Amman Radio Reports King Hussein, Guerrilla Leader Agree On Terms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Amman Radio announced that King Hussein of Jordan and guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat concluded an agreement today to end the fighting between their forces in Jordan's capital. Meanwhile, a band of extremist guerrillas held 14 Americans and 18 other foreigners hostage in an Amman hotel.

agreement and apparently was sent before it was announced. Communications with Amman were sharply curtailed. The hostages in the Intercontinental included 14 Britons and three West Germans as well as the Americans and the Lebanese. All were staying in the hotel.

Most of the guests spent the night huddled in the hotel basement. Neeld said Amman had been without power for nearly 24 hours, and the guests groped their way along the hotel corridors by candlelight. But the hostages were free to do as they pleased inside the hotel and none was ill treated.

One of the hostages in the Jordan Intercontinental Hotel was a son of former President Camille Chamoun of Lebanon. Another was Associated Press correspondent Dennis Neeld, who reported the hotel was held by the Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, a small terrorist organization which has frequently rejected Arafat's leadership.

A spokesman for the Popular Front in Beirut, Lebanon, said the hostages were in no danger. "They are having a good time, he said. "They are eating ice cream for free." Other newsmen being held include correspondents of United Press International, Reuters, the Los Angeles Times, the Washington Post, the National Broadcasting Co. and Agence France Presse.

Amman Radio's announcement of the Hussein-Arafat agreement left one cardinal point unclear: whether Hussein was giving the guerrillas a green light for operations against Israel or whether the commandos had agreed to curtail their raids. In Beirut an official of the Popular Front said guerrilla radio messages from Amman reported scattered shooting today despite the announced agreement.

Neeld said a spokesman for the Popular Front charged Tuesday night that the Jordanian army was bombarding Palestine refugee camps around Amman, causing many deaths. The guerrilla spokesman said the safety of the hostages could not be guaranteed if these attacks continued.

Guests of other nationalities were told they were free to leave Tuesday night, but in the blacked-out, embattled Jordanian capital there was nowhere for them to go. Carrying submachine guns and wearing hand grenades at their belts, the guerrillas invaded the unguarded hotel Tuesday afternoon. They took up firing positions on bedroom balconies and placed guards at every exit.

Street fighting broke out in Amman early Tuesday when Jordanian troops took the offensive against the guerrillas, who had repeatedly stood off government attempts to moderate their attacks on Israel.

Neeld's report made no mention of the broadcast announcement of the Hussein-Arafat

Trial Balloon

ST. LOUIS (AP) — William Looney of suburban Berkeley sent up a trial balloon Tuesday to see if the law would allow his method of demonstrating that jetliners fly too low over his home. It didn't.

Looney attached three gas-filled balloons to a light fishing line and let them rise 50 feet above his house.

"If my balloons are too high, their jets are too low," Looney contended in reference to jetliners which land and take off at Lambert-St. Louis Municipal Airport.

He said if the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) feels balloons flying of 150 feet are a hazard to airplanes, then airplanes at that altitude are a hazard to the subdivision he lives in.

The FAA, apparently considering Looney's balloons a hazard, complained to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which complained to Berkeley police, who asked Looney to bring down his balloons.

Looney complied.

Surprised And Pleased That Suit Is Dropped

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina school officials reacted with surprise and pleasure today to word from Washington that plans for a school desegregation suit against the state had been dropped.

"We have not been officially informed of that but it sounds good," said a spokesman for State School Superintendent Craig Phillips.

Word that the Justice Department had dropped consideration of a suit against North Carolina and three other states came in an interview Tuesday with Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard.

Leonard said he expects the last vestiges of illegal school segregation will be virtually wiped out this fall and the suits will be unnecessary.

Mississippi remains the only state against which the Justice Department is considering a statewide suit, Leonard said. The three other states which had been under consideration for a suit along with North Carolina were South Carolina, Arkansas and Florida.

It was not clear whether Leonard's comments meant that all North Carolina school districts had come in compliance with guidelines of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Officials of 16 North Carolina school districts met in Raleigh two weeks ago with Leonard and HEW officials to try to negotiate acceptable desegregation plans.

A Department of Public Instruction spokesman said today the department had been in contact with HEW officials by telephone Friday and had not learned if all 16 districts had come up with acceptable plans.

"We were told that letters to the districts would be sent out this week and that we would get copies," the spokesman said. "But we've received nothing yet."

Stanly Pottinger, head of HEW's Office of Civil Rights, said after the Raleigh negotiations that eight of the 16 districts had won verbal approval of their desegregation plans.

An HEW spokesman said several days later that other districts also had come up with what appeared to be acceptable plans, and that only about six continued to have problems.

But the HEW officials refused then to specify which districts had or had not produced acceptable plans.

The HEW officials involved were unavailable for immediate comment in Washington today.

The school districts represented at the negotiating session were the city units at Burlington, Fairmont, Goldsboro, Kinston, Maxton, Rocky Mount and Tarboro, and the county units of Chatham, Edgecombe, Guilford, Lenoir, Martin, Nash, Robeson, Vance and Wilson. The Raleigh city schools also are involved in negotiations with HEW and several other school units—including Charlotte-Mecklenburg—are caught up in desegregation problems.

Wachovia, ACC Merging July 1

CHARLOTTE (AP) — American Credit Corporation and the Wachovia Corporation will merge July 1, officials of the two firms said Tuesday.

U.S. District Judge James B. McMillan refused last week to grant the Department of Justice a preliminary injunction to delay the merger. The Justice Department had sought the order on grounds the merger would violate federal antitrust laws.

Rose High Grads Leave 'Best Gift'

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

"We have left the school in better harmony than when we came here a year ago. This the best gift we, the senior class, could leave," Thomas W. Durham, one of two students speakers, commented at the 1970 graduation exercises of Rose High School held at Ficklen Stadium last night.

Durham, in his brief speech, spoke of the first major disturbance at Rose High School which occurred on October 24, United Nations Day. "Rose High made the headlines," Durham continued, "We were torn in a racial strife, in fact, torn in civil war."

Recalling that the school was again thrown into conflict in early January, Durham said, "The gap seemed to widen. Now, at the end of the school year, we have seen disharmony resolved, but all our problems are not resolved."

Joseph Hunter, second student speaker on the graduation program, touched briefly on a concern relevant to the young generation represented by the graduates. "Our environment changes," Hunter commented. "We must learn to adjust to new problems. For this, we need a better understanding of man's position in this world."

"There will be no improvements in man's position as long as man fights against himself. It is up to us to resolve our differences for the good of all. We must develop a brotherhood of all mankind."

The 1970 graduating class of 414 students, were participants in a milestone in Greenville's long and varied history of education. This year, the first in the decade of the seventies, is the first time in the history of Greenville city schools that all seniors, black and white, have joined in one common commencement exercise.

The grand procession, the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance" played by members of the Rose High School band, began just as the sun disappeared behind Greenville's skyline. Scattered gray clouds, not dense enough to suggest the possibility of rain, reflected twilight colors.

Elizabeth Price gave the invocation, praying that "understanding and tranquility between the races, all races, be given." Jane Rowe Jackson introduced the two student

Manhunt Continues For 14 Convicts In Escape

SCOTLAND NECK, N. C. (AP)—A manhunt continued today for 14 of 15 convicts who seized a prison bus Tuesday. One inmate was killed in the escape.

Esau Cook Jr. of Charlotte, who was serving 25-30 years for second degree murder, was shot to death by a guard.

Corrections Commissioner Lee Bounds reported one of the fugitives was captured shortly after the mass break. Bounds noted that 22 prisoners refused to escape and remained with the prison bus until it was found.

The break occurred at the intersection of highways 258 and 561 several miles north of Scotland Neck. The bus was transporting 38 inmates from Caledonia Prison Farm where they had been working to the Odom Prison unit where they were housed.

Bounds gave this account: A group of prisoners broke the door that separated guards from inmates as the bus stopped at the highway intersection.

In a scuffle inmate Charlie Meeks took a .38 pistol from guard W. D. Smith who was able to get out of the bus with a shotgun. Inmate Jerry Wade Penley took a 30-30 rifle from guard J. C. Callahan before ejecting him from the bus.

At this point Cook got out of the bus and began running. Smith shot and fatally wounded him.

Penley then held a gun on

W. H. Carter, the other prison official aboard the bus, while Meeks drove the vehicle onto an unpaved road several miles away.

There the 15 inmates fled while the others waited until they were found. They were returned to Odom Prison.

The guards received only scratches and bruises.

Meeks, 40, was serving 4 to 10 years for taking indecent liberties with a minor and 8 to 15 years for incest. He was sentenced in Mecklenburg County.

Penley, 22, of Glen Alpine, was serving 20 to 25 years on two counts of kidnaping, 12 to 15 years for attempted rape and 10 to 15 years for armed robbery.

ARE THESE YOURS? — This is the sign placed next to a bridge of four teeth found yesterday in the County Courthouse. Mrs. Harold Alford, Register of Deeds for Pitt County, says the bridge was found and turned in. When first efforts to locate the owner of the missing quarter of teeth failed, a decision was made to post these on the bulletin board, hoping the owner would return in search of them.

Arrest 142 For Ignoring Curfew

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Nightstick carrying officers kept the peace today on the streets of the guarded college community of Isla Vista while students at the adjacent University of California campus began final examinations.

Officers arrested 142 young people Tuesday night and early today for violating a 7:30 p.m.-6:30 a.m. curfew imposed by the county board of supervisors, the sheriff's office said.

It was the largest arrest total for a single day since the latest trouble broke out Thursday night. More than 150 had been arrested through Monday night.

In the six nights since officials announced last Thursday indictment of 17 young persons in the burning of a Bank of America branch during violent demonstrations last February, roving bands have smashed windows, thrown rocks at patrol cars and set scattered trash and brush fires.

Wonder Grass Can Purify Water, Has Industrial Uses

EILAT, Israel (AP) — A wonder grass with multiple uses and a promising commercial future has been developed in Israel's Negev Desert.

Its growers claim it can reduce water pollution, cheaply substitute for wood pulp in the production of high-quality paper and do many more things.

Dr. Hugo Boyko, who died in May, developed the reed-like vegetation called juncus-esparto, using desert sand and plentiful underground saline water.

Just before his death Boyko said tests in Scottish and English paper mills had yielded excellent results.

The mills thought so much of its qualities that they applied for the complete harvest once it reaches an economically profitable level of 10,000 tons annually, Boyko said. He indicated that Israeli production within the next few years will be much higher.

"I'm not trying to tell you that the juncus is going to completely replace wood pulp for papermaking," he said. "But the market for high quality paper is so great that we will have absolutely no trouble selling our entire production no matter how large it becomes—and we shall be able to cover millions of desert acres now empty and unused."

Boyko said the grass can purify urban or industrial waste water by breaking down noxious compounds or destroying harmful microorganisms.

"Water filtered through the grass is clean enough to drink," the scientist asserted.

The grass has found other uses in pharmaceutical laboratories, as a dairy fodder, in the manufacture of woven mats, baskets and wicker furniture, in the production of plastic sheets and as an insulating material.

Decorate Using Cut-Outs

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If you can't find a summer job, try spending a few hours in a bookstore or library to see whether there is a book that can help put you in a vacation business. You'll find how-to-do books on just about everything from basket-making to herb growing.

There is a tremendous interest in art in the home, and artists are selling paintings and sculpture at beyond-their-dream prices. Even if you haven't mastered the art of brush and easel, you still may get involved in decorative art projects, such as decoupage, the art of decorating surfaces with paper cut-outs.

One book recently reissued, "The Complete Book of Decoupage" by Frances S. Wing is particularly good for beginners. It provides complete endocrination in all the basic skills of decoupage from the preparation of an object to more involved specialties for advanced decoupeurs.

Pillboxes, stamp boxes, card boxes, small trays make good objects on which to start, the book points out. These may be decorated with prints found at museums or you may use colorful drawings from seed catalogues or sample books of wall-paper houses.

A file should be kept of decorative subject matter that may be used on future projects.

In preparing the object, a box or whatever, it should be examined for imperfections. A wooden object might be smoothed with plastic wood fill, putty and so on, the author suggests. After that, it is painted or stained, or if one prefers, it may be covered completely with paper—plain gold or silver or other plain paper—before it is decorated. Some people line boxes with velvet.

Mrs. Wing explains that one of the most fascinating aspects of decoupage is the coloring of prints. Students find cutting prints the most difficult part of the project.

Little cuticle scissors are great for cutting designs. She advises that large floral prints that have many tendrils should be tackled from the inside out. Outside leaves, flowers or branches may be torn if they were cut out first. This trick might be applied to any cut-out of intricate design.

