Blacks, Youths And Liberals Win In Demo Convention Adopted By Commission

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Blacks, youths and liberals capped a series of victories before the North Carolina Democratic State Convention Tuesday by winning endorsement of the Hatfield-McGovern "end the war" amendment.

The amendment, now before Congress, would set a deadline of June 30, 1971 for the removal of U.S. troops from Vietnam.

Moments after the antiwar resolution won the convention's endorsement, despite objections from the convention's platform and resolutions committee, the convention adjourned abruptly on motion of State Highway Commissioner Jeff Allen of Beaufort.

As the convention ended, some blacks and other liberals were heatedly protesting the firm direction of the gathering by Ed Kemp of High Point, the permanent chairman. Some were upset that they didn't get a chance to take a crack at a strongly worded resolution calling for maintenance of law and order.

But, in addition to the action on the "end the war" resolution, liberals pushed through:

— A strong civil rights plank pledging the Democratic party to "total and absolute commitment to abolish all forms of racism in America."

— A resolution sought by blacks calling for easier access to voter registration books throughout the state.

— A platform provision endorsing the right of collective bargaining by public employees.

The actions of the convention resulted from a "new look" given the party through recent changes in party rules which ensured a greater voice in Democratic affairs by blacks and young people. The "new look" forces lost only when the convention rejected a platform amendment calling for repeal of the state's abortion law.

Early in the convention doings, delegates heard Gov. Bob Scott defend the new party rules, which have been the object of some behind-the-scenes criticism by conservatives and old-line party regulars.

"I believe I have heard more talk for, more enthusiasm expressed and seen more interest shown in our party the last few months than ever before," Scott said.

"This new interest is generated, I believe, through our efforts to open the door to the Democratic party a little wider... to let more people get inside... to make them want to get inside."

Scott said the proposed platform reflected "the injection of new blood. Isn't that exactly what we started to do last winter?"

The battle over the party's stand on the war broke out when the platform and resolutions committee offered a compromise resolution. Read amid a chorus of hisses, it would have put the party on record as encouraging "our congressional delegation's efforts to influence the President to move as swiftly as possible to end the war in Vietnam."

John Robbins, a history professor at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, offered the substitute resolution endorsing the Hatfield-McGovern amendment.

"We've got to have a program to end the war. This is a program," Robbins declared. The resolution was approved on a decisive voice vote.

The convention earlier had voted 1,527 to 591 to approve a platform amendment offered by state AFL-CIO President Wilbur Hobby of Durham calling for free collective bargaining for public employees. The resolution calls for the public workers, except policemen and firemen, to be given the right to strike.

The budget of the Greenville Utilities Commission has increased from $2 million to $6 million since 1960, yet electrical rates, which provide 90 percent of the income of the Commission, have remained stable. There are simply more people using the facilities, Commission Chairman Ed Waldrop pointed out at a Utilities Commission meeting last night.

Waldrop's statement was made as the commission gave approval the tentative budget for the 1970-71 budget, which involves 15.9 per cent more funds than the 1969-70 budget.

Proposed capital improvements outlined in the budget are as follows: water — $154,155; sewer — $109,000; gas — $48,300; electric — $724,600; and equipment — $108,450 — a total outlay of $1,144,505.

Malcolm Green, assistant utilities director and electrical engineer, reported that the Winterville substation is almost ready to be energized and that its use will improve service to Winterville and the rural lines in that area.

A contract with North Carolina Natural Gas Company was amended, increasing the amount of gas the suppliers will guarantee the city from 2,200 million cubic feet to 3,000 MCF, per day.

A grant from the Federal Water Quality Administration is still pending, but the Commission has resolved that the $376,000 will be accepted if it comes through. The money is needed for improvements to the sewage treatment system and sewage outfall lines.

It was reported that a feasibility study on cable television (CATV) will be ready next week.

A safety award, announced earlier, was presented to Utilities workers. Jim Whichard, supervisor of the water and sewer plants, and Billy Weston, supervisor of water, sewer, and gas distribution, accepted the award on behalf of their men.

Comments from Utilities employees have been quite favorable on the city's new personnel policy concerning retirement and other fringe benefits, the Commission was told. One group, the Stores Department, sent a letter of appreciation to the Commission and the City Council.

Financing of some $7,000 worth of bonds due in December was approved.

Larry Brown, comptroller, reported that some $15,994.52 worth of uncollectible accounts, which are five years old, have been written off as a loss.

Board Studies Welfare 'Revolt'

RALEIGH (AP)—What Social Services Commissioner Clifton Craig has termed a "welfare revolt" as the result of the refusal of several North Carolina counties to appropriate sufficient funds for welfare programs is being discussed by the state Social Services Board today.

Craig said Tuesday he would recommend to the board that legal action be taken against counties refusing to appropriate sufficient funds.

Craig made the statement after he conferred with a federal investigating team which said the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will take action against the state "very quickly" because of the failure of the counties to appropriate sufficient welfare funds. They indicated a hearing was possible within the next four to six weeks.

The hearing could lead to a cut off of all federal funds for welfare programs, said Dr. Stephen Cornett, deputy regional commissioner for state programs in HEW's Atlanta office. However, he said, HEW will not "take arbitrary action against North Carolina as long as there is any possibility this thing can be ironed out."

Craig said seven North Carolina counties have not provided adequate funds for this year's Medicaid program, a medical services program for the poor. Eight other counties are considered "borderline" cases, with budget officials studying them, he said.

The number of counties involved in the "welfare revolt" could increase since Craig has not received the budgets of 23 other counties. The budgets were due April 15.

In addition, six of the 11 counties selected by the U.S. Department of Labor to operate work incentive programs have refused to put up any money for the project, pending a decision in a case the state has brought against Jones County.

Bargainers Expect Auto Strike Ahead

DETROIT (AP) — Wage contract bargaining between the United Auto Workers union and major industry leaders opens today and the outcome is likely to have a bearing on the prices of 1971 model cars.

Both union and industry sources have said there probably will be a strike, although the auto firms and the union have vowed they don't want one.

The UAW and General Motors Corp. start the initial negotiations at a forenoon session, followed by talks with Ford Motor Co. Thursday and Chrysler Corp. Friday.

In a statement issued as the session convened, Earl Bramblett, GM vice president in charge of personnel, urged that "serious bargaining begin immediately."

Frequently in past negotiations little progress has been made until the old contracts were on the verge of expiration.

The current three-year contracts covering some 730,000 workers at Big Three plants throughout the country expire at midnight Sept. 14.

In previous years bargaining over local issues at various plants has erupted into crippling strikes, some after national agreements had been reached.

Bramblett proposed the for-matation of a joint union-industry subcommittee to police the plant bargaining "to ensure that local issues are handled promptly and on a business-like basis."

Both sides took tough pre-bargaining stances.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock said the companies would only be "getting warm" if they offered a 14 per cent increase in wages and fringe benefits.

Company executives, confronted with sagging 1970 sales and declining profits, indicated they had no intention of yielding anywhere near such a hike.

The current average hourly wage in the auto industry is $4.02. The Big Three companies estimate that fringe benefits, such as pensions and insurance, add $1.75 hourly per worker to their labor costs.

The UAW has a strike fund of $112 million, which is expected to grow to approximately $120 million by mid-September.

Union demands include "a substantial wage increase," an unlimited cost-of-living wage escalator, and a $500 minimum monthly pension after 30 years service, regardless of age.

To these demands, mandated by the union's 1970 convention, Woodcock has added a call for an increase in company contributions to supplemental unemployment benefit (Sub) funds, which support, among other things, a 1967-won guaranteed annual income.

The companies now contribute five to seven cents hourly per worker, the amount depending upon fund balance. There have been heavy drains in recent months because of layoffs and one fund, that of GM of Canada, is broke.

ARVN Opens Major Sweep Of Red Bases

By RICHARD PYLE Associated Press Writer SAIGON (AP) — Nearly 5,000

South Vietnamese troops launched a major new sweep today, seeking to destroy North Vietnamese base camps in rugged jungle country west of Da Nang.

Kicking off one of the biggest operations in months in the northern provinces, waves of U.S. Marine helicopters landed the assault troops and their American advisers shortly after daylight in an area 25 to 40 miles east of the Laotian frontier. No major allied operations have taken place there in years.

Only light contact was reported in the early hours of the operation.

The attack force included three battalions of South Vietnamese marines recently withdrawn from Cambodia and two battalions of Vietnamese special forces troops, the mercenaries paid by the United States and trained and led by U.S. Green Berets.

Their primary targets were two North Vietnamese base areas west and southwest of Thung Duc. It is the site of a Special Forces camp which was under sporadic rocket and mortar fire until about two weeks ago.

Col. Nguyen Van Thien, the commander of the operation, said his force was taking advantage of good weather to spoil potential enemy buildups for large ground attacks such as they have almost always made in August.

South Vietnamese officers also took the wraps off another operation, a three-battalion push that began Sunday west of Hiep Duc, which is 35 miles south of Da Nang. A district town, Hiep Duc has been attacked repeatedly since the first of the year and during May was partially occupied for five days by North Vietnamese troops. No contact with the enemy was reported in this operation.

Spokesmen in Saigon reported that enemy activity across the country was the lightest in several months, with the only sharp fighting involving U.S. forces. In four contacts, one American and 20 of the enemy were killed, and 13 Americans were wounded, the U.S. Command said.

South Vietnamese forces in Cambodia reported killing 27 enemy troops in a series of clashes northeast of Krek, a rubber plantation center along the border in the Fishhook area 70 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

While the Cambodian government in Phnom Penh was claiming that its forces had retaken most of Kiri Rom, the mountain resort 50 miles west of Phnom Penh, Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from the battle zone that the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces that overran the mountaintop Saturday had savagely mauled government forces trying to retake the resort and had sent two battalions of troops reeling back down the mountainside.

One commander told Wheeler the Communist forces struck Tuesday afternoon before any government troops could even reach the rest of the mountain.

"The entire hill has been in Communist hands since early Saturday," said one officer with the attacking force, adding that the closest any government soldier had gotten to the mountain resort was about two miles down the slope, on the road up the mountain.

The battle zone was quiet today as the government troops regrouped prior to a new attack Thursday, the officer said.

Tobacco Farmers Going To The Polls Thursday

Flue-cured tobacco farmers are reminded today about the referendum to be held Thursday. Growers will determine if they want to continue the acreage-poundage program and price support in 1971, 1972 and 1973. The program, which has been in effect since 1965, will continue if approved by two-thirds or more of the growers voting.

All farmers 18 years of age or older are eligible to vote in the referendum if they share in the 1970 flue-cured tobacco crop or its proceeds. Where no tobacco is produced in 1970 on a tobacco allotment farm, only the owner and operator are eligible to vote.

W.F. Tyson, Chairman of the Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, urges growers to consider carefully the facts about the acreage-poundage program before voting.

The acreage-poundage program for flue-cured tobacco allows for carrying forward undermarketings from a short crop to the next year. Growers may also market up to 110 percent of the farm's poundage quota — without penalty — by borrowing from their next year's quota.

Birth Control Bill Passed Without Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Without debate or dissent, the Senate has passed and sent to the House a bill to set up a federal birth-control assistance program to make family-planning services and information available to all Americans who want them.

The five-year birth-control assistance and research program is expected to cost $1 billion and will be administered by a new Office of Population Affairs under the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The measure was approved Tuesday by the Senate.

Price support under the acreage-poundage program is available on up to 110 percent of the farm's poundage quota if the harvested acreage is within the farm's acreage allotment. A marketing quota penalty applies to any tobacco marketed above 110 percent of the farm's poundage quota.

If growers do not approve the acreage-poundage quota program on July 16, no acreage allotments, and no price support will be in effect for the 1971 flue-cured tobacco crop. Another referendum would be held next year for the 1972-74 crops.

Ayden Group Petitions New Public Housing Site

AYDEN — The Ayden Town Board Monday night accepted a petition from a number of Ayden citizens seeking relocation of the proposed public housing from Planters and Snow Hill Streets.

Warren Kinlaw appeared before the board with a petition signed by approximately 100 Ayden citizens who asked the board to change the location of the project to another section of town.

A copy of the same petition was presented to the Ayden Housing Authority.

Huge Plane Easiest To Fly

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Col. Harry Spillers, just returned from a round trip between the Charleston Air Force Base and the Pacific in a CSA military transport, says the plane, the world's largest, is the "easiest I've ever flown."

It was the first operational flight of the 248-foot-long, 382-ton plane, built by Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and the object of congressional criticism for cost overruns.

The petition was accepted by the Ayden Board and turned over to the Ayden town attorney to see what action could be taken.

The board reappointed Bob Booth to a one year term as town attorney.

The board discussed four homes located in Ayden which have been condemned by the building inspector but the owners have failed to comply with the order that these buildings be demolished and removed according to the town

Uncertainty About Voting Rights Act

RALEIGH (AP) — The executive secretary of the North Carolina Board of Elections said today he does not know whether the state will comply with the new voting rights act giving 18-year-olds the ballot because it violates the state's constitution.

Alex Brock said in an interview the North Carolina constitution sets the legal voting age at 21.

"To further complicate that," Brock said, "not only does the new act violate the state constitution and election laws, but it violates Articles 1, 10, 14, 17 and 19 of the U.S. Constitution."

Brock said Article 1 specifically leaves up to the states the question of the establishment of voting age.

