Board Given 24 Days To Act

Larkins Orders New City School Plan

The Greenville City School Board has been given 24 days in which to submit a new school plan for the coming school year. Federal District Judge John Larkins made the ruling yesterday at this office in Trenton.

In the memorandum opinion and order, Judge Larkins ordered the Greenville Board of Education to "submit to the court within 24 days a plan utilizing pairing, grouping, rezoning or other facility or planning method for the achievement of racial integration of students and of faculty within the City of Greenville School District."

Judge Larkins further ordered that the requested new plan "shall affirmatively include provision for the desegregation of faculty specifically and for the elimination of discrimination in extra-curricular activities and in the transportation of children." He ruled that the present plan of the Board of Education "is deficient of teachers and school personnel . . ."

Plaintiffs in the civil suit, Douglas Edwards and his mother Eula Edwards had asked for the immediate implementation of a plan which would eliminate all black or all white schools and to establish a ratio of black to whites in school assignment in direct ratio to the total school population. The Board of Education was also asked to be enjoined from future school construction unless it could be shown that this would not cause the perpetuation of a dual school system.

Under the current school plan for the coming school year adopted by the board, there is one all white school, Eastern Elementary, and one all black school, Sadie Sautter Elementary, which are the result of population pattern in communities. Attendance in elementary schools is based on zoning of geographical areas. In all except these two schools, both black and white students are in attendance with a ratio which varies with the population pattern within each school zone. School Attorney W.W. Speight noted the order signed by Judge Larkins and filed July received by Speight and school officials in Greenville this morning.

No immediate plans for an approach to the requirements stipulated by Judge Larkins have been made at this time, but it is understood school attorneys and school officials will begin work on details within the next couple of days.

Jenkins Stresses Land Needs For Growing Campus

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES

The East Carolina University campus, now narrowly confined on approximately 300 acres in Greenville, is bursting at the seams and spilling out of cracks around its edges.

Space for future growth and expansion has become extremely important in long-range planning for the university. Thus acquisition of additional land was stressed by ECU officials in presenting requests for capital improvement appropriations totaling $28,575,000 to the Advisory Budget Commission here yesterday.

Specifically, ECU proposed acquiring three tracts of land contiguous to the campus totaling 35 acres at a cost of $3 million.

"We can live without this additional land right now," said Dr. Leo Jenkins, ECU president. "But it would be to the best advantage of the state to obtain it when it is available at a lower cost."

Jenkins outlined plans for expansion of the campus both in easterly and westerly directions and said eventually "this will be a pedestrian campus" with parking of vehicles only on the perimeter. Historically, he said, expansion of the campus "has been ideal in terms of direction" but now much has been closed in.

The largest parcel proposed for acquisition is a 17 to 18 acre tract of undeveloped land between Tenth and Fourteenth Streets. Other tracts would be east of the campus to Maple Street and on the West side along Ninth Street.

Jenkins, Vice president and Dean Robert Holt and Business Manager Clifton Moore, making the presentation, placed equal top priority on a $3.2 million addition to the library and a $3.7 million School of Art building.

"These are most urgent needs," Jenkins said. "We would not place one over the other because both are essential." He said the Art School building would permit much needed expansion of the School of Business as well as providing modern, convenient facilities for the Art School.

Jenkins said land needed for the library addition and a new Student Union, already authorized, is being acquired on the west side of the campus. Nineteen homes are located on this property. Six have been purchased, ECU has options on four and condemnation proceedings have been started to acquire nine others, he said.

He also disclosed for the first time plans for a two building complex for use as a Continuing Education center on a redevelopment tract obtained by the university on Fifth Street across from the high rise women's dormitories.

The complex will include an auditorium and classrooms for seminars and workshops, eating facilities, limited housing space and a display and demonstration center which could be utilized by

Will Appeal

"We are filing a notice of appeal," Mayor Frank M. Wooten, Jr. commented today referring to the judgment order placed on file in the office of the Clerk of Superior Court yesterday for the recent court hearing on the Central Business Development project.

The order, signed by Superior Court Judge Joseph W. Parker, ruled "that the plaintiffs' prayer for relief in every respect be and are hereby denied; further, it is ordered, adjudged and decreed that the costs of this action as taxed by the Clerk be taxed against plaintiffs."

The plaintiffs - Mayor Wooten and others - had ten days in which to file a notice of appeal. The mayor indicated that no final decision has been made on details of the appeal, but that this would be forth-coming within a week's time.

The court costs ordered by Judge Parker to be paid by the plaintiffs cover such matters as fees levied by the Clerk of Court, fees for serving summons and for filing the complaint.

Census Data Disappoints

WASHINGTON (AP) - A preliminary report from the 1970 census puts North Carolina's population at 4,966,869, a gain of 410,000 in the decade but short of projections.

The figure was reported by the office of Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., and other Tar Heel lawmakers in the capital.

The figure is 200,000 short of estimates made by population experts and less than the Census Bureau had estimated four years ago.

If the final figure is close to the preliminary one, it means North Carolina's net population growth was the smallest since the Civil War decade 100 years ago.

The preliminary figure was reported to North Carolina's congressional delegation after it was relayed to the Census Bureau headquarters by Joseph Norwood, regional census director at Charlotte.

Complete census figures by counties are expected in a day or so. Figures for about half the counties and many municipalities already have been made public.

They touched off widespread criticism alleging under-counting.

Census officials say the state's total population figure should rise when North Carolina servicemen overseas are added. And they cautioned that final figures will not be ready until December.

If the final figure is close to the preliminary one, North Carolina net growth during the 1960s was 400,714 instead of over 600,000 that had been predicted by state officials and experts at the North Carolina Population Center at Chapel Hill.

Leaf Growers Vote July 16

Flue-cured tobacco growers will vote July 16 on the continuation of the acreage-pouidage program on flue-cured tobacco for the 1971, 1972 and 1973 crops of flue-cured tobacco.

The upcoming referendum will be held at polling places that will be announced by county ASC committees. All farmers will be notified of the polling places. The polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

The flue-cured program was approved initially by growers for the 1938 crop. It failed to gain the required two-thirds majority for the 1939 crop. The current acreage control program has been in effect since 1940. Since that time it has been approved by growers, in addition to the special pouidage referendum in 1965. In 1967 farmers approved the acreage-pouidage program for the 1968-1969 and 1970 crop.

At least two-thirds of the growers voting must approve the program for it to continue.

If farmers vote yes, acreage-pouidage marketing quotas will continue in effect for the next three crops. Price support will be available on up to 110 percent of their farm pouidage quotas if they do not exceed their farm allotments, and do not use DDT or TDE on their tobacco.

If growers vote no, there will be unlimited production. There will be no price support and there will be a similar referendum next year.

Moody Resigns As Member Of Pitt Education Board

By BLANCHE HARDEE

Reflector Staff Writer

Dr. W. A. Moody yesterday resigned from the Pitt County Board of Education. William E. House of Bethel was named to replace him.

The Pitt Board of Education accepted Moody's resignation which was tendered because of business and other personal commitments.

Moody had been a member of the board for five years, and represented the Bethel and Belvoir areas. The physician moved his practice from Bethel to Greenville several months ago.

House is a lifelong resident of Bethel and is a farmer.

The board voted to send Moody a letter expressing their appreciation for his services to the board.

The board set Monday, August 3, as the date for a public hearing to discuss the discontinuance and consolidation of high schools in the county.

The meeting is necessary by law before the discontinuance or consolidation of any high school within an average daily attendance of 60 or more pupils can be made.

Bids will be opened Thursday for bleachers for the North Pitt and D. H. Conley High Schools.

Acting on the advice of architects, the board members rejected bids from two firms for rough-grading the athletic field at the Ayden - Grifton High School.

Bids from W. A. Gaskins of Grifton, totaling $1,850, and Morris Construction Co., in the amount of $2,000, were considered high by the architects. New bids will be taken in the near future.

Board members yesterday filled four positions made available by a recent occupational allotment.

The positions, each 12 months, will be occupied by: Sam D. Dewar, North Pitt; Larry McLamb, Chicod; E. P. Bass, Farmville; and J. J. M. Brown, South Ayden.

William J. Edwards, assistant superintendent, reported on the progress of the summer school program.

Edwards said a total of 1,822 children (Readiness through fifth grade) are participating in summer school activities this year. A total of 55 high school students are taking make-up courses.

"We feel our summer school program gets better each year," Edwards told the board.

A total of 312 more elementary students are participating in the program over last year's figure.

Edwards said 71 teachers and 71 aides are working with the program which is being taught in 11 county schools.

Bill Stroud, chairman of the Ayden Advisory Council, appeared before the board to discuss the reorganization and desegregation of schools in Ayden next fall.

The board agreed to take under advisement the suggestions made by Stroud and his board members.

In other business yesterday, the board of education:

-approved having full-time non-teaching principals at each school with ten or more teachers;

-approved the utilization of local funds for music, art, choral band and library positions;

-voted not to join the North Carolina School Board Association;

-set the 23rd of each month as a fixed pay date for school personnel (this date is the same as in the past);

-passed a resolution supporting toll-free telephone service between Farmville and Greenville.

Uncounted Citizens Are Reporting In For Census

Initial response to efforts to locate Greenville citizens not counted in the 1970 official census have been fairly good, according to Harold Creech, Manager of Chamber of Commerce and Greenville Merchants Association.

"To date approximately 100 persons have contacted the Chamber of Commerce or called by phone to indicate they were not counted," Creech stated. He noted that in response to these contacts, the new abbreviated census forms are being furnished to persons who state they were not counted.

