Open Warfare After Tensions

Jordanian Troops And Guerrillas Battle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Jordanian army troops and Palestinian guerrillas battled throughout the morning all over Amman today, but leaders of both sides were reported trying to put a cease-fire into effect this afternoon.

A broadcast from the Jordanian capital said army and guerrilla leaders met after more than four hours of fighting and at once decided on a cease-fire. Amman Radio said they were now trying to restore calm.

Many dead and wounded were reported.

Hours after the broadcast fighting still was going on, however.

The radio said a cease-fire had been agreed upon by Jordanian officials who had met with the guerrilla Central Committee, the supreme executive body of the resistance movement.

Open warfare broke out between King Hussein's troops and militant Palestinians after two days of tension and the overnight kidnaping by the guerrilla of Morris Draper, the U.S. Embassy's political officer.

The guerrillas and Jordanian government forces clashed repeatedly Sunday night, with about 50 people reported killed or wounded and about 40 guerrillas arrested. Officials said Draper, 42, a native of California, was released unharmed after the 40 guerrillas were freed.

The fighting today began just after dawn and soon spread to all parts of the city. Four hours later the fighting intensified. Gunfire echoed from all over the city, punctuated by the louder sounds of rockets and shells.

Guests at the American-owned Intercontinental Hotel threw themselves to the floor as bullets whizzed through the lobby, breaking windows and light fixture. No casualties were reported in the hotel, but many bodies were reported lying in a road near the hotel. They were said to be civilians caught in the crossfire.

First reports indicated the Jordanian army went on the offensive against the guerrillas, who had repeatedly flouted the government's attempts to restrain their operations against Israel and in effect set up their own enclaves within Jordan.

The army troops were reported setting ambushes for the guerrillas in many parts of the city, and a Palestinian spokesman said the army was attacking guerrilla headquarters on the outskirts of the city.

The guerrillas in turn took positions on hillside houses overlooking the commercial center of the city and threw up roadblocks across the streets leading to them.

The commercial district emptied rapidly of bystanders as bullets whizzed through it. Ambulances rushed about, and many guerrillas were reported killed or wounded.

Among the casualties was a French Embassy attaché, who stopped for a roadblock and was wounded when troops opened up from both sides of the road.

The Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine seemed to bear the brunt of the army's attack at first, but later guerrillas from all organizations joined in.

An official for the Palestine Liberation Organization was asked by telephone who started the fighting. He replied: "We can't say anything now, we are too busy fighting," and slammed down the receiver just as an explosion went off.

Army patrols ducking from doorway to doorway were fired on by guerrillas holed up in nearby buildings.

Work Begun On Setting Pitt Budget

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
Pitt County Commissioners began the task of ironing out the county's 1970-71 budget today with the first item of business dealing with a discussion of budget requests for Pitt Technical Institute.

Dr. William Fulford, president of Pitt Tech, briefly went over the various aspects of the new budget request with commissioners. Total "new money" requested by the Institute's Board of Trustees was $241,010.25.

Included in the new budget request was a $50,000 capital improvement sum, a $6,000 staff salary supplement for 12 members of the Institute's faculty, and a $2,400 supplement for the chief administrative officer (president).

Fulford noted that the figures were in line with supplements authorized for county school personnel and neighboring technical institutes.

In addition to numerous other budget increases and alterations, Fulford explained that this year the Institution is asking for $4,400 funding in the area of adult education courses.

He pointed out that during the past year, Pitt Tech had utilized the American Legion Hut here for classes and that money for reimbursement of utilities was not available although the Legion offered the facilities and did not ask for payment.

Of the $4,400, he said, $800 is

Explosion Kills 7 Green Berets

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — A "hot" wire accidentally connected to a series of 20 one-pound TNT charges has been blamed for an explosion that killed seven Green Beret soldiers Monday and injured five of their comrades.

The explosives were in the middle of the soldiers who stood on a Ft. Bragg training ground during an exercise in demolition procedures.

The 11 students and an assistant instructor had just wired the charges for a demonstration. They were to pull back and witness the blast from bleachers on a knoll 200 yards away.

But the Army said an electrically charged wire was mistakenly hooked onto the charges during the demonstration, igniting the blast that sent dust, uniform fragments and torn combat boots into the air.

Army spokesmen said an investigation would be made to determine how the "hot" wire happened to be at hand and why it was charged. Normally, the spokesman said, security precautions are extremely strict to avoid accidental detonations.

The Army identified the dead being asked for such purposes of reimbursement to the various fraternal organizations that provide facilities for holding the education courses.

Also, an additional, $1,800 for setting up another adult education center in Pitt County was requested. Last year, the $1,800 for financing a center in Farmville was appropriated and is also in the budget request for this year, making a total of $4,400.

Commissioners were to discuss further aspects of the Pitt Tech budget later today along with other county presentations by various agencies within the county financial structure.

A total figure for this year's budget request was not available this morning. Last year's initial budget figure totaled more than $4.9 million but was trimmed considerably.

Commissioners will meet again this afternoon to continue discussions and no final action is expected until next week.

3 Years For Abandonment

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — A Winston-Salem woman was sentenced to three years imprisonment Monday after she pleaded guilty in Forsyth County Superior Court to charges of child abandonment and manslaughter.

Mrs. Verdell Acker Campbell, 24, the mother of three other small children, was arrested after her 11-month-old daughter Charlotte was found dead on Feb. 7 in Mrs. Campbell's unheated Winston-Salem home. Medical authorities ruled at the time that death resulted from pneumonia.

Mrs. Campbell's other three children have been placed with county authorities.

The penalty for piracy is death and for the second charge, life imprisonment.

thanks by members of the commission for his two years of leadership as chairman of the commission during a time when many new programs and activities were added.

The newly formed Greenville Tennis Club acquired material and presented to the Recreation Department for making a backdrop for the tennis court. Lee stated this had been erected, and expressed appreciation to the club for making the material available.

The Arnold Society of AFROTC at ECU has just completed painting the airplane which is located in the corner of the Little League baseball field at Elm Street Recreation Center. Director Boyd Lee noted this is another example of the interest and cooperation shown by ECU groups in assisting the city recreation program.

Summer programs to begin next week were discussed by Lee, who pointed out a number of new activities to be incorporated for the first time this year. These include a children's theater to be directed by Mrs. Alan Cayton; bowling for children; and horse back riding. Arrangements for these activities will be based on pick up from the playground areas.

Lee reported that again this Summer East Carolina University has made possible a summer program by making facilities at the university available.

Fired At King

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein escaped an assassination attempt today in the midst of fighting between the Jordanian army and Palestinian guerrillas, the Amman radio reported.

The army troops were trying to curtail guerrilla incursions into Israel.

The broadcast said Hussein's motorcade was fired upon this morning as heavy fighting raged in the streets of the capital.

Leaders of both sides worked out a cease-fire arrangement late in the morning but this was ignored and the bitter fighting raged into the afternoon.

The combatants battled with rockets, bazookas, machine guns and automatic weapons, filling the city with the crash of explosions and the bark of gunfire.

Hussein's motorcade was driving through the crossroads town of Sweilch 12 miles northeast of the capital, the radio said.

Guerrilla sources in Beirut, Lebanon, said the king's driver was wounded in the incident but gave no other details.

Ervin Introduces Bill Requiring Speedy Trials

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., charging society is being deprived of the constitutional right to a speedy trial, introduced a bill today to require federal criminal trials start within 60 days of indictment.

The North Carolina Democrat and one of the Senate's leading authorities on the Constitution said "we must take steps to make the 6th Amendment right to a speedy trial—a right so far denied to both society as well as the defendant—a reality after all these years."

Ervin said the bill, co-sponsored by Michigan

Democrat Philip A. Hart, also provides "a workable and constitutional alternative" to President Nixon's preventive detention proposal now being considered for the District of Columbia.

Until recently defense lawyers had little success invoking the speedy trial right of the Constitution. But last month the Supreme Court overturned the conviction of a Florida truck driver who was not tried until 7½ years after his arrest.

The justices did not define clearly what they consider to be too long a time, but they warned lower courts to enforce the right of a defendant to a speedy trial.

Ervin's bill would go into effect in four stages, starting first with serious felonies in which defendants have been detained under high money bail and gradually requiring other felony trials in the federal courts to be held within two months. Tax, antitrust and security cases would be exempt.

Each district court would be required to establish plans to carry out the speedy trial mandate and to report to Congress the additional funds and personnel that would be necessary.

Ervin is a strong critic of the preventive detention proposal—which would allow a judge to jail a defendant without bond if he decided the accused's past record gave a reasonable indication he would commit more crimes while free.

Supporters say preventive detention is needed because of what they claim is a high incidence of repeat crime by persons out on bond while waiting trials, which may not be held for months.

Ervin's bill also authorizes additional penalties for crimes committed while out on bond and provides for pretrial service agencies to supervise persons awaiting trial.

Extra Time Granted To Buy, Develop Project

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville Redevelopment Commissioners last night voted to give William E. Dansey (Wedco) 30 days to pay an additional five per cent deposit on his option to buy and develop parcel two in the Shore Drive Project.

Appearing before the Commission as representatives of Wedco, Fred Mattox and Les Turnage asked the body to extend the current option the company has on the property, located on the West corner of Greene and First Streets, until Sept. 1 without any additional deposit.

Executive director A E Dubber informed the two representatives that they were asking for an option extension that, technically, no longer exist since a resolution had been passed on May 11 giving Dansey to May 31 to pay the additional deposit or the option would expire.

He noted that the commissioners are not at liberty to extend the option since Wedco does not own the land.

Mattox pointed out that Dansey had applied for loans from the Economic Development Administration and Equitable Life Insurance Society towards funding the building of a motel on the parcel but had been turned down on the first request for loan by EDA.

However, additional information has been supplied to EDA along with a second request, Mattox continued, and an affirmative answer on the loan is expected. He said that Dansey was in Washington Monday to discuss the loan with EDA.

Mattox cited the "tight money situation" as the underlying reason for the delay in buying the property and developing it but said that as soon as the loan is approved, construction would start "immediately."

Approval of the loan from Equitable should be "contingent upon approval" of the EDA loan, it was noted.

Commissioners at the last monthly meeting had voted to extend the construction deadline an additional six months with the stipulation that an additional five per cent deposit be made to reaffirm Wedco's intentions to buy the property. The additional deposit, they pointed out, had been requested by HUD in Atlanta.

The Wedco concern had made an initial deposit on the option when its bid was approved but the time lapse had prompted

Probe Spillage Of Herbicide

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's board of health is investigating the spillage of a controversial herbicide mixture into the Rocky River, upstream from lakes which provide the water supply for Siler City.

The board reported Monday that undetermined amounts of 2, 4-D and 2, 4, 5-T, banned for use around populated areas, were spilled into the river Tuesday, three-fourths of a mile from the reservoir.

The board said the spillage killed fish and plant life in the area but the 220 million gallons of water in the reservoir would dilute it enough that it would not endanger the city's water supply.

The spill occurred when pesticide applicators under contract to the Randolph County Electric Membership Co. stopped to dilute a tankful of pesticide with stream water.

The company, Aerial Services Corp., based in Roanoke, Va., had been spraying the utility's right of way by helicopter to clear away the weeds for a number of days, according to health officials.

Company employes said the spillage was no greater than two gallons, but health board investigators and personnel from the state Department of Water and Air Resources said the number of fish killed indicated a substantially greater quantity washed into the river.

Dr. John Freeman, chief of the board's veterinary health section, said investigators also reported that dead weeds in the area seemed to show that the incident was not the first in the area.