U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell said Tuesday the 50 states have been asked to submit by Aug. 3 their plans for complying with the new law. Its provisions ban literacy tests and drop residency requirements for voting in presidential elections.

The law goes into effect Jan. 1.

"If North Carolina complies with the act, we will no longer administer the literacy test in any counties," Brock said.

He added, "The state Board (of Elections) has not had an opportunity to meet since the passage of this act. We do feel the provisions are of such a drastic measure and in considerable conflict with our constitution and election laws that it is a matter the board should seriously consider."

Heavy Shades

KINGS MOUNTAIN, N.C. (AP) — Kings Mountain Police Chief Tom McDevitt has a pair of sunglasses five feet high which he'd like to get rid of.

At 50 pounds, they're a little too heavy to carry around.

Seems the glasses belong to an elephant in Cocoa Beach, Fla. A man called Kings Mountain from Florida to say they were stolen from his night club.

McDevitt says the elephant can have them back. He didn't say how he got them in the first place.

tax abstracts, and building permits, town officials feel the census figure is somewhat low.

The board officially put in a complaint with the Census Operation Office in Charlotte last week for a recount for the town.

The survey should be completed by July 23.

The board agreed that unless the town office is notified by Friday at 5 p.m. of funerals scheduled for Saturday and Sunday the cost of opening and closing graves will increase from $35 to $60.

The board authorized Vandenberg to conduct a study on the use of electricity at South Ayden High School and Ayden High School for organized and unorganized sports activities at night. He will submit his findings at the August board meeting.

The board received a request from Kenneth Branch concerning the water and sewer taps and the reimbursement policies regarding subdivisions. The matter was tabled until the board's workshop session scheduled for Aug. 3.

Search For A Marriage Somewhere Else

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My brother asked me to write to you to see if you can help him get any closer to marriage with his girl friend of 10 years—I'll call her "Zelda."
Zelda loves the big city and my brother likes the quiet of the countryside. Zelda doesn't come alive until 10 p. m., and at that hour my brother is ready for bed.

Even tho they live 300 miles apart, they see each other on week-ends and holidays. [My brother flies his own plane.] Zelda is jealous of anyone who looks at him twice, but she doesn't care for sex herself. [She was in a concentration camp when she was young.] My brother would like a family, but since he is 40 and Zelda is 43 and they aren't married yet, that looks doubtful. What do you think, Abby?

HIS SISTER

DEAR SISTER: I think if your brother wants marriage, he should look for someone who likes the quiet of the countryside, sex, and won't take 10 years to make up her mind. A 40-year-old man who flies his own plane should have no trouble landing a GIRL.

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged professional woman. Several months ago a person whom I considered to be a loyal friend accused me of repeating some confidential information she told me about another person. I did not repeat the information, but I know who did, and if I were to tell my friend who repeated it, she would be terribly upset.

My friend just assumes that I am the guilty one, and she refuses to believe otherwise. This has hurt me deeply.

It is impossible to communicate with someone who has a closed mind. Is there any way I can reach this friend? I want to set her straight to clear myself, but in so doing I will have to put someone else on the spot. A SINCERE FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Too bad your friend with the "closed mind" doesn't have a mouth to match. If she passed on "confidential information" which created trouble [which appears to be the case]—shame on her. To you, I say, in the future don't listen to that kind of "information," and for the present, don't knock yourself out trying to prove your innocence.

DEAR ABBY: I know you can't give any medical advice, but my daughter-in-law and I are so worried about my son that it is becoming a serious problem.

My son was buried in a mine cave-in about a year ago. Thank God he has recovered from his physical injuries, but we think something else may be wrong with him and we're afraid the doctors will laugh at us.

His whole personality has changed. He is so depressed, impatient and moody. No one in his family can get along with him. We are all so thankful to have him alive, but he's making everyone around him miserable, and he is miserable, too. Could it be the lack of oxygen he suffered a year ago, or is this just a coincidence? SO WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: The shock of such an experience could easily have upset your son emotionally. Don't be ashamed to discuss this with your doctor. I promise you he won't laugh. There is no more "shame" in admitting an emotional disorder than a physical one, and treatment to correct it is equally as vital.

DEAR ABBY: An obviously misinformed correspondent recently wrote and said, "so many countries, like Samoa, have 'relaxed marital codes,'" and you let it pass as tho it were a fact.

As a native Samoan, I must protest. Margaret Mead notwithstanding, Samoan culture embodies the highest ideals of Christianity, which in all likelihood surpass those found in 1970 American society. Certainly in Samoa today one doesn't find the disintegration of the family unit found in the United States.

So please inform your untutored and misinformed correspondent, as well as your readers who may still be relying on outdated information, that modern-day Samoans are not living in a free love paradise. MODERN ISLANDER

McArthur-Pearl Vows Spoken

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Ethical Culture Society here was the scene of the high noon wedding ceremony of Miss Janice Rachelle Pearl and Alan Francis McArthur, both of Key Biscayne, Fla.

Leader M. Michael Grupp officiated at the double ring ceremony on Friday.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Barnett Pearl of Bayside, Long Island, N.Y., and Mr. and Mrs. John Lindsay McArthur of Greenville, N.C.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a white silk street length dress and carried a nosegay of white and blue miniature carnations.

Mrs. Oill Gross of Bayside, Long Island, N.Y., was matron of honor. Ronald C. McArthur of Durham, N.C., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Miss Felicia Grossman of Rego Park, N.Y., cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Following a wedding trip to England, Scotland and France, the couple will reside in Key Biscayne, Fla.

The McArthur-Pearl wedding party was entertained at a luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Grossman, aunt and uncle of the bride.

A wedding dinner and dance given by the bride's parents was held at the Dover House, Westbury, Long Island, N.Y.

Chop suey adds interest to other vegetables.

Puffy Omelet

Chop Suey Vegetables Rolls

Apple Pie Beverage

CHOP SUEY VEGETABLES

1 package (15 oz.) frozen beef chop suey

1/2 cup water

2 cups thinly sliced carrots

2 cups diced (about 1/2 inch) white turnips

1 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon white pepper

1/4 teaspoon ginger

1 teaspoon dark brown sugar

1 teaspoon soy sauce

2 teaspoons vinegar

1 tablespoon instant onion

4 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup coarsely crushed cracker crumbs

Heat beef chop suey (in cooking pouch) according to package directions. Meanwhile heat water to boiling; add carrots, turnips, salt, pepper, ginger, sugar, soy sauce, vinegar and onion. Boil gently until carrots and turnips are tender—about 20 minutes. With two tablespoons of the butter, butter a two-quart square glass baking dish (8 by 8 by 2 inches) or similar utensil.

Place vegetables in dish. Spread chop suey over vegetables. Melt remaining two tablespoons butter and mix with cracker crumbs; sprinkle over chop suey. Heat in preheated 375-degree oven until bubbly hot—10 to 15 minutes. Makes four healthy servings.

PARTY TEA

Enough sandwiches for a large group of friends.

Tuna-Stuffed Miniature Cream Puffs Ribbon Sandwiches

Nuts and Olives
Petits Fours Pecan Wafers Iced Tea or Coffee

RIBBON SANDWICHES
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese

2 tablespoons crumbled blue cheese

¼ pound cheddar cheese, grated (about 1 cup)

1-3rd cup real mayonnaise

1 canned pimiento, chopped

Dash of cayenne pepper

16 slices white bread

8 slices whole-wheat bread

Extra real mayonnaise

Blend cream cheese and blue cheese. Mix cheddar cheese, 1-3rd cup mayonnaise, pimiento and cayenne. Trim crusts from bread, then flatten slices slightly with rolling pin. Spread one side of white bread slices with mayonnaise, then spread 8 of these slices with blue-cheese mixture. Spread one side of all whole-wheat slices with cheddar mixture. Make 8 stacks of 3 layers each, beginning with blue cheese layer, then adding a cheddar layer, then inverting bread with mayonnaise over cheddar cheese. Firmly press each stack and arrange in a shallow pan. Cover with a tea towel, wax paper, plastic wrap or foil. Chill at least 4 hours. To serve, cut each stack into strips, each about ½-inch wide, then cut each strip in half. Makes 80 sandwiches.

Blend cream cheese and blue cheese. Mix cheddar cheese, 1-3rd cup mayonnaise, pimiento and cayenne. Trim crusts from bread, then flatten slices slightly with rolling pin. Spread one side of white bread slices with mayonnaise, then spread 8 of these slices with blue-cheese mixture. Spread one side of all whole-wheat slices with cheddar mixture. Make 8 stacks of 3 layers each, beginning with blue cheese layer, then adding a cheddar layer, then inverting bread with mayonnaise over cheddar cheese. Firmly press each stack and arrange in a shallow pan. Cover with a tea towel, wax paper, plastic wrap or foil. Chill at least 4 hours. To serve, cut each stack into strips, each about ½-inch wide, then cut each strip in half. Makes 80 sandwiches.

Controversial, Many-Faceted

Sen. Hargrove Bowles is undoubtedly correct in assaying prospects for the N. C. Assembly voting whiskey-by-the-drink as nil.

It's too much to ask of any lawmaker who might want to be re-elected (and most of them so, he sees it as only a 50-50 chance of the General Assembly going that far. The pressures generated by grass-root "antis" would be hard to resist.

In effect, the belief of ultimate power resting in the vote of the people, is on shaky grounds when it comes to something as controversial and emotion-packed an issue as whiskey-by-the-drink.

It is understandable that representatives of convention centers are particularly aware of the profit-and-loss columns involved in the availability

A Hard-Nosed Assembly Seen

By BRYAN HANSLIP
RALEIGH — A more deliberate pace of progress may be charted for North Carolina by the 1971 General Assembly, based on the state's financial outlook at mid-point in the current budget period.

Lawmakers will listen carefully to proposals to embark on expensive new programs or to greatly expand present state services if economic conditions continue to squeeze state revenues.

They also will be hard-nosed in their decision on requests to repeal any taxes, however, unpopular, if it simply means placing the burden elsewhere.

When the fiscal year ended July 1, the state had collected $843 million in its General Fund which supports the major share of state government operations. That was $26 million, or 3 per cent, above the estimates used in preparing the 1969-71 budget.

So far, so good. The somber side of the picture emerges in looking ahead to the end of the current fiscal year.

Revenue Commissioner I. L. Clayton said national fiscal and monetary restraints on the economy will have a decided impact on collections for 1970-71. He noted that the legislative estimate for the year included an 11.19 per cent growth factor over the year just ended. Unless an upturn in the economy expected by late fall materializes, and to a sufficient degree, collections may fall under the estimate.

Even if collections hit the estimate on the nose, there could be difficulty. The budget for the present biennium included a $153 million credit balance — collections over estimates, plus funds appropriated but unspent, from the previous budget period. Lacking a comparable cushion, the General Assembly could be in the uncomfortable position of looking for $100 million or so just to keep state government going at the same level of operation.

For the moment, caution but not alarm is the mood of state officials close in to the fiscal situation. Governor Bob Scott has advised state department heads to use restraint in preparing their requests to submit to the Advisory Budget Commission. The administration can be expected to keep a sharp eye on the fiscal year's spending, delaying the start-up of new programs, and holding down expenditures where possible, to fatten the year-end credit balance.

The Advisory Budget Commission itself, which will draft the budget document to place before the 71 General Assembly, will keep the financial prospects foremost in doing its work. In addition, the Commission and its staff can be effective in encouraging savings by agencies and departments for the remainder of this fiscal year.

Sam Johnson of Raleigh, a Commission member by virtue of his post as House Appropriations Chairman in the 1969 legislature, said the situation calls for caution and common sense.

"The next session will without question have a substantial beginning balance in making up the budget," he said. "I have absolutely no concern that it will be necessary to find new tax sources."

At the same time, the legislature will have to consider carefully any proposals which would reduce revenues below present levels. Strong campaigns are building to seek the repeal of taxes enacted by the 1969 session, including the levies on cigarettes and soft drinks.

"I don't think anyone could forecast the repeal of any tax at this time," said Johnson, who described his own position as open-minded. He noted that it will be up to the House and Senate Finance Committees to deliver the same relative tax resources. Mindful of the transition from a rapidly expanding economy to a leveling off, Johnson said it will be necessary to exercise caution in thinking about new programs.

"It is not a matter of reversal of progress, but the pace of progress," he said. "We may have to delay the start-up of some worthwhile programs, or begin them in a limited way. It's like wearing the same pair of shoes another month when you need a new pair."

North Carolina is fortunate in its budget control, which precludes deficit spending and is based on sound planning, Johnson asserted. "There is no wishful forecasting," he said. "At the end of the first year of the biennium, we are still just above the estimate. I think that's very commendable."

Optimism balanced with caution is the outlook as State Treasurer Edwin Gill views it. While the times call for government to be more concerned than ever with efficiency and economy, Gill said, North Carolina has many factors in its favor in looking for an early and robust recovery from any pangs of economic readjustment.

of whisky in restaurants and clubs.

On the other hand, there are relatively few North Carolina cities equipped to handle really large conventions. Tar Heelia is comprised largely of small to medium-size communities whose preoccupation is tuned to more mundane problems and needs than catering to conventioners.

Too, citizens of these communities have largely learned to live with the present ABC system and do not see how a by-the-drink proviso would contribute much to their way of life.

True, it's a many-faceted question.

