SAGON (AP) — Three American correspondents captured last month by the Viet Cong in Cambodia have been released.

They are Richard B. Dudman of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Elizabeth Pond of the Christian Science Monitor and Michael D. Morrow of Dispatch, Inc.

Dudman said they were released on Monday night. They were taken captive May 7.

"We're safe and healthy and in good shape," Dudman said tonight.

He added that he had asked their captors about the fate of some 20 other newsmen captured by Communist command troops in Cambodia and missing since April 3.

He said "we received no reply," and that neither he, Miss Pond nor Morrow saw any of the missing newsmen while they were in captivity.

Snipers Traded Shots

MIAMI (AP) — Snipers, perched on rooftops and hidden in bushes, Monday night traded shots with police, officers said, when violence erupted in a Negro district because a white grocer allegedly insulted a Negro housewife.

The snipers, under cover of darkness, pumped bullets into passing cars and fired at police in a disturbance that lasted for several hours, police said.

Several persons, including two policemen, were injured, none by gunfire. Four arrests were reported.

Police, armed with rifles and shotguns, blocked off an 18-block area, and attempted to disperse the crowd with tear gas, but this failed to stop the shooting.

The area, known as Liberty City, was the scene of shooting and rioting during the 1968 Republican National Convention. Three persons were killed then.

Doubt Sen. Kennedy

NEW YORK (AP) — Since the publication of the Chappaquiddick inquest findings, public opinion nationwide has taken a decisive turn against Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the Louis Harris survey reports.

By 53 to 23 per cent, a majority of 1,287 households queried between May 8 and 10 agreed with the judge's final opinion, "doubting that Sen. Edward Kennedy turned on the dirt road by mistake on his way back to the mainland" and finding that "the senator's driving probably contributed" to the death of Mary Jo Kopechne, the survey stated.

It added that the number who say they "respect Ted Kennedy less" has increased from 28 per cent immediately after the accident last July to 43 per cent last month, the survey states.

The loss of respect ranged from 9 per cent among blacks to 34 per cent among Roman Catholics to 55 per cent among the college educated, Harris said in a report distributed by the Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate, Inc.

Reports On Pollution

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A 1,400-mile stretch of the Atlantic is polluted with floating lumps of solidified, asphalt-like oil, explorer Thor Heyerdahl messaged Norway's ambassador to the United Nations Monday.

Heyerdahl is the Norwegian leader of an eight-man international team sailing across the Atlantic aboard the papyrus boat Ra II in an attempt to prove the ancient Egyptians could have sailed to South America.

His radio message told Ambassador Edvard Hambro the "oil rocks" ranged in size from "tiny particles to lumps as big as potatoes" and had been seen every day since the reed craft left Safi, Morocco, May 17.

Heyerdahl said it is "highly probable that the pollution area spans the entire ocean" from Africa to tropical America.

Record Unpublicized

MOSCOW (AP) — Space endurance champions Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastyanov

continued to circle the earth today, dining on chicken file and other hot dishes. But the Soviet Union gave no publicity to their record for time in space.

Tass reported briefly that the Soyuz 9 spacecraft had spent 13 days 22 hours in orbit by 8 p.m. Moscow time Monday. It did not mention that this bettered the record of 13 days 18 hours 35 minutes set by America's Gemini 7 in 1965.

The Russians have been avoiding comparisons with U.S. space achievements since Apollo 11 beat them to the moon last summer.

Medicaid May Fold, Cautions Governor Scott

By RICHARD DAW
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott said today North Carolina's multi-million dollar Medicaid program might fold if a half dozen counties don't come up with their share of the cost of it.

He said the federal government, which bears about 73 per cent of the cost, could cut off all funds to the state on the contention that North Carolina's 100 counties weren't participating equally.

"The whole program might go out the window," Scott said at

Might Need Redistrict

RALEIGH (AP) — Secretary of State Thad Eure said today the 1970 census is not expected to change the number of North Carolina congressmen.

However, he said, population shifts within the state probably will make it necessary for the 1971 General Assembly to make changes in the makeup of North Carolina's 11 congressional districts.

Eure said preliminary census figures indicate 12 states will gain or lose congressmen. He said those gaining would include California which will add four, Florida two and Texas, Arizona and Colorado one each. He said New York and Pennsylvania are expected to lose two seats each, and Iowa, North Dakota, Ohio, West Virginia and Wisconsin one seat each.

a news conference. Abolishment of the program would mean an end to medical service to 350,000 low-income persons who are being attended at a total cost of about $70 million this year.

The yearly cost is expected to increase to $90 million and higher during the next two years.

The half dozen counties which haven't come up with their share of the cost are Bladen, Columbus, Franklin, Johnston, Robeson and Sampson.

They contend they don't have the money.

The federal government pays about 73 per cent of the cost of Medicaid and the state and county governments divide the remainder in roughly equal shares.

On other subjects the governor:

—Indicated he favors a proposed swap of land between Umstead State Park and the Raleigh-Durham Airport for an airport expansion despite opposition by some conservationists.

—Said he's confident enough buses can be found to provide transportation for all city children entitled to it this fall, perhaps by simply continuing to use vehicles which normally would be phased out of service.

—Said his meeting Monday with potential investors in New York was "warm and cordial."

Large Enemy Force Gone

Re-Take Cambodian Provincial Capital

By JOHN T. WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

KOMPONG SPEU, Cambodia (AP) — South Vietnamese and Cambodian troops and armor smashed into this provincial capital and regional military headquarters today to find the large enemy force they had hoped to trap had vanished.

A Cambodian general said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong had retreated south and west of Kompong Speu, which is 30 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, but still had a strangle hold on Highway 4, Phnom Penh's only access route to the coast and to Cambodia's lone oil refinery there.

Cambodian Brig. Gen. Sothen Fernandez told a newsmen the elements of five enemy divisions were now in place north, west and south of Phnom Penh, apparently preparing for a push against the capital. Fernandez did not predict when the drive might start.

Refugees reaching Phnom Penh earlier from Kompong Speu said Communist soldiers in the force that occupied the town had boasted of plans to attack Phnom Penh on Thursday. A Cambodian government spokesman termed these reports "rumors," but defenses around the capital were being hastily strengthened. Diplomats in Phnom Penh have been predicting rocket attacks but doubt the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese will try an infantry assault.

Cambodian and Vietnamese commanders gave varying estimates of the number of bodies found in Kompong Speu. The most mentioned figure was 150, but a Vietnamese general said a third of these apparently were Cambodian troops killed when the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese captured the town Saturday.

South Vietnamese officials in Saigon said their 4,000-man force which joined in the battle at Cambodian request killed 183 of the enemy and took three prisoners, while suffering four killed and 22 wounded.

The South Vietnamese troops pushed their way into the town from the south Monday night. On reaching the central market area today, they began collecting everything portable they could get their hands on.

The commander, Brig. Gen. Tran Ba Di, castigated the troops and forced them to load most of their loot on trucks, but no attempt was made to recover watches, rings and money the soldiers had taken from civilians.

The truckloads of recovered goods were taken to the regional military headquarters and piped

Salary Subsidy Plan Ruled Out

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — A state salary subsidy for parochial school teachers has been ruled unconstitutional by a three-judge federal panel.

Earmark $73,000 For Future School

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

"We committed ourselves to a future plan for a school in the western part of the city," John H. Bizzell, member of the City Board of Education commented during last night's June meeting of the city board of education. "I feel we will be acting in good faith to put the $73,000 in a fund earmarked for the new school. It would at least give us something to start on."

Bizzell's remarks alluded to a report made by Finance Chairman Harding Sugg on insurance settlement for C. M. Eppes Junior High School as a result of a fire there on January 28.

Sugg reported an agreement had been reached for a total settlement of $113,299.95. Of this, $73,632.00 covers the building replacement money and is the amount referred to by Bizzell as money to earmark for a new building fund.

The remaining $39,667.95 represents the replacement of contents lost in the school fire. Board members accepted the settlement agreement of $113,299.95 and authorized board chairman Dr. E. B. Aycock to sign the necessary papers.

Sugg pointed out the insurance money, as replacement money, will be furnished "75 percent now, and the other 25 percent when we can show we have built a replacement." He stated replacement included "replacement in any form, whether mobile units, construction, additions at Rose High, or whatever."

Discussion of the insurance report and Bizzell's recommendation was followed by a motion from Louis W. Gaylord that "the $73,000 be placed in a special account for the new school project in the western part of the city." This was unanimously approved.

References to the new school project refer to a recent decision by the board to begin plans for a second junior high school, to be located in the western part of Greenville.

Still within finance matters, a financial analysis sheet of the Greenville City Schools facilities was presented. It reveals that of the total $2,655,000 Greenville share approved in the county-wide bond referendum of October 1966, interest to date on investments has amounted to $136,067.32, for a total of $2,791,067.32. Expenditures to date have taken $2,790,233.02 of this amount, leaving a balance in the Greenville account of $834.30.

In available funds, a total of $284,279.75 is available—including the $834.30 balance; $714.79 in state bond funds; $182,730.66 from sale, fire insurance and interest balance of the old Greenville Junior high school; and $50,000 each allocated for replacement of temporary units at Rose High and the special allocation for Wahl - Coates relocation.

From available funds, a total of $266,503.65 is owed on projects now in progress or approved. This includes $11,819.65 for J.H. Rose High School; $38,615.00 for E. B. Aycock Junior High School; $100,000 for relocation of Wahl - Coates; and $116,069.00 for replacement of final temporary units at Rose High.

For school facilities funds, this leaves an unnumbered balance of $17,776.10 in this particular category of the school budget.

This amount has no bearing on funds needed for operating expenses of the city schools, which is an issue now up for a district-wide referendum on June 27.

Two matters before the board were tabled for action at a later date. One was the subject of pupil insurance. Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of the Greenville City Schools, offered a recommendation that the same type of policy at the same cost as last year be considered by the board.

This was the $3.50 per pupil coverage (with a $15.20 tab for students wanting a 24 hour coverage), and included football players in the coverage.

Dr. Badger Clark raised the question of plans mentioned last year for the Athletic Department to support the entire cost of insurance for football players for the coming school year. "We said at the time the athletic department would provide football insurance 100 percent this year," Clark remarked. It was noted in the discussion that the board contributed $1,000 to the support of football insurance for the school year just ended, with the athletic department paying $1,000.

Dr. Cleetwood remarked there was "a feeling, since the high school lost gate receipts by losing a home game last year, they would not be able to pay the insurance 100 percent."

As the insurance is not renewable until August 1, board members agreed to delay a decision.

The other item tabled was a possible plan to pave the bus parking lot and to build and pave 70 space parking lot for faculty members at Rose High School. This project would carry a total tab of $9,944.50. Sugg explained that this was projected from money provided by the county in

Name Principal At Wahl-Coates

Dr. Rexford Eugene Piner, native of Wilmington, and graduate of East Carolina University (B.S. and M.A.) was approved by the Greenville Board of Education as principal of Wahl - Coates Elementary School for the coming school year.