The final process, varnishing or lacquering, is tedious because it involves sanding, and so on. (About 10 coats of varnish are required.)

For many people decoupage has gone from being a hobby into a business. Some gift shop operators can turn any pretty print into a salable object because they have mastered the art of decoupage.

If you hit on a good salable idea, you may make a good vacation business out of decoupage. Gift shops are looking for unusual gifts, timely gifts and those with seasonable purpose.

Bridal Couple Honored At Shower Saturday

Miss Linda Kaye Harrell and Larry McCoy Roebuck were honored at a miscellaneous bridal shower Saturday night at the Green Hut.

The bride-elect was remembered with a corsage of white flowers.

Guests were greeted and invited to register by Patsy Manning. Bridal games were conducted by Annette Plummer and Ida Mae Lewis.

The hut was decorated with a pink umbrella in the center of the room with pink and green ribbon extending from the umbrella to the corners of the room. A wedding bell, placed over the gift table, featured pink and green ribbon extending to the corners of the table. The table corners were also decorated with ivy and flowers.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth with pink umbrellas and flowers around the edge. The centerpiece consisted of pink candles in a wreath of ivy and flowers.

Mrs. L. M. Roebuck poured punch and cake squares were served by Mrs. Raymond Lee Harrell.

Hostesses were Patsy Manning, cousin of the bridegroom, Ida Mae Lewis, aunt of the bridegroom, and Annette Plummer, sister of the bridegroom.

Miss Harrell was presented crystal, silver and china in her chosen patterns from the hostesses and gifts from the guests.

shares in this investment medium—about half the total number of mutual fund shareholders.

Paul A. Johnson, a vice president of Wiesenberger Financial Services, a major reporter on the mutual fund and financial service industries, explained the basic principles of the funds.

A mutual fund is a company whose only business is the proper investment of its shareholders' money in stocks and bonds.

Few individual investors have the time, information and know-how of the full-time, professional managers of mutual fund portfolios, Johnson said. In addition to professional management, mutual fund shareholders have the advantage of diversification, owning through a typical fund, part of 50 to 100 different stocks rather than just a few.

The difference between open-end and closed-end investment companies often causes confusion, Johnson noted. A mutual fund is an open-end investment company, which means that the fund can create shares to meet public demand, the value of each share is based on the value of the stocks and bonds the company is holding.

Shares in closed-end investment companies, on the other hand, are sold on the open market, such as the New York Stock Exchange, and there is no fixed or constant relationship between the value of holdings and the price per share.

The charges involved in buying mutual funds depend on whether it's a "load" or "no load" fund, Johnson explained. Most mutual funds are called "load" funds because there is a sales commission charge of from 7.5 to 9 percent at the time of purchase.

"No load" funds, employ no sales force and charge no commissions. The investor usually has to take the initiative when buying into "no load" funds.

A number of funds also are sold on a contractual basis, with much of the commission being charged at the outset. For all mutual funds there are management fees and operating expenses which usually cost the investor less than $10 per year for each $1,000 invested. The investor must pay a commission both when buying and selling shares in closed-end investment companies, but only when buying mutual fund shares.

Although some mutual funds have minimum requirements on the amount of money to be invested, most funds are for investors of any size, the executive said. The "bid" price you may see in your newspaper (mutual fund prices are usually listed with over—the-counter stocks) represents the net asset value per share of the fund. The "asked" price includes the average cost per share with commission.

To determine which mutual fund is best for you he advised reading the prospectus. Each of the more than 400 mutual funds currently available to the public must state its goals in a prospectus. Some seek current income, some growth, some seek long term growth of capital and future income and some mutual funds seek capital stability.

Many mutual funds seek to combine two or more of these objectives, Johnston stated. Each investor must determine her goal, find those investment companies whose goals match her own, and choose the one she believes best.

When confronted by companies with similar goals, Johnston suggests you examine the company statements to learn how close the mutual fund came to meeting its goal. If, for example, long term capital growth is the objective, compare the current price with that of a decade ago. Keep in mind, however, that past performance is not a guarantee of future success.

There are three ways to profit from mutual funds, Johnston explained. If the value of the fund's holdings increases, you can sell your shares back to the mutual fund at a profit. Also, you may receive dividend payments from the mutual fund as your share of dividends and interest it collects from the securities in its portfolio. The third way, he said, is that when the company sells stocks and bonds at a profit, you are entitled to your share as capital gains.

Tell Parents Truth About Girl Friend

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this not for myself, but for a friend. "Miss X" is a beautiful, intelligent 22-year-old girl who had an unfortunate romance when she was 15. This resulted in a hurry up marriage and a baby. She was divorced at 17.

She met and fell in love with David, a fine young man who knows about her past, but loves her and her child and wants to marry her. David was raised a Catholic, but he isn't devout. (However, his parents, for whom he has much love and respect, are strict Catholics.)

David is taking Miss X to meet his parents [they live out of town] before they announce their engagement. Naturally Miss X wants David's parents to like her, and I'm sure they will, after they get to know her because she is such a terrific girl, but don't you think since they're so Catholic, if they are told right off the bat that she's a divorcee with a 6-year-old child, they might be prejudiced against her?

Wouldn't it be better if David's parents met her and had a chance to know her and like her, and then they were told about her child and divorce? MISS X'S BEST FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: It strikes me as rather strange that a young man who "loves and respects" his parents would suddenly appear with a fiancée on his arm without having mentioned to them that he had marriage in mind, plus a few vital facts about the girl. But since that's the case, I think Miss X and David should tell them right off the bat that she's a divorcee with a child. To deliberately withhold these facts until after they get to "know her better" would be dishonest, and would surely cause resentment when finally disclosed.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a brother-in-law, age 67, who makes improper advances to my 88-year-old mother. This started a few years ago. He is so sly, he makes sure he isn't seen by his wife [my sister], but I have caught him at it and so has the housekeeper. He obviously needs help? But how? And who? I can't visualize this man going to a psychiatrist. Why he doesn't even go to church! Do you think I should speak to him? He isn't really what anyone can call "mentally unbalanced"—except in this one area of behavior. When he is around Mama we have to watch him every moment. Thank you for any help you can offer.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Yes, speak to him about it. [He is probably becoming senile, so talk to him as if you were speaking to a "naughty boy."] And for goodness sakes, don't ever leave your poor mother alone with him. [P. S. It wouldn't hurt to ask your family doctor for his opinion.]

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to "MOTHER," who was worried about her son seeming to want punishment.

I am only 15, but I have heard many friends say they thought their parents didn't really love them or care about them because they were rarely punished.

I believe that most kids NEED to be punished when they do wrong. It may be hard for parents to understand, especially when the child puts up a fight, but after the tears are gone and all is forgiven, the kids will have a much more secure feeling because they know their parents care enough about them to keep them on the right path.

PUNISHMENT NECESSARY

DEAR PUNISHMENT: You may be "only 15"—but you are very wise.

June-Month Of Weddians, Bridal Ale And 'Trashing'

Homemaker's Haven By Miss Addie Gore Pitt Home Agent

By TOM MCCARTHY
NEW YORK (WNS) — When the nervous June bride and the shaky groom arrive at the altar they're being asked to bet their lives. That's the original meaning of the word "wedding" which in Medieval English was spelled "weddian" and meant a wager or a pledge. Since "bride," a word of Teutonic origin, originally meant a "woman who cooks for a man," the devotee for TV-dinners might have particular qualms in embracing the title. And while, the word "bridal" tends to trail romance its origin was lowly, in the strong drink served at the festivities — the "bride ale."

The ancient Romans were among the first to introduce the wedding ring as a symbol to bind the contract to marry, but the Greeks determined its placement on the finger of the left hand, next to the little finger, in the belief that from this point a nerve ran straight to the heart.

Bride's Veil
Equally antique is the concept of the bride's veil which was introduced to conceal her from spiteful demons who might seek to harm her at the fateful moment when she says, "I do."

The tossing of rice at newlyweds originated in the Far East, where it remains as a fertility symbol in the Indian wedding ceremony. The staple of diet in China and India, rice, was believed to endow the couple with its own miraculous power to reproduce itself.

Swedish churchmen, with an eye to world food shortages and possibly the clean-up job at the church following the ceremony, suggested some years ago that rose petals be substituted for rice. However, in the days of the Caesars the Roman populace preferred wheat or nuts for throwing purposes, while Southern Europeans tossed fruit—usually small figs. (When a newspaper photographer was married in Chattanooga, Tennessee, back in 1940 the friends of the groom pelted him and his luckless bride with 500 used flashbulbs.)

In some parts of England in the early 19th Century the curious custom of "trashing" the bride and groom involved preventing their departure after the wedding by lobbing old shoes or even hunks of turf at them. Today the shoes and tin cans are more likely to be tied to the back bumper of the getaway car.

Savings of $500
Some of the current nervousness at the altar may arise from the fact that even in terms of devalued currency about half of the couples taking the plunge have combined savings of less than $500. And while about 83 per cent will start housekeeping on their own, 17 per cent will share quarters with in-laws.

Fear of post-wedding debts led to the strangest ceremonies of all in both England and New England in the 18th Century when "smock weddings" were celebrated. The practice arose from the dictum of English Common Law that "a man would not be responsible for his bride's previous debts unless he received property from her at the time of the marriage."

Amateur attorneys deduced from this that if the bride wore her own clothes to the wedding her husband would be stuck with her debts. As a result some brides stripped down to a "smock" before going through the ceremony, and in some cases a bride would stand naked in the closet while making the responses, extending her hand around the door to receive the ring at the proper time.

The famous 19th-Century American jurist Francis Wharton took official cognizance of the practice in these words, "There is a popular belief that a man who marries a woman in debt, absolves himself from all liability, if he takes her from the hands of the priest clothed only in her shift." Wharton dismissed the practice as one based on "a vulgar error," but it certainly gave the wedding guests something to chat about.

Nine Out Of Ten
And whatever the traumas involved in the ceremony today, nine out of ten Americans who reach adulthood, try marriage at least once, even though an estimated one million couples per year find it necessary to seek the advice of marriage counselors.

This year's bridegrooms will average about three years older than their brides, but about one eighth of them will be a little younger. The "dropouts" from grammar school will provide the highest marriage rate among the women and the lowest marriage rate among the men.

While higher education appears to make the male prone to marriage it sharply reduces the chances of the learned female. Forty per cent of the women sufficiently important to be listed in "Who's Who" are unmarried, and of those who are married only half of them have had children.

Four out of five American couples will be married by clergymen rather than civil authorities and June remains the most popular month of the year for the ceremonies, except in Utah, where May is preferred, and in Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi and North Carolina where for reasons unknown the favored month is December.

Girls who missed their chance at the altar in 1968's Leap Year need not feel discouraged. Only two Leap Years since the Civil War, 1896 and 1920, showed higher marriage rates than the year's directly before and directly after them.

Sixty-six per cent of the newlyweds will take a honeymoon trip, but in 90 per cent of the cases they'll travel by auto and the outing will last less than a week. Then, more than 40 per cent of the brides will return to their jobs in shops, factories and offices: a sharp reminder that the honeymoon is over.

There is no "out of season" for products of your garden and orchard — if you have a home freezer or space in a neighborhood locker plant.

Freezing is one of the simplest and least time-consuming ways to preserve food at home. It keeps well the natural color, fresh flavor, and nutritive value of most fruits and vegetables. Frozen fruits and vegetables are ready to serve on short notice because most of the preparation they need for the table is done before freezing.

The secrets to good frozen foods or products are using quality fruits or vegetables to start with, using the right packing method, good containers and wrapping material, and storage of the product at 0° F. in the freezer.

Why is it so important for us to use good containers or wrapping materials?

The foods which are put into a freezer need adequate protection to keep them from drying out and to preserve food value, flavor, color and texture. The selection of containers to protect them depends upon the type of food to be frozen, personal preference, and types that are readily available to you. However, to have the best frozen foods, your wrappings and containers must meet these requirements:

- ... They must be clean.
- ... They must be moisture-vapor resistant.
- ... They must stand freezing temperatures and handling without breaking.
- ... Wrapping must cling to foods tightly to keep air out.
- ... They must be the right size and shape for the food and for the storage space available.
- ... They should hold the correct amount of food for use at one time.

- ... They should be reasonable in cost.
- ... They must give no odor or flavor to the food.

Foods cannot be placed in a freezer without adequate protection from other foods which may give off-flavor, nor without adequate protection against the low humidity (dryness) of the freezer. Because of the dryness, there would be a great loss of moisture over a period of time. With this moisture loss, color, flavor and texture would deteriorate. To prevent this, packaging materials which prevent moisture and vapor loss must be used. They are called "moisture-vapor resistant."

Packages which are not air tight and moisture-vapor resistant will let moisture escape, leaving them with a dry spotted surface called "Freezer Burn." The part of the food affected can be eaten but is lacking in flavor and color.

