Wooten Files Complaint Today

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Mayor Frank M. Wooten Jr. has asked the Superior Court to take action to enter an Order requiring the City of Greenville to show cause "why they should not be permanently restrained and enjoined: . . . from administering or carrying out the Redevelopment Plan for the Central Business District, an urban renewal project . . . approved by the City Councilmen on February 26 of this year."

At 11:00 a.m. this morning, Mayor Wooten, filed the complaint against the city with the Clerk of Superior Court in the Pitt County Courthouse. Co-plaintiffs in signing the document were S. H. Skinner and J. J. Perkins.

Shortly after filing, Mayor Wooten issued a statement explaining reasons the complaint has been filed against the City of Greenville: the Redevelopment Commission; the Greenville Utilities Commission; City Manager Harry Hagerty; and City Treasurer William N. Moore, as defendants.

The complaint asks that the court restrain and enjoin the named defendants—"from performing the contract entered into between the Redevelopment Commission and the City Council . . . on February 26, 1970; . . . from contracting any debt, pledging the faith of the city, lending its credit, or levying ad valorem taxes . . . except for necessary expenses of the city . . . unless approved by a majority of the qualified voters. . . in a regular election held for such purposes;" and "that the Court enter an order declaring the purported contract. . . unlawful, invalid and incapable of being carried out. . . without a prior vote of the majority of the qualified voters."

Two points were outlined in the mayor's statement as his basis for the complaint. "The law, basically establishes two prerequisites for the proposal in question.

"First — that in . . . the proposed redevelopment, at least one half of the buildings must be dilapidated. . . (etc) . . . It is my opinion that one half of the buildings in the area . . .

are not in such condition. . . "Second — That there must be a plan for the financing of the cost of the City's share of the project.

"There has been no plan adopted to indicate where the City will obtain funds to pay its proposed share of the cost. The Constitution provides that 'no municipal corporation shall contract any debt . . . nor shall any tax be levied . . . unless approved by a majority of those who shall vote thereon in any election held for such purposes.' . . . The proposal is to commit $1,699,278,00 of City money for the development of the Central Business District. . .

In his statement, Mayor Wooten stated, "The purpose of the proceeding . . . is to determine whether or not the Constitution and statutory laws of North Carolina have been complied with . . . For the protection of all persons involved, my decision is to ask the Court to consider the proposals for CBD and determine whether or not the requirements . . . have been complied with.

"If the Court so determines, then the project will proceed as planned," Mayor Wooten noted.

"If laws have not been complied with then the proponents of CBD may proceed in accordance with the decision of the court."

Indicating that this action on his part amounts to a friendly lawsuit, Mayor Wooten stated, "I do want to emphasize it is only the desire on my part to determine if the State Laws have been complied with." He added "there is no unfriendliness between myself and any of the defendants.

The copy filed with the Clerk of Superior Court will be available for interested persons to see.

If Costs Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Social Security tax, now levied on the first $7,800 of earnings, may ultimately be imposed on earned incomes as high as $25,000 if health costs continue to rise, Congress has been told.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, made the estimate in an appearance Monday before the House Rules Committee. The committee cleared for House debate Thursday a bill including a 5 per cent increase in Social Security benefits—and also a hike in the tax base from $7,800 to $9,000. The base increase was attributed mainly to the rising cost of the Medicare program.

Mills said that if health costs continue to rise successive increases in the tax base will be needed, up to perhaps $20,000 to $25,000 by the end of the century.

The Ways and Means Committee's report on the legislation said that the committee, in a departure from previous practice, is now assuming "the maximum taxable earnings base . . . will be kept up to date, by periodic legislative revisions." On this basis, it expressed confidence that the Social Security funds will remain actuarially sound.

The committee held out some hope, however, that the sharp rise in hospital costs, which it estimated at 15 per cent in 1969 and 14 per cent this year, will slow down in coming years, so that the annual increase by 1978 would not be more than 4 per cent.

Red Timetable Said Disrupted

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — A Communist source said today the allied offensive in Cambodia has upset Hanoi's timetable for Indochina despite foreknowledge of the planned thrust by American and South Vietnamese troops.

The source, who is in frequent contact with the North Vietnamese high command, said Communist intelligence learned of the allied plans several days in advance and that all major units were out of the path long before allied air and ground forces hit.

He gave this account: Officials and the staff of the Communist high command operating the Central Office for South Vietnam (COSVN) fled well in advance of the offensive and set up a temporary command center elsewhere in Cambodia.

Reports from the field indicated that allied kill claims were overly optimistic but that North Vietnamese and Viet Cong casualties had been serious nonetheless. The heaviest blow was in the large amounts of stockpiled weapons and food captured, plus a major disruption of Communist communications in the onetime sanctuaries of eastern Cambodia.

If the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units had been conventional rather than guerrilla units the allied thrust might have destroyed them. As it is, the source speculated, the Viet Cong timetable was considered to be knocked back, possibly for years, because of lost supplies and because the Communist-command troops now were fighting more fronts.

But the North Vietnamese high command was represented as hoping that South Vietnamese troops at least would stay in Cambodia for some time. The thinking was that Saigon's forces would be spread so thinly over two countries that the opportunity for victories would be great.

Some units, the Communist source said, have infiltrated through allied lines in Cambodia to set up behind the Americans and South Vietnamese on Saigon's side of the frontier. They have orders to harass allied lines of communication and to hit allied troops when they return to South Vietnam. Reports from Saigon indicate some such attacks are under way.

Recommend Greenville For Rehabilitation Center

Greenville has been recommended by a state advisory committee as the site for a regional rehabilitation center, subject to approval and funding for the project from the 1971 General Assembly.

According to E. R. Kenner, state supervisor, program planning, with the North Carolina Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, Raleigh, a report will be prepared and presented to the General Assembly sometime in July recommending that Greenville receive the facility.

Goldsboro and Wilson had also bid for location of the center and both cities had offered buildings and building sites. A new facility will have to be constructed in Greenville.

The advisory committee which recommended Greenville stated three main criteria for their selection — East Carolina University, the two - year medical school proposed for ECU in the biennium 1971-73, Greenville's central location in the eastern region.

The committee stated that professional rehabilitation manpower development, particularly within university training programs, will be stronger at Greenville than any other city in the east.

"Training programs at the university which will strengthen the program include rehabilitation counseling, occupational therapy, speech pathology, psychology, nursing, sociology, anthropology, medical technology, social welfare and others," reported the committee.

Greenville penetrates more deeply into eastern North Carolina than any other large city in the state and is more centrally located than any large city in the region, according to the committee.

The committee concluded that community support facilities, general hospital resources, technical education programs, physician specialists, and general practitioners fluctuate in number and kind in the three cities of Greenville, Wilson and Goldsboro, but that generally there is a significantly higher number of general practitioners in Greenville.

It was noted that Goldsboro's rehabilitation programs for physically disabled people will be greatly expanded and enhanced in affiliation with the regional center at Greenville.

Along with the recommendations for the center at Greenville, the committee made recommendations for establishment of a local hospital rehabilitation service in Goldsboro and reorganization of the local State Vocational Rehabilitation District Office in Goldsboro into an evaluation and service center.

Comment

"I fully appreciate this right to differ with the majority," Percy Cox, City Councilman and mayor pro tempore of Greenville commented in reference to the complaint filed by Mayor Frank M. Wooten, S.H. Skinner and J.J. Perkins against the city of Greenville and other defendants relative to the Central Business District Project. "but I feel that they should have raised these objections at the public hearings called for this purpose. They were in attendance but did not see fit to make any objections or comments at these meetings."

Cox also remarked "I am sure Mr. Wooten does not mean to embarrass his fellow workers on the Council, but it appears that the City may have to delay this project in an expensive and time-consuming court action."

"We in the City Government have always discussed problems of this nature in Council meetings and have done our best to resolve them there. I am afraid this may set an unhappy precedent for the City in handling controversies between Council members in discharging their responsibilities as Councilmen."

Cox, a long time member of the City Council, said "I have followed with interest the full developments of this project from its inception and have noted the enthusiasm it has generated among the great majority of its citizens. I am dismayed to learn that Mayor Wooten, Mr. S. H. Skinner and Mr. J. J. Perkins have taken this means to hinder and delay a project that means so much to this City."

"Having just received the complaint, I cannot make intelligent comment," Billy B. Laughinghouse, Chairman of the Greenville Redevelopment Commission noted in his statement.

"I have referred the matter to our attorney for analysis and will have a statement to make as soon as I find out what wrongdoing the Mayor is accusing the City, the Utilities Commission and the Redevelopment Commission. "My first reaction is one of amazement that the Mayor, Mr. Perkins and Mr. Skinner made no objection to the Central Business District Project at the public hearing on February 26, if they feel that the Project is such a danger to Greenville."

Two Wounded In Bank Holdup

SALEM, Va. (AP)—A man and a woman were wounded in a burst of gunfire here today moments after a man held up the Farmers National Bank and escaped with some $1,600.

The shooting occurred in front of a church about a block from the bank. Police said the man, wounded in the abdomen, was the suspect in the bank robbery. It was not certain whether the woman was an accomplice or an innocent bystander.

Larry Ollinger, cashier at the bank, said a man walked in and demanded money from a teller. He could not determine whether the man was displaying a weapon, Ollinger said.

The man and woman both were taken to Roanoke Memorial Hospital in undetermined condition.

members agreed on a meeting next Monday night, in the courtroom of the new annex of the Pitt County Courthouse, at 8:00 p.m.

"It's going to take all our concerted efforts to inform the public as they need to be informed," stated Dr. Badger Clark. "We owe this issue an open invitation. The only way to do this is for anyone who is interested to step forward and do something about it."

Louis Gaylord's motion to conduct the meeting of interested groups and individuals to begin work on the referendum included a statement "that the board give all the information and advice it can give and let interested groups take the matter from there."

Time is an important factor in the process of getting a public referendum in readiness for an election to be held June 27, which is the last Saturday in June.

To a question from a visitor, Harding Sugg noted "there has to be a special registration for this election, the law requires it."

Sugg also noted that some type of committee or group to handle this is an urgent factor in the public approach. "There has to be some person or group the public can look to for answers to their questions on the referendum," he noted.

The public referendum, will involve voting on the issue of raising the current 25 cents per $100 property valuation to the maximum level of 50 cents per $100 valuation for the Greenville School District.

If approved, this additional source of income would provide needed money for operation of the 10 schools in Greenville.

"As I understand it," Gaylord commented, "if this does not pass, we have to take about $190,000 out of our budget."

"It is actually $193,000 we must trim from the tentatively adopted budget," Sugg replied, "unless we could come up with some type of county support or some other means to provide this amount."

SEATTLE (AP) — Monday was a tough day for some administrators at the university of Washington.

