Threaten Hostages

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Leftist Arab guerrillas threatened today to blow up two hotels in which 58 foreigners are being held hostage if Jordanian troops continued shelling Palestinian refugee camps.

The threat by the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine involves one hotel in which 36 people are being held and another in which 22 are under detention.

There was no independent confirmation here that the Jordan army was shelling refugee camps today.

(In Beirut, Lebanon, however, Western diplomatic sources said there were reports today of some tank fire on the camps. Palestinian sources there said tanks were shooting at anything that moved in the streets around the camps.)

The hostages were held on Tuesday night by a band of 40 guerrillas who occupied the American-owned Intercontinental Hotel.

Later another group occupied the Philadelphia Hotel, about two miles away.

Sub Staging Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new staging area for Soviet submarines equipped with nuclear missiles aimed at the United States has been established on the Atlantic Ocean off Greenland, the Washington Post has reported.

The newspaper said the staging area is in addition to existing underwater bases along the central and southern portions of the Atlantic coast.

The Pentagon did not immediately confirm or deny the report.

The new Soviet station is for Y-class submarines the equivalent of American Polaris missile submarines, the Post added.

One submarine was patrolling in the area, the Post said, and added the station will be considered permanent if the vessel is relieved by others.

Soviet Y-class submarines carry 16 missiles.

Cash Offer Hinted

BRUSSELS (AP) — Defense ministers from 14 nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization met today amid talk of a European cash offer to save off threatened U.S. troop withdrawals from Europe.

A high-ranking West German source said his government was pressing other European NATO members to make a joint payment to the United States to help defray the cost of keeping 300,000 troops in Europe.

The source indicated that the idea was still in its infant stage, with nothing decided as to what nations might participate or how much they might put up.

U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird told a reporter he knew of the plan and the intention to make it public.

European defense ministers will meet here in September to discuss the proposal. Plans must be ready by fall if they are to affect the U.S. budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1971.

In recent years West Germany has helped defray most of the foreign exchange loss involved in maintaining U.S. troops in Europe by buying equipment and bonds in the United States.

Files $6 Million Suit

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The father of 19-year-old Allison Krause, one of four Kent State University students killed during a May 4 confrontation with National Guardsmen, has filed a $6 million wrongful death suit against Ohio officials.

Arthur Krause of Pittsburgh, Pa., filed the suit in U.S. District Court here Wednesday. He named as defendants Gov. James A. Rhodes; the Ohio National Guard commander, Gen. Sylvester T. Del Corso, and Brig. Gen. Robert H. Canterbury, head of Ohio's Army National Guard units.

Krause charged that the defendants ordered the National Guard to the campus and in so doing "intentionally and maliciously disregarded the lives and safety of students, spectators and passersby, including Allison Krause."

Will Accept Mission

TOKYO (AP) — The Soviet Union informed Japan today it is ready to accept a joint diplomatic mission from Indonesia, Malaysia and Japan this month to discuss an early solution of the Cambodian war.

Japanese Foreign Ministry officials said the Soviet ambassador to Tokyo, Oleg A. Troyanovsky, told Japanese Deputy Foreign Minister Shinsaku Hogen the Kremlin would welcome him and his party June 17.

Hogen later left for New York for talks with U.N. Secretary-

General U Thant on moves for peace in Indochina.

Officials said Hogen would join Indonesian and Malaysian delegates in New York and fly on to Moscow.

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastyanov completed 155 orbits of the earth today in the 10th day of their marathon Soyuz 9 space flight.

There has been no announcement how long the pair will remain in orbit but they are apparently aiming to take the space record of nearly 14 days away from the United States.

70 Civilians Killed, 31 Wounded Villagers Massacred By VC

By RICHARD PYLE

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong troops attacked a South Vietnamese village south of Da Nang early today, killed 70 civilians and wounded 31 others in two hours of slaughter, U.S. officials reported. Survivors said the Viet Cong invaded Ba Ren Hamlet behind a mortar barrage that set fire to many houses, then ran through the streets "shooting anyone they saw" and hurling grenades into homes and civilian bunkers. The toll was expected to rise as rescue workers dug through the ruins of nearly 200 huts destroyed or badly damaged. A U.S. officer who flew over the hamlet 17 miles southeast of Da Nang said it was about 90 per cent destroyed or damaged. In addition to the civilian casualties, one U.S. marine was reported killed and 11 wounded. They were part of a combined action platoon of Marines and local Vietnamese militia stationed at a highway bridge just north of Ba Ren, and a small Viet Cong force attacked them as the main units hit the town.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported 600 of its soldiers wounded last week and a total of 1,896 enemy slain by allied forces.

The U.S. Command also reported a total of 273 Americans killed in Cambodia since May 1, with 1,196 wounded. It said six Americans were killed and four wounded in two actions Wednesday along the Cambodian side of the border.

A Cambodian military spokesman said North Vietnamese forces were again attacking the airport at Siem Reap and may have occupied the famed ruins at nearby Angkor Wat, Cambodia's chief tourist attraction.

"We don't have any precise information on whether the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong are in the temples," Maj. Am Rong told newsmen in Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital. "But that side is open. We have no Cambodian forces in that area."

Heavy Summer Session

Approximately 8,000 students are expected to attend East Carolina University's 1970 summer sessions, officials announced today.

According to figures and projections, enrollment for the first summer session will exceed 4,200 students. The second session is expected to attract nearly as many.

The projected figure exceeds the official enrollment last year, 7,179 regular students plus those attending institutes, workshops, and special conferences, which brought the total to around 7,800.

The number of regular students enrolled each session were 4,247 for the first and 2,932 for the second.

Summer session dates are June 8 - July 14 and July 15 - August 20. Classwork began Tuesday for the first session. Registration for the second session is scheduled July 15.

Dr. Robert Holt, Vice President of ECU, said many of the students coming to the East Carolina University campus this summer will be attending various workshops, seminars and special programs.

More than 400 courses in all departments plus many special programs are being offered again this year both on the Greenville campus and in selection communities across Eastern North Carolina.

The first and second sessions of summer school are equal to a full quarter with respect to courses, credit and quality of instruction.

Special summer programs are being offered at ECU this year in the areas of education, music, sociology, home economics, aerospace, business administration, and political science among others.

Six More Escapees Are Recaptured Today By N.C. Prison Officials

SCOTLAND NECK, N.C. (AP) — Prison officials recaptured today six more of the 16 convicts who escaped Tuesday by commandeering a prison bus. A search continued in the Scotland Neck area for the two convicts still free.

Robert L. Hinton, an executive in the state Correction Department, said search was still concentrated near Scotland Neck because, "We have some good leads."

One of the convicts, Jerry Penley, was picked up Wednesday night.

The other five—James Shore, John Pope, William E. Jordan, Jesse Ashford, and Wayne Walker — were caught between 7 and 8 a.m. today. Still at large were Frank Starter and Bass Pass Jr.

Escapees caught Tuesday night and Wednesday included Charlie Meeks Jr., identified as a ringleader in the escape plot. Others were Jerry Hopkins, Jerry B. Hardin, Jerry Hilliard, Willy Moore, Michael Kerskey, James Cheek and David Coleman.

The prisoners took over the bus Tuesday as it was carrying them from the Caledonia Prison Farm in Halifax County to the Odom Prison unit in Northampton.

When the bus stopped at the intersection of highways 258 and 561, the prisoners broke through a door that separated them from the guards, overpowered the guards and drove away with the bus. In the melee, a prisoner, Essau Cook Jr., 25, of Charlotte was fatally wounded by a guard.

Preliminary City Census Figures Said Surprising

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

Two city officials have expressed feelings that the preliminary 1970 census figure for Greenville are somewhat lower than was expected.

Harold Creech, manager of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association, and Greenville City Manager Harry Hagerty, stated they were surprised that the figure is as low as it is.

According to a release by the U.S. Census Bureau, the 1970 population of Greenville is 29,916. Countywide, the recent census shows a population of 71,991. These figures are preliminary ones, according to Jerry Scott, district manager of the Census Bureau which conducted the population count. Official tabulations will be announced at a later date.

The 1970 census figures represent an increase for Greenville of 7,056 over the 1960 census of 22,860, an increase of 26.9 percent. For Pitt County, the gain is 2,049 above the 1960 figure of 69,942 people, an increase of 2.86 percent.

"Based on the 1960 non-collegiate figure of 20,131, and with the current 8,000 East Carolina University students, plus the increase in the faculty and their families," Creech said, "I feel the figure should be considerable more."

Creech added, "Even if no non-collegiate growth was shown, I feel the figure may be incorrect."

"More multiple dwelling units have been built here," Creech explained, "as many as 1500 since 1960. Also, thousands of homes have been constructed over the past 10 years."

Hagerty said he was surprised at the figure because Greenville has had such an influx of people over the past few years.

"I feel perhaps that all the people have not been located and counted yet," Hagerty said. "I feel the city has grown so that we should feel a greater increase than was indicated."

Hagerty said, however, since the count is preliminary, the census department will catch up with these people and they will be added.

It's budget worksheet time in City Hall again. With a little over a month before the final budget for fiscal year 1970-71 is to be approved, city officials are spending long night hours in session with departments heads, assessing requests and concentrating on shaping up an acceptable budget.

Last night, City Manager Harry Hagerty, Mayor Frank M. Wooten Jr., Councilmen Percy Cox and Johnnie Edwards considered worksheets of estimates from Police Chief Tommy Gladson; Fire Chief Ray Smith; Recreation Director Boyd Lee.

On Monday night, the city manager, the mayor and city councilmen studied budget requests for the mayor and council; from the city clerk and tax collector; for building and grounds; the engineering department; and building and housing code enforcements.

These first estimates, which are subject to several reviews with cuts and deletions likely, are:

The Police Department's worksheet calls for a total budget of $52,867.12. Of this amount, $374,303.40 is to cover salary requirements — including regular salary, a five percent cost of living increase, a small supplement for earned merit increases, and such things as social security, retirement, and hospitalization.

