

Further Social Security Hikes Shaping Up

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to boost early and long-range increases in Social Security benefits—and taxes—has passed the House as a special Senate committee called for a major reform of the system to avoid sentencing retired persons to a twilight life of poverty.

The House-passed bill calls for a 5 per cent increase in benefits in 1971 with a provision for future increases geared to the cost of living.

The bill was sent to the Senate where considerable sentiment exists for further increases, a feeling bolstered by the annual report released today by the Special Senate Committee on Aging.

The committee said despite recent hikes in Social Security benefits about 7 million of the 20 million Americans age 65 or over live in or near poverty.

The report recommended a substantial boost in the minimum individual payment, now $64 a month, and further across-the-board increases.

The House-passed benefit increases mean that in 1971 pensioners would get a 5 per cent raise—from $196 to $205.80 for the average retired couple.

The wage base on which the Social Security tax is levied would increase from $7,800 to $9,000, meaning an increase in the maximum tax from $374.40 to $468, counting the increase already built into the law.

There are also better terms for widows, men retiring early and persons earning money after retirement.

The new cost of living provisions would be used first in 1973. Beginning the previous year, computations would be made on increases in consumer prices. If these amounted to as much as 3 per cent a year, benefits would be adjusted accordingly.

Corresponding computations would be made on wages, leading to increases in the taxable wage base, in units of $600.

The House was told the effect might be a $22,000 taxable base by 1990.

The House passed the bill for a 5 per cent 1971 benefit increase Thursday after surprising the sponsors by tacking on provision for future increases geared to the cost of living. An unusual combine of Republicans and liberal Democrats rolled up a 233 to 144 vote for the long-range increases—which also involve continuing increases in the payroll tax.

There is considerable sentiment in the Senate for further increases in benefits and also for tighter controls over the soaring cost of government-aided health programs like Medicare and Medicaid.

In this department the House voted standards on doctors' fees, encouragement for use of outpatient rather than institutional services, a beginning of controls over hospital charges and an option allowing elderly persons to enroll in comprehensive health care plans with government help.

South Vietnam Asserts Will Stay In Cambodia As Long As Necessary

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese military command said today that its forces will stay in Cambodia "as long as necessary" to destroy Vietnamese Communist forces and their sanctuaries and remove their threat to South Vietnam.

The announcement came in response to a question whether South Vietnamese troops would pull out of Cambodia by June 30, the deadline set by President Nixon for American troops to pull back to South Vietnam.

A spokesman for the South Vietnamese command recalled earlier statements by President Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky that South Vietnamese troops would stay in Cambodia as long as necessary to complete their mission and that they had the ability to stay there alone.

The spokesman did not indicate whether this mission includes aiding the Cambodian government in its fight against the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong. But Ky said during a visit May 12 to Neak Luong, Cambodia: "The future depends on a common plan with the Cambodians. If they really need our help we will stay here. We will stay until they feel they have the strength to fight the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese by themselves. Only then will we go."

The announcement today clashed with predictions of some White House officials last weekend that South Vietnamese troops would withdraw from Cambodia around June 30. But debate was continuing within the Nixon administration over whether the Saigon regime should be pressured to pull back.

Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker met for 80 minutes today with President Thieu. Spokesmen would not say what was discussed, but The New York Times reported from Washington that the Nixon administration had instructed Bunker and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, to work out a joint policy of troop withdrawal with Thieu's government.

The South Vietnamese military command also disclosed that it now has 40,000 regular troops operating in Cambodia, the largest number it has acknowledged. They include elements from eight of South Vietnam's 12 regular infantry divisions.

Arab Guerrillas Ambush An Israeli School Bus

By HAL MCCLURE
TEL AVIV (AP) — Arab guerrillas ambushed a school bus today, killing 10 Israelis, at least seven of them children, and wounding 21.

Jerusalem protested to the U.N. Security Council about the attack, which occurred near Israel's border with Lebanon. It did not ask for a meeting.

The Arabs fired bazookas and small arms about 15 feet from the bus as it headed towards a border school.

The wounded children, many of whom lost limbs, were flown to hospitals.

Israeli planes and ground troops raided Egypt's major naval base on the Red Sea during the night.

Aboard the ambushed bus, bloodstained satchels and lunchbags were strewn over the seats.

At least five of the dead were aged 6 to 8. Two teachers and the driver also perished. The driver was thrown 25 feet from the bus.

An Israeli soldier searching the area after the incident stepped on a mine and was wounded.

Two packs of Jordanian cigarettes were found next to four bazooka shells which had not been fired. Footprints indicated eight men were involved.

The bus had picked up 30-35 persons to take to school.

"This bus goes by here every day, so they must know about it," said one settler. "Also, five minutes earlier a taxi and a truck drove by and nothing happened."

The Foreign Ministry said the letter to the Security Council stressed "the gravity of this crime perpetrated against innocent school children."

The Israeli raiders hit Port Safage, 250 miles southeast of Suez and 87 miles south of Sharm el Sheikh, the nearest Israeli-held point on the Sinai Peninsula, a spokesman said.

All Israeli forces returned safely, he reported.

The spokesman gave no further details. Six days ago, Israeli warplanes sank an Egyptian destroyer and a missile boat in the Red Sea south of Safage. That attack was retaliation for the sinking of an Israeli fishing trawler by Egyptian missiles, the Israelis said.

The ambush of the bus and the killing or wounding of so many children was certain to touch off a public outcry in Israel for vengeance, and it was considered likely that the Israeli armed forces would retaliate with another major raid into southern Lebanon.

Accepted Beating Rather Than Killing

ACCOMAC, Va. (AP) — "I could have killed him several times . . . I had my gun out, but he was just a kid. I didn't want to kill him."

Those were the words Thursday of Accomack County Sheriff Adair W. Matthews from a bed at his home as he recovered from the effects of a bloody beating he said was inflicted by a 14-year-old auto theft suspect.

Matthews suffered a fractured left hand, a deep head cut, a bite on his arm and cuts on his arm, and face Wednesday in the encounter with the 5-foot-4, 75-pounder.

The sheriff said he took the boy from jail and drove him to a wooded area and then to a potato shed near Accomac where the youth said he had hidden some of the stolen auto parts.

The boy broke free and began running, Matthews said, and he fired his gun in the air and radioed for help. When he caught up with the youth, Matthews said, he was struck on the head with bicycle handlebars.

Matthews said blood was streaming down his face as he fired his gun in the air again. He caught the boy a second time, the sheriff said, and the boy hit him with a garden hoe.

He finally managed to straddle the youth on the ground and hold him until a state trooper answered the call for help, Matthews said.

Bids Approved

Low bids for construction of the two final replacement units at Rose High School were approved Thursday at a special call meeting of the City Board of Education.

The total low bids amounted to $113,709 for the two brick buildings which will comprise a total of 9,760 square feet of floor space—amounting to $11.65 in costs per square foot.

Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of the Greenville City Schools, revealed that low individual bids accepted by the board for the four major construction categories are:

—General construction: J. Leo Hawkins; $87,748.00
—Electrical: Wilson Rhodes Electric Company, $11,986.00
—Plumbing: Richardson and Skinner, $5,085.00; and —Heating: Kinston Plumbing and Heating Company, $8,890.00

Dr. Cleetwood noted that the construction bids for the two buildings, which are permanent types to replace the final two remaining temporary types at Rose, are "within reasonable range of our estimates."

Opposed To Timetable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today South Vietnamese troops should be free to remain in Cambodia once the Americans pull out after June 30.

He said it would be unwise to fix any timetable for the withdrawal of the South Vietnamese.

Interviewed on NBC's Today show, Laird said he feels the South Vietnamese should be permitted to enter the Cambodia sanctuaries if the North Vietnamese attempt to rebuild them.

Laird repeated his pledge and that of President Nixon that every American soldier will be out of Cambodia by June 30. But he said he didn't think it would serve any useful purpose "to have a firm, fixed rule" against sending or leaving South Vietnamese troops in Cambodia.

Laird called the allied thrust into Cambodia by U.S. and South Vietnamese troops "a great tactical success." He said it exceeded expectations as far as the destruction of enemy supplies and captured food was concerned.

As for the strategic success of the operation which began April 30, Laird said that would have to be judged on the progress of our Vietnamization program and the decrease in U.S. casualties.

"I think the strategic success will have great effect on American public opinion and a far greater effect on Hanoi," he said.

Earlier, top defense officials said South Vietnamese troops should be left in Cambodia in order not to give the North Vietnamese a clear track to rebuild their base system after June 30.

Ex-Hurricane Is Losing Power

MIAMI (AP) — Still losing her punch, Tropical Storm Alma stalled 100 miles south of Cuba early today as her drenching rains continued to pound portions of the Caribbean.

Forecasters at the National Hurricane Center said Alma was "just barely of storm intensity." The storm's top winds were estimated at 40 miles an hour, and conditions were not favorable for intensification during the day.

At 6 a.m. Alma's center was near Latitude 20.0 North, Longitude 80. West or about 400 miles due south of Miami. It moved very little Thursday night, and only slight changes in forward movement—possibly to the west or northwest—were anticipated today.

Alma developed in the western Caribbean and became a hurricane late Wednesday—the second Atlantic storm to reach hurricane strength during the month of May in this century.

It began dropping strength Thursday, and at noon the Miami hurricane center demoted Alma to a tropical storm. By that time it had pounded Jamaica and the Cayman Islands with heavy rain and winds up to 60 m.p.h.

But a looping action by the storm saved Grand Cayman, a tiny British resort island, from taking the full force of Alma's hurricane winds.

Farmer Suffocated In Tractor Accident

A 78-year-old farmer, George Robert Godley of Route 2, Greenville, suffocated yesterday morning after toppling from a farm tractor in a field off N.C. 43 between Shermidine and Calico.

Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey said the fatal accident occurred about 10 a.m. as Godley was cutting ground with a tractor pulling a disc harrow.

Investigators, who say they don't know exactly what happened,

Death Penalty For Father Of 4 In Rape Case

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — A father of four who had been going to night school to try and improve his working skills has been sentenced to die in the gas chamber. He was convicted Thursday of raping a 13-year-old girl.

Franklin Vance was sentenced to death after a jury of 12 men declined to recommend mercy.

Vance a former taxi driver, had been working for a laundry and going to computer school nightly. His wife worked as a bus driver to help pay the bills.

The 36-year-old Vance was charged with raping the daughter of a Winston-Salem woman. He was accused of entering the woman's apartment with a gun while the girl and her 11-year-old brother were watching television at about 2:15 a.m. the morning of Saturday, April 4.

pened, theorized that the tractor, in some way, got away from Godley and he toppled from the seat and was trapped between the rear of the tractor and disc and suffocated.

Harvey said Godley was found by a young boy who lived about a quarter-mile from the field in which the accident occurred.

He said the youth saw a cloud of dust coming from the field. After the dust continued coming from the same spot for about 20 to 30 minutes, the coroner said, the boy went to see what was causing the dust.

He found the tractor stalled, with its wheels spinning, had dug a hole in the field and was resting on its axle on the ground.