Classes had been dismissed in memory of two black students slain at Jackson State College in Mississippi when a group of students calling themselves the Conservative Coalition arrived at the administration building to present nine demands, including the resumption of classes and that students be repaid for lost time caused by unnecessary closure.

As the assistant to the UW President accepted the list of demands from the students, another school official commented: "We're still working on demands from last week."

Shadow On Big 4 Talks

BERLIN (AP) — The second postwar German summit meeting in the West German city of Kassel Thursday will cast a long shadow toward the big four talks on easing tensions in divided Berlin.

West German Chancellor Willy Brandt is host on Thursday to East German Premier Willi Stoph, who received Brandt at Erfurt, East Germany, March 19 to start their historic dialogue. How Brandt and Stoph make out in their round two will be felt when the American, British, French and Soviet ambassadors to Germany meet for their fourth session in West Berlin on June 9.

If Brandt and Stoph move ahead, prospects for easing Berlin tension will be enhanced. But if the East-West German dialogue collapses, the East Berlin Communists will be tough as ever on West Berlin matters. This would be bound to influence the climate of the talks by the World War II victors.

The Big Four are keeping the results of their meetings secret. The only departure so far has been a French comment that the sessions are "constructive and necessary."

Tobacco Group Asked Oppose Imperial Move

RALEIGH (AP) — A tobacco study subcommittee is being asked to go on record opposing the plans of Imperial Tobacco Co. to withhold buyers from 16 flue-cured auction markets in the Southeast.

The subcommittee from the industrywide Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Committee also was urged Monday to request Imperial to reconsider its plans.

More than a dozen warehousemen from Georgia and eastern North Carolina appeared at a meeting in Raleigh to protest the plans of Imperial, a British firm whose United States headquarters are at Wilson, N. C.

The subcommittee took no action on the request. It went into executive session to consider tobacco marketing schedules for the 1970 season.

John Webb of Quitman, Ga., told the subcommittee the action by Imperial "will be harmful to the auction system everywhere."

Webb, who said he was speaking for the Georgia Florida Warehouse Association, termed the action "a step backward in the auction system."

Six markets in Georgia will be affected — Fitzgerald, Hahira, Pelham, Quitman, Sylvester and Thomasville. Others are Chase City, Va.; Dillon, S. C., and eight markets in North Carolina — Greensboro, Mebane, Aberdeen, Cathage, Clinton, Robersonville, Clarkton and Fayetteville.

The 16 auction centers are operated with one set of buyers and are one-sale markets. The larger markets have four sets of buyers and a few have five.

Imperial is one of the three or four largest buyers of fluecured tobacco in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida. Its shipments to England last year totaled 133 million pounds, about 12½ per cent of production.

Leo Daughtry, representing the Clinton and Robersonville markets in the Eastern North Carolina Belt, told the subcommittee the withholding of Imperial buyers "would be a great blow" to the markets.

"This is a problem that concerns the industry marketing committee. If Imperial must withhold buyers, the committee should decide which markets will be affected," he said.

The subcommittee plans to hold its next meeting June 3 at Myrtle Beach, S. C.

Red Cross Work Was Her Life For Past 25 Years

SHE ENJOYS ROSES . . . Mrs. Taylor likes to relax in the rose garden of the home she shares with her sister-in-law.

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

"I know I've got to find something to do with my time when I retire July 1," Mrs. Walter F. Taylor, executive secretary of the Pitt County chapter of the American National Red Cross, said.

"I really have no pastimes except reading. Red Cross has been my life for the past 25 years.

"I'm looking forward to having some free time to visit my daughters and their families," Jane — Mrs. Rolla B. Holt — lives in Silver Spring, Md. and has two children, Margaret Bruce and Robby. Rosalie — Mrs. Joseph Brewington — lives in Kansas City, Kan. and her children are Bob and Janie. Jane plans to be here for the testimonial dinner to be given in Mrs. Taylor's honor Thursday. The distance and having to finish work on her master's degree will keep Rosalie from attending.

Mrs. Taylor is the widow of Dr. Walter F. Taylor, who was from Hertford County. She is a Bladen County native. He taught for many years at Wake Forest College in Wake Forest before she persuaded him to do what he had always wanted to do — go back to school and become a physician. He attended medical school in Kentucky after he was married and had a family and practiced medicine for some ten years.

At the time of his sudden death the family was living in Dallas, Tex. but were vacationing and visiting relatives in North Carolina.

"This was in August," Mrs. Taylor said. "I knew I had to get my 16 - and 12 - year old daughters in school in September. My husband's sister, Mrs. J. H. Boyd Jr., invited me to live in Greenville for a year. I agreed—I've been here ever since and I hope I never leave.

On Call Constantly

The local Red Cross executive secretary's job is a demanding one, if for no other reason, because he or she has to be on call at all times or supply a replacement for himself. "I get as many calls at home as I do at the office," Mrs. Taylor said. "I haven't taken a vacation in two years and I seldom spend a day away from home. If I do, however, the Washington office has the names of three other people to call. Mrs. O. C. Stroud Sr. in Ayden; Mrs. Charles Horne Sr. in Greenville; or Miss Tabitha DeVisconti in Farmville. Of course, my sister-in-law, Mrs. Boyd, with whom I live, can take messages for me.

What kinds of messages does the Red Cross secretary send and receive. "We let soldiers away from home know when they become fathers. We send messages of critical illness or deaths within families and we verify these messages for the military so servicemen away from home can get leaves for and transportation home. Since there is Red Cross field personnel all over the world, these messages are usually delivered quickly. If for some reason, they can't be delivered, we are notified, however."

How are these messages relayed so expeditiously? "Well, for instance, if I am letting a young father in Vietnam know his baby has arrived, I call long distance to Washington. The message is carried on military wires from there to Vietnam, where a Red Cross field worker or some military personnel tells him usually within less than 24 hours after the baby's birth whether he has a new son or daughter, the child's name, birth weight, and if possible, that the mother and baby are doing well."

"I am called upon to do many things in the absence of people. Often I have to purchase floral arrangements for funerals of servicemen for their units.

Mrs. Taylor was hired as a full

ECU Alumni Day Observance Slated For Saturday, May 30

East Carolina University's Alumni Day 1970 will be held on Saturday, May 30. All alumni are invited to attend the festivities.

Registration is in the library at 9:30 a.m. At 10:00 and 11:00 guided bus tours of the campus will be conducted. These tours should be of special interest to alumni who have not seen the new building projects.

The highlight of the day will be the luncheon, to be held at 12:00 in South Dining Hall on campus. The menu features Southern favorites from baked sugar cured ham and candied sweet potatoes to homemade pie.

The program at the luncheon will include a welcome by I.K. Williamson, President of the ECU Alumni Association. Special entertainment will be provided by singer Miss Donna Stephenson, winner of state and national awards, and a student in ECU's School of Music. Recognition of special guests and reunion classes will be given by Donald Y. Leggett, new Director of Alumni Affairs. Also to be honored are retiring faculty and staff members. Robert B. Morgan, North Carolina's Attorney General, will then present the Outstanding Alumni Award to one of East Carolina's most prominent graduates. After a brief business meeting, the group will be addressed by Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, ECU President.

After the luncheon, the meetings of this year's special reunion classes will be held. These classes and their reunion chairmen are: 1915, Miss Carolyn Fulghum, acting chairman; 1920, Caroline Fitzgerald (Mrs. Caroline Everitt); 1925, Miss Ruth White; 1930, Blanche Clarke (Mrs. Leslie T. The class of 1945 will be celebrating its 25th anniversary. The Golden Anniversary class this year is the class of 1920.

Last year's Golden Anniversary class of 1919 brought together 19 of its members. One of these, Ruby Giles (Mrs. William Fred Hunter), drove cross country from her home in LaJolla, Calif., for the reunion.

The gathering last year was shared by about 150 ECU alumni. Alumni Day 1970 promises to draw at least as many alumni for what is always a festive and memorable day. All alumni attending Alumni

Neil Armstrong Takes Desk Job

AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The first man on the moon, astronaut Neil Armstrong, has closed the door to his chances for another moon flight, announcing he would take a desk job in Washington.

The 39-year-old spaceman who commanded the Apollo 11 moon landing mission becomes head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's aeronautics program in Washington on July 1.

The move takes him out of the astronaut corps, but Armstrong said Monday he planned to keep his flying skills sharp by flying helicopters, jets and sail planes.

As head of the aeronautics program, Armstrong will oversee NASA research into all types of airports. The program is scheduled to receive $87 million in funds for fiscal year 1971.

He will succeed Charles W. Harper, who is being reassigned to assist Dr. Werner von Braun in planning future manned space flights.

Armstrong was at the controls when the Apollo 11 lunar module landed on the moon's Sea of Tranquility last July. During the early morning hours of July 20, he walked down a ladder and became the first man to step on the lunar surface.

He and astronaut Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. walked on the moon for almost three hours while the third Apollo 11 crewman, Michael Collins, orbited overhead in the command module.

Armstrong's exit leaves only Aldrin of the Apollo 11 crew still in the astronaut corps. Collins left last year to become assistant secretary of state for public affairs in Washington.

Armstrong said he had "a lot of reservations" about leaving the space program, but "I don't think that it will be a permanent parting. I foresee that space and aeronautics will not always be so far apart."

He said the space shuttle, planned as a reusable spacecraft which can fly into space and then land on earth like an airplane, "will require the best of both space and aeronautics."

Armstrong is currently serving on the board investigating the Apollo 13 accident. He is scheduled to travel to the Soviet Union on Saturday to speak at a meeting of the Committee on Space Research, an international organization meeting in Leningrad.

Drexel Police Chief Wounded By Bandit

DREXEL, N. C. (AP)—Three bandits robbed a bank of an undetermined amount Monday and wounded the Drexel chief of police in making their getaway. His wife is manager of the bank.

Police Chief William Lippard was shot in the shoulder when he walked into the Northwestern Bank's Drexel branch to investigate a report that the bank's alarm had sounded.

Drexel is a furniture manufacturing town in western North Carolina, in the Hickory, Lenoir and Morganton area.

When Chief Lippard walked into the bank, he found the three tellers, including his wife who is branch manager, on their hands and knees.

He saw a robber in the vault. The chief gave this account: He told the man to come out with his hands up. When the man said he was coming out, a second man appeared in the vault doorway and began shooting, hitting Lippard.

The two men then emerged from the vault, both firing at him. Lippard said he returned the fire and that he thought he wounded one or both of the bandits.

Fred Walker, a special Burke County deputy sheriff who operates a service station across the street from the bank, said one of the bandits, dressed like a woman, fell to his knees just outside the door of the bank.

He said the other robber was limping as the two fled to a waiting car and sped from the bank.