One item calls for $22,512 to meet the expense of hiring eight new employees — with four to begin in July and four more to be added selectively by June 30, 1971. Salaries for reserve forces at $20,793.20 would be earmarked. In the field of utilities, $18,000 would be budgeted to cover street light, traffic lights, and similar utility items throughout the city. For the 14 vehicles operated by the Police Department, an amount of $11,347.42 has been set as the estimate for motor fuel and oil. Office supplies account for a $2,500 budget amount; and general supplies, $1,100.

Chief Gladson noted "that everything is up in cost, even small items like office supplies. There's more bookkeeping too," he added.

Uniforms and equipment for personnel adds an estimated $13,300. For uniforms for reserve forces, an amount of $2,000 is called for. Automotive maintenance is tabbed at $9,000 for the year, with maintenance for parking meters set at $1,918.10. Again in maintenance, a $12,000 monthly maximum maintenance fund per man is on the worksheet.

In the capital outlay category for the Police Department, the item for new automobiles for the force is set at $15,500. The city manager notes this includes $11,000 already spent, and represents $4,500 for two new cars. Another consideration is $4,800 as the city's 40 percent share of a $12,000 program which would permit revamping radio equipment, primarily by moving the transmitter to a better site.

Hagerty mentioned that the county is being asked to contribute $11,638.00 to help support the ID and Detective Divisions. He explained that the planned police assembly room in the city hall will make possible better facilities for the ID and Detective Divisions, for which $1,250 is being sought in capital outlay for office furniture.

A number of smaller items, ranging from $250 to $900 were on the total worksheet studied by the officials.

The Fire Department's budget worksheet amounts to a total of $404,466. Of this, $262,003 will be to cover salary expenses with all increases and supplements. Chief Ray Smith also is seeking addition of eight personnel to the staff, which will entail $42,856 in salaries. In the volunteer personnel category, eight new members are being sought. The tab for these eight would work out to $4,800. Chief Smith explained that the additional personnel, needed for Greenville at any rate, would have the advantage of giving Greenville added points in the possibility of being upgraded to Class III in the city fire insurance rating instead of its present Class V status. Smith explained that factors other than personnel entered into the rating system, which in turn affects insurance rates within the city — such things as population, availability of water supply, type of equipment, and distances to the farther points within the city.

Utilities for the Fire Department runs to $4,400 a year, which is a flat fee of $400 per month regardless of the amount of water used. The snorkel truck, ordered earlier and which already has $25,000 set aside for purchase, will have to be budgeted for the remaining $61,270. This can be done in its entirety or by earmarking another $25,000 budget item for the next fiscal year.

Other smaller items on the Fire Department's budget show fire hose, beds, springs, linens, small items of equipment such as fire extinguishers, air packs, and salvage covers.

For capital outlay, the worksheet contains requests for camera equipment. This item, Smith explained, is long overdue as part of the department's equipment. It is needed, for film training purposes for firemen trainees; to provide safety film to show school children; and to take pictures, sometimes necessary for court evidence.

A vehicle to replace the fire inspector's present 1953 model is

Job Switches Made In Nixon Administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — New title cards have been dealt to some Nixon administration loyalists, and an outspoken dissident has been fired, in the latest round of executive office shake-ups.

President Nixon announced Wednesday he is switching George P. Shultz, who is making $60,000 a year as secretary of Labor, to head of a super-agency to handle domestic spending programs.

As leader of the new governmental unit—to be called the Office of Management and Budget, an expanded version of the old Bureau of the Budget—Shultz will keep his Cabinet rank but at only $42,500.

Just last Saturday, Robert H. Finch, accepting a similar salary slash in leaving his $60,000 job as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, became the first Nixon Cabinet member to move elsewhere. Nixon named him to the White House staff as a presidential counselor.

Nixon, who reached into the State Department for Undersecretary Elliot Richardson to succeed Finch at HEW, stayed within the Labor Department in tapping Undersecretary James Hodgson as successor to Shultz. After the mid-afternoon disclosure of the Shultz switch, word came that James E. Allen, a critic of administration policies ranging from school desegregation to the military move into Cambodia, was fired as commissioner of education.

Finch announced he "asked for and received" the resignation—although the outgoing secretary's statement carried no explanation for the step.

Meanwhile, the U.S. ambassador to Columbia said he was resigning. Wednesday night, Jack Hood Vaughn said in Bogota he has submitted his resignation. But he denied reports of disenchanted with the administration's Latin American position.

In other personnel shuffling Wednesday:

—Caspar Weinberger, current chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, was picked to be deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget, which starts operations July 1.

—Robert P. Mayo, who has directed the budget agency that will be abolished at the end of the month, was designated as a presidential counselor, but Nixon indicated Mayo will not remain long in government service. The President said Mayo had committed himself to only a brief tour.

Wednesday's revisions were the latest in a series of executive branch personnel changes.

It was learned Tuesday that James J. Gallagher, the government's No 3 education official, resigned with parting shots at federal school policies in general and the administration in particular.

A week earlier, June 3, Dr. Stanley F. Yolles, who complained of political intervention in scientific affairs and faltering

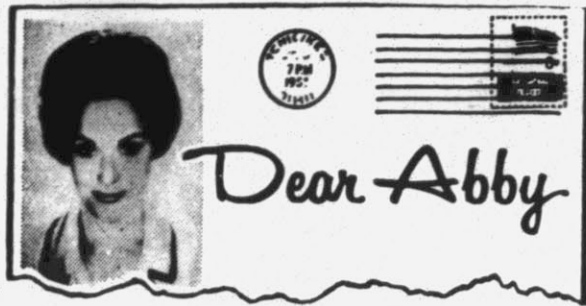

White House leadership, was fired as director of the National Institute of Mental Health.

In early May, Anthony J. Mofett Jr. quit as head of the division of students and youth in the Office of Education, accusing the administration of derision of youthful antiwar demonstrators and alienation of youth in general.

Last Feb. 17, Leon E. Panetta resigned as head of HEW's civil rights division. He complained he was forced out, and he accused White House aides of undermining tough enforcement of antidiscrimination laws.

Don't Tolerate Beau's Insults

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I need an impartial opinion. I have a friend who is in his sixties. He claims he cares for me. He is perfectly charming when we are in the company of women who are older, or less attractive than I. But if there is a younger or prettier woman around, he is sure to say something like, "I think I'll dump her (pointing to me), and take YOU out instead." In the past I've just smiled and ignored it, even tho I was deeply hurt inside.

The last time he did this, I lost my temper. He started making over a cocktail waitress and offered to "see her home safely." (She declined.) On the way home, I let him know exactly how I felt about his behavior, and I really lost my temper. He said I was having a "menopause fit."

I haven't heard from him in a week. Should I call and apologize for losing my temper? BUFFALOED

DEAR BUFFALOED: That depends upon how you "lost your temper." If you let loose with a right to his jaw, then apologize. But if you simply said what you meant and meant what you said, no apology is necessary. If you lose him, you lose him. Who needs a man who humiliates you in public, and makes cruel references to your "time of life" in private?

DEAR ABBY: While in a parking lot, I was shocked when a young man rolled down his car window and yelled obscenities at an elderly woman driver, even tho she was obviously a very poor driver.

Now, it happens that my husband is considering recommending this same young man to a very important and responsible position with his firm. In view of this young man's rude and immature behavior, I hate to see my husband back him.

Should I mention this to my husband? What is your opinion of such a person? This has really upset me.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: My opinion of this person is the same as yours. He's rude and immature. Yes, mention it to your husband. One glimpse of a man's behavior when he doesn't know he's being observed is worth a 10-page "aptitude" test. If your husband's firm wants a patient, courteous, controled, mature man—your young friend doesn't qualify.

DEAR ABBY: It seems only logical to me that when a woman becomes a widow at an age when she can no longer live alone, she should go to live with one of her children. (Preferably a daughter.)

Not MY mother-in-law. Oh, no! She prefers to remain "independent." Ha, that's a laugh. Without any income whatsoever. She went through every dime of her insurance money in three years. Now she's sitting pretty in a fancy senior citizens' residence. And who do you think is paying for it? Her children, of course. She has five, who share the expense equally.

The other four can manage nicely, but it puts a real strain on us. In fact, I had to go back to work so his mother could be "independent."

My mother-in-law is only 19 years older than I am, and I wouldn't mind retiring in a fancy senior citizens' residence myself. Do you care to comment?

WEARY IN DETROIT

DEAR WEARY: I think you've said it all.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SICK OF FISH" IN WISCONSIN: I can give you the advice, but what you need is the courage to tell your husband that your idea of a "vacation" is NOT getting up every morning at 4 a. m., sitting in a boat with your lip zipped for endless hours, and cleaning fish!

Miss Sandra Padgette Is Bride Of Ronald Parker

HOBGOOD — Miss Sandra Lucille Padgette, daughter of Mrs. Horace Padgette of Scotland Neck and the late Mr. Padgette, and Ronald Kay Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Parker of Farmville, were united in marriage on Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

The Rev. Hardwick S. Hatcher performed the double ring ceremony in the Hobgood Baptist Church.

Given in marriage by her brother, Julian W. Padgette, the bride wore a formal gown of peau de soie over bridal satin featuring a jewel neckline enhanced with Camelot sleeves and fitted cuffs. The gown was designed with a fitted waistline, A-line skirt with appliques of alencon lace and seed pearls with a chapel length train attached in back.

She wore a chapel length veil of silk organza attached to a Camelot headpiece trimmed with organza bows centered with alencon lace and seeded pearls. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay of carnations and orchids.

Mrs. Julian Padgette of Scotland Neck was matron of honor. She was attired in a formal gown of aqua linen with puffed sleeves, empire waistline which was inserted with matching velvet ribbon and A-line skirt.