City Manager Harry Hagerty noted, "A few individuals have reported to the city hall with their original forms which were not picked up by census counters. The old forms are no longer good for a census count. The new forms must be used."

Creech revealed that Regional Census Director Joseph Norwood in Charlotte had sent 40 of the new forms. These are titled "Were You Counted" forms, and are the only ones authorized in a supplemental population count.

"The city manager contacted Norwood and received permission to reproduce these forms," Creech said, "as 40 were not enough to meet our initial demands."

In the letter from Norwood, instructions were outlined for using the "Were You Counted" forms. These include - each form must be filled out and signed by the individual claiming he was not originally counted; each must show street address; and the forms must be gathered and returned in one shipment to the "Were You Counted - Census Bureau" in Charlotte by July 15.

From Charlotte the forms will be sent to the processing office in Jefferson, Indiana, where they will be compared with the Greenville books.

"We are hopeful that people who were missed will take action to get the new forms, fill them out, and turn them in," Creech stated. "We are interested in getting an accurate count of Greenville's population, and believe it will go over 30,000."

The points which have been established for persons to contact are the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association Office; the city hall, the Office of Institutional Research in Wright Building on East Carolina University campus; and all banks and branches of banks in Greenville.

Democrats Warned To Elect Their Delegates

RALEIGH (AP) - If they want to be represented in next week's state Democratic convention, Democrats in several North Carolina counties must meet this week to choose their delegates properly.

This was reported by State Democratic Chairman Gene Simmons at a news conference Tuesday. He noted that at recent county conventions, no state convention delegates were chosen in some counties.

Instead, party chairmen announced that "all good Democrats" could attend and participate in the state convention as delegates.

Simmons acknowledged that this had been done in the past, but not any more. He pointed out that party rules say only duly elected delegates will be recognized and seated at the state convention.

The state party leader declined to name the counties that have not yet properly chosen their delegates. However, it was learned that among them was Mecklenburg, the state's largest county.

Simmons also told newsmen that he and Gov. Bob Scott would nominate former State Sen. Ed Kemp of High Point as permanent chairman of the state convention.

He also said he and Scott had agreed not to invite a prominent out-of-state Democrat to be the convention's keynote speaker.

Instead, he said, Scott will speak for about 10 minutes "and I will do the best I can to give what you might call a mini-keynote."

He denied that there had been a disagreement between him and Scott over a keynoter.

"I suggested a name and he (Scott) looked at the ceiling without comment," he recalled. "He suggested a name, and I looked at the ceiling. Then both of us worked out the plan I described."

Meanwhile, the Democrats' Platform and Resolutions Committee, headed by Miles Smith Jr. of Salisbury, went to work on an unprecedented number of resolutions.

Smith said more than 100 had been presented, many of the duplicates or taking a slightly different position on similar issues, such as the war and the environment.

Temporary Community Center For Moyewood

By TOM BAINES

Reflector Staff Writer

During a brief meeting last night, Housing Authority commissioners approved the temporary use of a housing unit in Moyewood as a community center while work is being done on a permanent facility.

Mrs. Sallye C. Streeter, director of tenant affairs, wrote in her monthly occupancy report that one unit in the NC 22-3 section of Moyewood is currently being utilized as a temporary community center following a recent suggestion by a HUD official from Atlanta.

The authority's executive director, Col. A. E. Dubber, noted that, in effect, if the unit is to be used as a community center the body will have to pay the monthly rent normally received from housing residents.

He pointed out that once work is begun on the garage located in the Moyewood project for use as the community center, no facilities will be available for group meetings and other requirements that the building is currently serving.

Rather than approve the use of the unit on a basis that would specify it being utilized as a community facility until the garage is renovated, commissioners voted to approve the temporary use for 90 days and review the situation then.

It was pointed out that various groups currently use the garage and a meeting place would be needed not only during the summer but on in to the winter months as work progresses on the new facility.

In other business, commissioners passed a resolution including a community center in the projected NC 22-6 Newton project. Dubber noted that it had been mentioned that although they were providing for an administrative office and maintenance space in the new project, no facilities had been allowed for community space.

Commissioners decided to approve the addition of the community space to the proposed A&M building and authorized the inclusion of the addition to the plans being drawn up by the Authority's architects.

The occupancy report submitted by Mrs. Streeter showed that all 65 housing units of the NC 22-1 section of Meadowbrook were occupied with residents paying an average of $38.29 rent.

In the NC 22-2 Kearney Park section, residents paid an average of $40.02 rent and a total of 159 of the 160 units were occupied during the month of June, Mrs. Streeter reported.

The temporary use of the unit in the NC 22-3 section of Moyewood left 187 units to be rented, she added, and all were occupied. Residents in the subdivision paid an average monthly rent of $43.76.

All 40 units in the NC 22-4 Moyewood sector were rented and residents paid an average of $42.35 in rent. Mrs. Streeter also pointed out that a bookmobile is currently being utilized in the project.

Dubber reported that inspections had been completed on the NC 22-3 and NC 22-4 projects. The landscaping representative making the inspections noted that certain grading needs existed in the project.

Dubber also informed commissioners that a resolution was needed proving a declaration of trust, to secure the mortgage for the 17 units in the proposed NC 22-5 project. Commissioners passed a resolution of formality declaring such a trust.

Dubber reported that Eddie Johnson, social services advisor from the Atlanta office of HUD had visited the authority on June 17 and 18.

In addition, authorization for a commissioner and Housing Authority staff member to attend a Sept. 9-11 national housing workshop in Chicago was given by the commissioners.

Hospital Vote On Nov. 3

A resolution calling for a $9 million bond referendum for construction of new hospital facilities was approved by the Board of County Commissioners yesterday.

The bond election was requested by Pitt Memorial Hospital's board of trustees following several months of study.

If approved by the voters, the funds from the sale of the bonds would be used to expand and improve facilities at the hospital which have been termed inadequate to meet the present needs for space. The total $9 million in bonds would not be sold if other funds become available to supplement local money.

In accordance with the resolution, the bond vote will be held at the same time as the general election - November 3 - and no new registration will be required.

The final meeting of the Board of Equalization and Review was held by the board, although no one appeared at the 2 p.m. session.

'Culling' Food Stamp Use In Pitt County

Food stamps for a number of Pitt County Residents have been terminated by the Pitt County Department of Social Services because of "family members able and available to work."

The Social Services Department recently sent a letter to food stamp recipients stating: "As the time for summer employment has arrived and there are those in your family able and available to work, your food stamps are being terminated effective July 1."

The correspondence explained that "if for some reason you or your household do not have summer employment, please go to the Employment Security Commission . . . and ask to apply for work."

It continued, "If there is no work available or you are not referred, please have the Employment Agency stamp this letter and give you their card showing no referral. Bring their card, along with this letter, to the Food Stamp Center.

"If you have work this summer you may reapply after your work is over."

According to Pitt Social Services director Mrs. Dorothy L. Bolton, the move was made to cull ineligible persons from the food program rolls.

"We expect persons to work when work is available," Mrs. Bolton explained. "The program is getting a bad name and I'm tired of it," she emphasized.

If persons are physically unable to work, "if they are sick," Mrs. Bolton said, "they should get a doctor's statement."

Wool Is Chic For Fall's Great Lady Look

By AP NEWSFEATURES
Fashion may well serve as a mirror of the exciting decade ahead, where the mood is one of yearning for peace, beauty and serenity—a mood that the fashion world has anticipated in "Great Lady" fashions for all.

The chicest of the chic are fashioned of pure wool. Happily, a wide spectrum of exquisite wool fabrics serves as a palette for the artistic talents of ready-to-wear designers and creators of accessories like hats, shoe toppers and knit stockings.

This is a special year for layered dressing. Play your own game of fashion math by putting elegant pieces together. Play lightweight sweaters against heavy textured wool skirts and jackets to enjoy versatility.

Look for sportswear designed for the most active, as well as the most passive sportswoman among you. Dream about wool knit romper suits 'n socks in heavenly heather—try a jacquard tunic and pant set—the very best interpretation of the important pant look.

And if bewitching is your ball-wick, hide out in black for a spectacular discovery. It's the right color for all your walking hours, but never better than when the sun goes down.

This season's color story finds diffused, muted colors standing alone—or in focus as accents in the new neutrals, those that pale from beige into brown or come on strong in black. The other is of brights, newly clear and sharpened to perfection in wool plaids, patterns and solids.

The fashionable of the future will find that skirt lengths are free of formula in every fashion category. Above the knee ... midi ... on down to high ankle lengths ... longuette doesn't mean just lowering the hemline, it expresses the entire mood of softness; the styling is all new and the "put togethers" emphasize the body creating a truly feminine appearance.

Dresses are both new and reminiscent as leg 'o mutton sleeves and mid-calf lengths add a pretty look to newly interpreted granny dresses with graceful high necklines in soft, wool knits. Women will rejoice knowing that such classics as the "shirt dress" are featured for round the clock wear in lightweight crepes to lush, textured tweeds. Stylings are innovative and more modern than ever before as hemlines wander, cuts go bias and fabrics provide the fashion news.

Newcomers blend with revivals. The "gaucho" look in pants proves that skirts must share the longuette limelight. Self-accessorizing takes a full turn into the '70's with nailhead trimming on gaucho pants worn with a dramatic matching cape. Passementeries, braid and leather bindings are grace notes in the same category.

The daring so long missing in fashion is back. Decolletage declares dramatic neckline interest while long fitted sleeves suggest pristine contrast.

And both midi skirts slit to high thigh and a midriff diagonal cutout should find widespread male admiration.

