Four-Laning Plans Aired

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Highway Commission said today it hopes to begin construction on about 830 miles of four-lane highways during the next five years, including 134 miles on the interstate system.

In addition, the highway commission chairman—Lauch Faircloth—told the Advisory Budget Commission, the highway commission plans to build an additional 316 miles of two-lane roads on the urban and primary systems and to pave another 2,000 miles of secondary roads during the period.

State officials are outlining their future plans in hearings before the budget group. The highway chairman said that thanks to the two-cent boost in the gas tax voted by the 1969 General Assembly, "the commission will not be faced with the problem of matching federal aid funds in the foreseeable future, and there will be enough remaining to carry on a substantial state construction program."

"This doesn't mean that there is enough money to do everything that needs to be done," he added. "There will never be enough money to meet all of the needs that we have and can expect in the years ahead."

Faircloth said that based upon current levels of federal aid, all of the needs that we have and can expect in the years ahead."

Faircloth said that based upon current levels of federal aid, all of the 838.7 miles on the interstate system in North Carolina will be under contract or completed by 1977.

He said 470 miles of interstate already are open for traffic, another 60 miles will be opened this year with an additional 55 miles under contract.

Plans call for starting construction on 27.4 miles of interstate this fiscal year, 48.1 miles in the 1971-73 biennium and 58.7 miles during the 1973-75 biennium.

Welfare Check 'Ring' Broken

NEW YORK (AP) — Five persons described as members of a North Carolina-based ring that bought welfare checks half price from postmen and welfare employees here have been arrested following an undercover investigation.

Investigation Commissioner Robert K. Ruskin, announcing the arrests Wednesday, said the suspects came to the city on the first and 15th of each month and bought the checks from corrupt employees of the Post Office and Social Services departments.

He said they had stolen and cashed more than $500,000 worth of welfare checks in the past two years.

Ruskin said the ring bought the checks for 50 per cent of their value, then had prostitutes cash them, giving the prostitutes a 10 per cent cut.

Ruskin gave credit for the arrests to Otis Lyons, a special investigator in Ruskin's department who posed as a corrupt employee of the Social Services Department to get evidence on the ring.

The five arrested had a total of 47 checks in their possession, worth about $1,800, Ruskin said.

Described as leader of the ring was Alton Smith, 32, who gave a Brooklyn address although Ruskin said he is from North Carolina and spent little time in New York City.

Three others, Ronald V. Johnson, 23, William Broogis, 28, and Dolores Dantzer, 20, also gave Brooklyn addresses but were described as out-of-towners. Jackie D. Jones, 20, gave Suffolk, Va. as a hometown.

Jones' address was listed as 128 S. Capital St.

The five were arraigned Wednesday night on charges of grand larceny, criminal possession of stolen checks and conspiracy.

School Hearing Held In Trenton

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

TRENTON — The hearing begun here this morning would determine whether the Greenville City Schools is a truly racially integrated system.

Judge John Larkins is hearing testimony on a motion for further relief in a civil action filed by Douglas Edwards and others against the City Board of Education. The motion requests the court to cause the defendant to adopt and implement a plan of desegregation which would include students, faculty, and staff and to join the defendant from proceeding with further construction until it adopts a comprehensive plan of desegregation. It also would have to show the court that any planned construction would result in further desegregation.

Hunt Cheap Food Source

THE HAGUE (AP) — "There are over two billion mushrooms here," Prof. Naim Kosaric said, holding up a small medicine bottle filled with dark gray powder.

"They are dehydrated, of course, and are one-cell mushrooms, but in liquid with their favorite food, natural gas, they may be the answer to the world protein shortage."

Kosaric is professor of food engineering at the University of Western Ontario. He spoke about unconventional foods at the World Food Congress, with a report on research done in Canada.

Single-cell protein (SCP) sources are algae, bacteria, yeasts and minute "mushrooms" which thrive on petroleum wastes, natural gas, or even polluted water. One type of mushroom likes paper-mill wastes, turning them into edible protein.

Several countries are studying SCP possibilities. The dream is to find cheap and practical ways to make it in pure form.

Other promising studies using cellulose wastes from soy beans and wood pulp are going on in many countries.

Authorized To Contract For Buses

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Board of Education today authorized local school boards to contract with commercial bus companies to transport city pupils this fall, solving a dilemma for many.

The action, which had been expected, came as a result of a situation which faced local units with responsibility for providing bus service to an additional 57,000 children.

Some units had reported they did not have enough buses to provide the service and could not afford to buy them right away. The board's authorization stipulated that state money would be allocated to the units for the commercial service on the basis of the number of pupils transported.

The situation was brought on by a court ruling which barred the state from continuing a policy which gave free bus service to some city pupils but not to others.

The free service was given to children in newly annexed areas who lived more than 1 1/2 miles from school, even though children in older areas of the city who lived equal distances from school didn't get it.

Now all city children who live more than 1 1/2 miles from school will be eligible for free transportation.

State funds had been made available previously to pay for additional service with school-owned buses.

Senate Meets For 8 Seconds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate met for eight seconds today—the second shortest session on record—then adjourned for the July 4th holiday weekend.

The shortest session—two seconds—occurred Sept. 4, 1964. The presiding officer in each case was Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont.

The House, meanwhile, quit Wednesday after a one-hour session. It, too, will return to deliberations at noon Monday.

Sees Middle East Risks Greater Nixon Strongly Defends Cambodian Foray And Names Paris Negotiator

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Nixon has strongly defended the Cambodia operation while naming a new U.S. negotiator to the long-stalled Paris talks on ending the Vietnam war.

David K.E. Bruce—"one of America's most distinguished diplomats," Nixon said in an hour television-radio interview Wednesday night—will take over the post vacated by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. last December.

Without disclosing any new peace formula, Nixon said Bruce "will be in a position with his new instructions to tell the opposition...that we are willing to see whether we can narrow the gap between their position and ours."

Bruce, 72, a Maryland native and lifelong Democrat, has served under five presidents including ambassadorships to France, Germany and Great Britain. He will go to Paris by the first of August.

Indochina was the prime topic and the Mideast secondary as Nixon underwent a quizzing from three network panelists in his first public appearance since the June 30 pull-out of U.S. ground forces from Cambodia.

On the Mideast, Nixon portrayed the Arab-Israeli conflict as potentially more dangerous than Southeast Asia because it has the possibility of a big war with the Soviets and Americans on opposite sides. He said the United States would not allow the military balance to shift against Israel.

But it was on his controversial decision to send U.S. troops into Cambodia April 30 that Nixon waged his most vigorous defense—and quickly started drawing a rebuttal from congressional critics.

With a swipe at the Senate's Tuesday vote to bar the President from ending U.S. forces back into Cambodia, he declared:

"As commander-in-chief, I had no choice but to act to defend those men (the Americans in neighboring South Vietnam).

"If I am faced with that decision again, I will exercise that power to defend those men. It will be done."

Nixon rated the two-month U.S. foray against enemy sanctuaries inside the Cambodian border as "the most decisive action in terms of damaging the enemy's ability to wage effective warfare that has occurred in this war to date."

He also said "Cambodia's chances of surviving as a neutral country are infinitely better now than they were on April 30."

Nixon refused to say point-blank that he would never order GIs back into Cambodia—"when you say can I be pinned down to say that under no circumstances would the United States ever do anything, I would not say that," he told one questioner.

But he stated "we do not plan on it, and under the circumstances, I believe that the success of the operation which we have undertaken, as well as what the South Vietnamese will be able to do, will make it unnecessary."

He said some 8,000 South Vietnamese troops remain in Cambodia cleaning out sanctuary areas. And if Cambodia's Lon Nol regime should fall to the Communists—"a hypothesis I do not accept"—he said:

"The answer is that we continue in our course in South Vietnam to defeat the enemy there, and the South Vietnamese, who are now a very formidable fighting force, will certainly see to it that the sanctuary areas are not again occupied."

Nixon said despite the Senate's vote to repeal the 1964 Tonkin Gulf resolution—the authority cited by President Johnson in sending troops to Vietnam—"I believe we have legal justification and I intend to use it" in carrying out Vietnam policy.

"The legal justification is the right of the President of the United States under the Constitution to protect the lives of American men," he said.

He struck at the no-more-Cambodia amendment sponsored by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., which the Senate passed 58-37 Tuesday after long debate.

"Fortunately, our founding fathers had great wisdom when they set up two houses of Congress," he said.

From Sea To Shining Sea 'Honor America Day' Activities Taking Shape

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Flags, fireworks and soul food are some of the ingredients that will go into Honor America Day activities designed to show love of country on this July 4.

"There will be no banners, no signs, just flags," says Robert E. Cole Jr., Honor America Day parade chairman in Waikiki. He described this Saturday's parade as simply a "flag carrying" march.

Negro leaders in Milwaukee have planned three days of soul food picnics, gospel singing and dances to honor blacks who have died in war. The activities will end July 4 with a parade to honor Crispus Attucks, a black patriot killed in the Boston Massacre prior to the Revolutionary War.

In Virginia, nearly 400 Boy Scouts are participating in a four-day marathon to carry an American flag mounted on a baton from Williamsburg to Washington, where they will arrive for the Honor America observances.

July 4 marks the 194th anniversary of America's birth as a nation, celebrating that day in 1776 when the Continental Congress adopted the Declaration of Independence.

This year Honor America Day activities that are centered in the nation's capital will be added to traditional Independence Day events.

The demonstration designed to show love of country is led by evangelist Billy Graham and entertainer Bob Hope.

The Washington, D.C., project will feature memorial and patriotic services at the Lincoln Memorial and a stage show ending with a fireworks display.

In Perry, Iowa, Independence Day will be celebrated, July 3 so the Honor America festivities won't conflict with them, a local civic leader says.

Going to the nation's capital are hundreds of New Yorkers aboard the "Honor America Express," five busloads from Indiana, and several from Massachusetts and other areas.

Actor Howard Keel will read from the Declaration of Independence in Philadelphia's Independence Hall, the nation's birthplace.

Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston has ordered the ringing of bells in Roman Catholic churches to coincide with the Washington activities.

And in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., wives and families of servicemen missing or captured in Vietnam will be honored prior to a fireworks display.

In Atlanta, Ga., the Boy's Club is backing a "stand up and be counted day." Those calling a special telephone number get an American flag decal and their names placed on a scroll taken to the Washington festivities.

At the Rhode Island Statehouse July 4, the Southern New England Committee for a Victory in Vietnam plans a rally. To the north, Maine will observe "Operation Patriotism," one minute of meditation, "reflecting on the common blessing of citizenship."

You Can't Teach An Old Dog New Tricks Get More Money Out Of Clothes, Money For Them

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I read your column and respect your advice. Now solve this for me. I am a widow. What do you do with a guy who says he loves you, and wants to marry you? He seldom spends any money on me (and he has plenty) and when we're out with people he hardly looks at me, but flirts openly with all the young, good-looking women, and afterwards he tells me how "gorgeous" they are, but never a word about me.

I have gotten mad at him and even told him to get lost several times, but I always forgive him and take him back. I need compliments, too. If I marry him I'm afraid I'll be miserable. He's a good catch, but I think he is a "shmo." What do you think?

DEAR M. I. W.: I think he's a "shmo," too. But if you think that after you marry him he will spend money on you, and quit flirting with other women, and give you the compliments you hunger for, then you're a bigger "shmo" than he is.

DEAR ABBY: Our unmarried daughter is sharing an apartment with an older professional woman of domineering disposition. My husband has a responsible executive position with a large firm and we are both very well educated and have traveled all over the world.

We were invited to meet our daughter at her office, and tour the building. My husband wore an expensive suit and I wore my best looking slacks suit with my prettiest accessories. We wanted our daughter to be proud of us. And we thought she was.

A few days later, my daughter's roommate told me in no uncertain terms that I had "humiliated" my daughter beyond words because I had worn slacks while visiting her office. This was said to me in the presence of my relatives at a luncheon. My daughter just sat there agreeing with the woman. Please tell me if I am wrong to be upset?

