Over 2,000 Grads Get ECU Degrees

A graduation class of over 2,000 East Carolina University seniors, a near record number for the university, received their degrees yesterday in the 61st annual commencement exercises at Ficklen Stadium.

Jac McCracken, a student in the School of Music from Oak City in Martin County led the academic procession as top student of the graduating class. McCracken, graduating as summa cum laude, is, according to a spokesman from the ECU News Bureau, the first male student in the history of the university to lead the procession.

It has been announced that McCracken is also the recipient of a Fulbright scholarship, and that he will go to Italy to study.

Dr. Thomas F. Jones, president of the University of South Carolina (USC) the commencement keynote speaker, spoke out on world conditions touching the lives of young people today.

Saying the invasion of Cambodia and the shooting of four

Kent State University students were not the real causes for recent disruptions at USC, Dr. Jones noted these are "but excuses for confrontation."

"An element of our student body embraced these issues along with other issues which had been fermenting for a year or more and used them as instruments for confrontation," Dr. Jones said.

There was a small group of students at USC, Jones said, including some outsiders, ex-students and non-students "whose main concern from start to finish was to precipitate a physical confrontation and achieve further polarization."

Jones also lashed out at the establishment—the news media in particular, saying the media had "completely obscured the issues the perpetrators of the confrontation used as the reasons for the confrontation."

The college president also told the ECU graduates "the establishment is more than ever obligated to listen to responsible young people."

Hundreds Feared Dead In Massive Peruvian Quake

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Hundreds were feared dead in Peru today following a massive earthquake that devastated communities along a 600-mile stretch of the coast.

Radio Panamericana reported

140 dead in Huaras, a city of 22,000 in the snow-capped Andes 175 miles north of Lima. The Peruvian Red Cross said 90 per cent of the homes and commercial buildings were destroyed Sunday in the quake and at least five after shocks.

Some 35 miles to the northwest, the slum-ridden coastal city of Chimbote had at least 15 killed and terrible destruction, officials reported. Chimbote was a sleepy fishing village until a few years ago, but the new fish-meal industry has attracted thousands of Indians to work in the factories.

The Peruvian Geophysical Institute said the quake struck at 3:23 p.m. EST, with its epicenter 211 miles northwest of Lima and 12 miles offshore from Chimbote. The institute said the tremor was 7.75 on the Richter scale and 8 on the Mercalli scale, intense enough to cause "grave damage."

Peru's last disastrous quake, on Oct. 17, 1966, killed 175 persons and left more than 3,000 homeless. It registered 7.5 on the Richter scale.

Officials said it might be days before an accurate assessment of deaths and property damage could be made.

In Lima damage was slight and injuries few. One person died of a heart attack attributed to the earthquake. Limans are always aware of the possibility of a quake and generally react well by seeking open areas or standing beneath reinforced doorways. But hundreds ran into the streets screaming as buildings began to rock.

Several dead were reported in Trujillo, the heart of the sugar plantation country and the site of a W. R. Grace chemical complex, 300 miles northwest of Lima.

At Least Seven Drown Along The Outer Banks

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. (AP) — At least seven persons drowned along North Carolina's Outer Banks during the weekend as thousands of people crowded beaches and camping areas for the Memorial Day weekend—the beginning of the area's vacation season.

Authorities said strong rip tides and rough seas contributed to the heavy death toll. Many other persons had to be pulled from the rough surf along the Outer Banks.

Three persons drowned Sunday in the ocean off Hatteras Island, just south of Salvo. On Saturday, four persons drowned in the surf off Dare County.

The Sunday victims were identified as Robert Howard Jones, 35, of Glassboro, N.J.; Donald K. Stephens, 37, of Falls Church, Va.; and Spec 6 Arlie David Lester, 25, of Ft. Eustis, Va.

Authorities said all three men drowned in the same area. Two of them were believed to have tried to rescue the third man when he was pulled out to sea by rip tides.

Only the body of Jones was recovered Sunday in search operations by the U.S. Coast Guard and the National Park Service.

The Dare County victims were J. C. Rush, 42, of Woodbridge, Va.; Mrs. Florence Scott Smith, 21, of Alexandria, Va.; Robert J. Wray, 27, of Newport News; and Ronald Lee Walker, 22, of Richmond, Va.

Sheriff Frank Cahoon of Dare County said Walker drowned while attempting to save Mrs. Smith in the surf near Old Nags Head.

Wray drowned in the surf near the 4-mile post in Kitty Hawk and Rush died in the ocean at South Nags Head.

The State Highway Patrol said two persons drowned in a canal in Currituck County Saturday while on their way to the Outer Banks when their camper truck overturned into the canal. They were Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Theis of Silver Spring, Md.

In a traffic accident in inland North Carolina, four persons drowned. State troopers said the deaths occurred when a car ran off a rural road in Robeson County and plunged into a pond. The victims were Henry Chavis, 46, of Rt. 1, Rowland; Gertrude Locklear, 41, of Rt. 2, Rowland, and her children, Flora Ann, 5, and Hubert, 9.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Federal investigators say jet fuel was poured by mistake into the tanks of a gasoline-burning aircraft which crashed on a highway, killing six persons.

John Reed, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board, said Sunday 200 gallons of the jet fuel were added to tanks containing 400 gallons of gasoline before the Martin 404 twin-engine aircraft took off Saturday from DeKalb-Peachtree Airport.

The pilot tried to set the privately owned plane down on a highway near Atlanta when power failed in both engines. The plane hit a car, killing all five occupants. A plane passenger also was killed.

"It would be similar to putting four or five gallons of kerosene in a 20-gallon automobile tank," said Reed. "The aircraft would not run properly on this mix."

Reed said two workers who fueled the plane told investigators they thought it had turbojet engines, which run on jet fuel.

The plane, carrying 30 passengers, was bound for a weekend real estate company sales excursion to Ft. Myers, Fla.

Barrus Construction of Kinston was the apparent low bidder for more than 37 miles of surfacing work on Pitt County Roads, according to the State Highway Commission.

Bids for the projects were received last week and the commission will act on the bids at its June 4 meeting.

Projects in Pitt included in the bidding were: resurfacing of N.C. 33 from the N.C. 30 intersection to the Beaufort County line (3.9 miles); resurfacing N.C. 30 from Greene Street to the N.C. 33 intersection (9.4 miles); resurfacing U.S. 264 bypass at Farmville (6.7 miles); resurfacing N.C. 11 North of Greenville from the Burroughs-Wellcome Co. access road to Bethel (10.15 miles); surfacing the Burroughs-Wellcome access road (.43 mile); resurfacing on secondary road 1206 from Road 1200 to U.S. 264 (4.75 miles) and resurfacing Road 1138 from Road 1206 to U.S. 264 (2.65 miles).

Barrus' bid, which totaled $381,393.80, included about 6 miles of road work in Kinston and Beaufort Counties, to total 44.03 in all.

