

Counterattack By Senate Supporters Of Indochina Policy

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators supporting President Nixon's decision to send U.S. troops into Cambodia are counterattacking to block a move to prevent deeper American involvement in that country.

A countermove by GOP Senate Leader Hugh Scott and others is aimed at stopping an amendment by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho barring funds for retaining U.S. troops in Cambodia and limiting future aid for air strikes.

Scott has proposed amending the Cooper-Church amendment to authorize U.S.-Cambodian operations if the President decides they are necessary to protect Americans in Vietnam.

The Cooper-Church amendment, the first in a series of proposals dealing with U.S. action in Vietnam and Cambodia, is attached to a military sales bill. The Senate formally opened debate on the measure Wednesday in a discussion that likely will occupy it until July.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., joined the counterattack by announcing today he will seek to bar enforcement of any limit on funds until the North Vietnamese release all American prisoners of war.

"We are solemnly obligated—legally, morally and in the name of honor and decency—to stand by these men even as they stood by America," Stennis said in disclosing his plans.

Church told the Senate Wednesday his amendment is "directed against the very activities which led to our entrapment in Vietnam. Its adoption would erect a legal barrier against the further penetration of American forces into the jungles of Southeast Asia and help expedite the withdrawal of our troops from Vietnam."

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, told reporters Wednesday the Cooper-Church proposal was "unthinkable," especially "while that battle is still going on."

Although President Nixon has said all U.S. troops will be out of Cambodia by June 30, Stennis said "I just don't think anyone can foretell just when they can carry out a mission."

He also said President Nixon might have to send American troops into Cambodia again. Nixon has insisted South Vietnamese troops could handle a second attack, if needed.

"I don't want to shut him off from hitting these sanctuaries again," Stennis said.

Leaders of two major veterans groups appeared in the Senate Press Gallery to denounce the Cooper-Church amendment and other restrictive proposals.

The two national commanders, J. Milton Patrick of the American Legion and Ray Gallagher of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said the limitations proposed "amount to a declaration of surrender to Communist forces and constitute a stab in the back for our boys in combat."

Despite their denials the press gallery visit had been initiated by the White House, an aide to Scott, who had accompanied them, said the White House had asked him to bring them.

Scott left when reporters asked if he endorsed the veterans' leaders' statement which singled out Sens. Cooper, Church, J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and George S. McGovern, D-S.D., "as prime movers of legislation which would assure the humiliation of the United States."

Syrian Troops Enter Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An unknown number of Syrian troops have entered eastern Lebanon near Deir el Achair without the authorization of the Lebanese government, witnesses in the area said.

Lebanese military authorities have demanded they withdraw. Persons in Chtaura said Lebanese security officers in the city are receiving calls from several towns in southeast Lebanon that Syrian forces are moving through the area.

PTI Board Okays Its Proposed Budget

The Pitt Technical Institute Board of Trustees met in a called session Wednesday to consider the school's proposed 1970-71 county budget request.

The proposed budget was presented to the board by finance committee chairman Vernon E. White. The trustees approved the proposed budget as it was presented by the committee.

The approved budget request will be presented to the Pitt County Commissioners at a later date for final ratification. Pitt Technical Institute's request from the county for the next

Stock Market Continues Slip

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices continued on their downward course in moderately active trading today.

The Dow Jones average by 10:30 a.m., one half hour after the opening bell, had dropped 4.89 to 688.95. Declining issues led advances by a 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

On Wednesday, prices skidded to a new seven-year low as the Dow average fell below the 700 mark.

The Dow average of 30 industrial stocks plunged 10.75 points to 693.84, the lowest level since July 29, 1963 when it closed at 690.71. Analysts said the market essentially was continuing its depressed pattern caused by high interest rates, inflation, lower corporate earnings and the war in Southeast Asia.

"The big key is Vietnam. If we could end Vietnam, there would be a stampede to buy," said John Dwyer of Dominick & Dominick in Chicago.

Guy E. Noyes, senior vice president and economist for Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. in New York, said: "The economy is still performing pretty well. But corporate profits—which is what the stock market is all about—are not. It doesn't make any difference to the stock market if the economy is holding up well, if profits aren't holding up."

The New York Stock Exchange's index of some 1,200 common stocks fell 0.74 to 41.99, its lowest level since Oct. 17, 1966. The American Stock Exchange price change index was off .23 at 21.22, lowest since Nov. 20, 1967.

The Associated Press 60-stock average closed down 3.7 at 243.5, the lowest point since Jan. 2, 1963, and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index closed down 1.32 at 76.53, a 1970 low.

The bill is an open-ended authorization, subject to later appropriations. About $400 million is now spent on school lunch programs, and officials estimated another $200 million would be required to meet the bill's authorizations.

Joint Approach To Waste Disposal Is Sought For County

By STUART SAVAGE

Representatives from Grifton, Ayden, Winterville and Greenville met with Pitt County Commissioners last night to discuss a growing problem facing the county — solid waste disposal.

"It seems to me," Commissioner Charles Gaskins said, "the joint approach is the right approach."

Representatives from all municipalities in the county had been invited to attend the session which resulted in commissioners agreeing to name a committee, including representatives from each municipality, to study the county's problems and make recommendations for the solution of them.

A study made by the State Health Department more than a year ago recommended five landfill sites to serve the needs of county residents (other than the City of Greenville) the group was told.

Projected cost of the project, as outlined in the study, included some $70,000 for equipment and $40,600 for operating expenses (including salaries for workers) for the year's operation, in addition to the cost of the landfill sites.

Municipalities across the state must, by September 1, have a plan for disposal of solid waste approved by the Department of Water and Air Resources. Landfill sites must also meet requirements of the State Health Department.

Thus, municipalities such as Winterville and Ayden, who are running out of space at their dumps, must find suitable landfill sites for their waste.

Residents outside municipalities also need a dumping site for their waste also. Although some residents make use of private contractors who pick up garbage on a regular basis and others take their own garbage to municipal dumps, other less considerate people dump their garbage beside roadways and on vacant lots.

"A cooperative agreement would solve many problems," Greenville City Manager Harry Hagerty said.

Hagerty explained that individual members of the council have said they favor participation by County Commissioners in "financing disposal." "In turn," he said, "the city would allow certain areas to dump in our landfill which he said, should be adequate to serve the needs of the Greenville area for 10 to 15 years."

He explained that a check of vehicles coming to the city dump last summer to dump indicated that 75 percent of them were from out of the city.

According to Ayden town manager Peter Vandenburg, "Ours is a dump. That's all you can call it."

"Our problem is," he said "our dump is filling up."

Won't Build Soviet Plant

DETROIT (AP) — Henry Ford II told a meeting of Ford stockholders today that he has notified the Russian government "is not feasible for us to give further consideration to a Soviet proposal" that Ford build a truck plant in Russia.

Ford, recently returned from a nine-day visit to Russia where he discussed the Russian leaders' proposal with them, said the U.S. government "was advised in advance of our visit and did not discourage us."

The chairman of the Ford Motor Co. reacted strongly last week to what he considered criticism of the proposed Russian-Ford truck venture by Defense Secretary Melvin Laird.

Laird said in an interview, "Some people believe the best way to succeed with the Soviet Union, for example, is to go to Russia and build trucks for them."

Ford said his firm's competitive position in worldwide markets remained strong despite inflation. He said the firm will introduce two new cars this fall, a Ford Division minicar called Pinto and a Lincoln-Mercury compact called Comet.

Four-Power Talk Held On Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — The third session of secret Four Power talks on easing tension in and around Berlin began today in West Berlin's former Allied Control Council building.

The British, French, Soviet and U.S. ambassadors to divided Germany arrived at the old Prussian Supreme Court building for the session chaired by Britain's Sir Roger Jackling.

About 20 demonstrators in front of the heavily guarded grounds carried a banner reading: "Berlin must not become a cold war battle-front city again."

New City PTA Council Officers Are Presented

The new slate of officers for the City Wide PTA Council for the 1970-71 school year were presented by Mrs. W. B. Bond, current president of the PTA council, at Monday night's meeting held at Rose High School.

Dr. W. C. Sanderson is the newly elected president, with John Taylor vice - president, Mrs. Margie T. Perkins, secretary, and Mrs. A. A. Cheek, treasurer.

Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood superintendent of city schools, guest speaker at the meeting, urged the council to put forth even more effort in the years ahead to be the main channel for understanding between parents, teachers and the Board of Education.

Noting that the school board is committed to equal education for all children, Dr. Cleetwood said there would be one junior high school at Aycock until a new school with comparable facilities could be built. He estimated that it would take at least three years for the new school to be built.

Dr. Cleetwood told the audience that zoning of the elementary schools still does not comply with HEW requirements. He revealed that since the Greenville City Schools have been on the deferred list, they have been deprived of about $100,000 in government funds for various programs.

Council vice - president Wallace Powers outlined a study course to be held May 20. Dr. Raleigh Dingman, executive secretary of the North Carolina School Board Association, will speak in reference to functions and duties of a school board.

Following a discussion by administration members and officers of the PTA's of the two junior high schools, the council endorsed a plan of the school board for one junior high school until a second one could be built.

Two Egyptian Jets Downed In Suez Fighting

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Two Egyptian MIG21s were shot down today as they attempted to intercept Israeli war planes attacking military targets along the Suez Canal, the military command said.

On the ground, Arab guerrillas in Lebanon fired rockets at two Israeli settlements, defying Israel's massive antiguerrilla sweep through southeast Lebanon that ended only 12 hours earlier, Israeli sources said.

A third Egyptian plane was hit in the air battle over the canal, but was not seen going down, a spokesman said.

The Soviet-made MIG21s attempted to interfere with Israeli planes raiding objectives on the central sector of the canal, he said.

One MIG exploded in the air. One pilot of another was seen bailing out. Both planes crashed in Egyptian territory, while the Israeli aircraft returned safely, the spokesman said.

The dogfights brought to 93 the number of Egyptian planes Israel claims to have downed since the 1967 war.

The Czech-made Katyusha rockets, fired shortly before dawn, caused no damage or casualties to the two settlements—Kfar Blum and Ramot Naftal, the sources said.

Both are close to the Lebanese border near Kiryat Shmona, where three persons were killed and nine wounded in a rocket attack that prompted Israel's raid into Lebanon Tuesday.

Only a few hours before the latest attack, Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon warned Beirut to expect "further and widespread Israeli military attacks" unless it stamped out guerrilla activity from its territory.

Tribute Planned For Mrs. Taylor

Mrs. Walter F. Taylor is retiring as executive secretary of the Pitt County chapter of the American National Red Cross. The Pitt County Board of the organization, announced that a testimonial dinner to be given in her honor Thursday, May 21, at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Mrs. Taylor has been executive secretary of the local chapter since it was formally organized in 1942. "Over this period of 28 years, she has served with a faithful dedication the many services of the Red Cross," Joe Clark, chairman of the Board, said.

The Board is inviting the people of Pitt County to participate in the dinner and the reception beforehand at 6:30 p.m. The cost will be $3.50 per person.

"We have had a number of friends in the county who have expressed the desire to make a contribution toward a gift to be presented to Mrs. Taylor on this occasion in appreciation for her devoted and distinguished service," Clark said.

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.)
DEAR ABBY: I sat in the hospital waiting room for 6 hours waiting for my daughter to give birth. I was worried sick thinking the baby might not live because it was "premature." My daughter had been married a little over 6 months. She had a big church wedding. Then her husband told me I shouldn't worry—that the baby would be full term. Abby, they lied to us! I wanted to hit him. I wanted to run. I cried out. There is no pain in the world like it.

I loved my daughter more than I loved my own life, and I felt my love for her turn to hate in one minute. How I wish I could walk out of my own body and into another and not be the mother of a daughter who has sinned.

GOD FEARING WOMAN

DEAR WOMAN: Your shock and disappointment are understandable, but as a "God-fearing woman," I ask you to remember His words: "Judge not lest ye be judged." And, "He that is without sin among us let him cast the first stone."

God forgives the "sinner." Can you do less?

DEAR ABBY: In your column you made reference to something that was "phony" as a three-dollar bill.

Abby, three dollar bills are no more "phony" than any other denomination, and at one time they were quite common. I am enclosing, with my compliments, a three dollar bill (not phony) as you can see. Very truly yours,
GROVER CRISWELL: NUMISMATIST

DEAR MR. CRISWELL: By "phony," I meant "worthless,"—not negotiable legal tender. A three-dollar bill has value today only as a collector's item, and I thank you for it. I notice it was issued in 1863 by the state of North Carolina. Save your Confederate money, Grover. The South will rise again! Maybe.

DEAR ABBY: So many people "mean well" but they are so ignorant when it comes to what to say and what not to say when a friend has adopted a baby. The following is a list of questions most frequently asked of adoptive parents.

Where did you get the baby?
Did you get to meet the mother?
How much did it cost you?
Do you know anything about the mother? How about the father?

Are you going to tell "IT" it is adopted?
Abby, adoptive parents do not want to answer any of these questions. I know. I have worked with adoptions for several years, and I am also adopted. When I casually mentioned to a lady that I was adopted, but my brother was not, her comment was, "Good heavens, you could have married your brother then, couldn't you?" "VTV"

CONFIDENTIAL TO "MIKE": If you are sitting around hunting for four-leaf clovers, you will need more than luck.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

She Appeals To World Court

RENNES, France (WNS) — Marie Anne Kerhuel, a doctor of law who used to be an official in the Ministry of Economic Affairs, has refused to pay $170 in taxes charged to the bi-monthly magazine she owns. Her excuse: the treaty that Francois I, king of France, signed in 1532 with this French region of Bretagne (Brittany) declares that local citizens need not pay taxes that they have not approved. "The treaty is still law," insists Mlle. Kerhuel, who is appealing to the World Court at The Hague for help.