Harvey said the death was ruled accidental.

'Sentenced' To Recite Pledge

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Paul Hodson, 23, carried out the orders of the court on the steps of New Bedford High School Thursday by hoisting the American flag to the peak of the school flagpole and reciting the Pledge of Allegiance.

That's what Judge Samuel Barnett of District Court ordered him to do when he pleaded no contest Wednesday to a charge of disturbing a school rally by hauling down the American flag.

Judge Barnett placed the charge on file after learning that Hodson had fulfilled his assignment.

Bright Belt Is Urged Oppose Buyer Cutback

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C. (AP) —The Bright Belt Warehouse Association has been urged to "take every appropriate action" to prevent Imperial Tobacco Co. from withholding buyers from 16 flue-cured tobacco markets in the Southeast.

The Eastern Carolina Warehouse Association unanimously approved a resolution Thursday night opposing the British firm's decision and asking the Bright Belt group to oppose it.

The statement passed by the association at its annual meeting said Imperial's action would materially diminish the buying competition on the affected markets. The group said a threat to any market should be viewed as a threat to all markets.

The markets, eight in North Carolina, six in Georgia, and one each in South Carolina and Virginia, are all small markets with one set of buyers. Imperial said it would withdraw buyers from them as a matter of business necessity.

Warehousemen from 13 of the 17 markets in the Eastern Belt were present at the meeting. The eastern markets affected are Clinton and Robersonville.

Spokesman for those two markets said Imperial's action, confirmed by company officials last Friday, could be "the beginning of the end" for all one-sale and perhaps two-sale markets in the five-state flue-cured producing area.

Some 67 of the 94 markets in the area have only one sale, requiring one set of buyers.

The Eastern Association re-elected S. S. Edmondson of Rocky Mount as president. He told the association that a subcommittee from the industry-wide Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Committee has spent two months "hemming and hawing" over a marketing schedule for 1970.

Edmondson said a three-man committee will meet June 3 at Myrtle Beach, S. C., in an attempt to develop an opening schedule agreeable to all belts.

Edmondson represents warehousemen on the committee. Howard Cone of Universal Leaf Tobacco Co. of Richmond, Va., is the buyer member, and Frank Bryant of Boonville, N. C., represents growers.

The Eastern Association also named R. Harding Sugg of Greenville, vice president; J. A. Sharpe of Robersonville, assistant vice president, and Ray Thomson of Rocky Mount, secretary-treasurer.

County Commissioners Agree To Call For Pitt Hospital Bonds Vote

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Although the County Commissioners could not act on the Pitt Memorial Hospital Board's request for a referendum on the issuing of bonds for additions to the county hospital last night, they assented to let the people decide on the issue.

The Commissioners agreed to meet soon to officially call for a vote on whether the county could try to sell bonds of up to nine million dollars value for additional bed space and ancillary facilities.

Although they said it seems to be difficult to get an affirmative vote for anything that involves additional spending on the part of local government, the Commissioners agreed that the need for better hospital facilities is pressing.

Dr. Don Tucker, a member of the executive committee of the Hospital Board, which met with the Commissioners at the hospital, told the Board "not as a threat, but as a matter of fact" that several specialists definitely will leave Greenville, for better facilities elsewhere if this bond issue is not passed.

Dr. Tucker and several others also discussed whether there is any possible way to go ahead and start on the urgently needed 42-bed area above the emergency area of the hospital. This addition is expected to cost about $340,000. Improvements to the hospital building that will have to be done to bring it up to minimum fire code will cost about $62,000. These, demanded by an inspector who visited the hospital recently, include replacement of all hollow doors with solid core ones, laundry chutes which open into rooms rather than hallways, wire glass in all doors having glass, and mineral wool acoustical tile replacing the flammable cane-fiber tile used throughout the building now.

The Commissioners said the county has no money to begin work on the smaller project before a bond issue is passed, so the question was left unanswered, except for a comment that private donations would probably be the only possible solution.

It is believed that, if a bond issue is passed, help will be forthcoming from East Carolina University which likes to use community facilities for teaching, from Vocational Rehabilitation which plans to make Greenville a regional center, and from other private and non-private sources. Any donations, grants, or other financial assistance would decrease the amount in bonds that would have to be sold. The $9 million is a maximum.

Two representatives of Freedom White Associates, hospital planners of Charlotte, showed tentative plans for additions. B. L. Freeman sketched a rough outline of what the new building in front of the present hospital would look like. The ground floor would be extremely large and would hold ancillary facilities including pathology and radiology, departments and operating suites, and an intensive care unit and a lobby.

A plus-sign-shaped nursing tower of at least two stories would rise above the base floor and each would hold 50 beds and would have one nursing station. Up to eight floors could be added as need demands.

Kenneth Dews, a hospital board past chairman, said, "We've investigated every angle now and all the time the needs of

by CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Want to spend less time in the kitchen? Then "The No Time to Cook Book" by Roslyn Beilly (Signet paperback, New American Library) may help you. It has dozens of excellent quickly-assembled recipes for dishes ranging from appetizers to desserts.

Roslyn has good advice to give to anyone who wants to succeed in the kitchen without really cooking. "Short-order cooking," she says, "is not simply a matter of opening a few cans at seven minutes to six. It requires organization, advance planning and a well-stocked larder."

"If you want to quick-cook well," adds Roslyn, "you need up-to-date tools." Not just appliances like the electric blender and the toaster oven, but small gadgets like a garlic press, wire whisk, nut and cheese grater, food tongs, slotted spoon and kitchen scissors. Disposable cookware is on her list, too, as are aluminum foil and rolls or bags of plastic wrap.

Roslyn developed the quick recipes in her cook book because she loves to provide a variety of good food for her family and guests even when she has little time to spend in the kitchen. And busy this young woman keeps! She's worked on magazines, she's run her own antique shop and boutique and she's taught English several times a week to disadvantaged children. Right now she's in the interior decoration business.

Here's one of the best dessert recipes in "The No Time to Cook Book"—an orange cream cake. Says Roslyn, "I've been making this cake for special occasions for years, yet every time I soak the layers with the orange juice mixture, I'm convinced I've made a mistake. Don't worry—the cake absorbs the liquid without falling apart. And when it's thoroughly chilled and frosted with the cream, the cake is moist and absolutely delicious."

When we tried this cake in our own kitchen, we found it worked out just as Roslyn predicted. ROSLYN BEILLY'S ORANGE CREAM CAKE

1 sponge cake (9-inch tube pan size)
2 eggs, separated
1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind
1-1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon orange liqueur
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 teaspoon confectioners' sugar
Split sponge cake into 2 layers with a serrated knife. Place each layer on a large, flat plate.
Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Add yolks and continue beating. Add orange juice, rind, and sugar, beating all the time. Add liqueur.

Slowly spoon the orange juice mixture over the two layers, if any of the mixture runs down onto the plates, spoon it up and pour it over the layers again. Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate for at least 3 hours, preferably overnight.

At serving time, place one layer on a cake plate. Cover with whipped cream which has been mixed with confectioners' sugar. Place second layer on top and cover with whipped cream.

FASHION FORECASTS

by C. Heber Forbes

(Colors That Make You Look Younger)

To look younger, the best formula to follow is to wear medium color values in the costume but light color values at the neckline.

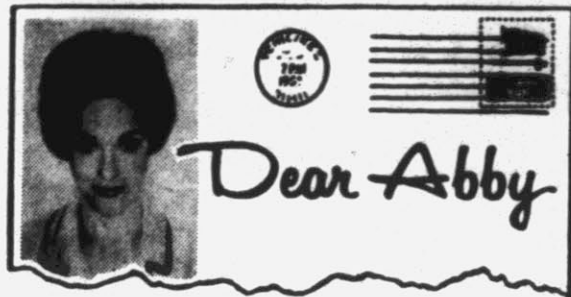

Color value and not color produces a youthful appearance! It is said that light blue is more youthful than dark blue. A soft light blue gives a woman a youthful look while a soft gray blue could make her appear more mature.

Slipshod use of color can give a woman a less attractive appearance. Such an effect may be brought about by drab, uninspiring tones with no color variation or relief.

The right colors can create a new magic world, developing great confidence in the way you appear, feel and act.

DEAR ABBY: How do I get rid of a guy I love very much but can't marry?

I am 25, single, and a Roman Catholic. The man I love is 34, Lutheran, divorced, and has two children. There is no way I can marry this man, but he won't leave me alone.

We have broken up at least a dozen times, but we always go back together again. The last time we broke up I told him to please leave me alone because I had to get him out of my system. Well, he moved into my apartment building, so now we see each other more than ever. I love him, but I won't give up my religion for him and I can't marry him. What should I do?
HELEN

DEAR HELEN: You KNOW what to do, what you need is the strength to DO it. A hopeless "love" should be treated as any other addiction. Quit "cold turkey." And talk turkey to that foxy Romeo who's not making it any easier for you.

DEAR ABBY: Three of us ride to work and back every day with a fellow worker I'll call "Muriel." Muriel is a widow and she proposed the arrangement to help pay for her car. It seemed a good deal for all of us, so we agreed. We pay her promptly every week. And very well!

Our problem is Muriel shops all the way home! At the end of the day we all want to get home to start supper, but she delays us daily from half an hour to an hour while she leisurely shops for this and that. If she would pick up an item or two once in a while, we wouldn't mind, but she takes her sweet time, pinching, poking, and studying each item while we sit outside in the car fuming.

We don't like to find other means of transportation, but if Muriel doesn't see this in your column and wise up—that's exactly what we intend to do.
ULCERS IN MEMPHIS

DEAR ULCERS: Since the driver is well paid, you have a legitimate gripe, so quit fuming and tell Muriel what's eating you.

DEAR ABBY: My family rents an apartment in the same building where an unmarried girl resides. This girl has male callers at all hours of the night, every night. The resident manager says he cannot take any action unless he receives a letter stating the activities of this angelic young thing.

I am hesitant to write such a letter because it could be legally sticky. Why should our family have to move? Please guide me as to how this female can be evicted sans expense to us.
INDY

DEAR INDY: In order to "evict" her, you will have to state your reasons (which, in this case, would be a reflection on her moral character). If she is a swinging amateur with lots of friends, she has as much right to live in that building as your family. And if she's a "professional" (as you suggest), you'd better be prepared to prove it, or you could have a lawsuit on YOUR hands.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "EATING MY HEART OUT" IN BIRMINGHAM: Don't worry. It won't last. Nothing does.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69706, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Warning Issued Offside Tactic At Soccer Game On Pottery Use

According to the North Carolina Extension Service, the Food and Drug Administration in February issued a warning to all consumers that continued use of some Mexican pottery or earthenware for food purposes could result in severe illness through lead poisoning.

The warning which has been conveyed by FDA to all State Health authorities was the first in a series of steps to remove the hazardous products from the market. The FDA action is based on its legal responsibility to protect the health of the U.S. consumer.

Lead is a cumulative poison, so it is essential to take all steps possible to see that lead intake by humans is kept to a minimum.

At present the warning applies only to pottery of Mexican origin. Pottery that shows a rough or dull glaze rather than a glossy one gives the most lead when mildly acid solutions are placed in it.

