South Vietnamese River Flotilla At Phnom Penh

SAIGON (AP) — A South Vietnamese navy flotilla of about 30 boats with a half dozen U.S. advisers sailed into the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh today after the first allied river assault across the border, South Vietnamese sources said.

The flotilla, which left South Vietnam on Saturday, completed a 60-mile drive that helped secure an important ferry crossing on Highway 1, in Cambodia. South Vietnamese headquarters said more than 200 enemy troops were killed in the naval drive along the Mekong River.

The arrival of the flotilla at Phnom Penh was announced by the South Vietnamese, who made no mention of U.S. advisers aboard the boats.

The presence of advisers was reported later by South Vietnamese informants who are in a position to know.

The navy movement was accompanied by gains of South Vietnamese fighting along the banks of the Mekong farther south. South Vietnamese marines seized the key ferry crossing at Neak Luong on the Mekong and then drove on north and linked up today with U.S.-trained Cambodian strike forces.

A dispatch from Cambodia said four Marine battalions drove about a company of enemy troops from Neak Luong Sunday. They moved on about 2½ miles and met the Cambodians at the village of Kompong Phnom. This indicated that the 37 miles between the ferry crossing and the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh was clear of enemy troops.

Neak Luong lies on Highway 1, which connects Phnom Penh with Saigon.

Reports from Phnom Penh said the South Vietnamese Marines seized both sides of the ferry landing. They arrived with an allied flotilla that moved across the border from South Vietnam Saturday.

Other reports from the Neak Luong area said 20 to 30 South Vietnamese boats were maneuvering in the waterway between the two sides of the ferry landing.

The capture of Neak Luong removed the main obstacle on the road to the hard pressed provincial capital of Svay Rieng, 30 miles west of the Cambodian border.

U.S.-trained strike forces of Cambodians, born in South Vietnam and flown to Phnom Penh, are expected to spearhead the drive to clear the rest of the highway to Svay Rieng, about 40 miles southwest of Neak Luong, the Cambodian reports said.

Incomplete reports put allied losses in the Mekong River drive at least four Americans and 13 South Vietnamese killed and two Americans and 21 Vietnamese wounded.

The official announcement that the naval force would make the drive up the Mekong said the purpose was to provide relief supplies for 200,000 Vietnamese living in the Cambodian capital and to bring back to South Vietnam those who wanted to return.

The movement of U.S. forces taking part in the river operation or the support being provided to the South Vietnamese was couched in vague terms.

The U.S. Command stuck by an earlier announcement that American forces were "operating within guidance issued by higher authority for this operation and have not violated that guidance."

Reports from Washington have quoted President Nixon as saying U.S. forces will not penetrate more than 21.7 miles into Cambodia.

The U.S. Command reported two clashes with enemy troops

Sunday in Cambodian areas where American troops are searching out enemy stockpiles and base camps.

One was in the Fishhook area eight miles southeast of Mimot, and the other was six miles inside Cambodia along the region of South Vietnam's central highlands.

Eight American soldiers were reported killed and 18 wounded in those two actions. Enemy losses were unknown.

While the pushes went on into the Cambodian sanctuary areas, U.S. Strategic Air Command B52 bombers Sunday and today kept up their pounding of targets in the Fishhook.

Enemy gunners carried out 16

shellings overnight in South Vietnam, but only five caused casualties or damage and these were termed light by U.S. Headquarters.

President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam traveled to Tay Ninh, 45 miles northwest of Saigon, today for high-level briefings on the operations in Cambodia.

He told newsmen there that Cambodia has set no time or geographic limits on the current actions.

He said that if asked by the Cambodian government, South Vietnamese forces "can go farther into Cambodia ... and there is no deadline yet for getting out."

Many Campuses Reopen Despite Scattered Calls For Continued Protests

Administrators and political leaders ordered the reopening today of many campuses that were closed last week, but some students called for continued protests. Other schools offered compromise plans to keep classes going.

Students Show Scant Response To Boycott Call

RALEIGH (AP) — Class attendance was reported normal at North Carolina State University today despite a call for a student boycott as an extension of a mass march on the Capitol Friday.

The attendance report came from university officials after a spot check of classrooms.

"I've done all I can," said Cathy Sterling, president-elect of the student government, who called for the boycott Sunday. "It's up to the students now," added the 21-year-old School of Design student.

Miss Sterling also called for students and faculty members to attend a forum on strike issues at noon Tuesday.

were quiet Sunday as students from some of them returned from the weekend demonstration in Washington where about 60,000 persons gathered to protest operations by U.S. troops in Cambodia and the deaths of four Kent State University students.

At the University of Wisconsin, however, a crowd that grew to 4,000 marched on the administration building, breaking windows and demanding that the school reverse its rejection of a class moratorium request. Thundershowers helped National Guardsmen quell the turmoil.

In another development, officials of four major universities indicated they favored a proposal, adopted by Princeton last week, to give undergraduates time off this fall to work in political campaigns.

Among the campuses scheduled for reopening today were the California State university and college system. But student leaders at the Berkeley campus called for "curtailing normal activities for the remainder of the war" and opening the campus to mobilize resources and manpower for protests.

The University of Southern California announced that students won't be penalized if they skip classes the rest of the semester. President Norman Topping said the action was taken "to recognize the right of conscience of every member of the student body and faculty."

The University of Miami, Fla., was ordered by a federal judge to reopen today. The order was sought by two law students.

In New York, a suit filed by the Young Americans for Freedom forced the reopening of Nassau Community College on Long Island. A threatened lawsuit brought a similar reopening at nearby Hofstra University in Hempstead.

The National Student Congress, expecting 2,000 delegates from 61 schools, convened Sunday night at San Jose (Calif) State College under the slogan: "On strike but not shut down. Educational redirection."

At the University of Kansas students voted not to suspend school, leaving class attendance a personal option. Others will be allowed to attend topical discussions to finish the academic year.

The University of Iowa announced it would remain open through the end of final examinations but offered three alternatives for students so they could leave school without penalty.

The alternatives were to take a grade based on the work completed, take a "pass" or "withdrawal" from all classes, or take a grade of incomplete and finish the work next semester for a letter grade.

The university student senate had asked President Willard L. Boyd to close the school, and a student "strike steering committee" denounced his three-alternative plan as a strike-breaking technique.

At Massachusetts Institute of Technology the faculty voted Sunday night to keep the campus open but added that students won't be required to attend classes or take exams.

Boston College begins a three-day period today of being open for public seminars as an "open university to a divided world."

Princeton University was technically closed but anyone wishing to take final exams could arrange to do so with his professors. Students meanwhile maintained a "camp-in" around the Institute for Defense Analysis, a center that does work for the Defense Department.

Mixed Picture

RALEIGH (AP) — Sales tax receipts were up but income tax revenue declined last month as North Carolina's General Fund collections showed a drop of 1.2 per cent from April, 1969.

State Revenue Commissioner I. L. Clayton reported Saturday that the General Fund took in $74.8 million during April, compared to $75.7 million during the same month last year.

The sales tax, which reflects business conditions, brought in $21.6 million last month, an increase of $2.9 million over April, 1969.

However, income tax collections showed a decline of $3.8 million with total collections of $40.7 million.

For the first 10 months of this fiscal year, General Fund collections were $721.1 million, up $92.4 million from the same period a year ago.

Highway Fund receipts for April amounted to $21.2 million, an increase of $6.1 million. For the first 10 months of the fiscal year, collections totaled $245.1 million, a gain of $60.6 million.

Gasoline tax collections in April totaled $18.5 million, up $5.5 million. For this fiscal year, the tax has brought in $176.6 million, a gain of $46 million.

The two-cent tax from cigarettes produced $1.25 million during April while the one-cent levy on soft drinks brought in $1.56 million. For the fiscal year, cigarette tax collections have totaled $9.1 million and the soft drink tax $9.5 million.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon told Congress today he will propose new tax incentives to encourage exporters of American goods.

Nixon's surprise announcement came as the House Ways and Means Committee opened hearings on earlier proposals by the administration for a limited renewal of trade negotiating authority and other measures.

The hearings also cover proposals by many members of Congress for quotas on various categories of imports that have been entering the United States in large quantities, especially textiles and footwear.

As the principal U.S. negotiator, Carl J. Gilbert, was detailing the administration proposals, he was interrupted by a messenger bringing a long letter from Nixon to the committee chairman, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark.

The letter, read into the record by Mills, did not go into detail about the tax proposal. It said simply that administration officials will propose tax incentives applying to income from exports.

Boys Drown Near Wilson

WILSON, N.C. (AP)—A Mother's Day swim turned to tragedy Sunday when a 13-year-old boy went to the aid of a 15-year-old cousin and they both drowned in an irrigation pond near Wilson.

Authorities said Bobby Ray Barnes, 13, of Rt. 3, Wilson, and Raeford Allen, 15, of Middlesex were swimming in the pond with two companions when the double drowning occurred.

Chief Deputy Sheriff W. R. Tridgen of Wilson County said Allen apparently ran into difficulty. When the Barnes youth, his cousin, tried to help him, they both went under, Tridgen said.

Their bodies were recovered by the Wilson County Rescue Squad about an hour afterward, he said.

The two younger boys swimming with them ran for help, the deputy said.

Four Persons Hurt As Truck Overturns

FARMVILLE — Four persons were injured, one critically, when a truck overturned three miles north of here on N.C. 121 yesterday afternoon.

A passenger, Christine Foreman, 42, suffered severe head injuries as a result of the one-vehicle accident. Now in the special surgical unit at Pitt Memorial Hospital she is listed in critical condition.

The truck was driven by Ben Foreman of Route 1, Greenville, husband of the critically injured woman. He was charged with driving under the influence, according to Highway Patrolman S. F. Padgett, who investigated the accident. His condition is listed as satisfactory.

Also injured were passengers, Alice Christine Foreman, 16, daughter of the couple, and Theodore Roosevelt Jordan, 33, also of Route 1, Greenville condition was listed as satisfactory; Jordan's as serious.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $1,300.

FALL FROM FOUNTAIN FATAL — A 17-year-old Richmond (Va.) bricklayer, Curtis Dunnayan Jr., was killed Sunday afternoon when a fountain collapsed from beneath him in the city's Monroe Park. Dunnayan, trying to maintain balance as the 12-foot iron structure toppled, was thrown into the shallow pool below. He and several other youths were playing atop the fountain as part of a group consisting mostly of students who gathered in the park to listen to a rock music band. (AP Wirephoto)

Massive Probe Of Spanish Airliner Bombings

LONDON (AP) — A mass police investigation began across Europe today into attempts to plant suitcase firebombs aboard Spanish jet airliners in London, Geneva, Frankfurt and Amsterdam.

Detectives from the four cities were assembling in Paris for a meeting at Interpol police headquarters.

An official of Spain's Iberian Airlines said the sabotage attempts appeared to be the work of anarchists trying to disrupt Spain's lucrative tourist trade.

The incendiary bombs were planted Sunday on four planes that had a total of more than 100 passengers. But three of the bombs exploded on the ground and one in London was found before it went off.

The pattern of the attacks, with warning telephone calls to empty the Iberian jets before they took off, and the low explosive power of the incendiary devices, indicated that the bombers were trying to spread fear and not death.

But the blasts alarmed airport security officials, because they revealed that safety precautions put into action after Arab terrorists attacked several Israeli airliners were not effective enough to keep bombs off airliners.

Police issued renewed orders through Interpol for tight security checks at all Europe's international airports.

In London, a bomb found aboard an Iberian Airlines Caravelle jet was x-rayed and defused after a telephone call from a woman. Forty-five passengers were preparing to board the plane for Barcelona.

At Geneva, 56 passengers and crew were hurried off a DC9 jetliner bound for Spain after a telephone warning. The plane was towed from the airport building and a blast went off in the luggage compartment 15 minutes after the plane was supposed to be airborne.

Blackmun Vote Due In Senate

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — An apparently friendly Senate nomination of Judge Harry A. Blackmun today with no obstacles in sight to President Nixon's third try to fill the vacant seat.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who said he expects to back Blackmun "unless evidence to the contrary is forthcoming," indicated the vote might be delayed until Tuesday, however.

Asked if he thought the nominee would be confirmed, Mansfield said, "I hear he will be." Blackmun, who lives in Rochester, Minn., and has served on the 8th U.S. Court of Appeals since 1959, won a 17-0 vote of approval from the Senate Judiciary Committee last Tuesday after no one testified against his nomination.

President Nixon submitted Blackmun's nomination April 15 following the Senate's rejection of two Southern judges—Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. of South Carolina and G. Harrold Carswell of Florida—for the Supreme Court vacancy.

The court has been one member short since May of last year when Abe Fortas resigned in the midst of a furor over his ties with jailed financier Louis E. Wolfson's family foundation.

After Carswell's rejection, Nixon said he had reluctantly concluded the Senate was presently constituted would not confirm any Southern judge "who believes as I do in the strict construction of the Constitution."

"As long as the Senate is constituted the way it is," he said, "I will not nominate another Southerner and let him be subjected to the kind of malicious character assassination accorded both Judges Haynsworth and Carswell."

The President said that, in line with a campaign pledge he made to restore to the court "the balance that it genuinely needs," he would pick as a third nominee a strict constructionist from some other section of the country.

Senators who were active in the fight against the Haynsworth and Carswell nominations denied any regional discrimination and denounced Nixon's statement as politically motivated.

