

Explosions, Fire Destroy Chemical Firm

A HELPING HAND... Fellow firemen give Yarrell oxygen as Ormond lies on the ground, behind. The men were overcome by smoke and heat at the V-C fire.

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

A spectacular blaze, punctuated by a series of explosions, destroyed the V-C Chemical Co. on Howell Street last night.

Estimates of the loss of the building and machinery housed in it totaled $100,000.

Firemen were called to the blaze at 10:17 p.m.

Officers said when trucks pulled from the station, firemen could see smoke billowing from the business and by the time fire units had driven a block from the central fire station flames could be seen.

When firemen arrived at the scene some 1/4 miles from the station, the rear portion of the wooden structure "was falling in", officers noted.

Firefighters were hampered in their efforts to cool the fire and prevent its spread by exploding methel bromide gas cylinders. Both large and small containers of the soil fumigant ignited in the fire.

The valve end of one of the large cylinders severed from the body of contained by an explosion, narrowly missed Fire Department captain Claude Christopher and volunteer fireman Jesse Jones as it ignited through the air.

One large liquid nitrogen fertilizer storage tank ruptured from the heat but did not explode.

Two firemen, William Yarrell and Richard Ormond, were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment after being overcome by smoke and heat while a third firefighter, Dewey Hardison, was treated for a fall. All were released following treatment.

Fire officers said the cause of the fire is under investigation. V-C officials this morning said the fire apparently started in the rear, three-story section of the large building. They said no electric wiring was in that portion of the building.

Company spokesmen could give no estimate of the loss to the old wooden structure, although Pitt County tax records indicate that the structure was valued at $40,000 and machinery and equipment in the plant, used to bag fertilizer, was valued at $60,000.

The front portion of the structure was approximately 40 feet by 120 feet while the rear portion, a three - story section, was about 120 feet by 130 feet, and contained elevators and bagging machinery and storage for bulk fertilizer.

In addition to the building, fertilizer and farm chemicals destroyed, three trucks parked on the V-C lot were damaged.

Approximately 1,000 to 1,200 tons of fertilizer were contained in the building, spokesmen noted.

The company offices, located in a separate building, were not damaged.

In addition to Greenville firemen, trucks and men from Winterville, Staton-House and Farmville responded to the fire. The Staton-House and Farmville units were used on a stand-by basis to answer other calls while the Farmville truck was used at the fire scene.

Both fire and police officials expressed concern this morning over traffic problems encountered in last night's blaze.

All streets leading to the fire scene were congested — many blocked — by sightseers after the alarm was sounded. Many firemen not responding with the first-in fire trucks were forced to park blocks from the fire due to the traffic.

The Greenville City Code makes it a misdemeanor for vehicles not on official business to follow fire trucks closer than one block or drive or park without one block of fire trucks when fire apparatus has stopped in answer to an alarm.

The code also makes it a violation of the law to drive over fire hose laid by firemen to combat a blaze.

A HOT TIME... Firefighters, holding heavy hose lines, play cooling water on flames leaping from the blazing fertilizer building.

Superspy Satellite Launched

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

— The Air Force today rocketed a secret spy satellite into space to gather a vast amount of intelligence data about Russia, Red China, North Vietnam and other potential trouble spots.

A towering Atlas-Agena rocket blazed away from Cape Kennedy about 7:39 a.m. EDT to propel the superspy toward a near stationary outpost some 20,000 miles above Southeast Asia.

The Air Force clamped a secrecy label on the launching and made no advance announcement.

Sources reported the satellite is the first of an operational series whose main job is to provide early warning of an enemy missile attack either from land or submarine.

They said the 26-foot long Agena carried a television camera to spot missile sites, air bases, troop movements and other military installations and infrared and X-ray sensors to detect the exhaust of a rising rocket.

It was the third secret launch of an Atlas-Agena from Cape Kennedy in 22 months. The sources reported the two earlier satellites, fired Aug. 6, 1968, and last April 19, were experimental prototypes for the payload lofted today.

Both prototypes were placed in near stationary orbit above Southeast Asia, their speed synchronized with that of the rotating earth so they would hover always over that area of the globe.

Convene Saturday

The Biennial Pitt County Convention is scheduled to meet tomorrow at 1:00 p.m. at the Pitt County Courthouse. Hugh Winslow, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Pitt County Democratic Party, announced this and two other party meetings slated to be held in the coming weeks.

Following the county meeting, the First Congressional District Convention is slated for the following Saturday, June 27, again at 1:00 p.m. This meeting is to take place in the Greenville Moose Lodge.

The final of the three conventions will be the Biennial State Convention, which will be held on Bastille Day, July 14, at the Memorial Auditorium in Raleigh beginning at 11:00 a.m.

Spotty Truce In Miami's Unrest

MIAMI (AP) — Police gambled with a relaxed curfew and won a spotty truce today in black neighborhoods raked by four nights of shooting, looting and firebombing.

Violence fell off to scattered incidents of sniping and fire bombing.

Research Fails To Confirm

NEW YORK (AP)—The Council for Tobacco Research-U.S.A. says findings from research it sponsored during the last 15 years do not confirm statistical evidence incriminating smoking as a cause of lung cancer, heart disease and a chronic lung disease.

The council's 1968-69 annual report issued Thursday by its scientific director, Dr. Clarence Cook Little, said, "It is an accepted fact that a statistical association is not necessarily one of causation."

The council, a research-oriented organization supported by tobacco manufacturers, growers and warehousemen, has made grants totaling $14.5 million since 1954.

The funds went to 239 independent scientists working in 186 hospitals, universities and research institutions. These researchers published 728 scientific papers.

"We are not dealing with simple diseases and we cannot expect simple answers," said the council's report, and "it is apparent from the great amount of research reported so far that a variety of genetic and environmental factors may be involved."

It said "members of the board and of other scientific organizations are optimistic that answers will be found" to lung cancer, heart disease and other diseases.

Grants Receive Agency Okay

A $1,780 grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development to assist in the acquisition and development of a mini-park site in Farmville has been announced by Congressman Walter B. Jones.

According to the announcement, the grant will go towards buying the one-half acre tract of land in South Farmville and also help to cover the cost of grading, adding playground equipment and fencing the area.

Farmville Town Clerk, Carl Beaman, said this morning that the town hopes to buy a tract of land located on Wallace Street on the north side of the H. B.

Postal Reform Bill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here are the major provisions of the postal-reform-pay boost bill passed by the House Thursday night:

Reform

Creates new service to put the mails on a self-supporting basis by 1978 through corporate powers to set mail rates covering costs—subject to veto by Congress; negotiate pay with postal unions, and sell up to $10 billion in bonds.

The new service will be run by an 11-man board. President appoints nine members who select postmaster general to run day-to-day operations. The 10 select an 11th member, the deputy postmaster general.

Politics

End's Congress' 181-years control over the mails, takes the postmaster general out of the President's Cabinet, ends congressmen's patronage voice in postmaster appointments.