Liable For Fine If Keys In Car

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Drivers who leave keys in their cars in Charlotte are now liable for a $4 fine.

The ordinance, which was approved two months ago by the Charlotte City Council and became effective today, was passed in an effort to stop the rising rate of auto thefts.

It covers vehicles parked on public streets and alleys, unattended private parking lots and new and used car lots.

School Children Again Among Guerrilla Victims

By MARCUS ELIASON Associated Press Writer

TEL AVIV (AP) — Arab gunners wounded six Israeli school children and three adults today in a rocket attack on a settlement south of the Sea of Galilee after a weekend of heavy fighting along the Suez Canal.

The Israeli military command said the gunners in Jordan hit the village of Beit Shean, 15 miles south of the Sea of Galilee. Israeli army units returned the fire.

It was the second attack involving Israeli school children in two weeks. Eight youngsters were killed May 22 when Arab guerrillas attacked a school bus south of the Lebanese border.

Fighting raged in the air and on the ground along the Suez Canal over the weekend.

Fourteen Israeli soldiers were killed Saturday—the highest death toll in one day since the 1967 war. Thirteen were killed in two Egyptian commando raids across the canal. The fourteenth was killed by artillery fire, the Israelis said.

The Egyptians staged their first raid at noon at Ras El Ish, killing nine Israelis and capturing one. Israeli warplanes retaliated by hitting Egyptian targets for 7½ hours, one of their most prolonged raids since canal fighting began escalating 15 months ago.

Egyptian commandos struck again late Saturday afternoon between EliCap and El Tina, killing four more Israeli soldiers and capturing another one.

The Egyptian air force followed up the ground raids by hitting Israeli positions between El Cap and Qantara Sunday.

Cairo said its fighter-bombers left ammunition dumps and troop encampments ablaze. The Israelis said one soldier was wounded.

Israeli warplanes took to the air again Sunday, hitting Egyptian positions along the canal for much of the day. Cairo claimed two Israeli planes shot down, but there was no confirmation from Israel.

Altogether, 59 Israelis were killed and 136 wounded on all Arab fronts during May.

In cafes and parks in Tel Aviv Sunday, Israelis talked of the ambushes, and many were convinced that Russian training and planning had contributed to the Egyptian successes.

While the Israeli death tolls appear small in comparison with American losses in Vietnam, for example, they are extremely high in a country with a population of only 2.8 million.

Cambodia Put Under Martial Law

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Plagued by public resentment and a torrent of rumors, Gen. Lon Nol's Cambodian government warned its critics today with a proclamation of martial law.

Martial law went into effect without a full explanation of what it meant, but diplomatic sources said the purpose was to formalize what is already going on and to warn critics of the government to keep quiet.

Homes are already being searched without warning or warrant. Military patrols already enforce a nightly curfew in Phnom Penh and in the countryside.

There were suggestions that the military would intervene to speed up trials of those accused of any crimes connected with the war effort.

Rumors flourish in part because heavy press censorship permits only glowing accounts of the Cambodian army to appear in print. The Cambodians, like foreign observers, are skeptical of this because of the large number of key provincial capitals lost to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong, and because the government considered the situation dangerous enough to accept help from South Vietnam, a traditional enemy for centuries.

THAI DECISION

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The Thai Cabinet will decide Tuesday on a military assistance program for Cambodia, including sending a volunteer ground force and a naval flotilla.

If the Shoe Fits...

BY LARRY AVERETTE

Enemy of children's feet?

The greatest enemy of children's feet, according to foot care authorities, is an outgrown pair of shoes, causing over 70 percent of children's foot troubles. Many times you can't rely on the children to complain about outgrown or misfitted shoes. Children seldom realize that uncomfortable shoes may be the reason why games are less fun or an errand for Mom or Dad is a hateful chore. It's up to the parents to watch for signs of shoe trouble. There are the common problems of blisters, calluses, corns, ingrown toenails and bunions. Some advanced foot problems are fallen arches and rotating heels. There are, of course, many other foot disorders, but these are the most common. When the list of foot ailments is so impressive, it shows the care you should exercise when buying a pair of shoes for your children.

We Could Start In S. Korea

The Pentagon recently announced that some U.S. troops will soon be withdrawn from South Korea. We can see no reason why the United States should not begin to bring home some of its forces from countries which can now defend themselves.

We think this is the case in South Korea. Over 15 years ago it was overrun by the north. After peace came, however, South Korea built a stable economy and one of the better trained armies in Asia.

No doubt South Korea will need our support for many years to come, but as its strength grows there is no reason why some of our troops should not be withdrawn.

The Pentagon and the administration should constantly be reviewing our overseas troop commitments to see where cuts can be made.

If we are ever to make any progress on reducing military spending, which will help us with our own internal problems, then it means armed forces personnel reductions are going to have to be made.

We have never favored arbitrary total withdrawal of troops anywhere we have them, even in Vietnam. Such a move would invite disaster.

However, armed forces reductions are going to be made in the years ahead. This means that our commitments in other countries are going to have to be constantly reviewed.

Long, Long Trail For Postal Service Change

A bill to establish an independent postal service to be run on a more business-like basis, started its long journey through Congress last week with the approval of the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

It has many more trials in Congress before it is enacted into law.

However, it is clear to us that for the good of all Americans this bill should be passed. Improvements could be made in the postal service which would make the system far more efficient.

Congress should speed this bill through and get on with the job of improving the postal service.

ARVN Evokes Lavish Praise

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The splendid combat performance by South Vietnamese troops in Cambodia not only strengthens the Vietnamization program but casts dark clouds over the U.S. military advice going to President Nixon.

The way ARVN (Army of the Republic of Vietnam) outfits have handled North Vietnamese regulars in Cambodia's Parrot's Beak has evoked raves from the very U.S. generals who insisted they could not do the job. Gen. Creighton Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, has personally expressed his surprise to the Pentagon. What's more, high officials privately make this blunt admission: the South Vietnamese could have performed the Cambodian operation alone with U.S. troops.

The implications of this are staggering. It means Mr. Nixon could have enjoyed the military fruits of entering Cambodia without the calamitous political and economic consequences he now endures and without reactivating the dormant peace movement. The President could have avoided his present crisis of confidence had he rejected the counsel of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and instead heeded the advice of Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, who wanted an all-ARVN operation in Cambodia.

This Cambodian dispute between Laird and the Joint Chiefs is the culmination of sharp backstage disagreement over Vietnamization between civilian and military at all levels which we observed during our recent reporting trip to Vietnam. Even before Mr. Nixon's April 20 announcement of another 150,000 U.S. troops to be withdrawn, the military felt he was pulling out too rapidly. Adding respectability to this view was Gen. Abrams himself. No Colonel Blimp, Abrams is the most sophisticated American commander during 16 years in Vietnam. Moreover, Abrams knows all about the training of ARVN, having been originally assigned to Vietnam as Gen. William Westmoreland's deputy for that purpose.