In the coat and suit category, expect the unexpected.

Wool longuette coats stand alone in ribbon patterned wools. Coats often have skirts or pants to match and shirts that link fall's layered look. Dramatic capes, combined with matching pants, highlight many a collection this season. And pants are perfect in tandem with the longuette coat.

Melton wool coats hug the body for both warmth and sophistication. Primitive prints in below-the-knee coats take beautifully fur trimmed collars and cuffs. And piping is back too.

Wool suits are the newest offering of all—with short cropped jackets, slim flared skirts and a sportive look that is particularly attractive in tweeds, jacquards and knits. In this category the knitted midi length aviator suit is sure to be a favorite.

At the other end of the spectrum—suit jackets go to great lengths to add sophistication—while the gaucho looks fit nicely in between.

Background Design: George Braunsdorf

THE LONGER LOOK ... for fall is carried thru in these designer wool coats and dresses. The plumb line midi glides from a sable opossum fur trim to hem. Don Simonelli's mosaic creation is predominantly rust, grey and beige. Fashion's avatrix is in style with a zip-front dress by S. T. J. in jacquard wool. A short cropped jacket completes the look and when closed, the costume appears to zip from the collarless neckline to midcalf in a single pull. Chester Weinberg takes up the hemline challenge with a V-shaped fringed skirt on this shirt dress of frosted beige tweed wool. Kloss-Pruzan designed his cape and skirt of dark taupe wool crepe combined with a dressmaker wool sweater in delicate mauve. The skirt's side button closing completes the plumb line from the buttons which form a side closing on the cape. The skirt is slit high for feminine flare in stride.

Sweden's Draft Attitude Is Same

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Since you took it upon yourself to defend Sweden's policy on sex education in the schools, perhaps you will want to come to her defense again. She could sure use it.

The Swedes have made a lot of enemies in the United States by opening doors to American draft-dodgers and deserters. Do you call this friendly to the United States? I don't!

ANNOYED WITH SWEDEN

DEAR ANNOYED: Sweden has not issued any special invitations to American draft-dodgers and deserters, but you should be aware of the following: A convention between Sweden and the United States on October 24, 1961, stated that no extradition may take place for military offenses—including desertion. In plain language, this means that the United States has exactly the same attitude toward deserters and draft-dodgers as Sweden has.

DEAR ABBY: Two weeks before our first baby was due, my parents drove 1,800 miles to spend three months with Gilbert and me.

I love my parents, Abby, but they are not the easiest people in the world to get along with. The entire time they were here, they fought bitterly between themselves, quarreled constantly about money, and my mother criticized the way I did everything.

Gilbert is naturally a very quiet man, but my parents insisted he didn't like them, and he was "arrogant" to boot.

The day after I had my baby [which we named after my mother] Gilbert came to the hospital and told me that my parents had packed up and gone home that morning without even saying good-by. Knowing they were on the road, I couldn't get in touch with them, but three days later my mother called and told me that Gilbert never talked to them and they were tired of being treated like two pieces of furniture, so they went home.

Abby, I had to stick up for my husband, which I did. Now

I'm getting nasty letters from my mother [signed by my father, too] and I'm so upset I can't sleep nights. Should I apologize to them and insist that Gilbert apologize, too? I still think my parents were out of line.

UPSET AND HEARTSICK

DEAR HEARTSICK: If you are telling it "like it was" if there is any apologizing to be done, I think your parents ought to do it. [They sound "sick" to me.] You must protect your own mental health, so write your parents and tell them that until they behave in a civilized manner, you would rather not hear from them. And if they write one more "nasty" letter, you will return all subsequent letters—unopened.

DEAR ABBY: May I add a few words of advice to the mother whose daughter is such a poor housekeeper? SAVE YOUR BREATH!

I know whereof I speak. For 15 years I have had a married daughter who answers the description of yours.

I tried. I scolded, bribed, wept, shamed, worked with her, for her, against her. I stayed away, I tried again. I gave her suggestions, a dishwasher, a sweeper, my cleaning woman, and the benefit of the doubt. I gave up.

It must be a disease. A kind of "blindness"—a complete lack of something in one's character that permits a person to live with clutter and disorder and remain unconcerned. [And she's usually the type who leaves her own home a mess, and goes out to help others.]

If by chance, Abby, you should hear of anyone having "cured" such a person, please let me know how it was done.

ANOTHER MOTHER

P. S. Abby, if you should print my letter, please don't use my name or city. I love my daughter, and she has many fine qualities, but she's a lousy housekeeper.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Letter writing can be a breeze. For Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Gift Advice For Brides And Guests

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The high cost of furnishing a home may be an incentive for economy-minded brides to be a bit choosy about wedding gifts.

In this era, few friends or relatives give the kind of gift that must be relegated to an attic or closet, but if you really don't need the expensive shrimp server, it really is a waste.

Bridal registries do help to organize the gift problem, but there are always people who want to surprise you with that cute gift you'd never think of—a popcorn popper or footbath with your initials on it.

Many young brides say they prefer (1) absolute necessities or (2) expensive gifts that they couldn't buy for themselves for a long time.

For example, silver is like having money in the bank. Even brides who will use stainless steel as a more practical everyday idea will feel great with silver, crystal, china and linen gifts that they can use on special occasions. The idea is to get it instead of some other expensive gift that may prove useless. Here are some ways to gently twist the giver's arm:

1. Choose the pattern of silver, china, crystal you would like and enlist the services of your mother, maid-of-honor and others to spread the word.

2. Your mother can size up the guests. If they are small-budget people, she might hint that you need a gravy dipper, meat fork, tomato server or another inexpensive piece to fill out your silver. Something can be found in the under-$5 or under-$10 bracket in most silver patterns.

Mother might tell Aunt Ethel or Uncle Bill that you could use another place setting. She will know that their gift will be in that certain money bracket, and that they will be relieved to know what you'd like. It takes only four members of a family to give you a basic silver service for a small dinner party.

The same idea can work with the china, crystal and linen. Suggestions may span the service from a dinner plate to a water goblet. Some members of the family may want to give a complete setting of china or a dozen linen napkins with the satin wedding band or another design.

Some brides like a crystal breakfast service, and in sets of four the items will be inexpensive if a simple pattern is chosen. Four cereal dishes or four breakfast plates may be a low-cost gift.

No matter how slim your budget, the ownership of fine things will make you feel utterly wonderful, a 19-year-old working wife commented. She has occasionally served low-cost curried eggs and rice on her fine china with crystal, silver and candlelight, at a little dinner, and she has felt like a princess, she says.

Your mother might have a list of other things you can use—blankets, towels, kitchenware—and you will no doubt want to specify a color scheme.

If it is an odd color, you might suggest white, which will go with about anything.

You should list the small appliances you need in order of preference. It may be that you would like a mixing machine, but the toaster, coffee and tea pots should come first. If you've made up a good list, you may need to buy very few things. Another important reason for relaying your gift message is that you may not have to return the gifts. It is always a time-consuming chore, that often falls to mother when daughter is on the honeymoon, and it is also a big headache for the stores.

High Stakes In Middle East

President Nixon seems to be more worried about the dangers of a Middle East conflict at the present time than any other trouble spot. He said as much in his television interview of a few nights back. The president said the dangers were there because there was the chance of a direct confrontation by two world superpowers — The United States and the Soviet Union.

As things develop in the Middle East there does, indeed, seem to be cause for concern over the dangers of World War starting there. SAM-3 missile sites, furnished and perhaps manned, by the Russians have appeared on the Egyptian side of the Suez Canal. Now it is feared that the Russians may feel they should protect the missile sites with Russian-piloted MIGs. This could lead to a Soviet-Israeli confrontation and possibly the United States could be drawn in unless we were willing to stand by and see Israel destroyed. As the Soviet Union and Red China feuded in recent years, the possibility of a U.S.-Soviet conflict became more remote. However, the possibility is still there, even though neither side seems to want a war.

The Soviets are deeply committed to the Arab world in the fight against Israel. By its action it hopes to freeze the western world out of the Middle East for decades to come. Sacrificing of Israel would mean nothing to the Soviets when the stakes are so big.

On the other hand most Americans feel sympathy for Israel, which has managed to survive and prosper against such overwhelming odds.

If the stakes are high in the Middle East, the dangers are great. It is imperative that all parties concerned come to realize that a negotiated settlement of Middle Eastern problems is the only answer.

GO AHEAD, LET'S SEE THE RABBITS!

Pravda Job Can Be Easy

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
To Comrade Editor, Pravda
Moscow, U.S.S.R.
Dear Comrade Editor:
What's so tough about writing for Pravda?

After many, many years of reading your paper, one concludes you have a snap.

All you must do is familiarize yourself with rules. It's like having a salt-shaker on your desk full of the boss's favorite words and phrases, for sprinkling into the paper wherever needed. How can you miss?

You needn't worry about producing rich, beautiful prose. All you've got to worry about is passing on messages from the Kremlin to the Jews in the party ranks and keeping the nonparty readers from knowing what you're talking about.

You have plenty of tools at your disposal for getting the message across, be it on domestic, foreign or Communist affairs. For a starter, let's take an editorial on domestic problems.

Let's say, for example, there's something smelly going on in the fish industry. Well, you begin with something bland: "The Soviet state expends great efforts for the welfare of all the people." You go on like that for five or six paragraphs. Nobody will start reading until a key word shows up.

The key word is "however." You also may use "but" or "regrettably" for variety. Any of these will rivet the attention of the erring bureaucrat on what you have to say. You then proceed to clobber the "serious shortcomings" of the fish ministry.