Small Boys Are More Willing

PARIS (WNS) — The National Association for Better Seeing has reported that small boys are more willing than little girls to wear eyeglasses because they are eager "to look like papa." The association's report suggests that mothers correct the situation by wearing glasses in front of their daughters instead of trying to avoid the subject.

No Atmosphere For Revolution

Those who talk of revolution and civil insurrection, in this country should take to their history books before they decide there is something glorious in such a cause.

We speak now not only of campus radicals but also of those on the other side, the reactionaries who feel that police and troops should shoot down rioting students.

We have the uncomfortable feeling that the nation has gone through something similar to this previously. The issues might have been different and the regions more sharply defined, but in our War Between the State brothers went to war with brothers and countrymen with countrymen. In the end the Union prevailed but the toll in lives and destroyed property was ghastly.

Here in the South even now we feel the effects of the war of a hundred years ago. We know that to some extent there is still some anti-south feeling, that has been handed down from generation to generation. Our region remained poor and relatively undeveloped through the remainder of the 1800s and right on through World War II. Since then an era of development and prosperity has come to many sections of the South that most of us don't want to see undone.

Will such a thing happen again in our nation and perhaps to other areas than the South? We don't think so. It is true that there are dedicated revolutionaries around who would delight in plunging this nation into internal conflict. And it is also true that there are reactionaries who feel that the battle should be joined.

However, during recent turmoil the majority of Americans have remained calm and, most important, they have remained loyal to their country. When revolutions succeed in any country it is usually a small number of radicals who bring it about. But what they must have is the sympathy of the masses, and if they can't get sympathy they will take apathy.

The would-be revolutionaries have gained neither sympathy nor apathy from the American public. Calls for a national strike were totally ignored and where colleges were not closed by violence a majority of the students have attended classes. By the same token Americans have ignored calls for violence against the radicals and there has been little popular sentiment for stifling legitimate dissent.

In short, public opinion has been on the side of maintaining freedoms, but a strong loyalty to country has shown itself. In this atmosphere revolutions wither.

Candle Lit By Visit To Kenya

By BRYAN HAILSIP
RALEIGH, N.C.—A white Mississippi-born Baptist spent six weeks in Kenya last summer, a visit that promises to light a candle in the vast dark of that emerging African nation's needs.

Don Roberts came home to Raleigh with a headful of impressions of the Kenyan bush country, and a fixed purpose to do something about what he had seen.

"Quite frankly, it was a life-changing experience for me," the 29-year-old history teacher and counselor said. "The setting was unlike anything I had known before. I felt that this was a place where I, and others, could do something to help."

As Raleigh Community Ambassador under the Experiment in International Living program, Roberts lived, worked and played with the people of Kenya's Meru district. He made friends.

He saw the struggle to wring a living from an infertile land (average annual income: $43). He watched a friend, the only medical assistant at the Marimanti Health Center, try to serve 30,000 people with inadequate or nonexistent facilities. He taught for two weeks at the Thera secondary school and marvelled at the intensity of the drive for education and improvement.

Like many of the good-intentioned, Roberts asked himself what he could do to help. Unlike most, he opted for action without resigning himself to the futility of one person's efforts.

He brought into being the Raleigh Friends of Kenya Fund, a virtually single-handed campaign to meet a $7,000 goal for these specific projects:

A new pump and water tank for the Marimanti Rural Training Center where farmers are taught improved agricultural practices. This could increase the center's crop experimentation, broaden its help to farmers, and make possible a second annual harvest.

Books, supplies and other classroom aids for the Harambee (self-help) secondary school at Marimanti where around 30 students are taught.

Study in the U.S. for James Njuguna of Kiambu, a physical education student, and Alex Schivachi of Kakamega, a talented art student; and aid for John Kihohia of Thika, already a pre-med student at Shaw University in Raleigh.

Today, nine months and 70 speeches later, Roberts is well on the way to his goal.

Contributions from an estimated 500 individuals and groups have raised $3,600. Shaw University has granted scholarships of $1,130 each to Njuguna and Schivachi. Pullen Memorial Baptist Church put into its budget $1,500 for scholarship aid to Stanley Mwongela, the Marimanti Health Center medical assistant who wants to study medicine, but difficulties have arisen which make it unlikely he can enroll here.

Response has come from throughout the Raleigh community. Gov. Robert W. Scott is a contributor. Students at St. Mary's Junior College where Roberts teaches American history and political science have given $400. Gifts have come from church and civic groups, as well as anonymous donations on occasions when Roberts speaks on his Kenyan experience.

Racial implications of the project are no big deal for Roberts. "Sure, there was a two-week period when I didn't see another white person," he said. "But I honestly don't think color had anything to do with the way the people reacted to me or me to them."

"I'd want to do this whether they were black, white or polka dotted. It's just a matter of human need, and doing something about it."

While he is hopeful of success for the immediate goal, Roberts said there will be a continuing need for scholarship aid for the Kenyan students who will enroll here this fall. "We can't just get them started and then drop out," he explained.

He expects to arrange occasions for Fund contributors to meet the Kenyan students, to see and hear firsthand reports on their people-to-people aid program. This may offer a way to take care of future needs. Meanwhile, Roberts is ready to take his slides and tape recordings of Kenyan music anywhere he is invited to tell his story.

News of the Raleigh Friends of Kenya Fund brought amazement and delight back in Marimanti. "I think I shall have a heart attack," wrote Gerrard M'kunyu, principal of the Marimanti Rural Training Center and Roberts' host for his stay there.

Most of his mail from Kenya comes addressed with the name given Roberts on his visit. "It's M'Makembo, and in the tribal language of the area it means, 'the person who goes from place to place making everyone happy,'" he said.

Hanoi Suffers Internal Strife

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A resolution adopted by the ruling Politburo in North Vietnam makes it probable that there will be a widespread purge of Communists, high and low, in that country.

The furor over Cambodia has diverted attention from Hanoi's internal problems, but it seems likely that the forthcoming purge is connected with a power struggle in progress ever since Ho Chi Minh died last September.

The prospects for this struggle are obscured by recent events which brought Red China back into the Indochina picture. It would seem that the outcome would affect Hanoi's prosecution of the wars in Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam, but the effect would be a matter of degree and of little comfort to Americans trying to extricate themselves.

In any case, a major North Vietnamese reshuffle seems to be in the works. An April 25 resolution of the Lao Dong—Workers-party politburo called bluntly for the expulsion of large number of members found wanting, and their replacement by a new "Ho Chi Minh class" of members. This is reminiscent of Communist reshuffles in other countries, following a Soviet pattern laid down by Joseph Stalin after Lenin died. The "Lenin enrollment" served to bolster Stalin's personal power as general secretary.

The party secretary in North Vietnam is Le Duan, and his name alone is affixed to the resolution in the name of the whole Politburo. This suggests that he is in a commanding position. He is regarded as pro-Moscow, and at the same time a proponent of bold military measures in the South as opposed to long, patient and protracted "people's war" in the Chinese style of Mao Tse-tung.

The resolution, a toughly worded document, suggests that Hanoi has been having continuing troubles because of the war's demands. Some U.S. specialists profess to see signs that the troubles are mounting because of new strains of supporting invasions in Laos and Cambodia.

The international aspect is indicated by a demand that party members follow a line of "contributing to the restoration and strengthening of the unity of the Socialist bloc and the international Communist movement." This suggests that the struggle is far from resolved at the top level. For years there have been signs of a Hanoi tug of war between elements embracing the Soviet line and those preferring Mao's more Asian "Marxism."

While the Moscow-leaning Le Duan, as sole signer of the document, would seem now to have the upper hand, recent events have complicated the situation. Only a few days after the resolution was published, events in Cambodia spurred leaders of North Vietnam, the Viet Cong, the Laos leftists and Cambodia's Prince Sihanouk to a summit meeting for which Red China provided the territory, facilities and cheering section.

Peking seemed to go one up on Moscow in the contest for Hanoi's allegiance. Then Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin let go with a strong denunciation of the Americans for the Cambodian drive and the new bombing of North Vietnam. He coupled this with a promise of new military hardware for North Vietnam.

All this could have an effect of restraining the developing power struggle in Hanoi, but the Politburo resolution indicates, the struggle must inevitably come to a head.

Strength For Today

VITAL QUESTION

When are two people (boy and girl, man and woman) in love with each other? When each feels a devotion for the other which surpasses any desire one has for himself or herself.

The remark is often made today that divorces arise from a lack of love either on the part of one or both persons securing the divorce. This undoubtedly is the cause in many instances. Another reason why people so frequently are divorced is because they did not know each other sufficiently well before their marriage—the idiosyncrasies, aversions, desires, things that make up personality. Frequently people get married without knowing very much about a partner's taste or general outlook on life. This is not surprising because most people could not give any logical reason for their likes and dislikes, their outlook on life in general.

So divorces are not always caused by lack of love but by lack of understanding. Even in the happiest marriages there will be some areas in which the married couple will not agree, but this makes no difference if the matters on which they disagree are not of vital importance.

Happily married persons have to trust each other. They have to be sure about each other's characters. They have to be willing to give and take every day. One is a stay-at-home, the other a party-lover. One loves TV. The other loves books and plenty of calls from friends.

Marriage is a complicated relationship. It's a wonder people get along with each other as well as they do.

An Afterword On 'Bums'

Once more we are being exhorted, chiefly by the Washington Post, to lower our voices and to keep our dissent pianissimo. It is excellent advice, especially for the Washington Post, but in the context of these "student demonstrations," the advice can be taken only to a point.

On the record of its performance since the Nixon administration came in of office, the Post is not likely to heed its own counsel at all. For the past 16 months, the Post has been snarling at the President, howling at him, yelling at him, and hurling invective upon him not by the ounce or by the pound, but by the ton.

To live in Washington is to live with the Post. Since it swallowed the old Times-Herald on March 17, 1954, the saddest day in the history of our local journalism, it has been the capital's only morning paper. It is in fact a brilliant paper, as brilliant as Randolph's famous mackerel in the moonlight, but if you are a conservative, and incline toward the Nixon administration, you feel like a pin boy in an old-fashioned bowling hall. Every day is crash, bang, zowie—duck!—and set 'em up again in the other alley. This is the outfit that now is hollering at everyone to quiet things down.

Okay. But before the Post put on its choir boy face last week, its gunslings were blasting the President on this matter of "bums." The record ought to be kept straight; and we ought not, in the name of Sweet conciliation, to retreat one inch from ugly reality. In his impromptu chat at the Pentagon on May 1, Mr. Nixon expressed his scorn for "these bums blowing up the campuses." The Post chose to infer that the President had lumped all dissenting students into a pile labeled "bums." Bosh.

Let us draw a few distinctions. The great bulk of the 80,000 young people who came to Washington this past weekend were engaged in precisely the kind of dissent that has to be accepted as part of a free society. Their speech was free speech; their placards and banners were manifestations of free press; and their presence in the Ellipse was fully in keeping with "the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances."

All this was fine. But it is an odd sense of values that heaps adulation on the 98 or 99 per cent because they were orderly. There is no great insult, the elder Dumas once remarked, than to praise a man for doing his duty. Let us not get so overcome with psalm-singing, pianissimo, that we seem to condone or to minimize the outrages perpetrated by the bums.

Thus, when I am told to marvel at the gentleness of these visitors, I will speak a word for Private Charles Roszak of the Park Police; he tangled with a broken wine bottle and wound up with 56 stitches in his arm.

When I am lectured on the "intelligence" and "concern" of the demonstrators, I will insert a couple of footnotes. Thousands of these flower children, lapsing into mob obscenity, joined publicly in a gutter chant against the President. A few of them responded to Nixon's effort at conciliation by waving Nazi banners. Some demonstrated their intelligence by stripping naked.

Non-violent? Some of the bums went on an orgy of window smashing up at Dupont Circle. Others threw stones and bottles at police. An unidentified visitor voiced his dissent by leaving a charge of dynamite at the

A Few Unsung Heroes

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Some of the people who get the most applause in this world do the least good.

They just happened to be standing in the right place when the spotlight came on. Or they saw to it that they were.

From your own experience don't you know any number of people who are nowhere to be seen when hard work is to be done, but when the gravy train comes by they emerge out of nowhere and are first to hop aboard, holding a ready ladle in each hand?

Sometime, somehow, this injustice should be righted and credit given where credit is due, proper honor accorded to those deserving of recognition but now nameless to renown.

Here, for example, are a few unsung heroes worthy of a medal or at least a mention in dispatches:

Anybody who starts to write a memo and then decides not to.

Whoever buys the first round. Secretaries who are homely but can spell.

Resort owners who serve meals free any day that it rains.

Any bus driver willing to change a $5 bill without adopting the air of a martyr.

A husband tolerant enough to let his wife wear the same length miniskirt he admires on younger girls.

A millionaire who admits he had an easy life as a kid.

Any movie producer who makes a dirty movie but is too honest to claim it has an important social message bearing on the quandary of our times.

Boy Scouts who pass up old ladies in order to help old men cross the street.

Hat check girls who'll only accept a dime for taking charge of your bonnet because that's all it's really worth.

An after-dinner speaker able to go through his entire speech without once saying, "And that reminds me of a story I—"

Any wife who can remain totally silent until her husband has finished drinking his first cup of morning coffee.

A professional football or baseball player who uses that greasy kid stuff on his hair and stubbornly continues to because he likes it.

Any hospital where you can stay overnight without being given a bill that looks like you'd been on a weekend binge in Las Vegas.

A defeated political candidate who acknowledges he'd probably have lost anyway even if he had had all the money he wanted to spend on his campaign.

Yes, these are a few of the obscure heroes of our time. But before we can honor them we first have to find them. There lies the problem.

Opinion In Brief

We are living in a time of war and the last few years have hardened us to death abroad, but now the dead are lying in front of us and we are not yet that hard. Perhaps this sense of unity at ECU now extends throughout the nation and Americans will at last come together in a true lowering of voices and search for peace.—Fountainhead.