News Coverage Of Local Govm't Called The 'Key'

CHAPEL HILL (AP)—Director Irvin Aldridge of the North Carolina Department of Local Affairs says it is time to close the "credibility gap" between the public and government.

He spoke at the seventh annual North Carolina Press-Broadcasters Local Government Reporting Seminar.

"You and your coverage of local government are its keys to the public," Aldridge said.

He said, "Local governments are becoming increasingly aware that there is no profit in operating behind closed doors."

"Local officials who operate behind the closed doors of secrecy will not find public support available when they open those doors and ask for help," he added.

local chapter will also be installed during the affair by the guest speaker and installing officer, Bill Hobbs of Forest City, the new president of the North Carolina Jaycees.

Hobbs has been a Jaycee since 1963 and has held local posts of secretary, state director, vice president and president. He has served as a state chairman on two occasions and received the C. Durwood Walker Award for outstanding state chairman in 1966.

He was elected a state vice president in 1968-69 and was recipient of the Cou Brown Award for the most outstanding state VP and the Keith Upson Award for one of the ten outstanding VP's in the U.S.

The state president has been the recipient of the coveted distinguished service award on two occasions. He served as a regional national director prior to being elected to the state office. Hobbs holds a B.A. degree in English and History from Campbell College and M.A. degree in Social Science from Appalachian State University.

Over 200 Jaycees, wives, and guests are expected to attend the ceremonies. A highlight of the evening will be the honoring of Jaycees who will be retiring from the chapter after reaching the maximum age limit of 36.

All four of the "exhausted roosters" who will be leaving the organization are associated with North Carolina National Bank: Curtis Hendrix, Les Turner, Billy Ross and James Shirley.

Special guests of the local Jaycees who will be attending include representatives from the Chamber of Commerce, other civic organizations, and a number of past local Jaycee presidents.

A social period will precede the banquet at 7:15 and a dance honoring the new officers and guests will begin at 9:00.

Would Restore Cancerous Cells

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Ian MacPherson, head of the Department of Tumor Virology at Lincoln's Inn Fields Laboratories in London, held out the prospect that at some time cancer cells may be restored to normal instead of being killed.

The hint came in annual report of the Imperial Cancer Research Fund in which the scientist said cancerous hamster cells had been induced by drugs to return to normality.

Dr. MacPherson called it a "hopeful development."

Mrs. Roy Jackson returned Monday from Wilson where she was called Friday due to the death of her sister, Mrs. Marjorie M. Phillips. While there she was a guest of her niece, Mrs. Ernest Broadhurst and family. Opening lead: Deuce of ♣. South brought home his five heart contract when West failed to obtain a club ruff on the deal.

West opened the deuce of clubs and the king was played from dummy, East following with the three and declarer with the four. A small heart was led to the king and West was in with the ace. It was his desire to get East in at this point, so that he might obtain a club ruff.

With no clue other than the bidding to guide him, West chose to lead a small diamond in the hope that East's raise was based on the ace of that suit. South won the return and after drawing the remaining trump, he established dummy's club suit by ruffing out East's queen and conceded one more trick to the opposition—in spades.

The contract could have been defeated if West had shifted to a spade instead of a diamond when he was in. "There was no way I could tell you, partner," was East's comment at the conclusion of the deal. "I had no chance to signal."

This statement was not actually true. The lead directing convention provides that when a defender follows with an unnecessarily high card which is clearly not a natural come-on signal, he is calling for the lead of the higher ranking of the two remaining suits—not counting trumps. [The play of an unnecessarily low card in these circumstances requests the lower ranking suit.]

Since East can clearly read his partner's club lead as a singleton, he should signal with the nine of clubs of North's king. This is obviously not a request to continue clubs. It must therefore constitute a message that East can be reached in spades, the higher ranking side suit. When West gains the lead with the ace of hearts, he does not have to guess how to put his partner in.

Costs Go Up, Revenues Shrink

It is hardly any surprise that the projected surplus in the federal budget for this year has disappeared and a deficit is ahead. It also appears that next year will be a deficit spending year.

It was only a few months ago that President Nixon was saying that a balanced budget was crucial to control inflation. However, government officials now say that declining revenues and rising federal costs will result in a $1.8 billion deficit for the 1970 fiscal year and a $1.3 billion deficit for fiscal 1971.

The administration says it will not seek to increase taxes to cover the deficit, other than a new tax, one which would raise $1.6 billion, on leaded gasoline. A purpose of this is to reduce the additive in gas and thus eliminate it as a pollutant.

Now that the deficit has developed a surplus does not seem quite so necessary to the administration as it did a few months ago. In fact the president has said that the deficits would be permitted to avoid the possibility of a recession and higher unemployment.

Shortages In Special Fields

By BRYAN HANSLIP

RALEIGH — New aspects are emerging to the teacher shortage problem, that perennial worry for public education in North Carolina and the nation.

In the past the primary goal was simply to catch up with demand, to increase the supply of trained teachers at all levels. For the future it may be a matter of an oversupply in total numbers, but shortages in special fields and at certain grade levels.

The pressing need in North Carolina is for a larger supply of teachers in elementary grades and in early childhood education. Implementation of federal programs focused on the young child, and entry into a state-supported kindergarten program will accentuate the need.

"The chronic shortage of adequately prepared teachers in this area is expected to continue with no prospect of relief in sight," said Dr. J. P. Freeman, director of the division of teacher education in the State Department of Public Instruction.

Caps and gowns and commencement speeches soon will signal a fresh supply of graduates from North Carolina's public and private colleges and universities. A study on teacher supply and demand recently completed by Dr. Freeman estimates that the 1970 crop of graduates will include 6,680 young men and women qualified for a Class "A" certificate to teach in the public schools of the state.

About half of them will do so. Another one-fifth of the number will go to other states to teach. The remainder will enter other fields, continue education at the graduate level, get married, or otherwise take themselves off the market.

A look backward confirms the rising supply of trained teachers. There were 6,170 graduates prepared to teach in 1969; 5,230 in 1968; and 4,810 in 1967. Annual production of teachers is expected to reach 7,500 within the next five to seven years, Dr. Freeman said.

On the national scene, a recent study by the Bureau of Labor Statistics in Washington noted that the total supply of trained teachers will significantly exceed demand if recent entry patterns in the profession continue. The study estimated job openings for elementary and secondary teachers at 2.4 million between 1968-1980, with the output of trained teachers for the same period placed at 4.2 million — a 75 per cent oversupply.

State-supported institutions provide about two-thirds of the supply of trained teachers, with the remaining one-third coming from private colleges and universities. Of the estimated 1970 total of 6,680, public institutions will graduate 4,580, and private colleges will turn out 2,100.

East Carolina University at Greenville continues to lead in teacher education. It expects to graduate 1,103 teachers this spring. Only Appalachian State University at Boone, with 765, comes close. Campbell College at Brier Creek, with 263, is the leader in the private group.

Teacher demand is measured by the need for new teachers to replace those leaving the field by retirement, death or other causes; to meet needs brought on by increased student enrollment in schools; to relieve existing overcrowded classroom situations; to provide increased special instruction and services; and to replace inadequately trained teachers.

Demand for the 1969 school year totaled 5,122, including 2,627 at the elementary level and 2,495 at the secondary level.

The supply of trained teachers graduating from North Carolina institutions in 1969 totaled 6,170. However, only 3,113 of these — barely over 50 per cent — were employed in North Carolina public schools. A total of 1,207 about 19 per cent — went to work in schools outside the state.

Dr. Freeman pointed out that his study indicated the areas of greatest oversupply in the secondary field are men's physical education, social studies, home economics, music, English and business education. The demand is greatest in science, mathematics and foreign languages.

"A much more positive program of guidance" is the answer to problems of teacher supply and demand, Dr. Freeman said. Facts presented by the study should be used, he said, "by counselors, teachers, administrators and parents in advising boys and girls regarding their educational programs and occupational choices."

ployment.

This new line of reasoning may be sound, now that the economy has shown some indications of slowing and that unemployment is higher. Still, even with these signs, the rapidly rising prices and wages, which are so much a part of dollar eroding inflation, are still very much with us.

We cannot help but feel that, if the prevailing theories of federal budget surpluses being anti-inflationary are correct, it would be desirable if there were to be a surplus this year.

No Question But An Inquiry Is In Order

The Associated Press' startling article on a shocking increase in postal thefts has prompted a call for a Congressional probe.

Sen. Charles M. Mathias, R-Md., requested such a probe after The Associated Press wrote of millions of dollars in thefts of credit cards, merchandise, guns, stocks and cash from the mails.

Mathias said he doubted whether the government "can effectively lead a nationwide fight against crime when we apparently cannot cope with the infiltration of a few dishonest persons in the postal service."

There is no doubt that the dishonest ones should be weeded out and Congress should be looking into this problem.

Mao Is Happy In His Vision

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tse-tung has fought a hundred battles, but at 76 his apocalyptic vision of the world is undimmed. He surveys its violence and revolution and is happy.

In a rare 700-word statement distributed by Peking's New China News Agency Wednesday, Chinese Communism's leader spoke out on international issues for the first time since April 16, 1968, when he expressed support for American blacks.

Mao invokes the Vietnam war, the U.S. intervention in Cambodia, "the raging flames of the revolutionary mass movement" in the United States, Japanese "militarism," the revolutionary struggles of the Arabs and the peoples of North America, Europe and Oceania. All, he says, "are developing vigorously."

Then he says: "The danger of a new world war still exists and the people of all countries must get prepared. But revolution is the main trend in the world today."

This is Mao's meat. He reacts to it like a war horse, nostrils dilated, ears pricked up at the gunpowder smells and explosions of battle.

This near-ecstasy in the world's most famous surviving revolutionary has been kindled by the events in Cambodia and the riots, killings and mass demonstrations in the United States.

The Cambodian crisis was made for him. When the Cambodian parliament booted Prince Norodom Sihanouk out of his job on March 18, Mao had a windfall. An accident of time put the garrulous Cambodian leader in Peking. Mao adopted him as his own.

Sihanouk made common cause with the Communists of North Vietnam, Laos and South Vietnam. The Russians were caught flatfooted. Mao emerged as leader of Asian Communism. Moscow has not yet caught up.

Peking was the first to recognize Sihanouk's new government-in-exile, and Mao's statement expressed warm support for its political and military aims: the overthrow of the Lon Nol regime in Phnom Penh.

The Soviet Union has yet to recognize the Sihanouk government though, as Mao pointed out, 20 other nations did so in the first 10 days of its existence.

Mao unveils no new ideas, advances no solutions. His only advice—keep on fighting: "A weak nation can defeat a strong, a small nation can defeat a big."

Surprisingly, there is no mention of the Soviet Union in these 700 words on war and revolution. Has Mao softened his attitude toward his dearest Communist enemy? The chances are unlikely. Not after the polemics recently issued from Moscow.

What the statement reveals more than anything else is the state of Mao's mind. To conquer China he fought in the field and at the conference table for half a century. Only last year, he capped an exhausting personal struggle to purge the country of his political foes.