Bridesmaids were Elaine Stanley of Farmville, Mrs. Peggy Stott, Ellen Davis and Leona Padgette, all of Scotland Neck. The junior maid of honor was Miss Tammy Turner of Scotland Neck.

The attendants wore gowns of pink linen styled identical to the honor attendant.

The bride's mother selected an aqua linen dress with lace trim and A-line skirt. The mother of the bridegroom was attired in a yellow Mogashel linen dress with cowl neckling and front panel applique with beaded organza roses.

Donald Parker of Fayetteville, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Douglas Johnson of Greenville, Sam Wainwright of Farmville, Harry Mayo of Walstonburg and Horace Ray Padgette of Scotland Neck.

A program of wedding music was presented by Judy Thompson, organist, and Wayne Whitehead, soloist.

Following a wedding trip to the coast, the couple will reside in Fayetteville.

The bride graduated from Scotland Neck High School and Mitchells Hairstyling Academy. The bridegroom graduated from Farmville High School, attended Campbell College and is now serving in the U.S. Air Force, stationed at Pope AFB.

Following the ceremony, the bride's family entertained at a reception in the social room of the church.

Arrangements of mixed summer flowers were used in decorating. The refreshment table was covered with a white linen and lace cloth. Sisters of the bride assisted in serving.

The Parker-Padgette wedding party and guests were honored at an after-rehearsal party on Friday night in the recreation room of the church given by the parents and aunts of the bridegroom.

The bride-elect's mother served bridal cakes and the mother of the bridegroom-elect poured punch.

Bride-Saving Schedule Provided By Council

NEW YORK (UPI)—Make way for a bride-saving schedule from the Jewelry Industry Council.

—Three months before the big day: decide upon the type of wedding—formal or informal; consult with the clergyman to arrange details; make up guest list and consult with the bridegroom's family; make arrangements for reception and catering and music. Also, choose your bridal party; order gown and plan what bridesmaids will wear; select silver and china and crystal patterns—registering your choices with your jewelry or other store. And, in the free moments, decide on decor and furnishings for your new home or apartment.

—Two months before the wedding day: order invitations, announcements and personal stationery. But now what you will need for use for your trousseau. Set a date for the wedding rehearsal and arrange for rehearsal supper.

—One month to go—address and mail invitations. Buy gifts for attendants and bridegroom, and make plans for the luncheon for attendants. Try to have your friends plan showers now, and then finish your shopping for lingerie, linens and household furnishings. Check on outfits for the bridal party, and have fittings on your wedding gown. Arrange for photographer to be present at final fitting.

Buy bridegroom's wedding ring—if it's to be a double ring ceremony—and remind him to get yours. Go together to apply for a marriage license with the necessary pre-marital medical examinations. Remind the bridegroom to order boutonnieres and flowers for wedding party and for two mothers. Consult with caterer about wedding reception menu and cake. Take up the matter of decorations with florist. Arrange accommodations for out-of-town guests.

—One week to go. Send wedding announcement to local papers, including formal portrait taken at fitting. Note—many papers ask much longer notice. Check on gowns, trousseau items. Make beauty shop appointment for wedding hairdo. Have bridesmaids' luncheon. Put gifts on display. Pack uncrushables when you have free time. And—spend some time with your family.

—The day before. Tell someone your honeymoon itinerary, and arrange for someone to check your new home while you are gone. Go to hairdresser's early, and then to wedding rehearsal and dinner. Check luggage. Go to bed early.

The Fast-Moving Revolution

The Christian Science Monitor, a respected newspaper of national and worldwide fame, has recently decentralized its printing operations. That newspaper, which was printed in Boston where its offices will continue, has set up five regions to cover the United States and Canada with a remote printing plant in each region. With the change the Monitor became the first major newspaper of daily publication to switch entirely to offset printing. The regional printing plants obviously give better distribution for the 225,000 copies printed daily. However in a full page feature, DeWitt John, the paper's editor, explained that the switch to offset printing is also being made to take advantage of the technological revolution in newspaper production methods. The next step in the Monitor's program will be to photo composition methods of typesetting with computerized equipment operated by perforated tape. The newspaper will also transmit by wire the pages for each day's edition to its remote printing plants. There plates will be made from the transmissions for the day's press run. As readers of The Daily Reflector know, our newspaper has switched over to offset printing and photocomposition methods in the past year. The changes now being made by The Christian Science Monitor are an indication of just how far reaching this revolution in newspaper production has become. The changes are coming rapidly. It will mean a better product for the readers, and we here at The Daily Reflector are proud to be among the first dailies to take advantage of these new production methods.

Family Event Coming Sunday

By Z. BRYAN HAINSLIP
WINTERVILLE — The eastern North Carolina mind accepts the family as the noblest institution organized by man and blessed by God. Nowhere else is it practiced more devoutly, enjoyed to greater emotional excess, and traced through finer ramifications. Other regions undoubtedly accord the family a high place as a matter of principle, but here it is a way of life. East of Raleigh, family can mean more than money or position. Folks are apt to show more interest in your mother's maiden name than in what you do for a living. Naturally, social events center around family occasions — birthdays, weddings, funerals. Nothing on the calendar except Christmas (honoring the Holy Family) surpasses the annual family reunion.

Zula, a favor Mrs. Cox had promised to bestow for the friend who helped with her trousseau. The third was a son. He was named Zadock, after a deceased brother of Mrs. Cox. By now it was remarked that the names of the children all began with the letter "Z." Friends urged that the pattern be continued, and offered names for consideration. Mrs. Cox, a woman of much wit as well as common sense, decided to do so. But she resolved to accept only those suggestions she specifically requested. Eleven children were born, each given a name beginning with "Z." Because of the mother's resolution, the list includes few of the "Z" names which come immediately to mind. All are unusual. Some are rather fanciful.

More remarkable, in light of the time and place, all 11 children grew to maturity, married and raised families of their own. Eight are living today. The three deceased left children and grandchildren at their deaths.

The roll call:
Zylphia, Mrs. Meakin L. McLawhorn of Winterville, whose family is host for the 1970 family reunion.

Zula, Mrs. Zeno McLawhorn of Ayden.
Zadock Cox of Oak City (deceased).

Zebur Titus Cox of Rocky Mount (deceased).

"Zadie, Mrs. Joe W. Cannon of Mount Olive (deceased).

Zenobia, Mrs. R. A. Haislip, Sr. of Oak City.

Zerionah George Dewey Cox of Winterville.

Zesely B. T. Box of Athens, Ga., chaplain at Battey State Hospital there.

Zora Lee Cox of Ayden.
Zora Desmond Cox of Oak City.

Zelbert Gaston Cox of Red Springs.

Few of the "Z" names habitually used by their owners, or have survived in being passed down the generations. One reception is in my own family. I was named for my uncle, Zesely B. T. Box, and my son, as a junior has kept the name, Zesely, in current coinage. Of course, the "Z" names represent an interesting but minor sidelight. The important thing is the sense of heritage kept alive by close family ties.

We'll renew those bonds this Sunday in Winterville. You're welcome to come, too, if you can dig up any connection with the Biggs Cox family.

Year Of Learning For Parents And Students

Rose High School had a belated graduation Tuesday but it was a significant one because it concluded the first year of one high school for Greenville.

There was some turbulence during the year, but it ended on a note of harmony.

We think that not only our students but parents as well, learned much about human relations during this year because it was a historic year of school desegregation here.

These young people worked hard at solving their problems during the year and so did the adults.

Despite the rough spots we see it overall as a successful year. These young graduates deserve extra congratulations for the way they have handled themselves as the school year progressed.

Sure Remedies For The Blues

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — What is the most common malady of our times?

A doctor might say it was headache or head colds. A dentist would vote for tooth decay. A barber might nominate dandruff or, rather, the conditions that cause it.

But probably the most prevalent ailment that has preyed upon man in all ages and climes affects chiefly not his body but his mind. It is that disease of the human spirit known colloquially as "the blues."

You can get it from a hundred different specific causes. It can come from being broke, out of work, out of love or from just plain feeling "out of sorts" with everybody and everything. Often it merely consists of a nameless, aimless feeling of melancholy and futility—perhaps springing from an unconscious realization of how much the individual and his small dreams lie at the mercy of a vast universe indifferent to either his welfare or his fate.

But periodically it affects everyone from the child in its cradle to the old man in his wheel chair. The symptoms in most cases are these: movement dwindles, self-pity and petulance increase, and a pensive, brooding look comes upon the face as the soul stares inwardly at its own darkness.

"How do you whip the blues?" That is a question I have asked perhaps 1,000 people I have interviewed over the last quarter century. It never fails to interest them, because all have felt life-defeated at some time in their careers, no matter how hopeful or buoyant their natures.

Just what can you do to snap out of it when you're feeling low and everything is going wrong? Here are a few suggestions given me by those interviewees, some famous, some merely infamous:

Stand on your head, literally, to get a different view of things.

Take a cold shower. Walk or drive a different way home.

Memorize a poem. Reread your old love letters.

Clean out a closet. Count your blessings.

Write down all the worries that are bothering you and then light a match and burn the paper, thus symbolically destroying them.

Avoid the people who bug you. Go window shopping. Cook a new dish you've never tried before.

Buy something brightly colored you've never dared wear before.

Hike into the hills and shout your woes aloud until the echoes make you realize how insignificant they are.

Go into a park and listen to the children laugh. Go to a zoo and feed peanuts to the elephant.

Make a game out of seeing how many hours a day you can let pass without complaining about anything or criticizing anyone.

Pour out your troubles to an old friend who is really fond of you.

Ponder the wisdom of the old saying, "This, too, will pass." Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is one of many who found comfort in this four-word remedy.