Moves To Offset A Sales Dip

By ELMER ROESSNER

There are more people in the United States, as the reports on the census of April 1 will show, and they are buying less. The Census Bureau also reported that retail sales in the first quarter of this year were only 0.8 per cent higher than in the last quarter of 1969.

Since the price increase was more than 0.8 per cent over that time, the figures show that people are buying less. They may be paying more, but the physical volume of sales is lower.

Some consumers spend less because they have less money to spend, due to layoffs, cuts in overtime, and failure of income to keep up with price rises. Retailers can do little about that.

Other consumers spend less because they get the quivers. They are afraid of future losses of income, cuts in dividends, hikes in taxes.

Retailers can do something about this consumer reluctance.

What To Do About It

Here is a collection of business-stimulating ideas for just such situations. Some are distilled from past conversations to dips in consumer spending; others are gleaned from what some merchants are doing now. There are two kinds. One is to cut spending; the other is to increase selling. To cut spending:

• Take all cash discounts. A 2 per cent discount for payment in 30 days is an annual saving of 24 per cent. There's a saving even if the merchant must borrow at 12 to 15 per cent.

• Cut inventories. Carrying excessive stocks costs more than ever in the money tied up, in storage space, in insurance, in pilferage. Don't be afraid to have to re-order; your competitors will be doing the same thing or taking lessons.

• Limit suppliers. Dealing with ten or twelve instead of three or four can increase your own bookkeeping costs, can lead to overstocking, can lead to higher shipping costs. Worse, it can lose discounts and favored—customer treatment by not concentrating on a few suppliers. On The Other Hand—

• Nevertheless, keep shopping around. Listen to all offers. Many suppliers, squeezed by declining sales and rising costs, will be forced to offer bargains they avoided before.

• Never go for a first price. Dicker. Haggle. If a supplier will cut a price 33 per cent, he will probably cut it 39 or 41 per cent. Or 43.

• Watch competitors. When their price is below yours, they are probably getting lower prices from their sources. Take this up with your sources.

• Keep alert to labor-saving devices.

• Re-examine working conditions to determine where you can combine duties, jobs. Most unions won't resist strenuously today.

• Review all spending. One company discovered it had been paying for a service that had been discontinued two years earlier.

• Review all services. In boom times, it is often cheaper to contract for many services; in recessions, it may be cheaper to have services done by employees.

• Fire or cut pay of all relatives. Some sales-boosting ideas tomorrow.

Campus Protestors Continue Scattered Disorders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio University students broke windows and set small fires on campus and in downtown Athens for two hours early today after shouting down an attempt by university President Claude W. Sowle to address a protest rally.

Police battled the rock-throwing demonstrators with tear gas in the latest outbreak of violence during a nationwide wave of student strikes and demonstrations protesting the Indochina war and the killing of four Kent State University students.

Up to 3,000 students at the 19,500-student Ohio University had demonstrated peacefully until Wednesday when Sowle suspended seven students whom he accused, without elaboration, of being threats to the security of the university.

"I am dedicated to the idea that this simply can't be another Kent State or Ohio State" where students closed their universities, Sowle said.

During the disorders, eight students were arrested and an auxiliary police officer was injured by a rock thrown through a window of his cruiser.

The student strike information center at Brandeis University in Waltham, Mass., reported 267 colleges and universities were on strikes of indefinite length. The center reported 286 schools on strike Tuesday.

A nationwide sampling showed 14 schools officially closed.

The White House announced that President Nixon's daughter Julie and her husband, David Eisenhower, have decided not to attend their graduation exercises at Smith and Amherst colleges. Antiwar protests have been going on at both schools.

President and Mrs. Nixon had indicated they wanted to attend Julie's graduation from Smith, scheduled May 29.

The two young people decided not to return to their campuses at all. A spokesman said both have good enough grades to receive diplomas without further exams.

Police in Blacksburg, Va., used dogs to help in evicting about 100 war protesters from a building they had occupied overnight on the campus of 9,500-student Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Later, 200 state troopers formed a ring around the home of the institute's president, Dr. T. Marshall Hahn Jr., to hold off a crowd of 1,250 students who demanded amnesty for those arrested.

In Ypsilanti, Mich., students from 14,500-student Eastern Michigan University broke glass and furniture on campus despite a state of emergency declared by Gov. William Milliken Tuesday after two nights of violent demonstrations.

There were 15 to 20 arrests.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie ordered 1,100 Illinois National Guardsmen into Carbondale because of continued turmoil at the 26,000-student Southern Illinois University.

Although some students had urged the school to remain open, thousands of students sang and danced in the streets when it was announced the university would close for an "indefinite time."

In Hartford, Conn., about 100 adults marched from the Old State House to the State Capitol to call for an end to the Indochina war this year. They carried a sign saying, "Peace is too important to leave to the kids."

The group, made up of business and professional people, was joined by another 200 adults during the march.

R. Channing Barlow, assistant vice president of the Hartford Insurance Group, told the gathering, "We are hopeful that today can be recorded as a solemn commitment against United States involvement in Vietnam. This marks the first time a group such as this has seen fit to leave its offices, laboratories and chambers."

Across from the White House, in Lafayette Park, some 50 students from Westminster Choir College in Princeton, N.J., holding aloft a banner reading, "Singers for Peace," sang their especially composed "peace anthem."

At Washburn University in Topeka, Kan., plans were announced for a rally in the football stadium Friday to be called "College Appreciation Day" to express thanks for education.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell met with some 100 Philadelphia area students at his Washington office and told them youth unrest is "a good thing." Saying he doesn't believe there "has been a time when unrest among our young has been as widespread as it is today," he challenged them to keep their dissent lawful.

Four professional barbers went to San Jose Calif. State College and shaved off student beards and gave short haircuts for free. The students were attempting to improve their image while waging door-to-door antiwar campaigns.

In Washington, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said the federal government should investigate a program at Princeton where students will be given two weeks off prior to the general election to participate in political campaigns.

Some other university officials have said they may follow Princeton's lead. Some student leaders have suggested the college youths work to elect candidates opposed to U.S. policy in Indochina.

Thurmond said, "I feel that there is a serious question here as to whether or not Princeton can legally sponsor this project ... while maintaining tax-exempt status."

Robert Kingsley, an antiwar activist and assistant professor of English at Fort Hays State College in Hays, Kan., announced he was relinquishing his American citizenship because he cannot "live in this political and social climate." He said he would move to Canada.

In New York City, students at John Jay College of Criminal Justice, about 80 per cent of them policemen, voted 865 to 791 against a resolution to shut the school as an antiwar protest.

Seventy-three midshipmen at the 750-student U.S. Merchant Marine Academy in Kings Point, N.Y., sent their superintendent, Rear Adm. Gordon McClintock, a letter saying they would not march in the Armed Forces Day parade Saturday. They said it was their "patriotic duty to display and dramatize" their opposition to the war in Vietnam.

Sill To Talk At Meeting

Elder Sterling W. Sill will speak at the North Carolina Stake (diocese) Conference Saturday and Sunday, Kinston.

Elder Sill is an assistant to the Council of Twelve of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He is the personality of the "Sterling W. Sill" radio program and "Sunday Evening on Temple Square."

He also has authored numerous volumes of his talks. He is a retired insurance executive and former member of the Board of Regents of the University of Utah.

The conference session will be held Sunday. Stake President Cecil E. Reese of Kinston says visitors are welcome.

College Puts Up Bail For Coeds

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP)—Two Smith College seniors, one from North Carolina, have pleaded innocent to charges of narcotic law violations, including an allegation they were growing marijuana in their dormitory room.

The all-girl college put up $1,000 bail each for release of Carolina Cohen, 21, New Haven, Conn., and Linda Hobbet, Durham, N.C. Their cases was set for next Wednesday.

The two were arrested by Northampton police at a campus dormitory Tuesday night.

Asks Govm't Aid To Dredge Inlet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. David N. Henderson, D-N.C., wants the federal government to spend $85,800 in dredging Drum Inlet on the North Carolina coast.

Henderson asked the House Appropriations subcommittee Wednesday to make the money available for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

"There is a real danger that this inlet, which was created by great storm which swept the coast in the 18th Century, will be shoaled in by natural forces unless corrective action is taken soon," Henderson said.

The proposal calls for a channel nine feet deep and 150 feet wide for Drum Inlet.

The U.S. National Health survey estimates that 22.2 million Americans are partially or totally disabled.

McNair Appeals To Parents Of USC Students After Disorders

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBIA (AP)—Gov. Robert McNair, appealing directly to parents of University of South Carolina students, said Wednesday the school would remain open and this summer would be the right time for discussion of grievances with militant students.

McNair, in a statewide television appearance, also said students and sympathizers responsible for the takeover of the first floor of the Administration Building Monday were to be arrested.

A short time later warrants were issued for the arrests of five persons, four of them students, on charges of riot and inciting to riot.

The governor asked parents repeatedly in his speech to contact their children and urge them to obey the state of emergency regulations—the 9 p.m. to 6 a.m., curfew and the ban against more than six gathering on the campus.

McNair appealed to the parents "to urge your children to recognize authority."

And the governor told parents their children were in complete safety as long as they abided by the regulations.

The campus curfew, McNair said, would remain in effect and would be enforced, as it was Tuesday night when at least 104 arrests were made and again Wednesday when three persons were apprehended.

McNair praised most of the university students for their behavior. "But," he added, "there is a small group that is determined to see that the university is closed. This is the pattern throughout the nation."

The university semester ends in about two weeks.

Commenting on his Tuesday talk with a committee of the dissident students, he said,

"This is the first time that I can remember that I have been unable to establish a dialogue with any group. The students came in with only demands."

McNair asked rhetorically: "How many young people complaining about not being hard can say that they expressed their complaints to the governor of their state?"

Now, McNair continued, is the time to let things "cool off and then this summer will be the time for dialogue and discussions."

The governor said law enforcement officers attempting to enforce the curfew Tuesday night did not use any of their weapons, except for tear gas.

He reiterated that he had moved state troopers and National Guardsmen onto the campus only at the request of university officials and that he had declared the state of emergency on the campus "as a last resort to protect the students, the faculty, the staff and school property."

The governor's appearance on television immediately followed an interview program with Mrs. Barbara Herbert, a leader of the USC protest.

As Mrs. Herbert was being interviewed, the television station switchboard was flooded with calls from persons protesting her appearance.

Throughout Wednesday McNair met with concerned students, university officials and law enforcement officers.

One group of student marshals urged the governor to close the university before someone was killed.

McNair said he told the protesting students earlier that freedom of speech is not limited to one group and each side should hear the other.

He said some of the students complained about remarks by prominent figures who were critical of the students' long hair and type of dress.

"I told them," McNair said, "that if you call people pigs and the vile and filthy language that you use, that person has a right to say things about you."

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Police have arrested 21 demonstrators who occupied the office of Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch for eight hours Wednesday. The group told Finch they demanded a $5,500 guaranteed annual income and an end to the war in Southeast Asia after invading the secretary's office at noon. The demonstrators were charged with disorderly conduct. Finch turned down the demonstrators' pleas that he speak out against the war.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Coinage Commission has reversed its earlier position and approved a Senate plan to mint 150 million silver dollars commemorating the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Asst. Treasury Secretary Eugene T. Rossides said the decision to include the silver came about because the Office of Emergency Preparedness had decided it needed 25.5 million ounces less silver than it had. The commission voted a year ago to mint a nonsilver coin. The decision to use silver faces a hard contest in the House which voted 267-65 last October to mint a coin containing no precious metal.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., says he will soon introduce an auto insurance bill that includes provision to strengthen federal drivers' license standards and compulsory auto inspections. Hart told the Washington Metropolitan Auto Body Association Wednesday that the measure stems from a three-year investigation of spiraling insurance premiums and auto repair costs.

Besides Vickie and DeLoe, the swim suit winners were: Miss Maryland, Beckie Price, Camp Springs; Miss Nevada, Sharon "Sheri" Lee Schuhl, Las Vegas; Miss Florida, Cheryl Elizabeth Johnson, Eustis; Miss Georgia, Cherie Stephens, Tucker; Miss Ohio, Jane Harrison, Wickliffe; Miss New Mexico, Theresa Ann Phillips, Las Cruces; Miss Maine, Margaret Aletha McAleer, Waterville; and Miss New York, Christina Tefft, Manhattan.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's executive reorganization plan to coordinate domestic programs under a new Cabinet-level Domestic Council appears certain of enactment. The House defeated Wednesday an effort to veto the proposal. Unless the Senate acts, the plan becomes effective Saturday. There are no veto actions scheduled in the Senate. Opposition to Nixon's proposal in the House centered around objections that it would permit the administration to hide key decisions behind a cloak of "executive secrecy."

Mrs. Martha Mitchell, wife of Atty. Gen. A spokesman said, however, that she has no plans at present to visit a college campus. Instead, she reportedly will meet privately with some students.

LOW SALARIES
VIENNA (AP) — The Hungarian trade union paper, "Nep-szava," recently disclosed that a 30-year-old doctor hardly received more than the equivalent of $78 a month. Starting salaries of doctors were a low as $56.50.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has never directly responded to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's two-week old request for a rare face-to-face meeting on Cambodia. Senior committee members interpret silence as rejection. "We have had no reply," said Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., the chairman, "not unless he considers the other meeting to be a reply." The other meeting was a May 4 briefing when Nixon and several administration officials met members of the Senate panel and the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Fulbright said there was no opportunity then for real consultation with the President. "That was hardly a conference," said Vermont Sen. George D. Aiken, senior GOP member of the committee. "Apparently the White House was not receptive to the request," he said. "It looks as though the President felt that we wouldn't approve of what he was planning to do anyway," Aiken said in an interview. Fulbright said he did not plan to renew the request the committee.