Kling-Hedgepeth Vows Said In Sunday Ceremony

AYDEN — Miss Nancy Kaye Hedgepeth became the bride of Glenn Lewis Kling on Sunday at 3:30 p.m. at the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Gilbert Mister officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hedgepeth of Ayden and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kling of Pinetops.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Corabob Turnage, organist, and Mrs. Simmons Hill, soloist, who sang "A Time for Us," "More" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The altar was decorated with two standards of woodwordia and jade foliage, two pedestal arrangements of white and yellow gladioli, a pair of branch spiral candelabras and a fifteen branch candelabra draped with sprengeri behind the profile prie dieu where the bride and bridegroom knelt for the wedding prayer and benediction.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Victorian inspired formal gown of silk organza over peau de soie. The empire bodice was fashioned with high - round neck bordered with stand - up collar of scallop chantilly lace threaded with narrow satin ribbon, and Juliette sleeves with deep cuffs enhanced with triple bands of lace, and closed with tiny self - buttons. Scallop lace formed a bib effect on the molded bodice which was highlighted with appliques of Venice lace. The A - silhouette skirt with border of lace was complemented with a removable square train attached at the lifted waist with double organza bows. A double inner frame and border of lace with scattered cut-out motifs, adorned the full chapel length.

Her elbow length veil of silk illusion fell from a cluster of roses. The bride carried a bouquet of pom pom chrysanthemums, miniature carnations centered with white hybrid cattelya orchid with yellow throat and tied with satin streamers.

Miss Patricia Stroud of Ayden was maid of honor, and Mrs. David Butler of Greenville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. They wore floor length gowns of green floral voile with an empire waistline with white ribbon attached at the waist with a bow and short puffed sleeves. They wore wide brimmed crocheted white hats and carried bouquets of white daisies and gypsophelia with bows of white and green.

Bridesmaids were Miss Belinda Corbett, Miss Elaine Stroud, Miss Pam Pratt, all of Ayden, Miss Penny Keller of Kinston and Mrs. Dalton Knox of Greenville, cousin of the bride.

They wore floor length gowns of yellow floral voile with an empire waistline with green ribbon attached at the waist with a bow and short puffed sleeves. They wore wide brimmed crocheted white hats and carried bouquets of white daisies and gypsophelia and bows of green with streamers.

Miss Connie Nelson of Greenville, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Her dress and hat were identical to the maid and matron of honors. She carried a basket of daisies.

Ken Hines of Ayden was ring bearer. The bridegroom's father served as best man. Ushers were Tim Cookson, Dick Wood, both of Greenville, Joe Fuller of Rocky Mount, Raggie Walston of Pineops, cousin of the bridegroom, and Bobby Harmon of Newport News, Va.

Mrs. H.W. Gooding directed the wedding.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hedgepeth wore a yellow bonded crepe dress with a long yellow lace coat with matching accessories and a corsage of white Georgianna orchids.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a blue floral dress with long puffed sleeves and matching accessories and a white Georgianna orchid.

The bride is a graduate of Lenoir Community College,

MRS. GLENN LEWIS KLING

Kinston, majoring in business and employed by DuPont of Kinston. The bridegroom is a graduate of N.C. State University, majoring in mechanical engineering and employed by DuPont of Kinston.

For a wedding trip to the Shenandoah Valley and mountains of Virginia, the bride changed into a double knit coral dress and matching accessories and the orchid lifted from her bouquet.

The couple received in the vestibule of the church following the ceremony. The couple will reside at Rt. 1, Ayden.

Rehearsal Party

Mrs. Louis Hedgepeth, mother of the bride, entertained the Kling - Hedgepeth Kling wedding party and out - of - town guests at an after - rehearsal party Saturday night at the fellowship hall of the church.

The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a candelabra of assorted flowers.

Mrs. Hedgepeth served the cake after the couple cut the first traditional slice. Punch was poured by the bridegroom - elect's mother, Mrs. Kling.

Mrs. Lloyd Patrick presided at the register.

Miss Susan Fornes Couple Weds In Ceremony Exchanges Vows On Performed Friday Night Saturday Afternoon

The Hollywood Presbyterian Church was the scene of the wedding ceremony of Miss Susan Kay Fornes and Thomas Jaynes Garverick on Saturday at 5:00 p.m.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was Roy F. Sharrett. A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Ollen McGowan of Rt. 2, Greenville, organist, and Mrs. Henry Loyd Fornes Jr. of Rt. 3, Greenville, soloist.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Loyd Fornes Sr. of Rt. 2, Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Charles Kramer Garverick of Arlington, Va.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Henry Loyd Fornes Jr., wore a full length white peau de soie gown with a white lace covered bodice and lace pointed sleeves. The neckline featured scalloped lace. The A-line was covered with bridal satin with rows of lace, sequins and pearls with scalloped lace. The train was attached to the shoulders.

Her veil of tulle was attached to a star of lace and pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of miniature carnations and lily - of - the - valley centered with a white orchid and tied with streamers of satin and tulle.

Miss Peggy Lou Stokes of Rt. 3, Greenville, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a formal gown of Nile dotted Swiss fashioned with an empire bodice, scooped neckline and tiered belle sleeves edged with Venice lace. The back of the gown was gathered and featured covered buttons.

She carried a colonial nosegay of Marguerite daisies tied with streamers of matching satin.

Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Paulette Fornes and Miss Denyse Ruth Fornes, both of Rt. 3, Greenville, nieces of the bride. They wore gowns of maize dotted Swiss styled identical to the honor attendant's and carried similar nosegays.

Richard Andrew Garverick of Tucker, Ga., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were J. Michael Davis of Greenville and Raymond Earl Fornes of Apex, brother of the bride.

Following a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in South Boston, Va.

The bridegroom is a graduate of East Carolina University.

A reception followed the ceremony held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H.L. Fornes Jr.

SATURDAY — Miss Mildred Elizabeth Aull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Marion Aull Sr. of Salisbury, and Charles Harris Rogers were married Friday evening in the Chapel of St. John's Lutheran Church.

The Rev. R. Douglas Fritz, pastor of the bride, officiated at the 7:30 p.m. ceremony. Mrs. Wayne Koontz, organist, presented the wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor length gown of candlelight pure silk peau de soie. The bodice was of scalloped chantilly lace trimmed in crystals and tiny seed pearls. The A-line skirt fell into a chapel train. The border of the bridal train featured 24 scallops, each with handsewn and beaded appliques of re - embroidered chantilly lace.

Her two - tiered floor length bouffant veil of candlelight pure silk illusion with short blush veil was attached to a cluster of chantilly lace leaves edged in plaited pearls and crystals. She carried a colonial bouquet of white butterfly roses, gypsophila and stephanotis.

Miss Kathryn Lynn Morton of Jacksonville was the bride's maid of honor and only attendant. Her dress was scandale pink crepe and lace with empire waist and full length sleeves. She wore a headpiece of matching butterfly bow with tulle veil and carried a colonial bouquet in shades of pink roses and stephanotis.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Edward Rogers Sr. of Greenville. He had as his best man, David Earl Turnage, of Greenville. Francis Marion Aull Jr. brother of the bride, of Salisbury, and William Ippock of Greenville were ushers.

For a wedding trip, Mrs. Rogers changed into a yellow linen ensemble with matching accessories. Her corsage was the white roses from her wedding bouquet.

Abby Recommends Help From A Psychiatrist

By Abigail Van Buren
(c. 1970 by CHICAGO TRIBUNE-N. Y. NEWS SYND., INC.)

DEAR ABBY: Recently you recommended GAMBLERS ANONYMOUS which I am sure was a big help to many compulsive gamblers. I have wished many times that there was an ADULTERERS ANONYMOUS for people like myself who are compulsive adulterers.

Don't laugh. It is a serious problem. I have a wonderful husband and family, but I have been involved in so many adulterous affairs that I can no longer count them. I am not oversexed. In fact, I'm just the opposite. I can't for the life of me understand why I deliberately get myself into such miserable situations which offer no sexual fulfillment, and put me in danger of losing my wonderful husband, and everything that is dear to me, if discovered.

Can't something on the order of Alcoholics Anonymous be organized for us?
WEAK SISTER

DEAR WEAK: The only real help I can recommend for you is psychiatric help, for not until you understand what motivates you to behave as you do, will you be able to control your actions, which are clearly destructive. I can't imagine one compulsive adulterer telephoning another and hoping to be talked out of it.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem I can't discuss with anyone I know. It's my husband. He's a wonderful person. The only thing wrong with him is that he can't get really excited about me unless I put on sheer lingerie and high heels, and he can tie me up with ropes.

Aside from that he is a faithful husband, and a good provider. I am 24 and he is 27 and we've been married for nearly 3 years and so far have no children. [We both work.]

My husband feels guilty that he should enjoy something so much that I find repulsive and frightening. He has pleaded with me to be more understanding. He is always after me to do this. It's the only thing we ever fight about. Do you think he could be dangerous? He isn't mean or cruel about anything else. He never suggested anything like this before we were married and we went steady for 2 years. Should I call it quits?

MRS. THOMAS JAYNES GARVERICK

NO NAME IN MAINE

DEAR NO NAME: If your husband insists that you submit to a farout fetish which you find "frightening and repulsive" — that's cruel enough to call it quits. How "dangerous" he could be is anybody's guess, but from what you say about him, you are courageous—and perhaps foolish to stick around to find out.

Miss Linda Edwards Is Bride Of Joseph L. Smith

Miss Linda Edwards became the bride of Joseph Lee Smith on Saturday at 4:00 p.m. in the Salem United Methodist Church, Simpson.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Edwards of Simpson. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Smith Sr. of Greenville.

A program of traditional wedding music was presented by Mrs. Claudie E. Stocks, organist, and Mrs. Lloyd Fornes Jr., soloist, who sang "Whither Thou Goest," "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The church was decorated with overflowing arrangements of white larkspurs with baby's breath trailing from candelabra with burning chace candles. Tall standards of emerald greenery were flanked with spiral candelabra entwined with baby's breath. Preceding to the altar were seven branched candelabra with evergreens wound around white satin ribbon. At the altar was a profile prie-dieu where the bride and bridegroom knelt for the closing prayer and benediction. An aisle runner was rolled out for the bridal party as they came to the altar. Pews were marked with white satin bows and greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of sheer organza and chantilly lace, which was designed with an empire bodice, high neckline and long sheer camelot sleeves. The bodice, full skirt and cuffs were accented with chantilly lace.

Her headpiece, which was a Juliet cap of matching chantilly lace, was attached to a chapel length illusion veil trimmed also in chantilly lace. She carried a cascade of white orchids nestled in white nylon tulle accented with green Canadian pine tied with fern green ribbons.

Mrs. Johnny Mayo, matron of honor, and Miss Judy Brewer, maid of honor, wore formal length gowns made of white dotted Swiss accented with pink flowered designs. They were styled with a portrait neckline and empire waist trimmed with shocking pink velvet ribbon tied with a bow in the back. They carried natural wicker fireside baskets filled with a rainbow of summer flowers interwoven with snow white baby's breath and tied with shocking pink velvet ribbon.

Thomas H. Smith Smith Sr. served his son as best man. Ushers were Tommy Smith of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom, Bobby Tripp of Greenville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Danny Hardee of Grimesland, cousin of the bride, Johnny Mayo of Simpson, Elbert Boyd of Raleigh and Ralph Williams of Washington.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Edwards wore a blue crepe dress with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a gold brocade dress with matching accessories. Both mothers wore white orchid corsages. Grandmothers of the couple wore white carnation corsages.

The bride is a graduate of J.H. Rose High School and is a rising senior at East Carolina University. The bridegroom is a graduate of J.H. Rose High School and is employed with Watson Electrical Co.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride wore a red and white knit dress and matching coat with red and white accessories. She wore the white orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will reside in Simpson.

After Rehearsal Party Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Smith Sr. entertained the Smith-Edwards wedding party, relatives and close friends at an after-rehearsal party at the Simpson Community Building on Friday night.

