New Patrol Troop

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott announced today the formation of a new highway patrol Troop F with headquarters in Hickory.

The governor told his news conference that Capt. Earl T. Green, now a first lieutenant serving as executive officer of Troop C at Raleigh, will command the new troop.

Scott said the new Troop F area will cover a band of 13 counties bounded by Cleveland and Gaston to the south and by Ashe, Alleghany and Surry counties in the north. It will have a strength of 113 men.

The new troop is made up of counties formerly served by Old Troop F and Troop E. Old Troop F, minus four of its eastern counties, will be redesignated Troop G. It will cover 18 counties with 88 men.

Except for Troop A in the east, Scott said all patrol troop areas will be affected by the formation of the new troop.

A Saddened Boyfriend

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The new Miss Universe, Marisol Malaret Contreras, says one of the judges who chose her to represent Puerto Rico in the international beauty contest later became her boyfriend and is now a sad man.

He realizes, she told interviewers Sunday, that he isn't going to see much of her for the next year.

"Truly, he is sad. But I'm thrilled, and I think it will be the most wonderful experience of my life," the jade-eyed beauty said.

Garbed in a sleek navy velvet lounge dress, Marisol conducted her first news conference after five hours of sleep.

Refusing to disclose her beau's name, she said, "I enjoy his company and now that I'm Miss Universe I don't know what will happen between us. There sure won't be much time for dates."

Hope To Deter Move

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Union officials at the Liggett & Myers, Inc., plant at Richmond say they will try to talk the firm out of moving its operations to a Durham, N. C., plant and abandoning the Richmond operation.

The tobacco company announced Friday it would close the Richmond plant and consolidate operations at Durham, but gave no date for the change.

The Richmond plant manufactures and packages cigarettes, while the Durham plant houses a wider range of tobacco manufacturing activity, including research and development laboratories.

The Richmond News-Leader said in its Saturday edition the plant would close by December. It said some of the 100 employees would be released in October and the rest in December.

Hearing Is Resumed

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — A closed hearing resumed today as the Army sought to determine whether 27-year-old Green Beret physician Capt. Jeffrey MacDonald should be tried by general court-martial on charges of slaying of his pregnant wife and two small daughters last Feb. 17.

The Army charges that MacDonald, of Patchogue, N. Y., killed his family and then stabbed himself in their home at Ft. Bragg to support his claim that a hippie-type band of three men and a woman stabbed and bludgeoned his wife and their children.

At Friday's session, Maj. William H. Straub, an Army physician, testified that stab wounds MacDonald suffered could have been fatal. Dennis Eisman, one of MacDonald's lawyers, said MacDonald suffered a punctured right chest which partially collapsed a lung, and a three-inch stomach wound which "was not superficial."

Await Lab Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina pollution control officials apparently know what is causing the recurring fish kills in the Yadkin River below Winston-Salem, but they are awaiting final confirmation from lab tests.

Randall Kornegay, regional chemist for the Water Pollution Control Division of the Department of Water and Air Resources, said Sunday night, "We've reached some conclusions in our mind" about the polluter.

Kornegay spent the weekend on the river heading the investigation of the third major fish kill in the past month. It occurred on a section of the river just south of Winston-Salem downstream to about five miles below the U.S. 64 bridge.

The kill was reported Friday, and like the other two incidents was after a heavy rain.

Bowles Avers Time At Hand To Vote On Liquor-By-Drink

Roy Lee Dudley, 42 of Route 2, Ayden died in Pitt Memorial Hospital early today of injuries he received in a July 4 accident five miles East of Ayden in which two other persons perished.

According to Coroner E.W. Harvey, Dudley died about 2:30 a.m. He was one of six persons injured in the crash of two cars that killed Pete Dudley Jr., 44, of Greenville — the driver of one of the cars — and Eunice Clark Williams, 49, of Greenville. Mrs. Williams and Dudley were both passengers in the car driven by Pete Dudley.

According to investigating Highway Patrolman F.L. Owens, a car driven by Eddie James Brock, 46, of Route 1, Grifton, apparently crossed the center line of the rural paved road and collided head-on with the Dudley vehicle.

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Sen. Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles, D-Guilford, told the North Carolina Association of ABC boards' annual conference today: "I think we've reached the stage where the people should make the decision on whisky by the drink."

"I would predict that the chances for the legislature allowing the people to decide this matter are about 50-50 during this next session," Bowles added.

"This entire issue of whisky by the drink is too controversial, too emotion-packed, for 170 men ... to solve alone," he said in a prepared speech.

"I don't think the people of North Carolina want to vote on whether or not we will have open saloons in the state—similar to New York. That's not the question.

A QUEEN IN PROFILE — This is Cornelia Colette Lerner, Miss Asheville, who was chosen Miss North Carolina Saturday night. (AP Wirephoto)

New Miss N.C. A Calm Beauty

RALEIGH (AP) — A first-generation American born of Jewish immigrant parents will represent North Carolina in the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, N.J., in September.

Cornelia Colette Lerner, 18, of Asheville—who prefers to be called Connie—won the crown in the annual Miss North Carolina Pageant in Raleigh Saturday night.

The statuesque brunette, who stands 5-foot-7 and measures 36-24-36, drove back to Asheville with her parents Sunday.

Almost immediately she will begin the whirlwind round of appearances scheduled for her during her year as Miss North Carolina.

After her selection Saturday night, Miss Lerner said she was "surprisingly calm. In fact, I am the calmest I've been all my life."

She takes a very serious view of her new title as a means of spreading her ideas across the country. Her idea of Miss North Carolina is "a girl who represents the youth of America. A girl who represents the ideals of generosity, sincerity and an honest love for her family and community. People should respect these ideals more."

Miss Lerner's parents—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lerner—were persecuted by the Germans during World War II, and she retains much of her parents sense of the tangibility of civil liberties and peace.

"When I think of the millions of people who died in the war, then I begin to realize how much peace means," she said.

A pianist, she played Chopin's Revolutionary Etude for her talent presentation during the pageant. The piece was played 24 hours a day during the German invasion of Poland in 1939 to arouse the beleaguered nation.

"This piece means a lot to me. It's an affirmation that people who can and are willing to exist will," she said. "My parents did. My mother was in Auschwitz and my father escaped from a concentration camp and was a part of the Resistance movement."

Her parents' wartime experiences have given her a strong affinity for people without families or homes. "Most of all, I would like to visit orphanages. I've always tried to do things with orphanages while I was Miss Asheville."

Deciding Today On Park Levy

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Voters decide today whether to authorize an additional five-cent levy on each $100 of property valuation to go for Charlotte parks.

Currently, eight cents is levied for parks and recreation. If the additional nickel is approved, the city council wouldn't be obligated to raise the tax that amount. But the semi-autonomous Parks and Recreation Commission notes that part of the money would probably be sought for new facilities planned from a $1.65 million bond issue approved by voters in December.

"I think, however, that the people do want to vote on whether or not they will have very, very tightly controlled and highly supervised serving of whisky by the drink in legitimate restaurants and clubs along with meals.

"Virginia has led the way in this approach and has made Virginia a more appealing location for conventions and tourists," he said.

Bowles also suggested local ABC boards join to mount a large-scale education program in schools and communities to help keep drunken drivers off the highways.

He suggested a compilation of funds for "the production of a series of hard-hitting documentary films that will make an indelible and everlasting impression on the school children of North Carolina."

Russian Shipments To Egypt Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has sharply increased its shipments to Egypt of late, including amphibious troop-landing craft, according to Assistant Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco.

The State Department's chief Middle East expert noted Sunday the offensive nature of the landing ships, but refused to pinpoint their use for any possible Egyptian crossing of the Suez Canal against Israeli positions.