To Hear Report On 'Brown Lung'

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Board of Health will hear a report on a study of byssinosis or brown lung disease among textile workers at a meeting in Pinehurst next Wednesday. The board will also hear a report on budget requests for 1971-73. After the board's quarterly meeting members will join with the State Medical Society to hear the annual report of Dr. Jacob Koomen, director of the Board of Health.

mittee made of Nixon in a letter May 1, the day after the Cambodian decision was announced. There were complaints elsewhere in the Senate about communications difficulty with Nixon or his top aides. One of them came from a source close to the GOP leadership. "We aren't getting through to the White House," this source said. "We have the same problem as Hickel." That was a reference to the complaint of Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel that he had trouble getting to Nixon with his suggestion that the administration demonstrate more concern about American youth. Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott brings to the floor each day a report supplied by the White House on casualties, supplies and weapons captured in Cambodian operations. But his other lines to the White House appear to have been crossed at least twice in the past two days. Scott said at one point the administration favored his amendment to legislation to stop funds for Cambodian operations—the amendment in effect permitting a waiver of the cutoff if necessary for the defense of American troops. The White House denied it.

and Scott later acknowledged he did not have the backing of the administration he represents on the Senate floor. Later Scott promoted a news conference for the leaders of two veterans organizations, who hotly denounced the appropriations cutoff. The veterans denied administration sponsorship; a Scott aide insisted the White House had asked the GOP leader to arrange their appearance.

MVD Is Again Leading Nation

RALEIGH (AP) — For the second consecutive year the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles has been chosen as the outstanding state governmental unit in the nation in defensive driver training. The National Safety Council makes the selections. The safety council regional director, Jimmy Civils, presented a plaque to Motor Vehicles Commissioner Joe Garrett in ceremonies in Garrett's office Wednesday. This is also the fifth year the state has led the nation in the number of motorists trained in defensive driving. A total of 21,167 persons completed the course in 1969.

Two Double Winners In The Miss USA Pageant

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Miss South Carolina, awarded a trophy for the best state costume, and Miss Virginia, named most photogenic, became a double winners Wednesday night when they were picked among the 10 best in swim suit competition in the Miss USA pageant. Vickie Lynn Chesser, of Mt. Pleasant, S.C., captured the best costume award in a lavender micro-mini dress decorated with a three-pointed crown and the years 1670 and 1970. The dates represented 300 years of South Carolina's existence.

The ash blonde wore a glitter and rhinestone crown decorated with purple and lavender ribbons, and completed the outfit with inch-high purple shoes. Photographers covering the pageant voted Virginia's Debbie Shelton Miss Pixable. The dark-eyed miss from Norfolk accepted her trophy in a floor-length evening gown.

The 10 girls chosen by the judges as best in swim suits will not necessarily be among the 15 semifinalists to be selected Saturday night. All 51 contestants, representing every state and the District of Columbia, are still eligible to win.

Besides Vickie and DeLoe, the swim suit winners were: Miss Maryland, Beckie Price, Camp Springs; Miss Nevada, Sharon "Sheri" Lee Schuhl, Las Vegas; Miss Florida, Cheryl Elizabeth Johnson, Eustis; Miss Georgia, Cherie Stephens, Tucker; Miss Ohio, Jane Harrison, Wickliffe; Miss New Mexico, Theresa Ann Phillips, Las Cruces; Miss Maine, Margaret Aletha McAleer, Waterville; and Miss New York, Christina Tefft, Manhattan.

Order From Curfew Rule

OXFORD, N.C. (AP) — A curfew helped restore order Wednesday night following disorders. The previous night when 100 to 125 young Negroes went on a window-breaking spree in the downtown business area. Mayor Hugh Currin, who imposed a 7:30 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew, estimated about $5,000 damage was done to 17 stores in a six-block area in this Greenville County town of 8,500. There were no injuries.

Oxford police were reinforced by deputies the highway patrolmen, but no arrests were made. However, the mayor said two young girls were picked up and turned over to their parents. Currin said some shots were fired by some of the demonstrators in the disorder which lasted four hours, but police did not fire.

Authorities said the disorder apparently was related to the fatal shooting of a Negro Monday night outside a white man's store.

Police charged Robert Gerald Teel, 39-year-old store owner, and his 18-year-old son, Robert Larry Teel, with murder in the slaying of Henry Marrow.

Police said shots were fired after an argument between the younger Teel and Marrow.

Approve Dental Insurance Plan

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Dental Society has voted to establish a dental insurance company that would permit persons to buy insurance for their dental bills. The decision to set up the Delta Dental Plan of North Carolina Inc. came Wednesday at the closing session of the society's annual convention. The insurance company would be funded by society members.

Society members were told the company could serve as a fiscal agent for publicly funded dental programs as well as provide dental insurance for private business and industry.

SOME PEOPLE THINK ELECTRIC HEAT IS ONLY FOR THE RICH.

Except those who have it.

All kinds of people who work for a living have electric heat. People just like you.

They know the value of a dollar. And when they spend it on something as important as home heating, they want total value.

They choose electric heat because it's cleaner, safer, quieter, and more flexible than any other system. It's the only system that will be as up-to-date years from now as it is today.

So when you consider the cost of a heating system, consider the value. Ask yourself whether any other heating system offers more for the money than flameless electric heat.

Ask your developer, architect, or heating contractor about today's best heating value. Electric.

And if people wonder why you're working, tell them it's just a hobby.

Father And Son Worlds Apart On Drugs And Life

By BRADFORD TILLSON
Charlotte News Writer
Written for The AP

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Father: He got started on drugs and all a sudden his personality nanged. He got mad easier. ust sittin' listening to that old ard rock music was all he ared about."

Son: "My parents don't bothr me when I'm stoned. I just urn them off."

This father and son (Call em Mr. Jones and Jim) have generation gap.

The Joneses—father and son—discussed their "gap," and the art drugs play in it, with a reporter. Each was interviewed eparately and without the knowledge of the other. Each as open and candid.

In his 40s, Mr. Jones is the ather of four children, Jim beng the oldest. He is a member f the middle class, sometimes ust barely. He works at a suervisory level.

Jim is an 18-year - old high chool pupil. Short and dark, he vears his hair slightly over his ars and dresses "hip." He has been "doing" LSD (acid) and marijuana (grass, pot) off and on for two years.

As a ninth-grader Jim started sniffing glue. He was 16 when a friend offered to share a marijuana cigarette with him. He says he first began smoking marijuana in reaction to pressure by his parents to get his grades up. But he admits, curiosity was also a factor.

Jim later tried LSD "to get a better high." He was hospitalized following a bad trip. That was when his father learned he was taking drugs.

Jim remembers that his father was "extremely against" his using illegal drugs. "he wanted to go out and kill all pushers."

Mr. Jones blames his son's behavior on other youngsters, "government control of the schools," and "teachers who don't teach patriotism." He thinks "the communists have had a part" in the last two.

This does not absolve the "pushers," however, and when Jim says his father wants to "kill all pushers" he isn't exaggerating by much.

"The way I feel about it, if I could find the pusher who was responsible for getting this boy started and if I could get away with it," Mr. Jones says, "I wouldn't feel one bit sorry about taking my shotgun and shooting him right in the middle."

Jim reacts: "It's like I tell my father, there's a difference between a pusher and a dealer. A pusher introduces the stuff to kids to get them hooked and a dealer just gives it to people who ask for it. There's a big difference."

Threats of violence are not limited to one side of the gap. Jim says he would kill, too, if he thought he could get away with it. His rage is aimed at undercover police agents who "inform" on drug pushers and users. One such "informers" lead to the arrest of several of Jim's friends recently.

Getting arrested is one of the things Jim worries about. Others are girls, staying in school, fighting with his parents, getting drugs and "avoiding the draft." Many of them are tied together in one way or another.

For instance, he doesn't like school and would just as soon drop out, but his father is against it. "My old man yells at me all the time to stay in school. I've got enough problems without listening to him yell, so I stay in school."

On the other hand if he does drop out he might not be able to avoid the draft. Mr. Jones has something to say about that possibility also:

"I figure that for most of these kids the Army might be the best thing that ever happened to them. It would get them and make a man out of them."

Mr. Jones doesn't know very much about the drugs his son takes. He asked an interviewer if marijuana and LSD are habit-forming and if he should commit his son to some institution. "I just don't know what to do. I'd do anything to get him off it."

Jim, who thinks it is no worse and perhaps better than drinking, says he smokes pot to "relax." His father, who thinks marijuana will lead his son to heroin, says he drinks beer to relax.

"It does relax me," Mr. Jones says. "I have tried desperately to find something that would relax me so I could sleep at night. I don't know if beer is the answer, but it does relax me to where I can sleep."

Mr. Jones thinks his son is "confused." He believes the teaching in the schools is to blame for part of that but he thinks some of this confusion may come from the home also.

"He's seen my wife and I work hard all our lives, do everything honest. And he has seen that it has gotten us very little except harder work and more trouble."

The father lays part of the blame on himself also, especially on the fact that he hasn't been able to spend much time with his son through the years when he was growing up.

"I did work two jobs for years. I built the house we live in at night and neglected him a lot of ways. Kids growing up can't understand that."

"I don't discredit anyone else any more than myself for this because we are not close. I think Jim respects me and thinks a good deal of me but as far as being close, I can't talk to him like I'd like to."

In many respects Jim reflects the same ambiguity, confusion and despair as his father. "I haven't turned off society, I'm just trying to change it," he says. "My hair and my clothes, this is the only way I can be happy right now."

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hog markets today were mostly steady with instances of 50 cents to $1 higher. Tops of 22.25-24.25 at Tarboro; 23.25-23.75 at Rocky Mount; 23.00-23.50 at Siler City and Denton; 22.50-23.50 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Newton Grove, Albertson and Lumberton; 23.00-23.25 at Wilson; 22.25-23.25 at Bethel; 23.25 at Salisbury, and 22.75 at Greensboro.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued its downward spiral today in moderately active trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11 a.m. was down 5.55 at 688.29.

Losers widened their lead over gainers to about 4 to 1 among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

The declines ran through all categories of stocks.

Analysts attributed the continued depression of the market to the soft economy, antiwar demonstrations, and the war in Indochina.

(Leisure Time and Your Eyes)

Did you know that shorter working hours may mean longer hours for your eyes?

Man prides himself on his ability to reduce working time while increasing productivity. The 40 hour week is a recent accomplishment in this country. Many persons predict 30 hour weeks in the near future.

This will be a marvelous boost to man's leisure time but it will probably take its toll on his eyes. Shorter working hours and earlier retirement will most likely increase the demands on sight.

Man usually works harder for his pleasures than his job. In his leisure time, which will be increased, he often uses his vision more intently for reading, watching television and close work, like stamp collecting. And during retirement, happiness and contentment are integrally connected with being able to see properly.

Mrs. Harrell spent most of her life in Pitt County.

Surviving are five daughters, Mrs. Bertie Pollard of Washington, Mrs. Bessie Johnson of Brooklyn, N.Y., Mrs. William Allen Padgett of near Stokes, Mrs. Renny Smidley of Yuma, Ariz., and Mrs. Charles K. Leidenfrost of St. Paul, Minn.; three sons, Gather and Kennie Harrell, both of near Stokes, and Columbus Harrell of New Bern; three sisters, Mrs. Rendy Hannah of Washington, Mrs. Lillian Taylor of Greenville, and Mrs. Mamie Briley of Grifton; 42 grandchildren; 55 great grandchildren; six great great grandchildren; and a foster son, Fate Harrell of Williamston.

Bass

Mrs. Helen Coburn Bass, 56, died at her home near Greenville on the Washington Highway Thursday morning at 1:15. Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel Saturday afternoon at two o'clock by the Rev. T. R. Bradshaw, pastor of Calvary Pentecostal Holiness Church. Burial will be in Pinewood

Memorial Park.

Mrs. Bass, a native of Martin County, moved to the Simpson Community from Williamston four years ago. She was a member of West End Baptist Church.

Surviving are her husband, Cal Bass; a foster son, Dennis Coburn of the home; and two brothers, Leslie and Paul Coburn, both of Goldsboro.

Locomotive Named Mao

TOKYO (AP)—There is, according to Peking, a little engine that could and its name is Mao Tse-tung.

The Chinese told about in a long dispatch distributed by Hsinhua, the official news agency. For 24 years, the agency said, the locomotive named after the Communist party chairman has "fulfilled its tasks in an all-round way every month and every year."

The engine was used in the war against the Nationalists and during the Korean conflict, and "constantly set records in tonnage and running speed."

"In the locomotive," the dispatch went on, "there is a 'treasure box' for junk, a barrel for salvaged oil and an oiler, all of which have been in use more than a score of years—signs of the crew's hard struggle."

A young newcomer once suggested that a worn-out shovel used for stoking be thrown away and replaced by a new one. But the veteran chief of the crew, Peking said, "drew his attention to the long-preserved reminders of frugality." The youngster thought it over and was reported to have replied: "It is not that the shovel can't be used again, it is my thinking that it is at fault."

Concluding its account, Peking said members of the engine crew try to outdo each other in enduring hardship and in tackling the heaviest or most risky jobs. All the while they remark: "Hardship and fatigue have no place in the minds of us comrades of the Mao Tse-tung locomotive."

Class Turnouts 'Slightly' Down

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Spokesmen at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte and North Carolina State University in Raleigh said class attendance today was only slightly below normal at the two schools.

The N.C. State spokesman said attendance was down only slightly. At UNC-Charlotte, attendance was said to be about "normal as far as we can tell."

Faculty members at the two schools voted Wednesday to approve class exemption plans submitted by students. The plans allow faculty members to exempt students from further classwork so they may participate in antiwar activities.