Some of the different types of containers that are suitable for freezing are:

- Glass jars — These jars have no shoulder and are tapered for ease in removing frozen foods.
- Plastic containers.
- Metal
- Polyethylene Bags
- Boil-in-bag freezer bags.

Some of the different types of wrapping materials used in freezing meats are:

- Laminated paper
- Polyethylene-coated paper
- Aluminum Foil
- Silicone Treated Paper
- Parchment

Call or write for your bulletin on frozen foods, if you do not have one. If you have any questions about freezing, call or write the Agricultural Extension Office, 203 W. Third St., Greenville, phone 758-1196.

A wedding tradition is that the parents of the bridegroom give their son and newly acquired daughter a silver wish for wedded happiness. They may be more place settings or serving pieces to match the couple's flatware.

Plans Announced For Cosmetology Hall Of Fame

RALEIGH — Plans for a North Carolina Cosmetology Hall of Fame were announced here Monday by Chairman Ben Templeton.

Three inductees will be named each year beginning in October of this year, Templeton said. Three more will be inducted in May, 1971, and another trio in February, 1972. Qualifications for admission will be revealed within a few weeks.

Templeton said he would seek a committee comprising representatives of the state beauty supply dealers, beauty schools, the N.C. Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association and the N.C. Cosmetologists Guild to assist in selections.

The Ben Templeton Award, given by the Hall of Fame chairman for the first time this year and won by Susie Elias of Weldon, will be presented in February, 1971, he said.

Santa Claus Weds The Fairy Queen

WINCHESTER, England (WNS) — Santa Claus just married the fairy queen who took care of his gift grotto at a local department store last December. Arthur Rowell, 65, reported that it was love at first sight when he met Gwen Fall, 46, as they played the Christmas role. Now they will give themselves two honeymoons: one in Scotland and one on the isle of Jersey. "We must be back in Toyland by November to be Father and Mother Christmas again," said Rowell.

Growth Is Short Of Estimate

While Greenville has shown a good growth from 1960 to 1970, according to preliminary U.S. Census figures, the 29,916 population for the city fell short of estimates which had been used.

The preliminary figures released by Jerry Scott, district manager of the Census Bureau, indicated that Greenville had a 26.9 percent increase over the 22,860 population of 1960. This increase of 7,056, while it is a healthy growth, could almost be accounted for in increased student enrollment and increase in faculty and staff at East Carolina University.

Smokestacks Won't Smoke

By BRYAN HAILIP RALEIGH — The puffing smokestack as a symbol of progress in the way out in North Carolina.

Air quality standards adopted by the State Board of Water and Air Resources which become effective July 1 will make it obsolete. The standards set limits on the discharge of smoke, sulphur oxides, and suspended particulate matter into the atmosphere.

A wholesale change won't be immediately apparent but the effect of the standards will be a cleaner atmosphere for North Carolina, said W. Everette Knight, chief of the Board's air pollution control division.

"I would be very disappointed if we couldn't tell a definite improvement within five years," he said. "In fact," he added, gesturing through his office window in the direction of the state's central heating plant, "we already can tell a difference in Raleigh."

The heating plant smokestack, just off Raleigh's busy Downtown Boulevard, belched out quantities of black smoke until a few weeks ago. Conversion from coal to natural gas as fuel ended the plant's contribution to air pollution.

The step was a part of state government's recognition that its role in air pollution abatement is that of participant as well as policeman. Governor Bob Scott has promised that the state will act to control sources of environmental pollution within its agencies and institutions.

As far as air pollution is concerned, Knight said, this generally involves fuel conversion as in the case of the central heating plant. A number of state institutions, including universities and hospitals, use coal for heating with the accompanying dark clouds of smoke. Conversion costs money on two counts: capital outlay for the conversion, and operating costs for use of the more expensive but cleaner fuel.

Surveys are being made and plans drawn. Where funds are available corrective procedures will be followed. The Governor has indicated he will ask the 1971 General Assembly to provide the money where necessary.

Tar Heel industry has shown an equal readiness to comply with air quality standards. The law enacted by the 1967 legislature makes provision for voluntary action to curb air pollution. Prior to the adoption of standards, a business or industry may apply for approval of pollution abatement equipment or techniques.

"So far, we have issued 40 approval documents representing an investment cost of $22,600,508 which will result in the removal of 181,208 pounds of pollutants per hour from the atmosphere," Knight reported. "This is a very gratifying response on the part of industry, and an indication of an attitude of compliance."

The big task right now is preparing notices of the effective date of the first air quality standards and application forms for temporary permits to be mailed to all affected industries, municipal governments, and institutions. The size of the mailing is uncertain, Knight said, but a first run of 10,000 has been made for the application form.

The letters will go out by certified mail beginning July 1. Approximately 90 days will be allowed for a reply, setting forth the degree of activity involving air pollution, proposed steps to come within compliance, and a time schedule for pollution abatement action.

The timetable is important, because many of those affected will not be able to immediately meet the standards. For example, a municipal government will have to arrange financing to make the transition from burning in an open dump to a landfill or incinerator operation. In all likelihood, a bond issue election will be necessary.

The important thing will be the demonstration of good faith in meeting the standards, and prompt action to initiate abatement of pollution. A field force of inspectors, armed with sampling devices, will check on compliance with the standards.

The North Carolina statute sets forth as the policy of the state a pollution control program which will protect health, property and plant and animal life. Air quality standards have been fixed with this policy in mind. "The standards are placed at levels significantly below those at which adverse effects occur," Knight pointed out.

The State Board of Water and Air Resources and its Air Control Advisory Council have coordinated closely with federal activity in the pollution field. Before air quality standards are set, federal criteria documents dealing with the particular pollutant involved are studied thoroughly.

The standards effective July 1 apply only to open burning and emissions of dark smoke, sulfur oxides and suspended particulate matter. Control of chemical emissions is limited initially to sulfur oxides because these are the only contaminants for which federal air quality criteria have been issued.

The Chamber of Commerce - Merchants Association had been estimating the population at 33,000.

A growth rate of almost 27 percent over a ten year period is entirely adequate, particularly when we recognize that there is more growth ahead for Greenville because of industrial expansions now underway.

Still it would do no harm for the Chamber - Merchants Association to discuss with Census Bureau officials the methods of counting local citizens to make certain that everyone was counted.

Having a few thousand more people is not important as a local ego boosting matter so much, but it is important in other ways. State Powell Bill funds for street construction, for instance, are based on a formula which takes population into consideration.

If the local population is running less than was thought, it won't do any harm to double check behind the Census takers. It could mean additional funds for us from state and federal sources, where population is taken into account.

Taxpayers Should Be Of Primary Concern

County and municipal governing boards are now in the midst of preparing budgets for the 1970-71 fiscal year, and it is important that they keep in mind the need to hold tax increases in the absolute minimum.

Like everyone else, governments are finding they are caught in an inflation squeeze, with their employees needing increases to keep up with the cost of living and other cost of doing business steadily rising.

Governing boards have a responsibility to provide for the needs of their people, even if it does mean more taxes, as is often the case these days. Still there is no room for fat in municipal or county budgets and finding the unnecessary items often means hours of poring over figures for commissioners or councilmen.

It takes toughness to cut out of budgets that which is not needed. This year as never before, however, is a time to see that tax payers get the most for their dollars.

Bold Goal In Middle East

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Despite rising political pressure — from politicians of every ideological persuasion — President Nixon has no intention of giving Israel a favorable decision on the request for 100 more U.S. warplanes.

Instead, what is being hammered out by Mr. Nixon and his foreign policy advisers is a major diplomatic initiative, coupled with a pledge to Israel to replace high performance planes lost in combat.

This pledge will carry a condition, however, that Israel restrict its air activity to the Suez Canal area. Israel is expected to make just that commitment, so that the promise of more U.S. aircraft won't be used by Israel to enlarge the air war and risk combat with Soviet pilots now patrolling Egyptian skies west of the canal.

The form of the diplomatic move is still vague, but it will include two major steps: first, much strong pressure on the Israeli government of Prime Minister Golda Meir, now showing signs of internal tension between hawks and doves, to proclaim an Israeli willingness to evacuate most Israeli conquered territories, such as the Egyptian Sinai; second, a new, high-level approach to President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt to agree to negotiations.

A direct channel to Nasser was opened by Assistant Secretary of State Joseph Sisco in Cairo earlier this spring, but what Mr. Nixon's diplomatic advisers have in mind is a new contact with Nasser at a higher level than Sisco. The political significance of Sisco's trip to Cairo was that, for the first time since the six-day war of 1967, a high-level U.S. official had direct talks with the Egyptians, without being filtered through the Russians.

Mr. Nixon has this bold goal: to use the gravest crisis in the Middle East since 1967 as a wedge to break the Arab - Israeli impasse open for a political solution. As the President sees it, that is the one and only way to stop the dangerous build-up of Soviet influence in the Arab world and the widening political divisions between the U.S. and the Arab states, on one hand, and the U.S. and its Western European allies on the other.

For example, Mr. Nixon has been privately warned that a break of diplomatic relations between the U.S. and several Arab states, including Libya, Kuwait, and possibly Jordan, would result if he agrees to sell Israel another 100 warplanes.

He has also been advised, through Secretary of State William P. Rogers, that several Western European countries, including France and Italy, fear that a major new U.S. arms deal with Israel would build dangerous political pressures between them and their oil-producing neighbors.

The Study Of Feng Sui

WASHINGTON — People who have been wondering why things have been unraveling so badly in Washington these days may be interested in the explanation of a distinguished Chinese scholar who visited the Capitol last week. Dr. Chun Ling is an expert in Feng Sui, otherwise known as the study of things in relation to where they are placed.

"Americans," Dr. Chun Ling said, "do not put much significance into what is in good harmony and bad harmony, but if buildings are not in harmony with each other, it is impossible for people to be in harmony."

Dr. Chun Ling said that the most striking example of this could be illustrated by the fact that the White House faces north and the Capitol of the nation faces east, and both have their backs to the Washington Monument.

When buildings face in different directions, they do not have common goals. "The Supreme Court faces Lincoln and that is good, but Lincoln from his tomb must look at the back of the Senate and House of Representatives, and this is bad."

Other Editors Say How Freedom Used

Washington Daily News — Freedom is a wonderful thing for any of us, but too many fail to appreciate its true meaning.

Too few realize that the very freedom under which they operate to criticize our government and to damn the system has been handed to us on a silver platter. But those who did the handing so often died in the efforts. For 200 years we have seen each generation called upon to defend freedom.

If freedom for one group means loss of freedom for another group, then the use of the word "freedom" is incorrect. And such wordage is wrong and incorrect.

Here in America today we see left wing groups using freedoms to talk about the very destruction of democracy. If democracy is destroyed, the very freedoms they use to destroy it will themselves be lost, too. Is that what some want?

We have no patience with those who use the freedoms of democracy to destroy the system. While none of us says that democracy is perfect, all of us should realize that it is the best we can do now.

Twenty years ago, America was caught in the era of McCarthyism. It was a rather violent reaction stemming from the far right. One day, Senator McCarthy was put in his rightful place, and he sort of faded into oblivion. Today we have sort of the same situation in reverse. The ugliness is coming from the far left, and whereas one man funnelled the fire 20 years ago, today the fire is coming from many fronts.

The picture today seems to bewilder our leadership, and timid souls seem afraid to tread the waters in search of the necessary answers. Yet, we seem to keep going from bad to worse, and unless some better answers are found some time soon, we could find ourselves in an untenable position.

Colleagues are out now for Summer vacations, but what will happen next September when they start up again? That answer challenges all of us, and if the youngsters seem more bent upon social revolution than on learning, then we are in for severe trouble.

We also hear talk about a "hot Summer," but let us hope that cool heads will prevail and that reason and right will guide us.

Those who wish to engage in demonstrations and wild protests ought to remember now and in the future that Democracy belongs as much to them as to the rest of us. If we destroy democracy, we also destroy their right to dissent and their right to demonstrate.

Is that what the ultra-left wingers are seeking? We wonder.

One of the most interesting things that Dr. Chun Ling said was that because the White House faces north, it looks on Lafayette Park. In the center of Lafayette Park is the Jackson Memorial, consisting of four giant antique guns. These guns have dominated every President's thinking. When the President is trying to think, it's inevitable that the guns in Lafayette Park can suggest military solutions to world problems. Dr. Chun Ling believes the guns should be removed at once and replaced with flowers.

When studying the science of Feng Sui, Dr. Chun Ling says that it is very important to know on what axis our nation's leaders sleep. If they don't sleep on the same geographic poles, they can disrupt the flow of the earth's magnetism.