BOTHERED

DEAR BOTHERED: Your daughter's failure to come to your defense probably bothered you more than the rudeness of her roommate. Leave them to each other and forget it. Slacks are now acceptable for afternoon wear almost everywhere and if that's the worst "humiliation" your daughter ever suffers, she'll be lucky.

DEAR ABBY: I disagree with your answer to EARLY BIRD (the gal whose husband said she was "nuts" because she got up at 4:30 a. m. to do her housework. She said she couldn't sleep.)

I would say that "Early Bird" is basically selfish. I wonder if perhaps her reasoning is only an excuse.

In our marriage, some of our most meaningful experiences have occurred in the early hours of the morning. I value the closeness my husband and I have too much to deny him (and miss out myself) on such close communication.

Maybe the problem would be solved if "Early Bird" would climb back into bed about half an hour or so before she knew her husband had to get up.

I can't imagine any happily married man or woman enjoying waking up to an empty bed.

HAPPILY MARRIED

CONFIDENTIAL TO D. J.: No child was ever "spoiled" by too much love. Too little discipline, yes, but not too much love.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Letter writing can be a breeze. For Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Allowances are uptight, and we are in the midst "of a whole new fashion thing," says an 18-year-old girl. Her wardrobe has suddenly gone out of style, she says—many dresses seldom were worn. She is a plump type. How can she stretch her small clothes budget?, she asks.

The first step should be to list clothes that are absolutely needed, and the second step should be to improve shopping techniques.

For example, you can't buy a dress just because it is irresistible. It eventually may fall into the discard bracket "because there never has been the right occasion for its wear."

If a girl is overweight, she should be realistic and clothes should be bought to fit properly. Some chubby girls always plan to diet, but they can't get to it. When they shop, they buy the pretty size-smaller dresses, hoping to crash-diet into them. Usually, they give up, and the dress is a total-loss.

You can get more mileage out of your clothes allowance if you observe a few of these hints:

Pantyhose: If one leg runs, cut off the ripped stocking. When you have two one-legged pantyhose, you have one good pair. You'll have to wear the two panties. (When pantyhose are legless, you still have a pair of panties.)

Dress: You should choose simple styles, if the budget is small. You can vary the appearance of the dresses by using many different accessories with them to change their appearance. Sweaters, belts, pocketbooks in various colors can give you a new costume. Accessories, all-white or contrasting color, can give a simple dress, a handsome new look.

Faddish, high-style clothes and wild patterns and colors should be avoided. You can afford to splurge on whimsies when you have filled out your wardrobe.

You can get a couture look in clothes by making them yourself, and in these up-and-down hemline times, be sure to leave enough material for a hem.

Two secrets: You should buy the very best fabric you can afford and you should line the dress. If you put all your clothes money into the fabric, and choose pretty patterns, you can have some lovely clothes.

One good simple dress pattern and one good suit pattern may be made up in several different colors. (The trouble with many home sewers is that they want to use inexpensive fabrics so they can brag—"this dress cost only ninety cents—the fabric was a remnant...")

It is far better to have one good timeless dress than to have three ill-fitting garments of cheap fabric, whether you buy the dresses or make them.

Impulse-buying is ruinous to the budget. Belts, pocketbooks, shoes should be earmarked for all-around use.

Summer clothes shopping should be done with a vacation plan in mind. A flashy beach shirt may be a nifty garment, but it will be out of place in the cool mountains. A terry shirt may be useful at either place. You would need more rugged clothes—shoes and sweaters in the mountains than at a shore spot.

If you are planning to work during the summer school vacation, you will need to consider that aspect of your wardrobe. Simple cotton, linen or polyester dresses may be worn in town or on vacation in the mountains or at the seashore. You might keep that in mind when you shop.

A lightweight suit is a great investment for summer because it may be dressed up or down, depending on where it is to be worn. You can vary it by wearing a weskit or sweater with the skirt on some occasions, and a number of blouses will give you a new look whenever you want it.

Ruling Is Tribute To Planners

Judge Joseph Parker's ruling that Greenville's Central Business District improvement project may proceed is a tribute to the careful planning done by the Redevelopment Commission and members of several City Councils which have participated in the project planning.

The attorneys for the city, Redevelopment Commission and Utilities Commission argued that work to be done in the area on streets and underground utilities were necessary improvements and the plan had been prepared in accordance with the law. Judge Parker's ruling means that the city may continue with the Central Business District work.

Since the project involves around $5 million in federal funds its execution will mean enormous savings to the taxpaying citizens of Greenville in the years ahead as thoroughfares and sidewalks are improved. And it should be obvious to anyone who is concerned with Greenville's future that much of this work will have to be done with or without this big injection of federal funds. We would greatly prefer that the work be done with outside financial assistance rather than local taxpayers bearing all of the cost.

A legal test of the vast amount of planning done by local officials on the Central Business District project has been made. It has shown that the project is legally sound. The people of Greenville, through their elected councilmen have spoken their feelings on the matter, and we feel no further time should be lost.

Out Of An Old Chicken House

By BRYAN HANSLIP
CHARLOTTE. — Three friends experimenting in an abandoned chicken house started commercial radio broadcasting in North Carolina.

They didn't know it but they were on the ground floor of the development of a communications medium that was to shape the life style of the 20th century.

Radio is so pervasive today it's easy to take for granted and hard to realize how rapidly it has come about. From static crackling broadcasts that barely covered the neighborhood to voices transmitted clearly from the moon is the progress of barely 50 years.

plained, "and made it possible for radio to give wide coverage of news events."

Alert to the possibilities for local news coverage, Gluck went to talk to the late Carey Dowd, then publisher of The Charlotte News. They worked out a deal for the paper's reporters to come by the station and give news broadcasts.

After a couple of changes in ownership, WBT, was acquired by the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company in the mid-30s. Meanwhile, Gluck had decided that Charlotte could support two radio stations. "It was in the Depression. I was young and had no better sense," he said.

While American broadcasting celebrates its Golden Anniversary in 1970, the North Carolina experience dates back about 48 years.

Earle Gluck, one of the three from the chicken house days, recalled it was in 1922 that the old federal radio commission assigned the commercial license for WBT, the first radio station in the state. It was the second in the Southeast, only one month behind WSB of Atlanta.

He operated spasmodically without a regular schedule," said Gluck. We'd sell a set and call back to the office for the secretary to read a weather report—to demonstrate to the buyer that we were actually broadcasting and didn't have a phonograph concealed inside the contraption.

WSOC Radio, then located in Gastonia, was purchased and moved to Charlotte. As television came along, it was added to the broadcast interests, going on the air in 1957. The stations were sold to Cox Broadcasting Company in 1959. Gluck, now semi-retired, remains with the station in the capacity of a management consultant.

Gluck began fooling with amateur radio equipment as a kid in Baltimore back in 1912. He settled in Charlotte after completing service in the U.S. Navy during World War I. He put in another 4½-year hitch in World War II, leaving service with the rank of captain.

At the start, the station primarily was a device to sell receivers. The fledgling broadcasters hadn't hit on a way to make their venture profitable. The idea for advertising was born when a salesman for the Mantle Lamp Company came in one day.

He wanted to sell Alladin lamps to farmers. How much would it cost, he asked, to buy time on the radio station?

"We called on a rate," Gluck said. "It suited him, and we were on our way."

In his broadcasting career he has seen radio move from the status of a gimmick to a household necessity. Today there are some 200 radio stations licensed in North Carolina, including AM and FM stations. It's estimated that every household contains an average of four radio receivers. Nearly 80 per cent of all automobiles are radio-equipped.

It's a situation that invests the broadcaster with both great opportunity and great responsibility, Gluck said.

"Radio is a universal medium, available to everybody, flexible and portable. That means we have to be particularly sensitive to serve the needs for information and entertainment for the broad spectrum of the public," he added.

Programming was rudimentary and as improvised as bringing in the blind accordion player off the sidewalk to perform. Listeners compared notes on the stations they could receive and stayed up late at night trying to tune in distant cities.

It's Gluck's view that broadcasting began to come of age with the advent of the national networks at the close of the 20s, and radio's discovery of its function as a news medium. "The networks made available a quality of entertainment not available before," he explained, "and made it possible for radio to give wide coverage of news events."

Alert to the possibilities for local news coverage, Gluck went to talk to the late Carey Dowd, then publisher of The Charlotte News. They worked out a deal for the paper's reporters to come by the station and give news broadcasts.

After a couple of changes in ownership, WBT, was acquired by the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company in the mid-30s. Meanwhile, Gluck had decided that Charlotte could support two radio stations. "It was in the Depression. I was young and had no better sense," he said.

Apollo 14's Delay Is No Great Consequence

It appears now that extensive changes will be made in the Apollo spacecraft before further moon flights will be made.

Changes costing $10 to $15 million are expected to be made following the disaster which nearly cost the lives of three astronauts on the flight in April. This means that the next launch cannot come before Jan. 31.

The time delay should be of no consequence. Everything possible should be done to eliminate the problem that caused the explosion in the April flight. The safety of the crews making the flights should be the first priority and no further flights should be made until the trouble experienced on Apollo 13 has been corrected.

Life In Soviet Can Be Dreary

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
MOSCOW (AP) — For one who saw the Soviet Union in the last days of the Stalin era, a fresh visit creates an immediate impression of all-around betterment of the average Russian's life. Yet much of the dreary side of Soviet life has resisted change. That is equally striking.

As was to be expected in view of the Communist party's long-term policy, the "veliki stroiki"—the great projects such as hydroelectric stations, dams, and the huge heavy industrial installations cherished by the party's planners—have been multiplying all along. In addition there are many new airports, hotel buildings, glistening business buildings of steel, aluminum and glass; many new apartment buildings and new roads leading into Soviet cities.

There are more and bigger stores. At first glance there seem to be more and better goods in the stores, and in some respects this is true. It also appears that there are more people with money to spend in the stores.

However, behind all the outward glitter there is much that is the same as ever before. A prolonged walk in any one of the cities now open to foreigners suggests that the consumer is not much better off than was his father. It suggests that the party isn't particularly interested in the consumer or in anything much besides retaining its own position as a ruling elite.

Goods in the stores remain mostly shoddy and outrageously expensive. Soviet production for the consumer side still strikes the Westerner as scandalous for a nation as fantastically rich as the Soviet Union in all manner of resources.

There is no shortage of wealth and skills for whatever helps construct centralized power, for the military, for the space program, for air communications, for heavy industry. Little remains for the consumer, and on that side the tendency still is to polish the visible brass and forget the rest. To the Westerner's eye, the consumer economy remains a severe indictment of the Soviet system.

So enormously rich is the U.S.S.R. that it might long ago have surpassed the United States in many fields, but chances that it will even catch up in the foreseeable future are extremely dim. Moscow is unlikely to risk the measures that would be necessary to take advantage of the opportunities.

The measures would include releasing the economy from restraints which have been imposed upon it over the years, and permitting a large degree of local discretion, initiative and autonomy.

Moscow is unlikely to do this because such things threaten to erode centralized authority. Without an extraordinarily strong hand at the helm, the consumers in another sort of economy might easily run away with the show. Thus, the prospect is for continued improvising within the present framework. This means the economy must continue to be plagued by dogmatic and outdated theories.

On the plus side, more Russians are well dressed and more seem generally much better off than they were in the last days of Stalin. They are still far away from Western standards but there is not much yardstick available to Soviet citizens for making comparisons. By and large they seem to feel their system does well by them.

The visitor hears little that would reflect directly against the Communist party and its leadership. The government says real wages have gone up, meaning that an average wage of about 120 rubles monthly plus fringe benefits is worth a good deal more in terms of purchasing power than it was years ago.

The Russians say the ruble is worth $1.11, but it sells on the black market often at a tenth of that.