Yet one high-ranking civilian official told us in Vietnam: "Abe just doesn't understand Vietnamization." He and other civilians feel Abrams and the uniformed military are missing an essential point of Vietnamization — that South Vietnamese troops must take over from the Americans not when they are ready, but ready or not. Otherwise, the South Vietnamese never will be ready.

This is best illustrated in the strategic Mekong River delta. The mighty U.S. 9th Division, only American ground troops in the delta, pulled out last August amid nervous prostration by the U.S. high command. The generals feared the 7th ARVN Division simply could not handle the job in troublesome Kien Hoa and Dinh Tuong provinces. Superficially, their fears have been realized. Communist military activity in those two provinces has increased, and nobody claims the 7th ARVN performs nearly as well as the Americans. Nevertheless, since the Americans left, pacification — the Saigon government's control of the countryside — has moved steadily forward. In sum, the Vietcong are losing the delta guerrilla war.

It can even be argued that the heavy-handed U.S. 9th in the delta actually retarded pacification. Certainly, had Washington granted Gen. Westmoreland's 1966 request to send three U.S. divisions into the delta, the damage wrought by American troops

Now, Indochinese War

WASHINGTON — Hardly anyone has noticed it, but what was formerly known as the "Vietnamese" war is now being called the "Indochinese" war. This is in absolute violation of Article XII of the Geneva Convention, which reads, "No one may change the name of a war without first submitting the name of the new war to the International Commission on War Names."

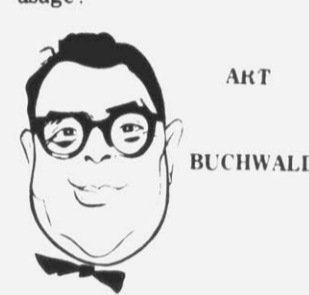

To find out how the United States managed to get away with changing the name of the war, without appealing to the commission, I sought out Claudius Nom de Plume, the Administration's legal adviser on war names.

"Mr. Nom de Plume, on April 30th of this year the United States changed the name of the war from Vietnamese to Indochinese. What legal grounds did we have for doing that?"

"Well, first of all I would like to say that technically it should not be called a war, but a 'police action.' If it were legally a war then it would have to be declared as such by Congress. Since Congress has never declared that we're at war, we can call what we're doing out there any damn thing we want to."

"That technically is true," I said, "but everyone, including the President of the United States, has called it a war. Wouldn't it become a war just because of popular usage?"

ART BUCHWALD

"This seems to have happened, but we're not concerned with what people call it. From strictly a lawyer's point of view we have not been fighting a war, but Communist aggression."

"But even the spokesmen for the Pentagon refer to it as a war."

Mr. Nom de Plume bristled. "We are not at war. The U.S. Constitution is perfectly clear on this matter. We cannot be at war unless the President asks for a declaration of war, and so far three Presidents have refused to do this."

"Well let us say, then, that the Vietnamese 'unpleasantness' is now known as the 'Indochinese trouble.' Doesn't this require some official act or recognition?"

"Only if we were changing the name of the war... uh, uh, 'hostilities,' on a permanent basis. You see, according to the rules of the International Commission on War Names, you don't have to file the name of a new war for 90 days. Since we're pulling out of Cambodia by June 30, we are not obligated to request a change in the name of whatever we're involved in."

"But suppose the South Vietnamese stay in Cambodia after June 30: Won't that make it an Indochinese war?"

"Not if the South Vietnamese are only in Cambodia to clear out sanctuaries. There is a clear distinction in

Other Editors Say Get Away With It

(Henderson Dispatch)

Some of the talk heard at rallies of disruptive groups these days borders on insurrection or treason, and law enforcement authorities look in the other direction and allow them to get away with it. Only a few decades ago such utterances as are now being heard would have resulted in arrests, trials and convictions. That rarely happens now.

Some of the radical leftists are blaming remarks by President Nixon and Vice President Agnew with inciting riot and violence.

According to reports, there was other rhetoric that preceded the Kent State tragedy that was far more inflammatory than anything that either Nixon or Agnew had said. One of the defendants in the so-called "Chicago 7" trial, Jerry Rubin, spoke to some 1,500 Kent students for the purpose of raising funds for his legal expenses. The Akron Beacon-Journal reported some of his statements like this:

"The first part of the Yippie program, you know, is to kill your parents. And I mean that quite seriously, because until you are prepared to kill your parents you're not really prepared to change the country, because our parents are our first oppressors." He exhorted students to "burn books, kill parents and burn down the suburbs. Quit being students. Become criminals. We have to disrupt every institution and break every law. Do you want a diploma or to take this school over and use it for your own purposes?"

Shouts were heard in response: "Take it over — shut it down!"

The report says further that two nights before the shooting, students were again whipped into a frenzy by anti-war speakers and then surged through the community of Kent on a destructive binge. Next day student radicals burned down the ROTC building. The following day, the report continues, students advanced on National Guardsmen, ignoring orders to disperse and pelting them with rocks and large chunks of concrete. Some Guardsmen fired, and four students died.

Nothing that Nixon or Agnew said stirred this sort of rebellion. One needs only a single guess as to who did.

Yet these rabble rousers are allowed to get away with such treasonable remarks and conduct. Who indeed is to blame for that?

balance of payments.

Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, appears to want President Nixon to set guidelines for wage and price rises. He made it clear he was not advocating a wage and price freeze.

Both of these gentlemen are fully aware, or should be, that no foreign government and almost no corporation or labor union takes a financial loss out of the goodness of its heart.

One of the first lessons in international diplomacy is that no nation does anything for another nation unless there is something in it for the first nation. The United States fought Hitler because America could not long survive in a world dominated by the Nazis, not because of our friendship for England or our love for La Belle France.

Ever Thus We fought Japan, partly in revenge but mostly to liberate the Pacific and to satisfy the demands of American voters. And we fought North Korea because we wanted bases in South Korea. If we give further aid to Israel it will not be because many Americans are sympathetic to her cause but because we want to check Russia take-over of the Arab states.

Our sales of agricultural products in the Common Market are being curtailed by fees, inspections and red tape, not because the Common Market nations hate us or want to pay higher prices for their food-stuffs, but because their farmers and businesses want those markets for themselves.

And despite the high price of meat in the United States, we have pushed Australia and New Zealand into limiting the beef and lamb they export here. The meat producers and packers here have lobbyists working to keep the rest of the American market to themselves.

Our Beloved Enemies Japan, England, Germany and other countries are pouring thousands of minicars into America and the American auto industry is asking Congress to limit them, not because they dislike our allies but because they like the profits they can lose to imports.

No Easy Way To Diet

By PAUL R. ALLERUP
NEW YORK (UPI)—When you've noticeably lost weight and look and feel much the better for it, people are certain to ask: "How did you do it?" And when you tell them you've done it by the only sure method there is, they lose interest.

The fact is you must work at it and suffer a bit.