Sisco, while repeating administration determination to prevent a shift of the Mideast military balance in favor of the Arab states, refused again to say whether a decision has been made to sell additional war planes to Israel.

However, he went on, "The President has made it very clear that we intend to support the security of Israel and I think that you can take that at face value."

Sisco spoke on the NBC interview program "Meet the Press."

Sisco's cautious, if ambiguous, statement on the plane sale came as it was learned the administration has agreed to replace F4 Phantom fighter-bombers Israel has lost recently to Arab anti-aircraft guns and missiles.

Although the Defense and State departments and the White House made their usual "neither confirm nor deny" statements Sunday, government sources said Israel will get the Phantoms under a flexible program aimed at offsetting increased Soviet involvement in the Mideast.

It was indicated Israel has gotten no U.S. commitment to a specific number of the powerful jets, but at the same time there were signs the supply of Phantoms will depend in part on future Soviet moves.

It is understood American electronic equipment combat-proved in Vietnam and capable of jamming the SAM radars and radio devices is being shipped to Israel.

Newsweek magazine in reporting similar developments Sunday added it had learned the first shipment of U.S. planes to Israel will include eight Phantoms.

The magazine said Israel had been assured the United States would send two Phantoms a month for an indefinite period, starting in August.

Sisco, when asked specifically about the Newsweek report, came up with the familiar response: "I can neither confirm nor deny the Newsweek report," adding, "I am not going to get into details about what we are doing, or may have done, for Israel." He added there are no plans "for involvement of American forces" in the Mideast.

The assistant secretary was a bit more willing to discuss efforts under way to reach some sort of accommodation in the Mideast.

"At the moment ... we are pursuing an important political initiative to try to get the shooting stopped and to get the parties to begin talking under (U.N. mediator Gunnar) Jarring's auspices," Sisco said.

"We think if we can get the parties talking that there is some hope of developing some flexibility between the two sides which would offer an opportunity for progress."

He added that no deadline has been set for an answer to the American initiative, but he expressed hope that one will be forthcoming with Egyptian President Nasser's return from an extended visit in Moscow.

However, Sisco said, "if the political initiative of the United States is rejected ... if we lose this opportunity ... what we can look to, unfortunately is a continuation of the violence and the counter-violence, and I am afraid at an escalated level."

Orangemen Hold Parade In Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Thousands of Protestant Orangemen paraded in Belfast and other parts of Northern Ireland today, marking a victory over Roman Catholics in the Battle of Boyne in 1690.

British troops partitioned this capital and remained on alert elsewhere to prevent new battles between the Protestant majority and the Catholics, who charge discrimination.

Mammoth Protestant demonstrations jammed areas on the fringes of the parade route.

The Order of Orange said more than 20,000 of its members were on parade in Belfast, with 200 bands playing such tunes as "Derry's Walls" and "The Sash My Father Wore."

The sale of alcoholic beverages was banned through Northern Ireland, but more than 4,000 Scots came from Glasgow to march with the Orangemen and they brought copious supplies of beer and whisky.

Along the border with the Catholic-dominated Irish Republic to the south Orangemen made arrangements with southern pubs to send in supplies of drinks.

But many of the banners carried in the Belfast parade were dedicated to temperance and some even pledged total abstinence.

Catholics threw up a barricade in the Flax Street section of Belfast and in another area hoisted the flag of southern Ireland. British troops ordered the barricade dismantled and the flag hauled down in the interest of keeping peace.

Last year, the parades touched off weeks of religious warfare, and tension has been rising since the imprisonment of Catholic leader Bernadette Devlin two weeks ago.

Marches were canceled in two areas of Londonderry County that are predominantly Catholic. Authorities in Belfast ordered considerable rerouting of the local parade to keep it away from Catholic sections.

Thousands of British soldiers, police and men of the Ulster Defense regiment manned a steel curtain across Belfast at dawn. Traffic through the "peace line" dividing the city's main Protestant and Catholic sections was halted.

Squadrons of armored cars and water cannon backed up the troops and police. Crack paratroop commandos of Britain's Special Air Service stood by at Belfast Airport with a squadron of helicopters to rush to any trouble spot.

Liquor sales were banned. The weekend passed peacefully. About 3,000 Protestants paraded without incident to their churches in Belfast Sunday. In Londonderry, 500 Orangemen placed a wreath at the War Memorial and then marched peacefully to church.

A message from Bishop Neil Farren urging Roman Catholics to remain peaceful during the Orange parades was read in Londonderry Catholic churches Sunday.

The death in a Belfast hospital Sunday of Patrick Elliman, 60, raised the death toll in the past two weeks of fighting to 14. He had been shot during rioting in the Catholic Falls Road area of Belfast last weekend.

Hold Workshop For Candidates

RALEIGH (AP) — A campaign workshop for more than 100 Democratic party General Assembly candidates and others was scheduled today in Raleigh's Sir Walter Hotel.

The conference was to be a preliminary to the biennial state Democratic convention, which will be in Raleigh's Memorial Auditorium Tuesday.

Gov. Bob Scott was to open the conference this afternoon. Workshops for the candidates were scheduled on such subjects as campaign organization, finance, publicity, issues and leadership.

Bob Bingham, president of the state's Young Democrats, who are sponsoring the conference, was to serve as master of ceremonies. The YDC was to hold an evening social for the conference delegates.

Scheduled speakers included Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor, House Speaker Phil Godwin, state party chairman Gene Simmons, former party chairman Jimmy V. Johnson, party vice-chairman Mrs. Margaret Harper, party treasurer Joe Yates, Director Roy Sowers of the state Department of Conservation and Development; Highway Commission Chairman Lauch Faircloth; Democratic Study Commission Chairman James Hunt Jr.; Senate President Hector McGeachy and Director of Local Affairs Irvin Aldridge.

Fuquay Varina Bids To Open Leaf Sales With Eastern Belt

RALEIGH (AP) — Fuquay-Varina in Southern Wake County has begun legal proceedings in an attempt to allow its tobacco markets to open with the 17 markets of the Eastern North Carolina Belt.

Fuquay-Varina has traditionally been part of the Middle Belt, which opens about two weeks later than the Eastern Belt.

Farm leaders and warehousemen in the area have long contended that their climate and soils are more like the Eastern Belt's than the Middle one.

They have contended their crop reaches maturity and is ready for sale at least as early as that around Wendell, another Wake County town whose market is a part of the Eastern belt.

The suit was filed by the Fuquay-Varina Tobacco Board of Trade in U.S. Eastern District Court against U.S. Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin. He has 60 days in which to answer, but the plaintiffs are seeking a preliminary injunction to obtain the needed inspection service until a hearing can be held.

The board asked for federal graders for the opening of its four warehouses on the date the Eastern Belt markets open.

The four warehouses are assigned two sets of buyers. They draw tobacco from Wake, Chatham, Harnett and Johnston counties.

The complaint contends that the secretary of agriculture is required by law to furnish tobacco graders for an officially designated market where personnel are available and the quantity of tobacco offered is sufficient to justify cost of inspection.

Gross annual sales at Fuquay-Varina normally exceed 15 million to 17 million pounds valued at more than $10 million.

Congress Acts To Save Its GI Loan Program

By JERRY T. BAULCH Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The deadline for World War II GIs to apply for Veterans Administration home loan guarantees expires July 25 but Congress is moving to save and perhaps expand the program.

Under bills being considered, Congress may reopen the program to millions who passed it up by knocking out the eligibility deadline for veterans of World War II as well as GIs who served in Korea, the post-Korea era and Vietnam.

Several such bills have been introduced and the Senate has held hearings on one sponsored by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and backed by the White House.

The Senate bill, as it seems to be shaping up, would knock out all deadlines—present and future—on GI home loans. Several bills are in the House Veterans Affairs Committee, which will hold hearings this week, including one by Chairman Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., to knock out the deadline only for those now still eligible.