Faces New Charges Church Women Will Of House-Burning Gather May 16, 17

Investigation has resulted in two additional charges of unlawful burning of a house being levied against a Rt. 6, Greenville man who is already being held in Pitt County Jail on similar charges.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that James Alton Williams, 21, is now charged with burning a house owned by Bill Moore of Greenville at Houses Station.

The house, valued at $2,500, was declared a total loss following the Feb. 23 fire, Sheriff Tyson said. The dwelling had been occupied by a tenant prior to the fire, he noted.

In addition, further investigation has linked Williams to a fire which gutted a pack house located on the Dail Farm site behind Empire Brushes on Jan. 20.

The building, owned by Simon Corbett of Rt. 6, Greenville, was completely destroyed by the fire and various items of equipment stored under an adjoining shed were lost in the blaze. Value of the building and equipment has not been set.

Williams, a former employee of Corbett, was bound over for trial following a hearing yesterday on the earlier charges and is now under $5,000 bond on each of the two additional charges. A hearing on the first additional charge has been set for May 15 in District Court.

The 35th Annual Woman's Convention of the Apostolic Faith Church of God in Christ will convene at Brown Chapel Apostolic Faith Church in Greenville on May 16 and 17, with activity to begin each day at 10:00 a.m.

Services scheduled for the convention are: Devotion services at 10:00 a.m. on Saturday; 11:00 a.m., address of welcome by Mrs. Ruth Staton of Greenville; open discussion at 3:00 p.m. conducted by the host pastor, Bishop R. A. Griswold of Hertford, N.C. on the topic "Marks of A Good Christian"; devotion services at 7:30 p.m. by platform missionaries, headed by Missionary Minnie Benford of Century Hill, Va.

On Sunday, Sunday School at 10:00 a.m. with Brother John Sharp of Greenville in charge; devotion services by missionaries at 11:00 a.m., a service at 1:00 p.m. conducted by Mrs. Ruth Welch; one at 2:00 p.m. by Mrs. Roy Alston of Brooklyn, N.Y., an American Rally at 3:00 p.m., dinner on the grounds at 4:00 p.m., a missionary devotion service at 7:30 p.m., and at 8:00 p.m. a service with Missionary L. T. Bennett of Greenville.

Mrs. Ruth Welch of Edenton, president of the missionary group, will preside over the convention during the two day period.

Driver Charged In Mishap Here

David Milton Hollowell, 67, of Route 6, Greenville was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign following investigation of a 4:50 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Third and Washington Streets.

Police reported a truck driven by Hollowell collided with a car operated by Gerald Thomas Whichard, 18 of Route 5, Greenville, causing an estimated $400 damage to the truck and about $200 damage to the Whichard car.

No injuries were reported.

Two-Year-Old Wreck Victim

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—A 2-year-old boy died Wednesday night when the car driven by his mother plunged into a creek.

The lad was Gerald Scotland Averitt of Carthage, whose body was recovered by a rescue squad.

His mother, Mrs. Maxine Averitt, her two other children and another woman were helped to safety by rescuers after the car overturned in waist deep water.

Mrs. Averitt was quoted as saying she was passing a truck on U.S. 501 near Pinehurst when her car went out of control.

Everett To White House

First District Congressional candidate R. Frank Everett announced yesterday that he and Mrs. Everett have been invited to be guests of President and Mrs. Nixon at the White House on Wednesday, June 10.

The congressional candidate stated "at this meeting I have been invited to discuss the problems of the First District with the president in hopes that we can pave the way for their solution."

Everett noted in a prepared statement that one of our problems is the economy, one of the lowest in the nation. "We need jobs and opportunity for the people in order to stop our population decline."

A businessman and farmer from Robersonville, Everett said he was honored by the president's invitation and thought this was a good indication of the president's concern for the problems of the South and the First District in particular.

Brazil Revises Currency Unit

By BRUCE HANDLER
Associated Press Writer
RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazil is organizing its disorganized currency system, which has infuriated and bewildered Brazilians and foreign visitors.

The government Friday will abolish the new cruzeiro and resurrect the cruzeiro, which used to be its currency unit. But this cruzeiro will not be the same as cruzeiro, which is still in circulation along with the new cruzeiro. This is why Brazil's monetary system needs the change.

Tourists, who presently gaze uncomprehendingly at bills worth anywhere from "10" to "10,000" will know how much they're spending. And Brazilians, who carefully paste and glue tattered bills together, should be pleased with the crisp new bills.

The innovation does not mean a change in Brazil's chronically unstable exchange rate. One new cruzeiro, today worth 22 cents, will become one cruzeiro, worth the same.

Brazil adopted the cruzeiro which means "cross" in Portuguese—in the mid-1940s, abandoning the mil reis, which had become almost valueless because of inflation.

But the cruzeiro plummeted in value too—by 1967 it took 2,700 cruzeiros to make a dollar. Then came the new cruzeiro, worth 1,000 cruzeiros, but instead of calling in the cruzeiros in circulation, the Central Bank simply stamped them with their new worth. But not all the bills were stamped, opening foreigners to the depredations of hucksters.

Hence today's confusion, which will end when the old bills will be replaced.

FBI Takes Charge Of Hunt For Slayer

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP)—The FBI took supervision today of a search for a former mental patient who authorities say returned to a hospital complex where he had been confined and fatally shot three officials and wounded a fourth.

The federal agency has jurisdiction because the killings occurred at a government facility, a Veterans Administration hospital.

Thomas Farrow, agent in charge of the Springfield FBI office, said he is "at a loss" as to the assailant's whereabouts. A murder warrant was issued after the shootings Wednesday for Coleman G. Gish, 45, formerly of Buda, who was released from the sprawling 265-acre Veterans Administration Hospital two years ago.

grounds in a car Farrow said the gunman took from a student. Farrow said agents centered their search in Illinois and Indiana, but believe the wanted man is no longer in Danville.

Danville is near the Illinois-Indiana line 128 miles south of Chicago.

Pirates Edge Past Blue Devils, 6-5

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

DURHAM — East Carolina University's Pirates closed out their regular season schedule yesterday, squeezing past Duke University in a not - too - well played ball game, 6-5.

The Bucs scored all their runs in the first three innings, but had to overcome a 4-3 Duke lead after the first two frames. The Blue Devils got four of their five in the second inning off starter

Doug Whitley, then picked up another off reliever Dennis Taylor. Hal Baird was called in the fifth inning to put out the fire, and held Duke to three hits the rest of the way.

The Bucs were once again led by the lower part of the batting order, as five of their seven hits came from the bottom four men. Dennis Vick, who has shot into the team batting lead, pounded out two doubles from his number seven slot.

The Bucs put their first run on the board in the first inning. With one out, Bryan McNeely was hit by a pitch. He stole second, and watched Ken Graver walk with two away. Larry Walters lifted a fly into center, but the ball was dropped and McNeely scored easily for a 1-0 lead.

In the second, the Pirates picked up two more runs. Vick opened the inning with a lazy pop to right. The second baseman charged out for the ball, but could only get the tip of his glove on it as it fell in as Vick pulled into second. Len Dowd ripped a hit to center that took a bad hop. Vick scored, and Dowd finished up on third with a three - bagger. Whitley then dropped in a hit to left, scoring Dowd with the third Pirate run.

But the Blue Devils came up with four in the bottom of the inning to take the lead for the only time in the game. Dan Phelan led off with a walk and Mike Davies singled through the middle. Dave Snyder walked, loading the bases. Bo Bochow lined a single to right, scoring both Phelan and Davies. Steve Warner welcomed Taylor to the mound with a bunt singled, reloading the bases. Bill Hanenberg was hit by a pitch, scoring Snyder, and Dan Arlen hit a sacrifice fly to bring Bochow over with go-ahead run.

The Bucs rallied in the top of the third to push over three more and regain the lead. Graver walked and Walters also got a free trip to first. Mike Aldridge reached on a bouncer by third, loading the bases. Vick then drilled a double into right center, clearing off all three runners, and sending the Pirates into a 6-4 lead.

Duke then sent in Carle Felton to the mound, and he shut out the Bucs from there on out.

Duke didn't get much more of a chance, picking up one run in the fifth in their only threat the rest of the way. Jim Thompson opened up with a single to right and Tim Teer walked. That brought on Baird in relief. He struck out the next batter for the first out, but Phelan tagged him for a single to left, scoring Thompson, and putting Teer on third. Dowd picked Teer off, however, and the next man hit into a fielder's choice, getting Phelan at second to end the threat.

The Pirates are now off until the NCAA Regionals to be held in Gastonia on May 28-30. The Bucs are slated to open play in the tournament with a 3 p.m. game on Thursday, the 28th. They will play either the at - large team, expected to be Florida State, or the Southeastern Conference entry, either Tennessee or Mississippi State.

Piney Grove In First Victory

St. James Methodist remained unbeaten, and Piney Grove picked up its first win in last night's Church Softball League action. St. James nipped Presbyterian, 9-7, and Piney Grove downed Oakmont, 14-10.

St. James leads the American division with a 4-0 mark, followed by Gum Swamp, 2-1. Next comes Meadowbrook and Trinity, both 1-1, Presbyterian, 1-3, and Christian, 0-3.

In the National Division, Black Jack leads with a 3-0 mark, followed by Grace at 2-0. They are trailed by Oakmont, 2-2, Immanuel, 1-2, Piney Grove, 1-3, and Mt. Pleasant, 0-2.

In the opener, Piney Grove pushed over five runs in the top of the first, including a three - run homer by W. Nichols. But Oakmont came back to narrow the gap to 5-4 with four runs. In the second, Oakmont tied it up as Slaughter slammed a homer.

Piney Grove moved back ahead in the fourth with a pair of runs, but Oakmont picked up two in its half to tie it again, 7-7. Then, in the fifth, Piney Grove got four, including a homer by W. A. Case to move out 11-7. They added two more in the sixth, on a homer by Nichols, and then scored again in the seventh. Oakmont, down 13-7, picked up three in the sixth.

Cheek and Parrott each had four hits for Oakmont, while Powell and Slaughter each had three. For Piney Grove, R. Sterner had three, and G. Crawford, Nichols and C. Darden each had two.

In the other game, St. James got a homer from Dave Wilcox and moved into a 2-0 lead in the top of the first. Presbyterian got a homer from Moore and tied it up in their half of the first, and then Presbyterian scored again in the fourth to take the lead, 3-2.

St. James scored twice on a homer by Jimmy Smith for a 4-3 edge. Presbyterian scored once to tie it up in the bottom of the inning, but St. James erupted for five in the top of the sixth to put the game on ice.

Presbyterian scored once in the sixth, and got a two-run homer from Moore in the seventh, but couldn't catch up.

Roy Carawan led the St. James hitting with three, while Wilcox and Smith each had two. For Presbyterian, Beddingfield, Moore and Johnston each had two.

Ayden Rolls To Win Over Bethel

AYDEN — The Ayden Tornadoes rolled to a 16-3 victory over Bethel High School yesterday, closing out the regular season with an 18-1 mark.

The Tornadoes are tentatively scheduled to meet Robersonville Tuesday at 5 p.m. at East Carolina University in the first round of the state Class A playoffs.

Bethel pushed over two runs in the top of the first to take the lead. Bunning was hit by a pitch, and Worsley walked. Abeyounis singled in Bunning and Bowers reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Worsley.

But Ayden came back for two to tie it up. Ken Cleaton walked, stole second and moved to third on an out. He scored on a wild pitch.

In the second, Ayden pushed over three more for a 5-2 lead. Bennett Tyson doubled and Robert Twilley moved him to third on a single. Both runners stole, with Tyson scoring. Doug Phillips brought Twilley home with a sacrifice, and Ken Cleaton finished up the inning with a homer.

Ayden scored four more in the third, two in the fifth and five in the sixth to wind up their scoring.

Cleaton and Tyson led the Ayden hitting with two each.

Pepsi Slips By Elks, 2-1

Pepsi - Cola slipped past the Elks yesterday, 2-1, to open its 1970 Tar Heel Little League season.

The win tied Pepsi with the Graniteers and the Moose at 1-0, while Integon, the Exchange and the Elks are all 0-1.

The Elks scored their only run in the first inning. Ricky Skinner reached on an error to open the game. Bill Glidewell singled and Peter Hargett followed with a double, scoring Skinner. Reggie Spain walked to load the bases with two outs, but the Elks failed to score again.

They threatened again in the fourth when Hargett singled and moved around to third on a hit batter and a walk, only to be cut down at home on a fielder's choice. They got another threat in the sixth as Spain walked and moved to third only to die there.

Pepsi got both of its runs in the third. Lee Shearin reached on an error and stole second. Ricky Avery walked. David Davis brought both runners home with a double.

Pepsi also had several other changes, putting men on second in the first and fifth innings, and reaching third in the fourth.

Hargett had two hits for Elks, while Davis and Shearin each had two for Pepsi.

Gentry Sets Down Cubs On One Hit As Mets Gain 4-0 Victory

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The difference between 1-for-27 and 1-for-29 is four ... runs, that is.

The Chicago Cubs went 1-for-27 Wednesday—Ernie Banks' two-out single in the eighth inning their only hit—and came out on the short end of a 4-0 score to the New York Mets.

Pittsburgh's Al Oliver is 1-for-29, but that hit was a grand slam homer that powered the Pirates past the St. Louis Cardinals and Bob Gibson 5-1.

In other National League action, Tito Fuentes drove in all the San Francisco runs with a triple and home run as the Giants whipped San Diego 5-1; Rusty Staub's single, double and homer lifted Montreal by Philadelphia 7-6 and Houston held off Los Angeles 6-5. Atlanta and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

Fireballing right-hander Gary Gentry was within four outs of the Mets' first-ever no-hitter when Banks, who hit his 500th career home run a day earlier, became the spoiler. His line drive eluded left fielder Dave Marshall, who tried to make a shoestring catch but had the ball kick off his glove.