I took 30 pounds off my 6' 2" frame and four inches from around my middle in four months of steady application to the aim of losing 30 pounds.

The trimming down did not come easy. For four months I literally did not eat a square meal. For four months I exercised regularly three times a day — before breakfast, before dinner, and just before retiring.

With minor exceptions, I did not change my diet, just reduced it. And the exercises were ordinary sit-ups, jogging in place in my bedroom, and knee bends — all done in moderation since I'm an over-50 non-athlete.

I started with five sit-ups, worked my way gradually up to 20, performed morning and evening, I jogged 25 times at the start (one count each time the left foot lands) and worked up to 150; 20 knee bends at the beginning became 30, 40 and finally 50 as my body became accustomed to them.

Because I live 1½ miles from my public transportation I also walked three miles most days, back and forth.

As for the eating, the only changes in my diet were that I eliminated bread, butter and potatoes, and sharply reduced my sugar intake (from two teaspoonsful in my cups of coffee to a half teaspoonful), no candy, cake or pie.

I kept on eating everything else I usually did and this included spaghetti which happens to be one of my passions. But in moderation.

If the publishers of diet books and makers of weight-reducing gadgets are unhappy with me for this confession, the producers of calorie charts will be delighted.

I determined at the outset that I was taking on somewhere around 3,500 to 4,000 calories a day. My physician assured me I could get along in fine health on 1,500 calories a day — and lose weight doing it.

So I counted calories. The first few weeks I carried a small booklet giving calorie amounts for practically all foods and carefully counted up to 1,500 of them every day. After awhile you get to know roughly just about how many calories you're taking in and can cut out the precise counting.

I made one other sacrifice that might not apply to all. I'd been a cocktail sipper, often both at lunch and dinner. I stopped the cocktails and limited myself to two fairly well-watered highballs per day.

And that is how I lost weight. Not very glamorous, not easy. But effective if you stick to it.

I'm down to 200 pounds and have vowed not to go above it again. This means I'm still watching what I eat and still doing some of those daily exercises.

I'll have to keep that up — but even that becomes a habit in time. It has with me.

Cites Need In Medical Field

By BRYAN HAILSLIP
WILSON, N.C. — Medical practice as the western world knows it came to North Carolina in 1585 when one doctor was among the 108 members of Sir Walter Raleigh's first colony landing at Hatteras.

The physician-population ratio in the state hasn't been so favorable in the nearly 400 years since.

Dr. Edgar T. Beddingfield like that historical footnote as an illustration of a contemporary problem: North Carolina needs a greater supply of doctors, particularly those who will enter general practice in rural or small town areas. He used it more than once in his just-completed year as president of the State Medical Society to call attention to the physician shortage.

"There is no instant solution," he said. "If our three medical schools (University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Duke University, Durham, and Bowman Gray School of Medicine, Wake Forest University, Winston-Salem) doubled their enrollment this coming September, it would still be 10 years before it would increase substantially the supply of physicians ready to practice."

"We do have to increase enrollment as rapidly as possible. In my judgment, inevitably we will have to come to a second state-supported medical school. We have to do everything we can to encourage young doctors beginning practice to settle in rural or less populous areas."

Statistics on the physician shortage come from a 1969 report by the Legislative Research Commission which said that "North Carolina is near the bottom of the list" among the states in regard to the ratio of doctors to population.

The report showed that North Carolina has only about 69 physicians in private practice per 100,000 population, contrasted to the national average of around 97. The report pointed out with particular concern the declining number of doctors in general practice, only about one per 4,000 population.

It also indicated the geographical dimensions of the problem. While urban areas of the state have about 96 physicians in practice per 100,000 population, the figure sinks to 30 in rural areas. Worse, 12 per cent of the physicians practicing in rural areas are over 70 years of age.

Dr. Beddingfield, born in Clayton and educated at UNC-Chapel Hill and Harvard School of Medicine, knows what county practice is like. He was a general practitioner at Stantonsburg in Wilson County for a number of years. He is now president of the Wilson Clinic, an 18-member group, and his own specialty is industrial medicine. Articulate and quick-witted, he has been a force in the State Medical Society for frontal attacks on health problems. Through and given leadership in efforts to sharpen the profession's awareness of issues and incentive to action.

Specialization, in itself a characteristic of advancing health care, has been a factor in making the family doctor a vanishing species. "By and large, the faculty of our medical schools are medical scientists rather than clinicians," Dr. Beddingfield said. "They are poorly equipped to advise young men about entering general practice. The in-thing to do has been to specialize; in short, we've had a tendency to develop too many chiefs and not enough braves."

While rural areas gave the greatest lack of general practitioners (specialists, too, for that matter), the pinch also is felt in the cities.

"A woman who had recently moved to Raleigh wrote to me while I was president of the State Medical Society," Dr. Beddingfield recalled. "She said her family wanted to establish a relationship with a family doctor in their new community. 'We have called five doctors, and in each case we have been told they are taking no more new patients. What can we do?'"

Trends are visible which should help get more doctors into the hinterlands, Dr. Beddingfield believes. He took note of the UNC medical school Air Service, which flies doctors from the school to hospitals out in the state — Cape Fear Memorial at Wilmington, for example — and in turn ferries local doctors back to N.C. Memorial Hospital and the medical school. This exchange has done a great deal to dissolve town-gown tension between the medical school faculty and practicing physicians in the field, he said.

He also mentioned the physician assistants training program at Duke and Bowman Gray, under which personnel can be prepared to take care of many patient needs — for example, giving shots, checking blood pressure, etc.

There are some things the community looking for a doctor can do itself. First, take stock of itself as a good place to live: schools, cultural resources, recreation facilities, attitude and atmosphere. Second, advertise and seek to make contacts through the medical society, the schools of medicine, medical journals. Third, make the new doctor feel at home when (and if) he finally arrives on the scene.

"We must get on with the job of turning out more physicians to practice in the state. The people are demanding it," Dr. Beddingfield concluded.

Strength For Today

THE LEVEL ROAD
Let us imagine a world in which everything has been leveled out, as it were. Money has been heaped up in a pile and then divided equally among the inhabitants of the world. No one would dress any better than anyone else. We would all be put to work on jobs that some committee or commission feels we can best do. All people would own the same amount of land.

But wait — before we lose our minds, just hesitate and check up on ourselves. Would this leveled-out society be happy and just? No — spelled in capitals and underlined. Sometimes unequal distribution of this world's goods comes as the result of injustices or perhaps dishonesty. Most people get about what is coming to them if they are honest and diligent. But a person who can't make a large fortune is not a useless person. When Jesus of Nazareth died he had but one possession (a seamless robe). Yet time has been dated from this Man's birth. Who is the richest person in the world (money-wise) today? Can you name him? What do you know about him?

People are not equally endowed. This is nothing against them and nothing against their Creator. Some claim that it is because of the economic and political system under which we live, but most of us would doubt that.