At present about 1.4 million World War II veterans remain eligible. Eligibility has expired already for many others who did not use the GI bill to buy homes. About 5.5 million World War II veterans used the benefit.

Eligible veterans of World War II, Korea, post-Korea, service and Vietnam may get home loans from commercial lenders guaranteed up to $12,500, but there's no limit on how big the loan may be as there once was. The VA also makes direct loans in some areas where commercial loan money is scarce.

Interest may not be over 8 1/2 per cent, the same limit as FHA, but the government has authority to raise this to match the money market.

Mobley-Smith Vows Said In Ceremony On Sunday

Miss Peggy Lucy Smith became the bride of James David Mobley in a double ring ceremony in the First Christian Church on Sunday at 3:30 in the afternoon. The Rev. M. Dana Hunt officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Roy Gerome Smith and the late Mr. Smith of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Mobley of Winterville.

A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Marian Cranford of Albemarle, organist, and Jimmy Stocks of Winterville, soloist, who sang "Because," "Walk Hand in Hand" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The church was complimented with all brass wedding accessories. In the background of the church was an arched candelabra holding white cathedral candles. On either side was a nine branch tree candelabra holding sprays of flowers and greenery, flanked by baskets of white mums and gladioli. Two single candelabra completed the setting. Family pews were marked with bridal satin. At the altar was a profile prie-dieu where the vows were taken, and the bride and bridegroom knelt for the closing prayer and benediction.

A three-branched candelabra was placed behind the prie-dieu with three unlighted candles. As the bride and bridegroom reached the altar, the minister lighted two tapers and gave them to the bride and bridegroom, who in turn lighted the two outside candles. After they were pronounced husband and wife, the minister gave one taper to the bride and bridegroom to seal their love by lighting the middle candle together and snuffing out the outside candles.

Given in marriage by her brother, Roy R. Smith, the bride wore a formal length gown of pure silk organza and chantilly lace designed with a high neckline. The empire bodice featured a bib lace front, accented with tiny white buttons. The lace fitted sleeves came to a point at the wrists. Delegate To NEA Convention Describes Resolutions Role

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Dr. Frank G. Fuller, Greenville City Councilman and Chairman of Counselor Education, School of Education, East Carolina University, has recently returned from the annual meeting of the National Education Association (NEA) held in late June and early July in San Francisco.

Dr. Fuller was the North Carolina representative on the 85 member Resolutions Committee. He also attended in the capacity of a delegate from the ECU local NEA unit.

Another ECU professor, Dr. Joseph Congleton, was in San Francisco as the North Carolina Association of Education (NCEA) delegate for District 15. Dr. Congleton, like Dr. Fuller, is a faculty member in the School of Education at ECU.

"The NCEA," Dr. Fuller noted, "is a new organization which came into being July 1 as the result of the merger of the North Carolina Educators Association (NCEA) and the North Carolina Teachers Association (NCTA)."

As one of the 85 members appointed to the Resolutions Committee, Dr. Fuller was charged with the responsibility of helping write resolutions to be considered by 7,000 members attending the meeting from all states and territories in the nation.

"This may seem to be a large number of people to attend a meeting," Dr. Fuller admitted, "but they represent the largest professional organization in the world. The NEA has over one million members on its rolls."

The councilman-educator noted this membership constitutes a little more than half of all teachers in the U.S.

Pointing out that the resolutions were of two types, Dr. Fuller commented, "The C resolutions are what we term 'continuing resolutions.'"

Clarifying this statement, Dr. Fuller observed "The continuing resolutions are those which come up each year and are not much altered from year to year."

"These serve as platforms for programs and planning," he continued, "and are the basis of goals, objectives and program priorities adopted at the annual meetings."

Although most of the 7,000 delegates were in attendance only on two days, July 5 and 6, the 85 members of the Resolutions Committee reported to San Francisco earlier in order to shape up and consolidate resolutions prepared by individual members.

"The Resolutions Committee met first on the 29th and 30th of June," he noted. "The convention opened on the first day of July."

In the category of "C" or continuing resolutions, Dr. Fuller had been assigned to draft the one covering the subject of Mental and Emotional Health of Children. The one he prepared and which was adopted by the Resolutions Committee consisted of five basic points.

His resolution reads: "The NEA recognizes that the total environment, including home, school, and community, affects the mental and emotional health of children."

"The Association believes that a wholesome environment is essential for the proper growth of children. It urges its affiliates to support programs which would: a. Strengthen and improve the enforcement of child abuse laws; b. Promote educational programs for parents to improve the home atmosphere; c. Improve teacher and administrator understanding of child growth and development to ensure the provision of an emotional climate in the school conducive to good mental health; d. Provide special preventive services in the school to detect impending difficulties early; and e. Provide comprehensive community mental health facilities for the treatment of children and adults."

The second category of resolutions proposed by the 85 member national committee are the "current resolutions" or those identified by the "70" numbering system.

"This group," Dr. Fuller explained, "are issues which are of immediate concern but may not be of continuing concern. In this category are such subjects as drugs, which may be resolved in a relatively short period of time."

For the convention next year, Dr. Fuller has been asked to write a couple of resolutions; one in the "continuing" category, and one in the "current" category. "I've been asked to write a stronger statement for C-22, which covers salaries in higher education," Dr. Fuller commented. "The committee also wants me to write a 70 type resolution on discipline on campus."

The annual meetings of the NEA are, according to Dr. Fuller, an important phase in education in America. Working out resolutions is a prime factor in the total work of the meeting. "The resolutions set policy for the association," Dr. Fuller remarked. "These are acted on by the association."

Adopting resolutions, Dr. Fuller pointed out, is not always a cut and dried process. "The C-20 resolution covering federal support of public education created a real controversy at this meeting," he observed.

"The adoption of this resolution was an unequivocal stand against the use of public money for private schools," Dr. Fuller said. "This is a complete reversal of the prior NEA position on this subject."

"The original NEA position was based on the child benefit theory." According to Dr. Fuller, the child benefit theory was predicated on the concept "that money spent for the education of a child was the important thing, not whether the school the child attended was private or public."

Saying "there was a big fight over this issue," Dr. Fuller pointed out some of the specific clauses contained in the resolution on federal support of education. These include, among many other clauses, ones which

Jimmy Durante Has Collapse

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Comedian Jimmy Durante remained in St. John's Hospital over the weekend after a collapse following a stage show at the Frontier Hotel in Las Vegas.

The collapse Thursday was attributed by the 77-year-old entertainer's doctor to loss of equilibrium caused by a disorder of the inner ear. The doctor said Durante was recovering.

Durante was forced to cancel his scheduled participation in a weekend show to raise funds for the Jimmy Durante Children's Fund.

state — "that legislation be consistent with the constitutional provision respecting an establishment of religion and with the tradition of separation of church and state, with no diversion of federal funds, goods, or services to non-public elementary and secondary schools;" and — "that where public funds are presently provided to K-12 non-public schools, these funds be discontinued."

Raleigh Trip Being Planned

AYDEN — The Senior Citizens Club of Ayden is sponsoring a trip to Raleigh Tuesday.

Various points of interest including the Capitol, the Legislative Building, the Natural History Museum, and the Art Museum will be visited. Each person should bring his own bag lunch for a picnic at Pullen Park. There is no other cost.

The group will leave from Zion Chapel F.W.B. Church in Ayden at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday.

The club president, Mrs. Nicie Williams, said any interested person in the Senior Citizen age group should contact her about participating in this or any other Senior Citizen activity. The club is under the auspices of the Pitt-Greenville Council on the Aging.

Dr. Fuller, though occupied with his professional duties at ECU and as a member of the City Council, indicated he was pleased to have the opportunity to serve the state and the university in his capacity as representative and delegate.

acreage. If more than one-third of the vote is "no", there will be no marketing quotas and no price support in effect for the 1971 flue-cured tobacco crop. No limits will be put on production of flue-cured tobacco.