I had my doubts about Dr. Chun Ling's last statement, and so I did some Feng Sui research on my own. It appeared there was a lot to what he said. For example, I discovered that Sen. Fulbright sleeps south to

Over Forty Clues

By HAL BOYLE NEWYORK (AP)—"Dear Poor Man's Philosopher:

"Lately I have been going steady with a nice man who makes something of a mystery of his age. He likes to give the impression that he is under 35, but I have a feeling he is nearer 45.

"Personally, I don't care how old he is, as he has a good job and, of course, I'm not getting any younger myself and a girl of 31—that's a laugh—can't always pick and choose.

"But I would like to know if he's kidding me about his real age. Can you help me?" "Curious"

Certainly, my dear. No one can hide his actual age for long. His attitudes and conduct inevitably give him away.

Your boyfriend is certainly well over 40 if—

His wig is beginning to shed but he blames the falling hairs on his dog.

He begins to fidget if you look longingly at the la carte side of a restaurant menu instead of ordering the price-fixed dinner.

On Saturday nights he'd rather listen to Lawrence Welk than take you out dancing.

His medicine cabinet contains two kinds of sleeping pills, three kinds of antacid tablets and four bottles of tranquilizers.

Any small talk he gives you that any day now he's going to take up jogging to get in better shape is just that—small talk.

Miniskirts on other girls look good to him, but he hates to have you wear one.

If he is considering marrying you, he keeps asking you pointed questions about your financial background and whether he would have to support any of your insolvent relatives.

A World War II uniform is still hanging in his closet.

When he is in an amorous mood, he can't chase you twice around the sofa without getting short of wind.

Now and then he forgets himself and starts bragging about how soon all his life insurance will be paid up.

He never forgets your anniversaries, because he is now old and smart enough to know how important they are to a woman.

When he goes without shaving for a day, his 5 o'clock shadow has a Civil War motif—a tinge of gray as well as blue.

If the price of anything goes up, he worries about whether the nation is heading again into a major depression.

If you exclaim, "Cool it, man!" he thinks you are asking for another ice cube in your drink.

Should these things be true of your boyfriend, lady, you can bet he's over 40 so give him all the help you can.

Opinions In Brief

"Much of the more raucous preaching on social, economic and environmental problems is beginning to sound like the fire alarm that keeps ringing long after the fire engines have arrived on the scene. It is anticlimactic." — Industrial News Review.

Where there is no incentive, the only thing produced in abundance is scarcity. Expecting people to produce with no incentive is no different than expecting a car to run with no gas." — R.D. Hofer.

Answer Lies In The Hard Sell

By ELMER ROESSNER

The decline in business activity and the rise in unemployment is complicated by the fact that all surveys show a decline in consumers' intentions to buy. The only solution available to retailers: the hard sell. The hard sell can not only restore health to individual businesses but it can invigorate the entire economy. Here, from everywhere, are some hard sell ideas, suggestions and approaches: ● Make quick, sharp price cuts on goods that are slow to sell. Slow, undramatic cuts are rarely effective; unsold goods can be a deadly drain on profits. Dramatic cuts can swell store traffic.

● Pep up staff morale. Cheerful employees sell more. Get over the message: "Your job may depend on your smile."

Incentives ● Don't stop there. Establish an incentive system: prizes for the highest sales total of the day, commissions on sales over fixed amounts, more spiffs. Note that quick ay-offs enhance incentives; payments each day or each week are more effective than those that come later.

● Consider instant premiums, such as a small, unexpected gift with each purchase. ● Use a bargain window to promote cut-price merchandise, last-of-a-kind items, other clearance goods. Use highly visible prices, indicating cuts. ● Keep alert for distress merchandise from suppliers. "Below manufacturer's cost" is a powerful hard-sell line.

● Step up shopping of competitors. Keep topping their ideas. ● Examine records of past special sales; repeat those that worked best.

All of these suggestions have been or are being used.

Japanese Capturing South Vietnam Market

The Electronic Industries Association reports that Japan is capturing the South Vietnamese market for electronic goods. Japanese exports to that country were $908,000 in 1965. By 1969, exports were $52,571,000, making the five-year total $157,623,000.

Prison Facilities Inspected By Scott

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott paid an unprecedented seven-hour visit to Raleigh area prison facilities, Tuesday, including death row and the gas chamber at Central Prison.

The tour began with 6:45 a.m. breakfast at the Central Prison Youth Center and ended at Polk Youth Center in midafternoon.

Mrs. Scott joined her husband for a visit to the state Correctional Center for Women and its Chapel of the Nameless Woman.

In an interview after the tour, state Correction Commissioner Lee Bounds said, "The governor saw the prisons exactly as they are on any Tuesday."

"He walked all the walls at Central Prison and viewed it from every guard post. There was not a nook or cranny that he didn't see." Scott himself had no comment on the visit.

Bounds added, "I think I can accurately say that he was very much impressed by what he saw. He was impressed with the quality of the personnel who are making do with what they have ..."

"I think the thing that struck him most forcefully was the weight of responsibility (on prison personnel) and how dedicated they must be to work under those conditions."

Bounds also said the visit was a big morale boost to prison personnel and inmates. He said prisoners seemed to be "pleased that the governor would be interested enough in them to come."

Bounds said he knew of no previous tour by a governor of prison facilities.

Blue Law Repeal Bid Meets Veto

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's boldest attempt yet to repeal the old Sunday closing law has been repealed by Gov. Louie B. Nunn, who says it would create too much litigation.

For the first time, both legislative chambers passed a measure to change the blue law so that local option would be allowed.

Nunn's veto message added that the Legislature "should not try to repeal one of the Ten Commandments."

Evans, Novak

Italy, for example, now receives 28 percent of all its imported oil from Libya, whose new nationalist military government has close ties with Rome. Libya is already demanding a higher "posted price" (that is, a higher royalty from U.S. oil companies) from U.S. producers, who now control 83 percent of all Libyan oil.

In oil-rich Kuwait, a break with the U.S. could produce similar results. Almost 60 percent of Kuwaiti oil goes to Western Europe.

As for Jordan, a diplomatic break would not immediately send King Hussein to Moscow; he would hope, in fact, to continue his present purchase of U.S. arms. But it might become the catalyst for eventual Soviet displacement of the U.S. in Amman.

Those are just some of the political offsets to the powerful pressures now being brought on President Nixon by politicians of both parties. The letter to Rogers signed by 76 Senators last week completely ignored these ominous political implications (and brought raised eyebrows to White House aides who counted among the signers 46 implacable foes of U.S. involvement in Vietnam).

There are few illusions in the White House about the chance of success in the diplomatic initiative now being drafted. But there are even fewer illusions as to what would happen if Mr. Nixon agreed to the long-standing Israeli request: drastic damage to U.S. standing in the Arab world and dramatic enhancement of Soviet influence.

Turkey Awaits Dubcek Return

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — An official source says Alexander Dubcek, liberal Communist party chief deposed after the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968, will return soon to his ambassadorial post here.

Dubcek left Turkey abruptly nine days ago during a purge in Prague of liberal Communist party figures. He flew to Budapest and was supposed to have gone from there to Czechoslovakia by car, but Prague did not reveal his exact whereabouts.

There had been speculation that he might have been recalled to face charges in connection with his liberalization programs that prompted the Soviet invasion in August 1968.

Buchwald . . .

Vice President Agnew, on the other hand, sleeps south by southeast. Most Eastern Establishment news papermen and commentators sleep north by northeast. This, and only this, is what is causing the disharmony between the Vice President and the press.

I tried to find out what direction President Nixon sleeps to make my study complete, but Ron Ziegler, his press secretary, told me emphatically "The President never sleeps."

Summer School Begins Thursday For Students In The County System

Summer school will begin Thursday for students in the Pitt County School system.

The program will run from June 11 through July 23 and will cost approximately $171,665.

Principals and head teachers attended an orientation session at the Pitt County School office Tuesday. The teachers, aides, bus drivers, lunchroom workers and principals reported to their respective schools this morning for orientation.

A total of 449 preschool children will participate in the readiness program, which is designed to give incoming first graders an opportunity to develop social competencies needed, as well as develop a sense of responsibility whether working with a group or independently.

Preschoolers will also be given an opportunity to develop the ability to distinguish between personal possessions and those of others.

The preschool program will be taught in the following schools: Ayden Elementary, Grifton High, Chicod, Grimesland Elementary, Pactolus Elementary, Bethel Elementary, Falkland Primary, Sam Bundy, Winterville High, W. H. Robinson and Bethel Union.

Belvoir Elementary, Falkland Primary, Sam Bundy, Winterville Elementary, W. H. Robinson and Bethel Union.

Summer school classes for students in grades one through five will be offered at the following schools: Ayden Elementary, Grifton High, Chicod Elementary, Grimesland Elementary, Pactolus Elementary, Stokes Elementary, Bethel Elementary, Belvoir Elementary, Falkland Primary, Sam Bundy, Winterville High, W. H. Robinson and Bethel Union.

High school courses will be taught at Winterville, Bethel Union and W. H. Robinson. A free lunch and transportation will be provided by the school system.

Vacation Is Said Wasted

ANYON, Tex. (UPI) — Summer vacation for most high school students is wasted time, according to a West Texas State University professor.

Dr. Fred Stoker, head of the department of educational administration at West Texas State, said a study he made showed many students unhappy with present summer activities.

"I believe they are bored with a three-month vacation, from June until September, as the public school system is now set up," Stoker said. "Our schools should take another look at the vacation period. To combat boredom and provide worthwhile experiences, more students could be involved in volunteer service oriented activities."

The university professor also said schools should provide more summer activities in addition to remedial classes and, he said, colleges should waive some antiquated admission requirements and permit superior high school students to take college credit courses in the summer.

"The vacation originally was set up to permit students to work on farms," Stoker said. "In a predominantly agricultural area such as the Texas Panhandle, only 20 per cent of the students now work on farms."

Stoker said large groups of students wanted summer employment but were unable to find it. He said girls have a harder time than boys and often find nothing except baby sitting at low wages.

"The survey shows that students who work during the summer months are generally happier than those who do not," Stoker said. "Less than 6 per cent of the students sampled believe the money earned in summer employment is essential to continue their education."

BIRD SANCTUARY — A mother robin found the proper sanctuary when she built her nest at the feet of St. Francis, the patron saint of all animals and birds. The nest is in a triangular-shaped shrine at a Sacramento (Calif.) garden supply nursery. (AP Wirephoto)

Reflector Circulation Growth Among Pace-Setters

Says 'New Left' Using Old McCarthy Methods

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard President Nathan S. Pusey says the nation's campuses are being disrupted by student and faculty extremists bent on destroying the existing higher educational system.

Addressing seniors at the university's annual baccalaureate ceremonies Tuesday, Pusey said those he cited had revived the 1950s methods of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, rousing "hate and anger" for their own purposes.

"Now, less than 20 years later, our campuses are experiencing a not dissimilar period of torment whiplashed as they are by a resurgence of his hateful technique," declared Pusey, who was himself a target of McCarthy in 1953.

He said the campus unrest was steered by "extremist groups of the New Left made up of students and—I am sorry to acknowledge—also of some faculty who for reasons not quite clear to me would like to see our colleges and universities defigrated, maligned and even shut down."

Pusey added: "Always they insinuate, distort, accuse, their aim being not to identify and correct real abuses, but always rather by crying alarm intentionally to arouse and inflame passions in order to build support for 'non-negotiable demands,' and, by this means, to enlarge their following and enhance their power."

Pusey, who is retiring next

June, recalled coming to Harvard in 1953 after having served as president of Lawrence College in McCarthy's hometown of Appleton, Wis., where he had opposed the Republican senator's successful re-election bid in 1952.

"As long as I remained in Appleton he had taken no public notice of me," Pusey said, "but when I came into the light of the Harvard presidency I was quickly numbered among his targets."

Labeling McCarthy a "symbol

The Greenville Daily Reflector has more than doubled its circulation in the past 25 years, according to a study of circulation of daily newspapers made recently by Prof. Ken Byerly of the University of North Carolina's School of Journalism.

The circulation figures of the local newspaper at five-year intervals show a steady increase: in 1945—3,875; in 1950—4,875; in 1955—6,265; in 1960—7,413; in 1965—10,416; and in 1970—11,379.

Circulations of all dailies throughout the state has jumped 83.5 percent in this 25-year period, Byerly said. "This growth rate is more than double the 37.3 percent gain in North Carolina's population in the same period."

Daily circulation of North Carolina's newspapers was 634,875 in 1945 and is now 1,256,934. The state's population grew from 3,817,000 in 1945 to an estimated 5,240,000 today, up 1,423,000 or 37.3 percent.