Walker said the two men wore bandannas over their faces and that a third person, also dressed like a woman, was waiting in the car.

The car swerved out of the parking lot at a high rate of speed, Walker said, and almost overturned as it sped northward.

The robber dressed like a woman dropped a sackful of dollar bills as he fell to his knees, Walker reported. He said he gave the money to a cashier after the bandits had left.

Metallic Threads Provide Distinct Embroidery Twist

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Shimmer and shine may next appear under embroidery hoops, keeping up with the trend to glitter now prevalent in dress and home furnishings fashions.

Metallic threads may be the ultimate challenge to embroiderers, says Mary Ann Beinecke, director of the Nantucket School of Needletry. She has dedicated herself to unveiling all facets of embroidery to put embroiderers at ease with their hoops and to set universal standards of embroidery terminology.

Toward this end profits from the school and the school's home study courses, both of which are sponsored by the Nantucket Historical Trust, go into research and development.

"A great mystique has surrounded metallic threads," Mrs. Beinecke explained. "Metallics are real metals that were used decoratively by Egyptians and other peoples in ancient times, but most modern embroiderers overlook their use."

The silver and gold threads seen in many modern fabrics, curtains, draperies and upholstery are not the same kind of threads, she says.

Egyptian embroiderers used almost pure gold, stringing it into wire. They beat it to thinness and then twisted it around silk. In the 16th century, lots of metallics were used in ecclesiastical decoration and since then it has been identified more or less only with churches.

Mrs. Beinecke took the first step in interesting students in metallics work when she commissioned international embroidery authority and teacher Emily Rivett of England to show metallics and stumpwork to the school's teachers.

Miss Rivett brought with her from a convent a 300-year-old ecclesiastical hood that was worked in stumpwork—an exquisite embroidery technique involving delicate silk threads, metals and puff-like applique.

People will not want to do such elaborate work, but the ideas may be adapted to modern embroidery techniques for canvas work, curtains and pillows. Miss Rivett taught the stitches, color and design principles to groups. They used metallic threads—metal flattened and twisted around a core of silk—in three basic sizes. Three threads twisted form a "cordinete," two "cordinetes" make a small cord. Mohair, worsted and metallics may be combined for an unusual look.

Mrs. Beinecke plans to include metallic embroidery techniques in the school's home-study course which is widely circulated in the United States and Europe. But she says the metallics must be incorporated into the curriculum very carefully "because they are difficult to use and difficult to unwind

Wife Stuck With Husband's Brood

By Abigail Van Buren
(c 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I finally found the ideal husband: handsome, promising career and a position in society. The only thing wrong is that he has two children by a previous marriage.

Before we were married, I made up my mind to be a patient and understanding stepmother, because I realized his "ex" wasn't the world's greatest mother, and these children never got the supervision and attention they needed.

Believe me, Abby, I have tried, but these children are difficult! They are rude, selfish and ill-behaved.

My husband, wanting to be a "good" father, agreed to take the children on week-ends, so now I am the one who has to entertain them while their mother is free to enjoy herself every week-end. I love my husband, but I didn't wait until I was almost 30 to get married and babysit with somebody else's children. Any suggestions?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: Yes. Get used to it, because that's part of the price you paid when you married their father. You may decide in time that the price was too high, in which case no one will have to tell you what to do. In the meantime, keep trying to be "a patient and understanding stepmother." You may be able to teach those unfortunate children more than their mother has.

DEAR ABBY: Just because 300 years ago someone decided that black was the thing to wear to a funeral, everyone has done just that.

When my beloved mother passed away, I wore a yellow suit because that was the color mom liked best on me. I wore it not because I thought I looked better, but because it made me feel better. [Yes, I was criticized later for it.]

When the minister performed the funeral service, he told us to remember all the good times we had together, and I found myself sitting there with a smile on my face, recalling all the wonderful times and the many laughs my mom and sisters and I had together. [I was criticized for that, too.]

Wearing a color and a smile on your face is not a sign of disrespect.

LOVED MOM

DEAR LOVED: The manner in which one handles his grief is highly personal. I like yours. And I can't help but think your beloved mother liked it, too.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a bookstore and have on several occasions had young women ask me for books on "sex techniques," with their husbands standing right there. They say their husbands NEED them. I've even heard them quarreling with their husbands, insisting that they buy such a book, and of course, in so doing, they are putting down their husbands as lovers.

Abby, please tell these women that all the "book learned" techniques in the world won't help if their relationship lacks unselfishness, mutual respect and the deep down tenderness which is the foundation for all satisfying married love. Without these, sex is just a mechanical operation, leaving both parties unfulfilled. Tell them, Abby, that if each thinks primarily of pleasing the other, they'll need no marriage manuals to thrill each other.

JUST A CLERK

DEAR JUST: No one could have said it better. Thank you for writing.

Actions Are More Meaningful

The Soviet Union's pledge to continue its peaceful coexistence policies during the 1970s, would have far more meaning if steps were taken to reduce the armed conflicts in Southeast Asia and in the Middle East.

The Soviets qualified their pledge with a promise to "come out against imperialist aggression" in any part of the world.

The statements were from the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party, which also promised a higher living standard to Soviet citizens.

At the same time, however, the Soviets pledged their support to Arab states against Israel and to the peoples of Indochina against "American aggression." There was also the promise to support "all revolutionary and national liberation

Counting Cost Of Campaigns

By BRYAN HAILS LIP
RALEIGH, N.C. — Candidates in the May 2 primary now have had time to indulge in congratulations if they won and recriminations if they didn't, and without exception to count the cost of running for office.

If they follow the spirit and letter of North Carolina's Corrupt Practices law, by next Friday, May 22, they will tell the cost in a verified statement of campaign contributions and expenditures filed with the office of Secretary of State Thad Eure in Raleigh or the clerk of Superior Court in their county.

Many of them, particularly at the county level, may not file at all. Few of the reports filed will give anything like a complete and accurate picture of campaign finances. No one, if precedent is followed, will be prosecuted for violations.

North Carolina has no ceiling on the amount of money a candidate may spend in a campaign. The Corrupt Practices Act does require the filing of a preliminary statement of contributions and expenses 10 days before the primary, and a final report 20 days after the primary date. Failure to do so is a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or imprisonment or both.

Candidates for state or district offices, including State Senate districts of more than one county, must file with the Secretary of State. Candidates for Senate districts of a single county, House seats, and all county offices must file with the clerk of Superior Court in their county. House seats involving more than one county require reports to be filed with the clerk of court in each of the counties.

The law calls for the candidate to file "an itemized statement of all expenditures made by him or which he knows to have been made by anyone for him, and of all contributions made to him, directly or indirectly. . . ." Similar statements are required by campaign committees active on behalf of any candidate.

Secretary of State Thad Eure, whose observation of the Tar Heel political scene spans four decades, takes a charitable but candid view of the reports coming into his office.

"There's no way in the world to have an accurate check on whether these reports tell the whole story on campaign finances," he said. "Money comes from too many sources and goes for too many varied purposes."

Even the candidate himself may be, by inadvertence or design, in the dark about all the money received and spent on his behalf.

One of the ten governors under whom Eure has served, a model of rectitude, appeared at the Secretary of State's office following his primary victory.

Raising his right hand, the candidate said: "Mr. Secretary, the report I have just filed with you speaks the truth."

"I know he was sincere, because that was the kind of man he was," Eure said. "But I also know there was money spent in his campaign that he knew nothing about."

The law imposes on Eure's office no duty to determine the validity of the campaign expense reports. His responsibility is simply to receive the statements filed by candidates, and pass along to the Attorney General the names of those who fail to file.

In turn, the law says the Attorney General shall "initiate a prosecution" for the violation. Each clerk of Superior Court, in a similar manner, is supposed to bring to the attention of the solicitor in the district the failure of candidates for county offices and House seats to file reports.

Eure is scrupulous in carrying out his obligations under the Corrupt Practices law. In advance of the primary, he mailed to every candidate a letter calling to their attention the requirement to file financial reports, enclosing two copies of the reporting form.

After the deadline next Friday, he will send a reminder letter to each candidate who has not filed. After a reasonable time, if the reports still are not in, names of delinquents will be turned over to the Attorney General.

Acknowledging that observance is lip-service rather than strict, Eure is nonetheless a staunch defender of the Corrupt Practices Act.

"Some people say the law is not worth a cent. Maybe so, but that's not the whole picture," he said. "The main value is psychological. Think what it would be like if we didn't have such a law."

As he sees it, the absence of a law would encourage flagrant abuses in campaign spending. As matters now stand, the law serves as a restraining influence; even though there never have been prosecutions under the law, candidates are cagey enough to know there could be a first time.

movements fighting against imperialism and neo-colonialism."

We contend that if the Soviets were to withdraw from the Middle East there would be no need for any great American support of Israel. That nation has shown it can take care of itself. We suspect that the same is true in Southeast Asia. At this point American troops probably could withdraw and South Vietnam could exist without being dominated by North Vietnam if Soviet and Red China's military support of the Communist regime were withdrawn, or at least reduced to defensive proportions.

If all this were done, a dream that the common people of all the countries involved, share could come about.

With a major reduction in arms spending the Soviet Union could indeed afford the higher standard of living the Central Committee talks about. The United States could attack its domestic problems with funds saved by reducing military spending. Certainly Red China badly needs to divert some of its military spending to providing a better life for its millions.

With all that is going on there doesn't seem to be a great chance of reducing world tensions and subsequently military spending. However, it needs to be done and we suspect the key to it is going to have to be eventual cooperation between the Soviet Union and the United States.

Bright Victory Over Insanity

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK
GAMBIER, Ohio — Tense and dramatic days last week on the normally pastoral campus of Kenyon College here revealed the extent of the crisis for liberal education in America under even the best of conditions.

What happened at Kenyon was a signal triumph by administration, faculty, and students against politicizing the campus despite the volatile atmosphere. While some 450 colleges were shutting down, Kenyon not only remained open but displayed some unfashionable virtues: civility, an appreciation of academic freedom, and mutual respect between faculty and student body.

Yet, even at Kenyon with less than 1,000 students and physically isolated in rural Ohio, worried professors and student leaders warily approach the future — fearing the barbarians are at the gates. They wonder how long sanity can survive here while student fury, often abetted by faculty, engulfs Harvard, Michigan, and Berkeley.

"How long can we stay quiet when all hell is breaking loose around us?" asks one Kenyon professor.

Every campus has its own peculiarity, and Kenyon's conspicuous success is no prescription for restoring liberal education nationwide or even a surefire formula for saving it here. What the Kenyon story underlines is that a firm stand by the faculty in the interest of intellectual civility is the one essential for survival of the American university.