"There's no question but that it was a hit," said the 23-year-old Gentry. "I wanted to throw him a low inside fast ball hoping he would pop it up against that wind that was coming in. But I didn't get it where I wanted. It wasn't a cheap hit and I'm glad of that."

The only other Cubs to reach base were Ron Santo, who walked in the fifth, and Willie Smith, who was hit by a pitch in the ninth. Gentry fanned seven as the Mets took the first 1970 meeting between last year's bitter rivals.

Art Shamsky homered and Wayne Garrett doubled and tripled to pace the Mets' six-hit offense against Bill Hands, who struck out 12.

Oliver hit his tie-breaking grand slam in the sixth inning following singles by Matty Alou and Roberto Clemente and an intentional walk to Willie Stargell.

"I'm not what you call cocky or anything," said Oliver, "but I think I can hit any pitch that's in the strike zone. I've just had no luck at all. I've been hitting hard enough to be at .400. It's been disappointing because since opening day I've hit the ball hard at least once every game."

Fuentes put the Giants ahead for good in the fifth inning with a triple off San Diego's Danny Coombs following a walk to Dick Dietz and Frank Johnson's single. He homered in the seventh after Dietz and Johnson reached on errors.

Rich Robertson held the Padres to three hits and lost his shutout on a second-inning wild pitch.

Staub drove in four runs as Montreal sent the Phillies to their seventh straight setback, despite two homers and five RBI by Don Money. Staub doubled home the tie-breaking run in the eighth and Ron Fairly followed with a decisive two-run double.

Houston, which hadn't beaten Claude Osteen since 1968, snapped a string of seven straight losses to the Dodger lefty. Joe Pepitone cracked a three-run homer and Doug Rader hit a solo shot but what proved to be the winning run scored in the eighth on four walks by reliever Jose Pena.

THEIR TENTH CHILD IS DIFFERENT — Mr. and Mrs. James Barr, of Bromall, near Philadelphia, talk to little Lisa a two-year-old Negro-Caucasian, whom they have adopted as the tenth child in their family of nine children. "We love Lisa and we can give her a better chance in life than she'd have in an orphanage," says Mrs. Barr, "and in a big family there always is room for one more." (AP Wirephoto)

DE Club Holds Annual Banquet

The annual Employer - Employee Banquet of the Rose High School Distributive Education (DE) Club was held Tuesday night at the Greenville Moose Lodge, with approximately 80 students and businessmen in attendance.

The purpose of the banquet was to honor 28 participating local firms and businesses in Greenville who actively support the school program by furnishing part-time employment to a number of students as part of their curriculum.

Invocation was given by Nell Clark, with Mike West and Van Johnson welcoming the guests and expressing appreciation of the DE members for all the local firms have done.

Miss Sharon Davis, national secretary - treasurer of Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA), brought greetings from the national organization and in a brief speech challenged the students to be willing to work hard to obtain their goals.

Another speaker, Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of Greenville City Schools, asked participating businessmen to encourage other businessmen to take part in the DE plan in order to broaden its scope.

Employers training students for the first year received a certificate of appreciation.

Spring Concert By Two Singing Groups

As May rolls along, music still dominates the scene at East Carolina University as singing groups continue to offer music programs for residents of Greenville, the surrounding area and students at the university.

Tonight at 8:15 p.m., two singing groups not heard earlier this spring will be on hand to perform at Wright Auditorium on campus.

The 48 member Men's Glee Club, under the direction of Brett Watson and the Women's Glee Club, which also features 48 singers, will sing in concert in a free production to which the public is invited.

Music — serious, folk and popular, with and without instrumental accompaniment will be offered to listeners. Some of the numbers which the Men's Glee Club are scheduled to sing on stage tonight include the well-known Kentucky folk song "Down In The Valley," and "Where is Love?" from the stage play "Oliver."

Highlighting the selections to be sung by the Women's Glee Club will be an arrangement by the famed Swingle Singers, their "Sleepytime Bach." Another favorite in their program will be Brahms' "Ave Maria."

These are but a few of remembered favorites to be sung by the two glee clubs, who have been busy for the past weeks in rehearsal for tonight's program, their special one for the spring season of music.

Children as well as adults are invited to attend the annual spring concert.

Weekly Peace 'Protests' Set

"We are making it clear," Mrs. Jerry Paul stated, "that if a person is not for peace, we don't want him to come."

Mrs. Paul, chairman of the Greenville Citizens United For Peace, voiced this comment at the gathering of a dozen citizens in front of the U.S. Post Office in Greenville yesterday at noon in the first of a series of peaceful gatherings to dramatize citizens work for peace.

Explaining that "it is primarily a protest with religious overtones," Mrs. Paul declared, "just now we will be pleased if five or ten show up each Wednesday at noon to join us."

As she finished speaking, Father Fred Mulholland began reading a short text of scripture and made a brief prayer. With him was Episcopal Minister W. J. Hadden, Mrs. Donna Tabar, her son Scott, and six or seven young people.

"We have scheduled these weekly gatherings until troops are withdrawn from Cambodia. This is not our single objective, but peace overall," Mrs. Paul explained. "I want to emphasize this is a peaceful means of protest. We will not permit any agitators among our group or do anything to block or disrupt traffic in and out of the post office."

She explained that "many people will not come as they are not aware of what our objectives are; and others don't care to participate in such a movement."

LETTERS IN HINDI
NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's office received 50,881 letters written in Hindi during 1969, according to an official report. Of these 34,000 replies were sent out in Hindi. Her office also sent out 80,000 letters in English.

Auto Industry Strike Threat Felt To Be Greater

PATRIOTIC CHALLENGE — An unidentified spectator stands at upper left with the American flag he had just torn from the hands of the youths on the motorcycle. The youths had been taunting Colorado National Guardsmen at upper right. Guardsmen and Denver police moved onto the Denver University campus to tear down the shanty town erected by demonstrators. There was no violence, both youths were arrested by police. The spectator said "this flag means too much to me". (AP Wirephoto)

By A. F. MAHAN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — With Walter P. Reuther dead, the big question that arises is what his death will mean to upcoming contract talks between his United Auto Workers union and the nation's car makers.

Already some observers on both sides here say Reuther's death in a plane crash has heightened possibilities of a strike—with its impact on the nation's economy.

Their reasoning: Both the union and the industry had taken tough stances even before the accident, and Gov. William Milliken had spoken of "an anticipated strike in the automobile industry" in an economic report to the Michigan Legislature.

Fire-Fighter Is Ruritan Speaker

PACTOLUS — Horace Moore, president of the North Carolina Firemen's Association, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Pactolus Ruritan Club Monday night.

Moore, a native of Snow Hill, has been a member of the Snow Hill Fire Department for 25 years and is presently serving as fire chief. He is also fire marshal for Greene County, a rural mail carrier, and a director of the Pitt Greene Electric Membership Corporation. He is active in church and civic affairs in the Snow Hill community.

Moore's topic was "Recognizing A Fire and the Duties and Responsibilities of a Citizen in Fighting Fires."

He showed a film on the various types of fires and how each should be controlled.

"A fire is caused by three things — fuel, heat, and oxygen," Moore said.

"Eliminating one of the three will cause the fire to go out."

He discussed the safety precautions that should be considered in dealing with fires. He encouraged the club members to practice safety daily.

The members decided to sell small fire extinguishers for homes, autos, boats and other areas.

Building committee chairman Hilton Vernelson reported on the progress of the renovation work being done on the Ruritan Club building. T. J. Haddock, finance chairman, reported that $100 was received in profits from the basketball game held recently between the club and the high school teams.

Hoyt Haddock of Rt. 5, Greenville, was welcomed as a new member.

Club president Lawrence Davenport presided over the business session.

Industry now fears the man who takes Reuther's place at the bargaining table in mid-July may come there determined to prove himself even tougher than his former chief.

The union fears, regardless of who is chosen union president after Reuther's funeral Friday, that the industry will lose no time in putting him to the test.

And there's fear elsewhere the next man may not have Reuther's sense of timing of when to give and take, a knack that won the UAW many firsts in industrial union contracts—a "guaranteed annual income," for instance.

Under the UAW constitution, Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazey became acting president, but the man who will head the union until its 1972 convention will be named by the remaining 25 members of the international executive board. Its next scheduled meeting is June 2.

The impact of auto industry pacts reach far beyond General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors. The 1.6 million-member UAW uses them as a pattern in bargaining in scores of auto supplier plants and in the aerospace and agricultural implement industries.

That adds to sideline pressures on both the companies and the union.

The Big Three—GM, Ford and Chrysler—have reported sagging sales and profits the last two quarters. With contracts expiring next Sept. 14, these three firms come up first for negotiations.

UAW leaders say members have been feeling the pinch of the rising cost of living, along with widespread layoffs. They have adopted a wide-ranging set of economic demands to override inflation.

The UAW will be attempting to work upward from a base wage averaging $4.02 hourly and a package of fringe benefits estimated to be worth $1.75 hourly.

Leonard Woodcock, a UAW vice president and its GM director, said if the union didn't do better than 15 per cent "we're certainly going to have a strike."

Chairman James M. Roche of General Motors, apparently anticipating stiff union demands, said earlier this year the industry has reached a "crisis of cost" and that "a better balance between productivity and wages will be a key objective in our 1970 negotiations."

Douglas Fraser, a UAW vice president and its Chrysler chief, says, "we should not let the economy intimidate us," and Woodcock quotes GM as telling stockholders it has "every reason to be optimistic ... and expansion of the American economy, so vigorous in the 1960s, should continue."

"We're not going to bargain just about the rest of 1970 but about the future—1971, 1972 and 1973," Reuther had said.

The Nixon administration has urged restraint on the part of both management and labor in new contract bargaining.

The recent UAW convention adopted a set of demands that includes a "substantial wage increase," and, among other things, earlier retirement at higher pensions, removal of the cap that now limits annual cost-of-living increases to eight cents hourly and the addition of company-paid dental care.

None of the Big Three has indicated what it may offer in 1970. Some anticipate GM may give at least an idea where it will put up most resistance when stockholders meet here May 22.

Workshop On Chaplaincy At Hospital Will Begin Monday

A two-day workshop to initiate a volunteer chaplaincy service at Pitt Memorial Hospital will be held at the hospital next Monday and Tuesday.

Sponsored by the Health Ministries Committee of the Greenville Ministerial Association in cooperation with the medical and administrative staff of the county hospital, the workshop will be conducted by the Rev. P. Wesley Aitken, chaplain to Duke Medical Center.

The first day of the seminar will be open to physicians and registered members of the Ministerial Association and will include material related to the place of the minister on the healing team in the general hospital. To be held in the hospital conference room, the program will last from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday.

The hospital nursing staff and representatives from the supervisory and administrative staff of the hospital will participate in Tuesday's program from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Long recognized as a need in the Greenville hospital, the new chaplaincy program will be directed by the Greenville Ministerial Association. It is designed to provide pastoral care for patients and their families at the hospital who do not have a relationship with a "nearby church or minister. The ministers, whose participation will be voluntary, will visit only when requested to do so by the patient, the family, or some member of the hospital staff.

Those wanting further information should contact Mrs. Helen Abbott acting director of nursing services; C. D. Ward, hospital administrator; or Rev. D. T. Earnhardt, chairman of the Health Ministries Committee.

Will Proceed In Developing SST

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Secretary of Transportation John Volpe says the federal government will proceed in development of a supersonic transport plane to protect the nation's aircraft builders from possible Soviet competition.

Volpe told the American Association of Airport Executives that the Russians already are marketing a short-range SST jet in Europe at about one-third of what it would cost if built in the United States.

PRETTY SHARP — A Denver University coed reaches up to touch the pointed end of a bayonet held by a Colorado National Guardsman. Denver police and guardsmen moved onto the campus to oust demonstrators from their shanties built on the campus. Historical Tour Is Planned On May 23

This year's historical tour for members of the Pitt County Historical Society will be a visit to historic sites in Edenton, Somerset Plantation, and Rehobeth Church Saturday, May 23, according to Dr. Ralph Hardee Rives, who arranged the tour.

In Edenton the group will visit the Barker House, the Cupola House, the James Iredell House, the Chowan County Courthouse, and St. Paul's Episcopal Church. They will see recently restored Somerset Plantation in Washington County and the beautiful old Rehobeth Church between Roper and Creswell. They will have lunch in Edenton and at the end of the tour will be served refreshments by the ladies of Creswell Methodist Church.

Dr. Rives said paid reservations must be received by Wednesday, May 20. A fee of $7 will cover the cost of transportation and the entrance fee of $2 for Colonial Edenton. Tour members will purchase their own lunch in Edenton. Checks for reservations should be made out to Ralph Hardee Rives, tour director and mailed to "Historic Edenton Tour," 309 Lewis Street, Greenville, N.C. 27834. No telephone reservations will be accepted.

His Invitation Is Euphemistic

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Rep. R. K. Keith, R-Hodgenville, presented Democratic House Speaker Julian Carroll of Paducah with a plaque during the legislative session inscribed: "You are cordially invited to the theological place of eternal punishment."

Carroll responded that he has never been told where to go so politely.

Senate Is No. 1 Pit For Debating Of Public Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Senate, storm center of national controversy over much of its existence, has played the role to the hilt in the opening months of the Nixon administration.

Bitter fights over the Vietnam war, appointments to the Supreme Court, national tax policy and civil rights have come to swirling climaxes on the Senate floor or in its committee rooms.

The fact that the Senate is the primary pit for debate on public issues—a fact lost on few, if any, presidents of the United States—finally has dawned on the youth of America intent upon questioning the judgment of their elders.

When the Vietnam Moratorium Committee concluded that street demonstrations no longer were an effective tactic for protesting the war, and its leaders went their separate ways, one of them signed on with the National Student Association to organize students for political action, specifically to work in this summer's campaigns for the Senate.