Now, suppose some people in the Communist party have been indulging in wrong thinking. This requires the ideological warning type of editorial. It always begins with a quotation from Lenin, and now there are other essential key words to keep in mind.

One of the most potent key words is "analysis." This can be class analysis, principled class analysis or scientific analysis. The very best sort of analysis is "profound scientific Marxist-Leninist analysis from a class position." This is whatever happens at the moment to be the Politburo's analysis.

Once the analysis is established, it is a good idea to write that "one cannot shut one's eyes" to whatever wrong thinking is the subject of the sermon.

If the editorial is aimed at wrong-thinkers in parties abroad, it is wise to comment on the "unshakable solidarity of the socialist camp and the international workers movement." All Soviet alliances are either unshakable or invincible. You can vary this by referring to the "monolithic character and indestructible unity of the socialist camp," which is something you wish the socialist camp really had. This unity is achieved by strictly observing proletarian internationalism, which means the cooperation of all Communist parties on the basis of what Moscow tells them to do.

Thereafter it is important to make correct use of such words as "struggle" and "unmask." You don't just resist foreign intrigues. You must struggle against them. You don't just say the imperialists are plotting or the deviationists are planning to turn capitalist. You must in all

Phillips Plans Ask 'Full Use'

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — It bothers Craig Phillips these summer months to see school buildings sitting idle. He asks if taxpayers of a community are not entitled to the full use of public facilities they pay for, including schools.

If members of the next General Assembly are inclined to answer, "Yes," as he does, a significant start will be made to find ways for year-round returns from the billion-dollar plus investment Tar Heels have in school plants. The budget which Dr. Phillips will submit as state superintendent of public instruction will include a "research and development" item to foster experimentation and run field trials on new ideas in education.

An exciting concept to be demonstrated, if funds are made available, is that of the community school. Successful elsewhere, notably in Flint, Mich., this is a program which makes the school plant a center for adult education, vocational training, cultural and recreation activities 10 hours a day, 365 days a year.

Exploration of methods of year-round academic operation also would be among projects undertaken with the development funds.

Research and development today is an essential business activity for bringing out new products and testing their market acceptance. "Public education needs R&D even more than industry," Dr. Phillips said. "It is important that we field test ideas, try them out in real life situations, before adopting statewide programs."

His staff is organized for the job under H. T. Connor, assistant superintendent for research and planning. While the request for development funds has not been put in final form, it is likely to run around $2,000,000 to $3,000,000.

From the funds, in line with present thinking, would come two or three pilot community school programs in both urban and rural settings.

The premise for the community school is that of the little red schoolhouse of the past: bring people into the school, involve them in its activity, and both school and community will be strengthened. Yet it is no retreat to mythical "good old days," or device to avoid problems of the present. For it to be a community school in a dynamic sense, it must serve citizens of every age, class and race, within its reach.

"I do believe that the community school, if well done, may be the only way we'll ever rebuild the concept of neighborhood," said Phillips. "It must be geared to giving neighbors the chance to understand each other as neighbors."

The community school concept originated in Flint 35 years ago. After a tennis game, Philanthropist and General Motors Executive C. S. Mott asked his partner's advice on a request to contribute to recreation facilities. Frank Manley, then a physical education instructor in the Flint schools, replied: "Let's use what we already have."

He meant the schools where recreation equipment and facilities were locked at the end of the school day.

It began with a $6,000 grant. Since that time, the Mott Foundation has channeled more than $26 million through the Flint Board of Education in developing a full-scale, year-round program serving more than 90,000 children and adult in 54 community schools.

The concept has captured the imagination of educators and civic leaders throughout the world. Community school programs have been established in a number of states, including Florida, Georgia and Tennessee. The National Community School Education Association has been organized as a clearing house for ideas and a resource for developing programs.

The community school director and the community council are vital elements in the program. The director is a qualified teacher, responsible to the principal, whose day begins at noon. He teaches in the afternoon and directs after-school activity. The council includes school officials and community representatives, and gives guidance to the program.

Dr. Phillips is clear-eyed about potential problems. There is the possibility of inter-agency tension in providing services, decisions on property use and maintenance, supervision of activity, employment of personnel. "It's easier to talk about it than to do it," he acknowledged, "but the promise of it makes it worthwhile to try."

Although some aspects of community school operation have been tried in an informal way in North Carolina, the full concept has not been attempted as yet.

Revolutionary Then, Revolutionary Today

You (and we) may well have smiled on reading last Sunday's story of a newsman who tried to get signatures on a typed copy of the Declaration of Independence in petition form.

"Somebody ought to tell the FBI," was one citizen's reaction.

Maybe so, maybe no. How long since you last read those fateful words? They, and the ten articles of the Bill of Rights were revolutionary in the mid-18th century and they are still revolutionary today. Not many people live under the written guarantees they encompass.

We who enjoy those rights seized by a handful of brave visionaries, forget just how revolutionary a people Americans were and are.

Other revolutionaries saw the American product as the most perfect of its kind, and tried to copy it, with varying results. . . . results that often fell short of the dream.

Americans sometimes fall short of that dream, too. Not because of any loyalties to rulers or royal decree, but we tend to forget the principles on which the United States were founded.

A Disarray In Housing Field

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — While the nation moves deeper into a housing shortage, Federal housing officials are preoccupied by vicious personal infighting centering around Nixon protege Sherman Unger.

After weeks of bitter maneuvering, Unger — general counsel of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) — lost out to Gen. Lucius Clay as chairman of the board of the Federal National Mortgage Assn. (FNMA) (a quasi-private institution which buys and sells government-backed mortgages). Now, housing industry sources believe, Unger is trying to hound Clay out of his new job.

Accordingly, some housing industry leaders are considering going to President Nixon himself, seeking the removal or at least the suppression of Unger as vice chairman of the FNMA board. That would hand the President a difficult choice. Gen. Clay, a 73-year-old senior partner at Lehman Brothers, is a respected elder in the Republican establishment. But Unger, an aggressive and talented Cincinnati lawyer, loyally stuck with Mr. Nixon in those dark days of the mid-1960s when he was in the political wilderness. He has the President's eternal gratitude.

The fact that the Unger vs. Clay battle has not ended was evident at the closed-door session of the FNMA board June 23. Unger suddenly produced a legal opinion by the Civil Service Commission contending that Clay and three other members of the FNMA board are not legally eligible to serve on the board because their private businesses have bought and sold FNMA stock.

Moreover, Unger is known to feel that two board members — Charles Landt, a Raleigh, N. C., realtor, and Julian Zimmerman, an Austin, Tex., mortgage banker (and former Federal housing commissioner) — have so intense a conflict of interest that they must resign.

Unger's opinion from the Civil Service Commission was an unpleasant surprise to the regular FNMA staff and had been requested without the knowledge of HUD Secretary George Romney. Although Unger told the meeting Landt had asked for the opinion, Landt contended he had requested something entirely different. Unger's enemies believe he is out to get Landt and Zimmerman, who led the fight for Clay as board chairman.

Unger clashed with Clay on other occasions during the June 23 meeting, successfully blocking Clay's proposed study of guidelines for FNMA purchase of conventional (that is, non-government) mortgages.

Unger also objected strenuously when Clay and Oakley Hunter, fulltime president of FNMA, proposed a new schedule of salaries for FNMA officials. Unger was known to be most unhappy that the proposal would boost Hunter from $42,000 to $60,000 a year at a time when Romney is taking a voluntary pay cut of about that much.

Shift In Communiques

WASHINGTON — No one is quite certain if and when the United States will sell Israel the 125 fighter planes it's been asking for. The rumor in Washington is that the policy for the moment will be not to give Israel any new planes, but to replace those shot down by the enemy. If this is true, we can expect to see a decided change in the communiques emanating from Tel Aviv and the Arab capitals. They may go something like this:

TEL AVIV, July 10—Military spokesmen for the Israeli air force announced today that their planes were attacked along the Suez Canal. Twenty-seven Israeli planes were shot down, the spokesmen said, and 30 more limped back to their bases. This was the largest loss of Israeli combat aircraft ever recorded.

CAIRO, July 11—Egyptian army officials angrily denied shooting down any Israeli planes in yesterday's battle over the Suez Canal. "Our pilots," said Gen. Gamal Amer, "missed the Israeli planes by miles."

"We have aerial photos showing all Israeli planes returned safely without so much as a bullet in them."

Gen. Amer said he was also very disappointed in the new Russian-type SAM missiles which failed to hit the Israeli attackers. "It's apparent there is no hope we will ever shoot down an Israeli plane."

HAIFA, Israel, July 15—A sneak attack along the Syrian border by Israeli fighters proved to be a catastrophe, Israeli sources said today. The high command revealed that Syrian planes had shot down 23 Israeli fighters, bringing Israeli losses for the week to 50 planes. Gen. Mordacai Rashnik has been relieved of his command for allowing these defeats to take place.

DAMASCUS, July 16 — Syrians demonstrated in the streets today against Israeli claims that Syrian fighter planes had shot down 23 Israeli planes in yesterday's dog fight over the Golan Heights.

At a giant rally in Damascus Square, Arab nationalist leaders introduced several Syrian pilots who claimed they had turned tail as soon as the Israeli planes approached. "We did not engage them in battle," Lt. Abdullah Yafed told the screaming crowd. "The Zionist pigs did not lose any planes. They shot down five of ours."

The crowd cheered this news and then burned the Jordanian Embassy.