Dr. Piner, who received his doctorate in education at Florida State University, is currently Associate Professor and Head, Department of Education, Columbia College, Columbia, South Carolina.

This will be Dr. Piner's second experience as Wahl - Coates principal. He was in this position from 1961-1965, before going to Atlantic Christian College in Wilson as an associate professor of education. Other teaching experiences have included positions as a teacher at Leland High School; principal of West Bertie Elementary School in Roxobel, assistant professor in English at Wilmington College; and a term as elementary supervisor with the New Hanover County Schools in Wilmington.

Dr. Piner stated his reason for seeking the principalship of Wahl - Coates was a desire to return to North Carolina and familiarity with the Greenville Community.

In 1946-47, Dr. Piner served in the Army in Japan, where he edited a regimental newspaper and was sergeant in charge of regimental information and education office. He also served in the N.C. National Guard from 1948 to 1951.

Member of Phi Delta Kappa, he is past president of the North Carolina English Teachers Association, from 1960-1962, and holds membership in a number of professional organizations.

Dr. Piner is married to the former Wilma Stampley, and they have four young children; Ivy Annette, Rexford Eugene, Jr., Rebecca Inez, and John Kevin. The Piners are members of the Presbyterian church.

Pres. Nixon Polishing Economic Report Not Ready To Point Finger At Sewage Treatment Plant

By JAMES PHILLIPS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon polished his special economic report to the nation today as reports of rising unemployment, faltering profits and high interest rates continued to mount.

One government report Monday disclosed manufacturer's profits dropped to their lowest level in 2½ years because of the economic squeeze. And a regional Federal Reserve Bank described the downturn as a mild recession.

Nixon closeted himself in his hideaway office next door to the White House Monday to work on the report, scheduled to be delivered to the nation at noon Wednesday (EDT).

While Nixon worked in seclusion, the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Federal Trade Commission reported manufacturers' after-tax profits dropped 18 per cent during the first quarter of the year. Profits reached the lowest level in 2½ years, the agencies said in their quarterly report.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis broke with its parent Federal Reserve Board and 11 sister banks by calling the current economic downturn a recession.

The Minneapolis bank said in its monthly statistical report that Minnesota and its neighboring states are "feeling the effects of the mild recession currently in progress in the nation as many business indicators are displaying characteristics of a downturn."

A White House economist, appearing before a congressional hearing, predicted no decline in interest rates or unemployment for the remainder of the year.

Herbert Stein, a member of the Council of Economic Advisers, said the 5 per cent unemployment rate should continue and "rates of interest will decline but a little."

However, he said, "We believe the rate of inflation will be subsiding in this year."

The Minneapolis bank's description of the current economic situation as a mild recession is not likely to spread among other reports by federal agencies since the administration has studiously avoided using the word.

The manufacturers' profits report released Monday, however, added to the gloom of government officials who privately admit economic policies are living up to expectations.

After tax profits during the first quarter of this year were $6.9 billion on sales of $170.4 billion, the lowest profit margin since the third quarter of 1967.

Sale in the first quarter were 5 per cent above the preceding quarter, but profits dropped 14 per cent.

The heaviest impact was felt by manufacturers of durable goods: automobiles, airplanes, metal working machinery and furniture.

Profits of nondurable industries such as food and clothing dropped less than 11 per cent, from $4.2 billion to $3.7 billion, which said that unnamed state officials "are privately putting the blame on the Archie Eldridge sewage treatment plant."

The paper said the location of the fish kills have been below the plant and that fish appear to be alive and healthy upstream from the point where the plant discharges its treated wastes into the river via Salem Creek.

Hubbard said investigations now underway "will be continued in an effort to determine what the wastes were, where they came from and who was responsible for them."

He said it will be some time before laboratory tests are completed on water samples taken from the river in the area between Winston-Salem and Salisbury and some time after that before field investigations are completed in the effort "to try to track down the source."

Investigations so far have led to the conclusion that the fish kill probably resulted from organic wastes in the river which killed the fish by depleting the oxygen supply.

Board Picks 9 Teachers

Eight women and one man were elected to teaching positions in Greenville City Schools for the 1970-71 school year at last night's monthly meeting of the members of the Board of Education.

The one male faculty member, Ralph Hurdle, will fill a librarian position.

The eight women elected for the city school staffs are: Mrs. Carolyn Courtney, upper elementary; Mrs. Elizabeth Dowd, primary; Mrs. Mary T. Gibbs, primary; Mrs. Nancy Harrington, upper elementary; Miss Emma Lynn Helms, primary; Mrs. Sandra G. Sinson, Spanish (and French); Mrs. Mildred Still, music; and Miss Paulette Zongola, librarian.

Prior to consideration of the nine new faculty members, Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of the city schools, had mentioned "there are still 15 to 20 critical positions to be filled.

"Most are being patient, however," Dr. Cleetwood remarked, "and are not signing contracts elsewhere."

Board Receives Status Reports

Status reports received a good deal of attention at last night's June meeting of Greenville City School Board members.

Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood reported on the current situation relevant to a number of pending situations connected with the city schools.

In compliance with HEW guidelines relating to a school plan for the coming year, Dr. Cleetwood said he had "talked to the Attorney General's office" and was informed "no time limitations are applicable for the reviewing authorities on responding.

"They know about the court hearing coming up and are not likely to respond just now," he commented. "Judge Larkins (District Court Judge John Larkins) is back on the job, but we have had no further word from him. The July meeting should bring forth a decision on some of these things."

Dr. Cleetwood expressed pleasure on the close-of-school activities, stating "the school closing went well."

One development which will affect the current school zoning is the growth of the student population at the Moyewood Housing area. "We began the school year with 10 pupils in Moyewood," Dr. Cleetwood reported, "and now have 179

Dr. Irwin Johnsrude, associate professor of radiology at Duke University Medical Center, was the keynote speaker at the June meeting of the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society at the Candlewick Inn, Friday night.

The diagnosis of significant abdominal disorders and conditions by the technique of x-ray angiography was the subject of Dr. Johnsrude's talk. "Angiography," Dr. Johnsrude pointed out, "is the demonstration of the anatomical structures obtained by the injection of liquid opaque solution into the bloodstream and simultaneously obtaining multiple x-ray pictures, a dozen or more, over a three to ten second period of time."

The Duke radiologist emphasized the diagnosis of thrombosed blood vessels supplying segments of intestinal tract and the diagnosis of cancer of the liver, pancreas, and other areas which heretofore have not been visible on routing x-ray examinations and other means of medical examination.

Dr. Johnsrude complimented Pitt Memorial Hospital for providing the expensive special x-ray equipment required for these types of examinations and for providing a staff capable of performing these procedures.

Pitt County physicians also heard reports from official delegates to the annual meeting of the Medical Society of North Carolina held at Pinehurst in May.

Dr. J. E. Dixon, Dr. Jack Wilkerson, and Dr. G. E. Trevathan reported the approval of accepting medical students as voting members to the State Society and approval of a resolution calling for equitable payments by the U.S. Government programs for the same medical services, regardless of the geographic location in which these are performed. Currently, this is not the policy of Medicare.

The Pitt County Society approved a resolution presented by Dr. C. G. Garrenton and Dr. C. F. Irons in recognition of the role played by Dr. M. P. Hoot in his quarter-century of service and the many contributions made by him to medical progress in this community.

Dr. R. E. Fox, retiring public health officer for Pitt County, was also recognized by the group for his service.

Dr. Jack Welch was voted into the membership of the Pitt County Medical Society. A native of Williamston, Dr. Welch will be associated in the practice of anesthesiology with Dr. G. A. Weimer after July 1.

Dr. Welch is a graduate of the University of North Carolina Medical School and is leaving a post in the University of Kentucky Medical School to begin practice in Greenville.

The Society approved the formation of a new standing committee to serve as a liaison group in any matters relating to East Carolina University.

Dr. Allen Taylor, president of the Pitt County Medical Society, presided at the meeting.

On Saturday morning, Dr. Johnsrude spoke at the weekly conference of the Pitt Memorial Hospital staff. His topic was the use of angiography as an aid in the diagnosis of medical emergencies.

He emphasized the role of angiography in the diagnosis and localization of blood clots blocking the major blood vessels of the lungs.

He pointed out the value of this procedure in determining which cases may or may not require surgery in order to save the patient. In addition, the value of angiography in locating the site of hidden internal bleeding into the intestinal tract was described by Dr. Johnsrude.

Miss Lorelle Barwick Weds Thomas C. Casper

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville Missionary Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Lorelle Barwick and Thomas Cecil Casper on Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

The Rev. Horace G. Thompson officiated at the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Paul Braxton of Winterville, organist, and Brooks Barwick, brother of the bride, soloist.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Boyce B. Barwick of Winterville and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde C. Casper of Greenville.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal length white lace and organza gown designed with an A-line chantilly lace underskirt with an overskirt of organza which opened in the front forming an inverted V-panel trimmed in lace which flowed from the front into the hemline and attached chapel train. The bodice and high neckline of chantilly lace were accentuated with pearls. The full Camelot sleeves were also finished in chantilly lace.

Her shoulder length illusion veil was attached to a cluster of net flowers and pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink carnations and pom poms tied with streamers of white satin and tulle.

Maid of honor was Miss Susan Tucker of Winterville. She wore a Juliet style gown of mystic blue silk and worsted saki featuring a scooped neckline, short puffed sleeves and empire waist trimmed with blue and yellow flowers. Her headpiece was a matching bow of self-fabric and tulle.

She carried a colonial nosegay of miniature carnations and pom poms accented with gypsophelia in shades of pink and blue, tied with streamers of matching satin.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sherri Phelps and Miss Trillis Pollard, both of Winterville. Their pink gowns were styled identical to the honor attendant's and they carried similar bouquets.

The mother of the bride wore a pink sheath dress with lace coat and matching accessories. The mother of the bridegroom selected a blue sheath dress with coat and matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of cymbidium orchids.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Michael Hazelton of Winterville and Danny Casper of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom. Timmy Casper of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

MRS. THOMAS CECIL CASPER

The church altar was centered with a floral basket of white mums and gladioli with seven branch candelabra on each side. A background of bridal palms completed the setting.

Following a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside at Rt. 3, Greenville. The bride is a graduate of Winterville High School and is employed by Winterville Machine Works. The bridegroom is employed by A. B. Whitley.

After-Rehearsal

Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Barwick entertained the Casper-Barwick wedding party at an after-rehearsal party Saturday night in the fellowship hall of the church.

The refreshment table was covered with a satin cloth and centered with a candelabra of assorted flowers.

Mrs. Mary Forlines served the cake after the couple cut the first traditional slice. Punch was poured by Mrs. Corona Keel.

Holloway of Roanoke Rapids.

"I like this job because I like working with people," she said. "I want to be able to use my knowledge gained in my major of home economics to benefit others. This type of work gives you this opportunity and there's no limit of things you can do in this type work to reach other people," she added.

MISS JANE HOLLOWAY

Readers React To Bare Chested Dinner

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for printing those letters from women whose biggest problem in life was a husband who came to the table bare-chested. One sweet young thing dumped a bowl of molasses on her husband's bare chest to "teach him a lesson." She's lucky he didn't dump his fist on her offended little eye.