If marketing quotas are rejected in this year's referendum, another referendum will be held next year. If quotas are continued, the next referendum will be held in 1973.

County ASC committee chairman W. F. Tyson urges all flue-cured tobacco growers to vote on this important question.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

Thanks to the dominance of foreign policy considerations, Davis came to feel, correctly, that President Nixon sought to preserve the free-trade status quo, save for textile quotas to satisfy the 1968 campaign commitment to Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina. That decision, Davis felt, ignored both economic and Congressional realities.

Frustrated by his inability to get his message to the President, Davis made his public attack on Administration trade policy which led to his sacking by Ehrlichman June 19 on Presidential orders.

Solutions Offered To Divorce Problem

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Apropos of Helen who is 25, single, Roman Catholic and "hopelessly in love" with a Lutheran, 35, who is divorced with two children: Helen says she will not give up her religion to marry him, she's broken up with him a dozen times but they always get back together again. She's begged him to leave her alone, but instead the 'Foxy Romeo' moved into her apartment building, so now they are seeing more of each other than ever!

I suspect it's Helen who doesn't want to get married. Many girls "fall in love" only with men they can't marry. [Either the man is married, or divorced, or he is a priest.]

My sympathies are with Foxy Romeo. If he's looking for a wife and a mother for his two kids, he'd better forget Helen. She wants a boyfriend—not a husband. No girl "breaks up" and makes up a dozen times unless she enjoys having the man around.

If you want to call Helen's bluff, advise her to take her Romeo to a priest (or contact me). Due to legal technicalities, some divorced persons can remarry. It's a longshot, but it's worth a try. If it turns out that Helen can marry her Romeo, I will wager that instead of rushing into his arms, she will move to another apartment building to avoid him.

Very truly yours,
Rev. Anthony P. Vaz
St. Luke's Rectory,
Westport, Conn.

DEAR REVEREND VAZ: I appreciate your offer to help Helen. And heaven help YOU with the mail you are likely to receive after this.

DEAR ABBY: I was once in Helen's shoes. A more devout Roman Catholic would have been hard to find. Then I fell in love with a beautiful Protestant, the son of a minister, yet I was torn between him and my church.

Then it occurred to me that my church is changing so rapidly. What happened to the "No-Meat-On-Friday" church? How about St. Christopher who is no longer a saint? And nuns who, with the blessings of the church, wear mini skirts and boots? And the pressure to permit priests to marry could conceivably win out in time. Now I'm wondering what will Helen think if she gives up the man she loves to some other woman, and the church decides a month (or a year) later that Roman Catholics MAY marry divorced non-Catholics?

Because I married a non-Catholic and practice birth control, I cannot go to confession or receive communion. I have not been back to the Catholic church because according to them I am living in mortal sin and shall surely go to hell. If I sound bitter, maybe it's because I am. But I am not the only good Catholic they have lost.

I gave up my church for this wonderful man, but I did NOT give up my God. NO REGRETS IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR ABBY: This is in reply to "Helen." MARRY HIM! Many years ago I fell in love with a divorced man. I was born and raised a Catholic and wanted to remain so. The strength of my convictions led me to say goodbye to my lover. We agreed never to see each other again and I have regretted my decision ever since.

I remained single for a long time because I still felt deeply for the man I gave up for my religion. Now for the ironic twist: I fell in love with another divorced man, but this one I married. He is a fine man and we are happy. I still go to church, but am denied the sacraments.

I am better off happily married to a divorced man than unhappily married to a Catholic who boasts that he hasn't ever been married. [I was engaged to two such men.]

So, Helen, I know your sorrow, and felt mine again just by reading your letter in Abby's column. I don't believe God will damn us because we love and marry a divorced man.

LIVING AGAIN AND NO REGRETS

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Cambodians Battle Attackers

By JOHN T. WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian forces battled west and north of Phnom Penh today while allied forces claimed more than 400 North Vietnamese killed in five days of attacks near Khe Sanh, in the northwest corner of South Vietnam.

A Cambodian military spokesman said a relief force of U.S.-trained mercenaries was battling an estimated 1,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong who on Saturday overran the mountain resort of Kiri Rom, 50 miles west of Phnom Penh.

The spokesman claimed at least 50 of the enemy were killed in fighting Sunday and said the only government casualties reported were 24 wounded Saturday and Sunday.

During the night, the spokesman said, South Vietnamese AC47 gunships attacked suspected enemy positions, and today the enemy force hit the Cambodian troops with mortar and infantry attacks.

Kiri Rom sits atop a 2,000-foot mountain and before the war was a playground of the wealthy seeking a cool climate. The town itself appears to have no military significance.

The spokesman also reported that an enemy raiding party broke through government defenses at the Long Vek munitions depot 30 miles north of Phnom Penh, but a government counterattack pushed it out. No casualties were reported on either side.

The government says it stripped the sprawling arsenal when Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces began a buildup in the area several weeks ago.

In South Vietnam, government forces reported killing 33 North Vietnamese troops in scattered clashes and finding 26 more bodies in the fifth day of fighting near Khe Sanh.

Allied officers believe their forces may have wiped out the equivalent of a full-strength

North Vietnamese battalion—about 600 men—around the abandoned U.S. Marine base.

The report today brought the total enemy casualties to 417 killed and five captured since the first contact was made last Wednesday by helicopter-gunships of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division.

It was the biggest enemy casualty toll in a single battlefield action in Vietnam in months.

In Saigon today, a grenade exploded under the car of Pham Duy Tue, secretary-general of the National Assembly's lower house. A guard readying the car to drive Tue to his office and a maid cleaning the vehicle were wounded. Tue was in his home at the time and was not hurt.

The assemblyman said the American-made M 26 fragmentation grenade apparently had been placed in a box under the front of the car during the night and rigged to go off when the car moved.

The 29-year-old representative was considered a strongly pro-government politician until he announced his opposition recently to a broad economic and fiscal reform program proposed by the government.

The French Embassy in Phnom Penh reported that three members of a French television team were captured by Communist troops last week in the Angkor Wat area. Two other French journalists had been reported captured there earlier, and it was understood that the embassy was in roundabout contact with the Communists, seeking the release of all five.

"America has no folk music because America has no folk," he once told an interviewer. "It's a melange, a potpourri, born of the soil."

In 1927 Gilbert started writing a song the moment Charles A. Lindbergh began his historic flight across the Atlantic. "Lucky Lindy" became a national hit. "Green Eyes" was another of Gilbert's top tunes.

PARIS (AP) — Former President Charles de Gaulle has finished the first volume of a planned three books which will constitute memoirs of his 11 years as head of the French state.

His publisher, Plon of Paris, said the volume, entitled "Le Renouveau," or the Renewal, would appear in the autumn. It will cover the former president's activities from 1958 to 1962.

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — Rep. Wayne N. Aspinall, D-Colo., has married the childhood sweetheart who shared his first date 59 years ago.

Aspinall, 74, and Essie Jeffers Best, a widow, 73, exchanged vows Sunday at Crossroads Methodist Church.

The congressman's first wife died in 1969 a few days before their 50th wedding anniversary. He and his new bride dated the first time in 1911, when they were schoolmates.

Legion Rallies To Win Playoff Series

Thank goodness for ninth innings! Once again, the Greenville American Legion used the final frame to advantage in posting a nail-biting 4-3 win over Wilson Post 13 Saturday night to wrap up the second round of the State Legion Playoffs.

By taking the series, two games to one, Greenville advances to the third round and a best three of five games series with Smithfield.

The first game will be played in Smithfield tomorrow night at 8 p.m. with the second game scheduled to be played here on Wednesday at 5 at the ECU field. The third match will be played in Smithfield on Thursday.