TEL AVIV, July 25—Prime Minister Golda Meir went on Israeli television tonight to regrettably announce that 30 more Israeli planes had been (Continued On Page 5)

Other Editors Say Treadmill Process

(The Raleigh Times)

No one should be surprised that expenses of the average college department of intercollegiate athletics climbed more than 100 per cent during the decade 1960 through 1969. Inflation alone would have brought a major increase in expenses, and the expansion of intercollegiate athletic programs during the decade also brought on added expenses.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association made a survey of more than 300 institutions. It showed that average total expenses for an athletic program rose from $259,000 in 1960 to $548,000 in 1969. Four factors were listed in the increased costs: More athletes, more sports and general program expansion, 25 per cent; improved quality in more specialized instruction, better equipment and facilities, 32 per cent; side effects of more activity and greater expense per athlete, 9 per cent; and inflationary trends and uncontrollable price changes, 34 per cent.

Those factors show that even without inflation, the costs would have climbed sharply during the decade. This isn't surprising when the expansion of big-time athletic programs is considered. For example, the average number of athletic scholarships increased from 116 in 1960 to 131 in 1969. Such scholarships pay all expenses of the athletes involved, and they are costly. At Carolina, for example, such a scholarship for an in-state student would be about $2,000 per year. At Duke, the cost per student would be $4,000 or so. This means that a football squad of 100 scholarship players at Carolina would represent an annual cost of at least $200,000, while at Duke it would be $400,000.

The big-time programs mean larger coaching staffs, too. Not too many years ago, one coach would handle all the backfield chores, another all the line chores. Now there are special coaches for offense and defense, for special positions in the backfield and in the line.

Expenses of recruiting have gone up, as the competition for star athletes has become more intense.

As long as the intercollegiate program is on a big-time basis, the expenses will climb. To take in the needed money, the football team must be good enough to get on national TV, to be invited to big bowl games. To be this good, the team must recruit the best players, must have the best coaches, must have the best facilities, must be able to fly across country to the big games during the season.

It's a real treadmill process: Success brings demands for more success, which means more expenses.

Congress Is Urged To Regulate

By ELMER ROESSNER
Senator Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., wants the federal government to assume jurisdiction over air travel insurance. He is also asking that the Department of

ELMER ROESSNER

Justice and the Federal Trade Commission investigate the air travel insurance industry for possible monopolization and price fixing.

The McCarran Act exempts the insurance industry almost entirely from antitrust laws. However, Sen. Hart said, "The McCarran Act exemption applies only if the states regulate and most of the states do not regulate air travel insurance." The Senator said that air travel insurance has one of the lowest percentage payouts of the entire insurance industry, with only 26 cents of every dollar paid in going back to the consumer in benefits. The much-criticized auto insurance business pays back 45 cents of every dollar, he pointed out.

$87 Million Whacked Up
Sen. Hart said that in an eight-year period, from 1961 through 1968, the air travel insurance companies and the air terminals have made profits of $87 million.

One of the reasons air travel insurance is so expensive is that terminals demand high rents for space for insurance-issuing machines and manned insurance counters. Some terminals demand a percentage of the take, running as much as a third of what the traveler pays.

"The bulk of the consumers dollars," Sen. Hart said, "is going into the pockets of the terminals as a 'buy-in' for the business and to the insurance companies.

"Insurance companies compete for air trip insurance franchises by bidding up the rental much in the same way credit life insurers compete for finance company business by bidding up the kickback to the lenders."

Consumers Overcharged
Sen. Hart has long been a foe of high rates for credit insurance. One investigation by the antimonopoly subcommittee disclosed that consumers overpay $250 million a year for credit insurance. He has introduced a bill which would limit charges for credit insurance.

In his attack on credit insurance, Sen. Hart has an ally in Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who has charged in the Senate that "each year the overcharge has steadily increased despite industry claims that states are beginning to regulate the charges."

The Pennsylvania Insurance Department has reduced the allowable rate from 75 cents to 60 cents for the first $100 for individual policies of credit life insurance. Many insurance companies charge comparable rates, but others charge more than $1 for the first $100.

Credit life insurance is easy to sell. The signer of an installment contract is easily persuaded that "for a few cents more" on monthly installments his heirs will not have to pay the balance if anything happens to him. Some vendors simply figure in credit insurance without giving a buyer an option. Vendors usually collect a commission for selling this insurance.

Sen. Proxmire said many finance companies sell credit life insurance on 90 per cent of their loans, and that policies reached $64 billion in 1968.

FACTORS IN LINCOLN'S LIFE

Three factors stood out in Abraham Lincoln's life and contributed to his greatness.

The first was his moral character. Lincoln believed that he lived in a universe controlled by moral law. To him it was stupid and hideous, that men should attempt to break that moral law. He recognized that he, the nation of which he was a part, and all the individuals in the world were under the control of moral forces which they could defy only at their peril.

The second factor in his make-up was his sound common sense. Lincoln acted as if he believed that the principles and policies which worked in the management of a grocery store at New Salem, the post office over which he had presided, and the little farm his father owned, could be made to work in Washington in the handling of a nation.

The third outstanding factor of his life was his unusual spiritual insight. He could see straight into the hearts of men. He had a childlike dependence upon God. Every situation, no matter how secular it might appear, was to him a spiritual situation.

He was a man of great ability, but his overpowering genius lay in his penetrating insight into spiritual truth.

that Hunter, a former Republican Congressman from California who served in the House when Dick Nixon was a Senator, should go to the President and make a "him or me" request regarding Unger, so that FNMA can concentrate on the business of housing. With Hunter backed by Clay, Mr. Nixon would be on the spot.

Bryce Harlow, the first to be named to President Nixon's White House staff after the 1968 election, will be the first to leave it for private life.

Harlow's departure was put off once, when he got an extension of his leave of absence as Proctor & Gamble's man in Washington. But it won't be put off again. He'll be back at P&G before year's end.

Harlow headed the White House Congressional lobbying staff for a year and, as a Presidential counselor, still has overall supervision of the President's legislative program (where he has scored some hits, several misses).

But Harlow was deeper value than that. President Nixon, who has known him longer than any White House aide except Robert Finch, uses Harlow as a sounding board on major issues ranging from school desegregation to Vietnam. Southern Republicans regard him as their most powerful advocate in the White House on the President's Southern strategy and are already mourning his departure.

shot down by French-built Mirages over Libya. This was the farthest penetration Israeli planes had made. When it was pointed out after the broadcast that France had not yet delivered the Mirages to Libya, Mrs. Meir said, "I made a mistake. Our planes ran out of gas."

AMMAN, Jordan, July 26—King Hussein demanded today that the United Nations take over the counting of Israeli planes lost in action. Charging Israel with duplicity, the king said, "We can never have peace in the Middle East as long as Israel keeps claiming plane losses it has never had."

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 1—President Nasser and the Soviet military command announced jointly that all Arab planes had been grounded indefinitely and all anti-aircraft guns had been silenced until further notice, to prevent the Israelis from announcing any more plane losses.

SOMEWHERE IN THE NEGEV, Aug. 2—Foreign correspondents were taken on a guided tour of this top secret Israeli air base in the Negev, today. The base, which is the home of 45 fighters, was completely empty of aircraft.

A reporter asked where the planes were and the colonel in charge of the tour said, "They were all lost this morning to small-arms fire over the Dead Sea."

When it was pointed out that Israel has claimed to have lost 125 planes in three weeks, the exact number it had requested from the United States in the first place, the colonel replied, "Oy—what a coincidence."

cases unmask. Often it is necessary to unmask mercilessly.

Take Czechoslovakia, 1968. People were demanding free speech and all manner of things. You must explain why such things are evil. Pravda did it this way: "Most pernicious in its consequences is the granting of so-called freedom of speech in the bourgeois sense. This amounts in fact to vilification of all the Czechoslovak people's socialist conquests and the leading role of the Communist party."

That was very clever of you, Comrade Editor. You got in a really important key word. Anything Western that sounds attractive must be preceded by "so-called." You also made a notable contribution by saying that the Kremlin gave the Czechoslovaks "friendly advice based on Marxist analysis."
Such analysis usually comes at a meeting in an atmosphere of frank exchange of opinion. This means arms had to be twisted. If arms hadn't had to be twisted, you would have said there was a cordial and friendly atmosphere.
In foreign policy editorials, it is obviously necessary to lie now and then. For this purpose the phrases "as is known" and "as is well known" are indispensable. You need the first for an ordinary lie, the second for a real whopper. Examples: "As is known, the Communist party of the United States fights only for the vital interests of the American people." Or, "as is well known, public opinion plays a great role in shaping Soviet foreign policy."

Of course, you've a lot of rules to remember. One supposes your reference guide on your desk has handy entries like this:
Peace-loving Leninist:—The foreign policy of the Soviet Union.
Imperialism:—The policy of the U.S. ruling or warlike circles.
Democracy:—Synonymous with socialism, Soviet-type.
Chief ideological weapon of imperialism:—Anti-Sovietism or anti-communism.
Fraught with grave consequences:—The Kremlin doesn't like what the Americans are doing.
Will not sit idly by (or with folded hands):—If you think the Kremlin is going to do anything about it, you're off your rocker.
Garbage heap of history:—Where capitalism is bound to end up.
Positive attitude:—Agreement with Moscow.
Progressive mankind:—People on Moscow's side.
Reactionary, neo-fascist, fascist:—A politician who disagrees with Moscow.
Pseudorevolutionary, ultra-revolutionary:—A Red Chinese leader.

