—one-half the project's population is under 16—left without recreational facilities, soon found a favorite pastime—sticking the elevators. One variation was to make an elevator door swing open while the elevator was floors above or below.

The unwary could—and did—fall to their deaths.

Three years after the project opened, the St. Louis Globe Democrat was referring to it editorially as "a paradise for thieves, thugs and rapists and a nightmare for police."

Despite its newness, Pruitt-Igoue was acquiring a reputation as a place to avoid. Its vacancy rate in housing-poor St. Louis climbed to 15 per cent by the fall of 1960. It now stands at 50 per cent.

Trying to maintain the abandoned apartments became an almost impossible task as vandals, undeterred by the police or a frightened resident population, smashed their way inside and looted whatever could be carted away.

The cost squeeze drew tighter. By 1968, the housing authority disbanded its private security force to save $130,000 a year.

"With all those empty apartments, the project became an ideal place for a dope pusher to get lost," said the Rev. John A. Shocklee, who joined the St. Louis Housing Commission in 1965.

HUD's Miss Wood visited Pruitt-Igoue in 1966 to report on an ill-fated attempt to coordinate federal social services in the project.

In three years, $5 million was spent for social services, but the effort fizzled.

"It became a place to breathe and breed and that was the limit to it," said Father Shocklee.

The job of abating that rate and uniting Pruitt-Igoue's still warring elements is a key aim of the new St. Louis Civic Alliance for Housing.

Eventually, the alliance, headed by Teamsters official Harold Gibbons, would like to phase out all high-rise family units and create instead a less concentrated pattern of living for those families most in need.

The alliance also hopes someday to turn over the ownership and management of St. Louis's nine projects to tenant coopera-tives. But in the short run, the alliance must first stabilize Pruitt-Igoue, the heaviest drain on the housing authority's resources. Vacancies there cost the St. Louis Authority almost $500,000 in 1968.

Efforts are being made to beef up tenant organization and lay the ground work for tenant security patrols. Already, foot patrolmen are back in the project. Before the alliance, they had entered Pruitt-Igoue only in response to emergency calls.

Some plans call for converting some of the 33 buildings to another public use, demolishing others. There is also some sentiment for turning the project into a city within a city—a community that would have ownership as well as rentals, its own stores and churches, and its own elected officials.

The latter idea is favored by Father Shocklee. But he is not sure it would work because he believes that basically the tragedy of Pruitt-Igoue is the tragedy of poverty in America.

"Perhaps we should level it and place a plaque," he said ruefully. "This was Pruitt-Igoue, it would be like Hiroshima."

Bottled Water Sales Booming

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — As the nation's water supplies become contaminated, more and more Americans are pouring their drinking water from bottles rather than drawing it from taps.

At least 700 companies are now in the business. The American Bottle Water Association estimates, and their sales this year are expected to exceed $75 million. That will mean a $25 million increase in just three years.

Pollution isn't providing the only pressure beneath the sales geysers. Water shortages, affluence and more discriminating tastes are contributing. And new uses are being found all the time.

Understandably, millions of gallons of bottled water have been used to standardize the taste of liquors, beverages and other products, and dietetic considerations have dictated its use in other preparations.

Some of the newer uses weren't foreseen just a decade ago. Jet aircraft fuel is sometimes mixed with bottled water to keep engines cool during take-offs; and it is a final rinse in the plating of space vehicle skins.

Almost every sales forecast calls for continued increases in the business for years to come, a fact not lost on some of the major food and beverage companies which have been buying heavily into the industry.

The industry originally consisted of spring water companies, but now many bottlers begin with ordinary tap water, distill or demineralize it, and then reconstitute the product, perhaps with a bit of real spring water in order to give life to the taste.

Few spring water companies distribute over large areas. Many are still very small operations, in part because of the limited volume of their source. Only one company, Mountain Valley Water Co. of Hot Springs, Ark., claims to distribute nationally from one source.

Its president, John Scott, claims that while some springs change temperature every day, the temperature and flow of his spring has not varied in a century.

Mountain Valley, it is said, was "discovered" by Hernando DeSoto in 1541, but presumably Indians had been drinking the water for many years before, for almost all civilizations have been attracted to springs.

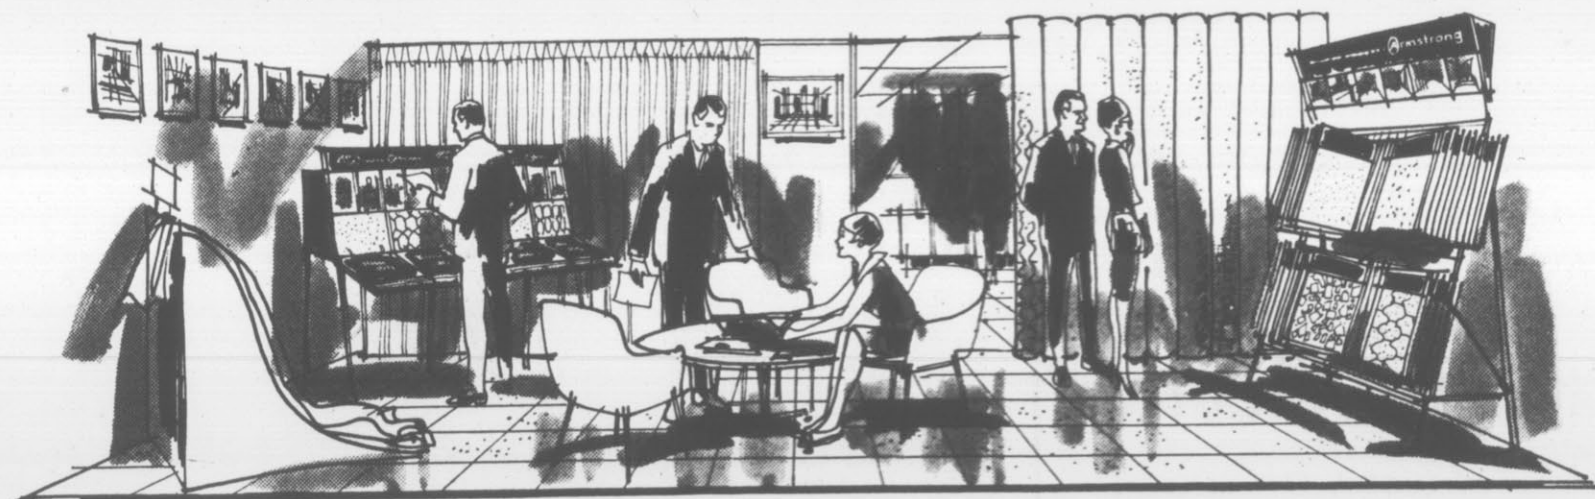

MEDIEVAL FIND

HATTULA, Finland (UPI)—A medieval brick furnace, believed to be the oldest in Finland, has been discovered in this community in southern Finland.

The find lends credence to a legend that bricks for the Hattula church, which was built in the middle of the 13th century, were burnt in its own furnace.