After three children I still find my husband's bare chest gorgeous—anywhere! I thought a woman married a man—not a stuffed shirt. What warped values dictate that prudish protocol comes before your man's comfort in his own home? The home he provided for YOUR comfort?

DALI'S WIFE

DEAR ABBY: I would like to get a look at that lady who was uptight because her husband came to the table without a shirt on. I don't say a woman has to have a fresh paint job and fancy hairdo when she sits down for dinner, but some women come to the table with their hair hanging in strings and not a drop of make-up on. I'd sooner look at a hairy chest.

HAIRY AND BARREL CHESTED

DEAR HAIRY: Hers?

DEAR ABBY: The wife and I had a good laugh over the letters about whether or not a man has the right to come to his own dinner table bare-chested.

Our kids are all grown and gone now, and the wife is at that age where she gets a hot flash now and then, so more than once I'll be sitting at the dinner table while SHE takes her blouse and bra off. I never complain, nor do I find HER bare chest repulsive.

NO SWEAT IN HOUSTON

DEAR ABBY: Having finished the episode concerning MR. BARE CHEST at the dinner table, and his offended wife, I was suspicious of the rather abrupt ending. I not only expected that "BARE CHEST" never came to the table without a shirt on again, but that he never returned at all. And who could blame him? Poor devil. There happen to be quite a number of women around who would appreciate a man at their table—with or without shirt.

As for the trauma-ridden wives who find a bare chest "repulsive," they belong to the cult of poor dears who, after 20 years of marriage, are still dressing and undressing in the closet.

My attitude toward the issue is identical to your own comment frequently following your column, Abby. That is, "You'll feel better if you get it off your chest."

"FEELS BETTER"

DEAR ABBY: I am convinced that no one—but NO ONE can possibly live without problems. For if you don't have a problem, you will MAKE one.

I refer to the big deal some women make out of a bare chest at the dinner table.

If a man is clean and feels more comfortable without a shirt, there is no reason why he should be asked to wear one in the privacy of his own home.

Some women don't know how lucky they are to have a husband to share a meal with them. Mine is gone.

LONESOME

DEAR ABBY: Congratulations to the woman who stopped her husband from coming to the table TOPLESS by threatening to serve him bottomless. It didn't work for me, but it was worth a try. When I appeared BOTTOMLESS, he went to the bedroom, put on a shirt and came back BOTTOMLESS!

So what's wrong with an occasional cold dinner? SATISFIED IN PANAMA CITY

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Dinner Honors Bridal Couple

Miss Brenda Kay Buck and Richard Harold Barnes, who plan a June 27 wedding, were honored Saturday night with a three-course dinner with Mrs. Janice Buck as hostess.

The Buck home was decorated throughout with summer flowers.

Mrs. Buck greeted guests and presented them to the bridal couple and their parents. Mr. and Mrs. Garland Buck and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barnes.

The tables held arrangements of snapdragons, daisies, and baby's breath flanked by candles in silver holders.

Miss Buck was remembered with a corsage of white daisies which complemented her navy and white ensemble.

There were approximately 30 dinner guests.

Good-byes were said by Mrs. Buck.

Court Ruling Adds Confusion

The Supreme Court's extension of conscientious objector status on other than religious grounds is bound to mean confusion in administering of the draft laws in the months ahead.

The decision means that draft boards and courts will need to possess the power to peer into a man's mind in order to determine if he truthfully objects to serving in the military because of personal beliefs. Since this is impossible, it is obvious that there are going to have to be more court testings of this new Supreme Court ruling before draft boards and lower courts will have the guidance they need in deciding such cases.

Obviously the Supreme Court did not rule that young men who object only to specific wars should receive conscientious objector status. The ruling applies to young men who are in mental agony about participating in war — all wars — but not on religious grounds.

Our nation has long recognized that there are grounds for conscientious objection to war due to religious belief and this in an extension of this.

However, there will undoubtedly be a flood of appeals made on this ruling and the authorities and courts should remember one thing each time they rule. That is that for every young man who is exempted as a conscientious objector, some other young man must take his place. This will be true as long as there is a draft and it is something that should be kept in mind as authorities search for sincerity in those who seek exemption. For this reason draft boards and the courts should proceed very carefully in granting exemptions under the new Supreme Court ruling.

The Governor Said To Do It

By BRYAN HANSLIP
RALEIGH—Governor Bob Scott said do it. So I did.

Welcome a visitor to North Carolina, I mean. By the Governor's proclamation, June 14-20 is "Welcome a Visitor Week" and its observance is commended to all good Tar Heels.

"Welcome to North Carolina. How do you like our state?"

"We've enjoyed it," said Mrs. Merle Ohlsen of Terre Haute, Ind. "We like the nice, rolling country, and the weather has been delightful. Yes, I think the people are friendly and make you feel welcome."

Mrs. Ohlsen and son Ron spent an afternoon at the North Carolina Museum of Art. The family was in Raleigh one week while Mr. Ohlsen participated in a guidance conference at Meredith College.

Ron said North Carolina is "a lot different from Indiana," which is pretty flat. I suggested a trip to the coast. He said he's like that, but there just wasn't time enough.

Bill F. Hensley, director of the Travel and Promotion division, said I handled it just right. The important thing, he said, is to be courteous and helpful, make suggestions but don't over-sell. "Tell it like it is," he advised.

"It sounds corny, but it's true. The nicest thing that could happen to a visitor to our state could be you. Say you see a couple at a street corner, obviously unfamiliar with the area. You ask if you could help give them directions, suggestions for things to see or do. The best memory of North Carolina they take back home could be that personal contact with a friendly stranger," he said.

Hensley is the idea-father for the North Carolina observance of "Welcome a Visitor Week," sponsored nationally by the Society of American Travel Writers. The event is aimed specifically at foreign visitors, in recognition of increasing travel from abroad, but takes in all tourists.

North Carolina gets few foreign visitors except those on specialized tours. The jumbo jets, and the state's overseas travel promotion efforts, promise to bring a change in the future.

Welcoming a visitor is an act of courtesy with economic overtones. Travel is North Carolina's third-ranking industry, last year accounting for $752 million and it is on the rise at a rate of about 9 per cent per year.

"Tourism is so important for our economy that anything done to enhance it will benefit everybody," Hensley said.

The Travel and Promotion division doesn't leave welcoming visitors only to the man in the street. Two Welcome Centers, staffed year-round with specially trained personnel, are in operation at I-85 entrance from Virginia north of Henderson and on I-95 at the Virginia line near Roanoke Rapids. Mrs. Sarah Hardison has charge of the Welcome Centers.

Under construction and expected to be open in September is a Welcome Center at the Tennessee line on I-40. A fourth is being built below Shelby at the South Carolina line on I-85. Three others are in the planning stage: I-95 at the South Carolina line, Lumberton I-26 at the South Carolina line, Tryon; and I-77, Virginia line, north of Mount Airy.

Last year almost half a million visitors stopped at the Henderson and Roanoke Rapids center, which were opened in August, 1968. The count at the I-95 center totaled 283,544, and at the I-85 center, 163,120.

Traffic picks up all the time. Through the first three months of this year, the centers have welcomed 107,030 visitors, 80,158 at the I-95 center, and 26,872 at the I-85 location.

Four girls work at each center. Before they begin, they get a three-week training course which includes grooming, history, mapreading, and a tour of the state's attractions. "You can't very well recommend something you haven't really seen," is Hensley's theory.

They are instructed in a low-pressure, soft-sell approach. "In the vernacular, we want them to tell it like it is," said Hensley. "It's better to say, 'You may find mosquitoes a problem at this location this time of year,' than to have the visitor come away mad that you didn't warn him."

Cards are provided for visitors to mail back their impressions of the state. Leafing through a day's returns in a gratifying experience. Cited as favorable impressions are things such as: "native hospitality," "friendly attitude of the people," "courtesy of the girls at the welcome center."

An unidentified Maryland visitor phrased it nicely: "North Carolina impressed upon me the beauty of simple things. Almost everywhere I looked I saw beauty, whether in the friendly, smiling faces or in the lovely landscape."

Commission Should Be Valuable To Nation

President Nixon has made a good move in appointing a nine-member commission, with former Pennsylvania governor William W. Scranton as head, to recommend ways to control campus violence.

This commission should seek the ideas of our young people and search for ways to avoid further tragedies such as that which occurred on the Kent State campus and at Jackson State.

There has been too much campus unrest, and certainly all of it is not unjustified. It is time now to listen to the young and correct that which can be corrected.

String Pulled By Mitchell

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The fine hand of Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, top sergeant of the Nixon Cabinet, was pulling strings behind the scenes in the surprising switch of Elliot Richardson from the panelled halls of the State Department to the bloody battlefield of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) last week.

Mitchell, architect of the Southern strategy, told President Nixon that Richardson was his first choice to head the job being vacated by HEW Secretary Robert Finch, bloody after repeated bruising confrontations with the Attorney General.

In view of liberal Richardson's commitment to school desegregation and his Eastern establishment political base in Boston, his sponsorship by conservative Mitchell would be incredible save for this fact: Mitchell had become frustrated to the point of apoplexy in his dealings with HEW's chaotic bureaucracy.

With Finch, an admittedly poor manager, having been eased out, Mitchell advised Mr. Nixon to replace him with a self-assured administrator capable of knocking heads together. Specifically, Mitchell wanted someone who could take a position and stick to it, without backing and filling.

Mitchell intimates say he recommended Richardson because he was convinced, after studying Richardson's handling of the flabby State Department bureaucracy and watching him in innumerable White House meetings, that he had the mental discipline to end disorder at HEW. Even before that, Mitchell had been high on Richardson, recommending him for Under Secretary of State to serve as a buffer between the troublesome Foreign Service and Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

When Finch, an admittedly poor manager, having been eased out, Mitchell advised Mr. Nixon to replace him with a self-assured administrator capable of knocking heads together. Specifically, Mitchell wanted someone who could take a position and stick to it, without backing and filling.

Strength For Today

LOVE DIVINE

There is a saying which runs: "There are three ways in which a man expresses his deep sorrow: the man on the lowest level weeps; the man on the second level is silent; the man on the highest level knows how to turn his sorrow into song." The word "vicarious" means "acting on behalf of or as representing another." Vicarious suffering is the sacrifice one the innocent for another, generally the sacrifice of the innocent for the guilty.

Christians believe that Jesus Christ was the only perfect and innocent person ever to have lived, and although he had no sin himself, he suffered for the guilt of humanity. From our standpoint it would appear that he, of all men, should not have experienced suffering. Yet the nature of love is such that it gives itself for others with no thought of consequences. The perfect love of God gives itself perfectly for disobedient, defiant, sinful man. The test of love is whether it asks anything in return for love. Usually it does not. "God so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (John 3:16).

When we deal with vicarious sacrifice (someone sacrificing for someone else, generally the innocent for the guilty), we see love at its best. When we see God Himself suffering through the death of his Son, putting upon his death of his Son, putting upon his Beloved the burden of sins he had not committed, having him die as the result of these sins, having him break the power of death by his resurrection and in that resurrection vindicating the truth of all Christ had said and done — here we encounter divine love set forth in all its beauty and power.