"The number of copies of Tar Heel dailies now distributed per capita is 240 for every 1,000 persons, or about one daily per family," Byerly said. "It was 179 papers per 1,000 persons in 1945."

"The circulation and population growth have both been steady and continuous," he said, "with newspaper circulation maintaining a better than two to one margin over population in the pace."

Dailies published in smaller North Carolina cities of less than 50,000 population had the fastest comparative growth. Their circulation almost tripled in the 25 years with a 173.4 percent gain.

The soaring circulation gain of dailies published in smaller cities was boosted by the increase in their number as 11 that were published weekly or semi-weekly in 1945 were converted to daily in the 25 years. Two dailies that were published in 1945 have since closed their doors.

Some 31 dailies are now published in the smaller North Carolina cities of less than 50,000 population. Their combined circulation of 351,609 is a 223,013 gain over the 128,596 circulation of the 22 dailies published in these smaller cities in 1945.

The Daily Reflector was one of 11 smaller city dailies that more than doubled their circulation in the 25 years. North Carolina's afternoon circulation during the years and the morning ones 69.8 percent. Morning papers led in total circulation in 1945 by 351,472 to 333,403 for afternoon. But today's afternoon circulation of 660,072 now exceeds the 596,862 morning circulation for Tar Heel dailies. However, circulation of individual morning dailies on the average is much greater as there are only nine of them in the state compared with the 39 afternoon ones.

"Daily newspaper circulation has increased steadily in the entire nation since World War II," Byerly said, "but the North Carolina pace has been much faster."

"The even faster growth of smaller city dailies in North Carolina is also occurring in the nation."

"Newspapers are not fading as some claim and many believe. They are surging ahead with a trend toward getting closer to the people."

Byerly has studied newspaper trends in North Carolina and the nation for many years.

'Green Revolution' Expected To Change Diets Of Millions

By AKIO KONOSHIMA WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. agricultural experts expect the Green Revolution to change the diets of millions of people in Asia.

Clarence E. Pike, a Far East specialist in the Department of Agriculture, cites Japan as an example of what may happen in other nations.

As Japan's national wealth increased, the Japanese people started eating more meat, poultry, vegetables and fruit.

While the Japanese diet became more varied, Japan's per capita consumption of rice went down.

Pike, Far East chief in the Department of Agriculture's economic and research division, does not forecast a repetition of the Japanese pattern elsewhere in Asia soon.

But he does believe that some regions, including Taiwan and Hong Kong, are moving towards more variety in diet with less dependence on rice. He says the production of poultry in many parts of the Orient is "almost factory-like."

But for Asia's masses, the trend remains towards greater rice consumption, and that is where the Green Revolution plays a big role.

Eating habits change when personal income increases. The specialists note that people in Indonesia, South Korea, India, Pakistan and the Philippines turned to rice, the preferred cereal, and away from barley, corn, cassava and other root crops when their income increased.

Pike said urbanization caused many people who ate root crops to turn to rice, which is more easily stored, marketed and prepared than other staple foodstuffs.

Another important factor in the overall impact of the Green Revolution, Pike said, was the fact that rice for some countries has been a main export and foreign exchange earner. Burma could be a prime sufferer.

"Burma," he said, "has gone backward economically ... it has little resources with which to diversify, so Burma's welfare is most dependent on rice."

Burma had only about 335,000 tons for export in 1968. In 1969 it was reported that Burmese officials hoped to export about 600,000 tons. But this compares with Burmese rice exports of a million or more tons of rice annually a decade ago.

Bomb Set Off In Police HQ

By WILLIAM R. TOW
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Seventeen minutes after an anonymous caller telephoned a bomb threat, a powerful dynamite blast ripped through the second floor of police headquarters Tuesday night. Eight persons were injured, none seriously.

"There is a bomb set to go off at police headquarters," the unidentified male caller said and hung up. The time was 6:40 p.m.

About 150 persons were at work in the fortress-like, 61-year-old structure at the time—most of them in the 4th floor communications center. Emergency units sped to the building and began a search.

At 6:57 p.m. the bomb—estimated to have contained 10 to 15 sticks of dynamite—exploded in a men's room, destroying several nearby offices and shattering windows in the five-story structure.

First Deputy Commissioner John F. Walsh described the explosive device as a sophisticated bomb with timer and said that if it had gone off earlier the day, 500 employees would have been in the building.

Manhattan has been plagued by a series of bombings in recent months, one of them in the Criminal Courts building a few blocks from police headquarters.

The Thailand leaf purchases here are part of a total of 22,000 hogheads or 20,000,000 pounds of tobacco being bought by the Monopoly. Thailand ranks as the fourth largest importer of USA tobacco in the world.

The delegation will be spending about two months in the United States completing its inspection assignment and will be visiting various cities within the tobacco growing area.

School Bus Plan Given Go-Ahead

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Board of Education has received a go-ahead from Gov. Bob Scott and the Advisory Budget Commission to provide public transportation for all urban pupils living 1½ or more miles from school.

The decision, announced by the budget commission Tuesday after a lengthy, closed door session means continued bus service is assured for 41,000 city children who were transported in the past and that 56,000 others will receive state-paid transportation.

Dr. Craig Phillips, the state's school superintendent, was not available for comment on the commission's action, but last week he expressed the opinion there is still time to provide the service by September.

The budget commission rejected a request from the state Board of Education for transferring $1.8 million in surplus teacher salary funds to the transportation budget.

Instead, it directed the board to use regular school transportation funds for the service, notifying that the 1970-71 school budget has $15.8 million for bus transportation.

It added the regular transportation fund "is more than ample" to pay for transportation of the extra children for well over half the school year.

"By this time, long before there is any fund shortage, the General Assembly will be in session and can, if it chooses, enact a special appropriation for the remainder of the year," the commission noted.

The board of education had requested the surplus funds transfer after a federal court ruled North Carolina could no longer discriminate in transporting urban pupils.

The state was providing transportation to 41,000 children in recently annexed urban areas but none to the 56,000 other children who live in older sections of municipalities.

'Prankster' Shot By The Victim

CHICAGO (AP) — Russell Williams, a 17-year-old senior at Carver High school, and some of his classmates were dressed in wide-brimmed hats and wide-collared jackets; girls with them were in flapper costumes; some of the youths carried toy pistols for the school party with a Roaring 20s theme.

As about 30 of the youths clowning around outside the school, Orna Dixon, 65, happened by. Police said some of the youths shoved Dixon up against a wall and told him they were going to rob him. Police said Williams faced Dixon with a toy 18-inch rifle aimed at him.

Dixon brushed the toy gun aside, apparently thinking it was real, pulled out a .22-caliber pistol and shot Williams in the head, officers said. He was charged with voluntary manslaughter.

Five or six male students, in leaving the stage after receiving their diplomas, made a gesture of raising their right arm with two fingers extended.

A perusal of the list of graduates for 1970 reveals students with the surname of Jones lead all other names in numbers graduating. The Jones' numbered eight. Other names represented in multiple numbers of graduates are Smith with six names; Clark, Harris, and Williams with five names each; and four each of Edwards, Harrington, Johnson, King, Teel, Warren, Whichard and Wilson.

of Cadets. While at the Academy he was a member of the Junior varsity football team. He plans to attend East Carolina University in the fall.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam K. Price of 1310 Evergreen Dr., Greenville, N.C.

The transportation schedule is: (Departure time and pick up points are listed). 7:15 a.m., corner Greenfield Blvd. and Woodside Road; 7:25 a.m., Meadowbrook Daycare Center; 7:30 a.m., Meadowbrook Park Recreation Center (Projects); and 7:40 a.m., Third Street School.

A second transportation route is: 7:20 a.m., C. M. Eppes School; 7:30 a.m., Sadie Saulter School; 7:40 a.m., Agnes Fullilove School; and 7:50 a.m., South Greenville School.

The schedule is designed for students in grades seven through 12 to be picked up first, with students in kindergarten through grade six to be picked up afterward. Students in kindergarten through grade six will be picked up first in the afternoon. Timing of these buses will require each student and parent to work for promptness.

Daily Registration Is Taken Of Summer School Students

Registration for the summer school, grades seven through twelve, is now being taken daily. Principals offices at Aycock, Eppes and Rose will be open daily from 8:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m., including lunch time, for this purpose. Robert Sigmon, director of Secondary Education, stated it will be preferable for students, if possible, to register at Rose High School.

The final day of registration is the first day of summer school, Monday. However, school officials have expressed a desire that those planning to attend register as early as possible.

Hours for summer school studies will be from 8:00 to 10:30 a.m. and from 11:00 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. A "brunch" break will be held for the 30 minute period between 10:30 and 11:00 a.m. Soft drinks and snacks will be available for purchase during the break.

Courses which have been offered in past years — General Mathematics, English, Algebra I, Geometry, Algebra II, Physical Science, World History, Biology and U.S. History will again be offered. In addition, school officials stress they are ready to offer any course for which there is a sufficient interest and for which a qualified teacher can be employed.

School administrators say the summer school program must be self-sustaining. This means that students' tuition will have to cover the cost of the program. For the full six week program, the tuition fee is $40.00. A half-program of three weeks is also available at a tuition cost of $25.00.

Transportation will be available for students who live west of Evans Street and—or are not attending Wahl-Coates Elementary School in the Men are wearing hats so seldom that courtesies concerning them are forgotten.

A gentleman wearing a hat should remove it on certain occasions. When a lady enters a hotel elevator a gentleman removes his hat. He may put it on again in the corridor.

In public buildings it is not necessary to remove your hat. You merely tip it if you meet a lady of your acquaintance. Public buildings and their elevators are often too crowded for common courtesy.

Removing your hat when meeting a lady you know may prove uncomfortable. It will if your meeting is on the street in bad weather. You remove your hat and hold it. Your friend should eventually say, "Please put your hat on!" Then you may replace your chapeau.

Pirates Claimed Titles, Made Lists During A Very Good Year

East Carolina University enjoyed another banner year in Southern Conference athletics in 1969-70 as 15 Pirates won individual championships and eight more were honored as All-Conference performers.

Leading the parade was the ECU swimming team which captured the Southern Conference team championship for an unprecedented fifth straight year. Coach Ray Scharf's pool crew included seven individual champions - and one of them, sophomore Jim Griffin of Norfolk, Va., was the conference's best in three events.

Griffin won the 500 yard freestyle, 200 free and 100 free and also participated on two championship relay teams—the 800 free and 400 free.

Freshman Wayne Norris of Fayetteville won two titles—the 200 medley and 200 butterfly - and also swam on the two championship relay teams. Diver Bob Baird, a senior from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., captured both the 3-meter and 1-meter diving titles.

Other championship swimmers were Steve Weisman (senior, Alexandria, Va.) in the 100 breaststroke. Gary Frederick (sophomore, Fort Washington, Pa.) in the 1650 freestyle and the 800 and 400 free relays. Greg Hanes (junior, Wichita, Kan.) in the 800 free relay, and Paul Trevisan (freshman, Newtown Square, Pa.) in the 400 free relay.

The indoor and outdoor track teams produced six champions, including freshman star Walter Davenport of North Wilkesboro, who won the long jump indoors and the triple jump outdoors, and senior Ken Voss of Greenville who won the 2-mile indoors and the 3-mile outdoors.

Other conference champs on Coach Bill Carson's squad were Jim Kidd (sophomore, Manassas, Va.) in the outdoors 880 yard run and the indoors 2-mile relay and Rusty Carraway (freshman, Raleigh), Joe Day (sophomore, Fayetteville) and Lanny Davis (sophomore, Charlotte), all of whom were on the championship indoor 2-mile relay team.

The two other Pirate champions were wrestlers Tim Ellenberger and Mike Spohn. Ellenberger, a senior from Glenshaw, Pa., captured his third straight conference title in the 126-pound class while Spohn, a junior from Frankfort, N.Y., came out on top the 158 class. In the three major sports - football, basketball and baseball - the Pirates produced eight All-Conference honorees.

Topping the list was Coach Earl Smith's baseball team, which won its third Southern Conference crown in five years. Three ECU players were named to the All-Conference First Team and one other Pirate was chosen for the Second Team.

The first team selections were pitcher Ron Hastings, catcher Stan Sneed and second baseman Dennis Vick. Hastings, a junior from Connelly Springs, and Sneed, a sophomore from Wilmington, will be back as the league's No. 1 battery next spring. Vick is a senior from Wilson.

Co-captain Skip Taylor, a senior from Charlotte, was the second team first baseman.

Coach Tom Quinn's basketball team, which finished runner-up to Davidson for the second straight year, had two All-Conference stars in guard Tom Miller, a senior from Oxon Hill, Md., who made the First Team, and senior pivot man Jim Modlin of Jamestown, who was a Second Team choice.