To David Hawk it was a simple choice. "The Senate," he said, "is where the action is."

As if heeding his advice, this day finds hundreds of college-aged youngsters trudging the corridors of the Capitol, practically stumbling over themselves as they buttonhole congressmen and senators, urging a vote against President Nixon's policies in Southeast Asia.

While members of the House are getting their share of advice, the young people are concentrating on the Senate, urged on by such senators as Democrat Richard Hughes of Iowa, who has instructed some of them in the techniques of lobbying, and Democrat George McGovern of South Dakota, who made it plain why the Senate should be their No. 1 target.

"This is where we have a chance to stop the war," McGovern told them.

Whether the Senate has a chance or not it is likely to spend the next several weeks trying as it takes up a series of proposals—to cut off funds for the war in Cambodia, to repeal the Tonkin Gulf resolution, to set limits on the amount of "excess" military equipment the Pentagon can hand over to friendly nations—in a head-to-head fight with the Nixon administration.

It will not be the first confrontation between the two, nor is it likely to be the last.

While few presidents have had reason to view the Senate as anything more than a cross they had to bear, none has had more reason to view it sourly than Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon.

In fact, the present series of disputes began before Nixon when the senators decided their old leader, Johnson, couldn't have his friend, Abe Fortas, as chief justice of the United States.

Fortas, earlier confirmed as one of the high court's justices, resigned last year after disclosures concerning outside financial activities.

Johnson went on to have trouble with the Senate over the 10 per cent income surtax and other fiscal matters, an area that has continued to produce conflict between the senators and Nixon.

But it's the Vietnam war that has made the sparks fly. Not since the century's second decade when President Woodrow Wilson fought and lost over the League of Nations have foreign relations been so bitter and divisive an issue between the White House and Senate.

At first, in the mid-1960s, the major antiwar senators were Wayne Morse of Oregon and Alaska's Ernest Gruening, both Democrats and both losers in 1968 re-election bids.

But the opposition has grown and some say makes up a majority of the Senate. At the very least it contains some very prominent names: J. W. Fulbright, the Arkansas democrat who heads the Foreign Relations Committee; Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Senate Republican dean George D. Aiken of Vermont, Kentucky Republican John Sherman Cooper, Edward M. Kennedy.

For Johnson, who served with many of these members and helped to raise some of them to leadership positions, the opposition was particularly galling.

His decision not to seek re-election certainly was helped along by the antiwar campaign mounted against him by a comparatively junior Democratic senator, Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota.

Nixon is plagued by the Senate over more than just his war policies. Like Johnson he has had difficulty over his Supreme Court appointments, perhaps even more trouble.

Nixon dropped another decision to the Senate with his unsuccessful attempt to make the 1965 Voting Rights act extension apply nationwide rather than just to the original seven Southern states.

The President also came out only a half-winner over a massive appropriations bill for education. His veto of the original bill was upheld in the Senate, but Nixon was forced to follow with a compromise much higher than what he wanted.

Why does the Senate, which, constitutionally, has no more power than the House, wield such strength?

One answer—the Senate in recent decades has become a major breeding ground for White House occupants with four of the last five presidents, including Nixon, having served in the chamber. Most of the 1972 Democratic hopefuls sit in the Senate today.

So, ambitious young politicians turn their attention to the Senate, and so does the news media.

Other advantages the Senate enjoys over the House in the race for the spotlight—unlimited debate, unlimited right to offer amendments to any bill, less frequent re-election campaigns—all offer a senator more mobility and a wider scope for comment on any current national or world problem.

The Senate-White House relationship has not been one of constant war and the President has often been the winner, but there is no doubt the Senate has and will continue to play a major role in shaping the decisions in meeting the turmoil of the times.

BARBRA

Singing to the crowds under the stars in Central Park, New York.

Above, Barbra the wif in "On A Clear Day You Can See Forever." Below, Barbra the matchmaker dances through "Hello, Dolly!"

How do you define a superstar? The best way is to give an example. A star shines up there in a sphere away from our everyday lives. A superstar does that, only more so—with a special glow. Barbra Streisand, for example.

Her ascent has been through several phases. In less than a decade she has made her mark on the stage, in Broadway musicals; as a recording star; as a television performer; on the London stage; at a record-breaking outdoor concert in Central Park, New York. She also married and had a child, Jason, her son, who is now three years old.

And now it looks as though this is the year when Miss Streisand lights up the cinema world, with four major movies playing round the country. She had already established herself as a unique show-business personality, a charismatic stage presence with a voice which could never be mistaken for anyone else's. Then she made her first film—"Funny Girl"—and won an Oscar for it. She followed that stunning debut by making three other movies in swift succession: "Hello, Dolly!", "On A Clear Day You Can See Forever" and "The Owl and the Pussycat."

Her latest movie, "The Owl and the Pussycat," is not a musical. But that doesn't mean that she's going to abandon her musical career, since she has signed a five-year contract to appear at a Las Vegas supper club.

A romantic moment with Omar Sharif in "Funny Girl," in the role which won the Academy Award for best actress.

Pathos—an orphanage sequence from "On A Clear Day You Can See Forever."

Musical comedy—a production number from "Funny Girl."

Straight comedy—a kookie character role in "The Owl and the Pussycat."

Opening lead: Queen of ♣
When South opened the bidding with one diamond, North immediately thought of slam inasmuch as his hand was worth 19 points in support of diamonds counting high cards and distribution. He accordingly flashed the signal by jump shifting to two hearts.

After South rebid two spades, North resolved to dally no further and proceeded to launch a Blackwood inquiry. All the aces were accounted for but when South turned up with only one king, North decided to settle for a small slam and he proceeded to six spades.

West opened the queen of clubs and South played the ace. A small club was ruffed in dummy, the ace and king of hearts were cashed—declarer discarding a club and a heart was trumped in the closed hand.

South ruffed his remaining club with the six of spades and now he turned his attention to the trump suit.

The ace of spades was cashed, followed by the seven. When only small cards appeared from his opponents, declarer finessed the jack in his hand. West produced the queen and the return of a heart forced out the ace of trumps.

Altho the diamond finesse succeeded and South cashed three tricks in the suit, West retained the ten of spades and he ruffed the last round of diamonds to send his opponent down to defeat.

North observed that his partner could have salvaged the contract by refusing the spade finesse and concentrating on the diamond suit instead. If South puts up the king of spades from his hand on the second lead of that suit and puts the queen of diamonds thru West to pick up the king, he can run diamonds until West ruffs in with the queen of spades. The latter is restricted to one trick however, for declarer retains the jack of trumps at the end.

South did not — in fact — choose the best line of play. He should lead the queen of diamonds at trick two in order to first determine whether he has a loser in that suit. If the diamond finesse succeeds, he can afford to follow his partner's suggestion and cash the ace and king of spades—relying on a three-two division in that suit. If the trumps behave according to expectation, he will be able to ruff two clubs in dummy and discard the other one on a high heart.

If the diamond finesse fails, however, declarer still has time to ruff out his losing clubs and then fall back on the trump finesse in an attempt to bring in the spade suit without any further casualty.

M.L. Gay Will Address Grads

ROCKY MOUNT — Melvin L. Gay, a native of Farmville and a 1967 graduate of North Carolina Wesleyan College, will deliver the commencement address Sunday, May 24, at 4 p.m. in Everett Gymnasium on the college campus here.

Gay, one of the youngest commencement speakers on record, was selected by Wesleyan's Calendar Committee, composed equally of students and faculty members. Gay is a member of the faculty and a counselor at Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte. He received his master's degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in January, 1969, after completing his thesis, which was a detailed study of N.C. Wesleyan College.

While a student at Wesleyan, Gay was president of the Student Government Association his senior year, assistant resident counselor and was instrumental in establishing Wesleyan's Circle K Club. During his senior year at Wesleyan, Gay received the President's Cup, considered the top student honor for leadership, service and academic performance. He was also voted a special award by the students for his outstanding service to the SGA.

Gay, a 1963 graduate of Farmville High School, is married to the former Dail Harris, also of Farmville, who is a 1968 graduate of Wesleyan. He is the son of Mrs. Olive L. Gay of Rt. 1, Farmville.

Rival Petitions

Tell The Story

CULLOWHEE, N.C. (AP) — Not all college students oppose President Nixon's decision to send U.S. troops into Cambodia. Students at Western Carolina University were given opportunity to sign two petitions—one favoring the president's move, one opposing.

Of the 414 students voting, 68 per cent supported the President and 33 per cent opposed his decision.

The Trend Is Westward Ho

Study Roland's challenging query. For a very unique psychological change has been spreading over the U.S.A. The 1,000,000 college students who have studied my textbook, "Psychology Applied," must reflect this new attitude, for not even ONE has written to protest the suggestion below. What do you readers think of it?

By GEORGE W. CRANE,

Ph. D., M. D.

CASE M-594: Roland G., aged 26, is a young lawyer. "Dr. Crane," he asked, during a forum discussion where I had addressed his luncheon club, "some people have objected to President Nixon's establishment of the 'Summer White House' in California.

"They say it has imposed a lot more expense and has greatly inconvenienced the television industry, which considers New York City its home base.

"But I have a hunch that it is a good psychological innovation. "Yet I can't cite precise logical reasons for my hunch. "Can you help me support my belief?"

Until the past decade, the states of New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts dominated American politics. And New York City served as the center for banking, the stock market, plus the newspaper, radio and television communication media.

Even the New York Yankees were supreme throughout the Babe Ruth to Mickey Mantle era.

And our U.S. Naval Academy was at Annapolis, Maryland, while the U.S. Military Academy was at West Point, New York.

So the East tended to ride rough shod off the South, Midwest and Far West.

While I was stationed at Smith College in Northampton, Massachusetts, I heard a society mother criticize her women's club for being self-centered in their belief that all the rest of America was "provincial" outside of New England.

"But you girls are the ones who are really provincial," she upbraided them.

"So I am going to send my daughter out west to college next fall just so she will avoid this narrow-minded New England outlook."

This sounded shocking to her women's club colleagues but it seemed sensible to me, until I asked her where her daughter was to attend college.

"She's going out west," her mother proudly boasted, "for I am sending her to Vassar!"

Well readers, if you've forgotten your geography,

Vassar College is located on the Hudson River, at the western end of Massachusetts.

So be glad for several striking psychological innovations that have occurred in the last few years, capped by President Nixon's shift of the "Summer White House" to California:

(1) Our U.S. Air Force Academy has been located at Colorado Springs, Colorado.

And since aviation is now the dramatic branch of the military, the East is forced to start looking much farther westward than Vassar College!

(2) California has now usurped New York's political status as the most populous state, with the most Electors in our Electoral College.

(3) The admission of Alaska and Hawaii into statehood, now makes Colorado more nearly the geographical center of the U.S.A.

(4) President Nixon's election, without the Electoral votes of Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania and even the labor union state of Michigan, now frees our future elections from the East's dictatorship.

(5) The Choice of California for the "Summer White House" merely caps this trend to make Americans look westward, instead of kowtowing slavishly toward the Atlantic and decadent Europe.

In my college textbook, I have suggested transferring our National Capitol to Colorado, and of the 1,000,000 students who have thus far used my textbook, not one has yet written me to protest that suggestion.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Loans Going To Students

Eleven Pitt County students are among the 677 North Carolina students to receive $600 student loans in 1970 from the Scholarship Loan Fund for Prospective Teachers, it was announced by State School Superintendent Craig Phillips.

The local students are: Elizabeth M. Corbett, Marsha A. Craft, Joanne Haddock, Joyce C. Hardy, Deborah B. Hart, Nancy A. House, Milton Ray Knox, Gaynelle W. Mills, Ruby J. Murchison, Janet E. Pierce and Veronica Ward.

Some 2,300 students applied for the loans this year. This year's recipients, ranging from graduating high school seniors to college juniors, are or will be enrolled in 48 North Carolina colleges. Most of the recipients were in the upper 25 percent of their prospective class rank.

Nell Stallings To Raleigh Meet

Nell Stallings of East Carolina University will attend the State Advisory Committee on School Athletics and Activities meeting in Raleigh May 19.

The meeting, beginning at 10:30 a.m., will be held in the Education Building, State School Superintendent Craig Phillips will address the group.

Reports from member athletic associations will be made as well and discussion on proposed changes and amendments to the regulations governing athletics will be held.

Sad Museum Of Wartime Ruins Classified Ads

By HUBERT J. ERB
Associated Press Writer

BERLIN (AP) — Nostalgic restlessness and longing are pervasive moods in this once-great, now-divided city, as Germans wonder how much longer "die saure-gurken-zeit" will last.

The phrase, which has come to mean a time of protracted inactivity, literally means a "time of sour cucumbers." It originated with farmers who used idle hours to make dill pickles and sell them on city streets.

Today Berlin—East and West—is a sad museum of wartime ruins. The reminders are physical, political and psychological. As one West German put it after touring East Berlin: "When a German sees Berlin, he knows who lost the war."

In West Berlin—an enclave 110 miles inside East Germany

—children play in vacant fields amidst the rubble born of bombs. In East Berlin, the ruins of the great German and French cathedrals are silent monuments to the last war.

Divided by intangible borders after World War II, Berlin's two halves were physically separated in 1961 by the Communist-built wall, the wall that both symbolizes the widening political gap and aggravates the psychological one.

It is a considered opinion of many in Berlin that the Russians had a fine sense of history when they claimed the old Berlin city center for their own postwar sector. Here lies the Brandenburg gate, symbol of the city, and here too is the last resting place of Adolf Hitler.

On the site of the Reichs chancellery there is now an out-door kindergarten with sand boxes, benches and poplar trees. The kindergarten is intended as a counterpoise to the warlike past, but it is a symbolism lost in the immediately adjacent wall, erected by yet another dictatorial regime.

From across the street flows the Communist party's propaganda out of the same building where Joseph Goebbels once trumpeted Hitler's movement to the world.