Fraternal cooperation on the basis of full equality:—"Do it our way or you'll get what Czechoslovakia got."
Genuine cooperation:—Do it our way and there'll be no trouble.
Mutual advantage:—What's good for us is good for you.
True socialist sovereignty:—You are free to agree with the Kremlin.
Corresponds to the opinion of the overwhelming majority:—
Salvaged Cars Given Prisoners
SELKIRK, N.Y. (AP) — A freight train accident last spring in which 100 new Cadillacs were damaged proved a boon to inmates of nine New York correctional institutions Monday.
The Cadillac division of General Motors turned nine of the salvaged cars over to the New York State Corrections Commission for use in training of prisoners for jobs as auto mechanics.
Mule deer can travel as fast as 35 miles per hour and cover 25 feet in one leap.

"You weren't around when we took the vote."
People:—Outside the Communist orbit, people means Communist party, just as working class also means Communist party. Inside the orbit, people are those who are not anti-people and recognize the party as their leader.

Communists and nonparty people:—The bosses and those who take orders.
Toilers, honest Soviet toilers, masses, broad masses:—Those who are led by the vanguard of the people.

Leading role of the working class:—The Communist party is boss.
Losing touch with the masses:—Party leaders acting like chowderheads.
Glorious:—Anything Soviet.

"HELLO, DOLLY!" — The most extravagantly acclaimed musical comedy of modern times opens tonight as the first of five musicals for East Carolina's Summer Theater 1970 summer season. Performances, beginning nightly at 8:15 p.m., will run through July 18 at McGinnis Auditorium. Sally-Jane Heit (shown above), is a popular favorite in local Summer Theater productions. As Dolly, she wears the gown worn by actress Dorothy Lamour when she had the star role. "Hello, Dolly!" has played to more audiences around the world—in Melbourne, Moscow, Viet Nam, across Europe and the U.S.—than any musical in recent theater history. Walter Kerr, New York critic, has called the role of Dolly "the highest office to which an American woman can aspire."

Military Alert For Bangkok

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN
Associated Press Writer

BANGKOK (AP) — The Thai government ordered a full-scale military alert in Bangkok early today amid signs that a serious political crisis was brewing over new tax increases.

The prime minister, Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn, told newsmen he had ordered the garrisons of the 1st Army, known as the "coup army" because of its leading role in past coups d'etat, to stand by for trouble.

Air Chief Marshal Dawee Chillasapya, chief of staff of the Supreme Command, told newsmen the alert was a precaution against Communist infiltration into the capital which the police department had detected.

It appeared, however, that the predominantly military government was showing its muscle to scare off hostile public reaction to recent sharp increases in import duties and sales taxes which have forced up the prices of almost all commodities.

Some of the import taxes were increased as much as 100 per cent.

Although aimed directly at the rich, the taxes were passed on almost immediately to the poor through increases in the price of rice and other staple foods. Several members of Parliament from the government-backed United Thai Peoples' party have announced they will not support the new tax bill when it is presented in parliament Thursday for approval.

The government party was scheduled to meet later today to whip up support for the new taxes, and Thanom scheduled a nationwide TV-radio broadcast tonight to explain the need for the tax increases.

Political observers felt that if the measure was defeated in parliament, the government would have to resign or abolish parliament. The latter course, a frequent event under past governments was considered most likely. Parliament was revived only 18 months ago after almost 10 years of martial law. The present regime has been in power since the army coup of 1957.

Thanom said 2,000 Cambodians would come to Thailand July 20 to start 16 weeks of military training, and his government would also begin training Thais of Cambodian descent to fight in Cambodia. But he said Thai troops now serving in South Vietnam could not be transferred to Cambodia because they need U.S. support, and the U.S. Senate had voted against this outside Vietnam.

So A&P offers you the choice... famous National Brands at prices we believe will save you money, or quality-famous A&P Brands at prices we know will save you money, without having to sacrifice quality. TAKING TURNS . . . in cutting the ribbon officially opening the Greenville Branch of the Bank of Winterville, yesterday four participants were told by State Senator Vernon White (left) to "cut only one-fourth of the way through." Waiting their turn are (left from White) Winterville Mayor Walter Dail and Jack Spain.

Administrative Assistant to U.S. Senator Sam Ervin, Greenville Mayor Frank M. Wooten, Jr. is cutting his portion, watched by Miss Mary Virginia Langston, the first to cut the ribbon. The new branch is located on Memorial Drive near U.S. 264 by-pass.

Cigarette-Cancer Link Said 'Scientific Hoax'

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH, N. C. (AP) — A tobacco trade association leader has criticized as the "scientific hoax of the age" cancer - cigarette research involving beagle dogs who were trained to smoke. Horace Kornegay, president of the Tobacco Institute, said Tuesday the study was "another effort by the foes of tobacco to gain public acceptance of questionable scientific work." The research was by Dr. Oscar Auerbach, a virologist, and Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, a statistician. The 30 - month study attempted to establish a link between cancer and cigarette smoking by getting beagles to smoke. Kornegay said, however, that 25 per cent of the non-smoking dogs in the Auerbach-Hammond study were reported to have obtained tumors.

Kornegay also said that the findings were rejected for publication by the Journal of the American Medical Association and by the New England Journal of Medicine. He said the study did not follow customary scientific procedure.

The bidding:
East South West North
Pass 1 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♠
Pass 4 ♠ Pass Pass

The king of spades was led and West put up the ace and returned the jack of hearts, forcing South to ruff again. Declarer proceeded to draw the remaining trump, tho it took all of his hearts to do so. A diamond was led to the nine to dislodge East's ace; however, the latter had no hearts left and he was obliged to put South in on the return. Declarer claimed the remaining tricks with high diamonds and clubs.

Kornegay made his attack during a speech to the 26th annual convention of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association.

Opening lead: King of ♠
A forcing game, devised by West in defending against South's four spade contract, fell short of its goal when East failed to extend a full measure of cooperation.

East could have assured declarer's downfall by putting up the ace of diamonds at trick two, thereby conserving one of his partner's entries. A heart is returned and South ruffs. West gets in with the king of diamonds to reduce declarer down to his size in trumps. South will presumably cash the queen of diamonds and discard North's remaining heart to prevent another force. When West gets in with the ace of spades, however, a heart return gives his partner an opportunity to upruff declarer by ruffing with the ten of spades. South overruffs with the jack, but West's nine of trumps becomes established for the setting trick.

In another address, John D. Palmer, president of Tobacco Associates, predicted that tobacco exports would be one of the first victims of textile quota legislation now before Congress.

"It is incumbent for the tobacco community," Palmer said, "to exert every effort to protect a $700 million overseas market."

Palmer also urged a record participation in a July 16 referendum among growers of flue-cured tobacco on price-support quotas and funds to promote overseas markets.

He said, "upwards of one half million growers should vote their approval of their affirmation to preserve the tobacco industry."

Tuesday was the opening day of the convention. It ends Thursday.

Suspended As Probe Goes On

A Greenville policeman who shot a man at Pitt Memorial Hospital here during a fight Monday has been suspended pending the outcome of an investigation of the case by agents of the State Bureau of Investigation.

City officials termed the suspension "normal procedure" and said the officer's pay would not be affected.

Policeman Barley Phillips was attempting to arrest Julius Stuart Summrell, 21, Negro, in the hospital's emergency room section on charges of disorderly conduct when a fight developed.

The scuffle moved to an outside parking area, then to the front of the hospital — a distance of more than 100 feet — before the shooting occurred.

Official reports of the incident say Ptl. Phillips was "knocked down and kicked in the right temple".

A second Negro man may have been involved in the affray, and investigation into the case is continuing.

The projectile from the officers revolver penetrated Summrell's right side. His wrist was also injured.

Officer Phillips suffered injuries to his head and neck. He was released from the hospital Tuesday.

In addition to the disorderly conduct charge, Ptl. Phillips signed warrants charging Summrell with assaulting an officer and resisting arrest yesterday. The warrants have not been served due to Summrell's condition.

"We believe this will be of great benefit in developing the potential of our Eastern North Carolina region in many respects," Jenkins said.

The ECU budget requests did not include additional dormitories. Jenkins said he was "happy to say" that prospects are for filling presently available dormitory space — room for more than 5,700 students — this Fall. Freshmen and sophomores will be required to live on — campus and Jenkins said "we have done our part" in meeting student government demands for more suitable dormitory facilities.

"We are doing our part, and we are sure the students will do theirs," he said.

For example, he said, refrigerators will be installed in dormitory rooms under a low-cost contract negotiated by the SGA. Students will be permitted to have telephones in their rooms, at their own expense. And small heating units will be available to students who wish to cook in their rooms.

Jenkins said the improvements were being made in order to compete with the large amount of off-campus housing available in Greenville. In the past numerous students found it cheaper and more convenient to live off campus and thus some available dormitory space went unoccupied last year.

Dr. Jenkins reported an unexpected but welcome $30,000 profit on campus food service last year despite off-campus competition.

The budget-planners asked about a proposed $668,000 addition to the central heating plant and steam distribution system and a $70,000 item to extend heating lines to the new gymnasium. Officials said the ultimate goal is to convert from coal to gas. Jenkins pointed out, however, that shortages of all types of fuel — coal, gas and oil — had been experienced in the Greenville area.

Most of the presentation was devoted to the land acquisition requests. Sen. Lindsay Warren Jr. of Goldsboro, chairman of the Senate Appropriations committee, commented that "additional space is needed badly and I think it would be wise to obtain what is available when we can."

Budget Commission chairman Thomas J. White of Kinston remarked, "they aren't making any more land."

Jenkins said there are no plans

Nixon Brakes Community Notes Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, acting after the industry threatened to stop the nation's trains if a union kept striking three key lines, has ordered railroad workers back to their jobs for 60 days while an emergency board seeks to settle a long-running dispute.