It's hard to affirm that more drunken driving would result (we had that even during prohibition); and the morality of by-the-drink legislation can be argued interminably with only a hardening of the lines (pro and con) resulting.

Again We May See Tail Wagging The Dog

We no sooner begin to see light at the end of a long, long tunnel in Southeast Asia than the Middle East tensions become even more explosive.

The growing Russian involvement seems only to spur belligerence between two implacable causes.

Involvement of the United States in this arena is a matter of record: we have pledged that Israel's people will not be pushed into the sea. The Soviet Union's position is less clear, but their investment in the Middle East strongly suggests a commitment from which they are unable or unwilling to withdraw.

The end result is unpleasant to contemplate. As has been warned by past confrontations of history, events are again moving toward the condition when the tail begins to wag the dog.

Feuds Damage GOP In Ohio

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
COLUMBUS, Ohio — When Ohio Republican fat cats met here last week to survey the ravaged political landscape, chief fund-raiser Richard Niehoff bluntly informed them that they were convening to cope with a "disastrous" situation.

His description was not exaggerated. The monolithic, self-confident Ohio party shaped by Ray C. Bliss has been reduced to a disorderly, demoralized bank of feuding politicians. Last May's debilitating Republican primary contests were followed by a major-statehouse scandal that now promises to cost the state's taxpayers $4 million and throw the GOP out of Columbus.

Here is an unexpected windfall for an Ohio Democratic party grown steadily feebler through the 1960s and this year running a ragtag collection of candidates for lesser state offices (including 78-year-old Joseph T. (Jumping Joe) Ferguson for state auditor). So profound is the Republican distress that a Democratic sweep for all state offices now seems likely, the Republicans could well lose the state House of Representatives, and even Rep. Robert Taft, Jr.'s lead for the U.S. Senate against liberal Democrat Howard Metzenbaum is shrinking.

This political turnaround comes at a most critical time. With legislative and Congressional reapportionment just ahead, a Republican debacle could drastically transform the political balance of power in this critically important state for the 1970s.

The old Bliss system of unopposed primaries saving Republican money for the fall campaign collapsed completely this year in primaries for Senator and Governor dissipating campaign funds (up to $2 million, according to State Chairman John Andrews). But the post-primary statehouse scandal was the final blow to the party that Bliss built. It was revealed that two members of the state Republican ticket received campaign contributions from a firm which had received illegal loans from the state. State Treasurer John Herbert, nominee for attorney general, and state Sen. Robin Turner, nominee for treasurer, stubbornly rejected pleas from the party to get off the ticket.

When State Chairman Andrews begged them to drop out, Herbert and Turner told him they would destroy their own reputations by quitting. In the face of all evidence to the contrary, Herbert contends he can win.

Some Republican leaders are not taking no for an answer. Robert Hughes, the dynamic Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) chairman, feels Turner and Herbert could bring down the entire ticket. Therefore, he has repudiated Turner and Herbert, barred them from appearing at any Republican functions in his county, and is considering a write-in campaign against them.

But that does not fully reflect the backbiting rampant among Ohio Republicans. At one point, Andrews privately suggested that state auditor Roger Cloud, Republican nominee for governor and tangentially involved in the scandal, also get off the ticket. The proposal came as Cloud was joining Andrews in demanding that Herbert and Turner resign.

But rural Republican leaders are bitter that Cloud, Andrews, and Hughes so quickly attacked Herbert and Turner. (Continued On Page 5)

WHO SAYS OPPORTUNITY ONLY KNOCKS ONCE

By ART BUCHWALD

Public Enemy Number 1

WASHINGTON — The most important thing to remember this year is not to look back: because Big Brother is catching up to you. The latest Orwellian news to hit the American public is that Treasury Department agents representing the IRS are visiting public libraries to check on what books readers are taking out.

The investigators are interested in anyone who has borrowed books on explosives, but their interest also includes anyone who might be checking out "militant and subversive" publications as well.

The checks have been confirmed by the IRS, and a spokesman, when asked about it, said, "As far as I know it's just routine. The only thing special is some librarian complained about it."

It's good to know the IRS is concerned with the rights of its citizens. But at the same time it's going to make those of us who use the public libraries think twice before we take out a book.

I can imagine a scene at the Maplewood County Public Library.

"Miss Philpott, my name is Spangle and I'm a treasury agent with the Internal Revenue Service. Have you noticed anything suspicious around here lately?"

"Suspicious?"

"Anyone taking out any funny books?"

"Let me see. Someone borrowed Robert Benchley's collection yesterday."

"I don't mean that kind of funny. I mean books about explosions, stuff like that."

"Come to think of it, Harold Flemingheimer took out 'Chitty Chitty Bang Bang' and hasn't returned it yet."

"'Chitty Chitty Bang Bang', huh? What does this Harold look like? Does he have long hair?"

"Oh yes."

"Sloppy dresser?"

"I should say so. He comes in here without shoes on."

"You don't have a duplicate of his library card do you, Miss Philpott?"

"Yes, I do. He lost his and we had to issue him a new one. We found the old one. Here it is."

"Hmmm, very interesting. He took out 'The Little Red Fire Engine' on May 6, 'Three Little Pigs' on May 20, and 'Joan of Arc' on June 12. Has he ever talked politics with you?"

"Not really. He's only 9 years old."

"Well, keep an eye on him. Do you mind if I go through your files? Who is this Philip Crestwood who took out 'The Guns of Navarone' on April 12?"

"He goes to Columbia University."

"He does, does he? I notice on July 1 he took out 'Gone With the Wind.'"

"Is there something wrong with 'Gone With the Wind?'"

"Don't you recall the burning of Atlanta?"

"Of course. I never did like Philip Crestwood. He forgot to return 'Thunder Out of China' last winter and he was fined 14 cents."

"Well, Mr. Crestwood is going to go into our little computer. These people always make tiny mistakes that trip them up. Being a member of the public library might result in Mr. Crestwood's downfall."

"Are you going to go through all the cards?"

"If you don't mind, Miss Philpott. Unbelievable as it may sound to you, Trotsky learned everything he knew from the Odessa Public Library Branch No. 2."

Other Editors Say Irresponsible Ones

(Henderson Dispatch) Despite all the lip service paid to the theory of halting inflation, there is next to no concern in Congress in that direction. One after another, proposals are being enacted into law calling for additional huge expenditure of money, when the government, figuratively, already is virtually strangled in red ink. When a gesture is made by President Nixon toward economy, he is attacked by the leftists on Capitol Hill and by the ultra-liberal press of the country for what they view as lack of interest in the national welfare and stability. There isn't much wrong with the idea of rating the lawmakers as an irresponsible Congress. It seems to be exactly that.

When the 1971 budget was submitted to Congress by the President last winter, he estimated there would be a surplus of $1.3 billion for the year. Since that time the administration has changed its forecast by exactly that amount of deficit. Now comes the Council of State Chambers of Commerce with a prediction that the new fiscal year will see a red ink total of $12.5 billion. Liberals in Congress chide the President for refusing to go along with their lavish spending, as if all that were necessary to get the money was merely to reach up and pull it down out of thin air, as "Cotton Ed" Smith, then senator from South Carolina, said of the Roosevelt recklessness back in the 1930s.

It begins to appear that the country can expect relief from such profligacy only by sending a group of saner thinking men to the Senate next November. That's what the Republicans are hoping for, but it will be a hard uphill pull to achieve such an objective.

Nixon, of course, has himself requested additional outlays, so that between the administration and Congress the nation rushes pell-mell toward some sort of serious financial crisis not too far in the future. There is no determined effort to reduce spending, and the country will have to pay the terrible penalty for such a policy sooner or later, and possibly sooner than expected.

Shock Still Exists

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Opinions now circulating that the stock market and the economy have shaken off the shock of the Penn Central Transportation bankruptcy reorganization appear to be superficial and incredibly premature.

The first shock perhaps; but in the bowels of the economy there are secondary waves that haven't surfaced, and government and business financial specialists are keenly aware of rumblings.

Effects will turn up for years, in American whistle stop hamlets and European financial centers, on campuses dependent upon dividend checks, in banks which made loans, on other railroads which need rolling stock but may find it almost impossible to finance such purchases.

What will foreign investors now think of the stability of American corporations? Will they lose faith in other companies as well?

Money from abroad has become a significant factor in American markets, the total rising to $17.2 billion in 1970 from $13.3 billion five years earlier. Such funds are a prop under some stocks. Will they be withdrawn?

And for students of corporate management: Does the Penn Central's troubles mean that the role of the director should be re-examined? Some Penn Central directors claim they were as poorly informed as the public about finances. Whose fault is that? Whose responsibility?

Can any smart investor henceforth be impressed by a "big name" board, knowing that its members might be performing a function little more than ceremonial while actually sitting in ignorance?

What may be said for the institutions that put millions upon millions of their customers' money into this railroad's stock without knowing the quality of the investment?

Can they simply plead ignorance, while at the same time retaining their dignity as professional managers? Or was there a violation of fiduciary trust?

Was the Interstate Commerce Commission, which amasses data by the ton—literally—unable by existing methods to ascertain the financial condition of a line that carries 20 per cent of the nation's rail traffic?

If this is so, will a mere study of the situation, as the ICC has already launched, be sufficient to protect the public in the future? Or should the ICC itself be studied?

More important, are investor-owned railroads possible in this day and age, or must the federal government, as in so many countries, take over the rails and run them? Are railroads anachronisms, made so by trucks and planes and pipelines? Or are they simply mismanaged and misregulated? A bit of both?

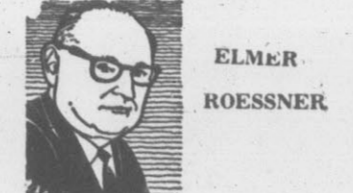

Opinions In Brief

"Life is a library owned by an author. In it are a few books which he wrote himself, but most of them were written for him." — Harry Emerson Fosdick.

Does It Pay Wife To Work?

By ELMER ROESSNER
"When does it pay a wife to work?" asks the Home Federal Savings and Loan Association of Chicago in its newsletter, Money Facts. That's a question raised in this column several times. The association offers a table by which each family can calculate whether it pays the wife to work. It suggests listing these expenses and deductions: Payroll deductions for income taxes, Social Security, insurance, pension, union dues, etc.

- Child care
- Maid, gardening, etc.
- Laundry sent out
- Extra food and eating-out costs
- Transportation
- Added clothing
- Beauty care
- Lunches, coffee, etc.
- Professional dues, subscriptions, meetings, training courses, etc.

These items are to be totaled and then subtracted from the gross pay of the wife's job. The final figure is the real gain.

Only An Approximation
The calculation will not be precise. Withholding for income taxes may not cover the added tax liability. For example, if the husband has a net taxable income of $4,000, the wife's earnings will increase the couple's taxes by 19 per cent, which will exceed the withholding. If the husband's net taxable income is $8,000, the wife's added earnings will be taxed at 22 per cent; if his is $12,000, the wife's additional net will be hit for 25 per cent. If his net taxable is $32,000, the wife will give up 42 per cent of her net income. In addition, there is usually a state income tax and sometimes a city tax.

There are many random expenses for a working wife, too: contributions for a gift for the fellow worker who is getting married, flowers for the office boy's grandmother's funeral, and so on.

On Average, 40 Percent Goes
The Department of Agriculture estimates about 40 per cent of a wife's gross earnings must go for job-related expenses.

Home Federal points out that if a wife has a special skill, such as a computer technician or an advertising copywriter, it may pay her to work. But if she has no marketable skill and has to take any job that comes along, it probably won't pay her.

It suggests that when a young wife works, the couple live on the husband's salary and that they save the wife's. If the couple merely steps up their standard of living, they will have a rude shock in event of pregnancy, wife's illness or anything else that forces her to quit.

If a husband is laid-off in the current recession, it will not only pay a wife to work, but it may mean survival.

Turner, The usually circumspect Bliss, now Ohio's Republican National Committeeman, upbraided Hughes recently in a private conversation that quickly became common knowledge.

Republican attacks on Herbert and Turner only added fuel to Democratic campaign ammunition, the rural Republicans argue, and probably hurt Cloud most of all. The result: a widely propagated myth that Herbert will survive while his tormentor, Cloud, is defeated.

That is sheer nonsense. Prior to last week's party finance meeting, Cloud's men were distributing private polls showing Herbert behind for attorney general by nearly 2 to 1 while Cloud, though trailing, is much closer to Democratic John J. Gilligan.

But Republican money men, reluctant to pour any money into the Cloud campaign, feel Cloud has slipped badly (confirmed by pollster Oliver Quayle's secret survey which shows Cloud's 67 per cent job rating of a year ago now at 51 percent).

The Republican situation would seem hopeless were it not for the dexterity of Ohio Democrats, developed over the past generation, at losing elections.

Subcommittee Charges My Lai Story Covered Up

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The alleged massacre of Vietnamese civilians at My Lai was deliberately covered up under an agreement by military and State Department officers in the field, a special House subcommittee has charged.

Reports of atrocities by U.S. soldiers promptly spread through 13 different command levels in the Americal Division, support units and U.S. adviser groups, the subcommittee said in a report released Tuesday. But there is no evidence they ever reached headquarters in Saigon, the report added.

Court Goes The Limit In Prison Term For Killer

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — "This court is going to give you every day it can give you in this case."