They tagged Carswell as mediocre and a racist and maintained Haynsworth had shown an antilabor and anticivil rights bias as well as insensitivity to problems of judicial ethics. Both nominees had strong opposition from labor and civil rights leaders.

At the hearing on the nomination of the 61-year-old Blackmun, a close friend of Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, such leading opponents of the earlier nominations as Sens. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., contended their fights had been vindicated.

Burger, Nixon's first appointee to the court, was confirmed by the Senate last year without any fuss.

All Adult Americans Are On Mailing Lists

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — It is unlikely that anything less than 99.9 per cent of the adult American population is on mailing lists of some sort or another, and that can include any of several hundred categories.

If you ever went to school or wrote away for something you're listed. You can't escape. Your name is worth money to thousands of companies. While it may be sold to them for only 2 cents, you are, remember, only one of millions.

Mailing lists are compiled constantly from automobile registrations, telephone books, club rosters, graduation lists, birth announcements, newspaper stories, other mailing lists and surveys.

In some states, automobile registration lists are regularly provided to list assemblers. Some schools, or their employees, will sell graduation lists to compilers. Owners of lists in one category sell them to companies in related fields.

That they are on mailing lists is hardly news to 99.9 per cent of adult Americans who have become accustomed, with varying degrees of annoyance, to having their letter boxes stuffed with unsolicited mail.

REMEMBERS TEETH
CENTRAL CITY, Ky. (AP) — Walter Ashley's friends at the American Legion gave him a new set of false teeth.

In the excitement, Ashley slipped them into his hip pocket and forgot about them until he sat down.

Now the Supreme Court has apparently decided that you don't have to sit back and take it any longer. If you don't want to accept this so-called pollution of the mails you may inform the post office that you wish deliveries to cease.

The Post Office, so notified, will then order the mailer to refrain from sending any more materials. Moreover, the mailer will be compelled to delete the complainant's name from his mailing lists.

Originally the right to have one's name deleted from mailing lists was meant to protect recipients from advertisements for sex books, magazines and similar materials. It was incorporated in a 1967 law.

In a Supreme Court ruling this week, however, the law seems to have been extended to cover any unsolicited mail, regardless of content. Every individual, Chief Justice Burger ruled, has a right to be left alone.

Logical as this ruling may sound to many Americans, it is certain to be a source of irritation to many companies for years to come. Thousands of legitimate firms are involved in mail order advertising. And billions of dollars in goods are moved by such ads.

The direct mail advertiser forces the recipient to handle his message. Otherwise, the recipient's mail box becomes cluttered with the very material he seeks to avoid.

So why shouldn't he be able to protect himself? That, in effect, is what the Supreme Court asked and then answered. But mail advertisers contend that such restrictions limit their right of free speech.

Cracking Grocery Codes Mother's Day: Is Job For Supersleuth Pro And Con

By ESTELLE JACKSON
Richmond Times-Dispatch
RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Ever wonder how fresh the food you really buy is? Ever suspect that the food you're eating may have been standing overly long on the grocery shelf?

The answer is probably marked right on your grocery packages.

Most perishable food products found in supermarkets are marked with a date—either the date of packaging or the date the item is to be withdrawn or "pulled" from the store counter or shelf.

The problem is that most of the dates are in code—and most of the codes are secret.

What is the significance of the numbers marked in purple or black on the undersides of boxes and cans?

In an effort to find the answer, I visited stores of several local supermarket chains. I found some help and encountered some resistance. But I did manage to crack quite a few codes.

A carton of potato salad, one of my first targets, was coded in a fairly common, but baffling, manner. The numbers on the

Limeys On Top Of Dating List

SYDNEY, Australia (WNS) — Since warships from 11 nations will be coming here for the Captain Cook bicentenary celebration, Australian navy officials have set up an office where girls may register and specify what nationality of sailor they prefer to date. The bureau was jammed on opening day and promptly dubbed "The Call Boy" scheme. Australian girls have put British sailors at the top of the list.

Codes can contain more than dates. Some codes also contain symbols representing cities, packing plants, vat number and even shift numbers. Processors say this must be done to identify specific batches for checking the validity of consumer complaints, as in cases where food products must be recalled.

Letter codes can really be perplexing. One technique is to employ a six-letter word, like NEWARK, in which no letters are repeated. Using NEWARK, an N could represent Monday, E Tuesday and so forth. Some manufacturers prefer a 10-letter code, using a word combination like NOURISH EAT. When they reach the end of the 10-day cycle with a T, they can simply start all over again with an N.

Easily understood codes, in which the packaging or expiration dates are written in plain English, fall into the category of "opening coding."

And open coding is what various consumer organizations want. It would be mandatory if a bill now before Congress is passed.

Rep. Leonard Farbstein (D-N.Y.) is the author of the bill, an amendment to the Fair Labeling and Packaging Act. The bill, which has 47 sponsors in Congress, includes provisions for open dating by uniformly using the product's "pull" or expiration date.

Preliminary results of surveys made for Farbstein's office by women investigators in the Washington area were disclosed by Ellis Levin, the congressman's legislative assistant.

"Everything sold is not stale, but a significant amount of food is older than the codes say, it should be," said Levin. "We're finding this especially in milk, bread and meat. The greatest abuse is in low income areas. However, middle income area housewives are concerned, too, about paying a lot of money for stale food."

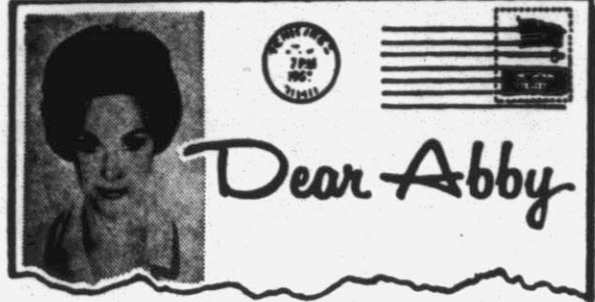

Food industry spokesman maintain that open coding would add to the cost of food and contend it is not necessary because the purpose of coding is to help stores rotate products. They say the codes are not the customers' business.

S. Frank Straus, executive vice president of the Virginia Food Dealers Association, says that coding would "create more problems than it solves."

"Housewives would buy things with the newest and freshest dates," he said. "The last merchandise in would be the first out. This would create a vast problem in that much merchandise would have to be destroyed and credited. Imagine what that would do to the price of food."

Proponents of open coding counter industry arguments by saying that open dating would not be an extra cost, since the industry is already coding food. They argue that open dating has existed for years in some European countries.

Sign me, "A LOVED WIFE"

DEAR WIFE: And here it is—a day late. [Like many of the cards and gifts.]

DEAR ABBY: Please don't laugh, but my problem is a generous husband. On every gift-giving occasion [my birthday, anniversary, Mother's day, Christmas, etc.], he buys me wearing apparel. The thought is very much appreciated, but Abby, his "taste" is terrible and nothing he selects looks good on me. The salespeople must see him coming, and unload their hard-to-sell merchandise on my husband because everything he brings home is just too ugly for words. Each attempt to tell him or take back what he has bought always ends up in a fight.

Abby, I haven't bought a thing to wear in 4 years. He spends a lot more on my clothing than I would, and we can't afford to buy things and not wear them.
He's really a good man, but how I wish he'd quit buying me things! Can you help me? DRESSED ALL WRONG

DEAR DRESSED: Tell your husband that you appreciate his "generosity," but since you have to wear the clothes, you'd like a voice in selecting them. If he insists on buying you wearing apparel after that, take it back. Your husband's stubborn insistence that you shall wear what HE selects shows more selfishness and immaturity than "generosity."

DEAR ABBY: I am all for abolishing MOTHER'S DAY. You break your neck from the time they're born trying to make your children happy, then they grow up and break your heart with word and deed.

Come next May I'm going to throw my gushy Mother's day card into the wastebasket as fast as I can get it out of the mailman's hand.
DISILLUSIONED MOM

DEAR DISILLUSIONED: The mistake most parents make is in striving to make their children "happy." Happiness is a product of other things which must come first. If a child is taught honesty, integrity, unselfishness, humility and respect for the feelings of others, he will then be "happy."

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. K: No, it isn't necessary for a writer to sign his name in order for his letter to appear in my column. And I NEVER use a name and location without permission from the writer.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

If the Shoe Fits.

BY LARRY AVERETTE

Is it possible for a child with a 3A foot to wear a size 13½ EE?

Yes, but we know that this fit would be entirely wrong because the short wide last does not conform to the long narrow foot. Yet this obvious misfit will have the appearance of a good fitting shoe. It may feel comfortable on the child and not slip at the heel. The excess width of the shoe compensates somewhat for the short fit. Nevertheless, the shoe is too short, and the toes are crowded.

Remember, children's feet seldom hurt. Obvious damage to the foot can result from a fit like this. This example is not unrealistic, and it emphasizes again the service that a sincere shoe fitter can perform in avoiding future foot disorders for your child.

Gov. Scott Made Wise Choice

Faced with the choice of setting free a convicted murderer or commuting his sentence from death to life imprisonment, Gov. Scott wisely decided on the latter.

Under a federal court order to make the choice, Gov. Scott served the best interest of the state and its people by deciding against turning a convicted murderer loose on society. There have been, in our judgment, far too many instances in which federal court orders have in effect freed on technicalities persons convicted of serious crimes. In many instances — as in this one in North Carolina — there was no question of the guilt of the party, but rather technicalities in the law.

Pressure to do away with the death penalty is increasing in every state which still has capital punishment. The pressure is coming not just from segments of the public, but seemingly from federal court decisions as well. In addition, federal court decisions in recent years have severely restricted crime detection methods and the treatment of persons accused of crimes. This has made the job of both the law enforcement agencies and the lower courts increasingly difficult.

The rights of individual citizens must be protected, and the vast majority of citizens agree that every reasonable effort must be made to protect individual rights of those accused of crimes.

At the same time, most citizens are also anxious that the right of society as a whole to live in a climate of law and order not be lost in the effort to protect the rights of those accused of crimes. The rights of law abiding citizens to equal protection under the law are just as important as the rights of those convicted of crimes.

REA Birthday Is This Month

By BRYAN HAILSLIP

RALEIGH—A friend of mine has a birthday this month and I want to celebrate.

It means a lot to me because this particular friend helped me out when I was a boy. Maybe it wouldn't be too much to say that it changed the way of life down on the farm near Oak City for me and my family.

The friend I'm talking about is the North Carolina Rural Electrification Authority. An act of the General Assembly, ratified on May 3, 1935, created the REA as a state agency.

In those days only 3.2 per cent of North Carolina farms had electricity. We were in the other 96.8 per cent down in eastern Martin County. It was a little better for the U.S. as a whole, with 10.9 per cent of farms on power lines, but it was just assumed that one of the differences between living in town and living in the country was electric lights.

Today 99 per cent of Tar Heel farms have electric service, ahead of the national percentage of 98.4. Electric membership corporations organized under the North Carolina REA program are serving more than 260,000 families and 10,000 businesses and industries. David Hamill, the U.S. Rural Electrification Administrator, recently reported that more than 320,000 North Carolina electric consumers and more than 96,000 telephone subscribers are served by REA borrowers.

My children read the statistics but they don't really see the picture. An ice storm knocked out the power a couple of years ago. They thought it was great fun — warming by the fireplace, cooking over the coals, using candles for light. "Just like the old days," my daughter said smugly. The novelty wore thin the second day, and power finally was restored before everybody's nerves snapped.

When I was a teenager — I didn't know I was because the word wasn't invented; I thought I was still a child which shows the innocence of the time — when I was my children's age it was my job to get up first, light the lamp, build the fire in the stove, and bring water from the well. Not bad chores in summer, but something else again in a house cold from a winter night, and frost rime white on the well chain.

The Martin-Edgcombe electric membership corporation was organized and chartered in 1936. Its first project, on a loan of $32,000, was 32 miles of line to serve 87 farm consumers, and was completed in April, 1937.

It was a great day, and even better at night. The house blazed with light. Bare bulbs hung on drop cords from the middle of the ceiling and today you'd think it made an awful glare. We didn't. "Gee," said my sister. "It's like having an Alladin lamp in every room."

I won't even try to explain what an Alladin lamp was, only to say it gave a whiter light than a kerosene lamp, but still nothing like a 65-watt bulb.

That was the beginning. A refrigerator, a stove (Mother kept the wood stove on the other side of the kitchen and made the transition by degrees), an electric iron — all the things electricity made possible for convenience and better living followed in turn. Indoor plumbing ended my early morning trips to the well. My friend REA had taken over my enormous chores.

Gwyn B. Price, an Ashe County farmer and teacher, was named chairman of the North Carolina Rural Electrification Authority by the late Governor J. Melville Broughton in 1941, six years after the creation of the agency. He's continued to hold the job under seven succeeding governors, directing the widening service of REA.

The Biblical three score and ten divided by half is 35 which ought to mean that middle-age beings on that birthday. Not for REA; it remains vigorous and ready for challenge.

Governor Scott tossed a new one — rural housing — to it this spring in a speech to the Tarheel Electric Membership Association.

"I am calling upon you, the rural electric cooperatives, to assume the leadership in identifying the housing problems in your areas, in calling together other interested citizens to identify and work on problems inhibiting housing development and in working without State and Federal housing agencies to take advantage of every program available," he said.