Just after the President moved to avert a national rail crisis Tuesday night by resorting to his final remedy under the Railway Labor Act, the Labor Department reported it was told the thousands of striking United Transportation Union members would go to work again as soon as possible.

The department said the National Railway Labor conference, the industry group representing more than 125 railroads, rescinded its consideration of a lockout of employees and threat to shut down the system.

The UTU called the strike suddenly Tuesday after charging the lines with refusing to bargain in good faith over the use of firemen on diesel engines.

Food Stamps

"We want the land lords to know that these people are being out off," she emphasized.

During the month of June, some 9,888 persons in 2,234 families in Pitt County participated in the program by purchasing food stamps.

Basically, persons with limited incomes and who meet other requirements may purchase food stamps. These stamps, in turn, may be tendered at approved grocery stores for food stuffs.

The value of the stamps is greater than the purchase price and thus the stamps will purchase a greater amount of food in the store than the original cost of the stamps.

Greenville Tops Wilson, 5-4

WILSON — Greenville American Legion Post 39 rallied for three runs in the ninth inning last night to nip the Wilson nine, 5-4, and take the first game of their best of three series. Play continues in the second round of the State Legion Playoffs today with a 5 p.m. game in Greenville at the East Carolina University field. If a third game is necessary, it will be played Saturday night at 8 p.m. in Guy Smith Stadium. Greenville pushed over one run in the first inning last night as Russ Smith walked and moved to second on Joe West's sacrifice bunt. Tony Whitehurst followed with a walk and Jimmy Paige's single to center loaded the bases. Ronnie Leggett's grounder was errored and Smith came in to score the first tally. In the second inning, Tommy Durham lashed a double to right center and moved to third on a ground but died there as an out ended the threat.

Wilson picked up three runs in the fourth inning to take the lead. Jimmy DeRatt reach first on an error but was out on Pat Williams fielder's choice. Buddy Davis hit into a fielders choice but the throw was wide at second moving Williams to third. After Greg Fulghum walked to load the bases, Tommy Davis slammed a triple to score all three runners.

Greenville closed the gap to one in the fifth when, with two outs, Whitehurst walked and scored on Paige's double to left center, his third hit of the game.

In the seventh inning, Wilson picked up their final run to move out to a two-run lead. Davis reached on an error and moved up on a hit by Dennis Wilkerson. Joey Boyette attempted a sacrifice bunt but the throw was wide at first and Davis came in to score.

The Greenville post got the fireworks going in the ninth inning to score three big runs. Russ Smith tripled to right center and after West Walked, Whitehurst brought both runners home with a clutch triple to left field. Wilson walked Paige intentionally and he and Whitehurst responded with a double steal to put Greenville in front, 5-4. Wilson went down in order in their half of the ninth to kill their chances for the win.

The final run of the game was added in the seventh by Home Builders but it fell one short. Lee reached on a walk, stole second and went to third on a passed ball. Willoughby was hit by a pitch and Gary Hall sacrificed Lee in with the run. A ground out ended the threat.

For College View, Collie had three hits and Kittrell ad two to lead their attack. No one had more than one hit for Home Builders.

The fourth inning was the big inning for Gum Swamp as they pushed across seven runs to take the lead. A homer by B. Pollard highlighted the inning. Meadowbrook rallied for five in the fifth inning to regain the lead and never trailed after that.

Herbert added his second round of the playoffs.

urance runs in the fifth and one in the sixth to close out their scoring.

Another run was picked up in the third by Kiwanis as Kelly Heath reached on an error and went to second on the play. After stealing third base, Heath came in to score on an error.

Graniteers, after falling behind, came back with three in their half of the third to take the lead and they held on for the win. James Weeks doubled and moved to third on a passed ball. After Jim Wilkerson got a hit and moved to second on a passed ball, Macon Moye delivered a three-run homer to ice the game for the Graniteers.

They added two runs in the fifth for insurance but Kiwanis failed to get a rally going and came up on the short end of the score. Wilkerson and Moye walked and Wilkerson moved on to third on a passed ball. Moye also went to second on the play and both scored on Joel Clark's two-run single.

For the winning Graniteers, Weeks and Moye each had two hits while no one had more than one for the Kiwanis.

The second game of the series resumes today at Elm Street Park.

Tailspin Drops Yanks Off Pace

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was only three weeks ago that New York's resurrected Yankees were eyeing first place in the American League's East Division. Now they're peeking over their shoulders instead.

Nine losses in the last 11 games—the latest a 6-2 whipping in Baltimore Tuesday night—have dropped the Orioles a fat 6½ games off the Yankees' pace and closer to fourth place than they are to first.

Detroit is hot on the Yankees' trail and a two-night doubleheader split with Boston left the Tigers just one-half game back of New York. Boston is running fourth in the American League East.

Boston won the first game 8-4 but the Tigers bounced back with a 4-3 decision in the 10-inning nightcap. Elsewhere in the AL Tuesday night, Cleveland swept a doubleheader from Washington 7-3 and 7-5, Milwaukee took two from Chicago 4-3 in 12 innings and 1-0, Minnesota topped Oakland 4-2 and Kansas City edged California 4-3.

In the National League, it was Chicago 10-7 over Montreal; New York 4, St. Louis 3; Pittsburgh 4-2 over Philadelphia; San Francisco 8, Atlanta 5; Cincinnati 3-0 over San Diego, and Los Angeles 7, Houston 2.

Three weeks ago, New York's mini-Bombers had crept to within 1½ games of the first place Orioles and were anxiously looking forward to the three-game series that started in Baltimore Tuesday night.

But the bottom has been falling out since then and their slide has made the series crucial only to the Yankees, trying to hang on to second place, but not the Birds.

New York rallied for a run in the ninth inning Tuesday to tie the score at 2-2 but it was a momentary thing. A walk, Frank Robinson's single and an error by Gene Michael loaded the bases in the bottom of the 10th and then Brooks Robinson crashed a grand slam homer to win it for Baltimore.

Mike Cuellar won his 10th, retiring 14 straight batters over one stretch after allowing an early homer to Yankee pitcher Mel Stottlemyre.

Rookie Elliot Maddox, whose eighth inning double had tied the score, gave Detroit its second game victory over Boston when he opened the 10th with a home run. Reggie Smith and Mike Andrews hit consecutive homers for the Sox.

Smith, who had five hits and four RBIs in the doubleheader, started a three-run Boston rally in the first inning of the opener with a homer and Rico Petrocelli later added a two-run clout. Jim Northrup hit a pair for the Tigers.

Milwaukee moved past Chicago into fifth place in the West by sweeping the White Sox.

Ted Savage's pinch homer in the 12th inning broke up the opener for the Brewers and rewarded Marty Pattin, who went all the way, with the victory. In the nightcap, Lew Krausse pitched a four-hitter and turned in Milwaukee's first shutout of the season. Mike Hegan scored the game's only run when he doubled, moved up on a sacrifice and came in on a throwing error.

The sweep gave Milwaukee four straight victories. Chicago has dropped eight of the last nine.

(In Business, Part II)

Be reasonable should be every businessman's theme when he selects his business wardrobe.

Leave pads for the cells instead of on your coats. Lapels should be moderately small. Business suits should not have the "continental" look. Trousers cuffs should be medium in width.

Silk or nylon socks are not for winter wear except in evening. Wool, lisle or cotton are right for business socks.

White shirts are best. If you desire colors choose pastel shades that blend with your suits. Wear blending ties not "blasters".

If you have an urge to be an odd-ball, forget it. At least skip it until your next fancy-dress party. Then you can wear anything you wish.

WALLET WISDOM — Wallets are damaged in hip pockets. Try carrying yours in another pocket.

Paper Airplane Derby Attracts Many Celebrities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — What executive has never flown a paper airplane, or at least had the urge? It's a release from the problems that surround him, and a fun break between the piles of paperwork, but paper airplanes are much more scientifically based than an executive might think. And now, to help preserve the art of paper aerodynamics, ADMIRE has been dreamed up and put into operation. It's an international paper airplane contest held in Columbus, Ohio, June 21 through July 12.

ADMIRE, an acronym for Airplane Derby Means Interest, Research, Enjoyment, is sponsored by The Columbus Dispatch and the Center of Science and Industry of the Franklin County Historical Society, with the cooperation of Lockbourne Air Force Base, Ohio. There are no fees or gimmicks. It's all in fun, but who knows what unknown aeronautical geniuses will be discovered.

Entries included ones from airmen in the Imperial Ethiopian Air Force, a class of students at a German-American school in Germany and many from Japan.

Nationally, Walter J. Hickel, Secretary of the Interior, has asked the Interior Department Recreation Association to seek out those who can best provide an worthy entry. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia, has sent in his entry, named "Picrick," and Florida's governor, Claude Kirk, has sent an entry in the form of a green alligator.

Both Gov. Linwood Holton of Virginia and Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas called on their states' aeronautic divisions to prepare ADMIRE entries. Gov. Marvin Mandel of Maryland issued the challenge to make paper airplanes to all Marylanders.

ADMIRE also caught the fancy of many celebrities. First came an airplane in the shape of a golf club from Bob Hope, followed by "The Ink-A-Dink-A-Doo," from Jimmy Durante. Guy Lombardo made his airplane from the trumpet score of "Aquarius." Carol Burnett, Harry James, The Four Saints, The Arbors and James Brown also sent entries.