Why all this agitation to get people on the same level? If government and business are honest, if home life is cheerful and loving, if everyone has a chance to get along — why all the agitation to make humanity walk along a level pathway?

another country and those who invade another country for the sole purpose of destroying the enemy's supplies."

"Mr. Nom de Plume, did the United States ever consider going to the International Commission and formally requesting a change in the name of the war?"

"It came up at one of our staff meetings, but it was decided that to request a change in the name of the war would be unnecessary. When the French were there, it was the Indochinese war. When the French got out after the Geneva Accords, it became the Vietnamese War. The fact that it is now called the Indochinese war again only means we're taking up where the French left off. You don't need an international commission to tell you that."

Evans, Novak

That indicates the U.S. military still has not fully grasped the political complexities of guerrilla warfare. Beyond this, U.S. generals, noting that ARVN units are led by Vietnamese officers made cautious by 20 years of constant warfare, express preference for U.S. units led by venturesome young officers out to make a record in six months of combat.

Save for the fateful exception of Cambodia, however, Laird has prevailed with the President against this military resistance. For instance, this summer's offensive against North Vietnamese encampments in Vietnam's bloody Ashau Valley near the demilitarized zone (DMZ) will be borne for the first time by South Vietnamese troops. Indeed, South Vietnamese are doing most of the fighting in Cambodia.

Contrary to the uninformed contention by U.S. doves that it has failed, Vietnamization is a success from a strictly military standpoint. Its basic problem is economic. The reduced flow of dollars into the country threatening runaway inflation by increasing Saigon's war costs.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 7:50 p.m. collision at the intersection of Fifth Street and Bancroft Avenue which involved cars driven by Alice Ann Carriker, 21, of Route 1, Kittrell and Henry Cooper Jr., 41-year-old Negro of Route 4, Greenville. Police who charged Cooper with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident set damage to the Cooper auto at $400 and estimated damage to the Carriker car at $395. Investigators reported the second mishap occurred about 11:20 a.m. on Cotanche Street, 200 feet South of the 12th Street intersection. A car driven by Hazel Briley Tripp of Route 1, Winterville, according to officers, collided with a parked car owned by Joseph Daniel Singleton of 204 North Sylvan Dr. causing an estimated $200 damage to the Singleton car and about $10 damage to the Tripp vehicle. White Sox Batter Boston 22-13 In Wild Slugfest

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

Associated Press Sports Writer
The Kansas City Royals didn't much care for the prying eye of Washington's television camera Sunday, but the Chicago White Sox story seemed like one instant replay after another as they sent 25 base hits flying around Boston's Fenway Park. "I'd like to see those films," said Kansas City manager Charlie Metro, who protested about a TV camera in the center field mezzanine as the Royals beat the Senators 6-5. "You can tell me that you can't see anything, but I've been around baseball too long. I can tell you about a lot of things that happen."

"I didn't feel safe until that final out was made at first base," sighed Chicago skipper Don Gutteridge after the White Sox battered the Red Sox 22-13, one run shy of the American League record for two teams. "In a wild game like this anything can happen. And it just about did out there."

Elsewhere in the AL, California defeated Baltimore 6-1, Minnesota edged the New York Yankees 7-6 in 10 innings, Cleveland shaded Oakland 3-2 and Milwaukee nipped Detroit 7-6.

In National League action, the Chicago Cubs whipped San Diego 7-4, the New York Mets took two from Houston 14-4 and 4-3 in 14 innings, Cincinnati downed Montreal 6-4, Atlanta trounced Philadelphia 9-1, Los Angeles outlasted St. Louis 8-6 in 11 innings and Pittsburgh beat San Francisco 7-3.

Metro said he would seek a ruling from AL President Joe Cronin about the camera, which the Senators use to tape their pitchers and hitters.

"We never use the tape for anything else but to get a better look at our players," explained Ted Williams, manager of the Senators. "But any club in the league can get that same shot by looking at national television." The cameraman said it was impossible to pick up the catcher's signals "because of the shadows when he crouches down." But Metro wasn't satisfied.

Metro's official protest of the game was wiped out when the Royals rallied for two runs in the eighth inning on Joe Keough's single and run-scoring doubles by Luis Alcaraz and pinch hitter Hawk Taylor.

Frank Howard's 15th homer had given the Senators a 5-4 lead in the seventh. Ed Kirkpatrick homered for Kansas City and Alcaraz had another RBI double.

Luis Aparicio and Walt Williams paced Chicago's explosion with five hits apiece. Aparicio had a triple and four singles and drove in three runs and Williams had a double and four singles and two RBI while Bill Melton knocked in four runs with a homer, double and single.

The White Sox won for only the third time in 15 games as the two teams combined for 42 hits, including three homers, two triples and 11 doubles.

Carl Yaztrzemski and Mike Andrews homered for the Red Sox, who used six pitchers. The only one to escape without a run was Ken Brett, who only worked two-thirds of an inning.

"I've been saying all along we'd be a good hitting club," Gutteridge said earlier in the season when the White Sox cropped up among the top hitting teams in the majors. "This doesn't surprise me. We've just got a lot of good hitters on our club."

Even Gutteridge must have been surprised Sunday.

Home runs by Ken McMullen and Jim Fregosi and the strong pitching of Clyde Wright and Ken Tatum paced the Angels to their second straight victory over the Orioles.

Tatum came on in the sixth when Wright complained of a sore arm after Boog Powell homered and Paul Blair singled. Blair was struck in the face by a pitch from Tatum in the eighth and suffered a broken nose.

McMullen hit a two-run homer off loser Dave McNally in the second and added a run-scoring single off Dave Leonhard in the fifth.

The Twins maintained their 2½-game lead over California in the AL West when Harmon Killebrew socked his second home run of the game in the 10th inning to beat the Yankees. That broke up a relief duel between Minnesota's Stan Williams, 5-0, and New York's Lindy McDaniel, 4-1.

Roy White and Pete Ward homered for the Yanks.

A two-run ninth-inning double by Ted Savage lifted the Brewers past the Tigers, who continued to have bullpen problems. The Brewers scored three times in the eighth on hits by Tommy Harper, Russ Snyder, Steve Hovley and Danny Walton, but still trailed 6-5.

However, Mike Hegan, who hit a two-run homer in the second, opened with a double and was sacrificed to third. Hank Allen walked before Savage connected.

A single by Graig Nettles, a sacrifice and Ted Uhlaender's RBI single accounted for Cleveland's winning run against Oakland in the ninth inning. Reggie Jackson and Bert Campaneris homered for the A's, Ray Fosse for the Indians. Fosse also scored the tying run in the eighth when he doubled and raced home on Roy Foster's single.

Biggest Single Motor Racing Prize For Al Unser

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Al Unser, auto racing's newest glamour boy, got out of his motel bed at 8 a.m. Sunday, ate breakfast with his wife, his mother and his two children — just like any other day in the year.

He showed up at noon at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, kicked his way through the debris left by 300,000 people, and visited with crewmen who had helped him win a dramatic wire-to-wire victory the day before in the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race.