Other Side Of A Coin

SCRABBLE, Va. — These are homecoming times in Rappahannock County, just as they are across the land, and suddenly the place is swarming with young people returned from the college wars. They are done in by examinations, and done in by the rigors of the academic year, but not so done in that they cannot stay up eating and talking all night.

One of these flights of meadowlarks turned up the other afternoon, among them a young lady, aged 20, name of Lizbet, who had just finished her sophomore year at a Midwestern institution that has figured in the news of campus demonstrations. She was slim as a sixteenth note and clean as Sunday morning, with long dark hair and eyes the size of cookies.

"I see your column now and then," she began "and I wanted to tell you I disagree with you all the way. I mean all the way, and I wanted to tell you this to your face because I think it's always better to say what you think, right out, you know, and not behind somebody's back, like, if you can't be honest, what've you got?"

"Look," Lizbet said, "let me tell you how it is. It's prison, I mean, like being in prison, you can't talk to anyone, and the house rules, you know, are ridiculous — 12 o'clock week nights and only 1 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays, and if you're going out of town you have to sign all these forms. You can't imagine. We're not children, you know."

"But it wasn't just the house rules. It was everything, you know, the food in the Union was terrible, I mean it was really greasy, and nobody wanted to come back after Christmas."

Well, I asked, if she had known about the rules, and thought they were all that bad, why had she gone back a second year?

"You don't understand," she said. "After all, I mean, we students are it. If we don't insist on change, who will? But it wasn't just the rules and the food and all that, it was the big things — Nixon and Agnew, and this unjust immoral war, and half of the professors in the Chem Lab are doing some kind of defense work, you know, and then Mr. Beasley got fired—he had been there four years, you know, four years, and fired, just like that."

"Ah," I said. "He was the only good teacher they had. I had him for English Lit the first semester. I mean, he was sincere and dedicated and honest, and we'd talk about Vietnam and that corrupt puppet government they have, and we'd write about injustice and all that, and he was relevant. Really, he was relevant. Then it got out that his contract wasn't being renewed, and that was it."

"Yes," I said. "We had this big meeting at one of the boy's apartments, and we worked all one weekend on our manifesto, and I mean we worked on it."

Other Editors Say Single-Car Wrecks

(Rocky Mount Telegram) Although your chances are one in five of being involved in a single vehicle accident, the chances of a fatality are five times greater than it would be if you were involved in an accident with another motor vehicle.

The zaniest part of this whole bundle is that when the road is straight, the highway of a superior type, and traffic congestion is least, you stand a better chance of becoming involved in this type of accident than you do when driving on a crooked rural road or in city traffic.

Another thing that doesn't seem to tally is that such accidents are easiest to prevent because they usually involve factors within the control of an individual driver.

Fatigue, inattention, speed too fast for existing conditions, drunkenness, illness of the driver and occasionally a mechanical defect are the usual causes within the direct control of each driver.

Of course, there is always the pedestrian, the kid on the bike, a bird or animal that intrudes abruptly into your path. Nevertheless, you as a driver cannot divest yourself of responsibility by blaming it on the intruding "other guy" for in each case you are the other guy — the guy who had the responsibility to maintain his vehicle under control and in good mechanical condition at all times, so that he would not be involved in a preventable accident.

No driver can afford to lose his alertness or ability to act promptly and properly within the capabilities of his vehicle when behind the wheel.

Neither can he afford to drive at speeds too fast for conditions or to drive equipment that is defective in condition.

The impact of hitting an object at 60 miles per hour is equivalent to driving your vehicle off the top of a 10-story building. Your own chance of living through a crash at 75 miles an hour are one in eight, and at 80 miles an hour death is a near certainty.

The record shows that obedience of traffic laws puts you in a better position to survive the hazards of the road. On the road hand, most traffic accidents are caused by some one violating a traffic rule. Be reasonable about what, when and how you drive. Drive defensively, de-escalate your speed, make needed rest stops to relieve muscle and brain-cramping tedium and chances are you won't get hung up in a single-vehicle accident.

Those Bright Hours

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The poor man's philosopher:

You never really know another human being until he tells you about his childhood.

Aside from the weather, which is usually only mentioned rather than discussed, the thing most people would rather talk about than any other subject is their childhood.

It thaws them out as a south wind does a frozen pond in March, melting the icicles of protective reserve that generally insulate them from their fellows.

Childhood is a form of remembered wealth better than any other riches because it never fades, never loses its value, and can't be stolen from you. It is never more than a thought away.

"The child is father to the man," wrote William Wordsworth. No truer observation was ever made.

Why does everyone treasure his childhood, whether he later measures it by such pumpish terms as "good" or "bad"? Because he can remember it as a time when—

An agate marble was worth more than all the fabled rubies and diamonds of India.

He could win a red-haired girl's admiration by showing her how to spin a top.

Playing hide-and-seek was only a game, and there was always a good place for him to hide.

No matter how often he got punished for doing wrong, he knew of something else he was guilty of that his parents hadn't yet found out about.

Adults were pompous, picaresque, preoccupied with trifles, and often unfair, but not deliberately evil.

While it hurt to skin both knees, pain was brief. It was also consoling to think of how the scabs would be envied by playmates and how much fun it would be to pick them off later.

With a lucky dollar found on the street, he could buy enough candy, popcorn and ice cream cones to get sick enough to stay home from school two whole days.

No present war summoned him with bugles, but it was awesome to sit on the front porch and listen to tales his uncles told of older wars they had fought in other lands far away.

Hot, quick tears scalded away any grief; sorrow rarely lasted beyond tomorrow's sunshine.

God was in His heaven, and neither dead nor dying.

The puzzling thing about childhood is not that it retains such power over people, but why they ever leave it. It never leaves them.

Administration Needs Magic

By ELMER ROESSNER
The Nixon administration has painted itself into an economic corner.

The problem of inflation is beginning to overshadow that of the war in Vietnam. Increased, which is purely inflationary.

It is certain that the administration will have to take new steps, seek a new approach to the problem of inflation.

It is also certain that the administration is considering various courses.

Incomes Policy, Controls? Under consideration are wage and price controls and something called "incomes policy." The latter has never been sharply defined, but it appears to involve naming a commission. In football, the old rule has been, "When in doubt, punt"; in government the comparable rule is, "When in doubt, appoint a commission."

This commission would set guidelines, apparently setting a top limit on wage increases, perhaps tied to increased productivity, and guidelines as to when and how much prices could be increased.

The administration would try to make this effective by jawboning, that is by talk, exhortation, pleading and pointing the flying fickle finger of fate.

Jawboning, it will be recalled, did not work for President Johnson. I won't work for President Nixon. The authoritarian jawbone has no teeth.

Controls Under Attack

Controls of wages and prices, with few sharp teeth in them, might be more effective, but not much. During World War II, when the nation was far more united for victory than present, they were partially successful. With a divided country, they would fail dismally.

Even their mention has stirred up a campaign against them. Banks and businesses have declared they are opposed, that they won't work, that they are

Supreme Court Leaves Draft Officials Wondering

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Selective Service System, told by the Supreme Court it can't force a man to fight in violation of his conscience, was left wonderdering today how to separate sincere objectors from the phonies. It was also left wondering what impact, if any, Monday's court ruling on conscientious objection would have on the draft.

Selective Service Director Curtis W. Tarr called in his staff for consultation after he heard of the decision and scheduled a news conference today to discuss the impact of the ruling. On the surface, the decision seemed to make little change in existing guidelines, but Selective Service spokesmen said they had no statistics on the grounds claimed by conscientious objectors and thus no way to measure the effects of subtle policy shifts.

Draft law provides for exemption from military service of men who "by reason of religious training and belief" oppose participation "in war in any form." In 1965, the Supreme Court—in the landmark United States vs. Seeger case—ruled that an objector need not believe in the traditional concept of God, but only in some overriding principle holding a similar place in his life. On Monday, the high court reversed the conviction of Elliott A. Welsh II, who had refused military induction on grounds of his belief "that human life is valuable in and of itself ... I will not injure or kill another human being."

Citing a lower court finding that Welsh held his beliefs "with the strength of more traditional religious convictions," the court decided he was entitled to conscientious objector status according to the Seeger principle. The court's Monday decision concluded the law permits exemption of those "whose consciences, spurred by deeply held moral, ethical, or religious beliefs, would give them no rest or peace if they allowed themselves to become a part of an instrument of war."

The court decision appeared to give those seeking conscientious objector status more leeway to defend their claims, for it accepted Welsh's arguments based on "political, sociological or philosophical views." The law, as written, specifically excluded those as grounds of conscientious objection. The Supreme Court, however, said that clause does not rule out people with strong opinions about such matters, as long as their pacifist views are held with "religious" fervor, as required by the Seeger decision. In 1965, the court suggested that its new guideline—belief similar in strength to traditional religion—would provide a test "simple of application ... essentially an objective one."

For the past five years, however, Selective Service—the agency whose 4,087 local draft boards actually have to make those decisions month by month—has been casting about for some way to measure the strength of an individual's personal beliefs. Tarr, who became draft director last April, said one of his first goals would be to make draft policies, especially on conscientious objection, more uniform in their application by these thousands of boards. He told an inter-religious meeting on conscientious objection he would not mind even seeing the concept broadened—some objectors seek exemption on grounds of moral objections to a particular war, rather than war in general. But Tarr said he just could not accept the inequity of having to send someone into service, in place of a man who selfishly ducked his own obligation. Tarr's staff recently drafted a letter to local boards to guide them in this difficult area, but Tarr wasn't satisfied and decided to meet with a policy council of state directors next week before trying once more to clear up the policy.

SBA Office Is Still Expected

"Unless some unforeseen circumstance occurs," R. Frank Everett, Republican candidate for representative from North Carolina's First Congressional District stated, "I expect an announcement will be made confirming Greenville as a location for a Small Business Administration Office."

Everett referred to his May 5 statement, in which he stated he was contacting state and federal officials about the possibility of establishing such an office in eastern North Carolina. He said "I have been informed that official plans for announcing the establishment of a Small Business Administration Office in Greenville can be expected in the very near future."

Noting that only one such office now exists in North Carolina, the one in Charlotte,

Everett commented. "To me this seemed too great a distance for a person to have to drive to make contact. I feel that a Small Business Administration Office located in eastern North Carolina will be most helpful. It should help to slow down the migration from this area."

The Small Business Administration is a federal agency designed to assist small businessmen who cannot get assistance from banks.

Tobacco Growers Voting July 16

Tobacco Associates, Inc., will hold a referendum on July 16 among its North Carolina members (the growers of flue-cured tobacco in North Carolina).

The referendum will be held to vote on the continuance of the group's self-help plan for promoting the sales of their leaf tobacco.

The referendum will be held at the regular community polling centers and the usual hours will be observed.