Labor-Management

Turns postal unions into the same kind of collective-bargaining agents as those in private industry—but provides binding arbitration in lieu of the right to strike.

Continues present mandate that employees are free to join unions or not as they choose.

Pay

Boosts pay 8 per cent, retroactive to April 18, at an estimated cost of $538 million for the full fiscal year starting July 1 plus $107 million for the retroactivity.

Electricity And Water Demands Are Increasing

With Greenville already experiencing temperatures that are normally expected in the mid and late summer months, local water and electrical demands show an increase over last summer's rates.

Greenville Utilities director Charles Horne said this morning that according to our weather station readings yesterday, a peak temperature of 98 degrees was reached.

Due primarily to Greenville's continued growth, both industrially and residentially, local electrical demands have already reached a 67.2

megawatt demand as compared to a peak usage of 60.2 megawatts last summer.

Horne noted that "we are prepared for this growth and continued load on our electrical service."

The 6.2 megawatts increase over last summer's peak represents a figure more than the combined demand of both Winterville and Ayden, he said. Burroughs Wellcome alone requires approximately 2.0 megawatts, a substantial increase over previous industrial demands in that area.

"We haven't reached our peak yet in electrical usage," Horne cautioned. He estimated that the heaviest period will occur sometime late in July or early in August, depending on the weather and electrical loads. The tobacco season also creates additional demands on the local power load, he said.

Compared to the daily water usage peak of 4.6 million gallons a day during last July, he added. The city has already experienced a 5.0 million gallons-a-day load this summer. This peak occurred on Wednesday with approximately 200,000 gallons attributed to the fire fighting demands on that night.

The director pointed out that there is no concern on the part of local Utilities officials regarding the water situation. "We are capable of providing more than six million gallons a day," he said, and so far local water demands have been met.

Horne said that current plans (Continued on page 6)

Area Farms Show Lack Of Rain

RAIN IS NEEDED... for many Pitt County tobacco fields such as the one above where blossoms are beginning to appear while the tobacco is still small.

"In some areas the situation is approaching the critical stage," Sam J. Weeks, Agriculture Extension Agent in Charge of Tobacco Work said about the prospect for tobacco at this time.

"The situation varies from farm to farm," Weeks noted, "but in general most all farms are very much in need of rain." Weeks said that in some parts of Pitt County a good rain fell Thursday a week ago which was in time to be of real help. Other areas of the county, he noted, received a good rainfall Wednesday. In the Greenville area only one-tenth of an inch was recorded on Wednesday.

"The condition of the tobacco crop depends on many factors," Weeks commented. "The type of soil, whether dry-natured or not, and the degree of maturity of the tobacco are very important at this point." By "degree of maturity" Weeks explained that in the absence of adequate rain, tobacco nearer the mature stage suffered more than younger fields of tobacco. "In effect, tobacco which was planted early and is now reaching the blossoming stage stands to suffer most."

He noted that he has seen a number of fields where the bottom leaves are yellowing and beginning to burn. "However," Weeks said, "it would be of no advantage of attempt to harvest these now, as the leaves above would only suffer."

"In general, the situation varies a lot throughout the county, but a good rain at this time would eliminate what is now developing into a serious situation for a number of farmers."

Staff Planning Family Survey

The staff of the Redevelopment Commission will make a 100 percent family survey during the next four to six weeks.

The commission asks that the citizens living in the areas of the General Neighborhood Renewal Project cooperate with the staff members.

The first area to be surveyed will be the Cherry View area. Other areas will be considered to be included in the survey, but the extent of the survey area has not been determined at this time.

The information to be asked in the survey is necessary to make applications to start the first rehabilitation project now being studied.

For the 12th consecutive year, Mrs. Robert Lee Humber has accepted the chairmanship of the Greenville observance of United Nations Day on October 24.

Mayor Frank M. Wooten, Jr., is again asking Mrs. Humber to serve, said, "we are fortunate in having Mrs. Humber to head observances in Greenville. She and her husband, Dr. Robert Lee Humber, represent both the cultural and economic ties which Greenville has with the concept of the United Nations."

"Because of their devoted concern for the arts and also in their having lived abroad, the Humber exemplify the idea of international citizens." (Mrs. Humber is a native of Paris, France).

Referring to the fact that this year the U.N. will observe its 25th anniversary, Mayor Wooten compared the Greenville community to that of a small-scale showcase of an international colony.

"Because of East Carolina University being located here, and having a number of distinguished foreigners on its faculty, the international ties we have through the tobacco markets, and the presence of Voice of America personnel, we are an unusual example of a small community with a truly international outlook," Mayor Wooten commented. "This is fortunate for Greenville, and gives us a particular reason to make every effort to recognize the importance of our position in the community of nations."

Mrs. Humber said "I am sincerely delighted to serve once more in this capacity and will endeavor to make the observance of the 25th anniversary of the United Nations a memorable occasion for Greenville."

Only She Can Tell If Hubby Cheats

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband is very good looking and is on the lying side of 50. He doesn't look like the swinging type, but I wouldn't put a thing past him. He gives a rather attractive, youngish divorcee, who works in his office building, a ride home nearly every evening. He doesn't accept any pay, but he does sometimes stop at her apartment for a drink (he says) now and then.

He's never more than half an hour late in getting home. Do you think he could be unfaithful to me in half an hour?

CAL'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I don't know. He's your husband, lady. Could he?

DEAR ABBY: Leonard and I have been married for 2 years. We plan to go east this summer (we live in California) to visit my grandparents and other relatives who have never met Leonard. They are good, but very conservative people.

My problem: Leonard has hair almost to his shoulders. I think he should cut it before he goes east. His hair has never been a sore point between us, but I feel that if he cuts it before he goes, he will make a better impression on my relatives. Leonard and I talked about it, and he doesn't want to cut his hair. He says if I loved him I wouldn't ask him to cut his hair. I say it will grow back in time, and it's not too much to ask. Can you help us reach a decision?

CALIFORNIA

DEAR CAL: Since Leonard doesn't want to cut his hair, don't "ask" him to cut it. For the sake of making a "better" impression, you are asking him to make a false one.

DEAR ABBY: I have some friends on the mainland who give my name and telephone number to every Tom, Dick, and Harry from their hometowns who come over here on vacations.

When these strangers call me with "regards" from our mutual friends, I am always very friendly on the phone, but I know they are disappointed when I don't offer to "show them around" or entertain them in some way. But Abby, I just can't do it. I have enough relatives and friends of my own who come here, and with a busy husband and four children (two toddlers) I can't be an unofficial tourist guide for strangers. Altho I feel no obligation to people I don't even know, I feel guilty when I say "good-bye."

How would YOU handle this situation?

BUSY IN HONOLULU

DEAR BUSY: Just as you're handling it. And you needn't feel guilty. It's presumptuous for one to give your name and telephone number to every "Tom, Dick, and Harry" without your permission.