A visitor can hear, if he listens attentively, expressions of impatience, of restiveness, of dissent, but from a

Strength For Today

WHEN TO GET ANGRY
An Indian legend tells of three braves who went hunting. All day they hunted, and two of them gradually shot all their arrows at rabbits and squirrels without seeing anything big. Just before sunset on their way home they encountered a huge bear face to face on the trail. The two young men, all their arrows gone, were panic-stricken. But the third, an old warrior who had scorned to waste his arrows on small game, held his ground and killed the bear.

How often we, like the two young Indians, expend our energy on the small things and have nothing left for the big ones. Everyone has heard of righteous indignation—the kind of anger, in behalf of a good cause, which spurs us to action. Anger is a good thing occasionally if it is directed against some great wrong or injustice.

But most of our anger never goes to support great causes for we have already wasted it on trivial ones. We get annoyed and upset over petty matters every day, and our wrath is so commonplace that it loses its force. People regard us merely as irritable, and so pay no attention when we really do have an important grievance. If we saved our arrows for the big game, how much more good we could do!

Instructions From Hoax

By JAMES KILPATRICK

In recent weeks, a number of readers have sent me copies of what are known as the "Dusseldorf Rules for Revolution." With a request that I meld these supposed Communist pronouncements into a column full of patriotism, pizzazz, and the old brrrump. Well, the "rules" are a hoax, a fraud, and a fake, but perhaps we gain instruction thereby.

As the story goes, certain Communist Rules for Revolution were "captured in Dusseldorf, May, 1919, by the Allied Forces." The specific

Other Editors Say Fight Each Other

(Washington Daily News)
When we read that U.S. Supreme court members have just closed shop for a long vacation, while at the same time drawing their high salaries out of the pocket-books of our American taxpayers, we are just wondering how much vacation a fellow needs.

When the story says that the court will resume deliberation on next October 1, that means that a vacation of three and one half months will be taken. How many lawyers in America today can take a vacation that long? Of course there are a lot of our people who wish the court members would stay on vacation.

Vacations are necessary, but we doubt the necessity or the wisdom of a three and a half months period. And the same story telling about the vacation also told how far behind the court is and how much overworked it is.

And the unusual part about the story revolved around the infighting with each other which seems to be going on. Such words as "sharp", "pointed", "divisive", and "bitter" have been used in describing the attitudes prevailing between various justices of the court.

Of course we do not know how serious is the differences on a personal basis between the members of the court. Heretofore, an air of politeness has usually prevailed, but now the differences seem to be drawing fire from one to the other.

As of now it is difficult to classify the members completely as to political philosophies. President Nixon is said to want more conservatism on the court, and Chief Justice Burger is supposed to give the court leadership in that direction. Whether Mr. Burger is exhibiting leadership or not remains to be determined. But it is our feeling that America will welcome a change of pace on the high court which in the immediate past has just about rewritten the U.S. constitution in its own image. In fact, it has been said that this nation could not stand much longer the image of the "Warren court." If Mr. Burger can bring order out of what many see as chaos, then he will establish himself as a breath of fresh air on the American scene.

There are many big decisions to be handed down next Fall when this extended vacation is over. And after three and a half months off, it should serve to calm some of the tempers and alleged bitterness which is said to prevail right now.

Finally, and this should have been the tip-off, "Cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext, with a view to confiscating them and leaving the population helpless."

Back in January, Congressman Joe Skubitz of Kansas, acting in all sincerity, inserted the "Dusseldorf Rules" with a brief comment in the Congressional Record. He had obtained them from the Nelpa News, a publication of the Northwest Electric & Power Association.

Three months earlier, on October 30, Congressman John M. Slack of West Virginia had made the same insertion. Slack had recently been initiated into the Royal Order of Scotland, and its provincial grand master, Marvin E. Fowler, had

Fat Interest Rates For Rich

By ELMER ROESSNER
Once again the Federal Reserve Board had decreed that fat interest rates are for the rich only.

It has granted banks the right to sell certificates of deposit of up to 89 days without that kind of cash, can't get that 8 per cent on their savings.

Banks are allowed, by the same Federal Reserve Board, to pay more than 5 1/2 per cent on regular deposits or up to 6 per cent on time deposits.

Another Catch
And here's Catch-22 to that regulation:
The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports that prices are increasing at an annual rate of 6 per cent. This increase has been in effect for the last year.

Thus the spending power of the dollar has been and is continuing to shrink at rate of 6 per cent a year.

Thus, a wage-earner of a salaryed man who saves a little bit of his pay (and Lord! how does he do it?) can get 5 1/2 per cent on those savings every year. But when he takes it out at the end of the year, its purchasing power, at the present rate of inflation, will have shrunk by 6 per cent.

One-Armed Bandit Technique
Thus the thrifty family, putting a few dollars away in a savings account, will get less back, even at current interest rates, in buying power.

This discrimination against the little saver persists throughout the financial world.

Government short-term bonds pay around 8 per cent, but they are only for people who can sock away $10,000 at a time.

City and state bonds, tax-exempt, which pay from 6 to 8 per cent tax-free, worth 10 per cent and more to the wealthy, are sold in denominations of $5,000 and up, although a few can be found at $1,000.

In short, if you have enough money you can get interest that will offset inflation. But if you haven't those big chunks, your savings will drop faster than the interest rate builds them up.

This applies to all forms of small savings: bank deposits, insurance, U. S. Savings Bonds.

Farmers Share Blame For Polluted Air
It's not only city folk with their danged gas buggies and apartment house incinerators who are polluting the air, according to the University of California. Farmers, with uncontrolled burning of rice stubble, fruit tree prunings and other agricultural and forest product wastes are adding to the state's smog problem.

The problem is under study by the university's three-year Project Clean Air.

Hobby Of The House

By JOY STILLEY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Most hobbyists display their collections where others can see and admire: My husband keeps his in the refrigerator.

What he accumulates, with the dedication worthy of a confirmed philatelist, is relishes and condiments. Although his assemblage of sauces and savories is a constantly changing one, at any given time it would strike envy into the heart of the best-stocked supermarket manager.

No Saturday trip to the grocery is complete without the acquisition of at least one new bottle or jar of a gourmet goody. The success of a vacation trip is measured, not in terms of the sights seen, but on the basis of how many regional kinds of piccalilli we managed to pick up at shopping centers along the way.

A current inventory of the refrigerator shelf devoted to dressings alone shows — in addition to such immigrant items as Russian, Italian and four variations on the French theme—an uncountable number of cheese-based creations, green onion, low-calorie, spicy, tomato and sweet and sour dressings.

Just to make sure there's something around to toss on the tossed salad, my resident chief has stirred up a few concoctions of his own. These defy classification and description but one of his more imaginative ventures along this line contained oil, vinegar, mayonnaise, tomato juice, pickle juice, apple juice, pureed onions and a soupcon of ginger ale.

He claimed it was good. I refused to do the research needed to arrive at a critical evaluation.

The peck of pickled peppers Peter Piper picked is paltry compared with the plethora of pickles my partner picks to be positive we have plenty in the pantry.

There are at the moment sweet, sour, dill, half-sour, mixed, sliced, chopped, tomato rings, pickled peppers, peppered pickles, garden salad, midget gherkins, normal-size gherkins and cucumber cubes.

In the sauce department we have ketchup, home-style chili sauce, Southern-style chili sauce, Texan chili sauce and red-hot chili sauce. Then there's horseradish sauce, sweet and sour sauce, hickory barbecue sauce and soy sauce.

Hamburger, anyone? In addition to hamburger relish, we have hot-dog relish, red pimiento relish, sweet pepper relish, corn relish, green tomato relish, chow-chow and crispy cucumber relish.

If you prefer ketchup, try tangy ketchup, ketchup with onion, lizza ketchup, hickory ketchup and plain old tomato ketchup. Mustard? Take your pick of flavors and colors: mustard with horseradish, hickory-smoke-flavored mustard, spicy mustard, brown mustard and bright yellow mustard.

Ordinarily I'm perfectly willing to let my compulsive shopper do his thing. As hobbies go, it's cheaper than buying old masters, more practical than saving match covers and less dangerous than collecting barbed wire.

There is one problem, though. The family larder is often so jamed with the accompaniments to go with food that there's no room left for food to go with the accompaniments.

Some Will Celebrate July 4th On The 3rd, Others On 6th

City, County and State offices will be closed Monday (July 6) in observance of Independence Day while U. S. Government offices will close July 3, according to a survey of local officials.

And if the July 3 day off to be observed by federal employees (with the exception of the Post Office Department which will close July 4) is confusing in comparison with the July 6 holiday for city, county and state workers, take heart. That is not as confusing as the closings (and the non-closings) to be observed by private business firms in the Greenville area. A survey of local stores and businesses (both in downtown Greenville and at various shopping centers) indicates that some will close July 3 and re-open July 4, while others will close July 4. Still others will remain open July 3 and July 4 and close July 6. And at least one business, which usually remains open on Sundays, will close that day—July 5.

Harold Creech, manager of the local Chamber of Commerce Merchants Association summed the July 4 observance picture up when he said, "There will be a diversity of action."

Creech added, "There will be a lot of confusion. Some stores will be open each day."

The U. S. Post office, the only federal office normally opened on Saturday, will close July 4 in observance of Independence Day.

According to Donald F. Hargy, officer-in-charge of the Post Office here, there will be no delivery of mail by either city or rural carriers and no window services will be provided Saturday.

The lockbox lobbies at both the main office and the Tenth Street Station will be open and normal lockbox service will be provided.

Vending machines in the lobby of the main Post Office on Second Street will provide most postal services, such as dispensing stamps and mailing packages, according to Hargy, who noted there will be one city-wide collection of mail from drop boxes beginning at 5 p.m. and outgoing mail will be dispatched as normal.

He can hear protest, too, from Jews who report harsh treatment more and more frequently now because of the intensification of the Middle East conflict and the Soviet involvement on the Arab side.

He can hear it sometimes among young university students.

The dissent, while Moscow reacts angrily and often harshly to it, is a long distance from any real threat to the Soviet system as it operates today. From what one hears said by young men and women coming through party schools and aiming at careers, the Communist bureaucracy would not seem to have too much to worry about.

On the whole, the ordinary Soviet citizen appears to be a patient, plodding and uncomplaining member of what his leaders like to call "the toiling masses." He can see around him a good deal more quantity than his fathers did, even if he sees little change in quality. He doesn't have much means for measuring quality, anyway.

Kilpatrick . . .

(Continued from page 4) referred to the Dusseldorf Rules in a banquet speech. Slack was so impressed that he put them in the Record.

A few months before that, on Feb. 24, 1969, Congressman Louis C. Wyman of New Hampshire also had inserted the Rules in the Record. He got them from a letter to the editor of the Dover Daily Democrat.

At about this same time, on March 3, the Dusseldorf Rules appeared as a reprint on the editorial page of the Indianapolis Star. They also appeared in "The Fact Finder," published by We, the People, a national coalition of patriots to protect self-government and save American freedom, headed by Harry T. Everingham of Phoenix.

Reprints turned up in the house organs of the E. W. Blise Company of Canton, Ohio, and the Laminated Shim Company of Glenbrook, Conn.; in the Lexington, Ky., Leader, and as a paid advertisement in the Kentucky Kernel, student newspaper at the University of Kentucky.

Most of these reprints—and countless others—apparently were from a Newsletter produced by Fulton Lewis, III, in a gullible moment in the spring of 1968. Lewis had obtained the Rules from an undated memorandum left by the late George A. Brautigam, Florida State Attorney. Brautigam, who died in 1957, had obtained them "from a known member of the Communist Party," not otherwise identified.

The only skeptic in the crowd was Congressman Frank Bow of Ohio, who received a copy of the Rules in April, 1969. He smelled a fake, and asked J. Edgar Hoover about the paper. Hoover's conclusion: "The document is spurious."

Of course it is spurious—as spurious as those famous Protocols of Zion. My guess is that the Communist Rules of Dusseldorf, found in May of 1919, were fabricated by some gifted elder of the Sophoppy Gun and Fish Fry Club, or some such, in May of 1956. And such is the hardy anatomy of a hoax that they are likely to hang around forever.