Pray. Pray not just lying in a lonely bed at night, but in your heart at your desk, or in a dimly lit church during your lunch period. Summed up, all these cures for the blues have one basic

Strength For Today

TRUE HAPPINESS

Happiness comes to those who reach the decision that God has a right to command and who live their lives accordingly. Can we imagine anything more illogical than a universe going along at sixes and sevens with no unifying Power in control? The conviction held by some that the world "just happened" is too thoroughly illogical for any sensible person to hold. Human life seems chaotic at times. The social and political state of humanity gives us grave concern, and should. But to think that there is no order, no Commander, no Boss, is a concept so illogical that sensible and sincere persons should be ashamed of themselves if they can't reason better than that. The Creator still watches over his creation. Our ignorance and weakness and the ignorance and weakness of our contemporaries keep the world in that state of ferment and disorder which is causing us genuine alarm. God is in command of his universe, and the sooner we get that idea well in mind and act accordingly, the sooner will we have peace of mind and a happiness that is worth all it costs no matter how great that cost may be. No one lives a satisfactory life who lives it simply within the circle of his own interests. A life without religion is a life without purpose. A universe in which there is no God is frightful to contemplate. We are not self-sufficient because we were not made to be self-sufficient. God is our refuge and our strength, and the sooner we learn this, the sooner will we be happy. By Earl L. Douglass

Sermon In Drink Bottle

Experts on monetary policy were staggered, simply staggered, when the doors of our local supermarket opened at 9 o'clock on the morning of Monday, June 1. There by the cash register in the express line was a neatly printed notice: "Effective at once, the deposit on Coke bottles will be 5 cents."

"Zounds! It was like that frantic morning last October when the West German deutschmark soared to 273

The notice brought memories of the Dutch guilder moving up in 1961. Since at least 1928, when soft drink bottles first were quoted on the foreign exchange, all the world's great currencies have had their little problems; but the Coke, at 2 cents asked, 2 cents bid, has been a solid rock in a paper sea.

In the great capitals of the world, the Coke was pegged more firmly than the price on gold: In Caracas, one bolivar to ten bottles. In Rome, 15 lire to one. Here at home, the Coke was a unit of value fixed and immutable. If a boy scrounged up 20 Coke bottles of a Saturday morning, they were absolutely good for one movie at 15 cents, one malt at 15 cents, and two trolley rides at a nickel each. This was a fully redeemable currency, immune to depression and inflation alike.

The local reevaluation caught most of us experts unawares. One of Washington's most respected traders, in fact, had spent his day off on Friday, the 29th, cleaning out his basement; late in the day, just before the closing bell, he carted 81 empties off to the market. His Cokes traded routinely at .02, or $1.62 for the horde, and he detected not a single revealing glimmer in the eye of the redemption teller.

Markets were closed, it will be recalled, on Saturday the 30th. Then came the shock of reopening Monday at .05. A fortune had been lost. Only one of our brothers, so far as is known, had the foresight the preceding Thursday to sell a thousand short. He had detected what the rest of us had missed, that Coke had gone to .03 in Memphis, San Francisco and Chicago, and to .04 in one small market in Boston. The fellow made a killing.

I have since been inquiring of the gnomes of Atlanta, where the Coca-Cola Company is based, but as is usual in such matters, they disclaim any responsibility for the fluctuations. The company's 975 domestic distributors, or principalities, share the common currency, but they are free to fix their deposit as they please.

What has happened, it appears, is that an affluent society finally found the two-cent yield uninviting. Instead

Other Editors Say A Blow In Favor

(The Wilson Times)

We realize that such cruelty is the exception, but even one case hits a heavy blow to the cause of doing away with capital punishment. When you consider that two escaped convicts, after being given a place to sleep and food are accused of killing the 15-year-old son of the benefactor and by stabbing him to death, you cannot visualize punishment sufficient for such a deed.

The escaped convicts told the father of the boy they had been released from prison. And to make the circumstances worse, the convicts were known and considered friends of the father. He evidently thought he was befriending them as they had just been released from prison.

The father evidently did not have any fears for he left the boy with the two convicts — not knowing they were escapees, and went off to work.

When he returned he found his son dead, and from many stab wounds. If the two are found guilty what punishment do you think they deserve? If they are given a sentence of life, it will not be long before they can get the sentence reduced by good behavior.

If there were some way to be sure that those who commit such crimes would not be paroled, you would be more in favor of doing away with capital punishment. But if people like the two escaped convicts are paroled there is the chance of further crimes being committed by them. Even the work release program which is successful many more times than it isn't has been broken and with dire results, thus destroying confidence. The killing of one person outweighs the benefits, for you cannot restore life.

The one way to outlaw capital punishment and to assure those who commit such crimes cannot do so again is to see they are carefully guarded and that they serve the full term. We do not know the circumstances of the escaped prisoners, but they are dangerous men, and should be confined for the full length of their sentence. In other words there are some cases where parole should not be allowed.

Bottled Drinks Fizzled

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent
PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Pepsi-Cola's bubbling business has fizzled in Cambodia. The army grabbed the soda trucks for supply wagons, and the boys down at the bottling plant have gone off to war. Teen-agers and old women sling the soft drink cases in the modernistic blue and white plant on the banks of the Mekong, but deliveries are off 60 per cent. Many roads leading to provincial towns are in enemy hands, the bridges blown, and the company has only a handful of trucks left to supply local dealers.

Since it arrived in Cambodia in 1963, two years ahead of rival Coca-Cola, Pepsi has had fantastic success, moving rapidly ahead of orange drink and beer as the nation's No. 1 thirst quencher. Last year Cambodians knocked back 26 million bottles of Pepsi. The betelnut-chewing older set in particular seems to like its effervescence, but it also is popular, between pipes, with the turned-on younger generation in the opium parlors, legal in Cambodia.

At the outset of the war two months ago, plant manager Chung Kimhor had a fleet of 110 red, white and blue heavy-duty Dodge and Fargo trucks. The army commandeered 40 to haul troops and ammunition to the front. Then 40 more fell hors de combat to Viet Cong rockets and hard-tooling Cambodian army drivers.

Plant manager Kimhor concedes that the tactical situation has his drivers a bit uptight about making the run into the provinces even if the roads weren't cut or the bridges blown. Besides, he has no desire to risk the rest of his fleet, down to 23 trucks with the army knocking at the gates for more.

In addition the army has just tripled its order for Pepsi-Cola. After a hot day of battling the Cong, the boys like a frosty bottle with their steaming rice pots.

Life goes on at the bottling plant. Last week the quality control man from Pepsi International turned up in a seersucker suit to see if the vats were clean and the filters filtering at the Cambodian franchise. He used to be an American gentleman out of San Francisco. Now he is a Chinese gentleman out of Hong Kong.

"Asia for the Asians," Limhor says with a laugh. He passed all his inspections.

Now his main worry is whether the government glass monopoly will keep manufacturing bottles and whether the waterways will be kept open for shipping the ingredients that go into a Pepsi. The local franchise is privately owned and heavily backed by Chinese financiers. A Pepsi costs seven cents in Cambodia, but bottles are so scarce the deposit is usually twice that. Some dealers refuse to seal a case without first receiving a case of empties. The Pepsi generation here spends more time bottle watching than girl watching, which is why you run into some of the swiftest people rooting through garbage cans.

Govm't Is Force For Inflation

By ELMER ROESSNER

There is a lot of jawing going on in Washington, New York and elsewhere about how increases in prices and wages should be limited, either by law or by exhortation. These proposals overlook one big point: while it would be salutary for the government to restrict wage and price increases, the government itself is one of the biggest forces for wage and price increases.

ELMER ROESSNER

Item: Congress is in the process of raising the salaries of postal workers and other government employees. Item: Congress has raised the salaries of all ser-

vicement. Uncle Sam Boosts Prices

Item: The government is about to raise postage rates. The total take in postal rate rises will be more than the last raise in steel prices.

Item: The Department of Agriculture has announced a raise in fees for inspections of fresh fruits and vegetables from $17 to $18 a carlot. The fee for inspection of farmers' stock peanuts is raised from $1.65 to $1.80 a ton.

Item: The government has just raised a slew of taxes on plane tickets and airlines, which will force up the cost of travel.

Item: The government has increased fees for a host of other government services. States and local governments have also increased both wages and fees. New York, for a glaring example, has just increased the two-away charge for illegally parked autos from $25 to $50.

Item: The federal government, as well as state and local governments, has increased taxes and may soon extend the surtax. These taxes are essentially prices for government protection.

Freezing wages and prices may be a long step toward arresting inflation and a good place to start it might be by freezing government wages and charges.

Lincoln Park's Drainage Work Is Well Underway

Work on the Lincoln Park drainage project is well underway with Section 3 completed and Section 2 being filled in by city engineering people at this time.

Manager Harry Hagerty expressed great satisfaction in the progress of a project which has long been needed to save the property of home owners from further erosion.

Other factors he noted as being applicable to this project were elimination of hazards to people in the neighborhood — some holes in the washed out stream had become deep enough to constitute a safety problem. This area also fostered mosquitoes and could harbor snakes as well. Property owner in the area have signed an agreement with the city to pay a standard $2.00 per foot rate for tile used in the drainage of the stream.

Hagerty, City Engineer C. A. Holliday and members of the Council all pointed out that steps to halt erosion and to remove hazards in the Lincoln Park area because of the open stream are urgent ones. Citizens in the area had been actively seeking to have the city get this project completed.

More than pipe alone is involved in costs for the Lincoln Park drainage, Hagerty revealed. Since the stream is deep, he noted that eight manholes are required. In addition, it has been necessary to lease a drag line and other equipment in order to get the job done.

In recent months, the city has purchased drainage pipe and culverts amounting to a total of $29,779 for drainage projects at Fornes Run, the Ole Town Creek in the Shore Drive area, and for Lincoln Park. The pipe for Lincoln Park amounts to about $14,000 of the $29,779 total.

of redeeming their empties, purchasers were tossing them away; buyers were littering the landscape and breaking distributors' hearts. The returnable soft drink industry depends heavily on the redemption habit. In the Deep South, where traditions change slowly, if at all, the return rate has kept steady, elsewhere, the outlook was glum.