With that, Judge Coy E. Brewer sentenced an 82nd Airborne Division paratrooper from Alabama Tuesday to 70 years in prison for the murder of an elderly Fayetteville woman.

The defendant, 23-year-old Spec. 4 Larry E. Haynie of Gadsden, Ala., also got 40 years in prison for setting afire the house of the victim—78-year-old Mrs. Robert A. Cox Huske.

The paratrooper, stationed at Ft. Bragg, is awaiting a separate trial in Superior Court on a charge of murder in the shooting death of the manager of a store on the outskirts of Fayetteville.

"The subcommittee believes the explanation lies in a concerted action among military and State Department officers to suppress all evidence of the allegation and its investigation," the report said.

"The subcommittee," the report said, "was unable to determine when, and by whom, that decision was made, and consequently is unable to describe the scope of the agreement."

The report, based on still-secret testimony by 152 witnesses, was released by a special four-man House armed services investigating subcommittee headed by Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La.

Other principal findings of the investigation into the Task Force Barker sweep against the suspected Viet Cong stronghold at My Lai March 16, 1968:

—Helicopter Pilot Hugh C. Thompson testified that when he

Love Valley Is Getting Ready

LOVE VALLEY, N. C. (AP) — This town of 100 in the foothills soon will have 100 showers, 10 large water storage tanks, probably dozens of portable toilets — and thousands of people.

"Egad!" say area residents. "Oh, boy!" say the youngsters who are pouring into this usually serene little valley near Statesville for a rock festival this weekend.

Promoters say about 1,500 people already are camped out in the area.

landed to rescue Vietnamese civilians from a bunker, a lieutenant in charge of GIs standing over bodies in a ditch told him.

"The only way I could get them out is with a hand grenade or something of that order." But Thompson denied having helicopter guns trained on GIs during the rescue.

—Acts by individual GIs were so wrong and uncharacteristic "as to immediately raise a question as to the legal sanity at the time of those men involved."

—The Uniform Code of Military Justice should be revised to prohibit court-martial for such acts in combat until the accused man's mental responsibility at the time has been determined.

—The sole written record of a field investigation—concluding only 20 Vietnamese civilians were killed in artillery, helicopter gunship and ground crossfire and that none were rounded up by GIs and killed—was found hidden in a sergeant's desk drawer. If other documents ever existed, they have disappeared from the files.

—An order by Capt. Ernest L. Medina, commander of the company that made the main My Lai sweep, to return to count civilian dead was countermanded by Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster, then Americal Division commander, from a helicopter flying overhead. Koster said Medina's estimate of 28 dead sounded about right.

—U.S. intelligence dismissed allegations of up to 570 civilian deaths in My Lai and nearby areas as "Communist propaganda" even though most of the allegations were coming from South Vietnamese officials and detailed time, place and U.S. units involved.

Hebert's subcommittee drew no conclusions on what actually happened at My Lai and made no reference to criminal charges against 12 GIs, including Medina and platoon leader Lt. William L. Calley Jr. The charges range from officer responsibility for the deaths to murder, rape and maiming.

The initial field inquiry was as much concerned with reports of a "machine gun confrontation" between helicopter pilot Thompson and an unnamed platoon leader, one officer testified, as with Thompson's report of ci-

Expects Standby Powers Voted

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Rep. Nick Galifianakis, D-N. C., thinks Congress will enact legislation giving President Nixon standby authority to impose controls on prices and wages.

Galifianakis told the 34th annual session of the Carolina School of Banking at the University of North Carolina Tuesday that he had been "unalterably opposed" to such legislation in the past. But the state of the nation's economy indicates the President should have the power he needs to fight inflation, he said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will maintain its Navy base at Guantanamo, Cuba, despite opposition of the Castro regime, Navy Secretary John H. Chafee said Tuesday.

vilian killings.

Thompson denied ordering guns trained on the GIs or believing he was threatened by them, the report said, even though he said the platoon leader had told him the only way to get civilians out of a bunker to rescue them was with a hand grenade.

The report quoted one of Thompson's gunners, Lawrence Colburn, as saying the pilot told the gunners to shoot any GIs interfering with the rescue attempt but didn't mean it.

The committee said the "cover up" of the My Lai allegations cannot be solely blamed on Koster's Americal Division. The staff of the senior U.S. province adviser, James May, and senior advisers to the South Vietnamese division also were receiving reports that should have gone to Saigon, the subcommittee said.

May told the subcommittee he never heard the allegations,

Says Marijuana No 'Mild Drug'

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Marijuana is not the mild drug that many people seem to believe, but is a hallucinogen one fiftieth as potent as LSD, a University of North Carolina psychiatrist warned Tuesday.

Dr. Francis J. Kane told some 60 school teachers, administrators and counselors at a drug abuse education project that students can be particularly affected by the use of marijuana since their power to concentrate can be lost or diminished by repeated use of the drug.

while Koster testified he did not report to headquarters in Saigon because he believed the field investigation showed "his troops were not at fault."

That was the finding of a five-page report, found in a sergeant's desk drawer, by Col. Oran K. Henderson, 11th Brigade commander, the subcommittee said.

It said "there is not a shred of evidence" other than the statements of Koster and Henderson, that Lt. Col. Frank Barker, the task force commander who was later killed, conducted a subsequent investigation into allegations that more than 20 Vietnamese civilians had been killed.

Greenville Post Office Revenue Up

Postal revenue at the Greenville Post Office was up seven percent for the year ending June 30, 1970, it was announced today by Donald F. Hargy, officer-in-charge.

The local post office collected $668,765.44 in postage and fees during the fiscal year. The most significant increase, according to Hargy, from $194,710.56, to $226,245.49, was in sales to patron meters.

"Patron meters are used by business firms and this increase reflects a good growth in Greenville's business community," Hargy explained.

Mail volume was up almost five percent to a new high of 25,528,800 pieces. This figure represents 17,151,100 pieces of mail coming into the post office and 8,877,700 pieces of mail leaving the city.

"Greenville is considered a receiving office since it receives almost twice as much mail as it sends out," Hargy explained. "East Carolina University has a great influence since the staff and student body receives more mail than it sends."

The post office serviced approximately 11,327 urban families and 4,745 rural families during the 1970 fiscal year, Hargy noted. This is approximately seven percent more than last year.

"In serving Greenville families, city carriers drove a total of 88,452 miles and rural carriers 140,144 miles," he said.

"It is interesting to note that in serving the Greenville community our letter carriers travel a total distance equal to almost nine times around the world."

During the past five years, the Greenville post office has shown a significant growth — mail volume up approximately 25 percent and revenue up about 42 percent.

Miss Redden maintained an A average in business education. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Redden of 800 S. Main St., Farmville, N. C.

Federal Service Exam Saturday

The federal service entrance examination will be given Saturday, according to A. E. Forrest, civil service examiner.

The examination is designed for college students and qualifies applicants for jobs with a starting salary from $6,500 per year to $9,800 per year. The test will last about two and one-half hours and measures general ability and aptitude for management and leadership.

Forest said the test is given on a walk-in basis. Those interested in taking the test should report to the civil service examining room in the main post office Saturday at 8:30 a.m.

More than 1,583,000 motor vehicles now circulate in Mexico, says the Mexico Industry and Commerce Department.

Local Mother Taking Gifts For Children In Vietnam Orphanage

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
Forty children, most of them left parentless and homeless by the Vietnamese war, live in an orphanage at Phu Bai. They sleep on bare floors and have little food and even less clothing. Mrs. Phyllis Perego, who lives at University Townhouse Apartments here with her six-year-old daughter, Cheryl, gets letters every day or so telling her of the plight of these youngsters. They come from her husband, Lt. Nelson G. Perego, who is stationed with the 131st Surveillance Aircraft Company at Phu Bai, South Vietnam. When he is not flying an OB-1 Mohawk propjet or doing something else in the line of duty, Lt. Perego likes to visit the children, to read stories to and play with them. He goes there at least twice a week.

He has written his wife and Cheryl and his mother in Fredericksburg, Va., asking that they send any articles of clothing and other gifts for the children, whose ages range from one to eight. Not long ago, after having sent a large package of her outgrown clothing, Cheryl received a doll wearing handmade clothes and several plastic bracelets. These cheaply made articles were tokens of the gratitude of a Vietnamese woman interested in the orphanage.

R&R Next Week
Mrs. Perego is going to meet her husband in Bangkok, Thailand next week during his rest and recuperation period. She will take with her whatever clothes and other gifts for the children she can collect.

She has her husband's promise that he will try to get her into Vietnam and will take her to meet the children he has come to love if it is at all possible. She has been told, however, that if she can get into Saigon she will be lucky, and that there is little hope of her being allowed to travel outside the capital. Phu Bai is about 350 miles northeast of Saigon and less than a hundred miles from the Demilitarized Zone between North and South Vietnam.

She will continue to accept gifts for the Phu Bai orphans after she returns—at least until Lt. Perego's tour is over.

On the list of needed items are lightweight clothing for boys and girls from infants up to eight years old; cotton blankets and other linens; canned food; soap and other toilet articles; and simple medical supplies like bandaging material and antiseptic cream. Small dainty jewelry, small brightly-colored toys, and colored pictures, including picture postcards (whether they have been written on does not matter) would also appeal to these impoverished children.

Mrs. Perego, who is a realtor with the D.G. Nichols Real Estate Agency here, said, "Anyone who like to help with this project may bring their gifts—used or unused does not matter as long as they are in good shape—to our home or drop them by the real estate office at 111 West Fourth Street.

Also, I will be glad to pick up items if those willing to contribute will call me at 758-3637 or 752-4012.

"My husband feels so strongly that much of what we throw away here in America could and should be put to use by persons like these suffering orphans who have become so dear to him. We will gladly be responsible for seeing that anything anyone gives that can be used by the orphans reaches them," she said.

A LETTER FROM PHU BAI . . . Lt. Nelson Perego's letters to his wife, Phyllis (pictured) prompted her efforts to collect clothing and other useful articles for the Vietnamese orphans he works with.

Two Injured In Accidents

Two persons were reported injured in two mishaps here yesterday.

Police reported Calvin Jesse Harris, 74, of 601 East Ninth St. was injured when the car he was driving collided with a vehicle driven by Jane Long Joyner, 25, of 200 East Fourth St. about 3:45 p.m. at the intersection of Ninth and Cotanche Streets.

Officers, who charged Harris with traveling the wrong way on a one way street placed damage to the Joyner vehicle at $200 and set damage to the Harris car at $250.

No charges were made in a 4:10 p.m. collision at the intersection of Fifth and Harding Streets, and no damage was reported.

Police reported a motorcycle driven by Charles Winston Jackson, 25, of 700 South Cotanche St. struck a tree. He was reported slightly injured in the crash.

YPWW Holding Annual Session

The annual congress of the Young People Willing Workers (YPWW) of the Department of the Church of God in Christ is meeting this week in Greenville.

On Monday, a full seven day schedule of activities began at Wells Chapel Church of God in Christ, located at the corner of Fifth and Hudson Streets.

Churchmen, speakers, officials and music groups are all gathering in Greenville for the congress which this year features the theme of "The Unseen Powers."

Monday, the opening day, was a festive day of music. Johnny Wooten and Elder Leroy Woolard directed choruses from Kinston, Rocky Mount, Greenville, Edenton, Washington and Plymouth.

Tuesday's program was devoted to fasting and prayer, with the opening prayer at 11:30 a.m. That day's activity concluded at 9:30 p.m. with a sermon by Elder Cureton and music by the Holy Trinity Choir.

Today activity centers around discussion of educational hour topic outlines. A group study began at noon and discussions will end with a sermon at 10 o'clock tonight. The Rocky Mount and Windsor Choirs furnish music.

Tomorrow is designated as the Bishop Wyoming Wells Day. Bishop Wells is presiding bishop of the Church of God in Christ. To mark the day, Bishop Wells will preach a sermon at 8 p.m.

Friday is State Field Worker Day. Guest speaker, at 8:45 p.m. will be Mrs. Estelle McEwen, and music will be by the Edenton and Washington Choirs.

On Saturday, an outing for youth will be held at 10 a.m., followed by a Youth Progress Benefit Dinner at the Holiday

Bruce Sauter, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brame, and Mr. and Mrs. Rex Voorhees also attended.

Inn. The evening service will consist of a dinner at 8 p.m. with gospel singing and an address by Mrs. Clarice Williams of Hamlet.

The final day of the annual congress, Sunday, is State President's Day. Sunday services will include Sunday School with devotion services to be led by district presidents. Music will be by the State Choir, with solos by Mrs. Dorothy Gray and Miss Debra Mayo.

In addition to the presiding bishop, Bishop Wells, other officers of the YPWW include state president Elder J.J. Williams; state field worker Mrs. Louise Roberson; and state secretary Mrs. Mary Guilford. A number of church leaders also serve in the capacity of district presidents, district field workers, and on the financial committee.

Plan Time Off For Politicking

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Stanford University will suspend classes Nov. 2 and 3—election day and the day before—so students and faculty can participate in political activities, President Kenneth S. Pitzer reports.

Jaycees And Families See Boys Home Facility

Twenty-nine members of the Greenville Jaycees and their families got a first hand look Sunday at the Boys Home at Lake Waccamaw when they visited the facilities.

Boys Home director, R.N. McCray pointed out to the local Jaycees that the Civitans of North Carolina built the first cottage for 16 boys at Lake Waccamaw in 1958.