And the last Clarence Stasavich-coached football team also came up with two All-Southern Conference performers - senior tailback Billy Wightman of Burlington, who made First Team Offense, and senior tackle George Wheeler of Buena Vista, Va., who made First Team Defense.

Wills Takes Elon Position

East Carolina University Head Trainer Terry Wills will resign his position with the athletic department here July 1 to become assistant athletic director at Elon College.

"I feel this a professional advancement into the administrative end of college athletics," said Wills. "Eventually I would like to become an athletic director and I feel this is a move in that direction."

Wills will become top assistant to Elon athletic director Red Wilson and will be in charge of all the trainers. He also will be an assistant professor in the physical education department.

Currently working on his Masters in education which he will receive at the end of the first summer school session at ECU, Wills earned his B.S. degree in physical education from East Carolina in 1966. While an undergraduate Wills served as a student trainer for two years and became head trainer - the first in the school's history - in 1966.

"I have a great deal of admiration for Terry," said athletic director Clarence Stasavich. "He has made a very heavy sacrifice in order to graduate from East Carolina, having to support a wife and child during the time he was in school."

"I feel certain he will be

NPC Knocked Off Unbeaten List

Foodmart knocked National Products Company off the unbeaten list in the Women's Softball League last night, 12-7, and threw the lead into a three-way deadlock. In the other games, Little Mint rolled to a 27-10 win over Wachovia, and Bob's Atlantic downed Coca-Cola, 14-10.

NPC, Foodmart and the Little Mint all post 5-1 records. Bob's is 2-4, Wachovia, 1-5, and Coke, 0-6.

In the opener, Foodmart pushed over four runs in the first inning, then added another in the second. NPC came back to score five in its half of the second, tying it up.

NPC then took the lead with a run in the fifth, but Foodmart came back to push seven over in the sixth inning to run out to a 12-6 lead. The inning included a homer by Carolyn Haddock.

NPC tried to recover, but got only one run in the seventh inning.

The Little Mint scored three runs in the first inning, including a two run homer by Dorcas Carter, but Wachovia picked up two as Sandra Forehand got a homer to stay close. The Little Mint then came up with three in the second, the pushed over eight in the third to run out to a 14-2 lead.

Edwards, Out Of The Bullpen, Showing Them How It Is Done

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
There's a little ache here and maybe a small muscle hurts there but Doc Edwards doesn't care. His pains are nothing compared to the things that happened to Philadelphia's first four catchers this year.

Edwards started the season in the relative peace and serenity of the Phillies' bullpen as a member of Manager Frank Lucchesi's coaching staff. No aches and pains there.

Tim McCarver and Mike Ryan both broke their right hands, unbelievably in the very same inning. Mike Compton hurt his back and then Del Bates hurt his hand.

The organization virtually depleted of receivers, Lucchesi did what any good manager does in a pinch. He went to the bullpen and suddenly 32-year-old Doc Edwards, was a big league catcher again.

Tuesday night Edwards played his third game since being activated and singled in both Phillie runs in a 2-1 victory over Atlanta. Two hits gave him 5-for-11 and three RBIs since he went to work behind the plate. Life in the bullpen was never like this.

In other National League games Tuesday, New York trimmed Houston 2-1, Cincinnati downed Montreal 6-4, St. Louis blanked Los Angeles 4-0, Chicago defeated San Diego 7-3 and Pittsburgh dropped San Francisco 5-1.

"My legs were a little stiff at first," admitted Edwards "but I'm okay now. It's great to be helping out. I didn't think I'd go this far."

Edwards was drafted for duty Saturday in Houston and had three hits, driving in one run and scoring another. Then he not only singled in both runs Tuesday, but picked pinch runner Sonny Jackson off first base in the ninth inning.

The heroes haven't turned Edwards' head. "If I was the manager," he said, "I'd put McCarver and Ryan back as soon as I could. I don't worry out there. I'm relaxed. When this is over, I only have to travel back to the bullpen."

The Cardinals also reached into the bullpen and came up with Chuck Taylor, who made his first start after 21 relief appearances and shut out the Dodgers on five hits.

Lou Brock, Jose Cardenal and Joe Torre had two hits apiece for the Cards, who ended Claude Osteen's personal five-game winning streak.

Tom Seaver throttled Houston on three hits and pitched the Mets to their fifth straight victory over the Astros. Wayne Garrett homered for New York and Denis Menke connected for the Astros.

The victory was Seaver's first since May 15 and ended a four-game spin for the 1969 Cy Young Award winner.

Steve Blass halted an even longer dry spell, pitching Pittsburgh past San Francisco. It was his first victory since April 22—a seven week span in which he had lost seven games.

Willie Stargell hammered a two-run homer for the Pirates and Blass, 3-8, contributed a single and double as Pittsburgh beat Juan Marichal, 2-5.

Ferguson Jenkins pulled his record to 6-7 pitching the Cubs past San Diego. It was the third straight victory for the big right-hander, who struck out 12 in eight innings.

Cincinnati won its fourth straight and ninth in the last 10 games, beating Montreal and opening a 10-game bulge in the National League's West

Lemon Takes Over At Kansas City, Gets First Win In First Outing

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bob Lemon's managerial debut at Kansas City was a neat and efficient success, nothing quite as explosive as Willie Horton's takeover at Detroit.

"It's great," said Lemon, the former star pitcher for the Cleveland Indians, following Tuesday night's 8-1 triumph over Washington as right-hander Dick Drago scattered seven hits and the Royals jumped to a 4-0 edge in the opening inning, helping snap a six-game losing streak.

Earlier in the day, Lemon, the Royals' pitching coach, had been named manager, replacing Charlie Metro, after Kansas City had lost eight of nine and were tied for fifth place, 16½ games back of West Division leader Minnesota.

Horton, the 27-year-old strongman of the Tigers, crashed three home runs, including a grand slam, and drove in seven runs to take over the American League RBI lead with 48 as Detroit ripped Milwaukee 8-3. In other AL contests, New York topped Minnesota 5-2, California stopped Baltimore 7-5 in 11 innings, Chicago beat Boston 4-2 and Oakland trimmed Cleveland 5-2.

In the National League, Cincinnati dropped Montreal 6-4, Philadelphia edged Atlanta 2-1, New York nipped Houston 2-1, Chicago drilled San Diego 7-3, St. Louis blanked Los Angeles 4-0 and Pittsburgh stopped San Francisco 5-1.

"It's the start of a new year," Drago said after evening his record at 4-4. "That's the first time I've been relaxed in a month and a half. This team has been tense all of the time. He (Metro) expected you to get every hitter to hit a popup or strike out."

"It's nice to pitch out there without knowing you're going to catch it every time you get back to the clubhouse."

Drago got all the support he needed from Bob Oliver, who rapped three hits, a homer, triple and single. The four-run first inning burst was keyed by Amos Otis' two-run triple, followed by Oliver's triple and a sacrifice fly.

Horton ripped his grand slammer in the opening inning, wiping out a 2-0 Brewers lead, then connected for a two-run shot in the sixth and added his 10th roundtripper in the eighth, a solo blast, sending Milwaukee to its 15th consecutive road loss.

The seven-year veteran upped his average to .323, rapping half the total of six Detroit hits. Horton has a career high of 36 homers in 1968 and last year, after a slow start which saw the Tigers' left-fielder walk out of a ball game and miss five games, he batted .262 with 28 homers and 91 RBI.

Stan Bahnsen, 4-4, scattered four hits and Gene Michael's tie-breaking sacrifice fly in the sixth inning helped the Yankees edge to within 4½ games of the East leaders, Baltimore.

Bobby Murcer drove in a pair of runs for the Yanks with a two-run single off loser Jim Kaat, 5-3. Bahnsen allowed a Leo Cardenas single which scored both Minnesota runs in the second. He also fanned Rod Carew, the league's top hitter, three times.

Ken McMullen's leadoff homer in the 11th inning, after helping the Orioles tie it at 5-5 in the ninth, helped the Angels gain a game on the Twins in their battle for the top spot in the West. The Angels trail by two games.

The Orioles had tied it after McMullen booted Brooks Robinson's bounce which was followed by a double by Dave Johnson and Ellie Hendrick's two-run double.

Brooks Robinson had a solo homer in the seventh for the Orioles while starter Dave McNally, bidding for his 10th victory, slugged a two-run blast for Baltimore in the fifth.

Bill Melton ripped a pair of home runs and rookie right-hander Jerry Janeski picked up his fifth victory as the White Sox snapped Boston's five-game winning string.

Janeski scattered seven hits, including Carl Yastrzemski's two-run homer, his 14th of the season.

Sal Bando drove in four Oakland runs with a homer, triple and single, helping Jim "Catfish" Hunter pick up his ninth victory. Hunter, 9-5, was working on a one-hitter until he weakened in the ninth and gave up a double and two-run homer to Vada Pinson. Bando crashed his 11th homer with two on for the A's in the third.

Goose Limit May Be Raised

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission hopes to increase the bag limit on geese from one to two a day next season.

At the urging of Commissioner Orville Woodhouse of Currituck County, the commission voted Tuesday to let the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service know it wants a higher limit.

"It's ridiculous to have a one-goose limit from Back Bay (Va.) south when just to the north of us they can take two geese," Woodhouse commented.

In other action, the commission agreed to shorten the rabbit season by one week in February but declined a recommendation by its staff that it open a week late. It also refused to delay the opening of quail hunting a week.

The board voted to set the season for quail from Nov. 14 to Feb. 27 and rabbits from Nov. 14 to Feb. 13.

It removed otter from the list of animals legal to be trapped after the staff reported the otter faces extinction.

The commission adopted these hunting regulation changes:

—Deer: dropped the delayed (noon) starting time on the first two days of either sex deer seasons because, the staff said, the regulation entrapped hunters who did not intend to violate it.