That's a story for the future. My greeting is for the accomplishments of the past, a 35-year record of achievement in bringing light and power to rural North Carolina.

Happy Birthday, REA!

Moon Flight Delay Is Time Well Spent

We have a feeling that the House Appropriations Committee did the right thing to order a postponement of the Apollo 14 moon launch until next year.

The committee said the delay was requested to give more time to studying the problems encountered in last month's Apollo 13 flight. At the same time the committee said it was not its intention to limit the number of moon landings.

We have felt that it would be bad to cancel our moon exploration program now that so much money has been spent to develop the equipment to get us there.

At the same time, however, we should carefully study the equipment failure that endangered the last mission. If this means a few month's delay, it could be time well spent.

Nixon Agonized Over Decision

By ROWLAND EVANS

WASHINGTON — Only

days before President Nixon ordered U.S. troops into the Fishhook Communist sanctuary of Cambodia, a tentative decision had been reached at the highest levels not to permit so much as one U.S. adviser to accompany South Vietnamese troops into Cambodia's Parrot's Beak areas.

The reason for this tentative Presidential decision was obvious. Stung by the sharp political reaction to disclosures in early March that U.S. advisers in Laos had been killed, Mr. Nixon did not want to risk the loss of even one U.S. adviser in Cambodia.

That tentative decision became moot when the President decided — on Monday evening, April 27 — to approve the far more ambitious attack on the Cambodian sanctuaries which he announced last Thursday night.

The original operation was expanded from the relatively limited penetration of the Parrot's Beak area, to be conducted wholly by South Vietnamese troops with no U.S. help on the ground, to the far more sensitive and dangerous area in the north known as the Fishhook.

But the decision to destroy the vital Communist sanctuary in the Fishhook area posed a far more difficult problem. Here were not only vast food, medical, and ammunition stores, but also highly trained Communist troops. Mr. Nixon's military commanders in Saigon, strongly backed by Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, warned that if South Vietnamese troops were sent into Fishhook alone and a strong Communist force engaged them, they might be slaughtered. In short, this was an operation that could be safely entrusted only to American troops.

The President agonized over his decision for days, then decided on the first of two major gambles, the military gamble of junking his earlier, limited plan for Parrot's Beak. He approved full-scale intervention by U.S. troops in the Fishhook. With American combat forces entering one area of Cambodia, all reason to bar U.S. advisers in another area of Cambodia disappeared, and advisers were assigned to the Parrot's Beak operation.

The military logic of the expanded operation seems indisputable, and is directly tied into the withdrawal of U.S. troops. Looking down the troop withdrawal road beyond next spring, when the latest withdrawal increment of 150,000 troops is supposed to be finished, Mr. Nixon has been deeply worried about continuing casualties after the U.S. combat force is reduced to some 10 percent of its mid-1969 level, when withdrawals first began.

Specifically, he did not see how he could justify a continuing casualty rate of some 8,000 U.S. dead in 1971 at the same time that combat troops were being slowly pulled out, exposing those left behind to heavy attacks. Thus, some way had to be found to reduce that casualty level during the final stages of combat — troop withdrawals or risk a massive and nationwide political demand for immediate withdrawal of all combat troops before they could be replaced with South Vietnamese units.

Destruction of the Cambodian sanctuaries was his answer. It would disrupt the cycle of Communist attack and withdrawal for as much as 10 months — The time that military officials say it will take the Communists to rebuild and resupply their bases.

Moreover, if operations against the Fishhook area can be accomplished without high U.S. casualties, they undoubtedly will be repeated in the future, reducing Communist attacks into South Vietnam and cushioning the time squeeze.

Strength For Today

GIVE US ALL THE TRUTH

The philosopher Hegel maintained that if we knew more we would sin less, and that if we knew all we would cease to sin. He was one of the chief supporters of the contention that humanity is to be saved by enlightenment.

But the German nation of which Hegel was a part was not saved by enlightenment. Neither does America appear likely to become the earthly counterpart of the kingdom of God because of its enlightenment. As matters stand now, we are very likely to cut our own throats within the next few centuries with the weapons which in our "wisdom" we have fashioned. To enlighten the mind of a nation and not to enlighten its conscience is to push it in the direction of the precipice. Great universities are fine provided they teach all the truth, which includes spiritual truth; but a system of education that deals only with the knowledge man had discovered and not at all with the truth God has revealed is not beneficial to a nation's life, but baneful.

Everyone is awake to the dangers of Communism, but fail to realize the danger in which our nation stands because of false ideals of education. Sound education must include all truth — spiritual as well as material, religious as well as secular.

The 'Insurance' Factor

WASHINGTON — No one who has followed the events of the past two weeks can have anything but admiration for the political sagacity of Atty. Gen. John Mitchell.

Mitchell's astuteness as a king-maker goes back to Miami Beach, Fla., where he engineered the nomination of Richard M. Nixon as the Republican candidate for President of the United States. But it did not end there. In one of the smoke-filled rooms that you always read about, Mitchell, puffing on his pipe, discussed some of the problems Mr. Nixon would have to face if he were elected to the Presidency.

"One of the things we can't overlook," Mitchell said, "is that the people might want to impeach you, Dick, at some time early in your term."

"I haven't even been elected yet, and you're already talking about my impeachment," Mr. Nixon protested.

"We have to prepare for every contingency," Mitchell said. "Suppose you decide to widen the war in Indochina?"

"But I've promised to end the war in Vietnam and bring our boys home."

"We know what you've promised, Dick. But you may wish at some stage to go into Cambodia or Laos."

"Why that's ridiculous. Why would I do that?" Mr. Nixon asked.

"Perhaps to clean out the Communist sanctuaries once and for all."

But if I did that," Mr. Nixon said, "they'd have to impeach me."

"Precisely what I said," Mitchell said.

"I don't want to be impeached," Mr. Nixon cried. "Not after all the work I put in to get the nomination."

"You don't have to be, Dick. We have to make it impossible for them to take your job away."

"How do you do that?"

"We have to select a Vice President that the public will be so frightened of that they wouldn't dare impeach you."

"I never thought of that,"

ART BUCHWALD

Mr. Nixon admitted. "The best insurance a President could have would be to have someone standing in the wings that nobody could accept for the office. Who fits the description?"

The attorney general took out a list. "We have a few people here that might fill the role. Strom Thurmond, Gov. Kirk of Florida, Gov. Reagan of California, Carl McIntyre of the Christian Anti-Communist Crusade, J. Edgar Hoover, and that guy from Maryland... what's his name?"

"What do you mean what's his name?"

"I have it somewhere. Here it is. Spiro Agnew."

"You have to be kidding. Whoever heard of Spiro Agnew?"

"That's not the point. With television we can make him into a household name overnight. The question is, can he produce enough fear in

Other Editors Say Pitt Still Ahead

Kinston Free Press

The voters in neighboring Pitt County have rejected by a vote of 4,562 to 3,700 a proposal to elevate Pitt Technical Institute to the rank of a community college. The referendum called for tax authority to provide matching funds for state operation and maintenance of two-year college courses.

In rejecting the proposal the taxpayers of Pitt County have taken cognizance of the fact that with East Carolina University serving a wide region at Greenville, the State has been generous in its support of that institution. Its classes are open to all who qualify, and there is not the urgent need for a two-year community college that has existed in many other parts of North Carolina.

Futhermore the 54 state institutions that make up community colleges and technical institutes in North Carolina were designed at the outset to fill in the area gaps and provide commuter institutions for those who would need them in a 30-mile radius of their locations. This has been done to a large degree. Further expansion of the community college system now would add to the State's tax burden to a significant degree and serve to nullify the purpose of the Department of Community Colleges at this point.

It is good that the leaders of Pitt Technical Institute have accepted the verdict in good faith and have promised to make the Institute one of the best of its kind in the system. With its vocational opportunities and the varied college program at ECU, Pitt residents will still be far ahead of many other counties in what they have access to from state educational tax programs.

Silver Market Affects Coins

By ELMER ROESSNER

The high price of silver — or perhaps it is the low value of the dollar — has resulted in a curious new wrinkle in banking. It has also led to an unprecedented wrinkle in picketing.

Silver coins now contain more than their original value in silver. Silver is now around $1.70 an ounce. However, it is against the law to melt silver coins, although amount of silver, originally for coinage purposes and to stabilize the silver market for the mining industry. Accumulation was speeded during World War II when copper was so scarce that the government used some silver — and expected it might have to use more — for conductors in critical electronic weaponry.

Weekly Sales

Because the government now has no use for the silver, the Treasury is auctioning about 1,500,000 ounces of silver in ingot form for business uses every week. It still holds about 65 million ounces in ingot silver and about 20 million more in coins, and the ingot silver may be sold out later this year.

If it is, the government may permit the melting of silver coins.

A few all-silver coins occasionally show up amidst the cooper-sandwich coins now being minted, but more of them have disappeared. Hoping to make a profit when melting is permitted, coin dealers, speculators and some banks have been buying these coins, paying from 30 to 35 per cent over face value for them.

But dealers and speculators find that this not only ties up their money, which is costly these days, but also requires costs for security. So they now lend these coins to banks with the condition that they will be repaid in silver coins.

Interest Is Low

Banks cannot lend these coins, but they can include them in their cash reserve, thus freeing other money for lending at 8 per cent or more. They will pay only 2.5 or 3 per cent. However, by putting the coins in their vaults, they save the speculators costs of security, making it a good deal for them.

The strange case of picketing came last week when Federal Bureau of Investigation agents arrested three men charged with plotting to melt down $500,000 in silver coins, and with extortion of a coin dealer.

One of the men was Joseph Colombo, Jr., 23, the son of a reputed boss of one of the six Mafia families in the New York area. Colombo, Sr., quickly organized picketing of the New York FBI

South Support Solid

By ED ROGERS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has found a protective shield in the House where thus far he has received almost solid support from the South for his Cambodian move.

In the Senate, more than half the membership have taken stands against Nixon's Cambodian decision, a UPI survey showed.

Members of this Senate bloc sponsored the idea of using a supplemental appropriations bill to reassert congressional control over war policy.

Their strategy was to insert a clause in the military appropriations bill to halt military operations in Cambodia after July 1 except for protecting withdrawals. Some versions would set a June 30, 1971, deadline for further financing of the war in Vietnam.

There seemed to be little chance of passing such strictures in the Senate, at least for the present. But there were estimates that such a proposal now would get up to 30 votes and the number was likely to grow.

UPI counted at least 51 of the 100 senators who had spoken out against the President's move in Cambodia, including 13 of the Senate's 43 Republicans.

Expressed Approval

Only 21 senators have expressed approval of the President's policy. Nixon's beleaguered position was being widely with that of President Lyndon B. Johnson just before Johnson announced he would not seek reelection.

Anti-war House members seized upon the Senate proposal and rushed a similar measure to successive voters Wednesday and Thursday. They met decisive defeats, but by far smaller margins than anti-war votes of previous years.

Thanks to the administration's publicized "southern strategy" and to the basically hawkish views of most southern conservatives, Nixon's Dixie anchorage held fast.

In two key votes indirectly geared to the Cambodian operation, Nixon's position won by votes of 248 to 146 and 220 to 174. Only a handful of Southerners voted on the opposition side in each vote.

In the vote Wednesday on a military procurement authorization bill, Southerners favoring strictures on Cambodian operations included Reps. Dante B. Fascell, Sam M. Gibbons, and Claude Pepper, D-Fla.; Richard Fulton, D-Tenn.; Richardson Preyer and Nick Galifianakis, D-N.C., and David Prior, D-Ark.

In the Thursday vote, concerning military appropriations, Fulton switched to the pro-Nixon side.

Military Bills

While the legislation concerned only military bills and debate spread to the subjects of student demonstrations and the use of such epithets as "bums" by administration figures.

The White House found defenders in the war of words as well as in the votes.

Said Rep. Robert L.F. Sikes, D-Fla., "college presidents have in many instances made a sorry show of providing lead-

Count Swain Votes Today

BRYSON CITY, N.C. (AP) —
The ballots cast in the Swain County primary election May 2 were to be counted this afternoon under the supervision of Alex Brock, executive secretary of the State Board of Elections.
The board met Saturday and directed that the votes be counted and the winners certified.
Ernest House, a member of the state board, was designated as an observer for the counting in the court room of the Swain courthouse.

Superior Court Judge Thad Bryson ordered the ballots impounded after the primary on a contention that the vote count would be false if not supervised.
The contention was made by James Franklin, a Democratic candidate for sheriff.

The state Court of Appeals cleared the way Friday for the vote count when it ordered that the ballots be turned over to the state board and the Swain Board of Elections.

gamble that he could control his seething homefront in the face of an expansion of the war—is more dangerous, with far higher stakes.

Student revolts in campuses across the country are now reaching a new peak. In Congress, efforts to curtail Presidential power in Vietnam are being seriously discussed, with the sympathy of some Senators from the President's own Republican party.

However well Mr. Nixon's military gamble works, the pay-off will be worthless if he cannot also win his political gamble.

Buchwald . . .

the American electorate to keep it from impeaching
you?"

"How do we know that?"
Mr. Nixon asked.

"We don't know it," Mitchell replied. "But we've been talking to the guy, and he sounds like someone who can really ruffle people's feathers. If we send him out to fund-raising dinners for a year and give him enough exposure, and let him say what he wants, no one in this country would dare impeach
you."