Most men who have lived and fought half as much would be ready to call it quits, to settle down in a rocking chair while younger men took over.

But for Mao, the road he began to tread so many years ago remains long and dark and deep. He will not be able to sleep until his dreams of revolution come true.

Strength For Today

LET'S GET BUSY

Those whose duty it is to manage the big affairs of the world often shy away from their responsibilities by the employment of one of two means, or sometimes both. They either say, "The time is not yet ripe for this measure," or they say, "We will refer the matter to a committee for study."

There is a time for doing everything, so undoubtedly it is often true that the time is not ripe for considering certain measures or for putting them into operation. But the world is about ten thousand years behind in its schedule as it is. With what we know about science we should have most of the diseases licked, we should have world peace, and be living in vastly greater comfort than we do. With our great power to produce we still have not learned the art of distributing what we make. With war so destructive we stall around and allow the power-seekers of the world to get us into a corner where we have to defend ourselves. The modern world is ridiculously ineffective. There are a thousand pressing problems which could be settled right now if we would settle them. They need no further study. What they need is action.

SOMETHING'S WRONG WITH THIS PICTURE!

By ART BUCHWALD

The Isolated President

WASHINGTON — In the past few weeks it has been revealed that President Nixon has become more and more isolated from his Cabinet. Interior Secretary Walter Hickel said he had only seen the President twice in 15 months. Other Cabinet officers claim Hickel was fortunate to see the President that many times.

I can now reveal that it is no accident that the President is unavailable to his Cabinet officers. There are definite safeguards set up by White House staff members to make sure the President does not come into contact with anyone in his Administration.

This is how it works.

At every White House gate in the guardhouse there are photographs of every member of the Cabinet. This is so the White House police can identify them immediately.

Whenever a member of the President's Cabinet shows up at any of the gates, the police have orders to alert someone on the White House staff that there is a Cabinet officer at the gate.

A White House summer intern is then dispatched to the gate to ask the Cabinet officer what his business is. The intern assures the officer he will transmit any input to the President.

If the Cabinet officer still insists on seeing the President, he is escorted into the White House and asked to wait in the Secret Service men's locker room.

A third assistant to a White House aide is then sent to the locker room to see if he can persuade the Cabinet officer to leave the White House without causing trouble. He tries to assure the Cabinet officer that Mr. Nixon is always happy to hear what anyone in his Administration has to say, and suggests that the best way for a Cabinet officer to communicate with the President is through his congressman.

If this fails, the Cabinet officer is then taken to the waiting room of the stenographic pool, where a secretary of one of the White House aides is sent to talk to him.

Occasionally a Cabinet officer will still insist on seeing someone in higher authority, and then he will be taken to the Navy mess in the White House to talk to one of the minor White House aides, while the aide is having lunch.

If this aide cannot persuade the Cabinet officer to leave, he is then escorted upstairs to Press Secretary Ron Ziegler's assistant.

By this time, the President's three chief aides, John Erlichman, Bob Haldeman and Henry Kissinger, have received word that there is a Cabinet officer in the building.

So they go on "Red Alert," and they push their desks in the hall outside the President's office in covered-wagon fashion to block the Cabinet officer from breaking in on the President. Each aide has a different reason why the Cabinet man cannot see Mr. Nixon.

If for some reason the Cabinet officer manages to hurdle over the desks and get by the three White House aides into the President's

Public Forum

(Public forum letters must be limited to 300 words or less).

To The Editor:

I would like to express my thoughts in regard to the letter written to the editor by Mr. Jerry Paul.

Mr. Paul said in his letter: "Mr. Nixon watched TV and waited for Billy Graham to tell him that God was on his side, instead of out in the streets, with the people that were crying, 'Give Peace a Chance!'". I would like to remind Mr. Paul that this nation was founded on the principles of God. If more people tried to be sure God was "on their side," or better yet that they were on God's side, we would not be faced with the terrible situation that our nation faces today. God allowed us to become a great nation, but He can also allow us to wither away if we forsake Him.

Mr. Paul also stated that: "Mr. Nixon and Mr. Agnew began their effort to identify the young as the enemy, and cause of the nation's problems." Mr. Paul also very pointedly inferred that this nation "hates its young." I would like for Mr. Paul to be more specific and cite when and where our President has ever made such a remark, or even inferred it.

The overwhelming majority of draft-age young people that I am acquainted with do not resent fighting for their country or the principles it stands for. No, Mr. Paul was standing with the minority in his views.

May I mention one more statement made by Mr. Paul in his letter? He stated: "It is not enough to say we will withdraw from Indo China, we must first admit that we were wrong." Mr. Paul, can you stand up to the faces of the mothers, fathers, wives, and children of the thousands of men that have died in Vietnam and say that they were wrong, that they died in vain?

Sincerely,
Sam A. Smith

But They Do Love Our Dollars

By ELMER ROESSNER

It's a popular sport around the world to denounce Americans, but in no nation is heard the cry, "Yank dollars go home!"

The 1970 Pick's Currency Yearbook, to be published in October, will show that United States paper money commands a premium over local currency in every country in the world except Britain and Australia.

In 24 countries, the unofficial or illegal prices paid for dollars is less than 5 per cent. But the black market premium soars to as much as 3,150 per cent in Poland, according to Pick's.

In other communist countries, where American-baiting is prevalent, the premiums are high, but in most of them buying or selling dollars is punishable with long jail terms.

Where Green Is Good

Pick's lists these countries, where the premium on the American green is high, with the premium in percentage: Bulgaria, 160.7; North Korea, 338.3; Hungary, 342.1; North Vietnam, 344.8; East Germany, 386.5; Mongolia, 400.0; Romania, 520.8; Czechoslovakia, 525.0; Cuba, 550.0; U.S.S.R., 605.0; Albania, 1,100.0.

The only non-communist countries in which is more than a 300 per cent premium on the almighty buck are South Vietnam, 362.5 per cent, and Guinea, 629.2 per cent.

The premium ranges from 100 to 300 per cent in Afghanistan, Ceylon, Seychelles, Pakistan, Burma and Yemen.

The Swiss franc commands

the same premium as do dollars.

Black Markets Everywhere

Pick's also reports, "Black markets of currency and gold continue to cover the globe and to challenge all principles of ethics, of intelligent monetary management and, naturally, of justice."

"Of our planets population, one per cent, or only those residing in Canada, Lebanon, Panama, Saudi Arabia and Switzerland still retained monetary freedom. In every other country some form of legislation prohibited or reduced the full enjoyment of at least some monetary transactions."

"In the United States, the Interest Equalization Tax and the compulsory restraints on foreign investments and bank loans continued along with the other black market provoking prohibition against any form of monetary gold ownership."

It also states: "Currencies have become rather

Salute To Girl Fridays

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — This year marks the 100th anniversary of the formal debut of one of the heroines of history—the American female secretary.

So let's salute the little lady, once known as "Miss Typewriter," then "Tillie the Toiler," and now the "Girl Friday."

Can you imagine a world without women? Well, that was virtually what the U.S. business office was like back in 1870, when eight young ladies specially trained by the YWCA here marched on the scene.

Male office workers, who wore celluloid cuff protectors and wrote with quill pens, nearly fell off their high stools laughing at these determined girls, prim in long black skirts, high-button shoes and mutton-sleeve white blouses.

But their laughter soon died. The girls proved remarkably efficient at the big, clumsy typewriters of that day.

"By the end of the Gay Nineties only 22 per cent of secretarial jobs were still in male hands," said Robert Murray, an executive with The Edison Voicewriter firm. "And today, of course, an overwhelming majority of the nation's 2½ million or more of the nation's secretaries and stenographers are women." This first great feminist victory in America is far from over. Forseeing a need of at least 200,000 additional secretaries a year for some time, Murray said.

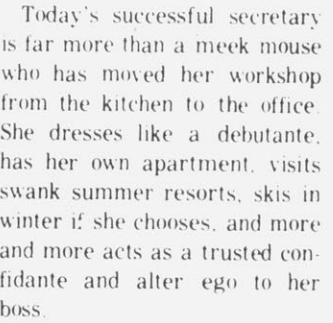

"Automation, far from making the secretarial role obsolete, has brought about an office revolution which has catapulted the 'Girl Friday' to an envied position," said Murray.

Today's successful secretary is far more than a meek mouse who has moved her workshop from the kitchen to the office. She dresses like a debutante, has her own apartment, visits swank summer resorts, skis in winter if she chooses, and more and more acts as a trusted confidante and alter ego to her boss.

"Between 1955 and 1969," Murray pointed out, "those earning over $100 weekly rose from five per cent to more than 30 per cent. Top secretaries command salaries of $10,000, and some move into the executive brackets."

"Almost one in five now enjoys a three-week vacation, six per cent get four weeks off."

Few actually marry their boss, but at least they don't have to sit on their hands at home waiting for the boy next door to propose.

stenographic pool, where a secretary of one of the White House aides is sent to talk to him.

Occasionally a Cabinet officer will still insist on seeing someone in higher authority, and then he will be taken to the Navy mess in the White House to talk to one of the minor White House aides, while the aide is having lunch.

If this aide cannot persuade the Cabinet officer to leave, he is then escorted upstairs to Press Secretary Ron Ziegler's assistant.

By this time, the President's three chief aides, John Erlichman, Bob Haldeman and Henry Kissinger, have received word that there is a Cabinet officer in the building.

So they go on "Red Alert," and they push their desks in the hall outside the President's office in covered-wagon fashion to block the Cabinet officer from breaking in on the President. Each aide has a different reason why the Cabinet man cannot see Mr. Nixon.

If for some reason the Cabinet officer manages to hurdle over the desks and get by the three White House aides into the President's

Nixon: Good Speechwriter And Good Performer

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — It is 9:45 on a warm Friday evening and the White House is swaddled in lights. Outside its gates, in restless procession, come the first of the thousands massing in the capital to proclaim dismay about Cambodia, Vietnam and Kent State.

Inside, wearing a blue suit and light television makeup, Richard Nixon waits in the Red Room, preparing to face reporters and a TV audience of 56 million in the 10th formal press conference of his presidency.

It is the events of the week, the welling up of dissent that followed his Cambodian decision, that prompted this news conference. Much has gone into Nixon's preparation for it.

At 10 p.m. Nixon strides into the glittering East Room, appearing tense and apprehensive. He knows that this night, the questions will be tough.

And they are, from the very start.

"Mr. President, have you been surprised by the intensity of the protest of YOUR decision to send troops into Cambodia?"

Mr. President, do you believe that YOU can open up meaningful communications with this college age generation and how ... Mr. President, what do YOU think the students are trying to say?"

Nixon rocks forward slightly. He looks directly at his questioner, hands clasped tightly behind as though he were supporting himself on an invisible rail. His voice sounds husky and has a slight quaver.

The answers are fluent and the sentences parse. None of the questions surprise him. Each had been anticipated by his staff and posed in memos the President has been studying for two days.

Nixon is not at his best in small talk with strangers, but he's a pro when it comes to speeches and press conferences. He crams for them like a lawyer about to argue a case before the Supreme Court. The emphasis is on detailed planning.