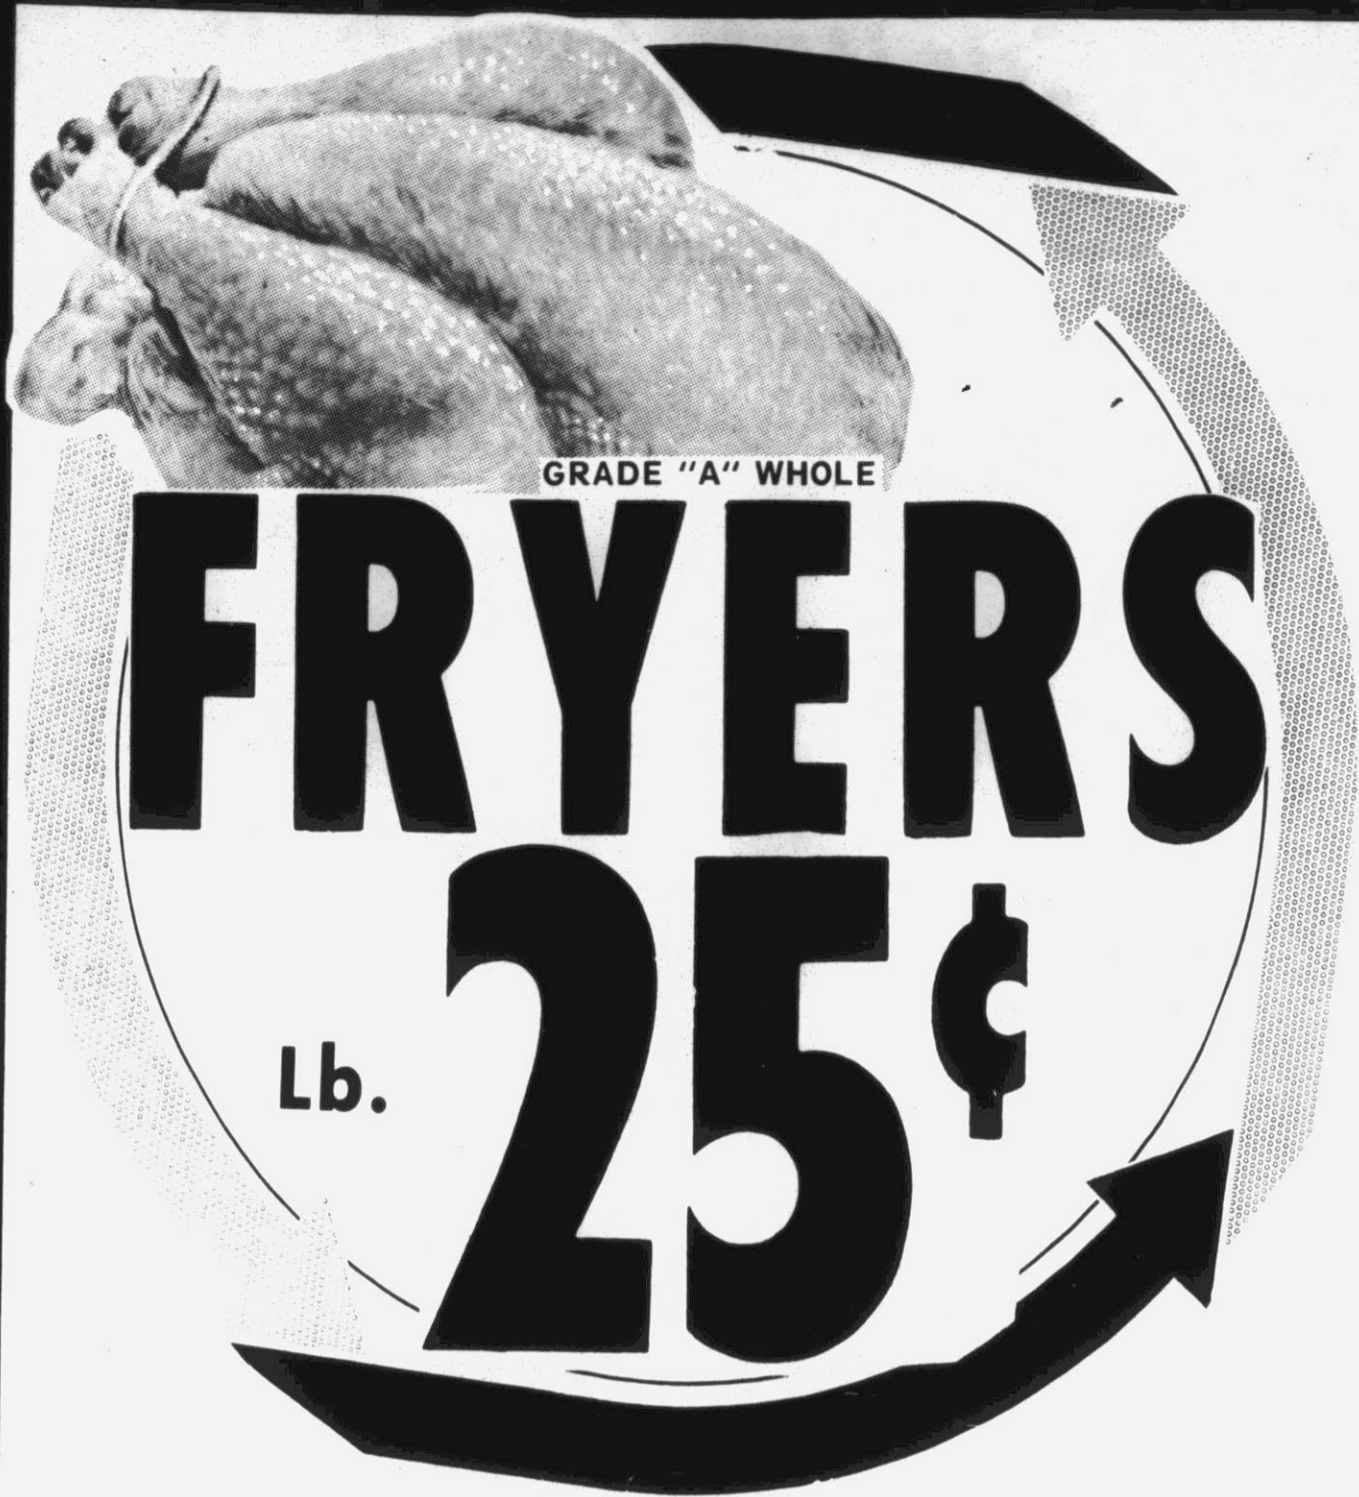

The deer season in eastern North Carolina will be Oct. 12-Jan. 2, except for special local exceptions.

Celebrated A Week For New Capitol And Railroad

By H. G. JONES
Dept. of Archives and History
Written For The AP
RALEIGH (AP).—One hundred and thirty years ago this week a carnival-like atmosphere dominated Raleigh as citizens of the state along with neighbors from both north and south converged on the capital city. The occasion was the completion of those two magnificent public works, our new capitol and the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad.

The celebration began on Wednesday, June 10, 1840, and lasted all through the week.

The Raleigh Register reported a few days later: "The occasion was so unusual, the distinguished guests so numerous, and all the circumstances of the assemblage so inspiring, that we do not believe one individual has left us without having experienced the most generous and pleasurable emotions. From the first burst of feeling with which the cars bearing our guests were greeted, till the last sally of convivial humor died away; it was one scene of hilarity, enthusiastic emotion and cordial good fellowship."

One of the first official activities began with a procession of "at least one thousand persons," including Gov. Dudley, members of the legislature, judges, the president of the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, members of the clergy, "artists of the capitol and the railroad," invited guests, and many interested citizens. They proceeded to the new depot where "in an immense building designed for a warehouse, but admirably adapted to the purposes of a great entertainment, was spread the dinner."

As soon as the company gave signs that they had disposed of the "more solid portion of the entertainment," a toastmaster took the floor and gave no less than 13 official toasts, each followed by an appropriate selection of music. Honored subjects included the Union, the governor, the state, the capitol, the railroad, and "women."

Many of the toasts consisted of plays on words such as this one to the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad: "Its structure will accelerate with the velocity of a tornado (with) the train of public opinion in its favor." The Tornado, incidentally, was the name of the engine.

On Thursday the citizens and their guests were treated to railroad excursions with cars departing every two hours. For many this was not only their first train ride but also the first time they had ever seen a train. Another favorite activity of the day was, in the words of the Register, "examining the beauties of our newly erected temple of government and laws, in which ere long, eloquence shall fulmine, art refine, etc." A blunt end for a flowery sentence!

A ball was held that evening inside the new capitol building, the chambers of which "presented a constellation of grace and beauty." The senate chamber was used for dancing while the "commons hall was occupied by such company as preferred other sources of enjoyment." Particular note was taken of the new chandeliers, each of which held nearly a hundred candles according to the Register and "imparted to surrounding objects the distinctness of midday."

Another ball was conducted in the capitol on Friday night in which the participants "indulged in the hilarities of the evening until a late hour." A reporter at the time said the events of both evenings could be condensed into the couplet: "They ate and drank, and danced—what then? They danced, and drank, and ate again!"

Thus was concluded "Three Days in June," as it was headlined in the newspapers that year, a source of excitement and memory for the developing capital and the state of North Carolina.

Plan Tactics To Meet Russian Middle East Drive

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is putting together a program combining military supplies and political action to meet what it considers the growing danger of Soviet armed intervention on behalf of Egypt in the Arab-Israeli conflict.

The program—still to be decided on finally—is expected to include the sale of warplanes to Israel, but also intensified efforts to work out a formula with the Soviet Union for peace talks between Israel and the Arabs.

Consideration has been given to a new cease-fire call, limiting arms sales in the Mideast—and perhaps some forceful gesture of U.S. support for Israel.

One possibility would be a publicized visit to an Israeli airfield by U.S. jets.

Officials concede virtually all ideas for an American initiative have been turned down by Moscow or failed in some other way in the past. Nevertheless, they said if the crisis is to be controlled familiar devices will have to be tried again and again.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers told the House Foreign Affairs Committee Tuesday of one of the latest failures of U.S. policy.

He said it was decided in March to hold off on the Israeli request for planes "in the hope that it would set a pattern of restraint in the Middle East."

Yet, about a month after the decision was made, Soviet pilots began flying missions in Egypt's interior, covering such strategic points as Alexandria, Cairo and the Aswan Dam. In addition, increasing numbers of Soviet soldiers began manning antiaircraft missile bases.

In the face of this, Rogers said, the delay on the Israeli request is being reconsidered. "There will be a decision on this matter before long," he told the House committee, although he later ruled out any change before the weekend.

Another failure Rogers did not mention, since it involved private diplomatic exchanges, is the failure to get any assurances from Moscow that its pilots in Egypt are limited to interior defense missions.

U.S. and Soviet officials are scheduled to meet again Friday but the future range of Soviet military activity in Egypt's defense is not expected to be clarified.

The Nixon administration fears that at some point Russian pilots will extend their operations into the combat zone covering the Suez Canal.

This would either mean Soviet-Israeli clashes and casualties or an Israeli backdown.

Israeli leaders have said, however, they intend to defend the Suez front regardless of who fights on the other side.

U.S. officials believe the danger of Soviet involvement on the Suez front will grow considerably if the conflict drags on.

Thus, in spite of past setbacks, there appears to be a new determination on the part of officials here to press for peace negotiations.

Rogers touched on this administration policy theme in his talk with the House Committee, calling for compromises by both sides.

"The only hope for progress," he said, "is to convince both the Arabs and the Israelis that compromises are necessary."

"The UAR (Egypt) should abandon its refusal to enter any kind of negotiations and its insistence on prior Israeli withdrawal to the pre-June 1967 lines (which were set by Israeli conquest of Arab territory)."

"Israel should make clear that it accepts the principle of withdrawal (from the conquered territory) as laid down in the November 1967 Security Council resolution, and that it will no longer insist on the formula of 'direct negotiations without preconditions.'"

Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin reportedly told Rogers and Asst. Secretary of State Joseph Sisco last week the Soviet government was seriously interested in resuming talks, broken off last fall.

The Friday meeting is expected to be dedicated by both sides to an exploration of the possibility of getting somewhere in the search for peace.

Talk No Politics While Dating

NEW YORK (AP) — Entertainer Barbra Streisand held an open house Tuesday. Asked by a newsman whether she thought Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau, a frequent companion on dates, "is doing a good job of running Canada" the star replied:

"We don't really talk about politics."

Rockefeller To Seek 3rd Term

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, first Republican governor of Arkansas since Reconstruction, has decided to seek a third term.

Rockefeller, 58, made his announcement to a group of supporters Tuesday, saying he had a number of objectives for the betterment of the state still to carry out.

Appointed Two, Reappoint One To City Posts

Two new appointments and one reappointment to city agencies were approved at last week's City Council meeting.

Howard Porter was reappointed for a second term to the Greenville Board of Adjustments. Porter, a native of Missouri, has just retired from long years of coaching and teaching at East Carolina University. For a number of years he was basketball coach for the university, and in recent years was a professor in the Health and Physical Education Department. Porter has been living in Greenville since 1946. He and his wife, June, are the parents of a daughter, Mrs. C. E. Oakley.

Another appointment to the Board of Adjustments was that of Richard Powell, a local attorney. Powell replaces Thomas Webb, who served three full terms on the board. A native of Washington, D. C., Powell is married to the former Lillie Hicks of Maysville. They have four children, Harriette, Richard, Jr., Kennon and Sharron. A graduate of North Carolina Central University in Durham, Powell also attended St. Augustine College and Armstrong High School in

To Celebrate Restoration

At 4:00 p.m. on Friday, the Redevelopment Commission will hold a ceremony on the Esplanade along the Tar River on First Street, celebrating the restoration of the old Town Common.

A "very low key affair," officials note, the ceremony will formally acknowledge the efforts of those who labored to make possible the improvement represented by the Shore Drive Redevelopment Project, and especially the restoration of the old Town Common.

In announcing plans for the ceremony, the chairman of the commission, Billy Laughinghouse, said "there will be no bands, nor fireworks, nor formal addresses."

It is "simply a gathering of the city officials and Redevelopment Commissioners who were in office when the restoration was accomplished, together with our Congressman and HUD officials who helped us secure the Federal aid which made the restoration possible," he added.

Laughinghouse said that "all interested citizens are welcome" to attend the ceremonies.

Planning Course For Instructors

Another in the series of Red Cross Water Safety Instructors courses will begin Friday at 7:00 p.m. at the Minges Pool on East Carolina University campus.

The course is divided into two parts. Part I will be taught by Dr. Edwin D. Roberts; with the second part taught by Miss Nell Stallings of ECU's faculty.

The course is open to any individual who has a current Senior Life Saving certificate. Each class will run from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m.

Labor Troubles Proving Costly

CALCUTTA (AP) — Labor troubles forced 124 factories to close in the past year in West Bengal state, the state's labor minister Krishnapada Ghosh told the state assembly. The factories employed 27,371 workers, he said. Earlier, Members had complained that during the one-year rule of the Communist-dominated state government labor troubles had forced many factories to close.

The English lost less than 100 men in the battle with the Spanish Armada.

McCarthy Doubts Impact On Opinion

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., doubts that President Nixon's Vietnam fact-finding commission will still Congressional action against the war.

McCarthy, who spoke at a theological seminar at Belmont Abbey College nearby in Belmont Tuesday, said he doubts the commission will have a very strong impact on Congressional and popular opinion on the war.

He told newsmen as he arrived at the Charlotte airport talk he didn't think the mission "will have any significant bearing on the various resolutions in Congress."