Thailand Won't Stop Volunteers

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand will not stop Thai nationals volunteering to fight in Cambodia although it has "no intention" of sending Thai combat troops at the moment, the commander in chief of the Thai army, Gen. Praphas Charusathien, said today.

Praphas, who also is deputy prime minister, interior minister and "coordinator" of the growing Thai assistance program to Cambodia, indicated, however, that Thailand would dispatch some of its 12,000 troops from South Vietnam if the situation worsened.

Kilpatrick . . .

(Continued from page 4) You think we're irresponsible. Listen. We talked over every one of our demands. We weren't radical. We wanted an end to the war, right now, and we all wanted justice for the black students, and the boys wanted ROTC abolished. The college has no business helping the government in defense research, so we wanted that stopped. We wanted Mr. Beasley rehired, and we demanded some reasonable changes in the dorm rules, and the book store, and the greasy food, and you know, things like that."

"Ummm," I said. "And you know what?" she said. "We had an orderly march to the president's office, and submitted our manifesto, and nothing happened. I mean nothing happened. Oh, a committee was appointed, but nothing really happened. So some of the boys broke some windows at the ROTC building. What else could they do? You know? And it was a few days after that when things got out of hand."

"Ah," I said, and just then Lizbet was summoned to go swimming. She departed in a swirl of dark hair, and I heard later on that she said Mr. Kilpatrick listened all right, "but I don't think I got through to him AT ALL."

Where Is Rap Brown? Contrary to published reports that he has definitely fled to Algeria, there is an excellent possibility that black extremist H. Rap Brown is hiding out someplace in the United States.

In truth, Federal agents completely lost the scent of Brown when he failed to show up for his trial in Bel Air, Md. They can't be sure where he is. The best they have been able to do is narrow the hunt to three possibilities: Algeria, Cuba, and the U.S.

Because Brown has had considerably less contact with overseas leftists than other black extremists such as Eldridge Cleaver and Stokely Carmichael, there is a good chance he is under cover somewhere in the U.S.

Will you remember the things you did, or the things you didn't?

All depends on how you plan your vacation. If you've saved a little bit here and a little bit there during the year, you've lengthened the list of things available for you to do. If you've applied for a Planters Master Charge, you've opened the door to hundreds of thousands of restaurants and shops and motels . . . or to renting cars and camping equipment if you want to do it the inexpensive way. If you've applied for a Planters Cash Guarantee account, and received it, you have extra money backing you up in your checking account in case you stumble upon a once-in-a-lifetime bargain.

And if you operate off of your Planters Master Charge, instead of a bunch of different credit cards and accounts along the way, you save yourself extra carrying charges. And you save yourself from over-spending, because you'll know your limit, and work within it.

Good credit, used responsibly, makes the difference between a vacation you'll remember happily all winter long, or something you'll shake your head over and try not to think about. So take a minute to build a Planters credit combination into your plans. So you won't waste a minute remembering the things you didn't do.

One Day To Go, Again Fugitive

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP) — "Is there anything I can do before checking out?" asked jail trusty Freddie D. Barnhill, who had one more day to serve of his three-month sentence for receiving stolen property.

Officer Pat Rodgers hired Barnhill, 23, to wash his $4,000 sports car in the lot behind police headquarters.

A little later Sunday, Rodgers looked out to check Barnhill's progress. He and the car were gone. Barnhill was sought Monday on charges of escape and car theft.

ROKs Battle Red Infiltrators

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean troops fought three North Korean infiltrators in a mountainous area 15 miles north of Seoul Monday and killed one of them, the Defense Ministry said today.

The other two escaped into the underbrush, and a hunt was on for them today.

The ministry said a South Korean patrol spotted the trio and challenged them. The North Koreans opened fire, touching off a 1½-hour skirmish.

There were no South Korean casualties, a spokesman said.

Talked Cougar Out Of Another Attack

CALGARY, Alta. (AP) — A cougar clawed a woman who was out for a hike in a Canadian national park, but the Calgary woman gently talked the big cat out of renewing the attack, she said.

Daphne Smith said she was hiking Sunday in the Kootenay National Park, east of Radium Hot Springs, B.C., and had gotten separated from her companions. She said the cougar came running down a mountain and jumped her, knocking her down and clawing four deep gashes in her left forearm.

"I knew I had to get up immediately," Miss Smith reported. "Somehow my pack had come off and I held it in front of me. I talked as you would to a pet cat and began to back off slowly."

Miss Smith, a middle-aged office worker, said she believed the animal was a female.

At first the cougar "snarled at the least movement," but after it circled her "she let me move," Miss Smith said. "I got my raincoat on, slowly, because I didn't want her to smell the blood. After I had talked to her for about half an hour, she seemed a little more passive. I backed off and she came forward, smelled the blood and then just lay down . . . but she kept her eyes on me all the time."

Then Miss Smith heard her companions in the woods and called for help, softly at first, then louder. When they heard her, they started blowing whistles and the cat ran off. "I ran like hell," Miss Smith said. She went back to work Monday, after having her arm stitched up.

Chain Letters Are Confiscated

BONN (UPI)—West German postal authorities have confiscated thousands of chain letters sent into this country by Dutchmen and Belgians hoping to get rich quick by selling names and addresses to keep the game of "American Roulette" going.

Chain letters are an "illegal form of gaming" in West Germany, as in the Netherlands and Belgium. But the laws in the two latter countries do not prohibit organizers there from sending chain letters into Germany.

Building Highway Below Sea Level

PETER D. LYNCH
EIN FASHKHA, Israeli-Occupied Jordan (UPI) —Here at "the bottom of the world" —so-called because it lies 1,292 feet below sea level —Israel is building a highway that may one day serve as a Middle East link between northern and southern shipping routes.

From Ein Fashkha, the highway by September will snake around the western shore of the Dead Sea through some of the most desolate terrain on earth. In summer the temperatures averages 113 degrees fahrenheit, soaring at times to 122. In winter the average drops to 45 degrees.

The highway at first will run only 20 miles but will cut 40 miles from the present route from Israel's Red Sea port of Eilat to Jerusalem. Eventually, Israeli planners foresee the highway as a direct route from Eilat to Israel's Mediterranean port of Haifa.

Israel is using Russian equipment captured from the Egyptians, and Arab labor from Gaza, in construction of the roadway that one day will link this settlement on the northern shores of the Dead Sea (Ein Fashkha was captured from Jordan in the 1967 Six Day War) with the Israeli settlement of En Gedi on the southern end of the sea.

The estimated cost of the highway, which has been under construction for a year, is $1.7 million.

Construction boss of the project is an Arab, Jamil Abu Zabir. For years Zabir worked for an American road construction company as a gang boss building highways in Kuwait, Libya and Saudi Arabia. Along the way he acquired American-accented English and a bright blue baseball cap.

Zabir came home to Jordan for a visit from Saudi Arabia a week before the 1967 war and got stuck there.

"I'm earning about half what I earned working for the Americans," he said, "but building roads is building roads, whether it is for the Israelis or the Saudis."

Zabir is less philosophical about the Russian roadbuilding equipment he has to work with. "It's a heap of junk," he said.

Moose Crossed Eisenhower In After Message Early Convoy

HELSINKI (UPI)—Six moose crossed the border from Sweden to Finland, stood for a while ogling a construction crew at work, and then disappeared into surrounding woods.

Nothing unusual in that. Except maybe that the Finnish radio an hour earlier broadcast an announcement that moose would be protected game for two years in the northern counties of appi Oulu.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The first motor convoy to cross the continent took place in 1919 to test 20 Army trucks to see if they could withstand the rigors such a journey presented.

The convoy started out from Washington, D.C., traveled over all types of terrain, and arrived at its destination in San Francisco 56 days later.

Among the men participating was Dwight D. Eisenhower, then a Tank Corps Captain.

Consumers need protection. In this fast-paced economy, we must find a suitable substitute for "Let the buyer beware" as a rule of order in the marketplace. Fortunately, Government at all levels, is recognizing the need to enact legislation to protect the consumer.

However, in attacking the problem, they become aware of one undeniable fact. Consumers can be protected from almost every sharp or fraudulent practice except except their own folly.

It is surprising how many intelligent, even sophisticated consumers are naive and gullible in their dealings with strangers. People who would never think of entering into a business agreement without proper documents will listen to —and believe a smooth-talking salesman. They will sign agreements without reading them. They will sign blank contracts. They will take a salesman's word for the type and quality of the product or service they are buying.

These contradictions in character make consumers a natural target for dishonest salesmen and unscrupulous dealers. Estimates place losses by unsuspecting consumers in the millions.

Each year, about this time, many agencies call attention to these fraudulent practices. They warn consumers to be wary of the itinerant salesman — the contractor with out-of-town license plates and unsolicited merchandise sent to consumers through the mail.

Better Business Bureaus throughout the country invite inquiries about questionable products or practices. They are just as anxious to protect their members, the local businessmen, from these fly-by-nighters who prey on their customers.

Here are some suggestions to follow when doing essential shopping.

1. Be suspicious of "Bait" advertising. You can recognize this type of ad because it quotes a ridiculously low price for a nationally advertised product. This is the "bait" to get the unwary consumer to respond. If you are attracted by such an ad, buy only the product advertised at the price quoted and insist on immediate delivery.
2. Coupled with "Bait" ads is the "Switch" sale. Don't do business with a salesman who tells you the product advertised isn't worth buying but he has a similar product at a much higher price—which is just what you want.
3. Never sign a blank contract regardless of circumstances. You can always wait to have all the facts and figures filled in. If some excuse is offered for not filling in a contract, be smart — walk away from the sale.

If you are going to finance a pending purchase, stop in at your local bank and discuss the cost of credit with him. Remember—you should shop for credit with the same determination you show in bargain-hunting.

Graniteers In Rout Of Integon

The Graniteers rolled to a 15-2 victory over Integon yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League.

The Graniteers now lead the league with a 10-2 record, while the Moose and Pepsi-Cola are tied for second with 7-3 marks. They are the only two teams left with a chance to catch the Graniteers. The Exchange, 4-6, the Elks, 2-8, and Integon, 1-10, have all been eliminated.

The Graniteers pushed over four runs in the second. Joel Clark reached on an error and stole second. Kyle Wills was also safe on a miscue, moving Clark to third. Wills stole second and Jay Chenier's ground out scored Clark. Steve Manning walked and stole second and James Weeks reached on an error, scoring Wills. Manning stole home as Weeks stole second, and then Weeks stole third. He scored on Howard Vainright's single.

Jim Wilkerson pushed in another Graniteers run with a homer in the third.

In the fourth, the Graniteers added three more. Manning walked and moved up on a passed ball. Chris Moye walked and Vainright did too, loading the bases. Wilkerson's grounder was errored on the attempt at home as Manning scored, and Macon Moye doubled to score Chris Moye and Vainright.

Integon picked up two in the bottom of the fourth. Worth Albea singled and Jack Bratton walked. Both moved up on a passed ball and a balk scored Albea. A wild pitch let Bratton in.

The Graniteers, with an 8-2 lead, went wild in the sixth, scoring seven more. Chris Moye walked and Vainright also got a free trip. Macon Moye doubled them in and Joel Clark singled. Wills tripled to score Clark and Chenier walked. A homer by Manning capped the inning in three runs.