This cottage was followed by similar facilities furnished by the Lions in 1960, Jaycees in 1962, Kiwanis in 1964, Rotary in 1966 and a 20-boy cottage finished by the Optimist in 1968, bringing the total capacity to 100 boys, McCray noted.

McCray expressed his appreciation to the state Jaycees and the Greenville Jaycees in particular for their sponsorship of the Boys Home All-Star Game played in Greenville each August.

The Greenville Jaycees alone, he said, had expended over 3,000 man-hours annually for the eighth consecutive year and the Greenville business community, East Carolina University, and the citizens of this area had been most receptive to the ball game.

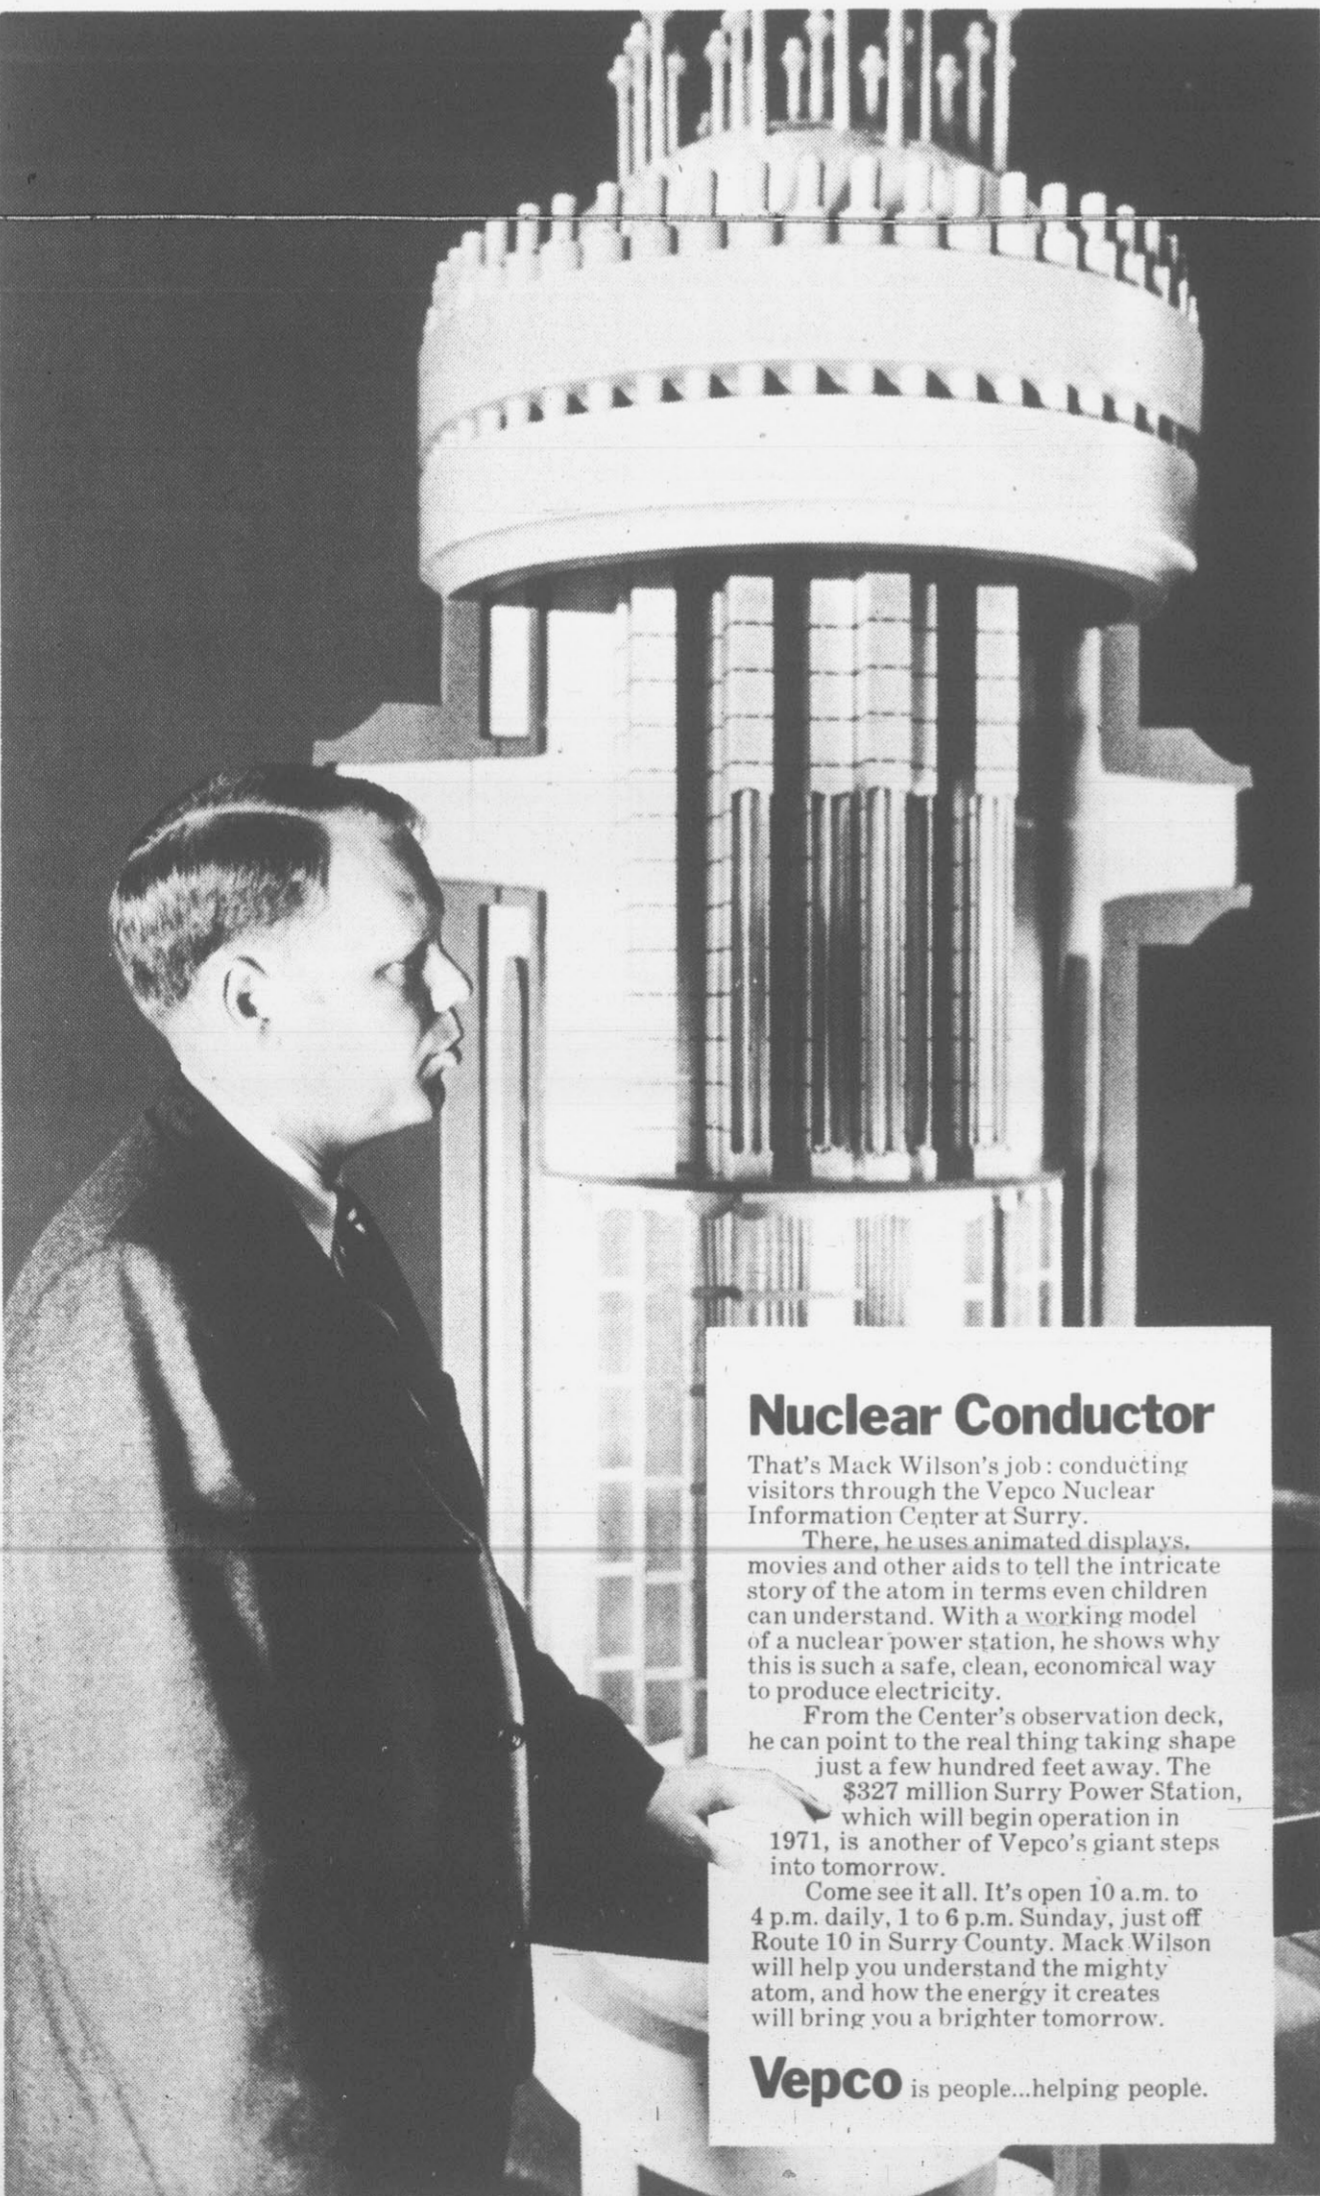

Purpose of the trip was for the local Jaycees to gain a first hand knowledge of the home, to meet with the boys who live there, and to convey their experiences to other Jaycees to facilitate promoting this year's All-Star Game scheduled for Aug. 1 in Ficklen Stadium.

Local Jaycees and Jaycee wives attending were: Sam Keel,

Mr. and Mrs. Don Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Krewatch, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Mewborn, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Reese, Sammy Fadel, Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Prescott, and Ray Corbett.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Skip Browder, Joe DeLoach, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Harper, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Haut, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hargett, Mr. and Mrs. John Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Jenkins, and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Privette, Mr. and Mrs. Don Fidler, Mr. and Mrs.

Nuclear Conductor

That's Mack Wilson's job: conducting visitors through the Veeco Nuclear Information Center at Surry.

There, he uses animated displays, movies and other aids to tell the intricate story of the atom in terms even children can understand. With a working model of a nuclear power station, he shows why this is such a safe, clean, economical way to produce electricity.

From the Center's observation deck, he can point to the real thing taking shape just a few hundred feet away. The $327 million Surry Power Station, which will begin operation in 1971, is another of Veeco's giant steps into tomorrow.

Come see it all. It's open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily, 1 to 6 p.m. Sunday, just off Route 10 in Surry County. Mack Wilson will help you understand the mighty atom, and how the energy it creates will bring you a brighter tomorrow.

Veeco is people...helping people.

'Black Blizzard' Wreaked Havoc

By ENCYCLOPEDIA BRITANNICA—UPI
Farmers called it the "black blizzard." It was one of the worst continuing dust storms in the nation's history and it created what has come to be known as The Dust Bowl.
The "black blizzard" began 36 years ago, one of America's great disasters. For days on end the dust spread misery to millions throughout the drought-stricken western plains. There is a lesson in this for those fighting today's abuse of nature by man—Man-made desert conditions, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica, created the dust storms.
The mammoth dust cloud measured 1.3 million square miles. Some of the dust came from desert-like areas, but it also came from what once had been considered farmland.
Thousands of acres in the plains states were too arid for sustained crop production. But the settlers gambled and natural grass was stripped by plows or torn by the hooves of cattle. Soil which had been building for centuries was depleted within a few years. Then came a long stretch without rain.

The drought was bad enough. In Missouri the pastures were bone dry. Farmers cropped trees so the cattle could eat the leaves. But while the drought was difficult, the dust was impossible.
A vast area, which included parts of Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, Texas and New Mexico, became the Dust Bowl. Soil from the region was whipped into the air day after day in 1934.
On a single day experts estimated that 300 million tons of rich top soil was lifted by the winds from the dust bowl. In places where there had been farmsteads there were sand dunes. The dust, like snow, drifted fence high. In North Dakota dust drifts blocked roads.

One Kansas wheat farmer, describing the "black blizzard," wrote that it "begins to blow with only a slight breeze... the wind increases its velocity until it is blowing at 40 to 50 miles an hour. Soon everything is moving—the land is blowing, the very sun is blotted out."
Gritty Hell
Little could survive in the gritty hell. Crops perished. Tending of livestock was out of the question. Then the people left.
There was an exodus from the dust desert such as this nation had never seen. Families which could trace their claim to the pioneer days became migratory. Highways were cluttered with vehicles carrying all the possessions the refugees could pile aboard. Between 1935 and 1939 California alone received 350,000 Dust Bowl farmers.
Soil experts estimated that in the 1930s more than 9 million acres of good land was virtually destroyed by wind erosion. Almost 80 million more acres suffered serious damage.