BLUEBERRIES

Mmm, mm, good! That's the way most of us react to fresh blueberries and the many delectable dishes that can be prepared from them.

Good news to many is the fact that blueberries are relatively low in calories. A cup of fresh berries contains only 85 calories. This means they can be sprinkled in muffin batter, put on cereal, added to fruit cups or salads without running up the calories to any extent.

Blueberries also freeze well by packing unsweetened or by covering the packaged berries with a syrup made from 2 cups sugar and 3 cups water.

The recipe below is one of several found in Extension Bulletin 264 which may be obtained by writing or calling the Home Agents Office 758-1196.

BLUEBERRY CRUMCAKE

1½ cups fresh blueberries
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ cup water
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 egg

2 cups packaged biscuit mix
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup milk

TOPPING

½ cup packaged biscuit mix
¼ cup sugar

1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

1. In small saucepan, combine blueberries, cornstarch, and lemon peel. Cook, stirring, over medium heat, until mixture begins to boil and becomes thickened and translucent. Let cool.

2. Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Grease a 9-inch round layer-cake pan.

3. In medium bowl, combine biscuit mix and sugar. With pastry blender or 2 knives, cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse meal.

4. Add egg and milk, stirring until thoroughly combine.

5. Pat dough on bottom and side of prepared pan. (it will come three quarters of the way up side.) Pour blueberry mixture into pan.

6. Make topping: In small bowl, combine all ingredients; toss lightly, with fork, until mixture is crumbly. Sprinkle evenly over blueberry mixture.

7. Bake 20 minutes, or until topping is golden. Cool on wire rack.

Dr. Green Is BPW Speaker Thursday Night

Dr. C. Sylvester Green was keynote speaker at the Thursday night meeting of the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club held at the Women's Club.

Dr. Green, who is with the Pitt County Development Commission, spoke on industrial development in the county. The program was sponsored by the Civic Participation Committee with Mrs. Elvira Allred, chairman. She introduced W. W. Speight, local attorney, who then introduced Dr. Green.

The development of the Pitt County Committee came into being in 1957 said Dr. Green. He stated that there are 112 new industrial plants which have located in Pitt County in the last 10 years. Industry in the last 10 years has brought into the county, 75 million dollars with 7,451 new employments here now.

Greenville, as well as the other towns and communities of Pitt are growing by virtue of interested people in the different communities, he added.

President Doris Marlow presided at the meeting. Plans were made for N. C. Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs 51st state convention. The convention was held Thursday through Sunday in Winston-Salem.

'Persuasion' Is Dubious Tool

President Nixon in his Wednesday economic talk vowed not to "take this nation down the road of wage and price controls."

At the same time, however, he recognized that rapidly rising wages and prices are threatening the nation's economic well being.

The president announced that a National Commission on Productivity is to be named to find ways of increasing worker output to bring about a better balance between cost and productivity.

He directed the Council of Economic Advisors to prepare a periodic "inflation alert" to spotlight wage and price bulges.

He also authorized setting up a Regulations and Purchasing Review Board to review federal purchasing procedures and assure that they do not drive up costs and prices.

As every citizens knows some stringent fiscal policies have sent interest rates to new highs, stock prices to lows and cut into corporate profits. As all this has occurred, wage settlements have been huge and for all of us living cost have continued to shoot upward.

Some of what the president proposed as further weapons in the inflation fight may work, but we doubt that governmental persuasion is going to be extremely effective in holding down wage settlements. And as big wage settlements are won prices are going to continue to rise.

Where all this will lead only time will tell. However, the time may come when the administration will have to decide on firm wage and price controls or risk the dangers of allowing inflation to continue unchecked.

Everyone Should Be Concerned For POWs

The Jaycees and the North Carolina National Guard have taken on a worthwhile project in seeking signatures on a petition to show concern for captive U.S. servicemen in North Vietnam.

The loss of these men is one of the saddest parts of America's involvement in the Vietnam war. Some of them have been there for years and there seems to be no hope for their early release. Many will die in captivity and never see their homeland again. In the meantime their families wait and hope for some good news.

Everyone should be concerned for these Americans who are captives of North Vietnam, regardless of whether we oppose or support the war effort.

These American prisoners of war lost all of their civil liberties and through no fault of their own.

Fathers Have Big Investment

By BRYAN HANSLIP

RALEIGH — Some rather sobering facts to ponder for Father's Day have been issued by the National Consumer Finance Association.

The June issue of its monthly publication, Finance Facts, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture has estimated that the cost of raising a child to age 18 in the South is about $21,360.

That's quite an investment. Knowing your child is walking around representing all that cash (actual or potential) can't help but make you look at fatherhood in a slightly different light.

It also gives me some second (but familiar) thoughts about the vagrancies of the federal government. While one official agency estimates a dependent costs about $1,200 a year to maintain, Congress and the Internal Revenue Service stick with a measly $600 deduction for income tax purposes.

The USDA estimate is based on the department's low-cost food plan and other expenditures of equivalent standard. I imagine that means it's a pretty minimum figure. Costs vary, of course, between different areas of the country and between rural and urban families.

For example, estimated costs adjusted to the value of 1969 dollars for the first 18 years of life range from $19,360 for a rural nonfarm (suburban child in the North Central region to $25,000 for a rural nonfarm child in the West.

following observations.

Obviously, we don't put a price tag on parenthood. When you first see that tiny bundle of humanity entrusted to your care, no adding machine in the mind starts clicking off the cost of raising it to adulthood. You're more likely to wonder how you could ever have been lucky enough to be chosen for its father, and to say a small prayer for both of you.

A daughter's good night kiss, an afternoon fishing with a son, the family together in church — I'd want those experiences no matter what the cost.

But for a moment, think of it in economic terms.

Who would invest $20,000 in the stock of a company and then forget it? With that kind of stake, you'd want to know what the company was doing and how it was making out. You'd read the quarterly reports, attend the stockholders' meeting, and be pretty attentive to protect and enhance your investment.

Your children, and the share of your financial resources they represent, deserve at least the same kind of attention. They need a father's active interest, understanding and encouragement. At the risk of dating myself in the current age of permissiveness, I'd even add guidance and discipline.

A child is an individual, not a portfolio. Developing that individuality, watching it unfold in the ability to make decisions and to express itself with imagination and creativity, is the essence of the parent's return on investment.

That means listening as well as talking to. It means accepting as well as giving advice. Sometimes it means swallowing hard and letting them learn for themselves.

As a father, I'd like for children to be aware of what their parents have invested in them. Money is a part, but there also are the years of basic care, and the emotional outlay of love and concern.

Maybe recognition on both sides of what is at stake could calm some of the rebellion which seems to be the hallmark of parent - youth relationships today.

The Affair Of James Allen

By ROWLANDE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The 21 days needed by President Nixon to fire Dr. James E. Allen, Jr., after he publicly denounced the Cambodian operation comprise a fair measure of the internal crisis in the Nixon administration.