Vainright and Macon Moye led the Graniteer hitting with two each, while Clark held Integon to just two hits. He struck out 10 and walked seven.

Cancer Claims Brian Piccolo

NEW YORK (AP) — Brian Piccolo, halfback of the Chicago Bears of the National Football League, died early today in Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases. Death was attributed to cancer.

A hospital spokesman said that Piccolo, who was 26, died shortly before 3 a.m., EDT. No further details were immediately disclosed.

Piccolo missed the last five games of 1969 because of surgery for removal of a tumorous growth in the chest.

Before joining the Bears-1969 was his sixth season—he was the nation's top ground gainer and scorer in 1964 while at Wake Forest.

George Halas, Bears owner and chairman, called Piccolo "a complete big leaguer in physical skills and competitive instincts."

"The Bears will miss Brian as a team player who always gave extra effort in practice and in a game," Halas said in a statement following Piccolo's death.

Piccolo had been running back Gale Sayers' alternate until a knee injury Nov. 10, 1968, forced Sayers out for the rest of that season.

He wound up that day with 18 rushes for 67 yards, and four receptions for 54. After that, he was a starter for the Bears.

During the final five games of 1968, Piccolo paired with Ron Bull in the Bears backfield and added 76 carries for 269 yards and 15 pass receptions for 155. The 1968 campaign ended as his best in the league; he had an aggregate of 450 yards on 123 tries and caught 28 passes for 291 yards.

At Wake Forest, in his record 1964 season, Piccolo gained 1,044 yards on 252 attempts, for a 4.14 average. He scored 111 points on 17 touchdowns and nine conversions.

"He was so young to die, with a future that held so much for him," said Halas, who was Bears coach at the time Piccolo joined the team in 1965. "But Brian made the most of the brief 26 years allotted to him, and he will not be forgotten."

Piccolo attended Central Catholic High School in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

During the off-season, he was a stock and bond salesman with a Chicago brokerage house.

Survivors include his widow, Joy, and three small daughters. Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Jaycees' Junior Tennis Tourney Slated Saturday

The Greenville Jaycees Junior Tennis Tournament will be held on Saturday, beginning at 9 a.m., at the Recreation Department on Elm Street.

Tom Allen, tournament director, said a full slate of entrants will compete for special awards in ten divisions. Competition is scheduled for boys and girls who participated in the recently completed Jaycee tennis clinics.

Allen noted that admission is free and the public is invited to attend the activities. Boys and girls, ages eight to 18, who did not participate in the tennis clinic are eligible and are urged to compete, he said.

Dairymen, Builders Get Babe Ruth Wins

Babe Ruth League leader Carolina Dairy picked up another win last night, downing College View, 12-4, but second place Home Builders stayed right with them, beating Planters Bank, 5-3.

Carolina Dairy is now 6-1, while Home Builders is 4-2. They are followed by Planters, 4-3, Pepsi-Cola, 3-3, College View, 2-4, and State Bank, 0-6.

In the opener, College View took the lead in the top of the first. Bobby Kittrell reached on an error and Howard Leggett slammed a home run for a 2-0 edge.

In the second, Carolina Dairy scored twice to tie it up. Howard Adams walked and John Causey also got a free trip to first. Both stole up a base, and Adams scored on an error. David Clifton singled to drive in Causey.

In the third, College View scored again to retain the lead. Leggett singled, Robert Boles walked and Luke College got a hit to load the bases. Michael Reilly walked, forcing in Leggett.

Then, in the fourth, the Dairymen exploded for seven runs to take the lead for good. Causey led off with a single and moved up on an out. Clifton singled to drive him in. Robert Carraway walked, and a wild pitch led Clifton take third. Carraway stole second, and after a passed ball let Clifton score, he stole third. Mike Parker singled to drive in Carraway, and a homer by Dean Phillips brought in Parker. Seth Jones doubled and took third on a passed ball. Adams singled to drive him in. A pair of wild pitches and a passed ball let Adams come around to score the seventh run of the inning.

In the fifth, Carolina Dairy scored three more. Clifton walked and stole both second and third. Parker reached on an error, scoring Carraway. Two more stolen bases and an error let Parker score the final Dairy run.

College View picked up one more in the sixth. Linwood Brown reached on an error, and moved around to third on an error. He scored when Kenneth Tetterton reached on an error.

Leggett and Collie led the College View hitting with two each, while Clifton had two to pace the Carolina Dairy hitting. In the second game, Home Builders took the lead in the bottom of the third. Wesley Puryear was hit by a pitch and moved to second on a wild pitch. Archie Willoughby singled, scoring Puryear for a 1-0 lead.

Planters came back with two in the top of the fourth. Tony Phelps doubled and Jim Wilson reached on an error, scoring Phelps. Stanley Cobb singled, and an error let Wilson come in. The Builders came right back with two more to move out again, 3-2. Bill Lee walked and Harding Sugg brought him over with a home run.

In the fifth, Home Builders added another run with a homer by Wayne Bailey, making it 4-2. Planters scored again in the top of the sixth, as Cobb homered, but the Builders added one more in the bottom of the sixth. Jeff Daniels walked, moved up on Puryear's fielder's choice, and the two worked the double steal. A wild pitch let Daniels score.

St. James Ices Tie For Division Title

Church Softball League leaders St. James and Grace moved within striking distance of their respective divisional titles last night with victories. St. James rolled to a 25-5 win over Meadowbrook, while Grace downed Piney Grove, 6-2. In other games, Black Jack beat Mt. Pleasant, 11-6, and Gum Swamp nipped First Christian, 8-7.

In the American Division, St. James, with its win, advanced its record to 11-1, and iced no worse than a tie for the title. Presbyterian, 7-5, and Trinity, 6-5, are the only teams with a chance to catch St. James. Following them in the standings are Meadowbrook and Gum Swamp, both 5-7, and Christian, 1-12.

In the National Division, Grace now holds a 10-2 record, and is within two of capturing the title. Black Jack, 7-5, is the only team that could pass them, while Immanuel and Oakmont, both 6-6, can only tie. Eliminated are Mt. Pleasant, 4-7 and Piney Grove, 4-9.

Mt. Pleasant pushed over two runs in the top of the first in its game, but Black Jack came back with six in its half to take the lead. Mt. Pleasant came up with four in the second to tie it, including a homer by Jones.

In the fourth, a two-run homer by R. Hudson put Black Jack ahead for good, 8-6, and then added three more in the sixth.

Nobles led Mt. Pleasant with two hits, while T. Adams, S. Peele and G. Holland each had two for Black Jack.

St. James got all it needed in the first inning of its game, pushing over 12 runs. Van Britt, Dave Wilcox and Jim Smith each hit homers in the inning. St. James went on to pick up five in the second, one in the third, three in the fifth, two in the sixth, including a homer by

Smith, and two more in the seventh.

Meadowbrook got four in the third, including a homer by John Huber, and another in the sixth.

Roy Carawan, Joe Brown, Smith, Wilcox and Ricky Chambers each had four, while Ronald Vincent and Britt had three and Rusty Jacobs and Ed Smith had two each for St. James. No one had more than one for Meadowbrook.

Piney Grove pushed ahead, 1-0 with a run in the second, and then came up with another in the third, in its game.

But Grace came back with two in the bottom of the third to tie it up. They moved ahead with one in the fourth, then added three more in the fifth.

In the final game, Gum Swamp pushed over one run in the first, but Christian came up with two in the third. Gum Swamp tied it with one in the third. Both pushed over one in the fifth, but Gum Swamp scored three in the sixth. Christian came back to score four in the seventh to take a 7-6 lead, but they couldn't hold it.

Gum Swamp pushed over two in the bottom of the seventh to win it.

Billy West and Bob Turner each had three, while Bryant Howell, Earl Castellow, Marvin Hunt, Dave Davis and Al Averette each had two for Christian. Tripp and J. Pollard had four. B. Pollard had three, and Coggins, Harris and Hathaway had two for Gum Swamp.

Kiwanis Down Lions By 5-1

The Kiwanis rolled to a 9-1 victory over the Lions yesterday in the North State Little League and began counting down for their second straight league title.

The win boosted the Kiwanis to a 9-2 record, while R.C. is now 6-4, and the Jaycees and Coca-Cola are both 5-5. The loss eliminated the Lions, who fell off to 3-8, and the fifth-place Optimists, 3-7.

The Lions scored first, getting their run in the top of the first. Carlton Walls singled, moved up on a wild pitch and a passed ball and scored on Conner Merritt's single.

The Kiwanis came back with one in their half of the frame. Clayton Brock singled and took second on a wild pitch. Syd Ashby doubled to drive Brock in.

In the second, three more Kiwanis runs came in. Chuck Ellis reached on an error and was sacrificed to second. A wild pitch moved him to third and David Middleton walked and stole second. Brock reached on an error and was sacrificed to second. A wild pitch moved him to third and David Middleton walked and stole second. Brock reached on an error, scoring Ellis, and Ashby singled to drive in Middleton, but Brock was cut down trying to score. A wild pitch moved Ashby up, and he stole home for a 4-1 lead.

In the fourth, the Kiwanis added three more. Ashby singled and moved to third on wild pitches. Kelley Heath walked and the two worked the double steal, with Ashby scoring. A wild pitch moved Heath up and he scored on Kent Phillips' double. A passed ball moved Phillips to third, and Mike Langley singled him home.

The final two runs came in the fifth. Ashby singled and Heath slapped a home run.

Merritt led the Lion hitting with two, while Ashby had four to pace the Kiwanis.

Boone Is Golf Leader

Tommy Boone grabbed the first round lead in the Jaycee Junior Golf Tournament, played at Greenville Golf and Country Club yesterday. Boone carded a 37-36-73, one over par, at the club.

The tournament winds up today with 18 more holes, played at Brook Valley Country Club.

Second place in the 15-17 year-old group is held by Steve Jones, five strokes back with a 78, while Don Edwards and Drew Harper share third with 81's.

Dave Patterson is the leader in the 13-15 age group. He shot a 44-41-85 to take a nine-stroke lead over Randy Avery and Chip Venters, both of whom shot 94.

In the under 13 group, Cam Dudley leads with a 92, followed by Scott Hill and Sidney Davis, both with 103's.

A total of 48 are participating in this year's tournament. The winner in each age group advances to the state tournament.

College Series Down To Last Four Teams

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
OMAHA Neb. (AP) — The form chart was never better for the double elimination College World Series, which enters the nitty-gritty fourth round Tuesday with the nation's top four teams remaining in the field.

Only No. 2 Texas, 39-6, is unbeaten after defeating No. 3 Florida State 5-1 Monday night. The Longhorns, with an eight-game winning streak, take on No. 1 Southern California, 49-13, in today's second game of a two-nighter. The opener pits Florida State, 47-8, against No. 4 Ohio U. 33-5.

Should Texas down USC, the Trojans would be out and the Longhorns only one victory away from the championship. The tourney may end Wednesday but could stretch to Thursday.