The bride's table was covered with a pink cloth overlaid with lace. The centerpiece was an arrangement of mums, pom poms and carnations flanked by a silver candelabrum with pink candles.

The bride and bridegroom cut the traditional first slice of cake, after which the guests were served.

Now All Know It Can Be Done

As the United Fund presidency changes and a new year begins, it should not be forgotten that the 1969 drive was the first to go over the top.

With J. Curtis Hendrix as campaign chairman and J. Brantley Speight as president the drive more than met its goal after a long campaign. Both men were recognized at the United Fund's annual meeting last week at which John B. Lewis, Jr. took over as the new president.

United Fund has long ago proven its value as an organization which can consolidate collections for a number of key agencies in Greenville and Pitt County. However, in years past, after an initial period in which there has been good collections, it has been difficult to get the final contributions which would put the campaign over the top.

The final collections were difficult again this year but after a last effort by all those connected with the campaign the drive finally exceeded its goal.

With this outstanding record for 1969, it is important that all Pitt Countians give their full support to United Fund in the future. There is no doubt that the goal can be met each year and it can be met within a short time if everyone does his part.

Many people give their time to carry out the campaign and, of course, thousands of citizens contribute to make it a success. As new officers take over we can hope, based on last year's success, that raising the funds necessary for United Fund agencies will be less of a chore than it has been in the past.

No Generation Gap In Office

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH, N. C. — "There is no generation gap in this office."

Secretary of State Thad Eure beamed. He had just announced the appointment of Charles W. Moore as Deputy Uniform Commercial Code Filing Officer, a division head position in Eure's department.

Eure is 70. Moore is 21.

Eure's 34-year tenure makes him senior in service (and only four months shy of Treasurer Edwin Gill in age) among elective state officials. Moore, who reported for work June 1, is the youngest division head in state government.

Youth in state government is a cardinal tenet in the Eure philosophy. He rules a staff of approximately 25 which has an average age of 32 — lower than any other state agency.

"And you must remember that I'm pulling that average up by several years," the Secretary said. One other employee, Warehouseman Nick Carter in the publications division, has been on the office payroll as long as Eure himself.

"Young people have a lot to offer. They deserve a chance to show what they can do. If we gave them more opportunity to come into active, meaningful levels of business and government there wouldn't be any of the generation gap problems we're hearing about," Eure said.

Eure hires employees young, trains them well, and sees them go on to other opportunities.

"I've never fired anybody," he said, "and everybody who left this office went on to something better."

His Capitol office has long been known for its corps of bright secretaries — all unmarried and all pretty. Many offices in state government and private businesses in Raleigh have secretaries (now married) in responsible positions who are graduates of the Secretary of State office.

An example close at home is Mrs. Eleanor King Ragan, new secretary in the Raleigh bureau of the North Carolina Association of Afternoon Dailies. She spent a couple of years under Eure's tutelage.

"All the girls loved it there. Mr. Eure was like a father to us," she said.

Eure takes a personal interest in every employee. How he hired Moore is illustrative of his approach.

The position became vacant when R. B. McKenzie, Jr., resigned to accept a promotion in another state department. The job, overseeing the perfecting of liens and filing of other commercial documents, required a business administration graduate.

Eure is chairman of the Elon College Board of Trustees. He screened seniors in that field, and inquired of administration and faculty. He noted among the group Moore, whose academic record included induction into the Delta chapter of Alpha Chi, national scholastic society, and making the Dean's list most of his college career.

Next Eure looked at family background. Moore, an Alamance County native and commuting student at Elon, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Freeman Moore. His father has worked for Burlington Industries 30 years. Young Moore worked summers while a student, and combined school bus driving with his studies in his senior year.

Then Eure turned attention to politics — Democratic, naturally. He talked with George A. Long, Alamance party chairman, and State Sen. Ralph Scott of Alamance, a fellow member of the Elon Board of Trustees. He was assured the Moores were registered Democrats with unblemished loyalty.

Thus satisfied on qualifications, background and politics, Eure watched Moore file past among those receiving diplomas at the Elon commencement. Back in Raleigh, he placed a telephone call to Moore.

"I didn't know what in the world to think when I answered the phone," said Moore. Surprise turned to interest when he heard about the job (starting salary: $7,394) in Raleigh.

"We got together mighty quick," Eure reported.

They Would All Like What Americans Have

Tour Rejected By Publishers

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON

— Presidential adviser Herbert B. Klein's brainstrom to send an informal inspection team of American politicians to examine the war in Vietnam was originally planned to include powerful newspaper publishers. The problem: the publishers turned it down flat.

President Nixon's director of communications pushed the idea May 23 at a confidential White House staff meeting (held in his down suite in the Executive Office Building). Newspapers discussed at that meeting were the Los Angeles Times, the Wall Street Journal, and the right-wing Chicago Tribune.

But when informal soundings went out to several publishers, the response was a thundering no thanks.

These publishers not only viewed the idea as too cute, but also worried that their own reporters in the field would take a dim view of their bosses' second-guessing their own reporting under the banner of the Nixon administration.

When this negative reaction came back to Klein, the canny former editor of the powerful San Diego Union dropped the idea like a hot potato. No word was allowed to leak out that publishers ever had been on his list of prospects.

A footnote: The Vietnam inspection group, led by Klein and Presidential counselor Bryce Harlow, left Washington June 3 and will return today. With two days for travel, this leaves a scant four days to poke around the war.

The widespread advice to President Nixon following the Kent State student killings that the muzzle Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's anti-student rhetoric came from one wholly unexpected source: the right-wing Young Americans for Freedom.

Keene told the President that all students, even moderates and conservatives who make up his potential campus base of support, felt personally wounded by the National Guard shootings at Kent State. By the same token, Keene went on, all students resent Agnew's blanket denunciations of them. His implication: the Vice President is alienating what is left of Mr. Nixon's potential campus supporters.

The President told Keene that he appreciated that all students were not radicals and that, indeed, the radical leadership constitutes only a small percentage on the campus. Nevertheless, Keene's advice had no more effect than familiar pleas from college presidents. The Agnew rhetoric roars on — unmuzzled and strongly encouraged by certain elements inside the White House.

The cause of Rep. John Dowdy of Texas, the right-wing Democratic Congressman under a Federal indictment for accepting a bribe, has been taken up by the anti-Semitic right.

The notorious Liberty Lobby, which conducts incessant and highly successful fund-raising operations, is raising funds for Dowdy's defense under a newly formed "Emergency Committee To Support Victims Of Political Persecution." Among the committee Progress To The Rear?

The House of Representatives spent four hours a couple of weeks ago in one of its better efforts at debate. The question was whether to appropriate an additional $290 million toward development of the supersonic transport plane. Arguments on both sides were reasoned, persuasive, and well informed; but in the end, the wrong side won.

On the most significant roll call, the vote, in effect was 176-162 in favor of going ahead. Now the Senate will have its chance to call a halt to this costly and self-defeating venture.

The key questions fall into three areas. Some of them have to do with the burden on American taxpayers; others deal with the kind of world we want to live in; still others its profitable operation. In each of these areas, in my own view, the weight of the argument goes solidly against the SST.

It is an elementary proposition, though some of the big spenders on Capitol Hill seem never to perceive it, that the resources of the Federal budget are not unlimited. The paper surpluses once foreseen for this year have turned into real deficits. Demands upon the Congress — necessary and legitimate demands — keep rising all the time. If ever a time were at hand for the sober reconsideration of spending priorities, that time is now.

If a weighing of priorities were to be made, transportation, leaving aside such domestic problem areas as law and order, pollution control, and consumer protection, the $290 million could be spent in far better ways. The overriding need in transportation is not to get a few travelers to Paris three hours sooner; it is to get millions of our people in and out of our cities.

Other Editors Say Afford A Home?

(Christian Science Monitor)

One of our correspondents visiting Moscow reported that the only criticism of Soviet policy he heard voiced by his Intourist guide was the quietly expressed hope that the Russian Government would someday get around to building single-family houses. Moscow, of course, is full of big apartment houses — blocks of flats.

It would be worthwhile if United States policymakers would heed similar criticisms today. Thanks to the "recession," to high mortgage rates and the high cost of building, American housing starts are down by as much as 21 percent — have been declining since last summer. The National Association of Home Builders estimates that just 730,000 single family homes will be built in 1970, almost 50,000 fewer than during the last housing crunch in 1966.

Says Representative Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee: "Virtually all moderate-income families have been priced out of the housing market." Many people cannot afford payments on a $20,000 home loan.

So what happens in the construction industry? With fewer family-size homes built — the houses which give individuals a sense of property-owning and security — builders instead put up bigger, more costly structures: high-rise apartments, office buildings, shopping centers.

Corrective measures can and should be taken. The Nixon administration has sponsored, and the Senate has approved, a plan authorizing the Federal Home Loan Bank to subsidize loans to the nation's savings and loan associations, largest single source of credit for home construction. Plans are also being discussed to insulate mortgage financing from the tight money policies aimed at restraining inflation. One suggestion is to make interest rates on housing flexible — rising and falling along with other interest costs.

Americans have come to a sad situation when, as is now the case, the only low-cost housing available in many areas are the mobile homes. (An estimated 400,000 were sold last year.) Let's see Congress get cracking with legislation to help individuals buy and own their homes — come recession, inflation, or prosperity.

During House debate, proponents of the SST made much of the argument that abandonment of the venture would result in kissing $768 million goodbye. It is a formidable sum. But if the investment is foolish, it cannot be made wise by throwing good money of development costs, now estimated at $1.4 billion before production could begin eight years hence. If the taxpayers also have to foot production costs—a grim likelihood — that sum easily could before the purchasing airlines sold their first tickets.

It is too much for a plane of such limited value, serving so small a segment of the public. And the distorted priorities are only part of the picture. The SST promises to be the noisiest aircraft ever flown. At supersonic speeds, it will lay down a destructive path of sonic booms, 50 miles wide. Waiting for takeoff, it will create an ear-shattering racket that some experts have equated with the sideline noise of 50 ordinary jets.

This is progress? It is progress to the rear. And this is the point the Senate will want most carefully to debate. If the SST represented a genuine breakthrough in kind, rather than merely an advancement in degree, probably we would have to go ahead. If this were a matter of steam against

Year After Year

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — If you had to name the 10 common remarks in the English language that you get most tired of hearing year after year, which would you choose?

It's a fascinating game to play, because our vocabularies become so hackneyed with dull and repetitive phrases that with some people one feels he can carry on a conversation in his sleep.

There are so many trite sayings in our day-to-day talk that it is almost impossible to narrow them down to the 10 that are the most boring, but here is a list of potential candidates:

- "What's new?"
- "Hot enough out for you?"
- "Cold enough out for you?"
- "Here today, gone tomorrow."
- "After all, it could be worse."
- "Well, if you aren't a sight for sore eyes!"
- "We simply have to get together for lunch sometime. I'm free most any day."
- "Long time no see."
- "I like your new suit. Too bad they didn't have one in your size."
- "Speak about the devil, and look who shows up!"
- "No can do."
- "If I had it all to do over again, things would sure be different."
- "If I were running this place, there'd be some changes made."
- "Do you mind getting it, Jim? The smallest I've got on me is a $20."
- "I don't like to gossip, but..."
- "Age before beauty."
- "You know?"
- "I hate to say I told you so, but..."
- "I'll match my public life with any man's."
- "You never hear a word I say."
- "Be my guest."
- "Why can't you be like other husbands?"
- "Wait'll I tell you what happened to me. It'll make your hair stand on end."
- "The trouble with you kids is that you've had it too good. You don't know what it means to do without."
- "Well, I must be off. Don't take any wooden nickels."
- "All I can figure out is that it must be a virus of some kind. There's a lot going around."
- "After they made him, they broke the mold."