Speedup In Sorting Post Office Seeks

By FRANK CAREY AP Science Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office, which brought you zip codes, is thinking about abbreviated addresses to speed the flow of mails.

Researchers probing "human problem areas" in moving the mail have found operators of letter-sorting machines—LSM's—help determine how fast mail flows.

The faster they read addresses and punch in 3-digit numeric codes that send letters into the proper receptacles, the faster the mail is delivered.

At the present rate of 60 letters a minute, the operator has one second to read an address, recall the proper code and punch it in before the next letter comes up.

"This constitutes a considerable memory task for the operator," National Bureau of Standards scientists said in a report for the Post Office.

To help lighten such mental burdens, the government is experimenting with shorter work cycles, variable sorting speeds and ways to cut address-reading time.

If things turn out well, the researchers said, "methods for encoding or abbreviating addresses can then be based on a good estimate of human ability to use the method quickly and accurately."

Other ideas under investigation include machines to sort the mail with voice commands instead of a keyboard, and using television viewing of the mail to allow the LSM operator to be removed from the noisy, dusty operating floor.

BUT WHEN COOK WANTS A DECISION ON THE EVENING MEAL, IT SEEMS TO TAKE FOREVER HIS CHOICE TO REVEAL —

Mr. French To Get A Thorny Co-Star

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mr. French has had things too much his own way on "Family Affair" and this fall he is going to find a nettlesome red-haired cleaning woman in his beard.
Nancy Walker, who will play a rather messy, busybody housekeeper, describes her function as "a thorn in Mr. French's side."
Mr. French, of course, is the very proper English major domo played by Sebastian Cabot in the long-running comedy series on CBS.

Miss Walker, who was once described as the funniest actress on Broadway when she starred in such shows as "Best Foot Forward," "On the Town" and "Do-Re-Mi," was persuaded to move to California to take the role.

"I love to work and there's no work in New York," she said, "None that one would want to do. I did a few commercials. Oh, I did the Sullivan show."
Miss Walker, who has enough of a barb on the tip of her tongue so that you know Mr. French is in for a time, also had a few words of farewell for New York that would wilt the carnation in the buttonhole of the city's greeter.

She said she and her husband, David Craig, are buying a home here and will sell their New York apartment.

She said, "I got a look at the next script and I nearly fainted. I figured I'd have a few lines and I'd learn them later, but in it I never shut my mouth. They said they were going to involve me and they meant it."

"It's the most relaxed show in the world and I go in all tensed up. If I blow a line I'm ready to — but Charlie Barton, the director, says, ah, ah, take it easy."

Admiral Hits Budget Foes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, embarking today as the nation's top military chief, has fired a salvo at critics he said want to milk the defense budget to solve domestic problems.

"The defense budget is not a panacea to cure all domestic ills," said Moorer, whose term as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff started today.

The first Navy man to head the joint chiefs in 13 years, the 58-year-old Alabama-born Moorer takes over from Army Gen. Earl G. Wheeler, who is retiring after a record six years as head of the J.C.S.

Moorer spoke Wednesday at a change-of-command ceremony at the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., where he handed over the helm as chief of naval operations to Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt, Jr.

The new J.C.S. chairman acknowledged "the many things yet to be done" domestically. But he cautioned that "if we do not provide for the security of our country, all of the problems become moot."

Sherry ran back inside and spotted the wailing youngster. "She was all stiff and rigid," Sherry said. "I had to almost drag her out of the house. She didn't want to come."
Sherry was asked if it occurred to her that she might be trapped in the flaming house when she went back in. "I didn't really have time to think," she said. "I got kinda scared after it was all over."
Firemen said flames consumed 50 per cent of the house.

Two Girls Snatch Four Children Out Of Blaze

GOLDSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Big men stood in awe Wednesday of two shy and embarrassed 14-year-old girls who snatched up four children from a flaming, smoke filled house.

Fire Chief Willard Herring said Wednesday night he was going to nominate Sherry Denison and Glenda Fulghum for Carnegie Medals for their heroism.

To the girls who were babysitting with the four youngsters, however, it was heroism — it was just unthinking reaction to and the way to the back door blocked.

Sherry and Glenda were babysitting for Sherry's sister, Mrs. Robert Cross. Asleep in the five-room frame house were the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Cross — Rita, 4; Bobbie Jean, 2; and Robin Lynn, 6 months old, and Sherry's 7-year-old cousin, Tracey Lynn Fields.

Glenda was in the front room watching television when she smelled smoke. Going toward the back of the house to check it out she found the hallway filled with smoke and flames and the way to the back door blocked.

Glenda swept up the 4 year old and the oldest child and rushed them out the front door. At the same time she yelled to her friend Sherry who was on the front porch that the house was on fire.

Sherry ran into the front bedroom to rescue the 6-month-old baby as the smoke began to creep through the entire house. The baby's foot became stuck in the crib.

"It seemed like hours before I could get it worked loose," Sherry said. "I guess it was really five minutes ... Oh, I don't know. I ran out the front door and laid the baby on the grass."

Both girls looked around to count noses. Two-year-old Bobbie Jean was missing. Then they heard her scream come from the now smoke-filled house. Smoke was pouring into the front yard, too.

Sherry ran back inside and spotted the wailing youngster. "She was all stiff and rigid," Sherry said. "I had to almost drag her out of the house. She didn't want to come."
Sherry was asked if it occurred to her that she might be trapped in the flaming house when she went back in. "I didn't really have time to think," she said. "I got kinda scared after it was all over."
Firemen said flames consumed 50 per cent of the house.

Rate Differential Proposed For N.C.

RALEIGH (AP) — A rate differential between good and bad motorists in North Carolina is proposed in a rate filing which seeks an increase of 14.3 per cent in auto liability insurance rates.

The North Carolina Automobile Rate Administrative Office, which represents the insurance industry, has filed the request Wednesday with Insurance Commissioner Edwin Lanier.

The office suggested that Lanier spread the hike out as a 10.8 per cent increase for good drivers who carry voluntary insurance and 21.8 per cent for poor ones, or those under the signed risk plan.

Paul L. Mize, general manager of the office, said about 25 per cent of all private passenger cars are insured through assigned risk.

Mize said that dividing the proposed 14.3 per cent increase on the basis of accident experience alone would have meant an increase of 58.3 per cent for those in assigned risk and a reduction of 8.9 per cent for other drivers.

"As a practical matter," he said, "it would be impossible at this time" to do that, because the higher rates might "encourage noncompliance" with North

Concedes Strike Is Now Broken

GREENSBORO (AP) — A union-supported garbage worker's strike has been broken.

The leader of the independent North Carolina Labor Alliance president Gene Gore, said Wednesday that his union is no longer involved in the dispute.

Gore, who is white, said the union was pulling out because of what he called race separatism in the black community and having to fight a national labor union and city hall.

Seventy-five of the strikers were fired during the strike that started June 16. Some of them returned to work, and the city hired replacements for others through newspaper advertisements.

The city has announced that all packer trucks are now operating. The garbage workers had been given a raise in the new city budget, but the strikers said the raise wasn't high enough.

Joining Board In Objections

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Civil rights attorneys say they will join the Charlotte-Mecklenburg school board in objecting to a desegregation plan drawn by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

One of the attorneys, Adam Stein, said Wednesday that he and other civil rights attorneys also would ask U. S. Dist. Judge James B. McMillan to reinstate the desegregation plan originally ordered by McMillan.

The HEW plan leaves some schools all-white.

Carolina's compulsory insurance requirements.

The rate office also requested that different rates be set for various territories in the state.

Hearings and studies will be held before Lanier makes a ruling, which isn't expected to come for months.

Mize said the proposed increase is needed because of rising costs of claims and increased frequency of accidents.

He added that during a two-year period the costs of claims exceeded by $8 million the amount of premiums to cover the claims.

He noted that Lanier had granted a 2.8 per cent rate increase last December, but a decision on this is pending in the North Carolina Supreme Court.

In asking for rate differentials based on territories, Mize said losses were higher in some areas than in others and that this should be considered.

New Fieldcrest Plant Is Moving Toward Operation

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
 Fieldcrest Mills Inc. hopes to be in limited operation in their new $1.5 million worsted yarn plant north of Greenville in a few weeks and in full operation by the fall.

R.B. Hunter, personnel manager, said Tuesday that officials were making plans to begin operations on a one-shift basis in a "couple of weeks" and hopefully would be working a three-shift day by October or November.

The new mill, located on the Dail Farm site just east of the Bethel Highway, will operate on a parallel spinning system and will produce mainly worsted yarn to be used in Karastan Oriental rugs.

Hunter pointed out that the new facility, the second to be located in Greenville, utilizes some 55,000 square feet of space and will add approximately 50 new employees to the Fieldcrest payroll.

The staff and work load of the new mill will be made up partly of personnel from the main Fieldcrest facility on Dickinson Avenue, Hunter said, and vacancies created by the shifts will be filled. Future openings in the plant operation will be filled through normal employee hiring procedures.

The personnel manager said that after mid-July, the local Fieldcrest employment office will be located at the new mill and applications for jobs at both plants will be processed there. In addition, the administrative offices will be moved to the north Greenville site.

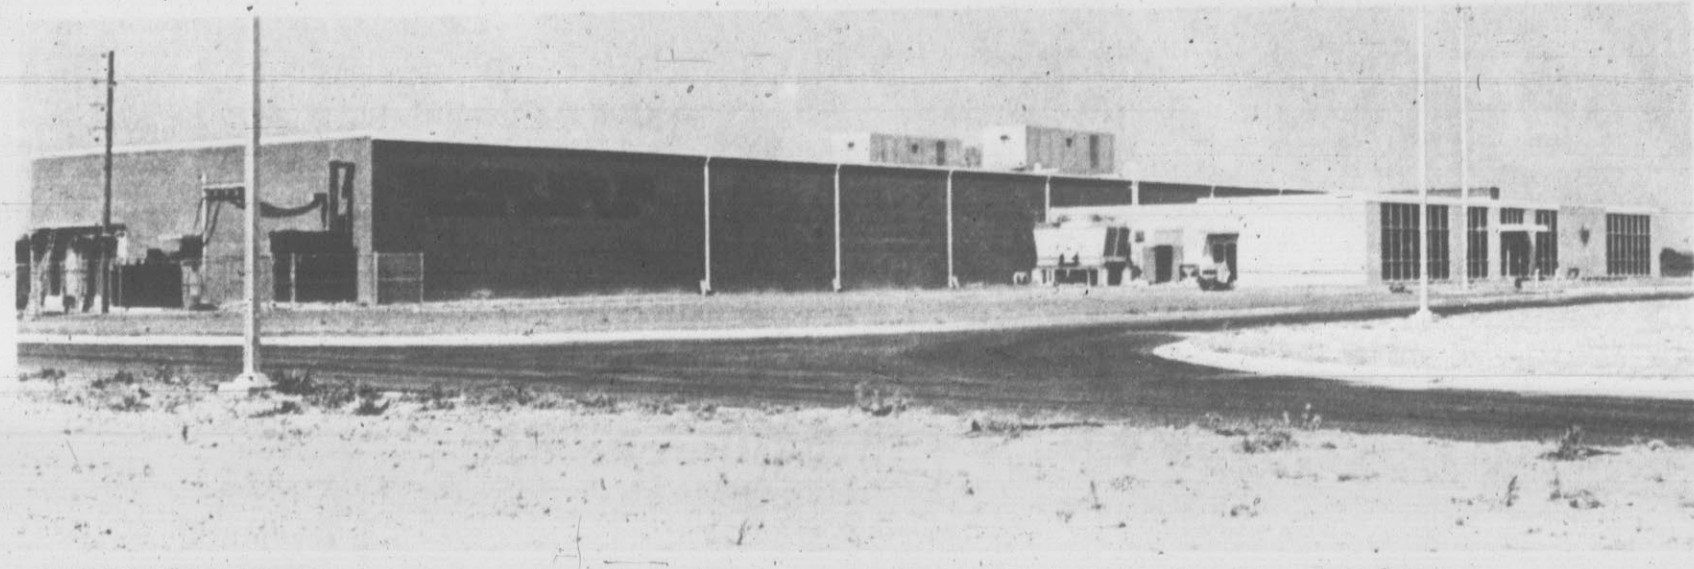

J. Melvin Moore of Greenville is head of the carpet yarn division of Fieldcrest and will serve as plant manager of the new mill. Currently, in addition to the new mill and Dickinson Avenue plant, Moore supervises operations in Laurinburg and Asheville, the other two mills in the carpet yarn division.