Nixon chose to make his Cambodian decision known with a televised speech on April 30, and to respond to the criticism in the press conference on May 8.

How he went about it, provides a good insight into the workings of the 37th President.

He began to think about the scope of the Cambodian speech, formulating ideas, on April 22 after meeting with the National Security Council.

"He called for option papers," says an aide. "That weekend he went to Camp David. Henry Kissinger flew there on Saturday with various options." Kissinger is the President's top assistant for security affairs.

On the presidential yacht the next day and later with the NSC, Nixon discussed the Cambodian situation again.

"The decision to execute was made on Tuesday the 28th," the aide says. "He had to make it then to get started on United States support for the South Vietnamese, to get troops deployed."

Once the decision had been reached, Nixon went into seclusion. In the Executive Office Building next door to the White House—in a large room filled with official gifts and various little elephant statues—the President started dictating into a machine, referring occasionally to a list of major points drawn up by Kissinger.

He'd sit there in a gold-clad covered chair, feet up on an ottoman, tapping on the arms with his reading glasses, dictating, occasionally wandering across the street to work in the sunny rose garden.

This time, the yellow legal pads he prefers were used only for the changes he'd make as each successive draft was typed by Rose Mary Woods, his personal secretary.

She knows the way he likes to "see" a speech, and carefully puts each important phrase on a separate line.

"It was dictate, look, think, talk," says the aide. "On Wednesday he went to bed after midnight and got up at 5. He dictated awhile and went back to bed."

The draft he delivered that night was the eighth—and each word was his own. Nixon probably writes more of his own speeches than any president since Woodrow Wilson.

This is not to say that he hides his speechwriters, as Harry S. Truman did with Clark Clifford and Dwight Eisenhower with Bryce Harlow. But the biggest speeches of his life—the acceptance speech in Miami Beach and the inauguration speech—were pure Nixon.

William Safire, one of the three speechwriters, says Nixon is a considerate man to work for because he's a speechwriter himself. But he's also a bug on accuracy.

Safire saw the Cambodia speech a half hour before the President went on the air. In it was a reference that he was speaking from the room where Woodrow Wilson wrote of the "war to end wars."

"I'm a student on the derivation of political phrases," says Safire, who wrote a book on the subject. "I knew Wilson was closely associated with the phrase, but nobody ever saw him actually write it."

"Here the President was about to go on the air with an important speech and I remember this nitpicking item. I debated with myself for a minute, then went over to the Executive Office Building and said 'Excuse me, Mr. President. Probably nobody will notice, but we haven't been able to prove Wilson wrote that.'"

Nixon asked whether the text had been released. Safire said it had. The President said he would think about it.

When he got to that part on the air, Nixon changed the wording to "in this room, Woodrow Wilson made the great decisions which led to victory in World War I."

Not only is the President a good speechwriter, he's also a cool performer. Both cameras used for the Cambodia speech went on the blink just before air time.

"In a few minutes, if this keeps up, we're going to do a radio show," TV advisor Roger Ailes told the President. Nixon laughed and asked, "Can anything else go wrong today?"

The speech started with one camera, and midway through the second came on. There was nothing to indicate production problems to the viewer.

Patrick Buchanan, who moonlights on some of Vice President Spiro Agnew's speeches, is considered the conservative on the

Quebec Charts Pollution Fight

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—The Quebec government is ready to spend $600 million in three stages during the next 15 years to fight water pollution, says municipal affairs minister Robert Lussier.

The first stage would cost $250 million and would begin during the fiscal year 1970-71. The second stage would take place between 1976-81 and the third stage between 1981-85.

Earth-Shaking Causes Claimed

MANILA (UPI)—The Ibanags, a population group of the northern Philippines, believe mini-skirts and see-throughs are among the causes of recent earthquakes that hit parts of the country. Other causes were given as "men's materialism," violence and tendencies to cheat fellow-men." One Ibanag elder also said the quakes were "signs of God's wrath over the present-day youth's discourtesy, vandalism and unsavory acts."

Buchwald . . .

office, he still is not guaranteed that he will see the President.

Crouching behind the door for just such an emergency is Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, the only Cabinet member who has access to the President. The attorney general will try to tackle the Cabinet officer before he gets to Mr. Nixon's desk. If Mitchell fails to wrestle him to the floor, then the Cabinet officer is granted a five minute audience with the President of the United States.

Nixon speechwriting team and Pat Price is the liberal. Safire describes himself as "a centrist and opportunist."

"Sometimes the President will have the liberal do the conservative speech, sometimes the conservative will do the liberal speech," Safire says. On the welfare reform speech, a major point was to emphasize that, in order to receive federal money, a recipient would have to be willing to take a job or job training. That speech was handed to Buchanan, the conservative.

"We may give the President two pages and he'll use one line," Safire says. "I drafted the radio speech on inflation. He had said 'I want a speech for the housewives. I sat down with Arthur F. Burns and Paul McCracken (the chairmen of the Federal Reserve Board and the Council of Economic Advisers) and wrote a speech. He said, 'That's not what I wanted,' and outlined what he did want."

The President, Safire says, always explains what, if anything, he finds wrong with a speech. "After a speech is over," Safire says, "I'll get two calls. One is from my mother, the other is from the President."

In preparing for news conferences, the speechwriters submit memos for the President on what questions are likely to be asked—and they are in question form, right down to the "Sir" that begins such questions. These memos also come from departments and agencies throughout the government and are finally drawn together by Buchanan.

With each question is the answer, taking less than one page. But never does the President answer exactly as it's put down.

In the May 8 news conference, for instance, Nixon was asked about unemployment hitting the 4.8 percentage point. Nixon answered, "In order to keep it in perspective, it should be noted that in 1961, 1962, 1963, 1964 and 1965 the average unemployment was 5.7." The figures had been researched in advance by the speechwriters, but the President rephrased and expanded on the memo.

The President got a laugh from his audience—and joined in himself—when he was asked about the now-famous letter from Interior Secretary Walter Hickel. Nixon mentioned he had picked Hickel because he was outspoken and courageous and added that the leaked letter "was the fastest mail delivery I have had since I have been in the White House."

Nixon had made that crack earlier and the memo-writers picked it up, incorporating it in their briefing forms.

The President flew to Camp David with the memos the day before the news conference and stayed there until a few hours before air time. His aides all agree that he has a memory that approaches the photographic. If he's given a five-point answer, he remembers all five points.

Such homework stands him in good stead. But every once in a while, even a corporation lawyer gets caught with his memory down.

On the presidential campaign, Nixon was in the Midwest, fielding questions and honing the stand-up-without-rostrum technique he uses as President.

"How do you feel about fire ants?" a would-be supporter asked him. "You got me there," the candidate replied.

Teachers Face NEA Expulsion

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's black and white teachers organizations face possible expulsion from the National Education Association (NEA) if their boards can't iron out differences blocking their merger this weekend.

The boards of the predominantly-white North Carolina Association (NCEA) and the predominantly-black North Carolina Teachers Association (NCTA) will meet in Raleigh Saturday to try to work out an agreeable plan for merger July 1.

The NEA regional director in Atlanta, Jim Williams, said in a telephone interview Thursday that if the groups fail to settle their differences before July, he "seriously doubts they will get an extension." The national organization set the July 1 deadline.

He said the NEA could suspend or expel either or both associations if they fail to reach an agreement. NEA officials will set in on the negotiations Saturday.

Only two other states — Mississippi and Louisiana — still have racially separate teacher associations. The white groups in both of those states have been expelled by the NEA.

The NCTA broke off merger proceedings several weeks ago after the NCEA opposed the NEA's expression of support for a court-ordered desegregation plan for the Charlotte-Mecklenburg County schools.

The NCTA helped file the original suit that resulted in the court-ordered plan which is now under appeal to the U. S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals.

NCTA officials say they must now have more guarantees that the black minority will not be overruled on racial issues if they merge.

A liaison committee for the two associations met last week but failed to resolve the problems.

The NCTA is asking that any decision by the merged association require a two-thirds majority of either the merged board or the merged Delegate Assembly or ruling body.

E. B. Palmer, executive secretary of the NCTA, said recently, "We want to prevent a thing like the Charlotte incident from ever happening if we merge. We want to prevent any pronouncements on racial issues where the white majority by a simple majority vote can say something for the entire merged association that will not reflect the majority viewpoint."

N.C. Klan Almost Dead

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — After achieving a height of glory four years ago, the Ku Klux Klan in North Carolina now is "almost nonexistent," the Race Relations Information Center reported Thursday.

Klan membership has dipped to not more than 600 in the Tar Heel state, said Dwayne Walls, the Charlotte (N.C.) Observer reporter who prepared the report. It was at least 6,000 four years ago, he reported.

"The potential for Klan-inspired violence," Walls said, "has developed into a purely inter-cine threat as rival klans plunder and steal from another."

Cutting into Klan interest was the 1968 presidential campaign of former Alabama Gov. George Wallace and the competition of other right-wing organizations such as the John Birch Society and the White Citizens Councils, Walls said.

Reminds School Boards 'Belong To The Public'

"Public school boards belong to the public and are responsible to the public," Dr. Raleigh Dingman, Executive Secretary of the N. C. Association of School Boards told those attending the annual study course of the Greenville PTA Council last night.

Dr. Dingman was guest speaker at the public study session held at the Pitt County Courthouse. He chose "School Boardmanship" as the theme of his lecture. Explaining that the State Board's duty is to set school policies, he observed that the duty of the local board is constantly to appraise the school program and keep the public informed about school needs.

Dingman presented the case for an elected school board versus the case for an appointed one. He observed that 85 percent of school boards in North Carolina are elected. By state law, all County School Boards are elected. Summing up the situation, Dr. Dingman said "No one way is best. It is the attitude and participation of the public that insures a good school board."

He noted that a school district in which there is an alert public interest can keep an excellent board with almost any type of selection. "On the other hand," he said, "if the community is apathetic and negligent, no

Traditional Service Planned For Sunday

The annual observance of Memorial Day, dedicated to the memory of American War dead, will be held on Sunday, beginning at 3:30 p.m. on the grounds of the American Legion Home on St. Andrews Street.

The traditional Sunday service, held each year on the Sunday preceding Memorial Day, May 30, sponsored by Pitt County American Legion, Post No. 39, will feature music, a firing squad and a speaker during the afternoon services.

Gold Star mothers and fathers are requested to attend the ceremonies as honored guests.

Beginning at 3:30 and lasting for approximately half an hour, members of the Rose High School Band will present a selection of favorite American patriotic songs and military marches.

A firing squad composed of members of Company B, 167th Military Police Battalion of the National Guard, will render a military salute to the flag. Chuck French, Rose High School band member, will be the bugler for this occasion.

Keynote speaker for Memorial Day services will be Rev. Dana Hunt, pastor of the First Christian Church of Greenville. The Commander of Post 39, William H. Moore, will preside over the program.

The public is invited to attend the annual Memorial Day observance. Refreshments will be served following the ceremonies.