Opinions In Brief

- "A man's ability cannot possibly be of one sort and his soul of another. If his soul be well-ordered, serious and restrained, his ability is also sound and sober." — Seneca.
- "The sole meaning of life is to serve humanity." — Leo Tolstoy.
- "You cannot teach a man anything; you can only help him to find it within himself." — Galileo.
- "It is better to keep one's mouth closed and be thought a fool, than to open it and remove all doubt." — Elbert Hubbard.

Public Forum

To the Editor: In my recent column on the changing law of school desegregation, I erred on several points having to do with the order of District Judge James B. McMillan in Charlotte, N.C. I wrote that he had decreed a 71-29 racial ratio for the schools. I am advised that this ratio was proposed only for faculty; the Negro component in the schools would range from 3 to 40 percent. The figures on Judge McMillan's busing plan are in dispute, but the figures I gave were grossly wrong. The Charlotte News & Observer advises me that the original court order, modified slightly by the 4th Circuit on May 27, decreed an average bus trip of 7 miles, one way between the paired schools, consuming about 35 minutes.

The errors do not affect the constitutional point I was trying to make, but I am sorry that I made them.

Sincerely,
James J. Kilpatrick

Strength For Today

WATCH OUT
Hatred is a bitter and disagreeable word. We are definitely forbidden in the New Testament to hate even our enemies. Rather, we are to love them that curse us and do good to them that hate us and pray for them that despitefully use us and persecute us "that ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for he maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust" (Matthew 5:43-45).

But we need to remind ourselves constantly that although we are never to entertain hatred for persons we are very decidedly expected to hate certain things which are contrary to human peace and advancement. A President in recent years declared "I hate war," and

Plane Fares Will Jet Upward

By ELMER ROESSNER
It's going to cost more to fly from here to there.
First, under the Airport and Airways Development Act, effective June 30, the ticket tax on domestic flights goes from 5 to 8 per cent and a new $3 tax on overseas flights is imposed. In addition, there's a new 5 per cent tax on shippers' waybills, all airplanes are to be taxed a $25 annual registration fee, plus 3½ cents a pound of jet planes and 2 cents a pound for prop planes over 2,500 pounds. The tax on aviation gasoline goes from 2 cents to 7 cents a gallon, and is broadened to include all aviation fuels. Revenues will be earmarked for development of airports, safety, etc.

Second, airlines have run into a slump in bookings just at the time of year they had expected a vacation rise. Those who have lost money in conditions, and because the new taxes may cut flying even more, most domestic airlines are asking the Civil Aeronautics Authority for permission to increase rates, and the overseas lines are asking their cartel, the International Air Transport Association, to agree to a rate rise.

ELMER ROESSNER
Fifth, airline unions are pressing for higher wages because of inflation, and will probably win.
So that's why it will cost more to go from Hither, Maine, to Yon, California, by air.
Other Look-Aheads
Air conditioner prices are rising. There are some 1969 remainders at discounts, but the 1970 models are generally higher, largely because of higher wage and materials costs.

Hope for better Russian relations lies more in trade than in understanding and altruism. The Russians are eager for more American goods besides Ford factories. A taste of American products may stir comrades to greater industry and an increased flow of consumer goods might stave off unrest in the 1980s. Note that our Department of Commerce has removed export restrictions on 222 commodity categories.
Sugar will soon cost more at supermarkets. Raw sugar prices have risen sharply and it's only a question of time until the rise is reflected on Main Street. Note, too, that some sugar competitors, artificial sweeteners, have been interdicted.

Claims Insufficient Evidence Of Campus Snipers

By MARK BROWN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The man heading the government's probe of student deaths on the Kent State and Jackson State campuses says there is "insufficient evidence" to support officials' claims of sniper fire.

"We have at this time insufficient evidence to establish the presence of a sniper," Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard said of the May 15 deaths of two black youths in a fusillade of police bullets at Jackson State College in Mississippi.

His statement directly contradicts the report released last Thursday by Mississippi Gov. John Bell Williams that said an investigation showed state troopers were shot at by a sniper before opening fire on a group of students outside a women's dormitory on the predominantly black campus.

Leonard is head of the Justice Department's civil rights division and leader of a federal investigation into the fatal shootings by law enforcement authorities of the two youths at Jackson State, four students at Kent State University in Ohio and six men in Augusta, Ga.

In an interview, Leonard was asked whether his statement could also be applied to the deaths at Kent State, where Ohio National Guardsmen said they had been fired upon by a sniper before shooting into a crowd of students demonstrating against U.S. military involvement in Cambodia.

"Yes, there is insufficient evidence at Kent," Leonard replied.

The civil rights chief refused to comment on whether the probes, in the case of Kent State more than a month along, had identified the officers or guardsmen who fired the fatal shots.

But he acknowledged, in the case of Jackson State, that "procedural problems" had hindered the investigation by FBI agents and Justice Department lawyers.

"The state patrol has not provided us with the weapons, nor have members of the state patrol been offered for interrogation," he said.

Leonard implied the refusal of Mississippi officials to cooperate with the investigation will necessitate calling a federal grand jury to subpoena evidence.

Fewer difficulties are being experienced in the Kent State investigation, Leonard said, although there are "unanswered factual and legal questions." He did not elaborate.

Leonard's statements came just a few hours before release of a Justice Department report from which a condemnation of police firepower during demonstrations had been deleted.

Intended to provide guidance for law enforcement agencies faced with large groups of demonstrators, the original version as shown in advance to newsmen said:

"It must be recognized that use of firearms is inconsistent with the government's objective of protecting the lives of its innocent citizens."

Turning specifically to what authorities said had precipitated the killings at Kent State and Jackson State, the original draft continued:

"Even when the lives of law enforcement officers or citizens are endangered by sniper fire, great care must be used to assure that the individual causing the shooting is the only object of police activity involving use of firearms."

In the changed version, the report said only that "the objective of appropriate police action is to assure that a demonstration will not deteriorate to the point that use of firearms is necessary to control the crowd."

Originally, it had asserted that "appropriate police action will never permit a demonstration to deteriorate to the point that use of firearms is necessary to control the crowd."

Asked why the final version had deleted the stronger language, a Justice Department spokesman refused comment. He said he had not intended, when furnishing reporters with the original draft, that the two copies be compared for specific language.

A press release accompanying the report said it also would form the basis for testimony of Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst, the Justice Department's No. 2 man, before a Senate committee later this week.

On Capitol Hill Monday, three Jackson State students urged Senate extension of the 1965 federal Voting Rights Act, contending "the only power we have against the bullet is the ballot."

"Without the voting rights bill you'll still have sadistic whites shooting down blacks," Warner Buxton, the 26-year-old Jackson State student body president, told a news conference.

TV Summer Replacements In The Wings; Await Limelight

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's summer soldiers are waiting impatiently in the network wings for their moments in the limelight, mostly July and August.

Some are veterans pulled out of retirement for new duty: Gomer Pyle will be back in CBS's boot camp. "He and She" has been recalled for short, hot weather duty as has "Wild, Wild West." The Smothers Brothers will try to be topical, relevant and funny without being really controversial in an ABC trial run.

Des O'Connor already has taken over the summer "Music Hall," and Jim Nabors' company will give way on July 2 to a comedy-variety hour called "Happy Days." This, however, can hardly count as a showcase for new faces since its stars are Louis Nye of the original Steve Allen variety hour and Bob and Ray who have been doing TV comedy since the days of kinescopes.

About the only straw hat showcase will be Glen Campbell's CBS Sunday night hour which will be occupied for two months starting July 5 by a show called "Comedy Tonight." A young New York comic named Robert Klein will be getting his first real big shot at the mass audience.

Klein 28, is a monologist with a flair for sharp, satirical comment. For the past couple of years he has been on the talk-show circuit—a dozen appearances with Johnny Carson plus repeated turns with Merv Griffin, Joey Bishop, David Frost and Ed Sullivan.

Klein, a former schoolteacher who studied drama at Yale, is currently rehearsing, taping and worrying.

"We hope for a show with a point of view," he said during a rehearsal break. "We will have more comedy than variety and some satire. We're developing, for instance, a 'man against ...' segment. One of the first will take on repairmen. Rodney Dangerfield will play a caveman mechanic confronted with his first wheel—it has gone flat."

A problem of being funny and sharp these days is that "somebody in the audience is going to be offended the minute you step out on a stage," Klein believes, but in order to avoid some protests, Klein and the show's writers have invited a mythical people.

"We have invented the Yaknes," he said. "They have no national pride, are a bunch of clods and love to be insulted. But with my luck I'll get a bunch of mail that starts, 'My father was a Yakne and I resent ...'"

Few are called as summer replacements and even fewer make much of an impact. Glen Campbell did and "Hee Haw" did. Since Klein's series replaces Campbell's, and it is on the same network as those two, he is one optimistic, if nervous comic these days.

NEVADA TROPHY SPARKS, Nev. (AP) Mitzi Gaynor, a frequent performer in the casinos of Nevada, has won the 1970 governor's trophy for "outstanding contributions to Nevada's fame as the entertainment capital of the world."

Would Seal Off Pilots

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If airline flight crews had no voice link with passenger compartment and were sealed off by armor plate, airline hijackings would cease, two air safety experts predict.

Maj. Robert A. Picard, an Air Force safety officer, and Chaytor D. Mason, an associate professor at the University of Southern California, say that under these conditions "no hijacker would attempt the impossible."

Without communications link there would be no way to threaten the flight crew, the two men said, and the armored wall with an unforceable door would protect them from any harm.

In the case of extreme emergencies stewardesses could signal with a bell, they added. One ring would mean "land as soon as safely practicable" and two rings would indicate "situation again in control."

With this system, the two men said, all a hijacker could expect would be to land at the nearest available airport.

Moreover, Liberty Lobby's fund-raising for Dowdy is promoted by an article in the summer edition of American Mercury, a once prestigious magazine which long ago fell into anti-Semitic ways and is now closely connected with Liberty Lobby. In an issue larded with anti-Semitic overtones, the article — "the Crucifixion of John Dowdy" — appeals for money to defend him against "false charges concocted by the District (of Columbia's) criminal-liberal element."

A footnote: Official records show Dowdy received a $2,000 campaign contribution in 1968 from United Congressional Appeal, a Liberty Lobby fund-raising front.

sail, or locomotives as opposed to horses, or even jets as opposed to propeller-driven aircraft, the prospect of a genuine "new age" might compel a different decision.

None of this applies to the SST. The plane offers greater speed. That is all. No other advantage is claimed. It will not be as comfortable as the new 747s now entering the international market. The SST will cost more to begin with; it will carry fewer passengers for shorter distances; it will demand favored treatment in traffic patterns wherever it is permitted to land.

No wonder the airline industry itself is lukewarm! No rush has developed to place firm orders for the Anglo-French Concorde. The 122 reported "reservation" for the SST are highly tentative, and the prospect actually of selling 500 of these planes, at $60 million each, is pie in the sky.

It happens. And it doesn't mean that you're a spend-thrift. Or careless. Or casual about your money. It just means that life today is kind of complicated, and a lot of things happen fast. Kids need braces you hadn't planned on. Heating systems give up the ghost. Your trusty car goes on the fritz in the middle of a trip. Or something you really need is on sale, just when you don't have the cash.

That's what Planters Master Charge and Cash Guarantee Accounts were designed for. A Planters Master Charge, for example, could pay for equipment, or appliances, or most any kind of service charge. It could get you instant credit in hundreds of thousands of shops and stores across the nation. It could be waiting in your pocket when you stumbled onto the bargain of a lifetime. A Planters Master Charge is your friend in need. For those times when you just have to spend more money than you have.