Hunter noted that the first plant to be located in the city is the largest of the four in the division with 100,000 square feet of space. At the present time, the new mill, located on a portion of a 60-acre tract owned by Fieldcrest, is the smallest in the division. Addition of the 50 new employees at the north Greenville site will bring the total employment at both facilities to approximately 340, he added.

FIELDCREST MILLS' new plant, north of Greenville, is expected to begin limited operations at an early date.

Two Teacher Groups Sign Merger Pact

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Representatives of North Carolina's white and Negro teacher associations have signed papers of incorporation for a merged association, ending their deadlock.

This was announced Wednesday by Jerry Paschal of Goldsboro, N. C., who had been elected president of the joint teacher association before differences arose which held up the merger.

Members of the former teacher organizations planned to hold the first board meeting today of the merged North Carolina Association of Educators.

Officials of the predominantly white North Carolina Education Association and the predominantly Negro North Carolina Teachers Association are attending the annual convention of the National Education Association in San Francisco.

Paschal said in a prepared statement, "We are really happy that the two organizations have been able to get together and have now joined as one teacher organization. We expect to work together as a team for the betterment of public education in North Carolina."

His statement did not say what agreements may have been reached by the two organizations.

Officials of the black organization had been demanding guarantees that would have prevented Negroes from being overruled on racial issues in the merged association.

Approximately 300 North Carolina teachers are attending the NEA convention.

The United States declared war on Germany April 6, 1917.

Veteran To Paris Post

NEW YORK (AP) — David K.E. Bruce, President Nixon's choice as the new chief negotiator at the Paris peace talks, is the only man ever to have served in this country's three leading embassies in Western Europe.

Bruce, 72, was America's senior ambassador when he retired in March 1968 after eight years as U.S. ambassador to Great Britain—the longest anyone has held that post.

President Kennedy had named him to the London assignment and President Johnson kept him there. Before that he had served as ambassador to France under President Truman and ambassador to West Germany under President Eisenhower.

More than a year ago Nixon commented that he and his four immediate predecessors in the White House had disagreed on many things but "agreed that David Bruce was a giant."

Brooks Honored For Work In Field Of Computers

Greenville native, Dr. Frederick P. Brooks Jr., has received the annual award of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers for his "outstanding contribution to the computer art."

The W. Wallace McDowell Award for 1970 went to Dr. Brooks "for his significant contributions to computer architecture and programming and his leadership in cooperative efforts to further education in the computer field."

The son of Mrs. F. P. Brooks and the late Dr. Brooks of Greenville, Dr. Brooks Jr. is professor and chairman of the Department of Computer and Information Science at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He is currently on Kenan Leave from UNC as a visiting professor at Twente Technical University, Enschede, the Netherlands.

Before joining UNC in 1964 to establish the Department of Computer and Information Science, Dr. Brooks had been with the IBM Corporation in Poughkeepsie, N.Y. from 1956. He participated there in the design of the "STRETCH" and "HARVEST" systems, and later became corporate processor manager for development of IBM System-360. His last assignment with IBM before going to Chapel Hill was managing the development of Operating System-360. He coined the name and defined the profession of computer architect.

He holds several U.S. and foreign patents, has made a 50-minute film called "Introduction to System-360," and has numerous publications and papers to his credit.

He is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Association of Computing Machinery, the Institute for Management Science, Phi-Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, and is a fellow of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers. He also participates in several other professional activities including the ACM National Council as

Asheboro Gains 5,000 Citizens

ASHEBORO, N. C. (AP) — This city of 11,000 gained 5,000 residents when it absorbed the North Asheboro-Central Falls Sanitary District Wednesday. The merger doubled the size of Asheboro to about 10 square miles.

The Civil War began April 12, 1861.

Moon Rock Disappears

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Nicholas M. Short of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has lost a piece of the moon.

Short discovered a week ago the tiny fragment, weighing one-fiftieth of an ounce, was missing from a safe at the Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md.

He said Wednesday it is only about two-thirds the size of a garden pea and was stored in a vial.

"With good luck, I still feel it will be discovered," Short said. Short said the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, sent the material from Apollo 11, the first manned mission to the moon, to Goddard last December.

Short's mission was to look for shock effects from meteorite impact. He found none.

"It was of no further interest to our group. It was too small to do anything with."

Short said the vial containing the material was placed in a safe in December. NASA said the sample was included in an inventory made in late February, a month after another a lunar specimen disappeared from a public display in Los Angeles. That specimen was recovered intact.

Short said the Goddard loss was discovered after NASA recalled lunar material.

Other Goddard scientists said the missing fragment had been analyzed in detail and could yield no more data of significance.

Will Confer On Next Step In Schools Suit

RALEIGH (AP)—School Supt. Craig Phillips and other top state school officials plan to confer with Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan on what the next step should be in a suit brought against them.

Legal papers were served on Phillips, the Board of Education and others Wednesday in a broad desegregation suit which seeks to have state funds withheld from 20 school districts on ground they are not desegregated.

The suit was filed in U. S. Eastern Dist. Court by the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund.

The papers made codefendants of the board members and of Phillips and A. C. Davis, the board's controller.

Gov. Scott Is Very Pleased By Siena Concert

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott was "tremendously pleased" with a concert given at Siena, Italy by student-musicians from North Carolina School of the Arts in Winston-Salem.

"The place was filled," Scott said Wednesday in a telephone call to his office. "The North Carolina students were given a standing ovation. The conductor was called back four times. They sounded as good or better than professional musicians."

The governor and Mrs. Scott and two of their children, Susan, 13, and Kerr 12, flew to Italy early this week to visit the students, who are attending a summer session in Siena.

Scott told his office it was fiesta time in Siena. He said, "As near as I can describe it, it's like the Duke-Carolina football game."

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets steady to slightly stronger Wednesday, supplies barely adequate to short, demand fair to good. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:
Grade A large whites 48½-49, medium whites 37-38; small whites 27-28.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hog markets were mostly steady today with instances of 25 cents lower. Tops of 23.50-26.00 at Tarboro; 25.00-26.00 Rocky Mount; 24.50-24.75 Wilson; 24.25-24.75 Aberdeen; 24.00-24.50 Siler City, and Denton; 23.50-24.50 Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Newton Grove, Albertson, Lumberton and Bethel; 25.00 Greensboro, and 24.50 Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina live poultry market tone was weak today. Live, at-farm based valuation 13½ cents per pound. Too few sales reported to quote prices.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market inches upward today in moderate trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was ahead 4.45 to 692.09 at 11 a.m.

Gainers, held about a 540-3 lead over declines among the issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts noted that Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, said in Tokyo today that he believed there would be a resumption of the U.S. economic growth in the near future as well as a gradual lessening in the rate of price rises.

But most brokers said they did not expect much activity at today's session, the last of the week foreshortened by the long July 4 holiday.

Leaking Shrimp Boat Beached

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH N. C. (AP)—The Coast Guard beached a 25-foot shrimp boat Wednesday after pumps failed to keep up with water pouring in through a hole under its engine room.

The vessel, the Margaret Anne, had turned back out to sea for another throw of its nets Wednesday when it struck what the captain called a "hard, immobile object." He said he didn't think it was a submerged beach area. The boat was about a mile at sea at the time. The Coast Guard kept the boat afloat for a while with pumps and then beached it.

(Some Speculation About Eyes)

Have you ever thought about sight in the future? This week we are going to delve into some interesting speculations.

Man must change with the changing times. Physically, his lungs and eyes must change.

Man's eyes operate under dominance and servency. He is continually relying more on one eye than the other. His field of vision is also becoming narrower. It is conceivable that one day his two eyes will merge into one. It's fantastic but not impossible.

Presently, our binocular and stereoscopic vision is being gradually eliminated. The single orb of the future could regain this by developing two foveas. It's also possible that we may someday develop microscopic and telescopic vision. Today we use instruments for this. But thousands of years from now, they may be built in. Interesting speculation! It's something to think about.

Watch Next Week For (Space Age Vision)

Take good care of your eyes. Protect them with daily care and regular check-ups. And when you need glasses, come to RIDGEWAY'S OPTICIANS. We offer you a complete eyeglass service, and you'll find us most courteous and accommodating. See us first, RIDGEWAY'S OPTICIANS.

Exchange Rolls To 12-6 Victory Over Elks In Tar Heel Finale

The Exchange rolled to a 12-6 victory over the Elks to wrap up fourth place in the Tar Heel Little League yesterday. It was also the final regular season game for the loop.

The final standings show the Graniteers with a 14-1 mark, while Pepsi-Cola took second at 11-4. They were followed by the Moose, 10-5, the Exchange, 5-10, the Elks, 0-12, and Integon, 2-13.

The Exchange pushed over three runs in the first inning. Thil Hurlley led off with a walk and Darrell Roebuck singled. Mike Belton walked, loading the bases, and Mike Brewington reached on an error, scoring Hurlley. Roebuck came over when Doug Paschal reached on an error, and Mike Jeffreys walked, scoring Belton.

In the third, the Exchange Lions win, playoffs open tie for 4th

The Lions edged the Optimists, 3-2, yesterday in the North State Little League and pulled into a tie for fourth place with Coca-Cola.

The Kiwanis finished the year with a 12-3 mark to claim the title, while the Jaycees took second, 9-6. R.C. Cola finished third at 7-8, while the Lions and Coca-Cola are both 6-9. The Optimists finished last with a 5-10 mark.

The Lions pushed over a run in the first inning to take the lead. Harry Pair walked and moved to second on a passed ball. He was wild pitched to third and scored when Connor Merritt slammed a double.

In the third, the Optimists came up with a run to tie it up. Jeff Aldridge walked and Ashley Bass reached on an error. Two straight wild pitches let Aldridge come over with the tying run.

The Lions pushed back into the lead in the fifth inning. Jeff Smith singled and moved around to third on wild pitches. Carlton Wall reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Smith.

Then, in the sixth, the Lions picked up the winning run. Jim Averett singled and moved up on an error. A passed ball moved him to third, and he scored when Edsel Garris grounded out.

The Optimists tried to rally, coming up with one in the bottom of the sixth. Bass walked and used wild pitches to reach third. He scored on B. G. Clark's ground out.

added two more for a 5-0 lead. Paschal walked and Jeffreys singled. Both stole up a base, and Ricky Armstrong grounded out, scoring Paschal. Gene Bunn reached on an error bringing in Jeffreys.

In the fourth, the Exchange pushed over five more runs, making their margin, 10-0. Roebuck reached on an error and Belton walked. Brewington singled to load the bases and Jeffrey's singled in Roebuck.

Armstrong got a hit to drive in Belton, and an error let Brewington score and moved up Jeffreys and Armstrong. Bunn walked, reloading the sacks. A walk to Hurlley brought in Jeffreys and Roebuck was hit by a pitch, forcing in Armstrong.

The Elks finally broke the ice in the fourth, scoring a run. Peter Hargett singled and moved around to third on a pair of errors. Ricky Skinner singled and the two runners worked the double steal with Hargett scoring.

In the fifth, the Exchange scored again. Jeffreys walked and came around to score on an error.

The Elks added two more in their half of the fifth. Bobby Mosley singled and stole second. Billy Glidewell walked and Franklin Davis also was passed to first, loading the bases. An error allowed Mosley to score and Hargett singled in Glidewell.