Just off the Brandenburg Gate, the Adlon Hotel again is open for business. But a visiting American who knew it from before the war was shocked at the sight.

"The most beautiful women in the world," he recalled, "used to sit at the Adlon bar, but all that is left is what used to be the servants' wing. Everything else is gone."

Out front there is a modest parking lot and there stand the waiting chariots of the new masters of historic Berlin, the dusty Wartburg, Chaika, Tatra and Volga cars of the eastern Communists.

There are few in Berlin who would yearn for a return to the days of Hitler. There is little yearning either for the instability of the prewar Weimar Republic, or even for the comparative stability of the Kaiser's day.

But in cafes and restaurants in East and West Berlin, over coffee, cake, beer or wine, the elderly sit in faded finery and dream of the days when Berlin not only was a "weltstadt," a city of the world, but when it and they were elegant.

This was apparent one summer afternoon in the painfully restored opera cafe in East Berlin where a full house sat in silence listening to a string ensemble play the tunes of the golden twenties and the lively, if not so carefree, thirties.

Perhaps nothing in Berlin symbolizes history having stood still after World War II more than the U.S., British and French military patrols that move endlessly along West Berlin's borders.

These days, with locked boxes of ammunition and empty guns, they roll past the debris of a war that ended before most of the soldiers were born.

The view of many a Berliner in the face of these circumstances was summed up by an elderly woman at an official reception on the celebration of the 20th anniversary of the lifting of the 1948-49 Russian blockade. "How long," she asked, "how long is all this supposed to last?"

Her words carried more than usual weight. She was Mrs. Ernst Reuter, the widow of the fiery mayor who fought the postwar Communist drive to take over all of Berlin's politics.

The present mayor, Klaus Schuetz, also took the anniversary occasion to remind the Germans, as well as the allies, that not only has Reuter's hope gone unfulfilled, but that there has been no political progress at all in the intervening two decades.

Although the dilemma of a divided city is a fact of life for Berliners, there is evidence that the rest of the world views the situation quite differently. A British general remarked once that the West Berliners had nothing to complain about. "They have plenty to eat, plenty of money and live better than most of the rest of Europe," he said.

A German journalist thereupon asked the Briton if a divided London would be satisfied indefinitely with a high standard of living for one half of the city as a substitute for the lack of British political influence and physical unity. The general did not reply.

In May of each year, the Western allies stage a parade that commemorates their military victory over Nazi Germany. At the last one a group of young Dutchmen talked about their visit to Berlin.

"We in Holland," one youth declared, "would rather have two Berlins, two small and unimportant Germanies, than one big important Berlin and Germany."

Perhaps the change in Berlin after the war best can be expressed by the decline in its population. At its peak, the city had almost five million people. Now there are 3.3 million. "We have," an attorney declared sardonically, "plenty of room to rattle around in."

WE pay our salesmen a drawing account of up to $12,500 annually. WE have an excellent commission structure which allows our people to earn an exceptionally high yearly income by their second year.

WE are the rapidly growing industrial products division of a major NYSE corporation, offering all the advantages of a small company but none of the disadvantages. Our many factored business involves the manufacture and sale of industrial products to the institutional, commercial and industrial markets.

We offer an excellent territory in this area, with no house accounts and no territory realignment, and the repeat nature of our business allows our salesmen to make today's business tomorrow's future. There is an excellent opportunity for promotion into sales management for those who so desire.

WE will teach you our business in the field, not in our house. No technical background is needed. WE offer an excellent fringe benefit program that includes profit sharing and stock participation programs.

If you're interested, let's talk. To arrange local interviews call station to station collect Friday, May 15, 9:30 AM - 5 PM

Moscow's Suburbanite Knows U.S. Problems

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Ivan the commuternik spends three hours a day competing with several million suburbanites to get to and from work in Moscow.

He lives in a new high-rise apartment block in Golotsino, 22 miles west of the capital. Every morning he takes a bus to the railroad station, rides the electric trichka suburban train to Moscow's Fili subway station, and transfers to a train that takes him to the Arbat station in the city center.

He rises early and comes home late after a 9 to 6 day clerking in a government ministry. His nerves are frayed from body contact with rush-hour crowds. Trains and bus schedules keep him hopping. His wife nags him because he never spends enough time with the kids.

His plight bears startling similarities to that of suburbanites commuting to the concrete caverns of New York or Chicago.

Ivan is not in the suburbs—by choice, however.

He would love to live in Moscow, the "big village." He cannot find an apartment in the crowded city, so he commutes.

Russian commuters have the same gripes as their Western counterparts—station delays, poor scheduling, inadequate feeder transportation to suburban stations, poor heating of trains in winter and bad ventilation in summer, uncomfortable seats, standing room only at rush hours and lack of a buffet, the Soviet equivalent of a club car.

The only difference is

Profanity And Pie In His Face Setting Up A Cemetery For The Aborted Babies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sapsack invaded a hearing of the Federal Obscenity Commission when a profanity-spouting underground press publisher shoved a cottage cheese pie in the face of an unsuspecting commission member.

Curds oozing down his face and over the front of his suit, Dr. Otto N. Larsen held his temper Wednesday and even managed a weak smile as the perpetrator, 28-year-old Thomas Forcade of the Underground Press Syndicate, unleashed a stream of profanity.

Forcade, of New York, said he was protesting the "unconstitutional, unlawful, prehistoric, obscene, absurd, Keystone Committee."

The pie-throwing incident capped testimony by Forcade that had all the earmarks of a Mack Sennett comedy.

The bearded witness, arriving with about a dozen followers dressed in hippie garb, read a statement bristling with obscenities and demanding complete freedom of the press. His testimony was accompanied by a tape recording of a Bob Dylan song, "You Don't Know What's Happening, Do You, Mr. Jones?"

Members of his group, meantime, passed around copies of underground newspapers to commission members—some who were smiling, others with stony expressions.

Larsen, a sociology professor at the University of Washington, then asked Forcade why he called the committee session a witch hunt in his statement.

Forcade said the answers were in a box he carried to the committee table. He took out a sheaf of papers from the cardboard box, revealing about a dozen pies underneath. Then he picked up the top pie and plopped it in the professor's face. "I refuse to engage in any physical interaction with you, what is the answer to my question?" Larsen said he recalled saying to Forcade.

The commission, established three years ago to analyze laws, determine distribution methods and study the effects of pornography on the public, recently invited national organizations to give their views on the smut situation.

Forcade did: "For every paper destroyed by a bust (police raid), 10 more have taken its place, and if the message of that is not clear, then you must surely have to learn it by experience," he said.

By BEVERLY PETERSON
Associated Press Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — Robert Pearson, who led the fight against Hawaii's new liberal abortion law, says he is setting up a national cemetery for aborted children.

"It will be similar to the cemetery for unknown soldiers, only it will be for unknown souls," Pearson said Wednesday.

"I think it is about time we regard them the same as any other human being who dies. They shouldn't end up in incinerators or disposals."

Pearson, a Maui contractor, said he is working with an attorney and others to set up the cemetery but hasn't decided yet whether it will be in Hawaii. There have been 587 abortions performed in Honolulu hospitals since Hawaii's new abortion law passed March 10. It requires only that a patient be a state resident for at least 90 days and that the abortion be performed by a licensed physician in an accredited hospital.

Pearson said he spent $7,000 fighting the bill's passage and another $3,000 since trying to convince pregnant women not to have the operation.

Pearson has offered to pay all expenses for pregnant women contemplating abortion to come to Maui and "think things over." He said if they decide against an abortion, he would pay all medical bills for the baby's delivery.

Only seven women have taken him up on the offer, he said. "Many probably thought it was a hoax because no strings were attached," he said.

Three of the women were California residents and the others came from Colorado, North Carolina, Indiana and Georgia. Six were unmarried. All decided against abortion, Pearson said.

"They are normal, everyday people and some of them were very upset," he said. "They needed counseling but psychiatrists were not necessary. They just needed someone showing love and concern for them."

NATO Prepares Offer Of Cutback

tion in Soviet forces in return for a 10 per cent cut in NATO forces.

Officials noted that both equal cut and unequal cut plans are being considered.

A report on the work done so far will go to the NATO foreign ministers when they meet in Rome May 26. The meeting is expected to make what officials call a new signal to the Soviet Union on NATO interest in discussion of force cuts.

The content of the signal is still under discussion. The Russians have not responded to earlier hints, and opinions differ on what the West ought to do now.

Because of these differences and Soviet coolness, officials said it was highly unlikely that any concrete proposal would emerge now.

Voice Recital Is Slated Friday

Laurence Stith, professional singer - conductor - composer and East Carolina University student, will present a voice recital on Friday, at 8:45 p.m.

The public is invited to attend the recital in the Recital Hall, School of Music.

BRUSSELS (AP) — A group led by Lt. Gen. Theodore R. Milton of the U.S. Air Force is working on a series of plans that could form the basis of a Western proposal to the Russians for mutual and balanced force reductions in Europe.

According to Britain's latest white paper on defense, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has about 3 million men under arms in Europe, including 300,000 Americans.

The Russians and their allies have about 4.5 million but a million of them may now be in the Far East.

One NATO plan was reported to call for a 30 per cent reduc-

Report Fire Was Out On Arrival

Greenville firemen reported a fire at 602 Tyson St. was out when fire units arrived shortly after firefighters were called at 10:50 p.m. last night.

Officers, who said Box 156 at the intersection of Fifth and Tyson Streets was sounded for the fire, reported a pan on a stove in the dwelling caught fire after being left on a burner. No damage was reported.

Morgan Here For 2 Events This Evening

Attorney General Robert Morgan will be guest at two East Carolina University events at the Candlewick Inn tonight.

At 6:30 p.m. he will attend a dinner given by the ECU Mathematics department in honor of Miss Louise L. Williams math professor, who is retiring this year. Miss Williams has some 40 years of service at East Carolina, more than any other faculty member. Dean Robert L. Holt will also be a guest at the party.

Morgan will address a dinner meeting of the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors at 7:30. His topic will be "The Board of Trustees and Faculty Performance."

Drowned During Swim In River

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Billy Ray Parker, 34, of Gastonia, drowned Wednesday afternoon while swimming in the Catawba River.

Police said Ethel Mae Hall told them that Parker who had been drinking, decided to go swimming. He dived off a house boat and swam out a distance and then started swimming back to the boat, but went under where he was nearly back. His body was recovered by the Mecklenburg Rescue Squad.

Shot In Back, Says Coroner FBI Arrests 8 For Burglaries

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Coroner Nathan F. Widener says the six Negroes killed in racial rioting here were shot in the back and that five of them had multiple wounds.

The coroner said in a report Wednesday that the size of the slugs which struck all the victims appeared to be about .32 caliber, smaller than the revolvers used by most policemen.

Policemen during the riot Monday were armed with shotguns, and some types of buckshot are about .32 caliber in size, but Widener said he did not think the victims were struck by buckshot. One man had nine wounds, Widener said.

Dr. Joe Caldwell of University Hospital, who examined three of the fatalities and a number of the wounded, said only one of the dead he saw had multiple wounds.

Caldwell said the majority of both dead and wounded had been hit with "small caliber stuff—possibly .22 or 25 caliber." He said one fatality was hit by a shotgun slug which struck the chest from the front.

Late Wednesday, as armed National Guardsmen continued to patrol Augusta's streets and a 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew remained in effect, a written report on only one of the six deaths had been filed by police.

Presenting Recital
Joe Hambrick, jazz trombonist and faculty member in the School of Music at East Carolina University, will present a recital on Sunday, at 3:15 in the Recital Hall.

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI agents today arrested eight persons and were seeking one other in connection with a series of bank burglaries during the past five years in 14 states, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell announced.

Winterville Club Gives Check For Recreation Fund

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville Ruritan Club presented the town a check for $500 to be used for the recreation program.

Presentation of the funds, made by Ruritan Club president Russell Little to Edward Nobles, will be used to purchase new basketball uniforms for the Boys Team.

J. H. Waldrop, Jr., Rehabilitation Services Coordinator for the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center, guest speaker at the meeting, explained various reasons persons became alcoholics. He noted that patients come to the center voluntarily and received continuous counseling for a period of about 35 days. Waldrop also pointed out that members of families of alcoholics were consulted during the treatment period.

Hoover said some 40 banks, all of which were insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., were victims of the burglaries in Tennessee, Kentucky, Alabama, Georgia, Texas, Florida, Virginia, Ohio, North Carolina, South Carolina, Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Missouri.

He said 51 individuals in all had been indicted on charges of conspiring to burglarize banks in those states. All of them also were charged with conspiring to violate laws against interstate transportation of stolen property.

The FBI said some of those indicted were charged in Knoxville with actually burglarizing eight different banks, and the Atlanta indictment charged some of them with actually burglarizing five different banks.

FBI agents said the indictments contained information indicating those involved in the ring had obtained manuals and information concerning types of safes, vaults and security equipment used by the banks and savings and loan associations.

Senator Dodd Hospitalized

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., undergoes heart tests today in a hospital where he was reported "sleeping peacefully" after suffering chest pains and collapsing at a dinner.

"The doctor doesn't know whether there was any damage at all," Dodd's press secretary, Joe Barbarette, said early today. "They don't even know whether it was a heart attack."

Dodd had just finished making a speech to the New Britain Press Club Wednesday night when he complained of pains in his chest and collapsed in his chair without losing consciousness, Barbarette said.

Dodd, who will be 63 on Friday, faces a stiff fight for reelection to a third term in the Senate. Three members of his own party are opposing him for renomination.

Dodd was censured by the Senate in 1967 on a finding he had used at least $116,083 in political funds for personal purposes.

Last December, the Justice Department announced it had found no evidence to warrant criminal prosecution of Dodd on the basis of his income tax returns for that period.