Only four times previously has a team gone unbeaten to sweep to the title.

Ohio's Bobcats, who upset USC 4-1 in Friday's first round and then were beaten 7-2 by Texas, are the only newcomers to the world series.

The Trojans are in their 12th appearance and have won five times, the last in 1968.

It's Texas' 14th trip. The Longhorns won in 1949 and 1950, the only team ever to take consecutive championships.

Florida State is back for the fifth time, but its best showing was fourth place in 1962.

Although nicked for 10 hits, Burt Hooten a sophomore right-hander, stifled Florida State 5-1 Monday night with 12 strikeouts. He didn't issue a walk in boosting his record to 12-1 and also singled home a run.

Southern California cashed in on wild pitches and walks to tally four runs in the fifth inning and eliminate Dartmouth 6-1.

Craig Perkins clouted a 390-foot homer for the Trojans and freshman Eric Raich got the victory, scattering nine hits. He fanned 13.

Ohio U. ousted Iowa State 9-6 with Tony Gray's triple and Terry Raszka's double good for four runs in a 11-hit attack.

Nelson Shines For Pittsburgh

By HERSCHEL NISSENON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Jim Nelson got the San Francisco Willies in his major league debut and the Los Angeles Dodgers in his first start despite an aching shoulder that's threatening to make him a pain in the neck to National League hitters.

The 22-year-old right-hander, who made the major league scene with the Pittsburgh Pirates only last week, checked the Dodgers on five hits and one earned run in seven innings-plus Monday night and came away a 5-2 victor.

Nelson, who had pitched six scoreless innings in two previous relief stints, was tapped because the Pirates' four regular starters all worked over the weekend.

St. Louis held off San Diego 5-4 in the only other National League game while Houston's scheduled contest at Philadelphia was rained out.

In the American League, the Baltimore Orioles had their lead in the East Division trimmed to 2½ games over the idle New York Yankees when Milwaukee dumped them 9-6. Elsewhere, Minnesota clipped Washington 5-3, Cleveland edged California 3-2 in 12 innings, Oakland battered Detroit 12-7 and Kansas City overtook Boston 7-6. The Chicago White Sox also had the night off.

Nelson debuted last week against the Giants by fanning Willie Mays and getting Willie McCovey to hit into a double play. "I threw a couple of pitches before I realized it was Mays," he said.

The 6-foot-, 180-pounder developed a sore shoulder in the International League and big league therapy hasn't cleared it up.

"It ached a little from the fourth inning," he said. "I've been to 10 different doctors. Half think it's tendonitis and half are baffled."

So were the Dodgers after getting a look at Nelson's palm ball, which he says he's "not afraid to throw to anybody."

The Pirates built a 4-0 lead in the first two innings off loser Joe Moeller. Willie Stargell belted his 14th homer, a prodigious shot into the center field seats in the seventh.

Matty Alou's double, an infield out and an error on a grounder gave Pittsburgh a 1-0 lead in the first. The Pirates scored three in the second. Fred Patek's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded accounted for one run, Nelson singled for another and the third came in on a single by Richie Hebner.

Roberto Pena's three-run double highlighted a six-run explosion in the eighth inning that lifted Milwaukee from a 6-3 deficit to its victory over Baltimore. It was the Orioles' ninth setback in the last 15 games.

Although the Brewers nipped Mike Cuellar for two runs in the first inning and Mike Hegon hit a solo homer in the sixth, the Orioles seemed to be home free after Merv Rettenmund socked a grand slam homer in the first and Chico Salmon a two-run shot in the sixth.

But Tommy Harper's bunt single, a walk and Ted Savage's single kayoed Cuellar in the eighth and Eddie Watt yielded a pinch single to Tito Francona.

Pete Richert brought his 0.90 earned run average out of the bullpen and struck out Russ Snyder but the Brewers pulled a double steal and Ted Kubiak was purposely passed before Pena came through. Gerry Mc-Nertney's single drove in the final run.

Harmon Killebrew brought the Twins from behind with a three-run homer in the seventh inning, his 16th, and they opened a 4½-game lead over the Angels in the AL West. Frank Howard homered for the Senators, his 19th.

Jack Heidemann, who doubled and scored in the first inning, singled home the winning run in the 12th following a pair of two-out walks as the Indians shaded the Angels. Heidemann had a double and three singles, giving him 10 hits in 16 at-bats since being inserted in the leadoff spot Saturday.

Eddie Leon's homer gave the Indians a 2-0 lead but the Angels tied it with two runs in the ninth off Sam McDowell before suffering their fifth defeat in six games.

A grand slam homer by Frank Fernandez highlighted a six-run third inning that carried Oakland past Detroit. Fernandez connected off Mickey Lolich, who has a sore back and was pitching in relief for the first time in more than a year.

Rick Monday also homered for the A's while Dick McLiff's grand slam was one of three Tiger homers. Willie Horton and Al Kaline hit the others.

The Royals rallied three times to beat the Red Sox. Two-run homers by Pat Kelly in the fourth and Ed Kirkpatrick in the fifth wiped out early Boston leads and KC finally won it with three in the ninth.

The runs came across on singles by Lou Piniella and Paul Schaal, Jackie Hernandez' safe bunt, an error, Kelly's sacrifice fly and a game-winning single by Amos Otis.

Joe Torre's eighth-inning homer proved to be the winning run for the Cardinals against the Padres but St. Louis needed sharp defensive plays by shortstop Jim Kennedy and catcher Kennedy threw out Dave Campbell trying to go from second to third on a seventh-inning grounder and Nate Colbert followed with a wasted double. Simmons picked pinch runner Jose Arcia off second in the eighth after two leadoff singles and the Padres settled for one run when Ramon Webster singled and Ron Slocum doubled.

Ankle Hurts Pete's Try

ATLANTA (AP) — It was a rough first scrimmage for Pistol Pete Maravich as the Atlanta Hawks opened their 1970 rookie camp here.

Maravich, the National Basketball Association team's $2 million sensation, was slowed by a sprained ankle at the scrimmage Monday.

"I sprained my ankle last week at a basketball camp in North Carolina and I'm having a tough time going hard on it," he said apologetically after the workout.

"What happened was that I came down hard on my shoulders and head and my foot some how twisted and jammed on the floor. Oh, well, I'll be ready by the end of the week."

Maravich, who led all scorers in collegiate basketball the last three years and signed with the Hawks for an estimated $2 million over a five-year period, was the center of attraction as the 17 Hawks rookies went through a two-hour drill on half court.

He was asked about the roughness of the scrimmage.

"The roughness is good as it should be," Maravich said. "All these guys are vying for position."

"I guess it's sort of like the saga of Wyatt Earp. Everybody wants to beat the fastest gun in the West."

Maravich was known as a "gun" or frequent shooter at Louisiana State where he played his collegiate ball.

But he surprised onlookers Monday with his defensive efforts.

Write-Ins Are Helping Carty

NEW YORK (AP) — Hot-hitting Rico Carty of the Atlanta Braves has received a swarm of write-in votes to place third among outfield candidates in early balloting for the National League All-Star team.

Carty, whose .404 batting average is tops in the majors, was omitted from the list of All-Star nominees selected by NL managers and player representatives before the start of the season.

But after the first week of voting by baseball fans across the country, he had picked up 71,511 write-in ballots, compared to 170,123 for teammate Hank Aaron, the top vote-getter, and 72,846 for San Francisco's Willie Mays, the No. 2 man in the outfield poll.

Catcher Johnny Bench and third baseman Tony Perez of Cincinnati's West Division leaders trailed Aaron in the over-all voting with 142,629 and 89,337, respectively.

Shortstop Don Kessinger of the Chicago Cubs received 76,298. Willie McCovey of San Francisco was leader among first basemen with 57,452 and Chicago's Glenn Beckert topped the second baseman with 64,233.

The early returns, released Monday, represented some 242,000 votes cast through last Thursday by the fans, who are picking the All-Star starters, exclusive of the pitchers, for the first time since 1957. Players selected the teams from 1958 through last season.

The first America League returns will be released Friday.

Pitchers and reserves for the July 14 classic at Cincinnati will be chosen by the rival managers, Gil Hodges of the New York Mets and Earl Weaver of Baltimore.

The closest NL races in the early voting were at first base, where McCovey held a 2,800 margin over St. Louis' Richie Allen, and in the outfield, where Carty's write-in votes put him about 3,000 ahead of the Reds' Pete Rose for the number three spot.

Except for Carty, write-in candidates were lagging far behind. Jim Hickman of the Cubs, third behind Carty and Perez in the batting race, was not among the top eight vote-getters for the outfield. Los Angeles' Bill Grabarkewitz, San Diego's Clarence Gaston, New York's Art Shamsky and San Francisco's Dick Dietz and Ken Henderson, all among the Top Ten in batting, received few write-ins. All were omitted from the ballot.

Conversely, catchers Tim McCarver of Philadelphia and Randy Hundley of Chicago and third baseman Mike Shannon of St. Louis picked up more than 11,000 votes apiece although each has missed much of the season with injuries.

City Officials OK 58 Tax Releases

A total of 58 separate tax releases totaling $2,131.99 covering a period of nine years was recently authorized by city officials on tax listings.

The releases, ranging from a low of 39 cents in one case to $710.36 for the highest individual case are primarily based on various reporting errors. The most common error of listing noted on the release list is property located outside the city limits being listed on the tax books as property within the city limits. This alone accounted 36 of the 58 releases.

The 39 cents error was caused by a wrong value being placed on taxable property. The high listing of $710.36 resulted from a commercial firm listing vehicles full value rather than at the tax value rates.

For the years 1962, 1962 and 1963, one individual had three separate releases at $4.00 each for the same property. The releases for 1964, 1965, 1966 and 1967 were likewise given to the same person. The four releases in this instance amount to $8.35.

The year 1968 required six releases amounting to a total of $128.17. The bigger share of the total releases were from 1969 listings — 49 with a total amount of $1,983.47 involved.

The Worry Clinic Risks For The Grade-Skipper

Freddy's parents are facing a serious dilemma that confronts others who have very smart youngsters. His teacher and his mother want him to skip a grade. But his daddy vetoes the idea. So read the pros and cons of this perplexing educational crisis. For there are some good arguments on both sides of the issue.

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D., M. D.
CASE N-527: Freddy Z., aged 8, is very bright.

Dr. crane, "his worried mother began, "that is why his daddy and I need some outside advice."

"For Freddy's teacher says he should be allowed to skip a full grade and thus move one year ahead of his present classmates. "And I am inclined to go along with his teacher's recommendation. "But my husband vetoes the idea. "So what are some of the pros and cons to consider?"

Since Freddy is ahead of his age group in educational achievement, he might grow bored at the tedious repetition required for the rest of his present classmates.

Thus, the more advanced problems of the grade ahead might challenge his I.Q. and keep him more interested.

That is a good plea in favor of his skipping a grade.

But please consider some of the opposing arguments!

Would Freddy be emotionally and athletically able to mingle on equal terms with boys who were a year older?

Freddy's daddy was a star college athlete and is obviously hoping that Freddy will excel in sports.