The Exchange picked up its final run in the sixth. Bunn singled and moved up on a ground out and an error. He scored on Roebuck's ground out.

The Elks added their final three in the sixth, also. Wayne Clemmons walked and Reggie Spain singled. Glidewell singled in Clemmons and Davis got a hit to score Spain. An error on the play let Glidewell come over with the final run.

The Elks added two more in their half of the fifth. Bobby Mosley singled and stole second. Billy Glidewell walked and Franklin Davis also was passed to first, loading the bases. An

Little League Playoffs Open

The Greenville Little Leagues playoffs begin today, aiming for the City Championships the middle of next week. The Kiwanis are the defending champions in the City match, while the Graniteers were last year's runners-up.

Both teams are favored again this year to reach the finals, having captured their respective league regular season championships.

Today, at Elm Street Park, two games will be played, starting at 4 p.m. In the first game, the Lions will take on R.C. Cola. Then, at 6 p.m., the Optimist meet Coca-Cola.

At Guy Smith Stadium, the Moose take on the Elks at 4 p.m. with the Exchange and Integon clashing at 6 p.m.

The tournament play continues Friday with four more games. At Elm Street at 4 p.m. the Jaycees take on the R.C. Lions survivor, while the Kiwanis meet the Coke - Optimist winner at 6 p.m.

At Guy Smith on Friday, Pepsi-Cola meets the Moose - Elks winner at 4 p.m., with the 6 p.m. game being between the Graniteers and the Exchange - Integon survivor.

The two Tar Heel League survivors will meet Monday at 4 p.m. at Elm Street, with the North State finalists meeting at 6 p.m.

The City championship, a best-of-three affair, starts Tuesday at 6 p.m. at Elm Street, continuing through Thursday, if necessary.

Race Develops For Third Place In Babe Ruth League After Wins

The race for third place in the Babe Ruth League tightened up last night as College View downed Planters Bank, 19-1, and Pepsi-Cola took State Bank, 11-6.

The results left the three teams only a half-game apart in the standings.

Carolina Dairy leads the loop with a 9-2 record, while Home Builders is 7-3. Planters is 6-6, College View, 5-5, and Pepsi is 5-6. State Bank brings up the rear with a 1-11 mark.

Planters grabbed the initial lead in its game, pushing over its only run in the fourth inning. Mike Wallace singled and moved up on Jum Wilson's errored grounder. He scored when William Carraway singled.

But that was it. In the top of the fifth, College View came up with eight runs to charge into the lead. Linwood Brown led off with a walk, and Lee Moore was safe on an error. Both advanced on an out, and Bobby Kittrell singled in both runners. Kittrell stole second and moved to third on an error, scoring on Howard Leggett's ground out. Robert Boles singled and John Harvey reached on an error. Luke Collie was safe on another miscue and Kenneh Tetterton also got on via an error, scoring Boles. Brown singled in Harvey and Collie and Moore reached on an error, scoring Tetterton. Brown stole third and scored the eighth run on a wild pitch.

Then, in the sixth, College View went wild again, pushing over 11 runs this time. Kittrell led off with a single and Leggett and Boles both walked. Harvey doubled to drive in all three runners, and Collie singled to score Harvey. Collie stole second and scored on Tetterton's hit. Brown reached on an error, moving Tetterton to third. A wild pitch moved Brown up, and Moore singled, scoring Tetterton and Brown. Cliff Allen reached on a fielder's choice, getting Moore. Kittrell was hit by a pitch and Leggett walked, loading the bases again. Boles then finished things off with a grand slam homer.

Kittrell led the College View hitting with three, while Boles, Harvey, and Collie each had two. No one had more than one for Planters.

Pepsi-Cola pushed off into the lead in the top of the first inning in its game with State Bank. Donald Cannon singled and stole second, scoring on Jack Jones single. John Barwick then homered to make it 3-0.

In the second, Pepsi added two more runs. Chuck Brown doubled, and Bill Ellington walked. Bobby Dough reached on a fielder's choice, loading the bases, and walks to Cannon and Jones forced in Brown and Ellington, running the score to 5-0.

State Bank picked up its first runs in the bottom of the second. Jerry White doubled and came over on a two-bagger by Al Heath. Heath later scored on an out.

In the third, State narrowed the gap to 5-3 with another run. Roy Hudson singled and moved up on a ground out, then moved safely to third on an error. He scored on Phil Dash's ground out.

Pepsi picked up another run in the fifth. Jones walked and Barwick singled. Jimmy Duckett got a hit, scoring Jones to make it 6-3.

State Bank kept up with two more runs in the fifth. Hudson walked and was wild pitched to second. He scored on White's singled. Heath reached on an error, allowing White to score.

But in the sixth, Pepsi broke it open with four runs, moving out to a 10-5 lead. Ellington walked, as did Al Salisbury. Cannon brought them both home with a round-tripper, scoring three runs. Jones then walked and was wild pitched to second. Walks to Barwick and Duckett loaded the bases, and another wild pitch scored Jones.

State managed one more run in the sixth. Danny Norris walked and so did Gil Whitford. Both stole up a base, and Hudson brought home Norris with a single.

Pepsi finished things off with a run in the seventh. Ellington walked, stole second and took third on an error. He was sacrificed home by Cannon.

Cannon and Barwick led the Pepsi hitting with two each. Hudson and White each had two for State Bank.

B.R. All-Stars Are Selected

League-leading Carolina Dairy dominated the Babe Ruth All-Star team chosen by the team managers earlier this week, and announced last night.

Carolina Dairy placed five men on the team, while Home Builders and Pepsi-Cola each had three chosen. Planters Bank and College View each had two selected, while last place State Bank failed to break a man into the lineup.

The team will participate in the area Babe Ruth tournament, to be held in Greenville, July 13-14.

Teams from New Bern, Havelock and Morehead City will join the hosting Greenville team in the tournament, with the winner advancing to the state tournament, to be held starting July 20 at Kings Mountain.

Bill Talton, coach of last year's regular season title winner, Pepsi-Cola, will coach this year's team.

Selected from Carolina Dairy were Robert Carraway, J.C. Daniels, Seth Jones, David Clifton and Dean Phillips. Wayne Bailey, Bill Lee and Harding Sugg were chosen from Home Builders.

From Pepsi-Cola came John Barwick, Edward Johnson and Jack Jones. Selected from Planters Bank were Stanley Cobb and Herb Wilkerson, while Bobby Kittrell and Howard Leggett represented College View.

McLain Dull In Return To Baseball

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

Denny McLain returned to the baseball wars Wednesday night and showed that he hadn't changed much. He still didn't know what he was doing.

The 26-year-old ace right-hander of the Detroit Tigers was tagged for five runs and eight hits, including three homers, in 5 1-3 innings but wasn't involved in the decision as Mickey Stanley singled home an unearned run in the 11th inning for a 6-5 victory over the New York Yankees.

"I was scared as hell, to be truthful," McLain admitted after getting several thunderous ovations from a packed house of 53,863, largest Tiger Stadium crowd in nine years, larger than any of the Detroit crowds during the 1968 World Series.

"I feel pretty good, but I'm not satisfied because I didn't go like a pitcher yet. I made a couple of mistakes."

Jerry Kenney, Thurman Ounsor and Bobby Murcer hit the mistakes out of the park.

"I really thought I was going to cry for a minute or swallow my tongue," McLain said of the crowd response to his first appearance since he was suspended from baseball for involvement with gamblers. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn decided that McLain was duped into investing in a Flint, Mich., book-making operation.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore blanked Cleveland 3-0, Minnesota edged Kansas City 2-1 in 10 innings, California shaded Milwaukee 4-3, Oakland zipped the Chicago White Sox 3-0 and Boston beat Washington 3-0.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs defeated St. Louis 5-0, Pittsburgh nipped the New York Mets 4-3, Cincinnati trounced Atlanta 9-2, Los Angeles downed Houston 6-3, San Francisco outslugged San Diego 12-7 and Montreal swept a doubleheader from Philadelphia 11-1 and 4-1.

Kenney said the Yankees were "waiting for McLain's curve ball and were taking it, since he was a bit off target. He'd get one curve over, miss with another and come in with the fast ball. But," Kenney added, "he will be pretty sharp before the season is over."

The Yankees dropped four games behind Baltimore in the AL East when Jim Palmer hurled an eight-hitter as the Orioles beat the Indians for the eighth straight time this season.

The Birds scored single runs in the second, third and fourth off rookie Rick Austin, Brooks Robinson launched two of the rallies with fluke doubles and Boog Powell doubled to start the other one.

A bases-loaded sacrifice fly by Rich Reese in the 10th inning gave Minnesota its winning run against Kansas City. Rick Renick homered for the Twins' other tally.

Jim Fregosi's two-run homer highlighted a three-run rally in the sixth inning that powered the Angels past the Brewers. Bob Burda hit his first AL homer for the losers.

Rollie Fingers, Paul Lindbald and Mudcat Grant combined on a four-hitter as the A's turned back the White Sox on Sal Bando's RBI single in the sixth inning and a two-run homer by Bert Campaneris in the ninth. Two-run homers by Carl Yastrzemski and George Scott broke open a tie game in the seventh inning and the Red Sox survived a counter rally to edge the Senators 6-5.

The Nats, who had won four straight games with late-inning heroics, got two in the eighth and one in the ninth but Sparky Lyle pitched out of trouble both times.

Cale Takes Pole For Firecracker

By F. T. MACFEELY

Associated Press Writer

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Cale Yarborough interrupted a fishing trip Wednesday to boost his Firecracker 400 stock car qualifying record to 191.640 miles per hour.

It earned him an immediate $200 and the pole position in Saturday's $95,000 race for the big Grand National stockers.

But Tiny Lund, whose skill and luck have won 13 of this year's 16 races in the Camaro-Cougar-Javelin Grand American division, didn't reach the speedway in time to try for the pole in the Paul Revere 250, which starts at midnight Friday as a preliminary event to the Daytona 400 for big cars.

Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., who loves racing more than fishing, stepped into a 1970 Javelin and won the Paul Revere pole over a road-track course at 104.154 m.p.h.

Yarborough spent Monday looking for fishing spots in the Gulf of Mexico and checking on progress of a new 30-foot cruiser he is having built at Perry, Fla. But he came to Daytona International Speedway, shook down his 1969 Mercury, and put it in his favorite starting place—first.

Yet even the record, which wiped out his own 190.706 of a year ago, didn't please the husky young blond veteran from Timmonsville, S.C.

"Track conditions were mighty fine and the car was perfect," Yarborough said, "but I was a little off. I pinched it in too low on the first and second turns and got a little wiggly. That always costs you."

Bobby Isaac of Catawba, N.C., put his brand new 1970 Dodge Daytona in the starting front row beside Yarborough. Isaac expressed satisfaction with his 190.142 speed, "since we haven't got the car handling exactly like we want it and are still working on it."

The defending champion, the third fastest qualifier, Lee Roy Yarborough, on Columbia, S.C., was disgusted to learn that his 1969 Mercury's best lap was only 189.685 m.p.h.

"I hoped to be in the 190s," he said. "I didn't figure to beat Cale, but Isaac slipped up on us. Maybe it's because we qualified with our racing engine. It only has 40 miles on it and isn't broken in."

Kinston Tops Raynez Tankers

Greenville swimmers were defeated by a traditionally strong Kinston team 320-132 at Kinston Wednesday afternoon.

Out of 56 events Kinston swept 26. Greenville was able to take all the points in 7 and the teams divided the points in the remaining 23 events.

Greenville's Raynez Swim team was able to enter a boys 15-17 freestyle for the first time in several years. Tom Adams, David Bowman, Arthur Fahner, and John Wooten took the points for Greenville in both the medley and free relays in this age group.

One Greenville swimmer was first in three events. Don McGlohon took first in the 25 yard 8 and under boys freestyle in 19.6, backstroke in 22.8 and butterfly in 25.0.