Apply for yours at any Planters office. We'll explain it to you, and make sure you have a sensible charge limit you'll be comfortable with. And while you're there, ask about a Planters Cash Guarantee Account. It's a special service that puts extra money behind your checking account, so you can write checks for more than you have in the bank. It's good to have around, for when things happen. And Planters offers Master Charge and Cash Guarantee because we know things happen to everyone.

Sometimes you have to spend more money than you make.

Recreation Commission Honors Joseph Godette

Joseph Godette, attendance counselor for Greenville and Pitt County Schools, and a commission member of the Greenville Recreation Commission for three consecutive two year terms, was honored last night by fellow members of the Recreation Commission.

At a dinner meeting held in his honor, Godette received the Award of Honor for outstanding Community Service from John Taylor, outgoing chairman of the commission.

"I have enjoyed very much working with the commission," Godette stated. "Even though my time has expired, my services are still available any time they are needed."

With six years membership on the commission, Godette has served the maximum time permitted in this position. A native of Greenville, Godette is married to the former Melba Barnhill, who teaches at Elmhurst Elementary School. Their daughter, Josetta, is a laboratory assistant at Albemarle Hospital in Elizabeth City. A young son Joseph Jr., is a student at Sadie Saulter School. Godette is superintendent of Sunday School; a trustee; and a member of the Gospel Choir of York Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church. He is also a member of the Bachelors of Benedict Club. Godette attended schools in Greenville; the Fayetteville State Teachers College; A and T State University; and East Carolina University.

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy plans to send 20,000 invitations June 25 for bids on the decommissioned presidential yachts Patricia and Julie, to be sold to the highest bidder.

Navy spokesmen said Monday that about 2,000 persons had inquired about buying the craft after President Nixon put them out of service in an economy move April 28.

Bids will be accepted until July 16.

The 96-foot Patricia, worth an estimated $100,000, will be displayed to potential bidders at the Washington Navy Yard. The 64-foot Julie, priced at about $65,000, will be displayed at the Coast Guard station in Miami, Fla.

Nixon continues to entertain family and friends on frequent Potomac River dinner cruises aboard the 100-foot cabin cruiser Sequoia.

A nine-car Southern Railway freight and its engine derailed early today near Mooresville in southern Iredell County. Police said there were no injuries.

RICHMOND, Va. — Sarah Susan Hunnicutt of Bethel, N.C. was graduated Saturday from the Medical College of Virginia School of Medical Technology with a degree of Bachelor of Science in Medical Technology.

NEWTON PROJECT MANAGER T. I. Wagner said that an additional seven parcels have been acquired in the project, representing approximately 17 per cent more of the total acquisition project.

Wagner requested approval by the commission to authorize condemnation proceedings for nine more parcels in the project. Commissioners voted to approve the request.

Central Business District project coordinator, Skeets Howard, noted that a number of improvements had been made in the project by several businesses including a new front for one and additions to the rear entrance facilities on another.

In addition, Howard said that Bob Anderson of City Planning and Architectural Associates had met with the various owners and tenants in the project on May 13.

The city, he said, has agreed to finance the CBD surveys now being planned.

Commissioners agreed to meet later with representatives of Rivers and Associates concerning a contract for surveying services in the project. Dubber pointed out that city engineer Charles Holliday should be in attendance at the meeting since the city is financing a quarter share of the project.

The old apple green walls and high ceiling of the Council Chambers on the third floor of Greenville's City Hall have been put on the approved list for a face-lifting and modernization. At last week's City Council meeting, approval was given for the go-ahead on this project after members had been briefed on plans and costs by City Engineer C.A. Holliday and City Manager Harry Hagerty. Basically, the plan drawn up for the renovation and refurbishing will reduce in size the chambers, but at the same time maintain the same number of seats available for spectators. Hagerty pointed out one main reason for making the change is to provide an assembly room for the police force, whose storeroom is located behind the Council Chambers. Such an area would be used to hold meetings and conduct certain types of training for police members.

The plan will entail a cost estimated at $7,150. In approving the renovation, councilmen stipulated a maximum expenditure of $7,500 for the entire project.

A wall to wall partition will be built at a point approximating the location of the rail which now divides the platform area from the spectator area.

Two raised platforms are planned. The highest of the two, which will be 13½ inches above the floor level, will contain a circular table for the use of the mayor, the city councilmen, the city manager, and any special guests. Six and three quarters inches below this platform, another platform, raised six and three quarter inches above floor level, will contain desks and chairs, all facing the circular table, for the city clerk, secretary and the press. Seating arrangements on this platform will also provide space for use by department heads and representatives from agencies attending public meetings.

Other features of the redesigned Council Chambers will include carpeting, a lowered ceiling with set in fluorescent lighting, and paneling. The pre-finished paneling will also have the effect of eliminating noise from the air conditioner, which now makes it difficult for spectators to hear what is being said.

Holliday explained that since estimates for patching up and refreshing the chambers would require about $2,000 in expenditures, it was felt that a complete renovation for an additional $5,000 would be justified and would serve a worthwhile purpose in providing a public assembly room more conducive to public meetings.

"You may have a good psychological factor there," Councilman Percy Cox remarked. "With a more comfortable place, perhaps the people will be less rough on us."

Dr. Best Addresses Grads At Kinston

KINSTON — "The relevance of our attitudes and activities today is determined by the board condition of our society. I say to you that in American and the world we have a sick society," Dr. Andrew A. Best, Greenville physician and civic worker told members of the graduating class of Adkin High School in Kinston.

Speaking on the topic "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," Dr. Best told the young people "It seems we are constantly in some sort of crisis. Our chief concern is how these crisis situations affect and involve education."

Pinpointing a number of R's Dr. Best cited "racism, rebellion, riots, revolution and shortsighted stubbornness which presents itself as reluctance to change" as evils of our "sick society."

In his speech, Dr. Best called on leaders in all levels of society to listen to underprivileged and disadvantaged America. "There can be no peace until a president of the United States starts attending the cry of black America . . . there can be no peace until a vice president makes an irrevocable decision to cool the rhetoric . . . we say to you, Mr.

Vice-President, we have absolutely no confidence in your concern for our welfare. Until somehow some confidence is created, there can be no peace."

Dr. Best included superintendents and school boards in his remarks to the graduating class. "There can be no peace until all superintendents and all school boards stop wasting their energies and their time in vain efforts to evade and avoid the issues . . . there can be no peace until these same superintendents and boards design, develop, and articulate a positive administrative policy which is rooted in right, and characterized by fairness, flexibility and firmness."

Not limiting his appeal for peace to leaders, Dr. Best included parents and students in his topic on conditions today. "There can be no peace until parents live up to their responsibility to fully impress their children with the story of love . . . no peace can come to the educational system until students understand, appreciate, and accept the final responsibility for the creation and maintenance of an atmosphere which is conducive to learning."

Be Safe Rather Than Sorry

It's surprising how many people are careless about their personal belongings. A person who would not permit important documents or papers to be stored overnight in a desk drawer at his office seems to change character when he gets home, judging from the way he treats his personal effects.

It would be safe to bet that the average home has many valuable papers stored in a little tin box or tucked away in some sort of makeshift file on a book shelf. Many of these items, if not irreplaceable, would take a great deal of time and effort to restore if they were lost, destroyed by fire or stolen.

There's no need to live dangerously in this respect. For less than the cost of a daily newspaper, a person, in most places, can rent a safe deposit box at his local bank. There, his important documents and records will be as safe as his money.

A long time ago, banks learned they would have to provide burglarproof, fireproof, vaults to store their customers' money for safekeeping. That's right, it's your money on deposit at your bank that is being protected. It would seem that a bank is more concerned with protecting a depositor's assets than the depositor himself isn't it?

The two exceptions involve property formerly utilized by the Universalist Church and another parcel owned by L. B. Garris. Hite noted that a number of special proceedings would have to be initiated to iron out the matter of condemnation on several parcels.

Newtown project manager T. I. Wagner said that an additional seven parcels have been acquired in the project, representing approximately 17 per cent more of the total acquisition project.

Farmer Downs Robersonville For Title

Falcons Push Over Four Runs In First Inning To Wrap Up Crown

By WOODY PEELE
 Reflector Sports Editor
ROBERSONVILLE — Farmer High School pushed over four runs in the first inning, then rode opportune defense to a 4-1 victory over Robersonville last night, gaining the Class A State Baseball Championship.

The victory gave the Falcons a 2-1 edge in the best-of-three series for the title. Robersonville won the first game, a 17-inning marathon which ended with the Rams taking a 1-0 win. Farmer won the second contest, 2-1.

The contest matched up the two pitchers who had gone all the way on Friday in the 17-inning affair, and it was obvious that both were not quite up to par.

Glenn Forbes, who took the loss, didn't quite have the same stuff he had on Friday, but, aside from the first inning, was in relatively little trouble. Only twice after that did men get to third, and on one other occasion, a Falcon got as far as second. Forbes struck out 10 and walked only one.

Randall Myers, recovering from his only loss of the season on Friday, still had his fast ball humming, but also relied more often on a tricky curve. He struck out 13 and walked four, but had some control problems, as he also hit three batters.

Robersonville managed to get off threats in nearly every inning, but was unable to score except for once in the fifth.

With one out in the first, Ronald Lanier singled into center field, and the ball got away from the fielder and Lanier moved on to second. Myers sent a fly ball into right center, but both the right and center fielder misjudged the ball in the twilight sky and it fell in for a double as Lanier cautiously moved into third. Junior Hunt was then intentionally passed to first to set up a force at any base.

But it didn't get a chance to occur. Randy Johnson attempted to bunt on the suicide squeeze, as Lanier broke for home. He missed the bunt, and just missed making the tag as Lanier slid home safely.

Johnson lofted the ball into center, and an attempt for a shoestring catch failed. The ball got through, allowing both Myers and Hunt to score, as Johnson moved into second. A wild pitch let him go to third, and he scored when Jimmy Allred's grounder was errored.

That gave the Falcons all the breathing room they needed.

They tried again, however, in the third, fifth and seventh. Hunt singled in the third, stole second, and moved to third on the second out of the inning, only to die there. Myers and Hunt both singled with two away in the fifth, but could not advance. And finally, in the seventh, Lanier doubled and made third on a balk by Forbes, again with two outs.

Robersonville had no more luck. Danny Stalls led off the second and was hit by a pitch. Lang Hardison singled him to second, but neither could advance. Ed Warren was hit by a pitch and Knox walked in the third with just one out, but a strikeout and a grounder back to the mound ended that threat.

In the fourth, Phil James walked and Bobby Rawls singled. James moved on to third when Hardison hit into a fielder's choice, but again, Myers came through, getting a strikeout, and taking a liner back to the mound to escape.

Finally, in the fifth, the Rams were able to avoid a shutout. Warren was hit by a pitch for the second time in the game. Timmy James dropped a double into center, moving Warren to third. Stalls hit a fly ball to center, scoring Warren after the catch with the only Ram run.

Then, in the seventh, the Rams almost pulled it out. Warren singled and Timmy James walked, loading the bases, but that was it. With two outs, the next batter grounded out, ending the game and giving Farmer the crown.

First Run Scores

Farmer's Ronald Lanier slides in safely in the first inning with the first of four Falcon runs last night. Lanier, on third with the bases loaded, broke for home on an attempted squeeze, but the batter, Randy Johnson, missed. Robersonville catcher Hal Knox

Lawyer Says Clay To Fight, Clay Says He Is Not Interested In It

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
 Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Cassius Clay says he isn't interested in an 18-hour pass from the U.S. Supreme Court that would allow him to go to Canada to fight Joe Frazier for the heavyweight title.

"I don't want to fight under forced conditions," Clay said Monday after he learned his attorney had appealed to the Supreme Court to allow the deposed champion to go to Canada to meet Frazier, his successor to the championship.