The plain fact, admitted privately by high officials, is that the White House did not feel strong enough to get rid of Allen until three weeks had passed. With the furies descending upon Mr. Nixon in the wake of Cambodia and Kent State, his inner circle did not want to risk still more abuse from the liberal media and intellectuals.

Moreover, when Allen, finally, on June 10 was sacked as the Administration's chief education officer, the White House was still so insecure that it tried to disconnect the firing from Cambodia. That was less than reassuring to loyal officials who had backed Mr. Nixon's Cambodian move and were shocked at Allen's apostasy.

The Allen affair, then, is an important case study of what ails the Nixon administration: a lack of self-confidence contributing to division at high official levels, widespread demoralization among Nixon loyalists, and a rebellious bureaucracy.

Actually, nobody was more surprised than Allen that he was not bounced immediately on May 21 from his dual job — W.S. Commissioner of Education and Assistant Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) for Education. On that day, he told 400 cheering education civil servants that he opposed the Cambodian operation and the Vietnam war as well.

The same day Allen was summoned to the White House for a 5 o'clock session with Presidential aides. To his surprise, the discussion concerned only education. Cambodia was not mentioned. In fact, no Administration official said a word about Cambodia to Allen until June 10 when Robert Finch, finishing up as Secretary of HEW, fired him under White House orders.

In the interim, Administration officials lamely argued that Allen could oppose Vietnam policy because his official duties did not touch foreign affairs — a claim running counter to established Anglo-American practice. Such reasoning would have stopped President Truman from dismissing Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace for pro-Soviet views.

In truth, the White House was hoping pressure from Allen's anti-war peers in the educational community would force him to resign, avoiding Presidential dirty work and the predictable fusillade from liberals.

This reluctance to fire Allen had nothing to do with job performance. Finch had been badly disappointed by Allen's administrative inadequacy, and even liberal civil servants at HEW conceded his limitations. Thus, fear of political consequences rather than desire to keep him in the government led to Allen's stay of execution.

But any uproar over Allen's immediate dismissal scarcely could have matched the damage caused by the delay. Officials (including Finch) who loyally supported Mr. Nixon on Cambodia, many of them against their own inclinations, were undercut inside the liberal bureaucracy which now began lionizing Allen. Worse yet, Presidential appointee-level officials were puzzled and disheartened by the show of weakness.

By June 9, it was apparent that Allen would not bow out gracefully. The President decided Allen must go before Elliot Richardson took over for Finch.

The coup de grace the next day was graceless. Finch took public responsibility for Allen's dismissal, convincing nobody. In a misguided attempt to avoid the image of stifling dissent, Presidential press secretary Ron Ziegler claimed Allen's inefficiency — not his Cambodian caper — prompted his fall.

"But the real question is not why it took so long to get rid of Allen but why he was appointed in the first place," one high Nixon official told us. However ambiguous Mr. Nixon's views on school desegregation may be, his

A Father Is A Father

WASHINGTON — Sunday is Father's Day and it is not too late to ask:

"What is a father?"

A father is a father regardless of race, creed or color.

A father is someone who comes into the house at the end of the day and is greeted by his wife with the question, "Do you want to hear what your children did today?"

A father is the person who waits up all night until his daughter comes in from a date, and goes right to sleep as soon as his son goes out.

A father is the person the children appeal to when their mother says they can't stay up at night.

He is also the one the mother refers any problems to that she doesn't want to decide, with "Ask your father."

A father is the one who gives children the money to go to a drive-in, where they spend the evening complaining that he doesn't understand them.

A father is the person the name of the car is registered in that his son wants to borrow every night.

A father is someone who can't stand loud rock music blasting from the bedroom at midnight and who is always shouting "Turn it off!"

He is the person who is called to school during the height of his work day to hear that his son or daughter was caught smoking in the washroom.

A father is someone who doesn't trust any boy who takes his daughter for a drive.

A father is a man who doesn't understand why his children don't want to listen to his war stories.

He also is someone who can't fathom why they're not impressed that he lived through a depression or started with nothing.

A father is the dolt on TV who is constantly being outwitted by everyone in the family.

Other Editors Say On Second Thought

(Greensboro Daily News)

Tar Heel Democratic leaders are now wooing Democratic National Chairman Larry O'Brien with all the ardor of a widower in desperate need of a good cook and bottle washer.

And Mr. O'Brien isn't exactly discouraging their advances. He has tentatively agreed to deliver the keynote address at the party's state convention in Raleigh July 13-14. He's also agreed to try to be on hand for a Democratic "extravaganza" next spring somewhere in the eastern part of the state.

Still you could hardly call it a case of love at first sight on the part of state Democratic leaders. The present situation is a turnaround from the days back in February when the Democrats were desperately trying to find a man to replace Senator Fred Harris of Oklahoma in the chairman's job.

North Carolina party organization men, in particular State Executive Director Charles Barbour, were calling for the sort of "moderate" who would pay more attention to Southern conservatives than to Northern liberals. Some Tar Heel Democrats didn't think Mr.

O'Brien could fill the bill because of his past close association with Presidents Lyndon Johnson and John Kennedy.

But now that Mr. O'Brien is the chairman the former doubters are warming up to him as they see more of him. They are discovering the truth of something that State Democratic Chairman Gene Simmons was saying all along: Mr. O'Brien is a real pro.

Mr. Simmons, in fact, believes Mr. O'Brien can help the state party bring back to the fold those Eastern North Carolina Democrats who eloped with George Wallace in 1968. With that end in view, he has asked Mr. O'Brien to be the main speaker at the "extravaganza" scheduled for next spring. "I want to show the people in the East that the leaders of the national party in Washington don't have horns and we can all get together," Mr. Simmons said.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Simmons and Mr. O'Brien can get the state and national parties together again. If the North Carolina Democratic Party has a future it will be within the framework of the national organization and not with the Lester Maddox-John McKeithen axis.

Worry Can Be A Habit

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — What are your plans for summer worrying?

Some human workhorses like to do heavy worrying all year round. Their brows are as wrinkled and their shoulders as bent with the world's problems in July as they are in February.

This doesn't make much sense. When warm winds blow, flowers bloom, and the sun shines all day long, it becomes much more difficult to worry productively.

Naturally no conscientious worrier ever wants to throw away his troubles altogether, but what he can do is shelve some of the heavier ones during the hot season and face them next October when he'll feel stronger.

Which ones to keep and which to postpone? Ah, that's another worry in itself, isn't it?

Here, however, is a suggested list of fascinating problems you can knit your eyebrows over later without destroying the batting average of your worrying.

Is mankind's spiritual poverty hereditary or acquired?

Will Cassius Clay ever fight another fight outside a courtroom?

If we don't shore up the U.S. shoreline faster, will we soon have no shoreline at all?

How much pork can the government pack into one pork barrel?