Wilson threatened in the first inning Saturday night as the first two men walked and moved up on a long fly ball but the early threat died as the next two men went down.

The locals got the first run of the game in the bottom of the second inning. Ronnie Leggett struck out but the ball bounced before being caught by the catcher and Leggett streaked all the way to third as the catcher's throw went into right field. The runner scored when Tommy Durham got an infield hit.

Wilson again put their leadoff batter on base in the third as Dennis Wilkerson reached on an error and moved to third on Lindsey Etheridge's single. The next two men went down in order and the threat against was in vain.

Greenville got a mild threat going in the bottom of the third. With two men out, Eddie Vincent singled to left and moved to third as the relay in was wide at second. A strike-out ended their hopes of scoring.

In the fourth inning for Wilson, Greg Fulghum led off with a single up the middle and moved to second on Pat Williams sacrifice bunt. Buddy Davis unleashed a single to center scoring Fulghum with the tying run.

Again, in the fifth inning, Wilson had runners in scoring position but could not get the rally going. Etheridge doubled to left center and DeRatt walked. Etheridge moved to third on Yelverton's fielder's choice which caught DeRatt at second. However, Yelverton was caught stealing for the third out.

Greenville put runners on in their half of the fifth inning also as Dickens walked and Allen

Wilson, in the game as a courtesy runner, stole second and went to third on a wild pitch. An out killed the threat.

Wilson went ahead in the top of the seventh. Joey Boyette singled to right center and moved up on a passed ball. Boyette scored as Etheridge got a single.

Following a three-up, three-down eighth inning for both teams, Wilson pushed across another run in their half of the ninth. Wilkerson reached on an error and went all the way to third on the miscue. A passed ball allowed him to come in with what appeared to be an insurance run.

Greenville was not denied, however, as Moore singled with one away and came all the way from first to score on Allan Pate's double. Kear walked and moved up on Dicken's bunt single. Pate scored the tying run on a wild pitch with Kear moving to third and Kear streaked home with the winning run on another passed ball.

Nicklaus Wins Open With Putt On 18th

By JOHN FARROW
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — "Let's give Jack full credit," said a disappointed Doug Sanders after losing the prestigious British Open Golf Championship by one stroke to Jack Nicklaus.

Nicklaus, the game's Golden Bear, countered after Sunday's 18-hole playoff: "How lucky can you get? I never expected to be here now. Doug had it all pped up on the final hole Saturday. Then he missed that short putt."

Just as the 18th was the crucial hole Saturday at the end of the regulation 72 holes, so it was again Sunday.

Sanders missed a four-foot putt on the 18th green of historic St. Andrews' Old Course, birthplace of the game, on Saturday, forcing Sunday's 18-hole playoff. Dapper Doug, in a prolonged victory drought, canned a three-footer at 18 Sunday for a birdie.

But it was for naught. Big Jack canned a seven-footer, also for a birdie, and it gave him a one-shot victory and his second British Open championship.

Here's how Sanders, the 36-year-old Georgia native with the fabled short backswing, described it:

"I'm in a good position on the 18th. Jack is at the back of the green and in what could be tough grass.

"So, I'm thinking if I get a birdie and he gets a five, then I'm the champion. But Jack, being the champion he is, chipped out and got the birdie."

The 30-year-old Nicklaus, describing his winning putt, said: "I almost hit it before I was ready. I told myself to wait for a second and make it right."

Nicklaus carded an even par 72 for the playoff round on the 6,951-yard layout. Sanders finished with a 73.

Nicklaus earned $12,600, but, as usual with major championships, the benefits will be much greater. Nicklaus, one of the few professionals with victories in each of the world's four major tournaments, last won the British Open at Muirhead in 1966. His last major championship was the U.S. Open in 1967. He also has won the Masters and the PGA, other jewels of golf's Quadruple Crown.

Sanders, with career earnings of over a half-million dollars, finished 64th on the money list for the U.S. tour in 1969 and hasn't won in three years. A colorful dresser who's always ready with a wisecrack or quip, Sanders had to qualify for this year's British Open, which attracted the strongest international field in its 110-year history.

He has never won a major championship and Sunday's defeat was a bitter cup of tea because he has been runnerup twice in the U.S. Open, once in the PGA, and also in the 1966 British Open won by Nicklaus.

Lee Trevino, the Mexican-American chatterbox from Texas who led the first two rounds, finished in a tie for third Saturday with South African Harold Henning with 72-hole scores of 285, two strokes higher than the five-under par 283 carded by Nicklaus and Sanders.

Tony Jacklin, the defending champion from England and winner of this year's U.S. Open, had a 286, followed by Neil Coles and Peter Oosterhuis, both of England, at 287.

Brothers Lash Out At Lasher

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

Tony Conigliaro and Billy Conigliaro both hit Fred Lasher Sunday and it was debatable which of the brothers made the Cleveland pitcher feel worse.

Tony C. charged Lasher after being struck on the left arm by a pitch in the first inning of Sunday's nightcap. He kicked Lasher in the hip—the hurler got a tetanus shot for a small spike wound—and punched him in the nose before being thrown out of the game.

Unfortunately for Lasher, umpire Hank Soar let him stick around and Billy C. hit a home run in the second inning that started the Boston Red Sox to an 8-2 victory. They also won the opener 6-2.

"I couldn't think of anything else but to go and get him," said Tony C., who was nearly blinded when struck in the face by a pitch from California's Jack Hamilton in August 1967 and didn't return to action until last season. "There was nothing else I could do."

Sunday's outburst was an aftermath of a July 4 game in which Lasher knocked Conigliaro down with a pitch and then was quoted as saying, "Tell Tony C. he better be a little careful the next time he faces me because he just may get a little jammed."

"He surprised me twice," Lasher said Sunday. "First, Tony surprised me when he came out to the mound. So I got ready for him. But then he surprised me with that kick. Before I could do anything, Carl Yastrzemski grabbed me and pinned my arms to my side."

Soar absolved Lasher of deliberately throwing at Conigliaro.

"The pitch was inside, but it wasn't thrown at Tony," the umpire said.

Tom Satriano and John Kennedy also homered for the Red Sox in the nightcap while Tony C. and Rico Petrocelli connected in the first game. Duke Sims, Tony Horton and Ted Uhlaender cracked home runs for the Indians, who fell into last place in the American League East when Washington beat the New York Yankees 7-3.

Elsewhere in the AL, Baltimore whipped Detroit 13-3 after the Tigers took the opener 7-3. California downed Minnesota 6-2, Oakland edged Milwaukee 4-3 but lost the second game 2-1 and the Chicago White Sox battered Kansas City 0-5.

Beman Is Glad He Practiced

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP)—A confident Deane Beman withdrew from the British Open to play at Milwaukee because of the warm weather and a chance to get in more practice.

"I was happy about my decision before," he said Sunday, after winning the $110,000 Greater Milwaukee Open golf tournament. "Now I'm elated."

The 32-year-old Beman fired a 12-under-par 276 to capture the $22,000 first place check.

Three strokes back were Don Massena, Dick Crawford and Ted Hayes, all tied at 279.

"I had an exemption and had planned to play in the British Open," Beman said. "But my performance has been mediocre lately and I thought the weather in Milwaukee would be warmer and I could get in more practice."

Pirates First, Nip Cardinals

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

Claude Raymond had a chance to be heard instead of seen this season. The New York Mets wish he had taken it, but the Montreal Expos are glad he's saving his voice among other things.

The other things are victories — and Sunday Raymond saved the Expos' 5-3 triumph over the New York Mets.

It was the third straight save — one in each of the victories over the Mets — and his 17th of the season for Raymond, who turned down a chance to retire and do the French language broadcasts for the Expos this year.