Coming in the midst of the great depression, the dust storm disaster pushed millions into poverty. Much of the nation had been knocked to its knees.

Then began an unprecedented campaign to salvage the nation's resources. In the spring of 1933, the Civilian Conservation Corps was created. The government enlisted 300,000 needy young men in the fight to restore the land. The forest service planted a shelter-belt of more than 200 million trees. Soil conservation rules were put into effect. Grazing on public lands was regulated.

Slowly, the devastated lands were made livable again. But the loss—measured in either dollars or misery—could never be erased.

Error In Naming Charged Driver

Marvin Thomas Tugwell, 44, of Route 1, Walstonburg was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident following investigation of a collision Sunday at the intersection of 10th Street and Dickinson Avenue, that involved a second car driven by Clarence F. Harper, 62 of 2501 Memorial Dr.
A story in Monday's edition of the Daily Reflector quoted police reports as saying Harper was charged. In reality, according to officers, Tugwell was charged and not Harper.

Wants Reserve Unit In Congress Report Cleaver In North Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., a retired major general in the Army Reserves, says he has written 53 congressmen who are reservists in hopes of establishing a Reserve unit for Congress.
Thurmond said Tuesday former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara abolished congressional Reserve units five years ago but the current secretary, Melvin R. Laird, has advised him he has no objection to re-establishing them.

TOKYO (AP) — Eldridge Cleaver, self-exiled minister of information of the Black Panther party, is reported by the Korean Central News Agency to have arrived in Pyongyang for a visit to Communist North Korea.
The agency said Tuesday he was accompanied by a group of American Black Panthers but did not give the number.
Cleaver now lives in Algeria.

Two Firefighters 'Slightly Injured'

Two Farmville firemen were injured slightly in a house fire Monday night in Greene County.

Bill Oakley and Bill Dudley, both volunteer firemen with the Farmville Fire Department, were treated at the Farmville Clinic and released, according to Pitt County Fire Marshal Mike Worthington.

Oakley suffered a sprained shoulder when part of the roof collapsed and struck him. Dudley received second degree burns when a wall collapsed.

The house, the residence of J. M. Boykin, located on Highway 264 west of Farmville, was said by Worthington to be a total loss with value of house and contents estimated at $15,000.

The Walstonburg Fire Department first responded to the burning two-story house, and a call for help was sent to Farmville at 10:48 p.m. Farmville sent two trucks and later a water unit. At 11:29 Fountain was called for additional assistance.

A truck fire was reported at 4:11 p.m. yesterday. The truck, parked next to the Collins-Aikman Warehouse at Joyner's Cross Roads, had caught fire. The Farmville Fire Department responded, and extinguished the flames with damage limited to approximately $50.00 to the truck. Worthington reported no damage to the warehouse.

Actor Preston Foster Stricken

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — Preston Foster, whose lengthy acting career took him through more than 120 movies as a fist-swinging hero or villain, is dead at 69.

The dark-haired, mustachioed actor starred as Capt. John Herick, a tugboat skipper, in the television series "Waterfront," for 78 installments starting in 1954. He made more than 100 films for television.

His death Tuesday at Scripps Memorial Hospital was preceded by a long illness.

Rose Kennedy On Greek Island

ATHENS (AP) — Rose Kennedy, mother of the late President John F. Kennedy, has begun a short vacation on the Ionian island of Scyros, home of Aristotle and Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis.

Mrs. Kennedy flew in Tuesday from Zurich and completed the trip to the island by seaplane.

Daniels Hurls No-Hit Greenville Win
Johnston County Legion Stops Babe Ruth Stars Get 8-1 Win; Greenville With 4-1 Victory
Carteret Outs New Bern Nine

SMITHFIELD — Johnston County American Legion Baseball team took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-five series for the area semifinals last night with a 4-1 victory over Greenville.

The locals were plagued by six errors, five in one inning, that helped to account for three of the Johnston County runs.

The two teams will be in Greenville tonight at 5 p.m. playing the second game. It will be played at Smithfield Thursday at 8 p.m.

Johnston County took the lead in the first inning of play with their only earned run. Vernon Ormond singled with two men out. John Narron, cousin of former East Carolina University star Richard (Rooster) Narron, came back with a double, driving in Ormond with the go-ahead run.

In the top of the third inning, Greenville came up with its only run. Joe West walked and with two outs, Jimmy Paige was safe on an error. Ronnie Leggett singled, driving in West to tie it up. Greenville, went on to load the bases on a walk to Joey Moore, but failed to collect any more runs.

They did threaten again in the fourth and sixth innings, but couldn't put together any hits to get the job done, getting only two singles off Johnston hurler Frank Eonta.

In the bottom of the third, things just fell apart for Greenville as they committed five errors that gave Johnston two runs and the lead. Eonta led off with a single and was wild pitched for second. Phil Langdon grounded into the infield, but the ball was errored, and Eonta came around with what proved to be the winning run. Langdon was picked off first, but an error on the play allowed him to get back safely. Ormond then hit into a fielder's choice, but again the ball was errored, and Langdon moved on to third and Ormond to second. Narron was intentionally walked, loading the bases with just one out. Robert Wheless hit into another fielder's choice, and this time, Greenville got Langdon at the plate. An error on the next play, however, allowed Ormond to cross to make it 3-1.

In the sixth, Johnston picked up the final run. Jimmy Honeycutt walked and was safe at second on an error on Stan Coats grounder. Eonta banged out a single, scoring Honeycutt with the final run.

Russ Smith, in drawing the loss, gave up five hits, walking two and striking out 15.

J. C. Daniels tossed a no-hitter to greet Havelock into the District 7 Babe Ruth Tournament last night, as Greenville rolled to an 8-1 victory in the game. Daniels also helped out his own cause with a three-run homer that broke open a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning.

In the other game, Carteret County rallied in the fifth inning for five runs and went on to down New Bern, 8-4, eliminating the loser in the double elimination tourney.

Tonight, Carteret and Havelock meet at 6 p.m., with the loser dropping out of the tournament. Greenville meets the only other unbeaten team in the tourney, Pitt County, in the 8:30 game.

Most of the runs in the Greenville-Havelock encounter were unearned. The only earned ones were the first two of three that came in the sixth inning after Greenville held a 6-1 lead. The locals made two errors, while Havelock made five.

Havelock got its only run in the second inning. With one out, Eric Brown drew a walk. Louis King laid down a sacrifice bunt, and the play was made to second to attempt to get Brown. The throw was late, however, and got away from the fielder, allowing both Brown and King to advance. Don Beaver then laid down a bunt on a delayed squeeze, scoring Brown with the only Havelock run.

They later had minor threats in the third and fourth innings, as walks and passed balls put a runner on second in the third, and then on third in the fourth frame.

Greenville again got some outstanding defense, two of which saved the no-hitter for Daniels, who struck out 12 and walked four. The first game in the fifth inning. Leadoff batter Beaver hit a liner into right center that Wayne Bailey made a lunging one-handed catch on a ball that probably would have gone for extra-bases but for the grab. Then, in the sixth inning, Whit Buck hit a grounder that appeared headed through the home between the second baseman, John Barwick, and the bag. But he made a one-handed stab of the ball as he darted to his right, turned and threw, just nipping Buck at first for the out.

Greenville took advantage of 11 walks off two Havelock pitchers to push in several of their runs, including the first. That came in the second inning. Seth Jones walked with two outs, and Herb Wilkerson reached on an error. Both moved up on a wild pitch and Daniels walked, loading the bases. Barwick then drew a walk, forcing in Jones with the tying run.

It stayed that way until the fifth inning. Bailey led off, reaching on an error. Stanley Cobb walked and both moved up on a passed ball. The next batter lined out to first, and Bailey was caught off third for a double-play. But on the next play, the new Havelock pitcher whirled and fired to second on a pickoff attempt on Cobb, but no one was covering the bag, and the ball went into center. Cobb raced all the way to score the go-ahead run.

Jones followed by reaching on an error and Wilkerson singled into left. Daniels then broke things open with a three-run homer to center, running the score to 5-1.

In the sixth, Greenville added three more. Bailey reached on a fielder's choice and Cobb slapped a homer to left. Harding Sugg singled to left, and Jones reached on an error, allowing Sugg to come all the way around with the final run.

In the losers' bracket game, New Bern pushed out by two in the first inning and looked like a sure winner. Stuart Edwards single and James Melton reached when hit by a pitch. David Land grounded to short getting Melton, but moving Edwards to third. A balk let Edwards come in and moved Land to second. Guy Warmack singled to left, and a passed ball brought in Land for a 2-0 lead.

In the third, Land came up with a homer to left, moving the New Bern lead out to 3-0. But in the fifth inning, Carteret exploded to take the lead with five runs. Winston Arrington walked and Robert Keeter singled to left. Claude Lewis singled to center, scoring Arrington, and Warren Grant came on as a pinch runner for Lewis. Wayne Horton grounded back to short, and the play was made, too late, to the plate, as Keeter scored. The ball was errored at home, also, but recovered in time to get Grant, trying to score from second. Horton raced all the way to third on the play. Tom Frazier then put Carteret ahead with a homer to center, driving in Horton ahead of him.

David Lewis followed with a single to center. He stole second and gained third on an error on the play, scoring when Joe Raymond reached on another error.

In the sixth, Carteret picked up three more. Keeter led off with a homer to center, and Horton followed with a single. Frazier slapped his second straight homer, this time to right, for the final eight-run total.

The final New Bern run came in the seventh, when Melton cracked a solo homer.

Chips and putts from area golf courses: BROOK VALLEY
Entries for the second annual Reynolds Maye Four-Ball Tournament will close on Friday, according to Brook Valley pro Harold Thomas. Two-man entries must be in by then. The tournament will be played at the club on July 25-26. Glenn Perkins and Tom Strange of Virginia Beach are the defending champs.

AYDEN
The Ayden Golf and Country Club's championship tourney wound up as a father-son match in the finals recently. When it was all over, Boyce Barwick (Dad) came out on top of Brooks Barwick, his son Boyce won the 36-hole match one-up.

GREENVILLE
A number of golfers at the Greenville Golf and Country Club are turning in good scores these days. Curtis Martin shot a 39 on the front side for his best nine-hole round. Dr. Joe Murad had birdies on four, five and six, but recorded bogeys on eight and nine.

Black Jack And Presbyterian Win

Black Jack and First Presbyterian emerged as their respective divisional tournament winners in the Church Softball League's tourney finals last night. The two, joined by the runners-up, go for the overall league title, starting Thursday.

Black Jack nipped Mt. Pleasant, 11-10, and Presbyterian got by Meadowbrook by an identical score.

Thursday night, the four teams start a double elimination series for the overall title. Black Jack takes on Meadowbrook at 7:30 p.m., with Presbyterian and Mt. Pleasant colliding meeting at 9. The tournament will continue on Monday.

In the first game, Mt. Pleasant pushed over a run in the top of the first to take the lead, but Black Jack came up with four to move ahead, 4-1. Mt. Pleasant came back with six in the second, including a homer by Bullock. That put them ahead, 7-4. Black Jack closed the gap with a couple of runs, as R. Hudson homered in the bottom of the frame.

Mt. Pleasant added to its lead with three more in the third, making it 10-6. But that was all they were to get.

Black Jack came up with three in the fifth to pull within one, then pushed over two in the sixth to claim the lead, 11-10, and that was all they needed.

In the second game, Meadowbrook scored once in the first, but Presbyterian came up with four in their half, including two homers, one by Briley and the other by Oswald. They added three more in the second for a 7-1 lead.

But Meadowbrook began to rally in the third, scoring three. They added one more in the fourth to cut it to 7-5. Presbyterian scored again in the fourth, but Meadowbrook pushed over three in the fifth to tie it at 8-8. Presbyterian pushed back ahead with two in the bottom of the fifth, but Meadowbrook tied it up again with two in the seventh.

In the bottom of the seventh, Presbyterian got the winning run. Lee singled and Fuller got a hit. Glidewell was walked to load the bases and Oswald singled to score Lee with the winning run.

National League Rallies To Get Win

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — When someone remarked, on the eve of baseball's 41st All-Star Game, that fans' interest in the inter-league tussle has been hyped this year, someone else said it was about time the players got interested.

Tuesday night, 56 of the major leagues' finest certified their interest ... and then some ... in a grueling, 12-inning struggle at muggy Riverfront Stadium.

When it was over, the National Leaguers had pocketed a 5-4 victory, their eighth in a row and sixth in as many extra-inning duels during the long series. But any talk of lethargy, or cop-outs was stilled after:

Pete Rose scored the winning run in a jarring collision at the plate with Ray Fosse that sent the Cleveland catcher to a hospital with a shoulder injury and left the Cincinnati flash nursing a painful charley horse.

Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, castigated for suggesting he might pass up the game because of a pain in the neck, showed up, played and capped the Nationals' tying three-run rally in the ninth with a sacrifice fly.

Baltimore's Dave Johnson, hobbled by a damaged knee, labored through eight innings at second base for the Americans on the hot and hard Astroturf that blankets the Reds' new park.

Southpaw Claude Osteen of Los Angeles, who had worked eight innings three days earlier, got into the game as a pinch runner in the NL ninth and wound up pitching three scoreless frames to earn the victory.