Graduation For Kindergarteners

The Trinity Free Will Baptist kindergarten graduation exercises will be held tonight and on Saturday night.

Mrs. R. P. Shoe's homeroom graduation will begin tonight at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Al Davis' homeroom graduation will take place on Saturday beginning at 8 p.m.

The program theme for both nights will be the "Sound of Children." Mrs. Leroy Sasser, music teacher for the year, and Mrs. Eloise Jackson will play the piano for the programs.

The program will emphasize the training of the heart, the head and the hand and will include solos, duets, scripture readings, stories, poems, quartets and the toy band.

The girls of both classes will be dressed in evening gowns and the boys in suits.

Salutes AF ROTC Unit

The President of East Carolina University saluted members of the Air Force ROTC and told them that a majority of people in the United States appreciate the job they are doing.

Speaking at the annual ROTC spring Formation and Review at ECU, Dr. Leo Jenkins told the gathering of military personnel and cadets that their job is vital to the welfare and safety of the citizens of the United States.

"Nobody loves you but those of us who appreciate what you are doing to help keep our country strong," he said. "We appreciate you because we know that you, and people like you all over the country, have shouldered the responsibility of protecting us from those who would destroy our way of life."

A total of seventeen awards were presented at the Formation and Review for military and scholastic excellence.

Set Symphony Soc. District Meet Here

One of five state-wide district meetings of the North Carolina Symphony Society, Inc., will be held June 2 at 7:30 p.m. in Greenville.

The meeting, a district dinner scheduled for the Three Steers Restaurant at the Town House Motor Lodge in Greenville, is for all trustees, board and chapter officers and other area members in the northeastern part of North Carolina.

To Graduate At Wesleyan

ROCKY MOUNT — Three Greenville students, Mrs. Susan Cochran Nickens, Carol A. Reid and Rudolph Griffith, are scheduled to graduate Sunday from North Carolina Wesleyan College here.

Degrees will be granted to 121 candidates at the college's seventh commencement exercises to be held in Everett Gymnasium Sunday at 4 p.m.

Mrs. Nickens, wife of Shelton Nickens of Rt. 3, Greenville, will receive a bachelor of arts degree in English with department honors. She is a frequent Dean's List student.

Miss Reid, who will receive a bachelor of arts degree in English, is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Dermont J. Reid of 114 Lord Ashley Dr.

Griffith, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Griffith of 1808 E. Fifth St., will receive a bachelor of arts degree in history.

One In 5 Narcotic-User

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—One out of every five youths attending secondary school in Quebec City uses narcotics, a federal commission inquiring into the use of drugs was told by a police officer.

Lieut. Eleazar Bertrand of the city police youth service also told the commission there was a serious lack of cooperation "not only from the parents but also at the level of medical attention" in dealing with the problem.

"Some hospitals in the city refuse to treat the children who are seriously involved in the use of drugs," he said.

been promoted to sergeant while assigned to Headquarters Company, 3rd Battalion, 11th Infantry, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) at Ft. Carson, Colo.

Jerry Pierce, assistant director of development; and Gil Daugherty, recently named director of community services, a post formerly held by Pierce, are the two symphony staff members who will be conducting the meeting.

"We will announce plans for the 1970-71 concert season," Pierce said in referring to the agenda for the meeting. "The meeting will also give us an opportunity to hear first-hand what the communities are doing to promote the symphony and to give all members of the society—not just the officers—an opportunity to participate by offering suggestions and criticisms," he added.

In addition to trustees, board and chapter officers, anyone who purchased a 1969-70 season membership in the Symphony Society is considered a member and may make reservations to attend the June 2 meeting. Those in the Greenville area should contact Pitt County chairman Walter C. Faulkner.

Pierce indicated that the five district meetings being held across the state is a new move to insure greater communication between the officers and members of the Symphony Society.

Grad Given Annual Award

FARMVILLE — Miss Beverly Ann Willoughby, valedictorian of the graduating class at the H. B. Sugg High School here, has been given the annual award of the Reader's Digest Association.

The award is given to students, who by their successful schoolwork, give promise of attaining leadership in the community.

Miss Willoughby will receive an honorary one-year subscription to Reader's Digest in any one of its 13 language-edition she chooses, and a personal certificate from the editors in recognition of past accomplishments and in anticipation of unusual achievement to come.

The Reader's Digest Association presents awards to senior high schools throughout the United States to the highest honor student in the graduating class.

Miss Willoughby is the daughter of Mrs. Mozella Willoughby of 305 Acton Place, Farmville.

Cubs Stage Own Regatta

Cub Scout den six of Troop 200, sponsored by the Moose Lodge, held their annual sail boat regatta Wednesday afternoon at the home of den mother, Mrs. Doris Harrington.

Using boats the Cubs had built during their meetings, eight scouts participated in the event with Jay Wood winning first place and Steve Smart finishing second. A back yard pool was used for the race.

Other Cubs who took part in the race were Roy Whaley, Lee Torrence, Herman King, Martin Tucker, Walt Gray and Billy Woodard. Den chief, Mike In-dorf, also was on hand for the activities.

Working with Mrs. Harrington throughout the Cub meetings was Mrs. Charlie Ann Whaley. The Wednesday meeting was the last before the summer vacations begin. Regular meetings will begin again around September.

Annual Banquet By Honor Fraternity

Tau chapter of Phi Sigma, Pi men's national honor fraternity at East Carolina University, recently held its annual Founder's Day Banquet and heard an address by Dr. Raymond Farnes, a brother of Tau chapter and assistant professor of textiles and physics at N.C. State University, Raleigh.

Dr. Farnes, who served Tau chapter as its president during his student days at ECC, received the Outstanding Alumnus Award.

Graduating seniors were recognized and awards were presented to members. Jim Hicks of Winston-Salem was awarded the Todd Scholarship, given each year to the outstanding rising senior brother.

William Crisp, Norman Masters and Steve Howell were awarded Service Keys for outstanding service to Tau chapter and Steve Howell was recognized as the most outstanding senior.

Officers of the fraternity for the 1970-71 school year were also installed at the banquet. The new officers are: president, Jim Hicks vice president, Ron Eggars; treasurer, Carl Joyner; corresponding secretary, Joe Williams; recording secretary, Ed Harper; historian, Ken Wright; reporter, Mike Grady; and advisor, Dr. Richard C. Todd.

Pilot Strings Plan A Sunday Premiere

The world premiere of a new composition for string orchestra and grade-school chorus has been scheduled by the East Carolina University Pilot String Project.

"The Nightingale and The Moon" is the result of a commissioned composition by the ECU School of Music for the Pilot String Project. Dr. Gregory Kostek, composer-in-residence at ECU, is the composer whose work is receiving its initial hearing Sunday afternoon at 3:00 p.m. in the School of Music Recital Hall.

The text of "The Nightingale and The Moon" is taken from Milton's "Paradise Lost", Book IV. The chorus both speaks and sings while the orchestra, which is composed entirely of strings, uses special effects—pizzicato, harmonics, ponticello, tremolo, trills, striking—the strings, in addition to the normal style of playing.

Dr. Gregory is the winner of many prizes for his compositions. Recently he was the recipient of the Queen Elizabeth of Belgium International Composition Contest. He received a large cash award and two solid silver medals as winner of this international prize.

The Pilot String Project, directed by ECU music faculty member Rodney Schmidt, is now completing its second full year of operation in Greenville with some 120 pupils enrolled. It is a cooperative venture between ECU and the Greenville City Schools. Young children learn to play string instruments in this program, in a method involving both instruction in school and assistance from a parent who learns to play along with the child in the home.

Group numbers, solos, duos, and quartets will be featured as well as the premiered composition. Scheduled to be heard in group playing are such numbers as "Long, Long Ago", "America The Beautiful," and "Frere Jacques." Solos and duos will be simple forms of sonatas, minuets and concertos by Bach, Vivaldi, Seitz, Kuchler and Dancia. Quartet selections will include the "Austrian Hymn" a "Gavotte", a "Contredance" and "She'll Be Comin' Round The Mountain." This concert is open to the public and admission is free.

Retiring Red Cross Secretary Honored

RED CROSS WORKERS. . . Miss Tabitha DeVisconti, A.B. Stallworth, and Mrs. Pattie Wooten were recognized last night for their years of service to Red Cross efforts in the county.

Mrs. Walter F. Taylor, who is retiring as executive secretary of the Pitt County chapter of the American National Red Cross, was honored at a dinner given by her fellow Pitt Countians last night.

Held at the Greenville Golf and Country Club, the banquet was attended by Red Cross workers from throughout the county and several National Red Cross officials were also present.

Miss Elizabeth Roper from Southeast Area Headquarters in Atlanta presented a plaque for distinguished service to Mrs. Taylor and E. Hoover Taft Jr., a past member of the National Committee, presented her a check representing donations from people from all over Pitt County and from several outside the county.

Miss Tabitha DeVisconti of Farmville was given a certificate of appreciation by past chairman, Joseph S. Moye, for her 28 years' service on the Red Cross Board and her volunteer work during the same number of years.

A.B. Stallworth was remembered for his 28 years' service as treasurer of the county chapter.

Mrs. Pattie Wooten was given a framed copy of the Pitt County chapter's original charter. She was one of the original organizers in 1917 and her signature appears on the document.

It was announced that Mrs. Ruth Taylor would be Mrs. W.F. Taylor's successor. Her duties will begin July 1.

Of the ten chairmen who have served since 1942, when the chapter was formally organized and Mrs. Taylor began work, those present at last night's banquet included Joseph S. Moye, E. Hoover Taft Jr., James S. Ficklen Jr., and Dr. Walter H. Pott.

In the receiving line during the social hour before the dinner were Mrs. Taylor, her daughter, Mrs. R.B. Holt of Silver Spring, Md., Mr. and Mrs. Joe Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Stallworth, Miss Devisconti, and Mrs. Wooten.

The invocation for the buffet dinner, served by the Service League, was given by the Rev. John Taylor. Special guests included Mrs. J.H. Boyd Sr., Mrs. Taylor's sister-in-law with whom she lives; Mrs. Charles Horne Sr., a long-time Red Cross volunteer; Miss Mildred Patterson, regional director of service to military families, from Atlanta, Ga.; Miss Elizabeth Eggleston of Raleigh, Red Cross nursing representative for Eastern North Carolina; Mrs. Mary Colvin, Red Cross field representative for Eastern North Carolina, and Mrs. Grace Gauthrop of Jacksonville, Onslow County executive secretary.

Mrs. James T. Little and Mrs. James S. Ficklen planned the dinner and county chairman, Joe Clark, served as master of ceremonies.

Jenkins To Be Church Speaker

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of East Carolina University, will be the guest speaker at the Holy Trinity United Methodist Church Sunday at the 11 a.m. service.

The remarks of Dr. Jenkins will be centered on a report of the General Conference of the United Methodist Church held in Saint Louis, Mo., April 19-24.

He was one of eight lay delegates attending the special session of the international conference from the Raleigh Area of the North Carolina Annual Conference.

The services will be held in the library of the Aycock Junior High School, located on Red Banks Rd.

The public is invited to attend the service.