New York's loss left the Mets 1 1/2 games behind first-place Pittsburgh in the National League East. The Pirates beat St. Louis 7-6 in 10 innings but lost pitcher Steve Blass with a cracked pitching elbow on the eve of the annual All-Star Game break.

Houston edged San Francisco 8-7, Cincinnati nipped Atlanta 6-5, San Diego took Los Angeles 4-1 and the Chicago Cubs trounced Philadelphia 10-2.

In the American league, Washington topped the New York Yankees 7-3, the Chicago White Sox outlasted Kansas City 10-5, California dropped Minnesota 6-2, Boston swept Cleveland 6-2 and 8-2, Detroit downed Baltimore 7-3 before the Orioles turned the tables 13-3 and Oakland edged Milwaukee 4-3 but lost the nightcap 2-1.

Five cents.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
(a 1970 By The Chicago Tribune)
ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1.—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ6 ♣K7 ♢AQ 10 8 5 4 ♠A4

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Two—no trump. Theoretically this hand is one point short of the required 19 for this call but the fine six card suit is adequate compensation for the deficiency.

Q. 2.—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQ 10 6 5 3 ♣4 ♢AJ 6 2 ♠AK

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
3 ♣ 4 ♠ Pass 6 ♠

What do you bid now?
A.—Seven spades. A pass at this point would be the height of cowardice. Partner is surely marked with the king of spades, the ace of hearts and extreme shortness in diamonds as indispensable values for his bid.

Q. 3.—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J10 6 3 ♣4 ♢A10 3 2 ♠9 8 6 3

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
Pass Pass Pass 2 ♥ Pass 2 NT Pass 3 ♠

What do you bid now?
A.—This hand has suddenly grown to slim proportions. In fact a direct leap to six would not be at all unreasonable. The safest course, however, at this juncture, would be a bid of four diamonds, followed by an overbid of game in spades. This allows for partner's having a highly distributional hand with weakness in clubs.

Q. 4.—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠10 8 3 ♣4 3 ♢KQJ ♠Q10 7 3

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT 2 ♣ 4 ♠

What do you bid now?
A.—Five diamonds. This situation contains many of the elements of the classic sacrifice bid. The vulnerability is in your favor, your hand is practically worthless defensively and the length in diamonds serves to vitiate the defensive possibilities of partner's holding. At worst you should be set 300 points and there is the prospect that such a small profit may not

Efficiency Boosted By Money Supply Strategy

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—The liquidity crisis may have dealt a massive blow to waste and inefficiency in American business. Certainly it has knocked sense into businessmen who learned some bad habits during the 1960s.

This is one of the beneficial effects of the deliberate shrinkage of the money supply to the American economy, and thus may represent a victory for the Federal Reserve and the slow-down program of the Nixon administration.

Still to be determined during the next few weeks is whether the result was achieved at too great a cost. Many companies are hard pressed for ready cash, and some may be dangerously short of liquid capital.

During the 1960s the logic of many companies involved a trilogy: The way to earnings was to acquire other companies; the way to acquire other companies was to boost the company's price per share; the way to boost the share price was through earnings; the way to earnings...

Once this formula was successfully launched it fed on itself. Acquisitions were made feverishly. Companies acquired reputations as swingers and growers, giving an extra boost to their stock. Speculators supplied bundles of money.

A lot of commercial paper—corporate promissory notes—was issued to aid in these acquisitions. Debt ran high for many companies, a fact that often was overlooked. Money was easy. Many companies overextended themselves.

Now money is hard to get. The Penn Central Transportation Co., one of the largest corporate entities in the world, can't pay bills. Everyone is now taking a harder look at commercial paper. And they're not inclined to buy it.

This is one of the biggest results of the liquidity crisis: A return to conservatism in measuring credit-worthiness. Lenders want more assurance of payment; they are demanding that business clean up its house.

Argus Research, one of the biggest suppliers of research to the investment community, summarizes the trend this way: "Companies with miniskirted balance sheets find themselves overexposed in the eyes of an investment community that has suddenly begun to apply neovictorian standards of financial prudence."

Economic power, Argus says, has been returned to bankers and lenders. As a result, "Business managements across the country will become much more conservative in approving expansion projects and tougher about cutting costs."

The trend is already clear. The big conglomerates are inactive. The depressed stock market has halted many acquisition programs because a depressed stock simply cannot buy as much as an inflated stock.

Moreover, some companies that hastily acquired subsidiaries during the 1960s are now trying to dispose of them. Capital spending plans also are being lowered. And many corporations are embarked on efficiency programs.

Worry Clinic Avoid The Sin Of Omission

Jill should be a challenge to all parents as well as grandparents! For "sins of omission" in the home predispose to school dropouts and delinquency in the teens! Good readers go on to college and success. Poor readers feed our jails, our so-called ghettos, the street riots and glib audacious for Communist soapboxes! Get help!

By GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE N-562: Jill T., aged 8, has very cultured parents. "Mother," she often asks, "please read me a story?"

And this is an early sign of a child who will not be a school dropout.

For the basic symptom of a cultured mind is a desire to READ or hear printed matter read aloud.

Yet many busy parents are ignoring this vital phase of child rearing. They are letting kiddies become TV addicts and thus are encouraging them to become too much ear-minded.

Predict Drop In Corn Crop

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina corn crop is expected to be down 25 per cent from last year due to a June drought.

That was the prediction of the North Carolina Crop Reporting Service, which released early production forecasts Saturday.

The service said it expects the corn crop to total 67.7 million bushels, compared to 89.8 million bushels last year. A per acre production of 50 bushels was forecast, 18 bushels below last year and 26 bushels below 1967's record crop.

The state's wheat crop was forecast at 7.98 million bushels, down 4 per cent from 1969's crop of 8.3 million bushels. Per acre yield was estimated at 42 bushels, which equals last year's record.

The oat crop was estimated at 6.5 million bushels, down 3 per cent from 1969. The estimated yield of 51 bushels per acre equals the record of last year. A record barley yield of 50 bushels per acre was forecast. The old record of 49 bushels

Cattlemen's Field Day Held At Pamlico Farms

Cattlemen's Field Day was held at Texas Gulf Sulphur Company's Pamlico Farms Friday.

The event, sponsored by the North Carolina Cattlemen's Association and North Carolina State University and its extension service, was the first meeting of its kind ever held in Eastern North Carolina. Visitors came from the West and the Piedmont, as well as from Virginia and S.C. The attendance, over 500 persons, was the largest the Cattlemen's Association has ever experienced.

Hayes Gregory, Texas Gulf farm manager, attributed the large attendance to widespread interest among cattlemen in Texas Gulf's beef cattle program. Of particular interest, he said, is the new breed, Simmental, being used by Texas Gulf in a free breed rotational cross of Angus, Hereford, and Simmental.

Simmental is a breed of Swiss origin and only a small number of these cattle have been brought to this continent. They are large animals and are big milk producers. Extra milk from the cross gets the calf off to a good start, Gregory said, and the steer at slaughter time can be expected to bring about $30 more than other breeds.

Referring to Texas Gulf's feeding program, Gregory estimated that the use of corn silage, combined with Urea and limestone, is adding weight to steers at one-half the cost of the feeding grain.

Claude O. Stephens, chairman of the Board of Directors of Texas Gulf headquarters in New York, welcomed the guest and specialists from State University discussed various topics pertaining to beef cattle production.

Tobacco TIPS

By S.J. WEEKS

During the past few years brown spot, a tobacco leaf disease, has been a serious problem to tobacco farmers. Brown spot is a widespread and well established disease that occurs to some extent every year. Damage caused by this disease is unpredictable because its severity is controlled by weather conditions, soil type, and certain cultural practices. Severe attacks of brown spot often destroy a high percentage of leaf area causing poor quality cured leaf. A heavy infestation can greatly reduce the value of the crop.