Suppose your parakeet escapes its cage and is struck dead by a ball while flying over a golf course. Is the golfer legally liable for your loss of the bird's services?

What do women want anyway? Isn't enough ever enough for them?

If you actually tossed a coin into the air 50,000 times, would it come down heads 25,000 times and tails 25,000 times?

Who is minding the store?

In heaven's name, what kind of kids will our present younger generation raise?

Which is the better bargain in a supermarket, a 2½-ounce packet of slivered almonds at 39 cents, or the giant-sized 3½-ounce package at 59 cents?

What will Ralph Nader attack next?

If it turns out that sex isn't here to stay, can we all buy a one-way ticket to wherever it goes?

With all those worries out of the way for a while, a man should be free to deal with a really important summer worry:

How, after paying for the family's vacation, is he ever going to raise the money to buy new shoes to send his children back to school in?

Strength For Today

TODAY'S PROBLEMS

There is continual moaning and groaning going up over the land because of increased and burdensome taxes. Rich and poor alike complain that they are being crushed between an upper and nether millstone. "How are we going to live through it?" they ask. "We still have a mortgage on the house. We have four children who expect to go to college, and no matter what has to be sacrificed the college education will be given to them." But isn't this sort of thinking becoming intolerable?

No one can deny the severity of the situation we confront. Taxes seem to be increasing all the time, with little prospect of any decrease. But let us ask ourselves if any generation in world history ever had the privileges we have today. We live in a free country. There are wars and rumors of war. There are protests peaceful and sometimes violent. Some students of world affairs will go so far as to say that the country has started on a descent that will end up with disaster.

Certainly the situation is painful, troublesome and discouraging — but it is not hopeless. To have the burden of increasing taxation added to an alarming spirit of unrest among persons of all ages, but particularly among youth, is something that will certainly drive us into increased apprehension.

It should not, however, drive us to despair. We have solved other problems and we will solve present problems. This is a great age, and we should be thankful for its privileges no matter how much they cost.

Moonlighting Is On The Rise

By ELMER ROESSNER

Moonlighting is increasing, judging from a survey by the National Industrial Conference Board.

Of 76 corporations expressing opinions, 37 said they believe more employees are holding secondary jobs than they did two years ago;

32 said there had been no change and 7 said there had been a decline.

Those who see an increase usually said that rising cost of living was compelling more people to find extra work; those seeing a decrease said there were fewer opportunities for outside work.

Half of the companies responding indicated that they employ moonlighters themselves, but a third of these said they did not do so "knowingly."

Highly Permissive

In all, Patrick J. Davey and James K. Brown surveyed 136 manufacturing companies. Of these, 32 forbid outside employment and 106 neither explicitly permit or forbid it. Of the latter, 82 have explicit or implicit restraints. The remaining 24 take no notice of it.

Reasons given for a hands-off policy were:

It has not affected the attitude, productivity or conscientiousness of employees.

Employees should spend their free time as they like.

It would be inconsistent to forbid outside employment yet permit employees to do volunteer charity and civic work.

Moonlighting is inevitable with soaring living costs.

Writing in the Conference Board Record, Davey and Brown listed these frequent restraints on outside employment:

Work performed for a competitor, supplier or customer is not permitted.

Employees are expected to be available to work overtime.

Outside employment must be reported and approved.

Outside jobs requiring as many hours as those spent on regular work are proscribed.

Other Faults

Eight corporations explicitly prohibit all outside work. Reasons given were that it is damaging to loyalty and performance; it is an accident hazard; it produces a conflict of interest, and it may result in leaks of company secrets.

Many companies prohibit outside work by executives and certain key employees, some insisting that they sign agreements to avoid conflict of interests, especially by working for a competitor or a company that does business with the prime employer. A few companies added that they will not pay disability benefits to employees hurt while moonlighting.

Firms that hire moonlighters generally said they did so to cope with peak loads, to relieve shortages of skilled workers, as vacation fill-ins, as drivers, as maintenance workers, as guards and as clerical helpers.

Incidentally, while New York City prohibits policemen from most moonlight jobs, it encourages cops to take time-off jobs as taxi drivers. This has cut taxi stickups.

President Didn't Help In Identifying The Enemy

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — A curious omission from President Nixon's strategy against inflation is his reluctance to describe the enemy in terms that would help identify it for his fellow Americans in business and labor.

In his address on inflation and economic policy, the President stated:

"Now is the time for business at every level to take price actions more consistent with a stable cost of living. Now is the time for labor to structure its wage demands to better achieve a new stability of costs."

But is there a businessman who can say specifically what price action the nation expects of him? And if he does decide to sacrifice his company's profits for a greater good, how does he explain it to the directors?

Is there a union leader who can, in clear conscience, decide to sacrifice a few cents on a wage agreement in order to make his contribution to stability? And if there is, how much should he sacrifice?

The President does recognize that such criteria can be developed, for he has advised his Council of Economic Advisers to prepare a periodic inflation alert. Oddly, however, the alert will come after the event.

In other words, the council "will spotlight significant areas of wage and price increases and objectively analyze their impact on the price level." But presumably after the damage has been done.

The inflation alert, therefore, will be unlike smog, tornado, air raid or any other alerts that man has devised to warn of impending danger.

For months the President has resisted suggestions that he provide some clear criterion that would permit business and labor leaders to judge, in advance, the inflationary potential of their price and wage demands.

Such a criterion would suggest guidelines, and the President has scorned a guidelines policy as "an attempt to dictate specific prices and wages without authority of law."

But guidelines are not dictates, as President Johnson found out. Johnson made the error of thinking that the government could continue to spend heavily and avoid inflation because, he believed, business and labor could be restrained by guidelines.

He soon found out differently. Neither business nor labor ever accepted his criteria of inflation as dictatorial—only suggestive. And when they no longer could accept this suggestion, they simply ignored the guidelines.

Business and labor leaders today can rely on no simple indicator for determining the disruptive potential of their acts. And neither does the public. As Dr. Walter Heller, economic adviser to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, puts it: "Nobody has defined the sin."

It isn't that business and labor don't believe the President's warning:

"If you act against the national interest, if you contribute to inflation in your price or wage demands, then you are acting against your own best interest, and your customer's best interest."

They want to know how to identify the crime before it's committed.

Sees Continuing Need For PCA

Farmers, growers and ranchers' needs for operating and capital investment credit on an intermediate term basis will continue to expand at a rapid pace in the years ahead, according to Alton Gardner, president of the Pitt-Greene Production Credit Association.

Gardner, who just returned from Atlanta, Ga., where he and other officials of the Pitt-Greene PCA attended the annual conference of Production Credit Associations directors and general managers, feels the association along the PCAs throughout the nation will continue to play a vital part in providing agriculture with a permanent and dependable source of credit.

"PCAs in the Third Farm Credit District are gearing their operations to meet the future credit needs of farmers, growers and ranchers by adjusting and revising credit procedures as necessary and through annual management training institutes for all PCA personnel," Gardner said.