President Nixon, who joined the crowd shortly before game time, stayed to the finish. So did Hank Aaron, Willie Mays, Frank Robinson and all the superstars who were out of their respective line-ups after the early innings.

The only drop-out was busy Morganna Roberts, the exotic dancer and compulsive player-kisser, who made a promised foray onto the playing field in the first inning ... and was promptly hauled off to jail.

Jim Hickman of the Chicago Cubs and Billy Grabarkewitz of Los Angeles two of the NL's top hitters who were overlooked in the fans' first balloting for starting spots in 13 years, shared the spotlight with Rose in the climactic 12th.

Rose, hitless in three previous All-Star appearances and a two-time strikeout victim Tuesday night, stroked a single with two out in the 12th and took second on Grabarkewitz' single. Hickman then lined a single to center and Rose barreled into Fosse before toeing the plate.

"It was a bang-bang play," said National League Manager Gil Hodges of the New York Mets. "It took someone like Pete to bull his way in there."

The All-Star Game has been the setting for crippling injuries to several top players in past years, but Rose plays every game this same way.

"If I can change the score, I'm not going to worry about getting hurt," he said.

Boston's Carl Yastrzemski, named the game's most valuable player after cracking four hits to tie the All-Star mark, delivered a run-scoring single in the sixth, giving the AL a 1-0 lead.

Fosse contributed a run-producing sacrifice fly in the seventh and Brooks Robinson, Baltimore's 14-year All-Star fixture, drilled a two-run triple in the eighth.

Trailing 4-1 in the ninth, the favored Nationals finally exploded. San Francisco catcher Dick Dietz provided the spark with a leadoff homer. Singles by Bud Harrelson of New York, Joe Morgan of Houston and Willie McCovey of San Francisco brought home another run and Clemente tied it with a long fly to center.

Osteen then held the AL at bay until his teammates broke through again in the 12th at the expense of Clyde Wright, California's no-hit left-hander.

"I didn't dream of getting three innings in," Osteen said. "I figured I might be used to pitch to one batter. But I could have pitched another inning if I had to."

Neither Hodges nor American League pilot Earl Weaver of the Orioles was suprised at the tightness of the game. "You've got the best pitchers going against the best hitters and the pitchers can handle the hitters if they're getting the ball where they want it."

"We beat them for eight innings," said Weaver, "but that doesn't count. It took them 12 to beat us. I'd call that pretty even."

President Nixon, a partisan Washington Senators' rooster, watched the duel from a box near the NL dugout.

"Maybe if he had sat on our side, we'd have won for a change," said Weaver.

The victory gave the National League, unbeaten since 1962, a 23-17-1 edge in a series once dominated by the American. "They'll never beat us," said

NL President Emeritus Warren Giles. "I'm sure they'll win one, if they keep showing up," Hodges countered. "And I'm positive they'll keep showing up."

Little Mint Ups Lead

The Little Mint moved back into sole possession of first place in the Ladies Softball League last night, but rain interrupted the rest of the league. The Little Mint downed Foodmart, 24-9, in the only game completed.

They now hold an 11-3 mark for the year, while National Products Co. is 10-3. Foodmart is now 8-6 while Bob's Atlantic is 7-7, Wachovia, 4-10, and Coca-Cola, 1-12.

Foodmart pushed over three runs in the top of the first to take the lead, but the Little Mint came back with four in their half to take the lead. They added four more in the second to go out 8-3, and never trailed again.

Foodmart added two in the third, but the Little Mint got another in its half of the inning. In the fourth, Foodmart got two, but Little Mint countered with eight. Foodmart added two in the fifth, while the Little Mint got seven, including a homer by Linda Tripp.

Mitchell Vows Defend 18-Year-Old Vote Bill Despite Nixon Doubts

By MARK BROWN Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell has pledged to defend the 18-year-old voting bill despite President Nixon's serious misgivings about its constitutionality. "Any good lawyer can take any side of a case and argue it with equal ability," he said Tuesday at his first Washington press conference in a year. President Nixon signed the bill into law, but said he preferred to lower the voting age by constitutional amendment. The attorney general said the 50 states have been asked to submit by Aug. 3 their plans for complying with the new law. The 18-year-old age provision of the Voting Rights Act does not take effect until Jan. 1, 1971. Two other key provisions, banning literacy tests and dropping residency requirements for balloting in presidential elections, became law when Nixon signed the bill June 22. "If we do not receive a positive response by Aug. 3, we will assume that the state does not intend to comply fully with the new federal statute and we, of course, will move accordingly," Mitchell said. Such action would take the form of lawsuits filed before three-judge panels at the U.S. District Court level and proceed up through the Supreme Court, he said.

doubled from 33 last year to about 66, most of them in investigations of organized crime and narcotics traffic. —His recent speeches urging authorities to encourage peaceful dissent were prompted by the "recognition that what we have been saying in the Department of Justice and other parts of the government have not been getting through to the students on the campuses." He contended the position marks no change in administration policy. —He is disturbed by the unenthusiastic response of the black community to Nixon administration policies. But he contended charges of anti-Negro bias are "a lot of loose talk." —By the end of the coming school year, "not only will the school districts in the South have converted from the dual school system to the unitary school system, but most of the irritants that were brought about by these conversions will be behind us and desegregation will be accepted as a way of life and the process of education can go on the way it should."

Jewels Adorn Cactus Plants

TOKYO (UPI)—A Japanese professor who specializes in the study of caves is teaching a new kind of flower arrangement; cactus studded with jewels. Hajime Torii, who formerly taught speleology at Saitama University, says the advantage of cactus arrangement is that cacti live as long as 50 years while flowers die quickly. Torii arranges cacti in bowls and decorates them with precious stones, particularly rubies and sapphires.

Coins Of Gold Were Made In Rutherfordton

"In the Light of History"
By H. G. JONES
Dept. Archives and History
Written for The AP

One hundred thirty-nine years ago this month the first gold coins to be manufactured in the South were struck in Rutherfordton by Christopher Bechtler, a German immigrant and operator of the most prominent private mint in the southeastern United States.

North Carolina in 1831 was the gold mining center of the nation. The first recorded gold discovery in the state was in 1799, although tradition tells of some mining prior to the Revolution and of even earlier "finds" by the Indians.

By 1830 there were 56 known mines operating in the state, and estimates of the total value of gold production within the state's boundaries up to 1860 range between $50 million and $65 million.

Use of gold as a medium of exchange was greatly hindered by a scarcity of coins. In the form of dust and nuggets its use was awkward at best, and the nearest place at which gold could be coined was the United States Mint in Philadelphia.

A petition from several gold miners to establish a branch of the federal mint in the area had been rejected, and so a great need for the talents of Christopher Bechtler and his family awaited their arrival in Rutherfordton in 1830.

First operating a jewelry shop in that town, Bechtler gained first-hand knowledge of the crippling effect on the economy caused by a lack of coins in circulation. With encouragement from several prominent miners, he manufactured his own dies and press and began striking coins in two denominations — $2.50 and $5.00—during July, 1831.

The following year he made available a third denomination and produced the first gold dollars to be coined in the United States.

In the course of converting over $2,250,000 worth of gold into coins that were carried all over the world, the Bechtler mint provided a unique boost for the economy of North Carolina and the South. In addition, the Bechtler operation is said to have encouraged the location a few years later of a branch of the United States Mint in Charlotte.

Though the Bechtler coins were, in a sense, only "tokens," as they were struck independently of any governmental authorization, they were passed over counters as freely as if they had originated in the United States Mint.

Once, when some of the coins from the Bechtler mint were observed to be heavier than others of the same denomination, a federal investigation was launched. The results of the investigation, however, merely confirmed the expertise of Christopher Bechtler as an assayer of gold. He had taken into account the varying purity of his raw material and, though not of uniform weight, each coin was found to contain exactly the proper amount of gold for its assigned value.

Decline of the Bechtler mint came with the opening of the branch of the U.S. Mint in Charlotte in 1837, depletion of our richest gold deposits, and the death of Christopher Bechtler in 1847, at which time the business passed into the hands of his son and nephew. It closed in the early 1850s.

Gold coins struck at the Bechtler mint are very scarce today and have sold for amounts ranging from just over $100 up to $5,900. The machinery with which they were struck is scattered over several states.

The press itself was put on display in the hall of the American Numismatic Society in New York, other dies and implements are scattered under private ownership over several states, and some of the coins and dies are in custody of the North Carolina Department of Archives and History in Raleigh.

Vote To Force Pollution Fight

EDMONTON, Alta. (UPI)—A Canadian oil workers' union has voted to use collective bargaining to force the oil industry to fight pollution.

Members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union called on governments to withhold building permits for any new plant until a joint labor-government committee is satisfied that the plant makes products that are not injurious to the workers' health and that it has an adequate pollution control system.

Cairo Market's Din Hushed By Mid-East Conflict

By LISETTE BALOUNY
Associated Press Writer
CAIRO (AP) — The Arab-Israeli war has hushed the once-furious din in the colorful, dusty, historic Khan Khalili bazaar, known to generations of foreigners simply as "the Mousky."

The nickname comes from the district of Cairo around the bazaar, a warren of covered or semi-covered alleys lined with shops.

It has always been a tourist "must" on the Cairo itineraries, especially for visitors with a keen eye for bargains—real or fancied—in craftsmanship.

But the closure of the Suez Canal following the six-day war in June of 1967, coupled with the drop in tourism, has created serious problems for the merchants and craftsmen alike.

Today the shuffling feet of tourists are fewer and very much muted. The hapless stroller in the twisted lanes is the immediate target of a shopkeeper's avid eye, and the visitor has to be fast on his feet to keep from being all but dragged into one of the market stalls.

Khan Khalili has been a traditional market since the day it was first set up in 1388. A rendezvous for caravans coming from Asia and parts of North Africa, it became a lively trading center where ancient pottery, soft silks, basketware of every kind, and various perfumes were displayed. Soon it became known as the shopping center of the elite.

Today, a new solid concrete building defiantly towers over the sagging end of Khan Khalili.

"The authorities believe in gradually cleaning up our old bazaar," said a 70-year-old merchant, eyeing the modern construction with hostility. "We resent it... it will spoil the ancient atmosphere of the place."

Has Message On A Billboard

MANILA (UPI)—The mayor of the town of San Fernando in Pampanga province has set up a huge billboard in front of the municipal building with this message to would-be demonstrators:

"My dear students:
"This is the wrong place to demonstrate. We are doing our job to the best of our ability in serving public interest and welfare. Please make good use of your concern for the nation elsewhere."
"Thank you."
"Mayor Virgilio Sanchez."

Mohamed Khalil, owner of "Amon Antiquity Bazaar" said the idea behind the new building is that more tourists would come if the market were cleaner and more spacious. "We have plenty of tourists, but just not the spending kind," he declared. "Most of them are from the Eastern bloc and these are short of cash," he added ruefully.

Artisans, still practicing their age-old craft with skill and dignity, have been forced to work with aluminum, a cheaper metal than has been heretofore used.

"We can no longer afford to buy such expensive metal," said Hosni Saleh a 68-year old craftsman. "Its price has risen almost 100 per cent. Nor can our regular clientele afford to pay for such costly products."

He recalled that 40 years ago, when he took up his artistic job, merchants paid him the equivalent of between 20 to 40 dollars for carvings. Today after the war they offer only 10 to 15 dollars.

Khalil, the old merchant, said that other workers of boutiques, like himself, have lost much since the canal has been blocked to shipping.

"Many of us did a lively trade with salesmen who owned large establishments for bazaar products in Suez and Ismailia," he explained. "Those merchants were bound to do smart business with steamer passengers. So, they came several times a month, hauled off most of our products to the tune of some thousands of dollars," he added.

"That time is over now," he said, shaking his white head.

As if to console himself he added, "many of our customers now come from Arab countries, too. True, these do not buy as much as foreigners, and they come on those modern whirlwind tours, but we sell for a few piasters here, a few there. Isn't it better than no trade at all?"

Some merchants and craftsmen have suggested joining International Fairs and Expositions. "Since they do not come to us any more, we could go out to them," many have argued. But thus far little if anything has been done along this line.

Consequently, the present situation has awakened some Khan Khalili merchants to a striking conclusion.

"Education will guarantee the future of our children far better than craftsmanship or tradesmanship," they are saying.

"Our sons should become engineers or doctors," Hosni and Khalil asserted. "They will be more useful to our community that way."

Then Hosni added, with a trace of wistfulness, "Our sons will bear the torch, but only in their spare time. For us this trade and these crafts have been a means of earning a living. For them, it will be a rewarding hobby."

Car Inspections Bring Rejection

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI)—State Public Safety commissioner William O. Newman reports early 23 per cent of the 1.5 million motor vehicles registered in Kentucky were rejected for mechanical defects in the state's 1969 mandatory safety check. This was down 3 per cent from the number rejected in 1968, he said.

Ask Funds For Buying Abroad

HELSINKI (UPI)—The defense forces have asked the government for 1.6 billion marks ($400 million) to be used from 1971 to 1978 to purchase new equipment from abroad, defense sources, said. More than half the amount, defensive missiles excluded, would be used to improve the air force and air defenses.

KEEP'EM FRESH

TOKYO (UPI)—A Tokyo cigar store rents out lockers in which one can store his cigars in the hope they will always be at peak freshness for smoking. Made of cedar wood, the lockers maintain a constant temperature and humidity.