Clay's attorney, Chauncey Eskridge of Chicago, said in an appeal filed Monday with Justice Hugo L. Black that Clay's resources are depleted, and noted that the former champion would be out of the country only 18 hours for the fight in Canada.

Eskridge said he made the application to the Supreme Court because he had an offer for a fight in Canada. "I have permission from Canadian authorities," the attorney said. "They will sanction the fight. If the application is granted that is the time he (Clay) will have a chance to say whether he will fight."

"I don't know anything about it," said Clay from his $90,000 home in Philadelphia.

"That's my lawyer talking and he is going to be fired for doing these things. I'm not interested in fighting until my case is settled. I'm not even thinking of fighting."

Eskridge, speaking by telephone from Chicago, said he had not talked with Clay before filing the appeal. "When a lawyer files an application in this court he doesn't always talk to his client. I did it on my own."

Eskridge agreed, however, that if Clay formerly disavows the application for freedom to travel the issue will be dead legally. Clay, who was stripped of his title after he was convicted for refusing induction in the Army, said last week he isn't worried about money. "I'm making more money now than I would if I was fighting every Friday," he said.

St. James Is Handed 1st Loss

The clash of the divisional leaders in the Church Softball League saw St. James knocked off its perch as the only unbeaten in the loop last night. Grace Free Will Baptist took a 14-11 decision in the game to hand the Methodists their first loss.

In other games, Oakmont rolled over Gum Swamp, 13-6, Meadowbrook beat Mt. Pleasant, 14-2, and Trinity beat Piney Grove, 5-3.

St. James still leads the American Division with a 9-1 record, while Presbyterian, Meadowbrook and Trinity are all tied at 5-5 for second. They are followed by Gum Swamp at 4-6, and First Christian, 0-10.

Grace heads the National Division with an 8-2 mark, while Black Jack is second at 6-3. They are followed by Immanuel, 5-5, Oakmont, 5-6, Mt. Pleasant, 4-5, and Piney Grove, 4-7.

Oakmont pushed out into a 4-0 lead in the first inning of its game, but Gum Swamp came up with a run in the top of the second. Oakmont then pushed over five more to take the lead for good, 9-1. The second inning included a homer by Anderson.

Oakmont went on to add four more in the sixth, as Anderson slammed another homer. Gum Swamp picked up one more in the fourth, then came up with four in the seventh.

J. Pollard, B. Coggins and G. Harris each had two hits for Gum Swamp, while Cheek, Hardee, Anderson and Hodge each had two for Oakmont.

St. James pushed over two runs on a homer by Ronald Vincent in the first, then added three more as Bill Potter slammed a homer in the second. Grace came up with one in the bottom of the second, but St. James came up with three more in the third as Jim Smith got a homer. In the fourth, St. James came up with three more, and held an 11-1 lead, and looked like Frazier is the champion, said all he wants from the Supreme Court is a decision on his appeal from the draft evasion conviction.

He claims to be a Black Muslim minister and is appealing on religious grounds. He adopted the name Muhammad Ali and has been lecturing in various sections of the country.

But Grace shut them out after that and went to work on their own score. Grace pushed over 11 runs in the bottom of the fourth, with Lindsey Hardee and Sammy Pugh both getting homer. That put them ahead, 12-11. They added two more in the sixth to wrap it up.

Vincent led the St. James hitting with four, while Roy Carawan and Smith each had three and Rusty Jacobs had two. For Grace, Hardee, Pugh, and Oscar Holloman had three each, with Don Hudson, Kenneth Smith and D. R. Daniels getting two each.

Trinity scored all it needed in the first inning, getting four runs. They came up with the other in the seventh.

Piney Grove pushed over one run in the fourth, then came up with two in the sixth for their third run total.

Oobb led the Trinity hitting with three, while Manning had two. For Piney Grove, J. Crawford and L. Joyner had two each and D. Allen had three.

Meadowbrook pushed over a run in the top of the first, then came up with five in the second for a 6-0 lead. Mt. Pleasant got all its runs in the bottom of the second, scoring twice.

After that, Meadowbrook scored once in the third, got three more in the fifth, and scored four in the seventh, including a homer by Powell.

Heath led the Meadowbrook hitting with four, while Nelson, Wade and Bunting each had three, and Owens and Harris had two each. For Mt. Pleasant, no one had more than one hit.

Graniteers Rip Pepsi By 12-1

The Graniteers held onto first place in the Tar Heel Little League yesterday with a 12-1 romp over Pepsi-Cola, knocking Pepsi out of a tie for second.

The Graniteers now post an 8-1 record, while the Moose are second at 6-2. They are followed by Pepsi with a 6-3 mark, The Exchange and Elks, both 2-6, and Integon, 1-7.

The Graniteers pushed over two runs in the first inning to take the lead. Howard Vainright reached on a walk, and came home when Jim Wilkerson slammed a homer.

In the top of the third, Pepsi pushed over its only run. Ricky Avery walked and moved to second on a passed ball. Roy Oldham then doubled to drive him in.

The Graniteers came up with one run in their half of the inning. James Weeks singled and Vainright got a hit. Wilkerson singled to load the bases, and a hit by Macon Moyer brought Weeks in for a 3-1 lead.

The fourth inning saw the Graniteers explode for six runs. Steve Manning walked and was safe at second on Chris Moyer's fielder's choice. Vainright doubled, scoring Manning, and Wilkerson got a hit, scoring Moyer. Macon Moyer singled in Vainright and Joel Clark singled in Wilkerson. Kyle Willis then smacked a double to drive in both Moyer and Clark, and make it 9-1.

In the fifth, the Graniteers added another pair of runs. Wilkerson singled, and Macon Moyer brought him home with a homer.

The sixth saw the final Graniteer run score. Jay Chenier walked and scored on a double by James Weeks.

Wilkerson led the Graniteer hitting with four, while Macon Moyer had three, Weeks and Vainright had two.

Moyer, in hurling the win, allowed only one hit, Oldham's double, while he struck out 13

Dixon, Moyer Lead Batting

David Dixon and Macon Moyer lead the hitting at the halfway point in the year for the Greenville Little Leagues.

Dixon, a member of the R.C. Cola team, paces the North State League with a .609 average. But that is points behind the Tar Heel leader, Moyer, who sports a .615 for the Graniteers.

The Graniteers have three members in the top 10, and they all lead it. Just behind Moyer is James Weeks with a .552 average, followed by teammate Jim Wilkerson with an even .500 mark.

Tied with Wilkerson is Keith Jones of the Moose, also with a .500 batting average.

The rest of the top 10 in the Tar Heel League is as follows: 5-Lee Shearin, Pepsi-Cola, .484; 6-Ricky Overman, Integon, .476; 7-Roy Oldham, Pepsi-Cola, .429; 8-Greg Sasser and Paul Farmer, both of the Moose, .414; 10-Mike Brewington, Exchange, and Peter Hargett, Elks, both .391.

Just behind Dixon comes Kelly Heath of the Kiwanis. He posts a .566 average for the year. Ricky Bolonde of R.C. Cola is third with a .523 mark, and Max Joyner of Coca-Cola is fourth with a .440 average.

The rest of the Top 10 in the North State League is as follows: 5-Lee Spain, Optimists, .438; 6-Connor Merritt, Lions, .435; 7-Drew Taylor, Jaycees, .392; 8-Jeff Bailey, R.C. Cola, .370; 9-Ed Mayo, Kiwanis, .360; 10-Ashley Bass, Optimists, .357.

Kiwanis Nip Optimists, 2-1

The Kiwanis inched to a 2-1 victory over the Optimists yesterday in the North State Little League.

The win left the Kiwanis with an 8-1 record, a game-and-a-half ahead of R.C. Cola, 6-2. They are followed by the Jaycees, 4-4, Coca-Cola, 3-5, the Lions, 2-6, and the Optimists, 2-7.

Kelly Heath tossed a one-hitter at the Optimists to get the win. He struck out 13 and walked four along the way.

The Kiwanis pushed over one run in the bottom of the first. Steve Camp reached on an error and Kelly Heath also arrived safely on an error, with Camp scoring on the play.

In the third, the Optimists came back to tie it up with their only run. Bubba Rowlett walked and moved up on Grey Lee's out. A passed ball moved him to third, and he scored when Ashley Bass reached on an error.

It stayed that way until the fifth inning, when the Kiwanis got the winning run. Heath reached on a fielder's choice and Ed Mayo walked. Chuck Ellis singled, scoring Heath with the run that gave the Kiwanis the victory.

No one got more than one hit for the Kiwanis, who were held to four by loser B. G. Clark. He struck out eight and walked four in the game.

Shamsky's Shot Snaps Met Dive

By HAL BOCK
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 All good things must come to an end and so must all bad ones. A good thing ended for Houston's Jack Billingham Monday night and it helped a bad one end for the New York Mets.

Billingham was dueling Jim McAndrew in a scoreless match through five innings and had extended his personal shutout streak to a healthy 25 innings. Then Art Shamsky did a very unhealthy thing to the streak, cracking a two-run homer that carried the Mets to a 2-0 victory over the Astros.

Shamsky's shot not only ended Billingham's good thing but also halted New York's bad one—a five-game losing streak.

It was New York's fourth straight victory over the Astros—two more than the Mets managed against Houston all of last year. And it came in the Astrodome where the Mets were 0-6 en route to their World Championship in 1969.

McAndrew allowed just five singles and had his only trouble spot in the seventh inning when the Astros bunched three of their hits. But a double play pitch to Jimmy Wynn pulled him out of the jam.

The victory moved McAndrew's record to 2-4. Billingham is 3-1.

In the only other game scheduled Monday, Milwaukee trimmed the Chicago White Sox 5-2 with Tommy Harper's first-pitch homer setting the pace.

Lew Krausse scattered six hits to pick up his fourth victory with the Brewers making it easy by bunching four hits for four runs in the third inning.

Ed Herrmann homered for the White Sox.

Sandy Barnhill Leads Qualifying

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — Match play in the North Carolina Women's Golf Association tournament began today with Sandy Barnhill the solid favorite.

The smart-swinging lady golfer from Williamston shot a 73 Monday in qualifying to be the medalist and retain her 1969 reputation when she carried off the honors. Sixteen other women golfers from across North Carolina made their way into the championship flight and began show-down play today.

Behind Mrs. Barnhill on the list of Monday's low scorers was Deborah Rhodes of North Wilkesboro, with 76. Others in the championship flight are: Jane Lloyd of Durham, 77; Harriet White, Greenville, 80; Jeanette Thomas of Greenville, 82.

Brazil Must Get A Victory

By COLIN FROST
MEXICO CITY (AP) — The big question hanging over the World Cup soccer championships today is: dare Brazil relax in Wednesday's match against Romania.

The former world champions, heading the Group Three standings after beating England 1-0, could still theoretically be eliminated before reaching the quarter-final round.

But in practice their quarter-final place looks safe. Thus Coach Mario Zagalo may be tempted to rest his star forward Pele rather than expose him to Romania's tough-tackling defense.

The Romanians need at least a draw to stay alive in the championships. On the form book they are capable of getting it even with the Brazilians at full strength. They lost just as narrowly to England as England did to Brazil.

But if Zagalo does decide to take the risk of letting Romania win two points, he will make life still more difficult for England—and that's a course that may have its attractions in the bitter rivalry between Europe and Latin America which has marked this World Cup scene.

England and Romania each have two points from their two games so far. England, in its last match of the group on Thursday, must beat Czechoslovakia by a convincing margin to go into the quarter-finals in a style worthy of defending champions.

Wednesday's other matches have the same pattern of policy and mathematics overriding pure football interests.

The Soviet Union, meeting El Salvador in Mexico City's Aztec Stadium, was reported planning to run up a huge score to make its mastery of group One beyond all doubt.