Nothing remained, I am advised, but to try classic economic measures. The bond market knows. Thus the weekend decision was reached; and in one dramatic moment, from Hyattsville on the east to Manassas on the west, across the whole of our metropolitan area, the prime rate leaped from .02 to .05. Since then, bottles have been flooding in from Baltimore and Warrenton — they still are quoting .02 in their distant precincts as this is written — and the supermarkets are going wild. Analysts feel certain the bourses of Richmond, Roanoke, and even Charlotte will not long resist.

Well, as they used to say in the Forest of Arden, there are books in brooks and sermons in stones, and it is not surprising to find an economics lesson in the green depths of an empty Coke. If the new deposit rate is so high that it provokes buyer resistance, Gresham's law will claim its inexorable toll: The bad no-returns will drive out the good returnables. The Coke people may yet be driven to the baser currency. This much is certain: After Nickel

Monday, as traders already have dubbed it, nothing in the money market will ever be trusted again.

NEA Feels Terms Met

RALEIGH (AP) — The National Education Association says as far as it is concerned, North Carolina's white and black teacher organizations are merged.

This word was wired to the heads of the predominantly white North Carolina Education Association and the predominantly black North Carolina Teachers Association Wednesday.

The groups have been deadlocked over details of the merger.

In its telegram, the NEA said it would respond to a request for "assistance from the officers of the merged association" if asked.

NCTA officials could not be reached immediately for comment. They have said they will not merge unless the merger plan is changed to require a two-thirds vote of the delegate assembly or board on any question dealing with race.

NCEA officials said they are pleased and are ready to merge July 1 in the North Carolina Association of Educators.

Winter Wheat Forecast Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — A North Carolina winter wheat harvest of 8,316,000 bushels has been forecast by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The Crop Reporting Board forecast released Wednesday was based on field conditions June 1.

The report forecast a nationwide winter crop of 1,076,445,000 bushels, 6 per cent less than last year.

N.C. Districts Still Liable To School Suits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials say they still have every intention of bringing suit against any North Carolina school district not complying with federal desegregation guidelines by fall.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard had said in an interview Tuesday that the Justice Department had dropped plans to bring suits against North Carolina and three other Southern states.

Another justice department official acknowledged that a separate suit against the state is "unlikely," adding that the state would be named as a defendant in any suits filed against any North Carolina school district.

"This will have the same effect as a separate suit," he stated.

This could result in court orders halting all state aid as well as federal aid to school units which refused to desegregate.

Leonard told a reporter in an interview that the Justice Department would sue Mississippi, but not North Carolina, Arkansas, South Carolina and Florida — which had been threatened with suits.

The report at first cheered state school officials. But after they checked North Carolina congressional sources, they found the implications of Leonard's remarks were not what they had hoped.

They had hoped the report might mean 17 school units that met with Leonard and other federal officials in Raleigh two weeks ago had produced acceptable desegregation plans.

MASONIC NOTICE

Crown Point Lodge No. 708 will have a stated communication tonight at 7:30. Supper will be served at 6:30 p.m. All master masons are cordially invited.

Fred H. Rogers, secretary

But Wednesday a HEW spokesman said that 10 or 12 of the 17 units have still not submitted acceptable plan and have at least another week in which to comply. He said a "few more have plans which look good to us but which they haven't gotten in yet."

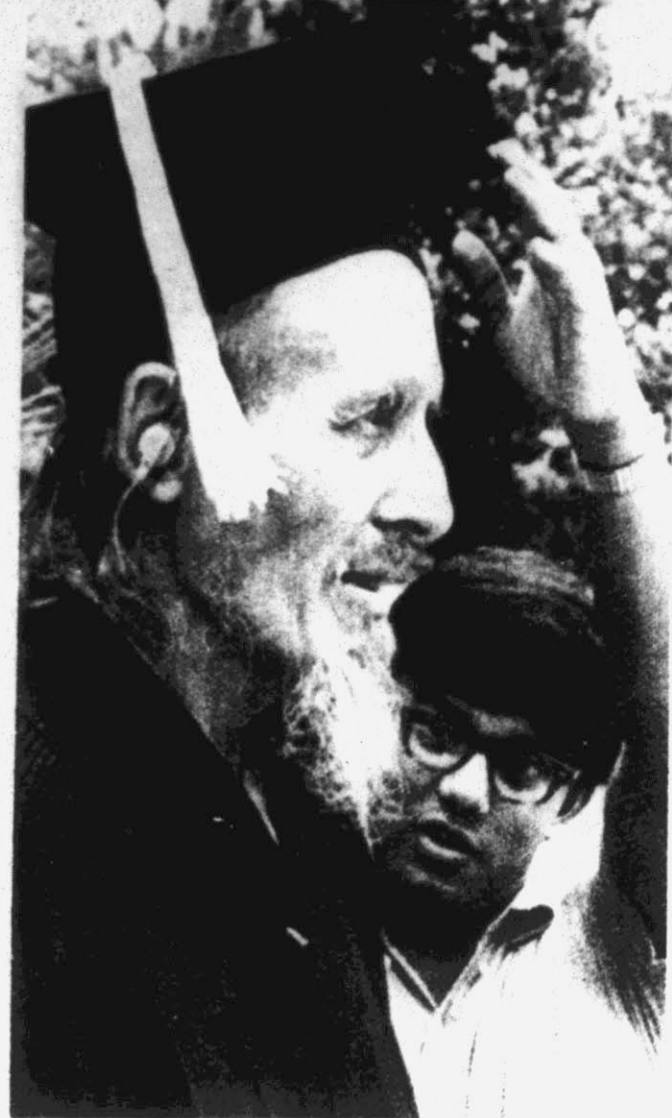

After that, he said, HEW will submit the names of the school units still not in compliance to the Justice Department of a possible suit.

"We won't know who we'll sue or whether we will sue until we determine how many and which districts are in compliance," a Justice Department spokesman said.

The units involved are the Raleigh, Burlington, Fairmont, Goldsboro, Kinston, Maxton, Rocky Mount and Tarboro city units and the Chatham, Edgecombe, Guilford, Lenoir, Martin, Nash, Robeson, Vance, and Wilson County units.

SAFETY FIRST? — While painting a church steeple at St. Joseph Catholic Church in Natrona, Pa., this workman performs a precarious balancing act any circus promoter might envy. Budget . . .

another item marked as an essential need, as well as radio equipment of the type where a PA system is built into the signal lights mounted on vehicles.

Within the Fire Department budget, some funds are needed for the rescue department. This is in addition to consideration of funds to support the Rescue Squad, a joint city - county venture. The Rescue Squad is another instance in which county support is being sought, in the amount of $7,358.74. Hagerty expressed appreciation for the generous support received from the county last year — approximately $7,800 to help pay for a new rescue vehicle.

The Recreation Department, final of the three departments covered in the budget workshop last night, resulted in a request totaling $96,962.32 being presented by director Boyd Lee. Like the other departments, salaries included selective merit pay and the five percent cost of living increase.

The Recreation Department's summer and part time workers appear as a budget request for $12,314. Another $3,000 is asked for the autumn track and gymnastics program which is being carried out with the city schools. Utilities and heat amounts to a $5,200 item; and janitorial supplies, $1,500.

This department's budget shows capital outlay items as a large share of the total, due in part to a request for $10,600 to light all tennis courts and to construct new courts. It was stated by Hagerty that much of the construction could be accomplished with the city labor force. The big cost would be for asphalt, wire fences, and lights.

With the approval of a recent federal grant for a little more than $50,000 on the cost of establishing a city park, the city must come up with its 50 percent share — with compensation for part of this to come later. In effect, the city must now budget an amount of $18,000. As a total unit over a period of time, the $100,000 project will be $64,000 for land and $36,000 in capital improvements. Eventually, the city will pay a total of $32,000 in cash; and $18,000 in work contributions. Total acreage of land involved in this project is 25 acres—16 acres of purchased land and nine acres of free land.

The city manager reminded each of the department heads that the councilmen would have to study the budget requests on the worksheets carefully, with a view to trimming wherever possible to keep the budget within acceptable limits.

Officials will meet tonight with the head of the Public Works Department, and consider special appropriations.

A second hearing, the first on the total combined worksheets, is scheduled for June 17, with final hearing to follow on June 29.

Your Optician

(Your Child's Eyes)
If your child is having problems with his schoolwork, have his vision checked by an eye doctor before you do anything.

A child's vision can affect his schoolwork more than the average person would imagine. More than 80 per cent of all school tasks depend upon vision. If he can't see the blackboard clearly, he will miss important assignments, fail to take notes, and suffer eyestrain and fatigue.

If you notice your child moving his head excessively when reading, leaning too close to his book, tilting his head to one side, frowning or making other facial distortions, his vision may need correcting.

Poor vision can cause sleepiness, nausea, and fatigue, causing a child's schoolwork to suffer immensely. Sometimes "lazy" students are just students that can't see properly and don't realize it.

Proper care of the eyes is essential to students, as it is to everyone.

SOME PEOPLE THINK ELECTRIC HEAT IS ONLY FOR THE RICH.

Except those who have it.

All kinds of people who work for a living have electric heat. People just like you.

They know the value of a dollar. And when they spend it on something as important as home heating, they want total value.

They choose electric heat because it's cleaner, safer, quieter, and more flexible than any other system. It's the only system that will be as up-to-date years from now as it is today.

So when you consider the cost of a heating system, consider the value. Ask yourself whether any other heating system offers more for the money than flameless electric heat.

Ask your developer, architect, or heating contractor about today's best heating value. Electric.

And if people wonder why you're working, tell them it's just a hobby.

Judge To Call 'Em As Sees 'Em

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — The hands on the clock of room 1505 in the Federal Court building stretched past 3 p.m. as Judge Irving Ben Cooper, the mustachioed jurist who has been hearing the Curt Flood case, spoke to the silent assemblage.

"We now close," said Judge Cooper, "the one and only trial record in this case."