As everyone knows, Mr.
Nixon bought the idea, and last week when all the impeachment talk concerning President started, Atty. Gen.
Mitchell was the smuggest man in Washington. He called up the President and chuckled:

"That's another favor you owe me."

COCKFIGHT HAUL

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) —
State police made one of their largest hauls in years while raiding a cockfight at nearby Versailles. They arrested and charged 110 persons, including a number of women.

an immediate hit and has since blossomed into the most popular—and most controversial—TV program in West Germany.

30 Million 'Sleuths'
It has been praised as the
"criminal investigation method of the 21st century," and also condemned as playing up to denunciation-prone Germans, making them neighborhood
spies.

But Eduard Zimmermann, 41, the former police reporter who created, produces and moderates the show, laughs off his critics. He can afford to.

Each time "Aktenzeichen" goes on the air, 30 million persons from the Baltic Sea to the Alps, through Austria and Switzerland, sit glued to their TV sets.

Video Clues
"People feel genuinely threatened by the rise in crime rates and the inability of police to do anything about it," Zimmermann said in an interview.
"They want to do something about crime and we give them the chance. So of course they respond."

Zimmermann has written a best-selling book on "Aktenzeichen." He also syndicates capsulized versions of programs to magazines and newspapers.

The program format is simple. Professional actors recreate actual crimes in short film clips which appear on the show interspersed with a series of close-up still shots of suspects, weapons, car license plates and other clues. A policeman sometimes discusses the case.

They Solve Cases
Then viewers are asked to telephone the studio or their local police station with any information they might have to offer.

The result? Take Erich Wolf, for instance.

Police were without clues after they found the partially decomposed body of a young girl in a pond not far from Frankfurt. For six months they tried to identify her.

Then they took the case to Zimmermann. He put it on his show and shortly afterward a relative stepped forward to identify the girl.

Wolf was asuspect in the killing, but he could not be found. He was arrested several months later after a bartender recognized his face from a second "Aktenzeichen" show.

Crime Ring Smashed
Another time, two men broke into a German army munitions depot near the French border.
They shot down the five guards,
four of whom died.

The fifth was able to describe his attackers. Police had only a few clues. After several months, they went to Zimmermann.

One day after the show, a fortune teller in Bonn, 100 miles to the north, became suspicious of one of her customers. She recognized his car's license number from "Aktenzeichen," rang police, and helped crack what Zimmermann called a "Mafia-type" organization in the area.

The show is not limited to murders. Each of the 10 programs a year is devoted to ership out of these problems in their formative period."

Protests have gotten out of hand and the main thing needed is control, he told the House.

"What bothers me is not President Nixon's (Cambodian) decision," Rep. William E.
(Bill) Brock III, R - Tenn., a supporter of Nixon, said, "but the events since his speech...in a period of crisis...there is a damaging lack of responsibility on the part of many political figures."

But there were immediate signs that the Cambodian move is to undergo more political testing in the House.

Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., a House liberal, led a move by 54 Democrats to convene an emergency meeting of the House Democratic caucus some time this week to debate the Cambodia issue.

Ryan said many Republicans also oppose the administration's war policy, as shown by their votes on the appropriations bill.
But he said:

"The Democratic Party caucus offers the only mechanism by which we can fully debate the issues inasmuch as debate was cut off on amendments to the military procurement bill last Wednesday."

There also was a bipartisan move by 18 House members to get the issue back on the floor of the House through debate on a resolution to cut off further military spending in Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam.

flashing on the screen mug and shots of car thieves, burglars by police.

Of the 153 cases dealt with on "Aktenzeichen's" first 23 showings, 75 were solved, according to Zimmermann through viewers' tips.

In that same time, 125 persons have been charged with crimes as a result of the show.

Seaweed Salesmen

Schoolboys' seaweed harvest gets under way on a Bermuda beach.

Some 20 Bermuda schoolboys are looking forward to a four-week trip to Europe this summer—and seaweed will help to foot the bill.

The boys are members of the Hamilton Junior Greens football (soccer) club. They go to six different schools—the main thing they have in common is their interest in their team.

They plan to start their vacation with a visit to Great Britain, taking in the Commonwealth Games in Edinburgh. They'll only be spectators at the Games, although they do hope to play against a few youth clubs while they're in Scotland. Afterwards they'll go on to Scandinavia, Germany and Holland.

The trip is going to cost around $10,000. And that's a lot of money for schoolboys—hence the venture into the seaweed business. This is the club's largest single money-raising project, but it's not the only one. They ran a fair in March, made and sold kites for Good Friday, and hope to make and sell punts for $20 apiece. They'll also do any other type of odd job: washing windows, cleaning cars, what you will.

The idea of using seaweed as a fertilizer isn't new to commercial agriculture. The idea of supplying it to homes with small gardens is. The boys take orders, collect the seaweed from the beaches, stuff it into bags weighing around 70 lbs each when full, deliver them and even spread the seaweed on the garden. They charge about a $1 per bag.

Business is thriving, the gardens are blooming, and that well-earned holiday jaunt grows daily nearer and nearer.

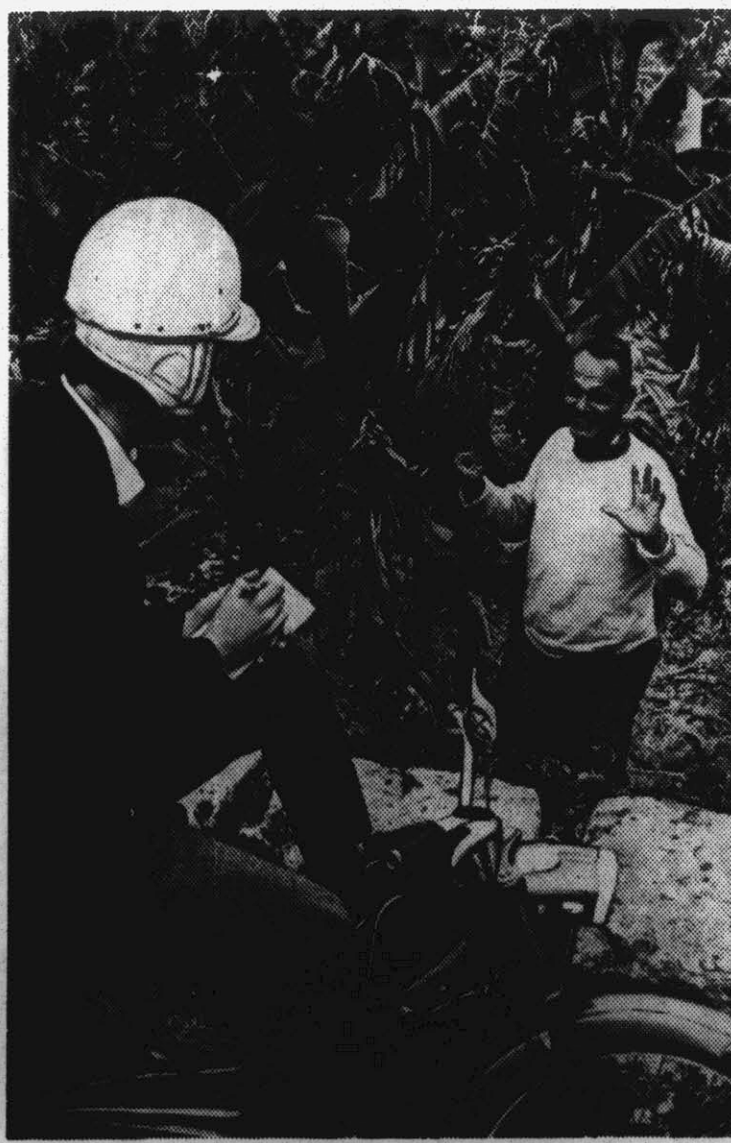

The "crop" is stuffed into 70 lb. bags...

... then into a station wagon for distribution.

Teamwork of "seaweed salesmen" begins with their soccer.

Orders are given enthusiastically...

... delivered with down-to-earth exactness!

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market drifted narrowly downward this morning in very slow trading.

At 11 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 39 industrials was off 2.18 at 715.55.

Declines led advances by a sizeable margin. Analysts said many investors had pulled to the sidelines awaiting progress of the U.S. action in Cambodia.

Some analysts said the market technically had been acting as though it might be forming a base, but so far little support for a technical rally has appeared.

Arrest Trio At Residence

Pitt County Sheriffs officers have arrested two teenage boys and a girl on separate charges following investigation of activities at a Rt. 1, Winterville home.

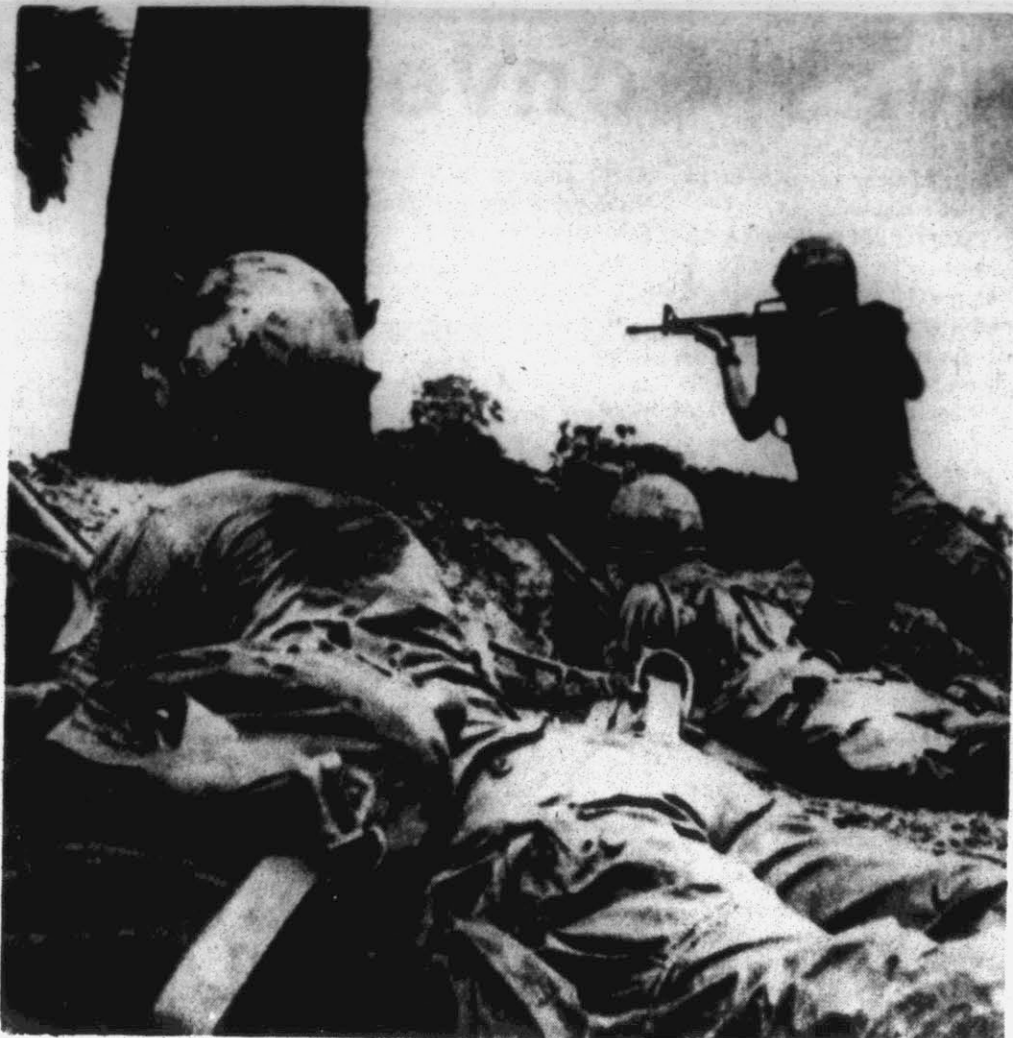

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that the two boys, Randy Harker, 19, of Rt. 1, Winterville, and Robert William Geisler, 17, of York Road, Greenville, were arrested Thursday.

Harker was charged with keeping a disorderly house and receiving stolen goods and placed under $1,000 bond. Geisler was charged with interfering with an officer while in the line of duty at the Rt. 1, Winterville residence known locally as the "Freedom House." He was also placed under $1,000 bond.

Deputies arrested Yvonne Owens, 17, of Wilson, Sunday at 8:05 p.m. on charges of fornication and adultery at the residence.

The Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that she has been released on $200 bond and is scheduled to appear for trial on May 26.

Harker was released on bond Friday, he said, and Geisler was released this morning after posting bond.

Five Persons Hurt In Sunday Mishaps

More than $900 property damage was reported by police who investigated two traffic mishaps here yesterday, in which five persons were reported injured.

Heaviest damage officers said, resulted from a 12:23 p.m. collision at the intersection of Greene Street and Mumford Road, and involved cars driven by Dossie Herbert Carson, 64, of 506 East Gum Rd. and Dallas Ward Leggett, 38, of Route 7, Greenville.

Police, who listed no charges, reported that Carson and one passenger in his car were injured while three passengers in the Leggett vehicle were reported injured.

Damage was set at $300 to the Carson car, $400 to the Leggett vehicle and $10 to a storage house at the Food Mart at the Greene and Mumford intersection.

No charges were ported in the second mishap, which occurred about 8:30 a.m. at the intersection of U.S. 264 and Hooker Road and involved cars driven by William Edward Waters, 30, of Tyson Trailer Court and Octavia Allen Jones, of Bethel.