Following the pattern of every campus today, students and faculty at Kenyon are emotionally opposed to the Vietnam war. Nor were they immune from the campus frenzy over the Cambodian operation and the killing of four Kent State University students. When Kenyon's students watched fellow students elsewhere man the barricades via the evening television news, they started planning their own student strike.

Where Kenyon differed from most other campuses was the reaction of administration and faculty. Instead of submitting to student demands, Kenyon's professors persuasively argued with the students that closing down the campus would accomplish nothing and that a planned student march on the state capitol might only lead to more tragedy.

The appeal to reason succeeded. After a long meeting last Thursday night, the students voted not to participate in the Columbus march and to recommend that the college stay open. But they also recommended cancelling final examinations. Instead, they wanted "symposiums, open forums, and teach-ins" on the Indochina war, on violence and dissent, and on the use of force on the campus.

At most campuses, the Administration would have eagerly gobbled up this seeming panacea. Indeed, a proposal for teach-ins, passed to student radicals, departs from the present collegiate principle that important matters should be settled by conscience instead of intellect.

Remarkably, however, the Kenyon faculty did not accept that easy way out. Realizing that cancellation of final examinations would open the door to disruption of education whenever external political developments intrude, the faculty voted to hold examinations as scheduled but to arrange three days of "convocations and seminars" on transcendent political events.

Even more remarkably, the students overwhelmingly endorsed that decision at a meeting Saturday night. There was no hissing or booing. When a student actually referred to the faculty as "honest men and good men," there was sustained standing applause. This was possible only because the Kenyon faculty has consistently opposed politicization of the campus and had implanted that principle with a significant number of students.

Moreover, when a few students at Saturday night's meeting proposed a student voice in determining curriculum and faculty selection, they were politely but firmly rebuffed. President William Caples, a non-academician who retired as a vice president of Inland Steel to run his alma mater, will not permit any such trampling on academic freedom. The fact that

Strength For Today

DIVERSITY
GIVES INTEREST

"What would the world be like if everybody in it were like me?"

The answer is apparent — it would be an awful place. Your personality may be charming, your intellect of the highest order, your character a model for humanity to follow, but what a dull place the world would be if only your type or mine were present in it.

One of the hardest things for some of us to take is the fact that everyone in the world does not see things exactly as we do, or work as we do, or like the things we do. Every family is characterized by widely differing patterns of personality and taste. Some people go to bed early and get up early. Some like the temperature of the house kept high, others are suffocated if the temperature gets above sixty-five. Some prefer gardening; others, bridge parties. A man rejoices in a house full of guests; his wife prefers quiet evenings with the family.

No two leaves in the forest are alike. No two persons exactly resemble each other. No two finger prints are the same. The Lord meant the world to be interesting, and therefore He made it dazzling with diversity.

By Earl L. Douglass

By JAMES KILPATRICK Capacity For Outrage

A couple of years back — perhaps it was more than that — Bill Buckley wrote a delightful little essay in which he rued our lost capacity for outrage. I am not feeling so delightful just now, but I mark his remonstrance anyhow.

My erudite friend noted, for example, the reluctance of the humblest diner in the humblest hash-house to complain of bad service: The food arrives both cold and tough; the waitress slops it down with a sneer; the customer says not one word, and he leaves the usual tip. The commuter train is 15 degrees too hot or 10 degrees too cold; the cowed passengers sweat or shiver, depending on the season, but they are inhibited from speaking out.

All of us know what Mr. Buckley meant. All of us have experienced the rude clerk, the insolent mechanic, the reckless driver of a cab; and we are their captives. We will not make a scene. We are prisoners, if you please, of manners. We are patsies.

Reading the Washington papers, a few nights ago, one recalled the Buckley reproach. It is just as he said; but the captivity grows worse.

There in the papers was a report of the visit of Kingman Brewster, president of Yale. Mr. Brewster's message to the Congress, ever so slightly simplified, was this: Surrender. Quit. Give in. If we fail to give the hard-core students everything they demand, he appeared to be saying, the brutes will burn the country down. Can we let a thing like that happen? No. So sign here. And leave a tip. I was in Kansas City on Thursday, and picked up the morning Times. There was an article over the byline of Arnold Toynbee, explaining the vileness of the United States of America. We are everywhere feared and hated, he said. Let me quote: "Would I rather be a Vietnamese who was being 'saved' by the American army, or be a Czech who was being 'saved' by the Russian army? Of course I would rather be the Czech."

Of course, Mr. Toynbee, in the awful alternative, would rather be Red than dead. He would surrender his freedoms before he would defend them. If his statement means anything, that is precisely what it means: Don't talk back to the waiter. Tip him. It is ungentlemanly — it might soil one's coat — to fight for so small a thing as freedom. Tyranny is no more than inferior gravity. Mr. Toynbee would rather be the Czech. Of course.

The distinguished historian is not alone. I fly back to Washington Thursday night, dump the dirty shirts, and pick up the papers. A gang of insolent bums, it appears, have occupied the office of Welfare Secretary Finch. They broke in without notice or invitation, ousted him from his chair, put their feet on his desk, and proceeded to belabor him with three hours of abuse.

How did Mr. Finch react? He was calm. He never raised his voice. His visitors were shouting obscenities at him. He took a chair to one side; he attempted to reason with the intruders. As any child might have imagined, the intruders refused to be reasoned with. They cursed him until they wearied of the fun; they sat there all day, and finally, late in the afternoon, they negotiated the terms of cheap arrest and swaggered into paddy wagons belatedly summoned to the scene.

Meanwhile, the Federal Commission on Obscenity and Pornography had been holding a public hearing. A 28-year-old witness by the name of Thomas K. Forcade, coordinator of the obscene Underground Press Syn-

More Taxes Certainly Coming

By ELMER ROESSNER
The tax bite will continue to get bigger and deeper.

The federal budget for the year starting July 1 may run into a deficit. President Nixon originally called for a $1.3 billion surplus, but congressional spending may wipe that out and more. The administration is closely watching the situation and may ask for a continuation of the surtax, due to expire June 30.

Robert P. Mayo, director of the Bureau of the Budget, has publicly admitted that the surplus may vanish, and if spending could not be cut, "We can add taxes."

Henry C. Wallich, professor of economics at Yale and senior consultant to the Treasury Department, has stated that he would give the "highest probability" to a tax increase to solve a deficit and Mayo said, "I think I would agree with Henry."

Other Upward Pushes
Meanwhile, the National Association of Mutual

ROESSNER

Savings Banks has called for an extension of the surtax to prevent a possible deficit. Several Congressmen of both parties have also cautiously put forth the same proposal.

Meanwhile, two business taxes are likely to rise. Congress has passed a bill increasing the unemployment tax on employers from 0.4 to 0.5 per cent of the first $3,000 of each employee's annual wages. The taxable base would rise to $4,200 on Jan. 1, 1972.

The pending legislation to increase Social Security and Medicare payments will probably increase the annual base from $7,200 to $8,000 or more effective next Jan. 1.

State and local taxes all over the country are rising, partly to meet higher wage rates, partly to meet higher costs of materials and equipment, and partly to get more people on payrolls before November elections.

Those higher federal taxes on payrolls, and state and local increases will, of course, make labor-saving machinery less expensive.

Learn It All By Mail

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Exercise, far from overworking the heart, can give it needed rest. A Swedish physician found that a proper program of physical training slows the heart rate "and can spare the individual's heart 10,000 to 30,000 needless beats per day."

In the Tonga Islands of the South Pacific, pig's liver is so prized that it is regarded as a delicacy fit only for tribal chiefs. The highest tribute a Tongan boy can pay to a girl is to say she is a "fat liver full of oil."

Although an ordinary dog wags his tail, a hound, properly speaking, wags his "stern." A rabbit wags his "scut," a fox his "brush," and a deer his "single." And what does a wife wag? Sometimes her finger, sometimes her tongue.

Teen-agers are notoriously careless about selecting a balanced diet, but a government survey also found that women 35 and over are among the worst offenders in this respect.

If Picasso had become an actor instead of an artist, he'd have had a hard time getting his full name in bright lights on Broadway. It is Pablo Diego Jose Francisco de Paula Juan Nepomuceno Maria de los Remedios Cipriano de la Santisima Trinidad Ruiz Picasso.

Quotable Notables: "Some people get the idea they are worth a lot of money just because they have it." —Dorothy Kotler.

Insects go on strike: The French are testing the possibility of using lady bugs to replace health-threatening pesticides. They found that the lady bugs could consume 600 plant bugs a day each, but—after 90 days they found it too much work and hibernated for the rest of the year.

U.S. farm populations has fallen so much—it's still declining—that four out of five students in the nation's agricultural colleges now come not from the farm but from cities. Most have no desire to follow the plow. They seek training for jobs in teaching, farm machinery firms and the chemical industries.

Worth remembering: "Ability is what you need to get ahead if the boss doesn't have an unmarried daughter."

It was Joseph Joubert who observed, "If we spend our lives in loving, we have no leisure to complain, or to feel unhappy."

TV Emmy Awards Go To Rubenstein, Reichauer

NEW YORK (AP) — Pianist Arthur Rubenstein and Edwin O. Reichauer, former U.S. ambassador to Japan, have won Emmy awards from the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

They were among five individuals and 10 network television news and documentary programs named winners Monday. The awards will be formally presented June 7.

Rubenstein won for individual achievement as commentator on the NBC documentary about himself. The program, produced by George A. Vicas, also won an award in the cultural documentary category.

A similar double winner was "The Japanese," a CBS News program under executive producer Perry Wolff. Reichauer won for individual achievement as commentator on the program.

"Fathers and Son" also received an Emmy in the cultural documentary class. Ernest Leiser was its executive producer on the CBS News Hour.

In the category of special events, CBS news commentator Walter Cronkite won an individual award for his reporting of Apollo 11.

In the same category awards went to NBC's "Apollo: A Journey to the Moon" (Apollo 10, 11 and 12) and NBC's coverage of the solar eclipse.

In the news documentary programming category, "Hospital," a documentary of the National Education Television Journal, was a double winner. Emmys went to the program and to its director, Frederick Wiseman.

Another Emmy went to "The Making of the President, 1968" shown over CBS.

Magazine-type programming awards went to the "Black Journal" series on NET and to NBC reporter-writer Tom Pettit for his "Footnotes to 25 Nuclear Years" shown on "First Tuesday."

Two Emmys were awarded for segments within regularly scheduled news programs: "An Investigation of Teen-age Addiction—Odyssey House" on the NBC Huntley-Brinkley Report; and "Can the World Be Saved?" shown on the CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill designed to attract younger men to the federal judiciary failed to pass the House Monday, despite earlier approval by the Senate.