Surgeon Will Be Group's Speaker

A surgeon from Southport is scheduled to visit the Greenville chapter of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International for a speech Saturday night.

Dr. Luke Samson, a member of the Southport Methodist Church, will talk about his ministry of witnessing to Christ in his practice and in his community.

He will speak at 7:30 p.m. in the Masonic Temple located at 1119 South Charles Street. All interested persons are invited to attend regardless of membership in the organization.

Edenton Tour Is Now Confirmed

The tour to Edenton, Roper, Plymouth and Creswell by the Pitt County Historical Association has received sufficient participants to make the trip possible, according to Dr. Ralph Reeves, chairman.

In confirming the trip, Dr. Reeves noted that departure time for the group would be at 8 a.m. at the local bus station in Greenville.

The deepest oil well drilled in Texas to Jan. 1, 1969—25,340 feet—was a dry hole.

Graniteers Nip Pepsi-Cola, 10-9

The Graniteers scrambled through an eight inning game to take a 10-9 victory over Pepsi-Cola yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League.

The Moose lead the league with a 3-0 record, while the Graniteers are now 3-1. They are followed by Pepsi, 2-2. Integon and the Exchange, both 1-2, and the Elks, 0-3.

The Graniteers moved into the lead in the first inning. James Weeks led off with a double and stole third. He scored on an error on the play.

In the top of the second Pepsi scored twice to take a 2-1 lead in the game. Mark Conway reached on an error and Dana Kendrick was safe on another. Steve McClanahan reached on a fielder's choice, loading the bases. Mike Shank was hit by a pitch and Ricky Avery walked, forcing in Conway and Kendrick.

In the third, the Graniteers scored twice and went back in front, 3-2. Weeks doubled and scored on an out by Jim Wilkerson. Macon Moye walked and stole second. He scored on a double by Joel Clark.

But then, in the fifth, Pepsi came up with three to move back out by 5-3. Roy Odum walked and Conway singled. Kendrick got a hit, bring Odum across. A passed ball let Conway score, and a wild pitch brought Kendrick in.

The Graniteers picked up a pair in the bottom of the sixth to tie it up and force the extra innings. Jay Chenier singled and was safe at second on an error on a fielder's choice on Steve Manning's grounder. Chris Moye walked and a single by Weeks brought Chenier and Manning over to tie it at 5-5.

It stayed that way until the top of the eighth when Pepsi pushed over four runs for a 9-5 lead. McClanahan walked and Shank reached on an error. Lee Shearin singled, loading the bases, and Ricky Avery doubled, scoring both McClanahan and Shank. Danny Bowman followed with another double, scoring Shearin and Avery.

The Graniteers refused to die, however, and stormed back in the bottom of the inning to take the win. Weeks led off with a single and Jim Wilkerson followed with a double. Moye singled, scoring Weeks, and Clark got a single to score Wilkerson. Kyle Wills doubled, driving in Moye, and Chenier got a single. Steve Manning rapped a double, driving in both Willis and Chenier with the tying and winning runs to end the game.

Shearin was the only Pepsi player with more than one hit, rapping out two.

For the Graniteers, Weeks and Wills each had four, while Moye and Manning had three each and Chenier had a pair.

Tim Ellenberger, an outstanding member of the East Carolina Wrestling team, was honored Wednesday with the Christenberry Award as the Outstanding Senior Athlete at East Carolina. The award was presented at a banquet.

Ellenberger Is Award Recipient

Tim Ellenberger of Glenshaw, Pa., probably the top wrestler in East Carolina University history, is the 1970 recipient of the Christenberry Award, the highest honor given to an ECU athlete.

Presentation of the award, given in the name of former East Carolina coach John Christenberry who was killed in World War II, was made at a banquet here Wednesday night. The award honors the senior member of a varsity athletic squad at ECU who is judged most excellent in scholarship, character and service to the University.

Ellenberger completed his varsity wrestling career this past season with a career record of 62 wins, only two defeats and one draw. He won the Southern Conference Championship for his weight class (126 pounds) three straight years (1968-70), was North Carolina AAU champ in 1966-67 and State Collegiate champ in 1969-70.

He also was voted ECU's outstanding wrestler in 1969 and 1970, captained his team the same two years, and was listed in the 1970 edition of Outstanding College Athletes of America.

"I can think of no individual more deserving of this award than Tim," said ECU wrestling Head Coach John Welborn. "He has been truly outstanding as an athlete, student and leader. We'll miss him on the mat next season, but I feel very fortunate that Tim has decided to return to ECU next fall for his Master's Degree and will be of great help to me as a graduate assistant coach."

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Ellenberger of Glenshaw, Pa., Tim is married to the former Carol McIntyre of Sneads Ferry, N.C. They have a son, Timothy Carter, age 10 months. Tim's twin brother, Tom, also is a fine wrestler for ECU.

McGee And Staff Have Signed 18 To East Carolina Grid Grants

Nine North Carolinians and five Virginians are among the 18 football prospects signed to date by East Carolina University to athletic grants-in-aid.

Head football coach Mike McGee announced that 18 have signed the NCAA National Letter of Intent with ECU and will begin classes here no later than the fall quarter.

Ends and tackles top the list with four signees at both positions. The list also shows three quarterbacks, two centers, two running backs, and one each at guard, linebacker and flanker.

Heading the list of signees is high school All-American fullback Carlestor Crumpler of Wilson, N.C. Crumpler, a 6-4½, 210-pounder, gained over 3,000 yards in his career at Wilson's Fike High, leading the Cyclones to an unprecedented three straight 4-A championships. Recently Crumpler won the state high hurdles and low hurdles championships.

Joe West of Greenville Rose High, is the only North Carolina boy to be signed at quarterback. He is a 6-0, 160-pounder and is given a high rating by the ECU coached.

The ends include Garry Jakob.

a 6-2, 215-pounder from Bridgeport, Conn.; Lester Walker, a 6-3, 225-pound stand-out for Carolina Military Academy, from the Bronx, N.Y.; Rusty Markland, a 6-1, 190-pounder from Thomasville, N.C.; and Ivey Peacock, a 6-2, 210-pounder from Jacksonville, N.C.

The tackles include Greg Burke, a 6-5, 250-pounder from Winston-Salem, who won the state shot put championship two weeks ago. Others include Joe Tkach, a 6-3, 210-pounder from Jacksonville, N.C.; Greg Troupe of Alexandria, Va.; and Dennis Worek, of Glassport, Pa.

The two centers are Ned Cheely, a 6-3, 215-pounder from Virginia Beach, Va., and David Dedisman, a 6-3, 225-pounder from Dunbar, West Virginia.

Besides West, other quarterbacks signed include Carl Summerell, a 6-4, 190-pounder from Virginia Beach, Va., and Marshall Parker, a 5-11, 170-pounder from Hopewell, Va. Other signees include Ron Hunt, a flanker from Jacksonville, N.C., by the way of Carolina Military Academy; Dan Killebrew, a 5-11, 212-pound guard from Wilson, N.C.; Robin Hogue, a linebacker from Virginia Beach; and Kenny Moore, a running back from Harrells, N.C.

Jaycee Rally Stops Coke

The Jaycees came up with four runs in the last inning to gain their first victory of the season, downing Coca-Cola, 4-3, yesterday in the North State Little League.

The Kiwanis lead the league with a 3-0 record, while R. C. Cola is second at 2-1. They are followed by Coke, 2-2, the Lions and Optimists, both 1-2, and the Jaycees, 1-3.

Coke pushed out into the lead with two runs in the top of the first inning. Molt Massey led off with a single and Jeff Berbar brought him home with a triple. Max Joyner reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Barber.

In the fourth, Coke added another run for a 3-0 lead. Tim Cottle doubled and scored when Barber reached on an error.

But in the bottom of the sixth, the Jaycees took advantage of Coke mistakes to come back and gain the victory. Kenneth Avery reached on a fielder's choice and Wayne Miller followed with a single. Drew Taylor reached on an error, scoring Avery, but Miller was cut down at third. Chris Garrett singled and Robert Walters got a hit, driving in Taylor for a 3-2 score. But an error then allowed both Garrett and Walters to come across with the tying and winning runs for the Jaycees.

Tim Cottle led the Coke hitting with two, while Bill Collier had a pair for the Jaycees.

Former Pirate Dies In Asia

A former East Carolina University baseball player, First Lieutenant Frank Latimer Rice Jr., 25, was killed in hostile action in Cambodia, May 2, 1970.

A native of Sunbury, N.C., Rice graduated from East Carolina in 1967 with a degree in physical education. He was vice-president of the Student Government Association his senior year and was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

At the time of his death, Frank's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Rice of Sunbury, requested that, in lieu of flowers, donations be made to the ECU Athletic Department. Athletic Director Clarence Stasavich has announced that a fund in memory of Frank Rice has been established and that all donations will go into this fund.

Rich entered U.S. Army Officer Candidate School immediately following his graduation from ECU and was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1968.

He went to pilot school and specialized in piloting "Cobra" helicopters before being sent to Cambodia just two weeks prior to his death.

While a student at ECU, Rice was a member of the freshman baseball team under Coach Harold Bullard and then played three seasons for Coach Earl Smith's varsity. A first baseman, he was never a starter but Smith remembers him well.

"Frank was a real fine boy," said Smith. "He was dedicated and, though he never played regularly, he was always helping out wherever and whenever he could."

Rice was a member of Phi Epsilon Kappa, a physical fraternity, a member of Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and served as president of Jones Dormitory his freshman year. He served as a senator in student government as a sophomore, was on the Men's Judiciary, the Dean's Advisory Council and the Associate Arts Board.

Red Schoendienst has been player, coach or manager with the St. Louis Cardinals since 1961. Before that he played more than 11 full seasons with the Red Birds.

New Electric Facilities Cost A Third More

RALEIGH (AP) — Shearon Harris, president of Carolina Power & Light Co., says that the company's new electric facilities are costing about one-third more to install than five years ago, and the capital for expansion is costing almost twice as much.

"The great economic development of our territory has caused an increase in the cost of providing electric service," Harris told shareholders Thursday.

CP&L has asked the North Carolina Utilities Commission for permission to increase its retail electric rates 10.5 per cent. A hearing on the request is scheduled Sept. 29.

Raleigh March By Oxford Group

OXFORD, N. C. (AP)—Some 200 young people planned to leave Oxford today on a march to Raleigh to protest grievances of blacks in Granville County.

Two Shaw University students—John Mendez of Raleigh and Miss Janet McCoy of Oxford—were in Raleigh Thursday to obtain permits and make arrangements for the marchers in the capital city.

Mendez said the marchers would leave from the First Baptist Church of Oxford, travel down N.C. 50 through Creedmore and enter Raleigh about 11 a.m. Sunday.

They will march to Memorial Auditorium for a rally.

Oxford was the scene of racial violence recently after a Negro man was shot to death. Two white men have been charged.

Doubt Nuclear Deterrent Value In China's Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two ranking Pentagon officials say nuclear retaliation is not a reliable deterrent against a Red Chinese attack because there is no way to know how much atomic destruction Peking is willing to accept in return.