A few hours later he stepped on stage of the Murat Shrine Temple and accepted the biggest single check ever paid to the winner of a motor-sports event—$271,097.72.

"This has to be the greatest single day in a race driver's life," the handsome, dark-haired member of a racing family from Albuquerque said modestly. "The guys back there in the garage made it possible."

He also had some sentimental words for Parnelli Jones, winner of the 1963 Memorial Day 500. Jones is co-owner of the P.J. Colt turbocharged Ford that performed so flawlessly for Unser Saturday.

What Unser didn't say but what he admits privately is that a year of seasoning under Jones' wing has made him one of the world's best drivers, with unlimited wealth and glory ahead of him.

He hooked up with the brilliant Jones last year prior to the Memorial Day race, but missed the lineup when he broke his leg while frolicking with a motorcycle in the garage area.

After his leg mended, however, the 31-year-old drove Jones' car to six championship victories in 11 races, finished second three times, third once and fourth on another occasion.

He came into this year's 500 with the best current record of any driver, and he came to the speedway with the best car among the 80 or so entries.

During a month of preparation, Unser consistently turned the top practice laps and had the least problems with his machinery. From the first week of practice on he was virtually conceded the pole position.

He won that honor on the first day of qualifying at 170.221 m.p.h. and went into the race the odds-on favorite over such worthies as three-time winner A.J. Foyt, 1969 champion Mario Andretti, Unser's brother Bobby, Dan Gurney, Johnny Rutherford and three-time world driving champion Jack Brabham.

Rutherford, who started in the middle of the first row, got to the first turn ahead of the field but Al passed him on the back stretch—to set the pattern for the race.

Pre-Tourney Favorites Capture NCAA District 3 Playoff Title

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP) — Florida State lived up to its pre-tournament favorite's role in NCAA District 3 baseball playoff action, winning four consecutive games and taking the championship Saturday night by defeating Mississippi State 5-4.

Mississippi State kept the final game close, but errors and passed balls cost them a possible victory.

The Seminoles jumped off to a quick lead in the bottom of the first inning. They pushed two runs across on two walks, a passed ball, two errors, a double-steal and an infield hit. In the fifth, FSU scored two more runs, this time on two walks, another double-steal and three singles.

Florida State scored what proved to be the winning run in the eighth. This one came on an error, a steal and a single by John Grubb, who also had a single during the fifth inning.

Phill Still was the big gun for the losers. He had a solo homer in the second and added a double in the sixth, when Mississippi State scored two runs.

The Bulldogs loaded the bases with only one out in the top of the ninth, but were able to score only one run before FSU retired the side and left three Mississippi State runners stranded on base.

Mississippi State had advanced to the finals by defeating Maryland 8-4 in a Saturday afternoon game. The winning Bulldog pitcher in this game, Gene Henderson, insured his own victory with a solo homer in the top of the seventh. His run broke a 3-3 tie and put the Bulldogs ahead to stay.

As District 3 champions, Florida State will advance to college World Series that starts June 12 in Omaha, Neb.

ONE TEAM'S OPINION
TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — The 1969-70 Arizona State basketball squad selected Jimmy Collins and New Mexico State University as the best player and team, respectively, during the regular season.

Collins scored 33 points as the Aggies dumped the Sun Devils, 94-88, in Tempe.

Dave Hill Wins Memphis Open; Not Playing As He'd Like To

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — "I don't like to hear these guys moaning about playing bad," Dave Hill said.

"I know what playing bad is all about. Not for just a little time, either, like for eight or nine years. I was going out of my skull. Right up the wall."

"I couldn't sleep nights. I'd get up and try different grips on the club. I had to master this game or have it put me in the ground."

Hill, who said he still isn't playing the way he wants to, played just well enough to win the $150,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis Open Golf Tournament Sunday, carving out a final-round 68 for 267, 13 under par on the 6,466-yard Colonial Country Club course and the lowest 72-hole score of the year.

"I'm hitting about 60 per cent of my shots the way I want to," the slim, 33-year-old said, his dark hair plastered to his forehead by the steady drizzle that marked the final round.

"Now I want to play. I'm not playing as good as I did at this stage last year—but it's close, darn close."

It was in this tournament last year—then played as the Memphis Open—that the 12-year tour veteran really broke into his own.

He won the event for the second time and was off and running to his greatest year. He added the Philadelphia and Buick Open titles, finished second on the money-winning list with more than $150,000 and won the coveted Vardon Trophy for the lowest scoring average.

Ex-Champion Boxer Dies

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Former world bantamweight boxing champion Manuel Ortiz died Sunday of cirrhosis at San Diego Naval Hospital. He was 53.

The native of Corona, Calif., who spent most of his later years in the El Centro area east of San Diego, won 92 bouts, 45 by knockout, lost 27 and fought three draws in his 18-year ring career which ended Dec. 10, 1955.

Ortiz captured the 118-pound crown by outpointing Lou Salica in a 12-round contest on Aug. 7, 1942.

He successfully defended his title eight times in 1943, four times in 1944 and, after his discharge from the Army, three more times in 1946.

He finally lost the title to Harold Dade in a 15-round bout on Jan. 6, 1947, regained it March 11 with a 15-round decision and lost it for good May 31, 1950 to Vic Toweel in Johannesburg, South Africa.

Hill's victory Sunday was worth $30,000 and pushed his season earnings to over $67,000. He scored by a single stroke over Homero Blancas, Frank Beard and Bob Charles.

Charles, a New Zealand left-hander, had a remarkable 63, Beard fashioned a 67, and Blancas, Hill's playing partner all four days and the leader going into the final round, took a 70.

Billy Maxwell, Dan Sikes, George Archer, Joe Campbell and Steve Spray followed at 270. Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper and Gary Player did not compete.

Hill moved into a tie for first on the first hole, when Blancas bogeyed, and went in front with 18 and 12-foot birdie putts on the eighth and ninth, respectively.

He saved par with a 15-footer on the 12th and appeared to be ready to run away and hide when he canned a 15-foot birdie putt on the 13th.

But he bogeyed the 14th and 15th, missing the green each time and fell back to a tie with Beard and Charles, who had finished.

He went in front to stay on the next hole, a par-5. He was in a trap in two, blasted out to 30 inches and sank the putt for the bird that clinched his eighth tour triumph.

But it has been a long, rough road for the tough-minded guy who came out of the caddy ranks in Jackson, Mich., and did little more than make a bare living his first eight years on the tour.

Then, in 1968, he took an enforced vacation when his wife locked his clubs in the garage, wouldn't let him get at them, and for the first time in years, he went 10 days without playing.

"It made a lot of difference," Dave said. "I've been taking more time off the tour the last couple of weeks. It helps. If I'm not playing good, I can get more value from time on the practice tee than I can playing in a tournament."