The measure would have reduced full pay retirement requirements to age 60 with 20 or more years of service. Under present law, jurists can retire with full pay at 70 after 10 years of service or at 65 with 15 years.

The House Judiciary Committee supported the bill, but opponents called it discriminatory. Rep. William L. Scott, R-Va., noted that no other government officials can retire at full pay.

The vote was 198 to 108 against the bill.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Garbage piled up in the streets of the nation's capital Monday when sanitation workers staged a wildcat walkout to tell the District of Columbia City Council they want better working conditions and higher pay.

Workers demanded an immediate hearing on their grievances, and the council replied by setting up a meeting today.

Union members filled the council chambers as the budget for 1971 was being discussed. Included is a $1.2 million allotment for sanitary improvements.

Drained Lake To Recover Victim

KANNAPOLIS, N.C. (AP) — An 8-year-old boy, Don Butler of Kannapolis, drowned Monday night in Overcash's lake, an abandoned fishing lake just outside the city.

It required draining of the lake to recover the body after dragging efforts failed.

A cousin, 9-year-old James Ernest Adams, also of Kannapolis, was rescued by companions with whom the boys had been catching minnows.

The Butler and Adams boys got into trouble soon after they decided to go for a swim.

Injured In Cycle Wreck

A Saturday night accident about three miles north of Greenville resulted in serious injuries for one of the two East Carolina University students involved.

According to Trooper A. G. Wright of Bethel who investigated the accident, the Honda motorcycle the students were riding left the road and went into a ditch at the intersection of rural paved road 1523 and 1537.

Trooper Wright said that the driver of the motorcycle, Franklin Douglas St. Amand of Winston-Salem, told him he ran off the road after the lights from an on coming vehicle blinded him.

The student riding with St. Amand, Tate V. Nabors Jr. of Mt. Pleasant, was unconscious when the patrolman arrived and both were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital.

According to a hospital spokesman, St. Amand has been released from the hospital and Nabors is still undergoing treatment. The extent of the latter patient's injuries were not available.

Trooper Wright said that St. Amand had been charged with driving under the influence.

Plan Joint Summer Program At Eppes

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville's Recreation Department and the Greenville Chapter of Boys' Club of America will conduct a joint summer program of activities using the facilities of C.M. Eppes Junior High School.

Approval of this arrangement was given unanimously last night by members of the Greenville Board of Education, based on a motion by member Louis W. Gaylord, Jr. Gaylord's motion recommended "that the use of the facilities at Eppes be extended to the two groups provided they pay any and all expenses and return the facilities in the same condition as received."

The agreement will become effective with the signing of a contract of agreement which will stipulate terms in detail and be approved by the Facilities Committee of the School Board. Boyd Lee, director of the Greenville Recreation Department and Richard Ullam, director of the Boys' Club, together outlined the joint program planned, which basically involves activities slated for both boys and girls. Ullam noted "we will probably have 500 to 600 children involved each day."

The gymnasium, cafeteria and athletic field will be the portions of the school facilities used in the planned program.

Other matters on the agenda and the result of discussion and actions taken were:

—Notification by member Dr.

James Bearden that the possibility existed that Judge John Larkins would not be able to conduct the court hearing scheduled this Friday in Trenton on plans for the 1970-71 school year. (Postponement of the hearing was confirmed this morning by William Brewer, Jr., one of the school attorneys. Brewer revealed he had contacted Judge Larkins' office and was informed that the judge is entering the hospital for minor surgery. Brewer said the "hearing will be rescheduled at the earliest possible date after Judge Larkins returns from the hospital.)

—Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of the Greenville City Schools, reminded board members that the HEW hearing was due for decision no later than May 25 and that the decision should be received here soon.

—Approved the election of Mrs. Carolyn Gwaltney, presently Food Services Supervisor for Craven County Schools for the position of Food Services Supervisor for the Greenville city schools, and Francis Dorey as Maintenance Supervisor for the city schools. Dorey is presently with the Maintenance Department of the Pitt County Schools.

—Approved the summer staff, contracted and tentative, of administrative personnel and teachers for kindergarten, elementary and secondary programs. Those tentatively contracted will be hired dependent on the need for employment based on the number of pupils taking part in the program. This program is made possible by funds from Title I, ESEA Project.

—Announced close of school activities. The Baccalaureate is scheduled for May 31 at 8:00 p.m. in the Rose High Gymnasium. Graduation exercises will be held at 8:00 p.m. on June 9 in Ficklen Stadium.

—Scheduled a special call meeting of the board for Thursday at 12:30 in the Board Room of the City School Office for the purpose of reviewing bids for the two temporary units back of Rose High. Bids are being received at 2:00 p.m. Wednesday, and architects will be able to analyze and summarize the bids for board members to review the following day.

—Expressed appreciation for the presence at the meeting of members of the provisional chapter of the League of Women Voters; representatives from the Citizens' Advisory Committee; and officers of the PTAs at last night's meeting.

Tools Stolen At Building Site

An assortment of tools, valued at approximately $1000, were reported stolen Sunday night from a new home construction site on Rt. 1, Stokes, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

The incident, reported to officials Monday morning around 7 a.m., took place at a new home currently being built by James Ormand, the sheriff said.

Included in the list of tools missing were various small carpenter's items consisting of chisels, hatchets, and saws, and larger items including a power saw and jointer.

Sheriff Tyson said that investigation of the theft is continuing.

Goat Given City's Okay

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Alderman Mark Ryan traveled 30 miles to rural West Bend to assure apprehensive third-graders that the city has decided against banishing a goat named Stoney.

Stoney can continue to live in Milwaukee, Ryan told the youngsters, who had written letters of protest after reading that the animal, an Australian short-haired goat, would be exiled from the city limits.

Milwaukee has an ordinance which prohibits keeping animals that chew cuds. Stoney, the pet of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Fulton, chews.

Ryan explained to the concerned children at St. Frances Cabrini School that the city attorney is drawing up an opinion that would allow Stoney to escape eviction on grounds that goats are not specifically mentioned in the ordinance.

The Fultons brought Stoney to Milwaukee when they moved recently from Georgia. Ryan explained that the ordinance was designed to protect farm animals from the rigors of big city living.

Ryan made an earlier effort to let the Fultons keep Stoney by having the goat legally declared to be a pet dog. City councilmen declined to buy that one.

Bound Over To Be Tried

Two men, one white and the other Negro, were bound over to Pitt County Superior court to answer the capital charges of rape and first degree burglary, following a preliminary hearing yesterday before District Court Judge J.W.H. Roberts.

Both men, Elmo Barber, 22-year-old Negro of 204 Wade St. and Thomas Earl Stocks, 26, of 213 East 14th St., are charged with breaking into a Brook Valley home about 1 a.m. April 27 and raping Mrs. Ann Baker Barry, 23.

Judge Roberts cleared the court room of all spectators — allowing only immediate relatives of the accused, law enforcement officers, attorneys, members of the press and others connected with the case to remain — as Mrs. Barry took the stand as the first witness for the state.

Mrs. Barry said she was alone in the 215 Windsor Rd home with her 13-month old daughter at the time of the attack.

Pitt County Deputy Sheriff D. D. Respass was the only other witness tendered at the probable cause hearing.

Both Stocks and Barber were employed as carpenters and were working on a new house being build directly behind the home in which Mrs. Barry was staying with her parents.

Attacks Pushed By Communists

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops stepped up their attacks across South Vietnam sharply today in a new "highpoint" of activity apparently marking the 80th anniversary of the birth of Ho Chi Minh.

The Communist command's troops also threatened another Cambodian provincial capital in their efforts to keep open their supply lines through northern Cambodia and southern Laos. The 35,000 American and South Vietnamese troops on the move against enemy base camps inside Cambodia reported only scattered action. But inside South Vietnam the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong shelled 61 allied positions, the heaviest attacks in 12 days.

In the northeastern part of the Mekong Delta, Viet Cong troops overran a government outpost and then slashed into a relief force that moved in. No further information was immediately available.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong ignored a 24-hour cease-fire which the Saigon government declared to mark the anniversary of Buddha's birth. The cease-fire, which ended at noon today, applied only to South Vietnamese and U.S. offensive operations in South Vietnam.

There was no letup in the campaigns across the border in Cambodia or in air attacks on the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos.

A U.S. communique reported 166 "enemy initiated actions" of all types during the cease-fire and said 141 of the enemy were killed. It reported one American killed and 19 wounded, while the Saigon government said it had 10 killed and 73 wounded.

North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong told a meeting in Hanoi marking Ho's birthday anniversary that "no matter what difficulties and hardships lie ahead, our people are sure to win total victory. The U.S. imperialists will have to pull out."

Viet Cong broadcasts earlier had called for an increase in attacks to celebrate the anniversary of the late Vietnamese Communist hero.

Informed sources said more than 60 U.S. B52 bombers battered North Vietnamese supply depots in Laos and Cambodia during the 24 hours of the cease-fire.

Officials in Vientiane, the Laotian capital, said North Vietnamese troops have begun moving north from Cambodia into the Bolovens plateau of the panhandle, a rice-growing area where the North Vietnamese may be trying to replenish their food supplies.

Some Laotian officials fear the allied campaign in Cambodia may trigger massive North Vietnamese retaliatory attacks in Laos.

'Businesslike' SALT Session

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — U.S. and Soviet negotiators met for the ninth session of their strategic arms limitations talks today and the meeting was described as "Businesslike and free of any polemics."

The session at the Soviet Embassy lasted for an hour and 15 minutes. According to a conference source, there were the usual presentations of views and approaches followed by questions for specifics from the other side.

The Houston Astrodome was built at a cost of $37.6 million. —

Getting In The Swim

A new status symbol seems to have taken the place of two cars in every garage. It's the backyard swimming pool. At least one gets that impression from the number of new pools being installed throughout the state.

Pool manufacturers anticipate a banner sales year. They attribute this sales surge to several factors. Pool construction costs have been reduced considerably. Manufacturers have developed new material and new construction methods. Improved cleaning and filtration equipment is available.

All these features have brought costs down to the point where families of moderate means can afford a pool without wrecking the family budget. Although it is not advanced as a reason for home pool popularity, overcrowded roads, bathes covering the beaches like wall-to-wall carpet makes a pool just outside the door seem very inviting.

Unlike packaged products which we are accustomed to buying, pools come in all sizes and shapes. They have to be fabricated on the site and the terrain varies from site to site. Costs will vary from dealer to dealer. This means that more details will have to be considered.

Under the circumstances, there are two steps a prospective pool purchaser should follow in the early stages of his planning.

1. Consult reputable pool contractors. Get detailed specifics and estimates from them.

2. Consult your banker at the outset so that the terms of financing can be discussed. These, too, will vary from bank to bank depending on the individual bank's policy.