Police set damage to the Waters car at $200 and reported no damage resulted to the Jones vehicle.

Beneficiary Of Two $20 Bills

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP) — The La Crosse school system's library is the beneficiary of two $20 bills that accompany an unsigned letter in which the author related some misbehavior years ago.

"Many years ago, in the fourth or fifth grade, I took some school things—mostly like a box of thumbtacks, a box of paints," School Supt. Edsel Vergin was told in the letter.

"Also, I did take some money from the teacher's desk and some story books," it said. "I am so sorry now. You are short of money to buy things. Please buy more library books."

Charge Janitor In Boy's Death

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Robert Lee (Pop) Robinson, a 69-year-old janitor, has been charged with murder in the Saturday night shooting death of a 10-year-old Charlotte boy.

Police charged Robinson after Roger Leroy Banks was killed in a shotgun blast. Robinson has also been charged with assault with a deadly weapon in the wounding of the boy's companion, Willie Lee Hammonds.

Officers said the youths had just walked past a chicken coop owned by Robinson when they were shot. A neighbor found the boys lying in the alley and called police, but Banks was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Gold Standard For The Swinger

FRAINGHAM, Mass. (UPI)—Gold-filled eyeglass frames, all the rage with conservative bankers and lawyers in the 1920s and 1930s, are staging a comeback. Only this time around it's the young swingers who are going on the gold standard.

The craze is partly due to nostalgia for the past, and partly because the gold-filled frames turned out to look right with mod apparel—even on 20-20 types who don't need glasses, says American Optical Corp.

Will Require Disclosures

MIAMI (AP) — Americans will be required to report their foreign bank accounts on their tax returns for 1970, the director of the Internal Revenue Service announced today.

Randolph W. Thrower, the IRS head, told the University of Miami Tax Conference: "Taxpayers will be required to disclose the existence of foreign bank accounts on 1970 tax returns."

Thrower said the IRS now is considering the manner in which the bank accounts will be reported.

"The law does not provide our agents with all of the tools they need to cope with the illegal use of foreign banks," Thrower said. He said a Treasury Department task force is working on the problem and will develop recommendations.

Describing secret foreign bank accounts as a "matter of growing concern," the IRS chief said the anonymity they offer has been used to conceal income from such things as narcotics smuggling, black market currency operations in Southeast Asia and illegal trading in gold.

"There are a significant number of foreign accounts opened primarily to facilitate tax evasion by people who otherwise appear respectable and law abiding," Thrower said.

High Ratio Of Adults Graduating

COLUMBIA (AP) — One out of every eight high school graduates in South Carolina this year will be an adult, one of the highest such ratios in the nation and a reflection of the growing adult education program in the Palmetto state.

The graduating adults, about 5,000 in number, will receive the diplomas in formal commencement exercises, similar to the ones conducted for the teen-age high school seniors.

One of the first 1970 commencement exercises of those in the adult education program was conducted recently at Union High School, where 77 persons in caps and gowns stepped forward to receive their high school diplomas.

Jesse A. Coles Jr., deputy superintendent of administration and planning for the state Department of Education, told the Union graduates: "There is a story behind the face of every graduate. A story of motivation and sacrifice. A story climaxed by achievement. The adult graduates on this stage certainly know the value of public education."

One in the audience at Union who knew the value was Mrs.

Quartet Sings Their Greetings

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Under Utah's new Sunday closing law, you couldn't legally buy a Mother's Day card Sunday.

But a quartet of high school students observed the event in their own way.

The four presented singing Mother's Day greetings to 45 mothers of classmates.

Lee Burdett of Laurens.

The mother of 11 children, Mrs. Burdett watched as two daughters, ages 38 and 48, and a son, 45, received their high school diplomas.

Also in the audience was Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Davis Jr., of Monarch. Their son George Douglas, 25, was one of the 77 receiving the high school diploma. Two years ago another son, Jerry, and his wife, Judy, had been the first husband-wife team to graduate from the Union area adult education program.

Coles, speaking to those who had dropped out of school and then returned in the later years to earn a diploma, said:

"The value of the high school degrees enable adults to attain not only a skill, but, beyond that, to attain the skills to permit them to continue learning."

College Become $100,000 Richer

BUIES CREEK, N.C. (AP) — Campbell College is $100,000 richer, thanks to a donation by Fred Taylor, Vass industrialist, who is chairman of the college's trustees.

Taylor's donation was announced Saturday during ceremonies in which the largest building on Campbell's men's campus was named in honor of Bobby Murray, Raleigh auto dealer.

Murray recently donated $100,000 to the school and expressed the hope that other trustees and friends would be "moved to do likewise." Taylor accepted the challenge. Murray is chairman of the school's advancement council.

Norm Cash Hero For 7 Innings Before He Froze

A WALLBANGER — Bernie Carbo, left fielder for the Cincinnati Reds, reaches for the ball, misses it and begins to lose his balance, and falls against left field wall in Wrigley Field Sunday.

For seven innings Sunday, Norm Cash was money in the bank for the Detroit Tigers and the toast of a Mother's Day crowd of 31,500. Then he pulled a rock that only a mother could love.

Cash's two homers and four runs batted in had the Tigers locked in a 7-7 tie with the Kansas City Royals.

Open NAIA Play Today

WINSTON - SALEM (AP) — High Point begins play in the NAIA District 26 baseball tournament Thursday after carrying off the Carolinas Conference championship this weekend for the fourth time in six years.

The Panthers slammed down Pfeiffer Saturday night, 8-6 and 14-2, in the games that counted. They had earlier dropped a game to Pfeiffer, 10-4.

High Point racked up 45 runs in five tournament games and hit seven home runs. Two of them were by Mark Gedick.

The first game Saturday against Pfeiffer was decided in part by a two-run double in the fifth inning by Bobby Hickey which tied the score, 3-3. Hickey belted a two-run homer in the seventh to give his team the win.

The night game was easier for High Point, with the Panthers sending their whole lineup to bat in the third and fifth innings and scoring a total of 11 runs. By the time the game was half over, they led 14-0 and Pfeiffer never caught up.

But in the eighth inning, with runners on first and third and one out, first baseman Cash fielded Ed Kirkpatrick's grounder and stood paralyzed as Joe Keough raced home with the winning run.

He compounded the felony by failing to make a play at first, either, and two walks forced home another run.

Kirkpatrick stopped running to first for a moment and stood motionless in front of Cash. "I wanted to distract him so the run could come across," said Kirkpatrick, who sparked the Royals with a homer and four RBI. "Then I looked at the umpire and when he made no out sign I ran to first."

Detroit's Dalton Jones and Kansas City's Amos Otis smacked solo homers.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore swept the Chicago White Sox 7-2 and 4-2, Cleveland shaded Minnesota 5-4, Milwaukee took two from Washington 6-5 and 7-6, the New York Yankees nipped California 4-3 and Oakland downed Boston 7-4.

In the National League, it was Cincinnati 7, Chicago Cubs 6; St. Louis 6, Atlanta 5; San Francisco 11, New York Mets 7; Los Angeles 7, Philadelphia 0; Houston 9, Pittsburgh 2, and San Diego 5, Montreal 4.

After Baltimore's Don Buford tied the nightcap 2-2 with a seventh-inning homer, Brooks Robinson and Chico Salmon stroked run-scoring singles in the eighth as the Orioles boosted their winning streak to seven games.

Dave McNally, 6-1, given home run support by Frank Robinson, Merv Rettenmund and Boog Powell, pitched a seven-hitter to win the opener.

Catcher Duke Sims, who lost his starting job this season hit his first two homers and drove in three runs as the Indians edged the Twins.

Pitcher Sam McDowell also homered for Cleveland but needed relief from Rich Hand after Minnesota scored twice in the ninth. Leo Cardenas homered for the Twins.

Milwaukee tied the club record of five straight victories set last year as the Seattle Pilots.

Sunday's sweep of the stumbling Senators featured ninth-inning uprisings in both contests. In the opener, Ted Kubiak tied the score with a leadoff shot in the ninth and Wayne Comer won it with a bases-loaded pinch single.

The Brewers blew a 6-0 lead in the nightcap as Washington scored five runs in the eighth, featuring homers by Mike Epstein, and Rick Reichardt, and tied it in the ninth on Frank Howard's 11th. But a pinch single by Ted Savage, two walks and Gerry McNertney's two-out pinch single won it in the Brewers' half. Reichardt also homered in the opener.

Home runs by Mike Hegan, Tommy Harper and pitcher Skip Lockwood helped the Brewers to their big lead.

The Yankees belted Rudy May for three quick runs in the first inning on Roy White's RBI double and Danny Cater's two-run single, but needed Thurman Munson's bloop double in the sixth, which scored White from first, to beat the Angels.

Jay Johnstone homered for California in the fifth to tie the score, but Jack Aker and Lindy McDaniel combined for five shutout innings of relief.

Oakland, trailing the Red Sox 3-0, exploded for six runs in the fourth inning, three on Dave Duncan's fifth homer. After Duncan's blow put the A's in front 4-3, Bert Campaneris iced it with a two-run single. Carl Yastrzemski and Tony Conigliaro homered for the Sox.

Roland Fingers relieved Blue Moon Odom in the second and kept Boston under control. One week earlier, he took over for Odom and pitched 8 2-3 innings against Washington for his other triumph.

Skier Tries Mt. Everest

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — A Japanese skier 1.8 miles down Mt. Everest last Wednesday from an altitude of 24,418 feet, despite losing a ski and injuring his hip slightly when he was knocked down by high winds.

Yichiro Miura, 37, Japan's most famous skier, reached speeds of up to 93.6 an hour, covering the distance in 2 minutes and 20 seconds, said an official of the Japanese expedition who flew into Katmandu today.

Miura and some colleagues reached the 26,200 foot high south col—about 3,000 feet below Everest's 29,028-foot summit on May 5, the expedition general manager, T. Fujishima said.

Miura climbed about 65 feet down from the south col, using a rope, and then began his run. Miura ended his run just before reaching a 32.8 foot deep crevasse.

The expedition, which left Katmandu in early March, was not without its tragedies.

Seven Nepalese assistants — six Sherpa guides and one high altitude porter — died during the climb.

Olympics Chief Again Criticized

AMSTERDAM (AP) — The International Olympics Committee, which selects the sites Tuesday for the 1976 winter and summer games, has been accused by the president of International Sports Federation of "not providing the type of competent leadership and foresight that would be needed to keep the games balanced."

The blast from Thomas Keller, ISF president, was aimed Sunday at Avery Brundage, the 83-year-old IOC president.

"Time and time again we have expressed our willingness to cooperate but have gotten very little response and understanding from the IOC," said Keller.

A day earlier Brundage said Alpine skiing, ice hockey, soccer and basketball "should gracefully withdraw" from the games because of what he called the breaking of Olympic amateur rules.

"You are attacking different federations because of amateur scandals," Keller told Brundage. "Yet this state of affairs has been known for a long time but it has been tolerated by the IOC. Why now suddenly such drastic action?"

Brundage's call for the elimination of Alpine skiing—he said, "This poisonous cancer must be eliminated without further delay"—could cause havoc with the winter games. Skiing is one of the prime attractions of the Winter Olympics.

Tampere, Finland; Garibaldi, British Columbia; Denver, Colo., and Sion, Switzerland are bidding for the 1976 Winter Olympics. The 1972 Winter Olympics will be staged in Sapporo, Japan.

Keller attacked Brundage for claiming that many cities no longer are interested in staging the games. He said Brundage's claim was false. Brundage also had criticized the federations for the choice of Grenoble for the 1968 Winter Olympics on grounds the events were spread all over the Alps.

"It was the IOC that chose Grenoble, not the international federations," Keller replied. The 71-member IOC will vote Tuesday night on the 1976 sites. Bidding for the Summer Olympics are Moscow, Los Angeles and Montreal. The 1972 Summer Olympics will be held in Munich, Germany.

Elsewhere, the Soviet Union, France, Egypt, Bulgaria, Greece and Spain won first round matches and Italy took an early lead in its initial round in European Zone play.

Mexico Out Of Davis Cup Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New Zealand eliminated Mexico from the American Zone Davis Cup competition Sunday when Rian Fairlie defeated Vicente Zarazua 10-8, 6-8, 6-1, 6-1.

New Zealand won the first round action 3-2, Mexico winning only one singles and the doubles match.

Elsewhere, the Soviet Union, France, Egypt, Bulgaria, Greece and Spain won first round matches and Italy took an early lead in its initial round in European Zone play.

GOES FOR HIS FIRST—Gibby Gilbert, a club pro from Florida, as he urges his ball along on the 18th green Sunday at the $115,000 Houston Champions International. Gilbert made the bird and caught the leader Bruce Crampton, and forced a sudden death playoff. Gilbert won first place money of $23,000 on the third hole of the playoff. (AP Wirephoto)

Gilbert's Long Obscurity Ends

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
HOUSTON (AP)—Gibby Gilbert was, for four days and 71 holes, lost in the shuffle. He was the other guy playing with Bruce Crampton and people in their sparse gallery kept saying, "Who's he?"

But Gilbert had a lifetime of obscurity behind him, was used to the feeling and followed his own formula to score his first professional golf tour victory: "Just keep plugging."