And that, until Judge Cooper hands down his decision, is the immediate significance of the Flood case—the first court hearing in history in which the merits of baseball's controversial reserve system have been argued.

Then Judge Cooper acknowledged that the proceedings, covering 21 witnesses testifying to about 2,000 pages of trial transcript in three weeks and a day, had been fought by counsel for both sides as "a cause" that compelled him "to sail with the utmost care."

"We are," said Judge Cooper, "resolved to call them as we see them as they come across the plate."

With that the judge reserved decision and the public proceedings of Flood's $3 million anti-trust suit challenging the legality of the reserve system ended Wednesday following final testimony by Bill Veeck, a hassle over several documents and a challenge to the memory of a key defense witness.

Veeck, a flamboyant, unconventional former club owner, brought laughter and several alternatives to the reserve clause to the court room as the last of the 10 witnesses to appear for Flood. But the atmosphere changed after his testimony.

First, there was considerable debate and protestations by baseball's defendants over several documents Flood's attorneys wanted accepted in evidence, and then there was a hush in the court room as the defense recalled John Gaherin to the stand.

Gaherin, the owners' labor negotiator, contradicted several statements made Tuesday by Marvin Miller, the executive director of the Players Association, and provoked a challenge under cross-examination by Jay Topkis, one of Flood's attorneys.

"Did Mr. Miller deliberately tell untruths or is your memory better?" Topkis asked Gaherin. "I guess," Gaherin replied, "my memory was better than his."

"It is conceivable isn't it," Topkis then asked, "that on certain matters his is better?"

"It's conceivable," replied Gaherin.

And with that testimony concluded—leaving in question the subject in dispute: Did the Players' Association stop bargaining on modifications to the reserve clause system when Flood instituted suit? Miller said they hadn't, Gaherin contended they had.

Earlier in the day, a packed court room, including Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Justice Arthur Goldberg, Flood's chief counsel, returned to the scene of the trial—although Flood did not—as the controversial Veeck took the stand.

Veeck did not disappoint the curious, appearing as usual in a wide-lapeled, open-at-the-neck shirt, quipping about his relationship with baseball's brass and refusing to directly admit that he had mellowed somewhat in his appreciation of his former colleagues.

"I think," said Veeck, "it's because I don't have to associate with them as closely any more."

While Veeck's testimony—which included tracing an ownership career in which he turned $11 in his pockets into approximately $1 million through minor league and major league club ownership—was humorous at points, it also was considered significant to Flood's case.

Although Flood's suit strikes at the legality of the reserve clause, the contract provision which binds a player to the club that signs him until he is traded, sold or released—the former St. Louis outfielder is in actuality only seeking modification of the clause.

Veeck, the only witness for Flood to bring an owner's perspective to the court room, testified that modification would not result in chaos if accomplished "in an orderly fashion" and "might work out to benefit management."

He suggested three alternative contracts: pro football's option clause; the movie industry's standard seven-year contract after which a performer is free to negotiate for himself; and a possible arrangement by which a club's hold on a player would be limited by contract both in the minors and the majors.

Veeck said he thought the alternatives workable and said he favored them because "everyone, at least once in his business career, should be able to determine his own future—not be held in perpetuity."

The reserve clause does exactly that.

Whether it is legal or illegal is now a question for Judge Cooper—and that answer may not be handed down for some two months.

Merritt Has 2 Grand Slams In Lion Romp

The Lions battered R.C. Cola, 21-3 yesterday in the North State League. The loss dropped R.C. a full two games behind league leader Kiwanis.

The Kiwanis now post an 8-1 record, while R.C. falls off to a 6-3 mark. They are followed by the Jaycees and Coke, both 4-5, the Lions, 3-6, and the Optimists, 2-7. R.C. pushed over all three runs in the first inning. Gordon Sutton reached on a walk and Ricky Bolonde singled. Billy Ellington also got a hit, loading the bases. Sutton came home on a wild pitch, and walks to Charlie Langley, Scott Hill and Buster Howard forced across Bolonde and Ellington.

But after that, it was all the Lions.

They exploded for 11 runs in the fourth inning to wrap it up. Harry Pair opened the inning with a home run. Dale Steele followed with a single and scored on a triple by Jesse Baker. Connor Merritt reached on an error, scoring Baker. Jimmy Averett then brought in Merritt with a home run. Edsel Garris singled and moved up on a fielder's choice by Carlton Wall. Guy Bradbury singled, loading the bases, and Pair singled in Garris. Steele walked to force in Wall, and Merritt finished things off with a grand slam home run, making it 11-3.

The Lions came up with two more in the fifth. Garris walked and scored when Wall slammed another homer.

Things were closed out with eight more runs in the sixth inning. Merritt walked and moved up on an error, gaining third on a passed ball. He scored when Averett singled. Wright Hooks walked and Garris

In the opener, Pepsi pushed over one run in the bottom of the first. Jimmy Duckett singled and moved up on a wild pitch. He scored on a single by Johnny Barwick.

State Bank came back with two runs in the top of the second, for a 2-1 lead. Phil Dash walked and moved around to third on a pair of passed balls. Al Heath banged out a single to drive Dash in. Jack Jenkins singled and Danny Norris walked, loading the bases. Roy Hudson got another walk, forcing in Heath with the go-ahead run.

But Pepsi came right back to regain the lead. Donald Cannon led off with a homer, tying it up. Chuck Brown reached on a fielder's choice and advanced on an out. He scored on Duckett's single.

In the sixth, State tied it up again. That came on a home run by Steve Fuchs.

But Pepsi pushed over another in the bottom of the sixth, and that won the game. Pete Cullop walked and Jack Jones singled. Duckett singled to drive in Cullop with the winning run.

Jenkins led the State hitting with two, while Duckett had three to pace Pepsi.

Planters pushed over four runs in the top of the first in its game. Robert Brinkley reached

In the second, Planters pushed over one more. Phelps walked and moved up on a wild pitch. Herb Wilkerson singled him over.

College View also got another run in the second. Joey Jester walked and moved up on a wild pitch. He scored on another wild pitch.

Exchange Edges Integon By 8-6

The Exchange edged past Integon, 8-6, yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League. The loss eliminated Integon from any chance at the league title.

The Graniteers lead the league with an 8-1 record, closely followed by the Moose, 7-2. Pepsi-Cola is third with a 6-3 mark, followed by the Exchange, 3-6, the Elks, 2-7, and Integon, 1-8.

The Exchange pushed over three runs in the second inning. Ricky Armstrong reached on an error with two outs. Billy Tedder followed with a walk, and another, to John Cleetwood, loaded the bases. Two more walks, to Darrell Roebuck and Thil Hurley, forced in Armstrong and Tedder. Mike Brewington then singled to drive in Cleetwood for a 3-0 lead.

But Integon came back in its half of the second to score four runs and take the lead. Sandy Abbott singled and stole his way to third. He scored when Jimmy Radford reached on an error. Donald Blanchard walked, and a wild pitch let Radford take third, while Blanchard stole second. Buddy Boyd singled to drive in Radford, and a double by Ricky Overman brought in Blanchard and Boyd for a 4-3 lead.

Then, in the top of the third, the Exchange struck again, pushing over three more runs to take a 6-4 lead. Doug Paschal singled and stole second. Tedder and Cleetwood both walked, and Roebuck singled to score Paschal. A walk to Hurley scored Tedder, and a single by Brewington brought Cleetwood across.

Integon tried to come back again, but could push only one run across in the bottom of the third. John Miles reached on an error, and came around on another.

The exchange wrapped it up in the fifth scoring twice more. Roebuck doubled and Hurley walked. Mike Belton doubled in Roebuck, and Hurley came across on a wild pitch.

Integon managed to pick up one more in the sixth. Radford reached on a fielder's choice, and was safe at second on an error as Blanchard reached. Overman singled in Radford, but the rally died there.

Orioles Win To Hold East Lead

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Hit 'em where they ain't," said a rather ungrammatical Wee Willie Keeler in baseball's long lost past. He would have loved the job the Baltimore Orioles did with that strategy Wednesday night.

The Orioles, perhaps beginning to feel the hot breath of the surprising New York Yankees on their backs, had a couple of hits fall just beyond the reach of California fielders and it added up to the winning run in a 2-1 victory over the Angels.

That triumph kept Baltimore 4½ games ahead of the red-hot Yankees in the suddenly developing American League East race. New York nipped Minnesota 2-1 for its seventh victory in the last eight games. Elsewhere in the AL, Detroit trimmed Milwaukee 7-5. Washington belted Kansas City 8-1. Oakland downed Cleveland, 6-4 and Boston nipped Chicago 7-6 in 14 innings.

The Orioles scored a run without a hit in the first inning and Jim Palmer made it stand up until the seventh when California's Jay Johnstone homered to tie the score. Then in the bottom of the seventh, things started going Baltimore's way.

With two out, Don Buford singled in the hole between third baseman Ken McMullen and shortstop Jim Fregosi. Merv Rettenmund followed with an opposite field drive which right fielder Roger Repoz barely missed near the wall. The shot went for a triple scoring Buford with the winning run.

Buford had walked and scored in the first after being trapped off first base in an aborted attempted steal. Sandy Alomar's throwing error in the rundown allowed Buford to reach third and he came in on a ground out.

Horace Clarke's two-run homer carried Mel Stottlemyre to a four-hit victory over Minnesota and rookie Bert Blyleven.

Stottlemyre singled with two out in the fifth inning and Clarke followed with his fourth homer to erase an early Minnesota lead. Stottlemyre 6-4, struck out seven, walked one and did not allow a hit after the fourth inning when Tony Oliva opened with a triple and scored the Twins' run on Rich Reese's grounder.

Al Kaline produced two runs with a long homer and pinch hitter Gates Brown produced two more with a short single as Detroit rallied for four in the seventh to hand Milwaukee its 16th consecutive road defeat.