A reputable pool contractor will be familiar with zoning regulations if any, that apply to pools. Your banker, if he handles any volume of pool financing, can give you many valuable suggestions as to what might be required and what extras you can afford to carry.

Never lose sight of the fact that a pool contractor is also a salesman. He will sell the purchaser a good product but it is only natural for him to attempt to build up the sale. There is no point in pricing a pool out of reach by adding too many extras. Get the basic equipment and add what you find will make the pool more enjoyable for you.

Another person who should figure prominently in your plans is your insurance agent. You might be required to provide some protective fencing in order for your insurance coverage to be effective. Go over these requirements and policy stipulations in specific details with your agent.

By learning what responsibilities you assume when you install a pool, you will be able to enjoy your pool with more peace of mind.

Rampants Win Game, Kinston Gets Title

Woody's Ramblin's By WOODY PEELE

There is the old adage about putting the cart before the horse. It doesn't always turn out to be the best way to make things go right. Well, the Eastern 4-A Conference appears to be getting famous for that. Yesterday they gave a prime example of it. Actually it started five weeks ago, when Rose High Schol played a game with Wilson. The game was protested in the fifth inning when Wilson illegally substituted a player. But the protest was slow to get off the ground, and when it finally did about two weeks ago, the buck was passed on to the North Carolina High School Athletic Association by the conference. As a result, the protest wasn't ruled on until it became absolutely necessary. That was Saturday morning, after Rose beat Kinston and Rocky Mount downed Goldsboro to throw the league into a three-way tie, providing that is that Rose beat Wilson in the replay of the protested game. Because of the time element, the game couldn't be played until Monday, and the State 4-A Playoffs were scheduled to begin Tuesday. So it was decided that the following procedure would be used: 1) Rose would play Wilson Monday afternoon. If the Rampants won, there would be a three-way tie for the title. 2) Since there would be no time for a three-way playoffs, the conference representative in the playoffs would be chosen by the vote of the six divisional coaches. 3) If the Rampants had lost, there would only be a two-way tie between Kinston and Goldsboro, so a playoff between the two schools was set, also for Monday afternoon. 4) If Rose lost, the winner of that game would be the representative. Now the fun began. Rose came back to defeat Wilson, 7-5. That pushed the league into a three-way tie, thus the game between Kinston and Goldsboro meant nothing. But, Kinston and Goldsboro didn't know this and Goldsboro came up with a 6-4 victory over the Red Devils. Then came the word. Carroll King of Raleigh Broughton, president of the Eastern 4-A Conference had made the poll of the coaches on Monday morning, before the first pitch had been thrown in either game. And those coaches elected Kinston. Needless to today, fans in Greenville and Goldsboro were furious, but had no recourse. The Eastern 4-A will now send as its Division II representative a team which has a fine record, but goes into the playoffs with four losses in its last six game, including three to the two teams it was tied with. It is wondered how many of the coaches who voted for Kinston (they were those from Wilson, Rocky Mount, New Bern, and, of course, Kinston) would have voted that way had the conference done the proper thing and waited until the games had been played to make the poll. It appears doubtful that Kinston would have received the bid under these conditions. But the root of the matter is the handling of the protest. It should not have been allowed to hang until the last minute. If it had been handled promptly, the issue could have been settled with a three-way playoff, and everyone would have gone away without the bitter taste that has been left by this method of picking the "champion."

Club Holds 1st Field Events

The East Carolina Retriever Club held its first field trial Sunday afternoon and attracted 25 entries from Greenville and four other eastern North Carolina cities. Dr. Ed Clement, the new club's vice president, said that the entries, made up mostly of Labrador Retrievers and one or two Chesapeake and Britany Spaniels, completed for unofficial points and ribbons since the club is not yet sanctioned. An eight-year-old Labrador, owned by Mac DuBose of Kinston took first place honors in the gun dog class and a 12-month-old puppy, also owned and showed by DuBose, took second. Clement's Labrador finished in the third spot. DuBose's puppy also took first place honors in the puppy class. Clement said that the club, started about three months ago, has applied for official sanctioning from the American Kennel Club and expected to be fully sanctioned by the fall. The Club members hope to have monthly trials at different times throughout the east, with the next one scheduled for June in New Bern, according to Clement. Official sanctioning will allow the awarding of official points on a national competitive basis. At present, Clement said, there is no other official sanctioned club in the state. Purpose of the club is to encourage the use of retrieving dogs in hunting and to allow for the working of dogs during the off season when most hunting dogs are confined to pens. By WOODY PEELE Reflector Sports Editor WILSON — Rose High School won the battle, but lost the war. The Rampants, playing their resumed game with Wilson, picked up in the fifth inning where a protest resulted, came away with a 7-5 victory. But it was all for naught. The Rampants can only console themselves that they are tri-champions of Division II of the Eastern 4-A Conference. While Rose was beating Wilson, Kinston was falling to Goldsboro, 6-4, in a game that would have decided the crown had Rose lost. But when the three-way tie resulted, the crowd wearer was picked by a poll of the division's six coaches. The vote, taken prior to the games, gave Kinston four votes, while Rose and Goldsboro each received one. That sends Kinston into the State 4-A Playoffs, against Wilmington's New Hanover this afternoon. Rose entered the replay in the fifth inning trailing 5-3. Rose had scored once in the second when John Conway singled and came around on Alan Pate's double. But Wilson had moved ahead with five runs in the third, as Rose committed a pair of errors. Two singles and a walk loaded the bases with Cyclones, and a single brought in two runners and moved another to third. An error let the next batter reach and scored the third run. Flood Suit To Go To Court

NEW YORK (AP) — "I do not feel I am a piece of property to be bought and sold irrespective of my wishes." Those words belong to Curt Flood. "A successful challenge to the reserve clause would mean professional baseball would cease to exist." Those words belong to major league baseball. And, in those two sentences, are wrapped up the central issue of the court battle that began today in Federal Court, where Flood has brought a suit challenging baseball's controversial reserve clause. The case, in which Flood and his attorneys will attempt to prove that baseball is a monopoly operating in restraint of trade ball let the other two across. Then, in the top of the fifth, Rose started a come back, one which failed in the first playing of the game. Russ Smith had walked and Tommy Durham reached on a fielder's choice and Jimmy Paige slammed a triple to bring them home and cut the lead to 5-3. Kim Harbin came up to bat, and after a ball on the first pitch, Wilson made a substitution that brought about the protest. The game was resumed at that point, with Paige on third and Harbin at bat with a 1-0 count. And on the first pitch of the "game" Paige broke for home, sliding safely in with a stolen base, as the pitcher tried to rush his throw and was wide. That cut it to 5-4. But it so unnerved the Wilson hurler that he walked Harbin and Bill Lee, the following batter. A wild pitch moved them up, and a passed ball let Harbin score with the tying run. Wilson threatened to get back in to the lead in the bottom of the fifth. Mike Foster and Greg Fulgham both walked to open the inning, and Dennis Wilkerson sacrificed them up. But Smith struck out the next batter, and the next grounded out, with Rose escaping without being hurt. With one out in the sixth, Larry Hatton singled over short to become the go-ahead run. Then, with two outs, Smith lifted a ball into right that appeared an easy catch, but the ball soared, and carried just over the fence for a home run, scoring both Hatton and Smith for a 7-5 lead. Neither team threatened after that, and Rose came away with the lead and a share of the title. But immediately after the game, they were informed by the president of the Eastern 4-A, Carroll King of Raleigh's Broughton High School, of the division's vote, ending their hopes of continuing on in playoff competition. In the third, Immanuel added three more for a 10-2 lead. Black Jack came up with three more in the third, and added four in the fifth as T. Adams homered cutting the lead to 10-9. But Immanuel scored three more in the sixth on a homer by Carraway to wrap it up with a 13-9 lead. Immanuel picked up its other run in the seventh, while Black Jack added once each in the sixth and seventh. Dalton led the Immanuel hitting with four, while Carraway had two. For Black Jack, J.T. ## Weird Recount Puts Pittsburgh Back Into Game, Brings Victory

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

When ball two is really strike three, it follows that one run and one run don't necessarily make two.

Confronted with those mathematical uncertainties Monday night at Pittsburgh, Danny Murtaugh coped with them the only way he could ... by demanding a recount.

The Pirates nipped the floundering Philadelphia Phillies 2-1 after Manager Murtaugh persuaded a confused crew of umpires to reinstate the tie-breaking run ... which they had disallowed during a bizarre chain-reaction in the seventh inning.

The loss, 10th straight for the Phillies, dropped them into the National League East cellar.

Montreal moved up from fifth by flooring the New York Mets 8-4 on a grand slam pinch hit homer by Bob Bailey in the ninth inning.

In other NL games, Houston trimmed St. Louis 6-0 behind Larry Dierker; the Chicago Cubs slugged Cincinnati 12-5 and Los Angeles edged San Diego 4-3. San Francisco and Atlanta were not scheduled.

In the American League, the New York Yankees ambushed Baltimore 10-4; Washington topped Cleveland 7-3; California whipped the Chicago White Sox 6-1 and Minnesota beat Kansas City 7-5. Oakland and Milwaukee were idle, and the Detroit-Boston game was rained out.

The fireworks began at Forbes Field when Manny Sanguillen's run-scoring double tied the game with one out in the seventh.

Sanguillen took third on Bill Mazeroski's single before right-hander Jim Bunning went to a 1-2 count on opposing pitcher Bob Moose.

Bunning's next delivery sailed past catcher Del Bates to the screen. Umpire Dave Davidson called the pitch a ball and Sanguillen raced across the plate with the lead run. Bates retrieved the ball and fired to third, nailing Mazeroski, who was trying to take two bases on the passed ball.

At the same time, Bunning appealed to Augie Donatelli, who was stationed on the base-paths, and the umpire ruled that Moose had swung and missed the pitch for a strikeout.

Davidson then nullified the run on the grounds that the inning had ended in a double play. Murtaugh argued that the runner had crossed the plate before the last out was made, and announced he was completing the game under protest.

Only after a Philadelphia batter was retired in the top of the eighth did the umpires reverse their decision, allowing the run to stand. The "double play" had been no double play at all, since it was not made in continuous sequence, and Sanguillen had indeed scored before the inning-ending putout at third base.

Bailey's bases-loaded homer off Cal Koonce capped a five-run Montreal rally in the ninth before a Canadian holiday crowd of 31,004—largest ever at Jarry Park. The Mets had taken a 4-3 lead in the eighth on consecutive homers by Dave Marshall, Joe Foy and Jerry Grote.

Dierker scattered four hits at Houston to become the second eight-game winner in the majors, Cincinnati's Jim Merritt having won his eighth Sunday. The Astros rocked Bob Gibson, 2-3, for all their runs and 12 hits in the 5-3 innings he lasted.