For the 9 and 10 boys 50 yard events Don Tucker was first in freestyle with a time of 35.3 and backstroke with a time of 41.1. Don was second in breaststroke.

Ellen Bond in the 11 and 12 girls 50 yard events was first in breaststroke in 44.7 and backstroke in 41.6 and second in freestyle.

Jane Elam, Greenville's only 15-17 girl swimmer was first in two events; 100 yard freestyle in 1:12.6 and 100 yard backstroke in 1:28.1.

Three other Greenville swimmers all 9-10 girls were first place winners. Janet Gantt was first in butterfly in 49.8 as well as second in freestyle and backstroke. Kiela McGlohon was first in breaststroke with a time of 48.8 and third in backstroke. Kiela placed seventh in freestyle. Susan Tucker took first in this age group. Kathy Collie was third in freestyle and butterfly and seventh in breaststroke. Lynn Tucker was fifth in backstroke and sixth in breaststroke. Margaret McGlohon was fifth in breaststroke.

For the 11 and 12 girls Barbara Bond was third in breaststroke and backstroke and fifth in freestyle. Jane Farley was third in butterfly and fifth and sixth in backstroke and freestyle. Lynn Gantt was fourth in breaststroke and Selene Wheles took fifth and sixth in butterfly and backstroke respectively.

15-17 boys winning points and places were: Tom Adams, second in breaststroke, third in backstroke and sixth in butterfly; John Wooten, third in freestyle and butterfly and fifth in backstroke; and David Bowman, fourth in freestyle.

For the 9-10 boys Karl Topper was third in butterfly and fifth and sixth in backstroke and freestyle. In the same age group Mack Stocks was third in breaststroke and sixth in backstroke while Tom Johnson placed seventh in freestyle.

Billy Billica took a second in butterfly and placed fifth in backstroke in the 11-12 boys 50 yard events.

Finally, for the 8 and under boys Bill Dawson took second in butterfly and sixth in breaststroke while his brother John placed fifth in breaststroke.

PLANTERS NATIONAL BANK

SO CUT IT OUT

Confused about new savings rates? Take heart . . . so are the Philadelphia lawyers.

But just remember, it's all in the box, and Planters National Bank pays the highest rate permitted under Federal Reserve regulations.

No insured full-service bank pays a higher rate.

However, Planters does pay more than many banks . . . more, in fact, than most banks.

For instance, few financial institutions compound regular passbook savings monthly. PNB does. This pays EXTRA money to savers. Plus Daily Interest!

And on the popular Golden Passbook, interest is compounded DAILY. This isn't quarterly or even monthly compounding. It's daily compounding to yield a liberal 5.127 Percent annually. So, again, PNB Golden Passbook savers enjoy extra earning power not available at most institutions.

Now you see why PNB says "We want to help you save money".

Still confused? Okay, then come in and let's talk about your particular needs and objectives. Together, we'd like to tailor a plan that's best for you!

OPEN FRIDAY 9 To 9

New Atlanta Pastor Optimistic Over Rare Role

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

On Sunday, June 28, the congregation of Calvary United Methodist Church in Atlanta, Ga. heard the first sermon by their new pastor, the Rev. Mr. Henry Joyner Jr.

The fact that everything went smoothly that Sunday normally would not merit comment but the situation in Atlanta involved a first for the Georgia Methodist denomination.

Until the Rev. Mr. Joyner, a native of Greene County near Snow Hill, assumed his duties as pastor of the Atlanta church, no black minister in modern history had ever been appointed to serve a white Methodist Church in Georgia.

Commenting by telephone Wednesday, the Rev. Joyner recalled his days in Greenville, his "adopted hometown," and the events that led to his current duties as pastor of a predominantly white church.

"Actually, I kind of adopted, Greenville as my hometown when I was around 12 years old," he recalled, when his parents moved from their Greene County residence to Pitt about 1949 or 1950.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Joyner Sr., the Rev. Joyner attended schools "in and around Greenville and Pitt County," he said, and spent "two or three years at Eppes High School" before leaving while in the tenth grade to volunteer for Air Force duty during the Korean War.

The Rev. Mr. Joyner recalled that the late W. H. Davenport was principal at Eppes during his schooling there and he also remembered studying under Allan E. Murrell, who is now principal at Eppes Junior High School.

"I remember thinking then that some of those teachers were really bad people but looking back now, I know they were good people," he said.

While in the Air Force, Mr. Joyner completed requirements for his high school diploma at the United States Armed Forces Institute in Madison, Wis.

While in service, he served a six months tour of duty at the Azores Islands, a territory under Portuguese rule, and received his honorable discharge in May of 1954. "That was a big day," he noted.

After receiving an "early out" from service for the purpose of going to school to become a minister, Mr. Joyner enrolled in A & T College in Greensboro in 1955, and later received his Bachelor of English and Social Studies Degree.

"I taught high school English in Virginia and North Carolina for four years while pastoring simultaneously in Virginia, South and North Carolina," he recalled.

After teaching, he enrolled in 1961 at the Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary in Wake Forest but "money ran out and I had to resume my teaching duties again for a while," he said.

Finally, receiving a full academic scholarship in 1967 to Gammon Theological Seminary ITC in Atlanta, the Rev. Mr. Joyner continued his studies and received his Master of Divinity there in May of 1969.

"I enrolled at Emory University's Candler School of Theology in September of 1969 and received my Master of Christian Education degree in June of 1970," the minister continued.

At the time, he was serving the Warren Temple United Methodist Church in LaGrange, Ga. and Newman Chapel United Methodist Church in Newman, Ga.

In May of this year, he added, he was transferred from the black Georgia Conference of United Methodist Church to the predominantly white North Georgia Conference.

The Rev. Mr. Joyner noted that the district was considering the appointment of a black minister to the white North Georgia Conference and that he was recommended for the job by the district superintendent of the southwest Atlanta district, Dr. C. S. Stinson.

"I was apprehensive," he said flatly, "but in spite of that, I was somewhat optimistic and prayerful that if those people had that much confidence in me, somehow I could do the job."

His appointment came through Bishop John Owen Smith and with it the distinction of being the first black minister even assigned to an all-white Methodist Church in Georgia.

Speaking of his first Sunday as pastor of Calvary Methodist, the Rev. Mr. Joyner said happily that the entire situation there was "very encouraging."

"There naturally was a bit of apprehension evident but I think the thing really came through was the friendliness of the congregation," he said. "It was wonderful."

"I hope the folks here will get to know me. I think we can accomplish some positive things and naturally I hope that I can do well here."

He pointed out that the church membership of approximately 250 was entirely white when he assumed his pastoral duties but noted with pride that three Negro members had joined since then.

"I hope to stay here as long as I can," he added. "It will be good to get back to Greenville to visit; I have of fond memories of that city."

The Rev. Mr. Joyner is married to the former Anne Wofford of Charlotte and they have a five year old son, Henry Joyner III. His mother, Mrs.

Minnie Bell Joyner still resides in Greenville. His father passed away several years ago, he noted.

Decide Next Step Soon On Holdouts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, faced with 100 Southern school districts that still defy Supreme Court desegregation edicts, is without a course of action only nine weeks before classes reopen this fall.

But Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard declared Wednesday that "the period of negotiations is ended" and promised the administration would decide by early next week how to move against the holdout districts.

He indicated the administration will attempt to avoid using "an iron fist" against districts that have escaped federal legal action for 16 years after the high court's dictum to erase dual school facilities for blacks and whites.

Emerging from a meeting with Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, Education Secretary Elliott Richardson and Postmaster General Winton M. Blount, Leonard said the emphasis this fall would be on securing local cooperation as it has been for most of this year.

But the chief of the Justice Department's civil rights division did not rule out the possibility of bringing statewide suits in areas where school segregation is too widespread to handle by individual litigation.

Engineer Optimistic Over People Saving Ecology

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Technology —marked by many as the villain in the battle to save our environment —can be prodded into the role of ecological hero, but it will take lots of "people pressure" and untold billions of dollars.

That's the view of Dr. Rolf Eliassen, a Stanford University civil engineer who has spent three decades working on air, land and water pollution controls.

Eliassen is optimistic about man's ability to avert ecological disaster because he believes the necessary scientific and engineering know-how already is available and because he thinks pessimism is useless.

Technology To Control
"We have become too preoccupied with disaster—with an ecological doomsday," he warned in an interview. "We must take a more hopeful stand, otherwise, we might as well give up and just have a hell of a good time if we're doomed anyway."

"One of the things we've got to watch out for is that technology has become the target of so many so-called ecological conservationists. Technology is being held responsible, for the ecological crisis they say exists. "Now we technologists could avert the crisis if this country were to insist on using technology more extensively to control pollution and to create a better environment for man and his future generations."

Cure Comes From $$$
That means spending money and putting pressure on politicians and industry, according to Eliassen. It also means controlling population growth—because "people are the ones who are really causing the so-called environmental crisis."

His specific suggestions include nationwide air pollution controls, reclamation of sewage water for reuse and tough water pollution laws, more nuclear power plants, antinuclear ordinances, and recycling of solid wastes, especially paper.

The costs will be enormous and the public, which will eventually pay the bill as taxpayers and consumers, must keep the pressure on elected officials and, through them, on industry.

'Pressure On Officials'
"We need pressure on elected officials so they can be made to understand the gospel," he said. "President Nixon felt those pressures. He wasn't very anxious at first, but switched onto the environmental bandwagon."

"Remember, when pressure gets tough, politicians would rather not fight than switch." As for business, Eliassen feels it must be forced to end pollution through legislation.

"We've tried persuasion, and it hasn't been too successful. Some industries have come along and done some things which are all right. But so many have done terrible things," he observed.

"The maximizing of profits doesn't allow you to spend much money on pollution controls. Many company managers would like to be good neighbors, but they're afraid they can't justify the cost. Some welcome control laws—they give them a crutch."

Reasonable Controls
Eliassen insists such controls must be reasonable and not so stringent they bring industry, transportation and other segments of the economy to a halt.

While voicing general optimism about technological solutions, he does admit some past engineering efforts have created worse problems than they solved.

"We're using water where we shouldn't be using it. Los Angeles is a case in point. They should have shut off the water there long ago. There are too many people and there's not enough air for them.

"When one resource of nature is limited, such as air, then we shouldn't come in —we as engineers —and say we'll give them more water even if there isn't enough air, and let them kill themselves or whatever they do."

"We should shut off one resource when we've reached the limit of another one. And put the people somewhere else, perhaps."

New Pastor Here Sunday

The Westminster Chapel, meeting temporarily in the civic room of Planters Bank, has called the Rev. Carl R. Chewning as its new pastor.

The Rev. Chewning will speak at both services Sunday.

The new pastor comes to Greenville from Cordell, Okla., where he was pastor of the Bible M. B. Church. He has been pastor of Bethany Bible Church in Springdale, Ark. and has served as associate chaplain at the Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas, Tex.

He attended Davis & Elkins College in West Virginia and received his B. A. degree in history at Bob Jones University in Greenville, S. C. He has a Master of Theology degree in systematic theology from Dallas Theological Seminary and has done additional graduate work at the University of Arkansas and Southwestern College in Oklahoma.

The Chewnings have two sons and are now living at 1809 Greenville Boulevard here.

New Umbrella Is Disposable

TOKYO (UPI)—A Japanese firm is selling a disposable umbrella designed to be used once and thrown away. The umbrella, even its handle, is made entirely of paper and sells in Tokyo for 100 yen (27 cents). It's collapsible, folding small enough to be carried in pocket or handbag.

The maker, Kamika Company, is planning to sell the umbrellas at rail stations, tobacco stores, newsstands and supermarkets for pedestrians caught in sudden rainstorms.

BIG BUSING
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Southern California Rapid Transit District is the second largest bus system in the country after New York City. It operates 1,500 diesel buses driving 180,000 miles each day.