The Brewers tagged Earl Wilson for four runs in the second and were still leading 4-3 in the seventh when Kaline turned the game around with his two-run homer. Then, with the bases loaded later in the inning, Brown caromed a single off Mike Hegan's glove for two more runs. Dick McAuliffe had two homers for the Tigers.

Rico Petrocelli ripped his second grand slam homer in four days and Tony Conigliaro tied the score with a two-run shot in the ninth inning as Boston wiped out a five-run Chicago lead to beat the White Sox.

George Scott singled, raced to third on a passed ball and then scored on Bill Melton's error for the Red Sox' winning run in the 14th.

Reliever Paul Lindblad shut out a seventh inning Cleveland rally and preserved Oakland's victory over the Indians with last-out help from Mudcat Grant.

Lindblad pitched his way out of a two-on, none-out jam in the seventh and retired eight batters in order before yielding a two-out walk in the ninth. Then Grant came on to get the final out.

Duke Sims had four hits including a homer for Cleveland and Ray Rosse also homered for the Indians.

Frank Howard had a perfect night with two singles and three walks, driving in two runs and even stealing a base as Washington whacked Kansas City.

Joe Coleman coasted on a five-hitter as the Senators halted a six-game losing streak.

London Group Wants Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerome D. Hoffman, the president of a London investment company, arrived in New York late Wednesday night, ready to purchase the New York Yankees from the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Although informed that CBS has said the team is not for sale, Hoffman remained undaunted. "We'll see what happens," he said. "We don't want to embarrass anyone."

"We can go $20 million, $22 million, $25 million. It all depends on the books. If they want to sell we want to buy," Hoffman, a former St. Louis who is president of International Investors Group Services Ltd., said he had talked by telephone with former New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner, who is board chairman of the investment group, and will see him today. He also said he received a call from Michael Bruek, president of the Yankees, while he was in London, but he didn't elaborate on the call.

Burke said late Wednesday "the club is not for sale." "We are not negotiating," he said. "I don't know Mr. Hoffman. If he said he spoke with me on the telephone, he must have meant he spoke with my office. I never have met the man."

Trevino Has Plan For Open

By PAT THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHASKA, Minn. (AP) — Lee Trevino's plan to win the 1970 U.S. Open Golf Championship: Bring your wife, three kids and, yes, your mother-in-law a week early, hit 5,000 balls and play 144 holes.

Trevino, the leading money winner on the 1970 tour, implemented the plan Wednesday with his first practice round over the rolling 7,100-yard Hazeltine National course 28 miles southwest of the Twin Cities.

"I've never come this early for a tournament before," Trevino said as he sat out a thunderstorm. "I should play eight more rounds and hit 4,000 or 5,000 balls. I'm going to try to win a major championship this year and I need the rest."

The Trevino clan is staying in a home in suburban Eden Prairie, while the 1968 U.S. Open champion gets ready for the 72-hole championship which starts a week from today on the par 72 course.

In his mother-in-law, Mrs. Lou Loare of Dallas, Trevino thinks he's got a good luck charm.

"I won in Tucson and almost won at Fort Worth with my wife and mother-in-law along," said the gay Mexican-American from El Paso, Tex.

Pepitone, After Hitting Grand Slam, Likes His Leadoff Place

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Joe Pepitone a leadoff hitter? Never. Even the colorful ex-Yankee couldn't believe it. But Houston Manager Harry Walker did, and the New York Mets were certainly convinced.

"When I saw my name there, I thought he (Walker) had the lineup upside down," Pepitone said Wednesday night after clouting a fifth inning grand slam homer in leading the Astros to a 5-2 triumph over the Mets.

"I asked myself, 'What am I doing in this position?,' Pepitone said. "But after tonight, I want to stay there." Pepitone also led off Tuesday night, the first time he had ever batted there in his major league career.

In other National League games, Cincinnati rolled to its fifth straight victory, a 7-0 blanking of Montreal, Atlanta downed Philadelphia 5-1, San Diego slugged Chicago 11-7, Los Angeles stopped St. Louis 4-2 and San Francisco topped Pittsburgh 4-2.

Pepitone, the 29-year-old first baseman-outfielder who came to the Astros over the winter from the New York Yankees in exchange for Curt Blefary, capped a five-run fourth inning explosion off Mets' fireballer, Nolan Ryan, 4-5, snapping Houston's four-game losing streak.

The home run was Pepitone's 12th of the season and gave him 26 runs batted in to go with his .261 batting average. With the Yankees, the long-haired south-paw swinger slugged 166 home runs and drove in 541 runs over eight seasons with a .252 average.

The Reds, winning for the 10th time in 11 starts and threatening to make a runaway of the West Division race, leading runnerup Atlanta by 10 games, got a pair of three-run homers from Tony Perez and Bernie Carbo and three-hit pitching from Jim McGlothlin.

Perez, who slugged his 21st homer of the season—tops in the majors—to go along with 63 RBI, says he "has set no goals. I will continue to take all my home runs as they come."

McGlothlin, however, now 8-3, said: "I've got to win all these games to keep up with my roommate (Jim Merritt, 11-3). The way this team has been playing there is a good possibility that we can end up with four 20-game winners."

George Stone swept to his sixth victory, tossing a three-hitter and Bob Tillman keyed a four-run Braves' second inning flurry with a two-run single. The triumph snapped Atlanta's four-game losing streak. Stone, a left-hander who has lost only once, struck out five Expos and walked three.

Chris Cannizzaro drove in three runs and Ollie Brown and Ivan Murrell slashed homers overcoming a four home run barrage by the Cubs.

Clarence Gaston, Nate Colbert and Brown each had two RBI for the Padres while Billy Williams, Jim Hickman, John Callison and Paul Popovich ripped homers for the Cubs.

Joe Moeller hurled his first major league complete game in six years as the Dodgers snapped a four-game skid. The right-hander, 2-1, last completed a game in 1964. He struck out seven and scattered seven hits to the Cardinals. Los Angeles got only five hits but four Cardinal hurlers issued six walks, two hit batsman and a wild pitch with starter Mike Torrez, 4-6, picking up the loss.

Eighth inning homers by Willie Mays and Ken Henderson helped the Giants overcome the Pirates. Willie McCovey's 19th homer of the season had given the Giants two earlier runs. Mays' No. 14 this year gave him a career total of 614, exactly 100 behind the major league record of 714 held by the late Babe Ruth.

Pembroke Out Of Tournery

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Pembroke is out of the NAIA World Series, thanks to three home runs and a three-run ninth inning rally which gave New Haven of Connecticut a 7-6 win over the North Carolinians Wednesday.

For Pembroke it was the end of the season. They lost Monday to Southeast Louisiana in the double-elimination tournament then defeated Central Washington Tuesday.

New Haven took a 4-1 lead with a two-run homer by Bill Hanley in the sixth, another Hanley homer in the eighth and a home run by Leo Valeas, also in the eighth.

Spunky Pembroke, however, staged a five-run rally in the bottom of the eighth to go ahead 6-4. The scores came on Preston Douglas' seventh home run of the year and on singles by Ronnie Collins, Tammy Ham and David Dixon.

New Haven came back in the ninth with its own rally with Leo Valeas doubling in two runs and Scott Rahl bringing in the winning run on a single.

Pembroke's Rick Coffin, the loser, finished the season with a 9-3 record, while winner Rick Anderson has a 12-1 mark.

Eastern Michigan remained undefeated as it downed Northeast Louisiana State, 6-4, in the third round of the tournament Wednesday.

In another third round game Livingston, Ala. University eliminated William Jewell, Mo., College, 5-2.

Eastern Michigan plays Livingston and Northeast plays New Haven today.

Shoddy fielding by Northeast Louisiana and the hitting of centerfielder Terry Trott paced Eastern Michigan to the win. Trott tripled in the fifth to score three runs and singled in the eighth to add two more.

Livingston leaped on Jewell starter Mike Colegrove for three runs on four consecutive singles in the fourth inning to take a 3-0 lead, then added two more in the sixth.

Colegrove went the distance and his 16-hit allowance tied an NAIA tournament record.

Teams Opening College Tournery

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
OMAHA (AP) — The Texas Longhorns and Southern California Trojans, old hands in baseball tournament competition, take on a pair of strong upstarts to open the College World Series Friday night.

The double-elimination tournament, drawing eight NCAA district winners throughout the nation, will stretch about a week, including scheduled play for the first time on Sunday. There will be a new champion since Arizona State failed to win a return trip.

After Friday's doubleheader, there will be three afternoon-night games Saturday and the same slated for Sunday. By this time, a winners-losers bracket should be formed up and two teams eliminated by absorbing their second losses.

Texas 36-6 opposes the Delaware Blue Hens (22-4) at 5:30 p.m. CDT Friday in Omaha's Rosenblatt Stadium, followed at 8:30 p.m. by Southern California (47-12) facing the Ohio University Bobcats (31-4).

The two losers will meet Saturday at 1:30 p.m. That night, the Florida State Seminoles (45-7) play the Arizona Wildcats (44-16) and the Dartmouth Indians (23-8) engage the Iowa State Cyclones (18-9).

Sunday's timetable calls for games between Saturday's loser as well as games between Friday and Saturday's winners.

Girl Scouts To Europe

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Fifteen Charlotte Girl Scouts left this morning on a two-week trip to Europe they planned 2½ years ago.

The girls voted in December, 1967, to raise money personally and through group activities. Despite the fact that two of the girls moved away, all continued to work toward the goal and all the original group left for England, Holland, Belgium and France.

They have more than $10,000 for the trip, $5,900 raised by their troop. How did they do it? Their adviser, Mrs. Charles M. Paty Jr., said the girls washed cars, held rummage sales and paper drives, gave bridge benefits and put in long hours as part-time waitresses, clerks and babysitters.

Fourteen of the girls graduated from high school this spring and the other is a rising senior. They gave up beach trips, dates and many school activities to save money, although Mrs. Paty noted each was active in many church and school fields during the period.