Ron Santo drove in four runs with a double and single, and Don Kessinger and Glenn Beckert rapped out four hits apiece, leading the Cubs' 16-hit assault at Cincinnati.

Rookie Sandy Vance nailed his fourth straight victory with late relief help from Joe Moeller as the Dodgers built a 4-1 lead at San Diego and withstood the Padres' comeback. Billy Grabarkewitz scored the deciding run in the third inning, racing home from second on an error by Steve Huntz.

Senators End Skid; Yankees Make Like Pennant Contenders

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two weeks of futility ended for Ted Williams and his Washington Senators while in New York six years of frustration appear to be disintegrating as the Yankees make like pennant contenders.

Left-hander George Brunet braked the Senators' skid at nine straight losses Monday night, hurling six innings and slamming a three-run homer as Washington trimmed Cleveland 7-3.

The Yankees also used southpaw Fritz Peterson's two-run blast to key a seven-run third-inning uprising against the East Division leading Orioles in crushing Baltimore 10-4 for New York's fifth victory in six games. It dropped the Orioles' margin to five games over the second-place Yankees.

In other AL action, Minnesota topped Kansas City 7-5, California downed Chicago 6-1 and Detroit at Boston was called by rain. Oakland and Milwaukee were not scheduled.

In the National League, Montreal whipped New York 8-4, Pittsburgh nipped Philadelphia 2-1, Chicago routed Cincinnati 11-5, Houston blanked St. Louis 6-0 and Los Angeles held off San Diego 4-3. San Francisco and Atlanta were idle.

The Senators' triumph was their first since May 5, when Brunet helped stop California 6-1.

The 34-year-old, who has pitched in 15 minor league cities and is now his seventh major league club after coming from Seattle-Milwaukee over the winter for pitcher Dave Baldwin, limited the Indians to seven hits and three runs before leaving for a pinch hitter in the Senators' four-run sixth.

His homer in the second—only the second by a Washington pitcher in four years—came following a walk to Bernie Allen and Jim French's single.

Ed Stroud then sewed up the victory with a bases-full double in the sixth, ending Manager Williams' longest losing string since taking over the Senators last year.

Peterson, 5-2, allowed 10 hits but got plenty of support as the Yankees belted nemesis Mike Cuellar out in the big third inning.

Cuellar, 4-3, last season's co-Cy Young Award winner as the league's top pitcher, however, has been raked for nine home runs in 551-3 innings this year and has an ERA of 5.21.

The left-hander had previously beaten the Yankees four straight—all complete games—and allowed but 21 hits and three earned runs.

"This has to be the biggest series in six years for the Yankees," Peterson said. "It's possible we might go all the way. That's something I'd like to be a part of."

The Yankees, who won their last pennant in 1964, haven't been contenders since.

Roy White and Danny Cater contributed three hits apiece for New York with Cater driving in three runs.

Pinch hitter Chuck Manuel knocked in the tie-breaking run with an eighth-inning sacrifice fly and Harmon Killebrew drilled a ninth-inning homer—his 12th—as the Twins soared to their fifth straight triumph.

Amos Otis has a two-run blast for the Royals while Leo Cardenas and Rod Carew slugged two-run homers for the Twins. Shortstop Cardenas booted a grounder for his first misplay in 47 games.

Jim Fregosi stroked four hits, including a solo homer while Alex Johnson slashed a two-run single and Ken McMullen ashed a roundtripper, supporting the five-hit pitching of Andy Messersmith in the Angels' rout of the White Sox.

Bucs To Meet Florida State

Three of the four teams have been designated for the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) District 3 baseball tournament opening May 28 at Gastonia, N. C.

Florida State and Mississippi State were chosen Monday by the district selection committee as at-large entrants, chairman Bill Wilhelm, Clemson baseball coach, announced.

East Carolina is the third team by virtue of winning the Southern Conference crown. The Atlantic Coast Conference champion, Maryland or Clemson will fill the field.

In the ACC, Maryland and Virginia will make up a rain-postponed game at Virginia on Wednesday.

If Maryland wins it will have a 14-7 conference record, matching Clemson, and they will play for the title. Otherwise, Clemson goes to the district tournament.

Florida State had a 38-6-1 record going into its two-game series with Auburn Monday. Mississippi State, 30-6, won the Southeastern Conference title.

Florida State meets East Carolina at 3 p.m., and Mississippi State meets the ACC champion at 8 p.m. in the first games of the three-day double-elimination tournament.

The winner will be one of eight teams in the national finals at Omaha, Neb.

Youngsters Are Waiting At Indy

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The A. J. Foyts, Al Unsers and Mario Andretti aren't likely to leave the racing scene soon, but already several youngsters are waiting in the wings to replace them.

Herb Porter, an observer of motorsports for 35 years as a driver, team manager and development expert, watched Mike Mosley zip down the front straight at Indianapolis Motor Speedway Monday and said:

"There goes one of the natural driving talents that has come into championship racing in the last two years. He'll be heard from in the future and he'll become a wealthy man if he handles himself right."

Seconds later, Unser screamed by on a lap that was clocked at 169.619 miles per hour — fastest posted at the speedway Monday as things settled down after two days of qualifying that saw 27 drivers earn starting spots in the Memorial Day field.

"Unser's a great one, too," said the grizzled Porter. "He's just reaching his prime, and if purses keep going up he will make a million dollars."

Unser, 31 and youngest of two driving brothers from Albuquerque, won the pole position Saturday with a four-lap average of 170.221 m.p.h. Mosley, at 23 one of the youngest drivers in the field, qualified his turbo-charged Offy at 166.651.

Porter is known in auto racing circles as the father of the present-day turbocharged Offy engine. He began experimenting with the little four-cylinder powerplant in 1964, when car owners were looking for cheaper engines that would match the hot overhead cam Fords.

His first test driver in the highly successful program was A. J. Foyt, but before that such names as Rodger Ward, Len Sutton, Roger McCluskey, Paul Goldsmith, Paul Russo and Lloyd Ruby had driven on his teams.

Porter currently is chief of engine development for Good-year, which uses the Offy in its tire testing programs. That makes him available for consultation with crews of any of the 31 Offy-powered cars in this year's entry list.

Among other young drivers Porter singled out as future stars were Tony Adamowicz, 29, the Formula A champion last year who qualified an Eagle-Offy at 164.820; Lee Kunzman, 25, of Guttenberg, Iowa, and Sam Posey, a 26-year-old former sports car driver from Sharon, Conn. Kunzman and Posey will try to get into the field this weekend.

Meantime, 44-year-old Jack Brabham was expected to get his new car into action at the speedway today. Brabham, a three-time world champion in Grand Prix racing, said the car was held up in New York for seven days because of a trucking strike.

The car, a turbo-charged Offy of Brabham's own design, was uncrated Sunday night but the crew couldn't get it ready for practice Monday.

Stars Edge By Indiana Pacers

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The Los Angeles Stars are still alive—but still in jeopardy, as they resume their series tonight with the Indiana Pacers for the American Basketball Association championship.

Trailing by as many as 21 points and all but pronounced dead, the Stars came alive in the final period Monday night to defeat the Pacers, 109-106, and the best of seven series now stands 2-1 in favor of the Hoosiers.

An uproarious crowd of 5,780—a gratifying figure for the orphan Stars—saw their adopted outfit outscore Indiana, 31 to 18, in the final quarter.

Only a pair of spectacular 3-point field goals by Fred Lewis in the final wild moments saved Indiana from a worse defeat.

Scoring hero of the night was the Stars' George Stone, who had 34 for the night and 27 in the second half.

Stone had key help from Andy Anderson, especially in the last period.

Coach Bill Sharman credited the 6-2 blond with "getting the team moving" after coming on to the boards late in the third period. Anderson wound up with 12 points.

Indiana, with Lewis' total 24 points and Bill Keller with 22, led after the first period, 38-17; 60-47 at the half and 88-78 going into the final quarter.

Over a span of 11 minutes 10 seconds beginning late in the third, Indiana scored only three points, all from the foul line. "The crowd was great—for the Stars," said Indiana coach Bob Leonard, who added, "we've got to do a better job on Stone because when he's hot there's no stopping him."

Sharman praised Tom Washington for his defensive work on Mel Daniels, and said "this was the greatest comeback of the season."

Los Angeles scored first on a free throw and trailed from then on until they caught and finally passed the Pacers with about eight minutes remaining.

The bidding:

East South West North

Pass 2♥ 2♠ 3♥

Pass 4NT Pass 5♦

Pass 6♥ Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠

Today's hand ranks as something of a track record for impossible slam contracts, inasmuch as South had to overcome a series of obstacles that might have intimidated Hercules.

North was primarily responsible for the partnership's reaching the overly ambitious six heart undertaking. When West overcalled South's demand opening in hearts with two spades, North's holding does not meet the requirements for a free bid. Holding a mere 4 points in support of hearts, he should pass and give his partner the next chance.

Once his holding has been limited, North may endeavor to show some of his features subsequently should the auction develop favorably.

West opened the king of spades and the ace was played from dummy. To say that North's holding was a disappointment to the declarer would be an understatement.

Dinah Shore Tired Of Leisurely Life

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Says Dinah Shore of her return to a television series:

"I started thinking about it one day when I said to myself, 'Let's see, yesterday you played tennis all day' the day before you played golf, before that you went to Australia.' That made me think that maybe it was time to go back to work."

Worry Clinic Moving Up To New Classroom

Glorine's death is only one of several where I have participated in the funeral service. The loss of our oldest son hit Mrs. Crane and me very hard, for he died suddenly in the prime of life, due to the crashing of his Marine jet plane. Send for the booklet below if you wish the dynamic concept of Heaven which Dr. Hulse offered in his very uplifting funeral sermon.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE N-518: Glorine Miller was a lovely woman who dedicated all her spare time to helping spread the story of Dr.

Andrew C. Ivy's stimulating work with anti-cancer hormones.

But she passed away last fall and I was asked to give a brief address at the memorial service for her at the First Methodist Church in Evanston, Illinois.

"Glorine is probably just as ardently working in that next classroom up ahead," I began.

"For my concept of Heaven is merely a higher classroom than this one on Earth.

"God's Cosmic School System may have millions of advanced classrooms.

"So I now visualize Glorine as helping buoy up the spirits of children and spreading sunshine in the Hereafter, much as she did down here on Earth."

This was the general motif of my address, for I like this dynamic concept of Heaven.

We human beings are figuratively tied to the mechanical machine, for which we serve as "chauffeur" while here on earth.

This machine is our human body.

Our soul as the chauffeur is fastened to the body only till death.

With our final heartbeat, the chauffeur then becomes freed from this human machine.