He did, and the 29-year-old club pro from Hollywood, Fla., on the tour for just a couple of months, made up two strokes on the final hole, caught Bruce Crampton and then beat him on the third hole of a sudden death playoff Sunday in the $115,000 Houston Champions International Invitational tourney.

"I didn't deserve to win," Crampton said. "Gibby played very well, made only one bogey and that's good on this course. He's a worthy champion."

Gilbert, who decided to go on the tour only after playing the Doral tournament in Florida—he was the 36-hole leader there—was in third place most of the warm, muggy day, but finished with a 72-hole score of 282, two-under-par on the 7,166-yard Champions Golf club course. He had a final 70.

Crampton with a two-stroke lead over Bert Greene going into the last round, had a 73, also for 282. Greene, who knocked himself out of it with a double-bogey six when he hit into a creek on the 17th, had a 72 for 283.

Most of the drama concerned the stretch duel between Crampton and Greene. Lean Bert, a drawing Georgian, moved into the lead when he holed a 60-foot putt for an eagle on the ninth.

But he three-putted the 16th and then took the double bogey on the 17th.

Crampton stayed close all the way and Gilbert was a shadowy, obscure figure, never closer than two strokes. He birdied the 13th from 15 feet and then bogeyed the 17th from the water.

The lean, dark one-time student at the University of Chattanooga was two strokes down going to the final hole.

Both he and Crampton drove the fairway, but Crampton put his second far to the left, chipped short and missed a 10-footer. Gilbert, plugging away, put his second on the green and two-putted for the ninth playoff this season.

They both parred the first two extra holes, but Bruce put his tee shot in the water on the third. The rock-steady Gilbert played it in regulation for the $23,000 first prize.

Most of the attention early in the day was centered on the incredible Ben Hogan, playing his first tournament in three years.

He ran off a string of three consecutive birdies starting on the third hole, turned in three in three-under-par but faltered as his shattered, still-ailing 57-year-old legs began to tire on the back side. He finished with a 70 for 287.

"I played better than I thought I would," the weary Hogan said. "But I'm tired."

He finished only five strokes off the pace.

Greene finished alone in third, with South African Gary Player fourth at 284, followed by Art Wall, 285, and a quartet at 286, Julius Boros, Doug Sanders, Dale Douglass and Jim Colbert.

Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, and Billy Casper did not compete.

Tough Break For Brabham

MONTE CARLO (AP)—Australia's Jack Brabham got lost in a traffic jam on the final corner Sunday and let Jochen Rindt of Austria pass him to win the 28th Monaco Grand Prix for formula one cars. Brabham hit the guard rail and almost ran over an official but backed away in time to finish second.

The victory gave Rindt in a Lotus his first world driver championship points this season but left him third behind top-ranking Brabham who was driving his own Brabham car Sunday.

Rindt's time of 1:23.2, or 83.372 miles per hour, in the final lap broke the lap record listed by the International Automobile Federation as Jackie Stewart's 1:25.1 of last year. However, the Monaco organizers consider the previous record as having been made by Piers Courage, Britain, at 1:25.8 last year since Stewart dropped out before the end of the race.

Both he and Crampton drove the fairway, but Crampton put his second far to the left, chipped short and missed a 10-

J.C. Smith Takes Crown

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP)—As they lined up for the mile relay, final event of the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association track meet, the team championship was up for grabs among surprising Johnson C. Smith, favored Morgan State and Maryland State.

J. C. Smith and Maryland State were tied with 30 points, Morgan State was third with 26. But the Bears were favored and actually were on their way to first place and five points when somebody dropped the baton.

A third-place finish provided the two points that gave J. C. Smith the team title with 22 to 30 for Maryland State and 26 for Morgan. Had Morgan won, the Bears and J. C. Smith would have had 31 apiece.

Twenty of J. C. Smith's points came in 100, 220, 440 and 440 relay.

John Bramer took the 100 in a sizzling 9.3 with Joe Johnson second, and Johnson won the 220 in 21.3. Both also ran on J. C. Smith's second-place 440 relay team.

N. C. Central was fourth with 20 points.

winner, won his second straight victory in the Sports Car Club of America's Trans-Am series for small sedans at Lime Rock, Conn., bringing his Mustang home a lap ahead of Ed Leslie, driving a Camaro. His payoff was about $10,000.

Pearson, 34-year-old three-time NASCAR Grand National champion, won the wreck-marred Rebel 400 stock car race at Darlington, S. C., finishing three laps ahead of Dick Brooks and picking up $16,575.

The Darlington race, during its early stages the most hotly contested in recent years, drew 42,000 spectators and was carried live to millions more by the ABC television network.

It was before this audience that Petty, at 32 the alltime money and events winner on Southern tracks, did his "thing." Coming off the tricky fourth turn at weatherbeaten old Darlington Raceway, Petty rammed his blue Plymouth into the concrete retaining wall, then skidded down the homestretch broadside before glancing off another concrete barrier that protects pit road from the track itself.

The car then flipped several times in the air directly in front of the main grandstand before coming to rest upside down, still spinning around like a top.

Miraculously, Petty escaped with a slightly dislocated shoulder, a few minor cuts and some aches and pains that will keep him out of action at least four weeks. He was released from a Florence hospital Sunday morning, walking out in his stocking feet.

"They forgot to bring my danged shoes," Petty smiles. "Can you imagine that? They knew I wouldn't be here long and they knew I'd walk out when I

Floridian Wins DogwoodTorney

ATLANTA (AP)—Allen Miller of the University of Georgia has won the 24th annual Dogwood Invitational Golf Tournament by two strokes over Joe Inman of Greensboro, N. C.

Miller, a senior from Pensacola, Fla., shot a three-under-par 69 Sunday to finish with a 72-hole score of 280, eight under par.

got ready to go."

It was Petty's second wreck of the week and the third one for a Petty car at Darlington. He had demolished his No. 1 racer in practice Wednesday and his driving mate Pete Hamilton wrecked in Saturday's race.

Pearson's Ford led the race seven times before gaining the advantage for good 88 laps from the end. He had easy sailing when Dodge's Bobby Isaac scraped the wall while trailing Pearson by seconds and dropped out of contention. Speed for the race was 129.688 miles per hour.

Jones led the Trans-Am race from start to finish in giving Ford Motor Co. its second victory in the 14-race manufacturers series. He completed the 146 laps of the 1.53-mile track in 2½ hours.

Other winners during the weekend included Jochen Rindt in the Grand Prix of Monaco and Tiny Lund of Cross, S. C. in a NASCAR race for late model stock cars at Sacramento, Calif.

Meanwhile, practice continued at Indianapolis as drivers prepared for the first round of qualifying for the Memorial Day 500 this weekend. There were two minor crashes—Rookie Donnie Allison in one of A. J. Foyt's turbocharged Fords and John Cannon in a Vollstedt Ford. Neither driver was injured.

Fred Hardacre, a drag racer from Akron, Ohio, was killed when his jet-powered car crashed at Pittsburgh International Dragway near Bridgeville, Pa. Hardacre, 31, was travelling at about 250 m.p.h. when the car went out of control and rammed through a steel guard rail.

Carty Counts On Write-In Votes

NEW YORK (AP)—Rico Carty of the Atlanta Braves, who leads the National League in batting with a .421 average, was hoping today that a write-in campaign would put him in the starting line-up in the All-Star Game.

Carty was left off the ballot Sunday in nominations for the line-up to start the annual classic July 14 in Cincinnati.

The selections announced by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn had the Chicago Cubs filling seven starting positions. The Cubs are infielders Ernie Banks, Glenn Beckert, Don Kessinger and Ron Santo, outfielders Billy Williams and John Callison and catcher Randy Hundley.

The public also will participate in the voting. Names of 48 players will appear on 26 million ballots which will be available to the public during June.

The 48 nominations were made by a poll of major league managers and player representatives. Write-in spaces will be available for fans desiring to vote for players not originally nominated.

In addition to leading the league in batting, Carty also has gotten a hit in 28 straight games.

Detroit's Al Kaline was missing from nominations for the American League team made several days ago.

All-Star managers will select starting pitchers and reserves as in past years.

Public balloting will be conducted May 30 through June 28.

The nominated players:

First basemen—Richie Allen, St. Louis; Ernie Banks, Chicago; Orlando Cepeda, San Francisco; Lee May, Cincinnati; Willie McCovey; San Francisco; Wes Parker, Los Angeles.

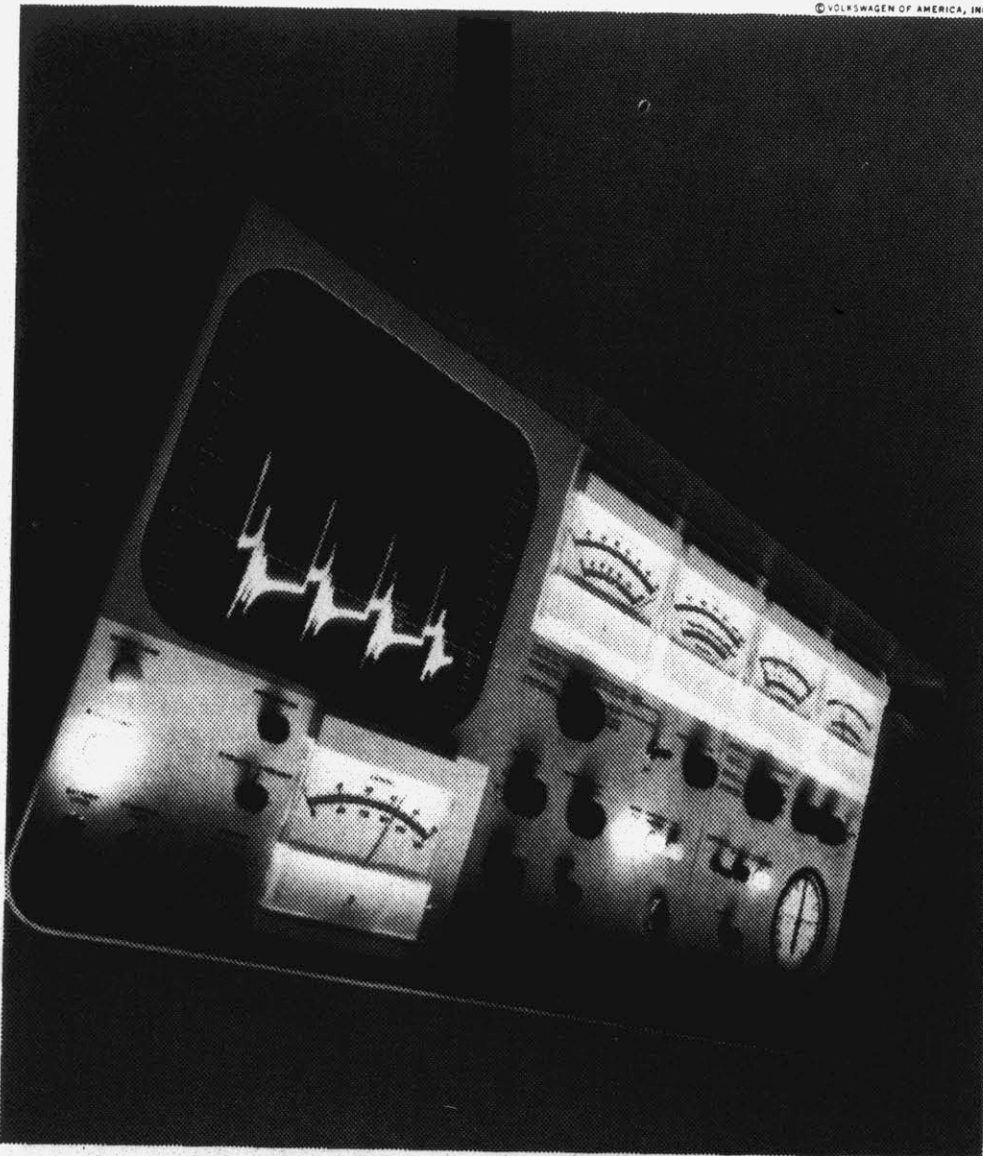

Second basemen—Blenn Beckert, Chicago; Tommy Helms, Cincinnati; Julian Javier, St. Louis; Felix Millan, Atlanta; Joe Morgan, Houston; Ted Sizemore, Los Angeles.

Shortstops—Bud Harrelson, New York; Don Kessinger, Chicago; Hal Lanier, San Francisco; Denis Menke, Houston; Fred Patek, Pittsburgh; Maury Wills, Los Angeles.

Third basemen—Clete Boyer, Atlanta; Richie Hebner, Pittsburgh; Coco Laboy, Montreal; Tony Perez, Cincinnati; Ron Santo, Chicago; Mike Shannon, St. Louis.

Catchers—Johnny Bench, Cincinnati; Jerry Grote, New York; Tom Haller, Los Angeles; Randy Hundley, Chicago; Tim McCarver, Philadelphia; Joe Torre, St. Louis.

Outfielders—Hank Aaron, Atlanta; John Callison, Chicago; Pete Rose, Cincinnati; Tommie Agee, New York; Roberto Clemente, Pittsburgh; Willie Stargell, Pittsburgh; Matty Alou, Pittsburgh; Willie Davis, Los Angeles; Rusty Staub, Montreal; Bobby Bonds, San Francisco; Larry Hise, Philadelphia; Bob Tolan, Cincinnati; Lou Brock, St. Louis; Cleon Jones, New York; Billy Williams, Chicago; Ollie Brown, San Diego; Willie Mays, San Francisco; Jim Wynn, Houston.