Chinese citizens are being told "they can accept an attack, survive it and grow," the officials said in congressional testimony released today, and U.S. retaliation against 1,000 Chinese cities would kill only 11 per cent of the country's population.

The April 10 testimony by Deputy Defense Secretary David M. Packard and Dr. John S. Foster, director of defense research, came on behalf of the Nixon administration's Safeguard antimissile system.

They said it would be foolhardy to rely on the U.S. nuclear deterrent when the Safeguard system can stop any missile attack Communist China can launch against this country this decade.

They told the House defense appropriations subcommittee U.S. retaliation against 200 Chinese cities would destroy up to 90 per cent of that country's industrial capacity while killing about 9 per cent of its population.

It is impossible to assess whether Chinese leaders, who have "traditionally placed a rather low value on human life," would not accept that, Packard said.

Packard and Foster provided the subcommittee a 30-minute Chinese-made color film described in the transcript as showing "Chinese preparations for the nuclear tests held to observe effects on their troops and ground equipment.

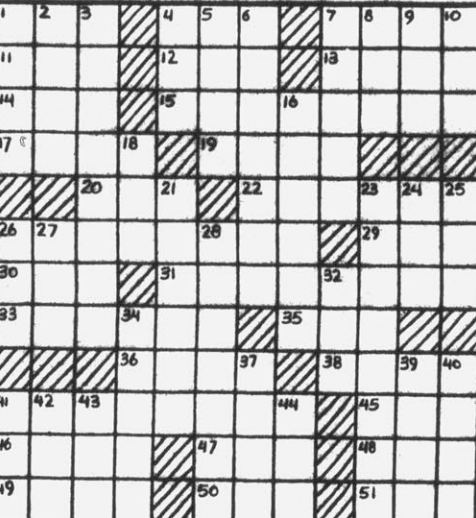

"The striking feature of this film—at least to us," Foster said, "is the attitude that it seems to be describing to the people in China—that they can accept an attack, survive it, and grow.

"It is similar to some of the early notions in this country when we first had atomic bombs," he said. "I found it very disquieting."

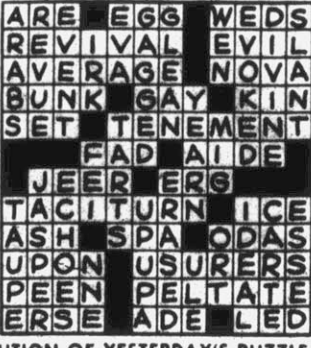

Urging no Safeguard construction delays, Packard and Foster repeated the assessment that even present schedules would not have the system built in time to counter the earliest possible Red Chinese nuclear threat.

We're nothing without your love.

PITT PLAZA (OPEN DAILY 10 A.M. - 9:30 P.M.) PH. 754-9141

Money, money, money. Sometimes it seems that all people talk about is money. Some hoard it, others let it slip through their fingers. But, whether spender or saver, no one is unmindful of it.

Sometimes it seems as though even in church we hear too much about money. Isn't that the one place where money shouldn't be mentioned at all? No.

It isn't money that is at fault, but our attitude toward it. In earlier times, we gave of our services, trading one thing for another. Today we use money as a medium of exchange. It is the spirit in our use of that exchange, in both our spending and saving, that counts.

So, give to the church of your choice. Give generously, if you can. But even if you can't give — go.

ARCTIC ASSETS

Member of Polar Continental Shelf Project moves equipment across sea ice of Arctic Ocean.

Amphibious hovercraft is versatile aid to exploration—pictured here on Herschel Island.

Prospector searching for metals examines rocks in Coppermine district.

An economic spring is coming to the Canadian Arctic. The "ice" of lack of knowledge and dark Polar mystery is rapidly being broken up, and the idea of useless, frozen wastes is plain out-of-date.

In fact, the vast, unknown Arctic is now just a romantic myth. During the last 25 years the northern regions of Canada have been methodically investigated and explored to such an extent that they are better known at present than parts of provinces further south.

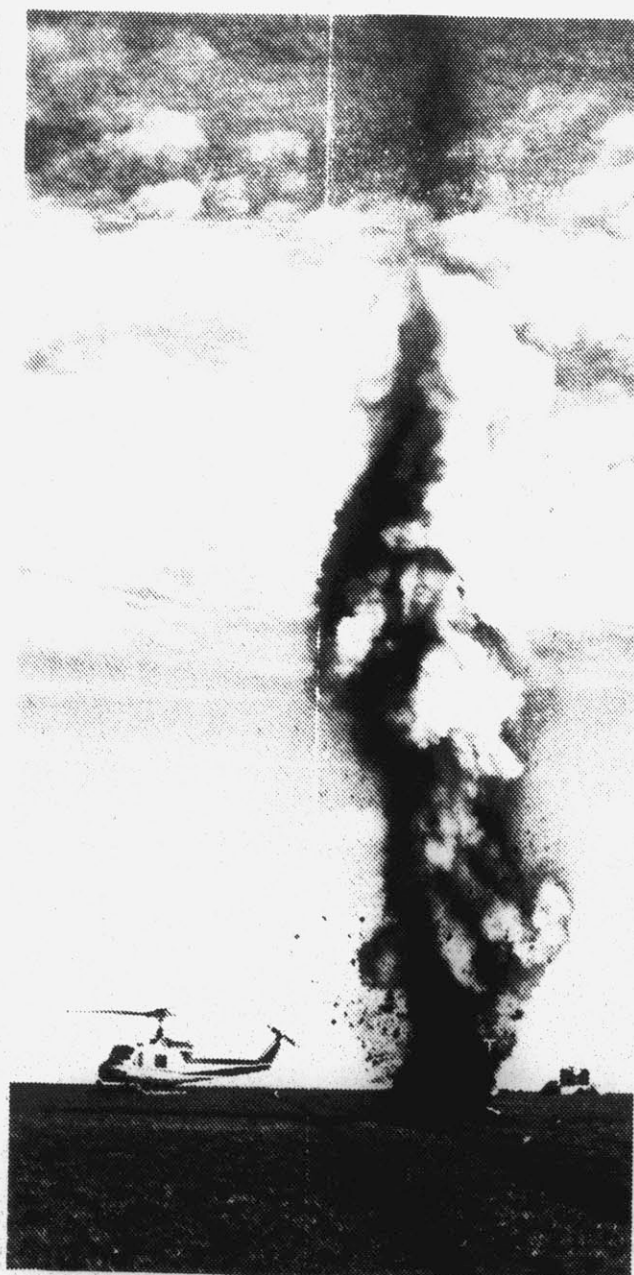

Arctic Canada has, first of all, been systematically mapped, with the help of aerial photography of the whole land area. Hydrographers have charted the coasts and coastal waters, and geologists on land have probed rock and soil. Glaciers and icefields have been studied by one band of specialized scientists, the flora and fauna by another.

Perhaps the most intensive and sophisticated research program is the many-sided Polar Continental Shelf Project. It began in 1959 and is still active across the great, frozen flank of Canada's north western extremities, in 50-below-zero temperatures. Among masses of scientific data has emerged the fact that very extensive oil deposits are lying under the Arctic islands and mainland.

Research and studies have involved hundreds of millions of dollars, and many thousands of Canadians—most employed by the federal government, but many of them private air survey teams, crews of chartered commercial ships, and, recently, private oil seekers and mining prospectors. A lot of cold fingers and noses perhaps—but it seems to have broken the ice once and for always.

Worry Clinic

Delay Can Be Addiction, Too

Edward is just as much an addict as the chronic drunkard. But his addiction is to the habit of procrastination. He is thus a victim of the "Manana" complex. Girls, if you have your choice of a bachelor vs. a widower of Edward's age, be sure to act as suggested below.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE N-504. Edward J., aged 42, is a wealthy bachelor.

"Dr. Crane," his married sister began, "I don't know what is wrong with Edward."

"For he has dated literally dozens of charming women ever since he was in high school."

"Being handsome, gallant and with plenty of money, he has had his pick."

"In fact, he was elected the most popular man on the campus at the university."

"So why hasn't he married by this time? What is he waiting for?"

Edward has registered with our Scientific Marriage Foundation.

And he had been introduced to 17 very charming unmarried girls and widows, yet Edward always found some minor flaw with each one.

And this is the typical "crawfish" attitude of unmarried men past the age of 35.

For they have become slaves to procrastination.

And these addicts are just as much a victim of their own habit of indecision, as are the chronic alcoholics who can't shake off the whiskey habit!

In the late teens, the usual romantic boy or girl is eager to rush into matrimony, even too soon and without looking ahead.

But after a man or woman has passed the age of 25, he begins to recognize that marriage is a very serious type of contract.

So he tends to curb his former impetuous desire for a "quickie" marriage, and become more analytical.

Although almost persuaded to propose to his sweetheart under a romantic full moon, a man like Edward will check himself by thinking.

"I better wait till morning before I decide. For marriage is a lifetime contract and thus not to be entered into lightly."

"So I'll sleep over this decision and then see how I feel tomorrow!"

Obviously, by tomorrow he is a "cold" prospect, just as most salesmen find their prospects for life insurance or other items.

For Edward's sweetheart is not present the next morning. So he is not intoxicated with her perfume and feminine beauty.

His pulse is also sluggish and blood pressure down, both of which medical conditions retard active decisions.

Another factor often explains chronic bachelorhood, namely, the "Narcissus Complex."

Such men, if they are popular, begin to strut their stuff and secretly admire their own romantic charm.

Thus, like ancient Narcissus, they fall in love with SELF, which is the antithesis of true love.

For real love means you are most concerned with the best interests and happiness of the OTHER person; not yourself! True love is thus totally unselfish.

Bachelors (and spinsters) are more likely to be selfish in their romantic outlook.

Thus, they don't wish to curtail their own freedom or tota or give up their present independence and Don Juan opportunities.

Girls, if you have a choice between a widower or a bachelor in the middle 30's, take the widower!

For he has already been partly housebroken by his former wife and is thus more likely to compromise and show unselfishness.

Bachelors are so set in their ways, they don't even realize they are very selfish.

So send for my "Tests for Husband and Wife," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents and pick wisely!

"Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets."

Deepest Quarry Will Be Closed

ABERDEEN, Scotland (AP)—Rubislaw quarry near Aberdeen in Scotland, the deepest quarry in the world, is to close after nearly 200 years of exploitation in which more than 6,000,000 tons of gray granite were extracted.

The quarry now is 480 feet deep and its floor is 180 feet under the North Sea level. It is 900 feet long and 700 feet wide.

Granite from this mine helped build many famous buildings all over the world. It is estimated that half the buildings in Aberdeen were made of its granite giving the city its second name, "granite city."

The owners decided to close the quarry after finding that no worthwhile rock was extracted in the last two years, making it uneconomic to run.

Alaska has more square miles of glaciers than the rest of the inhabited world put together, says the National Geographic.

You've got a lot to live Pepsi's got a lot to give

What we mean is this: living isn't always easy, but it never has to be dull. There's too much to see, to do, to enjoy. Put yourself behind a Pepsi-Cola and get started.
You've got a lot to live.