Their troop is sponsored by Kilgo United Methodist Church. While in England, they will be entertained by a Girl Rangers troop at Reigate, Surrey. Rangers are similar to American Girl Scouts.

Worry Clinic There Is Help In Foundation

Laura's dilemma was solved, thanks to the SMF, which launched its pilot plant at Indianapolis, with the generous aid of the Indianapolis STAR and local radio as well as TV stations. Laura was introduced to a similar high type of man, as described tomorrow. They married within 6 months and now have 3 kiddies, being reared in the proper manner!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.
CASE N-523: Laura P., aged 30, is a beautiful girl.

"Dr. Crane," she asked, "could you possibly introduce me to a congenial man who might be interested in marriage?"
"In my senior year at DePauw University, I had received two proposals of marriage."
"And I was a runner - up for campus Beauty Queen, so I do not lack physical appeal."
"But just one week after I graduated, my mother had a stroke and became bedfast."
"My father was dead and my two older brothers were married and gone."
"So they decided, 'Let Sis look after Mother.'"
"But we lived in a small town of only 800 population and were not wealthy."
"So how could I be the daily nurse for my mother and also earn money to support us?"
"Well, I took a position teaching English in our local High School."
"At noon, I'd hurry home and feed my mother her lunch."

"And at night, I'd prepare her dinner, feed her and give her a bath or alcohol rub."
"Meanwhile, I taught a girls' class in the Sunday School and sang in our church choir."
"But, Dr. Crane, my mother passed away a couple of months ago."

"For 9 years I have been teaching other people's youngsters, so now I'd really like to get married and have a family of my own."
"But I can't afford to quit my teaching job, just to travel around in search of romance."
"Besides, in my little village all the eligible men in my age bracket are already married."
"So I am helpless, and so are many other splendid young women who have stayed home to look after their parents."

After I had lost my first 7 secretaries to talented business and professional men, who wrote me for aid in seeking compatible wives, I decided something should be done.
For thousands of our best people are unmarried, not because they aren't attractive, cultured and of high morals, but because loyalty to aged parents has forced them forego marriage.

And we need to promote such romances, for they will often produce children of high I.Q., who will then be tutored at home in our American ideology, including religion, "Free enterprise," Boy Scout aims, etc.

With the pioneering aid of such stellar newspapers as the Indianapolis STAR, plus the local TV and radio stations, I finally got a group of superb clergymen to organize the Scientific Marriage Foundation.

It is unique in being interfaith, with topnotch Jewish, Catholic and Protestant clergymen on its Board.

And 2,500 other volunteer clergymen serve as the "grass roots" or local Counselors who personally interview every Applicant and check with the latter's character references.

Obviously, the SMF cannot guarantee romance or marriage to its Applicants, but by use of the IBM computer, we have matched 10,000 happily married folks with only 11 known divorcees resulting in 15 years.

And hundreds of formerly half-orphaned kiddies are now delighted to be back in a normal two-parent home again.

So send for the "Marriage Questionnaire," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c, and give it to some reputable, unmarried adult. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, ad-

Summer Forum Series Begins This Evening

"The Revolution" will be the topic for discussion at a summer forum series sponsored by the Campus Ministers Association of East Carolina University.

The series begins today at 6:30 p.m. in room 212 of the University Union. Vann Latham of the ECU faculty will be the opening speaker this week. The general subject will be "The Revolution - Where It Is Today." Later forum topics will focus on more specific areas of dramatic change according to interests of those attending.

In announcing the summer series on behalf of the ECU Campus Ministers, Presbyterian chaplain John N. Miller emphasized that the forum invitation is extended to all University summer school students, faculty, college students on summer vacation, and other interested persons in the Greenville area.

The bidding: North East South West
1NT Pass 1 Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of diamonds. North followed with the five. East with the deuce and South the jack. A continuation did not appear inviting to West, and he shifted to a small spade. North put up the ace.

South decided to enter his hand in order to take the heart finesse, however he was reluctant to lead a club, for fear that if one of his opponents was short in that suit, a ruffing situation might develop. He, therefore, led a diamond from dummy and ruffed with the four of hearts in order to put the queen of trumps thru. West followed with the deuce of hearts. North the six and East was in with the king.

The normal return at this point was a spade to let West make his king, assuming he held that card. East realized, however, that with only two tricks in a diamond and a heart, that one spade trick would not be enough to defeat the contract. The only chance to achieve an upset was to find his partner with a void in clubs. South's failure to lead that suit from dummy, suggested that the possibility was not entirely remote.

East accordingly led back a small club. West ruffed with the three of hearts and leaving nothing to chance, he cashed the king of spades to send declarer down to defeat.

While East deserves full praise for his enterprising defense, South could have put the contract beyond his opponents' reach by making a simple safely play in the trump suit, i.e. cashing the ace of hearts. Inasmuch as declarer can afford to concede a trump trick without endangering his contract, he should refuse the finesse to provide maximum protection from a ruff.

Boy Locked In, And Dials 'O'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — His parents told young Mark Echternach that in case they weren't around and he got into trouble, he should pick up one of several telephones in the house and dial "O."

They explained this would put him in touch with the operator who could help him.

Several days later, the telephone rang and the operator asked Mrs. Echternach, "Do you have a little boy named Mark?"

Mrs. Echternach hastened to assure her that she did.

"Well," the operator replied, "he's locked in the basement."

Urge Open Competition Daily Reflector Classified Ads In Auto Liability Rates

RALEIGH (AP) — Two consumer spokesmen urged Wednesday that North Carolina permit open competition in automobile liability insurance rate-making.

State Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan and Paul Guthrie of Chapel Hill, vice president of the N. C. Consumers Council, told the Governor's Study Commission on Auto Liability Insurance that the present system is unfair and unsatisfactory to the industry and the consumer. Now, rates are filed by the N. C. Auto Rate Administrative office and approved by the insurance commissioner.

"The dissatisfaction with the way things are is so great, I believe, that unless this commission acts to come up with some solid changes, the next legislature will enact some punitive legislation not to the advantage of the industry of the free enterprise system," Morgan said.

Morgan added the present system, under which insurance companies cannot deviate from the adopted rate schedule is "tantamount to price fixing in many ways."

Morgan proposed a system of open competition to let companies be free to attract customers.

Morgan said he believes open competition would "benefit the good driver, by allowing companies to reward them and charge the bad drivers, however."

He added, however, "We shouldn't hold out the promise of lower rates."

Guthrie also advocated competitive rates. He told the commission: "Reliable studies have shown that victims of auto accidents recover only between 20 per cent and 25 per cent of their actual losses from automobile insurance."

"This is a shocking indictment of the auto liability insurance system itself or of the manner in which it is administered or both," he said.

Summer Program To Include Children's Theatre Project

The Greenville Recreation Department announces the formation of a new program as part of the summer expansion. Greenville will have its first Children's Theatre Group and series of drama classes this year beginning June 15 with a final production date of Aug. 7.

The program will consist of classes in the basics of theatre production such as instruction in pantomime and patomime skits. Also on the schedule are experiments in improvisation, monologues and dialogues. Elementary scene design and other technical aspects of stage production will be included in the classes. Make-up application will be an important study effort in teaching. At the end of the season the group will show its progress by presenting a Festival of One-Act Plays.

Director of the program will be Mrs. Beth Grant Cayton, wife of Greenville native Alan R. Cayton. Mrs. Cayton is originally from Wilmington and was active in summer recreation there, serving at intervals as Girls Athletic director, assistant director of Children's Theatre, and as a Center director.

She is a member of the Governor's Recreation Committee under the Department of Local Affairs, on which she will serve until expiration of her appointment in 1972. Mrs. Cayton's participation in drama enabled her to be selected as a lifetime member of the National Thespian Society, an honor society for outstanding drama students on the secondary school level.

She attended the Governor's School of North Carolina in Drama in 1966 where she received a special award for outstanding achievement in her field. She has more recently appeared in college productions at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington. She is presently a drama and speech major at East Carolina University. Mrs. Cayton will be under the supervision of Mrs. Linda Burrell, program supervisor of the Recreation Department.

Registration will be held at Elm Street Recreation Center on Monday, June 15. Children between the ages of nine and 15 are encouraged to sign up for the summer.

Communist Split Cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of card-carrying Communists over the world is increasing at the same time more local parties are splitting into pro-Moscow and pro-Peking factions, according to the State Department.

The party in 23 nations was divided over the Sino-Soviet dispute at the end of 1969, the department survey reports. By comparison, only 15 parties were split in 1966 and 21 in 1968.

The trend seems to confirm the bitter complaint by Pravda, the official Soviet party organ, that Peking's accusations against Moscow are "divisive."

At the same time, the survey revealed, total membership of all Communist parties was estimated at about 45.9 million, an increase of 700,000 from 1968.

The survey also disclosed Communist parties hold effective control of 14 countries with an estimated 43.3 million party members at the end of last year. This comprises 94.3 per cent of world membership, leaving only 2.6 million members for the "out of power" parties.

Car Rolled Into Another

An accident yesterday afternoon in an East Tenth Street parking lot resulted in property damage and a charge by Greenville police following their investigation.

The mishap involved a car owned by Julius Teel of 423 West Third Street and a parked vehicle owned by Bennie Lilley of 2613 South Wright Road, Greenville. Third Street and a parked vehicle owned by Bennie Lilley of 2613 South Wright Road Greenville.

Police charged Teel with failure to secure his vehicle, after it rolled down the parking lot into the Lilley car. Damage was estimated at $200 to Teel's car and $10 to Lilley's.

No injuries were reported as a result of the incident.

Another traffic mishap on the Memorial Drive-Farmville Blvd. intersection resulted in $100 damage to one of the cars involved.

Police reports said that the accident involved cars driven by Elijah Roach of 1318 West Third Street and John Thomas Lewis of 208 Graham Street, Goldsboro.

Police charged Roach with failing to see his intended movement could be made safely. No injuries were reported.