When you buy a new VW, you get a series of 4 free check-ups where we use special diagnostic equipment to check out just about everything that can affect your VW's health.

The plan: Medi-car. Our special equipment can see things no human eyes can. So during each VW-diagnosis, it can actually spot problems before they can become real problems.

Take the unit above. It's similar to the electrocardiograph which doctors use to test the electrical activity of the human heart.

We use it to do the same with your car's heart: the engine.

In seconds, it can tell us if the dwell angle of your contact points is too large, or if the resistance in your spark plug wiring is too high.

Unchecked, either of these could cut gas mileage and engine life.

But the main point is: While our Medi-car equipment would spot these problems before any damage is done, during a normal check-up no mechanic alive could.

Volkswagen Medi-car: It's a whole new way of life.

Some Captured War Material Expected To Go To Cambodians

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say they are considering turning over to the Cambodian government some but by no means all of the enemy war material captured by the allies in Cambodia.

Some 4,000 captured AK47 rapid-fire rifles were handed over to the Phnom Penh government in the first U.S.-South Vietnamese response to Premier Lon Nol's plea for military assistance, before the allies sent their own troops into Cambodian territory.

Now, by White House account, the allied forces are uncovering such massive supplies in North Vietnamese hide-outs in Cambodia that they have problems disposing of them.

Some 5,000 rifles, five million rounds of small arms ammunition and two million pounds of rice are among the booty reported captured so far in the allied sweep.

Cambodia's 40,000-man army has been armed with a hodge-podge of weapons over the years, much of it of Chinese or Soviet manufacture. So a supply from captured stocks would be compatible with much of the Cambodian army's equipment.

While the current large scale capture of enemy gear opens up new possibilities for helping arm the Cambodians, Washington authorities are against turning it all over to the Phnom Penh government lock, stock and barrel.

The officials voiced doubt the Cambodian army could absorb all the material being captured by the allies. And moving such beckoning supplies elsewhere in Cambodia would invite the marauding North Vietnamese-Viet Cong forces to recapture them, they said.

The allies are also helping Cambodian forces in other ways. A U.S.-equipped contingent of some 1,500 ethnic Cambodians who were fighting in South Vietnam has been sent to Phnom Penh. An undisclosed number of U.S. M1 and M2 rifles has been delivered and other aid is planned.

The Nixon administration has been cautious, however, about Lon Nol's plans for a massive increase in the size of his army. He was said to have asked originally for U.S. equipment to help him expand his army to 200,000 men. The officials said Washington asked the Cambodian chief to reconsider—which he did, coming back with a request for arms aid for 400,000 men.

Whether the poorly trained and equipped Cambodian army will be able to withstand the onslaught of the large and experienced North Vietnamese-Viet Cong forces is an open question here. Some believe the Cambodians can do it if they will fight. In other developments over the weekend:

Pentagon sources said U.S. forces in South Vietnam may be reduced far enough by the summer of 1971—to below 250,000—to start sending only volunteers there. Nixon's current timetable calls for a Vietnam troop reduction from the present 427,000 to 284,000 by next May.

Two Wrecks Are Reported

John Thomas McDonald III, 16, P.O. Box 188, Simpson was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident in connection with an 11:45 a.m. traffic mishap at the intersection of Fifth Street and Forrest Hill Drive here Saturday.

Investigators, who said the driver of the second car involved was Leonard Randolph Briley, Jr., 19, 1306 W. Ragsdale Road, set damage for the McDonald car at $100 and placed damage for the Briley car at $200.

Minor damages resulted in a second traffic accident Saturday involving cars driven by William Randy Dixon, 21, Rt. 2, Box 276B, Grimesland, and Carolyn Ann Massey, 16, 1908 E. Fifth St., police reported.

Officers charged Dixon with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident.

Damage for the Massey car amounted to $200, while that for the Dixon car was $50.

Nursing Home Week In State

PROCLAMATION SIGNING... Posing with Gov. Bob Scott as he signs a proclamation for Nursing Home Week are (standing left to right) Mayo Allen of Greenville, state vice president of extended care facilities; Autry Dawsey of Whiteville, vice president of the Skilled Nursing Homes organization; George Wilson of Falcon, president of the western district of E. C. F.; John Kerr of Durham, executive director of E. C. F.; and Dr. Wesley Allen of Fayetteville, vice president of the Nursing Home Association.

RALEIGH—Governor Robert W. Scott has designated the week of May 10-17 as "Nursing Home Week in North Carolina."

A statement issued by the Governor's office called attention to the contributions nursing homes are making in developing coordinated programs of care for the chronically ill and the aged.

The North Carolina Association of Nursing Homes sponsors the observance and many of its members plan open house programs and other activities to promote public understanding for nursing home services.

The theme for the observance is "Nursing Homes: Working Together For Today and Tomorrow."

James Blanchard, Jr. of Greensboro, association president, said that nursing homes provide a better life for many elderly persons. "Excellent care is provided the elderly but they need to know they are remembered by their families and friends in the community," he said. "Nursing Home Week is our invitation for the cooperation of the public in assuring a better life for all."

Food Stamp Sales Rise

RALEIGH (AP)—Sales under the federal food stamp program in North Carolina have increased from 15 to 35 per cent since the program was liberalized Feb. 1.

The state Department of Social Services said Saturday the sales figure was based on reports from grocers in 47 Tar Heel counties operating the program. At least 15 more counties are expected to adopt the program within the next two years.

The department said the federal food assistance program has resulted in increased sales of food coupons to eligible families far above predictions.

It noted that in one county 31 per cent of all food sold by all grocers is paid for by food coupons.

The amount of cash a family pays for the food coupons is based on its monthly income. A family with little or no income pays $2 and received $106 in food coupons. The same family with an income of $115 a month pays $28 and receives $106 in coupons.

The department said food coupon sales during 1970 are expected to total $36.5 million, which would bring in more than a million dollars in sales tax revenue for the state. The sales tax on food coupons last year totaled $170,000.

Tobacco TIPS

By S.J. WEEKS

As we complete the transplanting of the tobacco crop, it is not too early to begin planning the plant bed program for 1971. A well-planned program, based on sound, proved practices, will greatly reduce the risk involved in producing a good supply of healthy tobacco plants.

If you are not satisfied with your present plant bed site, now is the time to choose one that is more suitable for good plant production. When selecting a plant bed site there are several factors that should be considered. It is best to select a deep, fertile, loamy soil that warms up quickly. The bed should be located near a convenient water supply, such as a home water supply, pond, or stream, so that it can be watered easily during dry periods. Cold and drying winds can cause serious damage to stands and earliness of plants; therefore, it is a good idea for all beds to have some type of windbreak on the north, northwest, and northeast sides. Plant beds that had good windbreaks this year generally produced a good supply of fairly early plants.

Once the plant bed site is selected, the soil should be managed properly through the summer months for best results. Whether an old or new plant bed site is used, good physical condition and high organic matter in the soil seems to be very helpful in getting a good stand and promoting growth. A summer cover crop of soybeans or cowpeas will not only help maintain good physical condition of the soil but will help keep weeds from growing and producing seed on the plant bed site. The cover crop should be disced in early in the fall so it will be decayed before time to threat the soil for weed and nematode control.

Plant production is a very important part of growing a tobacco crop. Let's begin now to carry out these proven practices in producing our plants for the 1971 crop.

Fear Three Are Captives

SAIGON (AP)—Three American news correspondents—two men and a woman—who disappeared while driving into Cambodia Thursday are feared to have been captured by enemy troops in the embattled Parrot's Beak region.

They are Richard B. Dudman, 52, of the St. Louis Post Dispatch; Elizabeth A. Pond, 33, of the Christian Science Monitor; and Michael D. Morrow, 24, of Dispatch, Inc., of Washington, D.C.

In St. Louis, the Post Dispatch managing editor, Everts Graham Jr. said the automobile the reporters had used to drive from Saigon to Cambodia was reported found.

They were seen last by fellow correspondents at the eastern edge of the Cambodian province capital of Svay Rieng shortly before noon last Thursday.

Ten other newsmen have been reported missing in Cambodia since fighting flared up there in mid-March, including two Americans.

Boone To Teach Film Know-How

BEERSHEBA, Israel (AP)—American actor Richard Boone says he has agreed to provide the Israeli film industry with Hollywood know-how.

Boone said he had been approached by Israeli Commerce Ministry officials and volunteered to head a project combining film-making with on the job training of Israeli production crews by Hollywood experts.

Boone, who starred in the television series "Have Gun, Will Travel," is making a movie here with Leslie Caron. He said he would make Israel his base for the next two or three years while carrying out the training project.

The practice of side-dressing tobacco is recommended in the production of a good quality crop. The performance of side-dressing is to supplement the pre-plant fertilizer with either a mixture of nitrogen and potassium or nitrogen alone.

There is an indication that there may not be enough nitrate of soda and 15-0-14 (nitrate of soda potash) to meet the demand for side-dressing tobacco. A strike in Chile has interfered with the shipment of these two materials.

There are some other nitrogen materials that can be used to side-dress your tobacco. When using the alternate material be sure to apply according to the nitrogen content of the material being used. For example, calcium nitrate if 15.5 percent nitrogen with about 93.5 percent being in the nitrate form.

Several fertilizer manufacturers are making 15-0-15 or other 1-0-1 ratios for side-dressing tobacco. The percentage of nitrate and ammonium form of nitrogen vary in these mixtures and range from 50 to 70 percent nitrate.

The percent of nitrate nitrogen is 8-0-24 is usually within the range of 50 to 70 percent.

There are several other materials and mixtures that can be used for side-dressing tobacco. Growers who want only nitrogen for side dressing may consider Cal-Nitro, ANL or Ammonium Nitrate. These materials contain 50 percent nitrate nitrogen.

The three things to look for in side-dressing tobacco are: (1) Select the material or mixture that will supply the ratio of nitrogen and potassium needed for a given field, 1-0-0, 1-0-1, or 1-0-3; (2) select a material or mixture which has a high percentage of nitrogen as nitrate; and (3) select a material or mixture that will supply the desired quantity and forms of nutrients at the lowest cost.

New Labels Await Most Weedkillers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Most of 270 commercial weedkillers banned from sale because an ingredient was considered an imminent hazard to human health are expected back on the market after the federal government approves new labels limiting their use.

The products were suspended April 15 after the Agriculture Department said new information indicated the ingredient—2,4,5-T—caused birth defects in laboratory mice.

A department spokesman said the suspension was ordered on the basis of the products' labels—those including instructions for use around homes, lakes, ponds and ditch banks were banned.

But no suspension was levied against 2,4,5-T-containing pesticides used to control weeds on millions of acres of range, pastures, and highway right of ways.

So, if a product containing 2,4,5-T were used mostly for such an exempt purpose but listed instructions for home use, the ban could be lifted by simply changing the label.

"Only between 5 and 10 percent of the products suspended were strictly for uses prohibited by the order," an official said.

Jackrabbits have been clocked at 40 miles per hour and can cover 15 to 20 feet in one leap.

Vernam® lets your soybeans grow free

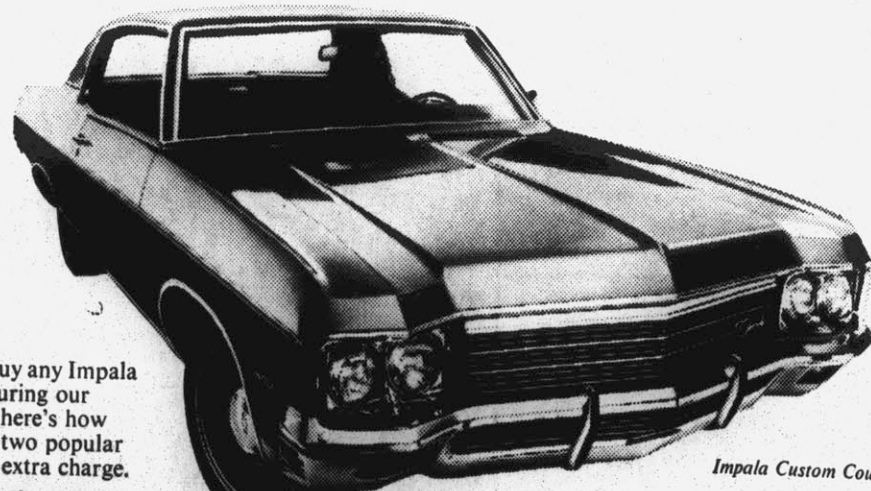

Your soybeans grow free from many grasses and weeds. Free from the growth stress that weeds cause. Free to develop strong, vigorous roots that reach down and make maximum use of soil nutrients and moisture. Free from extra cultivations, possible root damage and free of weed growth... makes your soybean combining operation easier at harvest time.

This season, use dependable, economical Vernam to get your crop off to a good start. Vernam is the only soybean herbicide recommended for nutgrass or nutsedge. It stops the tough weeds, including crabgrass, foxtails, coffee-weed, pigweeds, lambsquarters and others. Vernam liquid or granules are easy to handle and apply as you make your seedbed. Used at recommended rates, Vernam controls weeds without leaving harmful residues in the soil. Free yourself from work and worry... come by now for your supply of Vernam.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
(© 1970 by The Chicago Tribune)

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠A63 ♥A1073 ♦97 ♣864
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♦ Pass 1♥ Pass
4♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—What started out as a colorless holding has, in the light of partner's vigorous action, blossomed forth into a thing of beauty. Upon reevaluation your hand is worth 10 points at a heart contract and, since partner's bidding indicates about 21, you are in the slam zone. One step is called for and should take the form of a cue bid of four spades.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠84 ♥QJ7 ♦QJ63 ♣K986
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♣ Dble. 1NT ?