All branches of the armed forces are out to take honors, but crew members of the U. S. S. Columbus, named after the host city of ADMIRE, are determined to win. Their craft is made of cardboard and is wrapped with Japanese tissue paper.

Many prominent community leaders in Columbus are serving as officials in ADMIRE and all Columbus area university presidents, except one, are serving as judges. Sister Suzanne, President of Ohio Dominican College, didn't want to judge. She preferred to fly airplanes, so she is serving as a Chief Test Pilot.

All entries must be made entirely of paper, with glue, tape or paint acceptable. They may be decorated in any way. Airplanes are judged on distance of flight, duration of flight and originality of design. The runways at the Fly-Offs are manned with Air Endurance Officers to time flights and Ground Controllers to measure distance flown.

The Aerodynamic Originality Evaluation Board is grading crafts on their design and all data for each craft is sent to the Data Reductions Specialist who feeds information into a computer for final analysis. Before a craft can be flown, it must be examined by an Ecology Officer who checks for pollutants and radioactivity. Air Safety Officers use the latest electronic equipment to detect structural weaknesses and hidden contraband, including secreted paper clips and BBs.

The Fly-Offs began June 21, with a complete open house at Lockbourne Air Force Base, and the following week saw daily Fly-Offs for youngsters. After June 30, professional nights allowed adults a chance to compete.

A wide variety of prizes, ranging from a Florida vacation to athletic equipment, home accessories, optical and electronic equipment and airplane rides will be given winners in each category and division.

And those who might be worried over the "silliness" of it all should bear in mind that college classes studying aviation research their subject by making paper airplanes because the aerodynamic concepts applied to paper airplanes are identical to those applied to such monster crafts as the new 747s.

Win Award For Hiring Veterans

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—The American Enka Corp., at Enka, N. C., near Asheville, has received the American Legion's annual award for hiring veterans.

The Employer-of-the-Year award went to Enka, a textile manufacturer, for having 3,000 veterans among its 5,000 employees. About 95 per cent of Enka's new employees last year were veterans.

Large Gift Of Books For Library

A large donation of books, weighing nearly six tons, has been received by the School of Allied Health Professions at East Carolina University. The books are presented to the school by the University of Kentucky Medical Center Library.

Mainly consisting of both bound and unbound volumes of journals, numbering 1,757, the donation will be used to build up the basis serial collection and files of back issues for many of the journals needed for the health sciences curriculum. Also included in the donation were 83 monographs.

The newly-acquired volumes will be placed among the existing collection of the ECU Health Sciences Library, according to Medical Librarian Jo Ann Bell. "Such donations have been most important in assisting ECU in the formation of the basic health sciences library," she said.

Mrs. Bell further stated that the library will serve the projected medical school as well as the School of Allied Health Professions.

Now located in the East Cafeteria Building, the library is ultimately to be housed in the new Allied Health Professions Building, which will be constructed in the near future.

Mrs. Laura Miller retired June 30 as a social worker in the Greenville District of the North Carolina State Commission for the Blind.

Methods for meeting the needs of the four and five-year-old were observed and evaluated daily. Audio visual aids were

Board Stands By Salary Decision

WHITEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—The Columbus County commissioners have stuck by their decision not to raise the pay of deputy sheriffs.

The 12 deputies resigned last week when the commission refused to raise their pay $50 a month.

Commissioner Ed Williamson moved at Monday's meeting that the commissioners modify a tentative budget to provide a 5 per cent pay boost for county employees, which would have included the deputies.

The vote on the motion was 2-2, and Chairman H. J. Watts voted "no" to break the tie.

The deputies said they were losing money on their present salary and expense of $590 monthly. They must furnish their own transportation and uniforms.

used along with many different media to expose the children to many first hand, sensory experiences. Self discipline and teacher discipline were discussed.

Lectures were heard in the afternoons by Nursery Lab Leader, Mrs. Florence Lull, assistant director Head Start Teacher Training, Indiana University.

Lecturing on the five-year-old was Mrs. Nancy Mitchell, kindergarten administrator from Nashville, Tenn. Mrs. Mitchell has published numerous articles on pre-school education.

Each person attending the lab school met a total of 35 hours.

We have the new kind of Armstrong floor that hates waxing as much as you do.

It's called Solarian.

The sunny floor that shines without wax. In fact, Solarian should not be waxed, since most household waxes will not adhere to its unique high-gloss wear surface. With no wax to buy, apply and let dry... you save money, time and work. No yellowing, no stripping.

The secret behind the waxless shine.

A major new development—the Mirabond™ Wear Surface—is an entirely new formulation that maintains its brilliant gloss far longer than any vinyl floor. And the nonporous, nubby surface makes Solarian much easier to clean than a vinyl floor—even black heel marks wipe right up with a mild cleaner.

As beautiful to look at as it is to care for.

Choose Solarian in this crisp mosaic design or a gentle marble graining, both in four sunny, kitchen-perfect colors.

FREE Party Kit to help you celebrate your new wax-free floor.

This Party Kit—our gift to you when you buy an Armstrong Solarian floor—supplies you with everything but the refreshments. A deluxe fondue set with heating unit, forks and tray. Invitations. Napkins. Plus 8 colorful coasters made out of real Solarian.

Let us show you this amazing new development in flooring. Only $9⁹⁵ a sq. yd.

Williamston's Budget Bigger

WILLIAMSTON — The Williamston Town Board, meeting last week, adopted a budget for 1970-71 fiscal year totaling $670,000, an increase of $35,000 over the 1969-70 budget. "The increase was due mostly to reevaluation of items not included in last year's budgets, items submitted too late and which were carried over to this year," J. B. Godwin, town clerk, noted. Godwin stated that most of the addition would go to pay for salary increases for town employees. "These salary increases amount to at least five percent, and in some cases more," Godwin stated. Even with the $35,000 increase, town officials were able to keep the tax rate the same as last year, at $1.86 per $100 valuation. Williamston uses a 60 percent valuation as a tax base. A breakdown by department and other expenditures shows the following allocations: —Street Department, $87,000; general administration, $147,500; Sanitation Department, $94,500; Fire Department, $47,000; Police Department, $104,000; Water and Sewer Department, $65,500; Recreation Department, $24,000; sewer disposal plant, $15,500; and cemetery, $13,000. —Debt service for bonds and notes outstanding, $42,000; interest on notes and bonds, $18,000; and for a contingency fund, $12,000.

The Worry Clinic

Much Expected In Department

Sister Mary bemoans the fact that even some of her young nurses still fail to understand their obligation to cultured society. Smart women realize this "gold fish bowl" type of existence that is demanded of the wives of business and professional men. So measure your emotional maturity via the test below.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

CASE N-559: Sister Mary, aged 38, is Director of a well known School of Nursing. "Dr. Crane," she began, "we often assign your column to our students because of its practical slants on psychiatry.

"Besides, we teach our girls that they should set a positive example of morality as well as culture, for much will be expected of them."

"Yet I find that many students tend to follow the leader, as it were, and try to imitate many foolish social pace setters."

"So could I have a supply of your 'Behavior Tests for Teen-Agers' to use as a standard of deportment for our embryo nurses?"

Sister Mary is very wise in thus urging her pupils to realize that all educated people have an obligation to set a positive example.

Nurses and Dental Assistants belong in this "gold fish bowl" category.

So do wives of clergymen! And those of physicians, dental surgeons, lawyers and teachers.

Alas, some wives actually thwart the success of their husbands by alienating patients or clients.

Recently I have been consulted by 3 clergymen whose nitwit mates have violated the proper deportment of a pastor's wife.

One such disloyal wife of a leading Hoosier clergyman not only smoked and drank, but when she paraded in church in the most scanty of miniskirts, she later used profanity on the women who tactfully were trying to coach her in more seemly conduct.

This pastor's wife cost him his position, for a schism soon split the congregation apart.

Such women often need psychiatric attention, for their juvenile attempts to shock the "establishment" show a deep-seated inferiority complex.

When people thus try to "show off" by being social iconoclasts (breakers of custom), they merely advertise their immaturity.

In childhood, toddlers often grow resentful of parental authority, so that is where their feuding starts against the "establishment."

Since parents represent law and order, these emotionally retarded folks, though now adults in legal age, still are trying to strike back belatedly at papa and mamma by their attacks on our faithful police officers.

They also extend their juvenile rantings against business employers or "management" and even sneer at our superb "free enterprise" system that is furnishing them their meals via papa's regular allowance checks!

Then they try to recruit street parades of potential rioters, vainly believing in the fallacy that "might makes right" or that a majority determines justice.

Beware, for a 100 percent majority sent Christ to his Cross when the propagandized crowd in Pontius Pilate's courtroom voted to condemn the innocent Jesus to his death and release the murderer, Barabbas.

Our basic moral and social laws do not depend on a majority vote for they, like gravity, are eternal verities.

Sister Mary is to be praised for holding aloft before her student nurses the proper behavior of cultured, scientifically tutored modern young women.

Send for that "Behavior Test for Teen-Agers," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents, and learn to act like a mature adult.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Find Marijuana But No Growers

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Buncombe County Sheriff Harry P. Clay and a flock of deputies swooped down on marijuana patches Tuesday for the second straight day. But that's all they found — marijuana. No people.

And the sheriff estimated that some of the plants had been watered only 20 minutes before the raiders arrived.

Clay had hoped to snare the marijuana growers, when he and his men struck marijuana patches in the Lake Julian area in southern Buncombe County.

The raiders destroyed 82 plants.

The sheriff said the area had been under surveillance for about a week before the raid but that no one was seen. Some of the plants found in Tuesday's raid were growing in cans and pots while others were planted in the ground.