Rep. Celler Works Cautiously On Anti-Crime Bill

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Emanuel Celler is 82 and his step is slow but the administration is finding him a tough nut to crack in its effort to move a controversial anticrime bill through the House.

From President Nixon down, administration officials have repeatedly accused Celler, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, of delaying action on the Senate-passed bill.

Republican congressional leaders and forces outside Congress also have tried to bring public pressure on Celler to act.

"I don't give a tinker's damn about the pressure," said Celler as he walked slowly toward the House, where he has served since 1923. "That bill is as full of holes as Swiss cheese. We'll bring out a bill, but when we do it will be a good one."

The bill is officially designated the Organized Crime Control Act of 1969, but it is better known as S.30, its number in the Senate which passed it 73 to 1 on Jan. 23.

It is really eight bills rolled into one, a massive legislative package aimed primarily at organized crime but containing many provisions that would make significant changes in established legal procedures.

The bill provides extra sentences of up to 30 years in prison for habitual and professional criminals and for leaders of organized crime. It also would make large scale illicit gambling enterprises, and the bribing of local officials in connection with illegal gambling, federal crimes.

One of its most disputed provisions would empower special grand juries to file public reports concerning misconduct of public officials even without sufficient evidence to warrant an indictment.

Other sections of the bill deal with witness immunity, grand jury proceedings, and the presentation of evidence and testimony.

It is some of the proposed changes that have attracted criticism of S.30 within the legal profession, and on which Celler's opposition is based.

"I don't accept a package because of its label," he said. "I want to examine its contents."

What Celler calls examining the contents his critics call

"bottling up" the bill. The usual charge is that he has bottled it up for more than a year. When the mass circulation magazine Readers Digest made the charge in its current issue, Celler fired off a letter in reply.

He pointed out the Senate had the bill under consideration for a full year before passing it, while the House Judiciary Committee has had it less than six months. During that time it has reported out a bill authorizing $3.2 billion to fight crime in the streets, and also held hearings on S.30.

"If the Senate can take a year on S.30 why is the House supposed to rush it through?" asks Celler.

In the hearings on S.30, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and Sen.

John L. McClellan, D-Ark., the chief Senate sponsor, strongly endorsed the bill. Most of the other witnesses criticized at least some of its provisions.

During Senate debate McClellan turned aside nearly every attempt to amend it by arguing that any change would weaken it to the benefit of criminals. And in a Senate speech last month he said at least some of those opposing it were serving the interests of organized crime.

But the opposition before Celler's committee has come from law professors, practicing lawyers, the American Civil Liberties Union and the New York City Bar Association.

In addition, the committee received a letter from the Judicial Conference, composed of the senior judges of the federal court system, and headed by Chief Justice Warren Burger, expressing disapproval of four of the 10 titles in the bill.

The provisions questioned by the witnesses and the Judicial Conference are lengthy, complex and technical, and so are the arguments for and against them.

In general, the critics say they would weaken procedural safeguards and constitutional guarantees. "We must reject solutions which purchase freedom from organized crime only by sacrificing rights which are woven into the fabric of our most basic liberties," said the New York City Bar Association in its report on S.30.

Supporters deny the bill has any constitutional defects and say the procedural changes are needed to meet the special challenge posed by organized crime.

Celler's resistance to demands for speedy Judiciary Committee action was strengthened recently by the American Bar Association's decision to study S.30. A special meeting of the ABA board of governors is scheduled for Wednesday in Chicago to draw up a position and the Judiciary Committee will await that action.

In addition, the administration has been asked to comment on some of the criticism raised by witnesses before the committee and has agreed to send a representative back for a hearing July 23.

Intertwined with the legal aspects of the legislation are its political implications. Although

S.30 is as much—if not more—McClellan's bill as the administration's, it has been embraced as the cornerstone of the anticrime program Nixon promised during his 1968 election campaign.

It is in that context that Nixon, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and other administration spokesmen usually criticize Celler, and the House Judiciary Committee.

Politics also plays a part in Celler's opposition. He would like to saddle the administration with responsibility for what he regards as the repressive features of the bill and have the Democratic-controlled Congress get credit for deleting them.

The bidding:
West North East South
Pass Pass 2 3
3 6 Pass Pass
Dble. Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: King of hearts
Today's hand aroused considerable discussion when it was dealt in a National Team-of-Four championship a few seasons back. Altho North and South can take 13 tricks at a club contract, neither of the pairs who held the cards ever bid that suit.
At one table, the bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram. North chose to pass his hand altho he had 13 points and two defensive tricks. It has been our experience that with a distributional holding where a convenient rebid is available, strategic considerations dictate a quick entry into the auction before the level of bidding becomes too advanced.
East's opening bid of two spades is a preemptive call employed by some tournament players to designate a holding that includes a good six card suit with little outside strength. It is similar in principle to an opening three bid, however the latter call is usually based on a seven card suit.
South chose to overcall with three diamonds, for he had enough to make a take-out double—the singleton heart deterred him from inviting partner to name a suit of his own. West raised East to three spades, however this mild competition did not inhibit North in the slightest and he proceeded directly to six diamonds. He reasoned that his trump fit, wealth of controls and good six card side should provide sufficient playing strength to make the slam contract a reasonable undertaking. West thought otherwise and doubled the final bid.

The king of hearts was opened and South won with the ace. If diamonds are divided three-two, declarer has 12 top tricks, however West's double indicated that the trumps were stacked. As a safety play to retain control of the hand, South led the nine of diamonds and when West covered with the ten, the latter was permitted to hold the trick. He continued with the queen of hearts which declarer ruffed.
A spade was trumped with the six of diamonds and the ace was cashed, East showing out. South led a club to his hand, intending to draw the remaining trump and then run the clubs and discard his last two spades. West administered a rude jolt by ruffing away the king of clubs and then putting his partner in with the ace of spades to get another club ruff. The outcome on the deal was an 800 point deficit for North and South.
East and West were confident that they had netted a substantial swing on the deal, however they were in for a surprise as we will see tomorrow when we examine the result at the other table where their teammates held the North-South cards.

The Worry Clinic

Tall Girl No Rare Problem

Amos is facing a very embarrassing dilemma in his romance. But 1,000,000 other men have surmounted this problem by using the psychological strategy outlined below. Use the "crutch" technique and then follow it with the advice that ancient Seneca gave to a young man. You can win any woman in that manner!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.
CASE N-564: Amos G., aged 24, is discouraged.
"Dr. Crane," he began, "I fell in love with a beautiful college coed a year ago.
"And I have dated her as often as possible ever since.
"She seems to like me pretty well but there is one big drawback.
"For she is so doggone tall that she stands 2 inches higher than I am, even before she wears her high heels.
"And I think this holds her back from accepting my engagement ring, though admits she is fond of me.
"But she is only 21 and still rather fashion-conscious, so she has intimated that her friends might laugh at her if we were married.
"What can I do, for I am crazy about her and want to marry her?"
Probably one million American men are married to tall girls, many of whom exceed their husband's height even without high heels.
So this is not an unusual problem.
Besides, there is an old adage that states:
"It isn't the size of the dog in the fight that counts but the size of the fight in the dog."
And masculinity is not limited to tall men but is a basic characteristic of fighters.
Yet fighters may be very short, as in the case of Napoleon Bonaparte, who personally seized the fallen French flag and rallied his scared soldiers as he led his men into the face of the enemy's terrific cannon barrage.
A lot of tall men are cowardly, weak willed and unable to support a wife.

So the real test of a successful modern husband is his moral integrity, coupled with some trained talent that will finance a wife and family.
If a man is gallant and courteous and dominant in his spirit, that is what really counts.
For masculine dominance is based on ability and courage, not on how high his head stands above the pavement.
But you girls who have shorter husbands can deftly lessen the height difference by wearing lower heels.
So I advised Amos to keep pressing his suit until he trained his girl friend to lean upon him for daily compliments, plus happy dates and exciting good times.
For you can subtly educate a girl to become so dependent upon you for ego inflation and happy recreation and happy recreation, that you become an essential crutch to her future happiness.
Then it may be wise to stimulate a little wholesome rivalry as by apologetically breaking a few dates under the excuse of having to entertain some girl from your old home town who happens to be in the city.
This will wake up your sweetheart fast and make her begin to realize her dependence upon you for daily compliments and ego inflation.
Seneca thus advised a young man who was also worried about inability to win his sweetheart, by this rule:
"Go to the archer. See how he handles his bow. With one hand he pushes it away but with the other he pulls it back again!"

Send for my 200-point "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c, and learn how to win your sweetheart!
(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Seized Weapons Melted Down

TORRANCE, Calif. (AP)—The Los Angeles County sheriff has introduced a small innovation in the war on pollution: a smelting furnace.

More than 7,600 pistols, brass knuckles, submachine guns and other weapons were dumped into a furnace Tuesday and melted into a metal block weighing four tons and worth $240.

Safety Advice For The Elderly

CHICAGO (AP)—Elderly people often are victims of purse-snatchers and other types of petty crime. The Chicago Police Department suggests these precautions on how retired persons can protect themselves.
Don't carry a large purse.
Don't carry a large amount of money or important papers.
Don't wait at a mailbox.
Thieves may think money is arriving by mail.
Don't sit outside late at night.
Don't leave your purse in a shopping cart.
Call police if you suspect something is happening to threaten your safety.
Scream only if attacked when confronted by a thief.

Soldier Has Five Wounds

TAY NINH CITY, South Vietnam (UPI)—Lt. Robert Barefield of Symsonia, Ky., holds a record of sorts for the 1st Air Cavalry Division in Vietnam—one that none of his buddies want to equal.
Barefield has been wounded in action five times since March 4 and been awarded five Purple Heart medals. None of the wounds has been serious enough to require his removal from the field.
Barefield took shrapnel wounds on March 4 in an action south of the Dog's Head region on the South Vietnamese side of the Cambodian border. Ten days later, he took more shrapnel in the right shoulder and leg in a battle in which six Americans were killed.
The lieutenant picked up his third Purple Heart in action inside Cambodia May 22 and again was wounded slightly on May 26 in fighting across the border.
On May 31, while his unit, Company A, 2nd Battalion, 8th Cavalry of the division, was searching a cache site, Barefield was hit again when a firefight erupted.
He stayed with the outfit throughout the campaign in Cambodia and is still on duty, the Army reported.

Winterville Board OKs New, Increased Budget

The Winterville Board of Aldermen has approved a $210,906 budget for the 1970-71 fiscal year and maintained the present $1.25 tax rate.

The new budget is an increase of $15,406 over the 1969-70 budget which amounted to $194,500.

Expenditures approved in the budget include such items as: $15,000 for street maintenance, $12,000 for street department salaries, $2,000 for the fire department, $12,000 for the police department, $9,500 for administrative expense and $1,950 for community planning. Other expenditures approved include $3,360 for fire truck payment, $6,500 in Powell Bill funds for street improvement, $3,000 for beer and wine tax, $2,200 from ABC turnover, $37,000 from water service and $116,000 from electrical charges. Bobby Crawford, elected in the May municipal election, was sworn in for a three-year term on the town board at last week's meeting.

The board also approved a recommendation from the Fire Department to name Paul Hunsucker to replace Lloyd Worthington as chief of the department on Aug. 1. Worthington, who has served the department for 31 years, is retiring.

Other fire department officers approved include: William Nobles and Alton Ray Hines, assistant chiefs; and Ernest Spain, secretary-treasurer.

School Sets Activity Day

Activity Day at E.B. Aycock Junior High School has been set for July 23. All students who will be attending Aycock in the 1970-71 school year are urged to be present on that day. Registration will be held between the hours of 3:00 and 3:30 p.m. At 3:30 p.m. everyone will be asked to assemble in the school cafeteria. Beginning at 3:45, a variety of recreational activities will be offered, including softball, basketball, volleyball and a fashion show. Refreshments will be served at 4:45 in the Student Commons in the school. A music party of records will be held from 5:00 to 6:00 p.m. with station WOOB as host. A number of outstanding personalities will be present to meet and chat with students.

Bus transportation for Activity Day will be announced in the newspapers at a later date. Students are asked to watch for these announcements.

Will Preach At Family Service

The Rev. Dan Earnhardt, director of Wesley Foundation at East Carolina University, will preach at the 8:00 p.m. worship service at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church on Thursday.

This is a one hour worship service to be held in the chapel, with the whole family in mind, and especially for those who plan to be away for the weekend. A film strip with a message will be shown for the children.

Held Up Bank In Fayetteville

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — A pistol-toting robber wearing blue jeans and tennis shoes held up a branch bank here Fayetteville Tuesday and made his getaway in a powerful sports car.

The robber, who was described as being in his early 20s, stuck up a Southern National Bank of Fayetteville branch office between Fayetteville and nearby Ft. Bragg.

Neither bank officials nor the Federal Bureau of Investigation would reveal the amount of money taken.

No Ill Will Over Stay In Prison

HONG KONG (AP) — Roman Catholic Bishop James E. Walsh says he bears no ill will toward the Chinese despite 12 years in a Red Chinese prison.

The 79-year-old American bishop, released last week, was quoted Tuesday by the Rev. John McCormack, superior general of his priestly order, as saying:

"I just could not be bitter towards the Chinese. I just never got mad at anything the Chinese would do."