What do you bid?
A.—Double. Assuming partner to be sound, either East or West has exaggerated his values. You have nine points in high cards and partner has at least 13 which gives your side a decided edge in high card strength.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AJ3 ♥K6 ♦J65 ♣AQ965
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♣ 3♣ Pass Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. Your partner has no strength or he would have doubled West or made a free bid. The opponents assuredly have their signals crossed, and a double by you will only serve to wise them up. West apparently has the rest of the clubs and from your distribution it is apparent that East's long suit will represent a much better resting spot for their side.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KJ9763 ♥AJ98 ♦A ♣A107
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♣ Pass 2♦ Pass 2♥ Pass 3♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Things aren't going your way, and it behooves you not to be stubborn. It is true that you have a good rebiddable spade suit, but there is a very grave doubt as to whether you can afford to do any more bidding. If partner doesn't like spades, you may be in very deep water.

The better part of valor is to resign yourself to a short loss by passing three diamonds. Incidentally, we would have preferred a rebid of two spades after partner's two diamond bid.

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K9742 ♥K103 ♦AJ96 ♣A
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♣ Pass 2NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—With this somewhat unbalanced hand the door should not be shut to a possible game contract in spades and the suggested call is three diamonds. If partner returns to spades, we would accept that suit as trump. If partner returns to three no trump, we relax.

Q. 6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠42 ♥KJ ♦K63 ♣AKQ962
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♣ 1♠ 1NT 2♥ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Three no trump. Your hand should produce seven or eight tricks and, since you can stop the hearts and partner has indicated that he can take care of the spades, fulfillment of a no trump game should prove routine.

Q. 7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠62 ♥KQ5 ♦AJ95 ♣J1075
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♣ Pass 1♦ Pass 1♥ Pass 3♣ Dble. ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Four hearts. Do not make the mistake of bidding three no trump. Partner was in position to make that call himself and declined to do so. Showing the heart support at this point will serve to clarify the picture for partner. Since you are giving a delayed raise he will know you have only three card support and will be in a better position to decide on the final contract.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A976 ♥10976 ♦A3 ♣AK2
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♣ Dble. 2♣ Dble. ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. A rescue is not to be considered. Had there been a better spot available, partner would not have offered an immediate raise over the double. If his values fit well enough, you may make your contract even against a badly stacked enemy trump holding.

Worry Clinic Youngster Can Develop Ulcer

Debby's case shows why thousands of youngsters actually develop peptic ulcers. So don't dismiss too lightly a fearful child's complaint that he has stomach ache. Use the psychological as well as medical methods below to treat such an ailment.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE M-591: Debby, aged 8, entered a new school last fall. On opening day, Debby was so keyed up that she couldn't eat her breakfast.

"Maybe I will miss my school bus," she protested, and our daughter Judy reassured her that it wasn't time for the bus.

"But maybe he will not stop at our corner," Debby objected. "And how will I know what room is mine in the new school?"

"Well," Judy replied, "I'll take you to school this first day and help you find your room. 'And I'll meet your new teacher to be sure you are in the right place.'"

Still Debby procrastinated and seemed upset.

"B-b-but I'm so n-n-nervous!" Debby finally confessed.

Judy then told her all the other new children felt much as Debby did, even though they didn't show it on the surface.

"That's the way everybody feels," Judy added, "when meeting a new situation. It is called stage fright."

The main reason I cite this case of our granddaughter is to show you why children often develop peptic ulcers.

"But kiddies don't face the tensions of adults," some people used to protest, "so how could they have stomach ulcers?"

"For they don't have the responsibility of supporting a family or closing a crucial sales contract, etc."

True, enough, but as Debby indicates, children do suffer from similar tensions and fears.

And these may lead to peptic ulcer, usually called "stomach ache" when kiddies complain of it.

At the famous Jackson Clinic in Madison, Wisconsin, one of our noted medical researchers, Dr. Margaret Prouty, found over 200 cases of peptic ulcers in the stomach or duodenum of young children!

To prevent such a medical ailment, try to reassure your kiddies and relieve as much of their mental strain as possible when they face a social dilemma.

Remind them, as Judy did Debby, that everybody suffers from stage fright when tackling a new and socially important event.

This stage fright is not limited solely to the stage, but afflicts students who also perform for their school in track, basketball, football or glee club and debate teams.

One of our greatest pro football stars, after 4 years of college and several years as a pro, always grew so tense just before a game that he had to vomit!

So see that your kiddies consume some protein food at breakfast when they are of school age, for protein neutralizes the acid of the stomach.

And protein is found in milk, as well as egg white, bread and most of the breakfast cereals.

If you have a kiddie who chronically complains of stomach ache, you may also let him chew on one of the anti-acid tablets that are sold at most chewing gum counters.

But also urge your youngster to join my "Compliment Club," for it makes him socially more assured and calm.

So send for the "Compliment Club" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents. Let your entire family join in this experiment, too!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Happy When Sessions Over

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Labor News had this comment in the closing days of the 1970 legislature:

"It will take us all a while to unwind. For a session in the legislature one needs the strength of an ox, the nimble footing of a mountain goat, the wisdom of an owl, the tenacity of a bulldog, the acceleration of a jack-rabbit, the perspicacity of a hawk, the persistence of a flea, the ubiquity of an ant, the patience of the tortoise and a temperament ranging from a mourning dove to a spreading adder."

"Since we do not have any of these qualities we sure will be glad when the sessions are over."

Geo. Mitchell Will Lecture Wednesday

George W. Mitchell, member of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, will speak at East Carolina University on Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in Wright Auditorium.

With almost forty years of experience in the monetary field, Mitchell, in his duty as a member of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System in Washington, D.C. is in a position of great responsibility for the financial policies of the U.S. Government.

The system controls the monetary and credit base of some 14,000 commercial banks, which determines the money supply for the American economy.

A native of Wisconsin, Mitchell began his work in the monetary field with the Illinois Tax Commission in 1933 and later served as Director of Finance for the State of Illinois from 1949 to 1951.

Mitchell has been a member of the Board of Governors since 1961, and has served on a number of high - level committees created by the Federal Reserve, the United States Congress and the Brookings Institution.

The lecture is sponsored by the School of Business and the Student Government Association of the University. Students, faculty and the public are invited to attend. Admission is free.

Nurses Week Is Being Observed In Greenville

This week is Nurses Week in Greenville. Beginning May 11 and continuing for a week, Nurses will be commemorated by this public recognition.

Mayor Frank M. Wooten, Jr., in signing the proclamation proclaiming, noted "in the true tradition of Florence Nightingale, nurses have dedicated their lives to helping people by pursuing their profession of caring for and aiding the sick."

doctors, often receiving little public recognition for their services," further states the proclamation.

Touching briefly on the need for more nurses, the proclamation carries the statement "the availability of nurses is essential to the proper delivery of medical care, and the continuing education and training of nurses is greatly desired by the medical profession."

Oldest Admiral Celebrates His 104th Birthday

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — "You've just got to get to sea once in awhile, keep up with what's going on and maybe chase a few girls to keep healthy these days," says the nation's oldest admiral, Richard H. Jackson, offering advice on his 104th birthday.

More than 200 persons visited him Sunday at his home.

Wearing a bright red sport coat and black bow tie, Jackson told Miss Alabama, Ann Fowler, "I'll have none of that dang ritual," when she wished him a happy birthday and bent over to kiss him.

Snoring Studies Find No Remedy

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Dr. Marcus H. Boulware of Florida State University spent more than 1,000 hours on research for a book "The Riddle of Snoring." His conclusion: about one person in eight snores, and not much can be done about it.

HARDWARE—

UAW Lost Chief At Crucial Time

By A.F. MAHAN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers, who go to the bargaining table in mid-July to hammer out new contracts with the automotive giants, have lost their leader of 24 years, Walter P. Reuther, killed with five others in a plane crash.

Under Reuther, a giant in the American labor movement, the UAW had grown to 1.6 million members, the nation's largest industrial union.

Reuther had been the UAW's president since 1946 and was a vice president of the AFL-CIO until he broke his union away two years ago in the climax to a feud with AFL-CIO President George Meany.

He then formed the rival Alliance for Labor Action in an amalgamation with the Teamsters and International Chemical Workers "to organize the unorganized and the poor and get the labor movement moving again."

Those who died Saturday with the red-haired, 62-year-old Reuther were his wife, May, 59; Oskar Stonorov, 65, a Philadelphia architect; William Wolfman, 29, Reuther's bodyguard and Mrs. Reuther's nephew; the pilot, George Evans, 48; and copilot, Joseph Karaffa, 41, both of Columbus, Ohio.

They were en route from Detroit for a weekend visit to the UAW's $15-million education center, which Stonorov designed. It is nearing completion on Black Lake in northern Lower Michigan.

No one survived the flaming crash of the union-chartered twin-engine, executive-type Lear jet as it approached the Pellston airport through rain under low-hanging clouds at 9:33 p.m.

The charred remains were taken to the University of Michigan Hospital at Ann Arbor for identification. A doctor said Sunday night the bodies of Reuther and his wife were positively identified by dental charts.

A six-member team from the National Transportation Safety Board flew to Pellston to try to piece together what happened in the minutes between Evans' radioed request for landing clearance and the crash 1½ miles from the airport.

In his sometimes stormy career, Reuther had survived an assassin's shotgun blast which crippled his right arm and had thwarted an attempt to take him on a no-return, gangland-style ride.

He was a participant in the then sensational sit-down strikes of the 1930s in which his fledgling union took over auto plants and held them to force its recognition as bargaining agent.

Reuther realized a long-time dream in 1967 when he won a guaranteed annual income from General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

In his tenure he also had seen the average wage at the Big

Three rise to $4.02 hourly, with fringe benefits estimated to be worth another $1.75 an hour.

The union's other eight top officers, shocked and grieved, described Reuther in a statement as the UAW's "conscience, its heartbeat and its soul," and called upon other unionists "to observe with us a week of mourning in his memory."

They left unanswered the question of who will lead them at the bargaining table.

Under the union's constitution, Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazey takes over temporarily. A president to serve until the 1972 convention will be chosen by the remaining 25 members of the international executive board. Its next scheduled meeting is June 2.

Claimants to succession may include Mazey and Vice Presidents Douglas Fraser, Leonard Woodcock and Pat Greathouse. Fraser, Reuther's administrative assistant for eight years, was elevated to a vice presidency only last month and was viewed as being groomed for succession.

President Nixon said Reuther's death was "a deep loss, not only for organized labor but also for the cause of collective bargaining and the entire American process."

"While he was outspoken and controversial," the President continued, "even those who disagreed with him had great respect for his ability, integrity and persistence."

George Meany also was among the leaders of labor, industry and government who expressed regrets. Meany said, "We had disagreements, but we worked together as well and... it is the latter that stands out in my memory." He credited Reuther with "a unique and lasting contribution" to "labor and the nation."

Reuther had supported Democratic presidential candidates since Franklin D. Roosevelt. In breaking with the AFL-CIO he blamed what he said was its failure to get involved in social endeavors such as civil rights.

He had flown millions of miles throughout the world to champion labor and liberal causes.

In March of 1966 Reuther ousted R.J. Thomas as UAW president and had been challenged only twice since, in 1949 and last month. He turned back both challenges overwhelmingly.

As president of the CIO, Reuther led it into merger with the AFL.

Hold Mock Trial Of Earl Warren

NEW YORK (AP) — Earl Warren addressed the Anti-Defamation League Sunday night in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, while elsewhere in the hotel an Arab group staged a mock trial of the former U.S. chief justice.

Warren received the America's Democratic Legacy award of the league and told the audience of about 1,000 persons: "We must remember that there are over 20 million Americans, mostly black, who are still denied basic rights of American citizenship."

The Arab group, the Federated Organizations on American-Arab Relations, was unable to enter the hotel ballroom to deliver its verdict on Warren, but instead presented the Anti-Defamation League with a statement accusing Warren of hypocrisy in accepting the ADL award.

The league is a subgroup of B'nai B'rith, a Jewish fraternal organization.

Would Create 'Pax Materna'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Angie Brooks, president of the U.N. General Assembly, says the mothers of the world should create a "pax materna" to campaign for peace.

Miss Brooks told 1,500 delegates to a convention of an anti-war group of women with children called Another Mother for Peace:

"This is a time for women to hold positions for policy-making. It is a time for women who bear children to decide if they want their children to die in a foreign land."

you bet your BP it can!

In the Portuguese mountains, the roads can be bad and the weather worse. And running out of gas is almost unthinkable. That's why Portuguese motorists depend on BP gasoline. They know it's made for good mileage.

Throughout the world, motorists depend on BP gasoline for good mileage. They know BP has experience with every type of car. In every conceivable driving condition. They know the world is BP's test track.

And now BP is in America. BP gasoline—a blend of international experience and American expertise. To give you better gas mileage in Pennsylvania. Or Massachusetts. Or Georgia. Or anywhere.

BP. The new American gasoline with the international heritage.