The Third Farm Credit District is composed of the states of Florida, Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina.

The 60 Production Credit Associations operating in the district are furnishing nearly 45,000 farmer - members with over $600 million in short and intermediate term credit.

The Pitt - Greene PCA is currently serving 824 farmers with loans totaling $8,611,000 in Pitt and Greene Counties.

Other officials attending the conference included: W. F. Welfare Jr., Snow Hill, vice president; Chester Don Worthington, Rt. 1, Greenville, director; David Harold Smith, Rt. 2, Ayden, director; Charles H. Harper, Rt. 2, Snow Hill, director; F. L. Little, general manager.

The association's home office is located in Greenville and the branch office is located in Snow Hill, manager by Arnold Parris.

Warrants Issued In Larceny Case

Warrants have been issued for the arrest of two persons here in connection with the larceny of two air conditioners from the First Pentecostal Holiness Church here Tuesday night.

According to Chief T. E. Gladson, the theft was reported to police at 10:50 p.m.

A warrant charging Rudolph Tyson Jr., Negro of 1200 A Glen Arthur Ave. with breaking, entering and larceny has been issued as had a warrant charging Cynthia S. McCrae Tyson, Negro of 1200 A Glenn Arthur Ave., with receiving stolen goods.

Entrance to the church, at 1301 South Cotanche St. was gained by prying open a rear door.

Two air conditioners located on the second floor of the church had been removed and a third unit damaged, officers reported.

The two cooling units were recovered by officers Wednesday — along with four rifles and two shotguns stolen from a Route 4, Greenville home — at 1200A Glen Arthur Ave.

The weapons, investigators said, had been taken from the Charles Wall residence sometime after noon Monday, but had not been reported stolen.

Pitt County Sheriff's Department spokesmen said Wall and his wife had been away from their home since Monday and were not aware of the theft.

The recovered weapons included four heavy - caliber rifles and two shotguns.

Investigation of that case is continuing.

Claims All Should Share Hospital Service Costs

RALEIGH (AP) — The executive director of the North Carolina Hospital Association says hospital services costs should be shared by all citizens.

Marion Foster told a one-man subcommittee of the Local Government Study Commission Thursday that people who can afford to pay their own hospital bills are in a "double jeopardy" situation.

He said that when they pay their own bills, they usually are helping pay hospitalization for indigent patients because "government at all levels is not supplying sufficient funds to do the job."

Health services, Foster said, should be available to all people regardless of their ability to pay.

However, that "does not mean," he added, "that hospitals and other providers of these services should be forced to charge those who are able to pay at rates which will underwrite not only the cost of their own services but also the services to those unable to pay."

Foster appeared before Kenly Mayor Gilbert Whitley, a one-man subcommittee looking into the government's role in "personal services," such as health, hospitals and welfare.

Meanwhile, Dr. Ronald Levine of the state Board of Health told Whitley it is "imperative" that the 1971 General Assembly appropriate more state funds to support local health services in the state's 100 counties.

Levine, director of the board's community health division, said, "County government is now contributing a full 85 per cent of the cost of operation of local public health services. Only 20 years ago, state funds accounted for more than 26 per cent of the total."

Dr. James Osberg, eastern regional commissioner for the North Carolina Department of Mental Health, said many smaller, poorer counties have difficulty raising local matching funds for mental health programs.

I have served on many committees with her and have found her to be conscientious, energetic and effective.

A native of Virginia, Dr. Rosenfeld was educated at Radford College, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Columbia University and Pennsylvania State University. Before coming to East Carolina, she taught at Mansfield State College (Pa.), Pennsylvania State University and Kansas State University.

She is married to Dr. Norman Rosenfeld, associate professor in the ECU Department of English. They have one daughter.

Reorganization By R.J. Reynolds Co.

WINSTON - SALEM (AP) — A corporate reorganization will result in R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. becoming a wholly owned subsidiary of newly formed R. J. Reynolds Industries, Inc., June 29.

The reorganization of the company, which has annual sales and revenues in excess of $2.2 billion, was approved by shareholders April 22.

In May, 1969, shareholders approved the name change, but in October the company said it was planning a major corporate reorganization.

Alexander H. Galloway will head Reynolds Industries as chairman and chief executive officer, and David S. Peoples will be president and chief administrative officer.

Plan Now For School Buses

RALEIGH (AP) — Dr. Craig Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction, asked local school superintendents today to begin arranging to provide free bus transportation this fall to all urban school children living 1½ miles or farther from school.

In a memorandum sent the local officials, Phillips said they could plan to transport the approximately 57,000 additional children through the acquisition of additional school buses or by contracting with local bus companies.

Phillips noted that the North Carolina Board of Education is expected to meet July 2 to adopt a policy for the allotment of state funds to pay the costs when local bus companies are used to transport the children. The bus firms' rates are subject to approval by the state Utilities Commission.

If additional school buses are used, the local units will bear the cost of purchasing them and the state will pay the operating costs.

"... If you have not already done so, you should place orders with the (state) Division of Purchase and contract for the additional school buses that you plan to operate for the transportation of additional children in your school unit," Phillips wrote the local school officials.

Phillips noted the state Board of Education now has on hand 105 new buses and that by mid-August 289 of 665 new buses ordered as replacements will be ready. Phillips also estimated that 400 old buses which had been scheduled to be taken out of service this year "could be safely used if necessary on a temporary basis" for transportation of urban children.

"It is expected that county boards of education will service and maintain additional buses that city boards of education may need to operate within the same county," Phillips wrote. "County and city superintendents should confer on this matter."

School bus service for the additional urban children looms as the result of a recent federal court order directing the state to cease discriminating in the transportation of these children. In the past, some 41,000 urban children living in recently annexed areas have been provided public transportation while the 57,000 children living in older sections of the cities had to provide their own transportation.

Hearing On Rates

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Utilities Commission opened a hearing today on a request by Carolina Power & Light Co. for an emergency interim 4 per cent rate boost.

In asking for the hike, CP&L told the commission it needs the added revenues immediately and can not wait for the 10.5 per cent general rate increase the company has requested.

CP&L has asked that the interim boost go into effect July 1. It would increase the company's revenues by approximately $2.9 million during the remainder of 1970.

Hearing on the company's general rate increase is scheduled for Sept. 29.

The interim increase would be added to the general increase for a total boost of 14.5 per cent if the utilities commission approves them both.

Kinston Stops Legion String With 3-2 Win; Tarboro Next

KINSTON — Kinston's American Legion Post 43 baseball team handed Greenville's Post 39 its second loss of the season last night, 3-2.

The loss dropped the Greenville record to 5-2 for the season and snapped a four-game winning streak.

Kinston unloaded its bats in the game, banging out 11 hits. Nine of those came in the first four innings before Benny Knox came in to put out the fire with four and two-third innings of scoreless ball. He allowed only two hits the rest of the way. It was the first appearance for Knox, who joined the team after his Robersonville Rams were beaten in the finals of the State Class A playoffs.