That would strengthen the Soviet case if, as some commentators believe likely, pressure were put on the International Federation of Football Association to allow Mexico to play its quarter-final round in the Aztec regardless of whether it wins the group or not. Mexico and the Soviets now have three points each in Group One and a draw with Belgium Thursday would give the host country second place in the group.

In Group Two, Uruguay needs a win over Sweden to make sure of a quarter-final place. Only West Germany and Peru, who meet in Group Four, have already settled their future with two wins each over Bulgaria and Morocco.

The England players, camped in Guadalajara, complained that for the second night running Brazilian fans and Mexican supporters kept them awake with bongo drums and blaring trumpets.

The Mexican-Brazilian Alliance has come up with a joint chant of "Me-He-Co-Bra-Zil" which is not just confined to voices. Car horns blare out the rhythm in the streets of the capital and in Guadalajara, Mexico's second city.

Against Czechoslovakia, it is essential for England Manager Alf Ramsey to find a way to get goals from an attack which has produced only one in its two World Cup matches.

Scudding Along On The Sound

Twelve-meter yachts Valiant, foreground, and Intrepid, break out their spinnakers Monday as they run before the wind in light air on Long Island Sound on the opening day of America's Cup Trials. Much Tradition In America's Cup Races

By PETER BREWER
Associated Press Writer
NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — After nearly 120 years of international battles by sailors, the America's Cup is overgrown with barnacle-encrusted tradition.

For one thing, the Yankees always win. For another, it takes a fortune to put a contender on the starting line. And the Cup races off this historic port traditionally draw an immense fleet of spectators.

A new chase for the baroque silver mug began this week with preliminary trials on Long Island Sound. After that, the boats move to Newport for the long, hard voyage before one challenger and one defender meet in the best-of-7 race finals in mid-September.

"It is the question of world yachting supremacy which is at issue," says Australian naval architect Alan Payne.

This year's Cup racing, the first in three years, is again in 12-meter craft, racing machines about 65 feet long with a soaring spread of sail, built under a complicated formula. However, there is agitation for change in the design rules.

One tradition has already fallen: Two nations, France and Australia, have challenged instead of the usual one, and will battle it out to see which is the better. They are bringing all new boats—France and Gretel II.

The costs have not prevented the gathering of three would-be U.S. defenders—Valiant and Heritage, both newly built, and the '67 defender, Intrepid, which has undergone radical surgery.

"We're assuming we have the biggest spectator fleet we ever had," says Coast Guard Lt. Cmdr. M.R. Dumas. "If France wins the right to challenge, I'm sure the spectator fleet would go way over 4,000 boats."

The Coast Guard which has seen everything in spectator gatherings from amphibian German autos to 300-foot Navy warships, cannot bring in most of its patrol vessels until the September finals.

This traffic cop force will include 35 vessels ranging from 40-foot utility boats to 320-foot cutters, plus helicopters. They must protect a triangular course over which the competing 12s will cover more than 24 miles each race.

Aboard the 12s you'll find a crew of 10 or 11 men so well drilled they take orders by hand signals. Up forward is a group of three to handle the big overlapping genoa jibs, rig the spinnakers and lend a hand on the winches below decks.

Further aft is a man who concentrates on the lines that haul the jibs and spinnakers up and down. Two others are assigned permanently to the winch cranks below decks, while near them are two who work on sail trim.

Durthest aft are the mainsheet man whose job is to trim the mainsail, the navigator who also helps out on backstays and the helmsman who has complete command of the boat.

The cost of the competition, ranging up to $1 million per boat, is the chief reason why the number of competitors is low. And the French syndicate headed by Baron Marcel Bich may be the all-time big spender in Cup competition.

They began more than four years ago to buy up every modern 12 available, and gather a crew. The group offered $750,000 for Intrepid after the 1967 defense, but was refused.

They brought to France men they thought could help them, including Bob Bavier, 1964 winning skipper and sailmaker Ted Hood of Marblehead, Mass. And they hired U.S. designer Britton Chance to draw plans for a boat that will never be used for anything but their trial horse testing.

The estimates of the French outlay so far range from $2 million to $5 million and the end is nowhere in sight. Baron Bich has indicated his group will challenge in 1973 and 1976 until they win.

The boats, which must be entirely a product of their own country, can cost up to $400,000, what with designer and tank testing fees, skilled workmen at $10 hourly and sails by the lockerful. There also are the food and housing of 30 men or so for three or four months—not inexpensive in this resort of the wealthy—plus costs of a motor-boat tender and yard haulout bills.

The National Fisherman Magazine has several times urged changing the Cup rules to less expensive and more sensible boats like the fishing schooner types of a few generations ago.

The magazine recently recommended a book on the America's Cup to its readers, but said, "We offer this book with our tongue at least part way into our cheek because we can't get all that worked up over spending hundreds of thousands of man hours and dollars to keep a big ugly piece of silver nestled safely away in the New York Yacht Club."

And Halsey C. Herreshoff, whose grandfather Nathaniel designed six Cup defenders from 1893-1920, wants the rules changed to allow building hulls in material other than wood—steel, fiberglass, aluminum or other. He said it might be enough to simply limit the formula to standard length, displacement and sail area.

Pembroke Beaten

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — William Jewell College of Missouri and Northeast Louisiana emerged as winners in Monday's opening round of the National Athletic Intercollegiate Association's baseball world series.

William Jewell survived a three-run rally in the ninth to defeat Central Washington in the first game Monday, 4-3. Northeast Louisiana got 11 hits and took advantage of three errors to down Pembroke University 8-3 in the second game.

Northeast Louisiana will meet William Jewell at 8 p.m. Tuesday while Pembroke and Central Washington collided in the loser's bracket at 2 p.m.

William Jewell spiked the Central Washington rally when centerfielder Pat Mann cut off Brian Purvis' double and fired a perfect strike to the plate to nail catcher Mike Gannon.

Pembroke rebounded three times to close the gap on Northeast Louisiana but was buried in a three-run explosion in the ninth inning.

Flood's Case Is Near To End With Rebuttals

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Curt Flood's $3.1 million antitrust suit against baseball is expected to end Wednesday after rebuttal testimony by the executive director and counsel of the players' association and Bill Veck, former big league club owner.

The defense finished its case Monday with a complete day of testimony by Dr. John Clark, an economist from the Arthur Little firm of Cambridge, Mass., who did an involved analysis of certain aspects of baseball.

After Jay Topkis, one of Flood's lawyers, finishes cross-examination of Dr. Clark Tuesday, both Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, and Dick Moss, counsel for the group, were due to take the stand.

Veck is expected to be the final witness Wednesday morning as both sides have told Judge Irving Ben Cooper the Federal Court case will be completed Wednesday.

Venturi Fails To Reach Open

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Ken Venturi stayed in Charlotte after last week's Kemper Open to shoot in the sectional qualifying round Monday for the U.S. Open Golf Tournament.

But a lot of good it did him. Venturi—the 1964 Open winner—hit two 75s for a 150 total over the 36 holes at the Charlotte Country Club, failing to make the 16-player qualifying list.

Those who made the grade moved to Chaska, Minn., June 18, along with victorious qualifiers in more than a dozen other sectional qualifying rounds across the country.

Monday's low scorer at Charlotte was Tony Evans of Fayetteville, N.C., with a 134.

Evans was followed by Robert Stanton of Algiers, La., with 135, Louis Graham of Nashville, Tenn., also with 135, and Kel Nagle of Sidney, Australia, with 136.

The others: Bert Greene, Sun River, Ore., 137; Bobby Mitchell, Danville, Va., 139; Robert J. Lunn, Sacramento, Calif., 139; Al Mengert, Gearhart by the Sea, Ore., 140; Bobby Nichols, Akron, Ohio, 140; Dudley Wysock Jr., McKinney, Tex., 140; Tom Weiskopf, Columbus, Ohio, 141; Opening lead: Five of ♣.

In the process of salvaging a seemingly lost cause, South—the declarer at four hearts—trumped away two winners, obtained the maximum mileage from a rather skimpy side suit and then crowned everything by bumping his opponents' trump honors together.

If West had opened a spade, South's fate would have been sealed, for after the defense cashes two spade tricks, they can sit back and wait to score the setting tricks in trumps. West's actual lead of the five of clubs, while it did not brighten declarer's outlook, at least provided the latter with a little room to maneuver.

Dummy's three of hearts was used to ruff the first trick and a small diamond was led. East followed with the five and South put in the ten. When West played the deuce of diamonds, declarer was back in the ball game. He led the ace of clubs and ruffed with the five of hearts to play another diamond.

East's jack of diamonds was topped by the queen and then South cashed the ace. With the fall of the king and nine, North's seven became established as the master card in the suit. The king of clubs was trumped with the six of hearts and the seven of diamonds was put thru.

East ruffed in with the seven of hearts and South discarded a spade. East shifted to the ace of spades and continued with the nine which declarer ruffed. A trump was led and when the ace and king appeared together, South claimed his contract. In all, he lost one spade and two hearts.

Williamston Wins Award

WILLIAMSTON — The town of Williamston is the recipient of a Traffic Safety Award for 1969. The award was recently presented by the N. C. State Motor Club to the town for not having a motor-vehicle fatality within the town limits for the calendar year 1969.

Williamston Mayor N. C. Green and Chief of Police John L. Swain accepted a framed parchment from Lewis Scruggs, Rocky Mount division manager and Milton Flythe, Martin County district manager, on behalf of the motor club and its affiliate, the National Automobile Association.

The last traffic death prior to 1969 in Williamston occurred on November 8, 1968, giving the town a 570 day period as of June 2 without fatalities. This is the eleventh best record in the state. With five fatalities in the last ten years within the town limits — and with six years of the ten fatality free, Williamston is one of only 18 North Carolina cities and towns with a population over 5,000 to have a fatality free record for 1969.

Worry Clinic Try Inflation Of Their Ego

Tina has affronted her daddy till he feels angry and resentful. But he is at fault for confusing $$$$ with ego inflation. If you fathers want your sons to enter your business when they finish school, then study this case with great care. For you must brainwash them favorably even before kindergarten. So employ the "audience participation" strategy! Speakers, do likewise!

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M.D.

CASE N-520: Tina S., aged 4, has 2 dolls.

"Dr. Crane," her worried mother began, "Tina's dolls are about to cause an upset in our household."

"For her daddy gave her an expensive doll which he had purchased at a leading department store."

"But Tina's grandmother helped Tina make an old rag doll."

Sponsoring Youth Camp

The Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service in conjunction with its youth program is sponsoring a summer camp June 22-27.

The camp, to be held at Mitchell's 4-H Camp which is three miles east of Swansboro, will be divided into four groups. Each group will rotate to participate in classes each morning in swimming, handicraft, recreation, canoeing, wildlife and land sports. Electricity will be taught one day by representatives of the Carolina Power and Light Company.

The Pitt County Extension Service is opening this opportunity to any Pitt County boy or girl between the ages of nine and 19. The cost of the camp will be $27, including transportation to and from camp, insurance, supplies and meals during the week.

Persons interested in sending their child or children to camp should contact the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service for more information.

Even in public speaking, you will find that the crowd thinks your address is far better if you let them indulge in some "audience participation."

Magicians thus routinely use members of their audience, for this very reason.

About 3,000,000 of you have heard my public addresses so you will recall that my "Motivation Test," plus my "hand experiment," are inserted routinely to permit the audience to participate.

Platform artists and teachers thus can either let the crowd physically indulge in "audience participation" or the speakers can use actual cases with which the audience will identify itself via empathy.