As a crude analogy, just compare the auto chauffeur to the human soul.

For your automobile is likened to the human body. It's your vehicle of transportation.

If at the smashup of your car, you are not crippled or killed, then you may soon purchase a new automobile and be driving it along the highways.

Remember, you as the chauffeur are not synonymous with your car!

Neither is your soul synonymous with the wrecked or maimed body that is taken to the mortician's establishment.

So we should not grow too idolatrous concerning mausoleums and expensive tombstones.

For the dead human body is much like the smashed automobile that is relegated to a wrecked car lot.

We don't erect monument to our wrecked automobiles, do we?

But the dead human body rates more respect and affection, since it for so many years served as the machine that contained the soul of our loved one.

Hence, it is psychologically fitting and proper to memorialize the dead and give the human body a fitting, floral farewell.

But I believe those worthy people who have previously earned admission to heaven may be issued a new body instantly when they arrive in that next classroom!

And I think they will be solving problems quite similar to those down here, though at a higher level of complexity.

For here on Earth when you have learned the multiplication tables through the 4's, you may then need to start in the next classroom with the 5's and 6's.

So it is in heaven, as I view the Hereafter.

This is the dynamic concept of Heaven! For God is Dynamism, Personified!

So I feel it is His plan that deserving souls simply become chauffeurs of new bodies in the Hereafter.

Push Wrap-Up
Of Area Census

Were you counted in Census '70?

With the 1970 Census of Population and Housing virtually completed locally, District Manager Jerry Scott announced the beginning of a "Were You Counted?" campaign to insure that no resident of the area has been overlooked.

If you think you or your family might have been missed, you are urged to notify the census district office by means of a "Were You Counted?" form. Prompt mailing of the "Were You Counted?" forms will speed up the compilation of preliminary population figures for the area.

Preliminary figures giving the total population of incorporated places of 10,000 or more population, and or counties, will be issued as soon as the District Manager is convinced that a complete count has been made. Final, detailed population figures will be issued from Washington later this year after returns have been tabulated by the Census Bureau's electronic computers.

The importance of a complete count was stressed by the District Manager. He pointed out that the population figures compiled in the current census must stand as official until the next Federal census.

"Representation in the U.S. Congress and the State Legislature is determined by the population count as ascertained in the census. Federal funds are allotted to States and State funds, in turn, are allotted to counties and municipalities on a per capita basis. So a short count means under representation in the Federal and State law-making bodies and under allotment in government funds. Thus, it is imperative that we have a complete count. The help of every resident of the area is needed to reach this goal," he said.

Lawmaker Seeks Inquiry Into Faculty Actions

CONCORD, N. C. (AP) — Some faculty members at state universities have allowed student to skip final exams in the antiwar protest. This has drawn a request by State Rep. James C. Johnson Jr. of Cabarrus County for an investigation.

He has written Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan asking an investigation of "reports that certain faculty members of the various universities have encouraged students to leave school for the purpose of civil disorders."

If faculty members and students want to demonstrate on their own time, using their own financial resources, "that's fine," Johnson wrote. "but when they do so at the taxpayers' expense, using taxpayers' buildings and facilities, that is quite another matter."

Told To 'Think Twice' Before
Trying Alaska

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolinians should think twice before trying to get one of those "publicized big-paying jobs in Alaska" triggered by the dramatic oil strike in that state.

The state Employment Security Commission had this word of advice Monday as it reported that most job openings in Alaska are going to local residents.

The commission said unemployment in Alaska exceeds 8 per cent, one of the highest in the nation.

It said the director of the Alaska Labor Department "reports a heavy traffic of newcomers to Alaskan employment offices during the first months of 1970" and amounting number of unscrupulous promoters selling worthless employment information on Alaska through the mail.

File Suit On Mickey Rooney

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Mickey Rooney is being sued for $7 million breach-of-contract damages by Universal Coverage Corp.

In the suit, filed Monday in Superior Court, the corporation contends it now holds rights to a contract Rooney once signed with Barbro Enterprises Productions Inc., to render services from April 20, 1968, to Dec. 31, 1970.

The court also was asked to prevent Rooney from working for anyone else and to compel him to account for his earnings.

Pearl Abandons
Touring 'Dolly'

HOUSTON (AP) — Pearl Bailey has left the touring "Hello Dolly!" company and says she will return "only if there are some changes in the cast and I get more money."

Miss Bailey said she would not open with the show as scheduled tonight in Milwaukee. The show's Houston stop ended Sunday.

Dismiss Charge Of Profanity

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — A profanity charge against one of the defendants in the Chicago Seven conspiracy trial has been dismissed by state District Court Judge Joe DuPree.

The judge ruled Monday that the city's profanity ordinance was too broad and vague and granted a motion for dismissal of charges against Rennie Davis, who was arrested in Fayetteville Saturday during an antiwar rally.

DuPree suggested the City Council rewrite the profanity ordinance. He said the issue never had been raised in court before.

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — There are a lot of Luddites around these days, said the data processing manager of a company whose production depends to a large extent on the healthy operation of its electronic computers.

It seems you can't tell a Luddite from any other worker, and so that makes them doubly difficult to defend against. Sometimes the only way you know

Majority Would Drop UNC-CH Final Exams

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A survey of students at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte shows 80 per cent choosing to take final exams instead of bypassing them as a form of protest against American involvement in Southeast Asia.

The survey showed also that only 20 per cent of the students were opting for a new plan allowing them to skip any of their final examinations and take instead the grade they currently have.

Also, a new constitution adopted by students and faculty members at the university will allow all segments of the school a voice in governing the institution.

The document call for the creation of a University Senate composed of 36 members — 10 from the faculty, 10 from the student body, nine from the academic divisions and seven appointed by the chancellor.

they're even on the premises is to note a succession of suspicious computer snafus.

Are Luddites from another planet? Judging from the fear of them expressed by EDP managers you might believe they're like little green men. But they are terrestrial, although their origins are in another continent.

The term is borrowed from the name given to a group of early 19th century English workmen who tried to delay the industrial revolution by smashing up the machines they believed were taking away their jobs.

Now, it is claimed, some workers want to do the same thing to the computer and the information revolution. How? One method is to hold an inexpensive magnet over the computer tapes, thus erasing the records thereon.

Modern tape reels may contain 100,000 records which one magnet can destroy in seconds. More than 900 reels were so destroyed by protestors angered

Alonzo Edwards In Hall Of Fame

RALEIGH (AP) — Alonzo C. Edwards of Hookerton, who died two years ago after many years of service as president and executive vice president of the State Farm Bureau, will be enshrined in North Carolina's Agricultural Hall of Fame next fall.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham announced Monday that Edwards had been elected by the hall's board of directors.

by Dow Chemical Company's participation in the Vietnam war.

The ease with which such sabotage can be accomplished is making EDP managers increasingly concerned with the security of their computer operations, whose success or failure can mean the same thing for the entire company.

Sabotage, in fact, is only one of their worries. Fire, fraud, student uprisings, improper ventilation, smoke, power failures, earthquakes and, simply, employee accidents, pose constant threats.

At a recent seminar on catastrophe prevention, held by the American Management Association, a Bank of America official described how his computer facilities are surrounded by bullet proof glass.

Guards allow only one person at a time into the foyer. The person seeking entrance finds himself in a small "mantrap," with the door behind and the door ahead closed tight. While thus imprisoned, he is examined by a television camera.

British Awards To Johnny Cash

LONDON (AP) — Johnny Cash, the American country and folk singer, has won four of the annual awards by the British Country Music Association.

He was named Monday night as entertainer of the year and male singer of the year, and honored for the year's best long-playing record, "At San Quentin," and the best single, "A Boy Named Sue."

Despite such precautions, some companies are finding that the damage often can be accomplished from within.

By ingeniously rigging a computer, five men stole more than $1 million from two New York banks. In another case, a programmer set up the computer to bypass his account when reporting overdrafts. He then cashed checks freely.

The possibility of power failures in wide areas of the nation this summer could cause damage not only to the machinery of computers but to the records stored in them, despite the growing use of backup power.

Such threats of absolute chaos to a company's operations are causing some EDP managers to be concerned enough to provide duplicate storage facilities in their own homes, where they feel they can personally keep an eye on them.

These measures do not, however, resolve the problem of computer protection in a society that many feel is growing more violent and destructive. The dupes can be rushed into service, true, but some damage already has been done.

Moreover, some EDP managers feel it will be a long, long time before they can relax. As one of them put it at the AMA conference: "The kids playing with drugs today will be your employees tomorrow."

VEHICLES REJECTED

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Nearly 23 per cent of the 1.5 million motor vehicles registered in Kentucky were rejected for mechanical defects in the state's 1969 mandatory safety inspections.

Indians Claim And Seize Private Land

CLEARLAKE OAKS, Calif. (AP) — A band of Pomo Indians has moved onto privately owned Rattlesnake Island in Clear Lake, claiming it has belonged to them for 1,000 years.

An Indian spokesman said it was the first time Indians had tried to take over private property. Previously they had claimed title to federal land, including Alcatraz Island in San Francisco Bay and Ft. Lawton, Wash.

The spokesman, Phillip White Eagle, said such activities result from a sudden realization that Indians have rights and "a broadening effort to call attention to that fact."

A spokesman for Boise-Cascade Corp., which owns the island and plans a recreational development on it, said public use of company land is welcome as long as it is not destructive.

The spokesman, Steven Moses, said the firm was willing to meet with Indian leaders to discuss ownership of the property.

Rattlesnake Island, one mile long and half a mile wide, is 116 miles north of San Francisco.

Irwen V. Morinda, leader of the group of 40 who moved to the island from a nearby reservation last Saturday, said the Indians can trace their ownership of Rattlesnake Island back 1,000 years. He said his ancestors were cheated out of the land. The property was a part of the mainland until the 1906 earthquake severed it and left it lying 100 yards off shore, Morinda said.

Capt. Howard Norton of the Lake County sheriff's department said no effort was planned to remove the Indians.

The Indians have erected a tent city and are working on more permanent buildings for what they have named El-Em Indian Colony. They have renamed the island Nu-Do-N, Indian for "Wooden Island."

Bound Over For Superior Court

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Three Charlotte Negroes have been bound over to the September term of the U. S. District Court in Raleigh following their arrests last week in Oxford on federal weapons charges and curfew violations.

Bonds for the three, Walter Washington, Theodore Albert Hood and Joseph Preston Goins, were reduced to $15,000 each by U. S. Commissioner William Elmore.

The three were arrested Thursday night in Oxford when highway patrolmen reported seizing seven sticks of dynamite and three weapons in the car. Bands of young Negroes had broken store windows in Oxford two nights before, following the gunshot slaying of a Negro near a white man's store.