Kinston took the lead in the game in the second inning. That came on a home run by Lew Paylor over the left field wall. Charles Eubanks followed that up with the second Kinston double of the game, and an infield hit by Bryan Barrow moved him to third. Allen Sasser walked, loading the bases, but the next batter grounded out, getting starter Jimmy Bond out of further trouble at that point. Greenville then came back with a run in the top of the third to tie it up. Russ Smith led off with a single to right center. He stole second and moved into third on Eddie Vincent's ground out. Tony Whitehurst walked and moved to second on a wild pitch. Smith started in but the ball bounced off the wall behind the plate and Smith had to hustle back to third. The pickoff attempt to get him was thrown away, however, and he turned back around and came in this time scoring.

In the fourth, Kinston moved ahead for good, getting two more runs. Dick Riggs singled to left and Sasser followed with another hit. Riggs moved into third, and Sasser scampered down to second as the throw went to third. The throw, however, was off target, and Riggs continued on in with the go-ahead run, while Sasser drove into third. Mike Hatcher followed up with a single to center, scoring Sasser with the winning run.

Greenville came back in the seventh with its other run, but couldn't close the gap. Alan Wilson was hit by a pitch and stole second. Tommy Durham singled, and Kim Harbin laid down a bunt, scoring Wilson from third and cutting the lead to 3-2. But that was to be it. Kinston kept Greenville from scoring again, and wrapped up the win.

Greenville continues on the road, traveling to Tarboro tonight and then returning home on Saturday for a 5 p.m. game at East Carolina against the Pamlico All-Stars. They are also home Sunday at East Carolina field, meeting Wilson at 2 p.m.

The Tarboro encounter is the final away game in the league schedule, with all remaining games at home.

The Jaycees kept their slim hopes alive in the North State Little League race with a 6-0 victory over the Lions yesterday.

Gardner Feels Merger Close

CHARLOTTE (AP) —American Basketball Association and Carolina Cougars president Jim Gardner says he expects his team to eventually become part of the National Basketball Association's Southern Division if a merger agreement is fulfilled between the ABA and the NBA.

Gardner said Thursday that actual play between the two leagues' teams should begin in 1973. He said other teams in the Southern division would probably be Miami, Dallas, Atlanta, Baltimore and possibly a regional franchise in Virginia.

Gardner emphasized that merger details don't change the Cougars' contract with Billy Cunningham of the NBA's Philadelphia 76ers. He added, "As long as I've got the team, we'll never relinquish him."

To a man with emphysema, a flight of stairs is Mt. Everest.

If you have emphysema or other chronic lung problems, you know what it's like to climb a flight of stairs. And you probably don't know what it's like to play a round of golf or even take a walk.

Union Carbide's Linde Division has developed a portable liquid oxygen system which many doctors prescribe for their patients.

It weighs less than 9 pounds full. Set the oxygen at the flow your doctor tells you to. And you can do many of the things you did before.

Sure, we've oversimplified the whole thing. We're not going to go on and on about all the Union Carbide technology that makes the Oxygen Walker possible.

It's just one of the things we're doing with air.

We separate and purify nitrogen, argon, neon and krypton for industry. We make liquid nitrogen systems for everything from refrigeration to surgery. We make mixtures for underwater divers.

It makes sense that if we can help a diver dive to 1000 feet, we can give a man with emphysema the air to get to the top of the stairs.

Freehan Paces Votes In American League

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Freehan, the Detroit Tigers' All-Star catcher for six consecutive American League seasons in player balloting, was the people's choice to make it seven in a row, drawing the most votes in the first weekly release announced today by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The National League's initial returns were announced Monday for the 41st mid-season classic between the two major leagues. The game will be played July 14 in Cincinnati's new Riverfront Stadium.

With the voting turned over to the fans for the first time since 1957, Freehan drew 265,258 of the 491,548 votes cast. Elrod Hendricks of Baltimore was a distant second at catcher with 36,555 votes.

Boog Powell, Baltimore's slugging first baseman was the second biggest vote-getter, gaining 255,515. Rod Carew, the Minnesota Twins' second baseman and current league batting leader with a .364 mark, was next with 236,938 votes.

The rest of the team in the early voting shows Harmon Killebrew of the Twins at third base, Rico Petrocelli of Boston at shortstop and Baltimore's Frank Robinson, Frank Howard of Washington and Carl Yastrzemski of the Red Sox in the outfield.

The fan balloting will end June 28 and the official starting All-Star team will be announced July 6-7. The voting is limited to eight starters with the rival managers, Earl Weaver of Baltimore and Gil Hodges of the New York Mets, naming the pitchers and remainder of the squad.

The NL's early leaders included Johnny Bench, Cincinnati, catcher; Willie McCovey, San Francisco, first base; Glenn Beckert, Chicago, second base; Tony Perez, Cincinnati, third base; Don Kessinger, Chicago, shortstop; and outfielders Hank Aaron and Rico Carty of Atlanta and Willie Mays of San Francisco.

Freehan, Powell, Carew, Frank Robinson, Howard and Yastrzemski each held commanding leads at their respective positions with stiff battles only at shortstop and third base.

Petrocelli, last season's starter at short, who is only hitting .225 this season, holds a slim 131,894 to 124,289 lead over Luis Aparicio of the Chicago White Sox. Aparicio is hitting at a .314 clip.

At third, Killebrew holds nearly a 10,000-vote lead over Brooks Robinson, Baltimore's golden glove. Killebrew has earned 185,505 votes to Robinson's 175,494.

Runnersup at each position include Norm Cash of Detroit, behind Powell at first; Tommy Harper of Milwaukee at second; and Tony Oliva of the Twins, Roy White of the New York Yankees and Reggie Smith of the Red Sox, in the outfield.

Scores Soar In Open's Round

By PAT THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHASKA, Minn. (AP) — England's Tony Jacklin compares playing an unfamiliar, wind-blasted golf course with traveling abroad—one must adjust.

But Jacklin must have thought the par-72, 7,151-yard Hazeltine National Golf Club was like home the way he adjusted and vaulted into the lead with a one-under-par 71 before today's second round of the U.S. Open Golf Championship.

"If I go to a new country," said Jacklin, "I adjust to its food and its habits. When I play a new course, like this one, I try to adjust to its characteristics."

The rest of the star-filled field didn't adapt to 40 mile-per-hour winds that slammed into Hazeltine and sent almost half of the 105 man field past 80 after Thursday's first round.

Jacklin, with the forceful winds reminding him of English courses where he learned the game, adjusted so effectively that he was the only man below par. No one else reached par.

Two strokes back were Mason Rudolph, Julius Boros and Chi Chi Rodriguez. Bobby Mitchell of Danville, Va., Tony Evans of Fayetteville NMC., and Richard Crawford of Eldorado, Ark., were tied at 74.