Villanova Wins IC4A Crown

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Villanova's runners took back the IC4A outdoor track and field title from Maryland's muscle men. Coach Jumbo Elliott's Terrapins from the Atlantic Coast Conference 60-52 Friday and Saturday for their 10th IC4A outdoor title in the past 13 years.

The Wildcats retired their second IC4A cup—five victories retire a cup.

SOLUTION OF SATURDAY'S PUZZLE

The Worry Clinic Lowering Self Helps No One

Readers, please vote on this debate which Rev. Lon illustrates. For many innocent religious leaders seem to feel that if you put a saint in a den of lions, those felines will eagerly try to become saints! Likewise, placing a tiger in a cathedral doesn't make a purring, domesticated cat out of that jungle beast!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.
CASE N-513: Lon J., aged 31, is an irate clergyman.

"Dr. Crane," he protested vehemently, "I resent your recent column in which you labeled hippies as emotionally juvenile.

"Why, I'd have you know that they are only seeking to promote love for their fellowman. "And they are best able to understand love.

"So you have done them a rank injustice in your column! Before I reply to Rev. Lon, it may be wise to let one of his older parishioners add her comments.

"Dr. Crane," this wife, aged 28, began her explanation, "Rev. Lon dresses somewhat like a hippie himself.

"Oh, he doesn't wear beads or unkempt clothes, but he lets his hair grow long, with low sideburns.

"And he seems to pride himself on smoking the extra long kingsize cigarettes.

"He is somewhat the 'arty' type, for I have learned that he once tried to get on the stage as an actor.

"His wife also wears ultra abbreviated skirts, which would best be described as the mini miniskirt.

"They hobnob with hippies in our city, apparently thinking that if they adopt hippie dress and outlook, then the hippies will be impressed with our church.

"But it is wise for religious leaders to cheapen themselves in an effort to fraternize with the non-church folks?"

In this connection, George Washington vetoed any reduction in standards or ideals by saying: "Let us raise a standard to which the wise and just may aspire."

When you try to "water down" your morality, it seldom inspires the very people to whom you are slanting your appeals.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A106 ♥AKQJ10 ♦J4 ♣KJ6
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♥ Pass 2♦ Pass
3♥ Pass 5♦ Pass

What action do you take?
A.—Partner hardly can have less than a solid six or seven card diamond suit, which is all you need for a slam in hearts. You cannot contemplate a grand slam, for if partner had the ace of clubs he no doubt would have taken time out to show it. Because of your club holding it would be hazardous to permit partner to play the hand; therefore, your correct bid is six hearts.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q2 ♥J53 ♦10642 ♣10753
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♠ Pass 2♥ Pass Pass
Dble. Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Two spades. We would decline to bid our "best suit" in the interest of economy. This is the cheapest action open to us. No remote thought is to be given to a pass.

Q. 3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠62 ♥5 ♦AQ7653 ♣7542
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♠ 2♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Pass. There is no need to rescue partner. Inasmuch as he has not been doubled you are not to assume that he is in trouble. A bid by you is more apt to incite him to further action.

Q. 4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AJ10 ♥Q6 ♦KJ63 ♣K1084
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♠ 2♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Three no trump. Obviously you wish to play for game with this powerful hand and no indirect methods are necessary.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A ♥852 ♦QJ97 ♣10642
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Opposite partner's jump shift, you hold a very impressive hand. Its value at the outset was 14 points, now that spades have been opened your hand may be revalued at 17 points—one for the fifth spade and two for the sixth. Therefore, you may conclude that you have sufficient values for a slam, for partner's jump shift, promised at least 19 points. We suggest a direct bid of six spades, or if you wish to enjoy the ceremony you may prolong the fun by showing one of your aces.

Q. 6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K73 ♥Q84 ♦K642 ♣AQ6
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♥ Pass 2NT Pass
3♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—The suggested call is a return to three hearts. There is no occasion for any more drastic action at this time. You are warned not to get too excited. Do not lose sight of the fact that you have two no trump bids promised 13, 14, or 15 points. You have 14.

Q. 7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J109876 ♥A103 ♦K8 ♣A2
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♠ Pass 3♣ Pass
3♠ Pass 4♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Opposite partner's jump shift, you hold a very impressive hand. Its value at the outset was 14 points, now that spades have been opened your hand may be revalued at 17 points—one for the fifth spade and two for the sixth. Therefore, you may conclude that you have sufficient values for a slam, for partner's jump shift, promised at least 19 points. We suggest a direct bid of six spades, or if you wish to enjoy the ceremony you may prolong the fun by showing one of your aces.

Q. 8—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A4 ♥98 ♦KQJ987 ♣AQJ
The bidding has proceeded:
East South

What do you bid?
A.—Five diamonds. This may turn out badly but we consider it a well calculated risk. There is no scientific way to find out if you can make the game and the prospective profit is worth the risk.

Thanks to Mrs. Geo. T. Cash, Leavenworth, Kan.

Seven Men Arrested In Shoot-Out Near Benson

BENSON, N.C. (AP) — Officials say a shootout between whites and Negroes early Sunday near Godwin Lake eight miles east of Benson left three Negroes injured, one seriously. Seven white men were arrested on charges of felonious assault and assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill in the Johnston County incident.

Highway Patrol Commander Col. Edwin Guy said Sunday an investigation is continuing and more arrests are probable.

The seven men were given a preliminary hearing in Smithfield Sunday and bonds were set at $10,000 each. The men remained in jail at Smithfield Sunday night awaiting a grand jury hearing today.

Guy said Charles Sellers of Rt. 2, Benson, and Louis Robinson of Rt. 2, Dunn were taken to a Dunn hospital. Sellers was in serious condition with buckshot wounds in the lower back and abdomen, and Robinson was in fair condition with scattered wounds.

Mrs. Viola Oates of Rt. 2, Dunn, was treated for shotgun wounds of the legs and feet and released, Guy said.

A short while later Mrs. Oates was shot by men in a passing car as she stood in her own yard, Jenkins reported.

Several hours later patrol Sgt. W. S. Ethridge of Lillington stopped a car carrying seven white men and arrested them.

Graduated From NCATS Univ.

RALEIGH — Mrs. Shelia Laughinghouse Cherry graduated from the North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University here Sunday.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Laughinghouse.

The seven men charged were identified by Guy as James G. Baker, 25; Randy Tart, 20; Jerry Moore, 26; Harry Jernigan, 24; Wallace Gainey, 24; Johnny Barefoot, 19; and Connie Lee, 21, all of Rt. 2, Dunn.