So send for my booklet "Public Platform Strategy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

New Military Govm't Installed By Argentina Coup

By WILLIAM H. HEATH
Associated Press Writer
BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina got a new military government early today after the armed forces ousted President Juan Carlos Ongania, the general they installed in a coup four years ago. Not a shot was fired, and life went on mostly as usual for the 8 million residents of Buenos Aires. The three military commanders—Lt. Gen. Alejandro Lanusse of the army, Adm. Pedro Gnavi of the navy and Brig. Gen. Juan Carlos Rey of the air force—were sworn in as provisional leaders of the nation of 23 million people. The junta said it would name a president within 10 days.

Among those being mentioned for the presidency are Eduardo Ortiz Basualdo, the conservative president of the Supreme Court who is reported to have powerful navy backing; Justice Minister Conrado Etchebarne, who has wide support in the army, and two retired army generals, Jean Enrique Guglielmelli and Osiris Villegas, both of whom are supported by factions that believe in rapid development of heavy industry.

The junta said their basic disagreement with Ongania was "the lack of a political solution for the revolution," the term used for the 1966 coup. Speeches in the last year by Lanusse indicate that he may seek a return to some democratic procedures before very long.

Growing dissatisfaction with Ongania came to a head Monday morning when Lanusse announced that the president had refused to accept a "political plan" from the armed forces calling on him to share power with the military and consult with civilian leaders. It appeared to suggest that a date be fixed for presidential elections.

Ongania then fired Lanusse, said he would take personal command of the 135,000-man army and barricaded himself in Government House behind the loyal, heavily armed 1,200-man presidential guard.

As military units took up positions in the capital and elsewhere in the country and tanks rolled into Buenos Aires, the junta announced over the government radio station that the commanders had "resolved to resume immediately the political conduct of the country" and "invited" Ongania to resign.

Moments later, a communique said the 55-year-old president was "deposed from his duties as president of the nation."

Ongania held out for 12 hours, then drove to the army headquarters and presented his resignation. He was the seventh Argentinian president to be overthrown by a military coup in 40 years.

Ongania's severe came after months of severe and unpopular economic austerity, student disturbances, antigovernment violence, disenchantment of the nation's political leaders and—most recently—the kidnaping by unknown persons of former President Pedro Aramburu, another general who was considered a likely successor to Ongania.

Shortly after he replaced elected President Arturo Illia in the 1966 coup, Ongania dissolved congress, banned political parties and instituted rule by decree.

His strict economic policies, including wage freezes were opposed by most of the nation's labor leaders although U.S. government and many foreign business leaders praised the measures as necessary to restore financial stability in Argentina.

Antigovernment violence started in April 1969 with a series of terrorist raids on military posts throughout the country. Student disturbances broke out a month later, protesting the brutal police repression of student demonstrators. The disturbances spread across the country, and workers seeking higher wages joined in.

Auto Insurance Claims Said Up

RALEIGH (AP) — The number and cost of automobile insurance claims increased significantly in 1969. The North Carolina Rate Administrative office says. The office is backed by the insurance industry.

Paul I. Mize, general manager of the office, released a statement Monday reporting there were about 5,000 more property claims paid in 1969 than in 1968 and 100 more bodily injury claims paid.

Mize is in the process of conducting the office's annual review of insurance rates for its members—all companies writing auto liability in the state. Law requires the review to be filed with insurance commissioner Edwin Lamer by July 1.

Also in that filing, the rating office will petition Lamer for any increase or decrease in rates which it feels is in order.

Mize said in his statement that the average cost of bodily injury claims increased by about 3.5 per cent in 1969 over the previous year and the average cost of property damage claims increased by about 9.1 per cent.

"These recent increases are part of the general inflationary trend which began several years ago," Mize said. "The number and cost of bodily injury and property damage claims have been rising dramatically since 1966."

Last July the rating bureau asked Lamer to approve a 5.3 per cent increase, but the commissioner approved only a 2.8 per cent rise.

The state Attorney General's office, which had opposed any rate hike, and the rating office both appealed the ruling. The matter is before the state Court of Appeals.

Workshops Set In July

Intensive workshops on drug education and the problems of drug abuse have been scheduled this summer on the East Carolina University campus with three-quarter hours of senior-graduate or graduate credit being awarded those who complete the course.

Registration for the first session, June 15-26, will begin on June 8. The second session is scheduled for July 20-31 with registration beginning on July 15.

The course will be taught as an interdisciplinary course by personnel from the Department of Health and Physical Education and specialists from Allied Health, Psychology, Sociology, Education and other professions contributing as lecturers and discussion leaders, according to Dr. Thomas H. Johnson, advisor to the School and Community Health Curriculum.

Home Builders Are Held Liable

CHICAGO (AP) — Home builders and contractors, confronted already with rising costs and tight markets, now are finding they've got another problem—they may be held liable for damages for improperly built homes.

Recently the Arkansas Supreme Court upheld the allowance of recovery for breach of warranty because of the improper installation of the heating and air-conditioning ductwork by the home builder.

A virtual litany of litigation has been raised against home builders and contractors for faulty workmanship, and the trend is toward more cases being brought against the builders of improperly constructed homes.

Home School Recruits Males

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The dean of the University of Kentucky's School of Home Economics is recruiting male students.

"Home economics long has been regarded as an area of study for girls," says Dr. Betty Jean Brannan. "Every year more young men are entering the field."

She asked the Kentucky Extension Homemakers Association to "take every opportunity you can to inform boys and girls about professional opportunities in home economics."

June Designated Recreation Month

June has been designated as Recreation Month in North Carolina by Governor Robert W. Scott, and Mayor Frank M. Wooten, Jr. has proclaimed this month "to be Recreation Month in our community."

Governor Scott said that "recreational areas and parks enhance the appeal of North Carolina among travelers across the nation and add to the joy of living in the Tar Heel State."

"It is fitting we recognize the contribution recreation makes in our lives... and I commend this observance to our citizens," the governor concluded.

Referring to the local scene, Mayor Wooten stated in his proclamation, "our city of Greenville offers an impressive array of recreation facilities and leisure activities for the benefit of all our citizens."

The mayor also said "I urge all citizens to participate in the many programs of recreation offered by Greenville during June."

Rivers, C.E., dated April 29, 1954, recorded in Map Book 6 at page 53 of the Pitt County Registry.

Normal, But For Genius
NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — "Except for his extraordinary gifts in science, chemistry and philosophy," Roger Antione says of his son Gerald, "he's perfectly normal."
Gerald has finished four years of high school work in one year, picked up 52 college credits at the same time and graduated with his class Monday night at Newton High School. He's 14.
His father is a mathematics professor at Northeastern University.
Gerald plans to attend Northeastern this fall, studying electrical engineering with the class of 1972 during the day, and pursuing a degree in engineering technology at night.
He doesn't spend all his time with the books, either. He plays a piano, guitar and the baritone horn and enjoys swimming and ice skating.
He speaks French fluently and plans to visit relatives in France this summer.
Prof. Antione says that for the most part Gerald has been self-taught and that he coached his son "only when he needed it."

Govm't Security Thefts Zooming

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Theft of government securities has become so widespread that some insurance firms have balked at covering U.S. Treasury bonds, the Federal Reserve Board says. Losses reached $20 million last year for banks in New York City alone. Wall Street brokerage firms were hit hard also, the board said. The FBI, keeper of the only full list of which securities are stolen, won't make its data available to banks that may be confronted with a suspicious bond, the board told Congress. The report was sent privately from the Federal Reserve Board to a House investigating subcommittee. A copy was obtained by the Associated Press. The board made no mention of Mafia involvement in the rash of thefts from the multibillion-dollar flow on Wall Street of Treasury bills, bonds and notes — each a type of loan to the government that can be cashed in or sold. But it said insurance firms have been hiking their fees for covering the government bonds in Wall Street hands since last fall and, in several cases, have refused to furnish any more protection. The theft losses last year were substantially higher than any

Paid Balance 36 Years Later

SAND SPRINGS, Okla. (AP) — Dr. Charles Calhoun, who moved to this small Oklahoma community in 1918 and became its first physician, often told his wife through the years: "We'll never turn anyone away. It doesn't matter if they can't pay their bill, as long as I can help them."

The doctor died nine years ago, and Mrs. Calhoun threw away an enormous stack of uncollected bills, some of which had been gathering dust for more than 40 years.

Recently Mrs. Calhoun answered a knock at the door. An elderly woman identified herself and said she had once been a patient of the late doctor.

"Thirty-six years ago this June," she said, "the doctor delivered son for me. His bill was $35, but all I had in the house at that time was $4. So I'd like to pay the other $31 now." And she did.

other year in history, the report said. It cited the $13 million disappearance from the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. as well as two other New York bank cases that each topped $1 million.

Many Treasury bills are payable to the bearer and can be cashed easily. Other stolen securities have been used as collateral to get loans at banks ranging from Miami, Fla., to a small town in central Pennsylvania. Still other stolen bonds are carried overseas for sale.

The Federal Reserve Board report was sent in response to inquiries by Rep. Dante B. Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of a House government operations subcommittee.

The report said the Treasury had stopped keeping its central list of stolen securities 12 years ago, although it said several regional banks in the Federal Reserve system had renewed an informal checklist last fall to block attempts to cash stolen Treasury bills and bonds.

The FBI has a computerized list of stolen securities, but it will give out the information only to police agencies and not to banks, the board said.

The report recommended the FBI data be made available directly to banks, brokers and other financial firms. If this can't be done, it said some other federal agency should start keeping a computerized check-list of the stolen government bonds.

She Has Her Own Carousel

READING, England (AP) — Five-year-old Patrina Williams is queen of the kids in her neighborhood in nearby Tadley. She has her own private merry-go-round.

Her father, Bill Williams, bought the carousel after it had been unused and neglected for 18 years, rebuilt it and gave it to Patrina. The carousel was built in 1903.

"She rides on one of the horses which has her name on it," reported Williams. "Friends ride the others."

Superliner Going Into Dead Storage

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The proud liner United States, which holds the record for the fastest trans-Atlantic crossing by a ship, is being placed in dead storage — a victim of the jet age and the fiscal balance sheet.

The liner lost more than $4 million last year despite a $12 million federal subsidy.

The United States Lines said Monday it will pay the Norfolk Port and Industrial Authority $9,000 per month to keep the 18-year-old superliner at the Norfolk terminal.

She was rejected for storage by her builder the Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co., whose officials said they had no room for her 940-foot length.

The British liner Queen Elizabeth left Cherbourg on a Thursday morning in August 1952 about 30 minutes before the United States left LeHavre. The next day the U.S. ship overtook the British liner near Cornwall, England. When the vessels were about one mile apart they dipped their ensigns in salute.

With that, the U.S. ship went on to beat the Queen to New York by about 12 hour. The United States' official record, set on another crossing, is three days, 10 hours and 40 minutes.

The $79.4-million ship made more than 400 crossings, and carried more than a million passengers, including such notables as the Duke and Duchess of Windsor and Prince Rainier of Monaco.

The owners of the ship said high wages made it too costly to run, and that jet airliners were taking away passengers.

An official of the United States Lines said it would cost $600,000 a year to maintain the ship in idleness, including the cost of a skeleton crew.

Two Counselors Will Attend Raleigh Meet

Two school counselors from the Greenville area — Mrs. Willie Cox Mallison of Winterville High School and Mrs. Shirley Booth Peel of C. M. Eppes Junior High School in Greenville will be among 75 public school counselors meeting in Raleigh at Meredith College this week to attend a Group Techniques Workshop.

The week long workshop is being sponsored by the Pupil Personnel Services Division of the State Department of Public Instruction.

Mrs. Thelma Lennon, director of the division, explains that the workshop will deal with group counseling techniques. Consultants include Dr. Merle Ohlsen, University of Indiana; Dr. James Parks, Dr. David Srebalus, and Dr. Dwayne Brown, all of the University of West Virginia; and Dr. James Beck, of Florida A. and M.