Brown spot is caused by fungus. The brown spot fungus produces enormous numbers of tiny spores or seeds that are easily spread by both wind and water. When temperature and moisture conditions are favorable, the spores germinate soon after coming in contact with tobacco plant. Infection occurs most readily when the leaves are wet. Tobacco leaf tissues invaded by the fungus are killed causing brown spots to form. Spores are produced in abundance on the surface of the brown spot lesions. These, formed late in the growing season, live over winter in the tobacco crop refuse and cause the disease again the following year.

A study made several years ago on the effect of variety on the development of brown spot revealed that there was no variety available that was resistant to the disease. However, there is some difference in varieties with regard to damage caused by the brown spot fungus. It has also been observed that when heavy rates of nitrogen were used in producing the crop, the occurrence of brown spot was much more severe than when normal rates of nitrogen were used. Generally, brown spots appear to be more severe in fields where nematodes are causing damage, and in fields where water has caused a semi-drowned condition of the plant.

The brown spot organism lives from one season to another. By destroying crop refuse immediately after harvest, many of the brown spot spores will be killed. Therefore, a good practice to follow is to cut the tobacco stalks soon after the harvest is completed. Then disc or plow the stalks in.

The brown spot disease control can be helped by crop rotation. Only crops that are resistant to at least one kind of nematode, and do not leave objectionable residues in the soil for the next crop of tobacco should be used. Such crops are corn, cotton, small grains, small grains followed by weeds, weeds alone, fescue, milo, and millet. All these are suitable to be included in a tobacco rotation.

If brown spot is in your tobacco field now the severity of attack in the upper leaves may be reduced by pruning off the lower leaves as soon as possible after the disease appear.

Anti-Tobacco Campaigns By 25 Countries

WASHINGTON (AP) — An increasing concern over the possible health hazards of smoking has resulted in intensive anti-tobacco campaigns in at least 25 nations, according to the U.S. Public Health Service.

In spite of this effort, a survey gave unqualified bad marks to seven other countries, while two more were judged just so-so in their attack on smoking, the health service reported.

While most of the anti-smoking campaigns are of the nature used in the United States—health warnings on cigarette packs, restrictions on advertising—the survey reported several unusual approaches.

For instance, Bulgaria requires that if you want to smoke on the job, you must get permission—in writing—from any nonsmoking fellow-workers.

And posters in factories and elsewhere in the Soviet Union carrying such legends as "Tobacco is Poison," and "How to Burn Up Your Health."

Summarizing the highlights of the report by its National Clearing House for Smoking and Health, the agency said:

"Several countries have taken, or are about to take, action prohibiting or sharply restricting, cigarette advertising, particularly over radio and television.

"It is barred from television in England and France, and from both radio and television in Argentina, Czechoslovakia, Iceland, Italy, Rumania and Switzerland.

"It will be eliminated from radio and television in Finland and Ireland in 1971, and in Canada as soon as present contracts expire. In Thailand, the tobacco monopoly expects cigarette advertising will leave the air."

Cigarette advertising will be prohibited from radio and television in the United States beginning Jan. 2, 1971.

"Health warning labels on cigarette packages are required in Iceland and Peru," the report continued. "Warning labels are being considered in Australia and the United Kingdom."

"The demand for filter tip cigarettes and cigarettes with low tar and nicotine levels is increasing in several countries," the agency said, "suggesting an increasing public awareness of the health hazards of smoking." The agency noted the demand is particularly strong in Austria, Canada, West Germany, the Netherlands, Scandinavia and Japan.

The Soviet Union introduced filter cigarettes recently, it said. Although several government and private reports the world over have warned about possible dangers from smoking, the tobacco industry maintains there is no conclusive proof of a direct cause-effect relationship between use of tobacco and any illness.

In noting Bulgaria's get-it-in-writing regulation, the agency said:

"The regulation also forbids smoking where co-workers include pregnant women or nursing mothers."

The study said Turkey, Portugal, India, Greece, Colombia, Chile and Brazil, have no kind of government regulations nor legislation against smoking, nor any really organized educational programs, except for a "sporadic" one in Brazil.

And it said while the Philippines has an educational program in its schools against smoking and Spain has a very limited one conducted by a private anti-tobacco league, neither country has any regulations against smoking.

Belgium rated only a qualified bouquet. The American agency declared Belgium is planning a nationwide educational program, but it won't be launched for several months.

The clearinghouse agency gave the details in a report entitled "Smoking and Health Programs Around the World."

Charge Driver In Sunday Collision

Baxter Grant Allen, 20, of 1614 Longwood Dr. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 9:45 p.m. collision at the intersection of 10th and Elm Streets Saturday.

Investigators reported the Allen car collided with a motorcycle driven by Jerry Allen Brady, 20, of 904 College View Apts.

Brady and a passenger on the motorcycle were reported injured in the collision which caused an estimated $400 damage to the motorcycle.

No damage was listed by officers for the car.

Pitt County peanut farmers will have a new variety of peanuts to consider for planting next year. The new variety is now known as N. C. 17.

The cross to get this peanut was made in Florida several years ago. Three sister lines were sent to North Carolina State University for further study to determine if any were productive enough to be released as a new variety.

In order for a new variety to be offered to growers, it has to do as well as, or better, than any of the existing varieties which in our area are the N. C. 5, N. C. 2 and Florigiant.

Dr. D. A. Emery, a very well known plant breeder at NCSU, was given the task of determining the productivity of these three sister lines. After much work Dr. Emery found that the ACC 15717, which is now the N. C. 17, would produce as well as the existing varieties. Now the variety has been given to the Foundation Seedsmen, and the coming peanut year it will be offered to farmers.

Just as any crop, this peanut has some very good features along with some bad.

What we feel is one of its most promising features is that it is a dwarf, bunch type peanut and has the earliest maturity date of any of the varieties now being cultivated in North Carolina.

For the last two years the optimum maturity date on this variety was around September 20. This will offer farmers with large acreages an opportunity to plant several varieties and dig all at the proper time. This plant bears its fruit around the tap root so that determining the maturity date should be easier.

However, since this peanut is a dwarf bunch type, it seems there is more of a problem in controlling grass and weeds as it will not cover the row and shade out late season greases and weeds. Therefore, a good weed control program will have to be followed. It also seems that in wet weather, leafspot control in the N. C. 17 is just as much of a problem as in the N. C. 5 variety.

We have in the county this year an on-the-farm variety test being conducted in cooperation with John R. Dunn, R-4, Greenville. If you would like to see this new variety in comparison with the existing three varieties, go out the Old River Road until you get to the yellow and red Extension Service sign, and take a look. The varieties are marked so that there will be no trouble determining which is which.

We feel that we have another good variety in the N. C. 17, and that it has a lot of potential for growers in Pitt County.

studio stage where "A Gunfight" was filming interiors between locations at Santa Fe, N.M., and in Spain. The powerfully built Cash was performing a scene in a bedroom with actress Karen Black. Cash plays an 1880s gunfighter, Miss Black portrays the local prostitute.

The scene was fairly tame by recent film standards. That was Cash's story:

"When I read this script, I liked it a lot, and I told the producers, Ronnie Lubin and Hal Bloom, that I would do it. But there was just one scene that had to be changed.

"That was the scene in the bedroom where I dropped in to see the town prostitute. In the script it said that she was to appear in bed nude, with the sheet pulled up to her waist.

"I couldn't do that scene. How could I do that and then record an album of hymns? Or talk on my television show about what religion means to my life? Why, I'd be a hypocrite:

"I told them that. I said I couldn't do a scene with a naked woman in the very first important movie I've made. And they said it was okay, it would be taken care of.