Pool Rules Will Be Changed To Cover Situation

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP)—A liberated female swimmer's topless dunk prompted Washington State University officials to add a rule to its list of regulations for use of a new gymnasium swimming pool.

The young lady took the swim during pool hours, and a supervisor on duty did nothing to interfere because there was no rule against it.

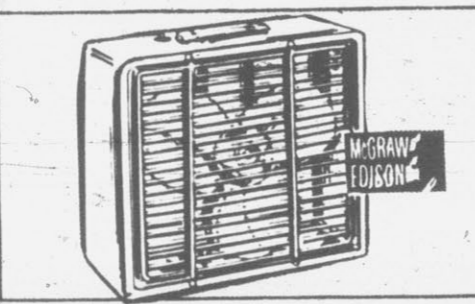

UW Recreation Supervisor Robert L. Stephens said that when the pool opened, no thought was given to such a rule. He said things would change, however.

The coed, who asked to remain unnamed, said she wanted to demonstrate her disapproval of society's insistence that women cover their breasts while men go topless.

More than 70 million Americans enjoy outdoor swimming each summer.

The Worry Clinic

Women Prefer Some Variety

Mark's wife is typical of her sex. For men worship at the shrine of "efficiency" but women crave change, variety, novelty and "surprises." Even at restaurants, which sex wants to sample unique menu items and new foods, vs. the usual steak and potatoes? Which sex dislikes getting a new hat.

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D., M. D. CASE N-550: Mark H., aged 42, is a lawyer. "Dr. Crane," he groaned, "my wife is a wonderful woman. "But there are times when I explode in anger at her,

"For example, I spend a lot of time at night in my den, where I have my books and papers, plus a typewriter.

"I'll admit it looks quite untidy to outsiders. But I always know where I have scattered my papers and notes around the room.

"Maybe I have a geographical mind, for I can reach with my eyes shut and find almost any book or paper in my den.

"Well, my wife has a mania to sort and file and clean up every room in our house.

"She is meticulous in that regard, which is fine if she would confine her activities to her realm.

"But yesterday she decided to renovate my den.

"Last night I was in a hurry to type off some notes and when I reached for my original papers they weren't there!

"It took me half the night to find the things she had neatly sorted and filed away.

"Dr. Crane, why will women go on these periodic sprees of house - cleaning, even when unneeded and unwanted?"

Women always remain emotionally at the halfway point between the adult male and a child!

And I mention this, not in criticism, for it is one of women's greatest assets.

In fact, that's why a mother usually has far better rapport with the children than does their daddy.

And that also explains why kiddies come to their mother for advice or to make confession.

For she is the go - between.

In childhood, boys and girls look up to the giant adults around them, namely, their parents, teachers, policemen, etc.

And both boys as well as girls will then cry when they are afraid or get a splinter in their finger.

But by the teens, the boys learn to replace fear and tears with anger.

The girls still cry and even do so when they are adult women. For wives are always half - child and half - adult in their adult emotional state.

They gain equality with men in

I. Q. or mental age, and often attain a higher status in college.

But they still retain many of the child's emotional outlooks.

And one of these is a desire for change, excitement, novelty, as in the rearrangement of furniture and the desire for new dresses or hats, drapes, rugs, etc.

The usual male, by contrast, dislikes change! He knows it is more efficient to find his tools, clothes and desk paper just where he laid them down the last time he used them.

But meticulous wives, eager to rearrange surroundings, consider novelty a far more attractive concept than efficiency.

It is men who organize, think ahead and use the "agenda" plan for scheduling their work. Wives dislike such "regimentation." They crave freedom to change and alter and "surprise" their mates with new recipes, new rugs, etc.

Even in romance, the usual husband is regarded as stodgy by his wife!

And at fancy restaurants, he ignores exotic dishes to order his standard steak and pie!

ACC Merger Is Now Completed

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The merger by which the American Credit Corp. of Charlotte becomes a wholly owned subsidiary of the Wachovia Corp. of Winston - Salem became official Wednesday.

The Justice Department had obtained a temporary injunction on the ground the merger of the two giant financial concerns would violate antitrust laws. But a federal court in Charlotte refused to bear the merger, and it came official with the filing of articles of merger in the office of the North Carolina secretary of state.

3 ♠ Pass 4 ♣ Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♣. East showed commendable restraint in remaining silent throughout the auction and not doubling his opponent's four heart contract. His caution merited a better fate—for his opponent, South, manipulated the cards with considerable skill to overcome the adverse trump break and bring the contract safely home.

South opened with a demand bid of two hearts and North dutifully kept the auction open until game was reached. When South rebid three spades, North took his partner back to hearts inasmuch as he held three cards in each suit.

West opened the six of clubs and East cashed the king and ace and then led a third round which South ruffed with the jack of hearts.

The ace of hearts revealed the bad news in trumps and it appeared that declarer must go down to defeat. The club force had reduced him to one less heart than held by his opponent, and the loss of a diamond trick appeared inevitable.

South's only chance was to find favorable distribution in the side suits. He played the king of spades and then crossed over to the ten of hearts by leading the three—to take a spade finesse. When the jack of spades held, he cashed his two high trumps and the ace of spades—and was gratified when the suit divided evenly.

South continued with the five of spades which was now established and East ruffed with the nine of hearts. The latter was left with the king-jack of diamonds and the forced diamond return enabled South to take the last two tricks with the queen and ace of that suit. He limited his losses to two clubs and one heart.

128th Birthday For Ex-Slave On Fourth Of July TV Log

BARTOW, Fla. (AP) — Charlie Smith, an ex-slave who still wears a gunbelt from his days as a Texas cowboy, will celebrate his 128th birthday July 4.

Charlie, who lives and keeps store in a small Bartow building, is the oldest person on Social Security rolls. He has been drawing payments since he was 113. That's when they made him stop climbing ladders to pick oranges.

When he was 12, Mitchell Watkins was kidnaped from Liberia and brought to America for sale as a slave. A Texas rancher bought him, renamed him Charlie Smith and picked July 4 as his birthday.

When slaves were freed, Charlie says, he became a Texas cowboy. He has worn two belts ever since, one to hold his pants up and the other for a .45 he hasn't carried in years.

Hussein's Survival Is Indicative Of His Strength

By JOHN E. MANTLE
AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — He speaks in the flawless tones of a cultured English intellectual, has a mania for fast expensive cars and surrounds himself with courtiers who would not look out of place in a high fashion salon.

Ibn Talal Hussein, 35, monarch of the Hashemite kingdom of Jordan, has all the accouterments of kingship. He rules from a marble and granite palace perched atop one of Amman's eight, flower-strewn hills, and is surrounded by devoted attendants.

Below the palace, in Hussein's Sprawling capital, it seems almost a different world. There the atmosphere is brooding and bitter, a city where Arab guerrillas roam the streets in camouflage battle uniforms and where almost everyone carries a gun.

Survival Proves Power
The tense streets contradict

the elegant, quiet building up the hill. Yet, in one of the paradoxes of the warring Middle East today, the diminutive king remains a force — an uneasy force perhaps, but a force. His survival alone is proof of his strength. The overthrow of Hussein has been freely predicted for all the years he has ruled, beginning in 1952.

In an area of extremes, Hussein has sought moderation. Even the volatile Al Fatah commandos who use Amman as a base for operations across the Jordan River into Israeli-held territory say they would not want the king to lose his throne. Most Jordanians and Palestinians seem to feel the same.

When I was invited in to greet him one day recently, he was cordial if not especially forthcoming, and seemingly in good spirits. Sitting at a desk in his study, decorated in turquoise and dark wood but austere in its appointments, Hussein reached down suddenly to pull a magazine from a drawer and then pretended for a moment to be deeply absorbed in its contents.

Keeping Busy
With a smile at Zeid Rifai, his chief of protocol and personal friend, the king remarked that it was important that he look busy. Then to me he said, "I shall in fact be very busy the next couple of days but if you can stick around we'll do lots of things together." It may have been simple politeness, but the note was one of sincerity.

Later that day I had a chat with one of the king's palace staff, a second lieutenant in the Jordanian army. He showed me his pistol, a Belgian automatic loaded with 14 bullets, and said he was never without it.

"Every guard in the palace is a crack shot and a marksman," he said. "We can hit anything. We have to be prepared always."

All the officers and men on duty at any of Hussein's three palaces are hand-picked men. In many cases their fathers and sometimes their grandfathers served the Hashemite kingdom before them.

Devotion From Staff
The men at the palaces refer to Hussein as "my king." His presence invokes extraordinary demonstrations of affection. At a reception attended by the king and his English wife, Muna, I watched a senior police officer break into a run across the room, clasp the king's hands and bend nearly double to press them against his lips.

Other soldiers seemed hardly able to restrain themselves when they approached him. Many clasped his hands for several seconds, then hurried on red in the face with emotion.

The king is a small man, even by Arab standards. But he has a very deep and pleasant voice and does his best to keep palace pomp and formalities to the minimum. He walks around the palace grounds unescorted and roars up to official ceremonies in a sporty specially-equipped, silver Mercedes convertible, one of several similar palace cars. He likes to stop and chat with his soldiers and sometimes grins, waves or winks at visitors during official ceremonies.

No Time To Relax
A palace official warned me not to be misled by the king's lighthearted mood. "He may not look it, but he works harder than anyone all day and most of the night," the aide said. "He is a deeply worried man about the decreasing possibilities of peace in the Middle East and is continually working for peace and the interests of Jordan."

One of the king's favorite pastimes is water-skiing at his country home at Aqaba, in southern Jordan just across a narrow strip of sea from Israel. But visitors no longer are welcomed there.

"We are a country at war. Our policy is not to show our king relaxing at such times," a palace spokesman said.

More than 100,000 Palestinians have been living in refugee camps on the outskirts of Amman since Israel's occupation of the west bank of the Jordan River. At Baqa'a, the biggest camp where nearly 60,000 people live in tents and corrugated iron sheds, Al Fatah commandos talked to me about King Hussein.

"We believe he is a man who is for Jordan and her people," said one. "We are for action and we have disagreed with him many times. But he hasn't backed down and we have reached a compromise."

Satchmo 70 On Fourth Of July

NEW YORK (AP) — "Old Satch is happy at 70." Louis Armstrong talking. He turns three score and ten on the Fourth of July.

Armstrong, born Independence Day, 1900, in New Orleans, learned to play the trumpet as a boy and played it as a man in such a way that he's now considered the greatest single influence on that American musical form — also born in New Orleans — jazz.

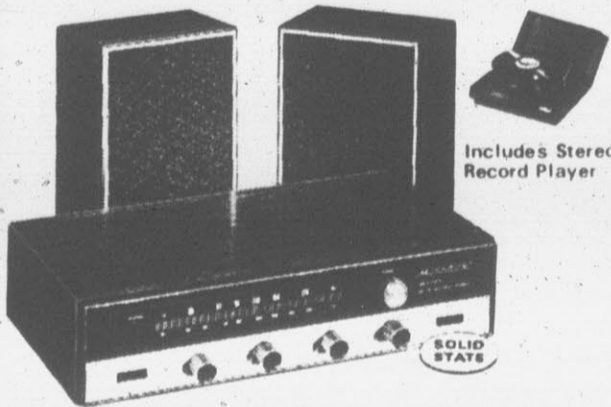

"I'm happy," Armstrong said the other day. "Everytime I wake up it's a good day and I feel in the pink. It's awful nice to be breathing on your 70th birthday, let alone feeling in the pink."

Armstrong will celebrate his birthday in Los Angeles. A big tribute is planned for him there on Friday night. He isn't going to be playing the trumpet, since he's still taking things easy after shaking off a kidney infection. But he's going to appear and he'll sing.

The celebration will be a concert at the Shrine Auditorium, with proceeds to go to the Louis Armstrong Statue Fund. The site for the proposed statue has not been announced. Many old time jazz greats who played with Armstrong will be there to wish him many happy returns. Birthday tributes also are planned overseas, where Armstrong is almost as famous as he is in his native land.