Billy Casper was in a large group at 75, Lee Trevino finished at 77, defending champion Orville Moody and Arnold Palmer trudged in with 79s, Gary Player took an 80 and Jack Nicklaus 81.

"We played a golf course that during practice rounds was extremely wet," said Palmer. "It changed overnight to a dry, windy course. There's no excuse for shooting 79, not even on this course."

"The course was not to my liking in the first round," said Palmer, "but I see one man shot a 71 on the same golf course I played on."

Jacklin, the 1969 British Open champion from Elsham, England, went into the last three holes of his round four-under par. But the 25-year-old Briton bogeyed 16 with three putts and landed in a creek for a double bogey on 17.

"It wouldn't bother me at all if the winds continued the next three days," Jacklin said. "I was brought up in this kind of weather. In fact, this wind isn't tremendously strong compared to some that we get back home.

"I hope it does stay like this. But the next day could be beautiful and everything could change."

Nicklaus and Palmer determinedly agreed things could change, and quickly.

"I'm not out of it," said Nicklaus. "Suppose I come back with a 68 ... that might make the cut by 10 strokes." The field will be cut to the low 60 and ties after the second round.

"Anything can happen the next three days," Palmer said. "Anything can happen if the weather stays the same."

However, the weather forecast called for diminishing winds overnight.

Jacklin spaced six birdies—three straight on the front nine—with three bogeys and a double bogey, fighting out of traps and rough along the way. His most spectacular recoveries came on the fifth hole when he choked up on a 7-iron and exploded the ball out of the rough to within two feet of the hole and the 12h with a shot from the bunker to four feet from the pin.

USC Takes Baseball

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
OMAHA (AP) — Southern California is king again of NCAA baseball, having wrapped up its sixth College World Series championship in what the Trojans' veteran coach, Rod Deaux, proclaimed as "the most exciting of them all."

It took top-ranked USC 15 innings — matching a record length of a title contest in the tournament's 24-year history — to defeat No. 3 Florida State 2-1 Thursday night in what must go down as the Bullpen World Series.

The Trojans, who last won in 1968, used sophomore Greg Widman through the first seven innings before yanking him for a pinchhitter. Ace senior right-hander Jim Barr finished brilliantly to get his second series victory in a 14-2 season. He yielded three hits, struck out 5 and walked but one.

But this job was overshadowed by lanky lefty Mac Scarce. The junior was the fourth of five Seminole pitchers and for 7-1-3 innings to the 15th he gave but one hit, fanning nine and issuing three walks, one unintentionally.

The relief specialist absorbed the loss, closing the campaign with a 1-2 mark.

Scarce, whose Texas leaguer in a mild 15th inning threat was his first hit of the year, left the game with a blistered hand to the thunderous applause of 11,542 fans in Rosenblatt Stadium who swelled the total week-long attendance to a record high of 74,683.

Waslewski Aids Yankee Victory

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Manager Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees needed some help and the call was answered by wandering Gary Waslewski.

The former Boston Red Sox right-hander got one of his infrequent starts and performed superbly, allowing his former teammates two harmless singles for six innings before tiring in the Yankees 3-2 victory over Boston Wednesday night.

"I had to come up with somebody," Houk said. "I thought Gary might be the guy."

Waslewski, a 28-year-old picked up from the Montreal Expos a month ago, was just that, providing the lift and the Yankees—winning their 12th game in 14 starts—edged to within 1½-games of the American League East Division leading Baltimore Orioles. Last year at this time, the Yankees trailed Baltimore by 16½-games. They were 31-35 compared to the current mark of 38-25.

In the only other AL game, Cleveland stopped Washington 6-3, while in the only two National League contests, Montreal ripped Atlanta 10-7 and Chicago blanked San Francisco 6-0.

The Yanks led 3-0, including a homer by Curt Blefary and a run-scoring single by Bobb Murcer before Waslewski was reached for a lead-off homer by Sox' shortstop Rico Petrocelli in the seventh.

Houk replaced Waslewski, who was making only his second start for the Yankees, with ace bullpener Lindy McDaniel, who held off the Red Sox despite Petrocelli's second solo homer, a ninth-inning blast into the screen in left.

Waslewski, who pitched in the 1967 World Series for the Red Sox, moved to the St. Louis Cardinals and the Expos in 1969 before the Yankees bought him. He also hurled for seven minor league clubs in his 10-year pro career.

The victory was his first of the season after going 0-2 with Montreal.

Tony Horton slammed a three-run homer in the eighth inning, snapping a 3-3 tie and giving the Indians their fifth consecutive victory.

Horton also ripped a pair of singles and was aided by solo homers by teammates Ray Fosse and Graig Nettles. Aurelio Rodriguez had a two-run shot for the Senators.

Ron Fairly slugged an eighth-inning grand slam homer to cap Montreal's six-run rally in overtaking the Braves who got three hits from Hank Aaron, including his 18th roundtripper of the season.

Aaron, who drove in four runs, added a single and double along with his two-run shot, the 572nd of his career while Gary Gosger drilled four hits for the Expos, including a two-run homer.

Ron Santo and Billy Williams belted homers and the Cubs breezed to their triumph behind the seven-hit hurling of right-hander Ferguson Jenkins.

Santo's was a two-run shot off loser Rich Robertson while Williams contributed his 18th of the season, a solo shot, as Jenkins, 8-7, rolled to his fifth consecutive triumph.

A detailed chain of inferential reasoning that would have done justice to a "Sherlock Holmes," enabled East to pierce thru South's impressive facade and thereby uncover the one line of defense to send the latter's four heart contract down to defeat.

West opened the deuce of diamonds and East put up the ace. The highly distributional nature of the dummy did not enhance defensive prospects. It was clear to East that even if declarer did not have the king of clubs, he could readily establish West's suit by finessing West for that card, and once trumps are drawn—the dummy would have tricks to spare.

In order to defeat the contract, it was necessary for East to construct a hypothetical holding, and then proceed on the assumption that the desired holding was—in fact—the actual distribution.

First of all, he placed the ace of hearts in his partner's hand, so that by shifting to a club, East would be in position to subsequently obtain a club ruff. Secondly, it was necessary for West to also hold the ace of spades, or else the defense would be limited to a maximum of three tricks—the red aces and one ruff.

Finally, provision must be made for the possibility that declarer had the king of diamonds and would obtain a spade sluff from dummy if the lead were surrendered prematurely. In order to protect his partner's spade trick, therefore, East shifted to that suit at trick two instead of playing his singleton club.

South put up the king of spades and West was in with the ace. It was now essential for the latter to provide a key measure of cooperation with East's conjectures by returning a club. The desired shift was promptly forthcoming, for from West's point of view—unless his partner was extremely short in clubs, the defense was powerless to develop another trick.

South did his best to fool the opposition by winning the club return with the king and then leading the ten of hearts from his hand as if he were finessing for the queen. West was not taken in, however, and he put up the ace of hearts and led another club which East ruffed for the setting trick.