"Last Friday it came time to do that scene. I asked Karen if she had seen any of the new pages. She said there weren't any new pages. That's when I found out they were planning to do the scene just the way it was written. I put my foot down."

After a confrontation with the producers, Cash's will prevailed. Miss Black remained fully clothed.

The Nashville-based singer remarked that he and his wife June love to see movies and have a projector in their home. But, like many another movie fan, he is repelled by many of today's films.

"Nowadays they make movies filled with a lot of four-letter words, and they say that nobody is offended by that any more."

Aside from the hassle over nudity, Johnny Cash appears to be enjoying himself with his first big film—he has appeared as himself in minor ones. He costars with Kirk Douglas in "A Gunfight," and that's just what they have in the final reel.

The film-working hours brought back memories to cash:

Rites Set For N.C. Diplomat

DURHAM (AP) — When George Venable Allen was a sophomore at Trinity College, now Duke University, he decided to become a diplomat to take part in what he saw as a coming era of internationalism. "I got enthusiastic about the idea that the 19th Century was a century of nationalism and the 20th Century would be a century of internationalism," he recalled later.

Young Allen's decision was to lead him away from his native North Carolina to Harvard University and a life of diplomacy in the world's high political circles.

Saturday, after a 66-year-life that saw him named assistant secretary of state twice, career ambassador and director of the Foreign Service Institute, Allen died on his family's farm near Durham.

Doctors attributed his death to a heart attack.

Funeral services have been scheduled for 11 a.m. Tuesday at the National Cathedral in Washington. He will be buried in Rock Creek Cemetery at Washington.

Residence Of Salvation Army Officers Viewed Chaperone Pageant Effort

Citizens of the Greenville community joined advisory board members of The Salvation Army in viewing the new residence of local officers of the organization Sunday afternoon.

The new residence, located on Graham Street in College Court, was completed in June. It is now occupied by Capt. Alvin Smith and his wife, also a captain in the Salvation Army. The residence was constructed under the supervision of Jesse R. Laughinghouse, chairman of the building committee of the advisory board.

In opening the brief program preceding a tour of the residence, Marvin K. Blount, Jr., vice chairman of the board, spoke of the service the local corps of The Salvation Army has given over the years to Pitt County in meeting spiritual and material needs of its people.

Chairman James W. Brewer gave a resume of the steps taken in making the building possible.

Reappointed To Serve Boards

Three members of two boards were reappointed by the City Council in their meeting last week.

John Howard was reappointed to the Airport Authority. The appointment is for a four year term. Howard was serving an unexpired term and this represents his first full term on the authority board.

Two members, F.S. Duncan and Louis E. Clark were each reappointed to membership on the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission. Both Duncan and Clark are serving unexpired terms, and the reappointments to a full three year term made by the City Council are the first full terms on this commission for the two men.

Nab One In Jail Break

RUTHERFORDTON, N. C. (AP)—Sheriff's deputies have picked up one of three prisoners who saved their way out of the maximum security block of Rutherford County jail Sunday.

Captured in woods near his home town of Forrest City was 24-year-old Richard Jackson. A spokesman for the Rutherford County Sheriff's Department said Jackson, was being held on a larceny charge, surrendered without a struggle about 3:30 Sunday afternoon.

He was reported to be in the vicinity about 9 hours after the three were discovered missing at 6:30 a.m. by a jailer bringing breakfast.

The two fugitives still being sought are Herbert J. Ervin, 31, of Boiling Springs, and Charles Alvin Lane, 17, of Rutherfordton. Ervin was charged with attempted first degree burglary and Lane with breaking and entering.

The three were in the same ground floor cell block. Steel bars, encased in iron pipes, which blocked their windows had been sawed through at the rear of the cell block.

beginning with the donation of the site by F.L. Blount, Sr., M.K. Blount, Sr., and J.H. Blount, Sr. The construction of the Citadel, headquarters building and church of the local Army corps, under the direction of H.L. Ormond, Sr., was also cited as indicative of the community interest in the work of this organization.

Speaking for the Woman's Auxiliary of The Salvation Army, Mrs. J. L. Savage expressed appreciation for the furnishing of the officers quarters by business firms and individuals, and the interest and help of James W. Butler, only life member of the Greenville advisory board.

Mayor Wooten performed the ribbon-cutting ceremony assisted by Brewer and Laughinghouse. He briefly summarized the Salvation Army's services to the Pitt County community, and referred to the building of the new residence for the officers as an expression of the community's appreciation for the Army's work.

Jaycees Honor 2 ECU Students

Two East Carolina University students, Steve Apple and Joseph C. Dunn, were honored Thursday night at the regular monthly meeting of the Greenville Jaycees.

Apple, Union Committee president, and Dunn, organization chairman, were instrumental in assisting the statewide Jaycee and National Guard project in the POW Signature Day held recently. The two students organized and conducted the on-campus part of this project.

For their work, the Greenville Jaycees awarded each a certificate of appreciation in recognition of their services. Miss Cynthia Mendenhall, director of East Carolina University Union, was one of the Jaycee's guest at the presentation ceremony.

During the exercises it was noted that generous benefactors to The Salvation Army here have included the Blount families, Mrs. Owen Marshburn, who donated the site on which the Citadel is built, and the late J. Herbert Waldrop, treasurer of the Army's funds until his death. He was succeeded by H.L. Ormond, Sr., currently serving in this position.

Fire Damaged Tobacco In Barn

One tobacco barn fire occurred over the weekend in Pitt County.

Fire Marshal Mike Worthington reported that a barn on the Braxton Farm, owned by Mrs. Fannie Mae Ange, was reported on fire at 12:58 p.m. Saturday.

The Winterville Fire Department went to the fire on Road 1120, west of Winterville.

No damage to the barn resulted in the fire, but Worthington reported that damage to tobacco amounted to an estimated $400. This represents about one-half of the tobacco in the barn. Worthington remarked.

"It is my personal feeling that talent did not carry the weight it normally does in the judging for Miss North Carolina," Mrs. Romona Van Nortwick remarked this morning.

Mrs. Van Nortwick served as chaperone this past week for Miss Greenville 1970, Helen Parker, a student at East Carolina University.

Speaking of the week-long activities in Raleigh, Mrs. Van Nortwick praised the girls and the organizers of the affair.

"It was a beautiful week," she commented, "everything was so well organized, and the girls worked worked very hard." She noted that the major events of the week went off "beautifully"—the parades, the tea at the Governor's Mansion, the affairs at the country club. "The Jaycees really provided every convenience," she observed.

Mrs. Van Nortwick also expressed disappointment on the TV coverage of the contest. "It's a pity the TV viewing public did not have an opportunity to see the superior talent shown during the week," she commented. "There were so many outstanding presentations the public didn't have a chance to see. Speaking of her association with Miss Parker, Mrs. Van Nortwick said "I enjoyed her as a person so much; Miss Parker made many friends during the week. She is a truly charming and talented person."

With the pageant over and the girls returning again to their normal activities, Miss Parker is now taking a vacation and will be returning to Greenville about the first of August prior to beginning her studies at ECU again.

"She has had several requests already to appear as guest queen," Mrs. Van Nortwick said, "including one in Fayetteville, for which a firm date has been made."

Employment Survey Set

The Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment and unemployment in this area during the week of July 19, Joseph R. Norwood, Director of the Bureau's regional office in Charlotte announced today.

The households to be interviewed here are part of a scientifically designed sample that is representative of the entire U.S. population. The employment and unemployment statistics are collected monthly by the Bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the Nation as a whole and of its major regions. Questions on employment similar to those in the sample survey were asked of the entire population in the 1970 decennial census, now being compiled. Bureau officials point out, however, that the monthly survey is essential as the source of current employment data.

Mrs. Jean C. Wilson, of Grimesland Route 1, is the interviewer who will visit households in this area.