Congress has been debating legislation seeking to set a deadline on American troop use in Southeast Asia. One resolution would cut off money for U. S. operations in Cambodia after July 1.

When asked if he considered the appointment of Henry Cabot Lodge as special envoy to the Vatican a danger to church-state separation, McCarthy said, "In light of Lodge's recent successes as ambassador, I can't think of him as a danger to anything."

He said he thought sufficient, informal channels for communications already exist and that the government doesn't have any need for an official representative to the Vatican.

McCarthy, who ran his unsuccessful 1968 presidential campaign on an antiwar platform, said he didn't know what he would be doing in 1972.

He announced a year ago he would not seek re-election to the Senate.

McCarthy was keynote speaker at a seminar of Catholic educators and pastors at Belmont Abbey College which focused on "the church as community."

His topic was the ever increasing community awareness of the church and the need to deepen this through prayer and study.

Worry Clinic 'Stage Fright' Can Be Licked

Don's case shows that stage fright attacks everybody, regardless of how many college degrees he may possess. But there are many tricks of the trade by which platform artists and speakers camouflage their nervousness. Study this case with care and use the strategy below.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.
CASE N-522: Don W., aged 36, is a lawyer.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "my specialty is corporation law, so I am not a polished public speaker.

"But I belong to a Kiwanis Club and am Chairman for Ladies Night.

"Stage fright overwhelms me till I shake and my hands tremble so badly I can hardly read my notes.

"What can I do to appear more calm and poised when I stand up to address the group?"

Stage fright is universal, even including professional performers, so don't feel belittled because your hands tremble.

If you are a singer or speaker, fasten your music or notes to a heavy piece of cardboard.

Or, by all means, hold your paper in BOTH hands. Meanwhile, pull gently in opposite directions.

For this opposing pull by your hands will neutralize the tremor of each one.

Try it this very minute, even as you read this bit of strategy! You may still be frightened and jittery, but at least your notes will not rattle and advertise your stage fright to your audience.

At the start, you can also hold to the sides of the lectern or clasp your hands behind your back, squeezing them tightly together, for this muscular effort drains off energy and thus calms you more quickly.

Remember, too, that the very act of speaking will also dissipate much of your pent-up nervousness, which is why you feel fairly calm by the end of 3 minutes.

And you can also divert attention from yourself during those crucial first 3 minutes by naming some member of the audience as you narrate a relevant story or joke concerning him.

For the crowd will turn its eyes to the person you are talking about and thus he will be the center of their gaze, instead of you, the speaker.

Don't hold the mike in front of your mouth. It is not a telephone!

It is wise to have a theme or text, even for a brief talk. Then start with an appropriate quotation that epitomizes your topic.

Salute the ladies by some such quote as that from W. B. Garrison, who said:

"For every man who climbs to the top of the ladder of success, there is some woman who stays on the ground and steadies it for him."

Or mention the old Hebrew proverb that states:

"God made mothers because he couldn't be everywhere Himself."

"Or Goethe's "Architecture is frozen music."

At the bottom of some 200 pages in my college textbook, "Psychology Applied," you will find over 200 choice quotations that can thus enrich your address, so borrow a copy from your local library.

To start and conclude your talk with appropriate quotations will thus add scholarly ritz and cultural distinction to it.

In between the beginning and the finish, use a few actual examples that amplify your main theme, for people like specific cases, since they serve as stories and thus are usually narrative instead of ex-

The bidding:

Opening lead: Ten of ♠
North was somewhat reluctant to raise spades with only two trumps, but inasmuch as he lacked a stopper in hearts to bid two no trump and South had rebid his suit, North finally chose the raise—to three spades. South carried on to game.

West opened the ten of hearts which was ducked around to declarer's ace. The ace and king of spades were cashed and the closed hand was reentered with the ace of diamonds so that declarer could play the queen of spades. With the trumps divided evenly, all that remained was to develop the clubs. The jack of clubs was led and permitted to ride when West followed with the four. North played the deuce and East the three.

With everything apparently working to his complete satisfaction, South continued with a small club. West put up the ace and declarer blithely played the nine from dummy. When East showed out by discarding a diamond, South's equanimity disappeared.

West led back the nine of hearts, East covered with the queen and continued with the king which South ruffed with the seven of hearts. A club was led to the king in dummy, however West's queen remained outstanding. In order to continue development of the clubs, South was obliged to ruff a diamond with the jack of spades—his last trump. When West got in with the queen of clubs, he played the queen of diamonds which was overtaken by his partner's king for the setting trick.

When the trumps divided favorably, South was in position to assure his contract. Development of the club suit can be accomplished by conceding tricks to the ace and queen. There is no objection to leading the jack initially, however when declarer retains the lead and continues the suit, he must not permit North's king to block development of the clubs.

When West plays the ace, South should throw the dummy's king under. The subsequent lead of the ten drives out West's queen and declarer retains the jack of spades as an entry to cash the eight and seven of clubs. His losses on the deal are thereby restricted to two clubs and one heart.

$6 Million Suit Filed

GREENSBORO (AP) — Pine Island, Inc., of Greensboro has filed a $6 million suit against a California "conglomerate" in connection with land sales on North Carolina's coast.

In the U. S. District Court suit against Occidental Petroleum Corp. of Los Angeles, Pine Island alleged its representatives blacked out of an agreement to buy 807 acres of North Carolina coastline for $2.5 million.

The suit also names an Occidental subsidiary, Dean Brothers, Inc.

According to the suit, in the fall of 1969, agents of Deane Brothers expressed an interest in purchasing the land in Currituck and Dare counties.

The petroleum firm, the suit said, "is engaged in the acquisition of underdeveloped land for development of residential and commercial sites."

The plaintiff charges that after representatives of Deane Brothers agreed on contract terms for the cash purchase of the land, a "chief executive officer of Occidental" contacted the Deane Brothers agent and ordered the sale not be closed.

Pine Island complained it is unable to sell the property at an equal price and as a result has lost $1 million. It is seeking $5 million in exemplary damages.

Note Less Tobacco In Slim Cigarettes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Smokers aren't getting as much tobacco in many slim cigarettes and some cigars, according to the Agriculture Department.

Marketing experts said Tuesday the slimmer cigarettes contain less tobacco and cigars are sometimes made from homogenized bits of stems which the department specialists say technically are not tobacco.

"We normally consider tobacco as from the web of the leaf," one marketing expert said. "But more and more of the other parts are being used to make sheet tobacco."

Sheet tobacco is a processed form of ground-up parts of the plant, mixed together and pressed into uniform stock. This material then is used in some cigars and cigarettes.

According to the Federal Trade Commission, there are no federal regulations requiring cigarette manufacturers to label their products as to tobacco content.

"If they advertised on packs or cigar boxes that it was 100 percent tobacco and actually was not, the government would have a case," the FTC said.

Cigar manufacturers using additives are required to label products as "predominantly natural tobacco with substantial amounts of nontobacco ingredients." An FTC official said these additives include molasses, glycerine and other substances used to flavor or bind tobacco together.

Prison Term For Draft Office Raid

CHICAGO (AP) — Seven anti-war activists have been sentenced to five years in prison for destroying Selective Service records. Three absent defendants, who a federal judge called ringleaders in the action, were given 10-year sentences.

In pronouncing sentence Tuesday, Judge Edwin A. Robson of U.S. District Court dismissed a defense contention that the demonstrators' action was nonviolent. He said the raid May 25, 1969, on a draft board complex was "violence, the violence that can bring about revolution."

He said he hoped the penalties were severe enough to deter other youths from staging similar attacks on draft boards.

The three defendants who disappeared in the final days of their trial were sentenced to five years on each of two counts, the terms to run consecutively.

Judge Robson said these three masterminded the assault on the Southwest Side draft offices where some records were thrown into a bonfire and paint was dumped on others.

The seven in court also were sentenced to five years on each of two counts, but Judge Robson said those terms would run concurrently.

The judge denied appeal bond for the seven defendants present. He said the disappearance of the three others was a major factor in his decision.

The seven have been in Cook County-Chicago jail since their conviction by a jury Friday.

No Injuries In Accidents

No injuries were reported during investigation of two traffic accidents yesterday by Greenville police.

Heaviest damage resulted from a 2:25 p.m. accident on Calvin Way near the Arlington Drive intersection involving a car driven by Eleanor Collins Cobb of 1510 N. Queen Street, Kinston, and a parked trailer owned by National Boat Works Inc.

Damage to the Cobb vehicle was estimated at $250 while the trailer sustained an estimated $170 damage. Police reported that no injuries resulted from the mishap and no charges were preferred.

A wreck on the 14th and Charles Street intersection yesterday at 6:16 p.m. resulted in damage to two vehicles.

Involved were cars driven by Mark Owens of Shallotte, damaged an estimated $110, and Rosella Barnhill Jones of Rt. 6, Greenville, damages totaling $125.

Officers, who reported no injuries, charged Rosella Jones with failure to see a safe movement could be made.

Police also received a report of a traffic accident that occurred on May 26 involving cars driven by Robert K. Patterson of 3014 Sue Lane, Raleigh, and Robert Gentry Harris of Ayden.

The Patterson vehicle was damaged a reported $150 while none was reported for the Harris car. The mishap occurred on Dickinson Avenue.

Rule Natural Death Cause Set Date Of UAW Parley

FARMVILLE — The death of Mrs. Josephine Waller at her home here yesterday morning was ruled "the result of natural causes" by acting coroner, Dr. Thomas Patterson.

Local police were called after the 66-year-old woman's body was found in the kitchen of her home at 108 Hines Street and Dr. Patterson subsequently was called to act as coroner at the request of County Coroner E. W. Harvey.

Police Chief Graham Creel who investigated the scene said there were two pools of blood on the floor and that a table and two chairs had been overturned in the room.

Dr. Patterson said his preliminary examination of the body revealed that Mrs. Waller had died some time before 8:45 a.m. yesterday morning of coronary occlusion. The bleeding apparently was caused by a tooth knocked loose when the woman fell, knocking over the table and chairs, he said. Mrs. Waller had been his patient for several years, he said, and has suffered from heart disease and severe high blood pressure for some time.

SOMEWHAT SHAKEN LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Fred J. Kissinger was somewhat shaken when he ordered a new suit.

"It was only when the tailor told me what my waist measured," he said, "that I realized a Douglas fir with that much girth would be 90 feet tall."

Set July 6 For Zoning Hearing

AYDEN — The Ayden Town Board of Commissioners Monday night set July 6 as the date for a public hearing to discuss the rezoning of a portion of West Avenue from residential to industrial.

The hearing, set for 7:30 p.m. in the Ayden Court Room, will be held to discuss rezoning land from Power Street running 200 feet north on West Avenue from RA-8 residential to I-2 industrial.

The commissioners approved the closing of the alley between Second and Third Streets and approved the final plat of section two of the Kennedy Estates subdivision.

H. L. Lewis, clerk of superior court, administered the oath of office to Mayor Ross Persinger and commissioners J. D. Allen and J. J. Brown. The three were elected to their respective offices at the May 5 town election. The board accepted the election results of the Ayden

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Capital Footnote
Nixon Cabinet member says despite continuing price rises that increased taxes are out this year, and another says wage-price controls won't stop the inflation.

The administration won't ask for any more new taxes this year and couldn't get them from an election-minded Congress if it did, Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy said Tuesday.

And Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz said wage and price controls would not work because the public would not accept them and they would require miles of red tape.

"They would do more harm than good," Shultz said in a talk at the National Press Club. "They wouldn't roll back the cost of living."

Kennedy told newsmen that the administration did not have any plans to ration credit, either. "Consumer credit has not been going up," he said. "The facts would not justify such a system at the present time."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has approved and sent to the Senate a $7.4 billion Agriculture Department money bill.

The bill, passed by a voice vote Tuesday, includes $2.5 billion for special food programs including food stamps for needy families and milk and lunch programs for needy children.

It also contains $100 million to help build water and sewer systems in cities below 5,500 population, or more than four times the $24 million asked by the Nixon administration.

The over-all bill amounts to about $80 million less than the President had requested for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., proposed today a federal program of $25,000 awards to Americans who develop solutions to national problems.

"I have long felt that someone should create an atmosphere of incentive for Americans at the grass-roots level to come up with answers to some of our most pressing problems—like maybe a fellow in his home garage devising an effective but inexpensive device for controlling air pollution," Ford said.

"I would like to enlist all of our citizens in a campaign to pick our national problems."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hugh Scott, the Republican leader, said today it will take "continued restraint on total federal spending" to bring price stability and sound economic growth.

"Deficit spending of the mid-60s is now being paid for," Scott said. His speech was prepared for the National Confectioners Association.

Scott said the administration will "taper off inflation without the kind of recession that usually follows the kind of spree we were on in the 60s."