Capt. John Jenkins of Raleigh, commander of Troop C of the patrol, reported that an exchange of gunfire between six Negroes and seven whites occurred just off N.C. 242 near Godwin Lake at 1:45 a.m. Sunday. Sellers and Robinson were injured in the exchange, he said.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I wrote you a letter nearly 3 years ago because my wife and I were having marital problems. I described my wife's actions, and you said she needed to see a psychiatrist. Well, there wasn't any in our town, so she saw a marriage counselor instead. Would you believe that after six visits to this marriage counselor, she quit her regular job and went to work for him at half her former pay? On the advice of this counselor (she claims) she started treating me like a stranger and would have nothing to do with me as a wife. I spoke to my lawyer about it, and he advised me to move out, which I did. Well, that must have been the wrong move because she charged me with desertion. The next thing I knew I was on my way to being a divorced man. [All this after 14 years of marriage and 3 children.] Now I hear that she is marrying her marriage counselor, whose wife of 16 years started divorce proceedings shortly after my wife went to work for him. Now, my problem: Do you know a nice woman between 35 and 40 who is willing to take a chance with an idiot? "LONESOME" IN KANSAS

DEAR LONESOME: Not off hand. But I'll inquire.

DEAR ABBY: Recently my son, Jeffrey, was married. His mother and I have been divorced for 8 years. Three years ago I married again. My first wife is still single, and considering the alimony check she gets, I am sure she will die single.

My question: Don't you think that since engraved invitations were sent out, my present wife and I should have received one? We did not. My son simply asked me if I would come, and I said I would. Had we received an invitation, my wife would have had the good sense to decline knowing my first wife would be there. However, my present wife wasn't even given the chance to gracefully decline. I think this was very poor taste, and want your opinion.

JEFFREY'S FATHER

DEAR FATHER: It may have been "poor taste" but it was good sense. It's risky business to send an invitation on the assumption that it will be refused. What if your wife decided to accept?

DEAR ABBY: My husband smokes three packs of cigaretts a day, and has a hacking cough which drives me up a wall.

I stopped smoking in hopes that he would, but it didn't work. He coughs so bad at night that it interferes with my sleep. I have threatened to sleep in the spare room. What would you do in my case? DISGUSTED

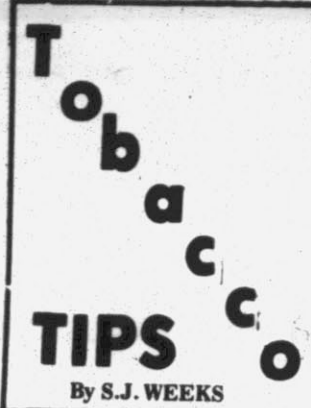

DEAR DISGUSTED: I'd quit "threatening," and appeal to his sense of logic. Tell him that the person who quits cigarettes for five years has the same chance of escaping lung cancer as the nonsmoker. Also, the person who is 25 and does not smoke can expect eight extra years of life expectancy. And if that doesn't do it, sleep in the spare room.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ALL WHO WROTE TO PROTEST A RECENT ITEM: A writer asked, "In your opinion, is homosexuality a disease?"

I replied, "NO! It is the INABILITY TO LOVE AT ALL which I consider an emotional illness." Meaning that I do not regard the homosexual as "sick." Rather, the person who is incapable of loving AT ALL is, in my opinion, the "sick" one.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

By S.J. WEEKS

Tobacco disease continues to be a threat to all farmers who grow tobacco. There are different ways to reduce and-or control tobacco diseases.

Disease resistant varieties can help reduce losses caused by some diseases. Chemical soil treatment can be helpful. There are some cultural practices that will also help reduce tobacco disease losses.

For example, blue mold can be prevented in the plant bed by following a good fungicide program as a preventative measure. We can avoid blue mold until the tobacco plants are transplanted in the field. Unfortunately, we usually have weather conditions that are favorable to the spread of blue mold after the crop is established in the field.

Blue mold in the field can be greatly reduced if all growers would destroy the plant bed sites by disking after transplanting is complete. This practice should prevent blue mold build-up in the old bed site and therefore reduce the possibility of field outbreaks.

In addition, this practice should also reduce carry over of tobacco mosaic.

With the present high production cost, it is imperative that all known practices be followed that will enable us to produce our tobacco crop more efficiently.

Community Notes

The Matrons Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Bertha Wooten, 1210 W. Third St., Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Elder Rouse of Fremont will render revival services this week at the House of Prayer, Fleming St. Services will begin each night at eight o'clock.

The following statement is directed to Mayor Frank M. Wooten, Jr.

from the Central Business District Project Advisory Committee. The following statement we believe will help clarify some of the irresponsible questions raised by Mayor Wooten in his suit against the City of Greenville.

1. The project will NOT cause any increase in the City ad valorem tax rate. The Agreement between the City and the Redevelopment Commission expressly forbids any use of ad valorem tax monies for this project.
2. Most of the city's share of the cost of the project (25 percent) will be in the form of non-cash grants-in-aid such as street and utilities improvements. This work is sorely needed in the downtown area and will have to be done regardless of whether there is a CBD program or not.
3. Considerable work has already been done in the way of utility and street improvement and already stands as a credit to the city to be used for the CBD project. Such things as the recent addition to Sheppard Memorial Library qualify as grant-in-aid credits to the city.
4. This project is not something that has been quickly conceived, and we the members of the Central Business District Advisory Committee strongly object to the action brought by Mayor Wooten to kill the CBD Redevelopment Project. In addition to the overwhelming endorsement of the project by the citizens in two public hearings, the project has been endorsed and approved by
 - A. The City Council
 - B. The City Planning and Zoning Commission
 - C. The Redevelopment Commission
 - D. The Greenville Utilities Commission
 - E. The Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association
 - F. East Carolina University
5. It is beyond our understanding how our elected mayor, Mr. Frank Wooten, can take it upon himself to say that all of the above listed agencies in support of this program are wrong. The mayor says that even our city councilmen, who are elected by popular vote and clearly represent the broad interests of the citizens of Greenville, are wrong. These councilmen have consistently endorsed and approved the CBD project and surely reflect the will of the citizens of our city.

6. We cannot understand the mayor's legal attempt (and he is asking that the citizens pay for this suit from city taxes) to undo the years of work by so many citizens and we fear that this attempt can well develop a situation of hostility between the mayor's office and the other working and governing bodies which would be extremely detrimental to our community.
7. The Central Business District Project is an opportunity much sought after by most cities. How else can we get four dollars' worth of value for every one dollar spent. Greenville's share of the cost of this project will be 25 percent. We believe that with the high rate of federal spending and taxes that this is one of the few opportunities that presents itself to bring some of the federal spending home where we can actually see and feel the benefits of some of our federal tax monies. Why does our mayor, Mr. Wooten, feel that it is all right for cities like Washington, High Point, Charlotte, and others in North Carolina to spend federal funds in building a better downtown business area and penalize Greenville by refusing to be a part of this? Does he think that Greenville's refusal to share in this program will in any way deter federal spending? Of course, you know it won't. The only place it hurts is Greenville.
8. Mr. Mayor, where were you when the Redevelopment Commission conducted a public hearing on this project? Why did you not speak up at the City Council public hearing on this project? Why have you waited to this late date to voice your opposition in such a manner that you are forcing the City and other agencies to bear additional expenses because of your suit?