But in both high school and college, younger boys often lack the muscular maturity to compete with older athletes.

One reason why Negro boys are so superb in American sports is the fact they often are 2 or 3 years older than their classmates.

Moreover, some races mature faster, even when ages are equated.

That seems especially true of racers from tropical and sub-tropical countries.

Since age is such an important factor in school sports, we might find it O.K. to let a girl skip a full grade, even though it might be well to veto Freddy's extra promotion.

Emotionally, too, it can hamper a boy when he reaches the dating age in high school, he will be younger than the girls of his class and perhaps less mature in his social outlook.

A generation ago, for example, we admitted a group of 15-year-olds at Northwestern University.

They had no chance of making any athletic teams.

And their social life was warped, for it was ridiculous to think of their dating the older coeds of their classes.

So they led a lonely social and athletic life and were pointed to on the campus as "freaks," despite their brilliant brains. If your ancestry shows that your sons will inherit more height than the usual male, and if your family tends to mature early, then you might let a boy skip a full grade.

If he does not skip, then feed him extra reading assignments and additional stimulating problems to challenge his superior I.Q.

Smart boys can also occupy their minds with Boy Scout tasks, plus music and YMCA gym classes to keep them contented.

Carrying a newspaper route is also excellent for them.

But in general it is wise to keep your own chronological age group.

Some overly ambitious parents wish to gloat over the fact their children skip grades, but this is often at the cost of the later unhappiness of those same youngsters!

JOURNALISM STUDENTS
NEW YORK (UPI)—A record 31,251 students were enrolled in journalism departments in 145 schools in 1969, compared with 26,235 students in 1968, Journalism Quarterly reports.

FINN-SOVIET RESEARCH
HELSINKI (UPI)—The Finnish government has agreed to construct four oceanographic research vessels for the Soviet Union, to be delivered by the end of 1972. The vessels are suitable for both Arctic and tropical conditions.

The bidding:
South West North East
1NT Pass 2NT Pass
3NT Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠

A clever false card by South served to assure the success of his three no trump contract.

West opened the king of diamonds and South paused to assess his prospects before playing to the first trick. If West held the king of clubs where it was finessable, then the declarer had 10 top tricks—five clubs, three spades, one heart, and one diamond. If East had the king of clubs, then it becomes necessary for South to proceed with caution.

If he wins the first lead, when East gets in with the high club, a diamond return thru South's jack will enable West to cash the setting tricks if he has five diamonds. By permitting West to hold the lead, declarer can make it unprofitable for his opponent to continue the suit without surrendering a trick.

There is a further consideration, however. West is apt to see the futility of playing another diamond and he may shift. If the switch is to a heart, declarer will be no better off, for the defense can surely establish three tricks in that suit—which along with the diamond and the king of clubs will assure his defeat.

Confronted with an apparently insoluble dilemma, South came up with a dramatic yet effective solution—he dropped the jack of diamonds under West's king. This made a diamond continuation seem irresistible, for not only was it safe for West to establish his suit, but it appeared that South had started with the doubleton ace-jack and East with three small diamonds, enough to put his partner in again once the ace was dislodged.

Declarer won the second diamond and took the club finesse which lost to East's king. The latter was out of diamonds however and South grabbed the heart switch and ran for cover with his nine tricks. Observe that if East has a third diamond, declarer is still safe, for the defense can cash at most—three diamonds and one club.

Brazil Awaits Release Of Ambassador Classified

By GEORGE HAWRYLYSHYN
Associated Press Writer
RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The release of kidnapped West German Ambassador Ehrenfried von Holleben was awaited today following the arrival in Algeria of 40 Brazilian political prisoners freed as ransom for him.

Conditions set by the kidnapers for the 61-year-old diplomat's freedom apparently were met when Brazilian television stations relayed photographs and reports of the prisoners stepping off an airliner in Algiers Monday night. But six hours after their plane landed, there still was no sign of Von Holleben. False tips and rumors kept police and newsmen speeding to various parts of Rio, only to find no trace of the ambassador.

About 50 newsmen watched the ambassador's residence, where Von Holleben's wife and two sons waited, while another 20 waited at the embassy.

As the night went on and the ambassador did not turn up, tension mounted among members of the embassy staff. But they remained outwardly optimistic.

"They most likely will let him go in the morning so they can escape into the rush hour traffic," said a secretary.

The leftist terrorists who kidnaped Von Holleben last Thursday had said he would be released when local newspapers and radio and television stations relayed the word that the prisoners had arrived safely in Mexico, Cuba or Algeria.

A jetliner of Brazil's Varig Airline took the prisoners under heavy guard to Algeria. They included six women; four children accompanied them into exile. Algerian officials gave them a warm welcome and said they would be given asylum. Under a decree last September after the abduction of U.S. Ambassador C. Burke Elbrick, all 40 lost their Brazilian citizenship and were barred from returning to their homeland.

"This is an empty gesture," said the oldest member of the group, 58-year-old Apolonia de Carvalho. "They know perfectly well that most of us are determined to return to our country and continue our struggle until final victory."

During a two-hour news conference at the Algiers airport, the prisoners said they had been tortured while in jail and had been led to believe they were about to be executed before they were put on the plane.

"We were taken to a shooting range with our eyes bandaged," said De Carvalho. "The army men shouted and manipulated their weapons in such a way as to make us believe we were about to be shot."

On the plane, he continued, they were tied to their seats for the 10-hour flight and were released only as the craft taxied to a halt.

In addition to the prisoners and the children, the plane carried a 12-member crew and 19 government security agents. The crew was permitted to disembark, but Algerian authorities made the Brazilian police stay aboard while the jet was refueled. Within an hour, the plane took off again for Brazil.

One of the woman prisoners was carried off the plane and placed in a wheel chair. She was Vera Silvia de Araujo Magalhaes, 22, who Brazilian police had said was paralyzed when she was shot at the time of her arrest last March. She said electric shock torture had temporarily paralyzed her legs.

Count Karl von Sprei, the West German ambassador to Guatemala, was killed by his abductors after the Guatemalan government refused to release 17 prisoners.

Injunction Fails Deter Strikers

GREENSBORO (AP) — Bucking an anti-strike injunction, about 80 per cent of Greensboro's 150 sanitation workers today walked off the job for the second time in six weeks. About half the workers were out in the early April "sick out."

The action followed failure of city council Monday to give "some sort of answer" to a presentation by Gene Gore, with whose North Carolina Labor Alliance the sanitation workers are affiliated. The presentation dealt primarily with wages.

CAP MEETING

The Greenville Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol will meet tonight at seven o'clock in Room 124, New Austin Building, ROTC Section, East Carolina University campus.

'Recycling' No Longer A Remote Word In U.S.

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The word "recycle" is becoming relatively common today in the vocabulary of American business, but the word is really just a label for an old, old problem:

You really can't throw anything away anymore; you never could, either, because there is no "away."

Man has tried, of course, because the countryside is littered with automobile hulks, cans, tires, bottles, newspapers and other assorted trash that was discarded. But this is merely mute evidence of failure.

Once it wasn't so noticeable, because human beings didn't congregate so densely. Moreover, never before in history has man ever taken nature's materials and changed them in such abundance into other things.

Begin Trial For Killings

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — The court-martial of the first of four U.S. Marines accused of killing 16 Vietnamese civilians opened today with the prosecution claiming the Marines herded the victims from their homes and shot them with small arms and a grenade launcher.

The defendant, Pvt. Michael A. Schwarz, 21, of Weirton, W. Va., sat impassively as the first witnesses took the stand the prosecution showed the court color photographs of the bodies of five women and 11 children.

The bodies were found near three huts in Son Thang Village, 27 miles south of Da Nang, last Feb. 20, a day after the alleged slaying.

Schwarz is charged with 16 counts of premeditated murder. The maximum penalty is life imprisonment. The other three Marines will be tried separately later.

A fifth member of the ambush patrol, Pfc. Michael S. Krichten, 19, of Hanover, Pa., has been granted immunity and is expected to testify for the prosecution.

Conscious that criticism of the pockmarked landscape can be escalated into legislation, many companies have begun programs to collect the litter and, in an old business tradition, try to make a buck by reusing, or recycling it.

General Motors this week began a project in Traverse City, Mich. to test the economics of collecting and processing junk cars. Only 2,000 to 3,000 abandoned cars litter the area, but it is the collection method that is being tested.

Glass companies are trying to make old bottles useful and have determined that they may be ground and recycled as an ingredient of highways rather than as litter along them. Same with rubber tires.

Not certain any more that their responsibility ends with the successful use of their products, can makers are attempting to set up reclamation systems for their products after the contents have been drained.

Reynolds Metals learned from a pilot program in Los Angeles that the public, when offered 1/2 cent for an old aluminum can, will willingly help clear away litter. Expansion into 17 states is set for this year.

A rival manufacturer, Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical, recently announced a recycling program in the San Francisco Bay Area that offers individuals and groups 10 cents a pound for all-aluminum cans.

Kaiser's cost estimates suggest that the problem of litter not only is an unsightly one but terribly wasteful. M.D. Eisele, chairman of the project, estimates that $1 million in cans is tossed away in the Bay Area each year.

The makers of steel cans also are active. Continental Can Co. recently supplied 30 tons of scrap beer cans to a National Steel Corp. facility in Weirton, W. Va., where they were mixed with other ingredients to produce steel sheets.

The experiment was made in an attempt to overcome some of the problems of using scrap, such as contamination from other metals and from the enamels and paints applied to attract the eye of retail customers.

'Pull' Helps The Russian

By DUSKO DODER
MOSCOW (UPI) — A little pull helps in Russia, too. And no one knows this better than the man who wants to buy an automobile.

Pravda, the communist party newspaper, cited chapter and verse in complaining about the run-around ordinary mortals who wish to buy automobiles are getting compared to those who seem to know the right people.

For instance in the city of Vladimir, Pravda reported, the chief of the fire department at a local factory was able to jump a long list of "waiting" car buyers and get himself an auto. The average citizen of Vladimir, said the newspaper, could wait up to 100 years for a clean, low mileage. 752-6440.

Pravda was not, apparently, satisfied with the explanation that the lucky fireman got his automobile "in connection with the forthcoming 50th anniversary of Soviet fire services."

And it had other cases in its dossier, including that of Iza I. Berezina, a lady who bought a car through connections in the Sabinski City Council. Then there was the case of Yuri Zhdanov, an engineer who was 40th on the waiting list for a new Moskvitch last year. He was mysteriously dropped to 148th place this year. By contrast a "citizen Shukalov" who was 97th on the waiting list last year, managed to buy a car this year "with the help of the director of Vladimir's car shop."

Lining up to wait for things is a way of life in the Soviet Union where a shopper can wait hours to buy meat, bread or just about anything else. But, Pravda implied, fair is fair.

To top it all, Pravda found there exists a public committee charged with keeping a vigilant eye on the auto waiting list. Pravda described this commission as "a very curious public unit of mysterious origin," whose members "long ago bought themselves automobiles."

Oil was discovered in the Persian Gulf in 1951.
